Daylight-Saving Law To Be Sought at Once, Barkley Declares

President Roosevelt will deliver his message to Congress in person in the House at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow, Senate Majority Leader Barkley announced today after a conference with the President at the White House. National daylight saving legislation will be one of Congress' immediate objectives, Senator Barkley said, adding that such a bill would be taken up today by the House and Senate Interstate Commerce Committees.

In a program of speedy action, the Senate will begin debate Wednesday on the stringent price control bill, Senator Barkley said. On the same day, Congress expects to receive President's budget message, Senator Barkley disclosed, but a final decision about that has not yet been definitely reached.

Major Potential Threat.

In Allied nands, Burma represents a major potential threat to Japan's grandiose plans for domination of the South Pacific. A smashing drive eastward would cut across the top of Thailand and French Indi-China, placing the Allies squarely in the rear of the Japanese forces now driving furiously southward down the narrow Malay Peninsula toward Singapore. It also would put the Allies in a position to neutralize the Indo-China bases which have played such an important role in Japan's South Sea successes to date.

Wavell, architect of Britain's first victory in Libva and the newly-designated supreme commander of Allied forces in the South Pacific, has given no hint that such a big flanking operation is in prospect. Great Britain announced December 6 that she was at war with Finland, Hungary and Rumania because they persisted in fighting her Russian ally, but thus far no military action has been reported against the Finns by the British.

Before that declaration, both Britain and the United States brought diplomatic pressure to bear on Finland in an effort to stop her war against Russia, but Finland, last November 12, stated in a note to the United States that her war against Russia still was defensive.

The Helsinki government advised the United States that Finland did not wish to continue the fight against Russia any longer than her vital security demanded. Territory Recovered

Question of Voting to Pick Bargaining Agent Ruled Matter for N. L. R. B.

The Supreme Court held today that the National Labor Relations Board was within its rights in denying the application of an employer for an election to determine the bargaining agents for its workers after the board already had designated a bargaining agent.

In a memorandum opinion the court said that the question of an election was for the board to determine.

The decision reversed the action of the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals in refusing to enforce an order of the labor board requiring the P. Lorillard Co., tobacco manufacturers, to bargain with a C. PITTSTON, Pa., Jan. 5 .- A speeding Lehigh Valley express train carrying a cargo of gold rammed an abandoned automobile and was derailed during a blizzard near here yesterday, killing one passenger and injuring 13 others.

Seven coaches and the locomotive of the 14-car Buffalo-to-New York "night flyer" sprawled zig-zag on the Susquehanna River bank, 16 miles west of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., trapping many of the 250 passengers for more than an hour.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and postal inspectors, here from Philadelphia, discounted the theory the train was wrecked in a plot to steal the shipment of $250,-000 in gold.

Owner Says Auto Stalled.

State Police Sergt. J. E. Hess said the owner of the car. Henry Meinefeld 38 of Scranton Pa, told him his car had stalled on the crossing and that he had walked to a nearby factory to find help. Mr. Meinefeld was not held.

The dead man was identified from 8 C. C. C. discharge found in his pocket as Joseph Layzock, about 40. of Chicago. Most seriously injured was Lt. Harry A. Hawk, 28, of Sayre stationed at Camp Croft, S. C. His right leg was crushed and later was amputated at Pittston Hospital. The crash occurred at 2:45 a.m. in the midst of a blinding snowstorm. The crossing is 200 feet from the Susquehanna River and leads to an abandoned ferry.

The 250 train passengers included soldiers and sailors returning to duty. Most of them escaped injury. Baggagemaster James A. Morton. 44, of Nichols, N. Y., who suffered fractured ribs and bruises, was the only member of the train crew injured.

Wreck Called Accident.

Sergt. Hess said investigation convinced him the wreck was accidental. He said he did not know the destination of the gold cargo. The automobile was knocked 100 yards and demolished. Trainmen and passengers in the undamaged cars used sledgehammers and crowbars to free those in the derailed cars. Physicians, nurses and ambulances from Wilkes-Barre, Scranton and Pittston rushed over snow-drifted roads to give first aid. The 13 injured passengers were rushed to the Pittston Hospital while other passengers were treated at the scene and then taken by bus to Lehighton. Pa., where they were put on another train.

Singapore Confidence In Possibilities of Defense Mounts

British Forced to Fall Back Yesterday From Positions Below Ipoh

By the Associated Press.

SINGAPORE, Jan. 5 .- Confidence is mounting in the long-range possibilities of defense of Singapore despite a new retreat yesterday which forced the British to fall back from their positions below Ipoh on the west side of the Malayan Peninsula

This confidence, which is evident despite the fact the British have been forced to yield approximately 200 miles of the peninsula in little less than a month of fighting. springs largely from the appointment of a Far Eastern command of the United Forces under Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell.

Civilians, as well as men in the military and naval services, believed that his prompt reinforcement of Burma's defenses and his negotiations with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek which resulted in veteran Chinese troops crossing into Burma, meant that Gen. Wavell already is very much on the job co-ordinating the activities of a vast theater of war

Brett Appointment O.K.'d.

High quarters too, approved the appointment of Maj. Gen. George H. Brett, chief of the United States Army Air Corps, as deputy supreme commander. They believed it implied American concentration on providing powerful air reinforcements, in order to solve one of the key difficulties of the Allied position. In this connection Gen. and the Near East was recalled.

Allied confidence also springs from the fact that although the Official Declares British have had to carry out a series of retreats they have not yet lost a decisive battle or lost any major part of their force by encirclement.

On the other hand, the month of warfare has seasoned the soldiers in Japanese methods and tricks, and given Washington and London, as well as the generals in the field, an opportunity to decide on broad tion overnight." Assistant Secretary tificate may purchase the tire from strategy

Still Closer Tie-up Of Britain and Soviet Forecast by Eden

Attaches Importance to Talks on Peace and Security After War

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 5 .- Frankly recognizing the contrast between British and Russian forms of government, but declaring it had proved no barrier to co-operation in the war against Hitlerism, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden asserted yesterday that still closer collaboration between London and Moscow "can and will be realized."

In a broadcast statement on his recent visit to the Kremlin, Mr. Eden disclosed that his talks with Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin and Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotoy had gone beyond the scope of the present conflict to embrace the terms of a peace which, he said, must "prevent any German aggression in the future.

Mr. Eden declared his visit had shown Russia and Britain to be in complete agreement on all matters relating to the conduct of the war. and those words, he said, "are not mere diplomatic jargon-they tell the literal and absolute truth."

"But personally," he added. "I attach as much importance to the discussions we had on the order of peace and security after the war." Satisfied With Progress.

Naturally, Mr. Eden said, no final conclusions could be reached on that subject without "intimate consultations" with the United States and other allied nations, but he axpressed great satisfaction with the progress that had been made.

The foreign secretary was warm in his praise for the battle being waged by the Russians against the German invaders and said the Red Army was determined that the Nazis should "pay to the uttermost for the destruction of towns, villages, farms and factories of the Soviet Union." He said Hitler's sudden swoop on Russia last June "no doubt had valuable military advantages to begin with, but politically it was stark lunacy.

"Hitler united all Russia by that one error. He made the war a crusade-a crusade to rid the Soviet Union of the last German."

Still Closer Collaboration.

Voicing his conviction that still closer political collaboration between Britain and Russia could and would be achieved, Mr. Eden said: "We have to get rid of the legacy of suspicion on both sides. "There is a contrast in the forms of government, but I will never accept that this need divide us. What matters in foreign affairs is not the form of the internal government of any nation, but its international behavior." Mr. Eden said he was more than to declare at once that: ever convinced after his trip that the "everlasting purpose" of the British a dependency to be ruled from and Russian governments was the Whitehall and henceforth her consame "We both wished to maintain the be identical with those of other peace," he said. By the Associated Press. NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 5.-A group of 15 distinguished Indian leaders appealed directly to Prime Minister Churchill yesterday for "some bold stroke of far-sighted statesmanship without delay" to avert a political crisis in India and insure her full co-operation in Britain's war effort.

The plea, cabled to Mr. Churchill in Washington, was placed above Indian party politics, for none of the signers is now active in the Congress Party or Moslem League-the two dominant political factions. The signers, representing some of the influential, but less vocal, moderate and liberal circles in Indian oninion, asked the Prime Minister

Mrs. Roosevelt to Get Assistant to Direct Civil Defense Office

Denies That She and Mayor La Guardia Will Quit Posts

Mrs. Roosevelt disclosed today that the Budget Bureau had approved appointment of an Office of Civilian Defense administrative assistant to handle community planning.

At the same time, she said that as far as she knew there was no truth whatever to published predictions that she and Mayor La Guardia, director of the Office of Civilian Defense, were resigning from their jobs.

The new assistant would be Mrs. Roosevelt's second-in-command and would co-ordinate the work of all her divisions in one general plan.

Asked at her press conference if she had decided on the appointee. she responded that Paul Kellogg of Survey Graphic was now acting as an adviser to a provisional committee surveying volunteer participation.

Committee to Fill Job.

The committee, an ad interim group which will make the appointment, includes Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, jr.; Mrs. Ernest K. Lindley, Miss Molly Flynn, bor-rowed from the Farm Security Administration; Miss Mary Dublin, from the Tolan committee, and Judge Justine Wise Polier of New York, who has been making a survey of Mrs. Roosevelt's divisions.

Mrs. Roosevelt also scotched rumors that the Army might take over the protective side of civilian defense. She explained that the Budget Bureau, after canvassing the work of O. C. D., had become con- Plot to Defraud 1,000 vinced that the well-being of a community could not be separated from its protective aspects.

Enlarging on this idea, she said that local wardens, part of the protective side, would be called on to meet welfare problems in the homes they visit and would have to refer these problems to the correct community agencies.

As an example, she cited a warden going into a home where a needy woman was about to give birth to a baby. The wardens, she said, would have to take care of such problems. In a broad defense of the work of the Office of Civilian Defense, Mrs. Roosevelt said there had been a than 1.000 persons of about $1.000,great deal of unnecessary and unfair criticism of both the division and sale of cemetery lots near Muirkirk, its chief, Mayor La Guardia, because Md. of lack of uniformity in various

He proposed that the public school authorities continue to see that 24-hour "alert" telephone service is maintained in all the larger elementary schools, junior and senior high schools, vocational schools and the two teachers' colleges.

Dr. Ballou pointed out that small elementary schools could not be heated adequately throughout the night with the present number of employes. A substantial expenditure, he said, would be required to provide heat. He also remarked that elementary schools did not have enough teachers to make telephone supervision by them on an all-night basis possible without a substantial number of citizen volunteers from each community.

Clever Strategy Used By Russian Forces In Seizing Kaluga

Army Advances Through Area Undefended Because Of Intense Weather

By A. T. STEELE, Foreign Correspondent of The Star and Chicago Daily News.

KUIBYSHEV, Jan. 5 .- A clever bit of military strategy in last week's fighting on the central front re-won for the Russian Army the important railway city of Kaluga, it has been disclosed here.

The Soviets chose as their line of approach an almost roadless region which the Germans considered impassable because of the heavy winter weather and which, therefore, was inadequately defended.

The Red Army began its advance -and before the Nazis realized what was happening, the drive was well under way.

A newly developed Russian antitank airplane, heavily armored and able to fire armor-piercing shells of small caliber, has contributed to the Soviet successes in the Moscow battle according to Russian reports.

In many cases, as your correspondent noted on a recent trip to the front, whole villages have been reduced to ashes. The problem of billeting troops in such cases is indeed a difficult one. The winter weather is gradually becoming more severe and the change is welcomed by the Russians, who realize that they are much better prepared for worse weather than their German opponents. Otis Skinner, Dean Of Theater, Dies in New York at 83.

Veteran Actor Played More Than 325 Parts, Produced 33 Plays

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Otis Skin-ner, dean of the theater, is dead at 83.

The veteran actor, whose mother ence said he would never succeed on the stage because he "could not even talk straight," but whose his-trionics during a 55-year span won him international acclaim, died last night of uremic poisoning.

Funeral services will be held at noon tomorrow in the Little Church Around the Corner. Burial will be in Woodstock, Vt.

Mr. Skinner was stricken December 7 while attending a benefit performance at the Plymouth Theater. With him when he died was his daughter, Cornelia Otis Skinner, herself a famed actress. His wife, the former Maud Durbin, whom he met on stage, died five years ago.

Produced 33 Plays.

Mr. Skinner, who played more than 325 parts and produced 33 plays before his retirement in 1932, was born in Cambridge, Mass., a son of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles A. Skinner, who did not encourage his dreams of the footlights.

Yet it was they who indirectly launched him as an actor on a Philadelphia stage in 1877. Mr. Skinner got that first part with the help of a letter from P. T. Barnum, Phone Call to Nearest School which read:

"O. A. Skinner is known to me. His parents are very respectable."

Consummate skill in acting, plus something of the dash and color which marked the romantic figures he liked best to portray, distinguished Mr. Skinner throughout his 50 years as a favorite of the American stage.

Although he met objection from his parents when he decided to make acting his life's work, firm in his purpose, he left home at 19. almost | vicinity. penniless, and joined a stock company in Philadelphia at $8 a week. Counterespionage By U. S. Catches Gestapo Napping

> F. B. I.'s 'Inside Job' Gave It Complete Control of Ring

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK .- When the war's last gun has sounded and the ink is dry on all the new treaties, the experts will be able to sit back and talk frankly about the "secret weapons" developed for the most fantastic forms of warfare in all history.

The United States should walk off with at least one blue ribbon for a supersecret weapon-a new form of counterespionage. Some results of this defensive weapon were brought out in the four-month spy trial in Brooklyn Federal Court of 14 defendants, convicted of conspiring to avoid registering as agents of a foreign government and of conspiring and delivering to Germany vital United States defense secrets. America's streamlined counterespionage is more advanced, apparently, than the vaunted German fifth column. It is a sixth column that completely dominated the fifth column, that "bored from within" the spy ring until it controlled the movements, communications, finances and even the personal lives of would-be traitors.

F. B. I. Man Heads Ring.

That is what the Federal Bureau of Investigation did in rounding up those convicted in Brooklyn. Agents and special spice say they know of no parallel in counterespionage history.

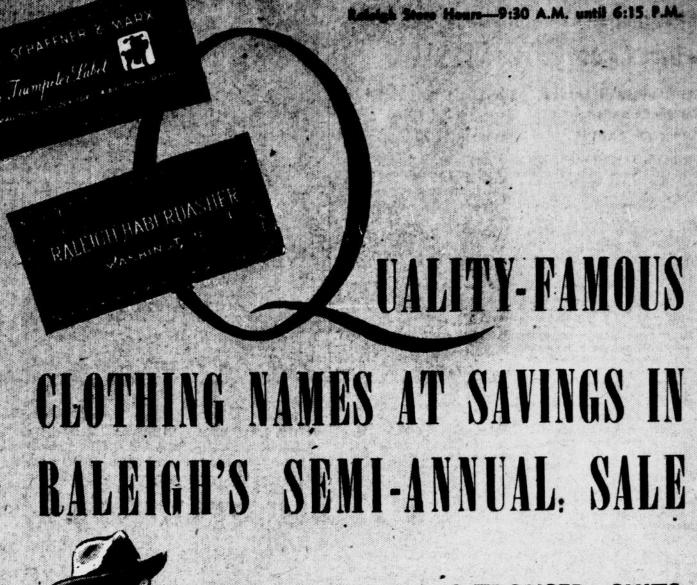

The F. B. I. put its own man at the head of the ring, furnished him with a powerful "secret" transmitter on Long Island and made him so successful as a "spy" that other spies gravitated to him or were sent there by spy headquarters in Ham-burg, Germany. Then things began to happen. Hamburg headquarters demanded information on ship movements, blueprints on certain American defense devices, details of military movements. It suggested tasks for certain agents; it gave names and addresses of its agents here and in neutral countries.

It sent money and new men to this country, pointed out weak spots in American counterespionage, and, generally, tipped its hand on virtually all the who's, what's, where's, why's and how's the F. B. I. could ask. It was, in some respects, almost as good as having No. 1 G-man J. Edgar Hoover at the head of the Gestapo.

Spies Mostly Naturalized.

Who are spies? The trial has shown that they often are bright young men trained in a Hamburg spionage school; mostly naturalized Americans who accepted citizenship as a requisite to making money here (as contrasted with loyal Americans of German birth who are

The manuscript was left at the Globe Theater for Mr. Skinner in 1918 by "a man in sailor clothes." It was months before he learned who Nazi Efforts to Build had written it.

No effort was too great for Mr Skinner in preparing for a part. When he played the deaf hero in Goodman's "The Silent Voice" he studied the inmates of an asylum in Buffalo, N. Y., where the company Still Hitting Snags happened to be, until he acquired the peculiar voice tone of the deaf man and the way of watching the lips.

So much a part of the American stage for so many decades, Mr. Skinner became something of a national if not an international institution.

Calling on President Coolidge in 1926, he was invited to luncheon at which the convversation turned to boyhood days in New England, To their surprise the friends discovered they had fished the same streams and played with some of the same boys in the mountains of Vermont where the family of the elder Skinner, the itinerant preacher, at one time lived.

The life of the actor was bright with friendships. His deepest affec-tion was for Edwin Booth who, he said, was "the most lovable man" he Nazi party, thus becomes the spokeshad ever known. On a winter night in the furnace room of the old Booth Theater in New York, Mr. Skinner wrote, his griefstricken friend in silent tears burned the silk and velvet costumes his dishonored brother had worn.

On all phases of the drama Mr. Skinner had became an authority through his habit of concentrated study of his many parts. He wrote well and drew special attention by an article in Scribner's magazine in 1926 on Edmund Kean, an English actor of the time of Keats and Byron, who cared nothing for noble audiences but sought only to please "the pit."

Stage censorship he could not sympathize with. When police raids on the Broadway theater began in 1927, he said in Hartford, Conn., where was playing in "The Honor of the Family:

There may be things wrong with the theater, but there is nothing so radically wrong that it needs this wholesale readjustment. We are perhaps a bit more frank than we were before, but so is the world which we are attempting to interpret."

Free French Given Chance to Join in Allied Declaration

U. S. Statement Regarded As Bid to Exiles of Axis and Satellites

By the Associated Press. The United States opened the way yesterday for Free French adherence to the United Nations declaration pledging 26 governments to use their full military and economic might against Axis powers with which they are at war.

Since this country does not have diplomatic relations with the De Gaullist movement, the Free French were not represented when the momentous document was signed here Friday.

"In order that liberty - loving peoples silenced by military force may have an opportunity to support the principles of the declaration by United Nations, the Government of the United States, as the depository for that declaration, will receive statements of adherence to its principles from appropriate authorities which are not governments."

There was no official elaboration on the statement, but it was regarded as an unmistakable gesture and invitation to the Free French. Likewise, it appeared to open the way for adherence by anti-Axis organizations of German, Italian or Jananese nationals, or of such Axisoccupied or satellite nations as Denmark, Albania, Rumania, Bulgaria a fellow immigrant showing the and Hungary.

IN UNION NOW LIES POWER TO WIN THE WAR AND THE PEACE A PETITION

THAT the President of the United States submit to Congress a program for forming a powerful Union of free peoples to win the war, the peace, the future;

That this program unite our people, on the broad lines of our Constitution, with the people of Canada, the United Kingdom, Eire, Australia, New Zealand and the Union of South Africa, together with such other free peoples, both in the Old World and the New, as may be found ready and able to unite on this federal basis;

That this program be only the first step in the gradual, peaceful extension of our principles of federal union to all peoples willing and able to adhere to them, so that from this nucleus may grow eventually a universal world government of, by and for the people.

THE UNITED STATES ITSELF BEGAN AS A WAR MEASURE

We welcome President Roosevelt's conferences with Prime Minister Churchill, and the "Declaration of United Nations." We must prosecute the war unremittingly. Organizing effectively the power of the free peoples is essential to that task. We value highly conferences and temporary measures to provide more unified action immediately. But in meeting this need let us, in the present formative period, take care to open—not close —the way to immediate Union of the democracies within the broader anti-Axis coalition.

ADVERTISEMENT.

Conferences, agreements between heads of governments, alliances, supreme interallied councils—valuable as they may be, these are not Union, but substitutes that have already failed democracy. The British and French relied on them. They had a unified command. They agreed to make no separate peace. But they based their unity on two sovereign governments, acting in alliance, not on a united sovereign people acting in union through a common government. And their alliance collapsed.

They work out the details and assure the American people a majority in the Union Congress at the start. the nature of this test. Lincoln measured it for us when he said, "We shall nobly save or meanly lose the last best hope of earth."

We recognize already that we must unite the power of all our 48 States. We recognize that the British must unite the power of all their Commonwealth of Nations. We have not recognized—and we must at once—that we need above all to unite the whole arch of democracy.

An arch without a keystone can be no arch of triumph.

Union Is the U.S. Way

The people of our original Thirteen States once faced the problem the democracies face now. They had never before united for any purpose. But when their common freedom was at stake they did not try to save it with thirteen independent armies, or even with a "supreme interallied council." Instead, with revolutionary vision and vigor, they invented a new and stronger keystone:

1-9

Prime Minister Churchill sought salvation then in the American way of Union. He implored France to join Britain in this "Declaration of Union:"

"... France and Great Britain shall no longer be two nations but one Franco-British Union. The constitution of the Union will provide for joint organs of defense, foreign, financial and economic policies. Every citizen of France will enjoy immediate citizenship of Great Britain; every British subject will become a citizen of France ... During the war there shall be a single war Cabinet, and all the forces of Britain and France, whether on land, sea or in the air, will be placed under its directions ..."

Now the responsibility is ours, either to create or defer too long that "common community or state" whose importance Mr. Churchill stressed in the Senate, Dec. 26th. Shall we begin with the British back where they began with the French? Or where they left off—with an offer of Union now, the old, wartested U. S. way?

Organizing the democracies effectively in a Union need take no longer than organizing them in an ineffective alliance or Supreme War Council, and will safeguard their national rights far more securely and equally. There already exist carefully

The Soviet States Have a Common Government

Granted, immediate extension of our democratic Federal principles to all our war associates is impracticable. But commonsense says to unite at once with those practiced in democracy while co-operating with the others in the best way we can, until they desire and can apply our principles.

We gain from the fact that all the Soviet Republics are already united in one government, as are also all the Chinese-speaking people, once so divided. Surely we and they must agree that Union now of the democracies wherever possible is equally to the general advantage. Victory depends in no small part on sea and air factors, now divided between Britain and us, whose nature requires a common government even more than do the land factors in Russia and China, vast and importantas they are.

We the people of the United States have once more reached a time to try men's souls. Let us not mistake this moment nor They set up at once a common government.

They gave it the power to make war and peace for all. They let it name one common commander-in-chief.

And they issued through it a resounding Declaration of the universal and eternal common principles of human freedom on which they proposed to build a New World.

Thus, in the midst of war, they created the United States itself as a war measure.

They then developed this emergency war policy into a permanent way to keep the peace among their States by adopting a more perfect Union in our Federal Constitution. Since then every American generation has boldly extended these principles of freedom through Union to more states and more people of all kinds. Canada, Australia, the Union of South Africa have already adopted these principles. Britain showed its faith in them when it offered Union to France.

Here, then, in our own American principles of Federal Union lies the way to win this war, the peace and the future. We are not so feeble that we cannot do what our fathers have already done. Let us then turn this great danger into a great opportunity. Let us begin now a World United States.

30,000,000 AMERICANS FAVOR UNION

Thirty million American adults, according to the December Fortune Survey, already believe the United States "after the war" should "join a union of democracies in all parts of the world to keep order."

If you are among those who agree we need Union then to keep a potential aggressor from breaking loose, surely you must agree we need that Union now to meet the powerful combination of aggressors already on the march.

To refuse to recognize this so as to avoid controversy will not save our sons, any more than failure to recognize that a germ caused diptheria saved life in the past.

Remember now the moral slump that always follows war, the return of petty politics. Consider now that if we merely promise Union after the war, the Axis will drive their peoples on by reminding them of what a Senate minority did to the promised League . . . after World War I. But once the oppressed peoples see that this Union is no dream but a living, growing, winning World United States, with a place in its Congress they may earn by regaining their own freedom what a means we then shall have to wreck the Axis from within!

How many, many lives we shall save by this great expeditionary idea—once we give it life! It will be fighting for our sons day and night far behind the enemy lines. No dictator can be certain it will not be fighting for us in his staff itself.

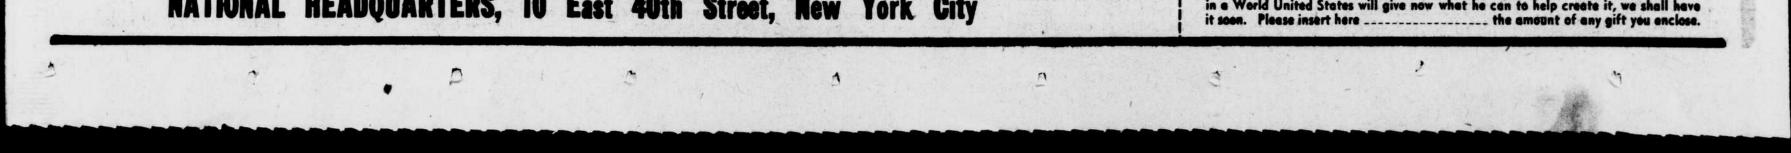

The surest way to shorten and to win this war is also the surest way to guarantee to ourselves, and our friends and foes, that this war will end in a Union of the Free. The surest way to do all this is for us to start that Union now.

"We implore you [as the English workmen implored Lincoln to free the slaves] not to faint in your providential mission. While your enthusiasm is aflame, and the tide of events runs high, let the work be finished effectually. Leave no root of bitterness to spring up and work fresh misery to your children."

Frank Explanation Needed

Hearings before the House subcommittee inquiring into the transfer of established agencies from Washington to make room for new defense agencies have failed to elicit from those questioned any information as to any efforts, on the part of those ordering the transfers, to determine the wisdom of the moves. On the other hand, convincing evidence has been offered as to the total absence of any such efforts.

Twice the Budget Bureau, which seems to have transmitted but not to have initiated the orders for moving established agencies, has been forced to change its original plans. The Patent Office is going to Richmond, not to New York as first ordered. The Wage and Hours Division of the Department of Labor is going to one of two other cities, not to Pittsburgh as originally ordered. Secretary Perkins knew nothing of the transfer of this agency until a few minutes before the orders were delivered to her department. And investigation of the housing possibilities in Richmond is being made after, instead of before, the issuance of revised orders sending Patent Office workers to the Virginia capital.

No advocate of the transfers has yet come to light. Every one questioned regrets the necessity, without seeming to know what constitutes the necessity for the transfers. Aside from appeals to the patriotism of the workers, no convincing reason for the sacrifice has been presented. The transfer decision bears all the earmarks of having been arbitrary, reached without thorough investigation of the attendant complications and clothed with a mystery which does nothing to bolster confidence in its wisdom. The people called on to make the very real sacrifices involved in the move certainly deserve the explanation that thus far has been denied them.

gretted. It is necessary, however, to face the fact that at this time there is very little chance that Congress will deal adequately with either of these issues and it would seem better. under existing conditions, to secure prompt passage of an imperfect bill rather than subject the country to the disastrous consequences that would follow a failure to enact any price legislation.

Unfortunate Controversy

It is most unfortunate that the automobile labor-management conference, meeting here with the O. P. M. today, should have opened in an atmosphere of controversy and suspicion.

The C. I. O. wing of organized labor contends that it has submitted a feasible plan for adapting available machinery in the automobile industry to war production, together with plans for boosting the output of steel, aluminum, copper and other important materials, but that the O. P. M. has done nothing about any of these suggestions. Thus, in effect, the O. P. M. is accused of willfully refusing to boost defense production, and industry is charged by implication with failure to do its part in the war effort.

To this charge the O. P. M. has as yet made no reply. But the Automobile Manufacturers Association has taken vigorous exception to the criticism. The first part of this answer consists of an assertion that the industry has done an excellent job under the circumstances and that it is prepared to continue doing so in the future. The second part is an attack on the C. I. O., whose leaders are accused of scheming to take over management of the automotive industry, despite the fact that they have led, tolerated or encouraged hundreds of sit-down strikes, slowdowns and other forms of "production sabotage" which have hampered the industry in the past. In both cases, these charges and the accompanying implications probably overshoot the mark. It is undoubtedly true that our production could have been greater, and it soul is probably true that labor, industry and Government all share in the responsibility for the failure to produce more. But this is water over the dam. The war which lies in the future cannot be won by indulging in recriminations over what might have been The imperative need of the moment is not to fight over the mistakes of the past, but to make certain that they are not repeated in the future. To the extent that this may require a fixing of responsibility, the responsibility should be fixed. Otis Skinner

Even when the attention of the American people is concentrated upon the problems of war, a moment must be spared to express appreciation for the life and services of the finest professional actor of his time. Otis Skinner, dying at eighty-three, had earned the distinction freely accorded him. During more than sixty years of labor in the theater he gave to the public the high example of a player who was qualified in terms of character and personality to essay the very noblest parts. No role that he attempted demanded of him any spiritual exertion to which he could not rise. Rather, it happened very commonly that he endowed the written patterns of his work with a power drawn from his own devoted

Mr. Skinner was born at Cambridge, Massachusetts, June 28, 1858. Q. What is the statement of President Roosevelt in the Bibles given to the soldiers?_C. S. L.

A. It is as follows: "As Commander-in-Chief I take pleasure in commending the reading of the Bible to all who serve in the armed forces of the United States. Throughout the centuries men of many faiths and diverse origins have found in the Sacred Book words of wisdom, counsel and inspiration. It is a fountain of strength and now, as always, an aid in attaining the highest aspirations of the human soul."

Price Control

Under the spur of war and rising living costs, the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency has unanimously approved a price control bill which, while still deficient in several respects, is a better measure than that passed by the House. The committee's bill, under a tentative agreement, is scheduled to be brought before the Senate Wednesday, and there is every reason why it should receive this prompt consideration.

On the first of December, as pointed out in the committee report, the Bureau of Labor Statistics index of twenty-eight basic commodities already had increased approximately 57 per cent over the August, 1939, level. Wholesale prices generally had risen about 23 per cent and the cost of living 12 per cent. "Even more alarming than the total advance," the committee stated, "was the accelerated rate of increase." And that, it may be noted, was before the war engulfed this country. If the cost of living is to be maintained, now that hostilities have begun, it is essential that a price control bill be passed, and that with all possible dispatch.

The Senate committee, following Indian bases. the advice of most of the witnesses to appear before it, decided to vest price control authority in a single administrator and strengthened his hand by authorizing him to enforce price decrees through a licensing system, which had been rejected in the House. If price control is to be effective in wartime, it would seem to be essential that the administrator have this authority. In other important and constructive changes, the Senate group eliminated the board of administrative review which was established in the House bill, providing instead for a limited form of judicial review, and removed House restrictions on the administrator's authority to buy or sell commodities as a means of carrying out the purpose of the act.

The disappointing feature of the committee bill is its failure to deal forthrightly with the question of farm prices and wages. In the first respect, it is probably a little better than the House measure but it still permits farm prices to rise to 110 per cent of parity, and the wage issue, vitally important from a cost standpoint, is neatly sidestepped through a meaningless declaration that it shall be the policy of Government agencies dealing with wages "to work toward a stabilization of prices and the cost of production." Thus, the committee seems to acknowledge that prices cannot be held down if wages are permitted to go | coasts. up, but this phase of the problem,

Eves on Singapore

The fall of Manila and the retirement of General MacArthur's unbroken but vastly outnumbered American-Filipino army to its lastditch defenses on the Batan Peninsula and the island fortress of Corregidor emphasize the still more vital campaign being fought down the Malay Peninsula which guards Singapore: Henceforth, General MacArthur's job will be to fight a delaying action, keeping as many Japanese troops and as much mechanized equipment as possible from being shipped from Luzon to Malava. London and Washington agree that Singapore must be held at all costs. If this key air and naval base should fall into Japanese hands, not only would the nearby Dutch Indies be threatened but Japanese warships and submarines could enter the Indian Ocean, imperilling British supply lines between Suez, India and Australia. Furthermore, the Japanese would have acquired vast natural resources of rubber, tin and tropical products which would give them the sinews of war for an indefinite period. The Far East might have to be reconquered, bit by bit, by American and British armies and fleets from distant Australian and

Fortunately, Singapore itself is not immediately in jeopardy. Its coastal defenses are so strong that a direct attack from the sea is almost unthinkable. Before Singapore can be seriously menaced, it must be approached by land over the Malay Peninsula, combined with enveloping | of choice for nations. tactics by a Japanese conquest of the island of Borneo to the eastward and the Dutch island of Sumatra on the western side. The Japanese are already well ensconced on Borneo and have made tentative landings on Sumatra. But the main thrust must come down through Malaya. Hence it is well to visualize the sort of country through which the Japanese must fight their way.

British Malaya is an almondshaped peninsula, about 400 miles long and with an average width of 100 miles, narrowing toward its southern tip, at which lies Singapore. Down the middle of the peninsula runs a backbone of mountains, sometimes rising to a height of 7,000 feet. The mountainous interior is wild country, the mountains draped with heavy forests rising out of even heavier jungle. Except for one or two valleys, it is sparsely inhabited by primitive aborigines, together with an abundant population of tigers, crocodiles, venemous serpents and annoying insects. This means that large-scale military operations can be conducted only along the studied no less than 120 different impersonations in his first twelve months on the boards. It was thus that he gained the training he needed to associate on equal terms with Edwin Booth, Lawrence. Barrett, John Drew, Helen Modjeska, Ada Rehan, Minnie Maddern Fiske, Maude Adams and Henrietta Crosman. He was the master of sixteen leading roles out of Shakespeare's blessed book, but he also could make something memorable from such an opportunity as that of "Uncle Tom" in the popular classic of Harriet Beecher Stowe. His "Shylock" was famous and his "Mister Antonio" a joy to see, but probably it was for his magnificent representation of Haji the beggar in "Kismet" that he was most deservedly celebrated. Nothing more gratifying ever was done behind footlights in the United States. It lives today in the recollection of a multitude of play-going oldsters as they observe efforts of younger and less competent "stars."

Yet there was nothing patronizing about Mr. Skinner. Up to the last he still maintained his faith in the theater as a great cultural institution to which all classes of people should be made welcome. His writings reflected the generosity of his mind and heart. The rich perfection of his diction and style survives in the genius of his daughter, Cornelia, a distinguished artist in her own right and the special joy of his last seasons.

Never Underestimate

Underestimating opposing power is a dangerous thing to do nowadays, both for nations and individuals. Especially is this true when conflict is avoidable, as it still is in individual cases, although no longer a matter

An auto salesman of Clarksburg. West Virginia, made the fatal error of underestimation in tackling a chief boatswain's mate in our Navy. The salesman, heavily armed with overwhelming sales arguments, persuasions and other high-power equipment, at first sight seemed to have a huge advantage. How could a mere chief boatswain's mate, trained only in old-fashioned naval tactics, resist a supersalesman? Confidently he opened the assault, only to fail and go instantly on the defensive. The salesman had overlooked the fact that now, at last, the Navy man had far more powerful weapons than those of a representative of a nonessential industry. The boatswain counterattacked the salesman and knocked out one argument after another; and because his opponent was at heart patriotic and sensible, in the end he confessed that he was glad to lose-and proved his surrender by resigning from his job and enlisting in the Navy.

defense activities in that city."

Since the Department of Agriculture is required by act of Congress to be maintained at the seat of Government (United States Code, 5.511), the execution of certain proposals which have been made for removing that department to Chicago apparently would require an act of Congress. The Congressional Record for May 9, 1941, contains an extension of remarks of Representative Anton F. Maciejewski of Illinois, including the following interesting statement: "Mr. Speaker, the idea of decentralizing Washington is spreading rapidly. I mention this for the reason that during the past several days editorials have appeared in the Chicago Daily News advocating removal of the Department of Agriculture to the city of Chicago

"We all know that in recent months Washington has been transformed by the defense program into one of the country's congested cities. By moving out of the city into an area of the country where its principal business is transacted the Department of Agriculture, the Government would acquire immense office buildings and could at the same time partly offset the general over-crowded condition that prevails in the Capital City today." Congress has provided that the District of Columbia shall be the permanent seat of Government of the United States (United States Code, 4.6) and that "all offices attached to the seat of Government shall be exercised in the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere, except as otherwise expressly provided by law." (United States Code, 4.7.)

It therefore would seem clear that departments and other agencies which Congress specifically has directed shall be located at the seat of Government cannot legally be removed from the District of Columbia without an act of Congress to that effect. However, there may be some question as to whether or not any certain bureau or division in such departments (such as the Patent Office in the Department of Commerce) could be removed without specific congressional authority, while leaving the office of the Secretary in Washington. On the other hand, there appears to be considerable doubt as to whether or not congressional authority would be needed in the case of the Department of Labor, or other agencies for which Congress has made no specific provision as to their location. It might be inferred: (a) That congressional authority is needed, because of the fact that Congress specifically has declared that the District of Columbia shall be the seat of Government and that all offices attached to the seat of Government must be exercised in the District of Columbia "and not elsewhere, except as otherwise expressly provided by law"; or (b) that congressional authority is not needed, since Congress has enacted so many provisions requiring specific offices to be located at the seat of Government and hence must be deemed to have left. to the President discretion to determine the location of those offices for which

Letters to the Editor

Discusses Dr. McCartney's Letter Protesting Against War Posters. To the Editor of The Star:

A letter addressed to the President of the United States by the Rev. Dr. Albert J. McCartney, minister of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, as published in The Star of December 26 last, has attracted much attention.

We all could fully agree with Dr. Mc-Cartney in principle, had he merely stated his objections to the new war posters depicting some "ape-like figures" of the enemy abroad and asking the proper authorities in Washington that they be withdrawn from public gaze.

I should consider such a demand justifiable and reasonable, inasmuch as I feel (though I have not seen the named posters) that it is below the dignity of the American Government to engage in any such petty rabble-rousing tactics at a critical time like the present. To awaken the American populace to a keener realization of the perilous plight we are in (which ostensibly is the sole purpose thereof) other methods should be evolved.

We easily can surmise that Dr. Mc-Cartney does not like the war at all. None of us likes it. It was thrust upon us. We were caught unawares, fairly swept off our feet. Against our will we find ourselves in the midst of the fray. And fight we must with all our might and main. There is no way out. No time for speculation, for theorizing or soft-pedaling. The enemy is upon us with all the ruthlessness, savagery and demoniac artifice he can devise. So we must strive with all the means at our command to ward off this cruel onslaught.

A distinguished Christian divine like Dr. McCartney should be fully aware of the part of religion in war and the duty that is ours at this time, if we are to wage battle to save mankind, civilization and the very religion we profess. True it is, religion is a most potent instrumentality for peace and harmonious order among men and nations. Its ultimate purpose is the unification of the entire human race into one common brotherhood under the benign protection of one universal Father. Yet, it is said, there is no peace for the wicked. You cannot make peace with a ferocious beast ready to devour you. It is either his life of yours. I do not believe Dr. McCartney "speaks the sentiments of thousands" by asserting that the "calling or ugly names across the waters have gotten us into war." On the contrary, it was rather the complacency, the slowness to anger and failure to be alert, on the part of the leaders and legislators in the United States, who kept on shouting from the housetops, "we will never go to war, and never care what happens in Europe, or elsewhere; we are at a safe distance over the vast expanse of water here and can well afford to stay home at all hasards."

They forgot that by reason of modern devices the whole world today is shrunk into one compact neighborhood and

Now it is too late to apply the brakes on the war chariot which is bound to run its course in the swiftest and roughest way that American arms can afford. What remains for me to say for myself is that I have always been and am today an avowed pacifist. But I do believe in the principles laid down by the Talmudists: "If one rises up to kill thee, be thou first to kill him" (Sanhedrin 72a). It will be a happy day for the world

To the Bditor of The Star: Regarding the seisure of the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon by the De Gaullist forces, is it not significant that this act was preceded by unconfirmed rumors emanating from London that Petain was about to resign in favor of the pro-Axis Darlan?

If the islanders were persuaded that France was about to enter into collaboration with the Axis, naturally their welcome of De Gualle's forces would be spontaneous employment. Full-page newspaper advertisements blaming the O. P. M. and the auto industry for not converting automobile plants more quickly to war work have been issued by the C. I. O. as part of a general publicity campaign David Lawrence. to make industry the goat for about everything adverse from Pearl Harbor to Singapore.

These tactics of blaming somebody else when things go wrong are not new in politics or in governmental feuds but for the C. I. O. to start talking about the crisis in the Far East in terms of man-days lost by the auto industry in failing to convert machine facilities sooner is to initiate a new era in public muckraking with the war as a background.

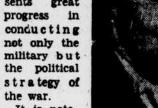

The C. I. O. says nothing about the tens of thousands of man-hours and man-days lost by its strikes in the face of pledges repeatedly given that it would co-operate with the national defense program. Nor is it mentioned why a coal strike was called recently that cost the Nation valuable supplies of fuel, or why major strikes were called in plants building ships for the Navy.

To go back over last year's lamentable record of work stoppages is something which the average American would prefer not to do. But the C. I. O. is now opening up the past record and beginning to blame industry, and this doubtless means the C. I. O. is willing to have its own record examined, especially the instances in which it deliberately ignored the earnest pleas of the President of the United States.

Called Communistic Scheme. The main thing the C. I. O. publicity program has focused on is the Reuther plan which it claims would have prevented the present era of unemployment that has come as a result of curtailment of auto production. But the truth about the Reuther plan is that it is basically a communistic scheme. It aims to bring the C. I. O. into management very much as is done by Soviet workers' committees in Russia. Under the Reuther plan, the G. I. O. asks for a share in management but it does not anywhere ask for a share in the responsibility of financing any losses due to mistakes in management. It is the same old story of wanting a share in the profits without being willing to share any of the losses. The C. I. O. has recently been presenting many plans for industrial production committees, almost all of which tend in the same direction, namely to introduce into the American picture the communistic principle of production management by union workers' committees. Incidentally the C. I. O. had this idea before the war emergency began when it introduced the "slow down" as a sequel to the lawless sit-down strike. Under the slow-down, production output is limited by the union. The C. I. O. has opened fire on the O. P. M., which, of course, is managed jointly by Mr. Knudsen and Mr. Hillman. The C. I. O. asks why cruiser captain who said Japanese the Reuther plan was pigeonholed. Mr. Hillman is an ardent champion of labor union philosophy, but he is ing and perfecting our program for also a practical person and if there had been any merit to the Reuther plan he would have espoused it long

And, it is of particular importance that the Soviet Union commits itself to such war aims. not when it is withdrawing but advancing.

Limited Trust in Governments.

Having said this, I confess that like a good American, I place only limited trust in governments. Words have various meanings in various minds, and whether great purposes are ever realized, depends not, on the expression of noble principles by governments, but on two things: First, the day-to-day acts of the governments concerned. for it is the accumulation of such acts that determines the end result; and, second, the degree to which the principles are understood and freely accepted in the minds and hearts of the people.

We live in a revolutionary world, a fact too often lost sight of by governments. The essential struggle in this world, as far as the peoples are concerned, is between political and economic feudalism and a new world of freedom.

I say a new world, because it is also true that the people of not a single democracy are satisfied with things as they are. Workers want a more assured status: every one with intelligence wants to see a modification of commercial or mercantile capitalism enable nations and the world to use to the fullest their labor and resources: nationalities want recognition of their right to live their own way of life, secure against aggression, whether they are large or small; at the same time nationalism, as it has been practiced for the last century and a half is finished, however this war turns out. By CONSTANTINE BROWN. British naval and air authorities are reported to be seriously concerned over the possibility of an all-out attack by German and Italian air forces in the Mediterrancan.

Information from the Mediterranean countries indicates that there are strong concentrations of Nazi planes at important bases on the Italian mainland, in Sicily, Sardinia, Greece and the Greek islands, whence the Luftwaffe could strike at the British Navy.

acent. The Nazi high command is holding its hand, however, appearing to hope that in view of the difficult position at Singapore, a large number of British planes will have to be sent to the South Pacific to strengthen inadequate Allied forces there. The associated anti-Axis powers' production of planes is insufficient to supply the fighting forces in North Africa, the Near East, Russia and the Pacific.

Rely on Japanese Pressure.

The Nazis are said to believe that Japanese pressure will compel Britain and the United States to detach a substantial force for the protection of Singapore and the East Indies. Under these circumstances the Nazis expect to be able to attack the British Fleet in the Mediterranean with their planes at a time when the British will be unable to obtain great air reinforcements from the United States, which remains the principal arsenal of the powers fighting the Axis.

Responsible Washington quarters admit that the problem confronting the anti-Axis nations is not an easy one. The British stress heavily defense of the Mediterranean Coasts and the Near East, and they are correct in so emphasizing this theater of the war, for if the Mediterranean were abandoned, the Germans would march into the oil fields of Iraq and Persia with little trouble. Despite the hammering they are receiving from the Soviet forces, the Nazis appear to be concentrating an imposing air force and strong army in Southern Europe. While keeping our eyes on that situation, we must not lose sight of the tremendous importance of Singapore and the Engineers Against Plan. The fact is that the Reuther plan on that naval stronghold. never got beyond the stage of generalities. No blueprint was offered and no details ever given. Its principal point was that auto machinery of a single purpose nature could be transformed into general purpose machine tools. Engineers said this could not be done. Had the Reuther plan been adopted, unemployment last month would have been so extensive that the step would have reacted against the C. I. O. unions. But since it wasn't adopted, it now makes a convenient device for blaming the O. P. M. and the auto inof dustry. The C. I. O. is rightly worried about unemployment in the transition from peacetime to wartime work. But it cannot justly blame the employers, on the one hand, for not seeking contracts and, on the other hand, for profiteering in contracts or for wanting to have contracting concentrated in the hands of those who know how to deliver the goods. Congress has had a finger in the delay. Last summer it cut out wast appropriations for more tanks and war weapons. Likewise, a clique of politicians on Capitol Hill have been insisting that the work be desentralized throughout the country in small plants while the Army and Navy has been fighting such a political method as meaning delays and incompetence. The auto manufacturers are today still asking for war contracts sufficient to enable them to use their facilities to the maximum point. If the C.I.O. wants to know why the auto manufacturers aren't able to employ the idle labor that is available, they will find the answer not in attacks on Mr. Hillman and Mr. Knudsen but in the memoranda of the War and Navy Departments and in the White House, where the ultimate responcontracts were allocated, and also Loved in life. Remembered always in death. THE PAMILY.

That aluminum has gone into airplanes, antiaircraft equipment, warships, mobile field kitchens, ponton bridges, communications apparatus, and for many other military purposes. It has helped to win a reprieve for liberty. It has helped to halt the onrush of dictatorships.

It is changing industry.

That is why defense is Alcon's only business will be produced in our own plants and in the

All this makes possible tonnage teamwork by Americans keyed to all-out-for-America production - by scores of aluminum fabricators, thousands of foundries, and by the aviation, automotive and other industries which are fashioning aluminum and aluminum products into essential military tools in this flying, mobile war. Four times since the war in Europe started, . we have voluntarily reduced the price of aluminum - a total of twenty-five percent. Today, at 15 cents a pound, the aluminum which goes into defense means savings to taxpayers of millions of dollars a year.

This is our War-time report to the Nation. A year ago we said: "If you can't get all the aluminum you want when you want it, you will know that aluminum has gone off to defend your home and your country." Today we say: "Alcos is all-out-for America." When Victory is assured - and not before - then you will get for the products of peace, more aluminum, better aluminum, at lower prices than any nation or any people ever had.

To some, the outward appearance of Argentina's merely declaring this country a non-belligerent after the United States had declared war on the Axis was that the "good neighbor" policy had suffered a setback. The real effect of the Argentine action, however, was to give the United States use of Argentine ports and airports in time of battle.

This is a distinct change from the Argentine attitude before the war, when Uruguay's proposal of the non-belligerency policy to aid the United States was greeted by the Buenos Aires foreign office as "redundant" and "unnecessary." It is, furthermore, a tremendous advantage over the position Washington held in the first World War. Throughout that conflict, Argentina remained neutral in practice, even

Pull Their Own Weight In Boat When Crisis Comes, He Finds

By LUCRECE HUDGINS, Associated Press Writer.

If a woman is afraid of a mouse why isn't she afraid of air raids? The answer to that poser, accord-ing to psychologists, is that a woman isn't afraid of a mouse in the first

When a lady jumps on a chair and screams at the sight of a mouse she instinctively is taking the only constructive course of action open to her. Her scream scares the mouse more than the mouse scares her.

When a man sees the same mouse he is too dignified to climb on a chair and shriek. He hasn't a gun handy and the only available vase is a family heirloom. Consequently, while he appears to be courageously nonchalant, he actually is paralyzed with indecision

Women Can Pull Own Weight. "Our whole civilization has been built on the thesis that men are the stronger sex," says Dr. Winfred Overholser, famous psychiatrist and superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Hospital. "But, I think events in this war prove beyond question that the courage of women is equal to that of men.

"Custom has conditioned women to a feeling of inferiority. Now women, perhaps to their own surprise, are proving that they can pull their own weight in the boat." According to the psychiatrist, there is no physiological reason why women should be less brave than men. Perhaps they become frightened quickly but that may be because women are more intuitive and so realize danger more readily.

Brave Can Be Afraid.

But to act courageously in the face of a known danger requires more pluck than to act with bravado when scornful of danger.

"When an individual shows courage or cowardice it is not because of being a male or female, but because of being a particular human being," says Dr. Oberholser. "A very bold man who has fought in three wars and rolled over

Men sometimes scaff at the pa-triotism of women, saying that it is easy for girls to wave flags because they are not the ones who will have to go out on the battlefield and die. However, Dr. Overholser agrees that it often takes less courage to die than it does to send the man you love away to die.

While some men will admit that women are their equal in physical bravery, they insist that abstract courage is a purely male prerogative. They ask, "How many women would die for a principle?" To this Dr. Oberholser replies,

"How many men would die for a principle?

"The average person doesn't see this war as a conflict between democracy and autocracy. What he sees is a threat to his home, his livelihood, his personal peace. These are very different things from a principle and women are as apt to fight for them as are men."

The All-Stars tried nobly enough. In Sammy Baugh they had a passer so good that not even the Bears' best could carry his helmet. Baugh pitched to three touchdowns. Crack Bowlers Almost Shut Out as Evening Star Tourney Moves Into Stretch

Gulli and Blakeney Only Aces So Far In Prize List

Full Handicap System Subject of Debate Among Promoters

By ROD THOMAS So far as the crack bowler is concerned, the 14th annual Evening Star Tournament, which drew the largest entry-fee field in the history of duckpins, close to 10,000 men and women, is a dud.

With the bulk of the army having fired, a checkup today revealed only two "name" bowlers among the leaders.

Ed Blakeney, who qualified at the King Pin, is second in scratch sets among the men with 419 and Lorraine Gulli, who rolled at the Lafayette, is third in women's scratch sets with 365 and second in scratch games with 158. In the preliminary, Miss Gulli was the only recognized star of either sex to show prominently. She topped her field in scratch sets with 401.

Between the time the tournament is finished, next Saturday night, and next season bowling promoters here and elsewhere will debate thoroughly the full handicap system. given in The Star's event its first major trial. Man Bites the Dog.

For the first time in the history of duckpins the average and belowaverage bowler has been presented an opportunity to shoot for bigtime prizes with a fair chance of collecting. In past Star tournaments a common plaint among them, even though a two-thirds handicap prevailed, was: "What chance have I?" Now the squawk comes from the other side of the fence. Says the star, "I'm locked out." And so it appears. One must delve deeply into the current standings of both sexes in the tournament to find familiar names, excepting those mentioned. The explanation is simple. The expert bowler maintains a fast, even pace, with little chance of exceeding it extremely. The "duffer" occasionally performs "better than he knows how" and with a full handicap in such instances surpasses on the scoresheet any tally of which the star is capable. Duffers Surprise Selves. Virtually every bowler among the leaders in The Star tournament has expressed amazement. "Gosh," they exclaim, "I didn't know I could shoot that well."

WE-AIL

The Japanese attack on the United States instantly changed our trend of thought in this country.

Before that attack some of us thought in terms of "I", others in terms of "we". Neither of those terms expresses our feelings today.

"I" represents only one person.

"We" may mean only two or a few persons.

Our slogan now is WE-ALL, which means every loyal individual in the United States.

We are facing a long, hard job, but when the United States decides to fight for a cause, it is in terms of WE-ALL, and nothing can or will stop us.

President Roosevelt, our Commander-in-Chief, can be certain that WE-ALL are back of him, determined to protect our country, our form of government, and the freedoms which we cherish.

President.

District Orders Tax Payment in Domicile Cases

Supreme Court Ruling Cited in Calling for 1939-40 Returns

The Commissioners today ordered all persons living in the District on the last day of the taxable years 1939 and 1940 who failed to file income tax returns, or pay the tax, in the belief they were exempt through domicile elsewhere, to file returns immediately for those years and pay the taxes due plus interest and penalties.

The order follows the decisions in the Supreme Court last month that the question of domicile is one of fact to be determined by the Board of Tax Appeals.

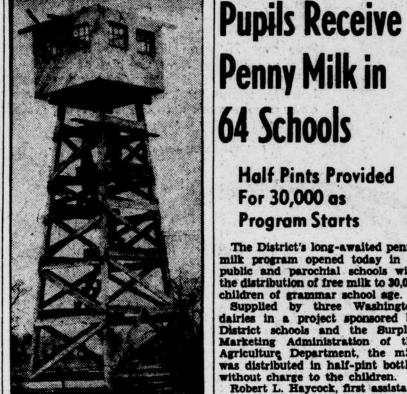

The city heads said they would waive penalties for late filing of returns for the two tax years in the case of individuals whose failure to file was due to their reliance on a Court of Appeals decision which held in effect that persons holding voting residence in other States were not domiciled in the District. To escape penalties, however, such persons must file returns and pay the taxes and interest before February 16.

affected by the order but it was considered likely that a number of Government employes had withheld payment of the levies pending the Supreme Court decisions.

No General Rule Applies. In their interpretation of the effect of the Supreme Court deeisions, the Commissioners said it was clear that the President, Vice President, members of Congress and cabinet officers are not domiciled in the District. In addition, certain other officials, such as those appointed for a definite tenure or those temporarily in the District performing special services or having positions of emergency or wartime character, probably are domiciled in the States from which they came.

The Commissioners warned, however, that no general rule could be applied to exclude from imposition of the tax anbody not clearly in the exempt group. They pointed out that the liability depends on the run

Tire Rationing Starts; 7 Apply At 2 Stations

Retread and Recap Price Complaints Filed With Board

Seven petitioners for that rare commodity, automobile tires, visited the two local tire inspection stations during the forenoon today as the District's tire-rationing prorgam got under way.

More than 100 other motorists, who apparently had not read the instructions on how to go about getting a tire rationing card, took their requests personally to the newly opened offices of the Tire Rationing Board in the old Force School on Massachusetts avenue.

They had some difficulty getting the procedure explained to them because painters and carpenters still were at work trying to get the fourroom headquarters on the second floor of the school ready for Chairman Whitney Leary of the Rationing Board and his staff.

No Rush at Stations. But there was no rush at the two automobile inspection stations, which are serving as the tire testing headquarters. By noon, only three hopeful car or truck owners had called at the Northeast station at West Virginia and Central avenues N.E., and four had visited the one at Tenth and F streets S.W.

First applicant to have his machine certified as needing new tires was Samuel S. Streb, plumbing and heating equipment dealer, who drove his truck to the Southwest station, had his tires inspected, filled out his application and took it directly to the Force School headquarters. His application now must be passed by one of the three subcommittees handling the rationing machinery

The Rationing Board quickly found itself on the receiving end of . complaints against rising prices for retreading and recapping of tires. Several Protests Received.

Eugene T. Brady, chief clerk of the board, said about 10 people dropped by to protest that they were being charged "exhorbitant" prices for retreading and recapping jobs. One said a dealer was asking double his normal price.

Persons wishing to contest the imposition of the tax may do so by filing claim for refund with Assessor E. A. Dent within two years from the date of any payment. Speeial forms have been prepared for refund claims based on domicile outside the District.

Plagued by Domicile Issue.

Since adoption of the District income tax as a successor to the old intangible property tax District officials have been plagued by the domicile issue, since the tax is based on residence here. They received a faintness and her vehicle crashed setback when the Court of Appeals decided the so-called Sweeney case in favor of the protesting taxpayer.

Although in the Sweeney case the appellant, a Justice Department employe, was seeking exemption from the old intangible personal property levy, the decision in his favor, based on legal residence elsewhere, was construed to apply to the income

On December 15, however, the Supreme Court handed down opinions in the income tax cases of the District vs. Henry C. Murphy and the District vs. Paul De Hart, which denied the claims of those two Government employes for exemption.

Proof Up to Taxpayer.

Under the Sweeney decision the burden of proving domicile here for tax purposes was placed on the District. The Supreme Court decisions, however, placed the burden on the protesting taxpayer to produce conclusive évidence of being domiciled elsewhere by showing clear intent to return there.

Under the District income tax law returns are to be filed on or before April 15 of each year. Half of the tax is payable then and the realty of 25 per cent of the tax is either in the county courthouse or assessed in case of failure to file in private law offices. a return according to schedule and in the event of failure to pay the tax or any installment due, interest ployes who happened by. "Agencies that are not affected by the program will be expected to release as many employes as possible of those who wish to transfer to agencies removed from Washington to the States, preference being given to those employes originally residing in such States.

"In addition, the Civil Service Commission will recruit eligibles in the States to which the agencies will be moved, and those eligibles can be drawn upon to replace the rest of the employes released in Washington."

Immigration and Naturalization Service and Rural Electrification Adminstration, in Richmond, Philadelphia and St. Louis. Certain professional and technical employes also are wanted for the Patent Office.

Non-Civil Service Jobs. In those instances where employed holding positions exempted from civil service requirements seek to remain here, the commission said their qualifications will be studied to determine if they might be assigned to civil service positions for which registers have become exhausted. In no case, however, it was added, will the commission seek to locate other excepted positions for this class.

Capt. and Senora de Saenz Honored at Farewell Party, High Light of Week End

Informal Buffet Supper Given By Mr. and Mrs. Frank Waring Among Social Features

Parties yesterday were fewer and smaller than they have been for many week ends-perhaps the reaction after the whirlwind of entertain ing for the debutantes and the students who were here for the holidays. However, the farewell party for the retiring Air Attache of the Chilean Embassy and Senora de Saenz and several small and informal buffet suppers, teas and cocktail parties were highlights of the social calendar.

The Air Attache and Senora de Saenz will return to their native land shortly, Senora de Saenz starting the long journey this week. Group Capt. Saenz plans to make the trip by air later in the month. Yesterday they were honor guests of Dr. and Mrs. Stephen Verges, in their attractive home on upper Sixteenth street. Guests were invited for the late afternoon hours and included the Spanish Ambassador, Senor Juan de Cardenas, without Senora de Cardenas, who is in New York for a week's visit; the Ecuador Ambassador, Senor Capt. Colon Elroy Alfaro; the Honduras Minister and Senora de Caceres, the Costa Rica Minister and Senora de Fernandez, and 40 or 50 others from the Latin American group of diplomats.

Wessels Entertain Guests at Cocktails.

Other delightful parties yesterday were those of the Military Attache of the Swedish Legation and Mme. Wessel who entertained at cocktails, another in the series they have planned for the early winter; the buffet supper which Mr. and Mrs. Frank Waring gave last evening, the rather large "at home" which Mrs. George C. Thorpe held through the late afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. George Renchard's tea and the eggnog party which Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Honsick gave in their Chevy Chase (Md.) home,

Mrs. Thorpe's "at home" probably was the largest of the afternoon fetes yesterday. A number of prominent hostesses assisted her. Among those at the tea table were Mme. By the Way-Reth Blaine

Wearing a black crepe afternoon frock, with the sheerest and frilliest of ruffies about the throat and a new shoulder-length glamour girl hair-do, Mrs. Marye Thomas arrived in town yesterday. She's staying with her mother, Mrs. George Marye, who will give a dinner for her tomorrow night at the 1925 F Street Club . . . and before she came back to her "old home town" she went to New York for some shopping. When you've been "ranching" it in Nevada (or any place else) for more than a year you need a complete change of wardrobe for sophisticated town parties. Without even bothering to unpack her bags, Helen Thomas came straightway over to Mrs. McKeldin Thorne's at cocktail time-for a party in her honor. It was one of those so much in vogue now, a "come-for-cocktails-and-stay-for-supper" party, so every one wore street clothes and came whenever it was convenient. (The great advantage of this type of party in these busy times.)

Long before supper started we were all so full of tasty little hors d'oeuvres that we might almost have dispensed with the steaming and very lavish plates of chicken and Virginia ham and salad and hot biscuits. However, we did very well by them!

There were some very attractive and interesting guests at the party. Among them was Mrs. Martin Scanlan, wife of Gen. "Mike" Scanlan, who has been our Military Attache at the American Embassy in London. They've seen some exciting times there, but are both reticent about them. Mrs. Sutherland Mayo was regaling several fascinated listeners with a tale of her stay in Berlin, when she was taken by friends to Hitler's apartment (before he was really in power). It was all modernistic and done in pale colors. Even then Hitler objected to smoking ..., he thinks it pollutes the air!

But to go on with the guests . . . Mrs. Noyes Lewis was there and Eddie Gardner and Mrs. Pearsons Rust, back from several days' visiting with the William Fahnestocks on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Mrs. Rust wore a black dress with our favorite hatpale, pale blue with the sheer tulle veil tied under the chin (the same hat which caused Mike McConihe to ask her one afternoon if she had a sore throat!) Then also there were Marshall Exnicios, Fred Roy, George Abell, Bill McAvoy, "Doggie" Waggman, Horace Luttrell, Clarence Hewes, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Miller and Larry Bungardeanu.

Earlier in the afternoon we dropped in at the Snowden Fahnestocks' to have a cocktail with the Fahnestocks and the Angier Dukes. Mr. Duke is in the Army now, stationed at Camp Lee, and they were only in town for the day. Mrs. Duke is lovely to look at ... blond and petite, and yesterday wore black with heavy gold bracelets and clips and a tiny pill-box hat with a sheer black lace snood. James Beck was there, too-he's in and out of Washington now, but not just for parties, it's big business this time.

You've read all about the Flather party, but one thing you have not read is that the hit of the evening was host "Bill" Flather, who went as the county sheriff. He was simply marvelous! Cowboys were all over the place and Spanish senoritas . . . and the decorations were unbelievably beautiful. "Jock" Merriam took some pictures (not for publication) which should be fun if they turn out well.

Va., to Mr. A. Yates Dowell, jr., son, Eric Taff says that every one thinks he's gone to France for the Red of Mr. and Mrs. Dowell of this city, Cross as he was scheduled to do some time ago. Well, he's still here (or was at this writing), living in his attractive little apartment on Florida avenue just off Massachusetts.

The More Bonds You Buy ... The More Planes Will Fly

This Axis War upon us is a matter of life or death for America, your free America. Now, as never before in all our glorious history, our Army, Navy and Marine Corps urgently need planes, tanks, ships and guns.

Literally billions of dollars are needed immediately to produce these and other weapons of defense . . . of offense . . . and of Victory. They must be produced now. The money must be secured now. Let's do it the voluntary way, the American Way, the Defense Bond way.

If we are to drive the enemy from our shores, smash him out of our seas and blast him from the air, every dollar you can spare, every dime that is not absolutely required for the necessities of food, clothing and shelter should be, yes, must be, loaned to your Government.

WE MUST ACT NOW. Start getting your share of United States Defense Bonds and Stamps today. Get them regularly, day after day, week after week. If you have already bought a Bond, now is the time to get more.

Remember, every Bond you buy is a blow at the military maniacs attacking us—that every dollar you invest will come back to you with interest on that brighter, happier day when Victory is ours, and there is peace again throughout the world.

When is maturity? Ten years from the time you buy the Bond. If you need the money before then, you can cash the bonds at any time after 60 days from their issue date. A table of cash-in values is printed on each Bond. Naturally, the longer you hold the Bond, up to 10 years, the more money you'll get back. But you'll never get less than you put in.

What's the interest rate? When held to maturity, the Bonds yield 2.9% per year on your investment, compounded semi-annually-you get $4 for every $3.

What about Defense Stamps? Buying Defense Stamps is a convenient way of saving money with which to buy a real Defense Bond. Stamps are sold for as little as 10c.

When should I buy a Bond? Start now; buy regularly. If your company has a Defense Savings Pay-Roll Allotment Plan, take advantage of it NOW. INVEST IN SAFETY-WITH PERFECT SAFETY.

America Needs Money-and the Money must come from YOU

Remember — Y o u can start buying Defense Bonds by buying Defense Stamps for as little as ...

- 10 cents in Defense Stamps buys 5 cartridges.

The story thus far: Johnny Mulvaney lays aside his science degree when his invalid father's company, Mulvaney Machines, Inc., is wrested from him by unexplained stock manipulations and he and their former chauffeur, Steve, take over operation of the only property Mike salvages from the financial wreck, a constation. In love with Sheila Morgan, daughter of Mike's doubledealing lawyer, Johnny is crushed when she transfers her affections to his friend, Vic Shawbridge, and when Vic practically announces their engagement before he leaves for the Army Air Corps Johnny is brokenhearted. Sheila's house guest, Patty Grayson, gives Johnny information that might indicate Owen Morgan's guilt in the stock deal, but it isn't conclusive. When Vic's father, a prominent Eastern lawyer, visits the Morgans, even Sheila seems annoyed by his overbearing manner.

CHAPTER XI.

Patty felt she had something to work on after that first night with Randolph Shawbridge a guest at the Morgan dinner table. She knew beyond doubt that Clarissa Morgan had social ambitions of the highest rank, and for that reason more than for any other had wholeheartedly approved of Vic as a husband for Sheila. But Patty felt that it must have been almost as much a shock to Sheila's mother as it had been to Sheila herself to find that Randolph Straw-+fied her completely. "Patent" was

Parents Should Prepare Their Youngsters to Meet the World's Hardships

Don't Coddle Them So Much That They Cannot Battle Problems That Arise

Slaving for Children Mistake; Pampering Often Cultivates Loafers and Weaklings

By Dorothy Dix

Probably all parents would satin-line and soft-pad the world for their children if they could, but in trying to do this they bring upon their coddled darlings greater hardships than the ones from which they are trying to protect them. For life isn't a pathway strewn with roses. It is a hard and rocky road to travel. There is no possible way in which we can save those we love from being pierced by its thorns and bruised by its stones, and the softer we make our children the less able they are to endure the sufferings that they are going to be called upon to bear, and the more danger there is of their fainting and falling by the wayside.

Do what we will we cannot stand between our youngsters and misfortune. We can only fit them as best we can to meet it. This is a sad and tragic fact that parents only too often ignore, and it gives us the pitiful spectacle we see on every hand of fathers and mothers working themselves to death preparing a future of misery for the children they worship, and doing them a greater narm than malice itself could invent. For what these parents forget is that nothing they can do can alter the world in which their children must live that will make it safe and secure for them. No effort of theirs can save the children from reaping as they sow. No sacrifice that they make can prevent their children from having to pay their score in life. In the end their chil- dren must work out their own des- ident or chief of staff of the Army,

A young fellow convalescing in a hospital recently wrote us a very amusing letter, attempting to prove that our advice to treat girls with thoughtfulness and consideration was the bunk. This boy claimed that he used to be a perfect gentleman, and the girls would have none of him. So then he became a first-class heel, and the fickle females promptly fell all over him

We didn't take the letter very seriously, because it was obviously at least half fiction, written for fun by $ a fellow with a lot of time on his hands. Nevertheless, there was a kernel of truth beneath the mountain of chaff, and here it is: If a fellow carries consideration to the point of becoming weak and wishywashy, no feminine hearts will flutter at his approach.

A good example of this virtue turned into a fault appears in the following letter from S. M .:

"Should a boy call a girl and ask for a date, and make her decide where they should go? I have a friend whom I date quite often and who always does this. This makes it hard for me, because I don't know what to suggest, and we usually end up at the movies.

'My other friends pick out some place and then call and ask me if I want to go. But this boy just says initiative in their dealings with him. time, and we've always argued over this point. I want to be sure I am doing right in insisting hereafter that he choose.'

seeing a lot of each other, the boy can hardly be expected to suggest some new and exciting place to go every time they have a date. But he certainly shouldn't always leave the entire responsibility of choosing the evening's entertainment to the girl. The ideal course here is for him to ask her for her ideas. After that they can reach a decision together.

Every girl likes to be treated with consideration, but no girl admires a boy who is weak-willed, undecided and indefinite. Oh, she may take advantage of him, just as many a nagging wife takes advantage of a too easygoing husband. But she will

Women Walk

There are several occasions when it is not only permissible, but preferable, for a gentleman to walk ahead of a lady whom he is accompanying; but when they go down a receiving line, is not one of these. This is an answer to a wife who exmake a suggestion or two and then plains that she is a stranger to those receiving, whereas her husband is well known to them and could therefore more easily introduce her if he were to walk ahead. I'm afraid this behavior on his part would not be clearly enough understood to excuse his apparent lack of courtesy. As a matter of fact, it should be quite easy for them to walk side by side since it is not likely that there will be a crowd in front of the rea young boy of that age walk up the aisle with his mother, or his sister, and also give her in marriage. These occasions were in the Episcopal Church and I can't answer for any other denomination; and therefore would suggest that you ask your clergyman whether this may be permitted in your church.

Manners of the Moment

The salesladies tell me they get awfully mad at women who take off wrong side out all the dresses they

Of course, this works two ways Sometimes the women buying dresses get awfully mad at the salesladies for skipping out on them just as they reach the hooks and eyes in the middle of the back.

Peeling dresses off so that they are wrong side out is somehow easier than peeling dresses off any other way. But it is harder to straighten out the dress afterward. Conse-quently, most women go on the theory that when there is some one else to pick up and hang the dresses, they may as well do it the easy way. But when they have to pick up after themselves, they are more careful.

But I'm willing to make a bargain with the saleslady. If she'll stick around when I need help getting in and out of the blamed things, I'll take the dresses off right side out. But I'll warn her that if she doesn't help me when I need help she not only gets the dress back wrong side out, but the dress will be deposited in a heap on the ssing room floor, to boot. JEAN.
