Fourteen non-operating unions want increases which will boost the wages of their members from 30 to 34 cents an hour. The non-operating unions, embracing approximately 900,000 workers, have set atrike. The operating brotherhoods last three or four days.

After reciting the history of attempts to settle the dispute, the Mediation Board's statement said,

"It developed yesterday that mediation, in the judgment of the board, was no longer helpful. As a tion of pay scales in the Southern consequence, under the law, the board requested the parties to enter into agreements to arbitrate their differences. The board was unable to bring the parties into agreement to arbitrate.

The board announced that it would not notify the President of the abandonment of mediation efforts until after it had received notice of the operating unions

President Makes Next Move in Rail Dispute

President Roosevelt makes the next move in the railroads' wage dispute.

By the Associated Press.

Under the Railway Labor Act, if the situation threatens seriously to interfere with inter-State commerce, he may create an emergency board to investigate the facts.

Here are the processes through which the law requires a railway dispute to pass before a strike may be put into effect:

1. Negotiation of the demands (abandoned August 5). 2. Mediation of the demands (abandoned today). 3. Offer of arbitration (rejected by the unions today). 4. Appointment of a fact-finding board.

This board must report to the President within 30 days of its creation. There are no provisions for enforcement of its findings, reliance being placed on the force

$5 Auto Levy Kept; Measure Now Goes To Conference

By J. A. O'LEARY. The Senate late today passed a $3,583,900,000 defense tax bill and sent it to conference with the House on changes increasing income levies all along the line, heavier corporation rates and numerous increases in excise

The vote was 67 to 5.

The final vote came unexpectedly after leaders had sidetracked by negotiation two controversies that threatened to carry the debate into next week.

First they got rid of the drive for a more liberal old-age pension plan by promising Senator Downey of California the Finance Committee would hold separate hearings

Then they decided to abandon the amendment aimed at division of family income for tax purposes in eight community property States, with an announcement it will be revived in a later tax bill.

Auto Tax Kept in Bill.

Just before the final vote Senators La Follette of Wisconsin and Danaher of Connecticut lost a close fight to save the motorists of the country from the new $5 Federal tax on the from the national tennis champion- Helen Jacobs, 33-year-old Berkeley use of an automobile. The tax was kept in the bill by the narrow margin of 35 to 32 on a roll call. Senator La Follette, who estimated

As the bill came from committee Tuesday it carried $3,679,800,000, an increase of $463,400,000 over the The Senate eliminated $95,900,000 of these increases, of which $50,000,000 was lost when the community property amendment rejected. The balance went when the Senate refused to raise theater admission taxes from

The decision to postpone the community property State fight was reached in cloakroom conferences. which began as soon as a previous obstacle-the Downey old-age pension amendment-had been sidetracked with a promise to hold hearings on it as a separate proposition

Senators Planned Fight. If the community property fight

had not been dropped, all indications were that debate on the bill would have dragged on to the middle of next week. A determined group of Senators from the eight community property States had been prepared to carry into next week their battle against the Finance Committee amendment. which sought to place those States on a parity with the rest of the country in the filing of income tax sion of family property, the committee contended, husbands and wives filing separate returns hold an advantage over married couples in other States. The amendment would require that earned income be reported by the party earning it, and unearned income by the party confrolling the property that produces the income

An effort to inject the tariff issue into the domestic revenue raising measure failed by a vote of 32 to 31, when the Senate turned down an amendment by Senator Butler, Republican, of Nebraska to fix new duties on fats and oils.

Blocks Tariff Proposals.

Chairman George of the Finance Committee said that, though the amendment had merit, if the door was opened to tariff changes there would be 10,000 similar amendments

Leslie C. Frank Dead; Was Widely Known Public Health Expert

Sanitary Engineer Expired in Canada; Resided in Rockville

Leslie C. Frank, 55, retired senior sanitary engineer of the Public Health Service, died yesterday in Toronto, Canada, according to word received here today.

A native of Baltimore, he was graduated in civil engineering from Cornell University and joined the city sewage disposal division where he was engaged in design, construction and laboratory work. In 1912 he went to Germany to study sewage treatment plants there and on his return designed a major extension for the Baltimore sewage system.

After joining the Public Health Service in 1914, Mr. Frank developed a patent for an improved sewage exidation method. Now used by many American cities, the patent was assigned to the public and thus has made it unnecessary for these cities to pay royalties to British interests for a similar device.

In 1922 Mr. Frank drew up a public health service model milk code which, after revision, now is being used by 800 cities in 35 States. He also directed the planning of specifications for pasteurization machinery which now are used by many public health authorities throughout the country.

Mr. Frank directed malarial control and general public health work in the Mississippi coastal district near Gulfport from 1917 to 1919. Since July, 1937, up to the time of his retirement last February, he was head of the sanitation section.

Sept. 5 .- Abidjan, barely known inland naval base now in pro-German Vichy hands and called "little Dakar" because of its potential power, is increasingly drawing the attention of west coast naval strategists. The base has been so secretly developed that on most maps it is not even marked. Nevertheless, it will soon offer a perfectly landlocked harbor 40 miles from the exposed coastline.

Abidjan is located on the Ivory Coast It was planned as France's southernmost base on the Atlantic even before Vichy acquired it. The name is pronounced with the accent on the last syllable.

Whether German minelaying submarines which have attempted to break Great Britain's Middle Eastern lifeline from the United States by blockading Lagos and Takoradi are using Abidian as a supply base and anchoring in nearby Port Bouet, it is still difficult to say. However, it has been ascertained beyond doubt that Vichy-French vessels have penetrated the Allied shipping

WILDWOOD, N. J., Sept. 5.-The New Jersey Department, American Legion, voted today to seek adoption of an act that would require all boys to submit themselves for military service on reaching the age of 18. The Legionnaires, holding their annual convention, said similar action would be sought at the national convention in Milwaukee. In urging the service act, presented by the National Defense Committee, the Legion said it was the obligation of every male youth fit for military

D. C. Welfare Needs Set at $10,235,119 In 1943 Estimates

Board Seeks Rebuilding Program at Aged Home, $887,000 for Relief

By DON S. WARREN.

An increase of more than $887,-000 for relief purposes of various categories was proposed for the next fiscal year by the Board of Public Welfare in its 1943 estimates, released today by the Commissioners. calling for a total welfare outlay of $10,235,119, or a boost of 25 per cent over this year.

Among other highlights of the proposals of the Welfare Board, drafted with the assistance of its new welfare director, Conrad Van Hyning, are:

Proposals for drafting plans for rebuilding present unsatisfactory buildings of the Home for Aged and Infirm and for substantial expansion and improvements in its service food and facilities.

Requests for funds for purchase of a new site outside the District and for drafting of plans for a new development for the Industrial Home School for white children.

Requests for purchase of a site outside the District for a new National Training School for Girls and funds for preparation of plans for such a new development.

Personnel Increases Asked.

In addition, increases for personnel and services, some of them large, are asked, for the many agencies and services under the supervision of the Welfare Board. Considerable increases were asked for the jail, workhouse and re-

For general public assistance the Welfare Board asks an increase from $1.025.000 to $1,698,100; for home care of dependent children, an increase from $213,000 to $343,180; for old age assistance, from $620,000 to $671,290; for relief of the needy blind, an increase from $50,000 to $53,150, and for the welfare sponsor's contribution to the W. P. A., an increase from $170,000 to $200 .-The total of these items would be, for the next fiscal year, $2,965,-720. or $887,720 over outlays by the District for this year. This would not be the total outlay for the next fiscal year for the several relief purposes since in some categories Federal grants in aid are given on a matching money basis for the amounts expended by the District a small cushion to meet any emer- present institution cannot be oper-

Would Remove "Ceilings". In addition, the Welfare Board proposes a removal of the "ceilings" placed by Congress on amounts which may be expended by the District for various categories of relief. including direct relief, old age and blind aid. This long has been a sore point with District welfare.

Apparently in argument as to why relief outlays by the District should be raised at a time when employment and business in Washington are on the increase, due to the national defense effort, welfare authorities said, in part:

"The amount recommended for 1943 provides funds to permit in- years of age an additional amount creases in individual and family of not more than $6, the total not budgets in an amount approximately to exceed $60 a month for any one equivalent to meet the standard of relief budgets consistent with our social security programs (Home Care and Old Age) and as stipulated in $30 a month for one person, and for the appropriation act which prescribes the maximum monthly

Arbitrary Restrictions Cited. provisions to take care of 200 aid-todependent children cases at an average cost of $456 per year per case, $91,200 of which is a charge against of control which is "desirable" and local funds but approximately $50,- which also permits granting relief 000 will be reimbursed by the Social Security Board. "Relief expenditures during the past several years were kept within the appropriation limitations only by exercising arbitrary restrictions which have no sound relationship to economic needs of the families and individuals assisted.

"The normal experience in the total relief cases carried during the year usually shows an appreciable number of cases closed during the summer months and a gradual month by month increase during the fall and winter, reaching its peak in March. This customary and anticipated drop did not occur as it has in previous years. Our experience during the fiscal year just ended definitely indicates the loss of employment possibilities on the W. P. A. which necessitated an increase in our appropriations for the present

"The requested appropriations for 1943 will provide for an average of 3,450 cases at an average cost of $395,13 per case per year. This would provide for an overall increase of 1,250 cases which is the minimum that is reasonable to provide for, in view of the uncertainties about the employment situation in the future. Many persons are now employed in private industry who, under normal conditions, would be considered unemployable. Likewise, many persons now employed on the W. P. A. and not able to secure private employment should the W. P. A. type of program be discontinued.

Seeks to Provide "Cushion." "The immediate future contains made which would cost $34,000. In so many unpredictable possibilities asking for $25,000 for plans for a fense production program. Bernard M. Baruch, who conquered a similar military production problem 24 years ago, called not only for a single defense chief but for a blanket ceiling on prices.

Last night, a few hours after Mr. Baruch's blunt criticism, the President announced creation of a division of contract distribution in the Office of Production Management, to be headed by Floyd B. Odlum, New York financier.

A White House statement said the new agency was formed to further a determined move on the part of the administration to help the smaller business units of the counry obtain a fair share of the defense orders, and to prevent, so far safe." as possible, dislocation of industry and unemployment of workers in plants where production has been curtailed by priorities and material shortages.

Faltering Step Forward. Tall, white-haired Mr. Baruch had no immediate comment on this development. But he was no more than out of the White House door after lunching with the President yesterday when he told reporters in plain words what he thought should be done to speed vital production. Mr. Baruch saw the new seven-member Supply Priorities and Allocations Board, headed by Vice President Wallace, as only a "faltering step forward." He expressed the hope it would work and paid compliment to its personnel, but he as-"The one thing this picture needs

Caution Is Advised In Conclusions on Destroyer Attack

No Indication Is Found That Hitler Wants to Have U. S. in War

By DEWITT MACKENZIE. Confucius in his boundless wisdom doubtless would advise us to take it easy in reaching conclusions about the mystery of the submarine attack on the United States destroyer Greer.

If for the sake of argument we adopt the British idea that it was a German U-boat which fired the torpedoes, then the question immediately arises whether the action wasn't the result of a mistake.

There has been no indication that Herr Hitler wants to see America in the European war, although he might be praying that we become involved in the Orient. In fact, all the signs have been that he hopes we won't intervene in the western theater.

Mediterranean Move Seen. The point isn't that the Fuehrer loves us the more but that he likes the idea of the United States Navy getting into action at this critical juncture the less. His reason is that he likely will undertake major operations in the Mediterranean in the near future; he presumably will intensify his U-boat campaign in the battle of the Atlantic, and he doesn't want American warships supporting the British when the Allies invade the Continent.

In short, the Nazi chief has plenty of trouble on his hands alreadyand so much for that. The British invasion, by the way, probably won't be tried before spring, unless unexpected developments in the Russo-Nazi war make it advisable for Britain to strike sooner. Meantime the bloodletting which the Nazis are undergoing in Russia is paving the way for the Allied assault across the English Channel.

Sanguinary fighting continues throughout the entire length of the great battle-line in Russia, but there seems to have been little change in position during the past 24 hours. The authoritative German commentary Dienst aus Deutschland says the Reds apparently are carrying out extensive attacks on the central front, but belittles their effec-

Reserve Power Indicated.

Dienst misses the point. The significant fact is that the Bolshevists are able to inaugurate big-scale attacks at all, after standing off such a violent assault. It is indicative of reserve power and good morale.

It is interesting to see the Germans again resorting to what the Muscovites describe as the "psychological attack"-a sort of stage-play which is calculated to confound the enemy. In the case in hand the Reds report that two companies of picked hass drums thundering." Moscow says the attackers were annihilated.

Mr. Roosevelt replied that in the first place there had never been any formal notification to this Government of the German danger area. Secondly, he added, the German zone was classified by Berlin as a blockade area, something which is never recognized unless effective.

Mr. Roosevelt would give no details on what searching procedure is being followed, or how many ships may be involved in the hunt for the marauding submarine. It was when he was asked what would be done if the attacker was found that he retorted curtly he supposed it would be eliminated. Later, he gave express permission for quotation of the word "eliminate."

Congress Apprehensive. Lacking a more complete report, members of Congress were cautious but apprehensive in appraising the clash at sea. They counseled the public against forming hasty opinions, and expressed the belief that the incident was not of sufficient magnitude to plunge the country

There was much conjecture, however, whether the Thursday morning attack represented the initiative of a single submarine commander, or whether it presaged the beginning of an intensified underseas campaign that would respect no nationality in the North Atlantic shipping lanes. Upon the occupation of Iceland early in July, President Roosevelt fically issued orders to the Navy that all necessary steps be taken to insure the safety of communications in the approaches between

Immediate reaction in Congress to the submarine attack on the United States destroyer Greer included expressions of amazement that such an incident should occur and initial opinion that it should not plunge this country into the Senator George, Democrat, of Georgia, member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, pointed that additional facts beyond the Navy's first bare announcement of the attack would have to be known before any one could form any real opinion on its significance. He said, however, that the incident did not apear on the surface to be a cause for immediate en-

Lease-Lend Bill and Activity in Yugoslavia Were U. S. Blows Upsetting Hitler Schedule

(Fourth of a Series.)

By JOHN T. WHITAKER, Correspondent of The Star and Chicago Daily News. The United States has dealt two erippling blows to Adolf Hitler which have upset the grand strategy of the German general staff and gained time for Uncle Sam. Germans appreciate the true significance of these moves better than Americans. Both were bold, both were based on comprehension of strategy, and both knocked the German timetable

The most important of the two is andoubtedly the lease-lend bill. This measure baffled the imaginations of the Germans and confronted Hitler's generals, for the first time in their carefully prepared war, with the likelihood of German defeat. Indeed that likelihood seemed a certainty when my German military sources feared that it would be followed by prompt American entry into the

When a German Weeps.

The Germans are notoriously unstable emotionally, especially since the mystically religious experience of National Socialism which offered them the vision of a master race standing as the conquerors of the world. This cabinet minister's bad moment must be somewhat discounted consequently. Like all bullies, the Nazis blubber when the going gets too hard.

I quote him at length, however, because his pessimism is not unique. I have heard the same sentiments brought from Germany by a score of reliable informants who have talked with the important men in control at Berlin. In the spring here was deep pessimism in the German capital for fear that Amer-Ica would enter the war, and it was in this mood that Hitler's generals made the final decision to invade Russia in preparation for a long struggle against America.

America's second crippling blow against the Nazis came in the Balkans in a country called Yugoslavia thousands of miles from America's shores. To understand what America did there and how it upset the Nazi timetable and drove Hitler against Stalin, it is necessary to re-examine the Greek campaign.

Before Premier Mussolini invaded Greece Hitler had carefully outlined to his Axis partner—Italy had not then been occupied as a subject

Experienced Counsel

Bernard M. Baruch, a veteran of the costly and clumsy trial-anderror method by which the United States launched its preparations for the first World War, has been extremely reluctant to voice any public criticism of the defense efforts of this administration in the current crisis. For this reason, more than ordinary importance must be attached to his assertion yesterday that the present defense program is faltering because of the President's failure to designate some one man, endowed with the necessary authority, to head up the effort.

Prior to Mr. Baruch's appointment as chairman of the War Industries Board-top defense post-during the last war, the defense effort of that period had been characterized by much the same confusion of purpose and lack of progress which are in evidence today. After his appointment a substantial measure of order was brought out of the chaos which had prevailed, and therefore, when Mr. Baruch speaks on the question of our present defense setup, it should be recognized that his is the counsel of experience.

His appeal for a single defense head was made yesterday after a conference with the President, during which he is thought to have submitted his own plan for a defense reorganization. Talking later with reporters about the new superdefense agency—the seven-man-Supply Priorities and Allocations Board-Mr. Baruch said: "The trouble with this board is that no one person has final authority there. It is a faltering step forward and I hope and pray it will work. If they give somebody authority, it will work."

In view of his past reluctance to eriticize, there would seem to be special significance in the fact that Mr. Baruch saw fit to take a pessimistic view of the board's future before it has had a chance to function. But this should occasion no surprise. In this latest reorganization the President has regrouped executives already engaged in defense work, but there is nothing in the record to indicate that any one of them is the "boss" in the usual sense of the word. And if there still is no boss-if the same division of authority which has hampered past efforts is to characterize the new setup—then it would seem unreasonable to expect substantial improvement in the future.

In a matter of this kind considerable time must elapse before those on the outside can form a worthwhile opinion as to whether the new agency is functioning satisfactorily, but it is reasonable to suppose that the President, knowing what authority has been delegated and to whom, is in a position now to make this determination with substantial accuracy. If this new setup does not contain provision for an executive head with final authority, it is most earnestly to be hoped that the President will heed the experienced counsel of one who has been through the mill and whose advice has been sound from the earliest development of the present crisis.

The President again and again has stressed the importance of the time factor in our present situation. We cannot afford to waste it-either at the top or at the bottom.

Small Business Unit

In establishing a small business section, the Department of Justice has evidenced a desire to extend a helping hand to lesser business enterprises. Though the new unit cannot be expected to write a prescription for all the troubles which face many small businessness today, it should serve a useful purpose in studying some of these problems and, where practicable, suggesting means for their solution. The section will have two principal duties. One is to handle questions affecting small business arising under the antitrust laws. The other is to assist small business enterprises in their relations with the Federal Government, particularly on legal points involved in the defense program and war contracts. In carrying out its second assignment, the new unit will function as a service agency, dealing with matters that lie outside the department's usual field of action.

· Small businessmen have complained that they have not been securing their proper share of defense is to be explained, in part, by the fact that the large concerns, on the whole, were better equipped for immediate production of war materials. Through the recently created Defense Contract Service, the Office of Production Management is now seeking to secure a wider distribution of defense orders among small firms. thus taking action to end some of the maladjustments of the defense program. A wider spread of orders for war materials will do much to strengthen small business enterprises. This is greatly to be desired.

In appointing Guy Holland as head of the small business section, the Department of Justice seems to have made an excellent choice. The first president of the Atlantic Association of Petroleum Retailers and the former operator of a chain of service stations, Mr. Holland has a background of practical business experience and a first-hand knowledge of the problems of small business. Both should be useful in his new post.

Shipbuilding Progress

Evidently in reply to recent criticism of the shipbuilding program, the Navy and the Maritime Commission have made public latest figures on naval and merchant ship production since the beginning of this year. They reveal that production estimates have been revised upward in several categories, although there is no contention by either the Navy or the commission that the record is a perfect one. In fact, Admiral Land, head of the commission, disavowed any intention of implying that the progress made with regard to merchant craft is

The Navy Department reported that from January 1 to September 1 of this year keels were laid for two battleships, thirteen cruisers, eighteen submarines, two aircraft carriers, fifty-seven destroyers, ninety-one patrol craft, eighty-one auxiliaries and 172 district craft-a total of 436 keels laid. In addition, one battleship was launched and two battleships were completed, one cruiser was launched and nine submarines, twelve destroyers, forty-two patrol craft, twenty auxiliaries and 128 district craft were completed. Important from the standpoint of increased production was the fact that during the nine-month period the number of large shipbuilding ways in this country rose from 104 to 127. Rear Admiral S. M. Robinson, chief of the Bureau of Ships, pointed out that establishment of the forty-eight hour week and of the three-shift. twenty-four-hour day is speeding up the output of big ships. Whereas 167,274 workers were employed in the yards on July 1, 1940, there were 375,000 men on the job on July 1 last—and the total is expected to reach 550,000 by the middle of next Admiral Land disclosed that whereas he had estimated last May that 105 merchant ships would be built in American yards this year, acceleration of the program due to the crisis which developed in the Atlantic has resulted in a production stepup for the year to more than 130 ships. He forecast construction of 1,153 new ships by the end of 1943. Admiral Land said that "if conditions do not get much worse," Britain and the United States probably can manage to get along on their existing merchant fleets, plus the new ships coming off the ways at the rate of three a week. It is interesting in this connection to note reports from London of a somewhat improved situation in the Atlantic. During the past ten weeks, it was stated, merchandise imports averaging 850,000 tons weekly have reached England safely. But victory in the battle of the Atlantic is yet far off. The time has not arrived when the slightest relaxation of effort can be tolerated in our program of all-out aid to the democracies. That progress is being made in the shipbuilding phase of our activities is encouraging, but few will deny that much greater exertion can and must be made before the shipping crisis can be referred to in the past tense.

A Senate committee is endeavoring to ascertain whether the movies have engaged in propaganda activities. Perhaps this is a case of a propagandist being needed to catch a propagandist.

Help for the Poles

There is a certain obvious symbolism in the date of President Rowevelt's announcement of his intention to grant aid to Polish troops now training in Canada. Poland herself may be conquered for the moment, but the war which began two years ago has not ended so long as her citizens continue to resist their principal enemy. Representatives of the legal Polish government have reached an agreement with Russia which cancels, so far as any proceeding can erase, that portion of "the crime of 1939" for which the Soviet Union was responsible. The struggle against the ruthless might of Nazi power is being carried on by Poles serving wherever the tide of battle runs. Groups of Polish soldiers were with the French, still are with the British. Many of the veterans are experienced campaigners. They are adding to their numbers by recruiting younger men inspired by their

the independence of which they were so inhumanly deprived." The President might have reminded the American public that the United States traditionally is concerned for the liberty of the Poles. In the thirteenth of Woodrow Wilson's fourteen points that interest took the form of a declaration that: "An independent Polish State should be erected which should include the territories inhabited by indisputably Polish populations, which should be assured a free and secure access to the sea, and whose political and economic independence and territorial integrity should be guaranteed by international covenant."

The sentiment thus expressed was accepted by the world in the Treaty of Versailles. Two decades later it was challenged by Germany in the name of Danzig. Out of the controversy, the prevailing strife developed. The Américan answer to the challenge of Der Fuehrer is that "we shall do everything in our power to crush Hitler and his Nazi forces."

Logically, "everything" includes cooperation of the variety indicated by Mr. Roosevelt yesterday. His purpose will be comprehended and approved in the city where statues of Kosciusko and Pulaski testify to the help which the people of Poland gave to the cause of liberty in America in eighteenth century.

China Hits Back

The Japanese evacuation of the port city of Foochow indicates the growing difficulties Japan is facing in China. Japanese propaganda tries to give the impression that Chinese resistance has been driven back into the remote interior, with the seacoast firmly in Japanese control. The loss of Foochow, following the similar loss of the port of Futsing last week, reveals the hollowness of this thesis. Both ports are in the province of Fukien, in Central China, about midway between Shanghai and Canton. Last spring the Japanese launched a campaign along this stretch of coast in order to plug a number of leaks through which supplies for China could be smuggled through the Japanese naval blockade. Nearly all the ports were then occupied. But Japanese control never extended into the mountainous hinterland, so Japanese occupation was confined to garrisons of the ports, strung along the coast like a string of beads. That string has now been broken, and blockade runners again can land supplies for transport to the unconquered interior. It should be understood that the Japanese never have been able to penetrate the belt of hilly and mountainous country which extends right across South-Central China from Tibet to the sea. So long as this barrier remains unbroken, Japan's hold on the coastal fringe from Shanghai southward must remain precarious.

Chinese activity in Fukien Province is only one indication of a similar stirring on other fronts. Simultaneous Japanese troop concentrations in Indo-China and Manchukuo have meant the withdrawal of many divisions from the Chinese front. Not only has this rendered impossible any new Japanese offensive in China; it is also making possible Chinese counteroffensives on an increasingly important scale. The more Japan is involved in Indo-China and along the Siberian border, the more likely Chinese counterstrokes become. The island empire simply does not have the equipment and first-line troops to undertake operations elsewhere without weakening her hold in China itself.

This is the grim nemesis which has confronted Japan ever since its invasion of China bogged down into a chronic stalemate. The government of Free China established in the mountainous interior at Chungking and headed by Chiang Kai-shek disposes of trained man-power far exceeding in numbers the Japanese invaders. Only the lack of mechanized equipment compels it to adopt a defensive role. With adequate tanks, planes and heavy artillery, the Chinese could leave the shelter of their mountains and launch attacks on the Japanese occupiers of the northern and central flatlands or upon the Japanese garrisons strung along the central and southern coasts. Even in their main zone of occupation, the Japanese hold has never been complete. It is well said that Japanese occupation extends no farther than a sentry's bullet will carry from the outskirts of garrisoned towns or on either side of the railway lines. Well-organized Chinese guerrillas carry on a neverending campaign of sniping and sabotage which keeps the invaders their morale.

perpetually insecure and impairs If the present Chinese breakthrough to the seacoast at Foochow can be maintained and extended, it will open up an important supplementary avenue for supplies from abroad which will strengthen China's military power and render large-scale offensives more feasible if Japanese troops have to be further withdrawn. Chinese successes in Fukien Province are thus of more than local importance. They must certainly give another headache to the harassed statesmen in Tokio, faced with decisions which may involve Japan's entire future.

On the theory that bad legislation is better than no legislation, Mayor La Guardia has signed several bills which were sponsored by his Democratic opponents. Judging by some

Fishermen Resent State's Interference

Writer Tells How Seafarers Of Marseilles Resist Wartime Regulations

By Paul Ghali. Correspondent of The Star and the Chicago Daily News.

MARSEILLES, France-In Marseilles, as in any other seaport town, one naturally gravitates toward the port. Perhaps more so in Marseilles than elsewhere, for the "vieux port" is the heart of the city.

Fishermen the world over are a sturdy lot, but the Marseilles fisherman is in a class apart. Hard-swearing, tough, and revolutionary to the core under normal circumstances, these seadogs are at present distinctly riled.

Some 250 years ago, Louis XIV's Prime Minister Colbert granted a charter to the fishermen of Marseilles. Colbert gave them the right to market their catch without municipal control. Consequently, the fishing community had a near monopoly of the nearby Mediterranean fish, known to gourmets the world over in the famous Marseilles "houillahaisse"

Now, the government, in view of the food situation has decreed that all fish must be sold on the public market at fixed prices. Moreover, instead of a 100 per cent profit the fishermen now only get 80 per cent on the first 20 pounds of their catch. All fish caught in excess of 20 pounds must be given up for nothing.

To sweeten the pill, the government has allowed the fishermen to keep for themselves and their families 4 pounds of fish a week, but little of this finds its way to their homes and is sold on the "black market" at fancy prices. Needless to say, the Marseilles fishermen are anything but pleased.

The community comprises about 500 members, a third of whom are Italians of the most virulent anti-Fascist creed. There is an aristocracy too-the deep sea fishers-who take part in the "grande peche." This takes place about 100 miles from Marseilles off shore from port-vendres. The "petite peche" is done either by dragging a net along the bottom of the sea (a practice which is called in local patois "gangui" and which is so prejudicial to fish breeding that until the present crisis it was forbidden) or by the normal hook and line method.

Before the war. Marseilles got most of its fish from the Atlantic via Bordeaux, as the ocean fish is of much better quality than the local variety. Of the 20 tons fish consumed daily in Marseilles only four or five were from the Mediterranean. This explains why fish is now so rare in Marseilles, and why the war and even more the postwar period has almost killed the world renowned "bouillabaisse"-the succulent fish stew in which specially selected Mediterranean rockfishes and lobsters are cunningly spiced with saffran and garlic.

Before the war, restaurants' reputation in Marseilles depended on the dog at the feet of the President. quality of its "bouillabaisse," and until recently restaurant owners have bought on the "black market" to keep things going. Now they have to register with a government-controlled fish dealer and are forced to purchase all their fish from the same shop. Supplies are far below needs.

The price of "bouillabaisse" has rocketed while the quality has slumped. At "Basso's," which still has the reputation of serving the best "bouillabaisse" in Marseilles, it will cost up to $1.50 a serving as against 50 cents before the war. Your true Marseillais will sneer at Basso's, and indicate a small rather dirty bistro called "Pere Marius" on the lovely "vieux port." There the inner harbor is so closely surrounded by tall old houses as to give the impression of a dormant pool. But don't go there. The "bouillabaisse" is no longer what it was

The petrol shortage has added to the fish scarcity in Marseilles. The allowance for the whole Marseilles fishing community of 500 members is less than 8,000 gallons a month. Up to now petrol was given on an horsepower basis. The result was that the more handy little crafts had a lower allowance than the larger ships of higher consumption. Evidently it would have been more normal to give more petrol to the smaller craft and use them more than the bigger ships. The owners of the small boats were all for it.

Then one fine day, as things do have a knack of happening in Marseilles, there was a big scandal. It was discovered that the fishermen simply remained ashore, sold their petrol on the black market at enormous prices, and went comfortably off to play the inevitable "boules" on the big open space between the vieux port and the canebiere.

All good things come to an end and this was stopped. Now each fisherman has to turn in 20 pounds of fish a day or he gets no petrol (Copyright, 1941, by Chicago Daily News.)

THIS AND THAT

"DECATUR STREET.

"Dear Sir: "An experience I had this morning very vividly recalled your article in reference to the praying mantis. My husband and I drove over to Alexandria to see some of the historic buildings there. Our first stop, after seeing the old engine house, was at Christ Church. We noticed the pew that had been occupied by Washington. We admired the communion table and pulpit chairs used when he was living. We noticed the beauty of the wine-glass pulpit and the brass and crystal chandelier. We observed the simple dignity of this Colonial auditorium. As we came out of the church our minds were filled with serious thoughts of the past. We looked at the quiet, shady churchyard where rest some of Washington's contemporaries. Over near one of the graves a cat was playing with a yellow leaf. Two little children ran happily between the graves to see if they could pet the cat. As my husband and I walked down beside the church, I saw something green and brown on the wall. When I came closer I saw it was a large praying mantis. It must have been over 5 inches long. The vivid green of its body contrasted beautifully with the brown of its wings or wing coverts. After our solemn thoughts on death and the past, we saw here vibrant life very much occupied with the present. I think that when I recall our sight-seeing trip to Christ Church, I shall think not only of the Colonial building with its sacred history, but also of the praying mantis resting upon the brick wall of the church. I'll call to mind not only the quiet resting places in the churchyard, but also the cat frisking in its play with the yellow leaf, and happy little children running through the graveyard to pet the cat. The past somehow calls to one, saying, 'Our part has been played and played well, perhaps. Now it is your turn. What will you do?' But the present with its throbbing life gives us a greater challenge. It says to us, 'Joy in living and in living well, with God's help, is the Great beasts are not all that are to be seen there. Lions and tigers are just some of the creatures, after all.

Often chipmunks dart through the outdoor cages, and once in a while the peacocks perch one, twe, three over the back door leading into the lion house. This is a thrilling sight, but by the time your camera comes down into position to shoot, one of the birds has flown away. The mental picture is quite enough if

Letters to the Editor

Former Senator Brookhart Replies To Three of His Critics.

To the Editor of The Star: My criticism of David Lawrence for his insinuations against the Supreme Court brought a motley of responses.

Lawyer Bilbrey said: "Mr. Brookhart is an able man with a fixation. To the extent that he can get a hearing, he is therefore a deadly enemy to society.' Hence a "fixation" that can get a hearing is the deadly enemy of society, no odds what it may be. Mr. Bilbrey wants nobody around who thinks out anything. This particular fixation was especially dangerous because neither I nor anybody else knew what it meant. In this blissful ignorance I hesitate to disturb Mr. Bilbrey, although I remember very distinctly how Theodore Roosevelt knew the difference in human rights and property rights in judicial decisions. The next writer, Mr. F. K. S., replies by saying that I knew "about as much about the underlying purpose and policy of the Constitution for preserving our liberties as a jack rabbit knows about Sunday." He proved this because Joseph Story was like-minded with John Marshall and then crossed his wires by indicating that it would place men above law to put men above property.

A third writer in this strange mixture called himself a white-collar worker, extolled Mr. Lawrence for his labor-baiting articles, and said: "I predict that within a few years the great middle class will rise in revolt against the tyranny of labor." I am sorry that I incited Mr. Reskey to revolt like this.

In my letter to you I stated certain positive facts in reference to the history of the Supreme Court and some of its None of these facts are answered or denied by these outraged readers. Neither will they be denied by David Lawrence.

Proposes Building Reserve

Of Strategic Resources. To the Editor of The Star:

The splendid feature article by John T. Whitaker in which he reveals that Hitler invaded Russia to gain its resources is of extreme significance at this time, for it serves to reiterate the fundamental truth that no military effort successfully can be culminated without first providing for a reserve of raw materials and resources from which to draw.

As Mr. Whitaker so well points out. Hitler, even though the materials of virtually all the continent were at his disposal, has risked all in a war with Russia to gain control of her raw ma-

The moral of Mr. Whitaker's observations lies in the fact that America, too. had better prepare a reservoir of raw materials and strategic minerals from which to draw to build and to sustain an adequate defense machine This problem was ably treated by your political columnist, Gould Lincoln, in his column several months ago. In the West, Mr. Lincoln observed, there rests vast quantities . . . virtually bonanzas . . . of undeveloped resources of iron ores, copper, oil and of valuable bauxite and bentonite, the base ores for aluminum. defense production. This is only one of numerous proposals to which experts of private industry and of the Government have testified before the O'Mahoney Public Lands Subcommittee. Such steps, so these experts have stated, could and should be instigated in the vast public lands States of the Western United States.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Whitaker's subsequent articles together with his initial release referred to above will come to the attention of the officials of O. P. M. and others who are in a position to develop the vast riches of the West and thus provide America with an inexhaustible reserve of resources with which to crush Nazi tyranny.

Investigation Power Held Abused

Observer Declares Senators Haven't Right To Quiz Editors

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Congressional committees in reeent years have gone so often beyond their legitimate function of fact-finding for legislative purposes that the American people have shown a tendency to acquiesce in the abuse of the power of investigation. When a congressional committee uses its authority either to propagandize to smear innocent persons

The latest device whereby congressional committees are used to develop a propaganda of their own is to have some member introduce a resolution asking for a Senate investigation on a particular subject. Instead of putting the question before the Senate thereupon for a vote, the resolution is referred to a committee or subcommittee, which in turn calls witnesses to determine ostensibly whether there should be an inquiry. This investigation to find out if there should be an investigation circumvents the will of the Senate itself, which might well desire to vote against an inquiry.

In the case of the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, which is now considering a resolution which requests a Senate investigation of motion picture films relating to war issues, there probably are enough votes to disapprove the proposal if it came to a vote. That's why the members of the Senate committee avoid a vote and call witnesses, putting on a show just the same as if the main inquiry were being held. This is because in an unguarded moment earlier this session the Senate bestowed blanket subpoena powers on its Committee on Interstate Commerce—something usually reserved for special inquiries on particular The reason for this blanket grant is a mystery.

Subcommittee "Packed."

The Committee on Interstate Commerce in one instance has blocked a Senate inquiry by holding hearings and then pigeonholing the resolutions so that such hearings as have been held on the Radio Commission's rules, for example, have not been comprehensive and have been conducted by those who more or less agree with the Radio Commission's desire to break down freedom of expression on the air by sapping the vitality of the commercially sponsored programs that make America's radio system pos-

The effect of the Federal Communication Commission's new rules plus the Senate committee's refusal to permit any inquiry except its own ex parte study has been to intimidate the radio broadcasters. Now it is intended to carry on an inquiry which may have the effect likewise of intimidating the moving picture producers. Instead of a committee composed equally of Senators representing both sides, the Senate subcommittee is "packed" with isola-

Neither the F. C. C. nor any Senate committee has the right to intimidate those who conduct mediums of expression, whether over the radio or on the screen. But only the courts can determine that question. James Stahlman, newspaper publisher, who is part owner of a radio station in Nashville, Tenn., has been subpoenaed to testify by the F. C. C. and through his attorneys has resisted in the courts the order to appear. The lower court ruled against him, but the issue is being carried to the Court of Appeals and ultimately may reach the United States Supreme Court.

Until men of courage are found willing to risk contempt charges in order to establish their rights, the legislative prosecutor or the irresponsible bureaucrat will not be

No Right to Quiz Editors.

Among the motion picture producers, for example, to be summoned to testify before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee are the editors of "The March of Time." A Senate committee has no more right to question the editors of this newsreel as to why they portray this or that aspect of Nazi ruthlessness than they have to question the editors of Time Magazine itself why they print this or that kind of an article on war issues. To submit to an inquisition on the right to dramatize the news is to admit the right of Congress to determine what is or is not proper editorial writing or news writing. Freedom of expression is protected by the Constitution and the courts, but if precious rights are to go by default when citizens, without a fight, accept jurisdiction of Senate committees over these fundamental liberties in a democracy, then acquiescence in usurpation can create precedents whereby editors generally will be subject to inquisition and intimidation. Then the days of a free press will be numbered and the espousai of the cause of democracy, so often cited as justification for a draft army and heavy taxes, will prove mere lip service on the road to totalitarianism. (Reproduction Rights Reserved.)

On the Record

Clear Thinking Seen Handicapped by the Terms "Interventionists" and Isolationists"

By DOROTHY THOMPSON. In a previous article I referred to the confusion of thinking that arises from the use of inaccurate, falsely descriptive phrases such as "European war" and "Western to mean the Dorothy Thompson. no-war party; the word "interventionist" suggests an action to be taken far from home, for moral or ideological considerations divorced from our actual interests or security. Actually, there are two viewpoints in America regarding the means by which we should defend ourselves, and regarding our position in the world. If these two viewpoints were made really clear, and were not obfuscated by cliches, the American people as a whole would be better able to make a choice. Let us try to clarify things.

The so-called interventionists, of which I am one, believe that the United States belongs, as a Nation, to a world that is already a closed system. There are no more undiscovered and unclaimed territories. Since the building of the Panama Canal and successful navigation, not only through the canals, but around the Capes, there are not two oceans, but one.

World Bound Together. The division of labor, resulting from the industrial revolution, and the distribution of capital, science and technology all over the globe; the increase in the means and speed of communication; the immense rise in the standard of living of highly developed peoples, making them dependent even upon foods from distant nations, and the development of industry, which, in turn, is dependent upon metals and other raw materials from all parts of the earth, all indicate the leading fact of the century, namely, that we are bound by a thousand chains to every part of the planet and directly subjected to shock from major disturbances anywhere in it.

We, who are called interventionists, drawing our conclusions from obvious facts, have therefore long demanded a clear and realistic foreign policy continually imposing the discipline of its logic upon such matters as trade. loans, capital investments, cultural exchanges and armed aggressions; a continual and unremitting intervention, during peace, in all the affairs where we are concerned which are. demonstrably, in all parts of the

We have been champions of peace by realism-peace by the constant exercise of power. Since we are not imperialists, believing that the modern world of established nationalities demands cooperative organization and not conquest, we have demanded the creation of some form of collective security with our participa-

Political isolationism has not only been an American slogan; it has been the slogan of scores of nations. It has been in conflict, however, with economic reality. The conflict has resulted in international anarchy, which has resulted in war.

We, who are called interventionists, predicted this war. We did not create it. We warned that it was coming unless we and others mended our ways, and we desperately attempted to arouse our leaders in Congress and the public to collaborate in means to avert it. The "isolationists," on the other hand, insisted that we were calamity howlers, and for 20 years have committed us to a lack of policy which helped make the war inevitable.

Navy Basic in Defense.

The war now being here, we, the "interventionists." are in favor of exercising long delayed foresight and fighting for our rights, our security, our interests, and the kind of world we want to live in, by the use of seapower, and the aid of other peoples' armies, on other peoples' soil, and outside either our own territory or any contiguous territory. We look upon the Navy as our permanent and basic defense arm, with the Army as merely its aid from time to time.

We wish to maintain such relations with all neighbors contiguous to us on land that it is never necessary for the United States to support permanently a huge standing Army. We see no advantage to the United States in further expanding its contiguous territory, and we see profound threats to our liberties and our prosperity in a situation that requires that we become a great landpower with permanent standing forces.

Freedom From Militarism. Naval defense means freedom from militarism. It is the only form of defense compatible in the long run with the sort of personal liberty we have historically enjoyed, along with the other English-speaking peoples. Naval defense means inter-ventionism. That is its logic. The logic of what calls itself "isolationism" leads to annexationism, huge permanent armies, aggressive imperialism, and also war-but war for different purposes and in a different area.

In the next column I shall try to show that this is true-and that Mr. Lindbergh and Senator Clark, at least, know it.

Soviets Well Prepared to Continue Resistance If Leningrad-Moscow-Kiev Line Falls

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.

Early in July Germany's Military Attache at Washington, Gen. von Boetticher, in one of his routine calls at the War Department told American officers that the blitz against Russia which had just been launched would not show tangible results until some time in September

It was evident, however, from the rotund general's tone of voice that he expected results earlier. He was allowing himself time so as not to appear a false prophet.

Boetticher explained at length that the campaign against the U. S. S. R. would not be like those previously fought by the German armies because of the vast field of operations and also because the Russians were so much better equipped than other foes of the Reich. The principal objective of the German general staff was the destruction of the Soviet air force and mechanized units. Territorial conquests were of secondary importance, according to Hitler's Military Attache.

According to the latest advices from the battlefront, the Germans are making a frantic effort to occupy at least their initial objective-the key cities of Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev. A pincer offensive has now begun, with the Wehrmacht throwing its entire weight on the Kiev and Leningrad fronts. If these two key positions are occupied it might be difficult for the armies of Moscow to hold on. According to scanty dispatches of reliable news received in Washington it appears that this last German effort may be successful.

Soviets Displayed Foresight.

The Soviet general staff has displayed more foresight than many professional soldiers of the old armies had expected. They yielded ground only after inflicting severe losses on the enemy. Their chief concern in these months of struggle was to keep their armies intact and save as much war material as circumstances allowed.

The fall of the Leningrad-Moscow-Kiev line is now being discounted in military quarters. While this unquestionably would it would not in the least mean the end of their resistance. Strong lines are being prepared behind the Volga River. The months of forced inactivity will be more profitable to the Russians than to the Germans. During those months war material will arrive from the United States. American factories will be able to deliver an increasingly large number of heavy bombers for the Spring campaign.

There is another problem which will face the Germans once the Soviet armies have withdrawn from their present positions. It is the question of feeding the millions of inhabitants in the Soviet territories. The granary of Russia is the Ukraine. It can yield enough crops to feed not only the native population, but also more than half that of the Reich. This year's crops have been largely wasted. The yield is barely sufficient to supply the Ukrainians themselves with scanty meals. And next year the crops will be practically nonexistant.

Stalin Was Ambitious.

Before Stalin ordered the famous five-year plan, the Ukrainian peasants had been using oxen and horses for their plows, reapers and mowers. Stalin was amhitious He wanted every agricultural community to use tractors. In order to convince the peasantry that mechanical implements are better than those drawn by horse and oxen, he removed most of these animals and had them made into canned meat. Thus the bulk of the Russian peasantry now uses tractors built after the American pattern. These are all right. But they need gasoline and oil. As long as the farmers could obtain sufficient gasoline, everything was all right. But now, when the Ukraine is cut off from Baku, the Germans won't be able to supply them with the necessary fuel, and the Ukrainian peasants will have to keep their tractors in the sheds the five-year plan authorities had built for them. The peasants themselves will probably be able to grow enough food by resorting to the old method, when wives and grownup children pulled the plow. But all they could cultivate under such conditions was 2 or 3 acres

The people of Germany have been told by Herr Goebbels' Propaganda Ministry that as soon as the Ukraine becomes a German province, every man, woman and child in the Reich will have all to eat that their hearts desire. The effect on the German population when it discovers that the Ukrainian feast must be postponed will be difficult to gauge.

McLemore-

U. S. Should Sound

Out the Hinterlands

By HENRY McLEMORE.

CHICAGO. - The Government

never will do anything with this idea, because the idea is too simple and wouldn't cost enough money country to find out what the people are talking about and to get their slant on a few subjects. I don't propose but it should send a man on any fancy mission for the Government

man with an an-McLemore. nouncement of his itinerary coming from the White House and with Mayor and Governor lined up in advance to meet him at the city limits and whirl him into a batch of luncheons and dinners, where the mimeographed speeches are as bad as the food. The Government should send a plain man on this junket, some levelheaded gent whose eyes and ears it respected. He should beat around in an automobile unheralded and unknown. Send him off in a good repaint job, with a set of nice retread tires and with instructions to find out what the fellows on the farm, in the drug store, in the small shop and here, there and everywhere are talking about, thinking about, and how they feel this country is being run. Let this Government listener eat dinner in a tourist-cabin dining room, put air in his own tires in a cross roads filling station, lounge around a dozen or two hotel lobbies, buy a necktie in a hole-in-the-wall haberdashery, mingle with the crowd at a race track, sit in the bleachers at a ball game, and buttonhole citizens on the street in this town and that.

He'd find out a lot about this country. I know, because I've just done 8,000 or so miles in my car. The Government man would learn, for one thing, that the folks would like a clean explanation of why the O. P. M. is in such a mess. They just can't figure out how an organization with such men as Knudsen and Stettinius in it is so handcuffed. They have come to believe in Knudsen. They rate him as a hell of an industrialist and a man with tremendous energy and sincerity, and they wonder what sort of a place Washington is when it can bog him down. He is the man they have been sold as the top organizer in this country and they resent what they consider the kicking around he is getting by little guys when they never heard of them before.

If Knudsen isn't being shoved around, if he isn't being badgered by a bunch of sharp little Johnnycome-latelys named Joe. Moe and Gus, then the people should be told, because they sure enough do think he is. The Government needn't expect 100 per cent defense co-operation until the average citizen believes Washington is co-operating, and isn't filled with men working to protect themselves rather than the * * * *

The Government man would hear a lot about Army morale, and how much of it is due to the poor quality of the Reserve officers. Nearly every one you talk to knows some Reserve officer who gives him a laugh. I ran across 50 citizens who knew of this liquor salesman, this lawyer, this hay and grain dealer, this dental equipment manufacturer, who was in the Army and wearing the bars of a captain, the leaf of a major or the eagle of a colonel. I ran across a hundred who had had letters from friends or relatives in the Army which told of being under the command of Reserve officers who scarcely knew a pontoon from a platoon and who were in such terrible physical condition that they had to rest between

The Government man might very well run into some Regular Army officers who feel pretty sore about the Reserve officers. More than one officer who has made the Army his career finds it hard to adjust himself to accepting as an equal in knowledge and pay a man who has been practicing another profession for years and who gets lost the moment maneuvers aren't confined to paved highways.

Here is another question the Government man will hear people asking one another: "How are we ever going to win this war?" They'd like to know that. They don't feel that we'll ever be defeated. They have been told how that can be averted. "But," they ask, "when is some one going to tell us how the United States and Britain and Russia are going to end it? What tactics are to be used?"

Too many people can see nothing but a stalemate, and this country never was one for tie games. It likes a decision.

So, let the man set out in his car from Washington; let him hit the 48 States and learn the things that are puzzling the people. Then, let them be cleared up. Until they are, we, the people of the United States, are going to wonder at our work, and not whistle. Even the Government must know which is to be preferred. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Fellow Named Woolfenden Reangles an Old Story

Says Technicolor Will Reform Make-up To Diminish Gaudiness of Women; Miss Cornell Ready for Journey

By JAY CARMODY.

With a high disregard for how Helena Rubenstein, Elizabeth Arden and Betsy Caswell may feel about it, a Hollywood press agent has dug up a new angle on the technicolor story. Heretofore, the technicolor story always has been that there will be more color pictures this year. That was all except once when technicolor got its first nod from Cecil B. De Mille, the equivalent of being knighted. That made brave reading if it was your idea of brave reading. Then &- being its old, unchanging self. Now a fellow, name of Woolfenden, according to the slug on the copy, comes out with the statement that technicolor is on the verge of revolutionizing women's make-up. Your guess probably would be that it was going to make the fair sex more gaudy than ever. Well, that would be a wrong guess.

It is going to be says Woolfenden. Woolfenden taking the words out of the mouth of a cameraman named it Rennahan, "the materials of makeup have not been appreciably changed, but the technique of apply is to apply make-up to avoid any theatrical appearance."

"Hitherto." Woolfenden goes marching along, "the old theatrical idea of make-up has been copied by the fans and used as rather (what do you mean, "rather," Woolfenden?) a model. If you doubt this, note the ads in drug store windows. With almost every second feature now being photographed in technicolor, it might have been anticipated that color make-up would start a whole new line of cosmetics in every rainbow hue. Not so." male stars of Hollywood,

Woolfenden says, are the boys who deserve the credit. When fellows like Gary Cooper, Bing Crosby, Spencer Tracy and Clark Gable started standing pat on their own eye-brows, lip lines, etc., instead of acting like matinee idols of the teens, it sewed the seed of revolu-Female stars noticed the effect, liked it, and started copy-

The most traveled man in the theater barely might be someone else, but we think it is Francis Robinson. The distinction accrues to Mr. Robinson by virtue of his professional work as Katherine Corhe fills with distinction.

Mr. Robinson is in town at the moment in connection with "The Doctor's Dilemma" in which Miss Cornell is going traveling this seathe trip will be. It may be only to It depends upon whether Miss Cornell finds a new play between now and November. If she does not, the Coast probably will get a chance to see what that fellow Shaw writes the technicolor story settled back to calling ping-pong ping-pong (we'll re-read the last nasty letter, so don't send us a new one), has sort of got us this time. Of Coleman Clark who comes to the Earle theater September 12, it would be good to say he is ping-pong champion of the United States. We can't, because officially he is table tennis champion.

His biographical sketch says he used to be a bond salesman. If his old boss should see him in vaudeville he probably would know where Clark was when he wasn't selling all those bonds.

Hush-hush department: Don't ask us what new gadgets Ed Wynn will bring with him in his "Boys and Girls Together" revue at the National this week. So do we, sometimes.

NOW ANOTHER MEDIUM-Richard Whorf, artist, actor, writer and raconteur, lately kept busy as a set designer and member of the acting company of Alfred Lunt and Lynne Fontanne, has turned now to the movies. Here he is rehearsing, with Betty Field, a scene for "New Orleans Blues," guided by Director Anatole Litvak.

After Tiffing With Sonja Henie, 20th Century Finds Itself Wanting Her Back Again

By HAROLD HEFFERNAN.

HOLLYWOOD. "Sun Valley Serenade" has turned out to be something that makes 20th Century-Fox very pleased-but embarrassed, too. Now the company will almost be forced to ask Sonja Henie, its star, to sign a new deal. That will be a touchy matter because parties of the first and second part fought bitterly during the film's closing days. Sonja, whose frugality has never been questioned, was accused of stalling so that her contract would expire in the midst of product & tion—thus forcing the studio to pay her an extra $2,000 a day overtime. The studio sidestepped this neatly by calling off plans for two spectacular Henie ice numbers and bringing the film to a sudden close-

Alien Form of Rule Threatened, Roosevelt Says in Magazine

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 5.-President Roosevelt, in the first of five articles to be published in Collier's Weekly, said in the current issue that he believed the Supreme Court fight in 1937 eliminated possible adoption by the United States of an alien form of Government.

That year, he said, "marked a definite turning point in the history of the United States. For this was the year which was to determine whether the kind of Government which the people of the United States had voted for in 1932, 1934 and 1936 was to be permitted by the of the human beings who, in our Supreme Court to function.

Mr. Roosevelt wrote that "the executive and legislative branches of the Government had gone into action immediately in 1933. But they soon found that, athwart the patn of progress along which they were moving, a majority of the Supreme Court of the United States was erecting a barrier which it was impossible to climb over, under or Defends Constitution.

"True, not everything had been destroyed by judicial fiat. But the whole question of the power of the Federal Government to handle these problems in an effective, decisive way had been placed not only in doubt but in positive jeopardy." After recounting various Supreme Court decisions nullifying New Deal legislation, Mr. Roosevelt concluded the initial article by asking:

"But was it really the fault of our Constitution? Or was it the fault generation, were torturing its meaning, twisting its purposes, to make function as a democracy, it is my it conform to the mold of their "It did not take long for the

Salary Boost Policy Action Today to End N. F. F. E. Session

Denver Chosen for Next Convention; Royle Elected Vice President

By J. A. FQX, Star Staff Corresponder

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 5 .-With officers chosen for the next two years and Denver designated as the 1943 meeting place, the biennial convention of the National Federation of Federal Employes was winding to a close today, the adoption of a salary-increase policy being the principal item of business to be disposed of before the gavel fell.

The federation, it was believed, simply would instruct the national officers to seek a pay raise for Government workers commensurate with fixing some definite figure. Delegates looked hopefully for some fathe rising cost of living, instead of vorable action in the light of the Ramspeck of the House Civil Service for next convention, was selected after a batle that required two ballots, winning over Cincinnati, Cleveland and Jackson, Miss.
Committee, who told the convention

Headquarters Increase Voted. In anticipation of a vigorous legislative campaign, including the pay drive, the convention voted to increase the per capita tax paid by the various locals to national headquarters from 30 to 35 cents a month. This issue also produced warm debate, with several of the delegates opposing the raise. Generally, the locals collect 50 cents a month dues from each member and those who protested said it was impossible for the units to function effectively if 35 cents of this went to the natinal office. Proponents insisted, however, the increase is necessary if the federation program is to be pushed with hope of suc-

Another controversial issue was disposed of swiftly when the convention-with no dissents audiblevoted down a proposal from the Montana State federation to reorganize the official staff. NEW YORK, Sept. 5 .- Carefully selective buying carried some bonds un fractions to more than a point in an otherwise irregular market today.

There was a good-sized list of small losers but the widest price swings were upward. Both industrials and speculative-type rail bonds found buyers but caution was evident in the quiet trade.

An outstanding exception to the generally slow market was the trading in issues of Laclede Gas Light Co. These ran up more than a point in active dealings. Attention was focused on these ttaly 7s 51 bonds by the announcement of a Japan 5 1/2 65 wd .....

Further evidence of the present boom in business conditions in the Capital came to light today in the August report of the Railway Express Agency, C. W. Turner, super-

Shipments handled by the Washington office during August numbered 170,438, in comparison with 146,431 in the same month last year, a sharp increase of 24,007 shipments or 16.4 per cent, Mr.

Turner announced. This was one of the best August records in recent years and indicated a remarkably active midsummer season. The upturn in shipments is assigned to population expansion and business improvement due largely to national defense

In the first eight months of this year shipments in and out of Washington numbered 1,440,361 against 1.235.491 in the like 1940 period, an upswing of 204,870 shipments so far this year, the report showed.

In every month in 1941 the company has handled much more business than a year ago, shipments by months comparing as follows with

District Bank Debits Rise.

Check activity in Washington in July was seasonally a little slower than June of this year, but was 18 per cent higher than a year ago. according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond's latest review just received here. Debits to individual accounts in July this year totaled $351,981,000 as against $299,-105,000 a year ago.

There were only 16 commercial failures in the fifth district in July. totaling $180,000, compared with 51 failures in July a year ago, involving $756,000. There were 11 fewer failures than in June of the present

Employment continued at a very high level in Washington in July and early August, the report says. The number on pay rolls gained 0.6 per cent from June and the amount of pay rolls moved up 2.2 per cent

Considerable unemployment elsewhere in the fifth district is expected soon as a result of non-defense industries to restrict or stop operations because of shortages of raw Auto Sales Ahead of 1940.

Sales of new passenger automobiles in Washington in July continued far ahead of the correspondtinues. The R. L. Polk figures show that 3,407 cars were sold in the District of Columbia in July against 2.695 a year ago, an increase of 26 per cent. The gain in the whole district was 36 per cent.

Auto sales in the Capital in the first seven months of this year totaled 23,669 cars, against 17,799 a year ago, an advance of 33 per cent. In the fifth district, 221,111 cars were sold, an increase of 43 per cent. Maryland sales were up 36 per cent and Virginia registrations 53 per cent in the seven months.

Retail furniture sales in the Cap-Ital in July were 57 per cent better than last year and in the seven months were 41 per cent higher than a year ago, the review says.

Department store sales in the fifth district in 79 stores reached $1,779,-

790,000 in July, 26 per cent higher than last year Washington led the fifth district in July building valuations with permits totaling $4,334,150.

Going back to June, the report says that construction contracts in the Capital were 211 per cent ahead

Reilly Talks on Inflation. John A. Reilly, president of the Second National Bank, and first vice president of the District Bankers politan Club yesterday on the effects of inflation on national economy day is the probability of inflation. the word "probability" being used advisedly, he said. From now on signs definitely point to an all-out defense program which will mean a greater enforcement of priorities and tremendous shortages cause there will be a great demand for merchandise and a lack of supplies. The Government is dong its part to curb the inflationary movement by sponsoring the issuance of defense savings bonds and endeavoring to control consumer credit through regulations of the Federal Reserve system. Bankers and business men should make every effort to meet the problems of defense and especially begin to master a peace-time economy which will be of the first magnitude, Mr. Reilly said.

With Specialties On Stock Market Many Other Leaders

Unable to Attract Cautious Buyers

By VICTOR EUBANK.

Associated Press Financial Writer. NEW YORK, Sept. 5 .- Buyers got aboard aircrafts and assorted specialties in today's stock market, but many leaders in other departments failed to attract paying passengers.

After notable hesitancy at the opening the aviation group came to the fore around midday and, at the best, gains ranged from 1 to 2 or more points for favorites. Top marks were reduced in most cases at the close and fractional declines were widespread. Individual business developments, more than anything else, brokers suggested, provided stimulation for climbing issues. The international outlook, including the attack on a United States destroyer by an unidentified submarine in the Atlantic, was sufficiently dark to keep most speculative contingents subdued. There also was the inclination to await clarification of tax problems, priorities, controls and other Pederal

Inflation temperature rose a trifle as commodities, after early shakiness, put on a show of strength with grain and cottonseed oil futures hitting highest levels in several years. Bonds were uneven.

In the share division several relatively lively intervals put the day's volume at around 600,000 shares Among stocks posting new highs for the year were Boeing, Lockheed. Curtiss-Wright, Laclede Gas, Gimbel, Cuban-American Sugar, Schenley and Ward Baking preferred. Well ahead were Western Union. Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin,

United Aircraft and Richfield Oil. Backward the greater part of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Telephone, U. S. Rubber, Westinghouse, General Electric, Southern Pacific and Eastman Kodak. Rails were not particularly disturbed by the strike vote of the brotherhoods or the less than seasonal upturn in last week's freight loadings. The former was in line with expectations and the dispute now goes before a presidential factfinding board for adjudication. The rail shipments aggregate also was the largest since 1930.

Chicago Daily News. MOSCOW, Sept. 5 .- With the disclosure of President Roosevelt's appointees to the impending threepower conference here, the American Embassy has got down to work on preparations. The arrival of more than a dozen Americans in one batch will be a momentous event for the small American colony in Moscow which numbers no more than 30-nearly all diplomats and newspapermen.

The program of the Anglo-American delegation still is in the most tentative stage. Since the general objectives and agenda for the three-power meeting are clearly delineated the delegates will be able to group themselves into committees and work out the details of a long-range program for pooling their nations' resources to beat Adolf

Liquor Price Control Debated at Hearing Of A. B. C. Board

Opposition Develops To Plans Offered by Industry Committee

Renewed proposals by two organized groups in the District liquor industry for some form of price control as a means of ending the socalled evils of "cut-throat competition" were debated today at a public hearing before the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

Opposition developed to suggesions which have been advanced by the Beverage Industry Committee headed by Milton S. Kronheim, sr. liquor wholesaler, and the District Retail Liquor Dealers' Association. Cassius M. Clay Named The A. B. C. Board called the hearing after these two groups had petitioned the reconstituted Board of Commissioners to adopt their proposals, shelved earlier by other Commissioners The retail association presented an outline of its plan to the hearing which called for a prohibition of price advertising; filing of price schedules with the A B. C. Board, these to be changed only with the approval of the board; that no retailer would be permitted to sell liquor at a price below the listed schedule: that there be a ban on rebates or discounts, except those specifically approved, and that no licensee shall purchase any beverage at a price less than in the approved

Irvin Goldstein, representing a liquor store, not a member of the Retail Association, declared the "obvious purpose" of the proponents of the plan was to sell more liquor rather than less and that "these folks are not coming here to promote temperance." He declared the principal purpose was to obtain price control over liquor and that the board should not approve anypartite confab. ## U. S. O. Funds to Pay Their Best Dividends In Lonely Iceland

Homesickness of Troops Finds Expression in Paraphrased Song

(Fifteenth of a Series.)

By THOMAS R. HENRY, Star Staff Correspondent

REYKJAVIK, Iceland. - Iceland will be a lonely place for American troops this winter.

Probably in no other station do the efforts of the U.S.O. to provide clean, healthy amusement for the enlisted men promise greater dividends, because homesickness is bound to rise.

It already is in evidence, although the chances are that it will diminish as the men become more adjusted to their surroundings. It has been kept down thus far by a lot of hard work.

This was one of the chief difficulties of the British who spent last winter in Iceland. A man sent to England on leave was very likely not to return, preferring his home land with all the constant danger of air raids.

Iceland is a place ideally adapted to breed melancholy in any one who ever has known a taste of the bright

The men now here are experienced, well-disciplined troopers. But they yearn for trees, sunshine and things American.

The feeling is expressed in this paraphrase of the artillery song: Over sea, over foam,

Wish to hell that we were home, But the transports go sailing along. In and out, near and far, Wonder where the hell we are, As the transports go sailing along. So it's hi ho, hum, Iceland here we come. Or maybe the Azores or Dakar. But wher'ere it be, we'll get no liberty As the transports go sailing along.

List to starboard, list to port, This trip is anything but short, As the transports go sailing along. Hate to wash, hate to shave, With salt water I must bathe, As the transports go sailing along. So it's hi, hi, hail, we cannot send out mail. Our sweethearts will sell us for a song, Think we're sinners on a spree 'Stead of lost out here at sea

 As the transports go sailing along. Sleep above, sleep below, From tropic seas to arctic snow, As those transports go sailing along. Go "ships wrong," then "ships right,"

"Darken ship, you"; "Douse that Keep those transports a-sailing along.

So it's he, he, hi, so seasick I could Oh, why must this damn ship amble

Should I ever land, then on the beach I'll stand And watch the transports go sailing Spars and struts, Niessen huts, Scheming non-coms drive us nuts. Since the transports went sailing back home.

Air raid yellow, air raid red Make us dizzy in the head Since the transports went sailing

Rule May Force Reckord From Troop Command

Big Shake-up in Field Officers Near as Age Limits Are Reduced

By NELSON SHEPARD.

Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, commanding officer of Fort George G. Meade. Md., and the 29th Division, is one of four "overage" National Guard division commanders slated for early replacement by younger men, it was learned today, if the War Department hew to the line of a new policy setting up the first schedule of maximum age limits for United States Army officers on "service with troop units."

The new age limits, ranging from 62 years for major generals in command of divisions to 30 years for second lieutenants, visualize the largest "shakeup" of field officers the Army has experienced since the start of mobilization. Undersecretary Patterson, who said late yesterday the order was designed to "revitalize" the field 500 Regular Army officers will be affected, with some 4,500 Guard officers and a few reservists making up the balance. Strict adherence to the policy, it was said, would take a toll of at least 20 per cent of the 22,300 Guard officers now on active Would Get Other Duties.

The officers severed from service with troop units are still to be retained in the Army but their services will be transferred to administrative or staff duty away from troops. In other words, many of them will be given "swivel chair" No regular officers of the rank of major general will be iming out of "overage" commanders and their replacement by younger The commander of the 29th Di-

The other National Guard officer, Maj. Gen. Edward Martin, in command of the 28th Pennsylvania Division at Indiantown Gap, Pa., will be 62 on September 28.

Age Limit Schedule The following schedule of maximum age limits for the various ranks was set up: Major generals who are division commanders, 62: brigadier generals, 60: colonels, 55: lieutenant colonels, 52: majors, 47: captains, 42; first lieutenants, 35; second lieutenants, 30.

Specifically exempted from the age limits are officers serving with the Air Force. Mr. Patterson said that was because of the need for the maximum number of Air Corps officers and the fact that there is "heavy demand" for non-flying officers for service with the Air Forces. For that reason they are not classed as "troops" under the age-in-grade policy. Also exempted is Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, who is 61; Army corps commanders who are major generals, and field army commanders who are lieutenant generals.

The 30-year age limit applied to second lieutenants, Mr. Patterson emphasized, will not apply to enlisted men who have successfully passed the officer candidate schools A great many of these men, he said. are 30 years of age or older.

Repercussions Possible. With approximately 20 per cent

It is not the intention to accomplish the removal of all "overage" officers from troop units immedistely under the newly announced policy, the War Department said. It is more likely the transfers will be spread over a sufficient period to avoid interference with unit meiency, especially during the extensive maneuvers now in progress.

Mr. Patterson emphasized that no stigma is attached to the officers' records in such cases.

Promotions May Save Some. The reason why comparatively few of the Reservists will be affeeted is because an age-in-grade restriction has been in effect in the Reserve Corps since last February. There are other "loopholes whereby many of the average officers among the Regulars and National Guard may escape replacement in the field. A number of them, it was pointed out, are eligible for promotions to higher grades in which they can still meet the age standards for service with troop

Nails and Brass Doorknobs Getting Scarce, and Soon There Won't Be. Any Gadgets The chances of getting sheet doing this within a few weeks or, here are inquiring into the loan age is in the 8-penny common nails away themselves," this

No cards have been issued, but there is rationing in Washington. The restricted commodity is nails-common building nails. The nail business would be a fine business in which to be engaged at this time, if one had plenty of nails, local hardware merchants agreed today. But nails are at a premium here and in most other cities of the United States. Capital builders are managing to struggle along, although they are working the good word and glad hand overtime in their efforts to achieve preferential delivery status from wholesale hardware firms. "We are averaging a carload a week," one dealer said. "We could sell three a week if we could get them. The worst shortnail, which is the most used." He explained a sincere effort was being made by his firm to spread the consignments about where they would do the most good, a keg here, another there. An executive of another wholesale establishment said his organization had been helping supply competitors for six weeks,

"They offer us ridiculous figwres and say they'll carry the dealer declared. "But we feel we have some obligation to the local builders who have been doing business with us." The nail shortage is not the only material situation worrying builders here. Deficiencies already exist in some other items. Deliveries are slow in many others, and dealers would not be surprised to learn dozens of orders had become undeliverable because of manufacturers' troubles with the defense priority raw materials maze. copper also are slim. Where copper flashing is specified in private home construction, it's often wishful thinking on the part of the architect these days, the building suppliers say. The brass doorknob is another vanishing item. "Indications are brass knobs will be out in 30 or 40 days," a hardware man said.

Structural steel, of course, cannot be ordered with a guarantee of delivery. The particular scarcity of bar steel for "T" anchors has prompted a prominent local structural steel dealer to send urgent queries all over the East with negligible results. "T" anchors are necessary to hold steel frame buildings together.

"In making my decision not to be a candidate," Mr. Carretta said, west to Lemon road, then north to "I carefully analyzed all of the factors involved and then arrived at the conclusion that because of the two-party system prevalent in the county an independent candidate has very little chance of being elected to local office.

"Furthermore, my firm conviction, which is supported by recent findings of the Brookings Institution in its study of the government of Montgomery County, Md., is that elections to the county board should be on a nonpartisan basis. My reason for this is based especially upon the fact that a majority of Arlington residents are either Fed-High. Legal Action Planned Attacking Authority To Alter Designations

About 300 residents of Hyattsville, Md., and vicinity last night agreed to take legal action against the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission to prohibit the further renaming of streets in the Metropolitan Area. Harry H. Jackson, town commissioner of Cottage City, was elected chairman of the group and M. H. B. Hoffman of Hyattsville was selected as secretary to carry on the efforts opposing the renaming. Another meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the office of J. Frank Lillard at Hyattsville to select executive and finance committees and to decide a definite course of legal action. It was indicated that Mr. Lillard and Robert W. McCullough will be retained as legal counsel. Both outlined two possible courses to follow: One would be to attack the legality of the 1939 act of the General Assembly authorizing the commission to rename the streets which was passed as an emergency measure and therefore precluded the possibility of a referendum by the citizens, and the second course would be to attack the entire commission setup on constitutional grounds, it was stated. The commission has recently renamed streets in the metropolitan area to correspond with Washington thoroughfare designations. Objection to the changes has been raised by some citizens because they believe the new names would create more confusion and lose the identity of the towns.

Mme. Simovitch and Hostess Leave Today for New York to Attend King's Birthday Celebration

Mme. Constantin Fotitch, wife of the Minister of Yugoslavia, combined the delightful party she gave yesterday to honor Mme. Dobrila Simovitch, wife of the Prime Minister of Yugoslavia, with a benefit to aid Yugoslav relief work.

The party was held at the home on Oregon avenue the Minister and Mme. Fotitch took for the summer.

Mme. Simovitch wore a black crepe gown accented with a gold necklace, and Mme. Fotitch chose an informal print costume for the party. At the tea table in the dining room were Mrs. Thomas Burke, wife of the chief of the Division of International Communications; Mme. Big Flood of Military Craft Won't Start Until Next Summer

By JAMES FREE.

Both Government and industry aviation experts warned today against undue optimism over the record monthly high military aircraft production of 1,854 for August reported last night by the O. P. M. The gain of 394 planes over deliveries the month before was the largest single monthly increase shown since the defense program began, but authorities pointed out that there are several reasons why comparable gains cannot be expected each month in the future. They point out that from April by military aircraft producers in this country remained virtually static. April deliveries were 1,389. May showed a drop to 1,334; June went to 1,378 and July to 1,460.

Some Craft Lack Only Propellers. Well over 100 almost finished planes could not be delivered for want of propellers or other vital single pieces of equipment, an O. P. M. official said, or the July figure might have been 1,600. Had this been the case, the August total probably would have been nearer

The O. P. M. executive warned against assumption that the record August gain meant a monthly output of 2,500 or more planes by the end of this year.

"We are gratified over the 1,854 deliveries last month," he said, "but, frankly, we aren't counting on more than 2,000 a month by December. We hope for more than that, of course, but it is best to be realistic about the situation. By the middle of 1942 we should be getting 3,000 to 3.500 deliveries monthly. How much we get after that depends on future plans, degree of sacrifice required of civilian industries and the

"Schedules" Are Relative. craft production is lagging behind to the Government for offices, in an schedule, a representative of pri- answer on file today in District vate manufacturers replied that Court, submitted by the owners, "that all depends on whose schedule

"We may be behind the schedules anticipated by administration spokesmen late last year and early in 1941," he said, "particularly after we had a jump of from 972 deliveries in February to 1,216 in March, but no responsible representative of the aircraft industry has given out any estimates substantially ahead of present production rates."

There have been some delays, he said, due to strikes in airplane plants and factories making airplane parts. And there has been some hindrances because of shortage of raw materials.

Bomber Orders Were Late. "Regarding the heavy bomber program, assailed by Senator Byrd, it might be well to recall that Britain did not order any fourengine bombers before February o this year. And President Roosevelt's big heavy bomber program not announced until four months ago.

"Senator Byrd's figures showing only 12 four-engine bombers turned out in June and 14 in July are correct, but he did not mention that production earlier in the year had been 60 to 80 a month and that during June and July plants producing the bombers were retooling for new models.

"Pessimism, as well as optimism can be overdone. What we need more than anything else is a realistic approach to the problem

10-Year Probation Given Mother Who Expected Each Month Slew Two Babies

Co-ed 'Punished Enough,' Says Judge; College Absolved of Blame

By the Associated Press. SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 5 .- Ann Marie Hanssen will pay no severe penalty for killing her two children at birth, and San Diego State College is cleared of any responsibility for the 23-year-old student's act.

Superior Judge Edward Kelly placed the unmarried mother, who pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the double slaying, on 10 years' probation. "I cannot find it in my heart to add to the burden of this through July the total for deliveries girl-she has been punished enough," he said.

Shortly before the hearing ended Miss Hanssen told the court that a sex lecture given to a college health education class last spring "had nothing to do with my present predicament.

A report by County Psychiatrist H. F. Andrews, introduced earlier in the hearing, quoted the young woman as saying the lecturer, at least by inference, had approved trial marriages and extra-marital sex relations and that this had tended to place her "further off guard.

College faculty members, called by Judge Kelly for an explanation, denied any such advice ever had been given by a speaker at the school, but investigation into the matter continued until Miss Hanssen herself absolved both the institution and the lecturer.

On the flat tableland of Mexico and into Southern Arizona, this diamond rattlesnake, a phase of the diamond-back rattlesnake, is often confused with the more westerly cousins because of the diamond markings appearing on many of them. These are rather blunt and far spaced but do not form a connected chain. The markings are either greenish or yellow, and the black and white bars found on the tail are dull and broken.

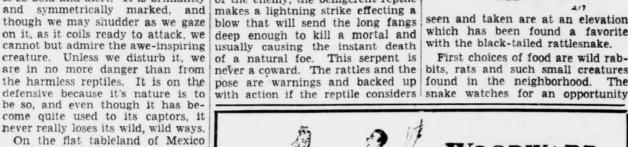

The markings on the head consist of a dark band which starts behind the center of the eye and extends to the angle of the mouth, with a broad pale band in front of this darker one. The eyes are a glittering black. The tongue waves slowly back and forth, apparently keeping time with the incessant rasping of the rattles.

$455,000,000 Worth of Establishments Ruled Now, Probers Say

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 5 .-Through military conquests in Europe Germany has gained control of approximately $455,000,000 worth of business and industry in Argentina, a congressional committee investigating anti-Argentine activities tina. said today in a report for the House of Deputies.

Germany gained this economic power through seizure in occupied territories of firms having branches in the country, the report said. According to an advance summary, the committee charged that

Argentinians Revive Plan For Parliamentary Union

By ALLEN HADEN,

Foreign Correspondent of The Star and Chicago Daily News. BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 27 (by Clipper).-Invitations by the United States Congress and the Argentine Chamber of Deputies for exchange visits by their members fit into a general offensive of younger Radical Party Deputies here to achieve coordination of democratic forces in the Americas through closer contact of elected legislators.

This same democratic influence has given birth to a plan now being polished up to form a pan-American interparliamentary union. Leading spirits are Ernesto Boatti, head of the Radical Party caucus in the chamber, Eduardo Araujo, party whip; Carlos Cisneros and Raul Damonte Taborda, secretary of the Bloom's Project.

Creation of a pan-American interparliamentary union fits also into a fond project nursed by Representative Sol Bloom of New York, who became enthusiastic about a pan-American institution for the inauguration of President Manuel Avila Camacho

Radical Deputies want to assert the rights of the party culling 80 per cent of Argentine votes in free elections. They contend that the administration of Acting President Ramon S. Castillo came into office through fraud and that Argentina's policy of non-co-operation with the United States is the administration's, not Argentina's. They therefore want to impress on American opinion that if elections were free in this country Argentine popular opinion would put the country wholly on the side of the United

SUBSTITUTE WIFE

By LOUISE ANDREWS

Juliette Picard Nash was going to be famous; of that she was certain. And her fame would be based on something intelligent, something distinctive and wonderful in the world of women. Already, at 19, she was the highest paid secretary in Santa Rio, and that was only a beginning.

Men had no place in these plans of Julie's—they took too much time, required too much attention. But then a stranger came through Santa Rio, a man with broad shoulders and dark skin and a manner about him that spelled a career all in itself. And Julie traveled the breadth of the country to see him a second time.

Judge Denies Motion To Delay Trial of Man Held in Assault Case

Defense Says Confession Of Attack on Girl, 15, Was Not Voluntary

The path was cleared today for the opening of the trial on Monday of William Isaac Robinson, 34, colored, indicted on charges of criminally attacking a 15-year-old daughter of a Federal official in a wooded area across Sixteenth street from Rock Creek Park on August 6. Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue yesterday afternoon overruled in District Court a defense plea for delay.

Defense Counsel David A. Hart, assigned by District Court to represent Robinson, argued yesterday that the alleged confession police reputedly extracted from Robinson was not voluntary, as he was exhausted when he gave it, in fear of his life, after being assaulted by police.

Assistant United States Attorney John W. Fihelly, representing the Government, told Justice O'Donoghue that Jarvis R. Catoe, indicted vesterday in a number of assault and murder cases, had been viewed by the girl and she said Catoe was not her attacker.

The question of whether the confession was voluntary is a matter for decision at the trial, Mr. Fihelly said. A motion alleging that there was bias because of public hysteria over Washington's crime wave and asking for delay in trial was overruled in a similar case recently by District Court, Mr. Fihelly added. Justice O'Donoghue agreed with the Government's position and directed that the trial go forward as scheduled on Monday. The jurist will likely preside at the trial in Criminal Court No. 1 of Dis-

Selectee Army Wins Praise of Gen. Ridley, Veteran of Regulars

Arkansas Maneuvers Said to Prove High Spirit of Troops

By the Associated Press.

SOMEWHERE IN SOUTH AR-KANSAS, Sept. 5 .- The performance of the American selective service army in the field brought top praise today from a veteran of the Regulars, Maj. Gen. Clarence S.

In the current Kotmk-Almat "war" that provides a scenario for the 2d Army's maneuvers in South Arkansas and North Louisiana, Gen. Ridley commands the red Kotmk forces. His army of about 50,000 has as its nucleus the 5th Division of Fort Custer, Mich., and the 6th (his regular command) of Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

75 Per Cent Are Selectees. Nearly 75 per cent selectee in personnel, with many enlisted men who have been in uniform less than three months, these divisions are regarded as a cross-section of the new civilian army. The 5th includes selectees from Michigan, Southern Wisconsin, Northern Illinois and Indiana. The 6th is known as "the boiling pot" of the Western Mississippi Valley, in-cluding soldiers from every State from the Dakotas to Louisiana.

Reviewing 24 hours of action that saw his soldiers capture and cross the strategic Ouachita River in South Arkansas, routing Blue National Guard outfits from New York, Illinois, Tennessee, Ohio, Missouri Kansas and Nebraska, Gen. Ridley

"They are a fine type of men, these men of the 5th and 6th," he said. "Like all selectees, they are learning fast. They are intensely interested. Above all, they have high spirit.

Rains Mired Roads.

"They were anxious to cross that river and start chasing the Blues They wanted to get started before we were ready for the crossing to be made, and that in spite of the drenching rain that mired the swamp roads along the river banks, setting up the most trying field conditions. But when the test came, there was no confusion.

"They made that river crossing, steathily, at night, with a smoothness that indicates the spirit of both divisions.

"These men have been through a hard test in these maneuvers. They traversed hundreds of miles to reach the area. They have experienced night marches, loss of sleep, downpours of rain and the necessity for fast and efficient movement over a difficult terrain. I am thoroughly pleased with them.

Meanwhile, crossing the Ouachita in a mass attack straddling the Arkansas-Louisiana State line, the 2d Cavalry threatened the east flank of the Almat Army withdrawing into Rapid-firing anti-aircraft guns of the 40th Coast Artillery from Fort Sheridan, Ill., brought into action for the first time, teamed with the Fort Riley (Kans.) cavalry units transporting the heavy equipment safely across the river on the El Dorado-Crossett Highway in Ar-

Held on the east shore for days, the 2d Army spread out from a spearhead on the border and encircled a suicide company of Nebraska troopers, holding the bridge-only river crossing within miles.

Printers Strike on Two Texarkana Newspapers

By the Associated Press.

TEXARKANA, Ark., Sept. 5 .- The Texarkana Local No. 373 of the International Typographical Union called a strike last night against the Texarkana Daily News and Gazette, installing a picket line in front of the newspapers' plant. The News is an afternoon publication, the Gazette a morning paper. Twenty compositors were involved.

George McCoppin, secretary and treasurer of the local, said the workers suspended operations after 90 days inconclusive negotiations for a new contract to replace one which Mr. McCoppin said one of the main points at issue was that C. E. Palmer, publisher of Texarkana Newspapers, Inc., had refused to grant the union jurisdiction over automatic teletypesetters for linotypes. Two such instruments had been installed in the plant recently but were dismantled later, management spokesmen said.

The management said the union also asked a five-day week and a

2 Women Held for Jury In Narcotics Case Two colored women, arrested

Wednesday night in a narcotics raid conducted by Treasury Department agents, yesterday were held under $3,000 bond each for grand jury action when arraigned before United States Commissioner Needham C Turnage.

The women held were listed as Edna M. Johnson, 25, and Victoria R. Golden, 30, who gave their address as that of the raided establishment in the 1900 block of Temperance court N.W.

Two other colored women arrested in the raid were released without being arraigned. They are Hilda A. Smith, 26, who gave her address as that of the place raided, and Alice A. Jackson, 39, who gave an address near the place raided.

'Subway World Series' Looms With Cards Crumpling While Yanks Clinch Flag

Win, Lose or Draw Idle Brooks Gain

Prolonging the Autumnal Agony

One of the headaches having to do with the coming football season may concern the new business of "free substitution" in college competition. In other words, Joe Jerkovitch may be sent a-running into the fray at intervals of every few seconds. To our mind this doesn't help football as far as the cash customers go.

Up to now a pair of major games have been played and it has been our good fortune to witness both of them. The game in Chicago between the pro Bears and the American All-Stars started at 8:30 and lasted well beyond midnight. This represents something like four hours of entertainment, not counting the long ride home and the inevitable explanation to the rest of the family.

The New York game between the pro Giants and the Eastern All-Stars lasted slightly less than four hours. It was just as well. The 54,000 patrons were beginning to walk out on the show, anyway. Yet it still was too long and if there is anybody to protest the longevity of 1941 football games this trightened observer begs to refer all complaints to the National Collegiate Rules Committee.

The coaches apparently put the free substitution rule in effect and now it looks as if these master-minds will have to put up with the silly bit of Dodgers have been handed the legislation, along with John Q. Public, who sometimes has to pay $4.40 National League lead on a big, for the privilege of watching a lot of guys jump up from the bench, run brimming platter. onto the field, and head back again after one or two plays.

Defensive, Offensive Aces on Treadmill

One Mr. Carl Snavely was in charge of the Chicago All-Star team and on two of Boston's best pitchers, for some reason he decided that Charley O'Rourke, probably the best col- Dick Newsome and Mickey Harris, lege passer since Sambo Baugh and David O'Brien, was a crack defensive back. This could be so. Everything that O'Rourke did last year against formidable opposition indicated that he had no serious shortcomings.

But the forte of O'Rourke was the forward pass, as he demonstrated by completing three in a row and hurling the ball to a touchdown against White Sox-who regained exclusive what may be the best team ever gathered. These three or four chances, however, comprised about all the offensive usefulness in the well-known Mr. O'Rourke's delicate system. Most of the time ne spent the night running from the bench to the referee and taking the place of George Franck, the crack Minnesota back, on defense,

It puzzled followers of the All-Stars. Here was O'Rourke. He can pass with deadly accuracy. Franck or Tommy Harmon always represented dangerous get-away guys. Yet Mr. Snavely rarely saw fit to play O'Rourke when these fellows were in the line-up.

The same thing happened the other night at the Polo Grounds in New York. A back named Francis Reagan, from Penn. gained consider- a double-header at Chicago, 3-0 able yardage against the Giants for a while. Then, of a sudden, it was and 4-3. decided by Coach Jim Crowley to play Reagan on defense and O'Rourke

When Sid Luckman Learned the Marathon

Interviewing the All-Stars over platters of anchovies after the game, we heard it whispered that no longer will it be the style to fit out two teams. "Today," gasped one of the so-called Stars, still trying to catch divided the contests and left the his breath, "it is a question of who can play offense and who can play defense. A kicker or a good passer, who is open to injury, won't be permitted on the field unless his team has the ball. As soon as the other club gets it, the good kicker, passer or runner might as well sit down and enjoy the game while somebody who can play defensive football

The new rule may improve the breed, at that. Nowadays an offensive or defensive back or lineman must be able to run all night.

Take Mr. Sidney Luckman of the Bears, for instance. He kept hopping from the bench, into the fray and back again during the Chicago game. Midway of the final period something in Mr. Luckman rebelled.

"Coach," he said, "if I didn't have all of your 200 plays down pat I wouldn't fool with football. Right now I can beat Clarence De Mar, and he can't pass a lick."

Coaches Erred in Passing New Rule

We were not given the opportunity to interview all of the Eastern in the opener. Chicago collected All-Stars but similar stories are certainties. Reagan and O'Rourke were so busy passing each other on the way into the game, and out of it, that several paths were worn to the All-Stars' bench in New York.

Some of the college coaches with whom we have talked are not in favor of free substitution. It puts an added burden on them. It makes it too easy for alumni to ask why Coach McSquirt didn't put Jerkovitch at defenseive right half while old Dandelion Tech was completing a long touchdown pass. No longer is there any legitimate excuse for saying that Jerkovitch had been in the game and thereby could not re-enter im-

Most of all, the generous ruling takes up time. Every 5 or 10 seconds a gang of guys rushes onto the field, reports to the officials and takes its place. Scarcely a play is made without a substitution. It follows that alumni and just plain customers are going to assume that most of the time the incoming players are bearing strategems directed

How this rule got by is something over which to ponder. The coaches who passed it put themselves on the spot. In addition to prolonging the performances the coaches automatically took over the signalcalling. About all the kids have left to do is attend classes or join the service, the former being harder work and the latter paying less money.

The Yanks bombed their way to their fifth championship in six years yesterday by smashing the Boston Red Sox. 6-3, with a 10-hit assault while Atley Donald was holding the Red Sockers in check on five safeties.

The New Yorkers thus achieved their 91st victory against 45 defeats for a 20-game lead over the Chicago possession of second place through the crumpling of the Red Sox.

The triumph, which put the Yanks out of reach of all rivals clinched the pennant at the earliest date in American League history.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.-The 14th running of the Sir Thomas Lipton Trophy race for amateur outboard pilots at the Philadelphia Outboard Regatta Association's 2day Eastern outboard championships carnival on the Schuylkill River here this week end will see a new champion crowned. Clinton Ferguson of Waban, Mass. 1940 winner of the famed trophy, is serving with the United States Navy and will not be on hand to defend his prize. Chief contenders appear to be Gerard Sheeran of Brooklyn. N. Y., who took the trophy in 1938 and 1939, and James Mullen of Richmond, Va. The absence of Ferguson will leave the American Power Boat Association amateur championships in Classes A. B and C without a defender also, as the Massachusetts driver took down these titles last year. Mullen won the Class F amateur crown in 1940, and Don Whitner of the midget toga last year,

In the professional division at least three of last year's titleholders are expected to race over the narrow Schuylkill course. Ken Mac-Kenzie of New Haven, Conn., Class F winner; Vic Scott of Forest Hills, N. Y., Class C champion, and Fred G. Chase, Northampton, Mass., win-ner of the Class A crown, all have been campaigning on the eastern front this season and undoubtedly will appear at the A. P. B. A. event. The lone possible absentee champion Bob Rowland of South Norfolk, Va., who won the Class B prize last The regatta will be staged over the 12/3-mile course on the Schuylkill River in Fairmont Park, with E. C. Headley again head of the local Regatta Committee.

A.M. tides in light type, P.M. tides heavy type. The minus sign means tides are earlier and should be subtracted from the time at reference station. These predictions give the times of high and low water and not the time the current changes (slack water). In Chesapeake Bay, midchannel between the Potomac River and Annapolis, slack water occurs about 21/2 to 41/2 hours after high and low water by the shore. At other places given in the table, slack water occurs from ½ to 1½ hours after the times of high and low water. These tables are compiled by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Roosevelt, Chronic Loser Over Long Stretch, May Go Places This Year on Grid

Experienced Talent And Stiff Schedule Present Chance

School, First Regarding Game Seriously in '15, Has Won Only 8 Tilts

By GEORGE HUBER.

Roosevelt's Rough Riders easily could be the dark horse team in this year's high school football race. Coach Artie Boyd built his team last year with this season in mind and has a double handful of lettermen and experienced players returning. With no Rider football tradition to live up to except that of being trampled regularly, a big problem of every Roosevelt coach has been to put winning spirit into his players. Coach Boyd did get some fight into the boys last year and they had a fairly successful season, for Roosevelt, that is. The Riders showed enough fight to beat Central, 7-6.

for their only victory in four inter-Win Eight Games Since 1915.

Since 1915 when they first refootball seriously, the Riders-formerly the Stenographers at old Business High-have won exactly eight games. Before that in 1902 they defeated Western, 6-5, and In 1905 downed Central, 14-6. Other victories were 1915 over Eastern, 6-0; 1916 over Tech, 7-0; 1923 over Eastern, 7-6; 1926 over Eastern again, 25-6; 1927 over Western, 6-0; 1937 over Wilson, 6-0; 1939 over Wilson again, 19-0, and last year's win over Central.

There is one other Stenographer victory which should be in the record but isn't. In 1917 the score was Eastern, 14; Business, 13, when it should have been Business by 13-12. An official's errors gave Eastern a safety over Roosevelt when it should have been a touchback.

Opportunity Is Here.

Those 10 interhigh victories don't form a happy background, but it will require only a good year or two to build up the Riders' prestige. With a big group of experienced players and a tough schedule they may go places. Not only do they meet improved Western and Central teams in their own division, but they must tackle the big shots of the East Division, Tech and Eastern. A lot may depend on their opening game with John Marshall High of Richwent through a 10-game schedule of the 1939 season to add to that streak, John Marshall now has won 12 straight games and if Roosevelt

New York Hums With Activity as Winter Fashion Season Gets Under Way

Rich Fabrics and a Lavish Use of Lace and Sequins Seen in Fall Clothes

Fira Benenson Places Jabots Or Tulle Puffs at Neckline: Milgrim Likes Longer Skirt

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—To the casual observer, it might almost seem as though some one had said "be elegant" to the New York designers and then sat back, with a pleased expression, to watch them fall over themselves obeying the command. Certainly, elegance is the only outstanding feature of winter fashions which can be accepted as a serious trend. Despite the numerous showings of collections by this city's topnotch designers, there has been no single silhouette into which the fashion writers have been able to sink their pearly white teeth. Full skirts and slim ones have appeared; shoulders have been natural or extremely exaggerated. Even skirt lengths have varied until the befuddled fashion press which has spent the last several years viewing the fall and winter modes is not sure just how it stands. All they know for a certainty is that this is a season of richness of fabric and detail and that never before-at least within the memory of most of them-have there appeared such truly lavish and fine-quality clothes. It is almost as though the designers were imploring women to buy the best now, lest there be difficulty in securing it later.

This was the general impression created at the two fashion showings held last Wednesday. In the morning the collection of clever Fira Benenson was displayed at Bonwit Teller's and it proved to be one which

An interesting marriage of old and new fashions is this "wedding ring" handbag designed by David Lewis. The simple bands give it a quaint touch, but there is nothing old-fashioned about its generous proportions or its use of "antelle," a silky, rich fabric which looks like antelope and is guaranteed against cracking.

Mothers with an eye to the future will find ways to use the proffered help of small children.

Peter confessed that he didn't.

"Mother: "I'll put the food and paper dishes on this table by the door and you children and daddy can carry them out to the picnic

Father: "What can we do to help?" Mother: "Take the children out in the yard and get them out of my way. That will help me more than anything else."

New Zealanders Hear From Conquered Peoples

Replies have been received from various invaded lands by New Zealanders who made inquiries through the Red Cross concerning friends.

A. A. Harker, secretary of the Auckland center of the society, states that the percentage of replies to the more than 5,000 inquiries sent out has been very satisfactory.

Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

ried up one big cloud after another, and late in the afternoon, white feathery flakes came drifting down out of the sky. Peter Rabbit sat tight in the dear old Brier Patch. All night he remained squatting just inside the entrance to an old hole Johnny Chuck's grandfather had dug a long time ago in the middle of the dear old Brier Patch. Some time before morning the snow stopped falling and then Rough Brother North Wind worked as hard to blow away the clouds as he had to bring them. When jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun began his daily climb up in the blue. blue sky, he looked down on a world of white. It seemed as if every little snowflake twinkled back at every Jolly Little Sunbeam. It was all very lovely and Peter rejoiced as he scampered forth in quest of his breakfast.

He started first for the weedy field where the day before he had found

Dotty, the Tree Sparrow, and Slaty, the Junco. They were there before him, not seeming to mind the snow in the least and having the very best of good times as they picked seeds from the tops of the weeds which showed above the snow. At once Peter discovered that they were not alone. Quite as busy seeking seeds as were Dotty and Slaty was a bird just a little bigger. The top of his head and back were a rusty brown and on his back were streaks of black. Back of each eye and on each shoulder was a little patch of this same rusty brown. The inner tail feathers were black, and the outer half of the long wing feathers were black. Otherwise he was dressed all in white. It was Snowflake, the Snow Bunting, Peter knew him instantly. He knew that there is no other small bird who is so largely white. Peter had his usual

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB Are all quite moderate

Winning Contract

By THE FOUR ACES.

Bridge Swindles-No. 62

Every player at some time or other goes through agonies of indecision when playing the defense. He must make the fateful decision at the point when he has insufficient information, and there's no wonder that he often guesses wrong. In today's hand South thrust the burden of such a guess on East, and was rewarded when East failed to

↑ A ♣ QJ1052 The bidding: West East South Pass Pass 2♡ Pass Pass Pass Pass

West opened the four of spades, and South made the "swindle" play at once by playing dummy's deuce of spades. Before we go on, let's see what South loses by playing low. No matter what course the play takes, South is bound to lose two clubs and at least one spade trick. Even if the immediate finesse of the spade queen should work, the opponents would still gain the lead twice with clubs to hammer out the spade ace and gather in a spade trick.

South's decision to play the low spade at once therefore lost him nothing at all. If nothing favorable happened as a result of the duck, South could finesse the spade queen the second time the suit was led. This type of play occurs much more often than average players realize; it's something to watch out

And now put yourself in poor East's place. It looked as though he might make a diamond trick later on, together with a club. His partner might have another trick in the minor suits, perhaps also a trump trick. So if East took the king of spades, that might be the setting trick. And if he finessed the 10 of spades. South might be able to win the spade jack (don't forget that East couldn't tell who had that card); and then South might be able to avoid the loss of a spade trick and thus make his contract. 'It's easy enough to play the 10 of spades when you see all the cards, but East thought a long time and finally played the king of spades. And after that successful swindle, South had an easy time making his

The bidding Maier Schenken Jacoby 1. Pass Pass Pass

Answer-Bid three clubs. A good partner will not drop this bid, although four clubs would be a safer bid with a poor partner. The point is that you should show the club support and try to get further information before announcing your LETTER-OUT full strength.

Score 100 per cent for three clubs or four clubs, 90 per cent for five notrump, 80 per cent for six no-trump, 50 per cent for four no-trump.

Question No. 857. Today you hold the same hand, and the bidding continues: Schenken Jacoby You Pass Pass 3. Pass

It's Hard to Believe

From Oakland: As we are all thinking about school again, why not give us the origin of the word? Answer: The word school evolved from the Greek word schole, which means . . . (honest injun) . . . leisure! And the word scholastic is from the Greek scholazein, meaning to have leisure! It's hard to believe that a school is a loafing place, but, sadly enough, it is often too true.

If we look over a rainfall map of the world, here are some of the facts which may become plain: More rain falls in the torrid zone than anywhere else.

The wet parts of the world are. in general, more thickly settled than the dry parts. This is what we might expect. Rain is needed for crops to grow.

Yet there can be too large an amount of rain. Some very wet parts of the globe do not have a great number of people. The sections of the earth with
