Afternoon and Evening Masses Are Allowed for Servicemen

NEW YORK, June 18—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York, military vicar of the Catholic Churches in the United States, announced today that afternoon and evening masses would be permitted for men in the armed services who could not attend morning mass.

Church officials said this was possibly the first time such a dispensation had been given in the United States and was granted by decree of the Sacred Congregation of the Sacraments, a department of the Vatican.

Rigid Rules Set Up Rigid restrictions guard the privilege against any danger of laxity or irreverence, the archbishop said. Chaplains will be instructed to acquaint their spiritual charges with the terms of the dispensation and they are to be followed in detail, he added.

The dispensation came in response to pleas of both chaplains and men for greater opportunities for daily mass, the archbishop said, adding that they had given evidence of their desire to sacrifice their afternoon recreation hour to attend mass and receive holy communion.

Factory Rules Set. Both the celebrant and the communicants must fast four hours from solid foods and one hour from liquids.

Despite obstacles to daily mass and holy communion raised by military schedules, attendance at weekly mass has reached 300,000 in a single month with 80,000 holy communions received, and the new opportunity for mass in the recreation hour before supper would multiply this figure many times, the archbishop said.

Sunday mass attendance in the armed forces in a month has reached a total of 1,000,000 with 160,000 Sunday holy communions.

The Navy Department announced here this afternoon that the first evening mass ever read in the United States was celebrated at 6 p.m. Monday at the Marine Corps base at Quantico, Va.

House Passes 8 1/2-Billion Bill Providing 500 New Warships

(Earlier Story on Page A-6.) A vast $8,500,000,000 ship construction measure was passed by the House today, after Naval Affairs Committee members called that completion of the program would give the United States unquestioned supremacy on the seas.

The measure, envisioning the greatest shipbuilding program in history, would provide for more than 500 combatant vessels together with 1,000 smaller craft, including 800 torpedo boats and subschasers. Passage was on a roll call vote announced as 316 to 0.

Emphasis on Air Strength. With emphasis on floating aerial striking strength, the measure called for 500,000 tons of plane carriers, 500,000 tons of cruisers, and 900,000 tons of destroyers and destroyer escort vessels.

Chairman Vinson of the Naval Affairs Committee flatly told his colleagues that the aircraft carrier had replaced the battleship as "the backbone of the fleet."

D. C. Golf Upsets Pit Mrs. Stokes Against Mrs. Brandon for Title

Mrs. Walter R. Stokes, defending champion from the Manor Country Club, and Mrs. T. O. Brandon, Columbia Country Club champion, today won their way into the final round of the District women's golf championship at the Chevy Chase Club.

They will meet at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Chevy Chase for the title now held by Mrs. Stokes.

In the first steps of the five-day tournament Mrs. Brandon today defeated Mrs. Leo Walker, 4 and 3, in one semifinal, while Mrs. Stokes defeated Mrs. Betty P. Meckley of Kenwood, the Maryland title holder, 5 and 4.

Mrs. Stokes was out in 39 and was 4 up. When the match ended on the 14th hole she needed four pars for a 76, by far the best golf played in the championship so far. Mrs.

Shellfire Off Colombian Coast Believed Warship-Sub Fight

BOGOTA, Colombia, June 18—Newspapers here printed reports today that cannonading was heard last night off the Colombian coast and they expressed belief that United States destroyers were battling Axis submarines.

Advices from Riohacha, on Colombia's Caribbean coast, about 500 miles east northeast of the Panama Canal, said the shellfire seemed to have originated about 40 miles offshore.

The reverberations came about 8 p.m. (9 p.m., EWT) yesterday.

Ernesto Ruiz White, governor of St. Andrew, a Colombian island about 250 miles north northwest of the Panama Canal, told the Bogota newspaper El Liberal that 36 men had been saved from the United States freighter Lebone, 8,289 tons, torpedoed six days ago 72 miles east of St. Andrew.

Wilhelmina Flies Ocean To Ottawa

OTTAWA, June 18—Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands arrived in the Canadian capital today after a flight from Britain. The 61-year-old monarch whose government has functioned at London since the German occupation of Holland in May, 1940, planned to visit with her daughter, Princess Juliana, in the United States.

While in the United States she will make an official visit to President and Mrs. Roosevelt, it was announced.

The Queen was met at Ottawa's Rockcliffe Airport at 12:50 p.m. by the Canadian Prime Minister, W. L. Mackenzie King, Princess Juliana and the Queen's two grandchildren, the Princesses Irene and Beatrix, and a group of Dutch officials.

In a few days she will leave for Lee, Mass., where Juliana has taken a summer home. Mother, and daughter had been separated for more than two years. The reunion followed Queen Wilhelmina's first air trip and first journey across the Atlantic.

Immediately on arrival the Queen went to Juliana's home outside Ottawa for luncheon and was invited, while in Canada, to stay at Government House as a guest of the governor general, the Earl of Athlone, and his wife, Princess Alice, who is a niece of the Queen.

Unheralded Alabamian Takes Early Lead in Hale America Golf

Otey Crisman Has 65 For First 18 Holes; Three Tied With 67s

CHICAGO, June 18—Otey Crisman, unheralded pro from Selma, Ala., snatched the lead among early finishers in the Hale America National Open golf championship today by scoring 34—31—65, seven under par, for the first 18 holes at the Ridgemoor Country Club.

Crisman, a 28-year-old public course operator, credited a hot putter for his sensational round which equals Ridgemoor's course record.

His first birdie on the No. 2 par 5 hole, came after he holed a 15-foot putt. He sank a 4-footer on No. 5 for a birdie 3. On the 174-yard No. 11 he was over the green with a 4-iron shot but holed a 40-foot niblick pitch coming back for another birdie. He then struck out four birdies in succession by sinking putts ranging from 10 to 40 feet.

Little Hot on First Nine. Lawson Little of Monterey, Calif., 1940 National Open champion, after firing a 32 on his first nine, three-putted two greens on the back nine and took 65 for a 67.

Lloyd Mangrum, Monterey Park, Calif., fired a 30 under par, on the first nine holes. He had four birdies and an eagle, and holed a 75-yard pitch shot on the third.

Mangrum also slumped sharply on the second nine, taking a 37 to tie Little at 67.

Another 67 was carded by Al Brooch of Farmingdale, N. Y., who was out in 33 and back in 34. Dick Metz of suburban Oak Park had a 33 for the first nine, but needed 35 on the second for a 68. Jimmy Demaree, Redford, Mich., also had a 68.

Another 67 was turned in by Harry Cooper of Minneapolis, while Byron Nelson of Toledo combined 33 and 34.

WPB Shake-Up Forecast After Truman Report

Reorganization Held Unlikely to Bear Out Senators' Criticism

(Earlier Story on Page A-1.) A War Production Board spokesman today forecast an "extensive organizational re-alignment" of the WPB within a month, but emphasized it probably would not be based on criticisms of the Senate Defense Investigating Committee.

The spokesman's comment came after Chairman Truman of the investigating group read in the Senate a summary of a critical report finding that some WPB officials had failed speedily to convert many civilian agencies to war purposes.

Senator Lucas, Democrat, of Illinois, however, told the Senate that the WPB under Chairman Donald M. Nelson had "done a magnificent job." He questioned recommendations of the investigating committee for changes in men and methods of the agency.

No Reflection on Nelson. Both Senators Truman and Burton, Republican, of Ohio, a member of the committee, assured the Senate that the report was not intended as a reflection on Mr. Nelson or many "dollar-a-year" men serving with the WPB.

Senator Lucas said a House Military Affairs Subcommittee also had made a similar inquiry and found no evidence to support charges by Robert R. Guthrie, WPB official who resigned March 14 with a public protest that dollar-a-year men were blocking an all-out war program for converting civilian industry.

The Senate committee upheld part of Mr. Guthrie's charges, but Senator Lucas said he believed there had been too much "attention paid to this man Guthrie."

"The fellows in the War Production Board have done a magnificent job," Senator Lucas said, adding that it was natural that they had made many mistakes and must continue to do so.

Feather Duster Attack. "I have to defend Donald Nelson, as I know him," Senator Lucas said, "in the efforts for war production he has put forth. I doubt that any man in America could have done a better job up to this time."

The committee reported that "it appears that the role of the woolen industry in our war economy has not been defined—six months after Pearl Harbor."

The report said that Mr. Guthrie was "sharply critical of Kenneth W. Marriner, chief of the woolen fabric section of WPB, for having 'strenuously opposed' curtailing of wool for civilian use and for 'resisting' a program of mandatory blending of wool with other fibers to conserve available wool supplies."

Mr. Marriner, a dollar-a-year man, left WPB in 1941 to join Willey Co., a division of Winslow Brother & Smith of Boston. In 1941, the committee said, Mr. Marriner had an income totaling $120,000. Of that amount $30,000 represented salary from the Willey firm and $90,000 from Willey Co., of New York, in which he was an official.

Senator Truman protested that the committee was not criticizing Mr. Nelson but only trying to "protect" him against some trouble later.

Senator Connally, Democrat of Texas, told his colleagues he had voted against the committee's report because he believed it constituted an attack on "the theory and policies" worked out by Mr. Nelson.

Senator Connally said he believed the committee was conducting a "feather duster" attack on Mr. Nelson.

Airlines May Carry Mail In Single-Motored Planes

The Nation's airlines, which recently had to abandon service on approximately 25 routes or segments of routes because of the shortage of equipment, may return to the use of single-motored planes to carry mail and express.

Some airlines were reported to have such planes available. It was not indicated, however, how soon the CAB might reach a decision.

The Post Office Department was reported as "favorably disposed" to their use in order that airmail service might be resumed to many points now without it.

Injunction to Save Dairies From Pouring Milk in Sewer Denied

Justice Adkins Holds Two Firms' Row With Union Is Labor Dispute

Justice Jesse C. Adkins in District Court today refused to issue an injunction against the Teamsters' Union after two local dairies had charged that the union's threat of a strike was forcing the companies to pour 4,500 gallons of milk down a sewer daily.

The dairies—Embassy-Fairfax and Wakefield—had come to court today to seek an injunction to prevent the union from striking. Justice Adkins ruled that he could not issue the injunction, because such action was specifically prohibited by the Norris-La Guardia Act.

The court was told that the strike was threatened if the dairies attempted to make deliveries of skim milk to the Comico Milk Products Corp., Alexandria, Va.

Organizing Attempt Failed. Testimony showed that the union had attempted to organize workers at the Comico plant and had failed. Because the officials of the Comico plant would not sign a labor contract, the union ordered its membership in the Embassy-Fairfax and Wakefield dairies not to handle milk being shipped to the Comico plant.

Because the union members would not handle the milk and threatened a strike if the milk was sent to Comico, the two dairies have been forced to dump the milk, the court was told.

After hearing the testimony, Justice Adkins pointed out that the provision of the Norris-La Guardia Act forbids a court from issuing an injunction in cases involving a "labor dispute." He said this was a labor dispute, and that he was therefore unable to act.

The two dairies told the court that they were informed that Comico is engaged in processing the milk into powdered milk for the Lease-Lend Administration, Comico.

Planners Approve Layout for New Park in Northwest Area

Remaining Acreage For Congress Heights Playground Acquired

The National Capital Parks and Planning Commission today approved plans for the layout of a new park in the Northwest section and also announced acquisition of the remaining land for the Congress Heights Playground situated at Randle place and Savannah street S.E.

The new area in the northwest section is located at Twenty-seventh street and Military road. It comprises about eight acres of the estate of the late Senator Francis G. Newlands of Nevada, who had much to do with the development of that section of Washington and Chevy Chase, Md. A part of the estate was donated to the Government by members of the family to serve as a recreation park in memory of Senator Newlands.

Street Approaches Studied. The Commission studied plans for changes in street approaches necessary for taking over and developing the park area.

Norman C. Brown, land purchasing officer and appraiser, said the Congress Heights Playground, long needed in the neighborhood, had

OPA Lets Retailers Increase Sugar Stocks

The Office of Price Administration provided today for temporary or permanent increases in retailers' sugar stocks to insure consumers of ample supplies under the rationing program. Local ration boards were instructed to make adjustments for all retailers who certify that they require additional sugar for their customers.

Retailers who apply for a permanent increase may be granted an additional amount equal to one pound for each dollar of gross weekly sales which they reported at the time of registration. In addition, the local boards may grant temporary increases up to 100 per cent of the permanent allowable inventory to meet heavy seasonal or home-canning demand.

OPA declared that inventory adjustment was necessary in many instances because of reduced frequency of delivery service, and in others because the time required for transfer of ration stamps to suppliers was longer than originally anticipated.

Taft Suggests Placing Men With Families In Class 3 at Once

Would Call Them to Duty Only After Induction Of Available Unmarried

NEW YORK, June 18.—Senator Taft, Republican, of Ohio proposed in the Senate today that selective service re-classify all men married before passage of the draft law who are living with their wives and children in Class 3, calling them for duty only after all available younger, unmarried men have been inducted.

Speaking before the Senate approved a resolution to correct a minor clerical error in the family allowance bill previously voted by both houses, Senator Taft said that if President Roosevelt subsequently signs the bill into law, immediate classification of selective service registrant with dependents ought to be undertaken under terms of the measure.

Suggests Order of Call. Predicting that it would be necessary to call married men with dependents in order to build the armed forces up to a strength of 10,000,000 men, Senator Taft suggested the following classes be drawn on in order:

All other 37 years old without wife or children, but with dependent parents, brothers or sisters. Men under 37 with wife but no children, or children only.

All other class III registrants, including men over 30 with wife and children. Wants Intelligent Decision. Senator Taft estimated that an additional 2,500,000 men would be selected for service in 1943 and 2,000,000 more in 1944.

"We should decide and decide deliberately and intelligently whether

Darden Grants Reprieve To Doomed Sharecropper

RICHMOND, Va., June 18.—Odell Waller, young colored sharecropper scheduled to die tomorrow for the murder of Oscar Davis, Virginia farmer, was granted a reprieve today by Gov. Darden to permit time for a hearing on a plea for commutation of his sentence. The hearing was set for June 29 and the reprieve postponed the execution date to July 2.

The Governor's action followed exhaustion of the 25-year-old colored man's recourse to the courts and marked the fifth reprieve granted him since his conviction in Pittsylvania County Circuit Court in September, 1940.

"While it is the function of the courts to dispose of the legal questions in such cases as this," Gov. Darden said, "the condemned man is nevertheless entitled to present to the executive his petition for clemency, and on this petition, it is my desire that he be fully heard."

The reprieve was announced after the Governor had talked by telephone with John F. Finerty of New York, counsel for Waller and the Workers Defense League, and had conferred at length with Virginia Attorney General Abram Staples.

Key Fort Taken At Russian Port, Nazis Claim

British Armies Split, One Falling Back In Libyan Battle

(Earlier Story on Page A-1.) Grave new threats to the British armies in North Africa and the Russian defenders of Sevastopol were reported today as the German high command asserted that Nazi troops had driven into Sevastopol's immediate defense ring and had split the British Libyan armies into two parts.

A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's headquarters said the German siege armies storming Sevastopol, the last big Soviet stronghold in the Crimea, had captured Fort Maxim Gorky and driven within two miles of the harbor entrance.

The communique described Fort Gorky as "the most modern and strongest bastion of the whole fortress."

The Germans pictured the great Black Sea citadel as crumbling under the battering of shock troops, bombers and big siege guns. Soviet dispatches declared that close artillery fire had thrown back wave after wave of tank-led Nazi attacks.

"The enemy attempted by every means to break through our defense but failed," said Pravda, official Communist party newspaper. "All enemy attacks were successfully beaten off with heavy losses."

Even tanks did not help the Germans, they retired being unable to stand our artillery fire." Besides capturing Fort Gorky in the main fortifications north of the city, the Axis assault forces also drove back southern Red Army troops on the southern fortifications of the Hitler command said.

In the Libyan desert, British Imperial headquarters acknowledged that British troops had withdrawn from two key defense points at Sidi Rezegh and El Adem.

The German high command said the British forces had been split into two parts. A Nazi communique said strong German and Italian tank formations were pursuing the east-bound British column, which was described as "moving" toward Bardia, 15 miles from the Egyptian frontier.

Dispatches from Cairo also said the British desert armies had apparently split into two forces, one falling back to fortified positions near the Egyptian border, the other remaining to defend Tobruk.

Last year, the British withstood eight months of violent siege at the Mediterranean coastal fortress until relieved by a new expeditionary force striking out of Egypt.

The Nazi communique asserted that several desert forts on the southern perimeter of Tobruk's defenses had been captured.

Rationing List Expected To Be Static Until Aug. 15

CLEVELAND, June 18.—Except for possible Nation-wide restrictions on gasoline, no further items will be placed on the general public's rationed list before August 15, John Hamm, OPA's senior deputy director, declared today.

Mr. Hamm also told a press conference that proposed stabilization of farm prices and wages "are not dead issues," but he would not elaborate.

He said there still is a necessity for sugar rationing because of uncertainty in the shipping situation for the last six months of this year, and added:

"If shipping is available, we possibly can lift sugar rationing by the end of the year. But if submarine activity in the Atlantic continues, it is conceivable that sugar rationing will become more rigid."

Tobruk Almost Encircled by Foes As British Fall Back Near Egypt; Russians Beat Back Nazi Waves

Defenders Split; One Force Holds Key Libyan Base

By the Associated Press.
CAIRO, June 18.—The British fell back to fortified positions near the Egyptian frontier today, leaving the famous fortress of Tobruk all but surrounded by Marshal Erwin Rommel's German and Italian divisions.

Only a coastal road remained open to link Tobruk with the Egyptian border 80 miles eastward. Apparently British Gen. Neil M. Ritchie's 8th Army split into two forces, one remaining to man the defenses of Tobruk against imminent onslaught or a siege such as that which endured for nearly eight months in 1941.

In Berlin the German high command reported that the British Army in Libya had been split into two parts, one of which has fallen back on Tobruk, while strong German and Italian tank formations are pushing toward the British forces fleeing in the direction of Bardia.

A military spokesman in Berlin asserted tonight that this amounted to the collapse of the 8th British Army. Several desert forts in the southern perimeter of Tobruk's defenses have been captured. An earlier announcement said Axis forces had occupied a British base south of El Adem, 18 miles below Tobruk and captured 500 prisoners.

Tobruk Perimeter Held. British forces still were on the perimeter of Tobruk's south and southwest defenses, where they had held back repeated Axis assaults last year and where they stood when relieved by a British westward offensive December 10, 1941.

The same situation now was almost the same as during the long siege. Allied air squadrons, supporting the ground forces, were declared to have broken all records for bombing and strafing as the enemy moved eastward and the British pulled out of El Adem and Sidi Rezegh.

The desert trails were littered with vehicles wrecked or burned by the Allied pilots. New Lines Established. British headquarters reported the removal of the garrisons of El Adem, 18 miles south of Tobruk, and Sidi Rezegh, 25 miles to the southeast, strong points of their realigned defenses since the Ain el Gazala-Bir Hacheim line was shattered by German-Italian attacks.

The troops set up new lines between Tobruk and the Egyptian frontier, British observers said. (The Reuters correspondent at Cairo reported Tobruk was "practically surrounded" with the coastal road the only remaining open route to the east.)

(The Italian high command asserted aerial reconnaissance showed that the British had started a general withdrawal toward the Egyptian border.)

Held Since January 22, 1941. Tobruk has been held by the British since they captured it from the Italians January 22, 1941. Its small but deep harbor is the best for more than 1,000 miles between Alexandria, Egypt, and Sfax, Tunisia.

In the absence of direct word concerning Acroma, 20 miles west of Tobruk, British quarters believed it probable that the British forces had retreated from there. The present positions were not defined, however, and a communique said:

"Our mobile forces are continuing to harass the enemy in the area south and west of Tobruk," a communique said. Land communications with Tobruk remained open. But a thrust (See LIBYA, Page A-6.)

NEW TOBRUK SIEGE THREATENED

Withdrawal of British forces from positions at El Adem and Sidi Rezegh (1) was announced in Cairo today. German forces (arrows) threatened a new siege of Tobruk and were set up in the Ain el Gazala and Acroma regions (2). British evidently were prepared to defend Tobruk from old fortifications (jagged line) which held out through an eight-month siege in 1941. Italians reported a British withdrawal toward Egypt. The Germans claimed to have split the British forces into two parts, one of which was falling back on Tobruk, the other fleeing toward Bardia.

Recent Jap Defeats Reduce Raid Threat, Stimson Declares

Secretary of War Stimson said today the losses inflicted on the Japanese in the Pacific had substantially, but temporarily, reduced the threat of an attack on the Pacific Coast which he has repeatedly said might be expected.

War and Navy Department information is, he said, that the Japanese thus far had made only a "very small landing" in the Aleutian Islands, but he stressed that fog and unfavorable weather conditions obscured developments in the North Pacific.

Information is still incomplete, the Secretary told a press conference, on the earlier air and sea engagement off Midway.

"But after three days fighting the enemy fleet was scattered all over the Pacific Ocean, hustling away a few ships which he could in the opposite direction, without air protection," he added.

Asks Public to Be Patient. In the Aleutians, Mr. Stimson said, the American and Japanese forces thus far had had only fleeting glimpses of each other through the eyes of aircraft.

The Secretary urged that the American public be patient with the Army and Navy because of the great difficulties involved in giving out accurate information concerning enemy losses in these operations.

Recalling that in the battle of Midway the two big ships of the opposing fleets never came into contact or even saw each other, he said all reports were based on information received from airmen flying at high speed from 2 to 4 miles over the ocean and enemy ships.

"But I do know what happened in the battle of Midway," he added. "Two great fleets from Japan, with battleships, carriers and transports were making a deliberate and far-reaching attempt at occupation. Three days later those fleets were scattered over the Pacific, hustling away from the scene." (See STIMSON, Page A-6.)

Ruth Mitchell, Taken by Nazis As Comitadji, Returning Home

Sister of General in Lisbon for Exchange of U. S., Nazi Nationals

By the Associated Press. LISBON, June 18.—Ruth Mitchell, sister of the late Brig. Gen. William (Billy) Mitchell of the United States Army Air Corps and described as the first foreign woman ever sworn in as a member of the revolutionary, death-scouring Comitadji organization of Yugoslavia, has arrived in Lisbon from a German prison camp.

Miss Mitchell, who gave her home as Milwaukee, came here with 184 other Americans sent out of Germany for exchange for German nationals in the United States.

Miss Mitchell was sworn in as a member of the colorful organization of Serb fighters in April 1941, only a few days before the German Army invaded Yugoslavia. The ceremony took place in Belgrade, where Miss Mitchell, former wife of an Englishman, had been living for about a year.

Sevastopol Fort Taken in Drive, Berlin Claims

By the Associated Press. MOSCOW, June 18.—With point-blank artillery fire and infantrymen standing against tank-led waves of attackers, Red Army and Navy defense forces have beaten back every German attempt to smash through the shell-scarred fortifications that guard Sevastopol and its cliff-lined roadstead, Pravda reported today in dispatches from the front.

"In Berlin the German high command said its troops storming the main fortifications of Sevastopol, had captured Maxim Gorky Fort and driven within 2 miles of the harbor entrance." The Communist party newspaper said that since yesterday steadily reinforced German shock troops had battered almost unceasingly at the grimly-held Crimean base from north and south, discharging a toll of 1,500 killed in a single day.

Fight in Two Directions.

"The enemy attempted by every means to break through our defense, but failed," Pravda said. "Fighting continues in two directions, to the north and south."

Yesterday afternoon a strong German force supported by tanks and aircraft launched an offensive from the south. Simultaneously the Germans also attacked from another direction. All these enemy attacks were successfully beaten off with heavy losses. . . . even tanks did not help the Germans; they retired, being unable to stand our artillery fire and break the staunchness of our infantry."

"United States-bomb Consolidated Liberators-bombers were reported unofficially in a Stockholm dispatch to London to be operating with the Red Air Force in defense of Sevastopol."

Bell Airacobras Praised For Success in Aleutians

By the Associated Press. BUFFALO, N. Y., June 18.—Gen. H. Arnold, chief of the United States Army Air Forces, commends Bell Aircraft Corp. for the part played by Bell Airacobras (P-39) in "the success achieved in repulsing the enemy during the recent fighting off the Aleutian Islands."

In a telegram to President Lawrence D. Bell of the warplant firm, Gen. Arnold praised the work of the "men and their four companies." The Airacobras, Gen. Arnold said, "engaged a squadron of 14 Japanese planes, destroyed four and dispersed the others. They overcame the difficulties of storm, dense clouds and low ceilings and they did not suffer a single loss."

Move Revived to Aid Employer, Labor in Jobless Tax Change

McGehee's Proposal Would Permit Cut in D. C. Rate to Halt Excessive Levies

(This is the first of a series of articles on the proposed revision of the District Unemployment Compensation Act which would lower the tax rate and liberalize benefits.)

By J. A. FOX.
In reviving the move to amend the District unemployment compensation law, Representative McGehee, Democrat, of Mississippi is proposing legislation to prevent further excessive taxation of business and to provide added benefits for labor.

Approximately 17,500 commercial and industrial concerns in the District now are paying a 2.7 per cent payroll tax annually to the District Unemployment Compensation Board to finance aid for the idle. This tax (and an 0.3 per cent levy which goes to the Federal Government) is payable on the salary of each individual employe up to a limit of $3,000. The tax has been collected at varying rates for six years and a half. Despite the fact that the District jobless law is among the most liberal-ranking with the first 10 of the States—a surplus of $28,000,000 has been piled up in the Treasury, and is continuing to grow.

Under the McGehee bill, the 2.7 tax could be cut, on a sliding scale, as low as 0.5 per cent. The size of the (See MCGEHEE, Page A-3.)

Stimson to Transfer Combat Officers on Duty in Capital Area

New Specialists Corps To Take Over Jobs in War Agencies Here

"There are too darn many combat officers on duty in Washington," Secretary of War Stimson said today in announcing orders had been issued directing a reduction of the number assigned to duty in or near the Capital.

All commanders and heads of activities in the War Department have been ordered to reorganize their work, he said, to release as many of these officers for combat duty as possible.

Mr. Stimson said the new Army Specialists' Corps will provide many over-aged civilians with duties now performed by combat officers in the Quartermaster Corps, transportation, ordnance and similar services.

Number Not Revealed. The Secretary did not announce the number of combat officers disclosed on duty here by a survey which he conducted, nor did he estimate the number that would be transferred.

He pointed out the civilian service, many of which will serve overseas, not subject to the usual pensions and compensations paid Army men for disabilities.

An order to Dwight F. Davis, director general of the new corps, Mr. Stimson said, specifically provided that "all political or personal considerations will be rigidly excluded, and care will be exercised to insure the appointment of men who are fully qualified and specifically needed."

The orders added: "Any attempt to provide employment for men seeking a job, or pay at a higher rate than that received in civil life is contrary to approved policies, and, of course, cannot be tolerated. Moreover, it will be necessary to insure (See COMBAT OFFICER, Pg. A-6.)

Dollar-a-Year Men in WPB Hit by Truman

Changes in Personnel Urged by Report; Failures Cited

Charging that the war effort has been "hampered" by the representatives of "big business" brought into the Government, the special Senate committee investigating national defense today said changes were needed "in both the organization and personnel of some branches and divisions in the War Production Board."

The committee, headed by Senator Truman, Democrat, of Missouri, said there had been "staggering delay" in the conversion of major civilian industries to war purposes, and added that the WPB had not measured up to its responsibility.

The report was particularly critical of Philip D. Reed, chief of the WPB Bureau of Industry Branches, declaring he had been "inadequately" in the necessary action to obtain the maximum conversion of private industry to war production in the shortest possible time.

Partially Upholds Guthrie. In this connection, the committee upheld part of the charges against WPB by Robert P. Guthrie, who resigned March 14, from the WPB executive staff with a protest that WPB "on a dollar-a-year basis, on leave from his position as chairman of the board of the General Electric Co., from which company he is presently receiving a salary and bonus totaling $120,000 a year."

"The committee has not been impressed with Mr. Reed's ability or accomplishments," the report said. "The committee will recommend the abolition of some jobs."

Shortly after the report was made public a WPB spokesman predicted an "extensive organizational reorganization" would be necessary within a month, which "inevitably will bring the abolition of some jobs."

But, the unnamed spokesman emphasized, the changes probably would not be based on the Truman criticism.

WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson refused to comment on Senator Truman's demand for changes in men and methods at WPB, but sources close to Mr. Nelson indicated that the realignment might effect some of the changes Senator Truman asked.

The WPB spokesman pointed out that a special Office of Organizational Planning, headed by Dr. Luther Gulick, director of the Columbia University Institute of Public Administration, was established within WPB May 14 to work out the new setup.

At that time, Mr. Nelson declared that Dr. Gulick was "ironing out any kinks in the administrative structure" of WPB, to prevent top-heaviness and to "get this war job done in the quickest and most efficient way."

Senator Truman asserted that "a change in both the organization and personnel of some branches and divisions in the WPB" was necessary. There were indications that such changes would be inevitable, since many industry branches no longer have any civilian industries to work with.

Restrictions Urged.

Recommending additional restrictions on big business executives now serving in the war-production effort, the Senate committee said it was "convinced" that the Guthrie case points to the conclusion that certain dollar-a-year men within the Bureau of Industry Branches of WPB are unable to divorce themselves from their subconscious gravitation to their own industries."

Sensors said these conclusions were based on both public and closed hearings into charges made by Mr. Guthrie and others. Included were details and critical surveys of these industries: Refrigerators, radios, metal furniture, metal signs, kitchen utensils, laundry equipment, metal toys and games. Army Burns Old Tires At Fort, Kansas Paper Says

By the Associated Press. A statement of the War Department's policy on disposition of tires no longer usable on Army vehicles was sought today by Senator Capper, Republican, of Kansas.

The Senator said he had received several letters from Kansas concerning a report published by the Topeka State Journal that condemned tires had been burned at Fort Riley, Kans. The newspaper article stated a Topeka resident who saw a cloud of smoke over the Fort Riley Reservation inquired of an Army officer as to its meaning and was told that a "big pile of condemned tires was being burned." The officer, who was not identified, also was quoted as saying, "The Army doesn't dare sell anything, so we burn old tires."

Senator Capper said he would advise Maj. Gen. James A. Ulio, adjutant general of the report and ask him for a statement as to the War Department's policy on disposition of old tires.

Officers of the Army's Services of Supply said they had no report that used rubber equipment was being burned. On the contrary, they said, all reports to the War Department indicate that field agencies of the Army are complying strictly with the regulations forbidding destruction of rubber.

Division of FCC Would Be Backward Step, Fly Declares

Proposal Would Strip Chairman of Authority, He Tells House Unit

Legislation requiring the Federal Communications Commission to split into two divisions to handle private and public communications "would be a long backward step," FCC Chairman James L. Fly told the House Interstate Commerce Committee today.

"There is no point at all in having a chairman of a commission if he is only to have the stripped functions which this bill commits to him," Mr. Fly commented.

Splitting of the commission, the chairman testified, would be "disregard the lessons we have learned from experience" and would nullify "the important advantages which the creation of the Federal Communications Commission was designed to achieve."

Recalling that from 1934 to 1937 the commission was split into three divisions, Mr. Fly said this system was abandoned later in 1937 because it "did not work well."

"The proposed bill would compel us to adopt a system which we tried for three years and found to be unsatisfactory," he said.

Seeing "a joker" in the bill, Mr. Fly said that under the present setup the chairman is responsible for what the commission does and is called to account when "there is public dissatisfaction" with the commission's work.

Mr. Fly said that the proposed act would create a situation which the chairman "could not be expected to shoulder any such responsibility."

Mr. Fly said that in a section of the bill requiring the commission to be non-partisan in its makeup, the section provides that not more than four members of the commission and more than two members of each division may belong to the same political party.

Mexican Planes Hunt Prowling Axis Craft; Anxious for Action

Bomb-Loaded Patrol Ships Ordered to 'Attack And Sink on Sight'

MEXICO CITY, June 18.—Loaded with bombs, patrol planes of the Mexican air force are scouring the waters of the Pacific and Gulf of Mexico under orders to "attack and sink on sight" all prowling U-boats and other craft belonging to Germany, Italy and Japan against whom Mexico declared war less than three weeks ago.

Gen. Roberto Fierro, chief of military aviation, also reported yesterday that there was "constant exchange of information and complete collaboration on both coasts" between the air commands of Mexico and the United States to combat enemy raids on Allied shipping.

"From bases scattered along our shorelines," Gen. Fierro said, "our pilots are winging far out to sea, searching for the enemy everywhere. We have no news of any encounters yet, but our flyers hope it will not be long before they have an opportunity to fire their machine guns and loose their bombs against an enemy."

Mexico's anti-Axis vigilance will become steadily more effective, Gen. Fierro stated, as more medium bomber and scout planes arrive from the United States to strengthen the Nation's air force and fill certain gaps in the present patrol ships.

In recent days 12 modern patrol planes have landed here to be immediately assigned to duty on both coasts.

MacArthur Takes Greatest Pride In Fatherhood

NEW YORK, June 18.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur cabled the National Father's Day Committee today that while he was proud to be a soldier, "I am prouder, infinitely prouder, to be a father."

Chosen by the committee as "outstanding American father of 1942," Gen. MacArthur's cable was the first to be received by the committee.

"Nothing has touched me more deeply than the act of the National Father's Day Committee. By profession I am a soldier and take pride in that fact, but I am prouder, infinitely prouder, to be a father. A soldier destroys in order to build. The father only builds, never destroys. The one has the potentialities of death, the other embodies creation and life. And while the battles of death are mighty, the battles of life are mightier still. My hope is that my son, when I am gone, will remember me not from the battle but in the home repeating with him our simple daily prayer, 'Our Father who art in heaven.'"

Disbarment Trial Of Weinberg Postponed

ROCKVILLE, Md., June 18.—A hearing in the Circuit court here on a motion to disbar Leo Weinberg, Frederick attorney, was postponed indefinitely today because the defendant is in a sanatorium.

The citation was issued by Judge Charles W. Woodward on the information and oath of Judge Stedman Prescott, both of the Montgomery County Circuit Court.

Mr. Weinberg telephoned Judge Prescott on May 13 and threatened "to put a bullet in his judge's brain" because of a decision rendered by the judge.

Senator Maybank, Democrat, of South Carolina interrupted Senator Taft to note that a "large number of illiterates" in his State were anxious to serve in the armed forces, but had been deferred under present selective service regulations.

Senator Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan asked if Senator Taft's proposal for deferring men would be retroactive so that family men already called to duty might be returned.

Early's Bat Helps Nats To 4-0 Lead Over Indians in Third

Catcher Drives in Three Runs With Double, Single Off Vernon Kennedy

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The Nats were leading the Indians here today in the final game of the series. The score was 4 to 0 in the third inning. The Nats looked like the team the Indians were supposed to be in the early innings of the game. Both went scoreless in the first, but in the second the Nats began to get Vernon Kennedy rattled. Cullenbine singled and came home on a double by Jake Early. Repass promptly singled to score Early.

The Nats added two runs in the third, Early driving both of them home with a single after the bases had been filled by a walk, a single and an intentional pass to Bruce Campbell.

Synthetic Tires Seen By Gillette in 8 Months After Plants Are Built

Bill Is Introduced In Senate to Increase Artificial Supplies

WASHINGTON—Senator Gillette today introduced legislation to increase the production of synthetic rubber tires in the United States.

"Production of tires within eight months after construction of synthetic rubber manufacturing plants is authorized by Senator Gillette, Democrat, of Idaho as legislation was introduced today to create an agency to increase supplies of artificial elastic."

The measure, conceived by the Senate Agriculture Subcommittee of which Senator Gillette is chairman, would establish a rubber supply agency with sole authority over production of synthetic rubber derived from alcohol obtained from farm or forest products.

"Rubber from farm crops can be produced at reasonable costs, needs less precious materials for plant construction and most vitally important, can produce tires in eight months of the time plant construction is authorized."

"It is shameful to have this program stalled by any one thinking of post war competition in the rubber and alcohol industries. Lowndes, Indiana Republican, of Indiana introduced today with an assertion that the "only real issue" of this year's political campaign is the New Deal itself.

Willis Declares New Deal Is Issue of Fall Campaign

INDIANAPOLIS, June 18.—Senator Willis, Republican, of Indiana introduced today with an assertion that the "only real issue" of this year's political campaign is the New Deal itself.

"New Deal groups," the Senator said, "are predicted to defeat men of both parties who have actually voted for every so-called defense measure asked for by the President. Why, then, are these marked men?"

"They are listed for political assassination in the fall elections because they dared to oppose—not defense measures, not war measures—but New Deal social reform legislation."

"Thus, the New Dealers have inadvertently recognized that the real issue of this campaign is not the war. Instead, the issue is the New Deal itself."

Green Calls for 'Rebels' To Return to 'Labor's House'

NEW YORK, June 18.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today renewed his invitation to "all those who left us in 1935 to come back home and take their place in the house of labor."

Referring to the dispute between Philip Murray, president of the CIO, and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, Mr. Green said "the rebel movement is now in the name-calling stage" while the AFL was "attempting to bring about solidarity in labor."

Speaking before a cheering crowd at the Federal Office Building, Mr. Green predicted that the CIO unions would come back to the AFL.

"They are at each other's throat and we are a happy family," he said. "I trust and hope we will never present such a picture to the American people as the rebel movement has presented."

One Serious Traffic Accident Reported During Blackout

Hyattsville Pedestrian Is Struck by Auto on Baltimore Boulevard

D. C. Traffic Toll table with columns for Killed in 1942, Killed in same period of 1941, and Toll for all of 1941.

One man was seriously injured early today in Hyattsville, but otherwise only minor traffic accidents were reported in the Washington area during the blackout.

Sharretts A. Paine, 53, of 4406 Madison avenue, Hyattsville, Md., was in critical condition at Casualty Hospital, suffering a fractured skull, fractures of both legs, broken ribs and shock.

Prince Georges County police said he was struck by an automobile while walking along the 5800 block of the Baltimore boulevard. He was taken to the hospital by the Brentwood rescue squad.

Child Hit by Car. Police listed the driver of the car as George E. Purschwitz of Brentwood, Md., who said he was reporting to work in Washington at the time. He was charged with reckless driving.

During the previous blackout a man was killed in Takoma Park, Md., by a motorist.

Washington's most severe traffic accident last night came shortly before the blackout, when 4-year-old Rosa Lee Davis, colored, ran into the street and was hit by an auto near her home, 54 Pierce street N.W., police said.

She was taken to Sibley Hospital, suffering a head injury, and was later transferred to Children's Hospital.

Policeman Nelson F. Skogland, 34, was injured when an auto hit his motorcycle at 2:30 a. m. He was sitting on the cycle in the first block of M street S. E., recording information given by two auxiliary policemen. Providence Hospital physicians treated him for leg lacerations.

Truck Strikes Pole. Eighteen minutes after the blackout began a car driven by Albert A. Baker, 54, 1223 H street N.E., struck a pole, then a parked car at Third and Massachusetts avenue N.W., police said.

Mr. Baker was taken to Casualty Hospital. A truck driven by Frank Devine, 26, of Sands, Ala., struck a pole early today at River road and Raymond avenue, Alexandria, police said.

The driver was uninjured, but several wires were knocked from the pole.

Mr. Devine reported he was driving along River road, which is U. S. Route 1, with his lights dimmed and was unable to see the pole.

man asked: "What is this, a joke?" He protested that he believed his lights had been extinguished.

One blackout conviction was speedily obtained in Alexandria, Va. Pvt. Paul Kelly, U. S. M. C. of Washington, was fined $10 and costs by Judge James R. Duncan for driving in excess of 15 miles an hour with improperly dimmed lights.

District Collateral Forfeited. Alliment of Chevy Chase, Md., forfeited $3 on a charge of driving with improper lights at 11:05 p. m. on Nebraska avenue near Wisconsin avenue N.W., police reported.

Other violations may be showing in coming to light. Wardens who noted houses where lights were blowing, for example, were to report these to police. Police investigate, and it may be hours or days before the case goes before an assistant corporation counsel, who may issue a warrant.

The 12th police precinct said it was probing some alleged violators, and the cases might become public next week.

In Washington, no serious traffic accident occurred during the blackout—and there was no fatal accident nearby.

A pedestrian, Sharretts A. Paine, 53, of Hyattsville, was critically injured when hit at 4:45 a. m. on the Baltimore boulevard by an auto driven by a Washington-bound worker.

Man Robbed by Trio. About the only violence reported to police was the robbery of Robert R. Kegg, 3033 O street N.W., by three white youths who strongarmed him at 1:30 a. m. at Delaware avenue and C street N.E. They took his watch and $8.

The police rarely see such calls to scout cars, reporting suspicious persons and attempts to break into homes. Investigation proved that nearly all such alarms had been caused by movement of air-raid wardens or auxiliary policemen.

Pedestrians experienced difficulty merely walking along sidewalks during the intense darkness. At 10:40 p. m. David Pinkney, 28, walked into a light pole near his home, 1237 E street S.E. Providence Hospital physicians treated him for face lacerations.

So dark was it, in fact, that an airline pilot coming into Washington National Airport did not know he was over Washington until the airport control tower gave him his bearings. He told Civilian Defense Co-ordinator J. Russell Young, who visited the airport during the total blackout phase of the test, that he could not see the Capitol dome or the Washington Monument, nor could he see the outline of the city.

Alarm Lasts 30 Minutes. The air-raid alarm, or total blackout period, which halted everything except emergency vehicles and sent pedestrians to cover, came at 10:25 p. m., 25 minutes after the blackout began in the District. The yellow or alert was sounded at 9:50, the blue signal at 10:05, the red at 10:25 and the all-clear signal at 10:55.

During the half-hour period, which was given a realistic touch when Army aircraft flew over the city, trucks and automobiles pulled to the curb or the side of the road, streetcars and buses stopped wherever they were and a ghastly silence settled over the whole area.

For 15 minutes of the total blackout, the mammoth new War Building in Arlington and the Washington Navy Yard were blacked out and, for the first time, the National Airport was completely dark, as were the Army and Navy airfields here.

The test at the airport made a deep impression on Commissioner Young and Representative Stefan, Republican of Nebraska. They said three planes landed while the terminal was blacked out and that more than 300 persons in the terminal at the time were quickly evacuated to the basement.

Operation Performed During Test. Shortly after the blackout period began and during the actual air-raid test, an appendectomy was performed by Dr. Carson L. Flier on a 10-year-old Alexandria (Va.) boy at the Alexandria General Hospital. The patient was an acute case and immediate operation was called for.

Dr. Flier said.

The operating room windows were well shaded and the surgery was performed without incident, although nurses later went to work in the "scrubroom" sterilizing instruments and cleaning equipment with the aid of flashlights. The patient is recovering satisfactorily.

Montgomery County defense officials said they were investigating failure to turn off certain street lights in the Chevy Chase area until some 20 minutes after the blackout began.

All reports have not come in yet, it was stated, so responsibility for the error has not yet been determined.

In another case of delayed doubling of street lights along Columbia road at Eighteenth street, Capt. Clarence Lutz, No. 10 police precinct said the error was due to the confusion of a police officer who thought a signal would be given to turn them off.

Some Non-Co-operation Noted. While the Commissioners and civilian defense officials declared they believed the test was the best they could expect, they were somewhat by their observations of brilliantly lighted street cars and well-lighted windows in some buildings. All were agreed, however, that the co-operation of home owners was only a little shy of 100 per cent.

Commissioner Young said he believed the Capital Transit Co. should be expected to "give better co-operation" in blacking out streetcars and buses in the next blackout. He also said he thought some of the buses were violating the 15-mile-per-hour blackout speed limit.

Col. Samuel Boies, executive director of civilian defense, pointed out that the transit firm has been unable to get equipment to black out its vehicles, but Commissioner Young said he could see no reason why the company should not turn out the inside lights or put shades over the windows until they get the equipment.

Col. Beverly C. Snow, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, who stationed himself at the communications control center during the test, reported that everything there functioned smoothly, and that the simulated incidents employed to test communications and other parts of the organization were "cleared" swiftly and efficiently. There was none of the bottlenecks experienced during the last test, he said.

Forty separate "incidents," ranging from incendiary bombings to disruption of water mains and gas lines, were arranged as though enemy planes were cutting a swath across the city.

At designated moments, air-raid wardens in several civilian defense areas opened letters containing instructions to report a bombing or a fire. The first was timed for three minutes after the blackout started, and the others followed at two-minute intervals. All were reported to the control center, which, in an actual raid, would dispatch the proper equipment to the scene. For last night's test, the incidents were simply reported.

William J. Mileham, chief air-raid warden, was at the control center when the reports were made.

Senators Draft Bill To Set Up New Agency To Control Rubber

Sponsors Demand Use Of Farm Products To Meet Public's Needs

The first congressional threat to Donald M. Nelson's control of war production appeared developing today with drafting of legislation to place direction of the rubber program under an independent agency.

Conceived by a group of Senators seeking production of synthetic rubber and alcohol from farm products, the bill would create a powerful "rubber supplies agency" to co-ordinate activities now directed by separate units under Mr. Nelson.

Chairman Gillette of the Senate Agriculture Subcommittee asserted the bill would be introduced as soon as a decision was reached on whether it should stipulate that butadiene, from which the principal type of synthetic rubber is made, should be produced from grain alcohol.

Some quarters, he added, advised giving the proposed supplies agency general authority over production of synthetic rubber without specifying the source.

Transfer of jurisdiction over the wartime rubber program to a separate agency was proposed by Senator Norris, independent, of Nebraska, explained, because the committee believed the present directorship would not utilize surplus grains for distilling the needed alcohol.

Senator Gillette also declared the agency would "eliminate much of the confusion and conflicting statements now existing." The director of the agency, he added, would be empowered to select location of plants and to supervise processing and production of all rubber, natural or synthetic or scrap.

Meantime another Senate committee sought to meet Undersecretary of War Patterson's objections to a bill to permit annual allocation of about 3,500 tons of the Nation's crude rubber stock for servicing of 20,000,000 passenger cars.

The Undersecretary protested the bill would give civilians "a first lien" on the rubber supply, which he contended was insufficient for needs of the armed forces.

Accordingly, the Senate Small Business Committee, sponsor of the measure, considered amendments restricting the use of crude rubber for recapping and retreading of an estimated 30,000,000 tires a year to cars used by war workers and those engaged in "essential business."

Senator Ellender, Democrat, of Louisiana said that the necessary amount of crude rubber constituted less than 2 per cent of the Nation's supply.

Consideration Seen For Life Insurance As Income Tax Credit

House Committee Soon May Take Up Principle for Bill

By OLIVER MCKEE. The proposal to permit a credit or deduction in the war revenue bill on income tax returns for life insurance premiums paid by the individual taxpayers may soon be considered by the House Ways and Means Committee, it was indicated today.

Though no action has yet been taken, the question has been informally discussed and several committee members are reported to have evidenced interest in the plan. Both the committee and individual members have received many letters urging reductions for life insurance payments.

Former Undersecretary of the Treasury Roswell Magill, in an address in New York City last month, pointed out that tax credits for life insurance premiums by encouraging savings, would help curb inflation and contribute to maintaining the protection of American families.

Because of higher taxes and the purchase of War bonds, many holders of life insurance policies are likely to find it difficult to continue payment of premiums on existing policies, most of which represent commitments made long before the entrance of the United States into the war.

Legislation to permit deductions within certain statutory limits, of insurance premiums from income tax returns was urged in a resolution approved by the New York State Chamber of Commerce early this month. The resolution was presented to the chamber's Executive Committee by the Undersecretary of War, who was accompanied by report summarizing the arguments for tax credits for life insurance premiums.

Rising Living Costs Cited. "At the present time, in order to curb inflation, various methods are being suggested for siphoning off the excess income of individuals as a result of war conditions," the report said. "It is well recognized that a large percentage of taxpayers have had no increase in income as a result of the war. Still, their living costs have been substantially advanced and their taxes increased, with more increases to follow."

"Faced with this situation, many are having serious difficulties in continuing payment of insurance premiums. It is, however, most desirable that life insurance be maintained by the individuals in the lower brackets of income payments."

"Life insurance reduces the demand for welfare expenditures by the Government, and its growth increases our economic and social stability. This should fully justify a release from income taxation, after the British method, of a limited part of the individual's income if used for life insurance to protect himself and his family."

Anti-Inflation Factor. "By offering an incentive for carrying life insurance, many with increased incomes would be induced to become policyholders and to devote their increased purchasing power to paying insurance premiums instead of purchasing commodities. This would be a factor in the movement to prevent inflation."

"The President has pointed out that the war finance program should discourage spending and encourage thrift. This means that the tax policy of the Government should be to maintain the individual's ability to make essential savings and the normal repayment of debt."

The report of the New York Chamber of Commerce, copies of which have been sent to the President and members of Congress, pointed out the 300 life insurance companies in the United States last year had over 25 per cent of their assets invested in Government securities. Increased holdings through life insurance, it added, "would bring additional amounts to the aid of the fiscal affairs of the Government and to employment-giving enterprises throughout the Nation."

Fortas Is Named Undersecretary Of Interior

Abbe Fortas, young director of the Interior Department's power division, was nominated by President Roosevelt today to be Undersecretary of the Interior.

The nomination was sent to the Senate along with a list of Army, Navy and foreign service officers for promotion.

Mr. Fortas will succeed John J. Dempsey, whose resignation was accepted yesterday by Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Dempsey plans to seek the Democratic nomination for Governor of New Mexico.

Mr. Fortas, a native of Tennessee, has been in Government service since 1933, soon after he graduated from Yale University. In addition to his present position, he is acting general counsel of the National Power Policy Committee.

FCC Relaxes Requirements For Morse Code Operators

The Federal Communications Commission has announced that it has relaxed requirements for operators of Morse code radio-telegraph stations in the aeronautical service. Under the new plan holders of radio-telephone permits will be permitted to operate this class of station after they have demonstrated to a commission inspector that they can transmit and receive at least 16 words of international Morse code per minute.

The commission said the action is designed to relieve the rapidly growing shortage of skilled operators caused by wartime conditions and the requirements of the military forces for radio operators. It added that it specifically looks forward to the possibility of training women to assume these duties by providing for such operation without the detailed qualifications necessary for the more technical grades of licenses. Many of the air stations now have woman radio-telephone operators.

It will be necessary, however, for each station which uses the new type of operator to have at least one first or second class radiotelegraph or telephone operator at all times on duty to adjust the equipment and to be responsible for proper operation of the station. The operators who receive the new type of license will not be permitted to adjust equipment.

In preparing buildings for blackouts the specifications stress the desirability of adequate interior lighting for its benefit upon morale. The absolute turning off of all indoor lights, the engineers said, "causes serious disruption of normal military, industrial, commercial and home activities—the very objectives sought by enemy air raids."

For general indoor purposes, a special 15-watt lamp has been developed which permits reduced illumination without the necessity of complete obstruction for windows and doors, when employed in accordance with official instructions. This bulb is orange or orange-red, with an opaque coating, except for an aperture 1 inch in diameter. The specifications on building

Blackout Standards Drafted by Board of Army Engineers

Bulletins Deal With Traffic, Buildings And Street Lighting

With blackouts a common occurrence and costs in danger from possible air-raid reprisals, the Army Engineer Board at Fort Belvoir, Va., has moved to acquaint the public and manufacturers with standard specifications for essential blackout equipment and requirements.

Copies of these have been distributed, the War Department announced, to all defense commanders and corps area commanders.

Three separate bulletins also have been distributed dealing with blackout requirements for highway movement, blackout of buildings and street lighting during blackouts. The bulletins are not intended for general distribution at this time but for use of Army and Government officials and equipment manufacturers for the establishment of effective measures for adequate blackouts through the use of approved technical devices and materials.

The Office of Civilian Defense will publish and distribute the specifications later in areas to which they will be applied.

Requested by Agencies. The standards were drafted by the Engineer Board with suggestions from the National Technological Civil Protection Committee, the National Defense Research Council, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Bureau of Standards and the Office of Defense Transportation.

Blackout equipment specified for highway movement is designed to provide maximum safety with reasonable freedom from detection by enemy aircraft. The specifications prescribe that "one, and only one, approved blackout driving lamp shall be employed on motor vehicles." This is to be mounted on the front between the left side and center, far enough forward to eliminate appreciable reflection of light from any portion of the vehicle.

The mounting height of this blackout lamp is to be not less than 36 inches nor more than 56 inches, measured from the road level, and in no case higher than the top of the rim of the steering wheel. Preferable mounting height is 42 inches.

Other Lights Described. Precise descriptions are given in the bulletin of standard tail lights and stop lights for automobiles, as well as requirements for motor buses and street cars. Drab brown paint is recommended for all shiny surfaces.

Since a period of at least five minutes is required for the human eye to become fairly well adapted for vision during a blackout, it was recommended that no user of the road, except in an emergency, should move in blackout until his eyes are properly "dark-adapted."

Attention also is given to the needs of pedestrians and traffic control personnel required to move or stand in h ghways during blackouts. Since they are not then clearly visible from moving vehicles, they must learn to keep out of the path of traffic. Pedestrians detailed to blackout duty should wear white or reflectorized leggings or anklets, and should carry blackout flashlights or lanterns.

Interior Lighting Urged. In preparing buildings for blackouts the specifications stress the desirability of adequate interior lighting for its benefit upon morale. The absolute turning off of all indoor lights, the engineers said, "causes serious disruption of normal military, industrial, commercial and home activities—the very objectives sought by enemy air raids."

For general indoor purposes, a special 15-watt lamp has been developed which permits reduced illumination without the necessity of complete obstruction for windows and doors, when employed in accordance with official instructions. This bulb is orange or orange-red, with an opaque coating, except for an aperture 1 inch in diameter. The specifications on building

Norse Exiles Going Home Soon, Premier Declares

By the Associated Press. HALIFAX, June 18.—Prime Minister Johan Nygaardsvold of the Norwegian government—in exile, dedicating a new Norwegian club here, told his fellow countrymen last night they would "soon be going home."

"We are going home," he said. "We do not know when, but we do know that it will be soon." He expressed hope that after the war Norway would be rebuilt as it was before the Nazi invasion.

Addressing a gathering made up largely of merchant seamen, Nygaardsvold declared his government would "never forget the work of the sailors to bring liberty to Norway."

Nygaardsvold arrived here two days ago from New York on his first Canadian visit.

Draft Board Doctor Sues To Stop Own Induction

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., June 18.—An examining physician for local Draft Board 741 yesterday filed an action against the board in an effort to prevent his fellow officials from inducting him into the Army.

Asking for a Federal Court injunction to prohibit action by the board, Dr. Frank J. Pirone asserted that its step in classifying him in I-A violated selective service regulations forbidding members of a draft board to pass on the case of an official of the same board.

Dr. Pirone said he would be "immediately and irreparably damaged and injured and deprived of his livelihood" by such an action.

The case was believed to be the first of its kind under the Selective Service Law.

Stimson Rules Joe Louis Must Finish Training

Secretary of War Stimson said today that Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis would make no more public appearances, except those strictly for the armed forces, until he completes his basic military training.

The program usually lasts three or four months, but Secretary Stimson said he did not know how much of it Louis has completed.

Louis, who has been made a corporal and is stationed at Fort Devens, Mass., has been unable to keep up with the Army's military training program, the Secretary said.

"The many public appearances which have been made by Joe Louis," Secretary Stimson said, "have made it impossible for him to be accorded the same privileges of training as other soldiers, and this is unfair both to him and to the Army."

He has, therefore, been ordered to a replacement training center to complete his basic military training and until that has been completed his public appearances, except those strictly for the armed forces, will be discontinued.

British Warplanes Raid Sub Base At St. Nazaire

Targets in North France and Belgium Also Are Attacked Overnight

LONDON, June 18.—British warplanes attacked the Nazi submarine base at St. Nazaire on the Occupied French coast last night, laid mines in enemy waters and attacked military targets in Northern France and Belgium, the Air Ministry announced today.

One fighter plane was lost, a communique said. There was no German aerial activity over Britain last night, but two Nazi planes dropped bombs on the southwest coast early this morning, causing some damage and a small number of casualties, the government reported.

Small Force in Attack. The Air Ministry communique gave no details of the attack on St. Nazaire, but an authoritative source reported that a small force of bombers participated.

Bad weather was said to have prevented the RAF from striking at Germany again after Tuesday night's assault on the Ruhr and Rhineland. Germany's submarine-construction center in Emden, the famous Nordsee Werft shipbuilding yards, was badly smashed by the RAF in the heavy bombing of June 6, shortly after the 1,000-plane attack on Cologne, the Air Ministry News Service announced yesterday.

Photographic reconnaissance, the news service said, showed that one large shop, built in the yards during the war, was gutted; that another large shop was severely damaged by fire; nine smaller buildings destroyed, and two large warehouses demolished.

Sub Building Hampered. The general picture was one of "large areas of destruction." The raid, the RAF added, "must certainly have done much to hamper and delay building of submarines."

Canadian Flyers Helping Americans in Alaska

VICTORIA, B. C., June 18.—Squadrons of the Royal Canadian Air Force are operating with United States forces in Alaska, it became known last night as Lt. Gen. Kenneth Stuart, chief of the Canadian general staff, assumed temporary command of Canada's Pacific forces.

Canadian anti-aircraft units are also on duty in Alaska, Gen. Stuart revealed. This was the first public announcement that Canadian forces were participating in operations with the United States Army. Gen. Stuart said he attached "considerable significance" to the Japanese action in the Aleutian Islands, describing it as "an obvious defensive attempt to neutralize, destroy or occupy such air bases in the Aleutians as can be used for 'jumping-off' points to attack Japan by shore-based aircraft."

"It is also true," he said, "that if Japan can hold the gains in the Aleutians she will be much closer to Canadian objectives than she was before."

Adrienne Warner, a junior at George Washington University, has been awarded a full scholarship to attend the school of English at Middlebury, Vt., and will leave shortly for the institution. Only a few undergraduates are admitted to this graduate school, it was said.

tax would depend on the condition of the reserve, figured on an actual basis in relation to prospective demand. Mr. McGehee estimates that the District fund would not fall below a "healthy" reserve of $10,000,000 for at least 18 years, if the 0.5 tax were applied. This reasoning is bolstered by the experience of the past year, when disbursements of $2,128,329 were the highest on record, and the fund still showed a gain of nearly $5,000,000.

The volume of claims last year was not as great as in 1940, totaling 175,000, as compared to 219,000. The average payment, however, had increased from $8.29 to $12.83. Even had the higher rate been applicable in 1940, the outlay would have increased by hardly more than $200,000. Right now, claims are at about one-third of the 1940 level, and John R. Marshall, executive officer of the Unemployment Compensation Board, believes that this is "rock bottom," considering the demand for manpower.

Only $8,125,000 in Benefits. An overall summary of the operation of the fund is further evidence of the way in which it is mushrooming. The tax collection started January, 1936. Compensation payments were begun two years later. Since January 1, 1938, the total outlay in benefit payments has been but $8,125,000, including $790,000 turned over to the Railroad Retirement Board when an independent compensation system was set up for rail workers.

One of the principal reasons why the District tax is running so heavy is the inclusive coverage of the local law, which reaches down to employers of but one person. Only in the State of Washington is the law of similar scope. Some other States cover one-employee concerns, but only where the service of the individual has been for an extended period, usually 20 weeks. In the Capital, a half-day's employment is taxable. As a general rule, the States fix a minimum of four to eight employees in setting up their compensation systems. Whatever the District rate might become under a new law, the 0.3 per cent payment to the Government would remain constant, as this constitutes the local contribution to the fund for administering the law.

lines at the center in which 700 Germans were declared slain. The communique said Russian flyers destroyed or damaged 70 German troop trucks and 30 supply carts, silenced seven artillery batteries, blew up six depots, smashed a military freight train and sank a torpedo boat Tuesday. A tank-supported infantry attack in Field Marshal Gen. Fedor von Bock's week-old offensive to straighten lines bent by the Russian drive on Kharkov last month was reported bloodily repulsed.

Navy Base's Main Forts Stormed, Nazim Report. BERLIN (AP)—German forces smashing in on Sevastopol have stormed the main fortifications north of the city, capturing Maxim Gorky Fort and driving to within 2 miles of the harbor entrance, the high command declared today.

"In the battle for Sevastopol," a communique said, "German infantry and engineers, effectively supported by concentric artillery fire and Luftwaffe operations, stormed the main forts in the northern part of the defense system, including Maxim Gorky Fort, most modern and strongest bastion of the whole fortress."

Stores Are Destroyed. "On the southern front of the fortress the Russians, despite stubborn resistance, were driven out of important positions by German and Rumanian troops. "In the harbor district stores and supply vessels of the enemy were destroyed by air attacks."

The communique said that on the central front before Moscow German troops continued mopping up Russian forces which had been operating in the rear of the German lines.

Russian attacks along the Volkhov River front southeast of Leningrad again were reported repulsed. "In the harbor of Murmansk," the communique said, "German dive bombers raided enemy supply steamers. German fighters escorting the Stukas shot down 11 enemy fighters."

Mr. Boyd offered a prize of a 10-gallon hat with a synthetic rubber sweat band to the State scrap drive chairman whose organization brings in the largest per capita volume.

The first progress report on the Nation as a whole will be issued at the conclusion of the first week of the drive, June 22, and final figures will be ready about July 5, officials of the petroleum council said. Meanwhile salvage directors continued to press their organization work, approaching churches and their auxiliary organizations, hospitals and other institutions and citizens' associations.

Mrs. Newton Wing, chairman of the women's division of the salvage committee, said that Washington is being "blanketed" with chain telephone calls promoting the drive. Each woman is asked to phone five friends, remind them of the scrap collection effort, and ask each of them to call five friends with a similar message.

Beach "Horse" Donated. Types of scrap found at the various stations had a wide range. One had a large inflatable rubber horse used on bathing beaches. A fire station had a grocery bag full of mats and inner tubes.

Another operator showed 41 rubber tires that a man had been using in his garden. At this same depot, a woman brought in a rubber-covered dish rack and some electric cord. Another said one of the major contributions was 400 pounds of old tires brought in by a dairy.

Amounts paid out by the stations at the cent-a-pound rate varied. Most of them said that there was little demand for reimbursement except from children. Another reported his disbursements amounted to between $5 and $10 daily.

Mr. Walker emphasized that the public should get in its scrap immediately and not "put it off until tomorrow."

Jap Losses 10 Times Those of Americans, Nimitz Declares

Air Power Being Bolstered, Pacific Fleet Told in Congratulatory Address

PEARL HARBOR, June 18.—American air power exacted a stunning toll of 10 Japanese men and planes for every one lost by the United States in the Coral Sea and Midway Island battles and rapidly is being bulkheaded for even greater sledge-hammer blows.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz made the cheering disclosures yesterday aboard a fighting ship in an address to his Pacific Fleet command which he urged the heroic veterans of the two titanic sea-air fights "to hold the line until our reinforcements are ready to take over."

Acknowledging that losses to United States carrier air groups have been heavy since the war opened, due to initial Japanese air superiority, the commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet strongly hinted that the picture was changing rapidly.

Will Rotate Carrier Groups. Whereas the personnel on aircraft carriers had to fight on little rest or relief in the first stages of the war, Admiral Nimitz said "it will soon be possible to organize additional carrier groups and to rotate them."

"Although we feel keenly the loss of many fine officers and men, we take pride in knowing they gave their lives to turn back grave threats to our country," he declared. "We can take satisfaction in the knowledge that in every meeting with the enemy since December 7, his losses have greatly exceeded ours, and that in the Coral Sea and Midway actions his personnel losses were at least 10 times greater than ours, and his plane losses in almost the same ratio."

"We are greatly increasing our battle strength. Our ships, planes and pilots are being added in constantly increasing numbers."

Admiral Nimitz praised the teamwork of the Army, Navy and Marines in achieving the Midway victory, and announced medal awards to personnel of the Aviation Corps and the submarines.

But he pointed out that air power has played the leading role both in the Coral Sea and off Midway "and will continue to do so as the war progresses."

Knox's Message Read. "The Coral Sea and Midway battles are the first in history in which great aerial duels were fought by carrier fleets," he added.

"Our air groups have proved, by their skill and courage, the superiority of our forces. They have shown that in our ships, in our planes and in our personnel is the stuff that makes for victory." Admiral Nimitz read a message of congratulation for a "magnificent victory" off Midway which was sent by Secretary of Navy Knox.

The crushing defeat of a huge Japanese fleet off Midway thwarted capture of that island and defending the approaches to Hawaii and constituted one phase of the masterful strategy of Admiral Nimitz in cutting the Japanese Navy to pieces.

Davis and Eisenhower Start Publicity Shake-up

Director Elmer Davis and Deputy Director Milton Eisenhower of the Office of War Information today began the reorganization of the information services in Washington to accomplish Mr. Davis' purpose of getting "out as much news as possible, as speedily as possible."

The White House announced Mr. Eisenhower's appointment and said it was made at the request of Mr. Davis. Mr. Eisenhower has been chief of the War Relocation Authority and for years he was public relations chief at the Agriculture Department, which had the most extensive information service of any Washington agency until establishment of OWI Sunday.

Dillon S. Myer was selected to fill the vacancy on the War Relocation Authority. He has been assistant administrator of the Agricultural Conservation and Adjustment Administration.

The first release issued in the name of Mr. Davis' OWI stated that workers brought into Germany from the occupied countries of Europe are now menacing the Nazis with a security problem because they are a "fertile ground" on which outsiders can plant appeals to sabotage.

The OWI said that the foreign workers now total about 5,000,000 in Germany, "lonely, disillusioned and bitter." The release reported that the Germans have been unable to attract foreign workers by promises of high pay since the Cologne and Ruhr bombings and "other measures are being used" to induce the workers to move to Germany.

Col. Caleb V. Haynes Heads U.S. Bomber Command in China

North Carolinian Is Veteran of World War; Never Crashed Plane

CHUNGKING, June 18.—Col. Caleb V. Haynes has been appointed chief of the American Bomber Command in China, it was announced today.

Just where and when the new American force would go into action was a military secret. It was not disclosed what force would comprise the American bomber command in China. There have been reports that United States air units and personnel had arrived there, but these were without confirmation.

Already operating in China are Brig. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's Flying Tigers—the American Volunteer Group with the Chinese air force—but these are scheduled to be taken back into the Army Air Force July 4.

Col. Haynes recently led personally the aerial evacuation of Burma. While stationed in India as commander of the Assam-Burma-China ferrying command he repeatedly risked his life to fly gasoline to the American Volunteer Group of flyers in Burma and bring out refugees and military personnel.

Col. Haynes is a tall, heavy North Carolinian who learned to fly in the last war and has never crashed a plane in his 25-year career. He is 46.

Part of the time in India he was flying transport planes and the rest of the time he helped provide protection for the transports in a pursuit ship.

He was the last Allied airman to fly into Lashio. He flew into Shwebo, in Upper Burma, right after a flight of Japanese bombers and took out Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's staff just before another flight was expected.

His main purpose in going to Shwebo was to bring out Gen. Stilwell himself, but the general insisted on remaining and later marched out through the jungle.

Col. Haynes was attacked once while flying a transport. That time he Avrell Harriman mission to Moscow last year. For this he was awarded an oak leaf cluster to add to his DSC.

Earlier in the war he made some of the first flights from the United States to England in the Atlantic ferrying command.

He has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross with oak leaves for pioneering in African four-motor plane routes.

Col. Haynes was one of three squadron leaders in the second bombardment group which flew from the United States to South America in 1938 in the first great mass flight of American bombers.

Col. Haynes is regarded by War Department officials as one of the Army's top-notch heavy bomber pilots and long-distance flyers.

During the same year as the Chilean flight—on June 30, 1939—Col. Haynes made another flight that won international recognition. A Mexican pilot, Francisco Sarabia, was killed accidentally in the crash of his plane in the Potomac River.

Col. Haynes was directed to take the body back to Mexico City, and made the trip in a non-stop flight of 14 hours and 55 minutes.

Col. Haynes also was one of the pilots on the round-the-world flight of Army bombers which took the W. Averell Harriman mission to Moscow last year. For this he was awarded an oak leaf cluster to add to his DSC.

Washingtonians with a yen to sing the old songs will get a chance to do so at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the first of a series of Thursday evening community sings sponsored by the District Recreation Department and Recreation Services, Inc. Tonight's sing will be held at the Sylvan Theater in the Monument Grounds.

Homer Rodeheaver, world famous community song leader, has volunteered to lead the first program in just about the only Capital in the world where people can still sit safely in the twilight and sing old favorites.

Close harmony, patriotic songs, perhaps a hymn or two will be included in the evening's program for citizens whose lack of tires or gasoline may keep them tied close to home for their entertainment.

Part of Summer Program. The songsters are a part of the summer program of cheap recreation developed by the department under Superintendent of Recreation Milo F. Christiansen for Government workers, soldiers and others in the city without other opportunity for other leisure time activity.

Tonight's program will last about two hours, the songs of the gathering interspersed between selections by the United States Marine Band.

More than 100,000 notices of the songfest will be slipped onto the trays of Government employees in the cafeterias of the Federal departments today, according to Harry S. Wender, chairman of the Recreation Board. Nearby Army camps

Gringoire charged that there existed in France a highly-organized underground military organization, composed of Communist youths and veterans of the international brigades in the Spanish Civil War.

The newspaper named as the leader of the organization, Col. Dumont, former political commissioner of the international brigades.

It said the organization was divided into nine-man armed detachments and that these were broken down into three-man squads.

Gringoire said it was one such squad, using bicycles, which assassinated Albert Clement, Fascist editor, Clement was shot in Paris June 2.

A nine-man detachment of the organization had an active part in a recent food riot in the Rue de Bucl, in Paris, during which two policemen were slain, the newspaper asserted.

Mr. Gordon said the board has not decided to ration any other commodities. The first sugar coupon books will be for a 10-week period and subsequent books will be good for six months.

Nimitz Gives Awards To Submarine and Aviation Heroes

Presentations Are Made For Feats Extending Back to January

ABOARD A FIGHTING SHIP Pearl Harbor, June 18.—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet, bestowed medals on the personnel of two widely divergent elements of the fleet—submarines and aviation—in ceremonies yesterday.

Navy Crosses were awarded to submarine commanders for actions extending back to January and Distinguished Flying Crosses to air veterans of the attack on the Japanese-held Marshall and Gilbert Islands last January 31-February 1.

The presentations were made at the end of a speech in which Admiral Nimitz eulogized the heroes of the battle of Midway.

"With their brothers-in-arms of the surface squadrons," he said of the submarine and aviation personnel, "they are as one in indomitable courage and cool resourcefulness in action with the enemy."

He gave assurance that the "many acts of outstanding gallantry and courage" in the Pacific battle engagements "will not go unrewarded" and that "necessary recommendations will go forward as rapidly as circumstances permit."

Navy Crosses Awarded. Recipients of Navy Crosses were: Lt. Comdr. Frank W. Penno, Westminister, Mass., commanding the U. S. S. Trout, who took his submarine through enemy-controlled waters in January, 1942, on a special mission for the War Department.

Returning to his base with a special award, Comdr. Penno led his command against Japanese shipping, successfully attacking and sinking enemy vessels. He reached port without damage to his own ship or injury to personnel.

Lt. Comdr. Willis A. Lent, West Roxbury, Mass., also commanding a fleet submarine, took his ship on aggressive patrol against the enemy in hazardous waters. Despite Japanese air search, he sank thousands of tons of enemy shipping, also returning to his base without damage to his submarine or personnel casualties.

Lt. Comdr. John L. Detar, Lincoln, Neb., submarine commander, led his ship against the enemy in the latter's own waters. In the face of strong Japanese surface patrols, he sank much enemy shipping and damaged others. His vessel, too, returned safely without material or personnel losses.

D. F. C. Presentations. Awarded Distinguished Flying Crosses were: Lt. Comdr. William O. Burch, Jr., Paducah, Ky., who, as commanding officer of a scouting squadron, led carrier planes against the Gilbert Islands January 31, 1942, in a highly efficient manner. Personally, he made a direct bomb hit on an enemy seaplane tender and sank a four-engine patrol plane in the water by machine-gun strafing.

Lt. James S. Gray, U. S. N., Wauwatosa, Wis., who on February 1, 1942, led a bombing and strafing attack against Maloelap Island in the face of strong enemy aerial opposition. In the action that followed he shot down two Japanese fighter planes.

Lt. (j. g.) Elbert S. McCuskey, U. S. N. R., who took his carrier-based fighter plane into combat against an enemy four-engine bomber seaplane during the action in the Gilbert Islands January 31, 1942. He helped shoot down that craft, which was attempting to attack his ship.

Lt. (j. g.) Edwin J. Kroeger, U. S. N. R., Akron, Ohio, who took part in the carrier-plane attack on Tarao Island, February 1, 1942. Subsequently, he was engaged by an enemy fighter and suffered a serious foot injury from the latter's machine-gun fire. Although he was unable to use that foot in controlling his plane, he managed to maneuver into position for his gunner to shoot down the Japanese attacker. Then, faint from loss of blood, he brought his own craft safely back to the carrier.

Lt. (j. g.) Wilmer E. Rawie, U. S. N., Chicago, who assisted in the bombardment and strafing of Maloelap Island February 1, 1942, despite heavy enemy fighter and anti-aircraft opposition. In the ensuing action, he downed a Japanese fighter plane.

Ensign John P. Adams, U. S. N. R., Hlawatha, Kans., who heroically piloted his carrier fighter plane into action against an enemy four-engine patrol bomber during the Gilbert Islands attack and assisted in the destruction of the Japanese craft.

German Credit Flyer With 10 Planes in 24 Hours in Africa

By the Associated Press. BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), June 18.—The German high command, crediting Lt. Marselle, one of its air aces, with downing 10 planes in 24 hours in North African fighting, said today his score now stands at 101 planes.

At the same time the loss of another ace, Sublt. Srelow, 20-year-old commodore of a fighter squadron who had scored 60 individual air victories, was announced.

Cargo Vessel Escapes Six Torpedoes in Gulf

NEW ORLEANS, June 18.—A frustrated submarine commander fruitlessly fired six torpedoes at a medium-sized cargo vessel in the central Gulf of Mexico early May 12, but Capt. Peter Joseph Sigona and his crew of 37 kept the vessel from being hit.

The story was announced by 8th Naval District headquarters. Sigona, the running attack the submarine unleashed five torpedoes in one salvo, the ship escaping all but one which struck a glancing blow and proceeded without exploding.

An alert lookout spotted the first torpedo at 6:40 a.m. about a half mile away while the ship was making 11 knots. The warning was sounded and the ship changed course, the torpedo missing.

Under forced draft the vessel raced on with the submarine in pursuit. The ship was slightly faster than the submarine and after an hour and a half the submarine unloosed the salvo of torpedoes. Of the most skillful maneuvering, Capt. Sigona kept his ship zig-zagging and two torpedoes passed ahead, two astern and one struck a glancing blow to the bow but went on without exploding.

After the final attack the ship saw the submarine no more.

Wife Loses Suit Against Briton Who Urged Return

NEW YORK, June 18.—Margaret Wherry Treherne-Thomas yesterday lost her suit for separation from F. Hugh Treherne-Thomas, English manufacturer, who, she charged, had written her denunciations in letters when she refused to return with their two children to their home in Wales which she left two years ago to escape bombing.

Supreme Court Justice Samuel H. Hofstadter ruled that there had been no precedent in his court which permitted a separation on the basis of an unpublished communication between husband and wife.

The court held also that the husband's request for his wife and children to return home because he believed that the danger had subsided could not constitute cruel and inhuman treatment under the law, even if the husband did use strong and emphatic language.

Mrs. Treherne-Thomas was granted provisional custody until the end of the war of the children, Rhoda, 14, and David, 7.

Standard Brands Pays Edgar Bergen More Than Its Chairman

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—Edgar Bergen, whose lively "dummy" friend, Charlie McCarthy, has been pleading for an increase in a 75 cents a week allowance, was paid $282,000 for his radio work in 1941 by Standard Brands, Inc.

Mr. Bergen's income was almost four times the payment made by the company to its former president and present chairman, Thomas L. Smith, who received $75,000, additional annual reports filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission reveal.

Among other Standard Brand payments were: Paul W. Fleischmann, vice president, $60,000; Hugo Oswald, secretary, treasurer and director, $60,000; Ludwig Baer, commission merchant, Fleischmann Mailing Co., $64,887; Paul E. Benton, commission merchant, Fleischmann Co., $36,526; Ray Noble and orchestra, $32,000.

Many of the late reports showed executives of firms now engaged in war production were given substantial increases last year. Included in this group were Charles Balough, president, treasurer, general manager of the Hercules Motor Corp., Canton, Ohio, who received $60,000, including $26,000 as bonus or share in profits, a $21,000 increase over his 1940 income, and Parker F. Williams, president of the Pittsburgh Steel Foundry Corp., who jumped from $21,034 in 1940 to $46,390 last year.

Pittsburgh Steel Foundry also paid J. B. Dittlich, sales agent, $51,774, compared with $24,222 in 1940, and Hercules Motor also paid John C. Keplinger $25,000, a boost of $6,000 over 1940, and M. C. Kueper, vice president in charge of production, $17,999.

United Engineering & Foundry Co. paid George T. Ladd, president and director, $74,630, an increase of $8,490; K. C. Gardner, vice president and director, $55,685, an increase of $5,565, and F. C. Biggart, Jr., vice president and director, $51,426, a boost of $4,920.

18 Jap Bombers Damage Port Moresby Slightly

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, June 18.—Eighteen Japanese bombers attacked the Port Moresby harbor area in New Guinea yesterday but caused very little damage, the Allied communique said today. The Japanese bombers were escorted by a group of nine Zero fighters.

Allied interceptor planes met the attacking Japanese and shot down one bomber and one fighter, the communique said. Casualties in the raid were "slight." It was reported, and no Allied planes were lost.

The communique said that in the air fighting over Port Moresby reported in yesterday's communique seven enemy aircraft were destroyed, and not four as previously reported.

Japs Claim 21 Planes In Dutch Harbor Attack

TOKIO (From Japanese Broadcasts), June 18.—Imperial headquarters reported today 21 American planes were shot down and important United States facilities were destroyed in the Japanese naval attacks two weeks ago on Dutch Harbor, Alaska.

There was no confirmation of these reports from United States sources. Some Dutch Harbor warehouses were acknowledged freed. Plane losses were not mentioned.

9-Cent Pay Increase Granted Employees Of Capital Transit

New Scale to Swell Company Payroll by $1,000,000 a Year

A wage increase of 9 cents an hour for all employees of the Capital Transit Co., except office employees, will go into effect July 1, under provisions of a new contract signed by company and union officials after negotiations extending over several weeks.

The increase in wage payments by the company, it was said, will be more than $1,000,000 a year, on the basis of present employment, bringing the total annual payroll of the company above $10,000,000.

The union negotiations were handled by Division 689 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America.

Men affected by the raise include street car and bus operators, and workers in shops, garages, carhouses and way departments.

Maximum rates after one year's service for one-man cars and buses will be 95 cents an hour, and for two-man vehicles 85 cents an hour. This represents an increase of more than 10 per cent in each category. There is a higher percentage increase for employees in the lower brackets.

The pay is based on a regular work week of 8½ hours a day for six days. Buy bonds and stamps for the boys in the camps.

Lexington's Wounded Shifted Frequently As Damage Spread

Senior Medical Officer Tells of Fortitude of Aides and Injured

Persons who recoil from the task of removing a sick relative from one bed to another were given a story beyond their comprehension yesterday by Comdr. A. J. White, senior medical officer aboard the aircraft carrier Lexington...

Below Decks During Battle. Comdr. White felt the first torpedo in the ill-fated Lexington would not count after that...

Here is what appears to be the first story of what happened to the injured men on the carrier as told by Comdr. White:

"Soon after the first torpedo hit, which was followed by further torpedoes and two bomb hits on the flight deck, casualties began to arrive in the main sick bay and in the aviation battle dressing station under the flight deck...

"This work absorbed the time of all medical personnel during the first hour following the attack. At this time—or about one hour following the attack—the ship suffered an internal explosion of great intensity. This explosion was on the deck on which the main sick bay was located...

Handicapped By Darkness. The presence of smoke and pungent fumes required the wearing of gas masks by all personnel in the compartments about the sick bay...

Upon our arrival in the captain's cabin we found a very adequately equipped dressing station which had been established by two hospital corpsmen sent to this location in advance for the treatment of many burn cases...

"This consisted mainly of the administration of blood plasma for shock and local treatment for burns. Some fracture cases were treated at this time and all patients were placed on mattresses obtained from staterooms in the vicinity of the cabin...

"The drinking water supply had been damaged early in the attack through rupture of various lines and all personnel were dependent upon the water supply provided by our reserve tanks scattered throughout the ship...

"There seems to be an unnatural thirst created not only by injury but as a result of the nervous tension and perhaps the presence of smoke in the air. As a result, we were not only called upon to provide water for our patients, but at numerous dressing stations scattered throughout the ship water was issued in relatively small quantities to uninjured personnel...

Driven to Flight Deck. "Work in all dressing-room stations progressed satisfactorily until the continuing explosions and the fires filled the entire upper portion of the ship, making it necessary to move all patients from the captain's cabin—first to the gun galleries and from there to the flight deck...

"As fires progressed and it became more evident that the ship would have to be abandoned, we were received from the executive officer to bring all patients to the flight deck in preparation for their removal to other ships in the vicinity. This was done and the transfer of patients by small boat and directly to destroyers was accomplished by means of basket stretchers which could be lowered from the flight deck to the smaller boats alongside...

"It is believed that very few suffered in the course of their recovery from this necessary handling and it was remarkable to note the fortitude of all hands and the willingness of the patients to help themselves under such trying conditions. Later on in the evening all patients were distributed to the larger ships of the task force and were given the necessary follow-up treatment by the medical departments on those various ships. This work required an all-night vigil and was done in a very excellent manner."

Cannery Elect Cameron. Dr. E. J. Cameron, Washington, director of the National Cannery Association, was elected vice president of the Institute of Food Technologists at its annual conference yesterday in Minneapolis...

Lexington Was Forced to Yield Finally to Flames Despite Audacity of her Officers and Men

This is the sixth of nine stories supplied to the Associated Press by the Chicago Tribune, whose correspondent, Stanley Johnston, was the only American reporter aboard the aircraft carrier Lexington in the Coral Sea battle.

By STANLEY JOHNSTON, Foreign Correspondent of the Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO, June 18.—This is the story of the Lexington's last hour. It is a tale of gallantry above and beyond the valor of men in the heat of battle.

It is the story of a crew, smashed and blizzeted from the air by an overwhelming enemy force, that rose to a second desperate fight when attacked from within by natural enemies that fed upon the fuels and stores within the great, valiant aircraft carrier.

It is an account of the dogged determination and unshakable courage with which the humbled and highest members of the ship's company strove together in a long, torturing and deadly hazardous effort. Its heartbreaking finish, in which the doomed Lexington slid flaming beneath the calm waters of the Coral Sea, was one they had battled against for hours.

Novices Act Like Veterans. Many of the men who distinguished themselves so greatly during these final nine hours of the Lexington's existence as a ship had been Navy men for only a few months. Many of them had joined after the Japanese assaults on Pearl Harbor. Many were on their first cruise.

When it was over the oldest, tried seadogs in the crew declared that these as yet untested men had behaved like "old men of war."

No one man could have seen all there was to see aboard the Lexington during these final hours. I saw what I could, and made straggling notes that later merely served to jog my memory. Much of what I am about to tell I learned from the lips of the ship's officers and men while we were on a long voyage back to the California port where we disembarked 25 days after these stirring happenings.

The fight to save the Lexington began as soon as the attack on her had ceased that morning of last May 8. The attack was the Japanese counterpart of a blow that the Lexington's own force of dive bombers, torpedo bombers and fighters had launched over the 180 miles that separated our forces from the Japs. What our own airmen did to the Japanese in the battle of the Coral Sea is material for our next installment.

Hit By Torpedoes, Bombs. Few today are concerned with the Lexington. The great old ship—only of the twin carriers around which almost all modern carrier fighting technique was developed—was hard hit in the attack which began at 11:16 a. m. and continued for 17 minutes.

Five torpedoes had torn huge holes—20 to 30 feet in diameter—in her port (left) side along the water line and below it. One heavy bomb, probably a Japanese 1,000-pounder, had hit the ship's rail on the forward flight deck and on the starboard side, just behind the mainmast. Another lighter bomb had ripped holes in her smokestack and killed with its splinters several men of an anti-aircraft machine gun crew stationed there.

In addition to these direct hits by torpedoes and bombs, the Lexington also had been damaged to some extent by scores of near-misses by Japanese dive bombers. The heavy bombs, exploding in the water at distances of 100 feet to 10 feet from the carrier's sides, had rocked her and possibly had sprung certain side plates.

She had taken, in the swift air battle, a six-degree list to the port side as water poured through the torpedo holes.

Bomb Fires Shells. Finally the heavy bomb which struck the rail of the forward flight deck had penetrated into the living quarter below. There a quantity of 5-inch shells, which were stacked as to be close at hand for rapid firing, had been set off. The combination of explosions had started a fire and had been responsible for heavy casualties among the marines who formed the gun crews.

These quarters also happened to be those of Rear Admiral Aubrey Fitch, whose guest I was officially. My room, my clothing, notes and typewriter, not to mention my safe in which I had $100 in currency and a wrist watch, suffered severely. Admiral Fitch's papers and belongings also were shattered and strewn about. The fire that followed the explosions burned fiercely until damage crews extinguished them with chemicals, leaving the wreckage and tattered bits of furnishings covered with a chemical foam.

The torpedoes and bombs had damaged three firerooms of the Lexington's engine system. This damage, however, was not sufficient to stop her. Indeed, her speed never dropped below 25 knots until hours after the attack. She stayed with the other carrier—her name is withheld for reasons of national security—and with the cruisers and destroyers. We were all bound for the Japanese, the intention of Admiral Fitch and Rear Admiral Fletcher being to close in and finish them off.

Almost before the last Japanese dive bomber had flown away, Comdr. H. R. (Pop) Healy had telephoned to the bridge to tell Capt. Fred Sherman the Lexington's skipper (and since promoted to rear admiral) "we've got the torpedo damage temporarily shored up, the fires out and soon will have the ship back on an even keel. But I would suggest, sir, that if you have to take any more torpedoes you take 'em on the starboard (right) side."

Wounded Being Treated. The crew was still at "battle stations." Below the wounded were being collected in various sick bays and having their injuries dressed. I had made an arrangement with Comdr. Mort Seligman the Lexington's executive officer, to make a series of disc recordings of the air action against the ship. Through the fire, the bomb bursts and all, I had talked into a microphone getting the exact time for various incidents, describing the Japanese, even getting on the discs the sounds of Japanese dive bomber engines, our anti-aircraft guns firing, bomb explosions and the sound of the battle.

Naturally, my first thought was for these records. I ran below to Comdr. Seligman's cabin, where the recording machine was situated. The marine orderly who had operated the machine, throughout the fight, played back our records. The two discs were perfect. According to believe, for the first time in history the sounds of battle. But alas, I was never to take them from the room. They were destroyed by fire before I ever got them off the Lexington.

Scout Bomber Bounces Off. The first one in was a scout bomber that had been on anti-torpedo plane patrol. The machine was damaged in the air and was flying erratically. When it circled, turned "into the slot" for its final approach, it was high and flying too fast. Lt. Aquila Dibrell, the landing officer, waved it in anyway. The plane squashed onto the deck and its landing gear was bent. The wing tip hit the deck. The plane bounced, struck again, and spun over the side into the water. The Lexington's navigation officer, who saw the accident, signaled a destroyer that was trailing us by a mile or more to the rescue.

systems a line of men was formed along the deck, down from the bridge, and thence down into the ship's bowels where the "trick wheel" was being operated. Orders were transmitted by word of mouth from man to man down this line and rudder directions were entirely dependent upon this relay system, which was slow.

"With the failure of the electrical power systems came an interruption of the great blowers—the ship's ventilating system. Heat quickly rose in the engine and fire rooms to between 145 and 162 degrees Fahrenheit. Nevertheless, the engineer's gang stayed at their posts and kept their equipment going to give the 25-knot speed demanded.

"We felt most of the explosions below more strongly toward the rear than you did at the front," one of the fire tenders told me afterward. "The time passed in a blur at the point where we had difficulty in keeping our minds clear. We were dizzy and had violent headaches from the heat.

Blazing Inferno Rages. During this time the damage control party and fire fighters were engaged in a desperate fight to save the ship. This fight was becoming hopeless. The flames rapidly increased their grip and extended their area. More than 25 per cent of the below-decks section was now a blazing inferno.

Bulkheads adjoining the burning sections turned red with heat and thick layers of paint curled off and began burning—to transfer the fire into new areas.

The steel decks above the fire grew unbearably hot and flames angrily licked their way up through the twisted open scuttles.

Then the fire engulfed the machine shop. Twenty bombs—each weighing 1,000 pounds, of which three-quarters was TNT—were stored there for loading into our heavy dive bombers. Farther aft in the fire area was a stock of 48 torpedo warheads—about 550 pounds each, or a total of 26,400 pounds, of the best explosive the Navy knows how to make.

Comdr. Seligman personally was leading his fire-fighting squads. Smoke below became so dense that beams from electric flashlights would not penetrate it. Only the familiarity of the men with the internal plan of the ship enabled them to move around at all.

Some of the fire fighters were killed or burned by almost every explosion. Many of the injuries came as the blasts bounced men off the steel walls. Bones were fractured, heads broken, and with it all there were critical burns.

Others Replace Injured. As injured or smoke-blinded men from these gangs were brought up to the flight deck for treatment, other men stepped forward, donned the smoke helmets taken from the casualties, and went below in their place.

Several times Comdr. Seligman was blown through open doors and out of scuttles later. One of his men told me later: "The 'exec' was continually being blown through doors and out of holes like a cork out of a bottle."

It is not possible to estimate the total number of men lost fighting the fire, but medical records for the Lexington showed that at least half the casualties were those caused by explosions and burns.

One of the most violent explosions came at 2:45 p. m. It happened just forward of the bridge and did much damage. It was apparent to all that the end was near and I found later I had written in my notes the time of the explosion and the one word, "end."

But I was wrong. The crew and officers did not even give up then. The Lexington was still making headway strongly though her steering was becoming awkward. This was due solely to the loss of time in transmitting orders. It was impossible to keep the helm steady. At this time Admiral Fletcher signaled the other ships to disregard the movement of the Lexington.

Engines Ordered Stopped. Next the gyro compass failed because of a final loss of electric power. The bridge asked the chartroom: "Distance to the nearest land?" "Distance to nearest port? 100 miles?" "Distance to nearest starboard? 100 miles?" Finally came the order to plot the course to a designated point in Australia. It was evident that the captain was considering a departure from the rest of the fleet.

At 4 p. m. Capt. Sherman ordered the engines stopped and the mainmast abandoned. Comdr. Seligman, who received the order, stayed at his post passing on the word and assuring himself that every man got out. The Lexington's speed fell off rapidly until she was drifting helplessly sideways with smoke pouring from the mainmast and the bridge, blizzeting everything on that side.

The fight against the fire continued for another hour, at which time it was evident to all aboard her that the carrier could not be saved.

To remain aboard the ship any longer would have meant a certain death. The time had arrived to make the momentous decision of abandoning the famous old ship, a powerful weapon of war which represented an enormous investment in cash and security for the Nation. It always is hard for a captain to leave his ship, especially so in wartime when she is needed. But before Capt. Sherman spoke, Admiral Fitch suggested that abandonment begin.

I heard the exchange of words, which was far from the usual conception of such a dramatic moment. Adm. Fitch leaned over the railing around his little bridge on the "island" and spoke to Capt. Sherman, who was pacing the navigating bridge 10 feet below him. The admiral pitched his voice in a conversational tone, saying: "Well, Fred, I guess it's time to go."

It was 5:15 p. m. and the end of the battle for the Lexington. Her battered, exhausted, scorched and singed crew gathered on the after end of the flight deck. Forward all was ablaze and the flight deck was too hot to put foot upon it.

Admiral Fletcher sent several destroyers alongside, and we transferred our wounded 190 men to the vessels. Hundreds of the other crew members also stepped aboard the destroyers.

Still other hundreds let long hemp ropes down the sides of the Lexington, slid down them, and into the limpid waters of the Coral Sea. Many of these were floating around the Lexington's stern. Big Navy whalers from cruisers and destroyers were playing back and forth. A few men struck out to swim the quarter mile to the nearest cruisers.

Number of Planes Saved. Several members of flight crews removed the little yellow life rafts from fighter planes on the flight deck—planes that never would fly again. These men used the rafts to ferry themselves across to the warships standing by. It should be mentioned that 25 per cent of the Lexington's fighting planes—those especially picked for lack of damage—were flown off her burning deck long before the fire was beyond all control and landed on her companion carrier. The number of planes thus saved was limited by the capacity of the other carrier's hangars.

I joined a group of pilots who remembered that the ship's store of ice cream would melt soon with the refrigerator's electric current cut off. Rather than lose it, they got several 2-gallon cans and we sat around under the wings of planes parked on the deck and ate the ice cream from paper drinking cups.

This was typical of the leisurely way in which the ship was abandoned. There was no hurry, no scrambling. This discipline was part of the reason roll calls later revealed that 92 per cent of her personnel were safely transferred from here.

Only 8 per cent of the original complement were missing. Most of these were victims of the air fighting, the bombing or torpedoing of the Lexington, or finally, of the fire fighting and internal explosions.

I did a last tour on the deck with Lt. Comdr. Edward H. Eldredge, an air officer, after most of the crew had left. We decided to take the next favored chance of a life raft. My preparations consisted of transferring all notes to a breast pocket of my shirt, where I hoped they would stay dry. Then I picked a rope with a big knot at its end, where I might slip until I picked up and cautiously slid down. Comdr. Eldredge was not so careless in securing his grip and he did the trip to the water in one scorching flash that left him with blistered palms and a friction burn on one leg.

In two minutes I was picked up in a sandbag with other men. We towed several life rafts well, and got a number of men to a cruiser. I stayed aboard the cutter with the coxswain and we commenced to gather in men who were swimming and showing signs of exhaustion.

Fearing exhaustion men from the water deck were swimming to a small craft. A foot-high gale while a small craft is rolling is no simple task. After pulling in about 30, one's arms weaken. In all we got 60 aboard. They filled the boat because so many lay on the bottom trying to cough the water out of their throats. Undoubtedly the foresight of the coxswain in electing to pick up swimming men saved several lives.

While we were thus engaged, there came a heavy explosion aboard the Lexington that sent the amidship section of the flight deck hurtling into the air. Flames burst through. Immediately afterward came a blinding flash, a tremendous shock, and a billowing cloud of black smoke soaring skyward as the 1,000-pound bombs exploded. Bits of the deck and side structure were showered the sea for hundreds of yards around, endangering all in the water and in the boats.

I later learned that Comdr. Seligman had just slid down a rope into the sea and Capt. Sherman was still on a rope when this explosion came. They had stayed to the last to see that every man got away.

Destroyer Administers Coup. Only a few minutes later, the after tip of the flight deck was blasted away. Planes were tossed into the water when the torpedo warheads let go. Capt. Sherman and Comdr. Seligman were swimming to a cutter when this happened. Luckily, they were not harmed by the debris that fell all around them and they were rescued.

It was almost dark when our boat reached the mother ship and unloading. The whole length of the Lexington was ablaze as I climbed aboard the rescue cruiser. It was a fierce, white fire evidently consuming the 80,000 gallons of aviation fuel and million gallons of fuel oil from tanks now wide open.

Just after blast rent the ship, but she floated high and upright. A few small vessels poking among the debris around her for possible swimmers were ordered to leave her side.

A destroyer stood by to administer the finishing coup. This consisted of salvaging the most heavy torpedoes delivered at close range. After their blasts had opened new holes, the Lexington slowly filled with water and gradually, still upright, slid with a prolonged hiss, beneath the water.

"She was a lady to the end," one of her officers exclaimed as the glow of her flames died away. (Copyright, 1942, by the Chicago Tribune.)

King Peter's Engagement To Greek Princess Seen

By the Associated Press. LONDON, June 18.—The authoritative British Press Association said yesterday that an official announcement of the engagement of King Peter of Yugoslavia and Princess Alexandra of Greece "will not be long delayed, according to quarters in close touch with both royal families."

The exiled Yugoslav King is 18. The Princess, daughter of the late King Alexander and niece of King George II of Greece, is 21.

The press association said the couple became attracted to one another at Cambridge, where the King is a student and the Princess a nurse.

Another account said the announcement would be made after the return of King George, now in the United States.

Draft Age Limit Raised Five Years in Canada

By the Associated Press. OTTAWA, June 18.—Canada yesterday raised from 30 to 35 the age for single men and childless widowers subject to compulsory military training under the national act for service in the Dominion and its territorial waters.

The proclamation was announced in the House of Commons by J. T. Thorson, Minister of War Services. The next step is expected to be the drafting of married men, starting with those who were 21 and married in July, 1940.

An amendment to remove the mobilization act's restriction against using conscripted men outside of Canada now is being debated in Parliament. Mr. Thorson said yesterday that introduction of conscription for overseas service at present would be harmful to the war effort.

House Group Held Unlikely to Approve General Sales Tax

Committee Puts Finishing Touches on Bill, Hikes Newspaper Postal Rates

By the Associated Press. A sales tax was conceded by its advocates today to have only an outside chance of approval as the House Ways and Means Committee began putting the finishing touches on a tax bill which probably will produce approximately $6,732,000,000 in new revenue.

Hoping to end its work in a week, the committee still has to vote formally on a sales tax and two other subjects—a post-war credit for corporations which pay high excess profits taxes and withholding of individual income taxes at the source.

In actions yesterday the committee approved tentatively excise taxes on part-mutual wagers, coin-operated amusement devices and transportation by common carrier and voted to end the second-class postage rates now available to newspapers and other periodicals.

Sales Tax Called "Licked." The administration was reported to be exerting terrific pressure against what sales tax sentiment remained in the committee, and one member who has been advocating it to make up the difference between the present bill and the Treasury's revised $8,700,000,000 tax goal observed, "It looks like we're licked."

Informed sources said Democratic congressional chieftains had urged that the bill be brought to the House floor as soon as possible. If that meant a sales tax would be deferred for later consideration.

As the committee sought to wind up its work quickly, its tentative actions would produce new revenue as follows:

- Corporations, $2,647,000,000. Individuals (including mandatory joint returns), $3,114,500,000. Miscellaneous and excises, $971,000,000. The current committee trend toward increased selective excise taxes instead of a general retail sales tax was emphasized yesterday when the bill's total revenue from excise levies was boosted $408,000,000 to $971,000,000.

Transportation Tax Approved. The largest gain approved tentatively was a 5 per cent tax on transportation of freight and express by common carriers, estimated to produce $300,000,000.

Then, the committee ordered that the second-class postal rates be raised an amount, not determined, to offset the annual $78,000,000 deficit of the Post Office Department in transporting newspapers and periodicals. The committee retained, however, the present rate exemption for the county deliveries.

Members of the committee did not explain details of the newspaper and periodical proposal, but one of the committee's experts said, "It simply means that the present second-class rates will be raised enough to make up the $78,000,000." A 5 per cent tax on part-mutual wagers, designed to raise $25,000,000, was approved, and the 10-a-year tax on certain gambling devices was extended to all coin-operated amusement and gaming devices. This was expected to raise $5,000,000.

Nelson Sends Letter. The committee revealed yesterday that War Production Chairman Nelson had appealed to it to lower its proposed corporation excess profits tax rate from 94 to 80 per cent to leave an incentive for efficiency in production of war and civilian necessities.

In a letter to Chairman Doughton Mr. Nelson said he favored heavy wartime taxation, but questioned the advisability of the flat 94 per cent excess profits tax approved tentatively by the committee.

In order not to endanger efficiency in the production of armament and civilian commodities, the tax should not be more than 80 per cent of additional profit, the letter said. "If a higher rate is adopted notwithstanding its effect on efficiency, I should suggest that any amount which exceeds the 80 per cent level should be treated as a post-war credit."

Mr. Nelson took a position identical with that of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau who told the committee three months ago that the "most excess profits rate that would leave an incentive for the maintenance of efficiency in business operation."

Bond Plan Proposed. The committee's experts, headed by Colin F. Stam, have argued that unless a post-war credit be granted, "the 94 per cent rate will seriously hamper the war effort, stimulate inefficiency on the part of the corporation and tend toward inflation."

One post-war credit plan before the committee—on which action was deferred—would provide that when a corporation pays its tax it would receive non-negotiable, non-interest bearing bonds equal to 20 per cent of the net excess profits income on which the high tax is paid. After the war the bonds would become negotiable and interest-bearing.

The committee deferred action primarily because it has not acted finally on other corporation rates. It has agreed tentatively to raise the present combined normal and surtax income rates on corporations from 31 to 40 per cent and substituted the 94 per cent excess profits tax for the present graduated scale of from 35 to 60 per cent. The Treasury asked rates ranging from 50 to 75 per cent.

'Little Steel' Hearing Set For June 29 by WLB. The War Labor Board yesterday fixed June 29 for a public hearing in the dispute between the four "little steel" companies and the United Steel Workers. It set June 25 as the last date for the fact-finding panel to submit its report to the board.

Paul Miller to Become Chief Of Washington AP Bureau

New Executive Has Been With Service For Ten Years

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, June 18.—Announcement that Paul Miller will become chief of bureau in Washington was made by Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, today. Mr. Miller, who succeeds the late Brian Bell, has had experience in various departments of the organization and has headed three bureaus. He goes to Washington from a position as executive assistant to the general manager. Mr. Miller was born in Missouri 35 years ago, but was raised, got his schooling and gained his early newspaper experience in Oklahoma. He attended both Oklahoma University and Oklahoma A. and M. He entered the Associated Press service in March, 1932, at Columbus, Ohio. Transferred to New York a year later, he worked on the cable and general desks. He was assigned as night editor in Kansas City for a short time before being appointed chief of bureau in Salt Lake City in April, 1936. He was put in charge of Pennsylvania in July, 1937, with headquarters first at Harrisburg and subsequently Philadelphia. He transferred to executive duties in New York in April, 1941.

Florida Barge Canal, Two Pipelines Win House Approval

One Conduit Would Run From Mississippi Field To Charleston Area

By the Associated Press. WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 18.—Walter D. Fletcher, an executor of the will by which the late Mrs. Anna H. Paton left a large part of her $1,300,000 estate to Dr. Henry Darlington, Episcopal rector, testified today that the widow was entirely rational and not "unduly influenced" by anyone when she ordered the will changed from time to time.

Relatives of Mrs. Paton are seeking to break the will, charging an illicit love affair between the pastor and wealthy widow. Proponents of the will said the charges were "conjured up."

Explaining he prepared the will, Mr. Fletcher testified in Surrogate's Court that he was sure "Mrs. Paton was under no restraint at any time," and he exhibited various notes he said he had received from Mrs. Paton directing him as to changes.

Letters in which Dr. Darlington expressed love for the widow were read yesterday into the record of the suit. The proponents of the will contend the letters were "decent and proper" and evidence of an innocent friendship.

The contestants see them as showing "a relationship of intimacy very difficult to name." The letters—nine of them, plus two postcards—dated from 1926 to 1940. They ranged from a simple acknowledgment of a gift to the church to such expressions as "I send you oceans of love."

Filed by Contestants. Originally the correspondence was filed by the contestants to back up their contention that "undue influence" was responsible for Mrs. Paton's will which left 30 per cent of the estate to Dr. Darlington and another 10 per cent to his church, the fashionable Church of Heavenly Rest.

Most of the reading in Westchester Surrogate Court yesterday, however, was done by Theodore Klend, attorney for the executors of the will, who seek to have it probated. "Only a warped mind can distort these letters," he said, "the contestants claim," Mr. Klend said.

One letter was read by Joseph A. Nickerson, counsel for the contestants. This one said: "I think of you all the time. I miss you very much. Love and then more love, affectionately, Harry." Dr. Darlington and his wife sat side by side in the courtroom. Both were calm and Mrs. Darlington was knitting a blue sweater.

Mrs. Elijah H. Siter, widow of Mrs. Paton's brother, and her two daughters, Mrs. Mary Owen and Mrs. Elizabeth Pemberton, all of Philadelphia, are the contestants. The will, the last of 14 made by Mrs. Paton, bequeathed them $5,000 each.

as fast as they could in the opposite direction." Mr. Stimson's comment on the threat of reprisal raids on our Pacific coast was: "Temporarily, I would say there is a much less threat of air raids on our coasts, as a result of these operations."

The War Secretary on two previous occasions warned that the bombing of Tokyo presented opportunity to the Japs to make "face-saving raids" on the Pacific Coast, and he even included Washington as a possible point of aerial attack. Despite the threat of raids which had hung over the West Coast in recent weeks, Mr. Stimson said the matter of fireworks displays at July 4 celebrations was one which should be decided by local defense commanders. He made it clear that the defense commanders in this area had opposed the usual July 4 fireworks and celebration in Washington. Announcement that the celebration would not be held here was made yesterday.

Here I was advised," he explained, "that it had better not be done, on words received from Lt. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, in command of the Eastern Defense Area, and Brig. Gen. John T. Lewis, in command of the Washington Defense District."

Benefactor of Rector Was Not Influenced, Executor Testifies

Mrs. Paton Was Entirely Rational in Changing $1,300,000 Will, He Says

Vinson Reveals Navy Views Battleships as 'Essential Insurance'

Intends to Continue Building Under Way, But Start New Carriers

By the Associated Press. Continuing construction of battleships was described by Chairman Vinson of the House Naval Affairs Committee today as "essential insurance" against a possibility that future carrier losses might turn sea warfare into an "old-fashioned slugging match."

He offered that observation in making it clear that the day of the big battle wagon was not done, despite the havoc wrought against them recently by torpedo planes, and that the Navy intended to continue work on battleships already started.

At the same time Representative Vinson reiterated his contention that the aircraft carrier had become the "backbone of the fleet" as he went before the Rules Committee seeking a go-ahead signal for an $8,550,000,000 fleet expansion measure which emphasizes floating aerial striking strength.

2,646,606 Tons Building. In a formal report the House listed 1,009,245 tons of fighting ships built since 1934 now in service and 2,646,606 tons more under construction.

Passage of the expansion bill, designed to double the size of the fleet, would add to that total 500,000 tons of aircraft carriers, 500,000 tons of light and heavy cruisers, and 900,000 tons of destroyers and destroyer escort vessels.

In addition, it would provide for 1,000 smaller craft to combat submarines. For the first time the committee offered a breakdown, saying it would build 400 steel subschasers, 200 wooden subschasers, 300 torpedo boats and 200 other patrol craft.

Appreciate Carriers' Role. It informed Congress that the Navy "is fully alive to the major, if not decisive role that aircraft carriers and the planes based thereon are playing in the present war," and said that the Navy, as a result, planned to concentrate on immediate carrier construction.

"This does not mean," the report added, "that other types of combatant ships have lost their long range value, but the policy of the Navy in concentrating on carriers will be to insure their soundness. This will necessitate deferring the construction of certain other types of ships, the immediate need for which is not so urgent."

The committee told Congress that the Navy had estimated the last keel authorized under the pending act would be laid by December 31, 1944, and that the last ship under the program would be in service by the end of 1946.

Justice Asks Co-operation In Peace as Well as War

MILWAUKEE, Oreg., June 18.—Justice William Douglas of the Supreme Court, speaking before the war last night and saw a new world based on co-operative undertaking.

In an address to the Oregon State Grange Convention, the justice, vacationing in his home State, said: "The era of peace must be conceived in terms of co-operative undertaking rather than an imperialistic one—whether that imperialism be militaristic or economic. It must eradicate the disease of aggression by going to the root of the infection."

"We must somehow find in the more relaxing days of the future peace that degree of fulsome co-operative action which is so readily achieved in war. We must make certain that the co-operative pattern of today carries over into the tomorrow."

Men, women and children have ended this war and the co-operative spirit has spread around the world, wherever there is aggression, he said, continuing: "This is, indeed, the people's war—the war of peoples fighting to be free."

King Pledges Greek Battle To End For Better World

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, June 18.—King George II of Greece said today that Greece is "in this fight against aggression and international gangsterism and will stay in it until we can sit at a peace table and plan with our allies a world in which democracy is the dominating principle."

"Since my arrival in your country," he said at a press conference, "I have seen and heard many things which have strengthened my conviction that the primary purpose of the peace conference to come will be the making of a better world. "I have learned, too, many facts about your rising might in production of materials and prosecution of the war which have strengthened my conviction that our common triumph may be much nearer than any of us dared hope even six months ago."

arrive from Egypt to mount a counteroffensive. A heavy Axis assault on Tobruk is expected by British commentators, who say an actual invasion of Egypt to reach Suez is impossible without possession of Tobruk.

The schedule for the other maneuvers is August 3 to September 20, for the 8th Army Corps, in the Louisiana area; August 17 to October 11, for the 1st Corps, in the Carolina area; August 24 to October 18 for the 7th Corps in the Southwest desert training center; September 14 to November 8, for the 3rd Corps, Camp Forrest, Tenn.; and September 21 to November 8, for the 4th Corps in the Louisiana area.

Strong British Positions Taken, Italians Claim

ROME (From Italian Broadcasts). June 18 (AP)—German and Italian armored units have captured strong British positions in the El Adem sector 18 miles south of Tobruk and are mopping up enemy forces pocketed farther west in the vicinity of Ain el Gazala, the Fascist high command reported today.

Aerial reconnaissance, the daily war bulletin asserted, has disclosed that the British are beginning a general withdrawal toward the Egyptian frontier. Axis warplanes, meanwhile, were reported blasting at British troops and lines of communications between El Adem and the Egyptian border.

The high command declared the Axis aircraft were taking a heavy toll of the RAF, having destroyed 114 British planes between June 14 and 17. This figure, the Italians explained, included planes shot down over the Mediterranean as well as over the Libyan battlefield. They reported Axis losses during the same period as 40 planes.

Maneuvers Next Month. All applicants will be notified that membership in the corps will not alter their liability for military service, but in general no one will be appointed who is subject to the draft.

The Secretary announced also that Army maneuvers stressing desert fighting, jungle fighting, bare ground operations and maneuvers by special task forces will open on July 13, in the Carolina Maneuver Area. Troops of the 2d Army Corps will participate in that area to September 6.

There will be four maneuver areas in all, and the participating forces will comprise Army corps instead of separate field armies, as last year.

far afield from politics as possible in making the appointments. Furthermore, the President himself is fully cognizant of the attitude taken by Mr. Henderson on these appointments and approves it. In addition to his determination not to have politics dominate the OPA organization, Mr. Henderson believes firmly in decentralization. He is planning, as he has from the first, to have the work done as far as possible by local boards, with the organization in Washington merely directing policy.

He has sought, therefore, the co-operation of State and local governments, and has asked recommendations for appointments. In some States where the Republicans are in power, he has appointed Republican State directors. He has picked them primarily, however, he insists, because they are men of ability.

The story of the Democratic Senator who told Mr. Henderson he should resign is not an isolated case of stormy interviews between members of Congress and the price administrator. Another Senator left his office breathing threats. Members of the House also have sought to influence the administrator in regard to appointments and policies.

The OPA has had about 9,000 local boards in operation. It is planned to reduce this number to 5,200. For each of these boards it is proposed that seven clerical employees be allowed. This may be varied to meet population needs. If the average is maintained, however, it would mean 35,000 clerical employees.

The OPA is just starting on the administration of rents in 325 defense areas. This means fixing rents in areas with about 80,000,000 population. The rent organization, it is said, must be separate from the price organization, which deals with 2,000,000 business establishments, divided among retailers, wholesalers and jobbers and manufacturers. In the field, it is planned to have 75,000 persons and in Washington 8,000. This makes up the 66,000.

40,000 in Great Britain. Mr. Henderson points out that in Great Britain, where a somewhat similar organization is set up to deal with prices and priorities, 40,000 persons are employed. The population there is about one-third what it is in this country.

Talk of a "gestapo" numbering 100,000 to be set up for the OPA with the funds asked of Congress is, according to Mr. Henderson, a myth. The total inspectors staff planned is 6,000, less than two per county. Yet the report was spread that the 100,000 figure was what the OPA wanted.

The organization will have in its employ a number of business specialists, lawyers and economists. The fact that the cost of living actually was reduced last month in this country, except in the case of some foodstuffs which were not under the control of the OPA, is given as an evidence that the work has been effective. Indeed, the claim is made that the OPA has already saved the American people some $6,000,000,000 by keeping prices down. More than $200,000,000, it is said, has been saved on steel alone, for war construction, as compared to the prices paid during the last war.

Resentment on Hill Strong. At the Capitol the belief exists that the President will keep Mr. Henderson on the job as price administrator, even though the sentiment on the Hill is against him. The expressed intention of some of the members is, however, to clip Mr. Henderson's wings as far as possible. The feeling of resentment is pretty strong. As one important Democratic leader expressed it: "He (Mr. Henderson) has forgotten who made him."

The Republicans attack Mr. Henderson because they believe that he is building up an unnecessarily large force, and because they do not like some of his rulings. They insist he has made mistakes regarding sugar and gasoline and rubber. The Democrats attack him not only because of the decision he has made, but because he has refused to give them the jobs they want. Some of the strongest administration Democrats on the Hill have their axes out for Mr. Henderson. The Senators say that Mr. Henderson has asked them to approve appointments in their States without giving them the chance to make recommendations. In the senatorial mind that is something that should not be done.

32 Students Depart For Summer Study Of Mexican Life

Group Seeks to Promote Better Understanding By Inspection Tour

Thirty-two young college men and women and adult leaders departed in station wagons yesterday for a summer in Mexico where they will act as unofficial good will "ambassadors" to Mexican young people. Representing at least seven colleges including the Universities of Chicago and Toronto, Princeton, Harvard, Bryn Mawr and Smith and Wellesley Colleges, they are making the trip under the auspices of the Experiment in International Living, an organization founded in 1932 to promote better understanding among American youth and those of foreign lands.

Feature of this summer's trip will be that one group of 10 men and women will stay with and study the adjustment and contributions of Spanish refugees in science, art and agriculture in their adopted Mexican homes.

A Washington girl, Miss Edith Huntington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Chapin Huntington of 1906 Twenty-third street N.W., will be one of the members of this group.

The two other groups will go to Morelia and Queretaro in Mexico, where they will spend their first month living with Mexican families with children of the same age and sex and study the language and absorb as much of Mexican history, culture and knowledge of institutions of foreign lands as possible. They will travel in the country, perhaps accompanied by their young Mexican hosts or hostesses.

Director of the experiment in international living is Donald B. Watt of Putney, Vt., from which town the group begins its trip on June 18. Until the war his groups studied in Europe. Since 1940 they have been going to Latin American countries. The young people were entertained at luncheon yesterday at the home of Mrs. Huntington and addressed by Miss Alzora Hale of the Pan-American Union, who explained that organization to them.

Japs Reinforcing Air Strength in China and Burma

Fresh Nipponese Advance Menaces Inland Bases In Fukien Province

CHUNGKING, June 18.—While informed sources here believe the Japanese may attack Russian Siberia before the summer is over, the enemy now is concentrating on reinforcement of his air strength in the China and Burma theaters.

The aerial preparations of the foe gave weight to indications that the Japanese would intensify their efforts to tighten the cordon around the still free parts of Southern China and thereby strangle Chungking.

Hold on Railway Narrowed. On the Chekiang-Kiangsi front the Chinese hold on the important railway looping through the two provinces has been narrowed to less than 50 miles, it appeared tonight on the basis of the Chinese high command communique.

Inform sources here, discussing prospects of a Japanese attack on easternmost Russia said the Japanese had taken certain preparatory steps but were leaving one, reinforcement of the air force in Manchukuo, to the very last.

The Chinese informants said, however, that reinforcement of Japanese air power in Manchukuo could be effected easily at the 11th hour when the Japanese are ready to launch an attack on Siberia.

Evidence that the Japanese hope to take a crack at Siberia some day is seen in the report that they have restored the Kwantung Army in Manchukuo to its full strength of 33 divisions—about 600,000 men—by returning divisions withdrawn for the Southwest Pacific campaigns.

The enemy's recent attacks on Midway and the Aleutian Islands are interpreted as preparatory to a Siberian move. The Japanese, it is said, had hoped to eliminate a threat to what would be the rear of the attack on Siberia.

Last summer the Japanese were believed to have promised an attack on Siberia the moment the Germans captured Moscow.

New Menace to Fukien. A Japanese task force has supplemented the pincer offensive along the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway with an 8-mile drive southward from Kwangfeng which the Chinese interpreted as a threat to their inland bases in Fukien province.

Kwangfeng lies in Eastern Kiangsi, 24 miles north of the border of Fukien—in which the Japanese have long occupied the port of Amoy and have been trying unsuccessfully to seize footholds near Poochow—and 12 miles northeast of Shanghai, an important railway station won by the invaders Monday.

A Chinese Army spokesman announced the operation from Kwangfeng, saying the task force was spearheaded by an army estimated at 100,000 men which had pushed into Kiangsi from Chekiang.

The spokesman admitted the invaders from the east were attempting to push beyond Shanghai while the eastbound formation crossed a Siu River tributary in its march along the tracks.

China Steps Up Pressure. The Chinese increased pressure on outposts screening Nanchang, Kiangsi Province capital, into which the Japanese were pouring reinforcements.

The Japanese also were reported reinforcing their divisions in Kwangtung, southernmost of China's provinces, for a renewed drive northward from Canton toward the general area of the Chekiang-Kiangsi operations.

Bartenders' Ears Will Listen for Axis Gossip

BOSTON, June 18.—The man behind the bar will help the man behind the gun.

Boston bartenders have been asked by their union to aid propaganda researchers of the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety by reporting "rumors, underground talk and gossip of a demoralizing nature to union headquarters."

Such stories will then be checked with the Axis short-wave broadcasts. The State committee declares that more than three-quarters of such demoralizing stories have, in the past, been traced to English-language propaganda broadcasts from enemy short-wave stations.

When research has established the falsity of such gossip by tracing it to enemy sources, the origin of the stories then will be exposed.

Tug and Gas Barge Cross Florida in About 30 Hours

Rear Admiral J. F. Hottel Makes Observation Trip On Canal for ODT

MIAMI, Fla., June 18.—A heavily-laden gasoline barge, on a trial run to test the war value of the South Florida cross-State waterway, has been towed from coast to coast in slightly more than 30 hours.

Rear Admiral J. F. Hottel, who made the 148-mile trip on the tug Marion Adele as an observer for the Office of Defense Transportation, said the barge was filled with a capacity load of 176,000 gallons.

Completion of the test was announced by the admiral just as the House voted approval of a barge canal across Northern Florida.

Admiral Hottel did not discuss the proposed new waterway and he refused to draw conclusions about the performance on his own test trip.

"I am down here simply on a fact-finding trip for the ODT in order to learn the true facts about the capacity of the waterway," he said.

"I am sending a full report to the ODT, and any comment about the worth of the canal or any decision about its use must come from the ODT."

The barge traveled from Fort Stuart, on the Gulf of Mexico, to Stuart, on the Atlantic Ocean, at an average of almost 5 miles an hour. The trip started shortly after 2 p.m. Monday and Stuart was reached shortly after 9 p.m. Tuesday.

The tug drew slightly more than 6 1/2 feet of water, the barge exactly 6 feet.

The $18,000,000 Caloosahatchee River-Lake Okechochee-St. Lucie River waterway was constructed by United States engineers primarily as a drainage project in connection with hurricane safeguards for the Florida Everglades.

Growing Terror Wave Reported in Many Occupied Areas

New Propaganda Drive Calling for Fortitude Opened by Nazis at Home

LONDON, June 18.—A growing wave of terror, with repressive measures of the Nazi conquerors increasing in savagery and ingenuity, was reported from many parts of occupied Europe last night.

On the German home front itself, reports added, the Nazis have opened a new propaganda drive calling for fortitude and "iron purpose"—and, menacingly, warning of the dire consequences of defeat.

By countries, the reports reaching London gave this picture of the latest Nazi moves to make good their "new order" in Europe:

Poland—More than 1,000 persons were arrested in Warsaw Tuesday, the Polish government in exile announced, in a noon mass raid and were carried away, presumably to join 5,000 others who were seized in Warsaw a few weeks ago and sent to Germany as slave laborers.

Czechs Vow Vengeance. Czechoslovakia—The Czech government in exile, led by President Eduard Benes, vowed vengeance on the Nazis from Adolf Hitler to the lowest tool of the Gestapo responsible for crimes committed in Czechoslovakia, where 382 persons have been executed and the village of Lidice exterminated with 350 more dead in retaliation for the assassination of Reinhard Heydrich, Gestapo executioner.

Russia—Russians escaping from German-held Kharkov, Ukrainian city, told of mass executions among suffering civilians who daily saw bodies of those who had died of starvation being carted to the city's outskirts.

Yugoslavia—Reports received by secret channel said 250 hostages were shot in a 10-day period during April in the German-occupied part of Slovenia, in Northern Yugoslavia. Yugoslav resistance continued and 1,500 Axis soldiers were reported captured recently in a battle between them and Gen. Draja Mihailovic's guerrilla forces.

Greeks Are Warned. Greece—German authorities published a warning that 30 hostages would be shot unless sabotage ceases. A Moscow dispatch said. Several hostages already have been reported slain.

The German labor service has conscripted 26,000 Macedonians, an Athens dispatch to the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said.

A German plan for the transfer of 3,000,000 Dutchmen to Nazi-occupied districts of eastern Europe is part of a vast scheme for resettlement of the conquered peoples, with the aim of opening choice areas for Germans and weakening resistance to the forces of occupation, the Soviet news agency Tass reported to Moscow in a Geneva dispatch.

The Soviet agency said German colonists were to be sent into large sections of Holland, Alsace-Lorraine, Luxembourg and the Baltic republics.

The population of these areas would be moved, it was said, to sections regarded as less fit for mass German colonization.

Teachers Put to Work. Norway—Four hundred loyal Norwegian teachers who refused to bow to the Quisling regime now are toiling on wharves at Kirkenes, Northern Norway, beside Russian prisoners of war. One hundred sixty others were assigned to similar tasks at Elvenes.

At least 60 Norwegians were arrested at Skien after defying the curfew and other restrictions and fear of more stringent Nazi action rose with reports that Reichskommissioner Josef Tegmomen had gone there to "clean up" the situation.

Belgium—An unspecified number of peasants who refused to hand over their wheat were held as hostages in Liege Province until sufficient wheat is delivered to meet requisitioning orders.

Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania—All men of 21 to 29 have been called up for a year of labor service in Germany.

15,000,000 Women in War Jobs. Germany—A Berlin announcement said 15,000,000 German women are engaged in war work, 9,400,000 in various kinds of compulsory service. A Bern, Switzerland, dispatch said most of the women workers "are badly affected" by war service and "sometimes are more sullen than polite."

A neutral dispatch said German official statements in the new propaganda campaign surpass those of the winter, when appeals concentrated on collection of clothing for soldiers on the Russian front.

The people are urged now to demonstrate their determination by deeds. A Swiss dispatch from Berlin said the remembrance of 1918 is strong among the working people. This writer declared they believe the British intend to destroy the German race and the feeling is strengthened by the night air raids.

Peace Treaty Should Wait Until Hatreds Cool, Welles Says

Sir John Dill and Envoy From Mexico Also Talk At Baltimore Rally

By the Associated Press. BALTIMORE, June 18.—The making of final peace terms after the war should wait until hatreds have cooled sufficiently to permit judgments "coolly and rationally rendered" Undersecretary of State Welles believes.

Mr. Welles, speaking before a United Nations rally last night, said co-operation was no less essential in maintaining peace than in winning the war and recalled the "tragic experiences" after the last world conflict.

Organization for preserving a second peace should go hand in hand with prosecution of the war, he said, adding that the lease-lend agreements with Great Britain, China, Russia and Belgium might be a basis for economic recuperation of the world.

There will be a vital need for such an organization during the transition period following the war, Mr. Welles commented. He said:

Millions of homeless. Millions of the world's peoples will be homeless; in Europe and in Asia transportation facilities will be ruined, production facilities destroyed, farms laid waste; cities devastated; we shall all of us be confronted with the gigantic task of converting to peacetime uses whole industries now producing munitions of war.

"There must be agreement upon the objectives to be attained: Machinery for carrying out the agreed action of the United Nations, and co-operative efforts of the highest order among all of the United Nations, to which the oppressed peoples of the earth may look with hope when they have cast off their chains."

Field Marshal Sir John Dill, chief of the British military staff in Washington, said in another address that the United Nations were "steadfast in a great cause—the freedom of man, now and hereafter. He urged a less critical attitude among the Allies."

Mexico Envoy Is Speaker. "Dark hours and disappointments await us, but they will pass as has so often happened in the days that are now behind us. And the dawn may be less far distant than we have any right to hope."

The free nations of the world have "slowly, but courageously" united and the Axis countries "will be destroyed, perhaps much sooner than we expect," Mexican Ambassador Francisco Castillo Najera declared in another address.

"The victory of the United Nations will be a victory for mankind. Because it is aware of the fact, Mexico feels that it plays a modest but well-defined part in the common task of the United Nations; a noble part in a world enterprise which must result not only in the decisive annihilation of international outlawry, but the establishment of a better security in which to live."

Truman

The Senate conclusions differed widely from an earlier report by a House Military Affairs Subcommittee which commended efforts of the dollar-a-year men. Mr. Guthrie's charges lacked proof other than as evidence of sharp differences of opinion among war production officials.

Was Dollar-a-Year Man. Mr. Guthrie, a former Paducah (Ky.) merchant who was serving in the WPB on a dollar-a-year basis, quit as head of the textile, clothing and leather goods branch along with two aides, declaring that WPB officials were lax in wool and textile conservation.

Later, Mr. Nelson said that "personal conflicts" between Mr. Guthrie and members of his staff in the Textile Division had "impeded that part of the war effort." Mr. Guthrie, the WPB chief said, "had authority to deal with the situation, but had failed to do so on his own account and did nothing to bring the difficulties to my attention or request any action on my part until after his resignation."

Chairman Truman in his statement, said: "This committee has repeatedly concluded that the work of the OPM and WPB has been hampered by the extent to which their personnel was predominately drawn from the big business groups."

He added that while there was no question as to patriotism, integrity, or ability, the "attitudes and associations which these men have acquired through the years makes it undesirable to rely upon them exclusively for direction of the war production programs."

Changes Recommended. Senator Truman said that "labor has demonstrated its right to a greater degree of participation in the operating work of the War Production Board."

He also recommended a "wider opportunity" for small businessmen to participate in WPB administration and place in the setup for "many of the country's outstanding independent-minded production engineers." These engineers, he said, have "demonstrated a grasp of the conversion problem far in advance of that shown by many of the top industrial and financial executives."

The detachment of United States Army bombers in Libya, credited with 37 direct hits on two Italian battleships in the Central Mediterranean, is commanded by Col. Harry Arthur Halverson, an Army pilot for 24 years.

Maj. Alfred F. Kalberer, actual leader of the raid on the Italian fleet, is a veteran American commercial airline flyer who joined the Army air forces after further commercial flying experience in the Netherlands and the Netherlands Indies.

Second in command to Col. Halverson of the full detachment is Lt. Col. George McGuire of Coffeyville, Kans.

Col. Halverson, a 47-year-old native of Boone, Iowa, holds the Distinguished Flying Cross for his part in the celebrated endurance flight of the Question Mark at Los Angeles in January, 1929.

Accepted as a flying cadet in February, 1918, he received his flight training at Berkeley and Rockwell Fields, Calif., and was commissioned in the Air Force Reserve. He received his Regular Army commission as a 2d lieutenant in 1920, and saw service in Washington in 1925 as assistant chief of supply for the air service.

Maj. Kalberer, a native of Lafayette, Ind., went to work for United Air Lines in the early air mail days of 1927, becoming a captain on the New York-Chicago run in 1934. Three years later he went to the Netherlands as a pilot for K. L. M., the Royal Dutch air line, flying between Naples and Batavia until Italy entered the war. He then went to Java as a commercial pilot for the Dutch Indies line, entering the Army from there.

Move to Aid Rubber Drive Leads to Mat Conference

Because of confusion over District regulation regarding floor mats for front seat flooring of automobiles, Commissioner Young said today he would call Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer into conference with the Commissioners to determine if the regulations should stand, be eliminated or modified.

Suggestions were made that these mats might be donated to the scrap rubber collection, but it has developed that some owners are being denied car inspection approval at local inspection stations because they lack mats. Mr. Van Duzer stated definitely today some kind of floor mats are required by District regulations, although they need not be rubber.

He said the main purpose is to keep persons from slipping when getting in or out of the car, and that protection against engine fumes was but a minor consideration.

The Commissioners had understood the mats were required mostly as protections against fumes and Commissioner Young had given his personal approval to the idea that rubber mats be donated to the salvage campaign since some other kind of mat was suitable.

Because of the confusion of the question, he said today he would ask Mr. Van Duzer to confer with the commissioners on the requirements.

Under double summer time, Britain has been two hours ahead of Greenwich mean time and six hours ahead of Eastern war time.

ANNOUNCING PERSONAL LOANS AT 2% PER MONTH

New Household Finance office in Silver Spring makes $50 to $300 loans at new reduced rate — Cost of $50 loan, repaid in four monthly instalments, only $2.52—Many other payment plans—No endorsers required

HOUSEHOLD FINANCE, one of America's largest personal loan companies, has just opened an office in Silver Spring. This new office gives men and women living in Washington and nearby communities an opportunity to borrow $50 to $300 at the new low rate of 2% per month on the unpaid balance. Household's rate is little more than half the maximum rate of 3 1/2% per month permitted by the Maryland Small Loan Law. At Household you can cut the cost of your loan almost half.

If you can make good use of a loan, you are invited to visit the new Household Finance office at 7914 Georgia Avenue. Just tell us how much you need and how you wish to repay. We will not urge you to borrow a penny more than you need to take care of your problem. Payments on your loan will be arranged to suit your own income and situation.

Cost of $100 loan only $7.10. Suppose you borrow $100 and repay in six monthly instalments of $17.85 each. You repay a total of $107.10. The cost of your loan is just $7.10. Or take a $50 loan repaid in four monthly instalments of $13.13 each—a total of $52.52. Your loan costs just $2.52. Compare these costs with charges asked elsewhere.

3 ways to borrow. You need no endorsers or guarantors to borrow at Household. Household loans are made in three ways. First way: On your signature. No security is required. Note loans are made, under proper conditions, to both single persons and married couples. Second way: On your furniture. Many people prefer this plan. When making car and furniture loans, we consider character and regular income far more important than the value of your security. We will make your loan the best way for you.

The table shows how loans may be repaid in 2, 3, 4, 6, 8, 10 or 12 payments. These payments include all charges. You are welcome to choose whichever plan fits your own pocketbook best. The sooner you repay your loan, the less it costs.

If a loan can help you to better yourself, phone or visit us today. We will be glad to arrange a loan for you—quickly and privately.

King Peter of Yugoslavia Plans Washington Visit

King Peter II of Yugoslavia will visit the United States shortly as a Government guest at the invitation of President Roosevelt, the State Department announced late yesterday.

The young monarch, whose subjects are continuing guerrilla warfare against the Nazis while he heads a government in exile at London, will spend his first evening in Washington at the White House, where a dinner will be given in his honor.

The State Department withheld details about the time of his expected arrival and exact movements while here. He will be honored at dinners given by Secretary of State Hull and Yugoslavian Minister Constantin Potitch, as well as at a National Press Club luncheon, and also will address the newspaper-women's club.

During his stay in Washington, the announcement said, King Peter will visit the Capitol, Arlington National Cemetery, Mount Vernon and other points of interest. After leaving here he will visit war industries and then proceed to New York City.

Weavers Take Over Work of Striking Loom Changers

Production at Fall River Stepped Up to 90 Pct. Of Plant's Capacity

FALL RIVER, Mass., June 18.—Production was stepped up to 90 per cent of capacity today at the Arkwright Corp. textile plant despite the 10-day strike of loom changers and fixers who faced a back-to-work appeal from their union leaders.

Weavers and other workers stepped into the breach to operate the looms in addition to carrying on their regular work when the call for replacements issued by the War Labor Board failed to fill the places left by the strikers. Saul Wallen, WLB mediator, said 901 of the 1,048 looms were in operation today, but added that the pace could not be maintained indefinitely. The strike started June 8 when 27 changers, seeking a $3.03-a-week wage increase, walked out, accompanied by 98 loom fixers, in sympathy.

Their ranks were swelled to 146 last night when nine knot-tiers walked out and a group of slasher tenders, temporarily laid off by the strike, decided to remain out until a settlement was reached.

The mill, engaged partly in war production, employs more than 1,200 persons.

Union officers have agreed to urge a return to work by strikers at the Arkwright Corp. Fall River, Mass., textile company, Chairman William H. Davis of the War Labor Board announced last night.

Three union leaders conferred for several hours with Theodore W. Kheel, compliance secretary of the board, and later talked with Mr. Davis. The officers at the conference were: James Tansey, president of the American Federation of Textile Operators (Independent); Charles Mullen, president, and Joseph Arnsworth, secretary-treasurer of the Loom Fixers Association, affiliated with the APTO.

Bill to Guard Forces From Vice Is Delayed

Postponement of the public hearing set for next Monday on the Sheppard bill for "protection of American armed forces from liquor and vice" was announced yesterday by Senator Bilbo, Democrat, of Mississippi.

With election campaigns ensuing, and the revenue bill destined to receive right of way early in the fall, Senator Bilbo said it was wise to postpone the scheduled hearing. Agreeing with Senator Bilbo, Capt. Edward Page Gaston, national commander of the Patriotic Guard of America, said the postponement "is a great disappointment to me."

Eight Appointments To Faculty Announced At Georgetown U.

The Rev. S. F. McNamee Is Made Dean of College Of Arts and Sciences

Eight appointments to the Jesuit faculty of Georgetown University, including a new dean of the college of arts and sciences, and the transfer of nine members of the present faculty to assignments elsewhere, were announced last night by the Very Rev. Arthur A. O'Leary, S. J., president.

Orders received from Jesuit provincial headquarters provided for the replacement of the Rev. John E. Grattan, college dean for the last eight years, by the Rev. Stephen F. McNamee, a native of Washington. The latter has been professor of philosophy at the college since 1936 and was reared and educated here.

Dr. Grattan is to become parish priest of St. Ignatius Church in New York City, which is under Jesuit auspices. It is one of the most important Catholic parishes in the East and includes large schools.

The change in the deanship was rather unexpected, although Dr. Grattan has remained here longer than most Georgetown deans. He will not leave for his new duties until after the opening of the next semester July 5 under the accelerated program which he prepared. Some of Georgetown's most important academic improvements were made during his administration.

Dr. Grattan, a native of New York City, taught at Georgetown as a young scholastic. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1926 at Woodstock College, Md. Widely known in educational circles, he served for four years in Rome, Italy, before returning to Georgetown as dean in 1934. In Rome he was secretary to the American assistance of the Jesuit headquarters. Few priests in this country have a better knowledge of Jesuit affairs.

The new dean is a graduate of old Gonzaga College here and was brought up in the parish of St. Aloysius Church. He obtained his A. B. and M. A. degrees from Woodstock College in 1918-19. Dr. McNamee was born November 6, 1895. He entered the Jesuit order in 1912 at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and was ordained June 14, 1926. In that year he was sent to Rome for special studies in dogmatic theology at Gregorian University, receiving a doctor of divinity degree in 1931.

Returning from Rome, Dr. McNamee taught at Woodstock College until 1936 when he joined the Georgetown faculty. In earlier years as a teacher he specialized in Latin, Greek and the English classics at St. Joseph's in Philadelphia. In recent years at Georgetown he has taken an active part in scholastic affairs and was moderator of the Washington Club and director of the Jesuit seminary fund, among other activities. His mother and a brother live in Washington.

Among other appointments at the college is that of the Rev. Edward A. Kerr of Baltimore, to succeed the Rev. David T. Madden as minister of the community. The latter goes to Woodstock College in a similar capacity.

Father Madden has been minister since 1939, having come here from Poughkeepsie. His successor at Georgetown is a graduate of Loyola College, Baltimore. For the last four years Father Kerr has been connected with St. Michael's Church, Ridge, Md. He was ordained in

Five Leaders Named For Washington's War Fund Drive

Wilson and McLachlen Accept Positions as Vice Chairmen

Appointment of five leaders in Washington's first Community War Fund organization was announced yesterday by Edwin C. Graham, general fund chairman. Commissioner Young will continue as honorary chairman. He presided at a mass meeting which voted in May to adopt the system of co-ordinating local, national and international war relief appeals here into one drive next fall.

Vice chairmanships on the general committee have been accepted by Lloyd B. Wilson, president of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.; Lanier P. McLachlen, president of the Board of Trade, and Wilmer J. Waller, vice president of the Hamilton National Bank.

Treasurer of the fund and chairman of the Finance Committee will be Corcoran Thom, president of the American Security and Trust Co. Mr. Graham announced that appointments will be made soon to the Admissions and Budgets Committee which will pass on organizations to participate in the campaign. He paid tribute to willingness of civic leaders to serve in the fund plan

Wilson and McLachlen Accept Positions as Vice Chairmen

Appointment of five leaders in Washington's first Community War Fund organization was announced yesterday by Edwin C. Graham, general fund chairman. Commissioner Young will continue as honorary chairman. He presided at a mass meeting which voted in May to adopt the system of co-ordinating local, national and international war relief appeals here into one drive next fall.

Vice chairmanships on the general committee have been accepted by Lloyd B. Wilson, president of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.; Lanier P. McLachlen, president of the Board of Trade, and Wilmer J. Waller, vice president of the Hamilton National Bank.

Treasurer of the fund and chairman of the Finance Committee will be Corcoran Thom, president of the American Security and Trust Co. Mr. Graham announced that appointments will be made soon to the Admissions and Budgets Committee which will pass on organizations to participate in the campaign. He paid tribute to willingness of civic leaders to serve in the fund plan despite heavy pressure already on them.

"The community war fund will be the greatest appeal to generosity for human welfare that Washington has ever seen," Mr. Graham predicted. The Capital is one of 120 cities expecting to double relief donations by making one appeal instead of dozens of individual ones.

Six communities, Mr. Graham indicated, have gotten more than $8,000,000 instead of $4,000,000 by co-ordination of appeals.

Conover Descendants To Attend Reunion

Members of the Conover family residing in Washington and nearby are planning to attend the 46th annual reunion of the descendants of Wolfert Gerretse van Kouwenhoven-Conover June 27 at historic Tennant Church, near Freehold, Monmouth County, N. J.

George Washington used this church, built in 1692, as his headquarters, and it also served as a hospital in the Revolutionary War. Mrs. Helen Conover Luckett, 1212 Orrin street N.E., one of the trustees, will attend.

STORE UP IRON for YOUR BLOOD

Get Vitamin B₁ for your Nerves

When the body craves these vital elements, a rich supply can put color in your cheeks and help you feel like a new person WITHOUT ALCOHOL, NICOTINE, HABIT-FORMING DRUGS.

When your system is low in iron and Vitamin B₁ many vital organs slow down—often look pale, lose your appetite, get tired easily, sleep poorly, feel nervous and are played out. Iron helps make red blood, and red blood is vital for healthy muscles, healthy skin, healthy glands and healthy organs. Iron-poor blood may cause low vitality, heart palpitations, shortness of breath, swollen ankles and frequent periods of ill health.

You need Vitamin B₁ and if you don't have enough Vitamin B₁ you may get a painful neuritis, stomach upsets, constipation, weak appetite, mental depression, restless sleep.

In these conditions take ENRICH, the thrilling new tonic that tastes like juice of wild berries and gives you more iron every day than 6 lbs. of spinach or 6 lbs. of raisins, more Vitamin B₁ daily than 1 lb. of baker's yeast. Your iron comes back with a bounce when you restore missing iron and Vitamin B₁ and you eat more, stop worrying, and sleep better. Right in this neighborhood, many men, women and children feel keen and lead happier lives through the help of ENRICH. Don't wait. ENRICH costs only a few cents a day. Money refunded unless ENRICH improves your state of well-being.

U. S. Output of Some Weapons Is 40 Times '41s, Patterson Says
War Undersecretary Talks At N. Y. Dinner Honoring Brandeis and Wagner

By the Associated Press.
 NEW YORK, June 18.—American production of weapons is in some cases 40 times greater than last year, Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson said last night.
 "We made 40 times as many aircraft cannon up to the end of May as during all last year," he declared. "May's production alone was 12 times that of last year."
 "We made four times as many howitzers up to the end of May as we made last year, and we made three times as many tanks."
 Mr. Patterson spoke at a dinner honoring Senator Wagner, Democrat of New York, arranged by a national committee for a Lewis D. Brandeis memorial colony in Palestine.

Roosevelt Sends Message.
 In a message to the diners, President Roosevelt said:
 "In sending my personal greetings to those present on this occasion, I hardly need to remind them that both of these eminent names are and will remain associated with the great endeavor to safeguard our free democracy. Their achievements, like those of thousands upon thousands of our fellow citizens who, each according to his ability, have built this great nation, are now threatened by the Axis aggressors."
 "At this moment it is entirely appropriate that we pause and in our own minds compare the character of the contributions made by the organizers of the so-called new order which grips Europe temporarily with the character of the contributions to the American way of life by Justice Brandeis, which most regretfully have come to an end; and those which have been made and, I am happy to say, are continuing to be made, by Senator Wagner."

Willkie Expresses Doubt He'll Aspire To Office Again

By the Associated Press.
 NEW YORK, June 18.—Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential candidate in 1940, last night declared: "I doubt if I will ever aspire to public office again."
 Speaking at a dinner honoring Senator Wagner, Democrat of New York, Mr. Willkie observed: "There are some things in which I am so greatly interested that I don't want to see their advocacy tinged with self-interest."
 Mr. Willkie, who has been mentioned as possible dark horse candidate in the New York gubernatorial contest, commented that he was "getting old and fat."

great endeavor to safeguard our free democracy. Their achievements, like those of thousands upon thousands of our fellow citizens who, each according to his ability, have built this great nation, are now threatened by the Axis aggressors.
 "At this moment it is entirely appropriate that we pause and in our own minds compare the character of the contributions made by the organizers of the so-called new order which grips Europe temporarily with the character of the contributions to the American way of life by Justice Brandeis, which most regretfully have come to an end; and those which have been made and, I am happy to say, are continuing to be made, by Senator Wagner."
Wagner Praises Labor.
 Senator Wagner praised organized labor for its part in the war effort and declared:
 "You can do your part by standing as organized labor stood after the last war—for a new League of Nations to promote and defend the security of mankind. Congress can do its part by planning now for full employment of the new millions we have trained and the new factories we have built—planning how to use them in the ways of peace, for the pursuit of happiness."

Boxer's Death After Bout Recorded as Accident

Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, District coroner, today issued a certificate listing the death of Preston Drew, 24, of 223 R street N.E., as an accident resulting from a blow received in a licensed boxing bout.
 Drew died in Emergency Hospital Tuesday night from injuries received at Griffith Stadium the preceding night. He was admitted to the hospital early Tuesday after collapsing in his dressing room, following his bout with Lew Hanbury of Washington.

WPB Rubber Co-ordinator Asks Scrap Drive Support

By the Associated Press.
 NEW YORK, June 18.—Arthur B. Newhall, co-ordinator for rubber, asserted last night that "any way you turn, and any way you look, there is no rubber—crude or synthetic—that should be spared for the manufacture of new tires for non-essential driving. You must try to make the tires you now have last for the duration."
 In an address carried by the Blue Network, the WPB co-ordinator gave a review of the supplies of rubber and the military demands against that supply.
 Declaring that "an important element of Axis strategy has been to knock us off our rubber tires," Mr. Newhall urged wholehearted support of the campaign to collect scrap rubber.

 "Most of the rubber which can be spared from the direct war effort to keep essential transportation going for the duration must come from this source—scrap rubber," Mr. Newhall said. "That's why it is so important that we all support this campaign."

Admitting that many inconveniences were ahead for the public, Mr. Newhall said: "I am not thinking of any one's convenience or pleasure. I am thinking in terms of winning the war or of losing it."

Employment Law Changes

Amendments to the District Unemployment Compensation Law being urged once more by Representative McGehee of Mississippi offer marked advantages to both management and labor.

With a cash reserve of more than $28,000,000 now available for unemployment benefits, Mr. McGehee proposes that the payroll tax on employers, which has built up this vast fund, be cut from 2.7 to 0.5 per cent.

As developed at more length elsewhere in The Star today, the history of the law emphasizes the soundness of the suggested tax reduction, which would amount, roughly, to $5,000,000 annually.

The fact that, despite the world-wide shortage of United Nations shipping, so many merchant vessels were risked in dangerous Mediterranean waters is proof that both Malta and Tobruk badly need supplies.

When collections are compared with disbursements, it quickly becomes evident that tax returns so far outstrip the demands on the fund that no good reason can be offered for continuing to build up the reserve at the present rate.

Business is bearing such a heavy tax load that no argument is needed to demonstrate the desirability of modifying a levy that is not required for the purpose for which it was intended originally.

The projected legislation has been under discussion for months and has the approval of business leaders and American Federation of Labor spokesmen.

The Blackout

Civilian defense officials have a right to be gratified over the way the people of Washington and vicinity co-operated in the all-night blackout.

An encouraging aspect of last night's test was the favorable report made on the functioning of the communications system, which had become bogged down with messages on previous occasions.

an actual air-raid alarm. If Washington is to be attacked, the enemy raiders will not ask the newspapers and radio to notify the people to get ready. The raiders will endeavor to take the city by surprise—to catch the inhabitants off-guard.

Mediterranean Sea War

The more one analyzes reports of the twin sea and air battle fought in the Mediterranean this week, the more important it becomes. Though the specific theaters of action were several hundred miles apart, they were strategically a joint operation.

Allowing for exaggerations and suppressions in the rival communiques, the combined struggle undoubtedly was the biggest yet fought in the Mediterranean, with heavy losses on both sides.

The fact that, despite the world-wide shortage of United Nations shipping, so many merchant vessels were risked in dangerous Mediterranean waters is proof that both Malta and Tobruk badly need supplies.

An interesting aspect of the struggle was the prominent part played by American forces. Our big B-24 Consolidated bombers, which the British call Liberators, smashed a powerful Italian squadron and sent it scuttling back to its base without ever having got near the British convoy and naval escorts which were its quarry.

There is some satisfaction in learning from the Commissioners that they have not issued a "gag" rule at all; that a recent memorandum circulated among department heads at the District Building, defining the conditions under which the department heads may discuss legislative proposals of public interest, is really designed to cope with the grievous problem of "agitators."

No 'Gag' Needed

The problem of "agitators" is well known in Washington. The health officer some years ago was dragged over the coals by a congressional committee which looked with disfavor upon his continued advocacy, before citizens' groups, of public health improvements over and beyond those provided in the budget.

Dog Diplomats

June, besides being nature's rarest month, according to the poet, is distinguished for two popular pastimes, matrimony and graduation, the former involving the commencement of a life-time study and the other ironically and optimistically presuming that knowledge is virtually complete.

There is something in the notion that we should reform the world, while attempting to force our views on those that may prefer their own.

any move, such as the proposed curbing of the Board of Public Welfare powers, which tends further to restrict the participation of local citizens in their government. The Commissioners will be wise in treading softly in any attempt to stifle public discussion of local questions and they should encourage, rather than threaten, municipal officials who take part in such discussions, regardless of budgetary problems and regardless of the Commissioners' own decisions, no matter how majestic the processes by which they have been arrived at.

Waterloo Remembered

The minds of military men inevitably will turn today to the battle of Waterloo. It was on June 18, 1815, that "the most decisive conflict of modern times" took place in the cornfields of Brabant, nine miles southeast of Brussels.

There are deposits in Alaska, California, Oregon, Montana, Washington and Wyoming, but for the most part they are of low grade and expensive to work. The new process, Bureau of Mines experts believe, may permit the utilization of large amounts of this ore, and extensive surveys are under way to discover other deposits.

This is considered good enough for most industrial purposes. Its extraction, however, is not such a simple matter as that of the pure metal—in some cases it may be 99.8 per cent pure—by the new process reported by C. G. Maier of the bureau's staff.

The pure metal is obtained in powdered form, most suitable for the formation of alloys. A major drawback in the present emergency is that the process requires large quantities of the gas chlorine, one of the most essential of all war chemicals.

Immediate benefits of the improved form of chromium metal, according to Dr. R. R. Sayers, director of the Bureau of Mines, probably will be the development of new and important alloying processes. The high purity and powdered form render it valuable in the manufacture of special steels, brass and bronze materials, and in alloys that are subject to high temperatures, such as electrical heating elements.

See No Novelty in Effort For Universal Reformation.

There is nothing new in the notion that we should reform the world, while attempting to force our views on those that may prefer their own.

None of this is new. Living generations, acquainted with the evil wrought by another Napoleon, look forward with hope and determination to another Waterloo.

Advocates Immediate Conference To Draft 'Code' For Peace.

Many confusions to disappointment at the tacit assumption that recent statements of far-sighted post-war principles must remain, for the duration, couched in their present vague terms, only to be worked out in detail in a long armistice after the war.

Of Stars, Men And Atoms

Notebook of Science Progress In Laboratory, Field And Study

By Thomas R. Henry.

A method of securing 99 per cent pure chromium metal from low-grade American ores has been found by metallurgists of the United States Bureau of Mines after more than five years of research.

Chromium is one of the most vital of war metals. Its chief value is to form alloys with steel which are very strong and rustproof. These alloys are best known in the form of automobile finishing and bathroom fixtures, but they have hundreds of essential uses unfamiliar to the general public.

There are deposits in Alaska, California, Oregon, Montana, Washington and Wyoming, but for the most part they are of low grade and expensive to work. The new process, Bureau of Mines experts believe, may permit the utilization of large amounts of this ore, and extensive surveys are under way to discover other deposits.

Opposes Cultivation of Hatred As 'Indispensable' Factor in War.

We read in the papers about efforts said to be inspired by the Government to cultivate hatred on the part of our people against enemy nations. That ought not to be done. To say that hatred is indispensable to success in the war is as much as to say that it is wrong for us to be in the war at all.

That is what the pacifists say. With all respect for the character and for the arguments of those people, many of us think we are well justified in making violent resistance to the wicked program of the Nazis and the Japs.

That does not mean that we must hate the enemy. It may be necessary and justifiable to be severe with them, to "treat them rough," but not to hate them.

THIS AND THAT

"DAVENPORT STREET."

"Dear Sir: I know in the past that you have written about the care of phonograph records, but I cannot lay my hands on the article, and I think it more important than ever that we music lovers take care of the discs we possess.

"With the import of shellac cut off, the record makers must conserve such stocks as they have, and reclaim old, worn-out, scratched and even broken records. Music stores are paying for the return of all such records. You will see piles of them in the stores.

"I have been interested in looking over some of these old records. Just how they manage to get so soiled, so gray looking, so utterly wrecked, is beyond the comprehension of any one who takes care of his own discs.

"I am sure you will agree with me that musical discs are precious, and all the more so now, and that good care should be taken of them.

"Yet evidently many persons still handle them as if they were coal, or bricks, or things which could not be damaged by carelessness and indifference.

"We have heard a great deal about complacency in recent months, but there is one field of complacency which I have not heard touched, and this is that of indifference in regard to precious works of art.

"The modern phonograph record is a work of art. It deserves proper care in storing and handling. Particularly the latter. I have watched young girls smear the records with lipstick, and seen young gentlemen sprinkle them with cigarette ashes. I have observed children spill drinking water on them.

"All such lack of appreciation makes a chill run down the spine of the record lover. I think if you would print your directions for record care all over again it would do a great deal of good.

"Sincerely, C. F. G."

Q. Are animals color blind?—J. J. A. This is a matter concerning which complete information is not yet available. It has been definitely decided that some monkeys, particularly gorillas, do have a sense of color. We also know that hummingbirds favor red. If animals, insects and birds do have color vision it is at the red end of the spectrum.

Q. How large is Japan?—B. M. A. The area of Japan proper is 148,756 square miles, making it a little smaller than California. Because the islands are extremely mountainous only about one-seventh of the area is habitable for its 70,000,000 people.

Q. Was it usual for the great masters to paint portraits of themselves?—P. S. A. It is apparently not unusual for great artists to do so. The Uffizi Gallery in Florence has a room where portraits of great artists by themselves are hung. Among them are Rembrandt, Velasquez, Sir Joshua Reynolds and many others.

Q. What is the most popular kind of candy?—R. C. D. A. Milk chocolate is the most popular candy in the world.

Q. How long was the longest tug-of-war ever recorded?—N. E. E. A. The longest ever recorded took place at Jubbalpore, India, on August 27, 1889, between two companies of the 2nd Derbyshire Regiment. It lasted 2 hours and 41 minutes.

Q. Was Napoleon short in stature?—N. W. B. A. Though generally regarded as a small man, measurements made of Napoleon upon his deathbed by his physician, Antommarchi, showed his height to be 5 feet 6 1/4 inches. No doubt he was taller in his prime.

Q. What is the correct pronunciation of the word "ration"?—M. R. S. A. The preferred pronunciation, according to leading dictionaries, is rā-shun, but there is authority for pronouncing the word to rhyme with fashion.

Q. Who described Mexico as "a beggar sitting on a bag of gold"?—G. F. A. Alexander von Humboldt, the famous German scientist, described the country thus.

Q. Is there a crane large enough to lift a battleship?—N. E. A. The Navy Department says that there is no crane in existence capable of lifting a battleship, but there are many instances on record of heavy freight locomotives being lifted by cranes in machine shops, and also guns of the largest caliber and the largest type of modern tanks.

Q. What is the greatest allegory that has ever been written?—M. P. A. A. John Bunyan achieved the distinction of writing the greatest of all allegories, "Pilgrim's Progress."

The Light Weaver

Weaver of summer light, the mockingbird Sings from a slender treetop all day long, Shaping the sunshine's pure and radiant word Into the joyous fabric of his song. No vagrant strand escapes that happy loom. No sunbeam tangled in a ferny lace; Bright threads from meadow or the wildwood's pattern In the song's plume take their shining place— A shimmering web, so varied, vibrant, clear, It brings the sunlight to the blind man's ear.

But when the twilight deepens and the moon Pours her disturbing silver on the grass, The woeen melody grows mystic. June And all her lovers, all her sweetest pass As the light weaver in his ecstasy Fashions a veil of moonbeams subtly bright, Snaring the heart, setting old rapture free, Opening old doors of sorrow and delight. Moonlight made audible; a listener hears The warp of laughter and the woof of tears. INEZ BARCLAY KIRBY.

Letters to the Editor

Comments Increase in Number Of Negro Police Officers.

The increase of Negro officers on the police force is a splendid indication of civic and social growth. Washington always has had a few colored policemen who have shown fearlessness, tact, honesty and loyalty. Many have been cited for adherence to duty.

Imposed. Benevolent paternalism angers its objects quite as much as selfish paternalism. True, differences will arise in the conference, which some fear might imperil the unity of the anti-Axis front and which Goebbels' propaganda machine might hold up to ridicule.

What is needed now is the extension of the promotion plan to include colored men so that they may rise when otherwise qualified to the top positions on the force. E. B. HENDERSON.

Advocates Immediate Conference To Draft 'Code' For Peace.

Many confusions to disappointment at the tacit assumption that recent statements of far-sighted post-war principles must remain, for the duration, couched in their present vague terms, only to be worked out in detail in a long armistice after the war.

This is to repeat the mistake made after the First World War. To insure that these principles will stand the test of post-war reaction, President Roosevelt should call a conference of the United Nations now, not after the war, to incorporate them promptly into a detailed, integrated economic and political code.

A strong solidarity currently marks the nations joined together to combat a common foe. But psychology teaches that individuals or nations, united under external danger, tend to fall apart when the danger recedes.

Non-vengeful peace terms offered early would help to end the war quickly by encouraging revolt within Germany. In a conference held now this possibility would incline the delegates to generous action, whereas, with the enemy already beaten and the strategic advantage of general peace terms gone, the conclave will likely degenerate into another Versailles "peace" conference.

This war will end with three nations, Britain, Russia and the United States, in near sole possession of the world's military might. But great power corrupts its holders. Even supposing those three nations could remain in harmony with each other, could they curb the urge to impose their programs upon the many smaller nations? This would prove an unfortunate development regardless of the altruistic quality of the programs

Lost Comma Fails to Mar Treaty

Officials Deny Loophole for Hitler Peace

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

This is a story about a missing comma in the British-Soviet treaty recently signed. When the text of the agreement was published in the newspapers, Article Two read as follows:

David Lawrence.

"The high contracting parties undertake not to enter into any negotiations with the Hitlerite government or any other government in Germany that does not clearly renounce all aggression intentions, and not to negotiate or conclude, except by mutual consent any armistice or peace treaty with Germany or any other state associated with her in acts of aggression in Europe."

Between the phrase the "Hitlerite government" and the next part of the sentence, no comma appeared in the text as cable and printed in the American newspapers on the morning of June 12.

Thus the sentence could conceivably mean that Britain and Russia undertake not to enter into negotiations with the Hitlerite government unless it clearly renounced all aggression intentions which, of course, some officials in the Hitlerite government have been saying in the past and could continue to say in the future.

What was obviously intended, of course, was to consider the first part of the sentence as having ended with the flat statement that neither Russia nor Britain would undertake to enter into any negotiations with the Hitlerite government. To accomplish this purpose, a comma should have been inserted after the words "Hitlerite government."

Interpretation Disavowed.

Inquiry here among our high officials elicited the response that while the sentence was subject to that construction because of the absence of the comma, the American Government was fully familiar with all that had gone on in the conversations preceding the announcement of the treaty and no such interpretation was even remotely thought of.

Similarly, British officials in Washington said the comma was understood. An inquiry was made to the London government and it was ascertained that the comma was not in the official text. But word comes that no such meaning was intended, of course, and that the British government has sufficiently punctuated its utterances heretofore, both through the Prime Minister and other spokesmen, so that the world knew that, no matter how much the Hitlerite government might renounce aggression intentions, this would not cause the United Nations to enter into any peace negotiations with that government.

In the interest of historical accuracy, perhaps the comma ought to be inserted but when the history of this war is written it will be found that no negotiations will have been entered into with the Hitlerite government for the making of any peace treaty. An occasion could arise whereby negotiations for an armistice and surrender would be technically commenced with some officer of the Hitlerite government, just as in the last war the proposal for an armistice came from the Chancellor of the Kaiser's government, after which the Emperor abdicated and revolution followed and a new government was established.

Another Theory Rejected.

As the absence of the comma was first noted, it was suggested by some observers that it might have been omitted to take care of just such a military contingency, when, in order to prevent the outbreak of chaos in a defeated country arrangements for the entrance of an army

The Political Mill

Congress' Record for National Defense Gives the Lie to Its Many Critics

By GOULD LINCOLN.

Congress, the butt of an unusual flood of ridicule and attack in recent months, has caught its second wind and has begun to fight back. No more sane and factual statement of the case for Congress as a whole has been produced than that made last night by Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming. In a radio address the Wyoming Senator handed it out to a critical press, to the bureaucrats and to the advocates of strongly centralized economic and Government forces.

Particularly did Senator O'Mahoney take pains to show—correctly—that the Congress, far from being a laggard in the preparation of national defense and in making provision for the conduct of the war, has taken the lead. The record disclosed by Senator O'Mahoney is certainly enlightening to any who may not have followed the course of events. He gave credit to two members of Congress, Representative James W. Wadsworth of New York and former Senator Edward R. Burke of Nebraska for taking the lead in the fight for the enactment of the Selective Service Act. "Without that law," Senator O'Mahoney pointed out, "we would not now be able to point to a well-trained army of 3,000,000 citizen soldiers and Gen. Marshall would not now be talking of a second front." This would not be possible, he said, if these two members of Congress had not taken the initiative long in advance of the Executive.

Strategic Materials.

War production, Senator O'Mahoney continued, today faces a shortage of strategic and critical materials, and quoted William L. Batt of the WPB as authority for the statement. Congress, he insisted, is in no way to blame for that unfortunate situation. As far back as 1937 and 1938, the Military Affairs Committees of the House and the Senate began work on legislation to develop stock piles of these essential materials, including rubber—now the Nation's No. 1 problem outside of the war itself—tin and chromium. In February, 1939, Senator Thomas of Utah brought in a report on a favorable bill, but at the same time disclosed that the War, Navy, Commerce and Treasury Departments had all written to the committee a doleful verdict to the effect that the legislation would not be in accord with the financial program of the President. Nevertheless, Congress put through the bill and it became law in June, 1939. The failure to develop the needed stockpiles certainly cannot be charged up to Congress.

Then there is the matter of pipe lines, which would have been so valuable today to the East Coast of this country, which suffers from a shortage of fuel oil and gasoline. Was Congress to blame for the failure to construct these pipe lines? It was not. About a year ago it authorized the construction of pipe lines to defense areas as a war measure. It was only last week that the construction of one pipe line, from Texas to Illinois, was finally authorized.

"The record is clear," said Senator O'Mahoney. "The Nation would have had plenty of rubber and there would be no talk of gasoline rationing today, if the authority given years ago by Congress had been used."

of occupation are made with the existing government.

But even this possibility was not envisaged by the authors of the Russian-British agreement. They meant the sentence to be read in the light of all previous utterances, namely, that there is to be no acceptance of any assurances whatsoever from the Hitlerite government concerning its intentions to renounce aggression. No possible difference of opinion could arise on this point as between Russia and Britain because, in the second part of Article Two, Russia undertakes not to negotiate or conclude Four years ago Congress gave authority to construct an Alaska highway. Work on this road was begun only three months ago. It might have been completed and ready for vital use in national defense today. Again, there was no fault of Congress.

Seven years ago Congress authorized the construction of six Army air bases and "only two of them were built before the crisis was upon us." Senator O'Mahoney pointed out, too, that the Congress had been favorable to the expansion of the air service "while the admirals were still talking in terms of battleships." And now, according to Senator O'Mahoney—and he is correct—the Congress is being criticized for calling before its committees busy agency executives to tell about the progress of the war program and the war itself. "These executives have plenty of time to make speeches and radio addresses, to have their pictures taken for news reels, to prepare press releases, etc., but it is somewhat annoying, we are told, to talk to Congress." That kind of criticism seems particularly ridiculous, especially in view of the benefits which have already accrued from investigations conducted by the Truman Committee of the Senate and the Naval and Military Affairs Committees of the House, all of which have brought to light inexcusable delays in the progress of the program and been responsible for remedying the situation. The Byrd Committee on Non-essential Spending has helped to halt waste and excessive spending. Hundreds of millions of dollars have been saved to the taxpayers.

Necessary to Freedom.

What more is needed to vindicate Congress than a mere recital of these facts? The Congress has been on its toes to grant the requests made upon it by the Executive for billions upon billions of dollars for the prosecution of the war. Not a dollar for this purpose has been denied. It is the Congress, too, which tore aside the curtain and exposed to the public the fuss and feathers that was enveloping the Office of Civilian Defense.

In the light of the record made, it seems rather childish to attack Congress as a blight upon the Nation because it voted pensions for its members, or because, forsooth, some 300 of its members accepted the X gasoline rationing cards.

Senator O'Mahoney stressed the fact in a democracy in any free nation, the legislative power has been recognized as the basis of the people's freedom, rather than the executive or the judicial. Legislative bodies have been wiped away or made impotent in every dictatorial form of government—as they have in Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy today. The Wyoming Senator warned that if, because of ill-timed criticism and attacks, Congress shall be weakened and become merely a timid appendix to bureaucracy, "we stand in danger here of the complete loss to central authority of the economic and political power which is the very heart of democracy."

If the personnel of the Congress is not to the liking of the people, the people may choose others. That is always their privilege. But to tear down the power of the Legislature would be ruinous.

French Prosecutor Wounded in Blast

By the Associated Press. VICHY, France, June 18.—State's Attorney Fark was wounded seriously yesterday afternoon by the explosion of a package which was handed to him just as a court session opened at Beaune. Authorities blamed some one bent on personal vengeance.

Churchmen Who Defy Hitler

Implacable Cardinal Van Roey of Belgium Refuses to Have His People Germanized

(Fifth of a Series.)

By HENRY SMITH LEIPER.

The Nazis have learned that the people of Belgium, a land "saturated with Catholicism," cannot easily be wooed into joining the "new order." They have found in Cardinal Van Roey, Archbishop of Mechelen (Malines), a spiritual opponent deaf alike to blandishments and threats. The Nazis were not unmindful of the trouble the German army of occupation had had in the last war when Cardinal Mercier, that brilliant, ascetic and courageous primate, had defied their armies. They remembered the scorn of his words in 1914: "When we speak of German warfare, we try to attenuate the impression, for we feel that the naked truth exceeds the limits of what can be believed."

But Cardinal Mercier had been dead since 1926. In his place was slow-moving Cardinal Ernest Van Roey, a man of few words, heavy-set and phlegmatic. They had put him down as a negligible quantity. The task of winning Belgium was going to be a lot easier this time. Their mistake was in not knowing what type of man stood at the head of Belgium's Catholic people.

Cardinal baffles Germans.

Only by degrees did the Nazis come to realize that Belgian resistance could show itself in other ways than through the lean courage of a Mercier. Now they stand irritated and baffled before the quiet, implacable resolve of 67-year-old Joseph Ernest Van Roey, who refuses to have his people Germanized, who insists on heeding the voice of the Pope rather than the precepts of National Socialism.

Cardinal Van Roey commands his people to obey the occupying power so far as international law demands. "The Belgian fatherland continues to exist," he insists, "and all its children owe it loyalty and service."

Fifth columnists wage a fruitless campaign. The people refuse to look on the Nazis as friends. They will not believe the stories told them about the wicked English. With quiet contempt they turn their backs upon the Nazi organizations created to persuade them of the blessings of a world remade to Hitler's design.

The Belgians can be a dour as well as a vivacious people. Their undemonstrative aloofness is thoroughly exemplified in the Archbishop of Mechelen. He has made no attempt to conceal his feelings toward the Nazi aggressors. "The invasion of a country such as ours is clearly contrary to every law of justice. The war is in itself a tremendous crime. It is a moral evil in all its horror," he has said.

Dissemination Is Foiled.

In the days when Quislings were carrying on their traitorous activities, priests refused to countenance masses for those "martyrs" who were shot, but with every show of reverence and respect they continued to bury dead British airmen. The Germans wanted to control education both in the schools and universities. But the cardinal preferred to shut them down, as he did at Brussels, rather than hand them over to Nazi professors. He foiled attempts to divide the country by setting Flemings against French-speaking Walloons. He told his people that any sort of support to a government persecuting the church was unlawful.

Even the Flemings, regarded as "Germanic stock," scorned the call of "blood and soil." Emulating the cardinal's example, priests mounted their pulpits to recount the stories of Nazi wrongs, to urge their congregations to resist adamantly any effort to Germanize them.

Says "No" to Nazis.

The Germans, baffled, were told by Degrelle and other pro-German leaders:

"It's the church interfering in politics. Clericalism must go!" They scribbled "Away with the priests" on the walls of the archbishop's palace. The Nazi-controlled press indulged in invective and abuse. The churches throughout the country were closed for three days to punish priests for having read the cardinal's pastoral letter without permission. Again, the walls of the cardinal's palace were smeared with tar and lurid threats chalked on them.

The prime of Belgium seemed to take no notice of these acts except to declare bluntly that the first nine months of the Nazi occupation had proved worse than the three years' occupation during the last war.

In vain have the Germans urged collaboration in their campaign of Nazifying the Catholic people of this small but resolute nation. Even as a theory, the cardinal re-

This Changing World

Davis Has Responsibility as Information Chief Of Dispensing Kind of News the Public Needs

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.

Much is expected from Elmer Davis, director of the newly formed Office of War Information, which consolidates several "information" (more properly called "propaganda") organizations.

The fact of the matter is that these former organizations have been in receivership almost from the time they were created because they never bothered to keep the public informed about what was actually going on in the many theaters of war in which the American public is vitally interested.

There is news galore in Washington, real news and rumors, too. There is a good deal of wishful thinking, as well as unwarranted pessimism. All this is available to newspapermen. The same news reports can be painted in rosy hue or black, according to the source which dispenses it. When Mr. Davis takes over he will inherit necessarily the personnel of the former organizations. It will unquestionably be some time before he can select his collaborators and decide whose services should be retained and whose dispensed with.

Psychology Misunderstood.

The truth is that so far we have not had an actual war information service. The able men who served in the previous organizations have frequently failed to understand the psychology of the public.

The propaganda function of instilling hatred against the Axis was well done. But a war is not won with hatred. The "information" officials missed the point that the American public wants to know what is going on, good or bad. They also overlooked the fact that while bad news is unpleasant and causes unpleasant reactions, it makes the American people more determined than ever to see the difficult job through at any price.

In the past there has been a sad lack of cohesion in evaluation of news and the restriction of it.

For instance, there is a battle going on now in the northwest Pacific around the Aleutian Islands. If a certain island of strategic importance is lost, Tokio unquestionably knows all about it. There is no point in concealing that kind of news, although there is reason for concealing the loss of warships.

The Japanese do not know what American units are actually lost or damaged during a naval engagement, and exact revelation of the damage inflicted on our fleet might have serious repercussions on the next battle.

This is what happened at Midway when the Japs attacked. They assumed that certain units which fought at Coral Sea had been put out of commission. They were sadly surprised when they found them at Midway again. But if territory is lost we do not fool the enemy when we fail to release such news and prevent the public from better understanding our strategic position.

Speculations Come Close.

On the other hand, much speculation, based frequently on sound judgment, is printed every week in American newspapers. Sometimes officers of the Army and Navy intelligence services shudder when they read such speculation, because it is so close to the truth.

Some of them say the enemy need not bother to have an extensive intelligence service in this country; all they have to do is subscribe to a clipping bureau and let their specialists in neutral countries make a weekly resume of what is printed in American papers.

Because men who are not familiar with military and naval subjects are at the head of the information services, such speculation gets by. This is far more important than announcements of set-backs suffered by the armed forces. It is recalled in this connection that Prime Minister Churchill feared lest the secret plans for the expedition against Madagascar be given away by articles written in perfectly good faith by writers who had guessed correctly.

If the new director of the Office of War Information could have men around him who actually know what war means, his service would be more liberal and constructive in dispensing the type of news the public actually needs and wants. At the same time he could tone down some of the indiscretions which are published regarding future American war moves.

thinkable. It is true, he says, that the Catholic Church adapts itself to all governments that safeguard her liberty of conscience, but as for adapting herself to governments that oppress the rights of conscience and persecute the Catholic Church, the answer must be—No! Never! The Nazis know now how utterly unshakable that "no" can be. (Copyright, 1942, Religious News Service.)

Davis' Post Held Vital To Victory

Eliot Praises Selection of War News Chief

By MAJ. GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT.

No single occurrence of the last few days is of greater importance to the national war effort than the appointment by the President of a single head, with adequate authority, to direct the war information services of the Nation—and the selection of so able, experienced and trustworthy a new spokesman as Elmer Davis for the job.

Information is one of the most vital weapons of war. The armed services have their intelligence staffs, whose duty it is to collect information of the enemy, his strength, moves, activities and prospects. On the inter-Allied plane, this information is exchanged, compared and evaluated by the British and ourselves, through the medium of the intelligence branch of the Anglo-American combined chiefs of staff.

There are also certain media, not wholly satisfactory, for exchange of information with the Russians. But these are purely military functions. There are many other uses of and needs for information in war.

First and most important, the civilian populations of democratic states must be kept informed of the progress of the war. They must be told the truth, in order that they may bear their part like men, face evil tidings bravely, be inspired by good tidings.

The only limitation—as the President has said—is the holding back of information which might be of military value to the enemy, especially information as to the location and strength of our own forces, their movement and intentions.

There has been no one in authority to ask, as to every item withheld, the single question: "Why?" There has been no one to say—"Tell me why the people cannot be told this? Make a case for withholding it."

Davis' Task to Ask "Why?" As long as the armed services can oppose a simple "No" and not have it questioned, the temptation to do so in border-line cases is well-nigh irresistible, and the practice may extend to cases well beyond the border line. It is not, for example, the province of the services to suppress an item of news because, in the opinion of some staff officer, its publication would tend to depress the American people, or unduly excite them, or cause them to draw erroneous conclusions.

It will now be Mr. Davis' task to ask "Why?"—and the terms of the executive order appointing him entitle him to receive an answer.

Then there is the vitally important task of external propaganda. We have based our propaganda on the use of truth, on our conviction that truth is bound to conquer the lie.

The enemy bases his whole propaganda technique on the use of the lie; quite shamelessly, he broadcasts diametrically opposed statements on the same day, at almost the same hour, to two different countries in two different languages. This may be a clever system for a short time, but in the end he out-smarts himself.

Obviously in making truth the mainstay of our psychological warfare abroad, we must maintain the closest connection between the stories we put on the air for foreign consumption and the contents of our own news releases in the United States. We must never allow wide differences to appear. This Mr. Davis is now in position to do.

Psychological War Necessary.

But psychological warfare is a necessary part of modern total war. It includes many activities besides radio propaganda, and these activities must be co-ordinated with our war effort in other directions.

Through the medium of the War Information Board, Mr. Davis will be enabled to keep the work of his own department aligned with those of the armed services, and with the Joint Psychological Warfare Board which was mentioned in the executive order.

There are things which can properly be told, and there are things which cannot. It is well that the enemy should know that we have a board of psychological warfare—but he knows it already, he is feeling the effects of its work. We have learned a great deal since this war began, and not the least of our lessons has been how to fight the war of nerves.

It is a good thing to know that we are perfecting our machinery for waging it, and at the same time, for maintaining our own morale, our own defenses against the enemy's attacks. To all these activities the new Office of War Information can make vast contribution, and to those who know him the appointment of Elmer Davis is the best guaranty that the work will be well done.

North Carolina Choir Plans Concert Tonight

The North Carolina Symphonie Choir will give an open-air concert at 7:30 o'clock tonight on the east front steps of the Capitol. The choir is composed of high-school-age singers representing 15 North Carolina cities and is now on an extended tour.

Gov. Broughton sponsors the choir whose local appearance was arranged by Representative Keer of North Carolina.

Count on us, son, to do our best!

Over the past 12 years the Pennsylvania Railroad has spent nearly $670,000,000 to bring its facilities and equipment to peak efficiency—and it would do your heart good to see the way troops, guns, tanks, planes, parts for ships, materials for war industries are going through, swiftly, smoothly.

What's more, never forget that a big percentage of the 140,000 men of the Pennsylvania have sons and brothers in uniform. So there's an extra incentive to "keep 'em rolling".

We're sure the traveling public will gladly cooperate with us. There isn't much we ask—just the following of a few simple suggestions. When you travel... purchase Pullman tickets well in advance... take "space" available, don't wait in hope of preferred accommodations... go the middle of the week, when travel is not so heavy... take as little luggage as possible, then there'll be more room and comfort for everybody.

With your help, we shall do our best to serve you while meeting the needs of Uncle Sam.

Interchurch Group To Run Part of Temple Recreation Center

Part of the social and recreational work of the Temple Recreation Center, Tenth and N streets, N.W., which closed Monday, will be taken over by Catholic and Protestant churches in the neighborhood, it was learned today.

Neighborhood Catholics And Protestants Will Divide Responsibilities

Closing of the center was made necessary by the sale of the property of the Temple Baptist Church which housed it. The Temple Church will move to Sixteenth and Juniper streets N.W.

Immaculate Conception Aids.

The Rev. Joseph Gedra, assistant pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church, Eighth and N streets N.W., said his church is working out a program of aid. He indicated that the facilities of the parochial school gymnasium, which have been used by the center in the past, will still be available to older boys and girls.

Volunteer Workers Sought.

Mrs. Fenderson said she and Joseph Heaton, boys' activities leader, will continue as much of their work as possible on a volunteer basis this summer. She added the procuring of volunteer workers to head the various groups would be the chief problem.

At the preliminary hearing he was quoted as admitting that he took copies of messages from the telephone room to his home because he had always saved the first specimens of his work on each new job for a scrapbook. He insisted he never had any intention of violating any law or revealing information.

Graduated from Harvard in 1941, he worked at the War Department here and at the Arlington cantonment before going West. After the young man's arrest, his father, Theodore Wiprud, secretary of the District Medical Society, went to Tucson. The son was released on bond March 21, and the two men returned to Alexandria.

The father, who also is a member of the Selective Service National Advisory Board, today expressed gratification over the exoneration of his son.

"Action taken in my son's case speaks for itself," he said. "I wish to say, however, that those who know my son have never for a moment doubted his integrity or loyalty to his country."

MacLeish Says Capital Is 'More Like America Than America Itself'

Denies Existence of 'Bureaucracy'; Praises Wartime Executives

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 18—Archibald MacLeish, director of the Office of Facts and Figures, pictured Washington last night as "more like America than America itself."
He said he held no brief for the Capital, but declared that descriptions of the city as a bureaucracy distinct from American people struck him as pretty cheap.
Addressing the National Retail Dry Goods Association, Mr. MacLeish added:
"I hold no brief for the people in Washington either. There are quite a lot I'd send back to the towns they came from if I had the sending. But this much I do know—that the newspaper picture, the magazine picture of a foreign, bureaucratic Washington hostile to the people of this country, putting its own interests before their interests—a bureaucratic Washington distinct from the people—is a pure and unadulterated invention."
"No Such Washington."
"There is no such Washington. What there actually is is a city filled with American citizens—American citizens from all over, from every State—American citizens like other American citizens—American citizens who have closed their offices, turned their businesses over, locked up their laboratories and their shops, and gone good-by to their wives and children to work in the most uncomfortable, overcrowded city in the United States at half or a fifth or a hundredth of their civilian incomes."
Mr. MacLeish said that members of Congress were more than entitled to speak for the people than those who undertake to attack them on the people's behalf.
"It would not be possible," he said, "to assemble anywhere in the United States 500 men and women who could more justly and more humanly speak for the people of this Republic than the 531 men and women who the people have elected to Congress precisely for that purpose."
"Who are these Congressmen and Senators who are now set off in apparent distinction from the American people? They are the people's representatives in Congress elected by the people and acting in the people's behalf."
Praises War Officials.
"And what is true of the Congress is true also of the alleged bureaucracy—a new word incidentally in American usage—new since the last war and generally used only in the past few years."
"Members of this association, like members of similar associations throughout the country, have reason to know the truth about the bureaucrats who figure as a hostile army in the propaganda prints and in the reckless statements of those who take the propaganda prints for truth."
"The tens and scores and hundreds of American businessmen and American lawyers and American scientists and American engineers who are working in Washington at $6,500 or $8,800 a year, living in hot rooms in back hotels and maybe a sight of their wives every seven weeks with their kids forgetting their faces? And for what? For cash? For fame? Or to get the job done?"
"You will forgive me if I say that the whole picture of Washington as a bureaucracy distinct from the American people strikes me as pretty cheap—contemptible and cheap."
"Insistence of the People."
"The truth of the matter is—and it is, to me at least, a very moving truth—that the organization of the American people to fight this war is an organization chiefly remarkable for the fact that there is no bureaucracy in the European sense—that there is no such distinction between the people and their Government as the propaganda pretends."
"If there ever was a wartime Government truly responsive to a self-governing people it is this Government. If there ever was a government which represented the people because it was the people, it is the Government in Washington. And this is due not only to the insistence of a great and greatly democratic President, but equally to the insistence of the people themselves."

Rip open that mattress and pull out that sock. Every miser in town is running to buy War bonds.

War bonds are an investment in America's future. Nothing in the world is safer today. Buy!

Billion a Week Is War's Cost, All-Time U. S. Spending Record

By the Associated Press.
Budget Director Harold D. Smith revealed today that America's armament factories are rolling so fast now that Government war expenditures have climbed to approximately $1,000,000,000 per week.
"That shows," he said in an interview, "how we are going into action against the Axis."
The accelerated pace of war production, Mr. Smith continued, "assures our hitting on the nose our estimate of $28,000,000,000 of war expenditures for the fiscal year which ends this month."

He said the pace also made more probable his estimate that $70,000,000,000 would be spent for war in the coming fiscal year.
Treasury expenditures for war purposes alone, Mr. Smith explained, have climbed steadily from $409,400,000 in the week before Pearl Harbor to $944,100,000 last week.

The $1,000,000,000-a-week pace not only is the biggest spending figure in American history, but it also overshadows every other belligerent's costs.

Sir Kingsley Wood, Chancellor of the British Exchequer, said yesterday his country was spending $337,000,000 a week. German, Russian and other totals also are lower, although exact figures are not available. Foreign money totals, however, are not necessarily comparable to American figures because of differences in resources and price levels.

Not counting about $8,000,000,000 of other Federal expenses that have to be paid for, the current fiscal year's war costs will be about twice as big as all Federal tax revenues, estimated by Mr. Smith at $12,700,000,000. Sales of War bonds and other Government securities finance the balance.

Do you long to commit the perfect crime? Murder the Axis by investing in War bonds.
Buy War bonds, and when the war is won, cash in—on freedom!

National League Battle Royal Looms as Cards Invade Brooklyn for 5 Games

Sweep of Big Series Would Get St. Louis Slim Lead in Race

Rivals Win in Tune-up Contests; Tigers Hand Yanks First Shutout

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.
The St. Louis Cardinals, riding the crest of a seven-game winning streak, will move into Brooklyn today for a five-game series with the Dodgers that may throw the National League pennant struggle back into a battle royal.

Through quirks of the weather these two fierce rivals have met only four times thus far and of these games the Redbirds have won three—proving to the satisfaction of St. Louis, at least, that the Dodgers' four and one-half game lead is an uncertain liability.

The Cardinals warmed up for today's important tussle (a twilight affair) by whitewashing the New York Giants, 3-0, on the five-hit hurling of big Mort Cooper, who pitched no-hit ball until the seventh inning, it was the fourth shutout of the season by Cooper and his second over the Giants.

Lefty Cliff Melton put up a battle until the eighth, when four singles scored two runs and clinched the game for the Cards.

The Dodgers shut out the Yankees yesterday, but they were returning to action after an illness, tripled for two runs and Dolph Camilli hit his 10th home run of the year for two more.

These were just two of a full slate of well-pitched contests in the major leagues yesterday.

At Detroit, Paul (Dizzy) Trout, who had been beaten five times in a row, hurled a five-hitter to hand the World Champion New York Yankees their first shutout of the season as the Tigers won, 1-0.

Brooklyn was held to seven hits by Phil Lee, but they were returning to action after an illness, tripled for two runs and Dolph Camilli hit his 10th home run of the year for two more.

Jockey Dale Dew, 16, Begins Bid For Fame His Brother Gained

Father Tutors Promising Boy as Parents Lift Ban on Riding That Followed Earl's Death

By the Associated Press.

OMAHA, Neb., June 18.—A lean, little guy came out of the Iowa bushes in 1938 to try his luck at Omaha's Ak-Sar-Ben race track. On the second day of the meeting he rode his first winner.

His name was Earl Dew and two years later he won the American jockey championship.

Today there's another Dew out at the track—Dale, 16, Earl's younger brother.

Earl boomed into the ranks of the Nation's top jockeys. In 1940 he had 287 winners and earnings of approximately $200,000.

Then, on a tragic afternoon at Agua Caliente, shortly after he had won the 1940 championship, Dew went down in a three-horse jump. He died en route to a hospital. The blow was a crushing one to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Dew of Sac City, Iowa.

Earl's death brought a resolution that racing and horses would be out of the picture for good.

Then Dale began to show marked aptitude with horses.

Dale's father, a rider in his youth, relented after Dale's pleading and agreed to pass on to him the little tricks of the trade he gave Earl.

Dale's training was intensive. Last July Fourth his father decided he was ready. He put him atop Dust Bo in the Earl Dew Memorial Stake at Sac City Fair. He won.

After that he rode the bushes until fall, booting home 25 winners.

Last week the father and son came to Ak-Sar-Ben. Dale has hidden several times, but to date hasn't had a winner.

"He's going to take it easy," the elder Dew said. "He has Earl's love of a scrap and he will get plenty out of a horse. He has proved that to me."

"But this is no lazy man's game. The boy's got to work, and work hard. He wants to be like Earl. Maybe he will."

Jamaica Bids for Ewell, Davis For All-West Indies Games

U. S. Is Expected to Clear Way for Pair To Enter Only '42 International Meet

By LAWRENCE PERRY, Special Correspondent of The Star.

NEW YORK, June 18.—From an island in war-ravaged seas comes brave and inspiring word to track and field enthusiasts. An international athletic meet—the only competition among athletes of various nations to be held in the world this year—will be staged at Kingston, Jamaica, on July 2, 3, 4, 5, 6.

Participation of United States athletes is counted upon to insure the success of these games.

and the AAU, it can be announced, is doing all it can to co-operate.

Specifically, two great American performers have been named by the Jamaica promoters who will stage the meet as a money-raising project for the benefit of the war fund of that island. They are Barney Ewell, Penn State's great Negro sprinter, and Hal Davis, California's speed boy.

Various reasons will prevent any effort to get this pair of athletes, and the AAU, which sent them, heard nothing but good words concerning the two.

So, aside from sporting considerations, both the national track and field organization and the State Department feel that it would be worth while to get two such fine fellows as Ewell and Davis into the West Indies late this month.

War Bonds Will Give 50 Per Cent Boost To Race Purses

By the Associated Press.

Purses at Delaware Park will be increased 50 per cent today, with the added amounts to be paid in War bonds, the Delaware Steeplechase and Race Association announced.

Since June 10 the association has been increasing the purses shown in the condition book, starting with 20 per cent and graduating the amounts.

With the distribution of $2,670 in War bonds on June 11, the total amount realized by horsemen through this medium was increased to $13,350 for the Delaware track to date.

The increase in the purses has brought the Delaware Park per diem distribution to a point where it is among the highest in the country. The condition book calls for a per diem distribution of $12,483, but the War bond distribution now makes the figure $18,724, with today's 50 per cent supplement.

Eight Horses May Race In Sussex Handicap

The field for Saturday's $10,000 Sussex Handicap at Delaware Park is shaping up as an eight-horse affair, headed by the two-time winner, Joseph E. Widener's Moscow 2d.

Among those expected to battle Moscow 2d are W. L. Brann's Pictor, Cedar Farm's He Rolls, Greentree's Corydon, E. G. Hackney's Sir Alfred, H. C. Hatch's Piltjeo, Helen Hickman's Aonbar and Constance Morabito's Monida. Moscow will attempt a stake parlay, having won the Brandywine Handicap.

Doesn't Seem to Help

Three Phil's pitchers—Sam Nahem, Walter Beck and Johnny Pogany—wear glasses on the field.

Grays Depend on Brown, Gibson To Stop Paige and Monarchs

Satchel Paige, ace colored hurler, who has been mowing 'em down all over this country and in Mexico for 15 years and who, with Dizzy Dean, attracted 20,000 spectators to Griffith Stadium several weeks ago, returns to Washington tonight as the big gun with the Kansas City Monarchs in a game against the Washington Homestead Grays.

Game time is 9 o'clock.

The Monarchs are the three-time champions of the Negro American League and the Grays have held the Negro National League title for the same number of years, so tonight's contest shapes up as a more than fair colored baseball attraction, even without the addition of the colorful Paige.

Even though Satch is recognized as the ace among colored flingers he and the Monarchs are conceded no walkaway, especially by members of the opposition. Josh Gibson, Grays' catcher, who will receive the slants of Pitcher Ray Brown, is one who believes Brown will be the winner. For one thing, he says, Brown is a steeper pitcher, and if the Grays can give him an early edge he'll hold it.

Gibson might have something to do with getting the Grays' runs. A noted slugger, he has accomplished such feats as hitting four home runs into the bleachers here in one day during a double-header. He also snacked out four home runs in a single game against the Memphis Red Sox in Zanesville, Ohio.

The Satch is scheduled to pitch the first six innings tonight, by which time he plans to have a good lead, and thereafter the Monarchs' mound assignment will be handled by Hilton Smith.

NEEDS ONE MORE—Paul (Big Poison) Waner, who made his 2,999th hit yesterday as the Braves lost two games to the Reds. Another and he will be the seventh major leaguer in history to join the 3,000 class. That would put him alongside of Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, Honus Wagner, Eddie Collins, Nap Lajoie and Pop Anton. A native of Harrah, Okla., Paul started his professional career with San Francisco in 1923 and broke into the big leagues with Pittsburgh in 1926. He led the National League in batting three times, with a .380 average in 1927, a mark of .362 in 1934 and .373 in 1936. His 16-year-old major league average is .338. At the left is Waner in a typical pose. At the right he demonstrates his grip on his bat.

Hanbury Wants Fight As a Benefit for Drew Family

Young Pro Is Absolved From Blame in Death Of Ring Opponent

Lew Hanbury wants to fight again and quickly. The youngster, whose first professional appearance at Griffith Stadium last Monday night ended tragically in the death of one of his buddies of amateur days, wants a lot of money for his second fight, too, because he wants to turn it over to the wife and kiddies of Preston Drew, his fallen opponent.

Meanwhile, the boxing commission has absolved everybody connected with the ill-fated bout from all blame in Drew's death. A medical record, made mandatory only six months ago, stood that body in good stead for Drew's card, produced during the hearing held yesterday, showed he was in good health and physically fit for action when granted a license.

It also developed that the commission physician, who examined the fighters on the afternoon of the show and was at the ringside throughout the program, did not see Drew after the bout. He started into the dressing room from the field, but a wooden gate at the foot of the steps had been closed. Everything possible had been done for the injured fighter, however, and he was on his way to the hospital as quickly as possible.

Drew was the victim of a t.k.o. at the hands of Bobby Garcia, jr., three weeks ago at Baltimore, but that is not believed to have been a contributing factor to his death. A certificate of accidental death will be issued by the coroner's office, it was indicated following an autopsy yesterday. No time has been announced for the funeral, but the remains are at a Southeast funeral home.

Racing on Small Scale To Resume August 1 In California

Pleasanton Track Given 45-Day Meet Sanction; Purses Minimum $500

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, June 18.—Horses will run again in California starting August 1 after eight raceless months, but on a small scale compared to the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap and other rich stakes events.

The State Racing Commission has granted John W. Marchbank, operator of Tanforan track near San Francisco, a license to conduct a 45-day meeting at the once-abandoned Pleasanton County Fair track in Alameda County.

Minimum Purses to Be $500.

Minimum purses will be $500. No mention was made of stakes. Racing will be conducted Wednesday through Saturday each week through October 10. There will be five charity days, for Army and Navy relief, USO, Red Cross and California Turf Foundation.

Pleasanton seats 5,000—meeting the Army's crowd limit. The track, 17 miles from Oakland, is not on any military highway. Marchbank's attorney, Roy Bronson, said Lt. Gen. John L. De Witt, commander of the Western defense command, had no objection to the meeting.

California has been without racing since the Tanforan ended its fall meeting December 6.

Fast-Changing Smokies Offer Meal Coin to Rival Player

By the Associated Press.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 18.—Anent the never-ceasing personnel changes that have marked the Knoxville Smokies' cellar-dwelling this season comes this yarn from one of the hired hands.

Knoxville and Nashville crossed paths in a Memphis hotel on a recent road trip. Just before dinner Smoky Owner Bob Allen strode through the lobby, passing out meal tickets to his players.

One chap, comfortable on a lounge, looked up quizzically as the magnate proffered some folding money.

"Haven't you made a mistake, colonel?" he inquired.

"Eh? How's that? What do you mean?" the colonel countered, withdrawing the bill.

"Well, I knew you were changing players fast," the athlete responded, "but not so fast you didn't know your own men."

Transfigure Wins After Being Left at Gate

Mower Fuel Scarce, Grass on Fairways Isn't Cut Often

By WALTER McCALLUM.
Without blowing trumpets or advertising patriotism the local golf clubs this year, almost without exception, are adopting a policy of retrenchment where fairway cutting is concerned, and most of them, even during the height of the season, are using so-called winter rules through the fairways. There are few exceptions to the winter rules provision and even at these clubs using summer rules fairway cutting is not done nowadays with the plentiful use of gasoline and labor of other years. By mid-June in a normal year summer rules, which mean playing the ball where it lies, have been the regular thing at all country clubs, but not this year. Infrequent fairway cutting saves gasoline and labor costs, and results in no hardship to the golfers themselves.

Indeed the golfers welcome winter rules. They like the chance to tee the ball up on the nearest clump of grass and get a preferred lie in any situation. But it's all very different from the custom of past years.

Many people don't know about it, but golf clubs do not now get the ample supply of gasoline they got before Leon Henderson started clamping down. They get 80 per cent of normal, which in some cases means cutting fairways once a week instead of twice a week. But no one minds, even if the fairways grow thick and heavy. The situation has crept up without many people noticing the change, and inasmuch as championships are infrequent nowadays little inconvenience is caused.

Championships, of course, should be played under regular rules, with the ball not being touched until it is holed out.

Women in Semifinal.
The women's District links championship, singularly free of upsets, entered the critical semifinal stage at the Chevy Chase Country Club today as three of the big four of local women's golf remained in the title tournament and another who can become a member of the new big four made her bid for top recognition. The new member is Mrs. Thomas O. Brandon, champion woman player at the Columbia Country Club and a linkswoman with a sound game and championship capabilities. She met Mrs. Leo Walper today.

For a year now the local feminine golf world has awaited another meeting—this time on another local course—between Betty Meckley and Mrs. R. Stokes of Manor, the quiet District champion. Mrs. Stokes beat Mrs. Meckley in the final of the District championship last year at Manor, and Mrs. Meckley turned the tables in a tourney at Baltimore. The score was even between them last year, but this year it's a different story. On the result of today's match between them may hang the local feminine ratings for 1942.

Mrs. Meckley, playing with her usual confidence and assurance, pulled a tough one out of the fire yesterday when it seemed she was about to be upset by Mrs. Landra B. Platt of Chevy Chase. Mrs. Platt was 3 up at the turn, and all even at the 17th, where she laid her third shot dead, with Mrs. Meckley 15 feet away on the like. Just as she did last year in the final of the Maryland State championship, Mrs. Meckley holed that big putt to keep the match level. But she faced still another bad spot, on the 18th, where Mrs. Platt faced two magnificent shots to 18 feet behind the pin, while Mrs. Meckley didn't reach the green in two.

Mrs. Meckley Good Chipper.
Around town there may be better chippers and more of them than the wood veteran, but they aren't visible to the naked eye. As she seems always to be able to do in the tight spots she chipped up 2½ feet from the cup. Mrs. Platt missed her bid for a 3 and they went to the 19th. There Betty holed a chip shot with an 8-iron from the fringe of the green, and the match was over.

The gal can chip and putt. Give some of the top-notch pros her ability around the greens and you'd hear less of Hogan, or Nelson or Snead and more of some guy who doesn't quite win.

Mrs. Platt played one of her finest games of the year to carry the Maryland champ an extra hole. Each scored an approximate 80.

Warner Gray in Town.
Warner Gray, former assistant to Wiffy Cox, 15 pounds heavier and looking the picture of the fighting job, is in town on furlough from his Navy job. Warner has been around. He isn't talking about where he has been, of course, but he has seen a lot of ocean. "And I haven't been seasick," grinned the lad who grew up at the golf shop at Congressional.

Woman Golf Teams To Play in Series At Washington

Capital to Have Entries In Maryland Tourneys For Fair Sex and Men

Although the team matches of the Women's District Golf Association have been abandoned this year, linkswomen of the Washington Golf and Country Club will play in a series just the same.

Six teams of women are being organized within the club to compete among themselves. The schedule will start in a few days and will run through part of the summer, with teams organized in three handicap classes.

Meanwhile women from the nearby clubs in Maryland, their appetite for match play whetted by the District championship now being played at Chevy Chase, are going to furnish at least 10 of the entries in the Maryland State women's championship at the Country Club of Maryland next week. The tourney opens Tuesday near Towson, Md.

Entries will be taken up to noon tomorrow by Mrs. Ralph W. Payne at Adams 4489. Post entries will be taken later but cannot have preferred starting times and must follow the field.

Dr. R. A. Kelly, vice president of the Maryland State Golf Association, is taking entries for the Old Line State men's championship, to open June 25 at the Five Farms course of the Baltimore Country Club.

About a dozen men from the Washington clubs in Maryland will go to Baltimore for this one, with Volney Burnett of Indian Spring slated to defend the title he won last year.

Hagen Trophy Put Up For Linksmen Doing Most for Pastime

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, June 18.—A trophy bearing the name of Walter Hagen will be presented this year for the first time to the "golfer making the greatest contribution to the game." It has been announced, with the award to be based annually on a poll of the Nation's golf writers.

Fred Corcoran, tournament manager of the Professional Golfers Association, said that the trophy, known as the Walter Hagen Memorial Golf Award, would go to its first recipient next December 21 on Hagen's 50th birthday.

Since 1937 the PGA has annually awarded the Harry Vardon Trophy to the outstanding player among the professionals. The new award, Corcoran said, is open to any one whose contribution to the game is deemed noteworthy.

Hagen, winner of 17 major championships, including the National PGA crown five times, still gives part a reasonably good battle although his appearances these days are limited largely to war relief matches. Last month he competed in the 25th annual PGA championship at Atlantic City but failed to qualify for match play.

Virginia Farm Where First Captive Bobwhite Was Raised Has Ceased Quail Propagation

Famous White Oak Farm, a few miles below Richmond, Va., where W. B. Coleman raised the first bobwhite in captivity, has ceased quail propagation for the time being. Because the farm is not for sale, we have the idea it might be taken over by the State of Virginia.

During the past half dozen years it has been geared to a production of nearly 12,000 birds annually, which would help materially to restock the fields and coverts of the Old Dominion.

From the current crop Maryland authorities were presented with a thousand for immediate stocking. In spite of the Maryland statute which says "there shall be in use no more than two rods, each equipped with a single line and a single hook," and upheld by the State's attorney, it is hard to believe wardens will enforce it, as they were instructed to do several weeks ago.

Until the Legislature can correct the wording so that it applies directly to commercial fishing, sports anglers should be overlooked, particularly insofar as dropper flies are concerned. If the multiple-hooked bass plugs are to be classed as a single hook, as Frank Bentz, the clerk of the commission, has stated, why stick to the letter of the law where other fishing is affected. We believe the Inland Fish Commission can take care of the matter until it is corrected on the books.

As in other years, there are stories going around that Maryland hatcheries are bare of trout, and few stockings have been made since the beginning of the season. It is a matter of record that frequent plantings have been made in every stream and will continue to be made up to and after closing day on July 15. Keep in mind Big Hunting Creek closes as usual on June 30.

20 Years Ago In The Star

The Fals finally beat the Browns in St. Louis, taking a 6-2 triumph in the series final. Rice and Shanks were the big guns of the attack, while Pitcher Ray Francis was given good support.

Vincent Richards, young tennis star, defeated Bill Tilden, the national champion, in five sets to take the New England championship in the tourney final at Hartford, Conn.

Young Goldie Ahern, featherweight, and Danny Duarte, lightweight, were knockout victors in the opening boxing show at the new Sportland Heights Arena, winning over Sailor Lewis and Bill Lowory, respectively, both in the third round.

Cliff Battles, assistant grid coach at Columbia University, has been made mentor of the Linon basketballers for next season. He fills in for Paul Mooney, who is in the service. Battles played at West Virginia Wesleyan.

ATLANTA, June 18.—Louis Theet took off on the par 5 hole at the James L. Key golf course. His drive intercepted a bird in flight over the fairway. The bird was killed, but Theet went on to finish the hole with a birdie 4.

Final score: Two birdies.

City Pin-Event Prize Winners to Receive Awards Tonight

Fifteen trophies will be among the awards when the Washington City Duckpin Association distributes its prizes to the winners in the recent 32d annual tournament starting at 7:30 tonight at Convention Hall.

Besides the singles and all-events winners in each of the six classes, three other bowlers will receive trophies for the highest single games rolled in the tournament, which will include Bill Miller of FBI, who fired top string of 176; Elmer Wesley, Brookland Taxi League, 172, and Mike Avon, Anacostia Spillway, 170.

According to Secretary Joe Pricci, the trophy award is the largest in the long history of the association.

Through With Tennis, Perry Says, Because Of Arm Injury

World Pro Champ, Once Top Amateur, States He 'Can't Play Any More'

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, June 18.—Fred Perry, world professional tennis champion and former top-flight amateur player, announced today his retirement from the sport "because I just can't play any more."

The slender Englishman who was ranked as No. 1 tennis player of the world when he was winning amateur championships, said he was stepping out because of an arm injury suffered in a fall at Madison Square Garden, New York, last winter. At the time, the injury forced him to default to Bobby Riggs, 1941 amateur champion, in the first match of their tour.

Perry, who has been in Mexico about a month after taking extensive treatments in the hope of nursing the arm back to its old strength, said he tried to play last week "and I'm no good at all. I can hit a forehand all right, but in championship tennis if you aren't any good in backhand or service, that's just too much of a handicap to give the other fellow."

Perry spoke seriously, with no trace of his usual jollity. "I've thought this over for a long time," he said, "tennis has been good to me."

As to a possible future return to the game: "I haven't thought that far ahead. Right now, I'm just trying to get this (arm) right."

Perry won the United States singles championship three consecutive years, and also, at various times, held the English and French hard court titles, the Wimbledon All-England championship, and was a star of the English Davis Cup teams for years.

Army, Navy Rivalry Finds Skeet Aces As Opponents

Special Dispatch to The Star.
STRATFORD, Conn., June 18.—Another chapter of the traditional sports rivalry between the services will be marked here in the Army and Navy individual feature of the annual great Eastern skeet championships beginning tomorrow.

Among the top-ranking marksmen who are scheduled to compete are Capt. Robert Canfield, U. S. A., in charge of skeet shooting instruction for the Army, and Lt. Comdr. Frank R. Kelly, U. S. N., three-time captain of the all-America skeet team, who has a corresponding post in the Navy.

Capt. Canfield now is stationed at Washington D. C., where he recently won the Maryland-District all-around championship. Both he and Comdr. Kelly also took part in the recent North-South shoot there.

Assets of Building And Loan Groups Increase Slightly

By EDWARD C. STONE. F. Willson Camp, secretary of the District Building and Loan League, announced today that combined assets of the 25 associations made a slight gain in May over April, rising to $174,044,311. This is also an increase of $11,022,294 over May, 1941. Mortgage money advanced for construction revealed a sharp drop.

Real estate loan portfolios continued active, with $103,656,333 standing as advances against mortgages as compared to $153,161,000 a year ago. New share money flowing into the reporting associations rose during the year to $151,420,257, or a gain of $7,878,729, Mr. Camp reported.

Reflecting a considerable strengthening in reserve accounts, this item moved up from $12,651,792 in 1941 to a new high of $14,120,087. A sharp decline is noted in the amount of mortgage money advanced for construction and new houses. Last year a total of $5,351,269 was placed against building operations during May, while the past month advances amounted to but $3,886,213. The report disclosed that a loss in mortgages as compared with April of $522,958 is indicated, practically all from lack of construction applications.

The 25 affiliated members of the District of Columbia Building and Loan League are continuing their efforts to further the sale of war securities to their customers and the general public, Mr. Camp stated. D. C. Bank Stocks Hold Well. Washington bank stocks as a group held up well in the first five and a half months of the present year, maintained their dividend payments and are returning some excellent yields, according to a survey of leading issues made today.

Bank officials expressed surprise that the volume of trading in these issues has not been greater so far in 1942. They say bank assets reflect unusually varied investments, that there are no inflation worries connected with such stocks, they are non-speculative and last year enjoyed extra high earnings in the face of numerous handicaps, due mainly to low interest rates and the war.

Present quotations are interesting. The last sale in Riggs National common was made at 280, although the bid is much lower now, and the last sale in Riggs preferred registered at 101 1/2. National Capital advanced recently at 176. Liberty National at 170 1/2. National Bank of Washington at 102. American Security at 200. National Savings & Trust at 195 and Washington Loan & Trust at 206.

Highest Yield 5.88 Per Cent. At present, the highest yield among issues listed on the exchange is the National Bank of Washington, 5.88 per cent.

Among bank stocks sold over the counter, the last bid for Anacostia was 160; City Bank, 22; Columbia National, 187; East Washington Savings, 15; Hamilton National, 29; Munsey Trust, 87 1/2; National Metropolitan, 240; Second National, 69 1/2; Security Savings & Commercial, 164; Suburban National, 14 1/2; and Union Trust, 66 1/2.

Bank of Commerce & Savings, with a bid of 325, is the highest priced bank stock on the exchange, but there have been no sales this year. Lincoln National, 200 bid; Bank of Bethesda, 30, and Prince Georges Bank & Trust Co., 20 1/2, are also awaiting the year's first sales on the exchange.

Bank of Bethesda Votes Extra. Directors of the Bank of Bethesda have declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 1/2 per cent and an extra dividend of 2 per cent on the outstanding stock. President George P. Sacks announced today. Both dividends are payable on June 26 to stockholders of record June 20.

Directors of the American Security & Trust Co. have declared a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent on the outstanding stock, payable July 10 to stockholders of record at the close of business June 30. President Corcoran Thom announced today.

D. C. Insurance Sales Off. Sale of new life insurance in the District of Columbia in May totaled $4,548,000, a decrease of 22 per cent from the volume written in May a year ago, Hartford reports today.

Sales in the Capital in the first five months of the year reached $28,274,000, a gain of 1 per cent over the like period a year ago, the report added.

Maryland sales in May were off 11 per cent and up 16 per cent in the five months. Virginia's May sales were down 27 per cent, but were up 8 per cent in the five months.

Auditors Meet Tonight. The annual election of the auditors' section of the District Bankers' Association is set for tonight at the Wardman Park Hotel. D. D. Whitcraft, Riggs National Bank, is slated for election to the chairmanship, succeeding Lewis E. Thomas, Liberty National.

Early Stock Advances Cut or Wiped Out By Profit Taking

By VICTOR EUBANK, Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, June 18.—Many stocks continued to attract modest buying in today's market, but light profit taking, inspired partly by the somewhat bearish war news from Libya and China, halted the general upward spurring which got under way last Wednesday.

The list extended its Wednesday's bulge by fractions at the opening in relatively fast dealings. The move was short-lived, however, and quotations soon were reduced or transformed into declines. The pace slowed appreciably on the reversal.

The majority of the day's minor amounts near the close—there were isolated setbacks of two or so—and scattered plus marks of a point or so were in evidence.

Transfers for the full proceedings approximated 350,000 shares.

Curb Board Approves 2 Per Cent Levy on Member Fees

Action Taken to Aid Drive to Reduce Number of Seats

NEW YORK, June 18.—Members of the New York Curb Exchange have approved an amendment to its constitution allowing the board of governors to levy a 2 per cent tax on the commissions charged by members to further the exchange campaign to reduce the number of memberships, it was announced today.

The exchange, which in common with other securities markets, has undergone a long period of reduced business, has lowered the number of seats to 500 from 550 since August, 1941.

The purpose of the tax is to maintain annual dues of members at $500, despite the smaller number of memberships. Governors of the exchange have announced that for the time being a tax of only 1 per cent will be imposed.

Members also approved amendments to the constitution lowering the initiation fee and reducing the suspension period from 30 to 60 days. The amendments are subject to one year to 90 days.

Cleveland Rated First in Business Gains

By the Associated Press. CLEVELAND, June 18.—Cleveland, with its $7,300,000 weekly industrial output, is the most important American city in the wartime increase of business activity, the Chamber of Commerce asserted today.

The rise in business activity here, as of last April, was 48 per cent above normal, compared with an 8 per cent rise in Detroit, 39 per cent in Los Angeles, fifth, up 37 per cent; St. Louis, sixth, 35 per cent; Chicago, seventh, 33 per cent; Philadelphia, eighth, 31 per cent; Boston, ninth, 19 per cent, and New York, tenth, 15 per cent. All increases were of last April.

"Normal" was individually computed for each metropolitan area from basic factors which chamber statisticians found to govern business cycles in that area. Beams said. Individual surveys in the various cities were compiled by the Detroit Board of Trade.

Price of Lead Zinc Oxides Is Restored

By the Associated Press. The Office of Price Administration announced today that the maximum price for lead zinc oxides containing 35 per cent or more lead had been restored to the April 1 level of 7 cents a pound.

The office explained that, under the general maximum price regulation, an "inadvertent omission" had cut back the price on such oxides to 67 cents a pound—a figure which failed to compensate producers for increased costs.

Raleigh Father's Day Gifts Go All Over the U. S. A.

Raleigh Father's Day gifts are covering the country, and for a very good reason. With the tremendous increase of newcomers to Washington, Raleigh Haberdasher, Washington's Finest Men's Wear Store, has recently completed a research into "What Makes Fathers Happy From Maine to California?"

Early in the study they called in the Saturday Evening Post to discuss the types of merchandise favored by its millions of readers. Characteristically they found the nationally famous labels, long recognized by native Washingtonians as sources of quality, comfort and pleasure, equally favored by Dads back home. Whether home was Rochester or San Francisco.

Famed Personality Quizzed.

Still not satisfied, Raleigh asked Bob Hope, national chairman of Fathers in Defense, Radio and Screen Division, and one of America's radio and screen stars, what he thought. Dropping the comic for a minute, he said: "Remember Dad on Father's Day with nationally accepted merchandise. It's sure to be practical and desirable."

Bob Hope Talked To Thousands of Typical Fathers

In his all-out job for Uncle Sam, taking part in great numbers of war benefits . . . entertaining our boys at Army posts and naval stations, Bob has met thousands of fathers in camps—in war work. He knows the strain they're under. But he knows how to keep 'em smiling. He says: "Picture Dad in his daily role. Then give him the things he needs to heighten his efficiency. The things he hasn't the precious time to buy for himself. For instance:

"Suppose Dad is an air raid warden. How about a rain-coat instead of that old sieve he's wearing? Why not a gift bond for a nice new hat? That trench helmet won't look so good on dates with Mother."

"Is he a white-collar executive? Give him the sleep-inducing comfort of a good pair of pajamas. Let him start the day with a smile, after using a real man's after-shave set."

"Suppose Dad is a volunteer salesman. Does he look successful? Or is he still wearing that tie with the applied egg yolk. And those worn-out shirts with the frayed edges? You'll find his size inside his collar."

Raleigh Has Your Gift Answer . . .

"So waste no time, my children: lie yourself down to Raleigh's and give the "Grand Gent" what he really wants. You're sure to find it among the scores of nationally famous products assembled at Raleigh. And you'll have the satisfaction of knowing he will be doubly pleased with your gift this year. If you just can't figure what to get him, you can always play safe with a U. S. War Savings Bond."

Schools Speed Plans for New Gas Registration

Volunteer Teachers Sought to Handle Enrollment

Registration of the city's passenger car and motorcycle operators for basic gasoline rationing cards will be held July 1, 2 and 3 daily from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. in 28 public school buildings.

The cards will be the basis of the permanent rationing plan going into effect July 15.

The three-day registration in the schools follows immediately the registration by school teachers and other volunteer personnel of 25,000 youths between the ages of 18 and 20 for selective service June 30.

Asst. Supt. of Schools Lawson J. Cantrell and First Asst. Supt. Garnet C. Wilkinson, who will organize the registrars in the white and colored schools, respectively, conferred yesterday with Whitney Leary, District rationing chairman, on obtaining the necessary number of volunteers. More than 6,000 were used in the first gasoline registration last month.

Fast Registration Expected.

Only "A" cards for passenger vehicles and "D" cards for motorcycles will be issued at the schools, Mr. Cantrell said, predicting a swift and flawless registration because the registrars this time will not have to stop to argue with applicants over the type of card to which the applicant is entitled or to correct registration personnel to classification purposes. He said he had received figures from the Department of Vehicles and Traffic indicating there are 123,000 passenger cars here and 587 motorcycles.

Dealers and operators of commercial vehicles, he continued, will not get their cards at the schools but at the various rationing boards.

About 12,000 cards were issued to commercial vehicles last time, he said, which will be that much less to be done at the schools this time. A total of 137,447 cards of all kinds was issued at the last registration. Since that time 14 rationing boards have been established in various sections of the city, and a 15th will be set up shortly.

The 28 schools to be used will be the same as those used last time, with the exception that the Cleveland School will be used in place of the Mott. The latter was found to be too close to the Bancker Junior High School, also to be used in the registration.

Dr. Wilkinson has called a meeting at 4 p. m. today at the Cardozo High School of the chief registrars of the 15 colored schools to be used as centers. Mr. Cantrell has called his chief registrars together at the Dennison Vocational School at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Volunteers Sought.

Whitely, Supt. of Schools Frank W. Brou issued a circular through the school system yesterday calling on teachers and administrative officials to volunteer again for the registration.

Building principals and heads of departments having itinerant teachers were directed to have in by Monday at the Franklin School alphabetical lists of all volunteers. The volunteers are to give their name, home address, telephone number, and the school in which they prefer to serve. There will be two shifts—7 a. m. to 2 p. m. and 2 p. m. to 9 p. m.

"Every effort," Dr. Brou said, "will be made to assign teachers reasonably near their homes. However, it will be greatly appreciated if teachers will volunteer for service in the buildings in which they served during the previous registration."

As in the previous registration, applicants will be taken alphabetically, Mr. Cantrell said. Those with names beginning with letters from A to E will sign up July 1; F-M, July 2, and N-Z, July 3. On the basis of the earlier experience it is believed this will result in about 29 per cent the first day, 36 per cent the second and 35 per cent the third day. Applicants will have to have their registration cards for their cars, he explained, as the ration card serial number will be entered on the back of the registration card.

Chennault Quits District Police For Coast Guard

Pvt. Joe Chennault of No. 13 police precinct, brother of Brig. Gen. Claire Chennault, commander of the American Volunteer Group in China, is changing uniforms July 1 to become a chief gunner's mate in the Coast Guard.

Ever since the attack on Pearl Harbor, Policeman Chennault has been restless. A former marine, he had agreed to meet Claire and join the "Flying Tigers," but the Jap attack December 7 upset those plans.

"Chennault can't be replaced," said Capt. Charles J. P. Weber, precinct No. 13 chief. "He is intelligent, faithful, a hard worker and a grand gentleman, with a great capacity for work. We shall miss him greatly."

Joe Chennault joined the police force April 5, 1939, after serving three years in the Marine Corps. A native of Louisiana, he lives at 25 Boston avenue, Takoma Park.

Keech Upholds Ban By D. C. Heads on Policy Attacks

Corporation Counsel Says 'Honest Answers' Not Necessarily Barred

Corporation Counsel Richmond B. Keech today upheld, in informal discussion, the right of the Commissioners to issue their May 1 order to their subordinates banning "campaigns" for causes contrary to the established policies of the Board of Commissioners.

Mr. Keech said, however, he had no doubt but that a correct interpretation of the city heads' orders would be that no subordinate officer of the municipal government would be barred from making an "honest, forthright" answer to questions as to his views on any legislative matter unless he "integrated" a plan to "undermine" an established policy of the District government.

It was disclosed yesterday in The Star that the Commissioners on May 1 had issued formal instructions, as warnings to their department heads and other subordinates, that they must not "agitate" for appropriations or other legislation contrary to the Commissioners' policies unless they asked and obtained permission to do so.

'Gag' Rule Denied.

Commissioners Young and Mason declared yesterday that this did not constitute a "gag" rule and that there had been no intention to keep the order from public notice. Mimeographed copies of the order had been sent to all departments, but no formal announcement was made of it.

There were some indications the city heads were moved to issue the order because of a contest with other municipal divisions, including the Public Utilities Commission.

Pressed by reporters for an analysis of the whole situation, Corporation Counsel Keech said it appeared some "interpretation was needed" for the clause of the Commissioners' order which forbids department executives or their subordinates to "further agitate or discuss" the matter either within or without the District government either officially or unofficially. He said:

"In my opinion, the order was not intended to mean that responsible heads of the District departments should be barred from making honest, forthright answers to legitimate questions put to them regarding matters or policies under their jurisdictions."

Shuts 'Back Door.'

"As I construe the order, it is intended to prevent back-door methods of agitation designed to undermine the policies which have been determined by the responsible heads of the District government, the Board of Commissioners."

He indicated he was somewhat bothered by the use of the word "discuss" in the city heads' ban on agitation on programs contrary to established District policies, but said he did not believe this should be construed as to prevent subordinate officials from answering frankly any questions from the press, citizens' groups, members of Congress or private citizens, so long as this did not constitute an "inspired campaign to upset a policy formally adopted by the Commissioners."

"The best guide," he said, "may be that the governing body of the District should be responsible for determining the general policies of the municipal government and that subordinates should not be permitted to instigate campaigns designed to upset that program."

Planners Face Issue of Plaza Dormitories

Proposal Likely to Bring Fight at June Session

The question of building Government dormitories for war workers on the Union Station Plaza, according to well founded reports, may come before the National Capital Park and Planning Commission for approval at its June meeting, which opens today.

Such a proposal, if pressed by war agencies, might prove as explosive as the former campaign to erect dormitories on the Mall or convert the inner panel to automobile parking spaces. Despite White House interest in the plan involving the Mall, the commission succeeded after a long fight in diverting dormitories and parking spaces to West Potomac Park areas.

The question of sites for additional dormitories is on the agenda for tomorrow's session. A representative of the Public Building Administration will meet with the commission.

Used in First World War.

During the First World War, Government hotels for women were erected on the plaza and were the center of annual controversies until they eventually were torn down to make way for the improvement of the plaza in its present condition.

Chairman Frederic A. Delano, an outright foe of utilizing prominent park areas for temporary war structures, is in the Northwest on a presidential mission dealing with roads in Alaska.

Reopen will be made at today's session of the commission on various zoning amendments, land transfers and highway changes. In connection with zoning, provisions affecting parking areas and commercial adjuncts to hotels will be considered. Recommendations with respect to these have been drawn up. Proposed suggestions for rooming and boarding houses also will come up for action.

A Progress Report Will Be Made on the plans for the parkway to Suitland, Md., which eventually will serve employees of the new Government building being erected in the suburb. A site for the new USO building also will be announced.

Whitehurst to Be Heard. Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways, will take up the problem of co-ordinating transportation. These matters, which have become an acute city problem because of the great increase in population, have been before the commission for some time.

Tomorrow's meeting, reports will be made on the legislative status of various District problems. Plans for a new Bureau of Standards building will be studied, as well as matters involving the proposed new State Department Building at Seventeenth Street and Pennsylvania avenue N.W. An agreement is sought to expedite the building.

John Nolen, director of planning, will report tomorrow on meetings held under the sponsorship of the commission with various war housing agencies to co-ordinate housing with community facilities in the District and nearby Maryland and Virginia. Regional thoroughfare studies made in co-operation with Maryland and Virginia officials also will be considered.

In the absence of Chairman Delano, Vice Chairman A. E. Demaray of the National Park Service will preside.

Ex-St. Alban's Student Wins Flying Cross

Comdr. Howard L. Young, who attended St. Alban's School here, yesterday received the Navy's Distinguished Flying Cross for courageous action against the enemy.

Vice Admiral Wilson Brown, who made the presentation at San Diego, Calif., said Comdr. Young led a carrier-based air group in successful raids on several Japanese bases in the Pacific, resulting in heavy losses to the enemy.

Comdr. Young entered the Naval Academy in 1919. His aviation career includes service in both heavier-than-air and lighter-than-air craft. At one time he served on the dirigibles Akron and Macon.

D. C. Board Denies 20 Of 25 Draft Appeals For Reclassification

Conscientious Objector Wins Case, but Another Is Placed in 1-A

Only 5 of 25 appeals to the District Board of Appeals for the week ending June 12 have been granted, local Selective Service headquarters announced today.

John Sidney Webb, 28, of the Smithsonian Institution staff was granted classification as conscientious objector, but a similar exemption was denied to Edward A. Tripp, 22, a social worker at Friendship House, who was placed in class 1-A.

Dependency Claims Granted.

Deferment on grounds of dependency was granted Raymond S. Browne, 43, procurement clerk in the War Department; Lee Roy Stephens, 23, a carman's helper at Union Station, and John W. Harrisfield, 23, of the Work Projects Administration.

Occupational deferment was granted William Franklin Bodine, 32, a welder for the Maryland Drydock Co.

All men whose appeals were denied were classified as 1-A. Only one of these sought reclassification on grounds of occupation. He was Virgil John Ferlo, 26, a clerk at the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

Deferments Denied.

The others, whose applications for deferment because of dependents were denied, are George M. Mitchell, 31, employe of the Pullman Co.; Louis Favone, 28, Navy Yard clerk; Leon Ralph Wesley, 25, cab driver; William Taylor Powers, 33, War Department clerk; Ernest John Trotter, 34, assistant head waiter at Hay-Adams House; Kermit Beverly Nash, 30, chauffeur for the Federal Works Agency; Ben Hewlett Mariner, 29, civilian aide to the Army Engineers Corps, and Robert E. Holoran, 21, an elevator constructor.

Thomas E. Graves, 29, solicitor for the Washington National Insurance Co.; Frederick L. Hinkle, 36, tile setter; Samuel A. Petro, 26, laborer at the Quartermaster Depot; Carl C. Thacker, 25, operator of a casket business; Henry Lloyd Schneider, 28, War Department auditor; Edward Peter Ganey, 29, hotel employe; Ben Basch Simpson, 29, salesman; Jens Alfred Jensen, 36, carpenter; Edgar Melvin Spencer, 34, salesman, and John Francis Donoghue, 27, skilled laborer at Bolling Field.

One of Mrs. Hoffman's minor complaints against rooming houses is removed in the new code—a regulation requiring a lock and a key for each room used for sleeping purposes. Cases have been reported to the police, she said, in which burglars have ransacked nearly every room in room-

Director of Housing Association Dissatisfied With New Code Finds Shortcomings in Rooming House Rules For Bathrooms and Reception Facilities

The second of a series of articles of the District of Columbia rooming house problem.

By JAMES E. CHINN.

New regulations promulgated by the Commissioners to govern sanitary and living conditions in Washington's congested rooming and boarding houses "are a step in the right direction but they don't go far enough," according to Mrs. Helen Duey Hoffman, director of the Washington Housing Association.

From her own observations and from numerous complaints made to the organization by aggrieved Government war workers who, because of the acute housing shortage, have been forced to tolerate conditions in the rooming houses in which they live, she thinks some improvements could be made in the new code.

Overcrowding will be reduced to a certain extent by a regulation forbidding the use of any room for sleeping purposes which does not have at least 50 square feet of floor space per person. More adequate and up-to-date sanitary facilities also are required, but even these, in Mrs. Hoffman's experienced opinion, will fail to contribute all the essential elements of a contented life to a war worker away from home.

Entertainment Problem.

Ten persons for every bathroom, as allowed in the new regulations, is regarded as too many persons, especially in houses in which nearly all the roomers go to work at the same time, or where women predominate. Women, as a rule, it is said, spend nearly twice as much time in a bathroom as a man, because they wash their own garments, while a man will send all his soiled garments to a laundry.

Mrs. Hoffman believes, too, that something should be done for the girls who want to entertain, and the answer might be in permitting guests in the bedrooms until a "reasonable" hour so long as the door remains open.

"Some of the rooming houses do not allow girls to entertain boy friends," she said. "Some others only allow the boy friends as far as the reception rooms, and in a big rooming house the reception rooms are usually crowded with other guests. The girls have no privacy. You know the result? Clandestine meetings elsewhere. Many of these Government girls are young—some are probably looking for husbands—and I do think a concession to them which would allow visitors in their rooms with the doors open would be a big contribution to their welfare and happiness."

OPA Doubles Value Of Sugar Stamps and Extends Time

Weekly Consumer Ration Remains at Half Pound Under New Ruling

The value of sugar stamps 5 and 6 has been increased to 2 pounds each, but each stamp will cover four weeks instead of two, so the weekly ration for each consumer will remain at a half pound.

The Office of Price Administration explained that stamp No. 4, now valid for the purchase of a pound of sugar, would expire at midnight, June 27. The next stamp, good for two pounds, may be used at any time thereafter until midnight, July 25, whereupon stamp No. 6 will become valid until August 22.

Sometime before August 22, OPA will announce the period of time to be covered by other stamps in the ration books.

The ration stamps numbered from 1 to 4 each permitted purchase of 1 pound of sugar, and covered a two-week period, instead of the one-month now permitted.

At the same time, OPA disclosed that, effective Saturday, it would permit institutional and industrial users to obtain sugar allowances for a two-month period, instead of the one month now permitted.

Housewives have complained that women roomers have been the ones who made the advances, and not their husbands.

Despite the larger number of rooming houses already in operation, Mrs. Hoffman said, Washington is destined to face an even more serious housing problem in the next three months, unless the vast reservoir of rooms in private homes is opened to the ever increasing influx of Government employes.

Owners of many private homes have told her they would be glad to open their doors to the war workers if they could be given assurance that undesirable tenants could be evicted. Existing rent laws prohibit a tenant from eviction as long as he pays his rent and is not guilty of immoral conduct.

To remedy this situation, Mrs. Hoffman has proposed an amendment to the Rent Control Act providing that the owner and the tenant be parties to a written agreement in the form of a simple lease which could be terminated after a week's notice by either party.

The Federation of Citizens' Associations recently gave its indorsement to a similar plan in order, it said, that a "backlog of 50,000 Washington 'homes' might be opened to accommodate the growing population, without putting the owners in a legitimate rooming house business.

Plan Accepted To End Housing Law Violations

Act Providing for Jail Term, Faster Check To Be Drafted

Complete agreement on steps to be taken to correct insanitary housing conditions in the Capital was reached by District officials and representatives of interested groups at a hearing today before a House District Subcommittee.

Action in the subcommittee, headed by Representative D'Alessandro, Democrat, of Maryland, followed a conference Monday attended by the Commissioners, the corporation counsel, representatives of the various District government agencies and representatives of the Washington Housing Association, the Building Congress and the Alley Dwelling Authority.

It was agreed that the Commissioners now have sufficient authority under the basic law of 1892 to issue regulations for the protection of life and health in buildings found to be insanitary or of faulty construction. Some of the present regulations are to be brought up to date and supplemented.

Jail Sentence to Be Provided.

Corporation Counsel Richmond B. Keech is to draft new legislation as soon as possible to supplement these regulations. The proposed act will provide a jail sentence as well as a fine for persistent violators of the housing regulations. A second provision will be designed to speed up correction of insanitary conditions in buildings after inspection.

It was agreed that a central office under direction of the Commissioners and "with constant personnel" would receive all complaints and be responsible for seeing that they were investigated. One inspector would bring in recommendations where insanitary or unsafe conditions are found. If a technical investigation was necessary a specially trained investigator would make supplemental inquiry.

Adequate Funds Urged.

Mrs. Helen Duey Hoffman, a director of the Washington Housing Association, asked whether the central authority would be placed in the Health Department and was told that the Commissioners have not yet decided. Mr. Keech said that it really needed for all those interested in correcting the present situation to get together and obtain appropriations to make an effective inspection possible.

Horace Peaslee, representing the Building Congress, said the proposed legislation not only gives the Commissioners authority, but is a mandate to them since they themselves earlier have had authority since the Act of 1892.

He also argued that the Commissioners should take the initiative in improving conditions and not depend on individuals to make complaints. He said, however, that his organization will be glad to help under the plan and that he believes the present unsatisfactory situation will be corrected as soon as possible.

Six Before Grand Jury On Subversive Literature

Six witnesses appeared today to testify before the special District grand jury investigating subversive literature.

Among them was William Griffin, editor of the New York Enquirer, a weekly, who was held into District Court last week when he claimed he could not remember certain facts about his activities. At that time the court ordered him to refer to his office records to refresh his memory and return to testify today.

Others appearing were Court Asher, Muncie (Ind.) editor of the weekly "The X-ray"; Charles B. Hudson, Omaha (Nebr.) editor of "America in Danger"; E. N. Sanctuary, New York author; John C. Metcalf and Newton Jenkins, both of Chicago.

Eight Appointed To Georgetown Faculty

Father McNamee Is Made Dean Of Arts College

Eight appointments to the Jesuit faculty of Georgetown University, including a new dean of the college of arts and sciences, and the transfer of nine members of the present faculty to assignments elsewhere, were announced last night by the Very Rev. Arthur A. O'Leary, S. J., president.

Orders received from Jesuit provincial headquarters provided for the replacement of the Rev. John E. Gratian, college dean for the last eight years, by the Rev. Stephen P. McNamee, a native of Washington. The latter has been professor of philosophy at the college since 1936 and was reared and educated here.

Dr. Gratian is to become parish priest of St. Ignatius Church in New York City, which is under Jesuit auspices. It is one of the most important Catholic parishes in the East and includes large schools.

The change in the deanship was rather unexpected, although Dr. Gratian has remained here longer than most Georgetown deans. He will not leave for his new duties until after the opening of the next semester July 5 under the accelerated program which he prepared. Some of Georgetown's most important academic improvements were made during his administration.

Dr. Gratian, a native of New York City, taught at Georgetown as a young scholastic. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1926 at Woodstock College, Md. Widely known in educational circles, he served for four years in Rome, Italy, before returning to Georgetown as dean in 1934. In Rome he was secretary to the American assistance of the Jesuit headquarters. Few priests in this country have a better knowledge of Jesuit affairs.

The new dean is a graduate of old Gonzaga College here and was brought up in the parish of St. Aloysius Church. He obtained his A. B. and M. A. degrees from Woodstock College in 1918-19. Dr. McNamee was born November 6, 1895. He entered the Jesuit order in 1912 at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and was ordained June 14, 1923. In that year he was sent to Rome for special studies in dogmatic theology at Gregorian University, receiving a doctor of divinity degree in 1931.

Returning from Rome, Dr. McNamee taught at Woodstock College until 1936, when he joined the Georgetown faculty. In earlier years as a teacher he specialized in Latin, Greek and the English classics at St. Joseph's in Philadelphia. In recent years at Georgetown he has taken an active part in scholastic affairs and was moderator of the Washington Club and director of the Jesuit seminary fund, among other activities. His mother and a brother live in Washington.

Among other appointments at the college is that of the Rev. Edward A. Kerr of Baltimore, to succeed the Rev. David T. Madden as minister of the community. The latter goes to Woodstock College in a similar capacity. Father Madden has been minister since 1939, having come here from Poughkeepsie. His successor at Georgetown is a graduate of Loyola College, Baltimore. For the last four years Father Kerr has been connected with St. Michael's Church, Ridge, Md. He was ordained in 1905 at Woodstock, where he completed his theological studies.

The recent announcement that the Rev. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., director of libraries and archivist is to become rector of the University of Scranton, Pa., has brought about the appointment of a new archivist at the college. He is the Rev. Thomas A. King, who is coming from Our Lady of Martyrs, Auriesville, N. Y. The Rev. Elmer J. Alf, ordained last June at Woodstock, has been named professor of religion. Other appointments include three young Jesuit scholars. They are John M. Daley, history lecturer; Hugo A. Kennedy, English lecturer, and Charles J. Lewis, instructor in mathematics. Mr. Daley is coming from West Baden College in Indiana, and the other two are from Woodstock.

A former Georgetown teacher, the Rev. Gerald P. Yates is returning as professor of political science after an absence of several years. He was studying in Belgium at the start of the war and, returning to this country, he completed graduate studies at Yale University. He taught Latin at Georgetown prior to 1933 and was on the faculty in more recent years. Georgetown loses the services of the Rev. Edward R. Powers, who has been assistant in the seismological

Proposal Likely to Bring Fight at June Session

The question of building Government dormitories for war workers on the Union Station Plaza, according to well founded reports, may come before the National Capital Park and Planning Commission for approval at its June meeting, which opens today.

Such a proposal, if pressed by war agencies, might prove as explosive as the former campaign to erect dormitories on the plaza to convert the inner panel to automobile parking spaces. Despite White House interest in the plan involving the Mail, the commission succeeded after a long fight in diverting dormitories and parking spaces to West Potomac Park areas.

The question of sites for additional dormitories is on the agenda for tomorrow's session. A representative of the Public Building Administration will meet with the commission.

Used in First World War. During the First World War, Government hotels for women were erected on the plaza and were the center of annual controversies until they eventually were torn down to make way for the improvement of the plaza in its present condition. Chairman Frederic Delano, an outright foe of utilizing prominent park areas for temporary war structures, is in the Northwest on a presidential mission dealing with the plans in Alaska.

Reports will be made at today's session of the commission on various zoning amendments, land transfers and highway changes. In connection with zoning, provisions affecting parking areas and commercial adjuncts to hotels will be considered. Recommendations with respect to these have been drawn up. Proposed suggestions for rooming and boarding houses also will come up for action.

A progress report will be made on the plans for the parkway to Suitland, Md., which eventually will serve the employees of the new Government building being erected in the suburb. A site for the new USO building also will be announced.

Whitehurst to Be Heard. Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways, will take up the problem of co-ordinating transportation. The matter, which has become an acute city problem because of the great increase in population, has been before the commission for some time.

At tomorrow's meeting, reports will be made on the legislative status of various District problems. Plans for a new Bureau of Standards building will be studied, as well as matters involving the proposed new State Department Building at Seventeenth street and Pennsylvania avenue N.W. An agreement is sought to expedite the building. John Nolen, director of planning, will report tomorrow on meetings held under the sponsorship of the commission with various war housing agencies to co-ordinate housing with community facilities in the District and nearby Maryland and Virginia. Regional thoroughfare studies made in co-operation with Maryland and Virginia officials also will be considered.

In the absence of Chairman Delano, Vice Chairman A. E. Demary of the National Park Service will preside.

Mount Rainier Votes Ban On Use of Town Trucks

Fraternities, religious and civic organizations in Mount Rainier, Md., no longer will be able to borrow town trucks and other equipment for use at picnics and outings under a ruling passed by the Mayor and Town Council.

The action was taken on the recommendation of Corporation Council Bert E. Sager, who said that the town could be held liable for injuries suffered in accidents involving town equipment.

The council also approved several parking ordinances, including one-hour parking on Perry street between Thirty-fourth and Thirty-fifth streets; no parking on the east side of Thirty-second street from Perry street to Shepherd road, and reserved parking for buses on Rainier avenue from Thirty-fourth street north to the alley on that street.

Authorization was given for the paving of a small section of Upton street to complete its connection with the Kaywood Gardens Apartments. Payment of $750 for condemned property at Twenty-eighth street and Taylor avenue also was authorized.

ARLINGTON AUXILIARY POLICE INSPECTION BEFORE BLACKOUT—Heads of the Arlington County Police Department and commanding officers of auxiliary units conducted a last-minute inspection before the 63 auxiliaries reported for duty before last night's blackout. Auxiliary Sergt. Russel A. Stevens

Earlier the three auxiliary units lined up beside the county courthouse for dress inspection. Another class of 32 auxiliary policemen now are being trained. All of the graduates have completed a 20-hour first-aid course and 10 hours of special police instruction. Eventually the auxiliaries will number 100. The auxiliaries assisted in foot patrol and with traffic last night. —Star Staff Photos.

Decision Is Due Today In Alexandria Trailer Camp Controversy

Judge Reopens Court To Make Inspection After Hearing Evidence

By a Staff Correspondent of The Star. ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 18.—A verdict will be rendered today in the case of Mrs. Nellie Grissom, owner of the Martha Washington Trailer Camp, who is charged with violating 11 sections of the city's trailer ordinance.

After nearly three hours of testimony yesterday, Associate Judge Harry F. Kennedy of Police Court took the case under advisement and recessed to make a personal inspection of the camp.

Through Attorneys J. Randolph H. Davis and Paul Delaney, a member of the City Council, Mrs. Grissom contended she had made every effort to comply with the regulations but had been unable to do so because a survey, allegedly promised by city officials, had never been made. As a result, she said, she had been unable to obtain the required permits for alterations.

Dr. W. A. Brown, city health officer, the chief complaining witness, said he had made several inspections of the camp and had made several complaints to Mrs. Grissom. He declared electric wiring with exposed light sockets was found on the ground. He said Mrs. Grissom had refused permission for the survey.

Mrs. Grissom told the court Dr. Brown had refused to give her a permit to make improvements and declared she had been unable to obtain approval of a proposed incinerator to dispose of trash and garbage.

Mr. Davis called attention to an ordinance provision giving older camps 90 days to comply with its provisions, and said the city had refused to apply it in Mrs. Grissom's case. "I don't know what kind of politics is involved in that," he said.

City Attorney Armistead Boothe, prosecutor, said there was no question of the city not co-operating but that the case "is the most willful and hard-headed violation I have encountered."

Md. U. Has Prize Holstein

The University of Maryland owns a registered Holstein cow, Spring-syke Philly Jennie, which now has a record of producing more than three times the average amount of butterfat given by the average dairy cow. "Jennie" set up a record of 556 pounds of butterfat from 16,777 pounds of milk.

Director of Housing Association Dissatisfied With New Code

Finds Shortcomings in Rooming House Rules For Bathrooms and Reception Facilities

The second of a series of articles on the District of Columbia rooming house problem.

By JAMES E. CHINN. New regulations promulgated by the Commissioners to govern sanitary and living conditions in Washington's congested rooming and boarding houses "are a step in the right direction but they don't go far enough," according to Mrs. Helen Ducey Hoffman, director of the Washington Housing Association.

From her own observations and from numerous complaints made to the organization by aggrieved Government war workers who, because of the acute housing shortage, have been forced to tolerate conditions in the rooming houses in which they live, she thinks some improvements could be made in the new code.

Overcrowding will be reduced to a certain extent by a regulation forbidding the use of any room for sleeping purposes which does not have at least 50 square feet of floor space per person. More adequate and up-to-date sanitary facilities also are required, but even these, in Mrs. Hoffman's experienced opinion, will fail to contribute all the essential elements of a contented life to a war worker away from home.

Entertainment Problem. Ten persons for every bathroom, as allowed in the new regulations, is regarded as too many persons, especially in houses in which nearly all the roomers go to work at the same time, or where women predominate. Women, as a rule, it is said, spend nearly twice as much time in a bathroom as a man, because they wash their own garments, while a man will send all his soiled garments to a laundry.

Mrs. Hoffman believes, too, that something should be done for the girl who wants to entertain, and the answer might be in permitting guests in the bedrooms until a "reasonable" hour so long as the door remains open. "Some of the rooming houses do not allow girls to entertain boy friends," she said. "Some others only allow the boy friends as far as the reception rooms, and in a big rooming house the reception rooms are usually crowded with other guests. The girls have no privacy. You know the result? Clandestine meetings elsewhere. Many of these Government girls are young—some are probably looking for husbands—and I do think a concession to them which would allow visitors in their rooms with the doors open would be a big contribution to their welfare and happiness."

Rule to Reduce Thefts. One of Mrs. Hoffman's minor complaints against rooming houses is removed in the new code—a regulation requiring a lock and a key for each room used for sleeping purposes. This, she pointed out, will reduce the number of wholesale thefts which have occurred in recent months. Cases have been reported to the police, she said, in which burglars have ransacked nearly every room in room-

Annapolis Color Girl Arrives to Honor Winning Company

Flag to Be Presented Late Today; Midshipmen Graduate Tomorrow

By the Associated Press. ANNAPOLIS, June 18.—Beauty took its place today in the June week program at the Naval Academy when Miss Ruth Helena Reed of Madawaska, Me., made her appearance for the color presentation ceremony.

The presentation will honor both Miss Reed and the academy's outstanding 12th Company in a prelude to tomorrow's finale—actual graduation. It is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. The regimental dress parade will precede the presentation of colors to the winning company in regimental review and award ceremony.

The color girl, chosen by the midshipman commander of the winning company, will make the presentation of the national colors and the regimental flag to the company commander.

Yesterday's program included a full-dress parade by the 2,500 midshipmen prior to the presentation of awards. A crowd of visiting parents, sweethearts and friends was permitted to witness the spectacle, along with veteran officers.

The review and award ceremony were followed by Admiral and Mrs. J. R. Beardall's garden party, given by the academy superintendent and his wife for seniors.

The youngsters (third class) held their hop last night. Houses have complained that women roomers have been the ones who made the advances, and not their husbands. Despite the larger number of rooming houses already in operation, Mrs. Hoffman said Washington is destined to face an even more serious housing problem in the next three months, unless the vast reservoir of rooms in private homes is opened to the ever increasing influx of Government employees. Owners of many private homes have told her they would be glad to open their doors to the war workers if they could be given assurance that undesirable tenants could be evicted. Existing rent laws protect a tenant from eviction as long as he pays his rent and is not guilty of immoral conduct.

To remedy this situation, Mrs. Hoffman has proposed an amendment to the Rent Control Act providing that the owner and the tenant be parties to a written agreement in the form of a simple lease which could be terminated after a week's notice by either party.

The Federation of Citizens' Associations recently gave its indorsement to a similar plan in order, it said, that a "backlog of 50,000 Washington homes" might be opened to accommodate the growing population, without putting the owners in a legitimate rooming house business.

Fairfax Orders $5,000 Police Radio System

Alexandria Company Given Contract to Install Equipment

Special Dispatch to The Star. FAIRFAX, Va., June 18.—Installation of a two-way radio system for the police department was approved yesterday by the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors.

The board accepted a contract submitted by Frank C. Mallinson of Alexandria to install equipment for radio communication between police headquarters and the six patrol cars operated by the county. The cost for the system will be $5,000.

Regulations for administration and disbursement of the $3,000 fund in the new county budget for hospitalization of indigent persons also were adopted.

A medically indigent person is defined as one who lives in the county for at least one year immediately preceding the filing of an application for aid. The resources of the applicant or of the head of his family must be such that he is unable to pay for hospitalization.

Except in cases of emergency, patients must be referred by a doctor for hospitalization, and the matter is then handled by the County Public Welfare Department or the Health Security Administration. The new regulations will serve to clear up misunderstandings on eligibility for hospitalization that have caused considerable complication in the past.

A resolution, asking Gov. Darden to reappoint Howard C. Rogers of Hamilton, in Culpeper construction district, a member of the State Highway Commission for another term, also was adopted by the board.

Thomas I. Piggott of Lee district was named a member of the County Board of Zoning Appeals to take the place of the late Mrs. Annie F. Staub. Kenneth Dove of Lorton, who previously has been appointed to fill the vacancy, advised the board he could not accept because he is employed by the District Government.

Virginia to Curb Funds Allowed for City Streets

By the Associated Press. RICHMOND, June 18.—The State Highway Department shortly will notify cities in Virginia that construction funds which also serve as State highways will continue to be made during 1942-3, but that unless conditions improve no construction funds will be approved in 1944-5.

The action was taken by the State Highway Commission on the recommendation of Brig. Gen. James A. Anderson.

Gen. Anderson told the commissioners that the cities are unable to obtain materials for such work, but are asking that the funds be approved and held until the emergency is over.

He recommended that for the coming fiscal year beginning July 1 $500 a mile be approved for cities requesting the allocation and be held until such time as they could use it.

Fairfax Will Issue Job Permits for Minors

Special Dispatch to The Star. FAIRFAX, Va., June 18.—Division Supt. W. T. Woodson has announced Mrs. Alda R. Mack, juvenile worker, will be in the School Board office from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. each Monday and Thursday to issue employment permits for minors.

Mrs. Mack stated those seeking work permits must present a birth certificate and show they have definite employment in view. Those 18 years of age and under are affected by the regulation.

Mrs. Anne Beall Leaves Securities to Sister

Special Dispatch to The Star. ROCKVILLE, Md., June 18.—Under the will of Mrs. Ann L. M. Beall of Chevy Chase, which has been admitted to probate in the Orphans' Court here, her sister, Roxanna Mapp Walker, receives all stocks, bonds and cash. The home at 6710 Brookville road, Chevy Chase, is to be sold and the net proceeds divided equally between Pendleton Beall and Grace Beall Everett, children of Col. F. F. M. Beall, late husband of the testatrix, and the residue goes equally to Cornelia Walker Groves and Virginia Walker Dawson, nieces of the testatrix. Pendleton Beall is named executor. The will, executed July 13, 1937, does not indicate the value of the estate.

Official Parties Continue To Mark Social Calendar

Agent General of India and Lady Bajpai To Be Hosts at Garden Fete Today

Official entertaining continues to high light the social news in the Capital. With the exception of very small and informal get-togethers among the residential set, parties without a purpose or those not centering around a noted visitor are scarce indeed.

This afternoon, however, all circles of society will be included among the guests at the garden party to be given by the Agent General of India, Sir Girja Shankar Bajpai, and Lady Bajpai. The function will be given at 2700 Macomb street, the house of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Schoellkopf that Sir Girja and Lady Bajpai and their family are occupying. Guests have been invited for 5:30 o'clock and assisting the hosts will be their daughters, Miss Crishna Bajpai and Miss Bhagwati Bajpai.

Two distinguished gentlemen from Cuba are taking their share of the limelight just now. Today, the Chief of the Division of Cultural Relations of the Ministry of Education of Cuba, Dr. Pedro Viller, and Dr. Pedro Cue, publisher of El Mundo, one of Havana's leading newspapers, shared honors at a luncheon at the Pan-American Annex. The director general of the union, Dr. Leo S. Rowe, was the host and included among the guests was the Ambassador of Cuba, Senor Dr. Aurelio F. Conchoso. Others present were the chief of the Division of International Communications of the State Department, Mr. Thomas Burke; the chief of the Division of Intellectual Co-operation of the Pan-American Union, Mrs. Concha Romero James; Mr. Charles A. Thomson, Dr. Richard Pattee of the Division of Cultural Relations of the State Department, Mr. William H. Lander and Mr. Alburn D. West.

Dr. Cue and Mrs. Cue, who is accompanying him on his tour of this country, were feted at luncheon yesterday by Mr. Thomson of the State Department. The affair was given at the Mayflower Hotel, and as at the luncheon today Mrs. James was also included among the other guests, who were all men. In the party were the Cuban Ambassador, Senator Tom Connally, Representative Louis C. Rabaut, Dr. Rowe, Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, Mr. Harry Frantz and Mr. Francis A. Jamieson of the Office of the Co-ordinator of Inter-American Affairs; Dr. Pattee, Mr. John BEGG, Mr. Arturo Morales, Mr. E. Foster, and Mr. Michael McDermott, all of the State Department; Mr. West, Mr. Lander and Mr. Jack Beardwood.

Dr. Cue is a former member of the Cuban Senate and will spend six weeks in this country as the guest of the State Department. His paper has for many years maintained an editorial policy of friendship with the United States and of inter-American co-operation.

Dr. Viller was formerly Secretary of Education of his country. While in this country he will visit leading schools and universities as a basis for a report to his government on educational methods in the United States.

Another luncheon on yesterday's calendar was that given by the President of the Philippine Commonwealth, Mr. Manuel Quezon, at the Mayflower Hotel.

The honor guest on this occasion was Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, assistant chief of staff for operations. The two have been friends since Gen. Eisenhower's tour of duty in the Philippines, where he served with Gen. Douglas MacArthur in developing the Philippine Army. Others present yesterday included the Philippine Vice President, Sergio Osmeña, the Assistant Secretary of the Interior, Mr. Harold I. Ickes; the Philippine Resident Commissioner, Joaquin M. Elizalde; the Philippine Auditor General, Mr. Jaime Hernandez; Maj. Gen. B. J. Valdes, Brig. Gen. Thomas T. Handy, Gen. James A. Ulio, Col. Charles K. Galley, Col. T. J. Davis, Col. A. T. Wilson, Col. Oscar B. Abbott, Col. John R. Deane, Col. M. Nieto, also Lt. Col. A. Soriano, Lt. Col. K. Velasquez, Lt. Col. Alejandro Melchor, Maj. C. Menzies, Lt. A. Madrigal, the Assistant Secretary of the Interior, Mr. Oscar Chapman; Messrs. Wayne Cov, A. D. Williams, Richard Ely, Weldon Jones, Frank Waring, Mariano Erana, Dr. A. Trepp, Dr. B. Lino, Dr. Arturo B. Rotor, Messrs. U. Zaira, Juan Torenza, J. Barretto, M. Erana, Dr. A. Trepp, Dr. B. Lino, Bernardo de Guila, Cayetano C. Nagac, Gervasio G. Sese, Tirso N. Santos, Nolasco S. Icarangal, Abdon Senteno, Eustaquio de Leon, Eugenio M. Fonbuena, Agapito Balduen, Israel Mathay, Osmundo R. Manie, Emilio B. Butuyan, Leo Gardner and James Wingo.

Brides of Week Are High Light Of Calendar

Miss Mabel Connor And Mr. B. L. Updike Are Married

The Rev. William Holder officiated at the marriage at 8 o'clock Monday evening of Miss Mabel Connor and Mr. Bernard L. Updike, which took place in the Centennial Baptist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. J. N. Hellwig, and Mr. Updike is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Updike.

Mr. E. K. Payne, grandfather of the bride, escorted her to the altar and gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of white mousseline de soie and lace with a tulle veil held by a Mary Queen of Scots cap and carried a bouquet of gardenias and roses.

Miss Catherine Dove was the maid of honor, and she wore orchid mousseline de soie and lace and carried an arm bouquet of spring flowers. Miss Anita Harte, Mrs. Harry Travis, Mrs. Francis Gett and Mrs. Russell Ricker were the other attendants. They were costumed in yellow marquisette and the bride's parents, the Rev. H. W. Burgan, pastor of the Hamline Methodist Church, officiated.

Mrs. Brundage will make her home with her parents while Mr. Brundage is on duty.

Miss Frances Smith Becomes Bride

The marriage of Miss Frances Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac A. Smith of Ashton, Md., to Mr. Joseph Edward Fisher of Rockville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Fisher, took place June 10 in the St. Louis Church of Clarksville, Md.

Red roses and gypsophila decorated the altar for the ceremony, at which the Rev. J. J. Leary officiated, assisted by the Rev. Michael Eagan of Clarksville Parish, the Rev. Thomas McKew of Rockville Parish and the Rev. Frank Leary of Hagerstown Parish.

A wedding breakfast following the 10 o'clock ceremony was given on the lawn of the home of the bride's parents, following which Mr. and Mrs. Fisher left for Manhattan, Kans., where they will make their home.

Miss Sue Brown And A. J. Morris Wed in Arlington

The marriage of Miss Sue Marcia Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian M. Brown of Arlington, to Mr. Albert Joseph Morris, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Morris, also of Arlington, took place Tuesday evening, June 2, in the St. Charles Catholic Church in Arlington.

Mr. Brown escorted his daughter to the altar for the 7 o'clock ceremony, at which the Rev. Richard Beattie officiated, and she wore an attractively styled dress of white organdy with a full bodice trimmed with pearl buttons, full sleeves and a full skirt. Her veil fell from a cap of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Joseph Herbert Carr was the matron of honor and Mr. George C. Brown was best man for the bridegroom. Mr. Salvatore Caffi and Mr. Garman Donegan served as ushers.

When Mr. and Mrs. Morris left for a wedding trip the bride was wearing a turquoise blue suit with white accessories and corsage of gardenias. On their return they will be at home at 5834 North Second street, Arlington.

MISS MARGARET MILLER. She will wed Mr. Emil Krochmal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Krochmal of Elizabeth, N. J., in October. Her engagement has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Miller.

Recent Marriages of Interest In Washington Social Circles

The marriage of Miss Marjorie Abbie Snowden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leavitt Snowden of Chevy Chase, U. S. A., son of Mrs. D. Earle Brundage and the late Mr. Brundage, took place last Friday afternoon in the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. H. W. Burgan, pastor of the Hamline Methodist Church, officiated.

Mrs. Brundage will make her home with her parents while Mr. Brundage is on duty.

Patrick's Episcopal Chapel. The Rev. E. F. Warren performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white marquisette gown and carried white roses and orchids.

Her maid of honor, Miss Florence O'Brien, was gowned in green marquisette and her Colonial bouquet was of garden flowers. She wore a headress of miniature garden flowers.

Miss Kay Magdeburger was the bridesmaid, wearing a flesh-colored gown matching that of the maid of honor.

Lt. David S. Parker, U. S. A., was best man, and the ushers were Capt. C. E. Robinson, Capt. Charles A. Noto and Lt. E. Thorman.

Following the ceremony a reception was given at the home of the bride's parents.

Chevy Chase Women Collect Gifts for Army

Donations Range From Cookies to A Piano

Donations ranging from a piano to cookies and candy were collected by the Woman's Club of Chevy Chase yesterday during its observance of "Army Contribution Day" set by the War Service Committee to initiate a project for the benefit of servicemen stationed in and around Washington.

The committee's appeal for articles which might add to the comfort and recreation of servicemen brought scores of donors to the clubhouse, while many others telephoned promises of contributions too heavy to carry.

Mrs. Edgar F. Fowler, war service chairman, said the articles will be distributed through the Home Hospitality Committee in order to avoid a duplicate organization.

Collections will be continued throughout the summer, with a section of the clubhouse set aside for contributions.

In addition to the piano, musical instruments turned in included at least eight Victrolas and several banjos and ukuleles. Several radios also were received.

Hundreds of books and magazines, and numerous sets of playing cards, Chinese checkers and other games were collected.

A special appeal for athletic equipment received a generous response, while pieces of comfortable furniture also were promised.

Probably the most unusual gift was a wool flag which formerly belonged to Dr. Dorsey M. McPherson, who was donated by Mrs. Harry F. Lowe.

Mrs. McPherson, who served as an Army surgeon, was made commander of the Order of Indian Wars shortly before his death.

The Chevy Chase Junior Woman's Club is making plans to assist in the collections, Mrs. Fowler said.

Short Aluminum Strike Cancels Heroes' Visit

DETROIT, June 18.—A short-lived strike at the plant of the Aluminum Co. of America here yesterday forced cancellation of a program honoring visiting British and American war heroes.

Five of the heroes were to have visited the plant, engaged on war production, and workers were to have gathered about a platform to hear brief speeches congratulating them on their production efforts.

However, the plant was closed after some of the employees quit work at 8 p.m. Tuesday, and the flag-decorated platform remained empty yesterday.

At the urging of leaders of the Aluminum Workers of America (CIO), a State labor conciliator and an Army Air Force procurement officer, the strikers voted yesterday afternoon to return to work, and partial production was resumed at 4 p.m. The plant employs 2,300 men.

The Alcoa strikers said they were protesting "against the refusal of the company to negotiate a new contract."

Two DAR Chairmen Selected; Tri Deltas Plan Outing

It wasn't a pre-arranged "swap," but Mrs. Edgar B. Meritt and Mrs. Lee R. Pennington will be exchanging places on the Radio Committee of the District Daughters of the American Revolution during the coming year.

Mrs. Pennington served as chairman during the past two-year administration while Mrs. Meritt was one of the vice chairmen. Their positions will be reversed next season.

Mrs. Meritt has had extensive experience in radio work, having served as radio chairman of the District Federation of Women's Clubs for six years and in the same capacity with the General Federation for three years. She also heads the Radio Committee for the Moving Picture Council and for some months had her own program, "A Woman Looks at a World of Books" over Station WINX.

Mrs. Geoffrey Creyke, State regent of the District DAR, who announced Mrs. Meritt's appointment, also announced that Mrs. Charles A. Waldron would head the DAR Junior American Citizens next year.

Because of blackouts, gas rationing and other transportation difficulties Chapter B of the PEO Sisterhood has decided to hold only daytime meetings for the duration. In the past, one night session has been held each month.

Although the sisterhood's program is suspended during summer months, members of all the local chapters continue to gather each Tuesday at Walsh Mansion for Red Cross work under the supervision of Mrs. Kenneth R. Jacob.

Gas rationing has affected the programs of many local clubs, but it hasn't canceled plans of the Washington Alliance of Delta Delta Delta to hold its annual spring picnic.

Members waited until reservations could be arranged for a picnic area located near a bus line before setting the picnic date.

The event is now scheduled for 5 p.m. tomorrow in area No. 23 in Rock Creek Park, near Sixteenth street and Colorado avenue N.W.

During the afternoon the alliance president, Miss Vera Schanche, who was a delegate to the sorority's international convention in Chicago last week, will make an informal report on the parley.

After losing Miss Margaret Lunn to the Greffenburg Inn near Gettysburg, the clubhouse of the American Association of University Women has Mrs. Wilhelmina J. M. Hamilton as its new manager.

Mrs. Hamilton, who took over her duties this week, formerly managed the Little Gray House in Columbus, Ohio. She also is a former resident of Cleveland.

Miss Lunn had been with the A. A. U. W. club for 13 years and was honored at a tea given by the Washington branch before she left.

Paris People Waved, Huns Ran, British Flyer Says After Flight

LONDON, June 18.—Flight Lt. A. K. Gatward said last night Paris "looked exactly as I imagined it" when he swooped down last Friday to drop the tricolor on the Arc de Triomphe and sail daringly down the Champs Elysees to the bafflement of the Germans and the delight of the French.

Like many a tourist, Lt. Gatward had "studied a lot of guidebooks and photographs" before he set out, he said in a broadcast, describing the flight of his Beaufighter.

"Our visit lasted only five or six minutes, but I'd like to see it (the city) again and see it on foot." He used the Eiffel Tower for bearings to guide him to the Arc de Triomphe, where he dropped the flag "weighted and folded so it would stream as soon as released."

"One of the things we wanted to look at particularly was the Ministry of Marine because it was crammed with Huns and we had something for them," he continued. "We came in as low as we dared and let fly with our four cannon at about 500 yards and I saw sparks fly off the building. A good deal went through the windows. We sprayed the place from base to apex and dropped our second flag. "We saw military cars stopped in the streets with Huns standing by them or dodging around trees in the avenue. We couldn't let fly at them because there were too many civilians about... of whom most were waving at us."

"One very fat Hun shook his fist." The French who waved recognized the RAF symbol on the wings. The Air Ministry News Service said Lt. Gatward at one stage of the flight crossed a German airplane on a rooftop gun post on the outskirts of Paris, but that otherwise "it was like a peacetime flight."

Duchess Greets Windsor At New York Airport

NEW YORK, June 18.—The Duke of Windsor greeted his Duchess with a hearty "Hello, darling," as she embraced him when he landed yesterday at La Guardia field by Navy transport plane from Washington.

The Duke and Duchess inspected some airplanes, including a German Messerschmitt, which are making a tour of the country as part of the War bond drive.

The Duke was accompanied from Washington by Sidney Farrington, a member of the Executive Council in the Bahamas, and Humphrey Clarke of the British Embassy. Mr. Clarke said the Duke planned to stay here two or three days to discuss labor and economic questions concerning the Bahamas.

Mrs. D. M. Hynes New President of Creative Arts Club

Mrs. Dora Mae Hynes is the new president of the Creative Arts Club, having been installed with other officers this week in a candle-lighting ceremony conducted by Mrs. Noble Will. She succeeded Mrs. Gladys Maxon Martin.

Miss Jane Pitkin is the new first vice president; Mrs. A. L. Young, second vice president; Mrs. Lalah Ayres, recording secretary; Mrs. Isabelle Mitchell, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Nol Marshall, historian.

Mrs. Hynes has announced the following chairmen for the coming season: Mrs. Laura M. Cosby, custodian of the flag; Mrs. Mary Perkins Snyder, pianist; Mrs. Lila Leder, program; Mrs. Bertha M. Hoover, art; Mrs. Ada Davidson, drama; Mrs. Elizabeth E. Hallett, music; Mrs. Angie Weaver Wright, literature; Mrs. Collis Huntington Allen, membership; Mrs. Ruby Tracy, special choir music; Mrs. Blanche McKnight, publicity, and Miss Virginia Harrison, hospitality.

The installation was conducted at a garden party for members and their husbands at Mrs. Wright's home in Arlington, Va. The program included an original reading by Mrs. Winifred Houghton, writer and traveler, and some of the original work of members of the workshop group headed by Mrs. Wright.

Defense Labor Inquiry Opens at Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 18.—The President's Committee on Fair Labor Practices came here today to open a three-day hearing of charges that Negroes have not been given equal opportunity with whites in war work.

Twelve Southeastern producers of war materials, defense training authorities and labor organizations have been named in complaints to come before the group headed by Dr. Malcolm S. MacLean, Hampton Institute, chairman.

Opening of the hearing was arranged for this morning, but committee members said charges in the first case on the docket—against Vultee Aircraft, Inc., and National Defense Training Authority, both of Nashville, Tenn.—would not be heard until the afternoon.

After Dark

News and Comment of the Night Clubs.
By the Spectator.

Last night must be termed not a major victory, but a strategic consolidation of position by the night clubs and taverns of the town. There was a blackout outside, but no blackout inside. A quick downtown tour found headwaiters and managers, almost to a man, in the firm glow of a mixed mood—happy because business was so much better than they pessimistically had expected and unhappy because there were empty tables.

you be warned. This reporter, who ought to know the pathways of the night hereabouts, left the Lotus, which has been where it is for 14 years and 4 months, and had one heck of a time during the 30-minute complete blackout, finding the Madrilion, which has been where it is for 14 years and 6 months.

May we ask a
Do you sleep well? Whether you do or not has an important bearing on your health. If you don't, I can tell you the probable reason—and the sure remedy.
Chances are you are not sleeping on the proper Mattress and Springs. I'm not talking about the quality; but the design. There is very definitely such a thing as correct fit in Mattress and Springs—and if you'll put it up to us we'll see that you get what is CORRECT for YOU. Pays two ways—better health and comfort.

Contact With Enemy Subs Laid to Pleasure Boats
By the Associated Press.
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 18.—Vice Admiral Robert R. Waesche, commandant of the Coast Guard, disclosed yesterday that some pleasure and fishing craft had made contact with enemy submarines.
Replying to a protest by the Atlantic City Tuna Club against the 12-mile ocean limit for sport and commercial boats, Admiral Waesche said in Washington:
"It has been our policy to play ball as far as possible with pleasure and fishing craft without jeopardizing the national interest, but we must make sure that no contact is made with enemy submarines."
"We know such contacts have been made and we can't be too careful. Some sacrifices will have to be made. We like to co-operate as fully as possible with commercial fishermen who go out to make a living, but as for pleasure craft going to open sea, restrictions will have to be enforced."

The season is that of Mischa Bess, who gave up his last job, that of gently strumming a bass fiddle in the Troika orchestra, to put to work some ideas of his own about night clubs and the mood Muscovite. The idea emerged as the Balalaika and the success has been so notable that Mr. Bess is planning now to close during August—not because business is slackening off with the advent of heat, but merely because every one in the place needs a vacation and it's easier to do it on a wholesale scale. One secret of Mr. Bess' success in Washington may lie in the fact that he has had, as is pointed out in a brochure describing the Balalaika, years of experience "both in Russia and Hollywood." It seems somehow just the background to prepare a man for the Capital's cabaret life. At any rate, Mr. Bess whips up monthly a bright entertainment at his Balalaika which combines some of the best features of both Hollywood and Russia—colorful as a film and spontaneous lively enough to be the work of some of the unrestrained Leo Tost who has been a figure in local night life for a considerable time, back into the days when he looked suavely over the affairs of the long departed and now lamented Heigh Ho Club, is happier now than he has been in some days. Reason: "70c is the rate of a hotel at Hotel 2400 and lately has been without a headwaiter in the Lounge Riviera and with Pete Macias' music drawing crowds that pack the place on slow nights, Leo has been a harassed gent. But now he has imported from the Versailles at Miami Beach the one-time headwaiter there, Theodore. So Leo's happy and Theodore probably knew half the lounge customers before he arrived, so they're happy. . . It is, whether he ever told anybody or not, the notion of Al Norton, Merry Land maestro, that nostalgia is a handy thing to have around to keep the customers in a proper mood. So Mr. Norton lets the other boys play today's tunes to death, generously sprinkling the notes of one, two, five, maybe 10 years ago over the Merry-Land air from the young. It's paying off, too, the spot being another of those in town which, if it isn't always filled, will be as soon as one takes those last three chairs. . . Somebody may have this story all wrong, but if our information is correct, the conga line at the Cross Roads was the most surprised conga line in this vicinity the other night, when the orchestra got tired of playing before the dancers got tired of dancing. The conga finally wound itself into a neat circle in the floor, when the young chap acting as master of ceremonies, whose name the spy didn't catch, stepped up and asked "Are you through?" No answer forthcoming, he said, "All right, sit down." Thinking of some gay little game was coming, the conga line sat down on the floor—as one conga dancer, "Okay," smiled the m. c., "that's all." And the band walked off the stand, leaving the sitting congaists stranded.

Wanted: One guest of honor. Must be beautiful, feminine and a native Californian now living in Washington. Applicants and friends who would like to suggest applicants, get in touch with Paul Kain, the Glen Echo Spanish Ball Room band leader. Save Gasoline
Fifteen thousand gallons of gasoline is what it takes to drive an Army mechanized division just 100 miles.
By pre-Pearl Harbor figures, it would take you 23 years to use up 15,000 gallons of gasoline in your automobile.
There's a lot of difference between that 50 miles to the beach and 50 miles back, and the 100 miles between ruined Rotterdam and the Nazi arsenal at Dusseldorf.

FOR VICTORY—BUY MORE AND MORE U. S. WAR BONDS AND STAMPS

Meal planners these days are discovering all sorts of new ways in which cheese—one of the foods stressed in the national program of better nutrition—may be used. These delicious cheese soufflé sandwiches, supplemented by the rich, vitamin-packed ripe olives, form an appealing and wholesome main dish for supper or luncheon. Inexpensive, too! See recipe below.

Berry Season Is Upon Us, But Few Go for Canning

Sugar Restrictions Seen Dimming Housewives Preserving Ardor; Vegetables Are Plentiful

By Betsy Caswell, Women's News Editor.

The berry season is on with a bang at last—blackberries, red raspberries, black raspberries, currants, blueberries—both large and small—and even youngberries are available in local markets. The last mentioned seem to be vastly overrated—just a cross between a blackberry and a red raspberry, retaining none of the virtues of either. Several fruit dealers when questioned on preserving activity this year as compared to normal times, said that it was practically non-existent. "Women stop," one of them said sadly, "and look at the currants and things fit to break your heart. Then they shake their heads and kinda smile, and say there's no use even wishing, with the sugar situation as it is." This bears out what we said in these columns some time ago—that few women will find the allotment of sugar for canning and preserving sufficient to make it worth their trouble to do the work.

As a matter of fact, the majority of women have taken the sugar rationing philosophically, and in good faith. They have abided by the rationing rules, and made the best of what to many of them is a really difficult situation. But one hears murmurs of protest among them against the veil of confusion that is being drawn over the picture by conflicting reports being issued by spokesmen presumed to know whereof they speak. It is hard to keep from drawing a comparison with Aesop's fable of the boy who cried "Wolf" too often when no wolf was there. No one paid any attention when the wolf did make his appearance. And that isn't a healthy setup for anyone—particularly a nation at war, whose people may be called upon to face a real "wolf" with no warning. It would help the women on the household front a lot if the facts and figures given us were consistent.

To return to the markets—cantaloupes are especially good this year, although still somewhat high in price. Red plums from California have arrived, along with the best cherries from that State and the Northwest that we have seen in years. Peaches are pretty to look at, but still on the hard side, and almost all are of the clingstone variety. Watermelons are in, all along the water front, as well as in some uptown stores.

The new crop of potatoes, and the recent "victory food special" on onions, have leveled prices on those two commodities to a more reasonable scale. Corn from North Carolina, snap beans from New Jersey, green celery, squash, green cabbage, tomatoes, okra and broccoli are to be recommended. Cauliflower is very poor this week, in most places. Asparagus is still a good buy, as are peas and spinach.

Rib roasts of beef, chuck roasts and other cuts of beef will be attractively priced for the week end, with some lamb and veal on the bargain counters. Poultry is a little higher than it has been, but there are plenty of plump chickens, ducks and squabs for your selection. The squabs are very reasonable just now, by the way, so if you like them and usually have to pass them by, now is your chance to indulge, without damaging the budget.

Jumbo soft shell crabs are in, too—one apiece is plenty, they are so big. Good clams and lobsters are also recommended, with plenty of fresh fish from nearby waters selling at most reasonable prices.

HERE AND THERE: The makers of one of your favorite gingerbread mixes will shortly have ready for distribution a neat little paper folder designed to fit your ration books. . . . In his new book just published by Bobbs-Merrill Co. Dr. Morris Fishbein constantly mentions and recommends the use of enriched bread. He points out that enriched bread is now being furnished to the men in our fighting forces and suggests that the housewife should be encouraged to purchase enriched bread and flour for her home consumption. . . . A standard "ready-made" refrigerator dessert that has been a favorite hereabouts for years, has come out in a new package, with suggestions for many new recipes in which the basic mix is an ingredient. . . . Don't forget that the next Victory Food Special is to be tomatoes, for the week beginning June 29, through July 4. . . . Do your share in the Government's plan of food conservation by making use of all the tomatoes you can during that time. Spread the news around, too. . . . OPA says no more frills on the curtains, and save every pin and needle you own, for the duration. . . . How about the rubber around your house? Think you've collected every bit of it and turned it in? Don't overlook the toy or games closet, there are often unsuspected stores of usable rubber tucked away on its shelves. And how about that rubber bath pillow you thought was going to be so comfortable, and really turned out a nuisance? Keep looking, Uncle Sam needs the works!

Lemon Mayonnaise Is Good Dressing for Fresh Fruit Salad

When it's really hot what will taste better than a cooling fruit plate?

This fresh and colorful arrangement of fruits and a variety of greens is sufficient for a meal—with perhaps a dessert and a beverage. Moreover, it is full of vitamins and will do wonders toward keeping up spirits and vitality when the humidity takes you down!

For each plate slice one large or two smaller summer oranges; the new crop has plenty of the larger sizes which are to be desired for salads. Half a cantaloupe filled with melon balls and strawberries or other berries in season; half an avocado with a few grapefruit segments; a lemon quarter to bring out the flavor of the avocado, and a few mixed greens, such as romaine and chicory—your plate is done.

If you have never tried LEMON MAYONNAISE with your fruit salads you have missed something. Here is a simple and excellent recipe for this dressing:

- 1 egg or 2 egg yolks.
 - ¼ cup lemon juice.
 - 1 teaspoon mustard.
 - 1 teaspoon salt.
 - 1 tablespoon sugar.
 - Dash of pepper or paprika.
 - 2 cups salad oil.
- Beat the egg or egg yolks, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and seasonings thoroughly. Add the salad oil very slowly until mixture begins to get very thick; then add remaining lemon juice. Gradually beat in the rest of the oil and continue beating until well combined. Yield, about 2½ cups.

Liver is just one of several meat sundries that are chockful of food elements that are so good for you that they almost equal the mythical Fountain of Youth! Have calf's liver sliced three-fourth of an inch thick, roll in seasoned flour, brown in very little fat, reduce temperature and continue cooking until liver is just done—about three minutes on each side. Serve immediately with crisp bacon. Further suggestions for other meat "extras" will be found below.

Meat 'Sundries' Important Because of Food Value

Today we're concentrating on one of the kinds of food that will help keep your teeth and skin and hair healthy: feed your hungry nerves, and just generally help to stave off biological old age. We mean those less everyday meats: Kidney, liver, heart, sweetbreads.

Some people call these meats "sundries"; some call them "glandular meats," and others call them "meat extras." "You pay your money and you take your choice"; but our own personal money goes down on the name "meat extras." For why? For because they really are "extra" in food value.

Take liver, for example, one serving will give you a day's double supply of protection for teeth, skin and hair—of Vitamin A, in short. It will give you a lot of Vitamin B, too, with Vitamin B2, also called Vitamin G—the nerve-health, youth-preserving vitamin. And liver gives you that all important iron. You've heard about that, of course.

Kidney is rich in the same vitamins as liver and just one serving will supply a nice little dose of iron—more than half of your daily quota. Sweetbreads contain some vitamin A and the precious vitamin B complex, and enough iron so that from a single serving you'll get one-sixth of the iron you need from a day's food rations. And don't look down your gourmet's nose at a nice dish of heart. It makes swell eating, and it provides a goodly amount of the vital elements found in the other "meat extras." Remember your teeth, your hair, your skin, your nerves—and those precious youthful looks!

- STUFFED BEEF HEART.
- 1 large beef heart.
 - 2 cups cooked brown rice.
 - 1 cup canned tomatoes.
 - 1 small onion, minced.
 - 1 green pepper, minced.
 - 1 teaspoon salt.
 - Dash pepper.
 - 2 tablespoons flour.
 - 2 tablespoons butter.
 - 4 slices bacon.
- Cover heart with boiling water and simmer one hour or until tender. Drain, saving liquid. Remove veins and arteries from heart. Combine rice, tomatoes, onion, green pepper, salt and pepper. Stuff heart.

Rules to Follow When Honey Is Used in Canning

Procedure Slightly Different From Usual Method

Honey may replace all of the sugar in such products as fruit butters, marmalades or pickles but in jelly making or canning it is better, if you are using honey for the first time, to use half sugar and half honey.

REMEMBER WHEN HONEY IS USED IN CANNING—

1. To use a large kettle because, if not, it just might boil over.
2. To cook the mixture somewhat longer to obtain the desired consistency.
3. To cook slowly so as not to scorch the honey.

For canning fruits with honey use one of the following syrups, depending on the kind of fruit used and the individual taste.

The syrup for sweet fruit—1 cup honey and 1 cup sugar to 8 cups water.

Medium syrup—2 cups honey and 2 cups sugar for 8 cups water.

Thick syrup for sour fruit—4 cups honey and 4 cups sugar to 8 cups water.

If you desire an all-honey syrup replace sugar called for in table with an equal measure of honey.

Process according to a standard time table for canning.

Always add honey and sugar to the water.

Allow one-half pint of sirup to one quart small fruit.

To be successful in canning it is well to select fruit when it is at its best, to purchase staples and have equipment assembled and cleaned thoroughly before canning day.

CURRENT JELLY.

Pick over currants. Do not remove stems. Wash. Drain. With a potato masher mash a few in bottom of preserving kettle. Continue adding and mashing currants until all are used. Add ½ cup water to 2 quarts fruit. Slowly bring to a boil and let simmer until currants appear white. Strain through a colander, then allow juice to run through a cloth or jelly bag. Measure juice and boil 5 minutes before adding ¼ cup sugar and ½ cup honey for every cup of juice. Boil until a good jelly test is obtained. Pour into sterilized glasses. Covered with paraffin.

Cheese Soufflé Sandwich

¼ pound processed Cheddar cheese.
Dash of pepper.
Dash of paprika.
3 eggs.
Ripe olives.
Toast the bread crumbs (crusts trimmed) on both sides. Melt the cheese in the top of a double boiler. Add the pepper and paprika to the egg yolks and beat until thick. Gradually add to the melted cheese, stirring constantly. Slowly fold this mixture into the egg whites which have been beaten stiff but not dry. Pile on the toast, and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, 15 minutes, or until puffy and golden brown. Place on a chop plate and garnish with ripe olives.

With more and more fresh fruit coming into local markets, the housewife will put it to use in saving the sugar quota. For hot, summer days, nothing is more refreshing than a crisp and cool fruit salad, temptingly arranged, and served with a tangy dressing. We suggest lemon mayonnaise for the salad depicted here, which contains cantaloupe, avocado, orange slices, grapefruit segments and berries.

Keep Your Kitchen Range In Tiptop Condition

Meticulous Care Will Insure Its Service for Duration; Checkup Recommended

By the Bureau of Home Economics, USDA

Whether your kitchen range is old or new, gas or electric, it is high time to check up on the care you give it and make sure it will receive every necessary attention "for the duration."

Now that some materials needed to manufacture ranges have been curtailed and only limited supplies of metals are allowed for repairs, this equipment has added value to the owner.

There are many "do's" and "don'ts" in the care of the range. Here are some of the pointers, recommended by home economists in the United States Department of Agriculture, as guides to getting longer and better service from your kitchen range.

Although your range was made to last a long time, it needs an occasional checkup to keep it "in the pink." If something is wrong and you do not know how to fix it, call in a repair man as soon as possible. Quick attention may save you greater trouble and expense later.

Daily care of your range has much to do with the service it gives you. Treat this equipment with reasonable care. Don't slam doors, bang gratings or knock surfaces with cooking utensils. Hinges, latches and doors can't hold up if you treat them roughly and enamel surfaces will scratch or chip. If the enamel on your stove does chip, touch up these spots with enamel paint to keep the iron from rusting.

Be careful when using acid fruits and vegetables, sour milk and vinegar near your range. If you spill these things on it, wipe them up quickly before the acid they contain can eat away the top finish of the porcelain enamel. Once the gloss is gone, it cannot be restored.

Be sure that your range is placed level and that cooking units or burners are level, too. If surface units or burners are not level, some heat is lost. If oven units are not level, uneven baking and browning results.

Check occasionally to see if hinges on the oven door are in good shape and not loose or broken. Never place anything heavy on your open oven door—this is hard on the hinges.

The cleaner you keep your range the better it will work and look. Give it a quick "once-over" after each use, with an eye to spatters of grease and drops of food.

For the first quick cleaning it is best to use soft paper or a dry cloth. However, if necessary you can use a cloth wrung from hot water on a hot range surface, but never wash porcelain enamel surfaces with cold water while the range is still hot. If you do, the sudden change in temperature may crack the enamel.

When the stove has cooled you can clean it more thoroughly. Use warm, soapy water for surfaces and racks. If a spot is hard to remove, rub it gently with a fine cleaning powder that will not scratch. If this doesn't work, rub the place lightly with fine steel wool, 00 grade, but never scrape. When through washing, wipe with a damp cloth and dry.

Wipe off gratings, burners and inclosed surface units after each meal. If they are very dirty use a soapy cloth first, then wipe with one wrung from clean water and dry thoroughly. Remove stains with a mild scouring powder or 00 grade steel wool.

It's easy to keep removable pans beneath surface units clean. Take them out and wash them as you would wash any cooking utensil of the same material. If they are not removable, wipe them with a damp cloth. Wash or wipe off drip trays under the cooking surface often—once a day is not too much.

Oftentimes grease spatters on the inside of an oven when food is roasting. While the oven is still warm you can wipe off most of this grease with soft paper. Then, when the oven is cool, wash the inside surface with a cloth wrung from sudsy water and wipe with a damp cloth and dry.

Clean the broiler compartment after each use. You can remove the pan while it is still warm and wipe off the grease. When the range is cool, wash both the pan and the rest of the broiler as you would any cooking utensil of like material. Wash the sides of the broiler compartment, when necessary, just as you wash the inside of the oven.

Wash bright metal trimming on your stove with soap and water and polish with a soft, dry cloth. Do not use metal polish of any kind on nickel or chromium plated trim.

Burners on a gas range need cleaning regularly. Remove them from the stove and brush them with a stiff brush. It is best to clean cast-iron burners by boiling them briefly in water and washing soda, using one tablespoon of soda to three quarts of water. Then wash them in soapsuds, rinse and dry. Soap and water usually clean aluminum, chromium and porcelain enamel burners satisfactorily.

In any type of gas burner, clean the pilot light hole with a fine wire and top burner pilots with a soft wire brush. If pilot holes are clogged, clean them out with a fine wire. Use a brush to clean air shutters of your range.

Try not to spill food on electric units, especially on the open type. Sugar, salt, soda and soap are particularly harmful as they are likely to cause the unit to burn out. Foods containing much sugar, such as jams and jellies, are very harmful, too.

When food is spilled on electric units, it is best to allow it to char before cleaning. When the range is cool remove the charred food with a stiff, non-metallic brush. Never use a sharp object, such as a fork, to loosen charred food from open coils for it might injure the heating elements. Inclosed units can be washed off after brushing. Use a damp cloth for this. If necessary, use a cloth wrung from soapy water first.

If your range has a deep well cooker, clean the unit as you clean surface units. Clean the walls of the cooker like the oven interior and wash the inset pan like any cooking utensil. In case the cooker has an insulated lid which cannot be placed in water, consult your range instruction book for directions for care.

In cleaning the oven, remove the heating units and all the racks at once. Place the units in a dry place and clean them by using a soft-non-metallic brush. Wash racks and the metal cover of the heating unit, if it is detachable, as you would wash any cooking utensil. If the cover is not removable, clean it by wiping with a cloth wrung from soapy water, rinse by whipping with a cloth wrung from clean water and dry thoroughly.

For Extra Flavor

Egg Salad Sandwiches have an extra share of good flavor when a few chopped green olives are added. Two tablespoons of chopped olives for each hard cooked egg used in the making of this nutritious filling will make the flavorful difference.

Cheese-Tart Shells

Cheese-tart shells make delicious cases for fresh applesauce, lemon or coconut cream fillings. Fit pastry into tart tins, sprinkle with grated cheese and bake.

Jelly roll cake is always a favorite, and it's worth your scrimping elsewhere on the sugar to give it to the family from time to time. There's no cake better adapted to the muggy days of Washington summer, for jelly roll keeps well, and has a fresh, delicate flavor and texture that is really appetizing. Perfect for afternoon tea, supper, or even that light luncheon snack.

Fresh Fruit and Berry Pies Summertime Favorites

To some, June is a month of roses and brides. To others it's the start of the summer pie season, ushered in by plump red cherries and carrying on through berry time until the last peaches appear in the markets.

CHERRY PIE.

- 1 recipe bran pastry
- 1 cup sugar, depending on tartness of fruit
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 cups pitted cherries
- 1 tablespoon butter

Line 9-inch pie pan with pastry. Mix one tablespoon sugar with flour and sprinkle over pastry. Mix remaining sugar and salt. Fill shell with alternate layers of cherries and sugar mixture. Dot with butter and cover with pastry. Bake in moderately hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) 30 to 40 minutes.

BRAN PASTRY.

- 1/2 cup bran
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 4 tablespoons cold water (more or less)

Roll bran until fine; combine with flour and salt. Cut in shortening. Add water, a little at a time, until dough is moist enough to hold together. Roll out on lightly floured board to about one-eighth inch in thickness.

Yield: One 2-crust pie or two 8-inch pastry shells.

HUCKLEBERRY PIE.

- 1 recipe standard pastry.
- 1/2 cup sugar.
- 3 tablespoons flour.
- 1/2 teaspoon salt.
- 4 cups washed huckleberries.
- 1 tablespoon butter.

Line 9-inch pie pan with pastry. Mix 1 tablespoon sugar with flour and sprinkle over pastry. Mix remaining sugar and salt. Fill shell with alternate layers of apples and sugar mixture. Dot with butter and cover with pastry. Bake in moderately hot oven (425° F.) 30 to 40 minutes.

FRESH PEACH PIE.

- 1 recipe bran pastry.
- 4 cups fresh sliced peaches.
- 1/2 cup sugar.
- 1 tablespoon flour.

Line pie pan with pastry. Arrange peaches in pie shell, sift over sugar and flour. Place strips of pastry lattice fashion over top of pie and bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.) 1/2 hour. Reduce to 375° F. and continue baking 1/2 hour or until delicately brown and peaches are done.

Jelly Roll Favorite With Young and Old Alike

Jelly roll places little burden on the sugar supplies. It does not require a frosting and the yield of cake is good for the quantity of materials used. It's a sugar cake that's worth its weight in gold for keeping the family morale on its toes.

The customary filling may be dispensed with—the brown crust will make its own attractive spiral when the cake is rolled.

JELLY ROLL.

- 3 eggs
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup sifted cake flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 5 tablespoons water
- 2 tablespoons butter

Add salt and vanilla to eggs, beat until light and fluffy. Add sugar in two tablespoon portions, beating after each addition. Add flour and baking powder sifted. Fold in carefully and quickly. Stir in water and butter heated together until the butter is melted. Pour into jelly roll pan, about 18x11x1 inches that has been greased, lined with paper and greased again. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F., about 18 minutes, or until nicely risen and delicately brown over entire surface. Loosen edges and turn out onto a piece of waxed paper or towel sprinkled with powdered sugar. Remove pan and peel waxed paper. Spread with filling if used. Roll longwise. Cool on cake rack, placing roll so that "seam" is on bottom.

...SERVE THE BREAD THAT'S DOUBLY FRESH

FRESH WHEN YOU BUY IT FRESH WHEN YOU EAT IT

Because it's Slo-Baked for Lasting Freshness

Baked 13% Longer Than Many Ordinary Kinds—Wins Bread Comparison Tests 9 to 1

If you want bread fresh when you buy it... fresh when you eat it... and still fresh next day for table or lunch box—then ask your grocer for doubly fresh Wonder Bread.

Today at the store feel it—it's fresh! Tomorrow at home feel it—it's still fresh! Not dry or rough. Not stale or tasteless. But still perfect for table or sandwiches. Because fresh in flavor.

That's why women by the thousands are now buying this doubly fresh Wonder Bread. Because this is the bread made to stay fresh longer.

It's Slo-Baked

Secret of doubly fresh Wonder Bread is slo-baking. Baked 13% longer than many ordinary kinds for lasting freshness. Note the difference.

For this is a bread that you can tell is tender and moist. And stays that way amazingly long. Look at the texture so lacy white. And smell the aroma of sun-ripened wheat magically transformed by slo-baking. Then taste to prove how good it is. Chances are you'll prefer it 9 to 1.

In blind comparison tests made in different sections of the country by over 600,000 women to date, doubly fresh Wonder Bread has been chosen the "one best bread" 9 to 1—best for fresh flavor, aroma and texture.

Now there is no reason why you can't afford to have the best. So go to your grocer without further delay and get a loaf of this doubly fresh Wonder Bread right away. And see for yourself how fresh it is... how wonderfully fresh it keeps. Do as thousands of women now do—buy doubly fresh Wonder Bread today. You'll be glad you did!

All year 'round the Army Gets MEAT

TYPICAL ARMY MEAL

America's men in uniform eat better than any other armed forces in the world. Here is a typical "weekday" dinner just as it is served at army camps. Note generous slices of good roast pork, centerpiece of a completely balanced meal, which includes sweet potatoes, spinach, lettuce, tomatoes, bread, butter, apple pie à la mode and coffee.

When the bugle blows "Mess" the U. S. Army eats.

So do the Navy and Marine Corps!

Experts have carefully balanced their meals with everything needed for adequate nutrition, including meat in liberal amounts.

Not at just one season, but all the year 'round—summer and winter.

Every day's rations in the army, including special rations, contain meat, except emergency Field Ration D (the chocolate bar).

MEAT is not included in army rations by mere accident, but represents years of experience in troop feeding by the Quartermaster Corps.

Liberal meat rations are maintained, in summer as in winter. The army knows that nutritional needs don't go on vacation in warm weather.

Women feeding their "men at work" this all-important summer may well take a tip from army meal planners—they know.

The rays of the summer sun will provide you with more vitamin D—but will not compensate for an otherwise unbalanced or insufficient diet.

Your family as well as the army needs a regular daily restocking of proteins, B vitamins and minerals (iron, copper and phosphorus), even when the mercury rises.

Meat provides these nutritional essentials in liberal amounts.

Ask your meat-man about summer meat ideas—you will find he has many thrifty suggestions among them.

Australian stockmen giving sheep a "poison bath." The poison is used to free their fleeces from harmful insects.

In January and February. We are told that an Australian farmer once said to a visitor:

"Why in the world do you do that?" asked the visitor.

"To keep them from laying boiled eggs," replied the farmer.

A real winter comes to some parts of Australia, however. During the next two or three months we may read about "cold waves" in the southern half of the continent.

The best weather in Australia is found on the southern and eastern coasts. Sea breezes cool these coasts in January and February and warm them somewhat in July and August.

This Week's Slip of the Tongue

Such expressions as "with; as well as; in addition to" are not equivalent to the conjunction AND.

Wrong: "John, as well as William, are in the army." Right: John, as well as William, is in the army.

Wrong: "Sugar, like other foodstuffs, are scarce." Right: Sugar, like other foodstuffs, is scarce.

Wrong: "A fractured rib, besides several bruises, were his only injuries." Right: A fractured rib, besides several bruises, was his only injury.

Special Offer. Send for my two Grammar Pamphlets which contain and explain commonly made grammatical errors.

Send a single (3-cent) self-addressed envelope to Frank Colby, in care of The Evening Star.

Send an extra stamped envelope addressed to this boy in the service. He'll find them pamphlets valuable.

NATURE'S CHILDREN

—By Lillian Cox Athey

SEGO LILY. (Calochortus nuttallii) Utah has chosen for her floral emblem the sego lily. During those weary days when the followers of Brigham Young were searching for the promised land, the bulbs of this plant helped to piece out the scanty food rations, and so the sego figured in the history of the Mormon Church established in Utah.

To many, these flowers are known as the mariposa tulip. They are Indeed lovely in early May, when they begin to blossom among the dry grasses of the Grand Canyon, reaching halfway down Bright Angel trail. Later on, the sego lily is found in glorious patches of solid bloom in Arizona, and also in California.

The sego has many relatives with which you may be on quite friendly terms. She is a cousin to the fragrant lily-of-the-valley, to some members of the tulip branch of the lily family, to the cartoon flower with the distinctly objectionable odor, the hog potato and the soapy amole, mentioning but a few.

Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Farmer Brown's Boy had left his pail, but started back for his pail of berries. Now the bushes grew high and very thick and he couldn't see far in any direction.

one of the thick sandwiches he had put on a flat stone while he drank, but started back for his pail of berries. Now the bushes grew high and very thick and he couldn't see far in any direction.

just a glimpse of something moving behind a big bush just ahead of him, and at the same time he heard the clatter of tin. It was his pail. He didn't have to be told that. He didn't have the least doubt that what he had most feared had happened, and that one of those stupid cattle had kicked his pail over.

very instant after he yelled. Instead of one of the young cattle running away, as he had expected, he saw the strangest sight he ever had seen in all his life. Up from behind the bushes rose a great form. It was taller than Farmer Brown's Boy himself. It was Buster Bear, and over his head was the pail that Farmer Brown's Boy had worked so hard to fill with berries that morning, and out of the pail were coming the strangest sounds, growls and grunts and little squeals of both anger and fright.
