White House Indicates War Crisis Is 'Bigger' Than Clash in Orient

'Nazi Pattern' of Japan's Attack to Be Discussed By President Tonight

By JOHN C. HENRY.

With a cryptic remark that today's wartime picture is "much bigger" than Pacific developments thus far indicate, the White House announced today that President Roose velt in his radio address tonight will awake to the increasing danger to discuss the "Nazi pattern" of the assault against America.

There was strong implication in the announcement that Mr. Roosevelt's words tonight will be virtually The Secretary refused to answer a declaration of war against Nazi questions about Russia's attitude Germany, if events of the interven-

The White House announcement was made by Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early in a press conference at which he also pormised to ple, when determined, the real truth and a widening scope and increasing enemy planes again approached. American forces in the Pacific, Mr. Early's pledge in this regard came in response to a question as to whether he could confirm reported sinkings of American ships in the Sunday engagement.

"Certainly we intend to," he swered, "when there is something to be confirmed. But the President insists that rumors and reports be sifted to find the truth."

Confers With Leaders. Planning to devote most of his day to a study of official Army and Navy intelligence and to prepara-tion of his address, the President conferred shortly before noon with the War and Navy Departments, members of the Supply, Priorities and Allocations Board and Vice President Wallace. Although the conference was described by Mr. Early as a "check-up meeting," it was believed to deal with an intensified application of wartime economy on the Nation's life.

The conferees had little to say when they left the White House, but Donald Nelson, executive director of S. P. A. B., said the discussion had covered all manner of things that "ought to be done to win the

Mr. Early's assertion that the present critical picture is much larger than that of West Coast implications alone was made in response to a question of how reported Japanese military planes could have approached within hearing distance of San Francisco.

Mr. Early said he had no answer specifically, but he added: "You may be certain that the

In this connection, it is known that strong units of the small German fleet have been out of sight for several months past, giving rise to the possibility, in event of German-American hostilities, that they might make a surprise appearance on this

In his discussion of the subject matter for Mr. Roosevelt's address tonight, to be broadcast from the of El Paso. Preparations Rushed For 24-Hour Vigil Against Sabotage

Under the stimulus of the declaration of war against Japan, nearby Maryland and Virginia today whipped into shape final plans for maintaining a 24-hour vigil against enemy attack and sabotage. The governing boards of Arlington and Montgomery Counties appropriated $1,000 each to defray civilian defense costs while 10 additional police were asked in Prince Georges County to guard the suburban water supply.

Meanwhile, civilian defense officials in both Virginia and Maryland issued a call for more air raid and fire wardens to serve in local areas on skeleton staffs rapidly nearing completion.

Chairman Albert E. Brault of the Montgomery County Defense Council announced preparations were completed yesterday for a 24-hour air raid and fire warning service which already has established connections with the State filter center

Selections for a Fast Track at Charles Town BEST BET-LEGAL LIGHT.

FIRST RACE - HIGH BUD, REAL BOY, DISTANT STAR. HIGH BUD went wide in his first local try and this may have cost him the decision because he was trimmed less than a length for the important money. REAL BOY scored in his first at this oval and he is as good as that test suggests. DISTANT STAR has been winning consistently at Pascoag.

SECOND RACE — OSOFREE, QUEEN MEADOW, ORKNEY ISLE.

OSOFREE ran well on the Maryland half-milers and she has drawn a good post position. The filly may go to the front with the break and hold sway throughout. QUEEN MEADOW has fair Pascoag Park form to recommend her in this affair. ORKNEY ISLE has been finishing with the leaders of late.

THIRD RACE-SKEETER, DON DASH, TAVERN.

SKEETER raced consistently at Rockingham and if he breaks in from the eligible list he is going to be a tough customer to dispose of. DON DASH won two of his last three at Wheeling and he is reported working in ex-

D. C. Heads Redraft Defense Fund Plan For Budget Bureau

Cut in $1,500,000 Asked; Vital Sum May Be Sought By Young From Congress

District officials today were busy re-drafting their $1,500,000 defense program at the direction of the Budget Bureau which asked that cuts be made where possible and a revised program submitted.

The request for $1,500,000 from the President's emergency fund of $150,000,000 was taken to Budget Director Harold Smith yesterday by Commissioner John Russell Young and city budget officials. The money was to go for additional water facilities and fire protection and air raid apparatus.

On his return from the bureau. Commissioner Young announced he had been asked to trim the request, but added he was extremely hopeful of getting something for the

Kelly Asks Fivefold Increase in Number Of Auxiliary Police

1,512 Was First Quota Of Volunteers to Guard Against Sabotage

A call for five times the number of men in the original quota of 1,512 auxiliary policemen was made yesterday afternoon by Maj. Edward J. Kelly, superintendent of police.

Physical examinations will given this week to 1,200 prospective auxiliary police who already have been fingerprinted and photo-

In calling for additional volunteers, Maj. Kelly announced that candidates may register at the Civilian Defense Volunteer office at 501 Pennsylvania avenue N.W., at police headquarters or at any police station. Able-bodied men up to 55 years of age are eligible. The first quota of auxiliary men now is almost ready for duty in any field of work, he reported. Others will be trained as rapidly as they are accepted so that the organization whose duty it v to guard against saboteurs and to give the city a 24-hour protection will be completed as quickly as pos-

Following a conference yesterday with the District Commissioners, Maj. Kelly revealed that all police hereafter will be required to attend classes during their off-duty periods to familiarize themselves with the defense program," Lectures at that time will be made by 28 members of the department who have received training from the Federal Bureau of Investigation or who trained at the Edgewood Arsenal Under a change ordered effective at once Police Department "rookies" will be trained under a speedier schedule. Thirty-five men now in this classification and who have been in the police school only two weeks will be assigned to regular posts. Opening of the proposed police academy, set for this month, has been postponed until January. To provide faster communication ters, four additional precinct scout cars will be equipped with two-way radios today. Only one car previously has been provided with this facility. Some means of identification will be given each auxiliary policeman, Maj. Kelly said. He also pointed out that an appropriation with which to supply the force with automobiles, clothing, rubber boots, coats, fire extinguishers and other equipment will be needed. Preparing for registration of auxiliary police applicants, Inspector Harvey G. Callahan yesterday sent an order for precincts to proceed with routine and to "conduct character investigations as previously." He said that registration cards would be delivered to the precincts from the Civilian Defense Volunteer

3,500 D. C. Men And Women Sworn As Air Raid Wardens

Special Training Begun; All Walks Of Life Represented

More than 3,500 white and colored men and women crowded into the Fire Department training school at 635 North Carolina avenue S.E. last night and took an oath to perform their duty as members of the District's force of air raid war-

Faces from all walks of life ware represented in the throng that jammed the building to take the pledge as rapidly as they could force their way into the room in it was administered by Battalien Chief Clement Murphy, chief raid warden, and Lt. Col. Sidney Mashbir, assistant warden. Ecca." of the crowded conditions, distributtion of identification cards was posponed until later.

All Will Be Fingerprinted.

The meeting lasted until nearly midnight. Orders were given for all wardens to appear at police stations after 4 o'clock this afternoon to be fingerprinted. Special police will be assigned to the work at that time. All persons who did not take the oath last night are requested to come to the training school to go through the routine any time after 7:30 o'clock tonight or tomorrow night.

Meanwhile, Capt. A. F. G. Lucas, director of rescue activities for the District Civilian Defense Council, whose job it will be to train and organize air raid rescue squads for the city, called two meetings for this week. White candidates will meet at MacFarland Junior High School. Iowa avenue and Webster street N.W., at 8 p.m. tomorrow, and colored candidates at Banneker Junior High School, 800 Euclid street N.W., at the same hour Thursday

Capt. Lucas reported that more than 21,000 persons had volunteered for rescue work since the call for registration was made last June. Only a certain portion of these, however, have been requested to attend the two meetings

Dan Long Will Be Chief.

After the squads have been setup and trained, they will be under the supervision of Dan Long, who will serve as chief of the headquarters department of the rescue squad organization. As a nucleus, 15 light souads of 20 men and four heavy squads of 50 men will be trained in the art of rescuing persons from bomb-wrecked buildings and in other phases of emergency work. Later, additional squads will be formed until the city is completely covered.

Each squad member, Capt. Lucas said, will be given instruction in first aid as a foundation course. Training for both skilled and unskilled labor will be provided. Such necessary skills in a time of emergency as electricians, staamfitters and plumbers, for instance, will be coached in methods of carrying on their work under abnormal condi-

Many of the prospective air raid wardens who attended last night's meeting at the fire department training school already had been on duty. Some of them had seen service throughout Sunday night as guards against sabotage at strategic points in the city.

Included in the group were deputy wardens, assistant deputy wardens, zone wardens and sector wardens. They were scheduled to have taken their oath in groups of 35 and then to have been issued identification cards. Under the crowded conditions, only 70 cards were given out and the remainder will be distributed through the deputy wardens.

Told of Responsibility.

"Everyone has a responsibility to his country and to God." Chief Murphy told the throng. "The air raid warden service is a tremendous job, one that must be done, and I know you will all do your part." Col. Lemuel Bolles, executive defense director for the Washington area, also was present at the meet-

"This is another case of coming to the colors," he said in a brief tall: "Again you all have accepted a greent responsibility and I am sure you will discharge it well."

Information on New Defense Plants Will Be Kept Secret

By the Associated Press

Government agencies moved in unison today to prevent the publication of information which might help Japan in its headlong assault against United States cutposts in the

The press was advised that news coverage would go ahead under the voluntary censorship system invoked in connection with the war in Europe, but the Navy warned that if necessary it would enforce the 1918 Espionage Act. This fixes severe penalties for wilful disclosure of information which may aid the enemy.

Even the Federal Loan Agency had decided, Administrator Jesse Jones said yesterday, to keep secret its data on defense subjects, such as contracts for new defense plants. The Army extended its ban on military information to include information relating to the routes. schedules and destinations of troop movements within or without the continental United States. Memorandum Issued.

The Navy began censoring all outgoing cables and those from Hawaii and the Philippines were censored at the source. The sending of news to Germany, Italy, Finland and Japan was formally prohibited. Dispatches continued to come in from Berlin, Rome and Helsinki, but not from Tokio, although radio broadcasts from Japan were heard. Rear Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, chief of the Navy's Bureau of Public Relations, conceded that cable news from Honolulu and Manila had been delayed, but attributed this to a heavy file of official and other messages and the inexperience of a vastly expanded personnel. He said the situation would improve with expansion of personnel in the Navy Intelligence Office.

Casualties Checked. Admiral Hepburn said it probably would take several days for the Navy to check carefully, notify relatives and make public the names of casualties in Hawaii, estimated by President Roosevelt at 3,000. He asked the press to withhold from publication, until cleared by the Navy, any stories which may be obtained from crew members or their families and remarked that in all cases the names of ships or naval units should be deleted.

Maritime Commission quested that all cease publication of photographs or printed matter "concerning the movement, position, cargo or destination of any merchant vessel in any waters." This did not immediately apply to Great Lakes waters, its memorandum explained, but if there should be extraordinary developments in that area, the commission suggested, the press would readily recognize this and put the request into effect.

Vichy Reported Neutral In Spread of Conflict

VICHY, Unoccupied France. Dec. 9 .- Informed Vichy sources said yesterday that the French government was remaining neutral in the war of the United States and Britain against Japan.

Authoritative sources said they could neither confirm nor deny reports that Japanese troops which passed through Thailand came from French Indo-China bases ceded by France to Japan.

The French position, they said, was "very reserved:"

The French possession of Indo-China is one of the salient areas of the new conflict. During the day, the Japanese Ambassador to France, Sotomatsu Kato, called on Vice Premier Admiral Jean Darian to explain the Japanese point of view.

District Selective Service officials have been advised by national headquarters to proceed for the time being on a "business as usual" basis, but that a doubling of the January quota may be expected. They were told to anticipate a "tremendous" call during the month of February.

A week ago national headquarters spokesmen said a total of 500,000 new men would be added to the Army through selective service by spring. Indications are now that this figure will be more than doubled, bringing the Army man power to nearly 3,000,000 within the next few months.

Japs Reported Seizing Lubang Island, Near Manila Bay Entrance

Anxiety in Philippines Increasing; New Raid On Manila Indicated

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, Dec. 9.-The Philippine Islands, target of repeated and widespread Japanese air raids, faced a new threat today as reports reached here that Japanese troops had seized Lubang Island, about 50 miles off the entrance to Marila Bay.

Adding to the anxiety over this situation was the fear that the Japanese might effect a landing on the big island of Mindanao, where about 10,000 of the 25,000 Japanese settled in the Davao area were said to be armed and ready to co-operate with an invasion attempt.

One report said approximately 3,-000 armed Japanese already were actively resisting Filipino authorities attempting to curb incipient fifth-column activities in Davao Province.

Reliable sources, authority for the reported seizure of Lubang, said the Japanese apparently had gained full control there with the aid of fifth columnists posing as fishermen.

Before the sudden Japanese onslaught Sunday morning against United States possessions in the Pacific, Japanese fishermen were known to have established themselves not only on Lubang, but on other islands farther south.

Lubang of Major Importance. Control of Lubang would be of tremendous importance to the Japanese because of its dominating position southwest of Manila Bay and because it virtually controls waterways between the middle Philippine Archipelago and the China Sea. Manila itself, which experienced three air-raid alarms during the night, was on the alert for a new

Just as he concluded he reported the allclear had sounded, but he did not then know whether any bombs had been dropped and that Manila, up to then, "has not suffered

(A C. B. S. reported said Manila was a "bad dream throughout yesterday and last night," with the final all clear sounding at 7 a.m.-6 p.m. E. S. T. Monday.) Details Still Lacking.

12 were injured today in a morning's pre-dawn raid on Nichols Field, near Manila. The Army spokesman said 10 Japanese bombers raided Nichols Field, damaging one hangar and burning an officers' quarters. The two soldiers wounded near Fort William McKinley were injured by a stray bomb, he declared. Other sources also said that fort was not bombed but that some antiaircraft guns had gone into action. Neither did bombs fall on the waterfront, they said, and reports that they had were the error of witnesses who mistook the attack on nearby Nichols Field for a bombardment of the breakwater sector.

Because Nichols Field is near crowded Panaque, that district will be evacuated, probably today, marking the first Army-sponsored exodus from Manila.

Alarm Lasts 4 Hours. The Nichols Field air alarm lasted more than four hours-from 3:09 a.m. to 7:20 a.m. Because of the lapse of time, many Manilans, including some soldiers, thought the all-clear was a new alarm and there was a moment's flurry as the crews manned their guns. One anti-aircraft gun fired a single shot although no planes were visible. Belated dispatches from the northern part of Luzon told how American pursuit planes had beaten off three separate daylight raids on western coastal areas yesterday after the Japanese had caused minor damage to air fields, bridges and buildings.

District Seeks 14,000 More Volunteers for Civilian Defense Units

Bolles Issues Call For Firemen, Police Air-Raid Wardens

Enlistment of 14,000 additional volunteer defense workers was asked today by Col. Lemuel L. Bolles, executive director of civilian defense for Washington, as the city worked feverishly under the impetus of sudden war to perfect its protective organization.

Col. Bolles said about 2,400 more volunteer firemen were needed, 6.500 additional auxiliary policemen and 5,000 more air raid wardens. A considerable number of physicians, nurses, hospital orderlies and other trained medical and first aid workers also are wanted at once. At the same time, Col. Bolles and Commissioner John Russell Young, civilian defense co-ordinator, reported a heartening response by thousands of patriotic citizens and organizations, with offers to do anything they might be asked.

Workers Needed Urgently. In addition to the classes of workers described as needed urgently. Col. Bolles asked for volunteers to serve in emergency feeding units and to organize emergency billeting and housing facilities.

The District officials asked volunteers not to telephone or call at the office of Col. Bolles, which is swamped with the general work of directing civilian defense, but to apply, wherever possible, to the regional offices which have been established all over the city for various types of workers. With identification becoming a serious problem, because raid warden and others roam the streets at night in pursuit of their duty, Commissioner Young approved a suggestion that all American Legion members wear their uniforms. Many of the volunteers are Legionnaires.

Col. Bolles is arranging to order 30,000 arm bands for all classes of defense workers. While awaiting fabrication of these, identification cards will be issued to all civilian volunteers.

As of last Friday, he said, there was shown by a special survey that preference by defense workers was given for 113,000 private rental dwelling units, of which 4,000 were located here. Migrant workers, he explained, are reluctant to to buy homes, because of the nature of their work. He declared that in the District the trend has been for the Government to develop defense housing units in the downtown sections while private operators have moved to the suburbs and nearby communities.

Mr. Fahey declared that "it may be argued that all this was not clearly apparent until recently but it can not be denied that if Washington's housing problems had been tackled with greater imagination and determination long ago, we certainly would be in a better position than we are now.'

Theodore W. Noyes Cites Traditional Capital Role In Times of Sacrifices

The 76th anniversary of the founding of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants of Washington was observed here last night amid a "national response, in the spirit of another '76, to a treacherous attack upon our American democratic free-

With this as its keynote, the celebration was marked by a dinner in the Raleigh Hotel attended by more than 100 persons, including prominent District and Federal officials.

"We celebrate the association's 76th birthday at the time of a revival of the national spirit of another "76," declared Theodore W. Noyes, association president and toastmaster for the evening. "Today there rings out the national response. in the spirit of 1776, to a treacherous attack upon our democratic freedom and upon national security. * * * A united America faces its assailant."

In a similar vein, Senator O Mahoney, Democrat, of Wyoming spoke of the "grave crisis which was inescapable" and added that "God willing, we will resist and crush the Asserting that public thought in national defense seems to forbid corrective action on some important District problems at this time, Mr. Noyes stressed that this was still an opportune time for the "enfranchisement of the voteless and unrepresented Americans of the District as "The dominating thought today." he said, "concerns vitalized Americanism, patriotic sacrifice first in preparedness to prevent war and, now since war has come in preparedness for war itself; a quickening and intensifying everywhere of the fine strong spirit of American nationality. Senator O'Mahoney said it was his desire to co-operate in the objectives "so near to your hearts." Economic Freedom Cited. The Senator pointed out that although District citizens were deprived of their suffrage rights, "it is true that you are still economically free. . . One great difficulty of our times is that in many localities economic freedom is lost."

Angry Seattle Crowd Stones Stores to Enforce Blackout

Show Windows Smashed And Displays Looted In Defiance of Police

By the Associated Press. SEATTLE, Dec. 9.—Smashing show windows and looting displays, a crowd of more than 1,000 persons enforced Seattle's first wartime blackout in defiance of police today.

The crowd, completely out of control of city police, milled through the center of the city's business district for an hour beginning at midnight. Approximately 30 show windows, ranging from tiny shoe shop panes to huge glass plates, were smashed.

Nearly all of the displays were looted, some of the merchandise being thrown in the streets and other more valuable pieces disappearing.

The demonstration began at Fourth avenue and Pike street, the city's busiest corner. A huge blue neon sign above an upstairs clothing store shed a ghastly glow over the entire intersection. Nearly all other lights in the area were turned off at 11 p.m.

Yells and Catcalls.

Yells and catcalls began almost immediately, and by midnight bottles, rocks, tin cans and old shoes were being heaved despite the efforts of a squad of police.

Eventually, an employe of a sign company broke out of a third-floor window from inside and inched along the top of the sign-amid a shower of missles-to a connection to extinguish the light. Police cars pushing their way along the curbs started the crowd moving, while an officer with a loud-speaker urged all civilians to go

The crowd, urged on by shouting Doubling Arms Output women, gathered at a small jewelry store across the street where a single light burned in an entry. A thrown rock smashed the plate glass door and a triumphant youngster rushed inside to grab the offending bulb.

U. S. Asks Neutral To Arrange Trade Of Trapped Nationals

100 American Diplomatic Officials and 5,000 Others In Japanese Areas

The United States has asked a neutral European nation to negotiate the exchange of Americans rapped by the war in Japan and Japanese-occupied territory for Japanese subjects here, it was understood today.

More than 100 American diplomatic and consular officials were on duty in Japan, occupied China, Man-chukuo, Thailand and French Indo-China when Japanese warplanes struck at Hawaii and the Philippines. Between 35 and 50 Japanese government officials are in American territory.

There was no immediate indication of exactly how an exchange might be effected. It has been international custom for diplomatic and consular officials of belligerent nations to be exchanged as quickly as the formalities and transportation can be arranged after a declaration of war. The present situation created some extraordinary problems,

5,000 Americans in Japan. The State Department refused any formal comment except for an announcement by Secretary Hull yesterday that the various problems relating to the return of American officials and nationals from Japan and the departure of Japanese officials here would receive constant attention

Switzerland, Sweden, Portugal and Spain are among the few European neutrals with diplomatic facilities in both Japan and the United States. One of these nations is expected to act as intermediary. Dr. Joao Antonio de Bianchi, the Portuguese Minister, called on Undersecretary of State

Welles late yesterday. Aside from the diplomats involved, there are an estimated 5,000 Americans in Japan and Japaneseoccupied territories for whom some of the 93,000 Japanese registered in the United States might be exchanged-if transportation could be arranged. The high officials for whom exchange arrangements are to be made include Joseph C. Grew, American Ambassador in Tokio, and Rationally Famous Willis R. Peck, United States Minister to Thailand, and Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, Japanese Ambassador here, and Saburo Kurusu, special envoy.

Borders Closed to Aliens. In the meantime, both the United States and Japan have closed their borders to the departure of any alien. Officials at the Japanese Embassy here and consulates throughout the country remained under spe-cial protection, but were not at liberty to depart pending completion of exchange arrangements.

The State Department received word late yesterday that the American consulate general in the International Settlement at Shanghai, China, had been closed by Japanese authorities. Officers of the consulate general and of the United States Court for China were required by the Japanese to live in the Metropole Hotel.
Consul Edwin F. Stanton at district, with highly important oil resources and defense works. An area of 15 miles around the harbor was blacked out. Simultaneously, 200 women and children, families of Army officers, were evacuated from the Fort MacArthur Military Reservation at San Pedro.

Coming with startling suddenness to a city that had never even practiced a blackout, the first air raid alarm caught San Francisco with a still incompleted warning system. Police ordered motorists to drive with only parking lights. Streetcars turned off most of their lights and buses proceeded without lights.

From district firehouses all over the city came the wail of fire sirens. as engines were driven into the streets and their emergency noisemakers turned on. All local broadcasting stations were off the air. C.I.O. Head Calls Workers 'Eager' to Supply Arms In 'Greatest Quantity'

Strikes and threatened strikes were called off throughout the Nation today in the face of war and the Executive Committee of the C. I. O. Washington Industrial Union Council last night issued a call for a "national policy of voluntary, peaceable settlement of all labor disputes.'

At the same time the committee asked for "defeat of such efforts to shackle the free labor movement of America by such repressive legislation as the Smith anti-labor bill, because a free labor movement is the best guarantee for Hitler's de-

The group called for unity among all branches of labor, industry and Government to prosecute successfully the war and reaffirmed "our pledge to win the battle for production behind our heroic Army and Navy through uninterrupted and increased production." Defense Strike Ends.

Meanwhile, a strike of union workmen at the Army's $57,000,000 shell-loading plant near Ravenna, Ohio, came to an abrupt end last night because of the war with Japan. R. R. Walker, president of the Arsenal Workers of America, said his union and the A. F. L. Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Switchmen's Union of North America decided to halt the five-day walkout because of the war.

G. W. U. Alumni Have Important War Roles

George Washington University alumni are holding important posts in the Pacific, according to Lester A. Smith, secretary of the university alumni association.

In Tokio is Ambassador Joseph C. Grew, who took his doctor of laws from the university in 1926. In Canberra, capital of Australia, is American Minister Nelson T. Johnson, doctor of laws at the university in 1932, and Chinese Minis-

Board of Trade Unit Holds Emergency Meeting To Consider Problem

The special committee of the Washington Board of Trade for the protection of industrial and commercial concerns in the city today preparation for any possible contingency.

This was brought out at the emergency meeting yesterday by John Hasley, member of the group, which met with Commissioner John Russell Young as representative of the various civilian defense agencies.

"Because of this situation we feel it is necessary to take quick action," Mr. Hasley declared in adding that the "essence of this whole thing is speed, and we hope it won't be necessary" in discussing possible war damage in the National Capital. He told the trade group of the District Building meeting yesterday and asked for speed in getting the various branches into full operating condition. Groups represented were office buildings, apartments, hospitals, public utilities, manufacturers, hotels, stores and other commercial establishments here.

Plan Being Developed. The board committee, in general, is developing a plan to organize each place which has 100 or more tenants or employes so that maximum protection may be afforded workers and customers, it was reported. In this category, it was suggested that each have at least one representative of the civilian defense groups represented for each floorthese to be named and certified by responsible representatives. All designated wardens, rescue men, fire fighters and others will be given proper credentials for assisting municipal workers in combating war disaster, including sabotage, it was

The representatives were asked to have a list of qualified workers for submission by Saturday. Meanwhile, the Junior Board of Commerce will appoint 12 inspectors to assist in the Board of Trade work for the protection of commercial and business interests of the city. The area committees of the civilian defense organization were asked to join with the board in co-opera-police, health, maintenance and escue services. The question of responsibility for buildings which were partly occupied by Government agencies was raised, but it was pointed out this problem was being handled by the District Building group. Mr. Hasley said he was expected to report Monday to Commissioner Young on the board's

It has been determined, he said, to give the American people an adequate diet throughout the war and for this purpose large stock piles of all vital foods which can be stored will be created. Diet, he said, has been made an integral function of every State council of national defense.

Vitamin pill makers may be "kidding the public," it was maintained by Dr. William H. Sebrell, jr., nutrition expert of the United States Public Health Service. In a recent survey of drugstore shelves, he said, he found more than 25 kinds of multiple vitamin preparations supposed to provide all these health-giving elements needed by the average adult. In accordance with the law the precise formula was recorded on each bottle. Each preparation contained vitamin A-from 10,000 to 20,000 international units. This looks like an enormous amount, Dr. Sebrell pointed out, to the phrchaser, who may not realize that an interunit is only six tenthousands of a milligram and that there are close to 30,000 milligrams case of extreme deficiency. The idea is, Dr. Sebrell believes, cheap at present and 10,000 units of anything looks like a lot to the uninitiated. It probably does no harm. However, he insisted, the vitamin, now made synthetically, will not be so abundant in war time.

Almost the opposite was true, he found, for thiamin chloride, or vitamin B-1. The capsules ranged in content from about three international units-too little to be of any value-to three milligrams. The latter is in excess of the required amount per day. It happense that thiamin is rather expensive.

Senator Glass' Daughter Japanese Fishing Boats Left Estate of $6,810

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Dec. 9.-A tax appraisal filed yesterday disclosed that the late Mrs. Augusta Glass Digges, daughter of Senator Glass, Demo-crat, of Virginia, left a gross estate death last June 30.

Real estate which she jointly owned with her husband, Isaac W. Digges, of Bedford, N. Y., totaled $37,000, against which were mortgages of $30,856. The will designated Agnes Starkey Wade of Roanoke, Va., as residuary legatee.

Unity and Confusion

It may be doubted whether the United States ever before has achieved a degree of national unity comparable to that attending the formal entry into war with Japan yesterday.

In less than four hours after the President had addressed the joint session of Congress he was affixing his signature to the document officially declaring the existence of a state of war with the Island Empire. This joint resolution was voted without any adverse debate, the Senate passing it unanimously and there being but one dissent in the House. In all respects, it was a performance without precedent in the history of this country.

The reason for this solidarity of public opinion is to be found, of course, in the ruthless and wanton character of the Japanese attack. The militarists in Tokio, seeking by stealth and treachery to secure an initial advantage, have succeeded in making for themselves an enemy incomparably stronger than would have been the case had their assault been made along any other line. It would be idle to deny that the character of Japan's attack brought an initial success in the heavy damage done to the United States fleet and Army. But it was a success achieved at the price of creating overnight a united American people-united in the unswerving determination to crush Japan. In the long run, the men at Tokio will learn that this was too high a price to pay for their early

This new spirit of unity which has swept across the United States, this firm resolve to see the war through to a successful conclusion, is not to be taken for granted by this Government, however. The people who must and who will carry the burden of the war, in return for the sacrifices they will be called upon to make, have a right to expect certain things of their Government.

For one thing, they are asking and they should be told how it was possible for a large Japanese force to strike such a successful blow at Hawaii, our island outpost in the mid-Pacific and supposedly one of the most strongly defended bases in the world. It seems all too clear that the American forces there were taken completely by surprise. Could this have happened if the proper precautions had been taken by those responsible for the defense of Hawaii? It is difficult to believe that the answer can be other than a negative one, and in that event the people of the country are entitled to rope. know why the precautions were not

On still another score—that pertaining to information on the progress of the war-it would seem that the people are receiving less consideration than is due them.

As yet, for example, there has been no specific information relative to the damage inflicted by the Japanese in their surprise attack. This, possibly, may be explained on the ground that reasons of military secrecy require the withholding for the time being of exact information on losses, since this information might be useful to the enemy, but no one will contend that such an explanation can apply to the almost unbelievable mishandling of information concerning the alleged approach of enemy planes to San Francisco last night.

As late as this morning the people of the country did not know with certainty whether Japanese planes actually had broken all the way through our Pacific defenses and reached the West Coast. The air-raid alarms were sounded intermittently throughout the night in what must have been a harrowing ordeal for the million people in the affected area. But as of this morning the facts of the matter still were lost in a fog of official confusion.

Lieutenant General John L. Dewitt, chief of the Western defense command, says unequivocally that several groups of enemy planes were sighted over the San Francisco Bay area. And, he adds, a full report was made to the office of the Chief of Staff of the Army in Washington. But throughout the night in the Capital it was repeatedly stated that the War Department had received no information indicating that there was hostile activity on the West Coast, and at 3 o'clock this morning the office of the Chief of Staff stated officially that "from information received up to the present time we annot confirm the presence of any incredible confusion, it was stated union miners will "serve the national the expiration of the sixth term he and radishes. on unofficial authority-apparently emergency by contributing to unity may emerge from the doghouse.

incorrect—that the alarms were staged merely for test purposes.

A certain amount of confusion and muddling is to be expected, of course, when war bursts suddenly upon a country. But there can be no excuse for permitting conditions of the past forty-eight hours to continue, and it is to be hoped that the President will act at once to work out some system whereby the people of the country, in all cases where legitimate military considerations do not dictate to the contrary, may receive prompt and accurate information relative to the conduct of a war in which they are so vitally con-

Pacific Strategy

Since not merely the Far East but the major part of the Pacific Ocean is involved in the new war between Japan and the A. B. C. D. powers, it is time to consider the basic strategic pattern of the mighty struggle which is being waged. Then only can we see the picture as a whole and appreciate the meaning of individual

The outstanding factor is the remoteness of the two chief contestants, Japan and America, from each other. The Pacific Ocean averages nearly thrice as broad as the Atlantic. A few figures will show what this implies. The shortest steamer route, that between Seattle and Yokohama, which takes advantage of the "great northern circle," is fully 4,500 miles. The middle route, from San Francisco to Yokohama via Hawaii, is 6.300 miles. The southern commercial from the Panama Canal to Manila via Hawaii, across the broadest stretch of the Pacific, is approximately 10,000 miles.

However, these vast distances are not unbroken ocean. They are dotted, especially toward the south, by many islands which form important bases for attack or defense. Our Pearl Harbor base at Hawaii is the vital pivot for our whole strategic 'triangle" of naval and air defense of the Pacific Coast. In like manner, Japan's outer defense bastion is the giant parallelogram of mandated islands in the South-Central Pacific, gained from Germany in the last war. This huge block of islanddotted ocean, stretching some 3,000 miles east and west, and uninterrupted except for our defenseless island of Guam, stands athwart the sea route from Hawaii to the Philippines. Japan's inner defenses are the vast chain of islands stretching from the tip of Russian Kamchatka to Formosa, close to the Philippines. In previous war scares between an isolated war between them. America now has allies in the British Empire, China and the Dutch Indies. which would enable fleets, convoys and air squadrons to cross the Pacific by southerly detours and strike the Japanese from allied bases in the Far East. However, the Japanese are already striking at some of the island stepping stones along those routes, in an obvious endeavor to sever them, while other forces are threatening the main bases them-

In this far-flung strategic panorama, the chief enigma is Russia. Seated at relatively nearby Vladivostok, Russian air and submarine forces could take the Japanese in the rear. But as yet, Russia has made no sign, and it may well be that she will play a "containing" role, immobilizing much of Japan's naval and air strength, yet not entering the war directly while fully engaged in Eu-

Mr. Lewis Wins

With the United States at war, the arbitration decision awarding the union shop to the United Mine Workers in the captive coal mines will receive far less attention than otherwise would have been the case. And perhaps it is just as well that this

The record in this controversy has been a disgraceful one. John L. Lewis, with 95 per cent of the miners already belonging to his union, has succeeded now in bringing about the compulsory unionization of the 2,500 men who did not belong. This was accomplished by calling three strikes which threatened to deprive the Nation of steel at a time when its security was gravely menaced. To state it bluntly, Mr. Lewis and those who stood with him put the United States in jeopardy in order to force 2,500 miners to become union

Of the arbitration board's decision, there is not much to be said. The board divided. Chairman John R. Steelman and Mr. Lewis being in the majority, with Benjamin Fairless. president of the United States Steel Corporation, dissenting. The deciding vote, of course, was cast by Doctor Steelman, who took leave of absence from his post as director of the United States Conciliation Service to sit on the board. Doctor Steelman made it clear that he saw no reason why the minority in this case should not be compelled to join the union, and if that premise be accepted there can be no criticism of the ruling he based on it. But there will be many to reject the premise outright. And this contrary view, wholly aside from the resentment aroused by the tactics employed by Mr. Lewis, stems from the firm belief that no American should be compelled to join any union in order to hold his job. It may be true, as Doc- must sigh for the good old days and tor Steelman suggested, that the look wistfully into a dark future. cannot confirm the presence of any tor steelman suggested, that the hostile planes." and assuring continuity of maximum coal production," but it might be pointed out that this line of reasoning, carried to its logical conclusion, could only be expected to result in the obliteration of all minority rights in the name of national unity.

As the decision favorable to Mr. Lewis was announced, it was also disclosed that Philip Murray, president of the C. I. O., and Thomas Kennedy, secretary of the United Mine Workers, had rejected the President's request that they withdraw their resignations from the Defense Mediation Board. Mr. Murray and Mr. Kennedy resigned from the Mediation Board in protest against its refusal to order the union shop, despite the fact that the board's decisions prior to that time had been almost invariably favorable to labor. It is to be hoped that the present great danger to the country may yet induce these two labor leaders to reconsider their ill-advised action.

Island Outposts

"The Navy has advised the President that Guam has been attacked." This laconic sentence, relayed to reporters at the White House Sunday afternoon and supplemented by Japanese claims that the island had been taken, heralds fulfillment of grave fears of such a contingency which have worried our naval and military experts for years, and especially since the finding by the Hepburn Board in 1938 that the fortification of Guam was vital to American security in the Pacific.

It was to prepare against such an attack by Japan that the Hepburn Board and our naval and military strategists sought unremittingly for appropriations with which to build up defenses for the small island outpost, which lies between Hawaii and the Philippine Islands, close to Japan's menacing mandated islands. But it was not until March of this year, with most of the world aflame with war, that Congress finally approved a modified program for improvement of Guam's harbor and air terminal facilities. At that time Navy officials estimated that it would take more than a year to complete the curtailed

The Hepburn report asserted that fortification of Guam was necessary to safeguard the Philippine Islands, to "impede, if not actually deny, extensive hostile naval operations to the southward" and to "simplify our naval problem, should the fleet ever be called upon for operations in the Far East." The Navy Department Japan and the United States, the repeatedly has declared that a fully problem was how the contestants equipped naval and air base on Guam the amount of sugar in the blood. This could really come to grips. That, of | would provide "valuable and needed course, was when it was a matter of assistance" in repelling an attack on Hawaii, the Panama Canal or the continental United States.

Despite the pleas of our experts, however, Congress shied from the Guam project for fear of "offending Japan," after a Japanese admiral had warned that the fortification of the island would constitute "placing a gun at the gates of Japan." Even as the admiral spoke, it was learned long afterward. Japan was doing some gun-pointing of its own from its mandated islands surrounding Guam. Japan omitted from its 1938 report to the League of Nations its previous pledge that the mandated islands would not be fortified, and it has been an open secret in recent years that naval and air bases were under construction in the Marianas, Caroline and Marshall Islands. The Navy, requesting at least enough money to dredge the harbor at Guam for submarine use and for seaplane operations and to build air-raid shelters and provide other anti-aircraft protection, finally succeeded this year in obtaining an appropriation of $4.-700,000. Funds for air bases at Wake, Midway and other Pacific islands also were granted. Even with completion of the improvements, Guam would have lacked the fortifications deemed by the Hepburn Board to be essential to its defense against an attack in

The progress made to date in building America's chain of midocean air bases in the Pacific is a military secret, as is also the strength of the garrisons and the number of planes at each station. But one thing is certain: America is much stronger today than she was a year ago, thanks to the foresightedness of President Roosevelt and of his military and naval advisers.

Anybody Want an Elephant?

The scene was a magistrate's court in Flushing, Long Island. "This. man, your honor," said the prosecutor, "contrary to the peace, dignity and health of New York State, has elephants in his garage." The magistrate blinked. "Do you mean bats in his belfry?" he suggested. "I could understand that. The other

Not knowing what to do with his pair of elephants after the closing of Luna Park, and unable to obtain from the local authorities a permit to house them, their owner had taken a in the form of coal and oil supply the chance and garaged them on his own premises.

The elephant has taken it on the chin for some time now. If not poisoned outright, he is pushed from pillar to post, from tent to garage, scorned by nearly all. Could this possibly trace back to the great elephant disaster of the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November of last year? The elephant, fortunately, is thick-skinned, but even he

By Thomas R. Henry.

"Quick-lunch disease," a hitherto unrecognized malady due to lack of the vitamin B complex in the diet, has just been reported to the American Medical

It is predominantly an ailment of women white-collar workers in the Northern cities, especially New York. The symptoms, say Drs. Michael J. Lepore and Ross Golden of the Columbia University Medical School, are quite distinct from the recognized vitamin B maladies and their subclinical states. These are pellagra, due to lack of nicotinic acid, beriberi caused by inadequacy of thiamin chloride, and ariboflavinosis, recently discovered condition caused by too little riboflavin. All these vitamins now are being put in bread.

In few of their cases, the physicians report, was there the excuse of poverty for poor diet. In some instances it was due to attempts to lose weight, in others to a dislike for various essential foods. and in many others to "laziness" among white-collar workers who disliked cooking and tried to manage with sandwiches, fewer meals and foods requiring less preparation.

The net result, they say, was that their patients were living on diets rich in sugars and starches and very low in fats and proteins. It is recognized that a high starch and sugar diet increases the demand of the body for the B

The most prominent symptom, they found, was general weakness. The patients came to them complaining of lack of pep. They had poor appetites and this helped perpetuate the vicious circle.

Personality changes often were marked. One woman declared that if the prescribed diets did not help her she would almost certainly have to break up her home because "she was so cranky she was not fit to live with." Weakness and faintness came on from two to four hours after meals.

Some of the most frequent complaints were of "gas pains." These often caused patients to stop after eating only a small part of a meal. There is often a story of a sore tongue and burning of the mouth. Definite changes have been shown by X-ray pictures in the small intestines, which may be responsible for the discomfort. Drs. Lepore and Golden believe they may be brought about by changes in the autonomic nervous system due to lack of the B vitamins

Probably the most striking feature of the new malady, from the medical standpoint, is the failure of the system to utilize the sugar eaten. The patients are like furnaces with clinker-clogged grates. When sugar is given them after a period of fasting there is very little increase in probably is responsible, the physicians believe, for general weakness

There are, they believe, two reasons for the condition. The bodies of the patients have built up mechanisms to save themselves from the effects of too much sugar and have carried the processes too far. One is an acceleration of the blood sugar removal mechanism. The other is a slowing down of the absorption of sugar from the gastro-intestinal tract. The malady probably has escaped detection in the past. Drs. Lepore and

Golden believe, because the symptoms are so confusing and the patient seldom is bed-ridden. "Many of them are working," they report to the American Medical Association, "and have been classed as neurotics and cranks by their associates. A number are nurses and physicians who have eliminated the possibility of organic disorders to their own satisfaction and are ashamed to report their symptoms for fear they will be called neurotic. "They manage to struggle along, feeling under par, like an eight-cylinder motor hitting on four. They are often the bane of the existence of the physician who sees them, for the usual examination reveals nothing to account for their symptoms. Useless operations, including appendectomy, have been done on several

With the administration of Vitamin B complex, they report, "the improvement was at times almost unbelievable. Appetite improved, tiredness disappeared, mental attitudes changed, weight increased, diarrhea disappeared, and various abdominal aches improved. Usually the improvement became evident by the first week or two."

Heavy life, hitherto considered a fantastic dream of some far-off future, has been realized to a limited degree at the University of Minnesota.

It was reported to the National Academy of Science by Drs. Richard Belkengran, Alfred O. Nier and George O. Burr. A part of every living thing on earth, basic constituent of protoplasm, the "stuff of life," is the element carbon. This exists in two forms, the common carbon 12 which constitutes the greater part of coal, sugar, diamonds, etc., and the slightly heavier isotope, carbon 12, which is 100-fold less abundant. The Minnesota scientists have been able to concentrate the heavy carbon in the growing coot tips of beans and radishes. Thus they have produced what is essentially heavy protoplasm in these humble organisms.

The basis of all life on earth is the process of photosynthesis. Green plants absorb water from the soil and the gas. carbon dioxide, from the air. Chlorophyl, the green coloring matter in leaves, traps sunshine, by means of whose energy the carbon is split off from the carbon dioxide and the hydrogen from the water. These are combined to form sugars. starches and other substances which constitute the bulk of the body of the plant, are essential foodstuffs for animals, and earth with heat and power. The normal carbon dioxide of the air contains about one per cent of carbon 13. In the process of photosynthesis this acts precisely the same as does ordinary carbon, but the amount is so small that it can cause no difference in life reac-

The University of Minnesota professors were able by means of a recently developed thermal diffusion apparatus to obtain a concentration of about 10 per cent of the heavy carbon in the poisonous marsh gas, methane. This was burned to form carbon dioxide. This, in turn, was

It seemed as if the presence of the larger bird hypnotized the songbirds. Not a one of them flew out of the Van Fleet rose vine in which they had been perched.

The hawk flew into the vine, seized a sparrow and tried to fly out again, but got caught by the big thorns of this rose. It was the commotion he made at this time which attracted our attention. It was impossible to see, through the leaves, whether he had a sparrow or not. By the time entrance to the yard could be made the hawk had freed himself and his victim and had settled down in the yard, holding the bird down with its talons and stabbing clouds of breast feathers out of the victim with his great beak. In this case, certainly, he was not eating the feathers. When the hawk saw us he flew up, still holding the sparrow, and flew over the trees and

Discusses Problems Of "Boarders" in Washington. To the Editor of The Star:

In glancing over the news recently I was attracted by an article concerning the permitting of roomers and boarders in restricted Chevy Chase residential areas. Being in the boarder's category myself. I was anxious to read any facts that might have bearing on my future living conditions.

As I read along, I became highly incensed at one statement. "They are leeches coming here in search of the dollar." Webster's definition of a leech is "Any of numerous carnivorous or bloodsucking annelid worms constituting a class." I think that the comparison of a Government defense worker, like myself, to a leech is rather harsh

I am sure if any one were to make a thorough study of the conditions that we, transients, working and living away from home, encounter, he would sympathize with us. It is true in most cases that Government salaries do exceed those paid by private concerns; but, on the other hand, our total expenses covering room and board, transportation to and from work, various charitable contributions. taxes, entertainment, etc., leave but little of our munificent salaries for other purposes. In fact, for many of us, it is practically impossible to even afford to light the photosynthetic process continued without change and the heavy carbon was incorporated at varying rates into every part of the plant they have been able to examine. Within 24 hours it was being concentrated in the growing rout tips.

Practically all the elements which make up protoplasm now are available in heavier forms but some in such minute amounts that any experiments are impossible. Heavy protoplasm itself is a scientific curiosity, at present of no value, per se. The real object of the experiments was to determine the rate of formation of the various physical constituents of life-cullulose, starches, proteins and animo acids.

Heavy life itself, some have speculated, where the lighter forms of some elements | undermine the common welfare.

All humans are alike insofar as wanting the nicer things in life. If pleasant, homelike surroundings in the lovelier residential sections of the city make us feel less like the stranger in a strange city, I feel that the natives of Washington should be willing to extend us this hospitality. After all, it's not asking for charity! Washington has a definite housing problem. If all Washingtonians were to agree with the assertion that "He, for one, didn't want 25 or 30 Government workers living next to him and coming in and out at all hours of the night," just where would we live? And who would keep the Government

Again I believe it is a mistake to assume too much that we workers have no real interest in Washington, I know that I, for one, have grown very fond of Washington and would like to make it my permanent home. I am sure there are countless others who feel that Washington is probably the most beautiful city in the United States; and who feel proud to be living in a city that the eyes of the world are centered on today. I am living in a grand boarding house in the Northwest section. It is owned by a woman who is like a mother to all of us, and has made us feel that we are right at home. I am sure that she could be called a "patriot" in the true sense of the word, and is doing her bit for national defense at home.

I feel confident that, after carefully weighing the pros and cons, the Chevy Chase Citizens' Association's final decision will be in favor of revising the present zoning law

U.S. Learns Lesson in Attack

Meantime, Naval Losses Raise Question of Alertness

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

While Japan caught the United States Navy napping at Hawaii, the lesson of that sudden attack will influence American defense policy to come, not only on the Pacific, but on the Atlantic Coast as well

No longer will it be argued that nations do not send their air forces 3,000 miles to attack. Japan sent her airplanes farther than Germany would have to David Lawrence. send them from the Azores or from African bases, and certainly if Nazi or Vichy-owned aircraft carriers some day duplicated the Japanese feat, attacks on American coast cities from the air are equally as

Just as the French depended on the Maginot Line and never thought much in terms of offensive war, so today the United States is paying the penalty of having believed too much in the isolationist doctrine of two oceans as a protection against invasion or attack.

Until less than a year ago the designers of airplanes for the United States were told to think in defensive terms. Only within the last few months have the possibilities of offensive war, in the form of mighty long-range bombers with large cruising speed, or numerous aircraft carriers capable of launching longrange bombing planes, been an integral part of American defense pollcy. And, of course, in time of emergency the United States now does not have enough.

Failures Other Than Navy.

Congress already is giving voice to an undercurrent of criticism against the Navy, little realizing that our air force for offensive use against Japan is weaker than it should be, largely because even as late as April, 1940, Congress refused to bestir itself and vote large appropriations for airplane making.

But there is another phase to the criticism of those circumstances which today bring Americans face to face with their first major naval defeat in many decades of history. It is that somehow the civilian branch of the administration did not synchronize its advices and judgment too well with the naval branch of the Government.

Inside the administration it was well known, for instance, that the militarists in Japan might at any moment commit an overt act. This has happened before in our relations with Japan, as, for example, when the Panay was bombed in Chinese waters-an act later repudiated by the Japanese civilian officials in contact with our Am-

Could Have Acted Secretly.

It was known here that the memoranda being enchanged might prolong the recent negotiations and that the militarists have felt themselves in no sense responsible always for keeping the foreign office at Tokio advised of its plans. It is a reasonable supposition that neither Ambassador Nomura nor Saburo Kurusu knew of the impending attack. It would be like the militarists to use the diplomatic branch of the government to cover up preparations for attack and to keep that fact secret from everybody in the whole foreign service of

But in Washington when the first note was sent on November 26-a flat rejection of the Japanese viewpoint-it was known that the militarists might break loose. Why wasn't the Navy ordered to be at posts of duty 24 hours a day when such a critical stage was reached in our relations with such an uncertain government as the Japanese has shown itself to be?

Under the American congressional nities for interrogating the responsible officials of the executive quirements. branch of the Government as under the parliamentary system, but nevertheless there some day will be a lot of asking of questions and a lot of explaining. For while the barrage of accusations concerning the treachery of the Japanese is fully justified, it is also important to know why the American Navy was not on the alert and why it had no way of determining the approach of hostile airplanes. The stories of listening devices that tell of the approach of enemy planes have been widely published heretofore, but no explanation is forthcoming as to why the detection was not made in the case of the Japanese on Sunday.

May Prove Greatest Mistake.

It will also be interesting to learn why the United States sent its note of November 26 if its Navy was as unprepared as recent events show It to have been.

It is too early to know exactly what did happen, and later explanations of the attack may place the Navy in a different light. The mood of Congress, it must be reported, is militant today, and it is a safe assumption that this war will start out with a far more offensive spirit than did the first World War. Perhaps the defeat handed to the United States over the week end will eliminate the boasting and the overconfidence and make all concerned realize that it is poor policy to underestimate an enemy's strength or fighting spirit and that it is wiser to prepare for the worst. Pernaps it will give our Navy the etimulus needed to carry on offensive war against the Japanese.

C. I. O. Cracks the Whip Over Congress In Effort to Kill Anti-Strike Legislation

By GOULD LINCOLN.

What will the war do to the labor question in this country? -a question which has threatened again and again to disrupt the national defense program, and which has indeed retarded that program by the loss of millions of man work days.

A hope was expressed today by Senator Thomas of Utah. chairman of the Senate Lanor Committee, that both labor and industry would work in closer harmony to meet the pressing needs of the Nation. This may well be-the burden, however, rests upon organized labor which has used the emergency confronting the country for months now to insist upon and obtain its demands, with frequent stoppages of work in defense plants.

The Senate Labor Committee had planned to begin consideration yesterday of the Smith bill to curb strikes in national defense plants, with a view to reporting to the Senate within a week, or a little longer. When the Japanese swooped out of the air to attack Pearl Harbor on Sunday, this plan was upset. The committee met yesterday but decided to postpone any action at all-even a decision to hold hearings on the Smith bill-until Revival of Board Seen. In certain labor circles this was regarded as a welcome respite. The hope exists still in those circles that not only will the Smith bill be killed, but that now no legislation will be enacted. Those who have demanded legislation to curb strikes in defense plants have a very different idea. They believe that this is no time to leave this country wide open to the whims of labor leaders, who may insist upon their demands, even to the extent of disrupting essential production—as they have in the immediate past.

Pending the meeting of the Labor Committee of the Senate tomorrow the Justice Department has been asked to report to the committee what changes. if any, the declaration of a state of war with Japan may have had upon the legal situation. It is the opinion of Senator Thomas that these changes may be material. He suggested that perhaps a revival of the old War Labor Board, which was set up during the last World War and which worked effectively, might take place. On that board were representatives of both labor and management. He pointed out also that under the extraordinary powers given the President in time of war, there might be no necessity of legislation authorizing the seizure of struck plants-as provided for in the bill of Senator Connally of Texas, which has been reported favorably to the Senate from the Judiciary Committee

Whatever the report of the Justice Department may be in that regard, or the action of the Senate Committee on Labor. Senator Connally is determined to bring his measure before the Senate-unless the Labor Committee comes forward with a bill in a reasonable time. By reasonable time, Senator Connally means within a week. His bill does two things: (1) It gives specific authorization for the President to take over plants in which stoppages of work occur, either because of strikes or lockouts; (2) it freezes the shop condition, whether open or closed shop, during the duration of the tated to begin.

Labor's Non-Partisan League, the organ of the C. I. O., meanwhile has delivered a scathing attack on the Smith bill, and on Representative Smith of Virginia, and on the majority of the House membership for passing that bill. It calls the measure "the Smith slave labor bill," and charges that Mr. Smith is merely a tool of the National Manufacturers' Association. The C. I. O. is now bending every energy to prevent the passage by the Senate of any of the provisions of the Smith bill -and to prevent the passage of any legislation at all dealing with strikes. Not only is the C. I O, striving to show Senators that it is not to their political interest to support the Smith bill or any of its provisions, but it is saying to those members of the House who had the temerity to vote for the Smith bill against the wishes of organized labor that they are in for a bad time when election day rolls around next year.

The statement issued by labor's Non-Partisan League says, in this regard: "The House of Representatives, by a vote of 252 to 136 surrendered its sovereign functions of government to the National Association of Manufacturers, when it enacted the Smith slave labor bill. . . . On the vote 50 per cent of the Democratic members of the House and 80 per cent of the Republican members joined the Smith-N. A. M. bloc to enact this vicious bill. Voting for labor were only 40 per cent of the Democratic and 15 per cent of the Republicans. It is vital for labor to realize that the vote on this bill is the test vote of the session. Regardless of how members of Congress may have voted before, a vote for the Smith bill was a betrayal of labor that cannot be condoned. Members of Congress who lined up with the N. A. M. on this key vote deserve to be rebuked at the polls. The voting record on the Smith bill has been published by labor's Non-Partisan League and is available for distribution." Wilson's Action Recalled. And so the C. I. O. is snapping the whip over the backs of members of Congress. Almost at the same time that Japan was launching a devastating attack on Pearl Harbor, the President's board to arbitrate the closed shop issue in the captive coal mines was writing a 2-to-1 decision that the demands of John L. Lewis for a complete union shop—the same thing as a closed shop-should be in order the victory which he set out to win. Expediency governs again in the settlement of labor disputes as it did in the settlement of the threatened railroad strike, when another board of the President's granted concessions which it said were not wise

The actual existence of war may have the effect of halting strikes in defense and essential plants. But whether it does or not, there are members of Congress who insist that the country should not be left in a position to suffer from stoppages of work ordered by individual labor leaders. The actual existence of war may bring home to those who would strike that they may be faced with a choice between being taken into the military service if they halt work on essential production. That was a choice which the late President Woodrow Wilson gave such strikers in the last war-with considerable Repeats 1917 Performance.

Representative Jeanette Rankin stole the headlines on the morning of the American declaration of war against Germany in 1917, and she did her best to repeat this performance by providing the only vote cast against the present war declaration. Miss Rankin also tried to gain the House floor for a speech yesterday, but Speaker Rayburn gaveled her down.

Attack on Hawaii Was Only a Diversion; Singapore Remains Principal Tokio Target

By CONSTANTINE BROWN. The only source of news available henceforth in Washingtonthe White House-is dispensing only scanty information at this time regarding our actual naval losses in Pearl Harbor.

The Japanese "suicide" squadron of airplane carriers and destroyers, together with the longrange bombers which are believed to have flown from their bases in the Mandated Islands, have succeeded in injuring a portion of our fleet in the Pacific.

The prognostications of many high-ranking and farseeing naval officers who told this writer last week that "the war against Japan is going to be no picnic" have been thus fully confirmed. This is going to be a long and hard war-probably the hardest this Nation has had to fight in

It is going to be a costly war, both in human life and money. We must forget our superiority complex. The little brown men are fighting for their lives. They know that they have staked their national existence in this mad adventure and are prepared to sell their skins dearly.

Cost May Be Heavy.

Nobody in Washington has the slightest doubt that the final victory will be on our side-regardless of how much we have to pay for it. But there is not a single official in a responsible position in Washington who believes for a fraction of a second that this war is going to be a push-over. We have to be prepared for heavy losses and heavy knocks to our morale and prestige.

The Pearl Harbor tragedy is one of the first lessons we have to learn. While recognizing the ability of many of our naval leaders and the courage and the abnegation of the naval personnel-which is unquestionably one of the best in the world-there is no doubt that some clear explanation will have to be given as to why the Japanese were able to take us so completely by sur-

Some of the highest officers in the Navy, War and State Departments had a strong hunch that we must expect an attack from the Japanese within a short time. Based on certain intimations from reliable official quarters on Saturday, November 29, this column contained the following

"The earlier estimate of Washington officials that a crisis may be expected within 30, 60 or 90 days has now narrowed to a few weeks-even a few days." In fact, the information received by the writer was far more definite -war within a maximum of 10

Despite the positive indications

which were available to our highest authorities, it appears that no other measures but the usual "routine" patrols were in force at Hawaii. Thus, the force defending our foremost outpost in the Pacific was taken completely by surprise by the enemy and has suffered heavily in the first Japanese attack.

Singapore Is Objective. We must all bear in mind, however, that the attack on the Hawaii base is only a Japanese diversion. The principal objective of Tokio remains Singapore and the whole area in the Southern Pacific. It is there that the Japanese must lose or win this

It is not revealing any military secrets to speculate that a large portion of our Pacific Fleet is today either in those waters or on the way out there. The real battles must take place around Java, Sumatra, Singapore and the Malay Peninsula. The bulk of the British Asiatic forces is concentrated in that area, according to reports we have had previous to the Japanese attack against the United States.

successfully had a dual purpose: To keep as large a portion of the United States Fleet between Hawaii and the West Coast and also help Hitler by making it impossible for this country to continue to patrol the Atlantic and convoy supply ships to Britain and the Near East.

the Japanese surprise attack must be deplored—that the American people will henceforth demand that all our efforts should be concentrated in winning the battle of the Pacific before we make any other move.

If the extent of the damage inflicted on our fleet at Pearl Harbor is as great as the Japanese claim, it might be necessary for us to rush a portion of the Atlantic Fleet back to the Pacific. This will be at least the reaction of the man in the street whose point of view must be taken into consideration in a | that kid. Lots of promise. democratic republic.

It may also be necessary to send the output of our airplane factories to our principal war zone in the Pacific. Nippon been repulsed with heavy losses in their first attack against us we might have attempted to continue the war on two fronts. But now, it would seem to the ordinary observer that we must concentrate all our energy, all our power in accomplishing one task only-the total defeat of

Long Night-Play Season for Nats Urged by Griffith, Seeking Talent at Chicago Win, Lose or Draw 90 Games Under Sports Program For Local Fans CALLING HIS SIGNAL

Big League Ball Under Wartime Pressure

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—The old ballplayer with dubious spring in legs, a wife and a room full of kids and a 3-A selective service his legs, a wife and a room full of kids and a 3-A selective service classification is the man to whom the annual winter meeting of the major baseball leagues is dedicated.

There was a time when worried club owners and managers, anxious to lure behind a potted palm a colleague who might trade or sell a 19-year-old shortstop used to avoid the seedy-looking old guardsmen who haunted the headquarters' hotel lobby as if they were beginners. There was nothing a 35-year-old pitcher could want, in their books, except a

But the warplanes and the naval vessels of the land of the Rising Sun have changed all of this and the far-sighted baseball magnate is looking to flaming youth no longer.

Clark Griffith, wily president of the Nationals, who has seen Uncle Sam pluck from his pay roll Buddy Lewis, Jack Sanford and a few lesser lights, and who has foundation for fears that Shortstop Cecil Travis and Pitcher Sid Hudson will join their old mates in the service, has affixed a coveted eve on Detroit's Bruce Campbell, an outfielder who is past 32, who is a family man with kids, who only once has driven across 100 runs (and that was nine years ago), and who twice has survived the ravages of spinal meningitis.

The Time That McCarthy Banned Pipe Smoking

As the American and National League baseball leaders converged upon Chicago for the formal opening of the trade marts, the bottom had dropped out of the market. It used to be comparatively simple to spot a ballplayer who was in demand. The qualifications were standardyouth, a springy step and, if possible, no home ties. Somehow the average major league manager preferred violently ambitious youngsters who had to make good for the little women they hoped to make their wives.

One famous manager, Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees, be felt more than in Washington. even frowned on pipe smoking. He thought it gave his ballplayers too much of an air of contentment. As far as Marse McCarthy was concerned, the pipe smoker might as well wear his bedroom slippers on the subways and fix toys for his children between innings.

At every winter meeting there are half a dozen or more veterans who have lost their fast balls or their batting eyes. As a rule, they hide behind the big marble pillars until a clubowner or a manager passes and then they spring upon them with all of the lust of hungry tigers. Their mastery of argument-"I know I've got one more year in me" . . "How about giving me a crack at managing that farm team?" . . . "Who's been a better pinch-hitter than me?" etc.—has been exceeded in finesse only by the practiced brush-offs of clubowners and managers.

A Mournful Man at His Breakfast Eggs

This year the worn-out old guardsmen do not have to leap from behind marble pillars. The shoe is on the other foot. Baseball, major and minor, farnkly is worried. The show must go on, but the question is, "Are there enough ballplayers out of the reach of Uncle Sam?"

We met a mournful figure sipping at his boiled breakfast eggs this morning. He said his name was Spike Briggs, thusly identifying himself as the nominal leader of the Detroit Tigers. When he left Detroit for the meeting he was hopeful of landing a second baseman by trade or purchase. With this commodity, plus the return of Sergt. Henry Greenberg, young Mr. Briggs had hoped to make the Tigers a pennant contender. "Greenberg." said this mournful figure, known as Walter O. Briggs, jr., "is out as far as we know. I hope he enjoyed his two or three days cut of uniform, but now that all soldiers and Reserves are being called up, we are forgetting about him."

Feller Hopes to Become a Flyer

There was a time when the appearance of Bob Feller at a winter meeting inspired some hoop-la on the part of the working press. "And what do you think of your new manager, Bob?" . . . "How's it going to at Griffith Stadium, he will ask for feel, pitching without Rollie Hemsley behind the plate?" . . . "How many games do you think you will win next season?"

Young Mr. Feller is present at the meeting, but he is not precisely entertaining in the middle ring. No longer a cherubic-faced boy reeking of Iowa farm health, Bob is thin-faced, worried-looking and around to say good-by. He's had a few hours in the air as a private pilot and he hopes

"It used to be that a fellow had to have a full college education to become a flyer," he was saying. "As a result of the emergency, maybe I've got a chance, although all I've had was a high school education I finished while pitching for the Indians. In any event, my number is up and I'm enlisting tomorrow or the next day."

This, then, is a partial picture of the 1941 baseball meeting. It may go down in history. Youth is a definite handicap from a club owner's viewpoint and all hail to the spry elderly gents with six or seven mouths to

Schedule From June Through September Is Wanted Here

By FRANCIS E. STAN Staff Correspondent of The Star. CHICAGO, Dec. 9.-Clark Calvin Griffith, sometimes called the redeyed radical of major league baseball, opened the annual winter meeting here today by calling upon Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis to recognize the import of national emergency, junk all previous plans and virtually put the City of Washington on a war-time entertainment basis

Drawing upon his experience and observations during World War I, Griffith asks that the feuhrer of the national pastime play ball with the Nationals and with the thousands of Uncle Sam's children in the District of Columbia. "Our country finally and definitely is placed on an emergency basis," he "In no other city will the pressure of national defense work What I am asking is permission to play night baseball from June 15 through at least September 15, Saturdays and Sundays excepted."

Griffith admittedly has been lobbying since he arrived here yesterday morning to spend most of the hours talking of the United States-Japanese War instead of outfielders who can drive across runs. "My proposal could be tabled without a hearing," he explained, "but I don't want that sort of a thing." As a result, Griffith has button-holed most of his old pals, notably Bob Quinn of the Boston Bees, and requested co-operation when the matter formally is brought up on Thursday, closing day of the meet-

D. C. Needs Night Games. Shortly before his train from Washington pulled out of the station, Griffith had intended asking for only 14 night games as against the seven now allotted by Judge Landis for each city where nocturnalcontests are played. As he took in the first news flashes of the Japanese-United States War, Griffith changed his mind. In other words Griffith, once the arch-enemy of night baseball, not only accepts it as a shot of strychnine, but as an absolute necessity in Washington. Instead of a maximum of 14 games under the lights light on all games, excluding Saturdays and Sundays, after June 14

Griffith hopes to start playing nocturnal games exclusively from June 15 through the end of the season. Ready to Dicker For Any Player Not in Draft

Outfielder Campbell Sought, but Not at Price of Chase

By a Staff Correspondent of The Star. CHICAGO, Dec. 9.-The way President Clark Griffith and Manager Bucky Harris of the Nationals are talking, everything or nothing can take place during the annual midwinter bartering session of the major leagues which officially starts today. In other words, one guess was as good as another as warsobered magnates gathered in lobby niches and private rooms in efforts to improve their ball clubs. "The way we stand now," Harris said today, "we are in the market for at least one outfielder, a second baseman, a pitcher, a catcher and almost any other kind of a ballplayer in existence, as long as he isn't subject to draft. "I imagine this is the way a majority of the other clubs feel." Harris admits the Nats have little to offer in the way of trade. Buddy Lewis has gone into the Army and he may be joined by Cecil Travis and Sid Hudson. Because of his promise and 3-A selective service rating, no trade will be considered for First Baseman Mickey Vernon. Boiled down, this probably leaves Pitcher Ken Chase as the outstanding hunk of trading material on

It is no secret that Chase is on the market. Harris admits that Washington is interested in landing Veteran Outfielder Bruce Campbell and that, as a result of negotiations started at the minor league meeting in Jacksonville, Detroit will ship Campbell any time in exchange for the left-handed pitcher. "We just don't think," Harris explained, "that Campbell is worth Chase in a straightway deal. As I get it. Mr. Griffith would much prefer buying Campbell outright and using Chase in another transaction.

The value of Chase has dropped alarmingly during the last year. Because of his speed and general promise. Ken was a highly-rated performer until he won only six games in 1941. He never has had a winning season in professional baseball, which he took up as career in 1935. Since that time he has pitched for Panama City in the Georgia-Florida League, Chattanooga in the Southern Association and for the Nats.

His inability to win suddenly seems to have caught up with him and while Chase today is reported sufficiently valuable to land Campbell in a trade that seems to be

Famed Lorraine Gulli today had proved what has been said all along about The Star's Defense Bond Bowling Tournament, the preliminary of which opened last night at all Metropolitan Washington maple plants, to wit: It is a tournament for star and duffer

Rolling at the Lafayette, the former No. 1 ranking woman duckpinner of the country shot from. scratch a set of 401, by far the best of the evening for her sex, but hardly could hold her own with unknowns in handicap competition. Miss Gulli, whose 120 average of last season set the scratch for women in the current tournament, drew a 6-pin handicap for a gross of 407, but as the competition moves into the second night, Margaret Gallagher of the G. A. O. League, at the Hi-Skor, holds the top spot with a tally of 438 including 72 pins handicap; second is Vilma Mc-Intyre, who rolled 425 at Hi-Skor with a handicap of 156 and, third, Inez Rhine, who shot 42-13 at the

Miss Gulli, due to the full handicap system which is a feature of the tournament, had a time prevailing at the Lafayette alone. There, besides Inez Rhine, she contended with Inez Bryan, who rolled 34-400: Mildren McSwain, 117-399; Marguerite Smaha, 108-399; Dorothy M. Lewis, 99-398, and Ruth B. Hickman, 114-397.

Clarke Hard Put, Too. As if Miss Gulli's difficulties weren't enough to exemplify the opportunity-for-all aspect of the tournament, Astor Clarke, Lafayette manager and for years the No. 1 ranking duckpinner of the land, but with 397 from scratch and a gross of 33-430, merely landed among the sure qualifiers for the roll-off at his own establishment It should be borne in mind that some juicy awards await high scorers from scratch. Topping Clarke at the Lafayette were Jack Flanagan, with 87-441; Emile Sermet. in his first season on the mapleways though approaching middle age, who fired 69-429; Mariano Ramos of the all-Filipino League, with 105-417, and Richard J. Hutson's Foot Joins Hands to Net Pro Scoring Honors

Kicks Account for 23 Of Total of 95 Points; McAfee Next With 72

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—Don Hutson was more than just a pass-catching end for the Green Bay Packers in the National Football League season which just finished its regulation span. Hutson can boot that ball, too, and 23 points he picked up with his toe won the individual scoring race for him.

On touchdowns Hutson's 12 was equaled by George McAfee of the Chicago Bears, each exceeding the former league record by 11. But where McAfee earned points only by crossing the goal line, Hutson acquired 20 on placement conversions and also kicked one field goal. Those 23 points, added to the 72 via touchdowns, gave him a new league record total of 95.

Gallarneau Presses McAfee. McAfee's two touchdowns in the Bears' final game Sunday carried him to second place in scoring with 72, but he was only six points ahead of his teammate, Hugh Gallarneau, who scored 11 touchdowns.

Clarke Hinkle of Green Bay finished fourth with 56 points, on six touchdowns, two points after touchdowns and six field goals. Fifth was Ward Cuff of the New York Giants, also a kicker de luxe, who ran up 47 points on two touchdowns, 20 conversion points and five field

Draft Likely to Get 11 Of Redskins Before Next Campaign

Filchock, Aguirre Among Lot That Soon May Be Called Into Service

By BILL DISMER, Jr.

Because their single or recentlymarried status makes them subject to call in the present emergency, 11 of the Redskins who met for the last time as a 1941 group yesterday undoubtedly will be missing from pro football's ranks next year-if the sailor to scorn and adds that there is a National League campaign. And now that next week's grid draft has been turned into a hollow mockery by the outbreak of hostilities which will snatch so many college seniors into service, the league's moguls, from Commissioner Elmer Layden down, hesitate to make any plans for the '42 season.

Pro football, it appears, will be the hardest-hit of all the major sports, dependent as it is upon a fresh supply of recruits from college each year. Uncle Sam, though, is going to be more dependent upon those of college age from now on.

Nine Redskins Unmarried. Exactly nine of the Redskins who said goodby at yesterday's farewell luncheon are wifeless. They are Joe Aguirre, Jim Barber, Joe Beinor, porting to training camp last August and Wee Willie Wilkin's wedding took place just last summer. Is Thin Pale Watery Blood Keeping You Weak and Ailing?

THIS NO COST TEST THIN PALE PROVES IN 9 DAYS YOU CAN BUILD UP

Rich Red Fighting Blood

No wonder you wake up in the morning feeling tired, that you lack energy, are rundown, always sick, complexion poor, digestion badit your blood is pale, wish-washy, unable to provide strength and nourishment to your tissues. Everyone knows good rich blood is important, but few people know why. Doctors will tell you that your blood is the most important organ of your entire body, that every minute, thousands upon thousands of red blood cells are circulating through your veins, performing the most virally important job of keeping you alive. In addition to providing body-building elements to every tissue cell, your blood performs an important operation, acting as a carrier for oxygen from your lungs. Every day, millions and millions of body tissue cells are destroyed, repaired and rebuilt, and it is the oxygen in your blood that makes this possible. When body cells are destroyed, it is the blood that carries away the refuse, the toxic wastes. No wonder it is important to have rich red healthy blood.

What Makes Red Blood?

Many elements combine to systerious blood-making elements which are ound most generously in raw liver. Ordinary tound most generously in raw liver. Ordinary food provides many of these elements, but the most important ones are frequently insufficiently provided in your daily dier. After years of research, however, a way has been found to combine these important blood-making elements in small pleasant-tasting tablets known as Boncquet Tablets, which contain Red Blood Cell Maturing Factors (raw liver principle); Vegetable (Organic) iron and other minerals derived from vegetables especially fertilized and grown to insure a high natural viramin and mineral content; Viramin B complex which contains all the viramins fortified with pure crystalline viramins B and G; easily assimilable calcium and phosphorus. These amazingly effective blood-builders, devised and manufactured with painstaking care and with the utmost scientific accuracy, and manufactured with painstaking care and with the utmost scientific accuracy, have produced results which, to doctors and clinics, have proven startling. 9 Day Test

In 9 days, Boncquet Tablets must show a In 9 days, Boncquet Tablets must show a sizable improvement in the quality of your blood, the way you look and feel, in renewed strength and energy, or the trail is free. Countless scientifically taken blood tests and clinical examinations have proven that in a few short weeks, it is possible for virtually anyone to increase the red blood cell count in your body by millions. Boncquet Tablets are absolutely harmless, have no ill after effects, can be taken with any other treatment, and remember, you don't risk a penny in trying it. Get Boncquet Tablets today.

Three-Cent Gas Tax Approved By Senators

U. S. Aid on Five Highway Projects Recommended

By J. A. O'LEARY.

The House bill raising the District gasoline tax from 2 to 4 cents a gallon was cut to 3 cents by a Senate subcommittee today with a recommendation that the Federal Government pay part of the cost of five urgent highway projects needed to serve national defense areas in and near Washington.

The subcommittee decided that the District, like other communities, should slow down the rate of construction on normal improvements during the emergency. If this is done and the National Government shares the cost of the five semi-Federal projects, the increase of 1 instead of 2 cents in the present local rate will be sufficient, the re-ate District Committee, announced the same subcommittee will hold a conference tomorrow afternoon in an effort to make a report on the separate fringe parking bill. If a decision is reached, the full committee will be called for Friday to act on

Discussing general aspects of the District's traffic situation, the subcommittee suggested "there may be need for a further centralization of responsibility." and indicated recommendations from the Commissioners on that question would be welcomed by the subcommittee.

The five urgent defense project were listed as follows: 1. Grade separation structure and street car terminal at Fourteenth street and Maine avenue S.W., to improve approach to Highway Bridge. 2. K street elevated highway over Rock Creek with connections to Key Bridge and the Northwest sections. primarily to speed traffic over that Defense 'Brokers' Barred From Groups by O. P. M.

"Dubious promoters" seeking commissions on defense orders have been barred by the Office of Production Management from participating in the defense production associations now being organized by groups of small manufacturers to carry out group contracts or subcontracts, which they are unable to handle individually, it was announced yesterday. This action was taken in a bulletin sent to the 81 field offices of the Contract Distribution Division by Floyd B. Odlum, its director. The bulletin pointed out that standard forms of Government contracts contain provisions specifically barring the employment of persons to secure commissions on commission or percentage basis.

To provide safeguards for legitimate production associations against possible action under the Federal anti-trust laws, Attorney General Biddle and John Lord O'Brien, general counsel of O. P. M., agreed recently that organizational plans of proposed associations must be approved in advance by O. P. M. and the Department of Justice. The bulletin to the field offices carries the exchange of correspondence on this subject between the Attorney General and Mr. O'Brien.

The county planners also decry the lack of information concerning the Government's plans for acquiring additional land which might be left "pocketed" without proper access to the new road network if the property remains in private owner-

The P. R. A. plan is not completely adaptable, the county engineers feel erected across the Potomac River in the future. Another revision suggested is the P. R. Lanham to Ask Rule To Speed 300 Million Housing Fund Bill

An additional $150,000,000 appropriation for public works in defense areas of the country is authorized in a bill unanimously approved today by the House Public Buildings and Grounds Committee.

A $150,000,000 initial appropriation for the same purposes and from which the District is due to get about $2,500,000 has already been allocated. At the same time Chairman Lanham of the committee today went before the House Rules Committee to ask a special rule for the second $300,000,000 defense housing modernization bill. The rules group is meeting late this afternoon with the expectation of reporting out the rule. Mr. Lanham asked debate limit and quick action in response to Army and Navy pressure. The two measures are separate, one dealing with defense public works in areas where municipal facilities have been overtaxed and the other relating solely to housing

Approval of the public works measure by the Buildings Committee came after Col. M. E. Gilmore, commissioner of public works, told the members the additional $150,000,000 will "take care of the community facilities we have in mind at this time." None of the money is earmarked, it was said, and District participation would require special legislation, according to committee

Several changes were made in the housing measure. One compels the agency in charge of construction to appear before congressional appropriations committees as the need develops. The Federal Works Administration continues in administrative charge, but the Public Buildpartments and local housing administrations are to be given the actual work of construction,

From Groups by O. P. M.

"Dubious promoters" seeking commissions on defense orders have been barred by the Office of Profuction Management from participating in the defense production associations now being organized by groups of small manufacturers to carry out group contracts or subcontracts, which they are unable to handle individually, it was announced vesterday

This action was taken in a bulletin sent to the 81 field offices of the Contract Distribution Division by Floyd B. Odlum, its director. The bulletin pointed out that standard of Government contracts contain provisions specifically barring the employment of persons to secure commissions on commission or percentage basis.

To provide safeguards for legitimate production associations against possible action under the Federal anti-trust laws. Attorney General Biddle and John Lord O'Brien, general counsel of O. P. M., agreed recently that organizational plans of proposed associations must be approved in advance by O. P. M. and the Department of Justice. The bulletin to the field offices carries the exchange of correspondence on this subject between the Attorney General and Mr. O'Brien.

Directors of the drive announced that every effort would be made by the driver of the dealer's truck in which the paper is transported to reach each school at an approximate hour each week. This will enable the teacher or parent in charge to tell at approximately what time she should be on duty.

Increases Reported.

It is requested that a parent or teacher supervise the collection of paper as it is brought to school by children and to witness the weighing before it is loaded on the truck A receipt is given in each instance and payments will be made monthly Some confusion and delay on the 50 per cent increase in the amount collected was reported each day. Urges Changes, However; Hotel Issue Apparently Dropped in Letter

The program of the Public Roads Administration for the treatment of highways leading into the new War Department Building area today had been approved in principle the Arlington County (Va.) Board. Several minor changes in the plan were suggested for the future benefit of the county.

War Building Road

Plans in Principle

The board approved the principle of the P. R. A. highway plan at a special meeting yesterday in which County Planning Engineer Frank L. Dieter outlined the main program and at the same time told he board of features which were not included and which are regarded as desirable.

Several changes, as suggested by the planner, were approved for incorporation in a letter to Thomas H. MacDonald of the P. R. A. which was sent by County Manager Frank C. Hanrahan.

Hotel Issue Omitted. It was noted that the changes suggested by the county did not include a point which has been prominently raised heretofore concerning the location of an Alex-LEESBURG, Va., Dec. 9 .- Two andria by-pass route so as to make 16-year-old boys were indicted yes- possible the construction of a $7, 000,000 apartment-hotel at Arlington Ridge road and Columbia pike The lack of insistence on this point led some observers to believe that November 23 and ordered to go on the hotel issue is dead as far

Among the principal objections to the Federal plans is a proposal to block off Columbia pike and Arlington Ridge road near their present intersection.

The county planners also decry the lack of information concerning the Government's plans for acquiring additional land which might be left "pocketed" without proper access to the new road network if the property remains in private owner-

Doubt Bridge Tie-in.

The P. R. A. plan is not completely adaptable, the county engineers feel to any new bridge which may be erected across the Potomac River in the future. Another revision suggested is the P. R. A.'s treatment of the intersection of Arlington Ridge road and Lee boulevard which, it is contended, can be cut from three points of traffic conflict to one.

The board-approved letter calls attention to the P. R. A. ignoring a roadway from Unit 2 of the George Washington Memorial Parkway to Rosslyn Plaza to furnish a connecting link for down-river traffic with Key Bridge. The county has obtained a written agreement with the Federal Government that this connecting link will be built, Mr. Han-

Because the P. R. A. road program calls for fast traffic arteries around the Government area which includes the War Department, Fort Myer, Arlington Cantonment, Arlington National Cemetery and the Federal Office Building No. 2, the county engineers ask that certain revisions be made to provide for grade separations for the access roads into this area. Instances in where Fort Myer military units hold up vehicular traffic on Lee boulevard were cited as a fault which the P. R. A. plan does not rectify.

eclared that "it may be argued that all this was not clearly apparent until recently but it can not be denied that if Washington's housing problems had been tackled with greater imagination and determination long ago, we certainly would be in a better position than we are now.

"The failure to deal with this situation adequately is not due to the neglect of public-spirited citithe civic associations, the Washington Housing Association, the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, the District Government or officials of our several Federal housing agencies." All of them for years, he said, have been working toward constructive

Wives of Cabinet Members And Diplomats Fill Gallery To Hear War Declaration

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson Has Seat Next to Mrs. Roosevelt; Notables Watch Proceedings

By MONA DUGAS.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the last wartime President, sat next to Mrs. Roosevelt in the gallery yesterday to hear the latter's husband ask Congress to declare that another state of war exists. Surrounding Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Roosevelt were the wives of the high-ranking officials of the Government and members of the diplomatic contingent in the Capital. Mrs. Wilson was in a maroon crepe dress with matching hat of velvet, and wore formal white gloves. Mrs. Roosevelt, in all black with a touch of white at the high throat of her dress, wore silver fox furs over her gown. Accompanying her was Mrs. James Roosevelt, in a long minkcoat, who watched her husband, Capt. Roosevelt, in his Marine Corps officer's uniform, escort the President to the Speaker's desk. Also in Mrs. Roosevelt's party was Mrs. Charles B. Hamlin, Mrs. James M. Helm and Mr. Harry Hopkins.

Mrs. Hull and Mrs. Morgenthau Among Cabinet Hostesses in Gallery.

Mrs Cordell Hull, wife of the Secretary of State, sat directly behind Mrs. Wilson. She was dressed in black, with touches of blue on the bodice, and a blue feather on her black hat. Other cabinet hostesses noted in the gallery included Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, jr., her black dress trimmed with green and worn under a gray fur coat; Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, in all black, with silver fox furs; Mrs. Frank Knox, her black costume being lightened by a blue astrich tip on her hat, and, like Mrs. Wilson, wearing formal white gloves; Mrs. Harold L. Ickes, making one of her rare appearances, and wearing black. trimmed with green velvet, and Mrs. Claude R. Wickard, an early arrival, in a smart gray costume with a brown feather in her hat, and a brown fur neckpiece.

Mrs. William O. Douglas, wife of Mr. Justice Douglas of the Supreme Court, was looking, as usual, about 16. She wore a black dress under her gray fur coat.

Mrs. Henry A. Wallace Has Front Row Seat.

Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, wife of the Vice President, had a front row seat in the gallery. She was in a black suit with black hat and accessories and a white blouse. Seated next to her, on the other side of the rail which divided the families of United States Government officials from the diplomatic contingent, was Senora de Espil, wife of the Argentine Ambassador. She arrived in the gallery over an afternoon of their daughter, Mrs. hour before the President was Angela Stuart Adams, and Mr. Walaway the time with a newspaper until friends began to gather around her. Senora de Espil wore a tweed ficiated. suit in shades of brown, and had a striped orange scarf at her throat. She was joined later by her husband, and seated nearby were the Africa and Mrs. Ralph William Ambassador, had a blue feather in her hat to match the blue on her black dress. Near her were the Brazilian Ambassador and his strikbrown, with her brown off-the-face hat edged with mink.

Watch Proceedings.

Mrs. Richard G. Casey, wife of the Australian Minister, whose country earlier had declared war Engaged to Wed against Japan, was in the gallery, the Egyptian Minister and Mme. Hassan, the latter wearing a black coat over her plaid dress.

Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins, assistant chief of the Foreign Service Buildings Office, was in the gallery, wearing black velvet, with matching hat and a necklace of pearls. The Chief of Protocol, Mr. George T. Summerlin, also was in the gallery. Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff, in his full dress uniform, was present to hear the President speak. Miss Vera Bloom, daughter of Representative Sol Bloom, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House, was in the gallery with friends, and many other wives and daughters of the members of Congress, and other officials filled all the sections overlooking the floor of the House.

By the Way—

Since the days of our entry into the first World War (which most of the ladies are, of course, too young to remember) there hasn't been such an excited and tense Washington. From the smallest street urchin to the most imposing high-ranking official, every one's conversation is high-lighted with talk of the surprise offensive of the Japanese. Almost the first to notice Japanese emissaries setting fire to private documents his American admirers have estabin the Embassy gardens was a group of wide-eyed youngsters, most of whom live on Massachusetts avenue, and knew the Nipponese only as Mme. suavely polite little men who passed out stamps for their collections Polish Ambassador, is honorary through the highly polished door of the Japanese chancery. As the tea Wednesday and will act as hostchildren stood excitedly watching the smoking metal strong boxes, one small, bright-eyed boy remarked to a uniformed policeman (and with a certain amount of reason, we thought), "If they can bomb us, why can't we read their old private papers?"

Right next door to the chancery is a luxurious white stone apartment. The steady stream of curious passers-by often pause to ask the police if it's part of the Japanese Embassy. Yesterday, had they looked up at the window of a third-floor apartment overlooking the imposing Embassy and gardens, they would have seen a minute American flag lifting its brave little stripes to the breezes, proudly asserting that it was 100 per cent American. . . . Up Massachusetts avenue we saw some one's trusted Japanese servant walking a bristling black Scottie dog. As he neared the Embassy and saw the crowd milling about, he furtively crossed the street, took his small charge up peaceful Belmont road. . . .

Suddenly all your men friends are in uniform, except the ones who found their sizes "sold out" when the uniform stores all over town opened up Sunday night for an unprecedented rush of business. Restaurants are filled to overflowing with serious-faced men in uniform-and women, too. They don't dawdle over a heavy luncheon, and there aren't any before-luncheon cocktails for these people. . . . We were at the hairdresser's when the President addressed Congress. In various stages of having themselves "prettied" ladies gathered about the radio to hear the thrilling

Hine Junior High Honors Venezuela In Radio Series

Two of the great liberators of Latin America, Simon Bolivar and San Martin, figured prominently in the broadcast vesterday by students of Hine Junior High School dealing with Venezuela, the sixth nation to be covered in the radio series "The Americas." Presented over Station WMAL under auspices of The Star and the Junior High School Radio Committee, with the assistance of the National Broadcasting Co., the dramatization was heard by junior high school classes throughout the

The history of the republic of Venezuela, along with that of many other Latin American countries, is founded on the deeds of its two famed national heroes. Had it not been for the dauntless and courageous spirits of Bolivar, born in Caracas, the capital city, and San Martin, who, together at the head of the people's armies, led the overthrow of Spanish rule, a free continent may well have been impossi-ble. Since his death in 1930 Simon Bolivar has received the reverence of the freedom-loving masses and is frequently called the "George Washington of South America."

Not all of yesterday's dramatiza-tion, entitled "The Sword of Liberty," was devoted, however, to the deeds of herces. The script of the Hine students revealed facts about the customs, geography and economic importance of the nation. In an imaginary tour from the seacoast to the inland capital the young travelers pointed out the immense oil fields, coffee and rubber plantations of Venezuela and noted the fine public school buildings and houses of government, to say nothing of the fact that Venezuelans are almost as fond of hot dogs as the people of the United States.

The cast for yesterday's performance included Benny Anderson,
Betty Brown, Erna Embrey, Helen
Hill, Jack Sherbert, Billy Colevas,
Kenneth Edens, George Youmans,
Emily Spaylesk, and Tow Brown, Emily Spurlock and Tom Brownscombe. Among the musical selections a Venezuelan lullaby sung in Spanish by Esther Rovira Schmidt was featured. Miss Charlotte Sprenkel, music teacher, directed the music, and the script was prepared by Miss Marie Walcott and Blake B.

A lesson plan outlining follow-up study of Venezuela was forwarded to all junior high schools for use in the classrooms. A map of the nation was prepared by the National Geographic Society and published in last Friday's Evening Star for the same purpose.

Army and Navy Request W. P. A. Aid on Projects

Army and Navy officials have called upon District W. P. A. authorities for additional assistance on a number of projects in the District and vicinity.

W. P. A. Director Ross Haworth immediately instructed local project chiefs to cut all red tape and respond at once to any emergency military demands, getting official clearance later.

A reduction of 150 to 200 employes on District W. P. A. rolls was scheduled to become effective today under a District quota of 4,500 for December. While the quota officially will stand, it was said that Mr. Haworth has ordered a restoration of all previous cuts on defense projects and will resurvey other nondefense works from which compensatory cuts might be made.

It was believed at least 100 employes originally slated to be cut from the rolls would be continued.

Britons in Washington Hear Second in Series of "Acquainted" Lectures

Contrasts between British and American constitutional procedure were outlined last night at Pierce Hall by Prof. Robert K. Gooch of the University of Virginia before a near-capacity audience of British government employes stationed in Washington, and their guests.

Among those attending the lecture were Lord and Lady Halifax. Second in a series of 12 lectures sponsored by 10 members of the British Embassy staff here to promote a better understanding of 'our hosts and their country," last night's topic was: "Government: The Executive and the Judiciary."

Former Rhodes Scholar.

Prof. Gooch was introduced by Sir Ronald Campbell, the British Minister, as one who could explain the American system "better than most of us know our own Constitution." Prof. Gooch spoke with a faint trace of a British accent that betrayed his

War With Japanese May Not Be Short, Barkley Declares

Radio Forum Speaker Cites Difficulties of Supply in Pacific

Senate Majority Leader Barkley last night warned the American people against assuming that the war with Japan is certain to be short. He declared in a National Radio Forum address that he had no doubt it would end in victory for the United States but pointed out that the great expanse of the Pacific presents supply difficulties.

The Nation can be confident it never before has harbored such unanimity of opposition and determination as now, Senator Barkley said. He termed the "treachery and duplicity" in the Japanese attack without parallel in the history of countries calling themselves civil-

The text of the address, arranged by The Star and broadcast over a coast-to-coast National Broadcasting Co. network follows:

I have been asked by the National Radio Forum to comment for a brief period this evening on the events which have culminated in the declaration by Congress that a state of war has existed and now United States. The events which the United States. have led up to this tragic culmination are familiar more or less to and of the world.

ment as a great world power. people and of the world at large veil from her original status.

Show Desire to Conquer. of the last century-only in recent years, however, we have seen what sive spirit which has been encouraged more or less in the last few years, at least by one or two other started upon her more recent course of aggression. Upon a retraction which I need not go into and which I have not the time to detail, they went into ancient Manchuria, which is now under the name of Manchukuo, a puppet state in China controlled and dominated by Japan. The Government of the United States disapproved of that action on the part of Japan because it was an act of aggression and it was an act of aggression against a great nation which had, from time immemorial, been a friend of the United States; but no action was taken because the United States did not receive the necessary co-operation among other nations to make our protest effective.

It was in April, 1931, that Japan

Then in 1937, Japan increased her aggressions and expansions into the territory of China; and from that time until now has been engaged in a war of conquest and of domination over China, whose only purpose, so far as we know and believe, was to maintain her territorial integrity which had been guaranteed by nearly all the nations of the world, and to live in peace with them, and to defend her own in-

Of course, we cannot disassociate the Japanese policy from that of other nations which have in recent years been bent upon aggression. It may be true, as it is believed by many people in this country and throughout the world, that Japan's actions in recent months and years have been actuated by the policy of aggression and world domination which has been proclaimed by Hitler and Mussolini, by the Nazis and the Fascists, as their ultimate goal. Whether it be true that Japan has been prodded by Hitler and by all that he represents in her course in China and Indo-China and the Malayan Peninsula and South Pacific is now a matter of no great concern except as historical background to the acts which have culminated in today's action on the part of the United States.

U. S. Territory Acquired Peacefully. We have never desired aggression in the Pacific. What territory we have possessed there or now possess has been obtained for the most part through peaceful negotiations and by friendly and mutual annexation. The Philippine Islands, of course came to us as a result of the Spanish-American War back in 1898, and we have time and again declared our purpose to them and to give them their independence, and the law is in effect now which does that at the end of a very brief period in the future. What we have done in the Pacific, or what territory and islands we have been able to gather under the American flag and Constitution have not been acquired by any desire for aggression to take away from any nation its territory or its rights; but we have an inherent interest in the Pacific Ocean and in its commerce and territories and its government

If I had the time I might give you a long list of materials which are utterly essential and indispensible to the defense of the United These materials must be brought here across the Pacific Ocean. They are obtained, some of them, in China and some in Indo-China and some of them in the Malayan Peninsula, and therefore, Singapore, which has a sort of romantic place in our contemplation of Pacific problems, is important to us because if the port of Singapore and the regions around should be closed to American trade, it would vitally affect many of our industries which are now engaged industries which are now engaged

I today say that in all civilized history, if this can be called civilized and the military clique in Japan, stronger. history, no such evidence of treachery and duplicity has ever been engaged in by any nation that called itself civilized. Of course, in view of what happened yesterday, there was no course that the American Government could pursue, there was no course that the President of the United States could pursue, there was no course that the American people could pursue except to accept this challenge at once and without equivocation, and set about to not simply punish Japan, but to make it impossible for such an occurrence again to be brought about between nations supposed to be friendly. Therefore, as a result of these events, the President today in the message to Congress, brief and to the point, asked Congress to accept the existence of war as a fact, and that our Government proceed accordingly

Challenge Promptly Accepted. Within an incredible brief time both Houses of Congress, with only one dissenting vote, declared that a state of war exists between Japan 95 Senators in the United States Senate. Ordinarily there are 96, but due to the death of Senator Adams of Colorado, there are now only 95. Many of these Senators were taken by surprise at the events of yesterday and were in their homes in many parts of the United States. Some were unable to reach Washington in time to vote on the resolution which was adopted today, but there were 82 out of 95 Senators in their seats today and 82 Senators voted for the declaration of war recommended by the President. In the House of Representatives, the vote was 388 to 1, so that I think I may say that never before in the history of the United States did Congress act so promptly and so definitely and with such unanimity as it acted today in accepting the challenge hurled at us by this treacherous government of Japan which may or may not represent the real people of Japan. So that we are at war with Japan. Now, there are many people in this

High Court Broadens Freedom of Speech In State Limitations

Reverses California Convictions of Bridges And Los Angeles Times

By J. A. FOX.

The constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech and of the press rested on a broadened base today. In a sweeping decision that reversed the contempt conviction of the Los Angeles Times and Harry Bridges, West Coast C. I. O. leader, for published comment on litigation in the California State courts, and further limited the area in which the courts may punish alleged contempts, the Supreme Court late yesterday laid down this principle:

"The First Amendment does not speak equivocally. It prohibits 'any law abriding the freedom of speech or of the press.' It must be taken as a command of the broadest scope that explicit language, read in the context of a liberty-loving society, had been convicted in Los Angeles Superior Court, but not sentenced. The Bridges conviction was the result of a telegram he sent to the Secretary of Labor in March, 1938, assailing as "outrageous," an injunction issued against the C. I. O. in a labor war with the A. F. L. and declaring it would bring about B dock strike if enforced.

Tried without a jury, the Times was fined $300 and its managing editor, L. D. Hotchkiss, $100. The Australian-born Bridges, now facing deportation as an alleged Communist, was fined $125 with the alternative of a five-day jail sentence The California Supreme Court upheld both convictions, and in the appeal to the United States Supreme Court, the American Newspaper Publishers' Association joined in the defense of the Times, while the American Civil Liberties Union appeared in behalf of both defend-

Sees Insufficient Justification. While the California courts held that the editorials and the Bridges utterance had a "tendency" to interfere with the orderly administration of justice, Justice Black said that "the likelihood, however great, that a substantive evil will result cannot alone justify a restriction upon freedom of the speech or of the press." Further, he added, the Supreme Court in a recent picketing decision had "suggested" that 'clear and present danger' is an appropriate guide in determining

It's an Old American Gustom

Remember the first movies? They flickered and jumped all over the screen. But we thought they were wonderful! No one could imagine, then, the technicolor talkies of 1941.

We dare say folks were thrilled when Dobbin first drew a horse-car. But transportation didn't stop improving. Think of the sleek buses today.

Making a good thing better is an old American custom! And it's an old custom of KELLOGG'S, worldfamous makers of cereals. Over the last 25 years untold Americans have praised the goodness of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. But now a marvelous bran from one of the world's softest wheats gives ALL-BRAN new lightness, new crispness, new flavor!

Your grocer now has the improved "golden soft" ALL-BRAN. You'll find it just as effective and twice as delicious as any ALL-BRAN you've ever tasted. If you'd like to ward off constipation due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, eat ALL-BRAN every day, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars"!

WOMEN'S FEATURES.

Pajamas and Bed Jacket Sets Delight Very Young Ladies, And So Do Skating Togs

By Helen Vogt

Those modern sophisticates who chatter gayly about the new kindergarten teacher and the merits of a washable doll over a non-dunkable type are finding much to delight them in the season's new fashions. That time-worn phrase, "Christmas is for children," still holds good, particularly where clothes are concerned, for the display of practical and charming styles for tots never has been better.

Dresses, for example, range from the fussy, floor-length rayon taffeta model, ideal for piano recitals and "special" parties, to the simple and more popular short styles in cotton, silk or a new suede-finish jersey Important among the new frocks are those made of "launderspun" which is said to be one of the most launderable fabrics ever created. Especially popular this season are cottons, many with appliqued motifs such as bows or big red apples on bodice and hemline. Fashion touches borrowed from the adults include the smartest of peplums on rayon taffeta dresses, or the use of "nailhead trim" on jerseys.

The peasant style continues to be popular, although not as much in demand as was predicted at the start of the season. Patriotic motifs have suffered a relapse, too, as the more spring-like colors and styles appear, but the eagles and emblems are expected to pick up again later this season. Many of the newest little frocks in local stores have interesting detail that gives them a .

I would rather like to made some effort to check the slopbehavior which evidently is intended to match the sloppy clothes that for some time have been affected by first the boys and now the girls in many of our colleges. But to answer this reader. I think that the question of rising might solved by the manner of his doing so. To rise somewhat lazily in what might be called a nonchalant manner rather than to spring quickly to his feet might in this instance avoid bringing criticism upon him-

As a matter of fact I think there are signs of a new trend-an appreciation of the value of charm. I think the leaders of the youngest generation are getting rather sick of sloppiness. Young men are beginning to object to tousle-headed girls in ill-made, mannish clothes. Girls, it seems to me, are not especially pleased with unshaven, uncouth, ungallant boys.

Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS. Bobby Coon and Billy Mink sat on an old log on the bank of the Laughing Brook and talked over the traps Billy Mink had discovered and what should be done about

"Of course," said Billy Mink, "you and I are safe enough. We know exactly where those traps are and we are not going to be so foolish as to get caught in one of them. But there are others who travel up and down the Laughing Brook who might not discover the traps until too late." Bobby Coon nodded. "Just what I was thinking," said he. "But for you, Billy Mink, I would be in that trap down there this very minute. It was stupid of me not to have suspected that that little opening in that fence was left purposely to tempt whoever came along to go through it instead of taking the trouble to climb that steep bank and go around the fence. There may be others just as stupid. We ought to do something about it, but what can we do?'

"Are you afraid to go near that trap?" demanded Billy. Bobby scratched his head thoughtfully. "How near?" he asked. "Near enough to get your paw under it," replied Billy. "I don't know," replied Bobby.

'What good will that do?' "Well, you see," replied Billy, "that trap is set right in the middle of that little opening and it has been covered with wet, dead leaves. Now I know something about traps. I've seen a lot of them in my day. If any one should step on those wet leaves, two steel jaws would snap up and grab him by the leg. But those steel jaws always snap up. They can't snap the other way. If your paw is underneath the trap there is no danger. By doing this you can lift that trap up so that it will no longer be covered with those dead leaves, and whoever comes along will see it. It isn't safe to try to pull the leaves off of it because you might get caught doing it. If you will do that to the trap on this side I will do the same thing to the trap meg., 25.4 m.; DZD, 10.54 meg., 28.4 m.; on the other side of the Laughing DXZ, 9.57 meg., 31.3 m. Brook. But he wasn't willing to own up that he was afraid. Winning Contract to choose a trump suit in which the opponents have more cards than you do. Hence, you and your partner should have at least seven trumps streen you to feel satisfied with your trump suit.

By THE FOUR ACES. The Best Contract As most players know, it's foolish

But a majority of seven to six is a very tenuous thing. If the opponents make you ruff just once they are on even terms with you. since now each side has six trumps. That is why good players always try to find a suit in which their side has eight trumps to the opponents' five. That is a safe trump advan-

What do you do when you can't find such a suit? Sometimes you play the hand at no-trump. But sometimes vou have to use a less satisfactory trump suit because the bidding makes it clear that notrump is doomed to failure. For example:

Real Drama Is Too Much For Theater's Competition

But Managers Know Their Customers Will Be Back on Old Routine; Night Clubs Less Affected

By JAY CARMODY.

The world of make-believe was an almost private world yesterday and last night. Its working staff was there. But the customers were not. The customers were busy elsewhere. They had work to do and grave things to ponder. Or they had dates with their consciences. Fateful words in headlines or pouring out of loud-speakers were far more dramatic than any to be heard from the lips of Greta Garbo, Abbott and Costello or Charles Boyer. Garbo's undying love could not compete |

All they wanted to do was listen to the radio and read their newspapers. And last night, almost to a man, they wanted to be at home. They said so with a defiant frankness. Their shows could not compete and they knew it and were more than con-Best illustrative anecdote is that

It was different on Sunday. In the early afternoon, people had not heard the news of Japan's barbarity. Afterward they were ex-And disorganized. They were in the streets. And they dropped into the movies as they always had done when, tired of milling about, they wanted quiet and a place to sit down. Realization of the gravity of the situation was yet to come. It came yesterday.

That was one day. Today may be another like it. It probably will. Theater managers are not disturbed. They know it will not always be so. Entertainment figures largely in the routine of war, if not in its shocked initial phases. That has always been true. It is true now in combatant countries where blackouts are not in force. It is not anticipated that they will be here-not by theater executives. They do no know, of course. Who does?

Night clubs felt the effects generally far less than the theaters. That was to be expected. Their patrons are there to satisfy a gregarious instinct that works itself out in dining, drinking and talking. The customer is a participant in the entertainment, not a mere spectator. He could dance and he did. He could talk and there never was so on the telephone, "my column for much to talk about. If anything tomorrow is wide open. HOLLYWOOD. "Kathleen"-almost two years since she closed accounts at 20th Century-Fox, a studio that developed her into the world's box office darling, Shirley Temple comes back on another lot (M-G-M) for new bid at screen fame. . . This late 1941 edition of Shirley is a well-developed, normal and attractive girl now approaching her 13th birthday (April 23). . . . Curls and baby lisp have disappeared and once-golden hair has been allowed to settle back &to natural brunette shade.

An original story by Kay Van Riper, "Kathleen" gives Shirley split-personality role revolving around sensitive, lonely youngster who finds happiness only in dreams

-which eventually come true. . . . One dream sequence is pointed up as opportunity for Shirley to sing and dance again. . . Still considered best "study" in Hollywood, Shirley reported on set after long absence with more than half her dialogue ready to be spoken into mike. . . . Shirley always was one to weep at a moment's notice and without resorting to menthol mixtures commonly applied to adult actresses.

But audience participation is older than that. It might even be older than the early 17th century, but it is at least that old. Beaumont and Fletcher, those gay blades of the Mermaid Tavern, employ the device as an important part of the action of "The Knight of the Burning Pestle," which Catholic University's Harlequins are presenting for a week starting tomorrow night.

Incidentally, this probably is the first Washington presentation of Hale, head of the English departthe burlesque of Elizabethan manners and medieval heroics.
