50 Million Housing, Utilities Measure Flayed by Beiter

By JAMES E. CHINN. The House this afternoon by a ing Metropolitan Area. Action men. came at the conclusion of nearly two hours of debate.

Virtually all members who took part in discussion of the legislation stressed the urgency of the housing shortage and the existing lack of school, hospital, water and other facilities for Government employes and their families. An exception was Representative Beiter, Democrat of New York, who charged that the Defense Homes Corporation has been buying up "expensive tracts of land in fashionable areas of Washington" presumably as sites for lowcost housing units for Government workers.

Attacks "Friendship" Deal. Mr. Beiter centered his attack on the Government's purchase of Friendship on Wisconsin avenue from Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean. He declared Mrs. McLean was paid $1,000,000 for the property which consisted of 75 acres, and added:

"Think of is; well over $13,000 for each acre of land. And this does not take into account the expenditures to be made for the actual housing itself, the utilities and incidental appurtenances. This is extrava-

Japan Uses Barge Equipment Sent by U.S.

Gen Douglas MacArthur reported late today that several barges used by the Japanese in attempted landings on the West Coast of Bataan had been captured. In them were lifesaving and other equipment marked "U. S. Army Transport Merritt." This was part of relief supplies given Japan by the United States after the great Tokio earthquake and fire in 1923 and were loaded on the Army transport Merritt in Manila under direction of Gen. MacArthur, then commander of the Philippine Scouts Brigade.

Counterattacks Believed Made As at Dunkirk

> Bitter Fighting Goes On in Face of Overwhelming Odds

(Earlier Story on Page A-1.) The Singapore radio, heard in London this afternoon, reported heavy fighting continued on the island this morning. "with the Japanese attempt to advance still meeting with strong resistance," according to the Associated Press.

The announcer described the situation as "very serious," but said it had "not deteriorated in any way."

Tokio reports from the battle lines said Japanese troops were fighting hand-to-hand tonight with British troops in Singapore.

Earlier, British sources in London announced that Singapore's defenders had slashed back at the Japanese with two violent counterattacks in the face of overwhelming odds in men, guns and planes.

Like the counterattacks which erupted from the British perimeter at Dunkirk, however, these British counterstrokes perhaps were merely designed to gain time while little Dutch and British ships ran a gantlet of fire to evacuate women and children.

Fall Believed Near.

The report of these desperate defensive attacks was the only word from the island fortress to reach the War Office. There had been no communique from Singapore since early yesterday. However, cable companies continued to accept messages to Singapore. These counterattacks were said even to have scored "some measure of success," leaving the defenders

By CLAUDE A. MAHONEY. Admiral Thomas C. Hart, commander of the combined naval forces of the United Nations in the Far East, has been relieved of command at his own request and his duties have gone to Vice Admiral C. E. L. Helfrich of the Royal Netherlands Navy, the Navy announced today.

Vice Admiral Helfrich, commander in chief of the Royal Netherlands East Indies Navy, has been designated as acting commander of the forces and it is not known whether his appointment is to be permanent. Admiral Hart made his request to be relieved because of ill health. Navy officials pointed out that it was

Expanding on the new setup, a Navy spokesman said that Vice Admiral Helfrich probably would remain on land to direct and coordinate the work of the combined fleets and that the actual physical fleet operation would be in charge of Vice Admiral Glassford. The same spokesman described Vice Admiral Helfrich as one of the best-informed men on the Far East sea problems and Vice Admiral out electric lights. Glassford as an extremely active

A congressional committee charged today that defense brokers have amassed "untold millions" profiteering on war contracts, and demanded immediate steps both to get the profits back and to prevent exorbitant commissions in the future.

In a report based upon weeks of investigation and public hearings the committee told Congress it had uncovered evidence that commission brokers-some of them without previous experience in the work-had obtained commissions ranging from 3 to 75 per cent on defense subcontracts.

The House Military Affairs Subcommittee studying procurement of defense materiel called for:

1. Complete reorganization of the control and supervision by the War Department of the performance of cost-plus-a-fixed-fee contracts for the operation of ordnance plants.

Would Collect on Losses.

2. Action by the War Department or the Justice Department to obtain reimbursement of losses to the Government resulting from failure of corporations, individuals, or partnerships to perform properly the services stipulated in their contracts.

3. A provision to permit the War Department to deduct from future contracts'all profits over 1 per cent obtained by commission brokers handling subcontracts.

The greater part of the tee's recommendations and findings were based on its inquiry into the huge munitions contracts awarded the Remington Arms Co. of Bridgeport, Conn., and subcontracts handled for Remington by Leon K. Shanack of New York, subcontractor and commission agent

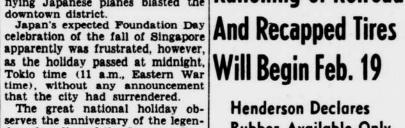

The committee said that: "Unless it (Remington) undertakes to correct the practices which the testimony and evidence have disclosed in the hearings to date, the taxpayers' bill for 'waste' will be a considerable one which will involve lions of dollars."

Neutrality Provision Repealed by Senate, Paving Way to Credits

Would Allow Canada To Obtain Backing of U. S. Business Firms

By J. A. O'LEARY. The Senate today passed unanimously a resolution repealing another section of the Neutrality Act to clear the war for financial credit transactions between American business concerns and Canada, and sent it to the House for approval.

Action came within half an hour after the Foreign Relations Committee had approved the step, recommended a few days ago by President Roosevelt.

Although Senator Johnson, Republican, of California withheld his approval of the resolution in committee, he announced on the floor of the Senate he would not oppose its passage because he had been assured that it does not wipe from he sponsored before this war, prohibiting nations in default on their debts to the United States from selling securities here. Senator Clark, Democrat, of Mis-

Flynn Sees President For Discussion of Political Situation

(Earlier Story on Fage A-7.) Alfred M. Landon, former Gov-ernor of Kansas and 1936 Repubican presidential candidate, called on President Roosevelt at the White House today and told reporters as he left that he was in agreement with the Chief Executive that the only strategy open to the United Nations is to hold our lines until we are in a position to strike back and take the offensive."

Mr. Landon, who is in Washington to attend the Lincoln Day Republican dinner tonight, said he had called on Mr. Roosevelt only to pay his respects and that there was no thought of him-taking a post in the Government during the war.

"I was delighted to see Mr. Roosebles oval. velt looking as well as he does in view of the terrific burdens now on THIRD RACE-NEW TRICK. BELL BOTTOM, ROYAL his shoulders," Mr. Landon said. Mr. Landon said that the President is concerned principally with the problem of adequate shipping tonnage for the transportation of fighting equipment to outer points of the battle front.

Edward J. Flynn, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, called at the White House a few hours before Mr. Landon and he said he had talked over with Mr. Roosevelt "a lot of things throughout the country, politically." Mr. Flynn added that he tried to keep politics away from the President as much as possible these days. Reporters reminded him of the President's expressed ideas of who should compose Congress and he was asked whether "you are going to make your policy coincide.' "Well," Mr. Flynn answered with

FIFTH RACE-BY CONSCRIPT, SPREAD EAGLE, RED-THORN.

BY CONSCRIPT, from the Bradley barn, appears well placed in a very open race. Has a good flight of early speed and should be on top as far as he goes. SPREAD EAGLE beat a good field last out and is fit as a fiddle. REDTHORN has worked exceptionally well and could take it all.

SIXTH RACE-PICTOR, CAPE COD, HALTAL.

PICTOR, winner of the Washington Handicap and Laurel Stakes last fall, defeated a good field handily last time out. In spite of keen opposition, appears much the best today. CAPE COD is coming along nicely and is a stern contender. HALTAL, on the strength of good works, rates money chance.

Military commentators declared the Japanese had not landed at the naval base, on Johore Strait opposite the enemy line on the Malayan mainland, and said the railroad crossing the island from Johore to Singapore city had not been cut.

These sources declared there was no indication either that the Japanese had put "large numbers of troops" across the causeway from Johore, although it was conceded that the situation remained "very serious.'

The British blew up the causeway -the only bridge between Singapore and the Malay Peninsula-but the Japanese reported yesterday that they had restored it.

Simultaneously, the opinion was advanced in some quarters that Singapore's predicament might place the heaviest strain thus far imposed on the people's unreserved faith in Prime Minister Churchill, although there was no apparent support for reports that his leadership would be

"It is imperative that we get parking space," he declared. "The time wasted by the Government workers now constitutes an enormous waste of money for which Uncle Sam pays. It must be possible to work out a plan for conversion of the Mall into a parking lot. We should see if that can't be done by the President under the defense powers granted him by the Congress.

Transfers Not Solution. Representative Downs, Democrat

She also made a plea for "decent" housing accommodations for Government girl war workers in Washington. "Girls from the rural districts are coming to my office and telling me they have no place to stay," she said. "That's a dangerous thing. The protection here is not all that it should be. More men should be added to the police force." Representative Randolph interrupted to remark that additional police are "a very real need." Representative Carlson, Republican, of Kansas, complained about the lack of adequate school facilities for children in the Anacostia area. He said the Anacostia senior-junior high school is so overcrowded pupils not only are on a two-shift basis, but have to attend classes in the cafeteria and gymnasium. The new Stuart Junior High School, now under construction and designed to relieve overcrowding in that area, he said, is to be taken over upon its completion as a temporary Government office building. Fish Talks With Hill After Two Testify Before Grand Jury

Letts Gives Dennett Another Chance to End Evasiveness

George Hill, second secretary to Representative Fish, Republican, of New York, was brought from jail vesterday to testify before the District grand jury investigating Nazi propaganda activities in this country. Hill was sentenced by District Court Justice F. Dickinson Letts last Friday to serve from two to six years in prsion on a charge of perjuring himself before the same grand jury.

Representative Fish called on Justice Letts in chambers while Mr. Hill was before the jury. The jurist told newsmen later that Mr. Fish "expressed concern" over Hill's appearance before the jury. Justice Letts said he explained to the Representative that the court no longer had jurisdiction over Hill, now that he is in jail, that the Attorney General is responsible for all Federal prisoners.

During the proceedings in which Hill was sentenced, it was indicated that a "proposition" whereby Hill might make a "frank statement" to the grand jury was in the making, but fell through. Presumably the statement would be in return for a recommendation of leniency to the court from Justice Department prosecutors. The court still has the power to alter Hill's sentence.

Fish Visits Hill.

Justice Letts, after the conference with Mr. Fish, said the New Yorker also pleaded for leniency for Hill. After conferring with the jurist from the grand jury room in the the District Court cell block. Earlier in the day, Mr. Fish himself had testified for about two hours before the grand jury. It was his second appearance before the body

At Mr. Fish's request, Justice Department officials tried to keep his visit before the jury a secret yesterday, but newsmen learned of it.

Another development in the Nazi probe came yesterday afternoon. Prescott Dennett, chairman of the Islands for War Debt Committee, an anti - interventionist organization, was hailed before Justice Letts on a charge that he was failing to cooperate in answering questions before the jury.

Warned for Evasiveness.

Justice Letts did not hold him in contempt but warned that he was giving him one more chance to abandon his "evasive tactics" or face the "extreme penalty."

"I am definitely of the opinion that this witness is wilfull and intends to impede the progress of the jury's investiga Letts said following a hearing. "The grand jury is one of the strong arms of this court and the judicial system in this country and must have cooperation." Mr. Dennett's other "chance" to mend his ways will come at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow, when he will appear before the jury again.

F. B. I. Men Trace Activities of Ludwig In New York Court

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Feb. 11.-Kurt Frederick Ludwig, one of the seven defendants on trial in Federal Court on charges of violating the Espionage Act, and allegedly the leader of a Nazi spy ring, was pictured yesterday as the owner of a notebook containing data describing a method of increasing the underwater speed of submarines

Arthur Cornelius, jr., an F. B. I. agent, testified that he found such a notebook in Ludwig's possession when he arrested him near Seattle. Wash, last September, after Ludwig had been trailed across the Nation from New York by numerous F. B. I. men.

During Mr. Dennett's hearing. Mark Schlesinger, the grand jury official stenographer, read from his notes to show how Mr. Dennett was evasive to questions.

One of the questions asked Mr. Dennett in the juryroom concerned solicitations by Hill of "members of the Hamilton Fish Committee" for money with which to carry on certain anti-interventionist activities, although it was indicated that the "Fish Committee" was not to be the organization to use the funds. The committee was not otherwise identified.

Viereck Solicited.

Mr. Dennett had testified, according to the stenographer, that George Sylvester Viereck, indicted Nazi agent, was one of those Hill said he had solicited. Whether Viereck actually donated any funds was not brought out.

Mr. Dennett himself was put on the stand during the hearing and to illustrate his tactics Special Assistants to the Attorney General William Power Maloney and Edward Hickey, jr., asked him this question: "How much money have you gotten from George Sylvester Viereck?"

Mr. Dennett said his committee had gotten $600 and a press service he owns $200, plus expenses for certain work.

Communiques Spectacular Dogfight

Over Bataan Described The text of War Department communique No. 101, based on reports received here up to 9:30 a.m. today, follows:

"1. Philippine theater. "The savage fighting in Bataan, as well as enemy air activity, was appreciably lessened. However, movements of hostile reinforcements indicate early resumption of an attack in force against our positions.

"There were intermittent artillery exchanges between the guns of our fortifications and enemy batteries on the Cavite shore. Our counterbattery fire appears to have been effective. Gen. MacArthur has sent to the War Department additional details of the aerial combat on February 9 in which several enemy planes were shot down, Several of our P-40 fighters were escorting a slow biplane trainer on a photographic mission over Cavite Province when they encountered six enemy fighter planes. The ensuing combat was one of the most spectacular that has been waged in the Philippine campaign. "Capt. Jesus Villamor of the Philippine air force, who recently was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross with Oak Leaf Cluster, for repeated acts of extraordinary heroism, was the pilot of the photographic plane and had landed when the enemy planes appeared. Our escorting fighters, instead of landing, vigorously engaged the enemy aircraft. A series of thrilling dog fights ensued. Four enemy fighters were immediately shot down. A fifth was crippled and veered off to the north, landing on an airfield near Pilar where it was destroyed by our artillery. The sixth plane fell out of control and was ultimately found where it crashed in the mountains of Bataan. This accounted for all of the enemy planes engaged in the combat. One of our planes is missing. "2. There is nothing to report from other areas."

War Department Communique No. 100, outlining the military situation as of 5 p.m. yesterday

On the right there were sharp patrol actions, while in the center enemy pressure increased. Fort Drum was under enemy artillery fire for a brief period. Our counter-battery fire is believed to have been effective. |

Allied Leaders Near Test of Withdrawal Strategy in Far East

Jap Fleet May Become Weapon to Divide Burmese From Australian Front

By GEORGE WELLER, Correspondent of The Star and Chicago Daily News.

BATAVIA, Netherlands Indies, Feb. 11. - With the deepening breaches in Singapore's defenses, the speeding up of Japan's engirdling movement around Borneo, and the broadening aerial attacks along the entire curve of the insular defenses from Sumatra to the Solomon Islands, Allied leaders are now nearing the supreme test of their withdrawal strategy. At 12:15 p.m. February 7, 10 hours after the ship left port, the enemy craft appeared and ordered it bandoned.

Following the narrow escape of the first lifeboat, five others were aunched successfully and the enemy then shelled and sank the ship. The lifeboats were in the water for six hours before the rescue ship appeared, near dusk, and picked up the passengers and crew.

An 8-year-old girl, reported to be the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Myers, was a heroine of the drama at sea. Mr. Myers, a Goodrich Rubber Co. employe, and his wife also were aboard the ship. When the first lifeboat capsized the litle girl clung bravely to the side, despite a head injury, until she was rescued. Some of the male survivors saved only the shorts they were wearing at the time of the attack. Another boatload of American evacuees from Malays reached Dutch territory safely yesterday. Most of them were employes of tin and rubber companies.

Singapore's Plight Stresses Fact Japs' Foes Are on Defensive

Must Continue That Way Until Equipped, Analyst Points Out

By DEWITT MACKENZIE, World War Analyst

The big question now would seem to be. "Where do we go from Singapore?"-not in any spirit of defeat or despair, but with a grim determination to find the best and quickest solution we can for a problem which we know we can handle in due course

The plight of this great British base cries out for recognition of the fact that the Allies are fighting a defensive war in the Pacific and must continue on the defensive until they can equip themselves to assume the offensive. That being the case, we must be prepared to stand up under some further harsh blows from the Japs before we are able to check them.

Our own Gen. MacArthur and his little band are in dire straits today under increasing enemy pressure The fate of the East Indies themselves, so eagerly sought by Japan for their rich resources, is on the knees of the Gods.

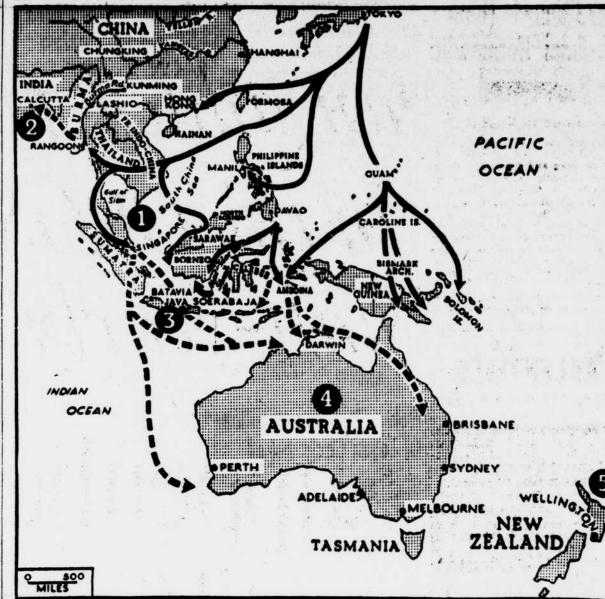

All this makes bad reading and is a matter of deepest concern, but it is no occasion for despondence. There is no possible gainsaying that we have the sinews with which to win this war. We need to remember that it is almost two years since the British evacuation from the bloody sands of Dunkerque and the collapse of France-and the Allies are far stronger today than they were then.

Campaign for Negotiated Peace. So impressive are the Japanes winnings that an international ganizing a campaign for a negotiated argument is that the Nipponese acquisition of territories rich in resources, coupled with cheap labor, will enable them to dominate world markets if the western powers fight to a finish.

At first glance that does sound like a powerful threat, especially when we stop to consider the manner in which Japan already has been flooding the western world with products produced by near-slave labor. Western civilization can't compete against starvation wages.

However, if we pursue our analysis of the situation we soon discover that there is a joker in the pack. We musn't forget that the battle of the Pacific, like its counterpart in Europe, is a war of resources, coupled with facilities for the transportation of those resources.

Japan in itself has few resources of any kind, but is almost wholly dependent on seaborne supplies And now just at this point in our argument along comes our Admiral Herbert F. Leary and lands the vanguard of a United States naval force at Wellington, New Zealand. This is reported by Joseph C. Harsch. correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor of Boston, who accompanied the expedition across the Pacific. But that is only part of Mr. Harsch's thrilling story. He describes the landing of American reinforcements at "way stations along the route" from Pearl Harbor. In other words, the United States has achieved a victory which is calculated to ensure our supply route to the Orient. Then we get the kernel of the nut from Mr. Harsch: "And the way is open for reinforcements and the vital weapons of Batavia's swank Harmonie Club. in scouting over many years, it has war.' Japs Face Raids on Convoys. Now where does that take us? Already the Japs have suffered grievous naval losses as the result of American and Dutch attacks. Japan's not great merchant fleet also has sacrificed a lot of ships in the two months of war. What the Japanese are going to be up against is a growing attack frich got his chief exercise in walkagainst their convoys in their long lines of communication by our surface and air fleets. As we gain strength, so will the Japs gather knocks. And Japan cannot replace' her losses, or anything like it, with her own resources. AUSTRALIA LAST BASTION IN SOUTH PACIFIC IF SINGAPORE FALLS-Military quarters in Washington said today the fall of Singapore (1) would add at least an extra year to a long Pacific war. A Japanese commentator noted that its fall would release troops for a drive through Burma (2) to connect with a projected Axis drive east through India. The fall of Singapore also would be the signal for a swoop to take the rich Netherlands Indies (3) and would leave Australia (4) as the sole United Nations' bastion in the South Pacific between Hawaii and India. Chilean Congress Quits Without Rio Report

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 11.-The extraordinary session of the Chilean Congress adjourned last night without having received a report from Foreign Minister Juan Bautista Rosetti on the accords reached at the recent Rio de Janeiro Conference which unanimously recommended breaking off relations with the Axis powers.

His report, withheld at the request of Vice President Mendez, presumably will be given to the next session convening March 21 or to any special session that may be called in the interim.

THIS NEW PLAN SHOWS YOU HOW TO END WORRY ABOUT HOW TO PAY YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAXES BY MARCH 16

If you are like most income taxpayers, two things are true: (1) By March 16th you will have found that your Federal Income Taxes are two or three times larger than last year. (2) The new Revenue Act was passed so late last year that it has been difficult to accumulate the neccessary cash even for the first quarterly payment.

To help you meet this problem, the Morris Plan Bank has developed an economical, convenient program for the payment of these taxes on a monthly basis-available to individuals, partnerships, firms, and corporations.

HOW THE PLAN WORKS

Let's assume that the taxes on your 1941 income will amount to $600:

1. Before March 14th you come in and sign a note for $618. The added $18 is a charge of $3 per $100. For other amounts note table below:

Amount of Tax	Charge per $
$100 to $199	$5.00
200 to 299	4.00
300 and over	3.00

2. There are no other fees or costs of any kind. Life insurance is included without extra cost, so that in the event of your death, any balance owing will be automatically canceled.

3. No endorsers or other security will be required. All you need is a good credit standing in the community. It makes no difference whether you have ever been a customer of this bank or not.

4. The money will be credited to a special account in your name, withdrawable for the purpose of paying these taxes as they are due March, June, September, and December 15th.

5. Beginning April 1st, you deposit in the Bank each month 1/12 of the total amount. (See Monthly Payment Table below.) And that's all. At the end of twelve months, you will have paid your entire tax bill and you will owe the bank nothing.

Don't put this off until the last minuteif you have not already received your Income Tax blanks, get them now and figure out exactly how much you must pay.

Amount of Note	12 Monthl
	Bernete
	$ 8.75

Regular Morris Plan Bank loans are of course available for those who prefer to pay their whole tax bill in one lump sum on March 16th, or for any other purpose for which you require funds. These loans also are made without endorsers in every possible instance.

China-born, Mr. McDaniel has spent much of his life in the Orient. It was the fourth time the 35-year-old, prematurely-gray correspondent had been under Japanese guns in a major siege. His baptism of fire was at Tientsin, when the Japanese bombarded and captured that city in the summer of 1937.

Mr. McDaniel was born of American parents at Soochow, China. He was educated at the University of Richmond and the University of North Carolina.

The scene to the south was one of unnatural calm. In the far distance wisps of smoke spiraled slowly over fishing villages on the small Dutch islands which det the straits between Malaya and Sumatra.

Along main roads in the foreground motorcars, trolleys and rickshaws were carrying people home after the day's work. In front of the famous Raffles Hotel cars were depositing patrons of the daily tea dance, and outside the movie house immediately below people were queueing up in front of the box office to see Joel McCrea and Ellen Drew in "Reaching for the Sun." The oddest touch of unreality to the entire scene was provided by a letter which my fellow observer, Eric Davis, director of the Malayan Broadcasting Corp., received from a

Departmental Deferments

There has been urgent need for some time for instructions of the nature made public yesterday by the White House regarding draft deferments among Federal employes. The lack of a uniform policy with respect to handling of deferment applications from Government workers has resulted in a considerable amount of confusion in the departments. Some offices have been sorely hit by departure of key workers called into the armed services by draft boards. which, in the absence of a general policy to guide them, have exercised independent judgment in granting or denying deferment requests. These decisions often were based on unsupported statements of the employes as to the importance of their work and its relation to the war effort, inevitably opening the way for abuses of the deferment privilege.

Under the policy laid down in the memorandum now being distributed among department heads, all future requests for deferment must come not from the employe but from the head of the department or agency which employs him. In submitting such a request, the responsible official must certify not only that the employe in question is holding a job "clearly related to the war effort or to essential supporting activities," but that it is difficult to replace him. Deferment in such instances will be for not more than six months-and arrangements must be made at once to train an employe as a future replacement. Further deferment will be granted only under exceptional circumstances.

This plan seems to have the ad-such loans until receiving clear instructions to the contrary. Mr. Roosevelt's press conference remarks doubtless will serve to put a stop to this use of public funds. The committee should continue its investigation, however, not only with a view to determining the extent to which poll tax loans have been made, but also to bring about a thorough airing of other serious charges which have been made against the Farm

Security Administration.

A Fine Opportunity

The President said yesterday what a great many people have been hoping he would say. Mayor La Guardia, carrying out a previously expressed decision, is resigning from part-time direction of the Office of Civilian Defense and Dean James M. Landis is in full charge. Dean Landis is thus given the opportunity to make of O. C. D. the valuable agency that it should be, but which it never has been up to this time. He will have the loyal support of American citizens who are anxious to do what is expected of them in an emergency and who are greatly in need of intelligent leadership and instruction. The Office of Civilian Defense should be the fountainhead of this leadership and instruction. It should in itself represent the ideal toward which our volunteer organizations of citizens have been working without much encouragement and in the face of demoralizing confusion. It should be stripped of its foolish and wasteful functions, which, under the former setup have branched out into a variety of fields having no remote connection with civilian defense, and get down to the serious business that lies ahead. In economy of operation, careful utilization of available material and definiteness of purpose, it should set an example for the hundreds of thousands of citizens all over the country who have volunteered their services for whatever tasks they are called on to fill, without asking for a place on the public payroll. These tasks involve the grim business of preparing for air raids, with their blackouts, bombings, fire, death and injuries among the civilian population. They do not include the mobilization of actors, singers, dancers and other artists. They do not include superimposing social service bureaus and recreation councils and debating societies and glee clubs on existing community agencies.

The people are earnest about this civilian defense. Dean Landis will have a great opportunity to work for and with them in perfecting it.

Parking on the Mall Representative Dirksen's proposal for turning the central area of the Mall into an enormous parking lot for automobiles for the duration of the war has met with determined and understandable opposition from Federal park authorities. Opposition to this drastic plan is justified on more than esthetic grounds. There is serious doubt that such a move is necessary as an emergency means of relieving parking and traffic conditions, in view of the likelihood that two factors will revolutionize the parking situation before very long. One of these factors is the diminishing use of passenger automobiles, due to rationing of cars and tires. The other is the legislation just passed. providing for a motor vehicle parking agency empowered to establish "fringe" parking areas and to adopt other remedial measure. If the process employed at the polo field in Potomac Park were to be duplicated on the Mall, vast stretches of lawn would be torn up and acres of asphalt laid down between Third and Fourteenth streets, to accommodate some 25,000 automobiles. Park officials resisted prewar efforts to commandeer the polo grounds and other park areas for use as automobile terminals, but wartime necessity has forced numerous encroachments on park property. If, to aid in winning the war, it should become advisable to sacrifice more and more of Washington's parks, those sacrifices, of course, will be made as required. Until the absolute necessity for further destruction of the Capital's costly park system has been shown, however, park officials and the citizens of Washington generally may be expected to oppose vigorously such suggestions as that of Mr. Dirksen.

may involve negligence, are secondary in character. The direct cause of the fire clearly seems to have been the exposure of the burlap wrappings to the welder's torch. Until the contrary is definitely established. that can only be regarded as inexcusable negligence on some one's part. It is almost incredible that such serious fire hazards were permitted to exist. The Normandie, which was to be turned over to the Navy as an auxiliary vessel, presents a salvage problem of unprecedented magnitude, both as to engineering and cost. The most distressing aspect, however, is not the cost, but the fact that several months must be lost before the ship can be made ready for naval use. As one naval officer expressed it, "it's not the cost that counts at this time. but how many days are lost." In this sense, a very heavy price indeed must be paid for somebody's carelessness. One Pearl Harbor should be enough.

Tension With Vichy

The flames which gutted the French luxury liner Normandie, taken over by our Navy and renamed the Lafayette, cast a lurid light on the renewed diplomatic tension which has arisen between Washington and the Vichy government of France. Yesterday. French Ambassador Gaston Henry-Haye conferred at length with Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles on the gravity of the present situation. This is not the first time that Franco-American relations have become tense, but never has the crisis appeared more serious.

The present tension arises out of formal charges by the British government that Vichy has connived openly with the Axis to permit deliveries of food and gasoline to reach General Rommel and thus substantially to aid him in the surprise attack which recently has inflicted serious reverses upon the British in Libya. Vichy also is charged with complaisance toward Japanese demands on the French authorities in Indo-China to turn over naval vessels and merchant ships in that colony, which would aid Japan in her grand offensive against the United Nations in the Far East.

Those are grave accusations, and Vichy has formally denied the British charges. Yet it may be assumed that London has not made them without careful investigation, and the concern manifested by our State Department indicates that Washington takes the matter very seriously. Hitherto, our Government has tended to restrain British impatience at Vichy's equivocal actions.

American diplomacy has taken the attitude that, so long as Vichy did vantage of being fair to the department, to the employe and to selective service authorities. The latter are faced with the task of raising millions of additional recruits with the least possible dislocation of public and private industry. Because of the reluctance of some employes to ask for deferment, the draft has taken a number of Federal employes who might better serve the Nation out of uniform. For example, a number of agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which is charged with counterespionage duties, have been called into the Army or Navy as selectees, in which capacity their highly specialized training as investigators is wasted. The need for eliminating such defects in the operation of the selective service law has long been recognized, and the new regulations should go far toward correcting the situation.

The Teacher Vigil

The decision to abandon the 24hour watch which school teachers had been maintaining in eighteen school buildings apparently marks the end of this somewhat mysterious and wholly unfortunate undertaking. It is to be hoped that this is the case.

In its original form, the order required teachers to keep watch on a 24-hour basis in all schools, but there was never any satisfactory explanation as to why the order was issued, at whose direction it was issued, or as to just what the teachers were supposed to do.

Gradually, however, it became evident that the undertaking was a foolish one and that the teachers could be used to better advantage in other ways. The scope of the project was gradually tapered down until finally the watch was being maintained in but eighteen buildings, and it is to those that the final order for discontinuance is directed.

The lesson to be learned from this experiment is two-fold. It is, first, that local civilian defense authorities should look into all ramifications before taking any such drastic step as that involved in the school order, and, second, that once an order has been shown to be unwise it should be corrected promptly and willingly, not by slow and reluctant steps which bespeak an unwillingness to acknowledge an error.

Timely Rebuke

President Roosevelt's assertion at his press conference yesterday that he disapproved the practice of lending Farm Security funds to pay poll taxes of needy farmers constitutes a timely rebuke to the administrator of that agency.

The disclosure that Federal funds were being applied to this purpose was made at a recent meeting of the joint congressional economy committee. At that time the Farm Security administrator, C. B. Baldwin, defended the practice as being "a

Negligence Indicated

Rear Admiral Adolphus Andrews, commandant of the Third Naval District, has said there was no evidence of sabotage in connection with the disastrous fire that swept through the great liner Normandie while tied to her pier in New York harbor. Even if sabotage be ruled out, however, there remains a strong suspicion that negligence of an inexcusable character contributed directly to the disaster.

The statements of onlookers establish the fact that sparks from an acetylene torch ignited material stored nearby. This material has been variously described as excelsior, mattresses and kapok life belts. A New York fire marshal adds the significant information, however, that this stored material, whatever it may have been, was wrapped in burlap, which is highly inflammable when dry.

It is evident that the flames spread with astonishing rapidity once the fire had started, and there has been no indication that adequate facilities for combating them were at hand. It has also been intimated that there not directly aid the Axis in North Africa or lend its navy and mercantile marine to Vichy uses, it was better not to drive the French government to desperation. The indications are that within the Vichy government there have been shades of opinion ranging from genuine willingness to co-operate with the Axis to reluctant assent due to hard necessity. And it has been believed that Marshal Petain, the aged head of the French state, was resisting extreme German demands and sparring for time.

Vichy's effective attitude toward the Axis apparently has varied with the fortunes of war. When Germany bogged down in Russia and faced a hard winter, French resistance to Axis pressure seemed to stiffen somewhat. Japan's victories in the Far East, Rommel's success in Libya, and symptoms of an Axis offensive throughout the Mediterranean may have encouraged French partisans of Axis co-operation and led to increasingly unneutral conduct toward Britain. If this be so, American leniency toward Vichy may have already reached a stage where the policy would defeat itself and should therefore be altered. That policy has been governed, not by sentiment or tradition, but severely practical considerations. Time and again, Washington has warned that, beyond a certain point, yielding by Vichy to Axis demands could not be tolerated and would result in the loss of American forbearance. It begins to look as though that crucial point has almost arrived.

War Time Lighting

With the inauguration of daylight saving or war time, the problem of when street lights should be turned on and off has become a matter of serious public concern.

Under the present arrangement the lights are on from fifteen minutes after sunset until thirty minutes before sunrise. This means that they were turned off this morning at 7:35, which left the streets in total darkness. Ordinarily this might be a satisfactory schedule, but with the change in time thousands of persons are on their way to work at 7:35 a.m., and with the streets in darkness the pedestrians are exposed to greater danger from automobiles and possibly from criminals. This is a problem which could be met by keeping the lights burning a few minutes longer in the mornings. Some time ago, following a fatal traffic accident resulting in part from inadequate lighting, the Commissioners rearranged the schedule, and a similar adjustment should be made at this time. It will cost a little more to keep the lights burning longer, but this consideration should not be permitted to interfere with providing proper protection for the public, and it is to be hoped that this protection will be provided before crew, so I still have five quart every man who wanted to send sage filled out a telegraph blank and, as soon as these had been censored, the Red Cross sent them. After that, we got a list of what each man lacked in the way of clothes and went over our supplies to find what was needed."

Across the street from the rectory is a store which is parish property. This has been contributed rent free as a supply station for clothing and in it the women of the town sort out and mend the clothes which the local people have given. There are stacks of trousers for a 30-inch waist, others for a 32-inch waist, and so on. Hats, shirts, jackets, sweaters, overcoats, shoes, socks, underwear are assembled in this manner. All were contributions of the local population. Lewes is handling its own emergency and proud of it. It is the size problem, says Dr. Rightmeyer, that makes the outfitting of rescued men difficult. Finding his supplies short of what was needed in this respect he sent out two of his choir men, immediately after service. They "departed, one in one direction, one in the other" and only came back when they had found what was wanted. Shaving kits also were assembled by the minister who had not himself had time to shave, as well as toothbrushes and toothpowder, and large stacks of blankets.

But if bewes today, with its active Red Cross, its modern Coast Guard Station, its hospital and its doctor from the Public Health Service, is well equipped to handle rescue work, it is only carrying on its old tradition in an up-to-date way. Said an old-timer, reminiscently, "Shucks, one ship isn't anything. I remember the storm of 1689 when 16 went on the beach right here, 16 at one time. One came in so close that her jib boom rammed the boathouse. The other two Life Saving Stations down the shore couldn't even get their boats off, the waves were so high, and they hauled them by oxcart over the sandhills here to Lewes where we get the lee of the cape. There was real doings then, I can tell you." So the little town, which was founded in 1633 by Dutch and English settlers whose names are repeated in its population today, carries on. It was shelled by the British fleet in the War of 1812 and survived, and it thinks that it can handle anything that Hitler can figure up to send it. But it isn't bragging. It's just doing its job.

Tells of Unpleasant "Welcome" To Virginia Community. To the Editor of The Star:

Last night I became a resident of Virginia. I chose a billet here seeking a degree of comfort and privacy after voluntarily abandoning my own home and friends thousands of miles away in order again to offer whatever effort I might contribute in the national emergency.

I am not a believer in "special privileges" for those who are able and fortunate enough to wear a service uniform. but the character of my "welcome" to Arlington impels me to write this note.

Last night, tired and somewhat lonely, I dragged my luggage into a "temporarily available" apartment in Arlington Village. There was no garage or other shelter for the car, so I followed local custom and, after carefully locking its doors, left it parked alongside many others in the street.

This morning the back of my car was splattered with the yolks and whites of several eggs. The name emblem of the vehicle, which the manufacturer carefully had molded and bolted over its rear luggage compartment door, was gone, evidently pried off withh a crowbar.

I feel very badly about this act of vandalism. Not only because it mutilated a personal piece of property in which I (especially me) and the credit corporation have taken particular pride. but because it did not seem to be the right way to treat a stranger who wanted to live here and be friends with those around him.

If this "prank" was inspired and carried out by souvenir-hunting youngsters. I wish you would tell them for me that they have not only very foolishly damaged the finish of a beautiful automobile. but they have badly damaged the faith in them of one of their best friends.

It is not so much the name plate of the car. Rather it is the "Pearl Harbor sneak" way it was taken that hurts. And then there is the mystery of why the car was splattered with eggs. Do you think that's funny? I don't. A PUZZLED ARMY OFFICER.

Urges Air Drives Through Russis Against Tokio and Berlin.

To the Editor of The Star: The wide-scale operations of the Axis powers are cleverly designed to frustrate any thought of intensive drives on Berlin, Rome or Tokio. The present theater of war includes the Atlantic, the Pacific and the Mediterranean, in addition to the engagement of troops on the Russian-German frontier. Of the contemplated counter military and naval strategy to be employed, we are uninformed, perhaps wisely so. But let us hope that Britain and America are not losing a valuable opportunity which exists right now to strike at Berlin and Tokio through Russia. If we effectually harrassed Berlin and Tokio our adversaries would be compelled to confine their operations to more limited spheres, an advantage for Britain and America that cannot be underestimated.

It has been possible to send one or more groups of American citizens to Moscow and return by plane. The accomplishment of that feat offers some encouragement to us if we wish to use Russia as a field for further operations.

Were the American and British governments to unite upon the purpose of sending an air force to Russia, it would seem that the plan would hold some reasonably

Early Fears

A Year Assure

F.une Goal

Aluminum-the material 'needed for airplanes-is being produced in such huge quantities today that all the fears expressed last year to the effect that not enough of the metal would be available for military purposes have fortunately proved groundless. Broadly speaking, production of aluminum has kept pace with military requirements even with the stepped-up David Lawrence defense program that has been in operation since Pearl Harbor. This phenomenal result is due to the splendid efforts of the Aluminum Co of America and the Reynolds Metals Co .- the two principal producers-and the efforts of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. in planning and financing new plants.

It is not permissible to tell the production figures, but the rate of production this very month exceeds anything hitherto accomplished by any other country in the world and there is reason to believe that the United States alone-not counting Canada-shortly will be exceeding the production of all the Axis countries combined.

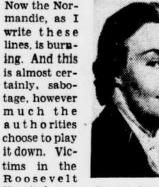

Enough for Planes.

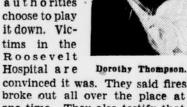

By the end of 1942 and early 1943 the capacity planned is such that the rate of production may reach the fantastic total of 3,000,000,000 pounds a year on the North American continent.

What is more important, however, for the moment is the fact that aircraft production has not been impaired by lack of aluminum. Here and there an occasional bottleneck occurs, due to some change in order or specifications or delay in shipment, but on the whole the inventories recorded in Washington indicate that aircraft manufacturers have an abundant supply of aluminum for the big airplane program they are undertaking in the coming months of 1942.

With a plentiful supply of the primary metal-that is, for military but not for civilian purposes-the big problem is how to keep the fabrication plants ahead in production canacity. The fabricating process often has to be employed again and again on the same primary metal when once it is cut into shapes and the surplus is gathered together for subsequent use. There is no reliable information available as to Axis production. Some estimates indicate that Hitler may now be producing aluminum at the rate of 1,000,000,000 pounds a year, but this is believed high. In order to achieve such a figure it would be necessary for all the facilities of occupied countries to be working full blast and for enough electric power to be available for such an enormous production. But even assuming that Hitler has been making any such amount, it is the American hope to be producing three times that much by early 1943. This enormous quantity would not be of use to Hitler unless he had a plane program of the size which President Roosevelt announced not long ago.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON. From 1933 to 1939, three French liners caught fire in their various docks and harbors. All these catastrophes were suspected as broke out all over the place at one time. They also testify that inspection has been casual-that no one on the ship had been searched for that which he might have been bringing on board in his pockets and that numerous workmen of German and Italian origin have been employed. Furthermore, this will be one of many acts to come, unless I greatly misunderstand the situation in this country

The whole world is honeycombed with a gigantic conspiracy, which is an integral part of the Axis war. This conspiracy is unlike anything that was organized in the last war. It does not consist merely of the usual spies and agents, but of organized revolutionary Fascist groups. The centers of these groups are not to be found amongst refugee "enemy" aliens, but amongst naturalized Germans and Italians who are members of such organizations as the Bund and such pro-Fascist societies as Don Alighieli, the After-school and Afterwork clubs (the Dopo Lavoro idea), the Fascio Filippo Corridoni in Cleveland, the Fascio in Pittsburgh, the Fascist League of North America, the Association of Industriali and Operai Italo-Americani, the Italian War Veterans, the Club Mario Morgantini-to name a few.

Perhaps that might work out well under some conditions, but what it means under existing conditions is that any confusion in the mind of the President generates confusion below. When he issues an executive order that can be construed two ways or assigns two agencies to the same job, either there is conflict or there is hesitancy and no progress. any reduction under the new order. The theme of all these orders is expansion, not contraction. Nevertheless, a central co-ordinator of information and publicity could improve matters a good deal. Even though he did not abolish a single press agent he could create a degree of order and sense now altogether lacking. At present this information or press army is spread out all over the place and the waste of time, money and labor is very great. When the MacLeish Facts and Figures agency was set up there was some expectation that it would do this coordinating.

It had just as much authority for that sort of thing under its order as the O. G. R. has under the new one It has not chosen to exert itself in this direction and it is possible the expanded O. G. Co-ordination Is Next Best.

This publicity "co-ordination and integration" is long overdue. As the "information divisions" are now conducted, they constitute the most wasteful, useless and confusing of all governmental activities. By CONSTANTINE BROWN. The tragedy of Singapore has brought slight consolation to Army officers in Washington who consistenly predicted that in spite of the overwhelming odds the American-Filipino force in Bataan and Corregidor would hold their positions longer than the defenders of the heavily fortified British fortress

Although the natural positions 400 miles north of Singapore should have been a much greater obstacle to the Japanese than the jungles of Bataan, Gen. Douglas MacArthur has maneuvered his small force with such skill that the Japanese now have a hard job ahead of them to clear Luzon completely of all American - Filipino forces and a still harder task to take Corregidor.

The reason that the American forces are holding out is that Gen. MacArthur had foreseen such a Jap attack for a long time and had organized the relatively small area of Bataan in a manner to resist as long as he had guns and ammunition.

The British, on the other hand, relying on their alliance with the French, who held Indo-China until September, 1940, were not particularly bothered by the possibility of land attack on their island fortress. They figured Japan could not afford to throw a sufficiently large force into battle to overcome the land defenses of Indo-China, defeat the strong French force stationed there and then penetrate the jungle which leads to Singapore.

Saw Peril Too Late.

It was only after the Japanese received the support of the Nazis and Vichy adopted its supine policy that the British realized the menace to Singapore by land attack. Then they had neither the means nor the equipment to fortify the jungle of the Federated Malay States.

Furthermore, the London government has been and continues to be imbued with the necessity of defending the Mediterranean, which used to be but is no longer the principal artery of communication with the rest of the empire. Furthermore, the British gathered an imposing air

Coast City Looms As Cradle of Defense

By HENRY MCLEMORE.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif .-- Of all the cities in the United States this lovely little one hard by the Pacific is perhaps best prepared to defend itself against any enemy invasion. Despite the fact that it hasn't a military or industrial objective within miles of it, Santa Barbara is the cradle of Home Guard defense in this country, and if present plans Henry McLemore. are successful it will become the center of much civilian preparation for the entire Nation.

For more than a year and a half Santa Barbara has had a Home Guard unit of civilians. It wasn't organized to give citizens the pleasure of wearing pretty uniforms or an excuse to get a few nights out a week to drill. The men have been properly instructed in the use of the rifle, the hand grenade and the method of fighting from cover.

The driving forces in this erganization are Buell Hammett, captain of field artillery in World War I, and a Chamber of Commerce that isn't content to devote itself to sending out pretty pictures of the town. bragging of its weather, or arranging baby parades.

Now the Home Guard unit is ready to expand. It wants to help all other American cities prepare its civilians for war duty. With the help of such men as Henry Luce, Edward Murrow and Charles Nordhoff, it has contacted Tom Wintringham of England and invited him to come to this country and establish a Home Guard school.

* * * *

Mr. Wintringham's name may not mean much to you, but it should He is the man who fathered and established the magnificent Home Guard of England. It was Mr. Wintringham who commanded the International Brigade of the Loyalist Army in Spain, and with a handful of men held off for an unbelievable time Gen. Franco with his trained troops.

When that war was finished Mr. Wintringham returned to England and suggested that the armed forces of his country be trained in the new and vital guerrilla warfare. He was not favorably received until after Dunkirk, when he was called in and requested to start a school for the training of Home Guard officers.

A school was established outside of London and from a few thousand.

Post-War Problem Side-Tracked.

If, therefore, the United States is to manufacture 60,000 planes in 1942 and 125,000 planes in 1943, there must be enough aluminum to accomplish such an objective, and present indications are that there will be. Undoubtedly the military requirements of a program such as has been announced since Pearl Harbor were not foreseen by anybody. But this is not a reflection on any one who dealt with the problem last year. It is rather the result of unexpected developments, and the interesting news is available now that notwithstanding the big jump in requirements there will be enough aluminum produced to achieve the program.

Nobody is giving much thought, incidentally, to what is going to happen to such a big aluminum capacity in post-war years. Canada is building up a tremendous plant capacity, and unquestionably the European countries which have attained high production figures will have aluminum to sell. The prospect is that aluminum will play a much more vital part in civilian uses than ever before and that, of course, the price will be lower than ever before, permitting the use of aluminum in many things in which It heretofore has been prohibitive. The question of what is to become of the Government plants or those financed by Government loans is not being considered. As Donald Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, said the other daythe cost isn't being counted. The one aim is to win the war. (Reproduction Rights Reserved.)

Land and buildings for the school have been donated.

If the school goes through (and it's a cinch it will) Home and State Guard officers from all over the country will be invited to attend and learn from the man who knows all the answers. No group in England has received more praise from military and government authorities than the Home Guard and its skill and strength is one of the main reasons for England's confidence that any attempted Nazi invasion would be suicidal for the Nazis.

In a letter to Mr. Hammett, Mr. Wintringham has this to say about the development of a powerful Home Guard in the United States:

"In Spain I trained Americans to become officers of the International Brigade. I found them to be the most adaptable of all the nationalities there. Although I have never been in the States, I know its military history fairly well. I do not believe it is a matter of importing foreign ideas to America, but of developing two things: The excellent American traditions of Indian fighting, minute men, Morgan's Rifles, etc., on the tactical side; and on the technical side, the American mastery of machinery that has made your unmilitaristic Nation invent and develop all the arms that mattermachine guns, tommy guns, aeroplanes, tracked vehicles

Don't forget something else we invented Mr. Wintringham-pensions for Congressmen and dancers as defense heads.

in Memoriam

Oh, mother dear, your voice is hushed. Your loving heart is still: And on your pale and peaceful face Is resting death's cold chill.

The hands are clasped upon your breast, We have kissed your lonely brow: And in our aching hearts we know We have no mother now.

Oh. dear mother, precious mother, Truest friend we ever knew: There's no other like you, mother. Some day we're coming home to you. HER CHILDREN.

Home at rest, so sweetly sleeping; In thy Saviour's tender care. Where there is no pain or sorrow; None on earth can harm you there. THE FAMILY.

Aid Program Needed To Gear Up Industries,

He Tells House Group By the Associated Press. Sidney Hillman, War Production

Board labor director, urged Congress today to approve a $300,000,000 unemployment compensation program for war industries as "a necessary phase of gearing the Nation for full war production."

Mr. Hillman told the House Ways and Means Committee that the program recognized that "only by supplementing present unemployment compensation machinery could the Government hope to keep skilled workers for necessary production." Saying that hundreds of thousands of industrial workers had been thrown out of work by conversion of plants from civilian to war production, Mr. Hillman asserted:

"The Federal Government has a definite obligation to provide some measure of economic assistance for these displaced workers during the period of temporary unemployment.'

Indians May Not Rise, but Coaching Will Make Them Smarter, Declares Boudreau

Back to the Squeeze and Horse-Trading Days

They have been saying the war will equalize things to some extent in baseball, and while the war may not keep the Yankees For Dodgers from winning another American League pennant, it must be acknowledged that the "haves" of the pastime are not taking to training camps the fabulously high-priced minor league bearcats which the "have nots" are unable to afford.

By FRANCIS E. STAN.

Win, Lose or Draw Vaughan Is Sure

There are no Freddie Hutchinsons nor Willie Kamms nor Paul Strands now, simply because the bottom has dropped out of the market. No big league clubowner feels like paying $75,000 or $100,000, as Walter O. Briggs of Detroit did for Pitcher Hutchinson, and then watching him enter the service.

The valuable player today is not a young boy with a buggy-whip arm but a veteran who takes care of himself and has a wife and a couple of kids. The team rosters, bright and shiny, are beginning to trickle into the office and, since they are designed to help the press appreciate the Vaughan, Pittsburgh's 10 - year capabilities of the teams, a feature is listing whether the players are shortstop sent to Brooklyn in one married or single. The majority, needless to say, is well married.

All of which probably will revive the old art of horse-trading, which went out shortly after the squeeze play, or when not even the wiles of such a David Harum as Clark Griffith could combat the ready bankrolls of the think they can worry Vaughan by Yankees, Indians, Tigers, Red Sox and Cubs.

As a Big Buyer the Fox Hasn't Shone

Undoubtedly viewing this circumstance with glee is Griffith, who probably is the best trader in the history of baseball and one of the worst buyers. There have been occasions when it was necessary for Griffith to spend fairly large sums for players. Typical was the time in 1924, into the Navy, recently expressed when he needed a centerfielder to win the first pennant in Washington history

So eager was Griffith to go all out, he spent $50,000 for Earl McNeely the latter must straighten up before of the Coast League. To his horror he discovered that he had bought a he can throw. sore-armed outfielder who couldn't comb his hair. He still was demanding his money back when McNeely, pressed into service as a pinchhitter, won a ball game with a two-base hit and with this heroic deed the transaction was sealed. The Nats went on to win the flag and McNeely helped. But he never was a $50,000 ball player.

The highest price ever paid for a ball player was the $250,000 in cash and another shortstop valued at $35,000 that Tom Yawkey of professional baseball-with Wichita Boston gave Griffith for Joe Cronin. Griff, himself, never went much in the Western League." above the $50,000 mark. But until the last several months people considered $50,000 a lot of money, and so Griffith, for the sake of the record, actually has bought high-priced players.

Pofahl and Wasdell Cost Too Much

For Joe Kuhel the Washington Club paid $65,000, thereby making Kuhel the costliest player ever purchased in cash by Griffith. Kuhel wasn't a $65,000 first baseman for Washington, although he improved considerably when traded to the White Sox. For Monte Weaver the Old Fox paid $30,000. Weaver had one good year-his first.

Calling Jimmy Wasdell a $22,500 rookie, Griffith (who spent little cash, but gave players in exchange) was disappointed in this young man Brooklyn, which he said is "the and unloaded him. But the biggest flop of all was Jimmy Pofahl, a best baseball town in the world." shortstop from the American Association. Griff gave cash and players estimated in value as $40,000. Pofahl didn't even finish a season as a he had hit pretty well. regular and finally he quit baseball when the Washington Club tried to send him back to the bushes.

He got Catcher Muddy Ruel for $12,000 and it was Ruel's two-bagger that won salary terms with the Dodgers. "I the Nats' only world championship. No Player Above Learning, Says New Manager

24-Year-Old Chieftain To Lean on Shotton, Melillo and Susce

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.-Youthful Lou Boudreau may not be able to raise the American League standing of the Cleveland Indians above their fourth-place tie of last year, but the new manager believes he's almost a cinch to raise the club's baseball I. Q.

"I don't care for the kind of ball player who thinks he knows it all or can't learn any more, so I want my coaches to coach," declared the 24-year-old shortstop, just two sea-sons ago hailed as the league's rookie of the year.

"No ball player is above mistakes," he continued. "Yet a number of managers and coaches in the majors hesitate to correct mistakes because they figure once a man reaches the big leagues he needs no instruction. That isn't right.

Lou Expects Mistakes.

"I expect to make mistakes, managing in the wrong place or time, and I hope to profit by them. If a player does something wrong, why let him keep doing it? The next time it may cost you a ball game. "So that is one thing I am going to talk about when I see my coaches, Burt Shotton, Oscar Melillo and George Susce. We have a meeting February 20 at Clearwater, Fla." Boudreau, beginning one of the oungest managerial regimes in baseball's history, frankly calls the venture "a gamble.

But he doesn't figure himself alone in that respect. There is Burt Shotton, former manager of the Phils, who last year piloted Columbus to an American Association pennant

Lays Down Platform. "Burt's making a gamble just as am," declared Boudreau. "If we have a good season we'll be up here a long time. And once having been in the majors, I guess he prefers that to a managership in the minors."

These, though, were not Griffith's best bargins. For Bucky Harris his manager for lo, these many years, he gave only $2,500. Goose Goslin, best known of modern Washington sluggers, cost only $5,000. Sid Hudson cost less. Ossie Bluege set the Old Fox back the astounding sum of $3,500. Joe Judge, best of all his first basemen, was tossed into a deal Griffith Joe Judge, best of all his first basemen, was tossed into a deal Griffith made when he paid $8,000 for Outfielder Charles Jamieson, a star in his St. Joseph's Five own right.

Sam Rice, one of the good outfielders, cost $300. He was payment for a debt of that amount owed to Griff. The cost of Cecil Travis was only $100. He got Buddy Lewis and Catcher Jake Early for nothing.

To repeat, it came to pass when his genius for this sort of thing was overwhelmed by the ready money of richer competitors, but now his wealthy rivals are stymied. Baseball now goes back to another agewhen shrewdness, not money, counts.

With his 50-cent infield for 1942 and his weird collection of catchers pitchers and outfielders. Griffith hardly can be expected to win a pennant in the near future, but, at least, there is reason to expect that things will get better before they get worse.

C. U. Ring Win Over Columbus Seen by La Fond, Card Coach

Impressed With McAlear, Explorers' Heavy, And Will Tune Kysczewski for Hot Fight

After looking over Columbus in action against Florida earlier in the week the consensus at Catholic University is the Cardinals will take Coach Jocko Miller's pupils over the hurdles Saturday night in their annual match at Brookland.

Most of the boys, all who weren't wrestling with textbooks or engaged in part-time work, saw the Explorers take it on the chin and paw welter; Jack Golomb, a veteran left the arena brimming over with bantam, and the aforementioned confidence. But not so Coach Eddie McAlear. They intend to point for La Fond.

"I honestly thought we could tie Maryland-maybe win," he was saying today. "But you saw what happened. Perhaps some of the decisions were questionable, but that doesn't help us now. The point is we lost, and we'll lose again if we take Columbus too lightly. Anything can happen in a match between teams as hepped up as are these two, and whichever side wins will know it's been in a fight.

The Cards' mentor was particularly impressed by Al McAlear, Explorer heavyweight, who scored handily in his fight. Pointing out lines. that Al threw a hard, straight right and employed a jab effectively, La Fond said he would spend a lot of time with "Sneeze" Kysczewski this week preparing a defense for same He believes McAlear will flatten anybody he hits with the right and blames poor condition for his inability to kayo his 'Gator opponent.

The score was 58-43 and the Hoyas' showing left Coach Elmer Ripley in anything but a happy frame of mind for tomorrow's game with Duquesne in Washington. Apparently anxious to atone for Central's band of iron man basket ball players definitely is in the championship series playoff along with Roosevelt and Wilson, regardless of the outcome of Friday's Western-Coolidge game. If Coolidge wins, a preliminary playoff will be necessary for the fourth spot in the finals, to be held next week. The Vikings, dark horses when the series opened. achieved their high spot by upsetting previously undefeated Roosevelt, champion for two successive years, 34-31, in an overtime game yesterday at Roosevelt.

In another game, played at Anacostia, the Anacostia Indians won the cellar championship by losing to Tech. 37-47, and finishing their series schedule without a victory. It was the first win for Tech. Six technical fouls were called on Anacostia by Referee Dave Keppel, four of them coming in succession when Coach Rolland Lund disputed a ruling.

Kelly and Gibbons Star.

Bill Kelly and Johnny Gibbons supplied the winning margin for Central with scores in the overtime period, but Teddy Thomaides was as much a Central hero as any one One of those left-handed circus shots on which he has a patent remaining of regulation time. Last season he and Coach Jan Jankowski clashed and Ted wasn't invited when practice In Pro Tourney began this season under Jack Ray. He didn't turn out until after the Christmas holidays and Ray kept him with the scrubs for a week before he mixed with the regulars. Kelly, who gained individual honors with 11 points for the winners paced the attack that gave Central a 16-11 edge at the half, but during the third period the Riders forged ahead and through some clever shooting by Frank Redinger had a 27-20 edge midway of the final period. Hank Lawler, Bob Hill and Gibbons hit a streak that finally brought the count to 30-28 before Thomaides flipped in his tying shot seconds before the final whistle.

YEP, IT WAS A BATTLE!-This shot taken under Roosevelt's basket conveys an idea of the spirited action witnessed in Central's 34-31 upset, overtime victory in the high school title tilt at the Riders' gym yesterday. The third period, however turned the tide in Tech's favor as the Maroons tallied 22 points over that 8-minute stretch with Bob Brewer and Knobby Mater as the big guns. Anacostia, behind Elmer Leukhardt's marksmanship, retaliat. ed with 20 points in the last quarter, but Tech managed to retain most of its margin. The game was rough with a total of 41 fouls being called, but even this wasn't enough for Coach Lund of Anacostia who jumped off the bench on one occasion to argue with Referee Keppel. Hospital Heads Set Extra Bed

Agree to Staff and Maintain Facilities Erected by U.S.

Need at 867

An additional 867 hospital beds costing $3,468,000 are needed in Washington, and if Congress will provide the necessary funds the private hospitals here will assume responsibility for staffing and maintaining them, District hospital leaders agreed yesterday at a meeting in the Health Security Administration offices. Decisions of the conference will be communicated officially to-day to District Commissioner Guy Mason

Meanwhile, the House today is expected to act on the Lanham bill calling for $50,000,000 for District wartime housing and expansion of water, sewer, street, hospital and other needed facilities as emergency measures. The bill has been favorably reported by the House Grounds and Buildings Committee.

The accord was acclaimed by hospital executives themselves as a striking example of civic unity. It is proposed to construct double pavilion units not over two stories high, using a minimum of materials to avoid priorities difficulties, and equipped with ramps rather than elevators. They could be completed with 90 days, it was said.

Determined Needs.

Action by the District hospital leaders yesterday was in response to Commissioner Mason's state-ment that he would not assume the responsibility of allocating the ad-ditional beds, as he desired the hos-pitale to active the hospitals to certify their individual needs.

The over-all total of 867 beds was made up of the following individual hospital requests:

Columbia, 47 beds and basement; Providence, 75 beds plus nursery and delivery unit; George Washington University, 200 beds; Garfield, 150 beds; Episcopal, 50 beds; Sibley, 100 beds; Georgetown University, 75 beds; Homeopathic, 30 beds; Casualty, 40 beds; Children's, no extra beds, but dispensary service needed, and Emergency, 100 beds.

Charles D. Drayton, president of the District Hospital Presidents' Association and president of Children's Hospital, who presided, said the plan would entail added operating expense to hospitals, adding, however, that the hospitals would cede lands for building pruposes and

Van Duzer Asks Later School Bell To Ease Traffic

9:30 A.M. Opening Advocated for Release Of Bus Seats

Commissioner Young disclosed today that Traffic Director Van Duzer has recommended that the opening hour of District schools be delayed a half hour until 9:30 a.m., to release 17,000 seats in street cars and buses for Government war workers.

The plan was revealed by Commissioner Young in a letter to Chairman Randolph of the House District Committee. The letter was a reply to a suggestion that the school opening hour be fixed at 9:45 a.m.

Delay in opening the schools was one of seven proposals for alleviating traffic congestion received by Mr. Randolph from Bernard L. Eberts, an attorney with offices in the Evans Building. Mr. Randolph asked Commissioner Young, Mr. Van Duzen and Chairman Gregory Hankin of the Public Utilities Commission to consider the suggestions.

Commissioner Young explained that a later school hour had been discussed some time ago with school officials and the Board of Education raised several objections, the main one being it would interfere with parents' taking children to school

"Since that time a survey was On 'Pickup' Success 1,300 Children in 755 Cars. made and it was found that 1,300 children were taken to school in 755 cars," Commissioner Young said. "As there are more than 100,000 school children, I do not think this small percentage would have any bearing, as it is my understanding from the Capital Transit Co. that 17,000 children go to school each morning via bus and streetcar.

"A later hour for school opening would release these 17,000 seats for use of Government employes. This would relieve the public transportation problem a great deal. It is the recommendation of the director of vehicles and traffic that the schools open at 9:30 instead of 9:45, as a 9:45 opening would necessitate a later closing hour, which might over-lap the peak hour traffic in some lap the peak hour traffic in some The other suggestions and Com-

President Studies Plan for Still More Temporary Offices

Gravelly Point Building For Air Corps Is Among Several Considered

Possibility of erection of an Army Air Corps building at Gravelly Point and other temporary Government office buildings in the Ellipse, south of the White House and near the Monument, was brought out today as a result of a conference held by President Roosevelt to consider the steadily increasing demand for war-time office space here. The President conferred with Budget Director Harold D. Smith and Rederic A. While refusing to discuss sites proposed for new office buildings, the Public Buildings Administration said that a space shortage of 1,000,000 square feet would exist by June 30 unless additional steps are taken to alleviate the problem. This space is considered sufficient for about 10,000 Government workers. This shortage will exist, P. B. Lincoln Writ Discovered in District Court

A document in Abraham Lincoln's handwriting in which he commuted the death sentence of Emanuel Pollard, colored, convicted of murder, to life imprisonment, has just been brought to light at District Court on the eve of the Great Emancipator's birthday anniversary. The discovery was made by Rich-ard J. Kirkland, law clerk for judges at the court, who was doing research for Justice Bolitha J. Laws for a panel discussion to be held on the presentation of cases in trials in appelate courts.

Lincoln commuted the sentence only a few hours before Pollard was to be hanged on April 1, 1864, for killing another colored man.

In Lincoln's handwriting on the back of the writ of execution were these words:

Approval Sends Two Highway Bills to House

Virginia Senate Passes Express Road and By-Pass Measures

By ALEXANDER R. PRESTON, Star Staff Cor RICHMOND, Feb. 11.-The House of Delegates today received from the Senate bills authorizing the State Highway Commission to construct express highways and by-pass routes, following approval of both measure by the upper branch of the General Assembly yesterday. The patrons of the bills declared they are the result of requests by the Federal Government, and that as far as they knew, the only such highway under consideration is a proposed "superhighway" between

Washington and Occoquan. A by-pass route, serving as an alternate U. S. Route 1, is planned to circle around Alexandria and connect with the Army-Navy boulevard in Arlington County with a direct route to the existing Route 1 at Occoquan Creek Bridge. No State funds have yet been set aside for the project, however. The proposed by-pass would tie in with the road network serving the new War Department Building.

Introduced by Senators William A. Wright of Tappahannock, Aubrey G. Weaver of Front Royal and Robert O. Norris, jr., of Lively, one of the bills authorizes the commission to build "limited access" roads and to designate any points along the House Committee routes at which access may be made. Authorization also is given to construct parallel roads, which would be given "limited access" to the main artery, thus creating an express highway for fast traffic. Senator Fred Parks of Abingdon amended the bill to give the commission this authority only during the national emergency .

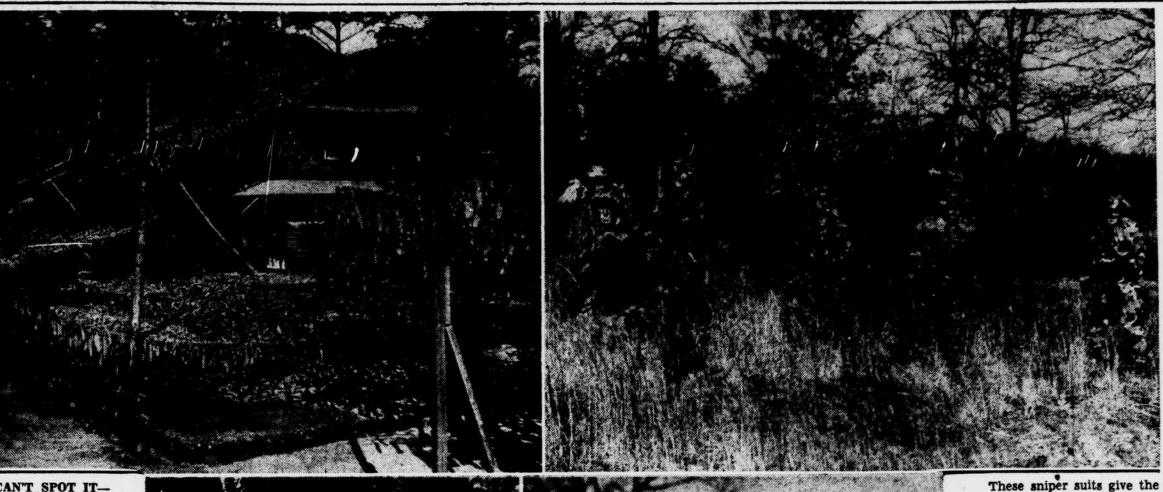

Gives Cities Certain Cost. The by-pass bill permits the commission to require towns and cities to pay 50 per cent of the construction costs for that portion of the road passing through their borders. A portion of the proposed Alexandria by-pass may pass through a small corner of that city. Senator on both proposals yesterday after-Wright amended the bill before noon. Senate passage to require the commission to install directional signs to the cities and towns by-passed at the beginning and end of such alternate routes.

County Board Seeks Projects Like Those In Nearby Areas

The Montgomery County Board of Commissioners today made a bid for ederal Government buildings and nousing projects similar to those already allocated to Prince Georges County (Md.) and Arlington County and Alexandria, Va.

At a board meeting yesterday, the commissioners directed that the attention of Senators Radcliffe and Tydings and Representative Byron be called to "several dozen" available locations within the District on the northern side of the city and in adjacent Maryland suburbs for construction of projects like those already located in Virginia and at Suitland in Prince Georges County. Pointing out that the future of fontgomery County is now "dangerously threatened" by the movenent of Federal office buildings into Virginia and Prince Georges County, the commissioners asked the legislators' support of a "reasonable, fair and equitable" distribution of the location of future Federal projects "so that the places of employment available to our citizens will not be moved a number of miles further from the home com-

Meanwhile, Gov. Darden dislosed last night that James A. Anderson, chairman, and Howard C. Rogers of Loudon County, a member of the State Highway Commission, have been serving on the roads body without legal authority since January 29, due to an oversight.

The Governor said he expects to send the names of both officers to the Assembly for confirmation today. Their terms are due to expire June 30 before a new law, to be signed today, becomes effective to the milk commission, but with the increase the membership of the highway commission from five to commission was created by an emernine members. Gov. Darden indicated, however, that in reappointing Mr. Rogers for the balance of the present fiscal year, he was disregarding his reluctance to appoint a legislator to a seat on the comion. Delegate to the House. The Governor also disclosed he is sending the civilian defense bill back to the Assembly today minor clarifying amendments. He will sign the revised measure as soon as it is returned to him, probably today, he said.

Bury Annexation Issue.

Meanwhile, the House yesterday took action which not only killed the bill to freeze annexation proceedings until 1944, but "buried" it by passing a resolution in which it refused to reconsider its vote.

The House declined to advance the bill by Delegate Ben Chapman of Roanoke County past the "second reading" stage, and it will be stricken from the calendar. The vote was 43 to 38, and the record showed the Northern Virginia members split on their views.

Those voting for the killing action included Delegates Maurice D. Rosenberg of Alexandria and L. Lake Triplett of Fauquier County. Voting for the bill were Delegates Charles P. Fenwick of Arlington County, Robert J. McCandlish, jr., of Fairfax County and Edgar R. Conner of Prince William County

The House passed and sent to the Senate the Fenwick bill to exempt deeds of trust and mortgages on church properties from a recordation tar.

Also passed was the Fenwick bill to permit banks receiving Arlington County funds to deposit securities for such funds with the State treasurer at no charge to the banks. The bill was amended on the floor yesterday to extend its provisions to banks receiving Fairfax County funds. Arlington County Treasurer John Locke Green requested the legislation to encourage banks to accept public money for deposit.

A bill by Delegate William J. Gibson of Fredericksburg to reduce the small loan interest rate from 42 per cent to 24 per cent annually was passed by the House unanimously. Among 10 members recorded as not voting was Mr. Fenwick.

Hyattsville to Buy Medical Supplies

Authorization to purchase medical supplies for setting up a first-aid station and six casualty posts in Hyattsville was voted Monday at a meeting of the Town Council. This action was an outgrowth of a recent cision of the council to spend $1.500 for civilian defense.

ered yesterday by the House Finance Committee. The hearing on Mr. Rosenberg' milk bill drew about 200 persons Almost all of those present, representing organized producers and distributors principally, opposed the Rosenberg bill.

The Alexandrian, who has unsuccessfully introduced similar legislation for the past several sessions of the Assembly, said his complaint is not with the administration of necessity for its existence. The gency act in 1934 for economical reasons, he said, and the economic emergency has long since passed. Criticizes Setup.

The Milk and Cream Act "tears Mr. Rosenberg declared. He said Directors Oppose the consuming public is not adequately represented in the administration of the act.

"I have never yet seen the Milk Commission decline an increase in prices upon request of producers or distributors," he asserted. "When you have a commission that depends for its very existence upon high monopolies Frank L. Walter of Washington, president of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association, disputed a part of Mr. Rosenberg's statement by declaring that an emergency now existed and there is reason for the continued every functioning of the act.

"Virginia is exerting its rights in regulating milk," he said, "and if Virginia did not undertake to regulate it, you would have a Federal commission in here regulating it for you.'

Chairman C. G. Quesenbury of the committee said he would name a subcommittee to study Mr. Rosenberg's bill.

Delegates Stuart B. Campbell of Wythe County, Floyd Daughtrey of Greeneville County and E. H. Williams, jr., of Isle of Wight County, were named to a subcommittee to study the commercial motor vehicle tax measure proposed by the Fenwick Comm

Work Commended.

In a hearing which centinued for more than two hours, the legislation was indorsed and the commission's work was commended by Chairman James A. Anderson of the State Highway Commission, Burton Mayre of the Highway Commission Planning Survey, Col. M. S. Battle, commissioner of motor vehicles; State Tax Commissioner H. C. Morrissett and Thomas W. Ozlin, member of the State Corporation Commission.

Mr. Fenwick explained the legislation is designed to substitute a gross weight base for licensing commercial motor vehicles to replace the present method of taxing on manufacturers' rated capacity for such vehicles. Also provided is a 2 per cent gross receipts tax on common carriers, contract carriers and private for-hire trucks, with the first $1,000 of business done in any year exempt from the tax. A reciprocity commission of five members would be established to work out licensing agreements with other States. J. Vaughan Gary, representing the Virginia Highway Users' Association,

In Program of Great Beauty

By ALICE EVERSMAN.

Jascha Heifetz, who probably has never been accused of being less than in top form at any of his concerts, nevertheless surpassed himself at his recital presented under Mrs. Dorsey's auspices last night at Constitution Hall. It proved to be a concert out of the ordinary also in the fact that the largest audience of this season was present, closely packing the stage as well as filling the hall to capacity. Starting the program at least 15 minutes after the scheduled time the many encores that followed drew it out to considerable length, much to the satisfaction of the enthralled crowd.

The remarkable virtuosity that has been Heifetz's great asset since his prodigy days has gradually been made to seem secondary to the beauty of his tone and the fineness of his interpretation. Yesterday both of these were especially arresting and were the prime factors in stamping this recital as one of the best he has played here. The ethereal quality of tone that has always distinguished his playing was rounded out with a rich vibrancy and held a human warmth deeply expressive. His intellectual and at the same time emotional feeling of the music, visible in the superb analysis of every measure and in an understanding of its poetic significance, was projected with powerful effect through a medium of tone color of extensive range. One of the pleasures of a Heifetz recital is the type of program he chooses. It reveals, first of all, an artist who is not willing to stand still on the height which he has attained, but desires to add to his personal knowledge and his artistic progress by setting himself new goals to reach in carefully chosen numbers. It shows also his eclectic taste with a motive back of it. Furthermore he fulfills his duty toward art and to its many masters by bringing their little-known works before the public with the less noble but equally important result of adding zest and newness to his annual appearance. In consequence there was only one number, if memory serves correctly, that has been programmed within recent years by a visiting artist-

Dropping by for tea with a friend yesterday afternoon, one found roup talking about the war news. Jan Marasyk, Foreign Minister of the Czechoslovakian government in exile, was discussing with Mrs. Michael Arlen the dreadful plight of their respective countries (Mrs. Arlen is Greek). Watching their faces one had a glimpse of the tragedy and danger which we Americans are so loath to realize.

Some one spoke of absent friends who are in danger spots of the world. The Governor General of the Dutch East Indies, Tjarda Starkenborg Stachauer, and his charming American wife were mentioned. She is the former Christine Marburg of Baltimore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Marburg. Mr. Marburg was United States Minister to Belgium in the days before our Legation there was raised to Embassy rank.

The whole Marburg family is very well known in the Capital and the Starkenborg Stachauers did a tour of duty here when the young Dutchman was a secretary of the Netherlands Legation in Washington. In the intervening years he has gathered much honor in his profession, among his former posts being Counselor of the Dutch Legation in Berlin during the 1920s, and a term as Governor of a province in Holland.

Now, as Governor General of the valiant Dutch East Indies, he has one of the most responsible posts in the Allied world and Christine is chatelaine of Buitenzorg Palace, set in the middle of peerless botanical gardens-gardens which boast almost every possible variety and kind of tree and flower.

Judge Rules in Favor Of Two Tenants Under New Rent Law

Owner Also Awarded A Decision; 4 Cases Go to Administrator

In a third set of rulings under the new Rent Control Act, Judge Nathan Cayton in the Landlord and Tenant branch of Municipal Court yesterday handed down seven decisions, one in favor of an owner seeking possession. Four cases were referred to the rent control administrator for action and two were rendered in favor of the tenants.

Judge Cayton personally inspected several of the properties before making his decisions. He found in favor of Thomas W. Parks, who wanted his old family homestead for occupancy along with his two brothers.

The story thus far: Mia Thorpe and her brother Lee accept an invitation over Lee's objections to spend a week end with their wealthy and crotchety Uncle Jarvis Thorpe at his huge country place, Thorpe Lodge. As suspected by Mia, the real purpose of the party is to introduce Jarvis' new bride, the former news columnist, Pauline Pry, to his relatives and friends. The guests are an illassorted lot, including Timothy Castleton, Jarvis' business partner; Noel Moffat, Pauline's mousy little secretary; Robert Jocelyn, Pauline's former swain; her uncle, Dr. Sherwood, and others. A presentiment of disaster keeps Mia awake the first night and she overhears Jocelyn tell Pauline he'd like to kill her husband. In her own room she hears some one outside her door.

CHAPTER III.

Mia stood by the doorway tense with fright and in the earie radiance cast by the moon she could see the doorknob turning slowly, almost imperceptibly. She stifled an impulse to scream. Then a slight pressure against the door revealed to the would-be intruder that it was locked. Softly the knob revolved into place. Then, to her intense relief, Mia heard faint footsteps receding down the hallway.

If she had been made of sterner stuff, Mia told herself afterward, she would have pursued that retreating .

Abandoning her impulse to awaken Lee, she crept back into bed. For a long time she lay there rigid, her mind a maelstrom of questions. Who was the unknown figure she had seen lurking in the garden? Why had her uncle stared at her as if she were somebody's ghost? And who was it that had just now tried so stealthily to enter her room? The darkness gave her no answer. Only the dry branch of the sycamore tree scraped maddeningly against her window like a mocking obbligato to her thoughts and the night wrapped her in its enigmatic shroud.

Breakfast the next morning was a rather glum affair. Despite the deft service and the excellent food. the atmosphere of constraint which Mai had noticed the night before still hung over the party. Jarvis Thorpe, sitting at one end of the table, performed his duties as host with a stiffly formal courtesy. His bride, sitting at the other end, was couldn't make up her mind whether his head in a determined negative. pale and a little distrait. Robert or not to take him seriously. Among the other members of the group little flares of conversation sprang up from time to time and then died out, extinguished by the uncongenial atmosphere.

At the conclusion of the meal Jarvis addressed his guests.

"I don't know what your plans for the morning are," he said a little diffidently as if he were making a special effort to be genial, but not quite succeeding. "However, I think it would do us all good if we took advantage of this break in the weather to get a little fresh air. If any of you would care to go horseback riding I'll have the horses brought around in half an hour. That will give us all time to change." There was a general murmur of assent. Mia thanked her lucky stars that she had had the foresight to bring her riding togs and had all people should be engaged in it is enough to make a cannibal laugh. persuaded her brother to do the same.

She changed swiftly and dashed downstairs, hoping to have a few minutes with Lee before the others arrived. But Jarvis Thorpe was already waiting in the great hall. He looked unexpectedly distinguished in his jodhpurs and smartly tailored coat. Mia, observing him as she might have done a stranger, was suddenly aware of the very real charm which her uncle possessed.

"You look very charming this morning," he said with a kind of Old World courtesy. "You slept well last night I hope?" Mia parried the question with a polite murmur. It would hardly be discreet to tell her uncle that Thorpe Lodge was already preying on her nerves.

"I'm sorry there hasn't been a real chance yet for a talk with you and your brother." Jarvis continued, leading Mia to a comfortable chair under one of the tall mullioned windows. "It's time that we all got better acquainted. Perhaps I could see you and Lee after lunch. There is a rather important matter I should like to discuss with you."

An Interrupted Talk. "You're being very kind," Mia began, but her words were interrupted by ' Timothy Castleton's booming voice.

"I say, Jarvis," he said, stomping heavily down the steps, "if you're not too occupied, could I have a word with you?" "Certainly," Jarvis answered, but a shadow of irritation crossed his face. He turned to Mia. "Will you excuse me, my dear?" "Of course," Mia answered.

Shortly afterward they all went outside, where the grooms were waiting with the horses. Jarvis' huge old mansion might be gloomy but at least he kept an excellent stable, Mia thought with swift approval as she saw the horses, beauties all of them, standing there with the morning sunshine glinting on their glossy manes.

The road they took led down and curved around the house, so that before they came to the second turn in the path they had an excellent view of Thorpe Lodge as it stood there grim and forbidding on the rising ground.

"Looks like something out of 'Wuthering Heights,' doesn't it?" asked Derek Knowle, reining in his horse beside Mia.

She looked at him in some surprise. Somehow she hadn't expected the insouciant Derek to be familiar with the Brontes. "And as for the country around

Ability to Use Successfully Every Available Material To Be Cultivated Today

By Margaret Nowell

The homes of America during the 16th and 17th centuries were shining examples of what can be accomplished with the materials at hand, plus a driving "will to do" and the incentive to do it well. In Santa Fe, outpost of the Spanish Conquistadores, priests of the Catholic Church taught Indian apprentices how to use tools. In turn the Indians taught the padres how to build churches and homes out of the adobe bricks, and taught them so well that after 300 years many of them are still standing. In Virginia and Carolina early settlers struggled with uncured pine logs to set up a house that would keep them warm and safe from Indian attack while they attempted to wring a livelihood from the land about them. Indentured servants, cabinet makers, joiners and carpenters had to readjust themselves to new materials and limited implements in the new colonies to fashion even the simplest dwelling. In New England the Pilgrim Fathers endured severe weather as well as other difficulties, including the menace of enemies and short rations, and they survived, building tight, sturdy homes that have never been surpassed for practicality and efficiency. With all of this as precedent and heritage it will take much more than shortages and priorities to disconcert us these days!

It might be said that we are now at a turning point, the end of one era and the beginning of another

I would give two points to amiability. After all, a man has to live with his wife's disposition, and whether he is happy or miserable depends upon whether she is easy to get along with or keeps him walking on eggs for fear he will do or say something that will rile her.

I would give beauty only one point, because it is a luxury instead of a necessity in a wife. Undoubtedly it must be pleasant for a man to have a wife who is a treat to the eyes, but unfortunately after a man has once hung a picture, living or otherwise, on his walls, he is likely to take it for granted and not spend his time gloating over it. And, anyway, the man who marries just for beauty is bound to lose out in the end because time withers the fairest rose and turns the frosted or unfrosted and served as glamour girl into just another mid-

The fishermen, A. F. L. members, struck on January 6, six days before the new board came into operation, on the question of whether the boat operators would furnish them war risk insurance. The dispute was certified to the board on January 23. and four days later the membersemployer, labor and public-unanimously voted to request the fishing boat operators to advance the premium for the insurance, to ask both parties to leave to the board final determination of the dispute and immediately to resume operations.

The union agreed to the terms. but the operators refused unless the union would sign a contract for the next year embodying the terms of their present agreement, which expires March 15. The board immediately responded that this went entirely beyond the premises of the present dispute and refused to agree to the company's proposal.

In today's unanimous decision, the board said that the boat owners should immediately purchase insurance policies for each fisherman and again ordered immediate resumption of operations. It was explained that a hearing later would determine what proportion of the pre-miums should be paid by the disputing factions.

The ruling, written by Dean Wayne L. Morse, said:

"The serious implications of this unpatriotic act • • • cannot be minimized and dare not be ignored either by the National War Labor Board, the Government of the United States or the American people.'

The MATERIALS are nicer . . . heavy, rough texture cotton prints, actually vat-dyed, for rich, dependable color, in decorator-styled patterns. Natural, rose, blue, or green backgrounds.

The WORKMANSHIP is neater ... shipshape cord welt seams, as sturdy as the cloth ... well-tailored box-pleated ruffles.

The FIT is trimmer, for there is a SUREFIT COVER for just about every style of furniture ever made . . . and the closelyplaced snap fasteners mould the covers to the furniture. The patented STA-FAST feature anchors the covers securely in place. Styles illustrated are carried in stock-ORDER by number and color.
