Rumors of Shortages In Housing Here Are Declared Unfounded

Trade Board Head Says Reports Are Fostered By Misguided Persons

Fred A. Smith, president of the Washington Board of Trade, yesterday charged that various interests in other parts of the country and "some misguided Washingtonians" have deliberately fostered unfounded rumors concerning housing shortages and high living costs in the District.

In a talk before the Junior Board of Commerce at a luncheon at the Annapolis Hotel, Mr. Smith said that reports of a grave housing shortage in Washington have been advertised widely from coast to coast, and that people are being advised not to come to Washington because they will have to sleep on park benches.

The trade board president urged members of the Junior Board to "bring the correct facts" to the attention of as many people as possible.

Death-Bed Marriage Of Suicide Under Probe

BOSTON, July 11.—The poison death and death-bed marriage of the pretty, divorced wife of a Hartford (Conn.) man to a Boston club man and former Byrd expedition member was under investigation today by Medical Examiner William J. Brickley, who previously had reported the woman, Doris I. Black, 29, a suicide.

Dr. Brickley said he was informed of her marriage on July 5 to Stanley Dexter Pierce, 31, electrical engineer and member of the Byrd Antarctic expedition of 1933, as she lay dying of poison in a hospital. Records listed her as having been divorced last January from Earl Sukeforth of Hartford, Conn.

Dr. Brickley performed an autopsy after the bride's death Wednesday.

Dr. Brickley said it was solely because he had been unaware of the circumstances leading up to the marriage that he was temporarily holding the case open.

Water Gate Audience Hails Miss Brico as Conductor

Miss Dragonette Reveals Tender Quality of Her Voice; Howe Piece Given Premiere

By ALICE EVERSMAN.

Last night might have been called "ladies' night" at the Water Gate, for Antonia Brico, noted woman conductor, took over the baton of the National Symphony Orchestra and, as soloist of the program, there was the popular radio star, Jessica Dragonette.

The combination proved irresistible to the music-loving public and the men of the orchestra, by virtue of this limelight, played to the largest audience of the season. A solid mass of humanity packed every inch of space and late comers had difficulty reaching their seats or found them already occupied when they arrived.

Miss Brico had the stage to herself, figuratively speaking, for the first two numbers and she made much of the opportunity. She chose for this symphonic portion of the evening's program the overture to Mozart's opera "Idomeneus," and Sibelius' "Symphony No. 2."

If the overture has been played here before, it was many years ago, so that it was virtually a "first" for the National Symphony. The opera itself is almost unknown in spite of Richard Strauss' revision for a performance on the 150th anniversary of its premiere in 1931 in Munich.

Whatever its value as an opera, it was the composer's first serious effort in that line and a beginning of the greater things he was to do. There is a new strength and virility in this music and little of the light grace and delicate charm of which Mozart was master. It offered full opportunity for clarity of phrasing and finesse of exposition which is Miss Brico's forte. It was disappointing, therefore, to find the Sibelius symphony played in rather a perfunctory and delicate manner.

The occasion to hear Miss Dragonette "in person" was undoubtedly what a majority of the audience was waiting for. The charming singer, in a dress of soft white material and with white flowers in her hair, made a lovely picture on her entrance and when she sang the favorite numbers by which she has endeared herself to the whole country, it was just about all that could be desired. The sweet, tender quality of her voice was affecting in MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose," the words of which were composed by Miss Dragonette. Then there was "Intermezzo," "Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair" and Toselli's "Serenade," all encores and songs in which her particular style is at its best.

But in the aria "Un bel di" from "Madama Butterfly" and Bachelet's "Chere Nuit," the limitations of her voice could be felt. There is neither sufficient warmth and roundness for the aria nor enough volume for the mounting effects in "Chere Nuit."

In comparison to the ease and freedom of her singing of the other songs, her first two numbers were more labored and the high notes reached with effort. Obradors' "Dos cantares populares" and Chaminade's "L'Éte," which completed her program, were again more suitable to her natural endowment and she sang them with artistry. Her clear diction, in French and Spanish as well as in English, is a pleasure to hear.

The program concluded with the overture to Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" and the conductor's success called for two encores. Wagner's "The Ride of the Valkyrie" and Dvorak's "Slavonic Dance No. 3."

BUT THEY NEVER BAKE 'EM—That's what Bob Hope, Eddie Bracken and Lynne Overman are about to decide about the Army's attitude toward potatoes in this scene from "Caught in the Draft," remaining for a second week at Loew's Palace.

Catholic U. Repeats 'Comedy of Errors'

By way of proving that Shakespeare, after all, was a pretty funny fellow, Catholic University's Players are currently swatting each other around the stage to the amusement of both sides of the footlights.

In their first production of the summer, "The Comedy of Errors," the frolic was first played at the school last January and was such an all-around hit that it was selected as the straw-hat opener. The choice was wise. Cunningly contrived by Director Walter Kerr, and handily executed by a cast made smooth by both talent and familiarity, "The Comedy of Errors" makes a pleasant evening of slapstick. Mistaken identity is the springboard of the piece, as you will remember. Gag after gag has been interpolated into the over-punny lines and a really ingenious inventive mind has contrived a smash final curtain on the play which tops it off nicely.

The usual Catholic University finish and flow is represented on the acting side, with Lionel Booth carting away main honors for his antic acrobatics, and Hugh Franklin a standout as Pina. Leo Brady, Stan Nagoski and James Graham acquit themselves in the proper spirit of mock seriousness, with Marion Wolberg suitably sweet and coy, and Margaret Mary Edmonston fetchingly harsh and shrewish as the pseudo wronged wife. A large share of the pleasant impression last night's opening audience derived was provided by Ralph Brown's unique setting and Mary Ann LaCovis' costumes, backed by a sprightly original score by Calvin LeCompte.

The play will be repeated tonight.

Back Alive Again

"Frank Buck's Jungle Cavalcade" is his fifth film. It is released nine years after this doughty collector of jungle animals presented his first picture. This was "Bring 'Em Back Alive," released on June 5, 1932.

In his 20 years of bringing jungle animals from their habitats to zoos and circuses, Buck has learned several cardinal points about wild beasts. One is that it is foolish to generalize about them. Not all elephants are kind, for instance. The "rogue" elephants are unequaled for savagery, though as a class elephants are tractable. Nor are all tigers man-eaters. The tiger, like most other jungle animals, detests the human scent. But there are perverse tigers whose habits have been diverted either by insanity or food shortage and who have pounced on some toddling infant in a native village. Once a tiger has tasted human flesh, Buck says, he never again is reconciled to his usual food.

Teaching Teacher

When Brian Donley was handed the role of the "hot" trumpeter in Bing Crosby's band in "Birth of the Blues," Director Victor Schertzinger cast around for some one to coach Donley.

He borrowed "Pokey" Carrier, trumpet player in Jack Teagarden's Band, which is making recordings for the film. Carrier started coaching, and a few days later he visited Donley's dressing room to see how things were coming along.

What he heard was Carrier blowing Army bugle calls on his trumpet, with Donley delivering the instructions. This might have been expected, for Donley served as a bugler when he did a "hitch" in the Army some years ago.

Win, Lose or Draw

The Melancholy Fox

We have it straight from Uncle Clark Griffith that 1941 should mark the beginning of another period of capitalism in baseball. The Old Fox made this declaration the other day at a meeting of the American League club owners in Detroit, where the recent All-Star game was played. The more he thinks about it the more positive becomes the venerable gentleman.

Like almost everybody else who has been following activity in the American League, Griffith thinks the New York Yankees are going to show in with the pennant this year. "And maybe for four or five years in a row," Griffith snaps bitterly. "We have just rescinded the best rule in the history of baseball."

Uncle Clark came back from the All-Star game still a-tingle from Ted Williams' ninth-inning home run that won the American League's sixth victory in nine games with the National League, which he hates like the plague which has stricken his own Senators. But, otherwise, the Old Fox was melancholy.

It may be recalled that after the Yankees won world championships in 1936, 1937, 1938 and 1939 Uncle Clark stood up in a committee room and convinced a majority of the American League owners that the future of baseball rested in prying loose the capitalistic grip. Thus it was that Griffith got passed his rule forbidding a pennant winner from trading with other clubs, except by the waiver route. It was more than coincidental that when the next season rolled around the Yankees were dethroned.

Griff Links Browns With Yankee Aims

Not much attention was paid to the meeting at the recent All-Star game. At the confab it was decided to take Mr. Griffith's rule and flip it down the nearest sewer. The vote was 5 to 3 for rescinding the measure. Only Washington, Philadelphia and Cleveland voted to retain the rule which stopped the Yankees in 1940 and which enabled the Detroit Tigers to win in a photo-finish with Cleveland.

"I can't get over it," Griffith insists. "With two big farm teams and plenty of money behind them, the Yankees figure to carry on indefinitely. I'm not against the game, particularly, but I don't think it's healthy for a rich team to control the game."

Griffith is grateful to Connie Mack and the multi-millionaire, Alva Bradley of the Indians, for voting with him. At the same time he is incensed at the St. Louis Browns, whose president is little, affable Donald Barnes, and with the Chicago White Sox.

"My rule was great," Griff insists. "It was designed to help teams like the Browns and White Sox. I never did understand the White Sox voting against it, but I think I know about the Browns. For some reason they do what the Yankees want them to do." He sounded very peeved about the whole thing.

Only Rich Clubs Are Winning These Years

It develops, according to Griffith, that money again can control the game. "The Yankees don't have the greatest pitching staff. They have a great one, but they've got a team that figures to win pennant. They've even got better. With my rule rescinded they always will be able to make deals that will help them and which are so good that no other clubs can turn them down."

The old gentleman is in a position to know whereof he speaks. When the current season opened he wanted Frank Crosetti of the Yankees to play shortstop for him. The name of Dutch Leonard was brought up. Griff had still had plenty of use for Leonard, but he wanted Crosetti even more. The trade fell through because the Yankees spurned it. The Yankee, because of their farm system, had a shortstop as good or better than Crosetti. This would be Phil Rizzuto. Yet they preferred to hold Crosetti until Griffith or anybody else was in a mood to hike the price.

As a matter of fact, Griffith's wild ride as a Don Quixote hasn't kept the rich teams from winning. One need only to search the recent records to establish this point. The last seven pennants in the American League have been won by the Yankees and Tigers, the former owned or left behind, dipped in gold, by the late Col. Jake Ruppert, and the latter owned by Walter O. Briggs, a fabulously wealthy Detroit automobile body manufacturer.

Nats Last 'Poor' Team to Win Flag

In the National League the pendulum in recent years also has swung toward capitalistic clubs. Although Horace Stoneham's New York Giants don't have to worry about where their next meal is coming from (and the Giants won the pennant in 1937), big money took over in 1938 when the Chicago Cubs won the pennant. The owner of the Cubs is the Cheung Croesus, Phil Wrigley.

When the Cubs were supplanted a new ruler waved a diamond-studded scepter. This was Powell Crosley of Cincinnati, who mops up with bentam autos, radios and porcelain dens in which to keep beer cold. The Reds won two straight years.

The last "poor man" to win a major league pennant was nobody except Mr. Griffith who, defying people who wore diamond rings and owned farm teams, turned the trick in 1933. Griff did it during the winter of 1932, when he outtraded the rest of the American League, but since that time the old boy has had little luck at the mart. And the rest of the clubs grew extremely wary at the bartering sessions and American League teams began to follow the Cardinals' footsteps in the chain-store field.

Griffith is afraid that only the rich will win in the future, especially in the American League. "What makes me mad," he says, "is that after they've voided my rule they (the club owners) asked if anybody had any suggestions that would prevent money from dominating the game. That's a fine thing! They kill the best rule that ever was passed and as soon as it's dead they want to know if anybody's got any ideas."

Kelleher Bangs 25th Homer as Newark, Buffalo Split

I. L. Night Double Bill Is Big Batting Oracy; Baltimore Scores

By the Associated Press.

Like a couple of second-rate heavyweights in a grudge fight, whenever the International League-leading Newark Bears and second-place Buffalo Bisons tangle, science goes by the boards and both swing from the heels.

The largest crowd to attend a night game in Buffalo in several years, 14,023, turned out last night anticipating a slugging match—and they weren't disappointed as the clubs split a double-header by trading home-run punches.

The Bears won the abbreviated twilight contest, 5-3, and the Bisons romped away with the nightcap, 7-2.

Frank Kelleher, Newark's league-leading home run producer, connected with his 25th of the season while Teammate Henry Majeski banged out his 11th to provide the Bruins with their margin of victory in the opener.

The Bisons turned the tables in the second game, with Dutch Meyer and Ed Parsons each hitting a pair of round-trippers.

The Montreal-Rochester third-place feud was brought to a momentary standstill when both clubs went down to defeat before Baltimore and Syracuse, who are battling for sixth place.

Baltimore nosed out Montreal, 3-1, and Syracuse swamped Rochester, 13-2.

Feller Great Aid As Tribe Stays Near Yankees

His Hitting, Hurling Tell; St. Louis Beats Slugging Giants

By BILL BONI.

Associated Press Staff Writer.

Though they can turn out to be dust as easily as high explosives, there were definite indications today that the Cleveland Indians and St. Louis Cardinals aren't going to give up the pennant races without a struggle.

At the moment, the battles are being fought before the all-star contest, with the New York Yankees 3½ games up on Cleveland in the American League, the Brooklyn Dodgers three games to the good over the Cards in the National. But there's the hitch—the pace-setters didn't pick up any ground.

The Yanks, opening a swing through the West, got in five innings last night before it rained in St. Louis. That proved just enough for Joe Di Maggio to run his hitting streak to 49 straight and for Lefty Gomez to blank the Browns, 1-0, on three hits. At the same time, though, the Indians were beating the Athletics, 3-2, with Bobby Feller setting the A's down on six safeties and then clinching victory No. 17 by scoring the deciding run after belting a triple in the ninth.

Di Maggio Hits at Outset.

Di Maggio, with storm clouds looming overhead, bounded a drive off Shortstop Alan Strassler's glove for a single in the first inning. In the next frame Joe Gordon lofted a homer into the left-field seats, and that concluded the festivities for the evening.

Feller, honored on "Bob Feller night" by Cleveland kids who play on the sandlots, from which he graduated, was more liberal than in his three-inning all-star stint. He gave the A's six walks, three of which, with an infield out, were good for one of their runs. But he also was in a hitting mood, for in addition to his vital three-bagger he singled in the second to help account for the Tribe's other two tallies.

In the other circuit the Dodgers also were kept from widening their margin. In one of the program's two afternoon games, they smothered the Cincinnati Reds, 8-3, on Kirby Higbe's second straight five-hitter and timely hitting by Cookie Lavette. Billy Herman and Ducky Medwick.

Cards Snap Losing String.

But the Cardinals stuck right on their heels. In a wild-eyed, free-swinging contest that involved five homers and eight pitchers, the Redbirds first ran up an 8-0 lead, saw it disappear in one inning, then came back with five more to blast the New York Giants and end their own five-game losing streak.

With one exception all of the night hits were eloquent money talks. Cardinals' first baseman, who played in the first inning, hit Kirby Higbe's second straight five-hitter and timely hitting by Cookie Lavette. Billy Herman and Ducky Medwick.

Only the National League Phillies were but 2 of their past 10 games, they were winners 6-3, the Pittsburgh Pirates before a gathering of 4,539.

Phils Bow in Eighth.

Nick Etten's home run got the tailenders off on the right track and Tom Hughes' seven-hit pitching kept them there for five innings. But in the eighth the Pirates rushed over five runs on three hits, three walks and an error.

The other day game, also in the National League, produced the nearest hurling duel of them all. The Chicago Cubs' Vern Olsen came out the winner, 3-1, over the Boston Braves' Al Javery, with Javery allowing only six hits to Olsen's seven, but Olsen getting into one of those six to drive in the deciding run.

In the American League the Boston Red Sox were rained out at Detroit. Thus Lefty Grove had to postpone until today his bid for major league victory No. 300.

Grove Seeking 300th Win as He Pitches Against Tigers

Success Would Put Vet Bosox in Class With Other Slab Greats

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, July 11.—Lanky Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove, dean of American League pitchers, hoped today to reach another milestone in his long and colorful career.

Against the Detroit Tigers, a team he often has found to his liking, the veteran Boston Red Sox southpaw sought his 300th major league victory.

If successful, Grove would have accomplished a feat in modern baseball (city) only by Denton Tomschuk (Cy) Young, Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson, Grover Cleveland Alexander and Eddie Plank.

The 41-year-old star came up to today's game with a season record of six wins and two defeats, but had yet to beat the American League champions. His record against Detroit over a 17-year span was 60 victories against 17 defeats.

Buck Newsom, whose luck this year has been almost all bad, was slated to pitch for Detroit.

Western Finalist Next Year Will Be Too Old To Play in Tourney

By the Associated Press.

ST. CHARLES, Ill., July 11.—It's now or never for 17-year-old Jeanne Cline of Bloomington, Ill., in the women's Western junior golf tournament.

Although a familiar figure on the golfing scene since she was 14, Miss Cline never has been able to win the Western junior title. Today gave her a last chance—a meeting with Dorothy Campbell of St. Louis in the tourney final. She'll be too old to compete in this event next year.

She was an overwhelming favorite to defeat Miss Campbell after playing brilliant golf all the way to the title round. Miss Cline moved through the semifinals yesterday with a 6-and-5 victory over Betty Brown of Texarkana, Ark., and Miss Campbell, defeated Betty Jane Haemmerl, another St. Louisan, in 22 holes.

Miss Cline won the medal with a fancy 81 and was an easy victor over all her opponents except Phyllis Otto of Omaha, Neb., whom she eliminated in overtime.

Daughter of a Bloomington doctor, Miss Cline first attracted golfing headlines three years ago when she reached the semifinals of the women's Western championship. Since then she's been coming close in many meets, but has yet to win any of the prominent fixtures.

Travis Is Real 'Hero' Of All-Star Game, Speaker Claims

By a Staff Correspondent of The Star.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Labeled by no less an authority than Ted Spiker as the "real hero" of the recent All-Star game at Detroit, where he whacked Second Baseman Billy Herman of the National League out of a chance for a game-ending double-play, Shortstop Cecil Travis of the Nats admits he snuffed into second base emphatically and for keeps.

"Yeah, I guess I musta jolted Herman pretty hard," drawls Cecil. "I took a big hunk of skin off my knee when I hit him just as he was set to throw. I suppose my knee hit his leg and it must have hurt him because it sure hurt me."

Thrill of Travis' Life.

Herman has been blamed for the National League's 7-5 defeat, for when his throw to first base pulled Frank McCormick off the bag, the stage was set for Ted Williams' dramatic homer. Joe Di Maggio's grounder, normally a double-play ball, was rescued from being the final shot in the newsreels when Travis slid hard into Herman, who had taken a toss from Shortstop Eddie Miller to force Travis.

"I got the biggest thrill of my life," enthuses Travis, "when Williams hit that home run. Boy, he sure put the wood to it. Some of those players act pretty nonchalant about being in that game, but once they're in, everybody on that American League team was just as tickled over that homer as Williams."

Pitcher Sid Hudson of the Nats, who was hammered for three hits and two runs, including Arky Vaughan's first homer in the only time he worked, blamed his lack of effectiveness on nervousness.

"Was Nervous," Says Hudson.

"Yes, I admit it," says Sid. "I was nervous. I guess it was because I wanted to pitch good so badly. The home-run game to Vaughan was inside and was high. Bill Dickey had asked for a fast ball low and outside. He wanted to test Vaughan—so to see if he intended to sacrifice Enos Slaughter to third—but I crossed up that strategy when I couldn't get the ball where he wanted it."

"After that home run, though, I felt all right. I guess that knocked the nervousness out of me in a hurry because I had good stuff after that. Everything turned out all right, any way, but I'm sorry I couldn't do better."

Travis' batting average today was .333, his highest since he was a rookie in 1937. He had 11 hits in the six innings he toiled. Chicago was en route to a 5-1 victory at the time, cuffing Alejandro Carrasquel for the second time after a career-best 4-0 lead of Cecil Travis. The White Sox slammed Ken for two runs in the third inning, when Moose Sliemers doubled to open the right field line with the bases loaded. Chicago knocked him for another run in the fourth when Mike Kreevich doubled. George Case, who has been springing for 300 averages for several seasons, also has tobogganed rapidly.

Nat Tore Skin Off Knee As He Bumped Herman To Curb Double Play

Ocean Racers, Small Craft Share Spotlight in Bay's Big Sail Regatta

250 Boats Expected In Annual Affair At Annapolis

Philippine Commissioner Presents Trophy for 20-Foot Division

By MALCOLM LAMBORNE, Jr.
Famed ocean-racing yachts and boating's small fry will share the spotlight this week end in Chesapeake Bay's largest sailing regatta, the sixth annual Annapolis Yacht Club regatta, which opens on two fronts today and continues through Sunday.

Conservative estimates place the total number of boats at two points some distance removed from Annapolis, oddly enough. Because many of the small boat skippers at Gibson Island and West River prefer to bring their boats under sail to the Severn River the club has donated special prizes for races from these two sailing centers to Annapolis.

Start at Noon Today.
Star class boats were scheduled to get under way from Gibson Island around noon today, while 20-footers, albatross class sloops and 16-footers will set out from West River at 5 p.m. The large cruising divisions of the Gibson Island Yacht Squadron also were to leave that point an hour before the stars set out.

Actual racing yachting will begin tomorrow morning over four courses in the Severn and out in the bay. Times for the regatta begins at 5 p.m. which will make up the bulk of the 250 starters, have been set at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. The racing and cruising divisions sail only a single race, beginning at noon.

The third and final race of the series will be sailed Sunday beginning at 10 a.m. Trophies will be awarded at the clubhouse Sunday at 5 p.m. Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor of Maryland and Rear Admiral Russell Wilson, superintendent of the Naval Academy, have been invited to present the prizes, which include several new trophies donated by prominent yachtsmen here and nearby.

Elizalde Presents Trophy.
Miguel Elizalde, commissioner of the Philippines and a member of the Annapolis club, has donated a trophy for the winner of the 20-foot round-bottom division. Pete Magruder, general commodore of the Annapolis club, is the donor of a trophy for the best corrected time made by a Class C yacht in tomorrow's race. The Hampton one-design sloops will race for the first time for the J. Willis Martin Memorial Trophy, presented to that class in memory of the club's late commodore.

The Midshipmen Boat Club alone is expected to provide approximately 100 one-design sloops, which will include 14-foot dinghies and 14-foot international dinghies and Classes A and B in the cruising divisions.

In addition to these classes, races have been scheduled for comets, national one-designs, seven one-designs, penguins, Class D dinghies, moths, 20-footers in Divisions I and II, stars, Hamptons, albatrosses and delta class sloops.

Capitales to Compete.
A large delegation of Washington sailors is expected to compete in come, 20-foot, star and penguin divisions.

Courses A, B and C have been laid out inside the river mouth for the smaller classes. The stars and 20-footers will race over a course just out in the bay, while the cruising and racing divisions in their event tomorrow will sail a 21-mile course to the Eastern Shore, down to near West River and return to the river mouth.

All events have been sanctioned by the Chesapeake Bay Yacht Racing Association, ruling body for sailing men on the bay.

Power Boats Will Race For Venerable Awards
NEW YORK, July 11.—Two venerable trophies will be at stake in the New York Athletic Club's 32d power boat race to Block Island tomorrow. The Motor Yacht Trophy, historic cup presented by the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, and the athletic club's Handicap Cruiser Trophy will go to the winners in the slow and fast divisions, respectively.

It will mark the first time that the handicap award has been competed for in the annual Long Island Sound fixture. The trophy was last raced for in 1930.

At least 10 cruizers will compete in the Block Island run, with one past winner, Louis A. Kinsling, who won in 1939 with Santoy, in the field.

Two Regattas Are Listed
Belle Harbor (Me.) Yacht Club has listed a regatta for August 21 and 22. There will be a championship sailing race at the Riverside Y. C., Conn., August 23.

Yachts in Trophy Race
The second annual Commodore Trophy invitation race of the Thames Yacht Club, New London, Conn., will be held September 6.

FORE AND AFT

An analysis of the water in Gunston Cove, instigated by Corinthian Yacht Club, has revealed the typhoid and other disease counts in that one-popular rendezvous are dangerously high. The water, according to this report, is too polluted to permit swimming.

As a result of the findings, the club's Board of Trustees has decided not to place its swimming float off a beach used each year by members visiting the cove. Commented one board member: "To place the float at its usual position in Gunston Cove is only inviting people to go swimming and encouraging disaster."

This same survey of Potomac River pollution finds that swimming anywhere above Maryland Point is not playing safe. Contamination of the cove, which formerly was one of the few spots on the upper Po-

Woman Lands Two Bass on One Hook

RICHMOND, Va., July 11.—You've heard the story of the big one that got away, even about the big one that was caught, but listen to this yarn about the two big ones snagged and landed: Mrs. E. G. Ayres of Richmond cast a wooden minnow into a New Kent County creek, and the water virtually exploded. After several minutes of intense excitement she landed her catch—two bass, weighing 3 and 4 pounds, caught on the same artificial hook.

Inboard Speed Marks Are Under Fire at Lake Hopatcong

Simmons' My Sin Among Craft in Big Week-End Governor's Cup Regatta
Special Dispatch to The Star.
LAKE HOPATCONG, N. J., July 11.—Inboard speed records which have stood untouched since the close of last year's racing campaign will be the principal target of attack when the annual Governor's Cup Regatta is run on Lake Hopatcong here tomorrow and Sunday.

An extra day has been added to the regatta program today, exclusively for time trials, and these 1-mile tests also will be carried over tomorrow morning.

Highlighting the attempts at speed-breaking will be that of My Sin, the former Gold Cup class champion owned by Zaimon G. Simmons, jr., of Greenwich, Conn. Pop Cooper, the Kansas City, Mo., grandfischer, will make things exciting in the 225-cubic-inch class with another of his "Tops" racers and will seek the 1-mile speed to go that he lost last fall to Chauncey Hamlin's Voodoo on Buffalo, N. Y.

Voodoo also will be on the Lake Hopatcong course, piloted by Jack O'Mara of New York, and Jack Wood of Detroit, erstwhile outboard pilot, has a new Michigan Kid in the 225 division that will bear watching. The 1-mile record in the Gold Cup class is 100.987 miles an hour, and for the 225s the standard is 88.786 m.p.h.

Competitive races in the Hopatcong regatta will be run both tomorrow and Sunday, climaxed by the three 15-mile-heat event for the Governor's Trophy. Voodoo, with Jack Olmsted at the wheel, won last year.

Inboard runabouts, 225-cubic-inch hydroplanes, 135 class hydro and Pacific one designs also will be in action on the two-day program.

320,793 Motorboats, Record Number, Using Federal Waterways

Steady Gains Have Been Made in Three Years; New York Is Leader

Registrations of numbered motorboats used on Federal waterways of the United States reached the all-time record total of 320,793 craft on May 1, the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers has announced.

Steady gains during the past three years have pushed the registration ahead of the previous high of 219,404 boats listed in 1935, before the current renumbering system was inaugurated to clear custom house files of unused and abandoned numbers.

Numbered motorboats, the great majority of which are used for recreational purposes, increased by 36,430 during 1940; 38,707 during 1939, and 36,821 during 1938.

There have been 5,516 boats added to the total during the first four months of 1941.

New York City is the leading motorboat port in the country with 34,215 registrations, and also has the largest three-year gain of 8,919 craft.

Seattle, the second ranking port with 19,528 numbered motorboats, has had an increase of 8,776 since 1938.

Other substantial gains were made at Detroit, with 8,814; San Francisco, with 8,735; and Milwaukee, with 6,604.

Due to the renumbering process started at the end of 1935, no Federal motorboat registrations were available in 1936 and only 167,403 numbers had been issued by 1937. The job was completed in February of 1938, when the total was given at 203,219 craft. The registrations reached 240,050 in January of 1939, 278,847 in January of 1940, and 315,277 last January 1.

Five-Pound Pike Caught In Claytor Lake

Table of Tides Hereabout

A.M. tides in light type, P.M. tides heavy type. The minus sign means tides are higher and should be subtracted from the time at reference station. These predictions give the times of high and low water and not the time the current changes (slack water). In Chesapeake Bay, mid-channel between the Potomac River and Annapolis, slack water occurs about 2 1/2 to 4 1/2 hours after high and low water by the shore. At other places given in the table, slack water occurs from 1/2 to 1 1/2 hours after the times of high and low water. These tables are compiled by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Heat Plays Hob With Fishes' Feeding Questions Answered for Anglers

The hot weather has played hob with the inclinations of the finny tribe to accept baited hooks for several week-ends. Just what tomorrow and Sunday has in store for the fishing fraternity is hard to say. Just as difficult would be trying to foretell what time of the day or night will produce the best fishing, for the last six days offered no criterion. There is no doubt fish will feed during some period of every 24 hours, and in that time the fishing will be all any one could ask, because there never has been more, or larger, fish in the Bay and the Potomac.

The hardhead, big ones, too, are mostly in the deep water. Boats from Annapolis to Point Lookout are fishing the steamboat channel. Trout are on the hard bottom and shell. The same is true of spot, snappers and blue crabs. Fishing mostly in Eastern Bay on the other side—the "Hilltop" for hardhead, trout, spot and King William perch. The striped schools are where you find them—in the same area. White shrimp for the hardhead, peeler and soft crabs to bait for the trout and bloodworms for the spot and perch, while shore shrimp is the best bait for striped bass. Find them raising and a June bug spinner with bloodworm, small eels, or any bright small spoon will take them trolling.

Big Hardhead Plentiful.
Herring Bay skippers will fish the Gooses for those who prefer it, but there equally is good fishing in the deep water off Holland Point. Few strippers have been caught here so far but the catches of big hardhead seem to be just what the individual care to make them. Small trout are being large and numerous on the edge of the bar. Some boats fish under Poplar Island and Tilghmans, Chesapeake Beach boats fish the same grounds, while the Breezy Point and Kenwood Beach guides stick to the Gooses. Solomons Island has had fishing this year that is incomparable. Hardhead, a fair number of trout and strippers from 2 pounds to 10 and better. The smaller bass are being caught on the lighthouse rocks at Cedar Point, the larger ones on Town Point and Point Patience in the Patuxent.

The settled weather should bring better white marlin fishing at Ocean City and the trout and channel bass back on the beaches. The reef fishing for sea bass and porgies continues good.

Surf Fishing Expounded.
Answering questions from individuals new in this area about such items as bait, tackle, species of fish and anything they might want to know, has been through personal letters. Believing many of these queries are of interest to others, they will be a part of every Friday's story so long as they are wanted.

J. C. city—"I expect to go back to Bethany Beach this summer and to fish in the surf although I never caught a fish over a long period last season. Where am I at fault?"

Surf fishing requires not only the knowledge of what the fish are feeding on and their habits, but also the action of the water along the beach so that you will know where to fish. The line of breakers is the telltale of a bar. Where they stop is the deeper water of a slough. Cast your bait there for the fish often feed on the small crabs washed off the bar. When fishing a straight beach cast out as far as possible, wait several minutes and reel in several feet. Continue until your bait is in to the breakers on the beach or you have found the distance at which the fish are feeding. "Horsing" the action of the water along the beach is the mistake of the beginner. The drag of the reeling back added to the pull of the fish is just too much for the line. Another is the snap to get distance—old surfmen often throw their rigs away so it is little wonder that the novice does it often. Surfmen are so enamored of their sport they usually want every one to know and like it, too. We never have encountered one on any beach that wasn't willing to teach the novice. They are any beginner's best bet. Don't be inquisitive—make their acquaintance.

Bay and Sea Trout Same.
A. W. Takoma, Md.—"Are sea trout the same trout as caught in the Chesapeake?"
The bay trout and the sea trout are one and the same fish. In Jersey they go by the name of weakfish, in New England they become the squeteague. There actually are two trout, the common gray and the Southern, or salmon trout. The former with pronounced green back markings shading to white underneath, the latter with a pinkish green back with a pinkish cast on the sides and well marked over the sides and fins with black spots. Their range overlaps that of the Northern trout in the Chesapeake; they usually are found well down toward the capes, seldom in large numbers. Four pounds is a large fish here, although offshore and in tide ways they occasionally are caught up to 12 and 14 pounds.

G. I. city—"I find it difficult to learn beforehand the condition of the Potomac above Washington, so that one can be sure of being able to fish after going up. Can you help?"
By phone we usually can give a fair picture of the condition of the Potomac. To print news of it has been unsuccessful for at this time of the year it can be reasonably clear one day and carrying a load of silt the next that gives it the

Gold Cup Boat Races Added to Red Bank's Sweepstakes Card

Events Detroit Cancels Scheduled by Jersey Regatta Next Month

By the Associated Press.
RED BANK, N. J., July 11.—Joseph C. Irwin, president and general chairman of the National Sweepstakes Regatta Association, has announced the annual Gold Cup power boat races would be held here next month in conjunction with the National Sweepstakes.

Irwin said he had received word from Russell Gudgeon, member of the Gold Cup Committee, that Red Bank had been approved for the races originally scheduled to be held at Detroit, but canceled there because of the national defense program.

The Sweepstakes Regatta is scheduled for August 16 and 17. Fred Brown, regatta chairman, said that if possible the Gold Cup races would be held the first day.

appearance of coffee. Such streams as the Monocacy River and the Shenandoah river will even light rains, heavy squalls and the heavy runoff of the Potomac will muddy them beyond fishing in a few minutes. During July and August the Potomac to Harpers Ferry is muddy more often than not. The North Branch always is the best bet until September and October. Many of the tributary streams offer good bass fishing and often as clear when the river is impossible.

Solunar Table Explained.
J. E. D. Bethesda—"Fishing according to the barometer is easy to understand, but what are the solunar tables anglers are using, and where may they be obtained?"
The solunar theory is the invention of John Alden Knight. It is those times during every 24 hours when the effect of the sun and the moon on the earth overlap, and, therefore, are strongest. This occurs twice, and the times are called major periods. When their effect is exactly opposite there occurs the two minor periods. Fish and game are supposed to be most active during these periods. With other conditions normal it is surprising how well it actually work out. The tables may be obtained at most sports stores.

'Take' on Planted Fish High in California

Fishing intensity on Squaw Creek, a tributary of California's Pitt River, has increased sharply during the last four years and has surpassed the smaller tributaries and headwaters, says the United States Fish and Wildlife Service.

In 1940 20 per cent of the anglers who fished the smaller tributaries and headwaters caught 49 per cent of the trout taken. More trout were caught in 1939 than 1940, although there was an increase of 88 anglers in 1940.

Around 75 per cent of the trout caught this season have never spawned and more than 99 per cent were wild rainbow. Returns of marked rainbow trout show that one fish of every 108 planted have been taken by anglers.

Capt. Mike Boutsos of the Atlantic City Tuna Club declares this is the best bonita season for 25 years.
The fish not only are plentiful but running good size, he says, adding that no sooner is a line overboard than the lure is taken by a bonita.

Several of the club boats have brought in tuna averaging about 40 pounds.
One boat returned to the club dock with 18 tuna and 96 bonitas. Jeanne Woodward of Orange, N. J., now leads the tuna division of the State angling tournament with a 50-pounder taken southeast of Manasquan Inlet.

Crack Capital Teams Wheel Into Action Tonight on Major Softball Front

Fireworks Expected As Fat Boy, Garvins Tilt in C. C. Loop

Pacing Senate Beer Ten To Tackle Manhattan In Ballston Game

Second-half competition in the Capital City League gets under way at Washington Softball Stadium tonight when Fat Boy meets Garvins at 9:15 in a game sharing interest with an exhibition involving Baltimore Shipbuilders and Yellow Cab. The opener starts at 8.

Ballston Stadium also comes up with an exciting double bill involving Merchants Night League teams. The league-leading Senate Beer combination opens at 8 against Manhattan while the second-place Standard Linen hopes to strengthen its position against Plaza in the closing tilt. Billy Sullivan is slated to pitch for Senate against Bobby Pichen of Manhattan.

Two No-Hitters in Loop.

Harold Steffes probably will be given the pitching assignment for Fat Boy against Garvins in the first half he hurled a perfect no-hitter. He also tossed a no-hitter yesterday for Fat Boy in the Sherwood League as Hecht was beaten, 6-0.

His wasn't the only no-hit game in that loop, yesterday, however. Lefty Horvath held Middle Atlantic hitless as Kavakos Grill won, 9-0.

District Firemen strengthened their undefeated string last night by topping Greenbelt, 9-3, in the National Night League. George Moore of the Firemen and Ben Goldfaden of the Greenies honored in the other half of the twin bill. Tom Debevoise hurled a three-hitter for Carr Brothers as his team coasted to a 7-1 triumph over May Hardware in the Capital City League.

Final Brith Gains.

Final Brith improved its Edgewood Twilight League standing by blanking N. and G. Barbecue, 6-0, with Norman Freedenburg of the winners allowing only four hits. Final Brith's next action will be Sunday at Rock Creek against Standard Tire in the Fraternal League.

Tickets for next Wednesday's big grudge battle between Kavakos Grill and Senate Beer at Griffith Stadium go on sale tomorrow at the ball park. The ante is 55 cents for adults and 10 cents for children. The U. S. O. will benefit.

Cocker Spaniel Club Will Stage Annual Show Sunday

Maryland Cocker Spaniel Club will hold its annual outdoor sanction match Sunday at the estate of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Bartlett, Caves road, near Park Heights avenue, on the outskirts of Baltimore.

Four classes will be shown: Puppies 8 to 6 months old, puppies 6 to 12 months old, novice and open. A silver-plated trophy will be awarded to the winner of each class, a sterling silver trophy to the best of show, and the American Spaniel Club Trophy to the best puppy in the show. All classes will be judged by Thomas Godfrey.

According to officials of the club, this year's show promises to be larger and more interesting than ever before. As a novel feature, several owners of outstanding champions have been invited to enter their dogs for exhibition only.

Signs directing to the show grounds will be posted, starting at Caves road and Park Heights avenue.

Youthful Trojan Takes Three Events in Meet

PATERSON, N. J., July 11.—Jimmy O'Reilly, University of Southern California freshman, won both handball events from scratch and leaped 25 feet 1 1/2 inches to take the Philadelphia jump in a "twilight" track meet here.

The 19-year-old Californian gave handgrabs up to 7 yards in the 100-yard dash, which he won in 9.6 seconds, and up to 22 yards in the 220, which he took in 0.214.

VICTOR AND SPOILS—Charles (Chick) Thompson, who won the international onboard championship in a field of about 60. It was a 60-mile test from Marysville, Mich., to Memorial Park in Detroit, and Thompson averaged 57.31 miles an hour.

First-Half Champions, Brewers Now Find Tough Sledding

Lose to Little Tavern; Cameos Setting Pace; Market Nine Is Hot

The second-half Industrial Baseball League race presents a very different picture from the first half, which the Heurich Brewers, league and city champions last year, took with loss of only one game. But the Brewers now are down in the middle of the list.

In first place is Cameo Furniture, closely followed by Little Tavern, a vastly improved nine over the one which finished in the second division in the early series. Proof that the hamburger servers aren't fooling was given yesterday when they tripped the Brewers, 8-7, for the third successive time. They scored in only two innings, the second and fourth, but the four runs garnered each time were enough to spill the former leaders.

Palace A. C., winner of the Washington-Virginia League first half, will display its wares against outside competition tomorrow night. The club will play host at Ballston Stadium to General Accounting Office of the Department League. Lefty McIntyre is slated to hurl for Palace.

Center Market, with a perfect record, still leads the second-half race in the Departmental League. Frank Watt's seven-hit pitching was responsible for the Marketmen's continued success yesterday as they tossed out District Grocers, 2-1, for victory No. 4. Unie Stadler also had something to do with Center Market's win, collecting three hits.

St. Elizabeth's started with a bang yesterday, collecting three runs in the first inning, and went on with more in the seventh and eighth to blank Maryland Sports Club, 5-0, in the Federal-Commercial League. McPadden tossed a three-hitter for the Saints.

Another early spree proved decisive as Veterans Administration tallied four runs in the first inning to help in its 8-2 win over Library of Congress in the Government League.

Garcia Fighting Casino After Year's Layoff

LOS ANGELES, July 11.—Hoping to regain a foothold on pugilism's ladder of fame after a year's layoff, Ceferino Garcia returns to the ring tonight in a 10-round bout against tough Jimmy Casino of Los Angeles at Hollywood Stadium.

Garcia, one of the heaviest fighters ever to come out of the Philippines, hasn't boxed since he dropped his share of the middleweight title to Ken Overlin in New York in 1940. George Parnassus, his manager, said Garcia, who will weigh around 168 pounds, is gaining weight and wants to tackle the heavier boys.

Record-Holder Banks Sees Faster Time At West Lanham

Wouldn't Be Surprised If Midget Auto Racer Reaches 80 M.P.H.

Henry Banks, midget auto driver who set a West Lanham mark of close to 70 miles an hour in the semifinal race on last Tuesday's program, thinks that figure only the beginning of speed records at the nearby doodlebug track.

"I'll be mighty disappointed if I'm not doing 75 before long on that track," he said after the race, "and it wouldn't surprise me if somebody hit 80 before long."

Despite his record dash, Banks wasn't the big-money winner on Tuesday, being forced out of the feature race by tire trouble with only a few laps to go. He had a big lead at the time.

Not only will he be back for next Tuesday's program but Banks also has entered the Atlantic States Championship Derby, scheduled for West Lanham on Tuesday, July 22. Another fast driver headed for a top spot on future programs is Len Duncan, quiet, retiring Brooklyn driver. Although not a spectacular racer, Duncan, with his homemade job, is among the five leading money winners in the American Racing Drivers' Association. His bug is powered with a rebuilt Ford V-8 motor in preference to the handsome and very expensive Offenhauser job preferred by those drivers who can afford them.

Proof of his ability was supplied when several of the other drivers preferred by those drivers who can afford them.

20 Years Ago In The Star

Washington finally found its batting eye at St. Louis and, with Joe Judge hitting two homers and Bing Miller another, defeated the Browns, 9-4.

Burlingh Grimes, Brooklyn pitcher, ran his string of victories to eight as the Dodgers tripped the Pirates, 7-3. Grimes also stopped Bigbee, who previously had hit safely in 33 successive games.

Harry Sedgwick, Silver Spring sandlot pitcher, who has won nine games this season, was signed by the Detroit Tigers.

Hornet and Coleman End Win Streaks On Turner Mat

A couple of winning streaks enjoyed by rascals at Turner's Arena are no more. Both Able Coleman and the Green Hornet were spilled and their strings along with them last night before a near-capacity crowd.

Ernie Dusek pinned Coleman in 42 minutes of the feature. Ernie was taking quite a beating and seemed headed for defeat when he ramed his head against Able's chest, knocking that worthy to the canvas where Ernie promptly nailed him.

Victor over the Green Hornet was Wadislav Talum, Polish newcomer, who polished off the masked rascal with ease in 12 minutes. In other matches, Maurice La Chappelle teamed to overcome the Eddie Newman-Angelo Leone combination, while Fred Grobmier won from Hans Kamper.

Hurricanes Beat Bombers

Second game in the new Bluebelt Twilight Softball League was scheduled for late this afternoon at West-ern High Stadium between the Spitters and the Fighters. Hurricanes won the opening game, defeating the Bombers, 13-4.

Duke Gets School Star

Charles Brown, all-Tidewater end at Wilson High of Norfolk last year, is going to Duke this fall.

Sports Mirror

Today a year ago—Cincinnati Reds stretched their National League lead to 1 1/2 games, beating Brooklyn Dodgers, 6-5.

Three years ago—Dizzy Dean ordered by Phil K. Wrigley, owner of Chicago Cubs, to be ready to pitch within a week's time. Dean, "ready to go," dropped talk of "suing" St. Louis Cardinals.

Five years ago—Stanley Wooderson beat Jack Lovelock by one yard in 4:15 mile at British A. A. championships.

Backspin Brings Ace To Baltimorean

BALTIMORE, July 11.—Charlie Betschler, pro at the Hillendale Country Club, vouches for this one: Eddie Semmler swatted a tee shot on 110-yard 17th hole. The ball landed 6 inches past the cup, but, because of extreme backspin, hopped backward for a hole-in-one the hard way.

Carlberg Tops Qualifying List In Federal Horseshoe Event

Irwin Carlberg, dethroned by Clair Lacey last year as District horseshoe champion, today had served notice of intent to climb back on the throne when the annual Evening Star tournament is held the first week in September.

Carlberg's name heads the list of those who have fired the 100-shoe qualifying round of the Interdepartmental Horseshoe Pitchers Association.

With 73 ringers, including 26 doubles, the Civil Service Commission star gathered 240 points, which is topflight twirling anywhere.

Harold R. Bond, with 176 points including 45 ringers, is second in the early standing, trailed by Roy Wilson, with 42-174, and Walter Halsey with 39-166.

Qualifying will end tonight and the players grouped into leagues according to relative skill.

Match play will start next Wednesday night on the public park courts opposite the Commerce building on Fifteenth street N.W.

All Federal employees are eligible and cordially invited to compete. The court lights go on at 7:30 o'clock. Qualifying scores:

Host at Many Benefits, Turner Now Will Be Tendered One

A testimonial fight night honoring Joe Turner, dean of boxing and rassing promoters in Washington, is slated for Griffith Stadium on July 21. Not only are the boys gathering to honor Joe but they plan to help him put some money in his pocket, a place where he has been struck a foul blow or two lately.

Prexy Clark Griffith is doing his part by donating his stadium. After conferring with Matchmaker Gabe Menendez yesterday, Griff told him to line up a good show featuring local talent as much as possible.

Griff's idea is to call the affair "Thirty-five years in sports with Joe Turner," remembering how Joe won the world middleweight rassing crown in Washington back in 1906 at the Odd Fellows Hall. "Joe's one of the grandest fellows I know," Turner promoted the first legalized boxing show in Washington and has been promoting rassing here since 1927.

Young D. C. Net Aces Are Contesting in Sectional Event

NORFOLK, Va., July 11.—Officials of the Middle Atlantic Tennis Association have completed the pairings for the sectional boys and junior tournaments being held at the Norfolk Country Club today and tomorrow.

Latest entries came from Baltimore, Washington and Lynchburg. Bob Bensing, skillful junior, heads the list from the National Capital.

Other representatives include Bob Hall, junior runnerup, and Britt Schweitzer, boys' champion, and Delos (Cotton) Smith, runnerup.

Bomber, in Fighting Mood, Regrets Bout Is Unimportant

Harassed Louis Meets Jimmy Robinson in 4-Round Exhibition

MINNEAPOLIS, July 11.—Picking up some pocket change for a Minnesota fishing and golf trip, Joe Louis has a four-round exhibition number with Jimmy Robinson of Philadelphia here tonight.

Family and draft troubles put the heavyweight boxing champion in a good mood for a real scrap. He expressed disappointment that his business department signed him up for a pillow fight.

But the date was made several weeks ago before Joe was stirred first by a divorce suit by his wife, Marva, and next by a sort of compensation gesture about the draft board considering a higher selective classification for the titleholder.

The boxing papers provide that 14-ounce gloves be used, that the bout be advertised as an "exhibition," that Louis' title be not at stake and similar softening provisions.

Joe's mood for battle was heightened by a stopover in Chicago to file his answer to the divorce action, saying he had not been a mean old family man at all.

By the time Louis finished that procedure and checked up on his draft status, the hot weather had whipped him to a fighting pitch. "Chappy sure is in a fighting mood," said Julian Black, one of his managers. "Talk about killer instinct, this man Robinson had better look out. Chappy hasn't been training much, but he'll be ready to do some punching."

Robinson got the cannon fodder contract for the evening because he made a good fight here recently against Lou Nova, the heavyweight title challenger.

For the Champion THE M. E. COYLE TROPHY

This year, in its eighth season, the All-American Soap Box Derby—now a national and international classic, the greatest amateur racing event in the world—will stage competitions in 120 cities in the United States and Canada. Perhaps 100,000 boys will enter. Each city winner receives the M. E. Coyle Trophy (here illustrated),

Just a bunch of kids coasting down a hill? No! Here are all the elements of a great spectacle, a thrilling contest, an inspiring exhibit of Americanism at its best. Here are drama and human interest, skill and daring, sportsmanship and determination.

Come out and watch our boys—boys of 11 to 15 years—race their own home-built Soap Box Derby cars for the local championship.

Come out and look at the cars—no two alike, each the embodiment of a boy's hopes and ambition, hardly a one that does not show originality and ingenuity and skillful craftsmanship.

Come out and see these boys and their cars in action. Thrill to the spirit of Young America, the very spirit of America itself—the determination to build one's best... the will to win... the courage to pit one's skill against the field—with victory the goal.

Capital Store Sales Soar 37 Per Cent Above Year Ago

Fifth District Shows 23 Per Cent Gain Over 1940 Week

By EDWARD C. STONE. Further sensational gains in sales in Washington department stores are revealed in the latest report from the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, announced today.

Sales in Capital stores in the week ended July 5 soared 37 per cent above the corresponding week of the year ago. This was a better gain than the 23 per cent advance in the whole fifth district, 10 per cent in Baltimore and 10 per cent in a group of cities.

Cumulative sales in Washington stores in the four weeks ended July 5 was 25 per cent ahead of the like 1940 period, up 22 per cent in the fifth district, 18 per cent in the group of cities and 19 per cent in Baltimore, the report says.

Washington stores were 23 per cent above the previous week of this year, chiefly because of the Fourth of July holiday. Fifth district sales were 27 per cent lower than in the previous week, 19 per cent in the group of cities and 32 per cent in Baltimore, the report said.

Banks Will Assist Taxpayers. Washington banks will take part in the Treasury's new plan to make it easier for taxpayers to meet the unprecedented tax bills required by the national defense program. It was learned in the financial district today that the plan to issue notes will be issued, both dated August 1, 1941, and maturing August 1, 1943.

The banks will receive applications for the notes and obtain them from the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond. The proceeds will be much the same as that connected with the distribution of the United States Defense Bonds.

The banks will make it very easy for patrons who wish to adopt the new plan which is intended to provide money in advance for the payment of taxes.

Bank officials report many inquiries about the tax payment notes. Following those to be dated August 1, on January 1 of each year no new series will be provided so that a taxpayer can always purchase notes during the month prior to payment of taxes in the following year, this being the reason for the two-year notes, Secretary Morganthau says.

All Notes to Be Sold at Par. All notes are to be sold at par and accrued interest, if any, and will be redeemed at a month or three months from the month of issue, but not before January, 1942, when presented in payment of income taxes at par and accrued interest up to and including the month in which such taxes are paid. Interest will not be beyond the maturity of the notes.

If not presented in payment of income taxes, they will be redeemed for cash under certain specified conditions at the purchase price plus the accrued interest. The taxpayer will get back just the amount he paid for the notes and no more.

The notes will not be registered, but will have the purchaser's name and address inscribed thereon so that the collector of internal revenue can collect the purchase price with that on his tax return. They will not be transferable; nor can they be used as collateral.

Details About New Series. Notes of Tax Series A 1943 will be issued in denominations of $25, $50 and $100. The amount of this series can be presented in payment of income taxes limited to $1,200 in any one tax year by any one taxpayer. The notes will provide a return of about 1.92 per cent a year, but the rate per cent will not be expressed.

For a $25 denomination, it will be expressed at 4 cents a month, $50 denomination at 8 cents a month, and for the $100 denomination at 16 cents a month. By following this method it is made simple to compute the cost when the taxpayer purchases the notes and simple both to the taxpayer and the collector of internal revenue to compute the credit that may be applied to the taxes due.

Notes of Tax Series B 1943 will be issued in denominations of $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000. Secretary Morganthau has announced. The amount of the notes which can be presented in payment of taxes is limited only by the amount of taxes due.

The notes will provide a return of slightly in excess of half a per cent (about 0.48 per cent) a year. The rate will be 4 cents a month for a $100 denomination, 20 cents for a $500 denomination, and so on, plans so far outlined show.

Speculative forces still were buoyed by the inflation idea, brokers said, but there was some lightening of commitments on word from London that a "mighty" new Nazi offensive was under way in Russia.

Business developments considered by market analysts included a rebound in this week's automobile production from the holiday week but a slackening was seen in the total of 114,318 units which compared with 114,318 units output of 130,000 weekly.

New highs for 1941 were posted for J. I. Case International Harvester, Deere, Oliver Farm, International Paper, Western Union, Warner Brothers, Savage Arms, Pathe, Chicago Great Western preferred and the Chicago Great Western preferred.

Lagging producers were exhibited in United States Steel, Westinghouse, Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Anacosta and Union Carbide.

Special Dispatch to The Star. NEW YORK, July 11.—L. C. Morrow, editor of the McGraw-Hill industrial magazine, Factory Management and Maintenance, warned today against drastic and arbitrary cuts in non-defense production and declared that "loose statements to the effect that this country cannot have both guns and butter are misleading to the point where they are definitely harmful."

"The changes will come, a step at a time, and with great frequency—if allowed to come naturally," Morrow declared. "They will cause less disruption to normal life than if forced by arbitrary, drastic rulings.

On top of that, they cause feelings of antipathy toward the industries which are being curtailed. The production of the automobile industry when it had been shot full of holes by the other war. What is more important, they are the industries which are going to hold the American economy together after this war."

U. S. Urged to Preserve Markets for Peace

WELLESLEY, Mass., July 11.—Unless markets are maintained for continued full production and full employment after the war, the production of the American economy will be reduced. So will the production of refrigerators, washing machines, radios. But there is no sense in setting arbitrary percentages of curtailment. They don't mean anything.

Stores Rush to Place Wholesale Orders For Autumn

Prices Rise Rapidly; Retail Sales Hold Well Above 1940

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Wholesale markets had their greatest influx in history this week as buyers discarded the usual "looking around" period and rushed to get orders on books, Dun & Bradstreet said today in the weekly review of business. Prices again trended higher rapidly.

Retail trade bore up well under changeable weather conditions with consumer buying broad and sharply ahead of last year, the review said.

"After several weeks of the heavy pre-season buying," the agency said, "wholesale markets went officially into full selling. A big-scale invasion of buyers gave trade shows their heaviest attendance in history. As in preceding weeks, the major attention of buyers centered on obtaining timely deliveries. Orders were being placed with a minimum of preliminary note-taking and in most instances in volume sharply exceeding a year ago.

Orders Exceed Needs.

"While the majority of buying budgets were approximately in line with the needs of the season, occasions demand was said to have the earmarks of a buying panic. According to trade sources, there were instances of order fill in excess of needs where retailers felt that delivery of a portion might be insured. Most sellers were reacting to rationing and other checks to hold down speculative demand.

"Upward adjustments of prices were continuing on a broad front."

Retail sales were spotty in some instances due to weather conditions, the review said, but for the country as a whole averaged 17 to 24 per cent above a year ago. Percentage changes in the major areas were: New England, 20 to 25 per cent; East and Middle West, 23 to 27; South, 18 to 26; Southwest, 17 to 22; Northwest, 13 to 18, and Pacific Coast, 16 to 20.

Reserve Board Reports.

The Federal Reserve Board estimated that department store sales in the week ended July 5 were 28 per cent higher than in the corresponding week last year.

In the week ended June 28 sales had been 23 per cent over last year and in the four weeks ended July 5 sales averaged 19 per cent more than in the similar period last year.

By Federal Reserve districts, increases in the week ended July 5 over the similar week last year were: Boston, 36; New York, 32; Philadelphia, 31; Cleveland, 38; Richmond, 23; Atlanta, 24; Chicago, 30; St. Louis, 27; Kansas City, 24; Dallas, 26, and San Francisco, 20 per cent. No figure was available for the Minneapolis district.

Canadian Grain Crops Aided by Weather

Special Dispatch to The Star.

MONTREAL, July 11.—Moderate weather and scattered rains have checked deterioration of grain crops in the prairie provinces of Canada, according to the current crop report of the Bank of Montreal.

There is still, however, a decided moisture deficiency in West-Central and Northern Saskatchewan and Eastern Alberta, the bank states, and more rain would be welcome over all of these two provinces.

Loss from hail and pests has been slight. The federal minister of agriculture has estimated the prairie wheat acreage as down by 37 per cent from that of 1940.

New Records Set By Chemical Industry

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Production and consumption of chemicals continues to make new monthly records, Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering said today, despite labor and transportation problems, raw material shortages and other restrictions.

The publication's index of consumption declined to 161 for June compared with 163.33 for May, principally because of seasonal influences—namely, a drop in the use of fertilizer.

United Air Lines Boosts Wages at Cheyenne

By the Associated Press.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 11.—Wage increases amounting to nearly $70,000 annually for 510 workers at the United Air Lines shop and base here were announced yesterday.

The increases covered all classes of employees, from inspectors and master mechanics to seamstresses, and were negotiated in a three-day conference of company officers and Airmen's Association of American Representatives.

The Airmen's Association is a National-wide organization of United Air Lines shop workers. It is an independent group.

Phil Smith, association president, said the Cheyenne increases, averaging 6 cents an hour for all workers, probably would be a base for the entire system.

He reported the contract included a seniority clause, the first ever accepted by U. A. L. Sample increases included the master mechanic scale advanced from $1 to $1.10 an hour. Seamstresses, previously holding a minimum guarantee of 40 cents an hour, were granted a new 40-cent minimum up to 58-cent, maximum scale.

Oberlin Carter Is 85 And Still Fighting to Clear His Name

'There's Still Time,' He Says; Reveals He Has Written Autobiography

By the Associated Press
CHICAGO, July 11.—Oberlin M. Carter, an "American Dreyfus" in the eyes of champions of his cause, is 85 today and still fighting. Advancing years and failing sight have not affected his determination to be exonerated of the charges which ruined his brilliant Army career 43 years ago and sent him to Leavenworth Prison. "There's still time to remove the blot from my name," he said, adding that his case was ready for another review in Congress as soon as the pressing requirements of the defense program were met. Mr. Carter said he intended to spend his birthday anniversary quietly "as any old man should."

He disclosed he had written an autobiography. He was graduated from West Point in 1880 with one of the highest scholastic records ever attained there and entered the Army Engineer Corps. Success followed success in his military career. When he had reached the rank of captain, Mr. Carter asserted, jealous Army associates succeeded in having him convicted at a court-martial on trumped-up charges that there had been graft in the construction of the Savannah Harbor project, which he directed.

The War Department contends that Mr. Carter's claim is baseless, and that legislation exonerating him would "create an uncertainty in military courts which would permeate the service."

But Mr. Carter still insists: "There is no evidence of a crime in my case. My first and last task, while I live, is to prove that this is so."

Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS. The trees of the Old Orchard and the bushes along the Old Stone Wall, even the trees of the Green Forest, were full of feathered midgets, members of the great Warbler family, most of whom were just stopping over for a day or two on their way north.

"He'll stay fast enough," retorted Jenny Wren. "Probably he and Mrs. Redstart will make their home on the edge of the Green Forest. They like it better over there, for which I am thankful. There's Mrs. Redstart now! She isn't nearly as handsome as Zee-Zee, but then that's not to be expected. She lets Zee-Zee do the singing and the showing off and she does the work. I suspect she'll build that nest with almost no help at all from him. But Zee-Zee is a good father. I'll say that much for him. He'll do his full share in feeding their babies."

Trees may be made evergreen when Prof. Svedberg and Thellus complete their experiments in Stockholm. They report they have isolated substances from cells which, by rendering inactive the enzymes of certain plants, will check the autumnal fall of leaves.

POINTS FOR PARENTS. By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE. Allowing the very young child to share an experience as far as he is able, is the first step in his development toward complete self-help.

This. Mother—Now you hold this shoe-string while I put the other one through the hole... now hold this one. That's fine.

Not This. Mother—Take your hand away. You bother mother when she's trying to lace your shoes. You're too little to help.

Sonnysayings. My mind is like a cosy house. A window is each eye. I sit contentedly within and watch the world go by.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER—Water Played Part in Making Rocks

When I was a boy my friends and I used to speak of "throwing rocks." We would go down to the lake and pick up "rocks" to throw out into the water, seeing which one could throw the farthest. Since that time I have learned that it would have been better for us to speak of throwing stones, not rocks. A real rock is a mass of stone. It may be as large as the Rock of Gibraltar or even larger. It would take a giant to throw real rocks around. Rocks make up the hard part of the earth's crust. There are rock layers down to a depth of several miles. We do not know just how far down they go. The deepest oil wells ever drilled have passed through rock clear to the bottom, but we cannot tell how much rock there is below them. Among the main kinds of rock are shale, sandstone and limestone. Water has played a part in making all three of these. Shale is a product of mud which was laid down at the bottom of lakes and other bodies of water. When the lakes dried up they left the mud behind and slowly it hardened and turned into rock. If shale is broken it often can be picked up in slabs. Certain kinds of shale have gone through pressing and heating which have turned them into slate. Sandstone is a rock made out of sand. Sometimes it can be crushed easily and turned back into sand. The sand may be white, yellow, red, brown or green. Other kinds of rock were placed in beds by volcanoes. Lava flowed out of the volcanoes and hardened into rock.

Rocks which came from lava are not all of the same kind. The lava does not always cool at the same rate, and this makes a difference in the rock produced. Granite is a very important rock which came from lava. All kinds of rock are worn down by the action of water and the weather. Falling rain, creeks and rivers work on rock and wear them away. When water freezes in rock cracks the ice needs more room and may make the cracks wider. In some places odd-looking masses of rock have been left standing after water and weather have done their work. Near Devil's Lake, Wisconsin, I saw a rock in the shape of an elephant. In Yugoslavia, near the town of Prilip, is a large rock which looks like a pelican taking a rest. It is called Pelican Rock. In the Middle Ages Christian Serbians went to this rock to carry on religious services at a time they were fleeing from the Turks. (For Science or Nature section of your newspaper.)

CHAPTER XI.

They were at dinner that evening when the doorbell rang. A moment later Graves appeared at Mrs. Sinclair's elbow.

"There's been a slight accident on the highway, madame. The young lady would like to use the phone to call a garage for her. Graves."

"Well, ask her to come in, and get the garage for her, Graves." He disappeared and returned a short time later followed by a girl wrapped in a dark fur coat.

"I am so sorry to disturb you," she began apologetically. She was slight and blonde, and it was easy to sense the fatigue under her smile.

"Not at all," Mrs. Sinclair said hospitably. "My butler will call the garage for you. Won't you join us at dinner while you are waiting?"

"That's awfully kind of you, but I don't want to impose on your hospitality. I am Eve Carstairs, and I'm motoring down to Florida to join my family."

"I am Mrs. Sinclair."

The girl started slightly, and said quickly: "Really? One of my best school friends was named Sinclair. I don't suppose she could be a relative? Bee Sinclair."

"Bee Sinclair was my daughter." "Was? The name is—oh, I'm so sorry. I've been abroad for several years and lost touch with all my friends."

"My daughter has been dead for five years, Miss Carstairs." There was no trace of emotion in Mrs. Sinclair's voice, but Nancy knew what it must have cost the old Spartan.

"I insist that you remove your coat and join us," Mrs. Sinclair continued. "Graves!"

Graves took the visitor's mink coat, and she dropped gracefully down into the chair he held. She was wearing a pleated skirt of hunter's green, and a sheer white blouse of deceptively simple appearance.

Mrs. Sinclair introduced the others, and Eve Carstairs turned her wide, dark eyes on each in turn. Nancy thought she had never seen more exquisite coloring. Eve's dark eyes, with the taffy-colored hair drawn into a smooth knot on her neck, made an unusual combination and a very lovely one.

Gregory seemed to find the newcomer fascinating, for Nancy could see that he was watching Eve closely as she talked. Dr. Sinclair alone seemed unaffected by the girl's coming. Beyond acknowledging the introduction courteously, he appeared uninterested.

"It's so nice to find myself among friends. And what a wonderful old house this is—I've never seen such high ceilings!"

"They don't make them any more," Gregory told her. "Fairfield Hall is one of the oldest houses in this vicinity—in the country, for that matter. It belonged to a member of the ante bellum aristocracy, and is complete with spiral staircase and ghost."

"Eve Stays Over."

"Is there really a ghost? I've always wanted to see one."

"The ghost of Ellen Fairfield rooms at night," Gregory assured her solemnly.

"At that moment Graves returned. The mechanic has examined your car, miss. He says one of the parts is broken, and he'll have to tow it in to the garage. It may be a couple of days before he can get it in shape.

"Two days!" Eve exclaimed, in a dismayed voice. Then she turned to Mrs. Sinclair. "I suppose there is a good hotel in the nearest town?"

"Yes, there is a good hotel in Mount Pleasant. But you will remain with us, of course—I cannot permit a friend of Bee's to go to a hotel. Graves, get Miss Carstairs' luggage from the car and take it to the rose room."

"It's awfully sweet of you to take me in. I'll admit that I'm dying to see this wonderful old house by daylight," Eve acquiesced, submitting gracefully to the old lady's dictum.

Two days later she was still with them, though work on the car had been completed, and it was waiting in the garage. But it seemed that Mrs. Sinclair, having found this one slender link with her daughter's past, was loath to relinquish it. She pressed Eve Carstairs to stay on for the Refuge Ball, and Gregory seconded her invitation.

The Oulja Again.

"You really must stay. Give the village maids a chance to see a real dancer," he urged.

Nancy could have hit him when he said that, out something warned her that he had said it only to make her angry, and she intended to displease him. She compressed her lips tightly and remained silent; she was not going to give him the satisfaction of knowing that he had succeeded. Why was it that she was always getting under her skin? She assured herself that she felt only the greatest contempt for such an idler.

While Lawrence worked in his laboratory Gregory spent his time squiring Miss Carstairs around the country. Two of the saddle horses had been brought up from the barn and every morning they cantered away over the fields. Eve was a splendid horsewoman, exquisitely trim in her jodhpurs.

It had amused Nancy to note the sudden change in Eve's manner when she realized that Nancy was a paid companion. Nothing rude or crude, but a little patronizing air which was utterly lacking in the others. Eve allowed surprise to show in her voice when she heard that Dr. Sinclair was taking Nancy to the ball.

"But how sweet of him!" she exclaimed brightly.

Nancy bit back the stinging retort that rose to her lips, and there was a strange expression on Gregory's face as he caught the smiling malice of the remark. Eve was patently trying to put Nancy back into what she considered her rightful place as a paid companion.

"If she stays here much longer I'll commit murder!" Nancy told herself fiercely.

"We will try the Oulja again this evening, Nancy," Mrs. Sinclair told her after dinner. "Greg and Eve are driving into town and Larry will be working in the lab."

"All right," Nancy agreed. But she shrank a bit from the prospect. After what Larry had told her she didn't have any faith in the board, but she had a feeling that tonight it would be manipulated with sharper effect than before.

She was right. As soon as Mrs. Sinclair touched the indicator it began spelling out the words: "Bee—Bee—ask Nana about Bee." (Copyright, 1941, Chicago Daily News, Inc.) (Continued Tomorrow.)

Nancy sees the "ghost" of Ellen Fairfield.

More Bands Allotted For Wireless Telephony

The Federal Communications Commission announced it has made available to amateur radio station owners an additional 400 kilocycles for wireless telephony and has allocated 50 kilocycles for utilization of frequency modulation. The action, it was said, was taken at the request of the American Radio Relay League to accommodate the increasing number of amateur radio-telephone stations, and, at the same time, to encourage activity of amateurs in developing FM equipment. The extended band for radio telephony extends from 28,100 to 30,000 kilocycles and the new FM band for amateurs is from 29,250 to 30,000 kilocycles.

Summer Hymn Festival

WAYNESBORO, Va., July 11 (Special).—A summer "hymn festival" will be held on the campus of Fairfax Hall Junior College Sunday at 5 p.m., under sponsorship of the Waynesboro Interdenominational Youth Council. It was announced today by Mrs. Mabel Duffy, council president. Nine churches will participate.

The famous German gun used to bombard Paris in the First World War had a range of 80 miles. It cost $8,000 to shoot a single shell.

Water Chestnut (Trapa natans)

By LILLIAN COX ATHEY.

Another foe appearing in our midst and causing much trouble is a mysterious plant which is native to Europe and Asia and which came to the attention of a few anglers and others about 20 years ago. The water chestnut was first noticed in Washington, D. C., in 1919 in a flourishing condition, not far from the Tidal Basin and within sight of the beautiful cherry blossoms. Steps were taken to destroy the immigrant at once, and it was thought that was the end of the intruder. But in 1923 a fine mat was found growing in Oxen Run, opposite Alexandria, Va.

As you can see, the plant itself is attractive, so are its flowers, and its fruit is unique. Tourists and many others, not realizing what trouble they were providing for the future, took these seeds home and planted them. The plant is quick to seize every opportunity, invader of navigable waters may be distributed.

The mature plant weighs about 20 pounds to the square yard of surface. You cannot enter the area in a rowboat to fight the enemy because your oars become fouled at once. The massed stems prevent debris from washing out to sea and naturally slow down the current. Native plants are choked out, and thus valuable waterfowl and duck food, like redhead grass and wild celery, cannot grow. Fish soon leave the area. The carp is the only one to use the plants as places upon which to deposit its eggs.

The plant may be pulled up by hand. It is an effective method, though costly. The plant can be tossed on the ground, where it will wither up and die within a few hours. What is really needed is a machine that will chop the plant while it is under water, the pieces going out with the tide. Preventing the plant from maturing seeds and constant vigilance in keeping the area free once it has been cleared are the only ways to keep this foe from getting a foothold again. Seeds have been found in fossil rock of a million years old, a persistent pest that has not mended its ways, 10, these many years.

and in a short time it will completely rout every plant neighbor as well as the fish that once occupied the same space.

The few plants that had escaped the eagle eye of those bent upon its destruction made rapid progress, and by 1933 a solid mat from Washington, D. C. to the creek below Quantico, a distance of 40 miles, had been established along the Potomac River.

Something drastic had to be done and done quickly. The Army engineers and service plant experts declared war on the water chestnut in 1933. Of course, in order to have a successful campaign, preliminary foundation work must be done. More efficient work can be accomplished when facts concerning the enemy are known.

It was found that the water chestnut forms a dense vegetation of large mats. The floating rosettes appear to be free at the surface of the water. Clever camouflage. As a matter of fact these innocent-looking mats are held fast to the floor of the stream by long stems—some of them as long as 14 feet.

To attack this enemy by boldly entering the area occupied seems easy. But the infested waters are almost impossible to navigate. Motorboats, rowboats, canoes and yachts become so entangled in the heavy mesh of stems that some one must go overboard to extricate the rudder.

The seeds have long, very sharp, recurved spines capable of inflicting painful wounds. It is these seeds that attract the attention of collectors and may become the channel through which the dangerous
