36,853 TROOPS FACING DEATH OR CAPTURE AFTER HEROIC BATAAN DEFENSE COLLAPSES

MacArthur's Staff Grieved At Bataan Loss

Officers, Not Knowing Situation, Surprised End Came So Soon

By CLARK LEE.
Associated Press War Correspondent.
MELBOURNE, Australia (Friday), April 10.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur was informed late last night of the fall of Bataan, whose defense he directed on the scene until his transfer to Australia last month.

He went into a conference with his aides and was expected to issue a statement later.

The headquarters staff here was deeply affected by the news because, as one officer said, "All our friends are there."

The officers appeared surprised that the end had come so soon, stating that military operations reports received from Gen. Wainwright in the last 24 hours had not indicated any sudden worsening of the American position, although that position had been critical since the all-out Japanese land and air offensive was launched last week.

Inasmuch as reinforcements were not sent, the end would have been the same under Gen. MacArthur as under Gen. Wainwright or any other commander.

At the time I left Bataan, some supplies, already were beginning to run low, especially medicines and certain types of ammunition.

Artillery was beginning to wear out and there was too little artillery to begin with.

Gasoline stocks were dwindling, thus hampering the transport of food and munitions. The lack of fruit and fresh food was causing FORESHADOWED COLLAPSE OF BATAAN—Along with its announcement that the heroic three-month defense of Bataan finally had been overthrown by Jap onslaughts, the War Department today released these pictures. The above one shows how the beleaguered peninsula had been battered by almost continuous air raids.

Wainwright Retires To Corregidor Island; Counterattack Fails

Stimson Discloses Heavy Loss in Ships Taking Aid To Beleaguered Forces

Capture or death at the hands of invading Japanese hordes faced the bulk of 36,853 gallant American-Filipino defenders of Bataan Peninsula today, closing an heroic three-month battle against numerically overwhelming forces.

Exhausted by short rations and disease and virtually cut off from supplies despite costly efforts which provided some ammunition but did not relieve the food shortage, the doughty defenders fell back after a last desperate counterattack before the Japanese who already had overrun the rich Netherlands Indies and Britain's Singapore and Malaya.

Secretary of War Stimson related the first details concerning the defenders today, after a special War Department communique at 5:15 a.m. had announced that the defense of Bataan had probably been overcome and said President Roosevelt had authorized the Philippine commander to make any decision he deemed necessary in the light of events.

There was a roundabout radio report from Berlin, quoting a Shanghai newspaper report that Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, commander on Bataan, had sought an armistice, but this was not confirmed in any other quarter.

Gen. Wainwright Retires to Corregidor.

The early-morning communique was the first word received here that Gen. Wainwright had retired to Fort Mills on Corregidor Island, which is about two miles across the bay from the Bataan mainland.

Latest reports, Secretary Stimson said, indicated Corregidor and other fortresses guarding Manila Bay were still in United States hands, as was about half of the area of the Philippines, but he refused to make predictions how long the forts could be held. He said he saw no reason why resistance by small, isolated forces would not continue.

Secretary Stimson said the figure of 36,853 effectives was in the report received yesterday from Gen. Wainwright. He stressed that this figure included only the men fighting on Bataan at that time.

Excluded were American and Filipino troops guarding the defenses of Corregidor and the other islands, the wounded, nearly 20,000 civilian refugees, and about 6,000 Filipino laborers who were non-combatant.

Mr. Stimson disclosed that under the direction of Brig. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, former Secretary of War who is now Minister to New Zealand, urgent efforts were made beginning last January 11 to reinforce the besieged Philippine forces.

Two Ships Lost for Every One Sent Through.

From a base in Australia several ship loads of supplies were sent to the Philippines, and part of these supplies reached Corregidor and Bataan.

"But for every ship that arrived, we lost nearly two ships," Mr. Stimson said.

Because of these supplies, the defenders were never short of ammunition, the Secretary said, but had been on short rations.

Secretary Stimson said he saw no reason why resistance by isolated, relatively small forces should not continue in Northern Luzon, on the Island of Mindanao and elsewhere where blows have been struck, aside from further defense of Corregidor.

The War Department's early morning communique stating "the probability that the defenses on Bataan have been overcome" was the latest news the War Department had received up to 10:30 a.m., Secretary Stimson said.

"Our troops, outnumbered and worn down by successive attacks by fresh troops, exhausted by insufficient rations and the disease prevalent in that peninsula, finally had their lines broken and enveloped by the enemy," the Secretary said.

"We do not know the details of what has happened since that communique, but it is evident as stated therein that the defenses on Bataan have been overcome."

"A long and gallant defense has been worn down and overthrown."

Reversal on Bataan One of Most Severe In U. S. History

By the Associated Press.
Secretary Stimson's disclosure that 36,853 American and Filipino troops were involved in the Bataan disaster made it evident that this was among the most severe reversals suffered by American arms in any foreign war.

Officials believed the manpower loss might be the heaviest sustained by an American force in any single engagement with a foreign foe. Losses were heavier in the Meuse-Argonne offensive of 1918, but were spread over a campaign of weeks.

Publisher Sent to Jail For Refusal to Reply To Propaganda Quiz

Silent on Who Printed Card Said to Relate To Isolation Policy

Justice Jennings Bailey in District Court this afternoon committed Charles B. Hudson, described as an Omaha (Nebr.) publisher, to jail for three months on a charge of contempt for allegedly refusing to answer a question before the District grand jury investigating foreign propaganda activities.

Mr. Hudson, said to be publisher of a publication entitled "America in Danger," was given 10 days in which to purge himself of the contempt charge, and he will be released if he decides to answer the question before expiration of the 10-day period.

Mr. Hudson was accused of refusing to answer a question as to who printed a postcard, allegedly distributed, but refused to say who printed it.

Reading from his notes, the reporter testified to this conversation between Mr. Hudson and William Power Maloney, special assistant to the Attorney General, who is aiding the jury in the investigation:

"Who did the printing job?" asked Mr. Maloney.

"A friend of mine," responded Mr. Hudson. "You probably know already—so what's the difference?"

According to the stenographic notes, Mr. Hudson at one point said he would "rather go to jail" than answer the question.

Wouldn't Implicate Friends.

Justice Bailey, at the hearing, asked Mr. Hudson if he still refused to answer, and the latter replied: "I feel as an American citizen who is called here as a witness—I don't know why any friends of mine should be called into the inquiry."

Justice Bailey then told Mr. Hudson that the grand jury had a right to obtain an answer to the question and the witness said he could not see why it wanted that information in any subversive activities investigation.

Justice Bailey then ordered him sent to jail. Wearing a MacArthur button, Mr. Hudson was led away by a deputy United States marshal.

American soldiers, during a lull in the fighting on Bataan Peninsula listen to a news broadcast from home. Now even such uncomfortable listening posts are denied to them as Japanese hordes are apparently swarming in. (Additional pictures on Page 2-X.)

By an earlier decree golf ball production halted on April 1.

Babe Ruth's Illness Diagnosed as Pneumonia

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Babe Ruth, stricken suddenly yesterday with a critical ailment, is suffering from pneumonia, his physician, Dr. R. Nichol Smith, reported late today. He made the announcement after conferring with two lung specialists. "We've decided it's pneumonia," Dr. Smith said, "but it's clearing up a bit and now I'm holding my breath."

'Limit to Human Endurance,' Says Mrs. Wainwright

By the Associated Press.
CARMEL, Calif., April 9.—"There is a limit to human endurance!"

That was the way the wife of Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright reacted today to the sad news of the apparent collapse of the heroic defense of Bataan.

The words came through her mother, Mrs. Dwight Holley, whose home is here. Mrs. Wainwright, recently ill, and under heavy strain, was exhausted, her mother said.

Mrs. Holley told solicitous friends Mrs. Wainwright had said: "What can one say at a time like this? I am naturally very distressed at the news. There is a limit to human endurance!"

Mrs. Wainwright and her mother plan to leave next week for the Wainwright home in Syracuse, N. Y. There they expect to visit with the general's son, Jack, who is studying for an officer's rating in the Merchant Marine.

Bataan Photos Tell Tale of Fight Against Great Odds in Jungle

By the Associated Press.
Official War Department photographs told their own story today of the horror and rigors of war as it was fought in the jungles and clearings of Bataan.

The pictures, taken over a period of time, were released coincidentally with the department's sad conclusion that, in the words of Secretary of War Stimson, "a long and gallant defense has been worn down and overcome."

How that defense was so long maintained is illustrated in part by photos showing American soldiers, dirt-streaked and strained, crouching in their foxholes and baby trenches with alert or stolid Japanese tanks and a bottle bomb.

Then, there is a picture of a slim, young dispatch rider, napping by his motor cycle at the end of a run, but still cradling an automatic gun while he sleeps the sleep of the weary.

Especially dramatic is the view of a stubble bearded Army captain giving a wounded enemy a drink of water from his canteen. The Jap, lying amid boulders, has been badly shot up, his pants blown off and his face and head bandaged like a mummy's.

Erect and clear-eyed, Capt. Art Wernuth, the "one-man army," whose destruction of more than 100 Japanese soldiers made his almost a living legend, stands with his aide in another picture. Capt. Wernuth is shown holding a submarine gun; he has grown a trim mustache and a trick beard that just covers the under part of his chin.

There is a picture also of a field hospital, where gangrene cases are crowded close in iron beds that jam an open-sided structure. The army did not say whether this was the hospital the Japanese bombed twice.

One view, showing soldiers listening to a small radio, might have been taken in peacetime maneuvers, so unconcernedly do the men lounge about.

"That life goes on even amid war is shown again, this time in a 'family portrait' of seven Filipinos. A young mother is nursing a thin but bright-eyed little girl and the grinning father looks on the assembled family from the rear of their flimsy lean-to. These were some of the thousands of civilians who were behind the lines.

The familiar pictures of devastated towns, bombed and set on fire are in the series, too. Other pictures include Japanese dead, sprawled grotesquely on the ground, and one of a wrecked 105-mm Japanese field gun at the edge of a clearing.

Japanese Sink 2 British Cruisers In Bengal Bay

1,100 Crew Members Saved; Landing on Burma Reported

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, April 9.—Two British 8-inch-gun cruisers, the 10,000-ton Cornwall and the 9,975-ton Dorsetshire, whose torpedoes finished off the German battleship Bismarck little less than a year ago, have been sunk by Japanese bombers ranging the Bay of Bengal and battering at thin-stretched British naval communications to India, the Admiralty announced today.

From New Delhi it was announced also in a communique that the combined enemy naval and air attacks had resulted in the sinking of several Allied merchant ships in the Indian Ocean area. The communique said 400 to 500 survivors had landed on the Orissa coast.

The shock of the loss of the two powerful ships rubbed the grit of the Admiralty's announcement two hours earlier that a British submarine had sent a 10,000-ton Italian cruiser to the bottom of the Central Mediterranean.

The sinking of the Cornwall and Dorsetshire was a blow to the British naval strength immediately available to cope with Japanese aircraft carriers and warships reported increasing their activities astride the sea lanes to Calcutta in the bay between the bombed coast of India and invaded Burma.

Landing Also Reported.
Japanese broadcasts quoted imperial headquarters claims that in addition to the cruisers Japanese forces sank 21 Allied merchantmen in the Bay of Bengal up to last Tuesday, and badly damaged 23 other ships.

Heard, too, but without any other confirmation, was a Berlin broadcast quoting dispatches, purportedly from Tokyo, that Japanese expeditionary forces supported by cruisers and destroyers landed last Sunday on the Burma west coast and were within 30 miles of the Bengal border of India. That would place them between the border and the big Burma port of Akyab.

Earlier roundups reported that the Japanese had forced their way ashore at Akyab have been denied by the British headquarters at New Delhi.

1,100 of Crew Saved.
The Admiralty's announcement did not say when the Dorsetshire and Cornwall were sunk.

There was no intimation what other warships were operating with the cruisers. The fact that 1,100 crew members were saved indicated that other ships were on hand.

"It is known that more than 1,100 survivors, including the commanding officers of both ships, have been picked up," the Admiralty said.

The commanders were Capt. E. W. S. Agar of the Dorsetshire and Capt. P. C. W. Mainwaring of the Cornwall.

The Rome radio reported that the remaining units of the British squadron were engaged in a running sea fight with stronger Japanese naval forces.

Observers here said survivors of the cruiser sinkings might have been taken to the naval station at Trincomalee, target of a renewed Japanese air attack on Ceylon today.

Informed sources believed the British Indian Ocean naval squadron probably was operating from Trincomalee, or at least might have made for the base to await reinforcement after the smashing aerial attack which cost the two cruisers.

Subs in Ganges Estuary.
Systematic Japanese air reconnaissance is being maintained over the Bay of Bengal and, according to the latest reports, Japanese submarines are operating in the Ganges Estuary.

Tokyo authorities avoid mention of an offensive against India and state that these operations are being carried out with the objective of securing the flank of the Japanese forces fighting in Burma.

Informed sources refused to comment on a Rome radio report that a strong British naval formation rounded the Cape of Good Hope March 27 en route to the Indian Ocean.

The Daily Herald noted that among Japanese units had moved into conquered Rangoon's harbor. Others were said to be at Port Blair in the Andaman Islands, where United States flying fortresses bombed a cruiser last week.

Chinese Engaged in Burma.
Advices from Burma said Chinese forces holding the eastern flank of the Allied line were heavily engaged with Japanese troops on the highland between Toungoo and Mauchii. A Chinese communique issued at

Builders Blame Government For Delay in Erecting Housing

Prefabricators Left 'Holding Bag' While Officials Make Up Minds

By JAMES Y. NEWTON.
An amazing composite picture of frustration and delay which has cost the war program thousands of desperately-needed homes for workers and brought manufacturers to the brink of financial ruin was brought to The Star's attention today in letters from a score of prefabricated home builders who were given commitments by the Government to carry out the defense area demountable house program.

This Nation-wide, $153,000,000 program, as recently disclosed, has turned sour and is very much the problem-child of Government. Following an article in last Friday's Star describing the difficulties, many calls from prefabricators came to The Star. In the effort to get the prefabricators' side of the story, investigation was made and it was learned that letters describing the

Disaster on Bataan Detailed to President By War Secretary

Executive Faces Full Day; Admiral Stark and Winant on Schedule

By JOHN C. HENRY.
First details of the American disaster on Bataan Peninsula were laid before President Roosevelt by Secretary of War Stimson in an early morning White House conference today.

With the expectation that additional information and developing plans for continued resistance to the Japanese in the Philippine area will be forthcoming during the morning, the President also directed Secretary Stimson to return to the White House for consultation at lunch time.

The two engagements with the head of the War Department highlighted a full day of Presidential business, including continuance of conferences with John G. Winant, American Ambassador to Great Britain, who is here for consultation with officials here.

Stark First Caller.
The Chief Executive's first engagement of the day was with Admiral Harold R. Stark, until recently chief of naval operations, who is shortly to take over active command of American naval forces in European waters.

Without advance notice to Admiral Stark, the President presented the naval officer with the Order of the Gold Star, accompanied by the following citation:

"For exceptionally meritorious service to the Government of the United States in a duty of great responsibility during his tenure of office as chief of naval operations from 1939 to 1942 when he was charged with the responsibility of building and administering the largest peace-time Navy in the history of this country.

"Due to exceptional qualities of leadership and his outstanding ability, full reliance was placed on his advice and counsel by the Secretary of the Navy, by the Congress and by the President of the United States as evidenced by the executive and legislative measures adopted for the naval service to effect a high state of training for war and the building of a two-ocean Navy."

The White House said that the Gold Star was being awarded to Admiral Stark on recommendation of Secretary of Navy Knox and is in lieu of a second Distinguished Service Medal award.

In another engagement today, the President was conferred with David Dasso, Peruvian Minister of Finance. The White House said that Mr. Dasso, a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, had been a tower of strength to the United States in recent South American conferences to establish war-time hemisphere solidarity.

6 Ships Off U. S. Coast Credited to Italian Sub
By the Associated Press.
BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), April 9.—The Berlin radio said today that reports from Rome credited a single Italian submarine with sinking six merchant ships totaling 32,000 tons during operations off the American coast.

These reports said the ships were a 5,000-ton United States vessel, a Dutch steamer, two British steamers and two ships of unspecified nationality.

Another Italian submarine was said to have sunk three ships totaling 22,600 tons, two of them tankers and the third a 7,000-ton United States merchantman.

Wainwright Feared He'd Miss War When Sent to Philippines
By the Associated Press.
DALLAS, Tex., April 9.—When Lt. Gen. Jonathan W. Wainwright—now leading the American-Philippine forces in Bataan—received orders to go to the Philippines he was disgusted because he was afraid he'd miss the war.

Col. C. A. Dougherty of the Dallas Army Air Corps, old friend, saw Gen. Wainwright at Fort Clark on the Mexican border just after the general had received orders to report for the Philippines.

"He was regretting those orders," Col. Dougherty said. "He was afraid that something might break over here and that he would be stuck in the Philippines, missing everything."

'No Raid Shelters... No Planes for Defense...'
Mandalay a Holocaust of Screaming Victims
By the Associated Press.
ALFRED WAGG, war correspondent in Burma, reported Monday in a special radio dispatch to The Star that the storied city of Mandalay had been all but leveled in a three-hour bombardment by 36 Japanese bombers on April 3. The following dispatch, of which the first part has not been received yet, possibly because of communication delays, refers presumably to the same Japanese attack.

splitting thunder bore more than a few persons could dive into narrow slit trenches which provide inadequate shelter from air attack. Bomb fragments rained down on the square behind Indian and coolie refugee camps on the north side of the railway yards. Two corners of a big brick civil hospital and the buildings near the station were blasted into dusty rubble. A line of bungalows behind the hospital were smashed to bits. The title room of the Princess of Wales Hospital in the same street was blown in.

Gas Deliveries In East Ordered Cut One-Third

Public Co-operation Would Avoid Card Rationing, Ickes Says

By the Associated Press.
The War Production Board today ordered gasoline deliveries to service stations in 17 Eastern States, Oregon, Washington and the District of Columbia cut one-third compared with average deliveries last December, January and February.

The curtailment compares with a 20 per cent cut already in effect, resulting from tanker sinkings and transportation shortages.

In addition to the States already affected, W. P. B. included the City of Bristol, Tenn., on grounds that Bristol was partly in Virginia—Virginia with the curtailment area—and partly in Tennessee, which is not.

Effective April 16.
The new reduction, effective April 16, will require proportionate reductions in gasoline deliveries during the latter half of April.

The 17 Eastern States affected are Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia.

Meanwhile, Secretary Ickes, the petroleum co-ordinator, told his weekly press conference that rationing by use of cards might be avoided if the public co-operated in the rationing station supply limitation program.

Stocks Drop Sharply.
"If this works satisfactorily," he said, "we may go to Mr. Henderson (the price administrator) and say there is no need for card rationing."

The co-ordinator reported that oil stocks in the East dropped another 149,000 barrels last week, and that the overall stocks of the seaboard area now are 13,275,000 barrels under April 1941.

Secretary Ickes announced he would support a proposal of the Petroleum Industry War Council for the industry to produce a minimum of 300,000 tons of synthetic rubber for civilian use, over and above the 700,000 tons already planned by Government agencies.

Italian Cruiser Is Sunk
By British Torpedoes
By the Associated Press.
LONDON, April 9.—The Admiralty reported today that a 10,000-ton Italian cruiser was torpedoed and sunk by a British submarine in the central Mediterranean.

An Admiralty communique said: "An Italian cruiser of 10,000 tons, armed with 8-inch guns, has been torpedoed and sunk in the central Mediterranean by a submarine under command of Lt. Comdr. E. P. Tompkinson, D. S. O., R. N."

"The cruiser was escorted by destroyers and aircraft. Eight minutes after being hit by torpedoes the Italian cruiser was heard to break up and sink. A destroyer was later seen picking up the survivors."

Informed persons said Italy now had only two of the seven 10,000-ton cruisers with which she entered the war 22 months ago.

27 in Vichy Trial Charged With Many Slayings
By the Associated Press.
VICHY, France, April 9.—Twenty-seven men on trial before a German military tribunal at Paris as accused terrorists fought gun battles costing the lives of many police officers before they were captured.

The prosecution, summing up the accusations, said that if the charges were upheld and if a previous trial of seven persons were counted, German courts would have accounted for "practically two-thirds of the terrorists' attacks."

Tourists' Gas Imports Curbed by Canada
By the Associated Press.
OTTAWA, April 9.—The customs department announced today that tourists entering Canada in automobiles from now on will not be permitted to import any gasoline in excess of what is in the tanks of their cars at the time of entry.

A provision whereby tourists had been permitted to bring in with them gasoline sufficient for 300 miles' travel without payment of duty has been withdrawn.

Bad Weather Is Obstacle.
"Bad weather conditions have been the only factor that has stopped the Allies from hammering them every day," the correspondent continued, "but even despite climatic handicaps and attempts by the Japanese to disperse their aircraft over a wide area, we have consistently and relentlessly hammered the enemy in a series of brilliantly executed raids by an increasing number of planes which include many of the world's most modern fighting aircraft."

"An examination of the air activity over Darwin, Timor, the Torres Strait, New Guinea and New Britain since the Lae landing March 8 shows that we have shot down or destroyed on the ground 99 Japanese planes and damaged at least 58."

Many Enemy Aircraft Destroyed in Allied Air Raid on Rabaul

Five Jap Planes Drop 30 to 40 Bombs on Isle in Solomons

By the Associated Press.
MELBOURNE, April 9.—Five Japanese bombers flying at 5,000 feet raided Tulagi, in the Solomon Islands, this morning and dropped between 30 and 40 bombs, Prime Minister John Curtin announced.

Tulagi lies almost 500 miles south-east of Japanese-occupied Buka, at the tip of the Solomon chain, across the Coral Sea from Australia.

The communique said some damage was done to buildings, but that there were no casualties.

"A Reuters dispatch from Port Moresby, New Guinea, said many aircraft were destroyed on the ground and others damaged in an Allied raid this afternoon on Japanese-held Rabaul, New Britain."

Lorengau Seizure Confirmed.
Japanese occupation of Lorengau, on Manus Island, the largest of the Admiralty group north of New Guinea, has been confirmed by aerial reconnaissance, an Australian communique reported.

The communique said Allied planes had yesterday that the Japanese had occupied the island, but the date of the landing was not known. It was added that the Japanese probably landed some time ago.

Lorengau is about 350 miles north of Lae, capital of New Guinea, where the Japanese have a base. Meanwhile, Japanese planes attempting to raid Port Moresby, New Guinea, were reported driven off by Allied fighters yesterday and several invading craft were said to have been damaged.

157 Jap Planes Damaged.
An Australian war correspondent reported from Port Moresby that "Excluding Allied air operations north of Australia yesterday and today we have destroyed or seriously damaged at least 157 Japanese aircraft in the past month in a brilliantly executed air offensive over a front extending from Timor to Rabaul."

"We are rapidly approaching the time," he said, "when the Japanese will have to decide whether they will be hurled out of the islands which they have occupied, or are willing to bleed their vital fronts of air power in a desperate effort to safeguard their meager gains north of Australia."

The Australian war correspondent who told of recent Allied air successes against the Japanese described these successes as a result of "one of the most powerful and most sustained air blitzes since the Pacific war began."

It began with the Japanese landing at Lae and Salamaua, New Guinea, exactly a month ago yesterday.

"Bad weather conditions have been the only factor that has stopped the Allies from hammering them every day," the correspondent continued, "but even despite climatic handicaps and attempts by the Japanese to disperse their aircraft over a wide area, we have consistently and relentlessly hammered the enemy in a series of brilliantly executed raids by an increasing number of planes which include many of the world's most modern fighting aircraft."

"An examination of the air activity over Darwin, Timor, the Torres Strait, New Guinea and New Britain since the Lae landing March 8 shows that we have shot down or destroyed on the ground 99 Japanese planes and damaged at least 58."

"Today on such a job the pilot stands a good chance of suicide, and we see the extraordinary picture of five or seven high-speed Zero fighters being used as escort for one lone reconnaissance plane."

49 U. S. Diplomats To Be Sent Home From Hong Kong

By the Associated Press.
TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts), April 9.—Domei reported today that 63 diplomats captured at Hong Kong, including United States Consul General Addison E. Southard, would be sent home under an exchange agreement Japan has reached with the United States and Britain.

Forty-nine of the diplomats are Americans, two are Dutch, five Belgians, three Norwegians and four Canadians, Domei said.

Free Danes Give Churchill
$153,000 to Buy Planes
By the Associated Press.
LONDON, April 9.—Prime Minister Churchill is accepting a check from the Free Danes at No. 10 Downing Street, declared today: "We shall never give in, we shall never weary, we shall never cease in our struggle; nor will our great American and Russian Allies."

"Your Majesty," he said, "I have very little doubt that the day will come, perhaps sooner than it would be prudent or sensible to hope, when Denmark will be free from the grip in which she has been held, and when she will resume her independent, honored and ancient place among the free peoples and states of Europe."

The Danish check, for the equivalent of $153,200, will be used to purchase Spitfire fighters to be flown against the German-occupied continent by Danish pilots in the R. A. F., and Mr. Churchill said this: "Good weather is needed to turn this splendid check into the first heavy thunder drops of the storm which is to beat out this odious tyranny."

King Haakon Is Given Greeting by Roosevelt
By the Associated Press.
President Roosevelt today, on the second anniversary of the Nazi invasion of Norway, sent a message of encouragement to King Haakon VII in London.

"On April 9, two years ago," said the message, "Nazi hordes shocked the civilized world by invading without any provocation your peaceful and law-abiding country."

"Your Majesty's faith and the faith of the Norwegian people in the cause of democracy and the ultimate victory of the forces resisting aggression has been and continues to be an inspiration to the peoples of the United States."

Vast Stream of Tanks Rolls Out as Auto Plants Hit Stride

Detroit Output Is Mere Trickle Compared to Production to Come

By ALFRED TOOMBS,
Star Staff Correspondent.
IN THE DETROIT AREA, April 9.—Sudden death—1942 spring model—is rolling off Detroit's assembly lines.

Anti-aircraft guns, put together with the same tedious care Swiss craftsmen lavish on a $250 watch, are tumbling out of automobile plants here like nickels from a slot machine jackpot.

Monstrous tanks—the roughest, toughest, nastiest creations for their size and weight in the world—are gliding down assembly lines with the steady, unstoppable surge of elephants in a circus procession.

Wings and fuselages, bomb bay doors and engine cowlings are being put together by mass production methods by the same skilled hands which last year were bending fenders and stamping out assorted parts for that fad which peacetime America loved so dearly—the horseless carriage.

Giant machine tools—setting up a great clatter and roar—are stamping out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored. At last it can be said that the automobile industry has hit its stride in war production.

And this is only the beginning. What seems today to be a flood of war materials will—within three months—appear but a trickle. And within another three months that, too, will appear insignificant.

For the full potentiality of the automobile industry has not yet been brought into war production. The 57 varieties of sudden death which are streaming out of the plants in this area are coming, to a large extent, from new buildings and new tools set up here for special war purposes.

But the men who bend over the blueprints and whose strong hands shape the bits and pieces of the machines of destruction are the same men whose "know-how" built the auto industry.

It was knowledge and skill which enabled these factories to put war on a mass production schedule.

Consider what has been done with the Bofors 40-mm anti-aircraft gun. This is a gun of Swedish design, one of the world's best weapons for popping at high-flying planes.

They've been making them for years in the old world. Slowly and painstakingly, workmen around a bench have toiled the parts and put them together. Guns were made one by one.

Guns Made on Mass Scale.
The Government gave an automobile plant the order for an order for these guns. The company engineers modified the design somewhat and decided they would set up an assembly line.

And now, in the plant where automobiles were being made, machine tools are producing parts for the Bofors gun. In a huge old building, where trucks were turned out these parts move along an assembly belt. The guns come off the line just like the automobiles used to.

In another plant, the same principles have been applied to manufacture of tanks.

Senator Brands Magnesium Pact 'Sinister Fraud'

Malfaisance Indicated In Defense Plant Corp., Bunker Tells Senate

By the Associated Press.
Senator Bunker, Democrat, of Nevada, charged in a Senate address today that an agreement between the Defense Plant Corp. and Basic Magnesium, Inc., of Cleveland for construction of a $63,000,000 magnesite refinery at Las Vegas, Nev., "is so sinister as to indicate that some officials of our Government are guilty of malfaisance."

He demanded a thorough investigation of the Defense Plant Corp., a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance Corp., and added: "If the agreement between the Defense Plant Corp. and Basic Magnesium, Inc., represents a cross-section of conduct on the part of the Defense Plant Corp., I can come to only one conclusion: We are tolerating the existence of an agency of the Government that is so corrupt that it would make profiteering in the last war look like petty larceny by comparison."

"The fraud that is being perpetrated by the Defense Plant Corp. is a betrayal of the President and the American people. It is a betrayal of 4,280 per cent profit in year seen. Last week Senator Bunker told the Senate that Basic Magnesium, Inc., stood a chance of making a profit of 4,280 per cent in one year on an admitted investment of less than $50,000."

Previously, the special Senate committee that is investigating national war projects reported that hearings it conducted at Las Vegas at Senator Bunker's request indicated that Basic Magnesium, Inc., was guilty of "one of the most flagrant attempts at war profiteering."

Senator Bunker, youngest member of the Senate, declared today that the ramifications of the transaction were so far reaching as to "project Basic Magnesium, Inc., into the picture of international intrigue involving English and German interests."

Forty-five per cent of the stock in Basic Magnesium, Inc., he said, was owned by Magnesium Elektron, Ltd., of England. The English company, he said, had obtained an interest by agreeing to furnish a magnesite refining process it obtained under an agreement with I. G. Farbenindustrie of Germany.

Financing Claims Transferred.
Senator Bunker said the other 55 per cent of the stock was owned by Basic Refractories, Inc., of which P. E. Eells, Jr., of Cleveland is president. Basic Refractories obtained its interest by transferring its rights in 36 public domain mining claims in Nye County, Nev., to Basic Magnesium, Inc., on which some debt of Basic Magnesium, Inc., Mr. Eells also is president of the subsidiary, Basic Magnesium, Inc., Senator Bunker said.

"These claims, on which Basic Refractories admittedly expended less than $50,000, represented the sole assets of Basic Magnesium, Inc. at the time of the transaction. Mr. Eells also is president of the subsidiary, Basic Magnesium, Inc., Senator Bunker said.

"Neither company, Basic Magnesium, Inc. nor the English company, Magnesium Elektron, Ltd., had sufficient assets or resources to finance financially responsible to warrant such an extension of credit on a sound business basis."

Senator Bunker said terms of the Defense Plant Corp.—Basic Magnesium, Inc., agreement provided that the Defense Plant Corp. would pay the company $1,000,000 for the plant was sold to some company other than Basic Magnesium, Inc.; $300,000 for supervising construction; $280,000 a year royalty on ore taken from the public domain claims, and an estimated $560,000 for maintenance and operating of the plant annually. The total was $2,140,000.

Royalty Boosted Also.
In case of a sale of the plant to other than Basic Magnesium, Inc., then for 10 years the Government would be required to pay a royalty of $560,000, instead of $280,000 annually, for ore taken from the public domain claims, Senator Bunker asserted.

He said the Defense Plant Corp. agreed to pay all the bills, including salaries, wages and materials and certain expenses incurred prior to the culmination of the agreement.

"Prior to the formation of Basic Magnesium, Inc., and prior to the signing of the contract, Basic Refractories claimed to have expended in the promotion of this enterprise and the negotiation of the contract, the sum of $211,000," said Senator Bunker.

"This no doubt includes Eells' numerous trips to Washington and entertainment. This sum is now being retained by the Defense Plant Corp. to Basic Refractories."

He said the Defense Plant Corp. purchased peat moss required for processing of magnesite and in addition "is paying a group of Canadian and American distributors an $84,000-a-year bonus for the release of all their available stock to Basic Magnesium, Inc."

"The Defense Plant Corp. also agreed to pay a firm of architects $28,000 for the privilege of using plans for 800 demountable houses which the Las Vegas plant—plans which had all been used by the Government project," Senator Bunker charged.

"Thus the Government bought the same plans twice.

"The Defense Plant Corp. is now paying traveling expenses and salaries of 45 officials of basic magnesite, now in England studying the process. At the same time, Defense Plant Corp. is paying the salaries of English technicians who are in America promoting interests of their company."

Committees to Spur War Output Formed In 444 Plants

W. P. B. Gets Reports Of Record-Breaking Industrial Production

By the Associated Press.

Organization of 444 labor-management committees to get production drives under way in war plants has been reported to the War Production Board.

The companies range in size from small shops throughout the country to the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. and the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co., W. P. B. said. Several committees said their output was handicapped by lack of materials, others reported record-breaking production achievements toward President Roosevelt's goal of 45,000 tanks, 60,000 planes and 8,000,000 tons of shipping this year.

"Workmen of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. during the month of March helping to fight the war shattered all previous records and established all-time new highs for the production of coke, pig iron, steel ingots and finished steel products," S. S. Marshall, Jr., vice president of the Pittsburgh concern, telegraphed W. P. B. Chairman Donald M. Nelson.

The plant committee of the Reliance Foundry, Cincinnati, reported at its first meeting it had voted to go on a seven-day week and to urge night work whenever possible.

A number of the committees have adopted plant slogans, W. P. B. was told. The Erie Concrete & Steel Implement Co. reported it was building ships on the same spot where Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry built ships in 1812, and took for its slogan.

"Perry Did It, and So Will We," American Car & Foundry Co.'s Buffalo plant adopted "Volume for Victory," The Houston (Tex.) Packing Committee chose the slogan, "Save Fat—To Make Bombs for the Japs."

University of South Gives Lord Halifax Degree

By the Associated Press.

SEWANE, Tenn., April 9.—Lord Halifax, British Ambassador to the United States, said today he saw very little hope for the world unless the American and British peoples could work together as one in the solution of problems now and after the war.

The Ambassador, accompanied by Lady Halifax, came here to receive an honorary degree of doctor of civil law at a special convocation of the University of the South.

"If we can truly work as one we shall reach an end which we can feel not unworthy of the price which shall have been paid," Lord Halifax said in a brief extemporaneous address before the degree was conferred upon him.

Potranc Wins Feature At Jamaica Opening

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 9.—L. J. Wilson's 5-year-old Potranc today won the 3rd running of the $7,500 added Paumonok Handicap, a traditional opening-day feature at Jamaica.

The brown son of Judge Hay ran through the 6 furlongs of sloppy going to hit the wire a head in front of H. L. Myer's Sheriff Culkin, one-half of the favored entry. F. J. Buchanan's Zacatine was a head farther back in the show spot.

manders and the men who have conducted this epic chapter in American history."

Secretary Stimson emphasized also that both Gen. Wainwright and Gen. Douglas MacArthur had nothing but praise for the Filipino soldiers who had been fighting side by side with the Americans.

President Roosevelt's message to Gen. Wainwright, the Secretary said, was sent yesterday. In the message Secretary Stimson said the Chief Executive expressed his "full appreciation of the enormous difficulties confronting Gen. Wainwright and told him he had nothing but praise for his method of conducting the defense and for his soldierly conduct throughout."

Secretary Stimson said the President told Gen. Wainwright that "any decision he reached now would be in the interests of the country and the splendid troops he commanded."

The Secretary said he disclosed the exact figures for the effectiveness in the final stage of the struggle because he anticipated there would be "great exaggeration by the Japanese of the number of men who have gone down."

Refuses to Estimate Foe's Total.

Secretary Stimson refused to estimate the numerical odds against which the defenders fought. Earlier reports had indicated the invaders had at least six divisions on the peninsula. The total enemy strength on Luzon Island has been estimated at from 200,000 to 300,000.

The defenders had no air support of any substantial size recently, Secretary Stimson said, adding, "That is what made the outcome practically a foregone conclusion."

The Secretary said the efforts to aid the defenders from outside were undertaken as soon as Gen. MacArthur had taken his position on the peninsula in early January, when "we began to take steps to make his stay as long as possible."

The American Army officers who set up the base in Australia had as part of their duty the assignment to attempt to break the Japanese blockade.

To make sure that special efforts were put into the task, former Secretary of War Hurley was put in charge and authorized and directed to make every effort possible," Secretary Stimson continued.

"Very large sums of money were placed to his credit and also the credit of Gen. MacArthur.

"Gen. Hurley was very successful. He secured several shiploads of supplies which got into the Philippines and part of which reached Corregidor and Bataan. But for every ship that arrived, we lost nearly two ships.

Were Never Short of Ammunition.

"I am glad to say the defenders were never short of ammunition, owing to these efforts. Up until the last word from them, they had plenty of small arms and artillery ammunition.

"But they had been on short rations since MacArthur put them into effect January 11. This fact and the long strain were a very potent factor in wearing down our troops, making them unable to rebound to the counterattack as at first."

Secretary Stimson told questioners no casualty totals were yet available.

He made it clear that Filipinos comprised the bulk of the peninsula defenders, the Americans being made up largely of the 31st Infantry Regiment, crews of two tank battalions and units of self-propelled artillery sent to the islands last summer and fall, plus air force ground crews and sailors and marines from the abandoned Cavite naval base.

The air force personnel numbered about 5,000 men at the start of the invasion, Secretary Stimson said. Of these, some 2,000 fought as infantrymen in the latter stages, after their planes had been put out of action or transferred to the Netherlands Indies and Australia as were a number of long-range bombers.

American air losses were very heavy the first day of the invasion, the Secretary remarked.

Army men here expressed doubt that large numbers of surviving troops could be evacuated under fire across the 2 miles of open water between the southern tip of Bataan Peninsula and Corregidor.

Such an evacuation operation for a defeated force, they noted, was notoriously one of the most difficult of all actions, and they pointed to Gen. Wainwright's report that the last counterattack by his 1st Corps "failed due to complete physical exhaustion of the troops," as another factor militating against evacuation of many soldiers.

Almost Continuous Attacks by Japs.

Heavy Japanese bombers also have attacked the areas near the southern extremity of Bataan, nearest point to Corregidor, almost continuously in the last few days.

More than half the area of the Philippines, composed of some 7,000 islands, still remained under American-Filipino control, but was believed to be defended by relatively weak forces, mostly Philippine Army Reservists armed with rifles. Principal islands on which no Japanese landings had been reported include Negros, Panay, Cebu, Samar, Leyte and Palawan.

Invaded islands include Luzon, Mindanao, Jolo, Masbate and Mindoro. Spirited resistance has been reported in the interior of Mindanao and in Northern Luzon, the scene of most of the fighting.

One handicap suffered by Gen. Wainwright was that a large proportion of the personnel behind the front lines was non-combatant, including wounded, supply troops and thousands of Filipinos who fled from their captured villages. All had to be fed from the defenders' limited food supplies.

The War Department said Gen. Wainwright had messaged that the Japanese had enveloped the east flank of his defending line.

The communique, No. 183 of the war, said:

"A message from Gen. Wainwright at Fort Mills just received at the War Department states that the Japanese attack on Bataan Peninsula succeeded in enveloping the east flank of our lines, in the position held by the 2d Corps. An attack by the 1st Corps, ordered to relieve the situation, failed due to complete physical exhaustion of the troops.

"Full details are not available, but this situation indicates the probability that the defenses on Bataan have been overcome."

Administration Hit For Rubber Shortage In Woodruff Speech

House, Senate Bills Filed To Finance Production Of 400,000 Tons Yearly

By the Associated Press.

The rubber shortage was blamed on the administration today by Representative Woodruff, Republican, of Michigan.

At the same time, legislation was introduced in the House and Senate to establish and finance a United States Rubber Authority, under which Government synthetic rubber plants would produce 400,000 tons of rubber a year.

"It has been reported in Washington," Mr. Woodruff told the House, "that the real reason behind the lag in the establishment of synthetic rubber plants was that President Roosevelt did not want to offend the British and Dutch interests. Also, that he wanted to encourage establishment of a rubber-growing industry in some of the Latin-American countries."

Mr. Woodruff added that the President and Vice President Wallace did not want a new industry established under pressure of the war needs which later would want a high tariff.

Tells of Rumors, Whispers.

"The U. S.," Mr. Woodruff, "something very peculiar about the synthetic rubber situation in the United States. Washington has been filled with rumors and whisperings about the manipulation which was indulged in to prevent the establishment of a synthetic rubber industry in the United States."

"Usually the blame was laid by administration spokesmen on general conditions, although Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones, who also is head of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. and the R. F. C.-owned and controlled Rubber Reserve Co., was allowed to take the blame for a serious miscalculation, if not worse, which is now becoming apparent."

Mr. Woodruff said testimony before a congressional committee "disclosed that the synthetic rubber program had been torpedoed in some way under Mr. Jones' management."

See Parallel in Sugar.

"This Mr. Jones denies," Woodruff added. "He did admit, however, that the British-Dutch combine had blocked the efforts of the United States to build up a larger stock pile of natural rubber, although it had been selling rubber to the Japs up to the time of the Pearl Harbor attack."

"It is important to the American people that the record be kept straight in this regard, because it is so similar to the domestic sugar situation. It will be recalled that in spite of the most earnest warnings on the part of those who best knew the sugar situation that the advent of a general war would create a sugar shortage in the United States, both the President and the then Secretary of Agriculture, Henry A. Wallace, favored a reduction rather than an increase in the sugar-producing facilities of the United States. Many sugar companies were killed off by the adroit use of the quotas."

Murray Files Authority Bill.

The legislation to establish and finance an authority under which Government synthetic rubber plants would produce 400,000 tons of rubber a year was introduced in the Senate by Senator Murray, Democrat, of Montana.

Declaring that "this Nation can no more survive without rubber than without food and water," Senator Murray said he was convinced "it is folly to rely upon the present totally inadequate projects to supply rubber even for vital needs."

His bill would appropriate $100,000,000 capital stock to start the authority's operations, and would require that plants should be constructed at decentralized locations, adjacent to sources of raw material.

Representative Belter, Democrat, of New York introduced similar legislation in the House.

illness. Most of the troops were eating rice and canned salmon.

There was difficulty in obtaining sufficient rice for the Filipino soldiers, to whom it is a most important food.

There was insufficient wire for entanglements and field telephones, although the Signal Corps did a magnificent job of maintaining communications.

Only Handful Operating.

Only a handful of small craft—mostly tugs and launches—were operating between Bataan and Corregidor at the time left.

Unless evacuation operations were begun some days ago, it is unlikely that many of Gen. Wainwright's troops could have been ferried across from the mainland to Corregidor fortress.

Certainly little of their equipment could be saved, although it is likely that the guns were decommissioned and, if there was time, that all supplies on Bataan were destroyed.

The distance from Corregidor to Bataan is more than 2 miles at the nearest point. Strong currents and numerous sharks make it unlikely that many swimmers could make it.

However, many American soldiers and officers had plans to avoid capture if Bataan fell. If successful, they eventually will make their way to unoccupied territory where they hope to live off the country and operate in guerrilla bands.

While I lack knowledge of the exact number of American and Filipino forces on Bataan, it is estimated that they never exceeded 70,000, of which only a portion actually were combat troops.

The Americans are estimated not to have exceeded 8,000, including the 31st Infantry, Air Corps men, marines and sailors fighting as infantry; anti-aircraft regiments, supply troops, engineers and the medical corps and nurses.

End Was Inevitable.

The end for Bataan was, of course, inevitable.

Knowing the men of Bataan as I know them, I am sure many of them died firmly believing help was on the way.

Many told me they had rather die than be captured.

Now the survivors can only hope

JAP BOMBS LIGHT BATAAN VILLAGE—When this picture was made, American and Filipino defenders were gallantly holding their own despite Japanese bombs that fell on their lines and set fire to Bataan villages. But today, the War Department announced "the probability that the defense of Bataan had been overcome by vastly superior numbers."

For early American victory to end their ordeal as prisoners.

From press dispatches it appears that the Japanese made a decisive breakthrough along the Manila Bay side of the American lines.

This area is pie-shaped, a slice of rice paddies extending into the hills being the only flat portion of the peninsula.

There the American positions were exposed to shell fire from Japanese guns behind Mount Natib and also to low-level dive-bombing and strafing attacks. Japanese tanks and mechanized units also could operate there.

If the Japanese now are able to occupy all of Bataan, the position of Corregidor will be critical, since it will be under artillery siege from both north and south.

Japanese guns can completely block Manila Bay, making it impossible for supplies to reach Corregidor, which either must fall through attrition or direct assault.

As long as its supplies last, however, Corregidor can make any Japanese storming attempts extremely costly.

21 Allied Merchantmen Also Sunk, Japs Claim

TOKIO (From Japanese Broadcasts), April 9 (AP)—Japanese forces have sunk two British cruisers and 21 Allied merchantmen in operations in the Indian Ocean up to last Tuesday, a Japanese headquarters communiqué reported today. Twenty-three other ships were reported badly damaged.

The Japanese said 60 Allied planes had been shot down to five lost by the Japanese. They declared there was no damage to Japanese warships.

The text of the imperial headquarters announcement follows:

"During naval operations in the Indian Ocean up to April 7 the Japanese have sunk two British cruisers, one of the London type, 9,850 tons, and one of the Cornwall type, 10,000 tons.

"Forty-four merchantmen have been either sunk or damaged and 60 enemy planes have been shot down.

The merchantmen included 21 vessels displacing 140,000 tons sunk and 23 others approximating 102,000 tons badly damaged.

"Three hangars and one repair factory and other important enemy facilities were seriously damaged.

"During the operations the Japanese forces lost five planes but sustained no damage to warships."

261 Greeks Reported Lost On Two Ships in Storm

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, April 9.—The lives of 261 Greek men, women and children were reported today to have been lost in a Mediterranean storm which smashed two small vessels in which they were fleeing from Axis-occupied Aegean Islands to Turkey.

A Reuters dispatch from Smyrna said one of the vessels, bearing 236 persons, had been dashed to pieces on a reef near Kanilada Island, 30 miles off the Turkish coast. Only 29 of those aboard managed to reach land.

All but 27 of 81 passengers aboard the other craft perished in the same storm, the news agency said.

By The Associated Press.

A 156-mile, seven-hour "joy ride" by two Fort Myer prisoners and a guard in an Army truck started at the guard house yesterday and ended in the same place last night.

The story goes that the prisoners, armed with a pencil "order" on Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Club stationery, signed with a fictitious name, talked the guard into giving them a guard house truck to go to Upper Marlboro, Md., to pick up a load of waste cardboard donated, it was set forth, by citizens for a "Fort Myer Guardhouse benefit fund."

Red Cross Renews Drive for District War Fund Quota

U. S. Employees Asked To Swell Fund, Still $258,000 Under Goal

Renewed solicitation of employees has been resorted to by officials of several Government departments in an effort to achieve the $750,000 local quota in the Red Cross War Fund campaign, the District chapter reported today.

A new canvass of War Production Board workers, intended to re-emphasize the vital need for raising the full amount here, was started yesterday.

Contributions totaled $491,252 today, and leaders of the drive pointed out a drastic reduction of the chapter's program would become necessary if Washington residents did not proffer much simpler financial support promptly.

They warned contemplated expansion of urgently required services would have to be shelved and cited particularly the importance of a larger nurse's aid and home nursing training program in view of the overtaxing of hospital facilities.

Competent home care could relieve hospitals of many convalescent cases, it was explained.

Recent contributions include the following:

Employees of the Lease-Lend Administration, $400; a group of lawyers, $104.43; employees of the Library of Congress, $2,008; Julian M. McDowell, $1,500; Miss Audrey Campbell, $1,000; students of Georgetown Visitation Convent, $115; Theodore W. Noyes, $500, a third gift, making total of $1,600; Ladies Auxiliary of the District of Columbia Beneficial Association, $50, and Pan Hellenic Council of George Washington University, $32.

Roosevelt and consider that he is shouldering the greatest burden worthily.

"I think that he will inevitably play a great part in the future, but we have not asked for his intervention in our problems, for we realize that the burden is ours and we must meet it.

"We have shouldered it against the might of a great empire during these last 22 years and we have not bowed down to superior might, despite pains and penalties.

"Take Exception to Press.

"We propose to stand erect in the future also, whatever happens.

"We realize that the achievement of freedom for India, which we have desired so passionately and worked for these long years is our business. If we are strong enough to achieve it we shall do so—if not, we shall fail."

Nehru took exception to some American press comments on the Indian situation, saying, "I can only understand them on the basis of American ignorance of conditions in India. We have had long homilies and patronizing advice as to what is good for us and what is not. There has been sometimes an element of threat in case we do not accept that advice. The advice of friends is always welcome and worthy of consideration, but we are not used to patronage from any country or people, and we do not shape our policy on the basis of superior homilies or threats."

Study to Determine Power for Aluminum

By The Associated Press.

War Production Board officials and Canadian representatives will confer tomorrow on a proposal involving a possible increase in Canadian aluminum production by diverting power from pulp and paper mills.

One W. P. B. source said the plan contemplated a reduction of "roughly 10 per cent" in the amount of power furnished Dominion mills supplying American newspapers with most of their newsprint.

"If the only question is that of sacrificing newsprint to get more aluminum, we'll have to take the aluminum, of course," another high-ranking official declared.

No contract has yet been signed for the additional aluminum, which would be furnished by Canadian plants of the Aluminum Company of America.

Indian riflemen bore the wounded to safety on their backs.

Under a rain of embers, screaming, burning men, women and children fled themselves through the purple waters bycincts into the fortress' shallow moat.

Engineers, in fierce heat, planted dynamite charges and blew up buildings in an attempt to limit the holocaust before all Mandalay was destroyed.

Freight Cars Saved.

British Army engineers and British and Indian crews saved hundreds of freight cars. Wounded men helped carry out the salvage job.

A British captain with a bomb splinter in his right arm filled my jeep with gasoline opposite a burning two-story Indian food store and told me of a detour which would let me deeper into the fire area.

"You can sling a stretcher across the jeep," he said. "There are people lying around in the streets in the middle of that bloody thing."

I drove through an alley near the fire-cloaked civil telephone headquarters and raced along the east side of the native bazaar which had not yet burned, although shops across the way were cracking and the jeep had to dodge hot sheets of tin roofing falling on the sticky asphalt road.

The bodies of dead bullocks swollen drumhead tight littered the way. By a tangle of wires under a telephone pole I saw the bodies of two Indians. Their legs were burned to stumps.

A decapitated Burman woman lay sprawled by the drain in front of a native teahop.

Priests Look on Mutely.

Two priests, protecting their shaven heads with flaps of their orange robes, stood by a garden wall staring mutely at the disaster.

Near the American Baptist Boys' School, at the edge of the southern limits of the fire, another jeep rolled up driven by another, smoke-grimed British captain.

"I'm with the sappers but get separated from my unit," he said, "so I started ambulancing."

A thousand yards into the fire, at the corner of Eightieth street and Thirty-first road, two wounded, staggering Chinese appeared. One held up the fingers of both his Hands. He was telling me there were 10 more in the neighborhood.

Both floors of the American Baptist Mission's little memorial hospital were filled with victims. Indians, Burmans and Chinese. More arrived in what seemed to be an unending procession of horror.

In the corridors and in every room lay unwhimpering rows of gray-bearded Indians, coolies in dirty loin cloths, naked Burmese children and pantalooned Chinese girls with seared faces and smashed heads and limbs.

D. O. Smith, a missionary teacher from Long Beach, Calif., lifted from a stretcher an Indian boy who had just died.

Gordon S. Jury and his wife, elderly medical volunteers from Hamilton, Ontario, knelt on their knees sponging blood from the wounded.

No Warning Given.

The wounded driver of a Burma government civil defense ambulance, whose own wife and child were hospitalized in the raid, followed me into the hospital yard.

"One little bit of warning would have saved hundreds of lives," he roared. "No real air-raid shelters. . . . No planes to defend us. . . ."

We are left at the mercy of those Japanese. A handful of volunteers are about the only people standstills between the wounded and death. Why is it that the poor and the helpless are the ones killed in this war?

A young Burmese mother nursed her infant daughter as Fred Dickson, another missionary teacher from Worcester, Ohio, disinfected a gash in the baby's hip.

Burma-born Miss Lucy Wiatt, whose family lives in Santa Barbara, Calif., and Miss Mary Laughlin of Huron, S. Dak. arrived at the hospital with small packets of medicine and bandages they had found.

Health Official Says 'Compulsion' May Be Used on Doctors

Charges Professional Men Fail to Heed Pleas From War Boom Towns

Charging that the meager response of doctors and dentists to an urgent appeal for help in war boom communities had created a "distasteful" situation, Asst. Surg. Gen. Joseph W. Mountain of the United States Public Health Service warned today that the Government may have to resort to "compulsion" to place the professional men where they are most needed.

The Public Health Service official made this statement at the Fifth National Conference of Governmental Industrial Hygienists today with a gloomy word picture of how several communities, expanded by war production activities, were in dire straits because of lack of medical and dental care.

The assistant surgeon general did not amplify the term "compulsion," but this general idea has been a principle against which the organized medical profession has waged a vigorous battle.

Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the Public Health Service, called on health and industrial hygiene experts from all parts of the country for "speed and efficiency" in protecting workers' health.

"During the few minutes I have been speaking," Dr. Parran said, "somewhere in America another tank rolled off the assembly line, another machine-gun barrel was geared for action, another 'jeep' began its jolting test ride. Our job is to continue and increase that speed and efficiency—to make sure that the workers who are not only starting their rolling, but keep them rolling."

Integrates Health Services.

Pointing out that in the early days of industrial hygiene occupational accident control was the foremost interest, Dr. Parran explained that more recently increasing emphasis had been placed on the control of occupational disease.

"Today we have not only continued and enlarged both these functions," he told the conference, "but we have also begun to integrate the many other public health services with industrial hygiene."

"Nutrition, for example," he continued, "is almost literally the backbone of vigorous health, and is gaining a larger share of the attention it deserves in any thorough workers' health program. We have the knowledge to provide medical, engineering and chemical safeguards of the health of every working man and woman in the country. The gap between our knowledge and its complete application has become narrower with each passing year. Today, industrial hygiene has taken its place as a major part of this Nation's health program."

Weapon Against Enemies.

Capt. Watson B. Miller, assistant administrator of the Federal Security Agency, told the conference that "the conservation of man power is one of the most powerful weapons we can level against our enemies."

Among other speakers at the morning session were Channing R. Dooley, chief of the Training Within Industry Branch, Labor Division, War Production Board; Dr. Clarence D. Selby, chairman of the Subcommittee on Industrial Health and Medicine; Director Verne A. Zimmer

Pair Vainly Race Death on 7 Miles Of Thawing Ice

By The Associated Press. STURGEON FALLS, Ontario, April 9.—The story of a dramatic race against death across the treacherous, thaw-weakened ice of Tomiko Lake was disclosed here today.

Seeking medical aid for their 9-month-old daughter Mona, who was suffering from bronchial pneumonia, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lavalee started across a 7-mile strip of honeycombed ice separating their cabin from Crystal Falls.

Four or five times the ice broke beneath them and they narrowly escaped going through. Heavy snow further impeded their progress as they carried the sick child across the ice. It required a full day to make the trip that usually took only a few hours.

They arrived at Crystal Falls at dusk, only to find the child was already dead. Funeral services were held today.

Coroner Investigating Killing of Boy, 9, by Gun

By The Associated Press. CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., April 9.—Coroner S. D. Shull began an investigation today into the death from a gunshot wound of 9-year-old Daniel Heefner, Jr., son of the alumni secretary of Mercersburg Academy.

Friends of the family reported the boy, his father, and another boy were shooting at a target near the Heefner home at Mercersburg late yesterday and that the younger Heefner was killed by a bullet through the heart after his father left.

The coroner refused a statement until completion of the investigation.

Morgenthau Denies Enlarged Tax Program

By The Associated Press. Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said today the Treasury's $7,600,000,000 tax program will stand unchanged "until there is a public announcement by the President that the amount is to be changed."

He said that no instructions have come from the White House to change the tax program. He refused to comment on reports in other administration circles that the tax program might be enlarged drastically for the purpose of preventing inflation.

"I am the one charged with the responsibility of taxes, and anything I said might be regarded as official," Secretary Morgenthau continued. "Others who have no such responsibility can talk freely about such things, but I cannot."

Nation's High Schools To Be Geared for Pilot Training

Elementary Courses Planned to Find Flyers For Vast Air Armada

By the Associated Press.

The Nation's high schools soon will be geared to the elementary training of pilots to fly America's great air armada.

J. W. Studebaker, commissioner of education, disclosed today that the plan contemplates the teaching of aerodynamics in all high schools where 15 or more prospective air cadets can be enrolled.

"It is expected," Dr. Studebaker said, "that recommendations for pre-pilot refresher courses in physics and mathematics will be sent to all school systems of the country—these recommendations to be followed soon thereafter by the publication of detailed suggestions emanating from the Army and Navy as to the content of outlines and instructional materials."

Thousands of Pilots Needed.

The Office of Education and representatives of the Army, Navy and Civil Aeronautics Administration now are conferring to determine what the high schools can do immediately to speed the enrollment program, in view of the President's goal to produce 60,000 planes this year and 125,000 in 1943.

Dr. Studebaker outlined tentative plans agreed upon as follows:

1. For the present semester, mathematics and physics applicable to the work of pilots might be handled as extra subjects in the boys' schedules, or taught before and after regular school hours.
2. Intensive refresher and pre-pilot training courses might be given in the summer schools of the larger communities and boys from nearby communities permitted to attend, tuition-free.
3. Courses to start in fall.

Next September a full semester's work in aerodynamics should be offered in every high school in which as many as 15 prospective physically qualified air cadets can be enrolled. Boys who have taken such courses will be enabled upon their induction into air cadet training, to devote more time to flying. Fewer boys will be "washed out" in the ground school phases of their first three months' training period.

Definite plans for the administration of such courses will be issued soon. The outline of the plans made no mention of compulsion, it being assumed that eligible youths would make up their own minds whether to take the courses.

Tanks

facture of the Swiss anti-aircraft gun. This gun, with dozens of tiny parts, had been made like a Swiss watch. Here, machine tools do the most delicate work and it's a mass production job.

The same method has been used in the Detroit tank arsenal operated by Chrysler. If you set this vast plant down in Washington, it would cover the area bounded by Fourteenth street, Ninth street, G street and E street.

The process of building a tank begins in the machine and forging shops, where the big and little parts are turned out. These are machines which make small bolts and there are machines which whirl the tanks' heavy turrets around as easily as you stir coffee.

Weights 30 Tons Complete.

All the pieces are sent to designated spots and, as the tank hull moves along huge conveyor belt, the parts are fitted on. At one end of the long line you see a square tank hull and at the other end of the line is the finished product—some 30 tons of it.

In another plant there are rows of Pratt & Whitney engines moving down an assembly line. These are the most advanced aircraft engines in mass production in the world today and they are being used to power our new planes.

When an engine has been built, it is given a terrific test in a special room. Then it goes on a disassembly line, where it is torn down entirely. Each part is inspected and the engine is rebuilt on another assembly line.

There is practically no use trying to discuss the Ford Willow Run bomber plant. This building, still not completely constructed, will house the first 100 per cent airplane assembly line in the world.

The building's single room is three-fifths of a mile long and is a quarter of a mile wide. There are several assembly lines along which will move four Consolidated four-engine bombers, at one and the same time. There is an airport in the front yard, which is larger than the National Airport at Gravelly Point. When the bombers are wheeled off the assembly lines, they'll take off from this airport and go on about their business—which is pretty brisk, these days.

Ford Does the "Impossible."

It was the Ford engineers, who knew about the kind of tools you needed for mass production, who were able to build this plant for assembly line work—after they'd been told it was impossible.

It was skilled workmen in the auto plants who introduced spot welding to augment riveting in planes. By use of spot welding they have been able to save 35 hours in the manufacture of a wing part—and 35 hours ain't hay in this war.

It is almost impossible to find a standard by which to compare the output of the automakers today with their output in the salad days of convertible coupes. Their dollar volume of business in the old days touched three billion a year. This month they will be doing war business on about that scale.

The Ford people say they are employing as many men as they did in the days of automobile making. The Chrysler people say their entire plant is now either in war work or is converting to war work.

There is still a lot of unemployment in Detroit—not as much as was expected, but plenty. There is still an untapped reserve of productive capacity in the plants.

By July, the employment here will be back to normal. By September they expect to have a labor shortage.

The first plane will come off Ford's Willow Run assembly line in a few months. Later in the year they will be coming off at a rate which can be measured only in minutes.

FINAL STRONGHOLD FOR UNITED STATES IN PHILIPPINES—As dispatches from the beleaguered Americans and Filipinos on Bataan indicated apparent loss of the peninsula, attention turned again to Corregidor, last stronghold left to the defenders. In this drawing Artist Logan Reavis visualizes the island's remarkable resources.

Probability that the defenses on Bataan have been overcome was indicated by the War Department on the basis of Gen. Wainwright's report that the Japanese had enveloped the east flank (1) of his American-Filipino armies. Gen. Wainwright was at Fort Mills (2) on Corregidor, which still commands the entrance to Manila Bay. It was not immediately known how many of the defending forces had been able to retire to the island fortress.

Entire Jap Landing Party Fought By Only Four Australians

One High Enemy Officer in North New Guinea Was Shot at Point-Blank Range From 5 Yards

By CHRISTIAN FOLKARD, N.A.A.

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea, April 9.—Only one Australian officer and three privates were at Salamaua, on the north coast of New Guinea, when it was attacked by a large Japanese force on the morning of February 8, but this tiny garrison put up a valiant defense and blew up the airport under the very noses of the invaders.

The officer and his three men played hide and seek with the Japanese for some time, shooting one high Japanese officer from point-blank range of less than 5 yards, and dodging and confusing them until they were able to reach the plunger which set off the explosives planted in the airport. Frequently the officer and his men were within a few paces of the invaders, shooting at them from different points and giving the Japs the impression that they were a much larger force.

Capt. A. G. Cameron of Melbourne was the officer. He arrived at Salamaua after fighting against the Japs in the Malay campaign.

"After three previous contacts with the enemy," he said, "I had no doubt about retaining a whole skin even at such close range. If our soldiers show determination, it is inevitable that large numbers of Japanese can be killed with no great losses to ourselves."

The Japs began landing at Salamaua at 1:55 a.m. Capt. Cameron helped a solitary bomber which was based there to get away and then put out the fires around the landing field. He warned the other defenders who were hopelessly outnumbered to leave the town which was being invaded at three points.

Then, with three men, he decided to wait until the enemy reached the airport before he blew it up. One group of 30 Japs came within 20 yards of his tiny party before he saw them. They were dressed in black, dark green or blue suits and wore rubber-soled shoes. One of the privates with Capt. Cameron approached the Japs, saw one of their officers, dived into a drain and shot him at less than 5 yards' range. The private then escaped in the high grass.

The other two ran behind a house where the plunger connected with the dynamite planted around the flying field was located. The Japs occupied the house and then surrounded it. Capt. Cameron broke through their lines, reached the two men at the plunger and, with the Japs only a few yards away, fired the explosives.

Then followed a dramatic "battle" with Capt. Cameron and his men dodging from point to point, taking cover in houses, garbage dumps and shrubbery, firing as they went and probably killing some of the enemy. The Japs opened up with everything they had—rifles, tommy guns and grenades. But with his job done, the subterranean part of the airport destroyed so that Jap planes would break through the crust and crash on landing—Capt. Cameron and his men withdrew, destroying a bridge as they left.

Seller of Mortgaged Chickens Loses Extradition Fight

By the Associated Press.

SALEM, Oreg., April 9.—Julius Peter Paulson, 29-year-old former South Dakota farmer who came west to seek his fortune, was doing all right until he tried to pay part of a mortgage on 89 chickens.

Now, despite a six-month legal fight in which he was aided by Portland clubwoman who offered to pay off the $100 mortgage, got him a lawyer and posted $500 bail, Mr. Paulson faces extradition and trial for selling mortgaged property.

The Oregon State Supreme Court has ordered the extradition proceedings against Mr. Paulson, who has a wife and three small children, were proper and placed him on the mercy of Dakota authorities.

He now works at a Portland shipyard, but last September things were not going so well on his farm near Elk Point, S. Dak., and Mr. Paulson mortgaged his poultry to a Besford, S. Dak., bank for $100. When the money failed to better his circumstances he decided to take his family to the Pacific Coast, so he sold what he says he believed were his possessions.

Soon after his arrival he obtained a job in a wood-working plant and saved enough to forward a payment on the South Dakota mortgage. Instead of a receipt for the payment he was shown a warrant for his arrest and taken into custody.

Circuit Judge James W. Crawford denied Mr. Paulson a writ of habeas corpus, and Herbert B. Galton, at-

Canada Forming Guerrilla Units To Meet Japs

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, April 9.—Hunters and trappers of Canada's Far West, rough and ready men who handle a gun as easily as most use a toothbrush, are being organized into small guerrilla formations which will function as welcoming committees for any invading Japs.

About 40 such guerrilla units already have been organized and as many as 150 may be formed, said an announcement by Defense Minister J. L. Ralston.

"These woodsmen in the last war not only had the hunter's marksmanship and skill in taking cover," one official said, "but they also had the patience which allowed them to wait until they were sure of hitting the target."

These West Coast men who have hunted grizzlies and deer should find it easy enough to deal with any Jap who tries to get somewhere in their balliwick."

Houses

were directed to him. He announced that his resignation, effective today, had been sent to National Housing Administrator John B. Blandford, Jr. Mr. Williams said he felt he could give more assistance to Government and the prefabricators "from the outside."

Letters Blame Government.

The letters directed to him, Mr. Williams said, recounted stories of home building plants standing idle because of Government delay in completing contractual arrangements. He pointed out that the Government has been spending for expansion to handle defense orders.

The letters told of prefabricators facing bankruptcy, of completed home parts piling up taxing storage space, of materials in huge quantities on freight car sidings, of cancellation of materials orders, of loss of millions in new orders and key men to other industries. All of this, the prefabricators declare, was due to lack of actual contracts, "proceed on the basis of verbal agreements," and proper priority ratings.

Though some prefabricators attributed Government delay in closing agreements to the natural result of the housing reorganization, many were bitter, and at least one charged an attempt to "sabotage" the program. He wrote that "Staat" that he has two sons in the Army, a third about to be called, and added:

"There are thousands in Australia waiting for planes, guns and supplies and this essential is waiting for housing to get to them. The boats are waiting for the shipbuilders to build them, the shipbuilders are waiting for our houses, our houses are waiting for some disgruntled, selfish officials who only desire to 'sabotage' the program."

This particular contractor, who received a large Government order for houses in a "letter of intent," has bought $2,000,000 worth of materials which are piled up at his plant. He spent weeks in Washington trying to close the Government contract, visiting one official after another with little avail. Plans for the houses were changed numerous times, although specifications were once "finally" approved by Government technicians.

Charges Cost $10,000.

It was learned that the bill for the materials blueprint of a firm one prefabricator was $10,000, because of the many changes Government technicians ordered in his house. Another contractor from out of the city maintained a staff of six technicians here for six weeks in the effort to get his plans in acceptable shape. His plans, too, had been approved previously by the Government.

The experiences of the men described here apparently are typical of nearly all the 37 contractors from all over the country who were signed in "letters of intent" by Rufe B. Newman of the Federal Works Agency, to provide badly needed defense houses, practically none of which have been built.

The program to erect a million from Federal Works Agency by President Roosevelt's consolidation order late in February and assigned to the Federal Public Housing Authority, Officials of the latter agency say the program was "muddled" when they got it. They say the necessity of making numerous changes in plans and the inability to obtain suitable sites in defense areas have caused the delay.

Another prefabricator said his plant had been idle a month, with terrific financial loss, while he has been in Washington, trying to get his job under way. He told another builder who had been here nine weeks on a similar mission when he arrived, and is still here.

There are signs that problems of some prefabricators are being ironed out. The representative of a firm scheduled to erect thousands of houses in the Norfolk, Va., area, reported he had been authorized to proceed and has erected 100 houses in the last few days. He said, however, he is still having "priority troubles" and there is a shortage of sites. He has been promised 1,500 sites by April 15.

Forced to Reject Job.

Still another prefabricator, signed by the Government, wrote that his plant had been idle for 90 days and that "hundreds of thousands of dollars in new orders" had been turned down because a Government official had pending a firm scheduled to erect thousands of houses in the Norfolk, Va., area, reported he had been authorized to proceed and has erected 100 houses in the last few days. Bataan Adds Heroic Story To American Army Tradition

MacArthur and Wainwright Both Earn Places of Noted Leaders

Down in the Orient today lighted the close of a saga of American heroism that will inspire our descendants with pride in the American spirit for centuries to come. Bataan and its foxholes now belong to the Japanese.

The defense of Bataan, a small peninsula of jungle-covered mountains, began on January 3 under the command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. This little piece of land remained a sharp thorn in the Japanese side for 86 glorious days.

The American-Filipino operations contributed much to the dislocation of general Japanese strategy, but the name Bataan has come to mean much in the chronicles of affairs far wider than simple military matters.

After the defense of Bataan now comes the defense of Corregidor, the island fortress at the entrance to Manila Bay. Here the Allies can continue for an indefinite period to thwart the Japanese in their hopes of full use of the Philippines. So long as Corregidor stands, Japan will be unable to base any naval power on Manila. Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, the man who succeeded MacArthur, is at Corregidor.

Corregidor May Be Vital.

The hard nut of Corregidor may have an important bearing on the future development of the Japanese

Head Hunting (For Japs) Goes Unpunished

By the Associated Press.

DULUTH, Minn., April 9.—With nothing but praise for the ferocity of the Filipino people as well as the Moros and Igorots who live in the more primitive parts of the Philippine Islands, Lt. Edward W. Bergstrom of Duluth, a Navy bomber pilot just returned from the South Pacific, recounted this story yesterday of the type of opposition the Japanese are running into.

There is a Philippine landing party broke into Lingayen Gulf, the invaders were repulsed with heavy losses by American forces, but some Japanese were able to make shore and escape into the nearby jungles where bojo-wielding Igorots live.

Three days later the Army was surprised to see the Igorots come marching single file out of the wilderness, a spear over each shoulder and a Japanese head on each spear. The entire Jap landing party had been beheaded.

"It was," said Lt. Bergstrom, "the first time head hunting had not been punished in the Philippines in 40 years."

Nips Lonely Heart Romances in the Bud

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo.—Maidens of the lonely heart who have been corresponding with those nice pen pals at 318 North Fifth street are going to be disillusioned.

"It was," said J. Shepherd, noting an influx of letters, abruptly stopped the budding romances.

The address is that of the Buchanan County Jail.

Shortly afterward Mr. Newman began buying the approximately 45,000 demountables on "letters of intent" with the $153,000,000 made available by President Roosevelt. Although it was his job, Mr. Williams said, to expedite the program, he was more or less divorced from it. He said Mr. Newman never consulted his survey which had initiated the program.

D. C. Communist Party To Sell $1,000 in Bonds

The Communist party of the District has launched a campaign to sell $1,000 worth of war bonds and stamps to its members by May 1, Martin Chaney, secretary, declared today.

At the same time he called upon the United States and its allies to "strike at Hitler's back on the continent of Europe and crush him in a giant nut-cracker."

honored Japanese general, Homma, who ended his life with hara-kiri when he found himself frustrated in his attempt, with far superior forces, to beat into submission MacArthur and his men, Americans and Filipinos alike.

Bataan demonstrated the value of the United States colonial policy. The Philippines promised their freedom in a covenant and given high ranks in the Army, fought with a resolution and vigor far superior to that of other native forces in the colonial possessions of other nations attacked by the Japanese.

The battle of Bataan became a certainty Christmas Day, when Manila was declared an open city. The Japanese invading armies captured the city January 2, and on January 3 the army of MacArthur began to deal with the Japanese landed at Lingayen Bay.

January 5—MacArthur repulses Japanese attack at northeast gateway to peninsula. At least 700 of the enemy killed.

January 6—Enemy planes bomb and strafed front line troops. Corregidor attacked by 45 heavy bombers, several of which were hit by anti-aircraft fire.

Japs Repulsed January 11.

January 11—Reinforced, the Japanese attacked the defenders' right flank, repulsed with heavy losses.

January 13—In 24 hours of continuous artillery dueling MacArthur reported American-Filipino guns proved definitely superior, having silenced 11 Japanese batteries and forced withdrawal of others.

January 14—Two determined enemy attacks stopped with heavy losses.

January 17—Heavy enemy attacks failed to dislodge the defenders.

January 21—MacArthur's forces regained all positions lost in a heavy onslaught.

January 22—Japanese landed heavy reinforcements north of Bataan in Lingayen Gulf and Subic Bay.

January 24—Three days of continually heavy pressure won for the foe several positions on Bataan's west coast.

January 25—A heavy attack on MacArthur's left flank forced the defenders back. Counterattack on the other end of the line forced Japanese into disorderly retreat.

January 27—Two of MacArthur's pursuit ships down two Japanese dive bombers and disabled a third. Two of his motor torpedo boats fired at and hit attacking bombers. Ground fighting on Bataan subsided.

January 29—Artillery fire broke up heading Japanese infantry assaults on both flanks of the Bataan line.

January 30—The Japanese dropped leaflets over Bataan, urging MacArthur to surrender.

Enemy Force Destroyed.

February 1—Several strong thrusts at the Bataan line were repulsed with large enemy losses. The big guns of the island forts destroyed an enemy force assembled at Ternate on the Cavite shore of Manila Bay apparently to attempt a landing on the harbor fortifications.

February 2—Detachments of picked Japanese shock troops attempting landings on the west coast were thrown back or destroyed.

February 3—Two more attempts to land assault troops on the west coast during the night were broken up with heavy enemy losses. MacArthur launched a counterattack on his right flank which overran three lines of Japanese trenches.

February 26—After nearly three weeks of desultory skirmishes, MacArthur launched a sudden attack which forced the enemy back from one-half to five miles along the entire line.

March 4—MacArthur reported that his small air force, in a sudden attack on Japanese shipping in Subic Bay, destroyed four enemy transports and two large motor launches, and set fires on the docks. Thousands of enemy soldiers were drowned or killed in explosions.

Wainwright Takes Command.

March 8—Artillery fire from concealed batteries destroyed 29 trucks of an enemy infantry regiment moving to the front north of Abucay in Bataan. MacArthur relayed reports that Gen. Homma had committed hara-kiri.

March 9—Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, conqueror of Malaya and Singapore, was reported to have succeeded Homma.

March 17—MacArthur arrived in Australia, and Lt. Gen. Wainwright succeeded to direct command of American-Filipino forces. A sudden raid against the Bataan line after several days of inactivity was repulsed by Wainwright's troops.

March 22—Yamashita demanded surrender of Wainwright.

March 24—Fifty-four Japanese heavy bombers raided Corregidor.

March 28—Enemy launched heavy attack on the right center of Wainwright's line but was repulsed.

April 1—A heavy attack against the right center of the line was repulsed by several waves of assault troops.

April 4—The final sustained drive against Wainwright's forces was started by a heavy infantry assault, supported by artillery, bombers and tanks against the right center of the line.

Mexico Acts to Take Fifth-Column Menace From Gulf Coast

Homes and Offices of German Residents Are Raided in Tampico

By the Associated Press. MEXICO CITY, April 9.—Mexico has launched a sweeping campaign to eradicate any fifth-column menace from the Gulf shore. Soon after the Interior Ministry ordered all Axis nationals to prepare immediately to move inland, federal police last night raided the homes and offices of German residents in Tampico.

At least six Germans were taken into custody, and they, along with about 300 seized letters bearing German postmarks, are to be sent here. The lead for the Tampico raid came from Germans previously arrested, who had admitted carrying out "fifth-column orders" from Berlin. One object of the search was an undercover radio transmitter. Besides being an important port in itself and a transit point between the United States, Central America and the Panama Canal, Tampico is in an area where Mexico's rich oil fields and most important refineries are concentrated.

The expulsion order will affect hundreds of Germans, Italians and Japanese in Tampico, Veracruz, Tuxpan, Carmen and Progreso. It follows a similar edict removing their compatriots from vital Pacific Coast zones.

All suspected hostile activity, the immigration office said, will be sent either to a concentration camp or to a penal colony off the Pacific Coast. The new coastal cleanup was initiated soon after the arrest of nearly 50 Nazi-Fascist agents, including the reputed head of the German Gestapo in Mexico, who were interned in Perote.

Citizens' Group Proposes Alternate Bus Routes

The Rhode Island Avenue Citizens' Association last night drafted two alternative bus routes for adoption in the event of discontinuation of the present Twenty-second and Shepherd street, N.E., line.

The alternatives, as submitted by the association's Public Utilities Committee, are as follows: Downtown route, with terminal at Twenty-second street and Eastern avenue N.E., to extend along Twenty-second street to South Dakota avenue, to Twenty-sixth street, to Franklin street, to Twelfth street and thence along the present route to the downtown terminal. The crosstown line would start at the juncture of Bladensburg road and South Dakota avenue N.E., along Franklin street to Twenty-fourth street, to Mills avenue, to Hamlin street, to Twentieth street and along Michigan avenue to Seventh street N.E., from which point the route would join the specified crosstown connections.

An appropriation of $25 was voted to support the Tat Athletic Club baseball team, and $15 was pledged to the Metropolitan Police Boys' Clubs. Fred T. Devine, Membership Committee chairman, reported that 667 memberships in the association have been received during the first quarter of 1942, a record for the group. Total unexpired memberships is 1,006. Five new members were inducted last night, including Mrs. Elizabeth Kagey, Laura Wacock, O. F. Flesher, Harry R. Schulte and Mrs. James R. Gouge.

North Randle Citizens Discuss Area Problems

Declaring the alley in the block between E and F streets and Minnesota avenue and Twenty-third street S.E. unsatisfactory for travel, L. A. Dennison, Jr., asked the North Randle Community Citizens' Association last night to refer the matter to the Public Utilities Commission.

The association decided to register a complaint with the Capital Transit Co. about its bus service during the early morning hours. Mrs. Clara D. Chroniger said the early buses, after passing communities up the line, were full by the time they reached North Randle, compelling persons to wait as much as 45 minutes to get a bus to work.

Harold Snyder registered an objection to a trash dump at the end of East Capitol street below the National Guard Armory as "not only a detriment to the health of the community, but also detrimental to real estate values in the area." A temporary Civilian Defense Committee for the area was named as follows: R. A. Harrison, Joseph A. White, Dr. Ludwig G. Ledderer and Harry D. Wood.

Lincoln Park to Hold Defense Drill Tonight

The Lincoln Park defense area will have an air-raid drill from 6:30 to 9 o'clock tonight, when all protective services will be mobilized.

There will be 986 air-raid wardens, 100 auxiliary policemen, 239 fire watchers, 275 messengers and 250 feeding volunteers on duty at 105 sector posts and 4 feeding stations in the area. Headquarters for the area are located at the Kingman School, Fourteenth and E streets N.E.

George Strong, chief of the District Rescue Squad, will have his men performing, and emergency ambulances, nurses and interpreters will be out under the direction of Dr. John A. Reed, chief of emergency medical services.

Civilian Defense Co-ordinator John Russell Young, Chairman Randolph of the House District Committee, Chairman McCarran of the Senate District Committee, Renah F. Camaler, special counsel to the Senate District Committee, and Capt. Walter F. Burn, chief of the Office of Civilian Defense training school, have been invited to observe the defense drill.

You can't take it with you. So why not put your money in Defense bonds?

U. S. Air Devils Keep Japs High Over Burma Despite 43-1 Odds

By the Associated Press. A. V. G. HEADQUARTERS IN UPPER BURMA, April 1 (delayed).—More than 100 Japanese planes struck at Lashio yesterday and today, but their apparent wariness of the American "Hell's Angels" squadron led by Arvid Olson of Chicago kept them 20,000 feet up and their bombing was indiscriminate.

Unofficial reports said 20 civilians were killed and 45 were injured in Lashio's first raid of the war yesterday, but military objectives were almost untouched.

Today's bombing caused neither casualties nor damage, and the raiders for the second time kept high.

R. C. (Moose) Moss, a heavy-set pistol-toting Georgian, officially credited with the destruction of eight enemy planes, told of meeting the Japanese raiders.

"I went looking for one little ole Jap and got in a traffic jam," he drawled.

"There I was coasting along plenty high trying to see every which way. All of a sudden I noticed nine Japanese fighters almost directly below me. I looked up, and at 20,000 feet the place was sorta populated by both Jap fighters and bombers.

"A Navy Zero leading the formation below must have seen me, too. He zoomed up a little way, banked, and I'll swear he was saying, 'come down, sucker, and stick your neck out.'"

"But I stayed up there and just counted them. That's all. The odds were 43 to 1."

Sixty Japanese bombers and fighters droned overhead today in the second attack, but they stayed high. A ground haze also prevented accurate bombing. The A. V. G. pilots were unable to contact them.

Street and Underpass Work to Start Soon

Work will be started soon on widening Twenty-third street N.W. from Constitution avenue to Washington Circle and an underpass at Virginia avenue under a contract awarded yesterday by the District Commissioners to the Donaldson Paving Co. of this city.

The company's bid was $189,795, which was $908.25 below District Highway Department estimates. Award of the contract has been approved by the Public Roads Administration.

3 very simple ways to glorify old reliable cuts of meat. They come from Safeway's Homemakers' Bureau.

CHICKEN FRIED STEAK. With milk gravy, of course. 1 1/2 lbs. round steak, 2 tbsps. shortening, cut 1/4-inch thick, 1 cup water, 1 tsp. salt.

BRAISED PORK SHANK. Country-style. Pork shank, weighing about 4 to 5 lbs., 1 bud garlic, 1 1/2 tbsps. salt.

STUFFED BREAD OF LAMB. 1 breast of lamb, weighing about 3 lbs., 4 cups cooked rice, 4 tbsps. melted butter, 1/4 cup chopped onion, 1/2 cup coarsely cut parsley, 1 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. pepper.

Have pocket cut in breast for stuffing. Combine rice, onion, parsley, celery, shortening, 2 tbsps. of the salt and pepper; toss lightly with fork to mix.

How big is a big orange? Q. Are all the "large oranges" they talk about in the ads really large? A. No, sir—see! The same size orange may look large to one grocer, small to another. Q. But, suppose I find oranges of the exact same size—and price. Does that mean they're the same in every other way, too? A. Not necessarily. Your household scales will show you that oranges of the same size can vary considerably in weight. Q. What has weight to do with oranges? A. Well, weight indicates the juice-content—and that is what you're buying. Juice weighs heavy; peel and pulp weigh light. Only by weight can you tell the actual value in oranges. Q. Where can I buy oranges this way? A. At your neighborhood Safeway. You'll find that oranges, among other fruits, are sold by the pound. Q. Why does Safeway do this? A. To be sure that you get full value for your money. When you buy by the pound, you are sure of getting exactly what you pay for. It's just another thing Safeway does to save you money.

Aid to Russia Second Only to Supplying Fleet, Standley Says

U. S. Should Be Up to Schedule by End of April, Envoy Asserts

By the Associated Press. KUBYSHEV, April 9.—Admiral W. H. Standley, new United States Ambassador to the Soviet Union, told a press conference yesterday that the United States is determined to give Russia aid second only to supplying the American fleet. By the end of April, he said, the United States should be up to schedule on its Russian-aid program. The ambassador, who arrived here Tuesday in a big American warplane, was asked if America's all-out aid to Russia might not lessen her aid to Britain. "The best way we can give Britain aid is to keep Russians killing Germans," he replied. Admiral Standley will go to Moscow soon to present his credentials. He said he could see the change in the Russian people since he was here last autumn attending Allied supply conferences. "I notice it in the people's faces," he said. "The last time I was here the Germans were making for Moscow. The Russians turned them back. They show confidence in their faces. I am talking about the people I have seen in Russian cities."

Charles County to Have All-Night Blackout

By the Associated Press. LA PLATA, Md., April 9.—Charles County will experience their first all-night blackout Monday night, defense officials announced yesterday. The test will last from 8 p. m. until dawn. All buildings will be darkened, but automobile and pedestrian traffic will move normally. Motorists will be permitted to use headlights.

W. P. B. Asked to Aid Campaign To Put U. S. Flag in Every Home

Leaders Explain Emblems Are Hard to Get; Gen. MacArthur Commends Proposal

A move to put an American flag in every home in the United States, launched more than a year ago, was brought to Washington yesterday by a group of men who want the War Production Board to intercede to make more flags available. The drive's national chairman is Sgt. Alvin C. York, World War hero. Gen. Douglas MacArthur is honorary international commander in chief.

Representatives of the campaign, organized under the official name of the Flag in Every Home Committee, explained on their arrival here yesterday from New York for conference with W. P. B. officials, that United States flags of good size and quality are almost unobtainable. Gen. MacArthur's Back Plan. The move has been given approval by some of the leading figures of the country. Gen. MacArthur said it is in a cablegram announcing his acceptance of the honorary post: "I cannot tell you the sense of distinction I feel in accepting the post you proffer me. Throughout the history of mankind symbols have exerted an impelling influence upon the lives of men. The cross and the flag are the embodiment of our ideals and teach us not only how to live, but how to die."

The plan is non-political and non-sectarian. The idea originated in the mind of G. P. Williamson of New York City, because of his personal difficulty in buying and placing a flag on his home for constant display in his own home. "In contrast with the countries allied against us, where tremendous flag displays are a vital part of every public function and where children are taught from earliest youth to revere the national symbol—and in many cases to wear it on an armband as part of their ordinary clothing," pointed out a spokesman for the committee, "America has, apparently, not recognized or felt the termination that the national ideals in and for which the flag was born and for which it stands shall not perish from the earth."

Fraternity Chain Letter Brings News of Services Alpha Theta Phi Fraternity at American University has revived the chain-letter fad as a means of greeting and obtaining news from members now serving in the armed forces. A letter has been sent to one of the brothers with instructions to cross his name off a list inclosed, send the greeting to the man next in line and notify the fraternity president here by postal card when he passes on the letter. The recipient in each instance is asked to add a page of news about his activities before forwarding the message.

When the original letter and attached news items return to Washington, the news—or that portion untouched by censors—will be read before a meeting of the A. U. group.

Mother-to-Be Reinstated As Harrisburg Teacher

By the Associated Press.
HARRISBURG, Pa., April 9.—A 28-year-old school teacher has won her fight against dismissal for incompetency because she became an expectant mother.

Dr. Francis B. Haas, State superintendent of public instruction, directed reinstatement of Mrs. Gertrude Koller Brown of Bethlehem, Pa., as a dental hygienist, declaring: "The fact of pregnancy does not, per se, establish incompetency."

The Bethlehem School Board discharged Mrs. Brown after refusing her request for leave of absence. It claimed "pregnancy is not an unavoidable circumstance."

Dr. Haas said the Bethlehem board had set up no rules or procedure for employes in event of illness or pregnancy and "it seems that the action of the board in this case was a direct and willful violation" of the Teacher Tenure Act.

Killing of Italians Marks Greek War Anniversary

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, April 9.—Athens residents showed the Axis that they remembered April 6, the date the Germans attacked Greece a year ago, with demonstrations in which a number of Italians were killed, according to reports reaching London last night.

Despite heavy patrols of Italian carabinieri and German military police, walls of the Greek capital were plastered with old war posters and inscriptions hailing the R. A. F.

At dusk according to an account reaching the Daily Herald, students and Italian police clashed. Shooting was reported to have lasted throughout the night.

The Herald added that "at Piraeus there were other clashes between Greeks and Germans and also a shooting match between Germans and drunken Italians, three of whom were wounded."

"Relations between the Italians and Germans are now so bad that all the best cafes now have signs saying 'No Italians,'" the Herald reported.

By the Associated Press.
RIO DE JANEIRO, April 9.—To meet "the heavy new duty of the army in the maintenance of public order and national defense," President Getulio Vargas signed a decree last night which may boost Brazil's army from fewer than 100,000 to 1,200,000.

Besides enlarging the army with trained reserves, Brazil—which broke relations with the Axis last January—called for voluntary enlistments under the presidential decree.

Postal Employees Fit 1925 Pay to '42 Costs, Senators Are Told

Clerks' Representatives Testify for McCarran Bill For 15% Salary Hike

By J. A. O'LEARY.

Postal employees are trying to make a 1925 salary scale fit a rising 1942 budget, William K. Horner of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks told a Senate Post Office and Post Roads Subcommittee today. He was urging action on the McCarran bill to give the employees a 15 per cent pay increase.

With the cost of living mounting, Mr. Horner said, postal workers are having difficulty maintaining reasonable living standards. He cited Labor Department figures to show the following staple food increases in the last year: Potatoes, 64 per cent; eggs, 40 per cent; sugar, 33 per cent, and coffee, 31 per cent.

The pending bill authorizes increased postal rates to cover the pay change.

After Mr. Horner had read a list of pay increases won by workers in private industry, Senator McCarran, Democrat of Nevada presiding, pointed out those increases were obtained by employees who were in a position to strike to enforce their demands, whereas postal workers can only appeal to Congress and accept what is granted.

Overtime Authority Cited.

Commenting on authority recently given the Post Office Department to grant overtime pay instead of compensatory time off where the exigencies of the service require, Senator McCarran predicted the effect of that authority will be to do away with compensatory time, although there will be exceptions.

Mr. Horner also emphasized the overtime pay provision would not be general in its application.

Leland M. Walker of the National Rural Letter Carriers Association testified that group took a permanent pay cut amounting to $7,000,000 in 1934 at the request of the department as an economy measure. He said the average rate for rural carriers is $2,100.

Senator McCarran's pay increase bill was introduced in April, 1941, and has been waiting today's hearing. The Post Office Department filed an adverse report in July.

Ramspeck Bill of Little Effect.

Senator McCarran asked how the Ramspeck promotion bill for the Government service generally has affected the postal service. He was told it has affected only the custodial group by step-ups within classification grades.

Orville C. Clark, National Association of Post Office Mechanics, asked that the McCarran bill be amended to include 19,294 custodial workers. They are regarded as postal workers in annual and sick-leave laws, he said, but their pay scale is carried in the general Civil Service Classification Act of 1923. The average salary in the custodial force is $1,272, he said.

Indorsing the pay bill for the National Association of Letter Carriers, William C. Doherty said the cost of living has continued to increase since the measure was introduced last year, making its passage more imperative.

Patrick J. McNelis, speaking for Philadelphia post office clerks, predicted that home being purchased by some postal employees "are going to pass into the sheriff's hands" unless their pay scale is adjusted to meet rising living costs.

John J. Barrett, president of the United National Association of Post Office Clerks declared the mounting price level is undeniable.

Bill on Substitutes Discussed.

The committee also heard testimony for another pending bill by Senator McCarran, which Mr. Barrett said is intended to abolish "the antiquated system of substitute employment" in the postal service.

Mr. Barrett asked a substitute is paid 65 cents an hour, but only for hours of actual work, even though he may be required to stand by at the post office for any number of hours.

Differing views were expressed on this proposed measure, and Senator McCarran suggested conferences on the differences. When the hearing was adjourned at noon Senator McCarran said he would seek the views of the department at a later meeting.

Gov. Neely Sues Paper For $250,000 Damages

By the Associated Press.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 9.—Gov. Matthew M. Neely filed a $250,000 damage suit yesterday against the Charleston Mail Association and Publisher Walter E. Clark, climaxing a sharp newspaper controversy over the administration of State business.

Gov. Neely, as head of the State's Democratic administration, and Mr. Clark, publisher of the Charleston Daily Mail, independent Republican organ, have been engaged in a bitter controversy over purchases of some property by the State.

In his personal front-page column in the Mail, Mr. Clark had particularly criticized purchase by the State of a resort hotel for a tuberculosis sanitarium and of the Ohio River Bridge at Point Pleasant, W. Va.

Gov. Neely, answering Mr. Clark's charges in public statements, requested a grand jury investigation of both transactions and demanded Mr. Clark produce evidence to support his allegations.

In his personal front-page column in the Mail, Mr. Clark had particularly criticized purchase by the State of a resort hotel for a tuberculosis sanitarium and of the Ohio River Bridge at Point Pleasant, W. Va.

Gov. Neely, answering Mr. Clark's charges in public statements, requested a grand jury investigation of both transactions and demanded Mr. Clark produce evidence to support his allegations.

Old National Hotel To Be Razed Soon

Razing of the old National Hotel, which served as headquarters for the District National Guard and the District selective service organization, will be ordered soon by the Commissioners under a program adopted yesterday.

They had offered the building for use in housing visiting soldiers and sailors but were confronted with reports by health, fire and building inspectors that the structure was unsafe and abandoned the plan. However, they said if the United Service Organizations or some Federal agency wanted to use the land as a site for temporary barracks the District would be willing to make the land available.

Bethesdians to Discuss Hospital Proposal

Methods of obtaining a hospital to serve the Bethesda (Md.) area will be discussed at an open forum at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the County Service Building at Bethesda.

The meeting has been called by the Bethesda-Chevy Chase branch of the Montgomery County Public Health Lay Council. Speakers will include Dr. V. M. Hoge, United States Public Health Service; Willard Smith, Health Security Administration; Dr. V. L. Ellicott, Montgomery County Health officer, and Dr. John G. Ball of the County Medical Society.

Mother! That LAMB'S here again!

THE LAMB: Excuse the intrusion—but I am a lamb with a purpose. I'm here to remind you of a gentler way of getting after that little trouble of yours.

BABS: You mean . . .

THE LAMB: Yes, I mean constipation—the ordinary kind caused simply by lack of "bulk" in the diet. If you are one of those people with normal intestines who are troubled with this kind of constipation, a crisp, crunchy, delicious cereal called KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN will not only correct the cause of the trouble—but will do it in a way that is pleasant and gentle, too.

MOTHER: Did you say "gentle"?

THE LAMB: I did indeed, ma'am! ALL-BRAN acts differently from many medicinal laxatives. They work by prodding the intestines into action, or by drawing moisture into them from other parts of the body. ALL-BRAN works principally on the contents of the colon, helping you to have easy and normal elimination.

BABS: But tell us, lamb, does ALL-BRAN taste good?

THE LAMB: My dear young lady, ALL-BRAN has a grand nutty flavor—you'll enjoy every crunchy spoonful! Eat it every day, drink plenty of water and "Join the Regulars."

to imagine the troubles we would face if most of the countries south of the Rio Grande were not making as effective contribution as they can to the common defense of the hemisphere. Argentina and Chile, which still maintain relations with the Axis nations, are the only countries not carrying their share of the load, and there is hope that they will not remain aloof indefinitely.

Wartime Needs

The program of public works, as distinct from housing, which the Commissioners will submit to the Federal Works Agency for approval under terms of the Lanham Act, gives an indication of the nature and size of the burden which wartime expansion has placed upon the Nation's Capital. With a veritable new city rapidly being superimposed on Washington and its environs, there has arisen urgent need not only for office space and living quarters but for all the sundry municipal services which the enlarged populace requires.

With $20,000,000 of the $50,000,000 Lanham fund made available by Congress for public works, the Commissioners have decided to ask for more than $13,000,000 for such pressing immediate needs as water and sewerage extensions, school facilities and hospital additions. Allotments for nearby Virginia and Maryland areas are yet to be discussed.

The allotment to the District of Columbia appropriations will involve the question of how much of the funds sought should be in the form of outright Federal grants and how much should be in the form of loans to be repaid by the District. The act leaves to Federal authorities the decision on this important point.

In allocating $1,562,350 to Washington recently out of an earlier bill for emergency public works in defense areas, the Government directed that $572,000, or about 37 per cent, be paid back by the District. It is understood that this apportionment was the result of studying the several projects—sewers, water mains and schools—and deciding in each case the extent to which Federal activities contributed to the need.

This would seem to be a fair yardstick, and, if conscientiously applied, should protect Washington from unfair burdens traceable directly to Federal war needs. For many years Congress required its Capital to operate on a pay-as-you-go basis, which trained the local community to avoid bonded indebtedness.

In recent years, however, this policy was dropped, partly because of the depression and partly to develop a comprehensive park system, and today the District has a debt of approximately $12,894,000, which it is paying off in substantial annual sums. Washington is willing to meet its fair proportion of unusual current needs, but it does not want to be left with too large a debt when the war is over and thousands of temporary war workers have returned to the States.

Rubber From Ceylon

With the occupation of British Malaya and the Netherlands Indies by enemy forces, Ceylon is now the most important source of natural rubber still available to the United Nations. The island is the world's third largest producer, and before the war supplied about 7 per cent of our imports of crude rubber. In 1940 Ceylon produced approximately 89,000 tons of rubber, as compared with 540,000 tons in British Malaya, and about 537,000 tons in the Dutch East Indies.

Since the output of the producing areas, before the war in the Far East, was regulated by international agreements, it seems reasonable to assume that Ceylon rubber production could be increased, at least temporarily, by maximum tapping of the trees on its plantations. Even without an expansion in output, however, the island's supplies will be of great value to the United Nations in view of the shortage of rubber which faces them as a result of the loss of British Malaya and the Netherlands Indies. Both for economic, as well as strategic reasons, it is thus of vital importance that they prevent Japan from extending her conquests to Ceylon.

Japan's advance into the Indian Ocean not only jeopardizes future shipments of rubber from Ceylon, but threatens also our supplies of several other strategic products. India is the principal source of mica used in the manufacture of electrical machinery and of many types of munitions. It is also used for the insulation of airplane motor spark plugs. About 14 per cent of our imports of manganese come from India, and we largely depend on that country for our supplies of jute and several other strategic materials. Loss of India, therefore, would be another setback to our war production.

Symbolic Salvage

A curious accident, it has become known, will make possible the rebuilding of the meeting place of the House of Commons exactly as it was before it was burned in the German blitz of London last year. The original drawings for the hall, prepared by Sir Charles Barry in 1840, have been found; and the story of their recovery is being cited as an example of the providential fortune which appears to favor England even in the darkest times.

Sir Charles came to the end of his career without warning in 1880, leaving his papers in confusion. His son, Edward Middleton Barry, also an architect of great distinction, completed his work at Westminster, but likewise died suddenly in 1880.

Among the Barry pupils at the last-mentioned date, there was, as it happened, a young artist, Charles J. Marshall by name, who, after the funeral, was invited to take anything he wished from the drafting room of his teacher. The souvenirs he selected were certain linen bags containing miscellaneous sketches.

Mr. Marshall preserved the drawings so long as he continued his profession. After his retirement, they were stored in the attic of his home at Cheam in Surrey. When he learned of the destruction of the Commons' portion of the vast parliamentary center on the Thames, he engaged in an enterprise of salvage which now is to be of the most vitally practical assistance in the reconstruction of the edifice. The drawings are as fresh and convenient for use as they were when Sir Charles finished them a century ago. Among them are blueprints for such details as the speaker's table and the dispatch boxes often, in days before the beginning of the Second World War, inspected by tourists but not clearly remembered by any individual competent to reproduce them accurately.

Those who detect in such incidents a persistent "survival value" for civilization perhaps are not altogether mistaken in their hope that what has been true and precious in the receding past may be saved through the tragic present for a happier future.

Monsoon Race

In the art of war, climate always is an important factor. At times it may become the basic factor, determining both strategy and tactics. This was shown last autumn in Hitler's losing gamble to take Moscow before General Winter took charge in Russia's favor. It is becoming equally evident by the way Japan is stepping up its gigantic offensive to furious intensity from Burma to Bataan, and threatening an invasion of India. The fundamental reason for these "all-out" tactics, entailing great risks and involving huge losses, is the desire of the Japanese high command to attain certain major objectives before the coming of the monsoon rains.

The monsoon is the cardinal fact in the climate of sub-tropical Asia. From the warm oceans which bathe its southern shores, winds surcharged with moisture due to heavy evaporation blow inward over the adjacent land-masses as soon as those lands heat up to a certain intensity with the northward swing of the sun. Those moist sea winds thereupon lay down their watery burden over the hot, dry lands in the form of torrential rains which give life and fertility to regions parched by the long rainless season which preceded. Since climatic conditions in the sub-tropics vary little from year to year, these seasonal rains occur with extraordinary punctuality. Virtually never is there more than a fortnight's variation.

About mid-May, therefore, the entire land-belt from India to the Philippines will enter the monsoon season. Soon after the rains begin, lowlands will become shallow lakes and fields now baked hard enough to support tanks and artillery will be transformed into quagmires of mud and sticky clay. Over this entire area, mechanized warfare will be impossible for several months, while aerial warfare will be similarly handicapped, not only because of bad weather but also because most landing fields will be drowned out.

The Japanese race against time is most obvious in Burma. The monsoon rainfall in Lower Burma is prodigious, while in Upper Burma the monsoon is partially shut away by mountain ranges and the rainfall is moderate. Therefore the Japanese are striving furiously to get into the hill country, and the Anglo-Chinese defenders hang on grimly in the hope that the invaders will be bogged down in the lowlands until autumn, thus giving the defense a respite to be reinforced and reorganized.

An invasion of India, if made this spring, must begin very soon. Today, the delta country around Calcutta is baked hard right up to the river courses. Six or seven weeks hence, it will be impassable even for light forces.

What heavy rains can do was recently shown on the island of New Guinea, where the Japanese invaders were literally washed out of the valleys and back to the seacoast. New Guinea is out of the monsoon belt and has true tropical rains with different periodicity. But the monsoon rains of the Asiatic sub-tropics are of equal intensity. And their coming is sure.

It used to be that when you noticed a fellow on the street muttering to himself you put him down as slightly barmy. Today he is probably only trying to fit the proper words to the initials of some fresh-every-hour governmental agency.

In the past three months the United States has had to swallow some pretty bitter doses. May they in the end turn out to have been but drastic purges to rid Uncle Sam's system of some rather serious symptoms.

Coal consumers are urged by the Government to build up reserves in their bins. Now all they need is some one to tell them how to pay for it.

Tip to budding authors who pride themselves on their facility with adjectives: the authors of the Psalms and of Proverbs used hardly any at all.

Of Stars, Men And Atoms

Notebook of Science Progress In Laboratory, Field And Study

By Thomas R. Henry.

The workman's dinner pail may soon disappear in defense industries. Dr. M. L. Wilson, former Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, who is directing the Government's nutrition program, revealed this week that a National campaign will be launched in the next few weeks to improve specifically the food of labor.

It will depend largely, he said, on a plan, details of which now are being worked out, to enable employes to buy foods rich in vitamins and minerals in every defense factory. At the same time an intensive educational campaign will be undertaken through labor unions.

The defense worker, often pushed at breakneck speed, Dr. Wilson believes, constitutes the most vital element of the civilian population to be properly fed. It will be easier to control his diet through the factory than through the home.

At the same time, Dr. Wilson points out, there is no disposition to regiment eating. The national committee, he says, has recognized from the start that food habits can be changed only by a prolonged educational campaign, for which there is no time. Defense workers, drawn from almost every nationality, have different tastes to which they will doggedly adhere. To provide menus to their liking is one of the major problems now being worked out.

Dr. Wilson and his colleagues are drawing heavily on the experience in England, especially in their campaign for vitamin-fortified bread. There has been a concerted movement, he says, to boost the value of whole-wheat bread with which there is complete agreement. But, he stresses, it was found impossible to get folks to eat much whole-wheat bread in the last war and the British were obliged to give up the idea in this war.

"From the first," he says, "we have dispensed of changing food habits built up from childhood. People either like something or they do not. At the same time we want to stop, so far as possible, Americans feeding themselves with vitamin preparations. These should be reserved for physicians' orders."

One of the most encouraging signs, he says, is a law recently passed by the South Carolina Legislature, which goes into effect next month, requiring that white bread sold in the State be fortified with vitamins and iron. He expects that other States soon will follow this example. This can be done everywhere at the discretion of bakers.

The biggest world wheat surplus on record—and scant bread for the hungry over a large part of the earth—is seen this year by Department of Agriculture experts. The United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia have come through the winter with bulging storehouses. They are expected to have about 1,415,000,000 bushels in storage on July 1—about 300,000,000 more than ever has been known before. Both Russia and China are believed to have emerged with a small surplus—but the rest of the world can have little on hand.

This can mean only one thing—there is a growing congestion of storage facilities in the four major exporting countries and a serious bread shortage in continental Europe. Imports to the continent have been far below average and insufficient to cover current needs. At the same time a banner crop year for the big wheat-growing countries is predicted. It may be only slightly less than 4,000,000,000 bushels, approximately the 1941 crop, because all the countries except Canada are likely deliberately to cut down their production. There is no need of increasing stocks in idle storage.

But Europe faces a dismal crop year, such reports as have trickled through indicate. Movement of troops last fall made very difficult the sowing of winter wheat. Weather almost everywhere, except in Great Britain, was unfavorable for the sprouting grain and the winter has been exceptionally severe.

Weather over most of the continent now is reported mild and sowing of spring wheat should be under way. Doubtless every effort will be made to plant a large acreage. Reports reaching the Department of Agriculture are that an exceptionally severe and early winter cut down severely the expected crop in the Danube basin. Farmers in France were directed to seed about 12,500,000 acres, or the equivalent of the amount seeded in 1937-38, but no reports on actual planting in either France or Germany are available. The Greek crop is expected to drop from 26,000,000 to about 11,000,000 bushels.

They have reports that in occupied areas of Russia seeding has been greatly restricted, but strenuous efforts are being made to increase acreages to the eastward. Spring seeding has already started, much earlier than usual. In both Australia and Argentina preparations for the wheat crop are under way and some reduction, because of already bulging storehouses, is expected in both countries. In Argentina, however, it has been difficult to find any other use for the land. Australia, it is believed, will follow the lead of the United States and pay farmers to cut down their acreages.

Wants Economy in Government Under Leadership of President. To the Editor of The Star: In the Sunday Star for April 5 you publish an alarming article written by Blair Bolles and captioned: "Elimination of Sovereign States Proposed as Post-War Plan." Subtitle is: "Public Affairs Council's Pamphlet Questions Atlantic Charter Pledge to Restore Nations."

This Public Affairs Council, it seems, has headquarters in Washington. Might one inquire why a "Public Affairs Council"? And who are they but to consider and take care of our public affairs? Why all these special groups and agencies? Is it to undermine the powers of Congress? And what must these agencies cost in "setup" and salaries in addition to what we pay Congress for the same work? Yet the President tells us to save. Why doesn't he save us these extra expenses?

A NATIVE OF OHIO OF REVOLUTIONARY LINEAGE.

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

"TAKOMA PARK, Md.

"Dear Sir: I recently had a visitation in the back yard which I would like to share with you and your many readers.

"A flock of cedar waxwings came to a tree there the other day. They made one of the most beautiful sights I have ever seen.

"There must have been 50 of these birds, all of them perching quietly, and not frightened away by any one coming comparatively close to them in the yard. "I am sure that these must have been cedar waxwings. Do the Bohemian waxwings come this far south? I recall them as a child, when I lived in Connecticut with my parents.

"I could easily see the bits of red at the end of their wings.

"Sincerely yours, B. N. L."

"The cedar waxwing sometimes lives here in the yard around.

In the spring it appears in certain localities in small flocks, from 30 to 50 or 60 birds. It is seldom seen in summer.

As far as we know, the Bohemian waxwing does not come here.

These waxwings are unusual looking birds. There are only three species of them. One lives in Japan, the second in the far north, not far from the Pole, and the third in this country.

This, the third one, is the cedar waxwing.

It is classed with the singing birds, hence is called a "songbird," but only because it has the vocal apparatus of a singing bird. In reality it does not sing in any generally accepted sense.

We have heard of one other appearance of these birds.

It might have been the same flock.

About 60 of them appeared one afternoon in Bethesda, Md., not far from Wisconsin avenue.

A child called to her mother.

"Oh, mother, come see the baby cardinals!"

These birds are not cardinal-color, however, but rather of the winsome, what resemble old-fashioned sealing wax.

With its black and red and gray and yellow, it is one of the most beautiful of all birds.

Its fine crest makes it slightly resemble a male cardinal, but its coloration is really more like that of a female cardinal, that is, a good specimen with plenty of color in her.

Not all female cardinals are colorful, by any means.

Persons who have not seen really good specimens may wonder at the praise which is sometimes given to the female cardinal.

Often the female is rather nondescript.

Discusses "Gouging" of Public In Relation to Motor Travel.

To the Editor of The Star:

In common with many other administrators, the director of vehicles and traffic of the District of Columbia asks motorists to salvage their 1941 license number plates.

But it was unnecessary to use a single pound of sheet steel to make any 1942 plates. Renewal blanks could have been sent out to the 1941 holders of licenses as usual. Any motorist who tried to evade payment would have been caught, first, when he brought his car in for inspection, or, second, would have been picked up by the police for driving on a 1941 inspection sticker.

Since stickers seem to be fashionable, a sticker could have been issued in place of a 1942 tag and affixed to each windshield. While we are at it let us look at our present methods with a critical eye. We have a gasoline tax which should be the one means of collecting all revenue from motor vehicles. However, we are taxed again for license plates, another time for a personal property tax, still another time for a title and finally for an annual inspection. Oh, by the way, let's not forget the driver's license. This makes six separate and distinct taxes on each and every motor vehicle.

The writer's car is worth $25 at the outside and the annual taxes are more than its value, in fact, nearly double its value. How long the public will permit such gouging to continue, no one can say. However, in the era of high taxes now being ushered in and which will continue long after the war, there should be a critical examination of all taxes and a general elimination of duplications. Otherwise the tax burden will be too much to carry. THRIFTY YANKEE. Cranston, R. I.

Lists Additional Stamps Depicting the Saviour.

To the Editor of The Star:

A question to Frederic J. Haskin, printed in his column on Saturday, April 4, asks: "Has Jesus Christ ever been represented on a postage stamp?"

The answer given by Mr. Haskin reads: "Christ after the Resurrection is depicted on an Italian stamp issued in 1923."

But it would be an error to suppose from this reply that no other stamps portraying the Saviour are available to collectors. In point of fact, there have been a considerable number of postal designs in which He was shown. The stamps of Italy to which Mr. Haskin refers particularly are four issues, not merely one single label. Produced to mark the third centenary of the Propaganda Fide, Society of Jesus, they include: 2c, olive green and brown orange; Christ and His Disciples with small medallions of Pope Gregory XV and St. Theresa; 3c, claret and brown orange, same with medallion of St. Francis of Assisi, and 1L, blue and brown orange, same with medallion of St. Francis Xavier.

Perhaps more important, however, because more widely circulated, have been certain stamps representing the famous statue, the Christ of the Andes, on the boundary between Chile and the Argentine Republic. The first of the group publicizing that great symbol of peace among the Latin-American nations was at some distance resembling a robin, as strange as it may seem.

Many mother cardinals have been mistaken for that famous "first robin." No doubt reports of robins long before any one else has seen one may be explained in this way.

It is very easy to mistake a mother cardinal for a robin at 100 feet.

It has been reported that cedar waxwings will pass a cherry along from one to another and back again, without eating it.

Some observers believe that this means they have eaten all they want. Others feel sure that this bespeaks a high degree of intelligence for the bird. Gladden, writing in "Birds of America," quotes Forbush as follows:

"Who can describe the marvelous beauty and elegance of this bird? What other is dressed in a robe of such delicate and silky texture? Those shades of blending beauty, velvety black, brightening into fawn, melting browns, shifting saffrons, quaker drabs, pale blue and slate with trimmings of white and golden yellow, and the little red appendages on the wing, not found in any other family of birds—all, combined with its graceful form, give the bird an appearance of elegance and distinction peculiarly its own."

The waxwing is slightly more than 7 inches long.

The blending of the color of the feathers is marvelously contrived. The general effect is of pinkish gray-brown, with yellow on the abdomen and tip of tail.

The red bits of "wax" on the wings will be missed at a little distance.

In different parts of the country the bird is called variously the cherry bird, Southern waxwing, Carolina waxwing, Canada waxwing and cedar bird.

It seems as if every species which ever appeared in the great Carolinas had the State's name hitched onto it, as if it showed up no place else. This is State pride, surely.

At one time the fruit growers of Vermont had a bill passed through the House which would permit them to shoot this bird.

In the Senate of the State the bill was defeated.

This result was attained by showing the legislators mounted specimens of the bird. (We would have thought a pair of live ones in a cage would have been better.)

At any rate, the beauty of the waxwings won the day.

The Senators voted and the bill was defeated.

Any householder who is fortunate enough to have a visit from these beauties will understand.

Q. What is the name of the Japanese woman author who is said to have written the oldest novel in the world?—A. H. D.

'All That Money Can Buy' Is Novel and Interesting

Film Adapted From Benet's Short Story, 'Devil and Daniel Webster,' At Keith's, Has Dull Spots, Though

By HARRY MACARTHUR.
(In the Temporary Absence of Jay Carmody.)

When Hollywood puts its mind to it, it can accomplish some rather notable translations of novels from printed page to screen. The 10-pound novel has proven especially adaptable to the cinema medium, the job in this case being an editing chore, the deletion of extraneous matter and the condensation of the action. The short story, however, presents a different problem. Here the movie maker may be provided a few dramatic moments, but usually he is faced with the problem of contriving additional action to arrive at the story's climax.

This brings us today up to the case of "All That Money Can Buy," which opened yesterday at R-K-O Keith's. The sundry events and affairs which Producer-Director William Dieterle and his associates have provided to turn Stephen Vincent Benet's prize-winning "The Devil and Daniel Webster" into a photoplay do contribute to the retention of the salty spirit of the original short story. But they do not clarify any issues.

"All That Money Can Buy" is a novel film, an interesting one and a sometime dramatic one. But it also is occasionally a deadly dull one. Hollywood, of course, never was a place where dramatic understatement has flourished, so it may be understandable that Mr. Dieterle and his cohorts have felt that it is not enough, as Mr. Benet felt in his original short story, to point out that a man who sold his soul to the devil might very likely repent when the debt came due.

"It's a story they tell in the border country, where Massachusetts joins Vermont and New Hampshire," wrote Mr. Benet as he commenced to spin his yarn. It's a story they tell in Hollywood, however, that comes out on the screen, a cinema "Dr. Faustus" full of allegory occasionally no more subtle than a medium tank and at other times even more confusing than the procedure in a brand-new Government agency. This Jabez Stone must be beaten to a moral pulp before Hollywood will let him repent the sale of his soul. He gets all his neighbors indebted to him, thus angry with him and he deserts his wife to build a fancy house for the fancy woman who turns up in a puff of flame before his fireplace one evening. He has come to a mighty sad state before his wife takes his case to Daniel Webster.

It really is worth while enduring some of the dull and confused moments, however, to arrive at the climactic word battle between Daniel Webster and Mr. Scratch. Here is a fine and dramatic sequence as old Black Dan Webster who never left a jug or a case half finished in his life, stands up before a jury of lost souls led by Benedict Arnold and wins Jabez Stone's freedom by telling them of the green grass and the trees and the earth and things long forgotten and what it means to be a man.

This is where the story winds up. Incidentally, but don't leave before the very end. The fadeout is made a wondrous moment by Walter Huston, worth the price of admission in the face of any of the exceptions taken above.

Mr. Huston's portrayal of Mr. Scratch is a joy every second the camera is turned on him. This Mr. Scratch is a sly and generally agreeable renegade, a winning sort of devil who might even persuade a New Hampshire farmer, and Mr. Huston hunts souls with a warm and eager relish.

For that matter the entire cast is capable and every role has been filled with an eye to type. Edward Arnold makes a rousing Daniel Webster, just the sort of man who might be the legendary hero of the Benet fable. Miss Simone Simon, it may surprise some of those who have been forgetting her to know, proves she is an able actress, too, striking a fine vixen note as Mr. Scratch's gift to Jabez Stone. And Anne Shirley, Jane Darwell, James Craig and the others manage equally as well.

Accompanying "All That Money Can Buy" at Keith's is the new March of Time release, as competent a cinema discussion of the Argentine problem as you have seen. Argentina, the film tells us, has had her good reasons for remaining neutral, reasons beyond those of any Nazi interests in the country. Argentina has been built on foreign trade, on trade with Europe more than with the United States, which can't use her beef, for instance. And Argentina feels she will have to continue exporting to Europe after the war.

This war, too, seems remote to the man in the Buenos Aires street, down there at the other end of South America. He still goes to the races or the soccer matches, he knows no threats of bombing nor hears talk of rationing. He hopes, as a number of persons in the United States once hoped, that war will pass him by. He may be wrong, but he hopes.

Wheaton Chorus To Give Concert

The Wheaton College Men's Glee Club will present a concert of sacred music at the Metropolitan Baptist Church of Washington at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

Each of the club's performances are under the direction of Prof. H. William Nordin. A member of the Wheaton College Conservatory of Music, Prof. Nordin has built an enviable reputation as a choral director. While touring in Europe in 1923 Prof. Nordin was made a knight of the Order of Vasa by the King of Sweden in recognition of his choral work. He is also a member of the faculty of the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago.

Included in the Glee Club's concert program are "O Praise the Name of the Lord," Tchaikowski; "Pilgrim's Chorus," Wagner; "Bless the Lord, O My Soul," Ippolitoff-Ivanoff; "Gospodi Pomilui," Lvovsky-Nordin; "The Creation," Richter, and "O, for a Thousand Tongues," Glaser-Loderstrom.

The club also presents numbers by brass and vocal quartets and various solo selections.

AMUSEMENTS.

Berlin Gives In

Irving Berlin has given Samuel Goldwyn synchronization rights to "Always," Berlin's biggest ballad hit, to be used as the love theme music for "The Pride of the Yankees."

Best selling of his sentimental songs, Berlin has refused motion picture rights to the number for the past eight years.

Rights to bring the number to the screen were obtained by Goldwyn only after considerable negotiation and after study of the script by Berlin.

Air Film Planned

Paramount has announced plans to produce "Glider Squadron" from an original screen story by Roscoe Farrow, with an all-star cast, following completion of "Wake Island." The picture will show the process of forming and training special units in the United States Army.

Lack of Air Support Cost Chance to Save Promote Indefinitely

Problem of Supply Is Described as Greatest Of Burma Campaign

By DANIEL DE LUCE, Associated Press War Correspondent.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ALLIED ARMY IN BURMA, April 8 (Delayed).—The strangulation of Allied communications in Burma and India is being continued by the Japanese who, winning Promé, have now advanced nearly 200 miles north from captured Rangoon in less than a month.

Complete absence of Allied air support for the ground troops cost a British armored column the opportunity to exploit a stunning, 25-mile charge through the Japanese lines in the Irrawaddy Valley early this week.

Had it been successful, it might have saved Promé indefinitely. As it was, the failure contributed to the Chinese decision to relinquish Toun-goo after an heroic one-week siege.

The grave effect of the Japanese two-day assault on the Royal Air Force and American Volunteer Group base in Central Burma last March 21 and 22 is no longer minimized, even in Chinese and British communiques.

The Allied soldiers in the front lines of Burma for the last two weeks have seen few of their own planes as the British Expeditionary Force in Crete saw in 1941.

By pushing back what was a fresh Chinese army from Toun-goo and out flanking the British along the Irrawaddy opposite Promé, with the help of thousands of recruited rebel Burmese, the Japanese kept the initiative for a new application of their favorite infiltration and encirclement tactic.

The new Japanese positions along the Irrawaddy have blocked still another Burma seaport for supplying the Allied armies.

Controlling Burma's Bay of Bengal coast, the enemy is at liberty to send new forces cross-country, striking far in the British rear.

Sea-borne troops, if they were set ashore, actually would be closer to the coveted Yenangyaung oil fields in the Irrawaddy Valley than the British Army north of Promé.

One unofficial estimate of transport potentialities on the road being built into Burma from Assam differs with the publicized view that these will be adequate for the traffic required by the British and Chinese Armies.

If the oil fields a little over 100 miles from the Japanese—(reduced to about 75 miles now)—were destroyed or lost, gasoline would become more precious in Burma than water on the western desert and 1,000 trucks would be immobilized.

The enemy has undertaken this week to wreck landing fields. However, it is believed that only un economical, widespread air assaults could break aerial communications between India and Burma—and then only temporarily as long as any

Police Sergeant's Son, 19, Recovers Stolen Clothing

The home of a police sergeant was entered by a thief last night, but most of the loot was recovered within an hour when one of the policeman's sons, searching the neighborhood, recognized clothing in the arms of a youth.

Sergt. John J. Ronayne, attached to the eighth precinct, was on duty when his home at 730 Fifth street N.E. was entered by an open rear window. Suits belonging to his sons, Thomas J. Ronayne, 19, and John A. Ronayne, 23, and a locket with chain, property of his daughter Agnes, 17, were taken.

Thomas decided to look around the neighborhood. At Sixth and H streets, he reported, he noticed a colored youth with a bundle of clothes. When he accosted the bundle-carrier, the latter pulled out a knife, brandished it, then dropped the clothes and ran, Thomas said.

Information Building To Be Completed Soon

The new Government building on Pennsylvania avenue between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets N.W., is nearing completion and parts of it may be ready for occupancy next week end, but there apparently are differences of opinion as to when it will be completed.

At the Office of Government Reports, for which the structure was originally intended, it was explained today that part of one wing may be available over the week end, but the building may not be finished until about May 4.

At the office of the contractor, Charles H. Tompkins, it was said the building will be finished next Wednesday, April 15, which would be 30 days from the time it was started. This would be a record for construction of such a big building, costing about $600,000.

HEY, SCOTTY! HAVE YOU HEARD ABOUT THE WONDERFUL NEW DOG FOOD—KELLOGG'S GRO-PUP?

YOU BET! THE BOSS SAYS IT CONTAINS EVERY KNOWN MINERAL AND VITAMIN WE DOGS NEED FOR GROWTH AND VIGOR!

Try this entirely new food for dogs . . . and see if your dog isn't livelier, happier, in better condition than ever!

GRO-PUP was created by Kellogg's in Battle Creek only after independent studies had been made at leading universities to discover what a dog's actual food needs are!

When fed as directed with table scrap meat, broth or milk, this remarkable food gives dogs of all ages a splendid diet. . . no need to buy additional food or expensive tonics.

It is marvelous for puppies, too—gives them bone-and-muscle-building food elements they need during the vital period when they're growing, up to 20 times faster than children!

Such a food, you might think would be costly. But KELLOGG'S GRO-PUP is decidedly economical. One box contains as much food as 5 one-pound cans of ordinary dog food. A single box is all you need buy to feed a 15-pound dog for a whole week.

This entirely new food for dogs, made in ribbon form, is at your grocer's now. Why not try it? And when you see your dog fill out and grow stronger, with glossy coat and sparkling eyes—you'll be everlastingly glad you did!

It's All Very Simple—If You Know How

QUANTICO, Va., April 9.—Master Gunnery Sergt. Gabe Harker of the United States Marines threw the stock of his Garand rifle against his shoulder and squeezed the trigger at the black bull's-eye 200 yards away. The sign disappeared into the pits and when it reappeared there was a small white circle inside the black and the pitman waved a white, tin sign to denote a bull's-eye. Seven more times Sergt. Harker fired. Seven more bull's-eyes were scored. Not even Gary Cooper matched it in the picture.

It was like watching Sammy Sneed bang tee shots, brassies, long irons and approaches during a good round. You want to rush back to the clubhouse, get your own clubs and start anew. You think you know how it's done. "Should have caught onto it a long time ago." "It's all clear now. Easy does it," etc.

But nothing does it, except the old know-how. You shank, pull, slice and hook, and that's the way it is with the duffer behind a real rifle. It looks easy . . . close the left eye, line up the sights, and pull. Even after two days of dawn-to-dusk lectures on fundamentals, and hard-hitting warnings that rifle-shooting isn't like shooting fish in a barrel, it looks easy.

"Try it," suggested Master Gunnery Sergt. Harker, "and then you'll be able to tell folks how simple it is." The Sarge can laugh louder with his eyes than anybody we ever saw.

Actual Shooting Isn't Like 'Snapping In'

The National Rifle Association's Garand was identical to Sergt. Harker's marine piece. The ammunition was the same, too. Here all resemblance ceased. While the Sarge twisted the leather sling properly so that it feels as if you have tourniquets on the upper left appendage, just below the armpits and on the left wrist, we began to first feel the shakes.

It was like the first time, as a kid, you went to bat for a brand-new baseball team; like the last time you asked for a pay raise; like the time you were asked to repeat, "I will." Somehow, we managed to get flat on a suddenly empty and nervous belly and all of a sudden it wasn't like "snapping in" at all. "Snapping in" is a preliminary procedure. Marine recruits "snap in"—which means draw beads and squeeze triggers—for at least a week before shells are issued and they are allowed to fire. The rifle that had felt so good before became a treacherous, tremendously potent foe, due to a sudden discovery of unfamiliarity. In its chamber, we had been told, developed 52,000 pounds of pressure per square inch once the trigger was pulled. The range is 3,450 yards. It is nothing to blow off, willy-nilly.

The peep sight became foggy; it had been quite clear before. The front sight was nowhere in sight; it took a good 90 seconds to even find it. The bulls-eye—200 yards and only a splitting distance for a Marine sharpshooter—was the period to The Lord's Prayer engraved on a pin-point.

What's a Brick, Chum, If Not a Real Brickbat?

The wrong set of fingers gripped too hard. The breathing came heavy, fast and uncontrolled. The left elbow forgot to bend under the barrel and the right forefinger neglected to squeeze, gently—so that the shooter himself doesn't know when the gun will go off—but, instead, yanked. The pitman hauled down the target, examined it, and indicated a direct hit at least 4 feet from where we were aiming. Four feet at 200 yards! That's 12 feet at 600 yards, combat distance. We were like the golf duffer . . . still slicing, hooking or shanking.

The same shot at 1,000 yards would have been 20 feet off, and experts have been known to hit the bull's-eye from that distance as many as 29 and 24 times in succession. They used telescopic sights and finer rifles, of course, but everything was evened. The human eye can't focus on an object only a few inches in diameter at much over 1,000 yards.

The first shot was the worst. Things got better, generally, thereafter. But rifle shooting is no different from golf, baseball, tennis, football, boxing and a vast majority of other sports. It's no different from baking bread or laying bricks. It simply takes practice and study and application.

A rifle, decently kept and intelligently handled, won't hurt a person's shoulder blade. Surprisingly few normal young men flinch, especially after a lecture on fundamentals. "The 'kick' of a Garand," we seem to recall Sergt. Harker testifying, "is no more a jolt against the shoulder than a 7-pound brick dropped from a height of 1 foot." This sends a fellow into his first joust with the Garand, or M-1, with a jaunty, confident feeling. This, and the Sarge's way of looking at you. Now, of course, if he had said an 8-pound brick it might have been something different.

Down and Montezuma, Dusk and Tripoli

Sergt. Harker has been instructing gunnery classes in the Marines for the last 15 years and he can shoot like—well, his full title, to repeat, is master gunnery sergeant. But the average hard-working individual, with normal savvy, can be taught to hit at what he aims with a rifle—and, indeed, with a pistol, machine gun, automatic rifle and anti-aircraft gun—in three weeks. But they are six-day weeks and dawn-to-dusk hours. A Marine can't strike, nor can he readily miss.

"The way I figure it," drawled this movie-style but nevertheless down-to-earth Marine sergeant, "expert marksmanship is one of the solutions to the world problems. If every man—and every woman, for that matter—could group his rifle and pistol shots accurately from 400 or 600 yards there wouldn't be much trouble in the world. I'm including the Japs, Germans, Russians, Turks, Chinese and us, too.

"People would learn to respect each other, this way. A good rifle, not to mention heavier guns, can do a helluva lot of damage and it isn't good to see. I sorta have a hunch a lot of punched-out paper bull's-eyes would make dictators think a few times before they blew their toppers."

Writers, by Surprising Edge, Pick Cards to Win Pennant

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 9.—By a 2-to-1 margin, the writers picked the St. Louis Cardinals to overthrow Brooklyn's Dodgers and win the 1942 National League pennant.

In a surprisingly one-sided vote, 46 of the 74 baseball writers balloting in the annual Associated Press poll tabbed the Cards to pennant. One other writer, Jim Gould of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, couldn't make up his mind between the Cards and Cincinnati Reds, and split his ballot.

Only 23 picked the Dodgers to repeat their 1941 triumph. Four forecast a return of the Reds to the top spot they held in 1939 and 1940.

No one could see the Cards worse than third, while four writers picked Brooklyn as low as fourth.

Those were the only three clubs drawing ballots for first place and the voting wound up in that order, with St. Louis piling up 563½ points.

Wilson to Pitch To Phils Here

By a Star Staff Correspondent.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 9.—Jack Wilson, former Boston Red Sox pitcher, will hurl the opener of a three-game exhibition series tomorrow at Griffith Stadium in Washington as the Nats seek a fifth straight victory over the Phils.

Buck Newsom was slated to face the Charlotte Hornets here today and if Manager Bucky Harris follows his regular rotation of pitchers it will be Newsom vs. the Yankees on Tuesday in the opening game of the season.

Drive Is Marked By Hot Wallop Vernon Shows

New Power Minimizes Slump That Strikes Pitching Staff

By BURT HAWKINS,
Star Staff Correspondent.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 9.—The exhilarating continuous click of solid hitting is magnificent music to the ears of Bucky Harris of the Nats, for with opening day approaching rapidly Washington finally is displaying some semblance of an attack.

The Nats, who return to Griffith Stadium tomorrow to launch a three-game series with the Phils in a final tune-up before battling the Yankees on Tuesday, have been moving through their lengthy exhibition slate at a brisk clip, but it generally has been their pitching that has merited praise.

Now, though, the Nats' hitters are stirring. Harris is inclined to dismiss lightly the momentary collapse of his pitching department in Atlanta's 15-14 victory yesterday. What heartened him was that thump.

Washington had manufactured 28 runs on 30 hits in its last two games as it tangled with Charlotte here today. Such opposition as the Phils and Atlanta provides no gauge for the true quality of the Nats' hitting, of course, but at least the foe's pitching has served to sweep the cobwebs from Mickey Vernon's batting stroke, and for that Harris is grateful.

Estallega Also Improves. Vernon, who has belted three home runs in two days, batting in seven runs and scoring seven more, is beginning to resemble the more timely Mickey of last season. During most of the Nats' exhibition engagements Mickey was in the midst of a slump, but he has pulled out of it at the proper point.

Ticketed for the Nats' number 4 spot in the batting order, Vernon was shifted into the normally less vital number 3 slot recently, with Bruce Campbell taking over the clean-up position. Harris now is contemplating reinstating Mickey.

The improved batting development of Bobby Estallega is no blow to Harris, either, for the stumpy Cuban also is inserting hits frequently. Estallega is in line-up chiefly because he swings an emphatic, if erratic bat and lately he has been demonstrating he may become a more consistent clutter.

There may be a seemingly insignificant insect in Harris' optimistic ointment. While the hitting has improved, the pitching of Walter Masterson hasn't. There is no occasion for Bucky to become alarmed over Walter's ineffectiveness at this point for Harris still would possess what is considered a stylish pitching staff should Masterson get to work.

Zuber Takes Beating. Before the acquisition of Buck Newsom, Masterson was labeled a starting pitcher, with a cautious comment by Harris "to show something this season or else." Less he reveals marked improvement hastily, Walter doubtless will discover himself in nothing more than relief roles.

Masterson labored less than three innings yesterday at Atlanta, and when he finally was summoned to the mound, the Crackers had collected seven runs and eight hits off his offerings, hitting the jackpot with a 6-run sixth inning.

At that juncture the Nats were trailing 7-12 for Vernon had delivered a homer with two on, in the first and when the ninth rolled around Mickey inserted another 3-run homer to present the Nats a 14-13 lead.

Bill Zuber promptly pitched the Nats out of that situation. He walked the first two batters to face him in Atlanta's portion of the ninth, and after they advanced on a sacrifice he purposely passed Charley Glock to set up a possible double-play.

That was foiled when Earl Browne blasted a deep drive to Centerfielder Stan Spence. Pete Thomassie scoring and Charlie Letch taking third, after the catch, Tommy O'Brien then produced his fourth hit, a single to left, to score Letch with the winning run.

The Nats harvested 16 hits off Earl McGowan, Julian Howell and Floyd Strome, while Charlie Wynn, Masterson, in Texas that would take in camps Bowie and Berkeley, Randolph Field, Sheppard Field, Fort Sam Houston, Fort Bliss, etc. . . but why stop there?

How about a lot of leagues like that and playoffs among the winners until a service champion could be nominated to play the best college team in the Rose Bowl? Main objection, of course, is that the program would require a lot of organizing and the Army and Navy are busy organizing something more important.

Browns' Fate in Race Is Up to Stephens, Rook Shortstop

Yankees Hit 22 Homers In Exhibitions With Di-Mag Topping List

By the Associated Press.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 9.—Manager Luke Sewell believes the fate of the St. Louis Browns, being picked by many to finish in the first division, depends largely on how well his outstanding rookie, Vern Stephens, can hit and play shortstop.

Luke is confident he will make the grade in the big time, but if he fails, anything is likely to happen to the Browns, who were to wind up their exhibition string against Montgomery today.

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn.—On the basis of comparative results, the Detroit Tigers are inclined to pick the St. Louis Cardinals over the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League pennant race.

Tigers owned one victory in eight starts as they closed a nine-game series over the Red Birds. Detroit gained a 2-1 edge over the Dodgers in the Grapefruit League.

WILMINGTON, Del.—The New York Yankees, who were to make their last road appearance of the training season against the Brooklyn Dodgers today, are up to their old tricks. Although they lost the game, yesterday's four home runs boosted the Yankee total to 22 four-baggers for the spring. Joe Di Maggio tops the list with seven.

ENID, Okla.—Manager Connie Mack expects Bill Knickerbocker's "baseball sense" to smooth out the Philadelphia Athletics' infield.

The ex-White Sox second sacker "always seems to be in the right spot and moves about with the smoothness that the others lack," Connie explained.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—The Cleveland Indians took on the New York Giants today with one utility infielder—Russ PETERS, who has a broken nose. Oscar Grimes, veteran utility man who plays all infield posts, went home to Cleveland last night with a cold and 102-degree temperature.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—The Boston Braves, winners of only one of their 19 grapefruit circuit games, will entrain for home today. The day also will mark the parting of roommates Johnny Sain and George Washburn, both right-handed pitchers. Sain made the grade and has been purchased from Nashville, but Washburn is being turned back to Kansas City.

Ruth, Critically Ill, Improves, But Still Not Out of Danger

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, April 9.—The once mighty Babe Ruth, stricken critically ill yesterday, is improving slowly, but still not out of danger.

Ruth's nurse made that report twice during the night as the former home run king of major league baseball lay wrapped in a heavy jacket because of recurring chills. Alternately, his temperature soared.

Babe, 48, has had a strenuous picture-making, war bond-selling, military camp-entertaining two months here. Previously, he dieted away 40 pounds to get in trim for the picture, about his late New York Yankee teammate, Lou Gehrig.

Just before coming to Hollywood Ruth went to be presumably stricken from the effects of dieting for his movie work.

Hollywood welcomed the old hero and Ruth has been a busy man ever since. He's made numerous personal appearances, especially at Army camps and Defense bond demonstrations.

Would Free Army Of A. A. U. Rules

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, April 9.—Maj. Gen. Milton A. Rackford, commanding general of the 3d Corps Area, has proposed that the National Amateur Athletic Union adopt wartime rules permitting military service teams to play all comers without affecting the standing of the soldier athletes held before being called to military duty.

He asked the A. A. U. to subscribe to a "statement" of principles which would give Army athletes freedom of competition and freeze their status for the duration. A. A. U. officials have endorsed the plan.

Averaging 25, Pirates Will Field One of Youngest Clubs

By the Associated Press.

ENID, Okla., April 9.—The Pittsburgh Pirates will field one of the youngest teams in the majors when the baseball firing begins in earnest next week.

Exclusive of batterymen, the Pirates' open-inning line-up will average 25 years.

The Bucs and the Philadelphia Athletics resume their training series here today after being kept away by weather the past two days.

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn.—Frank Crespi, flashy-fielding second baseman, continued to spark the St. Louis Cardinals' new-found offensive as they stopped off here for their final spring exhibition game with Detroit today. Crespi's second homer in two days was a contributing factor in the Redbirds' 7-2 victory over the Tigers yesterday.

PORTSMOUTH, Va.—Ron Northey, rookie outfielder from Williamsport of the Eastern League, is one of the few Philadelphia Phils hitting over 300. He whacked out three singles against Norfolk yesterday.

WILMINGTON, Del.—Dolph Camilli and Billy Herman, who have been receiving hospital treatment, have returned to the Brooklyn Dodgers with assurances that neither is suffering from anything that a few days' rest won't cure.

A deep cold settled in Camilli's back, while Herman is recovering from a strained muscle in his side.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va.—The death of Paul Derringer's baby son, Lucien Paul, makes it unlikely that the Cincinnati Reds' ace will pitch the season opener against the Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday.

Hogan Is Heavy Choice to Gain Masters' Title

Royalty of Golfdom Playing in Classic On Augusta Links

By GAYLE TALBOT,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 9.—Over one of the world's loveliest golf courses, the royal family of the game starts playing today in the 72-hole Masters' Tournament, with the snarl of military motors overhead to remind them that this probably is the last sentimental stop at Bobby Jones' course until after the war.

Even though they have been playing against each other all winter—most of them—from the West Coast across the country, the boys seemed not to realize that the big bust-up was at hand until they landed here. Now they do and it has given them an added incentive to win the most coveted of the titles, excepting only the open. It was a tense, tightly-wound field of 42 that teed off today.

The Masters, though it was what might be called a "manufactured" tournament to begin with, has in the last eight years taken a remarkable hold on the players. One and all, they look forward each year to receiving one of the big embossed invitations, and when none shows up they are crestfallen.

Sentiment Plays Big Part. Partly, no doubt, it is because they are playing in the same field with Bobby Jones. It seems almost unbelievable, sometimes, that such mechanically perfect players as the two Texans, Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson, for instance, should stand in such honest awe of Jones. But they do, and to their credit.

Perhaps this gives another angle of the masters. The pairings are made with an eye for the dramatic. They do not pull names out of a hat. At 2 o'clock today Jones goes down the first wide fairway with Craig Wood, the defending champion, and the 1941 open champion. They will carry the gallery to the exclusion of the spectators, the Hogans, the Picards and the Littles.

And farther down, playing together, will the little Bobby Cruickshank, the "Wee Scot" whom Jones defeated in a playoff for the 1923 open crown, going around with Tommy Armour, who won in 1927. Cruickshank has just become a grandfather. The money tournaments do not produce that kind of sentiment.

Hogan Is Great Favorite. That, however, wraps up the sentimental side of this tournament. Getting down to earth, the overwhelming favorite to win is Ben Hogan, a dark, sober money-winner who was born in Stephenville, Tex. Ben, a boy of under medium height with high, "Indian" cheekbones, doesn't say much, but he has been winning most of the money for a couple of years.

His game, following him for 18 holes, looks about as perfect as golf could be. Right from the tee to the flag his shots follow a line you scarcely could better with a rifle. After a time it becomes uncanny.

He misses scoring a birdie only when he fails to drop a putt. Armour and Gene Sarazen, who have been better than average golfers, say he is the best there ever has been. That is something, coming from them.

They say this one should be even easier for Hogan because they are playing real golf rules—that is, there is no teeing-up on the fairways. Balls are played as they lie. The only other two tournaments they played like that this winter, at Los Angeles and at Pinehurst. Hogan won hands down.

Athletic Conference for Service Teams Is Suggested

Rotolo, Ace Feather as Amateur, Turns Pro; Rickey in Last Year With Cards, Rumor Says

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.,
Wide World Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, April 9.—Lt. Ulmon "Clemo" Clements of Camp Bowie, Tex., who used to coach such noted athletes as Baylor's Jack Wilson, Kyle Gillespie and Emery Nix in their junior college days, suggests an Army athletic program leading up to the formation of a service conference. In Texas that would take in camps Bowie and Berkeley, Randolph Field, Sheppard Field, Fort Sam Houston, Fort Bliss, etc. . . but why stop there?

How about a lot of leagues like that and playoffs among the winners until a service champion could be nominated to play the best college team in the Rose Bowl? Main objection, of course, is that the program would require a lot of organizing and the Army and Navy are busy organizing something more important.

One-minute sports page—One of the guys who has to sleep in an upper berth on the Chicago White Sox eastward trek is Johnny Rickey, whose mother-in-law owns the club. Tommy Rotolo, the Rome, N. Y., featherweight who scored a "grand slam" by winning the diamond belt and Golden Gloves amateur title, has signed up to do his fighting for cash. Rumor that this will be Branch Rickey's last season with the Cardinals keeps popping up. This time it's from Rochester, where they claim Billy Southworth tipped his hand by shipping some players to the Red Wings while Rickey was saying no shifts were in sight.

Today's guest star—Walter Stewart, Memphis Commercial Appeal: "We understand that Louisville hotels are being drenched in derby reservations—are practically sold out. You or I tell us that folks don't like to be robbed."

Service Dept.—Col. Ole Reistad, commander of the Royal Norwegian Air Force base in Canada, figured that any one older than 30 was past his prime for athletics or combat flying. He of the 45-year-old colonel also figured he couldn't send his men out for an 18-kilometer ski race in bad weather unless he was willing to go, too. The upshot was that Col. Reistad finished the race several minutes ahead of the fastest young fellow.

The Corpus Christi (Tex.) Naval Air Station is planning an invitation track meet June 13, two weeks before the national collegiate meet at Lincoln, Neb. Besides the stars at "the university of the air" entries are expected from colleges, clubs and military camps. Lt. Gabriel Frumkin, who still is flying for MacArthur in Australia, although he has been shot down three times, played basket ball for the University of Chattanooga a few years ago.

Umpire baiting—When Lefty O'Doul took his San Francisco club to Healdsburg, Calif., for an exhibition game, he offered Umpire Frisco Edwards a free ride. Edwards observed O'Doul's brand-new car and brand-new tires, settled himself deeply into the cushions of the back seat and remarked: "I almost feel like calling the close ones your way today, Mr. O'Doul."

Cleaning the cuff—Marvin Shannon, Fort Worth's noted blind golfer, turned in a 40 for nine holes the other day, only five over par. Don Boydston, Oklahoma A. and M. high jumper, has been beaten only once in 13 contests—in flipping a coin to decide ties.

Talent-Packed Teams Promise Hottest Struggle Yet for Federal Links Honors

Top Line-ups of 1941 In Star's Tourney Gain Strength

18 Holes of Play After Work Made Possible By War Saving Time

By WALTER McCALLUM.

Burning the midnight oil in a successful attempt to achieve order out of seeming chaos among the Government agencies which have entered the match-play golf championship, sponsored for the fifth consecutive year by The Evening Star, Paul Carey, prexy of the Federal linksmen, came up today with a prediction that this year's scrap for the match play team is due to be the hottest on record. Reasons for this are manifold, Carey says. Among them are the facts that several of the top teams have been strengthened; the loop may be limited to 12 teams in each class, with six in each of four sections, thus compressing the best material into fewer teams and that Class B, with Patent Office, 1941 champions, out of the list this year, is sure to see a closer race.

Swamped With Entries.

Right now Carey is swamped with entries in the tourney. He has 11 definite entries in Class A and six with a question mark after them. The question mark representing doubt as to whether the agencies involved can get together sufficient links strength to make a showing. He also has nine definite entries in Class A, with three more probable.

Aim of the president of the Federal Golf Association, who also will act as director of The Star tourney, is to hold the teams in each class down to 12, although he admits he may not be able to do this because so many teams, some of them new outfits, are clamoring for action. The war, he says, splits the class into two sections, with six teams in each section, and would make possible a shorter playoff than the three-match round robin affair heretofore held at the end of the season.

Carey wants the schedule to start around the end of April and run through May and part of June, with the entire tourney to be completed by the end of June. This year Treasury, which had two teams entered in 1941, will have only one, but this one will be a formidable outfit, and may lead the way in the tourney.

In George Voigt alone Treasury has a club swinger who can account for a flock of winning points. George won everything in sight when he played amateur golf around Washington 14 years ago and he still packs as much punch as any amateur we have anywhere. In addition to Voigt the following have been nominated for the Treasury team: Bernie Hallock, E. M. Schafer and John R. Miller.

War To Have Strong Team.

War Department will come up with another strong outfit, composed of Jack Olmstead, the Indiana Spring star; Col. Kenneth Buchanan, Kenneth M. Skaggs, long-hitting R. F. Alexander, and Lt. A. E. Voigt. Nor will Government Printing Office, champs in 1941 and 1939, lack punch. They'll still have that potent bunch of men who so convincingly graced the links last year in the playoffs at Burning Tree. It's a well balanced outfit, that team composed of Joe Balestri, Al Schneider, Bill Lawrence and Clarence E. (Puttling) Purdy, and without question they'll be in the scrap right down to the final putt.

Best part of the coming tourney is that with war saving time the men can put in a full day at the office and still play 18 holes. Those May and June days will be long in hours of sunlight, and they can play until around 8:30.

Experts expect to have the match play schedule ready within a week, for publication shortly before the opening match. Carey has advised that Cliff Spencer, former Beaver Dam and East Potomac Park pro, now is working at the Navy Yard and may be eligible to play in the match play series and also in Government medal play tourney. If Cliff enters these affairs as a representative of the Navy Yard or another branch of Navy all points he can account for a flock of points.

Outside of George Voigt there isn't a competitor around who can move along as fast over any golf course as Spencer.

Nor is there any question about the pro angle in the Federal golf tourney. Long ago the powers-that-be in Government golf set down as a guiding principle that a pro could play in their tourneys. Jack Harris, present individual Government champion, is a golf pro.

Schoolboys Play Tomorrow.

Ten schoolboy links teams will move into action again tomorrow in a resumption of the matches for the Dawes Trophy among the public high schools and the "met" title among the high and prep schools in and out of Washington. Here is tomorrow's schedule: Coolidge vs. Tech at Kenwood, Roosevelt vs. Anacostia at Congressional, Western vs. Central at Bannockburn, Bethesda vs. Devitt at Woodmont, Gonzaga vs. St. Albans at Washington.

Mrs. B. L. Braun and Mrs. J. Y. York tied with net 42 in the opening tourney of the year for Army Navy Country Club featuring Mrs. Carter Magruder, tournament chairman of the Women's District Golf Association, was third with net 43. Tied for fourth were Mrs. A. C. Olney, Mrs. T. W. Mackintosh and Mrs. R. T. Schlossberg with net 44s.

Members of the service club have transferred their club events from Friday to Wednesday and all prizes are in war stamps.

Golf Pros Will Qualify For P. G. A. on May 8

Rossvan's Comment

FIRST RACE—FRESH MONEY, THE DUCK, FOUR STARS.

Cus Ring's filly, FRESH MONEY, may be good enough to take the opener at boxcar figures. The daughter of Stimulus is much better than the form shows. The Babylon-Bison entry holds a powerful hand, THE DUCK being the better of the two. FOUR STARS should be coming fast in the stretch run.

SECOND RACE—HI-KID, REDS RIVAL, MISS MAKER.

Among the 4-year-olds and up going in the second sprint, HI-KID appears to be in a likely spot for major honors. The colt has worked very fast for the race and may come up a real good thing. REDS RIVAL should be there or thereabouts at the finish. MISS MAKER gets a good figure and may be close.

THIRD RACE—LUSTROUS, MOST ALERT, LITTLE SUZANNE.

The Sweeping Light filly, LUSTROUS, has been raced into condition in competition in Florida and an easier spot could not be found. The work tab indicates that this one is razor sharp and the price may be generous. The Canter gelding, MOST ALERT, is very fit. LITTLE SUZANNE for the show award.

FOURTH RACE—ZACA ROSE, EQUIPET SHE DAST.

The Zacawesta filly, ZACA ROSE, was scratched yesterday to go in this event and should have an easy time with a field of this order. EQUIPET may offer the main contention and has several sparkling moves to her credit. SHE DAST was trimmed by the top one easily but may improve.

FIFTH RACE—MOON MAIDEN, ALHALON, GONDALINA.

The Brann entry consists of MOON MAIDEN and Yarn Spinner. The former is a very highly regarded miss and may be tough to trim in this distance event. ALHALON is well liked by the boys with the watches and may be ready for the first rattle out of the box. GONDALINA defeated a good field last out.

SIXTH RACE—PUNCHDRUNK, DARE BUNNY, MOLASSES.

PUNCHDRUNK has been burning up the track for some time and appears to be very well placed in the sixth at a mile and a sixteenth. DARE BUNNY has topped two at the meeting, but is meeting a tougher field. MOLASSES, from the Christman barn, arrived here from Oakland a very fit filly.

EIGHTH RACE—COVE SPRING, STABLE, MIGHTILY.

In the final event, COVE SPRING shapes up as the best of the field. Close in both races at this point, the St. Germans filly is as fit as the proverbial fiddle. STABLE is about ready to spring a surprise and may be very close when the smoke clears away. MIGHTILY has been a keen disappointment.

Today's Results — Entries and Selections for Tomorrow

BEST BET—MOON MAIDEN.

SEVENTH RACE—BUSY MAN, RADIO WAVE, LEE'S JIMMIE.

Despite the fact that BUSY MAN did not do so well in Florida competition this winter, the gelding qualifies for the big money in this affair. The clockers report some very fast moves recently and believe that everything is made to order. RADIO WAVE and LEE'S JIMMIE figure about alike and should be close.

EIGHTH RACE—COVE SPRING, STABLE, MIGHTILY.

In the final event, COVE SPRING shapes up as the best of the field. Close in both races at this point, the St. Germans filly is as fit as the proverbial fiddle. STABLE is about ready to spring a surprise and may be very close when the smoke clears away. MIGHTILY has been a keen disappointment.

Two Players Suspended, G. U. Weakened for Syracuse

Mylnarski, Smith Late Returning From Leave; Gyorgydeak, Hearing Off, Rejected by Army

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

Disciplinary action against Capt. Hank Mylnarski, shortstop, and outfielder Johnny Smith cost Georgetown's graduation-riddled nine two seasoned veterans as it awaited its first taste of action against Syracuse this afternoon at the Hilltop.

Both were late in reporting for practice after a brief holiday vacation, it was learned today, and university officials tacked on the customary penalty. All other members of the diamond squad returned to school Monday when practice was resumed.

Classes were continued yesterday and both lads were present at roll call. They were out for baseball practice but Coach Joe Judge had other men in their regular positions. Judge didn't want to discontinue practice last week but school officials deemed it advisable to give the boys the opportunity of spending a few days at home in view of unsettled conditions and the uncertainty of the future. Subsequent bad weather made everything work out nicely, until the above incident.

Judge, shifting his line-up to meet the situation, named the following team for the curtain-raiser: Len Bonforte, rf; Billy Hasset, ss; Johnny Kulkowski, 3b; Jim Hines, cf; Dick Dieckelman, p and lb; Joe Gyorgydeak, 2b; Ben Bulvin, lf; Tom Costello, c; Joe Wells, p; Danny Murphy, p and lb.

Dieckelman and Murphy were to alternate at first base as the Hoyas are hard up for a seasoned player at the position. While Joe Wells is

Champ Has Hard Time Keeping Lucky Strike At Top of Standing

What may prove even a bigger task than helping to put the pacesetter Lucky Strike team across for its second straight District League pennant loomed today for Hokie Smith as the all-star loop's champion pinspinner trailed Cletus Pannell of Anacostia Spillway by a margin of 75 pins in his bid to retain his coveted honors.

While the Luckies forged to the front in a hectic flag chase last night with a 2-1 win from the fourth-place Arlington Bowling Center quint, Smith in a prolonged slump, shrank his average to 127-51 for 87 games with a 360 cut. Pannell with 430, his fourth 400-set in a row, spurred into the lead with a mark of 128-39 for 87 games.

Alken and Guethler Star.

The erstwhile pacesetter Rosslyn Bowling Center quint was a 3-0 victim as Pannell, aided by Ed Nash's 420, led the sixth-place Spillways to their sweep. The defeat dropped the Rosslynites to third place, two games back of the leading Luckies.

Arcadia, which had held a three-way tie for first place with Rosslyn and Lucky Strike, dropped into the runner-up spot by losing a 2-1 decision to Clarendon. Chick Darr starred for the Virginia outfit with 151-40.

Hi-Skor Remains Fourth.

Hi-Skor held his grip on fourth place with a 2-1 win from Hiser's Bethesda as Lou Pantos led with 163-381. Dick Lee's 174 top game gave Georgetown its lone win from Peacock's Bethesda crew as Bob Miller fired 387 for the winners.

Featured by Astor Clarke's 155-410 and Al Terry's 376, Lafayette posted the night's top team scores of 704 and 1969 to take the rubber game from Brookland. Bill King's 169-379 and Al Evans' 385 were potent as Penn Recreation sank Chevy Chase Ice Palace with scores of 658-1181.

Harry Hilliard's 378 and Bill Remsburg's 376 led in Hyattsville's 2-1 win from Convention Hall.

Victory Over Episcopal Reveals Strength and Balance in Central Track Team

Divides Points Almost Evenly in Running And Field Tests

Gains Margin With Win In Relay, Last Event; Kurz Sets Record

Balance all down the line, except in the hurdles and broad jump, is the way Central's track team, inter-high champion last year, shapely up. The Vikings have winning power both in the running and field events, as was demonstrated yesterday when they topped Episcopal High's thinclads, 72-55, in a dual meet at Hoxton Field, Alexandria.

This was the first outdoor meet for both teams, and it was the first time Coach Jan Jankowski of Central has had his entire squad in competition. The Vikings next go to Durham this Saturday for the Duke Interscholastics. Central's balance was demonstrated as it gathered 37 points in running events and 35 in the field, while Episcopal nearly matched it with 36 running points but fell to 19 in the field. The Vikings earned 10 firsts to Episcopal's 4.

Last Event Decides It.

Central had no easy time topping the Maroons, though. It was necessary for it to win the mile relay, final event on the program, worth 10 points, in order to win the meet. This it did with a little room to spare. Nick Chacos gave the Vikings a 20-yard lead in the first quarter, and Johnny Ward, running the second quarter, increased this to the 40 yards which held to the end.

One Hoxton Field record was broken when Central's Jim Kurz tossed the 12-pound shot 51 feet 3 1/2 inches. The old mark was 50 feet 11 1/2 inches, and Kurz's throw measures more than 100 yards around Washington this season. His mark was better than the current inter-high figure of 49 feet 3 1/2 inches. Jim was a big help to Central yesterday, also taking first in the javelin and second in the discus for 13 points.

Bartlett Todd Double Winner.

Another 13-point winner yesterday was Bartlett Todd of Episcopal, who captured the low and high hurdles and took second in the 220-yard dash. Bartlett, incidentally, is a brother of Tom Todd, Episcopal ace of several years ago who won every event he entered two years ago and currently is the ace hurdler of the University of Virginia team.

Fred Dunn of Central also did some good sprinting yesterday, winning the 440 in 52.3 seconds, only one second off the inter-high record. He also ran anchor on the winning relay team.

Summary:

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Todd (E); second, Campbell (E); third, Peoples (C). Time: 1:30 seconds.

100-yard dash—Won by Williams (E); second, Wattman (C); third, Barclay (E). Time: 1:11 seconds.

Mile relay—Won by Samperton (C); second, Hadden (E); third, Winslow (C). Time: 4:55.8.

440 dash—Won by Dunn (C); second, Dobson (E); third, Wells (E). Time: 52.3 seconds.

220-yard low hurdles—Won by Todd (E); second, Williams (E); third, Peoples (C). Time: 2:04 seconds.

880-yard run—Won by Simons (C); second, Memm (E); third, Remon (C). Time: 2:09.0.

Mile relay—Won by Central (Chacos, Ward, Grosben, Dunn). Time: 3:38.4.

Shot-put—Won by Kurz (C); second, Miller (C); third, Scher (Navy). Distance: 51 feet 3 1/2 inches. (New Hoxton Field record. Old record was 50 feet 11 1/2 inches.)

Discus—Won by Gunn (C); second, Kurz (C); third, Chacos (C). Distance: 104 feet 10 1/2 inches.

Pole vault—Won by High (C); second, Brown (C); third, Roberts (C). Height: 10 feet 6 inches.

High jump—Won by Roberts (C); second, Coffey (C); third, Scher (Navy). Height: 6 feet 10 inches.

Low hurdles—Won by Kurz (C); second, Lavender (C); third, Rock (C). Distance: 15 1/2 feet, 3 1/2 inches.

Broad jump—Won by Brillhart (E); second, Bell (E); third, Coffey (E). Distance: 19 feet 2 1/2 inches.

Filchcock Transferred; May Become Aviator

Indications that Ex-Redskin Frank Filchcock will be flying a naval plane in the not-too-distant future were seen today as his transfer from the Navy's Recruiting Station to the Bureau of Aeronautics was announced.

Filchcock will be under another old football star, Lt. Comdr. Tom Hamilton, in charge of naval pre-flight physical training. It is assumed that the Redskin's former field general will be commissioned an ensign after serving the prescribed time for enlisted men and eventually be sent to the University of Georgia, training station for future flyers.

Green C. U. Track Team Debuts In Meet With Wake Forest

Catholic University's woefully green track team was to make its initial appearance of the season at Brookland this afternoon in a dual meet with Wake Forest starting at 3:30 o'clock. The Deacons replace Johns Hopkins, which cancelled its date with the Cards last week.

Coach Dorsey Griffith gave his charges only a scant chance of coping the honors, but welcomed the opportunity of a trial run before Saturday's triangular meet with Navy and Villanova at Annapolis. He expected to give several promising newcomers a careful inspection, hopeful of turning up a new star in some event. But Griffith had a multitude of problems to solve in order to fill out the lists.

Jimmy Zuppa, for example, has moved up from the sprints to the half-mile because of a recurring leg injury. He pulled a muscle twice in practice sprints, indicating he would be useless in those events. He wants to run, however, and Griffith needs half-milers. Ewing, along with him was to be Johnny Doyle, a miler of high caliber, and Jabby Jablonsky, a newcomer Doyle

DOWN AND OUT—Billy Robertson, George Washington catcher, hits the dirt in trying to go from first to third on Johnny Koniszewski's bingle in the third inning of yesterday's game with

A. U. Bows, but McNab on Slab Raises Prospects of Eagles

Does Bangup Job in Relief Role as G. W. Prevails by 10-9 With Help of Error

A deep-seated suspicion that the brand of pitching in metropolitan college ranks this season will be something less than ultra-ultra was confirmed partially yesterday as George Washington scraped out a 10-9 verdict over American University on the latter's field.

Maryland already has demonstrated its lack of tossing talent, while Georgetown, slated to make its debut today, is not too well fixed in this department. Catholic U. also is a question mark.

It was confirmed only partially because a youngster by the handle of Rube McNab, who won his diamond spurs at Washington-Lee High School and took a post-graduate course with the Heurich Brewers, turned in a Grade A stint for the Eagles after relieving Norman Byer. He gave up one solitary bingle in his four-and-two-thirds-inning trick and the winning run that trickled over the plate in the final inning was error-tainted.

McNab Displays Class.

McNab displayed all the earmarks of a good college hurler and against Mason-Dixon Conference competition he should be nothing short of sensational. He's tall and loose. He has a sharp-breaking curve and a fair change of pace. He doesn't rattle easily and when he stepped on the rubber you could see the lads behind him perk up like a pan of homemade biscuits. His poise gives his mates some much-needed confidence.

The Colonials, alas and alack, have only one chucker, Red Kloak, and when the broad-brained knuckleballer falls to pitch Coach Vinnie DeAngelis simply cocks a relief pitcher by the eery-neck-and-ninety-nine system. Yesterday moe was Bobby Gilham, the Colonial's crack second baseman, who pitched as though trying to pick off the batter on a double play. He snapped the ball with a tricky wrist motion, exciting some curiosity concerning his durability over the nine-inning route.

Aside from his pitching problem DeAngelis appears to be set in all other departments. Billy Robertson is just what the doctor ordered behind the plate. The infield is

Down to Semifinals, Badminton Players Take Night Off

Men, Women to Continue Battles for District Crowns Tomorrow

With both its singles fields reduced to semifinal proportions, the 1942 District badminton tournament at Kensington Armory will not resume until tomorrow night, when titlists in all five events are determined.

As expected, the women's division produced the most interesting results last night as two newcomers sprang into the limelight to challenge District Champion Charlotte Decker and last year's runnerup, Polly Thompson. Bernice Stamford, erstwhile Florida champ, defeated Margaret Graham to earn the right to play Miss Decker in the semifinals, while Elinore Behr, Maryland titleholder, eliminated Lillian Somerville to gain the bracket with Miss Thompson.

In fairness to the four losers in the quarter-finals, however, it must be pointed out that Mrs. Graham, Miss Somerville, Jane Stauffer, who lost to Miss Decker, and Roselyn Pope, beaten by Miss Thompson, all were playing their second matches of the evening against favored opponents who drew first-round byes.

Defending Champion Joel Baker is the only familiar name in the men's semifinal pairings, John Wilkinson, Lt. Bob Deacon and Danny Tarras being the remaining quarter-finalists. Baker and Wilkinson also made the doubles semifinals, with different partners—the champ teaming with Meckall and Wilkinson, Lt. Bob Deacon and Danny Tarras being the remaining quarter-finalists. Baker and Wilkinson also made the doubles semifinals, with different partners—the champ teaming with Meckall and Wilkinson, Lt. Bob Deacon and Danny Tarras being the remaining quarter-finalists. Baker and Wilkinson also made the doubles semifinals, with different partners—the champ teaming with Meckall and Wilkinson, Lt. Bob Deacon and Danny Tarras being the remaining quarter-finalists.

After women's and mixed doubles semifinalists are determined tomorrow night, semifinals in all classes will be played, setting the stage for the title matches on Saturday.

Last night's results:

Stock Market Down Fractions to More Than $2 a Share

War Reports Depress Prices; Volume at 325,000 Mark

By VICTOR EUBANK. NEW YORK, April 9.—Stocks continued to limp in today's market as the war news took on a somewhat more bearish appearance.

Fractions were shaved off leaders at the start and losses were extended eventually to as much as 2 or more points for probed blue chips.

Withdrawal of buyers, rather than pressure of offerings, turned trends downward. While there were brief lively intervals in the forenoon, dealings eventually reverted to sluggishness.

Speculative and investment sentiment seemed to be mainly by citizens' purchases indicating the virtual fall of patches to the Japanese.

Neither Western Union nor Postal Telegraph stocks rallied on the introduction of a bill in the Senate to permit consolidation of domestic telegraph companies.

New lows for one to four years were noted for Westinghouse, General Electric, and Bethlehem Steel.

Adverse war developments were blamed by investors for a general decline of fractions to more than a point in the bond market.

Going into the final hour only a handful of issues escaped the minus column, but trading remained comparatively light.

Bond Market Lower. War developments were blamed by investors for a general decline of fractions to more than a point in the bond market.

London Market About Steady At Close. LONDON, April 9.—Although a few sections of the stock market were affected today by budget fears, the general list was about steady.

Chicago Grain. CHICAGO, April 9.—The grain market opened today by budget fears from the Pacific, the favorable crop outlook, lagging farm demand and concern about availability of storage space later in the year.

Rail Shippers Warned To Help Speed Up Freight Cars. PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—Warren C. Kendall, chairman of the Association of American Railroads, said today that he anticipates a serious car shortage in 1942 despite the program heavily increased demands upon rail transportation.

Construction Awards Third Highest of Year to Date

Week's Volume Shows 77 Per Cent Jump From 1941 Mark

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, April 9.—Engineering construction volume for the week ending today totaled $246,344,000, the third highest of the year, Engineering News-Record reported today.

It topped last week by 130 per cent, was 77 per cent above the corresponding period of 1941 and was the twelfth consecutive weekly total to exceed the $100,000,000 mark.

Aggregates for the latest week with comparisons follow: Public. Last Yr. $232,572,000. $84,912,000. $88,825,000.

The current week's volume brings 1942 construction to $2,346,568,000, a 41 per cent increase over the corresponding 15-week period last year.

Private construction was 53 per cent below last year, but public work increased 75 per cent as a result of a 130 per cent gain in Federal work.

Rail Loadings Gain. The Association of American Railroads reported today that 828,890 cars of revenue freight were loaded during the week ending last Saturday.

This was an increase of 24,144 cars, or 3 per cent, compared with the preceding week; an increase of 145,468 cars, or 21.3 per cent, compared with a year ago, and an increase of 226,055 cars, or 37.5 per cent, compared with 1940.

The report classified the loadings, compared with last week and the corresponding week a year ago, as follows: This week. Last year. Miscellaneous. 378,656. 5,940. 25,359.

Washington Produce. BUTTER—93 score, tubs, 30 1/2; 1-pound prints, 40; 1/2-pound prints, 40 1/2.

New York Clearings

Down, but Others Gain Sharply

Total for 23 Cities Holds 5.7 Per Cent Above 1941 Week

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, April 9.—Bank clearings in this financial center last week again slipped below comparable 1941 figures, while other leading cities maintained substantial gains, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

The aggregate for 23 major cities in the week ended April 8 was $6,017,676,000, an increase of 5.7 per cent over the total for the corresponding week of 1941, although a drop of 9.4 per cent from the week ended April 1.

New York's total was $3,101,896,000, against $3,168,494,000 a year ago, a drop of 2.1 per cent. The other 22 cities reported $2,915,780,000, compared with $2,856,557,000 last year, a rise of 15.4 per cent.

Detroit made the best advance from 1941 figures with a rise of 48.8 per cent. Other large gains included Portland, Ore., 34.7 per cent; Pittsburgh, 29.4; Omaha, 26.7; Cleveland, 22.8, and Seattle, 22.7.

American Car To Appeal Ban On Dividend

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, April 9.—The American Car & Foundry Co. said in a letter to stockholders today that an appeal would be taken from the ruling of the New Jersey Chancery Court restraining the company from paying a $1 dividend on the common stock until preferred dividend arrears had been cleared up.

The New Jersey court handed down its decision in the case, brought by a holder of the preferred stock, earlier this week.

I. T. & T. Discloses Deficit of $193,218 For Last Year

Loss Contrasts With $27,219 Recorded During 1940

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, April 9.—The International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. reported today a consolidated net loss for 1941 of $193,218, compared with a profit of $27,219 for 1940.

The company noted that the 1940 figure included a dividend of $600,000 from International Standard Electric Corp. and commented: "No further dividends from that source are anticipated under present conditions."

The 1940 figures also were revised to exclude the accounts of the Shanghai Telephone Co. (which has subsidiaries in Europe and the Orient), which were not included in 1941 figures because of war conditions.

Operating revenue of the Wisconsin Power & Light Co. decreased $299,092 during 1941 as compared with the previous year, President Grover C. Neff reported to stockholders.

State and Federal tax increases amounting to approximately 35 per cent are listed as the principal reason for the decline.

Operating income dropped from $3,312,354.42 to $3,013,262.42. Neff, other officers and directors were re-elected.

Rail Officials Offer Little Encouragement To Grain Shippers

From Levels Near End of 1941

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, April 9.—The wheat farmer's old dream of a bumper crop with quotations well above a dollar a bushel seems about to materialize.

But that rosy dream of a few years ago has turned into just another nightmare. There's no place in the wheat belt to store the crop.

Wholesale Food Index Up Further in Week

Special Dispatch to the Star. NEW YORK, April 9.—Duplicating the 3-cent rise scored in the previous week, the wholesale food price index, compiled by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., went from $3.60 to $3.63 during the week ending April 7.

This marked a new high level for 16 years, or since June 17, 1926, when it was $3.66, and represented an increase of 32.0 per cent over the 1941 comparative of $2.75.

Fluctuations during the week revealed higher prices for oats, barley, hams, butter, molasses, steers and hogs. Commodities showing declines were wheat, corn, rye, mess pork, eggs and lamb.

Reds Break Through Northeast of Orel, Germans Admit

Line Restored, However, After Several Days of Fighting, Nazis Say

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), April 9.—A break-through by massed Russian infantry and tanks in German lines northeast of Orel was reported today by the Berlin radio, but it said that several days of hard fighting had restored the German line.

The daily high command communiqué said only that "in the central and northern sectors of the eastern front various powerful attacks by the enemy were repulsed." Orel is about 200 miles south of Moscow and slightly west.

The radio said the Russians managed to push back the Germans' advanced lines by pressure on three sides.

The radio, quoting the high command on still other action not included in today's communiqué, said isolated attacks by reinforced German infantry units had succeeded against Russian fortified positions, including one which lasted four days in which 100 fortified points were taken and a wooded area cleared of the Red Army.

Russian attacks in the Gulf of Finland on the island of Tytersaari, occupied by German and Finnish troops, collapsed and the Russians lost 270 dead, the German communiqué said.

On the Caucasian coast, the Germans said, Nazi bombers successfully attacked harbor installations and an oil refinery.

Between March 13 and April 8, the communiqué added, 133 enemy tanks were destroyed by gunfire on the eastern front.

139 German Transport Planes Are Destroyed

KUBYSHEV, Russia, April 9 (AP).—Soviet flyers and ground gunners were reported today to have destroyed 139 Nazi transport planes assigned to supply isolated northwestern front units in three days of a 10-day period which cost the Germans a total of 545 aircraft.

Both land and sea activity also was officially noted.

Evidence that Germany is rushing new aircraft into war service was announced in a communiqué.

"Anti-aircraft men of one unit shot down a Junkers 88 (dive bomber) which was released from the factory February 22, 1942, No. 6719," it said. "Men of this group a few days later shot down three more planes released by the factory in March, 1942. One airman who bailed out was captured."

Infantrymen on a Kalinin front sector, attacked by numerically superior forces, were declared to have crippled several Nazi tanks by well-organized fire and then routed the Germans with a bayonet attack.

"Our orders counted on the battlefield 450 dead German officers and soldiers, the communiqué said. It said German troops were driven from a central front village after fighting which left the approaches littered with their dead. At least 300 Germans were killed, three tanks were destroyed and four were captured in running condition, it reported, in the repulse of an armored counterattack on another sector.

The Soviet Information Bureau said Axis efforts to get fresh troops and munitions into the Arctic Murmansk sector suffered another setback with sinking of two transporters, rated at 5,500 and 10,500 tons, by Red Navy units in the Barents Sea.

On the southwestern front the Germans were said to be throwing tanks into battle in groups of from 5 to 10—many of them of 1942 make and all bearing war paint designed to blend with a greening countryside in the spring campaign.

The newspaper Red Star said 18

Invasion transport planes were shot down and 123 demolished on the ground from last Friday through Sunday in the Soviet effort to win full control of the Lake Ilmen area, where the 16th German Army is declared encircled.

Prisoners taken in the same area reported heavy aircraft had been transferred from France and North Africa to help relieve the food and munitions shortages at key bases.

By information bureau accounts 545 German planes of all types have been shot down or wrecked on the ground in the 10 days through Wednesday, against Russian losses of 117.

New Church Unit Decides To Ignore Both Councils

By the Associated Press.
ST. LOUIS, April 9.—Delegates attending an executive meeting of a new co-operative church body, temporarily named United Action Among Evangelicals, voted yesterday to proceed with their own organization instead of uniting with the Federal Council of Churches or the American Council of Christian Churches.

Committees were appointed to decide on a permanent name for the organization and to prepare a statement of faith and purpose.

Dr. Robert G. Lee, pastor of the Bellevue Baptist Church of Memphis, Tenn., was elected chairman of the conference.

The Rev. J. Edwin Wright of Rumney, N. H., one of the United Action founders, said the organization "is not in sympathy" with the Federal Council, declaring "20,000,000 church members" do not regard it as truly representative. But "neither does it subscribe to the policy" of the American Council in carrying on attacks against the Federal Council, Mr. Wright explained.

Uncle Sam needs waste paper.

11 Enemy Aliens in Ohio Held on Contraband Charge

By the Associated Press.
CINCINNATI, April 9.—Eleven enemy aliens, six of them women, were held today for preliminary hearing on charges of possessing short wave radios, arms, and other contraband.

The hearing is to determine if they should be held for the Alien Enemy Control Board and possible internment, or permitted to return to their homes in Dayton.

Ban on Building To Have Little Effect in D. C.

Most Construction In Area Considered Vital to War

Although the War Production Board's drastic order blocking virtually all new construction work except for the war effort will shut the door on most building operations in non-defense areas, builders and Government housing officials believe it will have little effect on construction in "critical" areas such as Washington.

The W. P. B. order, which becomes effective today, prohibited any residential construction other than maintenance and repair work if the cost was more than $500 or more. Forbade any new agricultural construction of $1,000 or more, and specified that no other types of construction—commercial, industrial, recreational, institutional, highway or utilities, whether publicly or privately financed—could be started if the cost was more than $5,000.

The only exceptions were in cases where specific Government permission might be granted.

May Aid Defense Housing.

Spokesmen for builders here pointed out that there is only a relatively small amount of construction now under way in Washington which cannot be linked to the war effort, and they predicted that the order would benefit the defense housing programs in critical areas by releasing labor and material now being used on non-essential construction. Projects already under construction will be permitted to continue, under terms of the order, but W. P. B. emphasized that these projects will be examined individually and may be stopped "if the scarce materials to be used in them can be put to more effective use in the war program."

Persons who have been planning to build homes, but have not actually started construction, simply are out of luck for the time being— even though they may have the materials they need to build—unless they can show that the projects are of an essential nature.

No change was made in the order in existing regulations permitting construction of residences, costing up to $6,000, in defense housing critical areas specifically designated by the Government.

On Previous Lists.

The District has been on all previous lists of critical defense housing areas, and recently the War Production Board improved the priority rating for home construction by private builders here.

Maurice Massey, administration officer of the Federal Housing Administration, said the W. P. B. order was needed to make effective the present priorities system, and declared it meant virtually the end of all building not covered by priority orders.

James C. Wilkes, counsel for the Home Builders Association of Metropolitan Washington, said the order would have the effect of making available many construction workers now employed on projects in non-defense areas, "thus relieving what might have developed into a critical shortage of labor in defense areas."

Reservoir of Labor.

Mr. Wilkes also believes that, with new supplies of workers available for employment in critical areas, private builders here may not be forced, in order to secure labor, to pay the higher scale recently set by the Labor Department for publicly-financed defense housing. Without the anticipated new reservoir of labor to draw on, private builders would either have to pay "practically" that minimum wage or be forced out of business, Mr. Wilkes said.

The W. P. B. order was characterized by J. S. Cowan, district sales manager for the National Electric Products Corp., as a "freezing regulation" to halt non-essential construction "until we can find out where we're going."

Virtually Suspends Construction.

W. P. B. Chairman Donald M. Nelson said the order would virtually "suspend the civilian construction industry" for the duration. The Labor Department estimated overall 1942 construction at $10,473,000,000, of which $3,348,000,000 was of a non-defense character. The department estimated 1942 construction at $10,750,000,000, with $3,650,000,000 of this amount going for non-defense work. W. P. B. gave no indication of how much of the 1942 non-defense work would be eliminated.

The $500 limit on residential construction applies to a full year; that is, an owner may not spend $500 on a dwelling and later make another $500 outlay on the same building. Similar restrictions apply to farms and other construction maximums.

Exempt from the order are projects built for the armed forces and a group of other named Government agencies; construction to replace residences destroyed since January 1, by fire, flood, tornado, earthquake, or other natural causes; and petroleum producing and distributing facilities which are provided for in earlier W. P. B. actions.

The result of the order, W. P. B. said, will be to allocate scarce copper, steel, iron and other materials "away from unnecessary construction and into ships, planes, tanks, guns, defense housing and other essential production."

Applications to start new construction in non-defense areas must be filed with local offices of the Federal Housing Administration on forms obtainable from F. H. A. local offices or from W. P. A. district offices.

F. H. A. Officer to Decide.

The F. H. A. local officer will decide whether a project is eligible for recommendation to W. P. B.

If so, the application will go forward to W. P. B.'s production division, headed by William H. Harrison, for final consideration.

Basement Defense Factory Is D. C. Policeman's 'Sideline'

Pvt. John Magnus Makes Submarine Detector Parts

By J. A. O'LEARY, Jr.

A Norwegian-born Washington policeman, besides putting in eight hours a day guarding the Japanese Embassy, also runs a one-man defense industry of the first importance—a basement factory for the manufacture of parts for submarine detectors under United States Government contract.

Pvt. John Magnus, a member of the police force 13 years, is detailed with the 13th precinct, and has long had a reputation in the department for being handy with tools.

Before Pvt. Magnus' attack on Pearl Harbor, Japan had converted this talent into a thriving little business—that of manufacturing pumps. After the war started, however, Pvt. Magnus began to wonder how he could serve his country best.

With a little calculation he discovered he could convert his pump-manufacturing tools and dies to the manufacture of parts essential for submarine detectors. The Navy was busy in need of such parts.

After a series of talks with the Navy, Pvt. Magnus had contracts for making these parts. He makes them in his own basement by the thousands. Just how many parts he has made, or will make, must remain a secret. He has sold them and has received the highest priorities for receiving essential metals and materials.

Now Pvt. Magnus has discovered he can convert part of his output into gun parts for which there is also a dire need.

During his 13 years with the department, Pvt. Magnus has received six commendations. Joining the private, Class 4, detailed to the Detective Bureau, in 1935. He began his career at No. 10 precinct.

He was born in Norway in 1900. He is married, and is a former salesman. He makes his home in the 3300 block of Eighth street N.W.

Pepco Merger With Holding Firm Planned

Proposal Revealed At P. U. C. Hearing On Stock Issue

By DON S. WARREN.

Merge of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and its subsidiary, the Potomac Electric Power Co., is being planned by officials of the companies, the Public Utilities Commission was told today as company and commission representatives battled over a proposed $3,000,000 Pepco stock issue to its parent company to raise needed funds.

Also involved in plans for the consolidation is the Washington & Rockville Railway Co., of Montgomery County, which, like Wreco, is a holding company.

Plans for the consolidations were outlined briefly by William K. Laws, Pepco counsel, as he asked the commission for approval of the company petition to sell 30,000 shares of common stock to Wreco at $100 per share.

Mr. Laws said the company is holding company, which, like Wreco, is a holding company. Plans for the consolidations were outlined briefly by William K. Laws, Pepco counsel, as he asked the commission for approval of the company petition to sell 30,000 shares of common stock to Wreco at $100 per share.

North American Question Raised. There were recurring battles at today's hearing over instant inquiries made by Commission Chairman Gregory Hankin into connections of the North American Co., a giant holding corporation, with Washington utility companies. The proposed Pepco stock issue, North American owns 34.55 per cent of the voting stock (common stock) of Wreco and Wreco owns all of the common stock of the power company.

Mr. Neal, president of both Pepco and Wreco, said the company would need $3,000,000 in the next three years for expansion and capital improvements. For the first month of this year, he said, the power company has need of funds for financing expansion projects costing $4,263,000. He said materials are being made available for this schedule, but that there may be question as to how much material will be available thereafter.

Would Bring More From Public.

Chairman Hankin raised the question as to whether the sale of the 30,000 shares of Pepco stock to its parent company, under a waiver of the commission's competitive bidding rule on utility stock issues, would constitute a "stock dividend" under the Federal Reserve Act. Mr. Hankin said the stock value above $100 per share.

He argued that the 30,000 shares, if sold to the public, might bring in something near $15,000,000, instead of $3,000,000, the price proposed by the company. Mr. Hankin brought the North American Co. into the hearing by asking what would become of stockholders if the P. U. C. or the S. E. C. or the courts held, at some future time, that the North American holdings in Wreco were not public utility securities.

Col. Kutz's Views Criticized. Before he departed, Mr. Regan held a brief, spirited discussion with other citizens who objected to his attitude concerning the forum, and at one time shook his umbrella toward the commission chairman.

The exchange followed an explanation by Mr. Hankin that some matters before the commission had been delayed because he and the other two members, James H. Flanagan and Col. W. Kutz, could not agree. He told the approximately 30 association representatives present that he was going to continue to write minority opinions on certain matters "because that is the only way I can convey to the public that it is not a cut-and-dried affair. E. C. or the courts held, at some future time, that the North American holdings in Wreco were not public utility securities."

Commissioners Will Favor Sales Tax, Says Mason. The District Commissioners will favor a sales tax to help the city meet its added war burdens, Commissioner Mason yesterday told the Independent Theater Owners of Washington when he spoke at the Variety Club.

He indicated this kind of levy would help to take care of the 400,000 "persons who enjoy District privileges without supporting them." Real estate taxes, he said, were at the peak, and the sales tax appeared to be the next logical source of revenue.

"At any rate," he said "this will help the people who manage to escape the income tax."

Commissioner Mason presented a plea to the owners of the Independent Theater from the Jay Emanuel Publications Co. of Philadelphia in recognition of the quality of construction of the theater. The building was recognized as one of the 36 best constructed throughout the country during 1941. Receiving the plaque were Fred Kogod and Max Burks, owners of the theater.

G. H. A. Will Present Three Health Forums. Group Health Association will hold three forums on health subjects in the National Archives auditorium next Wednesday. Dr. Russell P. Cahoon, assistant medical director, will talk on "Medical Care," emphasizing preventive measures.

On April 29 Dr. Robert D. Ralph will discuss "Colds and Sinusitis" and on May 13 Dr. Henry H. Lichtenberg will talk on "Child Care." All sessions will begin at 8 p.m. and a half-hour question period will follow the talks.

Dr. Williams to Speak. Dr. Faith Williams, chief of the Dept. of Living Division of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, will be the speaker tomorrow night at the fifth free public lecture on problems of the war emergency sponsored by the graduate school of Howard University. The lecture will begin at 8 p.m. in Douglas Hall.

Citizens' Unit Leader Walks Out After Row At Board's Forum

Hot Exchange Features Discussion of Utilities Commission Differences

Blister criticism of Gregory Hankin, Public Utilities Commission chairman, for airing intra-commission squabbles at a public forum on commission activities resulted tonight in a leader of a large citizens' association walking out of the forum meeting.

Thomas W. Regan, chairman of the Public Utilities Committee of the MacArthur Boulevard Citizens' Association, engaged in a hot exchange with Mr. Hankin and others at the session, contending that the main purpose of the forum should be to solve citizens' problems and not to hear a presentation of difference of views held by commission members.

This provoked a reply from Mr. Hankin that "if you have come here to solve your problems, you're in the wrong place. This is a public forum to discuss what is going on in the commission."

"Then I'll leave," said Mr. Regan, walking toward the door.

Col. Kutz's Views Criticized.

Before he departed, Mr. Regan held a brief, spirited discussion with other citizens who objected to his attitude concerning the forum, and at one time shook his umbrella toward the commission chairman.

The exchange followed an explanation by Mr. Hankin that some matters before the commission had been delayed because he and the other two members, James H. Flanagan and Col. W. Kutz, could not agree. He told the approximately 30 association representatives present that he was going to continue to write minority opinions on certain matters "because that is the only way I can convey to the public that it is not a cut-and-dried affair. E. C. or the courts held, at some future time, that the North American holdings in Wreco were not public utility securities."

Col. Kutz did little more than to object to the attitude of Col. Kutz that if the public wanted anything it should be granted without a hearing.

The chairman emphasized that his charge against Col. Kutz was not a personal attack, but that he was merely trying to explain to the people what was going on in the commission.

When he took over the chairmanship, he added, "I announced at the first meeting of this kind and held that I would work chiefly for the interest of the people. There seems to be a difference of opinion if the commission as to what constitutes public interest."

Pepco Hearing Cited.

The chairman explained that he referred primarily to the P. U. C. hearing scheduled today on the Potomac Electric Power Co. application for authority to issue 30,000 shares of capital stock to the Washington Railway & Electric Co. at $100 a share. He said the stock actually had a value of between $50 and $60, representing between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000 profit. He pointed out that the hearing on the issuance, which he described as the same thing as issuing a stock dividend at close to $50 a share, will be held without a representative of the public in attendance.

The meeting adjourned immediately after a brief fight between Mr. Flanagan and Harry Wender, representing the Southwest Citizens' Association. Mr. Flanagan called Mr. Wender's complaint concerning lack of public representation by counsel at P. U. C. meetings as "silly and uttered as such the commission acted without a grain of sense."

A majority of the forum session was taken up with a report by Mr. Hankin on varied activities of the commission. He discussed tightening of regulations on taxicabs, efforts of taxicab companies to remedy the transportation situation due to shortage of cabs, and announced that the traffic survey now being conducted would be completed by the next forum.

Propaganda Grand Jury Hears Six Witnesses.

Half a dozen witnesses were on hand today to testify before the special District grand jury inquiring into foreign propaganda and the activities of alien agents.

William Power Maloney, special assistant to the Attorney General, had the subpoenas issued for their appearance today. Mr. Maloney is assisting the grand jury.

The suit charged that R. E. (Dick) Pessey struck Dean Ransom in the Davidson County Courthouse last February 26 when the educator appeared to petition for dismissal of a criminal case on grounds no colored persons had served on the jury.

The county grand jury earlier this week declined to indict Mr. Pessey for assault and battery.

100 D. C. Cabs Get Stretchers In Test of Ambulance Service

One hundred Diamond cabs yesterday were equipped with collapsible stretchers in a preliminary test of a proposed new ambulance service for the District.

If the 13-pound stretchers, made of iron and cloth and carried in a slim case, prove of practical use to the 100 drivers in transporting traffic accident and emergency sickness cases, said Harry Davis, company manager, all its 1,000 cabs may be equipped with them.

The company is trying out the stretchers as a result of its realization that its cabs carry as many sick and injured persons as do District ambulances, Mr. Davis said. Drivers should be equipped with the means and the knowledge, he said, to carry these persons to a hospital if an ambulance does not come rapidly enough or is not available.

All 100 drivers now equipped with stretchers are being given first-aid instruction, Mr. Davis said. The stretchers might lead to a new type ambulance service, he said, in which a person could simply call the cab company and ask for a stretcher taxicab.

The stretchers can be adjusted to carry any injured person, including one with a back or pelvis injury. They are equipped with straps to keep the patient from moving.

For a Stronger America—

Randolph Asks Schools to Push Physical Training Program

House Leader Sees Health Plan as Wartime Duty

(Twenty-First of a Series.)

By JOHN W. THOMPSON, Jr.

It was almost a year ago—May 19, 1941 to be exact—that Representative Jennings Randolph of West Virginia, disturbed by the heavy rejection of men for physical defects of correctable nature, wrote Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of Selective Service.

"A definite program should and must be undertaken to correct these physical shortcomings as soon as possible."

Mr. Randolph added that it was not enough to find the defects, but something had to be done about them. This, he said, seemed part of a good national preparedness program.

Gen. Hershey Pushes Plan. From this early interest in the physical fitness of the Nation's man power stems the interest of the chairman of the House District Committee in using the schools to help solve the problem.

America the way the War Department and Gen. Hershey would like to see it toughened.

Even apart from the war obligation of the schools to provide physically fit men and women, Mr. Randolph observed, physical fitness of the Nation's man power is a national problem. Physically fit boys and girls miss fewer classes from sickness and are able to do a better job on the rest of their education.

In connection with the desire of the House to help solve the problem of physical fitness in all senior high schools the program now operating only at Calvin Coolidge High School and partially at two other schools, the District Committee chairman said he hoped it could be broadened.

Five-Sport Man at College.

The West Virginian, who played five sports at Salem College, of which he now is a trustee, stressed the importance of school physical examinations by which parents are notified of defects and can have the family doctor or dentist correct them.

Mr. Randolph keeps himself fit these days playing tennis, using the House gym on in his 7½-year-old son, in whose physical well-being he is vitally interested. Swimming, incidentally, was one of the activities recommended by the War Department for increased physical fitness.

He said he would like to see in the schools a sound program pushed to the fullest extent.

Family Service Group Elects New Officers.

Woodson P. Houghton was re-elected president of the board of the Family Service Association at the annual meeting of the association last night at the headquarters, 1022 Eleventh street N.W.

David E. Finley and G. Howland Chase were named vice presidents, James Parker Nolan, treasurer, and William H. Savin, secretary.

New members elected to the board were Charles Elmore Cropley and Dr. Charles W. Wesley. Re-elected for three-year terms were Mr. Finley, Mrs. E. K. Morris, Miss Marion Shouse, Evan H. Tucker, Dr. Mollie Ray Carroll, Dr. Howard H. Long, Miss Sarah F. Schroeder, G. Howland Chase and Mrs. Prentiss Wilson.

Mr. Houghton, president of the board since 1938, reported 1943 families aided during 1941, with the association obliged to decline 1,098 applications. While regretting that the association lacked facilities to provide "the ounce of prevention" which might have helped the applicants, Mr. Houghton said the lower number of appeals reflected a community improvement over the previous two years, when more than 2,000 applications had to be turned down.

Four Alarm Fire Damages Stores And Apartments

Two Firemen Hurt In $20,000 Blaze on Wisconsin Avenue

A four-alarm fire broke out early today in a two-story brick building at Wisconsin avenue and Macomb street N.W. and did considerable damage to four stores and apartments above them before being brought under control.

Dense smoke hampered firemen and forced them to don masks. One ambulance does not come rapidly enough or is not available. One required hospital treatment, and another was given first aid at the scene.

Unofficial estimates placed damage at upwards of $20,000.

Breaks Out in Basement. According to firemen, the blaze broke out in the basement of Fred Burk's building on the southeast corner of Wisconsin avenue and Macomb street, then spread to the University Pastry Shop, Macomb Delicatessen and Center Shoe Store, all facing on Macomb street. The next establishment, a barber shop operated by Ralph L. Simmons, suffered water damage.

Tenants of the second-floor apartments reached the street safely before the fire gained headway.

Firemen sounded the extra alarms in rapid succession after their arrival in order to insure of ample equipment and men. Extra-alarm fires have been more frequent in recent months, because less equipment responds to each alarm as a conservation measure.

One of the No. 29 Engine Company was admitted to Georgetown Hospital for treatment of the effects of smoke. J. W. Bunch of No. 16 Engine Company caught a bit of debris in an eye while tearing away part of the ceiling in order to insure stores and given first aid by Dr. J. A. Reed.

Hundreds at Scene.

The fire was discovered shortly after 12:30 a.m., and arrival of apparatus attracted hundreds of spectators. A dozen or more streetcars piled up, halted by engines and hose lines.

Flames shot into the upper part of the building when firemen broke through the door of the liquor store. Dimitri Farserotu, proprietor of the store, estimated damage to his store at $10,000.

Deputy Fire Marshal R. C. Roberts was investigating today in an effort to determine cause of the blaze.

Army Committee, Mrs. William Ayres Borden and Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, chairmen—$2,000.

Navy Committee, Mrs. Emory Scott Land, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Alfred Johnson—$3,400.

Associations Committee, Mrs. Eugene Byrnes and Mrs. Reeve Lewis, chairmen—$7,000.

Education Committee, Mrs. Philip Sidney Smith, chairman—$4,500.

Orchestra Guild, Mrs. Charles Bittinger, chairman—$11,000.

Suburban Committee, Mrs. Edwin B. Parker and Mrs. Robert Le Fevre, chairmen—$4,000.

Campaign headquarters have been established in the orchestra's business office in the Woodward Building, Fifteenth and H streets N.W.

Byron Egbert Blodgett, 61, well known Washington musician, died yesterday at the Washington Sanitarium in Takoma Park. He made his home at 40 Poplar avenue, Takoma Park.

A native of Stockbridge, Wis., Mr. Blodgett came to Takoma Park more than 50 years ago. After his marriage he lived in Washington for 15 years, returning later to Takoma Park.

Mr. Blodgett was organist at Metropolitan Presbyterian Church when he first came to Washington and also served as organist at Ingham Memorial Church and the Third Christian Scientist Church. More recently he was organist for the Western Presbyterian Church.

He was accompanist for leading singers here on many occasions. During the last war he was with the United States Housing Corp. For many years he was employed in the Drouot Co. music store.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Minnie Blodgett, he is survived by his father, Elbert E. Blodgett.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Takoma Wood Cemetery.

Stars of Hollywood To Give Benefit Show Here April 30

Army-Navy Relief Fund Program Would Be First On Nation-wide Tour

Announcement that Hollywood stars would give a 2½-hour show here on the night of April 30 for the benefit of Army-Navy Relief was made today at a meeting of the Special Events Committee of that inter-service relief organization.

The plan, in which a dozen or more movie stars, supported by a nationally-known dance band, would make Washington the first stop on a 13-city tour, was described in detail by Mac Kriendler, representing the Hollywood committee which conceived the idea.

Stars Not Yet Chosen. Although the identity and number of film artists to appear is indefinite, Mr. Kriendler said the "Hollywood Victory Caravan," as it would be known, probably would include Bette Davis, Irene Dunne, Charles Boyer, Cary Grant, Burgess Meredith and James Cagney. He intimated that Kay Kyser's orchestra would accompany them.

Mr. Kriendler emphasized that the show was not to be of the ordinary type but a thoroughly planned and timed vaudeville production. The stars, of course, would headline each act.

The local committee, headed by H. Gabriel Murphy, hopes to obtain the Capitol Theater for the show. Although April 30 falls on a Thursday, always the first day of the Capitol's new show, a theater official intimated he would be willing to waive its customary weekly opening for the benefit.

White House Tea Planned. Prices for the show, which members of the committee predicted would be the "greatest night's entertainment in the Capitol's history," will start at $1.50. It is planned to solicit the service of such organizations as the Junior League, Army and Navy Relief and other civic groups in selling tickets.

Mrs. Roosevelt and Vice President Wallace are expected to attend in addition to all members of the cabinet and highest ranking officers of all military services.

After showing here, the caravan will appear in Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Des Moines, Oklahoma City, Dallas and Houston.

A tea for the actors at the White House on the afternoon of April 30 will precede the performance.

G. U. Club Fencing Meet Will Be Held April 21

The annual spring fencing festival of the Georgetown University Club will be sponsored by members of the diplomatic corps of Latin America and by Washington society leaders at Georgetown University at 8:30 p.m. April 21.

Several leading fencing clubs of Eastern colleges have been invited to take part. Among these are V. M. I., Temple, Gettysburg, Cornell, Princeton, Harvard, George Washington and Woodberry Forest. Also on the program will be some of the leading fencers of the District and some of the leading women fencers of the East. The Georgetown club is led by Clarence H. Simmons, Jr., of Guatemala.

Tickets for the festival can be obtained at the office of the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University either directly or by mail. Several hundred seats have been donated by the fencing club to the U. S. O. it was announced.

Defense bonds are your best investment.

United Women of Americas Will Present Medal to Mrs. Roosevelt Today

Ceremony to Take Place At White House; Dr. Rowe, Mrs. Whitehurst Honored

The continuous procession of distinguished men from our neighbor republics to the south has aroused great interest in this Capital and now Washington is entertaining a group of outstanding women from our sister republics. The members of the United Women of the Americas, who are here for the presentation of medals to Mrs. Roosevelt, Dr. Leo S. Rowe and Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, are being entertained considerably during their stay here.

This afternoon Mrs. Roosevelt will receive them at 3:30 o'clock at the White House, when they will present her with the emblem which bears the inscription "All America United for Victory" and displays the American continent resting on a large V. The medal is executed in gold, white and blue enamel on silver.

The presentation to Dr. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union, took place this morning at the union. After the ceremony the visitors were entertained at luncheon which Mrs. Whitehurst gave at the Mayflower. Mrs. Whitehurst is president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and her guests of honor included Senora Evangelina Antay de Vaughan, former president of the United Women of the Americas; Senora Maria Jose de Valentine of Venezuela, originator of the emblem; Senora Mina Kerr de Roe, vice president of the United Women of the Americas; Senora Rosa Garibaldi, representing the Peruvian government in arts and cultures; Senora Flora Mora de Giro, Cuban pianist; Senora Luzmila Cordova, teacher of manual arts; Senora Josefina Arias of Panama, Senora Susana de Vance, Senora Adelaida de Planas of Ecuador, Mrs. Edith Staver, vice president of the United Women of Americas in charge of educational activities, and Miss Elaine O'Crowley, vice president of the United Women of the Americas.

Invited to meet the visitors at luncheon were Senora de Troncoso, Senora de Caceres and Senora de Castro, wives of the Ministers from the Dominican Republic, Costa Rica and El Salvador; Senora de Sarmiento, Senora de Lozada, Senora de Col and Senora Minerva Bernardino, vice chairman of the Inter-American Commission of Women.

Senora Bernardino To Be Hostess at Tea.

Senora Bernardino will be hostess at tea this afternoon, entertaining in her home at 2013 New Hampshire avenue. During their stay the visitors will be entertained informally by the diplomatic representatives of their countries.

Accompanying the visitors to the White House this afternoon will be Senora Bernardino, Senora de Lozada, delegate of Bolivia to the Inter-American Commission, and Senora de Castro, delegate from El Salvador.

Senor Dasso, Peruvian Official, Here for Parleys.

The Minister of Finance of Peru, Senor David Dasso, has arrived in Washington for conferences with officials and is staying at the Carlton. Accompanying him is a technical adviser, Senor Pedro Betran, and several secretaries who also are staying at the Carlton. The former Minister of Public Works of Peru, Senor Pedro Boza, also is here for conferences and numerous parties will be given for the visitors before their stay is ended. The Minister of Finance, Senor Dasso, and Senor Boza will dine and lunch informally with the Ambassador, Senor Don Manuel de Freyre y Santander, who is dean of the diplomatic corps, but the guests will be small in number and the parties will be very informal.

Later in their visit there will be larger parties and among the hosts will be the Commercial Counselor of the Embassy and Senora de Chavez, who have set no day for the party.

Dr. Luis Alberto Sanchez To Be Honored at Dinner.

Dr. Luis Alberto Sanchez, who will give a lecture at the Pan-American Union this evening, will be the guest of honor at dinner before the talk when Mr. Charles A. Thomson, chief of the Division of Cultural Relations of the State Department, will entertain at the Hay-Adams. The dinner set for an early hour so Dr. Sanchez may deliver his lecture at 8:30 o'clock. Invitations to the lecture were issued by the director general of the Pan-American Union and the assistant director general, Dr. Pedro de Alba. Dr. Sanchez, who is one of the gifted speakers of Latin America, has chosen as his subject "Tradition in Latin American Literature," and will speak in Spanish. He is a native of Peru, and since 1934 has been assistant director of the "Ercilla," a publishing house in Santiago, Chile, and before that he was a member of the faculty of the University of San Marcos in Lima, one of the oldest and most famous educational centers on the South American continent. In more recent years Dr. Sanchez has lectured at the University of Concepcion in Chile and at La Plata and Buenos Aires Universities in Argentina. In addition he was very active in cultural circles of Cuba and Panama.

The Minister of Foreign Affairs of Nicaragua, Senor Mariano Arguella Vargas, returned to Washington yesterday accompanied by the Minister, Senor Dr. Don Leon DeBayle, after spending the Easter week end in New York. Senora de DeBayle and Senora Rosita Arguella, daughter of the Minister of Foreign Affairs, will remain in New York until later in the week. The Foreign Minister was host at luncheon today at the Mayflower, his guests including a group of officials and diplomats.

Miss Anne Mitchell Wed To Mr. J. J. Rooney, 2d

Ceremony Is Performed In Home of Bride's Parents

Miss Anne C. Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Morsell Mitchell of Chevy Chase, D. C., and Mr. John Jerome Rooney, 2d, son of Mrs. John Rooney of Washington, were married Saturday evening. The wedding took place in the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. Alvin Lamar Willis officiating at 8 o'clock. The improvised candlelit altar was arranged in front of the fireplace with fern, palms and baskets of pastel colored spring flowers. Miss Adelaide Fickus, pianist, played the wedding music. Mr. Mitchell gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride wore ivory duchess satin designed on princess lines, soft shirring fitting the bodice into a low waistline and tiny satin covered buttons marked the bodice from neck to waist in the back. The gored skirt fell into a long train and the sweetheart neckline was embroidered in pearls. Her finger-length veil was arranged in a "Mary Queen of Scots" headpiece with clusters of orange blossoms at each side and she carried a white prayer book covered with white gardenias and from the markers fell cascades of white sweet peas. Her only ornament was a gold cross.

Miss Eleanor Louise Grunwell was maid of honor and Miss Dorothy Lee Mitchell, 11-year-old sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. The former wore lavender embroidered organza with sweetheart neckline and full skirt. She carried yellow tulle roses. Young Miss Mitchell was in yellow organza made with ruffled skirt and shirred bodice and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of spring blossoms. They each wore a gold cross, the gift of the bride.

Mr. Edwin S. Dobyns was best man and the groomman was Mr. C. Kenneth Mitchell, brother of the bride. The reception was held in the home of the bride's parents after which Mr. and Mrs. Rooney left on their eastern wedding trip. After the middle of next week they will be at home at 960 Randolph street N.W.

Guests from out of town included Mrs. O. B. Bucklew, Terra Alta, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Mitchell, Jamestown, N. Y.; Mrs. Agnes Ward, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Mr. James Engard, Richmond, and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Cliff and daughter Winifred, Binghamton, N. Y.

Littells Fete Guests Assistant Attorney General and Mrs. Norman M. Littell have with them for several days in their home in Arlington Capt. and Mrs. Peter Taylor of Ottawa, Canada.

Miss King Plans Tea

Miss Nancy Page King, subdelegate daughter of the Special Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue and Mrs. Eidon P. King will entertain at a tea Sunday afternoon for members of the younger set.

Miss Mary Reed Becomes Bride of Mr. R. E. Green

The marriage of Miss Mary Jane Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Decatur Reed, to Mr. Richard Etter Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Lester Green, took place Thursday, April 2, in the home of the bride's parents.

The arrangements for the ceremony were marked with simplicity. Mrs. Marie Deal sang a solo before the reading of the 3 o'clock ceremony by the Rev. Alvin Lamar Willis. The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. She wore a becoming street-length gown of aqua crepe, a small hat of white gardenias with a face veil and she carried a white prayer book with a cluster of orchids.

Archduke Otto Feted by Doyles

Archduke Otto of Austria was the guest of honor at luncheon yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. Denis Conan Doyle, who entertained at the Mayflower. Other guests included, in addition to the Archduke's aide de camp, Count Czernin, Senator and Mrs. Claude Pepper, the Undersecretary of the Interior and Mrs. John J. Dempsey, Mr. and Mrs. Grothmann Gertling, Mr. and Mrs. George Baker of San Francisco, who are here for a part of the spring season and are staying at the Mayflower; Mr. and Mrs. Drew Pearson, Mrs. Merrill Meigs, Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer, Mrs. Lionel Atwill, Miss Vera Bloom, Mr. Orme Wilson, Mr. Clarence Haves and Mr. Igor Cassini.

Georgetown Tour Awaited

In the early days of Georgetown the block bounded by the streets now called Q and R, Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth, was known as Mackall Square, for it was there, set aloof under sheltering trees, that Benjamin Mackall built a home for his bride, Christiana Beall.

Today the old Colonial brick house on this site, one of the oldest and loveliest in Georgetown, is the home of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Bradley, one of those to be shown on Saturday, April 18, the second day of the tour of old Georgetown houses, sponsored by St. John's Episcopal Church in Georgetown for the benefit of its social service department.

The famous Miss Sally Mackall, who for many years presided over the house on the corner of this square, had the address "Mackall Square" engraved on her cards until the day of her death, keeping alive the old name long after the streets bore their present alphabetical and numerical designations.

Although the entrance to the old house is on Twenty-ninth street, it looks across Twenty-eighth street to Evermay, so that Mrs. Bradley, who was Murray Hume, can look over at the place where she was born and played as a child right in the heart of Georgetown, for both places are part of the original "Rock of Dumbarton."

Among the other houses to be shown on Saturday are those of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Friendly, 1644 Thirty-first street, the old Clarence Dodge home; Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss Cooney, 1537 Twenty-eighth street; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Munson, 3112 O street; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Cotton, Jr., 1308 Twenty-ninth street; Mr. and Mrs. David E. Finley, 3318 O street, and others.

Miss Ellen McCallie To Wed Ensign

Dr. and Mrs. Spencer Jarnagin McCallie of Chattanooga, Tenn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ellen Douglas McCallie, to Ensign Richard Lull Cochran, U. S. N., of Washington. Dr. McCallie is headmaster of McCallie Preparatory School in Chattanooga. Miss McCallie, after attending Agnes Scott College in Georgia, was graduated from the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts. She attended for a year the School of Professional Art, where she studied interior architecture.

Ensign Cochran is the son of Capt. Edward L. Cochran, U. S. N., and Mrs. Cochran of this city. He is the grandson of the late Brig. Gen. Henry Clay Cochran, U. S. M. C., and the great-grandson of the late Capt. Edward Phelps Lull, U. S. N. Ensign Cochran was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1940. The wedding will take place later this month.

Mme. de Kauffmann Aids Scottish Fete

Mme. de Kauffmann, wife of the Minister of Denmark, is among those acting as hostesses today at "Scottish Week," now going on at the British War Relief headquarters at 2624 Connecticut avenue. Others who are on duty at the Scottish exhibition today are Mrs. William Douglas McDougall, Mrs. Edward Meigs, Mrs. E. Courtland Parker, Mrs. Rodman deKay, Mrs. Orme Wilson, Mrs. Wayne Chaffield-Taylor, Mrs. Dudley Knox, Miss Nanny Macomb and Miss Lucy Powell.

Hostesses tomorrow at the exhibition include Mrs. George Scriven, Mrs. Marion Stevens, Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, Mrs. Dalton Murray, Mrs. Reginald Hudekoper, Mrs. Herbert Pott, Lady Broderick, Mrs. Arthur MacArthur and Miss Heloise Sargent.

MRS. ARTHUR W. SCHARFELD.

Prominent in making arrangements for the dog show to be given for the District of Columbia Auxiliary of the Navy Relief Society, Mrs. Scharfeld was hostess at tea yesterday. Her guests were wives of officers of the Old Dominion Kennel Club, which is sponsoring the show to be held April 25 in Alexandria, and others interested in the benefit.

Mrs. Scharfeld is shown with her blue-ribbon wire-haired fox terriers, Popo, Penny and Lucart Chico, which she will enter in the show.

Frank Bowles, who is with the Bureau of Navigation and on leave from his duties as registrar at Columbia University in New York, will be joined here this week end by Mrs. Bowles, the former Frances Porcher, who has many friends here. Mrs. Bowles has just returned from a stay at her former home in Florida. While here she will be the guest of her great-aunt, Mrs. Delos A. Blodgett. Mrs. Blodgett also will have visiting her Mrs. Frederick Hodge of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Beatrice Reinos, the pretty daughter of the Guatemalan Minister and Senora de Reinos, is very busy with her sister alumnae of Sacred Heart Convent preparing for their tea dance to be held Saturday at the Sulgrave Club. The party will be from 5 to 8 o'clock and is for the benefit of the school's scholarship fund. Helen Crean, who is with the British Purchasing Commission, is chairman of the affair, and others working with her are Sylvia Alexander, Suzanne Slinguff, Mrs. John Lewis Smith and Mrs. Robert Coffey. All of these girls are alumnae of the local school, and most of them are daughters of alumnae.

Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie, Mrs. Frank Slinguff and Mrs. Helen Crean are to chaperon the affair, for which the long list of patrons has been gathered—headed by the Peruvian Ambassador, whose daughter Peggy is an active alumna of the school.

Jim Tencher, who stirred many a local feminine heart and then departed for a position in Richmond, is back in town and is on duty at the Navy Department.

Washington's women—as well as those all over the country—who sat back and laughed at their men folks' horror over impending cuffs trousers and lapel-less coats now have worries of their own. Who does not recall with a shudder the pencil lines of yesterday, when skirts were so narrow that walking was a task, and so short that no knock-knee was hidden? Now there is danger of the return of such a fashion—for the W. P. B. says styles may change for shorter and tighter, but not for longer and fuller. And perhaps the worst of the whole business is the possibility that if a woman appears in a bouffant gown this summer there will be no doubt about it that it is last year's gown! Horrible thought for the many who strive to be a season ahead of the fashions!

Mexico's much-feted Ezequiel Padilla, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has gained many honors from other republics as well as from his own country, where he has occupied several of the highest posts in Mexico's service. From Panama he has received the Vasco Nunez de Balboa decoration, from Bolivia the Grand Cross Order of the Condor of the Andes, from Santo Domingo he has the Grand Cross Order of Merit "Juan Pablo Duarte," and from Colombia the Grand Cross of Boyaca.

Easter Wedding Is Performed at Port-au-Spain

Easter Sunday marked the wedding day of Miss Barbara Grieve, daughter of Mrs. Alice Grieve of Annandale, Va., and Mr. Jack Crichton McQuair, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McQuair of Glen Cove, Long Island, N. Y., in a noon ceremony at St. Anne's Presbyterian Church of Scotland in Port-au-Spain, Trinidad, British West Indies.

One of the bride's attendants was Miss Barbara Smith, formerly of Bailey Cross Roads, Va. The bride was dressed in a gown of her own designing, a white flowered organza with full skirt, sweetheart neckline, and veil of finger length. She carried a white prayer book, white ribbons of white satin and streamers of orange blossoms. Her attendants, carrying arm bouquets of pink hibiscus, wore gowns of apple green organza with matching tulle headresses held by pink begonias. The ceremony was performed before an altar banked with tropical lilies and the lovely immortelles. The bride was given in marriage by Mr. Frederick Laffin, and Mr. James Haskin sang two solos, "Because" and "Oh Promise Me."

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the home of Miss Louise Lane on Picton street, and the bridal couple left by plane for a trip to Barbados. The bride's going-away costume was a red linen suit with white accessories.

Mrs. McQuair is a graduate of Lee Jackson High School and of Strayer's Business College. She went with the Engineers Office to Trinidad when the United States established a base there. Mr. McQuair, a graduate in 1939 of Clarkson College of Technology in Potsdam, N. Y., is an engineer, located at Dockside in Trinidad. On return from Barbados, Mr. and Mrs. McQuair will live at Cottageide, Trinidad Area, British West Indies.

Marion Goshorn Is Married to Donald Herring

The marriage of Miss Marion Lucille Goshorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Elkins Goshorn of Chevy Chase, D. C., to Mr. Donald J. Herring, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Herring of Ottawa, Canada, took place Easter eve, April 4. The ceremony was performed at 3 o'clock in the Lincoln Chapel of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, the pastor, the Rev. Peter Marshall, officiating.

Mr. Goshorn gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a powder blue suit with wheat-color accessories and a corsage bouquet of orchids.

Mr. D. J. LaBell of Fairfax was matron of honor for her sister, wearing navy blue with matching accessories and a shoulder bouquet of gardenias. Mr. LaBell was best man.

The small informal reception was held in the home of the bride's parents after which Mr. and Mrs. Herring left for Charleston, S. C., where they spent their honeymoon. Mr. Herring, father of the bridegroom, came from Ottawa for the wedding and others from Canada were the bridegroom's uncle, Lt. Col. Underwood of Ottawa, and Lt. Col. F. McRobie of Toronto. Also at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Dawson of Piedmont, W. Va.

Navy Society Is Warned of Disunity Peril

Senator Hill Cites 'Whispering' Campaigns

A warning against the "invisible warfare" by which Axis forces seek to sow the seeds of disunity in this country and to destroy faith in our allies was sounded yesterday by Senator Lister Hill of Alabama, before the Society of Sponsors of the United States Navy.

Making the principal address at the society's annual luncheon, Senator Hill cautioned especially against unconscious participation in "whispering campaigns of destructive criticism" which aid the enemy.

If Americans are to thwart the type of invisible warfare which made possible such victories as the conquest of France and Norway, he declared, they must stand together and behind the President as commander in chief.

A number of Navy officials were present at the luncheon, which attracted more than 160 members and guests at the Mayflower Hotel.

Among those who spoke briefly were Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ralph A. Bard and Admiral Russell Willson.

The society's president, Mrs. Russell C. Langdon, who was re-elected earlier in the day, also read a message of "warmest personal greetings" from President Roosevelt.

Emphasizing the gravity of the situation before the United Nations, Senator Hill declared that if the war is to be won we must first realize that we can lose it.

In addition to Mrs. Langdon, officers elected during the morning session included Mrs. Robert Dunlap, first vice president; Mrs. Harold Stark, second vice president, and Mrs. Stanton R. Norman, secretary-treasurer.

Members of the Board of Trustees were re-elected.

D. A. R. to Give Fete for Members of State Board

Members of the State Board of the District Daughters of the American Revolution have received invitations to a reception at the D. A. R. Chapter House from 4 to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Harry C. Oberholser, state regent of the District Society; Miss Lillian Chenoweth and Mrs. Howard L. Hodgkins, vice president general and honorary vice president general respectively of the National Society, and the District State officers.

Mrs. Oberholser, who will retire as regent when her successor is installed at the national congress, described the reception as a sort of "going-out" party at which the outgoing officers will reciprocate the courtesy of the State regents, chapter regents and others.

Both Mrs. Oberholser and Mrs. Geoffrey Creyke, the State regent-elect, with their cabinets, will be entertained tonight at a meeting of the Thomas Marshall Chapter at the home of Mrs. William Henry Waver.

Serving at the refreshment table will be past regents of the chapter including Mrs. Jessie B. Acker, Miss Jessie McEmery, Mrs. Harry M. Howard, Miss Agnes M. Randolph and Miss Linda V. Nance.

Frances Fitzpatrick Becomes Bride of William E. Hewitt

St. John's Catholic Church was the scene of an attractively arranged wedding yesterday at noon when Miss Frances Edwin Fitzpatrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Fitzpatrick of Silver Spring, became the bride of Mr. William Edward Hewitt, son of Capt. and Mrs. Frank L. Hewitt, also of Silver Spring.

The ceremony was performed by Father Joseph T. Kennedy. An organ recital preceded the ceremony. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a lovely gown of duchess satin made on princess lines with leg-o-mutton sleeves, and collar trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a prayer book with a white orchid attached.

Mrs. Waverly U. Wheeler, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor, wearing an aqua lace and net gown with veil to match and carrying yellow roses.

The other attendants were Mrs. Frank L. Hewitt, Jr., of Silver Spring; Miss Beulah Hewitt, daughter of the bride; Mrs. W. W. Skinner of Hyattsville and Miss Peggy Owens of Baltimore, another cousin of the bride. They wore dresses of yellow lace and net, veils to match and carried old-fashioned bouquets of white flowers.

Lt. Frank L. Hewitt, Jr., U. S. A., was best man and the ushers were Sgt. Vincent L. Tolson, Sgt. John P. Hewitt, Pvt. John Russell and Pvt. Robert Hewitt.

A reception was held at the Manor Club, following the ceremony, the couple leaving later for a wedding trip. The bride's traveling costume was a navy blue suit with a victory red coat and navy blue accessories.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt will reside in Silver Spring. Representative and Mrs. Joseph Casey of Massachusetts were among the guests and others present were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kelly of Margate, N. J.; Mr. Bill Sullivan of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brough of Castleton, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Du Varney and Mrs. Guy King of New York City; and Mrs. Cletus Atkins of Atlantic City.

D. C. Won't Foot Bill To Equip Air-Raid Posts, Young Says

Commissioner Announces Five-Point Program On Defense Outlays

Public funds will not be used for equipping air-raid warden posts or for furnishing protective materials for privately owned buildings, under a rule issued by Commissioner John Russell Young, civilian defense coordinator for the Metropolitan Area.

In response to repeated requests for such funds, Mr. Young declared he was laying down a five-point program outlining the policy in such matters. The program follows:

1. Civilian defense committees must furnish furniture, typewriters, portable radios and stationery for their air-raid warden posts. The District Defense Council will supply first-aid kits, flashlights, arm bands and warden's whistles. Steel helmets and gas masks will be supplied by the Office of Civilian Defense.
2. Installation of buckets, sand, shovels, individual fire-fighting equipment and blackout materials is the responsibility of the owner, occupant or operator of private buildings.
3. Where an individual neighborhood desires to make provision for any or all such equipment, the matter must be considered by the Civilian Defense Committee in the area. This committee must assume full responsibility for raising and disbursing of the funds to equip the warden posts.
4. Communities must not attempt to establish first-aid depots or obtain medical supplies and fire-fighting equipment other than as recommended by the established plans of organization of the O. C. D.
5. Individual home owners are urged to equip themselves with buckets of sand, shovels or other simple fire-fighting devices by improvising where standard equipment is not available and to make no unnecessary purchases of equipment so as to avoid placing additional burdens on the productive capacity of the Nation.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR
She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people eliminate about 3 pints a day.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pain, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Lydia Pinkham's Compound is one medicine you can buy today—made especially for women—to relieve monthly pain and its tired nervous feelings due to this cause. And in such a sensible way! With the nature's own beneficial roots and herbs. No harmful opiates.
Taken regularly throughout the month—Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such symptoms. Follow label directions. Worth trying!

New York Suspends 32 Police Officers in Gambling Graft Case
17 Others Named in Expose of Brooklyn Bookmaking, Numbers

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 9.—Stripped of their shields and facing possible loss of their jobs and pension rights, 32 policemen charged with condoning at a 1 per cent fee a $100,000-a-year gambling racket were under suspension today.
In one of New York's biggest and most sensational exposes of alleged graft and corruption, two Kings County grand juries named 49 policemen yesterday in presentments.
14 Already Retired.
Further investigation of three of them—an inspector, a deputy inspector and a lieutenant, who had applied for retirement previously—was being made, while no action was

Police of Brooklyn Took 'Clean Dollars,' Grand Jury Learns
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 9.—You may think a dollar is a dollar and that's that, but a Kings County grand jury yesterday reported that lieutenants, Brooklyn policemen believed there were dollars—and dollars.
The jury, which charged police accepted protection money, found that "a dirty dollar" is one accepted in connection with the enforcement of laws governing felonies or other "serious" offenses.
"A clean dollar," the jury discovered, was a gratuity or bribe given for aid in evading laws supposedly unpopular with the public—such as the laws governing bookmaking, policy games and gambling.

taken on the remaining 14 because they already had retired before the case was broken.
Motion pictures taken by investigators under Special Assistant State Attorney General John Harlan Amen during an 11-month inquiry into Brooklyn law enforcement purported to show uniformed policemen in the act of being "paid off" by bookmakers and summer men.
Although Mr. Amen said no criminal action was planned because of the two-year statute of limitations and the difficulty of "restraining the evidence," the prosecutor declared he wanted to place the "organizational picture" of graft in the police department's lap.
32 Are Suspended.
Acting swiftly on the charges, Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine announced last night the mass suspension of 32 of the 49 pending departmental trials, and instructed the Police Legal Bureau to begin preparing its own charges against those named.

The presentments, commenting on the "surprising" standard of living maintained by $3,000-a-year patrolmen, said many of those named were "organizational" men, expensive permanent residences, expensive cars.
Some of them, with their expensively furred wives, the presentments added, also took frequent and regular luxurious trips and cruises.

U. S. Posting Navy Officers In West Mexican Ports

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, April 9.—The existing policy of military-economic co-operation with the United States will include rehabilitation of Mexico's Tehuantepec Isthmus Railroad as an alternative supply route, and the stationing of United States naval officers in most of this Republic's important west coast ports, responsible sources said last night.
Modernization of the 188-mile railway from Salina Cruz to Puerto Mexico, at a jointly-borne cost of about $3,000,000, may be carried out this year.
United States' naval officers assigned to liaison work in Mazatlan, Manzanillo and Salina Cruz already have arrived, and others will be sent to Guaymas and Acapulco, it was said.
These men are engineers and it was understood they would study the construction in those ports of fueling, repair and shipbuilding facilities.

82,618 Prisoners Seized In Java, Japs Claim

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO (From Japanese Broadcasts) April 9.—Imperial headquarters said yesterday that Japanese forces on Java had captured 82,618 prisoners, including 883 Americans.
The announcement said 66,209 of the prisoners were Dutch, 10,636 British and 4,890 Australian.
The Japanese said their cleanup on the island had netted them 177 warplanes, 1,059 tanks and armored cars, and large quantities of artillery, small arms and equipment.
Imperial headquarters said Japan's losses in the Java battle were 845 killed and 1,784 wounded.

Salvage Committee Announces Formation Of Women's Division

Leading Organization Workers of District Will Participate

Going on the premise that women know more about salvageable materials lying about the home than men do, the District Salvage Committee today announced formation of a women's division for salvage.

The committee will hold a mass meeting for women at 8 p. m., April 21, in the United States Chamber of Commerce. Nationally known speakers, as yet unannounced, will discuss the importance of the salvage campaign. Local speakers will explain the city-wide collection of the salvage.

Mrs. M. E. Carroll represents the American Legion Auxiliary on the committee and Mrs. William Van Vleck, the American Association of University Women. Other members are Miss Laura Waters, Business and Professional Women's Club; Miss Mary Mattingly and Miss Katherine Ruppert, Catholic churches and Catholic Daughters of America; Mrs. Harry C. Oberholser, Daughters of the American Revolution; Mrs. Harry C. Cramer, Girl Scouts of America; Mrs. Herbert Sommers and Mrs. Arthur Newman, Jewish churches and the National Council of Jewish Women.

Other Representatives. The Junior League is represented by Mrs. Montgomery Blair, jr., and Mrs. Robert W. Wilson; District of Columbia Congress of Parents and Teachers, Mrs. F. C. Elliot; Protestant churches, Mrs. Joy Elmer Morgan; Veterans of Foreign Wars, Mrs. Florence Armstrong; women's voluntary defense, Mrs. Harry Bernton and Mrs. H. A. Rochester. Chairman, Edward R. Seal is publicity chairman.

Training Session Tonight

Tonight's session of the Recreation Training Institute for Volunteer Leaders will feature demonstrations of dancing, table and circle games, stunts and other activities. This is the eighth of a series of meetings. The program will open at 8 p. m. in the council chamber of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing Annex.

Powell and Jefferson Schools In Neck-to-Neck Salvage Race

Powell Junior High School, which last week took the lead in The Evening Star-P. T. A. Salvage for Victory waste paper collection campaign, came perilously close to losing the lead this week as a result of the collection of 6,552 pounds by Jefferson Junior, which held the city leadership for so many weeks.

Powell Junior yesterday turned in 3,616 pounds to bring the school's grand total to 61,988 pounds, 1,227 pounds ahead of Jefferson, which is back in second place, having passed Garrison, where no paper was picked up this week.

A newcomer joined the campaign yesterday when Montgomery Blair High School, where the athletic fund is running low, decided to earn some needed money by collecting newspapers and magazines. The first day's results were encouraging, the yield being 1,646 pounds of paper and 495 pounds of magazines, making total revenue for the day of $14.32. With that as a starter, it is expected that collections will move ahead at a more lively pace, assuring the athletic teams the needed equipment. Coach Bride of the school is back of the movement.

Considering that this is a vacation week, excellent totals were marked up by several of the schools. Barnard marked up 1,346 pounds and Bancker 1,093 pounds, in addition to the high mark of Powell Junior. Yesterday's collection brought the grand total to 1,859,220 pounds. There will be considerable changes in the standing of the first 25 schools this week as a result of the week's collections. For many of the schools are not recorded this week. This, no doubt, will mean extra heavy collections next week. Those schools which had no paper this week will in all probability have nearly double the usual quantity next week.

Out of the results of this week's collections a plan will be formulated to keep the flow steady all summer. Statements from Federal experts indicate that by the end of summer a serious shortage in waste will be felt in most manufacturing plants.

To prevent that shortage from developing, it is going to be necessary that there be no slackening off of the readily accessible paper which school children in Washington and other parts of the country where the Washington plan is being copied are collecting.

Reinforcements Are Sent To Indo-China by Japs

By the Associated Press. CHUNGKING, April 9.—The Japanese have dispatched reinforcements to Northern French Indo-China, facing Southeastern China, apparently to discourage any large allocation of Chinese reinforcements to the Burma front, a Chinese Army spokesman said today.

He said the Japanese had built defense works in Burma. The spokesman also said Japanese air raids recently on strategic points of Chekiang and Kiangsu Provinces were dictated by fear that they might be used as bases of Allied attacks on Japan.

He said 3,000 Japanese troops had been busy for the last week, attempting to clear Chinese guerrillas out of the area north of the Central China Yangtze port of Shansi, and said the enemy had started a southward drive at Hankow, where guerrillas likewise were active.

Crown Princess Martha Will Sponsor Ship

The "liberty ship" St. Olaf, to be launched Sunday will be sponsored by Crown Princess Martha of Norway, who, according to the United States Maritime Commission, will be the first representative of a foreign government to sponsor one of the emergency vessels. The ceremonies will be held at the plant of the Bethlehem-Fairfield Co. at Baltimore.

Participation of the princess in the ceremonies was described by the Maritime Commission as "symbolic of the strong bond of friendship and co-operation between the United States and Norway."

Princess Martha is to be accompanied to Baltimore from New York by the master of the royal household, Per Wedel-Jarlsberg, and Mrs. Ragn Ostgaard, her lady-in-waiting. Wilhelm Muntze de Morgenstjerne, Norwegian Minister to the United States, will be principal speaker.

Industrial Accidents Assist Axis, Safety Leader Declares

Rigid Discipline, Including Air-Raid Protection, Urged On Labor, Management

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, April 9.—A veteran safety leader predicted today that unless management and labor immediately established rigid safety discipline, including full protection against air raids, there would be a sharp rise in the Nation's industrial accidents.

Harry Guilbert, a leader in industrial safety for 40 years, told an O. C. D.-sponsored war conference for the protection of workers and plants that he based his prediction on the experience of factories in Britain.

"Accidents fight only for the Axis," said Mr. Guilbert, who added that fatalities in Illinois factories alone for the first two months of this year were 20 per cent above the same period in 1941. Industrial accidents last year killed or maimed 1,750,000 persons, he said.

Lathe Is Weapon. "The lathe is as much a weapon against the enemy as a machine gun and any dereliction of duty in the shop is as treasonable as running away on a field of battle," Mr. Guilbert said. "Safety insures maximum production in our factories."

Mr. Guilbert urged that air-raid protection measures be linked with enforcement of accident prevention as effective psychology.

"Even if air-raid shelters are never used," he said, "they justify their existence, for they are the symbols of the seriousness of our time; they are an identity with the war effort and they dispel the mythical distinction between soldier and civilian—in modern war there are no civilians left anyhow."

Coast A. F. L. Won't Ask Dues of Child Workers

By the Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—School children who are willing to help California farmers harvest their crops will not be interfered with by A. F. L. unions, Edward Vandeleur, secretary of the State Federation of Labor, said yesterday.

The secretary, asked by Watsonville (Calif.) authorities whether such students would be required to join unions and pay dues, said: "The position of the federation is that they won't have to either. . . . We say more power to them, let them work. They will not be interfered with."

Mervyn Rathbone, secretary of the C. I. O. State Council, said C. I. O. unions were anxious to meet with farm groups to work out a program to assure that all crops will be harvested. The question of school children, he added, had not been presented.

The A. F. L. policy was understood to apply only to the question of field workers. It was not established for work in canneries and processing plants.

W. C. Allis, 84, Dies; Retired Fisheries Aide

By the Associated Press. NAPA, Calif., April 9.—Watson Colt Allis, 84, retired Commerce Department representative on Pribilof Island in the Bering Sea, died at St. Helena, Calif., Tuesday night.

A native of Topsfield, Mass., he was the son of the late Obediah Dickenson Allis, Dartmouth professor, and Anne Eliza Colt Allis, member of the firearms family.

Mr. Allis engaged in the whaling and sealing industry in the Arctic prior to becoming head of the Bureau of Fisheries on Pribilof Island.

Film Fans Quell Panic

When an earthquake sharply shook Wellington, New Zealand, recently some patrons of movie theaters started for the exits, but were quieted by stern shouts of "sit down" by those who wanted to see all the picture.

"MIDOL proved how old-fashioned I was about regular pain!"

GIVING-IN to functional periodic pain is old-fashioned—for Midol is made to relieve it, and does so for millions of women! Try it. Midol contains no opiates; you can use it with confidence. All drugstores—only 40¢ and 20¢.

There is really nothing better than a broiled steak—especially a thick one. The sirloin steak above is served with hard rolls, and a fresh mixed green salad. Or you might choose the wonderful raw vegetable salad shown in the other picture, for a really epicurean feast. Directions for broiling the steak appear below.

Buttered macaroni shells with Mexican seafood sauce will delight your guests the next time you are looking for something "just a little different" for the buffet supper. They are easy to prepare, too! See recipe on this page.

This raw vegetable salad—known officially as a "Romany Salad Bowl" consists of 2 raw tomatoes, 1/2 cucumber, 1 onion, carrot curls and radish roses, lettuce and mayonnaise or french dressing, as you wish. Slice the unpeeled cucumber after scoring the sides with a fork. Shave carrots into thin curls, cut radishes into roses—set on ice with the cucumber slices to crisp before serving.

Use Oranges to Save Sugar In Unusual New Recipes

One way to get the sweet things you want in your menus and still stay within the sugar ration, is to use all the oranges the traffic will bear. Take a look at today's recipes and see how little sugar you need in the orange-flavored rolls, bread and dessert. From Violinist Kemp Stillings we learned a tricky way to serve raw oranges for breakfast or for a simple attractive-looking dessert. In the luncheon menu you will find an orange-rain slaw (these two recipes will be found elsewhere on the page). It makes a fine flavor-foil for the roast-beef hash—a dish which the famous French writer, Andre Maurois, has ranked among best foods. And the slaw is also full of minerals and vitamins.

ORANGE RICE CREAM.
1/2 cup water.
1 1/4 cups milk.
1/4 cup sugar.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
1/2 cup orange juice.
2 teaspoons grated orange rind.
1/2 cup heavy cream.
Orange sections.
Wash rice, put in top of double boiler. Add water and milk. Cover, steam until rice is tender, about 50 minutes. Add sugar, salt, orange juice and rind. Cool. Whip cream, fold in. Pour into custard cups. Chill. Unmold, garnish with orange sections. Serves six.

ORANGE BREAD.
4 tablespoons sugar.
1 egg, beaten.
2 cups sifted cake flour.
3 teaspoons baking powder.
1 cup orange juice.
1 teaspoon grated orange rind.
3/4 cup chopped walnut meats.
Cream shortening and sugar. Add egg. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add alternately with orange juice to first mixture. Add orange rind and nuts. Pour into greased loaf pan. Bake in very moderate oven (325 F.) one hour. Makes one loaf.

Tender and Juicy Broiled Steak Is Always a Treat

Sirloin, rib (club), T-bone and porterhouse are all good steaks for broiling. The number of persons you plan to serve will probably determine the thickness as well as the cut you will use. Steaks should be at least 1, and preferably 1 1/2 to 2 inches in thickness. A thick steak will be more juicy, flavorful, and more evenly done than a thin one. At the same time the number of servings from a thick steak is as great as from the same amount of meat in several thin steaks. To broil a steak place the meat on the broiling rack in the broiler with the top surface 3 inches from the source of heat for steaks 2 inches thick, and 2 inches from the source of heat for steaks 1-inch thick or less. Broil on one side until nicely browned. Season with salt and pepper, turn and finish cooking on second side. Season second side and it's ready to serve. Fifteen to 20 minutes are required for a 1-inch steak to be cooked to the rare stage and 35 to 40 minutes for 2-inch steaks cooked to the same degree of doneness. For 1-inch steaks cooked to the medium stage allow 25 to 30 minutes and for 2-inch steaks allow 45 minutes for the well-done stage.

Long Island Ducklings, Tiny Soft Shell Crabs Bring Spring to Menus

Shad Roes Now of Good Size; Zucchini and Wheat Germ Preparation Make News

By Betsy Caswell,

It's a little difficult to concentrate on the foodstuffs in the markets these days, when on all sides one is surrounded with flats of plants and seedlings just asking to be planted in the yard or window box. When we should be pursuing the relative cost of meats, we find our mind computing how many pennies we can squeeze out of the market list to invest in a jolly geranium, or a clump or two of wise-faced pansies. Not at all a helpful situation to the market report. The masses of blossoming shrubs and branches for sale don't strengthen our resistance, either. The markets are too beautiful, alive with bloom, and the scent of spring permeating the air. And when we finally do turn to the more matter-of-fact subject of foodstuffs, we find spring has followed us right along, and is tempting the budget with soft shell crabs of tiny size and mighty flavor, huge shad roes of unbelievable delicacy, succulent little broiling chickens, bunches of mammoth asparagus and fragrant clumps of mint for that first glass of iced tea. There are finger-size zucchinis around again, too, to be cooked whole, and served with butter and lemon juice for a vegetable of rare distinction. Fat red strawberries from the Northern part of Florida (the Louisiana berries are expected for the week end) and a new shipment of small but delicious honeydews from Argentina.

There is a revival of interest in fruit desserts. Huge white mushrooms suggest to the ingenious cook that they be stuffed with curried crab meat, and served piping hot on a bed of steamed rice; tender artichokes meet the transition from cold to hot weather by offering themselves as a chilled course with mayonnaise to add a springtime meal. That lovely, loose-leaved all-green lettuce is available in some shops and should delight epicures who believe that it is the ONLY proper ingredient of a green salad. A new strain of chives has come in—but these instead of being in pots come in clumps of earth for planting outside—there goes that gardening complex again! Fresh-killed Long Island ducklings are being featured at attractive prices in several markets this week end—we suggest that you serve them with broiled oranges or hot spiced quonats instead of the usual applesauce. Or try a cranberry sherbet—there are still some fresh cranberries to be had, and may make a very good sherbet with the canned cranberry sauce. Chuck roast is also a recommended buy, and there will be some cuts of lamb and veal that should not be overlooked by the thrifty housekeeper. Frying chickens, broilers and capons continue good, as does the "chicken-by-the-piece" sold in a number of places, which solves the problem of enough drumsticks, second joints or breasts to satisfy each member of the family. Don't overlook the fact, when you are purchasing meats, that you can add to your supply of cooking fats by being sure to take home all the scraps you pay for. The Consumer's Guide warns us that there is no fat for wasting these days and suggests several ways to make your fat supply last longer. They recommend, in particular, that you buy bacon by the piece, in-

Interesting Dish For Buffet Meal

Is your mind a blank when it comes to new and different buffet dishes? Then serve buttered macaroni shells with a Mexican seafood sauce and you'll walk around wearing a halo of praise. It's a dish your guests will like to eat—and like to have often.

BUTTERED MACARONI SHELLS WITH MEXICAN SEAFOOD SAUCE.
1 small onion, chopped.
1/2 cup sweet green pepper, chopped.
1/2 cup chopped celery.
6 or 8 sliced stuffed green olives.
4 tablespoons butter.
1 cup canned tomatoes.
1 cup whole canned or fresh shrimp (tuna or salmon may be substituted).
Salt and pepper to taste.
Combine the onion, pepper, celery and olives with the butter. Cook until vegetables are tender. Add tomatoes and shrimp. Simmer until all is thoroughly heated. Combine with the macaroni shells that have been cooked in boiling salted water until tender. Arrange in casserole or individual baking dishes and bake for about 20 minutes at 350 degrees F.

Try Cubed Avocado In Onion Soup

Onions and avocados are delicious in salads, sandwiches and appetizers. In the following recipe the combination finds a new form. Cubed avocado is served floating on the surface of rich onion soup—canned or home prepared—to give an epicurean appearance to a dish already beloved by those who know good food.

AVOCADO-ONION SOUP.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
Salt and pepper to taste.
4 cups onion soup.
To prepare avocados cut into halves lengthwise, remove seed, pull skin from fruit and cut fruit into cubes. Sprinkle with lemon juice, salt and pepper. Pour hot onion soup into bouillon cups, add avocado cubes to each cup and serve immediately. Serves four.

Cook Broilers in Skillet With Rice and Seasonings

It's good news for homemakers the country over that poultry is abundant with corresponding favorable prices. So right now is a good time to indulge chicken appetites with the smaller sizes of young chicken, 1 1/2 to 3 1/2 pounds in weight. These young chickens are commonly called broilers, but the method of cooking is by no means limited to the broiling process. They may be baked, broiled, braised, fried, fricasseed and roasted. The variety in service is limited only by the homemaker's imagination and flair for cooking and seasonings. Skillet chicken with rice is a delectable concoction of chicken seasoned and browned in hot fat, then steamed to tenderness with the rice. Keep in mind that when most people eat chicken they want plenty of chicken and not too much variety in other foods. With skillet chicken, you may be cut into legs, or drumsticks and thighs, 2 or 3 pieces of breast, 2 pieces of back, 2 wings and the neck. Be sure to include the giblets, too. The heart, gizzard or liver will be some one's favored morsel.

SKILLET CHICKEN WITH RICE.
1/2 cup flour
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup fat for frying
3 cups boiling water
3/4 cup rice, washed
1 onion or 1 clove garlic optional
Parsley.
Quarter or cut up chicken into serving pieces according to size. Rub with flour into which seasonings and paprika have been mixed thoroughly into each piece. Brown in the hot fat. When nicely and uniformly browned, reduce heat, add boiling water and onion (or garlic). Sprinkle rice over chicken. Cover tightly, cook gently until chicken is done (45

Thefts of D. C. Autos And Parts Laid to Eight Under Arrest

One Youth Faces Felony Charge After Car Is Stripped of Tire, Wheel

Theft of eight automobiles and numerous auto parts have been solved as a result of recent arrests of five men and three boys by Detectives Joseph H. Hunt and Albert L. Embarec of No. 6 precinct, it was said yesterday.

To two boys, one 15 and the other 17, is attributed the theft of eight automobiles, Detective Hunt said. The boys, who are alleged to have driven the automobiles into Maryland, where parts were taken off, were released in custody of their parents, but are scheduled to be taken before Juvenile Court, Detective Hunt said.

Of the other six arrested, one an 18-year-old youth, the cases of three were scheduled to be presented to the grand jury and three scheduled to be tried by Police Court juries.

Those held for grand jury action, following recent preliminary hearings at Police Court, include Thomas R. Kershner, 18, of the 3500 block of Warder street N.W., charged with the theft of an automobile tire, tube and wheel, under the law making theft of automobile parts a felony; James Dashiell, 24, of the 3700 block of Thirteenth street N.W., said to be a filing station proprietor, and Arnold C. Garrett, 24, of the 4800 block of Fourteenth street N.W., each charged with receiving stolen property, including an automobile tire, wheel and tube.

The others are three colored men charged with larceny, on which they have demanded jury trials in Police Court. They are Chauncey McCoy, 26, of the 900 block of R street N.W., charged with the theft of batteries and spark plugs; Du Bois McCoy, 23, of the 1700 block of L street N.E., charged with the theft of batteries, and Leonia Miles, 26, of the 1700 block of Fifth street N.W., charged with the theft of batteries and spark plugs.

Navy Cautions Against Mailing Direct to Ships

The Navy yesterday reiterated a former instruction that mail for naval personnel aboard ships and overseas be addressed only to Postmaster, New York, or Postmaster, San Francisco.

"Even if you know a friend or relative is on a certain ship and know that the ship is in a definite harbor, don't address mail to that harbor," a Navy statement said. Somebody is likely to see the letter who shouldn't and the location of a vessel will be revealed. Just figure whether he is closer to New York or San Francisco and address the mail accordingly.

First class mail to members of the armed forces on active duty must carry full postage, but mail from the forces may be sent free.

After Dark

News and Comment of the Night Clubs.

By the Spectator.

Trade Mark Registered, U. S. Patent Office.

Tonight is the night they will be sharpening their claws for their latest predatory swoop, and descending on the Victory Room. The victims, of course, will be Benny Goodman and his band who pay a weekly salary to Mrs. Kramer's place at that time, to depart again before roysters have essayed their first tentative Friday crowds. The swoopers, it need hardly be said, are that tireless pack, the autograph retrievers.

In the hush of early evening one may be able to discern the gentle sucking noises of fountain pens being filled and the rustle of sheaves of notepaper, as signature fends all over prepare for another gala round. That is always the way it goes when a name of significance comes within easy public reach.

Whether it is affection or simple mania that impels persons to such activity, no one will ever know. Seemingly, the mass urge to risk tramping or at least a severe elbowing for the sake of some notable snatch varies with the examination of your Freud and Brilla. Diagnosis could not possibly be made by an amateur in the space of a single evening with its frenzied confusion of straining faces, fopping arms and bodies fiercely showing.

On occasions like these, there is also to be taken into consideration the aspect of the other spectators, those safe from the ravages of Autograph Americanus. Those pitiful souls who forsok doing the dishes or studying reports to fulfill a desire only to dance—without being bowled over by swift passersby. Or those who wanted merely to sit and contemplate the orchestra without having to mount a chair in order to see beyond the heads of addicts wedged 30-deep about the bandstand. Expressions on the faces of many of these unfortunates frequently would seem to indicate a wish for sub-machine guns in hands normally accustomed to transporting glasses of cider.

Inorganic appointments of dinette spots so invade also have been known to suffer inroads. The good Mr. Goodman cites a few classic examples, such as the increasing use of tablecloths for autographing purposes. And napkins—employed by the conservative element. Of course, managers smile benignly when their equipment is put to such noteworthy service.

Mr. Goodman, in fact, has a special blunt-pointed pen for signing the above type of linen ware, to say nothing of crazy quilts which have been submitted for his kind indulgence in the course of his long career with pen, ink and clarinet. And some have even asked Benny to fill his pen with catsup for the ceremony.

Come to think of it, signature seekers should be compelled in their quests to use crazy quilts only. Crazy quilts to be inscribed with catsup, at all times.

Or would glue be more desirable?

Herbie Sachs' fondly planned Mahogany Room has begun at last to take definite shape. Mr. Sachs, in fact, goes so far as to predict the new Del Rio adjunct will be ready to accommodate its public by April 21. Capacity of the den will be 65 males during the afternoon cocktail hour, and a like number of mixed company in hours thereafter.

The mahogany that goes into the Mahogany Room is made up mostly of seasoned timber (from the carved fixtures left by a former occupant of the building) and of new material to round out the panelling effect which extends right up to the ceiling. Motif will be subdued: Pale blue lighting, white-grained leather settle all around, mahogany frame leather chairs.

The next report you hear will be Herbie bursting with pride and enthusiasm.

Army Nurse Officials Here To Speed Enrollments

A three-day conference of Army Nurse Corps officials to expedite a drive to enroll 10,000 nurses for the expanding Army before the end of the year, opened here yesterday.

Supervisors from each of the nine corps areas and directors of the American Red Cross Nursing Service are attending the conference which is under the direction of Col. Julia O. Flikke, superintendent of the Army Nurse Corps.

Procedure of procurement will be standardized throughout the corps areas of the Army to simplify the enrollment of nurses. The goal, however, represents only a small part of the huge nursing army that eventually will be enrolled as the fighting army expands.

Applications for appointment may be made through any local office of the American Red Cross Nursing Service which is acting as procurement agency for the Nurse Corps, or direct to any corps area headquarters.

Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

My love must be a hero bird. My love must be a hero bird. And by his might must prove his right For my reward to sue.

Little Miss Nanny Meadow Mouse wasn't in love—yet. But she was quite ready to fall in love if only a real hero would come along and make love to her and just prove to her that he really was a hero.

On this particular morning she had a feeling that something was going to happen. She didn't know what it was going to be, only she just felt that something was going to happen.

"He's very handsome," murmured little Miss Nanny, and her timid little heart fluttered more than ever with excitement.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE.

Some of the terms we use in talking about our attitudes toward money need clarifying and redefining for children's understanding.

This

Father: "There's a difference between stinginess and thrift, Son, and also between generosity and carelessness."

Not This

Father: "You're so generous, that's why money slips through your fingers so easily. I'm glad you're not stingy."

The Cheerful Cherub

Careless Play

When you double an opponent's bid, you say, in effect, that you think he has overestimated the trick-taking power of his hand...

The bidding: North East South West Pass Pass Pass Pass...

Yesterday you were Howard Schenken's partner and, with neither side vulnerable, you held:

The bidding: Schenken Jacoby You Burnstone 1♣ Pass 2♣ Pass...

Answer—Bid five spades. You are sure that you want to be in at least a small slam, and this bid may help your partner get to a grand slam.

Today you are Oswald Jacoby's partner and, with neither side vulnerable, you hold:

The bidding: Schenken You Burnstone Jacoby Pass (?) What do you bid? (Answer to-morrow.)

Who—Whom

This week's slip of the tongue: "Who did you give it to?" Better say: "Whom did you give it to?"

Wrong: "Who are you referring to?" Right: "Whom are you referring to?"

Wrong: "Who are you going with?" Right: "Whom are you going with?"

Who and whom are perhaps the most troublesome words in English, and many persons of better-than-average education find that a grammatical explanation of these pronouns only adds to the confusion.

Triple Earthquake Reported in Area Held by Japanese

Georgetown Expert Says Shocks, if on Land, Would Cause Heavy Damage

A triple earthquake of "very strong" intensity was recorded from Washington to Bombay, India, and Sydney, Australia, yesterday. The shock apparently occurred in some portion of the Pacific area held by the Japanese.

If the tremendous earth shocks occurred on land, they must have caused widespread destruction, E. R. Powers, S. J., of the Georgetown University seismological observatory here said. If some deep sea pit was shifting, probably no severe effects were felt ashore because the tremors were not of the "vertical" type which causes tidal waves.

Started at 11:59 Here. The quake first shook the seismometer here at 11:59 a.m., five minutes after it was picked up by instruments at Pasadena (Calif.) Institute of Technology, and at almost the moment it was recorded at Fordham University, New York.

The nature of seismographs is such that scientists can determine distance of the quake with some exactness, but its direction is discovered with difficulty.

At the Georgetown observatory, where later shocks were observed at about 5 and 7 p.m., the quake was reported 8,700 miles distant. In New York, Father Joseph Lynch, Fordham observatory director, set the distance at 8,600 miles and said the place was probably in the South China Sea, southwest of the Philippines.

Distance Doesn't Contradict. This spot was agreed upon by scientists at Sydney, Australia, but in Bombay the epicenter was calculated to be farther within the Yellow Sea, between Japan and the China coast. All adjacent land is controlled by the Japs. The distance from Bombay was set at 3,160 miles—a figure not contradictory to the other suggested location.

The quake was recorded at the Georgetown observatory when a beam of light trembled on a photographic plate. The tremors continued for hours, but this was due to waves delayed by various layers deep in the earth. Each original shock is usually about one minute in duration. There were at least three of these, it was indicated here, and other reports indicated there probably were more.

Youth Fined 50 Cents For Street Ball Game

Kenneth Geary, 19, colored, 400 block of Ridge street N.W., yesterday was fined one of the smallest sums on record—50 cents—when he appeared in Police Court on a charge of playing ball in the street.

A young colored man, arrested with Geary Tuesday, posted $5 collateral at No. 2 police station and elected to forfeit that sum on a similar charge.
