COMPROMISE CURB ON WAR PROFITS VOTED

India Reported Cool to Britain's New Concession

Defense Minister Appointment Would Go to Native

(Earlier Story on Page A-7.) By the Associated Press.

NEW DELHI, India, April 7 .-The Working Committee of the All-India Congress was reported tonight to have decided to adhere to its stand against the British independence plan in spite of a British offer to appoint an Indian as Defense Minister.

Reports that the dominant Hindu group still opposed the British program for dominion status after the war followed announcement by the Moslem League president, Mohammed Ali Jinnah, that the British war cabinet was prepared to hand the defense portfolio to "a representative Indian.

Jinnah said this concession was made by the British war cabinet in its reply to Indian criticism of the original British proposal for India's post-war independence.

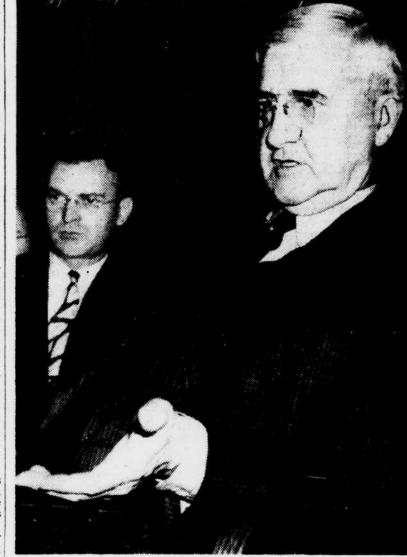

Nevertheless, despite this offer and renewed efforts by a United States envoy, the leader of the Hindu All-Indian Congress party expressed forthright objections to other phases of the program, and signs grew that the whole plan probably would fail of general Indian acceptance.

In Touch With White House.

It was learned that the American emissary, Louis Johnson, had been in recent touch with the White House regarding the Indian negotiations.

Jinnah said the British negotiator. Sir Stafford Cripps, told him of the Defense Ministry offer this afternoon and that the proposal would be considered by the Moslem League tomorrow.

Mr. Johnson talked again with Maulana Abul Kalan Azad, president of the All-India Congress party, and Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru a powerful Congress leader after the two had met this morning with Sir Stafford, who announced the proposals. Shortly before, Nehru had declared his opposition to any plan for India from which the peoples of the Indian states were omitteda declaration which Congress quarters said was an indication that the negotiations with Britain were breaking down. One element of the British plan for giving India dominion status was that separate agreements would be made with the Indian states if they chose to remain apart from a post-war federation.

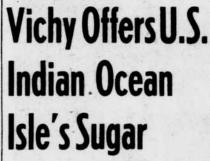

DENIES DELAY IN SYNTHETIC RUBBER PROGRAM-Answering charges from several quarters that he was responsible for delays in quantity production of synthetic rubber, Secretary of Commerce Jones leaned back in the witness chair and sternly testified before the Senate Defense Investigating Committee today that he, on the contrary, had pushed the program. Senate Favors Renegotiation Of Contracts

Flat 6 Pct. Limit And Sliding Scale Plan Eliminated

By the Associated Press. A compromise war profits restriction - providing for renegotiation of high-profit contracts-was approved by the Senate today.

By a 40-to-21 vote it accepted the compromise as a rider to the $19,212,773,260 war appropriation bill. Action came after the Senate voted, 51 to 10, to suspend rules in order to consider the proposal.

The compromise eliminated both the flat 6 per cent profit limit previously voted by the House and a sliding scale of profit limits approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee

It would allow renegotiation of any contract in which unreasonable profits or costs were suspected by the Secretaries of War or Navy or the head of the Maritime Commission. It would apply to future contracts and present ones on which final payments had not been made.

Would Go to Conference.

Senator McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee, floor leader for the measure, told the Senate the action would put the profits limitation matter in the hands of a Senate-House conference group for final drafting. Senator Pepper, Democrat, of Florida also is seeking to have the Senate suspend its rules to consider an amendment to freeze all prices and wages and to prohibit the collection of union fees on Government projects but there were few indications that he could muster sufficient support for this proposal.

Similar Proposal.

A somewhat similar amendment by Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, of Wyoming would provide for Federal chartering of interestate corporations, trade associations and labor unions; limit union initiation fees to $10, require unions to hold annual elections and provide for independent biennial accounting of union funds. These proposals attracted attention, for the authors generally have gone along with the administration on legislation, and it has been emphasized that the administration opposes labor legislation at this

Nehru Stresses Unity.

Sir Stafford was reported to have handed Nehru and Azad a British war cabinet statement. Nehru, speaking at a reception given by Thanu Pillay, president of the Travancore State People's Conference, described those who talk of treaties with the Indian states as "lunatics, fools or knaves."

He also indicated that whatever the British government or its emissary might say, the Indian people had essential unity and that he would fight those who meant to disrupt India.

Declaring that "history will record whether we have moved too fast or too slow" in the drive to curtail civilian industries and convert them to war production, Mr. Nelson said the high point of the program would be reached in a few days with issuance of orders halting most private building construction and prohibiting use of iron and steel in hundreds of items.

"Their impact here and abroad will be widespread and sweeping." the W. P. B. chief predicted, adding that the two orders were part of a pattern, carefully planned by W. P. B., which changes "the face of American industry.'

"Sound But Lean" Economy.

The goal of the program is a sound, but lean civilian economy, Mr. Nelson declared, adding that no one yet knew how "lean" it can be, but that it will "get leaner and leaner as the war program goes on." "We're taking away from the people things which make the standard of living," Mr. Nelson said in his discussion of the changes at a press conference, but "this is the way of total all-out war and the price of early victory

LONDON, April 7 .- The Admiralty announced today that the British destroyer Havock had been wrecked off the coast of French Tunisia

On the suggestion of Senator Johnson, Republican, of California, Chairman Stewart decided to consider implications of the document before disclosing its details. Senator Johnson said he believed publication could cause misgivings between the legislative and administrative branches of Government at a time when unity was the Nation's purpose

Urged Preparedness.

The report was prepared by a commission appointed by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, now Senator from Pennsylvania, to investigate labor conditions in the islands. Chairman Stewart commented that the report interested him because the investigators, sent to study labor problems, emphasized an urgent need for military preparedness in the light of Japanese infiltration.

Senator Maybank said that, while the information obviously was "wa-ter over the dam" its publication ter over the dam," its publication might serve to prevent repetition of mistakes of the past and help assure defense in the future.

Alarming Occupancy of Area. The South Carolinian quoted the commissioners as reporting alarming Japanese occupancy of quarters contiguous to Pearl Harbor and how they were confident of ultimate control by sheer numbers of the Pacific islands. Senator Maybank said he was not criticizing any one for not making the report public at the time because there might have been good reasons for suppression.

Chairman Stewart said he was inclined to publish the report in connection with the committee's consideration of legislation permitting stricter supervision over persons owing allegiance to any nation at war with the United States.

Japan's New Guinea Base Is Raided by Allied Warplanes

Several Enemy Bombers Are Declared Damaged Over Port Moresby

By the Associated Press

MELBOURNE, April 7.-United States and Australian bombers and fighters attacked Japaneseoccupied Lae in New Guinea today, damaging several enemy aircraft, an Australian communique said.

The Japanese threw up intensive anti-aircraft fire, but no effective interception was encountered.

Several Japanese bombers were damaged yesterday in attacking Port Moresby, New Guinea, and two of the defending Australian fighter planes were lost, a communique said early today.

One of the Allied pilots was saved, however, and the raid on Port Moresby was declared a failure. A party of United States Army nurses arrived in Australia today.

Gen. Smart to Go to U. S.

Lt. Gen. E. K. Smart, Australian adviser to the Pacific War Council in Washington, said he expected to leave for the United States soon. He has been studying camps and maneuvers of the United States Army in Australia with the idea of improving the commonwealth's training program.

Other authorities indicated that the Federal Government shortly would take the last step to unify entirely the Australian forces. Unification of pay and service conditions of the militia, called up under a compulsory order, and the volunteers of the Australian Imperial Force was announced last week.

Gen. Smart, 51, disclosed that the staff to go to Washington with him would be made up of Lt. Col. F. G. Sutton, former publisher; Lt. Col. C. W. Hicks, former engineer, and Lt. Col. T. R. Blamey, 27, one of the youngest officers of that rank in the Australian Army.

Short and Kimmel Assailed by May In Talk to 5,000

House Member Favors 'Shooting Match' When Court-Martial Convenes

By the Associated Press.

PIKESVILLE, Ky., April 7.-Chairman May of the House Military Affairs Committee declared yester-day that "when Gen. Short and Admiral Kimmel come up for court martial I'm in favor of holding a hooting match

Then turning to newspapermen seated on the stand from which he addressed 5,000 Army Day celebrants, he said, "You can quote me on that, and if it gets back to Washington that will be all right, too."

Representative May asserted that the deposed commanders of American Army and Navy forces in Hawaii received repeated and ample warnings to take every precaution because war was imminent and that they had not heeded these varnings.

(Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short and Admiral Husband E. Kimmel were relieved of their commands December 17, ten days after the Japanese surprise attack on Pearl Harbor. They face court martial at a time not yet set but expected to be delayed until the end of the war.)

Production Program Defended.

Mr. May devoted much of his talk to a discussion of America's production, stoutly defending the steps taken and decrying as help to Hitler the "repeated assertions by some persons and some newspapers that the war program has broken down." Stating he could not give exact figures because of censorship regulations, he said, "the lowest percentage of increase in vital production since America entered the war has been 40 per cent, and in some cases the figure has gone over 100 per cent. "If, then, in December, 1941, we produced 3.108 fighting planes and if production increased 40 per cent, it would lead a person to believe that more than 4,000 planes were produced in the last month and that if the rate continues the President will have his 1942 quota.

Offensive in 1943 Forecast.

"By the end of the year our production will have reached such proportions there will be no question but what the United Nations will be able to take the offensive on all fronts."

He brought prolonged cheers when he declared, "It won't be long now before American bombs will fall on Tokio, and let me promise you there will be one hell of a fire when that ime comes."

Mr. May asserted that if he had anything to say about matters when the war was over "we won't stop at an armistice, but will go into Berlin and into Tokio and take every gun and every battleship."

took off on an operations flight. Ignoring the dangers from a large bomb and a tank full of gasoline in the wreckage, Corpl. Hickman "risked grave personal injury in stopping to assist his pilot," who was injured.

"It is apparent," the commendation added, "that Capt. Berkeley's successful rescue could not have been effected had it not been for your presence of mind and resourcefulness in the emergency.'

Torpedoes 'Fill Sea,' But Fail to Block Fleeing Norse Ships

Some of Vessels Fired On Point-Blank by Nazis, Survivor Relates

By the Associated Press.

A BRITISH PORT, April 7 .- The Norwegian ships which last week made a daring dash to Britain from Goteborg, Sweden, were attacked repeatedly by German airplanes, naval surface craft and submarines, it was disclosed yesterday.

A combination of heavy fog, skillful seamanship and plain luck enabled the ships to run the German blockade. But some of them were sunk by the Germans.

(Copenhagen dispatches said that from two to four of the ships were sunk and that two turned back to Goteborg.)

A young Norwegian sailor who came through the gantlet said "Those torpedoes seemed to fill the sea."

The ships had been in the Swedish harbor opposite the northern tip of Denmark since the German invasion of Norway and were chartered formally to the British by the Norwegian government-in-exile.

Tremendous Risks.

The problem was to get them through an alert German blockade. The attempt was made last Tuesday "We knew we were taking tremendous risks, but we did not expect things to happen as quickly as they did," the young Norwegian

Germans Declared Showing They Are Prematurely Tapping Spring Reserves

By the Associatea Press. KUIBYSHEV, U. S. S. R., April 7.-Thirty German - occupied communities and a large railway station have fallen before fierce Red Army attacks in the last two days in one sector of the western front, military dispatches reported today.

With land combats continuing in various regions, the Communist party newspaper Pravda said the Germans show they are prematurely tapping their springtime reserves by using tanks painted khaki, rather than winter white in Nazi counterattacks.

Intensified aerial warfare was reported today to have cost the Germans 415 planes in the eight days from March 29 through April 5 while Red Army losses were held to 48.

119 Destroyed Sunday. Soviet flyers and gunners destroyed 119 German aircraft in sky combat and on airdromes Easter Sunday alone while "our losses were 17 planes," the Soviet Information Bureau said.

(The bureau's figures indicated aerial action of a scope unparalleled in Russia since the first days of the German invasion last summer. Such details, however, as the major combat areas and the proportion of victims shot down were not announced.) Red Army men were officially declared to have killed 2,300 Germans advocate general of civilian defense in two days on the Leningrad front activities, and his advisory board. and recaptured 18 more settlements on the Kalinin front to the south.

The Moscow radio said 60 Nazi parachutists attempted to drop behind a Russian line which had repelled repeated ground assaults, and Red Army machine gunners put up such a hail of fire that only three reached the ground alive.

Increased use of cavalry and. horse-drawn sledges by the Red Army is expected during the next six or eight weeks as the battle front becomes a vast quagmire.

Scientists Doubt Use Of Germs in War On Wide Scale

Difficulty in Reaching Thousands in Short Time Cited in 'News Letter'

By the Associated Press.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., April 7 .-Bacterial warfare, sweeping millions of helpless civilians to horrible is still more or less a hideous dream, not likely to be used to any great extent in the present war, University of Michigan public health scientists itself. Gandhi, nevertheless, clearly asserted here today.

Though it is not unlikely that certain attempts to use germs as a weapon of destruction will be made, to employ bacteria in a manner that would have decisive results "is fraught with many complications not apparent to the average persons," it was declared.

A thorough study of the problem was published in the current News Letter of the university's new school of public health, organized on a large scale this year to conduct research on all phases of community health. Dr. G. Howard Gowen is editor of the publication, and he said the article was a compilation of views of several men on the faculty.

Most Feasible Method.

Sabotage of public water, food and milk supplies by enemy agents is the most feasible method for waging effective bacterial warfare, the news bulletin said.

"However," it pointed out, "to make such a venture worthwhile would require that the bacteria walked Gandhi, his arms on the reach thousands of people within a very short time.

The doctors were skeptical of the success of any bacterial attack from the air. adding that an enemy would be inclined "to give it only casual consideration."

Little Control over Spray.

"True enough," they agreed, "airplanes might attempt to spray organisms into the air, but in view of anti-aircraft activities and diverse weather conditions there would be little control over where the bacteria would finally lodge themselves.

"Dropping bacterial bombs would meet the same objections, namely, the fact that there could be no way of assuring that the organisms would get into the air in sufficient quantities to prove harmful.

"An explosive bomb would scatter the bacteria but at the same time would destroy many of the organisms. Celophane, glass bombs and similar items upon landing and breaking would only pollute a small

First, I was told that he was observing silence, then that he had appointments every minute of the day, which, I understand, is true. If there are dreams behind the closed eyelids, they are boyish dreams of bikes and BB guns and the heroic exploits of Superman.

If there is concern here, it is a sort of puzzlement over what's come over Mom and Pop of late . . .

Pop doesn't get home so early as he used to, somehow isn't quite as ready to romp and play as once he was.

And Mom - she's quieter, and every now and then is caught looking at him, long and slow, a brooding tenderness in her eyes.

War? Sure, he knows there's a war. It's in the headlines, names of faraway lands, unreal as any fairy talc.

Pop says they can't get new tires for the car because of the war; and instead of giving him nickels now and then to spend, brings home Defense Savings Stamps that he says will be spending money "after the war's won."

TOWARD A BETTER FUTURE

War accelerates the pace of progress. Out of Goodyear's work on war goods already have come numerous developments that will be sable after the war is won, including:

Combat tires and bullet-pun ner tubes for armored cars and military trucks. Even when riddled by machine-gun fire this new Goodyear tire equipment will carry a vehicle to its destination — without stopping for repairs. It means safer tires for you - after the way

But what's all this got to do with a little boy?

He doesn't know, of course, that even while he sleeps here in the dawn's early light, somewhere soldiers, sailors and airmen stand vigilant guard-for his sake.

He doesn't know that while kids like him play their shouting games of dive-bomber and mock air alarm, real American planes are splitting the sky, real American shells are arching through the heavens, real American machine guns are chattering forth destruction - for his sake.

He doesn't know that vast factories hum in angry haste through seven three-shift days a week-that instead of making tires, tubes, belting, flooring and other good things of rubber, plants like Goodyear's are pouring forth countless plane parts, gas masks, combat tires, tank treads, self-inflating life vests and so on - for his sake.

He doesn't realize, you see, that he is the coming America.

He doesn't know he is the future, here with us today, living emblem of the one thing in the world worth fighting for - hope, and promise, the chance for a better life.

GREATEST NAME IN RUBBER

He doesn't know that as long as boys can be boys, men can be men-that Mom and Pop understand that, as he will himself some day when he has a son of his own.

It won't be the billions we spend that will win this war, not all our factories and the machines that are in them - it will be the things men see in the faces of little boys.

It will be the willingness of fathers not only to fight, but to work and sacrifice in fierce guardianship of those they love.

So may his sleep be sweet.

Some day he'll take up the burdens, the fruitful tasks of manhood; it is our job now to see that he can take them up as a free man, fit to fashion a better world.

THE EVENING STAR, WASHINGTON, D. C., TUESDAY, APRIL 7, 1942.

In Laboratory, Field

That some agencies here are using . careless placement methods which d further aggravate the personnel problem is evidenced by the Civil Service Commission order calling for " a list of stenographers who are as-² signed to clerical duties for which stenographic skill is not required. The order is preliminary to forcing transfers in such cases if the offices concerned do not voluntarily shift the employes to assignments where full advantage can be taken of their abilities.

The shortage of stenographers is responsible for the commission's step. . Although matters have reached the , stage where it virtually is impossible - to fill positions when the need for this class is unquestioned, the commission explains that it is receiving "many complaints" from persons who were hired as stenographers and then detailed to other clerical work. Expressing belief that agencies will help to break up this practice, the commission makes it clear that if this is not done, it will force action-a course that is possible under the recent war transfer order issued by President Roosevelt.

All agencies should be prompt to co-operate with the commission, for there should be no shortage of skilled help of any sort when it can be avoided with a minimum amount of care. It is the second time, however, that the commission has been forced to bring this same placement question to the attention of employing officers. The personnel situation here is much too serious for slipshod methods to be tolerated. There is more than a faint suspicion that hiring in many instances has borne little relation to needs, and the commission is justified in doing whatever It can to relieve the situation.

Tasman in 1642, charted by Captain James Cook in 1769 and toilsomely cultivated by four generations of men and women of British, Scotch and Irish origin would be exploited without mercy by the barbarous conquerors. When waves of Japanese planes roared in from the Indian Ocean and struck at Colombo early on Easter Sunday morning, they obviously hoped to stage another Pearl Harbor. However, the port metropolis of Ceylon was ready for them. The Japanese air armada, light fighters and dive bombers launched from aircraft carriers somewhere at sea. fared badly. Over one-third were shot down and many others were

Of course, we do not yet know what the raiders accomplished. The British say they did little, while the Japanese say they inflicted heavy damage on harbor works and shipping. Colombo is a great port with many vessels usually in harbor and along the quays. It is interesting to note that the Japanese chose Colombo as their first target rather than Trincomalee, the fortified naval base on the other side of the island, which is nearest to the new Japanese bases on the Andaman Islands across the Bay of Bengal. That would have been the logical objective, because it is nearer and strategically more important. The fact that Trincomalee was not attacked suggests that it is protected even better than Colombo against air raids.

It is heartening to see that, at Colombo, the sadly familiar story: "Too little and too late," has been turned into the cheery slogan: "Enough and on time." Even before the fall of Singapore, the British were preparing feverishly to put Ceylon in readiness for a Japanese assault. Well they might; for the importance of the island cannot be overestimated. This pear-shaped appendage to the tip of India, some 300 miles long by 100 broad, is about the size of West Virginia and has 5,000,000 inhabitants. Though separated from India only by a narrow strait dotted with reefs which are called Adam's Bridge, Ceylon has a very different background from its huge neighbor. Converted early to Buddhism, the faith survived in Ceylon after it died out in India, and has deeply molded the ideals and culture of the Cinga-

And Atoms Army engineers have battled blizzards and subzero temperatures in conducting preliminary surveys since their arrival at Dawson Creek early in March. It undoubtedly will take many months to complete this important road. Many obstacles, including treacherous muskeg (swampy areas which offer poor foundation for highways) must be overcome. All these handicaps have been taken into consideration, however, and the doughty Army engineers are determined to battle their way through to their goal. Their achievements necessarily will attract little attention from day to day, but their task is a tough and an important one, nevertheless. On the successful completion of their mission may depend the future security of Alaska, Canada and the United States. And the path they open to the far north might some day become the route of conquest toward Tokio.

The Stakes in Burma

Everything seems to indicate that Burma, for the time being, is the major battleground and that the Japanese are concentrating their efforts there. A victory in Burma would have not only important local consequences but repercussions in both India and China of far-reaching magnitude.

The Japanese high command obviously is striking hard for a cleanup in Burma. The campaign takes the form of a three-pronged drive. Diverging from their main base at the captured port city of Rangoon, two strong Japanese columns are driving northward up the parallel valleys of the Sittang and Irrawaddy Rivers. The Sittang Valley, which lies to the eastward, is the short route to Mandalay, and up it runs the main railroad from Rangoon. This front is being held by Chinese troops, who are battling desperately against Japanese frontal assaults from the south and simultaneous flanking attacks from the eastward, launched from nearby Thailand. These Chinese soldiers, commanded by our own General Stilwell, are first-line troops well equipped with American lease-lend arms and munitions, and are giving a good account of themselves. Nevertheless, their situation is dangerous, because they face the same enemy air superiority that has dogged the United Nations everywhere in the Far East.

The same is true of the British imperials west of the mountains in the Irrawaddy Valley, who are trying hard to protect the rich oil fields further upstream which supply not only local needs but also the motor rvice over the Burma road into

New Zealand's Peril

The threat of Japan to Australia extends also to New Zealand, and the danger to the latter dominion is a matter of very particular concern to Great Britain. Economic ties of vast importance link London with Auckland, Wellington and Christchurch. The 13,000 miles of open sea which stretch between those cities on the under side of the globe and the ports of England constitute a highway over which move ships carrying commodities which are vital to the existence of the people of the mother country.

A bulletin of the National Geographic Society explains the relation in the words: "New Zealand is the world's largest exporter of dairy products, frozen mutton and lamb. It is the fourth largest wool exporter. Britain depends heavily upon it for food and raw materials, taking over 90 per cent of its exports. During the first two years of war, the British received 254,000 tons of butterenough to form a wall the height of a man and 400 miles in length. One bale of wool for every person in the dominion, or 1,600,000 bales; 210,000 tons of cheese, or 1,000 miles of cheese crates end to end down the combined length of North and South Islands: 598.000 tons of meat-these also traveled the route to wartime Britain.'

Probably no other territory of the same size anywhere on earth is of superior value to England in the present crisis. New Zealand, approximating Colorado in area, is essentially a producer of foodstuffs and partly fabricated goods of varieties needed in Britain. More than 42,000,000 acres of the surface of the dominion are devoted to farming and grazing; about 12,600,000 acres are "under forest," supplying timber for woodworking enterprises worth in excess of 7,000,000 pounds a year. Other industries deserving special mention are: Condensed milk canning, fruit and jam making, tobacco growing, soap and candle making, tanning and boot and shoe making.

The profitable sale of the exportable surplus of New Zealand's production, as might be supposed, is imperative for the sustenance of its laboring population. A comprehensive social security program directly depends upon the continued shipment of goods abroad-and these, it must be repeated, could not be marketed at a loss without disturbing the decent standards of living developed by the producers over a long period of struggle.

A hint of the peril which now looms large for the whole people of New Zealand is contained in the facts thus set forth. If the Japanese lese people. Furthermore, Ceylon has been under European rule for nearly four centuries-first Portuguese, then Dutch, and finally British; each holding possession for about 150 years. All three regimes have left their mark on the island, thus further differentiating it from India. Ceylon is a crown colony of the British Empire, not connected politically with India in any way.

In naval grand strategy, Ceylon is the key to the Indian Ocean. So long as the naval base at Trincomalee is in British hands, Japanese fleets can hardly venture further westward towards Africa, the Red Sea, and the Persian Gulf, thereby menacing the United Nations' supply routes around the Cape of Good Hope. Were Ceylon to fall into Japanese hands, however, those routes would be immediately endangered, while the east coast of India, including the great port cities of Calcutta and Madras, would be isolated by water. The blow would thus be fully as serious as was the fall of Singapore.

Besides its strategic significance. Ceylon has local importance. It is the one remaining source of largescale rubber production left in United Nations' hands, while its rich plains and fertile valleys grow other valuable products, and its hill slopes grow most of Britain's tea-as indispensable to the English as coffee is to the American table. We may thus be certain that Britain will do its utmost to hold an island so vital in every way.

Highway to Alaska

With little publicity and a minimum of lost motion, Army engineers have hit the old Yukon trail to blaze a modern highway which will link our vital defenses in Alaska with the States by way of a friendly and cooperating Canada. An article in The Sunday Star by B. T. Richardson, Canadian journalist, described some of the difficulties which are being overcome by United States military technicians and by detachments of soldiers in carrying out the longhitherto largely dependent upon tin, planned project. After protracted discussions on both sides of the border and in Alaska, President Roosevelt in 1938 appointed the Alaska International Highway Commission, which studied various proposals for a road connecting Alaska with our Northwest Pacific States. This commission last

May recommended construction of such a highway, estimating the cost as $25,000,000. Canada's Alaska Highway Commission also was studying the project. Last October the Canadian group suggested substantially the same route as that proposed by the United States body. Meanwhile, however, Canada was building a chain of seven air bases to Alaska, essentially for defense purposes, and, when our War Department decided early this year to proceed with the highway project, it was decided to follow in general the air

Southern China. The British have to combat both the Japanese and swarms of Burmese guerrillas, for the local population is mainly hostile to their white rulers. Every Buddhist monastery seems to be a fifth column outpost, while Burmese guides show the Japanese secret paths and Burmese mahouts ride the hundreds of elephants which bear or haul much of the Japanese supply trains.

In a sense, the Japanese are racing against time. Punctually between May 10 and 16, the blinding monsoon rains flood Lower Burma, turning the terrain into marsh and mud through which mechanized equipment cannot operate effectively. But in the hilly country of Upper Burma the rainfall is much more moderate. If the Japanese can reach Mandalay ahead of the monsoon, they can probably drive on to Lashio, only about 100 miles to the northeastward. That is the southern terminus of the Burma road, and there are heaped vast amounts of supplies and equipment awaiting transportation into China. Also, the capture of Lashio by the Japanese would block any more Chinese reinforcements. Its fall would spell the virtual end of Anglo-Chinese resistance in Burma, and would free the large Japanese Army there for operations against India. Direct land invasion across the intervening mountains and jungles would be impracticable, but air attacks could be launched on a large scale to "soften up" the densely populated Calcutta region, where Indian | then the loss of color must be due to heavy industry is concentrated. Those attacks might then be followed by troop landings from transports protected by the Japanese Navy, which today appears to control the Bay of Bengal. The present political deadlock in India is certainly an invitation to Japanese intervention. On the continued resistance of Burma the safety of India would seem largely to depend.

Readers Take Opposite Views Of Increases for Firemen, Policemen. To the Editor of The Star

I have been going to write this for several days but have waited until my temper cooled down enough that I would not be unfair.

In your editorial about the pay raise of the Fire Department and Police Department you should have stated that firemen work 72 hours a week when all other departments work a 40 or 48 hour week. You should have stated that they work every holiday including Sundays. And they have no time off for those holidays. Also they must live within a small radius of the Capital and are subject to call 24 hours a day. They must get permission to leave the city; in any emergency their days off can be stopped by the Commissioners' order: also their annual leave can be cut off and they are not allowed to accumulate A FIREMAN. annual leave.

To the Editor of The Star:

As a District taxpayer I wish to protest against a $300 raise for policemen and firemen at this time.

These men already are well paid for their services and living expenses are no higher for them than for the rest of us. Washington is over-policed and if the police have additional duties now it is no more than all of us have.

The District is having hard going financially, and now is threatening to raise the rate on real estate which, of course, will hit all home owners.

Many of our organizations which are ready to sanction more pay to firemen and policemen will find that all this has to come out of the people's salaries, instead of being plucked off bushes as is generally supposed. If there were any extra money (which there isn't) some of it might be used for additions to hospitals and more beds, more traffic lights and many other needed improvements.

State Taxes On Defense Orders Hit

Sales and Use Levies Add 11/2 Billions to Production Costs

By DAVID LAWRENCE. Although the United States is supposed to be a national unit, especially in wartime, any one or all of the 48 States may tax the Army and Navy war contracts. And that is what is happening ioday. More than $1. 500.000,000 is going to be drained from the Federal appropriations by the States unless Congress puts an end by specific legislation to the tremendous levy.

Led by the Un- David Lawrence. dersecretary of War, a procession of generals and admirals recently testified before the House Ways and Means Committee that the money appropriated for defense would buy less airplanes and war weapons because of the sales taxes imposed by the States.

Worse than the financial burden is the administrative task imposed on contractors, subcontractors and Army and Navy bureaus by the complex demands of the States and their different types of laws. Paper work galore has been compelled by the lack of a uniform system, and men who might be fighting the war on other fronts are loaded down with figuring out the taxes to be paid to the States.

The War and Navy Departments have been blocked by the Treasury Department, which looks at the matter from its own departmental standpoint. It has been planning to raise revenue by taxing the income from State and municipal bonds and naturally does not wish to be impairing any other sources of State revenue. But the amount to be gotton by the Treasury from taxing the interest on State and municipal bonds is estimated at about $200,000,000 and the amount to be saved by the Federal Government in eliminating State taxes on War and Navy contracts exceeds $1.500.000.000. So the net saving would apparently be greater if the State taxes on war contracts were abolished.

Eight States Get Most Orders. It is argued that the money is collected from the same public. But this is not altogether true, because only 22 States have sales and use taxes and only 12 of these States apply their taxes to Army and Navy

By GOULD LINCOLN. Once again the Pew-Grundy Republican organization is going to try to take the measure of "Puddler" Jim Davis, now Republican Senator from Pennsylvania. This time Senator Davis is not seeking election to the Senate, but to the Governor's chair in Harrisburg. Against him is Gen. Edward Martin, who, at 62, recently retired from active service in the Army. Gen Martin has been intimately engaged in Republican politics in Pennsylvania for years, as well as with military affairs. At one time he was Republican State chairman. As far as former Senator "Joe" Grundy is concerned, the fued with Senator Davis is of long standing. Back in 1930 Mr. Grundy was serving in the

The Political Mill

Senate under appointment by a Republican Governor to fill a vacancy. It was then that "Puddler Jim," who had served as Secretary of Labor under three Republican Presidents. made up his mind to challenge Mr. Grundy in the primary. Mr. Grundy had for years been a power behind the throne in Republican Pennsylvania politics, a bigwig in the manufacturers' association of the State. During his brief service in the Senate Mr. Grundy took part in framing the Fordney-Smoot tariff law which was one of those things put over on the newly-elected President Herbert Hoover, and which the President might well have vetoed with considerable benefit to himself and others. Mr. Grundy fought for the last pound of flesh in that bill.

Davis Won Bitter Contest. Mr. Davis remained as Secretary of Labor during the primary and did not give up that post until he was elected and entered the Senate. But then, neither did Mr. Grundy resign as Senator. It was as bitter a fight as has been waged in a long time in a Pennsylvania primary, which is saying that it was exceedingly bitter. Senator Davis won by about 200,000 votes. Since then Senator Davis twice has been renominated and twice re-elected. In the Republican primaries Mr. Grundy, and more recently Mr. Pew-"Joe" Pewsumers' counse sought to defeat him for renomination, first with the late Gen. Smedley Butler of the marines, and second with Mason Owlett. "Puddler Jim" has gone right ahead mowing them down. Now he is moving on the statehouse in Harrisburg and that is even less to the liking of Grundy and Pew than having him in the Senate. Every effort was made to persuade Senator Davis not to enter the gubernatorial race-he has another two years to serve as Senator before he would be up for election again. But Senator Davis had decided he would run. Gen. Martin agreed to step aside if Senator Davis would do likewise. It was no go. The last day for withdrawing from the primaries was Saturday, and three other potential candidates took their names out of the race. Lt. Gov. Lewis, Lancaster County Commissioner Diehm and State Secretary of Banking Bell, leaving only Senator Davis and Gen. Martin in the race. The Pew-Grundy alliance would have been willing to have Mr. Bell for the

Other generals, finding infiltrated Japanese in their rear, ordered their troops to turn on them. The infiltrators frequently were wiped out but the net effect of the operation was a Japanese gain of territory. Since his initial retreat to Bataan Peninsula, Gen. MacArthur, and

In such an event the parallel between the snow and slush of Russia and the rainy season in India would not be adequate. The Russians had to fight only the enemy pressing into their country. contracts. Incidentally, only eight States, because of their geographical location or industrial resources. ge the major share of the defense expenditures, and they are in a sense able to profiteer at the expense of the rest of the country.

These same States are enjoying a boom because of the indirect factors involved in war expenditures such as increased population, increased use of real estate and a stimulated volume of commercial transactions

The potentialities of the situation are numerous. If a State can tax War and Navy contracts 3 per cent, it can tax 5 or 10 per cent or any other amount. Municipalities can also add their layer of taxes, too. Counties and other taxing units can do likewise.

The argument is made with some plausibility that the States are losing other tax revenues due to the fact that the main business of the hour is defense business. But most of the big States are doing well financially irrespective of defense tax revenues and the proposed legislation looks rather toward a stopping of the profiteering that may result in the future than to the subtraction of any revenues that already have been collected.

The Treasury Department coneedes that State and local revenues are showing an improvement but points out that many of them have in the past had prolonged deficits. The Treasury suggests that the States may be able to improve their eredit standing and thus be "in a better condition to meet the stresses of the post-defense era.'

The House Rules Committee has before it the proposed legislation to eliminate State taxes but thus far the Treasury has succeeded in keeping the bill from being passed. Meanwhile Army and Navy officers say they are being harassed by the problems of local contractors who say there is no end to the litigation of 20 years of maternal welfare work. and disputes into which these contractors and subcontractors are being plunged and that, irrespective of the saving of $1,500,000,000, there are billions of dollars of time being consumed wastefully that ought to be used in speeding production.

Georgetown Group Hears Defense Plan Explained

Dr. John A. Reed, chief of the emergency medical service of the Metropolitan Area, told members of the Progressive Citizens' Association of Georgetown at their meeting last night that the emergency medical service as it is now constituted is capable of handling all casualty cases in the Metropolitan Area in the event of an actual air raid.

Dr. Reed explained that every hos pital in the area has formed at least one "mobile medical unit" and that each of these units consists of four doctors, four nurses, four nurses' aids and all equipment and trans-portation that might be needed.

He said the emergency medical service plan is a national one devised jointly by the O. C. D., the Army and the Navy and is based on actual experience.

The association went on record as approving religious education under the auspices of the public schools, classes to be held outside of school hours for those desiring such instruction in the religion of their choice.

New members accepted by the association were Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Villard, Dr. and Mrs. J. Keith Cromer and Mrs. Lionel Atwill.

MANY authorities consider dandruff the major cause of baldness. Dandruff scales seem to clog the tiny follicles from which your hair grows, and may cause your scalp to itch and burn unpleasantly. You owe it to yourself to remove these ugly dandruff scales and give your hair a fair chance. The removal of dandruff scales may not in itself prevent baldness, because the causes of baldness are numerous, but without dandruff your hair will look better and your scalp will feel fresher, cleaner, and more full of life.

Haphazard methods of removing dandruff usually don't help-in fact they may spread the scales over a larger area. Precise, accurate treatment, such as administered by Thomas, is helping 1600 other persons each day and offers you, too, a most reliable, practical solution to your problem.

Consult a Thomas expert today-in privatewithout charge or obligation. See for yourself exactly how this reliable, 20-year proved method removes dandruff and allays the itch which dandruff may be causing. You'll find Thomas treatment not only beneficial, but you'll enjoy its pleasant, stimulative action. Come in today!.

Comedy Which Opened Here Last Year Returns as a Protracted Hit That Sparkles With Humor

By JAY CARMODY.

A year and a couple of months on Broadway do things to a play. Good things. It might almost be a different play, even though its latent excellences made the premiere performance a praiseworthy and promising thing. The most conspicuous difference is in the attitude of the players. It is not a matter of acquired polish and perfect timing. On the contrary, it is more a thing of knowing the play is a hit instead of wondering desperately, and groping ineptly for ? the meaning it may have.

It is instructive to see a play in the two stages.

Such a play as "Claudia," for example, the Rose Franken comedy drama which returned to the National last night. I'It is almost

Success of New York's Long Racing Season as Uncertain as Derby Forecasts

By FRANCIS E. STAN, When It's Springtime in Augusta

With a winter and spring of record-breaking shooting in the By Vet Expert books, the golf brigade now marches on to Augusta for the Masters' tournament. This always is fun and frolic for the golf bugs, even those many miles away, and this year it ought to be bigger and better than ever. This year, in fact, it just about amounts to the piece de resistance. With the National Open canceled on account of war, what better tournament than the Masters' to crown the head man?

Win, Lose or Draw Alsab Still Made

There is no telling what kind of a score will be needed to win. It will be low, but these days the question is. How low is low? Take that North and South open at Pinehurst a couple of weeks ago. Par was 288 over a tough course. So what does Ben Hogan shoot? He just hacks around in 271-17 below par for four rounds and against the best competition in the business.

That isn't out of the ordinary by any means. It's been going on steadily since last December. If it wasn't Hogan it was Sam Snead or Chick Harbert or, occasionally, some unknown like John Dawson or Herman Barron. Statistics are pretty boring, of course, but among other par-cracking performances Byron Nelson won the $10,000 Miami open with 269, Henry Picard the Harlingen (Tex.) $5,000 with 266 and Barron the Western open with 276.

Par Still Is a Bugaboo to Non-Experts

This is not to say that par doesn't mean anything to golf any longer. The par-shooter in a big tournament won't win enough to buy himself a bag of wooden tees but par still is a standard too tough for but the question is which 10 or 12 the grand army of duffers and over a long stretch in tough competition from the list of 150 nominations the pros can't even lick it.

This is proved by official figures on the Masters' Tournament. Of the eight crack golfers who have played in all of the eight tourneys, Ed Dudley, pro at the Augusta National Club, has come closest to matching par and his 2,320 strokes, for the 576 holes, are 16 over the standard Bless Me, Devil Diver, Apache, figures. Craig Wood, holder of the National open title and last year's Bright Willie, With Regards, Dogwinner of the Masters', is 22 over. A crack amateur, Charlies Yates, is 101 over.

Byron Nelson is the only Masters' golfer to whip par over a period of years. Nelson missed one year but he played 504 holes and his 2,015 strokes are one under par and, by way of showing what par can do to a fellow who isn't keyed up to tourney tempo, Bobby Jones is 92 over figures for his seven years of play while hosting at Augusta. But in any given tournament the par-shooter might as well resign himself to no share of the purse. Not the way the winners are posting scores these days.

Wood Could Lose All in Four Days

Craig Wood, older than he looks-indeed, older than Bobby Joneshad to wade through a mighty field twice last year to win two of the most ered from various action fronts, coveted titles in golf-the National Open and Masters'. Starting Thursday he can lose, in four days, both his Masters' crown and, for all practical purposes, his National championship as well. At least, the Georgia propagandists are calling the Masters' the substitute for the Open and they may be right.

Wood didn't campaign on a big scale last winter. While Hogan, Snead, Nelson, Picard, Harbert and the rest were dividing the spoils, Wood took it comparatively easy. When he did compete he didn't go far. But Craig isn't to be counted out. If ne doesn't win the Masters' again the

Fear Effect of Turmoil On Campaign Opening At Jamaica Thursday

By HAROLD CLAASSEN, AT ociated Press Sports Writer. NEW YORK, April 7 .- New York City's longest racing program in recent years - 180 days - starts Thursday at Jamaica and how near it comes to its scheduled-finale on November 4 is a question on which not even the most ardent better will hazard the customary $2. 101 The metropolitan season opens with the New York officials of the sport warmly criticized for not and nouncing their plans for tieing racing into the national war effort. That after the sport was banned on the opposite coast last winteral Racing will carry its share of the burden, they answer, but the exact method can not be determined until it is known to what extent the warminded fans will respond-both at the turnstiles and at the betting windows.

Can't Forecast War's Effect. All the Florida sessions since Pearl Harbor have shown slight decreases in both attendance and in the betting handle compared with like meetings a year ago, but the first three days of the recently opened 1942 card at Bowie, Mdt, show opposite results.

During the World War of 25 years ago New York racing was conducted under the "oral" betting system and at the time of the Spanish-American conflict it operated with the Percy-Gray law, an apology for outright wagering, in effect:

So the sports' brass hats have no way of telling how the thoroughbreds and their adherents will react in the modern crisis with the mutuel laws spread on the books.

Gene Sarazen's double-eagle 2 in 1935 tied Wood while the tourney chairman was presenting Craig the big silver bowl and the winners' check for cameramen with deadlines to meet. The next day, in the playoff, Sarazen won the title. In 1934 Horton Smith dropped a 20-foot putt for a birdie on the seventy-first hole to nose him out. Thereafter, or until last spring, Craig wasn't close but he managed to do the unexpected a few times, once leading off with a horrible 88 round and coming in the next day with 67!

It's quite a tournament and this year it ought to be better than ever.

Catcher David Is Lone Vet at Hand; Trackmen Get Test Next Week

By GEORGE7 HUBER. At first glance, things appear tough for the Eastern High School nine. Only one letter man is back from last year's championship runnerup team, but Coach Charles Guyon is so noted for coming up year after year with good squads despite little material, that Rambler supporters are looking forward confidently to another banner season.

The Chief needs everything, starting with pitchers. He had one leftover from the 1941 mound staff, Chester Spicer, but Chester broke his right thumb in the recent A. A. U. boxing tournament, so that lets him out. Garland Curles, who did an occasional relief chore last year, now appears the No. 1 flinger, with Ivanhoe Hapster, a southpaw newcomer, to back him up.

Ray David Lone Veteran.

The lone veteran is Ray David, third baseman last year. He is being shifted to catcher, with the hot corner probably to be handled by Edsel Martz. There's a promising pair of candidates working around the middle of the infield, Fred Sparrow at second and Will Osman at short. Both have good arms and they make an excellent double-play combination.

First base still is a problem. Dave Shah Trophy Bowling the post, is a fancy stepper around Ray's brother, on the other hand, leaves something to be desired on the fielding end, but his hitting is Masonic Loop okay.

All in all, the chief expects a faster infield than last year and a tighter defensive combination. Bob Newberry, who has some experience, seems set for one of the outfield jobs, with Francis Simpson, another lad who's showing promise.

Track Squad Active.

Track also is receiving considerable attention at Eastern with Coach Nelson and Floyd Brookens. Already this season they have proved winners, with Nelson taking first place and Brookens third in the hurdle race at the Southern Conference indoor meet.

As a prelude to the outdoor season Eastern is having an interclass track | With an even 119 average for 81 meet Wednesday, April 15, with Phil games, Clayton Brown of Whiting Fox in charge. He expects about | walked off with top honors. Charles Richardson will be

For Many Golfers Crowding D. C.

No Money Is Available To Provide Courses Sorely Needed

Washington is running out of available public golf courses. Taking Easter Sunday—the first good Sunday of the spring season—as an indication, the need for more public layouts around Washington is as plain as the Washington Monument on a clear day.

At least a thousand people packed the municipal layouts at East Potomac Park and nearly as many more crowded the two nines at Rock Creek Park. Bradley Hills and Fairfax, the two pay-as-you-play courses in nearby Maryland and Virginia, had banner crowds and all the private courses were crowded.

Too Few Courses for Players. The answer is that more people want to play golf than the courses can handle and the further answer is that a lot of people, unable to find golf facilities, are going to take up other sports.

S. G. Leoffler, who runs the public courses in the city, has no more room for expansion. The Fort Dupont course, to be integrated when completed with parts of the present Anacostia course, hardly will relieve the situation because there won't be any more golf than the present 18 holes.

On neat blueprints in the Office of line of a projected 18-hole course at Fort Hunt, Va. The layout looms—on paper—as a good one, but it has not gone beyond the paper stage and may not do so for years to come. That one-the Fort needed, on a good road and in country that would lend itself to the best in golf architecture. Two Clubs Spurn Event Because of Week End Requirements and Third Seen as Doing So

By WALTER McCALLUM.

The major sectional qualifying rounds for the Hale America Open Golf Tourney, the big show that this year is to supplant the National Open championship, apparently are lost to Washington. Two of Washington's largest clubs have turned down a request from the United States Golf Association for the sectional test slated for June 5 and 6, and a third, while no action has yet been taken, is virtually sure to say "no"

Timely hitting, good pitching and a tight defense--an ideal combination of baseball virtues-was demonstrated yesterday by Woodrow Wilson's diamond team. The Tigers were flashy in winning their opening game from Episcopal, 7-0, at Alexandria. It was the second successive defeat for Bus Male's Maroons, they having fallen before Anacostia in an 11-2 game last Saturday.

Each team gathered six hits, but Wilson's blows were heavier and more timely. Prexy Dudley Divulges Good News as Aces Tune for Masters'

Shute, Picard Get 65, 66; Colleagues Pick Nelson, Hogan Is Fans' Choice

By ROMNEY WHEELER,

Associated Press Sports Writer. AUGUSTA, Ga., April 7 .-- Golf's greats got together here today for the Masters' golf tournament-and got a double helping of cheerful news to start them off.

First was an announcement by Ed Dudley, head of the Professional Golfers' Association, that President Roosevelt had given golf a wartime go-ahead, along with baseball and other recreational pursuits.

Second was an announcement by Dudley that the P. G. A.'s 2,300 members have pledged to raise $250,000 for wartime benefits and relief-five times the amount raised by golf in 1940 or 1941.

Sees Recreation as Help.

Dudley made public a letter from Stephen T. Early, secretary to President Roosevelt, transmitting to him the President's opinion that within reasonable limits he believed the war effort would not be hampered but actually improved by sensible participation in healthful pursuits. The President said his comment applied to general recreation and amusement during the war effort. Fred Corcoran, P. G. A. tournament manager, said the association's golf stars would engage in as many benefit matches as possible for Red Cross and other war activities. To insure adequate amounts for charity, he said, prospective promoters will be required to guarantee at least $500 to the designated war agency before the P. G. A. will accept cosponsorship

Big Field Warming Up. Meanwhile, some 50 veteran golf campaigners set their sights for the exacting par-72 Augusta National course in practice rounds prior to the Masters' tourney April 9-12.

Hottest prospects were Henry Picard of Oklahoma City, who banged out a 66 yesterday, and Denny Shute of Chicago, who was credited with a practice score of 65. Byron Nelson, nominated by his pro-golfing colleagues as the best bet in the tourney, shot a warm-up 68, while gallery-favorite Ben Hogan, winner of two out of three starts in the Carolinas, took a half-hearted 34 for nine holes and then headed for the showers.

Record of Arrests Cited as Showing Need for Squad

The Traffice Committee of the Board of Trade at a special meeting yesterday urged that the Accident Investigation Unit of the Police Department be continued and strengthened.

The action was taken on the basis of a report submitted by Joseph D. Ashby, chairman of a subcommittee appointed to study the work of the accident squad, following agitation for abolition of the unit.

The committee, in urging con-tinuation of the police unit, reaffirmed a previous position taken by the Board of Trade last August. calling for strengthening of the unit. It is expected that the District Commissioners soon will receive a report from the Traffic Advisory Council on its survey of the unit.

Arrests by Squad Cited.

P. Y. K. Howat, chaiman of the Board of Trade Traffic Committee. called yesterday's meeting so that the Commissioners might have knowledge of his committee's sentiment on the matter, along with that of the Traffic Advisory Council.

John Victory, committee member, reported that the value of the unit could best be judged on the number of arrests made as a result of the unit's activity. He stated that at the same time that the regular police were reporting arrests in 29 per cent of the accidents, the investigating unit had reported 44 per cent arrests.

Inspector Arthur E. Miller, adminstrative head of the unit, confirmed Mr. Victory's figures, adding that the period for which this record was kept covered six months and during that time his men had covered 70 per cent of the reported accidents while the regular force had covered 30 per cent. There were convictions in 90 per cent of the cases.

Inspector Miller stated that the value of the unit was comparable to a bookkeeping system in any business-only by bookkeeping could adequate records be kept on the success of any venture. As a result, he added, prior to the establishing of the unit, the causes of accidents were known in only 75 per cent of the cases. Now, the causes are known in better than 90 per cent of the accidents.

D. C. Heads Act To Cut Costs at St. Elizabeth's

Hope to Save $500,000; At Home Care Urged For Old-Age Cases

By DON S. WARREN. Startled by new findings as to the "unnecessarily high cost" of the care of the District's insane at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, the Commissioners moved today to establish new procedures by which they hope to cut the annual cost by nearly $500,000.

They approved in principle reports by District Budget Officer Walter L. Fowler proposing legislation to permit "home care" of "oldage cases," persons suffering from senility or cerebral arteriosclerosis and establishment of a new unit in the office of the District tax collector to collect expenses from the estates of the patient or from his relatives.

They also considered the possibility of erecting a rest home for the aged "insane" as an adjunct to Gallinger Municipal Hospital.

Not Attack on Hospital. The city heads disclosed they have already proposed a minor increase in staff for the fiscal year beginning July 1 to provide better collection machinery. The Fowler program and the Commissioners' tentative plan were not intended as attacks on St. Elizabeth's Hospital, but municipal officials agreed that past procedures here were behind modern practices in other places. The District now is spending nearly $3,000,000 for the care of something more than 4,200 patients.

The District is to be advanced $20,000,000 under the Lanham bill now awaiting the signature of President Roosevelt, for provision of necessary facilities here, in addition to larger sum earmarked for housing. Commissioner Young said he hoped that some of this $20,000,000 found would be made available for a hospital annex at Gallinger, where the aged insane could be cared for at greatly reduced cost. Twice U. S. Average Cost. For the last fiscal year the District paid $2,774,534 for board and care of District patients at St. Elizabeth's at a per capita cost of $1.80 a day, or more than twice the per capita daily cost-82 cents-for the State hospitals of the United States in 1939. for each 3.2 patients, whereas the national average is one employe per 5.7 patients. Also while the maintenance cost for the country decreased from 84 cents per day to 82 cents per day between 1926 and 1939, the cost here rose from $1.50 to $1.80.

Mr. Fowler told the Commissioners Dr. Winfred Overholser, St. Elizabeth's superintendent, had attributed the large percentage of insane in the District to three factors:

1. The area of Washington is urhan and deviations in personal conduct are not tolerated here to the extent they are in rural areas.

2. Because the District is the Nation's Capital, many persons of unsound mind come here to offer their ideas to the Government, and if their home residence cannot be determined they remain charges of the District.

3. People generally have confidence in St. Elizabeth's and are Easter Monday holiday outing. Witwilling to have mentally-ill relatives sent there for care.

Family Care Increasing. Mr. Fowier emphasized that 12 States have adopted "progressive" methods to reduce the hospital load. The students formed a human chain particularly by adopting family care for mental patients not of the rescuers. He was carried about dangerous type. Massachusetts was a pioneer in this procedure, but Mr. Fowler said it had been used in Belgium for six centuries, the plan from Carlisle Military School at gaining momentum in this country only since 1930. Mr. Fowler stressed: "It is necessary to educate the public that all and that many are harmless to themselves and others. This can be and judicious placement of the patient, accompanied by publicity both direct and indirect.'

Mr. Fowler said one other advantage would be to release space at St. Elizabeth's for patients who becom ill because of war service.

500 Could Be Boarded Out. He estimated that if 500 District Chase Circle. patients at St. Elizabeth's-about half of those classed as "old age" cases—could be boarded out the yearly savings to the District would be $171.600. The budget officer also estimated that if 100 other patients were given places in a rest home at Gallinger. which would be connected with the operations of the Home for the Aged and Infirm, there were prospects of an additional $200,000 savings, and he estimated some $65,000 could be saved each year by more effective means of deporting non-resident insane to their home States and an additional $50,000 saving from improved methods of collecting payments due from estates of the patients or from relatives.

This led to comment from his battalion executive officer, Capt. H. A. Eddins: "He asked for the work when he came here and we are giving it to him."

Pvt. Pershing's day begins at 6:30 a.m. and ends at 5 p.m., unless there are night problems. Training for an average week includes bayonet practice, bridge building, road building, closeorder drill, chemical warfare, demolition, anti-aircraft fire, general construction, a 20-mile hike and guard duty.

He laid down the shovel with which he had been landscaping today to be interviewed by reporters.

"What does your work consist of?" he was asked.

"Well, I've been shoveling dirt and planting grass seed today, but you'll have to ask my captain what I'll be doing tomorrow," he replied.

Fairfax Board Defends Plan for Hospitalization

Members Refuse To Increase Fund; Pressure Charged

Special Dispatch to The Star. FAIRFAX, Va., April 7.-Charges that public welfare workers are attempting to bring public pressure to bear to compel adoption of a higher indigent hospitalization budget were made today by the Fairfax County Board of Super visors.

The move represents only a "determined effort on the part of those engaged in public welfare work" to force the supervisors to act against their better judgment, it was charged.

Chairman G. Wallace Carper of the board declared the supervisors several times have requested the Department of Public Welfare to furnish the board each month with a list of those who have been furnished relief or placed on the relief rolls, so the member of the board in whose district the indigent resides may investigate if he desires, but officials have declined, welfare claiming such information is confidential

Board Members Indignant.

Several members of the board have expressed indignation at this refusal, feeling the board that appropriates the money for relief should know to whom it is being given. Conferences between members of the board and welfare officials, it was said, could be of particular advantage in handling many relief cases.

Mr. Carper reiterated his former statement that every indigent hospitalization case properly authorized by the supervisor of the Welfare Department has been paid for, with the possible exception of current cases which the board will pay for when properly presented.

bills for hospitalization Many come to the board long after they have been incurred and in some instances, Mr. Carper said, it has been found the persons receiving such benefits were not even residents of the county, some having been hurt in automobile accidents on highways. In other cases, he said, persons classified as indigents are really employed and might pay for their hospitalization over a period of time. It was explained the county

Vivid Demonstration Staged by Petworth Defense Officials

Washington's first mimic bombing on a large scale was carried out last night at Roosevelt High School Stadium

Civilian defense volunteers in the Petworth area were shown how to combat enemy planes when false store fronts on a 100-foot area were bombed" and salvaged.

A dramatic demonstration of what to do in an air attack was carried out by air-raid wardens, auxiliary police and firemen of the community under direction of the Petworth Citizens' Association.

First, simulated high-explosive bombs were set off, with the loud speakers imitating an air-raid alarm and the sound of planes. Then it was shown how to fight incendiary bombs with sand, chemicals and water.

budgeted for the 1940-41 fiscal year for relief in the county $56,238.80, of which $17,507.60 came from Federal funds, $16.810.07 from the State and $18,424.16 from the county, while the total appropriation from local funds under the current budget is $20,151.54 plus an item of $1,000 for hospitalization.

$3,000 in Tentative Budget.

Proponents of an increase in the new budget for indigent hospitalization are asking $8,500, whereas the board has set up in the tentative budget $3,000, an increase of $2,000 over the amount now budgeted for the purpose.

Board members emphasized that there is ample employment now available for any persons who wish to work and claim that some of those on relief rolls in the county have deliberately stopped gainful employment merely to accept relief. Dr. William Chase, chairman of the Hospitalization Committee of the Fairfax County Community Chest has appealed to residents to appear before the Board of Supervisors at the budget hearings tomorrow to request an $8,500 appropriation for hospitalization. The Health Security Administration is also seeking an appropriation larger than the $3,000 tentatively set aside for hospitalization, and the Alexandria Hospital recently has announced a policy of refusing to admit charity cases from Fairfax County except those in critical condition. Dr. Chase expressed the fear that Washington hospitals will follow the example of the institution in Alexandria.

Changes in Tax Rates.

As the tentative budget now stands, tax rates in the several magisterial districts ranging from a decrease of 2 cents in one district to a jump of 6 cents in two other districts are indicated.

The four districts having special bonded indebtedness for roads will each have a reduction in the rates for highway debt and in Providence a.m. Thursday at the Church of to those destroyed about Crewe. district, where the balance of the the Blessed Sacrament, near Chevy road bond indebtedness will be paid | Chase Circle. off at the end of this year it will not be necessary to levy a road tax. In Falls Church district the road St. Marys Housing levy will be reduced from 45 cents to 38 cents; in Mount Vernon District Taxed by War Workers the drop will be from 8 to 7 cents, and the reduction in Dranesville district will be from $1.05 to $1.02 Under the current budget, Providence district carries an 8-cent road levy. Two other districts-Centreville and Lee-have no road indebtedness.

41c County Levy Indicated. Should the tentative budget receive final approval, it is indicated the county levy rates will be 41 cents compared to 36 cents under the present budget. No additional levy will have to be set up for pensions, and the fire rate is tentatively set at 6 cents again. To raise sufficient revenue for the coming general reassessement of real estate in 1944, a 1-cent levy has been set up in the proposed budget. The supervisors felt it would be easier to raise the amount necessary for this purpose over a period of several years, rather than set a higher levy for a single year or Others on the Hostess Committee include Mrs. Robert Dunlap, Mrs. Walter R. Miss Diana Hopkins Hostess at White House. .

Little Miss Diana Hopkins, daughter of the special assistant to the President, Mr. Harry L. Hopkins, was hostess yesterday afternoon to a small group of her contemporaries. The party was given at the White House, where she is a guest of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt during her Easter vacation. Motion pictures of Donald Duck and other youthful films were shown on the second floor and refreshments were served the 8 or 10 young boys and girls in the state dining room. In other years young Miss Hopkins has shared in the festivities of the Easter egg rolling on the south lawn of the White House and, with several of her friends, has been a member of the official party on the south portico. Usually there have been two or more of the grandchildren of President and Mrs. Roosevelt visiting at the Executive Mansion during the Easter vacation. However, young Miss Hopkins is the only little girl staying there through these holidays.

Admiral Fiske Dies In New York at 87; Was Noted Inventor

Retired Officer Predicted In 1926 War Would Break Out in 20 Years

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, April 7.-Rear Admiral Bradley Allen Fiske, 87, re-tired naval officer whose heroism on the seas was second only to his genius for inventing efficiency devices for the warships that sailed them, died last night.

Failing health had caused his confinement to his Waldorf-Astoria suite for two months, and for more than a year he had been unable to leave the hotel. A daughter, Caro-line Harper Fiske, survives.

In the 42-year span of his naval career Admiral Fiske was a combination sailor - fighter - inventorstrategist. No dreamy-eyed armchair admiral, he foresaw, even before the World War, the value of a naval air force and fought tooth and nail for it.

Besides his active service as an officer and his inventions, on which he obtained more than 60 patents Admiral Fiske found time to write many books about the Navy, always urging an adequate air arm.

Planes, he said as long as 10 years ago, would be invaluable in protecting the Philippines, whose vulnerability he often had proclaimed.

Admiral Fiske served on the San Francisco during the demonstration in the Rio Janeiro harbor during the 1894 Brazilian insurrection and was active in the early months of the Filipino campaign and in the bombardments of Paracaque and Malabon.

Predicted War.

In 1925, in a letter to Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, he called attention to the then-comparative strength of American and Japanese fleets for operation in Far East waters and said that the Japanese and Americans had "taken attitudes that are irreconcilable."

The following year he told the Politics Club at Columbia University there would be "increasing probability of a foreign war" in the next 20 years and urged that the United States keep reasonably prepared.

In 1932 he declared that Japan could capture the Philippines because of inadequate protection. Admiral Fiske wrote several books. including "The Navy as a Fighting Machine" and "The Art of Fighting." Friends said burial probably would be in Arlington Cemetery.

Judge Koelsch's ruling came in a divorce suit by Bernice Adella Lippy against William H. Lippy, civilian worker on Wake Island, when the Pacific war started. District Commissioner Guy Mason, addressing the association informally, drew forth a storm of protest from its members when, in referring to the group's protests, he said he had no sympathy for those air-raid workers who resigned "because they couldn't have their own way.

William Clark Taylor, Civilian Defense Committee chairman for the area, and F. Moran McConihe, deputy air-raid warden, had not resigned, he was told, but, on the contrary, had built up "a very wellfunctioning organization." Commissioner Mason warned mem-

Dress That Looks Like Suit Important New Fashion; Sheers Are Stressed

Flowers, Gloves and Colorful Dickeys 'Pep Up' Wardrobes; Those Store Hours Again!

By Helen Vogt

Notes on the back of an old sales check:

Now that we've struggled through Easter and spring vacations, it's time to think about warm-weather wardrobes-wouldn't you know it? The stores are talking about a big future for the two-piece dress that looks like a little suit and also about the sheer dress in solid colors and prints. Both are excellent for immediate wear and for use when the temperature starts doing nipups in Washington. Incidentally, better start now to concentrate on your summer accessories . . . Don't buy a flock of spring things that can't be worn with your light clothes because, in case you don't know, in this town you're likely to retire in a flannel nightle and wake up screaming for a cold, frosty lemonade . . . Give a thought to wheat linen shoes trimmed with luggage-color leather and match them with a purse of the same combination. Such accessories are perfect with spring and summer costumes. . . .

Even if the Easter parade had not convinced us that this is a feminine ceason de luxe, the local stores would tell the tale. Artificial flowers, for example, are in the hen's-teeth category and supplies are sadly depleted. Women have learned, at long last, how much can be done with a spray of "fake" posies and, best of all, they're beginning to co-ordinate flowers and other accessories. A pert bunch sitting atop a calot may be repeated in another bouquet on the shoulder; .

violets on the lapel of a suit are matched exactly with pretty and inexpensive violet gloves. And, speaking of gloves, the fabric ones which come in such a heavenly range of colors cost next to nothing . . . You'll find all the pastels, as well as many of the deeper shades, and there's nothing like colorful gloves to give dash to your costume and make one suit or dress look like an extensive wardrobe. . .

When it comes to "disguising" elothes be sure to invest in some veiling for that tired, last year's hat . . . How Did It Start? Holyoke: What is the origin of the expression "Not worth a tinker's dam"?-C. K. S.

Answer-Apparently the expression has no connection with swearing, although one or two authorities regard it as mild profanity. The most logical theory is that the oldtime traveling tinker, in order to solder a hole in a piece of kitchenware, would build a little dam of wax around the hole so that the

During a visit in Pompeii I saw a large brick oven which had been used when the city was covered with ashes 1,863 years ago. When this oven, and others like it, were dug up, proofs were found that some persons in Pompeli were baking bread when the volcano Vesuvius broke loose.

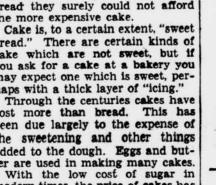

The Romans ground grain and made flour. They used yeast to make the dough rise when it was baked. The loaves of bread were often of rounded shape, rather flat on top and bottom.

Many kinds of grain have been used for the making of bread. Wheat and rye are most popular, but various other kinds are used. Rice can be turned into flour and there is even such a thing as "potato flour."

Pro-Allied Feeling Reported Growing All Over France

> Bombing of Factories And Commando Raids Held Responsible

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN, Foreign Correspondent of The Star and and Chicago Daily News.

LONDON, April 7.-Reports from both occupied and unoccupied France confirm the fact that pro-Allied feeling is growing throughout the country and that both the Germans and their French henchmen are completely stumped by the development.

The recent jockeyings in Vichy, Paris and Berlin itself apparently have been dictated by a frantic desire on the part of the Germans to check the growth of French feeling against them and by the hope of the French traitors to capitalize on the desire. Pierre Laval, Anatole de Monzie, Marcel Deat, Fernand de Brinon, Jean Mistler (former president of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Deputies) and Minister of the Interior Pierre Pucheu, are all tangled up in the struggle for power.

Stimulated by Raids. According to information here this pro-Allied feeling has been stimulated enormously by British commando raids and air assaults on French factories working for the Germans. It is known that the Germans failed utterly in their attempt to use the Renault (auto works) raid to stir up anti-British feeling and that relatives of people who had died in that raid, and others who had suffered, refused on many occasions to speak on the Nazi-controlled radio.

The Nazis are virtually helpless against this steady growth of violent feeling and for once sheer cruelty and bluster are of no assistance. While they must be tempted to punish France by occupying the entire country, that would. in fact, be more of a punishment for the Germans themselves than for the people now ruled by Vichy.

Troops Needed Elsewhere. Operations elsewhere require every available soldier and the British program of Commando raids has already embarrassed the invaders by making them strengthen all the coastal areas from Spain to Narvik. The last thing they can desire would be to waste a dozen divisions on the occupation of further French territory. Allied diplomatic action in connection with Vichy is largely in the hands of Washington and the British long since decided to let the American State Department more or less have its way. Still it is felt, however, that in the circumstances Washington might be much firmer with Vichy.

It appears obvious to the British that Vichy prizes its maintenance of relations with the United States as its only link to independence little of
