Berlin Reports New U.S. Flights Over Turkey

LONDON (P) .- Reuters said today it had recorded a Berlin broadcast by DNB reporting that 13 or 14 United States aircraft making for the Black Sea flew over Turkish territory last night. (Listeners in New York heard no such broadcast.) Meanwhile, in Ankara Turkish officials, after investigation, denied German charges that United States bombers last week "deliberately flew over Turkey on their way to objectives on the north coast of the Black Sea." Four made forced landings in Turkey.

the Associated Press.

CAIRO, Egypt, June 19 .- Axis orces have occupied the Libyan oastal area between Tobruk and Bardia, thus surrounding Tobruk by land, it was acknowledged today, but British desert fighters ashed out from their Egyptian order positions to harass the enemy's right, or landward, flank and reduce pressure on the besieged fortress.

The Tobruk Garrison was prepared for a long stand. It has been newly supplied, its barbed wire reinforced, minefields newly laid and pillboxes strengthened. The Germans were busy moving up great 210-millimeter guns (8.26 inches in diameter)-the largest mobile weapons ever used in the desert-to bring them to bear on Tobruk's concentric defensive system

(In Berlin the German high command communique said German and Italian troops have completed the encirclement of Tobruk and forced the main British defenses back on the Egyptian border.)

British Knife Behind Foe.

In an attempt to impede these operations, a British communique isclosed, swift mechanized units of Lt. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie's 8th Army swept out from the new border defense line and knifed in ehind Marshal Rommel's forces in swift surprise attack from the south

The communique indicated that the Tobruk defenders were holding strong positions and the post appeared in no immediate danger.

Re-establishment of the imperial forces followed withdrawals, announced yesterday, from the desert towns of El Adem and Sidi Rezegh, south and southeast of Tobruk, the Mediterranean port which the British have held almost 17 months through offensive and counteroffensive. "Our mobile forces, operating from the south, are confining enemy columns to the coastal belt," the communique said.

Axis Spearheads Striking.

A British column in these roving operations was reported to have shelled enemy troops on the El Adem airdrome

"Our troops in the Tobruk area yesterday destroyed three enemy tanks and damaged four others." the communique said, indicating that Marshal Rommel's speadheads already were striking in force at the port's outer lines.

The thunder of heavy gunfire already rumbled ominously along the perimeter of Tobruk's outer fortifications as its British defenders made ready for an attempt to duplicate the famous stand they made last year, when they held out for eight months against encircling German-Italian forces.

Port's Guns Join Fight.

At intervals the big guns of the port itself added their sullen voices to the mounting tumult, sending shells screaming across the high escarpment at hidden Axis armored columns maneuvering over the sand. It appeared certain that Marshal Rommel would try to seize Tobruk and remove that threat to his left flank before trying to push further eastward.

Observers believed that so much of the German leader's striking power had been spent in the past 26 days of continuous desert fighting that he was in no position to press general offensive at the present

Britain's Prime Minister and By the Associated Press. America's President put their heads together at a secret renstrategy, and presumably they were weighing a number of

It was Mr. Early who announced last night that Winston Churchill had come to the United States a second time within seven months, bringing with him some of his topflight military advisers, for conferences on "the war, the conduct of the war and the winning of the war.'

Portentous Decisions Awaited.

The spectacular flight of Mr. Churchill and his party to this country converted it for the timebeing into headquarters for a major segment of the military high command of the United Nations. The entire world looked toward Washdecisions which might start the war off on a new and fateful tangent.

But the President's usual Friday press conference was canceled, and Mr. Early said no statements need be expected either from Mr. Roosevelt or the Prime Minister during the rest of the week.

Decentralization of the District's air-raid communications control center, at an estimated cost of more than $93.250, was ordered today by the Board of Commissioners as a means of expediting protective services and avoiding jams at the present single control center and at the telephone offices.

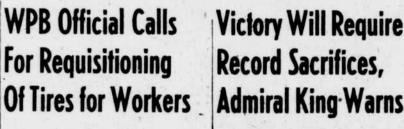

Work is to be started at once but the Commissioners said they had no idea when the change-over would be completed. Commissioner Young, who is Metropolitan civilian defense co-ordinator, said he hoped it would be "soon" and added that the city heads thought "every nickel" so spent would be worth the cost.

Seven Sub-Control Centers. The District now has a single centralized communications control center, located at Fire Alarm Headquarters in McMillan Park. Under the new plan, developed and adopted after weeks of consultation among Government and telephone company experts, there still will be a central control office but also the District will use and develop seven police precinct stations as subcontrol centers, involving many new procedures and policies.

New Front Would Divert Nazis. Among the signposts were these:

A second front could be counted on to siphon off some of the Nazi strength now concentrated on offensives which have set the British back in Libya and hammered with terrific force at the doughty Russian armies in the Crimea and on the Kharkov sector. Britain in recent weeks has stepped up air raids on continental objectives to a tremendous degree and promised to send a thousand planes a night over Nazi-held war production centers of Western Europe

The United States sent her ranking generals to England in recent weeks for war councils with their British counterparts, and Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, asserted that "the time for action is near.

'Bugaboo,' FCC Chairman Tells Committee; Says Networks Rule NAB

By the Associated Press.

Chairman James L. Fly of the Federal Communications Commission emphatically denied at a congressional hearing today any intention of seeking to censor radio programs, and suggested a change in the management of the National Association of Broadcasters.

Mr. Fly got into the censorship and NAB field during discussion of a bill being studied by the House Interstate Commerce Committee to make broad changes in the Communications Act.

"All this talk about censorship is just bringing in a bugaboo," Mr. Fly said when committee members inquired into his views about censoring broadcast programs.

He added that no station had. been taken off the air because of its programs but referred to a refusal to renew a license in one case because of alleged fraudulent advertising and stock sales promotion schemes.

Did Not Attempt Control. *At no time, he emphasized, did he seek to utilize the FCC licensing power to control the communication of facts and opinion.

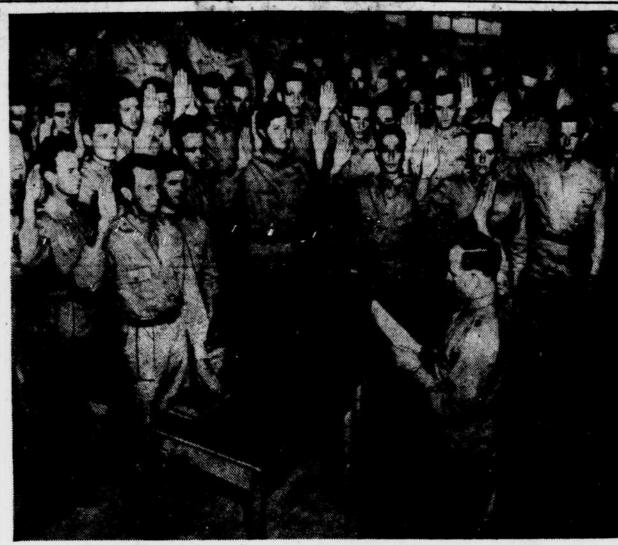

Led into a discussion of the NAB by Representative McGranery, Democrat, of Pennsylvania, Mr. Fly said that organization was "dominated" by the two big networks, Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Co. and fails to represent the views of "a great number of stations" through-out the country. However, he added, As Rookie Pitcher the fact that a broadcaster belongs to the NAB does not prejudice the commission against the broadcaster. Throttles Griffs

Asked by Representative McGranery if he had made a speech at an NAB convention in St. Louis in which he described the organization, headed by Neville Miller of Louisville, as being "like a dead mackerel in the moonlight; it shines and it stinks," Mr. Fly said:

"That's my choice phrase." He emphasized that he referred to the NAB management and not to the membership.

Would Oust NAB Leaders.

'I think it would be a good idea for the members to oust the NAB management," Mr. Fly added, charging that the management sought to "dominate the industry." He said he personally was doing the series. nothing to effect a management

Mrs. Paton's will, by which she left 30 per cent of her $1,300,000 estate to Dr. Darlington, is being contested by three relatives who claim he asserted undue influence and made love to her "for the sole pur-pose" of getting a share of her money.

men in New York, you can go ahead and do it."

He previously had asserted that the NAB, CBS and NBC were the principal proponents of the pending legislation and had charged that the two big networks sought too much control over the operation of member stations.

"As far as I'm concerned." he said, "the industry belongs to the public, and that's where I'm going to stick.

Mr. Fly said he was not pre udiced against NBC and CBS and that in many respects they were "splendid" organizations. Networks Shouldn't Rule.

"But this is a public service," he added, and radio stations "are obliged to serve the public," and when the large networks dominate the stations throughout the Nation, "to that extent they are wrong." The same criticism, he said, would apply to Mutual Broadcasting System if it pursued the same operating methods as the two other networks. Commenting that the NAB had recommended his removal from the communication commission, Mr Ply turned to Representative Mc-Granery and expressed the view the legislator probably would approve of that recommendation. "I'll say for the record. Mr. Fly

I would not approve of it," Repre entative McGranery replied. "And I'll withdraw my statement." Mr. Fly laughingly retorted. The frequent pointed exchanges between Mr. Fly and several committee members caused the chairman to digress from a prepared statement he had started to read. Objects to Changes.

In the statement, the second he has prepared during several days of testimony, Mr. Fly objected to proposed procedural changes in the present law as examples of "entrenchment of vested interests and of the erection of barriers to the entry of a man of moderate means into the radio field."

His earlier statement opposed provisions to split the commission into two divisions and strip the chairman of much of his authority.

Cut in Jobless Tax May Be Lifesaver For 'Little Business'

D. C. Levy Exceptional, Applying to Employers With Only One Worker

The second in a series on proposed changes in the District unemployment compensation law.

By J. A. FOX.

Thousands of "little business" establishments would be helped by the proposed revision of the District unemployment compensation law under which the payroll tax, which finances the benefits for jobless workmen, would be cut from 2.7 per cent to 0.5 per cent.

"Little business" is subject to the unemployment compensatioin law here to a greater extent than anywhere else in the country-barring the State of Washington-because the local statute covers concerns if they have but one workman. Elsewhere the rule is four to eight. Nor does the tax take any account of the financial condition of the taxpayer.

The plight of "little business" was sketched by witnesses before a District judiciary subcommittee of the House last fall when hearings were held on the amendments by Representative McGehee, Democrat, of Mississippi, which would increase the law's benefits to labor as well as cut the tax. In some instances, business spokesmen said, the savings the McGehee bill made possible would spell the difference between a successful and unsuccessful enterprise

Little Relief in $3,000 Limit. The issue was raised in connection with the discussion of a change in the basic law in 1940, when the coverage of the tax was limited to the first $3,000 earned by an individual instead of applying to total wages. This revision was made nationally so the unemployment tax basis would conform to that for oldage insurance under the Social Security Act.

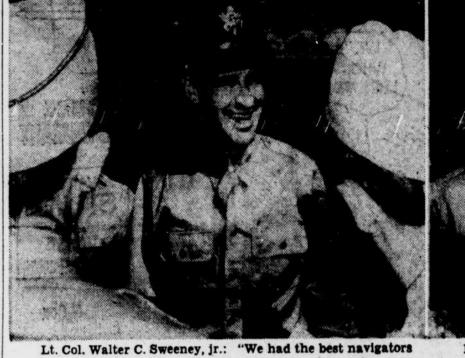

"We get very little relief from that in the case of the average employer." said Rufus S. Lusk, president of the Washington Taxpayers' Association. "There are about 12,500 of them in Washington, and the vast majority employ only two, three These employers or four people. have none of the $3,000-or-more-peryear employes, and therefore they get no relief on that score in the amount of tax collected."

Air Chief Addresses Pre-Flight Students At Georgia University

By CLAUDE A. MAHONEY, ar Staff Cor

ATHENS, Ga. June 19 .- Students at the Navy's pre-flight training school fell to their arduous tasks with new enthusiasm today, their spirits buoyed by the prophecy of Rear Admiral John H. Towers that "some of you may be fortunate enough to assist" in blasting Admiral Yamamoto of Japan out of his lair.

He probably will be holed up in a lair, the chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics said, by the time the war is drawing to a close instead of being in a position to dictate peace from the White House as the Nipponese admiral boasted he would.

Admiral Towers was a speaker at the commissioning of the fourth of the Navy's pre-flight training schools at the University of Georgia here vesterday. The school is intended to give pre-flight candidates a "toughening-up" course that will enable them to cope with anything except lmost supernatural odds when they find themselves in an emergency. A colorful military parade of about 1,000 persons was an impressive part of the ceremonies, held in Sanford Stadium at sunset yesterday.

Challenge Dangerous.

"By the time student naval aviators here finish their course," Admiral Towers told the audience, "our new fleet will be ranging the seas. Challenging that fleet, replete with carriers, will be a dangerous business."

The ever-expanding air arm of the fleet has proved its skill and might in the Coral Sea and at Midway and around the mandated islands, Admiral Towers said. He warned that while we are expanding rapidly, we also are taking losses. The new pilots who go into the leet "must be of the right stuff, and must be trained to a point where they are ready to go right in and play on the first team."

Dr. S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the University system of Georgia, introduced H. W. Caldwell, president of the university, and Gov. Eugene Talmadge.

Others Speak.

Other speakers included Rear William Glassford. com-Admiral mandant of the 6th Naval District and until recently in command of United States naval forces in the South Pacific; Capt. A. W. ## From All Employers.

"More than that," he continued, "it has been collected from all employers, regardless of whether those employers are operating at a profit."

Support for the changes which now are being pressed for early action by Representative McGehee came also from other commercial interests; spokesmen for American Federation of Labor unions and J. Russell Young, president of the Board of District Commissioners.

The uneconomic proportions the unemployment fund is attaining under the present tax rate is the basic reason for the changes that are being advocated. Mr. McGehee estimates that even with further liberalization of unemployment allowances, this reserve, held in trust by the Government and drawing 21/2 per cent interest, would not drop under $10,000,000 over the next 18 years at the 0.5 per cent tax rate.

Mr. McGhee's estimate makes due allowance for possible contingencies we shall have a new form of govthat would affect the reserve adversely, such, for instance, as largescale unemployment cutting deeply changed, that our standard of livinto the fund. This might not be true in a heavily industrialized State. Bill Slightly Modified.

The whole subject of unemployment law changes was so thoroughly gone into last fall that Mr. McGehee is not planning to hold hearings on the current bill, which is a slightly modified version of that previously before the committee. Some ideas advanced at that time have been incorporated in the projected measure.

The principal gain for labor is the provision to pay unemployment compensation for 20 weeks, with the maximum rate at $20 weekly. Now that rate is $18 for 19 weeks.

The new measure proposes also that the Unemployment Compensation Board study the subject of experience ratings as a tax basis, clared that "economic stability for and report to Congress not later than January 1, 1944. "Over a period of a 10-year spread under the experience rating plan," he said, "you would find that the fund in the District of Columbia, as a whole, had not been decreased; it might be frozen at about $20,000,-000 and would remain there.'

Allied Ship Losses Becoming Alarming, Curtin Declares

Publication of Figures On Sinkings Urged by British Legislators

By the Associated Press.

MELBOURNE, June 19.—Prime Minister John Curtin told the Australian Council of Trades Unions today that heavy shipping losses were beginning to cause alarm among the Allies and imposed on Australia a great obligation to increase war production.

He spoke to the council, which is the governing body of the Commonwealth's labor movement, at the opening of the sessions to be devoted to a three-point agenda:

1. Rationalization of industry to concentrate manpower and womanpower on the war effort.

2. Large - scale employment , of women to release men from civilian industries for war service and war industries

3 Establishment of an economic planning and co-ordinating committee to allocate manpower.

Mr. Curtin appealed to the council for assistance in the immediate transfer of more than 300,000 men and women to war industries. In a confidential review of the war situation he said he was giving it "the stark, stern realities of the situation. It would be madness for you to think otherwise."

British Government Urged To Announce Figures

By HELEN KIRKPATRICK, Foreign Correspondent of The Star and Chicago Daily News, Inc.

LONDON, June 19 .- Unless shipping losses are published, it will be impossible to make the British and American peoples realize the seriousness of the situation, according to members of Parliament who yesterday demanded that the govern-ment rescind its year-old ban on publishing figures.

Until June, 1941, the admiralty Soldiers Weighed issued a monthly statement on shipping losses. Since that time new fronts have been opened and sea warfare has broken out in many other parts of the world. Up to last June, Axis submarines and planes had sunk 7,118,022 tons of British, Allied and neutral ship-

Visit Is Confession Of Imminent Crais, Tokio Declares

NEW YORK, June 18-Aris broadcasts today sought to pass off Prime Minister Churchill's second wartime visit to the United States as a "political gesture" of no real significance.

The Berlin radio took the tack that "Churchill's sudden journey to America is new proof of the weak-ness of England." It sought to de-velop the theme that Mr. Churchill hoped to "induce Roosevelt to consent to a greater effort by the United States as regarding both men and material since England alone was unable to satisfy (Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav) Molotov's renewed demand for establishment of a second front."

Rome broadcasters were quick to echo this German explanation of the meeting and added that "the outcome of the war did not depend on such begging visits, but would be decided by force of arms." The Tokio radio broadcast the fol-lowing statement, issued today by

Cross Posthumously Given Keyes for Libyan Exploit By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 19 .- The War Office announced today the posthumous award of the Victoria Cross to Lt. Col. Geoffrey C. T. Keyes, leader of the Commondo detachment which broke into Marshal Erwin Rommel's headquarters in Libya in swift raid last November.

He was the son of Admiral of the Fleet Sir Roger J. B. Keyes, one of the organizers and first commander of the Commandos.

The citation said Lt. Col. Keyes, accompanied by one officer and a non-commissioned officer, made their way to Marshal Rommel's headquarters, "beat on the door and demanded entrance."

Although the shooting of a sentry aroused those inside the headquarters, the citation said, "Keyes instinctively took the lead and emptied his revolver with great success into the first room, followed by the other officer, who threw a grenade."

Col. Keyes then entered the second room but "was shot almost immediately on flinging open the door. and fell back into the passage mortally wounded."

Turks Veering Closer Toward Germany, Reports Indicate

Censors Permitting Press Campaign Sponsoring Claims on Russia

By PAUL GHALI, Foreign Correspondent of The Star and Chicago Daily News.

BERN, June 19 .- A sliding of the Turkish "neutrality policy" toward closer friendship with the Reich was indicated today by several reports to Swiss newspapers.

A dispatch by the Berlin correspondent of Die Tat clearly states that Turkey has now adopted a "realistic policy" based on common interest with and trust in Germany. Three items reported from Ankara also reveal Turkey's new tendency. One disclosed that the Turkish censors are not interfering with the current press campaign in Ankara which is sponsoring Turkish territorial claims on the Caucasus and "other Russian territories."

Next is an item which relates Turkey's cordial reception to German Gen. Guhr on his official visit to Ankara as the representative of the German Army at the opening of an exhibition of pictures of German officers.

The third tells of the recent replacement of the Turkish interior placement of the Turkish interior minister by Dr. Fikry Tuezer, former secretary general of the People's Party and a noted Nazi sympathizer.

Bomber Incident Minimized. On top of these indications of change in Turkish opinion comes the "violation" of Turkish neutrality by American bombers. A Wilhelmstrasse official yesterday drew the special attention of foreign correspondents in Berlin to the seriousness of the question. A communique today from the official Anatolia agency should, however, dampen the Wilhelmstrasse's in dignation. It admits that the American planes' forced landing was unintentional.

An agreement in principle on the question of granting heavily taxed corporations refunds for post-war rehabilitation purposes has been reached by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Cracker Barrels May Replace Wax Wrapping, Cafemen, Bakers Learn

Varieties and brands of sweet goods and cakes may have to be curtailed, wax paper packages with "beautiful printing jobs" may be drastically reduced, and even the old "cracker barrel," may come back, according to predictions made last night by James P. Delafield of the Office of Price Administration.

Speaking also before a joint meeting of the Washington Restaurant Association and the Washington Retail Bakers Association, Dr. Archie M. Palmer, of the Food Section, OPA, warned that unless shipments of "off-shore" sugar increase, further restrictions on that commodity may become necessary.

The two OPA experts explained maximum price regulations, and sugar rationing to members of the associations and their guests in the auditorium of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Relief for Restaurants.

Brewster Says House Committee Rushed Its Report to Get 'Scoop'

By the Associated Press.

A feud between Senate and House committees over investigation of the war effort flared up today with a charge by Senator Brewster, Republican, of Maine that a House Military Affairs Subcommittee had "rushed out its report on dollar-a-year men to try to get a scoop."

Senator Brewster, a member of the special Senate committee appointed to investigate national defense, said this was the second time that the House investigating group had tried to beat the Senate group with a report, the other instance "being aluminum production and its report that everything was O. K." (War Production Board officials disclosed today that last summer's aluminum collection had netted only 6,400,000 pounds of the metal, as compared with the 15,000,000 pounds which had been expected.)

Senator Brewster and Chairman Truman told the Senate yesterday they had been asked to hold up their report criticizing delays by the War Production Board and dollar-a-year men and that during the interval the House group released its report giving the business executives a clean bill of health. Only Interest Is Winning War.

"Of course if one report comes out Wednesday from a House committee and another report comes out Thursday on the same thing from a Senate committee, we all know which one has the advantage," Senator Brewster said.

Senator Brewster said, while Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War man Donald M. Nelson of the War Production Board was attempting Hit, Army Reveals to convince the Senate committee it should delay issuance of its own report. This, he added, was possibly more than an "interesting coincidence. Chairman Faddis of the House

Military Affairs Subcommittee, which reported on both aluminum production and the Guthrie case, said, "That sounds kind of babyish to me," and would not comment further.

Chairman Truman was less direct in his criticism of the House group, but was careful to record dates and times that the WPB inquiries has been asked, observing that the Senate group went into the controversy only after specific requests by Mr. Nelson and after the House committee had failed to make a report. "Of course, the only thing we're interested in is winning the war and doing the best possible job to get that done quickly," Senator Truman said, adding that yesterday's Senate

They are using an electrical automatic optical bombsight similar to one I saw in Germany in 1938. It is not particularly accurate.

"An example of poor Japanese bombing procedure is their use of balloons for wind drift, which is downright silly. It is kindergarten stuff.

"At Port Moresby (advanced Allied base in New Guinea) they are using white smoke to get the wind drift. The Japanese are bombing less accurately than in the Philippines,

The air force spokesman said the new Japanese fighter was a fast, high altitude performer with a horsepower well above the 870 of its predecessors. Shonbrun had confessed to participation in the strangulationkilling of Mrs. Reich, wife of a New Jersey wax processing manufacturer, but had testified that Miss Webb had no part in the crime. The State had charged that she had lured Mrs. Reich to the hotel room where a five-karat diamond ring was taken from her finger after she was slain. Conversion Nearly Completed. Mr. Nelson, meanwhile, came to the defense of Philip D. Reed, chief of the WPB Bureau of Industries munique: branch, who was criticized in the Truman committee report.

"I am sorry that the Truman committee, which has done and is doing such valuable work, should have been critical of the work of Philip Reed." he said

"During the past five months, Mediterranean Sea. American industry has been converted from peace to war. Mistakes have, of course, been made. But the record of the War Production Board speaks for itself. The production we are getting is due to the team work of many able men.

"Mr. Reed is entitled to full credit have full confidence in him, and sincerely hope that he will continue his valuable assistance in the war effort as long as he can do so."

Mr. Reed himself issued a statement yesterday saying that nearly all industries which are manufacturing non-essential goods which can be converted to wartime production have been converted.

"We are now in the mopping-up phase of our conversion operations," Mr. Reed said

Airmen on the Lexington Set Pattern for New Chapter In Naval History by Their Deeds in Battle of Coral Sea

(This is the seventh of a series of stories supplied to the Associated Press by the Chicago Tribune, whose correspondent, Stanley Johnston, was the only American reporter aboard the aircraft carrier Lexington in the Coral Sea battle.)

By STANLEY JOHNSTON. Foreisn Correspondent of the Chicago Tribune

CHICAGO, June 19-In her last fight the Lexington was not merely on the receiving end of battle blows.

Her airmen, banding with those of the second carrier in our sea-borne air force, delivered a devastating left hook, followed by a right cross to the Japanese chin, almost at the moment when the Japanese were showering their blitz upon us.

To land these blows the Lexington's pilots and air gunners swept through almost 200 miles of fierce, continuous air combats. These were proportionately more sanguinary than the dueling I saw over Dover and the Kentish coasts during the now historic Battle of Britam in 1940

The announced toll of submarinesunk Allied and neutral ships in the Western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor stood at 278 today while from Bogota, Colombia, another victim was reported unofficially.

BLACKOUT PLANS for Street Cars and Buses

Months ago, long before Pearl Harbor, Capital Transit Company having in mind the possibility that Washington might some day undergo an air raid, began preparing plans for the black out of its street cars and buses, and all its other properties.

These plans were drawn in close collaboration with the War Department, Bureau of Standards and with a Committee of the American Transit Association which numbers in its membership leading transit companies of the United States and Canada.

In making these plans the Company had at its disposal all that the transportation agencies in London and other British cities had learned through actual experience in repeated bombings.

The War Department has completed standard blackout requirements for equipment for all highway vehicular movements. This equipment is not yet available but as it is it will be installed on all of our street cars and buses.

In the meantime we have camouflaged the silver colored roofs of all our buses and taken steps to black out all of our terminals and buildings when necessary.

Incentive for Landlords

The first step toward making available to incoming war workers accommodations in private homes on a large scale has been taken with the introduction of a bill by Chairman Randolph of the House District Committee designed to make it easier for homeowners to get rid of unsatisfactory tenants.

Under the landlord-tenant code of laws, grounds for eviction of tenants are limited and specifically stated and lengthy notice and legal procedure in the landlord-tenant court are involved. The new bill would place outside the legal definition of "rooming house" private homes which take in no more than four roomers.

A series of articles now appearing In The Star discloses that there are an estimated 8,000 or 10,000 rooming houses being operated in the District. Always a big business here, it is now reaching colossal proportions. Those Interested in housing have estimated there is a reservoir of 50,000 rooms in private homes which has not yet been tapped. The problem has been to persuade Washingtonians to take in war workers under zoning relaxations of last December, which permit up to four roomers in residential restricted areas.

Those supporting the Randolph bill have reasoned that homeowners interested in taking in roomers for financial reasons have already done so; that other homeowners must be convinced of the need and patriotic | serve tanks still more inferior. duty involved in providing accommostage of naval warfare. We are fully justified, in the light of our recent resounding successes in the Pacific, in rushing construction of a score or more of new carriers with a view to attaining overwhelming superiority sufficient to offset substantial losses resulting from vulnerability. Such a preponderance of carrierborne airpower would greatly simplify our task of protecting our battle fleet when the time comes to start moving against the less-well-protected main fleet of the Japanese Navy. In this final showdown it may well be that battleships will play a very vital role.

Crisis in Libya

Another of those strangely sudden shifts of fortune that characterize the war in North Africa has taken place. Having lost their main defense line, the British have deliberately split their forces. The main body is retiring toward Egypt, leaving a presumably adequate garrison at the key port of Tobruk. The British retreat probably will continue until they reach the naturally strong positions on the Egyptian border, Thus, the situation of a year ago will be virtually duplicated, with Tobruk besieged and the main armies facing each other along the Libyan-Egyptian frontier. The rapid success of the Axis drive, begun only three weeks ago, has taken most observers by surprise. The reason for it, however, has just been disclosed by the British themselves. And it is another feather in the cap of that military genius, Marshal Erwin Rommel. Out of his seemingly inexhaustible bag of tricks he has juggled a new combination of weapons that proved too much for his opponents.

Here, briefly, is the story. When the British launched their successful attack last November which drove Rommel from Eastern Libya and raised the siege of Tobruk, they owed their success chiefly to heavy tanks mounting unprecedentedly powerful guns. These tanks, with heavier armor and superior fire power, easily routed the Axis machines. But Rommel meditated constructively on his defeat and soon thought up a better one. Instead of trying to get still heavier and biggergunned tanks, he evolved a combination of medium tanks and equally mobile anti-tank guns so powerful that they could pierce the armor of the British mechanical monsters.

With this new combination, he ran circles around the British tanks, put most of them out of action, and left his opponents with nothing but re-In desert warfare, the tank is the opinion expressed by Miss Perkins to the pattern makers conforms closely to the findings of a survey conducted several months ago by Princeton University. This study was based on an examination of the experiences of 140 concerns employing 2,000,000 men and women throughout the country. The results indicated that peak efficiency of the average workman can best be maintained with a forty-eight-hour week, while experiments with a sixty-hour week resulted quickly in lowered efficiency and loss of working time. Fortunately, this question of the ideal work week is one which has become largely academic since Pearl Harbor because the great majority of war plants long since have abandoned the forty-hour week to the extent that their raw material resources permit. It is well, however, that the question has been resolved, and Miss Perkins is to be congratulated for her readiness to revise her earlier view in the light of more recent experience.

Dollar-a-Year Men

The diametrically opposite reports on dollar-a-year men issued within a forty-eight-hour period by two congressional committees are bound to prove bewildering to the public. In fact, the public has been bewildered from the outset of the dispute which has arisen over the value of the services of industrialists called to Washington to aid in the battle of production. Charges and denials have flown thick and fast during the controversy, which came to a head when Robert R. Guthrie resigned from the War Production Board last March in protest at what he termed the "lack of co-operation, insubordination and the unwillingness of some dollar-a-year men to divorce their private interests from the public welfare."

Investigations were begun by a special Senate committee headed by Senator Truman of Missouri and by the House Military Affairs Committee. The trend of publicity from the Truman committee's hearings was such as to alarm Donald Nelson, who expressed fear that blunderbuss charges against business executives who happened to be serving their Government on a dollar-a-year basis would hamper him in inducing industrial specialists to accept vital jobs here. Senator Truman disclaimed any intention of impugning the integrity or motives of all dollara-year men, some of whom, he conceded, were above reproach.

The House committee, after careful inquiry into the Guthrie charges. reported Tuesday that they could find no evidence to support them. In most instances, the committee

Struggle for Crimea Had Precedent in 1854

Writer Tells How Russia Was Attacked by Allies Of Turkey 88 Years Ago

By Bertram Benedict. The Crimean peninsula of Russia extends several hundred miles south into the Black Sea. Its eastern projection (the Kerch peninsula) juts across the Sea of Azov to a point only several miles from the Caucasus district of Russia. Hence possession of the Crimea might be of supreme strategic importance to Germany by affording easy access from the west-much easier than access from the north-to the Caucasus and thence perhaps to Iran.

A railroad tapping the Black Sea extends along the Crimea to the mainland of Russia. The most important mineral resource of the peninsula is iron. The southern shore of the Crimes, sometimes called the Crimean Rivera, is semi-tropical, and was a favorite resort of the Tsarist nobility. On the Crimea is the extensive Russian naval base at Sebastopol, the loss of which would mean loss of Russian control of the Black Sea

Long before the Christian era the Crimea was settled by Greek colonists. Later it was overrun by the Goths, the Huns, the Tatars, and in the 10th century by Russian tribes. In the 12th century came the Tartars under Genghis Khan. Late in the 13th century the Genoese established footholds on the Crimea, to protect their trade with the East via the Caspian and the Volga, and they maintained themselves against attempts of the Venetians, their great trade rivals, to expel them. In the latter part of the 15th century the Turks took ever, and made the Crimes a Turkish province. Late in the 18th century the Russians drove out the Turks, and the Crimea has been part of Rusia ever since 1783.

The major war which was fought in the Crimea 88 years ago, the first great European war since Waterloo, was as needless and inconclusive as it was spectacular. On the surface it arose from disputed interpretation of treatles on the right to protect Christians within Turkey. Russia claimed to be protector of Greek Christians under the Sultan, while France claimed certain rights over the holy places in Jerusalem. But under the surface Russia's real aim was to absorb the Ottoman Empire, which Czar Nicholas I termed the "Sick Man of Europe," or at least Constantinople and the Dardanelles. As for Great Britain, Russian expansion southward would menace the road to India.

When in 1853 the Sultan rejected a Russian demand on religious minorities within Turkey, Russian troops crossed the Danube into Turkish provinces in the Balkans over which she held a protectorate. Moldavia and Wallachia. Russian fleet annihilated the Tu dations for these workers.

But unpleasant experiences in the last war left their impression on homeowners who, having taken roomers into their homes, found themselves unable, under the landlord-tenant laws, to get rid of undesirable tenants without lengthy and expensive legal proceedings. These laws are of course necessary for the protection of tenants and should be retained in the case of lodging houses run on a professional basis. But for the private homeowner who is willing to rent one or two rooms, they are burdensome. Few homeowners are willing to run the risk of being bound by rigid landlord-tenant laws for the sake of renting a few spare rooms. Moderate amendment of the laws, as suggested by the Randolph proposal, would stimulate the opening of private homes to war-worker tenants without breaking down the necessary protection of tenants as a class.

Aircraft Carrier Program

In view of the leading role played by aircraft carriers in the Coral Sea and Midway battles, it is not surprising to learn that the Navy is shifting emphasis from battleships to carriers in future construction programs. The Navy-sponsored bill just passed unanimously by the House calls for an estimated twenty or thirty of the "floating air bases" but not a single "battle wagon." Moreover, it is reported that construction of half a dozen super battleships of 60,000-ton displacement will be held up in order to give priority on the ways to the new carriers.

But legislators and naval experts join in voicing a cautious note with respect to predictions in some quarters that the day of the battleship is over and the day of the aircraft carrier is at its zenith. It would be just as risky to assume that battleships have no further use as to contend, on the basis of performance to date, that the carrier is the ultimate in capital ship perfection.

There can be no disputing the fact that the carrier has proved to be a deadly offensive instrument, armed as it is with destructive "artillery" of a range limited only by the flying range of its torpedo planes and bombers. It was because of the long range of this air-borne striking power that surface units of the United States and Japanese forces never got within sight of each other during either the Coral Sea or Midway engagements. At the same time, however, the carrier was demonstrated in both battles to be a highly vulnerable warship. This weakness of the carrier quite probably is giving Admiral Yamamoto and his aides more concern than the loss of the Lexington has occasioned on our side.

Since there seems to be no satisfactory way of combining the resistance of the battleship with the formidable airpower of the carrier, and queen of battles. Without adequate tank strength, infantry is helpless in open country. Therefore, the British have had to retire to their fortified positions at Tobruk and along the Egyptian border, where their heavy artillery can cope with tank charges.

While the British have unquestionably suffered a bad defeat, they are by no means routed. The open desert, like the open sea, means almost nothing in the strategic sense. Even if Tobruk should fall, the British defenses in depth along the Egyptian frontier are so strong that they have never yet been pierced. Furthermore, Tobruk stood an eight months' siege by the redoubtable Rommel himself without being taken. And the arrival of the recent convoy at Tobruk should have amply supplied the garrison for a second ordeal. Not unless Rommel should quickly succeed in reducing that fortress will the situation begin to look really serious. That would mean not only clear communications for are largely responsible for this an attack on Egypt but also siege success.

artillery much heavier than any possessed by the Axis in North Africa before.

This set-back in Libya ties up large British forces just at a moment when they may be needed elsewhere in the Near East, and presumably it will have some effect upon Turkey and other Near Eastern peoples. It is to be hoped that reinforcements of men and equipment are at hand to redress the balance without loss of time.

Longer Work Week

The statement by Secretary of Labor Perkins that experience has shown that a forty-eight-hour week for industrial employes is conducive, on the average, to maximum production efficiency should end a discussion that has figured prominently in our preparation for war.

In the past, Miss Perkins has championed the forty-hour week as the working period best calculated to maintain efficiency at a peak level. Writing to The Star in December, 1940, the Secretary of Labor urged the continuance of the basic fortyhour week in the following language: "May I say that in recommending compliance with the wage-hour legislation I have always taken pains to say what I believe to be true-that the shorter hours will result in greater efficiency, greater per capita and per plant production, and can be relied on to speed up our defense program rather than delay it."

Speaking at a recent meeting of the Pattern Makers' League of North America, however, Miss Perkins indicated a change in viewpoint on this question. "Experience has demonstrated," she said, "that the maximum production effort can be reached when workers are not overtired by working long hours. We regard the forty-eight-hour week as the optimum (the most favorable said. "men drawn from industry, whether as dollar-a-year men or compensated for their services, have rendered valuable, sincere and conscientious service to the war effort." But the Truman committee has come forward with a formal report to the contrary, supplemented by a statement by Senator Truman charging that his committee "has repeatedly concluded that the work of the OPM and WPB has been hampered by the extent to which their personnel was predominantly drawn from the big business groups." He contended that the "attitudes and associations which these men have acquired through the years make it undesirable to rely upon them exclusively for direction of the war production programs." Senator Truman's complaints would carry more force if he could point to any serious breakdown in production. As a matter of fact, production miracles are being performed on every side, and it is un-

The disclosure by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, following a special survey, that living costs in the United States declined slightly between mid-May and the beginning of June seems to indicate that the general price ceilings imposed by the Office of Price Administration have achieved their principal purpose, that of stabilizing the cost of living. According to the bureau's figures, average living costs dropped 0.1 per cent between May 15 and June 2, the first decrease recorded in more than a year and a half. Since the price ceilings became effective in retail trade on May 18, Federal controls undoubtedly were the principal factor in ending the long rise in living costs. Though most of the goods purchased by wage earners and lower salaried workers declined, food costs in many cities continued to advance. About 40 per cent of the average family's food budget is spent on commodities which are not covered by the retail price ceilings which went into effect last month. Prices of uncontrolled foods registered a substantial advance, with an average increase of 2.4 per cent for these items. The rise in foods subject to maximum ceilings was much smaller -another evidence of the effectiveness of the price control measures. Since the outbreak of the war in Europe living costs in this country have increased more than 17 per cent. Though a longer period will be required, no doubt, to reveal the full effects of the OPA ceilings on price trends, the results of the survey made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics provide good reason for believing that living costs are being stabilized and in the light of the fleet in the Black Sea off Sinope, But in 1854 France and Britain joined Turkey in the war, and helped the Turks to drive out the Russian armies from Moldavia and Wallachia.

There seemed to be no further cause for hostilities, but the Allied forces felt all dressed up with no place to go, so swung around through the Dardanelles to attack the Crimea. Their main objective was Sebastopol.

The siege of Sebastopol lasted 11 months. At first the Allies did not completely surround the city, and for a time it received re-enforcements and supplies. Russian armies were defeated on the Alma, at Balaklava ("Charge of the Light Brigade"), and at Inkermann. In the winter the Allied supply system went to pieces, and both sides suffered intensely from hunger and cold, as well as from cholera. Finally the sufferings of the British and French were alleviated through the efforts of Florence Nightingale.

The Russians had sunk ships across the entrance to the harbor, frustrating a bombardment from the sea. But in September, 1855, the French took by assault the city and most of the fortress. (The British assault at the same time was checked). Neither side had any more stomach for the war, and peace was signed at Paris in March, 1856.

Turkey, admitted to the Concert of the European powers, was to protect its Christian population; the Black Sea was to be neutralized; the Danube was to be opened to the commerce of all nations; Russia lost her protectorate over Moldavia and Wallachia, also Bessarabia. But the Turks continued to oppress Christians, and during the Franco-German war of 1870-71 Russia abrogated that part of the 1856 treaty which neutralized the Black Sea. Even in that day treaties meant little.

Insists That Americans . Did Not Disapprove League Ideals. To the Editor of The Star.

The arguments set forth in a letter, signed "Westmoreland" and published in The Star of June 16, were too many, and too vulnerable, for one to presume upon limited space to answer them all. However, I would like to comment briefly upon this one particular paragraph from that letter: "Another well-worn argument is that the League of Nations failed through its selfish dominance by Britain and France. That, too, is partly true. But it might not have failed had we not refused adherence or had it been provided with an instrument to enforce its decisions."

The ideals envisioned in the League of Nations never were questioned by the American people. "Selfish dominance by Britain and France" made realization of those ideals impossible, as subsequent events have proved. Their policies have in time damned themselves, and America need make no apologies for having refused to adhere to them. PHILIP LIGHTFOOT WORMELEY, IV.

Opposes "Stooping" to Level

There may be occasions when for practical reasons it is necessary to imitate the Axis in order that it may be defeated. But I have wondered if there is any imperative necessity for stooping to the level of the dictators in the use of words.

Of Distinguished Poet Father. To the Editor of The Star:

From all quarters of the Nation comes evidence of the rising tide of interest in the life and works of my late father, the poet Edwin Markham. The current exhibit of Markhamiana in the Library of Congress has caused widespread discussion. Rumor has been busy concerning a much misunderstood subject, namely, the "My Biography," to which my father alluded a thousand times. This was the topic of one of father's well-used jokes. In his lectures he seldom failed to make iesting allusion to an incident-any incident-as suitable or otherwise for inclusion in this biography-to-be. Since his death, many statements concerning the biography have come to my attention; in sum, they reveal complete misapprehension of the subject. I am writing to you to bring light where shadow seems to exist. I should like to make clear four points: First, there is the truly bewildering assertion broadcast, one knows not whence or why, that the poet appointed this or that person to be his "official" biographer. This belief is flatly contrary to fact. The biography already in print contains in holograph facsimile a friendly foreword written and signed by my father. At least one person now delving his way through Markhamiana frequently met father and received help from him. Moreover, father made free dispensation to all of the privilege of writing his biography. This I have good reason to know by the number of letters I have received from persons in various parts of the country who have written to me stating their claim and asking for help. Father in expansive mood often said that he would like to have as many people as possible write of his career. and his words were, "The more, the merrier.

Second, I submit a succinct report of work in progress. Besides the already published volume, there lies in manuscript a work by an early Pacific Coast colleague and enthusiastic admirer of the poet. Two other biographers, in friendly competition, are engaged on books based on scholarly principles, and I know of at least two other persons attempting the biographical task from what I suppose may be called the "appreciative" point of view. In addition, two essays have been undertaken, one on the poet's relation to Ambrose Bierce as revealed in letters from Bierce, the other on the peculiar problem of the text of "The Man With the Hoe." And, as hinted above, there are others biding their time.

Third, as to the magnitude of the task involved in presenting a full-bodied study of the poet. Few know that, besides collections in various places from coast to coast, the papers left by my father amount to, conservatively, half a ton. In addition to the customary perusal of documents and papers, there is the task of retracing the long 45-year zigzag trail of my father's schooling and teachingall, of course, on the coast and in the valleys and mountains of California. It is now certain that during his later years my father withheld facts of his early career-for what, no doubt, seemed to him sufficient cause. Within the 12month past the exploration of his youthful haunts has uncovered startling data. Moreover, along these devious trails, first-no narrative professing authority can fail to take into full account the amazing literary collaboration of my parents. No biography of the poet can claim truth whose every page does not bear, witness to the pervasive, critical, yet self-effacing aid given by Anna Catherine Markham. My mother, at the time of her marriage to the poet, sacrificed what then actually seemed a more promising literary career than his, to become in the truest sense of the word a helpmate. Through the hours, weeks and years they shared the evening lamp. No work of his but bears the imprint of her approving and restraining hand. This statement holds true whether the work be a book such as "California the

The manuscripts of his prose works, such of them as are extant, exist for the most part in her handwriting! The authentic "original" manuscript of "The Man With the Hoe" -I call it such because the poet himself so described it-is in my possession. It is the penultimate version, unified and coherent, yet wanting some final touches before being sent to the printer and to posterity. It consists of two sheets. Portions of both are in his writing, portions in hers. In the light of the genesis of the poem, this is a phenomenon which scholars may long ponder and interpret. Finally, the unpublished poems number several hundred. I hope that publication will soon be arranged for the most memorable of these. Toward this end I have had the valuable advice of two of my father's friends, both distinguished in the realm of poetry. Certainly "Our Israfel." VIRGIL MARKHAM. Heart." Calls for Air Transport Of Heavy Materials, To the Editor of The Star:

We should start now to experiment in the transportation of heavy raw materials by air from factories to distributors and developers.

For example, lumber, a much needed commodity for building houses or ships of war, could be shipped much faster from the mills of California, Oregon, Washington or Maine to the points of construction by air transport than by any other modern means of freight shipment. But there would be no need to eliminate shipments by railroad or motor trucks and trailers. Those facilities are still a necessity to American commerce. Only the very important materials that are urgently needed today should be shipped by air, thus saving time, gasoline, wear and tear on motor trucks and tires, and guaranteeing longer usage by

Menke says that in 1609 an English silversmith was ordered to make a silver ball to be awarded as the prize for a race to be held at Chester. The first ball made was not satisfactory. neither was the second, but the third suited. And so Robert Ambrye, who put up the prize, decided to make three awards.

Q. Why is the word "number" abbreviated as "No."?-S. J. E.

A. The word "number" is abbreviated as it is because of the spelling of the word from which the abbreviation is derived. It is "numero," ablative of the Latin "numerus."

The Senate committee investigating the national defense program, headed by Senator Truman. Democrat, of Missouri, says the dollar-a-year men are men of unquestioned capacity and "the overwhelming number are possessed of patriotism and integrity." but that they should not be allowed to have a voice in any decisions or determinations affecting the thing they know most about, namely, their own industries. The reason given is that "they are unable to divorce themselves from their subconscious gravitation to their own industries."

This is merely another way of saying that the things which the dollar-a-year men have learned about industrial operations are not easily discarded by them any more than experience and facts can be discarded by those in science or the law or in engineering who have had years of familiarity with such facts.

Why, therefore, is it urged that these dollar-a-year men should give up their convictions? What is it about the dollar-a-year men that is wrong if their integrity and patriotism is unquestioned? Is it possible that these men are not ready to surrender to the collectivist concept of the American social system? Are they being penalized because they will not allow the war program to be used for socialistic purposes and experiments, for failing to consent to the wholesale wreckage of the industries which they know, when they see no alternative plans emanating from Government Report May Give Clue. Maybe there is somewhere a clue to the campaign of defamation which has been going on for some time against the dollar-a-year men, a campaign which has caused Donold Nelson, chief of the War Production Board, to cry out publicly in protest against what he considers a tragic effort to weaken the personnel and management of vital work of war production. Possibility the clue for the antidollar-a-year-men campaign can be located in the words of the Senate committee report itself, which reveals that labor chiefs can acquire more and more power in war production and thus prepare for unsurpation of management functions, especially after the war. Here is an interesting passage in the Senate committee report, which says in part:

there was any clear policy. Mr. Davis is in charge of domestic and foreign information. There is one exception to this. and that exception will make it dif-cult to integrate an information policy. Publicity relations with South America remain in the hands of the Rockefeller Committee. Mr. Davis will have charge of all short-wave broadcasting and other publicity addressed to the world, except that addressed to Latin America.

The dissemination of information cannot be so divided. What is published in the United States and broadcast to the rest of the world is read and heard south of the Rio Grande, and it is difficult to understand why Mr. Davis' authority does not cover the entire field.

Furthermore, his position, like that of most heads of wartime agencies, is equivocal. Entrusted with one of the most delicate of jobs, he is without cabinet rank. He neither sits in the cabinet nor is under any one there. Theoretically, he ought to be in the State Department. Actually he heads a sort of supplementary State Department-as does Mr. Rockefeller-without similar position or prestige. This makes difficult his relations with every branch of the Government, and he, above all, needs to enjoy the confidence of every cabinet official and with Congress.

Egypt Strongly Fortified.

While such a setback for the British is likely to be exploited by the Axis as another proof of the inability of the United Nations to resist German onslaughts, military quarters believe that from the strictly strategic point of view the fall of Tobruk would not seriously affect the British position in the Near East.

It is true that the Nazis and Italians would be in a better position to supply their armies and to press their attack toward Salum and the Egyptian border. But in the last 14 months much war material has been collected on the western border of Egypt and fortifications there are so strong that it would take a tremendous effort on the part of the Nazis to break through.

What is more important, however, is the fact that the United Nations air arm has been coniderably strengthened. New air

By the Associated Press.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., June 19-An agreement which would return 1,000 employes to work at the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing Co. Monday was reached late yesterday by negotiators but still must be ratified by members of the striking union.

Members of Local 290, Brothernood of Railway Carmen of America (AFL), will meet at 7 o'clock this evening to accept or reject the settlement, which was proposed by a Federal labor conciliator.

The agreement came less than 24 hours after Maj. H. J. To be realistic, one must recognize that some part of the new loyalty is a bow to the vast powers of the president. The newspaper Excelsior, which was described six months ago by a United States congressional committee as "definitely pro-Nazi," now gives prominent display to news of United Nations successes, and plays down the German "liberation" theme. President Avila Camacho has complete power to suspend publication of any newspaper, in the interest of national defense.

The new unity is a mixture of patriotism and obedience. Avila Camacho is a war president, and his powers are unbounded. When he asked for a declaration of war. he also asked for specific war powers, and for the suspension of 14 fundamental constitutional guarantees, including freedom of the

The Germans had misjudged their Mexico. They thought that by sinking the two Mexican tankers they would not only cut off that much oil from the United States, but would also put a scare into Mexico. But when the flag which every Mexican loves with a patriotic fervor was dragged down into the waters of the Gulf, a wave of unity swept the country like that which swept the United States after Pearl Harbor.

Some Blamed America.

There was a moment, however, when some persons blamed the United States for sinking the ships, This fantastic notion was a credit to the success of German propaganda. For years, the Germans have poured money into Mexico to keep fresh the old wounds of "anti-Yanquis" feeling. Assailing a "superficial optimism that is the most dangerous thing in our whole war effort." William Y. Elliott of the War Production Board yesterday warned America that the Nation faces a test of its will power and spirit such as "we've never faced before."

Addressing the Federal Bar Association's luncheon meeting at the Harrington Hotel, the WPB stockpile and shipping chief said American warriors have given evidence they have the fighting heart and that in the long run it will be men rather than materials that will win the war.

"We need a tough leadership that will carry out hard decisions with ruthless determination." the speaker said. "We are in for it; we face a long, hard struggle. # Station Plaza To Be Used for Dormitories

Park and Planning Commission Concedes Need Is 'Desperate'

Yielding to war demands, the National Capital Park and Planning Commission today approved the use of available land in the east and west portions of Union Station plaza for housing girl war workers temporarily in Government-built dormitories

One site comprising two squares and a small triangle on the eastern side of the station and Columbus Statue Circle, was approved for immediate erection of three dormitories with a total capacity of 1,000 roomsprovided Congress passes a House bill authorizing temporary transfer of the land to the Public Buildings Administration

Another site of two squares on the west side, immediately south of the Post Office, the commission said, was being held in reserve for possible use. Ground plans for the Union Station dormitories were included in the program of seven emergency housing projects which received final approval by the commission. Located in various sections available to centers of war activities, the dormitories would provide a total of 12,897 bers for men and women war workers.

Blackout Spoiled By Auto Lights, Landis Reports

Also Tells Young That Alexandria 'Stood Out' From Air

Washington did a "pretty good" ob of blacking out during the Wednesday night air-raid practice drill, but there were some notable exceptions, in the opinion of James M. Landis, Federal civilian defense director, which he outlined yesterday to Commissioner Young, the metropolitan civilian defense co-ordinator. Except during the half hour airraid warning period of the 10 p.m.to-dawn practice, automobiles were permitted to be operated with dimmed lights. Even-so, Mr. Landis found this lighting was sufficient to serve as beacons to enemy aircraft had any been overhead.

Inspected From Air.

His observations were based on an extended flight over the National Capital area in an observation plane. He was accompanied by Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, provost marshal for this area.

Approved materials for masking or screening automobile headlights have not yet been made available to the general public here. It was for this reason dimmed lights were permitted and a suggestion that "full" headlights be used was rejected.

Co-ordinator Young, who relayed to the press the views of Mr. Landis, said he had been unable as yet to find the answer to the problem of masking auto headlights, except that during any actual air-raid warning all vehicular traffic would be stopped, with car lights extinguished, vehicles.

Alexandria Deficient.

Commissioner Young said he was told by Mr. Landis that Alexandria was not well blacked out, so much so that it "stood out" clearly from the air, giving the enemy pilots, if any, good bearings to find the Navy Yard or other vital spots in Washington.

Also, he noted that Mount Vernon boulevard was lighted and he and Mr. Young agreed there appeared no good reason for this, even during a practice blackout.

Besides the headlight glare, Commissioner Young appeared particularly concerned about unobscured lighting of some Federal buildings. Civilian morale suffers when citi

Sir Girja Shankar Bajpai, who is listed with the members of the British Embassy staff, and Lady Bainai yesterday gave the first large reception since they came to Washington. The office of the Indian agency general is at 2633 Sixteenth street, but the Agent General and his attractive family live at 2700 Macomb street. the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Schoellkopf. Sir Girja and Lady Bajpai leased the place furnished, but have made many changes to help themselves feel more at home. There are many smaller, beautiful rugs from their native land on the well-polished floors and in the dining room a cabinet-or set of shelves-filled with plates in the handsomely etched gold and rich reds which are characteristic of India.

The house at 2700 Macomb street is built on a hill above Klingle road and that entrance to Rock Creek Park. Every window has only a view into trees or over the tops of trees, with one or two exceptions where one looks out onto velvety lawns or, from the large drawing room, onto the flagstone terrace. Early summer blossoms filled the vases in the various reception rooms and in the center of the tea table laid in the handsomely paneled dining room, a low mound of blue delphinium, white snapdragons and baby's breath was arranged.

The hosts stood before the fire-4 place in the smaller of the drawing ous official, diplomatic service, and resident circles of the National Capital. Lady Bajpai was dressed in heavy gold brocade, fashioned after the model for one of her station in India, the rich folds of the material thrown loosely but gracefully over one shoulder and the skirt to the floor. The gown in this style does not look cumbersome nor awkward but the arms are covered to the elbows and sometimes lower, and the neck is covered to the throat. Lady Bajpai wore pendant diamond earrings.

The charming daughters of the hosts, Miss Krishna Bajpai and Miss Bhagwati Bajpali assisted and saw ment. They, too, wore their native gowns, the former in a deep golden vellow chiffon edged with a wide band embroidered pearls, crystals and gold, and her sister in the palest edged with wide bands of embroidery in a dull gold and bronze. The diamonds in their pendant earrings sparkled no more brilliantly than their radiant smiles as they greeted the guests.

The Trade Commissioner for India, H. S. Malik, attracted much guez, the Second Secretary of the attention and admiration with his Cuban Embassy and Senora de Herwhite headdress and his well rera-Arango, Senor Ramorio Guertrimmed long gray beard. There was no lack of conversation among the representatives from India, for their English is flawless and much less difficult for Americans to understand than many of the English people who come to this Capital. Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, wife of the Secretary of War, wearing a very becoming dark red gown and hat, and Mrs. Claude Wickard, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, in a soft blue and white print dress with a jacket and small darker blue hat, were unaccompanied by their husbands. Mrs. Wickard was among the early arrivals and Mrs. Stimson was a later caller. The Argentine Ambassador and Senora de Espil were there, the Wolf Trap Farm

By the Way—

To get to see either busy Wilmer Shields or Mary Dublin at the United States Office of Civilian Defense, you must not only have an appointment, but you must give your name and your address before you're admitted to their offices. "Why the address?" we asked the bright-eyed young receptionist.

"Every one always asks," she said. "It's just so we can locate you if we want you after the interview."

First we saw Miss Shields. She was seated behind an impressive looking desk in her private office, looking cool and neat as a pin. Her hair is very dark-brown, almost black, with a few gray hairs, 'and her face is youthful and fresh and friendly. Like most hardworking "gals" nowadays, she wears her hair short and not too curly.

We asked her how she came to be with OCD and this is what she told us: In 1939 she was in her home-town of New Orleans (which accounts for that lovely low-pitched Southern voice she has) working hard as executive secretary for a group of social agencies. In this position, she ran the volunteer office there. Late in the summer of 1939,

Mrs. Deforest Van Slyck, executive secretary of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, Inc., asked Miss Shields to go to New York and help her with the various projects in connection with the Junior Leagues. * * * *

"Why did she choose you especially?" we asked Miss Shields. "Well, because of my social service experience and because I had already met Mrs. Van Slyck." We rather suspect this is an understatement and far too modest. Mrs. Van Slyck undoubtedly sent for Miss Shields because she had heard what a wonderful job she was doing in New Orleans.

Anyhow, to New York she went -became Mrs. Van Slyck's assistant and as such accompanied her to Washington in August, 1941, when Mayor La Guardia sent Mrs. Van Slyck here in charge of drawing up the program for civilian defense bureaus for volunteers. A far-sighted and intelligent woman Mrs. Van Slyck (with the help of Miss Shields) soon had things humming. She felt from the very beginning that there would be chaos if the organization were not centralized-and for this centralization she worked. * * * *

When the job was finished she felt that she must return to her family in Cedarhurst, Long Island-and so she left capable Miss Shields here to carry on. Now, ironically enough, her husband has been commissioned a captain in the Army and is on duty here at the War Department. Feeling that Mrs. Van Slyck was too invaluable to let go, the OCD urged her to remain as consultant-which she has done. As such she represents them at meetings and comes to Washington as often as possible for conferences and consultations.

In private life, pretty blue-eyed Mary Dublin is Mrs. Leon Keyserling. Since she married in the midst of one job, she says she's never found time to change her name. So to the OCD she's known as Mary Dublin.

* * * * Before she came to the OCD she was working co-ordinator of hearings for the House Committee on National Defense Migration. Here she came to know about problems in different parts of the country-and what defense councils were doing. So it's very natural that it was to her the job of director of the survey division of the OCD should have been offered-and only too natural that she should have accepted.

With her husband, she lives in Georgetown-where she has a garden. It's her pet hobby, she says, only with the job she has she can't find time for a hobby -and the only time she can really dig in that beloved garden is between 6 and 7 in the morning.

Plan to Continue Rubber Drive

Salvaging rubber for Uncle Sam will be carried on by clubwomen after the present campaign has ceased, according to Mrs. Newton C. Wing, chairman of the Women's Committee of the District of Columbia Conservation Committee.

Plans for a series of "rubber parties," suggested by Mrs. Wing, are being accepted by the clubwomen. she said. The idea is for members to offer their homes or to secure clubhouses for parties at which the price of admission will be rubber. Tentative plans are being made by Mrs. Henry F. Sawtelle, treasurer of the District Federation of Women's Clubs, for a party on July 4 at her home, 6200 Connecticut avenue. The date, suggested by Mrs.

Arthur C. Watkins, federation president, as fitting for a patriotic proj-ect, isn't definite yet, Mrs. Wing explained. A second "rubber party" is planned for early July by Mrs. D. C. Lowe of the Women's City Club, to be given at that club's headquarters on Jackson place.

One original idea for assisting the current rubber campaign has been carried out successfully by Mrs. St. George L. Sioussat, national defense chairman of the Woman's National Democratic Club. Mrs. Sioussat received permission to place a large barrel in the lobby of her apartment house, the La Salle, which she decorated with a conspicuous "V" and the slogan, "Keep 'Em Rolling." Mrs. Wing also enlisted the aid of conservation chairmen of the federation clubs in the current drive. Inaugurating a telephone "chain

These Men Will Train the WAACS

(The first 440 officer candidates will report to the Women's Auxiliary Corps Training School at Fort Des Moines July 20. Here's a description of the men who'll teach them.)

By GEORGE S. MILLS, Wide World

FORT DES MOINES, Iowa, June 19.-Girls, meet some of the men who will have charge of turning you into soldiers in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps training school here. Staff and faculty of the school consist of 41 commissioned and noncommissioned officers. Not one hard - boiled - Army - sergeant type showed up in seven random interviews. The officers insist that they aren't afraid of the job of fitting women into what heretofore has been one of mere man's last citadels, the Army. Five of the seven officers are married and in their upper 40s or early 50s.

The two bachelors are youngsters, one 28, the other 24.

"A skirt and a pair of breeches are different garments," observed Col. Don C. Faith, 46, affable commanding officer of the school. "That illustrates why WAAC regulations will not duplicate those of the Army but will parallel them."

The colonel, who has held an Army commission 25 years, was on the Mexican border and in Camp Logan, Houston, Tex., during World War I. He was on duty in the Philippines in 1921-2 and in Tientsin, China, in 1931-2.

Colonel's Not Worried.

He was attending the University War broke out, and his experience includes four years as instructor with the Wisconsin National Guard at Baraboo, Wis. He also has served with the 29th Infantry demonstration regiment at Fort Benning, Ga., attending the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and graduated from the War College in Washington in McClellan, Anniston, Ala., in World 1938.

Conditions in Alleys, Hovels Called Menace To Capital's Health

> Tenants, However, Pay High Rents, Cox Tells Criminal Justice Group

Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, provost marshal of Washington, charged before the Criminal Justice Association yesterday that conditions in some of the "worst" alleys and "hovels" of the Capital constitute a "menace" to the health of the city.

He recommended that directors of the association, accompanied by police, visit some of the places. Gen. Cox declared he was surprised at the amount of control the police have over public order in these "worst areas."

"In these alleys and hovels, where the lowest element of the population live," he said, "many places are owned by men of substance who are preying on these lowest elements. There are 10 houses in one of these alleys, where 60 people live, paying fabulous rents. There is only one hydrant to provide water for the entire group." The condition of the toilets there, he added, is virtually indescribable.

Meyer Re-elected President.

"That's a menace to the health of our city. You good citizens ought to go around and take a look at it." Commenting on the situation, Eugene Meyer, publisher of the Washington Post, who was re-elected president of the association, said he understood there were 9,000 homes in Washington with no running water.

Gen. Cox made his suggestion at the end of a speech explaining the part of the military police in maintaining order in Washington. His talk came at a time when the District Commissioners are seeking more stringent control over housing conditions in the war-crowded city. Gen. Cox, in outlining the policies of the military police, said they are co-operating fully with the Metropolitan Police. Since the M. P.s. went on duty here, he said, there had been only four serious crimes charged to soldiers, out of 625 military arrests.

Directors Are Elected.

Guy H. Birdsall was elected president of the Friendship Citizens Association last night at the season's final meeting.

Other new officers named were: Arthur H. Fowler, first vice president; Dr. B. J. Lloyd, second vice president; Charles H. Dorman, treasurer, and Mrs. Ruth Vanier, secretary. Delegates to the federation and Northwest Council will be chosen at the October meeting, it was announced.

Leonard L. Tucker, retiring president, reviewed activities in his annual report, and cited the successful fund-raising campaign of the Civilian Defense Committee as the chief contribution of the year to civic advancement.

The "Friendship plan" for raising civilian defense funds, which was recently closed, received the approval of Col. Lemuel Bolles' office and was used as a pattern by many other civic groups.

After the short business meeting refreshments were prepared and served under the direction of Mrs. Paul Kayser. The group met at the Janney School.

Cash Prizes for Politeness Awarded to 23 Children

By the Associated Press. MASHPEE, Mass., June 19.—The good manners of Mashpee school children have been rewarded again with cash-because one of them once refused money for a favor.

Samuel T. Davis of Boston was passing through this old Indian town on Cape Cod two decades ago when his hat blew off. A little boy retrieved it and when Mr. Davis offered him a dime, the youth replied: "My mother taught me never to accept money for any favor."

Mr. Davis died 12 years ago and his will directed that annual prizes be awarded Mashpee school children who displayed "kind, good manners." Last night $10 and $5 cash awards were presented to 23 children, some of Indian descent, selected by their schoolmates and teachers as most

Officials of the Internal Revenue Bureau today emphasized that motorists must purchase the $5 automobile-use stamp on or before July 1, so that it can be used in connection with the registration for new gasoline ration books during the first three days of the month.

Aid to Small Business Sections of Tourist Train Collide in California Is on Way, Senator Promises D. C. Group

Committee Under WPB Will Be Formed in Few Days, Murray Says

Senator Murray of Montana. chairman of a special Senate com-mittee to study problems of the small businessman, assured the Federation of Businessmen's Association last night that Federal aid for the small business group is on the way. Speaking at a dinner meeting of approximately 75 members and guests, Senator Murray promised that in the next few days a chairman and committee to mobilize small business under the War Production Board will be appointed by Donald Nelson, WPB chief, "Small business is being driven to the wall," he said, but the Senate committee, with both parties acting in perfect harmony, realizes that "it will mean loss of our democratic form of government if we permit small business to be destroyed."

Many Can Help.

Many small businesses, even those employing only 10 to 15 men, can help in the war effort, the Senator said. The problems will be hard to solve, but ways will be found. and "plants engaged in non-essential production will be brought into essential production," he continued. William J. Mileham, president of the federation, was honored at the meeting on his appointment as chief air-raid warden of the District. Estes Brand, representing the Central Businessmen's group, presented Mr. Mileham with an inscribed onyx desk set. A. J. Driscoll, president of the Midcity Citizens' Association, gave Mr. Mileham an inscribed wallet on behalf of the federation.

Mr. Mileham pledged that he would do his best to keep the civilian defense program up to high standards.

Guests at Meeting.

Guests at the dinner included Senator Taft of Ohio, Senator Capper of Kansas, Senator Burton of Ohio and Representative Fitzgerald of Connecticut. Arch McDonald acted as the master of ceremonies. The federation approved a resolution which said the war effort is better served by Federal decentrali-zation of bureaus. Multiple shifts only increase confusion and delay and adds to the Washington housing problem, the resolution said.

The McGehee bill, reducing the District unemployment tax from 2.7 per cent to 0.5 per cent, was unanimously approved.

The next federation dinner meeting will be held in September.

Old, Pre-Munich Gayety Flavors Capitol's Film

That, Indeed, Is a Deadly Handicap To 'Her Cardboard Lover' Despite Its Cast; Sheila Barrett Back

By JAY CARMODY,

It must be the times. It seems only yesterday that it was the fashion to laugh at the romantic gambols of people named Consuelo and Terry and Tony. You could pack a theater with customers who loved vicariously the gayety of it all, the Biarritz setting, the let's-live-tonightand-laugh-at-tomorrow's-hang-over mood of it. Love was a lark, or a mad prank, and every one wanted to be the brittle type, and read Noel Coward as a substitute when he* barrassed to find themselves still acting and talking like that. Or, perhaps they are not embarrassed and it is only that you are embarrassed for them. Whichever it is, "Her Cardboard Lover" has become a feeble-looking romantic farce, a kind of reproof to us as something we might better not have laughed at in the rapturous old days when the world was toppling toward 1942.

* * * *

The moral discomfort of a picture such as "Her Cardboard Lover" does not even await the actual beginning of the story. It starts, indeed, with the cast list at the head of which one finds Miss Shearer as Consuelo, and Taylor as a character named Terry Trindale. It does not become really acute, however, until you get down to the fourth character, a fellow called Chappie Champagne.

"Chappie Champagne," you say, and if you can say it without derision into your tone, you probably can still enjoy the antics of Chappie and his pals and palsesses.

The whole thing is probably just an innocent mistake, come to think of it.

To go with "Her Cardboard Lover." Gene Ford has put together a bright, comedy-accented stage bill which is headlined happily by Sheila Barrett, whose satirical sense of the human race is one of the most communicable emotions an impersonator ever felt. She still sticks to the old hates for the most part, but they are a sufficiently amusing set to make Miss Barrett seem her old wonderful self. Otherwise the bill is composed of Billy Wells and the four Fays, those comic acrobats, the Hilton Sisters, Comedians Arthur and Morton Havel and the Rhythm Rockets, the latter especially full of merit in an elaborate scarf dance which closes the programs. #### Dry Shower Curtain Thoroughly To Help Avoid This Difficulty

By Margaret Nowell

Dear Miss Nowell: Is there anything that can be done to prevent mildew on a shower curtain? Also, can it be removed from one that is badly stained?-K. N. C.

Answer-Thorough and careful drying between showers is the only way to keep mildew from forming, and that is practically impossible in weather like this. If you have two curtains you may alternate them every few days, washing the one you take down in mild soap suds and drying it thoroughly. Many people take down their colorful curtains this time of year, substituting the heavy canvas ones which go to the laundry each week. Or you may purchase the plastic-filled curtains that are guaranteed against mildew. These are more expensive than the others, but, of course, pay their way in the long run. It is impossible to remove mildew from the colorful curtains as the bleach will remove both the color and surface. The white canvas ones may be bleached effectively unless the mildew is completely "ingrown."

Dear Miss Nowell: I have removed my heavy stair carpet for the summer to protect it from moths, and find that I cannot stand the noise of the children's feet on the stairs. They will be at home all summer and I would like to get an inexpensive tread of some sort to keep down the noise. Can you advise me what is available for this purpse?-P. R.

Answer-It is possible that the rope or rubber treads are still on the market. These are inoffen-sive in color and were most inexpensive. Then, next to that in cost are linoleum treads and carpet treads. The carpet ones are very nice, merely a carpet-covered cushion with a metal edge which holds them in place. From the "noise angle" these probably would be the

Don't Allow His Indifference to Keep You From Celebrating

By Kay Caldwell and Alden Harrison

Are you passing up a Father's Day gift for your dad because he doesn't go for that sentimental stuff and claims it's all just a commercialized stunt to sell more nightmarish neckties?

Don't let him fool you! Beneath that somewhat cynical and unromantic exterior, your paternal parent is probably just a big softy, with as much sentiment in him as a 16-year-old maiden in the moonlight. We know of one father who seemed as unresponsive to all the gentler

Domineering Wife Really Angel In Disguise

Isn't science wonderful? According to late reports it has discovered that henpecked husbands live longer than those who rule in their households, or who fight with their wives over which one is to wear the pants.

It is the wives who always speak of their possessions, from the children to the cat, as "mine" and who take the entire credit for any success their husbands make in life. It can easily be seen how enor-mously this attitude on a wife's part conserves her husband's energies. He doesn't have to exhaust himself trying to decide weather he will go to the movies or stay at home. He goes, or stays, according to whether his wife feels like stepping out, or wants to read a new novel. Then his son in college had a strange impulse and sent him a birthday card-one of those cute numbers with its filial sentiments well salted with wisecracks. And what did hard-boiled papa do? He carried that card in his pocket for weeks, exhibiting it to every one in his office and half the cronies he met on the street. Sure, he pretended he was just showing it off because of its cleverness and the laughs that it in-spired, but he fooled nobody but himself. Actually, he was as proud of that card, and of his son for sending it, as a freshman of his first long pants.

By Josephine Lowman 1. "Are there any fattening foods which a slim young girl can eat without getting pimples?

Why Grow Old?"

Answer-Yes. This brings up a mistake many would-be gainers make. They stuff on rich foods, have indigestion and pimples as a result and may even lose weight. Remember that underweight may come from vitamin deficiency. This is one cause of underweight. First be certain that you eat enough fruits and vegetables and fruit juices. Use whole wheat or wheat germ bread. Eat lean meat rather than hard to digest fat meat. Take vitamin B in capsule form. Add these to your diet-take gravy with your meat, be generous with butter on your vegetables and bread, drink at least a quart of milk daily, with cream added. You should eat simple, easily digested desserts, such as custard and ice cream.

2. "Do glands have anything to do with one's weight? Can I get medicine for glandular trouble at the drug store? Will medicine for glandular trouble bring my weight to normal?"

Answer-Glands do affect our weight but only a small percentage of overweights are deficient. Too many pounds usually are due to too much food and too little exercise. If you value your life don't ever buy gland medicine, even if you could, without a doctor's prescription. It would be most dangerous to take without a doctor's advice. No reputable physician will give it to you without first making a metabolism test. Even then he will want to observe the effects on

PITTSBURGH, June 19.-Leaders in the steel industry are expecting a general wage increase which some estimate will amount to almost $200,000.000 a year and become ef-fective within 60 to 90 days. Nearly all executives with whom the situation was discussed today said they believed the War Labor Board would grant a substantial pay boost in the pending "Little Steel" case, and that it "will have to be accepted" by the entire industry. The United Steel Workers of America, CIO asked for a $1 a day increase and a union shop agreement from the "Little Steel" group earned approximately $35,000,000

The board, several months ago, restricted the quantity of honey for industrial use to conserve the small supply on hand. Though the quantities of honey that manufacturers are permitted to use are still subject to quota regulation, a larger amount is now available. Under the new amendment man-

Even the bravest of the golf promoters won't try to book a big attraction for fear that only the caddies will follow the stars. Not even benefit events-Navy Relief Fund, Army Emergency Relief, etc .have been attracting the cash customers.

But Washington's isn't a bad sports town. What has happened is that the Government guys and gals haven't the money they used to have to spend on sports and when they feel in an athletic mood now they want to participate, not watch. This isn't opinion. This has been established.

It has been true for many years but not very many people around town seem to realize that Washington's biggest sport is bowling . . duckpin bowling. At the rate Uncle Sam's nieces and nephews are rolling now the bowling alleys are collecting $1,050,000 a year. This is for games only and does not include the soft drinks, food, shoes, etc.

Many years ago some of the smarter local bowling operators-Morris Cafritz was one-thought he discovered a way of washing off the beer-hall-and-billiard-parlor stigma attached to the duckpin game. The idea was to interest women in bowling; to clean up the alleys, melt the spitoons into genteel ash trays and heave out the bookies and gamblers. It worked. As many men bowl here as women but, chum, the gals have made bowling the biggest sport in Washington.

Cool Air Keeps the Pin Game Hot

One of the best in the business, John William Wood of Lucky Strike and Hi-Skor, was talking about the evolution of the game today. Bill Wood saw the sport divorced from the pool room, watched red leatherette chairs with chrome arms and legs replace the cigarettemarked oak benches and introduced, himself, such added luxuries as murals, magic-eye foul-line judges, night-clubbish powder rooms and bric-a-brac of the sort. Bill thinks he can explain why, just in the last few years and, especially in the last few months, duckpin bowling has broken all records.

"Air-conditioning is one big reason," he was saying. "Six years ago a bowling operator could keep his entire plant open from noon to midnight in the summer and if he found a 5-cent piece in his cash register it came as a surprise. Now in any summer month every bowling plant in Washington and nearby Maryland and Virginia has at least one league every night."

The war (and it's hard to get away from, isn't it?), has helped bowling while it has throttled many other sports, notably football in the smaller colleges, racing, tennis, golf, etc. Not that bowling needed nor wants any help from any war. It's just one of those things and again Wood thinks he can explain it.

Bowling Is Not a Spectator Game

"The necessity of saving gas and tires," he said, "hit golf, tennis, boating, horse racing and, to some extent, baseball. It's pretty awkward, I suppose, getting to suburban golf clubs by bus, and many of the good tennis courts are just as far from the center of the city. Then, too, we have no draft problem. They still have baseball and it's a great game, but baseball, tennis and other sports, where there are only a relatively few top-notchers, have lost a good many stars.

"Bowling isn't a spectator sport. It's almost strictly competitive and men and women of all ages can play it and enjoy it. Finally, there and men and women of all ages can play it and enjoy it. Finally, there Ridgemoor Links Standard meet people by joining a bowling league, and the way the plants have sprouted up you can live almost anywhere in or fairly close to Washington and find an alley within walking distance. Just like neighborhood movie houses."

That seems to tesal as a pretty solid argument, which can be boiled, down, perhaps, to a few words: Bowling is an extraordinary wartime sport. If you think you need special shoes to bowl a pair costs from $3 to $7. Thereafter all you need is 20 or 23 cents for a game.

Incurable Tenpinners Wait for Their Turns

As a matter of curiosity we inquired as to how the out-of-towners, particularly the Midwesterners, were taking to duckpins after coming from sectors where the big balls and the tenpins were used. Mr. Wood revealed that duckpin missionaries are doing a swell job of converting these people but that some of the dyed-in-wool folks won't switch.

"To accommodate them at least six alleys have tenpins and the big balls," he disclosed. "A few years ago, before the great influx, the only tenpin league in Washington was the Iceman's League at the Arcadia. But now there are many more tenpinners here, although we don't allow them to have alleys until the duckpinners are finished."

This may give some idea as to how the bowling boys are doing. There are more than 700 "beds." or alleys, around town and upward of $3.000,000 is invested, but the operators still can afford to be choosey.

Potomac Promises Treat for Fishermen Eagerly Awaiting Black Bass Season

Smallmouth at Spots Easily Reached by Capital Anglers

C-2

Maryland Will Lift Ban On Nation's Popular Game Fish July 1

By GEORGE HUBER.

Toughest two weeks in the life of an angler are those before the season opens. Waiting for the getaway seems to lengthen the time, and that particularly is true this season as anglers wait for the Maryland black bass opener on July 1. Last year it opened on July 15, and the extra two weeks seem like as many months.

The black bass is United States public fish No. 1. It is found in every State in the Union-either as a native or a well-received importation-and it's no exaggeration to say that more anglers fish for black bass than for any other species in this country. They can be caught by any method of fishing-bait casting, fly casting, still fishing, trolling, spinning and so forth-and as for their fighting qualities, well, there are plenty who will say that, pound for pound and inch for inch, a black bass, particularly the smallmouth, outdoes any fish that swims anywhere.

This strictly isn't true, or at least isn't accepted by every one. The tarpon man will put up a good argument, rainbow trout has its supporters, Atlantic salmon diehards will defend their favorite to the last ounce of buckshot, and other fish all have their supporters.

Potomac Offers Much Sport.

But the black bass does supply enough fight, enough stubborn resistance along with its spectacular leaps, dashes and cunning inventiveness in ways to get off a hook that it leaves nothing to be desired in the way of a game fish.

Washington and nearby bass fishermen particularly are fortunate in having the Potomac River, at one time the best small-mouth stream in the East and still one of the most famous. And that the Potomac is such a good bass ground proves the adaptability of this fish. Not native here, they were transplanted from the Ohio River watershed during the middle 1800s and increased in such numbers that later the Potomac black bass was used as the breeding stock for many of Pennsylvania's noted streams.

Listing the places they may be caught on the Potomac is unnecessary. Smallmouths can be found anywhere from Little Falls at the District line right on up to the top and spreading out into the numerous feeders. There are a few places where pollution has done its dirty work, but these easily may be avoided.

Run of Bluefish This Year Appears Likely; Small Ones Are Reported at Ocean City

In other years, when the bluefish schools came north over certain migratory routes, they arrived off the North Carolina coast late in March, and, according to wind and weather either lay offshore or under the beach throughout April, and sometimes until late May. Maine is proving that brown trout in its waters grow about as big as almost any place in the world. Wardens checked 92 brown trout caught from Branch Pond, near Ellsworth and found they totaled 476 pounds, an average of about 5¼ pounds apiece.

The largest weighed 1114 pounds. Many tipped the scales at more than 10.

The biggest brook trout taken this season in Maine was caught in Rangeley Lake. The fish weighed 73/4 pounds.

Transportation is no problem. The B. & O. Railroad parallels the Potomac as far as Harpers Ferry. A through train stopping only at Point of Rocks and Harpers Ferry, both good fishing spots, leaves Union Station at 8:15 a.m. and Silver Spring at 8:29, while a local that hits all the whistle stops leaves Union Station at 1:51 p.m. and Silver Spring at 2:03.

The Potomac offers a wide variety of fishing methods. There is plenty of wading water for those who want to scramble around rocks and riffles with fly or bait casting rod. There are long, smooth, deep stretches for the bait fishermen and plenty of faster riffles and rock-strewn places with shelving hideaways for plug men using boats. And boats are available everywhere. Bait, too, is no problem, as worms, hellgramites, cravfish and minnows may be dug or caught by anglers with little trouble.

Plug casting with light lures is becoming increasingly popular on the Potomac. Anglers are discovering that little baits, weighing from to 1/2 ounce and fished on light tackle-a 10-pound line with long nylon leader is plenty-are very effective. Thy distance and accuracy these little gadgets produce is amazing. Fly rod casting, either with floating bugs in the smoother stretches or with streamer flys in the rougher spots, also is surpris-June 19 Friday ingly good.

The color of baits which attract black bass is a subject still being June 20 Saturday argued wherever fishing is found and probably always will be. Certainly the manufacturers haven't made up their minds because every conceivable shade and combination of colors may be purchased and nearly all seem effective. The writer prefers red and white, either plugs or flies, for early fishing and a solid yellow, sometimes with a dash of red, for late season. But our regular fishing companion stakes his reputation as an angler, and it's a good one, on solid black at all items. And he does all right, too.

Gadget Hooks Fish As Angler Works

Too busy to spend all his time thumbing a reel, a Kansas City angler has constructed an apparatus which catches fish while he is working in his office at a private lake in Jackson County, Mo. He has made several good catches recently. Eyes about the size used with screen-door hooks are placed on posts at the dock, on a tree and on the window at his lake home. A regular fishing line is run through the eyes and attached to a bell in his office. Baiting the line, he will resume his work and wait for the ring of the bell when a fish starts pulling at the edge of the dock, writes Frank Alexander in the Kansas City he will take the fish off the line, rebait the hook and go back to work.

Sacrifice

Ministers, especially, should note that the third syllable of the noun SACRIFICE should never rhyme with hiss, miss, as: "SAK-ruh-fiss." I have checked this word in 10 actionaries. "SAK-ruh-fist" is not listed, even as a colloquialism. "The third syllable should be "fice" to rhyme with mice, or "fize" to rhyme with size. First choice: SAK-ri-fice.

Second choice: SAK-ri-fize. A Cleveland reader writes: "I have discussed your column with two university professors, and we agree that you are not to be taken seriously for you are dogmatic and unwarranted in your stand that one pronunciation is better than another if two or more are shown by the dictionary."

I have repeatedly stated here that report good usage as I find it in the reputable authorities. For example. in checking the noun sacrifice in 10 recognized dictionaries, I find that the third-syllable rhyme with "mice" is the first choice of nine, and the second choice of one; the thirdsvilable rhyme with "size" is the second choice of four, and the first choice of one; the remaining five do not list it at all.

Moreover, I should like to refer the tic toes I apparently have been treading) to page xcill of Wewster's New International Dictionary, Second Edition: ". . . there is usually at least a slight preponderance of evidence in favor of the first pronciation, which may be regarded as the preferred form." Also, in the ruary, 1938, issue of Webster's magazine. Word Study, we find: When two pronunciations are given, it is fair to say that the giant for a brown bear. The female and absolutely nude, but they snugfirst is preferred.'
