British Aide Dies in Leap From Bridge

A certificate of suicide was issued this afternoon by Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, District coroner, in the death of a man identified as Eric L. Evans, 47, of 1910 Kalorama road N.W., of the civilian staff of the British Purchasing Commission, who leaped from the eastern end of the Calvert Street Bridge this morning.

Identification was made at the Morgue by William E. Pulling of the Commission, according to Dr. McDonald.

Police said the man's body narrowly missed a passing automobile as it landed on Rock Creek driveway.

Mrs. Henry B. Williams, who gave her address as the Dodge Hotel, said she was driving under the bridge when the body came hurtling through the air, landing close by. She telephoned police.

Two bridge guards, Louis Sepulveda and Freddie Moore, were about 25 feet from the spot where the body landed.

Cartridge Plant Ordered To Reinstate Worker

By the Associated Press.

ALTON, Ill., Sept. 9.—The War Department has directed the Western Cartridge Co. to reinstate Francis Bunzy, whose dismissal caused a strike at the smokeless powder subsidiary which employs about 15 per cent of the total number of workers in the huge plant.

The company agreed today to the order, but said Mr. Bunzy was restored "as an employe under suspension."

Mr. Bunzy, local president of the AFL Chemical Workers' Union, allegedly visited a restricted area without permission. The company said he was suspended three days before the War Department ordered his dismissal last June 22.

Fred Olds, AFL organizer, said: "Either Benzy goes back to work or there'll be no work."

The strike continued for the second day. There was a picket line, but no trouble was reported. Operations continued on war orders in the main plant.

Union members rejected a telephoned request from the War Labor Board to return to work pending negotiations on renewal of a contract.

Senators Insist On 5% Victory Tax Retention

Approve Proposal For Compulsory Savings Study

The Senate Finance Committee reaffirmed today its adoption of the 5 per cent victory tax on individual earnings over $624 a year, and also approved a proposal for a joint congressional study of compulsory savings to aid in financing the war.

Chairman George said it was contemplated that a committee consisting of five Senators and five Representatives and including Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau would be set up to make the study and report to Congress by January 11.

Senator George said the Finance Committee felt that for "obvious reasons" a thorough study should be made of the possibility of obtaining additional war fiancing from individuals through some rounded form of compulsory savings.

Insufficient Time Seen.

There is insufficient time, he said, to make such a study and write provisions of this nature into the pending revenue bill. He said that some post-war rebate provisions which the committee tentatively has included in the measure were in the nature of relief for taxpayers rather than constituting a full-fledged compulsory savings plan.

In approving again the 5 per cent victory levy, the committee rejected three substitute proposals made by the Treasury at the committee's direction. These proposals would have raised about $2,500,000,000 yearly by broadening the base of the income tax and increasing rates.

Senator George said committee members felt that the victory tax, to be applied on incomes in addition to regular income taxes now in effect and proposed in the new revenue bill, was more equitable and workable.

In approving the special levy Senator George said the committee decided to leave the deadline for filing regular income tax returns, which would include victory tax returns, at March 15. Previously the committee had planned to move this date up to January 15.

Regular Tax Not Yet Acted On.

Senator George said the regular income tax rate schedule had not yet been acted upon by the committee, adding that some slight changes might be made.

Adoption of the new levy, he said, would eliminate a House-approved provision in the revenue bill calling for the advance collection of income through a 5 per cent assessment against wages, interest and dividends, less specified exemptions.

Thus only 5 per cent of an individual's earnings above the basic exemption of $624 a year would be withheld from his salary or other income.

The proposal for establishment of a joint committee to study the compulsory savings question was adopted unanimously on a motion of Senator Taft, Republican, of Ohio.

14,000 Firms Report 111 Million Pounds Of Excessive Copper

Two-Thirds of Concerns Willing to Sell to U. S., WPB Official Says

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The War Production Board, seeking copper for critical war needs, today said 14,000 firms have reported 111,000,000 pounds of the metal in their idle and excessive inventories.

E. A. Tupper, chief of the WPB's Inventory and Requisitioning Branch, said approximately two-thirds of the reporting firms have offered to sell the copper at the price established by the Government.

He indicated steps might soon be taken to requisition the metal in the hands of the other one-third of the firms which have been holding back the copper because of the price.

29 Million Already Allocated.

Of the 111,000,000 pounds of copper reported, Mr. Tupper said, 29,000,000 already have been allocated; 11,000,000 would be handled outside the regular program; 27,000,000 were ready to be moved, and 14,000,000 must be studied further to determine how it should be handled.

The remaining 30,000,000 pounds represents the copper in the hands of firms refusing to sell.

Mr. Tupper said that when the recovery program started eight weeks ago it was estimated 500 million pounds could be recovered, but that this figure has been revised to 400 million pounds because of various copper movements in the meantime.

Explaining the method to be followed if the Government moves to requisition the copper in the hands of firms refusing to sell, Mr. Tupper said:

Requisition Procedure Outlined.

"We are up to date on our voluntary sales. We are now ready to begin our push on the firms unwilling to sell. That push would be as follows:

"We will try to convince the withholding firms that they should sell; if they're still unwilling we'll have to inform them of our intention to requisition the copper; then we'll requisition."

Mr. Tupper said present emergency requests for copper in various forms are being received—at the offices of the Copper Recovery Corp. here—from war plants and the armed services at the rate of 500,000 pounds a day.

"More than half of all these emergency requests," Mr. Tupper said, "are being successfully filled from idle and excess inventories where the materials are located in exactly the form needed, sales arranged and immediate shipments made."

New Italian Battleship Possibly in Commission

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The possibility of a new menace to Allied operations on the Mediterranean was indicated today with the authoritative statement that the Italian battleship Roma "could be in commission" by now.

This source, who must remain unidentified, said the latest information available in London was that the Italians had time and opportunity to complete the 35,000-ton Littorio class warship which was laid down September 18, 1938; launched June 12, 1940, and scheduled for completion last year.

Legislators Demand Action to Stabilize Cost of Living

Republicans Support Move and Democrats Pledge Co-operation

By the Associated Press.

Republican Representatives in Congress urged quick action today on legislation to stabilize the cost of living as Democratic leaders assured President Roosevelt of prompt introduction of a resolution giving him authority for "stabilization of everything that goes into the cost of living."

One after another, Representative Rich of Pennsylvania, Fish of New York, Hoffman of Michigan, Taber of New York and Mason of Illinois, all Republicans, discussed the matter on the Hous tfloor, even as Speaker Rayburn and Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts told reporters of administration plans.

The Speaker said a simple but broad and flexible resolution likely would be introduced to give the President authority for "stabilization of everything that goes into the cost of living—and that means everything."

Will Act Simultaneously.

Asked directly whether wage stabilization would be based on the formula set up by the War Labor Board, granting increases where justified on the basis of a 15 per cent boost over the January, 1941, level, to offset cost of living increases the Speaker expressed belief that the formula would be fixed by the Chief Executive himself.

Speaker Rayburn indicated that the House and Senate would proceed simultaneously with the assignment of drafting legislation which the President has demanded before October 1.

"We're not going to wait for the Senate and it is not going to wait for us," he declared.

Representattive Rich told the House that if Congress failed to do its duty the country would have "a dictator" in the White House.

"If you don't act you are not worthy to sit in this House," Representative Rich declared.

"Ultimatum," Says Fish.

"This is not the time for politics or obstructionism," declared Representative Fish. "It is the duty of the Democratic Congress to exert every possible legislative power to protect the American people * * * from the tragic effect of inflation."

Representative Fish referred to

Suspect Reportedly Sent Data on U. S. Shipping, Plane Output to Reich

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The arrest of Johannes Kroger, 44, German Army veteran, on a complaint alleging violation of the war-time espionage law was announced today by P. E. Foxworth, an assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Mr. Foxworth said Kroeger, who lives at Amityville, N. Y., was charged with having transmitted to Germany information on the production and distribution of aircraft in the United States, as well as shipping information.

Conviction carries a penalty of from 30 years imprisonment to death.

Born in Germany.

Born in Germany in 1898, Kroeger came to the United States in 1926 and was naturalized at Mineola, N. Y., November 17, 1933. His parents, a wife and a son reside in Germany.

Mr. Foxworth said that at the time of Kroeger's arrest several days ago he was employed by a bus line serving employes of a Long Island airplane company, thus was in a position to obtain defense information without working in the aircraft plant.

Mr. Foxworth said Kroeger spent much time in Germany since 1937 and tried to return there in June, 1941. Failing to obtain a passport, Kroeger went to Guatelmala in July, 1941, then to Rio de Janeiro, where he remained until December 26, returning to the United States January 13, 1942.

Secret Inks Expert.

While in South America, Mr. Foxworth said, Kroeger met German secret agents, and it was known that he noted identities of various ships in Trinidad harbor.

Kroeger, described by Mr. Foxworth as "an expert in the use of secret ink," is named in the conspiracy together with members of the German High Command and Hubert Von Meyer, alias Humberto, who Mr. Foxworth said is a known German agent.

Executive Order to Halt Double Pay for Sundays

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Sept. 9.—R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO United Automobile Workers, said today he had received word from President Roosevelt that an executive order soon would prohibit double-time pay for Sunday work within a 40-hour work week.

The President, Mr. Thomas said, urged that UAW-CIO members take no steps to revise present working agreements which already contain such a prohibition.

Several months ago the union waived such premium pay for Sunday work falling within a 40-hour week. In August, however, the UAW-CIO convention adopted a stand that unless such waivers were made general throughout industry, local unions would be authorized again to demand double pay for Sunday. This authorization was made automatic after September 8, the expiration of a 30-day period set by the convention.

Mr. Thomas said the White House plan was disclosed in a telegram from Marvin H. McIntyre, presidential secretary.

Luxembourg Workers Reported On Strike in Nazi Protest

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Workers throughout steel-producing Luxembourg were declared today to have gone on general strike in protest against the incorporation of the little grand duchy into the German Reich and in defiance of Nazi warnings that convicted strikers would be sentenced to death.

The British Ministry of Information said this was "the first occasion in which a general strike has been ordered in German-occupied territory, and gains additional significance from the fact that Luxembourg ranks among the 10 largest steel producers in the world."

(Andre Wolff, commissioner of information of Luxembourg at Washington, said the strike was the answer of the workers and people of the grand duchy to an order by Gauleiter Gustav Simon August 30 which incorporated Luxembourg into the Reich and declared her youth would be conscripted for Germany military service.)

"The strike," the ministry said, "clearly and eloquently refutes the spate of lying German propaganda which claimed that Luxembourgers had voluntarily acquired German citizenship and volunteered for service with German forces."

Production of Du Pont, Standard Oil, Dow Is Not Included

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 9.—More than 950,000 tons of synthetic rubber will be rolling out of new American plants by November 1, 1943, a War Production Board report on butadiene to the American Chemical Society disclosed today.

Butadiene forms three-fourths of the synthetic rubber and styrene the rest. Only two or three days are required to complete the transformation from butadiene to rubber.

The report, made by Dr. Albert L. Elder of the WPB, showed that butadiene production will be scattered through seven States, 11 cities and towns and 1 Canadian city. It will be divided among 12 companies.

The report did not include Du Pont's neoprene, Standard Oil of New Jersey's butyl and Dow Chemical's thiokol.

The butadiene production starts this month, Dr. Elder said, with 13,300 tons coming in. November will add 9,500 tons; January, 20,000; February, 20,000; March, 165,000; April, 135,000; May, 40,000; June, 170,000; July, 40,000; August, 55,000, and October, 50,000, for a total of 717,800 tons.

President May Take Daniels From OCD

President Roosevelt has a special assignment in mind for Jonathan Daniels that may take him temporarily away from his duties as assistant director of the Office of Civilian Defense, the White House disclosed today.

Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early said, however, there is no basis for reports that Mr. Daniels is resigning from the OCD, where he is in charge of civilian mobilization.

Mr. Early said that he understood that the President intends to ask OCD Director James M. Landis to lend him Mr. Daniels for a temporary special assignment, the nature of which he could not disclose for the time being.

Mr. Daniels, son of Josephus Daniels, was editor of the Raleigh N. C.) News and Observer before taking the OCD post.

(Earlier Story on Page A-14.)

By the Associated Press.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Sept. 9.—One man was killed and three others critically injured today when an Army training plane crashed in a heavily wooded section near Morristown.

State police found the plane a short time after Lt. R. E. Manchee of Short Hills, N. J., a passenger, stumbled into the home of Dr. James Tufts, a veterinary surgeon. The plane was found 1,000 yards from Dr. Tuft's home.

Lt. Manchee said the plane carried four men, and identified the pilot as a Capt. Gorman. The dead man and the injured, who were taken to Morristown General Hospital, were not immediately identified.

House O.K.'s Changes In Soldier Vote Bill, Including Poll Tax Ban

Senate Amendments Approved, 247 to 53; Southerners' Attack Fails

(Earlier Story on Page A-13.)

By the Associated Press.

Over opposition of Southern members, the House accepted today Senate amendments to the service men's absentee-voting bill, including one allowing men in the armed forces to vote without paying poll taxes required in eight Southern States.

The roll call vote was announced as 247 to 53.

Two other amendments written in by the Senate after the House had passed the bill more than a month ago made the absentee-voting privilege applicable to both primary and general elections and to service men stationed abroad and at home.

The legislation goes back to the Senate for formal approval of recommendations of a Senate-House conference committee that had urged passage of the Senate version. It was on the conference committee's report that the House acted today.

Southern members led by Representative Rankin, Democrat of Mississippi, attacked the anti-poll tax amendment as an invasion of the right of States to control their own elections. Mr. Rankin termed it "just the beginning" of a movement "to abolish State governments."

Goodyear, Union Agree To Eight-Hour Shifts

By the Associated Press.

AKRON, Ohio, Sept. 9.—Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.'s truck tire department will go on eight-hour shifts Thursday, replacing the six-hour schedule in effect several years. Goodyear and the CIO United Rubber Workers agreed to that today.

The three-shift, eight-hour schedule will remain in effect "until sufficient labor is available to operate on a six-hour, four-shift basis," the agreement said.

A four-day strike over the issue occurred last week, when workers walked out in protest against the company's rescheduling of certain divisions on an eight-hour basis. The strikers returned to jobs pending completion of negotiations.

WPB Orders Farmer's 50 Tons of Scrap Seized

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Sept. 9.—Acting under a requisition order of the War Production Board, salvage officials today seized an estimated 50 tons of scrap from the farm of Ora Benjamin, near Walled Lake, Mich., northwest of Detroit.

WPB officials said it was the first time since passage of the War Emergency Act that such action had been taken against a farmer, though material has been seized from a scrapyard.

John D. McGillis, executive secretary of the Michigan State Salvage Committee, who with a United States marshal served the requisition order on Mr. Benjamin, said that since last April the farmer has refused to sell the scrap at what the WPB considered a fair price.

Worker Draft By Youngstown Mills Forecast

By the Associated Press.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Sept. 9.—Youngstown's steel mills will draft workers within two months because of a labor shortage, a Federal Employment Service official predicts.

Herbert R. Weller, manager of the service's office here, reported yesterday the occupational questionnaires of selective service registrants were being used to recruit war plant workers.

Approximately 500 cards are being sent out daily to deferred registrants asking them to report to the employment office and take war jobs if they already are not engaged in essential work, he added.

Mr. Weller reported some labor was being "pirated" from Youngstown plants by firms in other cities, citing an instance in which one company lost eight machinists in one day.

Writer Says Japs Are Counting On U. S. Political Disunity

Japan is counting on American political disunity to bring about a negotiated peace and Japanese retention of its territorial gains, members of the Washington Rotary Club were told today by Robert Bellaire, Tokio bureau manager for the United Press. He returned to this country recently on the exchange ship Gripsholm.

"America can lick Japan, not by propaganda, but by military might," Mr. Bellaire said. "Their hope is we will not convert our war potential into actual fighting weapons and warriors."

Emphasizing that Japan's early, sweeping victories have given the people confidence, Mr. Bellaire said Japan will fight to the last ditch. "They are prepared to fight several years, and they will not break up internally in the predictable future," he asserted.

With other American correspondents, Mr. Bellaire said he was compelled, under threat of death, to write pro-Japanese articles, after which he was well treated. "I made the articles so ridiculously pro-Japanese," he remarked, "that any American newspaper reader could realize they were written under duress."

He told a large audience of representative Washington business men that logic and consistency are unknown to the Japanese * * * "that explains why they can beat you one minute and be courteous and apologetic the next; they act from the heart and not from the head."

Reuther Released From Army At Request of WPB Aide

By the Associated Press.

A spokesman for Wendell Lund, Labor Production Director of the War Production Board, said today that, at Mr. Lund's request, Roy Reuther, former United Automobile Workers Union official, had been released from the Army to resume a job under Mr. Lund as a field representative.

Mr. Reuther, national UAW representative at Pontiac, Mich., before joining WPB's staff, was drafted several months ago, said the spokesman, who declined to be quoted by name.

Subsequently, the spokesman said, Mr. Lund requested that Mr. Reuther be discharged from the Army because of the importance of his work in morale and labor union contracts. The request was approved by the Adjutant General's Office and Mr. Reuther returned to his WPB duties about a week ago.

A spokesman for Selective Service, who asked that his name be withheld, said the War Department had requested Selective Service approval of the release, but that draft officials had neither approved nor disapproved.

Once a selectee is inducted, this spokesman explained, draft officials are through with him until his discharge. The spokesman added he did not know what position, if any, local or State draft officials in Michigan had adopted in connection with the Reuther case.

Reinforced Nazis Hammering Defenses West of Stalingrad To Widen Wedge in Red Lines

By EDDY GILMORE,
Associated Press War Correspondent.

MOSCOW, Sept. 9.—Reinforced German divisions concentrated attacks on the western defenses of Stalingrad today in an effort to widen a hard-won wedge and the situation was described here as "particularly complicated," but the Red Army was reported holding fiercely in every sector.

The Russians said Nazi tanks and infantry, sheltered by dive-bombers, had deepened the salient from the west yesterday, while Soviet troops beat off flanking attacks from the southwest.

Today's midday communique, however, mentioned no new withdrawals and announced further gains in the central front offensive.

Russian troops dislodged the enemy from a fortified district west of Moscow and occupied three more settlements, it said. They were reported to have slain 400 Germans and captured prisoners and war supplies.

Mines Blow Up 3 Tanks.

A Russian minefield west of Stalingrad blew up three German tanks and Soviet gunners damaged six others of a formation maneuvering in front of the field, the communique said.

Red Army mortar batteries and riflemen were reported to have slain 350 invaders in two of a series of actions southwest of the Volga River industrial center, where field dispatches said Italian and Rumanian troops and fresh tanks from other fronts had been moved into action.

Four successive assaults, supported by massed planes, were repulsed in that sector, Izvestia said. The government newspaper said the aircraft "were literally hanging over our front line and bombing our positions," but the Russian forces waited them out and then arose to drive off the enemy land forces.

Red Army patrols and mortar batteries wiped out 230 Germans in the overnight fighting about Novorossisk, a Black Sea naval base, and 40 German troop trucks were smashed, the Russians said.

Red Star reported that a violent battle raged around the wedge which the Germans and Rumanians have thrust into this sector. The defense position was described as both strained and difficult. German tank charges against a Russian flank were declared unsuccessful.

Soviet resistance appeared firmer in the Mozdok district of the Central Caucasus, where a battle is under way south of the Terek River. The Russians were reported fighting to annihilate a German formation which crossed the river.

"Five German tanks were disabled and a company of enemy infantry was wiped out" yesterday in phases of this continuing engagement, it was announced.

Red Star said the Russians had driven the Germans from a village of that sector at bayonet point; Red Army cavalry hurled back a German regiment and forced the invaders to withdraw from an important position; and the Red Air Force raided crossings where the Gemans were attempting to move reserves to the south bank and wrecked a number of bridges.

Fresh Troops Bolster Von Bock.

Soviet artillery turned back a preliminary thrust by armored vanguards of the divisions arrayed west of Stalingrad and see-saw fighting for a village cost the invaders five tanks and about 450 officers and men, the Soviet Information Bureau said earlier.

But fresh Axis troops and machines moved up to bolster Field Marshal Fedor von Bock's columns and, for the second successive day, the information bureau reported that "after a violent engagement, our troops retreated to a new defense line."

Mixed brigades of Red Navy and Red Army men were reported fighting tenaciously to contain German and Rumanian forces which had seized a salient within the defenses of the fortified naval station of Novorossisk, on the Black Sea.

Flyers of the Red Banner Baltic Fleet were credited with destruction of 10 German tri-motored planes in an attack on an Axis airdrome, breaking through "a solid anti-aircraft barrage" to loose their explosive cargoes.

Rommel Reported Ill and Slated For Replacement in Command

Member of Willkie's Party Says He May Have Already Returned to Germany

By the Associated Press.

ANKARA, Sept. 8 (Delayed).—A member of Wendell L. Willkie's party visiting Turkey, who asked not to be identified by name, said today that German officers captured in Africa had disclosed that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel is suffering from some malady and may be relieved of his command.

The nature of the supposed disease was not stated.

These officers, captured in the recent tank battle in which Marshal Rommel's forces suffered serious losses, were quoted as saying the field marshal either has been returned to Germany by air, or is awaiting relief by some other commander.

The story was told, it was said by Mr. Willkie's traveling companion, by British officers who have spoken with a number of German officers who have fallen into the Allies' hands. These German officers, it was added, also said one of Marshal Rommel's most reliable aides, who has been at his side in all the desert campaigns, was killed while trying to cheer his forces as they retreated after their latest assault. (The death of Maj. Gen. Georg von Bismarck was reported Monday.)

British officers told members of Mr. Willkie's party in Egypt that

RAF Hails Fortress Successes, Predicts Deeper Day Attacks

News of Raids Reported Kept From Germans; Frankfurt Hit Again

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—An "excellent start" has been made by United States Flying Fortresses in day raids on German-occupied Europe, an RAF commentator declared today, fully justifying United States policy of daylight bombing and foreshadowing "deeper penetration to more vital targets" by American bombers in daylight.

This source, who may not me named, predicted that German bombers would return "as soon as they can" to take "as terrible a vengeance as possible" for the heavy bombing dealt by Allied bombers on German cities.

He said American daylight bombing, which he called "the most startling recent development on the western air front, "has been hidden from the German people.

"Neither the German press or radio has been allowed to tell the people that American aircraft are attacking them in the west," he said.

Frankfurt Night Raid Target.

British bombers in their sixth night raid on Germany out of eight nights this month struck in strong force last night at Frankfurt, the Air Ministry announced today. Large fires were left burning, the announcement said.

While the principal objective was Frankfurt, last raided on the night of August 24, other targets in the Rhineland also were hit.

Fighter command aircraft at the same time carried out offensive patrols over German-occupied territory.

Seven bombers were reported missing from the Rhineland raids, three fighters from the patrol operations, and two coast command aircraft from patrol work yesterday.

The night raids followed daylight assaults by Boston (Douglas) bombers on German submarine nests at Le Havre and Cherbourg.

35th Attack on Frankfurt.

It was the 35th time the RAF has struck at Frankfurt, a leading commercial city and important Rhineland port and rail center more than 400 miles from British bomber bases.

A DNB dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio said areas of Western Germany were hit and "material damage was caused in residential districts of some towns." The raiders were declared to have lost three planes.

Only two nights this month has German sleep gone undisturbed by the drone of British bombers over-

Enemy Force Wiped Out In Milne Bay Sector; Warships Attacked

By the Associated Press.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sept. 9.—Allied forces have slowed up Japanese troops in the steep and rocky approaches to "The Gap"—a mountain pass 8,000 feet up on the Owen Stanley range about 50 miles northeast of the important Allied base at Port Moresby—and Australian troops have practically destroyed 700 Japanese troops in the Milne Bay area of New Guinea, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

While Gen. MacArthur's forces were thus tightening their grip on this northern bastion of Australia in the face of determined Japanese infiltration, Allied bombers and torpedo-carrying planes attacked Japanese warships supporting the invaders and probably damaged a destroyer.

Two Japanese warships, a cruiser and a destroyer, were discovered Monday near Normandy Island and attacked under poor weather conditions, a headquarters communique said. Fighter planes strafed the decks of the warcraft.

Make Other Attacks.

Two more attacks were made on the warships among the Tobriand Islands yesterday and it was there that a destroyer probably was hit. Weather conditions made observation of results difficult.

The warships apparently were those which shelled Allied positions Sunday in the Milne Bay area at the southeastern tip of New Guinea, where a Japanese landing force now has been practically destroyed, it was declared. This force was named the Kure No. 5 landing force, presumably after the Kure naval base near Nagasaki, Japan.

The Japanese casualties on this expedition were estimated at approximately 700 in the communique.

Nine Japanese bombers and five fighters attacked the Milne Bay positions yesterday, but damage and casualties were listed as slight.

Situation Static.

After Japanese forces were reported yesterday in contact with the Allied defense positions north of the key mountain pass leading to Port Moresby, the situation today was described as static.

A headquarters spokesman said the area of conflict there lies at an altitude of 6,000 feet in a pass which leads from Kokoda to Port Moresby. The fighting has been on the Kokoda side of the mountains and about 2,000 feet below

Quake Is Recorded, Apparently in Aleutians

By the Associated Press.

WESTON, Mass., Sept. 9.—An earthquake of moderate intensity, apparently in the Aleutian Islands, was recorded last night on the Weston College seismograph.

The Rev. Daniel Linehan, seismologist, said the quake which registered at 9:35.24 p.m., was approximately 4,100 miles northwest of Boston, which would place it "somewhere in the Aleutians."

Haig's Son Prisoner Of War in Italy

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Earl Haig, 24, son of the British World War commander, is a prisoner of war in Italy, it was officially announced today.

He had been reported missing in the Near East last month. Haig became a second lieutenant in the Scots Greys in August, 1939.

Heroism of Navy Crews Lauded By Men Saved From Transport

By the Associated Press.

AN EAST COAST PORT, Sept. 9.—Survivors of the burned transport Wakefield today gave grim, first-hand descriptions of 20 minutes of drama and heroism aboard the flame-swept ship far out at sea last Thursday night.

The passengers included civilian war workers relieved of duty at a northern base. The survivors interviewed here said they had boarded the transport, the former liner Manhattan, at a European port. All agreed that the Navy personnel of the transport and of a destroyer and cruiser making the rescues displayed exceptional bravery in carrying out their work swiftly and calmly.

Robert Crabtree of Pawtucket, R. I., said the fire appeared to spread in two or three minutes from one end of the transport to the other. With him at home was Sven Gothe of Cambridge, Mass., who lost all his belongings in the fire.

Among survivors landed here were John W. Walker, Central Falls, R. I.; Herbert Proux, Saylesville, R. I.; John Cuddy, Providence, R. I., and Lyman M. Parlee of Auburn, R. I.

"It doesn't seem possible that one fire could have spread so fast," Crabtree said, "but I am sure there were no shells or torpedoes fired at us.

"Most of the men were on deck and made no attempt to go back to save their belongings. The fellows on the forward deck with me had kind of a sinking feeling when we heard an officer on the bridge ask if the magazines beneath us

Shipyard Gets 'Priority' in Theft Case

Judge George P. Barse in Municipal Court today dismissed charges of embezzlement, larceny after trust and joy-riding against a 25-year-old colored man who pleaded that he had a job in a Chester (Pa.) shipyard.

The defendant, Wilbert Gaynor, 1200 block of Jackson street N.E., is an employe of the Colony Liquor store, 4901 Georgia avenue N.W. He was accused of taking the firm's delivery truck and $36 he collected on orders.

Sam Levine, manager of the store, told Judge Barse the truck had been returned and said he did not wish to prosecute if the money was returned.

Attorney James G. Tyson said his client's relatives were willing to put up the money and added that Gaynor formerly was a machinist at the Navy Yard and had a promise of a job in Chester.

Judge Barse had the defendant stand and said: "Because shipbuilding men are so badly needed, I am going to dismiss the charges against you, but you must remember that serious consequences can result from criminal practices."

The naval transport Wakefield, formerly the liner Manhattan, was severely damaged by a fire at sea September 3, the Navy announced today, but more than 1,600 passengers and crew members were removed without loss of life.

The charred hulk of the 24,000-ton ship, once queen of the United States merchant fleet, has been towed to an Atlantic Coast port.

The Navy said "preliminary reports indicate that all the passengers and crew are safe," but that several crew members were injured. The ship was en route to an East Coast port in convoy.

Many Civilians on Board.

The fire, of undetermined origin, broke out on one deck level and spread swiftly throughout the 10-year-old, $10,000,000 vessel.

It soon became necessary to remove the more than 1,000 passengers, a large number of whom were civilians.

In addition to the 1,000, there were, according to the vessel's normal complement, 600 to 700 officers and crewmen aboard, commanded by Comdr. Harold Gardner Bradbury of Port Angeles, Wash., a Coast Guard officer.

The Navy said the rescue was brought about in a thrilling manner by warships protecting the convoy. A cruiser maneuvered her bow alongside the stern of the big transport and a destroyer placed itself along the side. At these close and hazardous quarters the passengers "rapidly were transferred from the blazing vessel to safety aboard the warships," the Navy said.

Crew Stays to Fight Fire.

The officers and crew of the Wakefield remained aboard fighting to bring the fire under control until the spreading flames drove them from the vessel to the cruiser.

Comdr. Bradbury later led a special fire-fighting party back aboard the Wakefield after the intensity of the fire had decreased and succeeded in getting the flames under control. Tugs and salvage craft had been summoned and they then towed the liner to port.

The Wakefield was built as the Manhattan by the New York Shipbuilding Co., Camden, N. J., in 1932, and at the time of her completion she was the largest transatlantic liner built in the United States. She was built to accommodate 1,161 passengers.

The vessel ran aground on the beach at Palm Beach, Fla., in January, 1941, and was stuck for three weeks before being dragged off.

The Manhattan was taken over by the Navy later in the year and renamed the Wakefield in accordance with the Navy's policy of naming transports for historic shrines of America, in this instance, the Virginia birthplace of George Washington.

Triple Damage Awarded For Rent Overcharge

By the Associated Press.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 9.—Tenants who sued for triple the amount of rent paid above the January 1, 1941, price ceiling won out-of-court payment of the full amount.

Termination of the action was announced yesterday by Burton Wood, chief attorney of the San Diego defense rental area. He believed the suit was the first of its kind in the United States.

The action was brought by Mrs. Bonnie B. Partridge and Mrs. Isabell C. Reis, aircraft workers and wives of Navy men now in action with the fleet.

The suit alleged they were charged $60 a month for an apartment when the maximum legal rent was $40. The triple damage law became effective last July. The plaintiffs sought $118, representing triple the overcharge alleged for last August, $20 for the July overcharge, plus $30 attorney fees and $8 costs.

Britain's War Spending Put At $49,000,000 Daily

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Moving for a vote of credit of £1,000,000,000 ($4,000,000,000), Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Kingsley Wood asserted today that Britain's war expenditure in recent weeks have average £12,250,000 a day and has increased by £2,000,000 a day since June.

Sir Kingsley told the House of Commons the motion for a new credit would bring the total of such notes to £11,050,000,000 since the beginning of the war.

He said the government's expenditures on goods and services probably would absorb 54 per cent of Britain's national resources this year compared with 44 per cent in 1940.

"Three years of war have cost us £10,000,000,000 and, including the cost of the debt and our normal peacetime services, our total expenditure has been £12,100,000,000," the chancellor said.

"Of that last huge total we have met 40 per cent out of taxation."

He paid tribute to the British people for shouldering the burden of heavy taxation, pointing out that despite an increase by one-third in the rate of expenditure, the government was raising 45 per cent of the cost by taxation this year compared with only 35 per cent in 1940-41.

Sir Kingsley said 1942 taxation probably would take about 40 per cent of the national income compared with 33 per cent in 1940.

And That's Not His Intuition Talking

Criticism Subsides, Congress Leaders Work on Price Bill

Comprehensive Measure To Be Offered in Senate Tomorrow

By the Associated Press.

An initial blaze of congressional opposition to President Roosevelt's demand for legislation to stabilize farm prices subsided somewhat today as administration leaders labored over a bill which they hoped would appeal to farm and labor groups alike.

Speaker Rayburn said after a White House conference this morning that he believed new anti-inflation legislation, which Mr. Roosevelt has asked Congress to pass by October 1, should be as general as possible, giving the President the necessary powers to stabilize all factors in the cost of living. Mr. Rayburn added that "probably" the House could meet the October 1 deadline.

House Majority Leader McCormack, who with Speaker Rayburn conferred with Mr. Roosevelt for more than two hours on the legislative prospects, agreed that the resolution should be drafted in general terms.

Rayburn Urges Speed.

Mr. Rayburn said it would be wiser to enact a bill with broad terminology, than to mention specific items such as farm prices or wages, although he said he would have no great objection to their specific inclusion.

The Speaker said, "We're going to try to go along with this thing as fast as we can."

The measure will be discussed by the leaders with Chairman Steagall of the House Banking Committee, who may be asked to introduce it, and with other Banking Committee members. The committee handled the present price control measure.

Chairman Brown of a Senate subcommittee which has handled previous price-control legislation announced earlier that a comprehensive measure would be introduced in the Senate tomorrow and would be taken up by the full banking committee either Friday or Monday.

The Michigan senator, declaring both houses should act promptly and simultaneously on the President's request, said:

"While some may feel that he put the proposition rather bluntly by telling us 'you do it or I will,' and by putting a time limit on a rather slow-moving Congress, it must be remembered that action is vital and vital now."

Price Floors Favored.

There was little apprehension on Capitol Hill that the President would move to stabilize prices by executive order on October 1, provided Congress had made good progress toward that end by the deadline he mentioned.

Allies Open New Drive Against Submarines

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Official circles said today a new Allied anti-submarine campaign was under way, aimed at subjecting each Nazi underwater raider to constant attacks from the surface and air during the whole time it is at sea.

"We must destroy U-boats faster than Germany can commission them," a source said. "We are building up an offensive against the U-boat which we hope will produce the results we want."

He termed fantastic a proposal to divert all shipment of war materials to air freighters as a means of defeating the submarines.

"Certain specialized equipment can and has been transported by air," he said, "but the great bulk of the material must go by ships."

However, the British government has placed orders for cargo-carrying aircraft and a "suitable production program has been arranged," Col. J. J. Llewellin, Minister of Aircraft Production, told Commons.

"With the assistance we hope to get from the United States," he said, "a substantial number of these aircraft should be available."

As Washington residents continue to pile up scrap metal faster than available collection facilities can handle it, the District Salvage Committee announced that a model official salvage depot at Branch road and Alabama avenue S.E. will be dedicated at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The depot, which has been set up by the Hillcrest Citizens' Association under the direction of W. E. Perry, salvage chairman for the area, will serve as one of the District's 670 collection centers for scrap material. Half of the centers are expected to be operating by next Monday, according to Horace Walker, executive secretary of the District Salvage Committee.

Tonight's program, during which Mr. Walker will accept the depot on behalf of the committee from Mr. Perry, will precede a nearby Hillcrest civilian defense area rally.

The depot already has 3 tons of

Henry J. Kaiser Here, Determined to Sell His Cargo Plane Idea

West Coast Shipbuilder Will See Nelson and Other High Officials

Henry J. Kaiser, West Coast shipbuilder, arrived in Washington today, armed with "hope, confidence, facts and figures," intent on convincing War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson and the Army and Navy that he can build giant cargo planes without disturbing the military aircraft program.

Mr. Kaiser was here for a "showdown" with the Government on his plane building idea. His appointment book calls for a number of visits to high officials. Late this afternoon he will see Mr. Nelson.

The shipbuilder emphatically denied that in building big planes he would raid the aircraft industry of either men or materials. He said he would train his own men, and that he had charts to prove scarce raw materials can be obtained from sources yet untapped.

Silent on Type of Plane.

Mr. Kaiser said he was determined to sell his idea to the Government. He did not say what type of cargo planes he now plans to build, whether the Glenn Martin flying boat Mars or the secret craft reportedly being developed by Howard Hughes, famous flyer and designer, with whom Mr. Kaiser recently formed an association.

"The Navy wants cargo planes," Mr. Kaiser said. "The Army and the War Production Board want them. All that I have to sell them is that I am the man to build the planes. Certainly I have proved I can build things."

Pointing out that the armed services and the WPB showed willingness to listen when he was in Washington in early August, Mr. Kaiser added: "I am in a much better position to talk this time—with facts.

"I'm not trying to tell them what their policy is—I will tell them what I can do."

Has Additional Information.

Mr. Kaiser stirred official Washington and the Nation more than a month ago with his plan to build planes in shipyards. Following a whirlwind trip through the Capital,

U. S. Plane Output Already Tops Axis, Patterson Declares

Tank Production to Double in December, Undersecretary Says

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 9.—Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson said today that the Nation's tank production had reached "an impressive figure," and that the Nation turned out more war planes last month than Germany, Japan and Italy combined.

In a speech before the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers' Convention, Mr. Patterson added that tank production would be doubled in December and "we are putting our best efforts into bringing out new planes of designs far superior to any that we have now."

Praising the type of men in the armed forces, their training, equipment and leadership, he declared the Japanese "already know that they blundered when they counted on America being soft, selfish and easy-going."

Says Yanks Can Take It.

"Our soldiers can take it and they can hand it out," he added. "They are men resolved to win this war."

Mr. Patterson said that in speed, range and toughness of armor and hitting power, the United States medium tank, either the M3 or M4, "is superior to the best German tank" as "proved in combat in Egypt."

Combat records, he declared, have proved the Curtiss P-40 Hawks better than the Japanese Zero plane. Performances of American heavy bombers were "impressive" on all battle fronts, the Undersecretary said, and in pursuit ships, the Republic P-47 Thunderbolt was termed "the swiftest plane in the air."

Citing a combat box score from August 1-29, Mr. Patterson said the P-40s shot down 13 Zero and four bombers, with a loss of two P-40s, and the Bell P-39s destroyed 13 Zeros and probably five others, against a loss of four United States planes.

Cites Score in Battle.

"In one engagement alone, on August 23, over Port Darwin, Australia," he added, "47 Japanese

Treasury Asks 2.5-Billion Boost In Income Tax

Proposal Offered As Substitute for 'Victory' Levy

By the Associated Press.

Treasury officials were reported to have urged the Senate Finance Committee today to amend the new revenue bill to increase individual income taxes by $2,500,000,000 yearly instead of writing into the measure a 5 per cent "victory" tax.

Senator Radcliffe, Democrat, of Maryland, said the Treasury officials had submitted three complicated schedules to the committee involving lowering of present income tax exemptions and increases in rates.

The plan apparently most favored by the Treasury, he said, combined rate increases with a reduction in exemptions to $400 for single persons, and $800 for married couples, with $200 credit being allowed for dependents.

Difficult to Administer.

The present law grants exemptions of $750 to single persons, $1,500 for married couples and $400 for dependents. The House voted to lower those to $500 for single persons and $1,200 for married, retaining the $400 credit for dependents. The Senate committee had previously voted to approve the $500 and $1,200 exemptions, but moved to cut the dependency credit to $300.

Senator Radcliffe said Treasury officials objected that the 5 per cent "Victory" tax would be difficult to administer, particularly as to provisions for post-war credits and debt deductions.

As approved yesterday by the committee, an extra levy of 5 per cent to be collected at the source, would be made against the earnings of individuals above a basic exemption of $624 a year. The levy would be calculated to raise approximately $3,500,000,000 yearly, of which $1,100,000,000 would be rebated to taxpayers through credits allowed them at the end of the year.

25 Billion in Revenue.

In approving the tax, the committee directed the Treasury to submit today proposals for combining it with the regular income taxes.

Senator Radcliffe said the Treasury plans involved no post-war rebate or debt credit provisions, the full amount of collections under them to be retained.

Committee members said that whatever the details might be, the net result in any event might be to increase the Nation's annual tax yield to more than $25,000,000,000, compared with slightly more than $17,000,000,000 collected under present laws.

Although the committee had not settled details of the victory tax, wage earners who made more than $12 a week probably would have 5 per cent withheld from their pay checks beginning January 1. Their tax thus would be paid by the end of the year and any credit which they had accumulated by reason of insurance premiums, debt retirement or bond purchases would be transferred as a cash credit against their regular income tax liability.

While the victory tax would be collected alike from single and married persons, the latter could accumulate greater credits against the tax during the year.

Credits of 25 per cent of the tax, or a maximum of $500, could be accumulated by single persons for payments they had made on life insurance, debts incurred before January 1, 1942, or Government bond purchases. The remainder of the unused credit would be represented in non-negotiable, non-interest bearing Government bonds they could cash after the war.

Married persons could claim similar credits up to 40 per cent of the

Stassen and Ball Win Renomination in Minnesota Primary

Mrs. Lundeen Trails Benson for Choice of Farmer-Labor Party

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 9.—Minnesota's Navy-bound Republican Governor, Harold E. Stassen, apparently won renomination in yesterday's Statewide primary, along with Joseph H. Ball, supporter of the administration's foreign policy, whom he named to the United States Senate in 1940.

The man Gov. Stassen backed to carry on "when I leave," Ed Thye, Northfield farmer, led a field of eight men seeking the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor. Gov. Stassen has announced that if re-elected he will report for active duty in the Navy when the Legislature adjourns next April, turning the office over to the Lieutenant Governor.

Former Gov. Elmer Benson, a one time Senator by appointment, was the apparent victor in the race for the Farmer-Labor senatorial nomination, while former Gov. Hjalmar Petersen was leading in the contest for the third party nomination for Governor. Mr. Benson, chairman of the Farmer-Labor Association, and Mr. Petersen headed opposing party slates.

Murphy and Sullivan Unopposed.

Ed Murphy of St. Paul, for Senator, and John D. Sullivan of St. Paul, for Governor, were unopposed for Democratic nominations.

In the Republican gubernatorial contest, 1,195 of the State's 3,708 precincts gave Gov. Stassen 90,592; Martin Nelson, Austin attorney, 45,896; and former Representative John G. Alexander of Minneapolis, 21,450.

For Senator, 1,147 precincts gave Mr. Ball 82,296; Walter K. Mickelson, New Ulm publisher, 45,474; the Rev. Henry Soltau, Minneapolis vice crusader, 19,745; and Harson Northrop of Owatonna, 7,478.

Mr. Thye led 30-year-old Lt. Gov. C. Elmer Anderson, veteran of two terms, on the basis of returns from 1,159 precincts, 68,679 to 49,334.

Mrs. Lundeen Trails.

Mr. Benson led his nearest opponent for the Farmer Labor senatorial nomination, Mrs. Ernest Lundeen, widow of the Senator whose death in 1940 created the vacancy Senator Ball was appointed to fill, 28,301 to 9,636, on the basis of results from 1,184 precincts for the Farmer Labor nomination for governor, Mr. Petersen led Paul Rasmussen, Farmer Labor Association indorse, 26,289 to 18,883, on returns from 1,224 precincts.

Union Upheld by NLRB In ARMCO Complaint

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 9.—The National Labor Relations Board today ordered the Ashland, Ky., plant of the American Rolling Mill Co to cease discouragement of membership in a CIO union, to disestablish an independent employes' group and to reinstate with back pay 21 workers discharged for union activity.

A cease and desist order, announced by Philip G. Phillips, regional director, followed prolonged hearings at Catlettsburg, Ky., into a complaint issued May 31, 1938. Charges which formed the basis of the complaint were filed with the NLRB by the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, (Local 1865, CIO), at Ashland.

Mr. Phillips said that reimbursement to employes under the order would total "many thousands of dollars." The decree, which set aside portions of the complaint alleging discrimination against two men, upheld testimony at the hearings intended to show that ARMCO incited workers against unions other than the "ARMCO plan"; shadowed union employes, searched union records and coerced employes in their right of self-organization.

Applications for WAVES To Be Available Tomorrow

The Navy announced today that beginning tomorrow application blanks for enlisted personnel for the WAVES will be sent to those women who request them by mail from the nearest office of naval officer procurement.

When writing for the blanks, the women should give their age, education, marital status, and, if married, the occupation of the husband and ages of the children, the Navy said.

Candidates for enlistment must be over 20 and under 36 years of age, have no children under 18 years of age, and meet physical qualifications and have either high school diplomas or be business school graduates with experience equivalent to a high school education. The first group of 1,600 enlisted women will be trained at Indiana University, the University of Wisconsin and Oklahoma A. and M. College. All will start their training as apprentice seamen and receive pay and ratings commensurate with their experience and ability at the conclusion of their training.

The pay will be the same as that for men in the same ratings in the Regular Navy.

Two Ex-WPB Aides And 3 Tool Dealers Plead Innocent

Accused of Conspiring To Keep Implements From War Contractors

Two dismissed War Production Board officials and three dealers in machine tools entered pleas of innocent in District Court this afternoon when arraigned on charges of conspiring to prevent critically needed machine tools from being used to produce war materials.

The defendants were Robert B. Rhoads of Indianapolis and Ralph L. Glaser of New Haven, Conn., former chief and assistant chief, respectively, of the Available Used Tools Section of the Tools Branch of WPB; Louis E. Emerman, Chicago tool dealer, and Clarence J. O'Brien and Frank L. O'Brien, jr., Philadelphia tool dealers.

Justice F. Dickinson Letts allowed a request by counsel for two weeks in which to withdraw the pleas and enter such motions as they might wish. All defendants are free on bond.

The two WPB men also entered pleas of innocent to charges of making false claims for traveling expenses.

The five are accused of conspiring to execute a deal which kept 71 tools from being allocated to war contractors for a period of six weeks. Rhoads and Glaser got $15,000 each for their part in the transaction, it was charged. All defendants, according to the indictment, agreed not to report the transaction to the WPB and the Office of Price Administration, as is required.

The WPB men were dismissed August 4 when the alleged fraud was uncovered.

Salmon Won't Be Available To Civilians, WPB Says

Salmon will remain off the civilian market for an indefinite time, the War Production Board announced this afternoon.

An order directed that salmon not purchased by the Government under the terms of a previous order be "refrozen" in the hands of canners "until further notice."

Under the previous order canners have been required to set aside their entire pack of salmon, sardines, Atlantic herring and mackerel for the Government for 60 days. Only salmon is protected by the new order. The other fish may be sold to the public after the 60-day period affecting each packing operation has passed. The ban on salmon affects any packed between March 1, 1942, and February 28, 1943.

'Black Market' Steel Sales Laid to Detroit Operator

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Sept. 9.—The Newbergh Steel Co., operator of a steel warehouse here with Nationwide clientele, was accused in Federal District Court today of "black market" operations in the sale of steel at prices in excess of schedules fixed by the Office of Price Administration.

The charges were contained in a petition to restrain an injunction filed by counsel of the OPA Detroit office. The Higgins Industries, Inc., New Orleans shipbuilder, was named as one of the Newburgh customers.

The company was charged with violating OPA's schedule covering resale and trade of iron and steel products by warehouses, as distinguished from mills.

In addition to price violations, Newburgh was charged with splitting up orders to avoid regulations on shipments, making more than the permitted number of shipments to a single customer in a fortnight without notifying the OPA, and failure to file with OPA a schedule of its prices circulated among salesmen and customers.

Col. Frank B. Goettge, Football Great, Missing

Col. Frank B. Goettge, one of the Nation's football greats of all times, is missing in action in the Pacific war zone, the Navy Department has announced.

The wife of the Marine Corps officer has been officially notified by the Navy Department at her home in Newbern, N. C.

Col. Goettge in World War I earned the reputation as the greatest football player ever developed in the Marines. He was fullback on the renowned team that represented the 2d Division of the A. E. F., playing beside Harry Legore of Yale, Bill Moore of Princeton and Vandegraff of Alabama.

One of his unforgettable games was in Coblenz, Germany, in 1919 against the 4th Division team. Second Division led, 7 to 3, at half time and the Marines staged a snake dance that turned into a free-for-all, with five Devil Dogs leaving on stretchers. In the last few minutes of the game 4th Division won, 10 to 7.

Col. Goettge was born in Canton, Ohio, and entered the Marine Corps in 1917 when he was a freshman at the University of Ohio. He served with the 5th Marines in the Argonne.

He married Mrs. Arthur Hallett Page, widow of Capt. Page of the Marine Corps. In 1930, as a captain, he was appointed aide to the commandant of the Marine Corps and aide at the White House.

Grand Jury Will Probe Alleged Spy Activities

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9. — A grand jury was sworn in today to investigate alleged spy activities by Germans, Italians and Japanese in Eastern Pennsylvania.

Federal Attorney Gerald A. Gleason said the jurors would consider evidence with "national and international ramifications, all pertaining to our national security." He estimated the jury would be in session six months.

or obstructionism," declared Representative Fish. "It is the duty of the Democratic Congress to exert every possible legislative power to protect the American people • • • from the tragic effect of inflation."

Representative Fish referred to the President's message as an "ultimatum" and said the Chief Executive "could have exerted his influence in other ways than by threats of invoking war powers beyond his constitutional authority."

Representative Taber accused the President of lacking "the courage to ask us" to fix ceilings on wages at the same time farm prices were controlled.

"If the American farmers can help it," commented Representative Rankin, Democrat of Mississippi, "you're not going to destroy the American farmer by raising wages and keeping farm prices down."

Representative Mason, Republican of Illinois, accused the President of blaming Congress for the failure of the original price control act which he said the Administration sponsored.

10½ Shipping Tons Needed To Carry Soldier

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—It takes 10½ shipping tons to bring one American soldier to Britain and one and a half shipping tons a month to maintain him here, Brig. Gen. Littlejohn, United States Army Quartermaster Corps, disclosed at a press conference today detailing the magnitude of operating the vital supply line to American forces.

"Shipping must win this war," he declared.

Gen. Littlejohn explained that the Army "A" ration weighs 6¼ pounds per man per day, aggregating about 200 pounds a month for each individual.

The job of supplying this is being helped considerably by British surpluses—such as potatoes, carrots, cabbage, beets, turnips and plums—which are being furnished on a reciprocal lease-lend arrangement, he said.

SCENES OF AMERICANS' MIDWAY VICTORY—A general view of the damage done on Midway Island early in June, before the Japanese raiders were beaten off. In the distance smoke rises from a fire set by a Jap dive bomber. Damage inflicted was described as serious but "not disabling." The building in foreground was shattered by carrier-based planes.

Ellender Is Returned To Seat in Senate By Big Majority

Louisiana Primary Results Interpreted as Sign of Long Machine Comeback

By the Associated Press.

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 9.—Senator Ellender, a close political ally of the late Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana, was returned to the Senate by a sweeping majority in yesterday's Democratic primary.

Senator Ellender, backed by the old regular faction of New Orleans under Mayor Robert S. Maestri, stacked up 146,129 votes to 65,798 for E. A. Stephens, New Orleans automobile dealer, on the basis of unofficial returns from 1,118 of the 1,842 precincts. Nomination is tantamount to election.

Political observers interpreted the vote as a signal for a comeback of the old Long machine. Mr. Stephens had been a political ally of Gov. Sam H. Jones, who defeated the Long machine two years ago. Gov. Jones did not enter the campaign, however.

Representatives Brooks and Allen were renominated without opposition in the 4th and 8th districts, respectively. Representative Hebert defeated three candidates in the 1st district (New Orleans) by better than a 4-to-1 lead.

In the 2d district (New Orleans) a runoff may be needed to decide the race between Representative Boggs and former Representative Paul H. Maloney, who had machine backing.

Representative Domengeaux led three other candidates in the 3d district with a runoff a faint possibility. Representative Mills had a small lead in the 5th, but probably will face a runoff with Charles McKenzie of Monroe. Representative Sanders trailed James H. Morrison in the 6th with a runoff likely and in the 7th, where Representative Plauche retired, former Conservation Commissioner Joseph L. McHugh led five other candidates with a runoff certain.

Plumley Appears Certain Of Victory in Vermont

By the Associated Press.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Sept. 9.—Representative Plumley, Republican, appeared sure today of returning to Vermont's one seat in the House on the basis of his topheavy victory yesterday in the only State-wide contest in an ultra-quiet State primary.

Unofficial returns from all of Vermont's 246 cities and towns gave Mr. Plumley 20,065 votes to 10,789 for Samuel R. Ogden, 46, war veteran, architect, and former State legislator.

The Republican nomination for a top State-wide office in Vermont long has been tantamount to election, but the primary vote was the lightest in years.

Mr. Plumley will be opposed in the November elections by John B. Candon, who was unopposed for the Democratic congressional nomination. Mr. Plumley defeated Mr. Candon in 1936.

Laney Increases Lead Slightly Over Williams

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 9.—Senator George K. Laney gained a slight lead over Ransome J. Williams today in the race for Lieutenant Governor as returns continued to come in from yesterday's Democratic second primary.

Mr. Laney, 70-year-old veteran legislator and prohibition advocate, held a margin of 439 votes in unofficial returns from 1,314 of the State's 1,535 precincts. Mr. Laney had 68,299 and Mr. Williams, 50-year-old former Mayor of Mullins and former State Representative, 67,860, with 221 precincts still to be heard from.

Unofficial returns gave E. C. Rhodes 80,537 votes, against 54,297 for D. A. Smith for controller general, with 1,299 precincts reporting.

Gov. Talmadge and Arnall Both Confident of Victory

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Sept. 9.—Gov. Eugene Talmadge, centering much of his campaign on white supremacy and State finances, bid for a fourth term as Georgia's chief executive today in a Democratic primary.

Opposing the 57-year-old farmer-lawyer was 35-year-old State Attorney General Ellis Arnall.

Both sides claimed victory. Mr. Arnall said he would concede Talmadge only the possibility of carrying 2 of the State's 159 counties. Talmadge's aides predicted renomination of the Governor by a "huge majority."

Five of the State's 10 Representatives were opposed, but most interest centered in the 5th (Atlanta) district race of House Whip Ramspeck, who faced Jere Wells and J. E. B. Stewart. The latter stressed Mr. Ramspeck's authorship of the repealed pensions-for-Congress bill.

4 House Democrats From Washington Sure of Renomination

Representative Smith Seriously Threatened but Is Pulling Ahead

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Sept. 9.—Four of Washington's five Democratic House members were assured of renomination today.

Criticism of isolationist votes before Pearl Harbor figured in three of the contests in yesterday's primary election.

Representative Smith was the only incumbent who faced a serious threat, and he was pulling ahead in early returns today after having trailed in compilation for several hours last night. Mr. Smith's challenger was Cecil Callison, 39, Chehalis businessman, who campaigned against Mr. Smith's voting record against the Roosevelt administration policies before United States entry into the war.

Dill's Bid Successful.

On returns from 261 out of 560 precincts in the 3d congressional district, Mr. Smith had 6,667 votes to Mr. Callison's 6,222.

Another highlight of yesterday's primary was the successful bid of former Senator Dill for the 5th district seat in the House that he held during the World War. Several years later he was elected to the Senate, in which he served two terms before his retirement in 1934.

Mr. Dill amassed 7,537 votes from 305 out of 511 precincts in the district to 3,930 for State Senator Joseph Drumheller.

Coffee and Hill Win.

The other two House members who triumphed over candidates who assailed their votes against President Roosevelt's policies in international affairs before Pearl Harbor were Representative Coffee and Representative Hill.

Mr. Coffee won over State Senator Leo McGavick in the 6th district, while Mr. Hill ran up a 2-to-1 margin, on the basis of 329 of 498 precincts in the 4th congressional district, over Frank T. Bell, former United States Commissioner of Fisheries.

Representative Magnuson won a sweeping victory in the 1st district and Representative Jackson was unopposed in the 2d district.

Arkansas Republicans Won't Offer Ticket

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 9.—Arkansas' November general election ballot this year will be without a Republican nominee for State or district office.

Wallace Townsend, Republican national committeeman for Arkansas, announced the GOP State Committee had decided to send its money to doubtful States instead of conducting a campaign in the overwhelmingly Democratic State.

Mr. Townsend said similar action had been taken in 1918 and one other time since.

Stassen and Ball Hold Substantial Leads In Minnesota Race

Mrs. Lundeen Trails Benson for Nomination In Farmer-Labor Party

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 9.—A Governor headed for the Navy early in 1943 and two men he sponsored politically amassed substantial leads for Republican nominations in yesterday's Minnesota primary on the basis of incomplete unofficial returns.

Gov. Harold Stassen, 35-year-old, two-term Governor, who has announced he will report for active duty in the Navy next April at the end of the legislative session, was well ahead today for the nomination for Governor.

Senator Ball, former St. Paul newspaper reporter, whom Gov. Stassen appointed to the Senate in 1940, led a field of three for the senatorial nomination, and Ed Thye, Northfield farmer who was backed by Gov. Stassen to carry on "when I leave," was in the van in a field of eight seeking the lieutenant governorship nomination.

Benson Leads in Race.

In the Farmer-Labor column, former Gov. Elmer Benson, who also had served a short time in the Senate by appointment, led the field for his party's senatorial nomination. Former Gov. Hjalmar Petersen, heading a faction contesting with the Farmer-Labor Association Mr. Benson heads for control of the party, held a lead over other candidates for the third party nomination for Governor.

Democratic candidates for major office, headed by Ed Murphy of St. Paul for Senator and John D. Sullivan of St. Paul for Governor, were without primary opposition.

Returns from 721 of the State's 3,708 precincts gave Gov. Stassen 60,164; Martin Nelson, Austin attorney, 35,264, and former Representative John G. Alexander of Minneapolis, 14,471.

In the Republican senatorial contest, results from 672 precincts gave Senator Ball, a consistent supporter of administration foreign policy, 54,058; Walter K. Mickelson, New Ulm publisher and former secretary to Senator Shipstead, Minnesota Republican, 27,431; the Rev. Henry Soltau, Minneapolis vice crusader, 12,160, and Harson Northrop, Owatonna, 4,787.

Mrs. Lundeen Trails.

Thye led his nearest opponent, Lt. Gov. C. Elmer Anderson, 30-year-old veteran of two terms, 37,986 to 27,394.

Mr. Benson's nearest opponent was Mrs. Ernest Lundeen, widow of the Senator who was killed in an airplane crash in 1940. Senator Ball was named to fill out Senator Lundeen's unexpired term. Returns from 648 precincts gave Mr. Benson 18,778 and Mrs. Lundeen 6,337.

Mr. Petersen led Paul Rasmussen, Farmer-Labor Association indorsee, 17,228 to 13,042 on the basis of returns from 526 precincts for Governor.

Eight of the State's nine Representatives, all Republicans, were seeking renomination and only one, Representative Youngdahl of the fifth (Minneapolis) district, was behind. Dr. Walter Judd, former medical missionary to China, led him, 22,488 to 16,008 on the basis of returns from 160 of the district's 229 precincts.

In the sixth district, Representative Knutson had 3,829 votes to 2,951 for Fred J. Hughes in returns from 112 of 572 precincts.

All the others apparently had comfortable margins.

Buck and Townsend Delaware Candidates

By the Associated Press.

DOVER, Del., Sept. 9.—Former Gov. C. Douglass Buck and former Senator John G. Townsend were the only known possibilities for nomination for the Senate today as Delaware Republicans convened to name candidates for Federal and State offices.

Mr. Buck headed a slate which some party leaders said would include Secretary of State Earle D. Willey of Dover for Representative. Mr. Townsend had not sought the senatorial nomination actively, but said he would run if chosen.

Deleware Democrats last week nominated H. Ennals Berl, Wilmington attorney, for the Senate. Mr. Berl defeated Senator Hughes.

Arizona Democrats Nominate Murdock For Fourth Term

Harless Holds Lead For State's New Seat In House Next Year

By the Associated Press.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 9.—Arizona Democrats nominated Representative Murdock for a fourth term in Congress in yesterday's primary and appeared to have designated Richard F. Harless, 37-year-old Maricopa County attorney, for the State's new seat.

The State will have two members in the House in 1943 for the first time and, because the Legislature failed to create districts, both will be elected at large.

Murdock Leads in 11 Counties.

While 18 Democrats, two of them women, scrambled for the two Democratic nominations, Republicans, outnumbered 7 to 1 in registrations, had no candidates in the primary. Through a write-in campaign, two lawyers, George Darnell of Tucson and Joseph S. Jenckes, jr., of Phoenix, will carry the Republican banner in the general election.

Mr. Murdock, a college professor before he went to Washington, led in 11 of the 14 counties, running on his record. Mr. Harless, native Texan, piled up a big vote in his home county, largest in the State, and held a 2,700-vote lead over the third high candidate with returns complete from 163 precincts and incomplete from 183 of 446.

Osborn Nominated.

A graduate of the University of Arizona, Mr. Harless was assistant attorney general before his election as county attorney. He promises to "keep foreign 'isms' out of America" and to "protect the average man's security."

Gov. Sidney P. Osborn was nominated for a second term by a majority over his three opponents, who included former Gov. Bob Jones, unseated by Gov. Osborn in 1940.

Another ex-Governor, R. C. Stanford, defeated Chief Justice Alfred C. Lockwood of the State Supreme Court, who had served on the high tribunal 19 years.

Johnson Leads, 3 to 2, In Primary Race for Colorado Senator

Democratic Incumbent Opposed in Contest by Justice Hilliard

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Sept. 9.—Senator Johnson, who backed Senator Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, as a presidential candidate in 1940, ran up a 3-to-2 lead today in his Democratic senatorial nomination race with Justice Benjamin C. Hilliard of the State Supreme Court.

Justice Hilliard, 74, who voted in the House against United States entry into the World War, charged in the campaign that Senator Johnson was a pre-Pearl Harbor isolationist and urged unstinting support of President Roosevelt in prosecuting the war.

Returns from 1,242 of 1,669 precincts in yesterday's primary, gave Johnson 30,521 and Hilliard 20,975.

Making no reply to Justice Hilliard's criticism, Senator Johnson remained in Washington, declaring he was "too busy helping Franklin win the war" to make any campaign. Senator Johnson sponsored in the Senate legislation boosting pay of servicemen.

Gov. Ralph L. Carr won the Republican senatorial nomination without contest.

Nominees for four Colorado House seats and for a Senate vacancy created by the death of Alva B. Adams, Democrat, were unopposed.

Senator Millikin, Republican serving an interim appointment in Senator Adams' seat, and James Marsh, Denver Democrat, will contend for the short term in November.

Four Incumbents Renominated.

Their November opponents will be Olaf Jacobson, Denver Republican; Fred Cummins, former Democratic member of the House; J. C. Jarrett, Colorado Springs attorney, and Mrs. Elizabeth Pellett, Rico mining man's wife and former stage and silent screen actress.

Both Democratic and Republican governorship races were close. State Treasurer Homer E. Bedford and State Senator Moses E. Smith of Ault were contesting for the Democratic place and Lt. Gov. John C. Vivian and State Auditor Charles M. Armstrong for the Republican designation.

Youths Find Man Suffocated by Fire; Dog, Canary Also Die

Mattress Discovered Smoldering in Basement Of Photographer's Home

Charles S. Goetz, about 48, and his collie dog, Mickey, a neighborhood favorite, died of suffocation in a fire of undetermined origin at his home at 413 Farragut street N.W. early today.

Two colored youths employed at Mr. Goetz' photo studio at 819 Thirteenth street N.W., becoming suspicious when their employer failed to show up this morning, went to his home to investigate and found the bodies, police said.

The youths, William Knight, 15, of 2105 Fifth street N.W., and Robert Goff, 18, of 31 L street N.W., told police they saw smoke in the lower floor rooms when they peered through a window. Prying off a kitchen screen, Knight went to the second floor front bedroom and found Mr. Goetz in bed. On window was partly opened. At the foot of the window sill lay the body of Mickey.

The Goff youth, meanwhile, located a smoldering mattress in the basement. The two youths telephoned police and the Fire Department. Police from the 6th precinct headed by Sergt. R. A. Burton, summoned Dr. John L. De Mayo of 5039 Kansas avenue N.W., Mr. Goetz' personal physician, who pronounced Mr. Goetz dead.

Cigarette stubs were sprayed on the basement floor near a daybed. Police surmised that the fire started there and that Mr. Goetz was asphyxiated by smoke. A pet canary in a cage in the dining room also was suffocated.

Mr. Goetz was alone, his wife, Mrs. Anna Goetz, having gone to Long Island, N. Y., on a vacation, police said.

Petrillo Reported Banning Electrical Transcriptions

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The National Association of Broadcasters said yesterday that James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, had broadened his ban on canned music by revoking union permits to make electrical transcriptions which are used once in broadcasts, then destroyed.

The association declared in a statement, adopted at a meeting to consider the action, that it was "another act of aggression against wartime morale and communications in the United States."

"Mr. Petrillo's action," the statement said, "is motivated only by the desire to make his dictatorship over the field of music all-inclusive."

The Petrillo union called the original ban on the making of canned music August 1 in what it termed an effort to obtain more work for its 300,000 members, many of whom it said were unemployed because of the use of recordings in broadcasts and juke boxes.

Florida Flyer, Hero Of Fortress Battle, Is Given DSC

Co-Pilot Dead, Pilot Hurt, Bombardier Landed Big Craft Safely

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Maj. Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander in chief of United States Army Air Forces in the European theater, awarded the Distinguished Service Cross today to Edward E. Sconiers, 26, of De Funiak Springs, Fla., and promoted him from second to first lieutenant for "extraordinary heroism during a fortress battle with F-W 190s over the North Sea."

The slight young bombardier was one of the heroes of a great sky battle in which flying fortresses shot down 12 German fighters although outnumbered 5 to 1.

"We were in tail-end formation," he related last August 22, "when we were jumped by about 25 F-W 190s and ME-109s at over 20,000 feet. They set up a decoy out to our right . . . over the intercommunicating system I heard the waist gunner shout, 'Here come three more from above.'

"Then we got hell. I heard a thud in the pilot's cabin and heard the pilot grunt and ask me to come up."

While the Fotrress remained unwavering in her flight, Lt. Sconiers found the co-pilot killed by a cannon shell which also incapacitated the pilot.

Although he had washed out of flying school and never had piloted a Fortress Lt. Sconiers took the controls and brought the big ship back safely with two of its four motors riddled by German bullets.

Paper Mill Power Cut Opposed by Canadians

THOROLD, Ont., Sept. 9 (Canadian Press).—A mass meeting of 1,000 men and women of this area interested in continued operation of the Ontario Paper Co.'s mill and other local pulp and paper mills agreed last night to continue to oppose any curtailment of the industry through restrictions on power, at least until all types of luxury lighting have been abolished.

The Ontario Paper Co. is owned by the Chicago Tribune-New York Daily News.

The meeting, called to protest recent reduction in the electric power supply to the Ontario paper mill, was presided over by Harvey Raymond of St. Catharines, representative of the Papermakers' Union.

Some speakers criticized Federal Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell for failing to accept an invitation to attend the meeting, and a second invitation was extended to him to attend another meeting at the earliest possible date.

Dominating Heights West of Stalingrad Taken, Nazis Claim

Air Fields East of Volga And in City Itself Declared Bombed

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Sept. 9.—The German high command announced today that dominating heights in the fortified area west of Stalingrad had been captured by German forces after bitter fighting.

German tanks led the way into the fortified zone despite a stubborn defense by the Russians, the German communique said. During the night, it was reported, Russian airfields east of the Volga and in Stalingrad itself were bombed by German planes.

More than 1,000 prisoners were reported captured along with 27 guns and an armored train in the capture of a height southeast of the naval base of Novorossisk. German bombers, it was said, sank a 500-ton transport in the Black Sea.

The communique said 2,126 Russian tanks were destroyed in the Rzhev area from July 30 to September 6.

On Tuesday, the communique said, 132 Russian planes were destroyed. Four German planes were reported lost.

The war bulletin said new Russian attacks southwest of Kaluga, 100 miles southwest of Moscow, had been repulsed. Other Red Army thrusts on the Leningrad front also were said to have been beaten off.

Kill One Jap Soldier Apiece, MacArthur Admonishes Men

By the Associated Press.

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Sept. 9.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur told United States troops in the field today that all he asked of them in action was that they kill one Japanese apiece.

The general talked at length to officers on the fighting qualities of the enemy they will meet eventually and counselled them to remember Napoleon's admonition that a soldier must never surrender except when he is unable to deliver any stroke against his enemy.

As long as he had power to injure his enemy, even though he knew he was going to be defeated or destroyed locally, he must strike, Gen. MacArthur said, because in that way he helped his comrades on some other front.

Gen. MacArthur described the Japanese soldier as a hard fighter who fought courageously and intelligently and who gave no quarter and asked no quarter.

Japanese tactics, he said, were to disperse along their enemy's lines rapidly in groups of never more than 1,000, often half that number, keep pushing in until they found the enemy and then hit him.

He called the Japanese the greatest exploiters of inefficient, incompetent troops the world has ever seen. When the Japanese met such troops nothing could stop them, the general said, but good troops could.

He advised the Americans never to let the Japanese attack them, but to make it a fundamental, whatever their position might be, to be prepared to attack.

Henderson Promises To Crack Down on Price Violators

Warns That Ignorance No Longer Can Excuse Evasion of Control

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Price Administrator Leon Henderson yesterday warned that "ignorance" no longer could be an excuse for price control evasions and promised to crack down on violators who "apparently" had gone unpunished.

Mr. Henderson, speaking at the convention of the Research Institute of America and the Sales Executive Club of New York, said:

"Every wilful violator of price regulations, every landlord who seeks to evade rent control, every trader in black markets of goods under rationing or under limitation—whatever his motive or station—challenges the war effort of the nation.

Pledges Rigid Enforcement.

"To the limit of our ability we in the Office of Price Administration will meet that challenge. • • • We propose to enforce price regulations wherever it is necessary to enforce them—and to enforce them to the hilt."

Mr. Henderson, supporting President Roosevelt's Labor Day warning to Congress that farm prices and wages must be stabilized, said:

"All of you, I'm sure, agree with me that such action directed at farm prices and wages was inevitable. Pending before Congress is the new tax bill which extends further control over fattening corporate profits. That, too, I trust you will agree, is a most necessary weapon. All three were—and are—essential to keeping our economic balance.

New Drive on Prices.

"The only real question has concerned the mechanics to be used to achieve that end. The President has offered a choice. We now begin a new offensive in the fight against inflation and for stability."

Mr. Henderson said the ceilings now effective have saved the Government billions of dollars on war contracts and the consumers more billions on their cost-of-living items.

"We face," he said, "an increasing menace to our whole society if prices, wages and profits are not held in balance and under certain restraints straight across the board."

Urging American consumers not to patronize gasoline or tire bootleggers or merchants who fail to comply with price regulations, Henderson stressed the need for willingness to make sacrifices on the economic homefront. He added:

"We're still living pretty much on the fat of the land with all that implies. What sacrifices have we made who have sent no son, no father, no brother or sweetheart to war?

"Is there sacrifice involved in a national income of $113,000,000,000, a 400 per cent increase in profits, 71 per cent increases in wages and 70 per cent increases in farm income? No. I think not. We have little cause to complain about what the war has done to most of us here at home."

Farm Bureau Head Urges Stabilization of Wages

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, contended yesterday that all wages, as well as farm and industrial prices, should be stabilized to prevent inflation.

He asserted no pay ceiling legislation had been enacted by Congress because of "administration opposition," and added:

"Uncontrolled wages are the most threatening factor in the possibilities for inflation, and farm prices are only a minor factor. • • • Farm prices in June of this year were 151 per cent of the base period, 1909-1914.

In a statement evoked by President Roosevelt's radio address Monday night, Mr. O'Neal said his organization favored stabilizing agriculture on a basis of parity with labor and industry to insure maximum production, but he maintained "wages are far higher, relatively, than farm prices."

Man Indicted on Charge Of Attempted Assault

According to police, the woman awakened to find her assailant standing over her with a bottle. When she screamed, he struck her and fled, police stated.

The jury also indicted Louis R. Brooks, colored, on a first-degree murder charge in the slaying of Ralph D. Brown of the 200 block of B street S.W. on August 18. Police said Brown was slain with a shotgun in front of Brooks' house in the 200 block of South street S.W.

Others indicted by the jury included:

John W. Proctor and William S. Kegley, non-support of wife and minor child; Robert Payne, John T. Deans and Warren Anderson, grand larceny; John W. Dottellis and William E. Stevens, grand larceny, joy riding and theft of auto accessories; Charles M. Jackson, Leon C. Wright, Clarence Atkins, James W. Jones, James E. Perry, Wallace Brown, jr., and Chase L. Gibson, joy riding; Edwin S. Walker and Sammy Robinson, theft of auto accessories; Sylvester L. Gray, Henry Burgess, Clarence Blackwell and Samuel Papich, housebreaking and larceny; Hubert L. Nichols, robbery and joy riding.

Roland H. Gudger, Clarence E. Tate, Richard D. Thomas, Edward Wiggins, Clarence Smith and Lee Marbury, robbery; Robert Wortham, Julia Sistare, Eva N. Pollard, John King, John E. Hunter, Hallie G. Bowler, Malvine Graham and Joe Keith, assault with a dangerous weapon; William Adams, John Brown, Mandy Powell, William M. Potts, Albert Marshall and Sidney Foster, violation of Harrison Narcotic Act and the Narcotic Drugs Import and Export Act; Albert Castelli, forgery and uttering; James J. Campbell, violation of Selective Service Act; Clarence W. Revells, Bertha G. Revells, Thomas Richmond, Peter J. Petroutsa, Dorothy D. Pretlow, Hattie L. Carter, William Brown and Joseph H. Fleece, violation of gaming laws.

'Just Like Shooting Squirrels,' Says Flyer Who Hit F-W 190

Germans Tried to Stop Them at All Costs In Rotterdam Raid, Americans Report

By WES GALLAGHER,
Associated Press War Correspondent.

WITH THE UNITED STATES AIR FORCES FLYING FORTRESS COMMAND SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 9.—"Just like shooting squirrels back in Arkansas."

That's what Tail Gunner Sergt. Felix Trice, 21, of Stuttgart, Ark., said of shooting down one of the famed Goering squadron's yellow nosed Focke-Wulf 190s Monday during the Flying Fortress raid on Rotterdam.

Col. Frank A. Armstrong, commander of the Fortress squadrons, who has led six of their raids personally, said the German fighters made futile "suicide attempts" Sunday and Monday to halt the big bombers' string of successful raids.

"I had to pull out of line to keep one from ramming me when we bombed the aircraft factory at Meaulte," Col. Armstrong said.

"They tried to stop us at all costs. Fighters sprang up from everywhere like mushrooms when we crossed the coast . . . They sent about 150 up—100 at our fighter escort and 50 at us."

Approached Within 175 Yards.

The next day, when the Fortresses encountered the Focke-Wulf squadron again on the Rotterdam raid, Sergt. Trice was credited with bagging the only F-W 190 he has had a chance to shoot at in eight flights over Occupied Europe.

"He came up to about 175 yards and I just let him have it," the young gunner said. "It wasn't even as exciting as the time I shot my first squarrel back in Arkansas."

Upper Turret Gunner Sergt. Christy Faith, 23, of Hagerstown, Md., who also shot down an F-W 190, said:

"I let fly and he burst into flames and went down in a spin."

Waist Gunner Sergt. Melvin Bahnmiller, 22, of Ann Arbor, Mich., could not share his flying mates' views. His hand froze when he had to change his oxygen mask and he could not operate his gun.

"I just sat there and watched them come in, thinking 'now we're going to get it,'" he said. "Finally I got so mad I just took the frozen hand and gave the gun a bang and it started working."

Looked as Big as House.

First Lt. Edward R. Neff, Marathon, Fla., a co-pilot, chimed in:

"I'll never forget that first yellow nose that attacked. I looked back and its cowling looked as big as a house.

"Cannon fire was popping right in front of us and when one of those things land in the cockpit it's kind of tough."

One reason given by the airmen for the Nazis' losses in the Monday raid, when a small Fortress formation shot down 12 German fighters, was that the enemy was desperate to knock down at least one plane.

"They came in so close you could knock them off with a baseball bat," declared First Lt. Clarence Thacher, 24, of Kissimmee, Fla., pilot of the "Kissy-Me-Cowboy" credited with five "probables."

Getting Into Their Hair.

Maj. Paul Tibbetts, 23, of Miami, Fla., pilot veteran of five Fortress flights, also believed that the German fighters had been ordered to halt the raids at all costs.

"We are getting into their hair," he said. "They sure put the heat on and its getting tougher each time over, but if we see them first they cannot hurt us.

"If I had to attack a Fortress I wouldn't know how to do it. Over Rotterdam we were attacked for 10 minutes, but took evasive action all over the sky and they didn't put one in us."

In the earlier Le Trait raid two motors of Maj. Tibbetts' plane were shot up and a cannon shell from an F-W 190 burst in the cockpit, but he brought his plane home.

Col. Armstrong said one of the Fortresses came back safely with more than 180 machine-gun and shell fragment holess in her and "the Germans must be beginning to wonder what's keeping our planes up in the air."

FORT DES MOINES, Iowa.—On alternate morns, cussin' the bugler here is strickly unsoldierly—the bugler is a lady.

When WAAC Donna Mae Baldenecker, 22, of St. Paul Park, Minn., a trumpet player of some eight years' tooting experience, sounded off with reveille, it was the first time in history a woman routed the Fort Des Moines Army post out of its bunks.

With almost all of the Army calls on the tip of her tongue already, Miss Baldenecker will do the honors every other day.

NEWARK, OHIO.—BOMBER CRASHES INTO APARTMENT—An Army bomber bounced off a house and smashed into this apartment in downtown Newark yesterday, killing nine persons. The plane's gasoline tank dropped into the basement of this building and exploded.

Army Bomber Crash In Ohio City Costs Lives of Nine

Four Officers, Two Men, Two Women Victims as Plane Hits Homes, Burns

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, Ohio, Sept. 9.—The midday crash of a twin-motored Army bomber into an apartment building yesterday killed nine persons—six occupants of the plane, two woman civilians and an unidentified person.

City firemen, directed by Army officers investigating the accident, early today found the body of Mrs. A. L. Weston, 62-year-old widow, deep under debris of the two-story structure which she owned. Mrs. Dollie Campbell, returning from a shopping trip, was killed while walking by the building.

Salvage workers also removed from wreckage the bodies of two of the plane's occupants, Lt. Russell E. Newlin, 30, of Indianapolis, and O. A. Pecon of Dayton, Ohio, civilian crew chief at Wright Field. The ninth body was found this morning.

One wing broken, the bomber hedge-hopped over Newark's business district yesterday noon, damaged a residence and struck the Weston Building, which was demolished as a gasoline tank ripped loose from the plane and exploded. Seconds earlier, two men leaped from the low-flying bomber and plummeted to death when their parachutes failed to open.

At Wright Field, Dayton, where the ship took off, its occupants were identified as Col. Douglas M. Kilpatrick 33, of Houma, La., pilot; Lt. Lawrence S. Lawver, 29, of Freeport, Ill., co-pilot; Pvt. Charles Watson and Corpl. R. A. Arens, 21, both of Dayton; Lt. Newlin and Mr. Pecon.

The dead:

Lt. William P. Newby, 22, San Jose, Calif.

Lt. Oscar W. Tredmore, 27, Franklin, Ohio.

Cadet Gerald F. McKenna, 20, Pittsburgh.

Pvt. Vernon T. McKelvey, 30, Fort Cobb, Ohio.

Son of Nazi Officer Enlists in U. S. Army

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Henry Douglas Temple, whose father is an officer in the German Army, learned yesterday that the Army had accepted him as a volunteer on his second try since Pearl Harbor.

"I'm going to fight them all—my father and the whole Nazi gang," he said. "I'm going back to Germany—this time with the American Army."

The young German refugee, who Americanized his name from Heintz Emil Tempel, told how he and his mother were forced to leave the Saar in 1937 because she was Jewish. He also told how his mother's brother was arrested by the Nazis and his ashes sent home several weeks later. "With people like that," he said "what can you do but fight?"

Kansas City Butchers Strike for More Pay

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 9.—Six hundred butchers struck today at all chain stores and most independent retail groceries in the city.

Their unanimous vote, cast at a meeting of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers Union last night, followed prolonged negotiations for a wage increase approximating $5 a week, Union Secretary Howard P. Root said.

Managers of the meat departments will be permitted to sell meat as usual, to keep the fresh cuts from spoiling, Mr. Root added.

Fall of Stalingrad Near, Jap Observers Assert

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The Tokio radio quoted Japanese military observers last night as saying the fall of Stalingrad was imminent and that "an epochal degeneration of Soviet fighting power will follow."

This comment on the Russian situation was one of the few ever relayed by Domei in broadcasts outside Japan, and it came at a time when rumors circulated in Chungking, China, that a Japanese attack on Russian Siberia was expected soon following Moscow's reported rejection of recent "suggestions" from Tokio.

Several weeks ago the Tokio radio quoted Japanese newspapers to the effect that the Japanese themselves should not overlook possible opportunities in connection with the Nazi drive into Russia.

A Japanese attack on Siberia has been expected by many as soon as Berlin persuades Tokio that Russia is tottering or, what is much more likely, when Japanese militarists arrive at the same independent conclusion.

The Tokio radio said it was "extremely doubtful whether Marshal Semeon Timoshenko will be able to move his main forces to Saratov and the Ural regions which are considered the Soviet second line of defense."

Davis Seen Revising American Short-Wave Propaganda Policy

OWI Chief Calls Parley Of Allied Officials After Reports of Criticism

By BLAIR BOLLES.

Complete revision of the American shortwave radio propaganda for foreign reception in order to gear it to the coming Allied offensive was in prospect today as Elmer Davis, chief of the Office of War Information, met here with the public relations representatives of the Asiatic and European governments in the United Nations.

The Fighting French were invited to send a representative to the meeting. This marks the first time the views of this organization have been solicited by the American Government about the nature of the messages which the United States should beam to France, which many persons believe may be the avenue for Allied invasion of Europe.

The meeting was called after Mr. Davis had received a considerable number of confidential reports from Allied governments criticizing the conduct of the American shortwave policy and the policy's execution. The principal criticism was that the policy reflected lack of understanding of the psychology of the listeners and lack of understanding of the issues inside German - occupied Europe.

Sherwood Directs Branch.

Robert E. Sherwood, cheif of the overseas branch of the OWI, who is in charge of short-wave programs, sat in at the meeting. Mr. Davis arranged the conference after Joseph Barnes, administrative chief of the official short-wave agency, had been sent abroad with Wendell Willkie.

Harold Butler, British Minister, who is supervisor of British publicity in the United States, also attended the meeting.

The overseas branch has been trying to gear its programs to those of the British Broadcasting Corp. The United States Government broadcasts over long wave from London every night because continental listeners can pick up the programs better on long-wave sets than short wave.

Davis Seeks Co-operation.

The American shortwave propaganda programs are now divided between the Government and private interests. General Electric, Columbia Broadcasting System, National Broadcasting Co., the Worldwide Radio Foundation and other private broadcasters are active in the field, preparing their own programs.

The meeting today reflects Mr. Davis' efforts to effect close public relations co-operation between the United States and the other United Nations. The OWI has assumed a major place in the conduct of the Inter-Allied Information Center, which is a clearing house for news about this country's collaborators in the fight against the Axis.

Broadcasts to Central and South America are in the hands of the Office of the Co-ordinator of Inter-American Affairs. The OWI has nothing to do with them.

Railroad Employe Injured

James B. Johnson, 51, a freight car inspector of 1146 Abbey place N.E., was in Casualty Hospital today with a fractured skull. Police reported that he was found unconscious and bleeding in the Baltimore & Ohio freight yards near Fifth and T streets N.E. yesterday. Railroad authorities are investigating.

Prices

which pointed toward controlling industrial wages as well as the levels for farm crops.

Agreeing with the President that floors were as desirable as ceilings for farm prices, the Michigan Senator said they probably would be included in the program. The proposed bill would call for repeal of section 3 of the Price Control Act, which provides that price ceilings on farm products may not be set at less than 110 per cent of parity, or the market price as of last October 1, last December 15, or the average price from 1919 to 1929, whichever is highest.

(Parity is a level calculated to give the farmer income equivalent to that in a past favorable period, in most cases 1909-14.)

Directive on Wages Seen.

Senator Brown indicated the measure probably would "authorize" the Chief Executive to control wages, but added that the authorization might be turned into a directive before the bill was enacted. Whether wage floors as well as ceilings would be established remained to be decided.

Certainly it would be impractical for Congress to attempt to legislate a definite price for every kind of crop and a wage for every job, Senator Brown said, adding that flexibility was necessary.

Senator Norris, Independent, of Nebraska, a member of the Agriculture Committee, pledged his support to Mr. Roosevelt's proposal and said he could see no necessity for lengthy hearings.

Floor at 85% of Parity Proposed.

Some lawmakers from farm States let it be known that they might be satisfied if the farm price floor were established at 85 per cent of parity. Presumably the floors could be maintained by a Government crop purchase program, or conceivably subsidies, wherever necessary.

Some House members discussed the advisability of applying the War Labor Board cost-of-living formula to wage scales. Under the WLB plan, wages might be allowed to rise 15 per cent above the level of January 1, 1941, to catch up with rising living costs.

While administration leaders worked over their bill, some Republicans continued to protest against the President's demands.

"Why is the President so concerned about the price of commodities when two-thirds of the total national income comes from wages and salaries?" asked Senator Butler, Republican, of Nebraska.

Representative Fish, Republican, of New York, likened Mr. Roosevelt's action to placing a pistol against Congress' head and commented it was "exactly what is to be expected from a third-term President."

Dr. James M. Doran, Former Prohibition Commissioner, Dies

Succumbs in Hospital After Long Illness; Funeral Tomorrow

Dr. James M. Doran, 57, commissioner of prohibition from 1927 to 1930, died last night in Georgetown Hospital after a prolonged illness. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at All Souls' Unitarian Church, Sixteenth and Harvard streets N.W.

The Rev. U. G. B. Pierce, pastor, will conduct the rites. The body will be cremated and taken to Rochester, Minn.

Dr. Doran's term as chief of prohibition came during the latter stages of the life of the Eighteenth Amendment, which was repealed in 1933. As administrator for the Distilled Spirits Institute from 1933 to 1938, he was a defender of repeal. Often he issued statements that repeal had resulted in increased Federal revenues and a decline in lawlessness. He disputed the contentions of dry advocates that drinking had increased.

Dr. Doran was born in Grand Forks, N. Dak., in 1885. He studied at the University of Minnesota and later worked in the Northern Pacific Railroad laboratories.

In 1907 he joined the Treasury Department's Bureau of Internal Revenue and shortly after was made chief chemist. This was the position he held when he was named prohibition chief by President Coolidge in 1927.

Gets Alcohol Post.

In 1930 he was made commissioner of industrial alcohol and in 1933 became head of the institute organized by the distilling industry.

Dr. Doran resigned this post in 1938, serving the institute as a consultant while conducting a private practice. He was a member of the American Chemists' Society, the United States Pharmacopoeia Society, the Cosmos Club and the National Press Club.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Roxana B. Doran, who resides at 2816 Dumbarton street, Georgetown; a son, James Edward Doran of Washington; a daughter, Mrs. Frances Fountain, Louisville, Ky., and his father, the Rev. Frank Doran, St. Paul, Minn.

Raids

head or the crash of their explosives aground.

Improving weather apparently helped in the intensification of the bombing campaign through which Air Marshal Sir Arthur Harris has pledged: "We are going to scourge the Third Reich from end to end."

Only two RAF raids were made on Germany during the first eight nights of July; three in the first eight of August.

Little German Activity.

As to German raids on Britain, the British reported there was little activity last night and two Nazi planes were shot down.

Air raid sirens shrilled one of their rare daylight alarms over Britain's capital late this afternoon when enemy planes approached high over the Thames Estuary, but the all-clear quickly followed. There were no reports of incidents.

German pilots used dozens of flares to light up an East Anglian town for bombardment during the night. Propaganda leaflets—their contents withheld by British authorities—were dropped in Southern England.

Bombs loosed on a southwest coast town before nightfall destroyed several houses and killed a man and three children.

Two escorting fighters failed to return from the bombing of the docks at Le Havre and Cherbourg, but there was no report of losses among the participating bombers.

Watchers at a town on the south coast of England said the air throbbed with the continuous thunder of motors as the RAF squadrons sped through starlit skies to the night attack on Germany.

Interspersed with such thrusts are the high altitude, precision bombing flights of the United States air forces' Flying Fortress command, anathema to the yellow-nosed Focke-Wulf 190's and lesser German fighters.

Parents Fulfill Slain Son's Plea To Buy War Bonds

By the Associated Press.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 9.—Carrying out the last wishes of their son, RAF Pilot Officer Ben P. DeHaven, who was killed in action last July, Mr. and Mrs. K. N. DeHaven yesterday invested his savings in war bonds.

In a letter written shortly before his death, young DeHaven urged his parents to "put all the money you possibly can into those war bonds and stamps" and instructed them to invest his savings in the bonds, should he not come back.

Mrs. John L. Lewis Dies of Long Illness; Funeral in Illinois

Wife of UMW Head Leaves Husband and Two Children

Mrs. John L. Lewis, 62, wife of the president of the United Mine Workers of America, died early today at their home in Alexandria. She had been ill a long time and in recent months had undergone two operations.

The body will be taken tomorrow evening to the former home of the family in Springfield, Ill., where funeral services and burial will be held Saturday.

In the 35 years since her marriage to the mine leader, Mrs. Lewis provided the quiet family background for her husband's active and sometimes stormy career in the miners' union and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Bought Historic Home.

Mrs. Lewis had few interests outside her family and home. As a young woman she displayed a fancy for antiques. In later years these were used to furnish the home the Lewises bought in Alexandria, which has a history dating back to the Nation's early days.

Friends of the labor leader said Mrs. Lewis' influence, educationally and culturally, and the devotion between them, always had been a subject of comment among those who knew them.

She did not dominate his decisions, intimates said, even though they did talk over his problems together. They kept abreast of developments in varfious fields of knowledge by reading together and debating at their own fireside. They had built up a substantial library.

Not given to frequent or large-scale entertaining, she did attend most of the conventions of the United Mine Workers with her husband and, since he became president, took the role of hostess to the wives of the delegates.

Two Children Survive.

Surviving are her husband and two children, John L. Lewis, jr., a medical student at Johns Hopkins, and Miss Kathryn Lewis, who for a number of years has been associated with her father in union activities and now is secretary-treasurer of District 50, United Mine Workers. Another daughter, Margaret, is dead.

Mrs. Lewis is survived also by the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. C. P. Charrier, Boise, Idaho; Mrs. R. O. Miller, jr., Springfield; J. R. Bell and C. H. Bell, Arlington, and F. C. Bell, Indianapolis.

Mrs. Lewis, the former Myrta Edith Bell, was born in Stafford, Ohio, on May 18, 1880, the daughter of a country physician, Dr. J. C. F. Bell. The family moved to Iowa and, as a school teacher and neighbor of the Lewis family, Miss Bell met Mr. Lewis, to whom she was married 35 years ago.

The family has resided for several years at 614 Orinoco street, Alexandria, moving there when the Mine Workers headquarters was shifted to the Capital from Indianapolis.

Egypt

German prisoners now appear dejected, war-weary and not nearly so confident as they were a few months ago.

Some of the prisoners, it was stated, were 16-year-old boys recently rushed to Egypt to reinforce Marshal Rommel's hard-pressed forces.

In a desperate effort to replace recent losses in Egypt the Germans are now using planes almost exclusively to transport men and materials from Crete and Greece, the British officers said. Allied officers on the desert front said RAF and American planes are destroying four out of five of the small Axis ships attempting to reach the battle zones with armored equipment.

British Fighters Attack Germans' Supply Lines

CAIRO, Sept. 9 (AP).—Long-range British fighters attacked Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's supply lines along the Salum-Matruh road yesterday, destroying trucks, tank cars and staff cars, and in air fights over El Alamein battlefield shot down three German planes, a communique from British headquarters said today.

On the ground there was little save machine-gun exchanges in the northern and central sectors to report, the communique said.

One large Italian plane and an unidentified biplane were reported destroyed on the ground by Allied fighters.

One destroyer and two merchant vessels were hit by bombs Monday night during an attack by bomber and torpedo aircraft on a southbound Axis convoy in the Central Mediterranean, the communique said. One of the vessels was listing and pouring black smoke from the stern when last seen.

Blackout in North Nile Area.

A total blackout was ordered for the Northern Nile delta area starting last night.

United States Army Air Force headquarters announced last night that heavy bombers co-operating with the RAF caused explosions and several fires among the jetties in the Suda Bay, Crete, area during a raid Monday. One ship tied up in the harbor was set afire and another fire at an airdrome near Suda Bay could be seen for 60 miles, the communique said.

Australian planes also were credited with a fighting share in the air operations.

The British said one squadron of Australian fighters engaged 27 JU-87's and 25 German and Italian fighters, shooting down one Stuka and two Messerschitts and damaging several other planes. One Australian plane was forced down, but the pilot landed in a minefield and was saved.

British Motor Transports Bombarded, Italy Says

ROME (From Italian Broadcasts), Sept. 9 (AP).—British motor transport concentrations have been placed under Italian artillery fire on the Egyptian front and the destroyer Orsa has sunk an Allied submarine in the related battle of the Mediterranean, the high command said today.

Five planes were reported shot down in various operations over the North African Mediterranean theater, one by anti-aircraft fire at Tobruk, Axis Libyan supply base.

Extradition Order For Matheson Signed

Walker Grey Matheson, former employe of the Office of Co-ordinator of Inter-American Affairs, will be taken to New York by deputy marshals in the next few days to face a charge of failing to register as an agent of the Japanese government.

Justice F. Dickinson Letts in District Court today signed an order for his removal after the defendant told United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage that he would not oppose extradition. Assistant United States Attorney Charles B. Murray presented the order for Justice Letts to sign.

At the request of Mr. Murray, Matheson's bond was set at $25,000. The prisoner was not represented by counsel and he refused Mr. Turnage's offer to appoint an attorney for him.

Matheson was arrested here by the FBI Saturday and two others who allegedly acted with him were seized in New York. They were Joseph Hilton Smyth and Irving Harvey Williams.

They were accused of purchasing the magazine Living Age with money provided by the Japanese government in order to spread Japanese propaganda in the United States.

Missing Chief Clerk, Sought as Embezzler, Vanished August 21

A Metropolitan police trial board has recommended to the Commissioners that Capt. Lawrence R. Beall, 46, missing chief clerk wanted for embezzlement, be dismissed as a deserter.

Capt. Beall has been missing since the night of August 21.

Police also announced today that a thorough investigation of a man named "Beall," said to have taken an airplane from Washington to Nashville, Tenn., on the morning following Capt. Beall's disappearance, had come to nothing.

The investigation was made by Detective Sergt. John K. Baker, who traveled to Nashville for a checkup.

Three From Washington Area Listed by Navy as Missing

Casualty Report Lists Radioman Among Dead

One Washington officer and two enlisted men from the Washington area were included among the missing in Navy casualty list No. 11 released for publication today, while another District enlisted man was listed as dead.

The missing officer is Ensign John Henry Fassett, U. S. N. R., 115 Twelfth street S.E.

The new list, including dead, wounded and missing from all the States except Delaware, Nevada and South Dakota, covers the time between August 13 and 30, and includes 437 members of the Coast Guard, Marine Corps and Navy. This brings the total since beginning of the war to 12,910.

A large share of the casualties resulted from direct action with the enemy, the Navy said, but the names of those lost accidentally also are included. It was pointed out that the list included some who might have been rescued at sea or made their way to remote spots from which they might have had no opportunity to communicate with the Navy.

Ensign Fassett is a native of Pennsylvania and attended the Scranton Keystone College and Pennsylvania State College. He was born November 4, 1913.

He joined the Reserves in 1940 in Philadelphia after attending midshipmen's school, was commissioned ensign in September and was ordered to duty in the destroyer Ingraham, which recently was lost after a collision in a fog. His mother, Mrs. Henry C. Fassett, lives at 115 Twelfth street S.E.

Mr. Burkowske's wife, Mrs. Ethel Ruth Burkowske, lives at 1926 Twenty-first place S.E., and Mr. Knox's wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Marie Knox, lives at 718 Virginia avenue S.E.

Mrs. Knox has lived here for two years. Her husband formerly was stationed at the Navy Yard. He is from Indiana.

ODT Tightens Control Over Operations of Commercial Vehicles

War Necessity Certificate To Be Required for Taxis, Buses and Trucks

By CARTER BROOKE JONES.

In the most drastic order governing commercial vehicles since the war began, the Office of Defense Transportation today took over control of trucks, buses and taxicabs. It was a further move to conserve gasoline, tires and motor equipment.

The new order, licensing all vehicles which will be allowed to operate, puts teeth into previous regulations limiting deliveries, cutting down mileage and restricting the work of taxicabs.

Hereafter every commercial vehicle must have a certificate of war necessity before it may obtain gas, tires or parts.

Although the machinery of controlling business transportation was set in motion today, operators of commercial vehicles will be given until November 15 to obtain the certificates.

While the order did not specifically cut down the number of any type of commercial motor carrier, a spokesman for the ODT said the plan would be to issue certificates to no more vehicles than a community needed.

Further Taxi Restrictions Due.

Further orders affecting taxicabs are to be issued soon, it is understood. In Washington and in other cities, it was indicated, the number of taxicabs licensed will be held to the minimum which the ODT considers necessary. Whether this will mean fewer taxis here apparently has not been determined.

In a statement explaining the stringent order, Joseph B. Eastman, director of defense transportation, said the country's commercial vehicles and their tires "must be given the best possible care; they must be driven with equal care, and every mile of unnecessary travel must cease."

Mr. Eastman added that the ODT had promoted policies and issued orders with this end in view.

"The results have been good," he said, "but much remains that can and must be done. The situation is not hopeless, but it calls for all possible precautions."

Mr. Eastman said the certificates of war necessity would be drawn to assure that:

"1. Operations be confined to those which are necessary to the war effort or to the essential domestic economy.

"2. Operations be so conducted as to attain maximum utilization of the equipment involveed.

"3. The operators conserve and providently utilize rubber or rubber substitutes and other critical material used in the manufacture, maintenance and operation of all vehicles covered by the order."

Tight Policy on Certificates.

Mr. Eastman said it was quite possible that more radical steps in conserving gas and equipment may be necessary as the war goes on, but he added that "in no event will the adjustment of certificates be left to the unguided discretion of the field force."

An indication that as few certificates will be issued as may be necessary to cover essential services was seen in this comment by the ODT director:

"The purpose will be to trim the certificates as quickly as may be down to the basis of maximum conservation reflected in the outstanding order (of ODT) and statements of policy."

Mr. Eastman explained that the United States now has about 4,890,000 non-military trucks and about 154,000 buses.

"Must Be Kept Rolling."

"Most of this traffic is essential. Our country will suffer severely and the war effort will suffer if the trucks and buses and other commercial motor vehicles find themselves unable to continue to handle this essential traffic or any large part of it. They must be kept rolling.

"No more civilian trucks are being built. The plants which built them have gone into the building of military trucks or other war products. Much the same is true of the buses. The supply of repair parts is critically limited. There is, and for months at least will continue to be, a serious shortage of tires. There is grave danger that our supply of all types of commercial motor vehicles will be badly depleted, unless we conserve them to the utmost."

The certificates of war necessity will govern the maximum mileage to be operated and the minimum loads to be carried.

At ODT it was admitted, in response to a question, that the new order is a form of Nation-wide gasoline, tire and parts rationing governing commercial vehicles only.

Mr. Eastman said, however: "It is not proposed to use these certificates in any arbitrary or ruthless way."

Ex-German Soldier 'Sentenced' to Church

Women Protest Boilermakers' Union Ban

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—Twenty-two women shipyard workers, refused clearance by the AFL Boilermakers and Welders' Union for work at the Sausalito yards of Marinship, gathered angrily in front of union headquarters yesterday protesting the union's stand.

The women, mostly welders, were told by Ed Rainbow, the union's business agent, that a Nation-wide referendum was being conducted on the question of admitting women welders into the union, and that results were awaited.

A spokesman said the union has refused clearance to women for about ten days, ever since two women workers were discharged for what the union described as "conduct unbecoming lady welders."

"The union used that as an excuse and simply refused to clear any more women," he said.

Mr. Rainbow said the ban applied only to shipyards on the west side of San Francisco Bay. Many women are employed at the Richmond and Moore yards in the east bay.

Willkie Sees Turk Leaders, Confers With Steinhardt

By the Associated Press.

ANKARA, Turkey, Sept. 9.—Wendell Willkie, personal representative of President Roosevelt, called on Numan Menenjiglu, Turkish Foreign Minister, and Fevki Chekmak, chief of the general staff, yesterday afternoon, but refused to discuss these meetings.

He is not expected to see the Turkish Prime Minister or President. They are touring the interior.

Mr. Willkie had a two-hour conference with United States Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt, and also talked individually with United Nations' representatives, including the British, Chinese and Russian. He is expected to leave tomorrow or Friday to continue his tour of Near Eastern capitals.

Britain Has Plenty Of Food, Says Woolton

Britain has enough food to go around, Lord Woolton, food minister, assured the Nutrition Society meeting in London.

The main problem, he said, was what to eat and how best it may be cooked. He said it was unreasonable to expect women in munitions factories to do their own housekeeping and said the government should provide communal feeding.

In 12 months the nation has provided 1,400 restaurants, and now, off the ration, is serving 94,000,000 meals a week, he said.

Presbyterians Elect Dr. William Hudson Virginia Moderator

Church in Relation to War Leading Topic at Synod's 155th Session

By the Associated Press.

STAUNTON, Va., Sept. 9.—The Rev. William B. Hudson, 70, of Staunton, was elected moderator of the Presbyterian Synod of Virginia here last night at the opening session of the synod's 155th annual meeting.

The name of Dr. Robert A. Lapsley, jr., of Roanoke, was put up by the Rev. Leslie Patterson of Covington, but Dr. Lapsley declined the nomination, asking the commissioners to vote for Dr. Hudson, whom he then nominated. However, the synod refused to accept Dr. Lapsley's withdrawal. Dr. Hudson was elected by a vote of 153-152.

The new moderator was graduated from Hampden-Sydney College in 1895 and from Union Theological Seminary at Richmond in 1898. He held pastorates at Huntington, W. Va., and at Winchester, Ky., before becoming superintendent of home missions in the Lexington Presbytery.

Headed Summer Sessions.

For the past 22 years Dr. Hudson has served as manager of the Massanetta Springs summer conference.

Dr. D. T. Caldwell of Richmond, retiring moderator of the synod, discussed "The Church in Wartime" at the opening of the meeting.

Declaring "we are faced at present with such a crisis as that of the eighth century."

He said that in the eighth century, the "evil tide" of Mohammedanism, having paralyzed Christianity in the Near East and completely destroyed it in Northern Africa, passed over to Western Europe and "threatened to blot the religion of our Lord from that continent."

Anumber of committees met during the day with several leaders of the Presbyterian Church in attendance. Among them were Dr. Patrick H. Carmichael, head of leadership training and the Rev. Norman Cook, in charge of young people's work for the southern church and at present director of the United religious education advance program.

Discuss War Classification.

One of the questions to be considered by the synod and which is believed likely to cause heated debate, according to William P. Martin, Richmond banker and publicity clerk, is whether or not to declare the present conflict a religous war.

Mr. Martin said the committee on social and moral welfare is expected to go on record as stating that this is a religious war.

Mexico Slaying Suspect Weeps and Prays in Cell

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 9.—Gregorio Cardenas Hernandez, 27-year-old honor student in chemistry, alternately wept and prayed in his jail cell today as police attempted to identify the bodies of three of the four young women found buried in his garden.

Although Police Agent Jose Acosta Suarez said Cardenas confessed killing the four women, one of them his sweetheart and fellow student, Graciela Arias Davalos, no formal charge had been placed against him.

Wardens reported Cardenas kneeling before a crucifix in his cell and asking pardon "for my crimes." The chemistry student held a scholarship from the government oil administration.

Investigators quoted Cardenas as saying he knew the name of only one of the women, Miss Arias. He was said to have met the other three on the streets.

When first arrested, Cardenas told police he had compounded "pills to make myself invisible," but he has not repeated the story, investigators said. Police quoted him as saying he had an irresistible surge of hatred toward women after intimacies with them. This feeling was first noticed after he was divorced two or three years ago, he said.

HAY FEVER and ASTHMA

Science has not yet found a preparation which will give relief to all hay fever and asthma sufferers. This is understandable when one realizes that both of these conditions can be caused by many things, such as pollens from flowers, weeds, perfumes, animal hairs, improper diet, etc. However, science has discovered that many cases of hay fever and asthma get amazing relief from the administration of a certain vital food element, Allo-tan, a rich source of this important element, gives relief to thousands of sufferers year in and year out. Allo-tan is put up in inexpensive, easy-to-take tablets.

The Wrong Note

Thousands of tons of scrap metal are in Washington homes, alleys, garages and on the farms in the adjacent counties. It is available for collection as soon as a suitable plan can be devised for picking it up and transporting it to dumps, or depots, now being established. The citizens are more than anxious to do their part, and the hundreds of telephone calls and letters received by The Star are evidence of their fine spirit of co-operation.

It is unfortunate, therefore, that the executive officer of the District Salvage Committee chooses this time to begin talking about confiscation by the Government of scrap metal in the hands of unnamed owners alleged to be holding it off the market. There may be a few cases of the sort. Certainly they are not important. And certainly it is unnecessary to begin warning the public of the results of non-compliance, when all the people are asking is that they be told what to do with the scrap they want to give away. There seems to be an irresistible tendency on the part of some authorities to try to scare people into doing what they are only too glad to do.

The War Production Board has emphasized the urgency of need for scrap metal to keep the furnaces for the steel mills operating all winter at full capacity. The important thing is to collect it before bad weather sets in. The sorting of the scrap, which requires some skill and manpower and takes more time can then proceed at full capacity. The District Salvage Committee has obtained the Commissioners' approval of a scrap-collecting plan. Its workability is now under study. If it is the best plan, citizens will be asked to support it and The Star will describe it in detail. If not, it will be abandoned and something else substituted.

The scrap is there. The only problem is to find the most efficient way of making it available.

Traditional Conflict

Mrs. Eleanor Wilson McAdoo, daughter of President Woodrow Wilson, has ample justification for her belief that: "The war today is merely the continuation of the World War of 1914." A majority of her countrymen certainly agree with her. The inevitability of the resumption of hostilities was forecast by many commentators at the conference at Versailles in 1919. Whether or not unqualified American adherence to the League of Nations would have had the effect of preventing the present phase of the traditional conflict is a question which now possesses only academic interest.

What has been established beyond debate is the relation between the prevailing struggle and the historic contest for the control of Europe. Hitler undoubtedly follows Kaiser Wilhelm. Both have been motivated by the same ambition to make Germany the dominant power on the continent if not actually in the world at large. But neither is original. They are indebted to Napoleon Bonaparte for their principal ideas, and the Corsican in his turn was obligated to Louis XIV, who involved France in immense wars in behalf of schemes of hegemony never completely achieved. Still earlier, Charles V had dreamed of himself as lord and master of a realm extending from Antwerp to Constantinople. It is possible that he was inspired by Charlemagne, who imitated Julius Caesar.

Obviously, it seems unscientific to seek the sources of the prevailing contest in the deeds of the architect of the Roman Empire of remote antiquity, yet the chain of events stretches back in unbroken sequence to his Gallic campaign of 58 B.C. Even before that date, it reasonably is supposed, whole tribes if not whole nations fought for the exclusive right to exploit the properties and the labor of their neighbors. The stone circle at Stonehenge in England is one of a series of monuments dotting the coasts of lands as distant as Russia and Morocco and indicating the control of the entire European area and large parts of Africa and Asia by a single people. Evidence unearthed by archeologists working in the ruins of Troy and of Knossos suggests that there were empires and catastrophic clashes between them before written annals first were kept.

Perhaps a clue to the solution of the age-old problem may be found in a conception put forward by Louis Pasteur in a speech delivered at the opening of his celebrated institute in Paris in 1888. "Two contrary laws," he said, "seem to be wrestling with each other * * *; the one, a law of blood and of death, ever imagining new means of destruction and forcing nations to be constantly ready for the battlefield—the other a law of peace, work and health, ever evolving new means of delivering man from the scourges which beset him."

Our Grand Strategy

Although the President's vigorous campaign against inflation naturally has received more attention, his simultaneous pronouncement Monday evening on war aims and methods is also of great importance. Mr. Roosevelt has given the American people a remarkably frank and clear survey of the grand strategy by which the war is being waged.

Warning America that "this is the toughest war of all time," and that great sacrifices of blood and treasure will have to be borne, the President announced that "certain vital decisions have been made," and that all "are directed toward taking the offensive." He emphasized the "global" scope of the war by analyzing the four principal fronts, situated in such mutually remote areas as Russia, the Pacific Ocean, the Mediterranean-Middle East, and "the European area." By this last, the President obviously meant Axis-dominated Europe exclusive of the Russian fighting zone. And it is here that his remarks seem most significant, because they imply a major emphasis upon the creation of what is widely termed a "second front."

It is generally agreed that Germany is the archenemy, the keystone of the whole Axis structure. Mr. Roosevelt states forthrightly that "the power of Germany must be broken on the battlefields of Europe." He thereby inferentially disposes of current theories that the Axis can be shattered by mass bombings, alone or in conjunction with economic pressure and campaigns in other theaters. "The aim is an offensive against Germany. And there are at least a dozen different points at which attacks can be launched." This seems to be a vindication of the "Hitler first" formula.

However, the President does not indorse the extreme thesis which would concentrate against Hitler so exclusively that the other main fronts would be virtually abandoned. Terming all four "vital and interrelated," he assures us that none of them will be "neglected." Emphasis is laid on the stakes involved in the struggle now going on in the Mediterranean and Middle East. Operations in the Pacific area are inferentially treated as defensive in character. The note struck on Russia is conservatively optimistic, especially in the long run.

This brings us back to the question of a European "second front." Naturally, the President gives no hint of where, when, or how this is to be established, though he says "you can rest assured that preparations are being made here and in Britain toward this purpose."

Mr. Roosevelt does not overestimate the potential points of attack, for in the endless discussions of professional strategists and journalistic commentators, suggestions have been made ranging all the way from Northern Norway around Europe's Atlantic coasts into the Mediterranean to Italy and the Balkans. The basic difficulties in the way of all these proposals are shipping, delivered equipment, and amount of trained manpower. It is generally conceded that a premature large-scale attempt ending in failure would have disastrous consequences, psychological as well as strategic. On the other hand, delay in launching a full-fledged offensive may multiply difficulties, especially if Russian military power should be gravely weakened and the Axis be thereby left free to concentrate in the west.

Such is the complex balance of factors which the United Nations' high command must weigh and ponder. We have the President's assurance that they have been duly considered and that "vital decisions" of an offensive character have been made. In that assurance we may put our trust.

Preliminary Estimates

Preliminary estimates of need submitted by the District department heads to the Commissioners indicate in rough outline the pattern of next year's District budget. It will be a budget containing practically no new construction, for new construction will be confined to that directly connected with the war effort. Maintenance items will account for most of the proposed expenditures, and while the growing population needs may make some increases necessary, the budget as a whole should be below the current year's appropriations.

The greatest single decrease shown in any of the estimates is in the Highway Department, which is asking for 52½ per cent less. This drastic cut merely reflects the rapidly dwindling revenues from automobile and gasoline taxes which account for the greater part of Highway Department expenditures. These revenues, already shrinking from the effects of gasoline rationing, will diminish still further as worn out tires take more automobiles off the street.

While the gasoline tax revenues constitute a separate fund, the general fund—made up of general and real estate taxation—is apt to show another shrinkage. The load it is asked to bear should be proportionately reduced. Many lines of business will cease to produce tax revenues in this fiscal year and the drain on real estate taxpayers will become more burdensome because of unprecedented Federal taxes. While there will be an increase in incomes earned in the District, the anomalous condition in which the District income tax has been left by court decisions regarding non-residents will reduce the proceeds from this tax which otherwise might be expected.

As in all past wars, Capital development will suffer seriously while this war lasts. The District is even borrowing money from the Treasury now—with interest—to pay extraordinary maintenance costs resulting from war demands. In more ways than one, the budget this coming year will have to be trimmed to fit a smaller purse.

Losing the War

From time to time the American people have been warned by official spokesmen that we "can" lose this war. But warnings of this sort have not been very convincing; they have seemed too vague and the actual prospect of defeat too remote.

Apparently concerned by the lack of response to these earlier admonitions, Donald Nelson, war production chief, has put the matter another way. "If we fall below our absolute maximum on production," he told a Cleveland Labor Day rally, "we will lose the war. I'm not just saying that we can lose this war. I'm saying that we are going to lose it unless we very quickly develop and use the overwhelming strength that free men have when they are completely united and completely in earnest."

Mr. Nelson made this statement, which he said was his "measured conviction," in appealing for an end to "quickie" strikes and needless absences from work, which, in the aggregate, interfere seriously with war production.

If it be assumed that Mr. Nelson was not talking through his hat, then it follows that those persons who have been contending that the strike problem is nothing to worry about because only a small percentage of production has been affected by strikes have been preaching a very dangerous doctrine. If the "absolute maximum" of production really is necessary to avoid losing the war, it seems clear enough that the loss of any percentage of production to strikes, or to any other cause, is an extremely serious matter.

It is to be hoped that the picture is not quite as dark as Mr. Nelson paints it, but if he is right—and he may be—it behooves all of us, not only those in the ranks of labor but every American, to take his warning to heart.

Cool and Collected

For years, as a symbol of calmness the oyster has been supreme. Physically, this fish, built like a nut, is as well prepared, defensively, as it is possible for any isolationist to be. Predatory have-not neighbors on the ocean floor, as they watch it stand pat and mind its own business, eye it longingly, but get no further. The oyster apparently has mind enough to realize this, but no more, and this, too, helps make it calm, on the principle of the less brain, the less strain.

With literally nothing on its minus-zero mind it goes unscathed from May through August, safe from its principal enemy, mankind, not through any effort of its own, but protected by the letter of the law, the exact letter being the letter R. But now the oyster, like the school child, faces a hideous fate. Ahead of the mollusc lie seven long months, each equipped with a deadly R, and one short one, February, which, though brief, is even more fatal, having two Rs. These r-ful months will take a dread toll of the bivalve. It will not lose its head, for the simple reason that it has none, and will continue to be calm—but it will also be collected, which is not so good.

So much for any species which relies solely on defense, of the Maginot variety, and fails to develop a good attack to accompany it.

Doubtless it is the right of a people to produce its own most captious critics, but it was a Pole—the individualistic philosopher Nietzsche—who was responsible for the indictment: "Everything that is ponderous, viscous and pompously clumsy * * * is developed in great variety among Germans."

If any skeptic needs instruction in the elemental strength of American democracy, let him spend a few hours in Union Station. His experience will encourage him to believe that, once it gets started, the war machinery of the United States will crush its opposition like the proverbial eggshell.

After the war, industrial chemists say, there may be midget automobiles for children. If so, let us hope that they will be licensed for the exclusive use of youngsters having the maturity of judgment of the Quiz Kids.

It has been estimated that, on an average, three out of every five American attics contain old iron or brass beds. Why not throw them at you know whom and what?

Even President Roosevelt "perduces" rather than "produces," but maybe it doesn't matter, just so long as we get "perduction" or "production."

Sees Time Arriving For Full Part in War

Military Writer Thinks Period Of Preparation Has Passed And Crisis Is at Hand

By Maj. George Fielding Eliot.

The people of the United States are facing the gravest crisis, the greatest trial and the heaviest responsibilities of their history. From this point onward America must bear the major burden of this war. It is up to us to carry it through to a victorious conclusion.

We have not yet realized this fact. There is a tendency to complacent rejoicing when we hear that the Russians are holding firm at Stalingrad, or that the British have beaten back Rommel's latest attack in Egypt, or that the Chinese have retaken a couple of air fields, or that a handful of our own marines have stormed half a dozen tiny Pacific islands. But these things are not enough; they are not nearly enough. The task before the United Nations is the defeat of two powerfully armed, desperate, predatory empires which are bent on nothing less than the conquest of the world and so far have been almost uniformly victorious in their progress toward that goal. The stake is enormous—it is nothing less that the survival of individual human rights and liberties on this planet; and whether those rights and liberties shall survive or perish will be determined very largely by our own efforts and our own sacrifices.

Our part in the war so far has been confined chiefly to three activities—production, transportation and preparation for combat.

By the fortunate accident of geography and by reason of our command of the sea our tenure of distant outposts commanding the approaches to this continent and the activities of our Allies we have been, in the continental United States, almost immune from direct attack. This is, of course, an immunity which will continue only so long as we continue to command the sea, to hold our defensive outposts and, above all, to prevent our enemies from overwhelming our Allies so that they can concentrate their efforts against us.

We have done a certain amount of defensive fighting, largely for the protection of our outposts and our lines of communication with them and with our Allies, but we have not yet undertaken a major offensive effort. For the most part we have been engaged in supplying our Allies and in building up a war machine of our own while our Allies did the greater part of the fighting.

This was, of course, a condition made necessary by the circumstances under which we entered the war. We were not wholly unprepared, but we were not ready for a major overseas effort. We have been fortunate in receiving the time to get ready, but we must recognize that our preparatory period is over and that we are now, as our fighting power increases and we come fresh to the battle, the mainstay of the United Nations. Upon our courage, fortitude and will to victory the others must come increasingly to depend.

These others have done their part. In 1939 Poland bore the brunt of the war; in 1940 and the first half of 1941 it was Great Britain's turn to stand almost alone against the foe; for the last half of 1941 and so far in 1942 the Soviet Union has carried the major burden of resistance to the Germans. Meanwhile, it has been China which has been carrying that burden as regards Japanese aggression. Our Allies have done their part and will continue to fight on as well as their resources permit, but they have suffered heavy losses, they are tired and they look to us—and rightly—not only for words, not only for supplies, but for deeds.

It is a tremendous responsibility which we thus assume, and it is one which will not be discharged easily or quickly or cheaply. We are the last reserve of freedom. If we fail, freedom dies. We have watched others fight the good fight while we made ready. Now the burden of that fight is ours. Upon our battle-worthiness and our manly virtue rests the future of the world. That worthiness and that virtue we shall prove upon the bodies of our foes. The price of victory will be heavy, but we shall pay it.

But we should realize now, grimly and clearly, that the days of our comfortable detachment from the burdens and terrors of conflict are over, that from now on this is our war in very truth and that its issue depends upon our willingness, yes, upon our eagerness to pay the price of victory. It is not enough that we should not recoil from this terrible but splendid responsibility; what is required of us is that we meet it with hearts of steel and with a shining pride that it has been given to us to lay so costly a sacrifice on the altar of freedom.

Comments With Glee On Changes "Waiting for Us."

To the Editor of The Star:

While Mark Twain is better known for his "Huckleberry Finn" stories, he never wrote anything more appealing than "A Yankee in King Arthur's Court," the tale of a modern American who was knocked back to the medieval ages by a blow on the head.

And, boy, oh boy, are we headed the same way—back to the horse-and-buggy days, only there will be no horses and buggies waiting for us—they are in the Army now.

What a wonderful thing it will be for us, too!

My automobile has thin tires and no gas, so when I want a pack of cigarettes from the little shop on the corner I'll have to depend on "shank's mare" to take me there and bring me back—three streets away! Wonder if I've forgotten how to walk!

And, heh, heh, heh, they are going to lay an embargo on radios so the folks next door who come home about midnight and tune in will have to find some other way of disturbing the neighborhood.

You know that guy down at the office they call "the boss"? What do you think? They are going to take his rubber heels away from him!

I was telling the wife this morning, we won't have to keep up with the Joneses any more because by the time they pay their income tax their $5,000 a year will look like my little $3,000.

ROBERT FLETCHER.

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

One weather prediction which won't help the enemy is the one the gardener makes for his own use.

None of his friends would admit his ability, anyway, so it does no good to tell it.

The interest comes in making it. Whether the prediction is good or not is distinctly another matter, and one which, fortunately, makes little difference, either.

The prize of amateur weather prognostication is simply the doing it, the feeling that one is taking part in nature.

How many persons there are who stand apart from nature, or try to, at any rate, is easily seen in any crowded place.

It is plain to see that they look upon the weather as a nuisance only.

* * * *

The man with a genuine interest in nature is different.

He always has weather in the back of his mind.

He knows how much depends upon it.

In his own case, the crop may be small, but it is important because the subject is important.

This is just another way of saying, perhaps, that such a person does most of his gardening in his mind; and that is a fact.

For all the average home gardener's digging and planting and raking he has very little to show for it.

Others, seeing his efforts, often wonder what he is doing, since his place looks about the same year in and year out.

* * * *

The gardener knows what he is doing, with the aid of soil and weather.

An old rose vine may give him as much satisfaction as thousands of acres of wheat do another.

We do not say that this is right. Many things in the world are not right. They may be important to those involved, however, and this is the case with the home gardener. Whether he grows a "victory garden" or sticks to his flowers, grass and shrubs, as of old, what he is doing is important.

Conservation of our natural resources is important. Every one who enjoys the study of nature is at heart a conservationist, whether he realizes it or not. He is helping Mother Nature keep what she has created. If we stop, now and then, to look around carefully, we see how many forces of destruction there are.

The weather often is one of these, too, but its inimical side is usually tempered by a good side, except in the case of unusual catastrophes.

Somehow, civilization seems to have tempered the weather (except when it does not, now and then). Weather to the suburban dweller is just something to be interested in, whereas to the city dweller it usually doesn't exist at all.

* * * *

No two persons agree on the low temperature of the day.

No two thermometers show it the same.

So every one is put back on his own resources, when it comes to telling what the weather is going to be.

Using common sense in weather prognostication is often just a little better than the Weather Bureau's scientific instruments.

Indeed, the person really interested in weather, as a subject, may wonder at times why the Weather Man, as he is called, does not seem to use common sense deductions more.

Often it is possible to tell, from the very feel of things, that it is going to rain. But the official prediction says "fair" in its calmest professional manner.

Now it is easy enough for an idiot to see that it is going to rain, but still the official prediction says "fair." One wonders if the bureau is trying to fool the Japs.

* * * *

We heard a long-time resident of Washington one recent hot Monday tell a friend that it would rain before night.

"It's got to," he explained. "You see, after you have lived here for many years, you get the feel of the weather.

"The heat wave goes on, day after day, building up to a thunderstorm. You do not even have to be good to predict the very hour, almost, of the downpour."

We understood what he was talking about, and we believe that most of his hearers understood him.

It was not so much the look of the sky, as the very fact that the inevitable day had come.

So many days of intense heat, so many sleepless nights, and somehow, on the following morning, it is easy enough to see that the day has come for the late afternoon thunderstorm.

There is not a cloud in the sky.

The sun is bright and fierce.

It seems precisely the same sort of day as the day just gone, but one fells that this day is going to be different. And it is.

* * * *

Making one's own prognostications is helpful in planting grass seed at this time of year.

Autumn, without doubt, is the best time of the year to renew the lawn.

All the authorities have come around to this, and we believe the average house owner will, if he gives it a fair trial.

It means, however, plenty of water on the lawn, whether it comes from rains or from the hose.

Keeping up home morale is best done by being as natural as possible. We have no sympathy with these persons who would have the home folks exist in a perpetual dither. It is neither necessary nor helpful.

Make your own weather predictions, and enjoy seeing how they turn out. Perhaps you won't be any farther "off" than the weatherman sometimes is.

The fortunate thing is that, whether you "hit" it or "miss" it, the weather goes on just the same, unmindful of man and his wars and his likes and dislikes.

When man, some day, learns to control the weather, will he so woefully misuse it as he has done some other inventions?

Questions Administration Policy Of War Financing.

To the Editor of The Star:

Viscount Bryce, in his classic "American Commonwealth," quotes Hare's "Lectures on Constitutional Law": "The English legislature is free to follow any course that will promote the welfare of the state, and the inquiry is not 'Has Parliament power to pass the act?' but, 'Is it consistent with principle, and such as the circumstances demand?' * * * In the United States, on the other hand, the question primarily is one of power, and in the refined and subtle discussion which ensues, right is too often lost sight of or treated as if it were synonymous with might."

"Constitutional interpretation," says Lord Bryce, "has been a pretext rather than a cause, a matter of form rather than of substance."

The conditions of war tend to abrogate the form but not the substance of constitutional government. There still are things that are not Caesar's. Despite the over-simplification born of wishful thinking which is exhibited in the "fireside" idea that mere formal executive "power" is synonymous with might, there can be no constitutional power either to defeat our enemies or to control inflation by autocratic pricing in the very face of a Treasury, bank-financed deficit that will force a net addition to the Nation's purchasing power of over 20 billion dollars in just this one fiscal year.

The Nazi government, with unlimited "power" extending even to the death penalty, in the attempt to control the cost-of-living spiral, has failed so signally to check the "black market" that even the controlled German press openly is stating that the official price index is a fiction. Does the President imagine he can do better than Hitler as a price dictator and fix farm prices arbitrarily without creating food scarcity and sinister black market conditions? If by October 1 he finds that Congress has (willfully?) neglected to heed Gov. Eccles' assertion that "the logic of the situation calls for Government policy designed to draw back into the Treasury out of * * * expanding national income an amount equal to what the Government is spending," how does he propose to raise the 75 billion dollars which is to be spent in this current fiscal year?

The Treasury has not proposed, let alone presented, any plan to implement the Eccles idea, but, on the contrary, is deliberately planning to finance only half of a 6 billion dollar monthly expenditure with taxes and War bonds. The other 3 billion dollars is to be raised, not each year but each month, by wholly inflationary bank financing under the provisions of Public Law No. 656, recently enacted at the behest of Mr. Eccles himself and completely reversing the policy which the Federal Reserve Board announced only last year for combating inflation. This deliberate implementation of inflation simply authorizes the lowering of reserve requirements for the great New York and Chicago banks so they can "purchase" these huge bond issues with entirely new money.

Does Mr. Roosevelt suppose that a mere demand from him can produce an Aladdin's lamp in the Senate Finance Committee which will solve these problems? Would Congress or any one else stand out even one day against a feasible plan to raise by taxation the astronomical sums that Congress has appropriated for spending this year? What possible good can it do to freeze farm prices and wages if this fiscal dilemma be not solved? If Mr. Roosevelt has solved it, why did the administration sponsor the enactment of Public Law No. 656, a strictly administration measure passed without opposition, for the particular purpose of providing against the failure of the administration to solve it?

A. A. P.

To the Editor of The Star:

The official register of the United States lists United States attorneys and United States marshals under the Department of Justice, a part of the executive branch of the Government, and the Congressional Record of late has been listing newly nominated and confirmed United States attorneys and marshals in the Senate executive sessions as under "the judiciary."

I feel the style followed by the official register is entirely correct and the style followed by the Congressional Record entirely wrong and misleading. We Americans pride ourselves on our independent judiciary—where inter alia prosecution is divorced from the judicial processes.

I haven't yet heard any Republicans pointing to this style followed by the Congressional Record as evidence of their party's oft-repeated dictum that this administration does not truly believe in an independent judiciary, but I expect to hear it any day now and not without much reason!

HENRY STONER.

Speculates on Destiny Of Voltaire as Living Critic.

To the Editor of The Star:

During the minority of Louis XV, the French regent, for economy, sold half the horses that filled the royal stables. The incomparable Voltaire remarked how much more sensible it would have been to dismiss half the asses that filled the royal court. A lettre de cachet was issued and the philosopher spent about 11 months in the Bastille for making such comments upon the state of affairs of that time.

Today when the obvious is distasteful to the powers-that-be it is discounted as Axis propaganda and summarily dismissed as such. One is tempted to wonder what action would be taken against Monsieur V. were he alive today, if he should have the "audacity" to voice his opinions of present conditions.

Times have changed but in the details.

Work Horse in Pasture

In plowing. . . Turned out to rest and graze,
And meditates through idle tawny days.

A quiet pool of shade is all he wishes,
White clover and the slender lush green spear
Of grass. He stamps at swarming gnats and swishes
A languid tail as gauze-winged flies buzz near.

Sniffing ripe apples, sweet upon the wind,
He whinnies to his sleepy-eyed teammate
The news the farmer has his apples binned,

'Czardom' Is Seen in Message

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

The Washington newspapermen who predicted that the President's message would name an "economic czar" were twitted for their alleged mistake and good - naturedly called "suckers" for having gone out on a limb, so to speak, in their articles. But the Washington newspapermen weren't wrong at all. The message did establish an "economic czar" and his name is Franklin Roosevelt.

David Lawrence.

Judging from the comments on Capitol Hill, Mr. Roosevelt has not only set himself up as an economic czar but as a monarch of everything else. The deepest kind of resentment was expressed both by supporters and opponents of the Administration.

It is doubtful whether any message sent by Mr. Roosevelt in his entire career in the White House has occasioned as much feeling, not even his famous message demanding that he be permitted to appoint an extra judge for every member of the Court above a certain age—a means of coercion of the judiciary which led to the bitterest kind of controversy in Congress.

The President can hardly have been given any advance reaction concerning the reception that his message would get or he never would have sent it. For he has introduced an issue that he cannot very well avoid hereafter and it may even grow into a political issue at the polls this November.

Might Elect Stanch Congress

Republican members were quick to argue that the President had caused enough resentment to awaken a reaction among the voters of the country. If the President really thinks he is right—that his war powers give him authority to repeal an act of Congress whenever he pleases—then the citizenry might well consider electing a Congress which will assert its prerogatives and interpose its power of the purse and specific legislative authority to prevent any abuse of the executive power.

The President's argument that he wants legislation to control farm prices but doesn't need it to stabilize wages is being regarded as merely a device on his part to avoid trouble with labor union chiefs who might block such legislation if sought. But there are members of Congress who are in favor of writing such legislation anyway and it may be that the President will in the end get the kind of a bill that he would prefer to veto—for it may contain more restrictions than he is anticipating.

The debate on the whole matter will be revealing. Members of the Senate in due time will disclose what they say was the administration's own responsibility for the 110-per cent-of-parity farm legislation. It is asserted that the administration itself permitted the provision to get into the House bill, and only when it reached the Senate and the political damage had been done was the effort made to eliminate it.

Mr. Roosevelt's conception of constitutional Government as permitting the Chief Executive to do about as he pleases in wartime is not original with him. There are many New Dealers, who have tenaciously held that view for several months. In fact, they have expressed themselves so positively as to awaken apprehension that the exercise of arbitrary power with war as an excuse was much more in their minds than has been popularly supposed.

Confirms Suspicion.

Ever since the war in Europe began, the opposition to the administration has feared that a virtual dictatorship over the economic system would be developed out of the war powers. The President's latest message was an unnecessary confirmation of that suspicion and will only make it more difficult to preserve national unity.

Word of what the President has threatened—a 22-day ultimatum and then a defiant prediction that he would repeal a specific statute by doing anyway what the statute prohibits—has been widely published, of course, and while most members of Congress have not yet returned here, those who are in Washington undoubtedly reflect the general view.

Congress lately has been taking it on the chin. It has been accused of playing politics. It has been accused of being self-interested and preoccupied with its own political fences. A certain amount of the criticism is justified, but, on the other hand, there are members who wrongly believed the criticism was motivated by alleged subversive elements bent on undermining the prestige of the legislative branch of our Government. Today the biggest slam ever handed to Congress is in the official records of presidential messages and its date is September 7, 1942.

Americans Urged to Abandon Prejudices And Give Full Co-operation to Russia

By DOROTHY THOMPSON.

Our military situation is as grave as it can be. It is understandable that we stress every battle where American forces are engaged, and emphasize gains symbolic of their tough spirit. But they are only symbolic, and there is still only one front where the great war, in all its global implications, is being fought.

Dorothy Thompson.

No gains in the Pacific, nor in Egypt, or in the air fight over Western Europe, are compensation for defeats in Russia. The fate of the Russian front will determine the length of this war and the number of American and British lives that will have to be spent to win it if Russia collapses.

Our Russian allies—I call them that though they try in vain to make a treaty of military alliance with us—are fighting in a spirit beyond praise. Their resistance before Stalingrad is one of those miracles that Paul Reynaud, in France, invoked in vain. But the spirit alone is not decisive in this struggle, and we are not even helping that spirit adequately.

We will live bitterly to regret it. We have to face the strong possibility that soon the German troops will reach the Caspian Sea, and cut the Volga traffic lifeline of Russia. It is obvious that the Russian Army, a few months after that event, will be short of oil, and thus will lose its main offensive power.

Furthermore, the southern supply line to Russia will be cut, the most important food areas of Russia are already lost, and the steel center of Stalingrad is in shambles.

Could Shift Troops to West.

The consequences for us are that the Germans will be able to wage a defensive war in Russia next year, and to shift more than 100 divisions to the west, together with the main part of their air force.

The winter this year is not going to be on the side of the Russains. They have lost this summer the coal mines of the Donets Basin and to bring up materials from Siberia means that their communication lines are this time much longer than the Germans'.

So the Russian population is facing a bitter, hungry winter, while the Russian Army will be dependent upon supplies from the west, which it will be very difficult to get to them.

The offensive power of an army is lost from one day to the next. There are still great reserves in Russia. And if the Russians are able to launch a successful counteroffensive late this fall or in the early winter, as they did last year, there is still a chance to turn the tide against the Nazis, who also are overstrained.

But that tide will not be turned without our help.

It is not our task to develop military plans. But behind military plans, and always influencing them, are political questions.

Political Atmosphere Interferes.

It is impossible to act intelligently, boldly and realistically in the present political atmosphere. And if this political atmosphere continues it can contribute to a disintegration in Russia that will not be in our favor. Such a disintegration would be neither anti-Communist nor pro-Ally. The Russians would continue to fight as guerrillas and partisans, emphasizing their Bolshevist tradition, and with the feeling of being the victims of western treason.

And when our fighting armies began to realize what the collapse of Russia had meant in blood and tears the political reaction in our own countries would be anything but desirable.

The Russian leadership has done all in its power to prevent such a development in Russia. Russian leaders from the outset emphasized the national, not the revolutionary, character of their war, and were careful not to arouse exaggerated hopes in Allied aid. The Russian press has stressed the solidarity of Russia, Great Britain and America in fighting a common war for survival. The Comintern has advised workers in all countries to pursue the war, increase production and abandon any kind of activity likely to impede production. The slogan, "Proletarians of all countries unite," has been changed to: "Proletarians of all nations unite against Fascist invaders."

Molotoff, visiting London and Washington, has tried to reach a real agreement with America. But he had only limited success. He was accompanied by Gen. Shilovsky, who the other day said in Russia that we needed a united command of British, Russian and American forces, and that if such a command had existed in the First World War the Bolshevik revolution might never have taken on the radical form that it did. For then, as now—and both Lloyd George and Churchill are witnesses to this—Russia bore the brunt of the first two years of the war, and the result of not waging a true war of coalition was the additional loss of three million Western European and American lives.

Must Forget Prejudices.

Meanwhile, we have permitted the loss of the Aleutian Islands to Japan, and our publicists have acted as though they were unimportant far-off posts, and not on the main communication line between America and Japan and America and Russia.

And we fumble around the Finnish question, although our other communication with Russia is by way of Murmansk and could be made secure only by a blow against Northern Norway and Finland, which is possibly the most reasonable second front that we could open.

Anti-Russian activities are thriving in this country, sponsored by Lithuanians, Latvians, White Ukrainians, and even some Poles, and nothing decisive has been done to discourage them.

I want us to win this war and survive. And unless we get clear in our minds what our strategy absolutely demands, regardless of our political and class prejudices, we are in a good way to losing this war and not surviving.

Dynamite Found in House Of War Fraud Prober

By the Associated Press.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Sept. 9.—Discovery of three sticks of dynamite in the basement of a residence formerly occupied by Tom C. Clark, special assistant to the Attorney General in charge of war fraud prosecution and former co-ordinator of enemy alien control for the Western Defense Command, was reported by police.

Police Capt. W. W. White said the explosive was found yesterday by a man employed to prepare the house for a new occupant after Mr. Clark's family moved out.

The workman had placed the explosive in an ash can, where it was found by a city employe. Mr. Clark was reported en route to Washington by automobile with his family.

The Great Game of Politics

Hoover Recommended as Authority to Direct Food Rationing U. S. Is Likely to Face

By FRANK R. KENT.

Next year the war really will be brought home to the American people. Next year the inconveniences will not be little ones nor the sacrifices light. Next year everybody will feel the pinch in a way they have not as yet conceived. In other words, we have not felt anything yet. We may as well face the facts.

Frank R. Kent.

Next year the casualties will be as much greater abroad as the taxes will be heavier at home. To gasoline and sugar rationing there will be added food rationing in a big way. And there will be restrictions and shortages and regulations and requirements of which we have not dreamed. They will make those of the last war seem insignificant. For, in character as in size, the last war, compared to this war, was relatively small.

Last time our resources were never really strained nor was the threat to our land a reality. This time, in a war immeasurably vaster, longer and more dangerous and with our safety menaced on both sides, our resources in men, money and material will be strained to the utmost limit to crush a ruthless and vindictive foe. It cannot be done without affecting far more deeply than has yet been done the lives of every man, woman and child.

Food Shortage Foreseen.

Take the question of food. The facts about food have not yet been frankly stated, but those best informed on the situation know that there is a definite threat of a Nation-wide food shortage next year. There will be no need for any one to go hungry. The shortage will not be that acute. But, it will be acute enough to make certain kinds of food scarce in certain sections and to compel people as a whole to revise their eating habits. And there will be food rationing on a wide scale.

It will not be the price of food that will matter so much next year as the quantity and quality. The reasons for this prospective shortage are obvious.

The chief one, of course, is the fact that food in quantities greater than any one ever thought possible will have to be sent abroad to feed our constantly expanding armed forces in all parts of the world. In addition, our allies depend now—and will depend more—on food supplies from this country.

Another reason is the shortage of farm labor. Farmers and farm hands are getting more money in factories. Truck and railroad transportation is being curtailed and it is growing more difficult for farmers to get their stuff to market. In addition, adequate farm machinery and farm fertilizer will be almost unobtainable.

Whether it is called by that name or not, some sort of food administration is expected to be created soon—and the suggestion is that it probably will be under the Secretary of Agriculture, Claude Wickard.

This business of food rationing is a complex and difficult proposition. It more closely affects more people than any other kind of rationing. The necessity of having it administered by a man of the greatest competence and experience is clear. It is one job that must not be bungled. It ought to be in the hands of a man in whom the people generally have confidence.

It is certainly doubtful that Mr. Wickard measures up to these requirements. He is a mediocre cabinet officer whose name and career are unfamiliar to the bulk of the citizens. There is nothing in his record to create belief in his ability to swing so vast and vital a job.

Conceding that the new food administrator should be a man of proven executive capacity as well as real experience, the name of former President Hoover will occur to most Americans as the logical choice. Mr. Hoover was food administrator under a Democratic President in the last war. In Belgium, prior to our entrance in the war, and after that war, in Russia, Poland and other countries, he distributed hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of food to the starving people of many nations.

Hoover An Authority.

Even among the most poisonous of the Hoover haters, there hardly will be one arise to dispute that in this business of food rationing and food distribution, he is the outstanding authority of the world.

Mr. Hoover has his faults. He isn't a man of tact, and he is a poor politician. Some of the criticisms of him as President were deserved; some were terribly unjust. But, when it comes to his competency as a food administrator there can be but one opinion.

Few will contend that he is not the best qualified man in the country to handle this job now. If there is to be a food administrator, in Mr. Hoover we have one ready made, able, trained, equipped, experienced, willing. If we are to have a food administrator, to choose any other is to pass over the best man and pick an inferior man.

Is it too much to ask of the President, faced with a national food shortage—as he undoubtedly will be in a few months—that he sink his political hates, rise above his personal prejudices and call on the man he cannot help but know is best qualified to do this job?

Nothing would so enhance Mr. Roosevelt's reputation as a patriotic leader, willing to subordinate every personal interest to win the war. Nothing would so indelibly stamp him as a small, vindictive man as his failure to do so.

U. S. Bombers Set Fires In Two Raids on Burma

NEW DELHI, Sept. 9.—American medium bombers caused large fires, damaged a river steamer and four barges and scored hits on railroad tracks in two raids on Burma a week ago, a communique from the United States Air Force headquarters disclosed last night.

Bandit Shops Around Before Stealing Car

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO.—The bandit who invaded a South Side garage went on a shopping expedition before making his selection of a car.

The gunman first made known his choice of a 1939 model car to Attendant Sylvester Hoover, but there was none in the garage. Then he looked at the others, selected a 1941 sedan and drove off.

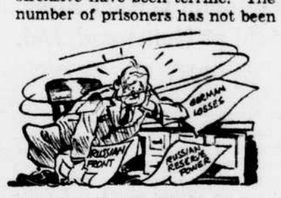
This Changing World

Announcement on Second Front Taken as Hint That Russians May Have Reserve Power

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.

The question of how badly Axis forces have been damaged in the Caucasus and around Stalingrad is of burning interest to the Allied high command. Accurate information is not easy to get these days, but the success of our coming offensive on the Atlantic Coast between Norway and Africa will depend largely on whether the Nazis will be able to strengthen their forces defending the western approaches to their occupied territory.

According to Russian communiques, Axis losses in the 1942 offensive have been terrific. The number of prisoners has not been large because the Russians, being on the defensive, could not capture many Germans. But they are certain to have mowed down many Axis divisions.



Stalingrad is still in the hands of Soviet forces and the armies grouped around that city are likely to cut deeply into Axis power before it is abandoned. There is a possibility the city may hold, but the chances are not great. Stalingrad itself has lost much of its importance as an industrial center as the result of damaging German air raids.

Something up Their Sleeves.

The worst aspect of the situation is that the Nazis have captured most of the pipe lines carrying much-needed oil to the Russian forces. Unless the Russians have carefully expended their resources in order to assume the offensive after the Germans have spent themselves in the Caucasus, the position of the Red armies will be precarious.

The optimistic note in President Roosevelt's outline of the situation on the four battle fronts was a hint that the Russians may have something up their sleeves. It is possible that even if Stalingrad is lost the Russians will have sufficient recuperative power and sufficient oil stored near the front to hit the Axis when the Nazi high command thinks the second chapter of the campaign in Russia is over.

All this is, of course, speculation, since little information is available from which to draw positive conclusions. The announcement that a second front may be opened soon on the Atlantic Coast of Europe leads many observers to believe that Russian offensive power is far from exhausted, in spite of the hammering it has suffered. These observers believe that as soon as United Nations forces begin their attack, which, it is hoped, will compel the Nazis to draw from their reserves, the Russians may strike at the enemy with unexpected vigor. Otherwise, it is believed, the American and British high commands would not have decided on the most difficult offensive an army has ever had to launch.

Lesson for the Allies.

The Dieppe raid was an interesting lesson for the Allies. It showed how well fortified in depth the Nazi-occupied territory really is. There is no question that if the Allied high command had decided to continue its operations beyond Dieppe the heavy Allied losses would not have deterred the British, who were in charge of the operation.

Despite bitter Nazi resistance the Allies could have established an important beachhead at Dieppe if they had thought it was worth the extra price. The fact that the Dieppe raid was only a test operation and that the Allies seem to have decided on a major operation when the weather will no longer be favorable—especially for aviation—indicates that there is some connection between the plans of the Allies in the west and those of the Russians.

Prime Minister Churchill has not, of course, revealed the confidential part of his conversations with Premier Stalin, but since both have the last word regarding military operations in their respective Nations, it is fair to assume that important strategic decisions were taken in Moscow. It is equally fair to assume that President Roosevelt has information which indicates heavier Nazi losses on the eastern front than has generally been believed to be true.

Otherwise it is hardly conceivable that the Allies would attempt an offensive which may be expensive in human lives and war material and will likely yield only limited results.

Judge Acquits Fair Head; Hits Carnival Gambling

By the Associated Press.

LURAY, Va., Sept. 9.—Frank Rosser, president of the Page County Fair Association, was acquitted by Trial Justice John H. Booton yesterday on a charge of permitting gambling at the fair.

A warrant for Mr. Rosser had been served by Page County Sheriff J. W. Ruffner following a protest made by I. R. Dovell of Luray, Commonwealth's attorney, to Gov. Darden.

Judge Booton, in his statement regarding Mr. Rosser's acquittal, said, "I acquit Frank Rosser, personally. If the fair association were being tried, I should not hesitate to give the maximum penalty. These carnivals are wrong, and if this ever happens again, I hope proper action will be taken in time."

Mr. Rosser testified he saw officers playing slot machines at the fair, but did not know the devices were illegal.

W. H. Beard of Ocala, Fla., was fined $100 and costs for possession of illegal slot machines at the fair on September 1.

McLemore—

Wouldn't Expose Soldiers to Golf

By HENRY McLEMORE.

NEW YORK.—At the risk of being branded as an unpatriotic bounder and told to go back to the country I came from, I am not going to give my golf clubs and golf balls to the War Department.

Henry McLemore.

When I was first asked to make this contribution I said "Yes," thinking that the clubs would be converted into war material and the balls melted down to assist in relieving the rubber situation.

Then I learned that this wasn't going to happen at all—that the golf equipment was to be turned over to Army camps for the use of the soldiers. It seems that putting greens and practice ranges are being built at many of the camps, and the soldiers need equipment.

I am thoroughly and wholeheartedly against introducing golf into the Army. The old Scottish game is perhaps the greatest demoralizer ever to curse civilized man. They might just as well equip each camp with an attractive opium den as to expose the men to the temptations of golf.

For every man ruined by the poppy and pipe there are five victims of golf. It would be almost impossible to estimate the number of Americans who have had their lives altered (and all for the bad) in an effort to keep the left arm straight, the head down, the chin tucked close, the body full of pivot, and the eye on the ball.

* * * *

Let us picture, and truthfully, what could easily happen to a soldier when introduced to golf. Let us take Pvt. Herman Sludge of Near Council Bluffs, Iowa. Pvt. Sludge is on his way to becoming a corporal. The Army is his whole life. He eats and sleeps the business of becoming a better soldier. Then, one sunny afternoon, Pvt. Sludge is asked if he would like to go to the range and practice.

"Let me get my rifle, boys, and I'll be right with you," Pvt. Sludge answers.

They explain that the range is a golf range. Out of curosity, he goes. Then it happens to Pvt. Sludge, just as it has happened to all beginners at golf. He knocks his first drive 240 yards down the middle. Pvt. Sludge is now ruined, for good. He doesn't know it, but he is a goner. The little devils who frolic and play in the gorse, heather and sand traps of Scotland, chuckle as they add another name to their scrolls.

The fact that Pvt. Sludge hits the next 50 balls an average of 20 feet doesn't save him. He has hit one good drive, and never again will he be satisfied with less.

* * * *

He starts buying golf books, of which there are 8,000,000. He reads Alex Morrison on how to roll the ankles and brace the left side. He reads Paul Runyon on the value of supple wrists. He reads Bobby Jones on the importance of developing an arthritic neck. He goes through works of Vardon, Ouimet, Braid, Metz, Snead, Holder and all the other masters.

He swings and poses in front of every mirror he passes. His bayonet rusts as he putters with his putter. No longer is his gun his closest friend. He now is devoted to his driver. Whatever he saves out of his monthly pay goes into new equipment. That is one of the curses of golf. The player never figures he is at fault, but that his equipment is faulty. That is why golf manufacturers change styles more than women's fashion designers. There was always a sucker for a new wrinkle, just around the corner.

So, to save Pvt. Sludge and the likes of Pvt. Sludge from a fate worse than death, I am not going to contribute my sticks.

War is hell, yes. But golf—well, even Sherman would have been hard pressed to describe it adequately.

In Memoriam

BAYLIE, JENNIE. A tribute of devoted memory of my mother, JENNIE BAYLIE, who passed into her heavenly home twenty years ago today, September 9, 1922.
DAUGHTER NETTIE SKINNER.

BRAZIER, OLLIE B. In memoriam of Mrs. OLLIE B. BRAZIER, September 9, 1938.

There's an emptiness within our hearts
That grows with every year,
For nothing eases the ache that comes
With the loss of one so dear.
THE FAMILY.

BROWN, SARAH E. In sad and loving remembrance of our dear mother, SARAH E. BROWN, who passed away suddenly five years ago today, September 9, 1937.

It's lonely here without you
And so sad along life's way
Since you have gone away.
You had a smile for every one,
A heart as pure as gold;
Although your soul is now at rest
Our love for you will never grow old.
HER DEVOTED FAMILY.

CONNOR, JOHN FRANCIS. In memory of our dear father, JOHN FRANCIS CONNOR, who departed this life three years ago, September 8, 1939.

A face that is ever before us,
A voice that we cannot forget;
A smile that will last forever,
In memory we see him yet.
HIS LOVING CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

KESECKER, CHARLES HOWARD. In remembrance of my dear son CHARLES HOWARD KESECKER, who departed this life one year ago today, September 9, 1941.

Dearest Charles, how we miss you,
This world will never know.
If tears could only bring you back home,
You would have been here long ago.

God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb;
He gently closed your loving eyes
And whispered, "Peace be thine."
YOUR LOVING MOTHER.

PINKNEY, GLADYS TURNER. In loving memory of our beloved daughter, GLADYS TURNER PINKNEY, who departed this life two years ago today, September 9, 1940.

It is so lonely without you and so sad along life's way.
Life does not seem the same to us,
To those who knew and loved her her memory will never grow old.
MOTHER, ALBERTA TURNER, AND FAMILY.

SHEETS, ELIZABETH A. Sacred to the memory of our dearly beloved wife, mother and grandmother, ELIZABETH A. SHEETS, who entered into peaceful rest five years ago today, September 9, 1937.

She is gone, but not forgotten,
And as dawns another year
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of her are always near.

Forget you? No, we never will,
We loved you then, we love you still.
Your memory is as fresh today
As in the hour you passed away.
HER DEVOTED HUSBAND, DAUGHTER, SONS AND DAUGHTERS-IN-LAW.

We cannot clasp your loving hand,
Your sweet smiles we cannot see
But let this little token show
We still remember thee.
HER LOVING GRANDCHILDREN, LOUISE AND CHARLES.

Md. U. Extension Group Hears Talk on Rationing

By the Associated Press.

C. K. Mingle of the United States Agriculture Research Center at Beltsville, Md., told members of the University of Maryland Extension Service and heads of departments yesterday that he "hoped the promised rationing in this country will be as fair and equitable as it is in England."

People there, he said, feel that all are treated equally. Dr. Mingle, who has just returned from a mission to England to help establish measures for controlling animal diseases, addressed a conference called by Dr. T. B. Symons, director of the university extension service, as the first step in developing a complete war extension program to be carried out in all parts of the State during the next 12 months.

People in England are not starving, Dr. Mingle asserted, although they are on very strict diets.

American Crews, Back From Repulsing Rommel, Bring Tales of Heroism

By the Associated Press.

CAIRO, Sept. 9.—Tales of heroism and humor were related by United States tank commanders and crews today just after they had returned from the desert scene of their successful combat with Axis armor.

The men were particularly enthusiastic in their praise of Pvt. William O. Kern of Bellville, Ill. During the heat of a great tank battle, they said, Kern risked his life to save his lieutenant, Allen Anderson of Phoenix, Ariz., who had suffered a painful but not critical wound and somehow had fallen to the ground from his General Grant.

Seeing his commander in distress and in direct line of enemy shell and machine-gun fire, Pvt. Kern jumped out of the tank and dragged him to safety.

Loaded Gun for Hours.

The story was related y Pvt. Harold Frank, a loader of a General Grant big gun who hails from New York's Bronx. He saw it happen.

"Boy, oh boy, did I load that gun that first night," Pvt. Frank exclaimed of his part in three days of fighting.

"We put them in and shot them out just as fast as humanly possible for hours without a stop and we got at least one Jerry and hit another that I know of."

Staff Sergt. John Tindall of Louisville, Ky., and Sergt. Samuel Ramey of Clayton, Ga., were in the same tank, with Sergt. Tindall in command and Sergt. Ramey driving.

"The first day was easy, and we got four Jerry tanks without any trouble," said Sergt. Tindall. "We set two on fire and knocked out one each with our 75 and our 37.

"But that second day was hell.

"We only got two Jerry tanks, and that day we got hit 18 times, but none of us got hurt except me, and mine was an accident, hurting my leg when one of the boys shut the door on me."

Hit Bang on Front.

Pvt. Frank interrupted to say that in his tank's case the commanding officer, looking through field glasses, shouted at one point, "Back up, here comes our hit!"

"And sure enough," Pvt. Frank said, "it was right smack bang on front. But it only went a couple of inches into our armor and did no harm."

Sergt. Ramey and the others swore they could see the shells as they came at them.

"There were bombs, too," Sergt. Ramey went on, "and some of them landed so close it just made our wagon shiver, but it never stopped us. One time a shell hit the cover over the port through which I, as driver, look."

Mary Byrne, Back From Hollywood, Plans to Wed

Movie career or not, Miss Mary V. Byrne, 20, an OPA secretary who has returned to Washington after making a picture in Hollywood, is going to get married.

Miss Byrne and F. Edwin Smith, 27, a Government worker, filed an application for a marriage license at District Court yesterday and the wedding will take place in the next few weeks. The Rev. Robin Gould will officiate.

"It may be that I will go to Hollywood to make a picture now and then," Miss Byrne said, "but for most people a movie career is a short-lived thing, while marriage lasts a lifetime."

The pretty brunette, a native of Dallas, Tex., and a one-time night club singer, said she had known Mr. Smith about a year. They became engaged shortly before she left for Hollywood two months ago to make a picture with Bob Hope entitled "They Got Me Covered."

Sinking of Three More Craft Brings Total to 460 Mark

Disclosure that another ship captain was taken prisoner by an Axis submarine, the eighth known to have been so treated, was made today as the Navy announced the sinking of an American freighter last July in the South Atlantic.

The loss of the freighter brought to 460 the total of neutral and United Nations sinkings in the Western Atlantic since December 7.

Chief Engineer Taken Aboard.

The chief engineer, whose name, as well as the captain's, was not disclosed, also was taken aboard the U-boat after the vessel was attacked several hundreds miles off the east coast of South America.

One man was missing, but 50 other survivors hoisted sail on lifeboats and after 10 days at sea landed on the west coast of Africa.

The torpedoing and sinking of two other vessels, an American freighter in the North Atlantic and a British merchantman in the Caribbean, was reported by the Navy yesterday.

Two sailors and two naval gunners are missing from the American ship. Both attacks occurred last month. Forty-six survivors from the American vessel were rescued from rafts and a lifeboat by a British Corvette and taken to a United Kingdom port. Except for one man hospitalized, all survivors have returned to the United States.

The British merchantman was torpedoed in early-morning darkness. The 58 men aboard scrambled over the side and were rescued 20 minutes later by a United States warship.

Mine Blast Sinks Third Swedish Ship

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The loss of a third Swedish vessel by mine explosion was disclosed today by the American Swedish News Exchange, which said the 28-year-old freighter Tynningo, 4,272 gross tons, was sunk off the Netherlands coast yesterday.

The agency said 32 members of the crew were rescued and brought to a German port.

Two fishing vessels were reported as lost yesterday after striking mines near Denmark.

They asked for a scrap, now let 'em have it. Collect yours now.

Requiem Mass Is Held For Mrs. Mary Kissner

Requiem mass was held yesterday in St. Jerome's Church, Hyattsville, Md., for Mrs. Mary Melvina Kissner, 92, widow of James Kissner, who died Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary A. Mohun, 5014 Thirty-seventh place, Hyattsville. Burial was in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

A native of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Kissner went to Fairmont, W. Va., as a bride, living there until she made her home with her daughter 12 years ago. She was a member of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin and St. Joseph's Union.

In addition to her daughter, she is survived by a son, Charles B. Kissner, also of Hyattsville, four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

House Meets to Act On Service Vote Bill; Quorum Is Doubtful

Six-Week Recess Broken; Rankin Demands Measure Go Back to Conference

By the Associated Press.

House members broke a six-week informal recess today in an effort to settle a legislative controversy over the servicemen's absentee voting bill.

Whether there would be a quorum on hand for the session starting at noon, however, remained to be seen.

Representative Rankin, Democrat, of Mississippi, outspoken opponent of the legislation, announced beforehand he would attempt to send the bill back to a joint Senate-House committee appointed last week to work out differences between the two branches.

Mr. Rankin said he would ask that House conferees insist on elimination of Senate amendments extending vote-by-mail privileges to fighting men serving abroad, making the legislation applicable to primary as well as general elections, and overriding, insofar as servicemen are concerned, poll tax requirements of eight Southern States.

Failing in that, Mr. Rankin said he would question any other House action on the ground of lack of a quorum—218 members.

Speaker Rayburn on Monday sent out notices ending the informal recess next week, but earlier, Acting Speaker Bulwinkle had requested the membership to be on hand today.

Supporters of the legislation, led by Representative Ramsay, Democrat, of West Virginia, expressed confidence the bill would be passed today in its present form.

Impetus was given the opposition drive by a letter from Secretary of War Stimson to Speaker Rayburn declaring it would be virtually impossible to send ballots to servicemen abroad in time for the November elections. Furthermore, Mr. Stimson said, the requirement for foreign ballots might disclose vital military information, such as the location of American troops on foreign soil.

The legislation as originally passed by the House was intended to give the mail ballot only to servicemen stationed in continental United States.

Southern members have assailed the Senate anti-poll tax amendment as an invasion of State rights and the opening wedge in a campaign to force removal of all poll tax requirements.

100 Jailed After Blast In Bulgar Rail Station

British Gun Factory Is Shipped Piecemeal To United States

Stettinius Discloses Transfer as Example Of Two-Way Lease-Lend

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—A gun factory which six months ago stood in a bomb-scarred city in England has been dismantled and shipped piece by piece to the United States, Edward R. Stettinius, jr., lease-lend administrator, disclosed today.

Mr. Stettinius, in an article in the new issue of the Saturday Evening Post, cited the transfer to show that lease-lend is "no longer a one-way street" directly aiding only United States' Allies.

"It was easier and faster to ship the factory than to ship the guns," he wrote. "We paid nothing for this arsenal. The British consider themselves amply repaid by the damage these guns will inflict on the Germans and Japanese in the hands of our soldiers."

The British have also sent "several thousand" barrage balloons to "protect vital spots along our coasts" and from England and other Allied nations the Government has received "guns and tools, military and scientific information—anything which they can spare and we are in a better spot to use than they are," the article said.

Mr. Stettinius added, however, that "we are still paying for many of the things we get" from United nations partners, and explained:

"* * * It is a vital part of our policy to prevent the war from destroying our Allies' finances. * * * Our Allies have practically exhausted their dollar reserves. The only way they can get dollars to pay for necessities not covered by lease-lend is by selling things to us."

"Dr. Goebbels was confident that when the British dollar balances ran out in the spring of 1941 the war would be practically over," he wrote. "He told the German generals that 'plutocratic' Americans would never supply arms to Britain unless we saw cash on the barrel head. Well, the doctor was wrong."

Mr. Stettinius commented that lease-lend "can be a stepping stone toward a freer system of world trade," thus helping to establish permanent peace.

"We can produce more of everything for every one," he said, "and we should learn how to co-operate in distributing it."

Pupils in Belgium Publishing Secret Anti-Nazi Papers

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Belgian school children are publishing secret anti-Nazi newspapers, it was disclosed here yesterday by one of them, who has just escaped from Brussels to join his father, a Belgian officer.

"We copy funny stories about the Germans in our newspaper, which our class has called Le Boche, and is all hand-written," said the boy, who is 12.

"Only three of the children in our school are on the wrong side, and they always look very nervous. If they don't keep quite——." He doubled his fist by way of explaining what happens if they don't keep quiet.

McClure to Testify In Water Works Sale

By the Associated Press.

MEDIA, Pa., Sept. 9.—Former State Senator John J. McClure, Delaware County Republican leader, was called to testify in his own defense today in a taxpayer's suit in equity to void the $1,050,000 sale of the Chester Water Works.

James I. Rankin, Chester attorney, brought the action against Mr. McClure and a group associated with him, charging they made a "secret profit" of $250,000 in the transaction. The water system was sold to the Federal Water Service Co. of New York two years ago by the municipality.

Mr. McClure admitted he received $85,000 through the sale.

scrap metal, rubber and rags, Mr. Walker said, adding that when the "depot system" is complete in the District the present bottleneck will be eliminated.

Area Chairmen Named.

Mr. Walker revealed that the four collection agencies, with a combined fleet of 26 trucks, cannot handle all the requests being made by District residents.

The agencies are the Salvation Army, Volunteers of America, the Self-Help Exchange and the Goodwill Industries. No more calls for collections under 200 pounds will be referred to them for 10 days, Mr. Walker said. In the meantime, he added, most of the depots will have been set up, breaking the bottleneck.

By Monday, Mr. Walker said he hopes to have 300 or more depots in operation throughout the District, many of them to be located at fire, police and gasoline stations, garages and automobile salesrooms. Approximately half of the 67 needed salvage area chairmen have been chosen, he said.

The Hillcrest depot is the ideal type and will be the model for future depots to be constructed throughout the District, he added.

The District's quota is 34,000,000 pounds of scrap by January 1, 1943.

Referring to the bottleneck in scrap metal collections, Mr. Walker said:

"The impact of the newspaper publicity in the last few days has made every one so scrap-metal conscious that we are swamped. But it is only a temporary bottleneck. Within a few days we will be making collections with a minimum of delay.

"The citizens have responded nobly, and we are preparing to handle everthything in scrap metal, rubber and rags they have to offer."

Some scrap metal in Government buildings is ensnarled in red tape, but when a few determined officials roll up their sleeves and go to work, the result is hundreds of pounds of vitamin-plus material for the jaws of war—and quick!!

Scattered through the century-old District Court structure from the roof to the basement was scrap metal of every kind and in every size and shape

It was piled in old storerooms, stuck off in corners and lining dingy tunnels and in general, cluttering up the place.

But while it was much in evidence, to get it to the scrap heap was another matter because of the cross-jurisdiction over much property at the court. The architect of the Capitol controls some, the administrative section of the Justice Department other, and the administrative office of the Supreme Court still more.

The Justice Department is responsible for most of it, however, and its authority on the spot is the United States marshal's office which operates the building.

Cut Quickly.

Chief Deputy Marshal C. Michael Kearney saw the need for getting the scrap into the fight, but lacked full authorization because of the several agencies which had jurisdiction over the property. He took his troubles to T. D. Quinn of the administrative section of the Justice Department and S. A. Andretta, Mr. Quinn's assistant. There were a few quick telephone calls and all that tough red tape melted away like Japanese resistance before the gun of a marine.

Yesterday morning Mr. Kearney called in G. W. Holt, building superintendent.

"I want every piece of loose metal pulled out of this building immediately," he said. "I will take full responsibility for it."

Within six hours, stacked at one entrance of the court building, was metal that hadn't seen the light of day since the 1800s.

There were old brass lamps that graced the judges' benches back in the 80s; a heavy paper pressing machine that was broken a year or so ago; a small safe; nerly 100 heavy awning rods that were discarded when the building was air-conditioned several years ago; old broken file cabinets, and pipes, electric fans, heavy court seals, a box full of hand seals, a broken radiator, and scores of other articles made of every metal except silver and gold.

That's about all they dug out yesterday but Mr. Kearney is hopeful of getting out the piece d' resistance—an 8-foot high safe that must weigh a couple of tons. Mr. Kearney is seeking authorization to get this out of the way as it is not used except for book storage and is never locked.

Mr. Kearney also is planning to pull off the window sills some old rods that formerly were used for attaching the awnings in the summer time.

All the scrap is being sent to the Government Surplus Property Yard, Second street and Virginia avenue, S.W., where it will be assorted to become scrap for the materials of war.

The District Commissioners yesterday issued an order to municipal agencies directing officers of the local Government to co-operate actively with the salvage program.

Supt. of Police Edward J. Kelly was directed to have his patrolmen report the number and location of all "junked" automobiles, or cars parked on the street or private property which do not have tires on them. The purpose of this is to follow up to see if the metal might be made available to the Government.

A report to the Commissioners by the District Salvage Committee showed that between January 1 and July 1, 88,000,000 pounds of salvage material has been collected, not counting the results of the special rubber collection.

Mr. Walker announced that he was prepared to request condemnation action by the Federal Government in instances where holders of large quantities of needed materials were delaying disposal of the goods.

He revealed that he had served notice on at least one Washington business house to dispose of a "large quantity" of metal within 30 days or be reported to Federal officials.

The committee's formula for a steady and continued city-wide collection was approved by the Commissioners. This provides for 67 areas, each with an official salvage chairman, each area to be divided into smaller units of from six to nine blocks each, in charge of a lieutenant.

Mr. Walker emphasized that residents having salvageable materials may take them to the local depots or call Republic 8488 for collection as soon as possible, stating what and how much material is ready.

DISTRICT COURT YIELDS SCRAP—The plea for scrap metal led to a search through the basement of the District Court Building that netted a surprising quantity of salvage material. In this photo, William J. Kirkland, deputy United States marshal, points to a part of the collection, including lamps, water coolers, electric fans, steel cabinets and many other items which have ended their days of usefulness. —Star Staff Photo.

Mail Order Companies Feel Pressure of War Economics

Sales Slumps Reported In Face of Shortages Of Many Materials

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—War economics have begun to exert their pressure on Chicago's great mail order business.

The houses which supply everything from birdseed to bathtubs report that sales are tumbling in the face of war shortages, priorities and anti-inflation restrictions.

Latest evidence of the trend was yesterday's report by Sears, Roebuck & Co. that August sales were off $23,009,107 or 26.2 per cent, compared with the same month a year ago. In August, 1941, Sears sold $87,715,593 worth of merchandise. Last month's sales were down to $64,706,486.

Montgomery Ward's report for August showed a drop of 15.68 per cent for the two months. August, 1942, sales were $48,740,667 as against $57,803,245 a year ago.

Credit Business Cut.

A spokesman for Sears attributed the decline to several factors connected with the war. He said credit restrictions of the Government's anti-inflation program had cut the credit business 50 per cent, although some of it was transferred to the cash side of the ledger.

What the trade calls "hard lines"—bicycles, stoves, refrigerators and the like—were hit hardest because of priorities and approaching shortages. There also was a sharp drop in the sale of automobile tires.

The slump in August sales loomed even larger because of exceptionally good business during August, 1941. Sears' sales for August, 1941, were 49 per cent above those of August, 1940.

Butler Bros., another big Chicago wholesaler, whose primary job is to serve independent retailers, has reported a .14 per cent increase in August sales. The figures were $10,563,346 for wholesale sales in August, 1942, and $10,548,673 for August, 1941.

Decline Over Long Period.

Viewed over a period of months, however, Butler Bros.' figures indicate a decline, since in April they were 38.02 per cent ahead of the same month a year ago. In May the increase was 15.14 per cent. It had dropped to 12.68 per cent in June and to 6.38 per cent in July.

Said Thomas B. Freeman, Butler Bros.' president: "Undoubtedly we suffered our share of lost sales because of shortage of available goods, especially in critical materials, stoppage of export business and personnel changes because of the war."

Woolworth Sales Show 10 Per Cent Increase

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP).—Sales of F. W. Woolworth Co. in August amounted to $33,675,114, an increase of 10 per cent over $30,712,851 in the same month of last year. This volume carried turnover in the first eight months to $250,278,822, up 15 per cent over $218,145,851 in the first eight months of 1941.

planes (27 bombers and 20 Zeros) were attacked by 20 P-40s. Eight Zeros and four bombers were shot down without the loss of a single United States plane."

Patterson declared the Axis had veteran soldiers and great sources of weapons to present "a long lead that we must overcome."

"To overcome that lead of theirs," he said "and to beat them at their own game will take a big push. It will take sacrifices on the part of this Nation that few of us realize now. There is no easy way to win this war."

Pig Iron Loss Heavy As Steel Projects Are Held Up

Iron Age Says Several Blast Furnaces Are Behind Schedule

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The Iron Age said today that several blast furnace and steel expansion projects were one to three months behind previous estimates of completion, with the resulting loss of thousands of tons of pig iron.

This was true despite the promise from governmental authorities that super-ratings were to be granted for the projects, the trade magazine said.

"One large Midwestern blast furnace project," said Iron Age, "which was scheduled for completion on September 1 will not be making iron until October 1—all because 100 tons of steel needed for completion was displaced on rolling mill schedules by other steel requirements. This one case means a loss of approximately 30,000 tons of pig iron which could have been made if the plant had been completed on schedule.

"The same situation—lack of materials—applies to other projects," the trade publication continued. "One large electric steel project in the Midwest is being held up two to three months because certain steels are not obtainable. Some steel operators make the gloomy prediction that unless blast furnace projects are expedited, and scrap collections considerably increased, steel operations may drop as much as 10 points by February 1.

"Results of various iron and steel scrap collection campaigns have cheered laymen but have not done much to relieve concern felt by steel manufacturers. * * *

"Output of steel, the basic raw material for war, increased slightly this week to 98 per cent of capacity, with the greatest gain of 5.5 points being made in the Eastern district. * * *

Turning to labor, Iron Age said: "Controversy over drafting of industrial and mining workers into the Army seems to be growing. While production in the steel industry as a whole seems to have been little affected so far by draft quotas, many mill operators are thinking anxiously about the immediate future. Draft board policies are varied through the Nation. Some metal-working plants have been hard hit and others have not."

American Airlines Nets $1,205,318 For Half Year

$1.91-Per-Share Profit Compares to $1.32 in Same 1941 Period

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—American Airlines, Inc., reported today for six months ended June 30 net profit of $1,205,318 after charges, Federal income taxes and obsolescence. This was equal to $1.91 a share on the common stock and compared with $866,717, or $1.32 a share, in the first half of 1941.

The report said earnings in the first half of 1942 did not reflect excess of proceeds over book value for involuntary conversion of aircraft in the amount of $1,140,772 as it was the present intention of the company to credit this amount to a replacement reserve for future acquisition of aircraft equipment.

American Sumatra Tobacco.

American Sumatra Tobacco Co. reported for the fiscal year ended July 31 net profit of $809,446, equal to $3.17 a share on the capital stock. This compared to $186,199, or 97 cents a share, in the preceding fiscal year.

U. S. Sugar Corp.

United States Sugar Corp. reported for the year ended June 30 net income of $876,633, equal to 39 cents a share on the common, compared with $1,050,804, or 67 cents a share, in the year previous.

Chicago Grain

By FRANKLIN MULLIN,
Associated Press Market Writer.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Grain prices continued to advance today, rye leading the upturn with gains of about 4 cents, while wheat rose nearly 2 cents.

Wheat and rye were at new highs since July and oats reached the best levels since May. Improved flour business strengthened wheat.

Grain men attributed the fresh rise on top of yesterday's gains to further market adjustment to the President's price-control program. Whereas many dealers had feared farm prices might be frozen, the President's speech was interpreted as an indication the administration hopes to check price rises at around parity. Since grains are well below parity, with rye at the sharpest discount, any stabilization program which might be worked out in Congress would be regarded as bullish, traders said.

Wheat closed ⅞-2 cents higher than yesterday, September, 1.24; December, 1.27¼-½; corn, ⅜-1 higher; September, 84¼-⅜; December, 86¾-⅞; rye, 3¾-4⅛ higher, September, 69¼; oats, ⅝ up; soybeans, ⅜ higher.

Stock Market Closes Lower Under Light Profit Selling

Rail Bonds Make Best Showing as Issues Rise Slightly

By VICTOR EUBANK,
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Light profit-selling pushed most stock market leaders down fractions to around a point today.

The slow decline followed an early display of firmness which encouraged bullish forces to hope that the list was about to establish a new top in the averages for the recent advance.

Transactions totaled about 350,000 shares.

Some utility preferred stocks cut away from the main trend in the late proceedings and registered sizable advances. This buying move embraced issues of Electric Power & Light, American Power & Light and American & Foreign Power, all units of the Electric Bond & Share Co. Tneir gains ranged from fractions to around 2 points.

Lower in the final hour were American Telephone, Westinghouse, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Du Pont, Santa Fe and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Rails Lead Bond Advance.

The bond market averaged a little higher today with a fair-sized group of rails making the best showing in the advancing column near the final hour.

Up fractions to a point at one time or another were American Telephone 3s, Baltimore & Ohio stamped convertibles of '60, Boston & Maine 4½s, St. Paul 5s, North Western 4¾s, Rio Grand & Western 5s, Erie 4½s, Illinois Central 4¾s and 5s, New Orleans, Texas & Mexico 4½s and Lacelde Gas 5s.

Faltering occasionally were New York Central refunding 5s, New Haven collateral 6s, Ohio Edison 4s and Otis Steel 4½s.

United States Governments were about a standoff on the stock exchange and over the counter.

New York Cotton

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Cotton prices moved irregularly today as the trade marked time pending new anti-inflation farm legislation now being prepared by Congress. A steadying support came through price-fixing operations by mills, with locals also on the buying side. This was offset by light hedging operations.

Late afternoon prices were 10 cents a bale lower to 10 cents higher, October, 18.17; December, 18.42, and March, 18.54.

Prices rallied to the best levels of the day in the final hour as covering by locals aided by mill price fixing found a scarcity of offerings.

Futures closed 70 to 75 cents a bale higher.

tax, a minimum of $1,000, with 2 per cent, or a maximum of $100, allowed for each dependent.

Senator Taft, Republican, of Ohio suggested that this extra, added tax might be merged into the regular income tax by lowering exemptions, increasing rates and possibly by eliminating the present law's 10 per cent credit for earned income.

It was on this proposal that the Treasury was instructed to furnish "burden" tables so that the committee could learn just where the additional weight of taxation would fall the heaviest.

As outlined to the committee, the 5 per cent "victory" tax would levy amounts ranging from $8.80 yearly on a person with $800 annual earnings to $99,968 on one with $2,000,000 annual income.

Debt and post-war rebate credits would range from $2.20 in the $800 annual income class to

New Gains Registered By Demand Deposits In Fifth District

By EDWARD C. STONE.

Demand deposits are climbing higher and higher in fifth district banks, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond's monthly review just received here. On August 12 they totaled $914,350,000, against $888,578,000 on July 15 and only $722,107,000 on the same date a year ago.

Time deposits, however, appear to have slowed up, thousands of people in this territory have diverted a portion of their funds to war bond channels. Time deposits in this district on July 12 amounted to $204,460,000, a modest increase over the total of $201,615,000 on July 15 of this year, but below the $209,543,000 deposits recorded at the same time a year ago.

Loans to business and agriculture in this district in the middle of August totaled $141,744,000, above the July volume of $141,626,000 and under $149,700,000 in August a year ago.

D. C. Bank Debits Climb.

Debits to individual bank accounts in Washington in July, picturing business conditions through the movement of checks, totaled $423,845,000, a gain of 1 per cent over the June total of $419,803,000 and 20 per cent better than the aggregate of $351,981,000 a year ago, the report revealed. The July gain in the fifth district was 23 per cent ahead of last year.

Employment in Washington changed but little during July. There was a drop of 1.2 per cent in the number of payrolls from June and of 0.8 per cent in the amount of payrolls. Virginia payrolls showed little change, but Maryland reported a 3 per cent gain in the number employed and 4.4 per cent in payroll amount.

Washington stood second in the fifth district in July building permits issued in 29 cities, $1,485,482 comparing with $1,528,620 in Baltimore, which took first place. In spite of small permit figures in the cities, a very large amount of work is being done outside corporation limits, the report says, most of it being connected with the war effort.

There was a sharp drop in business failures in the fifth district during the seven months, 202 for $2,955,000 comparing with 249 a year ago for $2,731,000, according to Dun & Bradstreet. In July alone fifth district failure liabilities totaled $582,000, against only $198,000 a year ago, a jump of 194 per cent, due to war restrictions.

Mortgage Officers Named.

The 29th annual meeting of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America in Chicago the end of this month will be devoted to discussions of wartime mortgage finance.

In addition to the regular business meeting, there will be election of officers for the coming year. The slate thus far reported includes Charles A. Mullenix, Cleveland, for president.

Herold G. Woodruff, Detroit, is the nominee for vice president while G. H. Galbraith, Tulsa, has been renamed for election to the board of governors for the term expiring in 1946.

Other mortgage bankers named for similar terms on the board include L. E. Mahan, St. Louis; Stanley H. Trezevant, Memphis; George H. Dovenmuehle, Chicago, Frank C. Waples, Cedar Rapids; John Scott, Pittsburgh, and W. A. Clarke, Philadelphia.

Renominated for vice presidents were Wallace Moir, Los Angeles, Pacific Coast region, and Aksel Nielsen, Denver, Mountain States. Other regional vice presidential nominees include V. C. Feemster, Wichita, Southwestern States; Norman Lloyd, Cleveland, North Central States; W. A. Curtin, Hartford, Conn., Eastern States, and O. G. Gresham, Birmingham, Southern States.

Investment Firms Merge.

Washington investment dealers were interested in the report today that the business of W. W. Lanahan & Co., Baltimore, is to be combined with Alexander Brown & Sons, a firm which was established in 1800. W. W. Lanahan will become a special partner in Alexander Brown & Sons.

Two of the present Alexander Brown partners are of the sixth generation of the founder. The Lanahan firm was started in 1909. Robert V. Hobbs, one of the firm's partners, has recently been on leave to serve as assistant executive manager of the Victory Fund Committee of the 5th Federal Reserve district, and has just taken a permanent position with the Treasury. The Alexander Brown firm has a Washington office.

August Store Earnings Up.

Many store earnings reports show an unusually successful August. Sears, Roebuck a gain of 26 per cent over last year; F. W. Woolworth, 9.6 per cent; G. C. Murphy, 14.4; W. T. Grant, 13.6; Lerner Stores, 16.2; and Crown Drug, 12.2 per cent.

Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve System, has been vacationing in Salt Lake City, Utah.

The United States Trust Co., New York, has declared the regular quarterly dividend of $15 a share. In 1941 the bank paid $70 a share, including extras. The stock sells for $1,045 a share.

The International Claim Association has worked out a new method of speeding up payment of life insurance claims of members of the armed forces of the United States, the Army and Navy promptly providing the companies with copies of death certificates.

Brisk Campaign By O'Conor and McKeldin Due

Candidates Hold 8-to-1 Leads for Party Nominations

By ALEXANDER R. PRESTON.

A fall gubernatorial election campaign considerably more lively than any which preceded yesterday's primaries in Maryland appeared in prospect today between Gov. O'Conor, renominated by the Democrats for a second term, and his Republican opponent, Theodore R. McKeldin.

Although the number of primary ballots cast yesterday is among the lightest on record, the two contenders for the State's highest office continued to maintain safe leads of about 8 to 1 over their nearest competitors with more than half of the State's unofficial returns reported.

With 1,124 out of 1,322 polling places reported, the Democratic totals, all unofficial, were: O'Conor, 123,390; Thomas E. Cook of Frederick, 14,406; John M. Kennedy, 8,115, and Stephen Peddicord, 3,695.

McKeldin Easy Victor.

Mr. McKeldin had just as little trouble defeating W. Pinkney West, jr. The Baltimore attorney got 23,791 votes from 813 out of 1,322 polling places against 4,751 for Mr. West.

These results followed the preelection forecasts and both Gov. O'Conor and Mr. McKeldin issued victory statements at 10 p.m., only a few hours after the polls closed.

JOSEPH M. WYATT.

within Baltimore City—where complete unofficial returns had Joseph M. Wyatt winning by a slender margin over Representative John Meyer, Democratic incumbent.

Meyer Apparently Loses.

Complete unofficial returns from the 4th district gave Mr. Wyatt 6,569 votes to 6,253 for Mr. Meyer.

Interest in this campaign was heightened from another angle which has not disappeared from the picture. The Democratic primary race was split six ways, with the third highest contestant being Daniel Ellison, who is unopposed as the Republican nominee and who polled 5,543 Democratic votes in yesterday's primary. Representative Meyer's opponents had cited his vote against extension of the Selective Service Act as a hindrance to the war effort.

Ward Losing in First.

In the 1st district, on Maryland's Eastern Shore, Representative Ward was trailing State Senator Dudley G. Roe, 11,610 to 11,719, with 182 out of 199 polling places reported.

Of the six Democratic members of the House, two withdrew, while two others are certain of renomination. Mrs. Katharine E. Byron, representative from the nearby 6th district, will retire and leave the Democratic field open without opposition to Lt. Col. E. Brooke Lee of Silver Spring.

Col. Lee, however, will face November opposition from J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg, whom the Republicans nominated yesterday over Henry G. Triesler of Hagerstown. Returns gave Mr. Beall a 2-to-1 lead.

The other congressional withdrawal was in the 2d district in the Baltimore area, where Representative Cole has accepted an appointment to the United States Customs Court. H. Streett Baldwin of Towson was widening his narrow lead over three other Democratic contenders.

In a 2d district Republican primary George Norris was leading by a narrow margin his sole competitor, Walter Bouchelt, prior to a report of complete returns.

Representative Sasscer of the nearby 5th district, a resident of Upper Marlboro, piled up an overwhelming lead over Edward J. (Ned) Waters of Berwyn, who claimed support of labor organizations, and Dr. John W. Klemm of Mount Rainier. Representative D'Alesandro, jr., of the 3d district in Baltimore city also accumulated a safe majority.

Without exception, party-indorsed candidates were nominated for both State and local offices in nearby Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, on the basis of returns nearly complete from both areas.

This held true in the race in Montgomery, which had as the chief local interest the nomination for the three judges of the Orphans' Court. Judge Washington Waters, an incumbent, was seeking renomination without the indorsement of the county Democratic organization. He lost.

Hobbs and Quinn Lead.

Complete unofficial returns gave Judge Waters 3,087 votes. The successful candidates were Judges Lewis F. Hobbs and Carey E. Quinn, the latter recently appointed, receiving 6,405 and 5,897 votes, respectively. They, along with a new candidate, Einar B. Christensen, who was nominated with 5,653 votes, had been indorsed by the County Democratic Congress.

Although all Republican returns were not available, the seven probable victors among the 10 candidates in the Republican primary for that party's County State Central Committee appeared discernible. They are Arthur J. Hilland, Nathan Duvall, George C. Esworthy, Ira H. Whitacre, John R. Reeves, De Witt W. Zook and Walter W. Dawson. They crowded out Mrs. Doris Seebold, Charles S. Moore and James M. Mount.

Along with Frederick County, Montgomery County voters nominated Robert E. Clapp, jr., in a five-way Democratic primary race for associate judge of the sixth judicial circuit. Patrick M. Schnauffer was unopposed as the Republican candidate.

Mohler Loses Delegate Race.

There were seven Democratic candidates in Prince Georges County for nomination to the six seats for the House of Delegates. The six who were indorsed by the State Central Committee were nominated, defeating Ewell H. Mohler of Tuxedo, a former justice of the peace. The winners are John S. White of Colmar Manor, the only incumbent; Perry O. Wilkinson of Hyattsville; Dr. N. B. Steward, Laurel; Leroy Pumphrey, Meadows; Noah Joffe, Bowie, and Samuel H. Harvey, Berwyn.

Mrs. William B. Starr of Hyattsville failed of nomination to the Democratic State Central Committee. She had not been indorsed by the party. The successful candidates, who were given pre-primary approval by the Democratic organization, are Edward A. Fuller of Hyattsville; Henry W. Cord, Ardmore; Frank B. Smith, Mount Rainier; Mrs. Mary W. Browning, Riverdale; Irwin I. Main, Seat Pleasant, and Charles S. Emery, Brandywine.

There was no Republican primary in Prince Georges County except in the gubernatorial contest.

NO BETTER PLACE TO PLAY—Thomas Morris, 5, Louis Cook, jr., 4, and William Gordon, 3, do not have a nursery school to attend so they pass their days on the sidewalks and streets in front of their homes on G street S.E.

Patricia Ann Jameson, 3, and Bobby Edwards, 4, have to learn how to dodge automobiles at an early age if they want to play in the only available "playground"—the street near their dwellings.

Air-Raid Disaster Reporting Test Shows Up Deficiencies

Less Than Two-Thirds of Incidents Reach Control Centers From Wardens

By MIRIAM OTTENBERG.

For the benefit of control center traineees and air-raid wardens, "bombs" rained on Washington last night.

The first of a series of tests climaxing on October 5 accomplished what was intended. It showed up on a grand scale the rought spots in a system which ultimateely must be perfect down to the last telephonist for the protection of the city.

The seven subcontrol centers, at which messages are received and help dispatched, were the testing grounds but the men who sent out the calls for help—the air-raid wardens—apparently can use their share of training.

Of the 600 incidents distributed to a third of the city's sector posts, 386 came back to the control centers. The official explanation for the missing incidents was that the wardens either didn't know the control center telephone numbers or what to do with the sealed envelopes they received.

Some Reports Lengthy.

Some of the wardens were inclined to be verbose. With more space for "remarks" on their report forms than on the forms used by telephonists at the centers, they frequently had the telephonists writing right off the page.

Some wardens ignored the report forms, which they had never seen before last night, and, when one telephonist protested at the garbled report the warden responded, "I'm just telling you this as I visualize it."

One warden reported a veritable shower of unexploded bombs. Another gave a complete incident except for the location, for which he dictated "none." Another drove the telephonist to report to her supervisor, "This sector warden is right on the job, but I don't think he knows what he's doing."

One warden called in his report, giving the time of the incident for half an hour before, but from the co-operative voices in the background helping him along, it was easy to visualize a whole squadron of wardens working over the report form.

One realistic warden, reporting a gas bomb, was asked by the telephonist if a fire had been started. In a disgusted voice, he responded, "This is a gas bomb, lady."

67 Incidents for No. 3.

A typical subcenter was No. 3, which handled 67 of the 386 incidents. As the reports came in of a hospital struck, lions running loose in the Zoo, people trapped in a theater disaster, the cool voices of the telephonists in a room apart could be heard asking in an undertone, "What kind of a bomb?" "Are they dead?" "Anybody trapped?" "Do you wish any more services?"

Messengers rushed the report forms to the adjoining room where a trio of priority officers decided in what order the incidents should be considered. Numbers soon dotted the plotting map, showing the scene of disaster, while the report form and its three copies went down the line of fire and public utility representatives.

Both those services report direct to their headquarters, but meanwhile copies continued to the next table, where representatives of transportation, medical services, police, bridges, decontamination and demolition squads and other public works passed on each incident, marking on it the action taken and getting in touch with the nearest unit.

While the incidents were recorded in a log book, an efficient youth of 20 juggled circles of cardboard, indicating that services were available and, on the panel board, what had been sent on each incident. Nothing actually was sent last night. That is awaiting the grand climax on October 5.

There was a bottleneck in public works, which held up recording of the incidents for other services for as much as 20 minutes to see what was still available among their units. This is one of the conditions for correcting.

Some police units were borrowed from center to center without going through the main control center which should evaluate the situation and decide where equipment can be spared. That, too, is to be straightened out.

Most of the subcenters had too many people in them, too much talking, too many "kibitzers." More deficiencies to be corrected.

Willing Staff.

That's what the intensive training period is for, and the volunteers don't mind—not that the girl who works all day at the Army map service and turns into an efficient telephonist at night, nor the retired Government worker who is making the hours at the control center her contribution to the war effort, nor the 20-year-old panel officer holding down a volunteer job that would dizzy an older man.

Had they been summoned back to the cetner for a surprise blackout after the 90-minute test last night, they wouldn't have complained That happened once before—a surprise drill after an evening devoted to training.

By October 5 not even a warden reporting showers of unexploded bombs will feaze them. Officials hope that by that time wardens, too, will be letter perfect in the art of calling for help.

McCormack Terms Taft A 'Sniper' at President

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—House Majority Leader McCormack says Senator Taft, Republican, of Ohio and a few other members of Congress are "sniping" at President Roosevelt and that such attacks should cease during the war so the people will not become divided.

Declaring Senator Taft had termed the President's cost-of-living message to Congress as "revolutionary and dangerous," Mr. McCormack said in a statement last night:

"Senator Taft is a fine American, but his judgment and that of the small group who persist in sniping in these trying days of war is very harmful to the best interests of the country."

Committee to Weigh WPA Nursery Bill Tomorrow or Friday

Volunteers of America To Begin Caring for Children Sept. 15

Because some members had not returned today, Chairman Randolph of the House District Committee postponed until tomorrow or Friday the committee meeting at which his bill restoring WPA nursery schools to the District and opening the public schools to children under 5 will be presented for action.

Chairman Randolph's bill, if acted on this week, may be considered on the floor of the House Monday, which is District day.

Meanwhile, it was announced by Miss Hilda Peterson that 50 preschool children of working mothers will get free nursery school care at the Volunteers of America nursery, opening about September 15. Miss Peterson is director of the project.

As a war measure, the Volunteers are converting the Girls' Club and Hospice at 1525 Sixteenth street N.W. into a building suitable for little children whose mothers are working in war jobs. Care will be provided from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. for six days a week, and three meals a day will be served to those children whose mothers must work early and late. All children will get a noonday meal, plus a midmorning and midafternoon snack.

Miss Peterson will begin taking applications for the nursery today at the Sixteenth street address from 5 to 7 p.m. A trained case worker, she will ascertain need of mothers before accepting children for admission to the school.

In addition to Miss Peterson, who will supervise the nursery, a trained nursery educator, plus eight volunteers and Mrs. Walter Ulrey, wife of the director of the Volunteers of America, will assist in the school.

Outdoor play space for the little children has been provided, together with swings, sliding boards and sandboxes, by Foundry Methodist Church, which is across the street from the nursery.

Ships of the destroyer type comprise the bulk of our fighting ships in the American Navy. Their average displacement is about 1,800 tons, and they are fast, powerful, and hard hitting. They have been particularly effective in convoy duty and gave a good account of themselves in the Coral Sea engagement. They cost approximately $3,600,000 each.

Every Navy shipyard is turning out destroyers in record time. They are essential for our two-ocean Navy. Purchase of more and more War bonds will assure all-out production of these vital units for the Navy. Buy every pay day. Lack of Nursery Schools Keeps Mothers From Helping in War

Child Care Facilities Would Release Many; Boys and Girls Meanwhile Play in Streets

This is the first of a series of articles giving a factual presentation of the need for nursery schools to care for children of Washington working mothers and what is being done to meet that need by District groups and by Congress.

By SUSAN B. ANTHONY, II.

There is no shortage of women in Washington who could fill the ever-increasing demands for workers of the Federal Government and private employer.

The womanpower is present, according to sample polls of housing projects, city blocks, and applications for nursery school care for children.

Washington women, nurses, clerks, maids, waitresses, teachers and skilled manual workers are unable to leave their houses even to seek jobs, however, because they have no place to leave their pre-school children.

Nurse Tied to Home.

"I have my uniform packed away and haven't taken it out since I had little Louis," said Registered Nurse Mrs. Louis Cook of 512 G street S.E. "I would like to help out in this shortage of nurses I read about in the papers—even part time. But I can't find any nursery school or any place which would care for little Louis."

"I had to quit my job at a restaurant," said Mrs. Mary Swearinger, 503 G street S.E. "There was no one to care for my children who are too young to go to regular school."

The children of Mrs. Cook and other mothers in the block play in the city street. Four-year-old Charles Wright was hit while playing in the streets a few months ago. Today, however, he and his young friends still bounce their ball in the streets.

Little Choice Available.

It's tossup for these mothers, according to Mrs. C. L. Wright, 534 Sixth street S.E., whether to keep their children in dark, dreary apartments or to let them play outdoors alone and uncared for.

"You see," said Mrs. Swearinger, "most of us don't even have the use of the backyards of our rooming houses."

A look into the living quarters of some of these mothers and children often reveals only two rooms for a family of six, not much space for play.

Mrs. Mary Jameson has tried to find better housing for her four children but few landlords seem to want many young children, she said. She was carrying her 6-month-old baby in her arms, while trying to straighten the apartment and keep an eye on the other children outside on the street.

Two blocks away is a park. But there is no planned play, no adult to help the children learn and help them to get to and from the park. The only "supervisor" is a chubby child, 12-year-old Marie Dodson, who is called in to mind babies from 6 months to 4 years old in an emergency.

Affects Both Races.

Mrs. Wright said some of the mothers tried to get their children admitted to the nursery school operated at nearby Friendship House, but there is a long waiting list ahead of them.

The lack of care for pre-schoolage children affects both races.

At the Carrolsburg Housing Community for Colored Families, the dwellings are lighter and there is more grass. Little children cavort around on the street, jumping rope, running across the street to join playmates on the other side.

Mrs. Mary Smith, 306 K street S.E., has three children under 5. Her husband's meager salary makes it imperative that she go to work. She has passed a civil Service examination qualifying her for a job that would pay $4 a day. She can't take the job so long as there is no place to leave 4-year-old Constance, 2½-year-old Edward, and baby Alice, 1 year old.

"We have a Mothers' Club here," said Mrs. Smith, "but it only cares for the children from 9 to 11 in the morning, which isn't long enough for us even to go out job hunting."

Those mothers of little children who are holding down war jobs in Washington leave their children with neighbors, maids if they can get them and keep them, or as in the case of one mother who works at night, they do two jobs.

Mrs. Brown, whole real name was given in a confidential survey at the Civil Service Commission, finishes her night job at the commission in the morning, then comes home to start her second job at home caring for her 1½-year-old daughter. She has tried to get a maid, but the last two that she hired left quickly to take Government jobs.

Another mother has had to go into Government offices job hunting, worried about the small child she left locked in her automobile. There was no place else she could leave him.

"The situation is becoming unbearable," wrote one mother in the civil service poll on day-care arrangements. My child is at present in Buffalo, N. Y., and I want to have him with me. Unless some satisfactory arrangements can be made for his care here (in Washington) I must either transfer to Buffalo or resign, which is something I would hate to do, but I don't think I can stand being separated from him very much longer."

Another Sends Child South.

Because she could find no maid or no place to leave her child, one civil service employe has had to send her child to its grandmother's in Georgia, commenting that the arrangement is anything but satisfactory.

Still another mother said "We are urged to be patriotic and come to Washington to help Uncle Sam in the war effort. Those of us who can work come here and get jobs. But how can we continue working and how can the Government expect other women to fill the demands for hundreds of other workers unless there is some place for our children to be cared for?"

OPA Inspection Units Slated in Virginia

By the Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 9.—Regional OPA Administrator Oscar R. Strauss said plans have been made to establish three inspection stations in Virginia to tighten price and rationing regulations.

The offices, Mr. Strauss said, would be located at Staunton, Winchester and Norfolk.

Each of the offices, according to the OPA administrator, would have a field price officer, field rationing officer, an enforcement attorney and an investigation staff. Plans call for establishment of the offices by the end of the month.

District Committee Called to Act on Tax-Exemption Bill

Senators to Meet Friday After Study of Report By McCarran Aide

By J. A. O'LEARY.

Chairman McCarran today called the Senate District Committee to meet at 10:30 a.m. Friday in an effort to complete action on the proposed new tax-exemption law for charitable, religious and educational institutions.

Meanwhile, a tentative redraft of the measure, which would restore exemption to many of the institutions declared taxable by District officials during the last 18 months, has been submitted to each committee member for study by R. F. Camalier, committee counsel.

Describing the subject as one of the most important to come before the committee in the 10 years he has served, Senator McCarran said he wanted the other members to have an opportunity to give careful thought to the new draft, and to a tentative outline of a report to accompany the bill.

No Agencies Named.

Although not disclosing the exact changes he is recommending in the original bill, Senator McCarran said that "in its present form it goes a long way in the matter of properties belonging to educational, religious and charitable institutions."

"In submitting the redraft," he continued, "I have avoided exempting agencies by name. The bill is drafted in the form of general definitions. The bill itself will be the specific legislation, but my idea is to have the policy of Congress expressed in more detail in the accompanying report, to clarify and facilitate interpretation of the act by those who will administer it.

"Liberal Policy Followed."

"All who claim exemption will not find themselves exempted, but a liberal policy has been followed."

The Nevada Senator said he had gathered data indicating that Washington does not have as much tax-exempt charitable, religious and educational property "as many cities of like population." He pointed out at the same time, however, that Washington has rigid boundaries that cannot be extended, which limits its taxable area. Being the National Capital, it also has a high percentage of Federally-owned tax-exempt property.

The bill liberalizes some of the non-flexible provisions of existing law, under which local officials held many charitable, religious and educational groups not entitled to exemption.

Military Leave Granted To Ralph Quinter, Jr.

Ralph Quinter, jr., an assistant corporation counsel of the District since February, 1939, has been granted military leave by the Commissioners, beginning tomorrow. He will be an ensign in the Naval Reserve.

Mr. Quinter, who is 27, has been serving as counsel to the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board. He was an employe of the General Accounting Office in 1935 and served as an assistant clerk of District Court between 1935 and 1937.

Corporation Counsel Richmond B. Keech has assigned John O'Dea, an assistant corporation counsel, as legal adviser to the ABC board for the present.

Frederick Fair Canceled By Board of Managers

By the Associated Press.

FREDERICK, Md., Sept. 9.—The Board of Managers of the Frederick Fair announced last night it had decided to cancel plans for the annual affair, scheduled to be held October 6-9.

The decision was reached, the board said, after people of the county had noted the results at other fairs, particularly Timonium.

The fair also was suspended in 1918, during the World War.

Army to Returf Half Polo Field For D. C. Games

Navy Will Retain 11-Acre Section For Parking

The Army by next year will have returfed most of its half of the parking lot on the old polo field for softball diamonds and football fields, it was announced today.

"The War Department is glad to co-operate," Secretary Stimson wrote Recreation Board Supt. Milo F. Christiansen, "in turning over this area for recreational purposes in order to provide the necessary space for the relaxation of many war workers in the District of Columbia."

In line with an agreement with the District Recreation Board, the Public Buildings Administration and the Office of National Capital Parks, Secretary Stimson wrote, some of the asphalt laid for the parking lot will be left for tennis and badminton courts. The Navy will retain its approximately 11 acres of the lot for parking.

Announcement Confirmed.

The Stimson letter confirmed the announcement made by Mr. Christiansen at a Recreation Board meeting yesterday of an informal agreement with the War Department for return of their half of the field. Removal of the asphalt, the superintendent said, will coincide with excavation for a Government girls' dormitory in West Potomac Park.

The top soil taken away for the dormitory, he explained, can be used to fill in the polo field, while the parking lot asphalt can be used for roadways about the new building.

In one of its first moves to simplify the activities of the city's many recreation agencies, the board yesterday decided to turn over funds for maintenance and repair of playgrounds direct to the National Capital Parks Office on a quarterly basis rather than have the NCP bill them for each separate repair job.

The move will cut bookkeeping in half, it was explained by NCP Director Irving C. Root, a member of the board. Mr. Christiansen emphasized that the shift in the accounting system, would in no way lessen the board's control over the maintenance of the playgrounds.

The board also decided to ask the Board of Education to agree to put some of the areas in which both boards are concerned under the same type of agreement with the NCP.

Wender Heads Committee.

The five members of the board present at the meeting in the recreation office at 3149 Sixteenth street N.W. appointed Harry S. Wender, chairman, and Walter L. Fowler as members of a committee to inquire into policy in other parts of the District government with regard to granting leave of absence and job protection to employes leaving board employ for war work not actually under the armed forces.

Two area directors of several years' experience with the board, William Temple and Milton Larry, applied for leave of absence to serve as American Red Cross directors outside the continental limits of the United States.

Mrs. Alice C. Hunter, board secretary, contended that since the employes were to be exposed to dangers of military service they should be granted the same job protection afforded those actually joining the Army or Navy.

"It's a question of where to draw the line," declared Mr. Root, who made the motion to set up a committee of inquiry into District policy.

Mr. Christiansen contended that recreation work in Washington is as much war service as with the soldiers themselves. He prophesied a number of applications by employes to serve with all types of war agencies if these men were granted job protection.

Sees Agency Bled White.

If a policy was set up to grant all leaves of absence requested by those going to other agencies, Mr. Root declared, "the recreation department will be bled white and will degenerate into a second-rate training school."

Mrs. George A. Garrett declared that too much protection of jobs of employes on leave with agencies outside the actual armed forces would not be fair to new employes who took their places. The problem is further complicated, she said, by the fact that many women also will probably be applying for leave, though they have not the same incentive as the men subject to selective service.

The board will be polled on the question of policy as soon as Mr. Wender and Mr. Fowler have made their recommendation.

Mr. Christiansen revealed that the board's $235,000 appropriation from Lanham Act funds to grade and otherwise to improve playgrounds had so far not been started because no contractors have bid on the jobs. They are on too large a scale, he said, to be attempted by the NCP.

WLB Orders 9-Cent Rise For W., V. & M. Workers

By the Associated Press.

The War Labor Board yesterday directed the Washington, Virginia & Maryland Coach Co. to increase the wages of its 154 employes nine cents an hour—four cents as a cost of living adjustment and five cents to restore the peacetime relationships which existed between the wages of these employes and those of two other bus companies operating in Washington and vicinity.

Brisk Campaign By O'Conor and McKeldin Due

Candidates Hold 8-to-1 Leads for Party Nominations

By ALEXANDER R. PRESTON.

A fall gubernatorial election campaign considerably more lively than any which preceded yesterday's primaries in Maryland appeared in prospect today between Gov. O'Conor, renominated by the Democrats for a second term, and his Republican opponent, Theodore R. McKeldin.

Although the number of primary ballots cast yesterday is among the lightest on record, the two contenders for the State's highest office continued to maintain safe leads of about 8 to 1 over their nearest competitors with more than half of the State's unofficial returns reported.

With 1,052 out of 1,322 poling places reported, the Democratic totals, all unofficial, were: O'Conor, 113,382; Thomas E. Cook of Frederick, 13,340; John M. Kennedy, 7,277, and Stephen Peddicord, 3,388.

McKeldin Easy Victor.

Mr. McKeldin had just as little trouble defeating W. Pinkney West, jr. The Baltimore attorney got 23,298 votes from 793 out of 1,322 polling places against 4,663 for Mr. West.

These results followed the pre-election forecasts and both Gov. O'Conor and Mr. McKeldin issued victory statements at 10 p.m., only a few hours after the polls closed.

The greatest upset came in the 4th congressional district—entirely within Baltimore City—where complete unofficial returns had Joseph M. Wyatt winning by a slender margin over Representative John Meyer, Democratic incumbent.

JOSEPH M. WYATT.

Meyer Apparently Loses.

Complete unofficial returns from the 4th district gave Mr. Wyatt 6,569 votes to 6,253 for Mr. Meyer.

Interest in this campaign was heightened from another angle which has not disappeared from the picture. The Democratic primary race was split six ways, with the third highest contestant being Daniel Ellison, who is unopposed as the Republican nominee and who polled 5,543 Democratic votes in yesterday's primary. Representative Meyer's opponents had cited his vote against extension of the Selective Service Act as a hindrance to the war effort.

Ward Losing in First.

In the 1st district, on Maryland's Eastern Shore, Representative Ward was trailing State Senator Dudley G. Roe, 10,962 to 11,054. Reports were received from 173 of 199 precincts.

Of the six Democratic members of the House, two withdrew, while two others are certain of renomination. Mrs. Katharine E. Byron, representative from the nearby 6th district, will retire and leave the Democratic field open without opposition to Lt. Col. E. Brooke Lee of Silver Spring.

Col. Lee, however, will face November opposition from J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg, whom the Republicans nominated yesterday over Henry G. Triesler of Hagerstown. Returns gave Mr. Beall a 2-to-1 lead.

The other congressional withdrawal was in the 2d district in the Baltimore area, where Representative Cole has accepted an appointment to the United States Customs Court. H. Streett Baldwin of Towson was widening his narrow lead over three other Democratic contenders.

In a 2d district Republican primary George Norris was leading by a narrow margin his sole competitor, Walter Bouchelt, prior to a report of complete returns.

Representative Sasscer of the nearby 5th district, a resident of Upper Marlboro, piled up an overwhelming lead over Edward J. (Ned) Waters of Berwyn, who claimed support of labor organizations, and Dr. John W. Klemm of Mount Rainier. Representative D'Alesandro, jr., of the 3d district in Baltimore city also accumulated a safe majority.

Without exception, party-indorsed candidates were nominated for both State and local offices in nearby Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, on the basis of returns nearly complete from both areas.

This held true in the race in Montgomery, which had as the chief local interest the nomination for the three judges of the Orphans' Court. Judge Washington Waters, an incumbent, was seeking renomination without the indorsement of the county Democratic organization. He lost.

Hobbs and Quinn Lead.

Complete unofficial returns gave Judge Waters 3,087 votes. The successful candidates were Judges Lewis F. Hobbs and Carey E. Quinn, the latter recently appointed, receiving 6,405 and 5,897 votes, respectively. They, along with a new candidate, Einar B. Christensen, who was nominated with 5,653 votes, had been indorsed by the County Democratic Congress.

Although all Republican returns were not available, the seven probable victors among the 10 candidates in the Republican primary for that party's County State Central Committee appeared discernible. They are Arthur J. Hilland, Nathan Duvall, George C. Esworthy, Ira H. Whitacre, John R. Reeves, De Witt W. Zook and Walter W. Dawson. They crowded out Mrs. Doris Seebold, Charles S. Moore and James M. Mount.

Along with Frederick County, Montgomery County voters nominated Robert E. Clapp, jr., in a five-way Democratic primary race for associate judge of the sixth judicial circuit. Patrick M. Schnauffer was unopposed as the Republican candidate.

Mohler Loses Delegate Race.

There were seven Democratic candidates in Prince Georges County for nomination to the six seats for the House of Delegates. The six who were indorsed by the State Central Committee were nominated, defeating Ewell H. Mohler of Tuxedo, a former justice of the peace. The winners are John S. White of Colmar Manor, the only incumbent; Perry O. Wilkinson of Hyattsville; Dr. N. B. Steward, Laurel; Leroy Pumphrey, Meadows; Noah Joffe, Bowie, and Samuel H. Harvey, Berwyn.

Mrs. William P. Starr of Hyattsville failed of nomination to the Democratic State Central Committee. She had not been indorsed by the party. The successful candidates, who were given pre-primary approval by the Democratic organization, are Edward A. Fuller of Hyattsville; Henry W. Cord, Ardmore; Frank B. Smith, Mount Rainier; Mrs. Mary W. Browning, Riverdale; Irwin I. Main, Seat Pleasant, and Charles S. Emery, Brandywine.

There was no Republican primary in Prince Georges County except in the gubernatorial contest.

NO BETTER PLACE TO PLAY—Thomas Morris, 5, Louis Cook, jr., 4, and William Gordon, 3, do not have a nursery school to attend so they pass their days on the sidewalks and streets in front of their homes on G street S.E.

Patricia Ann Jameson, 3, and Bobby Edwards, 4, have to learn how to dodge automobiles at an early age if they want to play in the only available "playground"—the street near their dwellings.

Three From Washington Area Listed by Navy as Missing

Latest Casualty Report Includes Ensign Fassett

One Washington officer and two enlisted men from the Washington area were included among the missing in Navy casualty list No. 11 released for publication today, while another District enlisted man was listed as dead.

The missing officer is Ensign John Henry Fassett, U. S. N. R., 115 Twelfth street S.E.

Carl Herman Burkowske, first-class aviation radioman, was the Washingtonian listed as dead.

The new list, including dead, wounded and missing from all the States except Delaware, Nevada and South Dakota, covers the time between August 13 and 30, and includes 437 members of the Coast Guard, Marine Corps and Navy. This brings the total since beginning of the war to 12,910.

Some Perhaps Rescued.

A large share of the casualties resulted from direct action with the enemy, the Navy said, but the names of those lost accidentally also are included. It was pointed out that the list included some who might have been rescued at sea or made their way to remote spots from which they might have had no opportunity to communicate with the Navy.

Ensign Fassett is a native of Pennsylvania and attended the Scranton Keystone College and Pennsylvania State College. He was born November 4, 1913.

He joined the Reserves in 1940 in Philadelphia after attending midshipmen's school, was commissioned ensign in September and was ordered to duty in the destroyer Ingraham, which recently was lost after a collision in a fog. His mother, Mrs. Henry C. Fassett, lives at 115 Twelfth street S.E.

Wives of Two Live Here.

Mrs. Knox has lived here for two years. Her husband formerly was stationed at the Navy Yard. He is from Indiana.

Mr. Johnson is the son of Charles Felix Johnson of Brandywine, employed at the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, Navy Department, here. He was born near Bordeaux, France, while his father was on duty with the Navy there. He was graduated from the Brandywine High School and enlisted in the Navy November 14, 1939. Besides his father he has a mother and a sister, Mrs. Gisele E. Truman of Poplar Hills, Md.

McCormack Terms Taft A 'Sniper' at President

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—House Majority Leader McCormack says Senator Taft, Republican, of Ohio and a few other members of Congress are "sniping" at President Roosevelt and that such attacks should cease during the war so the people will not become divided.

Declaring Senator Taft had termed the President's cost-of-living message to Congress as "revolutionary and dangerous," Mr. McCormack said in a statement last night:

"Senator Taft is a fine American, but his judgment and that of the small group who persist in sniping in these trying days of war is very harmful to the best interests of the country."

Charter Group Head Calls Smith-Cantrel Move 'Political'

Says Fear Caused Appeal To Civil Service for Ban on U. S. Workers

Efforts to have the Civil Service Commission rescind a ruling permitting Government workers living in Montgomery County to participate in the charter movement there, today were termed a maneuver of "professional politicians" to scare Federal employes into inaction.

This accusation was made by Allen H. Gardner, chairman of the County Charter Committee, against J. Bond Smith and Joseph A. Cantrel, co-chairman of the Publicity Committee of United Democratic Organization of the county.

Mr. Smith and Mr. Cantrel earlier this week suggested that because the Independent Party has indorsed the election of a board to study the proposed plan for charter Government, "it behoves the Civil Service Commission to extend its ruling."

Counsels of Two Bodies.

Mr. Cantrel is counsel to the Board of County Commissioners and Mr. Smith counsel to the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Today Mr. Gardner retorted: "The most recent attacks on the non-partisan charter movement by Mr. Cantrel and Mr. Smith are evidently the result of fear. Becoming desperate over the surprisingly strong support for the charter movement, these two officeholders, who should be public servants, have again attempted to deceive and intimidate the public.

"First, they pretended to believe that there is a coalition between the Charter Committee and the new Independent party. The Charter Committee, in case Messrs. Cantrel and Smith are interested in the truth, has no coalition or arrangement, direct or indirect, with any party. Not being interested in county jobs, its members have scrupulously resolved to give their whole attention to the charter movement."

Mr. Gardner said workers did not know of the Independent party's indorsement of the charter movement except through the press.

Support Welcomed.

"The committee welcomes support for the movement, however, as a recognition of its strength and merit. In fact, the committee would like to see all groups support a Charter Board so that the question of governmental improvement could be taken out of the field of controversy."

Mr. Cantrel and Mr. Smith, meanwhile, have "invited" signers of the petition for a Charter Board to withdraw their names by writing letters to Mr. Gardner, so stating. They said many signed the petition to "get rid of the solicitor." They also asserted the charter movement has been taken over by a Republican - Fusion - Independent group headed by Clarence H. Small. As a result, they asserted, the indignant voters "whose signatures have thus been obtained by political misrepresentation," may request Mr. Gardner to remove their names from the petition.

Two Dead, Seven Hurt In Traffic Accidents Of Last Two Days

Man Killed on Road To Baltimore; Another Dies in Virginia Crash

Traffic accidents in nearby areas during the last two days have resulted in the deaths of two persons, one a Washington man, and injuries to seven others.

The dead are:

Howard Brown, 32, colored, of Lynchburg, Va., who burned to death when his trailer truck plunged over an embankment on the Little River Turnpike, two miles east of Fairfax.

Mr. Brown's truck, according to witnesses, attempted to pass another truck near the top of a hill. The two vehicles struck, police were told by Arthur Smith of Fairfax, driver of the other truck, and Mr. Brown's van ricocheted over the embankment. The trailer part of the truck piled up on the cab and the wreckage began to burn immediately.

Passersby managed to pull Thomas Thurman, 17, of Alexandria and Hiram Wright, 26, colored, of Lynchburg, out of the wreckage, but were unable to save Mr. Brown. The other two were in serious condition in Alexandria Hospital.

Mr. Gatewood was killed when his car collided with another driven by Steve Nemecek of New Jersey. Also injured in the crash were Mrs. Myrtle Gatewood, 47, widow of the dead man; Mr. and Mrs. Carl R. Andress, 1247 Meigs street N.E., and Mrs. Nemecek.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Ships of the destroyer type comprise the bulk of our fighting ships in the American Navy. Their average displacement is about 1,800 tons, and they are fast, powerful, and hard hitting. They have been particularly effective in convoy duty and gave a good account of themselves in the Coral Sea engagement. They cost approximately $3,600,000 each.

Every Navy shipyard is turning out destroyers in record time. They are essential for our two-ocean Navy. Purchase of more and more War bonds will assure all-out production of these vital units for the Navy. Buy every pay day. If everybody invests at least 10 per cent of his income in War bonds we can do the job.

Lack of Nursery Schools Keeps Mothers From Helping in War

Child Care Facilities Would Release Many; Boys and Girls Meanwhile Play in Streets

This is the first of a series of articles giving a factual presentation of the need for nursery schools to care for children of Washington working mothers and what is being done to meet that need by District groups and by Congress.

By SUSAN B. ANTHONY, II.

There is no shortage of women in Washington who could fill the ever-increasing demands for workers of the Federal Government and private employer.

The womanpower is present, according to sample polls of housing projects, city blocks, and applications for nursery school care for children.

Washington women, nurses, clerks, maids, waitresses, teachers and skilled manual workers are unable to leave their houses even to seek jobs, however, because they have no place to leave their pre-school children.

Nurse Tied to Home.

"I have my uniform packed away and haven't taken it out since I had little Louis," said Registered Nurse Mrs. Louis Cook of 512 G street S.E. "I would like to help out in this shortage of nurses I read about in the papers—even part time. But I can't find any nursery school or any place which would care for little Louis."

"I had to quit my job at a restaurant," said Mrs. Mary Swearinger, 503 G street S.E. "There was no one to care for my children who are too young to go to regular school."

The children of Mrs. Cook and other mothers in the block play in the city street. Four-year-old Charles Wright was hit while playing in the streets a few months ago. Today, however, he and his young friends still bounce their ball in the streets.

Little Choice Available.

It's tossup for these mothers, according to Mrs. C. L. Wright, 534 Sixth street S.E., whether to keep their children in dark, dreary apartments or to let them play outdoors alone and uncared for.

"You see," said Mrs. Swearinger, "most of us don't even have the use of the backyards of our rooming houses."

A look into the living quarters of some of these mothers and children often reveals only two rooms for a family of six, not much space for play.

Mrs. Mary Jameson has tried to find better housing for her four children but few landlords seem to want many young children, she said. She was carrying her 6-month-old baby in her arms, while trying to straighten the apartment and keep an eye on the other children outside on the street.

Two blocks away is a park. But there is no planned play, no adult to help the children learn and help them to get to and from the park. The only "supervisor" is a chubby child, 12-year-old Marie Dodson, who is called in to mind babies from 6 months to 4 years old in an emergency.

Affects Both Races.

Mrs. Wright said some of the mothers tried to get their children admitted to the nursery school operated at nearby Friendship House, but there is a long waiting list ahead of them.

The lack of care for pre-school-age children affects both races.

At the Carrolsburg Housing Community for Colored Families, the dwellings are lighter and there is more grass. Little children cavort around on the street, jumping rope, running across the street to join playmates on the other side.

Mrs. Mary Smith, 306 K street S.E., has three children under 5. Her husband's meager salary makes it imperative that she go to work. She has passed a civil Service examination qualifying her for a job that would pay $4 a day. She can't take the job so long as there is no place to leave 4-year-old Constance, 2½-year-old Edward, and baby Alice, 1 year old.

"We have a Mothers' Club here," said Mrs. Smith, "but it only cares for the children from 9 to 11 in the morning, which isn't long enough for us even to go out job hunting."

Those mothers of little children who are holding down war jobs in Washington leave their children with neighbors, maids if they can get them and keep them, or as in the case of one mother who works at night, they do two jobs.

Mrs. Brown, whole real name was given in a confidential survey at the Civil Service Commission, finishes her night job at the commission in the morning, then comes home to start her second job at home caring for her 1½-year-old daughter. She has tried to get a maid, but the last two that she hired left quickly to take Government jobs.

Another mother has had to go into Government offices job hunting, worried about the small child she left locked in her automobile. There was no place else she could leave him.

"The situation is becoming unbearable," wrote one mother in the civil service poll on day-care arrangements. My child is at present in Buffalo, N. Y., and I want to have him with me. Unless some satisfactory arrangements can be made for his care here (in Washington) I must either transfer to Buffalo or resign, which is something I would hate to do, but I don't think I can stand being separated from him very much longer."

Another Sends Child South.

Because she could find no maid or no place to leave her child, one civil service employe has had to send her child to its grandmother's in Georgia, commenting that the arrangement is anything but satisfactory.

Still another mother said "We are urged to be patriotic and come to Washington to help Uncle Sam in the war effort. Those of us who can work come here and get jobs. But how can we continue working and how can the Government expect other women to fill the demands for hundreds of other workers unless there is some place for our children to be cared for?"

OPA Inspection Units Slated in Virginia

By the Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 9.—Regional OPA Administrator Oscar R. Strauss said plans have been made to establish three inspection stations in Virginia to tighten price and rationing regulations.

The offices, Mr. Strauss said, would be located at Staunton, Winchester and Norfolk.

Each of the offices, according to the OPA administrator, would have a field price officer, field rationing officer, an enforcement attorney and an investigation staff. Plans call for establishment of the offices by the end of the month.

Frederick Fair Canceled By Board of Managers

By the Associated Press.

FREDERICK, Md., Sept. 9.—The Board of Managers of the Frederick Fair announced last night it had decided to cancel plans for the annual affair, scheduled to be held October 6-9.

The decision was reached, the board said, after people of the county had noted the results at other fairs, particularly Timonium.

The fair also was suspended in 1918, during the World War.

WLB Orders 9-Cent Rise For W., V. & M. Workers

By the Associated Press.

The War Labor Board yesterday directed the Washington, Virginia & Maryland Coach Co. to increase the wages of its 154 employes nine cents an hour—four cents as a cost of living adjustment and five cents to restore the peacetime relationships which existed between the wages of these employes and those of two other bus companies operating in Washington and vicinity.

Board to Study Blanket Zoning In Alexandria

Protests Heard Over Mount Vernon Highway Change

After protests by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, the Alexandria City Council has referred a request for blanket apartment zoning of a block of the Mount Vernon Memorial highway to a special committee.

The request involved both sides of the 200 block of Washington street, the city name for the highway. It asked that the property be reclassified to C-2 residential zone.

The National Park and Planning Commission advised the council last night that while it believed that all of Washington street ultimately would be occupied by apartments, it did not feel that such a blanket rezoning was wise at present. The commission requested that in event the council did pass such a rezoning, it make a provision that the commission be allowed to pass on all plans before building permits are issued so that the character of the street might be maintained.

Mrs. Robert M. Reese, speaking for the older residents of the city, said that she felt that at least two houses, the Smoot house and the Carlin house, should be kept as they are. She termed the Smoot house was the finest example of Georgian architecture in the city.

Charleston Plan Mentioned.

City Manager Carl Budwesky suggested that the council adopt a procedure such as in existence in Charleston, S. C., and set up a board empowered to go beyond the matter of rezoning and to pass on architectural plans in order to maintain the historical character of the street.

A representative of the District of Columbia Fine Arts Commission cited the law existing in Washington for 12 years restricting types of buildings in certain public areas and offered the co-operation of the commission in setting up a board to control such cases in Alexandria.

Mayor William W. Wilkins expressed opposition to blanket rezoning of Washington street, and upon motion of the council that the matter be referred to a special committee, he appointed Councilmen Stump, Matter, Delaney and himself.

Council granted an application of John Loughran to rezone a tract on the west side of the Memorial highway south of Bashford lane to C-2 residential after Gardner Boothe, attorney for Mr. Loughran, had assured the council that right of way would be granted for the border road contemplated by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Bellefonte Plea Denied.

The request of Clarence C. Simpson to rezone a tract on the north side of Bellefonte avenue between Leslie and LaGrande avenues to C-2 commercial to allow him to build an apartment was denied after residents of the neighborhood presented a petition in opposition.

Mayor Wilkins named Councilman John Ewald to fill a vacancy on the Street Naming Committee.

In executive session the council discussed a new addition to the Alexandria Hospital. It was learned that property owners on Duke street were objecting to the new nurses' home being located so near their houses. The matter of using the steel originally purchased for sewer construction for the hospital was also under discussion.

Representatives of J. L. Murphy, plumbing contractor on the Parkfairfax project, also were to be heard in executive session with regard to amending the city plumbing code to allow employment of plumbers who have refused to take the required examination, but the meeting adjourned before they could be heard.

Parkfairfax is being constructed by Starret Bros. & Eken for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., and the firm of J. L. Murphy, which has the plumbing contract, has asked the city to waive the required examination which they say their plumbers have refused to take. If the city stands by its plumbing code, the plumbers on the Parkfairfax job will be disqualified from working in Alexandria. It is believed that the men are seeking such disqualification in order to be free to apply for jobs on Arlington County projects, where no examination is required and where they receive more pay, since Parkfairfax does not work overtime.

Cult Worker Slaying Case Expected to Reach Jury

A District Court jury of six women and six men today was expected to be given the case of Richard L. Wilhite, 17, who seeks to be declared of unsound mind and thereby escape trial on a charge of first degree murder in the slaying April 17 of Madeline Matthes, 25, a Jehovah's Witness worker.

The youth's brother, Joseph Wilnite, was the last witness at yesterday's hearing. He testified that Richard had frequent fits of temper and would get angry at the slightest provocation.

Two psychiatrists were to be among the witnesses today. They are Dr. Antoine Schneider, who holds the youth to be insane, and Dr. E. I. Griffin of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, who takes the view that the youth is of sound mind.

Cut Red Tape to Speed More Hospital Beds, La Follette Urges

Inquiry Into Use of Navy's Old Facilities Is Asked by Camalier

The drive of Chairman McCarran of the Senate District Committee to get adequate hospital bed accommodations for war-work-congested Washington received earnest support late yesterday from Senator La Follette, Republican, of Wisconsin, who declared his intention to "get the red tape cut as soon as possible."

At the same time the committee counsel, R. F. Camalier, recommended that the committee investigate whether the old Naval Hospital at Twenty-third street and Constitution avenue, now being used as offices for clerical workers, cannot be reopened as a hospital to supplement existing facilities.

Delay Complicates Situation.

"Hospital beds cannot be found for patients," Senator La Follette argued, "when you haven't them anywhere except on blueprints. I'm all for cutting the red tape and getting this program started at the earliest date."

He emphasized that the hospitalization situation in the crowded District already is "critical" and is being made more "acute" by delay, with winter coming on and a fuel shortage impending, and the population steadily increasing.

"I did not believe that the FWA's original quota of 1,700 new beds was sufficient, much less the present allotment of 550 beds. I am deeply concerned regarding the situation, which would become scandalous if any widespread sickness or epidemic develops this winter."

Support Pleases McCarran.

Senator McCarran expressed much satisfaction that Senator La Follette has come to his support for adequate hospital facilities. Both pointed out that Senator La Follette was a member of the subcommittee which authorized funds under the Lanham Act for adequate hospital facilities in the District, instead of arection of small units in areas outside of the District.

Sentor McCarran sent a letter to the FWA, assuring it that Congress and District officials will co-operate fully if construction work is immediately started on a hospital construction program. He asked that the proposed 550 additional beds be provided without further delay and that the survey to determine where dormitories can be constructed for nurses be expedited.

Congressional Families Remaining at Home

Mrs. Wallace and Daughter in Des Moines; Mrs. McNary in Oregon Until October

Although the political clans will gather en masse again on Capitol Hill by the first of the week, the members of their families will, for the most part, remain in their homes away from Washington. Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, wife of the Vice-President, and their daughter, Miss Jean Wallace, are in Des Moines and the Vice-President hopes to join them there for a brief vacation before they come East when Miss Wallace resumes her studies at college.

The minority leader of the Senate, Senator Charles L. McNary, was unable to accompany Mrs. McNary and their daughter, Charlotte, when they went to Oregon a fortnight ago. Mrs. McNary plans to be away until the first of October coming back to the Capital in time for the opening of Charlotte's school.

Mrs. Arthur H. Vandenberg, wife of the Senator from Michigan, is in their Grand Rapids home after a short stay in their Wardman Park apartment. She came here for the graduation of Mr. Arthur H. Vandenberg, jr., from a military training camp and then went home to stay until after the elections. The Senator, however, will not be able to leave until just in time to cast his vote November 3.

Senator and Mrs. Ralph O. Brewster are in their Maine home where they have a keen interest in the present campaign in which Senator Brewster's colleague, Senator Wallace H. White, jr., is a candidate for re-election. Senator and Mrs. White and Senator and Mrs. Brewster are very popular in Washington both in congressional circles and in Washington resident society.

Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge, jr., is remaining with the younger members of their family in her summer home at Beverly, Mass., and probably will not come back to Washington until the first of the year.

Senator Alexander Wiley will be back today from Wisconsin where he was among the speakers at a Labor Day celebration. Mrs. Wiley will join him later in the autumn.

Senator Gerald P. Nye will be back by Sunday and will be accompanied by Mrs. Nye who has been with him in their North Dakota home.

The Speaker of the House, Representative Sam Rayburn, came back yesterday from his Texas home where he has had a very brief vacation. His sister, Miss Rayburn, has made no plans to come to Washington but probably will be here for a visit during the winter.

Representative and Mrs. Francis Case leased their house on Foxhall road where the latter went home for the summer and will not be back there until the latter part of this month. Mr. Case will be here over the week end and when Mrs. Case joins him they will again be in the house at 3049 Foxhall road. During their absence Dr. Ernest H. Hahne, professor at Northwestern University, who has been on Government work, has been living there with Mrs. Hahne. Dr. and Mrs. Hahne will return to Evanston, Ill., the first of next week.

Representative James W. Wadsworth will not be joined in his Georgetown home by Mrs. Wadsworth before the first of the year. She will be in her Geneseo (N. Y.) home until after the Christmas holidays.

Representative and Mrs. Clarence Cannon are coming back the end of the week and will open their apartment at 418 New Jersey avenue S.E. for the season.

Mrs. Lex Green, wife of Representative Green, is staying in Florida, where she is in their home at Starke, and Representative Green, who is in Washington for a few days, will join her shortly for a vacation.

Representative and Mrs. John C. Butler have been in Buffalo for the late summer, the former having returned yesterday. Mrs. Butler will come south later and they again will occupy the house at 1817 Forty-first place S.E.

Miss Polly Frink Is Married to Capt. Bunnell

St. Margaret's Church Is Scene of Wedding; Sister Is Attendant

White satin and lace was worn by Miss Polly McKelden Frink, daughter of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. James Luke Frink, when she walked to the altar in St. Margaret's Church with her father last evening to be given in marriage to Capt. James Blake Bunnell, jr. The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock and the Rev. Armand Eyler officiated.

The bride was dressed in the wedding gown of her sister, which was made with a princess lace yoke and lace peplums and a long fan-shaped train with inserts of the lace. A Mary Queen of Scots cap held her full-length veil and she carried a bouquet of butterfly orchids.

Miss Barbara McKelden Frink was maid of honor for her sister and wore a dress of blue velvet made with a short train. She wore blue ostrich feathers in her hair and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemum daisies.

By the Way—

Beth Blaine

The ladies of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church are—and quite justly—proud of the fact that they were the first group of women in Washington to arrange a program of entertainment for servicemen. It was back in the spring of 1941—before we were in this war—that they started a series of Saturday night suppers for men in the armed forces—and this is how they began.

One afternoon—it was Saturday—Mrs. James Drysdale was going home on a bus. Near her sat three sailors. So near that she couldn't help overhearing what they were saying. They were discussing, quite audibly, where they could go to church the next day. They didn't, it seems, know any one in Washington and they knew very little about the city itself. Mrs. Drysdale wanted to talk to them, but the bus was crowded and she felt rather shy and embarrassed. So she got off the bus at her house without having said a word to the young men. But she thought a good deal about them that evening.

MRS. JAMES DRYSDALE.

The next day she went to her regular Sunday school class. (She teaches at the Chinese Sunday School) and again she went by bus. This time she saw one lone sailor—so she took her courage in hand, and she asked him to come and sit beside her and talk to her. She asked him a lot of questions, and he gave her a lot of answers—which, when boiled down, amounted to this: That there were lots of lonely young servicemen in Washington every week end with no place to go and no friends. So Mrs. Drysdale got busy.

Mrs. Drysdale had some good ideas as to what to do to give young men a good time. She has three sons of her own. Two are on active duty as lieutenants in the Army Air Forces—both with fighter squadrons — and the youngest has been sworn in as an aviation cadet and is waiting to be called. The only pieces of jewelry that Mrs. Drysdale wears are the silver wings of the elder sons—the tiny gold wings of the young cadet and the two identification solo "crash tags" which she has as bracelets. They are fine looking boys, all three—she showed us their photographs—and she thinks they like knowing that she's doing something for other men in the service. But, to go on with the plans for these Saturday night suppers.

The ladies of the committee arranged that the suppers should take place at Fellowship House, at 3563 Massachusetts Avenue, every Saturday evening from 6:30 to 10:30. They put Mrs. Drysdale in charge of getting the young men and Government girls and young women from the various sister churches. They made Mrs. Glossbrenner responsible for all the marketing and the ment girls and planning of they elected Mrs. Ruffin to get together a group of women who would prepare and serve the food. The money to buy the food was raised by contributions.

At that time the stove at Fellowship House was an old one with only two small burners. So Mrs. Glossbrenner herself prepared all the hot dishes at home and carried them to the Fellowship House to be served. Now, also through voluntary contributions—there's a shiny and adequate new stove so the food is all prepared at Fellowship House.

In summer time there's a huge porch for sitting-out. In winter there's a blazing fire in the big fireplace.

Through Rear Admiral Pettengill it was arranged to have the orchestra from the Navy School of Music to play for these parties once a month. Other Saturdays they dance to the music of a juke-box. It's a gala night when the Navy School orchestra comes—and there are hot biscuits and chicken then too. . . .

Other churches have become interested in these successful parties and so have other organizations. Last year one chapter of the DAR gave up its annual luncheon and instead gave the money toward making decorations and presents for a Christmas party for the servicemen.

If you'd like to help keep these parties going—right now there's a crying need for some new tables—they don't have to be new really if they're good and strong. But the ones the servicemen are using now are getting pretty frail and wobbly.

Press Women Fete Col. Hobby, Comdr. McAfee

Speakers Outline Aims of WAACS And WAVES

Wishing to play no favorites, the Woman's Press Club presented a double-header, with Col. Oveta Culp Hobby and Lt. Comdr. Mildred H. McAfee as star players at the club's first meeting of the season yesterday at the Willard Hotel.

Many varieties of women's uniforms of military and volunteer services were conspicuous, both at the speakers' table and among the audience. The outstanding British women's military organizations were represented, as well as their Canadian counterparts. Uniformed members of the Army and Navy Nursing Corps also attended. Miss Christine Sadler, president, introduced the speakers.

Clear-cut and concise, as would befit an Army officer, Col Hobby, head of the Woman's Army Auxiliary Corps, presented statistics anent the growth of the WAACS. "At the moment the WAACS are 2,063 strong," she said, "and we expect to have trained altogether 12,000 officers and auxiliaries by the end of the year. By May, 1943, we expect to have reached 25,000, which is the number specified by the President."

Four companies, averaging 150 officers and auxiliaries, will be sent abroad this year, Col. Hobby added, to serve with American expeditionary forces. These companies will be composed of radio communications experts and clerks.

"When I see the women in training at Fort Des Moines," she continued, "I realize that they have not lost one iota of charm. They have proven conclusively that women do not lose their essential status as women by serving with the military forces and under military discipline. They retain their charm."

The director of the WAACS praised the high ideals which motivated women in their applications for admission to service. "They serve with duty and devotion," she said. "They leave behind them pleasure and comforts, highly paid jobs and civilian amenities." Before the war is over, she concluded, "women will be doing everything except carry a gun."

Lt. Comdr. McAfee's celebrated wit ran true to form and the director of the WAVES kept her audience in chuckles throughout her lucid interpretation of the Women's Reserve of the United States Naval Reserve, as her branch of the Navy is formally known.

The WAVES program is already ahead of schedule, she said, and when the indoctrination and instruction school for officer candidates opens formally at Smith College on October 6, there will be 900 candidates at Smith College proper plus an "overflow" of 300 commuting candidates at Mt. Holyoke College in South Hadley, making a total of 1,200 officer candidates in training. The immediate goal is to create a force of 10,000 officers and enlisted personnel.

"The limits of women's usefulness and inventive genius have not by any means been reached in this country," Lt. Comdr. McAfee said as she paid tribute to the fair sex here and in Great Britain. "It is furthermore the hope of all of us that we shall be able to catch up with the mere shadow of what our sisters in Great Britain have achieved."

"One very gratifying aspect is the high quality of the women who apply for admission into the Women's Reserve," she concluded. "If Hitler only knew what he is up against, he would resign right now!"

League to Emphasize District's Voteless Plight to Nation

By Frances Lide.

A campaign to bring Nationwide attention to the "problem of government for the District of Columbia" through extensive circulation of a broadside entitled "Washington: Our National Home Town" is being mapped by the Voteless District League of Women Voters for September 21-25, according to an announcement today by Mrs. Eugene Callaghan, league president.

The broadside has been prepared by the National League of Women Voters as the latest in its series on public questions and is the first to deal with the District of Columbia. Broadsides issued by the national league go to 600 member organizations in 33 States for circulation in their individual communities.

MRS. EUGENE CALLAGHAN.

Distribution in the District by the voteless league will be designed to reach new residents, including thousands who recently arrived here to take jobs in the war agencies.

A total of 25,000 copies will be turned over to a corps of campaign workers at an instruction meeting to be held at 12:30 p.m. Friday at the YWCA.

Mrs. Eugene Duffield, newly appointed chairman of the Committee on Suffrage in the Voteless League of Women Voters, will direct the operations, which are expected to involve approximately 1,000 women.

Branding Washington's system of government as "slow, indirect and irresponsible," the broadside points out that no citizen of the District votes for any one.

The league is taking the case of Washington to the country because only elected representatives can change the form of government here.

Local campaign workers will be spurred by the knowledge that many newcomers to the Capital have a voting residence back home.

"From every Congressional district in the country people are coming to Washington," Mrs. Duffield said. "They are having trouble finding places to live, trouble getting back and forth to work, trouble finding hospital care.

"The broadside shows them why the District Government cannot handle those problems."

The District league plans to reach the public through neighborhood door-to-door canvassing, in busy downtown areas, in such points as housing registries and in recreational and educational centers.

Dog Mascots at Sea Good Plane Detectors

By the Associated Press.

LONDON.—Dog mascots aboard British warships escorting convoys in the North Sea have now gone into the record as airplane detectors.

Several commanding officers said they had found that most of their pets at sea, after experiencing a few attacks, sensed the approach of aircraft before the sound of engines reached human ears.

The dogs, all mongrels, stiffen and point in the direction from which the sound is traveling.

Ciechanowski Ably Speaks For Cause of Valiant Poles

Diplomat Grateful for Aid of Americans Whose Qualities and Sincerity He Admires

By CATHERINE HAMBLEY.

JAN CIECHANOWSKI.

Poland has been fought over for centuries, Danzig being its main thoroughfare to the Baltic and Warsaw and Cracow the gateways to the granary of the Ukraine and the riches beyond. Treaties have been desecrated, as in the latest instance by Hitler, but the stubborn Poles rapidly rise to claim their independence. This constant fight for existence has developed a distinct racial characteristic exemplified in keen-eyed, 54-year-old Ambassador Jan Ciechanowski.

He resembles the Slavic type and expresses a broad point of view in perfect English.

After studying at Karlsruhe University in Germany, he majored in economics at the University of Birmingham, England.

A wariness, which fails to hide his great charm, ever keeps him a diplomat—and a clever one at that! You soften under his quick smile and admire his businesslike ways. You cannot help wanting to know him better and always are hopeful of doing so, though he is skillful at sidetracking you from himself to his country.

Grateful for the support of America, he has a feeling of friendship for its people whose "downright qualities and sincerity delight me!" He stresses the community of ideals between Poles and Americans. Today we are facing the aggression which Poland has faced time and time again, and is resisting now.

Proud of His Sons.

He speaks with pride of his sons. The Ambassador visited California this June and, by the invitation of the RAF, presented "Lado," short for Wladislaw, with his wings on completion of his pilot training under American instructors. The 18-year-old youth sailed shortly for fighter duty abroad.

The Ambassador digresses to mention the toughness, the accuracy of eyesight and the quick reactions of the Polish Air Force, which supplemented the intrepid spirit of the RAF in the Battle of Britain. The eldest, "Johnny," has been with the Polish Motorized Cavalry in Scotland for two years while Stanislas is attending school at Providence, R. I.

The Ambassador can always join in the fun which is inevitably helped by his sharp sense of humor. Though his life is subordinated to the war effort, he appreciates Bach and Mozart and loves a Gershwin tune or a well-orchestrated swing piece. His love of music was increased by his relationship with the late Prime Minister, Ignacy Jan Paderewski.

Counsellor in London.

In 1919, after being chief secretary to the British section of the foreign office, he became chief of secretariat for the Prime Minister at the Paris peace conference. He remembers how the musician, with no time for the piano, would drum unconsciously on his desk and the arms of his chair.

After the conference he became counsellor of the Legation at London. In 1925 he was sent to take over the job of chief of division to the foreign Office in Warsaw and later was appointed Minister to Washington, holding this post until 1929. Assistant secretary of the Foreign Office in Paris and London, he finally came here as Ambassador in February, 1941.

His two estates in the southwest of Poland were looted and occupied and a collection of Dutch and Flemish paintings may be hanging at this moment in Reichsmarshal Goering's home.

But when in Poland he enjoyed taking part in the "shoots"; wild boar, lynx, deer, wolf as well as pheasant, blackcock, and woodcock being good hunting there. He also enjoyed listening to heavyweight bouts over the radio in pre-Munich days.

Works Late at His Job.

The deluge has hit the envoy full on. He attacks his work with zest, often being up beyond midnight. Yes, it is total war for Ambassador Ciechanowski. He is hard and realistic toward the task at hand and he is doing his job; representing his government, negotiating with ours, and lending a helping hand to refugees and to Polish communities over here. He must be ready to leave town at an instant's notice; has made as many as four speeches a day.

From behind his huge desk he states that victory must establish the "total peace indispensable after total war" and adds that a step in the direction of permanent stability was accomplished when a pact was signed between Czechoslovakia and Poland outlining a post-par confederation between the two Slav states on democratic lines. In regard to Russia, he hopes bygones will be bygones and that the present brotherhood in arms between Russia and Poland will lay the foundation for collaboration in the future.

On leaving him you still wonder what he really does feel, sure of only two things—his intense patriotism and the fact that you like him immensely.

A. P. New York Office Signs New Guild Pact

New Municipal Court Of Appeals Adopts Simplified Procedure

Rules Are Designed To Speed Cases and Reduce Costs

With a simple form of procedure and low costs emphasized, rules of the new Municipal Court of Appeals have been formally adopted, it was announced yesterday.

To take effect next Monday, the rules were said by officials to be designed to shorten as much as possible the time between the decision of cases by the trial court and the disposition on appeal.

Uses Original Records.

It was pointed out that the rules give the court broad powers, on its own initiative or at the instance of parties, to bring original papers and records from the trial court in order to curtail the time for preparation of the appeal in minor cases.

With regard to fees, the adopted schedule eliminates items which result in expense to the parties and are regarded as unnecessary in most cases. For instance, a cost bond is not required except when ordered by the court.

Bar Groups Assist.

Chief Judge William E. Richardson and Associate Judges Nathan Cayton and Andrew M. Hood adopted the rules after conferences with leading attorneys. The three judges expressed appreciation for the aid of committees of the District Bar Association, the Women's Bar Association and the Washington Bar Association. Respective heads of the committees are Louis M. Denit, Mrs. Augusta H. Brown and Henry Lincoln Johnson, jr.

C. Newell Atkinson is clerk of the court, which was created in July to hear appeals from Municipal Court.

Sept. 11 Preview of Army's Air-Raid Show Planned

By the Associated Press.

The new Army show, called "Action Overhead," designed to demonstrate what may occur during an air raid, will have a preview presentation at College Park, Md., September 11 before touring major cities in the East and Middle West, the War Department has announced.

Developed by the War Department civilian protection school, operated at the University of Maryland by the Chemical Warfare Service, the show will demonstrate various types of bombs, including aerial attack on a miniature town, and the methods of dealing with incendiaries.

The preview will be restricted to Army and Navy officers, military and naval attaches and officials of the Office of Civilian Defense.

The show will move to New York for three performances at the Polo Grounds the nights of September 18, 19 and 21. The itinerary for other performances was not announced.

Sergeant Donates Car, Good Tires, to Salvage

By the Associated Press.

MIDLAND, Tex.—Sergt. J. R. Westmoreland of the Midland Army Flying School, with two brothers fighting on foreign fronts, decided he wasn't doing enough to help win the war.

So he drove to Midland County's scrap metal and rubber salvage headquarters, parked his automobile, yelled "there she is," and flipped the keys to the worker in charge.

The car had good tires, too.

OPA Hikes Price To Absorb Cost Of Wage Boost

For the first time, the Office of Price Administration raised minimum prices of a product today to absorb the cost of a wage increase granted by the National War Labor Board.

Wooden posts and certain other lumber products used in mines were affected, but, in increasing their price an average of 20 per cent, OPA laid down a general policy which eventually may affect many other commodities.

OPA officials said it was their policy "to give consideration to increased labor costs arising from wage advances if, but only if, the increased wage rates have been ordered by the National War Labor Board and if the seller is unable to absorb the increased labor costs."

The particular price increase on which the principle was laid down followed an hourly wage increase of from 10½ to 20 per cent for workers engaged in making these wooden mine materials.

The wage increase and consequent price raises apply only to approximately 30 counties in Southwestern Pennsylvania, Northern Maryland and West Virginia.

Soldier Who Cashed Slain Woman's Check Sought as Killer

Two Social Workers' Nude Bodies Found Along Wisconsin Road

By the Associated Press.

TOMAH, Wis., Sept. 9.—Information that a man wearing a soldier's uniform had cashed a check issued to Miss Dorothy Baun gave Monroe County authorities today a clue to the rape-slaying of Miss Baun and Miss Neil John Pietrangeli, State welfare workers.

Miss Baun, 32, was found mortally wounded on a road eight miles east of Tomah, Tuesday morning. The body of Miss Pietrangeli, 30, was discovered later in dense brush 100 feet away. Both had been stripped of their clothing and shot twice. An autopsy revealed both had been raped

Cashed at Filling Station.

Sheriff Hallett Jenkins said Elmer Blado, proprietor of a Tomah filling station, told him a man in uniform drove into his station in a convertible coupe, purchased gasoline and tendered a $10 check in payment. The check, Blado said, was issued by the Kenosha County welfare organization, to Miss Baun and was indorsed with her name.

The Kenosha County pension department which formerly employed Miss Baun, reported that such a check had been issued in her favor on September 1.

One Still Conscious.

Sheriff Jenkins said he believed both women had been shot while in Miss Pietrangeli's automobile and their bodies thrown alongside the Oakland Township road.

Miss Baun was conscious when she was found lying in the road by Alick Chambers, a milk truck driver. He told authorities that she "begged me to get her to a doctor," and while en route to a Tomah hospital she mumbled, "They hit us and robbed us of our car." She died before reaching the hospital. A searching party later found the body of Miss Pietrangeli in the brush about 100 feet from the road.

Miss Pietrangeli was a social worker at the State Public School for Dependent Children at Sparta and Miss Baun held a similar post for the State Parole Board.

Two District Residents Among 61 Indicted As Lottery Operators

$12,000,000 Obtained In 1940, San Francisco Grand Jury Charges

Sixty-one persons in 38 cities and towns of the United States and Canada, including two District residents, have been charged with violations of the lottery laws in a secret indictment returned by a Federal grand jury in San Francisco August 26, it was disclosed today.

Among those named in the indictment were Abe and David Cohen, 4210 Arkansas avenue N.W., operators of the Metropolitan News Agency, 603 Fifteenth street N.W.

The two were arrested yesterday and, after a preliminary removal hearing before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage, were released on $2,500 bond each. The hearing on their removal to San Francisco will be continued on September 24.

Two-Year Investigation.

The secret indictment resulted from investigations conducted by Post Office Department inspectors, during the last two years.

According to the Associated Press, Assistant United States Attorney Valentine Hammack in San Francisco, estimated that the lottery promoters in 1940 obtained at least $12,000,000. Headquarters were in Nicaragua, though most of the tickets were sold in this country.

The lottery was called the Tres America Sweepstake. Tickets were $1 each, with winners to be determined by the outcome of horse races at Santa Anita and other large race tracks in the United States.

Buyers of lottery tickets were promised prizes as high as $45,000 in public drawings to be held in Managua, Nicaragua, where lotteries are legal.

Three Drawings Held.

The drawings were actually held, it was said, one in late 1939 and two more in 1940. The lottery was launched, according to Mr. Hammack, for the purpose of getting the business that went to the Irish Sweepstakes before the war.

Others named in the indictment in addition to the Cohens, according to Mr. Hammack, were L. I. Wickline, Covington, Va.; L. E. Freeland, Roanoke, Va.; and J. H. Harrington, Mechanicsville, Va.

Britain Won't Recognize Nazi Seizure of Austria

OPA Counsel to Quiz Gas Officials Further At Friday PUC Session

Company Hopes for Early Closing of Case On Rate Increase

Hearings on the threatened increase in consumer rates of the Washington Gas Light Co. are to be resumed at 10 a.m. Friday before the District Public Utilities Commission, with counsel for the OPA continuing to examine gas company officials regarding various expenses now charged to operation costs paid by consumers.

There are indications that the PUC majority may call a halt on such examination since it ruled yesterday that some of the aims of the questioning of Harry R. Booth, OPA utilities counsel, were beyond the scope of the current rate adjustment hearing.

When the hearing was adjourned yesterday, Mr. Booth was examining company witnesses about depreciation accounting procedures and Gregory Hankin, commission member and former PUC chairman, was asking about the propriety of the company charging certain advertising costs to consumers. Income tax accounting previously had been challenged by the two.

Mr. Booth said he would try to have ready Friday an OPA statement about application of the Federal program against price inflation to the pending question of a gas rate boost, but that he could not guarantee it would be completed.

Company Seeks to Close Case.

After testimony is finished, he said, he would need about two weeks for preparation of briefs but that if the PUC wished arguments presented orally, a somewhat less time would be required.

Company officials yesterday were insisting on an early closing of the case and are expected to renew such demands Friday. Adjusted rates for the new year were supposed to have gone into effect September 1, under normal operation of the sliding scale plan.

While there were yearly rate reductions under the sliding scale plan until last year, there is now pending a question of a rate boost of $324,000 to $357,000.

Late yesterday Mr. Hankin issued a formal statement in which he took issue with the PUC majority, James H. Flanagan and Brig. Gen. Charles W. Kutz, in ruling beyond the scope of the present hearing certain questions raised by the OPA representative.

Would Curb Inflation.

Mr. Hankin said:

"I did not, and do not, join in the prepared statement read by the chairman. Being thoroughly in accord with the President's efforts to prevent inflation in the cost of living, as set forth in his Labor Day address, I am, of course, in thorough agreement with the OPA that unwarranted increases in rates should not be tolerated by this commission, and that this commission, as a part of the Federal Government, should support the administration's policy.

"Of course, it is desirable that the present proceeding be expeditiously terminated, but it is still more important that the issues be accurately determined. I find that the evidence brought out by counsel for the OPA in his cross-examination of the company's witness is relevant, not only to the question whether increases in rates would be justified by present economic conditions, but also whether they would be justified under the sliding scale arrangement, if that arrangement were fairly and properly applied."

Two Dead, Seven Hurt In Traffic Accidents Of Last Two Days

Man Killed on Road To Baltimore; Another Dies in Virginia Crash

Traffic accidents in nearby areas during the last two days have resulted in the deaths of two persons, one a Washington man, and injuries to seven others.

The dead are:

Howard Brown, 32, colored, of Lynchburg, Va., who burned to death when his trailer truck plunged over an embankment on the Little River Turnpike, two miles east of Fairfax.

Mr. Brown's truck, according to witnesses, attempted to pass another truck near the top of a hill. The two vehicles struck, police were told by Arthur Smith of Fairfax, driver of the other truck, and Mr. Brown's van ricocheted over the embankment. The trailer part of the truck piled up on the cab and the wreckage began to burn immediately.

Passersby managed to pull Thomas Thurman, 17, of Alexandria and Hiram Wright, 26, colored, of Lynchburg, out of the wreckage, but were unable to save Mr. Brown. The other two were in serious condition in Alexandria Hospital.

Mr. Gatewood was killed when his car collided with another driven by Steve Nemecek of New Jersey. Also injured in the crash were Mrs. Myrtle Gatewood, 47, widow of the dead man; Mr. and Mrs. Carl R. Andress, 1247 Meigs street N.E., and Mrs. Nemecek.

Civil Defense Aides To Canvass Homes For Blood Donors

Plan Devised to Boost Contributions for Civilian Population

Civilian defense workers, including wardens and auxiliary police, will be enlisted to make a house-to-house canvass for blood donors, Dr. John A. Reed, chief of the Civilian Defense Emergency Medical Service, announced yesterday.

Blood donors are for the civilian defense blood plasma bank, established in July for the protection of the civilian population.

Only 10 per cent of the goal of 2,000 250-cc. units so far has been donated, Dr. Reed said.

The blood bank, established with funds donated by the Central Labor Union, will make it possible for hospitals within the Metropolitan Area to have on hand a reserve of blood plasma to be used for casualties resulting from enemy attacks.

Announcing that air-raid wardens, auxiliary police and others in the protective services would canvass to obtain signatures on blanks committing individuals to blood donations, Dr. Reed asked that those not approached by the solicitors send their names to him at 1018 Thirteenth street N.W.

At present there are five centers where blood may be donated, at least two of which will be kept open at night for donors who are not free in the daytime. The hospitals include Garfield, Providence, Alexandria, Emergency and Georgetown University.

Dr. Reed emphasized that the establishment of the civilian defense blood bank should in no way interfere with the work of the American Red Cross which is now producing plasma for the armed forces.

In appealing for public co-operation, Dr. Reed said:

"Give your blood, you who have it to spare, on the same noble basis of co-operation for the common good now when danger threatens on the home front in this most terrible of all wars as now actuates our gallant men on the far-flung battle lines. In no way can you contribute more to those who may be called upon to shed their own blood for you.

Break Appears Near As U. S. Spurns Vichy Protest on Bombing

Attacks on German Plants in France to Continue, Laval Is Told

By the Associated Press.

Rupture of United States relations with Vichy once more appeared likely today.

This time it was Vichy's protest against American air raids over Occupied France, and the United States' sharp rejection of that protest, which revived talk of an imminent break.

The protest, delivered personally to the American Charge d'Affairs in Vichy by pro-Axis Chief of Government Pierre Laval, was "immediately" rejected, the State Department disclosed last night, and Laval was notified that the bombing of German military plants in France would continue.

U. S. Rejects Protest.

Laval protested specifically against recent bombings of Le Havre and Rouen, both in the occupied zone, in which he said there were numerous casualties.

In rejecting the protest and assuring Laval that the attacks would continue, American Charge d'Affaires S. Pinkney Tuck drew no distinction between Occupied and Unoccupied France, stating simply that "military plants operated by or for Germany and other German military properties will be bombed at every opportunity in the future."

Mr. Tuck emphasized that Americans have no desire to see Frenchmen suffer any more than can be avoided, "since they have already suffered to an incalculable extent under German occupation," but he left no doubt that attacks on German objectives would be continued regardless of protests.

Nazi Pressure Expected.

While the bluntness of the American rejection caused new speculation as to a possible break with Vichy, there was no indication that the State Department contemplated such a step. Observers familiar with the recurrent crisis in Vichy-United States relations expected that a break, if it came, would be on Vichy's initiative under German pressure.

Entering into such speculations were reports that Germany was pressing Vichy for permission to Station troops and planes at Dakar, strategic French base on Africa's west coast.

U. S. Rejection Note Not Received by Vichy

VICHY, Sept. 9 (AP).—A source close to the government said today that Washington's rejection of the Vichy protest over the American air raids on German-occupied France had not yet been received officially.

This informant, who insisted that his name be withheld, said the bombing of Rouen—the immediate cause of the protest—was "at Stalin's orders."

"The French nation will not be duped," he declared, adding that "such raids will only succeed in uniting the indignant French around their legitimate government against their real enemies.

140 Killed in Rouen Raid.

The French Information Service said that 140 Frenchmen were killed and 420 injured in the Saturday raid by Flying Fortresses. This was a sharp increase over previously announced figures.

The Vichy radio quoted the Journal de Rouen as saying rescue services were unable to cope with the havoc caused by the raid. Buildings all over town collapsed and German troops were called in to assist with rescue work and fire fighting, the paper said.

Indiscriminate Bombing Charged.

An editorial in the newspaper Le Moniteur accused the raiders of indiscriminate bombing, saying that "British and American bombers coming from Great Britain subjected Rouen—and, it seems, indeed, this is the method they henceforth intend to follow—to a pure and simple general 'dousing.'"

As attention to the recent raid broadened, the Paris Municipal Council telegraphed sympathy to the city of Rouen.

The German radio said a big apartment building in Rue de la Republique, Rouen's main street, collapsed, burying all the tenants under debris. Authorities have not yet been able to determine how many people were buried, the broadcast said.

The German-controlled Paris radio suggested that British and American citizens in Unoccupied France should be made hostages and "answer with their heads for the bombing of French cities and the French civilian population."

Three Are Arrested, Two by New Officer, In Thefts of Tires

Police Expect Solution Of Several Recent District Robberies

Police today reported apprehension of three men in connection with two tire theft cases and said they believed the arrest of two of them will lead to the solution of several recent District tire robberies.

The two were arrested in the 1100 block of Nineteenth street N.W. and booked for investigation at No. 3 precinct.

According to Capt. Oscar J. Letterman of No. 3, the arrest was made by Pvt. L. G. Kragh, who has been on the force only a few months.

Pvt. Kragh observed the men in the front seat of an automobile which had been reported stolen and, at his approach, the suspects fled. He caught them and discovered that the tags had been changed on the stolen car.

Four tires and four wheels were found in the back of the car.

Police at No. 10 precinct reported the arrest of a 19-year-old colored youth who was stripping a car in the 3300 block of Georgia avenue N.W.

Lt. Ben Kuehling and Pvt. Raymond Briggs of No. 10 responded to a telephone tip and caught the youth, who admitted the theft of 15 tires and 15 wheels over a period of several months.

Meanwhile, police are investigating the theft of two tires, tubes and wheels from the automobile of Representative Mitchell, Democrat, of Illinois.

The Representative's wife, Mrs. Annie H. Mitchell, told police the car was in a garage behind the Mitchell home at 1320 R street N.W. when the tires were stolen.

Lisbon Unimpressed By German Film of Dieppe 'Victory'

Narrative Particularly Unconvincing to Critic; Contradition Is Cited

By the Associated Press.

LISBON, Portugal, Sept. 9.—Neither the scenes nor the commentary of the German propaganda film "How We Dealt With the British at Dieppe" impressed a single movie critic in this Portuguese capital, one of whom called it "a poor show which can not convince even those who know little about movies."

Many residents of Lisbon had been invited by the Nazi legation to the premier showing last night.

"In my opinion," summed up Augusto Fraga, one of Lisbon's leading movie critics, "at least their cameramen were taken by surprise and unable to produce one of their first-class newsreels.

"In order to produce this film they had to bring in a lot of clever studio work and make-up which no longer pass unnoticed by movie fans."

The narrative was particularly unconvincing to Fraga, who compared a picture of a British tank captured in a street fight in the heart of Dieppe and the script which said, "All their tanks never passed the beach defenses. * * * The majority fell in the water."

"The only real things actually shown," he said, "were British prisoners being marched in the streets —some in underwear—and the tremendous destruction the raiders did until their re-embarkation.

"The man commenting on the film did not impress the audience very much either. He meant to help the poor show by joking about each scene. * * * Such statements aimed to make the audience laugh * * * found no or little response."

Audience Unenthusiastic.

After describing one scene showing swarms of barges, ships and warcraft on the Channel which he called similar or the same as has appeared in the British press, Fraga said, "The monotonous voice of the commentator went on explaining to the unenthusiastic audience while swarms of RAF planes were shown flying low over the heads of the cameramen."

He described as the most impressive scene "the gloomy sight of scores of men—probably hundreds—who fell dead on barbed-wire fences."

"The commentator did not explain how they were killed," he added, "but the general impression was that the barbed wire carried a strong electric current, because some were holding the wires tight with both hands."

"Could-a knocked me over with a feather when I saw

SO MUCH MORE SUDS"

Mrs. Mabel Quinlan of Hicksville, New York didn't take our word about more suds and longer-lastin' suds. She made the "milk-bottle suds test" described below and saw for herself. We hope you will, too.

● For years and years women 've been sayin': "What's needed to really ease up washing troubles is more suds and longer-lasting suds." Guess all us soap makers 've known that's what they wanted. Goodness knows, women have kept asking for that kind of "more-suds" soap. Trouble was, more suds was hard to get. But we kept after it and after it and now we've got it...more suds in Super Suds!

They're longer-lasting suds, too—richer suds with extra gumption. Oh, yes, that's easy to say, you may think—but, ladies, we don't just say it. We prove it. In the simplest way you can imagine, just with two milk-bottles. Won't you please do this test yourself? It's sure worth it.

LADIES, PLEASE MAKE THIS EASY "MILK-BOTTLE SUDS TEST"...IT PAYS!

Put two teaspoons of your present wash-day soap and a glass of water, even hard or cold water, into a milk-bottle. Do the same with new sudsier Super Suds in another milk-bottle. Shake 'em up. See if you don't get much more suds and longer-lasting suds from Super Suds.

DSC Awarded Flyer Who Rammed Plane Into Jap Fighter

Californian Saved Life Of Squadron Commander With Daring Feat

By the Associated Press.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Sept. 9.—An American lieutenant who deliberately rammed his plane into a Japanese fighter to save the life of his squadron commander was one of nine officers of the United States Army Air Forces honored with the Distinguished Service Cross today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

He is Second Lt. A. T. House of Long Beach, Calif., who not only destroyed the enemy fighter by crashing his left wing against its cockpit, but was able to break away and, though his plane was crippled, return to his base and land safely.

His citation said he already had destroyed one fighter in the action, which occurred March 3 near Horn Island, off the North Australian coast, before he flew to the aid of his squadron leader. When he got into position, however, he found his guns were jammed, so he rammed the foe.

Other air force officers awarded Distinguished Service Crosses for "extraordinary heroism in action" on battle fronts from the Philippines to Australia were:

MacLean Patterson Made Managing Editor of Sun

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 8.—Appointment of MacLean Patterson as managing editor of the Baltimore Sun, effective yesterday, was announced by Executive Editor Neil H. Swanson.

Mr. Patterson succeeds H. K. Fleming, who resigned to take a position with the United States Board of Economic Warfare.

Mr. Patterson, 30, attended Gilman School and studied at the Sorbonne and the Ecole Libres des Sciences Politiques in Paris. He spent six months in 1936 in Japan, working with James R. Young, then business manager of the Japan Advertiser, and subsequently traveled in China, the Philippines, India, Egypt, Italy, France and England.

Double Feature Keeps Bond Buyer Entertained

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 9.—Miss Rose Eisen tried to buy a War bond from Russell Teel, theater manager.

He had none but invited her to watch the show. "I'll scurry around and get you a bond."

He scurried—to two widely separated post office substations and finally to another theater (he couldn't park within three blocks of it) before he could buy the bond.

Vet Gets Old Rifle

A home guard in Coventry, England, was issued a rifle like the one he had at Gallipoli in the last war, and comparing the number with some records he discovered it was the same rifle.

Marylanders Held Stocking Up Against Dry Day

By the Associated Press.

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 9. — Marylanders may be building up private stocks of liquor against a dry day of liquor rationing or higher prices.

That, at least, is one supposition Controller Joseph O'C. McCusker advances to explain the reason for the climb in the State's liquor-tax receipts. Gross tax receipts last month were $620,597, against $444,779 in August, 1941.

"We can only guess at the reason liquor-tax receipts are climbing, but we don't believe the increased business they reflect represents current consumption," Mr. McCusker said.

"Last spring tax receipts were falling. But matters are different now; conditions are not normal. A tax bill providing a $2 increase in the levy on liquor is pending in Washington, and there is some prospect that liquors may be rationed for consumption, or that the Federal Government may stop their manufacture altogether. So we believe the consuming public is stocking up. Perhaps the retailers also are adding to their stocks."

Some retailers, however, said they think the gain in population in Maryland is responsible for the increased consumption.

From Monday through Sunday there should be many a Bond day.

Community War Fund To Ask $4,141,000 From 300,000 in D. C.

Eight United Nations Relief Agencies Are Accepted as Members

Uniting many appeals for the support of a variety of home front and war front welfare services, the Community War Fund will seek a total of $4,141,000 from more than 300,000 givers in the District next month.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the War Fund yesterday the goal was set and the member agencies as recommended by the Admissions and Budgets Committee were approved.

The United Service Organizations are included in the goal for a total budget of $597,776. For the eight United Nation War Relief agencies accepted as members a sum of $399,460 is the amount set as needed through the fund in 1943 to provide food, medicine and aid in child care sent through these agencies to civilian war sufferers in the Allied countries.

Sick and Helpless to Benefit.

To guarantee the continuance of nearly 100 local welfare services to the young, the old, the sick and the helpless who need aid in the community the amount budgeted will be $2,522,406.

For "Home Front War Services" the budget approved through the War Fund is $356,361. Included in this category are the American Social Hygiene Association, the Civilian Defense Volunteer Office, the Child Care Committee and the War Hospitality Committee, the Rhoades Service Men's Club, the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Club and the Defense Commission of the District Federation of Churches.

The committee also anticipates the addition of the local Stage Door Canteen as a War Fund member.

Many Services Rendered.

Supplementing similar hospitality by the USO, the "Home Front War Services" budget is described as necessary for the support of a wide variety of local war hospitality services for men in uniform and for war workers, such as those rendered by Servicemen's Club No. 1, Banneker Service Men's Center, Volunteer Camp Shows, Women's Battalion for Service Dances, Sylvan Theater Entertainments, Officers' Club, the Information Booth, the Weekly Recreation Bulletin, as well as for the cots, soap, towels, refreshing showers and help in individual problems.

Described as an important feature of the Community War Fund is the final major element—the Contingency Fund—budgeted for $264,997.

The Contingency Fund is set up to assure contributors that they will not be asked to contribute again for 1943 to any of the above organizations, nor to any other war relief agency that may be organized during 1943 to meet a genuine need among our allies in the war. It is the contributor's guarantee that one gift to the War Fund will not only cover needs now known, but needs that may develop in 1943 to which he would want to make an additional gift.

Wiedemann Reported Hurt In Tokio Train Wreck

By the Associated Press.

Kilsoo Haan, Washington representative of the Sino-Korean People's League, said yesterday he has received reports from Korean patriotic organizations that Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, former German Consul General at San Francisco, and Japanese Navy Minister Admiral Shimada were severely burned in a train derailment near Tokio July 3.

Mr. Haan said that he was informed by members of the patriotic terrorist organization Eurldan that 26 persons were killed and 92 injured in the wreck and that Ken Inukai, eldest son of former Japanese Premier Inukai, was arrested and imprisoned on charges of financing and aiding the Eurldan in derailing the train.

He said Inuaki also was charged with arson on two Japanese freighters and with aiding in the attempted assassination some months ago of Premier Tojo and Koki Hirota, second in command of the Black Dragon, a Japanese secret society.

Face-Lifting Fails As Disguise for Jap

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—Fred T. Korematsu, Oakland (Calif.) Japaanese who said he had his face altered by surgery in the hope he might pass as a Spaniard, was convicted in Federal Court yesterday of illegally entering a military zone.

Judge A. F. St. Sure placed the 23-year-old defendant, an American citizen, on five years' probation.

Specifically, Korematsu was accused of failing to comply with the Army order excluding all Japaanese, whether foreign or native born, from the Pacific seaboard military area.

In a statement, read aloud by Judge St. Sure, Korematsu said most of his friends were Caucasians and he wanted to earn enough money to take his Italian fiance to the Midwest where he thought no one would recognize him as Japanese.

"I guess the face-lifting job was no good," Korematsu told the court. "When I was taken to the Tanforan Assembly Center everybody recognized me."

Korematsu said he tried to enlist in the Army, but was turned down because of physical disability.

Colored Church Group Plans Court Action In Assault on Train

Capital Clergyman One Of Two Struck in Face On Way to Convention

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 9.—The Rev. Robert Moody of Hartford, Conn., spokesman for a delegation to the National Baptist Convention here, indicated today that the group was considering court action as the result of assaults they charged two white men made on two of their number on a Memphis-bound train yesterday.

Mr. Moody said he was not ready "yet" to announce any planned court action, but he indicated such a move was anticipated.

Conductor Corroborates Charges.

Written statements, one bearing 15 and the other 16 names of members of the delegation, charged that Dr. J. C. Jackson, 76, of Hartford, Conn., and the Rev. S. A. Young of Washington were struck in the face by white men as they made their way through the white daycoach.

Conductor J. T. Askew of the Southern Railway train heard the written charges and corroborated them, and Dr. Jackson, president of the New England Baptist Convention, stood by nodding his head as they were read to reporters.

Will Make Full Report.

The statements charged that the two incidents occurred about 35 minutes apart as the train passed through North Albama. Mr. Young, a daycoach passenger, was en route to the diner in the rear of the train, the statements said, when he was accosted and struck by a white man, and Dr. Jackson, a passenger in the Negro-occupied Pullman, was passing through the white car en route to his seat from a visit in the Negro daycoach. He was struck by two men, the statements said, his eyes and lips being cut and his spectacles broken.

Conductor Askew said he would make a full report to railroad officials today, including the names of the white men involved. He said trouble "would really have been bad if I hadn't got there and broken up the second affair."

Some of the white passengers, Mr. Askew said, were angry because the Negroes continued to go to and from their Pullman and the Negro daycoach.

Guard Rails on Loading Platform Are Urged

Guard rails for the streetcar loading platform at the west end of the Benning viaduct were urged last night by the Benning Citizens' Association, after members were told of the hazard of waiting persons being crowded into the street at rush hours.

Plans were discussed to have no parking signs erected opposite the platform so that persons would not be required to walk between parked cars in order to reach the platform.

Officers will be elected at the next meeting.

3 Eagle Squadrons Credited With 73 Enemy Aircraft

Nearly All of Victories Scored Over Channel And North France

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Three American Eagle squadrons of the Royal Air Force, veterans of the Western front air war in which compatriots of the United States Army Air Forces have joined, are officially credited with destruction of 73 enemy aircraft.

The Air Ministry announced the toll of the hard-hitting and offensive-minded American Eagle groups today. Nearly all their confirmed victories were scored during operations over the English Channel and Northern France.

They have taken part in many engagements since the original squadron drew blood in its first dogfight above France more than a year ago. The Eagles, escorting an an RAF bombing force, shot down three Messerschmitts on that occasion.

One of them fell to the guns of Gregory "Gus" Daymond of Los Angeles. He was a pilot officer then. Today he is squadron leader in command of the 1st Eagles and wears the Distinguished Flying Cross and Bar. Daymond recently destroyed his seventh enemy aircraft. His squadron's total bag is 41.

The 2d Squadron is credited with 18, six of which were shot down August 31 in a battle over the Somme area.

Citizens' Association Makes Plans for Scrap Collection

Logan-Thomas Circle Group to Provide Both Depot and Truck

The Logan-Thomas Circle Citizens' Association last night set up plans for scrap collection in the area, "to do its part in the metal salvage campaign." The home of the association's president, Mrs. Ella M. Thompson, 1536 Sixteenth street N.W., was chosen as the central depot for the neighborhood.

The association also decided to provide a truck to carry all material collected to whatever dumping place is found to be suitable.

A motion made by Kenneth C. Robbins, secretary, calling for indorsement of a Senate bill to outlaw walkathons in the District, was passed unanimously.

Mrs. Thompson opened the meeting with the declaration that the dutes and obligations of citizens' groups increase during wartime. She said she was opposed to the attitude expressed by Harry S. Wender, executive vice president of the Federation of Citizens' Associations, when he said before a meeting of the Southeast Council last week that the job of the associations ought to be "streamlined to eliminate work that is not essential to the war effort."

Members of the association agreed with Mrs. Thompson, taking the attitude that all the work of the cvitizens' groups was vital, even in these days.

The next meeting will be held October 13 at the home of the president.

Mexico Builds Hospitals

Decision to place a new type of emergency hospital throughout Mexico is announced at Mexico City following exhibit there of the unit. The hospitals will be of sectional construction to enable shipment by rail or truck and to facilitate erection.

Summit Park Citizens Urged to Support Scrap Metal Drive

Association Also Votes Its Disapproval of Walkathons in D. C.

Urging that everything that can be spared be given to the salvage committees, President James Davis told the Summit Park Citizens' Association that there is a shortage of metals that may soon interfere with production of war materials. "We need it, we've got to have it," Mr. Davis said.

It was pointed out that the Summit Park association will contribute to the Hillcrest Salvage Depot.

A resolution opposing walkathons and urging a law against attendance or promotion of such contests of endurance in the District was adopted by the association.

George Marshall introduced a motion to ask that necessary repairs be made on Bangor and Camden streets S.E.

Officers were nominated for election at the October meeting.

1,500 Cabmen Pledge Continued Operation In Face of Strike Call

Union President Insists Every Taxi Will Go Off Streets Next Wednesday

Pledges collected from 1,500 taxicab drivers who promised yesterday to "keep the cabs rolling" cast some doubt a widespread taxi strike would occur in the Capital next Wednesday, as scheduled by the United Taxicab Drivers, Inc. The independent union has threatened to strike if the Public Utilities Commission does not consider "on or before September 15" its recent order imposing a new zone schedule.

John H. Royer, jr., president of the Combined Cab Services, Inc., announced yesterday his organization had already collected signed pledge cards from 1,500 drivers and that he believed a total of 4,000 of Washington's 5,500 licensed drivers would sign the pledge before next Wednesday.

Edwin A. Glenn, president of the union, insisted the strike will take "every cab off the streets" one minute after midnight next Wednesday morning.

"These signatures were forced out of the boys," he charged, "and they won't mean a thing when the showdown comes."

Mr. Royer said he believed that by continuing to operate drivers could get new tires in the near future through the Office of Price Administration and the Office of Defense Transportation.

Most cab drivers in the city, it appeared, are more concerned now about getting new tires than they are over the zone rate dispute.

The pledge does not mention the threatened strike but states simply, "For the duration of the war, I consider it my patriotic duty to work my cab regularly so that Government officials, defense workers, etc., will be sure of transportation during this great national emergency."

The Bund has gone, but the Bond is here. Buy it now for victory.

$18,052,740 Is Raised By USO War Fund Drive

The spring and summer USO war fund campaign has raised $18,052,740 of a $20,000,000 quota with only 3,219 of the 4,624 communities holding drives before September 19 reporting, Prescott S. Bush, national campaign chairman, announced yesterday in New York.

Cities and towns holding drives in the fall have a quota of $14,000,000 to subscribe, bringing the entire 1942 budget goal to $32,000,000.

The 1942 budget was based on the operation of 940 USO clubs and units but this program has already been exceeded and the demand for increased USO operations continues, according to Mr. Bush. The drives this year have raised some $4,000,000 more than 1941 when 339 clubs and centers were in operation.

Police Hunting Man Who Shot Woman in Fruitless Holdup

Proprietress of Store Rallies at Sibley From Wound in Abdomen

Police today were questioning a 19-year-old colored man in connection with the shooting last night of Mrs. Rose Ehrlich, 42, proprietress of a general merchandise store at 1026 North Capitol street, last night.

Condition of Mrs. Ehrlich, who was rushed to Sibley Hospital with a bullet in her abdomen, was reported as "good" by hospital attendants this morning.

According to police, the colored man attempted to rob Mrs. Ehrlich at the point of a blue steel revolver and after being told she would give him the money, fired one shot into to shopkeeper's body and fled.

A witness was Jeannette Campbell, 30, of 145 Twelfth street S.E., an employe at the store.

The assailant was described to police as 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighing 130 pounds and having a thin face. He was wearing a brown suit and a dark grey felt hat.

Mrs. Ehrlich lives above the store with her daughter, Dorothy.

'Flying Tigers' Tell Of Fighting Japs At 10-to-1 Odds

83 Airmen in New York After Bagging 300 Planes With Loss of 19 Pilots

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—A group of American flyers out of the West and the South who went to China to beat back Japanese airmen at 10-to-1 odds walked the streets of New York today on a peaceful sightseeing tour. They were the "Flying Tigers," members of the American Volunteer Group from China, and they told about their job of waging war daily—from 3 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Despite handicaps, the final score was 300 enemy planes destroyed or damaged, plus many more "probables," with only 19 AVG men killed or missing in action.

James H. Howard, 29, of St. Louis, a former Navy carrier pilot, said the number of Jap planes shot down was not the most important item. Bombing enemy bases and strafing enemy convoys and supply columns was more indicative of the work accomplished, he said.

The enormous odds against which the group battled was described by Frank L. Lawlor, of Coronado, Calif., who said that on one occasion, when most of one squadron was out on a fighter sweep, only he and another pilot were at the airfield when it was attacked by 24 fighters.

"The Japanese apparently were afraid to fly in clouds," he said. "So we dove at the enemy from the clouds, shot down one each and then went back up into the clouds. After trying to maneuver several times more, we broke up the formation."

The group of 83 flyers arrived recently at an Eastern port and plan to leave shortly for their homes.

Many Textures and Patterns Add Interest to Draperies; Slip Covers Wise Choice

By Margaret Nowell

The new fall colors in fabrics for your house are always important news in September. Three years ago we "fell" for plum, blue and pale pink. The next year the Regency "off-tones" gave us mauve, pale gold, yellow green, tans and browns that had not been on the list for some time. Last fall we saw a soft green and pink combination which has not been in vogue for 25 years. Just as 1932 was a "white year," and 1935 saw the advent of natural wood and wheat tones, each season has been distinctive with some years definitely "dated" by a popular color scheme.

This year will be remarkable, too, but not because of any one accepted color scheme. This year every color is "in," every tone is good and we will play no favorites. We will remember 1942 as the year in which we avoided a rush for any one color scheme in order to conserve a dye supply. We will probably remember it also because that was the time we found out how beautiful undyed fabrics can be, with their natural, unbleached surfaces providing a perfect foil for the brilliant greens, blues, purples and reds of wartime wardrobes.

We have learned a great deal in the last five years about assembling colors. This year we will have all of them to play with. Soft tones of every color in the garden may be used with one another, or high, brilliant shades of three or four colors may be "tossed about" against a natural wood and natural-colored fabric background. This is an all-color year, and if you are truly patriotic you will suppress a yearning for everything in one color and make your choice from the whole rainbow.

Though the linen, silk, nylon and wool which formerly have been used with such success in upholstery and drapery fabrics are in demand elsewhere, there is no dearth of materials made of other threads. Cotton textiles have never been lovelier than this year, and the rayon and cotton combinations create modern day versions of the once-loved heavy faille and twill that hung in such wonderful folds. Made with a very tight weave, these new fabrics are also ideal for upholstery material.

There are two definite trends in pattern. The traditional design of scrolls and flower forms which we associate with the formal home of 18th century inspiration are new with light, fresh color. Often done in two colors, they become interesting background for numerous other colors in flowers and plain upholstery fabric. In the modern manner, there are gay patterns with the "hand-painted look," and many look as though they had been freshly painted on the fabric, to order, just to complete a color scheme for a lovely room. These you may use with a lavish hand to make a home in which you will enjoy each moment.

There will be much stress on the advisability of using slip covers for winter. We have talked about this for many years, but with all furniture very precious, and difficulties in getting refinishing and re-upholstering done, it is now a wise investment. There are many interesting fabrics in the darker, more subtle color schemes which go well with winter draperies to be used for slip covers. These will protect your valuable furnishings and prolong their life for many years. Easily slipped off for dry cleaning, they may be fresh and clean at all times in spite of the fact that your home will be used more completely than it has been for many a year.

"Satin Twill"

If you are making new draperies this fall, consider combining the attributes of a blackout curtain with the charm of your new materials. To do this, plan on making them very full and lining them with a dark, heavy material instead of the usual light-colored sateen. Pulled across the window on a hidden track, which makes them run very easily, it is a matter of a moment to adjust them, and during the evening the whole window opening is a composition of delightful color and design rather than a mournful black spot.

Mother's Duty Is To Give Country Good Citizens

Their Later Ability Determined by Early Care

By Lettice Lee Streett

You have a baby; a bright-eyed, beguiling little boy or girl, all yours to guide, to guard and cherish.

What are you going to give him? Oh, I do not mean riches and possessions, they cannot help him if the really valuable gifts are withheld. I mean, what are you going to give him so that he will grow as strong and fine in mind and body as nature wants and intended?

The profession of motherhood (and do not let me hear any one say that it is not a big job, if it is to be done well) should be welcomed joyfully, but not frivolously.

The leaders in our armed forces who plan the convoys that will protect our men going to the battle fronts, and who work for the health of these men as well as fighting against disease among them, are guarding lives. No less vital to our country, even though more usual and less spectacular, is the duty of our millions of mothers to protect the young of the land. Your baby is not all yours, he or she belongs to us, too, and "us" means the United States of America. His future ability as a man, her purity and strength as a woman, mean the United States to come, the country we are fighting to save now.

Provided you have given birth to a sound baby, he has a chance of growing up to be a healthy, happy individual IF you give him the proper care.

That one small IF contains the list of the priceless gifts you can offer your own child.

Clip this out and paste it on the mirror of your dressing table or bureau, and as you brush your hair and make your face pretty, it may serve to remind you how big your job is, how much it needs your careful thought.

1. Be an intelligent, open-minded mother. Learn all you can about baby care by reading and by listening to your doctor. Do not follow the advice of friends.
2. Take your infant to a capable pediatrician or a children's clinic once a month until he is a year old. Thereafter, do not neglect periodical examination. Report any unusual symptoms to the doctor.
3. Give your baby a peaceful, well-ordered, happy home environment.
4. Follow the baby's routine every day. Keep older children on a regular schedule, too.
5. Give the little baby ample nap and sleeping hours, see that older children get sufficient sleep and are in bed early.
6. Give an infant only those foods prescribed by a doctor. Do not allow older children to indulge in improper foods or to eat between meals.
7. Protect your baby from disease by keeping him clean (he should have a bath every day), by obeying your doctor's wish for immunization against certain diseases and by keeping him, and all children, away from infected persons.
8. Let babies and children benefit from outdoor air and sunshine. Give them cod liver oil.
9. "Mother" the baby and little child, be gentle and sympathetic during babyhood and childhood.
10. Train the little child with patience towards good habits of eating, sleeping and elimination.
11. Improve yourself and strive to look, speak, think and behave according to your highest ideals so that you will be a good example to your child. Youngsters are mimics.
12. Be patient, tolerant, consistent, firm and fair. Be a gay and smiling companion, and above all, be sincerely interested in your own.

Christmas Gift Potholders

By Peggy Roberts

This colorful trio of vegetable potholders is all any woman could ask for in the way of utility and decoration. The set consists of a green pepper, a red tomato and a purple eggplant. Some scraps of cotton fabric, a few strands of embroidery floss and a little lining material are all you need to make this ideal, inexpensive gift item. Prints and plaids are suitable fabrics, too.

Washington's young career girls in search of a coat that will be both adaptable and "different" will approve this warm woolen version. Made with soft fullness across the shoulders and modified pegtop skirt, and trimmed with collar and cuffs of nutria, it is one of the highlights of the winter season.

Changes in War Fashions Are Interesting

'Flapper Haircut' Of World War I Unflattering

By Patricia Lindsay

Naturally it doesn't help us to win the war if our uniformed women are more attractive now than they were in World War I, but it is interesting to note the change of fashions.

The "flapper haircut," of World War I, though considered daring then (as most women cherished their long tresses) was anything but flattering. It was aging in appearance with its shorne-head look, and downward lines at sides. Today's American casual cut, as it is called, is "short and sweet, brushed and neat." Though the hair is cut short it is brushed up in a youthful lifted line and set to form a soft-curl halo about the features. The back of the head looks as soft and fluffy as the front.

Uniforms, too, have taken on new dash. They are trimmer and consider the natural curves of a woman's figure. The materials take to better pressing and the colors are sensibly chosen—embracing the fact that a woman's morale is greatly effected by what she wears.

During the last war, make-up in any form was taboo, but women did their best to wear it without detection. During this war, even in Navy and Army camps for women, make-up is encouraged providing it is worn with taste.

There may be many reasons for this trend of fashion but I believe the most paramount is to please the American men. Most men do not like women in uniform, yet uniforms are more or less necessary for organized groups of defense workers. To call a compromise, and to keep the men as happy and inspired as possible, it has been decreed that women should continue to look attractive even though she has become regimented. I believe that the majority of American women are educated to the fact that make-up should not be blatant, and that manners and actions (while wearing a uniform) can be moderated without being dull.

The girl or woman who remains charmingly feminine, though attired in uniform, is intelligent. Any woman can remain charming and still be very efficient. It is senseless to think that women must become masculine in manner simply because she has changed her dress and is putting her shoulder to the immense task of winning the war. With the exception of a very few, American women will welcome peace with wild joy, and return to their flimsy negligees and senseless hats and other fluff. Just now they are being patriotic and are taking a big task in their stride—and keeping as lovely as possible until peace does come!

Storing Summer Clothes

By Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture

The days are shorter, the weather grows cooler, and summer is gone. It's time to put away your summer clothes for their annual "rest" and this year be sure you do a thorough job of it.

Putting clothing away carefully during the seasons they are not worn keeps them in better condition, lengthens their life span. It pays to spend a little time to see that they are in good shape, ready to wear again on short notice, and to store them well.

Plan your end-of-season routine to suit the kind of clothing you put away. Here are some tips from home economists, United States Department of Agriculture, to help you store summer clothes.

First, take stock. Check each dress, coat and jacket carefully to see if it needs repairs. Mend any tears, snags, loose buttons, ripped seams or other damage.

Look over washable dresses to see if they have any stains; if they do, try to remove them. Then tub these dresses thoroughly, and iron if you wish, before you store them. You can put away these dresses in boxes or on hangers in protective bags.

See that non-washable dresses are clean, and hang them in garment bags that will keep out the dust. Close the fastenings on these dresses as well as on any garment you store on a hanger, to help keep the garment in shape.

Launder washable summer coats or jackets before you store them. If they are soiled, non-washable types need dry cleaning. Put these coats or jackets on hangers, padded if possible, and store in protective bags.

If the garment is all wool or partly wool, safeguard it against clothes moths and carpet beetles. After washing or dry cleaning the coat or jacket, put it in a protective bag with paradichlorobenzene crystals, balls or flakes in the pockets and a bag of these preventives hung over the neck of the hanger.

Seal or fold the edges of the bag so that moths or beetles cannot get in. Then hang the bag in a cool closet.

You may have some wool or part wool garments that are not soiled enough for laundering or dry cleaning. If so, brush those coats or jackets thoroughly both inside and out—with particular emphasis along the seams because moths often deposit eggs in such sheltered places. Then air the garments well before storing. Store in the manner described above.

Don't forget that your bathing suit needs care too, especially if it contains wool. Wash your suit in warm suds, rinse and dry thoroughly, and store in a box. If your suit is wholly or partly of wool, put moth crystals, balls or flakes with it and either wrap the box well or seal it so moths or carpet beetles cannot get inside.

As for that bathing cap—it's doubly valuable now that there is a rubber shortage. Wash and dry your cap and put a little talcum powder or corn starch inside it before storing. Put it away in a cool, dark place.

Give your summer shoes a "once-over" and a good cleaning before you store them. If they need repairing, it's best to have it done before putting them away—so they will be ready when wanted.

Put shoes on shoe trees and store them in boxes or in a shoe cabinet where they will be protected from dust. Store them in a dry place to discourage mildew. Also avoid too warm a place.

If you have any shoes made from material that contains wool, put moth crystals, balls or flakes in the box with them. You can take the shoes out once in a while to make sure they are free from moths. At that time you can also brush and air them as a further precaution.

Pack turbans or little soft hats with no particular shape of their own several to the box—with tissue paper to protect the more fragile ones. Straw hats can be more easily damaged and need a little more attention. Take off any veils or fragile trimming first. Then place the hats—each in its own box—brim side down whenever possible and resting on loosely wadded tissue paper. Put some tissue paper inside the crown and some around the outside of the hat too.

If there is room inside the box, you can pack the hat's veiling or loose ornaments with it. And lastly, put the hatbox where it will not be moved around constantly.

Picture Make-up

Maybe you only have your picture taken now and then—but it's practically an every-day thing for the stars. Recently we watched Teresa Wright while she put on her make-up for still pictures to be made in connection with her role in Samuel Goldwyn's "The Pride of the Yankees." She used very little make-up we noted. A natural powder base, which is a good idea if you are to be filmed in close-up. No rouge—because rouge photographs as hollow cheeks—and no powder for Teresa. She used a little brown eye shadow, dark mascara. And—something for you to remember—she chose a very dark red lipstick, for light lip rouge sometimes makes your mouth look older than you are.

Gelatin Mixture

If you want a gelatin mixture to congeal quickly, pour it into a wide shallow metal mold, in preference to a deep mold of earthenware or china.

Kill Flies

Buying Cosmetics in the Large Sizes Is an Economical Idea As Well as Patriotic One

By Helen Vogt

'Twould seem that the cosmetic branch of the department-of-utter-confusion is working overtime these days. Apparently, many women hearing of the Government ruling covering the cosmetic industry have decided that all is lost, that there will be no more make-up and treatment preparations for the duration and that the only thing to do is rush out and buy up all the beauty aids they can find, hoping they will last until "things improve."

Well, let's go on record right here and now as saying that it isn't so. Cosmetic manufacturers can produce practically as much of the total quantity of their preparations this year as they did last, but they won't be able to distribute as many different size containers. The WPB ruling curtails the amount of materials that can be used in the packaging—a limitation that will save some materials, reduce inventories, save shipping space and cut down on the amount of labor needed to handle the products.

Women are advised to buy their beauty aids in larger sizes, then, in order to co-operate with this material conservation plan. A bottle of lotion four times as large as you usually buy will last four times as long—and even longer. What's more, you'll be using three less metal caps. Larger sizes are more economical, too, and many girls in Washington have worked out a cosmetic-sharing plan, buying the large size and dividing it to spare the budget. It's easy to keep the products on hand, if you'll use common sense about keeping jars securely covered and corks firmly in place. Best idea is to measure out a little bit of the product, say a small amount of perfume, and keep the rest securely sealed and in a dark place. Same thing goes for creams which may be put into small jars and used a little at a time. Good quality products are sufficiently stable to retain their efficiency over a long period.

If the patriotism of buying cosmetics at this particular time seems questionable, just remember these facts. Manufacturers are operating under Government regulations, therefore any ingredient needed in the war program is automatically relinquished and frequently replaced with an ingredient which serves the same purpose and is not necessary to the business of winning this war. Any preparations that now are available are on the counters because the Government does not need the materials, machinery and labor that went into the manufacture of them.

We have said many times before that we believe cosmetics are necessary to the morale and efficiency of today's women. Offices stress good grooming as an aid to the worker and men in the service list a dainty appearance and a carefully enhanced complexion as an important feminine contribution to their good spirits.

So, the net result seems to be that you will have cosmetics indefinitely—not in as wide a range of shades and types, not in a thousand different packages and sizes—but you'll have them, all you possibly could need. Buy sensibly and, most of all, learn to apply make-up with care and discretion. A good, strong light may make you cringe in the early morning, but it's the only way to make sure you don't dash to the bus stop looking like an Indian on the warpath. Take it easy with rouge, particularly, and learn how to apply it so that it gives the contours of your face the best possible break, and so that it doesn't look like something inspired by a circus clown.

Finally, maybe you'd like to know what we mean when we speak of cosmetics. The War Production Board defines them as follows: "'Toiletry or cosmetic product' means any product intended to be rubbed, poured, sprinkled or sprayed on, introduced into, or otherwise applied to the human body or any part thereof for cleansing, beautifying, promoting attractiveness, or altering the appearance thereof."

Uniforms Seen Both On and Off Stage At the National

"Vickie" wore a uniform—and so did most of the ladies who attended the opening night of this new play titled for its heroine. Monday evening's audience at the National was filled with smartly turned out WAACS, WAVES and members of the AWVS. Present, too, were plenty of Red Cross uniforms, attractive girls in the garb of the Canadians, and a number of jaunty Army and Navy nurses. It was, as you may have gathered, an evening for the ladies in uniform—both on the stage and in the audience.

It must be noted here, too, that for the most part the members of the voluntary services came up to all expectations as far as trim appearances are concerned. Only thing observers questioned was the "glamour girl coiffure" adopted by one or two pert young things in uniform—it just doesn't fit, somehow.

The military influence was so strong at the opening of "Vickie" that one or two ladies "in mufti" declared they felt a little out of place. However, the wealth of smart styles in evidence indicated that the girls who remain in "civvies" are going to do a good job of it. Contrary to former reports, this "National note" is not going to talk about black. There was some of it in evidence, of course, but the big fashion news was in the plum tone that has been named as a leader for fall. An excellent example was a deep plum dress worn with antique garnet jewelry. Soft green hat and gloves and sandals of the green and plum completed an outstanding ensemble. Also noted was a soft blue dress with short jacket and tiny hat of plum, and a plum crepe frock with matching cloche and two lovely silver fox scarves.

Tailored suits appeared here and there, notable among them a soft gray flannel with shoulder appliques of bright felt and a green blouse caught with a bright red felt heart. A two-piece black moire suit-dress was most effective with a tiny hat and boxy jacket, both in shocking pink with banding of black.

Uniforms, as mentioned, were the rule on the stage, with the exception of several beautifully draped frocks in rich fall tones designed by our good friend Kiviette for two members of the cast. H. V.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

I have many requests for help in fattening the physiological territory at the bottom of the neck in order to cover up collar bones which are too prominent. This condition often is a figure companion of underweight, but this is not necessarily so. If you ARE too thin, a gain will help fill out the neck.

Most of the exercises which develop the bustline also fill out this spot. However, some are better than others. Exercises done with persistence and regularity will fill out these unwanted collar-bone hollows. Try this one:

Lie with the middle of your back over a low stool or chair. Straighten the legs out, feet on the floor. Take a weight or an iron in each hand. Bend the elbows down toward the floor. Push the iron in the right hand straight up in front of you toward the ceiling. Slowly bend the right elbow again and bring weight back to place. Now push the weight in the left hand up toward the ceiling. Slowly bend elbow and lower to place. Continue slowly pushing and bending, first one arm and then the other.

When you do this exercise, lift the head until the back of the head is parallel to the floor. This works the entire ensemble of chest and neck muscles and a few months' work will show results.

Louis-Conn Bout Likely to Hit Jackpot : Army to Take Sid Hudson This Fall

Win, Lose or Draw

By FRANCIS E. STAN.

Throwing Another Fagot on the Blaze

Even though George Preston Marshall is chief owner and president of the Redskins it wasn't likely that he'd get away with it. You just can't go around and say the new Redskins, who've won a couple of exhibition games, could have "wrecked" the 1937 Redskins, champions of the world. "I've got to be shown," summed up one of the irate telephone callers.

This undoubtedly will be all right by Mr. Marshall. That's his business, showing off his Redskin teams. He shows them at seasonal rates ranging from $6.60 to $13.20, and at individual-game prices. Some Sundays it seems that the only man in Washington who handles more money than Marshall is Morgenthau.

But getting back to the more sporting aspects of the matter, Mr. Marshall's customers are not wholly in agreement with him in judgment. "Who ever saw a better backfield than Sammy Baugh, Riley Smith, Erny Pinckert and Cliff Battles?" demanded another dissenter. "They threw away the mold after that backfield was made."

And so it goes. Heigh ho, and let's throw another fagot on the blaze!

Some Afternoons Were Light, but Others Were Heavy

Mr. Marshall contends that his new team would have too much reserve strength for the 1937 champions, conqueror of the Bears at their mightiest in that classic ice show at Chicago that wound up 28-21. Undeniably, this is an angle. Five years ago, when the Redskins first came to Washington, Coach Ray Flaherty had only one good team. But that team was very good.

The matter of depth in manpower, however, isn't important to all minds. "Poppycock," sniffed another loyal old guard, "does Mr. Marshall think men are mice? Those boys in 1937 were men. Sixty minutes of good football was a light workout."

This department recalls that sometimes an afternoon of the sport was a light workout, whereas at other times the going was pretty tough. However, there was one notably light afternoon—the November day when Brothers Battles, Baugh, Pinckert and Smith took apart the New York Giants, 48-14, to win the Eastern title.

Edwards Agrees '37 Team Wasn't 'Deep'

With the matter seemingly stalemated, another witness was called to the stand, which creaked as Assistant Coach Turk Edwards climbed up. "We'd have been worn down, all right," testified Mr. Edwards, best tackle in the National League in 1937. "That was proved the following summer, when the College All-Stars licked us at Chicago. We were better, first team for first team, but they ran our backs ragged by throwing long passes and they finally won."

This would seem to lend further authority to the Marshall contention, but the matter is not yet disposed of. The College All-Stars, so-called because they're all out of college, beat the 1937 Redskins on a warm August night. They had 66 players, but the Redskins, with 25, might have lasted on a crisp November day. It's speculative and, of course, a superb waste of time.

So, too, is any comparison between the 1937 and the 1942 Redskins. But apparently people are finding time for the little luxuries. There's no great harm done here.

Battles, Pinckert and Smith Have No Counterparts

In comparing the Redskins of their championship year and the Redskins whom Owner Marshall unhesitatingly calls "the best team I've ever had," many factors must be considered. If they were to play, would the field be wet or dry? Would the day be cold, or so hot as to sap strength?

In some ways the 1937 Redskins would figure to have an edge. Pinckert would more than match any of the modern blockers. Smith undoubtedly would be a more versatile quarterback than any one of Marshall's present crop. Certainly there is no counterpart of Battles, and this is written with a deep bow to Dick Todd. There hardly was a pair of tackles anywhere equal to Edwards and Jim Barber, when they were at their peaks.

On the other side, there is the matter of manpower, possibly overwhelming over a long run. But, certainly, sentiment at the moment is with the 1937 Redskins. These were the guys who were toseed out of Boston while in the process of winning the 1936 Eastern title. In the playoff the Packers murdered them. But between seasons Marshall acquired Sammy Baugh and, the night the 'Skins opened their campaigns for Washington, Flaherty delivered that speech that still rings.

Baugh Probably Answer to the Whole Business

"You claimed you wanted a good passer," he said to his squad. "Well, we've got him. The other clubs know we've got him. They'll be out to get him. If you let anything happen to Baugh you're a lousy football team, and that goes for the entire season."

Nothing happened to Baugh except greatness. He pitched the Redskins to their only world championship. He was brilliantly supported, but it was Baugh who turned the trick.

Our guess is that the simple solution of the argument would be ask the pro and anti 1937s one question: In this mythical game for which team would Baugh play? Odds are that if the '37s and the '42s lined up, the side that had Sammy would be the winning side, and the deuce with the other details

Million Dollars Expected for War Funds

Both Fighters, Jacobs Pass Up Profits in October Contest

By SID FEDER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Simply for the pleasure of giving the wives and kiddies of our doughboys a million dollars, a couple of Uncle Sam's soldiers are going to climb into Yankee Stadium's ring on Columbus Day to fight the hottest fistic "natural" in six years.

It is almost as sure as a bombsight aim that the heavyweight championship return fight on October 12 betwen Corpl. Joe Louis, boss man of the beak busters, and Pvt. Billy Conn, who almost took the title a year ago, will hit the million-dollar mark jackpot for the first time since the Bomber's second bout with Max Schmeling in '38.

The memory of the fireworks they set off in their first brawl is enough to bring the customers storming back again. And, if more help was needed, the fact that this one is entirely for Army emergency relief more than will make up the difference. What's more, Promoter Mike Jacobs is shooting at a crowd of 77,000 and a gate of $1,200,000—with tickets scaled from $3 to $40—and he figures a lot of folks who will be here for the World Series the first week in October will stick around and help jingle the cash registers.

Will Make No Profit.

Yet not one nickel of it, except for minor expenses, will go to either fighter or Promoter Jacobs. The son of the Alabama cotton picker, the tough Irish kid out of Pittsburgh and the fight promoter who grew up on New York's bloomless sidewalks and now likes to raise gardenias will dump the whole pot into the bank account for the families of our soldiers. It will be easily the biggest "score" the Army fund has made in any single event to date.

The Army, at long last, gave its official blessing to the get-together yesterday after keeping all hands in a lather of doubt about it for a dozen weeks or so. As a matter of fact, if the War Department had held up the sanction as much as a week more it would have been too late to put on this super-duper outdoors around here this fall.

In this tussle the Bomber and the Pittsburgh pretty boy, are going to do a pretty fair country job of rewriting the record books on the subject. The simple face that Joe and Billy are putting this one on for the house—doing the almost unheard-of stunt of fighting for the world heavyweight championship for nothing—is about enough to have them read out of the union.

Bout Makes History.

Then, too, it marks the first time in legalized nose-smashing that two soldier boys have fought for the richest prize package in the business. On top of that, it will be the first daylight fight for the big bauble since Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons broiled under the sun at Shelby, Mont., 19 years back. Because of dim-out regulations here, Promoter Mike plans to move it up to 3 p.m.

Conn, statoned at nearby Fort Wadsworth, and Louis, who is with the cavalry at Fort Riley, Kans., both were as steamed up as a couple of kids with a bag of candy over the prospects of putting on a rerun of their thriller. A year ago Conn amazed even his closest pals by taking a long lead for 12 rounds, only to get hs "Irish up," try to trade Sunday shots with Joe in the 13th, and run smack into the Bomber's knockout drops.

Billy, scaling 185 now, will do his training at a specially constructed camp at Jacobs' Rumson (N. J.) estate. Louis said that he is "12 or 15 pounds overweight," which would put him in the neighborhood of a hefty 220. He will round into fighting shape at his long-time base at Greenwood Lake, N. Y.

The War Department announcement outlined the setup under which the big battle will be developed. Back of Jacobs as promoter will be a committee of New York sports writers as "advisers."

Joe Gardner Chosen Athletic Director At Georgetown

Schwagel's Successor, Ex-Grid Star, Famed For Pep Speeches

Joe T. Gardner, peppy little quarterback at Georgetown University in the days of Lou Little, is back at the Hilltop, this time as graduate manager of athletics and head of the department of physical education. He succeeds Rome Schwagel, who recently left to enter the Navy Pre-Flight School at Chapel Hill, N. C.

A native of Philadelphia, Gardner was graduated at Georgetown in 1930, and as an undergraduate distinguished himself as a student as well as a football player. For six years after leaving Georgetown he coached all sports at Georgetown Prep and compiled some of the most successful records in football, basketball and baseball in the school's history.

Hs is remembered at the Garrett Park school as an exuberant chap whose pep talks and fighting spirit have been compared to those of the late Knute Rockne. From 1936 until the present he was in business in Philadelphia. He is married and has two children.

HEADED FOR ARMY—Sid Hudson, youthful Washington pitcher, whose draft board has ordered him to take a physical examination. He is expected to finish the season with the Nats.

Only Minor Presidents Will Attend Meeting

By the Associated Press.

DURHAM, N. C., Sept. 9.—The annual convention of baseball's minor leagues will not be held this year because of the war, President W. G. Bramham of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues announced.

League presidents will be called together, at a time and place to be announced later, to transact the usual business of the association.

Brooklyn Like Any Other Club To Cards, Avers Manager

Southworth Considers One Game at a Time; Dodgers Blank Bucs to Increase Lead

By the Associated Press.

Take it from Billy (The Kid) Southworth, the Brooklyn Dodgers don't look any different to his St. Louis Cardinals than any other club in the National League.

Now this is not to imply that the Phillies resemble the Dodgers—or even are a reasonable facsimile thereof. But as he led his roaring Redbirds into their final full-scale invasion of the East today—an invasion that the Cards still confidently expect will wind up with the National League pennant—Billy the Kid came right out with his battle strategy—"We play 'em as we meet 'em, game by game."

He stayed by this theory, even though the Bums boasted a gaudy three-game bulge on the Cardinals as a result of Ed Head's four-hit white-wash job to give the Dodgers a 4-0 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday. The Cardinals couldn't do a thing to stop the Brooklyns from picking up that half game, simply because the schedule gave them the day off.

Figures Game at a Time.

"But we're still confident and we're still in the fight," Southworth insisted. "We play this single game with the Giants today. Then we move into Brooklyn for those two games Friday and Saturday. And then we have the Phillies and Braves after that.

"Well, we're playing every ball game as it comes along. Brooklyn is just another ball club, the same as Boston and Philadelphia. We're trying to win each game, and get this—we're not looking forward or backward. We're only looking at what's right there in front of us each day."

There's no doubt the Cards have the toughest kind of a haul if they expect to overtake the battered Brooklyns, especially since Shortstop Slats Marion and Southpaw Ernie White still are nursing ailments. The front office tried to take up some of the slack caused by these injuries by buying Jeff Cross, Houston's classy infielder, and calling up the veteran elbower, Bill Beckman, from Rochester yesterday.

Meantime, the Dodgers took advantage of the situation as fully as the fellow who suddenly finds the steak platter set right in front of him on the boarding house table. Head had the Bucs rolling over and playing dead, and when his mates gave him a run in the first frame, the whole thing was over. In fact, after the first inning not a Pirate got as far as second base.

Only One Game in N. L.

This was the only battle on the National League calendar, while over in the American League three games were run off, chief of which saw the Washington Senators nosing out the Boston Red Sox, 15 to 11.

The setback set the second-place Sox nine and one-half games behind the idle New York Yankees and left them with only 15 to play.

The St. Louis Browns put a firmer grab on the American League's third place by whipping the Detroit Tigers, 4-1, with the help of a couple of Yankee castoffs—Steve Sundra, who served up a 4-hit pitching job, and Walt Judnich, who whacked his 11th homer of the year.

The Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox were slated for a double-header, but after young Rap Poat's seven-hit twirling whipped the Sox, 10-0, in the opener, the second game had to be called off. It was Poat's first start since the Tribe recalled him from Indianapolis.

Griff Mound Ace Reports Soon For Physical

Special Dispatch to The Star.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Washington fans probably have seen Pitcher Sid Hudson in action for the last time until the international agitation has ended, for the slim rookie hurling sensation of 1940 has been instructed by his draft board to report for a physical examination.

Hudson, who vaulted out of the Class D Florida State League to win 17 games as a rookie, plans to take the exam on the Nats' current road trip. He is expected to play out the 1942 season but likely will be inducted this fall.

The support of his mother, Hudson will become the third outstanding Washington player to join the armed forces, following Cecil Travis and Buddy Lewis into the service. Catcher Al Evans, second-string receiver for three years, yesterday passed a Navy physical examination and is slated to report to Norfolk Naval Training Station on October 14.

Twice on All-Star Team.

Twice named to American League All-Star teams, Hudson made a remarkable comeback in his freshman year. In his first 11 starts he lost 9 games and won a pair of 12-hit engagements, then unleashed a one-hit effort against St. Louis to strike his stride. He finished the year with 17 victories against 16 defeats and included among his triumphs was another one-hitter, against Philadelphia.

Also due to report to the Army after the season closes is Rookie Pitcher Lou Bevil. A 20-year-old right-hander plucked from the sandlots of Chicago, Bevil recently reported to the Nats after winning 12 games and losing 10 with Chattanooga of the Southern Association.

Despite unimpressive labor since joining the Nats Bevil has been regarded as a promising prospect. With the Lookouts he hurled a no-hit, no-run game against the Atlanta Crackers and registered two other shutouts.

Washington invaded Chicago today for a brace of double-headers with the White Sox. Dutch Leonard and Bill Zuber were nominated by Manager Bucky Harris to toil in the twi-night twin bill today, with Ted Lyons and Johnny Humphries slated to work for Chicago.

Griffmen Trim Red Sox.

Washington closed its Griffith Stadium season yesterday with a 15-11 victory over the Boston Red Sox. The second game of a scheduled double-header was called after four innings with the score locked at 1-1 to permit the teams to catch trains.

Rookie Ray Scarborough achieved his second successive win, but it was no noble accomplishment. When the small right-hander left the premises after pitching six innings the Nats were trailing, 9-5. In the sixth, though, the Nats came up with six runs and Alex Carrasquel protected the lead.

Washington blasted four Red Sox pitchers for 18 hits, including three each by George Case, Mickey Vernon and Ellis Clary, while Boston battered Scarborough and Carrasquel for 17 hits, with Dominic Di Maggio and Johnny Pesky getting four each.

Harris and Evans were banished from the bench in the second game when Umpire George Pipgras objected to their strong language in protesting a Pipgras decision at first base.

Richmond Keeps Chapman

RICHMOND, Va., Sept 9 (AP).—Ben Chapman, former Yankee player who pitched, infielded and outfielded Richmond to a first-division berth in the Piedmont League, will return next year as manager.

Owen, Rising From 'Dog House' May Be N. L.'s Most Valuable

Ignored at Start of Season, He Spurs Dodgers When Called Upon While They Are Losing

By JUDSON BAILEY,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Mickey Owen, who received something resembling a cold shoulder this spring in the Brooklyn Dodgers' rating of their own catchers, now is a foremost candidate for the most valuable player award in the National League.

The fiery little receiver, who dropped a famous third strike in the World Series last year, caught only five of Brooklyn's first 21 games at the start of the campaign while Manager Leo Durocher divided virtually all the work between Billy Sullivan, then newly acquired from Detroit, and Cliff Dapper, big rookie with an equally big batting average.

While this still was going on the Dodgers encountered their worst losing streak of the season—four games.

Then on May 5 Owen caught an 11-inning game at St. Louis and the Dodgers won.

That was the game in which Larry French bowed in as a starting pitcher and Durocher decided Mickey's clever handling had a lot to do with the southpaw's success.

Owen became the regular catcher that day and the Dodgers promptly had their biggest winning spree of the season, taking 11 of 12 games and the contest they lost was one of two in the string which Owen did not catch.

He has been the mainspring of the Dodgers ever since but reached his greatest heights on Brooklyn's last road trip which ended yesterday. He caught in every game, getting only a brief respite in the first tilt of Monday's double-header at Boston.

He has won the admiration of Managers Bill McKechnie of Cincinnati and Frankie Frisch of Pittsburgh as well as that of his own boss.

Other leading contenders for the award in the National League include hard-hitting Enos Slaughter and Pitcher Morton Cooper of the high-flying Cardinals and Mel Ott, the home-run hitting manager of the New York Giants. Ott's average is only .282 although he has collected 26 home runs.

Pete Reiser, Brooklyn centerfielder, won the title a year ago and was a definite candidate until he was injured and Owen made his surge. Incidentally, Reiser still is hitting .323 to the catcher's modest .279.

Berry Reaches Goal As He Umpires A. L. Game in Philly

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—Charley Berry, the former big league catcher who once wanted to be a manager, comes back to the big time tonight in the role of the managers' natural foe—the umpire.

Folks hereabouts, where Charley first gained athletic prominence, thought he was making a big mistake two years ago when he resigned as a successful manager of the Wilmington, Del., club of the Class B Interstate League to become an umpire in the Class A Eastern loop.

But Charley had a big league goal in mind.

He attains his goal tonight at Chicago. As an umpire he was purchased by the American League yesterday from the International League, and tonight he helps work the Washington-White Sox doubleheader.

Berry, All-America football end at Lafayette College in 1924, is one of the few football stars who made good as a major league baseball player.

I. L. Playoff Matchings Await Syracuse, Jersey City Tilt

By the Associated Press.

The scourge of club owners, schedule makers and ball players—the weather man—was up to his old tricks yesterday as he caused postponement until tonight of the playoff game for third place between the Syracuse Chiefs and Jersey City Giants of the Interenational League.

Although no prize money is at stake in tonight's battle the winner receives the award of not having to face the champion Bears in the first round of the Governors' Cup series.

The present schedule calls for the first place Newark club to face tonight's loser and the second-place Montreal Royals to play the winner.

If the weather man acts up again tonight the game will be rescheduled for tomorrow.

A victory for Syracuse will give it the right to entertain the second-place Royals on the home lot, and Jersey City will be the guest of the Bears. But a Giant triumph will move the Jerseys to Montreal, and the Chiefs will stay home and engage Newark.

Flag Near as Angels Hustle for Rowland

Nearly Same Club Fought Last Fall to Keep Out of Basement

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9.—Clarence (Pants) Rowland, who has learned all the answers in his 39 years as baseball manager, scout, umpire and club executive, says his Los Angeles team is going to win the Pacific Coast League pennant.

That's not exactly startling news, because the Angels have been leading the league week after week. But aside from Rowland and a few players he acquired last winter through the Chicago Cubs, the parent club, this is the same ball team that was fighting last September to escape the yawning reaches of last place.

Rowland, the entire Coast League will admit, is the big difference between the 1941 Angels, who looked good on paper and inept on the field, and the hustling 1942 outfit that has managed to keep just a step or two ahead of Pepper Martin's battling Sacramento club of the St. Louis Cards' organization.

It is a well-rounded team of youngsters and veterans that President Rowland, Manager Jigger Statz and Coach Bill Sweeney have directed in the pennant race, and the sage advice of the 63-year-old Rowland, who led the Chicago White Sox to the American League pennant in 1917 and a World Series victory over John McGraw's New York Giants, has had a lot to do with the showing.

Rowland preaches the "do it today" doctrine of getting things done and yesterday, as his club came home from a disastrous series at Oakland, he let it be known that the current eight-game series against Hollywood, not next week's seven-game season finale at Sacramento, would decide the pennant issue. The season ends September 28.

Redskin-Bear Exhibition Game May Bring Showdown on League Championship

Tribe Figured Best In East With Foe Tops in West

Washington Club Fixed Well for Reserves; Squad Takes Rest

Washington's pro football fans who saw all too much of the Chicago Bears back in December of 1940 (why bring that up again?) might see a whole lot more of them this season.

They tangle with the Redskins Sunday at Griffith Stadium in an exhibition tilt and they may meet here again in December in another championship playoff.

The Bears are picked as probable winners in the West and it's becoming increasingly apparent that the Redskins are the best in the East. They haven't been weakened much by the war so far and the rookies are coming through to replace what few players were lost.

The Redskins are well fixed so far as replacements are concerned and rated even better than the 1937 team which earned such a warm welcome for pro football here when it captured the title.

Powerful reserves are a necessity in pro football today with practically all clubs two deep with grade-A men in every position, and the Redskins are just that, as was demonstrated in Baltimore Monday night against the Green Bay Packers and in Los Angeles Sunday a week ago against the Western All-Army eleven.

Sammy Baugh is off to another good passing season. Dick Poillon, rookie from Canisius, gives promise of being a passer of note also. Other backfield aces apparently headed for the best seasons of their career are Andy Farkas and Dick Todd.

And much the same condition is evident in the line. Tackle Willie Wilkin, now in his fifth season as a Redskin, played a whale of a game in both exhibitions so far, and while it is almost sacrilege to say he is as good as Turk Edwards was, he certainly is more than adequate in filling the big gap left when Turk had to step out. So it goes all the way. Al Kreuger at end is a pass hawk, likewise Halfback Ed Justice.

The team was given a day off yesterday, and Coach Ray Flaherty was happy to find no serious injuries among his men. Drilling was to be resumed today.

Women's District Pin League Opens With 14 Teams in Line

Ruth McClintic Replaces Blanche Wootton in Rosslyn Line-Up

Representing 14 of Metropolitan Washington's 34 bowling establishments, the Ladies' District League, foremost feminine duckpin circuit of the Capital, will usher in its 18th season tonight with Alma Mehler, captain of the Bethesda Bowling Center team, also handling the job of secretary and scorer.

Mrs. Mehler succeeds Marie Spates, the Anacostia Spillway captain. Moonie Lynn will serve his second term as president.

Blanche Wootton Missing.

Minus Blanche Wootton, who for eight seasons was its star lead-off bowler, the champion Rosslyn Bowling Center quint will be out to win its second consecutive pennant and its seventh in nine years. Miss Wootton will be replaced by Ruth McClintic, one of the city's new stars and a member of last year's Arlington Bowling Center team.

Other rollers on the Rosslyn club will be the ever-brilliant league champion, Lucy Rose; Margie Wells, Evelyn Naylor and Gladys Lynn. Mrs. Rose, Mrs. Naylor and Mrs. Lynn have been members of the Rosslyn club since its creation by Galt Davis in 1934.

Wins Four Straight Flags.

Probably no other woman duckpin team in the country can boast of success equal to Rosslyn's. Davis' quint won four successive Ladies District League flags from 1935 through 1938 and repeated in 1940 and last season. King Pin and Lucky Strike teams, led by the renowned Lorraine Gulli, were the 1939 and 1941 champions, respectively.

Bethesda Bowling Center and Takoma Recreation have replaced Convention Hall and Del Ray to maintain last year's wheel of 14 teams.

Besides Mrs. Mehler the Bethesda quint will include Boots Pettit and Dot Crawford of last season's Chevy Chase Ice Palace quint, Ruth King from Brookland and Ruth Rothgeb. Takoma's line-up will include Kay Caul, captain; Evelyn Gay, Jimmie Harding and Frances Wilson.

Hi-Skor Again Strong.

The Hi-Skor combination, again out to make a strong bid for to, honors after finishing only three games out of first place last season, will have practically its same line-up with Miss Gulli, Catherine Quigley, Bing Moen and Caroline Hiser.

Lafayette's sharpshooters will be Lillian Copeland, Virginia Wright, Inez Bryan and Jessie Sacrey, captain.

Lucile Young, Ice Palace leader, will have Georgia Hays, Julia Young, Anna Daut and Mae Diehl as her running mates.

Typos Must Win Today To Remain in Series

Undefeated Center Market was to attempt to eliminate Union Printers from the city sandlot baseball tournament today when the clubs clashed at 5:15 at South Ellipse field.

Flag Feuders in A. A. Renew Battling in Playoff Series

By the Associated Press.

The four baseball teams chiefly responsible for one of the American Association's closest pennant fights in history resume their feud tonight, this time for Shaughnessy playoff honors.

Kansas City's Blues, victors in the flag chase that was a scramble for the last two months of the season and continued as a three-team fight right down to the final day, takes on third-place Columbus tonight. Runner-up Milwaukee is host to Toledo.

Probable pitchers are:

Hall, Seibert Lead G. W. Hagerty Finding Many Weak Spots in Hoyas

With Clark Shaughnessy, master of the T formation, in charge, it isn't too far to say that University of Maryland has the best college football coaching staff in the country, this week anyway. Even without the help of the Chicago Bears' pro players who are drilling this week at College Park and aiding Shaughnessy in teaching the Old Liners, Maryland has an excellent staff with such aides as Jack Manders, Walter Halas, Al Heagy and Al Woods.

All except Heagy and Woods are old hands at the T system, and these two quickly have picked up under Shaughnessy's teaching. And this week the Old Liners have the unofficial assistance of members of the Bears. Two who have volunteered to help during their stay are Joe Stydahar and Danny Fortman, two of the games greatest linemen. It's no secret that Shaughnessy tried to sign one of them for his regular staff, only they had to stick as players with the Bears.

Sid Luckman, Bear quarterback, who helped in the spring, and George Halas, owner-coach of the Bears, also are around. Shaughnessy aided Halas in drilling the Bears before the pro season opened, and turn about would be fair play.

So this week the College Park players are getting the benefit of some of the best football brains in the country and it's little wonder no scrimmage sessions or contact work is listed until later. They are spending all their time absorbing gridiron knowledge.

Colonials Elect Co-Captains.

George Washington this season will led by Co-Capts. Ellis Hall and Don Siebert. They were elected yesterday by their teammates after Coach Johnny Baker decided to revive the pre-season election system that last was used in 1936 when Frank Kavalier, now assistant football coach at Washington-Lee High School, led the Colonials.

Both co-captains are linemen, Hall being a tackle and Siebert a center. Both are seniors and both are two-letter men. They are expected to be important cogs in what Baker now believes will be a pretty good football team.

Coach Hagerty Is Gloomy.

Georgetown, because of its two-week head start, is further advanced than either Maryland or George Washington, and Coach Jack Hagerty has reached the point of being gloomy about everything. He's said all along that the line would not be up to the usual juggernaut Georgetown standards. That's one reason he is using the T formation this season. Its quick opening plays, speed and deception make it about the best system to use if the forwards are not up to par.

Now, though, Hagerty is beginning to doubt the ability of Georgetown's backfield. The Hoyas numerically are stronger in the backfield, but the boys are a bit slow in picking up the finer points. Particularly Hagerty wants better quarterbacks. Ed Agnew, a 175-pound senior, is coming along okay and probably rates the No. 1 signal calling, ball-handling spot, but Hagerty still needs two good replacements. Among the candidates are Juniors John Kulikowski and Joe Gyorgydeak, Sophomore Ralph Linneman and Freshman Paul Blaine.

Gyorgydeak was a fullback last season, but has demonstrated enough good ball handling to rate the shift. Blaine, although fresh out of Anacostia High, also is being tagged as a likely player.

Prayers, Softball Skill Are Mixed

By the Associated Press.

IDAHO SPRINGS, Colo., Sept. 9.—The whole town's cheering for the Idaho Springs entry in the State softball tournament at Denver.

LEADING PAIR—Ellis Hall (upper) and Don Seibert, who have been elected co-captains of the George Washington football team. Both are linemen.

Maryland Title Taken By Ethel Terrell

Mrs. Ethel Tarrell, Washington school teacher, who earlier in the year won the District Women's Recreation Department golf championship, has added the Maryland title to her collection.

She won the Maryland crown at the Carroll Park course in Baltimore, in a tourney sponsored by the Monumental Club of that city at 27 holes medal play.

Mrs. Terrell also won the colored women's tourney at Anacostia last month.

Wounded, Schmeling, Von Cramm Are Put Out of Athletics

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Twice within a week United States sports followers have heard of war injuries terminating athletic careers of Germans widely known in this country.

The Berlin radio yesterday announced that Max Schmeling, once the world heavyweight boxing champion, never would enter the ring again because of wounds suffered in the battle of Crete, where he landed as a member of the Nazi paratroopers.

Last week Walter L. Pate, nonplaying captain of the United States' last pre-war Davis Cup team, told friends at the national tennis tourney he had received word from a reliable source that Baron Gottfried von Cramm, member of Germany's 1937 Davis Cup squad, had lost both feet.

Poor Fishing Practices Reduce Catch Of Stripers in Upper Chesapeake

With schools of stripers everywhere in upper Chesapeake Bay over the week end, catches of any size were few and far between. The only reasonable explanation of the angler's inability to get them appears to be general practice of running through the schools rather than around them.

More boats were out than at any other time during the season. Visualize every single one going into the fish full speed ahead every time they raised, and you can understand why the schools would go down. Even those boats that tried to stay to themselves immediately would become the center of a dozen or more fishing craft as soon they managed to get one or two on.

Not Exactly Sporting.

There are times when there is no other way to attract stripers into hitting, but it isn't a good practice when others are nearby. Neither is it exactly sporting, because it does not give every one an equal chance.

Stripers are running up to 6 and 7 pounds now, and that goes for the trout that consort with them. The few blues in the schools seldom exceed 2, although several topping 3 pounds have been noted.

The open season on wild waterfowl in Nova Scotia has been extended to give every one of the three zones 90 days of shooting. The season in the southernmost zone runs to January 15. In the United States it is only the southern zone that has lengthened the season to January 10. The reason the two northern zones are earlier is to prevent shooting when the potholes and watercourses are icebound. It seems that the same reason would be sufficient for earlier seasons in the Canadian provinces for they, too, have signed the Mirgatory Bird Treaty.

Possibly they assume that because the ducks and geese breed in Canada, they should get a better break through a longer shooting season and at a period that our Fish and Wildlife Service terms destructive.

Bad Deal for U. S. Hunters.

Exception to the Nova Scotian seasons isn't taken through envy, but rather because it is American dollars to the tune of many millions that make the Canadian breeding grounds more productive. After all, the flights are dependent upon our care through the winter. Our seasons are predicated upon hunters taking approximately 10 per cent of the flights and our Federal Government is building refuges throughout the length and breadth of the land to enable the birds to go back to the nesting grounds in good shape.

Our 70-day shooting season is adequate to keep hunters happy regardless of whether their hunting locale is in the coastal marshes and sounds or the river bottoms of the back country. Sportsmen are satisfied they are getting more leeway as the duck population increases and in the great majority of cases they are taking only a sportsman's bag. So why should any one be allowed a season that doesn't contribute toward the well-being of birds, particularly when the kill this season governs the extent of our hunting season in 1943.

Chips on Line, Paige Gains Revenge in Beating Grays

Twice Whipped by Local Team in Exhibitions, Wins Title Contest

Satchelfoot Paige, rated as Negro baseball's greatest pitcher, is at his best when the chips are down. Twice this season in exhibition tilts he was defeated by the Washington Homestead Grays, but it was another story when he faced the local club in championship competition.

The Negro World Series opened last night at Griffith Stadium, and 24,000 fans were on hand to see Satch handcuff the Grays as his Kansas City Monarchs, champion of the Negro American League, won an 8-0 victory. He allowed only two hits in five innings before stepping down in favor of Jack Machette, whe went the rest of the way without giving a bingle. Paige walked only one, fanned five and never was in trouble.

Meanwhile the Monarchs were coming through with 13 hits off Roy Welmaker, and after a late start finally began the scoring in the sixth inning. The Monarchs' biggest frame was the seventh, in which three markers came across aided by a pair of errors, singles by Williams and Machette and a double by Allen.

The series will continue with a single game in Pittsburgh tomorrow night and a double-header in New York on Sunday.

Small, Mediocre Field Shooting For Washington Golf Crown

Absence of Bogart, Brownell Robs Tourney Of Class; Harold Gordon Family Champ

By WALTER McCALLUM.

One of the smallest—and far from the classiest—fields in the tournament's history started today over the lengthy Congressional Country Club course in the medal round of the District amateur championship.

Curtailed by wartime restrictions, and with two of the best of the local simon pures out of competition and in Federal service the championship probably will be the last District title tourney for the duration of the war, for even if tournaments are scheduled next year (which is unlikely) restrictions in the form of gasoline rationing will seriously cut the fields.

The man who wins the title Friday afternoon probably will be the District champ for the duration of the war, just as Ed Eynon remained the District champ throughout the last war, when the District Golf Association cancelled its title affairs.

Bogart-Brownell Missing.

A championship tourney these days hardly seems the same without the dominating figure of Ralph Bogart around. The Man O'War of local amateur golf is in Georgia running through his pre-flight training and is not around to defend the crown he has won for the past three years. Neither is Bobby Brownell, who is with the FBI Philadelphia office. Either of these lads might make a runaway of the District title tourney.

Not since the DGA changed its championship back to match play after a series of disillusioning experiences at the rigorous form of medal play has the field been as small as that which started at Congressional today, where post entries were being taken up to teeing off time at 1 p.m.

But even though the District championship this year won't be, either in class or scoring, up to the standard of other years, it will bring out the best man among the simon pures around town this first war year. The amazing part of it all is that although Washington is one of the hottest golf towns in the Nation, in recent years it has not been able to develop either among the men or the women a competitor good enough to rank nationally. Drop one really topnotch amateur in this neighborhood and he'd sweep the tourneys as George Voigt used to do. And George rated nationally.

Harold Gordon, young Georgetown student, is the victor in one of the novel tourneys of the year at Indian Spring. Marty Gordon, father of Harold, put up a cup for the family, with handicaps to count. Mrs. Gordon happens to be one of the top feminine golfers at the club. Son Harold won the first leg on the mug with a 77—6—71. Mrs. Gordon was next.

Bobby Jones and Craig Wood, two of the stars who will play in the war relief match at Columbia September 20, won't arrive in town until the morning of the match. Jones is in the Army and doesn't have time for much golf.

Evans Arrives Day Ahead.

Chick Evans of Chicago, who suggested the match, will be here September 19. Wood and Evans will oppose Jones and Fred McLeod, the latter the Columbia pro, with the match due to start at 2 p.m. Tickets are on sale at all golf shops and many sports stores, priced at $1.25. All receipts above expenses will go to war relief.

Columbia Country Club's junior championship started today, with a new titleholder due to be crowned. The Columbia club has a quaint custom to the general effect that the old champion cannot defend his crown. So there's a new junior champ at Columbia each year. The tourney will wind up tomorrow.

Millich and Leone Clash in Topliner Of Mat Card

Joe Millich, who struggled to a draw with the impolite Ernie Dusek last week, will tangle with Michele Leone tonight at Turner's Arena in the feature match of the weekly rassle card.

In two-man team competition Maurice LaChappelle and Ace Freeman will stack up against Jim Austeri and Mike Heller, while another act will pit Ronny Atkinson against Hans Kampfer.

First match is slated for 9 o'clock.

Interstate Series Opens

BALTIMORE, Sept. 9 (AP).—Interstate Class B Baseball League playoffs will start today with Harrisburg playing at Hagerstown, and Allentown at Wilmington.

Western Army Team Not Hot, Says Wade, But Is Favorite

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Sept. 9.—Maj. Wallace Wade, never overly optimistic, says his Western Army All-Stars definitely are not a great team, but most observers believe they are good enough to whip the Detroit Lions tonight and seize the edge in the charity series with National Football League clubs.

Wade said he would stick pretty much to the line-up that started Sunday's triumph at Denver over the Chicago Cardinals, which matched an earlier defeat to the Washington Redskins at Los Angeles, and then added:

"This isn't a great team, you know, and never will be. Why? It seems to me that football is secondary to these boys, just as it should be."

With big John Kimbrough in a key assignment, the soldiers will attempt to run over the Detroiters, who will depend largely on an aerial attack. Both clubs seemingly have that pay-off punch and that also has paid off at the box office. A sellout of 24,000 seats at University of Detroit Stadium is assured under favorable weather conditions. Net proceeds are earmarked for Army Emergency Relief.

CHESS

By PAUL J. MILLER.

Abe Yanofsky, still in his 'teens, but champion of Canada and winner of the 1942 Ventnor City (N. J.) masters tourney, eased ahead of I. A. Horowitz, New York State titlist, by the slim margin of a drawn game to share first place at Dallas, Tex., in the United States Chess Federation national open tournament with Herman Steiner, Los Angeles chess columnist and one-time member abroad of Uncle Sam's victorious internationals.

Yanofsky and Steiner each scored 16-1. Early in the tournament the Canadian 19-year-old master lost to Horowitz, but won the remainder of his matches.

Eagerness for an outright victory or nothing over Steiner led to Horowitz's sole loss. He drew with J. C. Thompson.

Mary Beth Hughes Tells Of Misleading Rumor

Actress Not Related to Supreme Court Justice, But Began Career Here

By ANDREW R. KELLEY.

Among those steadily climbing the ladder in Hollywood and within glimpse of the top rung is Mary Beth Hughes of Twentieth Century-Fox. Since most of her schooling was acquired here, with her first faltering steps as an actress taken in Washington, she has asked this department to straighten out some of the biographical data concerning her career which is misleading.

A magnified rumor, since expanded into what some accept as fact, had this attractive ingenue raised in the family of Justice James Byrnes of the Supreme Court. How this fiction started, Miss Hughes has no idea, but it has its embarassing facets since she has never met the distinguished jurist. To keep the record straight, Miss Hughes supplies this authentic data regarding her student days and histronic ambitions.

Andrew R. Kelley.

Like every other Washingtonian you ever met, she wasn't born on the banks of the Potomac. She was born in Alton, Ill., on November 13, 1919, and arrived at Washington's Union Station some nine years later, via St. Louis. Mary Beth's arrival in Washington was the direct outcome of her mother obtaining a civil service job as secretary in the Department of Agriculture. Let her continue:

"Even in those days it was practically impossible to find a place to live in Washington. We finally unearthed a couple of rooms in a mansion on Sixteenth street. Our landlady had seen brighter days, but was reduced to keeping boarders. We escaped from this early magnificence when my uncle, Roy Britton, who was president of the American Automobile Association decided to make Washington his home. We went to live with him at Wardman Park Hotel. I went to an exclusive school for girls with ballet lessons on the side at Theodor Beikifi's dancing school on Sixteenth street. After a year and a half my mother decided that I had enough of private school and transferred me to Holy Cross Academy. I was graduated from there.

"In a school production of 'Midsummer Night's Dream' I played Titania, and that won me an admission to the dramatic school which Clifford Brooke conducted at the National Theater in conjunction with his stock company. After about a year I was admitted to the stock company and played 'Walk-ons,' one kid part after another.

"Between school and the National Theater, I didn't see much of Washington life except on week ends—and on week ends everybody else left town. Summers I spent with my grandmother in St. Louis. Mother always wanted to know where I was when she was working."

"Those were happy days for me and I would probably be there yet—the management willing—if mother hadn't fallen ill a year after I finished school. The doctor said she had to go to a warm climate, or else. So we headed for California, the part of California where movies are made. I hoped I could get in them, just as I dreamed of becoming a screen star when I helped the newsstand girl at Wardman Park, for the privilege of reading all the film magazines."

Signed by a Twentieth Century-Fox talent scout she has been in 16 feature pictures, now rates all the perquisites of a studio leading lady. Her latest release in "Over My Dead Body," with Milton Berle. In a postscript she hopes that Washington will see her sometime this month when she makes a bond tour, has requested that the National Capital be included in the itinerary.

This gives Clifford Brooke's graduates two alumni of distinction in Hollywood? Little Peggy Ann Garner, who made such a hit in "Pied Piper" took poise, acting and dancing lessons under this experienced director.

Besides setting down fixed rules and regulations for Hollywood in the production code, the Will H. Hays office keeps a keen eye on the ethics of the industry's advertising.

Thus Bob Gilham of Paramount found himself summoned before the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America's Advertising Committee to explain the use of the word "hell" in New York copy for "Wake Island." Tub thumper Gilham was ready with a unique defense. He explained that the use of the word was justified by wartime conditions, especially since all the United States generals were using it for the purposes of emphasis.

Explanation didn't take with the directors of MPPDA. No matter what the War Department does in the way of relenting, the industry's advertising code is not relaxed. Profanity is still out of bounds.

Something was missing Monday night when the legitimate theater season was officially opened on E street. Manager Edmund Plohn was in New York for the funeral of his closest friend, Leonard Bergman.

Mr. Bergman, as co-trustee of the Erlanger estate, was intimately associated with the National's management. He took a pride in the house, was the executive who recently arranged for its transfer to local trust company ownership. For a good many seasons he was the Broadway contact for Washington's professional reviewers on their occasional jaunts to New York. A fine gentleman, a stanch friend of the theater this sector of the reviewing clan feels a deep personal loss in his passing.

SETTING RECORD STRAIGHT—Mary Beth Hughes, featured player with Twentieth Century-Fox, explains how a rumor can be transposed into fact. In the neighboring column she tells of the incidents in her early career in Washington and of her toddling days as a beginner actress.

There's no doubt that the Warner Bros. Earle Theater Orchestra is going to become more popular due to a number of replacements in musicians that took place last Friday. With Jo Lombardi as conductor, the band is considered one of the best pit bands in the country—it can play hot music as well as do a creditable job on the classics.

The three musicians added to the orchestra are Drummer Ken Reichard, from Mal Hallett's Orchestra; Saxophone Player Harry Klee, formerly with Charlie Spivak, and Trumpet Player Tris Haver, from Glenn Miller's band.

"The World at War," first full-length feature produced by the United States Government will be previewed Wednesday at 11:30 in Earle screening room. Picture includes films supplied by England, Russia and China. Also films confiscated from Germany, Japan and Italy."

Bette Davis, Child Psychologist

They were having trouble with 12-year-old Eric "Bodo" Roberts, a great little actor and a bad little boy, on the set of Warner Bros.' "Watch on the Rhine."

Bodo turned on the hot water and scalded Paul Lukas in a bathroom shower scene. Bodo pinched little Janis Wilson and made her forget her lines. Bodo kicked the dialogue director, a nice man, in the shins.

They tried bribery, cajolery, promises, even offered to let Bodo meet Humphrey Bogart. Nothing worked.

When Bette Davis arrived on the set and saw how things were she took Bodo aside for a quiet little conversation. It was brief. They smiled at each other. Bodo was a wonderful boy for the rest of the day.

"What in the world did you say? What did you promise?" Paul Lukas wanted to know.

"Nothing much, just used psychology," said Bette.

"But tell me."

"Well, if you must know, I said this. I said: 'Bodo, if you're not a good boy from now on I'll slap the living daylights out of you.' We understood each other."

Author, Fighter Couldn't Resist

Just for the fun of it, Lou Nova, California heavyweight, and Leslie Charteris, author of "The Saint" mystery stories, became movie "extras" for several of the Miami Beach scenes in RKO-Radio's Damon Runyon production, "The Big Street," a Florida enthusiast tells us.

Both were guests at the Roney Plaza Hotel in Miami Beach when Director Irving Reis came with Lucille Ball, Henry Fonda and the supporting cast for the beach sequences of this picture.

So, if you like the fun of "spotting" celebrities, here are two you can see in the beach scenes of this screen adaptation of Runyon's story, "Little Pinks."

Happy Pair Happy Even In Writing

Davis Family Finds A Way to Work In Harmony

Wide World.

HOLLYWOOD.

The answer to "How to Be Happy, Though Married," has been found by Frank Davis and Tess Slesinger in writing scenarios for the movies.

They have been at it for years and say they not only can collaborate harmoniously on affairs of their home but also on their writing careers.

The Davis-Slesinger pair date their conjugal-cinematic merger to five years ago when both were working on the same picture. Considerable mutuality of interests developed and, as Miss Slesinger puts it, "We decided to become a team."

Davis likes to write about shipwrecks, while Miss Slesinger prefers doing stories about women who don't like each other. But they both write other scripts, as well.

"First, we outline the scenes," says Miss Slesinger, "and ask each other which scenes who of us has a feeling for. So we divide them up, write them and turn them over to each other for criticism."

Most of their writing is done at home, where they use an extra-long table, with typewriters at each end, and sit facing each other as they work.

But they're not the only husband-wife screen writing team in the film colony. Others include Dorothy Farker-Allen Campbell, Al Hackett-Frances Goodrich, Sara Y. Mason-Victor Heerman and Bella and Sam Spewack.

Martha O'Driscoll Introduces Fad

Martha O'Driscoll, currently featured in "Young and Willing," loves to start fashion fads.

Her latest fashion exploit deals with tasseled doeskin evening mitts. She purchased one pair in crimson and the other in electric blue. Then for sheer innovation, she combines a red mitt with a blue mitt. This adds dash to a simple black evening gown.

Sawyer in Old West

Joe Sawyer, noted screen heavy, joins the cast of "Buckskin Empire," outdoor epic of the old West which Harry Sherman is producing for Paramount. Richard Dix, Victor Jory, George Reeves and Lee J. Cobb fill other top roles.

The company leaves shortly for Kernville for two weeks location scenes.

Films Are 'Canned Morale' So Navy Supplies Best

Copies of 25 New Releases Rushed Each Month to Ships and Shore Stations

By the Associated Press.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 9.—"Canned morale," they call it in the United States Navy—and if morale ever came in cans, it's the top-flight motion picture entertainment provided for the men of the Nation's far-flung fleet.

Every month the Navy leases 25 newly released films and rushes copies in their heavy metal cans to distribution points in order that sailors and marines on ships and shore stations from Iceland to the Solomons can enjoy them almost as soon as civilian moviegoers back home.

"Because of war conditions they now have to run a show many times before the whole crew sees it, but they are still getting the cream of the new movies in the far corners of the world," says Chief Electrician's Mate R. F. McCall, who with four enlisted men handles the exchange of movies for the Atlantic Fleet.

Cowboy Pictures Popular.

McCall says the films, which are handled as a standard part of a ship's supplies along with food and ammunition, are selected with an eye on proper balance among musicals, dramas, comedies and action pictures. "Most sailors want cowboy pictures and things with lots of action," he laughs, "but we give 'em drama, too. Somebody likes it."

The Navy's movie scheme is primarily for enlisted men rather than for officers, and all selections are made with this in mind. The entire ship's company, of course, can attend when films are shown—if they can find seats.

In peacetime portable screens were erected on deck. Showings were held inside only when the weather made it necessary but war conditions now usually require that all projections be in a ship's mess quarters.

Films Rank With Food.

"When ships hit port they send their men running to the exchange to get new programs," says Chief McCall, a veteran of 23 years' Navy service. "I think they'd rather see a load of movies come on board than a load of food—unless they're starving.

"It keeps them in touch with what they're fighting for," he adds seriously.

Transfer of films from one ship to another at sea is still made when practicable, as many a captain feels that the lift his crew gets from a new movie is important. Often a picture will run through every ship in a particular squadron, making unnecessary an exchange when they reach port, where a new series may have just left by a supply ship.

Mr. Rosen Had a Hunch About His Farce

But Most Agents Wouldn't Listen, To Their Deep Regret

By Wide World.

CHICAGO.

Rollicking laughter has been shaking the cozy Blackstone Theater for four months, but the loudest laugh comes from a veteran Hollywood actors' agent turned producer.

A year ago Al Rosen was running around the movie capital trying to raise $6,000 to stage a pet idea of his, a successful farce of the World War era brought up to date. Today, he says, he could get practically any amount at the snap of his fingers.

But it took eight months of talking and eight months of "no," "uh-uh" and "absolutely not a cent" before Rosen convinced Howard Lang, another agent—in 24 hours of argument—that his idea was worth a $6,000 gamble.

The show, a rewrite of Avery Hopwood's old "Ladies' Night in a Turkish Bath," has Skeets Gallagher, Buddy Ebsen and a dozen movie cuties in the cast. The production, which amounts to burlesque without music, went to San Francisco for a two weeks' tryout. It stayed five and Rosen says it could have prospered longer. The owners cleared their $6,000 investment and $27,000 profit.

Opening in Chicago, "Good Night Ladies" bucked a tradition that no Pacific Coast stage offering of recent years had succeeded there.

It became the phenomenon of the season. It pleased all the daily newspaper critics but one and he conceded that the show might run a year. Rosen now predicts the gross will top a million dollars before the production goes East.

The show had moved into the Blackstone, outside the Loop and a mile from the Randolph street Rialto. Boasting no first-rank stage or movie names, it had to battle for patronage with two well-cast duplicates of established Broadway hits, "Blithe Spirit" and "Angel Street."

In a few weeks both left town for lack of business, but "Good Night Ladies" rolled merrily on, grossing an average of $17,000 a week and falling only as low as $12,000 during hot weather.

Other plays came to town under more favorable circumstances and left abruptly. The only one to come close to standing up to the Rosen-Lang importation is "My Sister Eileen," another dizzy comedy that did 32 weeks in Chicago a year ago and returned at reduced prices.

When Rosen, convinced he had sure-fire material for a hit, made the Hollywood rounds for money, movie producers were among those who wanted no part of it.

Rosen had his biggest laugh when he was offered $150,000 for the movie rights to the $6,000 play. He's holding out for $250,000.

The Producer Changed Heart And He's Glad

Otherwise 'Bambi' Would Have Escaped Disney's Magic Touch

Thus will run an opening screen credit on Walt Disney's "Bambi," when that color dramatization of Felix Salten's famous book about life and love, drama and disaster, among the forest dwellers, presently reaches the public after five years in the making.

Behind it lies the story of how Sidney Franklin, M-G-M producer whose "Mrs. Miniver" is a current screen rave, planned to make "Bambi" in live action but finally decided Disney could do it better in his animated technique, turned the movie rights over to Walt and then helped him on the production.

Franklin, a slight man weighing only 130 pounds, talked about it diffidently in his book-lined office.

"I had a thought," he said. "A kind of dream that some day I might retire and go into the great woods and make a picture from 'Bambi.'

"Just a cameraman and myself—we'd go into the great woods, study the animals and their surroundings. We'd photograph the animals at the different periods of their lives, and we'd picture the woods at all seasons."

"But I got to thinking," he continued, "of what Walt Disney could do with 'Bambi.' He hadn't made a single long feature at that time. It was before his 'Snow White.' But I loved his short cartoons, used to hunt them up whenever I heard of one playing at a theater somewhere.

"I didn't know him, hadn't met him, but one day I called him up and said I had something I wanted to talk about. We got together."

Finally at the end of seven years of mulling it over the decision to make a beginning was reached. Disney took over the screen rights, and Franklin undertook to work on the story with Disney's story men, a project of months' duration.

Those labors Franklin dismissed lightly. But from the Disney crowd themselves one can gather that with him it was a labor of love, and that he poured a thousand ideas and his own enthusiasm into the conferences.

"Disney has made a greater picture of it," Franklin reflects, "than could have been done with the camera. It's a rich and wonderful thing."

New Mate for Loin-Cloth Chap

HOLLYWOOD.

Frances Gifford, tall, curvesome and redheaded, has been chosen by Producer Sol Lesser to become the new "Mrs. Tarzan" in RKO-Radio's "Tarzan Triumphs," now in production with Johnny Weissmuller again portraying the jungle hero.

Role was assigned Miss Gifford after 30 candidates had been tested to replace Maureen O'Sullivan, who recently withdrew from the screen to await a visit from the stork.

Winning Contract

By THE FOUR ACES.

Crime Doesn't Pay! No. 118

Today we present a scene in which the stage appears to be littered with corpses, but actually only one real crime was committed.

South dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ Q J 7 6 5 3 ♡ J 7 6 2 ◇ 5 ♣ 8 3
♠ A 9 4 ♡ 8 3 ◇ K Q J 6 ♣ J 10 9 4	N W E S	♠ K 10 2 ♡ A K 10 9 5 ◇ 8 7 2 ♣ 7 2
	♠ 8 ♡ Q 4 ◇ A 10 9 4 3 ♣ A K Q 6 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1◇	Pass	1♠	2♡
3♣	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

West opened the eight of hearts, East winning with the king. East next cashed the ace of hearts and returned a third round, South discarding his singleton spade and West ruffing. Hoping that South still had a spade left, West hastily laid down the spade ace, but South ruffed. South then cashed the diamond ace, ruffed a diamond in dummy, ruffed another spade, and ruffed another diamond in dummy. He succeeded in winning five trumps in his own hand, two ruffs in dummy and the diamond ace—for a set of one trick.

Can you spot the crime and the criminal? Try it for yourself before reading on.

West was the chief criminal for not opening a trump; but East should have returned a trump on winning the first trick. An early trump lead by either defender would have limited dummy to one ruff and would have led to a two-trick set. By failing to adopt the correct defense the defenders threw away 200 points.

It was not a crime for North to respond to the opening bid, for his six-card major suit might have struck a fit. It was not a crime for South to bid three clubs, for North might have had a little strength or a better fit for one of the minor suits. And North was correct in passing three clubs rather than going to three spades, for three spades would have been set at least two tricks.

* * * *

Yesterday you were Theodore Lightner's partner and, with neither side vulnerable, you held:

♠ K 7 5
♡ J 4 3
◇ A Q 8 3 2
♣ K 6

The bidding:

Schenken	You	Jacoby	Lightner
1♣	1◇	Pass	1♠
Pass	(?)

Answer—Bid two spades. If your partner has a fairly good hand, there may be a game for your side. If he has a poor hand with just long spades and short diamonds, a contract of two spades should be reasonably safe.

Score 100 per cent for two spades, 40 per cent for pass.

Question No. 1,173.

Today you hold the same hand, but the bidding is different.

Schenken	You	Jacoby	Lightner
1◇	(?)

What do you bid? (Answer tomorrow.)

Uncle Ray's Corner

By RAMON COFFMAN.

Theaters in the time of Shakespeare had no electric lights and most of them were not fitted even with good oil lamps. Usually the plays were given in the afternoon, more or less in the open air.

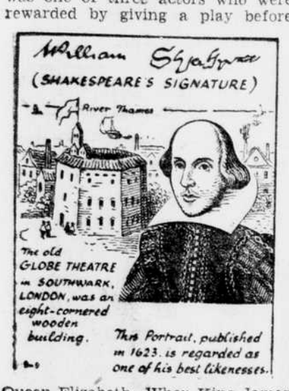
An odd-looking theater of Shakespeare's time was known as the "Globe." It had eight sides!

Even though there might be an open-air space for the stage, theater walls were needed to shut off the play from the eyes of the outside world. Otherwise people might not have paid for watching the actors.

Charges were not high. One old record tells us that a person had to pay a penny to get into "the pit," close to the stage. Sometimes the pit was so closely packed that there was standing room only. Other persons bought gallery seats and paid 2 or 3 pennies apiece.

After Shakespeare showed that he could patch up old plays and make them more popular he was permitted to write plays of his own. The first one he wrote entirely by himself probably was "Love's Labor Lost." Later he prepared from one to three new plays each year.

As time went on the plays became popular with English nobles and with the royal family. Shakespeare was one of three actors who were rewarded by giving a play before



Queen Elizabeth. When King James I reached the throne he honored the company of actors and they came to be called "the King's men."

The success Shakespeare won by his acting and by writing plays brought him a large income for those days. As soon as possible he sent money to his father to pay off family debts and he also bought a coat of arms for his father.

At the age of 33 he bought a house in Stratford-on-Avon. This house was called New Place and is described as "one of the best in Stratford." The cost was about $250 in our money.

The actor and playwright did not at that time return to his home town to live. Instead he kept on with his great work. He was now one of the owners of the Globe Theater and many of his plays were acted inside it.

The plays he wrote rank as the most famous of all time. They include "Hamlet," "Macbeth," "Romeo and Juliet" and "King Lear." These plays and others are studied by millions of students in universities and high schools.

At the age of 46 Shakespeare returned to Stratford-on-Avon. He died there in 1616, at the age of 52.

Although the spelling "Shakespeare" is common today, the name has several other spellings. Among these were "Shakspere," "Shakspear" and "Shaxpere."

Take My Word for It

By FRANK COLBY.

Surprise Word of the Week

Impious, meaning "not pious," more often than not is mispronounced "im-PIE-uss," a pronunciation that is not sanctioned by any authority known to me. Be sure to place the accent on the first syllable, thus: IM-pee-uss.

A word similarly mispronounced is IMPOTENT. We hear it often as "im-POE-tent," but, again, the accent belongs on the first syllable, thus: IM-poe-t'nt.

How Did It Start?

Los Angeles: Can you tell us how the expression "not dry behind the ears" originated?—R. V.

Answer—The expression is said to have originated among the Dutch of early Pennsylvania. Noticing that animals just born are promptly licked dry everywhere but behind the ears, the Dutch coined the phrase to designate a mere youngster. Says De Vere (1856): "Rustic maidens, rejecting the attentions of youths whom they consider too young to be of special value as lovers, are fond of saying 'You are not dry yet behind the ears; you had better wait.'"

It's Hard to Believe

Spokane: Please settle a dispute. Is the word MAP of Anglo-Saxon origin?—H. H.

Answer—Map is from the French mappe, which is from the Latin mappa, meaning . . . (honor bright) . . . "a napkin!" Also, it's hard to believe that the words apron and napery (table linens) likewise come from the Latin mappa, but it's true.

Send for my new free Spelling Pamphlet that lists 200 English words most frequently misspelled. Valuable for office, home, school, spelling bees, quiz contests. Send a stamped (3-cent), self-addressed envelope to Frank Colby, in care of The Evening Star.

NATURE'S CHILDREN —By Lillian Cox Athey

CROWN MELONGENA, (Melongena Corona),

Few collectors of beautiful sea shells realize that the empty homes they are so proud of once belonged to aggressive fighters. True, it is seldom man has the opportunity to witness some of the tactics followed by the builders of shell shelters.

Recently a perfect Crown Melongena came into the possession of a young student of conchology who promptly sought an authority to tell him the life story of Melongena.

It appears that, at present, there are about 12 species in the Genus

Melongena to be found in the warm seas of both hemispheres, and this particular one is in the waters of Florida and the West Indies.

All the members of the family construct pear-shaped, solid, dark-colored or banded shells. The shell is usually thick and oblong to fusiform, having a canal of moderate length. The family, Buccindae, is large, and each member has an aggressive attitude and carnivorous habits.

Melongenas may reach a length of 5 inches, but most of them are not quite so hefty. The whorls of the shell are decorated with a coronal of curved, flattened spines, and the longitudinal line of growth rises at the base, forming a secondary row. These spines resemble a crown, hence the name. Between the two rows of spines there is a beautiful band of white on a rich brown or bluish ground color. The surface is highly polished.

This creature prefers brackish waters where there is an abundance of clams and their relatives, including the slender razor clam and the mild oyster.

On finding a large oyster Melongena takes a stand close enough for the victim to clamp tight its doors. In a short time guests arrive from every direction. They make a circle around the oyster and "sit it out." Finally the weary bivalve, in desperation, relaxes, and the doors swing ajar in order that he may breathe.

This is what the Melongenas have been waiting for. With swift, concerted action, they thrust their long snouts into the open door. Clamp goes the door. Naturally, it cannot close perfectly, and while the actual feasting is interrupted, the oyster must relax ever so often, thus giving the bandits an opportunity to reach the muscle. The rasping tongues quickly disable the poor thing, and the party proceeds without further delay. "Coon" oysters are Melongena's favorite food.

The giant band shell, a mollusk of great strength, can and does kill the carnivorous Melongenas. It approaches swiftly, and, by superior strength, overpowers it, wrapping about it the folds of its great foot, so that the captive cannot move. No neighbor interferes. Melongena is as helpless as the oyster she and her friends consumed.

Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

You cannot always believe your eyes;
You cannot always believe your ears;
The truth quite often you will find;
Is not at all as it appears.

Up in the top of a big pine tree in the Green Forest Bobby Coon was doing his best to keep out of sight and at the same time to see what the hunters who were after him were doing. It was very necessary that he should know just what they were doing in order that he might know just what to do himself. He ached and smarted where three shots from the terrible gun carried by one of the hunters had hit him, but he had no time to think about his wounds now. He was lucky that they were not worse. He knew that he must keep his wits working every minute if he would save himself from worse wounds, or perhaps being killed.

Around the foot of the tree were gathered the hunters, Bowser the Hound and another dog. Bowser and the other dog didn't seem to be much interested. You see, they were interested only so long as they could smell Bobby's tracks, and since Bobby had taken to climbing from one tree to another like a squirrel there were no tracks to smell. So they had stopped barking, and were just waiting around to find out what their masters were going to do.

"Come on! Hurry up and climb this tree!" shouted one, as Farmer Brown's Boy dropped to the ground from the big chestnut tree from which he had driven Bobby Coon.

"Climb it yourself!" snapped Farmer Brown's Boy. "I've climbed two trees and it is the turn of some one else now. Besides, that tree is too big. It's too far up to the first branches."

"Oh, come on!" begged another voice. "You know you are the youngest and spryest and the best climber. Just try this one. We'll get him this time."

"He doesn't dare to. He's afraid!" another voice interrputed, and the sound of that voice was not at all pleasant. It had the sound of a sneer, and you know nothing is more unpleasant sounding than a sneer.

"I do dare to! I dare to climb any tree in the Green Forest!" The voice of Farmer Brown's Boy sounded angry. It sounded very angry. No one would have guessed that he was just pretending.

"Then why don't you prove it by climbing this tree?" demanded the other voice.

"Because I've done my share of climbing already!" retorted Farmer Brown's Boy, and he sounded as if he meant every word he said.

For a long time that dispute as to who should climb that tree lasted. Bobby didn't stop to listen to it very long. It gave him just the chance he had been waiting for, and he took it. He softly stole out along a branch that reached over to a hemlock tree and from there he reached another tree in which was a hollow big enough for him to squeeze into. Once safely there he almost chuckled to think how he had fooled those hunters. You see, he didn't know that all the time Farmer Brown's Boy had been watching him and at the time Bobby was getting from one tree to another Farmer Brown's Boy had pretended to be angrier than ever so as to keep the other hunters from looking up.

So, you see, that was a case where Bobby Coon's eyes and ears were not to be believed. They told him that Farmer Brown's Boy was an enemy, which wasn't the truth at all. You know and I know and Farmer Brown's Boy knows that if it hadn't been for him something dreadful might have and probably would have happened to Bobby Coon.

Raid Shelter Economy

Complaint was heard in Sydney, Australia, that air-raid shelters were being built out of new bricks when so many old bricks could be obtained by demolition squads.

MUST BRITAIN GIVE UP INDIA?

What's behind the muddle in India? Are the British kidding themselves that they can hold India against India and Japan combined? What causes most Indian leaders to laugh at British promises of "independence—later"? Edgar Snow, after traveling India from end to end, cables from Bombay why India will swing her tremendous resources to the Axis unless Britain backs down . . . and what action is needed immediately by the U. S.

NEW COMPLETE NOVEL
IN THE POST · OUT TODAY

Hot on the heels of one of the most amusing and widely read Post serials . . . "The Bride Saw Red" . . . comes a complete novel in one issue by the same author. It's a slap-happy romance involving a photographer of glamour girls and a lovely creature who wants him to switch to something SIGNIFICANT . . . dams, soil erosion and stuff. (The argument ranges from Radio City to Hollywood.) Plenty of laughs in this one. Don't miss This Is Where I Came In . . .

by ROBERT CARSON { Author of "THE BRIDE SAW RED" }

Lend-Lease works both ways
Just back from London, Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., our Lend-Lease Administrator, reveals exactly what England is giving us to pay for the planes, tanks and guns we're sending England.

Flying boxcars may win the war
Already our new Air Transport Command is flying everything from blood plasma to tanks to the far-away theatres of war. David G. Wittels describes the miracle.

"Snoop Ship"
is the title of Richard Howells Watkins' new story of a sea-going spy who traps himself with (of all things!) a bowl of soup!

Backstage with the girls
. . . hoofers, gagsters (and more girls) barnstorming with USO-Camp Shows, Inc., Unit 35. A picture-story, Uncle Sam Brings Vaudeville Back.

An eerie story solving the mystery of a half-mad thing, a shadow, a ghost who lived in The Swamp. By Robert Murphy.

Do heroes marry
the girls they left behind? Ruth Burr Sanborn writes a tender story of one girl who waited and a boy who remembered, Hero Come Home.

How to kill mosquitoes
If anybody knows, it's J. Lyell Clarke. This week's Post brings you the story of America's No. 1 Skeeter-Beater.

Two old favorites are back!
Rodney McQuillan, feuding again with the ravishing (Junkyard) Widow Crotty . . . and Mr. Tutt in a new courtroom adventure.

"Rookie of the Year"
J. Roy Stockton gives you the inside dope on why the Cardinal's Stanley Musial deserves the title.

A dramatic new serial of a mongrel dog who wouldn't give up, and an outcast boy who had the same creed, Laverack of Sarah Run, by George Agnew Chamberlain. Second of five parts . . . Also—editorials, cartoons, Post Scripts and fun.
