House passed measure February 8 by 260-165 vote after amending it to restrict broad powers given Chief Executive. Present bitter Senate debate is expected to end next week.

Making his maiden speech in the Senate against the administration's British aid bill. Senator Brooks, Republican, of Illinois termed the measure a "war bill" and a "leap toward dictatorship," after Senator Gillette, Democrat, of Iowa also had spoken against it

Enlargement of the Northern Virginia Regional Defense Council was announced yesterday following a meeting of the State Council in Richmond

The new members of the Northern Virginia group are Christopher B Garnett and George P. Grove, both of Arlington. They were appointed by Gov. Price, the Associated Press reported

Gardner L. Boothe, chairman of the regional council, told the State meeting vesterday that a shortage of beds was a major problem in Alexandria, which is affected by the defense activities at Fort Belvoir, where 20,000 troops may be stationed.

Rent Stabilization Urged.

Geologists Are Urged To Aid Defense Program

Co-operation of geologists in findthe national defense program was urged by C. K. Leith, of the Minerals Division of the Office of Production Management, in an address today at the annual meeting of the Association of American State Geologists.

Mr. Leith outlined the needs in various mineral fields, such as manganese, tin, mica, asbestos and graphite, and advised the geologists to report any new sources of supply to the Defense Commission. Dr. Elbert G. Fiedler and Dr. Oscar E. Meinzer of the Water Resources Branch of the United States Geological Survey urged the geologists to watch for signs of depletion of ground water supplies in their States and, if necessary, to co-operate in preparation of legislation which may be found necessary in some States to guard against such depletions.

Further Food Restrictions Are Imposed by Italy

ROME. Feb. 21 .- A government order today forbids the manufacture or sale of ice cream, cake, or fresh pastry made with flour, milk, oil, butter or other fats, after March 1. Pastry and ice cream can be sold three days a week. Under the new regulation fruit ices, made without milk, may be sold every day

The Agriculture Ministry drastically tightened oil, butter and fat rations. Individual weekly rations have been 400 grams (about 14 ounces) of fat and butter plus 300 grams (1012 ounces) of oil. Now the total oil, fat and butter ration has been fixed at 400 grams.

The ministry explained that the new ration made less difference than would seem since supplies previously were inadequate and not every one was able to obtain the full amount. Premier Mussolini received Dr Karl Clodius, head of a German mission, to hear Dr. Clodius' report on trade talks.

Two Ships Brave Mines To Deliver Supplies; Third Trip Planned

By the Associated Press.

The American Red Cross-"the greatest mother of them all"-reported today it had furnished $19. 496,805 in money and supplies to relieve suffering abroad in the first year and a half of war.

Hundreds of thousands of American women have shared in knitting carloads of sweaters. Tens of millions of surgical dressings have been sent to war zones. Two chartered ships have braved mine-strewn waters to deliver cargoes of food, clothing and medicines. Night and day in embattled areas of Britain. Continental Europe and China men and women have worked to distribute the supplies.

But if all the $19,496,805 total had been sent to unoccupied France alone, it would have represented only $6.50—the price of a school frock-for each of the 3,000,000 children there whom the Red Cross today was informed are "in grave need of food, clothing and medicines."

The plight of the French youngsters was cabled to Chairman Norman Davis by Richard Allen, Ameriican Red Cross representative who is in Vichy awaiting the arrival of the S. S. Cold Harbor.

Supplies Reach Cadiz.

That vessel, chartered by the Red Cross, has docked at Cadiz, Spain where it is unloading part of 4.500 tons of whole-wheat flour, 250 tons Is 'Trading Front' of powdered whole milk and 250 tons of evaporated and condensed milk consigned to Spain. The shipment will be divided between Cadiz, Seville and Barcelona.

The newspaper Asahi, on its own authority and without crediting a source, said the Foreign Minister's 'memorandum' informed Britain that if she "adjusts military preparedness and engages in various operations (in East Asia) on the supposition that some urgent situation was bound to occur in the Pacific and South Seas areas, Japan naturally would be compelled to cope with her."

The newspaper Hochi, on the other hand, indicated the wide range necessary, he emphasized. of opinion on the subject by commenting in a daily column: "Matsuoka's utterances always cause disturbance both at home and abroad. He talks too much, especially at Diet Indo-China Criticized. The newspaper Asahi said today of the Thailand-Indo China situation that Thailand was keeping faith peacebly, but Indo-China, "in glaring contrast, is making use of Anglo-American influences to arm itself against the peaceful economic aims of Japan with undisguised malice." "Indo-China hostility to Japan, both in the strategic and economic senses, may be ascribed partly to the

"Indo-China is trying to interest the United States in its affairs through rubber, which the United States regards as indispensable to its munitions industry, which, in plied: turn, it hopes, would serve to turn the Tokio conference in its favor."

Reports from Hanoi, French Indo-China, last night said Japanese demands for $10,000,000 worth of American and Chinese-owned goods stored in Haiphong warehouses had caused a serious dispute between Japanese and French authorities. Japanese military authorities were said to want the French to requisition the goods, which included American trucks, tires and other materials intended for the Chinese. and then turn them over to the Japanese. The French refused.

In retaliation, the reports said, Japanese guards around the warehouses were strengthened so as to prevent removal of any supplies, even those requisitioned by the

the Associated Press. LONDON, Feb. 21.—Britain was reported today to be moving additional air force units to Africa, Greece and the Far East to counter German aerial assistance to Italy and asserted Japanese threats in the Pacific.

New contingents of pilots from empire training centers and new reserves of bombers and fighters coming from the United States were said to be making this diversion of a portion of Britain's air strength threats would temporarily cause a

It is the bombers which would bear the brunt of battle if war broke out in the Pacific, or if the British should decide to try to dry up Germany's oil reservoir in Rumania.

Martin Plane Plants To Be Largest in U. S. And Possibly World

Expansion at Baltimore And Omaha to Provide 119 Acres of Floor Space

By JOSEPH S. EDGERTON.

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 21.-On completion of its current expansion program, the Glenn L. Martin Co., oldest aircraft manufacturing concern in continuous service in the United States, will be the largest in the United States, if not in the world, it was revealed today by Glenn L. Martin, president of the firm, in announcing the signing of new Government contracts covering the new facilities.

Before the end of this year the company will have in operation three huge factories, two at Middle River, just east of Baltimore, and one at Omaha, Nebr. These plants will provide a total of 5,192,725 square feet, or more than 119 acres, of floor space.

The total plant space of the company will be definitely greater than that of any German aircraft factory, Mr. Martin said.

Project 40 Per Cent Complete.

Expansion work now in progress here at Middle River is costing approximately $24,000,000 and will bring the Middle River plant value to more than $32,500,000. Largescale additions to the main plant together with the building of an entirely new factory and airport and a new Navy assembly building, are far advanced and should be finished by early summer. Work on all of these projects as a whole is 40 per Building operations have been started at Omaha with grading of the site. Pouring of the foundation will begin May 1 and the building will be finished by November 1 and in operation by early winter. At this factory Martin will assemble bombardment airplanes from subassemblies and parts supplied by automobile factories and other non-aeronautical enterprises. Its capacity will be 100 B-26 highspeed bombers per month.

The entire Martin plant in Baltimore and Omaha will have a productive capacity of $36.000,000 worth of airplanes per month by June 1. dangers of defeat as well as the re-1942, when all facilities will be com- sponsibilities of victory, and the impleted and in full operation. The Martin company now is building 400 homes and apartments of the low-cost housing type in a beautiful forested area on the shores of Middle River and will follow these with 600 additional buildings. The Federal Government is cooperating by preparing to construct an additional 2,000 homes, making a total of 3,000 houses and apartments which will be available for Martin employes. As a result of this mass home-building program, it is possible for the Martin company to rent five-room houses with the most modern conveniences for $27 per month.

Although the Martin company will add 25,000 employes to its pay rolls during the next 18 months there will be no appreciable new employment undertaken before July 1 company officials warned today They are trying to prevent the migration of applicants to Middle River until the new factory space is ready for them. Despite the fact that present factory space is almost completely manned and relatively few employes can be taken on before July 1, the company personnel office is handling an average of 1,000 applicants in person each day and his long-standing opposition to that of Germany and Italy. Just before his removal as foreign commissar, Russia presented a proposal to the allies-which they rejected-for a triple military alliance and guarantees of independence to numerous small European countries. The latest reports on Litvinoff's activities were in December, 1939. He was said then to be engaged in preparing digests of foreign policy for Premier Vyacheslaff Molotoff and Joseph Stalin. At that time he was working in collaboration with two others who had taken a leading role in Russia's now abandoned policy of collective security - Alexander Troyanovsky States, and Boris Stein, former Am-

Maps Aid Program For Small Business

Says R. F. C. and Reserve Banks Have Done Little To Solve Problem

By the Associated Press.

The Monopoly Committee made public today proposals by a group of economic advisers for revamping Government aid to small business because, the group said, credit efforts by the R. F. C. and Federal Reserve banks had "contributed only slightly" to solving the problem.

The monograph on small business was prepared for the committee by experts of the Commerce Department, Securities and Exchange Commission and Grinnell College, Iowa. Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, of Wyoming, chairman of the Monopoly Committee, emphasized that the monograph was submitted only for committee study and did not necessarily reflect its views.

The monograph suggested that an "effective program may involve direct Government loans, a system of loan insurance by the Government to encourage banks to expand their lending operations, or perhaps Government investment in small businesses through purchases of stock, preferably non-voting preferred stock."

Discussing the operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. and the Federal Reserve Banks, the monograph said that of $450,000,000 in loans authorized by the R. F. C. between 1932 and 1939, less than 4 per cent were for loans under $10,000 and only about 30 per cent for loans under $100,000.

"Obviously, the R. F. C. has done little to meet the needs of small business," the report commented. "Similarly, the Federal Reserve Banks, the $180,000,000 as the total authorizations and $32,000,000 as the largest amount of advances outstanding during this period, cannot be considered important factors in this area.

The monograph was written by a group which included John H. Cover, chief economic analyst, and Nathanael H. Engle, assistant director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, both of the Commerce Department: Peter R. Nehemkis, special counsel of the S. E. C., and Earl D. Strong, head of the department of economics a

"WE ARE IN THE WAR"—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt presided at Town Hall last night and relayed questions to Dorothy Thompson, newspaper writer and lecturer, who told the audience that the United States already is "in the war." -A. P. Photo.

Dorothy Thompson Would Send Army to Europe If Needed

However, Such Action Will Not Be Required

Asserting that "we are already in the war and everybody knows it," Dorothy Thompson, author and newspaper columnist, told a Town Hall audience at Constitution Hall last night that in her opinion, if necessary to defeat Hitler, the United States should send an army to Europe, even if it cost a million lives. She made this statement during the panel discussion that followed an address on "America's Responsibility in the World Crisis.

Though favoring the dispatch of an army to Europe, she expressed the belief that this would not be necessary. "Hitler is the one to beat, not Germany," she said. "If Hitler does not defeat England, his star will begin to decline." Urging all possible aid to Britain, she declared that the war cannot be won by guns alone.

Pointing out that the United States is now the most important part of the Anglo-Saxon world, she urged an extension of the principle of federation, to embrace Western Europe, Great Britain and North America, with the United States taking the lead in the establishment of a new federal order. "The world is on the brink of great emancipation, or it is on the edge of a great abyss," Miss Thompson said. "And emancipation can only come from us, for only we are strong enough to fulfill the Anglo-Saxon tradition with new and greater grandeur.'

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, twice a Town Hall speaker, was chairman of last night's meeting, which was attended by several thousand per-Tells Town Hall Audience, sons. Members of the panel included Representative Mundt, Resons. Members of the panel inpublican, of South Dakota; Huston Thompson, John W. Studebaker. commissioner of education; Barnet Nover, foreign affairs columnist of

Menzies Tells Britain 'Elements of Danger' Lurk in Pacific

Prime Minister Asserts Australia Will Build 51 Warships in 1941

B: the Associated Press. LONDON, Feb. 21.—Prime Minister warned Britain today of "elements her husband, George W. Eckles, of danger" in the Pacific and declared no nation must think that Australia is "unwilling or incapable of defending herself."

Japan now has "obligations to those who are at present our enemies," declared Mr. Menzies, who arrived here from Lisbon yesterday after inspecting Australian troops in Africa.

He asserted that Australia had "accepted specific responsibilities for a share in the defense of Singa-

"Whether in relation to troops, aircraft or ships we pursue a policy of defending ourselves in an area where there are elements of danger in 1941," the Prime Minister said with emphasis.

Warships to Be Built. Making what he called "a report on Australia," Mr. Menzies disclosed the magnitude of the commonwealth's war effort.

This year, he said, 51 warships will be built there, 26,000 pilots and gunners will be trained and the Australian imperial force will be increased to a full army corps of four infantry divisions plus one armored division.

"We are not doing this out of benevolence nor because of a detached feeling of judgment in the justice of our cause." Mr. Menzies commented. "We are one family of British-speaking people and when the family fights every one chips

He declared he came to England for consultation with Prime Minister Churchill and the service ministers on "the biggest joint enterprise the British Empire ever attacked." Urging 100 per cent efficiency, he said "things are being done in Australia to reach maximum efficiency which would have been repudiated in theory a few years ago.'

Cites Defense Budget. "But theory no longer matters. What matters is to win.

"Everything Australia has, we venture in this fight." He cited a defense budget of £186. 600,000 (about $744,000,000) which, he said, had brought rising taxes. "But we are all agreed it is better to come out of this shooting match broke than conquered," he said. Mr. Menzies said he probably would return to Australia via the United States and reiterated an invitation to Wendell L. Willkie to tin and Sarah Campbell Ansbro, visit the commonwealth. ### Suffrage Subcommittee

District residents have cause for gratification over the appointment by Chairman Frederick Van Nuys of the Senate Judiciary Committee of five outstanding members of the Senate as a subcommittee to consider the vitally important Capper-Sumners national representation amendment. Heading the subcommittee is Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada, a lawyer and former jurist of distinction. Senator McCarran's service as a member of the Senate District Committee has helped to familiarize him with the problems peculiar to a disfranchised, unrepresented Washington. Working with him on the subcommittee will be such able colleagues as Senators Tom Connally of Texas, Carl A. Hatch of New Mexico, George W. Norris of Nebraska and Warren R. Austin of Vermont. Senator McCarran has promised that full and complete hearings will be held at an early date and that the Capper-Sumners bill will not be permitted to die in a pigeonhole for want of further action by the committee. The proposed amendment to the Constitution would empower Congress, in its discretion, to give the District representation in Congress and in the Electoral College and to delegate to such municipal government as it might approve the power it deemed advisable. With characteristic forthrightness, Senator McCarran has announced that he will take up this proposal with an open mind. And that is all that Washingtonians ask for, or have a right to expect. They are confident that, given a fair opportunity to state their case, they can convince any open-minded legislator-or Legislature—of the justice of their

New Assistant Secretary

In nominating G. Howland Shaw as an Assistant Secretary of State. President Roosevelt has made an excellent choice. A career diplomat, Mr. Shaw has had more than two decades of experience on the diplomatic firing line, both at home and abroad. As chief of the Division of Foreign Service Personnel since 1937, he has contributed much to increasing the efficiency of the foreign service, and maintaining at a high level the morale of its officers.

Mr. Shaw has served twice at Istanbul, Turkey, and for several years was head of the Division of Near Eastern Affairs. Few foreign service officers have as good a knowledge of the Near East, or a better understanding of political, economic and cultural developments in this area, which is playing so important a part in the news of the day. His specialized knowledge of the Near East and foreign service personnel administration should be of particular value to Secretary Hull.

It is of vital importance, in this critical period of the Nation's affairs, that the President, in his selections for high office in the Department of State, and in the foreign service abroad, choose the most competent men available. The nomination of Mr. Shaw, like the recent appointment of Dean Acheson to be an Assistant Secretary of State, will be welcomed as an evidence of Mr. Roosevelt's desire to give Secretary Hull as able a corps of assistants as possible.

Garand Rifle

Adoption by the Marine Corps of the Garand semi-automatic rifle as the standard shoulder weapon for the corps will simplify the task of producing arms for the expanding military services of the Nation. Arsenals now may concentrate on manufacturing one type of rifle for our troops. The Garand was for many months the subject of controversy in and out of the services. Adoption by the Army of the Garand rifle a year ago resulted in a wordy conflict which had repercussions in the halls of Congress. Even though the Army stood fast on its decision, the controversy continued to rage. The decision of the Marine Corps to follow the Army's suit and adopt the Garand is the result of an independent and exhaustive study conducted by officers and men of the Early Garand models admittedly were full of "bugs" as are all new weapons and machines made by men. They were hard to manufacture and it is claimed they had faults which made them inaccurate and undependable. These faults, one by one, hastily executed, are scattered from have been overcome. Changes were made in design to facilitate produc- in California. Irma Richter, with a it always resulted in the emergence sion of the average human mind. tion. storm of criticism and has proved itself to the satisfaction of the officers and men who must trust their lives and reputations to its efficiency. The Marine Corps decision should be sufficient to remove any lingering doubts about the suitability of the new rifle and should clear the way for an enthusiastic quantity production of a weapon which its friends long have claimed will make the American soldier the world's most deadly fighting man.

Imperiled Australia The "Aussies" are much in the war news these days. Those tall, lean soldiers from "Down Under," singing and yelling exuberantly in the heat of battle, are the backbone of General Wavell's Imperial Army in North Africa, and now another Australian Army, splendidly equipped, has come to the aid of threatened Singapore.

Those expeditionary forces are merely the first fruits of a tremendous war effort by the Australian people. The Commonwealth is on a stern war footing, conscripting its man power, building up vast munitions industries, taxing itself to the limit, cutting down on luxuries and non-essentials for the grim business it has undertaken. The results are expected to surpass even those of the last war, when Australia contributed 500,000 soldiers to the imperial cause.

The reason for these unparalleled sacrifices is plain. Far more than in the World War of a generation ago, the future of Australia is visibly and immediately at stake. For then, Japan was an ally, whereas now Japan is an almost open enemy, intent on dominating the whole of the Far East and the Western Pacific Ocean, including Australia and its sister commonwealth of New Zealand. To balk that predatory imperialism is, for those dangerously isolated British dominions, a matter of life and death. The task is heavy, because, despite all their wealth and natural resources, the human defenders are relatively few. Both dominions are young nations barely out of the pioneering stage. Australia, though the size of the United States, has a population of only 7,000,000—less than that of New York City. New Zealand, nearly as large as the British Isles, has fewer than 2,000,000 inhabitants. Those underpopulated countries, of sound British stock, have built up admirable civilizations, with high standards of living, democratic forms of government and social institutions of a very advanced kind. Yet this priceless heritage would be put in jeopardy by a Japanese victory at Singapore, and would be speedily doomed if Japanese domination in the Orient should be firmly established.

In their hour of acute peril, Australians and New Zealanders turn their eyes eagerly toward us, hoping for aid and pointing out the interests we have in common. They certainly would be dependable allies in a Far Eastern struggle, since for them no compromise with Japanese hegemony is possible. The pending proposal to fortify our naval station at Samoa is hailed in Australia as a most welcome sign, for Samoa is a vital link in the ocean route by which an American fleet, avoiding the Japanese mandated islands barring the direct course to the Philippines, could reach the safety of Australian bases and proceed thence in relative security to battle with Japanese sea power for the protection of the Dutch Indies and

It, is hard to imagine America standing idly by and seeing Australia overwhelmed. Yet that is an eventuality which might soon become imminent if Singapore should fall and Australia's life line with the British motherland be thereby severed. The immensity of the stakes involved in the Far Eastern crisis is indeed becoming clear these

A Painter of Distinction One of the great names which Washington is destined to know in the years which lie ahead is that of Bernardino Luini. He was the foremost of the pupils of the famous Leonardo da Vinci, and critics now think of him as the noblest of the artists who worked at Milan-the Lombard School. Born in a village on Lake Maggiore about 1475, he was perhaps twenty-five years the junior of the master who created "The Last Supper" and "Mona Lisa"; but even the casual student sees at a glance that he was a pupil worthy of such a mighty teacher. Fortunately for those who count it a privilege to admire his genius, he was tireless in his productivity and, surely because he was a painter of the rarest distinction during the whole of his career, his frescoes and canvasses have been protected and preserved.

Luini also may have been instructed by Ambrogio Vorgognone. In any event, he was not merely a beginner when he came to Da Vinci. Proof of his right to associate with Leonardo of Florence may be found in many portraits salvaged from churches in the neighborhood for permanent exhibition in the Brera Gallery in Milan. They admittedly belong to his "earlier and immature period," yet they are characteristically drawn. With the same pencils and brushes he embellished a long list of religious buildings, continuing his activity in this field of art until his death about 1533. Meanwhile, he also brought to perfection his skill as an easel painter. His pictures, numerous but never Leningrad in Russia to San Diego up his claim to celebrity in the words: "A dignified serenity is the most marked characteristic of his works. Their beauty depends as much upon the loving and dreamy expression in the faces as upon the refinement of form. This quality * * * imbues his sacred pictures with a peculiarly religious grace."

When the new National Gallery of Art, given by the late Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, is opened to the public, Luini will become definitely a part of Washington. His "Portrait of a Lady," dated about 1515, is among the most magnetic gems of the donor's collection. Meanwhile, the Phillips Memorial Gallery temporarily is showing a "Madonna and Child With Infant St. John," lent by the Duveen Brothers of New York. Those who take both masterpieces into their experience will realize that the "Lady" and the "Madonna" are the same lovely model. Who she was may be unknown, but how profoundly the painter adored her is obvious.

Jobless Tax Cut The sliding scale plan for reduction of the local unemployment compensation tax which has been proposed by the District Unemployment Compensation Board has the merit of setting up a formula whereby the tax levied on employers would bear some reasonable relation to the unemployment needs of the community. That, of itself, would be a welcome improvement over the present system which, despite liberalized benefits, has resulted in the piling up of a frozen and wholly unnecessary reserve fund of nearly $20,000,000. Under the board's plan, which was considered but not adopted by Congress last year, the present local tax rate of 2.7 per cent would be reduced to one-half of 1 per cent as long as the surplus in the board's account is at least four times the highest amount of benefits paid out in any one of the ten preceding years. At present, the reserve fund is about ten times the sum of benefits paid last year, and, under the proposed plan. if it should drop below the four-toone ratio deemed necessary, the tax rate would be stepped up accordingly. This sliding scale plan is accompanied by a proposal for a slight increase in benefit payments, to which there probably will not be serious objection, and a recommendation for elimination from the District law of an "experience rating" provision which has never been put into

Despite the fact that an increasing number of States are making successful use of the experience or merit rating system, under which an employer's tax rate is adjusted in accordance with the stability of his employment record, inauguration of the system in the District has been blocked by the seemingly selfish and shortsighted opposition of organized labor, supported, supposedly, by the Social Security Board. Since the merit rating system is one which tends to discourage discharges which might be avoided, while providing an incentive for a stable employment policy, its proposed abandonment in the District can only be viewed with regret, regardless of the merit attending other phases of the board's

Corner in Oats

In times past corners in grain were fairly common. A group of capitalists, most of whom had never seen a bushel of wheat in the raw, would band together and buy up all they could find in grain exchanges all over the Middle West. They accumulated an imposing array of warehouse receipts, options on future crops and other bits of white paper, which they later exchanged for Uncle Sam's green paper when the country got hungry enough to pay their price. It was no game for pikers, and because the table stakes were high, no player could sit in without first ante-ing up hundreds of thousands of dollars.

In sharp contrast is a recent corner in oats, consummated on far less capital—three scents, to be exact—subscribed by a trio of skunks that got into a carload of oats at Minneapolis. The consignee, after one horrified glance, refused to accept the shipment, citing a clause in the contract against "foreign material," although they were obviously good strong American skunks and not foreigners. "Prove your claim," insisted the consignor, some miles distant. "Produce the skunks, and let them speak for themselves." Neither by the volunteer system nor by conscription could this be done, so a wire was sent to grain headquarters in Chicago asking who owned the wild oats. Solomon himself could not have decided more wisely. Chicago replied that undoubtedly they belonged to the

Out of the many thousands playing the game there were but eight football fatalities in 1940. It is almost a certainty that for every youth thus killed, a dozen or more players survived accidents, injuries and illnesses that would have been fatal to those less rugged and less

It seems to be the ideal of some radio announcers to make the letters "l" and "r" interchangeable. This, together with the broadest of "a's," is probably to indicate to America how she should talk-but she just won't do it.

By Thomas R. Henry.

Allegedly foolproof nose-dive brakes probably now used by German dive bombers in "strafing" England, have just been patented here.

The patent application from Herbert Wagner of Dessau, Germany, was received together with a score of other German inventions dealing with aircraft, before the actual outbreak of the war. These now are being granted as they pass through the routine of examination as to the novelty and practicability of the ideas.

Nose-dive brakes already in use in Germany, Wagner says in his application, consist of metal flaps on the undersides of the wings which, when they are thrown into position, alter the flow of air around the wings in such a way as to check the 500 to 600 mile an hour speed downward when approaching the point where the upward turn is to be made. At other times these flaps are kept close against the wings.

While these brakes have worked efficiently, Wagner claims, they have set up tremendous vibrations in the controls which have interfered with their automatic action and even prevented their operation by the pilot. His own invention, assigned to the Junkers Corp. avoids these vibrations, he says, and makes exact control possible.

This object is attained by controlling movements of the ailerons so that no portions of them are in the line of changed air flow brought about by putting on the brakes. The device was patentable because it is in line with one of the most recent developments in aeronautics, to which American and English inventors now are making contributions, which will make possible slower landings of large, fast planes,

While dive bombing supposedly was an American development, the Patent Office files show that most of the technical advances, such as head rests for pilots and various automatically operating gadgets, have been German in origin and have been accumulating during the past four or five years. Those patented, in the opinion of the American examiners, were sound in principal, although not necessarily actually practical.

* * * * The comb of an 80,000,000-year-old wasp nest-the earliest known relic of the social insects on earth—has just been added to the collections of the Smithsonian Institution.

The fossil, dating from the Upper Cretaceous geological period when the great dinosaurs were coming to the end of their dominance may mark a significant turning point in the history of

At about this time it is explained by Dr. Roland W. Brown, who describes the outburst of flowering plants which hitherto had occupied a minor place in the plant kingdom. A few million years later they were to attain the dominance which they have held ever since.

It now seems likely, Dr. Brown says, that blossoms and social insects, indispensable partners ever since, developed at essentially the same time. Presumably the blossom with its pollen came first, but it would have been of little advantage to the plant, and probably soon would have disappeared, had pollen-carrying insects not come into the world at the same time. It was a fortuitous combination and has determined the face of nature ever since.

This is also the first fossil evidence of the development of "society" in the world-the partnership of great numbers of free individuals in building a home and providing a community livelihood. Ever since, in spite of the great social progress of man, this has been exemplified chiefly by the social insects. The fossil was found by Dr. J. B.

Reeside and Dr. C. E. Dobbin of the United States Geological Survey in Southeastern Utah. It came from a rock stratum rather barren in other evidences of ancient life. There were a few fragmentary, unidentifiable leaves, some wood turned to stone and a fragment of Apparently the wasp nest fell into mud which covered it over, forming a mould. The original material of the comb soon disappeared, but the form was left. The mud afterwards was bound together in an iron solution, resulting in a hard concretion in which the form would be preserved indefinitely.

There were no remains of the builders of the nest, Dr. Brown says, but it is very similar to the type built by some extant species of colonial wasps. Originally, he says, it probably was made of a tough, papery material which would be much more likely than the similar waxy comb of the bee to escape destruction long enough for the mould to form.

Complains Against Policy Of Wasteful Spending.

To the Editor of The Star:

Jesse Jones is reported to have stated to the House Currency and Banking Committee that "we're in the war: at least, we are nearly in the war-we are preparing for it. When you do that, you've got to throw money away."

The only thing new about this is the frankness of the statement. The New Deal has been throwing away the money of the people with utter prodigality during the past eight years, and make no mistake about it that we are on the road to national bankruptcy, which necessarily will be followed by repudiation, or by inflation-which is the worse of the two. It is doubtful if the Government itself knows the amount of the national debt. The people certainly do not know, but the probability is that it in due course will be from $100.000.000 to $150.000,-000,000-a sum beyond the comprehen-

Small gardens are the sort most of us have, if we have any at all. And the way all types of government are grabbing all they can from just plain folk, most persons will be mighty fortunate to have any gardens at all in a few years.

The turtle dove somehow strikes a home note. It seems even more domestic than a chicken Probably chickens wouldn't be very domestic unless they were compelled to be.

The dove gives the observer the impression that it belongs around home. It perches for hours at a time, cooing away in the most faithful fashion. It seems, in other words, to be perfectly satisfied with its life. It does not long for night clubs, or to be a jay. It is glad that it is just a dove.

Perhaps it is necessary to point out that these birds are not as gentle as we think of them being.

And they are a great deal more beautiful, in coloring, than the popular impression of them.

Turtle doves (so called by reason of the markings on the back and wings) can make blue jays fly for their life. They have been seen to attack squirrels. We do not believe that they would hesitate at all to run at a hawk.

Yet this ability at defense, by taking the attack, is not achieved in any ruthless manner by the "gentle dove." The bird simply makes a run, then stops. If it were called upon to really fight, it probably would lose.

* * * * Mourning doves, to be appreciated at their artistic full, must be seen on a frozen branch in the snow.

If the sun happens to be shining on them just right, they appear suddenly in an altogether new light. You believe that this is the first time in your life that you have really seen a dove.

Its pink, in particular, is beyond description, with mauve tones that would be the despair of any portrait painter. For that matter, we saw a starling in the sun the other day, and he was really a most beautiful bird. No doubt he was just in his starling prime.

His head was a dull jet black, round and fluffy, while his chest was green, and below there was some brown, with touches of gold here and there and blue

Describes "Circular" Progress Of Labor Philosophy. To the Editor of The Star:

In one of his stories, O. Henry advances the theory that the laws of nature and social intercourse operate in arcs and circles instead of straight lines. In this connection it is interesting to note that Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold in his attitude towards labor unions offers strong supporting proof of O. Henry's thesis of circularity.

Prior to the American Revolution, the prevailing thought in the English Parliament was hostile to monopolies. Therefore it became the law of England that any agreement, combination or confederation by a body of men to do or refrain from doing anything tending to restrain trade or increase the cost of living was illegal. The courts held that agreements among workmen to strike for higher wages were illegal. As the Colonies, and later the States, adopted the common law of England, this rule of law and its interpretation were in force here. However, as no part of the common law became part of the laws of the Federal Government, Congress passed the Clayton and Sherman Acts covering the same to use our bases. The Graf Spee incident field, but limited to interstate commerce.

As the labor movement in England and the United States gained momentum, our courts, by one device or another, relaxed their rules in respect of labor unions. By the close of the Civil War, it was lawful for workmen to organize, bargain collectively and go on strike for any cause they pleased. From this point until the enactment of the Wagner Act. the labor struggle was pointed toward the establishment of the closed shopthe principal implications of which are that the unions select persons to be hired and fired, impose initiation fees, dues and assessments, and require the employer to deduct the same from the emploves' pay envelopes. Anti-injunction legislation, the Wagner Act and the scope of interstate commerce, as interpreted by the courts and Labor Board, have just about made the closed shop, and all

From his public expressions and actions, it appears that Mr. Arnold believes labor unions are now using a sword for aggression instead of a shield for protection: that they are engaged in monopolistic practices, restraining trade and increasing the cost of living. Does this mean that Mr. Arnold is kidding himself and the public or does it mean that he is ahead of a trend proving that our labor philosophy has been traveling in a circle instead of a straight line? Are the actions of labor unions again to become amenable to law? Will the welfare of workingmen again be placed in competition with the general welfare? J. H. BILBREY.

As for Sidney Hillman, who derives a salary from the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union and still sits in the Government as the chief maker of labor policy, he could not be expected to advocate any restrictions on the operations of labor unions

Congress has been reading in the press about the sporadic interruptions of work in defense industries and many members have been worrying about what appears to be a systematic effort to obstruct if not delay America's aid to Britain. But when members ask either Mr. Hillman or Mr. Knudsen about it, they promptly minimize the number of

Yet within the last few days the statements issued by Messrs. Hillman and Knudsen have been flatly disapproved by events. The Alis-Chalmers Co. in Wisconsin has about $45,000,000 worth of defense products to make. The strike there has been going on for some time Messrs. Hillman and Knudsen went out to try to end it. They announced everything was fine. But it turns out the strike wasn't settled Camouflaging Problems

Now it may be that Britain doesn't need the aid of America right away and that President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie have been spoofing the American people about the urgency of getting help across the ocean in 1941, but with the present pressure to pass the lend and lease oill one has been led to believe that weeks and days do count. Messrs. Hillman and Knudsen presumably do not seem to think so. They are perfectly willing to see stoppages in industry without even raising a voice to get Congress to do something

Strikes Line Up Members. If Mr. Knudsen had remained on the pay roll of General Motors Corp. and had arranged to serve the Government in Washington on a dollar a year basis there would have been a hue and cry. Already there has been criticism of a minor official, who is still on his own firm's pay rell, happened to be scheduled to participate in the profits of his firm which obtained a contract with the Government. The hullabaloo has caused him to relinquish his share of the profits. But nobody seems to object to the fact that Mr. Hillman derives his salary from a major union which in turn is affiliated with the whole labor movement, the success of which depends on how rapidly union members can be obtained and union dues increased. Strikes are one of the best ways known to line up new members of unions The fact that Mr. Hillman can administer Government policies relating to labor unions-and, course, restrictions on the right to strike are important for labor unions-is not causing any considerable opposition here. Conference of Mine Workers and Operators May Be Momentous One in Defense Field

By FREDERIC WILLIAM WILE. As the Ides of March approach, the eyes of all concerned with defense production will be turned in the direction of King Coal. On March 11 the United Mine Workers of America and the operators in the Appalachian field, representing slightly more than 75 per cent of bituminous coal production in the United States, will meet in joint conference at New York to evolve a new wage scale to supplant the biennial agreement expiring March

According to United Mine Workers headquarters, there's nothing definite yet about next month's negotiations-there's always a lot of forecasting about the conference, but it's pure guesswork. The miners' demands, now being formulated by the Policy Committee, will be formally submitted to the operators. These demands will be the consensus of the various districts comprising the Appalachian field, not only as to wages, but working conditions and all matters touching the lives of both miners and their families. Customarily, the workers' case is presented Philip Murray, vice president of the international union. The total membership of the United Mine Workers is approximately 600,000, but the Appalachian field does not account for that entire number, which includes three anthracite districts of perhaps 150,000 miners. The biennial anthracite joint wage conference will be held in May. wage scale set in New York next month will apply to all soft coal fields in the United States and Canada, with certain differentials as to machine and pick mining. If the joint conference runs past the expiration hour of the current agreement, March 31 midnight, the mines will not be operated, because the men will have no contract under which to work. The conference doesn't adjourn until agreement is reached. The "men of the picks" have the last word on ratification or rejection.

By MANUEL VEGA,

Literary Editor of El Diario Ilustrado, Santiago, Chile. American curiosity regarding countries and cities of the southern continent is really something to kindle the flame of our national pride. "What's Santiago like?" "How big?"

"Anything like Washington?" "What does it feel like to live down there and what's going on?" Santiago and Washington, of course, have much in common. This comes about perhaps by the prevalent feeling of good nature among the inhabitants of both cities. Nevertheless there is a difference and an important one: The Chilean capital was founded February 12, 1541; that of the United States around 1790. We must confess that time has run its course with greater speed in this beautiful and attractive city in which we find ourselves not visitors but guests. Pedro de Valdivia was the founder of Santiago. He was a captain, born in Estramadura (Spain). On his arrival at the valley of the Rio Mapocho-the small river dividing the city-he was 39 years old. Valdivia chose that valley in accord with the prudent orders issued by Charles V in 1523, for the founding of cities in the Indies. It was the Emperor's wish that the site selected by the conquistadores for the capital of the new realms and provinces should be "raised (up)

Considerable Naval Strength.

Just before the outbreak of the European war the British fleet, based at Singapore and Hong Kong, was given eight cruisers, one aircraft carrier, nine destroyers, 15 submarines, and, in view of the demands elsewhere, it is improbable this force has been increased. Supplementing it, however, is all that left of the not inconsiderable Dutch Navy. Before the war the Dutch East Indies had a standing army of 37,000, a navy consisting of two cruisers, eight destroyers and 14 submarines, and an air force of 72 hydroplanes. To these have been added Dutch naval and air units driven from the Homeland by German invasion. Australia has six cruisers and five destroyers and New Zealand two cruisers.

The American naval conclusion is that while the British-Dutch forces could not go out to meet an attacking Japanese fleet head on, they could put up a stiff defense, possibly doing severe damage to the Japanese forces by submarine and air attack The British are known to have been concentrating submarines at Singapore and, compared with Japanese naval aviation, the British and Dutch East Indian air force is formidable.

It is approximately 2,800 sailing miles from the southern tip of Japan to Singapore. The supply problem of an attack over this distance would be great, as would the opportunity for the British-Dutch submarines and airplanes to play hob with the Japanese supply ships. Desire for Break Doubted.

In the meantime, as the American naval strategists conceive it, we would be threatening, if not formidably attacking, the Japanese mainland. The main American Pacific base in Hawaii is not much farther from Japan than Japan is from Singapore. In view of this situation it is held to be inconceivable that Japan would dare send its grand fleet to attack Singapore. Added to these strategic considerations is the basic question of whether Japan really is bent on provoking a war with the United States. The consensus of the State Department's Far Eastern experts is that the Tokio government, despite its vocal belligerency, is doing everything in its power to avoid a break. The danger, as these experts see it, lies in the fact that the Japanese Army is largely out of Tokio's control and bent on maintaining this position of power at all costs. The Japanese naval high command, on the other hand, always heretofore has tended to play ball with the diplomatic and commercial elements which now seem to be providing the principal opposition to war. The navy, in this instance, may decide the issue,

Nazi U-Boat Crews Reported Preparing For Big Offensive

Few British Ships Sunk By Subs as a Result, Berlin Declares

("At sea, U-boat warfare will begin this spring, and our opponent will realize there also that we haven't slept."

(Hitler also declared in that speech: "Let there be no decep-tion about one fact: Whoever believes he can help England must at all events know one thing:

"Every ship, with or without convoy, that comes within range

Lag in Returns Delays Placing of Employes Under Ramspeck Act

Failure to File Reports Holding Up Tests for 125,000 Eligibles

Lagging returns from several of the major governmental establishments on the number of employes who will be affected by the Rams pect Civil Service Extension Act are delaying application of the act, which was passed in November, it was said at the Civil Service Commission yesterday.

Something more than half of the various agencies have filed reports with the commission enumerating the employes who may be eligible for civil service under the act, but there are still some noticeable absences from this list, including War, Navy, Commerce, Justice and Reconstruction Finance Corp.

Until the commission has a fairly accurate line on the number of persons who will be affected, it was explained, it will not be feasible to seek additional funds that must be granted by Congress to conduct the non-competitive examinations which the workers will qualify for civil service after their positions have been covered into the competitive system by executive order. It has been variously estimated that between 125,000 and 150,000 persons would be eligible for civil service under the terms of the act and that the process of covering them in would require about two years.

Commission officials said the positions may be brought under civil service either by one executive order covering the entire lot or by a series. The alternate procedures are understood to have been out-lined in a report which the commission plans to send to the President, who will decide which method is to be employed.

National Income Rises profits To $73,800,000,000, Highest Since 1929

1940 Figure Shows $4,400,000,000 Gain Over Previous Year

National income last year reached a total of $73,800,000,000, an increase of $4,400,000,000 over 1939. Secretary of Commerce Jones announced today. The 1940 total was the highest since 1929, and was 84 per cent above the 1932 depression low of $40,100,-

"The most comprehensive measare of the economic improvement of the country in 1940 is that afforded by national income," Secrewary Jones said. "Since the major share of defense activity was concerned with industrial materials and equipment, the expansion of national income was paced by the commodity producing industries. These industries-agriculture, mining, manufacturing and contract construction-in the aggregate produced a net product in 1940 valued at $2,700,000,000 more than in 1939, an increase of 10 per cent."

As distinguished from income payments, national income is the measure of the net production of commodities and services by all private and public enterprises. Income payments to individuals in 1940 aggregated $74,300,000,000, as compared with $70,000,000,000 in

According to Commerce Department estimates, the net income of all corporations in the United States in 1940 was 20 to 25 per cent higher than in 1939. Profits in the first quarter dropped well below the last quarter of 1939. The second and third quarters of 1940 brought moderate gains, and the net income of the last quarter accounted for nearly one-third of the year's

Net sales of retails in 1940 amounted to $45,500,000,000, an increase of 8.3 per cent over 1939 The Commerce Department estimates average employment in 1940 at 46,000,000, or 4 per cent under the 1929 total. This figure does not include the 400,000 additions to military and naval personnel after June, 1940, nor does it cover persons employed by W. P. A., the C. C. C. or the N. Y. A.

Army Plan to Guard Cities Against Gas And Bombs Bared

War Department Finishes Detailed Plans to Build Shelters for Civilians

By the Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 21.—The War Department was disclosed today to have completed detailed plans for the construction of bomb shelters in cities and the protection of civilian populations against poison gas.

Daniel W. Hoan, associate director of the National Defense Advisory Commission's Division of State and Local Co-operation, made the report at a regional meeting of the United States Conference of Mayors.

The conference already had been warned that municipal executives, particularly of East and West Coast cities, could not ignore the possibility of bomb attacks.

Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York said in a speech yesterday he would grant "there are 97 per cent probabilities that we may not be attacked, but neither the United States Government nor any Mayor can take that 3 per cent chance."

Mr. Hoan, for 24 years Mayor of Milwaukee, said the War Department's work in preparing a comprehensive program of civil defense had not been publicized because "of the danger of stirring up unnecessary and harmful hysteria."

In the matter of bomb shelters, he said, "since it is our hope that we may avoid war entirely, any general construction along this line might lead to the opposite inference."

The War Department, he added, is preparing a series of pamphlets for cities, giving technical instruction on air-raid protection, protective construcion, fire protection, the air-raid warning system, blackouts and defense against chemical warfare.

He also said a special committee of engineers, appointed by the Secretary of War, is considering methods of safeguarding public utilities.

executives who authorize its dissemination. He absolved reporters from any blame for obtaining the stories, explaining that he realized this is part of their job and the ultimate decision on what should or should not be given to the public rests with the executives.

In launching his discussion of the matter, Mr. Roosevelt disclaimed any anger or irritation, but said the whole matter presents an interesting and important problem in ethics, morals and patriotism. At a time like the present, he said, when the world is in a state of complete upheaval, there are certain things in regard to American defenses which should be kept confidential.

Twin Responsibility Seen.

When he read of the purported Marshall testimony in the morning papers today, he said the twin questions of responsibility on the part of legislators and news executives occurred to him. It is a problem, he added, which the American people should think about.

As for the legislators, he went on, the question obviously is whether any disclosure should be made of what may be said in executive session. To go on, he remarked, obviously if a reporter finds out what transpired, it is his duty to submit it to his office. The printing or dissemination of it is another matter. The owner, managing editor, news

The owner, managing editor, news bureau manager, or comparable executives are under the same ethical, moral and patriotic obligation as rests on the legislators, he implied. It was at this point that Mr. Roosevelt displayed his memorandum from Gen. Marshall, which he declared was completely different in content from the reports carried by the newspapers.

(Information about Gen. Marshall's testimony was given to the Associated Press by members of the Senate Military Committee, before whom he testified, the Associated Press said today.)

Considers Statements Harmful.

In extended questioning the President was asked what might be considered the duty of the press, his answer being that it should not publish military secrets. To another questioner he said he definitely considered publication of the Marshall stories as injurious to the Nation's defense.

Asked what might be a working test, Mr. Roosevelt said he supposed it would have to be the opinion of the Army and Navy what they considered harmful.

As he concluded Mr. Roosevelt

As he concluded, Mr. Roosevelt said he had no remedy to suggest other than voluntary consideration of the problem by the newspaper and radio industries. Emphatically and repeatedly at this point he disclaimed any thought of imposing Government censorship.

By VICTOR EUBANK,

Associated Press Financial Writer, NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The worst that could be said of today's stock market was that it generally failed to follow through on Thursday's sharp rally, while on its credit side was the fact it retained most of yesterday's advance and even added modest amounts in many cases.

Hesitancy prevailed at the start and fractional irregularity was the rule during the remainder of the proceedings. Lack of real selling urgency was comforting to bullish proponents even though buying limidity was pronounced

Transfers of around 300,000 shares again were among the slowest for a five-hour stretch in nearly six months and compared with better than 450,-000 the day before.

One reason given for the reversion to apathy was that many Wall Street habitues wanted to keep commitments light over tomorrow's holiday, when principal financial markets will be closed.

Speculative and investment restraint also was attributed to renewed nervousness over growing tension in the Far East and fears the Nazis were preparing an imminent blast at the British. The Balkans puzzle contributed to the confusion of sentiment. Further brightening of the economic picture could not be overlooked but it was questionable as to how much influence this had on share trends.

Among stocks getting occasional lifts were Youngstown Sheet. In the Youngstown district steel mill operations were expected to reach a new 12-year top in percentage production and a record high in ingot output.

Other favorable performers, the greater part of the time, were Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Amercan Telephone. Du Pont, Allied Chemical. Union Pacific, Pennsylvania. Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin and General Electric. United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Great Northern, American Can. Anaconda, Western Union. North American. Public Service of New Jersey, Woolworth and Johns-Manville. In the curb quiet strength was displayed by American Cyanamid B." Cities Service, Electric Bond & Share and United Shoe.

Retail Trade Shows Big Gains Despite Bad Weather

Store Sales Average 12 to 20 Per Cent Above Year Ago

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Feb. 21.-Despite blizzards in some parts of the Nation which tended to slow buying, retail sales this week continued to breeze along at 11-year high levels and averaged 12 to 20 per cent above the like 1940 week for the country as a whole, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

The mercantile agency found increases in both retailing and whole-

Said the agency: "Less favorable weather conditions for the promotion of new seasonal merchandise failed to dim glowing sales reports from retail stores.

"In most cities trade was said to be on an uptrend at a better-thanseasonal rate. Rising pay rolls were being felt in sharp increases in purchases of medium-price merchandise; replacement buying of home wares was especially noted in these brackets. * * *

McGehee Asks Suspension of Jobless Tax

Proposes to Halt Levy on Employers For Five Years

By JAMES E. CHINN.

A plan that would save District employers several millions of dollars a year in taxation was proposed today by Representative Mc-

Gehee, Democrat, of Mississippi. To keep the local unemployment compensation fund from continuing to grow far beyond the amount needed to pay benefits Mr. Mc-Gehee, chairman of the Judiciary Subcommittee of the House District Committee, said he would introduce a bill soon to suspend for four or five years contributions being made by employers. The surplus in the unemployment compensation fund now is close to $20,000,000. As a means of preventing its further expansion the Unemployment Compensation Board several weeks ago asked Congress to make a "drastic" reduction in the present 2.7 per cent employer's pay roll tax. Last year the tax was cut from 3 to 2.7 per cent, and benefit payments to the unemployed were boosted to hold down

Wants $10,000,000 Level. Representative McGehee said his bill would halt the pay roll tax altogether until the surplus in the benefit fund drops from $20,000,000 to $10,000.000. Benefit payments now amount to about $2,000,000 a year. Mr. McGehee believes the tax could be stopped for at least five years and still leave an adequate reserve in the compensation fund. He said, however, his bill would not provide for higher benefits to the unemployed.

"Something must be done to keep the unemployment compensation fund from growing at its present alarming rate," declared Mr. Mc-Gehee. "If the surplus continues to mount-as it will under the present situation-the District Unemployment Compensation Board eventually will have all the money in Washington. Supplies and Retail Prices Are Generally Unchanged as Yet

It's still pretty much "business as usual" in the aluminum "pots and in their campaign for $107,600 to $10,000,000 as the maximum amount pans" trade, despite warnings the defense needs

Washington housewives continued the customary price and in much the customary quantities; some even found seasonal cutrate sales

Stores and distributors had fairly large stocks on hand, and it was said that manufacturers, with raw materials but slightly depleted, were making most deliveries on schedule. This picture, however, may be changed soon. In view of recent warnings by Mrs. Roosevelt and William C. Bullitt that patriotic housewives may have to sacrifice aluminum kitchenware to national defense, a spokesman for the trade urged purchasers not to "hoard" the utensils and not to buy beyond present needs.

This followed Mrs. Roosevelt's discussion of the subject. Housewives apparently were hastening to lay in stocks they had neglected. The store said it had been warned an alumnium shortage might develop, and one manufacturer had canceled orders for slow-selling articles. The same store experienced delay in delivery of floor lamps with bases of zinc,

The spokesman for aluminum ware distributors said that priorities officials in the Office of Production Management "have a clearer view of the whole picture than we in the trade." He pointed out, however, that the aluminium utensil trade absorbs a very small per cent of the

Regarding substitutes, Mr. Stettinius pointed out that the Plastics Defense Committee of the plastics industry will meet at the Mayflower Hotel today to discuss with Army and Navy and Federal representatives suggestions for increasing the use of plastics for both defense and

Commissioners Order Them Back On Tax Lists

Five more properties having an assessed value of more than $180,000 and on which the annual realty tax bills would total in excess of $3,200 were ordered restored to the tax lists today by the Commissioners as they approved actions by a special tax committee Previously the Commissioners had ordered more than $2,000,000 of property taken off the tax-exempt list on which annual tax bills would total more than $35,000. Members of the Exemption Investigating Committee are Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Fowler Deputy Assessor Benjamin Adams and Surveyor F. F. Healy

The five cases ordered restored to the tax lists were 1. George Washington University, for unimproved land and two garages at the university holdings between Twentieth and Twenty-first, F and G streets N.W., which the committee and the Commissioners decided were not being used for educational purposes. In the case of the unimproved land, the committee said that if and when this property is actually used for educational purposes an application for exemption might then be made. The university property concerned in the case today was said to be assessed at a total of $99,471, on which there would be an annual tax bill of

The property includes buildings in which 10 rooms are rented, the rental amounting to $2,929 for the year ended March 31.

In this case the committee said that the federation "plays an important part in the social and moral welfare work, conducting a wide program in almost every field of Christian endeavor." but added that the District must look to the use of the property to determine tax exemption, that the mere fact it was a non-profit organization was not a sufficient reason of itself. It added that a charity may restrict its admissions to a class of humanity and still be in the exempt category, but added that when the right of admission depends on the fact of voluntary association with some particular society, then a distinction is made which concerns not the public at large. ### Maryland Senate Approves Marlboro Sewage Bond Issue

By BEN H. PEARSE,

Community House for use by the ered in the testament. Silver Spring Library Association was introduced in the House yesterday by Delegates James W. Gill and E Brooke Lee of Silver Spring. Meanwhile the Senate passed two House bills introduced by the Prince Georges County delegation, one authorizing an $8,000 bond issue for sewerage construction in Upper Marlboro and another authorizing a 30 per cent increase in the tax rate to finance the improvements.

A bill which opponents claimed would "nullify" the 1939 law creating the Maryland State Real Estate Commission by permitting brokers to secure a State-wide license by payment of a $25 fee in any one of seven counties now exempted from the State act was killed in the House Ways and Means Committee. A delegation from the Prince Georges County Real Estate Board joined State and other county real estate men in opposing the bill.

The Gill-Lee measure would authorize the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, which has jurisdiction over the Jessup Blair Community Center, to build additional rooms on or near the building for use by the Silver of beds was a major problem in Spring Library Association and to appropriate not more than $3,000 from funds raised by the 7-cent where 20,000 troops may be statax levied in the county's metropolitan area.

Real Estate Bill Assailed.

R. M. Watkins of Calvert Hills. president, and Frank H. Cowell of Hyattsville, secretary-treasurer of the Prince Georges County Real Estate Board, and A. H. Seidenspinner of Riverdale, a member of the State Real Estate Commission joined with real estate men from Baltimore and Baltimore County in opposing the bill introduced by Delegate Wilbur R. Dashiell of Dorchester County, and others, authorizing granting of a real estate license on payment of a $25 fee in Dorchester, Calvert, Anne Arundel, ueen Annes, St Marys, Worcester and Harford Counties, all of which are exempted from provisions of the present real estate law

Mr. Watkins pointed out that the bill would make it possible for a real estate operator whose license had been revoked in Prince Georges, Montgomery and Baltimore Counties for a violation of the State Commission's regulations to evade the ruling by securing a license in any of the seven counties mentioned

Frank P. Bratten, Baltimore, chairman of the State Commission, opposed the proposed measure stating he had received no complaints from real estate men in the seven counties. Philip Pitt. Baltimore, secretary of the Baltimore Real Estate Board, declared the measure would permit all the "sharp practices" which the State law was passed to discourage.

Mr. Dashiell and Delegate Louis L. Goldstein of Prince Frederick said the purpose of the bill was merely to authorize real estate men in the seven counties to be licensed so that they would be on the same footing as other operators in neighboring counties. Delegate John S. White of Prince Georges County, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, developed from questioning of various members of both groups that the bill was introduced to forestall a reported effort to force the seven counties into the State Commission setup. Delegates Dashiell and Goldstein agreed not to press their bill if no attempt is made to change the status of the seven counties now exempted. Legislation to make the white oak Maryland's arboreal emblem was introduced by Delegate L. Harold Georges.

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 21.-A State administration proposal to equalize Negro and white teachers' salaries through a 3-cent increase in the tax rate of 19 counties, a special levy on half-mile race tracks and the use of excess liquor tax revenue was before the Legislature today.

Rock Creek Bridge Plans To Be Drawn

Parks Body Moves For Survey of Traffic Needs to D. C. Line

A definite plan for extensive bridge and road construction in Rock Creek Park appears certain of completion in the next few

The National Capital Park and Planning Commission, at its monthmeeting yesterday, requested the District, the Office of National Capital Parks and members of its own staff to form a committee to draw up recommendations for additional high-level, intermediate-level and low-level bridges across Rock Creek and its surrounding park land and for the extension of the Rock Creek and Potomac parkway from its present terminus at the south boundary of the Zoo north to he District line.

The survey commission spokesnen said yesterday, was authorized by Congress in the 1940 District of Columbia Appropriation Act under a $10,000 item. Since then, it was said, a number of alternative plans have been worked out by the commission's staff, the District Highway Department and the local parks of fice, but no single plan has been hosen for final recommendation to Congress

Now, they said, a definite plan of action is to be presented. Sees Need of Bridges.

For a number of years the Planning Commission and the Highway Department have recognized the need of additional high level bridges in upper Rock Creek Park to provide cross-town traffic connections which take through travel from narrow park roadways. For instance, Thomas S. Settle, commission secretary said, the absence of sufficient cross-town bus routes is largely due to the fact that antiquated low-level bridges at Klingle road, Tilden street and Military road N.W. will not bear the weight of heavy vehicles.

The Planning Commission, in the past, has recommended two high level bridges, one at Military road in the vicinity of Oregon avenue to Kennedy street N.W. and another from Tilden street to Taylor street N.W. It also has recommended a new and more substantial bridge at the Klingle road crossing of Rock Creek at the north boundary of the Zoo. Several Routes Proposed. A number of routes have been proposed for a extension of the Rock gomery Board No. 1, 17 white and Creek and Potomac Parkway north to the District line to take traffic March 15-Prince Georges Board from Connecticut avenue and Six-

The commission approved plans to extend Independence avenue to the tenance; an electrician and a Tidal Basin, and requested the Office out construction costs. The proposal involved relocating or doing away with the old Bureau of Engraving and Printing Building which stands in direct line with the present terminus of the avenue to the Potomac River.

So far, plans for extending the avenue to the river contemplate a low bridge carrying it across the northermost corner of the Tidal Basin. This plan, however, has not been definitely chosen.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Feb. 21.-The names of supporters of the British aid bill, including President Roosevelt, were booed and hissed last night at a mass meeting at which Senator Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana and Senator Nye, Republican, of North Dakota asserted passage of the bill would mean almost immediate involvement of this country in war.

The audience at the meeting, sponsored by the America First Committee and the Keep America Out of War Congress, was described as "un-American" in a statement issued at its conclusion by Dr. Frank Kingdon and Herbert Bayard Swope, chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the New York Chapter of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. # By the Way—

Washington friends of the Ian Wilson-Youngs, now en poste in Santiago, Chile, will be thrilled to know that they are now the proud parents of a small son. Mrs. Wilson-Young, the former Charlotte Brown Nast, who is very blond and beautiful and charming, spent one winter here and had a very definite whirl. Her house—a small but delightful one-was on R street and was the scene of many informal and attractive little parties. It was the same house which French Secretary Claude Boissanger later took-and where he entertained at carefully selected dinners of eight-never more. The food was always perfect and during dinner a pianist played, because Boissanger claimed that idle chatter ruined a good meal and if there was music no one would talk!

But to go back to the Wilson-Youngs. Ian was also here-attached to the British Embassy, but it was not until he returned to his home office and Charlotte went to London for the winter that their romance really began. If the youngest member of the household has inherited his parents' good looks, he will indeed be a strikingly handsome young man!

An old friend just returned to town is tall, dark-mustached Tony Balasy, formerly attached to the Hungarian Legation here. For the present Mr. Balasy is living at the Fairfax Hotel on Massachusetts avenue and all his old friends are delighted to have him back in Washington. One of the best and most amiable bridge players in the world, as well as a heavenly dancer (we shall never forget him winning first prize at the Snowden Fahnestocks' party several years ago for doing the waltz with Minna Lagare), Tony Balasy has always been a tremendous favorite with society here.

Also living at the Fairfax is Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins, who plans to go to Havana, Cuba, to look over the new American Embassy there very shortly. Another lovely lady who will leave shortly for an extended trip is Mrs. Demarest Lloyd, who will go to New Orleans first, in time for the Mardi Gras, then on to Mexico.

Popular and witty Mrs. Noyes Lewis returned to town today in time to be hostess at a small dinner tonight. Also entertaining at dinner this evening are the young Anthony Rumbolds and Joseph

Admiral and Mrs. Luke McNamee are in town for several days and were guests of honor at the small cocktail party which Mrs. William Heard gave vesterday afternoon. Mrs. Heard, by the way, has the most wonderful appetizers in Washington-and so many that by the time one gets to dinner, it's almost impossible to eat another thing.

We've written a good deal about the charm and beauty of Mrs. Rodman Wanamaker, but this story certainly proves our point! The other afternoon-quite late-when several gentlemen had said good-by to their hostess and were just about to depart, complete with overcoats and hats-Mrs. Wanamaker arrived. Immediately the overcoats were removed, the hats again given to the maid and all the gentlemen came right back to

V. F. W. Commander Urges Aid to Nations Fighting Aggressors

Auxiliary President Also Joins in 10th Annual 'Hello America' Program

All possible aid to the nations who are holding the aggressors in check was urged by Joseph C. Menendez, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, in the organization's 10th annual "Hello America!" program broadcast from Washington last night.

Comdr. Menendez, who came here from New Orleans to participate in the program with Mabel C. Tanner of Jefferson City, Mo., president of the national auxiliary, raised the question, "Are we in danger?"

"If the American way of life," he said, "is truly in danger, then common sense tells us we must take advantage of every conceivable way to protect ourselves. If the safety of America is not in danger -and if we are not confronted by forces which threaten to destroy the American way of life-then we have nothing to worry about.

All Possible Aid Urged.

"Then there is no purpose in spending billions for armaments. It all boils down to one issue-are we in danger? In current debates on national defense, every one, including former well-known pacifists, supports the conclusion that we must build the most powerful national defense protection this country has ever attempted. A overseas veterans we believe this threat is so obvious that further discussion on this point is un-

"We heartily indorse all possible aid to the democracies which are holding the aggressors in check. Every day which sees the dictators confined to the continental limits of Europe gives the United States one more precious day in the time we so sorely need to build planes, submarines and an battleships. Army and Navy."

Eager for American Security.

"As women who lived in the shadow of war in the past, no one can tell us anything about the cruelties of war and what war means in human sacrifice." the auxiliary president said. "We possess an intimate knowledge of the price our loved ones have already paid in sacrifice and suffering to protect our Americanism. We are wholly in accord with every policy which promises eternal security for the American

"We are the mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of America's overseas veterans. We have learned we also must be realistic when things we love as Americans are in danger of being betrayed.

"We recognize that poverty, slavery and oppression are even worse than war. Those women in America today who allow themselves to be misled by apostles of appeasement are being unfaithful to the instructive ideals of all womanhood We warn the womanhood of America against those who are conniving to undermine our democracy. One of their favorite tricks is the enlistment of innocent women under bannors which promise to keep Amerira out of war.

Brotherhood Week Observance to Start Tomorrow

Christians and Jews Seek United Religious Front to Save U.S.

Brotherhood Week, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, will begin tomorrow in Washington and more than 2,000 other communities throughout the country, with "Religion and Democracy" as its theme.

Dr. Ernest S. Griffith, M. F. Calnan and Jooseph D. Kaufman, cochairmen of the Washington Round Table of the conference, announced the official slogan yesterday as follows:

"A united front of our religions for saving our United States." The theme and slogan will furnish a keynote for sermons in many Capital churches Sunday, the committee explained. Church young people's groups will take notice of the observance in their meetings during the week, and a number of special radio programs will be pre-

In a statement Dr. Griffith de-

"America needs solidarity among Protestants, Catholics and Jews for two purposes. First, to arouse citizens against the dangers to our democracy from the activities of individuals inciting hatred of particular religious and racial groups; second, to apply the spiritual power and vision and belief in the sacredness of personality adequate for a democratic solution of the difficult social and economic problems in our own country which lie ahead.

"The times demand a unity of spirit binding citizens together in a common devotion to American democratic ideals and unity of action on matters of common concern to Americans of all faiths and classes as citizens of the one democracy. This does not imply the kind of unity enforced in totalitarian countries where opinions on social, political and economic matters must conform with those promulgated by the ruling powers."

Buck Sees Settlement Likely in Fight Over Broadcast Music

A. S. C. A. P.'s Consent Decree Ratified by Eastern Members

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Feb. 21.-Gene Buck, president of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, predicted today that the Eastern members' approval of a decree ending the Federal antitrust action against the society would lead to "a complete settlement of the music situation in the United

"I honestly believe this," Mr. Buck told newsmen, but declined to say when or how the differences of A. S. C. A. P. and the National Association of Broadcasters over fees could be ironed out. The dispute resulted in elimination of A. S. C. A. P. music from radio network programs January 1.

The broadcasters showed no signs of being in a hurry to enter into negotiations with A. S. C. A. P. A statement by Broadcast Music, Inc. set up by the broadcasters as their own music source, said B. M. I would give "careful study" to any consent decree signed by A. S. C. A. P. so as to ascertain its effect upon the decree to which B. M. I. consented January 27.

"A settlement by A. S. C. A. P. of its difficulties with the Department of Justice, however, will not remove the need for B. M. I.'s existence,' the statement pointed out. "But it will emphasize the necessity of the continuance of B. M. I.'s position in the music field in order to maintain precisely the competition which it is the Government's purpose to permit.

More than 700 of A. S. C. A. P.'s Eastern members, representing a majority of the organization, ratified unanimously by voice vote last night their board of directors' decision to consent to the decree, which would assess fines of $24,000 against A. S. C. A. P. and require changes in its operation policies. They had been advised to do so by New York's Lt. Gov. Charles Poletti, A. S. C. A.

P.'s special counsel. Mr. Buck planned to fly to California for another ratification meeting of Western members at Beverly Hills tonight. The society has a total membership of approximately 1.200. About 300 of them are on the West Coast.

$300,000 Stamp Collection Sold to Peddler for $9

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21.—The district attorney's office debated today the ownership of a $300,000 stamp collection which, detectives said, a rooming house landlady sold to a peddler for $9.

The collection, identified as the rare American group of the late Edward Green, member of a wealthy Philadelphia soda fountain manufacturing family, was found in the peddler's room yesterday. Harry Drebin, 35, was charged with obtaining relief fraudulently after his chance arrest during an investigation of numbers writing.

Detective Sergt. David Malone said the landlady apparently had not realized the value of the collection which Mr. Green gave to her before he died. Mr. Green had lived at the rooming house for several

She asked Drebin to dispose of the stamps, Sergt. Malone said, but Drebin had the group appraised and held them for sale at the true value. The collection was turned over to the district attorney's office to determine their rightful owner.

Boltz to Hear Sentence For Stock Fraud Monday

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21.-Robert J. Boltz, who held an open Bible and said he felt "sorry" for clients who lost money in his investment firm, will know next Monday the sentence he must serve for embezzlement. fraudulent conversion and violation of the Pennsylvania Securities Act. Sentence will be imposed by Judge Eugene V. Alessandroni, who heard the 54-year-old investment counselor admit yesterday his clients lost about $1,000,000 in the collapse of his company. Boltz also is under fraud indictments by a Federal grand jury and Federal authorities plan to arraign him in Federal Court after State sentence is imposed.

The Invisible Trail = by Joseph Chadwick =

The story thus far: Michael Ryan, ousted from March Aircraft after a plane he designed crashed, killing Test Pilot Tex Martin, finds evidence of sabotage in the affair from overhearing certain short-wave broadcasts. He notifies the F. B. I. and the F. C. C., also Judson March himself, but the latter discounts the dope as a poor alibi. Then from Diane March, to whom Mike was once engaged, he learns there is a connection between her brother Dick and the plant explosion that came shortly after his warning to March. Mike discovers that Joan Halliday, whom he is paying to get a line on Bert Donovan, is the former fiancee of Tex Martin and presently on hand to find out if he, Ryan, caused Tex's death. Diane is in a turmoil when Mike meets her at the country club one night with her father and his friend Cordova and the moment they are alone surprises him with the suggestion that they get married at once. He refuses, knowing he now loves Joan. But a short time later Joan admits she may be falling in love with Donovan.

CHAPTER XI.

Judson March telephoned at 9 that morning, asking Michael Ryan to come to his office at the plant. Michael said, after a momen'ts consideration, that he would drop around.

Her copper-tinted hair was brushed back behind her ears. She looked fresh and bright. She smiled, and said, "Good morning, Michael." And Michael stepped in uninvited and closed the door. He looked at her steadily for a moment, then O'Hara Repeats Story. O'Hara began to talk in a thick voice. He told the same story; that Dick Marsh had landed his plane about 10 o'clock, paid him $5 to drive him, Dick March, into town. Dick had returned in another car close to midnight and the driver of the car had paid O'Hara $20 to keep quiet. When the mechanic stopped talking he wiped perspiration from his forehead with a wad of cotton waste.

"That's all I know, honest." "And you didn't know the man in the car?" Macklin said. 'No. sir.

"And you can't describe him?" O'Hara said he couldn't. It was dark He hadn't gotten a look at the man

O'Hara nodded jerkily and climbed into the gasoline truck from which he had been fueling Donovan's plane. He drove off toward the hangar. While they waited for him to reappear, Michael saw Bert Donovan come down from the clubhouse. Donovan came out onto the field. He walked with a slight swagger. His blond hair was bright in the sun. He was a handsome man. Michael could understand why Joan had fallen in love with him. Donovan said, "Hello! Is the Ges-

HERE'S MOST AMAZING WAY TO LOSE WEIGHT YOU'VE EVER READ ABOUT No Strict Diet Lists; No Strenuous Exercises; No Distasteful Drugs N EVERY section of the country today, women have marveled at the wonders of a safe, easy reducing method-which requires no strict diet lists; no strenuous exercises; no drugs. Increases energy as weight goes down. It's the identical method Dr. Damrau of New York used in tests among a group of intelligent and cooperative people who followed directions implicitly, and was responsible for an average loss in weight of 7 pounds per month. Unbelievably Easy to Follow All you do is mix 3/4 glass of Welch's Grape Juice with 1/4 glass of water and drink before meals and at bedtime. Then eat sensiblywhich means you avoid overeating; thus reducing caloric intake considerably. Then this happens: First, this delicious drink satisfies your craving for rich, sweet foods. You have less desire to overeat fattening foods—but you never suffer a hungry moment. Second, the natural dextrose in Welch's is quickly consumed, and by this process not only aids nature in consuming excess fat but also increases your energy. That is why weight is lost naturally; why you not only look better but actually feel better; have more energy. And this proved method is just as beneficial and effective for overweight men, as it is for overweight women. Do This One Important Thing! Be sure to use only genuine Welch's Grape Juice, selected by Dr. Damrau in his convincing test. Welch's is always full strength. It contains full measure of natural dextrose which is so important. And because Welch's is always full strength, it is delicious when diluted - very economical to use. Start this proved reducing method today and watch your energy go up as your weight goes down. ## Shrove Tuesday Pancakes Also Come In for Their Share of Attention

Centuries-Old Custom Seems To Have Originated in Effort To Use Up Fats Before Lent

By Betsy Caswell, Woman's Editor

Events come crowding so thick and fast these days that there loesn't seem space enough to give them all the attention they deserve. Here is Washington's Birthday anniversary upon us tomorrow and Shrove Tuesday and the beginning of Lent just over the horizon in next week We have had a number of requests for the traditional Shrove Tuesday pancakes, recently, so will give you the recipe which we consider nearest to the "original" version, after we have looked into the matter of in with the children of the vicinity—

However, the mere fact that a baby is gaining does not necessarily indicate perfect health. If his diet does not contain sufficient proteins, minerals and vitamins which are found in foods additional to milk, either mother's milk or cow's milk, he may become fat, but he will be flabby. For a solid, strong baby you must let your doctor prescribe a well-balanced diet that will provide the necessary food elements for the growth of good bones and teeth and muscle tone as well as general strength and size. The breast-fed baby will be apt to gain more rapidly during the first weeks of life than the bottle-fed infant. This is because the latter must become accustomed to cow's milk and this sometimes takes a little time. He may suffer slight digestive disturbances that necessitate the weakening of the formula which will mean that during this period he is not receiving enough food on which to gain weight.

A table of weights for the average infant is as follows:

Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS. Farmer Brown's Boy had an errand which took him far from home. He harnessed the horse to a sleigh and started off right after dinner. Now it happened that his errand took him in the direction of the farm where Bowser the Hound had been taken such good care of and where Reddy the Fox had that very day caught the fat hen. Farmer Brown's Boy was not thinking of Bowser. You see he had visited most of the farms in that direction looking for Bowser and had found no trace of him. It was a beautiful day to be sleighing, and Farmer Brown's Boy was whistling merrily, for there is nothing he enjoys more than a sleigh ride. He had almost reached the place he had started for when way off across the fields to his right he heard a dog. Now Farmer Brown's Boy enjoys listening to the sound of a hound chasing a fox. There is something about it which stirs the blood. He stopped whistling, and he stopped the horse in order that he might listen better. At first that sound was very, very faint, but as Farmer Brown's Boy listened it grew clearer and clearer. Suddenly Farmer Brown's Boy leaped up excitedly. "That's Bowser!" he cried. "As sure as I live that's good, old Bowser! I would know that voice among a million!" He leaped from the sleigh and tied the horse. Then he climbed over the fence and began to run across the snow-covered fields. He could tell from the sound in what direction Bowser was running. He could tell from the appearance of the country where Reddy Fox would be likely to lead Bowser, and he ran for a place which he felt sure Reddy would be likely to pass.

Louder and louder sounded the great voice of Bowser, and faster and faster ran Farmer Brown's Boy to reach that place before Bowser should pass. The louder that great voice sounded the more absolutely certain Farmer Brown's Boy became that it was the voice of Bowser, and a great joy filled his heart. At last he reached an old road. He felt certain that Reddy would follow that road. So he hid behind an old stone wall on the edge of it.

He did not have long to wait. A red form running swiftly appeared WOL, 11:00—Senator Capper of Kansas around a turn in the old road. speaks on program sonsored by the United Then it stopped and stood perfectly States Flag Association in commemoration of

Of course it was Reddy Fox. He was listening to make sure just how far behind him Bowser was. He listened for only a moment, then started on swiftly as before. Right down the road past Farmer Brown's Boy Reddy ran and never once suspected he was being watched.

A few minutes later another form appeared around the turn in the road. It was Bowser. Yes, sir, it was Bowser. With a glad cry Farmer Brown's Boy jumped over the stone wall and waited.

POINTS FOR PARENTS By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE. If children are old enough to go a-visiting, they are old enough to learn to be considerate of others.

"We always keep the Mother: noisy toys in the other room. If you wish to sit quietly and draw or look at books, you may stay in here with us.'

Mother: "I guess we might as well give up trying to visit any ourselves when we take our children with us to see each other. They're having such a good time."

Don't Take My Word for It!

From Springfield: Can't you do something about the network broadcasters who persist in saying "noo" for new, "do" for due, "dook" for duke, etc.-W. K. Answer: Of course, I can't insure anything, but perhaps this Rhyme-

o-gram will reach the one for whom it is intended: Use Your U's. Now, honestly, believe you me, I hate to be insistent, But can't you see that we must be

A trifle more consistent? If we say FEW, for pity's sake, Why "noo" for NEW, please tell me?

And "doo" for DUE, another break That never fails to quell me? If PEWS is "pyooz," then NEWS is "nyooz, Unless I miss my guess, sir. If HUES is "hyooz," why "dooz" for DUES? I'm stumped, I must confess, sir.

One should not use the "oo" of OOZE In STUDIO, nor DUKE, sir. That you refuse to use your U's, Must earn my stern rebuke, sir.

Tell any beauty she's a cootie; Whee! She'll slap your face, sir. In line of duty, call her CUTIE: She'll seek your embrace, sir.

In feud and mute, and nude and lute, The "U" of USE should blend, Not "food" nor "moot," nor "nood" nor "loot." So let this misuse end, sir.

Pass Pass Pass Pass Pass West opened the queen of diamonds, and South indulged in a moment's thought before he played the first card from the dummy. Was there any chance, he wondered, of getting the king of hearts through without the loss of a heart trick? Certainly, if he lost a heart trick the jig was up. The enemy would surely shift to clubs and defeat the contract before he could get discards on dummy's hearts. How could he talk them out of it? In much less time than it takes to report, the solution dawned upon him. He played a low diamond from the dummy, and then casually played a low diamond from his own hand! West naturally assumed that his partner had the ace of diamonds. so continued with the jack of diamonds, and much to every one's amazement, South turned up with the diamond ace. Declarer next cashed the spade ace and led a small trump to dummy's ten, thus exhausting trumps The king of diamonds was then led from dummy, and South discarded the king of hearts. The next lead from the dummy was the queen of hearts and East was helpless. Whether he covered with his ace or to get two club discards. South therefore lost only one diamond and to make the strong rebid of two notwo clubs instead of one heart and three clubs.

In boxing matches of the present day, two men get into a prize ring and pound each other as hard as they can. If both are standing at the end of a certain number of rounds, the judges of the contest pick the winner or declare the match a draw. Sometimes one of the boxers is "knocked out." This means that he has been hurt so badly he cannot rise from the floor before the count of 10. Ancient Greece also had boxing matches. On each boxer's hands were tied straps of cowhide. Only the tips of the fingers were left uncovered. The ends of the straps were tied carefully around the wrists so as to protect veins there.

The cowhide straps usually softened the blow slightly, but in some cases lead buckles were attached. This made the blow far worse than with the bare fist, of the games of "Olympic" instead of "Olympian." Usually they have been held once in four years. Paris, London, St. Louis, Stockholm, Amsterdam and Los Angeles are among the cities where Olympic games have been held. (For history section of your scrapbook.)

Win, Lose or Draw Greenberg Draft

Baseball Holdouts Mostly Are Phonies

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 21.-There are some empty lockers in the clubhouses down this way, indicating that not all of the stars are signed for the 1941 major league campaigns. But, chum, don't you worry none. Your favorite guy may be holding out and saying nasty things about the management, but he will be in uniform by April.

Of all the hoax artists to attain consistent publicity beyond the arm of the law, it has been the baseball "holdout," meaning a ballplayer supposedly discontented with his lot, financial and otherwise. The odds are better than 500-to-1, offhand, that he only wants to see his name in the paper than even money that his boss initiated the so-called holdout By the Associated Press. for publicity purposes.

We don't say that Uncle Clark Griffith and his star pitcher, Dutch most celebrated draft case is stir-Leonard, exactly collaborated. Doubtless their argument was of an honest ring up the fans again, and they nature. But late yesterday Mr. Griffith was humoring some of the may have to mul' it over for at least new paper reporters by playing golf with them, and when it was over several more days without any ensomebody asked about Leonard.

"By sin," exploded the old gent, "I don't care if he reports or not. I'm through with him. What does he think he is-a good pitcher?" An hour or so later Griffith was in a frightful dither, trying to recollect his newsmen. He called them to his room for an "important secret, if any, to himself. announcement," which started, "Boys, that great knuckle-ball pitcher, Dutch Leonard, has just agreed to terms and will report as soon as he gets | Free Press) say Greenberg has aphere. The reasons are many and varied. In the first place, there is a dearth of pitchers. After Harris mentions Hudson, Leonard, Chase, Trasterson and Deacon Danny MacFayden, he apologizes. In the second 40-Night Harness Meet Zukowski must have something because he won 22 games for a

Single-Minded Nova Is Fight Fan, Too

By JOHN LARDNER, Special Correspondent of The Star. NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (N.A.N.A.). Lou Nova-the brightest of the white hopes-is a man who fights single-mindedly for the money to be found in fighting, but he is a fight fan, too. At the ringside of the Louis-Dorazio circus in Philadelphia the other night, he chattered and yelled and threw punches from his chair like a 33d degree filbert.

A couple of Negro boys, Willie Reddish and George Murray, were flailing at each other blindly and with genuine dislike. They both were strangers to Novo, but he took up the cause of Reddish as though Willie were his favorite nephew. "Shorten up those punches, Willie!" bawled Nova. "Shorten 'em

I saw him with Carnera," said Nova, "and the first time with Schmeling, and with Galento." Nova crouched forward in his chair and said nothing till the fight was over, in the middle of the second round. At the end of the first round, wherein Louis pawed and missed, he shook his head once. Then, a minute and a half later, came the finish. very sudden. Two punches laid Dorazio low and all but unconscious.

Well, imagine Conn in there. "I'd be glad to fight Conn any time, if there's anything left of him when Louis is through. But first I got to beat Baer. We'll take 'em one at a time. He's tough, Max. ### Baltimore Fans Back St. Wenceslaus Five In M. A. Tourney

Ohrbachs of New York Popular Choices as Competition Opens

Although the Ohrbachs of New York are the pretourney favorites for Middle Atlantic honors in the basket ball marathon opening tonight at Heurich gym. Baltimore fans are nursing a hunch the winners will be an Oriole outfit entered under the banner of St. Wenceslaus A. C.

They have good reason for their lucky feeling, too, principally the Polish team's record of 32 victories in 35 games and secondly the fact that the Saints conquered their opening-game jinx in the third round of the Maryland League. Since the Middle Atlantic is a sudden-death tournament it's rather important that the Baltimoreans take their first game, which will be against United Type-

Hail from Water Front.

In the neighboring town they call St. Wenceslaus the "dead end" team, because it hails from the water front section, where the struggle for existence is grim, but withal the team has a reputation of being one of the cleanest as well as smartest on the boards. All of the players, excepting Eddie Barczak, who doubles in brass as coach, learned the game in their spare time after work and until Barczak joined the club had no formal coaching. Eddie starred three years on Loyola College's quint and was its captain in his senior squad. Frankie Buckless. Frank Hundt and Johnny Morroco are more than 6 feet tall. Walter Ballard and Walter Bielecki, two of the tallest, are also the most deadly shots on the squad. Bielecki's specialty is one-handed shots and he drops 'em in from any angle at any speed. Ballard is a long-shot artist.

Wilhelm Is Floor General.

Outstanding floor general of the squad, and rated one of the best in the Baltimore area is Milton Wilhelm, a steel mill hand. Not only a fine ball handler but ball hawk as well. # Catholic U., Columbus and Maryland Have Much at Stake in Ring Tomorrow

Cards and Explorers Battle in Old Feud For Local Honors

Terps and Virginia Tech To Settle Leadership Of Southern Loop

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON. Maryland, Catholic U. and Columbus completed heavy training for their boxing matches tomorrow night in a gale of practice punches yesterday, but there wasn't a smile in any one of the three camps.

This is serious business coming up and the boys are on edge. Maryland, meeting Virginia Tech at College Park in the second half of the season's final twin bill, knows it is walking into a mess of trouble and is prepared for the worst. The winner will go into the Southern Conference championship tournament next week in the role of favorite, and at this writing said winner shapes up as Tech

Catholic U. and Columbus, nursing along the city's newest neighborhood rivalry, are eyeing one another as warily as a couple of strange bulldogs, wondering how tough the other fellow is. Use anything you want on this, calculus, trigonometry or simply fifth grade arithmetic and it doesn't add up to more than a 4-4 draw. That's on paper, of course, but you can't bring a note from teacher when you step into the duelling pit and a stray punch here and there may change the situation drastically.

Maryland Team Ready. Coach Mike Lombardo of Maryland reports his boys fit and ready He'll have John Cordyack in the 165pound class for George Pyles, who left school to join the United States Air Corps. Cordyack, a novice at the pillow-pushing business but rugged and willing, gets a tough assignment in Kent Belmore whose record shows two victories and one defeat. His only loss was to Capt. Fenton Somerville of Virginia and that was by a hairline decision. If Cordyack wins you can mark it down as a big upset Maryland's hopes appear to be vested in four men—Judson Lincoln, 120 pounds; Pat Quinn, 135; "Hotsy" Alperstein, 145, and Herb Gunther, light-heavyweight. If Len Rodman can whip Julian Sedwick in the heavyweight class so much the better, for there is no guarantee that all of the aforementioned boys will come through. Cards, Explorers Undecided. Neither Jim McNamara, Columbus coach, nor Eddie La Fond of Catholic U. have definitely selected their line-ups and the chances are a couline-ups and the chances are a couple of positions on both teams will be open until after the boys weigh in Red Doherty, for example, is listed in the light-heavyweight bracket for Columbus, which would pair the kayo artist with Leo Houck, jr. But there is a strong possibility Mc-Namara will move up the redhead to box Casimir Ksycewski and slip a dark house into the 175-pound role. Jim McAleer is Columbus' regular heavyweight and is ready for action if the line-up stands unchanged.

Ted Mandris, Catholic 120pounder, will be the choice over Charlie Rohmer, but Lou Taub of Columbus appears to have the edge over the Cards' 127-pounder, Lenny Bartone. Sure of a successful season, members of Wilson Teachers' basket ball team lugged their equipment up to the quaint little town of Shepherdstown, W. Va., today, reparing for one of the last of the three games on their schedule tonight against Shepherd Teachers.

But what happens tonight and next Wednesday against Shenandoah Teachers doesn't count too Their entire season and its success hinges on the game with Newark State Teachers at Newark, N. Catholic Title Gained,

Out of City Interest; St. John's Dies Hard

With a secure hold on the Catholic School Basket Ball League title and a rating as one of the top teams in the Washington area following one of the most exciting court games here this season, Gonzaga's Eagles now can turn their attention to considering the numerous post-season tournament invitations sure to come their way.

Father George Bahlman, head o the school, already has received feelers from the Duke-Durham Tournament in Durham and the Glen Falls (N. Y.) Tournament. The Eagles also are being sent an invitation to The Star Metropolitan tournament, and they almost are certain of a bid from the National Catholic tourney in Chicago.

In taking last night's victory before a howling crowd of 3,200 at Tech gym, the Eagles had to come from behind late in the final period to save themselves from what apparently was to be one of the big upsets of the season. The Johnnies were off to a 7-0 lead in the first six minutes on shots by Chuck Dudley, Leo Healy and Dick Hathaway as the Eagles ineffectively peppered the basket and backboard without a shot going through. Finally just before the quarter ended Frannie Counselman of Gonzaga dropped in a bucket to save his team from being shut out in the first period

Nature's Children Red Maple Flowers (Acer rubrum) By Lillian Cox Athey

These blossoms are found crown to each little breeze that on the same or separate trees, for passes it way. they are two distinct types, pistillate (female) and (staminate) male. Many who are not familiar with red maple habits speak of the "young leaves on the maple." The ow. They cannot accomplish much for mankind here, so why not move leaves follow the flowers, not pre-

Red maples are excellent travelers. Why not? Their twin children have sturdy wings on which they depend to take them long distances where they establish places in the ground for themselves. Later grand trees will be seen with spreading short trunks and handsome, compact crowns, if seed children have found their places in the sun; narrow, if the twins dropped into the forest. The seeds are known as "keys," but the long, smooth wings, attached to the seeds, closely resemble some of our largest winged insects. Flowers of the maple are too high on the branches and twigs for us to get a close-up. Yet they mentally, and their lumber is good are very interesting and worth ex- for furniture, oar handles, gun amining under a magnifying glass. stocks, woodenware and fuel.

The pistillate flowers are red or scarlet. They are the fertile ones. Here is where the fruit will be found later on. The staminate flowers. fringed with yellow stamens, are orange colored. There is some form of wireless etween the blossoms and their important insect partners. As soon as the tree puts forth her blooms, when the pollen is ripe and ready to be transferred, the sleepy insects stir in their cocoons and hidden winter quarters. They begin to lose the numbness of winter and stretch out their stiff legs. Their "alarm clock" has awakened them to the busy season ahead.

So no matter how early in the morning you visit the beautiful maple in her robe of red, insects will be there before you. Most of them will be bees. Their journey is a selfish one, while perhaps the trees are altruistic, since they serve nectar and pollen to these partners in turn for their service of transferring pollen from the father flowers to the mother blossoms. Winds are helpful at this time, too. The pollen is lifted in clouds and drifts from the yellow stamens of the male blooms to the red forked tongues of the female flowers.

As soon as the transfer of the pollen has been accomplished the seed children are assured and the mother tree quickly matures the hundreds of thousands of twin seeds, so that they may ride the airways in search of dwelling places before

The "keys" land upon the earth with the dying down of the wind. The heavy part of the "mapleplane" strikes the ground with considerable force. At once the seed begins to send out a wee rootlet that

Numerous maple children will grow up under their mother's shadow. They cannot accomplish much them? Transplanting young maple trees is not difficult, and it is constructive conservation to assist these excellent trees in this way. Their range is from the Eastern States to Wisconsin. Nebraska and Texas. They are valuable orna-
