Dudley Tentatively Accepts Bid to Play in East-West Game

Invitation Announced at Party in Honor of Virginia Team

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Dec. 2.—Bill Dudley, retiring captain of the University of Virginia football team and the Nation's leading college scorer for 1941, has accepted tentatively a bid to play in the annual East-West all-star game at San Francisco on New Year day.

Announcement of Dudley's invitation from Andy Kerr, Colgate mentor who has been coaching the Eastern squad for the game for many years, was made at a party given in honor of the Virginia team here last night after the annual football banquet.

The Cavalier leader reserved the right to withdraw his acceptance of the bid, however, should Virginia receive and accept a bowl bid. Virginia has been mentioned in connection with the Sun Bowl game.

Previously the Virginia halfback had received an invitation to play in the North-South game at Montgomery, Ala., but had withdrawn acceptance. He notified officials of the event today that he would be unable to accept the bid.

Vols Reject Invitation To Play in Charity Game

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 2.—Head Coach John Barnhill announced today that the University of Tennessee has rejected an invitation to play unbeaten, untied Duquesne in a charity football game on New York City on December 20.

Because the game date fell in the midst of our examination period, Mr. Barnhill said, "we were forced to decline it."

The Volunteers responded affirmatively to a "feeler" received yesterday from the Cotton Bowl managers at Dallas, before Alabama was named as the foe of Texas Aggies.

Tennessee appeared in the Orange Bowl and Sugar Bowls on the past three New Year days and a fourth successive bid would have been a record-breaking achievement.

Howard Replaces Meyer As Coach for Gray Team

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 2.—Frank Howard of Clemson was chosen today to replace Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian on the Southern coaching staff for the fourth annual Blue and Gray football game here December 27.

The replacement was necessitated by Texas Christian's acceptance of a bid to meet Georgia in the Orange Bowl at Miami January 1. Other Dixie coaches are Matty Bell of Southern Methodist and Red Dawson of Tulane.

Cal Stanley of Cornell and Lynn Waldorf and Bert Ingwersen of Northwestern will tutor the Blues.

The Blue and Gray Association, sponsor of the charity encounter between senior stars from either side of the Mason-Dixon line said three of the most famous football men in the country are being sought to replace Holt Reid, end, John Whynion, guard, and Jimmy Nelson, back, who were lost off the South squad when Alabama accepted an invitation to the Cotton Bowl.

The association, meanwhile announced the selection of Abisha (Bosch) Pritchard, Virginia Military quarter-back, to replace Kyle Gillespie of T. C. U. in the Southern backfield, and that Roland Goss of S. M. U., rather than his teammate, Bob Maddox, would play at left end for Gray's. Maddox is reported suffering from a leg infection.

Shavely, meanwhile, wired that four top-ranking Easterners had been added to the North squad. They are Walter Moeling, Pennsylvania tackle, Ray Jenkins, Cornell end, Frank Mazzini, Boston College half-back, and Al Memaio, Duquesne center.

Both outfits will report here December 20.

Approximately 6,000 Federal employees already appointed to classified positions in defense agencies, although they lacked civil service status, will have an opportunity to qualify for civil service under an executive order made public through the Civil Service Commission today.

This will necessitate meeting service and efficiency requirements and passing a non-competitive examination.

The employees, coming from non-civil service agencies where reductions of force were being made, were placed on a register designated as the emergency replacement list, in order that advantage could be taken of their experience in Government service in building up the defense staff.

No names will be entered on this list after December 31, except those of personnel with civil service status who are dropped as the decennial census force is cut down.

The list itself will be abolished December 31, 1942.

There are several thousand names left on the list and persons appointed to defend the country in the next year will have the same opportunity to qualify for civil service status as those already appointed.

Irish Government Fears New Attacks on Shipping

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Following the attack on the Irish mail steamer Cambria a few days ago, the Irish government has stated that it has reason to believe that German attacks on shipping around Irish shores will shortly be greatly intensified. This is the fourth Irish ship to be attacked within a month.

The Cambria is one of the Irish mail steamers which run regularly between Holyhead and Kingstown (Dunloughhead). The ship, which was carrying 300 passengers, was not damaged.

The government's statement follows Premier Eamon de Valera's recent warning to the Irish that they must be prepared for total war.

House Members Deny Charges That R. E. A. Is Hoarding Copper

Rankin and Ellis Defend Agency and Assail O. P. M. Staff

(Earlier Story on Page A-4)

A charge by Representative Winthrop Rankin of Kansas, that the Rural Electrification Administration was hoarding copper at the expense of the defense program brought strong denials in the House today.

Representative Rankin, Democrat, of Mississippi asserted the Kansan's allegations constituted the "most vicious and unjustifiable" attack on the R. E. A.

"The truth is," Mr. Rankin contended, "the copper in question is not held by the R. E. A. but by a contractor."

He declared the Texas Power & Light Co. had been slipping the project for which the copper was intended—a transmission line to link several power co-operatives in Texas.

Mr. Winter told the House late yesterday that "millions and millions of pounds of copper were 'hidden' away in Texas cotton fields" for the project, and contended "the only possible justification R. E. A. can put forward for this misuse of badly needed national defense copper is that they wish to establish a competitive plant the better to control rates."

Representative Ellis, Democrat, of Arkansas contended that power companies "mooch" employed in the Office of Production Management "fat salaries" were sabotaging the defense program by withholding priorities on generating equipment which would permit completion of the proposed project in Texas and thus use up the wire in question.

Young Appointed An Admiral in Nebraska Navy

Commissioner John Russell Young today was appointed an admiral in the Nebraska Navy—a navy which maneuvers in prairie schooners instead of ships.

The title was conferred on him by Gov. Griswold on recommendation of Representative Stefan, Republican, of Nebraska.

Good fellowship, not seamanship, is the cardinal qualification for membership in the Nebraska Navy.

Army Blamed as Job Figured at 21 Million Costs $51,000,000

'Inadequate' Plans And Constant Changes Held Responsible

Contractors building the Government well-lending plant at Milan, Tenn., blamed "inadequate" War Department construction plans today for the increase in cost of the project above Army ordinance estimates.

H. K. Ferguson, head of the H. K. Ferguson Construction Co. of Cleveland, denounced however, repeated "insinuations" before the Senate Defense Investigating Committee that contractors have spent $51,000,000 on a job estimated to cost $21,000,000.

Mr. Ferguson's company is associated with the Orono Construction Co. of Nashville, Tenn., in construction of the Wolf Creek ordnance plant and an adjoining storage depot for high explosives at Milan.

He said the ordnance plant was 96 per cent complete and would be finished by January 1, far ahead of the original schedule. The 29 million chargeable to builder.

Of the $51,000,000 spent, only $30,000,000 would be chargeable to operations by the contractor, he said, and this increase was "clearly due" to constant expansions of plans.

The time were given the contractor the last of January, nobody, even in the Ordnance Department, knew exactly what we were to build," Mr. Ferguson said.

The first actual estimate, on which the original fee of 3 1/2 per cent was allowed the contractor, he said, was slightly over $8,000,000 plus approximately $3,000,000 for equipment.

"For instance," he said, "early estimates were for 45 miles of railroad when 67 miles was required, and where 82 storage depots were planned, actually 216 were required for four months of high explosives."

"We have actually spent, as of November 15, $23,000,000 on the ordnance plant and $6,235,000 on the depot, the latter 50 per cent complete," Mr. Ferguson said.

Denies Any Waste. Included in the expenditures, he said, was $2,500,000 for road construction, $1,000,000 for railroad and $2,150,000 for storage buildings. He said the first estimate called for $330,000 for roads.

Mr. Ferguson said he was confident an "overall appraisal" would show the money had been wisely considering the competitive price in effect for the period, heavy overtime payments to speed construction and general conditions, including the weather.

John Oman, Jr., of the Oman firm, broke in to add that out of the fees the contractors would receive would come interest amounting to $2,500 a month on money borrowed to keep bills paid. Interest he said would have to be paid by them and not the Government.

For the ordnance plant, Mr. Ferguson said, the two would split a total fee of $494,000, from which about $100,000 in interest payments would have to be deducted.

From his company's $200,000 share of the remainder, he said, about $50,000 in office overhead would have to be deducted and an income tax payment of $100,000 would come out of the balance.

Mr. Ferguson asserted that his company actually lost money under its separate architect-engineering contract.

Kurusu Still Hopeful. Mr. Kurusu, who said on his arrival in Washington that he believed there was a "fighting chance" for peace, as asked if he still felt that way in view of the mounting tension in the situation.

"Oh, yes—I do not give up that easily," he replied. In declaring that "nobody wants war," Mr. Kurusu said that "war would not settle the issues anyway. Peace, that cannot be settled by diplomacy cannot be settled by war."

He added that he preferred to attempt to reach a settlement by diplomacy. The Japanese envoys said an official explanation was being given the State Department of what they insisted was a misunderstanding of a statement Saturday by Premier Tojo, who was quoted in press dispatches from Tokyo, as saying that Japan must purge American and "alien influence" from East Asia with vengeance.

Mr. Kurusu explained to reporters that the premier's actual statement was that what he alleged was a Western practice of trying to "checkmate one Oriental power against another must be eliminated."

Convict Testifies 'Sweat-Box' Victim Cried He Was Dying

TRENTON, Ga., Dec. 2.—A trial jury was told today that a colored convict who died after solitary confinement cried out, "I am dying," and pleaded in vain for release from a prison camp where he was shut up with 21 others.

That was the testimony of a fellow convict who appeared as a State witness in the trial of C. A. Johnson, then warden of the camp, who is on trial for murder as a result of the death.

Earl Williams told the jury that Lewis Gordon, colored, who died shortly after being removed with 21 others from the 7 by 7 foot cell known to them as a "sweat box" or "hot house," became unconscious "some time" before being released.

Tells of Appeals. "Lewis Gordon and Tom Gamble was holding to the officers to let them out because they were out of food," Williams testified. "Lewis Gordon said, 'Lord, have mercy—let me out—I am dying.'"

Automatically entering a plea of innocence under Georgia law, Mr. Johnson took the stand and in a short statement said the original confinement of the prisoners to quell a strike which developed while they were on road work.

"Several of them cursed me," Mr. Johnson said of his efforts to stop the strike, adding that his pleas for the men to return to work were met by threats. He said he struck several of them with a stick to protect himself and also fired one shot from his pistol.

Denies Intention. "I didn't want to kill them," Mr. Johnson said. "If I had I would have shot higher." Stating that he was "awfully sorry" Gordon died the former warden said death was due to the prisoner being placed under a cold blanket, leaving the confinement cell and from suffocation.

The defense built its case on the contention that death was due to the cold-water shock. It obtained from Dr. S. B. Kitchenn, camp physician, testimony that he "could not tell what caused death."

Japan

expects a prompt reply, but the inquiries should not be considered in the nature of an ultimatum.

Mr. Welles also was unwilling to hazard any prediction as to how long the efforts to reach an understanding with the Japanese through diplomatic conversations here might continue, he disclaimed knowledge of reports published in London under a Washington dateline that Great Britain had informed this Government she would begin hostilities against Japan if the Japanese moved against Thailand.

Ambassador Nomura and Mr. Kurusu declined to comment on the situation after leaving Mr. Welles' conference this morning. Mr. Nomura remarked: "I cannot disclose anything—Mr. Welles talked and we listened."

As he entered the conference, the Ambassador said: "Nobody wants war."

Mr. Welles' press conference followed an hour-long discussion at the White House conference among President Roosevelt, Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Knox and himself, presumably concerning developments in the Far East. Mr. Welles refused to comment on the meeting, however.

Meanwhile, Japan has delayed any formal answer to a document in which this Government last week set forth the basic principles which it considers essential to any peace settlement in the Far Eastern crisis. Ambassador Nomura explained today that his government still was giving "weighty and careful consideration" to its answer.

Kurusu Still Hopeful. Mr. Kurusu, who said on his arrival in Washington that he believed there was a "fighting chance" for peace, as asked if he still felt that way in view of the mounting tension in the situation.

"Oh, yes—I do not give up that easily," he replied. In declaring that "nobody wants war," Mr. Nomura said that "war would not settle the issues anyway. Peace, that cannot be settled by diplomacy cannot be settled by war."

He added that he preferred to attempt to reach a settlement by diplomacy. The Japanese envoys said an official explanation was being given the State Department of what they insisted was a misunderstanding of a statement Saturday by Premier Tojo, who was quoted in press dispatches from Tokyo, as saying that Japan must purge American and "alien influence" from East Asia with vengeance.

Mr. Kurusu explained to reporters that the premier's actual statement was that what he alleged was a Western practice of trying to "checkmate one Oriental power against another must be eliminated."

He was referring in this connection to Japan's contention that British and American influence is preventing peace between Japan and China.

Mr. Kurusu said the translation into English of the Premier's speech was made by a subordinate official, who did not convey the Premier's meaning in English properly.

The United States position of opposition to Japan's demands for a "new order" in the Far East remained unchanged, despite the Japanese decision to reopen tentatively the diplomatic discussions.

The situation in the Far East, meanwhile, continues to be analyzed by troop and naval movements led military strategists here to the conclusion that the so-called A. B. C. D. powers already had made their decision to fight if and when Japan invades the now-threatened little Kingdom of Thailand.

BEST BET. QUIZ KID. TOP TRANSIT. MYRTLE M. QUIZ KID has won five straight races and with a record like that he has to be called the best bet of the afternoon. TOP TRANSIT won several nice tries at Pascoag Park and he appears the one most likely to dispute the issue. MYRTLE M. always has shown well over the local strip.

SECOND RACE—MAC'S CANTOR, CLAY HILL, CHIDE. MAC'S CANTOR disappointed in his lone Bowie try, but his previous form suggests that he should be able to give a field of this sort a trimming. CLAY HILL runs well with this sort and he could be in the thick of the scramble. CHIDE has worked well enough for money consideration.

THIRD RACE—ALDRIDGE, McHENRY, SCHLEY AL. ALDRIDGE threatened in both of his Bowie attempts and he will like the distance of this affair. A good ride may be able to land him the honors. McHENRY just missed in his last at Bowie and he could cause the top one a lot of trouble. SCHLEY AL. has been threatening to lick this sort.

FOURTH RACE—ADOLF REMOLEE, ENGLS CHARM. ADOLF has shown fair form of late and he could have a lot to say about this result. His workouts say he is ready for brackets. REMOLEE ran well in his last at Bowie and just slight improvement would have him with the SIXTH RACE—RED WRACK, ROYAL BUSINESS, HERE. RED WRACK threatened on the Maryland miles and he appears to have as good a chance as anything else in this wide-open affair. ROYAL BUSINESS always has raced well at this point and she deserves consideration. HERE GOES has early speed and he should be in the thick of it.

SEVENTH RACE—CHEER ME, CHEER ERIN'S GIRL. CHEER ME won twice at Laurel and he has a chance to be good enough to master this sort. She will be closing stoutly in the late stretch. CLAPAIR is right consistent and he may be the one to dispute the issue. ERIN'S GIRL appears to be on the improve and she is a sure contender.

EIGHTH RACE—JEWEL SONG, HIGH BUD, SHOWABAL. JEWEL SONG has early speed and if the substitute is used she should be the winner. HIGH BUD and SHOWABAL to take care of the others.

By the Associated Press. BALTIMORE, Dec. 2.—The Baltimore News-Post reported today that Mayor Howard W. Jackson would announce his candidacy for Governor at the Concord Club's Jackson Day dinner January 10, "unless wholly unforeseen political developments intervene."

The Mayor's friends have been urging him to announce on that occasion, annually a State-wide gathering of the cream of Maryland's democracy, and the plan will be carried out, barring intervention of political fates," the News-Post said, quoting authoritative official circles.

Mayor Jackson was defeated for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1938 by Herbert R. O'Connor, who went on to defeat the late Republican Governor, Harry W. Nice.

Gov. O'Connor, who scored a smashing victory over Mr. Nice after gaining the nomination over Mr. Jackson, is expected to run for another four-year term, although he has not discussed his plans publicly.

By the Associated Press. BALTIMORE, Dec. 2.—The Baltimore News-Post reported today that Mayor Howard W. Jackson would announce his candidacy for Governor at the Concord Club's Jackson Day dinner January 10, "unless wholly unforeseen political developments intervene."

The Mayor's friends have been urging him to announce on that occasion, annually a State-wide gathering of the cream of Maryland's democracy, and the plan will be carried out, barring intervention of political fates," the News-Post said, quoting authoritative official circles.

Puerto Rico Defense Program Encounters Political Obstacles

Island Setup Giving Uncle Sam One of His Worst Headaches

By STEPHEN TRUMBULL, Special Editor of The Star and North American Newspaper Alliance. SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Dec. 2.—Forty-three years of experimentation with brotherly love is turning sour here at this prematurely termed "Gibraltar of the Caribbean" and our heretofore easygoing Uncle Sam is pulling his whiskers in perplexity.

The American flag has flown here since 1898. Some $300,000,000—tax dollars—were dropped here in social experiments before the coming of the first bombers and the first of the millions, many more millions, for defense.

Yet the Army and the Navy, in the frantic rush to transfer this aggregation of swamps and mountains into a steel and concrete bulwark of defense, find themselves in a land more Spanish than American. The streamlined preparedness machine is crashing, and too often bogging, in a terrain of local politics, local hates, local gouging and local throat-cutting. The pavement of gold is cracked and broken.

Bad Defense Headache. It's one of the worst headaches in the entire defense picture. The direct actionists cry "martial law," and that suggestion has been made in the Nation's Capital for both Puerto Rico and Hawaii. Those who take the long-range view answer: "No! That would be exactly the ammunition the Axis wants for a renewed attack on our recently strengthened friendships the length and breadth of Latin America!"

So the wild, crazy-quilt pattern of conflicting means to conflicting ends goes on with a weird mixture of multimillion-dollar boners and heroic achievements. To date approximately $100,000,000 has been spent for defense against this setting. Another $400,000,000 probably will be spent before this place even approaches Gibraltar or the Pearl Harbor classification.

It's tomorrow's headache as well as today's because this is more than a defense spearhead. This is a central police station for post-wars, so this and three succeeding articles are dedicated to an attempted close-range view of this spot destined for increasing headline prominence.

The United States Navy here is a war now, an anxious right efficient job of it despite the handicaps of a $28,000,000 base of operations which was a bottomless swamp two years ago and which threatens to return to that classification after each heavy rain.

The Army here is at peace, champing at the bit for a piece of the action, and being bored stiff. Land and Price Boom. Some $120,000 is dropping each day in a land where the normal, peacetime income of the majority of the people is approximately 40 cents per day. The result is a land and price boom as wild as Florida's most insane moments of the past.

Roads and highways designed for the bullock cart are clogged and jammed with cussing, horn-toting drivers of motor-poured monsters of construction and destruction. Abject poverty rubs shoulders with lavish display. Slum sections as bad or worse than anything in the Western Hemisphere, slum sections without the slightest pretext of toilet facilities, sprawl within sight of the Army and Navy's best.

And in the midst of all this come the conflicts of authority. The agencies set up with the benevolent idea of self-government during the last 43 years are not seeing eye to eye with the agencies which have a job to do. The land of manana would put reservations on the urgent attempts to make it the land of today.

Take one quick look at a concrete example in passing and hold it in mind for a later return for details. On seven of the Army airports, which are but one part of the agencies of today, the frequently damned W. P. A. has worked for 15 months. Two airports are completed, and three are good ones. Two others are 85 per cent complete, one is 75 per cent along the way to full-time use and the remaining two stand 50 and 35 per cent complete, respectively.

Road Encounters Delay. Turn now to an equally vital segment of the local defense scene, where the agencies are piled upon the agencies, where the agencies directly under Federal control of Uncle Sam are trying to live up to the policy of brotherly love with the agencies created during the experimenting past to make Puerto Rico safe for the Puerto Rican politicians. This picture has for its motif some 80 miles of thus far non-existing new road which would, if, as and when completed, connect many of these troops and equipment concentrations.

This road has been "in the works" with the insular authorities for more than two years. As this is being written work actually is under way on one of those 80 miles, and this work is being done by W. P. A. It's a beautiful road, on paper. It will be some $6,600,000 worth of construction and right of way. The optimists believe it may be completed in time for World War III. Meanwhile, in a dire emergency, heavy equipment could make all of 4 miles an hour on the narrow, high-crowned, twisting, tortuous trial which connects these bases.

When will this road be finished, and how? Quien sabe? Who knows?

This is just a rough idea of the need for aspirin that follows the trail at this vital outpost between our southeastern coastline and the sprawling question mark that is Africa.

Cleared on Sedition Count; Appeals Are Planned in Minneapolis Case

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 2.—A possible Federal prison term up to 10 years loomed today before 18 persons, members of or associated with the Socialist Workers Party, who were convicted by a jury here on charges of conspiracy to create insubordination in the armed forces of the Government.

Albert Goldman, New York attorney and one of those convicted last night, announced that "every legal step and every other resource would be exhausted for appeal purposes." He immediately made plans for filing an appeal before Judge M. M. Joyce in Federal Court here next Saturday.

Judge Joyce set next Monday as the date for sentencing. Conviction of the 18 defendants was on one of two counts of an indictment returned last July after a raid on the Socialist Workers Party offices here and in St. Paul. Bunches of literature were seized in the raid, and introduced in evidence at the trial, along with two Red flags and several pictures of Leon Trotsky, Communist leader who was assassinated in Mexico.

Amendment Added in 1940. Court attaches said the verdict marked the first convictions under the Smith amendment to the Sedition Act of 1918. That amendment, added to the law in 1940, makes it unlawful to advocate overthrow of the Government.

The count on which the defendants were convicted alleged they conspired to "interfere with, impair and influence the loyalty, morale and discipline of the military and naval forces of the United States." This was charged in the indictment with preparing and distributing literature which advised the "necessity, desirability and propriety of overthrowing and destroying the Government of the United States by force and violence."

All the defendants were acquitted of one count of the indictment—that alleging seditious conspiracy to overthrow the Government by violence.

F. B. I. Seizes 30 Men In Big Ring Stealing Ford Auto Parts

Operations This Year Netted Almost Million, Hoover Estimates

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. The Justice Department announced today that F. B. I. agents had seized 30 men in Detroit, Chicago and New York in connection with a stolen auto parts ring alleged to have taken millions of dollars' worth of materials from the Ford Motor Co.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said the total value of parts stolen from Ford plants had not been determined but that information now available indicated that the ring in operations thus far in 1941 had netted "at least $1,000,000" and that the figure might "run as high as $3,000,000 or $4,000,000."

The seizures were made early today on a complaint obtained secretly in Detroit, where the operations of the ring centered, a statement by the Justice Department said. "Two fences alone, who are not the largest operators in the ring," the statement said, "admitted to F. B. I. agents purchasing stolen parts this year valued at more than $500,000, which were transported out of the State of Michigan."

2 Fraud Indictments Returned Against 'Count' Tomadelli

Claims About Paintings And Fake Patent Laid To Orchid Grower

Juan (Count) Tomadelli, orchid grower and lavish entertainer, was indicted today by the District grand jury on charges of obtaining money fraudulently through the sale of an interest in a fictitious patent for obtaining electric lighting from the air.

Tomadelli was arrested several days ago by deputy marshals. The grand jury also charged "the Count" with another fraudulent scheme involving six alleged original paintings by masters. The Government said the paintings were imitations.

Earl Carroll, former theatrical producer, was mentioned as having been interested by Tomadelli in the paintings, and it was said that Mr. Carroll approached the screen actor, Edward G. Robinson, and others in Hollywood in an attempt to obtain buyers.

Assistant United States Attorney John W. Fihely, in charge of the prosecution, said that upward of $500,000 was involved in the alleged fraudulent schemes, though the two indictments returned against Tomadelli did not mention this sum. The grand jury investigation followed months of work by the F. B. I.

One indictment deals with the electric patent, and the other involves the paintings. There are six counts in each bill. The indictments allege that Tomadelli mailed letters to prospects and received letters as part of the alleged fraudulent schemes. Tomadelli also is known, according to the indictments, as Giovanni J. Tomadelli, Count Tomadelli and as Ivan Stanchik.

Textile Workers to State Labor and Defense Stand

Delegates to the special convention of the United Textile Workers this afternoon prepared to consider resolutions following officers' reports made earlier in the day.

The organization, meeting in the Hamilton Hotel, is expected to state formally its views on labor's rights and responsibilities in the defense program before the session's end Friday. Delegates gathered at noon before the Samuel Gompers monument, Tenth street and Massachusetts avenue N.W., for the official photograph.

A suggestion that representatives of management and labor be brought together with Government officials on a new board to function as a "general headquarters for defense production," was made to the convention yesterday by Robert J. Watt, international representative of the American Federation of Labor, with which the U. T. W. is affiliated.

Three Trustees Elected For Takoma Library

Mrs. J. Bond Smith, H. J. Carr and Walter D. Lambert were elected trustees of the Takoma Park (Md.) Library Association to serve three-year terms at the annual meeting last night at the library.

Both Mrs. Smith and Mr. Lambert were re-elected. Carr takes the place of Walter P. Harran, who resigned due to press of private business. Following the association's meeting the trustees re-elected Mrs. James A. Robertson president. Other officers chosen are Dr. P. L. Lewton, vice president; Mrs. Frederick L. Pratt, secretary, and Mr. Carr, treasurer.

Mrs. Pratt, librarian, reported that the library has 2,189 active borrowers. Book chats, which have been one of the library services for the last five years, will be renewed after January 1, she announced.

Investment Fraud Indictment Names Ex-U. S. Officials

Thompson, Marshall and Sutherland Defendants In Fidelity Case

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. DETROIT, Dec. 6.—A Federal grand jury last night indicted the Fidelity Investment Association and four subsidiaries of Wheeling, W. Va., and 13 individuals on charges of violating the Securities and Exchange Act.

At the same time John T. Callahan, assistant general counsel for the securities and Exchange Commission, petitioned the court for an order restraining the association from using the mails or interstate commerce in its activities. The subsidiaries were not identified. District Attorney John C. Lear identified three of the individual defendants as Carmi A. Thompson, Cleveland, president; John Marshall, Parkersburg, W. Va., and Washington attorney, chairman of the Board of Directors, and Howard Sutherland, former Senator from West Virginia, and alien property custodian from 1925 to 1933, former president and vice president of the association.

Investment Hiding Charged. The indictment charged the company, which since December, 1940, has been operating as the Fidelity Assurance Association, with creating three subsidiary corporations to conceal investments in real estate and real estate securities which were carried on books at a value exceeding market price. It also charged the company of making misleading statements in the selling of contracts.

In a bill of complaint filed in Federal Court here December 14, 1938, the association, incorporated in West Virginia in 1911, was charged with attempting to defraud 60,000 investors of $276,500,000. At that time the complaint estimated that the company, which has offices in many of the Nation's principal cities, had sold $60,000,000 in contract certificates.

Marshall Former Justice Aide. Mr. Thompson served as treasurer of the United States from 1912 to 1913, and also as Assistant Secretary of the Interior. He was formerly secretary to President Taft and former national commander of the Spanish-American War Veterans. Mr. Marshall was Assistant United States Attorney General from 1923 to 1929. Receivership for the firm was asked in December, 1938, by a group of Pennsylvania investors. A year later the company filed a petition for reorganization under the Federal bankruptcy laws. The case is pending in Federal Court at Charleston, W. Va.

Following the S. E. C. investigation in 1938 the Michigan Insurance Department suspended the association's license to operate in the State.

Probe of Pegler Charges Against Congress Asked

The House yesterday asked its Judiciary Committee to study a demand for investigation into charges of Westbrook Pegler, newspaper columnist, that Congress lacked the courage to pass strong labor legislation.

The resolution was introduced by Representative Hoffman, Republican, of Michigan, who quoted Mr. Pegler as writing that Congress accepted dictation from the White House and that its members were "political slob." "I would like to have him (Pegler) brought before the Labor Committee to have him lay his facts on the table, so we can find out how many of these charges are true," shouted Mr. Hoffman, who is a member of the Labor Committee, but not the Judiciary.

Representative Cox, Democrat, of Georgia replied that the best attitude Congress could take toward Mr. Pegler was "to ignore him." Mexico has issued a series of stamps commemorating the fourth centenary of Guadalupe.

Owner of Dog That Bit Boy Is Held for Jury

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 2.—Trial Magistrate James G. Woodward said yesterday Mrs. Mary Jondreau, owner of five boxer dogs that attacked and seriously injured 7-year-old Carroll Cox, near St. Margarets November 3, has been released on $500 bond for grand jury action on a charge filed by Anne Arundel County police.

Sergt. J. W. Musterman obtained a warrant from Judge Woodward charging Mrs. Jondreau with keeping "committed a nuisance by having unlicensed and at large a pack of large boxer dogs which are well known to be fierce, ferocious and dangerous and used and accustomed to bite mankind." Mrs. Jondreau, who waived a preliminary hearing, was released on grand jury action of the April crisis at the Emergency Hospital, lost an ear and suffered lacerations of the face, arms and legs. The dogs were destroyed recently.

Philippines Maintain Ceaseless 'War Alert' Against Japanese

Flying Fortresses Ready If Nippon Moves South; Islands Calm, but Tense

By ROYAL ARCH GUNNISON, News Editor

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 2.—The entire Far East is on a war footing and the next move is Japan's. Here in the Philippines the United States Army and Navy and the Filipino troops are on a "war alert" 24 hours a day.

From informed sources in Singapore and Hong Kong this correspondent learns that new contingents of British flyers from England have arrived at both places to pilot new American aircraft. Secret airfields outside Hong Kong, connecting with the air routes in Free China, combine to give Hong Kong air protection.

After checking with highest military sources in Hong Kong last week and now here in the Philippines, it appears that if war comes the Allied strategy will be to make an attempt to close the Hong Kong-Philippines bottleneck to Japanese troop transports and shipping. To keep Hong Kong supplied, Chinese troops would aid British, Indian and Canadian troops. They would open with the longer range, faster planes—the flying fortresses.

The American Philippine air arm is being strengthened daily via trans-Pacific flights by bombers and by transport of the newest pursuit types. The air forces here are prepared. I have seen them on alert maneuvers. Compared with the Dutch I have seen in the Netherlands East Indies and the British in Singapore, Malaya and Burma, the United States Army and Navy flying units in the Philippines take second place to none.

The highest Army and Navy authorities here expect a Pacific war to be a series of quick and heavy blows like the ones over Japan, the Philippines, Indo-China and Malaya.

While tension is high in official Philippine quarters, nevertheless visits to United States military and Navy headquarters find Gen. MacArthur and Admiral Hart and their staffs calmly going about the business of preparing for any eventuality. There is some difference of opinion among the nine American generals and three admirals here as to where the Japanese are most likely to strike—if they take the suicide route.

The first blow is not likely to be directly at the United States or against the British. General opinion is that the first move will be a political infiltration of Japanese into Thailand and at the same time aerial blows from Northern Indo-China at the Burma road and the Yunnan-Burma Railroad now under construction, where an American volunteer air squadron is ready to meet any American war supplies being carried over the Burma road to China. This squadron's presence in the Far East may be the spark that will set off the war, in the light of Japan's Premier Tojo's remark that American and British "exploitation of Asiatic peoples must be regarded as a vengeance" and the constant references in Japan's official circles to the American international air situation.

Two Decisions to Be Made. The next decision seen facing Washington concerns what America and Britain would do about guerrilla operations. Thailand's aggressive attitude would be the Anglo-American attitude regarding Japanese aggression in the Soviet maritime provinces and the island of Sakhalin, where there are some oil resources?

Can an American show of strength mediate the Sino-Japanese war and separate the Japanese from the Axis?

Informed sources here regard this as possible if the Japanese provincial militarists are held in check by the Emperor. Premier Tojo and the Japanese Navy. It is not logic that will govern the Japanese. If they were logical, there would be no war. There are two factors behind the present Japanese attitude—the provincial militarists now on the general staff and the push and pull between the army and the conservative navy leaders.

The Japanese general staff does not want to fight the British and Americans until it sees real German progress toward victory over Soviet Russia. When a former Premier Kono was unable to control the military, Premier Tojo can if the odds against the Japanese are proved to be great enough. There is a feeling here that Emperor Hirohito may be willing to back out of China, but one can never count on logic with the Japanese. One must bring fanaticism into the picture—that is why there is a "war alert" in the Far East.

America is now Hong Kong's only source for many commodities.

Sugar-Control Bill Passes House Despite Opposition by Hull

Changes in Existing Law Would Increase Quotas And Benefit Payments

The House passed and sent to the Senate yesterday a bill to extend a revised version of existing sugar-control legislation for three years, to December 31, 1944, over State Department opposition. The vote was 134 to 32. Amendments to the measure would increase mainland cane and domestic beet sugar quotas and increase basic benefit payments.

The State Department's opposition to the bill was expressed in a letter, signed by Secretary Hull and transmitted several days ago to Chairman Sabath of the House Rules Committee. It declared the department was "strongly of the opinion that any proposed legislation which would worsen the position of sugar producers in the off-shore areas should be subject to the same careful scrutiny to which legislation now in effect was subjected prior to its enactment."

Other Official Opposition. "Legislation such as that proposed," Mr. Hull's letter said, "would be particularly inappropriate at the present time, when the need for the closest possible co-operation between the nations of this hemisphere is of such crucial importance."

Despite that communication, one from President Roosevelt explaining why the administration had not recommended new sugar legislation, and another from Secretary of Agriculture Wickard pointing out that the House Agriculture Committee had not held hearings on the bill prior to reporting it favorably, the measure passed.

"Gag Rule" Claimed. Opponents complained that yesterday's procedure constituted a "gag rule," the 40 minutes it allowed for debate was inadequate for presentation of their case. The House Rules Committee Friday approved a rule allowing three hours of debate on the measure. The bill now goes to the Senate, where an identical companion measure was introduced November 7—the day the House bill was submitted by Chairman Fulmer of the House Agriculture Committee.

British Cruiser Is Sunk Off Tobruk, Italy Claims

ROME, Dec. 2.—The Italian high command announced today that a British cruiser had been sunk off the British-held Libyan port of Tobruk, according to a communique, which credited a formation of torpedo-carrying planes with the success.

The identity of the cruiser was not given, but she was said to be a vessel of about 5,000 tons. Three direct torpedo hits were scored on the craft, the high command said. An Italian official, amplifying the communique, said the British cruiser was one of the "Aurora" class.

Jane's Fighting Ships lists the British cruiser Aurora, 5,270 tons, as one of a class of four ships built between 1934-1936. Her normal complement was 550 men.

New U. S.-to-Cairo Airline For Lease-Lend Aid Forecast

CAIRO, Dec. 2.—A new United States-to-Cairo air line was forecast today by Brig. Gen. Elmer E. Adler, lease-lend co-ordinator in Cairo. "A Cairo-to-Washington air link—regular weekly service operated by a special ferry command service of the United States Army Air Force—will be America's lifeline with a big organization being established here to help the British forces under the Lease-Lend act," Gen. Adler said in a statement.

He added that it would be "as important as the Washington-London lifeline." Gen. Adler has been named by Maj. Gen. George H. Brett, chief of the United States Army Air Force and President Roosevelt's lease-lend

Battle

Continued From First Page. The destroyed German raider as the Steiermark said she "has been known for some time as raider No. 41 and had been sailing under the name of Kormoran."

As raider No. 41 she had sunk nine British, British-ruled, or neutral ships in the area of the Cape Verde Islands in the Eastern Atlantic, in the South Atlantic and in the Indian Ocean, the Admiralty declared. "Like other raiders," the Admiralty continued, "she has indulged from time to time in various disguise and has borne the name of various nationality which her captain deemed at the time to suit his purpose."

The Admiralty said the Steiermark was built in 1938 at Hamburg for the Hamburg-America Line and was "designed with a view to her employment as an armed merchant raider in wartime."

Before leaving Germany toward the end of 1940 the necessary alterations were made to convert her into a powerful raider, the British said.

It is known that she carried at least six 59-inch guns, two aircraft and further was fitted with underwater torpedo tubes in addition to those fitted on deck. She had a speed of 18 knots and a complement of 400 officers and men. She was a fast-moving vessel," the Admiralty concluded.

The Sydney had eight 6-inch guns, eight 4-inch anti-aircraft guns and a number of smaller guns. She carried one aircraft which was launched by catapult.

In addition to sinking nine ships, the Steiermark attacked a 10th vessel, which escaped.

The nine ships sunk, listed by the Admiralty in the order of their loss, were: Antonis (Greek), 3,729 tons; British Union (British), 6,987 tons; Afric Star (British), 11,900 tons; Eurylochus (British), 5,723 tons, all lost in the Cape Verde Islands area. Agnita (British), 3,552 tons; Craftsman (British), 3,622 tons, all in South Atlantic. Velebit (Yugoslav), 4,133 tons; Mareeba (British), 3,472 tons; Stamatios G. Embricos (Greek), 3,941 tons, all in Indian Ocean.

New York sources reported previously that the Afric Star had been sunk on March 13, 1941. No details were available at the time, however.

Avoided Trade Routes. The Admiralty said that for one period of three months, between June 26 and September 26 this year, the Steiermark "dared not go on trade routes even disguised, for she realized the sinking of the Velebit and Mareeba must have given away her position."

Then she sank the Stamatios G. Embricos, the Admiralty said, and "again her position was given away by the mere fact of this one success, and she spent two months trying to elude the naval patrols which finally secured her destruction."

It added, "It is a remarkable tribute to the hunting power of our heavily employed naval forces that this powerful ship should have been so driven from pillar to post that she failed to do far greater

Two Hearings to Open Tomorrow on Defense Contract Lobbying

Military Affairs and Marine Committees to Start Investigations

Two congressional committees will open fire tomorrow on "dollar patriots" said to be acting as lobbyists, agents and brokers for businessmen in search of legitimate defense contracts.

Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson has asked permission to testify on the subject before the House Military Affairs Committee, according to the chairman, Representative Mat.

A second inquiry will be conducted by the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee on lobbying practices in the marine industries.

As an example of the type of man his committee will expose, Chairman May described a dealer whose bank account was "zero" when he started handling defense contracts nine months ago. The man, it was said, now has $200,000 in the bank, writes checks for "cash" in sums of $2,000 to $4,000 and entertains manufacturers at championship prize fights.

Investigators of the May committee it was said, have dug up considerable information about "middle men," "brokers" and "go-betweens" who have neither manufacturing facilities, financial backing nor any legitimate connection with Government agencies.

Yet they are said to haunt Washington hotels and ante-rooms in large numbers, seeking commissions on the basis of their alleged influence. The brokers, Mr. May said, sometimes collect two or even three fees in a single transaction.

Mr. Patterson and a number of other high Government officials are expected to testify, along with several men who formerly held important Federal jobs here.

The Democratic National Committee yesterday joined a Republican Representative in denouncing a one-man publication entitled "The Democratic National Press" on the grounds it was soliciting advertisements from defense contractors. Representative Jones, Republican of Ohio, told the House contractors

Man in Uniform Ends Turkey Shoot With Four Shots

SHAW, Miss., Dec. 2.—Revenue was mounting nicely at the benefit turkey shoot when a uniformed man strolled up and wanted to know what was going on. Sponsors explained that three turkeys and a goose were being given away. All you had to do was hit the birds' heads bobbing in a box 90 yards away—at a dime a shot.

The uniformed man said he guessed he would try 50 cents worth. He fired four times, picked up the three turkeys and the goose and went home without asking for his dime change. The sponsors also went home.

Mr. Gladwin, who said he was owner, publisher, editor and the whole staff of "The Democratic National Press," said today that Representative Jones' attack constitutes an underhand assault on every private citizen's rights to exercise the freedom of the press.

Mr. Gladwin said the publication had no connection with the Democratic party and his aim in establishing it was to "promote national unity."

"Mr. Jones is palpably opposed to any independent editorial support given the administration," Mr. Gladwin said. "His reckless denunciation of my person constitutes an underhand assault on every private citizen's right to exercise the freedom of the press. Furthermore, it is regrettable that a Congressman would resort to making a political football out of a sincere editorial effort in order to heap derision on the national defense program."

He added that to charge that coercion has been practiced in getting advertisements for his publication "is a brazen unfounded falsehood."

Japan Shifts Troops. HONG KONG, Dec. 2.—The main body of Japanese troops in the Chungshan district of Kwangtung province were reported today to have been transferred to Hainan Island, in the China Sea, where many are training in parachute work.

Eight Injured by Autos In District and Nearby

Seven persons were injured in two traffic accidents in nearby Maryland last night and early today while a 3-year-old girl was slightly hurt by an automobile in the District.

In a head-on collision on Baltimore boulevard a half mile north of Muirkirk, Md., last night five Navy Yard employees returning to their homes in Savage, Md., were injured when their car struck a machine operated by Chief Boatswain's Mate Neal Williams, about 60, of Kenilworth, Md., police reported.

The Navy Yard employees were William Grady, 60, head injuries; Norman Akers, 40, cuts and bruises; Leroy Conway, 61, lacerations of the face and concussion; Francis Welch, 46, fractured kneecap; and George Welch, 48, fractured ribs and wrist and head injury. Chief Williams suffered head cuts and fractured ribs. The injured were taken to Casualty Hospital by the Branchville Rescue Squad.

Harold Brooks, 29, of Poolesville, Md., suffered a broken leg when his car struck a culvert on highway No. 28 near Beallville, Md., early today. He was taken to Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring by the Rockville Rescue Squad.

Barbara Mason, 3, of 434 Tenth street S.W., was struck by an automobile near her home yesterday. She was treated for lacerations and contusions at Providence Hospital. Police listed the driver of the car as Samuel E. Bumbach, 48, of 1424 R street N.W.

R. E. A. Is Accused Of Hoarding Copper Needed for Defense

Federal Agency's Action Constitutes 'Sabotage,' Winter Tells House

Charging that despite defense needs, the Rural Electrification Administration has "hoarded" millions of pounds of copper to construct power lines that will duplicate private facilities, Representative Winter, Republican, of Kansas, yesterday told the House that the Federal agency has "sabotaged national defense."

"While O. P. M. wrings its hands for copper, while the Navy launches ships deficient of copper, while the War Department is begging for copper for shell binding, and while many small business concerns are forced to cease operations because they cannot get copper, R. E. A. like a dog in a manger hoards its copper on vacant fields in Texas," the Kansan declared.

Further, he added, wire is being denied for thousands of miles distribution lines for farm homes. The copper, Mr. Winter explained, is heavy cable of three and seven strands which was unloaded in open fields at Gilmer, Quitman, Emory, Tramp, Mount Pleasant and Henderson, Tex., early in October from a 23-car train-load.

Misuse Charged.
"The R. E. A.," he continued, "bought this copper to serve as a transmission line to connect seven Texas electric co-operatives centering around Gilmer, Tex. These co-operatives are already being served with electricity. The only possible justification R. E. A. can put forward for this misuse of badly needed national defense copper is that they wish to establish a competitive plant the better to control rates."

"But this argument falls down on two scores: In the first place the private power companies are selling them power at a rate of 8 1/2 mills. This is 40 per cent lower than the national average wholesale rate to R. E. A. co-operatives from private sources, and even far below the national average from wholesale rates from subsidized public power agencies."

"These transmission lines, Mr. Winter added, cannot be energized in less than two years.
Wider Control Called Aim.
Asserting that the R. E. A. was seeking to "perpetuate and expand its control over a large segment of the farming population by enlarging its power operations, Mr. Winter said that "the true friends of farm electrification may as well realize that this Federal agency has fallen into the hands of a gang of Communists, fellow-travelers and political second-story workers who do not hesitate to sabotage the national defense program in the interest of preservation of their political theories and perpetuation of their payroll."

Churchill

"will hang over us until the end of the war."

3,000,000 More Under Review.
The expanded military conscription will bring more than 3,000,000 more men and women under review for armed service with the British forces.

"Very definite curtailments of the amenities we have hitherto been able to preserve will be demanded," he said.

Another change would permit 19-year-old youths to serve overseas, a duty which now is limited to those 20 and over.

Mr. Churchill coupled his call for increased man power and woman power with the warning that "at any time Hitler may recognize his defeat by the Russian armies and, to recover his disaster, visit us with all his fury."

"We are ready for him. We shall receive him when he comes, by day or night, by far greater forces and with every modern improvement, but we must always be ready."

Observers believed the measure would be passed speedily and in haste, but Thomas Horabin, opposition Liberal, pointed out that the Prime Minister made no reference to "conscription of property" and declared: "There will be disappointment that the Prime Minister has not gone much farther in organizing us for total war."

"I am convinced that this government cannot organize our war effort to the degree required to defeat Hitler," he said.

Sacrifice in Living Standards.
Mr. Churchill warned that the measure meant a sacrifice in living standards.

Mr. Churchill said Britain would have to call on her people for "a further degree of sacrifice and exertion, although 1941 has seen the major problems of creating war production capacity and manufacturing equipment largely solved or on the high road to solution."

The crisis of man power and woman power of 1942 was expected, he declared, because "great supply plants have been largely constructed."

"They are finished. They must be fully staffed."

Air Force Expansion.
"We must prepare for the expansion of our air force in 1942 and for a far greater expansion in 1943," he added.

"Conscription of both man power and woman power 'still available' for war work was proposed by Mr. Churchill in a motion introduced November 27 in the House of Commons. The object was described as the securing of "the maximum national effort in the conduct of the war and in production."

"We must maintain our armies in the East and be prepared for a continuance and the expansion of heavy fighting there," he declared.

"We must face the continuous growth of our navy. We must provide modern equipment for our army."

Britain has been at a disadvantage in the past, he said, "in having to fight a well-armed enemy with ill or half armed forces."

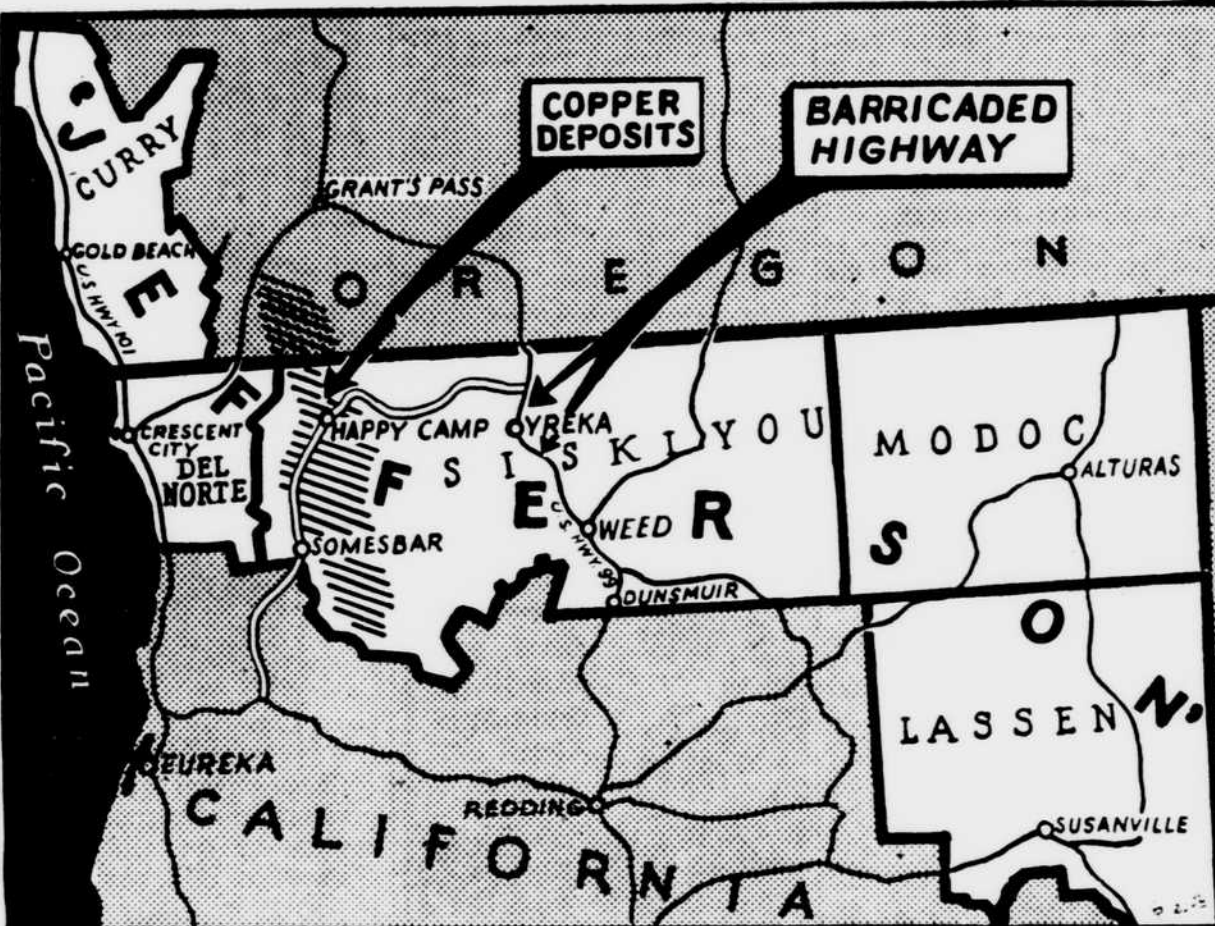

In the future our men will fight on equal terms in technical equipment and, a little later, on superior terms."

Another drain on Britain, he said, is the need to keep "our engagements to send a substantial supply of tanks, airplanes and other war commodities to Russia."

YREKA, CALIF.—THURSDAY "REBELS" SHOW DETERMINATION—Four northern counties of California and one in Oregon, who joined in a "secession" movement to form a forty-ninth State, have modified their intentions now to secede only on Thursdays to impress on their present States the seriousness of their petitions for improved roads and aid in development of resources. This armed group barricaded the main highway to the north and stopped motorists and truckers, handing them pamphlets to spread their story. Left to right are R. W. Stevens, Frank Russey, Roy Abram and William R. Maginnis, leaders in the movement, talking with a tourist. The sign bears the seal of the would-be "State of Jefferson"—a double cross imposed upon a miner's pan.

This is how "Jefferson" would look on a map. The "secession" movement is protesting against State governments (Oregon and California) which will not smooth bumps, grades and curves out of the Happy Camp and Sommesbar road. The road is 150 miles long and, in good condition, would open up exploitation of a mountain of copper 100 miles long, rich timber lands and valuable ores in the interests of national defense, the "secessionists" claim.—Wide World Photos.

Washington and Lee Kin Revive Old Tradition

Reviving an old custom of the Washington and Lee families of Virginia, a crepe myrtle sapling from Stratford, the Westmoreland County birthplace of Gen. Robert E. Lee, has been transferred to Kenmore, the home of Betty Washington Lewis, at Fredericksburg, Va. It was announced yesterday by the Robert E. Lee Memorial Foundation.

For generations the two families followed the custom of exchanging plants once a year, it was said. The sapling presented to the Kenmore Association this year grew from an old tree in front of the kitchen at Stratford.

In ceremonies at Kenmore Mrs. Charles D. Lanier of Greenwich, Conn., president of the Lee Foundation, presented the traditional gift, which was accepted by Mrs. C. O'Connor Goolrick, vice president of the Kenmore Association, and Claude Parcell, president of the City Council.

Women in Limelight As Bridge Tournament Opens at Richmond

Team-of-Four Event Gets Under Way Today In National Contest

By the Associated Press.
RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 2.—Feminine bridge experts take the limelight as the 15th annual National Bridge Tournament gets under way here this afternoon with the playing of the first round in the women's team-of-four championship.

This is the first serious competition of the week-long tourney, last night's record-breaking gathering of 468 players being in the nature of a preliminary "get-together" and "warm-up" game. Traditionally a night when the host city turns out to welcome and play with the Nation's blue-ribbon bridge players, Richmond's hospitality contingent exceeded those of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Cleveland where the winter tourney has been held the last three years.

Defending their title against what is expected to be a large field in the women's team event are Mrs. Lottie Zetoch and Mrs. Adelaide Neuwirth, both of New York; Mrs. Helen Levy of Jersey City, N. J., and Mrs. Wilkinson Wagar of Atlanta.

This event will be played in two sessions, this afternoon and tomorrow. This evening, first of three rounds in the mixed pair championship—for man and woman combinations—is scheduled.

The three other national championships to be decided during the week are for open pairs, open teams-of-four and amateur pairs.

Abandoned Abattoir Is Scene of Two Fires

Two fires within five hours drew firemen to an abandoned abattoir at Benning road and Minnesota avenue yesterday afternoon and last night. Both started in rubbish and gained appreciable headway before alarms were turned in by persons seeing the flames.

On the first alarm, fire flared in a barrel of trash in the rear of the structure while firemen were fighting the principal blaze in the front. The second alarm, sounded at 9:40 p.m., was for a fire in the wooden housing of the fertilizer pit. Thousands were attracted to the scene by flames which shot 45 feet into the air and were visible a mile away. Residents of the area returning home from theaters or late evening shopping excursions caused a traffic tieup when they halted their automobiles to view the fire.

A Fire Department officer on the scene gave the opinion the blazes were incendiary in origin.

New Lignin Tests May Eliminate Much Of Industrial Waste

University of Washington Reports Progress in Solving 100-Year Mystery

By the Associated Press.
SEATTLE, Dec. 2.—Enigmatic lignin, the earth's second most abundant organic matter and its greatest industrial waste, may be giving up the key to its mysterious nature.

From the University of Washington today came an announcement that three new types of lignin had been created in the laboratory to serve as a key for unlocking the chemical mystery that has defied science for more than a century.

Dr. A. J. Bailey, assistant chemistry professor who has supervised the experiments, commented: "It is expected that research now in progress will eventually lead to the successful use of this huge lignin waste."

Used in Plastics Field.
Utilization of lignin would be a godsend to the Pacific Northwest where it is wasted in vast quantities in the lumber industry. Lignin constitutes one-fourth of the weight of wood. It is found in all common plants.

New Developments Seen After Petain And Goering Parley

Meeting Signals Start Of New Detailed Talks, Vichy Sources Say

By the Associated Press.
VICHY, Unoccupied France, Dec. 2.—Important new developments in French-German relations were forecast by authorized sources today following Marshal Petain's return from a long conference with Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering in the occupied zone yesterday.

The meeting, held in a railway car near Saint Florentin, 80 miles southeast of Paris, signalled the beginning of new detailed conversations, these sources said, emphasizing it should not be regarded as being merely a conclusion to long-pending negotiations.

The decisions reached at the conference are expected to be revealed to the French people in a radio "message" to the nation from Vice Premier Admiral Jean Darlap late today, a correspondent for The Star and Chicago Daily News reported from Vichy this morning.

Jacques Benoit-Mechin, Vichy secretary of state, declared in Paris that the interview represented the "marked will of the French government to engage itself ever more constantly on a path of durable and fruitful European cooperation."

Fernand de Brinon, French Ambassador there, said "it is certain that something very important will result from the conference."

In Berlin the authoritative commentary Dienst aus Deutschland, which often reflects the opinions of the German Foreign Office, said "the principle of cooperation in the spirit of the new order has been unmistakably intensified."

Europe's common fate at large and three factors in particular—the "Belgian" menace, the British blockade and the question of American intervention—were among the subjects discussed at the Goering-Petain meeting, an authorized German source said today.

Beyond that the source declined to comment, saying that any broader statement at the present time would be premature.

Official circles here suggested the possibility that the situation in North Africa was one of the topics touched on by Petain and Goering and stressed the military character of the two conferences in this connection.

It was disclosed that the conference, in which Vice Premier Darlap also participated, lasted more than three hours. The full range of German-French problems and their relation to "the new Europe" were said to have been reviewed.

ing full advantage of the laws Congress has enacted for labor unions. "Do you blame Mr. Lewis, or does the blame lie at the doorstep of this Congress?" the Virginia lawmaker asked his colleagues.

A moment later, Mr. Smith said it was not his intention to say any more about Mr. Lewis, because "I come not to praise Caesar, but to bury him."

Decides Murray's Actions.

Turning his attention to Philip Murray, who succeeded Mr. Lewis as head of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, Mr. Smith said he was until recently a member of the Mediation Board that was going to prevent strikes in defense industries, but the first time he loses an inning he gets mad, picks up his marbles and goes home.

Ascerting that up to October 1 of this year "twenty-four million man-days have been lost in strikes," the Virginian said "the time has come when we must stop shadow-boxing with strikes in defense industry."

In the aggregate, the man-days lost, he said, would be sufficient to close down for one year the Ford River Rouge plant, which employs 80,000 men.

Defending the workers generally in defense plants, Representative Welch declared that, with the exception of a small number, they are giving their best to the production of the implements their country needs.

Welch Cites British Strikes.

Declaring that the "cooling-off" period should start in Congress, Mr. Welch urged his colleagues to go home during the Christmas holidays and see what the workers are doing in the factories.

Mr. Welch said he deplored strikes but pointed out that the strike is recognized in all democratic countries. Although England is at war, he said, 224,000 English workers went on strike during the first eight months of this year, and during 1940 the strike figures for England and the United States were virtually the same.

In reply, Representative Smith said England began years ago to prevent mass picketing and violence in strikes and added that the closed shop is almost unknown as an institution in England.

The House has before it not only the Smith and Ramspeck bills, but also another recommended by the Naval Affairs Committee, which would require a "cooling-off" period and give legal status to the Mediation Board, but also authorizes compulsory arbitration of strikes if other measures failed—procedure vigorously opposed by spokesmen for both organized labor and industry.

ADMIRAL W. R. SEXTON.

Admiral W. R. Sexton Elected to Head Order of Carabao

Military Group to Hold Annual 'Wallow' February 7

Rear Admiral Walton R. Sexton, president of the General Board of the Navy, last night was elected grand paramount carabao (commander) of the Military Order of the Carabao.

Other officers were elected at a meeting in the Army and Navy Club, and it was decided to hold the annual "Wallow" of the order in the Willard Hotel February 7.

The new commander succeeds Brig. Gen. A. Owen Seaman. The order was established by officers of the Army and Navy during the Philippine Insurrection, when the carabao replaced the Army mule for transportation, and when, in the words of members, "there were no aeroplanes, radio commentators or hostesses."

Major Walter Karig, chief of the Washington bureau of the Newark Evening News, and Capt. William Santelmann, leader of the Marine Band, were named associate carabaos.

will not be used for organizational purposes by labor unions."

Chairman Vinson, author of the bill recommended by the Naval Affairs Committee and controlling the majority's time for the debate, cautioned organized labor in his opening remarks yesterday that the minority responsible for most of the defense strikes was "digging unionism graves."

On the Senate side yesterday, the Labor Committee voted 10 to 3 for a bill to require a 30-day "cooling-off" period in labor disputes and for establishment of a three-member commission to handle labor disputes.

The Senate Judiciary Committee already has reported out a bill to free the union or open-shop status of defense industries and authorize the Government to seize them if strikes stopped production. The Senate is to take up this measure Thursday.

Concurrently, representatives of the 41 unions in the Congress of Industrial Organizations met here yesterday and adopted a resolution opposing all forms of restrictive labor legislation, and asking Congress to approve the bill of Representative Kelly, Democrat of Pennsylvania embodying the industrial council plan proposed by President Philip Murray of the C. I. O. Under this plan councils in each industry, composed of representatives of labor, industry and Government would regulate labor relations along with prices and production.

Townsend Demands Tax to Finance Larger Pensions

Tells Senators Drastic Action Is Needed to Check 'Revolt'

By the Associated Press.
Dr. Francis E. Townsend, old-age-pension advocate, told the Senate Finance Committee today that a political revolution was beginning in this country which could be halted only by drastic revision of the Government's attitude toward the needy.

Urging the levying of a gross income tax to meet the cost of larger old-age pensions, Dr. Townsend called the Social Security Act a farce and said destitution was increasing among the aged.

"This had brought about, he declared, a feeling among many that was 'anything but conducive to peace and loyalty for this Government.'"

"You can't expect loyalty to a government by people who have nothing," Dr. Townsend declared. "I've heard this expression time and time again: 'Well, Hitler has done one thing for the common people—he has put them to work, given them shelter and something to eat. That is more than our Government has done.'"

Dr. Marjorie Shearson, social science analyst for the Public Health Service, testified that four-fifths of the persons over 60 years old were now receiving sufficient income to maintain themselves in decency and health.

She said that single persons ought to have a minimum income of $30 a month in the larger cities and $40 a month in other areas, with the income of married couples ranging from $67 to $85 a month.

Senator Thomas, Democrat of Oklahoma appeared before the committee briefly to urge a reduction from 65 years to 60 years in the age limit of those receiving old-age assistance.

Housing

in favor of the bill's original wording. They are: A provision which would require rents to be based on the value of the dwellings regardless of the income of the workers; another which would prohibit disposal of the projects to local housing authorities, and a third which, according to Mr. Palmer, would narrowly limit the administration of the Federal Works administrator in selecting the most practical and efficient channel for construction.

Mr. Palmer contended that these amendments if enacted "may defeat many of our mutual objectives." He then asked that the committee give further and immediate consideration to the problem.

Regarding the status of Federal civilian employees in relation to the act, Chairman Lanham has explained that it was the view of his committee that there should be separate legislation to cover such employees. However, one of the members—Representative McGregor, Republican, of Ohio—said he thought the bill on the House calendar should be amended, because of the housing shortage in the District, to allow the use of some of the $300,000,000 for construction of houses for Government workers here.

Rules Move Fails.

Mr. Lanham tried to get the House yesterday to suspend its rules to expedite action on the measure, but was unable to muster the necessary two-thirds vote. On a standing vote, 83 members favored suspension of the rules and 70 objected.

The additional $300,000,000 was sought by President Roosevelt in a message to Congress June 26. At that time he explained the original $300,000,000 had been allocated to projects, and that data in his possession indicated the possibility that the Government should be prepared to undertake the construction of at least 125,000 more defense homes by July 1, 1942.

2 Corn Kings Named After Long Deadlock At Show in Chicago

Indiana and Illinois Entrants in Finals; Steer Judging Slated

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Two corn kings were named today for the first time in the history of the International Livestock Exposition when the four grain judges were unable to break a deadlock after two votes. The joint title was awarded to Floyd Hiner, 41, Lewisville, Ind., and E. W. Doubt, Hanna City, Ill.

Mr. Hiner, who watched the final judging with several other finalists, showed a sample of Yellow Dent "Second 84-D" hybrid variety. Mr. Doubt a Yellow Dent special utility sample.

Dr. G. I. Christie, director of the grain show, said the situation was one which never before had arisen in the International Hay and Grain Show and said the twin kings would each hold the trophy for six months.

"It would be unfair to call in a referee to break the tie," he said, "because these four judges are the best grain experts in the country. Therefore, it has become necessary to award dual championships."

Former Reserve Champion.

Mr. Hiner, a reserve champion in 1937, gave Indiana a share of a title contestants from that State have held since 1933. Since 1918 a champion has come from Indiana 19 times.

Mr. Doubt, who was not present, gave Illinois its first corn champion since 1933.

Meanwhile, youth and energy were pitted against experience and skill in a contest for one of rural America's most appreciated honors and richest prizes—the title of grand champion steer of the exposition.

Representing the Nation's 1,500,000 4-H Club members in the final day of competition was 15-year-old T. Richard Lacy, a shy, serious-minded boy from Kansas, Ill.

Most of the 23 other remaining contestants were veteran cattlemen and feeders, determined to break the corner the youngsters have had on the grand champion market the last three years.

Already Two-Time Winner.

Lacy, a high school sophomore, neared the final round yesterday when his deep-bodied entry, "T-O Again," was adjudged the best medium lightweight Hereford and best Hereford of the show. Previously "T-O Again" had been named champion steer of the junior division.

Truck Plunges in River At Bolling; One Injured

A man drove a light truck down the new long runway of Bolling Field early today and suddenly found himself in the Anacostia River, police reported. He escaped uninjured, but a passenger suffered a fractured wrist.

Police of No. 11 precinct listed the driver as James Preston Holloway, 52, of 1380 E street N.E. They said he had stopped at a guardhouse to let out two soldiers and was permitted to enter the reservation to turn the truck around. However, he turned to the paved runway and went over an embankment into the water, where the vehicle turned over.

The driver and a passenger, listed as George William Yates, 22, of 15 M street N.W., climbed to safety, but the latter was found to have received a broken wrist.

Col. Ralph B. Walker, commanding officer of the post, said the car was moving at such speed that the field patrol was unable to stop it before it plunged into the river. The occupants were turned over to the Police Department then by the military authorities.

ence, construction of a heavy iron gate to bar the way to the area was started this morning.

Police returned to the scene this morning. They said guards refused to admit a tow truck without a pass.

Representative Fish To Testify Friday Before Grand Jury

Notifies Propaganda Investigator He Will Appear at Inquiry

Representative Fish, Republican of New York is scheduled to testify at 10:30 a. m. Friday before the special grand jury investigating Nazi propaganda.

William Power Maloney, Justice Department prosecutor, said today he had been notified that Mr. Fish would appear at the trial. Meanwhile the grand jury will be in recess.

Mr. Fish, who returned recently from several weeks of active Army duty in the South as a Reserve colonel, was authorized by the House to testify after the question of whether it would violate the chamber's privilege was raised and referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Justice T. Alan Goldsborough of District Court has notified attorneys on both sides that he will set at 9:45 a. m. tomorrow a date for the preliminary trial of George Hill, assistant secretary to Representative Fish.

Mr. Hill is charged with testifying falsely before the grand jury during the propaganda investigation. The jury also has indicted George Sylvester Viereck, registered German agent, for allegedly withholding information from the State Department.

John J. O'Connor, attorney for Mr. Hill, has asked that the trial be deferred until next month because of previous court appointments and lack of time to prepare the case. The Government prosecutors are urging that the trial be held next week.

Wire Short-Circuit Caused by Starlings

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 2.—Now the telegraph company is fighting wire trouble with shotguns in Texas.

Every afternoon recently, about midnight, an Associated Press news circuit went dead. Just as mysteriously the trouble would clear up.

Trouble shooters found thousands of blackbirds and starlings, roosting on the wire, their weight pulling it down in contact with another causing a short circuit. When they were frightened off by passing automobiles service resumed.

A field man with a shotgun was detailed to the case indefinitely.

figures" disclosed that Red Army troops in the southern offensive had captured 118 tanks, 210 guns, 306 machine guns, 178 mortars, 4,050 rifles and large quantities of other arms and military supplies from the German Field Marshal Erhard von Kluge.

"Most of the trophies," it reported, "fell to our 37th Army, commanded by Maj. Gen. Lopatin, which—by its skillful operations—properly speaking decided the fate of Gen. Von Kluge's troops."

In addition to the captured equipment, much of which presumably can be salvaged, 102 planes were said to have been shot down by Russian fighter planes and ground gunners in seven days of fighting within the Rostov area.

The bureau declared also that Russian flyers had destroyed or damaged 215 German tanks, 1,400 motor vehicles, 34 field guns and other arms and destroyed about three infantry companies Sunday.

Cossacks were the heroes of a tale told by the Moscow radio.

In central front fighting, it said, a German armored force surrounded 3,000 Cossacks and moved in to destroy them. In crushing force, the Cossacks were reported to have cut off a German regimental headquarters, captured its staff and taken the prisoners with them.

Moscow Defense System Penetrated, Nazis Claim

BERLIN, Dec. 2 (AP)—German troops, battering at the Russian lines before Moscow, have penetrated deep into the capital's defensive system, the German high command announced today.

On the southern end of the far-flung eastern front, where the Germans have acknowledged the withdrawal from Rostov-on-the-Don under heavy Russian attacks, the high command said that bitter fighting was continuing, but gave no details.

At Leningrad, on the northern flank, the Germans said their troops had beaten back renewed Russian efforts to break through encircling lines. The Russian assaults, a communique said, were preceded by violent artillery preparation.

The high command said the German air force had again bombed Leningrad and nearby Soviet air bases during the night.

Air assaults also were reported on the Rybinsk industrial area, 175 miles north of Moscow, where direct hits were said to have been scored on a large airplane factory and on railway communications east of Tikhvin, 110 miles southeast of Leningrad.

Other German air units were said to have strafed Russian troops moving across frozen Lake Ladoga, north of Leningrad.

3,100 Tanks a Month By 1943 Expected By Defense Officials

Contemplated Production Would Exceed That of Any Other Power

Under a production program unexcelled by any other world power, American assembly lines are expected by defense officials to be turning out tanks at the rate of 3,100 per month by 1943, it was learned today.

This gigantic program calls for monthly production of 2,000 medium tanks, weighing from 28 to 30 tons; 1,000 light tanks, from 13 to 15 tons, and 100 heavies, the Army's new 60-ton steel monster, still in the experimental stage.

A start in this production speedup was made public last week in a report by Maj. Gen. Charles M. Weston, Army chief of ordnance, which stated that commitments totaling $53,500,000 for cast steel tank hulls and turret had been given five forging plants.

By the time the full program is realized all tank models probably will be put together by casting or welding, eliminating the present use of riveted armor plate, it was understood.

Production with the stepup in tank production will come an increase in the output of mobile pieces of the new tank destroyer battalion, described by Army spokesmen as the answer to the modern panzer offensive.

Observers at the recent Carolina maneuvers were described as "very well pleased" both with tank offensives and the work of the tank destroyer battalion. The Army has selected nearby Fort George G. Meade, Md., as its chief tank destroyer training station.

It has been known for some time that tanks are to become an integral part of both offensive and defensive units of the Army. Officers are convinced that there is no substitute for speed and maneuverability in either phase of modern warfare.

Although defense officials have ceased making public exact figures on war materials turned out by American industry, it was understood that the projected tank production program for 1943 more than quadruples present rate of production.

Willkie Asks Removal Of Refugee Fund Limit

Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 Republican presidential candidate, asked the Government yesterday to relax its restrictions on the personal funds of thousands of European refugees now living in the United States.

He presented the appeal as attorney for the refugees who, he said, all came from European countries other than Germany and Italy since June 17, 1940.

Foreigners who came to the United States since that date are allowed to use $500 a month for living expenses without formalities, but must get special licenses from the Treasury to use any more money. Mr. Willkie asked removal of the $500 limit.

Surrender of Jibuti by Vichy To Allies Expected in Africa

Mr. Hull of Aden Port and Railroad Has Lost Its Nuisance Value to Axis Forces

By GEORGE WELLER, Foreign Correspondent of The Star and Chicago Daily News.

ADDIS ABABA, Dec. 2.—With Jibuti's nuisance value to the Axis rapidly diminishing it is being suggested here that Germany soon may permit Vichy France to surrender the Gulf of Aden port to the Allies.

The food situation in Jibuti, although possibly less stringent than imagined, certainly is difficult. But the main Vichy objective—to complicate for Great Britain the problem of transport into the mountains of Ethiopia by closing the railroad and harbor—already has been proved useless. With open roads into Ethiopia from the seaports of Mogadiscio, Berbera, Assab and Massoua, Britain is able to maintain any necessary military communications without difficulty.

With the fall of Gondar, Jibuti's original resistance—which simply put the British offensive inland from East Africa on American rubber tires behind American motors—is now out of date.

Status unchanged since May. The Jibuti situation has remained in status quo since last May, when Clare Timberlake, American Consul at Aden, who also is accredited to Jibuti, emerged from the beleaguered colony with a French offer to deal with the British. The British had insisted that the Free French must occupy the town. Gov. Gen. Pierre Moualiletta said this was impossible, but that if the British would allow the colony to import 800 tons of food monthly, the railroad would be opened.

The French Governor said that any attempt to take Jibuti by force would result in the blowing up of the long, high trestles which carry the railroad into French Somaliland from Ethiopia. These trestles are some 300 feet long and 200 feet high. Since then there has been no change in the situation. The Vichy conditions were transmitted to London but they proved unacceptable to the British.

Reports have since emanated from Jibuti stating that the French forces have attacked and transgressed the French Somaliland border. Your correspondent, after visiting a village in the Somaliland savannah, where the British and French are keeping vigil, ascertained that these reports were based on a misunderstanding. The circumstances of the purported clash were as follows:

Communications frequently pass across the lines between the Free and Vichy French, although the Vichy governor already has executed several natives for carrying such messages. A Jibuti sergeant with six Senegalese under his command was known to be watching for an opportunity to desert to the Free French. But whenever he drew near the border, he was accompanied by a corporal inflexibly pledged to the Vichy cause.

Escaped by Ruse. The sergeant feared that if he crossed the border under the corporal's orders the latter would issue contrary orders to the Senegalese and order them to fire if they were not obeyed.

The sergeant waited until one day when he saw a large Free French patrol just across the border. Then he shouted to the corporal, "They have crossed the line and are attacking! Return quickly to the telephone and rush reinforcements."

The corporal obeyed. When he returned with the reinforcements, both the Free French and the sergeant with his Senegalese had disappeared. The corporal in reporting to his superiors in Jibuti, apparently deemed it wise to describe as an engagement what actually was only a case of escape.

While the Italians were still in Ethiopia, the French managed to get a corner on the best locomotives from the Addis Ababa-Jibuti railway, which is 90 per cent French owned and 10 per cent owned by Halle Selassie.

Distrustful of the Italians, they insisted that locomotives of mountain-bound and sea-bound trains pass the border simultaneously. But they tricked the Italians by always sending up to Addis inferior locomotives and retaining the best in Jibuti. There they still remain.

When the Jibuti governor actually would destroy them and the bridges is doubted in some circles here. It is noted that to do so would bring the wrath of the stockholders on the Vichy government.

In the French campaign the fact that many chief actionnaires in Saarbrücken heavy industry were French rather than German as popularly supposed is reliably understood to have caused the French Army to refrain from attacking Germany's weakest salient. If such forces can work in favor of the Vichy cast of mind they also can work against it when similar pecuniary interests are threatened.

Finally, with regard to the other half of the Axis it is natural that Britain can without a railroad neither evacuate nor support the best advantage, the thousands of Italians living in Ethiopian cities. Army trucks cannot be expected to carry indefinitely the humane problem created by the Axis itself. (Copyright, 1941, Chicago Daily News, Inc.)

Announcement of Cabaret Benefit Party an Error

An item published in The Star for November 27, based on a release from the Publicity Committee of the Washington Council of the National Negro Congress, announced that officers of the council, including the Rev. M. Cecil Mills as president, would be installed at a benefit cabaret party at the Crystal Caverns last Saturday night.

The national secretary of the congress said today the publicity committee's announcement was in error and had caused the Rev. Mr. Mills embarrassment in saying that he would appear at a cabaret benefit.

"It was unfortunate that we allowed our publicity committee to place the benefit party and the statement regarding the election of new officers in the same story," the secretary said in a letter to the chairman of the Board of Deacons of the Rev. Mr. Mills' Church. The committee's release stated that the officers would be presented at the party. The Star erred in preparation in saying the officers would be installed.

Dining cars have been withdrawn from all railway trains in Sweden.

Priorities Agency Urged by La Guardia

Sees End of War Within Year; Fears Effect On U. S. Industries

Predicting that the present war will "be over in a year," Mayor La Guardia of New York today urged Senators to establish a new priorities section intended to keep "little businesses" operating when possible.

Testifying as president of the United States Conference of Mayors, Mayor La Guardia told the Senate Naval Affairs Committee he expected the war to end before next winter if this country attains production goals and delivers supplies where needed.

"I doubt whether Mr. Hitler will be able to enter the next winter if we speed up production," Mayor La Guardia, who heads the Office of Civilian Defense, said.

The Mayor appeared before the Senate group to support a bill offered by Senators O'Mahoney, Democrat, of Wyoming and Maloney, Democrat, of Connecticut to create a new complaint division under priorities legislation.

Under this small industries that have been forced to shut down or have been adversely affected by allocation of aluminum, copper, steel and other strategic materials could appeal to an agency selected by the President and obtain critical materials if this did not hinder defense production.

Doesn't Solve Whole Problem. The New York Mayor said the legislation "will not solve our entire problem," but would aid in "maintenance of our present industrial system."

Senator O'Mahoney contends small business is being "strangled to death" by the priorities system. Senator O'Mahoney claimed firms not equipped to handle defense contracts and unable to obtain priority ratings for raw materials of the defense effort were facing "disaster." He predicted widespread unemployment unless Congress takes immediate steps to aid the little business houses.

Senator Hatch, Democrat, of New Mexico, testifying yesterday in support of the proposal, warned that "we're heading toward a totalitarian state" by concentrating on big business in the preparedness effort.

Representatives of small businessmen's associations joined the Senators in painting a black picture of the present plight of small firms.

Richard C. Cook, Boston, representing the Cleveland Small Businessmen's Association, termed the situation "desperate." He said the O. P. M. had informed his organization that 1942 steel production would be less than this year because most of the scrap already has been used in 1941 production.

Lead Output Reduced. Guy Holcomb, head of the small business section of the Justice Department's Anti-Trust Division, said he had learned that the lead output dropped from 2,000 tons in September, 1940, to 43,000 tons in September this year.

Frederick A. Virkus, Chicago, representing the National Small Businessmen's Association, testified that 68 per cent of the small firms in Illinois were unable to participate in the defense effort.

Richard C. Cook, Boston, representing the Small Business Association of New England, charged that materials were not fairly distributed.

In an address broadcast over the National Radio Forum last night, Senator O'Mahoney charged that the Supply, Priorities and Allocations Board had adopted the "procedure of the totalitarian state" by meeting in closed sessions to make decisions "that have an immediate and intimate bearing upon the social and economic lives of all of the people."

48 Merchant Vessels, 11 Naval Craft Sunk In Month, Nazis Say

39 Other Ships Are Damaged in November, Berlin Reports

BERLIN, Dec. 2.—Forty-eight merchant ships totaling 231,870 tons and 11 naval craft were declared by the high command today to have been sunk by Germany's navy and air force in the sea against Britain in November.

A 2,000-ton freighter was said to have been sunk by German bombers in the waters around England last night and two other merchant ships were declared damaged by bombs.

In addition to the 48 vessels listed as sunk in November, the high command said 39 ships were damaged. The British Navy was cleared to have lost one aircraft carrier, one cruiser, three destroyers, four motor torpedoboats, one escort vessel and one patrol boat, and suffered severe damage to 14 other vessels, including two battleships.

Kristiansund Attacked By R. A. F., British Report

LONDON, Dec. 2 (AP)—British air raids bombed docks at Kristiansund in German-occupied Norway during the night, the Air Ministry announced today.

A direct bomb hit was scored on a supply ship in the harbor and other bombs were seen to burst among ships moored at the piers, a communique said.

All the raiders were said to have returned safely.

Rev. Dr. Albert Osborn Marks 92d Birthday

WASHINGTON GROVE, Md., Dec. 2.—The Rev. Dr. Albert Osborn, historian of American University, Washington, marked his 92d birthday today with a celebration at which the guest of honor was Mrs. Anna D. Frazer of Hagerstown, a friend since school days.

Mrs. Frazer, now 94, enjoys reminiscing with Dr. Osborn about their school experiences, including a spelling bee meeting. They try to attend each other's birthday parties each year.

Dr. Osborn, who is retired from the ministry, continues to act as historian for the Capital University, with which he has been associated since its founding. He formerly was secretary of the institution.

Last night he attended a board meeting of Washington Grove Church, of which he was a founder 31 years ago. The session was turned into a pre-birthday testimonial, and Dr. Osborn was presented a gift of books by the board.

Dr. Osborn's wife has been dead for a number of years, but a daughter, Mrs. Harry Osborn Farmer, lives with him. He has three other daughters, Mrs. J. B. Johnston and Mrs. L. McCathran of Washington Grove and Miss Grace Osborn of New York City, and a son, Harold H. Osborn of Syracuse, N. Y., who also is celebrating his 46th birthday anniversary.

'Rowing Preacher' Leaves 33-Year Columbia Post

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The Rev. Dr. Raymond C. Knox, Columbia University's 65-year-old "rowing preacher," is retiring from his post as chaplain after 33 years.

The Board of Trustees accepted his resignation yesterday, effective next summer, and named the Rev. Stephen Fielding Bayne, Jr., rector of St. John's Church, Northampton, Mass., to succeed him.

Although Dr. Knox explained he felt his academic course would have been run by next April 21, when he turns 66, he still plans to spend at least an hour on the river daily—a practice which has piled up a total of more than 30,000 miles at the oars.

Hitler Knows He Has Lost the War By Mistake in Strategy, Observer Declares

By HENRY J. TAYLOR.
By Wireless to The Star and North American Newspaper Alliance.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—I have just reached London after a European tour which took me to Stockholm, Helsinki, Berlin, Bern, Paris, Vichy, Madrid, Gibraltar and Lisbon. This is the first point from which I have been able to send this dispatch. It was refused "in principle" by the censors in Vichy and I considered it inadvisable to send it from Spain.

The overwhelming fact in Germany is that Hitler knows that he has lost the war. From a fundamental German point of view Hitler's basic conception is that there are two wars raging in Europe at the present time. It is of the utmost importance that this be realized.

The first is the great civil war of Europe which started in Spain and is now at the climax of its military phase in the action between Germany and Russia. This great civil war is the only war that Germany planned. This is the war the Reich believed she could win and Hitler believes that he has already done so.

The other war is the "inter-oceanic" war which Germany did not plan and always was determined to avoid and can only lose.

Had the Reich been able to complete her original strategy which was to seize, organize and exploit the continent of Europe through the force of her political arm, using a compact and highly mobile central army to back it up, she would have validated the economic, social and racial promises which National Socialism lured the German people.

People Sense Futility.

But despite the fact that their generals have supplied them with the most dramatic succession of military victories known in history, the German people are apathetic. They sense that these victories have no value. They sense a futility in the over-all result.

The German people, of course, do not know it, but the additional "inter-oceanic" war and their failure to have the occupied continent embrace National Socialism—both of which came as a profound surprise to the Nazi leadership—represents the most towering miscalculation of modern times.

From the outset of her civil war program, Germany, on the British reaction toward continental Europe similar to England's non-intervention policy toward Spain, which was, in effect, an interventionist policy in favor of change.

But with the fall of France and the retreat from Dunkerque, Hitler did not attempt to invade England. This is a fact which still puzzles most of the British people. Hitler never intended to invade England and was not prepared to do so after Dunkerque.

In addition to the fact that the success of such an invasion was doubtful, there was no place for an invasion of the British Isles in the Reich concept of the European civil war. Furthermore, an invasion attempt would have made the "inter-oceanic" war certain and irrevocable.

In accordance with his usual custom, Hitler advertised an attack he did not intend to make. The full power of the Nazi propaganda machine was called into play to shout "We march against England" in a strategic move to stem the tide of the British on their island domain and thus facilitate Hitler's conquest of France, which then looked as though it might be harder than it later proved to be.

The civil war unfolded as planned.

the consent of the British Empire and the United States. Once engaged in conflict with the two democracies, this would be denied her. Hitler never conceived the situation any other way.

Now Hitler is engaged irrevocably. He has been so ever since the British refused the false "peace" offered after the fall of France. Realizing then for the first time that his dilemma was irrevocable, Hitler finally sent his bombers over England in August and September, 1940.

They carried the only hope he had, which was, first, to obtain absolute supremacy in the air and then go on from there as best he could with makeshift barges and other equipment commandeered after the fall of France.

He failed in the air over the Channel, but he must actually invade England to finish his war. He must try it again. And Hitler will try it unless an English invasion of the continent draws him elsewhere. Make no mistake about that.

Metropolis View Citizens Oppose Gas Tax Boost

Opposition to any gasoline tax increase in the District was registered by the Metropolis View Citizens' Association last night, on the motion of John J. Cunningham. Franklin G. Sartwell urged opposition on grounds that it is not likely that an increase would be used in the highway improvement program, for which it was originally designated.

Vincent P. Boudren was named chairman of the Christmas Party Committee and the association decided to again sponsor the annual community Christmas tree at St. Vincent's Orphanage. Mr. Sartwell, chairman of the Executive Defense Committee, outlined the progress made by his group and urged that every citizen volunteer his services for some phase of the civilian defense program.

A. J. Driscoll, member of the Board of Public Welfare, spoke. "Glimpses of Old Virginia," a lecture illustrated with natural-color films and slides, was delivered after the meeting by Clarence A. Phillips.

New members accepted were Scott Cottrell, Mrs. Mary E. Richardson, Mrs. F. C. Mason, R. S. Ogg, Charles P. Strauch, John A. Tondig, R. J. McCarthy and Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Clancy. Dr. George S. Duncan presided.

 The advantages that accrue to the Government, as well as to the employees, from a sound, well-rounded retirement plan frequently have been emphasized. Early approval of the legislation by the Senate is desirable.

Tunnels and Bridges

In recommending construction of a tunnel across the Potomac River to aid in solving transportation problems arising from the huge Federal office development in Arlington, the Traffic Subcommittee of the House District Committee properly has pointed out that the financing of such a project is a Federal obligation. The desirability of having additional facilities—whether in tunnel or bridge form—is becoming increasingly evident as the full magnitude of the War and Navy building programs in nearby Virginia unfolds. Present plans call only for rearrangement of existing roads and opening of new thoroughfares on both sides of the river so as to provide more adequate approaches to existing bridges. Obviously, these emergency improvements are related directly to the defense program and should be paid for by the National Government.

Incidentally, there is need for additional means of access to the rapidly growing district across the Anacostia River. The Whitehurst report recommended a new bridge to Anacostia along the axis of South Capitol street. This bridge would serve the several military and naval establishments in the Anacostia section and beyond. The report also endorsed proposals for a tunnel or bridge across the Potomac River from Alexandria to Shepards Landing, designed to serve the same general defense area in Anacostia. Whether tunnels or bridges are the more advisable involves technical questions which only engineers are competent to answer. The factor of relative costs also must be considered. In connection with all such river crossing projects, however, it is important to remember that only emergency construction is likely to obtain a priority rating now, and that such a rating on proposed tunnels or bridges in effect would stamp them as defense-connected undertakings. And the financing of a tunnel or bridge in this category clearly would be the primary responsibility of the United States Government, rather than of the local community.

Senator Adams

The mind of Alva Blanchard Adams was honorably conservative. For him to have pretended to what are known as "advanced views" would have been a fruitless folly. Born to wealth and high position. Born to the responsibilities of business, a distinguished member of the Colorado bar, consistently a man of large and important affairs, he had no reason to be critical of a system of free enterprise which from abundant personal experience he believed to be good.

Yet Senator Adams never was uncharitable. When his rivals pointed out that he had described himself as a "progressive" while serving an appointment to the Senate in 1923 and 1924, he called their attention to the fact that the word he had used had no proper connotations of radicalism. But he was not unjust in his attitude toward New Deal reforms. His protest against extravagance arose from his confidence in "sound money" and a "balanced budget." Certainly he sympathized with the poor and the distressed as much as any of his contemporaries, however much he might differ with some of them about proposed measures of relief.

To what extent the prevailing national emergency shortened Senator Adams' career is a matter of speculation which even his most intimate friends could not discuss with perfect assurance. That he felt the impact of the crisis very deeply cannot be denied. He was an "isolationist" and voted against the revision of the Neutrality Act, yet he favored appropriations to implement the lease-lend program on the ground that "the Nation's policy . . . must be carried out." His patriotism remained unquestioned during the hottest debate. In problems of Government finance he maintained his authority until the end. His colleagues attribute his death to overwork, and their diagnosis probably is correct. Few individuals of his generation have been more devoted to duty or more bravely faithful to the demands of an accepted task.

'Valtin' Pardoned

Richard Julius Herman Krebs, once "a professional revolutionist" and now, under the pen name of "Jan Valtin," a successful writer of "confessions," has received a pardon from Gov. Culbert L. Olson of California. The specific crime for which the author of "Out of the Night" unconditionally is forgiven was that of an assault with a deadly weapon. His victim was an old man who owned a little dry goods store. Arrested, convicted, sentenced to San Quentin Prison, Krebs served from 1926 to 1929, then was deported to his native Germany. He re-entered the United States illegally in 1938 and at the present time is an applicant for citizenship. The Department of Justice, however, has lodged a long series of objections to "Valtin's" continued residence in the "capitalist country" which he formerly despised. By his own admission, he has been an advocate of the overthrow of the American Government by violence. True, he more recently has deserted both the Communists and the Nazis and is prominent in a propaganda movement which professedly seeks the destruction of all forms of totalitarianism. It likewise is a fact that the erstwhile "activist" admittedly is a fugitive from an indictment for treason standing against him in the country of his birth and that the Bolshevik secret police also would like to lay hands on him. Powerful friends, headed by William Allen White of Emporia, Kansas, contend that he would be executed if he were returned to Europe, and Gov. Olson agrees with them that "having come to realize the mistaken course of his earlier life, he has studiously applied himself to qualify as a useful member of society. . . . thoroughly believing in . . . the institutions of democracy."

But the California executive's pardon does not affect the deportation proceedings initiated last March by the Department of Justice. "Valtin" of course is in no immediate danger of being delivered to either the Gestapo or the O. G. P. U., but there are many questions concerning him which should be answered with satisfaction to the public before his right to remain in the United States permanently is conceded.

The Far East Gets Ready

The general mobilization order issued by the Governor General of the Netherlands East Indies lends a touch of urgency to the program of immediate preparedness for any eventuality in the American, British and Dutch portions of the Far East. The great British base at Singapore and the British advance post at Hong Kong are both admittedly on a footing, while our forces in the Philippines are being placed in a state of emergency. Everywhere, a grim mustering of troops, planes and warships is taking place.

The armed strength of the Netherlands Indies is not numerically great, considering the vast extent of this island chain extending along the Equator for more than 3,000 miles. With resident white reservists and native militia formations, it undoubtedly exceeds 100,000. There is also an excellent air force and a small but competent navy. It should be remembered that the seats of Dutch colonial power, Java and Sumatra, are close to Singapore and thus could work in close liaison with the British forces there.

All this offers a dark background to the amiable attitude of Ambassador Nomura and Special Envoy Kurosu, who have had another conversation with Secretary of State Hull, thus confirming the statement given out by the official Domei News Agency in Tokyo that the Japanese cabinet has decided to continue negotiations with the United States, despite "great difference in views between Japan and America."

This resumption of diplomatic activity after what had been interpreted as a deadlock in negotiations has given rise to some faint optimism here. Yet there seems little in the general picture on which genuine optimism can be based.

The basic factors in the current crisis are only too clear. America and the other Western powers have taken a firm stand against the program of aggression which has been a fixed policy of all Japanese governments for years and which aims at nothing short of domination over the whole Far East. Any further armed moves by Japan in almost any quarter, including an attack on the Burma road, undoubtedly would be met by countermeasures of the Western powers which almost inevitably would bring on open hostilities within a very short time.

What makes the present situation most serious is the fact that Japan cannot afford to sit still and do nothing even for a few months, because the economic sanctions imposed on her by America and the associated powers are crippling her economic life in a way which in the long run would make it impossible to conduct an offensive war on a large scale. Unless the Japanese government is willing to scrap its program of aggression and make a genuine arrangement with its diplomatic antagonists, it must strike soon if it is to strike at all. But there is no sign that Japan is ready to make so complete a change in its foreign policy.

Take Your Pick

The paperhanger of Europe is doing his best to reduce the American standard of living by requiring the diversion of peacetime money and material to war purposes, and the latest evidence of his success comes from a medium-sized office with a big name—that of the Division of Simplified Practice of the National Bureau of Standards of the United States Department of Commerce. Lumber is needed for defense, and to conserve the supply this office recommends that toothpicks be made shorter, anywhere from a third of an inch to a half.

War is war, and all classes must co-operate without complaint to help win it. Families living on the wrong side of the railroad tracks may be hard hit, but during that lull in the meal between the meat and the dessert they should take a tighter grip on their abbreviated toothpicks and as they operate these weapons think of all the training camps that can be built with the extra lumber saved. Families on the right side of the tracks should be equally patriotic; that grapefruit studded like a porcupine with hors d'oeuvres mounted on toothpicks will look just as attractive if the quills are shorter, and the saving in wood may give some officer a new desk.

Of Stars, Men And Atoms

Notebook of Science Progress In Laboratory, Field And Study

By Thomas R. Henry.
 During the past two or three years there have taken shape the vague outlines of a revolution in agriculture whose end no man can foresee.

By the use of two chemicals there have been wrought such miracles as a 50 per cent increase in production of cotton per acre, double yields of corn, tomatoes, peas and beans and triple yields of grass—but only under special conditions.

Also, it is possible to ripen oranges on the trees two weeks earlier and cabbages in the field three weeks earlier than normal. This strange development was explained before the American Chemical Society, meeting in Atlantic City a few weeks ago.

Needless to say, there has been no general application of the new methods, for the most part they are confined to experimental plots, and such factors as costs and results under general agricultural conditions remain highly theoretical.

The chemicals are plant hormones, now made synthetically, but similar to substances contained in minute amounts in the plants themselves. The most striking of these for general use, the society was told by Dr. Franklin D. Jones, Ambler, Pa., chemical manufacturer, is a liquid known as naphthalene acetamide, of which plants can stand strong doses and which does not deteriorate, as do most of the hormone preparations, when produced in bulk and allowed to stand.

Up to the present the gardening public has been familiar with plant hormones chiefly because some of them will make roots grow faster on cuttings. They also are being used in large quantities for spraying fruit trees. They keep the fruit on trees so that it can ripen naturally in the sun. Hitherto most fruits, such as apples, have been picked before they are fully ripe.

"These sprays," Dr. Jones said, "mean much to the average consumer because tree-ripened fruit is larger and better flavored, and a better quality reaches the market. It is believed that nearly half of all the commercial apples reaching the market this year will have been hormone-sprayed."

"Naphthalene acetamide on oranges produces earlier ripening of the fruit, so that we can expect to see Florida oranges on the Northern market two weeks earlier than usual this year. By the use of very strong sprays of this chemical in April premature bud development of peaches can be stopped, thus reducing the risk of damage from late frosts."

"But the use of this chemical is not restricted to fruit. Sprays on the flowers of greenhouse tomatoes produce much juicier vegetables. Varieties of flowers which, like the petunia, hitherto have been thought self-sterile can be made to produce seed, which enlarges the possible number of varieties tremendously."

"In Oklahoma last year this spray produced a 50 per cent increase in cotton yield per acre. Where will the program of crop reduction be when cotton farmers in general start its use. The spray takes all the uncertainty out of growing alfalfa and clover, increasing yields tremendously. Research work on potato and onion storage shows that hormone treatment will stop sprouting."

"The most controversial application of plant hormones is on seeds where the stimulating effect depends on the nature of the soil. Where the soil is neutral or acid hormone treatment of seed has produced three times as much grass, twice as much corn, and twice as many peas and beans."

The last great abnormal invasion of North America probably preceded the Christian era only a short time. This contention is advanced by Dr. Diamond Jenness of the National Museum of Canada in a paper which forms part of the annual report of the Smithsonian Institution.

These latest invaders were the Athapascans. They brought with them, it is probable, the bow and arrow, the snowshoe and the toboggan, prominent elements of Indian culture in historic times. They crossed from Asia into Alaska and slowly moved southward along two routes—one west of the Rockies and one down the valley of the Mackenzie River. Only about a thousand years ago their advance columns reached the southwestern portion of the United States where they caused a major disruption in the settled ways of life of the agricultural Pueblo Indians. The descendants of this vanguard constitute the Navajos of today.

Although much of this reconstruction from scattered archeological remains and from linguistic evidence remains highly theoretical, Dr. Jenness says, the picture has been taking more definite form from discoveries during the past few years.

It was the eastern branch of the Athapascan invaders who most profoundly affected history and brought about the population pattern of the northern part of the continent which was found by the white settlers. Evidence is beginning to accumulate that the Eskimo people of a somewhat earlier invasion from Asia and the ancestors of the Algonquins who occupied much of the Atlantic seaboard of the United States when the English settlements were made, lived in the Mackenzie River Basin at the time of the invasion and were displaced by the newcomers. The Eskimo were pushed northward and northeastward to their present habitats on the northeastern coast of Canada and in Greenland. Some of the Algonquins were pushed eastward to the Labrador Peninsula, from whence they moved southward along the coast.

Proposes Use Of Justice Holmes' Residence.
 To The Editor of The Star:
 With every newspaper carrying stories of the great need of space for Government offices, dormitories, quarters for service clubs, etc., there still stands vacant the residence of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, a large four-and-a-half-story residence, the property of the Federal Government. It seems to be in good repair but badly neglected, and it does seem as though some use might be found for it. M. V.

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

It is likely that the Indians got their idea of the feathered headdress from the blue jay.

When this real American bird erects its head feathers and gives forth its raucous war cry it really resembles an Indian.

The effect is heightened by the black line of feathers which makes a pattern around the neck and across the chest.

Surely there is no finer looking bird in our gardens, these or any other days. It is possible to work up quite an affection for it, despite the slur campaign which has been carried on against it for many years.

The charges against the jay are many. It is supposed, among other things, to kill the young of other birds, and to eat their eggs.

A home garden observer may or may not see either of these crimes committed. He may see, however, young cardinals done to death by purple grackles.

He may witness the harassing of many species by hawks.

In many years he may never see a jay do anything more than chase the smaller birds to scatter as he flies down to a feeding station.

His war whoop, it must be admitted, is enough to scatter 'em.

This same cry, however, often warns the smaller birds of the presence of a hawk.

Jays are not everyday visitors at every yard where feeding is carried on.

Sometimes they seem to have a sort of visiting schedule. They will come to one garden every other day, or maybe twice a week. In another they seem to prefer a daily visit at an exact time. In the garden we know best they came all summer long at 8 o'clock sharp every morning.

In fall and winter they came, a band of six, at 7 o'clock, and remained until exactly 7:20 o'clock.

This is the way blue jays do things. Other observers report that they are never to be seen on Fridays. From this has arisen the legend, in some backwoods districts, that they go to see the devil on that day.

The association of the jay with St. Nick, however, is very unfair to the bird. He is by no means a devil, even a garden devil.

He is just a bird, and a fine, upstanding one, which some observers consider by all odds the handsomest to come to their gardens.

One important feature of the jay is that in this climate he is an all-the-year-around friend.

He is not like the catbird, or the house wren, coming in the spring and leaving as summer ends.

He will not be seen all day in any yard, nor every day, as far as that goes.

He is the perfect embodiment of the American spirit of wanderlust.

Surely no aviation unit could adopt a better insignia than the figure of this upstanding, independent creature, whose ways are so American, particularly in that it likes to tell everybody when it arrives.

This is one of the best and often most amusing traits of the bird.

Other songsters—and we hope no one will deny the jay the title of songster—merely fly into the yard, without calling attention to themselves, but such innate modesty will not do for the blue jay.

He must give a yell, scream a defiance at the world in general and the other birds close by in particular.

He always scores a hit with the other birds, an observer may feel sure. They never show any particular fear of him, but give place, which is exactly what he wants them to do.

It may be hoped that no one who has fallen for the propaganda against this bird will succumb to it any longer, especially if these large and handsome fellows come to the home garden.

Careful watching not only will give the observer many delightful and colorful pictures, but also will reveal, we feel sure, that the jay is by no means as black as he has been painted.

Many observers rank this songster with the cardinal, when it comes to color, and will be willing to admit that there is really more fun to be derived from watching it than from taking close-ups of the cardinal.

This is because the jay has more interesting habits.

Its way of seizing peanuts and cramming them into its "jaws," and flying away with them and other bits of food, and hiding them in crevices of the bark of trees.

Well, no cardinal does that.

There is no need for playing one species off against any other, however; each bird, cardinal and jay, has its own peculiar interests. The point is that though most persons are willing to admire the cardinals, many deprive themselves of the interest of watching the blue jays because they have accepted, hook, line and sinker, the tales inimical to the best interests of those birds.

If we have an interest in animal and bird life, let us try to be fair to all of them, and not draw up a blacklist, if we can help it. A blacklist is not a very nice sort of thing. The modern world is so full of evil, at least of old evils allowed to come to the surface, that it behooves each one of us to make a strong stand against accepting evil reports without checking with our own observation.

There is evidence everywhere in the Hitler-dominated world that the pagan gospel of the survival of the fittest is becoming the social creed. The only fit race is the pure German. No incurably sick persons nor any ill of mental disorders would be allowed to live.

The Christian practices and philosophy have no place in a Hitlerian world. There would be no need for hospitals for the mentally ill nor sanatoria for the tubercular, for treatment of cancer, infantile paralysis or for other degenerative diseases or permanent physical deformities.

Despite the isolationists, all true Americans with open eyes should welcome opposition to Hitler with the zeal of the crusaders who labored to secure the Holy Land from infidels. Never was Christianity engaged in a more justifiable struggle against godlessness. Human slavery was outlawed less than 100 years ago. Labor has attained a speaking freedom within the century. Today "Aryanization" is anti-Christ and threatens to roll back civilization to another period of human slavery and darkness. To defeat "Aryanization" and Hitler should enlist the sacrifices of every loyal American. E. B. HENDERSON.

Discusses "Slow Pokes" And "Road Hogs" in Traffic.
 To The Editor of The Star:
 Amid all the debate over the traffic situation in Washington it is strange that nothing has been said about one of the major causes of the congestion. That is the habit of many drivers in covering a part of two lanes—a practice especially pernicious where only two lanes exist, for it makes it impossible for one to pass on either side of the "slow poke" who thinks only of himself.

Q In what motion picture did Ruth Chatterton appear first?—A. J.
 A. Her first screen role was in "Sins of the Fathers."

Q Who has had the largest vocabulary of all time?—H. H. R.
 A. Cardinal Giuseppe Mezzofanti (1774-1849) is credited with having known 114 languages or dialects of which he knew 50 thoroughly.

Q When Audubon's "Birds of America" was first published, what did it sell for?—H. G. R.
 A. This magnificent collection of colored plates was sold for $1,000 a copy.

Q What are witch-balls?—T. E.
 A. Witch-balls were a superstitious fad of 125 years ago. Glass makers found that the curvature of certain types of glass in ball form reflected various objects far and near quite grotesquely. They were used at that time the same as the crystal ball of the present and were called witch-balls because of their so-called supernatural power of divination.

Dutch Painter—1632-1675

A lover of light, he ever sought to hold
 The sunshine quivering on a window ledge,
 Or catch the evanescent glint of gold
 That filtered in a room through tree
 And hedge
 And trembled like blown water there.
 The glaze
 Of rusted loaf, a bowl of milk abrim,
 A cup's high light, a pitcher's spangled Rays—
 These simple, home-sweet subjects
 Challenged him.
 He painted women, ever at some task,
 The sun's own glory in their eyes
 And hair,
 Serene and tranquil, nothing they

 Would add to their content . . . and

Formula Yet May Save Pacific Peace

Hope Lives as Long As U. S.-Japanese Talks Continue

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

War with Japan means war between the United States and Germany, too. But even this risk is in the minds of high officials as one that cannot deter the United States from standing firm in its relations with Japan.

The situation has not taken on a final pattern, however. The chance for a peaceful settlement is dependent on the absence or presence of an overt act that can at any moment end the discussions and conversations between the two governments.

As long as the diplomats talk, there is hope of peace. Documents and memoranda will continue to be exchanged for a while longer. Maybe in the course of those parleys a formula will be found and maybe at the end of the talks some other steps will be interposed which will maintain peaceful relations on a day-to-day or week-to-week basis.

What is regrettably absent in this crisis is something that has always been urged as one of the saving graces of democracy—an intelligent and informed public opinion, with a will to peace on both sides.

Neither the Japanese nor American peoples know the issues involved except in an abstract sense. In Japan a censorship of the press prevents the American viewpoint from being accessible to the Japanese people. In the United States, Japanese spokesmen are handicapped by the bellicose talk back home and by the movement of troops and naval vessels by Japan to positions in and around French Indo-China, which strategy seems to be encircling the Philippines at the same time.

If there is to be war, it will start under strange auspices. The American people have no hate in their hearts for the Japanese. For generations a mutual admiration has been developing between the two countries and, despite the differences in language and customs, some warm friendships have sprung up between Japanese and Americans.

There is, of course, the element of distrust on both sides. The Nazis have been carrying on their intrigue in Tokio and stirring up antagonism against everything American. There are in America many persons of anti-Japanese bias who have held up to suspicion everything Japan does.

When, therefore, the militarist group in Tokio carries on military and naval movements on a vast scale in the area of Indo-China and Thailand at the very time that discussions are going on in Washington, the task is made doubly difficult for those Japanese liberals and Americans who are fundamentally convinced that a peace plan can be consummated.

Japan and the United States could work together in the Pacific. They did it effectively in 1917 and 1918. Japan knows in her inner conscience that Hitler can never be of permanent aid to Japan in her development as a world power. Japan knows, moreover, that naval powers must stick together or extinguish one another and that with the relatively small steel industry in Japan the Nippon Navy can hardly hope to outbid or outstrip the British-American naval power.

This is entirely aside from the bravery and fighting ability of the Japanese, which is conceded. What is more important is that Japan and the United States have no sound reason for going to war and they have many sound reasons for being allied.

The question of what part China shall play in a settlement is ever present. Sympathizers with China insist that America cannot appease Japan at the expense of China. There is no need for material injury to the permanent interests of any of the three powers. What can be done to straighten out the Far Eastern situation by a policy of economic realism on the part of Japan and the United States and Britain is well known. But is there a will and determination to put all else aside except the objective—to beat Hitler?

Formula Possible. The Japanese know that America is as anxious to crush Hitler as are the British. The Japanese have a certain weight that can be thrown into the scales today. The Japanese, however, do not wish to be treated as a third-rate power but as an equal partner in the Pacific. The pride of the Japanese is involved as deeply as are any questions of political sovereignty. Some ingenious statesmen in Tokio or London or Washington can surely develop the formula that will end the Sino-Japanese war and at the same time put Japan in the world picture as an ally of Britain and America.

It will require concessions on all sides and perhaps even a scrapping of some of the academic arguments that have been used in the past. Japan has made certain strides by means that are not approved in America. Can assurances as to the future be placed on a basis that will invite American faith and co-operation hereafter? The Japanese know full well what is the underlying cause of today's misunderstanding. They can help to find the way out and if necessary the United States can send an American of the Kurosu type to Japan to place our view before the Japanese government to supplement the work of Ambassador

Tie-up of Nation's Railways Is Averted By Compromise in Wage Controversy

By GOULD LINCOLN.

The threatened railroad strike has been averted. Under present conditions a tie-up of the rail transportation system of the country would be disastrous. The railroad employees, as well as the railway management, realized this. It may be that some of the employees believed that it would be well to force the hand of the Government and have it run the railroads of the country—even go to permanent Government ownership.

That, however, is not a popular idea with the American people, nor is it with the Government itself. When the Government took over the roads in 1918 during the first World War, it was because of a break down in service. Conditions are vastly different today.

Freight is being handled faster than ever before. There has been no tie-up. If the Government took over, it would only be to break a strike.

The demands originally made by the railroad brotherhoods were for a 30 per cent increase for operating employees, whose pay ranged from $5.06 cents up, and an increase of 30 to 34 cents an hour for non-operating workers, who received from 35 to 85 cents an hour. The roads estimated that this increase in labor costs would have reached $900,000,000. The agreement now entered into is a compromise.

The class 1 railroads of the country, in the 10 months of this year ended October 31, had an estimated net income of $408,625,472. If the increases in pay demanded were granted, this net income would be wiped out almost twice over. After 10 years, there was 30 per cent of the railroad mileage of the country in the hands of the courts—in the red. The increase in business during the last year has changed this picture somewhat. But to grant a $900,000,000 increase in wages would have had a terrific effect on the roads, and especially on the owners of stocks and bonds, whether individuals, or life insurance companies, or any other corporations. The new settlement means an added cost of about $300,000,000.

Average Wage. The average wage of all the railroad employes was $1,912.77 in 1940. Ten years earlier it was $1,714.43, almost $200 less. Take the case of some of the operating employes. The average pay of a passenger conductor in 1939 was $3,311; of a through freight conductor, $2,796; of a local freight brakeman averaged $2,497, and a freight brakeman, $2,507. An engineer or motorman on a passenger train averaged $3,632, on a through freight $3,147 and on a local freight $3,966. Firemen averaged less than the engineers and motormen, but still were well up in the wage scale.

The point made by railroad management is that the rates of pay for the employes have gone up materially, both hourly and per annum, in the last decade. The increases have outstripped those made by other groups of workers. The wages—and, indeed, the pay—of railroad employes have exceeded by far the gains of the average farmer, for example.

A fact-finding board, appointed by the President, to go into the question of railroad wages and the ability of the roads to pay, recommended on November 5 the following increases in pay: For the operating group, a 7 1/2 per cent increase, and for most of the others, an increase of 9 cents an hour. These recommendations were very different from the original demands of the employes. The brotherhoods balked, although the management was willing to accept the proposed increases. The strike call was the next step—to take effect December 7. This has been averted by a further compromise.

Legislation Pushed. While the efforts of the mediators continued in the railroad situation, the House yesterday tackled so called anti-strike legislation, with the Vinson bill and its cooling off period provision. The House Labor Committee bill also with a cooling off period and additional proposals for conciliation and mediation, and the Smith bill, far more drastic and prohibiting mass picketing, etc., as a series of choices.

The Senate Judiciary Committee has reported favorably the Connally bill which permits the Government to take over defense plants in which strikes or lock-outs have occurred, and freezing the open or closed shop status in these plants.

The great trouble with the labor legislation proposed is that it fails to get at the seat of labor troubles. Under existing laws and their administration, labor unions are exempt from the operation of the anti-trust laws. The Supreme Court has so ruled. There is nothing in the laws to compel publicity of receipts or expenditures of labor unions, or the taking of a strike vote by secret ballot before a strike can be called.

And apparently there is to be no real attempt to remedy conditions which play into the hands of unscrupulous union leaders. The chances are that, when a bill is passed, it will be more or less ineffective. Not even that kind of a law will pass if the labor unions have their way.

Grew—an able diplomat but one who may need skillful support at this time in what happens to be the most critical period in the history of the two peoples. The way to peace can be found if the will to peace is strong enough. The American people want, as do the Japanese people, to avoid a war that will accomplish nothing that same counsel and self-restraint could not better achieve.

6 Vessels to Be Launched in Baltimore This Month

BALTIMORE, Dec. 2.—Baltimore's teeming shipyards, keeping pace of the program to expand the American merchant marine, will send six vessels down the ways this month—the largest number of launchings in a single month in the city's history.

Two of the vessels will be launched this Saturday in a "double-header" ceremony. Miss Patricia O'Connor, daughter of Gov. O'Connor, will christen one, the Roger B. Taney, and the Governor's wife will christen the other, the Richard Henry Lee.

Five of the vessels will be Liberty fleet ships and will be launched at the Bethlehem-Fairfield shipbuilding plant. The other, a tanker, will be launched at the Sparrows Point plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Co.

The launching schedule: December 6, the Roger B. Taney and the Richard Henry Lee; December 8, the John Randolph; December 20, the George Calvert; December 30, the Christopher Newport. No date has been set for the launching of the tanker Catawba.

600 Sweaters Rushed To Northern Bases

A rush shipment of 600 Navy and Army sweaters for the armed forces in North Atlantic bases was made yesterday by the local chapter of the Red Cross. In less than a month, it was announced, volunteers have knitted and shipped 1,240 sweaters for men in Iceland and other Northern outposts. Later this week another shipment of sweaters will be made along with more than 500 kits.

Mrs. James T. Nicholson, chairman of the Knitting Committee, announced acceptance of a quota on knitted goods for men on the Navy patrol in the Atlantic. Included are 1,000 turtle-neck sweaters, 1,000 helmets and 500 pairs of socks. A large portion of the quota will be accepted by volunteers of the Navy-Marine unit, consisting of wives of Navy and Marine officers.

Allies Woo Turkey With Oil

Support of Ankara Seen as Rich Prize, Eagerly Sought by Nations at War

By DEWITT MACKENZIE.

One of the most important war developments of recent months has been a blackout because of the more sensational American-Japanese crisis, the Nazi rout at Rostov and the great Allied drive against the Axis in the Libyan desert.

I refer to the fact that the Soviet has delivered under naval convoy at Istanbul, Turkey, three barges laden with the oil which is more precious than rubies these days—the first shipment of its kind since the Russo-German conflict began. Further, it is said that the Muscovites, in order to offset Nazi economic pressure on the Turks, have offered them all the oil they need henceforth, and they need plenty.

Now that move might easily develop into a major victory for the Allies. Its significance is that apart from the Caucasus, from which the Germans have just been flung back, Turkey is the only feasible land gateway from the continent to the Middle and Near East, once the Bosphorus or Dardanelles has been jumped.

In other words, Turkey is one of the most valuable stretches of terrain on earth right now in the eyes of either the Axis or the Allies.

Turkey Seen as Rich Prize. That's why both sides have been doing their utmost to swing the Turks away from neutrality and into their respective camps. This far the British seem to have the inside track, but the cautious Ottomans have given signs of trying to remain neutral so long as possible, or at least until it seems wise to make a shift.

The side which wins the outright support of Turkey will have got a rich prize. If that support could be secured before the crucial fighting of next spring, it would be worth a kingdom either to Hitler or his enemies, and I dare say Ankara might even get that price if it chose to bargain.

Thus the Russian move of supplying the Turks with the oil which they need so badly becomes a matter of moment. That is a commodity without which modern war cannot be waged and industry's wheels cannot turn—a fact which is worrying Herr Hitler even more than it is Turkey.

This Changing World

Soviet Repulse of Germans Explains Tokio's Willingness to Continue Talks

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.

The war clouds which threatened to burst in the Pacific this week have disappeared with the same dramatic suddenness that they appeared. It is a mistake to believe that they have been permanently dispersed; they may gather once more and burst with unrestrained violence. But for the time being the Japanese are willing to continue to "exchange" views.

Policy-framers in Washington give thanks every time a major crisis is postponed and the world is granted another respite from a Pacific conflict.

The explanation of the "miracle" of the reversal in policy of the militaristic Japanese government must be sought on the Russian battlefield. In fact, one clear indication that things are not going particularly well for the Nazis in Russia is Japan's willingness to continue conversations with the representatives of the A. B. C. D. powers in Washington.

The United States Government has scant means of learning what is happening on the huge and elastic front which extends from the Baltic to the Black Sea. The numerous American military and air observers are cooped up at Khabyshev and not allowed to go anywhere near the front. They make their reports to the War and State Departments in Washington on the basis of official communiques issued in the temporary capital of the U. S. S. R.

Nazi Setbacks Serious. The only advantage these observers have over the newspaper correspondents is that the communiques reach them a few hours before they are released to the press, but that advantage is offset by the necessity of coding and decoding the official reports of the American observers.

The American Government is forced to accept the Russian communiques at face value, in the absence of any other sources of information. The Japanese, however, have their own observers at German army headquarters. Thus, they have better means of determining the situation.

There is no question now in the minds of high officials in Washington that the setbacks of the Nazi forces both in Southern and Northern Russia are far more serious than they appear in the somewhat confused Russian communiques.

Nothing but a serious reversal of the Axis armies operating on that huge front could have changed the minds of the Japanese generals in whose hands lies the decision between peace or war in the Pacific.

Because they are ignorant of the exact situation on the Russian front the White House and State Department are proceeding cautiously, and American defense forces in the Pacific continue to maintain their 24-hour-a-day vigil.

Repulse May Be Temporary. The Russians' repulse of the Germans at Rostov may be only temporary, and the Nazis may still be able to retrieve the situation by rushing reserves to that sector. If this occurs it is possible that the Japanese negotiators, who yesterday presented to Secretary of State Hull counter-proposals to the American suggestions of last week, will find that the American position is unsatisfactory and will call off the negotiations.

Meanwhile, the Japanese continue to rush reinforcements for a "blitz" against Thailand, although they know that such an operation would be considered a "casus belli" by the United States and its democratic associates.

With the German position in Russia somewhat in doubt the Japanese postponed the start of operations by their air and land divisions against Thailand, an event which, according to intelligence received in Washington, was due to occur sometime this week.

Conversations between Secretary Hull and the two Japanese envoys, Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura and Saburo Kurosu, were resumed in a somewhat frigid atmosphere, despite the cheerful optimism of the Japanese delegates.

Mr. Hull was thankful for another chance to impress upon the Japanese that a war in the Pacific would be suicidal for them and that Japan could obtain much happier conditions of life by abandoning its aggressive designs and siding with the United States and its associates.

The success of Mr. Hull's arguments, however, it is felt in responsible quarters, depends not so much on his persuasive powers as on the immediate successes of the Russian armies.

guards had been posted at strategic points in Bangkok and its suburbs. Official quarters, while keeping details secret, said these preparations were extensive in scope and embodied all aspects of national service in Bangkok and provincial towns.

The Thai Navy, along with the army, was understood to be in a high state of preparedness. Concrete air-raid shelters are being constructed at many street junctions in Bangkok.

A test of air-raid precautions workers will be held in the capital next Thursday.

Thai authorities were reported to be compiling data on available private cars and trucks for requisitioning in event of an emergency. Plans have been prepared for removal of women and children from the city should the situation ever warrant.

Customs Guard Is Given 10 Years in Slaying

HONOLULU, Dec. 2.—John K. Young, a customs guard, was sentenced in Federal Court yesterday to 10 years in hard labor for the fatal shooting last September of Lt. Martin R. Connelly, United States Army Air Corps. Young was convicted Saturday on a second degree manslaughter charge.

Lt. Connelly was en route to his home in Syracuse, N. Y., to recover from injuries received in an airplane crash in the Philippines when he was shot during an argument at the dock here with Young over inspection of a package of photographs. Young said the shooting was accidental.

McLemore—

There's a Hitch In Holly Hunting

By HENRY McLEMORE.

This is a warning to all men who have been asked or will be asked to go into the woods and collect leaves, branches and berries for holiday decorations in the home.

Don't go. These excursions, which sound so mild and healthful, really are blood-brothers to trips to the headwaters of the Amazon. Before you get home from one you'll have qualified for membership in the Explorers' Club and can drop in there and swap hair-raising experiences with the most celebrated of the trail blazers.

A man is likely to be trapped into such a trip. The first appeal is to his pocketbook. He is told that it is foolish to pay good money to a florist for leaves and berries and branches when it is so easy to go out and get them yourself.

"It is such a lovely day it's a shame to stay indoors," the man is always told. "So let's just hop into the car and drive out a little ways and pick what we want for nothing. I know just the spot."

I was the innocent victim of just such a trip the other day. We "hopped" into the car and didn't have a cross word until I mentioned I paid a 50-cent toll on the George Washington Bridge that by the time I paid this toll coming back the "free" leaves were bound to cost us at least a dollar.

We covered 5 1/2 miles in the first half hour after crossing the bridge, and passed enough leaves to decorate Grand Central Station, but it seemed they weren't the right kind. They were too wretched or too brittle or too something. We did see lots of perfect leaves and green branches covered with red berries, but they were all in the hands of small children who were selling them along the road. I was all for patronizing this juvenile industry before we ran out of gas but my wife had an answer for this:

"See, there are plenty of lovely leaves around here," she said, "else the children wouldn't have them." We couldn't have been far from Montreal when I finally stopped the car and said, "We either set our leaves right here or we'll wire home for our luggage."

We got out and went to work. That is, I went to work. A woman on a leaf-gathering expedition serves only as a spotter. She finds a vantage point and directs the operations and is never interested in anything that can be reached without a struggle.

To her the only leaves worth while are those which have fled to safety in the middle of a bramble thicket, or to the tops of tall and swaying trees. I tore my clothes shoving up trees, scratched my hands and face going places a bird dog would not have penetrated, and twisted an ankle leaping a chasm while tracking down something to go over the mantelpiece.

Eventually I got the car filled and we started home looking a little like Birnam Wood moving on New York. We came home at a snail's pace. This was necessary to keep the leaves from falling off the branches and the berries from falling off the leaves.

Unloading the car was a task that called for the delicacy of a surgeon's fingers. Finally, after half a dozen tiptoeing trips, we had the last of our woodland loot heaped on the living room floor.

Then began the task of separating the sheep from the goats, as it were. Leaves I had all but risked my life for proved to be pretty homespun on close scrutiny. We wound up with scarcely enough leaves to fill two vases, but a superabundance of loose berries.

They made a sad display but my wife saw the bright side of it. "We didn't get quite as many as I would like, and they aren't as pretty as some at the florist's, but there is something about leaves you have gathered yourself. It's almost as nice as having vegetables from your own garden."

"And every bit as expensive, too." I thought as I called the garage to have the car cleaned out and washed.

Well, I've warned you. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Maryland Rules Princess Must Pay Taxes

BALTIMORE, Dec. 2.—Crown Princess Martha of Norway must pay local taxes just like her Montgomery County neighbors. The office of Attorney General William C. Walsh ruled yesterday that a tax lien against Pooks Hill, Bethesda estate purchased to provide an American home for the Crown Princess and her children, was "valid as against the government of Norway."

Previously the attorney general ruled that she was not exempt from the motor vehicle tax or the State income tax. The Norwegian government appealed the assessment on the former home of Marie Thyre on the Rockville pike north of Bethesda on the ground that it was the property of the government and not Crown Princess Martha, although it is her residence. The taxes on the property, valued for tax purposes at about $136,000, including the house assessed at $70,000, amounted to approximately $2,779. The effect of the attorney general's ruling, according to George C. Cantler, attorney to the county commissioners, apparently is to uphold the commissioners' assessment. He said he would not comment until he had received a copy of the ruling.

Central Labor Union Urges Conference To 'Defend' A. F. L.

D. C. Unit Seeks Protection Against 'Vicious' Bills And 'Propaganda'

Members of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor were urged last night by officers of local unions to call a special conference in Washington of presidents and Executive Board members of national organizations affiliated with the A. F. L. to work out a practical plan of defense "against the vicious legislation" and the vicious "propaganda" of press and radio against the A. F. L.

The resolution, proposed by the Executive Council and presented formally by Ernest Fontana, chairman of the Resolutions Committee, provided that the request for the conference be sent by telegram to council members.

See "Destruction" of A. F. L. The resolution pointed out that pending legislation, if enacted, "will destroy the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated organizations." In addition to devising a practical plan of defense the A. F. L. against anti-labor legislation and hostile propaganda by the press and the radio, the committee urged the resolution, which works out a program "of cooperation with the members of the United States on national defense."

X-Ray Best Remedy In Some Infection Cases, Doctors Say

Sometimes Does Better Job Than Sulfonamides, Two Specialists Report

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—X-rays sometimes can do a better job of life-saving against infection than the wonder-working sulfonamides, two specialists reported today to the North American Radiological Society.

Dr. James F. Kelly of Omaha told the convention that in a series of advanced peritonitis cases under his observation the mortality rate was only about half as much in the use of combination X-ray and general treatment as in cases where treatment was with sulfonamide drugs plus general treatment.

Dr. Robert E. Fricke of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., reported that X-rays and radium could be used effectively to treat surgical mumps, a rare but severe inflammation of the parotid glands in the neck developing after surgical operations.

House Passes Fee Bill

The House yesterday approved a bill by Representative McLaughlin, Democrat, of Nebraska to abolish the fees paid to Federal District Court clerks for handling payments in condemnation cases. The bill also would abolish the filing fees now required of defendants in condemnation suits brought by the Federal Government. The Senate must act on the bill before it becomes law.

Three Deer Hunters Killed Youth, Parents Convicted On First Day of Season

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 2.—The death of three hunters and the wounding of several others today was recorded against the opening of Pennsylvania's annual deer season.

While thousands of unsuccessful nimrods trekked back into the deer woods in an effort to bag their buck, game wardens and other officials redoubled their pleas for caution by all.

Two of yesterday's victims were shot by hunters who apparently mistook their movements through the brush for game. The other fell victim to a gun fired before it was properly aimed.

They were: John Bosak, 48, Clarence miner, who was killed near his Centre County home; Raymond Shill, 35, Spring Creek, near Warren; and Robert McCloughlin, 36, school bus driver, who died near Uniontown.

Reports indicated a small first day bag.

Children's Hospital Seeks Expansion Fund To Meet Conditions

Carrying an increased load because of "war conditions" that have congested the city, Children's Hospital is hoping to expand its facilities, if possible, through funds requested under the Lanham Act.

This was disclosed yesterday at the annual meeting of hospital members, where progress during the past year in many phases of the institution's activities, in caring for the sick, and in teaching nurses and young doctors was reviewed.

Declaring there was a striking similarity between conditions here in the early days of World War, 24 years ago, and today, Charles D. Drayton, president of the hospital, said the hospital "has felt the same increase in patient load that has affected the city in general; 6,000 more hospital days, 10,000 more laboratory findings this year than last." The same increase showed in every department, he reported.

Labor turnover had been "unprecedented," he said, because of jobs offered elsewhere at higher salaries, and the cost of supplies and equipment had mounted, with some commodities often "not available at any price."

Hope to Increase Dispensary.

The hospital authorities have made application for funds under the Lanham Community Facilities Act, designed to help meet defense emergencies, Mr. Drayton explained, in the hope of building an addition to the crowded dispensary. This, he said, was the hospital's outstanding need at the moment, as well as additional space for residents' quarters, releasing the space now used by the doctors for additional patient accommodations.

"In the last year," she said, "this institution suffered greatly by reason of its work and lack of support. Bearing this in mind and with the idea of preventing a repetition, we should all be inspired by the splendid work accomplished by all connected with the hospital. It is hoped that every effort will be made by the boards, the various committees and the supporting public to work for and with our institution. In this way we will be helping national defense in no small or uncertain way. She reviewed many phases of progress during the year, referring to establishment of a civic committee to become acquainted with and keep in touch with the many organizations which make outstanding gifts to or perform services for the hospital. She said "no fewer than 125 different civic groups have aided our work." Mrs. Kauffmann praised the Children's Hospital Bureau, magazine of the institution.

Mrs. John E. Reuburn, chairman of the Advisory Board of the Junior League, said the staff of the league's auxiliaries, Station WJSP, the American Contract Bridge League, Variety Club of Washington, Madeline School, friends of the late Mrs. Ridley McLean, the Mrs. Louisa McHenry estate, Private Chauffeurs' Benevolent Association, McKinnin-Catterton Police and Firemen's Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Service Guild of Washington, Venture Club, Delta Club, Mrs. David Ives Bushnell, W. E. Allen, Senator La Follette, Mrs. Victor Kauffmann, Mr. and Mrs. David Hornstein, Washington Lodge of Elks, Soroptimist Club, Newcomers Club, Bethesda Garden Club, R. Ross Perry and Dr. and Mrs. Walter W. Boyd, who presented the Katherine Dorr Willard Boyd memorial, an occupational therapy department.

Mrs. R. M. Kauffmann, president of the Board of Lady Managers, said this board had emphasized the fact that the hospital "has a definite place in the defense preparedness of Washington."

Mrs. John E. Reuburn, chairman of the Advisory Board of the Junior League, said the staff of the league's social service department had given services to 8,456 patients, compared with 8,868 last year.

Other Reports Presented.

Other reports were presented by Miss Ashby Taylor, director of nursing; Miss Caroline Sweeney, supervisor for the Child Welfare Society; Miss Anna J. Keady, executive of the Christ Child Convalescent Farm at Rockville, Md.; and Miss Edith Torkington, superintendent of the Children's Country Home for Convalescent Children at Eighteenth street and Bunker Hill road N.E.

Dr. Walter Willard Boyd of 1835 I street N.W. was elected a "hospital annual member."

Re-elected as directors for a term of five years were: Morris E. Locke, Brig. Gen. Mark E. Locke, Wilson B. Nairn, L. Corrin Strong, Admiral C. Russell Train and Edward R. True, Jr. Elected directors to fill vacancies were Clark G. Diamond, Alexander F. Jones, James H. Lemon and William E. Pearson.

Other annual members were re-elected. C. Nelson Bean officiated as assistant secretary of the board.

Brookland, With 1,000 Entries, Swells Field in Star's U. S. Bond Pin Tourney

Diehl's Establishment Is Pacesetter in Backing Event

Wood Made Treasurer; Bowler in Puerto Rico Flies to Compete

By ROD THOMAS.

Russell Diehl, who operates the Brookland Recreation Center for E. J. Charley Tompkins, builder, breezed into The Star Defense Bond Bowling tournament picture today in a spectacular way.

"In paid-up entries or pledged to compete," said Diehl, "we have approximately 1,000 bowlers."

This would make Brookland, considering the number of alley beds, a standout in a tournament chosen by Uncle Sam as a model for hundreds to be held in cities throughout the country to peddle in prizes, defense savings.

For the first time, on a major scale, bowlers of all classes will compete on equal footing, due to full handicaps.

A Singular Angle.

"Funny angle on the tournament out here," phoned Diehl.

"If we sign one more league the plant will be in 100 per cent. What can you do about rounding up The Evening Star League?"

Some of the punks fear they'd win the $1,000 bond top prize and face a lot of lifted eyebrows, but not so scrupulous the sports department, unrepresented in the league.

Next Tuesday, entry fee of $1 on the line, plus sundry other risks, Walter McCallum, Francis Stan, Jim Berryman, Larry Lawrence, Burt Hawkins, Lew Atchison, Bill Dismer, George Huber, Bill Ackerman, Ben McAlwee, Rod Thomas and Gib Crockett, who drew the caricature of Uncle Sam on the tournament poster, will shoot 10 but at the meeting yesterday, swapped ideas on how to make the 14th annual Evening Star event the outstanding affair in the sport's history.

Mass entries of leagues, with extra fees appropriated from prize funds; defense bonds being peddled by non-leaguers and the duckpin industry's part in national defense were topics that made yesterday's meeting of the alley operators one of the most harmonious in the history of their organization.

W. W. Wood, superintendent of the Lucky Strike, Hi-Skor and King Pin, was named treasurer of the tournament, with Richard L. Hobart, secretary of the Metropolitan District Duckpin Operators' Association, as his assistant. If the Star Tournament entry list is as big as Wood and Hobart will handle some $17,000, measured in defense savings, in prizes alone.

Equal Chance for All.

The full handicap, equal-opportunity-for-all plan of the tournament is sweeping the country, but with high enthusiasm we salute one John Werner, an employe of the Naval Air Station at San Juan, Puerto Rico, who arraisms a request that he be permitted to shoot his qualification set on December 16.

Werner, in 18 consecutive years has competed in the tournament as a member of the Knights of Columbus League at the Rendezvous and the Business Men's League at Silver Spring.

Although next week has been designated "qualification week" in the tournament, with 50 per cent of the entrants at each alley to survive for a rolloff in which the bulk of the prizes will be awarded, the Tournament Committee likely will save a spot for Werner, who will leave San Juan by plane on December 10.

Complete information on the tournament, declared by bowling authorities throughout the country to be the best bargain ever offered maple shooters, may be obtained from any alley manager.

Banks, Checkers King, Gives Simultaneous Exhibition Tonight

How he won the title of blindfold checkers champion of the world will be demonstrated by Newell W. Banks at Hotel Gordon tonight in a simultaneous chess and checkers exhibition.

Banks holds two world speed records, for blindfolded checkers and simultaneous checkers. While blindfolded, he played 20 games in two hours and 25 minutes in an exhibition at Bethlehem, Pa., in 1933, winning 17 and losing three.

The same year he set a new speed record for simultaneous checkers at the World's Fair in Chicago, winning 133 games and drawing seven in 145 minutes.

Tonight's exhibition, open to non-members, will be held in the Capital City Chess Club at the Gordon, starting at 8 o'clock.

'Sudden Death' Period May Decide Pro Title

Packers, Bears Agree on Plan if Regulation Playoff Game Is Tied

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—Perhaps an omen of things to come in college football, "sudden death" extra period to prevent ties, may determine the winner of the Western division in the National Pro League this season.

That is, of course, if the championship Chicago Bears beat the Chicago Cardinals on Sunday. A victory for the Bears will place them in a tie with the Green Bay Packers and force a playoff December 14 for the right to meet the New York Giants December 21 for the league crown.

Assuming a playoff will be necessary, representatives of the HOT ON THE JOB—With conflicting interests galore, Washington's bowling alley operators seldom agree on anything, but in session yesterday they giped 100 per cent in boosting The Star's Defense Bond Bowling Tournament. Ex-Hoyas Now Pros To Be Honored at Skins' Last Tilt

Three Eagles, Lions' Lio, Tribes' Stralka to Get G. U. Students' Gifts

Five ex-Georgetown University football players, now affiliated with three National League teams, will be honored at the Redskins' last game of the season at Griffith Stadium next Sunday. Three of them will be with the visiting Philadelphia Eagles, another will be Clem Stralka of the Indians and the fifth will be Augie Lio, who has just completed his rookie year with the Detroit Lions.

The Eagles' trio of former Hill-toppers are Jim Castiglia, fullback; Lou Ghecas, halfback; and Joe Frank, tackle. Castiglia may start at fullback for Greasy Neale's team. Under the supervision of William V. Finn, president of the Yard, Georgetown's student body will present gifts to all five of the former Hoyas, the ceremony to take place 20 minutes before the 2 o'clock kickoff. The G. U. Band will lead a procession of students before the game and will share between-halves entertainment honors with the Redskins. A special section of seats has been set aside for the Georgetown Band and students.

Possibilities that the Redskins' squad will be four short of its normal quota of 33 arose today as Halfback Ed Justice and Quarterback Ray Hare were reported through for the season. Justice tore muscles in his right thigh loose again Sunday, while Hare came up with a sprained ankle which may keep him out of the last game.

Because the Football Writers' Association has suspended meetings for the season, a poll of its members was to be started today to select the outstanding Redskins of the Packer game.

Disappointed Hunters Watch Ducks Raft Far Offshore With Season Nearing Close

The season on wild waterfowl ended in the northern tier of States Saturday night, according to hunters, it has been pretty much of a disappointment. Except for the first week the birds remained offshore or in forest pools.

Merry meeting Bay, where better than usual shooting was expected, has produced anything but good. Cape Cod hunters have found the scooter shooting none too good. Long Islanders have been shooting at long range, as have Jersey and Delaware wildfowlers, for with four days out of five so calm the surface of the waters are glassy enough to show up the decoys for what they are—just so many chunks of painted wood—nothing else could be expected.

On Maryland waters there are thousands of ducks and geese, but here, too, they are rafted offshore. Because there is still a full month left of the season there is some chance of Southern hunters getting in a little real shooting, but for those in the middle tier, where the season is over December 16, there will have to be a lot of dirty weather soon or the hunting will be over for another year with disappointing results.

Canvassacks Arrive. George King shoots three days a week in Nanjemow Narrows, at least he spends the time in a blind—there is not much shooting, for there is very little treading by the birds. He notes the arrival of large numbers of canvassacks. He saw the vanguard nearly a week ago.

With them are occasional whistlers, butterballs and ruddy ducks, definite indication the migration is nearly completed, and that the birds, as many hunters like to believe, are not north, but on their winter feeding grounds.

The great concentrations of waterfowl along the coast, from Back Bay in Virginia to Core Sound in North Carolina, is further proof of this. But hunters there are having little better shooting than we are experiencing, for it appears the birds carry clocks even in the North Carolina sanctuaries.

Know Refuge Limits. That, at least, is what Hinton James, commissioner of game for the Tar Heel State, says of those wintering on Lake Mattamuskeet, where "the center is an inviolate sanctuary, with blinds permitted only at the ends. All day the birds rest in midlake and exactly at 4 p.m. they pick up and fly over the hunters to feed in the fields.

"And they cannot only tell the time, but they also know the refuge limits where they cannot be shot legally. The road around the south boundary is the dividing line between refuge and shooting territory. On the side where they are protected, it is possible to approach within a few yards of them and create a considerable disturbance before they will fly, but on the other side of the road, where hunters are waiting for a shot, it is impossible to come within 100 yards of them."

Urges Later Season. It appears true, not only of that area, but of Currituck, Roanoke, Pamlico and Core Sound as well, where the rafts are so large the number of birds is almost beyond estimate. The occasional pairs and small flocks trading the banks of the marshes along the outer banks are few and far between. There are few days when hunters have their limit before the 4 p.m. curfew.

With a later season, say December 1 to January 15, and shooting hours extended to 5 p.m., hunters would have more chance to get clean shooting and limit bags, and, as a result, a smaller number of cripples. The excuse for the 4 p.m. closing is the greater number of cripples that hunters fail to find just before dark. This season there have been far more cripples from the long shots hunters are taking because the birds are not clogging right. With an increase in wildfowl again this year, the idea of a later curfew is at least worthy of consideration.

Lucy Rose Gets Season Mark In Tuning for Pin Classic

Rolls 167-388 as Old Dominion Looms; Gladys Lynn Contributes Set of 382

Out to reach top form for Saturday's Old Dominion Tournament, long Richmond's annual standout woman's duckpin attraction, Lucy Rose of Rosslyn, defending title holder, as a starter bore down at the Lafayette Bowling Center last night for season records of 167 and 388 in the Washington Ladies' League.

Boosting Lucile Young's former season high a stick, the country's No. 3 ranking woman duckpinper's splash also enabled Arbaugh's Restaurant to smother the Cardinals in one of the two sweeps of the evening.

Rolls 167-388 as Old Dominion Looms; Gladys Lynn Contributes Set of 382

Out to reach top form for Saturday's Old Dominion Tournament, long Richmond's annual standout woman's duckpin attraction, Lucy Rose of Rosslyn, defending title holder, as a starter bore down at the Lafayette Bowling Center last night for season records of 167 and 388 in the Washington Ladies' League.

Boosting Lucile Young's former season high a stick, the country's No. 3 ranking woman duckpinper's splash also enabled Arbaugh's Restaurant to smother the Cardinals in one of the two sweeps of the evening.

Gladys Lynn, Rosslyn Bowling Center teammate of Mrs. Rose, who also will hit for the Old Dominion championship, also gained the limelight when her third season high count of 382 featured Del Rio's 2-1 win from Ferruso's Cafe. The winners were tops with 1,649.

In a crucial match the pre-setting Garvin's Lucky Five, led by Julia Young's 345, swept the erstwhile second-place Jacobsen's Flowers. With Lorraine Gull firing 356, First Grill whitewashed the Jay Birds to their runner-up spot. Doris Goodall's 135-338 gave Shafter Flowers a 2-1 edge over Pazo Huter pinettes. Anna Daut and Inez Rhine each banged out 338s to edge Edmonds Optical a 2-1 victory over Shamrocks.

League Marks Are Smashed. Two all-time records went by the boards in the Federal League, when the Veterans Administration quint posted scores of 697-1967. Eske Winnike led the heavy charge with 417, Milton Walker of G. P. O. spoiled a perfect evening for the Vets when his top 158 gave Uncle Sam's printers the final game.

Jack Hodges had plenty on the ball last night at the Brookland Recreation as he cut loose with an all-time record of 442 for the Odd Fellows League with games of 158, 134 and 150. His heavy counts enabled Golden Rule to post a season record of 1,806 and high game of 614, which swamped Columbia No. 1. Charley Hatton of the losers rolled 152, while Young Ed Donaldson, Jr. of Amity No. 2 fired 141 for his high game of the season.

Shining with highs of 125 and 354, Ethel Barnard featured Accounting's 2-1 decision over Statistics in the National Capital Ladies League at the Lucky Strike. Her set was third best for the season. Routing Ordinance with top team counts of 544-1,576, the pace-setting N. M. P. quint increased the lead to three games over Standards as the latter dropped a tilt to Miscellaneous.

Mary Hanagan of Progress took over the league leadership from Ruth McClinic of N. M. P. when the former hiked her average to 107-16 while the latter dropped with 106-23 with 299.

Lithos Gain Second Place. National Litho rollers led by John Hutton's top scores of 148-390 took the odd-game skirmish from National Capital Press with team highs of 606-1,724 to lead the Graphic Arts League rolling at Lucky Strike. The victory gave the Lithos second place. Ed Tubbs' 362 was the heaviest wallop as American Electro tripped Standard Engraving, 2-1.

Al Masson was the big shot in the Silver Spring Georgia Avenue League with 158-429 as Hiller Motors downed Cor's Sport Shop, 2-1. The losers grabbed their lone win with a high of 614.

Alexandria Police Five Shoots Many Baskets

With only six games played so far it's too early to indicate how things are going in the Heurich Amateur Circuit Ball League, but Alexandria's Billy Conn or Gus Lesnevich at an early date, but expressed hope that he would get to fight Conn.

"I think I'll get another chance at the title," said the West Coast heavy. "I still think I'll be champion."

Ed Nash featured the Spillway Major League with 165-406 as City Baking trimmed Spillway Seniors, 2-1. The winners posted highs of 632-1,770.

Jimmy McLarney's 151-399 led highs of 588-1,640 as the Chaneys nicked the Finches, 2-1, in the St. Martin's Club League at King Pin.

Hutson Seems Certain Of Scoring Crown With 95 Points

Record-Setting Splurge Here Puts Packer Far Ahead of Bear Rivals

By the Associated Press.

Don Hutson's 20-point splurge against the Redskins here Sunday not only gave the Green Bay Packer end three new total scoring marks for the National Football League record book but also practically sewed up his claim to the individual point-making title for the season.

His total stands at 95 points, a new league high. He has achieved this on 12 touchdowns—itsself a new record—and 20 points after touchdown and a field goal. By running his life-time mark to 366 points against the Redskins Hutson also broke the loop's all-time scoring record.

Has 35 Point Margin.

Hutson is 35 points ahead of his nearest competitors, George McAfee and Hugh Gallarneau of the Chicago Bears, each with 60 points.

McAfee had been Hutson's only challenger until Gallarneau came through with three touchdowns against Philadelphia Sunday. Each has 10 touchdowns and one more for either will tie the former high of 11, while two more will equal Hutson's new touchdown mark.

Four points back of the two Bears is Clarke Hinkle of Green Bay with 56 points. Next is Ward Cluff of the New York Giants, whose points have been compiled on two touchdowns, 20 conversions and five field goals.

Condit Leads Brooklyn.

Merlyn Condit of Brooklyn has counted 38 points and Ken Kavanaugh of the Bears 37.

Tied at 30 points each are Art Jones of Pittsburgh and Andy Marefio of New York, who are tied with 12 points.

Twelve players are deadlocked at 24 points apiece: Jim Castiglia of Philadelphia; Johnny Hall of the Chicago Cardinals; Howard Yeager, Tuffy Leeman and George Frank of Cleveland; Pug Manders of Brooklyn; Byron Whizzer White of Detroit; Billy Conn or Gus Lesnevich at an early date, but expressed hope that he would get to fight Conn.

"I think I'll get another chance at the title," said the West Coast heavy. "I still think I'll be champion."

Nova Sees Lesnevich Or Conn Next Rival; Prefers Latter

By the Associated Press.

HOT SPRING, Ark., Dec. 2.—Lou Nova, here for an extended stay, said today he was waiting to hear from his manager, Ray Carlin, regarding his next bout.

The California contender said that he expected to fight with either Billy Conn or Gus Lesnevich at an early date, but expressed hope that he would get to fight Conn.

"I think I'll get another chance at the title," said the West Coast heavy. "I still think I'll be champion."

Turned 3 Up.

The latter pair turned 3 up in the final round, and won the 10th hole. It seemed an insurmountable margin. But the old Oxford Blue that is Fisher, and the courageous man that is the Army Officer Coleman were not to be denied.

They won four holes in a row, forged into the lead at the 16th, halved the 17th and came to the 18th green 1 up. They seemed to have the match won when both reached the carpet at the 18th in two shots. Fisher knocked his chip shot 2 feet from the cup, and Coleman made a weak chip. Willet, meanwhile, was in safe position for a 4. Then Coleman missed his putt and Fisher, with the match depending on it, blew the little one.

Fisher, modest man that he is, was profuse with apologies. So was Gen. Coleman for his weak chip from the edge of the green. So the match was tied. They'll play off again at some future date. "Some time before July 4," said Frank Fisher.

"But I wish I could convince Gen. Coleman that he wasn't to blame and that maybe I, who missed a little putt, might have taken part of the blame."

The whole thing, of course, is all in fun, and all four have been getting a lot of laughs out of the situation.

Duff Winslow Win Cup.

At nearby Columbia Ed Duff, shipping attorney, and W. R. Winslow, businessman, have the laugh on H. P. Foley and L. F. Hurley. The first-named pair won the 1941 leg on a neat little chunk of silver put up for competition between the four men.

They are inseparable links companions and some time ago they chipped in to buy a trophy which would be emblematic of supremacy between the two best ball combines.

On the surface of the big mug are symbolic representations of the business of each. It happens to be one of the unique cups at Columbia.

Duff and Winslow are the champs for this year. They have the laugh on Foley and Hurley. And are they enjoying it?

Fred McLeod, Columbia pro, isn't going to catch up with his 1937 record, when the North Berwick Scotsman played 553 rounds in a single year.

"Doubt if I'll average a round a day this year," said Freddie. "But at that I will have played a lot of golf."

That is true, for when a fellow is touching the 60-year mark, as Freddie is, a round a day averages looms pretty large. Many of Freddie's rounds of golf are played with William W. Hinshaw, the towering office executive, who plays every day golf is possible. And it has been possible a good bit this year.

McLeod Breaks 70.

Freddie hasn't been playing too badly lately. He has scored several rounds lately in the high 60s, and hasn't been putting with his usual brilliance. When you look over

Up-and-Down Liberty Cup Golf Final at Chevy Chase Is Tied

Fisher-Coleman, Trailing Willett-Miller At Turn, Go Ahead, Then Fizzle at 18th

By WALTER McCALLUM.

The final golf tournament of the year around Washington ended in a tie. When it will be played off isn't yet certain, and meanwhile apologies are burning up the telephone wires between two partners who were licked at the tenth hole, had the match won at the eighteenth, and missed their chance.

Franklin L. Fisher, National Geographic Society executive, and Gen. F. W. Coleman laugh about it today, but it was grim business for them as they came from away back to the Liberty Cup tournament final at the Chevy Chase Club to square a match they thought they had lost, forge ahead and then miss a winning chance on the final hole.

The background is this: For weeks J. P. Willett and G. B. Miller have been in the final round of the tournament, awaiting the result of the other semifinal match in which P. S. Riddsdale and Gen. Coleman were to meet Eric Taff and C. G. Warfield. Riddsdale has been ill, and at the last moment his place was taken by Fisher. They licked Taff and Warfield, 4 and 3, to enter the final against Willett and Miller in the handicap tournament.

The latter pair turned 3 up in the final round, and won the 10th hole. It seemed an insurmountable margin. But the old Oxford Blue that is Fisher, and the courageous man that is the Army Officer Coleman were not to be denied.

They won four holes in a row, forged into the lead at the 16th, halved the 17th and came to the 18th green 1 up. They seemed to have the match won when both reached the carpet at the 18th in two shots. Fisher knocked his chip shot 2 feet from the cup, and Coleman made a weak chip. Willet, meanwhile, was in safe position for a 4. Then Coleman missed his putt and Fisher, with the match depending on it, blew the little one.

Fisher, modest man that he is, was profuse with apologies. So was Gen. Coleman for his weak chip from the edge of the green. So the match was tied. They'll play off again at some future date. "Some time before July 4," said Frank Fisher.

"But I wish I could convince Gen. Coleman that he wasn't to blame and that maybe I, who missed a little putt, might have taken part of the blame."

The whole thing, of course, is all in fun, and all four have been getting a lot of laughs out of the situation.

Duff Winslow Win Cup.

At nearby Columbia Ed Duff, shipping attorney, and W. R. Winslow, businessman, have the laugh on H. P. Foley and L. F. Hurley. The first-named pair won the 1941 leg on a neat little chunk of silver put up for competition between the four men.

They are inseparable links companions and some time ago they chipped in to buy a trophy which would be emblematic of supremacy between the two best ball combines.

On the surface of the big mug are symbolic representations of the business of each. It happens to be one of the unique cups at Columbia.

Duff and Winslow are the champs for this year. They have the laugh on Foley and Hurley. And are they enjoying it?

Fred McLeod, Columbia pro, isn't going to catch up with his 1937 record, when the North Berwick Scotsman played 553 rounds in a single year.

"Doubt if I'll average a round a day this year," said Freddie. "But at that I will have played a lot of golf."

That is true, for when a fellow is touching the 60-year mark, as Freddie is, a round a day averages looms pretty large. Many of Freddie's rounds of golf are played with William W. Hinshaw, the towering office executive, who plays every day golf is possible. And it has been possible a good bit this year.

McLeod Breaks 70.

Freddie hasn't been playing too badly lately. He has scored several rounds lately in the high 60s, and hasn't been putting with his usual brilliance. When you look over

Three Nearby Layouts Help to Relieve Jam On Public Courses

Still Room Around Capital For First-Rate 18-Hole Links for Golf Hungry

For years around the National Capital, the golfers who didn't belong to private clubs had to play the public layouts in Potomac Park, Rock Creek Park or Anacostia Park, get an invitation to a private club, or not play. But the situation is different now. While there's still room for a first-class 18-hole pay-as-you-play course somewhere around the rim of the golf-hungry Capital, there are several nearby layouts where a gent with dove fingering tendencies can lay a coin on the line and play the game.

Three pay-as-you-play courses are available in nearby Virginia and Maryland nowadays, while a few Washington public linksmen, wishing more length and improved courses over those in the city proper, go to Baltimore to play the municipally operated Mount Pleasant course, or to Elliott City to use a public course there.

Public courses around Washington now are: Bradley Hills Country Club, on Bradley boulevard, in Montgomery County, about 2 miles from the Congressional Country Club; White Flint Country Club, on the Rockville pike, about 6 miles from the District line; Fairfax Country Club, near Fairfax, Va., near the intersection of the Lee boulevard and the Lee highway.

All of these courses are good, and Bradley Hills, now a 9-hole layout, will be lengthened into an 18-hole course next spring. If play warrants, the present 9-hole Fairfax course also will be stretched to a full-length course.

Many public linksmen now play these layouts because of congestion on courses within the city proper, and the time required to play 18 holes. Some have said six to eight hours is required to finish 18 holes on a Sunday on the courses in the city.

D. C. Postal Receipts At New High Mark During November

Eleven-Month Total Also Breaks Record For That Period

By EDWARD C. STONE.

During November and the first 11 months of this year receipts at the city post office again established two new all-time records, it was learned today.

Revenues in November totaled $723,635.15 in comparison with $731,914.45 in November, 1940, a surprising gain of $93,138.70, or 12.72 per cent, postal officials announced.

No other November has ever approached this figure, with the exception of October, it was the highest income of any month in 1941.

Postal revenue for the first 11 months reached $8,500,755.01, in comparison with $7,491,606.53 in a corresponding period a year ago, a sensational advance of $1,009,148.68.

Officials said today that the November upswing was not due to Christmas business, which has had little effect on postal revenues up to this time, it was due to normal business conducted by the Government.

America First Group Will Back Anti-War Candidates in '42

Committee Emphasizes It Will Not Attempt To Build Third Party

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—The America First Committee reported last night that it would take a hand in the 1942 congressional elections by supporting Senators and Representatives who "have kept faith with the people's mandate to avoid participation in the war."

The committee said flatly in announcing the program, that "it will not be used as an attempt to build a third political party."

The organization, opposed to American intervention in conflicts abroad and sponsor of a long series of rallies in all parts of the Nation, outlined its political policies in a statement issued by its National Committee.

Threat to U. S. Way Seen. "Today America is confronted with a condition which strikes at the basic principle of the American way of life—government by consent of the governed," the manifesto set forth.

"We know from the experiences of other countries that Fascism results when the legislative branch of the Government surrenders to one man its power to make decisions for the people. In the face of this same people. In the face of this same people. In the face of this same people is to return to Congress only those Representatives who faithfully execute the people's trust."

Accordingly, the American First Committee, which has not sought to influence the election of any candidate for public office, now believes that in due time and in proper compliance with the law this policy must be changed. Efforts must be directed toward the renomination and re-election in 1942 of those Senators and Representatives in Congress who have kept faith with the people's mandate to avoid participation in war.

No Third Party Planned. "This program will be undertaken in a spirit free from partisanship and without regard to the political affiliations of the candidates. It will not be used as an attempt to build a third political party. Wholehearted support will be given to those candidates, of any political party conforming to American principles, whose records truly reflect the will of the people and the spirit and letter of the Constitution."

The statement contended that members of Congress who opposed steps toward war had been subjected to "drastic pressure by the administration," and added: "Mr. Wendell Willkie, too, has indicated his intention to attempt to purge Republican Senators and Representatives who dare to support the pledge in their own party platform against entering the war. The America First Committee, therefore, now feels it to be its duty to enable its members in any State or district to counteract these pressures and themselves to mobilize their supporters behind those public officials who oppose further steps to involve us in war."

Kenilworth Unit Backs Rail Commuter Plan

The Kenilworth Citizens' Association last night, on the motion of Mrs. Mabel Hubbel, secretary, went on record as favoring a railroad commuters' service to relieve traffic congestion.

The meeting opposed any increase in the water rents for the city, on the motion of Walter Barnes, members expressing the belief that the District already pays its full share of the tax burden for the service.

The association moved that a request be sent to the Public Utility Commission that streetcar and bus tokens be sold in lots of three for 25 cents instead of the present rate of six for 50 cents. This, it decided, would give the temporary worker and those of little means a chance to save on transportation costs by putting token rates within their reach. President Charles M. Maize proposed that the commission also institute better service for the Kenilworth area. A continuation of the 15-minute schedule until 11 p.m. and a peak-hour schedule from 4 to 7 p.m. was asked.

The group moved that a cement sidewalk be laid on Kenilworth avenue and Olive street N.E. The meeting was held at the Kenilworth school.

1941 High Mark to Be Surpassed Next Year, Commerce Predicts

The value of machinery produced in the United States this year will reach an all-time high of $11,000,000,000, or $4,000,000,000 above the 1929 peak, the Commerce Department estimated today.

This estimate covers industrial, electrical, farm, printing and office machinery, but does not include machinery used in the manufacture of automobiles, trucks, airplanes, ships, locomotives, railway and other transportation equipment. The unprecedented demand for machinery for defense purposes, the department stated, means that production necessarily will be restricted during the emergency only by the availability of raw materials and skilled mechanics, and the physical capacity of plant equipment.

Though iron and steel are the principal raw materials, the machinery industry uses a substantial part of the available supply of copper, nickel, chromium and other strategic and critical materials. Decisions must therefore be made as to whether these materials should be allocated for the expansion of productive equipment, or used directly in making airplane engines, tanks, guns, shells and ships.

With practically all skilled mechanics now employed, a further increase in machinery production is contingent on obtaining additional skilled workers, it said. The training programs of industry and the trade schools offer the only source of new recruits.

During the coming year the output of machinery will be even greater than in 1941, the department predicted.

Japan has reduced the number of standard type vessels from 7 to 2, the Commerce Department reports.

Priorities Limited
Farmers need "priority ratings" only for purchases of special classes of machinery not ordinarily used for farming, such as heavy duty electric motors.

Take a tip from the Old-Timers

Unnoticed among newer, brighter, sleeker models, you'll find a lot of faithful old Buicks that are still in service after six, eight, ten or even more years of use.

They may look sort of funny next to trim 1942 models, and they undoubtedly don't get off as fast on the lights.

But it's worth noting that these sturdy old Buicks are still running, still serving faithfully and well.

a rugged, long-lived, extra-efficient valve-in-head, though it is now made better by FIREBALL combustion.

They have the same dependable drive—a stout torque tube encasing a sturdy steel shaft stretching its unbroken length from transmission to rear axle.

Frames are fundamentally the same now as then; brakes, though hydraulic now, use the same, efficient, self-energizing action. These Old-Timers even used the same piston material.

All the factors that make for strength and long life are present today as in the past—plus such further advances as all-coil springs that never lose their comfort, Domite pistons that squeeze more good from gasoline, Compound Carburetion that spells peak economy with unmatched reserve power.

There's more comfort, more convenience, more beauty, more power in these '42 models—dollar for dollar there's far more value than the old-timers had.

But what counts most, in view of what seems ahead, is that they're still Buicks—tough, rugged, dependable—good to the last mile.

Take a look at what your next car is likely to be up against and ask yourself if it isn't smart to get a car right now that you'll some day know as "old faithful."

Plan to Shift U. S. Agencies Hit at Hearing

Budget and Labor Officials Call Proposal Unwise

Four witnesses, three from the Labor Department and one from the Budget Bureau, testified at hearings today on proposed decentralization of Federal agencies. They said it would be practically impossible to further decentralize their units and that they could be transferred elsewhere only with extreme loss in efficiency and tremendous increase in cost.

Frederick J. Lawton, administrative assistant to the director of the Budget Bureau, explained that this agency has no field offices as all of the staff is in Washington actively engaged in obtaining estimates from heads of various Government bureaus on which to base appropriations.

He pointed out that while normally this force is working for three and a half months on hearings preliminary to drafting the Federal budget, they are now continuously busy due to supplemental and deficiency appropriation requests. They also are called upon by many agencies and by Congress so they are practically indispensable in Washington for operation of the Government, Mr. Lawton said.

Two Big Reasons Given. If moved elsewhere, he said, they could not conduct hearings without bringing a very large number of the most important officials in the Government service to them. He emphasized also that the director is constantly in contact with the White House discussing various appropriations.

Questioned by Representative Bishop of Illinois as to how many persons are employed in the Budget Bureau, Mr. Lawton said there are 270 and this force has increased approximately 85 due to defense activity. Asked if any pressure had been brought on the bureau for decentralization he answered, "No."

Mr. Lawton was a witness before the subcommittee headed by Representative Boykin of Alabama.

Hearing to Continue Tomorrow. Three witnesses before the subcommittee headed by Representative Downs of Connecticut were Verne A. Zimmer, in charge of the Division of Labor Standards; L. Metcalf Walling of the Division of Public Contracts and H. C. Colwell, regional director of the United States Conciliation Service.

The hearing will be continued before both subcommittees tomorrow. Other officials from the Labor Department invited to testify before the subcommittee are from the Bureau of Labor Statistics and the Children's and Women's Bureaus.

Navy Launches 33 Ships In Month; 52 Keels Laid. The Navy revealed today it had laid the keels of 52 vessels, launched 33 and commissioned 5 during November.

The month's activities included keels laid for 1 cruiser, 9 destroyers, 3 submarines, 15 mine-sweepers, 2 motor-driven mine-sweepers, 1 coastal mine-sweeper, 13 submarine chasers, 2 fleet tugs, 2 covered lighters, 2 harbor tugs, 1 floating workshop and 1 open lighter.

Besides the battleship Indiana and cruiser Cleveland, 13 other regional vessels were launched: Four destroyers, 1 submarine, 4 coastal mine-sweepers, 8 motor mine-sweepers, 2 submarine chasers, 1 covered lighter, 3 floating workshops, 3 seaplane tenders and 5 submarine chasers.

Commissioners included 1 destroyer, 1 submarine, 1 coastal mine-sweeper, 1 net tender and 1 floating workshop.

Judge Rebukes Officers On Improper Charge. Judge John P. McMahon in Police Court yesterday took local police to task for failing to enter the proper charges of setting up a gambling table against gamblers.

Five defendants appeared before Judge McMahon on charges of disorderly conduct for participating in a gambling game. However, operators of the tables, who also had been charged with disorderly conduct, failed to appear, having forfeited $25 collateral each.

After fining the defendants $5 each, Judge McMahon told the arresting officers "you fellows had better get busy or I'm going to speak to the superintendent of police. The only way to break up these gambling games is to bring in the proprietors and charge them with setting up a gambling table. You charge them with disorderly conduct and they don't appear in court because they choose to forfeit a small collateral."

The judge added he did not expect to complain to headquarters for the time being, but said he was "going to watch these cases with much interest from now on." A person convicted of setting up a gambling table faces a maximum penalty of $500 fine, a year in jail, or both.

Waitresses Advised to Copy Duchess as Model of Grace

State Is Chosen to Lead Off Nation in Defense Phase

Maryland defense officials today mapped plans to carry out a Federally sponsored drive to salvage scrap metal, waste paper, rags and rubber, as an example to the rest of the Nation.

Lessing J. Rosenwald, chief of the Bureau of Industrial Conservation of the Office of Production Management, last night announced selection of Maryland as the State for launching the program.

The program will be carried out by a State Salvage Committee, shortly to be announced as a new division of the Maryland Defense Council. The Federal bureau will provide information and promotional material for widespread distribution to homes, shops, farms and factories in every section of the State.

Movement to Spread. Shortly after the Maryland program gets under way, the bureau will start similar efforts in other States on the East Coast and, finally, in every section of the country. Bureau officials emphasized that the salvage program will not be in the nature of a short-term campaign or drive, but will be aimed at a continuing "war against waste" for the duration of the emergency.

Chairman W. Frank Roberts of the Maryland Defense Council is issuing invitations to a meeting in Baltimore at 8 p. m. December 9 when Federal officials will outline the details of the program. Mr. Rosenwald and Herbert L. Gutterman, chief of the general salvage branch of the bureau, will be present. More than 100 persons are expected to attend the session, including representatives of the waste materials industry and of charitable agencies which partially support themselves by collecting salvage, as well as a number of civic leaders.

Roberts is expected to announce the appointment of the State Salvage Committee at the meeting. The committee will be headed by a chairman and an executive secretary, the latter to serve as a liaison officer between Washington and the State organization, it was understood.

Separate Baltimore Unit. A separate salvage committee for Baltimore City will also be set up, and as rapidly as possible thereafter additional local committees will be formed throughout the State in every case stemming from local defense councils.

All Marylanders will be urged to save scrap metals of all kinds, waste paper, rubber tubes and old tires, Mr. Rosenwald said, and to sell them through local dealers. Those accustomed to giving their waste to philanthropic agencies which normally collect such materials will be instructed to continue the practice, he added. In either of these routes, it was pointed out, the salvage will be directed rapidly into production, thus conserving materials critically needed in the defense program.

Practically all scrap metals, in whatever form they may be, are seriously needed by our defense industries today, Mr. Rosenwald declared. "Iron, steel, copper, zinc, lead, aluminum and chromium are in tremendous and constantly increasing demand by the plants producing our planes, tanks, gun and other defense weapons."

"When it is realized that even in peace times steel mills rely upon the return of scrap metals for about one-third of their raw materials, it is obvious that the present vast expansion in production demands the whole-hearted co-operation of the entire Nation in safeguarding that none of the materials so vitally needed are wasted or destroyed."

The court suspended for three years imposition of sentences on George Beasley and Melvin Thomas Cropper, indicted jointly for theft of Government property, a charge involving landscaping equipment from the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway.

The suspension was made conditional on good behavior and also dependent on Beasley's payment of $9 weekly and Cropper's payment of $3 weekly for 16 weeks.

Others Indicted. Others indicted include Allen H. Duval, drunk and reckless driving; Walter Lewis Bayliss, violating the National Motor Vehicle Act; Clarence Grimes, theft of personal property on a Government reservation; Fred Hale, a morals charge; William Turpin, murder on a Government reservation; Edgar De Witt Marshall, violating National Motor Vehicle Act; and Bradley Williams and Harry Vaught, indicted jointly for assault and robbery on a Government reservation.

John M. George of Arlington County was admitted to practice before the court. Fred Barstein was named grand jury foreman.

Other indictments returned, which are to be tried at other divisions of the court, included one against Harry Kipp and others for violating the National Motor Vehicle Act in Richmond; Frank E. Conrad and Henry M. Creevy, indicted separately, theft from a mail receptacle, and Kinzo Otto De Vontenne, attempted extortion, to be tried at Norfolk; Arnold Harris and Randolph Gray, indicted separately, violating internal revenue laws, to be tried at Newport News.

Contractor Rejects Counsel at Trial on Manslaughter Charge

Represents Self as Federal Court Opens at Alexandria

By a Staff Correspondent of The Star. ALEXANDRIA, Va., Dec. 2.—An Arlington County building contractor acted as his own counsel to defend himself against a manslaughter charge involving a traffic death when the United States Court for the Eastern District of Virginia convened here today.

A Federal grand jury returned a manslaughter indictment against William H. Bacon, Jr., in June for the traffic death nearly a year ago of John Henry Clapdoor, 80, on the Mount Vernon Memorial highway about a mile south of Alexandria.

Mr. Bacon was represented by himself at a previous hearing before the United States commissioner, but obtained the court's permission to represent himself on the charge brought against him by the grand jury. He was expected to take the stand in his own behalf later today.

The grand jury for the December term yesterday indicted Eugene Daniel Myers, Jr., on a charge of uttering threats against the President in the presence of two acquaintances. The case is to be tried at the Richmond division of the court at a later date.

Escaped Prisoners Sentenced. The jury has filed true bills against nearly a score of persons. Those indicted, and who were sentenced by Judge Luther B. Way yesterday, were James Satterwhite, who pleaded guilty to escaping from the District of Columbia Workhouse at Occoquan, six months in jail at the expiration of his present sentence; George A. Gilroy, a similar charge, sentenced to a year and a day in a Federal penitentiary at the expiration of his present sentence; James Marshall Calvert, a similar charge and sentence; Clyde L. Finklin, alias Clyde L. Finkler, a similar charge, given 18 months in a Federal penitentiary at the expiration of his present sentence, and Thomas Engle, a similar charge and sentence. All of the escaped prisoners entered pleas of guilty.

The court suspended for three years imposition of sentences on George Beasley and Melvin Thomas Cropper, indicted jointly for theft of Government property, a charge involving landscaping equipment from the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway.

The suspension was made conditional on good behavior and also dependent on Beasley's payment of $9 weekly and Cropper's payment of $3 weekly for 16 weeks.

Campaign to Salvage Paper Given Indorsement of Officials

Collection Begins Tomorrow in D. C. Schools

Enthusiastic approval by local and Federal officials, among them Leon Henderson, administrator of the Office of Price Administration, today spurred plans for the opening tomorrow of the first wholesale waste paper collection campaign in Washington since the World War.

Mr. Henderson suggested in his indorsement of the drive that Washington was setting an example which might be copied with benefit in other parts of the country.

The program to collect waste paper being sponsored by the District of Columbia Parent-Teacher Association, in co-operation with the Washington Star, has its full indorsement, he said. "The defense program has increased the consumption of paper so much that it has become imperative to expand the collection of waste paper wherever possible. The program being undertaken here should add importantly to the collection of waste paper and may well become a model for similar efforts elsewhere in the country."

Under the plan waste paper will be collected by children and brought to their schools, where it will be picked up by a dealer, who will pay prevailing rates for it. All proceeds will go to the school organizations to be used as they see fit. The paper will be sent to processing factories for manufacture of cartons which will be used for other purposes designed to lessen the paper shortage now existing in this country.

The sponsors explained that the campaign is not designed to interfere with the co-ordination and now engaged in waste paper collection. It is aimed, they said, to salvage the 95 per cent of scrap paper which authorities on the subject estimate is burned in incinerators and otherwise destroyed.

The paper must be securely tied with heavy cord when brought to the schools. Newspapers, cardboard boxes and similar material should be placed in one bundle and magazines, catalogues and books in another.

First Collection Tomorrow. Elsewhere in the Star will be found the list of schools as they have been divided into districts, with the day of collection for each district noted. The first collections will be made tomorrow, starting with district No. 3. On Thursday district No. 4 will be scheduled, and so on, with collections made every week on the day designated. The schools will be visited in the order in which they are listed.

Mr. Henderson's indorsement of the project was accompanied by that of several civic and District government leaders, all of whom described the campaign as a worthy project from the standpoint both of national defense and local school programs.

While praising it from the defense angle, Commissioner Guy Mason pointed out that if carried out on the large scale proposed it also should aid the District Government by reducing trash collections.

In a notice sent out to all school officers today Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of District schools, gave a full explanation of the plan and recalled that it would be carried on partially in the interest of national defense and partially in the interest of Parent-Teacher and Home and School Associations.

"The aid to defense," he said, "will eventuate in two directions. There is developing already a shortage of cartons in this country. Thousands of cartons would be employed in shipments to Britain, where the paper shortage is worse than here. Thus both countries will benefit."

Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, president of the District Board of Education, cited in her indorsement the benefit which will be afforded by the campaign to the children themselves.

"The paper-saving campaign has a very good effect of training children to be thrifty and careful about waste," she commented. "It makes them understand that even small pieces of paper must be conserved

Collection Routes In Salvage Plan

Below is the list of districts, the order of collection and the days on which the districts will be visited in the P.-T. A.-Evening Star paper salvage program.

District No. 1 (Monday). Orr, Anacostia Junior-Senior High, Ketcham, Van Buren, Birney, Congress Heights, Garfield, Stanton, Randle Highlands, Chamberlain Vocational, Payne, Bryan, Buchanan, Cranch, Tyler, Van Ness, Snyfax, A. and will inculcate habits of thrift that will last them a lifetime. Boys and girls can learn this lesson of care for small details of conserving materials as a habit to continue always."

Mrs. P. C. Ellett, president of the District Congress of Parents and Teachers, said she "heartily indorsed" the plan.

Goet Children a Part. "The strength of the Nation is inherent in the spirit of its people," she added. "This opportunity for children and youths to participate in a city-wide waste paper conservation program will cause them to be more conscious of the fact that they have a definite part in the national defense program. The local parent-teacher association will at the same time receive funds which can be used in many worthwhile projects for the benefit of school children."

Equally as strong indorsement was voiced by Mrs. Alice Hunter, president of the Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations.

"Each fall the Federation of P.-T. A. is faced with the problem of assisting the local P.-T. A. to furnish shoes, clothing, eyeglasses, Thanksgiving baskets, Christmas baskets and toys for their children needing such relief in those schools," Mrs. Hunter said. "Although we do the very best we can, all are never helped. We believe this campaign promoted by The Star to reclaim waste paper for the defense program and at the same time allow the P.-T. A. the benefit of the receipts is a very welcome project in which we are happy to be participants.

"Citizens of this great Nation, let us accumulate all waste paper other than that soiled with grease and, while tying them in bundles to be taken to our schools, keep before us two thoughts. The first is that this much we do for our country, realizing as a result of our efforts freedom of thought and expression, as well as equal rights for all people, are safeguarded. That's preserving a democracy. The other is that the money received from each 100 pounds of paper will help our organizations shoe, clothe, give happiness and nutrition to those children in our schools in need."

Approval Sends Retirement Bill To Senate Side

Senate Committee Gets Ramspeck Plan As House Acts

By JAMES E. CHINN. The Senate Civil Service Committee had before it for consideration today the House-approved Ramspeck bill providing drastic revision in the Government employee retirement system. The House passed it unanimously yesterday without debate.

The legislation blankets into the civil service retirement setup all officers and employees of the executive, judicial and legislative branches of the Federal Government (elected or appointed, which includes members of Congress) as well as those in the District government not now covered under other retirement acts. It also raises the employee contributions to the retirement annuity fund from 3 1/2 to 5 per cent.

The compulsory retirement age is set at a uniform 70 years after 15 years' service, unless continued by executive order.

Five Retirement Classes. The bill's sponsor, Representative Ramspeck, Democrat of Georgia, said inclusion of members of Congress in the retirement system is "perfectly fair."

"We are not doing anything more for members of Congress," he added, "than we are doing for others in the Government service."

In abolishing existing law calling for compulsory retirement at 62 and 65 years of age, the bill creates five specific retirement classifications, as follows: 1. Optional retirement at 60 with at least 30 years of service.

2. Optional retirement after reaching 62 with at least 15 years of service.

3. Optional retirement by employing agencies under the above age limitations and service with right of appeal and hearing on the part of the employee before the Civil Service Commission.

4. Optional retirement after reaching 55 with 30 years of service, on a reduced annuity having a value of the present worth of the deferred annuity at the age of 60.

Bill Reported October 20. 5. Permitting qualified employees with mental and physical fitness to continue in the service until they reach 70 with at least 15 years of service when they would automatically be retired unless continued by executive order.

The Civil Service Committee, of which Mr. Ramspeck is chairman, favorably reported the bill to the House October 20 after a series of public hearings.

In its formal report urging enactment of the legislation, the committee said an extensive study had demonstrated the need for modification of several phases of the retirement law including "the standardization of retirement ages, provision for earlier option retirement than is now permissible, extension of retirement employment with a view to the co-ordination and standardization of such systems."

The report also recommended that the Civil Service Commission conduct a further study of the several retirement systems for Federal and District employees with a view to the co-ordination and standardization of such systems.

D. C. Schools Take Part In Journalism Contest. District schools will take part in a journalism contest, sponsored jointly by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association and the National Tuberculosis Association, it was announced today by the District Tuberculosis Association.

The contest is to draw attention on the problem of tuberculosis control. Six awards will be made here by the local association—three to white and three to colored schools. Judges will be Aubrey A. Graves, managing editor of The News, Ralph Matthews, managing editor of the Washington Afro-American, and Dr. A. Barkie Coulter, director of the Health Department Bureau for Tuberculosis.

For national awards, judges will be Bruce Barton, advertising agency executive; Francis X. Adams of Time Magazine; and Catherine McKenzie of the New York Times.

District W. P. A. to Drop 150 Workers Dec. 9. One hundred and fifty W. P. A. workers will be dropped from the rolls of District non-defense projects December 9 under the new December quota, it was learned yesterday.

The retrenchment, it was stated, is established on a quota of 4,500 for the month, as against 4,650 for November. Projects likely to be affected include some at Blue Plains Home for the Aged, Gallinger Hospital, the Health Department and a sewing center. A slight cut is anticipated in the artists and writers' project, it was stated.

Rev. Dr. Albert Osborn Marks 92d Birthday

Special Dispatch to The Star. WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The Rev. Dr. Albert Osborn, historian of American University, Washington, marked his 92d birthday here today with a celebration at which the guest of honor was Mrs. Anna D. Frazer of Hagerstown.

Mrs. Frazer, now 94, enjoys reminiscing with Dr. Osborn about their school experiences, including a spelling bee meeting. They try to attend each other's birthday parties each year.

Dr. Osborn, who is retired from the ministry, continues to act as historian for the Capital university, with which he has been associated since its founding. He formerly was secretary of the institution.

Last night he attended a board meeting of Washington Grove Church, of which he was a founder 31 years ago. The session was turned into a pre-birthday testimonial, and Dr. Osborn was presented a gift of books by the board.

Dr. Osborn's wife has been dead for a number of years, but a daughter, Mrs. Harry Osborn Farmer, lives with him. He has three other daughters, Mrs. J. L. Sappington and Mrs. I. L. McCathran of Washington Grove and Miss Grace Osborn of New York City, and a son, Harold H. Osborn of Syracuse, N. Y., who also is celebrating his 46th birthday anniversary.

Selectees Will Take Tests at Fort Myer

Special Dispatch to The Star. MANASSAS, Va., Dec. 2.—C. C. Cloe, chairman of the Prince William County Selective Service Board, announced today that beginning January 1 the county selectees will be sent to Fort Myer for physical examinations by Army doctors.

The outcome of the examinations will determine whether or not the men will be inducted and eliminate a second examination at the induction station in Richmond, as has been the procedure. Local physicians will not be entirely relieved of their duties, Mr. Cloe stated, since all selectees will have to undergo a checkup for defects before being ordered to Fort Myer for thorough examinations.

Mrs. Searle not only gives instructions in winning ways, but also reminding—in the case of the frowning male customer.

"I just tell them to be courteous but firm," she said. "They should ignore it if they can, but if things get really bad, they ought to tell the hostess."

Mrs. Searle, a widow who has been teaching personality ways in New Orleans and Chicago for years, also gives hints in correct makeup, in their manner of talking, on how to increase one's vocabulary and, especially, on how to smile and say "good morning" or "good afternoon."

"Of course, it's got to come from within," she says. "They've got to be really glad to see the customer."

Contractor Rejects Manslaughter Charge

By Staff Correspondent of The Star. ALEXANDRIA, Va., Dec. 2.—An Arlington County building contractor acted as his own counsel to defend himself against a manslaughter charge involving a traffic death when the United States Court for the Eastern District of Virginia convened here today.

A Federal grand jury returned a manslaughter indictment against William H. Bacon, Jr., in June for the traffic death nearly a year ago of John Henry Clapdore, 80, on the Mount Vernon Memorial highway about a mile south of Alexandria.

Mr. Bacon was represented by counsel at a previous hearing before the United States commissioner, but obtained the court's permission to represent himself on the charge brought against him by the grand jury. He was expected to take the stand in his own behalf later today.

The grand jury for the December term yesterday indicted Eugene Daniel Myers, Jr., on a charge of uttering threats against the President in the presence of a grand jury. The case is to be tried at the Richmond division of the court at a later date.

Escaped Prisoners Sentenced. The jury has fled true bills against nearly a score of persons. Those indicted, and who were sentenced by Judge Luther B. Way yesterday, were James Satterwhite, who pleaded guilty to escaping from the District of Columbia Workhouse at Occoquan, six months in jail at the expiration of his present sentence; George A. Gilroy, a similar charge, given 18 months in a Federal penitentiary at the expiration of his present sentence; James Marshall Calvert, a similar charge and sentence; Clyde L. Finklin, alias Clyde L. Finkles, a similar charge, given 18 months in a Federal penitentiary at the expiration of his present sentence; and Thomas English, a similar charge and sentence. All of the escaped prisoners entered pleas of guilty.

The court suspended for three years imposition of sentence on George Beasley and Melvin Thomas Cropper, indicted jointly for theft of Government property, a charge involving landscaping equipment from the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway.

The suspension was made conditional on good behavior and also dependent on Beasley's payment of $9 weekly and Cropper's payment of $3 weekly for 16 weeks.

Others Indicted. Others indicted include Allen H. Duvall, drunk and reckless driving; Walter Lewis Bayliss, violating the National Motor Vehicle Act; Clarence Grimes, theft of personal property on a Government reservation; Fred Hale, a morals charge; William T. Turpin, murder on a Government reservation; Edgar De Witt Marshall, violating National Motor Vehicle Act; and Bradley Williams

Chest Leaders Await Crucial Report Today

Campaign to Be Extended if Victory Eludes Workers

Community Chest campaign headquarters waited anxiously today for a crucial report at a noon meeting from volunteer solicitors who have made a desperate effort during the week end to push the fund for human needs over the top.

Faced with a shortage of $300,000 in the goal set as the minimum required to relieve suffering and carry on essential welfare activities next year, the workers hoped for a sum comparable to the record report of $350,774 made last Thursday. Unless such a report can be made, further extension of the campaign will be imperative, leaders said.

The Chest goal level stood this morning at 80.08 per cent, with 178,540 gifts pledged, a total of $1,601,630.17. The meeting was set for 12:30 at the Willard Hotel.

Each Dollar "Important." "Every hour and every dollar is important now," said Herbert L. Willett, Jr., director of the Chest. "Many Washingtonians will be dependent upon a continued flow of necessary aid for distressed citizens during the coming year."

An increasing number of requests to "please send a solicitor for my contribution" were being received at Chest campaign headquarters yesterday and today in response to newspaper and radio pleas for self-reported gifts from contributors previously not reached by a member of the campaign organization.

Government Unit Signs Hopeful. A hopeful indication in the Government Unit was seen yesterday in the fact that the Federal departments have requested additional pledge cards and give tags to be used in a final drive to obtain contributions from Government employes. The Government Unit is striving to make up $150,000 still lacking toward a $530,000 quota.

Business offices, stores and plants were taking time out from the head-long holiday rush to complete their quota for the Chest, according to reports trickling into the Group Solicitor Unit headquarters at the Willard Hotel. A sum of $130,928 must come in through Group Unit, if the present quota shortage is to be erased today.

Metropolitan Unit team workers were reported busy at their unpaid Chest solicitor jobs last night long after the supper hour, in practically every residential area of the city. The Metropolitan Unit organization needs $60,049 more in order to complete district government offices.

Strict enforcement of the 30-mile speed limit on Piney Branch road was asked in another resolution. The association voted to continue its effort to secure city mail service in the area.

Other indictments returned, which are to be tried at other divisions of the court, included one against Harry Kipp and others for violating the Internal Revenue Act to be tried at Richmond; Frank E. Conrad and Henry M. Creech, indicted separately, theft from a mail receptacle, and Kinzo Otto De Vontenne, attempted extortion, to be tried at Norfolk; Arnold Harris and Randolph Gray, indicted separately, violating internal revenue laws, to be tried at Newport News.

Collection Begins Tomorrow in D. C. Schools

Enthusiastic approval by local and Federal officials, among them Leon Henderson, administrator of the Office of Price Administration, today spurred plans for the opening tomorrow of the first wholesale waste paper collection campaign in Washington since the World War.

Mr. Henderson suggested in his introduction of the drive that Washington was setting an example which might be copied with benefit in other parts of the country.

The program to collect waste paper being sponsored by the District of Columbia Parent-Teacher Association, in co-operation with The Washington Star, has my full indorsement," he said. "The defense program has increased the consumption of paper so much that it has become imperative to expand the collection of waste paper wherever possible. The program being undertaken here should add importantly to the collection of waste paper and may well become a model for similar efforts elsewhere in the country."

Proceeds Go to Schools. Under the plan waste paper will be collected by children and brought to their schools, where it will be picked up by a dealer, who will pay prevailing rates for it. All proceeds will go to the school organizations to be used as they see fit.

The paper will be sent to processing factories in the manufacture of cartons in which ship supplies to Britain and will be used for other purposes designed to lessen the paper shortage now existing in this country.

The sponsors explained that the campaign is not designed to interfere in the least with organizations now engaged in waste paper collection. It is aimed, they said, to salvage the 95 per cent of scrap paper which authorities on the subject estimate is burned, incinerated and otherwise destroyed.

The paper must be securely tied with heavy cord when brought to the schools. Newspapers, cardboard boxes and similar material should be placed in one bundle and magazines, catalogues and books in another.

First Collection Tomorrow. Everywhere in The Star will be found the list of schools as they have been divided into districts, with the day of collection for each district noted. The first collections will be made tomorrow, starting with district No. 3, on Thursday, Dec. 4, with collections made every week on the day designated. The schools will be visited in the order in which they are listed.

Mr. Henderson's indorsement of the project was accompanied by that of several civic and District government leaders, all of whom described the campaign as a worthy project from the standpoint both of national defense and local school programs.

While praising it from the defense standpoint, Commissioner Guy Mason pointed out that if carried out on the large scale proposed it also should aid the District Government by reducing trash collections.

In a notice sent out to all school officers, Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of District schools, gave a full explanation of the plan and recalled that it would be carried on partially in the interest of national defense and partially in the interest of the children and Home and School Associations.

Benefits Both Countries. "The aid to defense," he said, "will eventuate in two directions. There is developing already a shortage of cartons in this country. Thousands of cartons would be employed in shipment to Britain, where the paper shortage is worse than here. Thus both countries will benefit."

Mrs. Henry Gratian Doyle, president of the District Board of Education, said she was glad to see the benefit which will be afforded by the campaign to the children themselves.

"The paper-saving campaign has a very good effect of training children to be thrifty and careful about waste," she commented. "It makes them understand that even small pieces of paper must be conserved and will inculcate habits of thrift that will last them a lifetime. Boys and girls can learn this lesson of care for small details of conserving materials as a habit to continue always."

Mrs. P. C. Elliott, president of the District Congress of Parents and Teachers, said she "heartily indorsed" the plan.

Give Children a Part. "The strength of the Nation is inherent in the spirit of its people," she added. "This opportunity for children and youths to participate in a city-wide waste paper conservation program will cause them to be more conscious of the fact that they have a definite part in the national defense program. The local parent-teacher association will at the same time receive funds which can be used in many worth-while projects for the benefit of school children."

Equally as strong indorsement was voiced by Mrs. Alice Hunter, president of the Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations.

"Each fall the Federation of P-T. A.s. is faced with the problem of assisting the local P-T. A.s. to furnish shoes, clothing, eyeglasses, Thanksgiving baskets, Christmas baskets and toys for their children needing such relief in their schools," Mrs. Hunter said. "Although we do the very best we can, all are never helped. We believe this campaign promoted by The Star to reclaim waste paper for the defense program and at the same time allow the P-T. A.s. the benefit of the receipts is a very welcome project in which we are happy to be participants."

"Citizens of this great Nation, let us accumulate all waste paper other than that soiled with grease and while tying them in bundles to be taken to our schools, keep before us two thoughts. The first is that this much we do for our country, realizing as a result of our efforts freedom of thought and expression, as well as equal rights for all people, are safeguarded. That's preserving a democracy. The other is that the money received from each 100 pounds of paper will help our organizations shoe, clothe, give happiness and nutrition to those children in our schools in need."

Mattress School Report. ROCKVILLE, Md., Dec. 2 (Special).—Ninety-one mattresses were made at mattress schools in Montgomery County, conducted under auspices of the University of Maryland Extension Service, the last of which was held at Laytonville today, it was announced at the office of the county home-demonstration agent here.

Reserve Head Urges Defense Bond Buying By Pay Roll Allotment

Richmond Bank Offers Plan to Its Employes, President Leach Says

By The Associated Press. RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 2.—The Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, through President Hugh Leach, has suggested that business firms might install a pay roll allotment plan as a simple and convenient method for their employes to purchase Defense savings bonds.

The bank already has offered such a plan to its own employes in the Richmond head office and in branches at Charlotte and Baltimore.

Mr. Leach further suggested that Christmas bonuses might take the form of Defense savings bonds and that Christmas savings accounts might well be invested this way.

Money so set aside would constitute a substantial backlog with which to counter forces of recession that may develop in the post-emergency period," he said.

A committee from the Virginia Education Association has been appointed by President J. F. Gray of that organization to conduct educational work about defense savings in Virginia. It is headed by Dean Edward A. Alvey of Mary Washington College, Fredericksburg.

Other members of Dr. Alvey's committee include Dabney S. Lancaster, State superintendent of public instruction; Dr. E. L. Fox of Randolph-Macon College, president of the Co-operative Education Association; Dowell J. Howard, assistant supervisor of agricultural education, Winchester; and Miss Nancy Larick, teacher in the Winchester public schools.

Virginia Changes Funds Allotted for Highways

By The Associated Press. RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 2.—Final allocations of $15,000,000 for primary road construction in 1942-43 announced by the State Highway Commission included changes for five districts in the tentative program made public in October.

The commission made no changes in the tentative program for Bristol, Richmond and Staunton districts, and in the other five districts only a few projects were added.

The changes included: Fredericksburg district: A $71,913 tentative allocation for a new bridge across the Mattaponi River at West Point cut to $551,913, the $20,000 thus obtained being allocated to route 522 in Spotsylvania County.

The route runs through Orange and Louisa Counties in the Culpeper district and the commission set up the $20,000 in the Fredericksburg district to take care of the portion of the route in that geographical area.

Culpeper district: Six projects received $1,000 to $5,000 each to provide $13,500 for continuing the opening of route 242 in Culpeper County.

Fairfax Group to Meet At Vienna Tomorrow

Special Dispatch to The Star. VIENNA, Va., Dec. 2.—The Fairfax County Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations and Civic Leagues will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Vienna School.

Division Supt. W. T. Woodson will discuss the growth of the local school system. The program will include a panel discussion in which school officials will take part.

Members of the panel, to be headed by James E. Bauseman, county elementary supervisor, will include Melvin B. Landes, Miss Helen Buckley, Mrs. Nelle Cooper, Miss Bessie Watts, Miss Marguerite Bailey, Miss Mary Alice Ankers, Mrs. Katherine Hopper, G. Claude Cox, Miss Martha Reely, Mrs. Pearl Hart, J. Wilson Johnston, Mrs. Paul Gordon, E. J. Heglar and Miss Sarah C. Smoot.

Dr. Lennig Sweet of Fairfax, president of the federation, will preside.

Names for Defense Home Units Approved

By The Associated Press. Approval of names for 17 defense housing developments was announced yesterday by the Federal Works Agency.

Among them were: Forest Glen, Md., 70 dwellings named "Glen Haven"; Falls Church, Va., 160 dwellings called "Hillwood Square"; Arlington, Va., 35 dwellings named "Memorable View Apartments."

Waste Salvage Fight to Open in Maryland

State Is Chosen to Lead Off Nation in Defense Phase

Maryland defense officials today mapped plans to carry out a Federally sponsored drive to salvage scrap metal, waste paper, rags and rubber, as an example to the rest of the Nation.

Lesling J. Rosenwald, chief of the Bureau of Industrial Conservation of the Office of Production Management, last night announced selection of Maryland as the State for launching the program.

The program will be carried out by a State Salvage Committee, shortly to be announced as a new division of the Maryland Defense Council. The Federal bureau will provide information and promotional material for widespread distribution to homes, shops, farms and factories in every section of the State.

Movement to Spread. Shortly after the Maryland program gets under way, the bureau will start similar efforts in other States on the East Coast and, finally, in every section of the country. The bureau officials emphasized that the salvage program will not be in the nature of a short-term campaign or drive, but will be aimed at a continuing "war against waste" for the duration of the emergency.

Chairman W. Frank Roberts of the Maryland Defense Council is issuing invitations to a meeting in Baltimore at 8 p.m. December 9, when Federal officials will outline the details of the program. Mr. Rosenwald and Herbert L. Gutterman, chief of the general salvage branch of the bureau, will be present. More than 100 persons are expected to attend the session, including representatives of the waste materials industry and of charitable agencies which partially support themselves by collecting salvaged items as well as a number of civic leaders.

Mr. Roberts is expected to announce the appointment of the State Salvage Committee at the meeting. The committee will be headed by a chairman and an executive secretary, the latter to serve as a liaison officer between Washington and the State organization, it was understood.

Separate Baltimore Unit. A separate salvage committee for Baltimore City will also be set up, and as rapidly as possible thereafter additional local committees will be formed throughout the State—in every case stemming from local defense councils.

All Marylanders will be urged to save scrap materials of all kinds, waste paper, rags, tubes and old tires. Mr. Rosenwald said, "It is sell them through local dealers. Those accustomed to giving their waste to philanthropic agencies which normally collect such materials will be instructed to continue the practice, he added. By either of these routes the material out the salvage will be picked rapidly into production, thus conserving materials critically needed in the defense program."

"Practically all scrap metals, in whatever form they may be, are seriously needed by our defense industry," Mr. Rosenwald said. "When it is realized that steel is produced throughout the State—in every case stemming from local defense councils.

Engineer Consultant On Utilities Body Urged by Citizens

Manor Park Association Donates $5 to The Star's Christmas Campaign

Expert technical advice on the dislocation of traffic by subways and through other projected changes in local traffic conditions was described by the Manor Park Citizens' Association last night as the pressing necessity of the Public Utilities Commission.

On the motion of George A. Corbin, the association recommended the appointment of a highly-qualified engineer as consultant to the commission to co-ordinate traffic planning programs.

The group opposed any change in the rules governing hearings before the commission which would hinder the testimony of non-legal representatives of citizens' associations who frequently have participated in the hearings in the past.

Membership Drive Indorsed. Support was pledged to the membership drive of the Federation, headed by James T. Scott, sr., president of the association, as "one of the most important things which has come up in a long time." It was suggested by Leonard L. Bowen that better results might be attained in the drive if new members were exempted from payment of association dues until the following fiscal year, but Mr. Scott declared the Federation had planned to leave this matter to the individual discretion of member organizations.

Opposition was expressed on the motion of Henry Seaquist, to changes in the zoning regulations permitting structural alterations in houses in A-restricted or semi-restricted areas which would convert private homes into rooming or boarding houses.

Asks Bus Stop Change. Mr. Corbin requested that a bus stop on the northwest corner of Third and Oglethorpe streets N.W. be moved to the southwest corner, in order to prevent property damage by bus patrons at its present location. The group renewed its plea for restoration of all bus stops in the Manor Park section.

Mr. Seaquist announced the resignation of Air-Raid Warden George Schnabel, who was said to lack sufficient time to devote to civilian defense. The local civilian Defense Committee, of which Mr. Seaquist is chairman, is expected to name the Rev. Mr. Schnabel's successor late this week.

The Star's Christmas fund was the recipient of a $5 gift from the association, and Mr. Scott was authorized to make the presentation during one of the Star's radio broadcasts. The group also agreed to participate in a community Christmas program with the Takoma Park Citizens' Association.

Architect Loses Suit Against Howard U.
 Albert I. Cassell, prominent colored architect, yesterday lost in the United States Court of Appeals a case in which a District Court jury had awarded him $19,687 against Howard University.

 The appellate court ordered the case reversed and remanded it to District Court with instructions to dismiss the complaint in which Mr. Cassell claimed compensation for managing the university's extension building program for three and a half years. Mr. Cassell brought suit against the university for $26,250 and the jury gave him $19,687. Mr. Cassell's services were part of his duties as a salaried employee in charge of construction work, the university told the court through Attorney George E. C. Hayes. The architect had failed to file his suit within the required time and so it was outlawed by the statute of limitations, the university declared. Yesterday's decision was written by Chief Justice D. Lawrence Groner with Associate Justices Justin Miller and Henry W. Edger-ton joining in.

First Aid Courses Set Record Attendance

More people have taken first-aid courses during the past three months than in any previous year. E. M. Maxwell, chairman of the Red Cross Defense Service of the District of Columbia, told a class at St. Gertrude's School last night. Standard 24-hour courses are now being offered at 73 different locations, and the number is growing daily, he said.

By co-ordinating the activities of women's first-aid societies, religious groups, university student units and others with its own, the Red Cross plans eventually to establish a first-aid station in every moderate-sized structure in the District, Mr. Maxwell said.

During the last few months special Red Cross units, which include 318 volunteers in addition to regular staff members, have covered service men's get-togethers, theaters, open-air concerts and other mass meetings. As many as 30 details have been sent out on a single night, Mr. Maxwell revealed.

Small, Informal Parties Crowd Social Calendar Of Capital This Season

The social calendar continues crowded with small and informal parties. Few, however, are without officials and diplomats, which after all gives a certain amount of formality to each occasion.

A few of the socially-prominent are out of town and taking part in various forms of entertainment. Mrs. Truxtun Beale is in New York, where last evening she was among the guests at dinner of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius V. Dresselhuys who entertained in their apartment in the Plaza Hotel. The dinner preceded the opening of the Ice Follies and Mr. and Mrs. Dresselhuys later took their guests to the performance. Others in their party were Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, the former Polish Ambassador, Count Jerzy Potocki, Mr. and Mrs. Dickson Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert van Roisen and Capt. John Phillips.

Also entertaining before the Ice Follies was former Representative Ruth Baker Pratt, who has returned to unofficial life and now is known as Mrs. John T. Pratt. Her dinner guests were entertained in her home, River House.

Mr. and Mrs. Huston Rawls Hosts to Lester Perrins

Mr. and Mrs. Huston Rawls, the latter formerly Miss Frances Williams of Washington, were hosts at dinner last evening entertaining at their home in Aiken, S. C. Their party was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Perrin, who arrived there yesterday for an autumn visit at Willcox's.

Also at Willcox's for the autumn is Mr. Percy Blair, director of the Anderson House, headquarters of the Society of the Cincinnati.

The Chief of the Bureau of Navigation and Mrs. Chester W. Nimitz are in Newport for a few days, where yesterday they received with the President of the Naval War College and Mrs. Edward C. Kerstus. Reception was the farewell fête for members of the class which was graduated today. Admiral Nimitz made the principal address at the ceremony today and with Mrs. Nimitz will return tomorrow.

Thursday, Earl W. Bunker Hunt and Mrs. Nimitz were honor guests at luncheon of Capt. and Mrs. Andrew C. McFall who entertained at the Quonset Air Base.

Admiral and Mrs. Kalbfus were hosts at luncheon today following the graduating exercises.

George Abell Honors Maj. Gen. Gullion

The Army took the lead in parties in Washington yesterday when Maj. Gen. Allen W. Gullion, who took over his new post as provost marshal of the Army, was the guest in whose honor Mr. George Abell entertained in the late afternoon. The guests were many and included not only fellow officers of the Army, but many of the military attaches of foreign embassies and legations in Washington, with a goodly number of hostesses prominent in resident circles.

Dinner time was a favorite for parties and probably the largest of these was given by Mrs. Lionel Atwell, entertaining in the home of her mother, Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, in honor of the United States Minister to Sweden and Mrs. Frederick Sterling, her guests included Associate Justice and Mrs. Stanley F. Reed, Representative and Mrs. Martin Dies, Representative and Mrs. Albert Thomas, the Commandant of the Navy Yard and Mrs. George T. Pettungill, the chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, Gen. and Mrs. Conger Pratt, Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Ide, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrant, Miss Louise Boyd, Sir Howard Dingville, Mr. Lucius Humphries, Mr. Lothrop Stoddard, Mr. William Wedgwood Wood of the New York and Mr. James H. R. Cromwell, brother of the hosts.

Venezuelan Envoy Gives Luncheon For Dr. Bennett

The Venezuelan Ambassador, Dr. Diogenes Escalante, was host yesterday at luncheon in honor of Dr. Hugh H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service of the Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Bennett will leave for Venezuela in a few days on a technical mission to set up a plan for soil conservation in that country. He will be accompanied by other experts, who also attended the luncheon. They include Dr. Donald H. Hubbel, Mr. William X. Hull and Mr. James E. Caudie.

Others at the luncheon were Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan American Union; Mr. E. G. Colado and Mr. L. L. Satterthwaite from the State Department; Dr. Ralph H. Allee and Dr. E. W. Branford from the Department of Agriculture; Mr. Philip Green, from the Office of the Co-ordinator of Inter-American Relations; Mr. Jose L. Colom, chief of the Division of Agricultural Co-operation of the Pan American Union; Mr. Robert A. Knowlton of the United Press and Mr. Luis Coll Paro and Dr. Luis E. Gomez Huiz from the Embassy staff.

Weddings Of Interest In Capital

Among recent weddings of interest is that of Miss Theresa Matilda Romano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale J. Romano of this city, and Mr. George Livingston Ridgley, son of Mrs. Lillian Ridgley of Hillside, Md. St. Gabriel's Church was the scene of the ceremony, which took place Sunday afternoon, with the Rev. William Sweeney officiating at a setting of white chrysanthemums and palms.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin with a tulle of seed pearls holding her veil, and carried a bouquet of white orchids and gardenias.

Miss Josephine Romano was her sister's maid of honor, wearing a gown of turquoise blue with matching wreath and veil, and she carried talisman roses. Miss Helen Sullivan and Miss Marjorie Beauchamp, the bridesmaids, wore rose color dresses with matching head-dresses and carried golden chrysanthemums.

Theresa Mancuso was the flower girl, dressed in an aqua colored frock, with a pink wreath on her hair. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of pink roses and sweet peas.

Mr. Robert Lee Mason acted as best man, and the ushers were the bride's brother, Mr. Peter Paul Romano, and Mr. James Boss.

A reception for 200 guests followed at the Admiralty Club.

Miss Esther Gulick Wed To Mr. Winston Mooney

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gulick of Chevy Chase, Md., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Esther Moore Gulick, to Mr. Winston Clark Mooney on November 15 in the Chevy Chase Baptist Church. The Rev. Edward O. Clark officiated. The wedding music was played by Miss Gertrude Sherman.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and her sister, Miss Beatrice Gulick, was her only attendant. Mr. Mark Mooney was best man for his brother.

Only members of the immediate family and intimate friends were present at the wedding and the reception which was held later at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is a student at the University of Maryland. Her husband is employed in the legal division of the Social Security Board in Washington.

Baker of Brockton, Mass., took place Thursday at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Garrison W. Bell in Gaithersburg, Md. The Rev. Frank Y. Jagers, pastor of Anacostia Methodist Church, officiated.

Mrs. Bell played the wedding

MRS. FREDERICK K. SPARROW AND MRS. WILLIAM CHANNING JOHNSON. Mrs. Johnson presides at the tea table to serve the members of the Board of Lady Managers of the Episcopal Church Home, following their meeting. The board, composed of a group from each Episcopal church in the diocese, plans a benefit lecture Thursday evening in the small ballroom of the Willard Hotel. Mr. John V. Hanson is donating his services and will give an illustrated lecture on "The Glory of the National Parks." Mrs. Sparrow is a member of All Saints' Board and Mrs. Johnson is president of the Managing Board of the home.

Women Told Of Price Bill

Declaring the price-control bill passed by the House had lost much of its original "bite," Mrs. May Thompson Evans, chief of the consumers relations section, Office of Price Administration, yesterday stressed the need for a "workable bill" that can be administered quickly.

Mrs. Evans addressed a meeting of the economic welfare department of the District Voteless League of Women Voters at league headquarters, describing both the original bill and legislation as it passed the House in its amended form.

Predicting the legislation would not pass the Senate before January, the speaker suggested that in the meantime housewives and others inform members of the Senate of their wishes in regard to price control.

Mrs. Evans especially deplored the present omission of proposed licensing provisions in the bill and the setting up of a board of review over the administrator.

"Some price rises are inevitable as civilian supplies are turned over to military needs, and all of us are glad to make sacrifices in these cases," Mrs. Evans said. "But none of us want to make sacrifices for the profit of others."

Envoy Voices Optimism for Reciprocity

20th Century Club Hears Dr. Castro Of El Salvador

Neither differences of race, religion nor language should prove obstacles to reciprocal understanding among the nations of the Western Hemisphere, Dr. Hector David Castro, Minister of El Salvador, declared yesterday.

Speaking before members of the international relations section of the Twentieth Century Club at the Y. W. C. A., Dr. Castro expressed optimism regarding the success and solidarity of the Pan-American Union, whose problems, he said, in the present emergency "affect the whole world."

"The Americas have proven by their history the remarkable blending of blood" which has occurred with happy results, he asserted. Religion should prove a bond of understanding "rather than a barrier to our reciprocal approach," he added.

"The message of love embodied in the Christian doctrine is meant to unite peoples and not to separate them," he remarked.

To the question—should differences of language prove a formidable obstacle to the Pan-American movement?—Dr. Castro pronounced an emphatic "no."

"Aside from the fact that persons in the United States are studying Spanish and those in the Latin American countries are studying English, the only thing necessary to make the countries understand each other is for them to realize they are striving toward the same goal," he continued.

"The essential thing for every one of our nations to feel is that the purposes and activities of the others are not inimical to their own," he continued, "and for each nation in shaping its foreign policy to take due consideration of the interests of others, as only upon this sound basis can we have unity of purpose, which is the fundamental condition for the success of any Pan-American program."

Dr. Castro answered questions at the conclusion of his talk about conditions in El Salvador. He told how the stabilization of coffee prices and permanent sales to the United States, though limited, had helped his country since the curtailment of exports to Europe. He also pointed out how his countrymen, realizing the weakness of "putting all eggs in one basket," had added cotton growing to the nation's production program and were also manufacturing coffee bags from a native plant instead of importing them from England, as was customary before the war.

Dr. Castro was introduced by Mrs. Karl Fenning, chairman of the section.

Colonists to Meet

A talk on Indian education will be presented by Mrs. Loren Edgar Rex, national chaplain, Daughters of the American Colonists, before members of the society here at 8 p.m., December 8, at the home of Mrs. Harry Colfax Grove, 2708 Cathedral avenue N.W. Mrs. Grove will be assisted by Mrs. Rex H. Rhoades, Miss Elizabeth Groves and Mrs. William B. Sinnott.

A program of Christmas music has been arranged by Mrs. Catherine E. Nagle.

Greenbelt Club

"Christmas in the Americas" will be the theme of a program to be presented at a dessert luncheon of the Woman's Club of Greenbelt Thursday at the home of Mrs. Edward C. Kalgan, 13-V Ridge road. The fine arts, American home and welfare departments will cooperate in portraying Christmas customs of South and North America.

O'Mahoney Assails Priorities as Peril To Little Business

O. P. M. Plan Means Disaster, He Warns in Radio Forum Talk

The urgent need of preserving little business against threats from the defense priority system and other unfavorable factors was pointed out last night by Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Democrat of Wyoming, in an address over the National Radio Forum. The forum, arranged by The Star and broadcast over a National Broadcasting Co. network, was heard locally over Station WJAL.

The text of Senator O'Mahoney's address follows: "This is really a talk about the preservation of the democratic order in our economic system. I do not exaggerate when I say that civilian industry in America and the free, unregulated operation of business is now facing its greatest crisis. Upon what is done by the Congress of the United States with respect to a bill now pending before the Naval Affairs Committee and upon which that committee began hearings this morning will depend the fate of the free economic system."

This bill, which was introduced last August, provides simply for a modification of the priority system so as to provide a public tribunal before which the needs of civilian industry, and particularly of little business, may be openly presented and openly discussed with the object of securing the allocation of sufficient raw materials to keep it operating.

It is necessary because under a sudden and very little publicized development in the Office of Production Management decisions affecting the very existence of private business are now being made daily in private, by appointed officials of the Office of Production Management, whose qualifications and responsibilities have never been prescribed by the Congress, the Civil Service Commission or any other regularly established Government agency.

Democratic Way in Action. The system which is coming into existence today is as different from our traditional democratic method of dealing with social, political and economic issues as day is from night. I can think of no better way of illustrating what I mean than by describing the contrasting functions of the Vice President of the United States, as the presiding officer of the Senate, and a chairman of the Supply, Priority and Allocation Board. When I speak of Vice President

Wallace, I do so wholly impersonally and with only the most sincere admiration of Mr. Wallace as a man and an official.

As the presiding officer of the United States Senate, he daily observes that body in action. He may not participate in the deliberations except when, by chance, there is a tie vote, in which event he is, by the Constitution, authorized to cast the deciding ballot. No decision is rendered in that body upon any question affecting the welfare of the people of the United States until a proposal is made publicly by some Senator, referred to a committee, where hearings may be held, and then reported to the Senate, where, in open session, it is subject to debate. That is the democratic system. That is the traditional American way of handling problems which affect the people.

When the Vice President leaves this public forum, carefully created by the Constitution and goes to the sessions of the Supply, Priority and Allocation Board, he sits behind closed doors in executive session where decisions are reached upon policies and programs which have an intimate and immediate bearing upon the social and economic lives of all of the people of the United States.

It is, for example, the function of S. P. A. B. to "determine policies and make regulations governing allocations and priorities with respect to the procurement, production, transmission or transportation of materials, articles, power, fuel and other commodities among military, economic defense, defense aid, civilian and other major demands of the total defense program."

Authoritarian Procedure. It would be difficult to imagine authority more sweeping than embodied in those decisions which I have just quoted from the executive order setting up the board of which the Vice President is the presiding officer. Yet these policies are determined and these regulations are made without any public record. By whom they may be suggested is not known to the public. Whether adopted by an unanimous or a divided vote, no one knows. If there be dissent the basis of that dissent does not become a matter of procedure. Nothing is known about the origin or development of any such decision. Only the decision itself becomes public.

The procedure in the Senate is the free, open method of parliamentary decision. The procedure in S. P. A. B. is the procedure of the authoritarian regime. The public participates in the decisions of the Congress and shares them. The public does not participate in the slightest degree in the decisions of S. P. A. B. The life and death of civilian business is governed by the acts of this board but neither the owners nor the workers are given assurance of a hearing.

That there must be an agency like S. P. A. B. to co-ordinate the defense program and the lend-lease program formally adopted by Congress after open debate, I would be the last to deny. As a member of the Senate, I have personally supported every proposal for the improvement of our national defense. I supported the lend-lease program and I supported the modification of the Neutrality Act because I believed that it is essential for America to make itself the arsenal of democracy in order to protect social, political and economic freedom.

But this I know, the sacrifices which we are making to preserve these sacred fundamental principles will be utterly vain if we permit the free economic system to be destroyed sideration of these decisions affecting priorities and allocations. Nothing will be lost, but much will be gained by the enactment of such a measure. Nothing will be lost because the proposal does not in any way detract from the defense program. Much will be gained because the adoption of the measure will be notice to all who are now fearful of the trend of events in America that the Congress of the United States is determined to preserve the democratic system.

Let me make it clear that I do not believe that any of those who direct or administer the operations of the Office of Production Management have any purpose of undermining the democratic economic system. The condition which confronts us is the result of a failure as much by Congress as by the executive arm of the Government to co-ordinate the war effort. Those who are in charge of building up the Navy and the Army are primarily concerned with the manufacture of the largest possible amount of war materials and implements in the shortest possible time. To accomplish this desirable objective they are willing to secure control of all available stocks of raw materials necessary in their program and divert these stocks from civilian industry. The result is that civilian business, and particularly little business, of needed raw materials so that inventories may be piled up to perform contracts, some of which will not be begun until late next year.

To put it in another way, the use of materials is not geared to the needs of defense contract performance, but rather to ultimate requirements. This will be clear when I point out that for the fiscal year 1941 Congress had appropriated and authorized the expenditure of more than $46,000,000,000 for defense contracts had been awarded only to the amount of $25,000,000,000 and there had been disbursed for contract performance only slightly more than $7,500,000,000. Obviously, by setting aside materials on the basis of the $46,000,000,000 authorization instead of the $25,000,000,000 contract awards, the O. P. M. has placed an absolutely unnecessary burden upon civilian industry.

Mistaken Policy. This is a mistaken policy because it has the effect, first, of seriously impairing civilian business, second, of undermining the ability of the people to pay the taxes which must ultimately finance the defense effort.

while we are carrying out the defense program. If we are to maintain democracy we must maintain the procedure of democracy in all our decisions and acts. I have faith that the people of America can be trusted to make all the sacrifices that may be necessary for defense. I believe that the people of America can be trusted to do everything that may be necessary to preserve the democratic system and I have faith in the ability of democracy to defend itself. Those who are willing to adopt totalitarian methods of organization in this country are defeatists of the most abject kind.

Unnecessary Burden. It is not necessary for America to become totalitarian in order to defend itself. Therefore I am urging upon the Senate the adoption of this bill, or some proper modification in order to make possible public con-fort, and, third, of weakening civilian morale. We are in fact arming to preserve the right of the civilian population to maintain itself in a free economy and a free society, but we destroy this very objective when we destroy the ability of society to maintain civilian industry.

The true principle is that civilian industry and defense industry must be balanced. No civilian industry should be permitted to suffer in the slightest degree unless absolutely necessary. I want to see the word go out from the Congress of the United States that little business will have the unreserved support of this Government. My conversations with members of the Senate and members of the House from all parts of the country enable me to say without the slightest qualification that it is the will of Congress that little business shall be preserved.

More than that, however, I want to report to you that the information which comes to me from a variety of sources convinces me that talk of shortages of raw materials has been grossly exaggerated. It has been necessary to the committee headed by Senator Truman by witnesses from the Office of Production Management that the requirements of small business do not exceed 6 per cent of our known supply of even the so-called strategic and critical minerals. The work of the committee on Western mineral resources indicates that we have deposits of most of the essential minerals in this country which can readily be made accessible and reports from other established agencies of the Government indicate that it is still possible to import large quantities of materials. I have been advised on the best of authority that some large industries have stocks on hand 25 per cent above normal. In these circumstances, it seems clear to me that it is utterly unnecessary to suspend or seriously impair little business.

Unnecessary limitation of the right of little business to use and to obtain raw materials by devious methods thus indicating, first, that there is no real shortage and, second, that a new temptation to break down national morale is being created.

Severe Dislocation. It is, of course, impossible in the time available to me tonight to relate even a fraction of the cases (Continued on Page B-13, Column 2)

Priorities Cast Doubt On Highway Program, Camalier Holds

Senate D. C. Committee Adviser Gives Views to Dupont Circle Unit

Renah F. Camalier, adviser for the Senate District Committee, said last night there was doubt that the Whitehurst traffic plan could be carried out because of priorities brought by the defense program.

In addressing the Dupont Circle Citizens' Association, Mr. Camalier pointed to the large amount of steel to be used in bridges and overpasses provided in the comprehensive traffic reorganization proposal.

After the meeting, he revealed to a reporter that conferences have been held with officials of the Office of Production Management and of the Bureau of Public Roads, which advises on priorities for such work. Congress now has the Whitehurst program under consideration.

Cites Forthcoming Report. Mr. Camalier also said a forthcoming report from him would reveal the "seriousness" of the situation wherein the fiscal affairs of more than 20 independent boards of the District are not fully under the supervision of the District Commissioners. A change in the independent status of most of the boards was proposed originally in the Grifenhagen reorganization plan, he said.

One of these boards, he said, collects $50,000 annually but must account for only $12,000 of it. The board pays the salaries of those which come under it from a private checking account.

"I don't know what happens to the rest of it," he added.

Says Unit to Be Named.

He emphasized, however, that he did not think there was "one bit of graft" in the District Government, but said he thought the people are entitled to know what becomes of the money collected by these independent agencies. He declined later to name the board which collects the $50,000, but said it would come out fully in his report.

"The Commissioners will be shown to have only about 60 per cent control over your affairs," he said, "whereas they should at least have their finger on every governmental agency in the District."

Another project he is working on, he said, is a proposed investigation of the water rates in the District. He hopes to get $20,000 to carry on the probe, he added.

L. M. Leisenring, president of the association, presided.

Dr. Cartwright Marks 25th Anniversary of Ordination Tomorrow

To Celebrate Mass at 12:15 P.M. at Church of Immaculate Conception

The Rev. Dr. John Keating Cartwright, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, and widely known as an educator, historian and pulpit and radio orator, will observe tomorrow the 25th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

Dr. Cartwright will be celebrant of a mass in the parish church, Eighth and N streets N.W. at 12:15 p.m. Children of the Immaculate Conception Academy and the Immaculate Conception Boys' School will attend.

The children of the two schools will present Dr. Cartwright with a spiritual bouquet as their share in the observance of their pastor's jubilee. Other parish organizations, including the Sodality and the Holy Name Society, as well as other activities with which he is connected will likewise present him with spiritual bouquets.

Dr. Cartwright was born in Baltimore, Md., on April 28, 1893, the son of Curtis Mitchell and Catherine McManus Cartwright. He attended St. Ann's School in Baltimore, Loyola High School and St. Charles College before going to the North American College in Rome, where he received his ph.D. from the University of Rome in 1913 and his S. T. D. in 1917. He was ordained in Rome on December 3, 1916.

On his return to this country in 1917 he was attached to St. Ann's Church, Baltimore, before being assigned as assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Washington, in 1920. He was named to succeed the Rev. Francis J. Hurney upon his death in 1923 as pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

Two Honolulu Areas Renamed for Admirals

Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, has directed that two recreation centers at Honolulu, T. H., be renamed for former commander in chief of the United States fleet, the Navy announced yesterday.

Navy Field now is known as Richardson Recreation Center, honoring Rear Admiral J. O. Richardson, and Navy Recreation Center is named Bloch Recreation Center in honor of Rear Admiral C. C. Bloch, commandant of the 14th Naval District, Pearl Harbor.

Acceptance of Checks As Traffic Collateral Urged by Citizens

Takoma (D. C.) Unit To Take Up Plan With Authorities

Acceptance of checks in lieu of cash as collateral at police stations in traffic cases was urged in a resolution adopted at a meeting of the Citizens' Association of Takoma, D. C., last night.

Guy A. Peterson, first vice president, brought the matter, charging the present ruling caused inconvenience on numerous occasions. The Police and Fire Committee will take the matter up with District authorities.

William H. Parsons presented a resolution, which was adopted, opposing any increase in the gasoline tax. He also reported that location of a concrete safety loading platform at the terminus of the Butternut street branch of the Capital Transit Co. had been taken up with the company.

The association endorsed a Federation of Citizens' Associations move for a membership drive in a resolution presented by William M. Greene, association secretary.

Wallace C. Magathan, president, was authorized to appoint a special committee to consider the advisability of participating in a community celebration at the Calvin Coolidge High School, in place of the annual Christmas tree program on the Whittier Playgrounds. Arthur Kriemeyer, area director of the Community Center and Playground Department, volunteered to cooperate with associations in the affair.

Bruce E. Anderson, chairman of the association's Public Utilities Committee, was designated by Mr. Magathan to represent the association at the meeting called for tomorrow at the District Building by Gregory Hankin, newly appointed chairman of the District Public Utilities Commission.

New members elected include Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Vinton, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. George H. Sprehn, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Shinn and J. E. Eldridge. The meeting was held in the Takoma Public School.

Methodists Hold Classes For Christian Workers

A Christian workers' school is being conducted this week by the Methodist churches of Alexandria, Va., in the Washington Street Methodist Church. Classes are to be held at 7:30 p.m. each day through Friday.

The program, sponsored by the Methodist Board of Education, will include four courses. Paul Berger of Roanoke will conduct a course in the "Children's Division of the Church"; "Recreational Leadership" will be taught by Mrs. Roscoe G. Johnson of Roanoke; "The Church Working With Its Adults" will be a subject taught by the Rev. C. P. Bowles of Wadesboro, N. C., and "Personal Religious Living" will be conducted by Dr. J. Earl Moreland, president of Randolph-Macon College, Ashland, Va.

Santa and the WHITE ROSE

by Sigrid Aune

The story so far: King Harald's land is unhappy because of an ill omen: an old man has attended a festival, cut a white rose in half, and turned the halves into infants. Then he disappeared.

CHAPTER TWO.

The queer story of the old man, the white rose and the two infants spread quickly through the city. It reached the White Castle, and a guardsman hurried to tell King Harald.

The King was a kindly man, who had read all the wise books. He thought he knew the meaning of the story, but he wanted to be sure, so he said: "Take me to the grandmother in the square. She has lived longer than I and surely she is wiser."

So the King and the guardsmen walked through the streets. The people parted silently as the King reached the road outside the city than he disappeared into the sky. He stayed for a week in a castle of clouds, feeling very sad about what he'd seen at the festival and because he had to bring trouble to the world.

Then one moonlit night he returned to a peasant's cottage not a hundred miles from the City of Seven Castles. A young couple lived there, and they sat in their garden talking. Santa stepped silently into their kitchen and placed the baby boy in a cradle by the fireplace. Before he left he put a white eagle's feather in the child's pink fingers. Then he floated through the night sky for many miles until he came to the castle in the next kingdom. There he entered a tower window, walked quietly down narrow stone stairs and into a big room, where he placed the girl baby on a large, canopied bed.

She gurgled up at him as he put approached. He smiled gently at the old grandmother, who tried to rise, and said: "No, sit still. Your summers have been more than mine. Tell me, what does the story mean?" "Sure, it is the same sign that happened in the time of Eric the Great. That was when the hundred years' war started."

"So I remember." "Sure," she went on, "those infants will grow up to make trouble. They are each only half a being. They will be restless and bring evil fortune with them. They will disturb our peace. If they never meet—she shrugged her shoulders—"then we shall have a long war."

The King turned gravely to the men in the crowd and said: "We must find the homes into which those children are born tonight." So the men said good-by to their wives, turned over the keys, gave their sons instructions about the farms and rode out of the City of Seven Castles. For a week they rode, knocking on all the doors, searching for the two homes into which a boy and a girl had been born.

But they never found those homes. The old man had disappeared as if he were mist. No one had seen him after he left town. But I will tell you who he was and what happened.

He was Santa Claus. He had been on a walking trip through all our cities to see how many people are kind and how many selfish. He does that once in a generation.

This time he had no sooner her down and caught his white beard. He chuckled and sat down for a minute on the edge of the bed. Then he reached into his coat and brought out an opal, which blazed crimson as he turned it. This he placed beside the child on the bed. Then he slipped out the window and was gone.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people eliminate about 8 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 48 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

which have been called to my attention. Suffice it to say that I have reported after report of little businesses which have on hand the material they need to carry out the orders they have on their books, but are restrained by limitation orders from O. P. M. This, I contend, is an obvious absurdity which should not be permitted because it can result only in the destruction of the very basis of our free economic society.

It may be proper, however, to mention the case of one industry which is likely to be crippled by the present O. P. M. policy. Six times as many people in the United States use gas for cooking as use either oil or electricity. Indeed, those who use gas are four times as many as those who use solid fuels for this purpose. The manufacture of gas ranges, therefore, is an industry of great importance to a majority of our people. I am told that the wage earners in this industry are paid almost $55,000,000 annually and that the excise tax alone on the gas ranges that people customarily buy in a year amounts to $11,000,000. This industry is of vital importance to 16 States and 58 different communities, but it is now threatened with severe dislocation, the effect of which will be felt not only in the communities where these plants exist, but also in the defense effort to the extent it is supported by the revenue which this industry develops. This dislocation overhangs the industry because it is proposed to withdraw or ration copper in a drastic manner although there is evidence not only that new sources of copper supply may be readily developed in this country but that there is now available to the United States from countries now friendly to us and to Great Britain a million more tons of copper annually than were available in 1918.

Let me give you another example from the point of view of the worker. A recent order of O. P. M., issued November 24, prohibits the manufacture of foil for cigarettes, tobacco and confections on and after January 15 next. More than that, the order decrees, that between now and January 15, regardless of the amount of stock on hand, only one-third as much foil may be made as was manufactured during the first three months of 1941. This order is based upon an alleged shortage of lead, a shortage which is brought into theoretical existence only by estimating the consumption of lead for military purposes through 1941 and 1942 instead of balancing the current needs of civilian and defense industry.

Face Financial Ruin.
The immediate effect, however, upon labor is that approximately 1,600 of the oldest employees of one manufacturer will be suddenly thrown out of work. These are men skilled and trained in a particular business. They own their own homes in the communities in which they work. The effect of the order will be to deprive them of their means of livelihood and to compel them to seek new employment, perhaps as unskilled workers or as migrant laborers.

The same results will be felt in every little business and every little community which is disturbed by the withdrawal of the materials essential to the maintenance of civilian business. It must be remembered that the owners of little businesses frequently operate upon small capital or upon borrowed money and that when they cannot produce the commodity upon which their business is based they face financial ruin. It must be remembered that the worker, in many instances, has reached a period of life when it is impossible for him to begin over again, to learn a new trade or to move to a new community. These are the values in the American social system which must be conserved. To cripple an industry of the kind I have mentioned in such circumstances is a sin against our free economy and against the very objectives for which our foreign policy has been adopted.

It was never the intention of President Roosevelt to cripple civilian industry; quite the contrary. Only last April he set up the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply for the express purpose of balancing civilian industry and the defense effort in such a way as to maintain civilian morale. Leon Henderson, who was selected by the President as the administrator of this agency, specifically declared that "we in Washington have a responsibility . . . to see that civilian morale and civilian industry are not harmed unnecessarily." This, he went on, "means that minimum supplies of scarce materials must be preserved for civilian uses." This is the policy wisely outlined by the President which I seek to preserve by the bill (S. 1847), now before the Committee on Naval Affairs.

It is of the utmost importance that action should be taken because today there is going into effect in the Office of Production Management the most revolutionary economic proposal ever advanced in this country. Under administrative order No. 29 issued under the signature of William S. Knudsen, applications from business for raw materials are hereafter to be handled upon an individual basis. Under this order each industrial branch in the O. P. M. has been instructed to develop a program for the industry manufacturing the products for which it is responsible. Beginning today, all applications for materials are to be handled under this industrial program.

Monopolistic Concentration.
It means that the staff of O. P. M. is today at work upon a plan of forcing the American industrial system of free economy into the pattern of European cartels. It means not only that allocations of raw materials will be made to civilian business by the central authority, but that these branches in O. P. M., the number and nature of which, I venture to say, cannot be recited by any major executive of O. P. M., are going to undertake to tell civilian industry in America what it can do and what it cannot do. It means that business management will be taken over by O. P. M.

The inevitable result of such a program will be the complete destruction of local economic independence. It will mean an economic concentration such as was never dreamed of by the most ambitious American monopolist. It will mean a complete reversal of the President's policy outlined when he established the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply. It will mean hardship and disaster for entire communities, for great areas, for States, for employers and for employees. It will make difficult the re-establishment of a free economy after the war and it is all utterly unnecessary.

If we will only have confidence in ourselves and in our democratic inheritance we can support the foreign policy of the President in the complete reversal of the President's policy outlined when he established the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply. We must open our eyes to the fact that there is now being formed in the Office of Production Management the very conflict of economic forces which has destroyed Europe. Upon the one hand there are the spokesmen of big business who believe that central authority can be used wisely and successfully by them to administer the economic life of the people. Upon the other hand, there are the spokesmen of the so-called planned economy who believe that small groups of Government officials can wisely and successfully do the same thing.

America did not grow great by the exercise of concentrated authoritarian power. America has grown great because it has been free, because it has not been regimented, because it has not willingly submitted to arbitrary controls by either private or public authority. Down the road of planned economy is the totalitarian state. Down the road of a free economic system is the democratic state. The free economy can be maintained only by open decisions reached after open discussion in a public forum. The bill which the Naval Affairs Committee is now considering was drawn for the sole purpose of doing this. If enacted into law it will not only preserve little business and prevent economic hardship for industries and communities now suffering unnecessarily from created shortages, but it will keep our economy free from regimentation by any group and it will demonstrate that it is not necessary for a democracy to adopt the philosophy of totalitarianism in order to defend itself.

Those of you who are listening tonight and who feel in agreement with what I have said can perform an important function in preserving economic liberty. You can do it in your own local communities by working together to develop new sources of materials. You can do it by making it clear to your newspapers and radio stations that you desire to maintain all the institutions of democracy, social and economic as well as political, for those who are coming after us in America.

Cadet Becomes Ensign In Naval Air Reserve

Elmon Adams Miller, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmon A. Miller, 3023 Fourteenth street N.W., has completed the aviation course at the Naval Air Station at Jacksonville, Fla., and has been sent to the Naval Reserve Air Base at Miami as an ensign. The Navy announced today. At Miami he will learn the technique of flying from aircraft carriers.

The Navy also announced that Lawrence Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Anderson of 1415 Chapin street, was 10th in a class of 128 as he completed the Aviation Machinist's Mate School at Jacksonville. He has not yet been assigned to a ship or shore base. Anderson is a graduate of McKinley High School, where he received the cadet medal.

Just to say COUPON DAY TOMORROW is sure to bring thousands of shoppers—especially when there remain only 19 shopping days before Christmas! For not only do these thrifty thousands know they can save money on many immediate necessities, but that many of the Coupon Day items are especially desirable for CHRISTMAS GIFTS! This December Coupon Day plays such an important part in the plan of Christmas shoppers we've arranged a double-page spread of Coupon value offerings—270 items in all—and there's scarcely one Coupon Day Special that will not make a pleasing gift. But remember the established rule of Coupon Day—"Advertised Items Sold Only at These Prices to Those Presenting Coupons!" So clip the Coupons and share in the wonderful savings.

Slapstick Comedy, 'Funzafire,' Gets Service Man's O. K.

U. S. O.'s Production At Camp Lee Meets Soldiers' Demand

By the Associated Press.
CAMP LEE, Va., Dec. 2.—They laughed and cheered, they whistled and cheered, they stamped their feet.

The soldiers gave a resounding O K to the real, live, flesh and blood show that held the stage at Camp Lee's No. 1 theater last night.

More important, they answered the Nation's question: "What do the service boys want in the way of entertainment?"

They want the lights of last night's "Funzafire," put on as the premiere of premieres for a whole new program of entertainment for service men sponsored by U. S. O.'s Camp Shows, Inc.

The show was first cousin to Broadway's raucous, rowdy, laugh-provoking "Hellzapoppin"—and a big success.

Favor Slapstick.
The audience—99 per cent uniformed—liked pistol shots from the audience. They liked the excitement and racket of slapstick acts. They liked every last joke, even the one about mothers-in-law, though Master of Ceremonies Benny Meroff worried backstage, "maybe we ought to leave out the mother-in-law business because not many of these boys are married."

They didn't even mind paying 20 cents out of their hard-earned dough for tickets.

Mr. Meroff, from the stage, asked him, "Don't you think it's worth 20 cents?"

The stooge answered, "I like egg with my ham."

"Funzafire" will play two more nights at Camp Lee, then move on to Camp Davis, N. C., and to 63 more camps on the camp shows circuit.

It is one of 11 live shows starting on tour between now and December 10—a big Christmas present for the men in Army and Navy uniforms.

It's the morale officers' theory that perhaps 40 per cent of the selectees never have seen live shows, only movies. But you won't get a man to admit it.

Indorsed by General.
Maj. Gen. James E. Edmonds, post commander, saw the show and gave it his blessing. "It's what we need," he said.

Broadway Producers Eddie Dowling, Harry Delmar and others are staging the shows, with the help of Hollywood lights.

The U. S. O. is putting $850,000 into camp shows scheduled to tour most big camps once every two weeks through April. With an essential additional $250,000 from ticket sales, they expect to make ends meet.

Average weekly salary roll for players for each show is $2,500 to $3,000.

Each featured player gets about 69 per cent of his normal Broadway salary. Theaters are free, and the service men themselves serve as stage hands and pit orchestra.

Elected to Tulane Board
Robert E. Friedman, attorney for the Office of the Petroleum Coordinator, has been elected to the 1941-2 Board of Alumni Editors of the Tulane Law Review. It was announced today.

Provision for Parking Asked as First Step

The Progressive Citizens' Association of Congress Heights last night opposed the elimination of downtown parking until the District officials have made necessary arrangements for ample off-street parking areas.

The association again adopted a resolution favoring the construction of a bridge over the Anacostia River at South Capitol street. Dr. E. E. Richardson, president, reported progress of the drive to secure a post office, bank and a branch library in the Congress Heights area. The meeting was held in the Congress Heights School.

Wayne Coy Will Keynote Oberlin Men's Meeting

Wayne Coy, special assistant to the President and chief liaison officer for the Office of Emergency Management, will be keynote speaker for the third biennial career conference sponsored by the men of Oberlin College, Ohio, Friday and Saturday.

Other Washingtonians taking part are Bernard L. Gladieux of the Budget Bureau, John G. Earhart, Foreign Service personnel chief, and Donald C. Bells, a senior at the college, from Bethesda, Md., who will be secretary of the conference.

Xanten Asks Public To Co-operate on Snow Removal

Georgetown Unit Told Incinerator Is Not Sole Source of Fly Ash

Work of the District Refuse Department was described by William A. Xanten, superintendent, at a meeting of Progressive Citizens' Association of Georgetown last night in which Mr. Xanten explained the department's snow removal plan and discussed the problem of distribution of fly ash, allegedly coming from the incinerator located at Thirty-first and K streets N.W.

After explaining that the work of snow removal could never be completely accomplished, Mr. Xanten called upon the citizens to co-operate in the event of a storm in keeping the city open to traffic. He outlined a program entailing clearing of sidewalks in front of property and piling of the snow around tree boxes and on lawns rather than in streets and gutters.

Mr. Xanten denied that the incinerator was the chief and only cause for fly ash in the Georgetown area. He stated, however, that the increased volume of refuse had overtaxed the plant and might have a bearing. Devices have been constructed in it to assure capture of most of the objectionable ash, he said, adding that a new plant to be constructed soon in the Northeast, the third for the city, would relieve the burden on the Georgetown one.

The association voted to support the Home and School Association of Western High School in its campaign to obtain $300,000 in funds to improve the building. Henry W. Draper introduced the resolution.

In two other resolutions the group declared its opposition to any change in taxi zones which might place part of Georgetown in the third zone and voted to co-operate in the Federation of Citizens' Associations' projected membership drive.

Capt. Archie M. Wintree, new commander of No. 7, spoke.

Critics' Forum to Meet

The Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O. P., of Catholic University will discuss the prize-winning novel by Judith Kelley, "Marriage Is a Private Affair," at the third fall meeting of the Washington Critics' Forum at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in the Mayflower Hotel.

Forest Hills Citizens Decline to Advise Kelly on Assignments

Association Support For Star Christmas Campaign Is Voted

The Forest Hills Citizens' Association last night voted to let Supt. of Police Edward J. Kelly decide what to do with his 100 extra policemen instead of giving him any advice about it, on the motion of Mrs. Leslie Boudinot Wright.

Franklin T. Baldwin, secretary of the association, will visit stores and restaurants in the Forest Hills area to ask them to clean out any refuse cans or dumping places in the rear of their establishments. The association did not wish to take the responsibility of distributing rat poison in the neighborhood, as suggested by the Rodent Control Bureau of the District Health Department. Mr. Baldwin's inspection will be their contribution, it was decided.

L. A. Caruthers moved that The Star be commended on its Christmas campaign for toys and money for needy families. Each member will be requested to bring contributions to Christmas House and attend the toy matinee December 20, it was voted.

Reiterating opposition to relaxing zoning laws relative to boarders in restricted residential areas, members asked Joseph Sanders, Zoning Committee chairman, and Edward L. Springer to present their opposition at the District Building hearing on the proposal at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Mr. Sanders, deputy air raid warden of the area, made a plea for more block wardens.

Marne Division to Meet

Coal Town Will Give Thanks For Blessings on Third Holiday

By the Associated Press.
POTTSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 2.—Pottsville gets right down to cases on Thursday to give thanks for its many local blessings, having taken care of the Nation's on the other two days last month.
The extra turkey day is just this hard coal center's way of steering a middle-of-the-road course in the controversy over the two Thanksgiving dates and at the same time putting in an extra lick for the home area.

It started last year, when the Governor proclaimed the State's official date as the last Thursday in November, a week behind that fixed by the President. Some of the now familiar confusion resulted, but Mayor Claud A. Lord, mindful that a new industry recently had moved into this city of 25,000 providing much-needed employment, decreed that observance for both days, and an extra one for good measure was in order.

So this year when the same difference in dates arose again, Mayor Lord proclaimed:
"Whereas, the city of Pottsville has much to be thankful for, it is fitting that three distinct days be designated to give thanks."
And much of the county is joining in.
The outstanding high school football players of the area are ready for an all-star "dream game." There will be no school in the district so the children can attend a street parade with Christmas toyland floats, displays and prizes.

Just to start the day off right, Mayor Lord has 1,000 chickens to give away to the needy. Organizations have arranged band concerts for downtown street corners, special church services and civic club programs have been prepared.
The originator of the third Thanksgiving, incidentally, was re-elected to his third term last month.

Need of Deputy Wardens in Brightwood Stressed

The need for additional volunteers to serve as air wardens was stressed last night at a meeting of the Brightwood area national defense organization. The meeting was presided over by Thomas F. Ferry, who outlined to the 125 citizens in attendance accomplishments since the first meeting a few weeks ago. At the opening of the meeting last night, 36 deputy air wardens had been appointed and a call was sent out for 28 additional citizens to volunteer their services.

Elmer Johnson, deputy air warden for the Brightwood area, told of the program.
Acting Capt. Walter H. Thomas, a member of the Brightwood Citizens' Association, who assumed his new duties yesterday as commander of police precinct No. 6 at Brightwood, offered to co-operate in the defense work.
Col. Lemuel Bolles, executive director of national defense activities for the District, was represented by

W. H. Kapnack, who explained numerous features in connection with the plans to protect the National Capital.
John F. McGirley, first air instructor for the American Red Cross, dwelt upon the character of his duties in the defense program and announced that a group meeting would be held next Monday night at 8 p. m. in the Paul Junior High School, where the meeting was held last night, at which time instruction would be given to those interested in this phase of the work.

6 Counties Cited for Health

BALTIMORE, Dec. 2 (AP).—Six Maryland counties—Caroline, Kent, Montgomery, Prince Georges, Wicomico and Worcester—have been awarded class A certificates of merit by the National Negro Health Week Committee, the State Department of Health has been informed.
Purchase or sale of pearls, precious stones, gold, silver and platinum is prohibited in Italy, the Commerce Department says.

Nature's Children

By LILLIAN COX ATHEY.

Cottontails will have to improve their escape technique if they wish to retain their numbers, because the rabbit industry is developing rapidly as demands for fur and meat increase. Bunny has successfully used the hop-skip-jump and freeze method of evading his foes. Today he has to compete with man and his more advanced ways of hunting, and with the fur trade needing his coat for warm wraps for mi lady and hats for her mate, rabbits must be raised for these purposes. Indeed, it has been said that New York State could supply at least 2,000,000 rabbit skins annually.

Rabbit pelts from other countries have been coming to the United States in such small quantities since the war that something must be done to supply the felt and fur manufacturers. Here is an industry that can be made profitable, but it is no get-rich-quick proposition. Any one trying to sell you this idea is misleading you. Since rabbit skins are used more extensively by the fur trade than any other kind of fur, and these animals are not difficult to rear, the undertaking is not a costly one. Besides, size and color do not make any difference, because all rabbits' skins have commercial value.

Medium-sized rabbits are raised for food. In all parts of the country these animals have been raised for their fur and meat. The delicate pinkish-white meat is highly nutritious and is cooked in the same way as one does chicken. In some parts of our country the consumption of domestic rabbit meat has reached considerable proportions.

Nuttall's cottontail belongs to the group known as Molly Cottontail, wood-rabbit, gray-rabbit and plain cottontail. In the genus Sylvilagus the rabbits and hares are found. Their young are born blind, naked and helpless. They are nursed for one week or more before they can see and run. They have many congenial all showing the characteristic cottontail pattern. There are 10 species divided into 44 races.

The little rabbit shown here is easily identified because the group in which it belongs has chosen a pinkish buff or tan color as a tint for the upper coat.

One of the reasons why rabbits are so easy to raise is the fact that they love to be petted and soon lose all sense of fear. They do not chafe against limited range, because on their own they prefer to spend their whole life within the limits of one acre. Rabbits are methodical creatures, and are really quite efficient. Following an established routine saves time and effort as we all know, and Molly finds a well worn path is easily traveled.

The food problem is not one to disturb these creatures, because anything green is acceptable. They are not flesh eaters or bird nest thieves.

We find Molly is of the silent type. Though blessed with a larynx and vocal cords, she rarely uses them. A penetrating squeal is uttered when the animal is captured, and the babies use this same cry to notify mamma that something is seriously wrong at home. Small boys often think their aim has been "straight through the heart," when actually the victim has died of fright.

In the open, cottontails have many canny foes, and it is due to their fleetness and ability to "freeze" that they are able to escape.

Marriage License Applications

Under D. C. law, couples must apply for a marriage license on one day, wait three full days and receive their license on the fifth day. Sundays and holidays are counted the same as other days.

Even the Most Prosaic Items Have 'Glamour' This Christmas Season

Umbrellas, for Example, Now Show Up in Several Very Smart Versions

Collars, Too, Have New Charm; Costume Pins Offer Wealth Of Ideas to Busy Shopper

By Helen Vogt

Just for the sake of those who can't hang diamond dog collars, sable coats or, perhaps, the title to a country estate on the Christmas tree there are other equally glamorous, though less expensive, offerings around town these days. If you can fight your way through the crowds, all of whom seem suddenly inspired with the "shop-early" urge, it'll be well worth while to have a look at some of the gift suggestions destined to mark you a grade a Santa Claus. The shops, needless to say, are full of ideas—some strictly commonplace; others, happily, more unusual and original.

For example, such prosaic things as umbrellas have assumed a new charm that makes them far from uninteresting. One of the best is a huge purse of kid, with a kid container for your umbrella attached. The umbrella is silk and even on bright days you can carry the purse, for the holder is something of an ornament as well. Smart idea for gals who hate toting things almost as much as they dislike damp feet are umbrellas whose handles open up to disclose a pair of overshoes tucked neatly inside.

Speaking of gifts which sound downright dull, collars used to hold top place on our list. No more, however, since we've seen the new ones. There is a red velvet model which ties with a ribbon in back and is edged with pearls all around its half-moon shape. Should be charming on a simple black frock. Round or V-shaped collars of sequins carry out the season's "glittery" theme; or, for something a bit more demure and equally lovely, there a fine lace bib embroidered in pearls. All make wonderful offerings for any lady on your list.

Handkerchiefs with huge, and we do mean huge, monograms are always good ideas, and so are those dainty bits with deep lace edgings. Angora or wool mittens are warm and practical. So are fur mittens which are "out of this world" when done in natural lynx or sheared beaver with suede palms. Fur also edges hoods, beloved by the outdoor-sy type.

There is a story in scarfs this year, too. In addition to the usual types, such novelties as scarfs printed with the various branches of the air force are offered to air-minded lassies. Lovely floral prints on silk are good—and quite new. Turbans which you wind yourself the salsadily will show you the tricks. Include bright wool ones with palmettes sprinkled over them. These can be draped to give an under-the-chain wimple effect, if you know how.

Much of the new costume jewelry is really exciting, as, for instance, a display which includes a pin of entwined hearts, one "sapphire" and one "topaz" studded. Temple, to put it mildly, is a clip in the form of an enamel and rhinestone pheasant, on an Egyptian-type head with extravagant headpiece of gold-colored metal, studded with "rubies" and rhinestones. Earrings match this pin. Other whimsies seen here and there include handbags, sterling silver pins, clips and what-have-you in floral design, old-fashioned framed silhouettes in groups of three for a pin, individuals for earrings. Charming is a gold-colored ballerina pin, the lady's skirt of black net, her mask and bodice of black enamel.

We could go on for columns—but that should give you a fair start. Meeting adjourned for now.

Just Looking, Thanks!

By Dorothy Murray

The newest novelty in the cocktail line is a shaker made in the form of a town crier's bell, and accompanying this are six glasses with red glass bowls and chromium bell bases.

Plastic silk covers now may be obtained in five different sizes to fit stacks of six or eight plates and keep the dishes free from dust and germs. The covers contain no rubber, can be folded without danger of cracking and are washable.

Acetate rayon satin blanket binding is inexpensive and will increase your blankets' wearing qualities. It may be secured by the yard in 12 popular colors.

Cost hangers, sandwich servers, cheese and pie knives and pickle forks are the latest varied articles to appear in clear lucite material.

Need a new compact? If so, see the very lovely colored lucite ones neatly combined with a cigarette case.

A necessary article for the kitchen is an electric automatic portable mixer. The set consists of the portable mixing unit, the base, large and small bowls and fruit juice extractor. Equipment for the extractor is also included in the set price and consists of a juice bowl, strainer, pressure lever and an oil dropper with which to prepare dressing for salads.

Every hostess likes an excuse to use her best linens, china and glass, and a luncheon which is limited to 12 as an outside number makes it possible to have everything just right. Perhaps six or eight is the favorite number, however, as when you have more guests you need more help with the service.

The choice of a menu will be governed first of all by the amount of help you expect to have for cooking and serving. It is possible to do everything yourself for a small informal luncheon. Sometimes the hostess will do most of the actual preparation herself and have some one come in to assist with the last-minute preparations and for serving.

- 3 broilers.
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt.
 - 1/2 teaspoon pepper.
 - 1 cup butter.
 - 1 tablespoon chopped parsley.
 - 1 teaspoon chopped mint.
 - 1/2 teaspoon chopped sweet marjoram.
 - 1 teaspoon chopped chives.
 - 1/2 teaspoon fennel seeds.
 - 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon.
 - 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg.
 - 1 cup orange juice.

- Clean and cut broilers in half; wipe with damp cloth; season with salt and pepper. Soften butter and blend with herbs and spices. Rub herb butter over inside and outside of broilers. Broil until golden brown. Place in roaster; add orange juice and juice from broiler pan and bake covered in moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit), basting frequently until tender, about 45 minutes. Yield: Six servings.
- STUFFED MUSHROOMS.
- 12 large mushrooms.
 - 4 tablespoons butter.
 - 2 tablespoons chopped onion.
 - 2 cups soft bread crumbs.
 - 1 teaspoon salt.
 - 1/2 teaspoon pepper.
 - 1 tablespoon catsup.
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice.
 - 2 tablespoons minced parsley.
 - 2 strips bacon.
 - 1/2 cup thin cream.

Prepare mushrooms according to usual directions, leaving caps whole and chopping tender parts of stems. Melt butter, add onions and chopped stems and cook three minutes. Stir in bread crumbs and cook two minutes. Stir in salt, pepper, catsup, lemon juice and parsley. Stuff mushroom caps with mixture. Cover with narrow strips of bacon, arrange on an oven-proof platter and pour cream around mushrooms. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) 15 to 20 minutes until mushrooms are tender. Yield: Six servings.

Gala evenings necessarily mean those little touches of elegance for which this fashion season has become famous. Among the most popular are evening handkerchiefs, often used as smart dresses for a flattering effect. Ideal as Christmas gifts, these new sequin-studded types are head and tailors for a flattering effect.

Guests Like Luncheon At Home

Very Pleasant Way To Entertain One's Feminine Friends

There is no more attractive way to entertain a small group of women friends than at a home luncheon. Men are seldom available for a meal of this sort, except, of course, on Saturday or Sunday, when you are more likely to serve a buffet meal.

 - 1 tablespoon chopped parsley.
 - 1 teaspoon chopped mint.
 - 1/2 teaspoon chopped sweet marjoram.
 - 1 teaspoon chopped chives.
 - 1/2 teaspoon fennel seeds.
 - 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon.
 - 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg.
 - 1 cup orange juice.

- Clean and cut broilers in half; wipe with damp cloth; season with salt and pepper. Soften butter and blend with herbs and spices. Rub herb butter over inside and outside of broilers. Broil until golden brown. Place in roaster; add orange juice and juice from broiler pan and bake covered in moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit), basting frequently until tender, about 45 minutes. Yield: Six servings.
- STUFFED MUSHROOMS.
- 12 large mushrooms.
 - 4 tablespoons butter.
 - 2 tablespoons chopped onion.
 - 2 cups soft bread crumbs.
 - 1 teaspoon salt.
 - 1/2 teaspoon pepper.
 - 1 tablespoon catsup.
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice.
 - 2 tablespoons minced parsley.
 - 2 strips bacon.
 - 1/2 cup thin cream.

Prepare mushrooms according to usual directions, leaving caps whole and chopping tender parts of stems. Melt butter, add onions and chopped stems and cook three minutes. Stir in bread crumbs and cook two minutes. Stir in salt, pepper, catsup, lemon juice and parsley. Stuff mushroom caps with mixture. Cover with narrow strips of bacon, arrange on an oven-proof platter and pour cream around mushrooms. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) 15 to 20 minutes until mushrooms are tender. Yield: Six servings.

Attitude of Willingness to Take What Comes Is an Endowment

By Angelo Patri

Children need our help, but we can be more helpful sometimes by teaching them to carry their burdens than by removing them and freeing them of any responsibility for them.

If algebra is hard for Heloise, teach her how to master it but don't work the problem for her and allow her to drop the matter there. Getting the answer for the teacher is not the purpose of that algebra lesson. Getting the child to master the idea and make it part of her thinking, adding power to her mind, is what the teacher is after.

John frets somewhat because he has to look out for his small brother. He must see that he gets to his classroom safely, keeping a brotherly eye on him, at a distance, so that he will not get on the street and be hurt. John would prefer to race off by himself, carefree, and let mother, or grandma, see little brother to school.

Occasionally there will be some justice in John's desire to be free of his responsibility, and mother or grandmother can relieve him for the time; but in general, John is the better for his feeling of responsibility for the small brother's safe arrival, and safe trip home again. It won't do him any harm, and it may do him good.

Ricky is lame and will be lame for the rest of his life. He is quite well and the limp is not too bad. If he were encouraged to do so he could take part in many of the boys' games. Certainly he could join on the way to and from school, share their interests and be one of them as far as he was able.

The help we can give a child is usually spiritual help. We can stand ready to comfort and encourage; we can ease the load; we can applaud when it is well carried, well delivered. We can strengthen his spirit by helping him to see that life is a mixture of all living forces. They meet and change, give and take, but rarely in a child's life do they take more than they give.

A wholesome attitude that indicates a willingness and an ability to take what comes is about the best endowment a youngster can hope to have. Don't take over a child's life. Share it.

This fetching winter sweater is a handsome original model from one shop where many of New York's loveliest hand-knit things are created. It is designed especially for knitting fanciers who want to work up a sweater in a jiffy, but who want to keep the simplicity of their handwork a secret from their friends. The diamond effect is added after the garment is completed, as are the wool flowers. Either the diamond pattern or the flowers or both may be omitted and you will still have a good-fitting warm sweater for winter. Directions are given for sizes 14, 16 and 18.

Chronic 'No' Attitude on Part of Parents Makes Difficult Situation

Boys and Girls May Develop Entirely Wrong Viewpoint Of Their Relationship

By Kay Caldwell and Alden Harrison

Most modern parents expect their sons and daughters of senior high school age to have dates. Occasionally they may object to late hours, too much dashing about in automobiles or other youthful follies. But they usually do accept the basic idea of boys and girls associating with each other.

However, some parents don't really like the idea. True, they may allow Johnny or Jane to do the things that the other members of their crowd are doing, but their permission is given grudgingly and disapprovingly. Their attitude seems to be that, although inevitable, it's all a pretty silly and worthless business.

Now, we think that is an unfortunate attitude. It can build up in Johnny or Jane the suspicion that their interest in the other sex is something to be ashamed of, which it definitely is not. Parents can only injure their offspring by implanting any such idea.

Perhaps it's just a sign that they're growing old, but some parents develop a chronic "No" attitude as far as their teen-age offspring are concerned. No matter what Johnny and Jane want to do in the social line, dad and mother start out by being against it.

Of course, they eventually give in and grant their permission. But in the meantime, Johnny and Jane have been led to wonder, perhaps unconsciously, if there isn't something wrong with all good times, since their parents invariably oppose them.

We once saw a high school girl break into a storm of weeping at the dinner table because her parents frowned on a picnic which she and a couple of other girls were planning.

"You'll never let me go anywhere without 'criticizing'!" she sobbed. "You pick on all my friends, and everything I do. You just don't want me to have any fun at all!"

Now, of course this girl was exaggerating. Nevertheless, there was a basic truth in what she said. Her parents did have a critical attitude toward her social activities, and toward the boys and girls with whom she associated. Nor was it the fault of the boys and girls; it was just that these parents had forgotten their own younger days, and therefore had a chronically disapproving attitude toward the "frivolities" of youth.

If you happen to be facing a situation like this, you have a tough job on your hands, but by no means a hopeless one. It's up to you to make dad and mother see that your dating is natural, normal and healthy.

First, be very sure that your friends are okay—that there can be no reasonable and well-founded objection to them on the part of your parents. Bring them to the house so that your parents will get to know them.

Second, watch your own conduct. Lead over to the "right" side of the line. If you know in advance that your parents will be dead against some jaunt or party, don't even ask their permission to join it.

Third, ask their advice and opinions on your social activities and your friends. Get your dad to tell you which of two boys he likes better, and why. Ask your mother what she'd do in some social situation. Wean them from chronic opposition to co-operation.

And fourth, get them to tell you where they went and what they did when they were young. Turning adult memories backward often changes adult attitudes. If you get them talking and thinking about their own dating days, they'll feel a lot more sympathetic toward yours.

You Ask, We Answer

Q. Is it proper for a girl to bring a boy into the house at mealtime when they are returning from the movies?—Ruth K.

A. Unless you and your mother are prepared to ask him to share the meal with you, it would be better to say good-by to him at the door. It would be embarrassing not to extend such an invitation if the other members of your family were eating, and you couldn't expect them to delay their meal until your caller decided to go.

If you've never tried our "Dance Pepper" Uppers, you don't know what real fun at a dance is. This leaflet will keep any rug-cutting party from going dead, and it's yours for 5 cents (stamps or coins). Address Kay Caldwell and Alden Harrison, in care of The Evening Star.

Quick Fancy Cakes

If you want some fancy cakes and your preparation time is short, buy unfrosted cakes from the grocery, cut each in three crosswise slices and then put together again with thin layers of jam or jelly spread on each slice. Go over the outside with a creamy confectioner's frosting, flavored with grated orange and lemon rinds.

Oven Care

To keep the oven, gas or electric, clean, wash it frequently with hot soda water—a tablespoon of soda to a quart of water. After using the oven, leave the door open until it has dried out. This helps avoid rust and stale odors. Always clean up foods that run over as quickly as possible.

Helps Prevent COLDS

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

In deciding what you should eat in order to avoid fatigue give preference to those foods which you digest easily. The kind of life you lead and the type of work you do also should play an important part in your plan.

In his book, "Health Through Rational Diet," Dr. Arnold Lorand says: "In idleness and dementia praecox there is a reduction of phosphorus in the brain. Mental effort becomes more difficult on a strictly vegetable diet. However, it is unsafe to predict an increase of actual brain power from any given diet."

When creative work is to be done a meat and fish diet with plenty of milk, eggs and green vegetables might be desirable.

The well-tested diet for general use which seems to promote energy is made up of eggs, milk, a variety of vegetables and fruit, with meat and fish used moderately.

Here are some valuable things to remember:

The man or woman who indulges in physical labor should increase his or her carbohydrate intake.

Muscular fatigue can be counteracted by the use of sugar. Fruit juices make a perfect pickup after physical exertion. They replace the liquid used in perspiration and supply natural sugar.

If you will drink a quart of water with a teaspoon of salt added, you will perspire freely and exercise will prevent muscle cramps and fatigue so that you will feel refreshed and alert.

Some of the symptoms of vitamin C deficiency are a tired, achy feeling, mental sluggishness and irritability.

Manners of the Moment

When people talk about the manners of the moment, they usually consider the proper punishment of the uncontrollable female football fan. She really is a menace.

She usually carries with her some dangerous weapon like a swag stick or a yard with a balloon at the end. And the minute the football players begin to move, regardless of which direction they and the football take, she begins to wave her weapon in the air. It doesn't take long for her to bean the man in front of her, or to take a poke at the eyes of the man behind her. She seems to have an instinctive ability to hit people squarely in the wrong place with whatever she is carrying.

If it isn't a stick it's her pocketbook which she waves. And the man on her right may end up with a black eye.

She's just trying to be exuberant. But she goes, I would say, a trifle too far.

If I were her partner at the game I certainly would see to it that she carried absolutely nothing in her hands which she could wave, poke or throw—not even a bunch of violets.

Very Easy to Make. No Cooking. Saves Big Money.

No matter what you've been using for coughs due to colds, you'll be the first to admit that this surprising relief, mixed in your own kitchen, can't be surpassed for real results.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—it's so easy! Then put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (obtained from any drugist) into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of really amazing cough relief—about four times as much for your money. Tastes fine—children love it—and it never spoils.

You can feel this home cure taking right hold of a cough, it loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases soreness and difficult breathing, and lets you sleep. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

Pinex is a special compound of pinesap, a natural, concentrated form of a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Just try it, and if not satisfied, your money will be refunded.

Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

For two days Billy Mink saw nothing more of the man who had made him suspicious. But this didn't make Billy feel any easier in his mind.

The third day after that first visit the man came again. Billy saw him almost as soon as he reached the Laughing Brook, but not quite.

He didn't do anything while I watched him but poke about and seem to be looking for something, muttered Billy.

So Billy went up the Laughing Brook above the place where he had first seen the man that morning. He crossed back and forth from one bank to the other and he examined every stick and log and hole as he went along.

He didn't do anything while I watched him but poke about and seem to be looking for something, muttered Billy.

He didn't do anything while I watched him but poke about and seem to be looking for something, muttered Billy.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE.

Parents must be frank and honest with children if they expect children to be frank and honest with them.

Mother: "I accidentally learned you were not at Jean's as you said you were yesterday. Let's talk this out frankly and try to see why you think it is necessary to deceive me."

Mother: "I've been reading Dora's diary, and—just as I thought—she's been deceiving me. I'll have to be careful I don't let her know I'm onto her, though. That would be fatal."

Mother: "I've been reading Dora's diary, and—just as I thought—she's been deceiving me. I'll have to be careful I don't let her know I'm onto her, though. That would be fatal."

Winning Contract

By THE FOUR ACES. (David Bruce Burnstone, Merwin D. Main, Gerald Jacoby and Howard Schenken, world's leading team of four, inventors of the system that has beaten every other system in existence.)

The Safety Play North and South bid their cards very well to get to a small slam, but it would have been very easy for South to lose his contract by a thoughtless play. As it happened, however, South was experienced enough to see the need for a safety play.

North dealer. Both sides vulnerable. ♠ Q653 ♣ AJ6 ♢ Q3 ♣ AJ107 ♠ KJ9 ♣ 73 ♢ K762 ♣ 9652 ♠ A108742 ♣ KQ94 ♢ AS ♠ K

The bidding: North East South West 1♠ Pass 1♠ Pass 2♠ Pass 4♠ Pass 4♠ Pass 6♠ Pass

West opened the jack of diamonds in spite of South's cue-bid in that suit. Dummy played the queen. East covered with the king and South won with the ace. The most pressing problem was to get rid of the losing diamond, so South cashed the club king and entered dummy with a heart to discard the losing diamond on dummy's club ace.

Now making the slam depended only on losing no more than one trump trick. Naturally any method of playing the trumps would achieve that end if they were split 2-1, but there was some danger if one opponent had all three trumps. Years ago, perhaps some thoughtful player saw this situation and worked it out for himself. Ever since then the right method of handling the suit has been known by all students of the game. The South player in this case knew that the right play was to lead a low trump from the dummy and cover East's play as cheaply as possible if he followed suit.

When dummy led a low spade East played the nine, hoping South would go up with the ace. But South knew the safety play was to cover with the ten and that held the trick. The rest was just a matter of cashing the trump ace and conceding a trick to East's king.

Note that if West had been able to win the trick, two of the missing three trumps would have fallen, so South could be sure to draw the last trump with his ace on the next round. And if East had been unable to play a spade on the first round South would have put up the ace and returned the suit toward dummy's queen.

Yesterday you were Howard Schenken's partner and, vulnerable against non-vulnerable opponents, you held:

The bidding: Schenken Jacoby You Maier 1♠ 1♠ (2) 3♠ 3♠ Pass (2) 4♠ 4♠ Pass (2)

Answer—Bid three diamonds. A fump bid is necessary to show your immense strength. An immediate cue-bid of two spades would be unwise, since it would imply fine support for hearts and might cause much confusion in your partner's mind.

SUBURBAN HEIGHTS —By Guyas Williams

YOU CAN'T HEAR YOURSELF THINK WITHIN A MILE OF THE STATION WHEN THE CLAMOR RAISED BY WIVES, CHILDREN AND HORNS OF CARS THAT COULDN'T PARK NEAR-BY, TRYING TO ATTRACT THE HOMECOMERS' ATTENTION BEFORE THEY ACCEPT LIFTS IN OTHER PEOPLE'S CARS.

Congress Names 25 To Attend Funeral Of Senator Adams

Masonic Services to Be Conducted in Pueblo Thursday Afternoon

Twenty-five members of Congress will leave Washington at 6:30 o'clock tonight to attend funeral services for Senator Alva B. Adams, Democrat, of Colorado, in Pueblo, Colo., Thursday afternoon.

Senator Adams died suddenly yesterday morning after a heart attack. He was chairman of the Public Lands Committee and the Deficiency Appropriations Committee.

Senators on the funeral committee are Bunker, Democrat, Nevada; Chandler, Democrat, Kentucky; Chavez, Democrat, New Mexico; Clark, Democrat, Idaho; Downey, Democrat, California; Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana; Gillette, Democrat, Iowa; Hatch, Democrat, New Mexico; Herring, Democrat, Iowa; Johnson, Democrat, Colorado; O'Daniel, Democrat, Texas; O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming; Russell, Democrat, Georgia; Schwartz, Democrat, Wyoming; Wheeler, Democrat, Montana; Butler, Republican, Nebraska; La Follette, Progressive, Wisconsin; Wiley, Republican, Wisconsin; Willis, Republican, Indiana; and Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan.

Speaker Rayburn appointed Representatives Lewis, Democrat, Colorado; Chenoweth, Republican, Colorado; Robinson, Democrat, Utah; Murdock, Democrat, Arizona; and Anderson, Democrat, New Mexico, to represent the House at the funeral.

The funeral train will arrive in Pueblo at 11:45 a. m. Thursday. The body will lie in state from noon to 1:30 p. m. and Masonic services will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. at the family residence. Burial will take place in Denver. The body will remain there until a crypt is built at Pueblo.

Twelve privately owned railways are operating in the Netherlands Indies.

Housing Association Plans Public Meeting Monday

The annual public meeting of the Washington Housing Association will be held at 8 p. m. next Monday at the Chamber of Commerce Building, 1615 H street N.W. The program, which is connected with the general topic "Washington Housing—Now and After," is as follows: Mrs. Samuel T. Rosenman, chairman of the National Committee on the Housing Emergency, will speak on "Housing—Now and After." The improving of housing facilities in Washington will be discussed by John H. Fahey, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. "Priorities and Their Effect on Housing" will be the subject of a talk by Sullivan Jones, chief of the housing priorities section of the Office of Production Management. Renah P. Camaller, counsel to the Senate District Committee, will discuss "What Rent Control Means to This City."

Following the speeches, the motion picture "A Place to Live" will be shown. In addition, the Alley Dwelling Authority will present an exhibit of completed housing projects in the District.

J. Bernard Wyckoff, president of the association, will act as chairman.

New Personnel Director

Secretary Wickard announced today the appointment of T. Roy Reid as director of personnel for the Agriculture Department to succeed Roy F. Hendrickson, recently appointed surplus marketing administrator. Mr. Reid has been serving as chief assistant to Secretary Wickard. This post will be taken by Samuel B. Bledsoe.

Defense Mediators Open Hearing in Truck Wage Dispute

225,000 Employees and 800 Companies in 12 States Are Involved

The Defense Mediation Board opened a hearing today into a wage dispute involving 800 Midwestern truck operators and 225,000 truckers and teamsters who last month threatened to tie up freight transportation facilities in 12 States.

Emphasizing the importance attached to the case by the board, a six-man panel headed by Chairman William H. Davis presided at the opening session. Under usual procedure, three-man board panels hear individual cases.

The dispute was the second largest, in numbers of men involved, ever certified to the board, and was the most important in which the disputants had previously agreed to accept the board's decision as final.

The teamsters threatened a strike November 15, but agreed to continue work pending outcome of mediation. Twenty-five truck company representatives here for the hearing were headed by J. L. Keeshin, chairman, and Robert J. Appel, secretary, of the Central States Employers' Negotiating Committee at Chicago.

Heading the 17-man union delegation was Daniel J. Tobin of Indianapolis, president of the A. F. L. International Brotherhood of Teamsters, and J. T. O'Brien, Indianapolis, chairman of the union's Central States Drivers' Council.

Mr. Tobin was a White House caller today, but he said he came merely to say "hello" to Mr. Roosevelt.

The teamsters are demanding a new contract and wages of 5 cents a mile while trucks are in operation and $1 an hour for waiting time. Their old contract provided 3 cents a mile and 80 cents for waiting time.

Chickering

This great name

on your piano means more than the possession of an instrument of exquisite sweetness of tone. There is the added satisfaction that you may count yourself a person of musical and artistic discrimination, for the beauty of Chickering encasement companions its luscious voice. There is no piano quite like the Chickering—renowned since 1823.

We know of no other gift that could mean more lasting enjoyment to "her" or the family than a fine Chickering spinet or grand. And when you consider how much enjoyment you can get from one of these fine pianos and for how long the cost is low... we have new models in the Chickering from $475 up, on easy terms.
