D. C. Officer Is Among Victims Of Disaster

The U. S. S. Truxtun, a destroyer, and the U.S. S. Pollux, a Navy cargo ship, were lost in a raging gale off the coast of Newfoundland with a loss of at least 189 officers and men, the Navy Department announced today.

The commanding officer of the Truxtun was Lt. Comdr. Ralph Hickox, 38, of Washington, and he was among those who died, the Navy said. The commander of the stores but the Navy reported him safe.

The heavy loss of life was attributed to the fact that the two ships, constituting a portion of a convoy, were torn to wreckage under the merciless battering of wind and wave very quickly after they ran

The double disaster occurred in daylight but visibility was extremely ish back on the Sittang River, last low. The frothy currents set up by the dashing of the waters against rocks and reefs made the coastline indistinct and regular aids to navigation were obscured by low-sweeping scud. The point at which the ships went aground was described as near the entrance to Lawrence Harbor, on which is located the town of Lawrence, Newfoundland.

Heroic Efforts Praised.

Residents of that place were praised by the Navy for their heroic efforts in pulling such men as survived through the icy storm-tossed seas to safety.

The certain dead aboard the Truxtun were placed at seven officers and 90 men and there was a possibility that three more deaths would be confirmed later, the Navy said. Dead aboard the Pollux were one officer (Earlier Story on Page A-1.) By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Feb. 24 .-Wendell Willkie said today the rost-war economy agreement between Great Britain and the United States "recognizes principles for which I have fought all of my active life."

In a statement here he said: "It is, in my judgment, the most significant and beneficial understanding made between nations in the last many years. If I understand its provisions and implica-tions (which I wish were more specific), it is a direct and positive step toward the enlargement of the trade areas of the world and a recognition of a mutual economic interde-pendence of nations in a modern industrial society

Outmoded Nationalism. "The hope of the survival of liberty in the United States and the world is directly dependent upon the creation after this war of conditions under which trade can flow as uninterruptedly as possible in the largest possible areas and among the greatest number of people.
"I hope that neither the spirit of narrow nationalism nor the revival of catch phrases and obsolete

arguments will prevent the adoption and acceptance of the agreement by the American people. "One of the primary causes of the present war was the reversion after the last war by the people of all nations and particularly of the United States to an outmoded economic nationalism, the imposition of unpayable indemnities and the keepnomic nationalism, the imposition of ing alive of claims for repayment of his own views. Mr. Vinson then announced he would seek a special rule from the Rules Committee making a motion to send the bill to conference in order. 102 24 Mr. Kennedy subsequently was prevailed on to withdraw his objection, with the understanding he would be permitted to address the House for three minutes. When Mr. Vinson renewed his request for unanimous consent Mr. Kennedy was recognized. He explained that he had desired that this important controversial matter of pensions for members of Congress should be handled as a separate measure, and not as a rider on a naval bill. For himself he said that he believed that the retirement system should be extended to cover all members of Congress. He said he thought that men who had served in the National Legislature for 20 or 30 years were entitled to some recognition.

Says Hull Would Suffer. Republican Leader Martin declared that he was heartily in favor of the motion to repeal congressional pensions. On the other hand, Representative Cochran, Democrat, of Missouri said he would not object to the request of Chairman Vinson to vote on the repeal of pensions for Congress.

"But you are denying to Cordell Hull, a great Secretary of State, the right to retire from office with retirement pay," said Mr. Cochran. "At the same time you are giving to the employes of every other Government agency the right to retire with pay. I think that something should be done about that."

Chairman Vinson explained that all his preferential motion did was to instruct the House conferees to concur in the Byrd amendment as it related to elective officers and cabinet members. The conferees, he said, would be in a position to work out other plans regarding the civil employes covered in the recent re-

Mr. Ramspeck told the House that the pension bill had been grossly misrepresented, that there had been secrecy or concealment in its original passage, but that he had decided to support repeal, despite the fact he still believed in the justice of retirement pay for members of Con-

"My personal convictions," he said, as to the wisdom and justice of retirement benefits for elected officials have not changed. If only my personal position was involved in the matter I would gladly continue the fight.

"However, we are now at war. We cannot afford to continue any controversy over which our people are divided. Our whole attention and all of our efforts should be directed toward the defeat of our enemies. For that reason and because I am convinced that the people I represent desire it, I have decided to make no further objection to the repeal of this provision. "I sincerely believe that had this matter been presented to the public fairly and correctly, they would not have objected. That has not been done, but we cannot stop now to wage this battle.

"In some sections of the country Franklin Outweighs there is evidence that this controversy is retarding the purchase of defense bonds. I am not willing to take part in continuing a con-

Housewife Denies Testimony Linking Her to Nazi Spy Ring

Conspiracy Trial Against Five Men And Woman Resumed

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.-It was one woman's word against another's today at resumption of an espionage conspiracy trial in Federal Court, in which five men and a woman are charged with gathering vital American defense information and transmitting it to agents of the German Reich.

Mrs. Helen Pauline Mayer, 26year-old housewife, a defendant, again on the witness stand after a holiday week-end recess, contradicted previous testimony which linked her with the spy ring. The previous testimony had been given by German-born Lucy Boehmler, 18 and attractive, who has pleaded guilty to her part in the alleged conspiracy.

Denies Spy Activity.

Miss Boehmler testified she served as secretary to Kurt Frederick Ludwig, accused by the Government of being the master spy. Mrs. Mayer asserted that her relationships with Ludwig had nothing to do with espionage activity as Miss Boehmler charged.

The Government contends that Ludwig assumed the leadership of the ring after Ulrich von der Osten, alias Julio Lopez, a Nazi spy, was killed in a Times Square taxicab accident last March.

Mrs. Mayer testified that on the night before Von der Osten's death she and her husband, Walter, were with Ludwig, Von der Osten and Miss Boehmler in the Mayer home.

There was no discussion there about an improvement for increasing the speed of submerged U-boats, she said, as Miss Boehmler had testified. Mrs. Mayer said she had met Von Mrs. Mayer said she had her von Addressed Letters.

In response to a question by her lawyer, Warren J. Heeg, Mrs. Mayer said "We did not stop at any defense plants nor did we stop at Roosevelt or Mitchel Field, as Lucy said."

Mrs. Mayer also denied that she had ever written a list of United States Army camps; that she had a book on Douglas aircraft; that she ever took a letter to the German Consulate in New York City or that her husband had shown her a diagram of an invention to increase the speed of U-boats, all of which conradicted Miss Boehmler's testimony.

Mrs. Mayer conceded that Ludwig Guest Star. had asked her on several occasions to address some letters for him, but she said she did not know their 5—Cape Cod, Zacatine, Haltal. 6—Sun Eager, Llanero, Alaking. 7—Erin's Sun, Pause, Who Reigh. 8—Hada Moor, Wayriel, Lang Best. The defense attorney wanted to know whether 'boost" for the campaign for Congress which he then was making had been inserted at his request in one of the memorial addresses. Again Mr. Corneaby retorted: "That's a lie. It's ridiculous." Government Witness.

Mr. Corneaby had been called earlier in the trial as a Government witness and had testified to a close relationship between Senator Lundeen and the defendant, George Sylvester Viereck, who is charged with concealing information from the State Department in his registration as a German agent. Miss Johnson testified that Viereck dictated to her a portion of a speech which the Senator afterward delivered before the German-American Board of Trade in New York. This was a speech on trade relations between the two countries, she said, and Viereck's dictation covered six points he wanted the Senator to emphasize. More of the material for this speech, the witness added, came in an envelope on the stationery of the German Embassy and was delivered to the Senator's office by a man who said he was from the

Democratic Speakers At Washington Dinner Stress War Victory

Campaign for Funds Toward Party's Debt Believed Successful

By GOULD LINCOLN.

"There can be no stopping place this time short of Berlin and Tokio," Speaker Rayburn told 1,200 Democrats, including the highest officials of the Government, attending a Washington Day dinner at the Mayflower Hotel last night.

"The destiny of humanity rests upon our efforts now," he said. "We must win the struggle or we will be pushed back to the very cave of another dark age."

Mr. Rayburn shared the honors at the speaker's table with Vice President Wallace, Sergt. Alvin C. York, hero of the last World War, and Edward J. Flynn, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who presided. Mrs. Roosevelt occupied a seat of honor at the head table, as did the Democratic members of the cabinet, except Secretary of State Hull, who was absent from Believed Financial Success.

The dinner here was one of 60 Democratic dinners throughout the country-and in company with rest, its guests heard President Roosevelt's talk on the war to the Nation and to the world. These dinners were arranged by the national committee to raise money to pay off the $600,000 deficit coming over from the campaign of 1940. The guests here contributed $100 per plate. In the other cities lesser amounts were the "contributions" solicited from those who attended the dinners. It is believed the campaign for funds has been successful.

Sergt. York, a big bulk of a man, ruddy of face, with thick hair having at least a ting of red in it, bespectacled, and with a decided Southern accent—he comes from the mountains of Tennessee-was introduced by Mr. Flynn as the "outstanding hero" of the last war. He was acclaimed by the audience.

Sergt. York declared that once this country's armed forces get going "no nation or group of nations can stand up under the pressure we will give them." He said that it was time America cleaned house, referring to alien enemies within its borders and sympathizers with the Axis powers, particularly Japan. "Blood is thicker than water," he said. "The time has come to do something with this menace." He urged that "we go and get Gen. MacArthur and bring him out of there"-the Philippine Islands. Sergt. York declared that the country today has a "courageous man for leader"-President Roosevelt-and it was "lucky" to have him.

Stimson and Knox Absent. Mr. Flynn read a letter from Seclican, saving that he regretted he would not be able to attend the dinner and speaking in praise of the President. His Republican colleague in the cabinet, Secretary of the Navy Knox, like Stimson, was not present

Some of us pleaded without avail for the fortification of Guam. Where is Guam today? Where were then the present-day purveyors of rumors, the whisperers behind the hand, the critics of movements of the Army and Navy? There are those who today are saying and publishing and making people believe that there is utter confusion in Washington.

Vice President Wallace, comparing the crisis in the Nation's history today with that in the days of George Washington, said: "America can face the future in 1942 with infinitely more confidence than could George Washington in 1778. We can be certain of victory-but provided only that we exert ourselves to the

Mr. Wallace predicted that "before long we shall catch up with

From Jap Agent by

Army Studying Chart, Designed for Attack By Way of Alaska

Dies Committee

By the Associated Press.

A Dies Committee aide disclosed last night that committee agents have seized a detailed map from a Japanese agent, apparently designed for use in a possible invasion of the United States by way of Alaska and

The aide said the map was obtained 10 days ago from "an important Japanese" who was arrested in Arizona by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The Japanese still is in custody. The map was turned over to the Army Intelligence Service for study and translation of Japanese characters.

Agents obtained the map, committee sources said, when the committee subpoenaed personal documents of the Japanese which had been filed away in another city on the West Coast.

A photostatic copy of the map will be contained in the committee's report on Japanese activities in the United States and its possessions. This report is expected to be placed before Congress this week.

The aide said the map contained information on defenses of the Northwest Pacific, possible infiltra-tion methods, overland routes by which defense points could be reached and mileages.

A summary of evidence of Japa-Hawaii and the Philippines before the Pearl Harbor attack will be included in the report, the aide said, including a contention that Japanese fifth columnists had planned to at the Ontario Apartments, is surstart a yellow fever epidemic on the vived by his widow, Mrs. Anna M.

In addition, Representative Dies ris of Missouri. Funeral services expected to include in the report a will be held at Fort Myer gate at Noted Inventor Dies statement that a large number of 1 p.m. tomorrow, with burial in Japanese were organized to further espionage and fifth column activity in this country.

MacArthur's Men Start 'Bomber For Bataan' Fund

Organizers Envision Money Also for Ship to Take Plane

By CLARK LEE. associated Press War Correspondent. WITH GEN. MACARTHUR ON THE BATAAN PENINSULA. Feb. 20 (Delayed) .- A "Bomber for Bataan Pund" has been started among the American-Filipino troops fighting the Japanese on the Bataan Peninsula and from Corregidor and other fortified Manila Bay islands. The movement to raise funds to obtain at least one bomber from the United States started spontaneously after the troops had heard a broadcast reporting that production of airplanes by Ford and other American producers was running to astronomical figures.

This slogan was adopted: "Better buy one bomber than be buried on Bataan.'

The campaign still is in its beginning stages, but organizers believe that inasmuch as many soldiers have indicated a willingness to contribute up to one month's pay it will be possible also to raise funds for a ship to bring the bomber here plus high war bonuses for the ship's crew and to purchase gasoline and bombs. Plenty of aviators already are here to fly the bomber.

Mock Trial 'Convicted' Roosevelt of Treason, Leader Testifies

LOS ANGELES. Feb. 24.-A State Assembly committee investigating un-American activities was told yesterday that bulletins of the Friends of Progress organization contained propaganda hinting at possible assassifiations in the United States. Evidence had been submitted earlier to show that Robert Noble, director of the organization, said: "I am for Germany and for Hitler. I read this book, "Mein Kampf," and was absolutely thrilled."

'Fireside Disappointment'

TOKIO (from Japanese broadcasts), Feb. 24 (A).-President Roosevelt's radio speech last night must the have proved a "fireside disappointment" both to Americans at home and their Allies abroad, Domei said today, likening the address to "a pep talk by an irate football coach.'

The speech was couched throughout in generalities and even the President's most sympathetic friends could not ignore that he frankly admitted the stupendous war task confronting the United States, the news agency declared.

"A noteworthy commentary on Roosevelt's address was furnished by the report that a Japanese warship was shelling the American mainland at about the same time he was speaking from the White House," Domei said.

Its disclosure followed a resoundingly determined and substantially optimistic radio address by President Roosevelt to the world last night. It was an address reiterating without qualification or modification the intent of this Nation to serve as the arsenal of democracy, and to deliver its assistance over long and hazardous supply lines to every one of the armies allied with us-"the policy of carrying the war to the enemy in distant lands and distant

A reading of a Pacific Ocean

map also illustrates the working strategic bases along the major supply lines, with Hawaii, Palmyra, Samoa and Fiji Islands all securely held by the United Nations on the San Francisco to Sydney route. It reveals, too, a motive in the recent successful attack upon Japanese-held Gilbert and Marshall Islands-bases from which enemy raiders might have intersupply convoys between the cepted United States and the Southwest

Declaring that "we are taking a heavy toll of the enemy every day that goes by," the Chief Executive repudiated suggestions that our ships and planes be withdrawn for "last ditch defense" tactics, a strategy which he said would play directly into the Axis plans for dividing and conquiering the United

Soon, we and not our enemies, will have the offensive: we, not they, will win the final battles, and we, not they, will make the final peace."

For those who had hopes that there would be word of encouraging prospects for the relief of Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his gallant, besieged Army on Bataan, there was little solace as the President sketched the picture of the Japencircled Philippines.

Actually, he said, the defenders are fighting by a delaying strategy which has been formulated for 40 years in event of war in these far islands. "Nothing that has occurred in the past two months," he went on, "has caused us to revise this basic strategy—except that the defense put up by Gen. MacArthur has magnificently exceeded the previous estimates, and he and his men are gaining eternal glory therefor." Repudiates Pearl Harbor Losses. Vehemently, the President denied that the Japanese successes in the Philippines were made possible only by the disaster of Pearl Harbor Even without this reversal, which he said had been "widely exaggerated," reinforcement of the Philippines would have been "a hopeless operation" through thousands of miles of ocean controlled by numerous Japanese island bases. Specifically, he refuted the "damnable misstatements" about the Pearl Harbor losses and re-capitulated them at 2,340 officers and men killed, 946 wounded and three combatant ships "permanently put out of commission." Specifically, too, he denied that more than a thousand planes had been destroyed, and countered this with a claim that American fighters have destroyed more Jap planes than we have lost.

Japanese Bombers Attack Principal Papuan Coast City

R. A. A. F. Flyers Overcome Enemy Fighter Planes to Raid New Britain

By the Associated Press.

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 24. -A medium force of Japanese bombers, accompanied by fighters, raided Port Moresby, principal coastal city in Papua, New Guinea, an Air Ministry communique announced today.

Flying in two waves, the Japanese planes dropped bombs on various parts of the city. Some buildings were damaged, but no vital points were hit, the communique said. There was no estimate of casual-

Preparing to fight off a possible invasion, authorities in New Guinea have placed defense activities under a joint Dutch-Australian command. Australian air forces are co-operating in patrolling tens of thousands of square miles of territory in a gigantic game of hide-andseek with the Japanese.

The Australian view is that New Guinea must be held at all costs, since it is the last real rampart before Japanese aggression could reach Australia proper. It is also a vital flanking base safeguarding the shortest supply route between Australia and the battle fronts of the Netherlands Indies.

Extension Proposal Is Sidetracked

House Committee Drops Bill It Reported Out Two Weeks Ago

The House Military Affairs Committee, which ordered a favorable report two weeks ago on a Senateapproved bill authorizing Governin Arlington County for eventual ex-tension of Arlington Cemetery, to-day reconsidered the measure and sidetracked it.

Chairman May announced no further consideration would be given the legislation unless it is requested by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission

The committee, Representative May said, "tabled" the bill because of the "complicated" real estate situation.

Big Project Planned. Action was taken in executive session following a public hearing at which James E. Shifflette, an attorney representing the Abington Corp., lessees of the tract, explained how plans of the corporation to erect a large apartment-hotel on the site had been thwarted by Government priorities restrictions.

He said the corporation is still prepared to go ahead with its plans if the Government does not want the property.

Testimony at a previous hearing indicated the present owners of the property were saking $750,000 for the 25 acres, or about $30,000 an acre. The tract adjoins Arlington Cemetery at the juncture of the new Lee boulevard and Arlington Ridge road, overlooking the Potomac River and the Lincoln Memorial.

"We are not opposed to Government ownership of the land," said Mr. Shifflette, "but we are anxious for the Government to act now one way or the other. We can develop the property if the Government is not going to take it."

Suggestions had previously been made to the committee that the Government acquire the property and use it as a site for a temporary Federal office building or a dormitory for war workers until after the war when it would be added to Arlington Cemetery.

Leased for 99 Years. Mr. Shifflette told the committee the Abington Corp. had leased the property from the present owners for 99 years because they did not desire to sell. He named the owners as Avon M. Nevius, executive vice president of Riggs National Bank; Col. Clarence O. Sherrill, city manager of Cincinnati; David S. Stanley and Maj. Willard A. Hollbrook, jr.

Chairman May read into the record a report he said came from an official of Arlington County showing that the assessed value of the land was now assessed at $75,660.

Recruits Will Receive Furloughs to Adjust Civilian Affairs

The War Department today ordered eliminated the pre-induction period in which selectees could wind up their affairs after they were sure they were physically qualified for Army service. In the future, the War Department announced, selectees will be inducted into the Army at the time of their physical examination.

It has been known for some time that the Navy and Marine Corps have been enlisting a number of men qualified for Army induction after they had received their physical examinations. It was understood that the new system, which reverts to the procedure originally followed with a slight difference, was ordered to prevent men from volunteering for Navy or Marine Corps service after they were sure they would be inducted into the Army within a few days.

Difference in Procedure. The only difference between this and the original procedure is that Senator Taft pointed out the committee was interested in the Southwest reconstruction project, and asked for further information on the estimate presented today of $7,000,-000 as the cost of rehabilitating the nine blocks bounded by Delaware avenue, Fourth street, F and I streets. The Sneator pointed out that Mr. Goodwillie, who worked out the plan, estimated $3,500,000 would reconstruct the houses in that area, with some new construction, to provide for 900 families. He also figures that for a little more than $1,000,000 the 600 families now living in that area could be rehoused in low-cost projects, making the total cost $4,500,000. That figure, Senator Taft said, would be about $5,000 per house for the 900 families in the reconstruction area, and indicated that could be justified. If it costs $7,000,000, he said, the unit cost would be about $8,000, and he doubted if that could be put through. Rehousing Cost Included.

John H. Ihlder, executive officer of the Alley Dwelling Authority, said the $7,000,000 included rehousing the 600 families now in the area. Mr. Ihlder estimated it would cost $2,400,000 to rehouse those families. Adding this to the cost of reconstructing the area to accommodate 900 families made the total $5,900,000. He added that, if it should be found necessary to rehouse 900 instead of 600 families, "No, perhaps I should have," the total cost would be $7,000,000.

President Merges Several Agriculture Department Offices

Shake-up Is Ordered For Better Wartime Use of Agencies

President Roosevelt today directed the consolidation of several agencies within the Agriculture Department. The consolidations were specified in an executive order.

The shakeup within the department declared to be for the purpose of furthering "the successful prosecution of the war through the better utilization of agricultural resources and industries," follows:

The Surplus Marketing Administration, the Agricultural Marketing Service and the Commodity Exchange Administration to be combined into an Agricultural Marketing Administration.

The Agricultural Statistics Division to be transferred to the Bureau of Agricultural Ecconomics.

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the Soil Conservation Service, the Federal Crop Insurance Corp., and the Sugar Division to be placed in an agency known as the Agricultural Conservation and Adjustment Administration.

The Bureau of Animal Industry, the Bureau of Dairy Industry, the Bureau of Plant Industry, the Bureau of Agricultural Chemistry and Engineering, the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, the Bureau of Home Economics, the Office of Experiment Stations and the Beltsville Research Center to be consolidated into an Agricultural Research Administration.

Agriculture Department officials said the consolidation would cause no transfer or cutting down of personned either in Washington or in the field. Certain phases of the shakeup, it was pointed out, were undertaken as early as last Decem-

The ancient oiler grinned and scratched his head in bewilderment. "I've been sailing 40 years," he said. "During the first World War we nearly got sunk off the Grecian coast but a Frenchman chased off the sub. Now we get it four miles off Florida and with me asleep in my underwear. Ain't that fate—or something?"

So close to shore did the attack occur that none of the 22 sailors were even breathing heavily after their row in the lifeboat, but before they left the Seranton beach house some were breathing heavily, so much so, in fact, that the gracious hostess hid the bottles of good cheer

One of the sailors, as he ploughed up the 30 yards of sandy beach to spread wet sand on the handsomely carpeted home of the millionaire, decided that the captain had got his bearing mixed.

"You can't fool me," he said.
"This ain't Florida—it's Hollywood." He waved his hand to embrace the rambling white house with the royal palms, punctuated with sea grape trees. "If this ain't a Hollywood set," he added, "I didn't escape from that boat." Another sailor, a youngster who "fell into the lifeboat," said he was through with sailing on tankers. "To hell with it," he said, "from now on I'm going to do a little sniping myself. I'm joining the Navy." When the Army sent transportation to remove the survivors, tears welled in the eyes of the sailors as they bade good-bye to the social elite, the occupants of an island to which are attached such as Dramatist Philip Barry, William Slocum Thomas Edison; former Representative Beman Gates Dawes, Edsel Ford, Explorer Lincoln Ellsworth, Lt. Comdr. Robert Abercrombie Lovett, George Claire St. John, Rollin Henry White, Publisher Thorne Donnelly, zens, according to Stuart police, telephoned or came personally to inquire if there was an air-raid attack, or whether a battleship was shooting into shore, or whether the nextdoor neighbor had dynamited himself. But the residents of Jupiter Island did not bother the police or the Army or the Coast Guard.

"We heard the explosion at 11 o'clock," said Mrs. Scranton, "and when we heard cries for help we figured it was a tanker that had been really was very simple."

Enlist your Car in the War on Waste...

You can help your country by the way you drive and care for your car.

You can help keep our planes, tanks and ships going by preventing the waste of OILpetroleum products.

Remember, OIL IS AMMUNITION. So use it wisely . . . by following these eight rules for efficient operation of your car.

- Make sure your carburetor is clean and adjusted to the most economical mixture for efficient
- Have your ignition system and spark plugs checked. Be sure your engine is tuned up to top efficiency. Have all moving parts checked. Regular lubrication
- lengthens car life and prevents waste of gasoline. Drive carefully. You get your greatest gasoline
- economy between 35 and 40 miles per hour. You get your greatest tire life under 40.
- Don't accelerate too fast. Don't use first and second gear longer than absolutely necessary. Sudden bursts of speed waste gasoline and wear
- Don't over use the choke, or race the engine when starting. (Automatic chokes should be inspected.)
- Be sure car wheels are lined up properly to preent excessive tire wear and waste of gasoline.
- Have your tire pressure tested regularly. Underinflated tires and "wheel drag" waste gasoline-

Only Four Destroyers Lost in War So Far, Japanese Declare

Two Submarines Sunk And Two Missing, News Agency Says

By the Associated Press. TOKIO (From Japanese Broadcasts), Feb. 24.—The Japanese Navy has lost only four destroyers since the Pacific war began, Domei reported today. Four others were said to have been damaged.

The news agency reported that other Japanese naval losses suffered since the outbreak of the war included two submarines sunk and two missing. It declared transport losses had been extremely small considering the wide area over which landing operations had been conducted.

Domei said the destroyers included one damaged in the night sea battle last Friday in the vicinity of Lombok Island east of Java, where, the agency added, Japanese units virtually annihilated an American and Dutch fleet composed of two cruisers and five destroyers.

The Dutch and United States communiques on the battle off Bali said Saturday that one Japanese cruiser was blown up and two cruisers and two destroyers were damaged. The Dutch followed up those reports yesterday with a statement that all the Japanese invasion fleet off Bali was sunk or heavily damaged except for one ship, which

There was no definite report on the size of Japan's destroyer force when the Pacific war began in December, but the 1940 issue of Jane's Fighting Ships, authoritative naval guide, listed at least 106 destroyers in service in the Japanese Navy or being built.

Personnel Policy

The steps President Roosevelt is taking to subordinate Government functions unrelated to the war effort and to divert civilian manpower to defense activities, should bring some relief in the personnel situation here. Time alone, however, will show if the orders of the past ten days on which the program is based are adequate. or whether a more positive attack is needed to halt the uncontrolled expansion which has brought upwards of 75,000 employes to the Capital in the past twenty months.

Success of the present measures depends entirely on the extent to which the Budget Bureau is able to cut down on non-essentials, for unless appreciable gains are made in this direction, it is idle to expect marked improvement. The fact that the bureau can grant a defense status to one agency and deny it to another to fix their relative importance in the war program is meaningless unless there is a corresponding effort to weed out surplus personnel. Because of real or fancied connection with the defense program, virtually every agency of the Government has branched out and added jobs since this country started to rearm. Under its new grant of authority to set aside reserves from appropriations where the expenditures provided for are deemed unnecessary, the bureau should be quick to curb any unit whose connection with the defense program is questionable.

It is only by enforcing reductions in this quarter that personnel, in any substantial amount, can be made available for transfer to essential work. The power given to the Civil Service Commission to decide when shifts are justified will work out in individual cases-where an agency is unwilling to agree to the release of an employe whose services are needed elsewhere, for example. But the commission could hardly reach into an establishment and take away ten stenographers because it was believed that they could be spared, and there was more need for them elsewhere. That, in effect, is what must be done, though, if the current effort is to be successful.

For these reasons the Senate should push its pending defense personnel inquiry with vigor. There will be no satisfactory reform until some of the useless appendages of Government are done away with, and the President has made clear that he expects Congress to take the initiative in that respect.

Preventable Sabotage

A saboteur caught in the act of pouring sand into airplane motors and thus reducing their efficiency by as much as 10 per cent would be given maximum penalties under the law and his arrest and conviction would be dramatically told in headlines all over the country.

Yet, a recent case of damage to airplane motors from preventable dust reduced the motors' efficiency by 90 per cent, required overhauls costing $320,000 and will be repeated again and again on th. Nation's dirtsurfaced flying fields for want of intelligent and relatively inexpensive remedial steps.

The remedy lies in utilizing the skill and experience of our Department of Agriculture scientists through establishment of an advisory service and research program on the culture of turf grasses. The cost of such a service has been estimated at $100,000, in addition to training men for the expert supervision of turf culture and maintenance on the hundreds of airfields, highways, cantonments, defense housing jobs and other such projects now under construction all over the country.

The need for turf development is already recognized, and many more millions of dollars are being wasted in futile efforts to grow grass than would be required to establish an orderly plan for research and expert supervision assuring the growth of grass. As in so many other of our national undertakings, each of many Government agencies goes merrily along without reference to what the others are doing. There is enormous waste, failure to benefit from what has been learned in grass culture and little or no success in making the grass grow. Miniature "dust bowls" are being created everywhere, and new dangers are added to the hazards of flight training because of dust and mud that could be grass

The President's Report

President Roosevelt was faced with a difficult task in reporting to the Nation last night on the course of a war which to this point has run strongly against us. On balance, however, there was a note of reassurance in what he had to say-in his confident prediction that we will achieve the great production goals set for 1942, that our strength is increasing daily while that of our enemies has almost reached its peak, that we can lose the war only if we "slow up our effort or if we waste our ammunition sniping at each other."

Broadly speaking, the President sought to accomplish two main purposes in his talk. First, to demonstrate the truly world-wide scope of the war and to show that we can win it only by carrying the fight to our enemies-that a purely defensive strategy would be the certain road to defeat. Second, that we can maintain such an offensive war only in full collaboration with our Alliesthat division in the ranks of the United Nations would spell disaster for all.

The correctness of these two propositions would seem to be selfevident. Yet there is an unmistakable tendency on the part of many Americans to negate them by word or deed: to undermine the all-essential unity by fostering distrust of our Allies if not outright hostility toward them. That this more often than not is thoughtless rather than deliberate detracts nothing from the fact that it is detrimental to the conduct of the war, and for that reasen, if no other, there ought to be an end to it.

Turning to the domestic aspects of our problem, to the vital importance of maintaining uninterrupted production of arms for our own fighting men and those of our Allies, the President made an extremely important point. "We are coming to realize," he said, "that one extra plane or extra tank or extra gun or extra ship completed tomorrow may, in a few months, turn the tide on some distant battlefield; it may make the difference between life and death for some of our fighting men." If the country as a whole finally is coming to realize the profound truth of this statement, if the vital distinction between vast armaments to be produced in the future and planes or tanks actually availbeen brought home to the people by the defeats we have suffered, then that is indeed a bright promise for the future.

One is reminded in this connection of the comment of the American soldier on Bataan, when told of the airplane production goal set for the end of 1942. "Sixty thousand planes," the soldier exclaimed, "give us six now." The implications of that remark are applicable to virtually every battle that the Allies have fought and lost since the beginning of this war. In every case the enemy has had an advantage-sometimes great, sometimes slight-but always an advantage in guns, planes and tanks. Ultimately, no doubt, this unfavorable balance of strength will be redressed, but no one can question that we have suffered, that we are suffering and that we will continue to suffer because all of us have been too ready to fight the war in terms of potential rather than actual strength. It is in this sense that the President's reduction of the meaning of armaments to terms of one tank, one plane, one gun or one ship is helpful. It is helpful, first, because it stresses the fact that even a slight margin of superiority on the battlefield often is decisive, and, second, because the production of one tank or one plane is meaningful to the individual. When too much emphasis is laid on the production of 60,000 planes or 45,000 tanks, something essential is lost. The significance of such a mass effort, like the spending of a hundred billion dollars, often is beyond the grasp of the individual. But the meaning of one tank or one plane. when translated into terms of battles won or lost, can be readily understood. Thus, to personalize the war effort in this respect, to bring it down to a level where each individual can grasp the importance of his particular task, may well be a decisive factor in bringing about the greater understanding and the greater individual and collective effort which are essential to victory.

Igorot Warriors

General Douglas MacArthur, in an official report to the War Department, has paid particular tribute to a company of Igorot soldiers of the Philippine Commonwealth Army who "especially distinguished themselves" in an action which ended with the destruction of an entire Japanese infantry regiment "early in February."

The story has been printed elsewhere and need not be repeated here. What is worthy of mention in this place is the fact that a brief forty years ago the Igorot people were the bitterest enemies of the Americans in Luzon. Dwelling in the fastnesses of mountains surrounded by thick jungles, they enjoyed a reputation for savage cruelty which veterans It would require a relatively small of the island campaigns of 1899 appropriation to enable the Bureau and 1902 have not forgotten. The rankest superstitions prevailed in the hidden Igorot communities. Constant fear of the spirits of the dead. reasonably enough, was the principal feature of the "religion" of the barbarians. But the Igorots were afraid of nothing living. Fierce in their hatred of all strangers, they preyed upon Tagalogs, Negritos, Moros and all other races indiscriminately. The white invaders from the United States were to them just so many additional targets for their murderous knives. Only gradually were the Igorots brought within the range of civilization. The stubbornness as well as the unyielding courage of their traditional Malay ancestors prompted them to continue their guerrilla warfare against the Americans long after their neighbors had submitted.

A step at a time, however, brought the two groups into working harmony between 1917 and December 7, 1941. The Japanese attack upon the Philippines gave the Igorots an opportunity to choose between their American friends and the foes thereof. It was their decision to prefer loyalty to the concepts of democracy represented by the United States. Now they are doing their heroic part in the struggle to preserve freedom in the world.

Red Army Anniversary

Soviet Russia yesterday celebrated the twenty-fourth birthday of the Red Army, summoned by Nikolai Lenin and directed by Leon Trotzky to defend the newly created Communist state against foreign and domestic foes. In the ensuing years, that improvised levy of workers and peasants has evolved into the tremendous fighting machine which breasted the shock of the German Wehrmacht at the peak of its prideful power, fought it to a standstill before Moscow, and for the past three months has been delivering a gigantic counteroffensive along the 2,000-mile front from Leningrad to the Black Sea.

All Russia had been awaiting a message from Joseph Stalin, head of the Soviet Union, on this momentous anniversary. It had likewise expected a special communique from the Russian high command announcing some marked successes from the fighting fronts. Stalin delivered an "order of the day" to the Red Army, couched in stirring phrases, recounting the past eight months of warfare against the Germans, and promising that the invader eventually would be entirely expelled from the Soviet Union and that "the Red banner will fly everywhere it has flown before."

However, Stalin tempered his optimism by a frank warning that a stern struggle still lay ahead and that "it would be unlike the Soviet people to delude themselves into the belief that the enemy already has been beaten." Subsequently, the army communique claimed little beyond continual progress, with few specific details on current operations, though with impressive aggregate totals of German losses during the entire war period and for the recent winter months. All this tends to confirm the judgment of foreign military analysts that, during recent weeks, the Red offensive has slowed down to relatively indecisive proportions. Although in places the Russians have advanced 200 miles, that is only half the average depth which the Germans penetrated on Russian soil. Furthermore, those gains were not made in the most important sectors. Leningrad is still under siege. Along the central front, the Germans still cling to key points like Novgorod, Rzhev, Smolensk, Bryansk, and Kharkov, which they may use as springboards for a spring offensive. In the Crimea, likewise, the Russian counterattack which at first promised to be entirely successful, has become, for the time being, at least, a stalemate, with the Nazis still controlling the heart of the peninsula. Unless the Russians can take advantage of the remaining weeks of winter, the spring thaws will immobilize both armies. Thereafter, German superiority in tanks and planes may tend to restore the conditions of warfare which prevailed last summer.

Undoubtedly, the Red Army has inflicted terrific punishment upon the Wehrmacht. The Germans were not adequately equipped or clothed for the Russian winter, and their synthetic oils and lubricants did badly in the bitter cold. Fighting reverted largely to the premechanized era, wherein infantry, cavalry and artillery again came into their own. The Germans, thrown into the defensive, were forced to fight an interminable series of rearguard actions, with high losses in man power from frostbite as well as from bullets, bayonets and shells. Yet nowhere did the German retreat turn into a rout. German morale sagged, but it did not crack or break. Reserves, thrown sparingly into key sectors, held most of the vital points. This seems to be the general picture of the Eastern front as winter draws toward its close. The Russians have put up a splendid fight and can legitimately take pride in their achievements. But the supreme test is yet to come. "A Carthaginian peace" is one so severe that it means the virtual destruction of the defeated contestant. And don't think that both Hitler and

Notebook of Science Progress In Laboratory, Field And Study

By Thomas R. Henry. Thirty-three prisoners at the District Reformatory at Lorton, Va., serving voluntarily as human guinea pigs, have convinced physicians of the United States Food and Drug Administration that gelatin does not increase human endurance or capacity for work.

This theory, promulgated about three years ago, has persisted in the popular mind despite accumulating evidence to the contrary.

Because of conflicting claims from medical men, Drs. Ernest Q. King, Lawrence B. McCaleb and Hunter F. Kennedy of the Food and Drug Administration staff, and Dr. Theodore G. Klumpp of New York City decided to settle it once for all with subjects whose ways of life could be controlled rigidly during the experiments.

The subjects, 14 white and 19 colored prisoners, volunteered for the experiments. All were members of prison football teams. Each ate precisely the same diet, slept in precisely the same quarters, and went to bed at precisely the same time every night. Under the eyes of guards there was no chance to "cheat" on the doctors. All were in the pink of physical condition.

They were tested on bicycle ergometers -that is, they pedaled a stationary bicycle where all the effort was transformed into measurable electric energy. The exact watt output per second for each individual and the time he was able to maintain this rate of work were measured.

The object of the experiment was explained to them. At the end of the 13day training period-during which their basic work rates were established—they were given pills four times a day. All supposed that they were getting pills containing gelatin-or rather, aminoacetic acid, which is alleged to be the ingredient of gelatin which will increase human endurance. It has been cited as one of the pep drugs which Hitler gives his soldiers.

Actually, half the men were getting the aminoacetic pills and half plain sugar pills. They were tested on the ergometer every day for three weeks. The gain in the work capacity of the prisoners was astounding. For one group of white men the increase reached a maximum of 235 per cent. All were able to do about three times as much work, as measured by the electric current they generated as before

But there was hardly any difference in the gains of those who got the sugar pills and those who got the aminoacetic acid. Both white and colored men, in fact, who got only sugar, showed up slightly better than their fellows. The amount of sugar, however, was insufficient to make any physiological differ-

Then those who had been getting the acid were switched to sugar and vice versa. The results continued approximately the same. The implication is that the effects were purely psychological. The prisoners were merely pepped up by the suggestion that they were getting Actually, the physicians pointed out, aminoacetic acid is a constituent of the muscles and other protein-tissue of the body and probably is essential, but the ordinary normal diet contains an adequate supply of it. Experiments with animals have shown that it can be disnensed with altogether.

Milk, they say, is very low in the acid. yet a baby grows and thrives on a pure milk diet. Yet, they report to the American Medical Association, if the gelatin pills alone had been given, an experimenter might have concluded that they were magic medicine for increasing human energy and endurance. The experiments justify the action of the Food and Drug Administration in frowning on advertising to this effect, Dr. King and his asso-

Argues for Concentration To the Editor of The Star:

Too many who ought to know better, in this country, Great Britain, Australia and elsewhere, are yowling over the poor showing made by the Allies to date in the Far East.

Not a military man of any consequence but knew well enough, I dare say, that neither the Philippines nor Singapore could be held in the face of an all-out attack by Japan, with its seasoned army of 1,000,000 men, 6,000 planes and the third largest navy in the world.

Reinforcements of less than majorfront proportions would have met the same disaster that has overtaken the present forces. This, of course, would have suited Hitler immensely, even as the institution of a major front would have suited him and just as the sacrifice of 60,000 of the best fighting men of the British Army at Singapore has suited him. Probably not half that number would have been lost there but for jittery Australian interests insisting on greater

For the present the Far East is a loss. Except to try to hold the Japanese from spreading too far, nothing can be done. When the time comes and if the Allies hold together, as they must er lose everything, proper action undoubtedly will be taken. At that time there is little doubt but that the far-flung battle lines of the Japanese will fold up like a scotched viper. In the interim, of course, they will have done immense damage, but that cannot be helped, and in the end their own hurts will exceed the damage they have done.

At present the pressing problem is to stop Hitler. The airplanes are there and have to be-on the Russian front. The war is on now; it is not deferred until next spring, next summer or next year, but it is underway now. Hitler is putting every ounce of force that he has into the effort to stop the Russians. If his lines crack, or are pressed back into Germany, the war for him is lost. At present the Russians are winning, not only because the weather favors them, but because they have air and tank mastery. Hence, the absence of these arms from other points where the Allies' need is desperate. In the spring, which is not a long way off, there will be two main fronts—the German and Siberian. For our part, we shall find considerable

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

"ARLINGTON, Va. "Dear Sir:

"Will you please identify the tiny gray birds I saw all morning in the forsythia just outside my window? "On January 19, a very warm, rainy morning, two gray birds less than 5 inches in length, showing quite a lot of green under the gray on the neck, throat and back, a lighter gray breast, dark brown or black tail and wing feathers, with a very distinct band of white slanting upward across the wings. "These birds were very tame and sat

all morning picking in the tiny buds of the one forsythia bush. Their bodies so slender they were scarcely noticed if sitting on a large branch, and there was no flying back and forth with the sparrows, and never once flying to the ground to eat with the cardinals, sparrows, jays and other birds feeding there.

"On January 11, a cold Sunday morning, I heard a cardinal start his song but it lasted for only a minute. However, the following Sunday he sang a real song. Later that same morning all the birds were busy eating on the ground outside the dining room window where I feed them twice a day, when all of a sudden I heard 'Patsy Bluejay' in a tree nearby scream 'Thief! Thief!' And instantly all the birds flew into the shrubbery near them.

"Looking up, I saw a large hawk sail slowly over their feeding ground. Don't tell me the birds haven't a language understood among themselves. I went out and scared the hawk out of a tree where he had perched nearby to look things over and very gradually the birds flew back to the ground and began

"For the past six years a pair of robins have built their nest in a pear tree near my window, building it on the same limb and fastening it on the very identical twigs as the year before. Two sets of little birds come from this nest every summer and usually when the robins are ready to move South for the winter they destroy this nest before going. Who can say this is not the same pair of robins each year, and woe be unto the other birds who try to look this tree over after the robins take over!

"Another thing I have noticed is the birds playing after sunset in the summer. I have never seen children play a better game of tag than those played by the brown thrashers, the thrushes, catbirds and cardinals just about dusk, especially after a shower. If any one is so cynical as to doubt that our Maker has failed to provide us with delightful entertainment let him go into a thicket at that time of day and season and sit quietly for a few moments. If the squirrels, the ground squirrels and the birds do not destroy his doubts, he is in a pitiable state.

"I never go to bed at night until I read your column of This and That, and after reading the sordid news of the day, I can assure you it is needed and appreciated

"Sincerely, M. T. J." * * * *

The birds probably are goldfinches in their winter dress, as far as we can make out from the description. There is just an outside chance that they might be the ruby-crowned kinglet, which sometimes is seen in this vicinity in

This kinglet is small, only 3% inches long, sometimes running as long as 41/2 at a cat, dog or even human.

inches. It is a chunky little fellow, and the red on its head is seen only in spring at the mating season. The female is a more modest greenish bird. In neither sex is the white on the wings very plain. The goldfinch, or wild canary, as it is often called, is not recognized by some observers when it is wearing its winter dress. Then it is on the greenish side, not gray, in both sexes, but the white bands on the wings are very distinct at all seasons. The goldfinch is 41/2 to 5 inches long. * * * * Goldfinches seldom if ever eat off the ground with other birds. They will not eat seeds and grains at feeding stations unless fairly driven to it by starvation. Since they are capable songsters, always able to wrest a living from nature, there is not much chance that they will be driven to it. There are always weed seeds, seeds of shrubs and trees, to be had for the picking. Few birds are more industrious. The goldfinches can alight on bending stalks with scarcely a ripple, not even causing the fragile branches to bend, but if they do bend, the little birds go right down with them, retaining their hold, even if the branches touch the ground. In this way they can eat upside down, if necessary.

We have told before how these birds like nothing better than chickweed, the bane of many a lawn.

Often a flock of them will present a perfect picture in chickweed, eating away with such gusto that pretty soon there is not a seed left. This is a much better way of getting rid of chickweed than trying to pull it out by hand. The only trouble with the method is that so much depends upon the arrival of a band of goldfinches at just the right time. Since these beautiful creatures do not travel on schedule, but come and go in a wholly capricious fashion, it may be that they will not get around to the chickweed in your own lawn. Never mind. They are welcome at any time, owing to the perfect picture which they make, wherever they are, in trees, shrubs or on weeds, high or low.

We sometimes think that the little birds are everybody's favorites, because somehow they seem to be just what a bird ought to be. We are so used to having the words "tiny" and "little" hitched on before the name of a bird, that we are inclined to think of all birds as little. The truth is that some of our most beautiful and dainty birds are little only in comparison with the observer. There is nothing really small about a blue jay, for instance, yet he is as dainty in his way as any bird which merits the term "small."

The sparrow hawk, held in hand, is perfection in feathers, yet he is far from little, in any sense, except in comparison with other hawks. Distance makes any bird seem small. Large hawks high up should come down to the treetops you would see what large wingspreads they really have.

There has been too much speaking of birds as "little." The diminutive tends to give them an endearing aspect which too many persons think of as wholly feminine. Truly, there is nothing feminine about a male cardinal, or a mockingbird in the spring making a high-dive

Pleads for Full Participation

In Cadets' Competitive.

To the Editor of The Star: How can any one call the cadet competitive drills "educational waste"? To the average cadet, the competitive drills are the high points of a year of strenuous work. If only one battalion and one company from each regiment are allowed to compete, the effect on the other companies will be disastrous. If one battalion or one company becomes outstanding, it will cause lax discipline, a decline in enrollment and total disappointment to cadet officers. Some have complained about school hours lost while cadets prepare for the drills. At most schools more time is lost in teachers' meetings than is lost by cadet drilling. As for actual time lost on the competitive drill field, I have never lost more than two periods of school time. For the time and energy put into drilling by a cadet, two hours of school time. which can easily be made up, is little enough reward. The countries which have been pushed around have been those whose ruling classes have been unwilling to change their ideas. Those classes have been self-satisfied, complacent and afraid of new ideas. In a fast-changing world they have allowed the dead hand of the past (tradition) to govern their military, economic and moral policies. Their leaders have learned to play the game one way and have lacked the initiative and daring to learn it another. Now, the Russians, the Japanese and the Germans started from scratch, took what was good from the old ways, but were not afraid to develop new techniques in both the economic and military fields. As a result they all three

D. C. Please inclose stamp for reply. Q. How much did the First World War cost the United States?-R. E. S.

A. Statisticians differ in the estimated cost of the World War. According to figures published in the Congressional Record for October 27, 1939, the direct cost was $186,233,637,097. To this may be added indirect costs of $151,612,552,560, of which probably $1,000,000,000 was spent for war relief. Total costs to the United States were more than $50,000,-000,000. Recovery costs were at least $15,000,000,000.

Q. Which is the nearest heavenly body to the earth?-R. E. A.

A. The moon is the nearest heavenly body to the earth except the meteors. its average distance being about 240,000

Q. How many churches are there in the United States?-I. N. F. A. According to the 1936 census of religious bodies published in 1941, churches

Q. Who was the person who said that there was nothing left to invent?-M.

A. This is one of the legends of the Patent Office, but cannot be absolutely authenticated or ascribed to any certain official. However, Commissioner of Patents Ellsworth in his report to Congress dated January 31, 1844, said: "The advancement of the arts from year to year taxes our credulity and seems to presage the arrival of that period when human improvement must end."

Q. What was the number of rounds in the fight between Peter Jackson and James J. Corbett in 1891?-T. E.

A. Peter Jackson and James J. Corbett fought on May 21, 1891, at San Francisco, Calif. The result was a draw in the 61st round.

Q. Who was the first Negro to graduate from a college in this country?-D. L. N. A. John Russworm was the first Negro college graduate. He received a degree from Bowdoin in 1828.

Q. What is the fastest swimming fish?-S. S. W. A. While it is difficulty to tell exactly, the fastest swimming fish is probably the bonito of the mackerel family.

Q. Who carved the stone lions that guard the entrance to the public library in New York City?-C. C. A.

A. The two lions on either side of the main approach near the Fifth avenue sidewalk are by Edward C. Potter, who was paid $8,000 for modeling and $5,000 for carving. The lions have been in place in front of the New York Public Library since its opening in 1911.

Q. What is the significance of the suffix "ptera" in names used to classify insects?-S. N.

A. "Ptera" is a Greek word meaning "wings." Each order of insects has some special pecularity about its wings that is common to all members of that group, but not found in any other. Thus Orthoptera means "having straight wings," Lepidoptera means "scale wings," and so

Q. In what poem can I find the words, "One crowded hour of glorious life"?-

A. The lines, "One crowded hour of glorious life is worth an age without a name." occur in Sir Walter Scott's "Old Mortality," chapter 34. The author expresses the same thought in "Count Robert of Paris."

Q. Who owns the largest number of race horses?-C. N. O.

A. Valdina Farms, Inc., owned by Mr. E. F. Woodward, comprising 19,000 acres in Uvalde and Medina Counties, Tex., is the owner of 115 mares and from 75 to 100 horses of racing age. This is the largest number of breeding and racing stock owned by any individual.

Q. How long has vanilla been known?-A. Vanilla was known to the ancient Aztecs who prized it highly. The Spaniards under Cortez found the natives of Mexico using it and, realizing its commercial possibilities, introduced it into Europe. The vanilla plant is an orchid.

Leiserson Calls for a Labor Policy

Piecemeal Tactics Seen as Encouraging Lags in Production

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

There ought to be some way of paying tribute to those members of President Roosevelt's administration who brave the frowns of criticism and speak out publicly against mistakes being made.

Perhaps the most useful contribution yet offered to the solution of the vexatious problems of management - union friction has just been made by William M. Lieserson, who,

David Lawrence. as an appointee of President Roosevelt, is one of the three members of the National Labor Relations Board, which enforces the Wagner

Mr. Leiserson is known as friend of the laboring man, having served for several years with distinction as chairman of the National Mediation Board, which is the organization charged by law with handling disputes growing out of labor problems on the railroads.

What Mr. Leiserson has said is worth reading by labor union officers, by management executives. by members of Congress and, most of all, by President Roosevelt himself. It is a speech so plainly objective and impersonal and so tactfully phrased to avoid giving offense to any Government agency or group that it must rank as a constructive contribution to the cause of accelerated production, which alone can help to bring victory in the war.

Ottes Representation Granted.

Mr. Leiserson doesn't mince words He says labor groups have been granted representation in the O. P. M., in the old National Defense Mediation Board, in the new President's Committee on Labor Problems and in the new War Labor Board, but still labor isn't satisfied. He points out that the labor division of the O. P. M. failed because "we do not have to be versed in the philosophy of management to understand that it is not practical to mix the policy-making functions of an organization with the operating functions."

On this point, Mr. Leiserson says

"This experience makes it plain that the entirely legitimate aspiration of the labor movement to participate on equal terms with industrial management in the common war effort cannot be satisfied by the mere process of appointing labor men to Government jobs paralleling jobs held by industrial managers. It does not work and satisfies no one. It leads to maneuvering and argument about policy among operating officials whose sole duty should be to carry out promptly and efficiently the operating orders of policy-making authorities. It turns a production organization into a debating society."

Mr. Leiserson goes on to say that the old National Defense Mediation Board collapsed because "the board itself made a fatal error in confusing mediation with arbitration." Of the new War Labor Board, he originally delivered at the College says there is no essential difference between it and its predecessor. "One," he says, "was a mediation a self-addressed envelope, this correboard that arbitrated, the other is spondent will be glad to supply the an arbitration board that mediates."

Urges National Policy.

Pointing out that the two major issues-request for a closed shop and wages increases—call for a national policy rather than piecemeal treat- Swedish Army Begins ment, Mr. Leiserson predicts stormy days ahead and fears that "war production will be impeded unless broad policies are determined in advance and people may know what to expect in the way of compulsory union membership or wage adjustments in relation to cost of living."

Still believing that these questions can be mutually adjusted between management and labor, Mr. Leiserson says President Roosevelt made a mistake recently in adjourning his War Labor Committee conference of union leaders and employers without coming to grips finally with these points. He says that the conference ought to be reconvened to that end or else Congress must enunciate a national policy. He thinks management-union committees should be consultative and cites an example of the same thing working successfully alongside rather than inside the Government.

the Government.

By GOULD LINCOLN.

The people back home and the newspapers have been giving the administration and Congress a "going over" in recent weeks in a salutary manner. Indeed, the force of public opinion, in a large measure led by the press, has manifested itself in increasing intensity and to a degree that the New Deal administration has not experienced in nine years of tenure. For example, the press and public opinion doomed boondoggling in the Office of Civilian Defense. They forced a revamping of that organization from top to bottom. Mayor La Guardia of New York retired from the leading office in that organization and returned to his fulltime job of running America's largest city. Mrs. Roosevelt, his assistant and in charge of the volunteer participation division of the O. C. D., has resigned, after being a target for extraneous operations that had little to do with protection of the citizens against air raids.

Public opinion, again led by the press, turned on Congress and forced a repeal of the Pension Act for members of Congress, the President, Vice President and members of the cabinet. The repealer bill already has passed the Senate by an overwhelming vote, attached as a rider to a bill dealing with the Navy. The House is expected to take similiar action, and also by a big majority. That the President will approve the repealer is regarded as a foregone conclusion.

Today a subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee will begin hearings on a bill introduced at the request of Attorney General Biddle, which, if enacted into law, could easily be an effective muzzle on the press. It is entitled "A bill to penalize the divulging of the contents of confidential Government documents." Senator Van Nuys of Indiana, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, already has proclaimed the bill "a form of censorship," which might be directed both at the press and at Congress itself.

Biddle May Ask Change.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Austin of Vermont, assistant Republican leader of the Upper House, is expected to recommend that the bill be tabled or amended drastically. So severe has been the criticism of the measure that Attorney General Biddle, who made the admission at a press conference that the bill had been sent to Congress without his having given it a careful reading, may himself urge that it be revamped. Or he may have a substitute measure to offer himself when he appears today as the committee's first witness. The newspaper PM and Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, have also requested an opportunity to be heard on the

Stand on Australia-New Zealand Line Is Read by Observer in President's Address

By JAY G. HAYDEN.

Disclosure, for the first time officially, that the United States is preparing to stand in defense of the Pacific—until we are strong enough to take the offensive against Japan - on the line of Australia and New Zealand was the high light of President Roosevelt's radio report to the Nation Monday night.

The complete lack of any expression of hope that the Philip- Jay G. Hayden. pines, Burms or the Dutch East Indies can be effective relieved, left the plain implication that the ultimate fall of all of these is expected. Just as definitely, the President's declaration that Japanese occupation of Australia and New Zealand would "release great number of ships and men to launch attacks on a large scale against the coasts of the Western Hemisphere, including Alaska," left no doubt that the United States is preparing to fight to the limit against this develop-

But Mr. Roosevelt asserted that this gloomy picture is neither a surprise to himself and the American Army and Navy strategists, nor an indication that Japan will finally win the war. Most emphatically he denied that the initial Japanese success at Pearl Harbor was responsible for it.

Delaying Strategy in Philippines.

"For 40 years," he said, "it has always been our strategy—a strategy born of necessity-that in the event of a full-scale attack on the (Philippine) islands by Japan, we should fight a delaying action, attempting to retire slowly into Bataan Peninsual and Corregidor. . . Nothing that has occurred in the past two months has caused us to revise this basic strategy—except that the 4,600 Wounded British defense put up by Gen. MacArthur vious estimates.

". . It has been said that Japanese gains in the Philippines were made possible only by the success of their surprise attack on Pearl Hanbor. I tell you that this is not so. " • • MacArthur's army of Filipinos and Americans, and the forces of the United Nations in China, in Burma and the Netherlands East Indies, are altogether fulfilling the same essential task. They are making Japan pay an increasingly heavy "In other words, all of these have become delaying actions, designed to hold up the Japanese attack until a line of defense can be established

Japan itself," the President said. "We knew all along that, with our great resources, we could outbuild Japan and ultimately overwhelm her on sea, on land and in the air. We knew that, to obtain our objective, many varieties of operations would be necessary in areas other than the Philippines."

Singapore Ignored. The President made no mention whatever of Singapore as a factor in the Far Eastern situation. The speech ran true to advance predictions in that it was primarily a seminar in geography, designed to explain the tremendous advantage which the Japanese derived from the elements of distance and time. and the consequent difficulties which confront the forces arrayed against her

The substance of the President's appeal was for popular understanding of this supreme difficulty confronting the American forces, and for an all-out effort to produce the overwhleming superiority of ships and planes and tanks, which alone can overcome it. Specifically he appealed to labor "not to stop work for a single day" and to accept "mediation, conciliation or arbitration" of any differences with employers "until the war is won."

Warns Against "Poison."

Above all the President warned against the dissemination of "rumor and poison"-statements calculated to "destroy our conflidence in our allies," which he said the Axis propagandists are fostering.

Inferentially the President indicated that Great Britain is preparing to grant "self determination" to the people of India and her other dominions in the Far East. The United Nations, he said, are agreed that "The Atlantic charter applies not only to the parts of the world that border the Atlantic, but to the whole world; disarmament of nations and peoples, and four freedoms-freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom from want and freedom from fear."

This Changing World

Vichy's Attitude Seen as Forecast France Will Enter War on Side of Axis Aggressors

the war on the side of the Axis now seems more than a possibility, according to high diplomatic quarters in Washington. For the last 10 days there have been important diplomatic exchanges between Vichy and Washington. They began when the State Department made strong representations at Vichy against permission granted to the Nazis to use Biserte, the principal Tunisian port, as a base from which to supply the Axis Libyan forces commanded by Field Mar-

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.

That the French will come into shal Gen. Erwin Rommel. M. Gaston Henry-Haye, the French Ambassador in Washington, was instructed to explain this breach of faith by the Vichy govment, which had given us definite assurances that Africa would be neutralized in accordance with the terms of the German-French armistice of 1940.

The explanations offered were feeble. M. Henry-Haye pointed out that Africa was, in fact, as neutral as formerly, but that the Nazis were given the right to use Bizerte because otherwise they would have taken that right themselves.

The French Ambassador, no longer in a mood of friendliness for America, was haughty in his conversations with high American officials. He pointed out that if the French had refused to permit the Nazis the use of Bizerte and Sfax, the military port of Tunisia, the Germans would have sent a force to North Africa and occupied the whole territory. Moreover, they threatened to suspend all advantages—the nature of which the State Department did not knowgranted to Vichy.

Another Breach of Faith.

The French envoy added, however, that no other privilege henceforth would be granted the Reich. He reiterated Vichy's former formal pledge that not a single French warship would be moved from North African ports without America being previously informed. When the news reached Washington that the French battleship Dunkerque, stationed at Oran since its overhauling, had reached Toulon, the American Ambassador in Vichy, Admiral William C. Leahy, was instructed to see Marshal Petain again and point out this new breach of faith. Marshal Petain is said to have listened in silence to the protests of the American Ambassador. Within 48 hours the ton gave the State Department a note regarding the movement of the French warship. The note is described in Washington diplomatic quarters as haughty and lacking the traditional friendly tone; its character was such that it might have been drafted in Berlin, say some of the diplomats who claim to have been acquainted with it.

While diplomatic conversations are still being carried on more or less acrimoniously, high officials in Washington are seriously concerned over the probability that when the Nazis start their offensive in the Mediterranean the Frech fleet will be an important auxiliary covering the western portion of the Mediterranean Sea.

Seen as Gold on Axis.

There is no doubt in the minds of high-ranking American officials that the Vichy camarilla which controls Marshal Petain has taken advantage of the latest British reverses and of America's inability to hold its own in the Western Pacific to overcome the last scruples of the aged head of the French govern-

The prestige and popularity of the United States on the European mainland was even greater than we in this country believed it to be. Every time the Nazis pressed Marshal Petain to throw France's lot with the Axis the marshal's reply was that while Britain was in a bad way the United States had not entered the war. If this should happen, Marshal Petain is said to have argued, then the world would see a complete change in the military situation of the anti-Axis powers.

The surprise attack on Pearl Harbor was not a sufficiently convincing argument for the marshal to violate France's neutrality. Admiral Leahy is reported to have convinced Marshal Petain and many of his subordinates that Pearl Harbor was an unfortunate occurrence which resulted from the United States leaning far backward tot maintain strictly correct relations with the treacherous aggressor.

Quasi-Ultimatum to Vichy. Marshal Petain and his followers waited for some indication of American striking power. The heroic resistance of Gen. Douglas MacArthur was fully exploited by our representatives in France's was capital, but it did not cut much ice. German propaganda has been presenting evidence, which unfortunately is correct, to show that America cannot hope to become an offensive power for some time.

The Nazis told the militaryminded French leaders that the best we can hope for in the next two or three years is to hold our own and prevent our own shores from being attacked. Berlin is reported to have presented Vichy with a quasiultimatum-the French government must join the Axis now, in order to shorten the war, or take all the consequences. The choice given France, according to reliable displometic quarters, was either to fight with the Reich and obtain some of the fruits of an Axis victory over Britain and Russia, or remain outside when the spoils are distributed. While nothing positive regarding Vichy's attitude has been reported over the week end, the tone of the latest French notes and certain movements of French warships indicate that Marshal Petain has finally yielded.

MOVING EAST BY TRAIN.

not a kid. On this particular train, which is now somewhere between Dallas and Memphis, there are 200 or more soldiers and about two dozen youngsters whose ages range from 4

Henry McLemore. I won't insult your intelligence by asking you to guess who is in charge of the train. The children have stormed every day coach, every Pullman, and are holding it against repeated counterattacks by the soldiers, co-operative civilian passengers, conductors, brakemen and porters.

They are in complete charge of the ice water cooler and no one on the train has a chance of getting a drink until they decide to abandon this post for an all-out attack on the aisles. Stern military policemen, with revolvers swinging on their hips, are going about with their tongues hanging out from thirst. Even when the children abandon the water cooler it is doubtful if any one will be able to get a drink, because, from the looks of the floor around the cooler, they have decided on the "scorched earth" policy. Paper cups are knee deep around the place. The water has been running steadily since the first one figured out how to turn

The aisles—the only avenues of escape from the grownups-have been blocked for hours. To get to the club car, the last stronghold of the adults, would seem to take more strategy than any civilian or soldier on the train has. The youngsters are swinging between the seats as children have probably done since the first train was invented. Those who are tired of swinging are rolling up and down the aisles, and those neither rolling nor swinging are climbing up the backs of seats, looking under the seats for lost pennies and pieces of candy, putting together jigsaw puzzles, and wrest-

Literally, the only way to get from one end of a car to the other is to forget as best you can that these little rascals constitute the future of America and step on them as lightly as possible.

To challenge their authority the least bit is to bring down parental ire on your head. I'm convinced that statistics would prove that no parent ever took a child on a train trip, either for no fare or half fare, who didn't feel that once the "all aboard" signal was given, the child ceased to be the parents' obligation, and became a sort of privileged ward of the Pennsylvania or the New York Central or the Southern Pacific or whatever road was being traveled.

With all the privileges extended them, it is amazing how much children cry on trains. A blond bomber in my car is now five minutes away from the transcontinental yowling and howling record. I don't know what is disturbing him. Perhaps the conductor flatly refused him permission to go up into the cab and drive the train.

My memory isn't so bad that I can't remember the trains I, as a youngster, did my bit toward destroying. I recall my first train trip. As a member of a fife and bugle corps I traveled 20 miles to play in a county fair grammar school fife and drum contest. Every mother whose son was a member of this outstanding musical unit worked right up until train time to fix a nice shoe box lunch for her potential Sousa.

The train was flagged down at our station. We piled into the day coach, and every mother's son of us was sent away to the shouts of "Be a good boy, and remember to eat your own lunch. Don't swap lunches with the other boys." Not until this moment has the secret been revealed, in print at least, that the Rochelle Fife and Drum Corps as one boy threw their carefully prepared lunches out of the window and scraped up enough pennies to buy candy inclosed in a glass pistol or lantern, a mess of bananas and a few bottles of soda All of a sudden I feel young again.

I wish mamma were here to give the porter a quarter to take me back to the observation car to watch the rails disappear.

Gen. Holcomb Warns U. S. 'Long, Hard War' Is Ahead

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—The United States is going to need more than production and wealth to win the war, Lt. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, commandant of the Marine Corps. said last night in warning the people to prepare for "a long, hard world war" and to take the losses. "There is going to be plenty of fighting and this country needn't think it can sit back on its heels and just turn out production," he declared. "We have got to have production and wealth, but they can't win the war alone. We have more of both of these than any other country in the world-but have we got the rest?"

Gen. Holcomb described the "rest" as willingness to go through a pro-longed, tough conflict, taking losses in stride to emerge victorious.

He said the Marine Corps, which had 60,000 men at the start of war, was now 100,000 strong and may be expected to engage in the British "commando" type of fighting.

A Shell-burst in the Pacific . . . Echo of a Railroad Whistle in America!

AMERICA'S ANSWER to aggression roars across the world. It shouts in the boom and crash of guns . . . in the drone of planes . . . in the whitring wheels of war-geared industry . . . in the rumble and shriek of fast trains, carrying supplies and men onward to the fronts of war. It's one vast chorus ... and its name is "VICTORY."

Whenever you hear a railroad whistle, think of this: Who takes the iron ore and other raw materials to the plants of war industry? The railroad. Who swiftly moves the finished guns and tanks, plane parts and armor plate from the assembly line? The railroad Who makes big troop movements possible -while maintaining other vital war

Spring Conditioning that's TAILORED TO YOUR CAR!

Come in Now for a FREE Inspection by Authorized Factory-Trained Mechanics that Will Show Exactly what Attention YOUR Car Needs.

HOW'S YOUR CLUTCH ACTION? Did you know that a clutch that is not operating properly can result in too-rapid tire wear? That's one of the things our tailored spring servicing catches.

WANT LONGER TIRE LIFE? When switching tires, do you remember the spare? If you'll let us switch your tires, working the spare in where it can best be used, each tire out of the five you have will be on the road only four-fifths as much as usual. Net result: Longer life from the same full set.

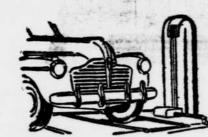

ICK-AND-A-PROMISE spring conditioning won't do this year, mister!

You've got something more important to think about than just changing oil and grease - you've got a whole car that will have to see you through the duration, and you can't afford to overlook any part of it.

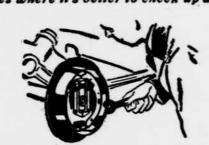

That's why Buick spring service is tailored to your own particular car.

We change oil and grease in the regular way, of course - we check batteries, cooling systems, wheel alignment and other routine matters.

But engines burn less gas when they run efficiently. Tires go further when clutch and brakes are in proper adjustment.

ARE YOUR WHEELS IN LINE? Misaligned front wheels not only wear tires rapidly but may interfere with proper car control. One of many instances where it's better to check up and be sure.

GOOD BRAKES MEAN SAFETY PLUS. Brakes ought to be kept in proper adjustment for safety reasons alone. Beyond that, brakes that are "out" can also result in unnecessarily increased tire wear. For best results, let Buick men adjust your Buick brakes to Buick factory specifications.

Your whole car lasts longer when it is conditioned as a unit - especially when trained Buick specialists do the job.

So we write your spring conditioning ticket to fit your car's needs - not to make up a ready-made "package" according to average requirements.

The cost is no higher than for a comparably good job anywhere else. It's actually lower in the long run, because it pays to have a job done right - pays to have work done before wear and tear get started.

Drop in for a FREE check-up by our authorized factory-trained mechanics and let us detail the service your car should have this spring.

Law Heads to Address Judicial Conference Opening Thursday

Better Administration Of Courts Main Topic Of 3-Day Sessions Here

Addresses by Chief Justice Stone and Attorney General Biddle will feature the opening of a three-day judicial conference at the Court of Appeals at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. District Court and the appellate tribunal will be in recess during the sessions.

The gathering, the third of its kind here, is designed to bring about better administration of justice in the Capital. The senior Federal judges of this jurisdiction will join in a roundtable discussion of numerous problems.

Chief Justice D. Lawrence Groner of the Court of Appeals will preside at the opening session. Following Chief Justice Stone and Attorney General Biddle's addresses, Henry P. Chandler, director of the administrative office of the United States Courts, is scheduled to speak. A general discussion will follow.

Justice Miller to Preside. At the afternoon session at 2:15 o'clock, Associate Justice Justin Miller of the Appellate Court will preside. Justice James M. Proctor of District Court will speak on "Assignment of Counsel in Civil and Criminal Cases" and reports will be with standardized jury instructions, criminal procedure and the integrated bar.

Associate Justice Harold M. Stephens of the Court of Appeals after eight hours yesterday. They will preside at the Friday morning session, at which Edmund R. Beckwith, chairman of the Committee on National Defense of the American Bar Association, will speak on "Lawyers and Judges in the War Effort."

Edward B. Beale, member of the Board of Managers and former secretary of the American Patent Law Association, will speak on "Subjects Jurisdiction." A panel discussion will be held on the presentation of cases in trial and appellate courts, with Justices Miller and Wiley Rutledge of the appellate court and Justices Jesse C. Adkins and Bolitha J. Laws of District Court taking a Complete Red Cross leading part.

Administrative Symposium

The afternoon session on Friday will see Associate Justice Fred M. Vinson of the appellate tribunal presiding. Under auspices of the Bar Association of the District and the Federal Bar Association a discussion on "Administrative Law in Its Relation to the Courts of the District of Columbia" will take

An open discussion will be con-ducted by Justice James W. Morris of District Court.

On Saturday an all-day meeting in executive session will be held by jurists of the appellate court and District Court. Delegates from the various bar associations here will participate.

All Civilian Truck Production May Stop

Truck manufacturers were notified today that their March quotas for civilian truck production prob-ably would be eliminated, leaving the industry nothing but military

"Lack of rubber and other critical materials will probably necessitate cancellation of the March quotas," the manufacturers were informed in telegrams from the War Production Board. Tires have been provided for trucks produced under February quotas, it was explained, but the order fixing the March quota did not provide for tires.

This notice was included in an announcement notifying manufacturers who are unable to complete their February quotas by March 1 that they may carry over the unused portion of the February quota into March. The production schedules of several manufacturers had been delayed because of high priority military orders, it was explained.

Text of Roosevelt's Address Outlining United Nations' War Problems

The text of President Roosevelt's radio address last night follows:

Washington's birthday is a most appropriate occasion for us to talk with each other about things as they are today and things as we know they shall be in the future.

For eight years, Gen. Washington and his Continental Army were faced continually with formidable odds and recurring defeats. Supplies and equipment were lacking. In a sense, every winter was a Valley Forge. Throughout the 13 States there existed fifth columnists—selfish men, jealous men, fearful men, who proclaimed that Washington's cause was hopeless, that he should ask for a negotiated peace.

Washington's conduct in those hard time has provided the model for all Americans ever since-a model of moral stamina. He held to his course, as it had been charted in the Declaration of Independence. He and the brave men who served with him knew that no man's life or fortune was secure without freedom and free

The present great struggle has taught us increasingly that freedom of person and security of property anywhere in the world depend upon the security of the rights and obligations of liberty and justice everywhere in the

This war is a new kind of war. It is different from all other wars of the past, not only in its methods and weapons, but also in its geography. It is warfare in terms of every continent, every island, every sea, every airlane in the world That is the reason why I have asked you to take out and spread before you the map of the whole earth, and to follow with me the references which I shall make to the world-encircling battle lines of this war. Many questions will, I fear, remain unanswered, but I know you will realize I cannot cover everything in any one report to the people.

Job Is Now to Fight All Around the Globe.

The broad oceans which have been heralded in the past as our protection from attack have become endless battlefields on which we are constantly being challenged by our enemies.

We must all understand and face the hard fact that our job now is to fight at distances which extend all the way round the

We fight at these vast distances because that is where our enemies are. Until our flow of supplies gives us clear superiority we must keep on striking our enemies wherever and whenever we can meet them, even if, for a while, we have to yield ground. Actually we are taking a heavy toll of the enemy every day that goes by.

We must fight at these vast distances to protect our supply lines and our lines of communication with our Allies-protect these lines from the enemies who are bending every ounce of their strength, striving against time, to cut them. The object of the Nazis and the Japanese is to separate the United States, Britain, China and Russia, and to isolate them one from another, so that each will be surrounded and cut off from sources of supplies and reinforcements. It is the old familiar Axis policy of "divide and conquer." There are those who still think in terms of the days of sailing ships. They advise us to pull our warships and our planes and our merchant ships into our own home waters and concentrate solely on last-ditch defense. But let me illustrate what would happen if we followed such foolish

Look at your map. Look at the vast area of China, with its millions of fighting men. Look at the vast area of Russia, with its powerful armies and proven military might. Look at the British Isles, Australia, New Zealand, the Dutch Indies, India, the Near East and the continent of Africa, with their resources of raw materials and of peoples determined to resist Axis domination. Look at North America, Central America and South America.

What Would Happen if Isolation Policy Dere Adopted.

It is obvious what would happen if all these great reservoirs of power were cut off from each other by enemy action or by self-imposed isolation: 1. We could no longer send aid of any kind to China-to the brave people who, for nearly five years have withstood Japanese livered his fireside radio chat on the war.

various routes; and this, in turn,

depends upon control by the United Nations of the stategic

assault, destroyed hundreds of thousands of Japanese soldiers and vast quantities of Japanese war munitions. It is essential that we help China in her magnificent defense and in her inevitable counteroffensive-for that is one important element in the ultimate defeat of Japan.

2. If we lost communication with the Southwest Pacific, all of that area, including Australia and New Zealand, would fall under Japanese domination. Japan could then release great numbers of ships and men to launch attacks on a large scale against the coasts of the Western Hemisphere, including Alaska. At the same time she could immediately extend her conquests to India and through the Indian Ocean to Africa and the Near East.

3. If we were to stop sending munitions to the British and the Russians in the Mediterranean and Persian Gulf areas, we would help the Nazis to overrun Turkey, Syria, Iraq, Persia, Egypt and the Suez Canal, the whole coast of North Africa and the whole coast of West Africa-putting Germany within easy striking distance of South America. 4. If, by such a fatuous policy, we ceased to protect the North Atlantic supply line to Britain and to Russia, we would help to cripple the splendid counteroffensive by Russia against the Nazis, and we would help prive Britain of essential food supplies and munitions,

Those Americans who believed. that we could live under the illusion of isolationism wanted the American eagle to imitate the tactics of the estrict. Now, many of those same people, afraid that we may be sticking our necks out, want our national bird to be turned into a turtle. But we prefer to retain the eagle as it is-flying high and striking hard.

U. S. Ships Follow Four

Main Communication Lines. I know that I speak for the mass of the American people when I say that we reject the turtle policy and will continue increasingly the policy of carrying the war to the enemy in distant lands and distant waters—as far as possible from our own home

There are four main lines of communication now being traveled by our ships: The North Atlantic, the South Atlantic, the Indian Ocean and the South Pacific. These routes are not oneway streets-for the ships which carry our troops and munitions outbound bring back essential raw materials which we require for our own use.

The maintenance of these vital lines is a very tough job. It is a job which requires tremendous daring, tremendous resourcefulness, and, above all, tremendous production of planes and tanks and guns and of the ships to carry them. And I speak again for the American people when I say that we can and will do that

The defense of the world-wide lines of communication demands relatively safe use by us of the sea and of the air along the bases along those routes. Control of the air involves the simultaneous use of two types of planes—first, the long-range heavy bomber, and, second, light bombers, dive bombers, torpedo planes and short-range pursuit planes which are essential to the protection of the bases and of the bombers themselves. Heavy bombers can fly under their own power from here to the Southwest Pacific; but the smaller planes cannot. Therefore, these lighter planes have to be packed in crates and sent on board cargo ships. Look at your map again and you will see that the route is long-and at many places perilous-either across the South Atlantic around South Africa, or from California to the East Indies direct. A vessel can make a round trip by either route in about four months, or only three round trips in a whole year. Planes and Pilots in Daily Contact With Enemy.

In spite of the length and difficulties of this transportation, I can tell you that we already have a large number of bombers and pursuit planes, manned by American pilots, which are now in contact with the enemy in the Southwest Pacific. And thousands of American troops are today in that area engaged in operations not only in the air but on the ground as well. In this battle area, Japan has had an obvious initial advantage. For she could fly even her shortrange planes to the points of attack by using many stepping stones open to her-bases in a multitude of Pacific islands and also bases on the China, Indo-China, Thailand and Malay coasts. Japanese troop transports could go south from Japan and

China through the narrow China

Sea which can be protected by Japanese planes throughout its whole length.

I ask you to look at your maps again, particularly at that portion of the Pacific Ocean lying west of Hawaii. Before this war even started, the Philippine Islands were already surrounded on three sides by Japanese power. On the west, the Japanese were in pos-session of the coast of China and the coast of Indo-China which had been yielded to them by the Vichy French. On the north are the islands of Japan themselves, reaching down almost to Northern Luzon. On the east, are the mandated islands—which Japan had occupied exclusively, and had fortified in absolute violation of her written word.

These islands, hundreds of them, appear only as small dots on most maps. But they cover a large strategic area. Guam lies in the middle of them—a lone outpost which we never fortified. Under the Washington Treaty of 1921 we had solemnly agreed not to add to the fortification of the Philippine Islands. We had no safe naval base there, so we extensive naval operaions. Immediately after this war started, the Japanese forces moved down on either side of the Philippines to numerous points south of them-thereby pletely encircling the islands from north, south, east and west. It is that complete encirclement, with control of the air by Japanese land - based aircraft, which has prevented us from sending substantial reinforcements of men and material to the gallant defenders of the Philippines. For 40 years it has always been our strategy—a strategy born of necessity-that in the event of a full-scale attack on the islands by Japan, we should fight a delaying action, attempting to retire slowly into Bataan Peninsula and Corregidor.

Gen. MacArthur's Defense Exceeds Previous Estimates.

We knew that the war as a whole would have to be fought and won by a process of attrition against Japan itself. We knew all along that, with our greater resources, we could outbuild Japan and ultimately overwhelm her on sea, on land and in the air. We knew that, to obtain our objective, many varieties of operations would be necessary in areas other than the Philippines. Nothing that has occurred in the past two months has caused us to revise this basic strategy— except that the defense put up by Gen. MacArthur has magnificently exceded the previous estimates; and he and his men are gaining eternal glory therefor. MacArthur's army of Filipinos and Americans, and the forces of the United Nations in China, in Burma and the Netherlands East Indies, are all together fulfilling the same essential task. They are making Japan pay an increasingly terrible price for her ambitious attempts to seize control of the whole Atlantic world. Every Japanese transport sunk off Java is one less transport that they can use to carry reinforcements to their army opposing Gen. MacArthur in Luzon. It has been said that Japanese gains in the Philippines were made possible only by the success of their surprise attack on Pearl Harbor. I tell you that this is not so. Even if the attack had not been made, your map will show that it would have been a hopeless operation for us to send the fleet to the Philippines through thousands of miles of ocean, while all those island bases were under the sole control of the Japanese.

The consequences of the attack on Pearl Harbor-serious as they

THE CIGARETTE OF

President's Speech Voices Confidence in Ultimate Victory for Allies

served the enemy propagandists by spreading the incredible story that shiploads of bodies of our honored American dead were about to arrive in New York Harbor to be put in a common

Almost every Axis broadcast directly quotes Americans who. by speech or in the press, make damnable misstatements such as these.

The American people realize that in many cases details of military operations cannot be disclosed until we are absolutely certain that the announcement will not give to the enemy military information which he does not already possess.

Your Government has unmistakable confidence in your ability to hear the worst without flinching or losing heart. You must, in turn, have complete confidence that your Government is keeping nothing from you except information that will help the enemy in his attempt to destroy us. In a democracy there is always a solemn pact of truth between Government and the people, but there must also always be a full use of discretion—and that word "discretion" applies to the critics of Government as well.

This is war. The American people want to know, and will be told, the general trend of how the war is going. But they do not wish to help the enemy any more than our fighting forces do, and they will pay little attention to the rumor-mongers and poison peddlers in our midst. Only Three Combatant Ships

Permanently Out of Commission. To pass from the realm of rumor and poisonu to the field of facts: The number of our officers and men killed in the attack on Pearl Harbor on December 7 was 2,340, and the number wounded was 946. Of all the combatant ships based on Pearl Harborbattleships, heavy cruisers, light cruisers, aircraft carriers, destroyers and submarines—only three were permanently put out

Very many of the ships of the Pacific Fleet were not even in Pearl Harbor. Some of those that were there were hit very slightly, and others that were damaged have either rejoined the fleet by now or are still undergoing repairs. When those repairs are completed the ships will be more efficient fighting machines than they were before. The report that we lost more than a thousand airplanes at Pearl Harbor is as baseless as the other weird rumors. The Japanese do not know just how many planes they destroyed that day and I am not going to tell them. But I can say that to date-and including Pearl Harbor-we have destroyed consid-than they have destroyed of ours. We have most certainly suffered losses-from Hitler's Uboats in the Atlantic as well as from the Japanese in the Pacific -and we shall suffer more of them before the turn of the tide. But, speaking for the United States of America, let me say once and for all to the people of the world: We Americans have been compelled to yield ground, but we will regain it. We and the other United Nations are committed to the destruction of the militarism of Japan and Germany. We are daily increasing our strength. Soon, we and not our enemies, will have the offensive; we, not they, will win the final battles; and we, not they, will make the final peace. Conquered nations in Europe know what the yoke of the Nazis is like. And the people of Korea and of Manchuria know in their flesh the harsh despotism of Japan. All of the people of Asia know that if there is to be an honorable and decent future for any of them or for us, that future depends on victory by the United Nations over the forces of Axis enslavement. If a just and durable peace is to be attained, or even if all of us are merely to save our own skins, there is one thought for us here at home to keep uppermost-the fulfillment of our special task of production. Germany, Italy and Japan are very close to their maximum output of planes, guns, tanks and ships. The United Nations are not-especially the United States

Our first job then is to build up production so that the United Nations can maintain control of the seas and attain control of the air-not merely a slight superiority, but an overwhelming su-

U. S. Goals Held Fantastic

By Axis Being Attained. On January 6 of this year, I set certain definite goals of production for airplanes, tanks, guns and ships. The Axis propagandists called them fantastic. Tonight, nearly two months later, and after a careful survey of progress by Donald Nelson and others charged with responsibility for our production, I can tell you that those goals will be attained. In every part of the country, experts in production and the men and women at work in the plants are giving loyal service. With few exceptions, labor, capital and farming realize that this is no time either to make undue profits or to gain special advantages, one over the other.

We are calling for new plants and additions to old plants and for plant conversion to war needs. We are seeking more men and more women to run them. We are working longer hours. We are coming to realize that one extra plane or extra tank or extra gun or extra ship completed tomorrow may, in a few months, turn the tide on some distant battlefield; it may make the difference between life and death for some of our fighting men. We know now that if we lose this war it will be generations or even centuries before our conception of democracy can live again. And we can lose this war only if we slow up our effort or if we waste our ammunition sniping at each for every American: 1. We shall not stop work for a single day. If any dispute arises we shall keep on working while the dispute is solved by mediation, conciliation or arbitration-until the war is won. 2. We shall not demand special gains or special privileges or advantages for any one group or

3. We shall give up conveniences and modify the routine of our lives if our country asks us to do so. We will do it cheerfully, remembering that the common enemy seeks to destroy every home and every freedom in every part of our land. This generation of Americans has come to realize, with a present and personal realization, that there is something larger and more important than the life of ual group-something for which a man will sacifice, and gladly sacrifice, not only his pleasures, not only his goods, not only his associations with those he loves.

but his life itself. In time of crisis when the future is in the balance, we come to understand, with full recognition and devotion, what this Nation is, and what we owe to it.

Axis Tries in Various Ways To Undermine Home Front.

The Axis propagandists have tried in various evil ways to destroy our determination and our morale. Failing in that, they are now trying to destroy our confidence in our own Allies. They say that the British are fin-ished—that the Russians and the Chinese are about to quit. Patriotic and sensible Americans will reject these absurdities. And instead of listening to any of this crude propaganda, they will recall some of the things that Nazis and Japanese have said and are still saying about us.

Ever since this Nation became the arsenal of democracy-ever since enactment of lend-leasethere has been one persistent theme through all Axis propaganda

This theme has been that Americans are admittedly rich, and that Americans have considerable industrial power-but that Americans are soft and decadent, that they cannot and will not unite and work and fight.

From Berlin, Rome and Tokio we have been described as a Nation of weaklings—"playboys"— who would hire British soldiers, or Russian soldiers, or Chinese soldiers to do our fighting for us. Let them repeat that now! Let them tell that to Gen. Mac-

Arthur and his men.

Let them tell that to the sailors who today are hitting hard in the far waters of the Pacific Let them tell that to the boys in the flying fortresses.

Win, Lose or Draw Nats Have Smart

By BURTON HAWKINS.

(In the Temporary Absence of Francis E. Stan). Nats Find Man With Little Black Bag Handy

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 24.—Pudgy, red-faced Mike Martin's Irish temperament doesn't permit him many peaceful moments. The Nats' tempestuous trainer is inclined to argue—subject matter ranging from baseball bats to Batavia-but he hasn't argued himself out of a job with Clark Griffith chiefly because he couldn't if Griffith has seen the plump Martin trot on baseball fields, his little black kit bag clutched in that firm right hand, thousands of times and by now it must give the Nats' owner a sense of satisfaction each time Mike moves into action. Griffith knows his injured athletes promptly will be placed in capable hands-hands that are entering their 39th season of rubbing, massaging, manipulating and slapping Griffiths' players.

Through the years Griff has had no more loyal employe, for Mike started with the Nats' boss in 1904 and has been with him since. Mike is one of Washington's baseball landmarks, a behind-the-scenes figure who, on occasions, has been an important factor in creating Capital base-

There was that occasion in 1924, for instance, when the Nats-were battling with the Giants in the World Series. Behind the scenes was Martin, laboring two nights over Shortstop Roger Peckinpaugh, whose creaky legs were in a derby in which only charleyhorses were entered. Patiently Mike kneaded, bathed and taped and somehow Peck played four games in that series, batted .417 and played considerable shortstop.

Big, Bad Ball Players Had to Respect Harris

Mike was important to the Nats in 1925, too, when Second Baseman Bucky Harris, with two broken fingers, was playing in the World Series against the Pirates. Between innings, Bucky hustled back to the bench and Mike hastily soaked the damaged paw to reduce the swelling. The Nats lost, ultimately, but Mike at least had the satisfaction of losing with them. He had been in the battle.

To Harris, Mike pays the tribute of being the gamest player he's ever seen. Mike may be prejudiced, having roomed with Bucky since he joined the Nats and having had a part in discovering him, but he never tires of telling tales of Bucky's pluck.

"He was the gamest little devil I ever saw," beams Mike. "Why one day I saw Babe Ruth give Bucky the shoulder at second base and knock him 10 yards. Bucky didn't complain-merely got up and dusted himself off-but the next day Ruth came into second again. Bucky let him have it-planted that ball right on the Babe's jaw-and the Babe took it.

Yessir, they learned to respect Bucky." Mike likes his baseball tough and tricky. He liked the way Harris spit licorice on a baseball before tossing it back to a Nat pitcher. He liked the way Bucky would take a fast ball in the ribs to get on base in a tight spot. He liked the way Bucky instructed Fred Marberry to cheat on the pitching mound, moving off the rubber toward the batter as much as 2 feet. He liked the way Bucky would fire a ball at Ty Cobb's forehead when Ty came thundering toward him as the victim in the first half of a double play.

Cobb Gets Mike's Vote as the Greatest Ever

It's natural, therefore, that Mike regards Cobb as the greatest player he's seen. "Everybody hated Cobb," reminisces Mike, "but they couldn't get him. Bucky tried to hit him in the head and couldn't do it. Dozens of players would have given a week's pay to carve Cobb with their spikes, "Cobb played to win-that was all that counted with him. He could hit, throw and run those bases like they've never been run before or since, but above all he was aggressive. He'd beat a club was a superman, too, but I'd take Cobb."

Fifty-seven years old. Mike has been training athletes 43 of those years. No coddled youth, Mike was parentless when he was 2 years old. Ten years later he ran away from his uncle's home, sold papers and somehow drifted into a job assisting Trainer Mike Murphy at the Manhattan Beach bicycle racing track.

Next it was the New York Athletic Club, then Columbia University and Princeton. Mike joined Griffith, then manager of the New York Highlanders, in 1904 and followed him to Cincinnati. When Griffith came to Washington to take over the Nats in 1912 along came Mike.

For four years Mike spent his falls and winters training at North Carolina State, but since 1917 has been content to take it easy in the

One of Mike's proudest achievements consisted of assisting in persuading Walter Johnson not to chuck in the towel after his disastrous 1920 season, when he won only eight games after winning 20 or more in

"Walter had a sore arm that year and thought he was through," recalls Mike, "but Mr. Griffith and I persuaded him to give it another try." Johnson did and for six years won more than 15 games a year, twice get-

Rook Hurler in Scarborough

School Teacher, Star For Class B Team, Likely to Stick

By a Staff Correspondent of The Star. ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 24.-To Rookie Ray Scarborough goes the distinction of being the Nats' most educated performer. A high school teacher of biology and chemistry at Clayton, N. C., the 23-year-old right-hander may make the large leap from Selma of the Southeastern League to the majors.

Young Mr. Scarborough is nobody's dumb cluck. He's a Kappa Kappa, which means his scholastic marks were soaring above 90 when he was a student at Wake Forest. He owns a B. S. degree and knows his way around in physics, chemistry and biology. There is a suspicion, too, that he knows what to do with a baseball.

Son of a North Carolina cotton farmer, Scarborough comes to the Nats via Selma of the South-eastern League, a class B circuit in which he compiled the enviable record of 21 victories and 10 defeats last season, pitching 245 innings.

Ray's Debut Distressing.

He's one of the smaller member of the Nats and depends on mixing his delivery rather than attempting to pour 'em past the batters. His fast ball gathers no moss, though, he says, and he blended an acceptable curve and an occ knuckler with it to shine for Selma Ray's introduction to baseball was disheartening affair. He was attending Rutherford Junior College on a football scholarship but one day he got around to pitching his first game against the Davidson

What Ray's Rutherford mates did to him was brutal, for Ray allowed only two hits that day, both bunts down the third-base line, and dropped a 1-0 decision. The bunts followed each other and an error presented him a defeat

Sore Arm a Handicap.

Ray entered Wake Forest shortly thereafter and caught the eye of several major league scouts with his polished pitching in 1937 and '38. Those same scouts ignored him the following season, however, for in his senior year he suffered a sore arm that kept him inactive

A Duke batter rammed a lin drive back at Scarborough that clipped him below the right elbow, damaging the tendons. A year later the soreness vanished and Rav turned to semi-pro pitching before hooking on with Chattanooga, where he arrived only in time to win one game and lose two.

Ray isn't certain he's Washington property, there being some confusion in his status when the Nats took over the Lookouts' franchise If he discovers the Nats have no claim on him, he doubtless will request and get a bonus. Meanwhile he isn't worrying about it. "I'm gonna give my best out there every day," he says, "and I hope I stick. want to be on this ball club."

CLEVELAND, Feb. 24.-Touching off a new skyrocket on the fanciest fistic fireworks Cleveland has enjoyed in 11 years, a rush of "fresh". money hit town today to make Lem Franklin a lopsided favorite over Bob Pastor for their 10-round brawl

About the same time Promoter Bob Brickman predicted a sellout crowd of 14,000 and a gate of $55,000, tto make it the Forest City's biggest punch party since Max Schmeling and Young Stribling held their waltz back in '31, the Chicago boys blew in with large packages of scratch to back Franklin and send

Not since Schmeling put Stribling away in 15 rounds have the locals seen anything like it. If Promoter Brickman's forecasts come anywhere close to hitting the nail on the head, the tune will be somewhat sweeter than the one Joe Lbuis sang in this vicinity the night he wound up and struck out Eddie Simms with one punch half a dozen years back.

Ten Tourneys Will Be Divided Between D. C. and Baltimore

Action to Start in May and End in October; Houghton Sees Big Year for Prince Georges

By WALTER McCALLUM.

The Maryland State Golf Association and the Middle Atlantic Professional Colfers' Association, two of the influential links organizations in this territory, will collaborate this year in staging amateur-pro tourneys. The agreement between the two organizations, announced today by Wiffy Cox, prexy of the sectional pro body, will affect 10 amateur-pro events, 5 each in Washington and Baltimore, to start in May and winds un in October.

Cox and Dr. R. A. Keilty, tourna- star and president of the Middle ment chairman for the Maryland Atlantic Golf Association, has State association, agreed on the plan for combining the amateur-pro affairs of the two associations in order to conserve tires and eliminate much travel. In previous years the Middle Atlantic P. G. A. has staged amateur-pro affairs on Mondays-the pro's day off-while the Maryland State association has staged most of its amateur-pro and sweepstakes events on Wednesdays, a day which is inconvenient for many of the pros, some of whom will have played in a tourney two days before.

The proposal has been in the wind for a month and a half, with the pro and amateur golfers worboth associations willing to work out a compromise plan to save travel. Details of the prize awards remain to be worked out, but it is certain that the bulk of the prizes will be in defense savings. In this latter them—the tournament winners-it may mean considerable reduction in ready cash. Pace-Setting Rovers In Final Regular Contest Here

May Visit Eagles Later During Loop Playoff; Lions Now Serene

The high-flying New York Rovers, currently occupying the top rung in Eastern Amateur Hockey League, come to Riverside Stadium ice tonight for their final scheduled local appearance of the year. However, they may show here in the league playoff slated to get under way March 10. The game tonight against the Eagles will start at 8:30. Six times victors over the Eagles. as against two defeats by the home boys, the Rovers have been sparked to their top spot on the league ladder by Freddie Metcalfe, veteran Canadian coach. He won't be around to see his club in the stretch run of the league championship, for now he is in military service. Rovers Pick on Eagles. All season the Rovers, have been in the hair of the Eagles, piling humiliation on the 1941 champions. On January 27 the lads from Gotham plastered the Eagles with an 11-to-3 trouncing, and last Sunday before the season's biggest crowd in New York they rubbed salt in the open wound with a 6-to-3 pasting. So the Eagles will be out for revenge tonight, with one of them particularly seeking a win. That man is Eagle Goalie Craig McClelland, a gent who has taken a lot of kicking around this year. The item that sticks in McClelland's craw is the booing he got while dodging an assorted bunch of flying Lions Again Harmonious. Meanwhile at Uline's Arena, lair of the Washington Lions, all is sweetness and light, for the Lions have started clicking. Currently resting in third place in the Eastern division of the American Hockey League they can be booted rudely out of their one-point lead over the Providence Reds, who meet Indianapolis tonight, but the Lions will have a chance to retrieve past mistakes against New Haven Thursday at Uline's. The Lions, under a new managerial setup, have won three of their last four games to tie their best previous season winning streak.

Master Boxer, Floored In First Round, Takes Command After Third

There was a time when the press would work itself into a fine lather over a decision such as Oscar Wright was handed over Carl Guggino in their 10-round bout last night at Turner's Arena, but no more. Other and more important things evidently have made boxing's sour decisions of little consequence, so let the nod go to Wright, although Guggino won.

Guggino, a master boxer, was floored for no count in the first round with a hard chop to the forehead. He had to ward off Wright's bull-like rushes in the second and third rounds, but after New Faces Enact Old that he was in complete command of the situation. He made the short-armed Wright look foolish at Mat Stuff, Sharkey times, laid on him in the clinches

The bill called for $300,000,000. A Senate bill, introduced by Senator Maybank of South Carolina and referred to the Senate Military Affairs Committee, would extend the benefits of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940 to all persons who are registered under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended, and are classified thereunder after physical examination as being available and fit for general military service.

The Federal savings and loan bill, of special interest to all building and loan associations, still awaits committee hearings. Bankers consider this bill of deep concern to Investment Dealers To Meet. First war-time gathering of representatives of the investment securities business will be held in Chicago, March 5 and 6, and the climax of the program will be a forum on "Financing Victory and the Part That the Investment Securities Business Can Play in the Job." Announcement of the program was made today by John S. Loomis of Chicago, chairman of the Central States group of the Investment Bankers' Association.

Among Washington officials expected for the meeting are George Buffington, Assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury; Eugene W. Sloan, executive director, and R. W. Sparks, field director of the Defense savings staff.

B. Gordon, president of the Wright Aeronautical Corp., signed yesterday an agreement with representatives 35% of the Brazilian government completing arrangements for the manufacture in Brazil of aircraft enranging from 250 to 450 horsepower.

> Col. Antonio Guedes Muniz spokesman for the Brazilian group. signed the agreement. He said that this action would step up Brazilian plane production considerably because up to now, no aircraft engines had been manufactured in South America.

Guedes, accompanied by Carolis Martins, Brazilian Ambassador to the United States, said a modern factory already had been started about 20 miles outside of Rio de Janeiro and that production was expected to get under way about Steadiness Displayed August. The Brazilian government is building the plant. The Brazilian government has had an instructor from one of its vocational schools studying methods at the Wright plant for the in the stock market today and past four months. Guedes said this some of the improvement in tone arrangement would permit the in- was attributed to President Roosestructor to return to Brazil and velt's Monday night broadcast. turn out trained men this summer.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Feb. 24. - Prices of grain futures turned mildly reactionary after a higher start today. Weakness in the corn pits soon spread to other commodities and in most instances early gains were wiped out entirely and in some cases were replaced by fractional losses. The trading pace was slow and many interests preferred to await the outcome of the farm bloc bill, aimed to force the Government to purchase agricultural commodities in the open market.

Second Highest Total On Record Based on 96.3 Per Cent Rate

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Steel operations this week will be at the rate of 96.3 per cent of capacity, equivalent to 1,635,800 tons of steel, the American Iron & Steel Institute estimated yesterday.

The tonnage and operations, both the second highest in the history of the industry, compare with 96.2 per cent of capacity and 1,634,100 tons produced last week. A month ago operations were at the rate of 94.6 per cent with output at 1,607,600 tons and a year ago the rate was 96.3 per cent and production 1,554,200 tons based on capacity of mills at that time.

Special Reference Ended.

The War Production Board yesterday recommended the suspension of special contract preference given four small manufacturing communities and the entire washing machine industry, because of marked improvement in the "priorities unemployment" which had caused hardship in the areas.

The industry and the four com munities-Meadville, Pa.; Mansfield, Ohio; Eatonton, Ga., and the Newton-Kellogg area, Iowa-had been titled to a 15 per cent premium or defense contracts to enable them t get orders.

Auction Sale Blocked.

The Production Board also or dered a halt to the planned auctio sale of machinery, tools and equip ment of the idle Foos Gass Engin Co. of Springfield, Ohio, in order t prevent the scattering of "valuable machinery adapted to war produc-

The order will permit W. P. B. to investigate the plant and equipmen to determine whether they can b used, intact, for war production If this is not possible, W. P. B. wil allocate the machines to those "mos urgently in need of it" to fill wa orders.

The order was sent by J. S. Know son, director of W. P. B.'s division of industry operation to the auc tioneers, Samuel L. Winternitz Co of Chicago, and to others having an interest in the property. The plant was in operation until a recent death in the Foos family left it without management and reports indicated it is in good operating condition, the W. P. B. said.

U. S. Urged to Release Metal for Synthetic Rubber Plants

WICHITA, Kans., Feb. 24.-Warren C. Platt of Cleveland, editor of the National Petroleum News. said yesterday the oil and rubber industries would be able to supply the Nation with 400,000 tons of synthetic rubber by the end of 1943

if the Government acts quickly in releasing metal for building plants. "This meets only half of the said, production in 1942 of $500,-Nation's requirements," he told the 000,000. In 1943 production should Kansas Oilmen's Association. "We increase to more than $1,000,000,000, hope eventually to put synthetic the new president said. rubber on a competitive basis with Platt said service stations face a decline in gallonage because of the restrictions on rubber and on new automobiles.

"But remember this decline is from the biggest years in our history," he added. "It means that coming months.

The association issued the suggestion in connection with the recent statement by Donald M. Nelson, chief of the War Production Board, and Jesse H. Jones, Secretary of Commerce, that there will be no rubber to spare for civilian use. If the estimated remaining life in the family car's tires is about 10,000 miles, the association said, then their use would have to be limited to about 2,000 miles yearly, which would mean only 166 miles Washington Produce a month or about 40 miles a weekif the family wanted to keep the car operating a few more years.

Chlorinated Stocks Frozen. The Government yesterday froze all stocks of chlorinated rubber in this country, except those going into certain military and essential civilian uses, preparatory to requisitioning by the War Production Board. The action by J. S. Knowlson. W. P. B. director of industry operations, provides that chlorinated rubber be used only for flameproofing military fabrics such as tents, for tracer bullets, for electrical insulation, for adhering rubber articles to metal, for painting ship bottoms and as a protective covering in arsenals and industrial plants where resistance to chemical corrosion is necessary. Prohibited by the order were such civilian uses as painting swimming pools, concrete and masonry; greaseproofing fabrics, papers and printing inks, and the manufacture of bottle caps and fast-drying

NEW YORK, Feb. 24 (P)—The Rubber Manufacturers' Association urged the American motoring public not to drive a mile that is unessential and, on the assumption there will be no new tires until after the war, budget the estimated life of its tires this way:

Each family to analyze its car's use for a typical month, itemizing all regular and special trips taken and the mileage consumed and then compare this with the estimated miles of use remaining in the tires which should mean a drastic reduction in use of the car during the coming months.

March Oil Demand Expected to Top 1941

Increase in Gasoline Supplies Indicated By Institute Data

The total demand for motor fuel in the United States during March today at 55,600,000 barrels, a 10 per cent increase over the actual demand for March, 1941. Statistics of the American Petroleum Institute, the bureau said, indicated that gasoline inventories increased about 5,700,000 barrels during January, which would bring them to approximately 99,800,000 barrels as of January 31, or more than 9,000,000 barrels over the gasoline on hand a year ago. Stocks of finished and unfinished gasoline amounted to 94,098,000 bar-

"The total demand for all oils in December, 1941, showed a gain of annual report that it had used all almost 17 per cent over December, of its surplus profits for 1941, some 1940, and partial data available for January, 1941, indicated an estimated gain of about 14 per cent over January, 1941. These figures indicate a rate of total demand considerably higher than was anti-

"The sharp drop in the demand for crude pertoleum in January, was not due to a decline in the total demand for all oils but to a reduction in refinery runs, with the ond time this type of selling has rise in crude stocks being offset by an unusually large seasonal reduction in refined stocks, particularly of fuel oils.

Demand Uncertain.

"This situation may be attributed to the disturbance of regional movements in the east coast and West Coast districts, to uncertainty as to the future trend of gasoline demand due to tire rationing and refinery operations reflected in a reduction of total runs with ab- est 5. normal seasonable yields of gasoline and low seasonal yields of distillate and residual fuel oils. "While the demand for all oils may be reduced materially if rationing becomes necessary on the east coast the current rate of crude runs seems lower than is warranted by the trends of total demand and further large decreases in national stocks of refined products seem undesirable. "During 1942 increasing war and export requirements will at least balance any curtailment in civilian consumption of all oils."

Daily Output Larger.

Four Latin American Diplomats Honored at G. W. U. Convocation

Dr. Marvin Tells 387 Graduates World Is Entering New Era

Democracy will prevail because it contains more spiritual values "than any other form of political organization," Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, last night told 382 graduates who were awarded degrees at the G. W. U. winter convocation held in Constitution Memorial Hall. At the same time, the honorary doctor of laws degree was conferred on four Latin American diplomats accredited to the United States.

President Marvin said a new era now dawning "will break down false material values and recognize man as the bearer of absolute truth," adding that "the manifestation of such faith will transform social contracts of today into more godly family relationships tomorrow."

Sustained applause from a large audience greeted the conferring of honorary doctorates upon Dr. Francisco Castillo Najera, Ambassador of Mexico; Capt. Colon Eloy Alfara, Ambassador of Ecuador; Dr. Adrian Recinos, Minister of Guatemala, and Dr. Hector David Castro, Minister of El Salvador. The university appropriately dedicated the convocation to "Inter-American Understanding.

Rose Bampton Sings. Miss Rose Bampton, noted Metropolitan soprano, who sang eight numbers, with Brooks Smith as accompanist, received an ovation to which she responded with two en-cores. The beautiful and gifted opera star sang arias from Mozart, Mascagni and Verdi, followed by selections from Beach, Hageman, Sacco and Warren.

Constitution Hall was comfortably filled with friends of the university, relatives and friends of the graduates, and the public. It was a colorful scene which greeted Miss Bampton as she came on the platform. The graduating classes were attired in the traditional black cap and gown, with splashes of red, green, light gold and purple lending vivid color to the somber academic habiliments. Deans of the university, members of the Board of Trustees and faculty members, wearing the insignia of many academic honors, in their persons offered a contrast of middle age and old age gathered to honor a younger generation to whom they passed the scholastic torch. Against this colorful background, Miss Bampton sang as one inspired.

The convocation was preceded by a half-hour of orchestral music, directed by Harry A. Allen.

An unusual feature of the graduation excercises was the presence among the graduating medical students of Frasisco Castillo Najera, son of the Mexican Ambassador, and Alex Castro, son of the Minister El Salvador.

Citations of Honorary Degrees. The honorary degrees were con-ferred by President Marvin with the following citations:

of Durango; recognized master in medicine, versatile man of letters, discriminating diplomat who, by reason of character and resourcefulness, has caused his name to be associated with those who believe in the dignity of government and the worthiness of life."

Ambassador Alfara - "Distinguished son of an eminent patriot father, graduate of West Point, thoughtful student of political and military institutions, competent counsellor to his government, servant of fine courage."

Minister Recinos-"Worthy friend, leader in legal education, discriminating contributor to the fields of international comity and fellowship; by his deep and true understanding gifted to interpret both the people he represents and this Nation to which he is accredited."

Minister Castro-"Illustrious citizen of El Salvador, acknowledged leader and worthy civil servant, patient and steadfast to preserve high standards in understanding among states, one in whom the end of life is high service."

. Sees Birth of New Era. President Marvin in his convocation address said:

"Faith in the spirit shall make you free. The material and sensate interpretation of the past four centuries is being outgrown. Man's mind is bursting through old forms of thinking. A far greater crisis is upon us than that of war. You and I are priviledged to be present at the birth of a new era.

"This era that is dawning will break down false material values and recognize man as the bearer of absolute value. Because of this, man is sacred. Our faith in things to come starts from this premise The manifestation of such faith will transform social contracts of today into more Godly family relationships tomorrow. "These things will be possible only if this war which we now wage is used to purify nations and ennoble the hearts of men. To this end consecrate your lives. Democracy will prevail, not because it is without flaw, but because it contains more spiritual values than any other form of political government. Democracy's holdings are noble. You are of God. The man next to you is of God. If you work in this faith, you will have your part in the creative and radiant days of a magnificent tomorrow." Leader in "War Courses." It was pointed out that George Washington University was one of the first schools in the Nation to lend concrete aid to the war program, with its great demand for doctors, by reducing the instruction period for medical students from four to three years. In addition some 1,800 engineering students at George Washington are taking defense work courses, President Mar-

SUPPOSING WE ALL LAID UP OUR CARS FOR THE DURATION OF THE WAR

as a mosting court procedure it will facility e to Six Killed in Auto 8433-35 Georgia Ave.

TUPPOSE, because of the war, all 29,000,000 private automobiles vanished from the road tomorrow? How would the nation get to work to do the job that must be done to win the war? How would defense workers reach their plants on time, eight, ten, twenty miles away? Who would take the children to school and carry home the family food?

Without cars there would be immediate demand for more buses, more trains, more delivery trucks. Stores that feed and clothe America would be forced to deliver their products-at increased prices. To provide transportation for the nation would mean that steel, rubber, power-desperately needed for planes and tanks and ships-must be diverted to civil use.

You have been wanting to do something more for America. And, this is one important patriotic thing you can do: Keep your car running for the duration of the war. One of the nation's greatest resources is the rubber now on our cars-already fabricated and ready for service. Let's budget the precious miles in these tires.

If every car owner would contract with himself to cut in half the weekly driving of himself and family, he would double the essential transportation service now available in America's family cars. That patriotic effort would represent a saving of new rubber practically equal to the entire present American rubber stock pile. The budgeting of the remaining mileage in your tires may easily provide a greater extension of tire service.

Today, drive to a responsible tire dealer. Find out the mileage left in your tires. Then, budget these miles to last just as long as possible for necessary driving.

Patriotism does not demand that you lay up your car. Just the opposite. Real conservation requires you to keep your car in service for the duration of the war. Don't think of it as a "pleasure car". It's a war car now.

Bolling Soldier Admits Killing Taxi Driver

Theft of Service Revolver Leads To Arrest

Discovery of a stolen service revolver in the barracks bag of a 20year-old enlisted man at Bolling Field led yesterday to the arrest of the soldier only a few hours after the slaying of a cab driver at Eleventh and East Capitol streets. Police said the soldier, John Rath-bun, who has been in the Army a bun, who has been in the Army a year and once spent more than two G. W. Head to Speak years in a Georgia prison camp, had soldier was in the custody of the police at 4:30 p.m.

Discovery of the service revolver in Rathbun's barracks bag was the one lucky break the police got. The rest was hard work. Immediately after the shooting, all detectives started cruising in scout cars, aided by eyewitness descriptions of the slayer. Some detectives cruised nearby counties looking for hitchhikers in uniform.

Gun Missing From Rack. Making a check of nearby camps, detectives went to Bolling Field. From a gun rack in one of the barracks one revolver was missing. After a further check the gun turned up in Rathbun's barracks bag. Rathbun, the records showed, was out on a pass good from 6 a.m. yesterday until 8 a.m. today.

Meanwhile detectives tracked down a cab driver who said he had picked up a soldier answering the same description as the one wanted by police and taken him to Bolling Field. Witnesses had seen a soldier jump into a cab and a lookout had gone out for that cab driver. Accompanied by Michael Joel of

New York, whose car had been commandeered by the soldier immediately after the shooting, Detective Lt. Clyde N. Strange and Detective Sergt. E. E. Scott headed for Bolling Field. Near the entrance, they spotted two soldiers, one of whom Mr. Joel said looked like the man they wanted. Mr. Joel could not positively identify the suspect, but Sergt. Scott took his name anyhow were informed by Capt. Robert Bar- which now totals about $225,000. rett, assistant chief of detectives, that the missing revolver had been found. The name of the man in whose bag it had been found was the same as the man who had been questioned a few minutes earlier.

Soldier Signs Confession. About 40 soldiers set out with the detectives to scour the city, while several Army officials rode with Capt. Barrett. At Ninth and E streets N.W., Rathbun was found standing with his soldier friend on the street corner. The soldier was brought to police headquarters where, police said, he signed a con-

According to police accounts of Phone Company Boosts Rathbun's statement the soldier was lying on the cot in his tent Sunday night when he noticed a revolver which a guard had hung up inside the tent. The pistol, he recalled, was similar to one with which a deputy warden had beat him when the youth, convicted on a housebreaking charge, was serving time with a Georgia chain gang.

His head filled with thoughts of revenge and he snatched the pistol with a vague idea of going after the deputy warden. He applied for a pass and early in the morning left the field with some fellow soldiers who gave him a lift to the Capitol.

There he hailed a cab-Mr. Steele's and directed the driver to take him back to Bolling Field. He didn't explain why he had given that order. On Eleventh street, he countermanded the order and wanted to go back to town again.

Started Twirling Gun. When he had left the camp, he carried the gun in an overcoat pocket and sitting in the cab, he took it out and started twirling it. He contends he didn't do or say anything to the cab driver-just sat there fingering the gun. He noticed the cab driver watching him from the front mirror. After he countermanded the order, the driver, apparently could stand the strain no longer and jumped from the cab, shouting, according to eyewitnesses, "Catch that guy.

The soldier leveled his gun and fired twice. One of the bullets pierced Mr. Steele's back and came out through his left lung. Mr. Steele was pronounced dead on arrival at Casualty Hospital.

Meanwhile, the soldier jumped on the running-board of Mr. Joel's Trail Club to Clear and shouted, "Get going, drive faster. In case you want to know, I just killed a * * * back there." When the soldier left the car, and notified police.

Steele, who is the father of two the trip are advised to bring flashboys, will be held tomorrow at light, heavy work gloves and a

District Court Merger Bill Before Senate

Committee Report Favors Measure To Speed Up Cases

The bill to reorganize the lower courts of the Distrcit to promote efficiency and relieve the burden on the higher tribunals is before the Senate today, awaiting early action, following a favorable report from the District committee late yester-

Passed by the House last year the measure consolidates the Police and Municipal Courts, to hear criminal cases and civil suits up to $3,000, with a new appellate branch to hear anneals in these cases The combined Police-Municipal Court would have 10 instead of 9 judges, the added number to be a presiding jurist with power to supervise the work of the others and generally bringing efficiency into the handling of the court's work, the Senate Committee reported. The judges would continue to receive $8,000 each, with $500 additional for the presiding judge.

Three Appeal Justices. The new Municipal Court of Apeals would consist of a chief judge at $9,500 and two associate judges at $9,000 each. Since the bill passed the House a the Senate Committee, with local judges and lawyers, as well as representatives of the Department of Chief changes made in Senate committee were to extend the length of the terms of the judges from 6 to 10 years, stagger the appointments so that all terms would not expire at one time, enable the court to appoint its clerk, who would select his deputies, subject to approval of the court and broaden civil jurisdiction to deal with cases involving up to $3,000 instead of $2,000.

Although only four new places are being created, there may be as many as seven new appointments made following passage of the bill, due to one vacancy caused by death and the fact that the terms of two present judges have expired. McCarran Statement.

After the committee had reported the bill, Chairman McCarran said: "The passage of this bill and its final enactment will fill a longneeded want in the District of Co-The association approved an ap- lumbia in the matter of court readjustment and will be a boon to those Arlington. who find it necessary to resort to court procedure. A requirement has been written into the bill that the judges must be District residents, who maintain a place of abode here and who have practiced law here for five years preceding appointment.

Pointing out that the United States District Court and the United States Court of Appeals must handle many Federal cases growing out of the presence here of the seat of Government, the committee said the burden of these courts would be relieved by authorizing the new tribunals to hear civil cases up to $3,000. Navy's Quota for Youth of District Is 2,500; Awards to Be Given Workshops of public senior and inspection committees set up in the junior high schools and vocational local schools, the Navy said, and the schools are expected to receive with- number of approved model sets in in the next few days the plans from the quota will be accepted by the which District schoolboys will build Navy. No models are to be sent their quota of 2,500 model airplanes directly to the Navy Department or for the Navy.

The plans and specifications, prepared by the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Navy Department and distributed nationally through the Federal Office of Education, arrived at Franklin School headquarters this morning, Dr. Chester W. Holmes, assistant superintendent of schools and state director of the model aircraft project here, announced.

Schools all over the country have been asked to turn out 10,000 models each of 50 different types of fighting aircraft or a total of 500,000, to be used in training of student pilots ranks of the Navy-lieutenant junior and also civilian aircraft spotters. Plans to Be Studied.

Dr. Holmes said that after going over the specifications and instruc- quires 10 models of five nations, it owens, Howard A. Maher. Jack tions he plans to turn them over to Assistant Supt. Lawson J. Evidence Justifying New Trial Claimed By Eklund Counsel

The Court of Appeals today announced that it was remanding to District Court the case of the convicted murderer, John Eugene Eklund, termed by police "The Sniper," at the request of the defense because of newly discovered evidence.

Attorney Harry T. Whelan, on be-half of Ecklund, said today that he will file in District Court a motion for a new trial within the next few Eklund's execution date now is scheduled for March 20, following his conviction for the slaying of Hylan G. McClaine, colored, on October 15, 1940, at the Rock Creek and Potomac Parkway, near K street N.W.

Eklund was convicted last June, but a waiter, Herbert Ray, who testified as one of the Government's important witnesses in the trial, recently pleaded guilty in District Court to housebreaking and larceny and was sentenced to from 4 to 12

The defense asserts that Ray had a previous police record and further contends that at the Eklund trial Ray testified that he himself had never been arrested and that upon this allegedly perjured testimony, Eklund, the 26-year-old former college student and ex-employe of a drive-in restaurant was sentenced to the electric chair.

The Court of Appeals had under consideration an appeal in Eklund's case when the defense petitioned it to remand the case to the lower were to be inducted at Camp Lee, court. Attorney Whelan says that Ray's situation was brought to his notice by the Government, through Assistant United States Attorneys John W. Fihelly and Charles B. 14th Street Cars Halted An Hour in Morning Rush

Street car service on Fourteenth street N.W., both north and southbound, was halted for one hour this morning during the traffic peak when a conductor bar dropped near Florida avenue. All cars transporting Bureau of Engraving, Navy Yard and other Government employes and the public to their places of work, were stopped.

To meet the emergency, officials of the Capital Transit Co. pressed 24 buses into service. Street car company officials estimated 49 southbound and half as many northbound street cars were tied up.

The conductor bar, corresponding to an overhead trolley, furnishes current for car operation. The bar fell after burning out. Repair crews were rushed to the scene. The tieup started at 7:10 o'clock and service was not resumed until 8:13, company officials said. Numerous stranded passengers thumbed rides downtown.

O'Conor Moves To Organize Big

Sportsmen's Groups To Form Basis of New Defense Unit

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 24. - An inquiry, designed to speed the organization of a sizable State militia was ordered today by Gov. O'Conor. He asked military officials to list members of rifle clubs, aviator groups, game warden associations. skeet shooters and other sportsmen clubs and to make an inventory of the available firearms held by either vernmental or private interests. Gov. O'Conor said that the Axis shelling of the California coast last night "emphasizes the need for a reserve militia in Maryland." He asserted no compulsory registration of manpower or firearm inventories will be sought

The Federal Government eventually will be asked to assign weapons and ammunition not expected to be used by the Regular Army, Gov O'Conor disclosed.

Use Own Arms First.

"However," he added, "I intend first to seek the use of firearms now owned within this State. After reporting to the War Department as to what is available in Maryland, a request will be made for the balance of the needed equipment."

Gov. O'Conor announced members of sportsmen groups and others experienced in the handling of firearms are expected to be the first to be given intensive training by military officers. "Those found to be most proficient will be selected to give instructions to units in various parts of the State," he added. The Governor said his authority for the formation of a reserve militia is derived from two sections of the State militia law. At present, Gov. O'Conor declared, all plans for the militia contemplate

Fenwick Offers Rent Fixing Bill For Virginia

2d Measure Would Convert Arlington Railway to Road

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 24.-A bill which would authorize the Governor to create rent-control areas in the State and appoint commissioners to fix rent ceilings was introduced in the General Assembly yesterday by Delegate Charles R. Fenwick of Arlington.

introduced another measure which would empower the Highway Commission to acquire the abandoned right of way of the Arlington-Fairfax Railway in Arlington County for highway purposes. In submitting his rent-control bill,

At the same time, Mr. Fenwick

Mr. Fenwick said that it would clear up any doubt as to the Governor's authority and also would give the executive power to act in all State

At present, he said, exclusive rent control rests with Federal Price Administrator Leon Henderson unless the State intervenes within 60 days after a federally-proclaimed rentcontrol area is established.

Would Study Agencies Mr. Fenwick also joined with Delegate Stuart B. Campbell in offering a resolution calling for establishment of a seven-member commission to study powers of administrative agencies and to determine whether the fundamental rights of citizens are adequately protected under present law.

The commission, with $1,500 for expenses, would be instructed to report back at the next regular session of the General Assembly. Introduction of the resolution was in line with a recommendation of the House Courts of Justice Committee, which a few days ago killed five bills backed by the Young Demopowers of agencies to issue rules

Call Public Unprotected The two Delegates contend that the present act does not protect the public adequately against unwarranted price increases. A bill introduced by the same pair earlier in the session to abolish the commissiion was killed in committee. After a three-hour debate, the lower branch of the Assembly passed by a vote of 80 to 10 the Fenwick bill revising present methods of fixing license fees for trucks. The long and at times acrimonious debate on this bill ended with the whistles to supplement the electric bill was forwarded to the Senate.

rejection by voice vote of all amendments opposed by Mr. Fenwick. The As passed, the Fenwick hill would substitute a gross weight basis in licensing trucks for the present system of basing the fees on the manufacturer's rated capacity eliminate the 50 per cent surcharge on licenses by for-hire and contract paid carriers, bring these carriers under the 2 per cent gross receipts tax now paid by common carriers, with the first $3,500 of gross receipts for any calendar year exempted, and require all out-of-State trucks operating in Virginia to register with the State Corporation Commission and obtain identification tags from the commission at a charge of not more than $1. Range of License Fees. The license fees for trucks would range from a minimum of 12 cents a hundredweight, and a minimum of $12 for the lightest vehicles, to 50 cents a hundredweight for those with a gross weight in excess of 30,000 pounds. The bill also would create an advisory board to the Governor on matters of reciprocity and authorize him to enter into reciprocal agreements with other States on problems relating to motor vehicle taxation and operation. The advisary board would be composed of the executive in charge of motor vehicle licensing. the State highway commissioner and a representative of the State Corporation Commission. Still another portion of the 33page bill would empower the State highway commissioner to authorize 40,000-pound load limits on highways which he deemed capable of carrying such weights, and also authorizing him to permit even greater loads to move over Virginia roads if raising of interstate limits makes that advisable. The present load limit is 35,000 pounds Mr. Fenwick said the bill recognized existing "inequalities" which favored the heavy tractor-trailer combinations, and told the House that his bill would save every private owner of a one-ton truck at least $3 in license fees. The bill, he said, also would benefit farmers who wanted to do part-time hauling under contract.

Anniversary of Red Army Celebrated at Reception At Soviet Embassy

Polish Envoy and Mme. Ciechanowska Entertain at Pleasant Dinner for Count Edward Raczynski

The 24th anniversary of the founding of the Red Army was celebrated yesterday afternoon at the Soviet Embassy.

The invitations were issued by Col. and Mrs. Ilia Sarayev and Capt. and Mrs. Ivan Yegorichev. The colonel is acting Military Attache and the captain is Naval Attache of the Embassy. The receiving line with Col. Sarayev at the head stood in the great square hall at the top of the stairs, just outside the drawing room door and facing the great painting of the Red Army in its most decisive battle. Standing beside Col. Sarayev was his smiling and attractive blond wife, who wore a bright coral color chiffon frock with a jacket embroidered about the shoulders and the top of the sleeves in silver. Next to Mrs. Sarayev was charming Mrs. Yegorichev, in midnight blue velvet with a floor-length skirt and tight-fitting bodice. Both hostesses were shoulder bouquets of gardenias and the hosts were in the uniforms of their branches of the military service.

The Secretary of Labor, Miss Frances Perkins, will give a dinner party Thursday evening for a number of her friends. The gathering will be at the Sulgrave Club.

The club has become more and more popular in the last year as a luncheon spot, noted for good food and service. The Minister of South Africa and Mrs. Close were in one large luncheon party, held upstairs yesterday, and in the downstairs dining room Sven Dahlman, First Secretary of the Swedish Legation, was lunching. The Mexican Patio is often a popular rendezvous, and noted there at the cocktail hour recently was petite Marilynn Himes in a party of four-all vigorously discussing the best strategy England's Navy should follow to win the war.

For the first time since Mr. Justice James F. Byrnes and Mr. Justice Robert H. Jackson joined the Supreme Court circle the entire nine members and their wives gathered the other night at a dinner. The Byrnes home was the scene of the party, which was in honor of the Chief Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone. As at most parties given by the Byrneses, who are noted for their gracious Southern hospitality, informality was the rule for the evening.

Senator and Mrs. Burnet R. Maybank have been paying a short visit to their home in Charleston, S. C., but will return to the Capital this week. The first few days of their visit were spent in the Governor's Mansion at Columbia as the guests of Gov. Harley. It was "old home week" for the Maybanks, who moved out of the official mansion to come to Washington on the election of the former Governor to his seat in the Senate.

Yesterday was a big day at Smith College, where rally day, an annual George Washington's Birthday anniversary celebration, was held. Edith Huntington, popular daughter of the William Chapin Huntingtons, was in the sophomore show, in the singing and dancing chorus, and Barbara Beale was head of the Dance Committee for that show. Both girls are graduates of the Madeira School.

The day began with an assembly in the morning, basket ball tournaments between the junior and senior teams and a ski meet in the afternoon. In the evening the show presented by the three upper classes climaxed the day's activities. Each class gives an original sketch. rect Use of the Flag Committee, Mrs. Fletcher's brother-in-law and Giovanna Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Stewart and a

Still another "weapon" perfected by Westinghouse engineers before military secrecy was imposed on such developments is the invisible light photoflash lamp, which makes possible taking pictures at night without any revealing flash. These lamps have specially treated glass bulbs which are opaque to ordinary light but permit unseen infra-red rays to pass. These are used with specially prepared films sensitive only to infra-red.

Various weapons require materials of extreme purity-far beyond the demands for civilian use. Lives may depend on absolute absence of any sort of impurity.

Take, for example, the problem of rusting. It may be essential to catch it at the start, before the metal gets into any war implement. Rusting is essentially a combination of oxygen atoms with iron atoms. The Westinghouse engineers have devised a delicate weighing machine which will detect the weight added by a single layer of oxygen atoms on a metal specimen of the same area and thickness as a postage stamp. The weight is approximately .00000003 of an ounce.

Oxygen Weighed.

Monument Visitors Hit 964,693 Total During Past Year

Improvements and War Protection Also Revealed at Meeting

Many improvements to the facil-Ities of the Washington Monument, a great increase in the number of visitors, and measures inaugurated to protect the structure during wartime made the past year one of the "notable" ones in the history of this historic shaft.

This was disclosed at the annual meeting of the Washington National Monument Society yesterday at the Metropolitan Club, over which Frederic A. Delano, first vice president, Corcoran Thom, president of the American Security & Trust Co. was elected to fill the vacancy in membership of the sociaty caused by resignation of Dr. Herbert Putnam, for many years the head of the Congressional Library, and still its librarian emeritus.

Services Improved. Progress made at the Monument itself was the principal subject of consideration of the meeting. This was presented in a report by Irving Root, superintendent of National Capital Parks of the National Park Service, which has charge of the ciety felt that a visit to the Monu-

Staircase Closed. As a wartime precaution against friendly feeling between the public sabotage, it was explained the staircase has been closed to visitors for duration of the emergency. Floodlights on the exterior of the Monument have been discontinued at the request of defense authorities, and the entire Monument staff has been trained in methods of first aid. Installation of heating facilities

was completed under contract ex

Monument. Although the heating perform. equipment is restricted to the area below the 100-foot level, where the waiting room, guardroom and lower levels of the structure are heated, the temperature of the upper parts is tempered to a considerable degree. A contract for installation of nonskid surfacing for the steps and landings in the Monument, and repair and replacement of worn parts of the staircase, has been completed. This was the first major repair and improvement project for this part of the structure since its dedication. Corrugations on the metal steps and landings had been worn smooth through long use, and the application of plastic non-skid materials was said to be a contribution toward the safety of persons using them. Replacement of badly worn or eroded sections has restored the strength of the staircase to its original efficiency. A vacuum cleaning system with outlets at each landing has been installed. The entrance way, waiting room, guard room, 500foot landing and elevator cab have been repainted in a light gray tone, giving the interiors a "brighter and more cheerful appearance," according to the report. Display Cases Installed. Eleven small display cases have been installed on the walls of the waiting room, and plans are being formulated for arrangement of exhibits to be shown there, devoted to outstanding episodes in the life of Washington ,and progress in the Monument itself.

Danger Stimulates Morale, Mergenthaler Hall Opens Sir Gerald Campbell Says

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24.-Complete realism is necessary to maintain the morale of adults in this war, Sir Gerald Campbell, director general of British Information Services in America, said in a mes-

Actual danger, he added, is a good stimulant to morale. In Britain, Sir Gerald said, there have been "few pep talks, no flagwaggling; patriotic slogans have generally been a failure. Largely the good morale of Britain was already there. Lt. Comdr. Paul Smith, Navy press relations officer, addressing the American Association of School Administrators, said schools could help greatly toward winning the war by emphasizing courses such as mathephysical education.

Last Burlesque House In New York Is Closed

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Burlesque quietly bowed out of Manhattan last night with the closing of Broadway's Gaiety Theater. Paul Moss, commissioner of licenses, who forced the Republic and Eltinge theaters to shut down February 1 by refusing to renew their permits, used the same procedure in stopping the Gaiety shows. Mayor La Guardia said recently that he would "not permit the moral standard of our city to be lowered, either by dirty shows or salacious and filthy periodicals of commercialized vice."

Morris Ernst, counsel for the Gaiety operators, charged Mr. Moss acted as a "one-man censor" and said he would ask a court writ compelling the city to issue new licenses

War Program 'Leaks' Bared by Biddle in Plea for Legislation

Less Drastic Measure Suggested to Meet Bitter Criticism

Attorney General Biddle testified today that there "have been serious leaks of information of almost confidential nature" about the war program and plans.

He appeared before a Senate Ju-diciary Subcommittee on a bill which would penalize the divulging of the contents of confidential Government documents. The Attorney General quickly conceded that the legislation, already criticized by some newspapers, involved "freedom of the press and the right to criticize the Government freely" and suggested that Congress might be wise in amending or modifying the original proposal.

Limitation Suggested. The original bill, drafted by the Justice Department and approved by the Budget Bureau, would prohibit use of any document or other information which had been declared "to be secret or confidential" by any Government agency. The penalty could range up to a fine of $5,000 and two years in prison. Mr. Biddle suggested that these broad powers might be limited to duration of the war and to a single central Government policy agency or to a few agencies such as the War and Navy Departments or other procurement agencies.

The Attorney General said that existing law did not prevent photostating, printing, writing or oral disclosure of the copies of secret documents and in peacetime this had hampered the prosecution of important cases by the Federal Bureau of Investigation tremely simple. It makes it a crime to divulge any confidential infor-

Mr. Biddle noted criticism that under the pending bill, the head of Government agency might seek "to evade proper criticism" by simply stamping a document or material "confidential."

O'Mahoney Offers Criticism.

Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, of Wyoming interrupted to note that under the bill a cabinet member might' decide to give certain in-formation only to "red-haired persons and make it a crime for blackhaired persons to use it."

Senator O'Mahoney referred to this as an "absurd example," but Mr. Biddle conceded it was possible, although unlikely.

"I want to present this entire problem," the Attorney General said. "There are several ways to approach it. I'm bringing this baby to your doorstep. It's been here several times before."

Mr. Biddle said there was no intent to try to stifle proper criticism or freedom of expression.

No Trace of Sabotage Found in Normandie Fire

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.-Three agencies investigating the orgin of the fire that swept the former French liner Normandie and left it a fallen hulk were agreed today that saboteurs had nothing to do with the cause or spread of the blaze.

Earlier announcements by the Third Naval District headquarters and the New York district attorney's office that their investigations proved the fire was caused by sparks from an acetylene burner igniting bales of life preservers were corroborated by the city fire officials yesterday. Fire Commissioner Patrick Walsh said Chief Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy had reached this conclusion after questioning 350 persons who were aboard the $60,000,000 vessel at the time of the fire. The Navy Department has created an inquiry board to consider the fire and both the Senate and House of Representatives have ordered separate investigations.

Single-Breasted Suits Minus Vests Conserve Materials: Military Trend Is Missing

It'll be easier going through the "better half's" pockets in the near future, ladies. A few days ago, the Merchants, Tailors and Designers' Association of America presented a man's suit that saves nearly a yard of preclous fabric through the simple method of eliminating vest, pocket flaps, pleats, coat collar and trouser cuffs! It was an extreme solution for the problem, they admitted, but not an impossible one. And to the ladies it sounds just fine. Less pockets to worry about because of the absence of the vest, and easier ones to get into, thanks to their lack of flaps. Every

Seriously, the tailors believe that no such need will arise in 1942, but they are experimenting with suits whose pleats, patch pockets, wide trousers and coat belts are conspicuous by their absence. Should there be a crying need for these "little details that aren't there," the tailors will immediately leap in and start whipping up civilian suits sans the "frills." In the meantime, however, the masculine style picture for spring is a happy one for men in mufti. Of course, priorities have taken their toll, but it's not particularly noticeable. For example, there will be some suits without vests, but since most men discard them anyway, come warm weather, the shortage won't be too drastic. Many Do Not Need Boiling Before Being Baked

By Edith M. Barber

It is not often that we reorganize our standard methods for cooking bination of gabardine and covert.

Since the former is a spring matehave brought us something new in the line of ham cookery.

The hams which were on the market a few years ago demanded boil- of the few military notes of the ing before baking. Most of those available today may be baked without boiling. During the process of Younger men, particularly the colsmoking, they have been treated in such a way that the fibers have bewhipcord or flannel. They like the

A "country" ham or an uncooked Smithfield ham will need soaking designed in a new processed fabric and boiling. The latter demands that's impervious to showers. The

Whether you bake or boil your ham, you will probably wish to glaze it for table service. After the meat is tender the skin should be removed and the upper surface spread with mustard and brown sugar before a final baking of half an hour or more. In addition to the sugar and mustard mixture fruit juice or cider may be poured around the ham and then used for basting.

Sliced canned pineapple, halved apricots or slices of orange may be attached to the surface with toothpicks before the meat is put into the oven. Whole cloves are often used to stud the ham after it has been made ready for the oven. The housekeeper always welcomes the left-over meat which she will have when she buys a whole ham. Suggestions for its use follow:

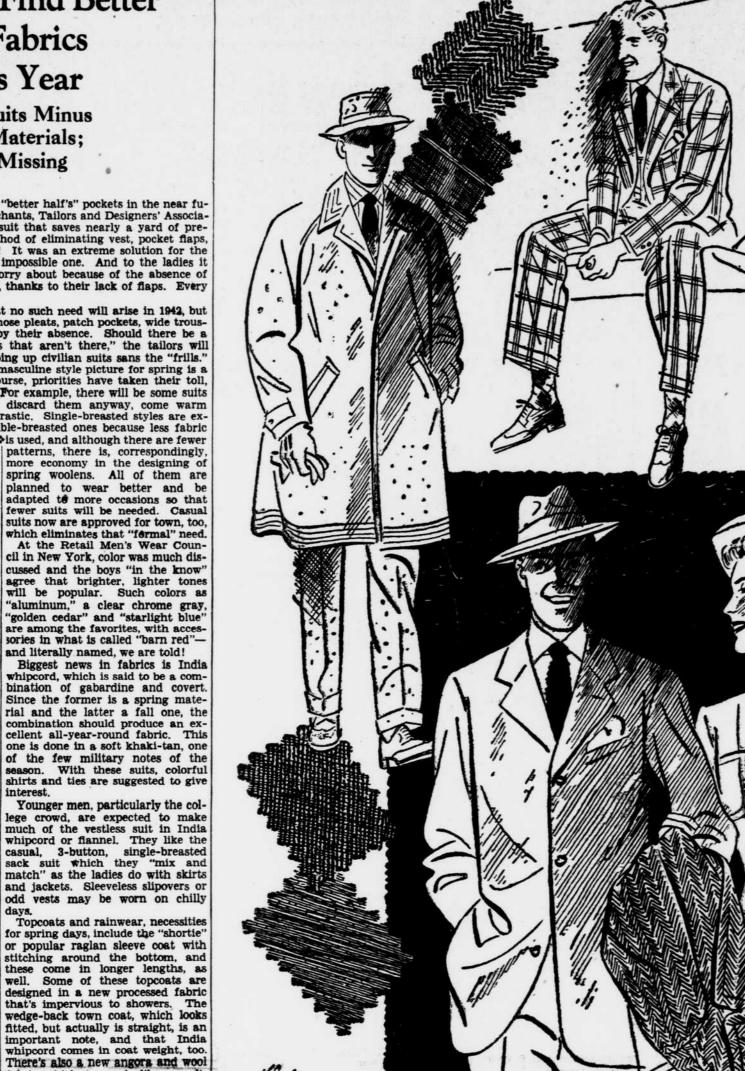

HAM AND PEPPER HASH. 2 tablespoons butter. 1 cup minced green pepper. 1/2 cup minced onion. 2 cups minced cooked ham. 3 cups diced cooked potatoes.

cup tomato juice. Melt butter, add green pepper and enion and cook until tender. Add ham, potatoes and tomato juice and mix well. Add salt to taste. Brown in pan or bake in a moderate oven, minutes. Yield, six servings.

BAKED EGGS SAVORY. 2 cups ground cooked ham.

1 cup grated American cheese. Butter.

Pepper. Combine ham and cheese, line greased large muffin pans, using two-thirds of the mixture. Break an egg carefully into each cup, sprinkle with remaining ham mixture, dot with butter and sprinkle with pepper. Bake in moderately hot oven, 400 degrees Fahrenheit, about 15 minutes, until eggs are set.

Typical of the fashions for well-dressed men on the home front are these clothes approved by the "boys who know." At upper left, the raincoat of a new fabric called India whipcord is a longer version of the popular "shortie." The suit at upper right shows a new plaid with stripes wider apart, leaving a bigger square. Below, one of the new vestless suits in gray flannel, buttoned high and worn with a black knit tie. The feminine part of the picture wears a three-button cardigan suit, too.

Or Break' A Party

Blase Crowd Spoils Plans of Hostess, Own Good Times

By Kay Caldwell and Alden Harrison

The more we see of parties, dances and other social affairs, the more we are convinced that having a good time depends fundamentally on the attitude of the guests, rather than on the occasion or the enter-

True, many a dull evening results from poor planning on the part of the hostess or the committee in charge. But quite as many parties are dismal just because the socalled merrymakers apparently are doggedly determined not to make One hostess recently wrote to us for help in lifting the pall of boredom which hangs over her gang when they gather at her house. She has a recreation room with a pingpong table, other games, a radio and a record player. She has some of our best party and game booklets, which have produced hilariously other young people. Yet her group "gets tired" dancing, and doesn't like games because they are "too intellectual." So she wonders what her friends can do to have fun. We'll admit that included among our games are a few which require a slight exercise of the brain cells, but there's nothing which couldn't be enjoyed by any ordinarily intelligent group of high school students And some of the other games, far from being intellectual, come within an inch or two of being down-

We know of one dance where gingham or broadcloth, it makes the orchestra turned out to be one of the corniest combinations of alleged musicians ever assembled. At first the dancers were appalled by the horrible sounds they produced, but after a number or two, the whole thing began to seem

Instead of sulking, complaining about the band, and demanding their money back, a few members of the crowd started to clown and kid the music. One couple, unable to dance normally to a deadfish bit of swing, gave a rendition of jitterbugging as it might be photographed in slow motion. Then when the band switched to a very fast number, several couples started doing a 1918 one-step, complete with three-foot strides and pump handle arm action.

Before the evening was over, everybody had had a lot of laughs. The orchestra, whose members were better sports than they were musi- 15 minutes. Bedtime Stories By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

To and fro she doth go
Where the sweetest flowers grow.
Works all day without play
Treasures sweet to put away,
Busy Bee. I pray teach me
Pleasure in my work to see.

Now, Peter Rabbit had known Bumble Bee and Bumble's cousin, Busy Bee, ever since he was big enough to remember anything. He was forever running across one or the other of them in the sweet clover patch, and always he was very respectful and polite, for he knew quite as much as he cared to about the sharp little lancers they carried. But though he had known them so long he really knew very little about them. He knew that Bumble was always rumbling and grumbling and making a great fuss about everything that he did, and was very proud of his handsome black and yellow suit, but he sus-pected that Bumble did a whole lot of pretending and really wasn't such a hard worker after all. He knew that Busy Bee always seemed in a hurry, didn't seem to mind in the least that she was very plainly dressed, and when she was busiest always seemed happier. Anyway, she did a great deal of humming then. And this was all that Peter knew about Bumble and Busy Bee The more Peter thought about what Bumble had said to him the more he wondered if it was true that Busy Bee was such a hard worker, and at last he made up his mind to find out. The first thing to do was to find Busy herself. Peter remembered what he had learned when he was hunting for Bumble and wasted no time looking for the brightest flowers, but went straight to the sweetest flowers, which happened to be in his sweet clover patch. There he found Busy and she seemed to be very hard at work taking something from the heart of each flower she visited.

"Good morning, Busy Bee," said Peter politely. "Morning, buz-z-z, buz-z-z! Too much to do to talk. Buz-z-z, buz-z-z, buz-z-z!" replied Busy Bee, flying to the next flower.

Peter followed. "What do you work so hard for?" "Buz-z-z, buz-z-z!" was all the reply he got as Busy Bee hurried to another flower. "I shouldn't think there would be any fun in working all the time." said Peter. "Tell me, Busy Bee, is it true that you do work all the time? "Buz-z-z, buz-z-z!" was all the reply Peter got.

Then while he was looking somewhere else for a minute she disappeared. Peter was sure that he had had his head turned only a wee little minute, but when he looked for her she was nowhere to be seen. He didn't know just what to do. To tell the ruth, he felt rather foolish. Finally he decided that as long as he was at the sweet clover patch he might as well fill his stomach, and straightway began to eat. He had almost forgotten about Busy Bee when, as he started to nibble a clover blossom, there was a sharp Buz-z-z, buz-z-z!" close to one of his long ears. Busy Bee was back again and Peter didn't eat that particular blossom. No, sir, he didn't. He left it for Busy because she seemed to want it and he knew it is

The Last Trump

It doesn't always pay to draw the last adverse trump. Very often leaving that card at large may produce a situation in which you cannot lose but may gain. Typical is today's hand, played by Clagett Bowie of Baltimore in the winter national tournament at Richmond last December: East dealer.

North-South vulnerable. ▲ 10 9 3 ♥ A J * K Q 8 7 3 ↑ A 7 6 ♡ 10 5 $\mathbf{W} + \mathbf{E}$ ♦ K 10 4 3 S A J 10 4

♦ KQJ82 ♥ 8742 0 A Q 8 6 The bidding: North 34 Dbl. Pass 34 Pass Pass Pass

West opened the nine of diamonds, dummy played the jack East covered with the king and South won with the ace. Mr. Bowie playing the South hand, next led the king of spades and East won with the spade ace. East returned a diamond, hoping, rather vainly, that his partner could ruff; but South played low and overtook with dummy's seven of diamonds.

The king of clubs was returned from dummy, East played the ace and South ruffed with an honor. Now South returned one of his two low spades to dummy's nine, drawing all but one of the outstanding trumps. Had he chosen to do so, he could have drawn the other trump and remained in the dummy. But such a play would have gained nothing.

Instead, he left the last trump out and discarded a heart on the club queen, after which dummy's five of diamonds was led for a finesse through East's marked ten-spot. Since West had no more trumps, he had to discard, and South was able to discard dummy's heart jack on the diamond queen. That enabled dummy to ruff a heart-something which could not have been done if the last trump had been drawn. Note that even if West had held the last trump and ruffed a diamond, South would have gained the heart ruff in exchange for the loss of a diamond trick.

How Did It Start?

York City came to be known as GOTHAM?-K. S.

The nickname was first applied selves: "Aye, Gotham doth breed as to New York in "Salmagundi," by Washington Irving. It was an allusion to an ancient story of the Wise Fools of Gotham, a village in Nottinghamshire, England. One version is that King John announced that he would establish residence in the neighborhood. The villagers feared that the nearness of the court would deprive them of much of their freedom. Whereupon they pretended to be imbeciles when the king's messengers arrived. Some tried to drown an eel in a pond, others rolled cheeses downhill as free copy today. UNCLE RAY'S CORNER Socrates Showed No Fear Before 500 Judges

Think of 500 judges and only one prisoner! That is the scene you might have observed if you had been in

Athens, Greece, on a certain day. It was 2,431 years ago. The prisoner was a man 70 years of age, but he looked much younger than that. He had lived a simple, healthful life, and still remained sturdy and straight. The prisoner's name was Socrates. Three persons had caused the trial to be held. One was a leather merchant, another an orator, and the third was Meletus, a poet. The blunt questions of Socrates had caused these persons to grow angry toward him.

Here, in substance, are the things which were said against Socrates: "You have spoken against the gods. You have tried to make people believe in new gods. You have led youths to follow your ad-

'Louisiana Purchase,' at Age of 2 Years, Is Funniest, Most Literate and Tuneful Drama in Seasons

By JAY CARMODY.

It was a Sunday afternoon in the spring of 1940. The war was young then and had a sort of far-awayness about it. The French Army, the greatest army in the world, they said, was strung out along the Maginot Line waiting. People were saying "this phony war," and outside of the Norwegians they were wondering if the Germans ever would come out and fight. Quisling had come into the language and Namsos and Skagerak represented those first lessons in geography which were to be written in blood for men to learn in anguish

Washington was not like this then. It still was something rather quiet on the banks of the Potomac and the visitors in town had come to see the cherry blossoms, Ja-pan's little curtsy to Mrs. Taft. Into that par-
