Senators Agree To Limit on War Profits

'Sliding Scale' By Committee

Approval of a "sliding scale" o limit the percentage of contractors' profits under war contracts was given by the Senate Appropriations Committee today as it reported out a new supplemental war supply bill carrying

The scale would fix maximum profits at 10 per cent and minimum at 2 per cent, with the larger figure applying to small contracts and the smaller percentage to the biggest

The money in the bill is mainly to buy 31,070 more planes for the Army, to maintain an armed force of 3.600.000 men by the end of this year, and to provide for continued

Overton-O'Mahoney proposal, by negotiation, and the sliding scale of fixed maximums advocated by Senator Thomas, Democrat, of

The Overton-O'Mahoney plan is understood to have had the backing of all major procurement agencies of the Government, and an effort to strike out the sliding scale failed only by a tie vote of 8 to 8.

The substitute proposal rejected would have given the War Department, Navy Department or Maritime Commission flexible authority to limit profits without any rigid schedules committee was virtually unanimous in approving the inclusion of both plans as one amendment.

Senator Overton, Democrat, of Louisiana, said, however, the Senate will have to suspend its rules by a two-third vote to consider the new profits formula on the ground that t is legislation on an appropriation Called Cost-Plus System. Senator Thomas, claiming broad congressional support for his slidng scale profit limitation, said his roposal "would amount to a costplus-fixed fee basis for all profits." He added that it would give "the little fellows a higher limit than the ustment of these contracts either up or down," Senator Thomas said if a contractor could show he honestly lost money, the contract payment would be increased. The profit limit would apply before axes were deducted."

Deficiency Subcommittee. headed by Senator McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee had tentatively approved the combining of the two plans last night, but in full committee this afternoon several lastninute changes were made.

One prohibits upward revision of contracts for the purpose of insuring the contractor a profit, limiting (See PROFITS, Page 2-X.)

Increased Wholesale Cream Price Given Federal Approval

Dealers Have Until April 14 to Accept Or Reject Proposal

A proposal to amend the existing Federal milk marketing order for the Washington milkshed, raising the price dealers are required to pay dairy farmers for cream from $2.42 to $3.57 per 100 pounds was announced late today by the Agriculture Department.

The amendment, submitted to the dairy industry here by Agricultural Marketing Administrator Roy Hendrickson, also recommends continuance of the present marketing price of milk supplied Washington con-

Dairy interests have until April 14 to file exceptions to the proposed amendment, which was drafted by the marketing administration following public hearings here in February on dairy farmer proposals to at the time he left the Pacific war raise the wholesale price of milk and cream in this area.

Under today's amendment, there would be only two classes of milk in trator explained. The price of class 1 or fluid milk would remain at $3,57 per 100 pounds and class 2 milk, primarily used for cream, now selling for $2.42 per 100, would be included in class 1 at the $3.57 price.

Also proposed is an increase in class 1 milk used in the penny milk programs, increasing this classificapounds, the administrator announced.

Lt. Comdr. Thach Tells Of Pacific Air Battle in Which O'Hare Starred

By the Associated Press. SAN DIEGO, Calif., April 4.—The Japanese have a fanatical determination to stop nowhere short of Washington, Lt. Comdr. John S. Thach related in a letter describing the destruction of 13 out of 20 attacking enemy planes. The air battle occurred February 20 as the Japanese attempted to attack a task force of the United States fleet on Pacific patrol.

Comdr. Thach is commanding officer of the crack Navy squadron of which Lt. Edward (Butch) O'Hare, hero of the engagement, is a member. The letter was written to Mrs. Thach and her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Leland Jones.

Shot Down First Plane. "I was fortunate enough to meet and shoot down the first plane," the officer wrote. "It was a huge four-engined patrol bomber. I was beginning to feel sorry for them (it seemed a shame to shoot down this beautiful plane so majestically sweeping the sky) when they opened up on me with everything they had.

2 Heavy Jap Bombers Downed at Corregidor

War Department communique No. 175, based on reports received here until 9:30 a.m., follows:

1. Philippine theater:

Air raids on Corregidor continue, but the frequency and intensity of the attacks have somewhat diminished. The bombs dropped during the afternoon of April 3 were different from those of previous days. They burst in the air with huge flames, some of them exploding high above the island. No damage resulted from these attacks. Our antiaircraft artillery shot down two heavy Japanese bombers and probably damaged two others. In Bataan the enemy laid down a heavy artillery fire for three hours during the afternoon of April 3, using light and medium guns. From the intensity of the fire it was assumed that it was preliminary to a ground attack. However, no attack developed. Indications are that the enemy has moved some medium artillery from the Cavite shore to Bataan.

Patrols were active on both sides, with several sharp encounters. Japanese dive bombers and attack aircraft raided our front lines and rear areas frequently during the past 24 hours in a futile effort to disrupt our

4. The Pecos, a small tanker, employed in supplying fuel to units of our fleet in the Far East, was sunk in early March. 5. The Peary, a World War destroyer which received minor attacks on Cavite immediately after the outbreak of the war, was sunk in the harbor at Darwin about February 19. The Peary had participated in many of the offensive actions of our destroyers in the Far East. Observers who witnessed the last engagement of the Peary described the conduct of her crew as beyond all praise. Gun crews remained at their battle stations continuing their fire until they were forced by rising water to leave their stations. No officer or man left the ship until it sank under him. A number of survivors were later rescued. 6. War conditions in the Southwest Pacific have greatly complicated and delayed reports of casualties, and the public is urged to refrain from initiating individual inquiries regarding casualties. The next of kin of all casualties are always notified by telegram as soon as possible.

Contractors Charged With Wasting Millions In Defense Projects

House Told of Waste.

On the House side, a young investigator sent into Minden, La. to inspect construction at a $27,000,-000 Government shell-loading plant told a committee yesterday of find-ing evidence of "defective" construction, waste of labor, money and materials, and of payment of excessive sums for equipment rental.

The witness, Gordon K. Miller testified for two hours before a special House Military Affairs subcommittee describing what he called practices of the Silas Mason Construction Co. of New York City which, he said, did not meet accepted standards.

The hearing recessed until Tuesday after Mr. Miller testified that contractors paid and charged to the Government rental totaling $9. 361.05 on a 25-ton used auto-car truck to Mrs. Amanda Coors Elliott of Brooklyn, who, he testified, was the wife of A. J. Cote, a former superintendent of transportation for the contractor. Mr. Miller testified Mr. Cote had bought the truck in 1939 for $4,500.

11 Finance Experts Help Prosecute War Without Ballyhoo

Policy Committee Does Spade Work for Board Of Economic Warfare

by the Associated Press.

Eleven experts on finance and foreign trade, including Henry S. Morgan, 41-year-old son of J. P. Morgan, are helping Uncle Sam prosecute the war in a big waybut without ballyhoo.

All Government officials in various capacities, they meet five days a week to do the spade work and make the recommendations for the Board of Economic Warfare.

They comprise the little-heard-of Policy Committee of the board.

The board itself has met only a few times since it was organized last fall as the Economic Defense Board. Its name was changed after the United States entered the war. Vice president Wallace is chairman. Eight cabinet officers are members. as well as Nelson Rockefeller. Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs. Milo Perkins is executive director.

Policy Committee's Work.

The hard-working Policy Commitee maps plans to keep important materials away from enemy countries through a system of rigid export licenses, blacklisting of foreign firms that do business with the Axis, and preclusive buying of foreign products. It also originates financial projects to help friendly countries produce scarce commodities needed by the United States.

One day it may recommend aid in rehabilitating a railroad in a South American country in order to facilitate the movement of a raw material wanted here. The next meeting may bring forth a recommendation to improve dock facilities in Africa or to buy up in advance the entire copper output of Chile.

Col. J. E. Butterworth, 46-year-old Philadelphia textile machinery manufacturer, is chairman of the Policy Committee. Although in the Army, he is attached to the board and devotes all of his time to its work. Some of the other members spend only part of their time on the committee as liaison men representing other war agencies.

Morgan Represents Navy.

Mr. Morgan, known to his banking associates as "Harry," is a lieutenant commander and represents the Navy on the committee. London-born former partner of J. P. Morgan & Co. and former treasurer of Morgan Stanley & Co., he was brought here several months ago by Artemus L. Gates, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for air and former president of the New York Trust Co.

Mr. Morgan's advice on financial matters is said to be frequently sought by the committee, as is that of Maurice Wertheim, another New York investment banker who attends the meetings as a consultant for Leon Henderson's Office of Civilian Supply

J. Anthony Panuch, a member of the board, former New York lawyer and one-time head of the Securities and Exchange Commission's Reorganization Division in New York, is the committee's vice chairman, and Howard Newmark, another New York attorney, is executive secretary.

Other Members.

Other members include Edgar B. ## Better Anti-Tank Guns Make Great Changes In Desert Warfare

Aldridge Sees Material As Big Factor in Nazis' Middle East Drive

By JAMES ALDRIDGE, Correspondent of The Star and North American Newspaper Alliance.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 4.-A German push probably is coming in the Middle East and speculation about it is as thick as dust here. This observer's view is that the real issue is not when and where the push is coming but what material and what methods the Germans will use. This is important because recent engagements in the Libyan desert have revolutionized the use of the principal type of weapon, the tank. In the tank warfare of the last 10 months, tanks have changed beyond recognition. They can't get enough armor and armament. As one side improves its tanks, the other side tries to outdo it, but each favors its own basic weapon.

The Germans' choice is a heavy, well-armored tank mounting a heavy gun and relying on one shot to stop an adversary. The British favor lighter armor and greater speed and rely on a lighter, quickfiring gun, from which they must get several shots home to be effective. The Germans assert that gunfire from moving tanks is ineffective, but the British disagree.

Becoming Ferry Service. Tanks are losing their personality. Their chief function used to be to knock out other tanks. Now they are becoming a ferry service for infantry and anti-tank guns. This is a revolutionary development. The tanks go into battle with infantry and anti-tank guns. Behind the infantry come tanks with their own supporting anti-tank guns, which are a greater menace than the tanks themselves as the latest types are extraordinarily effective. Libya proved this is the coming weapon. It s no longed defensive but offensive.

The new anti-tank gun has an astonishing future and may completely neutralize the tank. Analysis of the Libyan offensives show both knocked out by other tanks. Antitank fire from a stationary position is far more accurate and effective than fire from moving tanks.

Both sides have developed new anti-tank weapons of revolutionary The Germans' gun has a tapered barrel permitting concentration of force, resulting in great muzzle velocity and striking power. down while fighting a 52-hour The projectile is so heavy that it running battle with enemy does not need outstanding explo-sive qualities and has tremendous penetrating power for long ranges.

The British have developed their own types, the effectiveness of which cannot be discussed in detail, but the development is toward lightly armored, powerful weapons operated ered with bombs," Comdr. R. P. Mcby small crews. These can outn fivefold their number and are cheap and easy to produce.

Artillery Also Changing. Included in the anti-tank development is field artillery. I spoke today with a field artilleryman just back from the desert. He said that in his last action they used open sights on field artillery and split the enemy tanks clean. At least to some extent artillery is also losing its personality. In mobile warfare light and medium artillery is seldom used for anything but defense against tanks. Thus, while a specific anti-tank gun is developing into an offensive weapon, field artillery is becoming a defensive weapon for use primarily against tanks. But for either artillery or antitank guns to be effective they must have adequate infantry protection, because they are now used in close operations, in thick battles. Because of this development it has never been more important to equip infantrymen with light automatic Desert rifllemen believe the Japanese have the right idea with .22caliber machine pistols. This weapon enables each man to be self-sufficient for long periods because the ammunition is so small and light that large quantities can be carried by one man. Its effectiveness is equal to the submachine gun and it is not as heavy.

All-Purpose Planes Sought. Similarly, aircraft are changing.

Both the British Army and the R. A. F. are speaking hopefully of an bombing. Such a plane would be a perfect "battleplane" if it could be produced in large quantities and sufficiently flexible to permit continuous superiority in bombing and fighting strength. To this must be added necessary cannon and lowflying characteristics permitting the destruction of tanks.

The Germans have an all-service the British in the Beaufort. The Germans, after their Russian lesson, are concentrating on tank-destroy-109's recently have appeared in the desert for special use against tanks. transfer was not carried out. This is probably Germany's surprise weapon in the coming offensive. The coming test for all these transitions in arms and tactics will be disastrous for the army which has not made sufficiently revolutionary changes. With anti-tank guns suddenly looming as a key weapon, whole armies may be moved in the best interests of these guns-tanks, infantry, artillery and aircraft will be moved in their support and the fiercest battles will be fought around them and above them

LAFAYETTE, Ind., April 4.-Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Leslie, convicted earlier this week of assault and battery in the flogging of their son's fifth-grade school teacher, were sentenced today by Circuit Judge Lynn Parkinson to 30-day jail terms and fines of $200 each.

The penalties followed recommendations of the jury. Judge Parkinson refused a request of Defense Attorney Francis Murphy that both the jail sentences and fines be suspended. State's testimony was that Mrs. Leslie lashed the teacher, Miss Constance Davis, 33, with a Boy Scout belt while Leslie stood guard at the class room door. The teacher denied 11-year-old Danny Leslie's accusation that she struck him on the head with a book.

Alternative Plans To Curb Profits Drawn For Senate Group

Subcommittee Orders Draft of Sliding Scale And Renegotiation

By J. A. O'LEARY.

The Senate Appropriations Committee will decide today whether Congress should attempt to fix percentage limits on war contracts or slothe Government departments with broad power to prevent evcess profits by negotiation.

When the subcommittee handling the nearly $19,000,000,000 supplemental war appropriation bill finished work on the measure last night, it turned over to the legislative drafting experts alternative plans for curbing profits with instructions to work out a combination of the two for presentation to the full committee this morning.

One plan, drafted by Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Oklahoma, proposed to substitute for the flat 6 per cent limit voted by the House on all contracts, a sliding scale of percentages, based on the size of the contract, as follows:

On all contracts up to $100,000, 10 per cent; from $100,000 to $500,000, 8 per cent; over $500,000 and up to $1,000,000, 6 per cent; over $1,000,000 and up to $5,000,000, 5 per cent; over $5,000,000 and up to $20,000,000, 4 per cent; over $20,000,000 up to $50,000,000, 3 per cent; on contracts above that level, 3 per cent on the first $50,000,000 and 2 per cent on the remainder.

Other Provides Renegotiation. The other plan, presented by Sen-ators Overton of Louisiana and O'Mahoney of Wyoming, both Democrats, sought to avoid fixed percentages, but to vest in the heads of the agencies buying war supplies the power to write into every contract a provision for renegotiation as soon as the profits can be deter-mined with reasonable certainty. The Government would have power to withhold any part of the contract price deemed to represent excess profits, or to sue in the appropriate courts to recover if payments already made are deemed to represent excessive profits. This plan would apply to past as well as future contracts, provided final pay-ment has not been made. Provisions also were added to prevent payment by contractors of unreasonable bonuses and salaries.

Senator Thomas embodied these general powers in his plan, but added the sliding scale of fixed percentages.

When the subcommittee adjourned its executive session late yesterday, some members indicated it had approved in principle both the sliding percentage plan and the general negotiation plan, subject to redrafting overnight. Other subcommittee members gave the impression, however, that the entire question of profit limitation had been left for setlement by the full committee today.

Bill May Delay Recess.

Senate leaders had hoped to pass the big war supply bill today and start a two-weeks informal recess, but the injection of the profit-control question into the war supply bill by the House created an issue that may keep the Senate working on the bill sevaral days next week. The House is already in technical recess until April 13, and any substitute profits plan the Senate adopts will have to be threshed out finally in conference between the two branches.

Some members of the Senate Appropriations Committee are convinced that it is impractical for Congress to attempt to write into law fixed percentage limits on profits that will not lead to inequities.

They are confronted, however, by reports that the flat 6 per cent limit adopted in the House struck a popular chord back home, despite the fact that 6 per cent on a large contract may prove excessive, while 2 or 3 per cent on a small contract might be inadequate and discourage production.

Principle Held Likely.

It is not likely, therefore, that the Senate will attempt to strike out the 6 per cent House limitation with-

Adoption by both Houses of a curb on profits also is likely to spur the members of both Houses who are advocating repeal of the 40-hour week and other changes in labor legislation as a war step.

To show the difficulty of applying fixed percentage limits on profits, Senator Overton pointed out today that a company building a battle-ship may have its margin of profit on a given contract spread over four or five years, while another company making cartridges may complete one such contract in a few months, so that in a year it would handle several contracts.

Mr. Braden said yesterday he had been informed schools in defense areas not already appropriated and contracted for would have to be temporary structures. He is waiting for official word as to whether the Greenbelt schools will come under that classification.

"I can understand how homes today might have to be temporary structures, but a school has to be built to last," Mr. Braden commented.

Southern Governors To Discuss Rail Rates

Freight rates and problems arising from the war will be discussed by delegates to the Southern Governors' Conference at Hot Springs April 19-21.

Frank Bane, co-ordinator of Federal and State war efforts, will attend. Gov. Adkins said Brig. Gen.
Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, had been invited.

Washington Awaits Colorful Easter Parade; Lull Marks Good Friday Observance

Gov. and Mrs. Edison Will Be Here Over Week End; Turkish Attache And Mme. Ariburun Entertain

The usual lull in social activities marked the Capital's observance of Good Friday, but the Easter Sunday "parade" promises to be a colorful one despite the somberness of wartimes.

The many friends of the former Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Charles Edison will welcome the news that the popular couple will be in town over Sunday. The former cabinet officer, now the Governor of New Jersey, and Mrs. Edison will come from the Governor's mansion in Trenton. Another popular personage in the Capital who will be here for a short time is Mrs. George E. Earle, whose husband was one-time Governor of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Earle will& arrive sometime tomorrow.

Turkish Air Attache

Another delightfully informal party last night was the dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Oliver F. Busby, who entertained in their home in Chevy Chase Terrace. Their guests were the Deputy Commissioner of the Fish and Wild Life Service and Mrs. Charles E. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Busby, brother and sister-in-law of the host, and Dr. and Mrs. Julian Pollard.

Mr. and Mrs. Busby will entertain at a dessert bridge this evening at which they will have 16 guests, among whom will be Mr. and Mrs Clifford Betts, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bailey, Dr. and Mrs. Pollard, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Warren F. ## Miss Frances Hunter Becomes Bride of Richard H. Fischer

In a flower-decked setting at 1 o'clock today, Miss Frances Hunter, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Oscar Benwood Hunter, became the bride of Mr. Richard Henry Fischer, son of Mrs. Hubert F. Teitman and Mr. Melvin F. Fischer. The ceremony, which was performed by the Very Rev. Msgr. Thomas G. Smith of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, took place in the home of the bride's parents in Chevy Chase.

An improvised altar was banked with lilies, tulips and sweet peas, and a string orchestra played softly throughout the ceremony, which was attended only by members of the immediate families and close friends of the bride and bridegroom.

The bride, who was escorted and given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of ivory satin, fashioned with a closefitting bodice and long sleeves of Chantilly lace. The full skirt fell into a graceful train. Her three-tiered tulle veil fell from a Juliet cap of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and

Miss Lydia Evans was maid of honor, gowned in yellow faille, made with a full skirt, shirred bodice and bracelet-length sleeves. The bride's sisters, Miss Mary Ellen Hunter and Miss Peggy Hunter, and her cousin, Miss Beatrice Fennell, were bridesmaids, wearing dresses of blue and yellow faille. All wore hats to match their gowns, and carried bouquets of yellow roses and blue delphinium. Mr. Fischer's best man was Mr. George Haskell of Washington and the ushers were Mr. Reginald Fennell, Mr. Herbert Martin of Washington and Mr. Henry Wyatt of Baltimore. Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held for friends of both families. Mrs. Hunter received in a becoming gown of gray mousseline de soie and a small flowered hat of turquoise shade. Her corsage was of white orchids. The mother of the bridegroom was gowned in aqua crepe, with a large hat to match, and wore a corsage of violets. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Pischer left for their wedding trip in the South, the bride wearing a smart suit of navy blue silk with hat and accessories to match. The bride was graduated from the University of Maryland, where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority. Mr. Fischer, a graduate of George Washington University, is now a student at the medical school and a member of Alpha Kappa Kappa, William Beaumont, and the Smith-Reed-Russell Medical Honor

By Mona Dugas

Tom Baird, who recently came here from England, where he charge of the Government's documentary war films, brings with him news of the latest fashion in cocktail invitations in the blitzkrieg. It seems that London hostesses, who, like Washington's own, continue to entertain despite wartimes, have added a timely touch to their cards. Besides the date and hour, they draw a picture of the phase in which the moon will be at the time of their party-so guests will know the chances they take of being out in an air raid.

It sounds as if this has endless-possibilities—for instance, if a hostess felt she must invite "those awful Joneses," she could draw a full moon on the invitation, and perhaps scare the Joneses into staying home.

Almost at the moment Minister Richard G. Casey relinquished

the title of Australian Minister to the United States, Dr. Herbert Evatt, Australia's Minister of External Affairs, and his American-born wife moved from their Shoreham apartment into the Legation. This gives additional emphasis to the theory that Dr. Evatt will take over former Minister Casey's title. In the meantime, Dr. Evatt is in practical charge of his country's affairs in the United States. Miss Margaret Mary FitzGeraid of Boston is stopping with Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie while in Washington attending to her job as program director of the joint National Catholic Community Service and the U. How the war interests the youngsters is demonstrated by the 4-year-old who was taken for a drive by her grandparents. Used to the paved highways, she noticed the change when the car turned on to an asphalt-covered road. "Granddaddy," she queried, "is this road having a blackout?"

British War Relief Will Have Exhibit By Scottish Clans

The Scottish Clans' Evacuation Plan will exhibit its work through next week, the British War Relief having extended the same courtesy to this group as to those representing the dominions of the empire. The headquarters of the British War Relief at 2624 Connecticut avenue will have on view beginning Monday what this organization accomplished in the evacuation of the children to the highlands of Scotland during the early stages of the war. The exhibit will continue through April 11. The following evening a musicale of Scottish music will be given in the Textile Museum, which Mr.

and Mrs. George Hewitt Myers have loaned to the organization. Next week a group of prominent hostesses will be on duty daily at the exhibit, and Monday the ladies will be Mrs. Stanley F. ## Truman Opposes Curb On American Firms' Foreign Subsidiaries

Senator Disapproves Berle Recommendation In Standard Oil Case

By the Associated Press. Senator Truman, Democrat, of Missouri expressed opposition today to a recommendation by Assistant Secretary of State A. A. Berle, jr. that "in some appropriate fashion" the Government be empowered to exercise control over international business dealings of foreign subsidiaries of American companies. Mr. Berle made the proposal after testifying before the Senate Defense Investigating Committee yesterday that not until he had initiated steps to place the Brazilian subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) on the State Department's blacklist did Standard agree to halt sales of gasoline to Axis airlines.

The State Department official said he had no specific proposal in mind and was not certain how the problem might be dealt with.

Legislative Problem. "I don't think we've got any business controlling the business of any sovereign state except our own, Senator Truman told reporters. " don't see how you could legislate in this country to control a corporate entity in Brazil."

Business concerns in other countries own subsidiaries in the United States, he said, and any effort to control them would be resisted by the United States.

chief of the American Republics Office for the Commerce Department, testified yesterday that Standment, testified yesterday that Standard was unwilling to cut off German and Italian airlines from their man and Italian airlines from their gasoline supply in Brazil, but finally Senator, Dies did so in October, 1941, when the State Department insisted.

Contract Denied. Standard officials, Mr. Berle said contended that they were bound under a contract and would be subject to suit if they did not make the

Mr. La Varre, however, asserted that this was a "subterfuge," and declared that there was no contract. He suggested that the committee call on Standard to produce the document if it existed. Officials said that the Brazilian subsidiary never was actually blacklisted, and Mr. Berle testified that since October it had co-operated fully with the State Department.

Edward H. Foley, jr., Treasury general counsel, testified that the Treasury blocked a proposed sale of Standard Oil's Hungarian properties to I. G. Farben of Germany in 1941 because approval "would have exposed us to the charge of ican companies."

testified the German firm offered University of Wisconsin. $24,000,000 in gold for the properties.

it was rejected. "This country," Mr. Foley told the committee, "had much more to gain, in terms of retaining the confidence and good will of overrun European peoples and subjugated governments, by maintaining the high moral principle of preventing Germany from acquiring or making use of looted assets than this country lost in not permitting the Standard Oil Co. to sell its Hungarian properties for funds looted by Germany. "Any approval of the transaction which contemplated shipment of gold from Lisbon to the United States would have involved us in a breach of the British blockade of Europe which was being maintained to weaken Germany's economic and military position."

Mayo Clinic Doctor Reports Finding Germ

Anti-Serum Developed; Cuts Mortality 90 Pct., Detects Disease Early

By the Associated Press. BOSTON, April 4 .- A new concept of the cause of infantile paralysis, which would entirely revise its treatment, was reported yesterday by Dr. E. C. Rosenow, Mayo

Foundation bacteriologist. Dr. Rosenow said that after 25 years' work, he had obtained proof that the disease is caused by a minute form of visible streptococcus germs and not by an invisible virus, as science has long believed. The way is now clear, he said, to apply an antiserum he has perfected not only for treatment of the disease in advanced stages but for "possible skin tests" to detect the disease before it can develop. He declared he had been able to produce typical symptoms of the disease in monkeys by injecting a material derived directly from streptococcus germs The powerful electron microscope had revealed in the injection material organisms that he definitely identified as minute forms of the streptococcus. Proof that the cause of infantile paralysis was a bacterial factor and not a virus, he said, rested in the fact that an anti-serum he had developed from streptococcus germs had been used with "striking results" among 2,000 human patients over the years, reducing mortality as much as 90 per cent in certain

D. C. Express Volume | Selected Stocks Up, Again Sets Record During March

Shipments in First Quarter Also Hit All-Time Peak

By EDWARD C. STONE.

Further evidence of the present business boom in the Capital, including the heaviest dollar volume of Easter trade on record, came from the Railway Express Agency today in a report which revealed that March express shipments broke all previous totals for that month and that new marks were also set in the first three months of this

Express shipments in and out of Washington during March totaled items, against 197.41; in March, 1941, an increase of 19,412 shipments or a gain of 9.8 per cent, Supt. W. O. R. Hannan announced Shipments in the first three months of this year reached 593,-224, compared with 530,352 in the first quarter of 1941, a notable increase of 62,872 shipments, Mr. Hannan added.

Production Outlook

With two congressional groups issuing somewhat conflicting statements concerning the progress of our war production effort, it is to be expected that the picture, from the public point of view, should be a confused one. This confusion, however, seems to be largely superficial, and the facts which have been disclosed would appear to justify considerable encouragement with regard to the progress being made in the Nation's war plants.

The Truman committee, following a survey of West Coast aviation centers, has reported that delays in delivery of vital parts have hampered the plane program, even necessitating the slowing down of some assembly lines in the big plane factories. This is blamed on a "poor job of over-all planning" by the armed forces and the old Office of Production Management-a circumstance which might be explained by the many revisions in the early estimates of the size of the program—but it is significant that the committee also found that production in West Coast plants now is several times greater than it was a year ago, and that it is increasing every month. The bottlenecks found by the committee, as well as all other bottlenecks, are a very serious matter and must be eliminated with all possible expedition, but the encouraging fact is that the plane program, despite these flaws, is forging ahead.

This is borne out by the statement of four House members, who, after listening to the testimony of high production officials in closed committee hearings, have expressed their belief that the United States is winning the battle of production. Their tone of optimism, if it may be called that, was a restrained one, but in general they were agreed that the production goals which have been laid down by the President for planes, guns, ships and tanks are going to be met. Further supporting this view is the announcement from Detroit that the Fisher Body division of General Motors has turned out its first all-welded medium tank in forty-seven days-a new record. From this same source it was also announced that the entire tankbuilding program is seven months ahead of its original schedule and is being stepped up rapidly.

As the volume of production moves upward, however, it is important to bear in mind the admonition of the four House members that shipping now constitutes our greatest shortcoming. Without ships to transport them to the fighting fronts, our guns, planes and tanks will be of little value, and for this reason the announcement that contracts have been let for the merchant ships which the President says we must have in 1942 and 1943 is highly significant. All in all, this production outlook is not an unencouraging one. At the least, it should serve to convince the people of the United States that we can produce the tools needed to win the war if we are sufficiently resolved to do so.

Conquest of Rice

A bulletin of the National Geographic Society calls attention to the fact that the fortunes of war have given Japan predominant control of the rice crops of Asia. The significance of Nipponese occupation of French Indo-China, Thailand and the coasts of Burma, when viewed in the light of this knowledge, is seen to be that of a major achievement not at first fully comprehended outside the Orient.

Japan proper consumes in normal times approximately 90,000 tons of rice a day. About half of the minimum requirement is grown at home. The rest in recent years has come from Formosa and Korea. If production in those dependencies declined, famine was threatened in Tokio. The danger of stock food shortage has been one of the arguments which the Black Dragon militarists have used with effect in dealing with their pacifistic opposition

Gross gains for Japan in terms of rice thus far reported in less than four months of campaigning include: The Philippine Islands, 1,200,000 tons; the Dutch East Indies, 3,200,000 tons, and British India, an undetermined quantity. Rangoon, the capital of Burma, was the world's leadelevators were wrecked is problem- stitution, whose experiments on the one's match is a far different thing short winter months.

at the court of the Mikado.

to the richness of surrounding territory, now in the hands of Japanese armies. But, of course, only a fraction of total production in any given area is available for export. The theoretical hold of the invaders does not insure unlimited exploitation of paddies still planted and harvested by local owners. Nevertheless, the morale of the civilian communities in Japan probably is being stimulated by promises of feasts to accrue from military activities performed by bitter sacrifice. Millions of people who have lived on the starvation line for a decade or more at last may hope for all the rice they can eat, providing only that ships are available to transport it to them.

Chile Stands Pat

Current events in Chile reveal the strain which the course of the war is putting on South America. President Juan Antonio Rios has just been inaugurated. Two months ago he was elected by a substantial majority in which the dominant issue was foreign policy. Rios was the candidate of a liberal-radical coalition known as the Democratic bloc. Some of its slogans were "Death to Fascism!" and "Down With Hitler!" Senor Rios announced early in the campaign that "the realities of the moment demand full co-operation with the United States. No other course is possible for Chile." When the Democratic bloc won over an opposition favoring strict neutrality on the Argentine model and containing pro-Axis sympathizers, it was widely prophesied that one of Rios' first presidential acts would be to sever relations with the Axis powers.

However, the expected has not happened. In his inaugural address, President Rios promised that Chile would "faithfully carry out her duties of continental solidarity." But he also said that "the government will cultivate cordial relations which are maintained with all countries. . . The Executive will adopt important steps when they must be taken under the unmistakable expression of the national will."

The logical inference from these remarks is that the new administration will interpret its "duties of continental solidarity" as conforming to the compromise resolution adopted at the Rio Conference whereby a break with the Axis was left optional. That compromise was rendered necessary by the resolute opposition of the Argentine government, supported by the stop-gap government of Chile, which declined to commit Chile to an anti-Axis policy while the electoral campaign was going on. Yet President Rios seemingly is continuing the neutral policy of his predecessor and stands with Argentina. Indeed, this stand was foreshadowed by the presence of the Argentine Foreign Minister, Ruiz Guinazu, at the inaugural ceremonies, and the prominent part he played therein. Especially noteworthy was a speech which he made before the Chilean Chamber of Deputies, extolling the solidarity of the two nations. The tone of the address was such that the Communist deputies, ardent foes of the Axis, walked out in protest. Incidentally, the recent congressional elections in Argentina showed that the voters tended to favor the government's neutral policy. And the evidence is that a similar trend has taken place in Chile during the past two months.

All this undoubtedly is a reflection of the unfavorable course the war is taking for the United Nations, especially in the Far East. Chile, facing the Pacific with an undefended coastline of some 2,000 miles, and with a small army and navy, is peculiarly exposed to Japanese reprisals. Furthermore, it is profiting richly by neutrality which has greatly increased its foreign trade in essential raw materials. However regrettable it may be from our standpoint, it is understandable that many Chileans shrink from risking foreign complications and business losses by breaking diplomatic and economic relations with the Axis and taking an unequivocal stand with the United States. This does not mean that Chilean public opinion is becoming more pro-Axis. But it does indicate a mood of growing apprehension which translates itself into a cautious and non-committal foreign policy.

Loss of the Langley

The most serious and regrettable aspect of the sinking of the venerable U. S. S. Langley was the loss of life entailed. Otherwise the destruction of this thirty-year-old ship cannot be regarded as a major naval disaster. That being the case, it is not clear why the Navy Department withheld for so long public announcement of the tragedy, which took place south of Java on February 27 last. Perhaps the Navy felt that the death of the historic vessel had sentimental importance which could be capitalized by our enemies at a time when the fortunes of war were running against us in a manner thoroughly alarming to our people.

The Langley was invested with sentimental values, indeed. Completed in 1912, the 11,050-ton ship was commissioned as a coal carrier and christened the Jupiter. She was the first American warship to be equipped with electric drive, the first to pass through the Panama Canal from the Pacific to the Atlantic and the first of the Navy's airplane carriers. She was converted into an aircraft carrier in 1919 and renamed in honor ing rice port before the outbreak of | of Professor Samuel P. Langley, for-airplanes aroused world-wide interest early in the century.

But in recent years the Langley had begun to outlive her usefulness as a flight-deck plane carrier, although she was of great service to the Navy as an experimental ship. Lessons learned from the Langley were incorporated in her immediate successors, the Lexington and Saratoga. In 1937 the Navy rebuilt her into an aircraft tender, whose chief purpose was to transport and service planes of the fleet arm, rather than launch them into the air. At the time of her last stand she was carrying supplies to Allied forces in the Java area. She was unable to send a single plane against the waves of dive bombers which sought her out and finally sent her to the bottom of the Indian Ocean.

The Japanese officials had claimed the sinking of the Langley on three separate occasions during the first weeks of the Pacific war. Actually she came through the hostilities unscathed until the fatal encounter late in February. The Navy announcement thus ends all speculation regarding the fate of a veteran ship that never was designed to cope with the aerial hazards of modern warfare.

Advancing Recreation A program which should prove beneficial for public recreation in Washington is now shaping up at the Capitol and the District Building. Following the recent passage by the Senate of the bill to provide a separate and single governing body for recreation, it was announced by the Commissioners that $300,000 of Lanham Act money will be allocated by the Federal Works Agency to develop seven major recreation sites for immediate use.

The significance of this latter move can only be appreciated by those who have watched over the past few months the gradual withdrawal of recreation land for defense construction or military occupation. Tennis courts, softball fields, baseball fields and facilities for many other healthful forms of recreation have gradually been disappearing. Recreation leaders saw temporary buildings rising on their play fields and courts, buildings which would bring to Washington thousands of additional persons who would want to avail themselves of the very recreation facilities that were being taken away.

While appreciating the need for the withdrawals by the Government, these officials could only hope to convince those who control the purse strings of the need for replacements. They have succeeded. Although the development of these seven sitesalready owned by the District and awaiting improvement for use-will not replace all withdrawals or provide the necessary space for the thousands who have come here in the past few months, it is a long step in the right direction. The provision of recreational facilities is a necessary part of the war effort in crowded Washington. Recreation, in the broader sense, is not mere play. It should be regarded as essential in keeping men and women physically and mentally fit for their arduous work. It is fitting that the funds should be provided by the Lanham Act. the purpose of which was to relieve local communities whose facilities have been overtaxed by the defense effort. In previous allocations to the District under the Lanham Act, the Federal Government has equitably apportioned grants and loans. It is to be assumed that the same equitable formula will be applied to this project.

Not Consonant with Victory

This is the tale of a humble sergeant at Fort Riley, Kansas, on duty in the cavalry replacement center, and living the life of Riley until recently. True, there were recruits continually coming in, and there has never yet breathed a sergeant with any love for recruits, but he had the authority to put them in their place, even if it was not the precise place he might wish in some of his more annoyed moments. From long practice he learned to put the right intonation into his bark of "Smith!" so that the unfortunate Private Smith would jump and obey.

Now he is stumped. Into his lap, fresh from civilian life, have been dumped draftees Korzaniewski, Wzentek, Prezyna, Pieczonka and Woycziewezkol, respectively. This jaw-breaking quintet constitutes no mean problem when the sergeant calls the roll. With only one such name on the roster, he might take a chance and sneeze, but what can he do with five? Perhaps he has suggested that they be demobilized before they trip over their own names in action, or possibly he has put in a requisition for another assistant sergeant from the Polish Army in exile.

Neither solution seems perfect. Draftees showing up at camp with full beards are required to shave off the excess growth to fit more comfortably into the Army. How about a regulation requiring any soldier loaded down with a name like Woycziewezkol to sacrifice a few consonants in the cause of freedom? They could be checked with the War Department, and given back later if he ever decided to return to Poland.

An Eastern university is establishing classes to train Army personnel in the questioning of enemy prisoners. Good work; now all we need is some prisoners.

It may well be that in the Nipponese the United States has met its atical. No doubt, however, exists as Potomac River with motor-driven from "meeting one's master."

Of Stars, Men And Atoms

Notebook of Science Progress In Laboratory, Field And Study

By Thomas R. Henry.

Adolph Hitler's strenuous efforts to raise the German birthrate are meeting with indifferent success.

During the first nine month of 1941 the total number of babies born in cities of over 100,000 population was about 8 per cent less than for the same period of 1940. The number of marriages in the same period, despite the number of men in the army, was less than 1 per cent less.

This is revealed by somewhat sketchy data on conditions in the Axis countries which have been obtained by British officials here from various sources.

The failure of a larger crop of babies aroused a hysterical appeal early this winter from a Dr. Gross of the racial political office, who, apparently, is directly responsible to Der Fuehrer for bringing about a birthrate boom.

"The number of children in Germany is still insufficient," he said in an intercepted radio appeal. "The claim for families with four children is still unfulfilled. Even people who have been married in the last 10 years have generally only two children. But we must keep up the demand for four children if the German nation is to remain at its present size and able to tackle all the questions which will arise after a victorious war.

"The increase in birthrate must not blind us to the fact that it is partly due to some people who despaired before 1935 and who now have taken the risk of having a child, and others who married earlier than they would have done in peace because of the war.

"The German nation which is giving Europe a new race needs immense forces. Germans will go out as businessmen. technicians, diplomats or military experts, but they must not leave gaps in their native country. Germany needs children today and especially tomorrow." Italy, according to the British sources of information, apparently is having a worse time. The official population statistics for the first 10 months of 1941 show that "the number of marriages in Italy totaled 208,928; living births, 794,-411, and deaths, exclusive of those killed in the war, 509,702. Thus there was an excess of births over deaths of 283,704. These figures show a remarkable decline as compared with 1940 and the years before that"

However, the same report points out. "if one takes into account that the numerical strength of the youthful classes of potential fathers and mothers is reduced by the war, the situation in Italy can be considered quite satisfactory as compared with that of most of the peoples of the world."

By the end of the year, it was forecast, there would be about 900,000 new babies in Italy. The population of the country on October 1 was estimated at 45,334,000. The birthrate in Hungary, according to the British information, is now the lowest among all European nations. German investigations have revealed, according to the same report, that Jewish doctors and midwives are encouraging birth control. It was recently announced by the Budapest Municipal Council that 61 midwives have been deprived of their

France appears to be following the German and Italian lead. The state secretariat for family, according to the report, is conducting a contest in which French people are asked to name from a list of 15 items the three which they think have contributed most to the low French birthrate.

Says a French newspaper under German control: "Capitalism has lured women from the home. The greatest mistakes have been to open all careers to women, not to emancipate them but to bring them into the labor market, where they have become competitors with men. Thus they have lost a liking for home life, and have avoided having children when married."

Blames D. C. "System" For Defalcations.

To the Editor of The Star: For the past several days a sorry spectacle has been presented in District Court here, where an aged woman was tried for having embezzled municipal funds from dog tax collections during

The guilt or innocence of the defendant is not the point here. It is, rather, the system (or lack of same) that should be on trial, it seems to me. Imagine a cashier in a large corporation getting by with daily peculations over a period of at least two years, with comparatively small receipts, without detection. It could not be done. What was the District of Columbia auditor's office, employing a large force of clerks, doing the two years in question?

The whole sad part of this and other District of Columbia government petty defalcations can be traced directly to the spoils system in effect at the District Building. Nearly every job from Commissioner to messenger is filled by political pull and preferment. Civil service there except in name is non-existent. No competitive examinations, no competition except in "pull," a natural perquisite of Congressmen. The bigger the job the more competition, of course, and ability or efficiency in officials or clerks is an almost unthought of requirement. H. T. ROBERTSON.

Approves Editorial On Fund-Raising Drives. To the Editor of The Star:

Thank you for your wise editorial of April 2, in regard to the failure of the District to raise its Red Cross quota. I entirely concur in what you say, and in addition, I would add that all the drives seem to come between November and April the time when household expenses are the heaviest, and when the worst of the taxes fall due. Most District residents come in the "middle bracket" class, and many of them are on monthly salary. I believe that if they are only given time they will send in their Red Cross donations; but many of us budget our charities as we budget our households, and cannot stop eating for a month because half a dozen organizations jump on a particular week for a campaign. The White House more than once has indicated its hostlity to the Dies committee, but it has not until this week endeavored publicly to discredit that unit.

The attack is not confined to the New Deal chieftains but has been taken up by various left-wing or-

The Dies committee has had to ask the House at least three times for continued authorization and on each occasion the administration has used its influence to try to prevent House approval. But the Dies committee has triumphed and the last vote was an overwhelming

What is the reason for the administration's opposition and what is the reason why the Dies committee wins such overwhelming votes of approval? The reasons for opposition are as diverse as the reasons for support.

Naturally, the administration and its New Deal supporters dislike the Dies committee because, rightly or wrongly, it has uncovered an affinity between some New Dealers or radioal organizations and the Communistic approach to governmental philopsophy. But this kind of thing happens, on the other hand, to be pleasing to certain groups in America which have been basically anti-respective of Russia's entrance into the United Nations family. Thus back-home pressure to support the Dies committee has come at times from various patriotic and religious organizations opposed to Communism, from certain labor groups which have consistently opposed Communism and from the American Legion, which consists of veterans of the First World War.

This is a formidable array of supporters and to this must be added the Republican groups which clared today that any attempt to go along more or less with every House vote that might produce embarrassments for the New Deal-

On the other side are militant in its membership many attorneys | tion. who work for the Federal or State administrations. Not long ago Ferdinand Pecora, a New Dealer, now a judge in New York City and prominent in the lawyers' guild, complained about alleged Communistic influences in one of the guild's reports. It is a pity that convincing word cannot reach the Indian masses that Britain, Russia and the United States have the power to win and will win this war. And we shall beat Japan by striking at her heart, force ing her to yield her conquests. Will India meanwhile have been in the handicaps for practical forward- throes of civil war and on the way looking Indian leadership. It is back to famines and misery? Will she have to call on the United States and Greart Britain to take a hand in restoring order?

Turkey Makes Clear to U. S. and Britain Her Terms for Fighting Germany

By CONSTANTINE BROWN. The Turkish government has discreetly indicated to representatives of the United Nations at Ankara that while it appreciates the good intentions of the American and the British governments in helping to equip the Turkish Army, the planes, tanks and anti-aircraft artillery received so far are not sufficient.

Marshal Fevzi Chacmak, the strong man of Ankara who refused to succeed Kemal Ataturk as chief executive, is in supreme command of the Turkish armies. He is a thorough soldier, was chief of staff under the late Turkish dictator, and has the reputation of having been the brains behind the brilliant military campaigns between 1920 and 1922 which ended in the defeat of the Greeks and recognition of the new Turkey by the Allies.

Once more he is preparing the army to fight if fighting is inevitable. Marshal Fevzi has been the object of more flatteries and courteous treatment by the Nazi representatives at Ankara than President Ismet Inonu himself. But the deeply religious and nationalistic field marshal is impervious to flattery or bribery. He is looking at the situation in the same light as his deceased chief and close friend, the Ghazi, would have done it.

Expects Allies to Win. Turkey, he says without mincing words, must be on the side of the belligerents most likely to win. He does not conceal his belief that ultimately the United Nations will triumph. Hence his personal inclination to play ball with the United States and Great Britain, despite certain risks to-Turkey's temporary welfare. But he does not believe, according to what he has been telling representatives of America and Britain, in imperiling his country without definite and active support from our side.

He repeats the words Hitler's Ambassador, Franz von Papen, has been telling him: "Look at Yugoslavia." And he amplifies this by pointing out that neither during the Nazi invasion of Yugoslavia nor while Gen. Draja Mikailovic, at the head of some 70,000 guerrillas, has been harassing the Axis forces from his mountain strongholds, have the Serbs received any assistance except kind words of encouragement and praise for their military virtues. These, he says bluntly, are not sufficient to defeat Hitler's motorized divisions and air force.

Marshal Fevzi is determined that his country shall not suffer the fate of Yugoslavia and Greece because the United Nations are too slow in preparing. The cagey field marshal has not committed himself as to what Turkey will do when Hitler begins his much awaited offensive in the Eastern Mediterranean. Turkey's policies are determined by the President of the republic and the national assembly. All he will be called on to do if war breaks out close to Turkey's frontiers will be to advise the government about the army's ability to fight. But he is frank in saying that unless much more war material reaches Turkey, he will be compelled to advise his government against co-operation with the United Nations in the Near East.

Nazi propaganda, which has singled out the Russians as Turkey's most dangerous enemies, has made no impression on the mind of the Turkish commander in chief. He is not afraid of the Russian bear, but he is reluctant to plunge his country into the fray without a reasonable amount of mechanized war material and adequate aviation. Planes Needed Most.

Large consignments of planes, tanks and artillery have reached the Near East in the last few months, but only a small portion of these have found their way into Turkey, according to Marshal Fevzi. The British are fustly concerned over the possibility of an all-out Axis offensive from the Greek Islands, Crete and Libya. Hence the British are reported to be concentrating all their available war material in that area, and only some overflow is going to Turkey, either through the Dardanelles or across the Syrian and Iraq border.

While the Turkish high command does not seem to lay too much stress on tanks and armored cars, it insists that Turkey must have a large number of planes. The army lacks them. It has only a few hundred modern planes. Marshal Fevzi, while realizing that the British Army in Egypt

ently not satisfactory to Marshal Fevzi. He wants to know-and has means of checking-whether a United Nations air force capable of resisting the Axis is on hand and can be rushed from the air fields of Iraq, Palestine and Syria as soon as the Germans make the slightest aggressive move against Turkey.

He read me about three typewritten sheets of whereases and wherefores and do's and don'ts and warnings and such, but he never did read me a flat, out-and-out statement to what would happen to a tire bootlegger or his customer if caught. It seems to me the Government should eliminate all this legal folderol and make a plain, honest-togoodness statement as to what the bootlegger and his unpatriotic buyer will get if caught in the traffic in rubber. Make it the same for Califernia as for Florida. Make it a mean penalty. Come right out and say that any one caught buying or selling a tire on the side will get a nice 10-year stay in what the Balinese so quaintly call "the old jugeroo," and the boys on the New Hebrides term "the calaboose."

But, if this isn't done, tire bootlegging will come to be accepted just as the bootlegging of whisky was accepted. Because the Government was lenient with bootleggers, no one ever thought of them as lawbreakers. They were accepted as solid citizens in most communities, and there is hardly a town now where the big house on the hill isn't owned by a man who got his money by selling stuff that made his fel-

Raise Future Life Issue

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

This war has brought everybody face to face with the possibility of enemy attacks upon his home and upon his life. What has so gruesomely befallen millions in Europe and Asia may happen here. That people are standing so steady in the face of war's perils is a tribute to the democratic way of life and the great spiritual ideals which underlie it. The heroism of our boys in action is matched by the fortitude of their home folks. Real preparedness is in the hearts of the people. It all narrows down

The group succeeds the recently dissolved Eastern section of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. One of the chief aims of the group will be to urge a more active participation of laymen in missionary activities.

An interesting development comes from Europe, where it is reported that the Swedes have increased their missionary work despite the war. It is stated that the number of Swedish missionaries active in remote countries has increased to about 1,000 in 1941 as against 900

Little Stories of GREAT HYMNS

This noted woman hymn writer never sat down deliberately to write a hymn. She waited till her inspiration came, and then wherever she was jotted down her thoughts. Though she was never physically strong, she was gifted and beautiful, and every hymn is full of her great spiritual strength and loveliness.

Rites at Masonic Memorial, Arlington And Fort Lincoln

The story of the resurrection again will be told in word and song tomorrow. Men at war, men at peace with the world, will join numberless throngs in remembrance of the Saviour's triumph over death and His assurance of life everlasting.

Outdoor services will be held in Arlington National Cemetery, Fort Lincoln Cemetery, on Bladensburg road, and at the Masonic Memorial In Alexandria.

Three Easter Sunday sunrise serv-Ices near Washington will feature outdoor ceremonies, while a fourth will be held indoors.

To Increase Bus Service. To accommodate District residents

planning to be present at one or the other services, the Capital Transit Co. will expand its normal Sunday morning facilities by placing addi-tional buses on the route to Fort Lincoln, and providing additional car service from Friendship Heights to Rosslyn, Va. Bus service will be operated by another company from Rosslyn to Arlington Cemetery

The extra bus service to Fort Lincoln will begin operating at 4:39 a.m. Sunday, while five-minute streetcar service from Seventeenth street and Pennsylvania avenue S.E. to Rosslyn will start at 5:45 a.m.

The sunrise service in the amphitheater of Arlington National Gemetery will open at 7 a.m. with reveille being sounded by Fort Myer buglers. A procession of white-plumed Knights Templar of the United States will form at 7:15 a.m. and move to the amphitheater, led by the United States Marine Band. The religious service begins at 7:30 a.m. with the sermon to be preached by the Right Rev. Dr. James W. Maxon, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Tennessee and himself a knight of this Masonic

Prices Frozen

On All Plumbing

Adopting a new technique to prevent speculative price increases, the Office of Price Administration today froze at Monday's level prizes of all types of plumbing fixtures, preliminary to a War Production Board order curtailing their production.

Also fixed at Monday's levels in n earlier order were the prices of all household electrical appliances. There are 44 items affected and the ceiling will be applied Tuesday.

Concurrently, the Associated Press quoted a Washington dispatch to the New York Herald-Tribune which said the sugar rationing program might be scrapped if estimates of current sugar supplies compiled by the War Production Board prevail over the insistence of the Office of Price Administration.

The temporary plumbing price ceiling also is effective Tuesday. Manufacturers', wholesale and retail prices were affected, but prices charged by plumbers who actually install the fixtures were excluded. In the past O. P. Broader in scope than the pending W. P. B. plumbing order, the O. P. A. action blankets all types, kinds, sizes, shapes and colors of plumbing fixtures, whether made of china, porcelain or metal.

The appliance price order applies to the following items having a rated electrical capacity up to 2,500 watts or powered by an electrical vibrator or electrical fractional horsepower

Biscuit and muffin makers, bottle warmers, bread toasters, broilers, easseroles, chafing dishes, cigar and cigarette lighters, clothes dryers, offee makers, corn poppers, curling heaters, fans, flatirons, food and plate warmers and food mixers.

It also includes griddles, hair clippers, hair dryers, hot plates and disc stoves, immersion heaters, juice extractors, massage vibrators, neckwear and trouser pressers, ovens, pads and blankets, percolators, portable air heaters, roasters, sandwich toasters, smoothing irons, table stoves, teakettles, tea tables, unit radiator heaters, urns, vaporizers, waffle irons, water heaters and whip-

This program clearly calls on the District to step up its physical ac-tivity and health instruction programs in the junior-senior high schools and school officials, along with several members of the Board of Education, have called attention to the need to establish the five period-a-week program at Calvin Coolidge High School in all the senior high schools. It is now partially in effect at Woodrow Wilson School. This program calls for three activity periods and two studying hygiene or first aid each week. Continuing its request for physical fitness, the War Department added: "Other things being equal, the young man who is physically hardened prior to induction will be better able to withstand the rigors

Arlington Board Assails Capital Park Group

Commission Accused Of 'Interference' In County

Members of the Arlington County Board today bitterly attacked the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, charging it with "interfering with building operations in Arlington County." They appointed a committee to meet with commission officials to find the reasons for their recent actions in stopping priorities for Arlington housing developments.

F. Freeland Chew said, "The National Capital Park and Planning Commission never had a more ardent advocate or champion than it had in me. I have done everything in the world to get this board to do things for the commission, ineluding asking for lowering of the building height limit from 110 feet to 90 feet. Now they are asking us to lower it again to 60 feet.

These latest moves on the part of the commission, including use of its influence to cut out priorities on large-scale developments in Arlington County that would be an asset to this community, constitute an utter disregard for the officials of this county and challenge our own

Called Stab in Back.

"Chairman Frederic A. Delano and his associates are showing an utter contempt for anything the people of Arlington County want to do. It is a stab in the back, after we have co-operated in every way possible. Hereafter, Mr. Delano and the commission can confine their planning to Washington.

"The Park and Planning Commission had better devote its time to cleaning up its own back yard. I will never be a party to reducing the heighth of buildings again to comply with the commission's request. I question the sincerity of members of the Park and Planning Commission as to Arlington County.

Attacks on the commission were precipitated by the appearance before the board of Louis Justement, Washington architect representing owners of the so-called Nevius and Grinder tracks on Lee boulevard. Mr. Justement told the board that the Park and Planning Commission had no authority over priorities on building materials for Arlington County housing developments.

In a statement later to the press, Mr. Justement said either the commission had asked the War Production Board not to grant priorities for elevator apartments in Arlington, as proposed for these tracts or that the board was consulting with the commission on such ques-

Investigation Proposed

The County Board passed unanimously a motion made by Basil De Lashmutt, seconded by Leo Lloyd, to have County Manager Frank Hanrahan, Planning Engineer Frank ald R. Locke and Chairman Edmund Campbell call on the Park and Planning Commission and investigate the whole situation

After the motion had been passed Mr. Chew said if the investigation did not produce satisfactory results he would ask the board to send a letter "to a higher power to see if Mr. Delano has the veto power over first World War took part in the this body and, if so, to go to the people with this issue."

Mr. Chew complained that the commission had been going over the head of the county board for years by sending its agents to Arlington to talk over planning and building matters with citizens associations and other groups.

Chairman Campbell described as "intolerable and unwarranted interference with the sovereignty of Virginia" the recent actions of the commission with regard to Arlington, actions which, he said, "the citizens cannot tolerate."

County Manager Hanrahan charged the commission wanted to confine new building to Washington and to let Arlington County go by Mr. Bryan was shaving when he glanced from his window across Connecticut avenue and saw the tower standing. He glanced again and found it had vanished. His wife reassured him as to his sanity.

In 1930 the congregation of Covenant was joined by members of old First Presbyterian, when the Government tore down their church on John Marshall place. ## Builders Renew Pleas to Amend Housing Act

Quick Action Seen Necessary to Push Wartime Program

Washington builders have joined private home construction men throughout the Nation in appealing to the Government to speed amendments to the National Housing Act so they will be able to continue providing badly needed war housing.

The Federal Housing Administration announced Wednesday exhaustion of its $300,000,000 authorization for insuring mortgages on defense housing under Title VI, and instructed field offices to issue no further commitments under that section of the act. Unless action is taken immediately to remedy this situation by increasing the authorization virtually all defense housing activities of private builders will be halted.

Measures Long Pending. Proposed legislation to increase the authorization to $800,000,000 and to alter Title VI so it would offer more encouragement to builders to assist in the war housing program has been kicked around Washington for two months. It cleared the F. H. A. the first week of February and was sent to Jesse Jones, Federal loan administrator, for approval. Mr. Jones had no sooner indorsed it when President Roosevelt announced his consolidation of Government housing agencies.

After consolidation it was necessary to obtain the approval of John B. Blandford, jr., head of the new National Housing Agency. Just where the proposed amendments are now could not be ascertained definitely. One source said he nearly every Federal and District thought the Budget Bureau is re- official concerned with the construcviewing them. #### Building Picks Up In Fairfax County

Special Dispatch to The Star. FAIRFAX, Va., April 4.—Building activity in Fairfax County last month, on the basis of construction permits, exceeded the value for County Commissioner of the Revenue James U. Kincheloe. During March 326 permits were $798.225. During the previous month there were 115 permits aggregating Of last month's permits 295 were for new construction with a value of $775,325, and the remaining 31 were for improvements to existing property set at $22,900. For the first three months of the year permit values aggregate $1,-388,121, a figure approximately half of that for the same period in 1941. County Clerk John M. Whalen announced the recordation of deeds and trusts picked up during March and exceeded the February total, although falling somewhat behind the number for March, 1941.

Building Permit Total in March ls $2,706,338

Figure Is Increase Of About Million Over February

Building in the District, including private operations and one Alley Dwelling Authority project, approved for erection in March had a combined valuation of $2,706,338, the monthly report of the building inspector's office showed today.

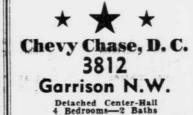

The figure for last month was only about half the valuation for March, 1941-$5,296,450, but was more than $1,000,000 higher than the building total for February. James Creek Dwellings was the A. D. A. project included in the March compilation. This job was valued at slightly over $1,000,000. The re-mainder of the March valuation represents private operations. Quarter Shows Decrease. Operations for which permits were issued in the first quarter of 1942 are valued at $7,097,718, as compared to a valuation of $11,759,915 for the first three months of 1941. Permits were approved in March for 115 one-family dwellings, valued at $436,500. In the corresponding period of 1941 233 dwellings, valued at $1,403,000, were included in permits. In February there were 107 new one-family dwellings erected at a cost estimate of $382,000. Apartment construction last month was far under the volume of March, 1941, but showed a sizable gain over February. Permits were issued last month for apartment building containing 675 family units and valued at $1,811.792. 'In the month last year 1.216 apartment units, valued at $3.095,000. February's apartment construction showed only 311 family dwelling units and valuation of $670,000.

Beaver Dam May Get 1,000-Unit Apartment

A 1.000-unit "garden type" apartment is being considered for erection on the grounds of the old Beaver Dam Country Club, it was disclosed vesterday.

Backers of the plan are members of the Prince Georges County Golf and Country Club Corp. The homes would be built on the club's original nine-hole golf course.

S. Walter Bagley, jr., secretarytreasurer of the corporation, said yesterday that the homes are only in the "prospective" stage. If built they will be financed through the Federal Housing Authority. Mr. Bagley said about 30 acres belonging to the club are available.

Reconstruction Work On Railroad Bridge Data of Value To Start Soon

New Piers and Girders To Speed Trains, Unit Of Trade Board Is Told

The planned reconstruction of Railroad Bridge across the Potomac will get under way within a few weeks, it was announced yesterday at a luncheon meeting of the Highways Committe of the Board of Trade at the Harrington Hotel.

Everett C. Crites, chairman of the committee, read a letter from R. C. Morse of Philadelphia, a vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in which he said a permit for the work has been received from the Army engineers, the plans have been approved by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and work will start in a few weeks. Will Speed Trains.

Eleven new piers will be built and through girders will be substituted for the present overhead truss construction. While freight trains now must reduce their speed to 15 niles per hour and passenger trains to 20 miles per hour when crossing the bridge, the rebuilt structure will be able to support the heaviest loaded trains at a speed of 45 miles per hour, it is said.

Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways, said the traffic count on District streets dropped appreciably during March. The majority of the 20 counting stations located on main thoroughfares showed a drop of from 3 to 7 per cent in the number of vehicles in March of this year compared with the same month in 1941

Affects Gas Tax. The highway head also said that gasoline consumption decreased 5 per cent in February compared with February, 1941. He expects a falling off of perhaps 30 per cent in gas consumption for the entire year, he said, pointing out that the city will gardening urge in one week end. then receive only about the same amount of money from the 3-centper-gallon tax as it did from the previous 2-cent tax. ## Search in Attic May Produce

With spring housecleaning going on in every home in the country and with all the welfare agencies requesting materials and the service organizations asking for books for soldiers, there is more than the usual amount of delving in attics and cleaning out of old trunks. Just a word about valuable historical material might save many an inter-esting bit for the future.

The welfare organizations want material that is either usable or may be turned into cash. The boys in the armed forces are not interested in old, weather-beaten volumes or old letters pasted in scrapbooks. But museums, historical societies and similar groups may find just the information they have been looking for in an old letter or

Check the old clippings, old newspapers, books and magazines you find stored away. The one who stored them may have had an understanding of their value that has not occurred to you. Cleaning house is one good idea, giving generously is another—and keeping an eye on the future so that nothing of value may be lost might be a new inspiration that would make the spring housecleaning job more interesting.

Adjustable Valve Balances Heating And Cuts Fuel Bill

By HILSON MUNSEY. One of the most important parts of a steam-heating system is the valve. The valves on the radiator provide for the expulsion of air from the radiator and, by closing down after the air is all out, hold the steam in the place where it will do the most good. When the heat goes down and the steam leaves the radiator the valve opens to admit the air, which again is expelled when the steam rises. If the valve does not function properly the radiator becomes airbound and does not become hot because steam cannot make its way into it. Another function of a valve is to distribute the heat into each radiator at the same time so that our houses-the exterior architecthere is an even temperature throughout the house. This prewhich is for the public to see, has vents a room that is served by a radiator nearer to the furnace from little to do with our lives within becoming unbearably hot, while the house, where we actually deanother at the other end of the velop our individuality and where we live distinct from our neighbors.

Adjustable Valves.

Another function of a valve is to clear the pipes which distribute or feed the steam to the smaller pipes connected to the radiators. These mains also fill with air when the steam goes down and they must be emptied of this air before the steam from the boiler can enter The quicker this is done the quicker the heat gets to the rooms above and that means a smaller fuel building that can produce enough of consumption. To do this special valves are installed on these main

America's Housing Problem—Now and Post-War

This is the last of a series of four articles by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc., to appear in The Star's real estate section in which prominent American designers and architects discuss the housing problem and give their ideas about the house of the future. Mr. Nelson has designed buildings in Washington, New York and Paris. By PAUL NELSON. I have long maintained that a house should not only be a place to live in, but should also be a seat of culture for the individual-a place where he can temporarily isolate himself from the outside world. This means that architecture should develop on the inside of the house—for enrichment of the lives It has always been the outside of ture-which has been the most highly developed. Yet this exterior, > SELECTING THE HOME-Paul Nelson here pictures a young married couple of the future visiting a housing show and selecting the outside frame of their new home from a number of models. Once this frame was erected, the couple would then buy room units at a prefabricator's showroom and have them installed.

example, would be unloaded and set Leaders Open Program in place inside your home. With the most essential rooms installed, your home would be ready for living. Then you could plan for additional rooms to add extra pleasure and convenience to life. When your family became smaller rooms no longer necessary could be sold or traded in on rooms for

Finally, if you found your house no longer suitable or had to move away, the exterior of the house would be salable, because any deterioration of the rooms inside could not affect its value. And the old rooms could be shipped to your new house or sold on the "used house"

This conception need not be imaginary after the war, when materials again become available for public use. It seems to me we are going toward a period of architecture unsurpassed.

By creating the home in contrast to the house, by providing greater living convenience, comfort and enjoyment, by freeing the individual for richer cultural development and by doing these things in a way which brings them down within reach of millions this conception could provide better living for the present generation.

First Aid For the Ailing House

By ROGER B. WHITMAN.

Q. I am thinking of covering plain wallpaper with casein paint, but am told that if I wish to paper the rooms next year it could not be done, for the casein paint would prevent the present paper from being taken off. Is the casein paint really water-

A. Casein paint is waterproof to the extent that water will not take it off. But it is absorbent, and when well soaked with water, the paper underneath would. I believe, become loosened. Of course, the quality of the paint and of the paper would make a difference, but I think that you would be safe in going

Watering the Furnace. Q. Water was heard coming down between the walls of my flat, and in the basement I found water dripping from all the pipes leading from the hot-air furnace to the second-floor spartment. On asking the tenant what she was doing, she explained that she was pouring buckets of water into each register to clean out the pipes, because of the dust that was coming into them. By doing this has she damaged the furnace and the pipes? As the pipes are tin, will they rust? Did the water go into the furnace?

A. That certainly was a most improper way to attempt to clean out the pipes. However, as the system was warm, the water that remained the pipes would quickly evaporate jacket, and I should think would quickly soak through the floor and Plywood Floor. Q. My kitchen floor is plywood The builder says it was well nailed but to me it seems loose, with vibration and knock. Should the floor have been glued down? A. Plywood is not satisfactory as flooring material, for the surface is likely to scuff and splinter with use. Gluing should not be necessary. It flooring solidly to the beams. Plywood is an excellent base for linoleum and, if properly laid, there should be no trouble. Cleaning Asbestos Shingles. Q. We have white asbestos shingles on our house. They are getting very dirty, and we were wondering if there would be any way to

A. Scrub the walls with a longhandled brush, using a handful of trisodium phosphate in a bucket of water. Grocers sell this chemical under various trade names. Rinse off with your garden hose.

Frozen Leaders. Q. Because of the last heavy snowfall, the leaders over my open-type front porch froze, and when the snow melted, caused a downpour of water to leak through the floor of the porch and into the cellar. Three weeks ago I used a roofing compound of tar and filled in all the cracks possible under the porch. This evidently was not sufthat can waterproof the porch floor? A. One method is to fill in all cracks, crevices and openings with roofing cement, especially the joint between the wall and the sur-face of the porch floor (not the underside). Leader pipes can be kept from freezing by the installation of a ball-shaped unit in the top opening. Your roofer should be able to not be connected to the tank because of possible damage from soapsuds and drain cleaning compounds. Is this true?

A. For best results the kitchen sink should be connected to a septic tank through a separate drain pipe provided with a grease This trap will separate the grease from the rest of the drainage and you will not need to use a drain cleaning compound. Also, the operation of the septic tank will be

New Insulating Board.

One of the small effects of war on the building field came to our attention recently when a familiar insulating board, made of tile and plank styles, was shown to us. The board, made in white, green, buff and a blend of coral tones, has a wider color range than formerly, but the surface seems smoother and harder. The makers say this is because their board now is made of wood pulp instead of Hawaiian cane. A new plant in the South has been put into production to supply the pulp for the new board, which lends tself to attractive finishes.

This board not only helps save fuel by keeping heat indoors in winter, but it is decorative at the same time. Being hard surfaced, it will wear well and can be repainted inexpensively. In form and color it is adaptable to many designs. You can create an effect of vertical lines to give greater apparent ceiling height, horizontal lines, to reduce the

The insulating board costs from 51/2 to 6 cents a square foot, depending upon design, color and quantity needed.

Texas Guard Outfit Presumably Seized By Japs on Java

Men's Morale Excellent On Their Last March Through Bandoeng

By GEORGE WELLER, Correspondent of The Star and Chicago Daily News.

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, April 4.-American troops comprising the field artillery from the Texas National Guard went grimly through Bandoeng about 2 p.m. Sunday, March 1. They must have numbered about 800 and their caissons were muddy from the devious, approximately 600-mile drive from Malang.

These men were tired from having driven all day and most of the night. but whenever your correspondent standing beside an American colonel in front of Homan's Savoy Hotel in Bandoeng, called "Yay, Texas," they raised their hands in salute.

They were mounted on everything from big six-wheeled trucks to little bathtub jeeps. All were big and they looked brown and fit. One man responded to your correspondent's call by slapping his hand across his rifle and yelling, "Yeah, man!" Then truly, one knew that the Yanks had come

Lt. Gen. Hein Ter Poorten, Dutch commander in chief, had sent the American artillery into action about 25 miles outside Batavia not far from Tangerant. Their mission was to keep shellfire falling on the Japs who had landed on Bantum Peninsula and were advancing on Batavia. Apparently the Americans reached their position late Sunday night. What execution they wrought and what their casualties were prior to their eventual capture cannot be known until disclosed by the Japs. All American naval forces except 10 wounded and all other Army forces except two intelligence officers and four enlisted men had already left Your corrospondent continued to try to get news about the Texans until he left on Tuesday, March 3, on the last vessel which penetrated the Jap cruisers, submarines and aircraft carrier, south of Tjilatjap, but obtained no further details. The men's morale was excellent. This was the same battalion which furnished gunners for flying fortresses and even mechanics to help the Air Corps' ground staffs, whose maintenance problems were formidable.

Audacious Jap Thrust. About 2.000 Australians were defending Batavia's airdrome under Col. Arthur S. Blackburn, peacetime soldier, who previously had been the city coroner of Adelaide.

This force presumably is also prisoner and reasonably unhurt, be-cause, contrary to expectations, the Japs' aim near Batum was not to cause, contrary to expectations, the Japs' aim near Batum was not to take Batavia's airdrome, but merely to isolate Batavia and Tanjong Priok as they had isolated Soerabaja.

Japan's bid for an airdrome to dominate the sky situation and strike at Bandoeng was an audacious and completely successful thrust at a field only about 60 miles by road and 30 miles by air from the mountain town where Gen. Ter Poorten planned to make his last stand. By backroads two Jap trucks heavily armed and loaded with 80 infantrymen came from the beachhead at Indramajoe up the mountainous road and suddenly burst on the airfield at Kalidjati. Here were based such few remaining Royal Air Force planes as had survived the navy Zeros' hit and run attacks on Palembang and Batavia. The R. A. P. was caught completely off guard, only one pillot being able to make a getaway in a riddled plane by lying flat on his face in the cockpit and working the controls with his hands. Only the great mountain of Tangkrebene Praphe seeperates this air Only the great mountain of Tang-

Gain Airdrome Quickly. Thus, 24 hours after this landing in Java, the Japs gained an airdrome so close to Bandoeng that fighter planes were overhead almost before they got sufficient height. After that Bandoeng was subjected constantly to intensified bombing and machine gunning. Furthermore, Allied troops hold-ing the line between the mountain and the lowland now began to be bombed and machine gunned from the rear-a type of attack which makes retreat difficult. On Monday afternoon your cor-respondent saw an almost continuous air battle over Bandoeng while a young Dutch pilot in furred boots stood nearby saying: "They got 10 of our planes on the ground for every one in the air." Thereafter the raids were intensified and, after they reached six daily, Bandoeng announced the continuous air alert which preceded its surrender. (Copyright, 1942, Chicago Daily News, Inc.)

Police Supt. Edward J. Kelly yesterday praised the value of swimming both as a safety measure and body-building exercise in indorsing the boys' learn-to-swim campaign to be conducted April 6 to 11 by the Young Men's Christian Association in co-operation with The Star.

Maj. Kelly said the campaign is "very worthwhile project" and asserted that it will be of "unquestionable assistance" in reducing the number of drownings in nearby waters. The police superintendent also declared "there is no more healthful and body building exercise than swimming," adding: "Swimming seems such an inseparable part of boyhood that no boy who has not learned to swim has fully enjoyed the happiest hours of his life."

Boys from 8 to 18 are eligible for the free course in swimming instruction, to begin Monday. The registration deadline is 6 p.m. today. Boys who have not already registered must do so either in person or

The Rodeo's Here at Riverside Stadium

Back of Riverside Stadium, virtually on the banks of the riled and muddy Potomac, stands one of the strangest and most gypsy-like colonies in sports. It embraces all of the atmosphere and practical qualities of a trailer camp, a zoo and a western ranch. It's Col. Jim Eskew's rodeo.

Washington hasn't had much experience with rodeos. Last year Col. Eskew brought his show to Uline's Arena, however, and it was reported to be one of the biggest, if not the biggest, money-makers at the big concrete carbarn. This would seem to indicate that tenderfoot folk around town sort of liked the business.

Trying to hit the jackpot again, Col. Eskew's Rodeo shifts to Riverside and the cur'ain goes up today. The "name" of the show is Hoot Gibson, the elderly novie cowboy, but from what this curious bystander is able to gather Mr. C. son simply rides his movie horse, Dusty, who does tricks, and then Hoot twirls a rope. The heart of rodeo, we were told, is the competitive angle.

A Mr. Fred (Fog Horn) Clancy, who actually sounds as if he were talking with his throat slit from ear to ear, was the enlightener, possibly because he is the sombreroed, high-booted drum-beater for the outfit. "A rodeo," he explained, "probably is a good deal like a race track. Various people, like Col. Eskew, are assigned dates and they set up sites in various parts of the country. For instance, Col. Eskew's last site was in Buffalo last November. Col. Eskew is like the Bowie Race Track-he must wait until he can operate again while no other major rodeos are going on. Then he gets the cream of the crop from Fort Worth, Florida, St. Louis and other sections."

Part-Brahma Bulls Develop Individual Personalities

The cowboys, we are told, ship like race horses. They jump from rodeo to rodeo. In other words, except for people like Clancy-everybody seems to call him Mr. Fog Horn-Col. Eskew operates with a very small staff. The rodeo competitors do not belong to him, nor does Mr. Gibson. The old Hoot was hired by Severine Leoffler, who runs Riverside Stadium. Gibson gets a lot of pre-rodeo pictures in the papers, yet, and Mr. Leoffler

Col. Eskew, it develops, also furnishes the animals, although sprinkled over the lawn in back of Riverside are metal contraptions named "O'Neill Horse Trailers," suggesting that free-lance cowboys bring along their own horses. As for the livestock stooges owned by Eskew, they are a fearful sight. In one corral is a rare collection of beefy, part-Brahma bulls, each of which seems to have developed an exceptionally sinister personality. Next door, separated by a wire fence and surrounded on all sides by cowboy trailers, are the regulation steers used in the neck-wringing contests.

According to Mr. Fog Horn, cowboys from all over the country will compete in this rodeo. There was felt a sharp impulse to find where the fellows came from-catching the pearls as they fell from individual lipsbut the cowpunchers happened to be kneeling in the mud back of the stadium and shooting craps. Realizing this was no time to interrupt a winner who was hot, or a loser who was trying to get his back; we left it up to Mr. Fog Horn. "Where," we asked Clancy, "are the best cowboys- last night successfully defended his Texas, Florida, New Mexico, Montana * * *?"

Mr. Fog Horn Admits Floridians Are Good

Having all breeds in his rodeo, Mr. Fog Horn was diplomatic. "There's Honolulu in the 440-mile free style no way of rating 'em," he said. "In Texas there are a lot of good cowpunchers who can do tricks on an open plain that no other cowpunchers can duplicate. The Florida cowboys really aren't called cowboys; they Jim Counselman, Ohio State freshare called Marsh poppers. They can do more things in marshes, with the man from St. Louis and the new spring rivalry today with the Cubs ground all but under water and snakes crawling and scrubs in their way, 220-yard breast stroke victor; Kiyo- holding a 4-2 advantage in games. than the Texas and Montana boys."

It sometimes is difficult for the annual Miami Beach visitor from mate from the North to imagine that cowboys, real ones, exist in Florida. But along the Indian River and mid-State, toward Kissimmee, there are plenty of them. They wear the big-brimmed hats and ride small, shaggy horses to herd diminutive, shaggy cattle, although the cattle are getting bigger these days since the importation of the humpbacked Brahma bulls.

The cowboys and cowgirls of the Florida few Northern visitors are destined to see are no pushovers for the old-style Westerners. They can, and have, matched them in bronco-busting, bull-riding, lassoing and other niceties of the rodeo. Many times this observer, aghast, has seen a nondescript Florida cowboy, riding a nondescript, undersized horse, plod through the marshes while holding the reins in one hand and a very alive, wriggling rattlesnake with the other, fingers clamped firmly and patiently behind the jaws of the snake. At the Florida canneries a live rattler is worth, perhaps, 50 cents.

Flash! The Cowhands, Too, Are Unionized!

Mr. Fog Horn Clancy is a Westerner from 'way back. He used to boss John L. Sullivan-at least as much as anybody could boss J. L.-on the "Boston Strong Boy's" last tour. Fog Horn also was a boxing promoter and a master of ceremonies back in the days when there were no microphones, and not enough police bodyguards. He palled with Frank the Milford Alleys bettered three James, brother of Jesse. He is as Western as cactus, but Mr. Fog Horn maintains he can see merit in Florida cowhands.

What surprised us was Mr. Clancy's admission that competitive cowpunchers now are unionized. We go back, now, to those huge fierce half-Brahma bulls in the Riverside corral. One of the stunts on the program is the Brahma ride and for years the cowboys got less for this bit of daring, it seems, than for riding a mere bucking broncho or lassoing and twisting the neck of a plain, everyday steer.

"The boys kind o' figured it was unfair," he explained, "and so they was unionized. It's called the Cowboys' Turtle Association and it was got rolled by Miss Simmons and Ray up in 1936, when promoters began importing those ornery Brahma bulls. They wanted the same dough for riding those blamed bulls as for riding anything else and now they're getting it. Also, if one of them is killed the nearest of kin gets $500-in cold cash.'

Mr. Fog Horn explained that the dues were $15 a year, of which $5 went into the killin' fund. "They don't belong to the C. I. O. or to the A. F. L.," he added, with what we imagined was a proud note, "and, so far, Westbrook Pegler ain't hit 'em with anything yet.'

A.A.U. Title, Virtually Won, Would Climax Great Campaign

By LOU BLACK. NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 4.-If Yale's mighty swimming forces should miss winning the National A. A. U. team championship today, it'll not only be startling news, but a miracle.

The powerful Eli's array, which has mopped up everything so far, including the Eastern and national collegiates, needs only the A. A. U. crown to climax one of the greatest aquatic campaigns in modern history. And that title was all but wrapped up.

As the three-day championships entered the final phase, Yale's 32point score was overwhelming. Nearest were Princeton, 6, and Mercersberg Academy, 5. And only the latter appeared to be in a position to add to its total, mainly because of Alan Ford, an 18-year-old schoolboy wonder.

Ford Shatters Record. Ford was the sensation of last night's competition, winning the 220-yard free style in record time. The Balboa, Canal Zone, youngster will try for his second crown tonight when he attempts to dethrone Otto Jaretz of the Pasadena A. C., as the 100-yard free-style champ.

The century promises to produce a great race. In addition to Jaretz, who was shorn of his 220-yard spring title yesterday, the field includes Howie Johnson, Yale's blond bullet who several months ago equaled the 51 seconds world record held jointly by Johnny Weissmuller and Peter Fick.

Adolph Kiefer of Chicago, who 300-yard medley diadem in record time, is fayored to repeat in his 150-yard backstroke speciality, but not so Champion Paul Herron of Champion Is Challenged.

Herron, to win, must beat off what looms as scorching challenges from shi Nakama, Counselman's team- Yesterday the Sox made five errors Chouteau, the Eastern and national collegiate champion.

Yale's 300-yard medley relay trio Leaguers, 8-7. was rated highly to duplicate the performance of its victorious 400yard free style relay team, and Jim Cook, who added the meet's 1-meter dive crown to his Eastern title, was Cleveland after snapping a fourgiven a good chance for a double in the 3-meter.

MILFORD, Conn., April 4.- Florence Reynolds and Ray Anderson of world duckpin records between them last night as they completed a 20game match with Jo Marsh and Jack Kamerzel of Devon

Miss Reynolds' 20-game score was 2,512, or 26 pins more than the women's record of 2,486 set by Ida Simmons of Norfolk, Va., in 1935. Their 10-game doubles score was 2,679, against the record of 2,567 Von Dreele of Baltimore at Washington, D. C., in 1936; and their 20game score was 5,125, or 295 pins over the record 4.830 established by Katherine Vick and Bill Gauer of Norfolk in 1939.

Stake Winners As 2-Year-Olds Develop Well

Devil Diver, Shut Out And Buckskin Pack Greentree Hopes

By SID FEDER,

NEW YORK, April 4.-Around and about on the backstretch, when the pot belly stove thaws out the conersation these nippy mornings, the boys get together after the dawn workouts and tell each other this could be a Whitney year. And, if the first family of the turf is due, the boys don't see any reason why the first lady of the first family shouldn't start it off down there at the Downs May 2, when the trumpets softly sound "My Old Kentucky Home" and a necklace of roses is worth a fortune. This would be Mrs. Payne Whitney, and the worst you can say about the chances of racing's leading lady in the Kentucky Derby is "could be." Because Mrs. Whitney holds a pretty pat hand for the big pot this time. All three were stake winners last year at two, and they've grown up on their holiday since last fall to be a set of husky gallopers, And just to show you that the Greentree outfit isn't kidding this time, after 11 years of waiting since its last Derby winner, all three have been brought over, direct from their winter vacation on the farm, to Lexington, to get ready for the Derby right close to the Derby's home ground Even Head Trainer John Gaver has left New York and is down there already making the wheels go 'round. From deep in the heart of the blue grass today came word that Gaver was feeling pretty good about his chances particularly with Devil Divers and Shut Out. Like most trainers, who don't like to start singing until the music's right, Big Jawn wouldn't come right out in meeting Croucher may be a total loss. Toronto eliminated the New York Rangers, only team to top the Maple Leafs in the league standings, in the class "A" semifinal series, while Detroit had to whip Montreal's Pro Courtmen to Plan Canadiens and the defending Boston Bruins to gain the championship

Tonight's contest will be the first of two played in Toronto. The second will be here Tuesday night, then the teams go to Detroit for the second pair, scheduled April 9 and 12. The first team to win four games will own the title.

Coaches of both teams have elected to stand pat on the line-ups which carried their clubs through the earlier rounds.

A crowd of about 15,000 is expected to see the opening game, in which the home team has been established a 2-1 favorite.

At left, Mona wears a softly detailed suit in coral color with one of the new print "bow blouses" repeating the tone. Her hat is an off-the-face felt in black. Martha has chosen a soft plaid suit, slightly more tailored, worn with a beige topcoat to "pick up" the background color of the plaid. The hat is a soft blue felt in combination bonnet and clocke silhouette.

Design your dresser top to fit your space. If you have plenty of room you can not improve on the one illustrated for good design and convenience. The ease and comfort of a real chair rather than the usual bench is possible with this arrangement, and the table has room for decorative as well as useful accessories. If your space is narrow, a small shelf is all that is necessary for "primping" purposes, and you may set lamps on the wall at either side of the mirror. In this case also, a slender narrow bench which may be pushed under the table when not in use is in order.

Welcome News!

Sloppy campus styles disappearing.

By Helen Vogt

Far be it from this department to doubt the sacred word of the fashion experts, but to tell you the truth, we just didn't believe this good news about the schoolgirl set. When, for example, the people who spend lifetimes investigating such things reported that the young set was becoming fashion conscious once more, we elevated an eyebrow and looked something more than doubtful. "Don't tell us that," we said. "We've seen too many messy saddle shoes and 'kerchiefs tied over the head. We're an old hand at noting sloppy sweaters and skirts that look as though they've been worn for weeks without seeing a pressing iron! No, sir, fashion people, you may tell more gullible folk that the high school and college crowd has reformed, but you gotta prove it to us!"

But now we take it all back. The fashionists weren't wrong and they weren't given to wishful thinking. These younger ladies are becoming more and more aware of the importance of good grooming. With our own eyes we've seen it. The other day we jogged out to a nearby junior college complete with a flock of clothes which represented our idea of what the well-dressed girl should wear. All the way out we muttered to ourselves. "Saddle shoes," we snarled. "Probably, they'll turn up their noses at dresses with pleats, and hats with veils." When we arrived, we were sure that we had guessed right, for lounging on the spacious steps of the school were a number of attractive girls in short skirts and scuffed-up moccasins. But then things began to happen. The clothes were unpacked and the young ladies were more than enthusiastic. They gave squeals of delight when a navy crepe dress with accordion pleated skirt and lingerie ruffle was produced. They fell in love with a tiny white hat with an infinitesimal veil, were charmed with a plaid tailored suit and a dressier one in soft coral tone. And they said, "Why, these are the things we've been looking for! They're just

So, what was a mere fashion editor to do but break down and admit that she was wrong? Saddie shoes and "sloppy joes" persist inside the sacred and secluded walls of a girls' school, but when it comes to a public appearance, you won't find a better groomed bunch of young ladies. Two of them flew by us that afternoon on the way to a matinee, and they could have stepped from the pages of a fashion magazine. The smart little dresses were there, and so were the perky hats and even a silver fox

Since then, we've talked, somewhat shamefacedly, to other schoolgirls, and we find that "the revolution" has arrived. These young ladies are taking more and more pride in their appearance. Some say it's because the boys in uniform like them to look feminine and pretty, and they expect the same degree of neatness in their girls that the top sergeant demands of them.

All ready to leave for home is Rosemary Gordon, pausing on the steps of the spacious school she attends. Rosemary has chosen navy for a coat and crepe dress with soft lingerie collar and accordion-pleated skirt. . . . White gloves with navy stitching and a tiny white hat with navy band and veiling complete a charming picture.

Washington Wears—

Tomorrow's the big day, the day when (barring a blizzard) Washington will put on its finery and inaugurate an Easter parade second to none. . . . It should be a promenade well worth seeing, if past performances are a criterion, for in the last week there have been any number of smart new costumes noted, in both day and evening types. . . .

There's Mrs. Burrall Hoffman, for example, in a smart little taillored suit of navy and a perky sailor hat with quill. . . . Chic, with a smartness that suggests Paris, Mrs. Hoffman is being watched closely by the fashion scribblers who describe in detail her wonderful gold and diamond jewelry, as well as her delightful habit of wearing evening pajamas and turban for "at home" entertaining. . . . The town also is talking about Mrs. C. Matthews Dick, long noted for her "best dressed" qualities. The other evening she put her stamp of approval on the Chinese influence in fashion, choosing a slim, Oriental tunic over a narrow black skirt for one of the most striking dinner dresses of the season. . . Some of the New York style authorities have been down to investigate all this talk about Washington as the "fashion Capital of the world." . . . At cocktails the other afternoon, Rosellen Callahan, fashion editor of C. B. S. looked charming in a trim navy suit, enhanced by an unusual crystal lapel clip. . . . In town for the day, Princess Gourielli wore a high-crowned John-Frederics sailor with a huge buckle in front and a sheer mesh snood. . . . And speaking of hats, they" are talking Alex Hagner's habit of matching gloves and chapeaux. . . . Her newest is a navy sailor trimmed in Kelly green, with gloves of the latter tone. Bea Wanamaker's pink "skull cap" is another charming note in the spring parade, particularly since she always wears fresh pink carnations on the shoulder of her dark dresses. . . .

Dining and dancing was Priscilla Naecker, fashion-right in a bright red crepe dress and hat in the same shade. . . . Mrs. I. William Hill sporting a very fancy lucite pin in flying-fish-form. . . . Kay adores costume jewelry and has another huge pin in the shape of a bright red lobster. . . . Looks very chic on a dark dress. . . . Mrs Richard Porter Davidson, convalescing from an illness, received her friends on that snowy Palm Sunday in a hostess gown of soft black velvet, with wide bands of scarlet outlining the deep armholes. . . . Mrs. James Lawrence Houghteling wears a dinner gown of plum color, studded with gold nail heads. . . . Her new daughter-in-law, the junior Mrs. Houghteling, received at a cocktail party given in her honor in a frock of soft gray, with a corsage of pink camellias, and one huge pink camellia tucked in her black hair. . . . Senora de Blanco, wife of the Ambassador from Uruguay wears a white mantilla of exquisite old lace thrown over her dark hair at informal dinners. . . . Mrs. Lawrence Wood Robert, jr., has a dinner gown of sheer black, with which she wears a sheer black scarf bordered with cartridge pleating of stiff faille. . . Mrs. Forbes Morgan of New York, in town for a day, was smart in a gray tailleur, a black pull-over sweater and small black hat with a short veil.

with the top down and, best of all, a new ensemble to be admired? Into the car steps Kathryn Hamrick in one of the season's smartest young fashions. Of wool jersey, the dress has a long torso white bodice and a pleated multi-colored skirt. The jacket of green has over-sized pearl buttons, and Kathryn's jaunty straw hat and dressmaker bag are red, of the same shade featured in the striped skirt. This spring will find the "junior" group looking prettier than ever.

and old. Who are the most pop-the ladies at the heads of departments, and the high-priced buyers are no glamour girls.

The truth is that women put too much stress on mere physical beauty. In reality it is one of the things we admire more in the abstract than we do in the concrete. It attracts us at first glance, but it does not hold us, and there are a dozen attributes that a woman can have that take her farther than violet eyes and naturally wavy hair. Even with

Make Perfume Individual and All Your Own

Our department of incidental feminine data reports there's something vitally wrong with our methods of applying perfume. Any fragrance we choose, they say, should be individual-definitely ours. So, they offer some suggestions by Bernadine Angus, a woman who creates perfumes as a hobby and who has, therefore, made an intensive study of the subject. She reports:

 Men like sparkling aromas, not sweet, cloying scents. If you like heavy, Oriental perfumes, use them sparingly. Spray your hair and clothes with a lighter perfume to blend with this heavier aroma, thus creating a fragrance that will spell "you" with a capi-

2. Perfume your hands so that your warm, hearty handclasp will leave "you" when the original has departed in a cloud of perfumed splendor.

3. Don't waste your precious perfume on handkerchiefs. It will be washed off immediately. No matter if it's refreshing when you sniff into your 'kerchiefyou'd still best apply it to your gloves, your hair, your veils or the hem of your skirt. That's what Mrs. Angus says.

4. Your most precious perfume should be used a drop at a time on a piece of cotton sewed in a tiny satin bag like an amulet and worn inside your lingerie next to your heart!

A man may rave over a living picture, but he shies away from the expense of keeping it properly framed. When he marries he wants a wife who will admire him instead of one before whom he will have to continually burn incense. When he hires a new secretary, he wants one whose looks won't make his wife greeneyed and keep her snooping on his office.

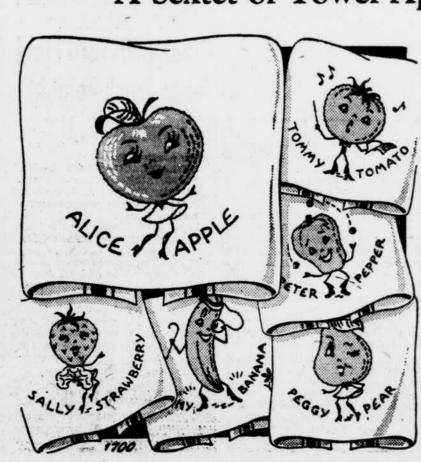

But, after all, discouraged daughter, there is balm in Gilead for you, and if you don't like your looks there is a lot you can do about them. No girl nowadays need be as homely as God made her unless she is totally lacking in enterprise and energy. For while, as the Bible says, it may be true that no man adds two cubits to his stature by taking thought, a woman is not so inhibited. She can turn mousy hair into gold and straight locks into such ravishing curls as nature never made, and change the dumplest figure into a stringbean if that is her ideal.

She can also camouflage homeliness with good clothes that do for her face what the pink mosquito netting does for the basket of green peaches. Thank heaven the general public never differentiates between a woman and what she has on, and when they say "how pretty Mary looks tonight," they are probably complimenting her mauve chiffon and not herself.

And there are so many other things that a girl can substitute for beauty that are more potent allures than the real thing. There is sweetness and gentleness and kindliness that make the plainest face lovely. There is intelligence and gayety and wit that make us forget the outside of a woman and think only of the beauty of her mind

There is sympathy and understanding, and any woman looks good to us who gives us these. There is charm that is made up of all of these things and something else that our fairy godmother gives us when she kisses us in our cradles. And when a girl has these she can snap her fingers in the face of Miss

A Sextet of Towel Appliques

By Peggy Roberts

Have you ever seen a group of towels with such personality? These six little fruit and vegetable entertainers will seem like old friends when they hang on the towel rack or smile up at you from a frivolous luncheon mat set. A housewife does well to keep the family in good spirits and there's no better way than to keep herself cheerful and her home cheerful, too.

These towels would make delightful shower gifts, or you could make several sets to take to your hostesses when you go visiting this summer.

Appliqued bits of cloth make the little figures and simple embroidery finishes off the designs, or they may be made in embroidery alone.

40 Geodetic Survey Officers Transferred

officers of the Coast and Geodetic Survey have been transferred to the armed forces by executive order, Rear Admiral L. O. Colbert, director of the survey, announced yesterday. The latest survey vessels assigned to the Navy are the Oceanographer, formerly J. P. Morgan's yacht Corsair, and the Hydrographer. Comdr. Henry B. Campbell was the skipper of the Oceanographer at the time of her transfer and is one of the officers assigned to the Navy. Lt. Comdr. William H. Scaife, who was appointed commanding officer of the Hydrographer in February, has also been assigned to the Navy.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Brown's Boy had been afraid at the very sight of one of Buster Bear's big footprints they had at once made a hero of Buster, at least some of them had. You see they thought that if Farmer Brown's Boy was afraid of Buster, why of course, Buster couldn't be afraid of Farmer Brown's Boy. And as this was the first time, the very first time, that they had ever known any one who lives in the Green Forest to make

Farmer Brown's Boy run away, they looked on Buster Bear with a great deal of respect and were very proud of him. Some of them took great that Farmer Brown's Boy had run away as fast as ever he could, it was also true that Buster Bear had done the same thing. He had run even faster than Farmer Brown's Boy and had hidden in the most lonely place he could find in the very deepest part of the Green Forest. It was hard to believe, but it was true. And right away everybody lost a great deal of the respect for him which they had felt. It was always that way. They began to say unkind things about him. They said them among themselves, and some of them even said them to Buster when they met him, or said them so that he

West opened the king of hearts, and South ruffed. With a normal trump break, South would lose one trump and probably two diamonds, but the double (for which East certainly couldn't be censured) warned him that trumps were going to break badly. Declarer, therefore, looked for a way to win seven trump tricks in addition to dummy's three winners in the side suits. If each entry to dummy was used for a ruff, and if the side suits broke the right way, there was a chance for the contract.

At the second trick, therefore, South led a club to dummy's ace and ruffed a second round of hearts. Another club to the king was followed by a club ruff. Then South led a trump to dummy's king and ruffed a third round of hearts. Finally, he led a diamond to dummy's ace and ruffed a fourth round of clubs.

All of this time. East had been following suit helplessly. South had contrived to take nine tricks without cashing the trump ace. At the end, East took his three tricks, while West played winning diamonds on the same tricks. South had managed to consolidate his diamond losers, together with his trump losers, so that his opponents' high cards fell together on the same

'Male Animal' Keeps Zest In Earle Screen Version

Misery on the Campus Gay Affair In Picture Starring Henry Fonda; Roxyettes Back From Vacation

It was a dull season a couple of years ago when "The Male Animal" showed up on Broadway. Audiences had begun to fear that the gift of laughter had been snatched from the hearts of playwrights. Then, along came the Thurber-Nugent comedy, literate, human and surcharged with wit and the natural order of things seemed to have been restored. People went out into the night laughing and feeling light hearted and, behold, it was very good. The movies which are always alert

That feeling of being with Henry Fonda and Olivia de misunderstood creates an internal Havilland in the principal roles is turmoil which virtually wrecks a an agreeable and literate funny huge State university before it is brought under control. Out of it, for all the sad sound of it, has been

The business of the stage version was good enough that Nugent de-cided to follow it quite precisely in the vehicle for Fonda and Miss de Havilland. He also has kept the faith in the characterization of his "The Male Animal" is a college clever fable. There is the dispicture that is unlike any other traught wife, the deep-skulled forcollege picture you ever saw. Its mer all-America halfback, the presihero is not a wacky co-ed or a dent of the board of trustees who wackier lame brain or even an ab- regards all young professors as dangerous reds, the immature firebrand of the college literary magazine, the co-ed who thinks higher education is to be derived from abandoned association with the handiest male student, and many others. The aggregate is pretty wonderful and so are the antics through which they go.

Fonda gets one of his better roles as the miserable, neurotic young professor, who communicates his disorder to the entire sampus. It is a fine thing he makes of it, too especially in that drunken lecture on biology, which is the funnies scene of its kind ever written. Miss De Havilland turns out to have been an acceptable choice for the wife whose effort to comprehend the intellectual-emotional life of her husband drives her to an endlessly amusing distraction. Minor parts, which are not so competents, such as young Joan Leslie. Eugene Pallette, Jack Carson, Jean Ames.

In addition to its other virtues "The Male Animal" is a very handsome thing visually. Higher education never looked more attractive, as a matter of fact.

The return of the Roxyettes, who have been away for four weeks on vacation, is virtually the most pleasant note in the brief, bright stage show which Harry Anger has shaken up for this week. Its other features are a quintet, the Arnauts and Nolly, who prove that the violin is a comic instrument; Carol King, who dances so excellently there never is a dull moment, and the co-eds, six girls and six men, who sing good enough arrangements of some good enough songs.

What every one schemes for is a codified announcement to New Order subscribers that "Plan 21" of the Japanese general staff will go into effect early December 7. To Miss Bari, as a British agent, falls the lot of learning the contents of the note and notifying the proper authorities accordingly. In this task she receives the belated help of an outcast American, Mr. Foster, who owns a gambling den in Shanghai and eventually becomes a raging patriot. Mr. Madison—Japanese agent, Saito-and his henchmen stand in the way of both. These are the parties who, in line with formula, chase each other about the by-ways of Shanghai, exchanging pistol shots and applying those sublime tricks of torture at which the little Sons of Heaven excel.

By HARRY MacARTHUR. Feature-length cartoons—the ones not made by Mr. Disney, that isaffect some people in much the same manner as do ice shows. They are clever and they please the eye—but half of one of them is often quite a sufficiency at one sitting. Or maybe feature-length cartoons—and ice shows, too, for all we know-are only for the young in heart, if any has a heart that is young these bombers, is the headline attraction

These remarks are prompted by the fact that a frothy and frolicsome heroes, the disasters, the forecasters, enough affair called "Mr. Bug Goes to Town," made by the artists employed by one Max Fleischer, opened yesterday at the Metropolitan. It is frothy and frolicsome enough and should please the kiddles considerably, but it ticks off no milestones of advancement in its particular
