Bombay Rioters Force Police To Fire 10 Times

First Day's Toll Put At 8 Dead, 159 Hurt; Strikes Spreading

BOMBAY, Aug. 10.-Soldiers and police, fighting to control widespread rioting on the second day of Mohandas K. Gandhi's campaign to end the British rule in India, have fired on crowds in Bombay 10 times vesterday and today as strikes and disturbances spread throughout the country.

Bloodshed ushered in Gandhi's "non - violent" civil disobedience eampaign yesterday when the police were forced to fire six times.

A Bombay government communique tonight said casualties yesterday totaled eight killed and 159 wounded. but said it had no tally of today's casualties in clashes in which demonstrators stoned trains and automobiles, and burned government grain shops. Strikes closed some factories and schools.

At Lucknow, police fired on a crowd of striking university students who were trying to form a parade. Thirteen were arrested.

Marines Take Part In Action to Occupy Japanese Positions (Earlier Story on Page A-1.)

United States naval and other forces have made landings in the Tulagi area in the Solomons, but preliminary information reveals they have lost one cruiser and have suffered damage to two cruisers, two destroyers and one transport, Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States Fleet, said in a statement at the Navy Department this afternoon.

Although information regarding damage to the enemy is incomplete, Admiral King's statement said a large number of enemy planes had been destroyed and surface units put out of action.

Indicating that the battle is a major affair, Admiral King

"The enemy has counterattacked with rapidity and vigor. Heavy fighting is still in progress." A Navy spokesman said that Marines were included in the forces that attacked, and it was thought that the Marines were those that recently had been sent to the South Pacific, equipped with landing boats and other devices for occupation, and thoroughly trained in their usage. Admiral King's Statement.

Admiral King's statement was as follows: "1. Offensive operations by United States naval and other forces, looking to the occupation of islands in the Tulagi area in the southeasterly Solomon Islands, have now been under way for

Civil Officials Are Blamed for War Failures

Tolan Committee Asks Reorganization Of Setup Here

By BLAIR BOLLES.

The United States' "consistent failure to realize the dimensions of our production task" was blamed today equally with the enemy's long head start in war production for our military reverses by the special House Committee on National Defense Mi-

"No co-ordinated plan for all-out use of our productive capacity" yet exists in Washington, the committee told Congress in a report submitted by Chairman Tolan. The re-

"The authorities charged with the responsibility for developing such a program (for co-ordinated production) have been transferring their responsibility and hence any opportunity for direct supervision of these operations to the already overburdened armed forces."

Administration Blamed. The report is notable in that it fixes responsibility on the administration in Washington and not on the people of the country for what the committee considers shortcomings in our industrial and manpower preparation for war. The report

"The committee believes that the War Production Board must immediately and drastically revise its thinking not along lines mainly of statistical progress over past output, but rather in keeping with present urgent military requirements.

"It will no longer suffice to predicate planning upon goals which originally were scheduled to provision us for large-scale land war-fare in 1943. Only by a fundamental reorganization in our war program can we bring about the necessary expansion in time to meet the changed military situation.' Representative Curtis, Republican.

crat, of Alabama; Arnold, Democrat, of Illinois, and Bender, Republican,

Realignment Recommended. After remarking that "there has been nowhere evidenced any intention on the part of responsible officials, civilian or military, to regard it as their job to demand maximum output or to move heaven and earth to get it." the report called for a that the flat percentage allowance realignment of the Nation's war manpower program. "Today, as bad news rolls in." the report said, "the need for enrolling all of our people and all of our resources for this fight on their own behalf becomes even more pressing. * "The job ahead calls for a detailed knowledge of the total demand for labor in war production, the preparation of schedules for the flow of such labor to the expanding jobs as contracts are undertaken and the training and upgrading of that labor to keep pace with expansion.

"As an example of current practices which have long required a change of approach by those in charge of manpower mobilization, and also as an example of the failure of those officials to understand their problems, the committee points to the matter of pirating.

Pirating of Labor Cited. "Pirating of labor, now very much condemned, reflects the 'business as usual' approach of war contractors who indulge in it. The continued hiring away of workers indicates a failure on the part of officials to institute an adequate control of labor demand, including a definite schedule of the numbers of skilled workers required to accomplish a given contract, and an efficient plan for spreading these skilled workers among a stated number of semiskilled workers.

"In the absence of such a program it is understandable that the employer should operate on an individual basis. "The job calls for the location of available untapped labor supplies and over-all planning for their training and placement. Without question we are today poorly prepared to face these problems. These are, however, the problems with which a reorganized United States Employment Service and a strengthened manpower commission must

The committee recommended creation of a group of officials to be known as labor-utilization inspectors operating through the War Manpower Commission and the War Production Board in co-operation with labor-management committees report forecast that it may be necessary soon to seek blanket draft deferment by occupational categories as a way station toward a revised form of individual deferment."

The report criticized the current Washington practice among official agencies of issuing "directives," on the ground that directives fail to accomplish their purpose, which is to prod one agency into performing a task that will further the work of another agency.

Senator Brooks, Republican, of Illinois told the Senate today that there was a well-organized, wellfinanced "purge and smear campaign" under way, directed at himself and other members of Congress. and at newspapers which supported his candidacy for re-election.

"To dogmatically smear, destroy or dominate the Congress," Senator Brooks said, "to intimidate and arbitrarily control the press, to set up a Government of fear through investigations and intimidation is not a part of the American way for which we fight, and will die. The Senator asserted that "these tactics are only causing fear in the

Ground Signs Found Directing Enemy to Vital Defense Bases

Rural Fifth Columnists Accused of Efforts Toward Sabotage

E; the Associated Press.

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 10. Ground markers emblazoned by rural fifth columnists with plows and other farm implements to guide enemy bombers to vital objectives have been discovered by Army air observers and destroyed.

Danger to large Eastern airports and plane factories to which the markers pointed thus has been averted, Col. Dache M. Reeves, commanding the first ground air support unit of the 1st Air Force, said in making the disclosure yesterday.

"Proper action" was taken by Army intelligence officers and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Col. Reeves said, without announcing the fate of those who fashioned the ingenious markers visible only Markers Photographed.

Aerial photographs of the markers, the location of which was described only as in the eastern part of the United States, showed several clear instances of how enemy agents or sympathizers sowed into peaceful farmlands potential devices to aid destruction.

One of the cleverest markers, according to the Air Force announcement, was an arrow pointing di-rectly at an Eastern air base and made by clearing a section of earth in the shape of a "V" at the head of a natural footneth of a natural footpath.

In another photograph, a mammoth arrow created by a plow was aimed directly at a nearby airplane factory. A huge field had been furrowed except for an arrow-shaped portion of untouched land remaining dark and clearly visible against the lighter plowed part.

Still another air view showed dozens of empty grain sacks ostensibly left carelessly in an open field but actually arranged carefully in a pattern forming an enormous figure "9," with the tail of the "9" a perfect guide pointing at a plane

"Treacherous Mark Erased."

"You can rest assured." said Col. Reeves, "that although I can't tell you where or when these pictures were taken, the treacherous work they exposed has been erased. The same technique will help us expose the enemy in the battles to come."

The disclosures emphasized the work of the ground air support commands, the first of which was activated as recently as September, 1941. Those commands support ground troops in two main objectives-to ington to alleviate the eastern seaspy out the enemy's ground forces and to furnish combat aviation for enemy bombers to vital war bases in the eastern part of the United States have been discovered and destroyed by observers of the 1st Ground Air Support Command. Invisible from the ground, the markers are plainly seen from the air. In each case of subversive activity discovered, an investigation was made by intelligence officers of the 1st Air Force and by FBI agents and proper action taken. The markers were eradicated and danger to bases averted. In this picture, a field, ploughed from one end to the other, except for a section in the middle which was left fallow, formed an arrow which pointed at an airplane factory nearby.

News of Allied Attack On Solomon Bases Hailed in Australia

Editorial Writers Call Action First Move in Right Direction

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 10. -The Australian public and press last night hailed the news of the Allied attack on Japanese bases in the Solomon Islands with enthusiasm restrained only by the cautious meagerness of the early official reports of the fighting.

Purchase of Bicycles

Further Restricted

By the Associated Press.

The Office of Price Administration today trimmed the list of persons eligible to buy bicycles under rationing, leaving it only slightly broader than the automobile and tire rationing lists.

The revision, effective August 15, was necessitated by the War Production Board's recent order halting bicycle production at the end of August. The original eligibility provisions had been drafted in expectation of a continuing supply.

Even persons rated as eligible on he new list will not get bicycles for use instead of automobiles, however, if they have adequate tires and, in the East, a gasoline ration to perform the same services. OPA intended this restriction to prevent the buying of new bikes to save tires and gasoline for non-essential

Eligibles Redefined.

A list of occupations eligible for bicycles was announced, to replace the original broad phraseology which made any person eligible who was 'engaged in a gainful occupation" or in work essential to the war effort or public welfare.

To obtain a purchase certificate the listed persons must show "proof of need" as was previously required. The eligible occupations:

Licensed physicians, surgeons, dentists, osteopaths, chiropractors, midwives, farm veterinaries, public health nurses, druggists, embalmers, medical laboratory workers and Red Cross or social workers caring for the sick or promoting hygienic conditions. Ministers and religious practitioners. Willkie Urges Party To Defeat Fish in Primary Tomorrow

Issues Statement Citing Isolationist Record Before War Began

By the Associated Press. ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 10 .- Prewar foreign policy is an issue in New York's primary elections tomorrow, in which voters nominate 43 Representatives and choose party convention delegates who will name candidates for a nationally spotlighted governorship race.

The pre-Pearl Harbor isolationist Issue has been emphasized in Representative Fish's fight for Republican renomination in President Roosevelt's home district. Mr. Fish's opponents-Augustus W. Bennett, Newburgh attorney; State Assemblyman Emerson D. Fite, Vassar College professor, and Edward Bowen of Poughkeepsie-have based their campaign on the isolationist views they say he expressed before the war. Mr. Bowen also is entered in the Democratic primary against Judge Ferdinand A. Hoyt. On the same basis both Thomas E. Commenting on Mr. Willkie's position, Representative Fish in a statement assailed Mr. Willkie as an individual who was willing to "destroy national unity and lose the war if he can defeat former noninterventionists and make himself the leader of the Republican Party as an interventionist.'

Calling upon Republicans of the district to be mindful of the "broader obligations to their country and to their party." Mr. Willkie said Republicans through intelligent opposition "must clear up confusion in Washington, help get the country on an all-out war footage, put an end to the exploitation of the war program for political purposes, arrest the threat of inflation and prevent the further extension of those collectivist ideas which, though attack on German positions. we are fighting against them abroad, have for years been encouraged by the present administration."

The pre-war isolationist issue also has been raised against Representative Barry, Queens County Democrat, opposed by William F. Mr. Farley, who split with Mr. Roosevelt on the third term issue, is backing Mr. Bennett.

The President has said that, if he were a delegate to the Democratic State Convention August 19, he would vote for Senator Mead.

Meanwhile, friends of Mr. Dewey, who lost to Democratic Gov. Herbert H. 30 Millions in Advertising Donated to Government

American business and industry have already donated more than $30,000,000 of advertising space for the Government's defense and War bond campaigns, according to an article in Domestic Commerce by John H. Morse of the Commerce Department.

"America's great information industry has converted much of its facilities to war work," the article said. "Unlike other essential industries, it has done this without direct cost to Government. Nor has it asked the channels of communication to give away their products, white space or time to distribute its information. It is a contribution by manufacturing industries, the subcontractors (advertising agencies) to whom they delegate certain essential functions, with the cooperation of communication sources which they largely sustain (newspapers, magazines and radio sta-

Vandenberg Demands Full Tax Action Now To Check Inflation

Senator Asks Enactment Of 50 Billion Financing Program Before Election

Senator Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan urged yesterday that President Roosevelt put "the best fiscal minds of the country" at work immediately on a plan of war financing that would combine taxa-Dr. C. Declaring that only haphazard attempts had been made thus far to meet the threat of inflation inherent in extensive Government borrowings from commercial banks. Senator Vandenberg said he thought work on this question ought to be begun now, "not next month and not after the election.

In recent questioning of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and other tax experts before the Senate Finance Committee, Senator Vandenberg and Senator Taft, Republican, of Ohio brought out the fact that the Government expects to borrow about $30,000,000,000 from commercial banks this fiscal year if war expenditures increase at the expected rate.

Sound Economy Plea. Mr. Vandenberg contended that such borrowings were inflationary in character.

When such borrowings were contemplated, he argued, it was more or less unimportant whether the House-approved tax bill adding $6,271,000,000 to Federal revenues was increased or decreased by the Senate.

Getting at the Facts

The proposed investigation of the District Alley Dwelling Authority by a subcommittee of the Senate District Committee is in some respects .. unique. The inquiry was not brought about by any criticism of the Authority or its work, but follows a request by its executive officer, John Ihlder, who wants others to determine whether his idea of sound and economical operations is a proper policy, or whether the changes ordered by Congress this year are to be made permanent.

The question arose when the Senate Appropriations Committee directed that the revolving fund of the -Authority, made up of revenues from rents and unexpended balances, be returned to the Treasury in the current fiscal year and that the Authority operate its properties on a flat appropriation of $12,000 a year. This constituted an abrupt change of policy, for in the seven years of its existence the Authority has utilized sits revolving fund to demonstrate that the slum reclamation and lowrent housing program can be made self-sustaining through a long-range program of repairs and upkeep of rental properties and maintenance of a system of economic rents without additional cost to the taxpayer.

The change made by the Appropriations Committees this year in some respects alters the original conception of the Alley Dwelling Au- attacking forces. set up to undertake slum reclamation on a self-liquidating basis. Instead, it is to turn all receipts into the Treasury each year and seek from Congress a lump sum for anthe change was made through a lack of understanding of the success and real economy in the original policy. The inquiry should reveal whether that is the case. If it is, a serious mistake can be corrected and one of the country's most interesting experiments in slum reclamation permitted to proceed as originally planned.

Ancient Weapons

Modern war is the science of throwing things. Its mechanical principles are as old as the human species. Nothing fundamentally new in the business of killing people and destroying property has been invented in ten thousand years. Archeologists are agreed that men discovered the trick of projecting ratheir own hands to a desired distance in the earliest period of their -rexperience—that era before the Stone Age in which tools and weapons were fashioned to order.

Who first had the instinct to understand that facilities of offense and defense lay all about him was athe authentic founder of the technique of conflict. Stones and pieces of wood shaped by nature were available to primitive savages in vast quantities. When one individual suddenly conceived the possibilities of advantage accruing from hurling a rock or a sharpened timber the art of war was invented. Its refinements are infinite in number, but none of them accurately can be described as an unprecedented develrepment.

Visitors to the National Museum may inspect at their leisure the evolution of the sword—a striking and cutting instrument to be held -and of the spear and the arrowmissiles for thrusting and throwing not necessarily intended to be retrieved. They likewise may view in thronological arrangement the numerous prototypes of the pistols, rifles, machine guns and portable cannon now in use. Only a few minutes of examination of the relics displayed will be needed to instruct the average inquirer in the rudiments of military dynamics involved. Bombs dropped from above the clouds are nothing more than explosive pellets tremendously enlarged. Not even the making of shells and the filling of them with cataclysmic disruptives can be regarded as novel. Something of the sort was common in China in remote antiquity.

Modern artillery can be traced back to machines constructed to propel huge rocks into beleaguered cities and to other mechanical devices to batter down the walls of the same. The twentieth century tank is an were employed by the Crusaders in | more than a million checks a month, | these graduates, while well suited for | Declaration of Independence, the works "calling cards" currently being employed by the RAF in raids upon Ger-arrows were shot into the log cabins of pioneer Americans by the Red Indians who vainly strove to halt what latterly is called "the expansion of Europe." It seems that not even the hope for durable peace is new. The Atlantic Charter, if it be studied with care, will be found to be derived from aspirations of social idealism entertained by such great teachers of ancient times as Confucius and Plato and the Preacher of the Sermon on the Mount.

The Navy Attacks

Although the attack which American and Australian forces have launched against the Tulagi harbor area of the Solomon Islands is in its fourth day, the information available is insufficient to warrant any conclusions as to whether this is what the Navy calls an offensive-defensive operation or the beginning of a major Allied offensive.

In either event, however, it is a development which suggests that the American naval position in the Pacific has been notably improved in recent months. With the exception of the relatively unimportant raid on the Gilbert and Marshall Islands, this is the first time that we have been able to assume the offensive against the Japanese. Heretofore, because of losses suffered at Pearl Harbor and the generally superior preparations of the enemy, we have been obliged to remain strictly on the defensive. It is true that in the battles of Midway and the Coral Sea. and possibly in the engagement in Macassar Strait, the enemy forces were defeated. But the fact remains that we were on the defensive, compelled to give battle under conditions dictated by the Japanese, and unable in any or all of these clashes to wrest the initiative from the enemy.

This picture changes, however, with the announcement of the Tulagi offensive. Despite "considerable enemy resistance" and the ability of the Japanese to bring their landbased aviation into play, Admiral Nimitz has said that the operation is progressing favorably. It would be unwise to read too much into this comment, for its meaning is limited by the extent of the Navy's objective. which is as yet unknown. Logically it would seem that the attack would not have been made unless it was intended to occupy at least Tulagi with strong forces, and there is nothing in the reports which have been received to this time to indicate that such an occupation is within the reach of the thority as an independent agency | The fact remains, however, that we -have at last been able to carry the fight to the enemy. Even though we should have to content ourselves for the present with something less than a clear-cut victory in the Solomons. nual operations. Mr. Ihlder believes the attack is evidence that we are strong enough to go onto the offensive, and this alone gives ground for substantial satisfaction.

The Missing Voice

In an interesting broadcast yesterday speakers representing the Army, the Navy, the Government and organized labor discussed the war production program and the Army-Navy awards for outstanding production performances.

The program, apparently arranged under Government auspices, was intended primarily to direct public attention to what has been done in the way of production of war materials and to emphasize the needs of the future, particularly the necessity of stepping up the output of raw materials. Two labor spokesmen discussed the contribution that organized labor is making to the war effort and expressed their appreciation of the production awards which are being given to plants with outstanding records.

But there was one voice missing in this broadcast. The production team generally has been supposed to consist of three members-labor. management and Government. Yet there was no one on the program to speak for management, although it can hardly be doubted that management has played, and will continue to play, an important part in the production effort. Possibly this omission is not a very important matter, but the failure to include a spokesman for industry on the program certainly came as something of a surprise to many who heard the broadcast. It would be interesting to know why this member of the team was not heard from.

Checks on November 1

When Congress passed the law making monthly allowances for the dependents of servicemen, November was fixed as the date on which payments should begin, although actual credits for dependents would commence with enactment of the law last June 1. Rising in the Senate the other day, Senator Vandenberg casually mentioned that November 1 was most easily identified as the day before election. He said the War Department of its own volition was permitting soldiers in some cases to allot portions of their monthly pay to dependents; why could not the system of monthly allowances by the Government begin immediately? Senator Thomas of Utah replied that the date of November 1 was the daptation of the war chariots of suggestion of the War Department. India and Persia. Flame-throwers | The Army alone expects to mail out the Holy Land. That would seem to be a reasonable explanation. But not to some of the members with their eyes firmly fixed on November 2, the day after November 1. They have started a vigorous drive in the House to amend the law and remove the date of November 1, leaving it to the War Department to mail out the checks as rapidly as the War Department can do so. The War Department still insists that the earliest practical date is November 1. Senator Vandenberg's gentle hint that November 1 may have had some political significance was only partially correct. The politically significant development is the movement to remove the date of November 1.

Freedom of Speech

The case of Moses Elisberg, while relatively unimportant in itself, may serve a significant purpose in helping to draw the line between utterances which, in time of war, are legitimate exercises of freedom of speech and those which properly may be banned as calculated to interfere with the prosecution of the Elisberg, a salesman and a talkative veteran of the last war, was airing his dog in a Bronx park. In the course of his stroll he sat down on a park bench beside a stranger and began a discourse on what was wrong with our conduct of the war. With other things, he indulged in loud and rather bitter criticisms of the President and "the generals." These apparently were expressions of Elisberg's opinions, but a plainclothes officer, happening to overhear the remarks, arrested the salesman under a park rule forbidding the use of threatening, abusive or insulting language. Haled before a magistrate, Elisberg was sentenced to serve thirty days in jail, but has been released on bail by a higher court pending an appeal.

Standing alone, this incident would not attract much attention, but as the war progresses, if past experience serves as a guide, there will be many more such cases, and it is for this reason that national champions of civil liberties have interested themselves in the Elisberg proceedings. Presumably they hope, by taking a stand now against these extreme prosecutions, to guard against a repetition of those waves of intolerance which are so apt to develop in periods of great national

During the First World War there were almost 2,000 Federal prosecutions under the Espionage Act, about half of them resulting in convictions. Some of these were based on statements no more serious than that the conflict was a "rich man's war," that members of Congress who had voted for conscription should be defeated for re-election, and that the Government was supporting profiteers. So badly did the situation get out of hand that the Attorney General, before the war was over, found it necessary to forbid United States attorneys to put sedition cases before grand juries without first getting a ruling from him.

This time, without letting down the bars for the benefit of those who would use free speech to aid our enemies, it certainly is desirable to refrain from persecution of those whose ideas happen not to conform to the thinking of the majority. As the Office of War Information expressed it in a statement yesterday: "Talk founded the union, nurtured it and preserved it. The United States fights (in this war) to preserve this heritage, which is the very essence of the four freedoms. How, unless there is freedom of speech, can freedom of religion or freedom from want or freedom from fear be

If we really mean these things, and if they really represent what we are fighting for, would it not be better to let the Moses Elisbergs speak their minds, even though they criticize the President and the generals?

The average college professor is thought of as an elderly, amiable, slightly absent-minded gentleman with a devotion to the cause of learning which keeps him aloof from the practical world. Hope for Labor Unity Again Develops

Writer Tells How President Repeatedly Has Urged AFL and CIO to Harmonize

By Bertram Benedict.

President Green of the AFL has announced that he has accepted the proposal of President Murray of the CIO to discuss ways and means of bringing the two organizations together. This proposal is understood to have resulted from a conference at the White House on July 23 with President Roosevelt.

The Committee for Industrial Organization was organized in the fall of 1935. after the convention of the American Federation had rejected, by vote of 18,025 to 10,924, John L. Lewis' proposal to organize workers in certain industries on an industrial, instead of a craft, union basis. In January, 1936, the AFL named a committee to bring the two groups together, but without avail. In September, 1936, the AFL Executive Committee suspended 10 former AFL unions which had gone into the CIO.

The 1936 convention of the AFL extended the life of the committee to confer with the CIO. The convention revealed that most of the large international unions were bitterly anti-CIO. while many of the State and local federations had some CIO sympathies.

By 1937 the two labor bodies were raiding each other's territory. At the AFL convention Green bitterly attacked the CIO as a disruptive movement and Lewis as a disruptive personality, but the AFL accepted the proposal, voted at the CIO convention, to confer on unity The conference opened late in October 1937. The CIO demanded that it be recognized as an autonomous unit within the AFL, in case of unity; and that workers in certain fields be organized only on an industrial basis. The AFL offered to take back the suspended unions, but refused to grant the CIO autonomous status within the AFL. The AFL proposed conferences between the unions concerned to end dual unionism: the CIO insisted that all its unions be kept intact, and chiefly on this point the conference was wrecked, after two

In May, 1938, the AFL formally expelled 9 of the 10 suspended CIO unions. In November the CIO organized on a permanent basis, becoming the Congress of Industrial Organizations. President Dubinsky of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union withdrew from the CIO, charging that at the 1937 conference Lewis had made no real effort toward unity. The ILGW rejoined the AFL in 1940.

President Roosevelt asked each convention in 1938 to confer on healing the split. The AFL agreed, the CIO showed little interest. On February 23, 1939, the President renewed his plea, and conferences were held. They ended in discharged that the disagreement was due to the stubbornness of Lewis, with other CIO leaders showing themselves more conciliatory. The President asked each convention in 1939 to try again for unity; again the AFL professed willingness, the CIO showed little interest. In 1940 Lewis supported Willkie in the presidential campaign, promised to resign as CIO president if Roosevelt were elected, made good the promise, was succeeded by Philip Murray. Throughout 1941 the AFL professed willingness to renew peace talks. In January, 1942, a joint AFL-CIO committee of six members was organized to co-operate on the war effort; for one thing, it has thrown its influence against jurisdictional strikes. In the same month Lewis proposed negotiations between the AFL and CIO. Green accepted; Murray declined. declaring that he had not been consulted and questioning Lewis' good faith.

Sees India a Chaos

Lacking Basis of Union. To the Editor of The Star

Philip Lightfoot Wormely IV compares the circumstances under which the American Colonies gained their independence with those by which some sections of India hope to achieve theirs: and apparently finds them identical. Surely, however, the circumstance re so different as to make any comparison utterly inappropriate. The American Colonies consisted o wo million people, all of English blood and English-speaking, of a relatively high degree of civilization, homogenous in race, character and outlook.

In India there are 400,000,000 people, 90 per cent of whom are illiterate peasants living on a few cents a day; over 200 totally distinct languages; more than 500 independent "native" states with vastly differing constitutions; an amazing diversity of races and religions; over 2,000 'castes" ranging from the people who are born to be a "little lower than the gods" to those born "untouchable," and most serious, perhaps, of all, 200 million Hindus who are bitterly hostile to 90 million Mohammedans. These elements cannot agree among themselves as to what sort of independence they want. The American Colonies had within them the ready making of a nation. The Indians seem to have the making of many nations and, therefore, of civil strife. In none of the Indian languages

* * * * The friendly young wood thrush mentioned above had been brought up "by hand" by some one in the neighborhood. Such friendly birds, in almost all such cases, have been picked up by kind hands after they have fallen out of the nests.

In most instances, young birds found on the ground have hopped many feet, sometimes amazing distances, from the places where they landed. It is usually impossible for the finder to discover the nest site. The only thing to do is to put the bird up in a tree, and hope its parents will find it, or to take it home and try to bring it up. In most cases, parent birds are unable to get the fledgling back into the nest. Parents of some species do not seem to be able to recognize their own out of the nest. Blue jays are among the number which do recognize their own. They will follow the lost baby around the neighborhood, bringing it food. One of the tragedies of bird life is that the older birds have no way of getting the young back into the nest, once it has fallen out. * * * *

Denies Statement That Broadcast To Poland Would Be Uncontrolled. To the Editor of The Star:

My attention has been drawn to an article entitled "Psychological Warfare Plan Held Failing of Its Purpose," by Blair Bolles, printed in The Sunday Star for August 2.

This article, in which is discussed the merits of short-wave broadcasting to the various countries from American short-wave stations, concerns problems of an internal character, and, as such, I may not discuss them. I feel however, that I should draw your attention to one sentence which might lead to misunderstanding and in which the Polish Embassy is explicitly named.

Discusses Dangers of Lawlessness As a Destructive Force.

To the Editor of The Star:

Lawlessness is a force of destruction of ignorance, of failure. Nothing good was ever accomplished through its use. The Negro, particularly, must realize these incontrovertible facts of our existence. On the shoulders of each of us lies the responsibility for the group. For instance, the lawlessness exhibited recently at the Griffith Stadium will bring. whether some of us see it or not, no ultimate good, no benefit to the race, though individuals may seem to have achieved their immediate desires. As a pebble dropped in the sea, which causes ripples extending farther and farther on its surface, this lawless act will bring, according to law, inevitable results to the group. Every cause has its effect. Why not try to think and act constructively? Why not use the unchangeable laws of life to bring about good results? Cities are "not built in a day"-and the earth's revolution is so slow it does not seem to be a fact, yet accomplishment is at last achieved. My friends, lawlessness is destruction.

Construction alone will help us.

I made myself comfortable in slippers and dressing gown and, with a pitcher of cool water handy, gazed out on the trees that bless upper Sixteenth street. Suddenly there was a flash of red in the foliage, and a cardinal lit on the topmost point of a nearby tree.

His familiar cry went ringing out on the quiet air. As if in answer to a prayer, a low-scudding cloud spilled over and he was drenched. Down went his head and his fluttering wings sprayed the drops around him as though he were in a showerbath. Next, he raised his beak and the drops pelted down his parched throat.

Testifies to Constructive Value Of British Administration in India. To the Editor of The Star:

editorial "Showdown in India." Britain is a country that has never shirked her duty to humanity. She has done more for civilization and democracy than every other country on the face of the globe combined. Nine-tenths of the worthwhile things in America we owe to Britain. What knowledge of government and democracy the Indians possess they got from British administration. Then why should not Britain be depended upon to keep the promises of Sir Stafford Cripps regarding Indian independence after the war?

In the government for India that may be formed after the war, it can be put down as a certainty that Britain will see to it that the rights of Moslem and other minorities are fully guaranteed Otherwise chaos would result.

The average upper-class Hindu, clamoring for "independence now," has absolutely no regard or concern for the welfare of the masses of India. On the contrary, only contempt. He wants independence for the offices, emoluments and honors that might accrue to himself, and there would be plenty created to satisfy that want.

Dorothy Thompson, in her column several weeks ago, stated that less than 500 British were in the entire civil government of India. Indians have replaced Britons wherever practicable. That does not smack of "British imperialism."

The writer has a son in the United States Army Air Corps in India and feels intensely the danger there at this critical time. ALBERT S. BROWN. Round Hill, Va.

Security Plan For Business Discussed

Firms Seen Asking For Same Rights Given to Labor

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

"Union security" and maintenance of membership in labor unions now has become a fixed policy-not through any act of Congress, but through the decree of the President, who created the War Labor Board and, by inference, approves of all its major decisions

The board, in effect, has decided that because union labor promised to give up its right to strike and David Lawrence. interrupt production in wartime, compensation must be paid for that which hitherto was assumed to be a matter of voluntary patriotism.

The President is acquiescing in this new form of compulsory unionization and allowing the war effort to be used for labor unions to accrue an advantage valuable to them after the war is over.

Far from opposing the President's policy of giving an extraordinary special privilege to one class of citizens, there are some in the ranks of business who think that perhaps employers ought not to fight this special privilege but merely ask for the extension of that same privilege to their own affairs.

The latest suggestion is that governmental agencies shall sanction a sort of maintenance-of-customers system whereby businesses that now give up their plants to war work shall not lose their customers after the war to unforeseen competitors.

The theory of maintenance of membership in labor unions is that, having given up the right to strike, an important weapon for coercing men into labor unions or for making them stay in such unions and pay dues may be lost. The War Labor Board boldly champions the idea that labor unions' memberships must not be permitted to disintegrate during the war or to be captured by a competing union.

Huge Salaries Involved. Now the labor union membership business is a tremendous affair running into hundreds of millions of dollars a year and with salaries for labor union executives ranging up It is important for these salaried men to have their incomes protected.

On the other hand, it is important for many businesses engaged in war production to have their security assured, too. Thus, when a plant is compelled by Government decree not to manufacture any more goods for civilian use such a business loses overnight all its customers. The relations with customers which have been built up over a period of years at large cost suddenly break down and disintegrate. Many businesses are given over wholly to war production with Uncle Sam as their single customer and by the same token many new producers are brought into the field who will amass enough capital subsequently to enter into vigorous competition with the original producers.

The Government does nothing to protect these old customer relationships nor to safeguard the old producer against new competition. One way, analogous to that of the War Labor Board scheme, would be for some other governmental agency to insist that all customers of these existing producers must remain customers after the war. This would be a difficult thing to enforce. Perhaps a better way would be for the Government to refrain from putting an obstacle in the way of manufacturers who want to spend money to maintain contact with future customers.

Sales Forces Reduced. Thus the Government in negotiating war contracts does not allow a single cent to be included as overhead costs if these relate to the maintenance of customer relationships for commercial sales purposes in after-the-war markets. The selling organizations of most large companies engaged in war work have been disbanded or materially curtailed and there are probably more salesmen walking the streets trying to find work to do than in the depression days of 1932. Many of them are too old or not physically qualified for military service. Here is a white collar class of men who work with their heads instead of their hands and yet the Government, through regulations of the War and Navy Departments, actually forbids companies from including in their business costs in figuring war contracts any money spent to maintain sales organizations for future selling

The administration having committed itself to maintenance of membership in labor unions, might well consider sanctioning maintenance of customer relationships so as to protect not only the white collar class of workers who have given up their jobs, but the managers of small businesses who have given up their right to produce or manufacture as they please. Stephan and Pelley Convictions Seen Ending 'Domestic Neutrality' of This Nation

By DOROTHY THOMPSON. The sentence of Judge Tuttle upon Max Stephan Thursday is the first clear expression in our domestic affairs that this war is a matter of life and death. As such it is immensely im-The failure of country after coun-

Dorothy Thompson. brought them to their doom. That failure could bring us to our doom. For the Nazi war has been fought from the very beginning by a combination of external aggressions and internal insurrections, brilliantly synchronized. The pattern has become so clear that it is boring to recapitulate it. yet it is well to recapitulate its chief

In many countries of the world Germany has large "minorities" They have lived in those countries not as "minorities." however, but as citizens. They enjoyed the full privileges of those states, including the rights of free speech, free assemblage and freedom to organize.

Citizenship in the modern state is not based on race. It is based on fidelity to the laws. It is, in other words, a social con-

The Nazi state repudiates this entire theory. The very first phrase in the famous 26 points of Nazi policy is that full citizenship in the Third Reich is accorded only to persons of German blood. The Nazi state substitutes for the social contract a tribal theory.

Theory of "Germans Abroad." Now what does that mean for other countries? Any one can dissolve a social contract. A person may change his citizenship. But from the Nazi standpoint that is irrelevant. The Nazis do not oppose the changing of citizenship, but they do not recognize it as a supreme act. For them the tie of the blood is the only essential tie. And they therefore claim every person of German blood for the Third Reich, in whatever country he may live, and whatever his citizenship may be.

Away back in 1937, at a meeting in Stuttgart, called by Herr Bohle, the chief of the Nazi organization of "Germans living abroad" (Bund der Auslandsdeutschen). Baron von Neurath, then foreign minister of Germany, announced that every German living abroad had a duty to the fatherland, and that in all his business and cultural relationships, he must serve it. The very phrase "Auslandsdeutschen" is revealing. The citizen of a country other than Germany is not a Britisher, an American, a Pole or a Czech, he is "a German abroad" But the theory was not merely a theory. It was translated into tangible organization. These organizations, in every country where there were citizens of German extraction, were set up as cells in every branch of society. There were and are "German"i.e., Nazi-groups in universities. religious groups, industries, trade unions. They work in different ways and with different functions. Some of them have merely to spread careful propaganda; others are to encourage pacifism. Others are to commit actual sabotage. But there are connections between all of them.

Armistice Terms Recalled.

In the Nazi theory, every man of German blood who refuses to co-operate with the Third Reich, and maintains allegiance to the country of his citizenship, is guilty of treason, and is subject to punishment for treason when the Nazis get around to execute or influence the laws. One function of the cell organizations is to prepare black lists of "traitors": that is to say of people who are loval to the nation of their citizenship. And these "traitors" live under the threat of eventual "justice."

The proof of this is in Article XIX of the German armistice terms with France, which compels the French government to deliver over to the Nazis every German whom the German government asks for. Citizenship is not stipulated

The result of this is not only the spreading of a confusion in loyalties, but the spreading of a confusion in risks. This comes out in the case of Max Stephan, who, as his testimony shows, was both more afraid of the German than of the United States Government, and more confident of being rewarded by the Germans for loyalty. He was quite sure that Hitler would save him-and conversely that if he failed Hitler, he was in danger.

For the democratic countries, and especially America, had not enforced their own concept of contractual allegiance by adequate penalties. An individual, standing between these two theories of allegiance, and considering the risks in both, had an easy choice. What could happen to him as an American citizen? He might go to prison for 10 years-a safer place than joining any democratic army. The reward of a hero if Hitler should win, and an amnesty if we should win. "Heads I win, tails you lose."

U. S. Finally Wakes Up. The pattern I have described wrecked Austria and Czechoslovakia and contributed to the wrecking of Holland, Norway, France and Poland. And at no point did any of the states, based on the theory of social contract, recognize the reality of a totally new situation and revise their to fit an actual menace. Therefore sedition was organized legally, under preposterously inadequate laws.

And the conspiracy was enlarged and took into its fellowship the disgruntled of all classes, regardless of their racial origin. Persons, for instance, like Pelley.

The conviction of Pelley and the sentencing of Stephan indicate this country finally has waked up. Judge Tuttle's argument is unanswerable. You cannot let American boys die for this country and permit the agents of our enemies to run a lesser risk.

That the leaders of democracies did not immediately see that the concept of the racial state could not ultimately exist in the same world as the concept of the contractual state was due to a lack of intellectual lucidity. And of all the states in the world today, the United States is the most vulnerable. Because all other states have a certain racial basis, modified by contract. But the United States of THE opinions of the writers on this page are their own, not necessarily The Star's. Such opinions are presented in The Star's effort to give all sides of questions of interest to its readers, although such opinions may be contradictory among themselves and directly opposed to The Star's.

This Changing World

Laval Believed Worried by Apparent Revival Of Hitler Pact With Spanish Falangists

By CONSTANTINE BROWN. The followers of French Chief of Government Pierre Laval and the "collaborationists" in France are nervous, for the Nazis are preparing a new offensive in Africa as soon as they feel the job in Russia is done, and the French have not been approached yet with any requests to hand over the fleet and the North African territory

The Vichy administrators and their associates in Paris have passed the word around to their newspapers to show more enthusiasm for the Nazi cause. Anti-American articles are appearing with greater frequency and outdo even the product of the fertile propagandist mind of Paul Joseph Goebbels.

that gave this Virginia contest its Last month the Paris newspaper Le Matin presented to its readers further "proof" that the United States is in the hands of international Jewry. The "proof" was the appointment of Admiral William D. Leahy as chief of staff to President Roosevelt. The former Ambassador of the United States to France, the Parisian journal said, is pure Jew, having changed his name during the last war from Levy to Leahy. Nervousness about what the Germans intend to do in regard to France is natural. The shrewd Laval has been playing a game which falls short of 100 per cent in favor of the Nazis, leaving a small margin of safety in case the Axis does not finally win the war. It appears that he had made definite commitments to the Berlin government regarding the North African colonies and the fleet before he was forced on Chief of State Petain for the second time.

Discredited in Berlin. He has never refused to fulfill these commitments, but has sought to delay, following his usual tactics, until he felt absolutely sure which way the wind would blow.

But what worries Laval most is the fact that an old agreement between the Spanish Falangists and Herr Hitler is on the point of being revived. As far as can be gathered from various reports coming from Spain, it appears that shortly before the outbreak of the Second World War the Nazis had promised Madrid a portion of French Morocco as far as the Atlas Mountains in exchange for their co-operation. This agreement, Laval believed, had lapsed.

The Spanish people are tired after their long internal conflict and the famine which followed it. The last thing the Spaniards want is to have to fight again. What Does the Price Ceiling Regulation Mean to You?

- 1. When items of merchandise come under the General Maximum Price Regulation, a store cannot charge you more for an article or service than the highest price paid in that store in March of this year. But it may charge you less than March prices (later amendments to the Regulation have established months other than March for base period prices in few instances). The price control order does not freeze prices so they cannot change at all. If a store makes a special purchase, or for any reason can offer merchandise or service at a lower price than the "ceiling"- it is free to do so.
- 2. The price of the same article does not have to be identical in every store in a city or community. The General Maximum Price Regulation establishes each individual dealer's price at that individual dealer's existing maximum price in
- 3. Remember that not all goods and services are covered by the General Maximum Price Regulation. It is your patriotic duty to become informed about those things that are covered by the Regulation and those that are not. An informed consumer may shop better, serve himself, his family and his country to the greatest advantage.

HELP YOUR GROCER KEEP DOWN THE COST OF LIVING

TOR MILLIONS OF AMERICAN FAMILIES there's a store I that more than any other typifies this country's spirit of neighborliness-the corner grocery store. Through the years, you have depended upon your grocer for the wholesome, delicious foods that make the American family table the best in the world. You have looked to his store as a reliable supply base . . . to his knowledge of foods as your guide . . . to his fair price policies as your safeguard. In all these responsibilities your grocer has not failed!

Today, as quartermaster to the American family, your food merchant is playing an even more vital role in your life. For in addition to his task of helping keep this a well-fed, healthy nation, he shares the additional responsibility of maintaining prices at or below levels required under the government's Maximum Price Regulation.

Price Control is one of the most drastic economic actions ever taken in this country. It affects more individuals than any other similar governmental ruling before or since the war. It is the citizen's charter of security against rising living costs. And as a patriotic soldier on the home front, you have an obligation to your country to understand the regulation thoroughly!

The General Maximum Price Regulation says that your grocer cannot charge you more for certain goods than the highest prices he charged for those goods in March, 1942. Stores may charge less. Some will charge more for the same thing than others because the regulation puts a ceiling on individual store prices. And many basic foods are not controlled in price at all.

This means that your neighborhood storekeeper as well as the people who supply him are faced with many new and exacting problems. He has had to re-price his merchandise - hundreds or even thousands of items according to ceiling prices based on his highest March prices. In the larger stores this is a tremendous task. And in the smaller stores - where the records may be incomplete - it is an extremely difficult one.

So give your grocer a break these days. For years he has trusted you - has accommodated you - has been your Good Neighbor Number One. Remember that he still is -that he wants to help win the war just as much as you do, and knows this is one way to do it.

But he's got a big job on his hands. He's got things to learn and understand just as you have—and in many cases he's suffering losses until the whole program gets rolling.

When difficulties arise, you and your grocer should try to iron them out in a friendly manner. When he does a good job, cooperates fully in the difficult task of regulating prices, compliment him . . . let him know that his good work is appreciated. Remember that your grocer is sincerely interested in keeping the cost of living down.

Finally, don't offer to pay more for things you want than the ceiling allows - or buy more than you need. And spread this word among your friends and neighbors. For hoarding may mean empty guns!

Remember, there is no lack of any essential foods. America's reserves are great. Her total resources for food production have not even been scratched. Restrictions now in effect are to prevent unequal distribution.

For more than 73 years, the House of Heinz has had the privilege of working hand in hand with the grocers of America. Today our relationship is closer than ever. In our research laboratories we are developing new products and new preparation methods that will assure a steady supply of fine Heinz foods. Like all products that bear the famous keystone label, they will contain only the choicest ingredients prepared in the small-batch, oldfashioned way to time-tried and treasured recipes.

So remember, you can continue to look to your corner grocer with confidence in the days that lie ahead. He will continue to supply you with the finest products of America's fields and orchards at the most reasonable prices possible! For that is his way of doing business.

British Official Says Seizure of Gandhi Averted Disaster

Amery Defends Action; British Press Also Indorses Step

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 10.-Confidence that the government in India would be able to deal with the grave situtoday in London, where the arrest of Mohandas K. Gandhi was incorsed by an official British spokesman as an act of political courage necessary to protect the United Nations from "a stab in the back."

This characterization of Gandhi's mass campaign of civil disobedience came from L. S. Amery, secretary for India, in a broadcast to the United States last night.

"What India is up against," he said, "is nothing less than a deliberate campaign to sabotage her war effort and the war effort of all Indians, British, Americans or Chinese who are on Indian soil."

In another broadcast, directed to Britons at home and abroad, Mr. Amery declared:

"Prompt and firm action by the government of India has, I believe, saved India and the Allied cause from grave disaster."

The British press for the most part found no fault with the gov- nearly two decades in championing ernment's action in arresting Gandhi and other Congress leaders, although editorial writers expressed regret it had been necessary to resort to force.

A dissident note came from the London Daily Herald, Laborite newspaper, however, which said the "precipitate imprisonment" of Gandhi seemed "evidence of weakness rather than strength in the mind of the government of India."

The Glasgow Herald said the whole situation was "a grim and sorry reflection on British-Indian relations" and the London Daily Mail said Britain was "paying for past weakness."

Strong criticism came from the Communist party, from the leftist International party and the India League-which said it represented the All-India Congress party in

"FOR HIGH ACHIEVEMENT IN THE PRODUCTION OF WAR EQUIPMENT"

A new kind of flag-a new war performance tribute-the first of its kind-has come to Detroit. The new joint ARMY-NAVY "E" has just been awarded to the Detroit (Chrysler) Tank Arsenal.

"For high achievement in the production of war equipment", the citation reads. It is in recognition of Chrysler Corporation's pioneering work in the mass manufacturing of tanks, and for the volume production achievements of this plant which, today, is little more than a year old.

New as this plant is, it has been greatly enlarged recently. Its production rate, when it was changed over from making "General Grants" (M-3's) to "General Lees" (M-4's) early this month-without stopping production-was 200% ahead of its original contract schedule. This accomplishment was possible because of the extensive facilities and personnel of all Chrysler Corporation plants which are producing parts and subassemblies for the tank arsenal.

The fundamental strength of America's war production lies in the industries, facilities and techniques developed through the years of freedom and peace. These enterprises, too, have provided organizations of production executives, master mechanics, engineers, skilled workmen and operating leadership-so greatly needed now.

Chrysler Corporation has long been known for quality manufacturing and advanced engineering. Those peacetime skills and highprecision standards are now being applied to the exacting war production and engineering tasks that have been assigned to us. The ARMY-NAVY "E" Award symbolizes the effectiveness of the complete conversion of Chrysler Corporation's plants, equipment and abilities, for the nation's war needs.

Over the War Hurdles Riding a Horse around these parts. It was ironical because nothing more than a heavy rain postponed the scheduled Canteen Horse Show, for the It was ironical that over the week end there was no horse show benefit of the Montgomery Red Cross, until next week. The war, and the economics and rationings it has dictated, haven't been able to wipe out, nor even slow, the hoss activities.

Of the sports that seemed destined for wartime oblivion, none appeared closer to the top of the list than showing horses, which calls for gasoline and rubber, money and time. On a good day a crack rider and a hot horse used to be able to pick up a tidy piece of change. Now even the rewards have been cut to the bone. But the sport still thrives.

Moreover, horse shows probably are doing more for charities and war reliefs, proportionately, than any of the more popular sports. The Washington Horse Show, for instance, grossed $5,300, which was turned over to Children's Hospital. The Knights of Columbus show was for separable outside of water as Damon Army-Navy Relief. Margie Cotter's one-day show at her Jolea Farms and Pythias. But, once inside the was for the Red Cross, as was the big Warrenton affair, and as will be "drink," look out, brother! the postponed Canteen Show.

First Prize in Record Skyscraper Jump Only $35

Horse shows in Washington, Maryland and Virginia have persevered despite difficulties such as baseball, golf, football and other ranking sports have not experienced. The salaries of ballplayers and the purses of star golfers have not been cut. Yet prize money for show events has been pared to a fraction of its former sum.

The recent afternoon that three great jumpers hurdled 7 feet at clashed in the 880-yard free-style the Knights of Columbus show, first prize was $35, little enough to head grind and both broke the world a charging 1,200-pound beast at a timber wall a dozen or more times. In pre-war times skyscraper prizes ran considerably higher. The jumper stake was around $500 and at Madison Square Garden a $1,000 check in 9 minutes and 54.6 seconds, 13 came with the blue ribbon.

The hunter stakes, whose prize money ran up to $2,500, are cut now to $500 and to $250 or less; prizes for other events have been slashed in proportion. Never a sport in which fortunes were made, showing horses now seems to offer only the sport and the prospect of going broke.

Men Becoming Scarce, Women Carry On Sport

But so far nobody has gone broke. Two or three years ago the big among the races they've ever seen. breeders were interested more in the blue ribbons than in the cash prizes. The more blues a horse had won; the bigger a price he fetched. Now his pal to the 440-yard free-style there is little or no market for hunters and jumpers. Yet the breeders world record of 4 minutes, 39.6 secand the "one-horse stable" people aren't going broke. They're cutting down, yes, but the sport continues to flourish. And it's making money for

These days the women are playing an ever increasing role in the showing of horses, due to the absence of crack men riders and breeders Ohio State next month to study now in the armed forces. Mrs. W. Haggin Perry, for instance, will send civil engineering, also hung up the half a dozen horses and grooms on an overnight trip, hiring a van because Mrs. Perry doesn't hold an "S" card.

When U. S. Randle went into the Coast Guard, they say, he left orders that his norses were to be shown. Mrs. Randle does the showing. One of her horses was among the trio that jumped 7 feet a few weeks ago. It's nothing unusual for the Randles and Perrys to travel 75 to 100 miles with their horses to fill engagements, or for Mrs. Robert C. Winmill of Warrenton to do the same.

'One-Horse Stable' Folk Form 'Pool-a-Van' Clubs

The "one-horse stable" boys, like Dave Martin, manage to get along, too. Young Mr. Martin used to hitch a home-made hoss trailer behind his car and set out for the shows, which he has been dominating consistently this summer while on the back of his crack high-jumper, Cateer. The gas rationing has stopped him only to the extent of forcing Dave to pool a van" with others in the same boat. They wh then risk their necks to beat each other in the shows.

A horse can be a pretty expensive little item. It takes pretty close to $50 to feed a nag for a month. It takes another $4 or $5 for shoeing and, atop these items, are bills for grooms, veterinarians, etc.

But the norsey folk are carrying on. Somehow they manage to turn up at a given place at a given time. Mysteriously the fences and other props are on hand. The judges are the best in the East-and free. The concession stand workers, chances are, are millionaires, or reasonable facsimiles. And there's always a neat little profit to show, and to donate. lumbus, Ohio, on Wednesday.

Smith Hangs Up Three Marks; Nakama Gives Him Brilliant Race

Smith, sensation of the National AAU men's outdoor swimming championships which ended yesterday in a heavy downpour, and Nakama. Ohio State sophomore, met twice during the three-day meet. The results were overtime work for the keeper of records.

Yesterday, the broad-shouldered 17-year-old Smith and his buddy record. Smith's longer reach provided the margin as he touched out seconds better than the listed international mark recorded by Ralph Flanagan of Miami, Fla., seven years ago. Nakama was a fraction of second off Smith's pace.

Call It Greatest Race. National AAU Swimming Chairman Larry Johnson of Boston, and a flock of officials, said it was tops The previous day Nakama pushed onds, more than a second off the standard set by Jack Medica of University of Washington in 1934. Without the dark-haired Nakama to extend him, Smith, who enters American 220-yard free-style mark of 2 minutes, 10.7 seconds on opening day. In all, this one-man record-wrecker captured three crowns.

Nakama himself came in for some glory by winning the mile grind, one of the four titles that went to Ohio State swimmers as they piled up 51 points to capture the team crown, 14 more than runnerup Yale.

Jim Counsilman won the 220-yard breast stroke for the Buckeyes, who annexed the 330-yard medley and 380-yard free-style relays.

Yale's only champion was Alan 110-yard free-style. Mike Priano of Brooklyn, N. Three times the Cubs figured they had it in the bag, but each time the Reds tied it up. Finally Hiram Bithorn, last of six Chicago hurlers. blanked the Reds for six straight innings and the Cubs sandwiched the 18th inning blows of Stan Hack and Dom Dallessandro between a walk and an outfield fly for two runs and a 10-8 decision.

The game itself lasted five hours and was interrupted for another hour by weather in the 13th frame. That left only an hour of daylight for the second game, which the Reds won, 2-1, in four and a half innings, with Bithorn the starting and losing

Eleven Hurlers Previous Record.

A total of 37 players participated in the first game—three short of the record held by the Pittsburgh Pirates and Boston Braves. The previous record of 11 pitchers in a single game was set September 6, 1924, when the Philadelphia Phillies used six against the New York Giants, who used five. Since then, four games played in the National League and three in the American have employed that many flingers.

By squaring accounts in the nightcap, the Reds preserved third place in the National League by a lone percentage point over the New York Giants, who swept a double-header from the Philadelphia Phils.

The Cubs might have won the opener in regulation time if Claude Passeau hadn't weakened in the ninth after pitching eight scoreless innings against Bucky Walters. The Reds routed Passeau with four runs which tied the score and came from behind to knot it twice more when the Cubs scored two in the 10th and two in the 12th.

Some batters appeared at the plate 10 times, with the losers leading in hits, 20 to 19. Hack, who celebrates his 10th anniversary in the majors tomorrow, led the Cub assault with five blows in five official times at bat. Johnny Vander Meer pitched four-hit ball for Cincinnati in the second game.

Meanwhile, the St. Louis Cardinals squeezed past the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3 and 2-1, to trim Brooklyn's lead to eight lengths. The Dodgers bumped into a postponement at Boston.

Musial Hits Two Big Doubles. Stan Musial handled the clutch hitting for the Redbirds, driving in the winning marker in the nightcap and setting the stage for the tie-breaking tally in the curtain-raiser, each time with a double.

At Philadelphia the Giants tripped the Phils, 3-2, in the first game when Mel Ott laid down a 10thinning bunt with the bases loaded, but Bill McGee made things easier in the second game, pitching a fivehit shutout as the Giants won, 2-0. Buster Maynard clouted a home run and made 10 putouts, two shy of the major league record.

In the American League, the New York Yankees increased their lead to a dozen games and the Boston Red Sox moved into second place although neither team lifted a bat.

It all came about when the Chicago White Sox clipped the Cleveland Indians, 11-1 and 3-2, stretching their winning streak to eight games and dropping the Tribe half game behind the Red Sox. Ted Lyons pitched four-hit ball in the opener for his 10th win this year and his seventh in a row.

Bob Kennedy, who was sworn into the Naval Air Corps between games, won the nightcap by singling the winning run across in the ninth. The Detroit Tigers had the help of 11 St. Louis errors as they downed the Browns, 9-3 and 3-1.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.-To clear the track for the Hambletonian, Roosevelt Receway has called off its Wednesday night harness races and will cancel the Thursday card, too, if the big race up at Goshen is delayed a day.

Current figures for the World-Telegram hole-in-one tournament that starts today show that the 1,000 or so guys entered to take five shots each have almost a chance to make one ace. In 10 years the tourney has produced four aces in 30,380 shots, making the odds 7,595 to 1 against doing the trick.

Richmond Is 'Dark Horse' And W. and L. Seen as Staging Surprise

(Written for Associated Press.) Collegiate football practice in the State opens officially on Tuesday September 1, which is not far away so why not take a quick gander at the prospects of the various State

First and foremost, the war's effect on football in the State will not be as great as expected, although coaching changes are plentiful; a number of grid stars will be playing for Uncle Sam instead of their alma mater; transportation difficulties will cause schedule changes and crowds will be smaller, but the caliber of football in the Old Dominion, definitely on the increase during the past few years, will continue to improve.

Now, look at them one by one, as they look to us on paper. Has Lost an Array of Stars.

Virginia—Last season Virginia had one of the Nation's better teams and, with William and Mary, laid claim to the Big Six championship. This year, the Cavaliers may have a bad season.

Lost by graduation are all-America Halfback Bill Dudley, Guard Jack Sauerbeck and All-State End Billy Preston. Lost to the armed services are flashy Back Eddie Bryant, Varsity Guard Bob Fuller and Capt.-elect and All-State Center Billy Shuling. Prospects from last year's freshman team aren't too

Virginia, however, has one glimmer of silver lining to its dark cloudits coaching staff remains intact.

Indians Are Well Fxed. William and Mary-The Indians were undefeated in the State last season, and indications are their team will be even better this fall. The only losses are three backs and a lineman, but the varsity from last year has ample replacements, and the freshman squad was one of the best in the State.

taking it over themselves. 2. Although his team lost twice to Mineapolis, outfielder Wayne Blackburn of Indianapolis accepted 11 chances in the first game without an error, equalling the feat of Toedo's outfielder Simons in 1931 and Columbus' Paul Johnson in 1925 (according to Frank M. Colley assistant to the league president, who watched Blackburn perform).

3. Chet Covington, making his first start for Louisville, pitched and batted the Colonels to a 5-0 win over St. Paul after the Saints had won the first, 6-4, and gave the southerners somewhat of a new ease on life.

Gas Rationing to Cut Lancaster Pro-Am Entry From D. C.

Not More Than 12 Pairs Of Capital Golfers Apt To Play in Tourney

Although gasoline rationing undoubtedly will restrict the entry list from Washington, the usual Lancaster (Pa.) pro-amateur links tourney will be played a week from today at the picturesque course in the Pennsylvania mountains.

For several years Arthur B. Thorn former Woodmont pro, now located at Lancaster, has put on one of the banner amateur-pro events in the East. Last year the tourney drew 88 pairs and was won by Lew Worsham, Burning Tree pro, and Ralph Bogart, District amateur champion. Sixteen duos from Washington competed with many links stars from Pennsylvania and Maryland. Thorn invites Washington golfers to play in the tourney and by doubling up on transportation the entry list from the Capital may be fairly large. But the boys are thinking more than once nowadays before they use a full tank of gasoline to play in far-away tournaments, particularly those of the one-day variety.

There's little doubt, however, that the Lancaster tourney will draw 10 dozen pro-amateur pairs from the Capital. In contrast to the usual local event, each pro has only one amateur partner in the Pennsylvania tourney.

European Rivalries Present Post-War Problem for America

Croats vs. Serbs and Czechs vs. Slovaks Cited As Current Examples

By HELEN LOMBARD. It is easy to blue-print the postwar world. It is going to be harder to fit red blooded human beings into a blue print. But it is a job which will have to be done by the United States-if it is done at all.

Facts coming into Washington from Europe indicate some of the difficulties that are in the making. Pullman, Inc., Reports The Yugoslavs, for instance, are carrying into the war the quarrel that divided them before the Nazi onslaught. Many of the 4.000,000 Croats who made up part of the Yugoslav kingdom -are fully cooperating with the invader and have declared themselves partisans of the Nazi new order.

The Serbs, the other dominant race of the kingdom, are fighting stubbornly against the Nazis under Gen. Mikhailovic. They are having trouble, however, not only with the pro-Nazi Croats in Yugoslavia, but with certain loyal Croat members of the government-in-exile, who give allegiance to King Peter but who do not wish to see the Serbian head of the guerrillas become too much of a lengendary in New Britain, and inflicted new

Wholesale Volumes Jump 15 Per Cent In Fifth District

Tobacco Products Show Largest Gain Over Year Ago in June

By EDWARD C. STONE. Net sales of 207 wholesale firms in the Fifth Reserve District, which includes Washington, averaged 15 per cent higher in June of this year than in the same month in 1941, the Richmond Reserve Bank's latest bulletin states.

Tobacco and tobacco products made the biggest gain, 35 per cent. and all other lines, with two exceptions, scored advances. Sales of automobile supplies took a severe tumble and were down 37 per cent, the report discloses. Wholesale demand for shoes were 22 per cent heavier than a year ago; sales of electrical goods were up 18 per cent and paper and paper products, 6 per cent. Three important lines, drugs, dry goods and groceries, had the same increase over last year, 19 per cent.

Hardware sales were only 3 per cent ahead of 1941 and sales of industrial supplies were down 3 per cent. Fifty-nine firms dealing in miscellaneous lines reported 13 per cent more business than a year ago and 4 per cent over the preceding month of this year.

June trade totaled $17,853,000, as compared with $15,582,000, the survey showed

Treasury Bills Gain Favor. The Richmond Reserve Bank reports two important developments in the Treasury bill market which have added to their popularity. The amount of these bills has been stepped up sharply and their liquidity materially improved by the willingness of the reserve banks to purchase them on a definite yield

Banks are showing far more interest in the bills as a short-term investment. An even wider market is predicted. Tenders for the new issues are being received in growing numbers by the Richmond and all vation division of WPB are getting other reserve banks, according to President Hugh Leach. Construction Volume Above Six Billions

Private and Public Total Boosted by War Program

In First Half

By the Associated Press. Private and public construction activity amounted to more than $6 .-000,000,000 in the first half of 1942. Secretary of Labor Perkins announced today.

Public construction, due to the expanded war program, increased from $2,400,000,000 in the first half of 1941 to $4,000,000,000 during the corresponding period this year. Military and naval construction increased 84 per cent and the construction of Federally-financed industrial facilities 300 per cent. Shortages of critical materials, which resulted in the holding up of unauthorized construction after April 8, caused a sharp curtailment of private construction. In the first half of 1942 it totaled $2,000,000,000, a decrease of $400,000,000 for the 1941 period. First quarter activity was almost as great in 1942 as in 1941, the $400,000,000 decrease occurring in the second quarter.

Hosiery Shipments Lag Far Behind Year Ago By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 .- The National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers reported today shipments of all types of hosiery in June amounted to 10.989.589 dozen pairs, compared with 11.932,890 dozen pairs 53% in the same 1941 month. June shipments totaled 9,243,534 dozen

Balance Despite War Uncertainties

Selling Urge Lacking And Mild Investment Demand Appears

By VICTOR EUBANK. Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Skeptics States levels. still were plentiful in today's stock market but there was enough confidence in the underlying trend to keep prices fairly well balanced.

As in the past week or so, the news was far from bullish but again the liquidating urge was notably lacking and light investment demand provided support for many industrial leaders and assorted spe-

The list had to contend with such headlines as: "Solomons Battle Rages," "Riots Flare in India" and "Nazis Gain in Caucasus."

Quotations were ragged at the start. They improved in spots later without inspiring an expansion of The ticker tape lagged throughout and transfers of around 200,000 shares were among the smallest in two years. A sizable portion of the turnover was accounted for by blocks of 1,000 to 3.600 shares of low-priced issues, the majority of which held to a slim area.

Edging forward at one time or another were Eastman Kodak, Owens-Illinois, Pullman, Ohio Oil, United States Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Kennecott, American Airlines, Eastern Air Lines, N. Y. Central, Great Northern and Consolidated Edison.

Goodyear fell back when directors reduced the dividend on the common from 371/2 cents paid in June to 25 cents.

Faltering at intervals were United States Rubber, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Texas Co., Glenn Martin, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck,

Head of National Union Says Misstatements on Parity Hurt War Effort

By the Associated Press. James G. Patton, president of the National Farmers Union, yesterday N.W.; Mrs. Mildred Clark Rogers, decried demands for higher farm Miss Virginia Osborn, 2314 423 Cummings lane, Chevy Chase, prices with a declaration that the war effort required national unity and not "partisan hog-trough tactics by farmers, labor or big busi-

Mr. Patton made this comment in a statement criticizing a speech of President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation at Fort Smith, Ark., August 3.

Mr. Patton said Mr. O'Neal was reported to have called on farmers to "wake up to what is happening in this country" and to have stated that agriculture was not getting parity prices.

"He (O'Neal) cannot fool the consumers who are paying prices above parity," said Mr. Patton, "and he cannot fool the farmers who are getting parity for their products, taken as a whole, some of them being substantially above parity while some are still below."

He declared that misrepresentations about parity "hurt the war effort to the extent that they divide the American people."

SAFEWAY Homemakers' Guide.

NUMBER 56 * Hints and suggestions for box lunches * Safeway week-end prices now good every day * A shopping lesson from a girl named Nora

If you follow the 3 Golden Rules of Nutrition then your family is well fed. These rules are discussed in lesson No. 1 of the 10-lesson "Kitchen Course in Nutrition"-an easy, workable course-by-mail. Send name and address and 25c for the entire course to Julia Lee Wright, Box 660-CC, Oakland, California.

Looking for ways to make box lunches more interesting?

More than ever, it is imperative that the meals you serve your family be appetizing, filling, and up to nutritional standards. And that goes for a box lunch as well as any other meal of the day. In many cases (war workers on night shifts, for instance) the box lunch is the most important meal of the day. And it must not only be appetizing and nutritious, it must be planned and packed to stay attractive for several hours after it's been prepared.

So don't use less of your menu-planning ingenuity on box lunches—use more." Here are a few hints and a few menus, planned and tested by the Safeway Homemakers' Bureau, that might help you in your planning. Use the best equipment available. Be sure the tops to all jars and bottles fit perfectly. Use plenty of wax paper. Vary the bread for sandwiches. Use the more uncommon types of bread once in a while-pumpernickel, raisin, nut bread, sesame seed, etc. Use lots of butter. This helps keep sandwiches from drying out.

Don't include sandwiches like tomato and lettuce. They're almost certain to wilt. If he likes tomatoes, put in a whole one

instead. SHIPYARD WORKER'S LUNCH

McCarran Calls Hearings on Tax Exemptions

Senator Plans New Definition of Property To Escape Levies

The Senate District Committee will begin public hearings at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning on the question of modifying the law governing tax exemption for property of charitable, religious and educational institutions here. Chairman McCarran announced today.

Just back from the West, Senator McCarran revealed also that he is Guy Wonders Killed of a recent proposal to curb walkathons and similar exhibitions.

he has not studied the terms of the bill sponsored by Senator Nye, Republican, of North Dakota, and no time has been set for its consideration. The Nye bill would prohibit the staging of any physical endurance contests lasting more than four hours out of 24.

Result of Survey. The proposed revision of the tax exemption law is an outgrowth of a survey conducted by the District officials during the past 18 months, which led the Commissioners to decide that many heretofore taxexempt properties belonging to religious, educational and welfare institutions should be taxed as the law now stands. The properties put back on the rolls during this survey represent a total of $400,000 a year in taxes. Senator McCarran recently introduced a bill liberalizing to some extent the existing law, and Representative Hunter, Democrat, of Ohio has filed in the House a measure proposing a much broader definition of exemption.

The Commissioners are expected to support the McCarran bill, which, some officials estimate, would rethe property recently declared tax-

"My general objective is to bring about an equitable plan whereby actual charitable, religious and educational institutions will not be impressed with taxes, but at the same time institutions not properly under these headings should not be exempt," said Senator McCarran.

During the 40-hour period that ended at 4 p.m. yesterday, 7.4 inches of rain fell, inundating many nearby areas, driving families from their nomes, stalling cars, flooding basements, damaging crops and even blocking some railroad traffic. The total rainfall between 8:30 a.m. Saturday and the same hour Sunday was 6.6 inches. Since the Weather Bureau began keeping records in 1871, this mark was exceeded only once, on August 12, 1928, when 7.31 inches of rain fell in a 24-hour period.

Humidity Stays High.

Prospects of more rain accompanying thunderstorms late this afternoon or tonight were reported by the Weather Bureau. Although the sun came out directly after cessation of the rains yesterday and again this morning, humidity continued to be high.

The week end rain, it was reported, created no flood dangers along the Potomac River. Most of the water had receded by this morning and highways were open for traffic again, except where the rains had washed out holes in the road. Nearby Maryland and Virginia were hit hardest by the flood, which isolated communities, flooded cellars and reached into first floors, blocked traffic and caused water from sewer lines to back up into homes.

Police rerouted traffic on South Glebe road west of Arlington Ridge road, which was covered with about 4 feet of water.

Two fatal Maryland traffic accidents were attributed indirectly to the rain. Miss Betty Marine, 26, of Cambridge, was killed instantly early yesterday when the station wagon in which she was a passenger skidded off a muddy highway and crashed into a tree near Cambridge. Washington motorists are fully aware that driving with "an arm around your best girl" may cause an accident, Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer has discovered. One-armed driving is one of the things, along with speeding and drunken driving and such romantic items, that are being listed as principal traffic accident causes by applicants for operator's permits. The Department of Vehicles and Traffic began a 30-day experiment on July 15, requiring permit applicants to list five of their own reasons for accidents. The answers have been many and varied.

Saboteur Aid Cases Studied By Officials

No Decision Reached On Charges to Be Preferred Against 14

In the wake of the execution of the six Nazi saboteurs and the presidential judgment consigning their two accomplices to long prison terms, Government officials today studied the course to be pursued in regard to the 14 persons held in New York and Chicago on charges of giving them aid.

At present, the 14 are charged only with being accessories after the fact of the commission of a crimewhose nature is unspecified—but it was learned Justice Department officials were considering new charges. The department was delayed in shaping the case because it was not known until the execution of the six was ordered Saturday just what steps would be possible.

For instance, if treason charges are to be preferred against any of the group, the Constitution requires the testimony of two witnesses. This provision presumably could be met by using as Government witnesses George John Dasch and Ernest Peter Burger whose lives were spared because they furnished information which aided in sending their companions to the electric chair. It is possible, too, that some of the 14 might talk.

Heaviest Penalties Sought. Some thounght has been given to charging the reputed aides under the Trading With the Enemy Act. Government officials want to prosecute under statutes that will provide for the severest penalties on conviction, but the insufficiency of covering the crime would be sought limits the course of action. Conspiracy to commit sabotage now is punishable only under the general conspiracy statute for which the maximum penalty is two years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine, while those who harbor saboteurs or have guilty knowledge of acts of sabotage, must be prosecuted for misprision of felony which carries a penalty of

More Rain Due After 7.4-Inch Fall in Area

Families Routed, Traffic Stalled, Crops Damaged

In the wake of one of the worst downpours in the 71-year history the Weather Bureau, residents of the District and nearby Maryland and Virginia today were taking stock of the damage caused over the week end.

During the 40-hour period that ended at 4 p.m. yesterday, 7.4 inches of rain fell, inundating many nearby areas, driving families from their homes, stalling cars, flooding basements, damaging crops and even blocking some railroad traffic. The total rainfall between 8:30 a.m. Saturday and the same hour Sunday was 6.6 inches. Since the Weather Bureau began keeping records in 1871, this mark was exceeded only once, on August 12, 1928, when 7.31 inches of rain fell in a 24-hour period.

Humidity Stays High. Prospects of more rain accompanying thunderstorms late this afternoon or tonight were reported by the Weather Bureau. Although the sun came out directly after cessation of the rains yesterday and again this morning, humidity continued to be high.

The week end rain, it was reported, created no flood dangers along the Potomac River. Most of the water had receded by this morning and highways were open for traffic again, except where the rains had washed out holes in the road.

Nearby Maryland and Virginia were hit hardest by the flood, which isolated communities, flooded cellars and reached into first floors, blocked traffic and caused water from sewer lines to back up into homes.

> Four Feet of Water. Approximately four feet of water covered Route 4 just outside of Upper Marlboro and traffic was rerouted via the Crain highway. Rowboats had to be used to cross the road.

Hundreds of basements were flooded in Alexandria, and Route 1 at Hunting Creek south of Alexandria was closed for several hours. At 1 p.m. yesterday, 3 feet of water still covered Bladensburg road at New York avenue N.E., where the water had piled up to a depth of 41/2 feet the night before. After the sun came out, however, the water flowed off more quickly and enabled police to reopen the road

A similar condition existed at the intersection of Bladensburg road and Defense highway in Bladensburg. The heavy rains caused the Eastern Branch of the Potomac River to sweep over its banks and inundate the area around the Peace Cross.

Some cars got through without being stalled, but this one had to be pushed through water which at one time reached a height of 5 feet. Many residents of the area were stranded in their

GOP Ticket In Montgomery To Be Drawn

Coalition Slate May Be Agreed On Tomorrow Night

A complete slate of candidates for the September 8 primary in Montgomery County, is expected to be drawn up at a meeting of county Republican leaders at 8 p.m. tomor-row in the office of Thomas C. Kelley at Rockville.

Withdrawal of all Republican candidates several hours before the midnight deadline Saturday, is believed to presage the formation of a coalition ticket composed of Republicans and anti-organization Democrats.

This was confirmed in part today by John R. Reeves, a member of the Special Republican Candidate Committee, who withdrew Saturday as a candiadte for State's attorney.

Charter Committee Disowned. While Mr. Reeves admitted a coalition ticket "is being considered," he said no definite announcement would be made until after the meeting to-

At the same time, he declared that, even if a coalition slate is formed, "it will have nothing to do with the Charter Committee.

It has been reported that county Republicans might work with the Charter Committee, which is circulating petitions for establishment of a charter form of government in the Expect to Stay Away.

"We have stayed away from the Charter Committee and expect to continue to do so," Mr. Reeves asserted. The Republican State Central Committee can name a slate at any time prior to August 22.

Mr. West said some of the "old school Republicans" were making light of his candidacy, saying he had no organization support. He added they forget that when Gov. O'Conor set out to win the Democratic gubernatorial nomination four years ago he didn't have organization support either, but built it up as he went along.

"And, I'm going to do just that,"

By the Way—

Even a downpour of rain couldn't keep servicemen and their girls away from the dance at St. John's Parish Hall on Sixteenth street last Saturday evening. True, some of the men's uniforms were pretty wet when they arrived and a few of the girls' frilly summer frocks looked a little on the damp side—but every one had such a good time that nobody seemed to mind at all.

This was one of the dances now held regularly every Saturday evening in the parish hall of St. John's Church for enlisted men of the armed forces. Under the direction of Mrs. Richard Southgate and Mrs. Harry Cootes (who are co-chairmen of the committee) the parties are arranged. Now that Mrs. Southgate is vacationing at Dorset, Vt., and Mrs. Cootes at Virginia Beach, the dances are going on all summer under Mrs. Donald Bingham's direction. She's acting chairman until the other ladies return. Members of the Dance Committee bring homemade cookies and cigarettes. A delicious cool punch is made from orange ice and ginger ale right in the kitchen of the parish hall-and acting hostesses ladle it out to the boys and girls from a huge crystal punch bowl. St. John's has provided an excellent Victrola and amplifier to furnish the music-and members of the congregation and any one else who's interested-contribute upto-the-minute dance records. But to get back to Saturday's party-which every one agreed was just about the best they've ever had. Due largely to the fact that Ensign Andrew Sinclair of the United States Navy came. Of Scotch descent, Ensign Sinclair took up the bagpipe when he was a very young boy. Although it began as a hobby, he became so interested in it that he frequently visited Scotland and entered some of their competitions. Then he brought back his experiences to this country and began teaching others to play the bagpipe. Now, So Saturday he played for the boys and girls and they loved it! Soon boys who had never even heard a bagpipe before were following him around the room to the strains of the Shipping Only Bottleneck.

"There is only one way to get real experience and that is in battle," Gen. Clark said. "You can do only so much in training. The picked divisions being sent to this theater have been formed at least a year although this does not mean that every man in every division has had a year's training.

"After all, it is going to take young men to keep up with the Germans." Gen. Clark said shipping was the "only bottleneck" in American plans, but that great progress had been made in cutting troop transport vehicles to a minimum by using trailers and other devices.

"The shipping problem made us make closer investigation of the the slaying of a nurse, Rose Haber, good results with fewer trucks." he

What Will Women Want To Do After the War?

Feminine Workers in Britain Claim They Long to Return To Normal Domestic Life

By Dorothy Dix

There has been much speculation about what women will do after the war and whether, after having known the excitement of working at high pressure in large groups, and especially after having experienced the thrill of earning large salaries and having earned their own money, they will be willing to return to the domestic grind, which is performed mostly in solitude, and carries no bonuses or pay envelopes with it.

This question has been answered, to a large extent, by a questionnaire which has been sent out in England to the women war workers, asking them what they wanted to do after the war. Almost with one voice they replied that they longed to go back to the normal life of women again. They want to be just wives and mothers. They want to fill the baby's bottle instead of filling shells in an ammunition plant, and to push a perambulator instead of driving a truck. They have even planned the little house they are going to have, with its bit of garden in the back and its flower beds in front, and curtains in the kitchen.

letters is to show appreciation, I do agree that it would be entirely proper to go and thank them, as you propose, instead of writing notes. In other words, if thanks are sufficiently emphasized that is all that is necessary. But to babble a casual, "Oh, thank you for your lovely present" as they pass her in the queue at a reception, will not take the place of an appreciative letter of thanks-nor will a telephoned thank you do, either.

Answer-There is no way to make this particular distinction, but you can use whatever names you choose, and when you choose, without having to give an explanation. But I think if you are going to keep all four initials that you will have to sign all four names on occasion, either formally or informally or in business. At its end is a fixes up the sweet tooth satisfac- thriving small victory garden, torily without disturbing the sugar weeded and well worked, with homey, gay flowers like zinnias and marigolds to give it color. Nearby is a well-used sand pile, empty now because, at 7 o'clock, its small owner has been fast asleep for an hour, tucked in his own crib upstairs. The grass is neatly cut, no rubbage trails from battered cans, no sign of neglect or untidiness is seen. The mother and father are reading the evening paper, seated in two of the ception of cream, and heat over hot striped canvas chairs that are gathered hospitably together, inviting friendly talk and relaxation. Here is order and peace for every one in this house after a busy day for all. When the mother calls: "Jimmie and Joan!" at 7 o'clock, two young voices answer: "Coming, mom!" Soon the two appear, mussed and grimly after a hard game of "follow the leader," of course, but with willing grins on their little red faces. They know that it is bathtime and soon will be bedtime. It never occurs to them to argue, they do not whine, "Aw, gee, mom, I don't wanna go to bed!"

On the other side of the fence, let us imagine, is a barren stretch, a back yard in the worse sense. All manner of broken boxes and trash litters the place. A half-starved mongrel yaps incessantly between frantic diggings. At 7, 8 and 9 o'clock three small children, aged 18 months to 7 years, are still playing or squabbling at the top of their lungs. As the hour grows later they cry and argue, so very weary they hardly know what they are doing. Their bickering is interrupted from time to time by the harsh voice of a slovenly woman who flaps out in heelless slippers, wiping her arms on her skirt. "Shut up, you kids," she bawls. Even if you had never laid eyes on the owners of these two back yards you would know what sort of people lived in the houses. It does not take a lot of money for a woman to raise her children in a clean, orderly home and give them the regular routine they require for splendid health, and the friendliness and gentleness that heir young hearts and minds need if they are to grow to be kind, selfespecting adults.

luncheon and dinner has become a year-round staple-to the great benefit of those who eat these salads regularly. But when warm weather shows up we make a meal of heartier, main-course salads of meat, fish or vegetables-or combinations of them. It's hard to find anything tastier on hot summer days.

Salad meals are a bit different from our usual meal plans and our appetites are often jaded at this time of the year. What we need are extra special tidbits to go with them. Hot breads are a perfect answer. They add the right balance to salad meals which are not as a rule very starchy. These recipes will fit into any of your hot-weather salad meals.

Second-Front Action Called Life-and-Death Matter to French

Foreign Policy Survey Sees Nation's Vitality Sapped Under Nazi Rule

American and British action to create a second front in Western Europe "may literally be termed a life-and-death matter for the future of the French people," according to a survey published today by the Foreign Policy Association.

"With every day that passes." concludes the report on Vichy France under Hitler, "the restoration of pre-war physical conditions becomes more difficult, and the damagewhich has indirect repercussions far beyond the borders of Francemore nearly irreparable."

Life of Nation Sapped. The report, prepared by David H. Popper, reviews the extent of Nazi control over France which has sapped both the economic and political life of the nation, reducing it to the role of a vassal state." If present conditions are maintained for long, the report asserts. they will "destroy all possibility of restoring the greatness of France in the visible future."

"All eyewitness accounts agree." it points out, "that malnutrition is slowly sapping the physical health and vitality of the French nation, especially those elements without the funds needed for recourse to the black market."

Vital Statistics Cited. The trend toward slow death for the French nation is emphasized by statistics showing that marriages decreased by 40 per cent and live births by 33 per cent during the first quarter of 1941 as compared with the same months of 1939. Mortality rates among all ages leaped up at the same time. Conditions cannot be expected to improve, the report declares," until Germany's hold on Western Europe

Production Battle Won. Legion Chief Declares Py the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 10 .-America already has won its production battle with the Axis and is "nearly ready" now to exert its full strength in the war against its enemies, National Comdr. Lynn U. Stambaugh of the American Legion declared last night.

In an address before delegates to the Tennessee Legion convention which opened here yesterday the Legion head asserted: "In the course of nearly a year of constant travel the strength of America has been revealed to me. Japan already know they have lost

RICH, RED BLOOD

If you are one of those unfortunates who have worked under a strain, hailed to eat the proper foods, have been vexed by overtaxing worries, or have suffered with colds, the flu, or other illness...yet have no organic trouble or focal infection... and your red-blood-cells have become reduced in the little and number. vitality and number . . . if your stomach digestion refuses to work properly, then here is what should help you!

here is what should help you!

SSS Tonic is especially designed to build up blood strength when deficient ... and to promote those stomach juices which digest the food so your body can make proper use of it in rebuilding wornout tissue. These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you do eat ... to make use of it as Nature intended. Thus you may get new vitality... pep... Thus you may get new vitality...pep... become animated...more attractivel

Build Sturdy Health in order that the Doctors may better serve our Fighting Forces

Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits SSS Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it gets results—that's why so many say "SSS Tonic builds sturdy health which type of hand his partner holds-one with which there is a good play for nine tricks or one with which the play for eight tricks is not too good? North has only to look at his own hand to see that there ought to be some good play for nine tricks, no matter what South has. Why then should he pass the buck by bidding only two no-trump? There are situations in which it is proper for a player to make a slight underbid in order not to encourage slam ambitions; but in this case South's bidding made it obvious that he would not 7:15 Grand & Band Stand

REG'LAR FELLERS

Uncle Ray's Corner By RAMON COFFMAN.

After one of the "hot waves" this summer I was greatly pleased when water came down from the sky. I had been finding it hard to write my stories because of the way the heat made me feel. Then came showers, and the temperature fell

In one way or another, water plays a part in our lives every day of the year and every hour of the day. Rain may not be important at a certain time, but water is needed for drinking, washing and cooking. A person may say, "If we did not have water, people would die of thirst." That is quite true, unless we could eat food containing enough water. Milk is made up chiefly of water, and so are other drinks. Many foods from the gardens-cabbages, lettuce and a score of others-are composed largely of water. Yet vegetables would not grow if there were no water, and cows could give no milk. In a very short time there would be no people or animals left on earth.

Happily we have such a good supply of water that it will last for millions of years, perhaps for billions of years. Three-fourth of the surface of the earth is covered with

Most of the earth's water is salty. and is not fit to drink. Yet if we needed to do so we could use machines to turn ocean water into good drinking water. If ocean water is heated, it will turn into vapor and the vapor can be condensed so it will become good drinking water. Nature does that work for us at the present time. Each day hundreds of millions of tons of ocean water are turned into vapor. The salt is left behind (making the ocean more salty as the years go by) and the water vapor rises into the air. As I said the other day, the vapor forms into clouds, and winds blow the clouds over land. Then down comes rain. Our crops grow, and people have plenty of water to drink. Most of our drinking water comes from rain which soaks into the ground, and most of the rain water comes from the ocean.

Water is made up of two gaseshydrogen and oxygen. People often speak of it as "H-2-O." which means that it is made up of two atoms of hydrogen for each atom of oxygen. there is more hydrogen gas in water, it weighs far less than the oxygen. One oxygen atom weighs about 17 times as much as one hydrogen atom.

STAR FISH. (Asterias forbesii)

Aristotle and various Medieval naturalists were quite curious about starfish, but it was Linck who realized the importance of making a scientific study of these strange marine animals. This he did in Starfish are commonly found throughout the world from tide lines to very great depths. They form a class of Phylum Echinodermata, marine creatures with a symmetrical, five-rayed body, with calcareous plates in the body wall and a system of tubes known as the water vascular system which extends throughout the body. Included in this group will be found cucumbers, brittle stars,

Certain laymen who entertain a secret conceit that rise of Hitler in all its infamy: 11:10 they're pretty handy with their own a.m., 1, 2:45, 4:30, 6:15, 8 and 9:45 fists seem to turn savage at the sight and proximity of a movie Metropolitan-"They All Kissed baddie.

Bogart was telling us one of his experiences. It happened on a train when he and Big Boy Williams were traveling to San Francisco together. "Big" took care of screen, with Joan Fontaine: 11:40 the heckler in this instance, but not until after Bogart managed to Pix-"Black Dragon," the horrors duck a wild swing that, if it had with Bela Lugosi: 2:10, 4:20, 6:50 landed, would have blacked his eye for weeks. "Big" grabbed the young fellow, held him until the train had slowed down almost to a stop at the next station, then carried him to the platform and dropped

When Warner Bros. staged the world premiere of "Santa Fe" in that New Mexico city a couple of years ago, the entire male cast. which assembled there for personal appearances, was continuously heckled-physically as well as verbally. A certain group of Santa Fe citizens, men and women alike, resented the visit of movie stars and proceeded to take it out on the players. It was a woman resident who touched off a near riot at the public ball which was a part of the premiere festivities.

"Say, I don't like either of you guys," announced this woman, walking up to Errol Flynn and Wayne Morris. Whereupon she pulled her skirts up to the knees, drew back her right foot and landed a kick DANCING.

full in Morris' stomach. She turned to direct another at Flynn, but right there her escort grabbed her. What might have deteriorated into a disgraceful brawl was averted.

Barton MacLane, stalwart villain who is forever making life's burden heavier for heroes and heroines, and who looks the part off the screen, suffered a sprained ankle and much fractured dignity at the hands of two playful ruffains recently MacLane walked into the Hotel Knickerbocker bar with a friend. They stood at the rail chatting as they sipped beer. Without warning, two men applied holds on MacLane. one a half-Nelson, the other a strangle. He crashed to the floor. His antagonists returned to the bar one sneering: "He ain't so tough." The physical hecklers turned out to be professional wrestlers a trifle "That's the second time this week over-sold on MacLane's screen villainies.

James Cagney heard by letter from New York of one of the most amusing of all such incidents. The letter was from a young man who sorrowfully admitted a resemblance to the actor.

"So what do you think happened to me?" he asked of Cagney. "I was standing up at the bar one night, minding my own business, when up comes a guy. 'Say, vou look like Jimmy Cagney, that movie actor,' said the guy. And with that he hauled off and knocked me flat
