10/ By GOULD LINCOLN. President Roosevelt at his press conference late today confirmed earlier reports from the Capitol that he is considering general legislation authorizing him to deal effectively with strikes in plants engaged in national defense production, including coal mines.

It was predicted in congressional circles that the President would make a prompt request for necessary legislation probably within the next 24 hours. Whether the request would be in the form of a message to Congress or in letters to chairmen of committees having to do with such legislation was not known.

The President would not discuss specific methods, however. Nor would he indicate what the Government might do about the strike of 53.000 men in captive coal mines following three fruitless appeals by the Chief Invecutive to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, to call off the strike.

Studies "General" Law. A reporter inquired whether Mr. Roosevelt was considering legislation for compulsory arbitration and for suspension of the right to strike on defense lobs The President said if the inquiry were limited to general legislation and specific requirements were omitted, the answer would be yes. But he said probably there were 10 ideas of specific methods that might have to be considered and not just two. The Chief Executive said he had not yet received any reply from Lewis to his third appeal to end the mine strike. He would not say what he considered a reasonable time for a reply to be forthcoming nor would he make any general statement on the captive mine situation or demands in Congress for legislative action. This is rogue's gallery photo Mr. Lewis and Myron C Taylor. retired chairman of the United States Steel Corp., are to meet tomorrow to discuss the coal dispute. Bailey Offers Bill. Earlier in the day Senator Bailey, Democrat, of North Carolina introduced an amendment to the pending armed ship bill which would define as "sabotage" against national defense any effort on the part of labor leaders, workers or pickets to cause stoppage of work. This brought the issue squarely before Congress. The temper of the Senate was such, because of Lewis' defiance of the President in the captive coal mines strike, that the belief was expressed the amendment might easys be adopted if it is war brought to a vote. By G. GOULD LINCOLN. The defiance of President Roosevelt by John L. Lewis over the cantive coal mine strike took a surprising turn this afternoon when Senator Bailey, Democrat, of North Carolina introduced a proposal to make any one who shall direct or encourage stoppage of work in defense industries guilty of the crime

Penalties on leaders and participants in strikes for violation of the proposed law are fixed at $10,000 fine imprisonment for not more than 10 years or both in the proposal which was offered as an amendment to the Neutrality Act revision bill. Extortion Case Jury Given Schenck's Note Fixing Bioff's Debt

Movie Magnate Listed Sum Labor Leader Owed Him as 'Only $65,374'

(Earlier Story on Page A-6.) By the Associated Pres

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 .- An undated note which, according to the defense, showed that William Bioff. West Coast labor leader, at one time owed $65.374 to Joseph M. Schenck, former chairman of Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp., was read today in Federal Court.

Bioff and George E. Browne, president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes (A. F. L.), are charged with extorting $550,000 from movie producers through strike threats. Note Is Introduced.

Michael G. Luddy, Bioff's counsel, placed in evidence the undated note, which read:

"Willie Bioff: This is to certify that you only owe me $65,374. Am holding your 1,000 shares of Twentieth Century-Fox, 1,000 shares of Consolidated Oil, 500 shares of Continental Can and 100 shares of Hollywood Turf Club. Also your note for $100,000 payable to Arthur Stebbins. Joseph M. Schenck.'

Stebbins was not identified. Bioff testified yesterday that he got 1,000 shares of stock in Twentieth Century Fox at a cut rate price as a bonus for acting as a $1.000.000 messenger boy for Mr. Schenck.

Mr. Luddy also introduced in evidence photostatic copies of stock certificates which he said represented 2,500 shares of stock which Bioff collected from movie company executives between the summer of 1935 and the spring of 1938, turning all of them over to Schenck.

Says Profit Was Small. Bioff testified that after he and Schenck closed the stock transactions mentioned in the note that he. Bioff. realized "only a few hundred dollars profit. He testified that one time in 1937

Schenck gave him $8,000. "Mr. Schenck said he had been a

About 95 per cent of the 53.000 miners in the "captive" coal mines owned by the major steel companies are members of the C. I. O. United Mine Workers the U. M. W. be so insistent that the the interest of defense of our counremaining 5 per cent come in?

Why should the steel companies so running. steadfastly oppose the U. M. W.'s demand for a union ship?

Many of those in touch with the making and shipbuilding plants.

ognized that this question was in the background when it decided against recommending either for or against a union shop in the captive mines.

"Two Conflicting Rights."

"It became clear to the members of the Mediation Board." its report said, "that there could be no meeting of minds in the conference before it with respect to the two conflicting rights asserted in the present dispute, because of the possible repercussions of any agreement here made on the steel and shipbuilding industries, in one or both of which most of the interests involved in this dispute are engaged.'

The two "rights" to which the board referred are:

As defined by the companies: The joint the union, and the contention security involved in this dispute. that his employment should not be made to depend on union membership.

As asserted by the union: The work with non-union men.

When John L. Lewis named J. P. Morgan as his "adversary" he did so on the ground that the Morgan interests control U. S. Steel,

Big Steel's Position.

Balked at Kearny Clause.

L. H. Korndorff, president of Federal Shipbuilding, said: "We are unwilling to abandon the defense of the freedom of the American worker to choose whether he will belong to a union or not."

The company stood on that position, and, to get the yard in operation again, the Government had to seize it and direct the Navy to operate.

The union maintenance clause was not so inclusive as the union shop. It provided that workers who had joined the union, or who might join it in the future, would have to maintain their union membership in good standing or be discharged. There was no requirement in the contract itself that any workers join the union. But Big Steel gan will decide what Mr. Taylor will balked at that.

in the southern half of this hemisphere, Mr. Roosevelt asserted that "the geographical experts of Berlin, however, have ruthlessly obiterated all existing boundary lines, and have divided South America into five vassal states, bringing the whole continent under their domination. And they have also arranged it that the territory of one of these new puppet states includes the Republic of Panama and our great life line-the Panama Canal.

"That is his plan," the President interpolated here in his prepared text. "It will never go into effect."

Contrary to some expectations, Mr. Roosevelt devoted only brief attention to the defense labor situation when he warned that the production effort "cannot be hampered by the selfish obstruction of a small but dangerous minority of industrial managers who perhaps hold out for extra profits, or for business as usual * * • or by the selfish obstruction of a small but dangerous minority of labor leaders who are a menace to the true cause of Labor itself, as well as to the Nation as a whole."

His loudest applause of the evening came at this point, however, when he interpolated again during an assertion that "our national will | cargo shipping. must speak from every assembly line." In obvious reference to the captive coal mine strike, he added here, "yes, from every coal mine."

Repeatedly, as befitting the ocand background of casion speech, the President reaffirmed the readiness of the American Navy to defend the seas and the ocean supply lines to Axis foes.

Knox Tells Workers They Must Not Shirk Duties Under Fire

Men Urged to 'Give Lie' To Any One Contending They Have Grievance

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT. Oct. 28 .- Secretary Knox told several hundred work men in the Hudson Motor Car Co naval arsenal today that they must "give the lie in the teeth" to anyone who attempts to convince them they have a dispute over pay or any other grievance.

"If you were below deck in a bat fleship." he said, "you wouldn't think of shirking your duties during an engagement under fire: I want to tell you with all the emphasis at my command that you are in the same position now in this plant We are in this fight to a finish for human rights and liberties."

Secretary Knox, who has been here for two days inspecting defense activities in the Detroit area was principal speaker at the formal dedication of the arsenal, a $20,-000.000 plant, begun last March and now 95 per cent complete and already in production on the Oerlikon 20-millimeter anti-aircraf machine gun.

The Navy's efforts to speed up defense output, he said, already has resulted in the recent christening of an aircraft carrier eight months ahead of schedule, a battleship is being completed this month and another next month, both ahead of schedule

Before the war, he said, it took 18 months to complete a destroyer; the newest destroyer was turned out in eight months and these ships soon will be turned out in six months.

Just before the dedication of the naval ordnance •plant. Secretary Knox was shown through the nearby Chrysler Army tank factory and given a ride in one of the mobile fortresses. The big tank was put through a series of maneuvers during the ride

Japan Expresses Hope U. S. Will 'Deepen Understanding

Spokesman at Tokio Is 'Frankly Surprised' At Knox Assertion

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Oct. 28.-A Japanese government spokesman expressed hope today that Washington would "deepen its understanding" of Japan's position despite what he called the "strong views" voiced Friday by Secretary of the Navy Knox at Washington.

Koh Ishii, chief liaison officer for the foreign press, said he was "frankly surprised" at Mr. Knox's assertion that a clash with Japan was inevitable if she continued her program of expansion.

Asked to comment on reports that the United States might invite a Japanese mission to Washington to discuss Pacific problems. Ishii said: "It is a good idea, an interesting idea, but it would be better if the United States sent a mission to Japan.

Sees Negotiations Failing.

Ichiro Kiyose, leader of a reformist faction in the House of Representatives, declared in the newspaper Nichi Nichi that Japanese United States negotiations seemed doomed to failure because, he said. the United States is "completely blind" to Japan's dependence on Ghosts of Near-Forgotten the United States is "completely the South Seas region for fuel, minerals and other raw materials.

Ishi said that so far as he knew there was no truth in reports that bassador to Washington, might re-Shigenori Togo, the new foreign minister, but added it was possible some member of the embassy staff might return for conferences.

Reports of Clash Denied.

Turning to Japanese-Russian relations, Ishii flatly denied Soviet reports that Japanese patrols had clashed with Russian troops on the Siberian border.

The spokesman disclosed that Kenkichi Yoshizawa, newly-named delegate extraordinary to French Indo-China, would leave for Hanoi today, but dodged a question concerning the exact nature of his mission.

The newspaper Asahi, however, said editorially that one of Yoshihouse zawa's most important tasks would be to readjust Japan's economic relations with Indo-China, which it

Brilliant Dinner Ends Capital's Celebration Of Navy Day

Ranking Officials of Government Attend Banquet at Mayflower

Washington yesterday and last night celebrated the greatest Navy Day in its history-a holiday expanded by President Roosevelt into Navy and Total Defense Day. Slightly more than 1,000 persons crowded the Mayflower Hotel ballroom last night to hear President Roosevelt open and close a speech with more sharpness than he is re-

Between the pages of that notebook there had appeared the flercest denunciation of Hitler and his policies yet to come irom any American official, and the most definite promise that Hitler's plan for a revision of the Western Hemisphere "never will go into effect." The Mayflower was full of gold braid, beautiful gowns, dignitaries and titles. Six members of the Supreme Court turned out for the dinner, and five cabinet members also attended. There also was a large representation of the official agencies and many Navy and Army officers. Justices Roberts, Reed, Frankfurter, Byrnes, Black and Douglas were at the head table to hear the President, as well as Secretaries Morgenthau, Jones, Wickard, Walker and Biddle.

Dinner guests walked to their places to the music of the United States Navy Orchestra, under direction of Bandmaster James M. Thurmond. The Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, Stundy health is vital to National Defense - yet millions of our people are under par. One cause is HIDDEN HUNGER-a form of malnutrition due to the lack of vitamins, minerals and other essential food elements in the diet.

As a defense against HIDDEN HUNGER, leading nutritionists advise diets that supply adequate amounts of all the essential food elements. As a part of these diets, they recommend MILK because pure, fresh milk helps furnish so many of the elements needed to combat HIDDEN HUNGER. (See table below.)

Sealtest Homogenized Vitamin "D" Milk is an ideal milk for the job. It's a fine milk made even finer.

It's better for babies because it forms a softer curd that tends to digest more readily. It's better for children because every quart contains 400 added units

Women's Committee Plans Sellout for Symphony Concerts

Only Season Tickets To Be Sold for Series of Wednesday Concerts

Laughing at "professional crapehangers," 463 members of the Women's Committee of the National Symphony Orchestra today are attempting to sell out Constitution Hall by the time the Wednesday concert series begins next week.

Meeting at luncheon at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday, the Women's Committee, greatly expanded since its organization last spring, heard the Wednesday concerts described as its particular responsibility.

Under a new plan adopted by the symphony directors, explained J. P. Hayes, orchestra manager, no single tickets will be sold to Wednesday concerts. Only season tickets have been printed, and only season ticketholders will be admitted. The series begins November 5.

1,400 Tickets Unsold.

Of the nearly 4,000 seats in Constitution Hall, about 1,400 are still unsold, according to Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin, chairman of the Wednesday Concerts Committee. As members of the Woman's Committee are selling the remaining seats, she said, they should emphasize that admittance to Wednesday concerts will not be vailable after the beginning of the series next week. Selling only season tickets has against an experience rating plan for three reasons: First, the experience rating system never reduces the surplus because it is a replacement plan, second, the lowest tax rate any employer would ever get would be 1.5 per cent and some employers would pay as much as 4 per cent, and third, experience rating would be expensive to administer in the District.

The plan provided in Mr. Mc-Genee's bill would give the District a definite tie-up between claims, the rate of tax and the size of the surplus, Mr. Marshall told the committee.

Describing the present tax rate as a form of "legalized larceny," Mr. Lusk told the subcommittee the District now has sufficient funds in its unemployment compensation reserve account to pay the benefits for the next 12 years without collecting any more taxes.

Reduction Called Trifling. "The taking of $15,000,000 or $20,-000.000 more than needed during the last six years in the guise of needed pay roll taxes from Washington employers for unemployed who do not exist has been a crime," he said. "Under any circumstances the collection of more tax than required to do the job is simply legalized larcenv

Mr. Lusk said the reduction put into effect last year, "welcome though it was, meant a trifling sum to the thousands of small employers of the District." Even with the tax reduced from 3 per cent to 2.7 per cent only 34 per cent of the money collected is being paid out in benefits, he said.

Despite the present huge reserve employers continue to be taxed three dollars for each one actually needed to pay current benefits, Mr Lusk continued

"There are more than 12,000 employers in Washington, mostly small fellows," he said. "Reduce this unjust tax and give them a break."

$1,000,000 Saving Estimated.

In response to a question by Representative Sauthoff, Progressive, of Wisconsin, Mr. Lusk said he believed the flat rate reduction would be simpler than effecting a reduction through experience rating methods. Mr. Sauthoff asked Mr. Lusk why the District should be given "special benefits.

The witness replied that other jurisdictions should be given similar relief "if their employers are paying too much money After Mr. Sauthoff had interposed several times to ask witnesses why the District should not have an experience rating plan instead of a flat rate reduction, Chairman Mc-Genee declared he believed the only way to give District employers some relief was through the flat rate reduction.

The bill sponsored oy Mr. Mc-Gehee would save local employers about $1,000.000 a year.

AN OPEN LETTER TO FIBBER MCGEE and MOLLY

Dear Fibber and Molly:

On your grand radio show last week you had a skit in which, during the course of housecleaning, Molly burned-yes, burned-her love letters.

Gee, McGee-and Golly, Molly-America's defense program needs wastepaper and waste materials-every scrap of them! That's why 48,000 Boy Scout Troops, the Salvation Army, Volunteers of America, Goodwill Industries, Catholic Salvage and others are collecting wastepaper to help speed up defense.

Now we know the burning of the letters was just make-believe on the radio-but even so, we wish you would set the example of giving even your make-believe love letters to the Wastepaper Conservation Campaign instead of burning them.

Incidentally, a collector will come to your home, office or store for your wastepaper, paper bags, corrugated boxes, rags-even love letters. So call the telephone number below. We'll be listening tonight,

—a blunt notification that the miners would be ordered back to work when the demand for a union shop was met, and not before. To be sure, Mr. Lewis said that the strike would not impair the production of vitally needed steel for an "indefinite period," but at no point did he indicate that he would withdraw his union in two periods and that in the interval shop demand when the point of actual impairment has been reached. It must be remembered, however, that Mr. Lewis, despite the flagrant character of his defiance of governmental authority, is not the only offender. On the West Coast, American Federation of Labor welders have gone on strike as the result of a strictly intraunion row. There is no quarrel whatsoever with the employers-they are merely the victims, along with the rest of the Nation, of labor's unwillingness to manage its own affairs in an orderly fashion. In Brooklyn, an important shipyard has been closed by a C. I. O. strike. Possibly there is merit to the union complaint, but the fact remains that once again the workers have elected to strike at the expense of the defense program instead of availing themselves of the machinery set up to handle their grievances. And there have been scores of similar strikes in the past, and, as matters stand today, there will be still more in the future. The cause and the cure of this evil, it would seem, are plain. Strikes abound because we have enacted a Dr. Hibben found two sites of ancient series of laws which encourage strikes | hearths. Scandia man knew how to and make them profitable, regardless of the validity of the reasons underlying them. These laws were passed on what was once the sound assumption that labor was relatively weak and needed special legislative treatment. But who believes that labor is still the weaker participant in the vast majority of industrial disputes? In the official text of his address, the President, as has been his custom, denounced with a fine impartiality what he called a dangerous minority of industrial managers who obstruct the defense program and an equally dangerous and equally obstructive minority of labor leaders. But that interpretation finds no support in the facts of the case and it is significant that the President, in delivering the address, softened his denunciation of the industrial managers and strengthened his comment on recalcitrant labor leaders-this latter revision eliciting the most enthusiastic response of the evening from his audience. In final analysis, however, the President cannot meet the challenge posed by labor's attitude with anything that might be said in a speech. It can be met only when the President and Congress, wholly aside from the immediate problem of national defense, make up their minds that the time has come to do away with special privileges created in labor's favor by law and restore the fair balance that should exist in the industrial scales. It is obvious that most of the people have made up their minds that this should be done. It is their elected representatives who hesitate and back away from a problem which thrives on a diet of expediency and temporizing.

The projectile points made by this "Scandia man"-as he will probably be called after the name of the cave in which his artifacts have been foundshow fair workmanship, but the chipping is considerably less artistic than that found on Folsom points them to carry war supplies to the "harbors of our friends," and to safeguard them under the guns of the American Navy.

There was wisdom in Mr. Roosevelt's decision not to mince words about this matter. For, while it is hardly news that a shooting war is upon us, there have been many who were reluctant to face this obvious fact. Some Americans still talk of neutrality, but the hard truth is that the shooting, which all had hoped to avoid, has started. Neutrality is We must acknowledge that dead. fact and we must resolve to meet the test imposed by its implications.

History, Mr. Roosevelt said, has recorded who fired the first shot. In the long run, however, as he wisely added, all that will matter is who fired the last shot.

'Involuntary Bondage'

In suggesting that legislative control of wages might have the effect of placing wage earners in "involuntary bondage," possibly in violation of the Constitution, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has fashioned a wellturned phrase which will have an emotional appeal to those who contend that prices can be controlled without a corresponding control of cost factors. It is a worthy successor to other glittering phrases, such as the assurance that defense need involve no impairment of "social gains" and the well-intentioned but woefully mistaken promise that the rearmament program could be "superimposed" on normal industry-phrases which appealed to the popular imagination a few months ago, but which soon withered in the light of reality after serving no better purpose than to weaken our defense effort by confusing our thinking.

There is no doubt that Mrs. Roosevelt spoke from a genuine distaste for such things as wage controls. They are distasteful to every one, but so are the priorities which, according to one official, may be expected to put 20.000 firms out of business; the vastly higher taxes which all will have to pay; the diversion of consumer goods to defense which is going to compel most people to get along without many things they have come to regard as essential, and the necessity for compulsory peacetime military training. In opposing wage controls, Mrs. Roosevelt specifically approved control of rents and food prices. What about those whose income is derived from selling food or renting quarters? In effect, their wages are being controlled. Why not protest the "involuntary bondage" in which they are being placed?

There is, of course, but one answer to all of this-namely, that the peril confronting the Nation is too great to permit of doing only the things we want to do, or refraining from other things merely because we do not want to do them. This war is a total war. The Nazi war machine is built on the enslavement of the German

The promotion law was sponsored originally by the Appropriations Committee to wipe out pay inequities of years' standing. Passage by Congress was a recognition of the need for this reform. Its application should not be delayed unnecessarily.

Theodore Roosevelt's Value It is appropriate, certainly, to make use of the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt to the advantage of the United States Navy which he loved. But the man himself likewise should be remembered. The two decades that have passed since his death have afforded opportunity for calm appraisal of his value to his country, and the resultant verdict is altogether conducive to the endurance of his fame.

To comprehend the twenty-sixth President, however, it is necessary to bear in mind that he was "all compact" of many different elements. His versatility is proven by the record of his life. There was little that he did not attempt, and there was not much in which he did not excel. Consider for instance the problem of his health: His childhood was spoiled by asthma and by defective eyesight. The former handicap he corrected by changing his place and manner of living; the latter he compensated for by the cultivation of a prodigious memory. So, too, he adjusted himself to other circumstances in the world around him. Born to wealth and to an aristocratic position, he preferred to be "self-made" and democratic. Given the privilege of formal educational training under private tutors and at Harvard, he chose to be "self-taught" and became in time one of the half-dozen bestread scholars of his generation.

In 1882 or thereabouts, Theodore Roosevelt may have been, as he himself had the wit to guess, in some danger of becoming an obscure teacher of history in a college. He had tried to interest himself in the law and, for the moment, failed. The publication of his study of "The Naval War of 1812" then opened for him a literary vocation. But destiny did not mean that he should be wasted as "an inkbeast." "A local Republican boss needed an eminently respectable candidate for the twenty-first Assembly district." In Albany he appeared as "a lightfooted, agile, nervous, yet prompt, boy, with light brown, slightly curling hair, blue eyes and an eyeglass, and ready to rise and speak with a clear, sharp, bovish voice.'

He did not change beyond recognition in the years that followed his political debut. Up to the end there still was that quality in his personality which could be called "youth." The chronicle of his rise to power is an account of the "jobs" he held: Civil service commissioner, 1889 to 1894; police commissioner in New York, 1895-96; Assistant Secretary of the Navy, 1897-98; colonel of the "Rough Riders" in Cuba, 1898;

he changed and improved his technique When it is considered that primitive techniques change very slowly, this may mean a very long period. Solutrean man in France also varied his technique, and projectile points from the late Solutrean period are quite similar to those from the late Scandia level.

The late Scandia points have some vague likeness to the widely distributed "Yuma points." These also have been found with bones of extinct animals, but evidence is accumulating that they were later in time than the Folsom points. It is suggested in the Smithsonian report that the Yuma'may have developed out of the late Scandia, rather than out of the Folsom. The latter then would mark the end of a line of craftsmanshin. Dr. Hibben found several stone implements known as "snub-nosed scrapers." These also are found in paleolithic deposits in Europe. They were used for scraping the skins of slain animals. One deduction from this is that the earliest known North Americans wore clothes. There are crudely formed flakes of stone which may have been used as knives, but they are quite primitive compared with later Folsom knives.

Two projectile heads were found made from the bones of animals-probably those of an extinct variety of camel make fire and probably cooked his food. The cave deposits in which the human remains were found are dated by Dr. Kirk Bryan, professor of geology at Harvard University, as probably somewhat more than 25,000 years old.

Minister of Yugoslavia Replies to Bulgarian Envoy. To the Editor of The Star:

In a letter published in The Star on October 24 the Bulgarian Minister at Washington made an attempt to explain the relationship between his country and the Yugoslav people.

If I had the delicate task of representing in the United States the government of a country which of its own volition has become a minor satellite of the Axis powers I certainly would remain as silent as possible. The Bulgarian Minister evidently thinks in a different manner. While I do not wish to engage in a controversy with the representative of the Sofia government, it is my duty, however, to establish the following two facts for the sake of the record:

(1) On January 17, 1937, my government signed a treaty of "eternal friendship and immutable peace" with the Bulgarian government. In April, 1941, the Bulgarian armies entered Yugoslav territory without any provocation or any violation of a treaty which has never been denounced. This occurred at a time when my country was engaged in death struggle with overwhelming German and Italian forces. The Bulgarian government thus lived up to its traditions of 1913 and 1915. At that time. when the breathless Serbian armies were fighting on the side of the Allies, Bulgaria chose to stab her neighbor in the back. She has done this again.

(2) In his declaration, on April 24, 1941, the President of the United States branded the Bulgarian aggressions in these words: "Bulgaria has without justification attacked Yugoslavia and This is a matter of public Greece." record.

Appeals for Postponement Of Political Differences. To the Editor of The Star:

Liberty is a fragile thing-easily lost. It's somewhat like good health; nobody appreciates it much until it's gone-then nothing else matters.

Men in all ages and lands have been willing to fight and to die for liberty But fighting and dying for liberty does not always achieve or preserve it-as many erstwhile proud nations of Europe now so sadly know.

Wars of today are practical, the most brutally practical of all things. While we as a nation are jockeying around for political position in Congress, the great Nazi machine moves on to new and bloody conquests.

May we not, in this critical hour, postpone political differences, get practical and follow and support the chief? He may not be Solomon nor Socrates, Alexander nor Napoleon, but he is the leader that the people have elected.

Thinks Congress Should Take "Military Action" Against Hitler. To the Editor of The Star

I would like to add my voice to yours as contained in the editorial "Wanton Aggression," calling for forceful congressional action against German acts of war.

The people of occupied Europe who are making such tremendous sacrifices are calling upon us to take aggressive military action against Hitler. Their sabotage now is only a signal of what they could and would do if the democracies came to their assistance. The heroic resistance of the Russian people should be made the occasion for a real military frontal attack by Britain and the United States to once and for all wipe Hitler Fascism off the face of the earth.

We should call upon our Government to take all military steps necessary and to make our position clear to the people of Europe

Let us begin at once-sever relations with all Fascist countries and expel from our shores the representatives of Berlin, Rome, Vichy, Madrid and Helsinki,

Blames Government Agency For Discrimination Against Citizens. To the Editor of The Star:

When the O. P. M. refused to let that housing contract to the lowest bidder and instead chose to break the law and take $400,000 of taxpayers' money to pay tribute to the A. F. of L., it raised an issue every citizen should consider. It is a case of the Government taking money from citizen B and paying it to citizen A because citizen A demands that duly enacted laws be violated and unless this is done and tribute paid to him, citizen A will start what Sidney Hillman called a "disturbance."

It is time all Americans take notice whether the politicians have them down as class A citizens-those who demand paid tribute, or only as class B citizens has forever meant to the crushing of

Lewis Might Gain Closed Shop if Steel Left Alone

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

A government of law and order is as feasible in the realm of labor relations as in any other but courageous leadership is required to achieve it. The test of whether such leadership is at hand has come finally after several months of jockeying between the Government and the groups which have been steadily defying the President's plea that defense production be not inter- David Lawrence. rupted.

John L. Lewis as the head of the United Mine Workers of America and indirectly the man who wields most power in the C. I. O. despite his retirement from the presidency, is well aware that bludgeoning gets results in Washington. He has pushed his way successfully through negotiation after negotiation, leaving in his wake a host of cases in which the Government has abjectly capitulated.

Today Mr. Lewis stands before the country as having risked much public criticism to get the monopoly he seeks in the steel industry-a closed shop for more than 500,000 workers. Will he be defeated on the threshold of that industry, namely, in the captive coal mines, which represent the entering wedge to the whole steel industry? If he wins, Mr. Lewis will have two major industries-coal and steelin the hollow of his hand. He will control about 500,000 steel workers and 400,000 miners. He will be able to order them out at will and gradually force other major industries into his jurisdiction.

Encouraged by Law. Mr. Lewis can hardly be blamed for taking advantage of what the labor laws today permit.

The Wagner Act encourages these monopolies and makes possible autocratic leadership. Already Congress has been intimidated and in the last few months has walked up the hill to a series of restrictive measures only to walk down in humiliation as Mr. Lewis cracked the whip and made his lobby power felt.

that the captive coal mines be kept in operation for national defense-even it is later modified -has brought the country and the administration up with a round turn. It has made both realize the lengths to which some union leaders-if not all-are willing to go to get their ends, disregarding entirely national security. Mr. Lewis' arguments in his second letter to President Roosevelt, declining to accede to the President's request that the strike be called off, did not go to the question. He merely avoided the issue by saying that the President evidently was playing into the hands of J. P. Morgan. He told the President he did not know what he was talking about, that a shutdown of the captive mines would not impair the operations of the steel industry and program. The President is persistent. In conciliatory language, he for a third time asked Mr. Lewis last night to call off the strike and let the miners go back to work while their differences with management-the whole question is whether the mines shall be "closed shops"-are negotiated. This is a reasonable request. Mr. Lewis, however, prefers to use the club. He and his union have brought about a cessation of work in the mines. They say, in effect. there will be no more operation of these mines until their demands are granted. That's that. Defies Government.

Without taking sides in the controversy, the fact still remains that Mr Lewis has defied the United States Government in the person of the President. He has defied the President when there is a question of the safety of the Nation, despite Mr. Lewis' assertion that the steel companies have loaded up with coal in order to conduct this fight and that there will be no real stoppage of work in the mills. Mr. Lewis does not know how long the strike may run. He does not

By CONSTANTINE BROWN. An apparent lull seems to have overtaken Nazi-Fascist activities in the Central and Latin American republics. But this does not mean that the totalitarian states have given up these 21 nations as a "bad job." Quite to the contrary. Axis agents are carrying on their sub rosa activities more determined than ever.

The Nazi organizers are merely keeping under cover for the time being, observers say. They have ordered their various organizations to pull their punches and await developments. But while, on the surface, pro-Americanism appears to be on the upgrade, actually the agents of Herr Hitler are working quietly at strengthening their ties with the Nazi sympathizers and using all means to gain more adherents to the "cause"-mainly through succulent gifts.

Many of the official totalitarian cause they placed God above Hitler organizations have virtually with-In the place of the churches of drawn from the Latin American capitals, leaving only skeleton staffs behind. They have gone into the interior, where they are away from the vigilant eyes of the authorities. A number of avowed Nazi sympathizers in responsible government positions have changed their tune at the bidding of their Berlin and Rome friends. Some have even adopted an official Pan-American attitude. But these men were told to watch developments and return to the Nazi fold as soon as the time is ripe. "Await Developments."

Consignments of arms-and ammunition of all types best fitted for guerrilla warfare-continue to pour into the various republics through Atlantic and Pacific ports. It is not particularly difficult to transport this type of war material. Motorships under 2,000 tons manage to slip through the British blockade from Holland and France and more frequently from Spain. Once this is done-the only part of the route that is dangerousthe rest is easy. McLemore-Just Who Is Running The Government?

By HENRY MCLEMORE.

Even if Sidney Hillman had stayed on the stand until his feet took root and his grandchildren were called in as character witnesses he still wouldn't have convinced thousands of Americans that his decision in the Currier case wasn't as ridiculous as stalking iron deer. In case you missed reading about the affair of Currier, this is it in brief:

Henry McLemore. As co-director of O. P. M. Mr. Hillman ruled against the granting of a contract for the building of 300 defense homes to the lowest bidder, one Patrick J. Currier of Detroit. Mr. Currier, who insofar as any one knows builds as sweet a little prefabricated nest as the next fellow, turned in a sealed bid that was something like $400,000 lower than that of his nearest rival. Mr. Hillman admitted before an investigating committee that he didn't give Mr. Currier the job because he felt it would rile the A. F. L., inasmuch as Mr. Currier of worship in the U.S.S.R. was has a contract with the C. I. O. Mr. Hillman, it seems, was all for handing over the job of erecting the 300 homes to an A. F. L. concern, even though the smoothing of that organization's feathers would cost tion to help the Russians as an the taxpayers a gaudy if not neat sum of money.

On the stand, Mr. Hillman talked gravely of such things as the present crisis, the current emergency and the tremendous need for avoiding strikes. He implied that, to give Brother Currier and his C. I. O. workmen the business, would have resulted in general hell raising by the A. F. L., with noggins being cracked, tibias and fibias being splintered and all-around havoc being raised with defense work in and around Detroit.

I'm not even a junior Pegler when it comes to peering into the machinations of labor, and I have no particular desire to poke my typewriter's nose into that field. But as a gent with average intelligence I can't help but ask Appeaser Hillman who is running defense.

Is the Government running it or is a labor group running it? In fact, who is running the Government, the Government or the A. F. L? This is not a slam at the A. F. L., mind you. Some of my best friends are members of the lodge. and I have an uncle who collects Individual members of Congress have protested loudly but the majority has shown its fear of labor's political power of reprisal so that today a power bigger than the Government has appeared which threatens to impair the productive processes at a time of national defense emergency.

Mr. Roosevelt with commendable patience has written pleas of restraint. He has not threatened or denounced anybody so no complaint of impulsive action can be lodged now. He has cracked down on employers and has even seized a huge plant in Kearny, N. J., where the United States Steel Corp. declined to grant what was regarded by it as a closed shop in shipbuilding. At that time the National Defense Mediation Board had errone-ously insisted that no closed shop issue was involved and yet its decision plainly declared that an employer must discipline union members for not paying dues to a union. The public criticism which followed that episode has served to clear the air on the whole closed shop controversy and the board states now that a closed shop must be a voluntary act of the employer and the union and cannot be forced by a governmental agency. Issue on President's Doorstep.

When Mr. Lewis says the Government has approved the closed shop already, he means, of course, that whole steel industry which is not the National Defense Mediation operated on the closed shop plan. Perhaps better council will prevail in the end, and Mr. Lewis will remove the obstacle to operation of the mines during the period of negotiation. He is to meet Myron Taylor, the probable representative of the steel companies, tomorrow to discuss the matter. Labor's record, so far as strikes are concerned, in the national defense picture, is a black one. It is estimated that these strikes since June, 1940, have cost the Nation 10,000,000 man days of work. Strikes are increasing today. It became necessary for the Navy to take over a shipbuilding company, under orders of the President. But still the strikes persist, and Mr. Lewis' strike promises to be one of the most persistent, unless something is done about it. There was a Nation-wide coal strike last spring which did the country and national defense no good, and in that Mr. Lewis also was a prime mover.

Some of the demands of labor in these strikes were justified. However, labor could have won its aims through negotiation and ment with the A. F. L .- an agreement, it appears, that guarantees the A. F. L. all building construction jobs in return for a promise not to strike on defense work-does not constitute a monopoly. I think he's right. I think it constitutes the next word past monopoly. Yield to the A. F. L. in a test case like the Currier one, and before you know it the boys will be demanding to know where the eggs are hidden on the White House lawn at Easter so they can find them first or else get a head start on the other searchers. If the Currier company was a flyby-night outfit that specialized in jerry-built jobs with a termite in every pillar and post, it might be all right to sneer at its bid, which stands to save the taxpayers close to half a million dollars. But as I get it, from my assistant secretary in charge of prefabricated research, the Currier company is on the level. has a union contract and pays more than the A. F. L. scale calls for.

* * * *

There is something in the American system that demands such a company be given a fair shake. What are we coming to if an honest company gets the cold shoulder because its bid is the lowest? No citizen would tolerate a servant who wouldn't buy groceries from a storekeeper just because the price of the groceries was lower than that of a grocer further along the street.

How would you like Mr. Hillman in charge of your shopping? He'd come in all exhausted after a day of looking for the highest prices. How would you like to pay 80 cents a dozen for eggs just because Mr. Hillman was afraid of annoying a poultryman who thought that was what eggs were worth, and that any one who sold them for less was awell, a jerk?

To tell you the truth, a country is eally getting messed up when it an't manage the construction of a few houses for defense workers without a Senate investigation. It's getting so that a Senator doesn't have time to vote or make a speech what with the investigations he has to attend. Some of them are booked up for investigations like a strip easer at a freshman dance. Oh, well, there'll always be Tibet.

With more Budweiser than ever before, there has not been enough to go 'round

Never before in history has there been a situation like this:

A vast expansion program carried on for eight years made it possible for the world's largest brewery to produce more beer in 1941 than ever before has come from a single brewery or group of breweries operating under one management — and yet it was impossible for us to fill all orders.

Such a demand, previously unheard of for any similar product, made it difficult to maintain adequate distribution in all of the 48 states at all times. Through it all, our dealers have shown great patience and for this we are grateful.

America prefers Budweiser. Your own preference for Budweiser is a compliment to your own good taste - proof that you recognize the outstanding quality that has made Budweiser the biggest-selling beer in history.

With the completion of our expansion program, we trust that you now are getting Budweiser whenever you call for it.

District Will Send Only 396 Men to Army in December

> Call Much Smaller Than Any Received

In Recent Months Only 396 Washington selectees will be called up for military service during December, under a requisition received from 3d Corps Area headquarters, selective service officials announced today. This call is much smaller than any received in recent months. The quota includes 246 white and 150 colored selectees, all of whom are scheduled to be inducted in Baltimore on December 1 and 2. Heretofore white selectees have been inducted in Richmond.

One hundred and twelve white and 76 colored selectees are scheduled to report for induction on December 1 and 134 white and 74 colored men will be called up the following day.

William Beye, 60, Dies; U. S. Steel Labor Aide By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 28 -- William Beye, vice president of the United States Steel Corp. in charge of industrial relations and a principal figure in its recent labor negotiations, died suddenly here last night. He was 60 July 21 and had been ill for some time with heart trouble. Mr. Beye, a native of Chicago, was admitted to the bar in Illinois in 1904 after graduating from the University of Wisconsin and Lake Forest College. He was a member of the law firm of Knapp, Beye, Allen & Cushing of Chicago, di-vision counsel for United States Steel subsidiaries, for 35 yeads.

He moved to Pittsburgh soon after being placed in charge of industrial relations October 1, 1937. As late as last week Mr. Beye attended the Defense Mediation Board's 'captive mine" coal hearing in Washington, heading his company's delegation.

Mr. Beye was an excellent tennis player, golfer and trapshooter, despite the handicap of having lost his left hand several years ago.

Coward Returns to Theater In His Old Merry Mood

As Author of 'Blithe Spirit,' He Uses Wit, Imagination and Charm to Make Love Another Farce

By JAY CARMODY.

It is a noble thing for the playwright of power and passion to undertake to compress our times and his emotion into a drama worthy of both. Its nobility often is great even when the play is not.

However, it also is gallant of Noel Coward to stick to his old witty, imaginative pattern of play-making; to be gay and inconsequential and amusing with a mocking nod toward chaos. That is Mr. Coward's attitude in "Blithe Spirit" which opened - last night at the National and the heart that cannot join him is foolishly solemn and deserves its gloom. The other kind will find more laughter in Mr Coward's play than in any romantic farce it is likely to see this season Even short of its final luster, the frivolous charade with Peggy Wood. Leonora

Yes, Virginia, there is a hockey team known as the Washington Wide Open Ulines. To prove it Mr. Michael Uline put it on display yesterday at his big concrete-and-brick shed. "It's been one headache after another," he noted as his green-armored skaters whizzed over the ice, "but we've finally got our club.'

Thus the stage is set for the pitched battle for public favor between the Washington Eagles and the Ulines. The former are the hockey pioneers of the town. They came here a couple of years ago, joined the Eastern Amateur League and did so well in mopping up the circuit-and, incidentally, at the box office-that Mr. Uline adjusted his spectacles and Faid

By BILL BONI,

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK, Oct. 28 .- If Minnesota and Texas, leaders in opposite parts of the country and exponents of contrasting types of football, were to meet today their game would end in a tie.

That, at least, is the view of 127 of the country's gridiron experts. Voting in the third Associated Press ranking poll of the year, in which each man lists in order the teams he considers to be the top 10, they placed the Golden Gophers of the Western Conference and the Longhorns of the Southwest in a deadlock at the head of the parade.

On a 10-9-8-7-6, etc., scoring basis, each team polled 1.161 points. Minnesota held the edge in first-place votes, with 60 to 53, but Texas made up for that with more solid support in the secondary positions.

Gophers, Irish, Penn Favored.

The poll also left little doubt of which teams are the consensus favorites in next Saturday's three major battles, each of which already is an assured sellout. Vindicated by the 7-0 score in their ranking of Minnesota two notches ahead of Michigan last week, this time the experts made the Gophers a strong choice to continue unbeaten against Northwestern, by rating the wildcats ninth

Similarly Notre Dame, in sixth place, is given a comfortable margin over Army, rated 14th on four straight victories, but probably lacking in manpower to continue its remarkable comeback past this engagement. A closer game, the experts think, should be that between all-winning Penn, at eighth place, and undefeated but once-tied Navy, at 11th Last week's results shuffled the order considerably. Minnesota and Texas ran one-two the first two weeks and Duke continued in fourth place. But Fordham, the East's best, came up from sixth to third. Texas A. and M. from ninth to fifth and Notre Dame from seventh to sixth, while Michigan dropped four notches to seventh. Navy, Tulane, Santa Clara Sink. Gone from the first 10 are Navy,

I don't know the names of all of them, and he waved a hand at the green-clad skaters, "but I can tell you they're expensive."

They're Featuring a 'Flying Frenchman'

The nominal star of the Ulines is supposed to be one George Mantha, who is called somewhat inevitably, the Flying Frenchman. He is one of the half dozen players reportedly purchased from the Canadiens. Accord- vorite to retain its Southern Coning to the story, the Canadiens wanted to buy him back at $10,000, but the young man isn't on the block.

Mantha is no Johnny-Come-Lately. He served quite a stretch with the Canadiens and affiliated teams, but Johnson, who lasted 20 years in the big time, says that George has plenty of hockey left in him. "Wait and I'll call him," said Ching to the assembled newspapermen, and Mantha came over and shook hands and, for a 10-year man in pro 21 minutes, 25 seconds. Revamped Maroon Line-up To Start; Vikings Are Polishing Reserves

By GEORGE HUBER. Some of the edge has been taken off the annual schoolboy football classic between Central and Tech coming up this Saturday at Central Stadium because the Vikings have stepped through five games undefeated, while Tech's Maroons won their first game only last week.

That makes Central the big favorite, but anything can happen, and sometimes does, in these annual clashes and the game should be just as exciting and hard fought as many of the 38 previous ones.

This is Central's big chance to step to the front in the series, a position it hasn't held since 1930 when Tech, then in the midst of a five-year winning streak, forged into the lead. The two now are tied, each having won 16 games with six others ending in ties. Last year's game, played at night at Griffith Stadium, was a scoreless deadlock, while Central won the three previous games. Tech to Use Revamped Line-up.

Even though conceded little chance of spilling the Vikings, Tech this week is being pushed by Coweek's win over Roosevelt finally has set the Marcons on a winning has set the Maroons on a winning road. Much the same revamped On American Boys line-up used against the Rough Riders again will be started. This will have Jack Gray and Myrl As Net Tenders tackle and John Frick as fullback. The desperate situation at Tech is indicated by the fact that several of these, and others who went into the game as subs, were until last week players on the junior eleven. Frick, for example, wasn't even on the Minior team but was a member of what constituted Tech's third squad. Until last Friday, when he started against Roosevelt, he hadn't even been assigned a numbered remainder of the esason.

By BILL DISMER, Jr. "We'll be a lot better prepared for the Steelers here next Sunday than we were in Pittsburgh two weeks ago," Ray Flaherty was saying today as he sent the Redskins back to

"At that time, Pittsburgh had just changed coaches and we didn't know quite what to expect from Buff Donelli. Obviously, in the light of the late care the Rams threw into the Redskins two days ago, Flaherty's toughest job this week-and for the rest of the season-is to make his players realize that they never must "let down," no matter how far they get ahead. George Lowry came to the rescue with 145-373 to prevent the Bill Quigleys from swamping the Harringtons in St. Martin's Men's Club League at King Pin. Atwell's 134-350 gave Lo Jaconos its winning punch in a 2-1 decision over the Walshes.

Puzzles and Harmonica Relax Auburn Gridder

By the Associated Press. AUBURN, Ga., Oct. 28 .- When Auburn's Max Morris, regular junior guard, isn't busy on the football field, chances are you will find him either working a crossword puzzle or playing his harp or harmonica. Morris rates the puzzles as the best medium for relaxation, followed by the musical instruments.

U. S. Ships Have Right To Free Use of Seas, Says Admiral Stark

Those Who Oppose Us Face Attack, He Warns In Radio Forum Talk

Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, was heard in a most exact proportion to our armed under naval command. Navy Day address on "United We strength-and I may add that as Stand" last night in the National we are strong on the sea-and by Radio Forum. The speech was made from Chicago at a Navy Day dinner so shall we be strong everywhere. and was heard over a national hookup of the National Broadcasting Co. Arranged by The Star in co-operation with N. B. C., it was heard locally over WMAL.

Recent increases in the effectiveness of aircraft have called for the expansion of naval aviation in a much greater proportion than the expansion of naval surface forces. The aviation expansion is on the order of five to one, while surface units are being expanded about two to one. This expansion in air strength is necessary to meet the times, and coming down to the great essential needs of the Navy for its American now in the White House, own aircraft to perform purely that we owe our naval policy, and naval functions. the leadership that has shaped our Hand in hand with new ship and necessary since neither ships nor aircraft can long operate without adequate bases. Their need for fuel, supplies and repairs in an everpressing one.

Thus, it can be said that the power of a navy is measured not merely by the armaments and numbers of its ships and planes, but precedented in our history; perhaps also by the equipment and distribution of its bases.

Vote to Add 100 Policemen Seen Soon in Senate

Measure Reported Favorably; Provides $120,333 Fund

Early Senate action was expected today on a House-approved bill providing funds for an increase of 100 men in the Metropolitan police force, beginning December 1.

The measure was reported favorably by the Senate Appropriations Committee at a brief executive meeting late yesterday at which Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, of Wyoming stressed the urgent necd of the additional officers.

Appropriates $120,333.

An appropriation of $120.333 is called for in the bill to pay the salaries of the 100 new policemen from December 1 through the remainder of the current fiscal year which ends June 30. This is a reduction of $26,917 under the amount provided in the measure as it passed the House. The House, however, anticipated that the force would be enlarged October 1, and calculated the salaries of the additional officers on a nine-month instead of a seven-month basis.

Of the total appropriation recommended, $103,708 would come out of the general revenues of the District and the balance from the special fund derived from motor vehicle fees and the 2-cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline

Revenue Held Adequate.

Senator O'Mahoney, who is chairman of the subcommittee in charge of District appropriations, using statistics prepared by municipal officials, showed that District revenues will bear the added expense without Suit of Five Retailers and income from other sources in mates, largely because of the growth in population and the resulting increase in building construction.

Senator O'Mahoney told the committee the additional policemen are needed because of expansion of the city.

Seventy-nine officers were added to the force in July with funds carried in the Appropriation Act for the present fiscal year. These, plus the 100 provided for in the bill before the Senate, will provide a police WASHINGTON, D. C., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1941.

Commissioners Study Off-Street Parking Bill

Zoning Act Change Would Help Solve Traffic Problem

The Commissioners today had before them a bill to amend the Zoning Act to give the Zoning Commission authority to compel provision for off-street parking facilities in all new District construction.

The measure was approved yesterday by the zoning body, of which the three city heads are members, and is due to be sent to the Capitol

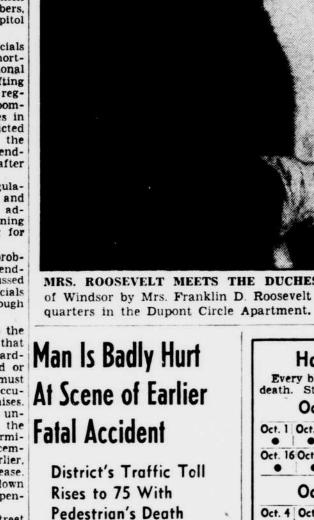

In addition, the zoning officials decided to meet the housing shortage caused by the influx of national defense population here by drafting tentative amendments to zoning regulations to permit operation of rooming houses and boarding houses in "A" restricted and semi-restricted districts for the duration of the emergency. In any case, the amendments would become invalid after December 31, 1943.

Amendments to the zoning regulations require a public hearing and must be advertised 30 days in advance of that hearing. The Zoning Commission called the hearing for December 3.

Possibility of handling the problem through a congressional amendchanges in the regulations.

regulations provide specifically that to operate a rooming house or boarding house in the "A" restristed or semi-restricted areas a persons must have a special certificate of occupancy for such use of his premises. The application will contain an unconditional statement that on the President's declaration of the termination of the emergency, or December 31, 1943, whichever comes earlier, such use of the premises must cease. Any operator failing to close down at that time becomes subject to penalties of the Zoning Act. The proposal to compel off-street parking provision in all new construction has long been suggested as one of the remedies to the District death in Emergency Hospital today traffic problem and was suggested from injuries in a traffic accident at the recent congressional hearing conducted by Representative Schulte,

Duchess Meets Mrs. Roosevelt For First Time

Greeted at Offices Of Civilian Defense Before Luncheon

The Duchess of Windsor met Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt for the first time today as she and the Duke returned to Washington for a White House luncheon with President Roosevelt.

While Mrs. Roosevelt was unable to attend the luncheon, owing to a long-standing engagement in Chicago, she met the Duchess at the Office of Civilian Defense in the Dupont Circle Apartments, and they had a visit of more than half an hour.

Arriving at Union Station at 8 o'clock this morning the royal couple went to the British Embassy. At 10:15 o'clock the Duchess, leaving the Duke at the Embassy, drove to the Office of Civilian Defense.

Greets Elderly Resident.

Mrs. Roosevelt was awaiting the Duchess in her office on the ninth floor. A sizable crowd was waiting when the Duchess and her escort drove up to the building. As the Duchess crossed the lobby, an elderly resident of the apartment house rose and bowed, and the Duchess quickly crossed and shook his hand. Mrs. Roosevelt greeted the Duchess and showed her around the offices used by the O. C. D.

More than 100 women members of the staff lined the walls on the ninth floor, and cheered the Duchess as she walked through. Many of the clerks were admitted to Mrs. Roosevelt's office and met the Duchess. who asked many questions about their work. In her chat with Mrs. Roosevelt, the Duchess expressed a lively interest in the civilian defense setup.

While the Duchess was at the O. C. D. the Duke drove to the offices of the Civil Aeronautics Board in the Commerce Department, where he emphasized the need of air services between the United States and the Bahamas, where he is the governor

In addition, the zoning officials decided to meet the housing shortage caused by the influx of national defense population here by drafting tentative amendments to zoning regulations to permit operation of rooming houses and boarding houses in "A" restricted and semi-restricted districts for the duration of the emergency. In any case, the amendments would become invalid after December 31, 1943.

Amendments to the zoning regulations require a public hearing and must be advertised 30 days in advance of that hearing. The Zoning Commission called the hearing for December 3

Possibility of handling the problem through a congressional amendment to the Zoning Act was discussed by the commission, but the officials decided to work it out through changes in the regulations.

The proposed amendments to the regulations provide specifically that to operate a rooming house or boarding house in the "A" restristed or semi-restricted areas a persons must have a special certificate of occupancy for such use of his premises. The application will contain an unconditional statement that on the President's declaration of the termination of the emergency, or December 31, 1943 whichever comes earlier such use of the premises must cease. Action Charging Price Discrimination Filed By Five Retailers

The Kvening

Claiming to represent some 300 dealers, five retail liquor stores yesterday filed suit in District Court against seven wholesalers and nine retailers, contending that they are violating the Robinson-Patman Act by indulging in price discriminations. An injunction was asked to halt the practice, which the plaintiffs say is based on quantity discounts in the liquor business, without any real basis in fact. Due to this, the court was told, a monopoly exists.

Measure Reported Favorably; Provides $120,333 Fund

Early Senate action was expected today on a House-approved bill providing funds for an increase of 100 men in the Metropolitan police force, beginning December 1. The measure was reported favorably by the Senate Appropriations Committee at a brief executive meeting late yesterday at which Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat. of Wyoming stressed the urgent necd of the additional officers.

Appropriates $120.333.

An appropriation of $120.333 is called for in the bill to pay the salaries of the 100 new policemen from December 1 through the remainder of the current fiscal year which ends June 30. This is a reduction of $26.917 under the amount provided in the measure as it passed the House. The House, however, anticipated that the force would be enlarged October 1, and calculated the salaries of the additional officers on a nine-month instead of a seven-month basis.

Of the total appropriation recommended, $103,708 would come out of the general revenues of the District and the balance from the special fund derived from motor vehicle fees and the 2-cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline

Revenue Held Adequate.

Senator O'Mahoney, who is chairman of the subcommittee in charge of District appropriations, using statistics prepared by municipal officials, showed that District revenues will bear the added expense without causing a deficit, since tax collections and income from other sources in the first quarter of the current fiscal year were higher than original estimates, largely because of the growth in population and the resulting increase in building construction.

Senator O'Mahoney told the committee the additional policemen are ct. 28.- needed because of expansion of the

12,000 SQUARE FEET OF CURTAINS, DRAPES AND UPHOLSTERIES ON ONE FLOOR

So you've taken a one-room apartment while you're carving a career for yourself in Washington. So you've bought a huge new house out in Chevy Chase while you're helping guide the destinies of the National Defense program. Maybe . . . you've got to start from scratch in furnishing your new home. Maybe . . . you've brought all your precious heirlooms from your plantation in Kentucky. But it's dollars to doughnuts . . . you'll need new curtains. Where to get them? At the largest Curtain and Upholstery Department in Washington. At The Hecht Co. . . . where it takes up one full floor. Where you'll find everything from simple tailored curtains to rich floor length draperies . . . from Venetian blinds to window blinds . . . from match-mates in boudoir spreads, draperies and vanity skirts to exquisite upholstery material (yes, we do upholstery work, too) to huge oversize ottomans. Come in tomorrow . . . and see for yourself.

Parties in Capital Today and Yesterday; Mrs. Church Is Hostess

Luncheon Invitations Issued In Maiden Name: Cabinet Wives Guests of Mrs. Roosevelt

Unusual parties are not infrequent in the National Capital, but the unusual is apt to be in the matter of decoration or menu. Mrs. Melville Church, however, chose an unusual form in her luncheon today at Pierre's when she entertained a group of her contemporaries.

The invitations were issued in her maiden name, Miss Esther Denny, and, although the envelopes were addressed to the married name of the guest, the invitation inside was extended to her in her maiden name. Mrs. Church gave the party in honor of Mrs. Robert Gifford, who formerly was Miss Evelyn Chew. Among the other guests was her sister, Mrs. Upshur Moorhead, formerly Miss Lillian Chew,

Figures of Little Girls Used as Place Cards.

Guests for the most part were representative of service circles and were those who were presented in Washington early in this century. The replies were all addressed to "Miss Esther Denny, care of Mr. Melville Church." and the hostess chose for place cards figures of little girls with red, white and blue frocks.

Those at the luncheon included, in addition to the Chew sisters, Mrs. Gifford and Mrs. Moorhead, Mrs. McCeney Werlich, formerly Miss Gladys Hinckley; Mrs. Harrison Stanton,* formerly Miss Laura Wells; Mrs. Emory Scott Land, and Mrs. Land, Barnes Newberry; Mrs. Gilbert Row-cliff, formerly Miss Marion Leutze; Mrs. Conger Pratt, formerly Miss

Mrs. John R. Williams "chaperoned" the party.

Women Hear Breckinridge Hit Defeatists

Democratic Club Hears Appeasers Called Munich Men

A strong denunciation of defeatists and those who are "trying to muddy the waters" of national unity in the present world crisis was voiced by Col. Henry Breckinridge before members of the Woman's National Democratic Club yesterday at club headquarters.

As guest speaker at the first of a luncheon "information hour" series of discussions on the Roosevelt-Churchill eight-point program sponsored by the club's Education Committee Col. Breckinridge termed "American Munich men" those who preach appeasement or the invincibility of the Axis powers.

"Nothing makes me so tired as the myth of Nazi invincibility," Col. Breckinridge declared. "The same efforts have been used here as were used in Britain and France to lull us into apathy and inertia which were successful in anesthetizing the series of European nations before their approaching doom." he said.

National energies must be bent toward utter destruction of the Nazi menace. Col. Breckinridge emphasized. "He who now seeks to interfere with the execution of that policy is a marplot who skates close to treason," he declared.

The speaker placed particular emphasis on the necessity of American aid to Russia

"The resistance of Russia" has become a vital factor in American security." he declared. "The latest dodge of obstructionists is to play on our dislike of Communism to stop aid to Russia. It is one thing to have Russia 56 miles across the Bering Strait and another thing to have Hitler there." he added.

Compromise with Japan in its relations with China should not be tolerated, the colonel emphasized.

To appease Japan at the expense of China would be as futile, as dishonorable, as disastrous as the appeasement of Hitler at Munich." he warned. "Japan started the train of barbarous aggressions which have brought the world into shambles,' he declared

The chaotic condition in the world today is the responsibility and problem of all. Col. Breckinridge stated.

"Unless and until there is a worldwide acceptance of mutual and universal responsibility for the continuing betterment of the lot of mankind everywhere there is no foreseeable future except of continuing and recurring bloodshed on an ever-expanding scale of horror," he concluded

Col. Breckinridge was introduced by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee. The Senator explained that it was appropriate for the colonel to come to Washington on Navy Day, as he was a firm supporter of the President's foreign policy

Voicing his approval of the President's declaration that the Navy would shoot on sight those who apposed freedom of the seas, the Virginia Senator said "the Navy should go on the high seas wherever they want and shoot hell out of all they encounter who oppose them, and 1 hope they encounter all of them." Following the introduction. Senator Glass left for the Capitol, explaining he must "return to vote billions to help beat Hitler."

Mrs. Meade Fletcher, chairman of the Educational Committee, introduced Senator Glass. Mrs. Curtis Shears, the president, presided at the luncheon. Special guests in-cluded Mrs. Glass. Mrs. John T. Vance, sister of Col. Breckinridge; Mrs. John Summerscale, wife of the Commercial Secretary of the British Embassy: Mrs. Lucius Wilmerding, jr., Washington chairman of Young America Wants to Help: Mr. and Mrs. Michael Straight, Washington vice chairman of Fight for Freedom; Livingston Hartley, Washington chairman of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Al-lies, and Mrs. Paul V. McNutt.

Clothes and Corsages Are Two Bright Spots in the Football Season

You May Not Know a First Down From an Offside, Yet Look Like Expert

Warmth, Smartness, Stadium Suitability to Be Considered In Co-ordinating Costume

By Helen Vogt

If your face is near the cracking point from trying to look intelli-gent about spinner plays and double wingbacks, and you've decided that you don't know a penalty from a bag of peanuts, just keep on being brave. After all, the football season is tough on the little woman-particularly one who is trying to make that big impression-but it has its happier aspects, too. Flowers are one: clothes are another.

All right, so you sit out in the stadium freezing to death and that big brute with you won't sit still and keep the lap robe in place, but you're wearing a chrysanthemum corsage, aren't you? And you have the best-looking topcoat in the place, haven't you? See, there's something to be said for football after all. Be a lady; don't say it.

Seriously, though, there's more to this business of football fashions than meets the masculine eye. In the first place, a girl has to dress for warmth, but she can't be bundled up like an eskimo. She must look trim and tailored because there's nothing glamorous about a papoose. Best choice, we think, is the long torso tailored wool dress in the eternal beige, or, better still, in one of the new tomato-ish reds or mossy greens. Not only is it warm and not fussy, but it goes from the stadium to the tea dance with equal ease. Wear it under a plaid or plain coat, perhaps with a fur trim of one of the more casual pelts, such as wolf. lynx, raccoon or other -

Jobseekers Who Are Trained Have Advantage These Days; Let That Be Your Keynote

By Kay Caldwell and Alden Harrison

Now, and not some time next spring, is the time for young people in high schools and colleges to be thinking seriously about the jobs they will be trying to get next year, or their preparation for jobs which they will be seeking a year or two hence.

If you're a high school senior, and hope to enter college next fall, don't let the matter of selecting and applying for admission to a school go until the last minute. Suppose, for instance, that you hope to get a scholarship to help with your tuition. Get busy now, finding out what scholarships are available in schools you would like to attend. 2. Have two mascara shades-one. a neutral color, a brown or black for the hours between 9 and 6 daylight, and a more fascinating. becoming shade such as blue-green, for night-time glamour, but wear it only on gala occasions when your gown warrants its theatrical effect

3. Before you apply mascara wash your eyes and lashes and dry them Separate the lashes with a well. clean brush kept solely for that purpose. Then, using your forefinger, lift and hold your evelid away from your eye so you may tint the lashes from root to tip without danger of getting any of the coloring into your eye. The brush should be barely moistened with the mascara and the first coat should dry well before the clean brush is again used to whisk away any excess coloring and to separate the lashes. A second coat, just a thin film, may be applied. The effect, when finished, should be most natural-but an accenting of the length of your lashes should be obvious.

4. Keep your eyebrows in a natural arch and tweak only the rebellious hairs. Brow accenting may be done with a brush and mascara (ever so lightly) or with a sharppointed brow pencil.

Americans With R. A. F. Taught to Fly by C. A. A. Two-thirds of the American Eagle

Squadron in England learned to fly in the Civil Aeronautics Administration's pilot training program, according to word received by the C. A. A. from Pilot Officer Harold Strickland, a Chicagoan now stationed at London as a member of the American Eagle Squadron, R. A. F.

Mr. Strickland says he finds it "amazing" that many of the boys who are now "hitting the Jerries hard hopped off on their first solo flight in a C. A. A. Cub about 12 months ago-and today they can fly a tight formation, in Hurricanes in the clouds."

Emphasizing the important lessons to the American military forces of "mass wartime aviation," Mr. Strickland stated that "it's a good thing that a reservoir like the C. A. A. is set up for them to draw from as a starter.'

The C. A. A. training program, begun in 1939, has fed more than 10,000 of its students to the Army and Navy air forces and, in all, has created more than 55,000 new pilots. Almost 15,000 students are currently enrolled at more than 500 colleges and other centers.

Hackberry: What do the Japanese mean by "MARU"? The names of their ships are followed by this word, as "S. S. Ishihara Maru."-C. J. A. Answer: It is true that "MARU"

How Did It Start?

is a suffix to the names of virtually all Japanese merchant vessels, but the true meaning of the word, says the Japan Institute of New York, "has been lost in the mists of antiquity.

The literal meaning of MARU is "round; complete; perfect; all-em-bracing." To the Japanese it is a noble word that has been applied to swords, musical instruments, castles, ships, household treasures and even business houses.

This is one of the theories ad-vanced by the Japanese Institute: "Ancient Japanese boats were of a round shape, like the coracles of olden France, made by covering ,a wicker frame with hide. Therefore, the word 'maru,' having the literal meaning of 'a ring' or 'round,' might have been taken originally from the shape of the ancient boats." The word is accented on the first syllable. Say: MAH-roo.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Some cities have aquariums when people can see hundreds of kinds of fish. It is extremely interesting to look into the tanks and watch the fish swimming about, or resting. In an hour one can gain an idea of the many forms of life in lakes and seas. In the old days goldfish bowls were fairly common, but there were few homes with fish of any other kind. Today a widespread hobby of keeping fish in small tanks has grown up. More than 500 kinds of tropical fish have been sold in fish stores of various cities.

Some of those who follow the hobby put sand at the bottom of the tank, and place the roots of water plants in the sand. A few snails may be kept in the water, along with perhaps a dozen kinds of fish. Among the tropical fish which can be kept in a tank are the so-called "veil-tailed fighters." They have fanlike tails which are nearly as long as their bodies. Their fins are fish are known as butterfly fish. about as large as the tail.

PENNIES MORE

The story thus far: Clare Calridge, daughter of the wealthy lawyer and banker, Steve Calridge, takes an intuitive dislike to Clay Hanley, operator of the new Coventry Airport, when she goes there to sign up for flying lessons. Talking to the mechanic Eddie Franklin later she discovers that both he and Clay worked for Billet Air-craft at the time her sweetheart, Roger Caswell, was killed testing a badly designed bomber. Eddie has always felt that Hanley had guilty knowledge of what was going to happen in that test, and he suspects Hanley now of having stolen from Roger the unique plans upon which Hanley's special plane is based. The Calridge financial interest in the airport and Hanley's association with Steve's secretary, Betty Crowell, are all parts of what Eddie considers a vicious combine. But despite this Clare can't resist accepting Hanley when he asks her out for dinner.

CHAPTER X.

They drank and then Clay sat down on the couch beside Clare, crossing his legs comfortably and lighting another cigarette. Their knees touched when they faced each other and Clare felt a quick thrill. The man certainly had a lot of nice things about him. He talked easily and was good-looking and she was sure, the longer she was with him, that he genuinely liked her. It was kind of stimulating to the ego, she thought, having a man whom she had de-*-

Even after they'd had dinner the sensation still remained, a sensation of vague uneasiness and worry. Several times she looked at Clay surreptitiously, trying to discover if he had noticed a change in her. And just as many times she had the feel- swell kid. She tried to loosen his grasp several times, but each time he looked down at her and laughed, relaxing his grip for an instant and then pulling her close again. Clare knew a brief moment of fear, thinking of his, strength and of the intuitional dislike she had had of him at the very first; and then she was angry with herself for all the simplicity and stupid credence she had had with him ever since early in the day, when he had said that they hadn't got off to a good start but ought to remedy that as soon as possible. "I'm seven kinds of a fool," she told herself. "I don't know the man at all and everything about him suggests the brute and the utter cad.
