McKellar Proposal Offered on His Own Initiative, He Says

By the Associated Press Administrative lieutenants in Congress were reported today to have rejected a proposal for outright repeal of the Neutrality Act and to be ready to work instead for legislation making vital revisions. The repeal proposal was introyesterday by Senator Mc-Kellar, Democrat, of Tennessee, a Senator McKellar, who told the Senate that the neutrality law established a policy which "no great nation like ours can indulge in," said today he had acted entirely on his

of the neutrality law. Revision Favored.

One well-advised leader told reporters that Senator McKellar's measure was not acceptable to the administration. He said the legislation recommended by President Roosevelt probably would follow the lines indicated Wednesday by Chairman Connally of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Senator Connally suggested that the Neutrality law be amended to plan outlined by Mr. Odlum in let- permit the arming of American ships ters to the 56 concerns, also will act and to allow them to enter presentlyas liaison officers between the O. P. forbidden belligerent ports and combat zones.

The Texas Senator declared that some provisions of the neutrality law-such as that granting the Government control over munitions exports-should be retained.

Senator Bridges, Republican, of New Hampshire and a supporter of administration foreign policy in most respects, told reporters that he favored either complete repeal or substantial modification of the law.

Can't Legislate Peace.

"I was one of the six Senators who voted against it in 1939," he recalled, "and I still don't believe you can legislate peace. In times of crisis the Nation should not be handicapped in dealing with foreign nations by laws of its own making." Senator Bridges said, however,

Mansfield Declines Comment on 'Lead' In Bank Robbery

Prince Georges County and Washington police today were seeking to identify from rogues gallery photographs the bandits who yesterday held up two Prince Georges Bank & Trust Co. messengers in Hyattsville and escaped with nearly $53,000

Reports that the messengers, Van Stauber, 18, and Jack Dameron, 17, had identified a photograph from the Metropolitan Police files as one of the three men who staged the largest holdup ever recorded in the Washington area were unconfirmed. However, Inspector Richard H. Mansfield, chief of the Detective Bureau, said his men were working with county police on a definite

The hold-up occurred about a block and a half west of the bank in Hyattsville about 9 a.m., while the messengers were taking a $16,000 pay roll to the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission office and $37,000 more also in cash to the bank's office in Mount Rainier and to the Treasury.

The youths gave a description of the three bandits who covered them with a shotgun and pistol and escaped with the money after taking the keys to their car.

Wickard Advises It has been announced K. M. Money to Farmers

Inflation Is Feared With Return of Period of Agricultural Prosperity

Forecasting a period of peak farm prosperity, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard today advised caution in lending money to farmers.

"We don't want to make the same mistake we made during the last war and after the last war." he told a conference of agricultural lenders here. "I'm sure we can avoid the runaway inflation such as we had during the last war, but it is not going to be a popular thing to do." Gov. A. G. Black of the Farm Credit Administration expressed a similar view. The Agriculture Secretary said that farmers had "more assurance ever had, or for the last two decades at least." Prices for farm products were fair and farmers were able to sell almost all crops, he added. In such a period, Mr. Wickard said, there was always a temptation to cause competition also existed among

Mr. Wickard expressed belief that farmers could meet all demands for food in this country and supplies needed by England with the possible exception of milk.

At one point in his address the Secretary said a two-year supply of wheat now existed in this country and that while "I used to think that cotton was the No. 1 farm problem crop, I've about decided that wheat has taken that over.'

Mr. McEntee said no details of the Duke's later visit to the Capital were discussed beyond the fact that the Duke said he planned to return here for a first-hand study of a C. C. C. camp on the trip back to Nassau, where he expected to reopen the Legislature by mid-No-hour despite an injured ankle. Commendation for the police came last night from Sergt. H. Holder of Scotland Yard, the Duke's personal bodyguard, who visited local police headquarters during the evening and was escorted on a tour of the police offices by Lt. Archie Winfree and Lt. Walter Thomas.

Sergt. Holder, who has been with the Duke since he became Governor-General of the Bahama Islands more than a year ago, viewed a police line-up, visited the cell block and examined the fingerprinting apparatus. He complimented the police on the efficiency of their service in holding back the crowds and speeding the Windsors about town.

So crowded was the Windsor schedule yesterday that the Duchess could spare only 20 minutes to have her hair done. According to Emile Beauvais, who did the job, the half after she arrived in Washington. The appointment, he said, originally was made for 11:15 a.m. but when it was definite that the President would receive the ducal couple at noon, the Duchess' secretary changed the appointment to 4:15. This allowed the Duchess less than half an hour if she were to go to the press club parties on schedule.

The hairdresser explained that he had waved the Duchess' hair in the old days when she was a frequent Washington visitor and had very long locks. The hair is short now. Emile, who brought his son along

Wallace Board Takes Control of Most Export Licenses

Economic Defense · Unit Moves to Centralize Powers for Its Warfare

BACKGROUND-Economic Defense Board of eight cabinet members, with Vice President Wallace as chairman, was set up by President Roosevelt July 31 to formulate and coordinate policies involved in economic warfare program against the Axis. One phase of this program is "blacklisting" from United States trade of pro-Axis firms in Latin America.

The Ecconomic Defense Board headed by Vice President Wallace moved for greater centralization of economic warfare and kindred defense measures today by taking over the issuance of most licenses required for export of strategic mate-

Mr. Wallace's super-defense board already has taken over the preindependent and Armydirected Office of Export Control, with the objective of integrating its functions into the broader work of the board.

Under the previous setup, the State Department issued export for restricted materials under "directives" from the Office of Export Control. The new move for absorption of some functions of the Division of Controls by the Economic Defense Board is aimed at closer integration of the license con-

New Black List Issued.

The Division of Controls was set up in the State Department under the Neutrality Act which places authority for issuing licenses for export of arms, ammunition and implements of war in the Secretary of State. Unless the Neutrality Act is modified, arms licenses will have to continue to be issued by the State Department. Guiding policies will be co-ordinated, however, under the Economic Defense Board, of which Secretary Hull is a member.

Meanwhile, the economic defense organization issued a supplementary "black list" containing the names of 300 persons and firms in the other American republics to whom no more shipments of American goods

Buses Hinder Traffic. The group of police, traffic and highway officials also had the advice of Corporation Counsel Richmond B. Keech. It was announced the group had generally agreed there is a hindrance to traffic movement from present rules, under which buses generally make their stops on the near side of traffic lights and Intersections. There was discussion of possibilities of requiring taxicabs and buses in the downtown area to operate only on certain streets, but it was said there was not much accord on this proposal because of the limited number of streets which would be available for such restricted traffic. Commissioner John Russell Young. who acted as spokesman for the conference group, said he believed a "lot of good" had been achieved by the round-table debate, held behind closed doors, and that the Commissioners felt much encouraged over possibilities of improvement. He said "even our traffic director agreed there was something wrong in the present set-up.'

Light Change Suggested.

The group agreed that "something" should be tried in an effort to improve the District's "progressive" traffic light system so that once motorists "hit" the lights they might travel farther before being halted. However, Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer and Highway Director H. C. Whitehurst were said to have agreed that the present light system was working pretty

Cleanup of Italians In Ethiopia Expected To Start Tomorrow

Several Thousand Whites And Askaris Hold Out In Gondar Region

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN, Foreign Correspondent of The Star and

Chicago Daily News. LONDON, Sept. 26.-The final cleanup of Italians in Ethiopia is expected to begin immediately following the end of the rainy season on the plateau which, according to tradition, should be tomorrow, Ethiopia's traditional "Maskal."

The only Italian organized resistance will be found in the neighborhood of Gondar where several thousand white troops and native Askaris have been bravely holding out despite pinpricking attacks and incredible privation.

If these troops surrender they are expected to receive the same military honors which were given to the Duke of Aosta and the brave defenders of Amba Alaji when they were finally beaten.

The British today renewed their promise to recognize Haile Selassie's government and establish diplomatic relations with it as the sovereign authority in Ethiopia as soon as the "situation has been reestablished.

The degree of assistance which the British will give him in administering and controlling the country and the form it will take is now the subject of negotiation between the Emperor and the British authorities in Addis Ababa. This is a very delicate subject and the British are attempting to reach a solution which will guarantee the stability in Ethiopia and at the same time not infringe on the rights and sensibilities of the Emperor. His reported impatience at the delay in settling matters is understood here.

Today's British explanation of this situation was provoked by the somewhat glaring absense of an Ethiopian representative from Wednesday's meeting of the Inter-Allied (Copyright, 1941, Chicago Daily News, Inc.)

British Reported Massing Large Forces in Egypt

ROME, Sept. 26 (A).-The newspaper Il Popolo d'Italia of Milan reported today that the British were massing large forces in Egypt and indicated that major operations against the Axis' North African forces might be imminent.

With the favorable season for desert warfare approaching, it said, considerable movements of British troops have been observed between the Giarabub and Siwa Oases, about 120 miles inland from the Mediterranean coast.

Italian troops from Fort Uolchefit and the Chilga outpost in Ethiopia repulsed British attacks Wednesday night with the British suffering losses, the Italian high command announced which attacked Misurata Wednesday and another at Bengasi. Italian planes again bombed the Micabba airport on Malta last night, the communique declared.

Four Held by Police After Street Affray

Four men were arrested on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to assault following a disturbance early today in the 1600 block of Fourteenth street N.W.

The trouble began when Policemen W. V. Morris and H. W. Xander on special detail as inspectors for the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, observed an automobile being driven on the wrong side of the street with four colored men in the front seat.

The officers stopped the car and ordered its occupants to accompany them to a police call box. An argument ensued and when the policemen got two of the men moving toward the call box, a group of colored persons followed, police reported.

During the argument the driver of the car which the officers had stopped slipped away. Jesse Lee Sherrod, 30, of the 1400 block of R street N.W., was charged with assaulting an officer and taken to the second precinct after being treated at Freedmen's Hospital for scalp lacerations. Also arrested were Homer Sneed, 35, of the 1400 block of F street N.E., charged with disorderly conduct and interfering with an officer making an arrest, and Cleveland J. Pearson, 28, of the 100 block of P street N.W., charged with assault on an officer. Police said a fourth man was being held for investigation.

Drought and Forest Fires In North Also Caused by Weather Disturbances

A hodgepodge of weather disturbances today whipped Caribbean shipping with hurricane winds and jeopardized three ships, left Lake Erie regions smarting from lashing gales and caused forest fires in upper New York, bush and swamp fires in Canada and drought in New England.

Rescue ships rushed to the aid of S. S. Ethel Skakel, reported sinking in hurricane-tossed waters 200 miles south of Haiti, Near the eastern tip of Cuba the Latvian freighter Abgara ran aground and asked for a salvage operation. At the same time the Cuban government radio picked up a distress call from the steamer Muncove saying she was in distress off the mouth of the Gulf of Venezuela.

Storm Grounds Freighter. The 3,000-ton S. S. Essex ran aground near Southend Lighthouse on Block Island, R. I., where a preeches buoy was set up to remove the crew. Crewmen were reported in no immediate danger.

Inland, an inrush of water from yesterday's gale in Lake Erie sections tossed the 400-foot freighter S. B. Coolidge aground on the west-ern bank of Sandusky (Ohio) Channel. The Coolidge later was towed to Sandusky. Whipped by a 75-mile gale on Lake Ontario, the U. S. motorship M. Barnes of New York reached Toronto port with her afterhouse smashed to matchwood. The same windstorm, coming in the wake of violent storms driving northeast from the Texas hurricane belt, left Western, Central and Northern New York suffering extensive crop and property damage. In upper New York high winds reaching 58 miles an hour at Buffalo, felled trees which in turn tore down power lines and littered highways to impassability. The winds By Rock Creek K. of C. fanned forest fires along Northern New York boundaries. Stubborn Adirondack blazes were fought by hundreds, while in Canada, almost numberless swamp and bush fires devastated, several farms.

New England's weather trouble was quiet but serious. Scarcity of rain threatened a milk shortage. Massachusetts dairy farms were reported extraordinarily dry. Water conservation emergencies were pro-claimed in Worcester, Mass., and in some New Hampshire areas dry weather precautions were taken.

The problem was the first defense of a large city since summer war games began in June and most of Shreveport's citizens joined in the spirit of the make-believe war. As the 2d Army extended its protecting arms from the front line into the city, the modern streets took on a martial air. Machine guns and artillery were set up at vital entrances to the town and steel-helmeted riflemen walked the main streets fully

The call for an oath of allegiance to the 2d Army met resistance in one corner particularly. Mrs. Helen Hoffman Urges Speedy Enactment Of Proposal

In the Star's story yesterday on the rent control legislation hearing conducted by a special House subcommittee, a part of the statement of Mrs. Albina Brenton, representative of the Washington Assembly of the C. I. O. Women's Auxiliaries, inadvertently was attributed to Mrs. Helen Duey Hoffman, executive director of the Washington Housing

Mrs. Hoffman's statement was in support of the bill introduced last week by the Council for Joint Defense Housing Committee. This bill would fix rents at the September, 1940, level, but provides for upward revision of rents where increased costs are shown. Mrs. Brenton specifically favored none of the bills introduced on the subject, but did urge enactment of some form of rent control legislation.

Mrs. Hoffman's statement, a part of which was carried yesterday, was in answer to a statement made earlier in the hearings by Representative Dewey, Republican, of

Text of Statement. Mrs. Hoffman's statement follows

"The statement of the first witness at the recent hearing indicates a misunderstanding. The index of Labor Statistics, cost of living report for September 15, 1940, shows the index of rents in Washington on Rent Hike Objectors, September 15, 1940, had reached the average level of rents in Washington for the entire period of 1935 to 1939, and not for the period of 1935 alone. "The bill, H. R. 5673, in its final form, has the approval of the Legislative Committee acting for the board of the Washington Housing Association. It meets the objectives of the Washington Housing Association as set forth and has been improved to meet the objections of individual members of the board, except for the appointment of the administrator and since the board was not agreed upon this it became minor point. "The association approves the suggestion that new construction should submit their proposed rent for approval, since otherwise jerrybuilders would rush in as they did in the last war, which would penalize landlords who have resisted profiteering.

"Since the law is quite explicit, the administrator's decisions will be final unless found by the court to be not in compliance with the law. These decisions will not be stayed pending an appeal to the courts. This makes it possible for the landlord and tenant to know what the rent will be pending the adjust-

Fringe Parking

The proposed bill to create a Motor Vehicle Parking Agency for the District would provide the Commissioners with authority to take the initial steps in carrying out one of the more interesting and promising recommendations of the Whitehurst traffic report of last April-that for establishment of public parking facilities on the fringe of the downtown section. In his study of Washington's parking problems, Captain Whitehurst found that of 36.000 legal on-street and off-street parking spaces available in the central part of the city, 25,500 are taken by allday parkers, most of whom work in governmental offices; that there would be many more all-day parkers if spaces were to be had; that approximately half of the existing parking lots in the business district are of temporary nature, occupying sites steadily being encroached upon by new buildings, and that private enterprise does not find it profitable to provide parking facilities downtown for all-day parkers.

With this general picture of the situation before him, the highway director reached the conclusion that the best solution of the all-day parking problem was to create a series of low-price, municipally-operated parking lots or garages on the outskirts of the congested area, where space is not so much at a premium. Each of these lots would have capacity for from 400 to 500 automobiles and would be served by a five-cent-fare shuttle bus line, oprush hours between the parking centers and the principal Federal departments. A nominal parking fee of ten or fifteen cents per day has been suggested

In espousing the Whitehurst proposal, the Commissioners have recognized that the problem of finding parking space no longer concerns the individual motorist alone, but is a matter in which the municipality and the Federal Government have interest. Inadequate parking accommodations have caused serious inconvenience to the War and Navy Departments in the present emergency, prompting ill-advised suggestions for use of park areas, including the Monument Grounds, for storage of cars. And until provision is made for adequate off-street parking facilities, it is almost impossible to take the steps that long ago should have been taken in eliminating parking from the streets and the public parks. The Whitehurst fringe parking plan offers a sensible approach to the problem of getting people to and from work and at the same time eliminating much of the intolerable congestion in the heart of the city.

Bank Robbery

The $53,000 bank robbery at Hyattsville serves to draw attention to the infrequency with which this type of crime now figures in the public prints. Increasingly severe Federal legislation and energetic co-operation between Federal and State officers have combined to make bank banditry one of the more hazardous

After a wave of robberies in 1932, the National Bank Robbery Act was passed in May, 1934, and the robbery or attempted robbery of a national bank or member of the Federal Reserve System became a Federal offense. Successive amendments in 1935 and 1937 extended the coverage to banks insured by the Federal Deposite Insurance Corporation and Government-chartered banks insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, and also broadened the law to reach larcenies or burglaries of the enumerated types of banks. As a result, thousands' of institutions have been given additional protection.

The resultant increase in effectiveness of law enforcement in this field is illustrated graphically by statistics for the period. From the passage of the act until June 30, last, the Federal Bureau of Investigation had investigated 810 robberies and obtained 550 convictions in Federal courts. Two death penalties, fourteen life sentences, terms aggregating nearly prison years and approximately $300,000 in fines were the net proceeds in these cases. State court convictions numbered 253, with eight death and thirty life sentences topping the penalties, which likewise included steep fines and prison messengers were robbed on a route arguments skillfully phrased, stormed they had been following for three | their emotions with eloquence of rare months. During this time the bandits had plenty of opportunity to become thoroughly acquainted with this routine. Their plans evidently were well laid. It may be some little time, however, before their coup can be considered entirely successful, as witness this concluding sentence in the F. B. I. report covering bank robberies in 1940: "Eighty-four fugitive bank robbers were located during the year, including the last of the three participants in the first robbery of a national bank after the passage of the National Bank Robbery Act."

Leningrad

The siege of Leningrad is as Gargantuan as the rest of this titanic death struggle which we call the Russo-German war. The only parallel in modern times was the siege be appreciated while he takes his of Paris during the Franco-Prussian rest. War of 1870-71, but that beleaguerment was child's play compared to the present horror of high explosives shot by long-range artillery or dropped from fleets of bombing

The second city of the Soviet Union may be compared in size and population to Chicago. Leningrad normally has about 3,200,000 inhabitants. With the suburbs and the large Russian army garrison, the besieged mass of humanity may total 4,500,000. This vast multitude, wedged in between the Finnish-German forces working down the Karelian Peninsula, and the main German armies coming up from the south, is described by German dispatches as being an increasingly close-packed target in what Berlin calls "a slaughter pen." Russian reports speak of furious counterattacks by the regular garrison reinforced by mobilized worker battalions. Certainly, the Russian command has plenty of man power to expend in what the Germans admit will be a last-ditch defense, destined to make the assailants pay dearly for every inch of ground. Yet conditions must be growing desperate in a great metropolis exposed to continuous bombardment and cut off from all supplies. The fall of Russia's Baltic metropolis would produce important consequences on the general military situation. In the first place, the Leningrad area accounts for over one-tenth of Soviet industrial production, including almost one-fifth of the machine tool output. It contains not only important consumers' goods industries but also the great Putilov steel and iron plant, said to erating in the morning and evening | be the largest munitions factory in the Soviet Union. This, combined with the threatened loss of the Donetz Basin area, would leave Moscow as the sole major center of heavy industry in European Russia.

> The fall of Leningrad also would involve the destruction of Russian sea power in the Baltic. Already Kronstadt, the great naval base just off Leningrad at the entrance to the Gulf of Finland, seems to be taking a terrific hammering, with many warships damaged or sunk. Once the Baltic is cleared of Russian naval forces, it becomes a safe and easy highway for German troops and supplies, thus short-circuiting lengthy overland communications.

> Strategically, the fall of Leningrad would spell both the annihilation of Russia's northern army and the release of large German forces for a southward drive on Moscow, presumably in conjunction with two other German thrusts-one directly eastward from the now stalemated Smolensk sector, the other northward from the Ukraine. Nowhere else in Russia are rail and highway communications so good as those between Leningrad and Moscow, the Soviet capital.

It is to avert, or at least to delay, so dangerous a combined operation that the defenders of Leningrad have orders to defend the city to the last. The stubborn courage of the Russian soldiery and the proverbial fanaticism of Leningrad's Communist workers are guarantees that those orders will be carried out to the bitter end. The indications are, therefore, that the storming of Leningrad would entail a holocaust of mass horror unprecedented in human annals.

Bishop Candler

A truly great American departed this world when Bishop Warren Akin Candler of Atlanta was gathered to his fathers. He was eighty-four when he came to the end of his days, yet his powers of mind and spirit were not exhausted. Even when time had slowed his step and dimmed his eye, he continued to advance from strength to strength as a prophet of His Lord. The last of his career perhaps was the best. He gratefully thought it so. Bishop Candler might have been eminent in any field of human enterprise. His capacity for logic would have insured his success at the bar. If he had wished, he could have made his mark in national politics. But it was his conscious and deliberate choice to serve the church. The endowment of intelligence and zeal which he brought to his work was not excelled by any contemporary in Southern Methodism. He began to preach as a boy, was a junior circuit rider at nineteen, a presiding elder at twenty-three. Traveling on horseback over mountain trails and through still more difficult swampy lowlands, he carried the Gospel to the Dodgers and the New York terms. was a legend. Only half the portrait would be painted, however, if Bishop Candler were represented merely as a pulpit orator of well-deserved celebrity. His labors for education, especially his endeavors as president of Emory College and later as chancellor of Emory University, were less widely famous, but their effect will be more durable. To say that he built himself into the school he refounded would be to state but a portion of the truth. He attracted the cooperation of other important men, persuaded them to help to their utmost in the cause of learning. His example was an inspiration to at least one generation of teachers and their friends. The influence of his achievement has been felt throughout the Nation. It will continue to

The Hidden Press *

It is a fact often remarked upon that the art of printing never was intended to languish in chains. By its very nature the communication of knowledge by means of movable type is free. The principle of the press exempt from arbitrary control is merely a formal expression of a circumstance necessarily recognized by all men competent to reason. If it were otherwise, the monumental invention of Gutenberg would be an affliction to the human race. Only as it remains untrammeled by oppresthe high purposes of civilized life.

sion can the fruit of his genius serve ·Yet from the beginning the printer's craft has been an object of repressive action on the part of tyrannical authority. It is a matter of history that not much over a century after the first publishing plant was established in England, under license of the crown, there began to appear certain allegedly subversive broadsides and pamphlets which Queen Elizabeth most strenuously disapproved. The Jesuit missionaries at Stonors Park near Henley were charged with the mischief, and they may have been guilty of it. Driven underground as they were, they had logical excuse for continuing their propaganda subterraneously

Under somewhat similar conditions Protestant writers produced and circulated forbidden literature in the Catholic countries of the continent. The Jansenists were energetic operators of secret printing shops. More radical sects made still commoner use of the facilities of graphic reproduction for the dissemination of their peculiar doctrines. The Reformation was, in effect, a result of the hidden press. In like manner the French Revolution was stimulated if not actually created by Marat's newspaper L'Ami du Peuple, issued "virtually from the sewers of Paris." The example of his inflammatory sheets inspired the sponsors of the Russian revolutions of 1917

Meanwhile, La Libre Belgique came into existence in Brussels as an imperative answer to the challenge of German tyranny. Printed in defiance of official disapprobation, that famous periodical "was edited with great spirit and wit. The German authorities were sensitive beyond expectation to its stings and made ludicrously earnest efforts to run its authors to earth. Large rewards were offered, inoffensive people-including girls and boys and priestswere arrested on suspicion and in many cases condemned, but . . the Germans never knew whether they had merely missed the culprits altogether or caught them only to see their work pass on into other equally courageous hands." It was in an endeavor to find Philippe Bancq, an architect who was acting as substitute editor, that the agents of Baron von der Goltz discovered Edith Cavell, the English nurse whose execution, October 12, 1915, created a revulsion which contributed to the final defeat of the Kaiser's armies three years afterward.

La Libre Belgique survived the struggle, emerging at the time of the Armistice as a daily. Something of the same destiny may be the lot of those publications which now are being circulated furtively in the unhappy lands held by Hitler. The Free World for October reports three underground journals currently being issued in France-Les Petites Ailes, Liberte and Liberation. On the title page of the first of these appears the dictum of Napoleon: "To live in defeat is to die every day."

Brooklyn Wins

Washington knows how Brooklyn feels about the victory of the Dodgers in the neck-and-neck National League race for the baseball pennant. For, lo, these many years the Brooklynites have been the butt of jibes about the perennially low station of their team. Now the unbelievable has happened. The lowly has become great, "Lippy" Durocher has something really to lip about and all Brooklyn is wild. That is, wilder than usual. It was somewhat like that in Washington when our struggling Senators finally won a pennant back in 1924, showing conclusively that such things can happen here.

Analysis Clarifies Hospital Bed Figures

Health Officer Discusses Accommodations for Sick Now Available in Washington

To the Editor of The Star:

On Page B-1 of the noon edition of The Star for Thursday, September 18, there appeared an article entitled, "District Leads Nation in Hospital Facilities Per Population." In order that the data presented in that article should not be misinterpreted, we are submitting herewith certain information which will explain this seeming oversupply of hospital

Actually, at the present time there are 13.568 hospital beds within the confines of the District of Columbia. This number does not include bassinets or the 670 beds for tuberculosis at Glenn Dale Sanatorium. Assuming that the population of the District is 750,000 this would mean approximately 181 beds per 10,000 population. If the Glenn Dale beds are included, the ratio becomes 190 beds per 10.000 population. However, the composition of these numbers should be explained. There are-including Glenn Dale Sanatorium-2.317 general beds in the nongovernmental hospitals in the District There are 755 general hospital beds in Gallinger Municipal Hospital and 201 at Freedmen's Hospital available to the District residents. This represents a total of 3.273 general hospital beds in the District of Columbia exclusive of an additional 201 in Freedmen's Hospital, those at St. Elizabeths Hospital, United States Naval Hospital, Veterans' Administration Hospital and Walter Reed Hospital The four hospitals last named include a total of 9,403 beds, 2,386 of which are for general hospital care. However, these beds cannot be entirely credited to the District of Columbia inasmuch as they supply a Nation-wide need. The Veterans' Administration Hospital is limited to the use of war veterans, and Walter Reed and United States Naval Hospitals are largely limited to Army and Navy personnel respectively. It is apparent, therefore, that although there is a high ratio of hospital beds per population in the District a large percentage of these beds, 66.7 per cent, is made up of those in specialized hospitals, viz., St. Elizabeths, United States Naval Hospital, Veterans' Administration and Walter Reed Hospital.

Based on standards of adequacy for hospital beds determined by the Committee on the Cost of Medical Care the seemingly large oversupply of hospital beds in the District of Columbia does not exist. This is shown in the table

On the basis of Committee on Cost of Medical Care standards* Type of Care: D. C. Should D. C.

Have: Has General (including maternity, medical, surgical) 3,368 Tuberculosis . 1.035 1.071

Psychopathic Ward *Based on estimated 750,000 population in District of Columbia.

The 1.071 hospital beds for tuberculosis listed for the District of Columbia in the table above include 50 beds in frame buildings at Gallinger Hospital. These buildings should be replaced by modern well-equipped structures inasmuch as those now in use are old and have long since outlived their usefulness.

It is probable that the increased use of hospitalization since the Committee on the Cost of Medical Care study was published in 1933 will result in higher standards of beds per population in all categories. This can be attributed to widespread use of group hospitalization plans insofar as general hospital care is concerned and to improved diagnostic methods and more active case finding programs insofar as tuberculosis is concerned. It is generally accepted at the present time that there should be available two tuberculosis hospital beds per annual death in the community. On this basis there should be 1,182 tuberculosis beds available to serve the District. Actually there are 1,071 at the present time, not all of which are for the use of District residents.

I have called attention to but a sample of the unscrupulous deception being practiced on the people of the United States for the sole purpose of ensnaring them into another European war. Many native Americans who owe no allegiance elsewhere have wondered how such deceit has been possible, how this reversal of history has been effected. I believe the answer has been made by the late John Buchan, Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor General of Canada. In his "History of the Great War," he says: "She (America) was/as yet less a people than a collection of peoples. Her national consciousness, so far as political thinking was concerned, was weak. The Nation found itself frustrated at every turn by the state; her racial integration, in spite of the efforts of her reformers, was incomplete; the centrifugal forces, to use the common metaphor, were still stronger than the centripetal; she was less a unified power than a loose federation. It had been different 50 years before, but the America of 1916 was not the America of 1865. Her enormous increase in population had given her masses of men owing diverse allegiances, and, though she had absorbed them so that they soon approximated a common human type, she had not yet given them a common code of political thought. She was always in danger of becoming what Mr. (Theodore) Roosevelt described as a 'mere polyglot boarding house.'" W. F. WILMOTH.

'Voluntary' Pay Freezing Doubted

Spiraling Wages Attributed to Administration

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

There is very little to smile about in these days of hectic living in the National Capital, but if there could be an award for the "smileof-the-week," it would be credited to whoever is the author of the idea of "voluntary" regulation of wages. To say that

"voluntary" re-David Lawrence. straints imposed upon itself by labor is to attribute to labor leaders a willingness to abolish one of the principal reasons for their officeholding in trade unions-to get wage increases whenever possible.

If the sponsors of the "voluntary" idea mean that Government officials will be able to freeze wages and prevent increases through the Government's unofficial powers of persuasion, then the plan becomes even less plausible. For the Government itself-meaning thereby the President and his New Deal advisers -is responsible for the wage spiral which has given momentum to the inflationary price levels we have been experiencing in the last few months.

Key Unions Raised.

It will be recalled that last spring there was a wage conference between the auto workers' unions and General Motors. A strike was threatened. Fearful of displeasing the unions, the administration passed the word to the National Defense Mediation Board that it was all right to increase wages by 10 cents an hour. No thought was given to the fact that the auto industry was a key business and that accessory manufacturers and employers in the entire Middle West would be compelled to give a 10-cent-an-hour increase, too. Indeed, the union leaders went around the Middle West quoting the Mediation Board members as favoring the reopening of contracts that had not expired in order to provide for wage increases. The whole record of what the administration has done on wage increases in the year 1941 will not stand up under impartial examination, for it reveals the National Government as having blundered so badly that it is doubtful whether anything now can be done to stop the wage spiral and the price inflation that has begun.

It was known then that the administration was planning to collect by excess profits rates more taxes than ever before. It was known also that the cost to the taxpayers of the financial burden on defense contracts would be increased by high labor costs. But the administration sailed along nonchalantly into the seas of inflation. And now as the storm threatens, the administration presents the feeble argument that everything else in the way of prices can be regulated by law but wages These costs, it is insisted, can be handled by the "voluntary" plan.

If the "voluntary" idea is good for labor, then it is good for management. Leon Henderson, price administrator, has persuaded manage- and unemployment flowing from the increase the output of planes, tanks, ment to hold down prices where in- death sentence that will be imposed creased costs were not a factor. # Debacle in Prospect.

The plan of B. M. Baruch to put a ceiling on prices contemplates a ceiling on wages and farm prices, too, for it is doubtful whether any one who really believes in the profit-and-loss system of American enterprise thinks there can be national unity or price stabilization unless everybody is treated the same or at least unless the principles of fair play are applied to all. The Treasury Department now is proposing a limit on profits to 6 per cent on invested capital. Does this mean that if labor wants increased wages and a company cannot make lack of planning and inability to 6 per cent, that the Government comprehend the system of private will say to labor that its strikes are enterprise or the profit-and-loss anjustified? Civilization Urged to Protest Willful Injustice And Brutality of Shooting Hostages

By DOROTHY THOMPSON. Since totalitarian war became the first item on the agenda of the totalitarian State, the world has come to accept without protest the theory that any-limit to brutalities. But, Dorothy Thompson. actually, there always have been limits-there have been codes of international practice outlawing outrageously unjust actions. Even in a war to the death, some concessions were previously made to the conscience of mankind, and the customs of peace.

The International Red Cross was but a 19th century manifestation of the 18th century's "law of nations," which sought to remind men that even in war they should do as little damage as possible to civilized institutions and practices. Thus, hospital areas were not to be bombed; prisoners of war were not to be executed; ambulances bearing wounded were to be respected.

In this war, to have a Red Cross anywhere about is to invite a Stuka bomber.

Protest Is in Order. These remarks are elicited by the reports that have been appearing in the newspapers of the shooting of hostages by the German armies of occupation. Not a single nation, or group in any country, has protested against this. The Christian Church has not protested. The free universities of the democracies have not protested. As far as I can recall, the Pope has not protested. The President or Congress of the United States have not pro-

It will be said that protest would be totally ineffective. It probably would be, for all the influence it would have on the Nazis. Nevertheless, that protest should be registered, as a matter of record of the point of view of civilized human beings and as assurance to the people in the occupied countries that their fate is not a matter of indifference.

And I beg Congress, which represents a Nation that stands for edom under law to pass a condemnatory resolution and present it to the German government in the name of humanity, decency and a morality that transcends even mortal strife between na-

What is more likely to happen, however, is that labor will demand that the Government take over the plants and operate them and in this way investors will lose, managers will be driven out of their properties, as at Kearny, N. In this shooting of hostages is the complete breakdown of any sort of law whatsoever. No connection is established between the hostages and the crime-the hostages are shot purely as an act of terror to quell the popula-

Five. 10, 20, 50 innocent men must die, by arbitrary selection, for the crime of some one else. A Serbian bridge is blown up, and 50 Serbian peasants are collected from the nearest fields and strung up to their own fruit trees, without any attempt at investigation or trial.

The practice is not only admitted by the German authorities -they brag of it. It is the only efficient way, they argue, of keeping order.

Apparently this is the German new order. Other armies of occupation in conquered countries have not resorted to such methods. Germany itself, after the last war, was occupied by French, British and American troops. The German population committed acts of sabotage and terror against those armies of occupation. The guilty were usually apprehended and, if the act was particularly heinous, they were executed. One of them is regarded as a Nazi hero-Leo Schlageter. The Nazis, who are so piously outraged by the behavior of the French, erected a monument to him!

Schlageter blew up a railroad bridge at Duisburg, and the allied armies of occupation executed him. But never did they execute innocent people in order to terrorize the population.

Set Example of Order. There was, of course, a reason for this. The British, French and American governments and Armies were defending due process of law, in national and international relations. They knew that lawlessness breeds lawlessness, and that authority is kept by swift but just punishment. Mass murder is not justice: it is mass murder. It cannot be an

The Great Game of Politics

Administration Accused of Encouraging Strikes That Slow Defense Program

By FRANK R. KENT.

In public affairs it is no novelty to find men in positions of power who talk one way and act another. The ability to do this with impunity is one of the weaknesses of the democratic system. Bad enough in normal times, in a period such as this, when war threatens and the Nation needs every ounce of its productive energy, it is of course infinitely

A dual exhibi- Frank R. Kent. tion of this tendency now is being given by leaders of the administration and leaders of organized labor. Between them the American people are getting pretty rough treatment. Certainly they are not being dealt with honestly. This administration appeals for 100 per cent support in its defense effort and calls upon all citizens for sacrifice. That is the way the leaders talk, but they do not follow through. Quite the reverse. Their attitude not only has made of organized labor a preferred class, which retains all it has, but it has encouraged the labor leaders to use the national crisis involving more than 64,000 employes to obtain more, both in money and Administration leaders point out C. Those who have resulted in a shocking slowing most closely observe the labor sitdown of the program and an enormous increase in its cost. Yet, so these strikes within the next few far from discouraging strikes, the administration has encouraged them. The President's firm words of warning to the striking seamen who for 12 days had tied up shipping in New York do not altar the truth of that statement. His administration altogether lacks a labor policy except as indicated by the extremely pro-labor slant of its more conspicuous spokesmen. Beyond question these have encouraged labor leaders to believe that, regardless of the emergency, they can foment defense strikes without being pilloried as unpatriotic and with a certainty of at least partial success for every strike.

Variety of Encouragements. The encouragement has been given in various ways. One was in the extraordinary speech to strikers made by the wife of the President, in which she hoped that everybody whole business reeks with false prewould join a union. Another is the placing in key defense positions of so many paid labor lobbyists. Another is the course of the President's Mediation Board, whose decisions, uniformly generous on the labor side, have bred strikes faster than they could be settled. Currently engaged in "mediating" the shipping strike, it is only a question as to whether its decision will give the strikers everything they ask or just most of what they ask, Another is the shameful way in which the administration is dealing with the grave problem of price control It announces that inflation is threatened and that the regulation of prices is the only way to avert the disaster, both of which things are wholly obvious. It knows that wages are the chief factor in most commodity prices and that unless some means is found to regulate wages, effective price control is The recent attacks on industry impossible. Nevertheless, it not only lation, but actually sponsors a bill specifically exempts wages chosen as price administrator argues that to attempt wage regu-

Leningrad Defenders Know They're Doomed, But They'll Fight to the Last Man

By CONSTANTINE BROWN. The only cheerful news from the Russo-German front is the fact that no matter how hard pressed the Red forces may be, they continue to fight until they are overwhelmed.

This spirit of the Russians is encouraging because it clearly shows that despite what some of their leaders may think, the Soviet soldiers will not yield to the Nazis as long as they have a rifle or a hand grenade left. Other opponents of the Nazis on the European Continent collapsed as soon as the Germans reached their principal objectives. A sense of hopelessness swept the armies of Poland, Holland, Belgium and France. They surrendered soon after the first heavy blows were

This observation - made by military experts-does not imply any particular criticism of the courage of the Western European forces. The Poles were trapped between the German and Russian Armies: the Dutch had had little fighting experience and their forces were far too small to onpose the overwhelming German legions; the Belgians were caught between the Germans and the hundreds of thousands of refugees who cluttered the roads that would have connected King Leopold's troops with the forces of his allies The French became demoralized as soon as they realized that the Maginot line was not impregnable. Government propaganda had convinced the soldiers and civilians that they were 100 per cent safe behind the "strongest fortress ever built in the history of the world." When the Germans demonstrated that this was not the case they lost all hope and refused to carry on the fight from Africa. Officers who advocated continued resistance argued that the Mediterranean was a much safer "wall" than anything built out of concrete and steel, but their pleas fell on deaf ears and France surrendered Only a miracle and the dogged courage of the British kept Hitler from winning the war in August or September, 1940.

Not so the Russians. On paper the Muscovites have lost the war. The main industrial centers of the country are either in Nazi hands or reduced to rubble. The rich mining districts of the Ukraine are already in the hands of the Nazis or are expected to fall before long. The Soviet armies will have to rely in the future mainly on war material from the United States or Great Britain. It will have to be transported over enormous distances and in the face of overwhelming transportation difficulties. Hitler apparently figured that the Soviet general staff would realize the difficultties of continuing the war and would suggest an armistice soon after the key cities in Western Russia fell.

But the Russian general staff is composed of men without much technical understanding. It is made up of rough soldiers who believe a war must be continued until there are no more men and arms to fight the enemy. This has been shown so far in the fighting around Leningrad and Odessa. Both of these pivotal fortresses—one on the Black Sea and the other on the Baltichave been given up for lost by strategists for the last two weeks. They are surrounded; they are cut off from the outside world; the garrisons are short of ammunition and food.

reached the outside world tell of unbelievable acts of heroism in these two cities. Soldiers and civilians alike have been fighting shoulder to shoulder. Even though the militia-composed of men and women-has but little modern war equipment, the defenders of these cities have made a simple calculation: They believe that several million individuals, even though poorly armed, can make a barrier against smaller enemy forces armed with the latest war paraphernalia. The reported casualties are about six to one; that is to say, six Russians to every German. The heroes of Odessa and Leningrad know they are doomed. But they also know that delaying the enemy and causing him as many casualties as possible will give the other armies fighting in the central and southern fronts a chance to withdraw. The French did not defend

Paris and the other cities in the path of the capital because they did not want them to be ruined by German bombers. These cities represented hundreds of years of history and civilization. From the esthetic point of view, they were right. There is no such feeling among the Russians. Peter the Great's capital will probably be reduced to ashes.

I learned operating a lemonade stand during the summer of 1916, when I was at the ribbed-stocking and stubbed-toe age. So you have a perfect right to wrap the children's recess lunch in my opinion on the matter of more pay for soldiers. But I am going to express it just the * * * *

There may be some sound eoonomic reason for putting soldiers on approximately the same wage scale as incompentent chimney sweeps, but what is it? Until I find out and my home address is the Dead Letter Office, if any one cares to send in an explanation) I am going to argue that the No. 1 person to be taken care of in time of war is the man who, when the enemy is sighted,

There is no getting around the fact that he is the gent who runs the real risk. This isn't meant as a slight on the non-combatant, but when the shouting begins, it's the gent in khaki who'll have to get out there and play for keeps. Not to appreciate his importance or to put him at the end of the line when the dough is being passed around is like giving the achievement award to the man who makes baseball bats and not to the players who swing the bats to win ball games.

At the present the average soldier is paid less than the low-bracket defense worker. This doesn't make sense in my book. The defense worker is vital, yes, but what in the world good would the gun, bullet tank or plane that he builds be if the soldier weren't there to take it in his hands and make it work?

I am not advocating that the soldier be paid a salary that would enable him to have a limousine and chauffeur, breed polo ponies, take the cure at Hot Springs on his furlough, and keep the girl back home supplied in orchids and diamond

But he should have enough to do a few of the things that he did and enjoyed before he was called into service. And he can't do that on the pay he gets now. Not unless he is tremendously gifted at throwing sevens and elevens, or has one of the fates working overtime in his behalf to see that his hole card is always an ace. And we have all lived long enough to know that such men are rare.

I've been to enough Army camps and talked to enough soldiers to money. It can't be right that the men who stand ready to lay down their lives for their country should have to fret about the price of a 3-cent stamp or a 5-cent bottle of pop or the admission charge to a double-feature movie. And they do. I can't help feeling that a special delivery stamp even or a loge seat at the movies is not too good for a fellow who carries a gun and is

What the soldier wants (if the ones I have talked to and had letters from offer a true guide) is enough money to enjoy the pleasures that the average citizen does. He wants to be able to go into town two or three times a week, buy few things for himself, stand for a round of beers or two, without having eternally to root in his pockets for a few pennies.

That doesn't seem too greedy a This country seems to have enough its own soldiers decent wages. It seems to me that our first line of defense deserves first considera-

Scientist Sees Hope Of Checking Plagues As Result of War

Experiments Disclose How to Control Some Bacteria Infections

By THOMAS R. HENRY,

Star Staff Correspondent. CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Possibility of new devastations of the world by such a plague as black death or black diphtheria-feared by many as a result of the present war-is greatly reduced by recent progress of medicine.

This was stressed at today's meeting here of the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Dr. Paul R. Cannon of the University of Chicago.

Great plagues of the past, he pointed out, have been due to bacteria. After entering the body, he continued, "the ability of bacteria to grow in living tissues depends on forces inherent in both the bacteria and the host. At times, in highly virulent bacteria, it is so predominant, due possibly to an unusual degree of innate growth energy, that under proper conditions they can grow rapidly, feed efficiently and overcome quickly all efforts on the part of the host to prevent these actions.

Death Spreads Quickly. "This type of infection, fulritinating in development and quickly lethal in course, accounts, presumably, for many epidemics, plagues and pestilences.

"But I believe it is obvious that if conditions could be so controlled that bacteria, even after their entrance into the body, could be forced to remain localized near the portal of entry, and in tissues unfavorable for bacterial growth, many of the dangers of acute infection would be

"What experimental evidence is there which warrants optimism for the future solution of many of these problems? Why should not black death, black diphtheria and black scarlet fever return as modern pestilences? The encouraging answer is that we know from a study of similar infections in experimental animals how some of them develop and how they can be controlled." Dr. Cannon cited his recent ex-

Junior High Principals Back Classroom Use Of Radio Series

'Americas' Broadcasts Scheduled to Start Early in November

■ A tentative program to incorporate broadcasts of the projected radio series, "The Americas," into the class schedules of Washington junior high schools was approved at a meeting yesterday of more than 150 principals and school representatives constituting the Junior High Radio Committee. The series presented jointly by The Star and the District junior high schools with the assistance of the National Broadcasting Co., is scheduled to open in the early part of November The program, described by Hugh Stewart Smith, principal of Jefferson and chairman of the Radio Committee, calls for a broadcast period from 2 to 2:30 p.m. on Monday of each week, immediately after which class discussion of the broadcast will be held until 3 p.m. Adontion of such a program marks the first time a District junior high will have altered its classroom schedule to include a broadcast of this nature as part of the regular lesson plan. A special meeting following the Radio Committee session was held by school principals to discuss administrative features of the plan.

Workshop Program Outlined. Mr. Smith and Bill Coyle, radio director of The Star, also outlined the functions of a proposed workshop group—the first of its kind locally-which will be comprised of members of the committee and other teachers participating in the Latin America series, and will meet each month to discuss production details. The initial workshop meeting is slated at 7 p.m. October 7 in the N. B. C. studios.

Miss Charlotte Clark, librarian of the Petworth Branch Library, who addressed the group, offered "full co-operation" of the public libraries in furnishing ample background material for the broadcasts. but asked at the same time that requests for such matter be made well in advance. Other speakers Included Miss Alice Morse of Stuart Junior, who urged that the series stress the "human" side of the Americas "rather than become a concentration of dry, factual accounts," and Lawson J. Cantrell. assistant superintendent in charge of junior high schools, who predicted

Group Is Feted Here Prior to Return to Toronto Training Base

Ten Norwegian flyers, some of them veterans of the air battle with the Germans over Oslo, took off from Bolling Field this morning for La Guardia Field, New York, where they plan to spend a few hours on their way back to Toronto, Canada. where there is a Norwegian air fraining base.

The flyers, who arrived here yesterday, make up the first contingent of Allied airmen who have visited Washington. They spent the night at Bolling Field as guests of the United States Army Air Corps. They were entertained yesterday by a luncheon and reception at the Carlton Hotel, arranged by the Norwegian Legation.

Heavier Taxes Regarded As Inflation Safeguard

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 26.-Frank E. Seidman, tax economist, declared last night that heavier taxes, not price fixing, are the answer to inflation threats. In an address Seidman called the again with the dust brushed off." "If we limit taxation today to the methods used in the first World War." he said, "we shall be making as great a mistake as it would be to send Gen. Pershing's 1918 army. equipped as it was then, into the field against Hitler's 1941 mechanized divisions

"The battle against inflation is the 'battle of America.' This is a battle we cannot afford to lose, for, if we get an explosive price spiral, there is sure to be a long, long drop at the end of it and when we hit bottom it is certain to wreck our whole economy

"Inflation is no longer the mirage that has been talked about for the past eight years. It is here. The 12% 12% shoe has begun to pinch—not seriously yet, but it is steadily tighten-

By VICTOR EUBANK, Associated Press Financial Writer NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Scattered stocks grasped at recovery straws with mild success in today's market. but many leaders exhibited a notable lack of rallying power.

Selling dried up at the start and, for a while, plus signs were well distributed. A few weak spots then appeared and gains were erased in numerous cases. Trends stiffened for a few aircrafts, rails and specialties in the final hour and the close was moderately mixed.

Dealings were sluggish throughout with transfers for the full proceedings around 500,000 shares, against 1,170,000 shares in yesterday's slump. Wall Street generally felt that the Treasury demand for a 6 per cent ceiling on corporate profits would be cold-shouldered in Congress and some who unloaded Thursday inclined to reinstate part of their commitments. On the other hand, the thought would not down that taxes and other measures would be used to shave war earnings to relatively slim proportions and that owners of shares might be the ultimate sufferers insofar as dividends were concerned.

Iron and Steel Scrap Ceiling Boosted to Get Supplies

Henderson Describes Price Changes as Experimental

By the Associated Press.

Leon Henderson, price administrator, increased the ceiling on iron and steel scrap in certain areas today in an effort to obtain larger supplies for steel mills

The program is an experimental one. Henderson said, and is designed to get "remote scraps" to consuming make collection difficult.

The revised schedule permits a shipping point price of $12 a ton for No. 2 heavy melting scrap in Florida and in all States west of Mississippi excepting California, Oregon and Washington. Present prices vary with shipping points and range from $4.50 to $12 a ton.

A separate provision defines as "remote scrap" all grades of scrap, other than railroad scrap, having a shipping point and point of origin with Florida, Oklahoma, Texas, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Wvoming, Idaho and Montana. It stipulates that the maximum price for any "remote scrap" delivered to the plant of a consumer may be $5 a ton above the top delivered price tive inspiration, brokers said, and which he has been permitted to pay

Capital bankers ascribed the shattering of all previous deposit records to the growth of the city and suburban territory, the business boom here due to national defense efforts and to many less important factors. While it has been known that deposits have been climbing rapidly, the size of the gain caused general surprise.

Warm Weather and Lag In Forward Buying Check Upturn

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 26 .- The upward | tle change. trend of business activity was checked somewhat this week, Dun & Bradstreet reported today in the "Retail volume increased seasonally but warm weather and diminished forward buying on the part of Maintain Sharp consumers prevented year to year gains from equaling those of recent months," the agency said.

"Shortages of materials continued to occupy the industrial spotlight, preventing further expansion in most lines. Some civilian manufacturers, unable to obtain supplies, were forced to curtail operations drastically. Activity in wholesale markets was quiet and distributors concentrated on obtaining goods to fill orders already placed."

Retail sales for the country as a whole were estimated at 15 to 23 per cent ahead of last year. New England and the Southern States. with gains of from 20 to 25 per cent, topped other areas. Percentage increases in the other major sections Southwest, 15 to 24; East, 12 to 18: Middle West, 15 to 20; Northwest, 14 to 19, and Pacific Coast, 17 to 23.

The report said it was becoming increasingly evident that consumers were "stocked up" on many items and this fact, coupled with inability of merchants to secure sufficient goods at the right prices, brought a curtailment of numerous promotional efforts

Wholesale Advances Are Filtering Through To Consumers

by the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 .-- Founding wholesale prices, based on higher wages, production costs and more expensive raw materials, have boosted retail prices "and the consumer has just begun to pay," the magazine Business Week said today.

In an analysis of prices, the magazine said that increased volume and sales made it possible for manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers to absorb increased expenses for a while.

"But now the advances in raw, semi-finished and finished prices are filtering through to retail markets," the publication said.

On White House Call

Keeping a curtailed schedule prior o his departure tonight for Hyde Park, N. Y., the Chief Executive received for a half hour conference this morning Lynn U. Stambaugh, newly elected national commanders of the Legion. Accompanying Mr. Stambaugh to the White House was Col. Louis Johnson, a former national commander and former Assistant Secretary of War.

Mr. Stambaugh brought with him copies of resolutions of indorsement of administration policy overwhelmingly approved by the recent Legion convention. As he left the White House, the commander said that the President had expressed himself as "much heartened and encouraged by what the Legion did. Mr. Stambaugh said that he had ATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, climaxes an eventful week in American naval and marine history. The first of the Liberty Fleet ships is to be launched at Fairfield, Baltimore, at 12:30 P.M. (E.S.T.). Before the day is over 14 vessels, under the auspices of the U.S. Maritime Commission, will have slid down the ways.

The launchings will take place at eleven ports on two oceans and the Gulf of Mexico, from Quincy, Massachusetts, to Seattle, Washington.

MORE THAN 50,000 TONS IN FOUR DAYS

The week is a particularly eventful one for Bethlehem. Within four days its shipbuilding operations will have launched more than 50,000 tons of vessels: The battleship Massachusetts slid into the water on September 23, and on Liberty Fleet Day Bethlehem yards see the launching of the first Liberty Fleet vessel, S.S. Patrick Henry; the tanker, Sinclair Superflame, built for Sinclair Refining Company; and the cargo ship, James McKay, built for Lykes Brothers Steamship Company. Bethlehem has 76 vessels now building for the U.S. Navy. In addition, 93 merchant ships are scheduled for the Maritime Commission and other owners.

Bethlehem will have launched 41 vessels during the current calendar year. This is but the beginning of the "bridge of ships." The schedule for the Bethlehem-Fairfield Yard alone calls for the launching of one ship a week during 1942, and the combined yards will complete a ship on the average of every 31/2 working days, including heavy naval vessels.

Governmental Group Nearly Doubles Wednesday Report

After a slight decline in activity attributed by Chairman Edgar A. Morris to a natural reaction following the beginning of the campaign, the annual District Red Cross Roll Call membership vesterday was increased by 1.682 as the first of the canvassing groups passed the 1.000 mark.

The total to date stands at 4. Mr. Morris explained that this figure is ahead of results at the same period of the 1940 drive and said it lent support to his prediction that the goal of 200,000 will be reached before the October 20 deadline arrives

Considerable enthusiasm was reported around Roll Call neadquarters in the Walsh house, 2020 Massachusetts avenue N.W., yesterday when the governmental group of canvassers, made up of approximately 10,000 men and women who will comb the Federal offices for enrollees, brought in a total nearly double that of the preceding day. Memberships obtained by the group increased from 580 on Wednesday to 1.031 yesterday.

New Law Adding $22,500 Income In Montgomery

Quarterly Plan Of Assessment to Net $45,000 in Year

By a Staff Correspondent of The Star. ROCKVILLE, Md., Sept. 26 .-Montgomery County will be richer by approximately $22,500 at the end of this month because of a provision in the real estate assessment law that became effective July 1.

The provision levies real estate assessments every three months instead of once a year as heretofore. Chairman Richard H. Lansdale of the County Board of Assessment. said about $2,000,000 in new construction, completed since the beginning of the fiscal year, July 1, will be placed on the tax books as of October 1. Under the old setup, this property would have escaped taxation until July, 1942.

Mr. Lansdale said properties put on during the first quarter are to be taxed for only three-fourths of a year, and those put on during the second quarter will be taxed for half a year. Those added after that time are not taxed until the follow:

During the next quarter Mr. Lansdale said, new construction is expected to increase and will probably reach $3,000,000. Taxes on that amount for half a year would bring the county another $22,500, making a total gain of about $45,000 this year from the new law

Bills on the newly added property will be sent out early next month. Hearings on the new assessments have been set by the board for the last Tuesday of each month. If property owners are not satisfied with their assessments, they may appeal to the State tax office.

The law also provides for a continuous assessment of one-fifth of the county each year instead of a general assessment of the entire county every five years. Plans for establishing the continuous program have not yet been completed, Mr. Lansdale said.

Justice Jesse C. Adkins adjourned the trial until Monday at conclusion of the first day. # Maryland Tax On Property Cut 8 Cents

O'Conor Reduces Rate for 1942 to 14 Cents Per $100

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 26 .- An 8-cent slash in the State's property tax for the next two years—the most cheering tax news to Marylanders since the last Legislature—was proclaimed today by Gov. O'Conor.

By proclamation, the Governor cut the tax on real and personal property from 22 cents per $100 to 14 cents in 1942, and from 21 to 13 per cent in 1943.

He hinted there might be a special Legislative session to whittle the State income tax down still more than was done last spring.

Decision Deferred. Such a step would make a cut effective on 1941 incomes. Gov. O'Conor said the move "has been suggested, but we haven't considered it yet. Nothing has been determined as to whether a special session might be called.

He added that it "would serve no purpose" to call such a session before next year. First payments in 1941 income would not be due until April 15, 1942.

The General Assembly last spring cut the real estate levy by 2.60 cents for the next biennium. The tax on investment income was cut from 6 to 5 per cent, and the levy on earned income from 2.5 to 2 per cent.

Soaring State revenues made this latest reduction possible, Gov O'Conor explained. J. Millard Tawes, State controller, estimated that with present taxes 1942 fiscal year would yield a surplus of $8,500,000.

Surplus Increases.

Mr. Tawes had estimated the surplus by this September 30, end of the 1941 fiscal year, at $8,350,000, but much of these funds are to be used in 1942 for financing operations. The 1942 budget allowed only for $2,200,000 to be carried over into the next year, and that, Gov. O'Conor said, would cut the estimated 1942 surplus of $8,500,000 to $6,300,000 Therefore he reduced the real estate property tax. The cut will mean a saving to taxpayers of about $2,000 -000 and whittle the 1942 surplus to

That still is high and provides the basis for suggestions that the income ## tax be reduced. Has Power to Make Cut. A law passed at the last Legislature gives the Governor the power to reduce the property tax. It provided that if the State surplus exceeded $2,000,000, the Board of Public Works could apply any or all of the excess to interest and principal on the State debt. But since all proceeds of the prop erty tax are used for that purpose alone, use of the surplus toward that goal makes the property tax reduction possible. The law also provided that any reduction be applied Announcement of the reduction a

$4,348,880 Set Aside for Roads In Virginia

8 Per Cont Reserve Set Up to Meet Increased Costs

By the Associated Press. RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 26.—The Virginia Highway Commission vesterday allocated $4,348,880 of anticipated additional funds for the current fiscal year and awarded 14 road and bridge construction contracts totaling $993,817.93. Two low bids were rejected.

The commission also provided for setting up a reserve of approximately 8 per cent in each district to meet any increased costs beyond estimates so that construction programs elsewhere in the State might not be disrupted, and allowed 1 per cent of each district's quota for landscaping.

The $4,348,880 is expected to be realized during the fiscal year ending next June 30, representing an increase over the original estimates of highway fund revenues for the year. It is in addition to $3,000,000 allocated a few weeks ago, which was money already in hand, col'ected in excess of estimates for the year Allocations Listed.

The allocations from the $4,348,880 by districts were: Richmond, $637,-545; Bristol, $547,960; Salem, $610,-150: Lynchburg, $546,220; Suffolk, $638.850; Fredericksburg, $319,310; Culpeper, $492,290, and Staunton,

The General Assembly last spring cut the real estate levy by 2.60 cents for the next biennium. The tax on investment income was cut from 6 to 5 per cent, and the levy on carned income from 2.5 to 2 per cent. Soaring State revenues made this latest reduction possible. Gov O'Conor explained. Tawes, State controller, estimated that with present taxes 1942 fisca year would yield a surplus of Surplus Increases. Mr. Tawes had estimated the surplus by this September 30, end of the 1941 fiscal year, at $8.350,000, but much of these funds are to be used in 1942 for financing operations. The 1942 budget allowed only for $2,200,000 to be carried over into the next year, and that, Gov. O'Conor said, would cut the estimated 1942 surplus of $8.500,000 to $6,300,000 Therefore he reduced the real estate

By the Way-

More like some lovely fairyland than a garden in the heart of crowded city is the terrace of Clarence Hewes' Massachusetts avenue house, where we had after-dinner coffee and liqueurs last night. Japanese lanterns glowed on either side of the narrow winding wrought-iron stairs that led from the drawing room down the several charming brick-inclosed levels overlooking cool, shady Rock Creek Park. "Why don't we have a night club like this?" asked bright-eyed Walter Prendergast, relaxing in a comfortable chair, "or can't we make Buzzy have a party every night?"-

Well, we wish we could, for no one in Washington gives nicer parties. Dinner was perfection. The wines, the food, the serviceand the flowers, not to mention the guests. The party was arranged for Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rogers, who are Mr. Hewes' house guests. Both are good-looking, gay and amusing-have loads of friends in Washington-although for some years they've been living in France. Among their old friends here are Mrs. George Pettengill, who was at dinner, looking very decorative in an orchid printed frock; Mrs. Buchanan Merryman, in distinguished black lace; Mrs. Lionel Atwill and brother, James Cromwell, and the Danish Minister and Mme.

Mrs. Nina Gore Auchincloss wore a fetching frock of navy blue and white, sat on a pale blue brocade sofa and compared notes on Reno with witty Mrs. Atwill. "I'd rather never get a divorce than go to Reno." said Louise. "Every time I get mad at Lionel, I remember how I hated Reno and make up right away." Comdr. Tommy Thomas says he's reducing, but not for love-anyhow he looks wonderful and slim. A very attractive young couple, the Burdens, attended the dinner. We hope we'll see them again and learn their first names. After dinner the Snowden Fahnestocks (Bee in a lovely new black and pink gown), "Mike" Scanlan, Buzzy's niece, Ellen Floweree Hammond and her attractive husband, and one or two others dropped by. Instead of the haunting old "April in Paris" we wish some one would write a new song called "September in Washington"-maybe they could, if they went to dinner first at Buzzy Hewes!

The exception that proves the rule, in the old saying "everything's been done before," was certainly Mrs. Waggaman Pulver's party yesterday. We're sure there's never been one quite like it. To go back to the beginning and tell the whole story-Grace, like so many other people with a flair for "doing over" houses, decided to take advantage of this great Capital real estate boom and build some. So-o she went out and bought herself a couple of lots on Dent Place in Georgetown, and with Brother Wolcott Waggaman acting as architect, had plans drawn up to build three charming small houses. Day before yesterday she drove over to take a look at the lots before building began, and there sat the most enormous steam shovel she'd ever seen. Grace says that ever since early childhood she's had a frantic desire to run a steam shovel-and this, remember, was the nearest she'd ever come to one. Then and there she got the idea for her party-an idea which would also fulfill her suppressed desire about steam shovels! She'd call up a group of special friends and ask them over for the "ground-breaking," which she herself would do at the controls of the steam shovel! She'd have music and something cool to drink and make it a real party.

Mrs. Pulver ordered a big iced tub of beer, told several musician to be there at noon-and promptly at 12 yesterday the party began Sleek cars rolled up to the vacant lot, stopped before the steam shovel. Out stepped smartly dressed Mrs. Thomas Richard Cowell, with George Williams. Next came Mrs. Benjamin Thaw in a new black fall frock and a very becoming new hair-do. Bessie McKeldin Thorne, who is back in Washington for the winter in her own Georgetown house again, was another early arrival. "Doggy" Waggaman brought the plans along with him and Bill McCracken came with his tall son, Lewis. Mrs. Horace Smith was there, too, and so were Mrs. Noyes Lewis and Jack Logan and Edward Gardner and Maj. Bengt Jacobsson.

Snappily attired in well-fitting tailored navy blue slacks and dusty rose colored blouse, Mrs. Pulver climbed into the operator's seat of the steam shovel, took control with assurance, and to the shouts and cheers of her friends lifted the first shovel of earth high up into the air. Some one brightly suggested that Grace's next party should be the "laying of the cornerstone," then a housewarming. So you see, once you take up building there are infinite possibilities for entertaining

Elizabeth Hall Becomes Bride of Capt. Kendall

Capt. Lane Carter Kendall, U. S. M. C. Reserve, and his bride will be at home at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, where he now is on duty. The wedlatter formerly Miss Elizabeth Wilson Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Randolph Hali, took place yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed in the Presbyterian Church at Beech Island, S. C., and was followed by a reception in the home of the bride's parents on the island. The Rev. John L. Stuart of Bealeton, Va., officiated at 5:30 o'clock, and the church was attractively decorated with white gladioluses, palms and southern smilax and was lighted by candles.

Mr. Robert Walton of Augusta. Ga., and Mr. J. Henry Hammond of Kathwood, S. C., escorted the guests to their pews before the ceremony and led the bridal procession to the altar, where Capt, Kendall and his best man, Mr. John Randolph Hall, jr., of Augusta, brother of the bride, awaited her. Following the ushers were the bridesmaids. Miss Sara Wilson and Miss Katharine Wilson of Burton, S. C., and the maid of honor, Miss Virginia Hall, sister of the bride, immediately preceded her to the altar.

Mr. Hall escorted his daughter and gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown was of ivory white satin damask, which was made with a fitted bodice to the hipline and had a very full skirt, falling into a train. The sleeves were three-quarter length, and the neckline was sweetheart shaped. An imported wreath of orange blossoms held her long tulle veil, which had a short veil covering her face before the ceremony. She carried bridal roses with a shower of bouvardia.

Her attendants were dressed in blue taffeta frocks made like hers with the exception of the full skirts, which were floor length and without trains. They carried fuchsia-color gladioluses and blue delphinium.

Only members of the two families and out-of-town guests attended the reception, after which Capt. and Mrs. Kendall started on their brief wedding trip. The bride's traveling costume was of R. A. F. blue wool, with which she wore navy blue accessories and a corsage bouquet of white roses. She was graduated from the University of North Carolina and for the pats three years has been actuarial mathematician with the Social Security Board in Washington. Capt. Kendall was graduated from Tulane University.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Richardson of Arlington, Va., was the scene of a wedding of quiet simplicity yesterday afternoon, when their daughter, Miss Gertrude Richardson, was married to Mr. James Robert Gannon of Phila-

White flowers against a background of green were used in arranging the marriage setting, and bright-hued fall flowers were attractively displayed throughout the rooms of the bride's home. The Rev. Hunter M. Lewis of Epiphany Church in Washington officiated at the ceremony, which took place at 2 o'clock, and Mrs. E. P. Jinkins played an appropriate program of wedding music in addition to the Lohengrin march.

The bride was costumed in a traveling suit of dark green velvet with a hat and shoes to match and wore a corsage of white orchids. She was escorted by her brother, Mr. Robert P. Richardson of Riverdale, Md., and given by him in

Mr. W. H. Zeydel of Washington, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man for Mr. Gannon, and only relatives and a few intimate friends attended the wedding.

Representative Sheridan, Demoof $1,500 for Federal workers, he United Federal Workers of America al income next year to be 90 billion (C. I. O.) the measure also proto $3,200 the pay of employes now receiving from $2.900 to $3,200.

In explaining his bill, Mr. Sheridan expressed the view that mandatory pay increases for Government petual Gripe, will welcome 2,256,employes are needed in view of the | 000 additional members into the rapidly rising cost of living.

"Many Federal workers are still earning less than $700, $900 and $1,200," he said. "The cost of living is soaring. Rents already have become intolerable, particularly in Washington, and food prices will reach menacing heights by fall. Millions of workers in private industry have received pay raises. I believe that fixed income Government employes will suffer serious hardships unless they also receive substantial pay increases."

"I intend to seek immediate action on this bill. The morale of the Federal employes will be greatly increased by this measure. Lowsalary Government workers are now forced to seek other means of raising their income."

Taxpayers' Club Is Letting Down the Bars

Uncle Sam to Welcome 2,256,000 New Members Who Will Pay $40,000,000 Initiation Fee Come Next March 15

By LUCRECE HUDGINS,

In 1942 Uncle Sam is going to take the equivalent of $97.03 from every man, woman and child in the country. On top of that, State, county and municipal tax collectors will take an additional $69.62 per person. That's the way things would be crat, of Pennsylvania will introduce IF the estimated 22 billion dollar in the House on Monday a bill to tax bill for 1942 (counting the new establish a minimum annual wage Federal tax of three and a half billion and the expected State and local levies) were divided equally among the population.

Prepared in co-operation with the | The Treasury expects the nationdollars. But before we can begin vides an increase of $300 for every jingling this around in our pockets than $2,900. It also would increase about one-quarter of it to the various branches of government.

> No Longer So Exclusive. The Income Taxpayers' Club. otherwise known as the Society of Perorganization next March 15. Congress has considerately reduced exemptions in order to permit these additional citizens to share the fun. A slight initiation fee of $40,-000,000 will be charged these new members, which is approximately the price of 100 new super bombers.

> Bringing the figures downstairs where we little fellows can understand them, the picture fits together something like this: If you are a single man or a career girl earning $20 a week you now pay Uncle Sam a mere seven and a half cents a week. In 1942 you'll have to cut 41 cents out of the budget pie every week and serve it to the Government.

Taxes As A Budget Item. If you are a married man with no dependents, earning $40 a week. you never before had to worry about income taxes. But your day has come, oldtimer. In 1942, every week you'll have to set aside for the enough money to keep you in cigar-

If you are married, have two dependents, and net $60 a week, you, too, are a newcomer to the Income Taxpayers' Club and your fee will be $1.12 a week.

You may think it would be nice to have a million dollar annual income, but at $19,230 a week you would have to kick back $14,098 to the Federal collectors, which is $283 more a week than this year.

And you might shed a tear for the multimillionaire. If he has a net income of $96,153 a week he will hand over $75,444 of it to the United States Government.

One Feeble Ray. This being the situation, the people's representatives have a pretty good idea of just how black things are going to look to Mr. Average American on the evening of next March 14 when he gets to fooling around with a scratch pad. So the gentlemen on Capitol Hill got a lot of Government accountts to do the paper work, the deducting and crediting and exempting, so that all the taxpayer who earns less than $3,001 will have to do next March 15 is look up one figure on a simplified chart and send in a check for same.

First Ship Launched For 'Liberty Fleet'

Mrs. Henry A. Wallace Sponsor Tomorrow for Craft at Baltimore

High Government officials, members of Congress, and newspapermen that it will be on the street as soon tomorrow will take a five-car special as possible. train, called the Liberty Fleet Day Special, to Baltimore for the launching of the first of the Liberty Fleet

Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, wife of the Vice President, who will sponsor one of the new vessels, the Patrick Henry, has selected as matrons of honor for the launching, Mme. Bruggman, wife of the Minister of Switzerland, and a sister of Mr. Wallace, and Mrs. Robert Jackson, wife of the Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. They will motor to the launching with Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, and Mrs.

As the new vessel starts down the ways, carrier pigeons will be released from under the prow, carrying a message from Admiral Land to President Roosevelt announcing the completion of one step toward the Maritime Commission's goal of two new ships a day for 1942 and 1943. The pigeons are scheduled to return to their loft at the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, N. J., whence the message will be transmitted by wire to the White House.

Although there will be 14 ships launched within a period of 141/2 hours tomorrow, starting at 6 a.m., the principal ceremonies will be centered around the Patrick Henry, which is the first of the Liberty fleet, three ships of which are to be in-cluded in tomorrow's launchings. The other vessels will be from other parts of the commission's long-range program, started prior to the emergency, and will include one Army transport.

Convoys Send Land Planes Out To Fight Nazis

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.-Singleseater fighter planes catapulted from the decks of British freighters are proving effective in helping to move convoys between Iceland and England, travelers reaching here said yesterday. The British Press Service confirmed their stories.

These land planes-risking death for the pilot because of their inability to land on water-have been attacking German bombers and spotter planes sent out to get information for U-boat flotillas.

The planes, carrying four machine guns and several 50-pound bombs attached to the wings, are not expected to return to the vessel after they are thrown into the air. They try to make land, and if this is impossible because of fuel shortage due to a long flight, they attempt a "mush" landing near a ship and the pilot takes to a rubber raft.

Some observers called the planes "suicide" units, but the British Press Service said casualties were infre-

Noted Educator Served University Since 1907; Previously at Florida

Dr. Thomas Hardy Taliaferro, 70. noted educator and dean emeritus of the faculty of the University of Maryland, died last night after an illness of several weeks at his home in the Concord Apartments, 1816

New Hampshire avenue N.W. Dr. Taliaferro had been suffering from a heart ailment for several years and became seriously ill about six weeks ago. After undergoing treatment at the University of Maryland Hospital in Baltimore for two weeks, he spent his final days at his home with his wife, Mrs. Janie G. S. Taliaferro, who was at his bedside when death came. The flag was placed at half staff at the university and Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the institution, said: "The whole university is deeply shocked at the news of Dean Taliaferro's passing."

Dr. Taliaferro had been associated with the University of Maryland from 1907 until his retirement last April, and his deep interest in its welfare and advancement made him one of the university's outstanding

At the time of his retirement. when he was dean of the faculty, he wrote Dr. Byrd: "There will never, so far as I am concerned, be any separation from the university, except in a physical sense."

In his reply, Dr. Byrd said: "No man has contributed more to the university's general welfare, nor to the raising and maintenance of its educational standards than you."

Dr. Taliaferro, who had been associated with educational work since the age of 19, was the first president of the University of Florida. In 1901 he became president of the Florida Agricultural College and, under his leadership, the institution became the University of

Born in Jacksonville, Fla., the son of Warner Throckmorton and Fannie Johnston Taliaferro, he received a civil engineering degree in 1890 from Virginia Military Institute, and his Ph. D. degree from Johns Hop-kins University in 1896.

His first teaching position was at Virginia Military Institute, where he was an associate professor in 1890-91. Subsequently, he taught at the Missouri Military Academy and Pennsylvania State College before serving as head of the University of Florida from 1901 to 1904.

After two years of service as assistant statistical editor of the Census Bureau, he became associated with the University of Maryland as professor of civil engineering. From 1916 to 1920, Dr. Taliaferro was dean of the college of engineering, and in 1927 he became dean of the college of arts and sciences, a post he held until his appointment in 1937 to the then newly created office of dean of the

Samuel A. Maginnis, Former Diplomat, Dies Here at 55

Was Minister to Bolivia, 1919-22, and Assistant To Attorney General

Samuel Abbot Maginnis, 55, former Minister to Bolivia and special assistant to the Attorney General, died last night at Emergency Hospital. He was stricken with a heart attack after lunch yesterday at a downtown hotel. Mr. Maginnis, who was appointed Minister to Bolivia by President Wilson, served in that post from September 23, 1919, until January 8, 1922. He was named a special assistant to the Attorney General in the Anti-Trust Division of the Department of Justice in 1938.

Born in Zanesville. He was born in Zanesville, Ohio, the son of Judge W. L. Maginnis, once Chief Justice of the Wyoming Supreme Court, and Mrs. Letie Ab-bot Maginnis. He was graduated from St. Mary's College in Kansas in 1904 and, after studying law at home, was admitted to the Utah bar in 1909.

Mr. Maginnis was a member of the firm of Warner & Maginnis in Salt Lake City from 1913 to 1915 and since that time has been connected with several other legal offices. Following his return from Bolivia, he practiced law in New York City and Washington, until his appointment to the Justice Department. ### Bishop Candler's Funeral. To Be Held Tomorrow

ATLANTA, Sept. 26.-From people in all walks of life came expressions of sorrow today in the death of Bishop Warren A. Candler, 84-yearold retired leader of Southern Meth-

Plans were being completed for the funeral service at 3 p.m. tomorrow in the Methodist Church at Oxford, Ga., where he was graduated in 1875 from Emory College. Bishop Candler, who died at his Atlanta home yesterday, requested that his funeral service be held there and that he be buried in the Oxford Cemetery.

From 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. tomorrow the bishop's body will lie in state in the Candler School of Theology at Emory University here. The bishop was closely identified with Emory for a number of years, serving as president of Emory College at Oxford and later as chancellor of Emory University.

Rites Held at Bethesda For Mrs. Hallie Scudder

Funeral services for Mrs. Hallie S. Scudder, 75, wife of William F. Scudder, who died Monday at her home at Bethesda, Md., following a long illness, was held yesterday afternoon at the funeral home of W. Reuben Pumphrey, Bethesda. The Rev. H. F. Chandler, pastor of the Bethesda Methodist Church, officiated and burial was in the cemetery adjoining the Methodist Church at Potomac, Md.

Mrs. Scudder is survived by her husband, eight children, 27 grandchildren and 33 great-grandchildren. The children are Mrs. James A. Blueford, Mrs. Robert Diehl, Gorman E. Powell, Harry L. Powell and William G. Powell, all of Bethesda; Miss Della Powell, Charleston, S. C.; Mrs. John Sipes, Cabin John, and Stiner Powell, Washington. Mrs. Scudder was formerly a Miss Roberts, was born in Frederick County, Md., and had lived in Montgomery County about 55 qears.

President Signs Bill Relaxing Ship Rules

By the Associated Press. President Roosevelt signed a bill yesterday relaxing the law regarding the composition of crews on merchant ships.

In the discretion of the Secretary of Commerce, half of a vessel's roster of seamen may be composed of men who have spent only 12 months on deck but who have been granted the rating of able seamen. Existing law provides that only 25 per cent of the crew may be one-

New Hampshire to Vote On Cutting House Total

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 26 .-- A constitutional convention voted yesterday to cut the size of the New Hampshire House of Representatives-largest State legislative body in the Nation-to a minimum of 375 members and a maximum of 400. This State of less than 500,000 population has been served in the past by 423 representatives and on the basis of the recent census it would have seated 443 members in session today approved the wording of a referendum to be submitted to the electorate next spring. A two-thirds vote will be necessary.

> Studding the countryside are the villages-groups of small unpainted log cabins, each the site of a collective farm. And almost every village has its church, oftener than not shuttered and abandoned, but still the most conspicuous feature of the landscape. Domed steeples stand out on the Russian horizon like fabulous lighthouses and villages can be identified miles away by the towers that rise above them. For hours today we traveled through this picturebook land of green woods, brown fields and log villages. I was contemplating one of these peaceful towns about half a mile away from the road when suddenly a weird thing happened. Spurts of flame and smoke began leaping from a little cluster of log houses and in a moment the whole village was submerged in a great pillar of smoke, dust and debris.

It was just like that. One minute a village lay there swathed in sunshine about as far removed from war as one could imagine. The next moment it was a smoking ruin.

The open country hereabouts is ideal for tank warfare in dry weather. The Germans like it. But the patches of firs and pines are so thick that they are almost impenetrable for tanks and ideal for cover and ambushes. The Russians like the forest. The division headquarters that we visited today was cleverly hidden among the trees. Officers and men lived underground in shelters spaded from the soft yellow earth.

A friendly private led me down into a hole he shared with two of his comrades. It was an excavation about 6 feet deep and 10 feet square. roofed with a protective layer of logs and earth and well camouflaged with greenery. Blankets spread on straw provided a dry, comfortable bed, while a minor luxury was a tiny electric light powered from batteries in another part of camp.

Later we visited the camp's recreation room-a big, subsurface shelter lined with pictures of Lenin and Stalin and printed slogans. Uniformed men sat about reading feature was a piano. A soldier fingered the keys while another harmonized on an accordion. We

'Pop' Audience Greets Numbers Enthusiastically

Ganz Conducts Second of Series: Singing of Elsie Houston High Lights Novel Program

By ALICE EVERSMAN.

The second of the "pop" concerts by the National Symphony Orchestra at Riverside Stadium last evening was so much to the liking of the audience that applause pleaded for a repetition of every number, which in Accountancy audience that appliause pleaded to, a repetition of sprightly and several cases was granted. Melody, sweet and tender or sprightly and nce Courses: B. C. S. and gay, formed the basis of the program's selections, which were cleverly f. C. S. Degrees, C. P. A. balanced against each other. All the music was familiar to every one, Preparation. Day and Even- undying favorites ideally suited to the relaxation which this series offers.

Stores

ductors, and Elsie Houston, the .incomparable Brazilian soprano, was RE 2262 welcomed back as soloist. Between them, they managed a performance full of interest and novelty that never for a moment forfeited the attention of the listeners. The precision of Dr. Ganz's conducting gives a clear outline to whatever is played and is eminently satisfying.

More than this, he knows how to let the melodies sing of them-selves as in the Andante Cantabile of Tschaikowsky's "Fifth Sym-phony." Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Song of India." which, he announced, was Victor Herbert's arrangement and which was repeated, and in the intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana," which could have been played a second time had the conductor wished. He contented himself with having Sylvia Meyer, harpist of the symphony, take a bow for her fine performance in the "Intermezzo." Offsetting the broad, flowing lines of these beautiful works were those of brighter character such as Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Flight of the Bumble Bee," played twice, and his "Dance of the Clowns" and Brahms' "Hungarian Dances in G Minor and D Major." The orchestra gave them in spirited fashion and was loudly acclaimed.

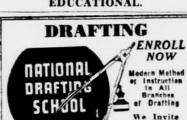

The rare art of Miss Houston made her group of songs the high light of the program. Her voice, with its changing color-sometimes sweet and deeply appealing and again raw and untutored-worked a fascination that climaxed in the BERLITZ SCHOOL OF LANGUAGES.
Hill Bldg., 17th & Eye Sts. NAtional 0270.
Strange voodoo songs which she gave THERE IS A BERLITZ SCHOOL IN EVERY as encore and, as at the Water Gate, with all lights dimmed except one focused on her.

Three of the six songs of her group had to be sung a second time. These were Hakel Tavares' "Danza de Caboclo," Moyses Simons' "Paso Nanigo" and her own hauntingly lovely "Fado." The latter is a song that singers should welcome, yet it is doubtful if another could ever imitate the far away sweetness and lonely detachment which she brings to it. Nor could the extraordinary speed of her enunciation or the purity of her long slide up the scale be attained by the "ordinary" concert artist.

As always, the great composer of her country, Villa Lobos, was represented on her program, this time with his "Estrella e lua nova" and 'Canide, Ioune, Sabath." This is native music reconstructed by an artist, weird and foreign, yet with strong emotional appeal. The final number was the now familiar "Co-Houston brought out her native drum and with only its rhythmic accompaniment sang the incantations for which she is famous." The orchestral part of the program continued in the same vein as at the beginning, with the overture to Flotow's "Martha," MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" and "Scotch Poem," concluding with Liszt's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody." Encores followed as a matter of course. for all those seated at the tables or in the balconies were having a very good time. The attendance was a large one and enthusiasm ran high

Dogs Have Their Day As Fredericksburg Revives Old Mart

Indians Smoke Peace Pipe, But Show Replaces Trading of Early Days

By CHRIS A. MATHISEN,

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Sept. 26.—The dogs took over the stadium of James Monroe High School here today. They came in style for the annual renewal of Fredericksburg's dog mart, the festive revival of what was once a strictly business gather-

Hundreds of canines of all familiar and several unfamiliar breeds tugged at their leashes as their owners wandered about the show grounds. The church ladies did a brisk business in sandwiches and soft drinks, and the public address system blared forth with the judges' calls for various classes.

Judging began at 9:30 a.m. and continued until noon. Then Mayor W. Marshall King sat down to a peace pow-wow with Indians from the Pamunkey reservation in King William County.

The last remaining representatives of what was once a powerful unit in Powhatan's confederation reenacted the truce ceremony which was a frequent event in days of

Smokes Peace Pipe. The Fredericksburg Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the mart, said that the smoking of a peace pipe lent authentic color to the occasion, since it was during the truces of Colonial days that the dog mart flourished. Then the Indians came with furs and gold nuggets to barter for the hunting dogs of the

Today, however, few of the dogs in the show came to the grounds as merchandise, although an aucaion was scheduled for this afternoon. The majority were treasured pets arriving in automobiles, station wagons and specially built kennel trucks. An elevated pen near the show ring held a pair of Rhodesian lion hounds, exhibited by Taylor P. Rowe, Richmond veterinarian. It was said only five examples of this breed now are in the United States. Whippets, seeing-eye dogs and a pack of 14 foxhounds were among the bench-show entries receiving extensive attention from the spectators, numbering several thousand.

The Indians did not attempt to haggle for dogs, but they were able to dispose of many handicraft items for cash. Women of the tribe, wearing traditional regalia but up-to-the-minute facial make-up and hair-does, passed across the tables dozens of tiny drums, pipes and woven pieces.

After the midday ceremonial a parade of dogs and their handlers moved through the city to the stadium. The afternoon program was to include an exhibition of dog tricks, a fox horn blowing contest, an old-time fiddlers' contest andclimax of the day-the dog auction. An auctioneer dressed in top hat was to preside. Edwin A. Gibson was general chairman for the day.

Defense Council Maps Plan To Train Volunteer Aides

A comprehensive plan was inaugurated yesterday by the Central Volunteer Bureau of the District Defense Council for training of 19,-000 volunteer workers, at a meeting in bureau headquarters in the 500 block of Pennsylvania avenue N.W.

Mrs. G. Howland Chase, chairman of training for the bureau, received representatives from the Council of Social Agencies and from the American Woman's Voluntary Services. The Red Cross will be represented at the next meeting.

Training in different fields will be given the workers. The Red Cross and the A. W. V. S. are already giving courses in first aid, nurses' aid and motor corps. Any other organization in the city interested in planning courses will be assisted by a committee formed at the meeting yesterday. The committee is organized as follows: Under Training Committee is the Red Cross, Defense Council, Council of Social Agencies, Central Volunteer Bureau and the A. W. V. S. This committee will branch out to take in civil protection, health, housing, volunteer leadership and recreation as subcommittees.

First reports from the subcommittee will be given at 10:30 a.m. October 2 in the Central Volunteer Bureau headquarters.

Q. Just what is inflation and how can it be minimized?

A. Inflation is a decrease in the buying power of the dollar caused by a rising cost of living. This, in turn, is brought about by a heavy public demand resulting from a rapid increase in the national in-come, for things which cannot be produced in late enough quantities. Every citizen can help minimize inflation by buying Defense bonds and

First Brooklyn Flag in 21 Years Clinched, Delirious Dodgers Really Pop Off

Win, Lose or Draw Triumph at Hub

By FRANCIS E. STAN.

Twenty-one Years Is a Long, Long Time

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 26.-Solly, who was behind the bar, sloshed a wet, sour rag over the mahogany and turned up the radio until it equaled or drowned out the other radios on the corner at Franklin and Flatbush avenues. A boogie-woogie number blared forth until it seemed as if the antiques in the curio shop next door would fall apart and the proprietor of the ice cream parlor on the other side would come rushing to Solly with the complaint that his products were melting.

A creaky cat that once was tan-and-white minced across the wooden floor. Above Solly's head John L. Sullivan and James Figg resolutely maintained their dynamic stances, unmoved even when the boogie-woogie died suddenly and the voice of Red Barber interrupted to start the ball game between the Brooklyns and Boston Braves. A victory for the Dodgers, who are called "Our Bums," in their neighborhood, would mean a pennant new kings of the National League. if the St. Louis Cardinals were beaten in Pittsburgh.

Recognizing the historical possibilities, Solly turned up the radio until The kids from Kings County (the the little box literally danced on its decaying rubber toes and, almost with same as the Borough of Brooklyn to Barber's first word, the customers began to trickle into the dimly-lighted everybody except the district attoroasis and pour themselves onto the high wooden stools. One of the first was Roy. He wore a tattered, faded apron which in its full bloom of youth Braves yesterday and clinched their advertised a national magazine. Roy was the ancient, withered newsboy first pennant in 21 years, on the corner. From his stand he could see Ebbetts Field. He had one eye and a set of teeth which had a habit of falling and snapping at his

"Jeez," said Roy, "I'm noivous."

The Cops Ticketed the Fat Man's Car

One by one they came trickling into the place. There were the two cops who stood apologetically for a few minutes. "We just wanted to club having two games left to play. hear the foist inning." one explained. There was a fat man, also minus an eye, who looked at the cops and said, "Yez Jerks, yez, I'll betcha I find a ticket on me car fer just listening to Our Bums win a pennant." The cops laughed. Two hours later, Fatso found a ticket pinned on his windshield.

A man in a blue shirt joined the group. He hooked his thumbs into his red suspenders and listened silently. His name was Marty.

A good sneeze from within the vicinity would have knocked him over but at that moment the little, dried-up man looked like one of the Russian propaganda peasants who dies defending the Ukraine.

Solly Wanted to See the Bums Come Home

Lavagetto was at bat. The Bums had pushed a run across and they had a chance to make a big inning if Cookie hit a long ball. Roy felt bound to give Cookie all the support he could, in view of the distance between Brooklyn and Boston. "C'mon Lavagetto!" he yelled. homer, The game had been nailed "Lavagetto . . . Lavagetto struck out, retiring the side. Solly drew a beer for Marty. It developed that Marty was a fireman off duty. "Ya on between 4 o'clock and midnight?" asked Solly, ring-

Marty took another long swallow. "Well," he said, "it don't happen often. How ya doing yezzelf?" Solly whipped out his sour rag again. "Jeez," he said, "I'm in de doghouse. I wakes up dis morning and my wife, she says she don't want no money. Yesterday is payday, but she don't want no money."

The fat man with the car overparked tested his drink and then "Well." said Solly. "I came in a little late last night and the old their wounds. Tomorrow and Sun-

As Champagne Flows Freely Shirts Torn tot Bits In Revelry; Throng Welcomes Heroes

By JUDSON BAILEY. Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.-Brooklyn went batty over its new National League pennant today, but nobody was nearly as delirious as the Dodgers themselves.

During the four hours it took their special train to make the trip home from Boston last night they steamed up the greatest celebration any baseball team ever has had for the clinching of a championship. President Larry MacPhail, who had remained here to pass out World

Fair Grid Season Expected for New Coolidge High Team, Despite Greenness

Coaches Claim Colts Will Win More Than Half Their Games

Heavy Young Team Faces Handley at Winchester

In Opener Tomorrow By GEORGE HUBER.

Calvin Coolidge High's young Colts are all set-they hope-for an auspicious gridiron debut tomorrow when they travel out of town to meet Handley High at Winchester. Va. Coaches Sherman Reese and Gilly Roberts have visions of a fairly good season for a young, firstyear team, and after this conditioning period should be able to present a capable eleven for Coolidge's entry into the interhigh race

In fact, Reese and Roberts almost could be put out of the coaches' union for the rosy prospects they have for this season. No advance alibis have been forwarded and there's a general feeling of pleasant things to come for Coolidge. They don't predict they'll win all their games or anything like that, but they do believe they'll have better than a 50 per cent record, which is more than should be expected from most first-year teams. Colts Have 180-Pound Line. The Colts will present a line averaging 180 pounds and a 155pound backfield, which is fairly good for high schools. They are, however, woefully lacking in experience and that, more than anything else, will be the big drawback. In a formal scrimmage session earlier this week they did everything wrong and were jittery at the start. A half dozen plays served to put them right, however, and it appears the Colts will have a good eleven in their class as soon as the players receive that much-needed experience.

Forward Reserves Good. Line reserves are good: in fact, there are almost enough players for two good lines right now, and Roberts predicts by midseason the Colts good as the other.

Devitt's game Sunday against Mount St. Joseph's in Baltimore figures to be an exciting affair. This is St. Joe's annual students' pep game and 5.000 or more should be on hand. The Baltimore team was upset by McDonogh's Cadets last Sunday, 13-0, and will really be out to regain lost prestige by tripping Devitt. Devitt already is in the win column with its 13-6 triumph

Surprises Loom for Favored Mississippi in Georgetown Grid Start Tonight

Businesslike Hoyas Look Set for Fast, Flashy Ole Miss

Each Squad Impressive In Final Workout for Griffith Stadium Tilt

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON. Mississippi ought to-and probably will—beat Georgetown by a couple of touchdowns tonight when they tear the wrapping off a brand-new football season at Griffith Stadium. but it's going to be one of the most exciting inaugurals in the Johnny Rebels' history. The opening kickoff is scheduled for 8 o'clock. Uncle Harry Mehre led the visitors into town last night and you never saw a trimmer, more cleancut bunch of kids. On the field they were strongly remindful of the last Notre Dame team to stop in Wash-Ington for a warmup before a Navy game. Not big, but big enough, and as fast as all get out. "We just came up to see the big city," Mehre grinned when some one asked how Mississippi would fare tonight. "We heard Georgetown wanted a setup for its opening game and decided to take it. No, there's nothing super-super about us. We're just another football team, especially against one like George-

Ole Miss' publicity has been woven around this pair, but there were others on the field who didn't come merely for the ride. None is ponderous, but all have that get-up-and-go that makes winning

But Georgetown had an appetite for its work last night as it romped through its final workout that bodes no good for the visitors. Frank Dornfeld's punting was the best he has shown thus far and Al Blozis, who may be called on when and if no other punters are in the lineup, drove two 65-yarders downfield to prove he is ready if needed.

VALLEY STREAM, N. Y., Sept. 26. -Bob Kahler, who played for Nebraska in the Rose Bowl game last January, and Sandy Sanford, who carried Alabama's colors into the New Year Day classic a few years back, have joined the Long Island Indians of the American Pro Football Association. Sanford came to the Indians from the Washington Redskins.

How W. & M. Got Redskins and Giants, Name of 'Indians'

When the name "Indians" is used in connection with Old Dominion athetics, almost any sports enthusiast can tell you that "Indians" is synonymous with William and Mary teams, but what he probably can't tell you is how the nickname originated.

Well, here's how: Back in 1915 an unidentified writer on the student newspaper, the Flat Hat, suggested that William and Mary athletic teams be called "Indians," because until the Revolutionary War, the college had operated a school for Indians in the Brafferton Building

This suggestion promptly was adopted, and from that time on William and Mary teams were called "Indians." Incidentally, the "Indians"

By BILL DISMER, Jr. Rain, or the continued lack of it vouldn't favor or hurt the Redskins' chances any more than the Giants' in Sunday's curtain-raiser of the National Football League campaign here. A check of the Eastern rivals' respective weight charts today showed that the average of the New Yorkers' backs is only 3 pounds heavier than the Redskins' while the latter's linemen have only a 4-pound advantage over Steve Owens' forwards.

And although the Redskins have liked fast, dry fields for their aerial game and their 170-pound Dick Todd, the news that the Giants have come up with their fleetest backs ever indicates that they want hard, solid footing as much as the

Virginia's Dudley Youngest Captain

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Sept. 25.—Bill Dudley, Virginia's great halfback, is the youngest football captain in America. He's only 19 years old.

Although thoroughly modest about his accomplishments, he would like to borrow at least two years from the other end to add to his 19, feeling that a little more age and experience might help make him a better player.

All Dudley has achieved up to now is recognition as one of the greatest backs in Cavalier football history, along with considerable national prominence. Barring accident, however, he has every prospect of improving his standing this fall.

He'll strive to add to his prestige in the important game with Lafayette here Saturday, the first big test of the season for the Cavaliers.

Several Newcomers Will Take Part in October Tests

Skippers Who Compete In All Will Receive Special Awards

By MALCOLM B. LAMBORNE, Jr. Far from conceding that the yachting season is over, inveterate skippers of Potomac River Sailing Association have only begun to race.

The annual fall series of races sponsored by P. R. S. A. opens Sunday at 1:30 p.m. off Hains Point. with eight classes scheduled to compete over the President's Cup Regatta course.

Customarily opening a week after the cup regatta, the series was postponed a week because of the penguin class nationals staged last week end at Annapolis. Penguin dinghies will have a spot on the fall program.

Seven Races Scheduled.

Capital Yacht Club this week, set up a schedule of seven races, with the final slated for October 26. Two for alternate Sundays, October 5 and 19, while all others will be single For Title Sunday

In order to keep the entry list high for all races, officials have decided to give bonus points to all boats starting in the seven events. But to allow skippers to miss one or two races the commttee moved that boats must qualify in five of the seven. ### Struggle to Build Up After Illness Makes Smith Swim Star

Hawaiian, 18, Developed Into Natador of Year By Maui School Coach

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26.—He's half Irish and half Hawaiian, this curly haired water sprite who is the swimmer of the year-a crown worn in the past by Buster Crabbe and Johnny Weismueller.

From his dad, an island policeman, he inherits his solid American name of Bill Smith, jr. But that powerful physique comes from five years of constant swimming in an effort to overcome the damages inflicted by typhoid fever when he was 12.

Smith slid through the steaming waters of the suburban Maplewood pool for medals in the 200 and 800 meter races and pushed teammate Kiyoshi Nakama to an American record in the 1,500 meters at the annual A. A. U. title-deciding festivi-

Although he learned to swim at the beaches when only 6, he did not take competition seriously until the illness sent him to the water in earnest in an effort to regain his

Then he had the good fortune to meet Soichi Sakamoto, a United States born Japanese who is a grade school instructor on Maui Island and has coached the Hawaiian team to three consecutive A. A. U. championships without remuneration.

Sakamoto says the hardest task is to keep the islanders interested. He demands six hours of practice every day-a minimum temperature of 68 degrees makes it possible to swim the year around—and marble playing is so much easier.

Fraley Makes It Ten The United States Army has taken Straight Victories

Ten straight victories in Washington is the record boasted by Pat Fraley, muscular California rassler, following last night's doings at Turner's Arena.

Fraley required 37 minutes of rough going to dispose of Emil in the feature match. He weathered quite a storm of the usual Dusek grips and punches, being helped at times by Referee Casey Berger who frequently warned Emil against use of villainous tactics. In the semifinal, the team of Lou Plummer and Jim Henry conquered Paul Boesch and Milo Steinborn. In other matches, Frenchy La Chappelle tripped Angelo Leone, while Abe Yourist and Herbie Freeman went to a draw.

'Covered Up Look' Continues to Be Most Important One in Evening Mode

Decollete Gowns Are Seen Infrequently This Year; Slim Lines Look New

Velvet, Crepe and 'Rustly' Materials Seem Perfect For Latest Silhouette

By Helen Vogt

Apparently, the thing called a happy medium comes very near to being completely unknown in the world of fashion. Certain trends are introduced to the public every year and every year there are those which increase like a gigantic snowball or else settle down to become just a little drip. Seldom does one find a lukewarm feeling about a new mode-either it's accepted and worn constantly or it's shunned completely and thoroughly

By Josephine Lowman Here are a few suggestions for the woman of 50:

1. Don't use very much rouge 2. Never put rouge over the wrinkles, but do blend it over the pouches, if any.

3. Don't put rouge low on the face. This adds to any insipient appearance of sag.

4. Be sure to pat your powder on. Draw the puff over wrinkles, and you will see how it outlines

5. Don't pull the hair down over the ears. Everything should get away from the downward sag. Sweep the hair upward and then pull it into becoming lines

6. Don't wear tight curls or small waves. 7. Don't wear your skirts longer than the current styles. 8. Don't be afraid to wear ear-

Winning Contract By THE FOUR ACES.

Bridge Swindles: No. 65

Today's hand was bid rather badly, for South should have been allowed to play at a contract of four hearts. North had already raised diamonds, yet South was still interested in a game at hearts, and North, with the queen and another heart, should have let South try for a 10-trick game instead of insisting on an 11-trick game. South dealer.

The bidding: South. West. North. East. 1. 2NT Pass Pass Pess Pass Pass Pass Pass West opened the ace of spades and continued the suit, dummy winning with the jack. South looked dolefully at the dummy and wondered how he was going to avoid the loss of two trump tricks. The only chance, of course, was to get the ace and king to fall on the same trick-but how was that to be done? If West had the king and only one small diamond, he might put up the king on the first trump lead by South-but that would do no good, for East would have the ace and a small diamond and would play the small one. But it was hopeless to expect either player to put up the king on the first trick if he had two small diamonds and his partner had the blank ace. Also, only West could be hoodwinked, for East wouldn't play the king on a lead from dummy

unless he had only the singleton king.

So South had to hope that West had the king and one small diamond and also had to find a way to make East part with his small trump. He therefore cashed dummy's ace of clubs to discard his king of spades, and then led dummy's queen of spades. East assumed that South was trying to get a discard (an unwarranted assumption) and hastily ruffed with his low trump. South immediately overruffed and led a low trump from his hand. West became panicky about his trump king and put it up. East had to play his ace on the same trick, and South LONDON, 6:05-War commentary: GSC, 9.58 had no trouble in making the rest of the tricks.

Network commentator S repeatedly and erroneously rhymes the first syllable of PROPAGANDA with doe, foe, toe, as: "Proe-puh-GANduh." And many other broadcasters affect the "proe" sound, believing it to be the correct British pronunciation. But the Oxford English dictionary does not sanction the long "o" sound.

The sole pronunciation listed by the accepted authorities shows the short "o" as in prop, proper, probable. Short "o" is pronounced "ah' in the prevailing speech of the United States.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

How many animals can you think of which have horns? First of all, we might speak of bulls. They usually have large, strong horns.

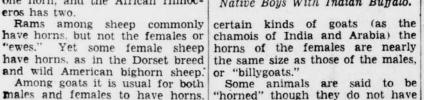

Buffaloes have horns. They are relatives of the cattle family, in fact they are classed as members of the cattle family. We may speak of the American bison, the African buffalo, and the water buffalo of Asia as cattle of a sort.

Several other kinds of animals have horns. There are short horns on giraffes, and antelopes also have

The rhinoceros is a horned animal. The Indian rhinoceros has one horn, and the African rhinoceros has two.

Rams among sheep commonly and wild American bighorn sheep. or "billygoats." males and females to have horns. In most breeds the male's horns true horns. I am thinking, for exare a good deal larger, but among ample, of certain "horned toads."

Among the largest of all true horns are those carried by the Indian buffalo. Now and then a pair of these stretches out to a width of more than 6 feet! We may also class deer among horned animals. Their horns have the special name of "antlers."

Antlers of deer differ from most other horns in being solid, not hollow. Usually they have points. In most cases the female, or doe, has no horns. In the reindeer family, however, the doe has fine, large antlers.

The male reindeer and moose have the prize antlers among the deer. One huge pair of moose antlers was found to measure 61/2 feet from tip to tip.

Deer lose their antlers each year. Then they grow new ones. Often the antler on one side falls off a day or two before the one on the other side.

Miss Lamour Plays Her Name In 'Aloma,' at the Palace

And With Technicolor and Scenery That Are Rather Wonderful, Film Has Virtually Nothing Else

By JAY CARMODY.

Coming tardily to an appreciation of Dorothy Lamour is better than never getting there at all. Finally, long after every one else has discovered it, this department realizes what an asset she is to Paramount and to her public. Most actresses need a story when they make a picture. Not Miss Lamour. All she needs is a sarong and Technicolor, and if the Technicolor is not available, the sarong alone will suffice. Imagine Bette Davis in the same spot! Or Garbo! !-

pictures. Instead of comparing them with others, it is a matter of one Lamour picture against another Lamour picture. That puts them in a class by themselves which is where they belong.

Definitely Jay Carmody. 'Aloma of the South Seas," which is the current attraction at the Palace. In it, looking swarthy, etc., in Technicolor, Miss Lamour and Jon Hall make wild woo against a background of vivid tropical foliage the like of which you probably never saw naturally. As for the story which accompanies the scantily clad rothey went along. Considered in relation to the extravagance of the single baked bean on gold plate.

That undoubtedly is as it should be. Miss Lamour and Hall, not to mention the others in the lavish cast, are at their best in skimpy narratives and skimpy costumes. When they are not around, garlanded in wild gardenias or diving into bluer than blue mountain streams and illustrating that cold water is not a preventive of warm emotion, the film takes on the elements of a musical comedy. On resplendent stages, large groups of talented Hawaiians-well, they look Hawaiian-illustrate native dances such as the betrothal and nuptial numbers. They are handsomely ac-

The script in which the principals wander amorously has to do with a primitively passionate triangle. Two angles of it are inevitably Miss Lamour and Hall, betrothed by tribal rites at a very tender age. The third figure in the group is a husky cousin named Revo, a twisted, maladjusted meanie who is madly jealous of Hall's relationship with Aloma and almost as envious of his gift of emotional normalcy. only wants Aloma for himself but the island throne which his cousin occupies. Man, is he furious?

The major element of suspense in the unfoldment of the tale is provided by the constant threat that a nearby volcano is going to erupt. From the first scene it is certain that the spectacle, the dramatic climax, is going to involve the volcano in a big way. It would not be a Lamour picture without a hurricane, a jungle conflagration, or an The foliage, we mean, earthquake. Neither she nor nature ever look completely dramatic alone.

The eruption when it comes proves mance, it resembles nothing so to be beautifully timed in that it much as something thought up as disposes of the jealous cousin just as the dirty dog is about to interrupt the nuptial ceremonies which production, it is like being served a the tribal gods have smiled upon since the principals were a pair of scrapping, passionate kids.

The dialogue of "Aloma of the South Seas," issuing as it does from the mouths of simple people, imposes no great test upon any of the players. Miss Lamour's chronic expletive, undoubtedly indicative of a pretty naivete, is "Oh, pooh." Although Hall is supposed to have been educated at Harvard, as few Hawaiian princes are, he retains an incorruptibly simple speech entirely untainted by the traditional Harvard accent.

As usual in pictures of the Lamour formula, the comedy assignment is given to Lynne Overman. who does very well with its limited opportunities. So do the others with their respective chores.

"Aloma's" chief charm simply lies in its scenery, of which Miss Lamour is the most vivid item.

Comics and Bright Script Make Surprise Package

'Married Bachelor,' at the Capitol, Turns Out a Lively Affair; Jackie Heller on Stage

By HARRY MacARTHUR.

Surprise packages provide us some of our brightest movie moments. The epics come out of the West heraided by great thunderings which leave no room for surprise, no matter what their stature may turn out to be. And between them we can be sure of a fairly steady flow of routine cinema efforts, which seem to have been made solely to keep those involved busy and to fill the other half of dual bills in the many theaters of the land.
