Russia Denies Massing Troops On Reich Border

No Concentration of Men Is Planned in West, Soviet Says

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, May 8.—Soviet Russia is not concentrating large forces of troops on her Western border with Germany and does not intend to do so, it was announced tonight through Tass, the official news agency.

Tass said the movement of a single division from Irkutsk, near the Manchoukuo frontier, to Novosibirsk in Central Asia in order to provide better housing for the troops has given rise to a whole series of reports concerning concentrations of Soviet land, air and naval forces in the Southwest. None of these reports, said Tass, is true.

One report denied was that Admiral Nicolai Kuznetsov, commissar of the navy, had gone to Teheran, capital of Iran, to negotiate for Soviet air bases in that vital oil-bearing country adjoining Iraq.

Not Anticipated.

The Tass announcement said the concentration of troops on the Western frontiers was not taking place and was "not anticipated."

The latter phrase was regarded as exceedingly important by observers since Russia's official policy throughout the war has been one of neutrality.

The denial also declared a report that troops from the Far East and Central Asia were being transferred to the west, with passenger traffic on the Trans-Siberian Railway halted for this purpose, was "the fruit of the sick imagination of its author."

Similarly denied were reports that two reserve air armies of 2,700 planes had been placed at the disposal of the Kiev military district, and that fleets in the Caspian and Black Seas were being reinforced at the expense of the Baltic fleet.

The specific report, which Tass said was denied, was that 28 submarines, 45 destroyers and 18 gunboats were being transferred.

Hitler Reported Seeking Bid to Visit Moscow

By HELEN KIRKPATRICK, Foreign Correspondent of The Star and Chicago Daily News.

LONDON, May 8.—Adolf Hitler is angling for an invitation to Moscow, it was reported reliably today, but so far Joseph Stalin has been too busy to see the German Ambassador, Count Frederick Werner von Schulenburg, who returned to the Russian capital in time for the May Day celebrations with this request.

If Stalin is interested to extend an invitation to Hitler, he will present him with a German offer which cuts right across the German-Japanese alliance in an effort to prevent the increasingly belligerent attitude of the United States from influencing Soviet policy. If not, Count von Schulenburg will present the proposal.

As reported on May 5, Berlin has become exceedingly worried by the extent to which Germany's nerves war against Russia has succeeded in arousing Russian fears and suspicions.

Instead of frightening Russia into complete quiescence, rumors and reports of an imminent German attack on the Ukraine, German troop movements toward Finnish nickel mines, and the strengthening of the German frontier defenses on the Russian border, appeared to have led to a stiffening of the Soviet attitude toward Germany. The nerves war was called off at the end of April.

According to this source, within the next few days, Count von Schulenburg is expected to offer Russia a most important plan in Germany's new world system. Germany, it will be explained, intends to control the entire European and African continents, but if Russia will extend the fullest collaboration to Germany, everything east of the German-Russian border will be recognized by Hitler as the Russian sphere of influence. This will include, India, China and presumably anything else the Russians want, or are in a position to control.

No mention is made of Japan's sphere of influence or of Germany's commitments to Japan under the tripartite alliance.

D. C. Grand Jury Set to Probe Liquor Price Fixing Charges

Organization of Retailers to Control Costs Is Alleged by Curran

A District grand jury investigation was ordered this afternoon by United States Attorney Edward M. Curran into charges of conspiracy to fix retail liquor prices in the Capital.

The inquiry is to start tomorrow morning and indications are that it will take several days. "Scores" of liquor retailers in the liquor industry here are to go before the grand jury.

Today's announcement by the prosecutor follows a month's investigation of complaints of intimidation brought to the district attorneys' office and examined by Detective Sgt. Joseph W. Shimon and Detective Alton S. Bradford of the Police Department, assigned to Mr. Curran's office.

The case was laid before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage by Assistant United States Attorney Cecil R. Hefflin.

Mr. Curran and his two investigators charge that Morris Stirman, who has offices in the Bond Building and publishes a retailers' magazine known as the Licensee, and Israel Hoiberg, a retailer of the 2200 block of Fourteenth street N.W., were parties to the alleged intimidation of retail dealers in an attempt to force them to hold up the prices of certain brands of liquors.

Mr. Stirman and Mr. Hoiberg organized the retailers to fix prices and most of them are members of a group known as the District Liquor Retailers' Association, the investigators said. Mr. Shimon said there is evidence that prices have been fixed and that retailers who refused to join the group have been intimidated.

Mr. Stirman and his associates are alleged to have organized groups of liquor retailers on Seventh, Fourteenth, in Southwest and upper Fourthteenth streets.

Mr. Stirman and Mr. Hoiberg were brought to District Attorney's office for questioning after an uptown liquor dealer—not further identified—was said to have been told that unless he joined the group and fixed prices, he would "be taken care of."

Mr. Stirman is represented by the investigators as having said the retailers now control the wholesalers and if retailers refused to take part in price control, the wholesalers would not sell to them.

Mr. Curran said that if the grand jury finds that the retailers' indictment will probably result in charging conspiracy to fix prices. Mr. Shimon said every wholesaler and all members of the various groups concerned would be brought before the grand jury.

Mr. Stirman told the grand jury that his group is not fixing liquor prices but is organizing to improve conditions in the industry and desires that retailers make a living and eliminate persons who cut prices unduly.

Mr. Shimon asserted that if the wholesalers do not abide by retailers' wishes, the retailers will not buy their brands.

British Down 37 Nazi Planes In 24 Hours

BULLETIN.

LONDON, May 9 (AP)—An air raid alarm was sounded in London last midnight.

Daredevil Polish pilots in Hurricane fighters shot down three Nazi raiders in seven minutes over England today to gain top individual honors for the 24-hour brag of 37 Germans claimed by Britain tonight.

Twenty-four of the invaders were destroyed overnight and 13 during the day, as continuing good weather brought further expansion of daylight air war.

In a little longer time than the British Spitfire Squadron shot down five Nazis during the day and another squadron accounted for three.

As sunset came the day's 13th victim, a big black bomber, was sent spiraling into the sea.

"Outstanding Success."

Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair, proud of the high toll taken by the British night fighters, sent to the fighter command chief, Air Marshal W. S. Douglas, this message:

"I am charged by the war cabinet to convey to you and to your squadrons engaged in last night's operations their congratulations on their outstanding success."

Britain at the same time officially described new and direct armor-piercing bomb bursts last night on the moonlit decks of the 26,000-ton German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau at Brest, France.

The daylight success at home cost them one fighting plane, the British said, but the pilot was reported safe.

Considerable Activity.

Although there was "considerable activity off the coast and southeast coasts and over East Kent"—as the ministries put it—"no reports have been received of any bombs having been dropped."

The downing of 24 night raiders out of an armada estimated at 300 was a new record, the daylight Hoiberg said, but the British figure was not representing but a fraction of the high reached last September 15, when 185 planes was the minimum claim.

Axis warplanes delivered a two-hour assault on Britain's vital Suez Canal during the night, the British also reported. The raid was believed to have been the longest on Suez since the war began. British officials in Cairo acknowledged that "some damage" was inflicted on Egyptian state railway property, but said there were no casualties.

Nazi pilots reported big fires were raging in Manchester, British industrial city, as a result of the raids on England last night.

Berlin Preparing.

At the same time, Berlin authorities were reported preparing for heavier blows under the lash of the British counter-blastkrieg. Nazi officials were said to be making a canvass of homes in the German capital to find shelter for bombed-out residents, and Jewish families were ordered to live in more restricted quarters so that all or part of their apartment could be turned over to Aryans.

On the North African front, Premier Mussolini's high command reported that Axis troops had captured important positions in the month-old siege of the British garrison at Tobruk, Libya.

Travis Clouts Fifth Homer of Season and Also Gets Triple

By BURTON HAWKINS, Star Staff Correspondent.

DETROIT, May 8.—Cecil Travis blasted his fifth home run of the season here today as the Nationals won their third straight game, 7-1. Steve Sundra checked Detroit with six hits. Washington slammed Buck Newsom, Archie McKain and Bud Thomas for 14 hits in handing Newsom his fourth defeat of the year. Sundra, in winning his third decision in four starts, yielded the Tigers their only run in the first inning, when Frank Croucher doubled, moved to third on Barney McCosky's infield out and scored on Rudy York's double. In the first four innings Sundra was nipped for five doubles, but in the final five frames the only hit off him was Bruce Campbell's single in the seventh. Travis, who never has hit more than five home runs in one season, ramed his circuit clout into the upper deck of the right-field stands leading off in the fifth inning. He also walloped a triple leading off in the seventh and scored on Jimmy Bloodworth's third straight hit, double to right.

Pilot Is Burned To Death, Aide Hurt at Airport

Co-Pilot, Thrown Clear, Sought to Save Companion

A Bolivian Army captain was burned to death and another injured when the American-built plane in which they were making a good-will tour crashed on taking off from Washington Airport at 4:15 p.m. today.

The pilot, Capt. Rafael Suarez Rivas, was trapped in the burning plane. His co-pilot, Capt. Armando Taborga, was thrown clear in the crash and made a futile effort to drag the pilot from the flames.

Capt. Taborga was taken to Emergency Hospital conscious, but his condition was undetermined.

Able to Walk.

The Bolivian Minister, Dr. Don Luis Fernando Guachalla, who had been at the airport to greet the officers in their stop here en route from New York, said Capt. Taborga was able to walk to an automobile which took him to the hospital.

The large crowd around the airport ran to the scene of the crash and could see the body of Capt. Suarez Rivas through the flames which enveloped the plane.

The Bolivian flyers had landed here at 3 p.m. on a flight from New York to Jacksonville, Fla. They paid a brief visit to the Bolivian legation and the Minister and members of his staff had accompanied them back to the airport and witnessed the crash.

Witnesses said the plane apparently failed to gain flying speed. The pilot was retracting the plane's landing gear, apparently in an effort to gain speed, although he was only 50 to 75 feet off the ground, still over the runway. The plane fell off into the beginning of a spin and struck the ground in the Arlington Experimental Farms about a mile from the airport buildings.

Purchased a Month Ago. The plane, a Beechcraft bi-plane, was purchased in New York about a month ago and was to have been flown to La Paz, Bolivia, to go into service as an army transport plane. It was a total loss, the wreckage being destroyed by fire.

The co-pilot was taken to Emergency Hospital in an Arlington County police car. It was reported that he was suffering from a fractured skull and crushed chest.

R. A. F. Smashes 22 Bombers for Night Record

New Mark Is Claimed After Heavy Attack By Nazi Craft

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 8.—The Luftwaffe clashed with R. A. F. patrols in numerous daylight air battles over the English Channel coast today as R. A. F. night fighters claimed a new record in shooting down 22 German planes during smashing nocturnal raids on British port areas.

In addition to the 22 planes claimed down by fighters and one by anti-aircraft fire, a British source estimated 10 or more of the raiders were damaged and possibly brought down.

Another source estimated 300 Nazi bombers flew over Britain last night. This is not a record number, so the new toll of planes shot down could not be explained purely as merely the result of a greater number of potential targets.

About 15 planes engaged in one of today's dog-fights, 5 miles up in a clear sky. The diving, swooping planes were silver specks against the heavens when the sun glinted on their metal wings.

The toll of 22 planes claimed for Britain's night fighters against German raiders overnight "makes one believe that there really is some new technique which can produce such grand results," British broadcast said today. The broadcast, heard in New York by C. B. C., expressed optimism over the record bag and, emphasizing that there is not yet a full moon, predicted that "we may do better still."

Streets Machine-Gunned.

The sky over the Channel was filled with the roaring of motors and the chatter of machine guns and was criss-crossed with vapor trails, recalling the vast daylight fighting of last night.

A Messerschmitt swooped down on a southeast coast town and machine-gunned the streets but then was said to have been chased back across the Channel by R. A. F. fighters. Other raiders were operating in pairs and were air over several south coast districts.

Others Damaged.

The Air Ministry news service said that in addition to the planes reported down last night a number of others were damaged.

Three of the German planes claimed by fighters were destroyed over air fields in Northern France by R. A. F. pilots who awaited returning raiders, the news service said.

Pilots just initiated to night fighting scored their first successes last night. The news service added that "one pilot, who has made a habit of getting two a night, repeated again by shooting down two Heinkel 111s within a few minutes."

Shot Flyer Gets His Man.

An R. A. F. pilot, shot in the hand and forearm by the gunner of the German machine he was attacking, flew down his opponent and then flew safely back to his base, it was said.

Another pilot, describing a long chase, said:
"I went after him for all I was worth and got him after about 40 miles, giving him a long burst with my guns. Although he tried firing at me, the erratic behavior of his machine spoiled the gunner's aim. He was well on fire after my second burst and I circled around and watched him crash."

Informed quarters said the recent successes against German night raiders might be attributed largely to these factors:

1. The R. A. F. is getting more adequate numbers of various types of planes.
2. Defending fighters are always more successful in moonlit nights. Full moon is due Sunday.
3. Raiders are more easily intercepted when they are forced to fly all the way across England to attack western port areas such as Clydebank (Glasgow) and Merseyside (Liverpool).
4. Night pilots are gaining in experience.

Ratio 6 to 1 for Britain.

It was noted that Britain acknowledges only 12 R. A. F. planes have been shot down over Germany or German-occupied territory at night-time this month, compared with 73 Germans claimed, a ratio 6 to 1 in favor of Britain.

Apart from the night raiders, the (See RAIDS, Page A-4).

550,000 Troops to Take Part In Biggest Army Maneuvers

War Games to Be Largest Ever Staged By Any Nation, Gen. Richardson Says

By NELSON M. SHEPARD.
More than 550,000 American soldiers—the greatest mass of military manpower ever put into the field at one time for tactical combat training—will be assembled for the climax of the Army's summer and fall maneuvers, the War Department announced today.

While these men, representing the four United States Armies, are maneuvering in the field for seven weeks more than 800,000 other soldiers will be taking part in the regular scheduled mobilized training.

Maj. Gen. Robert C. Richardson said the war games, which will reach a climax in September when two field armies oppose each other in Louisiana, would be "the largest I ever heard of."

Gen. Richardson, War Department spokesman, said the European peace-time military maneuvers usually involved only from 100,000 to 200,000 men in any one exercise.

Two-Hour Night Raid On Suez Canal Zone Reported by British

'Some Damage' to Railway Property Announced, With No Casualties

By the Associated Press.
CAIRO, Egypt, May 8.—The Suez Canal zone was raided for two hours last night, the British announced today.

Official sources reported "some damage" to Egyptian state railway property, but said there were no casualties. Anti-aircraft guns opened the raiders.

Positions Near Tobruk Taken, Italians Say

ROME, May 8 (AP).—The Italian high command announced today that Axis forces had captured important positions before the besieged British stronghold of Tobruk in Libya.

It said Italian troops also had inflicted heavy losses on the British in a fierce three-day battle in the Galla Sidamo area of Western Ethiopia.

Axis air offensives in the Mediterranean were again being underscored by the war bulletin, including raids Tuesday night and last night by German formations on the British island base of Malta and continued bombardment of Tobruk.

"Important enemy positions before Tobruk have been occupied," the high command said without details.

British sources at Cairo reported Tuesday that a series of Axis drives against Tobruk had resulted in only a slight penetration along a 2,000-yard front along the outer defense line and that new British works had been thrown up there.

'Heavy, Successful Raids' Are Reported by British

CAIRO, Egypt, May 8 (AP).—"Heavy and successful raids" against Bengasi and the axis-held airbases at Berka, Benina and Derna, repeated targets for the R. A. F. since German and Italian forces launched their counter-offensive eastward into Egypt, were reported today in a British communique.

At Bengasi bombs were said to have hit the central breakerwater and to have struck near ships.

Direct hits on two merchant ships were claimed in an attack on an Axis Mediterranean convoy.

In Ethiopia, the communique said, British forces were drawing closer to Amba Alaji, the last Italian stronghold on the Addis Ababa-Asmara road, and had captured additional prisoners.

President Works on Mail While Convalescing

President Roosevelt remained in his White House bedroom study today, continuing his convalescence from a stomach disorder while working at his mail.

Harry L. Hopkins, director of the lease-lend program, was to confer with him and White House spokesmen said the President would be in touch with other aides by telephone.

Stricken with his ailment on Tuesday, the Chief Executive was said to still be running a fraction of a degree of temperature although definitely improving. Stephen T. Early, press relations secretary, said that Dr. Ross T. McIntire, the President's physician, had ordered his patient to stay in his room "despite the usual complaining by one who has recovered from an illness."

Mr. Early said the President has not yet started work on a speech scheduled for next Wednesday night before a Pan-American meeting. The address has been heralded as likely to be a major administration pronouncement.

Dies Says Peace Group Helps Men Evade Draft

By the Associated Press.
GAINESVILLE, Tex., May 8.—Representative Dies, Democrat, of Texas last night charged in a speech that an organization to help young men evade the draft was operating in New York, Chicago and other large American cities.

Representative Dies, who is campaigning for the Senate seat left vacant by the death of Morris Sheppard, said the American Peace Mobilization was gaining thousands of recruits in the East.

It is advising young men how to evade the draft, he said, and "is seeking jobs in aircraft and other defense industries for its members and spreading Nazi propaganda designed to impede the defense program and undermine the morale of conscripts."

Only 'Reported' Sinkings Listed, Land Stresses

Senators Told Loss Of Ships From U. S. Probably Greater

By J. A. O'LEARY.
Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, emphasized before the Senate Commerce Committee today that he based his statement on "reported" sinkings and not on official information from belligerents when he wrote Senator Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan that only eight ships had been sunk out of a total of 205 which left United States ports for England in the first three months of this year.

After the committee had heard him in executive session, Chairman Bailey said: "The admiral stated his letter had been misinterpreted. He was not complaining of the press, but wished emphasis placed on the fact that his letter dealt with ships reported sunk. He suspected there were more, not reported."

According to Chairman Bailey and Senator Pepper, Democrat, of Florida the admiral also concurred in the estimate that recently the overall shipping losses on the seven seas has been at a rate of 100,000 tons a week, or about 5,000,000 tons a year.

Ship Seizure Bill Delayed.

It was emphasized that the overall sinkings present an entirely different picture from that suggested yesterday by Senator Vandenberg.

When he disclosed figures in a letter from Admiral Land on sinkings of ships carrying lease-lend aid from the United States to England.

Meanwhile, the committee put off action until Monday on the alien ship purchase bill, which passed the House by a substantial majority yesterday.

A move began to take shape in the Senate today in isolationist sources, to amend the measure to prohibit this Government from transferring to England any of the foreign ships that may be acquired.

Even if such an amendment should be adopted, the foreign ships in American ports could be taken over for use in American trade, and existing American ships made available for use by Great Britain in keeping the lease-lend aid flowing.

Not From Official Sources.

Senator Bailey quoted Admiral Land as explaining the figures he gave Senator Vandenberg were not from the official sources of other countries, but from newspapers and other available sources.

"He was not going back on his report," Senator Bailey added, "but said he would stand on it."

A decision apparently has yet to be reached on how the order numbers of the July registrants will be incorporated in the existing list of numbers assigned after the selective service lottery last October. Whatever the method, the belief was that it would not hinder plans for drawing the newly-registered pool of additional man power almost immediately.

Now that the initial group of selectees have been inducted to provide cadres of more mature men around which to build up the new Army, it was learned that the War Department officials are considering shifting the emphasis to younger men.

One plan reported under consideration would be for the War Department to advise selective service headquarters officially that hereafter it would take no men above a certain age. Some authorities were understood to favor 30 as the top age limit, while others prefer it as low as 26 years.

No Amendment Needed.

At selective service headquarters it was said that it would not be necessary to amend the law because it already permits this kind of selection by age groups, provided it is officially requested by the War Department or the President.

The advantage of using younger men, according to some of the officials, is that it would give the Army selectees with longer futures of military usefulness and at the same time interfere less with the man power supplies of essential defense industries.

In this connection it was learned that selective service officials have been in conference with officials of the Office of Production Management over means of avoiding Army induction for men whose skills are needed in the manufacture of guns, tanks, planes and other defense equipment.

Reassures Trial Judges.

Mr. Jackson asked that the trial judge be assured that the department has "no thought of encroaching on the discretion permitted by the law to his own judgment, but we recognize that he would desire to be informed of all the considerations involved in these cases and to have before him the recommendations of the Government in a difficult international situation."

Immediately after dispatching the telegram to North Carolina the department prepared to send similar instructions to Jacksonville, Fla., where 60 convictions were returned today.

The Attorney General told Mr. Rouse the department is seeking to prosecute only individuals actually participating in Axis sabotage and officers in responsible positions.

"Our action against German or Italian seamen has not proceeded upon any theory of constructive guilt because of mere membership in the crews or presence upon the ships," he continued. "Hence, each convicted defendant is found personally guilty of a serious violation of a law enacted many years ago and which is well known to the shipping world."

Cites 'Larger Offense.'

The Attorney General added in this connection that it is recognized, "of course, that the guilt of these individuals is included in a larger offense against American sovereignty by the foreign government which they represent."

"We must also recognize that such larger offense is not justifiable in our courts. In the absence of amends, or offers through diplomatic channels to amend, the vindication of our laws must rest upon the penalties exacted of those who did act within our jurisdiction."

Something more than 200 seamen are believed to be involved in the sabotage charges throughout the country.

Only 'Reported' Sinkings Listed, Land Stresses

By J. A. O'LEARY.
Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, emphasized before the Senate Commerce Committee today that he based his statement on "reported" sinkings and not on official information from belligerents when he wrote Senator Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan that only eight ships had been sunk out of a total of 205 which left United States ports for England in the first three months of this year.

After the committee had heard him in executive session, Chairman Bailey said: "The admiral stated his letter had been misinterpreted. He was not complaining of the press, but wished emphasis placed on the fact that his letter dealt with ships reported sunk. He suspected there were more, not reported."

According to Chairman Bailey and Senator Pepper, Democrat, of Florida the admiral also concurred in the estimate that recently the overall shipping losses on the seven seas has been at a rate of 100,000 tons a week, or about 5,000,000 tons a year.

Jackson Requests Uniform Sentences In Sabotage Cases

Attorney General Favors Seven Years for Officers, Five for Guilty Seamen

By J. A. FOX.

In an unusual move Attorney General Jackson today recommended that Federal courts assess uniform prison sentences on foreign seamen found guilty of sabotaging their vessels, recommending seven years for "responsible officers" and five years for seamen.

"We do not consider fines to be appropriate," Attorney General Jackson said in a telegram to Charles Rouse, assistant United States attorney at Wilson, N. C., where 10 of the officers and crew of the damaged Italian steamer Valparaiso were convicted yesterday.

Similar telegrams are to be sent to other Federal jurisdictions where German and Italian seamen are under charges as soon as cases have reached the sentence stage, it was said at the department. Officials believed the proposal for uniform sentences over such a wide area was probably without precedent in Federal criminal law enforcement.

Seeks to Avoid Discrimination.

In the telegram to Mr. Rouse, Mr. Jackson gave this explanation for the unusual steps the department is taking:

"While these offenses are individual, the group of cases pending in different districts are substantially uniform. If the effect of sentences should be to discriminate between Italian nationals and the German nationals or between nationals of any one government in similar situations, it would be pretty certain to be misunderstood in countries not familiar with our separation of executive from judicial powers."

"It is probably impracticable for these cases are pending to confer, and hence, in an effort to avoid any unintended discriminations resulting from different actions in the several districts, this department respectfully desires to make recommendations as to sentences in these cases. It is our recommendation that the responsible officers in each group be sentenced to imprisonment for a period of seven years, and that the seamen be sentenced for a period of five years. We do not consider fines to be appropriate."

The maximum sentence is 20 years, and $10,000 fine.

Steel Rationing Foreseen.

Before acting finally on the bill, the committee struck out a provision which would have authorized the Navy to replace overage warships with combat vessels of any type deemed necessary by the President. Current law requires that overage ships be replaced by vessels of the same type—that is, battleships for battleships.

During his appearance, Admiral Robinson told the committee that some sort of rationing of steel supply probably would be necessary soon, because "there isn't enough steel for everything that's going on in this country."

In that connection, he told Representative Izac, Democrat, of California that construction of wooden ships would not solve the problem.

Plainclothes Guards Sought.

After a brief private session with Secretary Knox, the committee unanimously recommended legislation to authorize creation of a small, plainclothes police force to protect navy yards and shore establishments from sabotage.

Mr. Knox said there were approximately 7,000 marines now doing police duty for the Navy and, as a result of the tremendous expansion of navy shore facilities, he expected demands for an additional 7,000 marines, but told reporters he hoped the new police force would largely offset that need.

Italian Sentenced; Took Notes From 'Enemy Radio'

By the Associated Press.
ROME, May 8.—A special tribunal today sentenced Luigi Ciollaro, convicted of political defeatism in writing a letter signed by "a high military authority" to nine years' imprisonment with a year of detention in an asylum. The court found Ciollaro was mentally deficient.

A confederate, Umberto Nencioni, was convicted of composing the letter from notes taken from "the enemy radio," and he was sentenced to six years and six months' imprisonment.

An announcement said 12 others "more or less active in distributing false documents" were sentenced to terms varying from 40 months to 5 years.

House Unit Approves Bill to Construct 58 Ships for Navy

Auxiliary Authorizations More Than Doubled on Request of Admiral Stark

By the Associated Press.
The House Naval Affairs Committee today recommended legislation to authorize the Navy to acquire 58 additional fleet auxiliary vessels at a cost of approximately $350,000,000.

The bill represented an increase of 33 ships beyond what the Navy requested when the legislation was introduced early in March.

Rear Admiral Samuel M. Robinson, chief of the Bureau of Ships, testified he had been instructed by Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, to ask that the measure be amended to authorize acquisition of 50,000 tons of additional auxiliaries instead of the 200,000 tons originally requested. Admiral Robinson said rapid developments which could not be foreseen necessitated the increase.

Needed for U. S. Navy's Use.

In response to questions, Admiral Robinson said the vessels had nothing to do with the British aid program and all were needed for the Navy's own use. The Navy wants the ships by August 1.

Representative Maas, Republican, of Minnesota, necessary by the President, wanted to know whether any of the idle foreign vessels, seizure of which the House authorized yesterday, would be included in the 58 ships sought by the Navy, but Admiral Robinson said he did not know whether the Navy would get any of the foreign ships.

The total cost of acquisition or construction of the additional auxiliaries, Admiral Robinson said, would include funds to arm the ships and to install gear to protect them from magnetic mines.

Steel Rationing Foreseen.

Before acting finally on the bill, the committee struck out a provision which would have authorized the Navy to replace overage warships with combat vessels of any type deemed necessary by the President. Current law requires that overage ships be replaced by vessels of the same type—that is, battleships for battleships.

Burko Tells Court He Refused to 'Talk' Against Newman

Was Asked to Put Right Word to Escape Being Indicted, He Testifies

By the Associated Press.
Emphasizing his loyalty to Police Court Judge Hobart Newman, Joseph R. Burko, dismissed Police Court clerk, today testified in District Court, where he is charged with conspiracy to commit embezzlement, larceny and forgery of court records, that he had repeatedly refused suggestions that he "put the right word in the right place" in order to escape indictment.

The suggestions had been put to him several times by Detective Sgt. Joseph W. Shimon, attached to the United States attorney's office, the defendant said.

Mr. Burko testified he had told the detective sergeant he would not say anything against Judge Newman, nor would he plead guilty to the charges against him, "because I am not guilty."

Curran, Casey Called.

United States Attorney Edward M. Curran, former Police Court Judge, Police Court Judges Walter J. Casey, who the defendant said, sought to embarrass Judge Newman; John P. McMahon and George D. Nelson were subpoenaed by the defense to appear this afternoon to testify.

Telling a jury of 11 men and one woman that he had talked to Sgt. Shimon 10 or 15 times, the defendant said "I was told that charges would be made unless I did certain things. After I was dismissed, I was warned that if I told the district attorney everything to be said, if there was anything to be said about Judge Newman, no presentation would be made to the grand jury."

"How many times were you told that?" asked Defense Counsel James J. Laughlin.

"About six times," Mr. Burko replied.

Defense counsel told the court that prosecution was not in good faith.

"Mr. Burko," explained his counsel, "had incurred the ill will of Judge Casey, who was continually after him to embarrass Judge Newman."

Sullivan Says He Split Fines.

Attempts, however, by defense counsel to subpoena Mr. Burko's testimony to substantiate this alleged "ill will" was ruled out upon objection of Assistant United States Attorney Allen J. Krouse.

James E. Sullivan, former Police Court bailiff, indicted with Mr. Burko, who pleaded guilty, testified yesterday that he and Mr. Burko split fines in traffic cases, the court records showing "sentence suspended" and personal bonds taken. On cross examination by Mr. Laughlin, Mr. Sullivan denied that he was promised anything by anybody.

Randolph Pleads in House For Overton District Bill

A special appeal was made to House members today by Chairman Randolph of the House District Committee to be on the floor Monday when the Overton bill containing a formula for fixing the amount of the annual Federal payment toward municipal expenses here is to be called up for consideration.

"This is a matter of extreme importance," he declared, "and I trust the members will attend."

Mr. Randolph made his plea in a 1-minute speech. He pointed out that usually on District day in the House, the attendance is not very large because members regard most of the local legislation as relatively unimportant.

"The Overton bill," he declared, is "extremely important."

Mr. Randolph also told the House that the Overton bill was passed by the Senate a month ago without a dissenting vote and that it had been approved by the House District Committee after serious consideration.

MARSEILLE, France, May 8.—About 1,100 refugees were rounded up and held aboard the French liner Massilia today as police announced the launching of a drive to send all unemployed male aliens to labor camps.

The police announcement of the roundup said "a certain number" of jobless foreigners already were aboard the Massilia for "medical examination" preliminary to their assignment to labor groups.

It was explained, permits holding of foreigners in camps "for as long as the circumstances require," but specifies they have the right to emigrate.

Informed sources said many of the refugees already had French exit and foreign emigration visas.

It was announced in Vichy today that the May Day amnesty for certain classes of offenders had brought liberation to 500 "administrative internees" and paroles to 31 others.

Racing News

ROSSWAS'S COMMENT. FIRST RACE—SPIN ON, SUMMER STOCK, CROSS VINE. SPIN ON has threatened to win several of her recent outings and she has good chance as anything else in the wide-open first number. SUMMER STOCK was in front most of the way in her last and this distance is a bit shorter. CROSS VINE is quite consistent and she has worked well.

SECOND RACE—GINOBI, MAROC, RING UP. GINOBI won his lone Bowie test with much speed in reserve and he has worked well since that time, indicating that he retains his keen edge. MAROC has disappointed of late, but the Stung gelding is expected to accord a corking chance. RING UP scored at Bowie and he may be in the picture.

THIRD RACE—FIRE LIGHT, LONE GALLANT, DON ROBERTO. FIRE LIGHT just failed to cop his first 1941 attempt and right off the form he displayed that afternoon he has to be selected to capture the honors here. LONE GALLANT wins quite often over the jumps and he has a good chance to be right there. DON ROBERTO to take care of the others.

FOURTH RACE—MAD BUNNY, PETES BET, STEEL BEAM. MAD BUNNY scored at Havre de Grace and she was closed up in her only Pimlico attempt. She counters a tough band here but may be able to master them. PETES BET has been closed up in all recent outings and he should be right there at the wire.

FIFTH RACE—REHEARSAL, WATER CRACKER, BALLOON. REHEARSAL won her last with ease in right fast running time. If she will show the same sort of speed tomorrow the issue should not long remain in doubt. WATER CRACKER appears to have raced and worked into the pink of condition. BALLOON just failed to win his last and he is a threat.

SIXTH RACE—BLACK RAIDER, AIR CURRENT, JOE RAY. BLACK RAIDER comes to Pimlico boasting a string of four straight victories. The Miami Way Farms colt has been speed and a good chance of continuing his winnings. AIR CURRENT copped at Keeneland and at Pim-

Move to Speed Pay Bill For Police, Firemen Halted

Chairman Randolph of the House District Committee today halted a bill being conducted among the 21 members in an effort to rush to the House calendar a bill to increase the salaries of police and firemen.

Through the bill, it was hoped to get a sufficient number of votes to report the bill to the House so it could be considered Monday, the first District day of the month.

Representative Randolph said he did not believe an effort should be made to "railroad" the measure to the House calendar, especially at this time when District finances are at a low ebb because of the rapid expansion of the city resulting from the influx of defense workers.

Mr. Randolph plans to have the committee consider the subcommittee's favorable report on the bill at the regular weekly meeting of the committee Monday.

Court Grants Service Trio Delay From Creditors

Three Washingtonians called to service in the armed forces were given relief today from suits brought by their creditors until three months after they have returned to civilian life, in decisions made by Judge Nathan Cayton in Municipal Court.

It was believed to be the first such judgment made in the court since enactment of the Soldiers and Sailors' Relief Act of 1940. The cases involved a sailor and two soldiers.

The sailor, Robert W. Zveare, was sued for $205, the amount he still owed on a repossessed automobile and $30 in attorney's fees.

Young Mother Is Slain; Baby Placed in Her Arms

By the Associated Press. SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., May 8.—A young mother was killed and her house guest critically wounded in the desert near Cajon Pass today by a man who placed the slain woman's baby in her arms before fleeing.

Mrs. Jean Wells, 20, of San Bernardino was slain. Rose Drestree, 17, of Escondido, wounded, crawled to a highway and attracted motorists. She was taken to a hospital for an emergency operation. Mrs. Wells' 13-month-old daughter was rescued by officers.

Mrs. Wells' husband, Ray, was missing. Officers feared he might have been harmed. Undersheriff J. W. Stocker made a statewide police broadcast asking for arrest of Mrs. Wells' brother-in-law, Alfred Wells, 30.

Undersheriff Stocker said Miss Drestree told this story: Mr. Wells, angry that his half-sister, Violet, had left his home, went to Mrs. Jean Wells' house about midnight. He demanded that she and Miss Drestree help him find Violet.

Then, Undersheriff Stocker quoted Miss Drestree as saying: Mrs. Jean Wells, shot Miss Drestree, placed the baby in its mother's arms and left, believing Miss Drestree also was dead.

Police found Violet Wells at Escondido, where she had gone to live with her mother, Mrs. Violet Davis, who also is the mother of Alfred and Ray Wells.

British to Conscript Seamen to Serve Fleet

By the Associated Press. LONDON, May 8.—A broad plan of conscription for Britain's merchant seamen and others with sailing experience for the British merchant fleet was announced today by the Ministry of Shipping.

The order, which a merchant navy reserve pool of which all present merchant officers and sailors will become members at the expiration of their present employment on ships, starting May 26.

Officers and men discharged from ships since April 28 must register the pool automatically and be ordered to report to mercantile marine offices.

To supplement these, all persons other than fishermen between the ages of 18 and 60 who have served at sea since January 1, 1936, but are not now serving, must register in the week starting May 26. Men in this group who are unemployed or whose work would be more useful to the merchant navy than ashore will be potential members of the pool.

Periods of leave between voyages and compensation for members of the pool during the periods they are awaiting assignment to ships are provided by the plan.

Baron Leathers, Britain's new Minister of Transport and Shipping, told a press conference the merchant navy would be managed by the Shipping Federation with co-operation of the officers and men's societies in setting the duties to which pool members will be assigned.

He said the plan safeguards "the interests of all sides." May Enters Hospital. Chairman May of the House Military Affairs Committee is in Walter Reed Hospital for a "periodic check-up," but expects to return to his desk early next week, his office said today. He entered the hospital Tuesday.

G. W. Voters Stamped to Foil Campus Ballot Box 'Stuffing'

An alert Elections Committee at George Washington University today adopted a plan of stamping voters with indelible ink to prevent "stuffing" the ballot box in a campus election.

The polls were opened at 9 a. m. in the student club and the medical school and about 1,000 students were expected to vote for members of the student council and senior class officers.

A previously-announced plan to mark voters with silver nitrate reportedly found through campus politicians found chemists who advised them how silver nitrate might be removed.

Plight of France Offers Hitler Hope for Its Final Conquest

Tightening of Rule and Food Shortage Lead to Expectation of Swift Action

(Fourth of a Series.) By JOHN T. WHITAKER. Foreign Correspondent of The Star and Chicago Daily News.

SOMEWHERE IN EUROPE.—The situation in French North Africa, the sudden tightening of police measures through the Vichy zone and the shortage of food, no less than Admiral Darlan's tendency to force fleet co-operation with Germany, offer Hitler the hope of swift action for the final conquest of France and the completion of the "new Europe."

French North Africa has been an enigma to most observers. The German and Italian armistice commissions there have not carried through the disarmament of the French forces, and indeed Gen. Weygand's army has been expanded somewhat so that some estimate that it totals 360,000 men, though the most reliable estimate is 100,000.

There were many rumors through the winter from Casablanca and Oran that Marshal Petain was quoted as having said to Gen. Weygand, "you will know how to act. With or without orders from me you will know that your duty is as an officer of France."

Germany Undismayed. The Germans seemed undismayed by these reports that Led London and Washington to count on the possibility at least that Gen. Weygand would swing his army over to Gen. De Gaulle's "Free France." Marshal Petain and Gen. Weygand would defend the empire in its integrity against any power that threatened its violation. The Germans had no intention during the winter of threatening Morocco, they so informed Marshal Petain and Gen. Weygand.

The Germans must have been vexed when Gen. Weygand destroyed Gen. Graziani's Libyan army, marched steadily across Cyrenaica and threatened to continue undisturbed to the Libyan-Tunisian frontier, where they could have made contact once again with their former French allies. But Greece declared its intention of fighting even in the event of the inevitable German intervention, and the British went on the defensive in Libya, transferring troops from there.

If Gen. Weygand has ever intended to fight against the Germans that was his moment. Four German panzer divisions had not then been transferred to African soil. Africa could have been swept clear of all Italian forces. Spain was neither ready nor willing then to intervene against French Morocco.

Had Only 300-odd Planes. He had only some 300-odd planes, mostly Curtiss-Wrights, based far south near Marrakech, and he lacked every kind of supply, including even ammunition for small arms. But supplies and ammunition were not badly needed for such a move at that moment, and they could have been transported then from America. It is that possible now or in the period when Hitler starts cleaning North Africa and the Western Mediterranean?

Since that critical moment—assuming that Gen. Weygand was ever capable of fighting against the Germans—Hitler has acted quietly but quickly in preparation for the moment when he will take the initiative in that theater. On February 6 five Dornier transport planes flew into Casablanca with German officers and soldiers. Until that date civilian control and port authority had been in charge.

Acute Food Problem. Trustworthy figures will suffice on wheat, meat, sugar and fats. He 1940 wheat crop was under 40,000,000 quintals, as against 71,000,000 for 1939, and against normal French needs of 30,000,000. Less has been sown for this year's crop than for 1940, fertilizers are lacking, there is no gasoline for tractors, binders and the like; livestock has been requisitioned, and there is a complete absence of such things as binder cord, so that wheat cannot be shucked as usual.

In 1940 France had 3,500,000 head of cattle. The Germans have taken more than half, and the rest have had virtually no fodder. The 1940 sugar crop stands at 400,000 tons, as against 950,000 for 1939, with current prospects worse.

Fats come from Africa, but the Germans take virtually all of them, and the French mistakenly sowed oil seeds, counting on the Germans granting them some importations from Africa. Actually the Germans are in every southern French port, and they confiscate virtually all foodstuffs and fats coming from Africa.

student expressed the belief there were "plenty." Haley Scurluck is chairman of the group trying to eliminate illegal balloting. The two competing parties are the Reform and Service organizations. New Direct Hits Made On Battleships at Brest, British Say

St. Nazaire Sub Base and Docks at Bremen Also Reported Raided

By the Associated Press. LONDON, May 8.—British air raiders made direct hits on the battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau with heavy armor-piercing bombs in an attack on the German naval base at Brest last night, the Air Ministry announced today.

Later the Ministry's news service said a "large and brilliant explosion" resulted when a very heavy bomb hit the forepart of the Scharnhorst and another equally heavy bomb was seen to burst immediately forward of the Gneisenau's funnel.

Attacks also were made, a communiqué said, on the Nazi submarine base at St. Nazaire, docks at Bremen, oil refineries at the mouth of the Loire River and docks and shipping at Bergen, Norway.

The British acknowledged that two planes were missing from the night's operations. Tell of Giant Fires. The Air Ministry News Service said the first bombs dropped on two large oil refineries and oil storage plants at the mouth of the Loire River, reported to have been the following aircraft came in observers saw great fires suddenly appear.

"One by one tall chimneys of the refineries were toppled over. . . . Very soon a wide area was well alight. The countryside, which shortly before had stood out distinctly in the full moonlight, became completely obscured by rolling billows of smoke."

It was the second time this week that the British had claimed direct hits on the two 26,000-ton German vessels, reported to have been sheltering at Brest for more than five weeks.

Numerous hits on quays at which the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau are berthed have been repeatedly reported as the result of earlier raids. Considerable Damage Reported. The attack on Brest, which was described as heavy and it was said that "considerable damage" was done to the naval base itself.

St. Nazaire was heavily bombed and large fires were started, a communiqué said.

Last Year's Winners Take Top Honors At Flower Mart

Hundreds Visit Benefit Sale at Cathedral; Rockville Entry Scores

Hundreds of flower lovers visited Washington Cathedral yesterday, when the third annual flower mart was held for the benefit of the gardens of Cathedral Close. The event is sponsored by the All Hallows Guild.

Both dainty and hardy blossoms, in nearly every color of the rainbow, were displayed in booths, but a simply decorated exhibit featuring only blue and white carried off top honors.

It was the "boutonniers" both, under the chairmanship of Miss Rosalind Wright, who also had the winning exhibit last year. Bachelor's buttons, carnations, lilies of the valley, snapdragons and baby's breath were among its blossoms.

The second prize winner of last year also won that prize this year—the novel "fruits and vegetable" booth of Mrs. Charles Warren. Every point on the compass was represented among the scores of delicacies offered. Olives from California, honey from Texas, baskets filled with ingredients for real New Orleans gumbo, Chinese oranges and Guatemalan pineapples were a few of the items.

Third prize was taken by the Community Garden Club of Rockville, Md., which entered a booth for the first time. It featured potted plants, evergreens and flowering shrubs. It was under the chairmanship of Mrs. Phillip A. Frear.

Honorable mention went to a candy booth that was arranged in the color scheme of red and white peppermint, a sweet that was featured along with other bought and homemade varieties. Mrs. Elbridge Durbrow was in charge.

The Board of Judges was composed of Mrs. John H. Gibbons, chairman; Mrs. Nellie B. Allen, New York; Miss Cary Millholland, and F. B. Hoffman.

Other booths offered gardens for gardeners and one attractive stand had California coral and shells to be used in flower arrangements. A buffet lunch was served.

General chairman was Mrs. Lewis Clark. Garden clubs of the District and nearby area co-operated.

Unalarmed Nudists Stare Back As R. A. F. Flyers Locate Camp

By EDDY GILMORE. Associated Press Foreign Correspondent.

GREEN HILLS, HERTFORDSHIRE, England, May 8.—Britain's biggest nudist camp has faced the fact that modern war is in the air—and now trades stare for stare with R. A. F. pilots who conduct low-altitude reconnaissance flights over the camp.

"They seem to be over the camp a great deal," said the proprietor, his black beard streaming in the cold May wind, "but I expect they'll get used to us as we're getting used to them."

At first the nudists, who sprawled on the greensward within the woodland camp, thought of hot-footing it for the bushes whenever inquisitive flyers swooped over.

"But, everything in life being relative," the proprietor philosophized, "we adjusted ourselves. Nowadays, we just look up at them as they look down at the R. A. F. patrols long to spot the 10-acre park which is dedicated to the absorption of sunshine and fresh air in the altogether."

Plane and Gun Mount Output Threatened By Labor Disputes

Strike Ties Up La Porte Factory of Allis-Chalmers; Hudson Walkout Feared

By the Associated Press. Delivery dates on $15,000,000 worth of plane parts and anti-aircraft gun mounts were made uncertain today by a strike at the Allis-Chalmers factory at La Porte, Ind., and a threatened walkout at the Hudson Motor Car Co., Detroit.

Nearly all the 950 employees of the Indiana concern struck yesterday, calling for union security, wage increases and "a more substantial contract." Neither union nor company officials disclosed the present wage scale or the increases sought.

The plant has $5,000,000 in defense orders and has been making gun mounts. The Hudson factory at Detroit has been working on $10,000,000 worth of airplane parts and in addition is building a $20,000,000 naval ordnance plant. In filing official notice of intention to strike, the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers announced they were seeking a wage increase of 15 cents an hour for 8,500 hourly-rated employees. The existing scale was not disclosed.

Ordered "Cooling Off Periods." In several previous cases involving threatened strikes in defense industries, the Michigan State Mediation Board has ordered 30-day cooling off periods while mediators sought to adjust differences.

The National Mediation Board, here, currently seeking to avert a threatened strike against General Motors Corp., got a new assignment—a wage dispute at the Bendix

Small Nations Using U. S. to Store Gold, Morgenthau Says

Extension of President's Money Power Asked as Weapon for Defense

By the Associated Press. Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, urging extension of President Roosevelt's monetary powers and the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund as "potent weapons of defense," said today that small countries around the globe were buying gold and storing it in the United States.

The Secretary added an assurance to the House Coinage Committee that "obviously the administration has no present intent whatsoever to devalue the gold content of the dollar."

"But this power, and the stabilization fund, he said, had proved their value "during years of unparalleled crisis in international trade and finance."

"Now we are going forward into time of even greater peril," Mr. Morgenthau told the committee behind closed doors.

In discussing gold, Mr. Morgenthau said that not counting countries such as England, which have sent their own gold for storage here, 18 other countries have bought $380,000,000 of gold from the Treasury stabilization fund since the war began. They include such nations as Afghanistan, Netherlands Indies and Uruguay. Brazil was identified as another, but no further details were given.

Altogether, foreign gold deposited in the Federal Reserve banks in the United States aggregated $1,916,919,943 on April 30.

Unless extended by Congress, the stabilization fund and revaluation powers will expire June 30, Mr. Morgenthau said.

"But certainly this is not the time to remove flexible powers for the executive when the executives of all other nations possess virtually complete powers over the domestic and external monetary affairs of their countries."

Sailing of Yugoslav Ships Resumed After Checkup

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, May 8.—Sailing of Yugoslav ships from American ports was resumed yesterday after a two-day interruption caused by Coast Guard "checkups" of vessels of that nationality in American harbors.

Ivan Ivanovich, treasurer of Combined Argosies, Inc., which operates a number of Yugoslav ships, said normal operations would be resumed and the Coast Guard reported that vessels obtaining clearance papers would be permitted to sail.

On Monday when the Coast Guard inspected the ships it was denied they were being seized, as Axis and Danish vessels had been earlier. Washington sources said the check-up was to determine the attitude of the crews toward King Peter and Great Britain.

Regular air service now connects Shanghai, China, and Japan.

Hearings Ended, D. C. Awaits Verdict on Representation

Lesh Tells Subcommittee Of Unity in Desire to Participate in Government

Washington's plea for national representation and for a greater degree of local self-government today awaited the verdict of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee, which brought comprehensive hearings on the subject to a close late yesterday.

Summarizing the case for the Citizens' Joint Committee on National Representation, Paul E. Lesh stressed that Washington, speaking through its principal organizations, is united in the desire to participate in the National Government, with representation in the House and Senate and the right to vote in presidential elections.

He emphasized at the same time that even in considering the separate question of a voice in local municipal affairs there is no desire to have the Nation deprive itself of the ultimate control Congress possesses over the seat of National Government.

Digest to Be Compiled. Chairman McCarran, Democrat of Nevada, who presided at the hearings, said his first step would be to have a digest made of the lengthy record before calling an executive session of the subcommittee to deliberate on the action it will take.

Meanwhile, Wilbur S. Finch was given until tomorrow to file a supplementary brief on behalf of the Federation of Citizens' Associations for inclusion in the printed hearings.

Answering the arguments most frequently advanced by opponents of the movement, Mr. Lesh denied that the size of the colored population constitutes a fair or valid reason for withholding the ballot and gave figures to refute the claim that most of the adults in Washington have a voting status in the States.

In the closing hours of the hearings, the subcommittee also heard Sidney Katz place the Maryland-District of Columbia Industrial Union Council, a C. I. O. organization, on record as being "four-square" for full and complete suffrage.

He said he favored national representation, but regarded local self-government as even more essential.

The subcommittee also heard several individuals on both sides of the question. Frederick D. Shafer testified he wanted some voice not only in District affairs, but in the National Government.

Opposition Voiced. Opposition to suffrage was registered by Mrs. B. G. McIlwain, a resident of Manor Park, and by Herb Sharp, who said he came to Washington eight years ago from Spokane.

David Whitley, also speaking as an individual, suggested as an alternative plan, that Washingtonians be permitted to vote as Marylanders for members of the House and Senate, and contended Congress would have the power to pass such legislation.

As originally introduced, the pending Copper-Summers constitutional amendment resolution is two-fold in purpose—to authorize Congress to grant national representation and to authorize it also to delegate to a local government "any or all" of its powers over the seat of government.

Several times during the hearings, however, committee members have questioned the use of such broad language in referring to the delegation of congressional power, and some of the leading advocates of local suffrage have signified a willingness to have the local self-government feature eliminated from the proposed constitutional amendment because they believe Congress already has power to set up a system of home rule.

Early in the hearings Representative Sumners, Democrat of Texas, co-author of the resolution, shared the view that Congress now has power to give the District any form of local government it could establish in a territory, like Alaska.

Drafted for United Front. Mr. Lesh explained yesterday that the two phases of the suffrage question were joined in the pending resolution in order to enable the city to present a united front. As official spokesman for the Citizens' Joint Committee, Mr. Lesh said, he could only say that the many city-wide organizations working with the Joint Committee had endorsed the resolution in its present form.

He pointed out, however, that Mr. Finch, representing the District of Columbia Suffrage Association—leading advocate of local self-government—had filed a "very statesmanlike statement" with the Senate group, setting forth its contention that Congress already has power to deal with local self-government and declaring its willingness to have that question deleted from the constitutional amendment if it would en-

How D. C. Outranks 12 States in 'Voters'

Table comparing 1940 population, over 21, and over 65 in District of Columbia and 12 states. DC has 150,000 over 21 and 33,556 over 65, exceeding 12 states.

Paul E. Lesh of the Citizens' Joint Committee on National Representation submitted the foregoing tabulation of voting populations of 12 States and the District of Columbia, actual for 1930, and estimated for 1940, at the Senate hearing yesterday.

The table shows that, before deducting the absentee vote here, Washington's potential voting population exceeds each of the 12.

It shows that even using the high estimate of 125,000 as the number of District residents who may have voted elsewhere last November, Washington still had more potential voters, who remain voteless, than the voting populations of 11 States. The figures in the first three columns are actual 1930 census returns. Since the 1940 census figures in column 4 are not yet available in age groups, Mr. Lesh applied the 1930 percentages of those 21 years and over to the 1940 total returns.

He testified that he used the high estimate of 125,000 absentee voters in Washington in 1940 in order that his final results could not be questioned. Experience in estimating the absentee vote in the 1936 election indicated, he said, there were not more than 50,000 at that time for both major parties, from whom the Government gets full value in services rendered. If such an employe works the greater part of his life in a department in Washington, it would be more in keeping with American principles to let him vote here than to have him continue to vote in a distant State in which he has not lived for years, Mr. Lesh contended.

Referring to the colored population, Mr. Lesh said, "I am willing to trust democracy about the Washington colored folk. Taking them as a whole, they are an intelligent group, fit for citizenship. They are being drafted for military service and they are paying taxes."

To show how voteless Washingtonians are affected by national laws and how they contribute to the upkeep of the National Government, Mr. Lesh cited the District's 1940 Federal internal revenue tax payment of $20,192,784, which exceeded each of 21 of the States, and was as great as the combined payments of seven States.

Defends Referendum Figure. Defending the size of the turnout in favor of both national representation and local suffrage in the unofficial referendum of 1936, which had been minimized by earlier witnesses, Mr. Lesh recalled that more than 87,000 persons voted for national representation and only 6,832 against it. In that referendum, he said, 30 per cent of the adult population turned out to vote on the abstract proposition, although there were no candidates to draw voters to the polling booths. In last year's presidential election, he said, with all of the fanfare of a Nation-wide campaign, and the personalities of the candidates to arouse interest, only 56 per cent of the eligible voters of the country turned out.

Answering the argument that Washington does not need national representation because it consists primarily of Government employes with voting status in the States, Mr. Lesh gave figures to show that, while Government personnel has increased 97 per cent since 1930, the Metropolitan Area of nearby Maryland and Virginia has grown in population by 82 per cent, and that many of the additional Federal workers are residing in those States, where they may vote if they desire.

In further refutation of the claim that most District residents can vote elsewhere, Mr. Lesh gave figures to show that even if the number of absentee voters here is placed at the high level of 125,000, Washington would have had 340,052 voteless adults last November, or more than 11 of the States which have two Senators each and Representatives in proportion to population. (These figures are shown in detail in an accompanying table.)

Scoffs at Bloc Fears. When subcommittee members inquired whether the colored population or the Government employe population might vote as blocs if Washington had suffrage, Mr. Lesh said that was no more of an argument against voting here than it would be in any other place. He insisted, neither group would vote as a bloc, and added:

"If we run the risk of either a colored bloc, or a Government bloc, then other voting districts of the country run the same risk of a textile mill bloc or some other bloc."

Mr. Lesh praised Government employes as a hard-working group

Plan to Boost Taxes On Tobacco Attacked By 300 Growers

Eccles Offers Proposal Affecting Better Paid Wage Earner Group

By the Associated Press. Three hundred tobacco growers jammed the House Ways and Means Committee room today to protest that proposed increases in tobacco taxes would single them out for "unjust" tax treatment.

A spokesman, J. C. Lanier of Greenville, N. C., asked that levies be made on coffee, tea and golf balls before further increases are made in the taxes on cigarettes, manufactured tobacco and cigars. The farmers, he said, would be hardest hit by any new tobacco imposts.

Mr. Lanier, saying that he was a World War veteran, declared that tobacco growers were "100 per cent behind" the defense aid efforts, of which the proposed tobacco tax increases would be a part, but urged that all farmers of all commodities be treated alike.

Eccles Submits Proposal. With the backing of 20 House members from tobacco States, Mr. Lanier urged that Congress reject the Treasury's proposal to boost the cigarette tax to 8 cents per pack of 20 from the present 6 1/2 cents and the doubling of rates on cigars and manufactured tobacco. The cigar taxes range from 75 cents to $13.50 per thousand and the manufactured tobacco levy is 18 cents per pound.

Also before the committee was a plan designed, among other things, to increase the number of income taxpayers in the bitter-paid wage earner group.

Proposed by Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board, the plan would lower exemptions for married couples to $1,500 from the present $2,000 and the credit for dependents to $300 from $400, but would moderate a schedule of new high income surtaxes recommended by the Treasury.

Mr. Eccles and Leon Henderson, price control administrator, endorsed the Treasury's goal of $3,500,000,000 new revenue when they appeared before the committee yesterday, but both took issue with some details of the Treasury program.

Both also asked greater emphasis on the excess profits tax and excise taxes on such durable goods as automobiles, refrigerators and radios.

Both urged that there be no new excises on articles and services not competing for materials and labor with the defense program.

How Plans Compare. The Federal Reserve Board chairman estimated that his income tax program would produce $1,200,000,000 against $1,520,000,000 for the Treasury's, but he recommended that the difference be made up by doubling the Treasury's $400,000,000 goal from the excess profits tax.

The two income tax plans compared: Eccles: Decrease exemption for married couples and dependents, but not the $800 allowance for single persons. Continue the present 4 per cent normal income tax. Levy surtaxes, starting at 4 per cent on the first dollar of taxable income. Disperse with the 10 per cent defense surtax, which boosts the combined total of normal and surtaxes by one-tenth.

Treasury: Continue all present exemptions and the 4 per cent normal tax. Start surtaxes on first dollar of taxable income with an initial rate of 11 per cent. Continue the 10 per cent defense surtax.

Eccles Fears Sales Tax. Thus a childless married couple with $2,000 net income would pay $32 under the Eccles plan. Such a couple pays no income tax now and would pay nothing under the Treasury recommendations.

Other comparisons for such couples: $2,500 net income—$11 now, $70 Eccles, $72 Treasury; $5,000—$110 now, $370 Eccles, $506 Treasury.

Mr. Henderson said the Government should not "go piddling around" with levies on goods and services for mass consumption and on so-called luxury items which are non-competitive with the making of munitions.

"I'd like to see you sock it to them on new and second-hand automobiles, motor equipment, tires, tubes, photographic equipment, phonographs, phonograph records, radios, mechanical refrigerators, motorcycles, clocks, watches, musical instruments and washing machines," Mr. Henderson said.

Every automobile produced next year would be sold, he added, if a straight $100 tax were placed on every new car.

W. C. Hanson Elected Lions Club President. William C. Hanson was elected president of the Washington Lions Club at a dinner meeting last night at the Mayflower Hotel.

Mr. Hanson, who is vice president of the E. G. Schafer Co., succeeds the late R. L. Pollio, president of the club.

Other officers chosen were John M. Waters, first vice president; Walter Frederick, second vice president; R. E. Myers, secretary (re-elected); Vergne W. Potter, treasurer; Arthur Johnson, vice tamer; and T. Zulte Sullivan, tall twister. Elected to the board of directors were George Ward, Elwood Seal, R. R. Chenoweth and Charles H. Ruth.

Young inventors of Japan will hold in Tokyo in September the first of a series of annual exhibitions of inventions by juveniles.

Asked if inflation in the United States would be a problem, Mr. Hanson said, "When a country is at war all sorts of regulations and interference are accepted. We ourselves accept things now that we wouldn't have accepted a few years ago. You've got to take time in a democracy—things have to be done by stages."

Advices Compulsory Savings. He said that Germany had stopped inflation "dead" and that England had "stopped it largely" citing the post office compulsory savings plan as a means of controlling it.

"We will open an account in every man's name and at the end of each year we will advise him how much is in the account," he said, describing the plan. "At the end of the war that money will be unlocked. The blocked savings will not provide, therefore, an inflationary credit base."

U. S. Financial System Doomed if Axis Wins, Prof. Keynes Warns

British Economist Says America Must Guard Against War Inflation

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, May 8.—Prof. John M. Keynes, British economist, said today the financial system of this country and England "could not function as it does now" if the Axis powers won the war.

"Not only would America's normal relationship with Europe's financial system be cut, but in the event of an Axis victory I cannot even imagine normal relations between the United States and South America," he said on his arrival aboard Pan American Airways' Atlantic clipper.

Sent here by Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer, to "talk about some of the operations of the Lease-Lend Act" with United States Treasury and financial officials, the British economist said the possibility of inflation in this country—provided the war lasted another two years or more—would have to be watched "carefully."

"The United States has got a more important job than we," he continued. "When a country is at war all sorts of regulations and interference are accepted. We ourselves accept things now that we wouldn't have accepted a few years ago. You've got to take time in a democracy—things have to be done by stages."

States could be regulated similarly, he said.

"I have no doubt if it. It's a thing you must do."

Among the 33 passengers were Lt. Comdr Paul Pihl, brother-in-law of Wendell L. Wilkie, and Pierre Claudel, son of the former French Ambassador to Washington.

Comdr. Pihl, who spent the last 32 months as the assistant naval attaché for air in the United States Embassy in Berlin, declined to comment on his assignment, beyond saying that he had been in Finland during the war there. He said he would go directly to Washington.

Claudel, a non-commissioned officer in the 8th French Army, said he had been captured by German forces two days after the armistice at a Maginot Line sector and held in a prison camp until January. Then he was freed because of services as an interpreter.

American Woman Listed As Ship Casualty. OSLO, Norway (Via Berlin) May 8.—A 21-year-old American woman, about whom authorities here had little information, was listed today as dead in the battle of the Atlantic.

Officials registered as "lost with all hands" the Norwegian motorship Borogstad, 6,750 tons, unheard from since September 4, 1940, on which the woman sailed soon after her marriage to the first mate, Harold Nergaard. Her family name was said to be Norma.

Latin Americans Hear Hull Warn of Common Danger to Countries

Wallace Also Speaks To Naval Chiefs of Staff of 11 Nations

All the Americas "have a common objective in resisting a common danger," Secretary of State Hull today told a group of naval chiefs of staff from all Latin American countries.

The visiting naval officers, who arrived in Washington yesterday for a five-day inspection tour of naval establishments in this area, were welcomed by Secretary Hull with a brief address when they paid him a courtesy call at the State Department.

Recalling that for many years he has emphasized that any threat to the safety of any one of the 21 American republics "was a threat to the safety of all of them," Mr. Hull said:

"For some years that was minimized by many statesmen and even Army and Navy men, but new developments of an unprecedented nature which signified a world-wide movement of conquest, have brought sharply to each the actual threat of danger not only to one but to all of the American republics."

Greeted by Wallace. Vice President Wallace, speaking in Spanish, greeted the officers on the east lawn of the Capitol Park. He told the officers he had observed that the culture of the Southern American republics like the culture of North America "made reference to the fundamental postulate of the dignity of the human being and the role he must take in a civilized regime."

Mr. Wallace said that the rights of man served as a "bulwark" against "perfidious dictatorial Nazi-ism."

The Latin American officers, who also were received by Undersecretary of State Welles during their visit to the State Department, generally agreed in interviews following their arrival in Washington that this country's hemispheric defense efforts are drawing all the American nations closer together. Several told of plans to expand their fleets with United States co-operation.

Comdr. Ramon Diaz Benza, director general of the Paraguayan navy, said his nation expected to build 10 to 15 light warships and 25 merchantmen with United States help. He said materials would be purchased in this country and the ships built in Paraguay when money is made available. The Paraguayan navy at present has six gunboats and, according to Comdr. Benza, these will be placed on the neutrality patrol if needed.

Argentine May Double Its Navy. Vice Admiral Jose Guisasaia at a press conference yesterday in the Shoreham Hotel said Argentina hopes to double the size of its navy at a cost of $200,000,000. The appropriation bill, he said, is pending before the Argentine Chamber. The country now has two battleships, one light cruiser, two heavy cruisers, 16 destroyers, submarines and torpedo boats.

Rear Admiral Gustavo A. Schroeder, inspector general of the Uruguayan Navy, said his country is also planning a fleet expansion. He said his country was particularly interested in building destroyers and minesweepers. Uruguay at present has one cruiser on neutrality patrol work. The ship, he said, is operating independently and is maintaining a patrol along the Uruguayan coast.

The Latin American representatives were met at Washington airport by Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of Naval Operations; Navy bureau chiefs and attaches of the various countries represented. The group arrived in two chartered planes at 1 p. m. yesterday, two hours ahead of schedule.

During the two-hour interim the visitors were taken to Mount Vernon and returned to the airport in time for the official reception at 3 p. m. Two companies of Marines formed a guard of honor and the Navy Band played.

Others included in the party are Capt. Julio Diez Arguelles y Fernandez Castro, chief of staff of the Cuban Navy; the Brazilian naval chief of staff, Vice Admiral Jose Machado de Castro e Silva; Rear Admiral Carlos Rotaide G. del V. chief of staff of the Peruvian Navy; Vice Admiral Julio Allard P., commander in chief and director general of the Chilean Navy; Commodore David Coello Ochoa, director general of the Mexican fleet; Comdr. Antonio Picardi, director of the Venezuelan Navy; and Comdr. Cesar A. Mogollon Cardenas, commandant general of the Ecuadorean Navy.

20 Are Reported Killed In Raid on Chinese City

4 More Officers Join Simon Murder Probe; Clues Prove False

German Refugee Editor's Movements Before Fatal Attack Rechecked

Four extra detectives were added today to the homicide squad investigating the fatal slugging early Tuesday of Dr. Heinrich Simon, 61, German refugee journalist and music critic.

Police Chief Ernest W. Brown posted a $200 reward in the case as detectives ran down numerous false clues and combed the city for information of Dr. Simon's movements before he staggered home semi-conscious and unable to explain the beating from which he was dying.

Maj. Brown revealed meanwhile that Lt. Horace W. Lineburg of the public relations squad had been instructed to learn if the records of the Dies Committee can offer a clue to the assault on Dr. Simon. The Police Department, it was said, has been offered access to the committee records. Lt. Lineburg has not reported on the result of the inquiry.

Starnes Cites Violent Deaths. While explaining he had no definite information in the case of Dr. Simon, Representative Starnes, Democrat of Alabama, a spokesman for the Dies Committee in the absence of the chairman, said it seemed strange that so many refugees from the totalitarian countries had met violent deaths in this country in recent months, including a Russian, an Italian and a German.

Representative Starnes pledged the full co-operation of the committee in the police investigation. General clues which at first seemed promising led nowhere. Inspector Bernard W. Thompson, chief of detectives, admitted today that a letter written in German and other articles found by police at Eighteenth and Riggs street N.W. had no connection with the case.

General clues which at first seemed promising led nowhere. Inspector Bernard W. Thompson, chief of detectives, admitted today that a letter written in German and other articles found by police at Eighteenth and Riggs street N.W. had no connection with the case. The discovery was made in the vicinity of the New Hampshire apartment where Dr. Simon lived with his wife and young daughter.

Woman's Earring Unidentified. The letter was addressed to "Dear doctor." Nearby lay a packet of perfume and a woman's gold earring. On the back of the letter was a penciled laundry list. None of the effects could be identified by Dr. Simon's widow or members of his family.

The discovery was made not far from Seventeenth and Church streets N.W., where a taxicab driver found Dr. Simon leaning against a tree, his face in his hands, about 1:45 a. m. Tuesday. The driver, James Proudfoot, 25, 1100 block of Abbey place N.E., was questioned last night at headquarters.

Mr. Proudfoot repeated details of having seen a sedan following him after he picked up the injured man and drove him the few blocks to his home. The sedan waited while the hacker sat in his cab in front of the apartment, police were told.

Dr. Simon explained he had no money and would return with the fare. Mr. Proudfoot said he drove away 10 or 15 minutes later when Dr. Simon did not reappear. He did not obtain the license number of the sedan, he said.

Victim's Effects Missing. Detectives and patrolmen today continued their search for Dr. Simon's grey felt hat, his horn-rimmed spectacles, bill fold and change purse. These were missing when he returned home.

Dr. Simon's skull had been broken, apparently by some heavy, padded instrument, since his scalp was not cut. Indications point to the probability he was the victim of a "strong-arm" robber, although he was known to have had only a small amount of money on his person. He left home to go for a walk about 9:30 p. m. Monday.

Detectives located the operator of a Cabin John (Md.) street car who had issued a transfer found in Dr. Simon's clothing. The transfer, Inspector Thompson said, had come from the book of Alfred E. Mills, whose car left Cabin John early Tuesday.

Mr. Mills was certain Dr. Simon did not enter his car in Maryland, since the first passengers on his run were "regulars," made up mostly of employees of Glen Echo Park. It was possible, police said, that Mr. Mills issued the transfer to Dr. Simon in the District as the street car proceeded eastward on its run to the Peace Monument and Union Station.

Eye-glasses Prove False Clue. Another clue which led nowhere was a pair of horn-rimmed glasses found by police yesterday morning on Q street a few blocks from the Simon apartment. The oculist who had fitted Dr. Simon with eye-glasses said they did not belong to the refugee.

Dr. Simon, whose family published the powerful Frankfurter Zeitung in pre-Nazi days in Germany, fled to England after Hitler rose to power. He came to this country several years ago.

British claimed 14 Nazi aircraft were downed in daylight and 2 others were destroyed by the Royal Navy, making a total of 89 for the first eight days of May.

On a basis of four men put out of action in each German plane shot down, the British estimated Germany in a week has lost more than 300 flying personnel. The government acknowledged that even the record-breaking achievement of the night fighters failed to prevent the Luftwaffe from inflicting heavy damage on vital water front areas, including Liverpool, which was attacked for the seventh consecutive night. Warn Against Overoptimism. British officials naturally were jubilant over the Nazis' rising costs for Nazi night raiding, but they warned against overoptimism and acknowledged that such results could not be expected on cloudy nights.

"There is no witchcraft," one commentator observed. "It was a clear night and the boys are getting better at interception." A communique indicated British casualties from the night raids were heavy.

The German attack last night on Liverpool was heavy, but apparently not as violent as some directed against the big west coast port earlier in the week. Sharp attacks were aimed at the Humber River area on the east coast, the Bristol Channel region in the southwest and several towns in the northeast.

Bombs also were dropped in East Anglia, Southwest England, and other widely-separated points. The raids followed a short but violent bombardment of the Dover coast by German long-range guns installed on the French shore, resulting in the death of five persons and injuries to others.

The successes credited to British fighter planes last night brought to 45 the number of German aircraft reported shot down during the last 48 hours.

The picture changed so quickly that hardly had the government's regular morning communique reported the shooting down of 17 German bombers last night before authoritative advisers raised the total to 23.

Only 17 Less Than Entire Month. The total bag of 73 night raiders reported shot down so far this month is only 17 less than the figures for the entire month of April. The previous record for success against nocturnal attackers was scored the night of May 3, when 16 Nazi planes were reported down—11 by British fighters.

King George VI himself visited the airframe of a famous British fighter squadron last evening, had supper with the pilots and wished them good luck before they took off to battle the German raiders.

The monarch walked unannounced into the fighters' messroom, spent considerable time in the operations room and later climbed into the cockpits of fighting planes standing ready on the field. He closely inspected the rakish American-designed Havocs and the powerful new British Beaufighters.

'Malicious Tampering' Held Cause of Wreck. The Interstate Commerce Commission said today that "malicious tampering with the track" caused the derailment of a Pittsburgh-Cleveland passenger train of the Pennsylvania Railroad near Baden Pa., March 16. Five persons, including two passengers, were killed and 121 others injured.

The commission's finding is in accordance with the railroad's report. The railroad said the derailment was "definitely caused by sabotage."

The train was traveling at an estimated speed of 60 to 70 miles an hour when it was derailed. It plunged into the Ohio River during a blinding snowstorm. The I. C. C. said evidence was conclusive that a rail was loosened and shifted inward from its normal position some time before the accident.

Gen. Richardson said the nature of the maneuver problems has not yet been fully developed. At this time, the Army is not contemplating any joint maneuvers with the Navy, but later, it was said, will join the Navy in practicing landing parties.

While the participation of the General Headquarters Air Force was somewhat obscure, the Army is now undertaking the training of combat teams involving co-ordination of tanks and airplanes similar to tactics developed by the Germans in Flanders and the Balkans. The use of combat planes in the maneuvers has not actually been decided on at this time.

Gen. Richardson also announced today that the land force had expanded to a total of 1,302,500 officers and men, toward the aggregate of more than 1,400,000 expected to be under arms next month. Of the latest total the Regular Army accounted for 487,000 officers and men, the National Guard 290,500, selective service trainees 480,000 and Reserve officers on active duty 45,000.

Wanted to Be Fully Equipped. Gen. Richardson said every component of the Army's manpower—Regulars, National Guardsmen, Reserve officers, and a large portion of the selective service trainees—will engage in the maneuvers.

He explained that the four armies taking the field will not be fully equipped, since training of personnel is ahead of production. Some of the divisions are lacking anti-tank and anti-aircraft weapons and full complements of tanks. There also is a lack of a certain proportion of motor transportation needed in corps movements, he said, but indicated that this situation will be greatly improved by fall.

Nye and Willkie Pleas Intensify Convoy Controversy

Senator Declares U. S. Role in War Will Be Decided Soon

Life of British Empire depends on maintenance of Atlantic supply lines to Western Hemisphere. When these were threatened in first World War, entrance of American Navy into conflict brought convoy system which defeated submarine menace. Today this submarine threat, amplified by long-range, torpedo-carrying airplanes, again is causing grave concern. Still short of war and convoy service, American Navy now is patrolling Atlantic far out.

Two uncompromising speeches—by Senator Nye, Republican of North Dakota, the other by Wendell L. Willkie intensified the controversy raging today over convoys to Britain.

Anti-convoy legislators were patently intent on forcing a clean-cut decision in Congress, and there were indications of an opportunity next week when the Senate takes up the House-approved administration bill for acquisition of 83 foreign ships now idle in American ports.

Senator Nye, who accused the administration of "blitzkrieging for convoys" declared in a broadcast from here last night that "this week, or these next few days, are to determine whether or not America is going to be in Europe's war."

Mr. Willkie, meanwhile, was telling a "freedom rally" in New York that delivery of lease-lend supplies to Britain must be insured by "convoying—patrolling—airplane accompaniment—or what not."

The rally, sponsored by the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, telegraphed President Roosevelt an appeal for guarantees that supplies headed for Britain "shall be delivered and not consigned to the bottom of the Atlantic by Hitler's savage sea warfare."

Senator Nye appealed to the people in his speech last night to "make yourself heard" against convoys because this "is the determining hour."

Mr. Willkie charged that "the interventionists are putting the people of America on the spot" with strategy designed to give "the President a chance to demonstrate that he was being pressured into convoying."

Earlier in the day, Secretary of Navy Knox said the Navy was ready, if called on, to assure safe delivery of supplies to Britain. He referred indirectly to the delivery question later in an extemporaneous speech at a banquet meeting of the American Booksellers' Association, saying:

"We are living in fearful danger. The only safety for us is to supplement the forces of Britain. You see what it would mean if this bridge of ships was not maintained."

Viscount Halifax, the British Ambassador, also mentioned the subject during the day, telling reporters, after he had called on Secretary Hull, that Hitler "is straining every nerve to cut the lifeline to Britain. It is impossible to exaggerate the urgency and the need of all possible action to hold it intact. Britain wants all the support you can give, and this quickly."

Solomon Named Head Of Northeast Airlines

Samuel J. Solomon, former manager of the Washington Airport, yesterday was named president of Northeast Airlines, operating out of Boston. Mr. Solomon was selected to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Paul F. Collins, who was elected chairman of the board of directors.

Higher Realty Tax Opposed By Friendship Citizens

The Friendship Citizens' Association last night strongly opposed any increase in the present real estate tax rate.

Acting on motions by Martin A. Cook, second vice president, the group also opposed the McCarran bill to revise requirements for members serving on the Public Utilities Commission and questioned the necessity of establishing a rent control board in the District at the present time.

Navy Reserve Names 274 Aviation Cadets

The Navy Department today announced appointment of 274 aviation cadets in the Naval Reserve and ordered them to active flight training. The group includes 17 students who have been taking preliminary courses at the Anacostia Naval Air Station here.

$70,609 Estate Left By Charles E. Russell

Charles Edward Russell, poet and publicist, who died April 23, left an estate valued at $70,609. It was revealed today in District Court with filing of a petition for probate of the will. The will directs that his collection of poetry except Shakespeare, be given to Howard University.

Revenue

(Continued From First Page.) the previous fiscal year, an increase of more than $500,000. Personal income tax payments on the same comparative basis were $1,534,097 as against $1,269,975. An increase in the income tax payments was forecast recently by Tax Assessor Edward Dent and Tax Collector Guy Pearson. Another increase in payments which had not been expected, and which is attributed directly to the sudden increase in population, is in the personal property tax in automobiles, which has brought in $1,117,880 through April, an increase of $258,199 over the first 10 months of the last fiscal year. Beverage Revenue Up. Another increase resulted in payment of inheritance and estate taxes, which brought in $727,532, an increase of $126,634. Beverage taxes and licenses brought in $142,252, an increase of $12,715 over last year's first 10 months. An unexpectedly heavy increase was found in the amount of fines, which brought in $553,916, an increase of $118,944. Unclassified sources of revenues produced $261,666, an increase of $171,341. The tax on real estate, for which the second half payment was due in March, produced $21,330,845 in the last 10 months, an increase of $497,975 over the same period for the previous year. Tangible personal property tax payments were $1,564,258, an increase of $152,725. The Netherlands Indies shipped over 11,000 tons of black pepper to the United States last year.

Willkie Asks Convoys In Plea for 'More Action—Less Talk'

Tells Rally of 18,000 U. S. and Britain Can Outproduce Hitler

NEW YORK, May 8.—Wendell L. Willkie told a "freedom rally" in Madison Square Garden last night that America must insure the safe delivery of war materials to Britain by "convoying—patrolling—airplane accompaniment—or what not" and then flung this declaration at Adolf Hitler.

"You have never met any people like us. And you had best improve whatever pagan god you believe in, that you may be spared the day."

Never before in the history of the world, Mr. Willkie declared, has there been a people as strong as "the people of the United States of America. There never was any people so able to decide concerning what is right and what is wrong. There never was any people so capable of success, once their decision is made."

The Garden rally, sponsored by the New York chapter of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, drew a capacity house of more than 18,000. Garden officials said, and police estimated 4,000 more were outside.

"Less Talk—More Action." There are some who say America is weak and unprepared, Mr. Willkie declared, but this is a doctrine of "confusion, fear and despair" which he said he rejected and repudiated utterly.

England will win, he continued, if this country sees that its ever-increasing production reaches the British Isles. He added: "We want those cargoes protected and at once and with less talk and with more action."

The defeatists, Mr. Willkie added, declare that German production "so far surpasses English and American production that all attempts except to build our defenses are futile and doomed to failure."

"I know that the British Commonwealth of Nations and the United States can outproduce all the boasted ingenuity and capacity of Hitler and his factories," Mr. Willkie said. "I have faith that they will do so. If I did not believe this, I should be desperate indeed."

His address was carried by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

La Guardia Cites Duty. Mayor La Guardia of New York, referring to the lease-lend law, said "the law was intended to aid England and not serve as a living target for the Nazi submarines. Otherwise the law has no sense."

Mayor La Guardia said it was the duty of every citizen to aid his country and "if one is a great flyer and believes the Nation's aviation program is not speeding fast enough it is his duty to serve his Government."

Mr. La Guardia, who served as chairman of the meeting, said "I bring you the personal greetings of the President of the United States and I can assure you, although slightly indisposed, he is right on top." The Mayor was a White House visitor during the day.

In 1942 and 1943, Mr. Willkie said, when the combined airplane and armament production of "two hundred million free people in England, the United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand give to Britain a sufficient, assured and overwhelming superiority in the air, the enslaved people of France and Belgium and Holland and Norway and of all the conquered countries will begin to rise and this monstrous merger to the liberties of free men everywhere will be eradicated utterly."

Telegram Asks Convoys. He declared that steel, which he called "the corner-stone of mechanized war power," was greatly in favor of the democracies, asserting that the United States and the British empire together had a capacity of 100 million tons per year, compared to 42 million tons available to the Axis and its 14 conquered countries.

By acclamation the crowd approved sending a telegram to Mr. Roosevelt which called upon the President to see that machines and materials for England "shall be delivered and not consigned to the bottom of the Atlantic by Hitler's savage sea warfare."

"If this means convoys, Mr. President," the telegram said, "we call upon you as a free people's leader to supply them. We assure you of our faith in you and our loyal support of whatever measures you deem essential to a complete victory for democracy."

In a statement issued by the Keep America Out of War Congress later, Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, asserted "it is fantastic nonsense for Mr. Willkie to encourage the notion that even the miracle of complete military victory will make it possible for America to reorganize the continent of Europe and restore an economic order which has failed."

"Entering the war will not increase our safety but will only multiply our difficulties," he added. "It will cost our democracy which we cannot bestow on an exhausted and bitter world."

"Mr. Willkie has forgotten the hope and the promise which he held out to the voters in 1940 to keep their sons out of war."

percentage of losses, were unyielding in their opposition to a statutory prohibition against convoys. They Acquisition Bill Approved. The ship acquisition bill, as approved by the House yesterday, by a vote of 266 to 120, would empower the President to purchase, requisition, charter or take title to any foreign ship lying idle in American ports for "such use or disposition as he shall direct."

The ships include 30 Axis vessels, 28 of which were sabotaged and are now being repaired by the Maritime Commission.

The measure also would authorize the Maritime Commission to purchase or charter foreign vessels in addition to those "otherwise available." The commission has no such authority now.

Owners of the ships taken over would be compensated. Sabotaged ships, however, may be acquired under forfeiture provisions of previous laws, without compensation to owners.

Ships taken over from governments owing this country war debts would not be paid for in cash. Instead, their value would be credited against such obligations, under the only important amendment adopted on the House floor.

Loans to Britain Backed. Before final passage, the House turned down, 220 to 160, a non-binding motion that embraced a ban against transfer of any of the Axis ships to Britain. Proponents of this prohibition contended such transfers would amount to "acts of war."

Contest for Senate Seat in West Virginia Hinges on Seconds

Upper body Debates Today on Selection of Martin or Rosier

By the Associated Press.

Split seconds may help the Senate select today either Clarence Martin or Joseph Rosier as West Virginia's Democratic junior Senator, succeeding M. M. Neely, who resigned to become Governor.

A minority of the Elections Committee, on the eve of today's debate on the seating contest, insisted that "the sole question" was whether Mr. Neely or former Gov. Homer A. Holt held office as Governor when the Senate vacancy occurred about midnight, January 12.

That question, however, is tangled in complications ranging from whether a signature can be written faster than a man can speak a dozen words, to when a contractual day legally begins.

"I certainly can sign my name

Commons Plans Secret Economic Warfare Session

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 8.—Lord Privy Seal Clement Attlee announced today the House of Commons will hold a secret session soon on economic warfare.

The Ministry of Information again was on the griddle in House debate when Laborite David Adams asked whether the ministry was not aware of "adverse opinion in the U. S. A. from the government's refusal to publish data showing loss in the transit of war materials from America?"

Undersecretary Harold Nicholson reiterated the government's policy, however, of not publishing news which would "give the enemy precise facts on matters on which he can only make wild guesses."

Edgar Granville, Liberal, asked, "In view of the speeches by American leaders, is this not the kind of information which would have diplomatic advantage if given to America, and unless the department gives this information it places the American press and people at the mercy of Dr. Goebbels and his propaganda department?"

Mr. Nicholson said the ministry had the matter constantly in mind and promised a statement from Alfred Duff Cooper, Minister of Information, in the near future.

More tourists visited Jamaica last season than in the year before.

faster than a man could take an oath of office," declared Mr. Holt, whose appointment of Mr. Martin, former president of the American Bar Association, was backed by the committee minority.

He referred to his certificate of appointment for Mr. Martin signed just at the stroke of midnight.

At the same time an oath of office was taken by Mr. Neely, whose selection of Mr. Rosier, former president of the National Education Association, won committee approval by a 9-8 vote.

But before Mr. Neely could take the oath he had to resign from office as Senator. He did that also just at midnight.

Between Mr. Neely's resignation and oath as Governor, Mr. Holt and Mr. Martin contend, a vacancy existed in the Senate. Under State law, they argued, Mr. Holt, as Governor, was empowered, and required, to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Neely disagreed. He argued that his resignation and induction as Governor were simultaneous, that there was no interval in which Mr. Holt could act.

Mayer Keeps Top Ranking With Salary of $697,048

Grace Is Second With $478,144; G. W. Hill, Third, Gets $456,415

By the Associated Press.
Louis B. Mayer kept top ranking as America's highest paid executive last year, receiving $697,048 as managing director of production for Loew's, Inc., motion picture company.
This was brought out today in a study of dozens of annual reports filed by large corporations with the Securities and Exchange Commission.
Mr. Mayer's remuneration from Loew's was $8,877 more than in the previous year. He had no close competition for first place. The second highest on the pay list was Eugene G. Grace with $478,144 as president of Bethlehem Steel Corp. George W. Hill received $456,415 as president of the American Tobacco Co. and appeared to be a safe third.
These figures do not represent America's largest incomes, however, since many persons who get only small salaries or no salaries at all have large incomes from investments. The Treasury reported recently that 41 persons paid taxes last year on 1939 incomes of $1,000,000 or more.

Other Loew Officials Included.
Behind the top three in salaries or other remuneration came Hunt Stromberg, who got $332,267 as supervisor of production for Loew's, and Nicholas M. Schenck, who was paid $318,881 as president.
The $200,000 bracket included: W. C. Fields, $255,000, and Deanna (Edna Mae) Durbin, $209,833, both paid by Universal Pictures Co., Inc.; Paul M. Hahn and Vincent Riggio, $251,849 each, as vice presidents of American Tobacco Co.; Harry P. Sinclair, $200,930 as Executive Committee chairman of Consolidated Oil Corp.; Walter S. Gifford, $210,150 as president of American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Ernest T. Weir, $245,400 as chairman, and George R. Fink, $245,300 as president of National Steel Corp. Robert C. Stanley, $215,350 as president of International Nickel Co. of Canada, Ltd.; Harry W. Bracy, $206,402 as a branch manager for Kroger Grocery & Baking Co. Bing Crosby was paid $150,000 by Universal Pictures Co.
Bing Crosby Gets $150,000.
G. W. Vaughn was paid $148,671 as president of Curtiss-Wright Corp., and B. S. Wright got $72,573 as vice president. National Distillers Products Corp. paid $165,000 to Seton Porter as president and $98,014 to Charles L. Jones as executive vice president.

Walter P. Paepke got $190,243 as president of Container Corp. of America. Bethlehem Steel Corp. listed $179,443 paid both to Quincy Bent and Robert Mackall as directors and $139,506 paid both to Robert E. McMath and Frederick A. Shick as vice president and controller, respectively.

Sir James Frazer, Noted Writer, And Wife Die 12 Hours Apart

By the Associated Press.
CAMBRIDGE, England, May 8.—Surviving her noted husband, Sir James George Frazer, by only 12 hours, Lady Frazer died here last night. It was understood that both deaths resulted from the infirmities of age.
Sir James, 87, was well-known as an anthropologist and authority on folklore and gained wide attention as the author of "The Golden Bough," a vast collection of the beliefs and customs of savage and civilized peoples.
"The Golden Bough," which was first published in 1890, but which grew with Sir James' research to 12 volumes by 1915, was regarded as the most important and influential work of his kind.
Lady Frazer, the former Mrs. Lilly Grove, a native of France, who was married to Sir James in 1896, was known as a writer. Only a few years ago they collaborated in writing a children's Christmas book, "Baba, the Imp."
One of the most prolific writers in his field, though threatened with blindness in his later years, Sir James was engaged after his 80th birthday in producing a new study of "Fear of the Dead in Native and Primitive Religion."
Sir James was born January 1, 1854, in Glasgow, Scotland, and was educated at Larchfield Academy, Helensburgh; Glasgow University and Cambridge University. He was elected a fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1879.
When failing eyesight in his declining years threatened to stop his work, Lady Frazer, who had always been his collaborator in research, spent weeks in reading to him.
Received Annual Grant.
In 1933 the Court of the Drapers' Co. made him a grant of $2,000 annually for three years so that he might in addition provide himself with expert secretarial assistance.
Sir James early was called to the bar but his interest led him to social anthropology and he soon decided that his life work should be the exploration of the vast field of primitive myth and custom.
His first publication was a revised edition of Long's "Sallust," in 1884.

Police Probe Hotel Fall Of Canadian Air Leader

By the Associated Press.
MONTREAL, May 8.—Mysteriously muttering "Get Von Izenhart," Leading Aircraftman Sir Keith Fraser of the Royal Canadian Air Force was semi-conscious today after falling from the fourth-story window of an East End hotel.
 Persons close to the 29-year-old sixth baronet of Ledelune and Morar and nephew of the Earl of Coventry said they knew of no one named Von Izenhart.
 Hotel attendants said they believed he was alone in his room but police are investigating.
 Police said Sir Keith registered at the hotel Monday morning after returning here from New York, where he visited his wife, the former Blanca de Undurraga y Sandiford of Paris, who he married in 1934.
 He fell from the window to the roof of the hotel kitchen about 9 p.m. after remaining in his room all day and suffered skull and facial injuries, a broken left arm and leg injuries.

YOU'RE ENTITLED TO HAVE YOUR COFFEE CUSTOM GROUND

If you're going to get the full fine flavor out of coffee—and that's what you pay for—then your coffee must be ground to just the fineness required for your type of coffee pot. Or—to use the A&P term—it must be Custom Ground for you. Here's the reason: The different types of coffee pot bring hot water into contact with coffee for different lengths of time, as follows...

In Regular Pots, boiling water is in constant contact with coffee... hence, you should have A&P Coffee ground coarse. Percolators force the water over coffee only intermittently... so have your A&P Coffee ground medium. In Drip Pots, water goes through the grounds only once... so A&P Coffee should be ground fine. In Vacuum Pots, the contact of water and coffee is briefest of all... so have your A&P Coffee ground extra fine.

Be sure to tell the clerk in your A&P Coffee Department the type of coffee pot you use—then the fresh coffee beans will be Custom Ground exactly right, so that you'll get all the magnificent flavor.

There are three A&P Coffee blends to suit every taste; Eight O'Clock, mild and mellow; Red Circle, rich and full-bodied and Bokar, vigorous and winy. Try your favorite blend today.

Christ Child Society Founder Honored at Annual Meeting

Archbishop Curley Lauds Settlement Work of Miss Mary V. Merrick

Archbishop Michael J. Curley last night paid tribute to the effort and enthusiasm of Miss Mary V. Merrick, founder of the Christ Child Society, who last night was honored for the 44th time at the society's annual meeting as president of the welfare agency, located at 608 Massachusetts avenue N.E.

Although an invalid and confined to her wheel chair for years, Miss Merrick, who lives in Chevy Chase, Md., has been one of the guiding spirits of the settlement since it was founded. Miss Merrick was unable to attend the meeting, but Archbishop Curley, the settlement workers and children sent her their greetings.

Miss Merrick's achievements, Archbishop Curley said, "go to show that a woman, afflicted as she is, bearing her pain, can do for humanity. She has done more than many others enjoying the fullest of health."

Urges Peace Prayers.
The Archbishop urged the several hundred men, women and children gathered in the gymnasium of the settlement to pray for the peace of the world during May. He emphasized the plight of the children and adults of war-torn Europe, and declared, "I want to see peace in America. I want to feel that nevermore will we send our young men to die on foreign soil."

"While we Catholics are permitted to speak, we speak peace, but if the time ever comes when our country calls, we will answer 100 per cent." A message from Miss Merrick was read to the assembly, and the boys and girls staged a series of dramatizations illustrating their activities during the last year. Mrs. Charles P. Neill, first vice president, presided. Several selections were sung by the boys and girls.

Inspect Settlement.

Henry Schulteis reported on the work of the Merrick Boys' Camp during 1940, and a brief message from the Catholic Charities was delivered by Msgr. Lawrence J. Shehan, director.

Officers of the society formed a Reception Committee for Archbishop Curley and the Men's Committee of the Merrick Boys' Club served as an escort. Girl Scouts and members of the Merrick Boys' Club were ushers. Following the meeting, guests were conducted on a tour of the settlement to inspect the facilities and the handicraft and sewing work done by the children.

Merger of Federal Labor Mediation Agencies Urged

Leiserson Opposes Waiting Period for Strikes In Defense Industries

By the Associated Press.
Consolidation of the Government's labor mediation services under a permanent agency similar to the National Defense Mediation Board was recommended today by William M. Leiserson, a member of the National Labor Relations Board. Dr. Leiserson told a Senate Labor Subcommittee the mediation activities of the Labor Division of the Office of Production Management, the Conciliation Service, the Railway Labor Board and Maritime Labor Board ought to be merged under the National Mediation Board and the latter's members put on a full-time basis. He opposed provisions of the Bill which would establish a waiting period of from 10 to 40 days before strikes in defense industries could become effective. Dr. Leiserson said such an organization as he suggested could prevent strikes by persuasion rather than by imposing penalties. He added he did not think it would stimulate peaceful negotiations to "tell people they can't strike."

"We have approached this problem," he said, "as if mediation to prevent strikes is something that somebody can run in their spare time with their left finger. You can't do effective mediation that way." He urged a revision of the Bill bill to provide for a statement of mediation policies, without specifically banning strikes for any fixed time.
He said he thought it would be "sound" for the Government to require each party to a labor dispute to give the other 30 days' notice before making any change in working conditions.

Churchill Carries On

One year to the day after his predecessor, the late Neville Chamberlain, stood before the House of Commons to meet a torrent of criticism arising from the British debacle in Norway, Prime Minister Winston Churchill yesterday faced a similar wave of criticism from that body as a result of another serious British setback—the defeat in Greece. It was on that previous dramatic occasion in Parliament that Mr. Churchill, then First Lord of the Admiralty, was named as chief of all military operations for Britain. It was a tremendous responsibility, the gravity of which was to increase in the historic months soon to follow.

With the passing of Mr. Chamberlain from the scene, the burdens and the tribulations of the redoubtable Mr. Churchill multiplied many times. But each trial, each test, each crisis—and there has been a discouraging succession of them—has served only to stiffen the fiber and to enlarge the stature of Britain's extraordinary wartime leader.

It is not surprising, therefore, to see the Prime Minister emerge unscathed from the storm stirred up in Commons over the disaster in the Balkans. Defending himself against such a formidable critic as the venerable David Lloyd George, who was Prime Minister in the first World War, Mr. Churchill, in measured phrases, amplified an accounting of the Balkan campaign given by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and left to the judgment of the House the question as to whether the course which he and his colleagues had taken was logical or ill-advised. The verdict of the House was an overwhelming vote of confidence, 447 to 3. The only dissenters were a Communist, a Socialist and a Laborite.

Putting thoughts of the battle of Greece behind him, Mr. Churchill turned to the new theater of war in the Near East and to the crucial battleground of the Atlantic. He threw new light on both areas, and the picture revealed in each instance was not altogether gloomy. There are, he disclosed, some half a million men on the eastern front and he has "every reason to believe" that they will succeed in holding the Valley of the Nile, the Suez Canal and other vital objectives in the Middle and Near East. As for the struggle to keep Britain's lifelines open in the Atlantic, Mr. Churchill foresees enough new American ships coming into service to enable Britain to carry on through 1942. Presumably he envisions these ships, or a majority of them, surviving the perils of the Nazi submarine blockade, although he did not elaborate on the convoy problem. If Mr. Churchill is correct in his forecast, if England's supply lines can be kept open this year and the next, Britain's chances of winning the war undoubtedly will have been immeasurably increased. Certainly there was nothing of a defeatist tone in Mr. Churchill's report to Commons yesterday.

Misinformation

The dangers involved in accepting without question hearsay evidence designed to influence Congress in its consideration of legislative reforms are well illustrated by developments yesterday at the District rent control bill hearings before a House subcommittee. A witness for the measure testified that fifty-nine colored persons were living in a five-room house on Virginia avenue, in the Southwest section, and that forty tenants shared another house in the same part of the city. These and other sensational statements were made in support of the frequently voiced charges that a low-cost housing crisis exists in Washington and that rents are soaring, or are due to soar, to unreasonable heights.

Aroused by the alarming assertions of the witness, the subcommittee decided to take an eminently proper step—the designation of one of its members, Representative D'Alesandro of Maryland, to make a firsthand investigation of conditions at the premises specified. Mr. D'Alesandro found that five, instead of fifty-nine, persons lived at the Virginia avenue address, and eight, instead of forty, persons occupied the other house. He reported that the statements made to the subcommittee in this connection were "erroneous and fantastic." Yet they are no more fantastic than other exaggerated statements on the same subject made on other occasions by speakers whose sense of responsibility, if nothing else, should hold them to the facts.

The Deportation Problem

The roundup of German seamen ordered by Attorney General Jackson draws attention once more to the inadequacy of existing machinery for handling deportable aliens, who, on account of the war or for some other reason cannot be returned to the country of their origin. This group, numbering one hundred and sixty, has been scattered in perhaps a dozen cities since the Standard Oil tankers on which they served were transferred from American to Panamanian registry, months ago. As deportation was not possible, their movements have been subject to certain restrictions, but officials seemingly have concluded that more than this is warranted, and are proceeding accordingly.

The United States now is an unwilling host to approximately two thousand German and Italian seamen, including the crews of the vessels that have been seized. Two Western Army camps recently were taken over to be used as supplementary quarters for these, but the larger problem that confronts the Government in dealing with about six thousand other deportables still awaits solution. Several weeks ago, when urging passage of the amended Hobbs bill, Attorney General Jackson explained that many among these six thousand have criminal records, or are otherwise undesirable, and emphasized the need for legislation to provide adequate restraints on this class. The bill is stymied in the House, however, and it was coincidental that as the roundup of alien seamen was getting under way, the Attorney General was discussing the situation regarding the other deportables before the American Judiciary Society, stressing that they are enjoying a freedom to which they are not entitled. As the Attorney General well pointed out, this condition holds serious potentialities for evil, and it should be remedied.

Stating the Facts

It is highly gratifying to note the calm and dispassionate refutation by Representative Hunter of Ohio of the unfair and misleading statements recently made in the House to the effect that the residents of the District are not paying a just proportion of taxes. The District has suffered long and patiently from irresponsible and inaccurate statements on the floor of the House, which, for the most part, go unchallenged by the members. Mr. Hunter's attitude is the more praiseworthy, for to contest such statements and to correct "what our investigations have shown to be an erroneous assumption" is apt to be the unpopular course. In this case, Mr. Hunter and his colleagues of the District Committee might well have considered it a point of personal privilege to contest the allegations regarding the District. For if the District is dodging its fair burden of taxation, that fact is a direct reflection not merely on members of Congress, charged exclusively under the Constitution with government of the District, but attacks the good faith and honesty of those who are working in behalf of the Overton formula.

For it is true that if the people of the District are dodging fair taxes, then efforts to increase the Federal payment are misdirected and unjustified. On the other hand, if the exclusively controlling National Government is not meeting its own obligations, while taxing the District to the limit, then the men who, by misstating the facts, oppose an equitable solution of this problem are rendering themselves, the people of the District and their voting constituents back home a reprehensible disservice. The proposal to increase the District tax rate on real and personal property from $1.75 to $2.50 was supported by the meaningless assertion that the District's tax rate is one of the lowest in the country. Of course it is. It has been relatively low for years. And the fact that it is low has no more bearing on the District's tax burden, relative or absolute, than the annual rainfall or the sun and moon tables. As Mr. Hunter said, every real estate operator in the country knows that a tax rate, standing alone, is no index of the tax burden. Why do members of Congress, however, insist on reciting the comparison of tax rates? Is it that they are themselves misled, or do they intentionally seek to mislead others?

The figures on tax rates given to the House reduce themselves to an absurdity. Intended to show Washington's low tax burden, they show, at the same time, that the little city of Phoenix, Arizona, is twice as heavily taxed as St. Louis and almost twice as heavily taxed as Detroit. Does any intelligent person believe that? Would any sincere person attempt to make the House believe it? If it is obviously ridiculous to assert that Phoenix is twice as heavily taxed as St. Louis, is it not equally ridiculous to assert that St. Louis is twice as heavily taxed as Washington?

Representative Hunter is chairman of a subcommittee that made the local tax burden the object of immediate study in its consideration of the Overton formula. Mr. Hunter told the House some of the results. Property taxes in the District bear, and have borne for years, a disproportionately high share of the total taxes collected. Comparison of sales and assessments over a period of years has shown an average ratio of 104 per cent assessed value to sales value—probably the highest ratio in the country. Comparisons of tax burdens, made by the Census Bureau, have repeatedly shown a tax burden in the District which is relatively high and which is far too high, in comparison with what other cities pay, when interest payments on bonded debt are deducted from the comparison. Bonded debt, not permitted in the District, has no place in comparisons of tax burdens between cities.

The proposal to increase the real estate and personal property tax rate here is directly contrary to sound principles of taxation and is viciously and gratuitously unfair when based on misleading and inaccurate presentation of the facts.

Echo Expert

According to a popular song, Little Sir Echo is a nice little fellow, but always so far away. According to a news report quoting one commercial echo expert, both of these statements are false. The little fellow can be very annoying, in halls where speech is silver, silence golden, and reverberations are tinny. Nor is he so far away that the expert cannot put his finger on him and make him behave. It is his business to do just that. When he gets a case, he figures where he would go if he were an echo, then goes there and hangs a tapestry which traps it and kills it on the spot.

The echo expert says there are four distinct types of echoes, not counting the hired echo at mountain resorts which sometimes goes to sleep on the job or, worse still, becomes ruggedly individualistic and answers a "hello" with an "oh, yeah," to the confusion of the proprietor. His four types are the fluttering, the ghost, the true and the whispering, differing in form but having the common characteristic of agreeing with their employer's expressed opinion almost as rapidly as a yes man in Hollywood. Unlike the yes man, they are not so easily fired, and that is where the expert comes in. Hence, the echo business is booming.

Of Stars, Men And Atoms

Notebook of Science Progress In Laboratory, Field And Study

By Thomas R. Henry.

A baby is about a month old before the top of its brain—the seat of intelligence—begins to work. This is the finding reported to the Society for Research in Child Development of the National Research Council here by Dr. Myrtle B. McGraw of Columbia University.

She stuck 75 babies with pins—2,008 pin pricks in all—from birth to the age of four and recorded their changing reactions: as the higher centers of the brain came into action one after the other. For a few days after birth some babies make no protest at being pricked. This may be due, Dr. McGraw thinks, to one of three reasons—the pain nerve endings are not developed, there is no connection between them and the brain, or there is no connection between the pain centers in the brain and the centers that initiate crying. After the first week the pin-pricked baby will toss its whole body, cry loudly, and sometimes withdraw the stuck arm or leg.

Atlantic Crisis

Action of the House yesterday in passing by more than a two-to-one vote, and without restricting amendments, the bill to permit requisitioning and use of foreign ships lying idle in American waters is welcome news to all who are alarmed at the developing shipping crisis in the Atlantic. Nearly a million tons of immobilized cargo vessels can be drawn from the rusting fleet of Axis and other foreign flag ships tied up in our ports, to form a considerable part of the 2,000,000-ton shipping pool recently created by order of President Roosevelt as a corollary of American aid to Britain.

If, as Senator Vandenberg informed the Senate yesterday, only twelve of the 158 merchant vessels reported sunk throughout the world during the first four months of this year had cleared from American ports, that is interesting news. But, regardless of whether these figures are conclusive as to this phase of the picture, the inescapable facts are that Britain has lost more than 5,000,000 tons of cargo bottoms since the start of the war, that Germany's claimed toll and the Admiralty's admitted losses have risen to more than 400,000 tons a month and that if the present rate of sinkings continues, the combined shipping capacities of Britain and the United States may not be equal to the task of supplying replacements.

It is with that dire picture in mind that administration spokesmen have been speaking out with increasing boldness of late on the controversial subject of providing American naval and air protection for the "bridge of ships" which must be maintained across the Atlantic if the products of the American arsenal are not to be consigned to the depths of the ocean. The plainest spokesman to date has been Secretary of War Stimson, who, after consultation with President Roosevelt, called for full use of our naval and air facilities in defense of the traditional right of freedom of the seas. Secretary of the Navy Knox, asked to comment on the Stimson speech, asserted that the Navy stands ready to protect American interests whenever called upon to do so, and in an extemporaneous address last night he added that all the resources of the Nation are committed to the supreme purpose of seeing that seapower, our guardian in the Atlantic, is not destroyed.

It should not take long to determine whether the present expedient to accomplish that resolve, naval and air patrols far out in the ocean, is sufficient. If patrols fall short of the mark, it is obvious from what high administration officials have been saying in recent days that more effective, perhaps highly dangerous, measures will be necessary. There is no alternative, of course, to seeing that our aid reaches Britain—except the unthinkable course of a complete about-face in our whole policy of defending America by aiding the fighting democracies.

Rejoice Pessimistic Conceptions

Of Europe's Tragic Destiny. There seems to be a growing defeatism even among some of our most illustrious refugees—not to mention any number of natives who have returned from overseas—that Europe is dying of senility. For instance, Johannes Steel, who is now one of democratic Europe's oral defenders, in his autobiography, "Escape to the Present," paradoxically eulogizes over Europe while simultaneously eulogizing America. Mr. Steel's sentiment is symptomatic of all too many pessimists among us who by no stretch of the imagination and it seems safe to state that the people of our country will not be diverted by specious arguments, but rather will unite in confidence behind whatever decision is made, knowing as they will that that decision is based upon the advice of our military and naval experts as well as upon the exclusive information which comes to the President's attention.

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

"Dear Sir: "Knowing your interest in birds, I thought you might be interested in the following: "Last Sunday during the close of the two weeks drought period I was watering the roses and iris in the back yard. "I stood about 10 feet from the iris, that being as near as the hose would reach, and even then I had to arch the spray rather high. "As soon as I started the water running, the robins began calling and flying around; finally one, bolder than the rest, hopped nearer and nearer up among the iris to the jet of spray, and with one final hop landed in a hollow between the plants in a nice little puddle of water, directly under the spray. "What a bath he did have! "After finishing his bathing, he flew over to the neighbor's garage, where he sat fluffing his feathers. "His mate flew to him and after much chirping the new arrival flew down into my iris bed; however, she seemed timid and did not advance far toward the spray. Papa Robin decided she needed encouragement, so he flew down beside her and hopped along to the shallow spot under the spray, then she followed him, and he flew up to the fence while she took her bath. "Up in the rose bed a hole in the hose had made quite a miniature lake and several other robins enjoyed bathing there. "There are more robins around our place this year than ever before. "One robin seems to have more intelligence than the others in picking out a place for a home. "She chose a bend on an eavespost which curved in under a wide cornice and in such a way that the cornice acts as a roof over the nest. "Just in front of the eavespost is a tree, which when fully leaved out will completely hide the nest and provide a fine playground for the young birds when they begin to try their wings. "Yours very truly, J. S."

Every dry spell, no matter how short, should find the garden hose in use, not only for the good of plants and grass, but also for the birds. Robins, in particular, are extremely fond of watered lawns, since the moisture brings to the surface their favorite food. They also like to bathe and drink as well as any species. Since they are unafraid, they will come closer to the person handling the hose than most birds. But this is not the best way to use a hose for the birds' benefit. The best way is to take the nozzle off and place the end of the hose on the grass. Then turn the water down at the house, so that the flow from the open end is very slow.

Argues That Mr. Lindbergh's Opinions Are the Product of Defective Logic. Charles A. Lindbergh is doing all he can to influence the American people to his way of thinking, but are his arguments based on sound reasoning? He insists that Great Britain cannot win, even with all the help we can give her and that even the combined power of our two great navies, plus control of the seas and the pooling of the vast resources and industrial output of the two countries, cannot defeat Germany. In his St. Louis speech, Mr. Lindbergh stated: "The idea that England, with our assistance can equal Germany's strength in the air by 1942 or 1943 is a complete fallacy. Germany has a head start, and from the standpoint of research and production alone, it will require years to overtake her."

Another was bowled over by the Nazi juggernaut conceivably might lead a lot of otherwise well-meaning people to believe that such countries do not deserve to survive. Even England, they think, despite her fight for life, is only enduring the death throes of an old empire which must yield her domains to a younger power—preferably America. If there were a shred of truth to this fatalism, then the defeatists and their satellites would be on the right track, and everything we are doing to help Europe would not only prolong her death agony but also risk our own premature death. Let us, however, remind these Spenglerian liberals who tell us that culture is done for in senile Europe and that only in America can it survive, that the fewer than 2,000 years of Europe's existence are still some 3,000 years under the longevity of India, China, Egypt, Persia, Arabia and other states which, although far from as thriving as they once were, are still very much alive and kicking. And as for the ease with which the democracies were taken, let us remember that their defeat was more the result of their own individuality and consequent refusal to band together in a common front against their common enemy; and especially because too many liberty lovers in the democracies felt precisely as do our own defeatists who accept the totalitarian "wave of the future" as though it were "in the cards." One also could cite the tragedy of the fifth column and half a hundred other reasons which have nothing whatever to do with the intrinsic strength of the European democracies. Furthermore, the hundreds of thousands—perhaps millions—of dead and dying, sick and wounded men, women and children in Europe attest to the brave fight the democracies have put up against overwhelming odds. I think all history proves that civilizations, unlike humans, do not die natural deaths; they are only destroyed by bellicose barbarians from without and by defeatists and fifth columnists from within. Proposes Law to Compete Investment of Strike Gains in Bonds.

Strikes for higher wages at this time are a double threat to social security. First, lost time delays production; and second, higher wages increase cost of production. A Federal law requiring all wage increases gained by strikes to be invested in United States Government Defense bonds would stop this. Investing wage increases won by strikes in Defense bonds would help finance defense production. The incentive of increase of buying power from additional wages gained by strikes would be lost. At the same time, the increase of workers' buying power would be saved to be spent later when peace is restored. A reserve of workers' buying power available for spending by workers after peace is restored would help American industry in shifting back to peacetime production. WALTER A. BOWERS.

Decision On Convoy Use Seen

Stimson Speech Held Tip-off On Decision

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Just why the President chose the Secretary of War as his spokesman on a matter of the gravest importance in the conduct of the foreign policy of the Nation presents a paradox in public affairs.

Unquestionably, Mr. Stimson, who urged the use of convoys, would not have made a speech without the knowledge and authorization of the President, so the question arises why Mr. Roosevelt didn't do it himself.

The principal reason why public opinion is supposed to be doubtful about the advisability of authorizing naval convoys is a belief that this means war.

Mr. Roosevelt, of course, may have in the back of his mind the fact that if the sending of American naval convoys results in war, then it is something which cannot be helped.

The Political Mill

Administration Forces to Wage Hot Fight in Senate To Seat Appointee of Gov. Neely

By GOULD LINCOLN.

Political feuding in West Virginia reached the floor of the United States Senate today. The struggle between the Neely and Homer A. Holt factions over the appointment of a Senator is finally thrown into the open Senate after almost four months of intensive lobbying and pulling of wires.

The contest has its fantastic side. For example, Gov. Matthew M. Neely—who retired as Senator at precisely 12 o'clock midnight on Sunday, the 12th of January, 1941—became Governor a split second later—took three oaths of office as Governor between 11:35 p.m., January 12, and 12 a.m., January 13. He wanted to make certain that he was in position the instant he ceased to be senator he had become Governor and could fill the Senate seat he had just vacated, by appointment.

On the other side of the picture, equally fantastic, were the lengths to which former Gov. Homer A. Holt went to insure his own right to appoint a Senator to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Neely.

Eliot Urges Taking Initiative in Propaganda And Political Methods Hitler Employs

By MAJ. GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT.

In attempting to answer the question, "How is Hitler to be defeated," we have been giving all too little thought to the political weapons which he knows so well how to use against us.

It is suggested that the time for our great victory in these matters is near its end. The stakes in this struggle have been giving all too little thought to the political weapons which he knows so well how to use against us.

This Changing World

Stalin's Assumption of Premiership Seen Only as Move to Gain Personal Prestige

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.

When referring to politics the French have a saying: The more they change, the more they are the same. This applies to the situation in the U. S. S. R. where Stalin's taking over the premiership is being dramatized into a major development.

As far as can be ascertained from reliable sources here, there is no real change in Moscow. Stalin has continually exercised tremendous power under a cloak of mystery. But neither Molotov nor his predecessors ever had any real power. They were merely tools in Stalin's hands.

The acceptance of official responsibility does not mean, according to these sources, that there is going to be a drastic change in the Soviet policies. The most logical explanation is that Russia is preparing to sign a final agreement with Germany and it will be spectacularly important. Stalin wants to take full credit for it.

The terms of the agreement were outlined Saturday in this column. The only addition to be made is that it is reported that while the Germans intend to keep the upper hand in the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus, the Turks will be allowed to maintain their flag over the territory from Chamael to Karadeniz—they are good boys!

Next, give the Naval and Military Intelligence Services more money and more personnel for work within their respective branches, and see to it that the spheres of activity of all intelligence services are sharply defined, that co-operation is assured, and that suitable direction is provided for combined effort where these are necessary.

Well-Trained Spy Service. Organize a competent, intelligent, well-trained espionage service, as distinct from sabotage, for work in enemy countries. There is no limit to what can be done if money is available.

We can do nothing without accurate information; we cannot hope to anticipate the enemy's moves unless we have some hint of what they are going to be. Much of Hitler's success has come because he strikes suddenly and without warning.

Of that game we should, of course, make the most thorough study. One of the first things to be done is a complete examination of German methods in order not only to combat them, but to profit by them and improve upon them.

The result at which we should aim is that nowhere in the world should there be a German agent at work trying to destroy our civilization without an American agent at hand opposing and countering his efforts.

Here is a battlefield where America can be pre-eminent. It is just as important a part of modern war as tanks and battleships. It is a battlefield in which our enemy has gained the advantages of the early bird as he has in others, but he can be overtaken and outdistanced.

This war will not be won by a single weapon or a single method. It will be won by the strong, the determined and the high of heart, using every weapon and every method available to inflict an injury on the enemy.

Moreover, this is a field in which we can begin to act at once. Our Army is not yet ready, our land-based air force is likewise in the throes of expansive growth. But our Navy is ready, and our political weapons can be gotten ready very quickly.

Add these to our industrial contribution, and we shall begin to weigh the scales of war to real purpose.

It is likely that when brave Horatius, in the brave days of old, asked his celebrated question, Spurius Larcius and Herminius might have said, "Sorry, Hod, but the right and left brigade holders are on strike."

Doctors are disagreeing. The interventionists think that the Nation has sleeping sickness, and the isolationists are of the opinion, in our opinion wrong, that it has insomnia.

As long as we are all out financially for defense, let the Nation be known as doughitarian. F. P. A. (Released by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

The Conning Tower

As neatly as a birthday cherry. The apple branch, the cherry leaf. The murmuring voice, the lingering foot. The faint and reminiscent grief. The startled perfumed delight. The profumed midnight, reappear. And layer on layer wait again. Old pain, old tenderness, old fear.

Beyond the eye, beyond the hand, No lost thing but is safe, endure. So spring, preoccupied, recalls. Once more another voice . . . not yours . . .

Oblivion, wait upon my heart. Be kind to that which never was itself benignant; abrogate. That just but inexpedient clause. Whereby desire exacts regret. Whereby remorse exacts the grey Stern wealth of thought, to pause and stare. Through many a sorry night and day.

I know that memory is a tart Impudent with her rags and tatters; But, with your aid, I will bar the door against her. . . . Forgetting is all that matters!

Indignation, especially that sort for revenue only, has not come from the theaters or the composers of songs sung in the theater, about Dr. Garfield's utterance that at times the lyrics belong in the realm of the theater and not the schoolroom. At that, probably many a press agent has written to the papers about it, and also probably, such letters are in the already brimming wastebaskets.

We are getting tired of reading comments every time somebody official says something. Just for variety's sake, as the sheriff of Nottingham said, it would like to see "Senator" Wheeler Lauds Stimson Speech" or "Pegler New C. I. O. Head" And not on page 2, either.

VICHY, France, May 6.—Marshal Henri Philippe Petain is in the south of France passing a few days on his Pierre Laval in an effort to put French political house in order.—New York Times. It's as good a way as another.

Wake Up. That Part of America Which Does Not Read Mr. David Lawrence's Washington Column! "If the Supreme Court of the United States can supply missing words in Federal statutes . . . then the historic form of government which America has enjoyed for 150 years will have vanished. . . . The court never said which is now the supreme law of the land." —David Lawrence in The Washington Star.

The nation is going to the dogs again. (Dear guide) Herr Hitler guides the judicial pen. (Ain't it a shame?) Let's view with alarm, let's gaze with abhorrence! Let anger burst out in tropical torrents! The Supreme Court differs with good Mr. Lawrence! (Ts, ts.)

A poisonous doctrine we're given to sup. (My, my!) How long before Felix goebbels us up? (Won't be long now!) O Douglas! O Murphy! O Black! and O Reed! Or Lawrence or Hitler? Which will you pay heed to? The Nation's destruction your notions will lead to! (Ho, hum.)

Baseball's Tennyson. Yet I doubt not through the ages one increasing purpose rubs. And the thoughts of men are saddened by the playing of the Cubs. . . . It is likely that when brave Horatius, in the brave days of old, asked his celebrated question, Spurius Larcius and Herminius might have said, "Sorry, Hod, but the right and left brigade holders are on strike."

Doctors are disagreeing. The interventionists think that the Nation has sleeping sickness, and the isolationists are of the opinion, in our opinion wrong, that it has insomnia.

As long as we are all out financially for defense, let the Nation be known as doughitarian. F. P. A. (Released by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Zapp and Tonn, Held On Ellis Island, Face Deportation Charges

Nazi News Agency Heads Arrested on Order of Justice Department

Dr. Manfred Zapp and Guenther Tonn, under indictment here for failure to register as foreign agents in connection with the operation of Transocean, a Nazi news agency, were held without bail at Ellis Island today on deportation charges filed by the Justice Department.

The two were arrested late yesterday, the Justice Department contending they had not maintained the status of treaty merchants under which they entered this country.

This status provides that aliens may enter the United States "solely to carry on trade under and in pursuance of provisions of a present existing treaty of commerce and navigation." They may remain only so long as this status is maintained.

Roundup of Nazi Sailors Continued. The indictment returned here March 11 described Zapp as manager and supervisor of Transocean and Tonn as his assistant. Transocean is not affiliated with any American news service.

In the meantime the roundup of German sailors ordered yesterday by Attorney General Jackson was continuing. In New York, 128 were concentrated on Ellis Island, while others were held in Chicago, Minneapolis, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Newark, Jersey City, Bayonne, N. J., Miami, Kansas City and San Francisco.

The seamen, former members of Standard Oil tanker crews, are accused of overstaying their leave in this country. In all, 160 are to be confined, in an apparent effort by the Government to guard against fifth-column activities.

Deportation Not Possible. The men when the vessels were transferred from American to Panamanian registry several months ago. Because of the war, it has not been possible to deport them, but their movements have been restricted to some extent.

The Associated Press reported that German consulate representatives visited the Ellis Island prisoners, but had no comment. It was reported also from New York that Federal agents had been directed to arrest 29 German sailors reported en route to the West to take a ship to Japan.

The New York consulate furnished them with funds, according to Byron Uhl, district director of immigration.

Sydney L. Wardwell, 61, civilian engineer with the Navy's Bureau of Yards and Docks, died Tuesday in a Baltimore hospital after a long illness. Funeral services were held this afternoon at the Hines funeral home, 2601 Fourteenth street N.W., with burial in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

A native of Pembina, N. Dak., Mr. Wardwell had been an employe of the Navy Department since he came to Washington in 1916. A graduate of the University of North Dakota, he passed the District bar examination after three years at George Washington University and one year at National University School of Law, from which he was graduated.

Mr. Wardwell was a member of the Barbers Masonic Lodge and the Mount Vernon Chapter of R. A. Masons. With his wife, Mrs. Josephine Wardwell, his only survivor in Washington, he lived at 4417 Volta place N.W. He is also survived by his mother, Mrs. Frank Wardwell of Long Beach, Calif., and six brothers and four sisters.

Defense Intensifying D. C. Water Problem, Sewage Parley Told

Emergency Projects Being Developed, Association Hears

The quickening tempo of national defense activity in Washington has been reflected in greatly increased demands on municipal services and has intensified water supply and sewerage treatment problems, Maj. James E. Gordon, director of sanitary engineering in the District, who was unable to be present because of illness.

The conference was to continue this afternoon and tomorrow morning, with several inspection trips scheduled for tomorrow afternoon. Among the plants to be visited are the Anacostia River sewage treatment works at Bladensburg, Md.;

the District sewage treatment plant at Blue Plains and the Robert B. Mills, Md. A dance is scheduled for tonight at the Raleigh Hotel.

Another project contemplated in the near future is the installation of an additional sludge gas engine at the sewage treatment plant at Blue Plains. This work will provide large annual savings on power costs, he said. A new 20,000-gallon filtered water reservoir and a new trash incinerator are included among the "necessary" construction projects for the coming year, he added.

Maj. Snow spoke in place of Maj. James E. Gordon, director of sanitary engineering in the District, who was unable to be present because of illness.

Nearby Farms Fear For Crops With No Prospect of Rain

Southwest Virginia Forest Fires Spread Through Timberland

With farmers in Maryland and Virginia fearing a serious drought, the Weather Bureau today could predict no appreciable amount of rain in the next few days to water thirsting crops.

Last night's rain amounted to .31 of an inch in Washington and neighboring States—which the Weather Bureau said was only enough to lay the dust and not sufficient to alter the outlook.

For the District, the Weather Bureau forecast partly cloudy and cooler weather today, dropping to 53 degrees tonight. Tomorrow will be mostly cloudy, with moderate temperatures, followed by cooler weather in the afternoon and evening.

Fires Threaten Crops. Weather Bureau officials estimated that the nearby farmers needed about an inch of rain and there was no sign of it forthcoming in the forecasts.

Contributing to dry weather damage, Southwest Virginia forest fires yesterday threatened crops and spread through timberland. In one section more than 5,000 acres, mostly in the Jefferson National Forest area, were swept by fire. The homes narrowly escaped destruction and a fire-fighting force of 1,000 men, including O. C. C. enrollees, was called out to battle the blaze. In other Virginia sections about 1,000 acres of land were burned.

That the drought is assuming more serious proportions for farmers in the two neighboring States is indicated in the latest weekly weather and crop bulletin of the Weather Bureau.

Plowing Delayed. The report for Maryland said the growth of crops has been slowed down by the absence of rain, and that, in some sections, farmers have been unable to plow their land because the ground is so hard and dry. Pastures in Maryland also are showing the effect of the dryness.

Wheat and oats crops in the Shenandoah Valley and the northern section of Virginia are in good shape, but in other sections their condition is only "fair to good," the report said. Tobacco plants also are in good condition, the Virginia report said, but hay fields and pastures and such products as strawberries, peas and cabbage "need rain urgently."

4.59-Inch Deficiency. Weather Bureau observers pointed out today that precipitation in the District for the first four months of the year was 4.59 inches below normal. In January, there was a deficiency of .51 inch; in February, 2.35 inches; in March, 1.19 inches, and in April, .54 inch.

Last month, no rain fell in measurable quantities between the 6th and 22d of the month. Then on the 23d and 24th, a drizzle accounted for little more than half an inch of precipitation.

The Weather Bureau pointed out there was a similar deficiency in the first four months of 1938, when precipitation was 4.93 inches below normal.

IVORY SOAP IS MILDER

OH, WHAT A SMILE... A MILD SOAP GETS!

IVORY'S PROMISE to American mothers has always been "purity and mildness." Since the first baby was bathed with it sixty-two years ago, Ivory Soap has constantly been improved. Today it's whiter, easier-sudsing than ever before. But nothing has ever been done to harm Ivory's famous purity and mildness. Actually, by test, Ivory Soap is milder than any other widely advertised white floating soap. For your baby, your complexion, your busy hands... you are sure of gentle mildness when you insist on Ivory Soap.

IVORY'S PLEDGE TO MOTHERS AND BABIES

"We have tested every white floating soap that is being prominently brought to the attention of the public through radio, newspaper or billboard advertising—testing, by a method approved by eminent dermatologists. These tests show Ivory Soap is definitely milder than any other widely advertised white floating soap."

Safely From 2-Ocean Peril Depends on Aid to Britain, Says Knox

Cites 'Fearful Danger'; Churchill Message Relayed to Booksellers

Secretary of the Navy Knox last night gravely warned the American people of a "fearful danger" from enemies in both oceans and declared the combined resources, output and man power of this Nation "are committed to one supreme purpose—to see that the British sea power in the Atlantic be not destroyed."

He made the assertion at the closing convening banquet of the American Booksellers' Association before some 600 loudly applauding delegates at the Willard Hotel.

"We are living in a fearful danger and the only safety to us is to help Great Britain to resist the forces of darkness so that they will not achieve a victory that would ring down the curtain of civilization," Secretary Knox concluded.

A second stirring moment for the delegates and another reference to endangered civilization was when Lord Halifax, British Ambassador, read a spirited message from Prime Minister Winston Churchill. In it Mr. Churchill declared that "Germany's fleeting dictator" now complains against "free American writers" because their fault is that they stand for a "free way of life... that is death to meteoric tyrants."

Sidesteps "Convoying."

Unlike Secretary of War Stimson, who the previous night had suggested that the American Navy be employed to protect shipments of material to England, Mr. Knox made no direct allusion to convoying. But he made it unmistakably plain that loss of British sea power in the Atlantic and Pacific would confront the United States with an enemy sea power "superior to our own."

It was a "black picture" which the American people would have to contemplate, he warned, for against this superior sea power "we would have to protect the whole Western world with our two-ocean Navy not yet built but on its way."

"We would be confronted with Germany, Italy and France on one side and Japan on the other," Mr. Knox said.

"If Britain fails we would have to meet this sea power alone."

At the outset of his brief address Mr. Knox said that Britain was "fortunate" to have a worthy successor to the late Lord Lothian "in times of most grave and menacing perils to both the people of the empire and the United States."

It was not easy for one to take up the task in Washington that Lord Lothian had laid down, he reminded, but Lord Halifax has done it just as well and usefully.

Message From Roosevelt.

Karl Placht, president of the A. B. A., who presided, read greetings from President Roosevelt, whose message added:

"In the maintenance of the morale of the Nation your organization can make a most important contribution. Whether the times be normal or the energies all be directed to the strengthening of national defense, books are always faithful friends and ever-cheerful companions."

"I trust that your deliberations will be enjoyable as well as fruitful of renewed interest in good books everywhere."

If the audience had expected Lord Halifax to touch on the common defense problems of the two nations it was disappointed, for the Ambassador took his cue from President Roosevelt's message and talked both entertainingly and inspirationally about books. He also conveyed his gratitude to the association for the services rendered to publishers in Britain.

Referring to the new collection of Mr. Churchill's speeches, he said, "They speak with an eloquence and force that is the true voice of England, for whom he, more than any other man, is entitled to speak."

Lord Halifax appealed for "a catholic taste to open our hearts to new things." He reflected sadly that during the existing emergency many people have had to forego "pleasures and joys" of reading.

"For one thing," he reminded, "we all ought to feel that the value of reading has the effect of forcing us to put our minds in contact with minds better than our own, if we choose wisely."

Churchill Message.

At the conclusion of his remarks, he read a message received from Mr. Churchill. It was as follows: "Your calling has been well described as a mighty power of spirit in words."

"This power has been taken away from many nations by the Nazi tyrants. Not easily will it be taken from the English-speaking peoples who, from writings living and dead, gather courage and constancy to strengthen us in the trials we must undergo."

"When the minds of nations can be cowed by the will of one man, strength of the Nazi conspiracy civilization is broken irreparably. against the world need no reminder that the means by which nations

NEW HOUSE PAINT MADE BY DUPONT amazes thousands!

STARTS dazzling WHITE!... KEEPS white houses WHITER!
Contains brilliantly white titanium pigment!
STAYS whiter because it's "Self-Cleaning"!
Amazing Hiding Power and Easy Application!

BRILLIANTLY white, Du Pont House Paint stays white longer than ordinary paints because it's "self-cleaning"! It forms a tough, durable film which protects the surface from rust, rot, or decay. Like all paints, it collects dirt on exposure to the elements. As time goes on, however, a fine white powder forms on the surface of this new paint. This powder is washed away by heavy rains, carrying the dirt with it and exposing a fresh white surface. Usually this self-cleaning process starts after a few months of exposure under normal conditions of weather, but may be delayed under unusual climatic or dirt-collecting conditions. Because the "self-cleaning" process is gradual, the wearing qualities of the paint's film are not abnormally affected.

Available in light COLORS, too!

The new Tru-Tint formula developed by Du Pont offers you lovely light colors with the same extra value. Like the white paint, these colors are "self-cleaning." Next time you paint, be sure your painter uses Du Pont House Paint. It costs no more than other good paints... saves money because it needs fewer repaintings.

See your neighborhood Du Pont dealer today—Tune in "Du Pont Cavalcade of America" every Monday evening—9:30 to 10 p.m., E. S. T.—Station WRC.

If This Lemon Is Worth 1 1/2¢ . . .

What Is This One Worth?

Obviously the second lemon is not worth as much as the first because it's smaller. . . . and probably has a lot less juice in it. Yet how would you go about pricing lemons of different sizes so that each individual lemon represented an honest value. By volume would be one way, but that would call for a lot of involved mathematics. By weight is the other way. . . . and that is the method now used by Safeway.

Safeway figures its cost per pound. . . . adds a small profit and then sells them by the pound. Thus you are sure of true value regardless of size. You automatically pay less per piece for the smaller sizes than for the larger ones.

House Unit Approves Pay Increases for Police and Firemen

Schulte Takes Steps to Bring Measure to Floor Next Monday

An effort by District police and firemen to have their pay increased about $600 a year was given the first congressional endorsement late yesterday by the Police and Fire Subcommittee of the House District Committee.

The subcommittee, headed by Representative Schulte, Democrat, of Indiana ordered a favorable report on a bill sponsored by him to raise the pay of the police and firemen and immediately took steps to get full committee approval so it can be placed on the House calendar Monday, the next District Day.

Adoption of the increased pay scale, according to data compiled by the District auditor, would add about $1,600,000 a year to the District budget.

A hearing was held on Mr. Schulte's bill last week, and there was no definite opposition to the proposal to raise the pay of the police and firemen. Rufus S. Lusk of the Washington Taxpayers' Association, however, asked the question: "Where are we going to get the money?"

The Fiscal Affairs Subcommittee of the District Committee is counting on the House to pass Monday the Senate-approved Overton bill for fixing the amount of the annual Federal payment toward municipal expenses. It has been estimated that adoption of the formula contained in the Overton bill would raise the present $6,000,000 Federal share to approximately $9,000,000 in the coming fiscal year beginning July 1 and give the District about $3,000,000 more in revenue to help meet the emergency situation resulting from the influx here of thousands of national defense workers.

Frank Moses, 69, of 1520 Neal street N.E., was in Casualty Hospital with a compound fracture of the right leg. Police said he was struck at Maryland avenue and H street N.E.

John W. Johnson, 821 Fourth street N.W., was in Casualty Hospital with shoulder and ankle injuries, received, according to police, when the truck he was driving was in collision with another at Fourteenth and H streets N.E.

Body Found in Tidal Basin

The body of a man was taken from the Tidal Basin yesterday by harbor police, who reported Army discharge papers and a social security card found in pockets indicated he was John M. Mazewski of Nuangola, Pa.

The body, discovered floating at the foot of Seventeenth street N.W., had been in the water for some time, according to police. It was taken to the District Morgue for autopsy.

Big Fires Are Raging At Manchester, Nazi Flyers Report

Destruction of 41,900 Tons of Shipping Is Claimed by Berlin

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, May 8—German flyers returning from reconnaissance today reported big fires raging in Manchester, great English manufacturing center, after the Luftwaffe stepped up attacks on British ports and industry last night.

The Germans claimed a total of 15 British planes shot down yesterday and last night.

The reconnaissance reports filled out the high command's own version of the night of bombing which had listed attacks on the ports of Liverpool, Hull, Hartlepool, Middlesbrough, Bristol and Plymouth.

The scouts added Manchester to this roll and also told of an attack "with good effect" on wharves at Barrow-in-Furness, opposite the Isle of Man.

Several Hundred Planes Used.
D.N.B. official German news agency said several hundred planes were employed in each of the attacks in the first week of May, directed especially at Liverpool and Glasgow.

The high command referred to Liverpool and Hull as "transit ports" (presumably meaning ports of entry for supplies from the United States) and said shipping facilities were destroyed and large fires started there and elsewhere.

It was the seventh consecutive night attack for Liverpool.

Submarines and bombers sank 41,900 tons of shipping in the North Atlantic and near England, the daily communique said.

A bomber sank a 12,000-ton ship in English waters, it was said, when a convoy was attacked, and two other ships were damaged. The toll of U-boats in the Atlantic was put at 29,950 tons.

In addition, two transports were reported badly damaged when attacked by bombers in the harbor of Tobruk, North Africa.

Dover Damage Claimed.
German long-range artillery, too, opened up on harbor objectives, and the high command said damage was done to "war-vital" objectives at Dover.

The only damage in Germany reported by the command was in Bremen, where houses were admitted to have been damaged and a number of civilians killed and injured.

Informed sources said that the German raids on British ports last night were favored by good visibility, that there were large fires and explosions in the Liverpool area and that Hull's grain mills were particularly affected.

Attack on Tobruk.
Stukas were reported to have made an effective attack on the waterworks and water distilling plant at Tobruk. The distilling works was said to have been destroyed. Direct hits were declared to have been scored also on an anti-aircraft battery southeast of Tobruk harbor.

The Germans said, Nazi and Italian artillery dispersed heavy concentrations of British forces in the Tobruk region yesterday and British scouts south of Salum re-treated in the face of German reconnaissance squads.

Long-range Nazi guns shelled the port and war essential objectives in Dover yesterday afternoon, and the English responded with four shots, all of which exploded harmlessly in a field, the Germans said.

2 Ships in British Convoy Reported Torpedoed

NEW YORK, May 8 (AP)—The 10,200-ton British passenger liner Ixion and the 5,658-ton Norwegian freighter Eastern Star were torpedoed in a Nazi submarine attack on a British convoy about 750 miles east of the Southern tip of Greenland, maritime circles said today.

The vessels were engaged in ferrying American supplies to England.

Robert J. Sime Dies; Was Retired Optician

Robert J. Sime, 75, retired optician died yesterday at his home, 5616 Thirteenth street N.W. In ill health for several months, he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage, members of the family said.

Until a year ago, when he sold the business, Mr. Sime conducted an optical establishment at 1022 Connecticut avenue N.W. He had operated at that location for about 10 years.

A native of Dunville, Ontario, Mr. Sime, before coming to Washington in 1918, was in business in Pittsburgh. Here he was a member of the Civitan Club, the Masonic Order, Knights Templar and the Congressional Country Club.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anna McCormick Sime; two daughters, Mrs. C. Martin Brand of Washington and Mrs. C. W. Carr, wife of Capt. Carr, Medical Corps, U. S. N., now at Quonset Point, R. I., and a son, Robert M. Sime of this city.

NEW YORK, May 8.—A few rallies, metals and specialties stepped into a small-sized rally today but stock market leaders generally lacked rising power.

The list, uneven at the start, later exhibited mild recovery tendencies. Gains of fractions to around a point were generally distributed after midday. Prices failed to hold in many instances, however, and the direction was notably cloudy at the close.

Most in Wall Street felt the market was due for more of a comeback than it enjoyed Tuesday, although those who still leaned to the buying side were disposed to limit their gains pending an answer to the question of whether the United States may soon be an actual participant in the war. The tax specifier, brokers said, persisted as a speculative handicap.

Bullish arguments were discerned in the business news which included the General Motors April sales aggregate reported for any month in the company's history, and a more than seasonal jump in last week's freight loadings to the highest mark since early last November.

In the share dividend resistance was shown by New York Central, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Rockwell, General Motors, Sears, Roebuck, United Aircraft, Phillips Petroleum and J. C. Penney.

Backward were United States Steel, Bethlehem, J. I. Case, Philip Morris, Union Carbide and American Can. Chrysler dipped to a new low for the year.

Vegetable Canners Boost Shipments

The Commerce Department reports a record total of 91,000,000 cases in the first quarter of 1941, about one-seventh more than in the similar period last year.

Export of canned peas, corn, tomatoes, tomato juice, green and wax beans, lima beans and beans and other vegetables.

Merry Tunes Ring Out As Oldest Inhabitants Hold 'O'Connor Night'

Title Company Executive's Sideline Career as Entertainer Praised

It was George H. O'Connor night at the meeting last night of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants, and the old Union Engine House, in which the group met, resounded to strains of Irish ditties and old minstrel tunes.

Speaker after speaker, who had known Mr. O'Connor, title company executive, over a period of many years, rose to pay their tribute to "Washington's favorite minstrel," who has entertained a number of Presidents and spread joy at innumerable banquets, luncheons and community celebrations.

After expressing his appreciation for the honor which had been paid him, Mr. O'Connor proceeded to delight his audience as he has many thousands before, with jokes and songs—songs which had many a tapping time with their feet.

Charles H. Bates, who introduced the master of ceremonies for the evening, Thomas W. Brahany, said "it was a great night for the Irish."

Praised as Goodwill Envoy.
Fred Emery, a vice president of the association, declared: "I think Mr. O'Connor will go down as the man who has contributed more joy, fellowship, goodwill, happiness and pleasure to organized Washington than any other man."

The Rev. Arthur A. O'Leary, S. J., president of Georgetown University, who pronounced the invocation, also joined in the tribute to Mr. O'Connor. Referring to a master of arts degree given to Mr. O'Connor, he said that "no degree given in Georgetown was ever more deserved." Father O'Leary recalled a quip made by Mrs. O'Connor when her husband received the A. M. degree:

"You deserve it, because I have never seen you until a.m."

Other Singers on Program.
Also taking part in the program were George H. Wilson, pianist and Bernard Fitzgerald, Fred East, William F. Raymond and Edwin C. Steffe, singers. Led by Mr. O'Connor, they brought the meeting to a close with a rousing rendition of "It's a Great Day Tonight for the Irish."

Before the entertainment part of the meeting, the association voted in five new members: G. Gould Lincoln, Albert Lynn McDowell, James A. Purcell, Leonard Perry West and James E. Wilson, retired police captain. It also went on record as in favor of a proposed Dependents' Placement Service to aid in the employment of needy dependents of those who volunteered or were drafted into military service.

On the motion of Jesse Suter, it was decided that in the setting of the association would be in honor of the "young members 90 years of age and over," and that the August meeting would be for those in "80-year class."

Navy Officially Permits Shorts in Tropic Areas

The Navy has taken a page from the Army's book of regulations and now officially permits the wearing of shorts in the tropics Secretary Knox said yesterday.

However, the abbreviated uniform will not be worn while a ship is in port. Heretofore, Navy men on duty in tropical waters have been permitted to wear shorts unofficially.

These outfits usually were made simply by cutting the legs off regulation uniforms. Now that the Navy has taken official action, a man serving in the tropics will be issued regulation shorts.

The silk neckerchiefs worn by seamen since the days of Admiral Nelson are to give way to rayon fabrics in the United States Navy, Mr. Knox said. It was explained that home industry would provide the material though there was not a shortage of silk in this country.

Heat so intense that frogs died from the temperature of the water in small streams has been reported in the Little Karroo district of Australia which is suffering from a drought.

PIE USED TO MAKE HIM SHUDDER

You can remember with pleasure any meal that's followed by a dash of Eno in a glass of water. Eno is just as quick to tone down acid between meals as it is to relieve distress after too much eating, drinking or smoking. Likewise a larger quantity taken first thing in the morning acts as a quick, refreshing laxative. Buy today at your druggist's.

Recreation Plan Approved by School Board

Commissioners To Get $5,580,700 Program Soon

A $5,580,700 recreation area and park development program will go to the Commissioners shortly after being approved "in principle" by the Board of Education yesterday.

PARKING INVOLVES MAJOR PROBLEM—The task at hand, as explained in the new-day program, is to find locations at which to store the all-day parker's automobile at a nominal fee outside the central business district so that this area may be opened more to transients and short-time parkers. This photograph, taken of a downtown parking lot, gives an idea of the great number of automobiles which must be taken care of daily.

The new plan is to set up fringe parking lots outside the central downtown district, where cars would be placed at nominal charge. The parker would be taken to his store of work by means of a short-haul bus system at a small fee.

Fairfax Rejects Ban on Stores Near Belvoir

Post Officer Fears Congestion Would Endanger Soldiers

Special Dispatch to The Star.

FAIRFAX, Va., May 8.—The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors yesterday refused a request from Fort Belvoir authorities that commercial establishments be prohibited for a distance of 1 1/2 miles from barracks on the Government reservation.

In a letter from Col. R. C. Crawford it was stated that because of congestion on U. S. Highway 1 from 5 to 10 soldiers walking along the highway to such business places would be killed each year, and furthermore that commercial establishments are not necessary, since all needed equipment, supplies and refreshments can be obtained at the post. The board said that each request for rezoning must be considered individually, and if the supervisors were to adopt such a blanket rezoning only residences could be built along the highway. As far as public dance halls and beer selling establishments are concerned, Supervisor Andrew W. Clarke explained the Circuit Court has authority over the former and the Virginia Alcoholic Beverage Control Board can control the latter.

Commission Named

The clerk was directed to write a letter to the War Department stating each request for rezoning in that particular area will receive careful study.

Acting on a request from the Federation of Fairfax County Citizens' Associations that an official agency be set up to survey and study the rezoning rendered in the county by the various public utilities, a Public Utilities Commission was named by the board, consisting of three members.

Those named were E. P. Roll, Jr., of Lee Boulevard Heights; Edward M. Jones of Falls Church; and W. S. Blanchard of Herndon. The latter is also a member of the Fairfax County Planning Commission.

Among the functions of the new commission will be those of investigating rates, rules, regulations, and practices of utility services rendered by public utility companies, and make recommendations to the supervisors relative to changes that might seem desirable for the public interest.

Rezoning Pleas Approved

In naming the commission it was directed that it not incur any expense or pecuniary obligation without authorization from the supervisors.

The board accepted the resignation of James Todd Baldwin of Vienna as a member of the County Planning Commission. Mr. Baldwin advised the supervisors he accepted the post of assistant executive director and construction supervisor of the Norfolk Housing Authority.

Donald L. Wilkins of Lee Boulevard Heights was named to the Planning Commission to succeed Mr. Baldwin.

Several rezoning requests were approved by the board and a number of amendments to the zoning ordinance were studied. Commonwealth's Attorney Paul E. Brown was directed to advertise the proposed amendments for public hearing.

Fairfax Committee Urges Regulation of Trailers and Camps

Special Dispatch to The Star.

FAIRFAX, Va., May 8.—A committee named by the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors several weeks ago has recommended adoption of a county ordinance regulating trailers and trailer camps.

Because of the large number of trailers now located in the county, resulting in a heavier burden on local school system, the committee recommended that some form of trailer taxation be levied. The county receives no taxes from approximately 95 per cent of the trailer owners, the report said.

The committee, consisting of Supervisors Andrew W. Clarke and C. H. Powell, expressed the view that with proper planning and regulation trailers and trailer camps might be useful locally because of the housing problem arising from the national defense program.

"Trailer problems," the report stated, "are pressing more and more upon government for solution. The presence of a number of trailers in the county is steadily increasing in quantity is bringing them to the attention and within the jurisdiction of local governments; chiefly local governments are affected at present, but it appears that State and Federal agencies are also involved. The local agencies are charged with the protection and general welfare of citizens and trailers must meet the requirements."

The committee recommended that the Board of Supervisors incorporate with its report a study made by the County Planning Commission in which a number of practical suggestions for handling the problem were mentioned.

The board has appointed a committee consisting of Mr. Clarke, C. H. Powell, the Planning Commission, Commonwealth's Attorney Paul E. Brown, Capt. Carl R. McIntosh, chief of police, and Dr. G. R. Carpenter, county medical director, to prepare a tentative ordinance and submit it to the supervisors.

Takoma Park C. of C. Backs Overton and Highway Proposals

$30,000,000 Toll Road Plan to Be Studied by Committee

The Overton formula for fixing the Federal Government's share in the amount of land owned by the Government, was endorsed in principle unanimously by the Takoma Park (Md.-D. C.) Chamber of Commerce last night. Copies of the resolution will be sent to Chairman Randolph of the House District Committee and to Senator Overton, Democrat, of Louisiana, who sponsored the bill in the Senate.

The chamber also approved in principle the new major highway improvement plan, prepared by the Department of Highways of the District. Congressional leaders in charge of District affairs will be advised of the action.

A proposed $30,000,000 toll road for Maryland, built and operated by a private enterprise, was opposed in a resolution presented by J. Douglas Bradshaw, but was referred to the Streets and Lights Committee for study and a report at the June meeting.

John W. Coffman, president, announced appointment of the following committee chairman: Robert E. Lohr, streets and lights; J. Milton Derrick, community development; H. L. Thornton, public utilities; J. Douglas Bradshaw, zoning; Leo R. Hubbard, schools; Robert M. Lyon, health and welfare; Donald D. Lamond, laws and legislation; C. Maurice Weidemeyer, better homes contest; John W. Coffman, health contest; E. Brooke Petty, Independence Day celebration; Warren D. Hubbard, membership; Harold Gates, spring stag dinner.

New members elected included Franklin W. Schneider and Harry J. Kiltz. Guests at the meeting were L. R. Grabill, acting president of the Takoma Park Citizens' Association and Town Commissioner Joseph Martin.

Dr. Lewis Meriam of the Brookings Institution and a resident of Kensington, Md., spoke on the advisability of a Montgomery County council, which would serve as a legislative, policy-making, appropriating body for the county. He recommended all administrative work be taken away and placed in the hands of a competent body of administrative officers and that an engineer be obtained to take charge of an engineering department. This also applied to the management of the public schools and their maintenance. He favored development of a modern police department and co-ordination of a fire department. He also stressed the need of a civil service commission for the county.

Building Program Urged For Virginia Hospitals

By The Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., May 8.—Estimating that 14,210 patients would be in the State's mental hospitals by June 30, 1948, the State Hospital Board today outlined a suggested $5,864,696 six-year building program which was declared essential to provide "for real psychiatric care and treatment."

If these capital improvements are made, the hospital officials said that with the possible exception of some rehabilitation and fireproofing of old buildings, the hospital building and equipment program would be up to date for the first time in history.

Whitehurst Explains That Proposal Envisions 10-Cent Storage, Nickel for Short-Haul Bus

On May 20 the District Commissioners will hold a public hearing on the $44,450,000 highway construction program drawn up after surveys lasting more than a year and described in detail in The Star when released by Highway Director H. C. Whitehurst April 25. In a series of articles The Star is analyzing in detail the purposes of all phases of the extensive program.

No. 5—Parking Facilities

By PAT JONES.

The ultimate goal of Highway Director H. C. Whitehurst in his efforts to solve the parking problem in Washington is a system whereby the average daily worker, with an automobile, can go back and forth to his job at a daily cost, outside of the operating expense of his car, of not more than 15 cents.

This charge would be divided between a 10-cent fee for parking and a 5-cent fee for the short haul by bus to his office from the point where the worker leaves his car. On a basis of this rate, the average employe would have monthly transportation expense of $3.75 and a yearly expense of $45, which, in the director's opinion, represents about the maximum the average person could afford.

The immediate problem is to work out the proposed solution from an economic standpoint, to locate parking space which can be rented to the public at a nominal charge. Prying into the situation, Capt. Whitehurst found that land values inside the central Government district were too high for parking lots to be profitable at the maximum revenue he proposes and, for that reason, he has suggested that the lots be established in the area immediately adjacent to this section.

In his study, he divided parkers into two main classes—transient and all-day. The transients he divided still further into those who park from 20 to 60 minutes and those who park from an hour to four hours, while the all-day parkers were classed as the work-hour parker, able to pay only a nominal fee for personal transportation, and the parker who often needs his car in business and can afford to pay a higher fee.

For this last division of parkers, he would leave parking facilities in the central Government district. On the other hand, the lots in the fringe areas would be used by the work-hour parker, who cannot balance his budget with a high transportation expense.

The director has concluded that $500 is the maximum per car which should be spent to provide parking space within the reach of the mass of people. This maximum outlay is figured on a basis of 200 square feet to a car, allowing for aisle and maneuvering, and should bring a return of at least $36 a year, computed to include return on the investment and coverage for operating expense.

This comparatively low-cost parking cannot be done inside the central area, where operators of parking lots make their profit on a quick turnover. There the all-day parker is not preferred and, should he stop, the minimum charge is 50 cents a day.

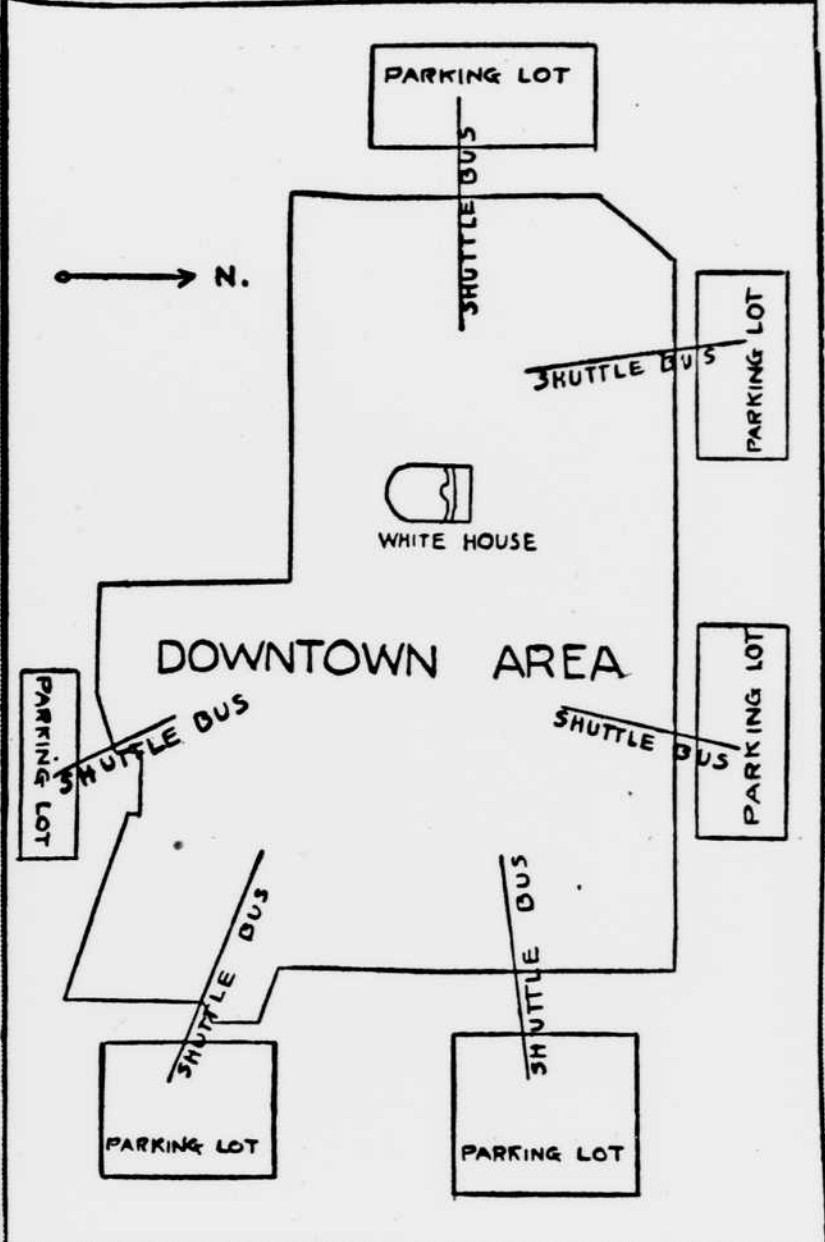

Quick Meter Turnover.
Capt. Whitehurst explained that this idea of a quick turnover also applies to his proposal that parking meters be placed in certain sections of the downtown area to give transient motorists priority. The difference, however, he added, would be that the turnover is desirable not for the additional revenue it would bring so much as for the additional opportunity for parking it would provide.

In advocating fringe parking lots just outside the central area, he advised that they be restricted to a reasonable size, probably of not more than 400 to 500 car capacity, in order to avoid peak conditions at each lot or garage which would create the adjacent roadway system and the short-line buses he proposes as transportation inward from there. The cheapest structure to operate, he said, is the three-story parking plaza type.

These lots also must be advantageously located. In this connection, the director said an easy solution would be for the District Government to subsidize the parking areas, but he recalled that the District has no authority to proceed with a subsidy for Virginia and Maryland car owners, who comprise a major portion of the motorists involved.

Favors D. C. Starting Plan.
To get the plan started, however, he believes the District government, with the aid of other public agencies, should establish the first parking facilities, with the understanding that they later would be leased to private interests on a suitable basis.

"I do not believe," he explained, "(See HIGHWAY, Page B-17.)"

The new plan is to set up fringe parking lots outside the central government district, where cars would be stored at nominal charge. The parker would be taken to his place of work by means of a short-haul bus system at a small fee.

Nearby Farms Fear For Crops With No Prospect of Rain

Southwest Virginia Forest Fires Spread Through Timberland

With farmers in Maryland and Virginia fearing a serious drought, the Weather Bureau today could predict no appreciable amount of rain in the next few days to water thirsting crops.

Last night's rain amounted to 31 of an inch in Washington and neighboring States—which the Weather Bureau said was only enough to lay the dust and not sufficient to give substantial relief.

For the District, the Weather Bureau forecast partly cloudy and cooler weather today, dropping to 53 degrees tonight. Tomorrow will be mostly cloudy, with moderate temperatures, followed by cooler weather in the afternoon and evening.

Fires Threaten Crops

Weather Bureau officials estimated that the nearby farmers needed about an inch of rain and there was no sign of it forthcoming in the forecasts.

Contributing to dry weather damage, Southwest Virginia forest fires yesterday threatened crops and spread through timberland. In one section more than 5,000 acres, mostly in the Jefferson National Forest area, were swept by fire. Three homes narrowly escaped destruction and a fire-fighting force of 1,000 men, including C. C. C. enrollees, was called out to battle the blaze.

In other Virginia sections about 1,000 acres of land were burned. That the drought is assuming more serious proportions for farmers in the two neighboring States is indicated in the latest weekly weather and crop bulletin of the Weather Bureau.

Plowing Delayed

The report for Maryland said the growth of crops has been slowed down by the absence of rain, and that, in some sections, farmers have been unable to plow their land because the ground is so hard and dry. Pastures in Maryland also are showing the effect of the dryness.

Wheat and oats crops in the Shenandoah Valley and the northern section of Virginia are in good shape, but in other sections their condition is only "fair to good," the report said. Tobacco plants also are in good conditions, the Virginia report said, but hay fields and pastures and such products as strawberries, peas and cabbage "need rain urgently."

4.59-Inch Deficiency

Weather Bureau observers pointed out today that precipitation in the District for the first four months of the year was 4.59 inches below normal. In January, there was a deficiency of 5 1/2 inch; in February, 2.35 inches; in March, 1.19 inches, and in April, .54 inch.

Last month, no rain fell in measurable quantities between the 6th and 22d of the month. Then on the 23d and 24th, a drizzle accounted for little more than half an inch of precipitation.

The Weather Bureau pointed out there was a similar deficiency in the first four months of 1938, when precipitation was 4.93 inches below normal.

'Stagger' Plan For U. S. Pay Wins Interest

Budget Bureau and Merchants Consider Possibilities in D. C.

The Budget Bureau is "interested" in the possibilities of staggering the $32,000,000 monthly Federal pay roll, it was disclosed today.

While it was established that nothing in the nature of a definite program has been drawn up or even a comprehensive study undertaken, bureau officials, it was learned, are not overlooking the possibilities of such a program.

Since the recent staggering of hours of operation of the various Government departments, the suggestion of staggered Government pay days has been raised unofficially in several quarters as a means of eliminating the "peak" demands on Washington business establishments on two days a month, and spreading this demand over the entire month.

Reaction Favorable

The Merchants and Manufacturers' Association has canvassed its retail members informally on the suggestion, according to E. M. Shaw, secretary, and the response has been "very favorable." No action has been taken by the Board of Trade on the matter, but William H. Press, secretary of the board, said the board is inclined to favor the proposal.

District traffic officials also are interested in the matter from the angle of the concentration of traffic in downtown districts on Government pay days, but Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer said only informal discussions with District business men have yet taken place.

Among the suggestions being mentioned in business circles, it was learned, was the possibility of having a Government department paid off each day of the month, or so arranging the distribution so that every day would be a pay day. Another was to have four rather than two pay days a month.

The suggestions, however, have not yet been turned over to the Budget Bureau for its consideration.

Figures on pay rolls computed as of February by the Merchants and Manufacturers Association reveal a private enterprise pay roll of something over $22,000,000 and a Federal pay roll of nearly $32,000,000 a month. The Federal figure includes the administrative officers of the Government, the legislative salaries, judicial salaries, the District government salaries and the military salaries.

Causes Peak in Help

Mr. Shaw pointed out that handling the vast Federal pay roll together with such private pay rolls as are met on the fifteenth and the last day of the month forces many stores to take on extra temporary help to meet the demand. He added that stores were finding it difficult to obtain such temporary assistance due to the demands of the Government, which has increased the number of jobs. Were the demand to be staggered, he said, employment might be stabilized a bit.

Other events of the day included a spectacular showing of infantry weapons by a group of Army Regulars from the 12th Regiment's Arlington cantonment and a sham battle between two cadet companies using blank ammunition with machine guns, grenades, rifles and tanks.

Two Different Women Found To Live in Same Body

Psychiatrists Told of Separate Reactions Under Tests for Dual Personality

By THOMAS R. HENRY, Staff Correspondent.

RICHMOND, Va., May 8.—Two women can live in one body. They are superficially somewhat similar but fundamentally different.

This was reported to the American Psychiatric Association meeting here yesterday by Dr. Milton H. Erickson and Dr. David Rapaport of Eloise, Mich.

Cases of dual personality reported in the past, they explained, have been only superficially observed. They subjected one case that came to them, a young woman, to intensive psychological tests and found that the responses were those of two basically different individuals.

One, Ellen, is normal in intelligence. The other, Mary, comes close to the genius class. This was demonstrated by standard intelligence tests.

One More Neurotic.

Both Ellen and Mary are neurotic. One, however, is highly inhibited, presents the picture of an acute neurosis and is quite impulsive. The other is passive, retiring and generally unconcerned about things.

Said Dr. Erickson: "Ellen thinks in vague generalities and displays a rather weak judgment. Mary has, in spite of her interest in extravagance, a ready grasp for the obvious and keen powers of judgment. Ellen shows a great amount of free-floating anxiety and is an intensive day dreamer, with a weak emotional adaptation to her surroundings. Mary is entirely self-sufficient, displaying no anxieties.

"The intelligence quotient of one is 126, placing her in the superior intelligence group. The other's is 113, putting her in the bright normal class. In conceptual problems Ellen is decidedly superior to Mary, but where emotional stability is crucial to the performance Mary is the superior."

Similar tests were made with another "dual personality"—referred to only as A and B. Both were quite similar in personality—highly intelligent, day dreamers, and with many interests in life. Intelligence tests showed a relatively insignificant difference, but one is very stable while the other is "flighty." One has good judgment while the other is uneven and undependable.

"The two persons," said Dr. Erickson, "appear to have organized their past experience into two different patterns and to react alternately now on the basis of one and now on the basis of the other pattern."

"The test findings appear to contradict the general assumption that the phenomenon of dual personality is a hysterical manifestation."

The two personalities are now switched off and on at will, it was reported, but one gave place to the other in a random sort of way.

As soon as the switch took place, however, there was an entirely different woman, except that she was using the same body. The mind somehow has been split in two—and this meant splitting the past since infancy in halves.

A human being is the product of experience and environment, and if these are organized in two different patterns the result is two different persons.

No effort was made to explain how this psychological process takes place.

Dr. Winfred Overholser, superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, was elected secretary-treasurer of the association at the annual meeting yesterday. Dr. James King Hall of Richmond was elected president and Dr. Arthur H. Ruggles of Providence president-elect.

India has decreed that all railway workers receiving wages less than an estimated "subsistence level" be granted a "dearness allowance."

Arlington Cantonment Draws 20 Selectees

Twenty selectees from the New Cumberland (Pa.) reception center reported for duty at the Arlington cantonment last week, the first draftees to be assigned to that post since the passage of Selective Service Act.

Garrisoned by approximately 1-100 men of the 12th Infantry Regiment, under command of Col. O. H. Saunders, the cantonment is regarded as one of the key points of Washington's defense network.

The 20 Pennsylvanians were the first of a series of selectees which are expected to bring the regiment to wartime strength by June.

Benefit for Bishop's Garden Attracts Society Throng to Flower Mart at Cathedral

Mr. Edward Van Devanter Entertains For Los Angeles Guest; Parties Honor Law Institute Visitors

Threats of rain yesterday afternoon didn't prevent flower lovers of the city in large numbers from attending the flower mart at the Washington Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul.

The imposing pilgrim steps at the Cathedral were lined with booths arranged by garden clubs in and near the city, and each was lovely. Fruit and vegetables were sold at the stand presided over by Mrs. Stanley P. Reed, Mrs. Robert H. Jackson and Mrs. James M. Heim, who wore wide sun hats and brightly-colored garden smocks. Near this stand were others filled with glorious blossoms. Novelties were sold, as well as cakes and cookies.

Mrs. Owen J. Roberts Presides at Tea Table.

Mrs. Owen J. Roberts presided at the tea table set up near the steps, under striped awnings, and which was one of the most popular spots on Mount St. Albans yesterday. Among those assisting Mrs. Roberts during the afternoon were Mrs. Nelson Johnson and Mrs. Kemper Williams.

All Hallows' Guild, which sponsored the benefit to obtain funds to improve the already lovely bishop's garden, can chalk off another brilliant success after yesterday's flower mart, for everything went off smoothly and the event was as beautiful as it was profitable.

Mrs. Alfred Wilcox Honor Guest at Party.

Many who attended the mart earlier in the day met again at the Sulgrave Club "after 5"—when Mr. Edward Van Devanter entertained in honor of Mrs. Alfred Wilcox of Los Angeles, who has taken Mrs. Henry D. Flood's apartment for the month of May.

Informality marked the party, for there was no receiving line. Mrs. Wilcox wore a deep blue gown of embroidered chiffon, and had a large matching color straw hat and envelope purse.

Mrs. Randolph Miner, sister-in-law of Mrs. Wilcox, was present, as was Mrs. Flood, who is spending much time in Virginia with relatives while her apartment is occupied.

Others at this party were Mrs. George Thomas Marry, Mrs. Frank C. Letts, Baroness Stackelberg, Mrs. Ives Lowe, Princess Cantacuzene, Col. and Mrs. M. Robert Guggenheim, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grant Meem, Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, Miss Carolyn Nash, Mr. George T. Summerlin, Mr. Clarence Hewes, and a host of others. The party overflowed from the large ballroom upstairs down into the popular Mexican patio on the first floor.

Law Institute Visitors Share Social Spotlight.

Visitors to the Capital during sessions of the American Law Institute continued to hold at least a part of the social spotlight yesterday, when the Capital Club entertained Mrs. Francis Biddle, who was late in the afternoon, while wives of the members of the Institute gave a tea in the Chinese room of the Mayflower Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Biddle entertained in compliment to friends from Pennsylvania who came for the meetings, and among their guests were a number from the Supreme Court circle. Presiding at the tea table for Mrs. Biddle were Mrs. Felix Frankfurter and Mrs. Dean Acheson.

Mrs. George Wharton Pepper, wife of the former Senator from Pennsylvania, who is president of the institute, received the guests in the Chinese room at the Mayflower. She was assisted by Mrs. William Dwyer Lewis, wife of the director of the institute, and Mrs. Herbert F. Goodrich, chairman of the relations for the institute. Also from Pennsylvania are Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Goodrich. The latter before her marriage a few months ago was Mrs. Mary Dorn Baxter and is living with her mother, Mrs. George H. Dorn, widow of the former Secretary of War, while in Washington.

Another party involving those in the legal world was that of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former Assistant Attorney General, who was hostess at dinner last evening in honor of Associate Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone. Other guests included members of the Law Institute. Dinner was served at the Sulgrave Club.

Miss Mary Anderson Honors Senora Isabel de Palencia.

Writers had their share of social festivity yesterday, the director of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor, Miss Mary Anderson, entertaining in honor of the famous Spanish writer, Senora Isabel de Palencia, who is here for the observance of book week. Miss Anderson was hostess at tea for the visitor, who served with her as a delegate to the International Labor Office at Geneva for some years. Other guests were administrative officials in the Labor Department.

Miss Pilar Ravelo, who has been Washington correspondent for Philippine papers, gave a luncheon for colleagues. Miss Ravelo also has been press relations assistant to the Philippine Resident Commissioner. The luncheon was served at the Shoreham and the hostess had charming favors for her guests, white straw hats and beautifully woven straw slippers, handmade in the Philippines and sent to Miss Ravelo for her party yesterday. The hostess was dressed in native pina cloth made with the characteristic full sleeves very much puffed at the shoulders and embroidered in red, green and

Club Women Urge Study Of Spanish

Virginia Parley To Install New Officers Tonight

The Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs turned its attention to Latin American relations in two resolutions approved today at its annual convention meeting at Wardman Park Hotel.

One resolution requested that classes in Spanish and Portuguese be made available as a part of the leisure time program being planned for men in training camps, pointing out that co-mosphere defense might involve co-operation effort between our troops and those of the Latin American countries. It also suggested the knowledge of the languages would be of value in civilian life.

Another resolution called on the Government to investigate complaints that motion pictures sent to South America from the United States give a false idea of the "worth and culture of our citizens" and to take steps to correct such misrepresentation.

In another action the body urged appointment of a State supervisor of fine arts by the State Board of Education.

The new officers will be installed at the final banquet session tonight when the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, will make the principal address.

Nominated from the floor today were Mrs. Charles W. Musler of Hilltop Village for vice president, and Mrs. William G. Watt, Lyon Village for recording secretary.

Others nominated by the committee included Mrs. O. F. Northington, jr., Petersburg, for vice president; Mrs. N. R. Hoyle, Newport News, for recording secretary, and Mrs. M. S. Mayes, West Point, for treasurer.

Mrs. Vera Dean Talks On Post-War Duties

In the afternoon the visitors will make an inspection tour of the headquarters of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, 1734 N. Street N.W.

Responsibilities of the United States in the post-war world were discussed by Mrs. Vera Michele Dean, director of research of the Foreign Policy Association, in an address which featured last night's meeting.

Holding that aid to Britain involves helping Britain "win the peace" as well as the war, Mrs. Dean warned that in the event of ultimate German defeat Britain might be economically too exhausted to shoulder the task of European and world reconstruction.

The peacemakers will be faced with the double task of reconstructing democracy within nations, so that it can meet the strains and stresses of mass production, and of making democracy work in relations between nations, Mrs. Dean declared.

"Neither can be undertaken or accomplished alone," she contended. "That is why people in this country who would shun international responsibilities on the plea that they must first take care of the shareholders and the Dust Bowl are really shirking the issue."

Yenching Graduate Addresses Meeting Of Wellesley Club

The last half century has brought about a complete revolution in the status of Chinese womanhood. Mrs. Kung-Fung Wang told a meeting of the Washington Wellesley Club last night. No sooner had contact with the Western world introduced the idea of the equality of men and women than changes began to take place, she explained.

Mrs. Wang, who graduated from Yenching University three years ago and now is teaching child study at the University of Maryland, ascribed the sudden change to the essentially tolerant nature of the Chinese and to the fact that there was no basis in religion or law for discrimination against women.

Her alma mater, which is Wellesley's "sister college," has not suffered from the Japanese occupation of Peiping, she said, because it is an American-owned property. Its enrollment is steadily increasing as other colleges are forced to move to the interior of China, she added.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Samuel Herrick. The committee in charge included Mrs. M. Lowell McElroy, Mrs. John J. McInerney, Mrs. Glenn D. Gillett and Mrs. W. Otis Sturgeon.

Finland's Food Needs Stressed by Officials Joining Legation Here

Ship Bombed at Start Of Trip, Ocean Crossing Required Six Weeks

Urho Toivola, formerly press secretary for the Finnish government and its representative at the League of Nations, today joined the Finnish Legation here as Counselor. His Atlantic crossing from Petsamo, through the British and German blockades, took six weeks. In March, 1939, he made the crossing in five days.

With Mr. Toivola to Washington came Robert Jansson, Finnish economist, on a special mission to assist Minister Procope and his staff with intricate problems of finance and banking growing out of Finland's present credit arrangements with the United States.

Airport at Baghdad Bombed by Planes, British Announce

Communications Between Iraq and Syria Are Repored Cut

By the Associated Press.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 8.—British planes bombed the Baghdad Airport yesterday and scored direct hits on a magazine at Washash, near the Iraq capital, a British Royal Air Force Near East communique declared today.

(A Reuters, British news agency, dispatch to London from Vichy today said all telegraphic communications between Iraq and the neighboring French-mandated territory of Syria had been cut since early today.)

Otherwise, Near East general headquarters said, the Iraq situation, both at the British-held Habbaniyah Airport and the port of Basra, has remained quiet since the siege of Habbaniyah was broken two days ago. There was sporadic sniping at Habbaniyah, however.

The air communique said "violent explosions occurred" when bombs scored flush hits on the magazine. Other bombs, it said, hit military buildings and were dropped on grounded planes at Hanaidi.

The communique said: "Our captures (at Habbaniyah) include six guns and over 400 prisoners."

Iraq Troops Reported Forced to Retreat

BEIRUT, Lebanon, May 8 (AP)—An Iraq communique broadcast from Baghdad and received here said British planes bombarded the Baghdad railway station today. It said that R. A. F. bombardment had forced Iraq troops to retreat from the region of Habbaniyah Airdrome, but that Iraq planes continued to bombard that base.

The communique said the Iraq troops had retired to more favorable positions under intense bombardment.

British planes also bombed Al Falluja and Ramadi on the Euphrates River yesterday, it said.

Briton Doomed for Treason

LONDON, May 8 (AP)—A 38-year-old engineer, George Johnson Armstrong, was sentenced to death today on a charge of treason after a one-day trial behind locked and screened doors. He was held for two months ago.

Vallin Says Communists Dominate Cargo Crews

American merchant marine crews on the East and Gulf coasts are dominated by Communists, Jan Vallin, author of the best-seller, "Out of the Night," told newspaper reporters following a meeting at the National Press Club yesterday. His talk at the luncheon was an "off-the-record" account of experiences as a former member and organizer for the Nazi Gestapo and as a Russian OGPU agent.

"On these coasts there isn't a single ship without at least one Communist in the crew," he said. "The Communists are weaker on the West Coast, but they do dominate the longshoremen's union there."

Communists have tried for years to get and maintain hold on shipping, hoping to disrupt it in war according to the author.

Need of Food Stressed.

Minister Procope, Mr. Toivola and Mr. Jansson received the press at the Minister's home on Thompson Circle yesterday. They emphasized in statements that Finland needs food and that Finland is pursuing an independent, democratic policy, free from either German or Russian domination.

Food conditions in Finland, Mr. Jansson said, "are difficult because the harvest failed in 1940 and the possibilities of getting foodstuffs from other countries are few. It is even difficult to get things to and from North and South America. The need for grain between this spring and the new harvest in September is about 177,000 tons, and already 68,500 tons are on their way to Finland from South and North America."

"The farmers in Finland can themselves supply 30,000 or 40,000 tons of all grains. There is still a lack of about 50,000 tons."

Shortage of Fats Acute.

"Recently Sweden has lent Finland 20,000 tons of grain, and of course we have to pay this back. The grain products are all on a day-to-day basis. The rations are only about 85 per cent of normal human needs. The shortage of fats is acute. We get small amounts from Sweden and Denmark, but the situation will not improve before June, when pastures will be open for grazing and milk will be more plentiful."

Mr. Toivola and Mr. Jansson left Petsamo on a Finnish liner, which was bombed while the ship was skirting the Faeroe Islands north of Scotland. The ship caught fire and fishing trawlers took off the passengers. The men spent two weeks on the islands before a Swedish vessel carried them away, taking them to Miami.

France Faces Hunger In Months Ahead Under Hitler Rule

People Will Blame Own Country as Well as Germany, Newsman Says

Preston Grover, veteran newsman who has been stationed in Paris for the last four months, paints a broad picture of the French under German rule, in three daily stories for The Star's Special News Service, of which this is the first.

By PRESTON GROVER.
Foreign Correspondence of The Star's Special News Service.

PARIS (via Berlin).—France is going to be a hungry nation in the months ahead.

For this situation she will lay the blame in about this order: First, Germany; second, France herself; third, England, and fourth, the United States.

To Italy the average Frenchman will ascribe no part in accounting for France's present condition. Against their beaten ally, the group-ings are relatively simple:

1. Germany conquered France, and the French naturally place the weight of blame on the Germans for the present shortage of food, industrial inactivity and general dejection.

2. The French have seen the pithy fabric of their pre-war government as disclosed by the ineffective organization for defense. Moreover, their own food distribution is badly organized—in part, of course, because the country is split by the almost impassable line of demarcation between the German-occupied and unoccupied zones.

3. In turn, the French blame the British, perhaps more publicly than privately, for enforcing the blockade against their beaten ally.

4. Finally, there is some relatively limited amount of criticism of the United States for tying up French funds and preventing large shipments of food.

New Living Process Imposed.

Since the defeat, a whole new process of living has been imposed on the French. Previously the limitations on food and clothing purchases were relatively light. The average Frenchman bought about what he needed.

France is a naturally rich country, her people generally frugal and her store of food and raw materials in preparation for war was considered good, at least in many categories. It could, however, have been even better.

Then came the May offensive of the German army, the quick occupation of Paris last June, and the armistice terms—and France began to see hard times ahead. Until that time, it is stated by observers who were on the ground, France had not really taken the war seriously.

As things stand now, France is seriously short of food. The German army in France is eating quite a lot and admits it.

Except for a considerable withdrawal to Germany of cattle and pigs, the French supply is limited largely to what soldiers in France eat. The Germans themselves supply a portion of the food their soldiers eat.

Vichy Area Short of Wheat.

One well-informed source estimated that the occupied section of France—the rich northern provinces taken over by Germany—has enough in store to last for—roughly—five months.

But the southern portion of France, operating under the Vichy government—poor in grain land—has perhaps a two-month supply.

At present, negotiators for the two areas—with German representation included—are arranging a transfer of wheat from occupied to unoccupied France. In return, the unoccupied zone is being asked to give up considerable quantities of wine, oil, pigs and cattle.

The present exchange schedule calls for the occupied zone to ship 800,000 tons of wheat, 210,000 tons of sugar, 100,000 tons of stock feed and 80,000 tons of potatoes.

In return, the unoccupied France would ship to the German-occupied section 188,000 large cattle, 566,000 head of smaller stock, 600,000 pigs and calves, 36,000 tons of edible oil, 100,000 tons of lard, 60,000 tons of green vegetables, 60,000 tons of fruit and 8,000 tons of cheese.

It doesn't work out as a very even exchange on a cash basis, but negotiators for the occupied zone declare that it is in part a matter of supply and demand, that Southern France is in desperate need of grain and must be expected to shell out liberally of her own resources in return.

Goods May Come From Colonies.

It is likely that Northern French negotiators expect a considerable portion of the goods supplied from Southern France to come from the French African colonies.

How much grain Germany has taken from Northern France has not been disclosed, but well-informed sources are convinced that the average Frenchman has an exaggerated idea of the amount.

One usually reliable source said the amount of grain taken—and not returned—by Germany would be about double the amount necessary to feed the more than 1,000,000 French prisoners now held in Germany.

Then there is the potato question. For Europe the potato has become almost a symbol of food or famine. That is especially true of France and Germany, where, among other things, the potato moves in to take the place of bread when that runs short, as it often does.

French potatoes were good and the French-fried potato became known the world around. After the occupation of Northern France, where the most and best of the potatoes were produced, Germany took a substantial amount of potatoes to feed her armies.

Potatoes Exchanged.

Then the food situation in France became acute, and the Germans say that practically as many potatoes were returned as had been taken. The French don't admit this, but say that even if true, nevertheless the kind of potatoes returned did not measure up to the quality of those taken.

Even German sources concede that some of the potatoes sent here came from stocks in Poland not especially good. French farmers were not asked to use them as seed, but to use their own stocks as seed, or accept seed potatoes from Germany.

At any rate, approximately 200,000 tons of potatoes were received from German hands by the French, much of this supply coming directly to Paris, where their quality drew complaints—not publicly voiced, of course.

But the potato factor has another angle. The price had been fixed by the French food supply administration at a level so low that many farmers refuse to sell. The farmers complain that the prices of other food and goods they must buy have skyrocketed so that their potatoes bring them little in exchange. So they are keeping their potatoes for themselves.

Potatoes Bootlegged.

Many potatoes find their way into the "black market," where, like the old American bootleg liquor business, trade is clandestine and prices high.

One good authority insists that the principal shortage, especially in occupied France, is due to refusal of the farmers to part with their goods at the fixed price. But the danger of spoilage is expected to force many on the market before long, and thus bring relief.

Jeau Achard, minister for provisioning France, has painted a black picture for the coming spring and summer until another harvest. He cut meat and bread rations for April and May about 20 per cent below those for March and the preceding months, and said still more restrictions were in sight.

France, he said, is 50 per cent short of sugar, 45 per cent short of potatoes, and the supplies she used to draw from her original colonies now are largely cut off by the British blockade.

Two shiploads of American grain recently released will help—but France's wheat hunger is measured in dozens of shiploads.

Backs Overton and Highway Proposals
$30,000,000 Toll Road
Plan to Be Studied
By Committee

The Overton formula, for fixing the Federal Government's share in the District's expenses on a basis of the amount of land owned by the Government, was indorsed in principle unanimously by the Takoma Park (Md.-D. C.) Chamber of Commerce last night. Copies of the resolution will be sent to Chairman
 Randolph of the House District
 Committee and to Senator Overton, Democrat, of Louisiana, who sponsored the bill in the Senate.

The chamber also approved in principle the new major highway improvement plan, prepared by the Department of Highways of the District. Congressional leaders in charge of District affairs will be advised of the action.

A proposed $30,000,000 toll road for Maryland, built and operated by a private enterprise, was opposed in a resolution presented by J. Douglas Bradshaw, but was referred to the Streets and Lights Committee for study and a report at the June meeting.

John W. Coffman, president, announced the following members of the following committee chairmen: Robert E.
 Lohr, streets and lights; J. Milton
 Derrick, community development;
 H. L. Thornton, public utilities; J.
 Douglas Bradshaw, zoning; Leo R.
 Hubbard, schools; Robert M. Lyon, health and welfare; Donald D.
 Lamont, laws and legislation; C.
 Maurice Weidemeyer, better homes contest; John W. Coffman, health contest; E. Brooke Petty, Independence Day celebration; Warren D.
 Haley, membership; Harold Gates, spring status.

New members elected included
 Franklin W. Schneider and Harry
 J. Klitz. Guests at the meeting were
 L. R. Grabill, acting president of the
 and Town Councilman Joseph Martin.

Dr. Lewis Meriam of the Brookings Institution and a resident of Kensington, Md., spoke on the advisability of a Montgomery County council, which would serve as a legislative, policy-making, appropriating body for the county. He recommended all administrative work be taken away and placed in the hands of a competent body of administrative officers and that an engineer be obtained to take charge of an engineering department. This also applied to the management of the public schools and their maintenance. He favored development of a modern police department and co-ordination of a fire department.
 He also stressed the need of a civil service commission for the county.

 ginia, entered Government service

Priorities Extended Broadly Into Fields Supplying Civilians

Language Is Changed For Virtual 'All-Out' Military Preference

By JAMES FLEE

What may prove to be one of the most drastic steps yet taken in giving military needs preference over civilian uses has been announced by defense authorities.

It was effected by deletion of a few words in a priorities definition, and substitution of a few other words.

Up to yesterday, items on the Army and Navy priorities critical list were considered to include only those fabricated parts and accessories "designed to meet military specifications, and as designed not commercially useful for civilian purposes."

Broad Extension.

The words in the quotation marks were eliminated in a new critical list released by the O. P. M.'s Priorities Division last night. Not only were the restrictions removed on parts commercially useful for civilian purposes, but the parts were extended to include all fabricated, mechanical or electrical component parts and accessories necessary for the completion, maintenance or mechanical operation thereof.

The critical list, for example, includes various types of airplanes, boats and machinery for which maintenance might require just about anything one could imagine.

The new list was expanded to include 45 new items, 16 of which were metals or classes of metals put under sweeping inventory control on May 1. Among the items added to the list were diesel engines of all types, hospital laboratory equipment of all types, steam and internal combustion engines for ship propulsion, many types of rope and cotton fiber, steam condensers, formaldehyde, hospital sterilizers, surgical splints and wires for electrical instruments.

Air Raids 'Less Terrifying' Than Expected, U. S. Aide Finds

Even the most furious Nazi air raid is "much less terrifying" than he had anticipated, Edward P. Warner, vice chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, who now is in London as assistant to W. A. Harman, on a special diplomatic mission, has written friends here. In his letter, Mr. Warner describes the German raid on London the night of April 16-17, which he said was generally thought to be the "worst night that London has yet known."

RED HEART DOG FOOD

"I won't try to describe in detail all that I saw," he wrote. "I found the experience much less terrifying than I had anticipated. When it actually happened, I felt a curious remoteness from the whole proceeding."

"An inspection of air raid results gives one a sinking of the heart that the actual damage, dreadful as it is in many cases, does not fully justify. You come around a corner and you see what looks like H. G. Wells' concept of the end of the world, and then you examine the details and realize that 90 per cent of the buildings affected have suffered little except the loss of windows, including the splintering of frames and the shattering of doors."

United States Ambassador Winant, Mr. Warner said, "seems, without making any speech, to be having a great personal success."

Business is done by personal contact rather than by mail or telephone in embattled London, Mr. Warner said. Much of it is transacted over lunch, which is a luxurious event, limited only by rationing.

Dinners start and end early and dressing for dinner is practically unknown today.

Highway

"that private developers would undertake to establish fringe parking facilities, certainly not until suitable low-cost, short-haul transportation is made available."

"The would be even greater advantage to initial leadership by the government. Customers admitted to each parking lot must be carefully selected on a basis of the nearness of their place of work. This will eliminate personal inconvenience and reduce the distance the short-haul buses would have to traverse."

While Capt. Whitehurst hopes eventually to obtain a maximum average charge of 15 cents, he admitted that, in the beginning, it may be necessary to set the fee at 20 cents—10 cents for parking and 10 cents for transportation. But he added that he thought it likely mass use of the short-haul bus system would make it possible to reduce the daily charge for the morning and afternoon trip combined to 5 cents.

Whatever parking system eventually is settled on in the District, in his opinion, it will have to be a co-operative proposition to be effective. All factions of the District, he said, must work together to bring the desired end.

Parking Committee Proposed.

The highway reports submitted to the Commissioners call attention to the fact that any plan of terminal facilities will require detailed and extensive work in preparing and obtaining necessary legislation and in co-ordinating the concern of the government and private employees, as well as that of business and other interests. To this end, it is recommended that a seven-member motor vehicle parking agency, composed of four public officials and three citizens, be set up. This agency, according to the plan, could function either as a separate activity of the District or as a part of an established department.

But whatever is done, Capt. Whitehurst is emphatic in his warning that no single individual should be placed at the head to say how the problem should be solved.

"I do not believe any one man," he said, "knows enough about the situation and would give proper enough consideration to all the factors involved to bring about a satisfactory solution. I believe the best results could be reached by means of an active agency which would push the program to a successful finish once a definite conclusion is reached."

Many Suggestions Received.

Many suggestions regarding the best way to supply necessary parking facilities have come to the Highway Department, the director reported. Some advocated that the Potomac River be bridged over, that elevators be erected along the curb line to lift cars above the streets, that underground garages be constructed beneath streets or the Mall and other public areas. All of these were discarded primarily because of the cost involved.

"It is a grave solution," he concluded. "In our report, we draw basic conclusions, but we do not recommend the final solution in its minute details. That must be worked out with time. What we have tried to do is to show the way toward a solution."

Season's First Shipments of Western Cherries Arrive Here This Week

Cantaloupes Are Expected Within Very Short Time; Peas on Bargain List

Soft Shell Crabs Growing Up, But Price Remains Too High For the Average Budget

By Betsy Caswell, Women's Editor

The first shipments of the luscious dark red table cherries from the West have reached Washington markets, and some of the specialty fruit stores hint that they will have cantaloupes for us by the end of this week, or the first of next. This is good news, for the fruit supplies have been remarkably short on variety lately, and winter standbys such as pears and cranberries have disappeared. Good eating apples are appearing now, too, among them fine pippins and firm, juicy Delicious. Strawberries in quart boxes from North Carolina constitute a bargain, at new low prices.

Asparagus of fine quality is now coming in from New Jersey, with a consequent drop in cost. New cabbage from nearby sources has been ruined by the dry weather, meaning that Western supplies must be depended upon, which may hike the price a bit. Cauliflower can still be found in some markets, but is listed among the missing in most places. Peas are good and very reasonable; string beans are up a little over last week. Some Florida tomatoes are available, but are still pretty green; most of the tomatoes to be seen come from Mexico. Lima beans continue scarce and high, but yellow snap beans are inexpensive and of excellent quality.

Those soft shell crabs that were mentioned a while back as being in the watch chain division, are getting to be big fellows now, but are still in the luxury brackets. Nice baby lobsters to broil are not too expensive, and there is a fine supply of crab meat available. Jumbo frog legs are "tops" just now, and of course, shad is rocking along well out in front as usual. Good rockfish, extra fine perch and trout are also recommended.

There are few changes in the meat situation, it seems. To be featured this week end are chuck roasts, stew meats, breast, shoulder and chops of veal, several cuts of lamb, some steaks and ham. Chickens of all kinds are plentiful, and ducks have never been better.

LAMB PATTIES.

Lamb patties can be purchased "custom-made" or you can "pat-a-ake" at home. If the latter is the case purchase ground lamb shoulder and season to suit your own taste. In addition to salt and pepper try adding a pinch or two of marjoram and a small amount Worcestershire sauce. They are an appropriate complement to the distinctive flavor of lamb. Lamb patties are usually inclosed in a strip of bacon secured with a toothpick.

To panbroil lamb patties place in a hot frying pan. Brown first on one side, then on the other. Reduce the heat and turn the meat as often as necessary to insure even cooking. Pour off the fat as it accumulates in the pan so that the bottom of it is just well-greased at all times.

Lamb patties may also be broiled by placing them on the broiler rack so that the surface of the meat is 3 inches from the source of heat. After they are brown on one side turn and brown the second side.

allowing from 6 to 8 minutes for each side. When turning the patties put on the broiler rack generous tomato slices or peach halves brushed with butter and sprinkled with curry.

FRESH FRUIT SALAD.

You may select any fruits that appeal to you—or you may decide to follow our suggestions and combine sliced, but not peeled, crisp raw apples, segments of orange and grapefruit, grapes or stoned cherries, and freshly washed and crisped chicory, the bitter flavor of which is such a good contrast to the bland fruits. Serve with the following dressing:

Combine 1/2 cup sugar with 1 1/2 teaspoons paprika, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt and 1 teaspoon dry mustard. Add, slowly, stirring all the time, 1/2 cup vinegar and 1 cup salad oil. Beat with an eggbeater or electric mixer for about three minutes. If you like, add a few chopped mint leaves to the dressing.

SPECIAL CHARLOTTE RUSSE.

Soak 1 tablespoon gelatin in 1/4 cup cold water and dissolve it in 1/4 cup boiling water. Add 1 cup sugar and let mixture become cold. Add 1 pint heavy cream, beaten stiff, 1/4 pound blanched almonds, chopped; 6 stale macaroons, rolled to crumbs; 12 marshmallows, cut in pieces, and 2 tablespoons candied cherries, cut small, or chopped. Mix well and flavor with 2 tablespoons vanilla or a little almond extract. Turn into a mold that has been dipped in cold water and set charlotte russe to chill. Unmold just before serving and garnish with whole candied cherries.

For Baked Ham

Here is a good treatment for baked ham. About 40 minutes before the end of the baking period, rub the fat side of the ham with 1 cup dark brown sugar, mixed with a teaspoon of cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon cloves and 1 teaspoon grated orange rind. Press well into the fat and then baste several times with a cup of orange juice.

Discreetly Pleated Top Adds Grace to Design

By Barbara Bell

These bodice pleats do wonders to give a graceful fullness to the top of this slim-skirted day dress and at the same time lead toward a tapered, flattering waistline. The shoulder seaming hints of the new sloped lines which are a coming trend in fashion. Pattern No. 1385-B should please the woman who is looking for a soft, cool dress to make now and who wants it to have style authority.

Any of the sheer printed or plain crepes, the more solid silk or rayon crepes or cottons may be adapted to this pattern. There is very little in the way of extra finishing touches to make on this dress.

Lamb Patties Are Tasty . . .

Made from ground shoulder of lamb, these dainty and delicious little patties are amazingly inexpensive. They look and taste like party fare—but they don't cause even a dent in the slimmest budget. Wrap them with bacon and broil them with slices of tomato for added flavor.

Plan to Avoid 'Crashers' Is Approved

Request Guests to Show Invitations For Reception

By Emily Post

Those who callously "crash" parties to which they know they have not been invited are not likely to have their feelings hurt if the bride's mother, whose letter follows, carries out her plan.

"Would it be permissible," she asks, "to engrave a request that the wedding reception invitation be presented at the door? We are pretty certain that some people whose names are on the general list for the church may come to the small reception at the house without invitations. It happens all the time here in this town that some people, asked to the church, just calmly join others who have been asked to church and house both, and enter as guests of these guests. Well, we don't want to be criticized, but our house is small and we don't want it to be crowded with those who are not particular friends if we can prevent it."

In answer to this, I can say that cards to be shown at the door of the church are usual, and invitations shown at the entrance to a public function are not at all out of the way, but the idea would be strange at the door of a private house. At debutante dances some one with a list of those invited checks all arriving guests, but this seems less suitable for your purpose than the cards you suggest. On second thought, even though not conventional, I can find no reason why you may not have the cards to the reception engraved to include "Please present this invitation at the house," particularly since the news that cards are to be shown may keep the crashers away.

Dear Mrs. Post: If two young couples go into a restaurant and sit in a booth for four, is it best for the girls to sit on one side together and the men across, or for each girl on a side with her own friend next to her?

Answer: It is better that the girls go in first and sit across from each other and that each man sit next to his own friend. If the four were husband and wives, each man would sit next to the other man's wife.

Watch Daily Posture

Hold Body Properly at All Times To Acquire a Queenly Carriage

By Josephine Lowman

Daily life brings a woman a varied and wonderful repertory of exercise. If we don't hold ourselves in the proper posture and positions while we go about our duties, we would not only acquire a lovely figure, but also grace and a queenly carriage.

There is one well-known expert who feels that we would need no special exercise if we would hold our bodies in perfect balance and alignment. While I do not agree with this, there is something in the theory, because the muscular activity of holding the body properly is an exercise in itself.

When you make the bed, swing the sheets and covers, hold the arms out in front of you, straight from the shoulders. As you fold the covers, twist from the waist, to the side, as you shake out the pillows. When you iron, sit down, but keep the back straight and move from the shoulders and from the waist—head up as much as possible. Don't slump through the region of the neck.

When you peel potatoes or shell the peas, sit down, again keeping the back straight and sit them on a footstool under the feet, you will find that it is restful and helps you assume correct posture with the hips touching the back of the chair.

Stretch whenever possible. Whether you are hanging out laundry or reaching for the flavoring, keep the hips under the tummy in. Don't stand too far away—then stretch.

If you wish to have my leaflet, "Gymnastics While You Wait," send a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman, in care of this newspaper.

Listen, Fellas!

Seems we have a reputation as sports-lovers among nations of the world, and it's probably true that we do have a little more time for relaxing and enjoying life. Anyway, it's led to America's reputation as a leader in sportswear—and this season is no exception.

White sports coats with green, blue or terra cotta slacks and snap brim hats are really knockouts for what the smart set calls "those leisure moments." Or, there's the Joseph coat of many colors in soft shetlands. Equally good are morocco striped blazers in brown and blue, orange and brown, green and brown, red and brown and many other tones.

And have you ever noticed how the right clothes make your sports participation even more fun? You don't have to be dressed like a circus pony—but you can wear the right things.

Fight Fatigue With Rest Period

Seek Quiet Corner As Best Place in Which to Relax

By Angelo Patri

Every home and every school should have a place of retreat, a place of quiet where peace can be found for those who seek it. Children of all ages have times of greatest fatigue in their day, spans of fatigue in their growth, and at those times they need the quiet and peace of a room set aside for that purpose.

Lizzie had a good school record through the first six years, but in the seventh year she seemed to change. She took on weight, slowed down in her work and lost her old cheerfulness. In the foreign language class, which she had reached by 11 o'clock, she got into deep waters. Her work was poor, her attitude disagreeable. Things went from bad to worse until the teacher said, "I can't stand her another day," and Lizzie said, "I won't go to that class another day."

The principal looked at Lizzie, a Lizzie so changed from the bright, happy child of a year ago and pondered. What could be the matter? Then he saw that this Lizzie was a full half size bigger in every way than that other one, a full size older in many ways. Maybe she was tired because of this fast growth? This class came at 11 o'clock and Lizzie had been working since 9. Maybe a rest would help.

What he said aloud was, "All right, Lizzie. You needn't. Tomorrow report at room 22 for that period." When Lizzie reported to that room she found it empty save for the few tables and chairs it held. It was bright and cheerful, pictures on the wall and plants on the stands, and it was very, very quiet.

Lizzie entered, looked about in puzzled fashion, and then took out her books and went to work. At 11:40 a lovely girl of her own grade entered and offered to help her lesson. That was all right with Lizzie and the two had a happy 10 minutes of recitation and work. After a month of that program you would not have known Lizzie. She smiled now and even bade the language teacher a cheerful goodbye when she met her.

Every human being has need for an Isle of Peace in his troubled day. Older people find their way to it. Some go to church and say their prayers; some slip into the open church for a few minutes and go their way refreshed. Some garden, some sew, some lie down for a nap. Those who have no such relief in their day are fatigued beyond safety and among these are the children who grow too fast, who work under strain, or who are ailing.

There is always a corner in school that can be fitted to take care of these odd children at odd times, and the trouble and work involved are more than paid for in the restored health and spirit of the tired child. Quietly for a few minutes and open all day and into the night for the weary souls who need its repose and spiritual consolation.

Too Many Young People Scorn Family Affection As 'Slush,' Juvenile

They Make Grave Mistake by Repressing Demonstration Of Love for Parents

By Kay Caldwell and Alden Harrison

The scene of the little incident which we are about to report was a big city railroad station. The time was a few days before Easter. The characters were a mother, a father and their son—probably a college freshman—who was coming home for the Easter holidays.

The man and woman were nice looking middle-aged people, just average Americans. They were standing inside the gate, watching eagerly as the train pulled in and the passengers started coming together. Then their eyes lit up as they caught a glimpse of their son, hurrying toward them.

He was a big, good-looking boy, and his face broke into a rather self-conscious grin as he saw his parents waiting for him. We were only a couple of feet away as he reached them, and we heard him say "Hi Mother, Hi Dad." Then he leaned down and planted a shy, hasty kiss on the cheek his mother turned to receive it and extended a hand which his father shook briefly. Whereupon they all started talking about the five-minute lateness of the train, in an obvious effort to hide their embarrassment over this family reunion.

As they walked away we looked after them, and we couldn't help feeling a little—well, sad. We knew that scene was being duplicated hundreds of times in other railroad stations all over the country, and we knew it was typical of a relationship between many parents and their teen-age sons and daughters which is just too bad.

Now don't get us wrong. We don't like sloppy sentiment any better than you do. In fact, our tendency to wince and squirm at the drop of a maiden tear is probably surpassed by none. But when we see young people and their parents concealing and suppressing the perfectly normal and natural affection they feel for each other, we can't help realizing that they are making a very regrettable mistake.

This unobtrusive attitude is largely the fault of parents, if the blame can be laid anywhere. Of course, Dad and Mother love each other, but it's probably been years since Son or Daughter has heard a word or seen a gesture of affection pass between them. So Son and Daughter, not being used to such things, are ashamed by them.

That boy in the railroad station probably had—or once might have had—an impulse to greet his mother with a bearlike hug and a hearty, resounding kiss. Instead, a cheek was turned to him for a prim peck. He probably had—or once might have had—an impulse to pump his father's hand enthusiastically, and pound him on the shoulder. But if the impulse existed on this occasion, the boy firmly squelched it, feeling that any such display of affection would acutely embarrass his parents.

And yet if this boy could have overcome his reluctance and followed that impulse, his mother would probably have been breathless with blushing delight. And his father, while embarrassed, would have felt a warm glow of pride and pleasure that he probably hasn't experienced in years.

But because of the habit he has already formed of suppressing these natural, and desirable, feelings toward his parents, the boy is depriving them of something that could make them very happy. And worse than that, he is embedding his habit even more firmly in his own nature. Later, his wife will suffer because of it, and still later, his own children will grow up to acquire the same unfortunate attitude.

Lucky is the fellow or girl who lives in a home where dad kisses mother when he leaves for work—and shows that he means it. Fortunately the son or daughter who learns that telling and showing other people how much you think of them is good medicine for everybody concerned.

That sort of thing isn't silly and shushy. It's healthy and normal. Thousands of mothers and fathers are hungry for a little affection. If we're talking about you in this column, probably you wonder what you can do about it. Not much, perhaps; those repressive tendencies may already be pretty deeply grooved. But other young people, through some crisis in family relations, have suddenly learned how much their parents think of them and have found a way to show that they reciprocate that feeling.

We suggest that you try to make a start, no matter how small. Mother's Day and Father's Day are coming—perhaps that will give you an idea.

Our "Getting Along With Your Family" leaflet has helped other young people iron out their domestic difficulties. If you want a copy send 5 cents in stamps or coins to Kay Caldwell and Alden Harrison, in care of this newspaper.

Nature's Children

California Towhee (Pipilo crissalis)

By LILLIAN COX ATHEY. Gardens, parks and farmyards are your best places to look for the California towhee. During the early morning hours and again toward twilight, many of these birds can be seen scratching in the straw for seeds and stirring up the ground for insects. Being friendly neighbors, they often work side by side with domestic poultry.

It is impossible to estimate the number of beetles, ants, caterpillars, moths, grasshoppers and flies that even one energetic towhee consumes during the season. Wild fruits and berries and seeds combine well with their rich meat diet and these towhees enjoy vegetation as food more than many of their neighbors do. Of course, towhees are fond of earthworms. Now, these soil-workers, the earthworms, are special and important friends of ours and we do not like to think of their numbers being diminished. However, since earthworms are not daylight travelers and rarely are seen outside of their private halls during the day, we may discount the relatively few that are eaten by the towhees. Besides, towhees have as much right to the earthworms as we do.

There are several species of towhees in California. The outstanding field mark distinguishing this towhee from its cousins is a rich brown crown and coat. The range is through the greater part of California west of the Sierras.

Most of the towhee's daylight hours are spent on the ground. Its flying powers are limited and are very awkward, because of the short wings, long tail and robust body. A bird almost 9 inches long must have strong wings to carry it on long flights, as we well know. The snowy throat of this towhee is circled by a necklace of black spots and the eyes are a beautiful brown.

The song of the California towhee is a modest one of three notes. He also possesses ventriloquist ability which during the nesting season comes in quite handy.

The towhee's building site may be in a tree or brush some feet up from the ground, or it may be on the ground. In either case the nest will be a snug affair built of weed stems and bark fiber, the interior most comfortable with walls and floor of wool, horsehair and soft grasses.

Many Towhees brood her four to five pale blue eggs which are well marked with brown spots. She will not leave her post until she must. Her attitude is one of almost indifference, no doubt assumed to guard her treasures. If she must leave, she and her mate show real signs of distress.

It is known that the disreputable cowbird searches for the nest of the towhee in which to deposit her own egg. This greedy usurper often manages to get all the attention of the foster parents. Many towhees like other victims of the despising cowbird have become quite wise to her ways, built another nest and laid more eggs. So the trick did not succeed!

Urge Less Smoking

Appeals are being made in England for women to limit their smoking so there may be enough tobacco for soldiers and munitions workers.

Even our landlord couldn't resist this Spry FULL FLAVOR Cocoa Cream Cake

MAKE ONE TODAY!

So tender, delicate, moist—and purer Spry lets you get the FULL rich chocolaty flavor

OUR HOUSE needed painting. The landlord said NO! But the next time he called we were at dinner. "Do sit down and sample my Cocoa Cream Cake," I urged. (Smart little me!)

HE LOVED IT, raved about the grand chocolaty taste. (For Spry doesn't "smother" flavor as ordinary shortenings may.) And when he'd finished his second piece, he up and offered to paint the house!

DON'T risk losing some of the deliciousness of this wonderful cake by making it with ordinary shortenings that may "dull" flavor. Be sure to use Spry, the flavor saver! Spry's purer, stays fresh longer, creams so easily. Three extra advantages and only Spry gives all three. Change to Spry today for all your baking and frying—hear the compliments!

ALL ABOUT THIS UTTERLY NEW AND REVOLUTIONARY KIND OF BREAD!

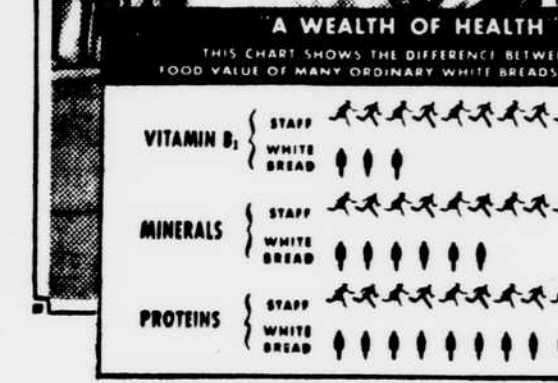

Better than "White"! Better than "Whole Wheat"! Because Better for Health and Better for Flavor!

AT LAST!—HERE ARE THE LIFE-GIVING ELEMENTS, THE NATURAL VITAMINS AND MINERALS WITH ALL THE RICH FLAVOR MOTHER NATURE GAVE WHEAT AND NONE OF ITS OUTER, BITTER, AND INDIGESTIBLE, SPLINTERED "SKIN"

Contains 4 Times More Natural Vitamin B₁ Alone than Ordinary White Bread!

HAILED A GREAT BOON TO EVERY MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD IN AMERICA!
Heaven-Sent to Those in Every Walk of Life Who Now Are Paying the Penalty in "Nerves" and Lack of Vitality Due to Deficiency in the Vitamins and Minerals It So Richly Contains

NO OTHER BREAD IN THE WORLD BRINGS YOU IN THIS AMAZING WAY VITAMINS WITH A TASTE — BECAUSE ONLY STAFF IS MADE UNDER THE EARLE PATENTED PROCESS

At Last! Sun-Ripened Wheat's True, Good Flavor—Thanks to the Earle Patented Process

Read this Amazing Story:—How a Mining Engineer's Curiosity Led to the Invention that Made Possible this Great New Benefit to Your Family!

HERE now is that utterly new and revolutionary kind of bread you have heard so much about. Different from any bread ever before known, many scientists believe it may influence profoundly the lives of millions. Because of its power to improve their physical and mental processes of life amazingly.

For this new bread brings the treasure-trove of life-giving elements, the rich hoard of vitamins and minerals with all the wealth of flavor Mother Nature amassed in each bursting grain of sun-ripened wheat. And, of the utmost importance, none of the bad outer, bitter, and indigestible, splintery "skin"!

Better Than Ordinary White Bread Than "Whole Wheat"

Never before have you tasted bread like this. Here's aroma to make your mouth water—as fresh as the sight of fields of wind-rippled, sun-splashed wheat. Here's taste to delight you—even better than bread's fresh-baked from wheat ground at the old mill on the creek. And a texture to melt in your mouth—as delicate and lacy and velvety of crumb as that of a blue-ribbon winning loaf at the State Fair.

That wheat can be one of man's finest natural foods—there is no question. But until now it has never been possible to give you ALL the rich benefits of wheat in a bread all people would eat. Or, fit for all people to eat!

A Mining Engineer Solves The Problem

Despite fortunes spent, no miller ever found, without losing precious vitamins and minerals, how to get rid of wheat's bad outer, bitter, and indigestible, splintery "skin." Then came this epochal and far-reaching discovery.

In the "flotation" process, which separates the dross from the gold of the hills, Theodore Earle, mining engineer and inventive genius, at last found the clue toward separating the bad from the gold of the plains.

First, scientists of a leading university set out to prove the new health values; milling and baking experts of the Continental Baking Continental Baking Co., Inc.

Company spent 6 months perfecting formulae; over $340,000 for new facilities. Then, came the development of Staff—a new bread better for health and flavor!

A Boon In Better Health, Better Nerves, Renewed Vitality

In England, to help combat the terrible nerve strain of blackout horror and correct the deficiencies of rationed food, all bread has been fortified artificially with Vitamin B₁. Over here, the strain increases daily. Food is not rationed, but millions of people in all walks of life, authorities on nutrition say, fail to get enough Vitamin B₁, alone for their best physical and mental health and vigor.

Actually, millions of people who now believe it their lot to feel "jittery," easily fagged out, may again experience the happiness of renewed vitality a more adequate diet provides.

No Other Bread In The World Like Staff
The only bread made under the Earle patents, you can tell Staff is a natural wheat bread by its golden wheat color. For Staff contains 4 times more natural Vitamin B₁; twice the natural minerals; and more protein than in many ordinary white breads.

Hence, for better meals, better health, better spirits, you are urged to serve Staff in your home. Note the amazing difference the good flavor of sun-ripened wheat makes. Get fresh Staff today—and "Eat Staff For Life." Serve it every day and take comfort in the knowledge that you have left no stone unturned to give your family this wonderful opportunity for better well-being that Staff affords.

Blazing Pace by Front-Runners Likely to Put Whirlaway on Spot in Preakness

Win, Lose or Draw

By FRANCIS E. STAN.

The School of Boom, Boom, Boom There's always something refreshingly unabashed about a big-time fight promoter. When he stages a show it is no secret. He gets the biggest drum he can find and it's all boom, boom, boom and spare no expense.

Of course, Ray Alvis isn't the real promoter of the Buddy Baer-Joe Louis heavyweight championship fight which is coming off on May 23 at Griffith Stadium. The real guy would be Mike Jacobs of New York. But Mr. Alvis is fronting for Uncle Mike, as the boys say, and, to all outward appearances, he is running the show.

You may recall Mr. Alvis when he was in the clover. Those were the days when he owned 50 or 60 fighters at once, including some of the very good champions. "I sold them like a broker sells wheat," sighs Ray. "As a matter of fact, I was a fight broker." As for promoting, he tried only once in the past. He dropped $150,000 with Jack Dempsey in Chicago. We have no way of knowing just how much money Mr. Alvis made in boxing. It was considerable. He jumped into the business in 1918 and was a figure during the roaring twenties. He must have made a million or more. And as fast as he made it, he blew it. They used to be like that.

A La Carte When Ray Alvis Promotes

The guy has been making a comeback lately. He hooked up with Jacobs, brought Billy Conn, Tony Galento, Buddy Baer and Ernie Vigil to Washington, and now he's steaming up the Louis affair. And he's doing it a la carte. A newspaperman who would like to watch Baer work out is escorted to a Cadillac with a chauffeur, who whisks him out to Olney, Md., where Mr. Alvis has Buddy training. Flunkies come up and want to know what you will have in the way of refreshments while watching the perspiring giant go through the motions.

Mr. Alvis has hired the best press agent in town, Joe Holman, who stands nearby ready to furnish any facts or fiction. As a matter of fact, Mr. Holman's capabilities are unlimited. If a sudden desire for poetry overwhelms you, Mr. Holman transforms himself into a sort of Edgar Guest, and knocks out a bright little sonnet on any given subject, including challengers for the heavyweight title.

The only accommodation which Mr. Alvis is unable to provide at Olney is his own colorful presence. It seems that the master of a neighboring estate, a wealthy character who owns a mastiff the size of Whirlaway and a pair of German police dogs, is fond of watching Baer and not fond of Raymond, whom he reportedly thinks is a Russian. This dislike was transmitted to the oversized pooches, which keep Alvis away from the camp.

"Heck," defends Challenger Baer, "every time I see that mastiff I run to my car, roll up the windows and lock the doors."

Langford Over Louis in Two, He Says

This fellow, Alvis, is a speli guy. He can sit down and almost convince you that Baer is even money against Louis. This is a brief and wholly unflattering sample of his eloquence.

"Negro fighters are either great or just so-so. When they go they go fast. Do you know how long Louis would last with Jack Johnson? About a round or two. The same with Joe Gans, if they were the same weight, or with Joe Wolcott or Sam Langford.

"Louis isn't one of the real great fighters. When you feint Louis he blinks and drops his head. He always does it the same way. Listen, if he had fought Langford it would have ended in the second round. And the reason why is that Langford would carry him through the first heat so that he could come back to his corner and tell his seconds what kind of a punch he was going to lay out on the guy with.

"Langford would come back to his corner and say, 'I ain't goin' to need it.' Then he would go out and, instead of feinting with his left hand again, he would hit a home run on Louis' chin and that would be all."

Buddy Baer, Claims Ray, Better Than Conn

One of Alvis' favorite fighters was a Negro named Young Jackie Thompson, the only welterweight who won the championship, lost it and regained it. "He was terrific," said Ray. "Then he went to bed one night as champion and woke up as a bum. That's the way it is in the racket."

Alvis insists that Baer is the second best challenger in the world. "I only put Lou Nova ahead of him," he was saying the other day. "I honestly think that Buddy Baer and Louis is a h—lvs fight. Listen, this Baer kid can hit like a mule. The reason he hasn't been getting much play is because Ancell Hoffman, his manager, was so crazy about Max that he concentrated on him and let Buddy slide. Now Max is finished and Ancell is going to get a break."

Alvis insists that he wouldn't trade his fight for the Conn-Louis affair, due in June in New York. "Conn's no match for Louis," he said. "Listen, I knew Johnny Ray (Conn's manager), when he was a down-and-out kid in Pittsburgh. I told him not long ago that if I had Conn I wouldn't go in the same county with Louis. Well, that Ray hit the ceiling and he's still sore.

"Conn can make more money by fighting a dozen guys he knows he can lick than by fighting Louis. However, it ain't my headache. I think Buddy Baer is going to do a darned sight better against Joe than Conn."

He's really persuasive in person. The safest time to meet him is when you're broke. Otherwise, you're likely to run to the nearest bookie, lay even money, and take Baer.

Our Boots Runs Speedy Mile in Race Workout

Trainer Hints Derby Champion May Leap To Front at Start

By MASON BRUNSON, Associated Press Sports Writer.

BALTIMORE, May 8.—If speed is what the customers want, they ought to see plenty of it in the Preakness Stakes at Pimlico Saturday—and from the way things looked today, Whirlaway will have to do a lot of catching up.

There's a world of "foot" in the probable field of six or seven. Indications were that a blazing pace would be set by front runners aiming to get plenty of daylight between themselves and Whirlaway before Warren Wright's Kentucky comet uncorks his vaunted "kick" in the stretch.

At the same time, however, Trainer Ben Jones told the boys with a knowing wink not to be surprised if Whirlaway goes right to the front.

Our Boots Shows Speed. Our Boots, Royce Martin's colt which has licked Whirlaway in four out of six meetings but failed to show anything in the Kentucky Derby, stepped out as a speedster to be reckoned with when he worked a mile in 1:38 flat between races yesterday. That effort placed him right alongside King Ranch's Dispose, Wheatley Stable's King Cole and Crispin Oglebay's Ocean Blue as a speed merchant capable of cutting out a torrid pace.

His sparkling trial, only three-fifths of a second over the track record, removed any doubt that Our Boots would be there when the field parades to the post about 3 p.m. (E. S. T.) Saturday for the 1-1/2 mile run for a $50,000 jackpot. Our Boots, whose dismal Derby showing was blamed on the hard track at Churchill Downs, came out of the race sore and with a grabbed left foreleg, and until his encouraging effort yesterday, Trainer Steve Judge was undecided about sending him in the Preakness.

Meanwhile, Wheatley Stable's Bold Irishman was declared out of it. The colt, last in the Survivor Stakes Tuesday, was "not himself" that day. Trainer Oglebay's Ocean Blue was said, and later developed a cough and a slight fever.

Ocean Blue Sets Record. Bold Irishman's stablemate, King Cole, winner of the Paumonok and third in the Wood Memorial; Dispose, which cut out the Derby pace, and Ocean Blue, winner of the Survivor, are possessed of lots of early foot and may do most of the pace-making in the Preakness.

Ocean Blue ran the 1/16-mile Survivor in 1:45 1/2, setting a new record for the stake. Dispose worked a 4-2 trimline, the club seems to have a lot of early foot and may do most of the pace-making in the Preakness. Whirlaway, our Boots, E. D. Shaffer's Curious Coin and C. S. Howard's Porter's Cap are expected to do most of their running in the final drive to the wire.

No matter how much pace is cut out in the Preakness, Whirlaway, which smashed the Kentucky Derby record, is strictly the danger. When it comes to speed, the heat really will be on when Eddie Arcaro gives the "hucky one" his head in the stretch and whispers "diddypap."

'Upsetters' Battling In Southern Golf Quarterfinals

Mrs. McGarry, Who Beat Dot Kirby, Faces Victor Over Titleholder

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 8.—Quarter-finals of the Southern women's golf tournament got under way here today, with yesterday's two outstanding "upsetters" paired in the championship fight.

They are Mrs. Marc McGarry of St. Petersburg, Fla., who defeated Medalist Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Ga., 3 and 2, in yesterday's match, and Mrs. Sam Israel of New Orleans, La., who ousted the titleholder, Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite of Fort Worth, Tex., by the day's most decisive score, 5 and 4.

Mrs. McGarry was Southern champion in 1937. With the elimination of Miss Kirby, one of the strongest contenders for the 1941 title appeared to be Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, N. C. Mrs. Page has not yet topped par. She was matched to-day against Catherine Flint of Memphis after defeating Margaret Gunther of Memphis, 4 and 3, yesterday.

Mrs. Dan Chandler of Dallas, Tex., was paired with Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., in what promised to be the highlight of today's play.

Louise Suggs of Lithia Springs, Ga., was paired with Mrs. Chatham Hunter of Memphis.

Columbus Calls Halt

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 8 (AP)—Columbus had cause to gloat today. It snapped a streak of five straight losses to Macon and replaced the pesky Peaches in second place of the South Atlantic League. The score was 8 to 3.

Greenberg 'Regular Guy' to New Army Pals

Drafted Tiger Takes Camp Banter With Big Smile

By the Associated Press. FORT CUSTER, Mich., May 8.—Hank Greenberg, starting his first day in the Army, had a legion of new friends today. The former Detroit Tiger outfielder had been in camp less than an hour when word got around the huge Government layout that "the big guy is regular."

The "big guy," drafted from a $50,000 baseball job, was subjected to the usual banter when he stepped down from the special train last night with 70 draftees from Detroit. Hank took it all smiling and handed out a bit of smart repartee that won over those who met him. Officials arranged that Greenberg would receive Fort Custer's 15,000th uniform today. If given his preference, Greenberg said he would choose to remain with the 5th Division stationed here. It was learned authoritatively that he probably would be assigned to the 11th Infantry.

Hank arrived here after a three-hour day coach ride from Detroit. The draftees were hustled first to the reception center mess hall, where the big outfielder feasted on soup, baked spareribs, mashed potatoes, salad and coffee.

NOT JUST A MENTAL HAZARD

Nats Need Only Good Pitching To Be Winners, They Reveal As Hudson Curbs Tigers

By Star Staff Correspondent. DETROIT, May 8.—Washington's baseball team is as confusing as the ingredients of a Ninth street restaurant's hash. By this time something certain should be recognizable about the Nats, but the only thing definite about them is that they can resemble a fugitive from the Piedmont League on one day and appear as quite a classy club the next.

On such occasions as yesterday when Washington dealt Detroit a 4-2 trimming, the club seems to have the stuff to escape the ignominy of a low second division berth. But just about the square you sense, "ah, the Nats are squared away now—they'll go places," back bounce the Nats into an infant losing streak.

The Jekyll and Hyde nature of the Nats has its interesting angles. Sixth place hardly is a lofty perch at this time of the season, but despite its current low level Washington still has shown flashes of finesse. There's no telling, though, when the team will hop back on the toboggan.

Pitching Seems the Answer.

Dutch Leonard and Sid Hudson, who lost their first three starts each, have recovered to win their next two outings each. Ken Chase has been both scintillating and sour and Steve Sundra, after taking his first two games, was shelved from the mound in his next start. He was to try here again today as the Nationals completed their road trip against the Tigers.

The roller coaster character of the Nats is confounding, but it all seems to simmer down to the pre-season estimate of Manager Bucky Harris. Bucky said "we can win just as often as we get a well-pitched game," and his athletes have borne him out pretty well on that statement.

Hudson gave Harris what he was hoping for yesterday in checking Detroit's 5-game winning string. Sid, who only a few days ago was nursing a badly swollen thumb on his throwing hand and arousing fear he was carrying a chipped bone, squelched the Tigers with six hits, fanned six and walked only three.

Montreal Explodes For Big Innings in Winning March

By the Associated Press. Montreal, breezing along in second place with a record of 9 victories in the last 11 starts, has been winning most of its games lately in one big inning. Picked as the club to beat at the start of the International League campaign, the power-packed Royals seem to have the knack of exploding in the face of enemy pitchers without warning. Yesterday the Royals struck again, scoring six runs in the first inning, and went on to beat Jersey City, 9-5. Baltimore nosed out Buffalo, 2-1.

Injured Travis Gamest Player In Baseball

Knee, Finger Slashed, Hands Raw, Nat Still Hits Amazingly

By BURTON HAWKINS, Star Staff Correspondent.

DETROIT, May 8.—The gamest boy in baseball is Washington's Cecil Travis. Frequently pictured as a chap who quaked at the plate with mates on base, the drawing shortstop this season has displayed enough courage to spread over an entire career. Yet the league's leading batter currently shouldn't even be lugging a bat to the plate.

Travis' hands are as raw as a skinned coyote. Trainer Mike Martin within the last two days has trimmed enough dead skin off Cecil's sizable paws to cover a kettle-drum. A dime he can occasionally flash now on Travis' hands, but the surprising Georgia farm boy has registered no complaint.

As an after effect of the ptomaine poison attack Cecil suffered recently, his hands have been covered with huge blisters. The blisters have broken and Cecil now is equipped with a pair of palms that should be planted in baseball's hall of fame. Swinging a bat with those hands must be the cruellest form of torture since the rack, but Travis isn't moaning.

Shakes Off Ills.

The Nationals have learned to love their quiet shortstop. He wouldn't raise a hand in protest if some snarling player whacked his whiskers with an authoritative fist, but within the last three seasons he has shown more silent courage in the dirt of his fingernails than most players reveal in a decade.

It was in 1939 when Travis was leveled by a siege of influenza in training camp. He insisted on returning to the line-up too soon and a little later he was dropped again in Chicago, that time by grippe. He bounced out of bed as soon as the physician would allow him and returned to the line-up at Detroit, the Nats' next stop. He hit only .292 that season, his lowest average since breaking into the majors, but much of the time he shouldn't have been playing.

by New York's Phil Rizzuto and he still carries a deep open wound in his left knee as the result of it. Ptomaine poison hit him late one Thursday night in New York with a temperature of 104.2, but on Saturday he participated in batting practice and on Sunday he played, leading the Nats to a 6-3 victory with two doubles and a triple. On another occasion in Chicago, he was strymed by an upset stomach.

Still lingering from the ptomaine poisoning is a rash which only recently has subsided after covering his entire body for days. His pink, tender hands are the latest in his series of setbacks. Cecil, though, is batting an amazing .464.

Out to 'Get' Tribe.

This may give some inkling why the Nats will crush the cranium of anybody who chooses to become rough with Travis. Cecil, of course, is calculating when he occasionally because he isn't the acme of agility around second base. He will be spiked unintentionally at times, as was the case with Rizzuto, because of a deep open wound in his left knee as the result of it. Ptomaine poison hit him late one Thursday night in New York with a temperature of 104.2, but on Saturday he participated in batting practice and on Sunday he played, leading the Nats to a 6-3 victory with two doubles and a triple. On another occasion in Chicago, he was strymed by an upset stomach.

Stars, on the Other Hand, Have Their Favorite Fans

Desperate Studio Publicist Pops Up With That Story's Other Side; 'Citizen Kane' Schedule Set

By JAY CARMODY.

Every one knows there are two sides to every story, but it takes a Hollywood publicity man to do something about it. What he does, after writing one side to the point of desperation (his own and every one else's) is to start writing the other. Thus today comes the story that just as movie fans have their favorite stars, so do the stars have their favorite fans.

Joan Crawford's favorite fan, for instance, is a girl who deserves such a ranking in any star's category of preferred people. For years, Miss Crawford has been getting letters from the girl, all of them unsigned because the girl is a cripple who feared she might be regarded as making a sympathy appeal. Miss Crawford was curious, but her efforts to identify the girl were futile. She might have gone on being curious had not another letter come to her recently from the same city. In it was a request for a picture "like the one a friend of mine, who has to use a wheel chair, clipped from a magazine. Miss Crawford answered the letter immediately, asked the name of the friend. When she received a reply, she wrote at once to thank the invalid for her years of interest in the Crawford career.

Jay Carmody.

Jeanette MacDonald's favorite fans are those legions of youngsters who would like to become successful cinema vocalists. They are such an enthusiastic lot that Miss MacDonald was forced to prepare for them an answering pamphlet, one entitled "No Royal Road to Song," which sounds like something of which Nelson Eddy might make a fine baritone solo.

The pamphlet produced eventually by Miss MacDonald's favorite of favorite fans. She turned out to be a girl who was so impressed by her counsel that she began an arduous course of study. Now she reports every month on how she is making out. Miss MacDonald likes that attitude.

Rosalind Russell's favorite box-office follower represents a conquest—the hard way. When the chap first saw her on the screen in one of those brittle, vixenish roles which Miss Russell plays so adroitly, he could scarcely wait to get home to his pen and paper to write: "I certainly wouldn't want a wife like what you were in that picture." Although he clearly had not matured in composition, Miss Russell was impressed by the man's straightforward statement of fact. A man of discernment if not high articulateness, she figured. She waited for the next letter. It was a little better, more kindly. The next was still better. So were those which followed. Miss Russell now rates the man as her preferred letter writer.

It is all arranged now about "Citizen Kane." Orson Welles' first picture, the one that never has had the country less than agog, will come to Keith's positively on May 16.

As betis a product of such sensational origin, "Citizen Kane" will be shown on a road show basis, that is to say, at advanced prices and on a limited schedule. There will be three presentations of the picture daily, at 2:30 and 5 p.m. at which a price scale of 75 cents to $1.10 will prevail. The single night showing will be at 8:30. The entire theater will be on a reserved seat basis with prices from $1.10 to $1.65, the latter for lounge seats.

As every one should know by this time, unless he has just returned from a two-year visit to Antarctica, the picture was written, produced, directed and starred in by the versatile and spectacular Welles. It is the story of a journalistic tycoon whose theory that money can buy anything inspires him to a fabulous financial success, at the peak of

NO CAREER WOMAN SHE—Dorothy Comingore is considerably more concerned over the welfare and happiness of her 3-month-old daughter than over the film roles which have been offered her lately. Movie moguls became interested after seeing her work in "Citizen Kane," the Orson Welles picture which comes to R-K-O Keith's Friday, May 16.

Queen for Benefit

"Queen of Destiny," technicolor motion picture story of the life of Queen Victoria starring Anna Neagle and Anton Walbrook, will be presented at the Newton Theater in Brookland Thursday afternoon, May 22, at 1:30 o'clock, under the auspices of St. Gertrude's Guild. Musical selections on the program will be provided by Gene Archer and Sidney's Orchestra. Proceeds will be used to further the work of St. Gertrude's School of Arts and Crafts.

Possible Call by the Army Doesn't Bother Holden

By SHEILA GRAHAM.

William Holden is merrily making picture and private plans regardless of whether the Army draft board calls on him to don a uniform. William had expected his draft number to be called in June, but encouraged by the silence from that quarter, Holden is now planning to marry Brenda Marshall in that month and shortly afterward to star in "Channel Port," a spy story surrounding an attempted invasion of England.

The future Holden-Marshall marriage, like the Tyrone Power-Annabella match, actually started as a publicity stunt. Holden was on loan to Warners for "Invisible Stripes." At the same time Brenda was making a picture on the next stage. Came the preview of "Invisible Stripes," and a studio press executive asked Brenda and William, then strangers, to attend together. At the last minute Holden, working in "Our Town," could not go. But the item of their attendance was given—over Holden's protest—to the press anyway. And that, my readers, was the beginning of the love that will lead to the altar in June. Bill, by the way, is currently starring in "The Texans Ride" for Columbia.

"You're in the Army Now" is another of the long list of defense and propaganda pictures now being prepared in the script departments and sound stages of Hollywood. An interesting note about the Army tale, which has Wayne Morris, Olivia de Havilland, and Ronald Regan in the top spots, is that it has been written so it can be easily changed from a "draft" background to a real Army story—should the Nation be involved in war before the story is started. The entire production will be filmed in a Government Army camp.

With Sam Goldwyn now releasing his pictures through R-K-O, he will be able to get that studio's top dancer, Ginger Rogers, for his planned musical with Bob Hope. A good combination, don't you think?... Martha Raye will join the zanies of the film version of "Hellzapoppin'" with Olsen and Johnson from the stage... Susan Hayward has been promoted to Robert Preston's romance in "Reap the Wild Wind." The part Susan was to have played in the film now goes to Martha O'Driscoll. George Bernard Shaw should not be allowed to write film dialogue. He inserted some banal speeches into his movie version of "Major Barbara." The best in the film, starring Wendy Hiller of "Pygmalion," Rex Harrison of "Night Train" and Robert Morley of "Marie Antoinette," are the untouched epigrams of Shaw's original play. Music Federation Banquet Hears Contest Winners

Mrs. Ober, National President, Speaks; Mary Tillman and Irving Chandler Show Artistry

By ALICE EVERSMAN.

The annual banquet of the District of Columbia Federation of Music Clubs took place last evening at Hotel 2400 and was followed by a musical program which featured the two winners of recent contests—Mary Tillman, soprano, and Irving Chandler, tenor. The guest of honor was Mrs. Vincent Hillier Ober, national president of the Federation of Music Clubs, and presiding over the evening's function was Margaret Smith, president of the District Federation. Seated at the guest table were past presidents of the club, Estelle Links, Gertrude Lyons and Eva Whitford Lovette.

Mrs. Ober can be counted upon to bring fresh inspiration in her addresses to the clubs under her jurisdiction and as guest speaker she stressed several points of supreme importance today. Designating her talk as a "rambling" one, she covered many subjects, dwelling particularly on the need of having more music at this critical time in the world and that it should be of the quiet, uplifting kind. She told of the efforts of the federation in behalf of young musicians and asked that all those who were worthy to be heard be given opportunities even though their names and their ability had not been widely publicized. Her talk had a real patriotic note running through it, and she impressed upon her listeners the obligation of maintaining these sentiments through the channels of music.

The program was opened by Charlton Meyers, 13-year-old pianist, who played MacDowell's two fantasia pieces from opus 17, "Tale" and "Witches' Dance." The young artist made a decided impression with the brilliancy of his technique, the maturity of his style and the musical feeling he displayed. It was a finished performance in every respect and after being enthusiastically applauded, young Meyers gave Debussy's "Minstrels" as encore. The quartet from Mount Vernon Place Church, the members of which are La Vergne Fairchild, soprano; Lone Bolin, contralto; David Manley, tenor, and Arthur Tabutt, bass, sang two numbers by Friml, "Allah's Holiday" and "Hush, Be My Baby." The voices blended excellently and the singers observed great care for colorful effect.

Studio to Feature An Original Play

Featured on the spring program of the Children's Studio of Speech and Drama, to be presented Saturday afternoon at the Wardman Park Theater, will be "For Sweet Charity," an original play written by Rose Robison Cohen, director of the school.

Unable to find a play suitable for a group of girls of high school age, Mrs. Cohen decided to write one, turning out this "For Sweet Charity," story of the difficulties which assail a group of junior college students when they plan a benefit play.

The various roles were written by Mrs. Cohen with the students to play them in mind. The cast includes Suzanne Braman, Wilburie Cartwright, Raymona Weigand, Rita Johnson, Dolores Rosenblatt, Marjorie Low, Lillian Scher, Rhoda Kushner, Barbara April and Edna Kraft.

The Children's Studio program also will include "The 500 Hats of Bartholomew Cubbins," "The Lion Princess," "The Sentimental Scarecrow" and "Six Who Pass While the Lentils Boil."

'Mikado' Is Played By Two Groups

Two productions of the Gilbert and Sullivan favorite, "The Mikado," are scheduled for this month, one by the Holy Cross Glee Club, the other by Christ Church of Alexandria.

Helene Gilliart, student at Holy Cross Academy and official soloist of the Marine Band, second division, will be the Yum-Yum of the Holy Cross production, scheduled for tonight and tomorrow night at Dumbarton College Auditorium. Miss Gilliart has played leading male roles in Holy Cross Glee Club productions during the past two years, is considerably happier with her feminine lead.

The other "Mikado" will be presented by the Christ Church group at George Washington High School in Alexandria the evening of May 24. Principal players in this will be Clarence B. Wells, Wesley Livechak, Coleman Gray, Herbert Harris, Frank Ray, Anita Herndon, Elizabeth Jones, Lella Stanley, Catherine Leadbeater Bloomer and Sally Bowers.

Czech Operetta Set for Sunday

"Tam Na Horach," or "There in the Mountains," a three-act Czechoslovakian operetta by J. S. Lukas and Edward Ingris will be presented here Sunday by the dramatic club of the Sokol Lodge "Blesk" of Baltimore. The one local performance will start at 3:30 o'clock and will be followed by a gala festival evening with dancing until midnight in music by Hruby and his Czechoslovak band, at the Pythian Temple, 1012 Ninth street N.W.

The Washington performance of the native operetta is sponsored by the Czech-Slovak American Center, Inc.

Guild Looks Ahead

Having just closed one of the most successful Washington seasons, the Theater Guild and the American Theater Society are about to launch preparations for the 1941-2 subscription season at the National. Subscribers will receive renewal blanks in a few days and are urged by Bess Davis Schreiner, local A. T. S. director, to resubscribe promptly as there is a large waiting list of prospective new subscribers. Office hours will be announced shortly, but meanwhile requests for subscription blanks may be sent by mail to Miss Schreiner at the National Theater.

He Hopes Old Film Will Provide Him Retirement Fund

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD.

Hundreds of reels of film taken in the old days when the Mack Sennett lot was crowded with coming big names, now are owned by Harvey Parry, movie stunt man.

Parry paid $1,800 for the film, gambling on its future worth, three years ago. He looked at it, ran it for his friends and, for a long time, thought he had made a poor investment.

One studio bought 50 Sennett titles from Parry, paying him $10,000 for the full rights to titles and any scenes it likes. He says he sells a reel here and there to collectors. He hopes eventually to make enough to retire and forget movie stunting.

He'll Save Money

LaIRD Cregar, 20th Century-Fox's "discovery," is adopting rigorous means to save money. He instructed his studio, when he went into his second picture, "Blood and Sand," to give him a check for only $35 each week and bank the balance of his salary in an account which he won't be able to touch for five years.

"I was having a hard time saving money," he confided. "The pressure to do this and that in Hollywood is so great that I felt forced into giving parties and otherwise scattering my pay."

"I can easily live on $35. Why, before I won Oscar Wilde, the role that won me a studio contract, I was sleeping in a friend's auto at night and living on $5 a week. So $35 looks like a fortune."

Cregar plays the Alexander Woolcott of the bull arena in "Blood and Sand," which Darryl F. Zanuck is producing in technicolor with Tyrone Power, Linda Darnell and Rita Hayworth in the leading roles.

Comedy for Cary

CO-started with Irene Dunne in Columbia's current "Penny Serenade." Cary Grant will return to that studio shortly to be starred in the comedy drama, "Bedtime Story," which Alexander Hall will direct for Producer B. P. Schulberg.

ONE FEEL IT!

Come on—get curious! Let your thumb put you wise to the first grand thing about Swan. It's firmer than old-time floating soaps. Has lots less moisture. It lasts and lasts. Won't warp; either.

TWO BREAK IT!

Now grasp a bar of Swan—snap it!—ah! There you are with a pair of trim, lovely cakes—one for the washstand, one for the kitchen. Smooth! You never saw a smoother break before!

THREE SUDS IT!

Time it! See how Swan whips up into suds—twice as fast as old-type floating soaps. See how much thicker'n richer'n softer that glorious lather feels—how it makes even hard water behave!...

and you're in love with SWAN

SWAN SOAP

SAVE WITH SWAN SOAP

First really new white floating soap since the Gay Nineties!

Whiter! Pure as "100% olive oil," imported castiles! Mild as a gentle breeze! That's Swan for you—the soap with "baby appeal!" The soap that's a smoothie with mama's hands, too—everytime they go into water.

Thriftier! More real soap for your money! Swan has far less moisture than old-fashioned floating soaps. It smells cleaner, fresher. It's smoother, finer-textured all the way through!

Swan up today and see! Swan the dishes! Swan the baby! Swan yourself! Then if you don't say—"I'm in love with Swan"—send us the wrapper. We'll mail double your money back. Swan, Lever Brothers Company, Cambridge, Mass.

Winning Contract

By THE FOUR ACES.

David Bruce Burnstone, Merwin D. Maier, Oswald Jacoby and Howard Schenken, who have tested and found four inventors of the system that has beaten every other system in existence.

A Trump End Play

Ernst Goudsmit, bridge champion of Holland in happier days, fulfilled today's redoubtable contract by means of an end-play in trumps:

North, dealer. Both sides vulnerable. North-South part score 60. ♠ K 6 4 ♥ A 7 4 ♦ 10 9 7 ♣ A J 10 4

♠ A 7 5 3 ♥ Q 5 4 ♦ K 9 3 ♣ K 6 3

The bidding: North, East, South, West. 1♠ Pass 1♠ 1NT 2♠ 3♠ 3♠ Dbl. Pass Pass Rdbl. Pass Pass

West led the four of diamonds, East winning and returning the suit. Mr. Goudsmit won the second round of diamonds and finessed the ten of clubs to East's queen.

South could afford to lose only one more trick with three trumps to the ace-jack practically marked in the west hand.

Declarer breathed a sigh of relief when West showed up with the last club, for now the contract was "home."

At this point South, West and North each held three trumps. Mr. Goudsmit laid down the queen of trumps and West was helpless.

Yesterday you were Merwin Maier's partner and, with neither side vulnerable, you held: ♠ A J 10 2 2 ♥ K Q 5 ♦ Q 10 2 ♣ J 4

Answer—Bid one spade. You have average high-card strength in the major suits alone, so the strength in the minors is extra value.

Score 100 per cent for one spade. 80 per cent for pass.

Schenken. You, Jacoby, Maier. Pass 1♠ Pass 2♠ 2♠ (?)

What do you bid? (Answer to-morrow.)

The Four Aces will be pleased to answer letters from readers if a stamped (3-cent), self-addressed envelope is enclosed with each communication.

Don't Take My Word For It

By FRANK COLBY.

Folk—Folks

This week's Slip of the Tongue: "How are your folks?" No. Folks for family is not good usage.

Wrong: You folks come to see us soon. Why "you folks"? Right: Come to see us soon.

Wrong (public speaker): "Good evening, folks." Right: Good evening, friends (or, better, ladies and gentlemen).

How to use the words correctly. The German folk; country folk; folklore; kinsfolk. The various folks (nationalities; peoples) of Europe.

From Santa Fe: What is the origin of hoosegow?—J. A. L.

Answer: It is said to be a corruption of the Spanish juzgado, meaning a court of justice, pronounced "hoos-GAH-doe."

One theory is that the soldiers of Gen. Pershing's punitive (PYOON-tive) expedition in Mexico against the bandit Pancho Villa (PAHN-choe VEE-yah) in 1916 picked up the word from the Mexicans, who applied it loosely to anything connected with trials or imprisonment.

Adopted into the careless lingo of the doughboy, and entering the slang of the man on the street, juzgado has been hoosegow ever since.

Why is this sentence incorrect: "We will be happy to see you?" Shall-Will. Should-Would will bother you no longer if you read my free pamphlet. It will give you a simple, non-technical key to the use of these troublesome words.

Send a stamped (3-cent), self-addressed envelope to Frank Colby, in care of The Evening Star. Ask for Shall-Will Pamphlet.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER—Many Languages Spoken by People of India

In our land people speak English. Of course there are foreign-born citizens who use another language, but most of them can understand English even if they do not always speak it in their homes.

That is not the story in India. The people of that land—who number more than 350,000,000—have ever so many languages. The total number of languages has been given as 222, not counting English.

India is in the British Empire, and English has become fairly common in some cities. Tourists find people in hotels—natives as well as whites—who can talk to them in English. Yet only a small proportion of the natives can speak our language.

Of all languages of the natives, the one called "Hindi" leads. It is spoken by about one-fourth of the people.

Next comes "Bengali." It is the language of about 55,000,000 persons in India.

There are 21 other important languages, each one spoken by at least 100,000 persons. Besides these there are scores of languages or dialects which are used by smaller groups.

So the natives of India are far from being members of a single nation, as far as language goes. They also differ widely in race and religion.

The skins of the natives are colored to a certain extent. Some are light brown, almost white. Others are medium brown, dark brown or black.
