Nazi Sub Sails Into Costa Rican Port to Sink U.S. Ship at Dock Germans Claim

3 Torpedoes Launched in Puerto Limon

Several Crewmen And Native Workers Killed in Attack

By the Associated Press. SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, July 2 (Delayed) .- A German submarine launched three torpedoes in Puerto Limon at 8 p.m. today, sinking a United States merchant vessel which was unloading cargo at dock, killing several crewmen and Costa Rican stevedores, it was officially announced

The announcement said that such an attack had been anticipated and that the harbor area had been blacked out, all means of communication taken under Government control, and "suspicious elements" arrested "Nevertheless, the attack occurred culminating in the sinking of the ship alongside the dock," it added. The merchantman was identified unofficially as the San Pablo. The exact number of casualties from the three explosions was not known. Costa Rican laborers who were in the hold of the vessel were killed. There was no count of numerous victims who were only in-

Taxicab Drivers To Start Strike Ballot Monday

Removal of Hankin, Zone and Rate Setup Also to Be Voted On

A vote will be taken Monday and Tuesday by Washington taxi drivers on a cab strike, on zones and rates and on whether to demand the removal of Gregory Hankin as a member of the Public Utilities Commission, it was announced late today by Edward A. Glenn, president of the United Taxicab Drivers, Inc.

While this statement was being issued, members of the Public Utilities Commission were holding a special session at the District Building to plan procedures and rules for the hearing to be held for reconsideration of the new taxi zone rate schedules which are being protested by the Glenn group.

The one-day taxi strike was called off last week at a conference before the House District Committee on an understanding that cab drivers might charge either the old or new rates pending reconsideration and a new hearing to be given by the

In issuing his announcement late today, Mr. Glenn said he had been entrusted by members of his group with the task of bringing about a settlement of the rate question, but that he could not delay any longer for action by the PUC.

His statement was: "There will be a meeting of the taxicab drivers of the District of day and Tuesday, July 6 and 7, day and Tuesday, July 6 and 7. Py the Associated Press. Britain's Egyptian armies clashed with the Axis in violent battle west of El Alamein again today after driving Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Africa Corps into at least temporary retreat in the three-day-old "battle of the bottleneck." Unsubstantiated dispatches from Berlin asserted late today that the Axis armies had advanced within 15 or 20 miles of Alexandria and that the battle of El Alamein was regarded as won These dispatches declared the British were in retreat toward the Nile Delta.

British reports gave an entirely opposite picture, asserting that the battle was still raging 70 miles or more beyond Alexandria. Dispatches from the front said the British, rallying at the eleventh hour, were striking furiously at the Axis invaders. Details were lacking as to whether Rommel had returned after withdrawing last night or whether the British, seizing the initiative, were pursuing the Axis forces. British Lose Cruiser

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 3.-Dr. Charles dio commentator, died at his home here vesterday.

Rabbi of Temple Israel, Boston, from 1894 to 1911, Dr. Fleischer in 1911 organized the Sunday Commons Group there. He led this forum group until he came to New York in 1922 to become editor of the New York American editorial page, a position he held until 1926. He also contributed to magazines and lectured.

Born in Germany, Dr. Fleischer came to the United States in 1880. He studied at the University of Cincinnati and the Hebrew Union College of Cincinnati. He won high commendation from Dr. Charles W. Eliot, late president of Harvard, for organization of society based on respect of the individual.

OPA Holds Little Hope For Easing Week-End Gasoline Shortage

Supply Situation Held Likely to Get Worse Under Present Setup

Informed sources in the Office of Price Administration indicated today there would not only be little gasoline for driving over cupied countries, declaring that the holiday week end, but that the supply situation would become progressively worse until the permanent rationing plan

goes into effect July 22. ists under the current temporary plan that are disproportionate to the officer just returned from a tour of 50 per cent cut in deliveries to filling | Channel positions to the effect that stations are held as the cause of the the occupation armies were "not

It was pointed out that on June 15 the value of units on ration cards comes from free men who treasure lons. That was done when the busy enlarging fields and plateaus, effective date of permanent ration-July 15. Motorists holding higher B cards had not used many units at value permitted them more gasoline than was intended.

Situation "Tight" Here. There are two solutions to the shortage problem, it was said. One would be an increase in quotas to doubtful if supplies in the East would permit that. The other solution would be to cut down rations motorists, allowing sufficient quantities for only most essential driving. That would assure gas for war workers and other essential users. Whether such a rechecking of rations at this late date would be feasible also was considered doubtful.

Relief from the gasoline shortage along the Eastern Seaboard was to be sought today by a committee of gasoline dealers, meeting here with Joel Dean, head of the OPA Fuel Rationing Division, as 17 Atlantic States faced a tourless July 4.

Even motorists who have saved their gasoline quotas for three or four weeks in order to have his definition of democracy as "the enough fuel for a holiday jaunt will find their saving in vain, as gas station attendants, with supplies running low or all gone, will be' forced to shrug, even at "X" cards. The gasoline situation here was 8 described today as "pretty tight," by

Harry Wainwright of Gasoline Retailers, Inc. He said "panic" buying rushes in the early hours depleted the daily supplies of many gasoline stations. Stations Limit Sales. Most filling station operators here expect to run out of gas late today early tomorrow, the Keystone Automobile Club reported after a survey, despite the fact that most retailers were limiting sales to six gallons per customer. Some stations already were displaying "Out of Gas" signs.

Most of the stations will be closed over the holiday week end, it was reported. A few, that received new supplies vesterday, are expecting to remain open tomorrow and Sunday The holiday shortage has developed, dealers said, because July deliveries are to be only half of the amount of gasoline the dealers sold in July, 1941. This cannot be obtained fast enough to meet the "special occasion" demand of the July 4 week end.

Meanwhile plans were under way here today to insure a sufficient supply of gasoline for workers in essential war industries. It is understood that an increased allotment is to be granted certain filling stations in war plant areas, the additional fuel to be allowed for essential use by war workers.

BERN, Switzerland, July 3 .- Berlin dispatches indicated last night that Germany had abandoned hope of a final decision on the Eastern front this summer despite its victory at Sevastopol and a tremendous offensive effort now under way in the Central Russian sector.

The Nazis do hope by September to wreck the Russian Army organization, stabilize winter positions and release a large number of German troops probably in anticipation of an Allied second front. Berlin militarists have refrained from commenting Should the Axis armies accom-

Householders to Have Fats Returned in Unrecognized Form

Explosives Are By-Product Of Soap Used in 14 Industry Processes

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE, Wide World Science Eidtor.

NEW YORK, July 3 .- The household fats, whose collection on a national scale has been announced may come back to you-unrecognized-in your clothing, shoes, stew pans and the paper and ink you use to write letters.

The purpose of the fats collection is to get more glycerine to make explosives. But glycerine is only a small percentage of the fats, and the cheapest way to get it is by first using the fats to make soap, Glycerine is a by-product of the

The soap is what is coming back to you, because it is an indispensable part in the manufacturing processes of 14 great industries. Of course, in addition, some of the fat from your kitchen, on the billion-toone chance, might return to you in soap for toilet or tub.

Textiles Biggest User.

Even if small boys felt different about it, washing would not be the main use of soap in the United States. The biggest single customer form, socks, overcoats, pillows, fine dresses-all require soap in the manufacturing process somewhere; indeed, as a rule, several times. It is used in cleaning, scouring, bleaching and for steps without end in processing of fabrics. For your shoes and all leather products, soap is used in what the technicians call fat-liquoring compositions to impart suppleness and

The stew pan use of soap comes from the fact that the metals industry is another big consumer. The uses are numerous in processing metal, being mostly cleaning operations. The war will take some of your fat in these processes to produce the casing of shells as well as the explosives inside.

your ink are remote but positive. Most inks-probably all inks you can get in this country—are soapless; but in England some inks are considered superior due to use of soap Your kitchen fats will come back to you in a really big way if and when you get to using those new synthetic rubber tires. The second largest use of soap now promises to be in making synthetic rubber.

In the buna rubbers which Washington reports persistently put forth as the principal tire synthetic to be made under the American program soap is an essential in the mysterious part of the pricess which chemists call polymerization. That is the point where the molecules of butadiene and styrene, both gases, get together and grow in size.

A catalyst, which is a trade secret, is the cause of this polymerization. But the catalyst works best when undertaking the amalgamation job in a soapy emulsion. And there are other uses of soap in making various synthetic rubbers.

Use in Lubricants.

Soaps are used in making some lubricants, notably for rope greases As insecticides, soaps perhaps kill as many bugs as they destroy germs on the hands and faces of human beings. Soap is used as a spreader for insecticides, and serves to choke off the breathing areas of Soap for road-building is something fairly new. The old-fashioned hot tar spray has given way to asphalt emulsions, and soap is used in the latter. Furthermore, soap mixed with fine sand is found in Michigan State Highway Department experiments to be a good protection against surface damage which is done to roads by the winter ice removal chemicals. It is used also to cause oil to mix more thoroughly with highway soils. For painting, soap goes into socalled water paints and into the paint sprays. Soap is used in making dust-proofing fluids for pulverized coal. it is essentitl in poison gas decontamination. Oil wells use soap to plug the pores of underground sand which is leaking water into the oil. Finally, there are many uses of Soap in industrial hygiene, for

Volunteers Called To List Landlords in County Rent Control

Registration to Start Within Few Days, Woogerd Announces

A call for volunteers to aid in the registration of landlords for Federal rent control in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties was issued today by James W. Woogerd, area rent director.

The registration will start in a few days and must be completed by August 15, he said.

Registration blanks will be available at rent control headquarters, 216 Carroll avenue, Takoma Park, probably by the first of next week, Mr. Woogerd said. He added that blanks also will be available at post offices and police stations in outlying areas so that landlords will not have to travel long distances to obtain Teachers Help Asked.

He explained that the volunteers will be needed particularly in Hyattsville, Rockville, Chevy Chase, Upper Marlboro and Capitol Heights. The director also asked school teachers to assist in the registration in Takoma Park.

While the volunteers will work only until the registration is completed, Mr. Woogerd said he would need the assistance of school teachers in checking the registration forms through the summer months. He has not yet asked school superintendents of the two counties for

"Although my staff here is not yet completed," the director said, "we are now open to receive complaints. We are trying to settle all rent problems which do not require investigation." The rent control office is open

Gas Rationing Discussed. Mr. Henderson explained also, one member said, that publication of the names of holders of "X" gasoline cards was not aimed primarily at members of Congress.

From that point the afternoon session swung into a lengthy discussion of gasoline rationing and the 21%-cent price increase Mr Henderson told reporters later he believed he had justifid this increase, but there was angry talk in the Senate about investigating his legal authority to grant it. The suggestion came from Senator Mc-Kellar, Democrat, of Tennessee.

Senator Russell, Democrat, of Georgia, a member of the Appropriations Committee, told the Senate that the price increase constituted an inequitable tax, particularly in such Sates as Georgia which he said was traversed by a pipeline carrying oil and gasoline to States where sales were not rationed.

In the closed committee session, members asked also about the price administrator's attitude stabilizing wages and he was reported to have replied that such stabilization had to be brought about if ceilings were not to be punctured indiscriminately.

Curbs on Fireworks And Gasoline to Help Safe and Sane Fourth

Most War Factories Will Hum On as Nation Marks Independence Day

By the Associated Press.

A Nation fighting to protect the freedom it won in other wars celebrates tomorrow its first wartime Fourth of July in a quarter-century under conditions that may make it really "safe and sane. Most war factories will hum on, many fireworks have been abandoned and, on the populous Eastern seaboard, gasoline rationing will keep the greater part of the area's 10,000,000 motorists off the highways.

True, many of the 54,000,000 residents of the 17 gas-starved Atlantic Coast States plan to make their usual holiday trips by train or bus and some municipalities-mostly in the Midwest-are to stage huge fireworks displays, but travel generally will be in the form of parades and fireworks in the form of speeches.

Army warnings that fireworks displays and large gatherings might present opportunities for token air raids and for saboteurs and actual bans on such celebrations on the East and West Coasts as well as the Guif States indicated those areas would observe the holiday quietly.

Legion Plans Big Show. Washington's annual municipal fireworks display was canceled and it was announced that work would go on in all Government offices connected with the war effort. Inland, however, in some Central and Southwestern States, where the danger of possible air raids is less than that on the coasts, many big events were planned to attract throngs of celebrators, unhampered by gas rationing. Typical of these will be Min-neapolis' annual American Legion show at Powderhorn Park, where 200,000-largest crowd in the event's 13-year history—are expected to attend an all-day program featuring the mass induction of 1,500 Navy recruits.

A civilian defense program, including demonstrations on how to extinguish incendiary bombs and a big fireworks display at night, also will be presented in the park.

All war plants in the beehive Detroit area will operate as usual, as will the North American bomber plant at Kansas City, where Nat Milgram, president of the American War Dads, has issued an appeal to celebrants to buy War stamps and bonds instead of firecrackers. Ballistics Experts Slated to Testify on Eklund Case Gun

Revolver Identified As Type Formerly Used in Army

The first degree murder case against John Eugene Eklund continued today in District Court, following identification yesterday of a .38 caliber, old United States Army Colt revolver, found by a Washington detective almost a year after Eklund's first conviction.

Assistant District Attorney John W. Fihelly, one of the prosecutors, said Richard Harlow, fellow-prisoner with Eklund in District jail, to whom he is alleged to have disclosed the whereabouts of the gun found in Baltimore, would be placed on the stand. Ballistics experts and several other Government witnesses are also to be called, he said.

Detective Sergt. Robert V. Murray, attached to the Homicide Squad, told the jury of several trips to Baltimore in an effort to locate the gun, which he eventually dug up on May 28 in a park about a block from where Eklund is said to have stayed while in Baltimore in 1940. Sergt. Murray said that wrapped about the gun, about nine inches underground, was some old newspapers, which fell apart as he

October, 1940. The gun, which has not yet been introduced as evidence, was said to be an Army revolver made in Earlier in the day the Government resaurant in nearby Virginia where it is claimed Eklund fired into trees. The bullets were .38 caliber. The Government will attempt to show that several pieces recovered from a tree there were from the gun. A lieutenant from the Baltimore Police Department testified that he and several Washington officers went to Eklund's boarding house in Baltimore, where they found in his room several articles, including a Washington newspaper story about the "sniper." The McClaine shooting was one in a series of slayings the "sniper" who terrorized Washington for months

Three Washington officers, Capt. Robert J. Barrett, assistant chief of detectives; Lt. Aubrey M. Tolson, and Lt. Jeremiah Flaherty, now mand of Rear Admiral Godfroy, but head of the homicide squad, took the stand during the day to relate the police investigation of the case. Capt. Barrett told of the searches near the Virginia restaurant which finally yielded a gun wiper, tin can Tolson quoted the defendant as denying that he knew anything about the shooting by the resaurant, on Roosevelt Island, the box of bullets, tin can, brick or gun wiper. A clerk from a sporting goods store identified the bullets and gun wiper as the type which he sold to a man arrested with Eklund.

2 Commando Cadets Drown In Maneuvers at Ottawa

By the Associated Press.
OTTAWA, July 3.—Two cadeta among a force of 30 Commandotraining Canadian troops who were ordered to "recapture" the Ottawa police station yesterday by swimming across a 6-foot-deep canal were drowned while several hundred spectators, including Defense Minister J. L. Ralston, watched the maneuvers Three other cadets who failed to swim the 75-foot-wide Rideau Canal were rescued and revived in the demonstration which was part of Canadian Army week.

The Ottawa police station supposedly had been captured by the Japanese when the Commando officers ordered the troops, in full battle dress, to plunge into the water beside the Canadian Pacific Railway yards.

Authorities withheld the names of the two men whose bodies still had not been recovered late last night, and an official investigation was

Park Dormitories

The expressed willingness of the War and Navy Departments to give up their ill-conceived, little-used super parking lot on the old polo field in West Potomac Park clears the way for possible use of the twenty-acre "white elephant" as a site for temporary Government dormitories. Now that this erstwhile recreational spot has been destroyed, every effort should be made to see that the area is put to some good use. Most of its asphalt expanse is being wasted as things now stand. Scarcely half a dozen cars make use of the 1,303 parking spaces provided for War Department employes and, with the opening soon of new parking facilities behind temporary buildings near the Monument, only about 150 Navy cars will be using the 1,303 Navy spaces.

An excellent opportunity thus presents itself for sparing acres of other recreational areas in Potomac Park from invasion. The Public Buildings Administration is planning to erect large groups of dormitories for war workers in East and West Potomac Parks. These projects will entail the withdrawal of some forty-five additional acres from Washington's rapidly shrinking recreational resources. The elimination of so many of these downtown park and playground areas during the emergency construction program has brought wara recreational crisis which may seriously affect the morale and physical fitness of Government personnel.

The fact that plans already have been drawn for structures of rambling type to fit particular recreational sites chosen in East and West Potomac Parks is not a convincing argument for proceeding with the original program. The need for saving as much park land as possible is so urgent and the chance for rectifying the polo field mistake is so opportune that PBA officials would seem to be thoroughly justified in revising present plans. It might even be necessary to redesign the buildings to make maximum use of the polo field site, but the extra effort would pay real dividends in terms of worth-while recreational benefits for war-burdened residents of the crowded Capital. In recognition of the importance of providing these advantages, District officials are planning to spend $800,000 of emergency funds to develop recreational facilities that will, in some measure, compensate for the areas already sacrificed. To aggravate the situation by making further encroachments not absolutely necessary would be short-sightedness in

The Flag on the Magazines

The current display of the Star-Spangled Banner on the covers of a multiplicity of magazines did not simply happen. It was planned and prepared for with a skill amounting to genius. William Bishop Warner, president of the National Publishers' Association, and Paul Mac-Namara, promotion manager of a periodical syndicate, were the sponsors of the enterprise, and they were aided and abetted in their work by representatives of the Treasury Department. As originally conceived, it seems that the project anticipated the exhibition of the national emblem on only those publications in which Mr. MacNamara professionally is interested. The expansion of the idea to include the entire field of magazine manufacture allegedly was Mr. Warner's contribution. A letter dated March 15 went out to 1,200 different editors. The Treasury Department "climbed on the band wagon" with a telegram urging the use of the slogan "United We Stand" and phrases calculated to create intensified enthusiasm for the buying of War bonds and stamps. The result of the drive, certainly, is worthy of study. More than 500 magazines are known to have accepted the suggestion. The number eventually may be double that many. One cover shows the flag draped over a sketch of Washington's home at Mount Vernon, another a mother and son putting out the flag for daddy in the service, still a third a mother and little daughter raising the flag on a pole which is as high as heaven itself. A garden periodical offers the flag in flowers, and a fiction fortnightly interprets the flag in a sunrise. The imaginative capacity of the artists has been commented upon with appreciation.

merely as a symbol but likewise as a composition of harmonious form and color. Everybody knows and loves it for what it is and for what it signifies. Hence the undoubted popularity of the present magazine cover display.

A Losing Battle

One of the most critical battles of the war-the fight against inflationis being lost at a pace which should cause deep and widespread public concern. And it is being lost for such a variety of reasons that no single remedy can be expected to turn the tide.

The most conspicuous cause of the failure at this time is the open break between Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Congress. A few weeks ago Mr. Henderson seemed to be winning favor on Capitol Hill. Now he is in the legislative "doghouse," and there is hardly a member in either branch or either party with a good word to say for him.

The explanations of this breach are many, including both political and temperamental factors, but the reasons for the bad feeling, relatively speaking, are unimportant. The significant fact is that the people of the country are going to be hurt, and badly hurt, unless there is a turn for the better. Congress has attempted to deal with Mr. Henderson by cutting the appropriation for his office to a point where, according to the price administrator, it will be impossible for OPA to carry out its functions, which include the maintenance of price ceilings, the rationing of scarce goods and the control of rents in defense areas. All three of these functions are vital. If they are not performed in an efficient and effective manner the people, and not Mr. Henderson, will be the principal sufferers. Congress should keep this fact in mind.

The row over the appropriation for OPA, however, is but one of the reasons why we are losing the battle against inflation. Another is the failure of Congress to enact legislation to keep farm prices down. Instead of dealing realistically with this phase of the problem, Congress, under the spur of the insatiable farm bloc, has deliberately sought to raise farm prices, and is still engaged in that effort. Still another reason for which Congress must assume responsibility is the inadequacy of tax legislation now in process of enactment. The tax bill as approved by the Ways and Means Committee is severe, but it will raise considerably less revenue than requested by the Treasury and it will fall far short of having the anti-inflationary effect which might be achieved through the adoption of drastic tax legislation.

The fight against inflation also is being lost because the administration, for political reasons, has refused to adopt a firm policy against unwarranted wage advances. Congress is not responsible for this deficiency. The President and his advisers have refused to let this phase of the problem go before Congress, preferring to deal with it in their own way, but they have done virtually nothing to prevent the general wage advance which now seems all too imminent. So far as its inflationary effect is concerned, there is no difference between a rise in wage levels and an advance in farm prices. Both add to the cost of production and tend to destroy price ceilings imposed without taking these added costs into account. Mr. Henderson would meet this difficulty by paying subsidies to businessmen caught between rising costs and fixed prices. But this subsidy proposal is a device which merely conceals the weakness in the price-control structure. It might be successful for a time, but in the end it could only result in saddling the public with the expense of preferential treatment for minority pressure groups.

Without a doubt, the inept handling of this whole problem is the most disheartening phase of our war effort. And it is the more discouraging because it is clear that Congress and the administration know what needs to be done, but have nevertheless failed to take the necessary steps. Furthermore, as matters stand at this time, there is little reason to believe that these necessary steps will be taken unless and until public opinion demands that they be taken. The question is whether this aroused public sentiment will develop before or after the full impact of inflation has been felt by the people.

Federal Efficiency

By pledging its support of efforts to cut red tape and otherwise to improve efficiency in the Government departments, the Civil Service Commission has taken a step which should encourage widespread elimination of time-consuming, wasteful, war-hampering procedures in the Federal establishment. The commission, in a letter praising Secretary of the Navy Knox's campaign to get rid of red tape and unnecessary personnel, points out that many Federal employes have felt that if they ventured to institute business reforms in their offices they would incur official displeasure and possibly penalties of some kind. and Stripes is beautiful in itself, not | The Civil Service Commission now gives assurance that it stands ready to see that farsighted employes in other governmental agencies are similarly rewarded for any contributions they may make to the cause of departmental efficiency.

> The commission is in a position to render particularly valuable service to the departments in connection with personnel reductions and readjustments. It is in this field that great opportunities will be found for economies that not only will save money but should help to stem the steady influx of war workers to this overcrowded city. There is scarcely a department where reorganization and consolidation of offices and staffs would not produce a pool of surplus employes whose services could be made available to agencies in need of additional workers. It is to be hoped that the commission will press this important phase of the efficiency movement. It is high time that all the departments should take the Navy's cue and "strip for action" against such traditional enemies as red tape, excess personnel and bureaucratic selfperpetuation.

Churchill Explains

That Winston Churchill would receive an overwhelming vote of confidence from the House of Commons was a foregone conclusion. At no time has there been a real move to supplant him as Prime Minister or overthrow the coalition government he heads. The sole object of the "no confidence motion" introduced into the House by a handful of members was to get him to yield the conduct of the war to technical military hands. And even that motion, made under the first shocke of the Libyan defeat, was frowned upon by the majority of Parliament and the press. It would have been withdrawn by its makers if Mr. Churchill had not insisted that it be put to a vote.

The really significant aspect of the two-day debate in Commons climaxed by Churchill's speech was the factual statement concerning the North African operations.

The more the facts are examined, the more surprisingly disquieting does the current disaster in North Africa appear. With characteristic candor, Mr. Churchill admitted that, at the start of the campaign, the British imperials numerically outweighed the Axis forces in everything from manpower to tanks, artillery and air strength. What was lacking apparently was quality and generalship. The one hopeful note in his confession of a critical situation is the possibility of large local reinforcements. With nearly 1,000,000 men and proportionate thousands of tanks, guns, airplanes and motor vehicles dispatched to the Near East, it would seem possible notably to strengthen the Eighth Army from Palestine and Syria without denuding those regions below the danger point. Still, large reinforcements obviously are vital, since Mr. Churchill admitted the loss of more than half of the army which originally faced Marshal Rommel, There was no explanation of the astounding fall of Tobruk in a sixhour assault when the British high command had expected the place to hold out for ninety days or longer.

Mr. Churchill was least convincing when he said, in reply to charges that he tried to direct the war from No. 10 Downing street, that his policy had been "not to worry the generals but to leave them alone to do their job." No one has ever accused Mr. Churchill of trying to dictate the tactics of specific operations, which no sensible civilian leader would ever do. The charge against him is that he maps out grand strategy, logically compelling his generals to work out the tactical dispositions by which those strategic decisions of his can be implemented. Since his critics did not press the discussion, this basic issue remains unanswered.

However, Mr. Churchill has won his parliamentary victory, and not even his strongest critics doubt his honesty, energy and general capacity as a great political leader in wartime. There is literally no alternative to Mr. Churchill.

Another Neutral Dies

It is not certain whether the bottom of the ocean is a kingdom ruled by Neptune or a republic bossed by Davy Jones, as no one going there to check up has ever made a report, but it seems fairly certain that the most interesting inhabitants of the region are not even human. They are the sea serpents. But now a rare specimen has been washed up on the Orkney Isles. According to press reports, it is twentyfive feet long, with powerful fins, hair all over its body, and with a head like a cow. Turkey in Danger Despite Her Treaties

Writer Explains Threat To Ankara Republic In Near East War

By Bertram Benedict.

The Axis drive into Egypt may prove more of a threat to Turkey by shutting off Allied nations' supply routes than by bringing Axis troops into striking distance of Turkey. Even if Rommel's forces reach the Suez Canal, they would still have to traverse about 125 miles of Egypt, 150 miles of Palestine or Transjordania, and 300 miles of Syria to invade Turkey from The fall of Sevastopol, especially if some of the Russian Black Sea fleet were to fall in usable condition into German hands, might be much more of a threat to Turkey. If the Germans threatened to move against Turkey across the Black Sea, Ankara might find discretion the better part of valor. As it is, the Germans have developed a major military and air base in Bulgaria, near Jambol, only about 30 minutes' flying distance from Istanbul. And Bulgaria has something of an army. All of Turkey's neighbors have now been invaded or occupied-Bulgaria, Greece and the Soviet Union by the Axis; Syria, Iraq and Iran by the British.

The Turkish Army is supposed to con sist of about a million men-reputedly tough fighters and well drilled, but possibly short of modern war-waging equipment. The Turkish Navy is small. So far the Turkish government has refused to give belligerent warships of either side access to the Black Sea through the Dardanelles.

In 1939, after Italy occupied Albania Turkey concluded a treaty with Great Britain and France whereby each side was to come to the assistance of the other in case either were attacked in a Mediterranean war. Turkey was to get credits and military supplies, Britain and France were to get (i.e., buy) Turkish products. The treaty seems to have contained escape clauses—at all events. Turkey has remained a non-belligerent.

The treaty provided that it was not to require Turkey to take sides against Russia, for relations between Ankara and Moscow had become friendly. When Russia aligned itself with Germany in August, 1939, the Turks feared a joint German-Russian drive into the Balkans, and became suspicious of the Soviet government. Nevertheless, a Russo-Turkish treaty of non-aggression was signed in October, 1939, and another in March, 1941. When Russia was attacked by Germany in June, 1941, the former friendly relations between Ankara and Moscow broke out again. Turkey viewed with alarm the German invasion of Yugoslavia and Greece, and mobilized its army but the rapid success of the German arms restrained the Turkish government from aiding the Greeks, if it had had any such intention. By this time. Turkey was unable to get British supplies through the Mediterranean, but could send supplies to Germany, and receive German supplies, across the Balkans.

In June, 1941, a few days prior to the German invasion of Russia Turkey signed with Germany a 10-year treaty of non-aggression. Each party agreed to respect the other's territorial integrity and to take no measures aimed directly or indirectly against the other. Turkey declared that the treaty was signed with the acquiescence of the British government: the preamble declared that the prior commitments of either party were not affected. In October, 1941, Turkey signed a trade treaty with Germany whereby Turkey was to get war supplies from Germany and Germany was to get chromium ore and other products from

On December 3, 1941, President Roosevelt proclaimed Turkey a state whose defense was vital to the security of the United States, thereby making Turkey eligible for lend-lease supplies from the United States.

Discusses Compensation Board Reserve And Alleged Unreasonable Economy. To the Editor of The Star

The inordinately high unemployment compensation tax of 2.7 per cent on payrolls has for several years been a thorn in the flesh of employers in the District of Columbia. Relief is promised if H. R. 7203, providing a more reasonable levy is passed by Congress.

There is no excuse for the reserve of $28,000,000 which the Unemployment Compensation Board reports. Try sometime, as a private employer, to find a stenographer for the mere pittance of $100 a month anywhere in the District of Columbia. Unemployment? Bah! And now to add insult to injury comes neat little "Important Notice to Employers" from the Unemployment Board "In the interest of national economy," it reads, "and the conservation of basic commodities and supplies, employers will not be furnished duplicate copies of contribution forms."

Thus blithely does the board ignore a long-established fundamental of business practice—the keeping of a carbon copy It would be just as reasonable for the Treasury Department to announce that no longer would it furnish duplicates of the income tax report forms.

As for economy, look again at that $28,000,000 reserve. CECIL J. WILKINSON.

Of Typical Americanism

To the Editor of The Star: For the best phrase of typically casual and imperturbable heroic American humor so far spoken during the present war, I nominate the remark of Admiral Fitch to Capt. Sherman when the Lexington was about to be abandoned. "Well, Fred," said Admiral Fitch, "I guess this is where we get off." MARK KRONEN.

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

"ELLIOTT STREET.

"Dear Sir: "I have journeyed all around the world. and enjoyed the sound of rain on roofs in Paris and London, and on the metal roofs of Samoa, but I do not think I have ever enjoyed it more than when it falls en the tin roofs of Washington. "As a newcomer to the National Capital I have found many delights here, but in nothing, it seems to me, do Washington residents enjoy themselves more than in their backyards. Even in the tiniest ones they have their terraces, and there they sit out and talk in the dark. "I can always tell when there are any Army women on the terraces, because they talk so loud. They must get this way of talking on the reservations. As far as my ears are concerned, the Navy women have by far the softest voices. But this letter was not meant to compare the merits of the women folk of the various branches of the service! "What I would like to do is to point out to you, and to the thousands who read your delightful column, where somehow the balances are kept true, that listening to rain is one of the very best things any one will do. "Listening to the rain on a roof will help keep one sane. In these insane times, when the rules of reason weigh little in the balance, it is good to know something to listen to which helps the individual soul keep in trim. "That is why I advocate night rains. They are the ones to listen to; in the day time, especially during these late afternoon storms, there are other noises which distract. In the night it is possible to listen to the tune of the rain-"I wonder if you have noticed that now that we have daylight saving, and ment workers has been put up an hour, that the late afternoon storms still come just as the clerks are getting out? "The farmers tell me that this entire

the quitting time of so many Govern-section needs rain badly. "This is all the more reason why we city-bound folk should not miss any of the benefits of such rains as we have. Listen to them, in the night. Swallow the sounds with your ears, and let them refresh your soul. Think of the sturdy roof, and imagine it has a soul, too, stern in resistance.

"Imaginatively yours, "C. V. B."

All-night rains are, indeed, a rarity in these parts.

The water table, by which is meant the amount of residual water in the earth, is far too low. We need inches more of rain, before many a suburban residence will get water in its basement again drainage often have water in their basements. It is, indeed, a suburban sport. Perhaps some of them wonder why they have not had a wet basement in recent years, even in the winter. It is because the water table is not high enough. We need many inches more, before this famous "table" becomes level enough so that any additional water will seep into basements.

Listening to the rain on roofs has always been a favorite occupation of imaginative people The French novelists, in particular, are fond of writing about rain on roofs.

In the one of Zola's many stories, we forget which one, there is an excellent description of it. Balzac was fond of such scenes. As far as we recall. Charles Dickens did not specialize in the sound of raindrops beating on roofs. When he described a rain, he described it all over. The reader felt the water in every pore by reading how it soaked the cloaks and shoes and minds and hearts of the characters.

Impressionism, maybe it was, but somehow you could get the feeling of a rainy day in Paris better than you could of the same sort of day in London.

The "tin roof" of many Washington row houses has its special duty in acting as a sort of drum for rain. Down it comes, hour after hour, with a swish such as no slate or shingle roof

There is a real drumming, but modified by the attics and air chambers and the like.

At first this sound may strike the listener as lonesome. Undoubtedly many newcomers to Washington find it so. In time it will lose this aspect, and present only facets of fascination for the imagi-

There is a fairy tale quality to rain on the roof, although as far as we can remember there is no fairy tale which utilizes it.

Anderson used snowflakes, in his story of "The Snow Queen."

There was sadness, in Hans Christian Andersen's tales, but no cruelness, as in some of the other fairy tale books. We suppose the psychologists have ruled such stories out for the children of today. If so, the little ones have lost a great

"Rain on the roof" might be made the subject of a special number by one of the better dance bands.

It could be made rhythmically fascinating by the use of rapid notes on the piano, accented by a steady but light roll of the drums. The fascination of such rain, however, is not confined to its listening aspects. There is something very appealing in the mental side, such as the appeal of the good which such a rain does. Especially the night rain. Whatever falls, is down to stay, for there is nothing to dry it up right away. It is easy to picture the good which such a downpour does.

In the morning, one is sure, the grass will be greener, and the sky bluer, and the shrubs and flowers far prettier than when everybody went to bed The flowers, and the lawns, and the very streets, will have been washed clean, all except the heart of man, wherein selfishness, pride and malice struggle in mortal combat around the world. Is it any wonder that at one time in the history of this perverse and stiffnecked race nothing less than a 40-day rain was required to bring its members to their senses?

Letters to the Editor

Demands Editorial Defense Of Washington Climate. To the Editor of The Star:

The Associated Press reports that in an address to the National Dry Goods Association in Chicago on June 17 Achibald MacLeish, Librarian of Congress, spoke of "American citizens from all over, from every State," engaged in the war effort in the Nation's Capital, as having, totidem verbis, "gone to work at low pay in the worst climate on the continent with no more hope or expectation of recognition or reward than a stevedore on the night shift." On the continent, mind you! Dwell, for a moment, on those words and the horrid implications contained therein.

I have been amazed and not a little disappointed at the absence in The Star of an editorial counter-blast to this base calumny on our fair city.

Time was when such an infamous libel anent local weather conditions was quickly and righteously denounced in appropriate and unmeasured terms by our oldest newspaper, ever alert to take up the cudgels against all onslaughts of such character, regardless of source.

It saddens me to feel that, perhaps, the passage of the years has dulled that trenchant pen formerly so mighty in the defense of Washington in the face of scurrilous meteorological attack. I may be mistaken in this and the omission mere oversight on The Star's part. However, it is not too late and the challenge should not go unanswered. Let the poet be brought to book.

THORNTON J. PARKER. (Editor's note: The Star interpreted Mr. MacLeish's slander as the exercise of poetic license in the sound cause of stimulating public morale. The Star did not construe the utterance as having any remote connection with Mr. MacLeish's position as distributor of facts and figures. If the libel of Washington's perfect climate made Mr. MacLeish, addressing a sweltering Chicago audience, feel better, why deny to him the ecstasy of martyrdom? If the thought of thousands of bureaucrats sweltering in Washington's summer climate encourages the taxpayers of the Nation to greater effort, or even if it discourages the bureaucrats from bringing more thousands of citizens to this crowded city, is not discretion the better part of valor on the part of Star editorial writers?)

Comments on Suggestion That President "Take Charge." To the Editor of The Star:

Maj. George Fielding Eliot, in his column in The Star, has been urging that President Roosevelt "take charge of this war," as commander in chief of all the Allied military froces all over this planet. The same idea has been taken up in Congress.

Those who are inclined to favor this course would do well to read the recently published article on "How War Came," by Forrest Davis and Ernest Lindley. In the light of disclosures made in that article, the surprise of our forces at Pearl Harbor appears more inexcusable than ever. Those disclosures also tend to confirm the feeling which many have had from the beginning, that the responsibility for the conditions which made the surprise possible was not all in Hawaii, but that a large part of the blame, if not the larger part, should be placed on the "higher-ups" here in Wash-

A common plan and co-ordinated action among all the anti-Axis forces is certainly desirable; but that is a military job—a job for some one with lots of military training and experience. It certainly is not a job for an amateur strategist who has had no such training or experience. We have had too much of that sort of thing already.

In both the Army and Navy we have men who have given the greater part of their lives to the study of military problems. They have been trained not only in our military academies at West Point and Annapolis, but in the course of their military careers they have received further training at the various service schools, at the General Staff School, and in the War College, with plenty of practical experience in between. Throughout their adult lives they have been maintained and trained, at great expense to the taxpayers, for just such emergencies as now confront the Nation.

The President of the United States. even if he had the necessary military training and experience, has too many other things to look after, to find time for planning the world military strategy to fight the Axis powers. The latter task is big enough and important enough to deserve the full time and attention of any one who would undertake it. But Mr. Roosevelt, despite his announcement, some months ago, that "politics is out." is still displaying too much interest in the strategy of local political campaigns, to give his full energies to world military problems. And as to his abilities as an organizer, he has given us plenty of concrete examples in the way he has organized the various activities of the executive branch of the Federal Government; and in the opinion of many, the record is not very reassuring.

Churchill's Statement Revealing

May Prompt Changes In War's Over-all High Command

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Prime Minister Churchill's speech to the House of Commons is a revealing document. It tells how military decisions are made in the war and how tenuous is the relationship between the commanders in the field and the government at

While there is satisfaction here that the Prime Minister has won a vote of confidence, may be some changes in the over-all high command of the war itself may emerge, just as changes occurred the last time there was a crisis in the British Parliament.

Mr. Churchill's speech emphasizes the difficulties of communication and the lack of information which the home government seems to have had in operating the North African theater of war. Thus the Prime Minister says:

"On June 13 there came a change. We had about 300 tanks in action. By nightfall no more than 70 remained and this happened without any corresponding loss having been inflicted on the enemy. I do not know what actually happened in fighting on that day.'

Hears of Tobruk's Fall.

The Prime Minister says that on June 21st when he was in Washington he was handed a message saying Tobruk had fallen. What steps were taken between June 13th and June 21st to find out the weaknesses in the British setup are not disclosed. But it is revealed by the Prime Minister that he wanted Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, commander in chief of the Near East forces, to take command, and the latter persuaded him otherwise. The speech on this point says:

"Before the battle began I urged Gen. Auchinleck to take command himself because I was sure nothing was going to happen in the vast area of the Middle East in the next month or so comparable in importance to the fighting of this thought he was the man to handle the business. He gave me various good reasons for not doing so and Gen. Ritchie fought the battle. . . . I cannot pretend to form a judgment upon what has happened in this battle."

Here is an instance where the fate of North Africa apparently was decided in a few exchanges between the Prime Minister and the commander in the field. There was no over-all high command in London composed of officers responsible to neither the army nor the navy, as such, but competent to decide the military value of what Gen. Auchinleck was reporting.

"Entitled" to Confidence. There was no high command ready to say who should or should not take the field to conduct the battle against Field Marshal Rommel, who already had proved himself a great tactician.

Mr. Churchill recites the history of the months prior to the battle and discloses that in men and materials the Allies had superiority. "We were therefore," he said, "entitled to feel confident in the result of an offensive undertaken by us and this would have been undertaken in the first days of June if the enemy had not struck first."

Here is an amazing confession of what military men have throughout this war characterized as a vulnerable state of mind in high places—the defensive attitude. Thus role and the London government the French waited behind their Maginot line and expected to be safe. Preparations for offensive Minister says this was unexpected warfare seem not to have been fully by the higher command in the Midcarried out as yet by the British on any of the major fronts. The British military advisers of the Prime Minwaited for the Japanese offensive in the Malay Peninsula and lost Singapore.

The Prime Minister declares that Libya but the Prime Minister's adwhen the preparations for a Ger- dress reveals that the British deman offensive in Libya "became plainly visible it was decided, and I think rightly, to await the attack and weapons—a picture of war manon our fortified positions and then deliver a counterstroke in the greatest possible strength."

Strategy Proven Failure. The history of the present war time to strike is before the enemy shows that awaiting the attack and does. then counterattacking has not been a successful strategy and that defensive warfare can be justified only if one's strength is inferior. The British had superiority in numbers danger in the immediate reaction. We see that in the comments on the Near Eastern war, both in this country and in England. There is a defeat. The immediate reaction is: Who is to blame?

Yet among the critics of Prime Minister Churchill are those more responsible than he for the decline of British power in the last 20 years. This they forget, washing their hands of guilt for the last setback and seeking a scapegoat.

They raise the cry, "How can this be?" And the Prime Minister is asked to explain. But the explanation requires, to be accurate, an analysis of full 20 years of victory dissipated; of illusions about reality; of a diplomacy that embraced its enemies and turned its back on its friends; of a pacifism emanating from both extremes of society, from the right and from the left, with a class egotism in both, both permeated with a guilt complex, a subconscious will to relinquish their civilization and die nobly

America at Fault, Too. During all this period Mr. Churchill was a solitary Cassandra proclaiming the decline to deaf or hostile ears, and one suspects that now, when the mess that he inherited has inevitable results, there is a certain compensatory satisfaction in his critics having their come-

It is as though a careless house owner, having refused to accept expert warning that his house was ill protected, should call in the expert when the house was blazing, and when there is delay in extinguishing the flames shouts, "Look at him! He doesn't know his job!'

These thoughts lead me to America, whose house was also ill-protected, out of the same mentality as the English. If we are to draw conclusions from a series of disasters, let us draw them for ourselves as well as for the British

Neither Britain nor America are military powers. In land warfare we are inexperienced amateurs, up against the world's greatest professionals. Each of us has grafted a young army, on an old stock, with a 19th century mentality. The Germans and Russians have new armies, reorganized from top to bottom, with new methods of warfare, and, even more importantly, with a new mentality of warfare. Recently the Germans commented, "If Erwin Rommel were in the British Army he would be a sargeant." That is probably true, but it is also true of our Army.

And, strange as it may seem, the two States have more democratic armies than the democratic countries. There is more artillery of nearly 8 to 5. The Brit-opportunity to rise in the ranks; there is more personal attention paid to the individual recruit; and there is a greater mental and spiritual participation in the war on the part of these armies. Germany and Russia wage revolutionary wars, for revolutionary objectives, with revolutionary methods. We don't.

The old form of army was of units of combatants, each separated-navy, air force, armyeach jealous of its own sphere; and within the forces everything separated; infantry, tanks, antiaircraft, etc. The modern German and Russian armies are working societies, organized like a great industrial factory, where every process fits in with another

But not only this: The whole people are part of the fighting society. Everything that every one does is a contribution to the war effort. In reality there is no life outside the war effort in these countries

No Single-Mindedness. This has not even begun to be achieved in this country. There is no complete single-mindedness. We have sporadic "drives" for this or that, which fall apart when the drive is accomplished instead of systematic, continual and integrated effort. Take a simple thing: We still have not a systematic, house-tohouse, continual salvage campaign in this country.

It is a terrible blunder to assume that systematic appeals are a system. Every factory manager will tell you that he doesn't produce by appeals, but by organization. If we want scrap iron and rubber, let us not appeal; let us organize and go and get it. We haven't even defined what scrap rubber is. Is it the White House doormat? Is it useless rubber or inessential rubber? If we are after inessential rubber. then hundreds of thousands of tons of stair treads, rubber carpets, doormats and many other things should be requisitioned. But you can't depend on people carrying them to a filling station.

There are vast amounts of scrap iron on the farms of this country. There are deserted farms strewn with scrap iron. But in the former case the terribly overworked farmers have not the time or the gas to transport their own scrap, and in the latter there is no one to do it.

Youth Draft Urged. this requires regional. county, town, village and blockby-block organization in the cities. Organizations have to be created, not for some single purpose, like the collection of scrap or the sale of bonds or protection against air raids, but for continuing communal endeavor in all fields.

The CCC camps have been dissolved. They have no adequate function in the present situation. But why not now draft the entire summer vacations of all boys over 16 and under selective service age who are not otherwise engaged in the productive process for work on farms, where they are desperately needed, using the CCC facilities for this new war purpose?

From the setbacks in Libya and Egypt to the reactivation of our Army, to the civilian organization of available resources, to education on the issues of the war in every Army camp and every school is a single line: The mobilization of the whole people for the war of the peoples. An example of the latter is the present confusion on the subject of alarmed about; that there is no danger of living costs getting out of control: that there is no necessity to regulate wages and that the accumulation of money by the masses is an economic asset. This is typical of the kind of information spread from Washington. Another illustration is the conflict on

By FRANK R. KENT.

Since his appointment as Director tant matters. of War Information, Elmer Davis probably has had more unsolicited advice how to run his job than any other public offi-is hoped that Frank R. Kent. Mr. Davis does not miss the true significance of its volume. What it means, of course, is that, prior to his selection, the whole business had been botched. The setup was bad and its operation worse. The lack of authority made it impossible for a good man like Archibald Mac-Leish to be effective, and the other organizations were so full of small jealousies and rivalries that nothing remotely resembling competent coordination was possible. The result was that newspapers and correspondents, unable to get accurate information, have been flooded with vast quantities of boobish propaganda, turned out by unqualified amateurs, the effect of which was irritating and the cost appalling. The advice with which Mr. Davis has been deluged is indicative—first, of disgust with the way the war publicity has been managed; second, good will toward the new director; third, desire that he should fully understand the things that have caused the trouble.

Another is that the volume of the domestic administration propaganda put out by the publicity army literally clogs the mails. Alexandria's Fall Would Be Worse Disaster Than Singapore, Would Upset Allied Strategy, Writer Says

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.

The bad news from the Russian front is completely overshadowed by the drama which is now unfolding in the Egyptian desert, where the Nazis have been approaching the Nile Delta with incredible speed.

There is little ground for optimism. The British are fighting with their backs to the wall.

British defense until today has consisted mostly of sporadic rearguard actions. Whether this was due to some high strategic purpose of the British commander in the Near East, Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck or to the fatigue of the British forces, which have been fighting a losing battle for the last three weeks, is not clear.

The news is contradictory, though private reports seem to indicate the weariness of the British troops. The Axis forces, having the initiative, choose the points where they want to strike and the British must rush their forces here and there to cover the most threatened objectives.

How many reinforcements the British have received in the last few days and their quality are questions. The Free French in Libya gave a good account of themselves three weeks ago, but whether the troops from Syria are as good as the desert fighters who opposed Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in June remains to be

Deep Concern in Washington. There is also an Egyptian army, but the Government of King Farouk has not declared war on the Axis. The hesitation of the Cairo government is easy to understand. The Egyptians are good fighters. The army has about 50,000 men who would have come in very handy in the current battle. But the British were reluctant to permit this army to be thoroughly trained for fear that it might become a tool in the hands of the Egyptian nation-

The Egyptian army was maintained, therefore, as a mere parade and police force to handle riots and mount guard before the King's palace. Even the few planes the Egyptians purchased had to be yielded to the British in 1940, when Britain was so short of aircraft.

No one in Washington attempts to disguise the deep concern with which the outcome of the battle for Alexandria-which will decide the fate of Egypt and in all likelihood the entire Near East-is awaited. The entire British strategy of this war depends on whether the British can check the Nazi advance.

The hope is generally held that that famous old British maxim, "Britain always wins the last battle," will materialize in the present Egyptian campaign. The loss of Egypt would mean the loss of the whole region as far as the Persian Gulf and the Black Sea.

Turkey, which has been willing to take her chances with the Allies, will be placed in a position where she may have to yield to the Nazis' demands for free passage of troops to attack the Caucasus. It would be pushing wishful thinking too far to imagine that if Egypt falls we will be able to offer any serious resistance to the Axis forces in Palestine, Syria and Iraq.

Revised Strategy Held Likely.

There is little hope that the natives of those countries who are still sympathetic to our cause will be able to do much for us. They are neither sufficiently armed nor equipped to face the Axis. There is a Polish force of some 50,000 men in Palestine, former prisoners of war released by the Russians. They are firstclass fighters, but are equipped only with rifles and machine-

The possibility of losing Alexandria worries the British naval command because Alexandria is the only remaining naval base worthy of that name in the Eastern Mediterranean. Light British units can, of course, use the base in Cyprus and for a while until the Nazis begin to attack the coast of Asia Minor, those at Beirut and Haifa. But it is fully realized in naval quarters that these will be usable only for a short while and eventually the whole of the Eastern Mediterranean will have to be cleared.

Britain's loss of Alexandria would be considered even a greater tragedy than the loss of Singapore and Rangoon.

consequences of the Axis establishing itself in the Nile delta and along the Suez Canal will be greater for the Allies, including Russia, than the fall of the naval fortresses guarding the Indian Ocean. Should this catastrophe occur and indications from the front are that it is not unlikely, the entire strategy of the United Nations will have to be revised.

The strategic decisions taken by the Allies after the conferences between Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov, Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt were based on the assumption that the Red Sea artery of communication would remain under control of the Allies.

McLemore-Americans Afflicted With Telephonitis

By HENRY McLEMORE. The War Communications Board has started a drive against America's most common disease.

It isn't whooping cough, measles, chicken - pox, or the common cold -it is telephon-

All of us have been asked to use the telephone as sparingly as possible so that lines will be available for c ommunications vital to the war Naturally, al of us will do our pest to co-operate with the board, but its members must not feel too badly if we don't show 100 per cent co-operation from the start.

We Americans are so used to picking up the telephone 15 to 20 times a day that to ask us suddenly to abandon it probably would give us a form of the "bends." We must wean ourselves away from the use of the telephone, just as some unfortunate folk gradually have to give up the use of intoxicating spirits or the clipping of coupons.

Local-call telephonitis is bad, but the acute, galloping form known as long-distance telephonitis is much worse. Once you catch this, the only cure for it is the bills that you get once a month, and even that requires a long time.

Calls England for Time.

Let us have one too many drinks of water, one too many bites of any of half a hundred foods, and the sight of a telephone floods our mind with memories of dear and nearly forgotten friends in San Francisco, Atlanta, Boston, Dallas, New Orleans, Denver and Los Angeles.

We have talked to more people who didn't know who we were, or who remembered us only as the rather stout man over in the corner who tried to do card tricks, than there are publicity agents in Washington. But we are just a beginner at the heady weed of long-distance telephonitis compared with some of our friends.

Take Harry Grayson, NEA sports editor. When Harry wants the correct time he doesn't call the local central, but turns immediately to the central of some city that isn't even in the same hemisphere. More than once he has returned to a sitting room to announce proudly that his watch is the only really correct one in the house, having just called England and set it by Greenwich meantime.

Sheriff is His Pal.

Harry was at our home not long ago. Some one in the group that was gathered missed Harry. We rushed to the telephone just in time to catch this bit of conversa-

"But you do remember me, Sheriff. Sure, you do. I was through your town a couple of years ago. Just got to thinking about you and felt I had to call you up." We banged down the hook.

"Whom were you talking to?"

"A pal of mine. The sheriff in Las Vegas. Helluva good guy. Should have called him up long ago. If you ever go through there, be sure to give him a ring."

Collect Calls Suggested. There's Mr. Dick Andrade of Dallas, an oil man who has raised more money for the Chinese than any other one American. He should leave his brain to the Bell Telephone Co. If the company ever found out what inspired Mr. Andrade to turn to the long-distance telephone as often as he does, and was able to communicate it to other

Americans, it could close shop and retire all its employes on a handsome pension within a year.

He scorns calls to any city nearer than Bombay, though he did make a call from Louisville to Honolulu one Derby week to have a jug band play Hawaiian music to his friends in Hawaii, who took turns listening. Once a newspaperman named Henry McLemore called Guatemala on our telephone for no other reason than that it looked like the best bargain of all the foreign countries listed. He didn't mind at all. but his wife did and dragged him away from the phone just as he was beginning to learn a little Spanish from the operator in Guatemala. If the WCB would be kind enough to take a suggestion from us on how to reduce long-distance calls, here it is: Make it compulsory that all long-distance calls be collect. Convention Appeals For Teachers; Government Funds Are Sought

By the Associated Press. DENVER, July 3. - American school teachers began writing outlines today for two new study courses-victory in war and leadership in a move toward a lasting world peace.

The new topics won't appear as regular classroom subjects, but will be woven into all study courses on the curriculum.

No Baseball Next Year If War Continues, Texas League President Declares

Win, Lose or Draw

By FRANCIS E. STAN.

The Williams Case: And Ruth in 1925

At a time when the Boston Red Sox's pennant picture seemed to look bright, after nearly nine years of bitter disappointment and prodigious spending by Owner Tom Yawkey, a strong, sinister undertone has been added. The offender, of course, is Ted Williams, who, in a particularly ill-chosen moment, chose to "jake it," as the boys say, thereby incurring (1) a $250 fine, (2) the displeasure of Beantown fans and (3) the wrath of his teammates and his manager, Joe Cronin.

It will be interesting to see what effect Williams' stunt the other day has on the flag drive of the Red Sox. The zany slugger has been on the spot many times in the past, but this spot beats all for weighty import. Now nothing less than victory for the Sox is likely to convince his teammates and the fans that Williams did not cost the pennant.

Williams' stunt is not without precedent. Babe Ruth tried to be bigger than his team and the game in 1925, and Ruth was a bigger man in baseball than Williams. It didn't work and Ruth, an idol dethroned, had to change his style to regain his rank as the No. 1 guy in the industry. It was almost a perfect parallel and it might do Williams some good to look up Ruth's record in 1925 when the fans soured on him, the Yankees finished seventh, Manager Miller Huggins slapped a $5,000 fine on him and his big boss, the late Col. Jacob Ruppert, stuck by Huggins

Babe Set Precedent for the Sox's Slugger

Williams never has held Cronin in high regard as a manager. That was evident almost from the first time he saw Cronin, although how Theodore set up himself as a judge of managers always has been a source of wonderment. It was that way with Ruth in 1925, too. Although Huggins' Yankees had won pennants in 1921, 1922 and 1923 and barely had been nosed out in 1924 by Washington, Ruth centended that his

The Babe wasn't a bad guy. He liked to have a good time and, sometimes, the times were too good. It was in 1925 that he contracted his famous stomach-ache, and it was in that year that his fielding fell off and his batting . . . well the slugger who hit .393 and .378 in 1923 and 1924 was only a .260 batter for the major part of the season of 1925.

Ruth was a good-time Charlie. He liked the high life. He gobbled hot dogs and avidly pursued the grape. He forgot to sleep at nights. but success, nevertheless, still came easily and the Babe reached the stage where a manager didn't seem important. Nor did the manager's strategy. When he got a sacrifice sign he lashed out. When he got the hit sign he bunted.

When Col. Ruppert Backed Hug Against the Babe

When he got unbearable, Huggins fined him $5,000, a record that still stands. His batting average 118 points off, his reputation as a fielder vanishing, and his popularity a thing of the past-Chief Rival Ty Cobb was presented with a $10,000 check by the city of Detroit the day (August 30), that Ruth was fined-Babe awoke.

Men far apart in time and space sometimes fall back on the same sin ple strategems when they find themselves in similar predicaments. When Col. Ruppert refused to back him against Huggins, the Babe apologized to Huggins. The next season, 1926, he batted .372. The next year he set the home-run record of 60.

But Ruth lost on the entire deal. He reformed but he had hobnobbed with characters not acceptable to baseball and he had kicked over the traces and expressed a wild, gypsy spirit, and probably the succession of such episodes cost him the job of Yankee manager . . . or manager of any big league team.

The Navy May Not Be So Lenient

It might be well for Williams to remember what happened to Ruth. Yesterday Williams apologized to Cronin. That's what Ruth did, too. But Ruth's teammates lost confidence. Their Mr. Big had fallen and so the Yankee team also fell. In the last 24 years only one Yankee team has finished in the second division. That was the 1925 club that broke

Of course, Ruth was a wild, jolly fat man with a sense of humor Williams is not fat nor jolly nor humorous. He's the greatest hitter in baseball now, and he knows it. But he hasn't Ruth's flair, and the actions from the Red Sox-Yankee series, idleness of New York and Boston that parallel those of the Babe aren't as spontaneous. A Williams gone berserk isn't a Ruth gone entertainingly wild.

Perhaps the worst that can be said of Williams is that he is insubordinate. His dressing-down the other day was the third incident of this sort in his career, only a few seasons old. He was fined for not being able to "take it." A few fans had booed him for not trying hard, or something, and in a childish, petulant way he redoubled his efforts to make himself ridiculous. It might be added that he succeeded admirably. tactics that prompted Cronin to But wait a minute! This is the fellow who not long ago signed as a naval flying cadet. When he did so the fans of the country hailed him.

suddenly he became a hero of a sort by enlisting. Now this business! For a fellow who can't take orders and who is sensitive to criticism from a paltry percentage of baseball customers, Williams doesn't seem to be the guy who can do the job the Navy requires. At any rate. Ted won't get away with the Navy what he has been getting away with the Red Sox because Uncle Sam doesn't care about any .406

Cochrane's biggest problem appears to be to find a third baseman. There are more than enough stars to fill the other spots, especially the Bob Feller, Hutchinson, Mickey Harris and Hank Grodzicki around.

He had counted on Buddy Lewis, the peppery Washington infielder, but Lewis, along with Hank Greenberg of Detroit and Joe Marty and Hugh Mulcahy of the Phillies, is too busy with service duties to report for baseball assignments.

Ernie Andres probably will hold down third. A member of the Great Lakes team, the former Louisville American Association player has impressed Cochrane and would become the seventh Great Lakes member to make the all-star squad.

Landis Planning

Subsidize Minors

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF,

DALLAS, Tex., July 3 .- If the war continues into 1943 there will be no professional baseball in the Nation. says J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas League-and thus the opportunity will be offered to put the game on a solid basis before its resumption.

Gardner, back from an extensive trip through the Midwest and East. brought his indorsement of a plan advanced by Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, but not yet formally sub-in the war situation, the major leagues will not operate next year." Gardner observed. "They wouldn't be able to get players, because of the war drain, and they wouldn't get the attendance, one of the principal reasons being the rubber and utomobile tire shortage." The Texas League head took occasion to admit that the optimism of baseball men that wartime would bring increased interest in the game had been misplaced. The view had been that the people would want recreation-would want to get away from their worries.

Strikes at Baseball Chains. "The people are not going to see baseball when the Nation is in such túrmoil over war," Gardner said.

He praised the Landis plan, which, in effect, would do away with chain store baseball as practiced by individual big legaue clubs and would substitute one big chain-a subsidized program aimed largely at aiding the Class B, C and D leagues.

Under this program the major and minor leagues would co-operate in the acquisition, development and adconduct baseball schools, try-out camps, lecture and movie exhibition programs, to co-operate with others interested in amateur and semipro ball and in general to have charge of all matters connected with the instruction, development and placing of recruit players.

Such players would be placed iniparent abilities, giving preference within classifications to clubs in territory most adjacent to their homes.

Subsidies for Clubs.

The plan includes subsidies to clubs below A classification such Edgar Smith of the Chicago White as $1,000 to Class D; $1,500 to Class Sox or young Hal Newhouser of De- C, and $2,000 to Class B. After reimbursement of the subsidy each club would receive all payments for Brown bats from either side of sale or draft of player contracts. the plate, but in the event a south- This, Gardner said, would give paw starts, the National League clubs added incentive to develop The subsidy fund would be a re-

Such players after advancement. f not capable of the higher service, would be subject to reclaim by the clubs from which acquired but at lower prices.

Would Halt Competition. Players, before transfer to clubs of lower classification, would have to be waived by all clubs of higher classification at waiver prices not exceeding those if the players had been selected by the claiming clubs from the classification next below the claiming clubs. The plan, Gardner says, would do away with competition between major and minor league clubs in signing players because the majors could CAMP LEE, Va., July 3.—It'll be sign only those players of immediate Corpl. Meanwhile, ton for the Philadelphia A's in 1940, added Schepps, the independents have to take the leavings. He says such a state of affairs has lowered the brand of baseball perceptibly in the Texas League. Landis takes the view his plan would mean "lower profit per sale but high turnover" as against "higher profit per sale, but low turnover. He thinks it would encourage local ownership of clubs which he terms preferable to ownership or control by outsiders. Then, too, he believes the plan would enable higher clubs to give players opportunity for service without too great financial risk, which would result in constant addition of new blood to teams.

Short sport story—Last spring 20-year-old Bob Chesnes failed to make the grade as a pitcher with the San Francisco Seals and was farmed to San Jose of the California League. He didn't get much fielding support there and one day, right in the middle of a game, he stalked off the mound. "I can play shortstop better than that," he growled, taking his place in the infield. He did. Now he's regarded as a very promising short fielder.

Good Fields Loom for Junior Golf Tournaments, Likely Last for Some Time

Tussle for MA Crown At Congressional Starts Series

Maryland Open, Amateur For Boys to Follow Tuesday's Contest

By WALTER McCALLUM.

Junior links championships, very much a part of the golf calendar this month, undoubtedly won't find the big fields of other years, for the youngsters nowadays have more serious things than golf to think about. But the three junior-title tourneys coming up in July, even though they may be the last for a while, will turn out good fields.

First of the trio of jumor events this month is the Middle Atlantic championship, which hasn't been advertised very much. It will be played Tuesday over the 36-hole route at Congressional, and entries will be accepted by Secretary Robert A. Keilty up to 9 a.m. that day. An entry fee of $1 will be charged, and entries will be accepted only for junior members or sons of members of Middle Atlantic Golf Association clubs.

Eddie Johnston, the smooth swinging Baltimore youngster, won last year's tourney, joining a list of mid-Atlantic junior titleholders which included Bobby Brownell and Otto Greiner. So far the juniors have not been seriously affected by the war, even though some of them are in military service. But their minds hardly are on competitive golf as they have been in other and more carefree years.

Happy Cruising Days Return as OPA Rations Pleasure Craft Sufficient Fuel

THE EVENING STAR, WASHINGTON, D. C., FRIDAY, JULY 3, 1942.

Enough to Be Issued To Permit Running For 50 Hours

Maximum Is 250 Gallons With Four Per Unit Of Horsepower

By MALCOLM LAMBORNE, Jr. Pleasure boat owners in the East Coast ration area, including Washington, will be allowed gasoline sufficient to operate their boats for approximately 50 hours through the rest of the summer, the Office of Price Administration announced

Under a revised plan designed to permit each yacht enough gas to remain in commission through the season, inboard boats will receive 4 gallons for each unit of horsepower in its engine for a six-month

A maximum limit, however, has been set at 250 gallons. On the basis that the small cruiser now in vogue today consumes an average of 5 gallons an hour, this top limit would permit 50 hours of

Means Return of Long Trips. First and foremost it means local skippers can take those long-distance trips which were shelved when fuel rationing went into effect and permitted them only 3 gallons a week. In addition, the Government is anxious to see as many yachts in commission as possible because of their value in the event of emergency. The horsepower on which owners will base their claim for new ration cards is the highest power the manufacturer of the engine claims that particular power plant will generate. In other words, if your engine rates 40 horsepower, you will be permitted to buy up to 160

If your engine is over 62.5 horsepower, you can purchase the top 250 gallons, but no more, regardless of the horsepower, OPA claims.

As for outboard engines, they will receive 5 gallons per horsepower, with the "ceiling" set at 40 gallons. Must Prove Ownership.

July 9. When you apply, take along some evidence or proof of the manufacturer's rated engine horsepower, as well as your certificate of award of number or some form indicating your ownership. Ration boards are not going to take your word.

Yachtsmen applying will be issued either "E" or "R" non-highway coupon books containing the proper number of coupons to be torn out when gas is purchased.

The basic ration may be used as the owner likes, OPA reports. Boats actually engaged in defense work through the Coast Guard Auxiliary or boats used for training purposes prior to entering the Reserve may apply for the fuel necessary to carry on this work. Those craft used for commercial purposes where the boat is the owner's means of livelihood also will be granted additional amounts of gas as needed for such use.

Beginning with July 11, yachtsends of cruising through September. Under the present system the best he could expect, regardless of horsepower or fuel consumption, is 36 gallons, which is a piddling amount to any motorboat man.

First Private Estimates Place Crop Close to Three Billion Bushels

CHICAGO, July 3.-Crop experts. after careful survey of the Nation's of New Jersey and Texas Co. corn belt, today suggested the possibility that the corn harvest may be the largest since 1932, when a bushels was produced. These were the first private or official estimates to be made this season.

C. M. Galvin, widely recognized expert, issued an analysis of corn conditions suggesting a crop of 2.-644,000,000 bushels is possible. This would compare with 2,673,000,000 produced last year. However, another expert, Mrs. E. H. Miller, forecast corn production at 2,748,000,000 bushels. If the Miller forecast could be achieved the harvest would be the 108% 108% best in a decade.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Flour business and demand for wheat from milling interests gave the futures market an upward thrust today, but early gains of a cent a bushel were wiped out in a subsequent retreat.

Late selling, which carried prices below yesterday's close, was blamed on hedging sales in connection with the new crop movement, prospects of large receipts in the Southwest the first of next week, conflicting claims from the battlefront in Egypt and estimates of private crop experts suggesting total wheat harvest may exceed 900,000,000 bushels again this year. President Roosevelt's statement

Richmond Bank Reports Firms Forced to Make Big Adjustments

Et the Associated Press. RICHMOND, Va., July 3.-Industry and trade in the fifth Federal Reserve district show the disruptive effects of the war economy more clearly month by month, according to the monthly review of financial business conditions released today by the Federal Reserve Bank 1940.

The review, covering the month of May, added that "Business firms are having to adjust to an increasing number of rules and regulations made by Government agencies in the interest of the all-out war work. The review said, however, that the fifth district has relatively few industries using critical material that cannot change over to some type of war work.

The labor situation in the district was described as about the same with the exception that "there has not been quite as much difficulty in obtaining necessary farm labor Reappointment of John W. Scott as was feared earlier in the season." In Virginia the number of workers on payroll increased 0.6 per cent during the month and the amount of the payroll rose 6.8 per cent.

The issue apparently hinged on the lighting of the ship as it came into Washington. Mr. Wills said he had observed a complete blackout during the alarm period when the ship was down river and the crew members had gone to their emergency posts. The blackout lasted all night, but during the half-hour alarm period traffic was ordered ton will leave the Municipal Court halted and transportation lighting extinguished.

Mr. Wills said he had done "exactly what I was ordered to do" and had not turned on his wharf lights. Wardens' Version.

Discussion of the case came to a head at a meeting of the Southwest wardens last night at which they gave this version of the story: The wardens informed Mr. Wills before the sailing that the boat would be permitted on the river only called from the stands at Griffith if it used running lights and no others. Stock Freezing During Inventory Seen Factor In Crosstown Decision War Production Board orders restricting manufacture of buses and condidates for the Democratic nom- decision of the Public Utilities Comment of a new cross-town bus line.

Announcement that the company had received notice from the WPB to the effect that streetcar and bus manufacture would be "frozen" temporarily after July 18 was made last night by Dean J. Locke, transit company staff engineer, after the conclusion of a three-day public hearing before the PUC on the proposed Military road bus line. If the WPB order means what transit company officials interpreted

it to mean, it may deal a death blow to the proposed crosstown bus line, for the time being at least. Opposed on Two Grounds. While spokesmen for many thousands of organized citizens had demanded approval of this line, company officials opposed it on two grounds: That the line would not prove compensatory within a reasonable period, and that under instructions from the Office of Defense Transportation it should not extend any bus service that was not Gregory Hankin, PUC chairman, said at the close of the hearing that it may be "more than a week" before the commission would be in a position to render a decision. The transit company has ordered 400 buses and 167 streetcars. Deliveries on 25 buses and 67 streetcars are expected by July 18. One hundred of the new buses were intended to serve the new War Department Building in Arlington Rationing a Possibility. The WPB order stated that inventory of materials on hand would be taken. It was assumed that where there are balanced inventories production would be resumed shortly, but that streetcars and buses would be rationed on a national basis. In the windup of the PUC hearing on the crosstown bus line, S.

R. Bowen, company counsel, argued commander of Commandery No. 2, that if the company could not give desired service on existing lines with see how the commission could order a major extension.

Nathan M. Lubar, head of the Steering Committee for the Crosstown Bus Line, representing more than 50 civic groups, said that since the company expected some additional buses for existing lines the new service should be promptly ordered. Ralph A. Cusick, speaking for communities near Nebraska and referred to alleged activities avenue N.W. and Godfrey L. Munter, for Chevy Chase areas, argued house, service and new services for their

He was taken to St. Mary's County Hospital with a workers given so-called war service fractured pelvis and later was removed to Providence Hospital. He later contracted pneumonia, police reported.

A police scout car was damaged last night and another automobile overturned in a collision at Thirtyfifth and N streets N.W. Mrs. Elizabeth Lederen, 59, of Arlington, Va., a passenger in the private auto, was admitted to Georgetown Hospital for observation. Her son-in-law, Ferruccio Ginspi, 26, also of Arlington, driver of the car, was taken to No. 7 precinct, where he posted $100 bond for his appearance in Police Court today. He is charged with failure to yield the right of way. Two other passengers in the overturned car were uninjured, police reported. The scout car, driven by Pvt Walter W. White, 27, of Arlington, was responding to a trouble call at Georgetown Hospital at the time of the accident, police said. Neither Pvt. White nor Pvt. S. P. Smith, his partner, was injured. Two colored children received injuries last night when struck by automobiles in the street in front of their homes. They were Delores May Johnson, 5, 440 O street N.W., treated at Freedmen's Hospital for head cuts and body scratches, and Kenneth Whitfield, 2, 80 Defrees street N.W., treated at Sibley Hospital for possible broken ankle.

How to Be Happy Though Living in Washington

Today's Guest Columnist Says That Life Can Be Beautiful-But in Some Other Town

By Alfred Toombs

(Editor's note: The whimsical Mr. Toombs of The Star's reportorial staff has torn himself away from press conferences, threealarm fires and the city editor long enough to make public his sage observations of Life as Lived in Washington. For his smile that hides a breaking heart, the jashion department thanks Alfred and turns him loose on an unsuspecting public.-H. V.)

The pert little girl who customarily operates this concession has grown a little reckless. For 364 days of the year she toils to please the customers with her own wise and witty observations, or those of carefully selected commentators. Then she lets down the bars to admit this dissident bum. with the certain knowledge that anything I write for her column is going to frighten away all possible readers.

Guest columns-except, of course, those which precede and follow this one in this space—are generally pretty insipid. That knowledge affords me something in the way of protection, for I am certain that rabody is reading this-especially, I hope, The Boss, I assured Miss Vogt that no one would see this, but she said that was all right because it was being used merely for decorative purposes-a blank space on the page looks bad.

In fact, there has been some question as to whether motormen and bus drivers who have been involved in accidents recently which threatened the lives of the passengers should be charged with breaking traffic laws, or charged with at-

California Idea

Pish salad with shredded lemon pulp is a very special California idea. To serve six persons, combine 2 cups flaked fish, 2 cups shredded lettuce. 4 cup chopped celery, 3 tablespoons chopped green pepper and 1/2 cup lemon pulp and juice. Blend with mayonnaise. To prepare lemons, remove all skin and membrane, and with scissors cut peeled fruit in small pieces, saving any juice. This shredded lemon pulp will pleasingly hearten up fish, egg and other salads in place of pickles.

Change Powder Shade

Summertime, time to change your powder shade! If you're dark, you need a glowing one with a rosy undertone to offset sallowness in your tan. Dusk rose is a shade you'll like. If you're lucky enough to be blond, cultivate the "golden girl" look with dark rachel, warm gold without much rose-you don't need it!

Made for walking-and it's patriotic to walk these days-this washable dress of celanese sandy crepe is handpainted in grape tones on a natural shade that conserves dyes.

What's New in Town?

A portable cooler for bottled beverages is an excellent article to include among your party equipment. One style that we saw recently is made of metal with a large handle covered by rattan. The round body boasts six large holes through which the necks of the bottles protrude, thus making it easier to serve and eliminating the unpleasant task of fishing around in the cold, wet ice for the bottles. A convenient opener is attached to the cooler by means of a long metal chain. This article is attractive and practical and you will find it handy to have when serving refreshing drinks to your guests who are enjoying the cool atmosphere of the lawn or porch.

Purchase for your garden a three-piece set of unpainted furniture. The set is made up of a settee and two matching chairs, each having slanting seats, high back rests and very broad arms. The pieces may be left unpainted, but oiled to give a rustic appearance, or you may paint them in your favorite color. If you have a rather large lawn and intend to do a lot of entertaining this summer, be certain to see the unpainted table and bench sets on display in several of the larger stores. These go well with the settee and chairs and round out your garden equipment. This set, like the above mentioned, can either be oiled or painted to add to its appearance.

* * * * A suggestion for the bride: Be sure to take care of that lovely dining table by using heatproof mats. These are an innovation over the old-styled "silence cloths" because they can be used conveniently even when playing cards for they are attractive in appearance. They are topped with imitation leather in either walnut, mahogany or white finish, are water and heat resistant and are washable. A nice feature about the mats is the fact they fold in three sections, and can be stored in a drawer of the serving table when not in use.

Are Dependent Upon Sleep

Observe How Much Your Child Needs; Regulate Hours

By Lettice Lee Streett

Anybody who knows the first A B Cs of child care realizes that late hours are detrimental to a youngster's health. If children are to have steady nerves and robust bodies, as well as the reserves on which to grow, they must be given long hours of undisturbed sleep every night.

It is true that not all children, even infants and youngsters of the same ages, require the identical amount of sleep, but all youngsters need more rest than the average other end of the room make varied adult. Children are not only maintaining their status quo, the way you and I must to remain in good health, but their bodies have an additional and all-important dutythat of growing.

Mothers should observe their little boys and girls to determine just how much sleep they need and then see that they get it.

If you have a little baby, start right now to train him into wholesome sleeping habits, put him to nap and to bed at night at the same hour every day, do not wake him up unnecessarily and never, never keep him up to show him to your family or to admiring friends. If you abide by these rules he will accept them and he will pass from babyhood to childhood with the regular habit of sound sleep firmly established.

Most older children take from 10 minutes to a half an hour to go to sleep after they are in bed and this is all right if the child is not all keyed up when the lights are put out. Some little people like to talk to their bedtime toys or to sing themselves to sleep. If, as a child grows older, and thus requires less rest, you find that he is waking up very early in the morning, it is sometimes wise to put him to bed a little bit later at night. Thus a year-old may say his prayers at or 6:30 and a 10-year-old at 8

Knowing that a child literally annot be healthy without sufficient sleep it seems utterly amazing that so often one sees well-dressed, obviously prosperous and apparently intelligent people in restaurants with young children at all hours of the night. Not long ago, at 1 o'clock in the morning, I saw a miserable, hollow-eyed lass of 7 or 8 staring solemnly at the merrythings that depends entirely upon makers in a night club, so wretched your understanding of their point and weary that it is a wonder she of view. The right present given did not fall from her chair. Her ing room with a large field stone in the right way can be very aclegs were spindley, she was underceptable, but the truth is that too weight a many letters have told me of the wonder! It is completely selfish of such parents, for the sake of their own pleasure or because they are too weak to resist the child's begging, to thus jeopardize her health.

However you could-with- bad dreams. out risk of being misunderstood-

In order for a child to sleep well his daily life must be serene and well ordered. A child who is overfatigued or wound up like a nervous little top has a poor night and awakens unrefreshed, so jittery and irritable that he does not calm down during the day and quiet sleep is again denied him the following night. Thus we see the vicious circle that encourages a child to be puny and sickly, the circle that damages body and nerves.

MacLeish Luncheon Host To Noted South Americans

Dr. Estrada and Senor Butler Are Honored; Other Prominent Visitors Are Entertained

The vice president, Mr. Henry A. Wallace, was among the guests at the luncheon given today by Mr. Archibald MacLeish in honor of two distinguished Argentinians who arrived in this country recently for an extended visit of universities, libraries and museums of this country. The honor guests were Dr. Ezequiel Martinez Estrada, author, and Senor Horacio Butler, well-known artist.

Dr. Estrada is on the faculty of the University of La Plata and has received several national literary awards, including the first prize for literature of Argentina for his book "Humoresca."

Senor Butler, outstanding among the artists of his country, is the recipient, among other honors, of a gold medal for one of his paintings which was exhibited at the Paris .-

Exposition of 1937. Chief of the Division of Cultural Relations of the State Department, will be host at the luncheon Monday given by the division in honor of Dr. Estrada and Senor Butler. This luncheon will be given at the Cosmos Club and guests will include the director general of the Pan-American Union, Dr. Leo S.

Among the other prominent visitors from South America entertained in the Capital this week were Senor Pedro Alberto Alfonso, Chile's delegate to the current Inter-American Conference on System of Economic and Financial Controls, and Senor Don Clemente Diez Leon, director of the newspaper El Mercurio at Santiago. They were the honor guests at a luncheon given Wednesday by the Chilean Ambassador, Senor Don Rodolfo Michels, at the Embassy.

Senor Diez was received at the State Department yesterday by Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles. He plans to return to New York City shortly.

Ambassador Michels left last night for a brief official visit to Santiago with prospects of returning to the Capital within a month. It is understood the Ambassador will confer with officials of his government concerning Chilean-American relations. He is making the trip by air.

Although Chile has not yet broken diplomatic relations with the Axis powers, she is co-operating with the other 20 American republics in several moves for hemispheric solidarity, notably the Inter-American Defense Board and the financial and economic conference now in session at the Pan-American Union.

Delegates of the financial conference were entertained at a delightby the United States delegate to the sessions, Mr. Edward H. Foley, jr., the Foleys. During the afternoon a musician played on the accordion as ciating. guests enjoyed the lovely garden of the house. Refreshments were served both inside and out and the gracious hosts held a formal receiving line for a while and then mingled informally among their callers.

A newcomer to the Capital, Mrs. Ewell came here with her husband, who is a technical aide to the National Research Committee. He is on leave from Purdue University, where he is a member of the faculty.

'Lady in a Jam' Offers Irene Dunne in Giddy Role

In Fact Keith's New Farce Exceeds All Logical Bounds in Effort To Provide Summer Fun

By JAY CARMODY.

Before the war-a period which seems almost to have vanished from the human memory—it was the custom to produce movies which were designated "light summer entertainment." By calling them that, they were supposed to be out of bounds and thus safe from serious examination by either the public or critics. After all, the weather was hot and anything that diverted attention from its debilitating effect was something, wasn't it Why grouse !-

Collaborating with her in the witless, though not altogether un-(who seems to be playing a stuffy Errol Flynn in modern dress), Ralph Bellamy, and Queenie Vassar.

Gregory La Cava, who is reputed to write his scripts as he goes along, and hereby definitely proves it, has directed one of his most featherbrained ideas in "Lady in a Jam." Broadly speaking, it involves a Dark." It also deals with a scatterbrained female and her psychiatrist, a combination that was virtually bound to become a standard comedy

Miss Dunne, naturally the lady in the jam, is an heiress so poor of intellect that she cannot comprehend the stark fact of bankruptcy. She thinks it is a special kind of practical joke her guardian is playing upon her, a little irritating in some aspects, but not without its moments of amusement. Her single reliance during the ordeal is a young psychiatrist who has attached him-Platonism of young scientists specializing in straightening out the love lives of women who don't know how lives of women who don't know how unmysterious it all actually is. Within that outline, the story goes on and on through some scenes that are funny in a slapstick way, a few that approach subtlety, and many from which any cleverness is so starkly absent that you wonder what Miss Dunne is doing in them. There is one, for instance, in which she emerges from a dunking in the stope of an abandoned gold mine looking like something from the primeva ooze. Instead of being funny, it leaves you with merely the feeling that somebody was trying des-

There is less of humor, too, than Mr. La Cava realizes in the role assigned to Bellamy. He plays a lovesick cowboy, including an endless song which Bellamy croons in the best coyote tradition to Miss Dunne, that you would swear Miss Dunne and ending in a calf-wrestle that

With her flair for comedy, Miss Dunne retrieves enough from the funny, frolic are Patric Knowles script of "Lady in a Jam" to remind her fans that she still is one of the loveliest and most capable ladies in the business of arousing laughter.

But her latest definitely is not one of her best pictures.

The dark early days of the Military Academy at West Point have provided the moviemakers with material for, of all things, a slapstick comedy with undertones of the routine adventure yarn. Most Editorials Describe Debate as III Timed And Unsatisfactory

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 3. - Now that Prime Minister Churchill has the House of Commons' new pledge of faith in his leadership, the press asked today for an end of recrimination and attention to the job of correcting the faults which caused Britain's setbacks in North Africa. Most editorials expressed gratification over yesterday's 475-to-25 vote of confidence in Mr. Churchill, but called the debate ill-timed and unsatisfactory. Still unanswered, several agreed, are the reasons for the sudden reversal of Britain's bright prospects and, specifically, for the defeat in

The News Chronicle called for "the most ruthless re-examination" of present and planned armaments with emphasis on more imagination and foresight then counted noses and did a little thinking. Even with the best possible break in diamonds, South was sure to lose two diamonds in addition to the club and the trump ace. It was useless to try to ruff a diamond, for that would inevitably compel the defenders to lead one round of trump. The only chance for the contract was to make each defender discard a diamond, because South then led his next-to-last trump, and West did not think he could afford another heart discard. He, therefore, parted with a diamond. East noted dummy's four hearts and a club and decided that his hearts and club ace were much too precious to be thrown away. Hence he also discarded a diamond.

Yesterday your were Oswald Jacoby's partner, and, with both sides vulnerable, you held:

♥ J65 0 AKJ9732 A 4 The bidding: Jacoby Lightner You Schenken Pass Pass Pass Pass Pass Pass Pass (?)

Answer-Bid six diamonds. If your partner plays the hand at clubs, he cannot use your diamonds after drawing trumps unless the diamonds are solid; and in that case six diamonds can be made just as easily. If one diamond trick must be lost, you may have a good play for six diamonds, while he will have very little play for six clubs. Furthermore, you have not as much support for clubs as your bidding has indicated, and the clubs may break badly. Score 100 per cent for six diamonds, 90 per cent for six notrump, 60 per cent for pass.

Question No. 1,115. Today you hold the same hand, but the bidding is different: Pass Pass 30 Pass Pass

Even the common man may have no fear of death, because he looks forward to a pleasant life as a spirit. The last few centuries have brought important changes in the South Sea Islands. Whites have settled on them and have given some of their customs to the natives. Christian missionaries have led thousands of natives to give up their former faith. On some islands almost all of the natives have joined a Christian church, but on other islands many of the people have kept their old ideas about religion.

Gen. Rodriguez Is Named

Mexican Gulf Coast Chief

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, July 3 .-

Gen. Abelardo Rodriguez, former President of Mexico and known for years as an exponent of the closest collaboration with the United States, has been named commander of Mexico's vital Gulf Coast defenses.

The army general staff said Pres-creation of a "military region, Gulf of Mexico," with Gen. Rodriguez

having jurisdiction over all army, air and naval units operating between the United States frontier

A few hours after Gen. Rodriguez' appointment was announced dis-
