Argentine Congress Asks Nazi Envoy Ouster

BUENOS AIRES (AP) .- The Argentine Congress today demanded the expulsion of German Ambassador Edmund von Thermann within three days for "abuse" of diplomatic privileges. The congressional action confronted Acting President Ramon S. Castillo's regime with the necessity of a decision whether to order Von Thermann to leave, since the ambassador declared yesterday he had no intention of withdrawing voluntarily.

Six Billion Allocated.

Of the original $7,000,000,000 leaselend appropriation, the President told Congress, $6.281,237,421 has been allocated, $3,555,587,895 has been put under contract and $388,912.115 has been spent. Congress also authorized the President to turn over another $1,300,000.000 in war supplies already on hand for purposes of the aid program, and the President said $97,809,722 of this sum has been transferred.

The actual transfers to foreign governments were placed at $246,-394,372, compared with $75,202,426 which the President reported to Congress as of May 31. Therefore, transfers since his last report 90 days ago came to $171.191,946. The report said that 89 per cent Assertion several months ago by Leon Henderson, head of Otfice of Price Administration and Civilian Supply, that motor car production should be cut 50 per cent to conserve essential materials for defense, led to controversy with Office of Production Management, headed by William S. Knudsen, which saw need for lesser curtailment. O. P. M. views, backed by authority in the field, prevailed. Subsequently President Roosevelt placed Mr. Henderson's civilian supply functions under O. P. M. in order setting up new Supply Priorities and Allocations Board.

The Office of Production Management announced today that December production of passenger the committee to meet Wednesday, automobiles would be cut 48.4 per cent below the output of last Deterials for defense.

Manufacturers will be permitted to produce only 204,848 passenger cars in December, compared with 396.823 in December, 1940, it was made known at a meeting of Leon Henderson, director of O. P. M.'s Civilian Supply Division, with the Automotive Defense Industry Advisory Committee.

Together with the 26.5 per cent slash previously ordered for August, September, October and November, the new curtailment means an overall decrease of 32.2 per cent in the first five months of the model year which began August 1, 1941. Orville Wright Made Fort Myer-Alexandria Hop With Him in 1909

By NELSON M. SHEPARD. Brig. Gen. Frank P. Lahm, the Army's first air pilot and first balloon pilot, was nominated by President Roosevelt today to be a major general, before his retirement when he reaches the statutory age limit of 64 November 17.

Washingtonians will recall that Gen. Lahm made the first crosscountry flight in an airplane in 1909—a 10-mile trip from Fort Myer, Va., to Alexandria, Va., and return. His instructor on that occasion was Orville Wright, who accompanied him on the spetacular flight.

Gen. Lahm organized the Amerfcan lighter-than-air section of the A. E. F. during the World War and later was appointed commander of the Army Air Service. For his war services he was given the Distinguished Service Medal, the citation reading in part: "His broad service in aeronautics played an of policies of the air service."

Gen. Lahm began his craeer as a sky-blazer in 1905 by going to France to study aeronautics. Four years later he was a passenger in the first airplane used by the Army in military work. With Orville Wright in 1909 he set an endurance record, remaining in the air one hour 12 minutes and 40 seconds. Army officials said he probably was the first soldier of any country to make a solo flight.

Another of his records was that of winning the international balloon Man, backed into odds-on favortism, race in 1906, flying from Paris to thrilled his backers by taking com-Flying Derles, York County, Eng- mand at the break. Selections for a Fast Track at Havre de Grace

BEST BET-BALL PLAYER. FIFTH RACE—BALL PLAYER, CANROLL, GONDALINA. FIRST RACE-WITNESS STAND, INDIAN SUN, OUR

BLEN. WITNESS STAND has scored several nice triumphs this year. and his best effort should come close to copping the important money here. INDIAN SUN won his last at Washington Park and his early foot should have him in all the pace. OUR BLEN has worked well and the Bedwell colt is a threat.

SECOND RACE - CUCKOO-MAN, MISS HAPPY, CROIS-

SANT. CUCKOO-MAN has scored in 5 of 13 1941 tests and he appears to have a bit of an edge over the sort he hooks up with in this number. MISS HAPPY raced well in New England and she has to be given a lot of consideration. COISSANT is consistent and he is a sure contender.

THIRD RACE - BASILEUS. DAILY DUBLIN, SUN PAN. BASILEUS still is a maiden but he has shown smart form on several occasions and he appears to be much the best of this cheap opposition. Let's make him the best bet of the afternoon. DAILY DUBLIN is on the improve and he rates a good chance. SUN PAN might be the one to take the show.

FOURTH RACE - ON THE LEVEL, TOVARICH, HEDDA GAD.

ON THE LEVEL won her last at Aqueduct just before shipping to this strip and she has many other consistent tries to recommend her chances with these. TOVARICH was good on the smaller circuit and she could be hard to dispose of. HEDDA GAD has worked well and is due plenty of consideration.

Racing Results

BALL PLAYER has scored several cracker-tack triumphs and he has as good a chance as anything else in this wide-open affair. CANROLL has three wins and two seconds to show for five 1941 tries and he could be hard to dispose of. GONDALINA has excellent form to recommend her showing splendid speed in his morning moves and he may be ready for a tip-top try at the first local asking. TYR is cheap, but he has compiled an excellent record on the smaller ovals and must be given consideration. SCROOGE wins often and has a real chance in this.

SIXTH RACE-PANROASCOPE, TYR, SCROOGE. PANROASCOPE has been

SEVENTH RACE-UNKNOWN LAND, TAR ANNE, BUTCHER

BOY. UNKNOWN LAND is a consistent filly that threatened the best of them at Empire City in July. Her early speed should have her off on the head end of this procession and she may stick it out. TAR ANNE could improve and have a lot to say about the result. BUTCHER BOY could

EIGHTH RACE - CANSTING. MONEY MUDDLE, HELEN'S

LAD. CANSTING has been showing fair form in all of her outings and she may be able to outfoot this caliber of opposition. MONEY MUDDLE can better his recent disappointing tries and he has to be given a good chance. HEL-EN'S LAD won his last and he in all probability will be one of the more taxes for any purpose than are actually needed." Estimates have been furnished the House District Committee by John A. Marshall, executive officer of the local Unemployment Compensation Board, that approval of the bill before its Judiciary Subcommittee would save employers here about $3,000,000 a year in pay roll taxes. It would set up a sliding scale of rates which would keep them at a level four times in excess of the amount paid out in benefit claims, but would never go beyond the present 2.7 maximum or lower than the proposed one-half of 1 per cent

The bill before the Judiciary Subcommittee would supersede the Celler bill, should the former be enacted into law first, in so far as it applies to local employers. However, if the local bill is not enacted into law and the Celler bill is, the pay roll tax of District employers would drop from 2.7 to 2 per cent. When Representative Celler introduced his bill, he issued a lengthy mimeographed statement in which he said, in part: "A study of the law's operation

U. S. Ordered Movies Made as Defense Aid, Senate Probers Told

Officials Checked Those Who Wouldn't Use Film, Theater Owner Says

By J. A. O'LEARY.

Charges that a picture called "The Land of Liberty" was made at the request of the Government, and that the Government was interested in knowing of exhibitors who turned it down, were laid before the Senate Interstate Commerce Subcommittee investigating war films today by Senator Clark, Democrat, of Idaho,

The charges were contained in correspondence of the Senator received from Fulton Cook, owner of the Bungalo Theater in St. Marys, Idaho, who forwarded a letter he said he received from Maurice Saffle, branch manager of Loew's, Inc., in Seattle, after Mr. Cook had rejected "The Land of Liberty" film. Letter Submitted.

Written on the letterhead of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures, distributed by Loew's, the letter of Mr. Saffle read

"I note your letter of May 10 and I notice that among other eliminations you ask that we take out 'Land of Liberty.' I wonder if you realize just what this subject is and why we ask that you play it?

"Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is distributing the picture, at its expense, and putting it in place of one of our own features, on which we might show a profit. We are doing this at the request of the United States Government, who felt that every man, woman and child in America should see this subject during these times of national defense. In fact, they are so interested in the playing of the subject that we have been asked to wire immediately the names of those exhibitors who eliminate it. All rentals on the picture are turned over to the Government.

"In view of the above I am going to ask that you reconsider and try to find a date for this subject." Saffle to Testify.

Chairman Clark announced that the subcommittee would call Mr. Saffle and ask him where any orders came from in the Government. The Idaho Senator also prefaced today's hearing with the charge that at least 75 per cent of "the better known" newspaper columnists have been trying to "smear" the subcommittee's investigation since it started.

"Let me say to them now," Senator Clark admonished, "that that just couldn't have happened. It smacks of a conspiracy, and we are going to find out something about The picture "Land of Liberty, referred to by the Idaho theater owner in his letter to Chairman Clark, was described by film sources as a dramatization of the history of the United States made up of excerpts from many feature pictures and newsreels. Wood Says President Lacks Congressional Or Popular Backing

'Shoot First' Order Held Threat to Constitutional Powers of Legislature

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Gen. Robert E. Wood yesterday released a statement, which he said was signed by 58 prominent persons, declaring that President Roosevelt's recent shootfirst instruction to the Navy was "supported neither by congressional sanction nor by popular will."

The statement issued by Gen. Wood, who is national chairman of the America First Committee, said

"The President's speech of September 11 presents a grave threat to the constitutional powers of Congress and to the democratic principles of majority rule.

"• • The President has decreed that shooting will begin. His edict is supported neither by congressional sanction nor by popular will. It is authorized by no statute and undermines the constitutional provision which gives the war power to Congress alone.

"The American people • • • will expect their elected representatives to take quick action to restore public confidence and to insure the carrying out of the people's will."

Among the signers Gen. Wood listed were former Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma, Irvin S. Cobb, Alice Roosevelt Longworth, William L. Hutcheson, vice president of the American Federation of Labor; former Gov. Philip F. La Follette of Wisconsin, Robert L. Ripley, Catholic Archbishop Francis J. L. Beckman of Dubuque, Bishop Gerald Shaughnessy of Seattle and Bishop John A. Duffy of Buffalo.

300 Persons March and Republican—than by backing In Profest Against Police 'Brutality'

Parade Sections Converge October 4. Calls for additional in-At Tenth and U Streets For Mass Meeting

A parade starting from several sections of the city and numbering trants will be inducted October 7 about 300 persons marched to Tenth and U streets N.W. yesterday afternoon for a mass metting sponsored by the Citizens' Committee Against Police Brutality.

Many of the marchers, made up in large part of small children, carried placards and chanted, "Old Jim Crow has gotta' go," and "Fifty more Negro cops."

A hearse and undertaker's automobile carried signs in memory of several persons shot in recent months by police. Signs carried by marchers included: "Let's Beat Fascism at Home and Abroad," "We Want No Fascist Cops" and "Police Are Public Servants, Not Op-

A banner was carried by a group for the United Cafeteria Employes, Local No. 471 of the C. I. O., and a number of signs were carried bearing the name of the local branch of the Workers' party, which distributed its national publication, Labor Action, through the crowd.

Prof. Wilkerson Presides. The speakers were introduced by Prof. Doxey Wilkerson of Howard University, who also presided at the protest conference of the committee the Sunday before. He told the audience that police brutality had developed here and said, "We are insistent that it shall stop.'

The Rev. Frank W. Alstork, president of the Minister's Alliance of Washington and pastor of Union Wesley Church, said: "We're going to stop police brutality. We don't believe in fighting. We have money in our pockets and we have talentwhite and colored. We're going to stop the rattlesnakes in town with Other speakers included: Henry Thomas of the C. I. O. Construction Workers, Vincent Craig, secretary, Workers' Industrial Council, C. I. O.: Dorothy Strange, secretary of the Sponsoring Committee; Frank Donner, chairman of the Case Committee of the Brutality Committee, and Dr. William A. Hunton, vice president of the National Negro Congress and connected with Howard University.

Mr. Craig said that "although we will take Maj. Kelly at his word," that he will not tolerate police brutality, it is necessary to watch the Police Department. At the meeting last week, Acting Supt. of Police Edward J. Kelly promised the conference that "as long as I am head of the Police Department I will not tolerate violence against citizens or Citizens' Trial Board Asked. Before closing the outdoor meeting by having the throng shout three times, "Police brutality has got to go," Prof. Wilkerson said, "We want democracy in Washington and we are going to get it." He warned that so long as we have Fascist tendencies, such as police brutality, we "shall not have a united front capable of stopping Fascism abroad."

The paraders started from Seventh and L streets N.E., First and H streets S.W., Fifth and L streets N.W., and Twenty-fifth and I streets N.W. The various parts met at Tenth and T streets N.W.

Petitions citing the six demands of the committee, were distributed for signatures. These demands are: One, that a policeman who recently shot two colored brothers be suspended and held for grand jury investigation; two, that Maj. Kelly deal with the problem of police brutality and that he order the police manual regulations on use of firearms read at precinct roll calls: three, that a citizen's trial board replace the present Police Trial Board; four, that 50 Negro appointments be made out of the 185 ordered for the District, and that a Negro be named captain of No. 2 precinct; five, that police shall place charges immediately against persons arrested or detained, and, six, that compensation be granted dependents of those killed by police.

Aide to Harriman In Moscow Parley Is Soviet Expert

Faymonville Was One of Few Military Men to Predict Red Successes

Col. Philip R. Faymonville, American Army ordnance officer, who arrived in London today on his way to Moscow as secretary of the United States mission to Russia headed by W. Averell Harriman, was one of the few military men outside Russia who gave the Red armies a chance against Germany when the Russo-Nazi War began in June.

Convention Asked By Sergt. York to Lead In Shaping U. S. Policy

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 15 .- National Comdr. Milo J. "We still hate Hitlerism. We still hate Communism and all that it implies," Mr. Warner asserted.

"Stalin is simply defending his country from attack by Hitler. Whatever aid Stalin can give in resisting Hitler is, incidentally, of benefit to sincere peoples everywhere. That does not call for any change of attitude toward the Communist party in the United States.

Greater Vigilance Urged. "Rather does the Russian situation compel a redoubling of our vigilance over Communists and other subversive agents in our country because the circumstances are inclined to influence a relaxation of our

Sergt. York spoke last night at a religious-patriotic service. An avowed interventionist, Sergt. York urged the Legion to stay out of politics but to take a big hand in shaping the Nation's foreign policy "For we who are here have learned a lesson," he said. Reports of standing committees including that of the national defense group, which recommended that geographic limitations of the use of American troops be abolished, will be turned over today to new committees. They will draw up the recommendations on which the convention will act before adjournment

Denies Movie Is Propaganda.

The Defense Committee proposed a permanent system of universal military training, a permanent twoocean Navy, fortification of all American islands suitable for defense purposes and acquisition by peaceful means of any other islands that could be used for defense.

Sergt. York, whose life has been depicted in a movie, disagreed with the statement of Senator Nye, Republican, of North Dakota, noninterventionist, that the picture bearing his name is propaganda.

"If the story of my life is propaganda, then so is this very convention, because the simple story of my life revolved around the same great experiences that yours does.' he said, "if our lives are propaganda, and Senator Nye is against all propaganda, then he should start immediately to tear up all the history books in the country."

Evidencing a commendable appreciation of local water problems, Chairman McCarran has called on the Commissioners to defer action on the water rate question pending a special inquiry which he has ordered into the whole system of financing and operating the National Capital's water supply. The Commissioners today began a study of budget estimates by the various municipal departments, but in view of Commissioner Young's forthright denunciation of the water rate boost suggestion and Chairman McCarran's request that consideration of the proposal be delayed, the Water Department estimates and recommendations undoubtedly will be laid | with undiminished confidence upon aside for the time being.

Meanwhile the Commissioners will have had the benefit of information obtained by Chairman McCarran in his investigation of Washington's water supply problems. Counsel Camalier of the Senate District Committee has been directed to study the dual control arrangement under which the Commissioners and the Army engineers divide responsibility for serving the city with water, to report on the quantity of water supplied free to Federal and municipal properties and to ascertain whether there is waste of water in the District. Such an inquiry should be enlightening. It will show, with other things, that District citizens are paying all of the increasingly heavy water bills of the Federal Government in Washington. With heavy capital expenditures necessary to meet the mounting demands of Federal public buildings, it is high time that the Federal Government assumed a reasonable and equitable share of the financing burdens. It is to be hoped that the committee's investigation will result in a lightening of these burdens on local citizens rather than in any such increase as that advocated by the Water Department.

The Army Maneuvers

Millions of defense-minded Amerieans will await with absorbing interest the results of two weeks of realistic war games that start today between the Second and Third Armies "somewhere" in a vast area of East Texas and North Central Louisiana-the first of their kind ever held by the United States in the face of a threatened war and on a scale, also, never before attempted by any other military power.

These all-out maneuvers and those that follow next month in the Carolinas for the First and Fourth Armies culminate a year of intensive training for most of the men constituting our field forces. For the men's own protection in the event of hostilities, it should hearten their countrymen to know that the training they are receiving far exceeds in scope, value and thoroughness that given the nearly 3,000,000 American doughboys of twenty-three years ago, who were sent across the Atlantic to pit. at first, little more than their matchless spirit and elementary soldering against a veteran German Army. From the viewpoint of preparedness the maneuvers have three main objectives. First, they will serve to demonstrate how well all of the elements and supporting arms of this new and untried military machine can function in unison, as they must do for success in carrying out the tactical phases associated with a war of rapid movement and surprise. A great deal of responsibility for that rests upon the men in the ranks.

Even more important at this stage is the acid test that is going to be applied to leadership in the field, from top-ranking commanders all the way down the line. The Army is convinced that "for weal or woe," ion that non-essential Government ewes it to the enlisted men, who can the United States has become so expenditures could be reduced. At only obey orders, to give them the | deeply "involved" in the war and | least it is a fascinating idea with best leaders it can. War Department is now engaged in | carious that it would be dangerous, a purge of the misfits and the inefficient. By their individual performance in the war games, the future use to the Army of many of its officers will and should be judged.

Furthermore, the 30,000 square miles of maneuvering area in East Texas and Louisiana, chosen for its rivers, bayous and treacherous underfooting, should provide an admirable proving ground to test the durability and performance of both motorized and mechanized equipment under the extreme difficulties of simulated warfare. In like manner, the ordeals of the next two weeks will disclose as in no other way possible in peacetime, the physical stamina and morale of the men themselves. On each of these counts, the War Department is confident

Manchurian Anniversary

It is just ten years ago this week since Japan invaded Manchuria, thereby precipitating a chain of consequences which has kept the whole Far East in turmoil and which also raised a diplomatic controversy between Japan and the United States that has never been settled. This sinister anniversary offers a good occasion to survey the background of present Japanese-American negotiations, in order to estimate their true value.

When Japan took her fateful step a decade ago she realized its seriousness, yet felt impelled by what her leaders deemed stern necessity. The enduring basis of Japanese foreign policy must be her relations with China. So long as China remained a decrepit Oriental empire, it could not menace Japan's ambition to dominate the Far East. . In 1912 the decadent imperial regime was overthrown by a revolution led by men who aspired to transform China into a nation-state on the Western model. much as Japan had been transformed half a century before. This deeply alarmed Japanese statesmen, because China so vastly outweighs Japan in size, population and natural resources that, if transformed along Western lines and endowed with a national spirit, it would automatically dwarf the Island Empire ing the Japanese imperial dream on which its heart was set and for which so much had already been sacrificed.

For a while, Japan's first fit of alarm was appeased by the fact that the revolution did not at once produce national unification, but rather a welter of factional quarrels and civil wars which threatened to reduce China to anarchy. During the Great War which convulsed Europe after 1914, Japan tried to get a grip on anarchic China and guide its evolution to its own profit. This attempt was balked mainly by the opposition of the United States, which stood firmly on its traditional policy of supporting Chinese sovereignty and insisting on the "open door" for foreign trade. That was the real beginning of the Japanese-American controversy over China which persists so acutely today.

After a long period of domestic turmoil, the seeds of national regeneration sown in China by the republican revolution began to bear fruit. By 1930, China was clearly finding herself, and a strong, unified national government was only a matter of time. Furthermore, Japan's attempts to interfere in the process tended to make Chinese nationalism anti-Japanese in character. Japanese statesmen were thus confronted with the hard choice of either adjusting themselves to an increasingly powerful Chinese nation-state or of imposing their will on China while it was still possible to do so. The invasion of Manchuria marked the choice for a policy of force. It is possible that Japan might have succeeded, at least for a time, if America had not again stepped into the breach. Washington's resolute stand encouraged the League of Nations to its condemnation of the Manchurian invasion and likewise heartened China's leaders to resist. That resistance led, in turn, to Japan's invasion of China proper in 1937, which has bogged down the Island Empire so disastrously. That frightful war has done more than anything else to hammer China into a national unity inspired by hatred of Japan and relying on America for aid and inspiration. But this renders America, in Japanese eyes, the ultimate obstacle to the success of a policy which is considered vital to Japan's national future.

Such is the background against which current negotiations between Washington and Tokio can be evaluated. Unless Japan scraps her traditional foreign policy or we abandon our traditional Far Eastern policy, it is hard to see how a genuine settlement can be arrived at, though a temporary truce is possible.

an earlier day, the Zilpha, the Commerce of Newburyport and the Cincinnatus of Baltimore, and see how history treads again and again down the same path. The vessels of unfamiliar names were American ships seized in 1796 and 1797 by the French, fighting against the British in a conflict that spilled into the Atlantic. Those outrages climaxed a long series of insults and irritations which Washington had suffered from Paris, and the result was an undeclared naval war by the United States against France. Today the parallels exist. From Germany we have had insults (more moderate than those from the French of the Revolution). Ships have been not seized but sunk. And now, since President Roosevelt's shoot-first pronouncement of Thursday night, seemingly we are in an undeclared naval

The first American undeclared naval war ran three years, from 1798 to 1800. It might have begun a year earlier, but the United States in 1797 had no Navy. Congress passed a swift succession of acts, one of which brought into being the Navy Department; and on May 24, 1798, the first ship in the new Navy, the Ganges, sailed out to sea from Philadelphia.

The Ganges was a merchantman in the India service, bought by the Federal Government and equipped for fighting. On May 28, Capt. Dale, her commander, received orders directing him "to seize, take and bring into any port of the United States" any French armed vessel "which shall have committed, or which shall be found hovering on the coast of the United States for the purpose of committing, depredations on the vessels belonging to the citizens thereof."

That order marked the real beginning of the Franco-American conflict, which stands yet as the only occasion of hostilities between the two countries-although the odd position of Vichy may yet disturb that long record of harmony. The French approached war with the United States vaguely. The captain of the privateer Croyable, first French vessel taken by an American ship, protested that he had received no news of war between his country and America. The Crovable's commander in ignorance ran her for refuge into Delaware Bay when he was pursued by the U. S. frigate Delaware, which he thought was an English man of war. The first considerable American victory came in the running fight between the U. S. S. Constellation and the French frigate L'Insurgente. They fell upon each other in the Leeward Islands, a favorite haunt of French privateers, and into a second-class power, thus end- after a spirited battle L'Insurgente surrendered. Gen. Etienne Desfourneaux. governor of the French West Indian colony of Guadeloupe, was indignant when he heard the news, and he promptly declared war upon the United States. Desfourneaux previously had made a gesture toward ordering an end to the indignities suffered by American merchant ships at the hands of privateers working out of Guadeloupe.

Under Capt. Alexander Murray, Secretary of the Navy Benjamin Stoddert sent L'Insurgente, refitted as an American vessel, to Europe, to search for French vessels close to their home waters, but won no prizes in Europe. From Lisbon Murray wrote to Stoddert:

"I had 30 days' passage to this port but could have been in here in three weeks but for chasing everything we saw, all of which we overhauled except one vessel, which we lost sight of in the night. Since passing the Azores we have boarded 30 vessels of different nations, but the greater part British, and met with but one ship of war, from whence you may judge of the unprotected state of their trade as well as our own in those

Thomas Truxton effected the capture of L'Insurgente, and he was the most notable figure of the war with France. Commodore John Barry, whose statue stands in Franklin Park, was the American Navy's senior officer. David Porter, of War of 1812 fame, was a midshipman under Truxton. Most of the actions they participated in took place in the general vicinity of the West Indies, for reasons which Gardner W. Allen, historian of our quasi-war with France, thus re-

"The great commercial importance of the West Indies made this region one of the principal centers of naval activity during the European war. These islands were to a great extent dependent upon the neighboring continent for provisions, and a very large share in the West India trade fell to the United States. For this reason American shipping was peculiarly exposed to the aggression of the belligerents. * * * Four decrees were issued by French agents in the West Indies between August, 1796, and February, 1797; these decrees directed the seizure of American vessels if loaded with contraband, or if bound to or from English ports."

The famous frigate Constitution was launched in the midst of that war. She would have been in service before the firing began, but she stuck in the ways in her Boston shipyard at her first scheduled launching in May, 1797, then slid in the water so vigorously that she was damaged and had to be rebuilt. So she was not put in service until October, 1798. The whole American naval force used during the war amounted to 45 vessels. Twenty-one of them were built for the Navy, 11 were bought, 5 captured and 8 transferred from the Treasuryrevenue cutters.

The vigorous display of American intention to defend her commerce and her dignity, and the success which the United States enjoyed in the display, impressed the French government, the Directoire. As early as the summer of 1798, Tallyrand, French Foreign Minister. showed an interest in arranging an end to the informal hostilities. The Convention of Peace, Commerce and Navigation that halted the war was concluded September 30, 1800. But in the years from 1801 to 1812, when Napoleon was at war with England, the French seized another 558 American ships. The claims for | between the situation during the Nathese losses never were satisfied.

Letters to the Editor

Readers Discuss Mr. Lindbergh's Iowa Speech.

To the Editor of The Star: I listened to the speech of Charles A. Lindbergh and between the boos and applause which punctuated his address I was able to discern some facts.

First, that it is his purpose to create racial antipathy. That his motives are certainly ulterior and that he is the mouthpiece of some who are less daring in their utterances and who are using him as a smoke screen to hide their own activities.

The Constitution provides freedom of press and of speech, but that does not give any individual or set of individuals license to foment strife at critical periods in our history. Just as a wild horse requires a curb, so do the wild sayings of irresponsible persons who are allowed by this freedom to give untrammeled rein to propaganda. J. O. WATERS.

To the Editor of The Star: May I comment on Mr. Lindbergh's latest speech? I am curious to know how he will try to substantiate the fantastic claims he makes, if he is required to do so.

Does he have access to the secret files of the Government?

He says that: "If it were not for her hope that she could make the United States responsible . . . I believe that England would have negotiated a peace in Europe many months ago and would be better off for doing so."

Nothing seems to shake his faith in his own powers of prognostication. Only a few weeks ago he was jeering at the "warmongers" for daring to suspect that Hitler might have intentions of attacking Russia.

Mr. Lindbergh assailed the lease-lend program for sending a major part of American plane production abroad. How does he know so much about what we produce and how many planes we send to which places? Has he an espionage system of his own? Again, he says: "The American Army has only a few hundred thoroughly modern bombers and fighters, less, in fact, than Germany is able to produce in a month." How does he know what Germany is able to produce? If he is hoping to scare Americans by his defeatist talk, he certainly is using the wrong tactics. LAURA K. POLLOCK. To the Editor of The Star:

Evidently, all of the crimes committed by Hitler against humanity did not impress Mr. Lindbergh, did not produce in him the reaction of horror, indignation and revulsion that comes to one witness-

Approves Criticism

Of Investigation of Movies. To the Editor of The Star:

I agree with Henry McLemore: Of all the illogical, ridiculous actions, the present investigation of the moving picture industry, for making anti-Hitler films, surely takes the cake. Hitler and Mussolini must be splitting their sides!

I thought freedom of expression was one of the freedoms of America. But if the movie magnates can be investigated and denounced for producing films expressing their views, the official views of this Government and the views of a majority of the American people, then there is little freedom left in America and no common sense.

Had there been a magnate willing to produce an unpopular film depicting the other side, no one would have prevented him from doing so. Are we, then, to have freedom of expression for the minority but not for the majority?

Were there no Lindberghs willing to go on the air, would the radio industry have to produce one or be investigated? Were there no newspapers expressing the Hitler or isolationist viewpoint, would the newspaper industry have to create one or be investigated?

Furthermore, here we are officially, definitely and irrevocably committed to help England to defeat Hitler. All of our energies (supposedly, at least) are being bent in that direction. We have appropriated millions of dollars for that purpose. We have sent and are sending our airplanes, ships, tanks and other implements of war, and food to feed the fighters and people of England. Thousands of our young men are being trained to cope with the menace of Hitlerism. Every American is feeling and will continue to feel the burden of taxes to finance our huge program. We ousted the Italian and German consuls for engaging in propaganda and subversive activity. We fired on Hitler's submarine when it tried to sink a destroyer of our neutrality" patrol.

And then we investigate anti-Hitler films. It could only happen here. PAULINE D. TAYLOR.

Isolationists Masters of Strategy

Declared to Have Upper Hand Regarding Movies and Radio

By DAVID LAWRENCE. It isn't often that President Roosevelt is outwitted where a matter of congressional strategy is concerned but Senator Wheeler and the teoletionists certainly have gotten the upper hand today in the control of two important mediums of expression - radio and the movies. The Wheeler have been possible, of course, except for mistakes made by some of the David Lawrence. President's own appointees. It was James L. Fly, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, who assumed that Congress had delegated power to intimidate and coerce the radio networks, and if Congress really has such power over what is broadcast over the radio it is natural for the man who is chairman of the all-important committee in the Senate to want to exercise that power first hand. As matters stand today, an actual count of the time given to the isolationist viewpoint on the air far outnumbers the hours given to the other side. If any of the isolationist group wants time on the air, they get it at once-so apprehensive are the radio systems of governmental authority to ruin their businesses. But if it hadn't been for Mr. Fly's interpretation of his powers, which Mr. Roosevelt certainly did nothing to challenge, radio today would not be giving the isolationists a disproportionate amount of time but would be judging all viewpoints on their merits and giving them equal

Power to Intimidate.

The same thing is about to happen to certain newspapers owning broadcasting stations. Unless they toe the mark in the use of their radio stations, the licenses may be taken from them. The F. C. C. under Mr. Fly has already done what Mr. Wheeler is doing to the movies, namely to find out what the attitude of the newspapers is toward radio news and other matters that heretofore have been conaidered immune from interference under the Bill of Rights of the Constitution. Presumably unless some of these newspapers which own broadcasting stations curry favor . with Mr. Fly or Mr. Wheeler they will find themselves losing their

As for the movies, they, too, have some under the control of the isolationists in Congress. For hereafter the producers will be afraid to exercise their independent judgment as to what the public wants and will instead seek to satisfy what members of Congress think ought to be dramatized or presented in the movies. The Senate of the United States can, under its rules, put a stop to any inquiry that amounts to intimidation, but as long as a majority of the Senate do not lift a finger to prevent the abuse of the congressional investigating committee device, the isolationists cannot be blamed for doing what the administration itself has

What America is witnessing is exactly the thing President Roosevelt once predicted, namely that such controls and devices are being set up under the New Deal which are all right under a people's government, as he phrased it, but in the hands of the intolerant or the arbitrary groups would put shackles on a free people. That time has arrived. The administration must now see how power to intimidate seized by an isolationist group can work and how in the hands some day of still more intolerant groups, it may wreck havoc with the whole Bill of Rights.

Stirring Up Hatred.

The spectacle of a senatorial committee stirring up religious and racial hatreds and a committee of citizens in the Midale West sanctioning speeches by Col. Lindbergh that libel races of foreign or American born citizens is one that is not calculated to bring unity. If any class of Americans, whether they be Poles or Czechs or Russians or Britons or French or Jews or Catholics or Protestants, are to be accused of trying to drag this country into war because of what is happening to some of their former countrymen abroad or if Germans, Italians and Irish In the United States are to be accused broadly of trying to help Hitler win, then America is in for the very discord which the Nazis have been trying to implant in all neutral countries. Col. Lindbergh, Senator Wheeler and the isolationists have been bitterly attacked and often wrongfully, but two wrongs do not make a right. Intolerance merely begets intolerance and hate breeds more hate. A voice of conciliation and good will needs to be raised in Congress as between Americans for only by devotion to the basic teachings of Christ can the legislators of a country which is so preponderantly Christian exercise wisely the privileges of a democracy.

Danger to U. S. Morale Is Seen In Fighting Partial or 'Phony War'

By DOROTHY THOMPSON. There is an inescapable logic governing the dealings between any single nation and the rest of the world. Internally, societies of people may act in a ters, masters of their own des-

But they also live, as a nation, in a world of other nations, with whom they have relationships. And in their relations with the rest of the world they are not the execlusive masters of their destinies. A nation may, for instance, be committed to legitimate, representative, liberal government, and peace with all nations. Yet it may lose all these things without taking any action at all, wholly through the act of another nation, as Holland and Norway have.

A nation may be immensely strong and perfectly able to defend itself given one set of conditions outside its own borders. but should conditions change it can find itself, without any action whatsoever on its own part, utterly weak and defenseless, even when its own numbers, arms and resources have in no way diminished.

Britain, in 1937, was one of the strongest nations on earth. But her strength lay in the presumption that she had nothing to fear from the continent of Europe. The presumption was false because her leaders had failed to understand the nature of the forces that were accumulating in one nation on the continent, and which would, in a very short time, bring the danger of national extermination to her

In a world in which there are no restrictions on national sovereignty and no police force to prevent the use of force by single nations, that nation is safest which has a consistent and longestablished foreign policy which the whole world knows can be challenged only at the risk of war. The United States has had, in its history, only three consistent policies: Freedom of the seas, the Monroe Doctrine and the open door in the Far East.

As the President pointed out, the first of these policies is so long established that both Adams and Jefferson simply ordered their navies to clear the seas of raiders on shipping, without any consultation with Congress. We fought the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812 and the great war over this issue. We avoided many other wars while keeping the seas free for ourselves by having a clear policy. But in our own days we set this policy adrift when in 1937 Congress passed the Neutrality Act, which had the unique distinction of being a one-way pledge to restrict our own freedom of action without any quid pro quo from other powers. The Neutrality Act was due to an error of thinking that in foreign policy a nation can decide its destiny however it wants it. The act was only an invitation to be pushed around and an invitation to aggression.

The aggressions began very soon. After war broke out in the west it was perfectly apparent to the American people, who are often brighter than their Congressmen, where our interests lay, and they supported by large majorities a succession of steps to protect those interests. Of these, the raising of the embargo on supplies to Britain, the Selective Service Act, the lend-lease bill and the occupation of Iceland on invitation of the Icelandic government were the high spots. But these acts, like the Neutrality Act, immediately had international results; all of them involved the will of the Nazi government.

The Nazi government had to decide whether to intervene to prevent these acts from being effective, and whether to risk war with the United States. International law never entered into the picture. The Nazi war plan goes on the assumption that a nation that completely disregards all inhibitions and strikes at its own pleasure and in its own time will always have the advantage.

Neutrality or non-neutrality, isolation or non-isolation are judged by whether they are useful or harmful to the Nazis. Holland was neutral and isolationist, but Dutch neutrality and isolation did not serve Nazi interests so they were violated. American isolation, at this stage of the game, would be useful to the Nazis so the arguments for it are put into the mouths of the Lind-

But for us the question becomes: Shall we abandon our policy because the Germans don't accept it and are intervening against it with armed force? Again, we cannot make that decision as though it were purely a domestic matter, for the abandonment of the policy would be an even more cataclysmic act than to continue it.

Were it abandoned the pro-American government of Churchill would fall, the resistance to Hitler of the European peoples be broken, and in a few months' time we would face Hitler alone. with all the advantages of manpower and resources and arms on his side, and without an ally in the world.

But failure to see the policy through would also have terrific internal repercussions. For while it is true that domestic policy does not always influence foreign policy, the reverse is never true. Failure to see the present policy through would leave the Roosevelt government without authority, the country divided. and the nation open to every Pascist intrigue that is rife. And at no future time could we face Hitler again under as favorable circumstances.

Seeing the policy through means, right now, a naval warwhether it is called war or something else. It is unavoidable unless we wish to set our whole future affoat.

But we are engaged in a limited war, confined to the seas, under seriously adverse conditions. First, we still leave the initiative to Hitler. Second, though a limited war is on, but not declared as war, every fifth columnist and defeatist in the country can continue to sabotage the defense effort, attempt to break down morale and allow himself to be a sounding board for Dr. Goebbels.

The preposterous publicity stunt against the Government's foreign policy, with the motion picture industry as scapegoat can continue, paid for by the taxpayers, with a phony Senate committee conducting an "investigation," in which four of the five members have prejudged the case and are acting as procecutors, witness, judge, with the public as audience. Mr. Lindbergh can continue to talk what would be, were war declared, high treaTHE opinions of the writers on this page are their own, not necessarily The Star's. So long as these prohibitions remain in force this Nation is in the position of a man who goes into action to defend his home with one hand tied behind him. If, as the President says, Hitler's purpose is to dominate the Atlantic and then dominate ourselves, clearly the sooner Hitler is crushed, the less the cost to us. To fight a partial and limited war against totalitarian powers making total war, is taking a gamble with luck, which is dangerous both internally and externally. It is likely to put the country into that somnolent "phony war" period that brought about the complete collapse of the morale in France. And here as in France there are persons who would assist that collapse.

Therein lies the greatest danger to the United States.

U. S. Peace Talks With Japan Worry Chinese, Who Fear Appeasement Moves

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.

The Chinese poet-Ambassador, Dr. Hu Shih, is worried. He continues to smile affably but admits to his friends in the State Department that he and his chief, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, are deeply concerned over the present peace talks with Japan. They fear that China will be called on to pay for the broken

There is nothing the Chinese leaders and people desire more than a peaceful settlement of the Far Eastern problem. The war in that area was not of their making. In years past they did not mind a few civil wars; they were mild and, generally speaking inconsequential affairs. But the almost continual 10-year-old war with Japan was more than the Chinese bargained for. "If this state of affairs continues," says the Chinese Ambassador, "we shall soon be as strife-ridden and chaotic as Europe."

But there is a wide gap between the desire for peace and seeing their country chopped up in order to appease Tokio. And China's leaders fear the wind is now blowing in that direction.

Gen. Chiang Kai-shek bases this belief on the fact that we and the British have treated China like a step-child. The communiques issued after the historic meeting between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill did not even mention China. Russia got its lion's share of attention but China was overlooked. The Chinese diplomats fully understand that neither of the two statesmen wanted to provoke Japan at a time when important conversations were going on in Tokio and in Washington-when we presented the Japanese with a choice between the clive branch and the dagger. But all the same, the Chinese point out, they, too, have been fighting the battle of Great Britain and have put many a barrier in Japan's way by their determined resistance. The Chinese maintain that had it not been for the stubbornness of their armies in the field-armies which have been opposing the formidable Japanese military machine virtually with their bare breastswho knows whether Japan would not even today be in Hong Kong, Singapore and Batavia. The Chinese resistance has not been as spectacular as the Russian. But Chiang's warriors have been a heavy drain on Nippon's resources.

It is true that after Chiang's pique over the slight to his country was reported in Washington, President Roosevelt sent a military mission-headed by Gen. John Magruder—to China to look into the situation. The Chinese need help; there is no question of it. They have no mechanised forces. They have only a few bombers and an insufficient number of pursuit planes. But they are realists. They know it would be difficult for this country to send them artillery and tanks. But they do expect airplanes. A number are now in Burma; more are on the way. Chiang's officers don't object when China gets the left-overs, after the British and the Dutch have picked out what they need. They consider this only natural and legitimate because they know that the threat to Singapore and the Netherlands Indies is greater than that facing China. If the British and Dutch possessions were to fall to Japan, there is little that the United States and Britain could do to assist China. The Chinese are patient people. They feel they can wait to be served after everybody else has had a big helping from Uncle well that many worthy nations fighting for their independence have been sacrified to the aggressor at the green baize table of the diplomats. Only very recently Great Britain and France, after warning Italy of the direst consequences if it took Ethiopia. recognized the conquest of that country. It took another World War to restore Emperor Haile Selassie's empire.

Might Recognize Conquest.

Rumors circulating in Washington and London that the United States and Great Britain are ready to recognize the conquest of Manchukuo as a price for Japan's abandoning the Axis. do not particularly worry the realistic head of the Chinese republic. But he and his advisers chunks of China the big-hearted democracies may turn over to Tokio as a price for deserting the dictators.

Chiang is also afraid that in the event he opposes the cession of a major part of the coast of China to the Japanese, he may be called an obstructionist.

At the present time while the purpose if it were made exclusively at the expense of the Chi-

But the leaders of the Chinese republic are worried over the American-Japanese "peace" conversations. They are afraid the American diplomats may take a very broad point of view and promise the Japanese large chunks of China in the hope of appeasement. And this, apparently, Chiang Kai-shek is determined to resist. Like all Chinese, he is a born politician. He also knows the diplomatic history of the world. He knows only too

McLemore-

Suggests Citizens Save Ickes' Face

By HENRY McLEMORE. Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their Ickes. No, this isn't a typewriting exercise, but a plea for Americans to > rally to the support of that shy, conscientious, shrinking and hard - working meddler. Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior and National Petroleum Coordinator.

Not in the memory of the oldest citizens has a cabinet officer been so dangerously far out on a limb as Ickes is today. He is 2 feet farther out than the average possum can get, even when treed by three hounds and a farmer with a shot-

Ickes started getting out on the limb a few months ago when he decided there was a tremendous shortage of gasoline in the East. No one knows exactly what made him decide this but the most plausible explanation is that his best suit came back from the cleaners without the smell of gasoline on it, and he proceeded to sound the alarm.

Having made up his mind that there was a petroleum shortage. Ickes went to work with a vengeance to make every one else believe it. He issued statements on the hour, every hour; he put a curfew on filling stations; he rationed the stuff and he urged the construction of a pipe line that would wind, boa constrictor-like, from Texas to Times Square.

Now, the Senate Oil Investigating Committee has unanimously reported that there is no shortage of gasoline on the Eastern seaboard. You can see where that leaves Ickes. The first impulse of those of us who have been caught on highways at night with no gasoline because of the curfew, and who littered our windshields with Ickes' "I save gas" stickers to such an extent that we had to drive with our heads out of the windows to see where we were going, is to saw off the limb he's on and let him fall with one of his own "jackrabbit

But on sober reflection that isn't the thing to do. We must all come to his help. And the best way for us to help him is to do our very best to create a gasoline shortage, thereby saving Ickes' face.

National unity is what we need in this country right now. We mi present a solid front to the world, even if that front be Ickes' stuffed shirt front. We cannot afford at this time to lose any prestige in the eyes of the other nations of the world, and we certainly will if we don't help Ickes out of the tough spot he is in. As an American I don't want to admit to the world that one of our highest cabinet officers is the sort of statesman who can't tell the diference between lots of gasoline and no gasoline, or who doesn't know 22,000 empty tank cars from no tank cars. That's a lot of tank cars, brother, for a man to overlook. You might excuse a fellow for not seeing 21,000 tank cars, but 22,000 tank cars-well, that's something else again.

So, let's get together and create a shortage that Ickes, from his vantage point on the limb, can point to with pride. This won't be easy, but here are a few helpful hints on how to waste gasoline. Don't walk a step. Even if you to buy a paper, drive around the block in your car to get to the newsstand. Always leave your motor running when you park.

are only going across the street

Drive in a series of "jack-rabbit"

Adjust your own carburetor so that even with lots of coasting down hill you can't possibly get more than 5 miles a gallon out of your Drive with your tires as nearly flat as possible. This creates a drag that just eats up gasoline. Use only high test gasoline in removing those "save gas" stickers that Ickes has us plaster all over our cars.

If all of us will co-operate and observe these gasoline wasting measures, there is no reason why by this time next year this country can't have a gasoline shortage second to none, and thus make it unnecessary for the President to appoint a co-ordinator whose job it would be to co-ordinate Mr. Ickes, the petroleum co-ordinator. Come on down, Mr. Ickes, all is

HAZLETON, Pa., Sept. 15 (A) .-For the third time more than 10,000 Pennsylvania hard coal miners disregarded orders from their union leaders today and continued a work stoppage that has closed 14 collieries. The motorcade, from the Panther Creek Valley where the protest originated, was delayed for half an hour by a barricade of logs across a highway on the outskirts of Hazleton. State police said the logs apparently were placed there by miners wanting to return to work. At another point, the troopers reported, one of the insurgents' cars was overturned but no one was injured. Garrett Miller, leader of the protesting group, organized the motorcade after Hugh V. Brown, District 7 president, broadcast an order to the 10,000 miners to return to their

Harriman Mission Reaches London on Way to Moscow

Group Will Continue on Soon to Red Capital For Aid Parley

By the Associated Press. wing of the R. A. F. reported already in action against Germany on the eastern front, the entire United States mission to Moscow has arrived to Russia. in Britain for stop-over talks before continuing on to the Russian capital for consultation with the British and Russians on how to beat Adolf Hitler.

The R. A. F. units now in Russia were only the advance guard of greater forces to go, informed quarters indicated, and the British press carried reports that American-made planes already were in the service of the Red Air Force.

Junior members of the American with the Russian Ambassador to Washington, Constantin Oumansky, Northern Russian front. after a trans-Atlantic plane flight, and the American Embassy announced today that W. Averell Harriman, head of the mission, and the remainder of the delegation had arrived "somewhere in the United Kingdom." Mr. Harriman arrived in London late today. Anxious to Get to Moscow.

The delegation has been commissioned, with its British counterpart, to study with the Russians all means of speeding supplies and weapons of war to the Russian front

"We are anxious to get to Moscow as soon as we can," Mr. Harriman said. "We shall have consultations with Lord Beaverbrook (British Minister of Supply) and then hope to get away as soon as possible."

Mr. Harriman and other members of the mission arrived in London by air from "somewhere in the United Kingdom," where they had landed earlier in the day in the bomber which carried them across the Atlantic.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden greeted Mr. Harriman at an airdrome near London. Others in the reception party included the Russian Ambassador to London, Ivan Maisky; the United States Ambassador to London, John G. Winant; Lord Beaverbrook, Capt. Harold Balfour, British Undersecretary for Air, and John D. Biggers, Washington's lease-lend representative in London. Had "Excellent" Trip.

Mr. Harriman's daughter, Kathleen, also was waiting for him. First he rushed forward to greet her and then turned to Mr. Eden, Lord Beaverbrook and Ambassador Maisky, shaking hands warmly and calling Lord Beaverbrook "Max." Several of Mr. Harriman's colleagues were in of shaves. They exp they had had no time for such mat-

"We had an excellent trip," Mr. Harriman said before he motored to the United States Embassy with his daughter and Ambassador Winant. Arriving with Mr. Harriman were these members of the mission: Admiral W. H. Standley, Maj. Gen. James H. Burns and William L. Batt. Also on the plane were Lt. Gen. Stanley D. Embrick and Capt. Frank P. Thomas, U. S. N.

One of the group said that the only member not now in London is Mai. Gen. George Brett, "who will probably go to Moscow by a route other than London." Gen. Brett is with the British forces in Egypt. One Wing Reaches Soviet.

Arrival of the first British flyers in Russia was disclosed yesterday in a brief announcement that one wing of the R. A. F.—a self-contained unit with full flying and ground personnel-had reached the Soviet. Before the war a wing normally contained three squadrons, but the present strength of such a unit-as well as the number of planes in a squadron-is a military secret.

It was presumed, however, that the newly-arrived unit consisted of fighter aircraft, probably speedy Hurricanes and Spitfires such as have formed the first line of defense in Britain.

British newspapers carried reports that the British flyers already had reached the front and had gone into action against the Germans-presumably in defense of Leningrad.

It was believed here the R. A. F. contingent had been dispatched by the shortest and fastest routethrough the Arctic to Murmansk. British forecast, however, that reinforcements would be sent by the longer but safer 15,000-mile route around the Cape of Good Hope, up through the Persian Gulf and into Russia by the newly-opened backdoor route across Iran.

The Daily Telegraph, foreseeing a steadily-increasing flow of aid to

Golf on a Bewildering Basis

This itinerant golfing observer is deep in a characteristic state of bewilderment. Nice, thick, gooey bewilderment. We have witnessed the formal unveiling of the new game called "American golf" and we are not certain whether Inventor William R. Stone will be called up to the War Department to receive a medal or whether he will be ordered to the Department of the Interior for some wrist-slapping by Mr. Harold Ickes.

"American golf" is a very puzzling invention. Mr Stone, who belongs to two of our bigger country clubs, insists that golf is too expensive, that it is readily available only to a favored few and that 18 holes really are too many. So he devised this new game and by way of showing how it works Mr. Stone, who is reported to have sunk anywhere from $5,000 to $12,000 in the venture, hired a dozen pros from Washington and Baltimore and put it on display yesterday at a special plot of ground at Halpine.

Most of the good pros were on hand and they were astonished to hearted teams than the pair now learn that "American golf" required only a minimum of physical effort. locked in battle for the National There was only a single hole to play and all Mr. Stone insisted upon was League championship, with the presthat Messrs. Wiffy Cox, Lew Worsham, Leo Walper, Ralph Beach & Co. play the hole 12 times each. While the pros leaned on their putters on The fact is emphasized anew daily the only green and the 82 spectators in the two wooden stands overlooking the solitary pin listened with thoughtful brows, Mr. Stone earnestly tried to explain his brain child. As he finished two sleek black limousines, complete with chauffeurs and white-walled tires, rolled up and Mr. Stone beckoned the pros into one car and the caddies into the other. "American into superb pitching and both trailed

Hole Shrinks as Time Goes on

Four hundred yards down a narrow fairway Mr. Cox swung his driver and walloped the ball, followed by Mr. Worsham of played the sterner fighting qualities the Washington team and by Messrs. Beach and John Bass of Baltimore. in overcoming the Giants twice by Then they selected their 5-irons and plopped the ball on or near the green scores of 1 to 0 and 6 to 5, the

The crowd was small, unable to understand, and apathetic but Mr. Stone shrugged his shoulders and said he wasn't surprised. "They don't even know who these fellows are," he said. "They are top-notch pros and the people don't know it. The scoring is simple. If Bass and Beach each gets 4s, their total is 8; and if Cox takes a 4 and Worsham served triumph. a 5, their total is 9. That makes Baltimore 1 up

Baltimore actually did go 1 up, but the Washington pros soon caught their inter-city rivals. There were a trio of foursomes, each shooting up and riding back in a black limousine. Each time they went runs, but they knocked Cliff Melton back the hole shrunk. This is to say that, while it started as a 400-yard | from the hill to tie it up and then hole, it was only a 350-yard hole the sixth time it was played, Mr. Stone won out in the 10th on an error by having specified that the boys move up 10 yards after each of the Dick Bartell with the sacks filled. opening drives. As the afternoon wore on it shrunk to a 150-yard hole and by this time the pros were on familiar terms with every blade of grass and grain of sand, although Mr. Cox, after watching the hole shrink from 400 to 390 yards was moved to speak.

"Sporty course, isn't it," he murmured as he teed up.

Inventor Suggests Game Could Help Morale

The inventor of "American golf" thinks that it will play an indirect part in our national defense. "It makes golf accessible to the Government workers and others who can't play in the daytime," he explained. "They can come out and relax after work or at night, if we can get some courses lighted. It isn't necessary to have only one or two holes. There

This may be a defense item and a morale-building effort, at that, although as reported before this observer is a bit bewildered. There is it is reported on good authority Miss Alice Marble, as assistant director of the Hale America program, that the Dodgers paid only some is advocating walking. "Try walking to work," suggests Miss Marble. "Walk such trifling sum as $12 000 for to the grocer's. Walk whenever you can." We have an idea that Miss Herman when they got him from the "Marble, not to mention Mr. Ickes, will not applaud the fashion of riding | Chicago Cubs early in the season. golfers from green to tee in an automobile.

Be that as it may, Mr. Stone remains convinced there is a place in the American sports program for his type of golf. The gentleman must third place. Pittsburgh won its first think so to dig into his pocket, buy a proving grounds, hire the best pros game with the Phils, 2 to 1, and of two cities and bombard newspaper offices and golf shops with stacks of appeared to have the nightcap sewed the public with his game. He already has all the money he needs. "What I'm trying to do is for the good of everybody," he pointed out. "Think of all the golfers in the world who can't go 18 holes. For most of them 9 holes aren't enough and 18 are too many. Now 12 holes are just right and by improvising on my idea it will be possible to build those 12 holes on a comparatively small piece of ground."

The truth is that Mr. Stone is something of a theorist. When he gets a theory he tries to make it work, opposite opinion notwithstanding. Some of the best golf brains in town pooh-poohed his "American golf" long ago, pointing out that it cut down the exercise and the camaraderie and various other traditional benefits of the game. Mr. Stone listened politely and promptly ignored all dissenters.

It was a pleasant afternoon, however. The sun was shining and the wooden stands were perfect for watching the Congressional Airport flivvers take off and land. And those who watched the golf had no way of knowing for certain that they weren't witnessing history in the making, with the Abner Doubleday of another era and another game serving as

Vet Pilot of A's Feels World Series Won't Go More Than 6 Games

By TED MEIER. Associated Press Sports Writer. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15 .- Connie Mack doesn't care whether the Dodgers or the Cardinals win the National League pennant-he picks the Yankees to win the World Series. What's more, the alert, 78-yearold manager of the Athletics thinks the series will last only five or six

Baseball's "grand old gentleman," who was a veteran before most of the present-day ball players were born, added to his fame when he went out on a limb and predicted the collapse of the Yanks in 1940, after they had won four straight pennants and World Series.

Predictions Carry Weight.

The Yanks walloped Cincinnati four straight in the series of 1939, but it was in that very series, Connie said, that he "saw something" that indicated the Yanks' downfall. During the off season last winter Mack asserted the Yanks were the team to beat for the 1941 pennant. Hence his predictions carry more than added weight. "Yes, I think it will be the Yankees," he declared. "Who can beat them? They have such power and pitching. The possible loss of Keller (Charley Keller, outfielder, who is expected to be out with a leg injury) will not be a blow as it might to other clubs. The Yanks have too

Sees No Yankee Slump. Asked if he thought the Yanks might tend to ease up after winning the pennant so early in September and then find it hard to get back into shape, Connie smiled. "Not by the way they're keeping going," he said. "They'll win the series in five or six games, nearer ave than six."

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15 .- Middleweight Champion Billy Soose planks line tonight in a 12-round outdoor fight to a decision with bronzeskinned Ceferino Garcia, veteran Filipino with the famed so-called title in 1939-40. The ageless socker from the Philippines carried a young army of admirers behind him, however, and a knockout over the Easterner hardly would be a surprise to them.

Good looking Billy, former Penn State College boxer and owner of one of the most gifted left hands in the fight business, goes into the ring a slight betting favorite to outpoint Garcia, who held Soose's New York-Pennsylvania recognized world

Promoter Tom Gallery predicted a throng of 15,000 would pay in the neighborhood of $30,000 to watch this, California's first 12-round battle to a decision under its new law. More conservative estimates were somewhat under Gallery's optimistic hopes. The fight is to be staged in the Hollywood baseball park.

The 23-year-old titleholder may be making his last appearance in regal robes. He's having too much weight trouble. He figured to scale 168 pounds for Garcia, and may be compelled to vacate the division

Garcia, who has been fighting for nearly 20 years and still is going strong, agreed to come in over the 160-pound limit. He expected to weigh 161 or so.

The 35-year-old Garcia, who may be older, took a lay-off last year after dropping the title to Ken Overlin. Returning to action two months ago, he looked as good as, if not better, than ever. He handed knockouts to rugged young Jimmy Casino and venerable Bobby Pacho

Coolidge High Looks for Fairly Strong Team in First Campaign on Gridiron

Big Forwards, Swift Backs Among List Of 40 Players

Minor Injuries Bother Central; Devitt Squad Appears Potent

By GEORGE HUBER.

Calvin Coolidge, baby among District high schools, is coming up with a fairly good football team for its first year on the gridiron and while the players woefully are lacking in experience they promise a spirited eleven that next year will return tested and ready for its entrance into interhigh championship

Two weeks of practice under Coaches Sherman Rees and Gilly Roberts has cut the original squad of 70 to the 40 men who will be carried this season, and a good majority of these will be back next season, so the Colts figure to have one of the most experienced groups in the city ready for the 1942 series. Their initial aim, however, is not 1942 but to make a good showing this season. Six games are on the schedule, which includes Wilson and Anacostia, future interhigh opponents, and one or two more may

The Colts, as demonstrated in a tough intrasquad scrimmage session last week, will have a fairly heavy line averaging 180 pounds with a 150-pound backfield. The tackles especially are hefty lads, among them being Robert Webb at 230 and George Banning at 190. Among the others are Al Ground, a short but solid chap who is especially fast and a good running guard; Bob McConnell, Bill Saverese, Red Christianson and Don Fra-

Only one factor saved the day for sailors who waited more than an hour at the clubhouse last evening while corrected summaries growing out of the protest hearings were made up—there was a fine southerly blowing throughout the day.

To Daniel and Covert it made little difference who was the eventual winner, for both had succeeded in trimming Somervell, who finished next with 70½ points. But since there must be only one first-place winner, the prize went to Covert. The latter had come in ahead of Daniel in two events.

Edwards was signed by the Lions after a brilliant regime at Western Reserve.

Score Three Field Goals.

A home crowd of 16.734 saw the Packers begin their title bid in auspicious style, although the Lions held them away from the goal line until the final period. However, field goals by Tiny Engebretsen, Clark Hinkle and Eddie Jankowski gave Green Bay a 9-to-0 lead. Cecil Isbell hit Don Hutson with a pass for one of the fourth-period touchdowns and Tony Canadeo added the other on a short line plunge. Edwards' team aggregated only 133 yards by land and air, completing only four of 24 passes.

The Eagles, although soundly whipped, made a much better showing against the rejuvenated Giants. using the T formation made famous by the Chicago Bears. Sorely Needed Crop Of European Wheat Reduced by Rains

Decline of 30,000,000 Bushels Indicated by August Reports

The Agriculture Department said oday that rains during the August harvest season reduced Europe's sorely-needed wheat crop by about 30,000,000 bushels.

On the basis of such weather and crop information as is now available, the department forecast European production (exclusive of the Soviet Union) at 1.430,000,000 bushels. Earlier forecasts were for 1,460,000,-000 bushels.

Despite the weather loss, a 1941 crop of the size estimated would be larger than last year's smaller outturn of 1,325,000,000 bushels but below the 5-year (1930-34) average of 1,516,000,000 bushels.

The department said that should unfavorable weather conditions continue for harvesting and threshing operations, especially in northern Europe, some further small reduc-M StP&SSM 5 1/8 49 ... 1 1 1 1 Europe, some further small reductions in the European total may occur. Overcapitalization Avoided As U. S. Finances Plants

Special Dispatch to The Star. NEW YORK, Sept. 15 .- Although American industry is rapidly expanding its production facilities to fulfill the needs of the defense program, the methods used to finance by private financing-money for new by private financing—money for new construction now comes primarily New York Cotton from surplus funds held in corporation accounts from the United States Treasury, mainly the latter, according to the publication. Loans from the Federal Loan Agency through one of its subsidiaries to a private corporation are usually placed on a five-year amortization basis. Assuming that the plant extensions are kept busy for a period of five years on defense orders, it is expected that the loans will be completely repaid and, consequently, that there will be on inflation of corporate capital. It is estimated, according to the article, that actual outlays plus contract commitments for new facilities will total $5,000,000,000 by the end

Chicago Grain

By the Associated Press CHICAGO, Sept. 15 .- Except for a brief rally after midsession, when wheat showed small net gains, grain prices spent most of today's trade fractionally lower than Saturday. Extreme losses of a cent or more early in the day were reduced later, but the market continued under the influence of profit-taking sales and some hedging against commercial trade purchases of cash grain.

Increasing receipts of grain at some terminals, attracted by last week's peak prices, arrival of the first car of new corn from Southern Indiana and approach of the soybean harvest season, had a bearish effect on prices.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1/2 lower, compared with Saturday; September, $1.18%; December, $1.221/4-38: corn, 54-7/4 down, September, 78%; December, 84; oats unchanged to % off; rye 1/6-3/4 down, and soybeans 3-314 lower. Soybeans broke as much as 414 in early trad-

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Hedging and liquidation accounted for lower cotton prices today. The selling reflected larger spot sales in the South which was induced partly by reports that the tropical storm was blowing itself out harmlessly. Values rallied occasionally on trade and local support, but outside interest was limited. Late afternoon prices were off 7

Hope to Keep Sales Staffs Intact for Post-War Period

By DAVID J. WILKIE, Associated Press Automotive Editor.

DETROIT, Sept. 15 .- Most of the motor car industry's sales executives 101/2 are agreed that a shortage of up to 1,000,000 new passenger automobiles may develop before the end of the new model car year; at the sarec time they are impressing upon all 4% their retailers the need for a changed attitude toward new ve-1% 1% 1% hicle merchandising.

In advising their dealers that "Cars won't sell themselves" the sales heads are recognizing, according to trade sources, that the huge retail distribution of 1941 influenced some retailers to believe motor car merchandising required little effort Some of the demand that remained unsatisfied at the end of the 1941 model period still is being felt and 2% all indications are that the full permitted production quota for the Utility & Ind pf .. 4 1% 1% 1% first four months of the new auto-- 34 motive year will be absorbed with 161/2 161/4 161/2 nothing to spare.

The sales managers frankly admit, however, that their big task through the new model period will be to maintain their dealer organizations intact for what they expect will be a greatly intensified competitive era in the post-war period. It is for this reason they are urging their retailers to increased activity in new and used car merchandising and in customer service.

Previews Concluded. The newspaper previews of the industry were concluded last week with the private showings of all General Motors, Ford, Hudson and Nash units for 1942.

All the 1942 models seem to have one common characteristic-the appearance of more massive design, particularly in the front end treatment that accentuates the impression of ruggedness by the use of lower and wider grilles between broadened fenders and beneath lowered hoods. This is especially true in the case of the major lower price units, all of which look more than ever like the middle-priced models of a few years ago.

For the introductory period, at least, all the new cars have fully as much bright finish as did their immediate predecessors. Although final rulings on the use of the chromium and other bright metal finishes have not yet been announced, it is regarded as a foregone conclusion in trade quarters NEW YORK, Sept. 15 .- Opera- that with the possible exception tions in the steel industry this week of hub caps and bumpers, most of this will have to give way by January 1.

Garfinckel Sales Up 26.2 Per Cent in Fiscal Year

$4,653,603 Volume Reported by Schmid At Annual Meeting

By EDWARD C. STONE.

Net sales of Julius Garfinckel & Co., Inc., for year ended July 31, 1941, totaled $4.653,603.41, in comparison with $3.687,263.41 in the previous year, a notable increase in sales volume of $966,340, or 26.2 per cent, William E. Schmid, president, reported at the annual meeting of the stockholders held in Fairfax, Va., today

Net profit after the deduction of all charges against income, but before the provision for income and excess profits taxes, amounted to $379,297.32. This, when compared with the net profit of $305,753.46, before taxes, earned one year ago, shows an increase of $73,525.86.

Because of higher Federal taxation, including the excess profit tax, a provision of $102,000 is made this year against $65,700 a year ago, leaving a net result of $277,279.32 in the current year, compared with net profit of $240,053.46 for the previous year, an increase of $37,225.86.

Net earnings this year are 3.7 times dividend requirements of preferred stock and equivalent after deducting such preferred dividends to $1.84 per share of common stock. One year ago, earnings were 3.2 times dividend requirements on the preferred stock and after deduction of such preferred dividends, the sum of $1.50 was earned per share of common stock.

Regular dividends at the rate of 6 per cent per annum were paid on the preferred stock on September 30, and December 31, 1940, and on March 31, and June 30, 1941, and at the rate of 1712 cents quarterly on the common stock on September 14, and December 14, 1940, and on March 31, and June 30, 1941. The total amount of dividends paid to all stockholders was $152,012.39 and $125.266.93 was carried to earned surplus, Mr. Schmid reported.

Working capital at the year's end was adequate, current assets being $1,628,225.84, compared with current liabilities of $524,912.71, a ratio of

Chain Store Stocks Studied. "The Place of Chain Stores in Distribution and Investment," a 41page booklet prepared by Merrill

Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane, was being distributed among clients here today. The review is unusually interesting and complete and presents the 12-year records of sales, earnings, dividends and price ranges of 30 leading chain store companies. How much of the consumers' dollar goes into the chain stores and a host of other facts of interest to investors are included in the review. Average annual earnings per share and average annual dividends per share are reported. Among the chains mentioned are American Stores, A. & P., Kress, McLellan,

Lerner, McCrory, Montgomery Ward, Murphy, Peoples Drug, Safeway, Sears Roebuck, Western Auto and Woolworth. Bankers Open Bond Booth. The District of Columbia Bankers Association, backed by the American Bankers' Association, opened a National Defense savings bond and stamp booth today at the Mayflower Hotel in connection with the convention of the National Retail Dry Goods Association The booth was in the main ballroom along with a host of other exhibits, a one-day National Defense Clinic to demonstrate how National Defense bonds and stamps are being sold by banks, post offices and various retail stores throughout the Early today the booth attracted much attention. It was in charge of William R. Pennington of the American Security & Trust Co., assisted by Miss Helen C. Oehmann of the same bank. Attendance Best Since 1929. More than 400 members of the Financial Advertisers' Association attended the annual convention at Cleveland, the largest turnout since 1929, Robert L. Flather, assistant secretary of the American Security & Trust Co., reported today, Mr. Flather is a member of the Board of Governors. Every phase of modern financial advertising was discussed, the forum sessions proving of special interest. Delegates from all part of the country reported boom conditions due to the defense efforts, many of the speakers urging steady expansion in advertising.

The delegates included a particularly large number of chairmen of bank boards and of bank presidents, Mr. Flather commented.

Bank Credit Up Sharply. The Federal Reserve Board's September review states that in the past year the country has experienced the most rapid increase in the volume of bank credit during its history. Loans of commercial banks have expanded by nearly $3,000,000,000.

The country's abundant supply of bank deposits and currency in circulation has also increased further, the review says. The turnover of bank deposits, which represents the rate at which deposits are being used, has increased.

While there has been some reduction in the volume of bank reserves in excess of legal requirements, excess reserves are still very large, amounting to about $5,000. 000,000 for all member banks in the Federal Reserve System One of the outstanding banking developments since the start of the defense program has been the rapid growth of commercial and industrial bank loans both for defense and non-defense purposes, the review

By VICTOR EUBANK,

Associated Press Financial Writer. NEW YORK, Sept. 15 .- Specialized buying continued to rule a somewhat shaky roost in today's stock market. While a number of favorites edged into new high ground for the year. and fractional advances were sprinkled over portions of the list, many leaders were unable to make headway and trends were a shade irregular at the close.

Dealings and prices were the best in the majority of cases before midday. Thereafter slipping troubles appeared and volume dwindled. Transfers for full proceedings were around 500,000 shares. International affairs, brokers said, seemed a bit more cheerful marketwise, although war doubters still were legion in speculative contingents. Reassembling of Congress, with battles looked for over the neutrality law, taxes and additional lease - lend appropriations, also served to inspire a certain amount of conservatism among potential share buyers.

There was no particular change in the fairly encouraging business picture. A drop in this week's estimated steel mill activities, however, due mainly to suspensions for repairs, tended to restrain steel shares.

Stocks posting new tops for 1941 included Western Union, Postal Telegraph preferred, California Packing, Wilson & Co. and Deere. Lifted now and then were International Harvester, Oliver Farm, Armour, Cudahy, Pepsi-Cola. Southern Pacific. Southern Railway, American Telephone, Chrysler, General Motors American Smelting Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin and Montgomery Ward. In the lagging ranks were U. S.

Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Consolidated Edison. U. S. Rubber, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, J. I. Case and Anaconda.

Supplies Are Diverted From Actual Needs, Bank Finds

By the Associated Press. CLEVELAND, Sept. 15. - The Cleveland Trust Co. studied manufacturers' inventory figures and suggested today "a considerable quantity of raw materials may have been put through one or more stages of manufacture and then accumulated as protection against a possible forced redistribution of raw ma-

American industry, the bank asserted in its monthly business review, is suffering from chronic protective purchasing which "pervades our whole society. "Our flow of production has become like a long river with many tributaries, across which we have built innumerable dams. Behind each of them the flow backs up in numberless pools and down at the mouth only a reduced output has come all the way through. If we should continue the process long enough the outflow of finished goods would ultimately be ample, but we do not have that much time to spare.'

In both dollar and physical volume manufacturers' inventories are the highest on record and the sharpest rise has occurred in goods in process of manufacture. They are now about 50 per cent above the higher and "finished goods in the hands of manufacturers are actually 5 per cent smaller than they were

The prevailing "abnormally low interest rates" have made it "temptingly safe and inexpensive for producers to tie up capital, in the dead storage of stockpiles of goods. This 13.11 5.15 3.72 .30 8.92 is one of the reasons why our economy has been sopping up huge volumes of materials and producing too few munitions. We have been stocking up too heavily and producing defense goods too slowly."

Waste Materials Play Crucial Role While Primary Plants Expand

By PAUL GESNER and JOHN BECKLEY, The Star's Special News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.-Broken down autos in used car graveyards, rusting old farm machinery out behind the barn, worn-out clothes, old corrugated boxes-they may be junk to you but they are the best hope of increasing defense production and keeping many civilian plants

Industry already is taking all the raw materials which we can produce or import. The growing appetite of defense plants turning out guns, shells, tanks and planes is forcing civilian factories to short rations or complete starvation.

Increasing the production of raw materials by enlarging mines and factories is a matter of six to eighteen months. In the meantime, hard pressed defense officials hope to squeeze out an emergency supply of materials by tightening up the belt of our traditional economy of waste. Steel plants are feeling the pinch of a shortage of steel scrap. Norbusiness was symbolized by the junk mally huge open hearth furnaces are charged with half pig iron, half steel scrap. This mixture is refined into steel more quickly in the open

Today the huge piles of scrap at steel mill doors are declining, steel sources report. The fast pace of steel production is using scrap faster than it can be replaced. Normally scrap piles are being built up at this time for winter operations. O. P. M. officials recognize the seriousness of the situation and have launched a 6,500,000-ton expansion in pig iron capacity to offset the smaller supplies of scrap. It will take time, however, to complete these arrangements and meanwhile steel production must go on. Copper scrap, too, has become an acute problem. Production of copper, probably the tightest of all defense metals, amounted last month to 85,000 tons, of which only 3,134 tons came from scrap. Normally, copper experts say, 8,000 to 10,000 tons would have been refined from scrap. Canny production men are keeping copper parts and equipment in service long past the normal life span. Such situations have forced the

Between 150,000 and 200,000 colectors are the industry's direct contact with the general public, but the business is conducted on a scale and in a manner of which the outsider never dreams. General Motors, Ford, Dupont, every blue chip company in the country, carefully collects and sells or reuses its waste materials. Steel companies supply about 55 per cent of their own scrap from trimming and finishing operations.

It's an industry with a billiondollar annual turnover yet maintains exacting standards. The National Association of Waste Material Dealers, a trade organization, has set up requirements of cleanliness, content and physical condition which all kinds of waste materials must meet.

Waste material dealers are facing no easy job. On one side, O. P. M. is begging for greater supplies of secondary raw materials, but on the other side the Office of Price Administration warns "Don't pay higher prices to get them.'

It is a confusing picture to many in the trade. For years the standraise the price. When prices get

Grain Market Chief Urges Strengthening Of Futures Trade

O'Brien Says Present Machinery Necessary To Handle Surplus

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 15 .- Philip R. O'Brien, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, today urged that grain marketing practices developed through the years, including the futures market, should be retained and strengthened in order to assist in clearing the Nation's surplus and guard against the evils of price fixing.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the convention of the Grain and Feed Dealers' National Association here, O'Brien declared the machinery for distributing surpluses cannot be too complete.

He outlined a plan for movement abroad of domestic surpluses "when peace comes," through a system of direct compensation to exporters for losses they would sustain by buying crops from U. S. farmers at American prices and selling them abroad at low world prices. This compensation, he said, could come from custom receipts.

Favors Import Plan.

"I believe that in return to the countries who purchase our export commodities, we would permit them to export to us certain prorated 32,718 and 1,444 during July this items which would allow them to secure the exchange to meet their payments for our commodities. Such a plan would go a long way in retaining world peace and in adjusting farm income to well over what it is

"The Government has had temporarily to assume the role of speculator and investor in grains and in some other farm products," he said. in order to bring about improved

"Primarily, this has caused the lack of liquidity in our markets. It has forced out of business many of our firms and members.

"But I do not want to be misunderstood. For I believe that the 85 per cent non-recourse loan has been God-send to our farmers in this emergency, with the loss of export markets through war and with enormous surpluses at hand.

Sees Threat to Markets. "The cruel fact, nevertheless, remains, that the futures markets stand on the brink of destruction.

not by reason of any desire of the Government or farm leaders, but simply as a consequence of the turn of events. Insurance Shares Go Lower During Week

Special Dispatch to The Star. NEW YORK, Sept. 15.-Insurance stocks in the New York City market continued to ease off slightly during the last week, according to figures compiled by Hoit, Rose & Troster. The aggregate market value of 20 leading fire and casualty insurance issues at the close on Friday, September 12 stood at $654,572,000 compared with $655,317.000 at the close of the previous week, a decrease of $745,000, or 0.11 per cent.

The current average yield of the 20 issues is 3.69 per cent, unchanged from the previous week's figure. The current market value equals 1.07 times the reported liquidating value, also unchanged compared with the September 5 record.

Police Aroused By Increasing Traffic Toll

Plan Strict Law Enforcement as School Days Near

Faced with a rising traffic toll with District schools opening next Monday, Inspector Arthur E. Miller. in charge of traffic, today continued visiting police precincts at the rate of two a day to talk with patrolmen regarding the enforcement of regulations as they apply both to vehicles and predestrians.

Four persons were added to the traffic death list during the last week and 23 persons, 6 of them pedestrians, were injured in accidents yesterday and early today. The fatality total for this month already has more than doubled the figure for September o flast year, even though only half of the period has passed. Statistics for the last two months, Inspector Miller pointed out, reveal a drop in enforcement and a rise in the number of deaths.

In his discussion at the precincts the inspector said he was stressing enforcement both of the law to prevent pedestrians from crossing at intersections against traffic lights and the law to prevent them from crossing at any point except a crosswalk. A campaign to encourage people not to walk between parked automobiles was waged last spring under direction of William A. Van Duzer, director of traffic.

Seek to Protect Children. As an additional step to keep down traffic accidents after the opening of school, a conference to discuss protective measures will be held between school authorities, Washington I. Cleveland of the American Automobile Association and Acting Police Supt. Edward J. Kelly tomorrow.

One of the most seriously hurt in accidents during the past 24 hours was Charles W. Hutt, 67, of 717 E street S.W., who was treated at Providence Hospital for a possible fracture of the hip. He was struck by a passing automobile, according to police, as he stepped backward from a parked truck near his home. Two Maryland Cases Bring Polio Count In D. C. Area to 79

Cooler Weather Due To Curtail Incidence Of Paralysis

Two new cases reported over the week end in Maryland brought to 79 the total of poliomyelitis cases reported this year to public health officials in Washington and nearby

The new cases were reported in Edmonston, Prince Georges County, and in the Bethesda area, Montgomery County. The latter case had previously been reported as 'suspicious" last week.

The number of cases reported to health officials this year show Washington, 39; Prince Georges County, 20; Montgomery County, 8; Fairfax County, Va., 6; Alexandria. previous cases had been reported.

The suspicious case in the Bethesda area which was diagnosed as infantile paralysis also occurred in an area where previous outbreaks had been reported. One other case, in the Sandy Spring-Glenmont area, was reported in Montgomery County last week.

The last case reported in Washington was Thursday, Dr. James G. Cummings, chief of the epidemiology division of the Health Department, said. its foremost social paradox. All the needy school children in the city probably would receive free milk during the coming school year if it were not for one fact-Washington has provided some needy school children with free milk in the past.

The past free programs were run by the city and financed from funds appropriated for the District, which could afford to provide milk for only a portion of the school children.

Now the Federal Government has entered the school-milk picture with a type of program designed to make available to every needy school child free milk, or milk for no more than a penny a glass.

For three months the question has been debated whether the District will benefit from the Federal program. If the city had never had a program, the answer might be yes. But because Washington has been a pioneer in providing children with milk, the answer is not yet forthcoming. It is still a question.

Spent $55,000 Last Year. Briefly, the reasons why there is doubt whether the District will share in the Federal program are these:

The District last school year spent $55,000 in buying 3,000,000 halt-pints of milk for distribution to the needy school children.

The Federal program aims at assisting the farmer who produces the milk, the child who drinks the milk and the city whose school system distributes the milk.

The substitution of a Federal program here for the existing municipal school-milk program would injure the farmer by lowering his income.

Furthermore, the District consumer has an interest in the matter, because the milk surplus in the Washington shed is so low that any considerable diversion of fluid milk away from the normal market conceivably couldbut probably wouldn't-eliminate the surplus altogether.

The farmer producing milk for Washington has now all the market he needs. Indeed, he is exhorted constantly to make every effort to increase his output for the normal-as opposed to the relief-consumer

Farmer's Side of Matter. On a simple dollars and cents basis, this is the farmer's side of the matter:

The milk which enters the District's school-milk program is sold by the farmers to the dairies at the standard price for what is known as class 1 milk, now, now $3.57 a hundredweight ($3.17 a hundredweight before the milk order was amended a week ago).

The milk in a Federal lowcost program for the District is sold by the farmers to the producers for $2.395 a hundred-free in the schools last year. If this program were taken over by the Federal Government this coming school year the farmers (with the $2,395 price in effect) would get only $46,015.73, while they can figure under the other program to receive almost $60,000 with the new class 1 price

So the Agriculture Department, determined that the introduction of the Federal program shall not injure the farmer, has told the District Board of Education that an increase of 270 per cent in the school milk consumption must be in prospect before the Federal Government will introduce its program into Washington. It is Report Due Wednesday.

The Board of Education has appointed a milk advisory committee directed to search for ways of complying with the Agriculture Department's requirements. The committee is expected to report this Wednesday at the Board of Education meeting. If the District did away with its school milk program altogether the farmers would lose what they now get for that milk, and then Washington probably would be eligible for the Federal proand dried skim. In order to bring about this 3,000,000-pound increase, farmers supplying Washington have been forcing their cows by highprotein feed and by taking calves away from their mothers at an early age in order to milk the mothers for market. Seven thousand new cows have come into the Washington milk-

Surplus Only 7.5 Per Cent. In areas where there is a large surplus of milk, the farmers are quicker to agree to participation in social-minded programs. But now the farmers here want to make the most they can out of what amounts to a boom market -but a boom market for which production costs are going up because of the necessity of more feed and the increased cost of labor-and they do not want to endanger their regular trade. The surplus on the Washington market has sunk to as low as 7.5 per cent, while dairy economists figure that 15 per cent surplus is the lowest desirable safe margin, to take care of consumption variations.

The farmers in July accepted the low-cost price of $199.5 for 181,015 pounds sold as relief for five cents a quart.

As long as the intensive demand for fluid milk continues to exist in Washington, it is improbable that the farmers would agree to taking a cut in the school milk.

Centers Depend On D. C. Budget

156 Additional Units Are Envisioned in Long-Range Program

Thirty major recreation centers will be developed for immediate use and plans for completion of 156 recreational units as a part of the ultimate recreation system of the District will be carried out, if the budget requests of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission are approved, Irving C. Root, superintendent of parks, revealed

The parks office asked for $1.000. 000 in the 1943 budget to begin work on the 30 units marked for immediate completion, and proposed that legislation similar to the Capper-Crampton Act be adopted to provide $18,000,000 to expedite completion of the 156 units. Under the plan, according to Mr. Root, the funds would be advanced by the Federal Government, to be authorized without interest by the District over a period of 30 to 40 years, "to enable District residents to enjoy the benefits of a modern recreation system without the necessity of greatly increasing the tax

Accords With Program.

Mr. Root made it clear that the areas proposed for development are not confined to lands within the National Capital park system, but included all areas within the proposed District recreation system. This is in accordance, he explained, with the program developed by the Committee for the Co-ordination of Plans under the directions of the President's Recreation Committee and approved by the Board of Education, Community Center and Playground Department, National Capital Park and Planning Commission and other interested agencies.

The budget item was submitted by the parks office, the superintendent said, because all the agencies concerned agreed that the National Capital Parks is best equipped to plan, develop and maintain the areas. While in use, facilities would be supervised and operated by District recreational authorities, he

The first 30 units would be ready for early use, Mr. Root said, and would include grading and surfacing of field game areas, construction of tennis courts and facilities other court games, running tracks, baseball and softball diamonds, football and soccer fields, erection of fences and backstops, and provision for lights, water and san-

Construction of more expensive facilities, such as swimming pools and field houses, according to the superintendent, would be delayed until funds were made available for development of the entire recreation system, which could be accomplished within a 10-year period if legislation to make available the full $18,000,000 needed were enacted.

"We do not propose an ambitious land-acquiring program, but contemplate the development of lands most of which already are in public ownership," Mr. Root explained.

The superintendent declared that development of an adequate recreation system for the District has lagged far behind the program for the improvement and expansion of other municipal facilities and that the National Capital suffers greatly in comparison with other progressive American cities. He pointed out that during the 10-year period from A preliminary survey was started 1930 to 1940, no appreciable funds were appropriated for recreational developments, despite the fact that the population of the District in-its foremost social paradox. All the needy school children in the city probably would receive free milk during the coming school year if it were not for one fact-Washington has provided some needy school children with free milk in the past.

The past free programs were run by the city and financed from funds appropriated for the District, which could afford to provide milk for only a portion of the school children.

Now the Federal Government has entered the school-milk picture with a type of program designed to make available to every needy school child free milk, or milk for no more than a penny

For three months the question has been debated whether the District will benefit from the Federal program. If the city had never had a program, the answer might be yes. But because Washington has been a pioneer in providing children with milk, the answer is not yet forthcoming. It is still a question.

Spent $55,000 Last Year. Briefly, the reasons why there is doubt whether the District will share in the Federal program are

The District last school year spent $55,000 in buying 3.000.000 half-pints of milk for distribution to the needy school children. The Federal program aims at assisting the farmer who produces the milk, the child who drinks the milk and the city whose school system distributes

the milk. The substitution of a Federal program here for the existing municipal school-milk program would injure the farmer by lowering his income

Furthermore, the District consumer has an interest in the matter, because the milk surplus in the Washington shed is so low that any considerable diversion of fluid milk away from the normal market conceivably couldbut probably wouldn't-eliminate the surplus altogether.

The farmer producing milk for Washington has now all the market he needs. Indeed, he is exhorted constantly to make every effort to increase his output for the normal-as opposed to the relief-consumer.

Farmer's Side of Matter. On a simple dollars and cents basis, this is the farmer's side

According to the terms of the marketing order for the Wash ton milkshed, the farmers must accept a low price for milk destined for distribution under a Federal program to low-income consumers The milk which enters the District's school-milk program is sold by the farmers to the dairles at the standard price for what is known as class 1 milk, now, now $3.57 a hundredweight ($3.17 a hundredweight before the milk order was amended a week ago).

weight (increased by the milk order amendment from $1.995). The farmers got basically $50,-583.69 for the milk distributed free in the schools last year. If this program were taken over by the Federal Government this coming school year the farmers (with the $2.395 price in effect) would get only $46,015.73, while they can figure under the other program to receive almost $60,000 with the new class 1 price

So the Agriculture Department, determined that the introduction of the Federal program shall not injure the farmer, has told the District Board of Education that an increase of 270 per cent in the school milk consumption must be in prospect before the Federal

operative program into Washington. It is calculated that this increase would provide the farmer with about the same income this year he got last year from school milk.

Report Due Wednesday The Board of Education has appointed a milk advisory committee directed to search for ways of complying with the Agriculture Department's requirements. The committee is expected to report this Wednesday at the Board of Education meeting

If the District did away with its school milk program altogether the farmers would lose what they now get for that milk, and then Washington probably would be eligible for the Federal pro-

District continue its program and that the Agriculture Department induce the Federal Government to go with it side by side.

In that way the farmers would be cared for and the needy children who do not now share in the program would be aided.

The $55,000 spent by the Board of Education last year for milk comes from the "sponsor's contribution fund," appropriated by Congress. It is likely that Congress will continue to make this fund available, so that the District could keep on paying for its share in the school milk pro-

Pressed to Meet Demand.

The farmers could be assured that the District would buy at the market price up to $60,000 worth of milk and that school milk beyond $60,000 worth would be bought by the Federal Government under its program.

One factor in the reluctance of farmers to sacrifice their incomes in the interest of school children is that the Washington market is large and the sales of dairymen are so great that they are pressed to meet the ordinary consumer demand.

As a result of the increase in the city's population, the farmers' sales of class 1 milk rose from 14.430.439 pounds in July, 1940, to 17,512,515 pounds in July,

This increase has nothing to do with the British-aid program, because almost all the milk produced by dairymen supplying Washington is produced for drinking, while milk for Britain is milk for manufacture-cheese and dried skim.

In order to bring about this 3,000.000-pound increase, farmers supplying Washington have been forcing their cows by highprotein feed and by taking calves away from their mothers at an early age in order to milk the mothers for market.

Seven thousand new cows have come into the Washington milk-

Surplus Only 7.5 Per Cent.

In areas where there is a large surplus of milk, the farmers are quicker to agree to participation in social-minded programs. But now the farmers here want to make the most they can out of what amounts to a boom market -but a boom market for which production costs are going up because of the necessity of more feed and the increased cost of labor-and they do not want to

The surplus on the Washington market has sunk to as low as 7.5 per cent, while dairy economists figure that 15 per cent surplus is the lowest desirable safe margin, to take care of consumption variations.

the low-cost price of $199.5 for 181.015 pounds sold as relief for five cents a quart.

As long as the intensive demand for fluid milk continues to exist in Washington, it is improbable that the farmers would agree to taking a cut in the school milk.

Delightful Parties at Nearby Estates Feature Social Schedule for Week End

Two Debutantes Feted; 200 Guests Attend Event for Mary Stanley; Elliotts Honor House Guests

The week end social schedule included many parties in nearby Maryland and Virginia and which drew Washingtonians to the country for a "last breath of summer." Two debutantes of the season were honored yesterday-Miss Margheritta Sterling, whose cousins, Mr. and Mrs. W. Thatcher Winslow, were hosts at their McLean, Va., home, and Miss Mary McIntosh Brookings, who was feted by another debutante, Miss Evelyn Dillard, in her Alexandria home. The party for Miss Brookings, whose debut Saturday was a prominent event of the week end, was a farewell luncheon, for she left last night to begin her studies at Mount Holyoke College, in South Hadley, Mass.

Swimming Party Held For Miss Sterling.

Miss Sterling, whose parents, Dr. and Mrs. William Calhoun Sterling, will give a ball Christmas night, at the Larz Anderson house, to introduce her, was entertained yesterday at a swimming party by her cousins. Beverages and sandwiches were served under the trees on the estate of Mrs. Winslow's mother, Mrs. Randolph Leigh. The Winslows' cottage

Two other delightful parties yesterday were the outdoor party given by Mr. and Mrs. William Stanley at their home, The Lawn, at Laurel, Md., to honor their daughter, Miss Mary Jane Stanley, and her fiance, Mr. Cary McNab Euwer, and the treasure hunt given by Col. and Mrs. J. Duncan Elliott at their Maryland home to honor their house guests. Col. and Mrs. Charles K. Nulson of Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Bride-Elect, Honored. About 200 people gathered at The Lawn to congratulate Miss Stanley and her fiance, whose engagement was announced yesterday. The brideelect wore a black crepe tea gown with a wide front panel of green which was matched by her belt and necklace. She also wore a corsage of gardenias. Her mother chose a .

powder-blue crepe gown with orchid Champagne was served from a table on the wide porch, and at the tea table in the dining room were Mrs. Walter Euwer of Upper Marlboro, Md., mother of the bridegroom-to-be; Mrs. William A. Raborg, sister of Mr. Euwer, and Mrs. James A. Boss, sister of Mr. Stanley, from Laurel. Assisting the hostess were Miss Constance Collins of Fort Sill, Okla.; Misses Frances and Peggy Stanley of Washington, Miss Betty Mills of Baltimore, Mrs. James Boss, jr., of Laurel, and Miss Lina Little and Mrs. Roger Israel, also of Laurel.

Finding Dun Mar, home of Col. and Mrs. Elliott, was the object of the Treasure Hunt given for Col. and Mrs. Nulson. After the guests wandered through the gardens and orchards, they went onto the screened veranda to enjoy the delicious country supper, most of which was "home grown" at Dun Mar.

Mrs. Eleanor Fox Page also entertained yesterday when she had a few friends at cocktails in honor of her sister, Mrs. Joseph C. Cronin, who came to Friendship Heights, Md., Thursday for a short visit with Mrs. Fox and her father, Mr. William

Of interest here is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Melvin W. Bamford of Schuylkill Haven, Pa., of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Katharine Elizabeth Bamford, to Lt. Sam R Watkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam C. Watkins of Washington.

The announcement was made recently at a luncheon bridge party at the Bamford home in Schuylkill Haven. The bride-elect is a graduate of

Alumnae to Meet

By the Way—

"What fun to see you back. Did you have a good summer? How well you're looking! Do let's get together soon-after this week when we've gotten the children off to school and the house in order. You

This is about the general conversation of all the wives back in town after a carefree summer. September is a busy month if you have children and a house-busier still if you haven't got a house and have to try and find one! There aren't many parties yet. A few last "Goodbye-to-summer" ones for the youngsters before they go off to boarding school. Virginia Hutchison gave a very gala dance Friday evening at the Wesley Heights Club for the "teen-age" crowd, and pretty Marianna Kyle (whose sister, Patricia, will make her debut this winter) had a few of the same group for a much smaller and very informal little party Saturday.

People are dining out-at hotels and restaurants-a lot-going on to the theater or the movies afterward. At Ed Wynn's final performance of the week here Saturday night, we saw the Jack Newbolds, Mrs. Northam Griggs, the Jasper Du Boses (Mary with the most wonderful tan), Tinsley Garnett, Spotty White and Frank Eaton. Earlier the same evening Mrs. John R. Williams had a few friends dining with her at her own Restaurant Pierre-including her son-in-law, the American Minister to Sweden, Frederick

Your old address book won't do you much good this winter. You'll find that so many of your friends have moved. Nina Auchincloss is living in the attractive old Georgetown house which she bought and remodeled last spring. The British Embassy Patrick Hills have leased a house on Bancroft place. The Cyrus McCormicks have taken Mrs. Carroll Greenough's house on Thirty-first street in Georgetown, Justice and Mrs. Lawrence Groner have taken the beautiful old Alexandria house which belongs to the William Smoots. Mme. D'Elanger who has such a charming house in London is already ensconced in the Harold Hintons' house on Thirty-fourth street, while Harold and Eva are living in Tampa, Fla., where Harold is stationed. The State Department Warden Wilsons (recently en poste in Lisbon) have leased Mrs. Haywood Newbold's house on Wyoming avenue. (Mrs. Newbold will remain in New York this winter.) The George Gordon McKays of New York have just bought a house in Georgetown. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cabot (he's here for defense work) have taken "Tanglewood" on Kalorama road. The Morrison Clements (he's with the British Purchasing Commission) have taken a house on Twenty-first street and those two attractive Britishers, Capt. R. G. Frisby and Capt. G. H. Chambers, are sharing an apartment at the Dresden, Mr. and Mrs. Barry Bingham, who are both so attractive (he's a son of the former American Ambassador to England) have taken the Gunther house on N street which the Rodman Wanamakers had last year, and the lovely Beatrice is thinking of taking a smaller house in Alexandria. Maj. and Mrs. "Ted" Curtis are in Mrs. Fleming Holland's house in Alexandria for the winter. Mrs. Noyes Lewis expects to move into the house she recently purchased in Georgetown by the end of next week. Dr. Albert McCown (who's with the Red Cross) is already settled in a house in Alexandria. So you see SOME people do find houses!

BY THE WAY-

You're asked a good many surprising questions if you write for a newspaper-but one which both surprised and stumped us, and which we find amusing is this: A much-in-love young man called us up yesterday to ask if we would PLEASE get the name of the perfume Mrs. Howard Cushing uses, so that he could buy some for his girl's birthday present.

What a changing place this is. Just after I say that fall seems to be here it gets hotter than it has been all summer and then suddenly it gets cold again! But I still maintain that it is fall, because of the number and the kind of parties that are being given these days.

It has been a very busy week here lately.

Thursday afternoon we went to Marion and Dick Sanger's house for cocktails in honor of her brother-in-law, Hal Pomeroy, and Paul Moody. It is so nice to have Marion back in town again after her hostess at a dinner party for 30 sojourn out West. Saturday Elizabeth Shepherd gave a luncheon in honor of Elene Essary. From there we went on to Mary Brooking's debut tea-dance in Alexandria. And after that we dashed out to River road for the picnic which Maggie Hill gave. Still later we inevitably turned up at the club.

Today there was a party in honor of Mickey Stirling, which the Miss Marion Smith, at 1201 M street, Thacher Winslows gave at the Ranleigh swimming pool in Virginia. We were invited for "a dip, a sip and a bite." . . . Then we left there and continued on in town to the Bartletts, for the Beer and Skittles Club

Miscellaneous Information:

Bella Hagner is back in town after a summer out West. She'll be another on the debutante list. Charlie Drayton is also back in town after his vacation in New England. Monroe Hunter, on the other hand, has just left for his holiday—he is en route to White Sulphur. And there is a big gap in the stag line where the boys studying for the foreign service used to be. . . . Their exams are over and they have picked

Finland Says Russia Violated 1940 Peace In 12 Instances

Document Outlines Background of Current War With Soviet

The Finnish Legation issued blue book today on the background of the current war with Russia, charging the Soviet with 12 major violations of the peace which ended the earlier Finnish-Russian War in March, 1940. The official presentation of the Finnish argument contradicts inferentially the opinion that Russians were provoked to attack in June by the presence of German troops there. Hialmar Procope, Finnish Minister here, remarks in the preface:

"The reader will find how Russia forced Finland to allow the transport of Russian troops through the southern part of the country. Only after this agreement was forced on Finland the transit of German troops through northern Finland to and from Norway was granted.

"The German transit has been played up in the world press. The Russian transit has scarcely been mentioned, although the Russian troops passed through the heart of the southern part of our country while the Germans went mainly through the wilderness of Lapland.' Russian Coercion Charged.

The blue book, 109 pages long, is barren of other references to German interest in Finland. Selected documents are provided to support the Finnish charge of Russian coercion against Finland and interference in Finnish affairs. Included is a telegram from Finnish Minister Paasikivi in Moscow December 7, 1940, to his Foreign Min-

"The second statement made by Commissar Molotov on December 6 was as follows:

"'We do not wish to interfere in the matter, or make any hints with reference to the nominations for a new presidential candidate in Finland, but we are watching closely the preparations for the election. We shall conclude whether Finland desires peace with the U.S.S.R. on the basis of who is chosen as President.

"'It is clear that if some such person as Tanner, Kivimaki, Mannerheim of Svinhufvud is elected President, we shall draw the conclusion that Finland does not wish to observe the Peace Treaty she has concluded with the U. S. S. R.'"

Risto Ryti was elected president. Called "Ordeal by Peace."

Minister Procope calls the 15 months between Finnish-Russian wars an "ordeal by peace" and a "long road to Golgotha." Specifically, the Finnish government presents these charges against Russia:

1. Russia demanded the right to a concession of the Petsamo nickel mines, despite the fact that they were held on concession by the British-Canadian Mond Nickel Co., a subsidiary of the British-owned International Nickel Co.

2. Russia forced on Finland a secret-and so in Finland unconstitutional-agreement to permit Russian troops to be transported by rail across Finnish territory to the Gulf of Finland base of Hanko, which Russia had under lease from Finland. The peace treaty did not touch on this matter. The agreement was made September 6, 1940. 3. Russia demanded that Finland return to the Karelian area, ceded to Russia in the March, 1940, peace treaty, all property removed from the area during the war, and required the return of all civil and military property to the leased Hanko area. The peace treaty referred to territories but not to removed property. 4. Russia advised Finland not to enter into a defensive alliance with

5. Russia demanded that Finland demilitarize the Aaland Islands, which Finland had fortified in 1921 under the terms of an international agreement with Germany, Denmark, France, Great Britain, Italy, 6. Russia failed to provide Finland with materials to construct Finnish section of the Kemijarvi - Kandalaksha Railway, arranged for in the March, 1940, peace, and accused Finland of violating the peace when the road was not built. Finland lacked rails and bridge-building materials.

Travel in Submarines. 7. Russian consular officers were found on numerous occasions in Finnish areas in which all travel was forbidden. Russia demanded that her diplomats be allowed to travel in submarines in Finnish waters if need be.

8. The Soviet government supported the Society for Peace and Friendship between Finland and the U. S. S. R., which the Finnish gov-

WHAT'S GOING ON ATTHE HECHT CO.?

For twelve months the sound of riveting and hammering has been kicking up a din behind the scenes at The Hecht Co. as we have striven to increase our facilities . . . to take care of the rapidly growing needs of Washington's enlarged populace. As the first step in this program, we have added an entire new building of 100,000 square feet . . . five beautiful new selling floors . . . scores of new shops . . . new sections ... new departments ... all of which are now open to the public and ready to welcome you.

This building is connected with the main store on every selling floor ... and in addition there are two separate entrances on E Street between 6th and 7th which give direct access to the new floors or any part of the main building. (And, incidentally, you'll enjoy the speed and convenience of our new main store escalator system ... fourteen complete moving stairways . . . connecting every floor from basement to roof.)

The New Building Houses These Magnificent Departments

MAIN FLOOR

An enlarged men's shop modern to the last degree, with improved selling facilities for the following merchandise:

Now that these moves have been completed, we ask you to bear with us while we make the necessary improvements and alterations in our F Street building. We promise you that it will be every bit as attractive as the new addition. If you happen to find the record department where the men's sport shop used to be, and the better shoe department hobnobbing with the new millinery salon, please remember we are doing this all for your ultimate convenience . . . to make this institution a place where our 2,000 employees will be proud and happy to work—and a store in which you will always find it pleasant, comfortable and profitable to shop.

Age-Old Custom That Women Are Blamed for Husband's Shortcomings

Bossiness Must Be Curbed

Every Child Should Be Taught Need of Sportsmanship

By Lettice Lee Streett Tossing her braids defiantly, Mary ran away from Betty, her playmate, and shouted angrily over her shoulder, "I won't play with you any more, 'cause you won't play the Then she went into the house where she sulked for the rest of the afternoon. As her mother was preparing dinner she noticed her 7-year-old daughter's sullenness and after several attempts to divert her attention failed, she sat down beside her little girl. Taking the two small hands in her own. she asked, "What is the matter, dear?" At first Mary hung her head, refusing to answer, and it was not until her busy mother was about to leave her that she blurted out, "Betty isn't fair! She won't play the way I want to! She doesn't like

The truth was that Mary's mother knew that the two little girls were devoted to each other, and that small Betty trotted after Mary like a humble little slave. The mother knew, too, that her daughter owned a very domineering personality, and secretly she was glad to learn that at last Betty had defied Mary, and even though she had a pardonable pride in her daughter's leadership at school and in play, she deplored her bossiness and wisely resolved not to take her side in this childish tug-of-wills

Very casually she answered "Betty always seems willing to play your games, Mary, and I think that it is only fair for you to play hers sometimes, too. Betty won't want to play with you unless you do, and no one else will, either. The only time you think that people do not like you is when they will not do as you want. When you are nice to others, they will be nice to you, too." Naturally, reading such a lecture to a child has small effect at the moment, but the day-after-day living of this teaching can have a an overbearing personality. People who are dictatorial, poor losers, gloating winners and miserly sharers are never happy and popular, and children are no exception The child who shows these unfortunate tendencies should be guided towards a more co-operative spirit

The bossy child who sulks when he cannot have his own way, as with clothes that are getting loose Mary did, should be shown that and a slimmer, sleeker feeling that others have a right to their opinshould be made to persuade such a child to "give and take" in games with other children, thus pointing out to the child through his own practice how he can win friendships. The bright child will learn that he can win his own way and keep friends much more readily through pleasant behavior than by being stubborn and selfish

Children desire the approval of their playmates just as we do of those about us in our adult world. Once a child can be made to see the necessity of being considerate of others he will automatically be happier and more popular, because this rule is one of the fundamentals of "getting on" in the world.

The child who is a poor loser at games should be stimulated to try all the harder, not for the sake of winning, but to better his own record. The same holds true in school work when a child sulks because another student excels. Such a youngster must learn that he cannot win all the time, and it is not beating others that is worthwhile, but it is doing his best and competing with his own ability that counts.

It has been observed that the child who is continually thwarted at home, who is nagged, criticized and ordered about arbitrarily and who has an unfair, severe discipline imposed upon him, will attempt to take a dictatorship attitude outside of his home.

Children have rights as people. would-be "boss," try to seek the cause of his defiance. It is wise to remember that with all behavior problems the cure depends upon the cause.

However, Men Are Often Responsible for What Actions Wives Take

Extravagance and Nagging May Be Direct Result Of Constant Irritation

By Dorothy Dix

It is an old custom to hold a wife responsible for what her husband does. The first man started it by laying his shortcomings on his wife's shoulders and hiding behind her fig leaves, and every son of Adam has followed in his footsteps. "The woman Thou gavest me" has always been the alibi by which man has got by for his weaknesses and his sins. When a man fails in business, we don't blame it on his own incompetence and laziness or his reckless speculations. We say it is his wife's extravagance. It is never a hankering for liquor that causes a man to be a drunkard. He is driven to drink by his wife's temper. It is never a man's lack of loyalty and his philandering instinct that make him desert his wife and children for a flapper. It is his wife's fault because she has got fat and middle-aged and is no longer as alluring as she was when she was 20. But, curiously enough, we do not fit the shoe on the other foot and blame the husband for his wife's faults. When a woman is a sloppy and slovenly housekeeper, you never hear anybody say: "Well, for heaven's sake, why wouldn't she be with a husband like the one she has? What encouragement is there for a woman to work herself to death to make things nice and comfortable for a man who knocks everything she does and never has a kind word? The reason she has slumped is because he has taken every bit of heart and ambition out of her by his fault-finding."

When a woman is extravagant, you never hear any one say: "Really, you can't blame her. Her husband never tells her anything about his business, so she doesn't know what she can afford to spend." Nor does any one say of the woman who is a spender: "It is all her husband's fault. He won't give her an allowance. He makes her come to him like a beggar for every penny, and he raves like a madman when the bills come in, so she feels that she might just as well have a scene over a big bill as a little one.' Nor does any one suggest: "Perhaps the reason Mrs. X throws to boiling point and press through money around is because she knows sieve to remove seeds. Cook skins her husband is buying champagne until soft with equal quantity of and mink coats for other women and she feels she might as well get her part of what he makes."

When a wife falls in love with another man you never hear any one say: "Poor soul, can you blame her when she is married to that frozen fish? Since the day they were married he has never paid her a compliment, or noticed how she looked, or given her the slightest indication that he still had a particle of affection for her. She was starving for love and tenderness, and it isn't surprising that she fell for the first man who treated her like a human being instead of a piece of useful household furni-

When a woman gets peevish and fretful and complaining, no one ever says: "Well, why wouldn't she be when all she has got out of marriage has been a life sentence This will make about 11 glasses. Manners of the Moment

I know there are those who care not one whit whether they sit down to the table with dogs or with men. But I also know that there are those who make a distinction. They find it difficult to eat their own meals when a dog is crunching a bone across the table from them. And since there are people of the second part—and quite a few of them at that-it doesn't seem quite right for people of the first part to be allowed to unleash their dogs in restaurants and let them roam around from table to table picking up morsels of food.

Perhaps some lover of dogs should start an exclusive dog restaurant, where only people wanting to eat with dogs would go. But until that happens I think dog owners either should leave their pets at home or should be as strict with them as mothers are with their children and keep them strapped to a chair leg during restaurant visits. wonderful," she laughed.

The story thus far: Julie Nash, childishly beautiful and amazingly competent 19-year-old secretary to handsome Michael Gray, wealthy young Miami businessman, is deeply in love with her boss and has been ever since first seeing him in California. But Mike is engaged to Rita Deming, Miami socialite, and has no thought for Julie except to appreciate her pleasant manner and perfect efficiency. Then, a few days before Mike's scheduled wedding, Rita calls his office and tells Julie to advise Mr. Gray that the wedding is off-that she is going away. Knowing that Rita has been seeing much of young Dick Van Vleet, Julie goes to Mike's apartment and tells him the news, and they quickly ascertain the truth—that Rita has indeed left town with Van Vleet. Mike goes on a binge, and Julie finally puts him to bed on the couch in her apartment. Next morning he asks her to marry him, but she rushes out without answering. That evening, when she returns home, Mike is still there.

CHAPTER IX.

Mike closed the door and took Julie by the shoulders, turning her around until she faced the light. She twisted a button on his coat, afraid to look into his eyes, afraid of what he might read in hers. "I want you to go with me, Julie," he said.

"All right." "Thanks." And, after an awkward little silence, "I ate the eggs. Was that all right or were you saving

Mike was finding immense amusement in his wife. Different from the girls he had known, absurdly childish, she constantly amazed him with the clever workings of her mind and the keenness of her perceptions. If asked the question Mike would have admitted that not for one moment had he been bored on his honeymoon.

> Mike Explains. "Un-huh," he said, watching her nimble fingers.

"They are making up stories about us down in the village-especially the old ladies. They think we are notorious criminals or not married or something."

"Why should we be the subjects of curiosity?" he asked, amused. later they landed, unheralded and "Well, we haven't spoken to a soul except the shopkeepers and the swimming boys and the flower girls. Even when we went dancing we stayed all by ourselves' "Didn't you like that?"

"Oh, yes, I like it, but-" "But what, Julie?"

"Why did we come on the yacht -and to Hila? Why are you so secretive, Mike?" She really had to know. Dropping her knitting needles, she worried an amber curl.

"You know what would have happened, dear, if Michael Gray had turned up in Honolulu."

"All the late unpleasantness would have followed right on our heels. We would have been scandal headliners. If you think the old ladies buzz now—." He allowed her imagination to go on from there.

"I know, Mike. Of course, I know." He had saved her, even more than himself, from a difficult situation. There she was, a secretary, honeymooning with her boss, inch-hitting, as it were, for the bride he wanted. A flush crimsoned her cheeks. What must Mike think of her deep down in his She was sure that he had not allowed himself to think in the past month. Much better if he had faced his marriage squarely, thus lessening the shock of an unloved wife when he returned to familiar surroundings. Getting to her feet she started to leave the piazza.

"We'll go home on the liner, Julie," Mike said. "It doesn't matter." "How about going tomorrow—if we can get passage?

Without meaning to, she wailed, Oh. no-I can't.' An Unpleasant Surprise. He came to her, drawing her into his arms. "It will be all right, darling," he said gently. "You are my wife and I'll always be glad." She wanted to threw her arms around his neck, to beg him to love ner, to say all the mad, foolish things that welled in her throat

By THORNTON W. BURGESS. In winter there isn't a minute of day or night when Peter Rabbit is outside of the dear old Briar Patch that he can afford not to watch and listen for danger. You see, at this season of the year Reddy Fox is hungry most of the time and is forever hunting for Peter Rabbit. With snow on the ground and no leaves on the bushes and young trees, it is not easy for Peter to hide. So as he travels about, the thought of Reddy Fox is always in Peter's mind.

But there are others whom Peter fears even more and these wear feathers instead of fur coats. One of these is Terror the Goshawk American Legion Conv. Peter is not alone in his fear of Terror. There is not one among his feathered friends who will not shiver at the mention of Terror's name. Peter will not soon forget the day he discovered that Terror had come down from the Far North and was likely to stay for the rest of the winter. Peter went hungry all that

> You see, it was this way: Peter had gone over to the Green Forest very early one morning, hoping to get a breakfast there. He was hopping along, lipperty-lipperty-lip, with his thoughts chiefly on that breakfast, but at the same time with ears and eyes alert for possible danger, when a strange feeling swept over him. It was a feeling that great danger was very near, though he saw nothing and heard nothing to indicate it. It was just a feeling, that was all.

Now Peter had learned that the wise thing to do when one has such a feeling as that is to seek safey first and investigate afterward. At the instant he felt that strange feeling of fear he was passing a certain big, hollow log. Without really knowing why he did it he dived into that hollow log, and even as he did so there was the sharp swish of great wings. Terror the Goshawk had missed catching Peter by the fraction of a second. With his heart thumping as if were trying to pound its way through his ribs, Peter peeped out the hollow log. Terror had alighted on a small stump only a few feet away. He was very near the size of Redtail the Hawk, whom Peter knows so well. There was no denying that he was handsome. His back was bluish. His head seemed almost black. Over and behind each eye was a white line. His under parts were beautifully marked with wavy bars of gray and white. On his tail were four dark bands. Peter had no thought for Terror's beauty. He could see nothing but the flerceness of the eyes that were fixed on the entrance to that hollow log. Peter shivered. He knew that in Terror was no pity or gentleness. Terror did not sit on the stump long,

A Timid Pass

The experienced player soon learns that the deck has a certain number of aces, kings and queens. If he doesn't see them in his own hand he knows that they are still in the deck; they haven't done a vanishing act. If he has a weak hand, and the opponents bid weakly, those high cards (or a fair share of them) must be in his partner's hand. Today's hand illustrates the point:

South dealer. North-South vulnerable. A 6 2 7 Q 8 4 3 0 10 7 6 N. ♥ K 10 7 6 7 W.+E. ♦ J 9 4 3 S. . A A 6 A A J 10 5 4

The bidding: North West Pass Pass

In the play, South was held to four tricks for a loss of 300 points. Then West icily inquired why East badn't doubled one spade instead of passing. East pointed to the weakness of his hand and said he had been tickled that the opponents hadn't bid a game against him. 13. To deliver. Thereupon West muttered, "What's 14. It surely wasn't too hard to realize that West must have a fair, perhaps even a strong hand, and that his pass was a "trap" pass.

If East had realized this he would have doubled to reopen the bidding. Then if West had only a fair hand, one side or the other would play at a part-score contract. Actually, West had a strong hand and would have been delighted to pass the double for penalties. That would have produced 800 points in penalties instead of only 300 points. * * * *

People often speak of the Crimea as a peninsula, and that is about what it is. Yet a canal was cut through the northern side of it some years ago, and it became an island of a sort. It has been described as "a man-made island." The canal is only 75 feet wide, and there are bridges across it.

Being a Further Note on Casting Of 'For Whom the Bell Tolls': At Least She Gets a Test

> By HARRY MacARTHUR. (In the Temporary Absence of Jay Carmody.)

Right now there is being carried on in Hollywood, though this department seems to have been somewhat lax in the matter of telling you all about it, a campaign that makes David Selznick's search for Scarlett O'Hara resemble a routine call to Central Casting. This new frenzy of alarums and shouting, as was the similar case with Mr. Selznick and "G. W. T. W.," is probably composed of 10 per cent casting and 90 per cent hullabaloo to call your * attention to the fact that Paramount is preparing to film Ernest Hemingway's "For Whom the Bell Tolls."

The boys even have tried referring to it as "F. W. T. B. T." And virtually every one in Hollywood either has been tested, is going to be tested or would like to be tested. Suggestions pour in by the thousands from readers of the novel, if reports from the studio are to be taken with a half cup of salt, bisected and then believed. Ingrid Bergman, Betty Field, Luise Rainer, Negri, Ethel Barrymore, Blanche Yurka, Tyrone Power, Gary Cooper. Akim Tamiroff and several dozen others have been mentioned as ideal for the film

(not in the same role, of course). We had sort of resolved not to say any more about it until there was something definite to say. But today there are three items that may be passed on, to wit:

Definite: Louis Bromfield has sent along to the studio the final screen play of "For Whom the Bell Tolls" from his Ohio farm, where he has been working on it. Probable: Chances are Stirling him wrong-just doesn't like Holly-
