Move Seen Necessary To Conserve Tires: Transport Is Problem

(Earlier Story on Page A-1.) Gasoline rationing on a Nation-wide scale appeared imminent today in the light of a War Production Board request that the Office of Defense Transportation proceed with the mapping of plans for an over-all rationing program—possibly starting July 1—as a tire conservation

Lending strength to the movement was President Roosevelt's indication at his press conference that diversion of ertain transportation facilities in other sections of the country to help bring fuel oil and gasoline to the Eastern seaboard might be necessary.

The Nation-wide program would be drafted by O. D. T. in consultation with Petroleum Co-ordinator Ickes and Price Administrator Henderson and would be returned to W. P. B. for a final decision as to whether such a drastic measure was necessary to cope with the rubber shortage Expects Pooling of Transport. The proposal was discussed in fulldress session of the W. P. B. last week, it was learned, and there was no substantial dissent from any member as to the apparent necessity for such control.

Declaring that the oil shortage should be considered as a national although he emphasized that the situation is made critical only by lack of transport facilities. the President said he believed there should be some pooling of tank cars and trucks.

Specifically, Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that some other sections of the country draw supplies only part way by pipe line and then complete distribution by other means. Where this is the case, he explained, portion of these other means might be diverted to use on the Eastern seaboard.

Under questioning, he acknowledged that this might result in a degree of rationing in sections other than the East, but he declared categorically that there would be no thought of imposing restrictions in (See GASOLINE, Page A-5.)

The 5,000 figure was used because that had been mentioned as the number of "survivors of the Burma campaign" withdrawn to India, the statement said.

Congressional Medal Given Famed Flyer at White House; Others Also Decorated

By JOHN C. HENRY.

Brig. Gen. James H. (Jimmy) Doolittle, internationally famous speed flyer, led the spectacular air raid on Japan April 18, it was disclosed today when the 45-year-old veteran of the American airways received in person the Congressional Medal of Honor from President Roosevelt in a surprise ceremony at the White House. At the same time, it was brought to light that the Army bombing squadron commanded by Gen. Doolittle had scored a direct hit on a cruiser or battleship under construction in Tokio, leaving it in flames, and also fired a quarter of a mile of aircraft manufactur-

Left unanswered, however, was the intriguing question of where the squadron was based for the epochal adventure.

Exceeded All Expectations. The raid, carried out by volunteer Army crews, just a month ago yesterday, "exceeded our most optimistic expectation," Gen. Doolittle said, in a statement released by the War Department. Other participants in the attack-79 other officers and men-

Marshall, Army Chief of Staff, stated that the decoration was being awarded "for conspicuous leadership above and beyond the call of duty, involving personal valor and intrepidity at an extreme hazard to life. "With the apparent certainty of being forced to land in enemy territory or to perish at sea, Gen. Doolittle personally led a squadron of Army bombers, manned by volunteer crews in a highly destructive raid on the Japanese mainland." Remarking that success of the raid had exceeded expectations, Gen. Doolittle in his statement continued:

"Each plane was assigned specific targets and the bombardiers earried out their expert duties with remarkable precision. Since the raid was made in fair weather, in the middle of the day and from a very low altitude, no trouble whatever was experienced in finding the target designated. Japanese Caught Without Warning.

"Apparently there was no advance warning of the raid as we experienced little hostile action. Not more than 30 Japanese pursuit planes were observed during the flight and these were completely ineffective. Several we know were shot down, possibly more, Incidentally, the pilots of these planes seemed somewhat inexperienced, evidently not up to the standards of those encountered in active theaters.

'We approached our objectives just over the housetops but bombed at 1.500 feet. The target for one plane was a portion of the navy yard south of Tokio, in reaching which they had passed over what apparently was a flying school, as there were a number of planes in the air. Below decks the Bertin is reported to have enough fuel to take her Dakar where she could join the Axis fleet. She can put to sea at short notice and, in fact, she has been permitted to make several runs into the Caribbean since she raced into Fort de France June 22, 1940 with the $250,000,000 in gold bars now stored at Fort de Saix in the hills above the present anchorage of the two warships.

The Senate Appropriations Committee today restored to the District housing bill $13,500,000 of the $20,500,000 lopped by the House from the original $50,000,- 000 request. The restoration brings the total of the bill to $43,000,000 and followed testimony to a subcommittee handling the bill that the $29,500,000 carried in the House-approved bill' was inadequate. The full committee acted today soon after the increase was reported by the subcommittee headed by Senator Mc-

Kellar, Democrat, of Tennessee The total of $50,000,000 had been authorized in the Lanham housing bill, which became law a month or more ago. Of this amount $30.000,000 was to provide housing and $20,000,000 for the attendant community facilities, such as schools, sewers and hospitals. Both Funds Slashed.

When the request for the money to carry out the authorization was transmitted to the House shortly afterward, the members decided against constructing family dwelling units in favor of dormitories and slashed the $30,000,000 to $12,-000,000. The community facilities allocation was cut to $17,500,000.

Senate Banking Unit Bans Farm Products From R. F. C. Sales

Agreement Is Reached At Meeting Attended By Leon Henderson

(Earlier Story on Page A-2.) By the Associated Press. Members of the Senate Banking Committee reported agreement today to exclude farm products from the commodities which the Reconstruction Finance Corp. would be authorized under pending legislation to buy and sell in carrying out the price control program.

The agreement was reached at a meeting attended by Price Administrator Leon Henderson, Secretary of Commerce Jones and representatives of several other Federal agencies.

Chairman Wagner of the committee said an amendment to carry out the proposed agricultural exemption would be drafted by tomorrow.

Made Decision for Restudy.

The committee approved the authority as part of legislation increasing the borrowing power of the R. F. C. by $5,000,000,000, but protests of farm members that it might permit sale of farm products below parity prices resulted in a decision to restudy the measure.

As originally approved, the legislation would have authorized the R. F. C. to buy and sell any commodity at the request of the price administrator, and express authority would have been granted to sell at a loss. The R. F. C. would also be given authority to make subsidy payments to keep prices down or encourage

Officials said the provision was designed to finance businesses which might be caught in a "squeeze" between rising costs and ceiling prices.

Illinois Player Holds Individual Low Score Lead With 223

(Earlier Story on Page A-15.) ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 19.-Michigan and Ohio State were tied going into the final 18 holes of the Big Ten golf meet today, while a stiff breeze across the long University of Michigan course skyrocketed individual scores.

The Buckeyes, trailing by a stroke at the end of 36 holes, regained that deficit in the morning round and went into the stretch deadlocked with the Wolverines at 935 for 54

Ben Smith, University of Michigan junior, slumped from his subpar 71 of yesterday afternoon to a 78 this morning and surrendered the lead in the race for individual honors to Jim McCarthy of Illinois, who carded a 76 in the first half of the day's play. Smith's 54-hole total was 224 and McCarthy's 223.

John Krisko of Ohio State trailed them with 226. He put a 77 together this morning with his 149 of Monday to remain within striking distance for the individual crown won last year by Alex Welsh of Illinois. Also in the running were Billy Gilbert, Ohio's Big Ten champ in 1940. with 230, and Capt. John Leidy of Michigan, with 231.

Behind Michigan and Ohio in the team standings was Minnesota with 942, followed by Northwestern and Illinois, both with 949 totals.

Good Day's Work At Pearl Harbor Wins Promotion

Cosgrove was busy on the day Japanese raided Pearl Harbor. Here are the things the Navy said he did on December 7: Rendered "valuable service" in clearing up a traffic jam around the receiving station during the enemy's first strafing attack. Reported on board a nearby ship and assisted in obtaining machine gun ammunition for it. Discovered a truckload of ammunition abandoned in the submarine base, commandeered a truck and distributed the ammunition to various ships. Seized a rifle, when the Japs came over for their second attack, and opposed the enemy as best he could with that weapon.

An attack by Japanese on Port Moresby was dismissed as insignificant. This map indicates the effective range of heavy bombers which could strike into Java, the Philippines and the ocean approaches to Australia. Medium bombers can fly their bomb loads to a middle zone and pursuit ships can set up a protective screen around Australia's shores to pick off any naval or aerial craft that might have slipped through the outer defenses.

Danger Seen in Influx Of Homemakers Into War Plants

District P.-T. A. Congress Told Society Depends On Family for Stability

There may be great danger in the present "hysterical flux into industry by homemakers," Mr. Albert L. Gardner told members of the District Congress of Parents and Teachers today. Mrs. Gardner, national chairman of P.-T. A. publications, was principal speaker at the opening session of the 29th annual convention of the congress at the De-

These points designated by Dr. Thomas A. fundamental truths, she said, center about religion, the home, education and love of country. Home Is Base of Society.

The whole structure of our society, she said, depends on the preservation of the home and unity of family life, and thus it may be that the major job of parent-teacher groups in time of war is the preservation of these truths centering

Parent and teacher alike must now think of the home and the school of the future, she said, pointing out that it eventually will be universally recognized that the home and the school must work closely together to prepare children to take their place in the democratic world. She stressed that no one can pass along to any child a sound moral code without having one.

Bringing the greetings of Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, to the convention, Dr. C. The issue was before the Senate in the form of an amendment to the $680,000,000 agriculture appropriation bill designed to prevent sales of Government-held crop surpluses below parity levels.

Another phase of the controversy came up in the Senate Banking Committee, which met to reconsider legislation granting broad authority, to the Reconstruction Finance Corp. to buy and sell commodities on request of the Price Administrator. The united front which enabled the farm bloc yesterday to win a boost of $25,000,000 in F. S. A. cash and $55,000,000 in borrowing authority to make rural rehabilitation grants and loans was threatened, however, by a controversy over the price amendment to the agriculture appropriation bill.

A prohibition against selling Government-held surpluses below parity voted by the House has met with administration opposition and the Senate Appropriations Committee offered a compromise that would permit sale of 125,000,000 bushels of surplus wheat for livestock feeding. Some members from corn-producing areas, however, have expressed fear that would result in depressing the price of corn. To meet that objection, supporters of the committee compromise proposed a limitation requiring that any wheat sales for livestock feed be at prices not lower than 85 per cent of the parity price of corn, or approximately 83 cents a bushel.

Senator Gillette, Democrat, of Iowa opposed the proposal, saying that he was "standing on the principle that none of these products should be sold at less than parity."

Roosevelt Message To Parley Expresses Confidence in Victory

Note" ad at Opening of Allied Air Training Session at Ottawa

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, May 19.—President Roosevelt declared today that "the people of the United Nations can look forward confidently along the hard road to victory," in a message read to the opening session of the United Nations Air Training Conference.

"The hopes of free men and women everywhere, the hopes of those who are awaiting liberation in the countries the savage invaders have darkened and despoiled are with the United Nations," the President said.

Robert A. Lovett, United States Assistant Secretary of War for Air, read the message to the delegates of 14 nations

Text of Message.

The text of the message follows:

"I shall be grateful if you will convey my personal greetings to the conference.

"It is particularly fitting that this conference should be held in Canada, for Canada has increasingly become the airdrome of democracy, sending from her training fields thousands upon thousands of her own men and men of the other United Nations to fight in the cause of liberty over all the battlefields of this planetary war.

"Without Canada's tremendous contribution to our common destiny the cause of the United Nations might have been greatly imperiled. With Canada's valiant and unswerving aid, with the joined power and courage and audacity your conference symbolizes the people of the United Nations can look forward confidently along the hard road of victory.

"The hopes of free men and women everywhere, the hopes of those who are awaiting liberation in the countries the savage invaders have darkened and despoiled, are with the United Nations.

President Roosevelt has made important suggestions to the conference, Canadian Pripie Minister Mackenzie King said today.

He disclosed only that Mr. Roosevelt's suggestions dealt with the scope of the conference and its agenda, both of which are military holds "the key to victory." "The aim of the air training conference is not merely the discussion of problems," he told the dele-gates, dressed in colorful uniforms of their countries and assembled in the Senate chamber. "It is proposed to explore all possible avenues of cooperation and co-ordination in the field of air training with a view to planning the best and speediest use of all existing facilities."

Key to Victory. The Prime Minister declared that co-ordinated effort of the Allies

He said Canada and the United States operate on interior lines of communications, allowing the swift dispatch of air power to any war theaters in the global conflict. Russia was the only great Allied power not represented. After the opening session. all meetings will be secret and even the agenda will not be announced.

S. W. O. C. Scys Principles Of Plan Used by W. P. B.s Laborer-Manager Units

CLEVELAND, May 19.—The full story of how laborers voluntarily turned over part of their wages to keep a small Ohio steel plant operating—and thereby establishing a "proving ground" for union-management co-operation in other plants—finally was told today.

Officers of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, in a report to the union's constitutional conven-tion, said the War Production Board's labor-management committees incorporate principles of a program first tried at Empire Sheet & Tin Plate Co., Mansfield, Ohio-and later used in a score of other firms. Employes' Co-operation Needed.

Four years ago it appeared Empire would have to cease operations, the report said. In bankruptcy a few the delivery of rails which were to years previously, the company was in a weakened financial condition because of heavy 1937 losses, reduction of sheet steel prices and abolition of the "Pittsburgh plus" pricing system. The Empire local sought the advice of the S. W. O. C. "Conferences with company officials and local union officers made it apparent that the only way this company could continue in business was through the fullest possible cooperation with its employes," S. W. O. C. officers said. The union local volunteered to turn back to the company a sizable share of wages. That was done for a 90-day period, and the company in turn granted the union security. Enabled to continue operation, the company repaid workers in a few months.

$50,000 Earned in 1941. The plant has had from 1,000 workers up, depending on current requirements. Further details of union-management co-operation were not given in the report, but— "It has been conservatively estimated that tangible savings of between $150,000 and $200,000 were effected during the first year," the report added. "The company has ended each year in the black since the plan was adopted. In 1941, a profit of $50,000 was earned." Since first tried at Mansfield, the plan was reported to have worked

Two or More Aerial Torpedoes Fired Into Cruiser, London Says

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 19.-The powerful 10,000-ton German cruiser Prinz Fugen was regarded today as knocked out of the vital battle of the Atlantic perhaps for three months by the gaping wounds of two or more aerial torpedoes driven home before dusk Sunday night by an R. A. F. fighter-bomber squadron which caught her slipping along the Norwegian coast

Reporting that the aerial striking force reached Norwegian waters while it was still light, the Air Ministry news service said "the attack was pressed home in the teeth of strenuous opposition from a large force of enemy fighters and heavy anti-aircraft fire from snips."

There were two large explosions 15 seconds apart, the news service reported. It said another pilot saw a sheet of flame leap up from the cruiser after he attacked. He added he saw other torpedoes "running

The attack was placed off Lister Fjord, 60 miles south of Stavanger and little more than 300 miles air line from Northwestern Scotland.

Jones & Laughlin Enjoined From Selling Scrap Above Ceiling

Another Steel Firm And Three Dealers Cited in Injunction

By the Associated Press,

PITTSBURGH, May 19.-Two Pittsburgh district steel companies and three scrap dealers today were enjoined in a temporary injunction issued by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker from buying and selling scrap at prices in excess of price ceilings set by the Office of Price Administration.

Cited in the temporary injunction were the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., recently congratulated by the Navy for breaking production records; the Aliegheny Ludlum Steel Co. of Brackenridge, Glosser & Sons of Johnstown, Staiman Bros. of Williamsport and the Hodes Coal & Junk Co. of Lock Haven.

The companies were accused of "topdressing" and "upgrading" scrap and the Glosser firm in addition was charged with accepting commissions on "upgraded" scrap.

"Upgrading," it was explained, consists of billing and selling lowgrade scrap at prices charged for higher grades. "Topdressing" is accomplished by placing a thin covering of high-grade scrap over a load of inferior grade. The shipments were accepted by the steel companies after being turned down as "inferior" by another steel firm, O. P. A. counsel said.

The prices paid by the steel companies were from $5 to $6.50 a ton in excess of ceiling prices, the O. P. A. charged. Four weeks ago J. & L. was accused of violating priority ratings in a War Production Board complaint.

Washington's war public works program may be cut under the Federal Works Agency policy of sidetracking for the duration all projects considered not absolutely essential to the war effort, Henry J. Sullivan, F. W. A. engineer for the Capital area, said today.

Mr. Sullivan said that so far no project has been eliminated from the local program. He is now engaged in reviewing all Washington projects, including those already started, as well as ones in the planning stage. This work, he added, will not be completed for 10 days. Mr. Sullivan said completion of the program as pedendent on availability of materials, allocation of which is in the hands of the Army, Navy and Maritime Commission curtailment of the Washington program "what the Army, Navy and Maritime Commission will say is Boland's Funeral

The F. W. A.'s disclosure yesterday that it was restudying the 1,400 projects on its program to halt work on any not deemed indispensable to the war effort followed reports of a general tightening up along war building and production lines.

A 25 per cent increase in output from present facilities was forecast by congressional leaders who unanimously backed the War Production Board's decision to taper off plant expansions to accelerate immediate delivery of weapons.

Protests Expected. Several Senators predicted that the policy of channeling vital materials into ships, planes, tanks and guns instead of into new manufacturing facilities would bring a flood of protests from communities disappointed by the canceling of plant contracts. places already supplied directly and in full by pipe lines.

Criticizes Georgia The President took occasion to criticize the State of Georgia for blocking pipe line right of way proposals last year, when steel and started, largely with the use of other materials were available for construction of such facilities. By the time that local obstacle had been cleared, he went on, steel demands were such that steel could not be made available for the pipe line project. He remarked in this connection that consideration is being given to salvaging isolated pipelines now out of use, but that this source of supply probably would not be adequate for building new lines clear to the East. An alternative at the present time, he pointed out, is the use of intercoastal waterways across Florida with the fuel then to be transported in inland waterway barges northward as far as Philadelphia. Asked if sufficient steel is available for building the necessary barges, the President said that he did not know but pointed out that heavy fuel oil can be carried either in wooden or light concrete ships. Gasoline, however, cannot be transported in wooden containers. Legislation Not Needed. To a question of whether great numbers of ocean-going tankers had been diverted from the Atlantic Coast to other transport routes, Mr. Roosevelt said the answer might be both yes and no, but that he could not be more specific without revealing ship movements. He said he did not believe legislation was needed for any of the possible solutions to the Eastern oil shortage.

Petroleum Co-ordinator Ickes announced earlier today that work had begun on the first of six projects in a far-reaching pipe line relocation program intended to help relieve the oil situation in the East.

At about the same time. Robert E. Allen of the petroleum co-ordinator's office told a House Committee that easterners would lack sufficient fuel oil to "keep warm next winter" unless "the most strenuous efforts" are made to expand oil transportation facilities.

The pipe line program, intended to increase by approximately 200,-000 barrels daily the eastward oil flow, is in addition to the proposal for a huge, 1,500-mile line from

Chungking Communique Disclosed Continued Fighting in Yunnan

CHUNGKING, May 19 .- A grave threat is facing China and the real Japanese offensive may be against this country, a Chinese government spokesman declared today, as an army communique disclosed continued heavy fighting on the Burma-Yunnan front and development of heavy Japanese attacks in Chekiang Province on the east coast.

A further Chinese gain in Yunnan, where the Chinese have thrown back the invaders from their thrust up the Burma Road at the Salween River, was announced by the communique, however.

It said the Chinese, after wining out an enemy force at Hungmushu on the west side of the Salween, had continued to avance westward and had routed another force at Lungkiangchiao, east of Tengyueh. #### Cattle and Hogs in Emergency Program Pig-Killing Policy of

World War Days Is Avoided, However

By ERNEST G. FISCHER,

LISBON, May 19 .- Although the formal consumer gets less than 12 ounces of meat to eat each week in Germany, the government has been engaged for some time in an emergency program of slaughtering

Suckling calves are being killed to save milk and medium-weight hogs butchered to conserve potatoes and The butchering of calves is described as a temporary measure to save milk for making much-needed butter, yet housewives, who get very little butter and milk, complain that the immature animals provide unsubstantial" meat.

Last fall the government offered a premium of 40 marks (later 12) marks) for each porker taken to market, but the bonus failed to bring fulfillment of pork demands.

Basic Price Increased. This spring it increased the basic price of hogs weighing from 198 to 60 pounds.

In other words, it is paying farmers to dispose of their hogs before they are fattened in order to save feed for forthcoming pigs.

The result is the slaughter of animals which, with a few more months of fattening, would furnish fats as well as pork. Hogs are counted on to furnish two-thirds of Germany's meat and one-fourth of her edible fats.

Answering the argument that the slaughter policy was endangering the future pork supply, one agricultural official declared a higher price for hogs would jeopardize the nation's bread and potatoes because the farmers would be tempted to feed them grains and potatoes.

Conserve Feeds for Pigs. He explained Germany was avoiding the pig-killing policy of 1915 by conserving feeds now for future

About 9,000,000 pigs were slaughtered in a few months in 1915, leaving Germany fewer than 15,000,-000 pigs, in order to save potatoes for humans. Then a bumper potato crop came along and millions of tons of potatoes rotted.

A committee headed by Walther Darre, Nazi minister of agriculture, said the 1915 pig slaughter was one factor in Germany's defeat in the last war and declared it would not be repeated under Naziism.

By ALVIN J. STEINKOPF.

LISBON, May 19.-An American and an Axis national involved in the current diplomatic exchange crossed paths yesterday and the American, eyeing his opposite, asked icily: Was I exchanged for that funny looking guy?"

Words in similar vein came from other Americans having the unusual experience of seeing the Axis personages for whom they were swapped. There were some frigid pleasantries. One German gravely assured this

Merchants Scored for Misuse Of War Stamps as Currency

Mr. Barnard also said Better

Business Bureaus noted a growth in promotion of bogus patriotic events in which promoters got most or all the money; a sudden emergence of automobile repair shops operated primarily to mulct the public; the use of questionable advertising in the sale of blackout materials and expansion of complaints against second-hand appliance dealers.

"Some merchants are accepting stamps in place of money," Mr. Barnard said in an interview, "which negates one purpose of the War stamp sales program—to prevent inflation. "Instead of becoming a method of

He cited conservation of steel, alloys and other critical materials as ends which can be achieved through revising specifications and "better technique and better ingenuity" on the part of management.

Asserting that America is building tanks and planes in numbers "that would astound and dismay the dictators." Gen. Somervell said:

This clock is set to remind us of the first shot on Pearl Harbor at 7:55 a.m., December 7, 1941. Remember the time of the crime of all time." Scores of reasons have been advanced for the 8:21 time on the signboard clocks. One of the most widely believed, delegates said, was that the time marks the assassination or death of Abraham Lincoln. But historians say it isn't so, that Lincoln was shot about 10 p.m. and died about 7 a.m. the next day.

Decisive Summer

American correspondents return-Ing from Axis-occupied Europe report that Hitler and his aides are convinced that this will be the decisive summer of the war. That this conviction may be shared by the Allied strategists is indicated by several recent developments.

One of these is the announcement that a new contingent of American troops-the largest yet to cross the Atlantic-has been landed in Ireland, and that these soldiers took their own tanks with them. Any inferences | of it." drawn from this announcement necessarily must be sheer speculation. But we may be sure that these troops have not been sent on any idle voyage through submarine-infested waters, and the possible uses to which they may be put are limited.

There is one school of thought which believes that Hitler, unable to smash the Soviet Army, will attempt merely to stabilize his position in Russia and direct his major offensive blows at Britain this year. Proponents of this theory call attention to Winston Churchill's recent statement that the Allies had no evidence of German troop concentrations on a scale indicative of an all-out attempt to crush the Russians, and draw support from that for their belief that the British Isles will be the real target. If this belief is well founded. then the sending of large numbers of American troops and heavy equipment to Ireland is understandable as a defensive move, for Britain must be held. It seems more reasonable to believe, however, that Hitler is hopelessly committed to a final effort to break Russia this summer. He might well prefer some other course, but he threw away his freedom of choice last June 22 when he came to the ill-fated conclusion that the time was ripe for a new adventure, and now he finds himself locked in battle with a foe which is not content to wait for the enemy's blows to fall.

The Germans, it is true, have made progress with their offensive on the Kerch Peninsula, but this is a gain which would mean little if the Russians are able to press home their drive on Kharkov and the Donets Basin. The Nazis at Kerch and in the whole Crimea are supplied by a railroad running down the Dnieper Valley, and this supply line is threatened by the Russian offensive. If it should be cut the position of Hitler's troops in the south would be desperate.

And this fighting, it should be remembered, is but a prelude to the great struggle which is shaping up along the 2,000-mile Russian front. Before another month is out, the decisive battle of the war should be in full swing from Leningrad to the Black Sea.

If this picture develops, the possibility of a serious German assault on Britain would be ruled out and the explanation of the sending of an American expeditionary force to Ireland as a defensive operation would become invalid. That would leave the possibility that the opening of a "second front," so vigorously advocated in Britain, may be in the offing.

Lending some support to this line of conjecture is the recent announcement that this Government has largely abandoned its program of building new war plants and will concentrate every effort on turning out weapons in the plants now operating or soon to be built. Most of our officials have been saying that one tank, or one plane, or one gun this year will be worth ten in 1943. Now it looks as though we are prepared to stop talking about producing every possible weapon this summer and are moving with real determination to get them. If that be the case, the great and decisive battle now taking shape in Europe would seem to be the theater in which they can be used with most telling effect this year.

Panama Agreement

Another good example of practical co-operation for Western Hemisphere defense is provided by the agreement just signed between the United States and Panama, giving our armed forces the right to develop and occupy numerous defense areas in the Panamanian Republic for the duration of the war emergency. While this agreement is based on a special interest of the two nations in protection of the Panama Canal, it exemplifies the Good Neighbor spirit of collaboration in the face of common danger that has brought unprece-of the agreement were being attained even before the formalities of its negotiation were completed. That is, the Panamanian government did not wait until the pact was signed to permit our armed forces to take over strategic areas for air fields, bombing ranges, airplane detector stations. gun emplacements and such vital war activities. Conclusion of the agreement ratifies the accomplished fact, and stipulates the terms on which we are granted temporary use of the areas involved. The United States is to pay only a nominal rental of one dollar a year for all the public lands included, except a $10,000 annual rental is provided for the big Rio Hato air base, some eighty miles from the canal. This Government also had agreed to pay $50 per hectare annually for private lands it is occupying, and to share the expense of maintaining roads used by our military forces. Other concessions of minor importance to this country were made to Panama on outstanding problems of an economic nature.

The agreement appears to be consistent with fairness and the realities of the situation, and to merit the State Department's description as "an important contribution to the security of the Canal and the defense of the hemisphere."

Hemisphere Sculpture

When John Ruskin, nearly a hundred years ago, undertook to express the purpose of the art of sculpture. he said that it "is not the mere cutting of the form of anything in stone; it is the cutting of the effect

The philosophy thus put into language is demonstrated most notably in an exhibition of contemporary sculptured works now open to the public at the Corcoran Gallery. Thomas J. Watson, president of the International Business Machines Corporation, is the actual sponsor of the show, and in it he again, as repeatedly in the past, gives evidence of a personal genius deserving of the commendation of his countrymen. His mind, it seems, is possessed of a particular skill for the comprehension of the United States as a whole, each State in a constructive relation to the entire Union and to every other constituent part thereof. It happens, too, that he values the connection between the United States and Canada and their Latin neighbors to the South. He has, in brief, a hemispheric vision. And the present result of the impact of Mr. Watson's energetic perspicacity is the bringing together of interesting works of sculpture from practically every portion of the western side of the globe. With help from professional appraisers of current artistic effort, he has assembled representative examples of modeling and carving in which Ruskin's ideal has been attempted by each independent artist according to his own conception. Of course, wide variation characterizes the display. It also is true that the influence of Africa and of the Orient as well as that of classic Greece and Rome are obvious. Some of the compositions exhibited might have come straight from the Congo, others derive from the Mayans, still others from the totem pole Indians of the Pacific Northwest. But such a tie with the Old World is historic and need occasion no surprise in this exemplifi-

What is supremely important is the circumstance of cultural harmony which Mr. Watson has proved. The sculptures which he has brought together testify to an effect of democracy, tolerance, mutuality and freedom. As art, they merit attention; as artifacts of a liberal civilization, they deserve appreciation.

Wage Adjustment

The compromise wage increase agreement announced for the shipbuilding industry clearly falls within the specifications laid down by President Roosevelt when he told the workers that the "full percentage" wage increase called for by contract and to which they were entitled by the letter of the law would be irreconcilable with the national policy to control the cost of living.

This view of the legal rights of the shipyard workers under their contracts seems to be at variance with the Government's position in other phases of its price-control program, where provisions of existing contracts have been superseded by executive regulations. The fact remains, however, that the settlement is a commendable one, and is a gratifying indication that union leaders. in the higher paid fields at least, are aware that there must be an end to the boosting of wage levels if the inflation danger is to be dealt with successfully.

Under the terms of the agreement more than half a million workers will receive an increase in wages averaging about eight cents an hour. This is about one-half the average increase called for by their contracts with the shipbuilding firms, amounting altogether to between $125,000,-000 and $150,000,000 during the next | added, "it will be difficult for State year. This increase, which ultimately will be borne in large part by the taxpayers, will be paid in the form of War bonds, and these will not be cashed except in cases of ex-

To the extent that these highly desirable objectives are attained, the agreement is one which will contribute materially to the war effort.

Arctic Sea Front

The bitter sea and air battle just fought around the German heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen high lights the grim struggle which is raging in Europe's northern waters. Although the area of conflict extends from the North Sea clear around the tip of Norway to Russian Arctic waters, the bone of contention is the Anglo-American supply route to the Russian ports of Murmansk and Archangel, so vital to the equipping of the Red armies on the eastern front.

The German high command appreciates to the full the necessity of checking that flow of supplies to its archenemy. To accomplish this, it has stationed most of its high-seas fleet in the shelter of Norway's deep fjords, ready to dash out and wreak havoc on passing convoys. To avert that, in turn, Britain and presumably the United States have assigned heavy naval units to this area, ready to smash such an attempt, as the Bismarck raid on the North Atlantic lane was smashed last year. Both sides maintain extensive air patrols to watch all that goes on. That was how a British patrol spotted the Prinz Eugen, already damaged by a British submarine some weeks ago, as it tried to leave its fjord haven and get home for repairs.

This shows how closely the R. A. F. follows every German move. But the Luftwaffe is equally alert to observe every convoy Russia-bound, and then German submarines, light naval craft and planes dash from their Norwegian havens and air fields to do their deadly work. Unfortunately, climatic and seasonal factors now combine to render this German offensive more effective and Anglo-American defensive measures more difficult.

The first of these factors is the spring drift of pack ice breaking off from the permanent ice fields in the Polar regions of the Arctic Ocean. Those countless ice floes are pressing southward in growing volume. To be sure, they rarely reach the Norwegian coast, because they are intercepted and melted by the tongue of the Gulf Stream which washes around Norway into Russian waters and keeps Murmansk a year-round ice-free port. However, during the late spring and summer months, the navigable lane is restricted by this ice pressure to the vicinity of the Norwegian and Russian coasts. And that makes easier the task of both U-boats and land-based German planes.

The second seasonal factor is the midnight sun, which abolishes darkness in the Arctic during this time of year. That makes it impossible for convoys to hide from German air patrols, as they do during the winter months of night and snowstorms. So the Luftwaffe has a prolonged field day, attacking at will all around the clock.

Government Finance

Federal Budget Director Smith read a lesson on fiscal management to a regional conference of the Council of State Governments this past week that should be taken to heart by all State and local governmental officials. His remarks, however, bear no less importantly on the conduct of the Federal Government.

Mr. Smith's argument was, in effect, that States and municipalities are too prone to dip into the Federal Treasury whenever the opportunity is presented, and that this evidences a dangerous trend toward dependency on the central Government that strikes at the principles of local government. To illustrate what he meant, the budget director pointed to the rush to get in on the $300,-000,000 Congress appropriated for wartime community facilities, explaining that applications were received for projects totaling more than a billion dollars. Many were proposed to be financed entirely by the Federal Government, and in many instances they bore but little relation to the war effort. In justice to the rest of the country, Mr. Smith continued, "conditions and restrictions" must be attached to such Federal grants, "yet these safeguards may bring about a gradual erosion of the very soil in which local government has its roots."

Instead of pursuing a course that endangers their independence, the budget director admonished, the State governments, now that revenues are on the upgrade, should practice all practical economy, and build up reserves against the inevitable slump of the post-war era. Otherwise, he foresaw a return to conditions akin to those of the depression, with the Federal Government stepping in again to carry a heavy relief load because State treasuries are unequal to the task.

"Under such circumstances," he government to preserve its sphere of

The soundness of this position is indisputable, but it cannot be denied that this administration has encouraged the very state of affairs which Mr. Smith deprecates. It has not been so long ago, for example, that in the face of State opposition, the White House sought unsuccessfully to get a $300,000,000 appropriation through Congress to supplement It is noteworthy that the objectives eliminating wage differentials as a sion was calculated to cause idleness. brought in by Polynesian invaders. By Thomas R. Henry.

American occupation of New Caledo nia is bringing Uncle Sam's soldiers in contact with one of the least known, ethnologically, of the earth's peoples. The native of this French possession, both in physical characters and culture, is a curious mixture of the black, small statured, primitive Melanesian and the brown, robust, relatively advanced Polynesian of the Maori type.

Undoubtedly, the basic stock is Melanesian, New Caledonia lies well within the area of these dark little people who include some of the least advanced of the human race. The Polynesian mixture, however, came long before the first white contacts. It is especially apparent on the east coast but has permeated to some extent the whole stock.

Up to the time of white colonization there was little cohesion among the New Caledonian natives. In 1930 the Rev. Maurice Leenhardt, agent of the Societe des Missions Evangeliques who had spent a quarter of a century among them, reported to the French Institut d'Ethnologie that there were at least vestiges of 20 different languages spoken on the island. Most of these, he found, were more distinctive than dialects of a common basic tongue.

The differentiation of the tribes was aided by the geography of New Caledonia, split by a range of high mountains with many spurs extending nearly to the coasts. These formed deep, fertile valleys through which swift rivers ran seaward. Hence not only separation but hostility between the different groups. Much of this divergence now has broken down and the languages themselves are disappearing in an extremely degenerate French. New Calendonia is an excellent example of French administration. Reserved densely forested areas have been set aside for the natives for their own protection. Many schools, public and private, have been established. There has been, however, no deliberate program either to force on the native the white man's way of life or to prevent him from adopting it. He has the same rights as a French citizen. Unfortunately, the New Caledonians have been little studied by the professional ethnologist. M. Leenhardt's notes, gathered in the course of a missionary's busy life, contain the most complete information on the native ways of life.

The characteristic dwelling is a beehive-shaped, grass-covered hut usually occupied by a single family. To such a structure may be attached several outbuildings for storage. Each village ususomewhat removed, which serve the community as a whole, especially the men. Also, M. Leenhardt records, each village usually has a hidden retreat in the mountains to which the people can retire in time of danger.

New Caledonians, he found, still use in dealings with each other a curious type of shell money. This consists of shells ground down by exhaustive labor to form small globules. The value is determined largely by the amount of labor which goes into its preparation. Highest in value is the so-called "black pearl," so fine and delicate that it can be moved by blowing the breath against it. French convicts early learned to counterfeit this money, thus causing considerable confusion in native economics. Up to the outbreak of the war French merchants would accept the "pearls" at a standard rate of exor clan organization, as described by M. Leenhardt, is extremely complex. The New Caledonians recognize at least 21 degrees of relationship, each designated by a different

The religious life of these people, a described by the French missionary, is complex and somewhat secretive, with great ceremonies of propitiation in which all members of a tribe take part as the basic feature. Such a ceremony, continuing for days, is known as the "pilou pilou"-a name the derivation of which M. Leenhardt was unable to determine. There are a great number of native gods and they differ from tribe to tribe. Like many other primitives, the native of New Caledonia believes in a personal spirit—his "ko"—which dwells in his body but which can act independently, sometimes to the great peril or embarrassment of the physical partner. This "ko" is blown into the ear of a new-born infant. as soon after birth as possible, by the maternal uncle. During slumber it has a habit of leaving the body and wandering about-sometimes on nefarious business. When a native is accused of a crime he never can plead innocent with an entirely clear conscience. He never knows what his ko has been doing while he was unconscious.

One of the most rigid taboos is against waking a sleeper. The ko may not be able to find its way back if the man moves and this might well be fatal An interpretation of serious illness is that the ko has wandered away toward the tomb. The job of the medicine man is to lure it back. The ko apparently is not affected by the death of the individual except that it looses its dwelling place. Natives believe that it finds itself a new home in a tree gall. However, it may continue to wander about for a time and, blessed with invisibility, do much mischief.

Apparently, M. Leenhardt found, each village has its own protecting divinity whose dwelling is well knowna large, fantastically shaped stone or some other prominent natural object.

Many attributes of Polynesian culture have been introduced into the basic Melanesian way of life, but the historical progress of this development is unknown. It apparently was completed a matter of centuries, at least, before the first white contacts.

Notable curiosities of New Caledonia are the stone works, found especially on the east coast. There are stone walls which may have been intended as fortifications. There are also grotesque carvings of animals, trees and gigantic human forms which recall | United States Naval Reserve.

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

May, somehow, seems peculiarly the Somehow they overlook the catbird, month of the catbird. "Catbird month," it almost might be called, so insistent is this fine songster on being heard and seen.

Later he will calm down a bit, but right now he is "all over the place," to use a good phrase. Sometimes people, and children, and even birds, seem to be that way. (Now, please don't say that "children are people, too." Of course they are! We use "people" to mean grown-ups, socalled)

If you want to have fun with cathirds. put a slice of bread on a porch railing, either on the wood, or in some shallow dish you do not mind getting broken.

* * * * The other day a catbird flew down to such a saucer Starlings and sparrows, great bread eaters, had been there before him. There was a whole slice left, however, and this he proceeded to sample. Between each bite he raised his head and gave the peculiar outcry which gives him his name. "Meow!" he called, much to the disgust of Penny, who stood on her hind legs at the screen door, chattering at

Female cats despise birds, especially blue jays. Penny chatters at a great rate every time she sees a jay.

* * * * The catbird did not seem to mind the cat in the least.

He ate away as if no cat were within mile of him Then all of a sudden he seized the slice in his bill and flew away with it.

Just how far would he get? A slice of bread is not heavy, compared with a loaf, but it is too much for the average bird.

The catbird flew perhaps 10 feet before he dropped the bread.

Four sparrows pounced on it immediately. The catbird landed on the arch, and from that point gave forth his cry, "Meow!" This sound has none of the personal triumph of the jay's battle cry. It is simply an utterance.

The catbird is undoubtedly one of the very finest of all our American birds, but too many persons do not realize

Lacking the flash of the male cardinal, or the praise in song and story of the bluebird, or the size of the dove, or the vigor of the jaybird, the catbird often is overlooked by bird lovers.

They speak a great deal of the wrens, and the chickadees, the nuthatches and one of the best of them all. There can be no doubt that the name has something to do with this, on the part of many persons who dislike, or at least they think they dislike, the house cat.

There is, however, nothing at all in common between a cat and a catbird except the cry.

This, it must be admitted, is an excellent imitation, rather on the sardonic side, of the house cat's voice. Yet no friend of cats would ever be fooled by it. The catbird's meow, or mew, is sarcastic, to a degree, as if the songster were determined to give a critical slant. Therefore, he might be regarded, in a very loose sense, as belonging to the ranks of those who dislike the house cat. This ought to endear him to certain humans.

The truth seems to be that birds, as a class, do not dislike cats, nor do they have any particular fear of them. Cats, to birds, are simply accepted as part of things as they are. On the whole, bird life is very successful in avoiding damaging contact with four-legged animals.

While a number of young birds are lost every year by being caught by cats, perhaps many times as many are lost by being attacked by other and larger birds, and by man. Man, prime distroyer of himself, is one of the worst bird enemies, a fact which is often overlooked.

. . . . The catbird's favorite foods, as doled out by man, are ground beef, raising and bread.

This particular specimen remembered the porch railing from last year. There could be no doubt of it at all.

The first we knew a catbird was in the yard was by hearing the distinctive ery from the porch. There was a catbird-the catbirdon the rail, flirting his tail, and opening his bill to give out his meow. He flew into the lilacs, all the time looking inquiringly at the rail.

Bread is perhaps the favorite food of all songbirds in this vicinity. Cardinals like sunflower seed better.

but practically all the other species will eat bread at any time of year. It is not, however, particularly good for them during the summer months. A slice or two, every now and then either moistened or plain, affords the birds both sustenance and sport. They like to pick at the slice, and often indulge in a regular tug-of-war. "Tug-of-war." what a phrase!

don't we all know something about it.

Calls for Active Public Interest In Provision of Recreation Areas. To the Editor of The Star:

Congress and residents of the District well may heed the warning of Commissioner Delano of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission appearing in The Star of May 17, that failure to make provision for adequate playground and recreation facilities in the District may have serious consequences in the near future, if, indeed, it has not already been one of the causes of the increase in juvenile delinquency reported by the Juvenile Court.

Dr. Delano well says, in his appeal to the Senate-House conferees on the independent offices appropriation bill: "Ow ing to the severe restrictions placed on 'pleasure' travel of all kinds, the Washington families will have to look more and more to their neighborhood playgrounds and recreation centers for wholesale outdoor recreation. strain of war makes such outdoor recreation more of a necessity. • • • Except for three badly needed small playgrounds to serve congested sections of the city, only those areas were included in the commission's program which it determined were necessary to complete projects partially acquired where existing investment would be seriously impaired should private development occur. Washington continues to expand rapidly during this war period, placing a premium on vacant land which if not acquired now may soon be built upon." Dr. Delano then calls attention to the fact that the money requested is to be repaid from District revenues and states that the restoration of the item ($700,-000) would be pleasing to all those connected with the administration of the District government. It seems apparent that the elimination of the item requested by the Park and Planning Commission would not only be uneconomical but a real blow to the permanent welfare of the District. It is to be hoped, therefore, that not only persons connected with the administration of the District government actively will bestir themselves in this matter, but also the various civic bodies interested in the welfare of Washington. Corrects Report Containing Reference To Cadet Prize Company of 1928. to the Editor of The Star:

Referring to an article in The Star for May 16, my very good friend, Geoffrey Creyke, jr., whom the article mentions, was an excellent cadet captain in 1928. I met him while attending the annual cadet encampment at Camp Simms in 1927 and have seen him frequently since as students at George Washington University, fellow members of the bar and more recently as members of the Junior Board of Commerce.

However, if you will check your paper of June 6, 1928, you will note that the captain of the prize company in that year was the writer, not Mr. Creyke. I consider that achievement one of the greatest events of my comparatively young life, particularly since my school (now Roosevelt High, formerly Business High) had not won the drill for 14 years prior thereto nor have they succeeded in winning since.

Captain of the second place company was R. Minor Hudson, Central High, who subsequently attended George Washington University, and was also later president of the Junior Board. He is now lieutenant (junior grade).

Letters to the Editor must bear the name and address of the writer, although the use of a pseudonym for publication is permissible. The Star reserves the right to edit all letters with a view to condensation.

Praises Berryman Cartoon

In Appreciation of Teachers. To the Editor of The Star:

Clifford K. Berryman's cartoon in The Star for May 16 is a most appropriate recognition of the American teachers' wartime service. Knowing that it will be accepted with pleasure throughout the United States, as well as in the District of Columbia, we are taking steps to make it available to the 900,000 teachers who are affiliated with the National Education Association.

The teacher regularly is engaged in a quiet and unobtrusive public service, so often accepted as a matter of course that little recognition is accorded to it. Your commendation for the effective completion of this unusual assignment, is, therefore, doubly welcome.

The sugar rationing project was remarkable. Never in the history of similar contacts of our Government with its people has so large a number of citizens been reached on an important matter in so brief a time. Sugar rationing took four days, and outside of certain administrative expenses involved in the printing and distributing of millions of blanks and rationing cards, the cost was negligible. Teachers are proud of their participation in this subject. They gladly will do their part to help maintain the kind of Government we are pledging our all to preserve. WILLIAM E. GIVENS

Executive Secretary, National Education Association of the United States.

Appeals for Fair Play In Demanding X Cards. To the Editor of The Star:

What a pathetic demonstration of patriotism has been the unreasonable demand for gasoline by both the laity and members of the several professions. All seem willing to further the winning of this war so long as nothing causes them any inconvenience.

X cards are overly plentiful. Trained nurses, when they use their cars in their work, drive to the residence of the patient or to the hospital where they are called and park during their period of duty. Chiropractors and osteopaths treat 99 per cent of their cases in the office. Veterinarians have their own hospitals to which are carried by their owners ailing pets which are called for by said owners upon their recovery. The vast majority of dentists rarely make a call on patients and in most cases when they do so either stop on the way to or from their office. A great many of these professional people, however, have demanded and received X cards.

I am neither a criterion of patriotism nor a paragon of truth, but I do have self respect enough to give a true statement of facts in an emergency of this kind.

I have a son in the armed forces on duty overseas and am willing to make any sacrifice to help bring him back alive. If the gas shortage is as serious as officials claim, for the sake of our LOUIS M. CUVILLIER.

Many Qualifiers For Special 'Club' Are Suggested

By DAVID LAWRENCE. There may come into being as result of the gasoline rationing debate a new organization—somewhat imaginary, to be sure, but significant of the trend of the times. It may be known as the "X" Club, because it could become the symbol of special privilege in handing out public funds and favors and imposing restrictive laws irrespective of the principles fairness or David Lawrence. equity as they may apply to other citizens in the country. Here are some conspicuous examples of special privilege which Congress has done nothing as yet to remedy:

1. The farm group, over the protest of the President, gets 110 per cent of parity and also is given financial subsidies, notwithstanding the argument that inflation is thus encouraged.

2. The labor group, with the acquiescence of the President, gets "union maintenance" or compulsory unionization, notwithstanding the Bill of Rights, which implies that right to work in America is inalienable and cannot be abridged by an private organization.

3. The Justice Department finds time to go back into the 1920s to discover technical reasons for prosecuting during wartime today the production managements of many important companies busily engaged in war tasks, but shuts its eyes to the violations of the Federal Corrupt Practices Act by high personages in connection with the 1936 and 1940 campaigns.

Court Viewpoints Cited. 4. The New Deal judges who rule that it isn't a violation of the antitrust laws to use physical violence and conduct a sit-down strike, actually stopping shipments of goods from such a plant as the Apex Manufacturing Co. in Philadelphia, but holding it is a violation for manufacturers to try to prevent retailers from gypping the public in installment sale financing.

5. The Supreme Court majority which, in the Hutchinson case, exempted union labor from prosecutions under the Sherman anti-trust law, even though the effect of the union's activities was to restrain trade and keep the costs of housing up to high levels.

6. The Treasury Department which rules that lecturers, actors and celebrities who give their services free to charitable organizations need not count as a part of their incomes the constructive value of their personal services, but nevertheless recommends to Congress that colleges. churches and charitable institutions struggling to survive in wartime shall be permitted to receive only a limited amount of bequests from the estates of philanthropists.

9. The members of Congress and the administration who insist on regulating prices by price control legislation and profits by heavy tax legislation but who refuse to freeze wages or to tax the billion-dellar intake every year of labor unions or compel them to disclose their financial operations to the public.

10. The members of Congress who hesitate to pass a sales tax because it might work hardship on low income groups and yet permit without protest the labor organizations to collect dues and initiation fees from those same groups amounting in some cases to a tax of 3 per cent a month on all earnings.

Equity Pushed Aside. The list could be extended to cover many other items of class legislation and executive decision that have been recorded during the last eight or nine years as Washington gradually has brushed aside principles of equity both with respect to human rights and property rights. Pursuit of Habit of Sneering at Congress Seen in Public Cry on X-Card Allowances

By GOULD LINCOLN. How much gasoline does a member of Congress require to attend to official business, as well as to get himself to and from the Capitol? Only the individual member of the Senate or the House can answer that question correctly. There has been an uproar-for which the newspapers are largely responsible-over the issuance of X gas rationing cards to members of

These cards allow the unlimited purchase of gasoline by their holders. Because a Senator or a Representative holds such a card, however, does not mean that he or she is going to use an automobile for joy riding-although that seems to be the impression which many critics have sought to convey.

The controversy arose when inept statements were made by bureau officials that members of Congress would be denied X gas rationing cards. They were not denied these cards. It was a foregone conclusion that they would not be so denied.

Congress makes the laws for the country still. It makes the appropriations from which all the administration officials of the Government are paid. It is one of the three co-ordinate branches of government. In the Constitution it is placed first. Properly so. For if the legislative branch of the Government should be abolished or weakened to the point of being a mere rubber stamp, there re...ains only a dictatorship. A perfect example of what happens in the latter case is the Hitler dictatorship in Nazi

Patriotism Questioned.

Too long it has been a habit in this country to belittle and sneer at the Congress. The present attempt to make it appear that its members todaybecause they obtained, in many cases, unlimited gas rationing cards-are unpatriotic and merely looking out for their own comfort is just another instance. There are 96 Senators and 435 members of the House. How many X gas rationing cards have been issued to officials of the executive branch of the Government? Is there any reason to believe that they will be more careful than members of Corgress in the amount of gasoline they use-or for what purposes? Anything but.

A member of the House has business to do for some 300,000 represent them at the Capitol or to look after their interests before the executive departments and agencies. Senators from more populous States represent millions of constituents. It is ridiculous to say that they shall be denied what transportation they may need to carry on this

The effort to exalt the executive branch of the Government -wouldly at the expense of the legislative—has gone on too long in this country. With the exception of two officers—the President and the Vice President -not one of the executive offirials is elected by the peopleyet they have become myriad. All of these officials and their positions have been created by acts of Congress itself.

Every member of the House must go to the people every two years, and every Senator once every six years, and obtain their Sufferance to hold office. Congress is the creature of the people; its representative to make the laws which shall govern the people and the Nation. If this power is ever turned over to one man, the Nation will no longer be governed by law but by the will of an individual.

The American people do not hesitate to criticize where they think criticism is necessary. They have been vociferous in the past. Since the beginning of the war last December, in the desire for a united front in support of the President, whose duty it is to conduct the war, criticism of the Chief Executive, the commander in chief of the Army and the Navy, has been almost eliminated. Congress, however, has been considered fair game. The attempt has been made to place on the national legislature the blame for all the things the people do not like.

The present uproar over the issuance of X gas rationing cards to members of Congress is having one good effect—which may not have been expected. It has brought a ruling that the names of all persons with rationing cards and the kinds of cards they hold shall be public. There is no reason why they should not be public-since the people themselves, those who hold no official position, must be governed by rationing. Especially there is no reason why officers of the Government, including members of Congress, should have secret rationing cards. The people will be able to judge, then, whether holders of these cards are abusing the privileges and making frivolous use of vital fuel for

Timoshenko Held Likely to Capture Kharkov If He Can Block Nazi Reinforcements

By CONSTANTINE BROWN. With both German and Russian offensives under way on the eastern front the picture of the struggle in that area is one of complete confusion.

In the Crimea the Germans have virtually completed the conquest of the Kerch Peninsula, after mopping up remainders of the Russian forces, and are preparing a major operation against the Caucasus.

The Russian offensive against Kharkov is still in progress, with the advantage definitely on the side of Field Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's armies. The defenses of Kharkov are powerful and for the time being the city remains in Nazi hands.

Marshal Timoshenko's main efforts are directed toward cutting German lines of communication in order to prevent further Nazi reinforcements from reaching the Kharkov area

It is too early to claim victory, but odds and ends of information received in Washington make it appear that Russian forces are hammering relentlessly and successfully at the Nazi-Hungarian

From all available reports it appears that the Germans have massed the bulk of their reserves in the south. The Nazi high command has always considered that sector the "softest" and most profitable field of operation.

The field marshals who are now running the Reich, with Hitler as standard-bearer, have realized from the beginning that the capture of Moscow and Leningrad would be spectacular, but mean relatively little from the military point of view.

Military Fiasco. The plan of campaign last fall provided for such an operation. until Hitler upset the field marshals' applecart by ordering a political offensive in the center. Hitler wanted to give his people a Christmas present in the form of captured Moscow. In order to do this he ordered an offensive against the Soviet capital and in his haste to get there before the really heavy winter set in he withdrew six divisions from the southern front.

He did not capture Moscow and made it impossible for Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt to continue the offensive against the defeated forces of Field Marshal Semeon Budenny in the Ukraine.

This was Hitler's first great military fiasco and cost him a great deal of prestige with his military leaders. While the German military commanders-almost all Junkers of the old school -conceded the little Austrian certain "military and strategic instincts" the failure of his operation against Moscow placed him in a delicate position with respect to the military men.

Hitler in Background.

The positions lost last winter because the southern army was weakened have now been retaken. The cost was heavy, both in men and war material. At present it is the Nazi high command, composed of professional soldiers, which directs the strategy of the Reich's armies. Hitler merely puts his stamp of approval on whatever the general staff decides to do.

Success or failure of the German operations against the Caucasus depends entirely on what Marshal Timoshenko can do. If he succeeds in breaking through the Kharkov front by smashing up the powerful Nazi lines of defense it is likely the Germans will have to slow down their operations on the Caucasian border and revise their strategy once eral million shirts. Undoubtedly true, Mr. Marcus, but several millions of what kind of shirts? Shirts with insufficient tails?

What a horrible thing to foist on a Nation that is trying to apply its mind to an all-out war effort What a terrible handicap to inflict on men pledged to devote the best that is in them for their country!

A short shirt tail is the most confounded nuisance of all. The devil, working in his own laboratory, and at time-and-half overtime, couldn't devise a surer way to run a man crazy than a shirttail that won't stay in. We think we speak for all men when we say we would rather have one shirt with sufficient anchorage than a dozen shirts whose bobtails would fly in the breeze like distress signals.

There can be no compromise on shirttails. They are either long enough to stay in or they aren't. The shirt, as it now stands, is more or less of a masterpiece of the manufacturers' art. There is just enough tail on it to make it a touchand-go battle for the wearer. If he bends carefully and carries himself like a mink coat model, it will stay below his belt. Let him get a bit careless, however, and out it pops.

To shorten the present-day shirttail is to rob America of many man-hours. Industrialists will lose anywhere from 15 minutes to an

Mr. Marcus may argue that for men to worry about how their shirttails are doing is ridiculous. It would require centuries for the American man to get used to not caring whether his shirttail was securely tucked in or not, because from the time he was big enough to wear a shirt he has been told to keep it in. His mother told him when he was a little boy. So did his sisters. Later on his sweetheart looked disapprovingly at him when his shirttail waved. Still later his wife took charge, and in between times he was counseled by aunts, uncles and what have you.

Poets have even touched on the subject. We all know that beautiful bit of verse about a biblical character that goes, "Where was Moses when the lights went out, down in the cellar with his shirttail out." Just as we are familiar with "Goody, goody, gout, your shirttail's hanging out."

Staffs Now Held Able To Plan Offensive With At Least 20 Divisions

By DREW MIDDLETON. Associated Press War Correspondent. LONDON, May 19.—The balance of military power in Western Europe has shifted to the Allies' favor for the first time since the war began, a responsible military observer declared today as thousands of battle - ready American soldiers swelled the striking might develop-

The realization both here and in the United States that only offensive action can beat Germany decisively is underscored, this informant said, not only by the great convoy which has deposited a new, combat-equipped United States force in Northern Ireland, but also by the intensive training of Canadian and British armies for attack and the accumulation of air strength.

Now, he said, with the German Army deteriorating and in difficulties in Russia, the new American arrivals with prospect of still further reinforcements make it possible for the Allies to plan for an offensive with at least 20 divisions, 300,000

Meantime housewives found that price ceilings saved them a few cents on many articles. There were exceptions, however. The Government order freezing other retail prices at their highest March level did not apply to perishable foods. These exceptions included such things as butter, cheese, evaporated, condensed and other canned milk products, poultry and eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables, flour, mutton and lamb, sea food and game, nuts, dried prunes and dry beans.

The Labor Department estimated the ceilings would establish a general price level of about 115.1 per cent of the 1934-1939 average.

Stores Changing Prices. Throughout Washington stores affected were busy yesterday changing the prices on articles affected. The price of a bottle of beer or a glass of milk sold by a restaurant, soda fountain or bar is controlled by the price ceiling, it was explained, but that of a cocktail, ice cream soda or a cup of coffee is not. "The word 'prepared' means that something must be done besides cooling and icing, opening and pouring a beverage. #### 'Human' War News Needed Editors at Symposium Say

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 19.—A need for more "human" presentation of the Nation's war news by the authorities of information, and a call for wariness on the part of news-papers against foreign propaganda and "overplaying" minor victories, were voiced yesterday to 50 of the country's leading newspaper editors attending a symposium on war problems at Harvard. "The people need an uplift, a fighting uplift," declared William Y. Elliott, professor of government at Harvard, who is on leave to serve with the War Production Board, "and one way that they can get it is by having the centers of information dispense news both of victory and defeat in terms that are human

Brawler to Beat Tailor-Made Fighter

As we see it, the Lou Nova-Lee Savold scrap here Thursday In Final Prep night for Navy relief will be a battle between a tailor-made ringman, Nova, and a rough and tumble barroom brawler who has earned the greater part of his livelihood using his fists on another man. That would be Savold.

In case like this you've almost got to take the natural fighter over the manufactured article because he figures to stand up under the toughest sort of pounding and still keep coming. A man of that caliber

Almost, we say, because Nova is a game guy, too, one who has sopped up gobs of brutal punishment without hoisting the white flag, and town today to supervise final prepaif the bout simmers down to a contest of endurance he probably could rations for the all-star Navy Relief stay in there until the cows come home. But Savold, definitely, is more Fund benefit boxing show at Griffith suited to his avocation. He belongs in the racket. He was born for Stadium Thursday night and also to boxing, while Nova is simply an interloper who saw in boxing a chance look into the status of Pvt. Joe to make a big killing quickly and cashed in on it.

Well, you ask, how come Nova has been on top, mingling with the elite while Savold has been eating at the second table, so to speak, if Lee is the better fighter? The answer is management, Lou's own native atheletic ability and a brand of determination this country hasn't seen since Revolutionary War days.

Nova Began at Top of the Ladder

Ray Carlen, Nova's pilot, is recognized as one of the shrewdest in a racket where dumb managers starve to death and keen hoss trading is with Lee Savold, and the Knights the rule, not the exception. You've got to get up with the chickens to of Columbus gym, where Savold is catch him napping and when Nova, a big, strapping amateur, came along training. This was to be the last and Carlin first laid eyes on him he made up his mind then and there he had found himself a heavyweight contender.

Carlin figured the best way to put Nova on top was to start there, so Lou skipped most of the preliminaries. They say it takes four years to learn a trade and seven to learn how to fight, but Nova took a stream- himself threatened with eclipse belined course and made it in half the usual time. In his sophomore year hind the eight-ball because of re-Carlin let him associate with such rugged characters as Salvatore Rug- cent and dramatic turn of events in girello, Sonnyboy Walker and Bob Nestell. The following year he drew and won in two fights with Lee Ramage, drew with Bob Pastor, took a boxing lesson from slick Max Rosenbloom, kayoed Domingo Valin, Phil Brubaker, Frank Androff, Gunnar Barlund and got the nod over Tommy

In 1939 he had only two fights, scoring a technical kayo over Max half of Jacobs' planned summer pro-Baer in their memorable first meeting and losing to Tony Galento in the gram. same manner at Philadelphia. This last was the scrap in which "Honest George" Blake was imported from the Pacific Coast to insure fair play for Nova and ended up by allowing Galento to use everything but a sawed-off shotgun.

Savold's Early Record Rather Obscure

Nova was in comparative retirement during 1940, finally emerging from his shell in October to flatten one Johnny Erjavec. Last year, after kicking the stuffing out of Pat Comiskey, Baer again and Jim Robinson, he got the shot at Louis. As it turned out he really didn't get a shot at | ceeds going to service relief funds. the champion because Joe saw him first, but Nova, at least, had the distinction, plus the cash, of appearing in a title fight.

Now, let's look at Savold's record. It is vague at best because Lee share of the receipts from a pair of putting up his dukes at the ripe old age of 16, formally and informally. and much of the data concerning the outcome has not been preserved for posterity. But what we have shows that the Des Moines kid beat a lot of good men without apparently going anywhere.

In 1938, for example, he took the measure of Buddy Baer, Pal Silvers, Maury Strickland, Eddie Simms and Arne Anderson. The following need an extended furlough from the year he broke even in two brawls with Johnny Whiters, kayoed Jim Robinson, Billy Miske, jr.; Bob Nestell, Anderson and a host of lesser lights and wound up with Billy Conn in the Garden, where he dropped

That should have been enough to keep him in the thick of the big business, but last year he was back with the small fry, meeting fighters with such unfamiliar handles as Selman Martin, Henry Wacker, Erv Sarlin, Ralph Kosky, Tony Degutis and Mike Alfano. A couple of losses to Harry Bobo didn't help matters, but after the second, in which he was knocked out, Savold embarked on a long winning streak that has not yet money is saying he won't get bebeen snapped and which, he says, will not be interrupted in the Nova

Pinky Didn't Push His Pug Hard Enough

"Pinky" George handled Savold's affairs in the earlier stages of his career, and it is the consensus of ring followers that "Pinky" didn't push his boy enough. He certainly couldn't have picked his spots for Savold, judging by the record, and Lee would have it that way. That's what we mean when we say the fellow is a natural fighter. It was never "who'm I for the moment to concentrate on fightin'," but "when am I fighting" with him? And he took them all,

When Nova became intrigued with and finally interested in the Yoga business Carlin was smart enough to see the publicity value of it and did nothing to discourage Lou from practicing the Oriental dipseydoo. It made good reading for the public and meant plenty of welcome publicity in the press. When Nova finally was matched with Louis you couldn't decide half the time if he was going to win the title by hypnotizing Louis and putting him to sleep, by putting the old fish-eye on Joe and removing the sting from his punches, or by simply schooling himself to take all the punishment 10 Lc 'ses could dish up and win

Savold had nothing in the way of ballyhoo to match this episode of Nova's career. Lee was sold strictly on his merits as a fighter. He never was seen in night clubs or in company of a glamorous movie star, like Baer, for example; he believed in no queer cults, no comic or cosmic stances, no whacky breathing exercises. His lone recommendation was night has turned the spotlight in the a record of never making a bad fight and a couple of punishing fists.

Nothing But the Best, Win or Lose

That is just about the difference between the two. Carlin figured If Nova had to lose he would blow the duke to a high-ranking star, not a hammy second-rater, and if Lou couldn't fight the best he couldn't you want a vacation. fight at all. It was good, solid reasoning and paid fat dividends. Carlin also made the most of the Yoga angle for publicity purposes and did such a good job the Louis crowd actually was leery of Lou the night

Savold simply took them as they came, meeting some of the best and some of the worst. This indifference was costly at times, as last winter when he got the berry for putting the chill on one Neville Beech at Turner's Arena. Lee didn't know the kid he was fighting that night and didn't care. It was just another fight and the guy in the opposite corner could as well have been any one of the top 10 gladiators.

They say Nova has a memory that would shame an elephant and bitterly remembers his humiliation at Louis' hands. They, meaning Carlin and Trainer Ray Arcel, say if he ever gets another shot at the champ he'll whip him and they add that he's so determined to get that

But Savold, on the other hand, never has had a real payday such as ing "The Star Spangled Banner." a title fight would mean. Moreover, he is one of the only two top-ranking heavyweights who never has fought Louis, the other being Gus Lesnevich, light-heavyweight champion, and it's beginning to dawn on him that the goal of a lifetime is within reach. He's got some determination, too. He still feels the gnawing pains of lean purses and would like to make a good haul before it's too late and this Nova fight is a grand opportunity to put himself first in line. He thinks he can do it. We, for one, like his chances

Savold used to be a barroom bouncer and a good one and we can't conceive of a good bouncer getting the old heave-ho from a book-learned

Maestro Mike Jacobs was due in the heavyweight champ Jacobs wants to promote in at least

Jacobs, for one of the few times during his checkered career, finds the fight racket. Most of his difficulty stems from Billy Conn's unscheduled, unadvertised and unprofitable joust with his pappy-inlaw for which all Billy got was a busted paw. That ruined exastly

Louis' Status Is Uncertain. But he still counted on having Louis until some fifth columnist hinted that Army officials felt it was about time the champion was preparing for the battlefield instead of the ring. Twice during the past winter Louis and Jacobs donated their title defenses to military causes and it is believed that the Louis-Pastor show would mean an additional $150,000 for the funds. But if the Army says no dice, there isn't much Mike can do about it. Louis would Army to get ready for the fight and the service is reported frowning on the idea of so much time off from his official duties.

Hot Pace Maintained Since Recent Slump; Dodgers Step Fast

By JUDSON BAILEY, Old Connie Mack spoke at a dinner in Cleveland last night and, nice fellow that he is, asserted that the Indians are definite pennant contenders in the American League.

Mr. McGillicuddy may have been speaking either from his heart or from his extraordinary fund of baseball wisdom, but in either case the timing of his remarks was faultless because the Tribe has crept into a virtual tie with the New York Yankees for first place in the American League.

There is no question that 24-yearold Lou Boudreau has accomplished amazing things at Cleveland. The Tribe won 13 in a row at the end of April and when it went into a tailspin and lost half a dozen straight, he jolted it back to an upward plane that has brought seven triumphs in the last eight

Navy Looks to Sports Training to Turn Out Toughest Pilots That Ever Flew

Two-Fisted Fighters, Superforce Will Be Commandos of Air

Football, Boxing, Soccer To Develop Spirit of Teamwork, Aggression (This is the first of three stories on the Navy's new aviation physical training program.) By GAYLE TALBOT, Associated Press Sports Writer.

In the not too distant future the United States Navy will start turning loose against the Axis powers the toughest, roughest, most physically accomplished set of fighting pilots that ever kicked a plane about

They will be the first products of Lt. Comdr. Tom Hamilton's new naval physical training program, the first Commandos of the air. Their entry into the world conflict will herald a revolutionary change in pilot training and serve notice on the Axis powers that this Nation has decided to fight on the basis of no holds barred.

This new super air fighter, when he has completed his 12 months of training, will know-among many other things-about all there is to know about "hand-to-hand" fighting. That is only a refined way of describing back-alley fighting. He will have been taught by experts.

All Must Be Aggressive. He will be able, in case his plane is disabled and he lands in the water, to keep afloat for four or five hours or to swim 4 or 5 miles in full equipment. That is the minimum prescribed by Comdr. Hamilton. From long hours of boxing he will know how to absorb punishment and how to throw his "Sunday punch."

He will have a highly developed feeling for teamwork and aggression, derived from football, basket ball and soccer. From actual experience he will know how to "live off the ground," how to survive for an indefinite period in wilderness or desert and eventually to return to

He still will be a gentleman, Comdr. Hamilton hastens to add. The Navy is not lowering its standard in that respect, and mothers need not fear that their sons will be demoralized by this new training it has been found necessary to install. How important and necessary the Navy considers this radical new method of training its airmen best may be judged, perhaps, by the fact that it will add five months to the period previously required to turn out a fighting pilot-a year instead of seven months. It is a bold sacrifice to make in wartime, when pilots must be produced by the tens of thousands. But, painful to say, it is necessary because our young men have grown soft in the last 20 years. "We had to face it," said Hamilton soberly, "too few applicants for naval flying-much less than halfhave been able to pass the physical exam. And too many who did pass exam. ## Check on His Average Will Decide Status In City Tourney

Sporting a 418 singles score in the Washington City Duckpin Association championships, William A. Brown of the Navy Department League, until his correct status is established, today held an undetermined spot in the 32d annual tournament either as the new Class B leader or stands third in Class A. The controversary over Brown's rightful place in the tournament arose last night at Convention Hall after a checkup revealed that he previously had rolled in the team competition with a purported average of 115, which automatically gave him a Class A rating. His singles application blank last night gave his average as 114, which comes within the Class B limit.

Rolls Three Big Games. When the difference was discovered it was too late last night for Secretary Joe Pricci to straighten out the matter. Brown's games of 130, 146 and 142 gave him the third highest singles tally posted in the tournament.

Joe Di Misa, the bowling barber, was the night's top performer with a 421 count that paved the way for the Georgetown Recreations of the all-star District League to gain second place in the Class A team event with 1.887. Smith's 146 Puts Former Stroke in Front Going Into Last 36 Holes

By the Associated Press.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 19.— Ohio State and Michigan, separated by one slender stroke, rode into the final 36 holes of the Big Ten golf meet today as decided co-favorites, with the Wolverine chances depending in large measure upon whether crisp-hitting Ben Smith could continue the sizzling pace he began yesterday.

Smith toured the 6,600-yard University of Michigan course in a oneunder-par 71 second round yesterday for a 36-hole aggregate of 146 and individual leadership.

His par-busting round also shoved the Michigan team up into first poised seven strokes back at 619, in an excellent position to strike for the title now held by Ilinois should either of the leaders falter.

Hard hit by graduation that took, among others, Alex Welsh, 1941 individual titlist, the Illini were resting in fifth place with 628, behind Northwestern with 625.

Permanent Wholesale Pork Ceiling Due Within 48 Hours

A permanent wholesale pork price ceiling will be established within 48 hours, Office of Price Administration officials said today

The new schedule will replace the temporary 60-day maximum price listing which has been in effect since mid-March and will tie in closely with the universal price regulations which pegged retail pork | Consol Oil 31/25 51 ____ 103 103 103 prices at the highest March levels. Under the temporary ceiling, wholesale prices are fixed at levels prevailing between February 16 and February 20, plus an increase in the Chicago green market price up through March 3 to 7.

Officials declined to discuss provisions of the permanent ceiling, but indicated that the temporary levels had failed to cause much if any hardship when aligned with the retail maximums.

Boost Production Despite Ickes Longest and Heaviest

Run Since January Started Today

AUSTIN. Tex., May 19.—Despite Federal Petroleum Co-ordinator Harold L. Ickes' criticism it was "a serious blow to the war program, Texas oil operators today began the longest and heaviest production run since January.

Barring Federal intervention some 99,000 wells in the State, by order of the Texas Railroad Commission, State oil production regulatory agency, will be allowed to flow more than 1,400,000 barrels daily for the remainder of May.

In Washington yesterday, Ickes, who has recommended only 960,000 barrels a day oil production in Texas, asserted that the State agency was making a mistake in allowing the higher volume.

Commissioner Jerry Sadler, who with Commissioner Olin Culberson signed the order, declared: "I signed the order in question because I wanted to see all war contracts filled and if some one shows me that I made a mistake, I shall be glad to correct it."

PITTSBURGH, May 19 (AP) .- Walter Hallanan, president of Plymouth Oil Co., a member of the petroleum industry's war council, declared today the Government "in this emergency must find provision for pipe line outlets to take care of the necessary movement of petroleum products from the Texas area."

In a statement to Plymouth stockholders, he said tanker transportation, which accounted for the movement of 1,600,000 barrels of oil daily Business Machines Corp., whose er from Gulf ports in 1941, is "probably lost for the duration of the war" as the result of the reassignment of tion from 5 per cent to 2½ per ce tankers and submarine sinkings. Railroad tank cars accruals of $362,519 on the basis are now handling about 654,000 bar- 21/2 per cent of profits as provided rels, he said, adding that it was the new contract, which was me hoped to push this traffic to 800,000 retroactive to cover 1941. or 850,000 barrels daily. #### Gov. Edison Opposes Nomination of Haque Supporter to Bench

A Senate Judiciary Subcommittee today planned to study records of withdrawals for a 10 to 30 day period just before the closing of the New ersey Title Guarantee & Trust Co. of Jersey City. The subcommittee is investigating the qualifications of Thomas F. Meaney, former State Banking Department counsel in charge of the affairs of the defunct institution, to serve on the Federal District Court bench in New Jersey. Gov. Edison at the same time actively entered the fight against Mr. Meaney's confirmation by sending the committee a letter saying President Roosevelt's nominee was "pawn" of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City. Chairman Smathers of the subcommittee said the withdrawal records would be furnished by Leo Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., the bank's oiggest single creditor.

Need to Cover Up Charged. John R. Longo of Jersey City, out-spoken Hague critic, testified at a public hearing on Mr. Meaney's qualifications last week that Mr. Meaney had been named banking department counsel because a Hague "puppet" was needed to cover up withdrawals by favored depositors just before the bank was closed. "If there is any question of an unusual amount of withdrawals," Senator Smathers said in an interview, "we might call the bank president (Walter Gardner of Jersey City) to testify."

After receiving Gov. Edison's statement, Senator Smathers invited the Governor to appear before the subcommittee.

"There is no disposition to shut this thing off." Senator Smathers said. "We want to hear anybody who has anything to say. This business of staying home and send-ing telegrams and protests only muddles the water.

Ne Personal Antipathy. Gov. Edison informed the committee that Mr. Meaney represented "an attitude toward the judicial office which is to me repulsive, and is and ever will be, I hope, repulsive to all Americans."

LONDON, May 19.-Adolf Hitler has sent Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler to the Netherlands to quell a surge of anti-Nazi resistance among stout-hearted Dutch patriots, Aneta news agency said last night.

Gov. Edison, who has been warring politically with Mr. Hague for a year and who has steered patron-age away from the Hague organization, said that in his year and four months as Governor he had tried ot rid the State courts of "the taint of boss dictation.'

The Governor told the Judiciary Committee that the nomination was "mistake," and that the President had made it "without the full facts having been presented to him."

Put Laval in Tight Spot.

The Italian-Spanish demands are putting Laval in a tight spot. Giving up territory certainly would create a furore among the French people just as he is attempting to picture the gains to be had by partnership with Germany. An important effect of these agitations is a tendency to create new coalitions beneath the broad Axis framework. Police said Miss Stallings was struck by Mr. Trice's car on Saturday as she was walking in front of the Upper Marlboro Courthouse with her parents. She died the next day in Casualty Hospital.

Fetes Curtailed So Servicemen Can Sleep

Curtailment of entertainment activities in order to permit tired servicemen to get to bed earlier was announced yesteday by the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines' Club, 1015 L street N.W.

Beginning tomorrow, the club's regular Wednesday and Saturday night dances for enlisted men on leave here will be done away with. Mrs. Raymond Fowler, president of the club, said.

This will permit the setting up of 42 cots on the dance floor hours ahead of the old time, while dance music no longer will keep men awake, Mrs. Fowler explained. Formerly cots were not set up in the ballroom until near midnight, at which time the dances ended.

'Men come here for rest and relaxation, and if they desire entertainment, we direct them to the proper place," she said. She pointed out that each week more and more entertainment is scheduled for servicemen, but that in proportion little is being done to house men.

The club now cares for 172 men each week end and is the city's largest single provider of low-cost beds for servicemen.

What Is Fashion's Place In the World of Today? Here Are Some Ideas

Discounting 'Morale' Value, Other Features Make This Industry of Importance

By Helen Vogt

This is our answer to all the sincere and patriotic people who have been saving of late that wartime is no time for fashions. We know it's a grim business, far, far removed from the flippancies so long associated with feminine finery. We know, too, that war never will be actually lost or won because women wear pretty, feminine clothes, but we don't believe that the time has come for fashion to disappear and we can't agree with those who shriek, "Away with styles! Begone pretty clothes and return no more until victory is achieved!"

Of course, we've got to have a reason behind our firm stand. And, as a matter of fact, we've got several reasons, starting with the most obvious one, a little matter called "morale." Now here again, we don't say that the world will come to an end if women wear dowdy clothes, but we cannot doubt the spirit lifting value of pretty dresses, gay hats. Not only are these things important to the clan of the women who wear them, but they have more effect on the masculine observer than even he imagines. They're heartening to the men who are going off to fight, men who have a few days' leave, men who are cheered by the sight of a very

What's New in Town?

With more and longer evenings at home being forecast for every one during wartime, smart homemakers must figure out how to entertain the family and possbily a few friends who may drop in. This has always been a "headache" and usually the evening ends up with bridge or some other card game. However, for something "different" consider a compact set which includes 35 party games, a round dozen stunts to be performed, eight "brain tiring" riddles and other ideas. All of the essential blanks and pictures are included to save you the trouble of making them up, and you supply only pencils and playing cards. Take stock of the situation nd then consult the index for the type of game best suited. There are certain ones to "break the ice," as well as drawing games, word games and even action games, so you see that you will have no difficulty in amusing the gathering. The game set is inexpensive and will help to make you the perfect hostess.

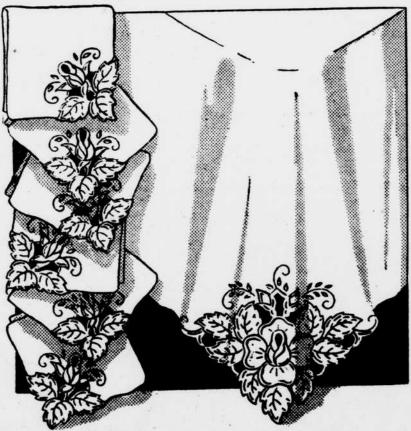

Almost every housewife will be glad to hear about some new flower holders that almost do the job of arranging by themselves. The ability to arrange flowers gracefully is really a gift and no matter how hard some people try, they can't seem to do it successfully. However, even an amateur ought to be able to make the most of a new glass and lucite container. This has a central flaring vase that supports two curving arms which in turn hold small glass cups. Flowers may be placed in the central vase and also in each of the glass cups, and because only a few sprays of flowers are necessary to fill the holder you will find it an inexpensive decoration. Place it on dining table or mantel for the best effect.

Another beautiful flower holder that is an aid to the amateur has two heavy glass curled leaves firmly fastened on a leaf-shaped clear glass base 6 inches long. Each holds a fluted rimmed glass lily 8 inches long. This hand-blown glass vase is equally smart without flowers because of its daintiness,

If you are at a loss as to what to send the man in service for his birthday, consider a small record-keeping book. This is an article he will appreciate having later in life when he wants to think back over his Army days. The book is covered in leather with the United States seal embossed in gold, and it contains places for personal data and service records, such as rank, promotion, pay, where furlough is spent and transfers. In the back of this book are places for keeping accounts of his various "buddles." Another excellent gift article, and one that he will greatly appreciate, is a tobacco pouch made of khaki or navy blue cloth with an oiled silk lining. A diagonal ribbon representing any unit of the service can be placed across the front to give the pouch distinction.

Lovely Teeth Great Asset To Beauty

Daily Brushing Is Only Part of Care They Must Have

By Patricia Lindsay

You will agree with me when I say that strong, beautiful, glossy teeth are definitely a beauty asset. How much more lovely is a smile when the lips part to show an enviable set of teeth. Yet legion are the girls and women who neglect the care of their mouths and think that a daily brushing of the teeth is adequate grooming.

Contrary to common belief, the teeth should be gently brushednot vigorously. Those on your upper gum brushed downward, those on the lower gum brushed upward, with a delicate, even stroke. Dental powder seems to be preferred by dentists to dental cream, for it seems to be more efficient in keeping the mouth free of acidity, which is instrumental in causing tooth decay.

Daily the gums should be massaged with the finger tips-up and down, up and down. This can be done directly after the cleansing. For a mouth astringent one may use the juice of a fresh lemon and a quarter of a glass of water. The gums will pucker but this is good for them. Do not sweeten the lemon

To keep teeth strong eat foods containing calcium and vitamin C. And never be without dental floss that is the very best precaution against tooth decay.

Dental floss should be used every day-preferably at night before brushing the teeth. Cut off a piece about 10 inches in length, double it and draw it through the teeth so that the loop goes through last, pulling with it any food particles which might have become wedged between the teeth. By using the floss in this manner you also avoid cutting the tender tissue which joins the teeth with the gums which serves as a protection to the roots of the teeth.

A candid dentist will tell you that the daily habit of using dental floss (from 5 years old on) helps greatly in preventing tooth decay.

Stained or discolored teeth may be partially whitened by brushing each tooth individually with a mixture of powdered pumice and peroxide and a small brush. Some girls like to use a very tiny paint brush with stiff bristles, cut straight across and not more than ¼ inch in length. Get in back of the teeth, too, when cleansing them with this stain remover. Do not use it more than twice a week until teeth are cleanonce a week thereafter is sufficient.

Winning Contract

"South knew that his partner had a good hand," writes a Baltimore fan. "He wasn't the sort of dub who considers every jump to game a shutout bid. But he really didn't think his hand was worth a slam try. Take a look at it:

"Under the circumstances would you say that South was responsible for missing the heart slam? Or would you say the slam was a lucky one and not really biddable?"

From the tone of the letter we suspect that our correspondent was the South player. We hate to foist the blame for anything on the person who writes to us, but in this case we feel we have to do so. The slam should have been bid and South was responsible for its loss.

It wasn't necessary for South to bid six hearts. He should have bid five diamonds. Then if North had the diamond ace he might suspect duplication and sign off at five hearts. With North's actual cards, of course, he would bid either five spades or six hearts.

We must point out also that six hearts would not have been a horrible contract even if North's spades and diamonds were reversed. With duplicated values (diamond void opposite diamond ace), the slam would still depend only on picking up the queen of clubs. There would also be another chance for it; the opening lead might give dummy two diamond tricks (if dummy had aceeen and West opened away from tne king). That would allow South to discard two clubs and ruff out the club queen later on. With so much play for the slam under the worst possible conditions we think it should have been tried for at the very least.

Take, for example, a person who breaks a bottle on a highway. Think of the damage that may cause to tires! It will cut into the rubber of cars which run over it, and may cause punctures or blowouts.

I suppose that many bottles broken on highways are tossed by small children who do not know any better. In any case, the road is a bad place for a broken bottle.

As a matter of fact, any place except the trash can is bad for broken glass. A child going bare. foot may cut his feet on sharp pieces of glass left on a lawn. If such a cut is not cared for quickly and well, it may cause much trouble later.

We could go on with other examples, but the chief point I wish to bring out today is our progress in making glass. Thanks to the work of inventors, there is much less danger from it than there was 15 or 20 years ago.

Most modern automobiles are fitted with "safety glass," not only in the windshield but for all the windows as well. About 12 years ago I spoke of the need of laws to require such glass for new cars, and

In the kitchen we now have glass coffee pots and glass "frying pans." Think of glass which will stand steady heat from a strong gas fiame!

Turning to a different field, we may note the use of glass for "tricks." It is a great help to the magician who does amazing things on the stage.

One little trick is to make a candle seem to burn right inside a jar of water. When a magician does that, he places a pane of glass on a slant, in such a way that it reflects a real candle so it appears to be flaming inside an actual jar of water.

I have carefully studied this sound in the North, South, East and West, and as heard on network programs and on the screen. I am convinced that, in the prevailing cultured speech of the whole country, the sound of final "y" is seldom the "i" as in bit; it is close to or actually is the "ee" of beet.

To prove that this is so in your

CRAPPIE (Pomoxis annularis).

Crappies also are known as bachelors, though no one can give me a good reason for the last name. We are assured, however, that this fish takes the hook readily and is high in the favor of anglers as a game fish. It is well-flavored, we know. It is very satisfactory for stocking arti-

—By Lillian Cox Athey the question of bait for the crappie is not limited—the crappie is not finicky. The average weight of these fish is less than I pound, the maximum 2% pounds. The crappie and the calico bass both belong to the Great Lakes region and the Mississippi Valley. Many confuse them because they resemble each other in appearance. However, the crappie has five or six dorsal spines and the calico seven or eight. The annual market catch of crappie is well over 500,000 pounds. This fish multiplies so fast that it has been called "the fish for the millions" and, as it gets along so peaceably with its neighbors, it has been "planted" more and more in private ponds, as well as large artificial ones.

Most fish are excellent sources of highly digestible proteins; they are rich in vitamins and contain minerals both in quantity and variety and the crappie meets all regirements. We have been asked to eat more fish. Proteins are important for the building of muscle and other body tissues and, as they are an tremely tender and requires careful essential foundation of all diets for men and animals for normal growth and maintenance of life, the eating angleworms, bloodworms, cut bait, of fish becomes a sort of patriotic flies, small spinners, bugs and lures duty. #### Murder Is a Merry Jest In 'Arsenic and Old Lace'

Comedy Hit at National Illustrates Rare Wisdom of Feeling Differently About the Stuff of Drama

By JAY CARMODY.

One of the worst faults of playwrights is conventional thinking. No other group of professionals is so fascinated by the obvious. Year in and year out, they reiterate that frustrated love is sad, that rheumatism is uncomfortable, that crime does not pay, and that murder is morally and aesthetically reprehensible. Those ideas, and several others, they have managed to sell so thoroughly that the public has been known to get the notion that it can safely remain.

away from the theater without a feeling of intellectual or emotional stagnation. That is not a good thirg for the theater, save as it develops an admiration for its ability to survive its own dullness. Occasionally, however, an iconoclast creeps into the profession, bringing with him an entirely different set of values. He may think that Jay Carmody. frustrated love is good slap-stick comedy, that rheumatism is spiritually elevating, that crime does pay or that murder is hilarious if one goes about it in the right way.

The man with that idea about murder turned out to be Joseph Kesselring. He wrote "Arsenic and Old Lace" around it, a play with 1207 E St. Old Lace" around it, a play with 1221 E St. 25 murders—in the finest sense of the word-and it became instantly late date. the hit of last season and this. After almost two years of traipsing the country from Boston to Berkeley, it urned up at the National last night. to enable Washingtonians to laugh off a season that has been sad ever since it opened with "The Wookey" last August. In the next two weeks, enterprise that playwrights will be Kesselring probably will go on havbeing refreshing and iconoclastic.

This "Arsenic and Old Lace" company is not the one which started the play on Broadway early last season. It is the road company which Producers Howard Lindsay and Russell Crouse assembled last spring for a Nation-wide tour. It is composed of some extremely competent imitations of the strange people which Playwright Kesselring had in mind, among them Erich von Stroheim, Laura Hope Crews, Jack Whiting. Effie Shannon and Forrest Orr. Pine 25c Admission to Mt. Verson assumption that a heavy accent is Roosevelt.

From those first tender moments when the Fuller clan and friends gaze upon the ruin that is their new home and the hired hand is on the scene to point out shortcomings overlooked, the complications unroll at breath-taking speed.

Jon Hall, Hollywood's male sarong star, is ironically cast in the title role of "The Invisible Agent." His body beautiful goes through the Universal thriller-invisible for the most part.

The story concerns a secret drug which, injected into the veins, renders a man invisible. Jon, trapped and beaten by Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Nazi agent, and Peter Lorre, Japanese agent, escapes with a dose of the potent drug. He employs it to carry out a secret mission for the United States Government.

In a bathing scene, you see merely the outline of his body in the tub. When he is dressed you can see only his clothes.
