BULLETIN. The Senate passed and sent to the House today legislation providing for Government loans at full parity on six major crops, which would enable farmers to borrow 38 cents more on a bushel of wheat than the current market price and 15 cents more on a bushel of corn. The bill was passed by a vote of 28 to 21 after the Senate had rejected a proposal to send it back to committee.

The Senate and House finally agreed today on stop-gap legislation to provide funds for the Agriculture Department pending settlement of a bitter dispute over terms of the $680,000,000 annual supply bill. The Senate accepted House amendments to its own resolution, sending the temporary legislation to the White House. It was agreed that the department would be advanced July funds on all non-controversial appropriations in the big farm bill, which means the department will receive about $56,000,000 this month. The Senate yesterday had approved a resolution continuing funds at the rate prevailing in June, under legislation which expired at

House members abandoned tem-

College Park Airport Manager Burned In Plane Crash

Light Craft Hits Wire And Falls in Flames Near Lakeland

Julius Schiel, 22, manager of the College Park Airport, was soriously burned today when the small monoplane he was piloting struck an electric wire and crashed flaming to earth about a mile from the airport, at Lakeland, Md.

The flyer was rushed to Casualty Hospital by the Branchville Rescue Squad. His condition was pronounced critical.

Mr. Schiel apparently was trying o bring his ship down in a small clearing at Lakeland when the engine stopped shortly after he had taken off. One wing and the nose struck the wire, however, setting the ship ablaze instantly and somersaulting it to the ground. The pilot crawled unaided from the blazing overturned plane and was touched off by statements of the bystanders rushed to his aid, tearing off his flaming clothing.

Witnesses to Mr. Schiel's take-off from the airport said he had had trouble earlier today starting the engine of the plane which crashed. They said that the flyer, if he had avoided the electric wire, probably could have made a crash-landing and emerged unhurt. Friends said Mr. Schiel, who has been living in College Park for about two and a half years, was a Naval Reserve cadet studying aviation under the civilian pilot training program and that he had about 35 hours of solo flying experience.

Expresses Hope Gas And Rubber Can Be Handled Separately

President Roosevelt said late oday that the Government might have to take over all the automobile tires in the country if the war situation gets worse.

He still clings to the hope, however, the President told a press conference, that in some way the tire problem can be separated from the gasoline problem. Mr. Roosevelt emphasized that his purpose is to save the Nation—not tires or gasoline as such. Wider Rationing Considered. The scrap rubber collection drive has not gone far enough as yet to determine whether Nation-wide gasoline rationing will be necessary to conserve tires, the President said. Rumania and Slovakia Warned by Hungary

ISTANBUL (July 6 (Delayed) .-The Hungarian radio warned Rumania and Slovakia today that "the Hungarian army is the best in Southeastern Europe and we remind small nations with imperialistic designs that they stand to lose their own territories."

MOSCOW, July 7.—German mechanized divisions drove with sharpening menace today at the Voronezh link between Russia's central and southern armies, despite Red Army resistance which, it was officially reported, paved the line of the new advance with the enemy dead.

Soviet tanks were ranged along the east bank of the German-forced "water line" and were reported throwing back successive waves of Nazis attempting further crossings. Favorable weather conditions after a late spring brought steadily mounting activity on the northern part of the land front.

The Germans, using extensive smokescreens to cover their tanks and infantry, attacked on the Kalinin sector in an effort to take two roads, but the Russians reported they cut the tanks off with counterattacks and disposed of the infantry in hand-to-hand fighting Farther to the north, in the Len-

The German air force continued attacks on Soviet Arctic communications in the far north. The Russians said they destroyed 12 enemy craft in the last few days.

Western areas, however, maintained their wide lead in average individual donations. President Roosevelt's tabulation, given to him by the Petroleum Industry War Council which is directing the drive through thousands of filling stations throughout the country, showed: Washington's total was 1,360,000 pounds, or 2.05 per capita, an increase in the rate per person of about 65 per cent over figures re-

(Later figures released by the District Salvage Committee covering collections through July 6 placed Washington's total at gasoline bulk stations at more than 1,400,000 pounds, with 85.133 pounds received from other neighborhood depots. To Free July Farm Fund Plan to Appropriate Same Sum as in June Is Sent to House

Senate Moves

By the Associated Press. With the Agriculture Department "practically immobilized," the Senate took the initiative away from the House today in a new attempt to settle a controversy that has left the department technically without funds since July 1. The Senate sent to the House legislation sidestepping the main points of the argument, but designed to tide the department over this month with the same amount it had for June-the last month of the old

The House farm bloc was split over that procedure, primarily because appropriations for the new fiscal year would be 40 per cent lower by agreement of both Houses. Apparently out for the duration of the stalemate were such controversial items as President Roosevelt's recommendation that the Commodity Credit Corp. be permitted to dispose of its wheat and corn at below parity prices. President Roosevelt was reported today to be considering anew some form of wage stabilization and subsidies in order to maintain price ceilings near their present level. Informed congressional sources said he had advised some of his congressional leaders that both problems should be attacked as soon as possible, but that it was not apparent whether specific legislation would be required. Price Administrator Henderson said only last week that it would be necessary to lift the ceilings on canned and dried fruit of the 1942 pack because of the "squeeze" between rising prices of farm products and the stationary level of wholesale and retail prices.

Nitrogen Compound Adds to Effectiveness Of SulfatHiazole

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE,

MINNEAPOLIS, July 7.—The value of adding urea to sulfathiazole to speed the recovery from infections has been demonstrated strikingly at the University of Minnesota. Urea is a nitrogen compound naturally present in most living tissues.

The demonstration was made on 29 persons with infections which were unusual because they were bilateral—that is, the same on each side of the body. Each had the infection either on both hands, both legs or both sides of the head. Sulfathiazole alone was used on one side. On the other, urea and the sulfa drug were combined. This made the test almost perfect from a medical point of view. Furthermore the urea combination was always used on the worst side. It was in three forms-wet packs, powder and Failure in Five Cases. The results was marked speedup of recovery on the sides where urea was used, in all except five cases. The explanation for the failures is not entirely clear. The five may have had infections containing a form of staphylococcus germs known to be resistant to sulfa drugs.

The Minnesota work was based on a cue furnished by studies of Maj Hall G. Holder, Medical Corps, U. S. A., and Dr. Eaton M. Mackay of the Scripps Metabolic Clinic, La Jolla, Calif., who for some time have been investigating advantages of mixing urea with sulfa drugs for contaminated and infected wounds.

. Functions of Urea. The Minnesotans wished to find out especially the reason why urea would aid a sulfa drug, and their work indicated that the urea neutralizes pus and other wound products which inhibit sulfa drug action. The Minnesota work was done by Drs. William G. Clark of the Zoology Department and Ernest A. Strakosch of the Department of Dermatology, after laboratory studies by Drs. Henry M. Tschuchiya and Daniel Tennenberg of the Department of Bacteriology, had shown that in test tubes urea actually neutralizes the sulfa inhibitors.

Hitler Seen Doomed Because of Break With Haushofer

Army Has Confidence In 'Geopolitik' Leader, Institute Is Told

By THOMAS R. HENRY.

Star Staff Correspondent. CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 7. -There are two blueprints of German world conquest, the institute of public affairs at the University of Virginia here was told today.

One is Adolf Hitler's. The other is that of a major general in the Kaiser's army who quit after the last war to become a "herr-professor-doctor" at the University of Munich and developed what in the past year has come to be considered a "superscience"—"geopolitik."

When these two concepts parted ways a year ago, Hitler sealed his doom and probably threw away hope of an ultimate German victory. And Karl Haushofer sits back with an "I-told-you-so" attitude as the Reich tanks smash into stone walls in Russia.

One of Haushofer's closest disciples was Rudolph Hess, whose flight to Scotland probably marked the beginning of the break and was caused by it.

Prof. Wiegert Speaks.

This was revealed by Prof. H. W. Wiegert, formerly of the Prussian Ministry of Justice, but now a college professor at Hartford, Conn.

The so-called "Geopolitical Institute" with its thousand eminent scientists established under Haushofer's direction, Prof. Wiegert said, is by no means so important as the outside world has been led to believe. The former general simply began thinking in terms of "global war" before other nations. His great power rests, it was stressed, on the factor that as a former general officer, rather than as a college professor, he has the confidence of the army. The professional soldiers will follow him when Hitler fails.

Haushofer started, Dr. Wiegert revealed, in 1918, almost as soon as the division he had led in France and Poland was demobilized. He worked with subtle propaganda among the elite of the disbanded army on plans not only to retrieve the German defeat, but to make Germany the dominant power of the world within the next generation. And it is these elite which will win out in the end, he said. At the start Haushofer heard rumblings of what he thought would be a world revolution. His idea was that Germany should ride the crest of this revolution.

Two Basic Principles.

The philosophy he expounded had two basic principles. First, the "law of growing spaces." It states briefly that a nation must keep adding its space or it will perish. All nations, he held, have started to decay as soon as they let slip some of their territory. Second, was the principle that a certain world-conquering power would be an amalgamated Eurasia directed from Germany.

stant friendly alliances against the rest of the world between Germany, Russia, China and Japan. He tried Of Lease-Lend Aid, to bring this about through German diplomacy, but Japan's attack on Acheson Declares diplomacy, but Japan's attack on to have put over a big point, however, in the German-Soviet treaty of August, 1939, which launched the present war. His whole plan was wrecked, Dr. Wiegert said, by the later attack on Russia.

From the start, he pointed out, Haushofer considered Russia and China as the nations of the coming world revolution. Germany and Japan could choose whether to ride in opposing them. He saw no choice but the former-not that he had State, believes. any use for revolution, but because conquering the world.

His advice was not heeded by the Japanese war lords and he saw his dream beginning to flicker.

Possible Opening for Revolt.

But, Dr. Wiegert said, "study of Houshofer's geopolitiecs makes us see that there was and is in Germany an important group, strongly represented in the army, which did not want war with Russia. If this statement is true another conclusion is inevitable—that a decisive setback of the Axis in Russia would open the way for a revolt of the army against Hitler and his party at the moment of defeat which would lead to a complete morale and physical breakdown.'

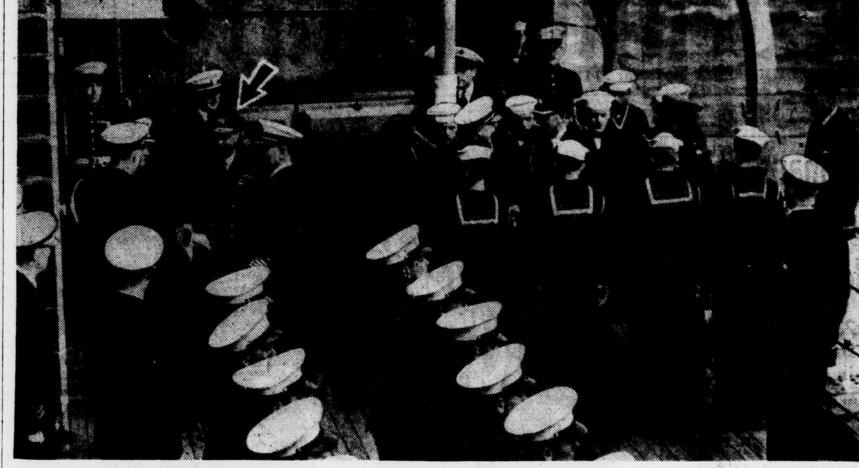

Service, the United States is de- cow? veloping a "geo-politik" of her own. especially as relates to Japan. It may not generally be recognized, he stressed, that if Japan is allowed to consolidate and develop all her conquests of the past six months she will be close to the most powerful nation on earth, with practically every necessary raw material. She has done what she has with such a paucity of materials that she would have collapsed in short order had outside supplies been shut off. If it be assumed, he said, that Hitler is allowed to make a peacewhich, of course, could never be the case-keeping all the vast territories his armies have conquered, he could set up a state which could live within itself only with great difficulty. Japan's conquests, on the other hand, provide everything needed for an absolutely self-con-

the past, which has led the fight for Thus it can be seen, he said, that one of the major jobs of the United States, at almost any cost, is to prevent the consolidation and development of those conquered lands. Otherwise there can be no reckoning with the power which may have to be faced alone in the future.

Dispatches Credit Force With Knocking Out at Least 9 Enemy Machines

By the Associated Press.

A token force of American tank soldiers met and defeated German panzer units in a Libyan Desert skirmish June 12 and was believed today to be engaged with British troops in the battle of Egypt.

The War Department announced the tank encounter in a communique late yesterday. Dispatches from Cairo credited the American force with knocking out at least nine German tanks without suffering casualties itself in the battle between Knightsbridge and Acroma the day before the German ambush of the British armored force on

The Americans left their tanks at Tobruk and got out of that port just before the Germans went in. Cairo advices said they were to have returned to America to apply lessons learned in the desert, but because of the German advance they were ordered to stay and join in the fight to save Egypt.

The American tank crews went to Africa under command of Maj. Henry Cabot Lodge (Senator Lodge of Massachusetts) who returned to Washingtton yesterday. During his desert tour of duty Senator Lodge underwent machine-gun fire and dive bombing and narrowly escaped being taken prisoner. No Battle Casualties.

"American crews manned American-made medium tanks in combat during a part of the battle of Libya on June 11 and 12," the War Department communique said. "They comprised a portion of a group of American armored force observers who have been in North Africa for several weeks.

The tanks operated by the Americans were under the command of Capt. Charles C. Sterling of Augusta, Ga. In two days of heavy fighting the Ameircan crews succeeded in knocking out several German tanks. The American tanks were hit repeatedly but were not seriously damaged. There were no battle casualties among the personnel."

Edward Kennedy, Associated Press war correspondent with Allied troops, said the American unit saw little fighting on the first day. The following day it was part of a British formation charged with holding a desert ridge between Knightsbridge and Acroms to protect the withdrawal of South African infantry from the Gazala area. About 75 German tanks attacked after dawn. The raged all day. The ridge was held. Zigragged 100 Yards Each Way.

Capt. Sterling told Mr. Kennedy of ting in these words: We rigginged about 100 yards nd firing at enemy tanks. Our orders were to fire at the enemy tank nearest to us and keep firing at it until we stopped it, then turn our fire on the next nearest tank.

(The War Department comby the Americans were under ing the fighting.)

opened up with our 75-millier gun when they came within yards, using high-explosive shells at first, changing to armorpiercing shells when they came nearer. When they came to within 1,200 yards we used our 37-millimeter gun, too. They launched three big attacks during the day, but no erman tank got nearer than 700

"I don't know exactly how many knocked out, as we did not check tem, but there were at least nine. "There were four direct hits on one of our tanks and the others got glancing blows and shell fragments," Capt. Stelling said. "We could hear the stuff rattle against the sides. They did no more than make the verse more difficult on one of ur guns. We stopped some of the derman tanks at over 2,000 yards. There is no question a General Grant is the best tank in the desert. It can take on three or four German tanks without fear."

Unbearably Hot in Tanks. Throughout the day the Amerians fought. As the noonday sun these African wastes poured its rrid rays over the battlefield it came almost unbearably hot inde the tanks.

They did not have time to eatney were either firing or watching r enemy tanks. That night there as a general withdrawal from the osition. The work had been done. the infantry had been evacuated rom Gazala and the German tanks ad been prevented from cutting hem to pieces.

During the trip they were mahine-gunned from the air and diveombed. One bomb exploded 5 feet rom a tank, but, fortunately, all vere inside tanks at the time.

"I thought I would be afraid," said ne of the soldiers. "But we found that when we were in the tanks we were too busy to be afraid.

"I think we learned a lot from being in the battle," said Staff Sergt. W. Z. Fralish of Anton, Ala., who Senator Lodge got his first taste of warfare the day he arrived in Libya and boarded a cattle train for the front.

Counties May Be Heard On Rail Abandonment

RICHMOND, Va., July 7.-H. E. Ketner, commerce counsel for the Corporation Commission, wrote Boards of Supervisors of Augusta and Rockbridge Counties yesterday asking if they desired a hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission on a pending application of the Valley Railroad Co. and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad for authority to abandon the 35.5-mile section of the Valley line between Staunton and Lexington. The Valley Co., the owner of the line, and the B. & O., the operator, cited operating deficits as the basis for the application and contended that the territory involved was adequately served by other transportation facilities.

Bishop Ainsworth Of Methodist Church Dies of Heart Attack

Retired Prelate, 70, Once Was President Of Wesleyan College

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 7.—Bishop William N. Ainsworth, retired, of the Methodist Church, died of a heart attack shortly after noon today in his hotel room here. He Funeral plans have not been completed, but services and burial will be in Macon where he had lived for many years.

He was head of the church in Japan, Korea and China from 1926 to 1930 and against this background of Far Eastern experience he solemnly warned that the western countries must protest and use ways "to make their protest felt." "If this is not done," he said in a message to Secretary of State Hull "it is quite possible under Japanese dominance that the Chinese may of the outstanding figures of his ehurch. Widely traveled and well edueated, Bishop Ainsworth came to be known as a courageous, straighttalking man whose eloquence charmed and whose logic drove home forcefully his messages against sin. Both as a young man and, in later years, as a bishop, he fought the liquor traffic. His fight on liquor attracted such wide attention that the Anti-Saloon League elected him national president. At 14 he decided to enter the

Paris Radio Says Nazis Are Pushing Beyond in Direction of Povorino

Py the Associated Press.

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), July 7.—The German high command announced today the capture of Voronezh, important center on the main Moscow-Rostov rail line running northward from the Caucasus oil fields. (This claim was unconfirmed.)

The thrust to the city represented a 10-mile advance by German forces which were reported to have crossed the Don River, west of Voronezh, at a number of points yesterday.

(The Nazi-controlled Paris radio went further, declaring the Germans were already pushing on from Voronezh "in the direction of Povorino," another important rail junction 140 miles to the east, implying a major break-through. (The Vichy radio, quoting Stockholm dispatches, earlier said that "fighting is now taking place in the town of Voronezh itself.")

How you can borrow $50 to $300 at new low rate - No endorsers required—Monthly payments to fit your own pocketbook

YOW YOU CAN SAVE charges when you borrow. The new Household Finance office in Silver Spring makes loans of $50 to $300 at the reduced rate of only 2% per month. You are invited to apply for whatever amount Household's rate of 2% per month is just slightly more than half the maximum rate of 31/2% per month permitted by the Maryland Small Loan Law. Why pay more than you have to for your loan? At Household you can save almost half.

Cost of $50 loan only $2.52 Suppose you borrow $100 and repay in six monthly instalments of $17.85 each-a total of $107.10. The cost of your loan is just $7.10. At the lawful maximum rate you would pay $12.62. Household's rate thus saves you $5.52. Or take a $50 loan repaid in four monthly instalments of $13.13 eacha total of $52.52. Your loan at Household costs only $2.52. At the lawful maximum rate this same loan would cost $4.64.

The table shows how loans may be repaid in 2, 3, 4, 6, 8, 10 or 12 payments. These payments include all charges. You are welcome to choose whichever plan fits your own pocketbook best. The wise thing to do is to pay up as soon as you can. The sooner you repay, the less your loan costs.

3 ways to borrow

You need no endorsers or guarantors to borrow at Household. Household loans are made in three ways. First way: On your signature. No security is required. Note loans are made, under proper conditions, to both single persons and married couples. Second way: On your car. This plan may suit you best. Third way: On your furniture, Many people prefer this plan. When making car and furniture loans, we consider character and regular income far more important than the value of your security. Colt Ballistics Expert Cross-Examined by Eklund's Counsel

Defense Stresses That Specialists' Testimony Frequently Differs

The second trial of John Eugene Eklund, accused of the "sniper' slaying of Hyland McClaine, colored, 17. continued before Justice James W. Morris in District Court today, with cross-examination by Defense Attorney Harry T. Whelan of J. Henry Fitzgerald of the Colt Firearms Co. concerning his qualifications as a ballistic expert. During the questioning Prosecuting Attorney John Fihelly interrupted to ask whether Eklund had asked Herbert Ray, prosecution witness, to write the Colt firm for a longer barrel for another gun of the automatic type. Mr. Fitzgerald said the letter had been referred to another branch of the firm and that he did not know the contents of the reply. Mr. Whelan sought to prove that testimony of ballistics experts frequently conflicted, and went back more than 20 years to the Sacco-Vanzetti case in which Mr. Fitzgerald appeared as a witness.

Capt. Fowler Heard. The witness admitted four ballistics experts appeared and that there was an even split between them as to their findings. The jury of five women and seven men yesterday heard testimony from Capt. John H. Fowler, ballistics expert for the Metropolitan Police, and Mr. Fitzgerald.

Both men testified that tests they made showed four bullets removed from the body of the victim and from a tree in the rear of a drivein restaurant in Arlington where Eklund had been employed were fired from a .38-caliber Colt revolver.

The prosecution has submitted as evidence a gun of this make and caliber which police found buried in a Baltimore park in May. The gun was recovered on information supplied police by Marvin R. Har-low, who has testified the gun's location was supplied him by Eklund when the two were cellmates in Dis-

Uncertain About Gun. positively to identify the revolver as the one used in the killing because of its corroded condition. Bullets fired from the gun in subsequent tests bore "some similar markings" to the four bullets, but not enough similarities were found to establish it as the murder gun. Capt. Fowler testified.

Both witnesses asserted that seven unfired shells found in the revolver were of the same make and size as the four bullets recovered from McClaine's body and from a locust tree. On cross-examination by Mr. nelan, Capt. Fowler admitted 'many dissimilarites" existed between test bullets and the four cartridges.

Pay Bill Veto

The snarl that has developed in the Federal employe pay situation is emphasized by President Roosevelt's veto of legislation that would have continued for two years overtime pay provisions applicable to technical groups in a half dozen agencies, including War and Navy Departments, which are closely identified with the war effort.

Overtime compensation was granted these workers in the early days of the war program to bring their pay schedules into line with those of the skilled trades which traditionally have received such benefits. The legislation, however, ran only until June 30 of this year, and it was a proposed two-year extension that drew the veto. At the same time, the President announced that he will sign a joint resolution calling for a ninety-day extension of these same overtime rates. The resolution was passed by Congress as a stop-gap measure pending enactment of an administration - sponsored bill to grant overtime generally to "white collar" workers. But here another complicating factor enters the picture, for the administration bill, which still is in the House Civil Service Committee, puts a $3,800 "ceiling" on straight pay and overtime, and many of the technicians already are receiving more than that sum and consequently will not be helped by the administration measure.

In consequence, this particular situation shapes up about as follows: Technical employes, regardless of their basic rate, will continue to receive overtime for ninety days. After that—granting that the administration bill is passed without changeonly those will get added compensation whose pay and overtime does not exceed $3,800. Others revert to their former pay status—without overtime.

The fact that the administration 'bill made no provision for these employes, coupled with widespread demands for a flat $300 bonus for Government workers generally, has been responsible for the Civil Service Committee delay in reporting out the bill. Postal workers and representatives of the trades, who already are on an overtime basis, have been insistent in urging the bonus, arguing that they must cope with the same rise in living costs as the employes for whom overtime pay is now advanced as a war measure. The committee has been seeking to reconcile these demands with the administration stand against an "inflationary" wage in-

The President's veto message indicates that he hopes to get early action on his own bill. There are, without question, other pay problems that call for adjustment, but these are not being solved by holding up legislation that would compensate thousands of lower-paid men and women for the many extra hours now worked without corresponding remuneration.

The General Grants

The War Department announcement that a small unit of our General Grant tanks, manned by Americans, took part in the battle of North Africa last month and proved their superiority over German armored units tends to strengthen the recent announcement by Major General L. H. Campbell, jr., the Army's Chief of Ordnance, that American guns and tanks are superior to "anything the enemy has." Both of these statements obviously are aimed at current reports that the General Grants, otherwise known as M-3 tanks, failed to meet the acid test of battle. Needless to say, it is reassuring to learn from our highest military authorities that these rumors were not well founded.

Had the contrary been the case, It would have cast most serious doubt on the adequacy of our armament program. Certainly our prospects of victory would not have been bright if we had gone into mass production on a tank model that was decidedly inferior to enemy weapons after having had full opportunity to profit from the lessons in tank design which have been taught by the bitter battles already fought in this war.

With the assurances which have been given by the chief of ordnance and the War Department, however, lina and Florida. The pioneers of it open. the people of the country will be justified in believing that we already | men and women who had suffered are producing good weapons-better than those of the enemy-and to feel reasonably confident that this margin of superiority will increase as new models come into production.

And this experience with the General Grants might also serve in the future to restrain hasty criticism which necessarily is based on incomplete factual information.

China's Sixth War Year

While the planet-wide holocaust known as the Second World War is still less than three years old. China today enters the sixth year of its life-and-death struggle against predatory Japan. It is just five years ago that a sanguinary clash between Chinese and Japanese troops at the Marco Polo Bridge near the old Chinese capital of Peking lit the flames of a conflict which has ravaged almost every part of immense China and has cost many millions of human

That bridgehead skirmish was merely the detonating charge which touched off an explosion whose materials had long been gathering. Chino-Japanese relations had been frankly hostile ever since the seizure of Manchuria in 1931. The Chinese government had consistently refused to acquiesce in that arbitrary act, and its successful modernizing of China had so alarmed Tokio that the Japanese war lords felt this growing Chinese power must be broken before it was too late. So Tokio put forward demands that the northern provinces of China be virtually surrendered as a Japanese protectorate, threatening war as an alternative. The Marco Polo Bridge clash showed that China did not intend to submit. Therefore, Tokio applied its alternative of naked force.

The Japanese war lords began the conflict with light hearts. Their upto-date war machine was vastly superior to anything the Chinese could produce. In fact, Tokio did not dignify the process of subjugation by calling it a war. It was termed "The China Incident," and was scheduled to last only a few months.

The first inkling of what Japan was up against came at Shanghai. That great port metropolis at the mouth of the Yangtse River, China's Mississippi, was obviously a main objective in Japan's plan for paralyzing China's economic life and isolating her from the outer world. But the fanatical fury with which the Chinese thoops fought the invaders showed the temper of New China in startling fashion. Tokio began to realize the job it had taken on, and its war machine was thrown into high gear.

The ensuing year was filled with Japanese victories. North China was subjected to the line of the Yellow River, while Japan's combined mechanized and naval power drove up the Yangtse Valley, the heart of China, to the ramparts of the mountainous hinterland whither the government of Free China had retreated to its new capital of Chungking. Also, the Japanese occupied many of China's port towns, including the southern metropolis of Canton.

However, Free China refused to yield, and the Japanese invaders, though a million strong, could make no further progress. The upshot was a military stalemate which persisted substantially unchanged from 1938 until the current year. Economically, Free China was suffering enormously, but it kept going, maintained some contacts with the outer world, and caused heavy losses to the Japanese Japan's sudden stroke at Pearl Harbor last December caused a strange paradox in China's situation. Free China at once gained powerful allies, America and Britain, pledged to aid China to the utmost against the common foe. Yet Japan's astounding victories in Southeastern Asia, culminating with the closing of the Burma road, left China temporarily more isolated and exposed than ever before. Japan is now engaged in a supreme effort to subjugate China and knock her out of the war. Never has the strain on Free China been so intense. Outside aid is imperative, from bombers and transport planes to generous donations to United China Relief, the organization devoted to the succor of the hard-pressed Chinese civilian population, wrestling heroically with famine and inflation. That is where Free China stands at the start of its sixth war year.

Oglethorpe's Triumph

Save for a victory won by British troops two centuries ago today it is possible that the site of the City of Washington would be Spanish territory. Few Americans are familiar with the story, yet it happens to be a fact that the Battle of the Bloody Marsh, fought July 7, 1742, put an end to a planned campaign of conquest designed to bring much of what now is the United States into subjection to the power of imperial Madrid.

The hero of the tale is General James Edward Oglethorpe, soldier, administrator, reformer and philanthropist, born in London, December 22, 1696, and educated at Eton and Corpus Christi College, Oxford, He had fought under Prince Eugene of Savoy against the Turks in his youth and had been an altruistic Tory member of Parliament thereafter. A keen interest in charitable causes, believed to have been inherited from his parents, led him to investigate the condition of persons imprisoned for debt and his zeal in their behalf prompted the establishment of a new colony in the area between Carothe proposed settlement were to be misfortune at home in England, religious liberals and all kindred souls who might wish to join with venture was furnished by Oglethorpe out of his own pocket. He landed at Charleston on January 13, 1733, and shortly after that date secured from the Yamacraw Indians the grant of the ground needed for his first cityever since known as Savannah. The colony as such he called Georgia in honor of King George II. Other communities of which he was the sponsor were Frederica and Augusta. The Spaniards regarded each of the projects in the light of a trespass and, especially beginning in 1737, developed offensive operations against them. An expedition organized at Havana was intended to achieve not merely the destruction of the new British outposts but the actual conquest of the entire southern section of the Atlantic seaboard. Oglethorpe met the enemy on St.

Simons Island. He was outnumbered seven to one and the contest was bitter, yet he emerged from the ordeal triumphant. The surviving Spaniards fled the fleld in panic. never to attempt to return. It would be pleasant to add that the victor was rewarded appropriately for his services to the crown, but the truth is that he was court-martialed on charges subsequently judged "frivolous." His career, however, continued until June 30, 1785, and it is recorded of him that when he was nearly ninety years of age he made it his business to call upon John Adams, first American Minister at the Court of St. James's, to express his "great esteem" for the new republic among whose founders he himself deservedly should be remembered.

Inconsistent Policy

The sharp difference of opinion among the members of the War Labor Board on the union security issue in the Caterpillar Tractor Company case raises a question which is of considerable public interest.

In this, as in previous cases, the union security clause requires union members to remain in good standing as a condition of employment. Nonunion employes are not required to join the union, however, and present members are permitted to withdraw within a stated time, in which event the maintenance of membership provision becomes inapplicable as to them. This is an arrangement which represents a compromise of labor demands for a closed or union shop, and is intended to protect unions against loss of members while the "no-strike" pledge, given at the outset of the war, remains in effect. On the whole, it | these were obtained a year ago from a is a practical device which may be traveling Islamic scholar. The rest have expected to maintain the status quo for the duration of the war.

The employer members of the board proposed in the Caterpillar case, however, that the granting of the union security clause be accomplished by a requirement that the CIO union at that plant file semiannually with the board details of its constitution, names of officers, the amounts of dues and initiation fees and a statement of receipts and expenditures. The employer members contended that since the board, in effect, was guaranteeing the security of the union, it was entitled to this information. The majority of the board, consisting of the public and the labor members, indignantly rejected this proposal, although it is far from clear why there should be any objection on the part of the union or the board to the divulging of the facts in question. But, be that as it may, it is the line of reasoning followed by the majority, rather than the conclusion reached, which is of primary interest at this time. In a sharply worded concurring opinion, Dean Wayne L. Morse, one of the public members, asserted that the position of the employer members was "highly improper" and "admits to asking the War Labor Board to legislate certain regulations on unions which Congress failed to do." That, seemingly, is an accurate interpretation of the effect of the requirement sought by the employer members. But what of the union security clause? Congress, certainly, has never authorized the board to require an employer to sign a contract which compels a union member to remain a union member in order to hold his job, and it is highly doubtful that any such proposal would receive congressional sanction. Without attacking the reasonableness of the union security clause as a wartime compromise, it is, nevertheless, a modified form of closed shop, and when the Wagner Act was before Congress its sponsors expressly stipulated that it in no sense authorized a mandatory closed shop in any form.

It seems quite evident that the majority of the board, so far as the issue of congressional authorization is concerned, puts itself in the inconsistent position of doing substantially the same thing that it denounces the minority for attempting

Notebook of Science Progress In Laboratory, Field And Study

By Thomas R. Henry.

Dead for a thousand years, the ghost of the greatest of Arab physicians has arisen to reveal the secrets of his art to the Army Medical Corps.

He was a gentleman named Rhazes, physician to several of the caliphs, one of the boldest of medical experimenters, father of experimental pharmacology. He was intensely interested in poisons. A millennium ago he was testing the effects of measured doses of arsenic and other lethal drugs on condemned criminals at Bagdad a few days before their scheduled executions.

He was a specialist on diseases of the stomach. Even now some of his treatments are being rediscovered and announced in medical journals as triumphs of 20th century medicine.

About a year ago the Surgeon General's library obtained a unique manuscript copy of Rhazes' work on gastro-intestinal complaints. It was written in medieval Arabic and was very difficult to read. The manuscript had been in the possession of a family living near Nedjf in Iraq for six centuries. Previously the work had been known only in a badly garbled Latin version.

A new translation now has been nearly completed by Dr. C. F. Mayer of the library staff, who finds in it some surprising statements. Only a few months ago, for example, there was announced from Germany an allegedly highly successful treatment for stomach ulcers which consisted of doses of finely powdered aluminum. This was supposed to seal off the ulcers in very thin, mobile aluminum coats and protect them from further irritation.

Rhazes, Dr. Mayer finds, was treating the stomach ulcers of the caliphs in essentially the same way, although aluminum, as such, was not known in his day. He was giving his royal patients finely powdered clay. It did not kill the experimental criminals-at least not until they were ready for the executioner, anyway.

Of course, Dr. Mayer explains, modern medicine is so far beyond Rhazes that little of present medical or military value can be expected from his works. He was, however, an expert on the medical phases of desert fighting. The Rhazes manuscript is the first of a collection of more than 500 in the files of the Surgeon General's library to receive extensive study. It also is the oldest in point of time. About 100 of come to Washington in various ways over the past century and have remained largely unexplored.

They have been collected, says Dr. Mayer, "from all parts of the Orient, from old patrician families of Cairo, Damascus, Aleppo, Bagdad, from private mosques in Egypt, Palestine, Mesopotamia, Turkey, Persia and India. Some of them had been kept in cellars or in hidden places in remote villages off the beaten tracks. Some of them belonged to al-Sahawi, the most famous Arab poet and philosopher of our time at Bagdad." * * * *

Close to 75,000,000 cattle on American farms are stocking, as never before, the larder of democracy.

About 28,000,000 are making beef out of the lush herbage of rain-blessed pastures. They are scheduled for slaughter during the year and there is every indication that the goal will be

Indications are that about a million more calves will be born this year than

The increase, Department of Agriculture statisticians report, is due partly to good ranges and to the highest price level in 20 years. It is also due, in part, to the operation of a somewhat mysterious cycle, probably due to a combination of many causes, by which cattle numbers tend to fluctuate from low to high and back again over 15 years. The low point in the cycle was reached in 1938 and the herds have been building up ever since, even without the added inducement of the war.

Now, together with the Nation's hogs and sheep, it appears that the goal set early in the year of about 22,000,000,000 pounds of meat of all sorts will be met. A vast amount of this, especially the beef, will be required to feed America's own soldiers, always known as very heavy meat eaters. Meat demands always rise when there is a notable increase in the Army and Navy. Thus far only small amounts of beef, in contrast to pork products, have been purchased for the lend-lease program.

Estimates of the amounts of meat that will be required for the armed forces during the year are not at present available but, forecasting the future as well as possible, the Agriculture Department statisticians estimate that, with the increased supplies, there need be no reduction in the ordinary civilian

American cattle have almost as big a job in keeping up with the greatly expanded milk demand. Milk not only is an essential sinew of war. In its evaporated and dried forms it constitutes about the most compact means of getting vital food elements to the Allied

The average cow, the latest statistics show, is producing about 1 per cent more milk this year than last year. This is a result, for the most part, of improved feeding.

It will be needed. British requests for dried skim milk for the coming year already total about 200,000,000 pounds.

The current rate of evaporated milk production is about 100,000,000 cases, of which about 70,000,000 will take care of domestic needs and supply to armed forces and the United Nations. The Agricultural Marketing Administration already has a reserve of about 25,000,-000 cases to meet any emergency which | meantime avoid inflation which destroys may arise in America's job of feeding democracy.

The current rate of cheese production also is fully adequate, the Department of Agriculture surveys show. Government stocks now total about 77,000,000 pounds. This also is considered one of the richest and most compact forms in which vital food elements can be sent abroad,

"ARLINGTON, Va.

"Dear Sir: "There is a mockingbird in our neighporhood which is nearly driving me distracted.

"I would like to know if there is anything I can do about him. I suppose it is 'him.' I don't believe any lady bird could make such a racket.

"He begins at dawn and keeps it up until dark, and sometimes he even roars after there is practically no light at all. This noise he makes is a cross between a grate and grit. "As far as I can make out he is trying to keep cats from getting to his nest. Most of the cats around here seem very well behaved, and this bird just flies at them incessantly. "I wouldn't mind that if it wasn't for the noise, but that is getting on my be, I will admit, but this particular bird has almost got me down. "If there is anything I can do, short of murder, let me know. How long will this grating noise continue? Is it necessary for the bird to make it? Would food put out for him mollify him in any way, or shut him up?

nerves. I suppose it is against the law to harm a mockingbird. It ought to

* * * * This is a common trait of mocking-

Not all of them show so much belligrency, however. It is impossible for any one with any real feeling to be angry at a creature which is protecting its children. Probably the bird does not have to make such a noise. No doubt it is mistaken in its judgment of some cats. It has no way of knowing that, of course. All it sees is a great four-legged animal which its ancestral wisdom teaches it is a threat to its children.

Our correspondent plainly admires the mocker, despite all the noise it makes.

At times such a noise can be very aggravating, especially when it is kept up hour after hour.

Not all mockingbirds have such harsh voices. Recently this column contained a letter from a nearby suburb telling how bravely one of these birds flew down to the ground within a few feet

* * * * The thing to do, in regard to such birds, is to admire them. In a world of really terrible things, it is absurd to concentrate on the small noise made by a little bird. Without question such a noise can be

Many other things can be annoying, too, and most of them of far greater consequence. As soon as the nesting season is the rampant mockingbirds will cease they make will end. In its stead will be moonlight serenades, musical offerings appreciated by most people.

They may take a few slanting dives

at cats, now and then, but the noise

It is good to keep in mind that the mockingbird is a real musician. He not only can sing sweetly, when he wants to, but he possesses the ability, like any good musician, of making just a lot of noise, when he wants to make it. He is, in other words, versatile.

* * * * We would advise our correspondent to concentrate on the good points of this bird, and try to forget the one she does not like.

The mockingbird gives a lesson to America at this hour. Instead of waiting for his home to be attacked, he goes out to meet the foe. He carries the battle to him.

How much better off America would be at this hour, if it had followed the plan of America's mockingbird, and had struck the first blows, instead of waiting to get punched in the snoot!

* * * * There is so much that is admirable about the mockingbird that it is infantile to concentrate on its bad traits.

This column speaks from experience. For many years we saw nothing good in the mockingbird. It seemed to be a bird which spent most of its time driving other and smaller birds away from feeding stations.

We made its acquaintance, you see, in winter, when some of its lesser traits are likely to show up.

Every time we wrote castigating the mocker, somebody wrote back telling us how wrong we were.

So we began looking for the good points of the birds. In time we found them, as every one may who looks carefully. Do not be upset at the noise it makes in summer. Watch, rather, its aggressive attack on its foes, real and assumed. Realize that the bird is simply protecting its famliy.

That, surely, is a good trait. See how magnificently it flaunts that long tail. Listen to its music, look carefully at the beauty of line of this bird. Help it feed its babies by putting out ground beef and raisins. If it is busy carrying food to the nest, it will not have so much time to harry cats. We feel sure that no person of culture would harm a mockingbird. The necessary thing, if one of them disturbs one, is to change one's own mind. Making over the mind, from worse to better is not an easy thing to do, but a which will be in about another month, | mockingbird has been known to help.

Praises Free French Leader As Military Strategist.

To the Editor of The Star: At this time, when the eyes of the world are fastened on Africa, I should like to call the attention of Americans to the foresight of Charles De Gaulle. His words, uttered to Philippe Barres and quoted by him in his excellent book, deserve the consideration of those who are to determine American and English

Early in 1941 De Gaulle said: "When Hitler sends German or Italian troops into Libya their objective is the Suez Canal. But what assurance have you that other Axis troops will not enter Tunisia, Algeria or Morocco?

"They can reach those countries from Libya, they can reach them from Spain or Portugal. In any event, the Germans and Italians could, step by step, reach the region of Dakar. * * * From Dakar Hitler could, by airplanes or submarines, cut the communications of the United States—and those of England, of course -with South America, the Cape and the whole of the Orient. In short, if Hitler gets a foothold on the west coast of Africa the United States will lose naval control of South America. If the United States loses control of South America it would be in great danger of losing mastery of the Panama Canal. Hitler's system of offense eventually joined to that of Japan would gain an almost decisive advantage. Consequently the United States is bound to join the English for the defense of either

French Africa or English Africa. "The attack of the Germans in Libya in the direction of the Suez, the attempts to penetrate the region around Dakar and even a war against Russia coincide with plans for a Japanese thrust toward the South Pacific, French Indo-China and Singapore."

It is to be noted that De Gaulle was anticipating the Russian war and Japanese attacks while America slept. Let America and England realize that his brilliant war record places him as a great military strategist. Let him be given a decisive part in the war councils.

Great military leaders are rare-when the Allied nations have such a military leader let them recognize him and rely upon him in this hour of grave danger. MARTHA J. GASQUET WESTFELDT. New Orleans.

Discusses Need for More Taxes And Reactions to Congress.

One of the hard lessons learned from the last war was the wisdom of a payas-you-go policy during employment at high wages. I believe that every cent above normal national income, above $75,000,000,000, should be taken in extra taxes. Since labor and large corporations receive most of this extra income, and the white collars and small businessmen, the aged and the widowed have no actual increase in income over living costs, these facts must be considered in spreading new taxes. All want to do their share in winning the war and the peace to follow, so desire to pay in taxes now every cent possible to avoid bankruptcy when the war ends, and in the all values.

It should be evident that, if we wish a sound financial philosophy to save have a general sales tax and increases in every bracket of income tax, including joint returns for husband and wife. Incomes above $25,000 or $30,000 should be subject to a surtax of 100 per cent. | mates be found? Net incomes of corporations and all businesses should be limited to 8 per cent on invested capital. All non-essential Government expenditures should be eliminated; all departments put on a selfsustaining basis; franking privileges eliminated, and Government printing put on a cost basis for the duration. If Congressmen think it expedient to postpone action on the tax bill, fearing political repercussions, they will be disillusioned in November. Congress has nothing to fear but its record, which has been good for the most part. True, the minority often lacked vision, opposed the administration in every effort to support nations fighting against enslavement, fought against repeal of the Neutrality Act, against the Lend-Lease Act and against the Selective Service Act, neglected providing for proper training of the new Army which they tried to demobilize three months before war was begun against us.

Meanwhile, the majority of the Congress was guilty of a stupid blunder in pensioning themselves after cutting $500 .-000,000 from the veterans' pension in 1933 in an attempt to economize; in failure to discipline labor when wildcat strikes tied up arms, guns, tanks, planes and ships; in failing to follow up the procurement of strategic material (rubber) after voting funds for a large reserve supply.

A few isolationists and obstructionists delayed action when time was so valuable each day of delay might mean defeat for all freedoms and all free men. These Congress members, lacking in vision, lacking in statesmanship, have no place among statesman.

New 'Boss' Takes Hold in Labor Cases

Decree-Created WLB Seen as Sidetracking Wagner Act Unit

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Almost unnoticed, an executive agency which was not created by act of Congress, and which derives its power only from the decrees of the President, decided that it had jurisdiction over all employers in America, irrespective of whether or not they are engaged in war work.

Inasmuch as the War Labor Board has assumed powers of compulsory arbitration over employers who have David Lawrence. war contracts and the President has backed up the board in this usurpation of power never granted by Congress, the extension of the board's authority to include all businesses means that all employers, even though not engaged in war work, must accept the decisions of the WLB.

The importance of this step is not merely related to employers. It may mean a virtual scuttling of the Wagner law, which created a separate board, known as the National Labor Relations Board, to deal with disputes in industry generally.

But the NLRB never had any power of compulsory arbitration. It never even had powers of mediation or conciliation. Labor unions generally have applauded the Wagner law and supported the NLRB against attacks on the ground that the law for the first time legalizes collective bargaining and compels the employer to negotiate in good faith with the bona fide representatives of the workers or their unions. No Need of Conflict.

Now it develops that the NLRB either isn't doing its job-which is a wrong assumption-or that it is doing its job too well, which means that labor unions are beginning to undermine it because they cannot control it. The latter assumption arises from the fact that labor unions apparently are maneuvering to bring all kinds of disputes before the War Labor Board rather than before the Labor Relations Board.

Strictly speaking, there ought not boards, as each has separate functions. In addition, the NLRB has behind it a specific statute of Congress. Yet there are labor unions which insist that they must exercise their right to strike even in wartime, and even against employers engaged in war production, because the latter allegedly are refusing to bargain in good faith with their employe organizations.

It had been supposed that the NLRB would take care of such things and apply proper penalties against violators of the Wagner law. Resolutions adopted by the American Federation of Labor's Central Labor Union Organizing Committee at Omaha, Nebr., recently have been sent to all national and international unions affiliated with AFL in Nebraska and to President Green of

These resolutions set forth that "powerful anti-union employers, whose employes have been organized into AFL unions, in spite of most vicious opposition, prove conclusively by their actions that they intend to take every possible unfair advantage under protection of the national defense program" and that these employers "refuse to bargain fairly and in good faith with the union chosen by their employes and persist in defying the rights of organized labor by definitely refusing to give just consideration to the workers involved." Law Supposedly a "Cure." It is precisely the foregoing type of charge which the sponsors of the Wagner law said would be cured by the enforcement of that statute. Here, however, labor unions in the midst of war are threatening a strike and thus will get their cases before the War Labor Board instead of the Labor Relations Board. Wrath Gathering in Congress in Event Deficiencies in Fuel Oil, Gas Result From Failure to Build Pipe Lines

By GOULD LINCOLN.

Congress does not intend to have deficiencies in fuel oil in the Eastern or other sections of the country laid at its door. The same thing applies to gasoline. A year ago a law was passed giving the President full authority to have built or to build pipe lines anywhere, which in his opinion were needed to safeguard the country and care for the people's needs. If it turns out that failure to construct such pipe lines is major factor in small petroleum supplies in this section of the country next winter, Congress will certainly bear down on those responsible. That is being made clearer every day.

Senator McKellar of Tennessee, chairman of the Appropriations Committee of the Senate in charge of deficiency approprition bills, is insisting on the construction of all needed pipe lines.

"Congress has given authority for their construction," he said. "Refusal of priorities for needed steel for their construction delaved work on pipe lines for many months. It was a short sighted policy. I am perfectly willing to vote all the money needed for the building of the pipe lines. Further, I am willing to help enact a law which will compel the War Production Board to grant priorities. It is perfectly clear that the war effort will be greatly hampered if the people in the manufacturing centers of the East cannot get fuel to run their factories-engaged in war production—and to heat their homes. For one, I do not intend to permit any such situation to arise if I can help it."

The oil and gasoline shortage in the East has made it possible for the so-called Florida barge canal and pipe line bill to make headway in Congress. The House has passed it, and there seems to be every likelihood that the measure will be favorably reported to the Senate from the Committee on Commerce, although there is stout opposition.

A "Pork" Bill.

The bill has been advanced as an emergency measure, to meet the gas and oil shortage in the Eastern part of the country. The truth of the matter is, however, that the proposed barge canal, which will cost many millions of dollars, could not be completed under three years, quired for building a pipe line across Northern Florida has already been given the President, In addition, the plans for laying a pipe line across Northern Florida have been completed, and the work would be done in 120 days. The barge canal and pipe line bill, therefore, is just another bit of "pork," which should not be put through. The petroleum problem - for the East—raised its head in another quarter yesterday, when Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania introduced a bill designed to take from Leon Henderson, price administrator, all functions relating to oil and gasoline and place them in the hands of Secretary of the Interior Ickes, who is petroleum co-ordinator for war. and of Ralph M. Davies, deputy co-ordinator. This measure, if enacted, would take price-fixing to take up almost any kind of dispute and usually it has settled the matter in favor of the employes.

Hence labor union leaders in many instances doubtless are beginning to for petroleum products and rationing from Mr. Henderson and place those functions under Mr.

Ickes. Mr. Guffey insists that this is the sensible thing to do, since authority over production and transportation of petroleum in all its forms is in the hands of Mr. Ickes. To separate control over petroleum, in his opinion, makes for mistakes and less efficient administration.

So another shot is fired at Mr. Henderson by his critics on Capitol Hill. Mr. Henderson's recent order permitting an increase of 21/2 cents for gasoline per gallon in the Eastern section of the country—to offset increased costs of transportation—caused great antagonism. The price administrator first aroused the hostility of members of Congress when he did not seek their advice on appointments to be made in the huge organization for price control which he is setting up. Instead of having recommendations made to him by Senators and Representatives-of the Democratic persuasion-Mr. Henderson adopted an independent, nonpolitical system of making the appointments. Instead of asking recommendations, he picked the candidates for these offices and requested Senators and Representatives to give their approval. They were outraged.

Congress Retaliates. Holding the money bags, Congress has retaliated by cutting down the price administrator's request for $161,000,000 to staff and run the OPA during the present fiscal year. The House reduced this figure to $75,000,000 and sent the bill to the Senate, where it is now before the Appropriations Subcommittee on Deficiency Bills. Mr. Henderson has pleaded his cause eloquently. He insists that he must have proper help if the country is to avoid rapidly increasing prices and disastrous inflation.

The whole question revolves round the question-how many employes and officials does the OPA really need to function at its best? It looks as though the Senate committee would recommend some increase in the appropriation for the OPA, over the $75,000,000 provided by the House bill. There is no chance whatever that it will give Mr. Henderson the entire $161,000,000. Indeed, the House would never the Senate wrote that figure into

Generally speaking, Senators have been as intensely aroused as were House members over Mr. Henderson's failure to let them make the principal appointments on his staff. What the President can and may do for Mr. Henderson in this contest with Congress remains to be seen

Both Mr. Henderson and Mr. Ickes require all the encouragement and assistance they can get to carry through their important tasks of supplying the Atlantic Seaboard with necessary fuel and gasoline and of keeping prices down-not only of petroleum products, but of all other essential articles. The proof of the pudding is in the eating. The country will be resentful if these problems are allowed to get out of hand.

The Japanese are operating on exterior lines with full command of the sea, of the Yangtse River and of railways north of that river. They can strike from any of the several directions and can put extra effort in the form of reserves into any particular sector where they appear o be gaining ground.

McDermott May Be Elevated to Rank Of Political Adviser to Secretary Hull

By CONSTANTINE BROWN. "Mike" McDermott, popular head of the Current Information

Division of the State Department, stands a good chance of being elevated soon to the rank of political adviser to the Secretary of State in charge of public relations.

In fact, Mr. McDermott has been acting in that capacity since Pearl Harbor, representing Secretary Hull in all his contacts with other public relation offices of the Government. He has lacked the title, however, and that fact has caused Secretary of State Hull who cares little for high-sounding titles himself, many a headache.

The State Department is the only branch of the Government which has not established a high-pressure public relations organization as the result of the war. The other principal Government departments have vast public relations organizations headed by men with rank.

Thus, the Navy has at the head of its bureau, Rear Admiral A. J. Hepburn, retired, former commander in chief of the United States Fleet. He is assisted by captains, commanders and a host of other officers. The War Department has Maj. Gen. A. D. Surles as chief of its public relations.

Davis May Be Elevated.

Gen. Surles is one of our ablest tank officers and as soon as he can be released from this position he will head a motorized or tank division. A number of colonels and other senior officers are busy with various branches of the greatly expanded Army public relations office.

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, does not have cabinet rank, but is a member of the President's official family.

The State Department public relations office, which functions as efficiently as ever despite the fact that it does not have a large personnel, is still the old Division of Current Information headed by Mr. McDermott, a relatively young man but the oldest hand at press relations in Washing-

Mr. McDermott is not a career diplomat, but is a permanent official of the State Department. He has reached the top as far as salary goes. The fact that he has not been given "rank" makes his relations with other Government departments and with the foreign "information" agencies difficult. While newspapermen do not care whether the dispenser of information they seek has stars on his collar or is called excellency, some fastidious civilian heads of the new publicity services feel slighted when they do not deal with a man of their own rank, such as an Assistant Secretary of State.

It is immaterial to these men whether the Assistant Secretary of State has any knowledge of the difficult problem of public relations. All that matters, it appears, is that he should be nominally, at least, a "policy-

Hull Concerned.

Some foreigners who have recently arrived in Washington to direct the propaganda of their own countries feel the same way. They are amazed that the State Department had not put a "man of consequence" in charge of its public relations and, in some instances, newcomers with ministerial rank have not bothered to call and get acquainted with the State Department's No. 1 publicity man who knows press relations better than any one else in Washington.

The matter has caused some concern to Mr. Hull, who is limited by budget in creation of new assistant secretaryships. The need for money for American and Allied fighting services is so great that he is reluctant to ask Congress to add another assistant secretary to the present number. But he is said to have found a solution for his problem in making Mr. McDermott a political adviser. Such a position would give him "rank" and precedence at official functions. There are four such titleholders already in the State Department. James Dunn is adviser on European affairs, Lawrence Duggan on South American affairs, Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck on the Far East and Wallace Murray on the Near and Middle Since these jobs do not require congressional approval, it is merely a question of spending a few dollars to paint a new sign in black and gold over the door of the new officer. Mr. Hull intends to cut the Gordian knot in this practical and inexpensive manner.

Is Grim Going

NEW YORK .- I have never dived for pearls in shark-infested waters with a knife in my mouth, or gone over Niagara in a side-saddle. Neither have I you what I have done. I have ridden a bicycle down Fifth avenue from Seventy-second street to Fourteenth street way of Park avenue. Some one had to be the first to do it. Bicycles are coming to this town, what with gasoline getting scarcer than a friendly cop, and tires getting as thin as the excuses of the pleasure drivers for riding about on them. Some one had to be a bicycle pig and find out how practical it would be to negotiate New York's traffic without serious mishap. I figured I looked as much like a guinea pig as any one in this town, so, with only close friends and my immediate family to see me off and wish me bon voyage, I fastened by pants legs with clips, bounded to the saddle as only a man of my age can bound to a saddle, and was off in the swirl of early morning traffic.

Unbounds From Saddle. At Seventh-first street the lights vere against me, and I had to unbound from my saddle and stand beside my machine in the middle of

New York has the reputation of being a blase, cosmopolitan city, where a person can do almost anything without the citizens paying any attention to him. Turbaned foreign princes move in and out of hotels without a head being turned. Eccentrics of all sorts stroll the streets in robes and sandals and with great beards blowing in the breeze, without causing any comment. Women lead ducks, cats and pigs on leashes. Wild West cowboys ride down the street. And New York goes on its way.

But a fat man, wearing a conservative, double-breasted seersucker suit, riding a bicycle, is too much for New York. Pedestrians quit bumping into one another to stop and gaze. Taxi drivers and motorists had remarks to make. People shouted from the tops of buses, and policemen took down my description. Dogs yapped at me from the curb, and when one big pooch slipped his leash and had a go at my ankles near Tiffany's, I longed for the ammonia-loaded pistol of my early youth, which I acquired by saving 235 soap wrappers.

Coasts Into Pedestrian. There is no closed season on bicycle riders in New York. Apparently they are considered fair game by all other forms of travelers. Near the Plaza Hotel an "ancient" in a horse-drawn hansom charged me until Dobbin and I were practically doing a cheek to cheek. This was where I went up on the sidewalk and coasted into a Mrs. Florence Warner of Des Moines, Iowa, whose lawyer is going to call on me tomorrow. Fifth avenue and Forty-second

"You Can't Crossroads of the World. I gave the silver bell on the right handlebar the works when I ap-

Again I longed for a bicycle attachment of my youththe Fire Chief siren which was operated by the front tire and guaranteed to work a full 12 hours. Finally, I pushed my bicycle across the street, along with the other pedestrians, and mounted again in front of the library, where the stone lions did not even turn their heads to stare at me. I was very grateful to them. The trip back up Park avenue was uneventful save for an incident near the Waldorf, where a motorist drove me into the curb, causing me to lose my left pants clip, with the result that my trouser leg became entangled in the chain. The doorman undid me and I started the slow, uphill crawl to Seventh-second street. It was nearing dusk when I walked in the door.

Friends lifted me to their shoulders, stood me a round of drinks from my own sideboard, and called the doctor. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

AN OPEN LETTER TO EVERY MEAT DEALER IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Dear Mr. Meat Dealer:

In a few days an all-out effort to collect waste fats from the kitchens of your customers will be started in every part of the country.

Our country needs this waste fat and needs it urgently. And these are the reasons: First, the war has greatly reduced our supply of vegetable fats from the Far East. Moreover, America needs fats for glycerine, because glycerine makes explosives for our armed forces and our allies. And right now we need millions of pounds of it.

The housewife will bring her waste fat to you in clean, wide-mouthed cans, a pound or more at a time. You are asked to pay her for them and then sell them to the renderer just as you sell your own waste fat. The details have been worked out to make it as easy for you as possible.

You-the meat dealer-are the key man in the whole plan. This important war effort can succeed only with your wholehearted, patriotic help.

When members of our committee, or others representing us, call on you, please give them your full help.

AMERICA NEEDS RUBBER

Here's the fastest, cheapest way to get it from Petroleum!

The Houdry Catalytic Process will provide synthetic rubber quicker, cheaper and in greater quantity than any other petroleum process!

Why the Houdry Process Is Better

Enough butadiene for 1,000,000 tons of rubber a year (as much as was consumed in the U. S. in 1941) can be produced by 15 standard-size Houdry plants.

Provided suitable priorities and labor are made available these plants can be erected in about nine months. Butadiene obtained from petroleum can be produced by the Houdry Process in 4 months less time than it could be produced by any other methods from petroleum. Construction of Houdry Plants would require one-third to one-half less steel and save millions of dollars as compared to the next best petroleum process.

What Does This Mean to America Today?

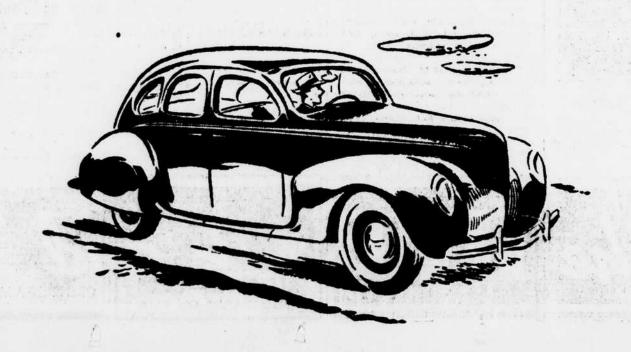

In dollars, it means a saving of millions for other defense purposes. In steel, it means a saving sufficient to supply steel plates for 100 to 150 destroyers; in time, the saving is immeasurable—within four months Japan seized almost all the Far East; in half that time, Germany swept through the Low Countries and conquered France.

What Does It Mean to America's Future?

It means the emancipation of America from foreign rubber trees. It means that America in the future can produce all the rubber it needs, probably at less cost than natural rubber.

We are proud to offer the Houdry Catalytic Process to any and all American manufacturers, without restriction and at nominal royalty rates approved by the United States Government.

Same Old Story—American Leaguers Triumph

EN ROUTE TO CLEVELAND, July 7 .- Tonight is when an Army-Navy baseball team plays an All-Star major league club for the first time in history. And the major leaguers, by right of conquest, are from the American League. They won the assignment last night at the Polo Grounds by defeating the National League,

The publicity boys, baseball writers and even the bookmakers had built a strong case for the National League this time. They pointed to the pitching Manager Leo Durocher had at his disposal. They pointed to an American League club without Bill Dickey, and with Joe Di Maggio batting only .268. They made the Nationals slight favorites.

But it was the same old story. The first hitter to face Pitcher Morton Cooper of the Cardinals banged a home run into the left field stands. This was Lou Boudreau. A double by Tommy Henrich and a second home run by Rudy York in the same inning did the trick, although at the time the National Leaguers couldn't be counted out. With no Grove, Gomez or Ruffing, there was some question as to whether a 3-to-0 lead would stand up.

Game Itself Proves to Be Drab Affair

As a ball game it was a drab affair, because Cooper, Johnny Vander Cochrane, one-time pilot of the De-Meer, Claude Passeau and Bucky Walters held the Americans after the troit Tigers, and the ever-familiar first inning and the Nationals were a horrible disappointment when they tried to do something with Spud Chandler and Alton Benton, a pair of journeymen pitchers lacking the glamour of their opponents. Every once in a while Mr. Ford Frick's team would make a belligerent gesture, but behind Chandler and Benton a great infield was operating last night.

Boudreau and Gordon may have been pretty close to being the alltime best shortstop-second base combination. At third base Ken Keltner Yankees overshadowed anything the Nationals had to offer and even the normally clumsy Rudy York, possibly inspired by this company, turned in a very acceptable game at first base.

It was, on the whole, a very business-like performance by the Americans. Joe McCarthy, the Yankee manager, placed what he thought was his best team on the field and left it there. He used only 11 men, compared to 19 employed by Durocher. If the fans were disappointed in not getting a look at a star like Bobby Doerr, that was too bad. McCarthy thinks Gordon is the better second baseman and so Joe played-and over the entire route.

National League's Top Hitters Are Helpless

The helplessness of the National League's top hitters perhaps is illustrated best by pointing to the only run scored. To open the eighth sion tickets go on sale at 6 p.m. illustrated best by pointing to the only run scored. To open the eighth sion tickets go on sale at 6 p.m. The spectacle figures to produce being the produce being the spectacle figures to produce being the spectac as a pinch-hitter and slapped a short, lazy homerun into the right-field tween $75,000 and $80,000 for the seats. From among Vaughan, Reiser, Mize, McCormick, Ott, Medwick, service societies' funds. Slaughter and Walker Cooper the Nationals got only three hits, all singles and two scratchy.

It was no fun for the National League, beaten seven times in 10 years of All-Star play, beaten in their own backyard, and beaten in a game they expected to win on superior pitching. But Providence helped to ease their wounds. At least a total blackout, starting almost the instant the game was over, enabled them to escape under cover of darkness.

If the game meant little as a test-and the All-Star affairs rarely do, except to broadly suggest there is a bona-fide difference in general class between the two leagues—it probably was important from a military standpoint. For the first time a baseball crowd-33,694 saw the show last night—was trapped in a blackout in the park.

Fans Don't Mind 20 Minutes of Blackout

Delayed nearly an hour because of weather conditions, the game wound up just before the deadline of 9:30 o'clock. Special permission snapped. "We've got good pitching, had to be obtained from military authorities, with the stipulation that a great defensive outfield and hitting all spectators remain in their seats until the 20 minutes of blackout was power. We'll give 'em more than Cigarettes glowed and matches flared. Nobody seemed to mind the experience, although as these words were written the final toll taken by pickpockets and other distinguished members of the hoodlum set was

Feller, Rigney Slated To Oppose Majors In Cleveland Game

By CHARLES DUNKLEY,

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 7 .- A great, patriotic throng of 60,000 to 70,000 spectators is expected to fill comfortably Cleveland's massive Municipal Lake Front Stadium tonight to witness the greatest stars in baseball battle to swell the Army and Navy emergency relief funds. Probably Last Big Test During War; Bud Going To Officers' School .

SPOKANE, Wash., July 7.-It is Bud Ward against the field today as the Nation's top flight amateur golfers tee off for their last big tournament of the year-and in all probability their last of the war. Ward, a corporal in the Air Corps, will pack away his clubs after this Western Amateur Championships and entrain for Officers' Training School. Officers' school and golf don't mix and Bud, twice holder of the Western title, is definitely out of big-time golf for the duration.

Two of the field in particular-Corpl. Pat Abbott of Los Angeles and Art Doering of Chicago-will be gunning for Ward regardless of title. The entrants tee off today on a two-day 36-hole medal test, and

Old League Knocked Out by Boudreau's, York's Home Runs

NEW YORK, July 7.—Better allstar games possibly will be played than last night's spectacle at the Polo Grounds, in which the American League once again slugged the National into defeat, 3-1, before a benefit crowd of 33.694, but it is difficult to imagine one more dra-

Boudreau Blasts N. L. Hopes. Last night's game was over to all ntents and purposes when Lou Boudreau, Cleveland's handsome young manager, laced the second ball pitched by Mort Cooper of the St. Louis Cardinals into the deep left-field stand. The National Leaguers from that instant must have felt it was hopeless. The crowd did, anyway.

Here was Boudreau, who is not a distance clouter and had, in fact, hit Cooper. The senior loopmen must have recalled with a sudden chill that Ted Williams had closed last year's All-Star battle at Detroit with Owen Averts Shutout. From there on, with the Americans boasting a three-run lead and their pitchers-Spud Chandler of the Yankees and big Al Benton of Detroit—setting the National Leaguers down inning after inning, there never was much doubt that the junior loopers had won their seventh victory in 10 All-Star duels.

Mickey Owen, the Brooklyn catcher whose failure to stop a third strike made him the goat of the 1941 World Series, saved his side from a shutout with a pinch-home run off Benton in the eighth. Golfers May Be Hard Rationing Plan

Golf club officials aren't worried about it now, but they may be when the next scheme for gas rationing takes effect July 22. Under this plan something less than 3,000 miles of driving will be allowed in a year, which won't be enough for those two or three trips a week to the country club.

So far, the gas bugaboo hasn't had the effect of cutting down on golf play, but it can have when the new rationing scheme goes into action. It means that the clubs will have to rely in the main on public transportation facilities, or those furnished by the clubs themselves.

De Chard Wins Close One on Hot Card

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON. Something "real big" is cookin' for District ring fans, but Promoter Joe Turner today was not prepared to say exactly what-except that it will be big. "We've got a top-notch fighter lined up for the main go," he mentioned in chatter after the Drew benefit program at Griffith Stadium last night. "But we can't find anybody to put him in with. It's really hard to find good fighters and you can't throw just anybody in there, because the fans won't go for it, but I hope to get a fighter that can stand up with him." Both Sammy Angott, lightweight champ, and Ray Robinson were mentioned during the conversation, but Turner refused to say whether he had either in mind. Just who it might be was highly conjectural, with most of the better knuckleslingers in the service. Lou Diamond, the honest brakeman who has been acting in an advisory capacity with Turner, suggested an all-heavyweight show as the next card. He would bring back Al Reiss, the 176-pound heavyweight who dropped the nod to Jimmy De Chard last night after a fierce struggle, and Jimmy, too. He also would include Jabbo Kenner and Al Blake, the bulky Baltimorean who flattened the tall Negro a couple of months ago. Charley Rath, a Cincinnati youngster with a potent right and bucket-fuls of color, was suggested as De Chard's opponent, but whether Turner can make the match is something else again. Jimmy was to report to Truck Company No. 15 today to begin his career as a firefighter and there is some doubt whether he'll be able to continue his ring activities. Rath Seen Test for De Chard.

split verdict was announced. Rath, according to Diamond probably would lose to De Chard, but not before stretching the local heavy for a nine-count sometime during the fight. It would be a knock-down, drag-out brawl, in Lou's opinion, and Mann probably wouldn't go for that. Frankie said he would prefer to bring his boy back against Reiss over the 10round route-last night's was 8-in his next start. This drew a scornful snort from Harry Raskin, Reiss'

The net gate was $2,300, a remarkand a hat collection during the intermission netted an additional $528.78. It was erronsously announced that the park had been donated, but it was given at about cost, or 10 per cent. Almost all of the kids on the card worked for free and seemed pleased to do it. Unless some individual or group gets behind the tourney, the outlook for a Washington public links championship this year is gloomy. Declines of Fractions To Point or More in Majority at Close

By VICTOR EUBANK. Associated Press Financial Write-NEW YORK, July 7.-The stock market ran out of buying steam today after three successive rallying

Hesitancy was evident throughout the list at the start. While scattered favorites managed to cling to modest advances, trends soon turned irregularly lower and, in the closing hour, declines of fractions to a point or so were in the majority. The comforting feature of the proceedings for builish forces was the absence of any real selling pressure. The turnover was around 350,000 shares.

Commission house observers had various explanations for the stemming of the recovery push. Cited principally was the discouraging war news from Russia. The lengthy upturn also was thought to have impaired the technical position of the market to some extent and in-On $17,143,000 Bond spired mild profit cashing. taking hold here and there. Prominent stocks on the offside most of the time were American-Telephone, Santa Fe, Du Pont, American Can, Chrysler, United States Steel, United States Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Sears, Roebuck; Montgomery Ward, Anaconda, Texas,

Co. and Great Northern. Occasional resistance was exhibited by Cerro de Pasco, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak, United Aircraft and United States Gypsum.

Bond Market Uneven. The bond market developed an irregular price pattern with small gains and losses well distributed over the list near the final hour.

Rubber Reclaimers Will Be Kept Busy

AKRON, Ohio, July 7 .- Scrap rubber collections are expected to be sufficient to keep the reclaiming industry at top speed for a year or more, the Beacon Journal says

Dr. H. S. Coal Production Declines Despite War Demands

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., July 7 .-Despite war demands for coal, production in five West Virginia and Kentucky fields during the week ended June 27 dropped for the third successive week, this time below 1941 output for the same period.

The Williamson Operators' Association reported today that the Williamson, Logan and Kanawha fields in West Virginia and the Big Sandy and Hazard fields in Kentucky pro-duced 1,417,500 tons of coal during the week ended June 27. This compared with 1,453,050 for the previous week, 1,488,170 for the week ended June 13 and 1,479,500 for the week ended June 27, 1941.

Although figures are not yet available, the association said production unquestionably dropped still further last week because of the dispute over a 10-day vacation and a subsequent Fourth of July holiday.

Possibilities Surveyed.

Participation in the war production program by the car retailers frequently has been suggested in trade quarters during the last few months. To date, however, there has been no large scale conversion in that respect, although in widely scattered areas some dealers with the right type of equipment on hand or obtainable have found a place in the war production program.

Perhaps one of the most comprehensive appraisals of the potentialities of dealer participation in the production program has just been compiled under the direction of Kenneth B Elliott, vice president of Studebaker Corp. Elliott makes no attempt to influence dealers for or against participation in the man-

THE MOON IS DOWN JOHN STEINBECK

Without warning, the peaceful little town is quickly occupied by the invaders. A traitor, George Corell, has prepared the way, but 6 of the 12 local troops are killed. Col. Lanser, commanding officer of the invaders, informs elderly Mayor Orden that they want coal from the local mine and that they wish the townspeople to continue to work the mine. He urges the Mayor to order the people to swomit, but the Mayor says they must decide for themselves what they will do. He and his friend, Dr. Winter, expect bitterness and rebellion. Corell asks Col. Lanser to make him Mayor, saying that he can force the people to co-operate, but the colonel, who knows the town's attitude toward Corell, refuses his request. Then a rebellious miner, Alex Morden, kills an officer. The colonel, as a servant of his government, knows that Alex must be shot, but as an individual he knows that this will simply lead to further violence, for he has seen the reactions of conquered peoples in the last war. He orders a trial to be held in the Mayor's house. Alex's wife, Molly, comes to see the Mayor and tells him that the people are saying he will sentence Alex. This startles him.

CHAPTER IX. Now Molly came near to the Mayor orders are inexorable. We must get man," she said. "He's a quick- orderly, we will have to restore that ries, might agree with you, might ing up, "It's started to snow. It tempered man, but he's never broken

"No," he said. "How could I sentence him?"

"The people said you would, for the sake of order." Mayor Orden stood behind a chair and gripped its back with his hands.

"Do the people want order, Molly?"

"I don't know," she said. "They want to be free." "Well, do they know how to go about it? Do they know what method to use against an armed enemy? "No," Molly said, "I don't think "You will have work for me?" the doctor asked. "No-no. I just won't like to be alone." "I will be here," said the doctor.

"And, doctor, do you think Molly looked all right?" "Oh, I think so. Close to hysteria, I guess. But she's good stock. She's good, strong stock. She is a Ken-derly, you know." "I'd forgotten," Orden. "Yes, she is a Kenderly, isn't she?" Dr. Winter went out and shut the door gently behind him.

Lanser had waited courteously. He watched the door close. He looked at the table and the chairs about it. "I will not tell you, sir, how sorry I am about this. I wish it had not happened.

Mayor Orden bowed, and Lanser went on, "I like you, sir, and I respect you, but I have a job to do. You surely recognize that." Orden did not answer. He looked straight into Lanser's eyes. "We do not act alone or on our own judgment. Between sentences Lanser waited for an answer but he received none. "There are rules laid down for us, rules made in the capital. This man has killed an officer."

"Why Didn't You Shoot Him?" At last Orden answered, "Why didn't you shoot him then? That was the time to do it."

Lanser shook his head. "If I agreed with you, it would make no difference. You know as well as I that punishment is largely for the purpose of deterring the potential criminal. Thus, since punishment is for others than the punished, it must be publicized. It must even be dramatized." He thrust a finger in back of his belt and flipped his little dagger. Orden turned away and looked cast of the window at the dark sky.

Prospects Dim For Early End Of Taxi Dispute

PUC Will Discuss Four Zone Plans With Drivers Tomorrow

Prospects of an early settlement of the controversy over taxicab zone rates seemed more remote today than they have for several weeks as the Public Utilities Commission faced discussion of four separate sone schedules at a conference between the commission and drivers' representatives in the District Building at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

The only point on which all parties were agreed was that it would the railroadmen in the high places, cost the public more generally to and he had experienced the backride in taxicabs when the dispute is breaking toil of those in humble finally settled.

The latest proposal for zone-rate changes to be presented to the PUC was submitted yesterday in the form of a petition by the Combined Cab Bervice, Inc., comprising Arrow, Bell, Checker, Premier, Washington and Yellow. Combined's plan contemplates simplification of the complex sone map ordered by the PUC June 15, and recommends several changes in boundary lines.

The petition was based on 800 amdavits signed by drivers, according to John H. Royer, jr., president of Combined. Mr. Royer said the balance of the 1,600 drivers identified with the six companies are expected to sign before the conference

Voting on Third Plan.

Meanwhile, drivers were still voting today on a third plan proposed by the United Taxicab Drivers. Inc., which would retain, with certain modifications, the old zone map in effect before June 15 and still being used by at least 500 cab drivers by permission of the PUC.

The union's proposal also asks an increase in rates to 30, 50, 70 and 90 cents. Although no rate increases were asked in Combined's petition, Mr. Royer indicated his organization would be willing to go along with the union on a higher schedule.

The only schedule which appeared to have small hope of survival was the old one with its four basic zones and rates of 30, 40, 60 and 80 cents.

Boundary Changes Suggested.

The southern boundary line of the sone, the petition suggests, should run along the Anacostia River from Seventeenth street S.E. to P street S.E., west on P street to the Washington Channel.

Other changes asked are: Third zone, northern and eastern boundary lines changed to Peabody street N.W. to North Dakota avenue N.E. to Thirty-fifth street, south on Thirty-fifth street across the Ana-Benning road N.E. to Minnesota avenue, south on Minnesota avenue to Sixteenth street S.E., then to W street and west on W street to the Anacostia River.

The union's proposal contemplates the following new boundaries on the old zone map:

S. S. Potomac Blackout Case Under Study

Boat Line Head Denies He Was Instructed to Dim Lights at Dock

Assistant Corporation Counsel Irving Bryan today took under advisement whether to prosecute the Potomac River Line, Inc., on a charge of violating blackout regulations in operation and docking of the S. S. Potomac, a pleasure boat, during the all-night blackout here June 17.

In a preliminary hearing, Mr. Bryan heard about 15 witnesses. The hearing was ordered by Corporation Counsel Richmond B. Keech because of complaints of Southwest air-raid wardens.

B. B. Wills, president of the line, admitted charges that the boat was lighted when it docked with 500 pas-sengers, but he said he had been given permission to run on the ground that the boat was a transportation facility. Mr. Wills also said that on returning to Washington he kept the boat completely blacked out during the "alert" until point half way between Hains Point and the dock on Maine avenue S.W. Mr. Wills said the boat halted at that point for 20 minutes until the was sure the "alert" had ended. He said the boat did not start until he saw automobiles and trolley cars running on shore with their lights on. Mr. Wills admitted he had all the lights on while at the dock, but denied he had ever been told by deputy wardens that he could have nothing but his running lights on while at the dock.

William Rinehart, assistant deputy warden, asserted that he had instructed Mr. Wills that he would have to dock with nothing but his running lights on. Mr. Rinehart said he tried to talk to Mr. Wills when the boat docked, but that Mr. Wills had refused to talk with him. saying he had "more important things to do." Mr. Wills replied that he was too busy helping to see that the passengers were not hurt in getting off the ship. All lights were blacked out on the dock.

E. S. Johnson, zone warden charge, pointed out that he had about 15 wardens there with flashlights to aid in helping the people off the ship.

Army Has Faith in 'Geopolitik' Leader, Institute Told

By THOMAS R. HENRY. Star Staff Correspondent.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 7 There are two blueprints of German world conquest, the institute of public affairs at the University of Virginia here was told today.

One is Adolf Hitler's. The other is that of a major general in the Kaiser's army who quit after the last war to become a "herr-pro-Munich and developed what in the past year has come to be considered versity of Rochester and Oberlin a "superscience"-"geopolitik."

One of Haushofer's closest disciples was Rudolph Hess, whose flight to Scotland probably marked the beginning of the break and was caused by it.

His whole plan was wrecked, Dr. Wiegert said, by the later attack on Russia.

Germany and Japan could choose whether to ride along with them, constituting a solid and unconquerable block from the Rhine to the Pacific, or joining with England and the United States in opposing them. Prospects Dim For Early End Of Taxi Dispute

PUC Will Discuss Four Zone Plans With Drivers Tomorrow

Prospects of an early settlement of the controversy over taxicab zone rates seemed more remote today than they have for several weeks as the Public Utilities Commission faced discussion of four separate zone schedules at a conference between the commission and drivers' representatives in the District Building at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

The only point on which all parties were agreed was that it would cost the public more generally to ride in taxicabs when the dispute is finally settled.

The latest proposal for zone-rate changes to be presented to the PUC was submitted yesterday in the form of a petition by the Combined Cab Service, Inc., comprising Arrow, Bell, Checker, Premier, Washington and Yellow. Combined's plan contemplates simplification of the complex zone map ordered by the PUC June 15, and recommends several changes n boundary lines.

The petition was based on 800 affidavits signed by drivers, according to John H. Royer, jr., president of Combined. Mr. Royer said the balance of the 1,600 drivers identified with the six companies are expected to sign before the conference Voting on Third Plan. Meanwhile, drivers were still oting today on a third plan proposed by the United Taxicab Drivers, Inc., which would retain, with cer-tain modifications, the old zone map in effect before June 15 and still being used by at least 500 cab drivers by permission of the PUC.

The union's proposal also asks an increase in rates to 30, 50, 70 and 90 cents. Although no rate increases were asked in Combined's petition, Mr. Royer indicated his organization would be willing to go along with the union on a higher schedule. The only schedule which appeared to have small hope of survival was official for nearby Maryland and the old one with its four basic zones the PUC map and that it be divided simply by four zone lines and six intersecting divisional lines. It also recommends that the eastern bounrector, had previously issued a call dary line of the second zone be established along Montana avenue to Bladensburg road; Bladensburg road to Seventeenth street and south to the Anacostia River.

Boundary Changes Suggested. The southern boundary line of the zone, the petition suggests, should run along the Anacostia River from Seventeenth street S.E. to P street S.E., west on P street to the Washington Channel.

Other changes asked are: Third zone, northern and eastern boundary lines changed to Peabody street N.W. to North Dakota avenue N.E. to Thirty-fifth street, south on Thirty-fifth street across the Anacostia River to Clay street N.E., to Benning road N.E. to Minnesota avenue, south on Minnesota avenue to Sixteenth street S.E., then to W street and west on W street to the Anacostia River.

The union's proposal contemplates the following new boundaries on the old zone map:

Zone 1, U street between Ninth and Eighteenth streets N.W. Twenty-second street up to S street. and an imaginary extension of the zone line across Florida avenue on Eighth street N.E. Zone 2, Randolph street to Warder street N.W., south to Michigan avenue, east on Michigan avenue to Franklin street, east on Franklin street to Twelfth street N.E., south to Mount Olivet street, east to Bladensburg road, south to Seventeenth street and south on Seventeenth street to M street S.E. Zone 3, Peabody street N.W. as northern boundary, anad an imaginary line from R street and Bladensburg road N.E. to Minnesota avenue at Benning road. Edwin A. Glenn, president of the union, held out hope that some of

Contract Cancellation Urged by Gillette to Boost Grain Rubber

Says Time and Materials Can Be Saved by Shift From Petroleum Method

Py the Associated Press. Contending that months could be saved, Senator Gillette, Democrat, of Iowa, proposed today that the Government cancel some of its contracts for plants to produce synthetic rubber from Petroleum and build new facilities for production from grain Senator Gillette made this suggestion after hearing testimony by Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production Board that the need for copper and other vital materials precluded the construction of new grain alcohol plants at this

Senator Gillette told reporters that if this condition existed, there was all the more reason why the Government should shift its emphasis away from the petroleum process to what he said was the more simplified procedure of producing synthetic rubber from grain alcohol.

"These grain alcohol plants can be built with one-tenth of the critical materials and in from one-third to one-fourth of the time it takes to construct a petroleum-process plant," he declared.

"If we could get some of these grain alcohol plants built, I beliieve we could save months of time in the production of synthetic rubber and possibly increase the total amount obtained so that there would be some for civilian uses within a year or two.' Of a total potential annual production of 1,000,000 tons of synthetic rubber, approximately 200,000 tons has been allocated by the WPB to the grain alcohol process. Mr. Nelson told a subcommittee headed by Senator Gillette, yesterday, however, that he did not believe any new grain alcohol facilities should be erected at this time, but was rushing plans to convert whisky distilleries to make the industrial product.

Committee members have contended that such a program would place the grain alcohol method of Pilot Club Dinner producing butadiene and synthetic rubber on a temporary wartime and business meeting at 6:15 o'clock basis only, while large petroleum process plants were being built tonight at the Burlington Hotel, which would be in full operation 1120 Vermont avenue N.W.

'Spooks' Aids Rubber Drive; Clubs to Fete Servicemen

Add "Spooks," Mrs. C. D. Lowe's orange Persian, to the Capital's patriotic pets who are giving up their toys to the current rubber drive.

"Spooks," as a matter of fact, is saving his civic-minded mistress from what was about to prove an embarrassing situation. Salvage chairman of the Women's City Club, Mrs. Lowe is to be hostess at the Thursday evening entertainment at the clubhouse this week. In planning the program, she decided to have each member attending bring a rubber donation.

Looking about the house for her own contribution. Mrs. Lowe discovered that she'd already turned in everything in which there was a scrap of rubberexcept "Spook's" toys.

Although he wasn't consulted, "Spooks" seems proud enough to emulate the example of patriotic "Falla," the President's Scottie.

Mrs. Lowe will have Mrs. Newton Cordis Wing, chairman of the Women's Committee of the District Salvage Committee, as one of the speakers on the program which will start at 8 p.m. The hostess, by the way, has just returned from Augusta, Ga., where she visited her son, Lt. Ralph W. Lowe, at Camp Gordon, and her daughter-in-law.

Members of the District Federation of Women's Clubs are making a handsome contribution to the salvage collections, thanks to the Fourth of July rubber party at the home of Mrs. Henry Fenno Sawtelle.

More than 125 members and guests checked in with their rubber "tickets" and stayed for a varied program of music, dances, talks on salvage, and re-

Miller, assistant administrator of the Federal Security Agency, and Horace Walker, executive secretary of the District Salvage Committee. Both "paid" their way in with old rubber tires. Parties were virtually dropped from the federation calendar this past season—the Independence Day affair being the second of the year.

While members prefer to limit social entertainment for themselves, however, they are joining the groups who wish to do something pleasant for the servicemen here.

Beginning this week a series of informal Saturday night parties for the men in uniform are to be given under federation auspices in the social hall at WCTU headquarters, 522 Sixth street N.W.

"We'll have plenty of punch and cookies 'like mother makes.' " says Mrs. Arthur C. Watkins, the president. "And there will be games of various kinds and opportunity for simple conversation or letter writing-if that's what the boys want."

Junior members will assist the advisory council in serving as hostesses at the opening party. Mrs. Tilman Bacon Parks and Mrs. O. G. Hankins are cochairmen for the summer.

When King Peter II of Yugoslavia attended the reception given recently by the Newspaper Women's Club, cards of admission were issued for collection at the door. Members and guests, however, were exceedingly reluctant to part with what was obviously souvenir material of a highly desirable quality.

But everybody is happy now. The cards, which were held long enough to serve their purpose, have since been mailed back to the original holders.

Increase in Wages At Aircraft Plants

Committee of 16 Meets For Stabilization Talks On Pacific Coast

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, July 7.-Paul R. Porter, wage stabilizer for the War Production Board, indicated that warplane builders may expect a pay poost as a committee of 16 met today to discuss wage schedules for all Pacific Coast aircraft workers.

"Wage increases granted since the President outlined his program to control living costs on April 27 have been made, first, to raise substandard wages or, second, to eliminate inequities in various classifications," he said. "A proper wage stabilization program involves adjustment of wage inequalities to prevent migration.

Labor representatives at the conference, which began yesterday, reported that shipyards wage scales of 95 cents to $1.50 an hour are 20 to 30 cents an hour more than that paid to airplane builders for comparable work.

Aircraft Leader's Statement. A few days ago W. G. Tuttle, chairman of the Industrial Relations Committee of the Southern California aircraft industry (eight major companies), issued this state-

"The manufacturers recognize that living costs have increased since the last general wage raise for aircraft workers in this region during the summer of 1941. Accordingly, we favor a stabilization program which will take into consideration these increased living costs, without breaking the bounds of inflation control. * * *"

The manufacturers gave no hint as to what rises they might sug-gest. The eight are Consolidated and Ryan at San Diego and Douglas, Lockheed, North American, North-rop, Vega and Vultee in the Los Angeles area.

Three Objectives. Mr. Porter told the conference the three objectives should be: "1. To avoid wage increases which might be inflationary or which might stimulate wage advances in other industries.

"2. To improve good labor relations within the industry and to prevent, because of inequities in classifications or for other reasons, any unrest which might retard pro-

"3. To explore ways and means by which we can develop and maintain a stable labor force with minimum labor turnover and migration and the best opportunity for proper training of workers."

He warned: "We must take into consideration the various instru-mentalities which the Government is using to make stabilization func-tion properly. * * We are not here to dictate or to set wage scales by administrative flat or to threaten you with coercion if co-operation

To users of MANHATTAN Laundry and Dry Cleaning SERVICE

Yes, Ma'am, we're sorry that we weather demands so many more can no longer make special collections and deliveries when your husband's summer clothes need cleaning in a hurry-or when you're trying to stretch the family wardrobe to take care of frequent changes needed in hot weather.

But all of us must conserve trucks, tires and gasoline. So, we must ask you to juggle the family's clothes and changes of linen so as to conform with our wartime collection and delivery schedule.

There's another reason why, these days, we can't give you service that is as quick and as prompt as we'd like it to be. And, believe it or not, it's the WEATHER!

You see, even before the hot weather started, here at Manhattan ever before. And, now that hot and your business.

changes of clothes, 'most everybody's laundry bundle is larger.

We have never seen so much washing and ironing and cleaning . . but we want you to know that the folks who do the work here at Manhattan are doing their level best to maintain the quality of your work and your service.

What's more, we're sincerely grateful to you customers for your friendly, cooperative attitude during these trying times. That means a lot to us because we have spent 25 years building a reputation for fine laundry and dry cleaning service—and we're just as eager to please you now as the day we started in business. War conditions beyond our control may we were handling far more laun- hamper us, but we'll stay in there dry and dry cleaning work than trying to deserve your good will Stabilizing Force. "The traditional diplomatic policy of Japan is to contribute to the attainment of world peace through the establishment of peace in East Asia with Japan as the stabilizing force," he declared.

He said Japan refrained from interfering with the interests of third powers in China and "even went so far as to accept many inconveniences in its war operations in order to protect the third powers' interests," but regardless of this the United States and Britain opposed Japan's program.

Japan's final gesture, he said, was the dispatching of Ambassador Saburo Kurusu to Washington, "but this produced no satisfactory results as the United States adhered stubbornly to their unjust views." "Making light of Japan's real ability," he declared, "Washington authorities insisted that the East Asia situation should be returned to that of the days before the Manchurian affair. We were, therefore, compelled to take up arms against England and America."

Figures on Loans Given. Domei broadcast an imperial headquarters announcement that Japan's enemies had suffered 2,-338,000 dead since the outbreak of hostilities in China; that 2,800 planes had been shot down or damaged. and 1,630 ships had been sunk or Japan's losses were put at 111,111 killed, with only 240 planes lost in five years of war.

The newspaper Yomiuri was quoted as saying Japan should be prepared, however, to fight a 50year war or even 100 years, and Asahi described China's continued resistance as "the height of folly."

But she may well be the greatest soldier of all—the mother who is raising today the stalwart Americans of tomorrow.

It is to help her with this greatest task that the government has initiated its National Nutrition Program. And it is for her, and millions like her, that the Office of Defense Health and Welfare Services has published the nutritional chart you see here-so that every mother can know which foods build sound and sturdy bodies.

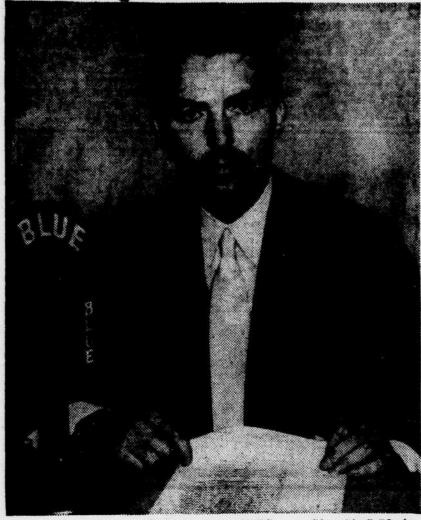

The government has asked that you clip out this chart and pin it to your kitchen wall. And even more, it urges that you give your family these important strength-building foodssome from every group in the chart, every day.

Davies Says Supply Of Fuel Oil May Not Fill Minimum Needs

Radio Forum Speaker Advises Householders

To Convert Units to Coal

There is a strong likelhood that there will be insufficient fuel oil available next winter to meet even minimum needs, Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum co-ordinator for war, declared last night in a radio

Mr. Davies was speaking on the National Radio Forum, weekly feature arranged by The Star and brodcast over WMAL and the Nation-wide blue network.

He warned home owners to prepare to face the shortage and advised those who find it practicable to convert their oil-heating plants to coal-burning furnaces.

It is possible that the picture may change later in the year, Mr. Davies said, that the submarine menace may be overcome to permit tankers to operate more freely and that other transport methods may supply more fuel oil to the East than has been anticipated, but it is not likely.

Factory Fuel Scarce. threat of sniping torpedoes, the petroleum co-ordinator added, are clamation yesterday. not risking their lives "simply to keep the home oil fires burning," but rather have a military mission—the honor of true Virginians, and many supply of fuel for the boilers of war

"When that need has been met," said Mr. Davies, "there is not enough left for normal civilian use."

Tank cars, pipelines and barges, Mr. Davies told the radio audience, have not yet caught up with the amounts formerly delivered in the East by tanker alone, so factories are being fueled on a "hand to mouth basis." Thus, the oil companies have been unable to build up any fuel oil supply for next winter during the summer conths.

"Let me put the problem graphically," said Mr. Davies. "If, on New Year Eve of this year, every

New Year Eve of this year, every motor car, truck and bus were suddenly to disappear-and thus reduce gasoline consumption to zerothis would not release enough tank cars, barges and pipeline capacity to supply the Eastern States with the fuel oil, alone, that we shall need during January and February."

Rigid Economy Urged. Refusing directly to advise conversion of oil furnaces to coal, on the ground that the situation might conceivably change suddenly, Mr.

Davies did say, however: "If I lived in a house and could convert to coal without unreasonable expense, I would do so."

Davies pointed out, "is to change their heating equipment from the use of oil to the use of coal. • • • "
Coal is available, he said, if ordered now. And the War Production Board has ordered grates not subject to priority regulations.

Many industrial fuel oil users have converted their plants, Mr. Davies reported, and through their combined efforts have accomplished an annual saving of 20,000,000 barrels

Those unable to convert home heating plants for coal use were urged by Mr. Davies to practice rigid and thorough conservation, by closing unused rooms, by using the furnace only when necessary, by cutting down night temperature, by reducing the temperature setting for hot-water heaters and by drawing shades at night, to prevent heat loss through the glass of window

The fuel shortage will not be restricted to the East, Mr. Davies predicted, since the shortage here may necessitate a drain on stock in the Midwest and other areas.

There's More to Hollywood Than Slacks and Sables

Our Guest Columnist Reports Fashion Significance Found In the 'Land of Sunshine'

By Joan Gardner

(Editor's note: The New York Fashion League's clever reporter, Joan Gardner, sends this interesting and very "human" story from the Coast, where she has been making an intensive survey of fashion trends.-H. V.)

LOS ANGELES.—Here in Los Angeles there is a strip of boulevard hemmed by some of California's finest shops, named "The Miracle Mile." It is, to this writer's mind, one of the most glaring understatements to which California can lay claim. Miracle Mile, indeed-why not Miracle City? It would be far more appropriate, for here within a city are many cities, each in itself a minor miracle.

As an example, there is Hollywood. Not inclosed in a high board fence inside which the movie stars do their tricks, but a city of boulevards and pretty homes, of shops and yes, movie lots. But the moving picture studios (or lots) look like any other big business plant. Now that they are rated as a war business, entrance to them is difficult except to the working press. There is the central administrative office housing all the executives, writers and directors, and then the "lot" on which there are many sets and stages, dressing rooms and wardrobe buildings. This last is particularly important, for unlike the legitimate stage moving picture wardrobe-* manufacturing house. There is no compromise in workmanship, quality of fabric or subtlety of line. Only the best is good enough, for you are told, "these clothes must last and stand hard wear. And the camera has a sharp eye, so any substitution of striving 'for effect' is immediately apparent." The average cost of a costume for a star is well over $100, and some of them cost several times this amount. They are often used for 10 years and more, with minor changes.

Now that the necessity for economy has become a war measure, some of the less important costumes are purchased in the stores and then fitted to the star at considerable less cost than the manufacture of the costume would entail.

A typical example seen was pretty spy picture wearing a soft blue gabardine suit and hat exactly like a hundred and one suits being worn by young career women all over on bony structure, musculature,

What does California think of the slacks question? Since it started the fashion, it has had it longer and as a consequence feels confident it will continue.

Here on the West Coast thousands upon thousands of women are employed in the great airplane factories and one sees them working side by side with the men, and dressed very much like them. Slacks are a "must," but sweaters and flimsy blouses are forbidden to be worn with them. The result is a neat workmanlike appearance.

It is a strange sight, this striving to maintain a tradition under the canopy of barrage balloons that guards the city night and day, but it indicates that along with some of the other "revivals" the war is bringing to us, sentiment is not the least important.

They're "dressing for dinner" in California and the trend of fashion ranges from informal dinner gowns such as Susan Hayward's silk jersey to the "concealing yet revealing" model worn by Claudette Colbert. The former gown, combining Kelly green bodice with brightly colored print skirt, is made more important by the choice of exactly matching gloves. Ultra-sophisticated is Miss Colbert's strapless black faille evening gown with sheer black lace over flesh-colored material at the bustline. Tricky idea of the week is the separate black lace collar fastened with a jeweled clasp.

Many Substitutes Can Be Used to Save Ration

Our first period of sugar rationing has had various results. In the households where sugar is not used in coffee or on cereal it has been possible to prepare most of the usual desserts for the table. Sometimes the amount of sugar in our standwhat without interfering with the enjoyment of the result. This is particularly true when it comes to custard and gelatin puddings.

When dried fruits are used sugar may often be scanted, but when it comes to rhubarb, corn sirup or honey will be needed to replace any reduction in sugar. The other day a rhubarb pie appeared at the table and without enough sweetening it was just not eaten. That's not thrifty. With an apple pie molasses or dark corn sirup may be used in

What's New in Town?

By Dorothy Murray

Undoubtedly many of us can recollect those large safetypins "ma" used to pin down the covers in our childhood days. These useful pins have "gone fancy" now and are making their appearance in soft pink and blue, much more in keeping with dainty equip-

Another article on display in many infant departments is designed especially to "fill-the-bill" of the pins and is even more attractive. Two wooden blanket clips made in the shape of small ducks are attached to a piece of tape that is supposed to be fastened securely to the under-part of the bed. Mothers will find these clips are much more satisfactory than the old safety-pin method of keeping baby under the covers for they can't tear the blankets or sheets. Pink and blue are the colors and their cost is just about right to make the set an ideal layette shower present.

The new bride will be so proud to serve sauces in a lovely silver boat, especially if it is a gift from a cherished friend. The boat has an ebony handle which adds to smartness and its base is broad enough to avoid danger of tipping. A silver tray completes the set.

Personalized match folder cases are very smart. These are made of a plastic material and are unbreakable, which is a nice feature. They are also very inexpensive. The cases come in a large assortment of plain colors, or, if you prefer, you can have a combination of two shades. Your initials or name can be printed across the front of the case to serve as a neat decoration.

A quick and easy way to clean windows, auto windshields, mirrors and glass tops is to use just a few drops of an efficient liquid. Simply spray the fluid on sparingly, then shine the surface with a clean, dry cloth before the liquid dries.

Those attractive nightgown cases in the form of a monkey are amusing for a child's room. The body is made of brown plush and soft chamois-like material forms the face. Besides being very useful and decorative you will find "baby" will cherish the case as

The side entry was a little unlikely in view of South's two no-Nature of the Enemy trump bid, so East looked around Enemy-Cecil Brown for some other chance. He was Riggs and Betty Lou sure to win two club tricks, in addition to the hearts already won; so the contract would be set if he could set up one spade or one diamond for his partner. Since a diamond lead might sacrifice a trick in the suit, East shifted to the nine of spades.

South played the ten, West covered with the king, and dummy won with the spade ace. South returned to his hand with a spade and led the nine of clubs, letting it ride for a finesse. But East saw that he could shut out the club suit and that the attempt to set up a spade trick had come to nothing. He therefore let the nine of clubs hold; and when South next led the eight of clubs, East refused that trick, too.

Declarer now saw that it would do him no good to lead a third club, since two entries to dummy would be needed, and dummy had only one-the diamond king. He, therefore, led to the diamond king and tried the finesse of the diamond jack. When that lost, South succeeded in making three spades, a heart, two diamonds and two clubs for a total of only eight tricks.

EXCUSE ME, MR. DUGAN, HERE TO SEE YOU ABOUT A JOB!

Uncle Ray's Corner STIRRING STORY By RAMON COFFMAN.

When Winnebago Indians wanted to do writing of a sort, they used birchbark as their "paper." Their writing was done with pictures. To show they were making a picture of a white man, they drew the figure of a man and placed a hat on his

Those Indians and most others had no hats or caps when they were first seen by white explorers. Many of them, however, put feathers in their hair or wore feather "bonnets." Indians of the plains were the ones who most often wore feather bonnets. The bonnets were made largely of the feathers of golden eagles. Some had long tails which hung down almost to the ground.

Ordinary warriors of the tribe did not wear such bonnets. It was the chiefs and the chief warriors who were allowed the honor.

As a warrior grew older and performed brave deeds of one kind or another, he could place new feathers in his bonnet. In one tribe a warrior was allowed to add five feathers when he brought back to camp an enemy who had been wounded on the battlefield.

American Indians are not the only persons with a headdress of feathers. Among various savage or half-savage tribes of far lands, feathers have been favored. Dark-skinned Melanesian native of some South Sea Islands follow the custom. In certain cases the men build up their feather headdress to a height of 3 or 4 feet.

I have said that most Indians of this continent had no hats or caps, but in a few tribes the men covered their heads. Some Algonquian warriors in the far northern part of Canada wore caps.

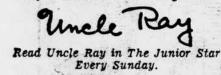

Chilkat Indian men, along the coast of Alaska, wore so-called basket hats." These were made of basket-work and covered the head in a way which gave protection. Basket hats and caps of much the same type were worn by some Indians of Oregon and California, both men and women. Among nations which usually are described as "civilized," feathers have gone into millions of hats. Women of 35 or 40 years ago were fond of hats with feathers in them. To this day a woman may be seen now and then wearing a hat with or more leathers on it.

In past times it was a widespread custom for women to wear hats with egret feathers. Egrets are members of the heron family and are found in some parts of this continent as well as in Europe and Africa. So many egrets were destroyed for hats that laws were made to protect them. Take My Word for It

Again 'ee' for Final 'y

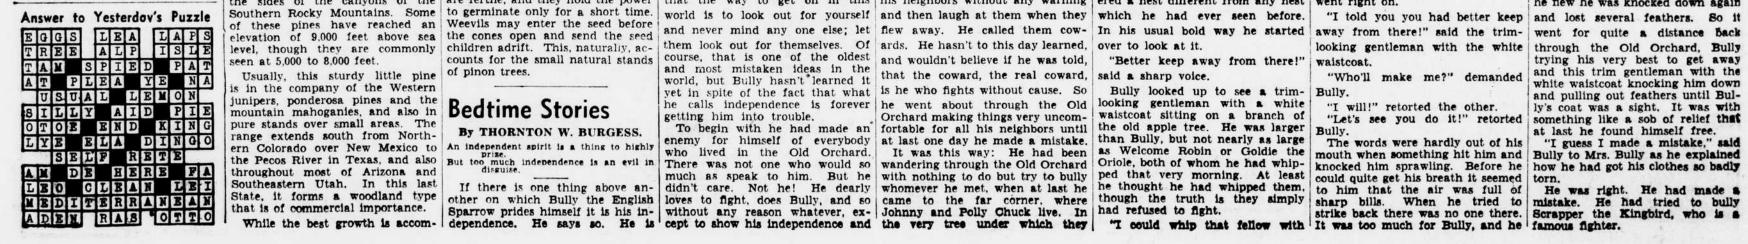

I recently stated here that, in the speech of the majority of Americans, the "y" of such words as baby, family, is pronounced with a long "e" sound, as: "BAY-bee, FAM-iexamined, (b) tell it to the Marines, correctly they may determine a battle. (c) buy a dictionary and learn the Facts of Life. They tell me that the only correct pronunciation for final "y" is the short "i" as in bit, hit, and that the dictionaries show the "y" as "i" in the respelling for pronuncia-

The truth is, the dictionary's short "i" for final "y" is a purposely ambiguous symbol that represents both the short "i" sound and the long "e" sound. Need proof? If you prefer to pronounce, say, the word baby as "BAY-bee." the highest authority in the land will give you its bless-

I repeat that I am convinced that final "y" is predominately "ee" in the standard speech of America, and I shall continue to so show it in this column. But I do not say, nor have I ever said, that "ee" only is correct. So you see, I'h not the bad boy some persons think I am.

Budget Trouble, Not Own, Started Miss Reynolds

Sandrich Needed Inexpensive Dancer And After Long, Weary Search He Found Her on a Horse

By JAY CARMODY.

If Marjorie Reynolds ever wants a two-word answer to the question how she became a movie starlet, the best one would appear to be: Budget trouble.

That should make a really auspicious start for Miss Reynolds' life story in a fan magazine, a more zippy one because it won't be her own budget trouble she will be referring to

The fiscal dilemma from whose horns she was tossed into "Holiday Inn" opposite Bing Crosby and Fred❖ Astaire was the almost personal property of Paramount Director Mark Sandrich. Now that it is all over and the picture is in cans, Mr. Sandrich talks with high good hu-Once, he admits, it was driving him slowly crazy. That was when musical. Berlin scores being very expensive, and with Fred Astaire and Crosby as his male leads. The latter two also are enormously costly items. Between the three, Mr. Sandrich did not need to shoot an inch of film in order to find himself enmeshed in bookkeeping that could be called appalling with all the sincerity and honesty in the world.

One of the rare ways out of the problem seemed to be finding a girl whose salary demand would be as modest as modest. That alone would have been easy, but along with that requirement she also had to be photogenic, capable of a bit of acting, some singing and a whale of a lot of dancing—the latter with

The four qualifications, Sandrich realized, were almost impossible to find in one girl who was not Ginger Rogers. But he put on a brave face and began the search. The search began as he always does with looking at screen tests, camera accounts of the qualifications of those anonymous lovely young things who sit in the scullery waiting for Prince Charming or the lead opposite Charles Boyer. The number of tests seemed endless, Mr. Sandrich says. They revealed a succession of beautiful girls, breath-taking damsels with a wide variety of talents. Some of them could sing, some could act and some could dance But, bless Mr. Sandrich's soul if there was one in the group who could do all of them. Mr. S. was annoyed, but not undaunted. There must be some one in Hollywood who knew of a girl who was talented in the same directions as Miss Rogers, in kind if not in degree, and who had no notions that salaries ran into even three figures. He started checking among his friends, fast and furiously.

Almost as fast, to his consternation, the studio bosses started checking with him about when he was going to get started on the picture. There was a time limit, they said, as if he didn't know it himself. The talent hunt was approaching the end of the available supply of talent before the director got the slightest hint of a break.

It came then from the fairly unusual source of the cameraman who, after racking his brain for a long time, remembered a blond girl he once had seen at Paramount who seemed to fill the specifications. He had made a test of her, thought he could dig it up, and hoped that they might still find her around. That had been several years before and he did not know what had become of the girl.

Sandrich looked at the test, got the girl's name, and suddenly was imbued with a sense that she was the answer to his prayer.

When he found her, however, is was only to get another shock. Her dancing, which looked like the most brilliant part of her screen test, was something she had given up four years before. She hadn't time on the theory that Ginger meister, director of the group, has pared for Broadway showing. Rogers held the lid on that part of spent many years in collecting these the cinema business. Instead she had gone to acting in Western pic- ural expression in music of the feeltures, those leading roles in which a pretty blond girl is snatched off the backs of horses alternately by the villain and the hero.

By that time, Mr. S. didn't care what she had been doing. Once tury, she had danced and she could dance. The again. She was the end of the search and she could adapt herself accordingly. Getting in shape for the Astaire picture was a matter between her and her muscles. She was what his budget needed and that was that. It turned out that his budget and picture were precisely what she thought her career needed, too, so the collaboration began with equal fervor on both parts.

It has worked out so that Miss Reynolds is a fine bet never to have to ride a horse for a living Success, you can see, is a mere matter of bookkeeping.
