House-to-House Battle Raging After Nazis Enter Stalingrad; U. S. Smashes 10 Jap Vessels

Tanks Plunge Into Volga City; Reds Under Bomb Hail

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Sept. 17.—German and Russian infantrymen battled in the attics and cellars of a northwestern section of Stalingrad today after the gates of the city finally had been opened to the invaders by massed tanks. Bombs rained down without a let-up on the defending army—made up of soldiers, Red marines and armed civilians—and buildings within the smoking city on the elbow of the Volga as waves of Nazi bombers hurled themselves into the assault. It was apparent from field dispatches that the German air force held a clear numerical superiority and was hard for Soviet flyers to meet. The Moscow radio announced the invaders were maintaining their advance, despite thousands of casualties.

(Reuters said today that the Vichy radio—frequently inaccurate—brought news from the German high command that the Germans have occupied Stalingrad. The German high command communique today made no such claim and no confirmation came from any other quarter.)

Successful defensive actions were stressed by the Soviet Information Bureau's midday communique a few hours later, however, and Russian field dispatches in no way intimated that the fighting was lessened or that the city was falling.

"In the northwestern outskirts of Stalingrad, enemy automatic riflemen supported by tanks were repulsed by a Soviet infantry unit," the communique said. "Six tanks were disabled or set on fire by anti-tank rifle fire, hand grenades and incendiary bombs. The enemy automatic riflemen were surrounded and wiped out."

About 600 Germans were reported slain on other sections of the Stalingrad defense zone in engagements which frequently developed hand-to-hand fighting. Nazi tanks, armored cars and ammunition trucks were brought under the damaging fire of Red Army artillery.

Fury of Battle Tremendous.
Tremendous fury was reported in the fighting in the northwestern section, with the Germans streaming into every house they could reach. They fired from attics and cellars, a dispatch said, but the Red Army men ejected them from many.

Dispatches left no doubt that the German air force was raining bombs continually on the weary Russian fighters, capitalizing on a numerical superiority seldom if ever before attained in the German-Russian war.

The army newspaper Red Star said the sky over the city was swarming with both dive bombers and high-level squadrons and declared that the fate of the city depended on the skill and courage of the available Soviet fighter pilots.

Nazi Sights Air Forces.
German planes were reported yesterday to have been rushed from many distant points to the North Caucasus, for the assault and the government newspaper Ivestia said documents found in the ruins of a downed Junkers transport, showed that it had been flown to Stalingrad from the Netherlands.

Several hundred thousand troops—"several tens of divisions"—were declared by Ivestia to have been concentrated by the German command for the push that broke into the city outside the city.

Transport planes brought up fresh forces and poured them into the battle. Plane landings close to the front indicated the Germans were able to establish landing fields immediately outside the city.

Red Star said 5,000 Germans were killed during a counterattack in the Sinjavino area of the Volkov River front and fighting flamed on the central front, in the upper Don Basin and along the Terek River valley of the Caucasus.

Major attention, however, was commanded by the battle of Stalingrad.

Nazi Tanks Wiped Out.
German tank groups were reported earlier to have cut into Red Army lines on the northwestern fringe of the Soviet nerve center city, and Mrs. Wallace J. Clark, Clinton, Md., also was listed among the wounded.

Officers from nearby Maryland and Virginia in the list included Lt. Col. Robert H. Williams, U. S. M. C., Bethesda, Md., a former White House aide, and Maj. Kenneth D. Bailey, U. S. M. C., Quantico, Va., listed as wounded. Sgt. Wallace J. Clark, Jr., 23, U. S. M. C., son of the late Mrs. Wallace J. Clark, Clinton, Md., also was listed among the wounded.

Army Private Gets $350,000 For His Patent

By the Associated Press.
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 17.—The Camp Rucker public relations office reported today a private in a chemical warfare company had been paid $350,000 for a patent by one of the largest chemical companies in the country. A research chemist for 10 years before his induction into the Army last April, the soldier is Pvt. Theodore E. Borst, Clinton, N. Y. His Camp Rucker unit is the 54th Chemical Company and the Commercial Chemical Co. is Du Pont. Pvt. Borst's patent is in the field of agricultural chemistry, and because considerable time may be required to develop it into a commercially practicable process, it is likely, he explained, to be more significant in the Nation's post-war period than in our present war economy.

800 RAF Bombers Hammer Ruhr Area In Night Assault

Reported Lost

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Sept. 17.—Massed squadrons of possibly 800 RAF bombers unloaded another huge batch of explosives on the industrial heart of Germany last night, striking at the Ruhr in a renewed effort to aid Soviet Russia by crippling Adolf Hitler's war-making machinery.

This massive night blow at the Ruhr, the Ministry disclosed, followed a daring dusk attack by light British bombers on Wiesbaden, in the Rhineland. Wiesbaden is the seat of the German Armistice Commission, which deals with French armistice matters.

The night raid, delivered by "a very strong force of bombers," left many fires burning, some of them very large, the communique said.

British losses in the two air assaults were planes, it was announced. If the material 5 per cent loss ratio prevailed, the RAF may have sent over as many as 800 planes. An authoritative source said specifically, however, that it was not a 1,000-bomber operation.

The RAF said its string of night assaults on the Reich this month total 10 by this attack.

Meanwhile, Spitfire fighters intercepted a group of high-flying German daylight raiders over the Ruhr. One of the raiders was turned back after they had tried three times to cross the British south coast.

Two American pilots serving with the Royal Canadian Air Force reported many fires in the Ruhr Valley.

"The fires were not so concentrated as in the 1,000-bomber raid on Cologne, but they covered a wider area," reported Flight Sgt. Edward Murphy of Dorchester, Mass., a veteran of the Ruhr Valley defense from the fires was reflected by the clouds over the target.

Sgt. James Burton, 25, of Billings, Mont., said "the Ruhr Valley defenses were extremely hot—they were pouring it up."

"Whenever a cone of searchlights focused on a plane, the Germans sent up the red flares. We were caught in a beam once or twice, but we weren't hit."

Second Blow in Month.
The dusk curtain-raiser of the British air assault was the second blow against Wiesbaden within a month. Chiefly a spa but also a manufacturing city where surgical instruments are made, Wiesbaden was one of the chief targets of a strong raid on Frankfurt and the upper Rhineland on the night of August 24. It had not been mentioned before in RAF communique.

To reach their goal with nightfall last night, the light bombers had to cross almost 400 miles of enemy territory in daylight. Some British observers said this may have accounted for a large share of the 39 planes lost, but no official explanation was given.

A German broadcast said several (See RAIDS, Page A-26.)

U. S. Manpower To Be Drafted, Nelson Hints

WPB Chief Sees Arms Production As Near Maximum

By the Associated Press.
War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson said today the Nation now "is almost at a maximum" of production and that the output of war material in 1943 would be "much bigger" than the previous goal of $60,000,000,000. He told the House Committee on Defense Migration, once studying methods for full utilization of manpower, that production would begin in full flow in January and February.

"We are on the big upswing of production," he declared. Mr. Nelson remarked that the maximum was "dictated by the amount you can get out of certain materials" and also was governed by other factors such as shipping.

Later Mr. Nelson told reporters that when he said the country was approaching the "maximum of production," he meant that the time had arrived when WPB could make schedules for eventual mass production in a particular plant. He said he agreed with President Roosevelt's recent statement that at present, the country was operating at 50 per cent production.

Hints of Labor Draft.
He said he had not studied the advisability of legislation to control migration, which Paul McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, yesterday asserted was "inevitable" and essential to maximum production.

However, Mr. Nelson said that "we have to have workers at places where we need them and at times when we need them. It can be done voluntarily, well, that's fine. But if it can't be done that way, it must be done some other way."

The production, he said, had "arrived at the point where, if you add a thing to our program, then you have to subtract something."

That assertion was made in replying to questions from members of the committee on the progress being made by Henry J. Kaiser, West Coast shipbuilder, in getting Government authority and backing for his plan to build giant cargo planes on a mass production basis.

Marines Held On to Base.
At the other end of the far-flung Pacific battle theater, the Marines still cling to their Guadalcanal base, as the Navy announced that the intensity of the fighting had decreased. Marine patrols, meanwhile, still sought to drive enemy units from the interior of the island.

A Japanese cruiser and destroyer force was spotted yesterday off Choiseul, the Navy said, by Navy and Marine Devastator dive bombers and Navy Grumman Avenger torpedo planes. One of the cruisers was damaged by bombs, and the other by a torpedo in the area about 200 miles northwest of Guadalcanal.

A day earlier, the communique added, a bombing attack by two Boeing Flying Fortress set shore installations, after the Japanese base on Rekata Bay about 140 miles northwest of the American Guadalcanal airfield.

The hits scored on the two cruisers boosted the toll on enemy ships created by plants overstocking with labor, against anticipated rather than actual needs, testified. "It is natural in a period of expanding employment and impending labor scarcity for employers to hoard labor."

He said that, from his observations, "wages in manpower requirements could be brought about if we institute the same sort of inventory controls in the labor market that we have instituted and are instituting with respect to critical raw materials."

"The labor utilization inspector and the Labor-Management Program Committee should take an active part in the promotion of programs and plans for training and upgrading unskilled and semiskilled workers into simpler and more easily manned occupations."

Proved Methods Indesired.
"Those methods of labor utilization which have proved so successful in great sections of the shipbuilding industry and all Government contractors should be required, as part of their obligation, to utilize efficient operations, to utilize the accepted and approved training methods developed so successfully by the training-within-industry division of the War Manpower Commission."

A Government attempt to determine the future manpower needs of both the armed forces and industry also was disclosed to Congress.

Mr. Lund reported Government agencies were preparing decision "on the largest and most efficient possible army which can be fully serviced by those who are left outside the armed forces."

"Until that decision is made, twin dangers face the Nation's war effort," he told the committee.

Danger on Two Sides.
"On the one hand," Mr. Lund said, "workers may be taken out of jobs to do the war, and the way to cripple production the way forces need for their maximum efficiency. On the other hand, there is danger that the armed forces..."

Petrillo Order Perils War Communications, Davis Tells Inquiry

OWI Chief Declares Ban
Hampers His Efforts to Keep Public Informed

By the Associated Press.
Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, told a congressional committee today that James C. Petrillo's ban against musical records and transcriptions threatened the wartime national system of communication.

Mr. Davis was the first witness before a Senate Interstate Commerce Subcommittee hearing called yesterday afternoon was told that Petrillo's ban had been in effect for three months and that 230 trucks and crews have been obtained, one-half from business firms; that central stock pile sites are being established, and that a list of the official collection depots will be ready for publication Saturday.

The drive begins at 8 a.m. Sunday. Scrap collected from curbs will be hauled to central stock piles and removed by junk dealers to yards for sorting.

Whether the job will require six or eight hours depends on the amount of scrap piled up by East Washington. (See SCRAP, Page A-3.)

Paddock Pushes Bill For District Delegate In Congress

Author of Resolution Appeals to Colleagues
To Help Get Action

Representative Paddock, Republican, of Illinois today appealed to the House to help him get a favorable report from the Judiciary Committee on his resolution for an elected delegate from the District.

He said such a delegate would assist in obtaining a modern and efficient form of government for the District, emphasizing that the "present government is unsatisfactory for three main reasons."

He quoted the language of the Crifenhagen report to Congress in 1939 which said that "the existing organization has been built around an act adopted over 60 years ago and has obviously grown without plan or system into an unbelievably complex, confused, illogical and cumbersome."

Additional reasons, in Representative Paddock's opinion are that the residents of the District do not vote and most members of Congress, which he says in effect is a national council, are not sufficiently informed regarding District affairs.

Representative Paddock asked his House colleagues to assist him in providing a more efficient form of government for the District, which he said is a "legally elected representative to advocate desirable changes."

Increased Need for Work.
He explained that his own interest in this problem comes largely from his knowledge as a House member that most of the members "do not know enough about District affairs."

If there was an elected delegate, well informed as to local problems and devoting his entire time to (See DELEGATE, Page A-4.)

Ickes Wants Speeders 'Soaked' To Cut Down Rubber Waste

Government employes "ought to be soaked" for speeding in the Capital today told newspapermen at a press conference at which he expressed the opinion that fines being levied in Municipal Court for this offense are inadequate.

At the same time today it was disclosed that Secretary Ickes has written to Chief Judge George P. Barse of Municipal Court, explaining the efforts that are being made to enforce the 35-mile limit recommended by the Baruch Committee and bespeaking co-operation of the court in dealing with offending speeders, whom the Secretary characterized as "slackers."

Judge Barse is pledging co-operation in a response to Mr. Ickes and has turned his communication over to Judge George D. Nelson, now presiding in Traffic Court. Judge Nelson has already announced a "crackdown" policy for handling speeders, particularly those who flout the 35-mile limit.

In related developments Gov. O'Connor of Maryland ordered all motor vehicles owned and operated by Maryland's various State agencies to observe immediately the 35-mile-an-hour speed limit and Gov. Darden of Virginia said he would make a special session of the Legislature today to reduce the Virginia limit from 45 to 35 miles an hour.

Secretary Ickes' comment on the local situation was prompted by a question as to how he was getting along in the effort to reduce the Virginia limit from 45 to 35 miles an hour. (See SPEEDING, Page A-20.)

Scrap Drive Plans Mapped; 220 Trucks to Haul Metal

Sites for Stock Piles Being Established;
List of Depots to Be Ready Saturday

All District residents living east of North and South Capitol streets and east of the Anacostia River are asked to place metal scrap on the sidewalks near the curbing in front of their homes by 8 a.m. Sunday. Trucks will pick up the scrap starting at 8 a.m. For further details watch The Star. Pictures on page B-1.

Washington's first intensive metal scrap drive Sunday needs only the co-operation of citizens to make it a success. Preparations for the whirlwind campaign confined to the area east of North and South Capitol streets and east of the Anacostia River have been completed.

The drive begins at 8 a.m. Sunday. Scrap collected from curbs will be hauled to central stock piles and removed by junk dealers to yards for sorting.

Whether the job will require six or eight hours depends on the amount of scrap piled up by East Washington. (See SCRAP, Page A-3.)

Army's Trucks, Crews Will Aid Scrap Collection

Secretary of War Stimson today pledged the Army's operation in metal scrap collections, but Army trucks and crews will not participate in the two Sunday blitz drives here.

"The District will be given all the aid necessary from the Army without overhauling the local effort," said Col. J. F. Hulley, assistant chief of staff, Supply Division of the Washington Military District. Col. Hulley, who will be in charge of the Army's scrap collection efforts, said Army trucks and men will be used wherever necessary except on Sundays.

Col. Hulley said he had conferred with Horace Walker, secretary of the Commissioners' Special Scrap Salvage Committee, and pronounced the permanent metal scrap collection drive "a very good one."

He quoted the number of trucks or men that would be used in the Army participation locally, merely explaining that assistance would be "adequate."

Secretary Stimson announced that all service commands and agencies of the quartermaster, general and chief of ordnance will co-operate in collections in communities surrounding Army stations when such activity will not interfere with normal military duties.

Allies and Japanese In Battle 32 Miles From Port Moresby

Rivals Locked in Combat
After New Enemy Drive Down Mountain Slopes

By the Associated Press.
GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Sept. 17. The main bodies of the Allied and Japanese forces in New Guinea were locked in bitter combat today approximately 32 miles airline from Port Moresby following a new enemy advance down the southern slopes of the rugged, densely-wooded Owen Stanley Mountains.

The immediate scene of the battle was the tiny hamlet of Ioribaiwa, which the Japanese reached yesterday after pushing forward eight miles from Elogi, where they had been stalled for a week after crossing the summit of the mountains with the aid of their familiar infiltration tactics.

A communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said the Japanese were exerting heavy pressure and that "serious fighting" was in progress, but there was no indication of the turn it was taking.

Japs Reinforced.
It appeared evident, however, that the Japanese had been reinforced during the last week and that they were throwing everything into a determined effort to reach Port Moresby, a vital link in Australia's outer defenses.

An Allied spokesman said that (See AUSTRALIA, Page A-26.)

Parity Formula Change Opposed By Roosevelt

Disfavors Any Move For New Method On Farm Prices

(Star Radio Forum speech of Senator Brown on inflation bill, Page A-7.)

By the Associated Press.
President Roosevelt, in letters to chairmen of the Senate and House Banking Committees, expressed "unalterable opposition" today to any move to change the present parity formula for farm prices.

Advised at a White House conference that amendments might be offered to pending anti-inflation legislation to alter the level of parity returns to farmers, the President wrote Senator Wagner, Democrat, of New York and Representative Stagg, Democrat, of Alabama opposing such a move.

Parity is a price level calculated to give farmers a return for their crops comparable to a past favorable period, usually 1909-1914. Some farm bloc members had contended this formula ought to be revised to take farm wages into account, thus increasing the level to which farm prices might rise before ceilings came into operation.

"I should like to make clear my unalterable opposition to any re-computation of parity at this time," the President wrote. "In my message of September 7 I stated, 'In computing parity, we should continue to use the computations of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics made under the law as it stands today.' This will continue to be my policy."

Senate Republicans, meanwhile, pledged co-operation with the administration in efforts to obtain speedy congressional approval of the legislation authorizing and directing Mr. Roosevelt to stabilize prices and wages and salaries.

Indicating that the minority group would have several amendments to offer to the bill, Republican Leader McNary said the group would meet Saturday to draft some proposals.

Action Held Necessary.
At a preliminary conference to the minority group, McNary said, the group recognizes the present situation with respect to living costs, that it believes action is necessary and will co-operate in an effort to work out a solution of the problem presented to the Senate and the country.

There still was no certainty that the House and Senate could agree on a bill by October 1, the deadline set by the President, but the Republicans were talking about a (See INFLATION, Page A-20.)

Taylor to Resume Post As Envoy to Vatican

Myron C. Taylor is returning to the Vatican to resume his mission there as President Roosevelt's personal representative, Secretary of State Hull said today.

He told a press conference that it could be assumed that Italy had granted Mr. Taylor safe conduct for his trip. Mr. Taylor, who was named as the President's envoy to the Vatican in this country entered the war, has been in Washington for several months.

Mr. Hull said Mr. Taylor planned to remain at the Vatican for only a limited time after his return there.

BEDFORD CENTER, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Reflecting the grim attitude of a trial-stricken town, District Attorney Gilbert Gallagher promised quick justice for a youth accused of the kidnap-murder of two small sisters.

Edward Haight, 17-year-old Stamford (Conn.) laborer, who confessed binding, kidnapping and assaulting Helen Lynch, 8, and Mary Ann, 7, after luring them into a stolen station wagon Monday night, was held without bail by Justices of the Peace in two separate arraignments, to await action of the grand jury.

28,251 Aussies Missing In Action or Captured

By the Associated Press.
CANBERRA, Australia, Sept. 17.—Australian war losses include 28,251 missing in action or captured by the enemy, War Minister Francis Forde announced today.

Of these 7,667 are known to have been captured in the Near East, mostly in Greece and Crete, while 10,586 were taken prisoner or lost in Malaya.

Mr. Forde also announced that Australian married men up to 45 years of age would be called for military service in rear areas as required to release younger men for front-line duty.

Mr. Forde said men over 40 would be used only in auxiliary units, such as the Army Service Corps, Ordnance Corps and headquarters staffs.

Nats Lead Indians By Score of 5-4 In Fourth Inning

Case Crosses Plate On Passed Ball to Break 4-4 Tie

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The Washington Nationals were leading the Cleveland Indians here this afternoon. The score was 5 to 4 in the fourth inning. The Nats opened the game with a couple of singles, but failed to develop a run, the Indians on the other hand quickly filled the bases and Edwards scored as Fleming fled to Spence.

In the second inning the Nats piled up four runs off Dean before the Indians rushed Reynolds to the mound. Sullivan and Early hit singles and Spence's triple brought in Sullivan, Scarborough and Case. Spence scored on Campbell's single.

Time was called on account of weather in the third inning and when play was resumed the Indians pushed across three runs, tying the score. Fleming hit a homer after a single by Edwards and double by Heath.

The Nats forged ahead when Case scored on a passed ball. He walked, stole second and then went to third. First inning.

WASHINGTON—Case singled to center. Spence singled to right. Case stopping at second. Campbell fled to Heath. Vernon fouled to Hegan. Estelle hit to Peters whose throw to Mack was too late to get Spence, but Mack's throw to Fleming retired Estelle.

CLEVELAND—Hockett popped to Estelle. Edwards walked. Keltner singled to right. Edwards tripped and fell rounding second and returned to the base. Fleming walked, filling the bases. Fleming fled to Spence. Edwards scoring and Keltner going to third. Clary threw out Mack. One run.

WASHINGTON—Sullivan singled to center. Clary popped to Mack. Early singled over Keltner's head. Sullivan stopping at second. Scarborough forced Early. Fleming to Peters. Case beat out a tumt down the third base line. Spence tripped to left, scoring Sullivan, Scarborough and Case. Campbell singled to right scoring Spence. Reynolds replaced Dean in the field for Cleveland. Vernon struck out. Four runs.

CLEVELAND—Peters fanned. Estelle threw out Hegan. Scarborough tossed out Reynolds. Third inning.

WASHINGTON—Estelle fouled to Fleming. Sullivan popped to Peters. Clary singled to left. Early singled to center, sending Clary to third, and took second on the throw to third. Peters threw out Scarborough. Cleveland—Hockett popped to Clary. Edwards singled to right. Keltner lined to Case. Heath doubled to right, sending Edwards to third. Fleming hit a home run over the right field wall scoring behind Edwards and Heath. Hack fled to Campbell. Three runs.

DENVER—GIRLS DRIVE FOR THE ARMY—These woman drivers in Lowry Field's motor pool knit, read, lounge and gossip while waiting for calls to go out with the jeeps, staff cars and trucks. The girls were hired at $110 a month to replace enlisted men now returned to full military duties.

It's a far cry from their usual jobs, but these two women are learning to give a big Army truck the tender care of a trained mechanic. Mrs. Jane Shelby, in blue jeans, used to run fashion shops for a department store, and Mrs. Wanda Beasley, at the truck's wheel, formerly was second cook for one of Denver's socialites.

Many Shipyard Workers Idle Protesting 5-Cent Ferry Fee

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 17.—In protest of toll ferry service inaugurated by the City of Mobile to the Pinto Island plant of the Alabama Dry Dock & Shipbuilding Co., hundreds of shipyard workers stayed off their jobs today and gathered in streets opposite city hall in a noisy demonstration. No immediate statement was issued by the company management, but W. M. Thompson, secretary of the CIO Shipyard Workers' local union, estimated several thousand men were idle because they objected to paying the one-way 5-cent ferry rate to cross Mobile River to the shipyard. He said the union had not authorized any work stoppage. The city hall orders finally were issued to supplement automobile and bus transportation to the island shipyards.

Stimson Calls '42 Army Healthiest in U. S. History

The United States has the healthiest wartime Army in its history, Secretary of War Stimson said today, with traffic accidents accounting for nearly two-thirds of all Army deaths. The typhus rate is the lowest in Army history and the venereal disease rate as a whole is substantially less than during the World War, he said. Mr. Stimson expected that hospital admissions for this year would be 10 per cent lower than in 1941. With incidence of disease showing a marked drop, he said that even such common ills as colds, sore throats and measles showed a decrease. The total venereal disease rate for the first six months of this year was 38 per 1,000 men, Mr. Stimson said, as compared with a rate of 40.5 for 1941. And half of this year's cases, he added, were acquired before the men were inducted.

The committee also will circulate information pertaining to the proposed legislation and will attempt to arouse the people of Washington in its favor. Efforts will be made, it was said, to obtain headquarters for the committee office in the campaign for passage of the bill, and prominent men and women will be invited to serve with the organization as honorary members. Sifton Darr was chairman of the organization group which met today. Other members included Harry Wender, Eugene E. Eugene, Eugene Duffield and Mrs. Ottenberg. The work of the committee will be carried on through subcommittees, which will be appointed by Mr. Prestyman. These will include committees on contact, hearings, education, headquarters and finance.

Former Petain Aide In London to Join Fighting French

Socialist Newspaperman Joins Ex-Fascist Leader In Flight From France

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Charles Vallin, vice president of the old French Fascist party, Croix de Feu (Cross of Fire), and one-time mainstay of Marshal Petain's regime, has arrived in London and joined the Fighting French, the Fighting French headquarters announced tonight. He was accompanied in escape from Occupied France by Pierre Brussoleto, former foreign editor of the Socialist newspaper, Le Populaire.

Receiving All Parties. The escape together of these two men of directly opposite leanings in pre-war French politics was described by a Fighting French spokesman as "the best illustration yet that we are receiving men of all parties as long as they agree on the essential—to fight the Germans." The spokesman declared exultantly that "Petain once considered Vallin one of his chief props." He added that the Fighting French, led by Gen. Charles de Gaulle, were confident that the Croix de Feu, which once claimed 1,000,000 members would follow Vallin in opposing the Vichy regime.

He said the Croix de Feu had supported Marshal Petain after the 1940 armistice because the organization believed that Petain would continue to resist the Germans. Elected Deputy in 1938. Vallin, 53, vice president since 1935 of the French Social Party which became the formal political name of the Croix de Feu, an organization of veterans, was elected a parliamentary deputy from the ninth Paris district in 1938.

He is the first powerful Rightist leader to escape France to join the Fighting French organization led by Gen. Charles de Gaulle. Brussoleto, 43, the third prominent Socialist to join the Gaullists in London recently, was in charge of foreign commentaries on the French official radio until he was dismissed in 1938 for opposing the Munich agreement.

GAR Elects Californian As Encampment Closes

(Earlier Story on Page B-5.) By the Associated Press. INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 17.—The Grand Army of the Republic wound up its 76th and maybe last encampment today by electing as its commander in chief John S. Dummer of Oakland, Calif., who'll be 94 in November.

Mr. Dummer, who served 3 1/2 years in the Army of the Tennessee, said he was just a little more than 16 when he heeded President Lincoln's call for volunteers and "joined up" in 1861 at Elgin, Ill. Unopposed for commander, he succeeded George A. Gay, Nashua, N. H. Other officers elected were: Isaac N. Sharp of Warsaw, Ind., senior vice commander; Charles H. Perry of Minneapolis, Minn., junior vice commander; Eugene Owen of Grand Rapids, Mich., quartermaster; Thomas J. Noll of Des Moines, Iowa, judge advocate; Russell C. Martin of Los Angeles, Calif., adjutant general; Katharine Flood of Newton, Mass., national secretary, and Robert M. Rownd of Ripley, N. Y., chaplain.

Bone Disputes British Need for Lumber

Senator Bone, Democrat, of Washington asserted today that "talk about the need for lumber" in Great Britain is a "smoke screen" in a suggested embargo on shipment of Canadian lumber to pulp producers in the United States. He described the embargo as a "drastic" measure and questioned whether it was an attempt to assist pulp producers of Canada.

Brave Yorktown Bore Brunt of Midway Sea-Air Battle

Previous Deck Wound Had Been Patched Up; Captain Saved Mess Man

By the Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—The U. S. S. Yorktown, sent out hastily repaired merely to trail other plane carriers for the "cleanup" job, fought to death bearing the brunt of the Midway sea-air battle.

NAVY HONORS ITS DEAD—From the deck of a ship at Pearl Harbor a memorial volley is fired for officers and men lost on the destroyers Sims and Hammann, sunk, respectively, in the battles of the Coral Sea and Midway.

Yorktown Eyewitness Describes 'Terrible Aftermath of Battle'

Gunners on Cruiser Had Tears in Eyes As Carrier Disappeared Into Darkness

An Associated Press reporter, now back from the war zone, was on a cruiser with the Pacific Fleet during the entire battle of Midway and witnessed the game stand of the carrier Yorktown, which the Navy yesterday announced as sunk.

By WENDELL WEBB, Associated Press War Correspondent. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—The destruction of the carrier Yorktown provided one of those pathetically indelible memories of war that bring on cold sweats in the dead of night.

It happened more than three months ago—months in which there was good reason to believe the Japanese did not know the ship was sunk—but the stunning drama of the moment has never faded.

Flashing cannon, the great belch of shells, hammering machine guns, the incredible fighting planes and the fire power of the entire fleet—it isn't these that disturb the sleep. Nor is it the bullets splattering around the bridge, the glistening eysers from exploding bombs, the flames of falling planes. It is none of the common-places of war.

Rather, it's the unforgettable sight, in the terrible after-quiet of battle, of a ship that refused to die, a ship whose very existence was a prime reason the flag of the Rising Sun never came closer than 3,000 miles from the American west coast in the nip-and-tuck battle of Midway.

Tears in Gunners' Eyes. From notes scrawled aboard a cruiser during the epic events of last June 4 I find such memos as these:

"We watch the Yorktown. It's listing more and more. It doesn't look as if it can make it. There are tears in some of the gunners' eyes. They feel it was their fault the torpedoes got through. I think they did their best. They've had only a sandwich and an apple in 10 hours.

"One of the cruiser's pilots is sweating softly. The knuckles of an officer's hand show white as he grips a bullet-splattered rail.

"There she goes. No, it was just a swell. She seems to be holding. But the water is only a couple of feet from her open deck. Her rails are sliding down them. Small boats go overboard. There's a deathly silence on this cruiser. We wonder how many have died.

"It doesn't seem this can be true. There's no excitement. I find myself suddenly brimming with an overpowering desire to do something, anything. There's nothing to do. An ensign says we'll probably have to sink the Yorktown ourselves. I don't want to watch it.

Most of Survivors Saved. "Most of the survivors have been picked up. Small boats are after the remainder. They are taken to various ships still circling. There are two planes on the Yorktown's tilting deck.

"We learn we are not to sink her. Maybe the Yorktown will make port. We start to talk a bit.

"God knows she's earned a right to live," a warren officer mutters. "We start moving away. The fleet gets into formation. No more Yaps have shown up. The Yorktown seems to slip away in the dusk, a couple of ships still with her. It's

In the hushed wardroom of a cruiser that was heading straight for more trouble—and with a crew grimly set on exacting a user's interest for the sight they'd just seen.

We knew at that time, however, that the Japanese already had paid an awful price for their attempt to bulge their power into the East. But no man who saw the Yorktown will ever think they paid too much.

Djangaroff Explains Work For Dominican Republic

George J. Djangaroff, one-time public relations counsel to the Dominican Republic in this country, who has appeared before a special District grand jury here several times since June, last night issued a statement explaining his former connection with the Caribbean country.

Mr. Djangaroff, who is from New York, said he was making the statement because he had been "excused" by the jury.

His principal connection, he said, was related to the proposed erection of the Columbus Memorial in Santo Domingo. In 1936, he arranged a congressional mission to view the site of the project and Representative Fish, Republican of New York, was a member of the party.

In 1929, Mr. Fish had presented a joint House resolution authorizing an appropriation as the United States' contribution toward erection of the memorial. Mr. Djangaroff said.

The grand jury here in July returned an indictment charging 28 persons with conspiring to undermine the morale of the armed forces. Justice Department attorneys have not announced what the jury has been investigating since that time.

Its session yesterday was the first in several weeks and at the conclusion it did not set a date for its next meeting. Its life will expire October 6 unless extended for another term of court.

Burleigh Area Exhibits Rescue Ambulance

A rescue squad ambulance built by air-raid wardens was exhibited at a first-aid demonstration given at the Western High School Stadium by the Burleigh area Citizens' Association.

The ambulance was built in two weeks by Burleigh wardens from contributions received from residents of their sector. Gus Donnick, a warden, contributed a truck chassis. A number of the men in the neighborhood, including Lewis Watson, I. Y. Chiswell, William Moister and Carl Romborg built the truck in their spare time.

The ambulance is similar to the 800 ambulance that the British American Ambulance Corp. in the United States has been shipping to England for the past year.

Carrier's Sailors, Swimming In Sea, Found Time for Humor

By the Associated Press. MOULTREE, Ga., Sept. 17.—Swimming around in the water after the order was given to abandon ship didn't dampen the humor of sailors on the torpedoed aircraft carrier Yorktown.

Second Class Petty Officer Hawey Wilder, whose job aboard the carrier was feeding ammunition to the gunners, told here how some of the boys paddling about in the Pacific some 100 miles from Midway kept yelling "Taxi, taxi," and thumping at every passing object. Sailors and officers on one raft sang "The Beer Barrel Polka," he said in an interview.

Wilder told of another seaman, a gunner, who was blown off the Yorktown with his anti-aircraft gun. "He was still firing when he hit the water. Someone yelled, 'Come back. We aren't abandoning ship yet,'" and the gunner was rescued from the water.

Wilder, son of the Rev. T. H. Wilder, pastor of the Doerun Baptist Church, and Mrs. Wilder, has returned to duty after a visit with his parents.

Marines in Solomons Itching for Signal For New Invasion

Route Japs Out of Bush And Remain on Alert While Awaiting Word

By TOM YARBROUGH, Associated Press War Correspondent. GUADALCANAL, Solomon Islands, Sept. 7 (Delayed).—Exactly one month after blasting the Japanese out of Guadalcanal, Tulagi and four other islands in the Solomon group, United States marines are itching for the signal to step out on another invasion job.

While standing by, they are flushing scattered hundreds of hungry Japanese out of the bush, keeping beach guns ready to meet a counter-invasion, and tying up loose ends in general.

Their daily life is rough and raw—just a few jumps this side of the primitive—and continual air-raid warnings and occasional naval bombardments keep the sense of danger keenly alive.

Bombs don't always follow the warnings, but often enough to make any one in his right mind take cover. More and more in the last 20 days the marines' existence in the Solomons has settled into a sort of routine, but it is never a dull grind because the Japanese, true to their reputation for tenacity, determination and willingness to take big risks, have persisted in making new landings—not in great numbers, but landings—and each one constitutes a threat until every enemy party can be found and crushed.

Hold Not Absolutely Secure. The United Nations' hold on the Solomon group so far occupied is not absolutely secure and cannot be until the Japanese have been knocked farther back toward Tokyo. The Japanese still have bases in these islands from which warships and warplanes can thrust out like a knife. So can our warships and warplanes lash out at them.

Thus the United Nations and the Japanese are leering at each other across comparatively narrow seas, both against that most difficult of all military operations—invasion of a defended island.

If the marines have as much good luck on their next sortie as they had in the days which followed August 6 they will be fortunate indeed. Incidentally fine luck blessed them from the beginning. As the breath-taking armada closed in that historic day low clouds and mist concealed its progress. That night it cleared sufficiently to make navigation easier in the confining waters.

A Japanese plane, flying over Island saw our ships go by but just then the lookout station's radio failed and it couldn't sound the warning.

Breakfast Unfinished. Mute evidence of the complete surprise thus achieved was found in the Japanese mess shacks, with the unfinished breakfast still on the tables, chairs knocked back haphazardly and personal belongings tossed in all directions by men who scurried through their gear to get things they would need in the bush.

As one happy little guy exaggerated it, "destroyer poked its forward gun into a Japanese tent and somebody shouted, 'Reveille, you—'"

Another said, "The only thing they had time to do was to close the doors of the refrigerator."

A funnel of one of the big ships shot up a fountain of sparks like an active volcano, but the Japanese failed to see them. Luckier still for the invaders, as soon as the boom of naval guns told the Japanese something was up they apparently decided it was merely a hit-and-run raid and scattered to the jungle, leaving invaluable heavy equipment and all sorts of supplies intact. Had they chosen, they could have scorched the earth and made it much tougher going for the marines.

Luck was with the marines when they found plenty of good drinking water. It was with them still when the Japanese couldn't get around to bringing in reinforcements until after the marines' own planes were on hand to bomb and strafe them as they came.

Biggest Prize of All. It was luck, too, when the marines found the prize of all—an almost completed airfield with a surfaced runway extending 3,778 feet, and many buildings and installations almost ready for use.

That, of course, was the prime objective, but the marines scarcely expected to find it in such excellent condition. Only one small gap in the runway remained to be surfaced. The Japanese had been there three

Log of Sunken Carrier Is Saga of New Epoch In Naval Warfare

Perhaps No Other Ship Saw as Much Action in Avenging Pearl Harbor

By WALTER B. CLAUSEN, Associated Press Staff Writer. PEARL HARBOR, June 7 (Delayed).—The aircraft carrier Yorktown is gone, but it will not be forgotten.

As long as history of the great war in the Pacific is written the name of this ship will be a part of it. The log of the Yorktown is history in itself, the history of a new epoch in naval warfare—the dawn of the aero-amphibious era.

The Yorktown's last fight was the historic battle of Midway. Its valiant fighters were in on the kill which crushed the Japanese move for conquest of Hawaii—destroying four Japanese aircraft carriers and ending the Japanese naval and air superiority in the Pacific.

Japs Never Survived. Japanese torpedo planes sent their fatal flash into its sides after the Yorktown. She had participated in the destruction of the Rising Sun carriers. Most of the Yorktown men lived to tell their stories, but the Japanese attackers, having no place to set down on the sea, never lived to hear of the salvage operations were being conducted, that the crippled Yorktown went down, victim of an enemy submarine.

The saga of the Yorktown starts with the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. It became the avenging wrong of the Pacific. Perhaps no other ship shared in so much action to avenge Pearl Harbor.

From its decks flew many young men to meet the enemy and to return as spectacular heroes. It was in on the Gilbert and Marshall raid, February 1, when some 16 enemy ships were destroyed and heavy punishment inflicted on the major Japanese bases in those mandated islands.

Took Role in New Guinea Raid. In the South Pacific in March, the Yorktown men got a bag of 10 ships sunk and five damaged in a raid on New Guinea, at Salamaua and Lae, but one scout plane was lost. The devastating raid on Tulagi in the Solomons May 4, in which the kill was nine, possibly 11 ships, found the Yorktown men in action. The warlike Yorktown moved into the Coral Sea action, getting in on the kill of the big Japanese carrier, Ryukaku and other warships.

"Go Get 'em" Lt. E. Scott McCuskey of Stuttgart, Ark., whose thrilling story of fighter work, getting a bag of seven Jap planes, is known throughout the world, was a Yorktown fighter. Another was George Henry Gay of Houston, Tex., torpedo plane pilot, whose thrilling eyewitness story was the first to flash around the world from the Midway battle.

The full log of the Yorktown no doubt will remain a naval secret until after the war, but its officers and men know full well that it lived up to its historic name.

Child Proves Knowledge Of State's Geography

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—After school friends jokingly told her she had flunked in geography, 12-year-old Hanna O'Leary took her $2 in savings from her penny bank and left home.

She was back two days later after proving that she knew the geography of Connecticut. She had made her way to the home of Mrs. May Seelye, a friend of the family, in Waterford, Conn., changing several times from trains to buses.

Mrs. Seelye telephoned her mother here and sent Hanna home. The school principal told her the good news—she hadn't flunked at all.

British Collectors Sell Porcelain to Pay Taxes

Prized porcelain from the private collections of England is going to the dominions, the United States and South America, under the necessity of sales to meet rising income tax needs.

One London dealer reported he is sending $6,000 worth of porcelain to the United States monthly, with Crown Derby and old Worcester particularly sought by Americans. Collectors are being eagerly bought by Australia, New Zealand, Canada and South Africa.

Prices are reported in a wide cycle. A Worcester dinner set painted by Humphrey Chamberlain in the year of the Battle of Waterloo was sold for $1,440, half its former value, but a private collection from Walton Hall, Warrington, brought $8,540, while Nanjing china brings $12 a piece.

Star's Global Maps to Aid War Study

The problem of combatting U-boats which have struck such devastating blows against our shipping and that of our Allies in the war against the Axis is much more difficult to solve in this war than in World War 1. Global warfare has brought new factors into the situation and Germany's ability to overrun most of Europe has brought new shore lines into the picture.

The global map supplement of The Evening Star next Monday will provide a striking visual picture of the war. Included in the 15 pages of maps which through portrayal of the curvature of the earth give a more accurate presentation of the relationships between various geographical areas than can be had in a flat map, will be one of the Atlantic area.

On the map will be shown the three main lanes of traffic to England, Russia and the Middle East. Also shown will be the probable direction of travel of the longer-range submarines which have played havoc in the Caribbean Sea and along the Atlantic coast. The hunting ground of the small subs up around Iceland and between that outpost and the British Isles will be indicated.

It is generally believed that the long-range craft are being replenished with fuel and torpedoes by submarine tenders which range from the coast of France down past the Canary and Cape Verde Islands and across the Atlantic, sweeping upward to Newfoundland and then on to the Iceland-British Isles and finally making port in Norway.

Within the bounds of this great area is being waged the war of the Atlantic. The distortion of flat maps sometimes makes it difficult to properly understand the situation. The new global map, like the rest in the 16-page supplement, takes into consideration the curving surface of the earth in indicating shortest distances from one vital point to another.

When warfare moved over comparatively small areas, flat maps served the purpose, but in this war planes and ships strike at points thousands of miles separated from the starting point. To meet the need for better illustration, The Evening Star is publishing the global maps. They are especially vital to students who are seeking to keep abreast of current events. They aid older persons who learn their geography on the flat maps of former years.

By the use of proper perspective, areas and straight lines are as clearly defined as though one were looking at a globe. Better than a globe, however, the maps can be laid flat and a larger area studied than is possible while looking directly at a globe. Because they are flat, they may be pasted into notebooks, thus helping the student.

The supplement to be issued Monday, September 21, will be printed on standard newspaper. For those who want copies, printed on heavier stock more easily preserved, a deluxe edition will be available. These may be had in the lobby of The Star Building at Eleventh street and Pennsylvania avenue at a nominal charge of 10 cents, 15 cents if ordered by mail.

Offers to Help FBI In Search for Spies Average 200 a Day

Many Volunteered Free Services in Execution Of Nazi Saboteurs

In its campaign against foreign spies, saboteurs and propagandists, the FBI is receiving a daily average of 200 offers of assistance from private citizens, it was revealed today.

Letters from persons volunteering their services cover a wide range. The same mail may bring a letter from a youngster who says his youth would provide him with a perfect disguise as a counterespionage agent, and another from a girl who tells FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover that her sex and understanding of male psychology qualify her admirably for the role of a modern Mata Hari.

Many of the letter writers ask permission to act as civilian auxiliaries to the FBI's force of special agents—which now numbers nearly 4,600 men.

All Offers Acknowledged. Mr. Hoover makes a point of acknowledging every offer of voluntary assistance. In his replies, he points out to the Government the special help to be given in reporting to the nearest FBI office evidences of suspected espionage or other subversive activity.

Though the Army and the Navy have organized women's auxiliaries, the FBI has no present intention of enlisting women as investigative agents. Due to the demands of the draft, the number of women employed by the FBI in clerical and other jobs throughout the country, however, has greatly increased in recent months.

The arrest by the FBI of the eight German saboteurs early this summer brought hundreds of offers of assistance from individuals. Some of the authors of these letters wanted to serve as members of the firing squad, and others expressed a desire to serve as guards of the Nazi saboteurs, six of whom were electrocuted at the District Jail last month.

Volunteers to Kill Spies. Many persons asked permission to assist in the execution. One letter read as follows: "I am a former soldier of the last World War. I am an expert with the Colt .45 automatic pistol and have shot quite a few Germans, and I would be glad to kill any spy you capture free of charge if found guilty."

As the father of a son in the Navy, another World War veteran requested assignment to the firing squad to execute the Nazi saboteurs. One writer who considered himself not only an expert marksman but a collector of curios wrote the FBI as follows: "Will you grant me the privilege of doing the job on the eight Nazis or will you please let me have the eight empty shells used on them. My services will be free."

Others expressed a willingness to contribute to the cost of the ammunition. Several persons signed a letter inclosing $4 "to buy the bullets that will write finish to their careers."

Manpower (Continued From First Page.) may be denied the men they need to operate the war machine. "Until this decision is made," he said, "the Selective Service and the War Manpower Commissions are gravely hampered in their parallel responsibilities of manning the armed forces and industry."

Mr. McNutt, in urging a national service act, said: "I think the people are ready for it." He said no decision had been reached on the form of the legislation.

Mr. Lund asserted that the Nation was "only now beginning to take the steps necessary for a real and effective manpower program. The greatest part of the job is yet to be done."

He told the committee that "if we instituted coercion in manpower, then much that the free labor movement and our democracy have stood for will be in danger."

"I fully believe with organized labor that the same program can be accomplished without coercion but with free and willing co-operation of labor through its unions."

Mr. Lund contended that "as long as voluntary enlistment is open to American workers, their patriotic desire to be in the armed forces rather than in the war plants, operates continuously to the disadvantage of war production."

He told the committee that: "One of the fundamental issues that has to be met, however, is the tighter scheduling of all production and use of raw materials by the production agencies and the services so that the flow of materials and of production will move smoothly. Without this it is impossible to arrange an adequate supply of manpower without the severe losses due to shutdowns and the slowing of production when raw materials or component parts lag."

Baby Found Hanging From Carriage Dies In Accident Here

Three Other Persons Meet Death in Series Of Mishaps

Four persons, including a six-month-old baby, died yesterday and early today in a series of unrelated mishaps.

The baby, Charles E. Sharp, Jr., was found hanging from his carriage by his grandmother, Mrs. Helen W. Bundy, in the Sharp apartment, 4707 Connecticut avenue N.W., at 7:10 o'clock last night. Mrs. Bundy said she had put the child in his carriage about half an hour before.

Dr. C. R. Wallace, who lives in the same building, was called immediately. He pronounced the baby dead at 8 p.m. A certificate of death due to accidental asphyxiation was issued by Coroner Magruder MacDonald today.

Dr. MacDonald was still investigating the circumstances in the death early today of George Grim, 52, a bricklayer who roomed at 520 Third street N.E. Mr. Grim was found unconscious by his landlady, Mary Mills, shortly after midnight in his gas-filled room.

Dr. MacDonald said he was seeking to determine whether the death was due to accidental gas poisoning or to natural causes. Police found a gas line connected with the stove had been torn loose, and the coroner said it was possible Mr. Grim had accidentally torn out the connection. His wife in Richmond has been notified of the death.

While walking along the street at Fourteenth and F streets N.W. last night, Robert M. Lynch, 27, of 3313 Sixteenth street N.W., collapsed and was dead on arrival at Emergency Hospital. Death was ascribed to a hemorrhage.

650,000 Marylanders Registered in Draft

BALTIMORE, Sept. 17.—Selective Service officials yesterday reported more than 650,000 Marylanders had been registered in the two-year operation of the Selective Service System.

The number drafted from Maryland in the second year was 200 per cent more than the number inducted in the first year, said Col. Henry C. Stanwood, director.

By the end of the year, they added, more men will have been drafted from Maryland than were drafted from the State during the World War.

The State's monthly quota of men it must draft is still on the increase, one official said. "We have not yet reached the peak or leveling-off point. During the next several months it is safe to say we will have to draft more men than ever before."

"The men refuse to advance, sir, till they get their copies of the new book, 'Global Maps for a Global War.'"

Unfit Butter Starts on Way To Smear Hitler

A seizure of 1,728 pounds of below-standard butter is on its way to smear Mr. Hitler via the scrap fats collection, by order of District Court.

The United States marshal's office was authorized to turn the butter over to the rendering plant as a method of making it unfit for human consumption, according to regulations of the Pure Food and Drug Administration.

The Justice Department, co-operating with the War Production Board, has issued orders to all marshals' offices in the country to seek court permission to destroy seized butter in this way. The Pure Food and Drug Administration estimated that 100,000 pounds of below-standard butter are seized in the Nation annually.

In the fats collections, the butter ultimately will become a compound of explosives.

Sullivan Leading Keller By 229 in Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 17.—Gustave J. Keller and Dr. W. C. Sullivan probably will have to wait until September 29—date of the official canvass—to learn who will be the Democratic candidate for Governor in the November election.

With the unofficial count of votes cast in Tuesday's State primary nearly 48 per cent completed, Dr. Sullivan had a lead of 229. The vote in 2,887 out of 3,072 precincts: Sullivan, 15,331; Keller, 15,102.

The winner will oppose Gov. Julius P. Heil, Republican; Orland E. Loomis, Progressive; and Frank Zeidler, Socialist.

Army and Coast Guard Seek 'Prowler' After Discovery of Raft

Long Island Shore Patrol Fires on Suspect; Autos, Trains Searched

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The Eastern Defense Command announced today that a small raft had been found along the Atlantic coast of Long Island last night and that a shot was fired in an unsuccessful attempt to halt a prowler.

Beach patrols later searched the vicinity but "discovered nothing unusual." The text of the announcement follows: Last night, September 16, at about 10 p.m., Eastern war time, local Coast Guard patrol on a Long Island beach near the Hamptons found a small raft and reported that a prowler was seen running along the beach at that vicinity.

A shot was fired in an unsuccessful attempt to halt the prowler. An Army beach patrol arrived at the scene within a few minutes. Soldiers, police and Coast Guard searched the vicinity but discovered nothing unusual.

The "Hamptons" referred to in the announcement are a group of villages on the south shore of Long Island about three-quarters of the distance from New York to the island's tip. The location is within 25 miles of Amagansett Beach, where four Nazi saboteurs landed in June. They subsequently were tried with four others, who landed on a Florida beach, by a military commission in Washington. Six of the eight were executed.

State and village police throughout Eastern Long Island were busy all morning stopping motorists and requesting identifications from them and their passengers. Likewise, at least two Long Island Railroad trains were boarded by authorities.

Germany Promises Peace to Turkey, Von Papen Says

Steinhardt Confers With Saracoglu on Shipments Under Lease-Lend

ANKARA, Sept. 15 (Delayed).—A short time after publication of reports that Japan's two leading figures in Europe would visit Turkey this week to make "certain contacts," German Ambassador Franz von Papen told a German audience today that he had "promised the Turks in the name of Hitler that Germany will under all circumstances guard Turkey's peace."

A Turkish newspaper said Vice Admiral Naokuni Nomura and Rear Admiral Katsuo Abe, chiefs of the Japanese Co-ordinating Committee in Berlin and Rome, were expected here September 17.

United Nations quarters here said they could offer no immediate explanation. One explanation, however, was seen in Von Papen's mention of "American emissaries" who "talk in astronomical figures"—apparently in reference to Wendell Willkie.

Some quarters expressed belief the increased Axis activity in Turkey was an effort to counteract the effects of Mr. Willkie's recent visit. Von Papen declared that if Turkey could be faced with the problem of "bolshhevization of Europe" the Turks would "fight against it." His speech was published in the German newspaper in Istanbul.

Steinhardt Spends 2 Hours With Turkish Prime Minister ANKARA, Turkey, Sept. 17 (AP).—United States Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt spent nearly two hours talking yesterday with Turkey's new Prime Minister, Shukru Saracoglu, after the prominent Turkish newspaper Aksam editorially had declared the lease-lend policy "had yielded no concrete results at all for Turkey."

Although Mr. Steinhardt did not disclose the purpose of his visit, it was understood that American lease-lend shipments to Turkey were among the subjects discussed. Available information here shows the United States has made considerable deliveries to Turkey of both civilian and military materials, including airplanes.

Clarence R. Gorman Rites To Be Held Tomorrow

Services for Clarence R. Gorman, 39, Washington patent attorney who died Monday on a train en route to New York City, will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Blessed Sacrament Church, Chevy Chase, Md. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Mr. Gorman received his education at Georgetown University and Georgetown law school and also had received a degree from Columbia University.

A resident of 4029 Oliver street, Chevy Chase, Mr. Gorman had been an active member of the Knights of Columbus, in which he once held the post of financial secretary; Carroll Council and also was a member of the Fourth Degree. He was a former national secretary of the legal fraternity, Gamma Eta Gamma.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Gorman; his father, Timothy J. Gorman; three children, Mary Catherine, Timothy John and Francis Joseph Gorman, and a brother, the Rev. Francis B. Gorman of Memphis, Tenn.

furthering District legislation, he said, "there is no doubt that we would then be better able to fulfill our responsibilities. The work of this delegate would also be of the greatest assistance to the District Commissioners and to the House committees which consider District legislation."

Under present war conditions, Mr. Paddock said, he has found that "there is a sharply increased need" for the work which a District delegate can do in improving local conditions. "Washington today is not merely a city of 800,000 persons," he added. "It is more than the Nation's Capital. It is the general headquarters of the United Nations. Whatever impedes the efficiency of Washington impairs the war effort, and whatever improves Washington conditions brings military success that much closer. We should therefore regard this proposal to provide a new and important element in District affairs as a contributing factor toward our victory."

Don't Strike During War, Murray Urges Canadians

OTTAWA, Sept. 17.—Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, appealed yesterday to delegates attending the Canadian Congress of Labor Convention for support of the CIO's declared policy of "no strikes for the duration."

Speaking as a fraternal delegate from the United States, Mr. Murray said he had given the assurance that there would be no work stoppages in the United States, particularly over jurisdictional matters.

Such disputes could be settled over the conference table, he said, and if an agreement could not be found there the President or the Labor Board could settle it, "always with the understanding that not a single man should stop war production."

"I think labor in the United States and labor in Canada owe that to their countries for the duration of this war," he said. Mr. Murray told the delegates to the CIO-affiliated congress convention that workers in the United States have rolled up their sleeves and are producing materials of war at "unprecedented speed."

Calling for general support of the "no-strike policy," he said labor had won recognition in industrial leadership in the United States war effort.

Industrial Plants Burning Oil to Get Full Supply of Fuel

Householders, However, Face Reduction of at Least 25 Per Cent

Fuel oil used by industrial and commercial establishments for manufacturing purposes will not be curtailed when rationing goes into effect about October 15 in the District and 30 States in the Middle West States, an official of the Office of Price Administration said today.

The official said that rationing will apply only to heating of buildings, whether homes, stores, office buildings or plants. There are instances, he explained, where oil used by an industrial plant for operation of plant machinery and for heating is supplied by the same tank. In such cases there probably will be no cut. Industries considered vital to the war effort are expected to fare better than others not so essential.

Householders who have been economical in the past in use of fuel oil were assured by the official that they will not be penalized on this year's supply. He explained that CPA was working out a system for apportioning oil in which the size, or floor space, of the house will be taken into consideration as well as the amount of oil used last year.

25 Per Cent Cut Planned

A 25 per cent cut in consumption will be used as a base, while oil sufficient to maintain a day temperature of 65 degrees will be doled out. If the home owner probably used his heat sparingly and employed general conservation measures, his supply of oil for this year will not be cut 25 per cent below last year, but perhaps only 10 or 15 per cent. If his neighbor, the official explained, was extravagant in use of heat, his allotment will be cut more than a fourth.

"We cannot allow the man who has been careful in home heating habits to suffer, while his neighbor who has always had his windows wide open while the burner was full blast received sufficient oil to keep him nice and warm this winter," the official said.

The formula to be used by OPA in arriving at the amount of oil to be issued to home owners probably will be released in a few days. It will take into consideration all factors so that equitable distribution of oil may be obtained.

Meanwhile, an announcement was expected today that all brand names will be abolished from both gasoline and fuel oil. Representatives of major oil suppliers in the East have met the last two days with Deputy Petroleum Co-ordinator Ralph K. Davis in a joint effort to supply more of the needed petroleum to the Atlantic seaboard.

Will Pool Terminals

The oil companies, it was said, have proposed to pool their terminal facilities in certain Eastern points and, in words of an official of OPA, "squeeze more oil from every tank car."

The effect of this agreement would be the disappearance of brand names and trade marks. Instead, there would be standard gasolines and oils of different qualities, brought East by tank cars which might be commonly operated. The products would be distributed at prices which would reflect uniform profits to each supplier per gallon sold. The Office of Petroleum Co-ordinator was hopeful that the agreement would increase considerably the eastward flow of oils.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced that while actual rationing of oil probably will not become effective until October 15, it will cover all oil used after October 1.

Until including September 30, the householder may purchase up to 7 1/2 gallons of oil without using coupons. Beginning October 1, he may buy oil only if he agrees to surrender to his supplier later the necessary number of coupons. Each applicant will receive a ration book with a number of coupons "tailored" to his individual needs. In deciding the total allotment for each heating season, OPA will take into consideration the quantity of oil held by the home owner at the time of his application.

Three-fourths of Population

In other words, the number of gallons in the house tank on October 1, or whenever the registration takes place, will be charged against the home owner's supply for the season. The amount purchased before October 1 will not reduce the total allotment for the season. Oil burned prior to October 1, however, will not be charged against the supply.

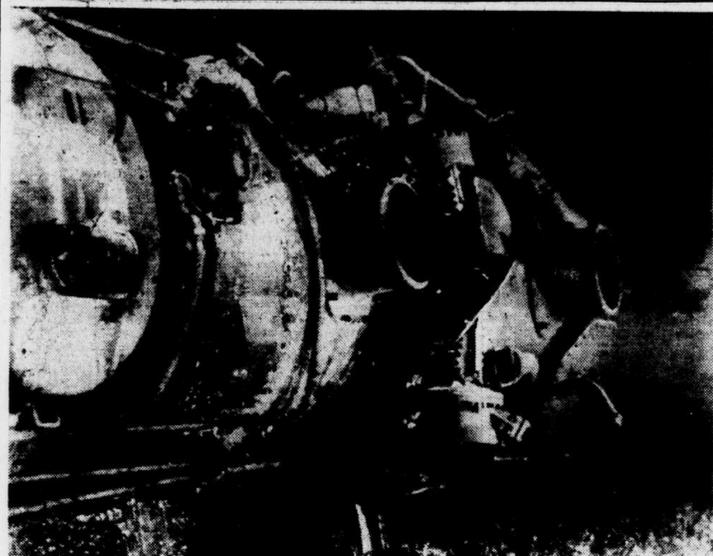

Mr. Henderson pointed out that the rationed area comprises a third of the country, containing almost three-fourths of the Nation's population. He said the rationing program will be initiated as soon as necessary forms and coupon books can be printed.

The price administrator warned bluntly that the prospect of uncomfortably cold homes this winter confronts residents of the area who depend on oil for heating.

Home owners again were urged to convert to coal wherever possible, and to install insulation, weather stripping and storm sashes in the interest of oil conservation. If poor insulation and poor oil burner efficiency make it impossible to maintain the 65 degree temperature with the amount of oil rationed, the householder is expected to cut down heat loss rather than burn more fuel.

Local rationing boards will be permitted to make exceptions to this rule to prevent undue suffering in cases where householders lack financial means to make the improvements, or where sickness and other factors are involved.

The effectiveness of your efforts to do these things," Mr. Henderson said, "will determine to a large extent, the degree of comfort you will have in your homes this winter. The oil situation is so critical that there simply won't be enough to keep people warm in houses this winter. If you act now, there are several things that can be done to keep from getting cold."

CHARLESTON, ILL.—THREE KILLED AS TRAINS CRASH HEAD-ON

—These two locomotives—one bearing a fast passenger train and the other heading a standing train of oil tank cars—crashed head-on and toppled over near Ashmore, east of here. Three trainmen were killed and an undetermined number of persons hurt. An FBI special agent and railroad officials were investigating the cause of the accident.

Registration Opens Sept. 21 at Wilson Teachers College

Classes for School's Seventieth Year to Begin on Sept. 23

The faculty of Wilson Teachers College is meeting today and tomorrow for a conference preparatory to the opening of the college year the following week. Registration for the 70th year of Wilson Teachers College will take place on Monday and Tuesday, September 21 and 22, and classes will begin September 23.

At the preliminary conference, the faculty will discuss and develop plans for improving college's services. Among the problems which will receive attention of the faculty are co-operation with the Army and Navy in pre-induction training of men, needed improvements in the health and physical education program, adjustments that may be necessary in the college program and in the subject matter of specific courses because of the war, the refresher or retraining courses to be offered for persons who may accept temporary teaching appointments and the training of workers for nurseries and nursery schools.

Library Reorganized

The faculty also will give attention to the new organization of the college library. The librarians, Miss Mary B. Curran and Miss Katherine A. Erwin, have worked during the summer reorganizing the library so that all books and magazines will be more readily available to both faculty and students.

Many books have been placed on open shelves in the main reading room. The stacks are to be opened to all students and faculty members. The magazines have been rehoused and made more accessible. Recent numbers are on open shelves near the reading room and back numbers may be consulted in the stack room.

Books available to all. The 25,000 volumes in the library and the 200 periodicals will be accessible to every one. It is the belief of the librarians that the library should exist primarily to make books and other printed materials available for use and not merely to preserve them. In addition to this reorganization, a special cozy nook has been set up to encourage browsing and leisure time reading. Comfortable club chairs have been placed in the nook.

Film Rationing to Permit Same Number of Pictures

The movies, too, are being rationed. Film is made of critical materials, and there'll be 10 to 24 per cent less of it during the year beginning October 1 for Hollywood than it had in 1941.

But this does not mean, the War Production Board said today, that the producers will have to cut down either the length or number of their films. It does mean that they must conserve, waste less film.

These savings can be effected by making fewer "retakes" and shooting scenes more nearly the length they will be when shown on the screen. There are various other technical ways of conserving film in the studios.

So-called "re-releases" or revivals of old films, such as this year's restoration of Charlie Chaplin's "Gold Rush," will be limited to the film consumption for this purpose in 1941. These revivals involve re-taking the old negative on new film. There will be no restriction on film for the armed forces, for newsreels, for pictures approved by the Office of War Information's Bureau of Motion Pictures and for "essential scientific and research purposes."

The right to COME and GO when we please

THIS is a fight-to-the-finish we are in—a grim war for survival. The stakes are the highest in all the history of mankind. And one of them is the American's traditional right to come and go when he pleases.

In the first seven months of this year we have carried almost 600,000 men in uniform, all moving under orders. They traveled in 24,915 coaches and Pullmans; in 1,564 special trains and 5,563 extra cars attached to our regular passenger trains. And these figures do not include the additional hundreds of thousands who have traveled over our lines on furlough or in small groups on transfer orders.

No goose-stepping Nazi; no squint-eyed Jap is going to tell Americans that they can't run down to the seashore or vacation in the mountains or take the children to visit Aunt Mary back home. For we are going to win this war!

That's why our trains are often late—troop trains and war freight have the right of way. That's why they are often crowded—so many boys want to visit home at the same time. That's why we have pressed old coaches into service—in our desperate effort to help everyone to come and go when they please. That's why we have had to lower temporarily the standards of service of which we have been so proud. And that's the way we know you want it to be.

How? With the bravery and the brilliance of our men in uniform. With the toil and sweat of millions of loyal workers in forest, field, factory and mine. With our genius for invention, organization and production. With the willing sacrifices of every patriotic American.

That's why the officers and employees of the Southern Railway System have solemnly pledged their all to the winning of the war. That's why our entire transportation plant; all our resources of man-power and experience are enlisted for the duration in the service of the nation. That's why we put the transportation needs of Uncle Sam first—before any and every civilian need—that your right to come and go when you please may be preserved for you and for the generations of Americans yet to come.

Yes, we will win this war—even if we have to lay aside for awhile our right to come and go when we please.

Your willing sacrifices of some travel comforts and conveniences are more than a personal contribution to the war effort. They are an inspiration to those of us who railroad to plan for the day when victory comes; to plan for a better Southern Railway System better to "Serve the South". For, with victory, we know that a new day will come to our Southland; a new day of prosperity and happiness and peace; a new day with freedom to come and go when you please.

That's why the officers and employees of the Southern Railway System have solemnly pledged their all to the winning of the war. That's why our entire transportation plant; all our resources of man-power and experience are enlisted for the duration in the service of the nation. That's why we put the transportation needs of Uncle Sam first—before any and every civilian need—that your right to come and go when you please may be preserved for you and for the generations of Americans yet to come.

That is worth fighting for!

Louis B. Mayer Leads Treasury's Salary List With $704,425

Thomas Watson, Highest Paid Industrial Chief, Is Second With $546,294

By the Associated Press. Presidents of movie, machine, steel, tobacco and soap industries lead the Treasury's list of persons paid more than $75,000 a year. Louis B. Mayer, president of Loew's Inc., with $704,425 salary and bonus for the firm's 1941 fiscal year, topped the Treasury list announced last night.

In second place was Thomas J. Watson, president of International Business Machines Corp., with a $546,294 salary and "other compensations" of $446,294.26.

Eugene C. Grace had a $180,000 salary and $298,144 bonus as president of Bethlehem Steel Co.; George W. Hill, a $120,000 salary and $336,415.36 bonus as president of the American Tobacco Co., and Francis A. Countway, a $30,000 salary and $406,778.70 bonus as president of Lever Bros. Co.

Jeffers Paid $75,725. William M. Jeffers, newly appointed rubber "czar," received $75,725 as president of the United States Rubber Co. for 1940.

Included in the list were C. B. Dulcan, sr., of the Hecht Co., Baltimore, with salary of $50,000 and bonus of $27,725 for 1941, and William Montgomery, president of the Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co. here, $75,000 salary and $200 in other compensation.

The list which the Treasury is required by law to publish shows only incomes of more than $75,000 from corporation salaries, bonuses and commissions. Largest incomes are from other sources, chiefly from investments.

Among those who exchanged high salaries for military pay was Clark Gable. He was raised from $298,547.73 in 1940 to $357,500 last year by Loew's. As a corporal, he's getting $68 a month now from the Army.

Actress Irene Dunne appeared in the list three times with salaries totaling $362,500.03. She collected $137,500 from Universal Pictures, $135,000.03 from Columbia Pictures and $90,000 from RKO-Radio Pictures.

Loew's Inc., listed 80 persons who received $75,000 and up in the 1941 fiscal year and 55 others, previously unreported, who got that much and more in 1940.

Masayuki Tani, 53, Is Named Japanese Foreign Minister

Former Junior Official At Embassy Here Gets Togo's Old Position

By the Associated Press. TOKIO (From Japanese Broadcasts), Sept. 17.—Masayuki Tani, 53-year-old career diplomat who has been president of the Board of Information since Gen. Hideki Tojo became Premier 11 months ago, was named Foreign Minister today.

He took over the post from the Premier, who has held it provisionally since the resignation September 1 of Shigenori Togo, and will continue also to head the Board of Information.

(The resignation of Togo, who prepared last year's Soviet-Japanese neutrality pact, was widely interpreted at the time as clearing the way for a renunciation of that pact and an attack on Siberia.)

(Further possible signs that Siberia may be attacked, or that a blow against British India may be imminent, were seen yesterday in a statement attributed to Gen. Shunroku Hata, Japanese commander in chief in China, that "the East Asia war is about to take an important step in cooperation with the European war.")

Hirohito Receives Premier. Other developments today included: Emperor Hirohito received the Premier in audience and was given a report on general administrative affairs.

Kazuo Aoki, former financial adviser to the Nanking regime, was named a minister of state in the Japanese cabinet.

The new foreign minister entered the Japanese foreign service in 1914. He served in China, Germany, the Netherlands and France before becoming junior first secretary of the Japanese Embassy in Washington in 1927.

Went to Manchukuo. He became director of the Asia bureau in 1930 but three years later went to Manchukuo. He was minister to Austria and Hungary in 1936 but returned to Tokyo to become vice minister of foreign affairs under Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura in September, 1939.

In January, 1939, eight months before he became vice minister of foreign affairs, Tani was nominated to be Japanese Ambassador to Paris—but the French government rejected him.

The French charged that in the previous July, while he was in China, he had publicly cast doubt on formal French assurances that traffic in war supplies to China through French Indo-China had been forbidden by the Japanese government.

Tani, stocky, bald, aggressive, belongs to the small Foreign Office group which from the beginning has supported the army's program of continental expansion at the expense of China. He was one of the original advocates of the "greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere" policy, which, as ambassador of the Japanese Embassy in Manchukuo from 1933 to 1936, he helped establish.

Record Recalled. His appointment may indicate that consolidation of the "co-prosperity sphere" in the territory already conquered is to be the first principle of Tokyo policy. However, although he has given no clear indication of his attitude toward Russia, his record does not suggest that he would oppose the army if it decided that an attack on Siberia must be made.

A Tokyo dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio said that Aoki, the new minister of state, would become head of the projected ministry for Greater East Asia, which is to be established to direct administration of Japan's conquests in Asia and the Netherlands Indies.

This ministry will take over much of the authority now held by the foreign ministry, dispatches have indicated, and one reason given by Tokyo for Togo's resignation was

Parole Board Reports Housing, Not Jobs, Becomes Problem

249 Prisoners Released During Last Fiscal Year; 70 Are Rearrested

The war has proved a boon and a headache to prisoners awaiting release from District penal institutions on parole, according to the annual report of the Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole, filed today with Commissioner Mason.

Frank R. Jelleff, board chairman, reported that under present conditions the problem of finding employment for parolees is becoming less serious, but that the housing problem is growing "very much more serious." He continued:

"While formerly we had many men paroled, awaiting release, after parole had been granted, because no job was available, men now often are being held because no home satisfactory to the board can be found."

Mr. Jelleff reported that 900 prisoners became eligible for parole in the last fiscal year, and that 671, or 74 per cent, file applications, as compared with 56 per cent the previous year.

Paroles were granted in the fiscal year ending June 30 to 249, or 34 per cent. Mr. Jelleff said the board had under supervision last year 534 parolees, an increase of 116 over the total for the preceding year.

Of the 534 total, 121 completed their parole terms and were discharged from supervision. The board issued 70 warrants for the arrest of parolees for violations of parole conditions, 13 for conviction on misdemeanors and 7 for felonies.

Mr. Jelleff said the number who committed felonies was 13 per cent of the total under supervision, and that total "failures" was approximately 13 per cent, an increase of 1 1/2 per cent over the previous year's violation rate.

Mr. Jelleff said "contributing factors to crime in the District continue to be the slum areas, broken homes and the migration to Washington in search of jobs of persons who have been unable to adjust themselves in other sections of the country, especially Negroes from nearby Southern States."

He recommended the employment at the Lorton Reformatory of a psychiatrist to give the board the benefit of expert advice.

Greeks Still Fighting Axis, Publisher Tells Ahepa

By the Associated Press. ATLANTA, Sept. 17.—Basil Vliamos, publisher of the Greek National Herald in New York City, speaking last night at the annual banquet of the Order of Ahepa, said that though the people of Greece are starved and tortured under the Axis yoke, they are fighting back as best they can.

"Two guerrilla bands," he said, "one in South Greece under the command of Capt. Douras, and the other in Crete under Gen. Maniatis, keep the Fascists guessing where they will strike next. For weapons the guerrillas use clubs, knives and the guns they can seize in the raids on Axis camps."

"We have reason to believe that a substantial number of British soldiers who escaped from Crete are serving with the Greeks," he continued. "Reports also state that somehow the British are managing to smuggle in guns and shells."

Ten underground newspapers flourish in Greece under the very noses of the Germans and Italians, the publisher asserted, and said Axis trains are wrecked, their ammunition dumps blown up and their communication lines blown up. "And Greeks die by the hundreds," he added sadly.

All Men in 4 Serb Towns Reported Slain by Nazis

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Sept. 17.—A Reuters dispatch from Istanbul today quoted Belgrade reports that the Germans had shot all male inhabitants of the four Yugoslav villages and sent the women and children to concentration camps in reprisal for the blowing up of a German military train.

The train, carrying troops and war supplies, was blown up by Serb irregulars on September 10, it was stated, and many young officers on their way to reinforce Marshal Rommel's Africa Corps were killed.

Social Security Tax Freezing Sought By Vandenberg

Senate Gets Plan; Measure Would Block Plan to Boost Rate

By the Associated Press. A resolution to freeze social security taxes at present levels was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan.

Senator Vandenberg said the measure not only counters an anticipated Treasury proposal to increase these taxes to a total of 5 per cent, but will, if adopted, prevent the automatic doubling January 1 of present rates of 1 per cent on employers and 1 per cent on employees.

Randolph Paul, Treasury general counsel, recently told the Finance Committee that after Congress had acted on the pending tax bill the Treasury planned to ask for a broadening of the social security program and a boost in payroll levies to a total of 5 per cent.

Not Necessary. Asserting that there was no present necessity for increasing these taxes, Senator Vandenberg said he had learned that present levies would pour $919,000,000 into the social security reserve fund in 1943. He said that fund already exceeded by 30 times the amount Congress had said must be maintained to keep social security benefit payments on a sound actuarial basis.

"Of course," the Michigan Senator told reporters, "social security taxes are a form of compulsory savings. I can see why the Treasury wants to increase them, to get more money into its vaults to aid in financing the war."

Against More I. O. U.'s. "But I am against putting more I. O. U.'s into the social security reserve fund. There is a moral principle involved that we ought not to violate. If we are to have compulsory savings let's have compulsory savings as such and not disguised as a social security tax."

Chairman George of the Senate Finance Committee said it was his understanding that the Treasury planned after passage of the tax bill to submit a proposal which would call for broadened coverage of social security benefits to include persons in business for themselves, domestic workers and farm laborers. Those classes now are not covered by the law.

Senate Group Ready to Act On D. C. Tax Exemption Bill

The Senate District Committee was to convene at 2 o'clock this afternoon with hope of taking final action on the proposed law to govern tax exemption for the property of religious, charitable and educational institutions in Washington.

The committee has before it a tentative draft that would restore exemption to a substantial percentage of the institutional property declared taxable by the Commissioners during the last 18 months under strict interpretation of the present law.

Shelby Smith, 79, Dies Of Injuries After Auto-Truck Crash

Retired GPO Employee Was Pioneer Editor In North Dakota

By the Associated Press. Shelby Smith, 79, retired Government employee, died in the Marine Hospital at Dahlgren, Va., yesterday afternoon, three hours after his automobile and a gravel truck collided near Dahlgren.

Mr. Smith was driving from his summer home at Colonial Beach, Md., to visit relatives in the District when the accident occurred. The collision was at the intersection of the Dahlgren road and the highway leading into Washington.

Native of Illinois. Mr. Smith, a native of Paris, Ill., worked for years in the Government Printing Office, and at the time of his retirement, about eight years ago, was chief of the Division of Publications and Supplies, Labor Department.

He was the father of Frank B. Smith of Mount Rainier, Md., a member of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission and the Democratic State Central Committee, representing Prince Georges County. Another son, Royal S. Smith, St. Petersburg, Fla., and a daughter, Mrs. Alta M. Madden, Washington, also survive.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Nalley funeral home, Mt. Rainier. Burial will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Since his retirement, Mr. Smith lived at Colonial Beach during the summer months and at St. Petersburg during the winter.

He was a newspaper editor in the pioneer days of North Dakota and later published labor papers in Philadelphia. He was a member of the Typographical Union for more than 50 years and was one of the earliest residents of Mt. Rainier, at one time serving as councilman there.

Milkweed Harvested For Life Preservers

By the Associated Press. POTOSKEY, Mich. Sept. 17.—Michigan today began harvesting milkweed to be used in the manufacture of life preservers for American sailors. It is regarded as even more buoyant than the kapok used before Japanese occupation of the Dutch East Indies, where it grows.

The floss, warmer and lighter than wool, also will be used in aviation jackets.

Harvest hands included businessmen as well as rural inhabitants. The Navy wants to be supplied with several hundred thousand pounds of the floss. Manufacturing will begin as soon as the floss has been processed, for which equipment is being set up here.

$1-Per-Day Increase Ends Walkout of Carpenters Here

2,000 Journeymen and Laborers Affected When Foremen Strike

The wage dispute that caused approximately 2,000 journeyman carpenters and laborers to leave construction jobs in the District last week has been settled with the signing of a new agreement by the wage committees of the Master Builders' Association and the Carpenters' District Council last night.

The agreement, which will expire April 30, 1943, provides a $1-per-day increase for carpenter foremen effective November 16.

On Government projects where contractors are working for a fixed fee, it was explained, the salary adjustment will become effective when the Government agrees to reimburse the employer with the full cost of the wage increase.

Confronted with a union fine if they worked without obtaining the $1 increase, approximately 60 carpenter foremen left their jobs between September 8 and 11, according to the Master Builders' Association. This forced a layoff of about 1,200 journeymen carpenters and another 800 laborers and allied tradesmen because of lack of supervisors. Army and Navy construction projects were hit by the shutdown.

With the arrival in Washington of O. W. Blair, Philadelphia, international representative for the carpenters' union, negotiations were resumed, the men returned to work and jobs were at full force by last Friday, according to William J. Tobin, jr., secretary-treasurer of the builders' association. An agreement was reached Tuesday and papers were signed by both parties last night.

Revision Proposed On Renegotiation Of War Contracts

Plan Designed to End Present Uncertainty On Profit Margins

By the Associated Press. Revisions of the present war contract renegotiation law which would relieve business of uncertainties caused by frequent actions to scale down profits may be proposed by a Congress by the Army, Navy and Maritime Commission.

Chairman George said representatives of the three agencies would appear before the Senate Finance Committee Monday when it studies the question of repealing or amending the statute.

Agree on One Renegotiation. Although Senator George said he had no advance knowledge of what they would propose, other committee members said it was their understanding that the three agencies had agreed the law ought to be amended to provide for only one renegotiation of a contract, except in cases of fraud.

At present the agencies are authorized to reopen contracts as often as they deem necessary to keep profits in line with what they would propose, other committee members said it was their understanding that the three agencies had agreed the law ought to be amended to provide for only one renegotiation of a contract, except in cases of fraud.

Beyond that, the agencies were said to be in agreement on shortening the length of time in which contracts may be reassessed. Under the present law, contracts may be reopened as late as three years after the close of the war to determine if excess profits were made.

In some instances the Army, Navy and Maritime Commission were said also to have taken into account the profits made by a company from civilian as well as military production — a practice the agencies were said now to be willing to abandon.

Characterizing the present law as "one of the most vicious ever passed by Congress," Senator George told reporters he felt some action must be taken immediately to preserve the sources of private credit for many manufacturers who needed operating capital to continue their production under war contracts.

His attention had been called, Senator George said, to the fact that many manufacturers had been denied private financing because their earnings were uncertain and subject to downward revision through the reassessment of their contracts. He said this fact undoubtedly had slowed war production.

Experience Shows Price-Control Need, Senator Brown Says

Pending Bill Designed For 'All-Out' Regulation, Forum Speaker Asserts

Declaring that the experience of the last nine months has demonstrated the necessity for an "all-out" price-control law, Senator Brown, Democrat of Michigan last night told the Nation that the legislation now being framed is designed to have such scope.

Senator Brown, who is in charge of the legislation which was drawn up at the President's request, spoke in the National Radio Forum, which was broadcast over Station WMAL and the Blue Network.

Summing up the objectives of the proposed price legislation, Senator Brown said:

"The problem of lowering already existing prices and wages is too difficult to undertake now, although where prices are grossly inadequate, the bill provides authority for action. As the sponsor of the original price-control bill, I have listened for months to those who insisted upon all-out price control.

Time Not Ripe in January. "I do not think that the country was ready for it in January of this year (when the original legislation was adopted.) The experience of the past nine months, I believe, has demonstrated the necessity for it. We are now giving the country an all-out price-control bill and certainly it cannot be confined to industrial wages and farm prices. Such would be unfair.

"There, the problem is perhaps the greatest in its effect on the cost of living, but huge salaries, bonuses, and other extraordinary compensations are controllable and where necessary for the correction of gross inequities, they should be controlled."

He added here that "Certainly Congress cannot do this job. All we can do is to establish a general standard." This was to rebut the contention of those who, he explained earlier, argue that Congress should by law fix all prices, wages, salaries and other factors affecting the cost of living.

"A little contemplation will reveal that Congress is not the proper authority to go into details of this kind," the speaker explained. The contemplated legislation, he pointed out, directs the President to stabilize prices and wages on the basis of levels existing at the present time.

In touching on specific controls, Senator Brown said that while "it is my judgment" that the President will not interfere with State regulatory commissions in utilities rates questions, "the bill establishes a general rule that these rates should not be changed from the August 15, 1942, level."

Price Control Reviewed. Reviewing the history of price control, Senator Brown said the January bill was a "compromise" because it was not possible to control farm prices and wages at that time.

"However, the bill as it finally came out has saved the American people a tremendous sum of money in the cost of living," he emphasized.

"We hear much of the Canadian bill, yet latest available statistics show that our bill has not only done as well in keeping the cost of living down as has the Canadian measure, but that we have done slightly better by a fraction of 1 per cent," he continued.

"However, I agree with the President's statement that unless the general principles of his message are carried out, there is serious danger that the cost of living may rise considerably."

At present, farm prices cannot be regulated until they reach a level of about 116 per cent of parity. Wages are not subject to freeze. The pending legislation provides that the President shall not fix farm prices below parity nor below the top market price heretofore reached this year, while wages cannot be cut below the limits reached heretofore this year.

Sacrifices Required. Senator Brown asked the public not to get the idea that the legislation "is not a blood letting" for both laboring and farm groups.

"Both are called upon to make great sacrifices and despite the views of some in the Congress, I am satisfied that the great mass of farmers and wage earners are willing to make this sacrifice," he said.

"The present situation calls for high statesmanship on the part of the Congress and the President and for forbearance and sane thinking on the part of the general public," Senator Brown said.

"Price control requires the general approval of the public for its satisfactory enforcement. The less heat and the more reason we can use and the more general recognition by the consuming public which I have long tried to represent here, of the sacrifices we are calling upon farmer and laborer to make by this bill, the greater will be the success of this tremendous undertaking."

Flying for Every One Forecast After War

Flying for all after the war is forecast by W. P. Hildred, head of Great Britain's Civil Aviation Department. He states that every hour given to production and flying of war planes brings nearer the day when Britain will make planes to be changed from the August 15, 1942, level."

"We hear much of the Canadian bill, yet latest available statistics show that our bill has not only done as well in keeping the cost of living down as has the Canadian measure, but that we have done slightly better by a fraction of 1 per cent," he continued.

"However, I agree with the President's statement that unless the general principles of his message are carried out, there is serious danger that the cost of living may rise considerably."

At present, farm prices cannot be regulated until they reach a level of about 116 per cent of parity. Wages are not subject to freeze. The pending legislation provides that the President shall not fix farm prices below parity nor below the top market price heretofore reached this year, while wages cannot be cut below the limits reached heretofore this year.

Sacrifices Required. Senator Brown asked the public not to get the idea that the legislation "is not a blood letting" for both laboring and farm groups.

"Both are called upon to make great sacrifices and despite the views of some in the Congress, I am satisfied that the great mass of farmers and wage earners are willing to make this sacrifice," he said.

"The present situation calls for high statesmanship on the part of the Congress and the President and for forbearance and sane thinking on the part of the general public," Senator Brown said.

"Price control requires the general approval of the public for its satisfactory enforcement. The less heat and the more reason we can use and the more general recognition by the consuming public which I have long tried to represent here, of the sacrifices we are calling upon farmer and laborer to make by this bill, the greater will be the success of this tremendous undertaking."

Flying for Every One Forecast After War

Flying for all after the war is forecast by W. P. Hildred, head of Great Britain's Civil Aviation Department. He states that every hour given to production and flying of war planes brings nearer the day when Britain will make planes to be changed from the August 15, 1942, level."

Price Control Reviewed. Reviewing the history of price control, Senator Brown said the January bill was a "compromise" because it was not possible to control farm prices and wages at that time.

"However, the bill as it finally came out has saved the American people a tremendous sum of money in the cost of living," he emphasized.

"We hear much of the Canadian bill, yet latest available statistics show that our bill has not only done as well in keeping the cost of living down as has the Canadian measure, but that we have done slightly better by a fraction of 1 per cent," he continued.

"However, I agree with the President's statement that unless the general principles of his message are carried out, there is serious danger that the cost of living may rise considerably."

Florida Plans to Seize AAA-Shipped Fertilizer

By the Associated Press. TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Sept. 17.—Nathan Mayo, Florida commissioner of agriculture, yesterday ordered seizure of Federal AAA fertilizer shipments into this State on which inspection fees have not been paid. He said AAA officials "are ignoring" Florida laws.

Mr. Mayo also served notice that he would cancel permits of fertilizer companies "party to this high-handed procedure" of disregarding State fertilizer inspections.

Florida law requires analysis tags, showing payment of the State inspection fee of 25 cents a ton, to be attached on all fertilizers imported into or sold in this State.

Mr. Mayo telegraphed his complaint and his intention to Secretary of Agriculture Wickard.

At the same time, Commissioner Mayo notified fertilizer companies that if they have made any shipments without paying the inspection fee their registrations will be canceled unless payments are made within 48 hours.

Nurse Held by FBI Confesses Attempt To Kidnap Girl, 4

Broker's Servant Loses Nerve After Sending $30,000 Ransom Note

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—A 23-year-old nurse who lost her nerve was held in custody today by FBI men, who charged her with attempting to kidnap the 4-year-old daughter of her wealthy employer and hold her for $30,000 ransom.
P. E. Foxworth, assistant FBI director, said the nurse, Mrs. Kathryn Batchelder, a native of Fairlee, Vt., took Nancy Joyce, daughter of a broker living in suburban Pelham, from the Joyce home early Tuesday and caught a train for Mount Vernon, where she had rented a room.
Sends Special Message.
On the way, the FBI said, the nurse sent a special delivery letter to the child's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Emily Filpen of Dallas, Tex., who was visiting in the Joyce home. The FBI said the letter read in part as follows:
"Nancy and I have been kidnapped. They say she will be safe if you do as they say. You are to get $30,000 in 5, 10 and 20 dollar bills only. Put the $30,000 in a shoe box and tell Mrs. Joyce to come along with the money to the New Rochelle station tonight at 10:30 p.m. * * *"
The letter was signed "Kathryn," Mr. Foxworth said, and was in the handwriting of the nursemaid.
FBI Notified.
The FBI was notified, but at 8:30 o'clock that night, Mr. Foxworth said the nurse telephoned the Joyce home announcing she and the child had been released by the kidnapers and were safe at the home of friends. A short time later the child reached home safely, and FBI men took Mrs. Batchelder into custody.
She confessed, the FBI said, that she alone was responsible for the extortion attempt.
Mr. Foxworth said she would be charged with attempted extortion.

Captured Jap Suicide Sub To Aid War Bond Sales

By the Associated Press.
MARE ISLAND, Calif., Sept. 17.—A two-man Japanese suicide submarine is going to work on land for the United States.
The submersible, which arrived aboard a United States merchant ship, was captured December 7 at Pearl Harbor and now will go on a Nation-wide tour to boost War bond sales. An itinerary will be announced soon.

The Navy said the 70-foot craft was capable of carrying enough explosives to blow up two city blocks, but that its construction and equipment indicated it was "truly a suicide detail."
"They just shoved those Japs inside with the idea they weren't coming out again," one visitor said after squeezing into the contrivance.
The craft's officer was taken prisoner on a beach of the Island of Oahu after he had pitched through the conning tower and

Express Bus Plan

Aside from the protests of the residents immediately affected, there is such a sharp conflict of opinion on the facts regarding proposed establishment of express buses on Sixteenth street that the Public Utilities Commission naturally will consider the matter carefully before ordering any substantial changes.

In theory, the nub of the plan advanced by the commission's engineer—which stems from Commissioner Hankin's recent origin and destination survey—is to run express buses from the points of origin of groups of riders direct to their common destinations. People who "missed the bus" will miss it in the full meaning of the term and would have to find other transportation.

Coupled with the objective of quicker transportation are others, such as forcing more people to use street cars on Georgia avenue and utilizing buses in a manner most conducive to conservation of rubber and fuel.

The bus operators doubt the feasibility of practical application of this theory, hitherto untried in Washington, on the scale that its proponents contemplate. Some seventy-five bus trips out of about 200 originating in the neighborhood would be converted to this specialized express service, materially reducing the normal bus service now available.

Testimony from an Office of Defense Transportation witness yesterday discounted the value of the plan from a conservation standpoint. As bus service has been built on actual travel habits and demonstrable demands, it would seem hazardous to disrupt this service in favor of a theory as yet untested in actual operation.

If there is any merit in it, which seems questionable, wisdom would suggest a much smaller beginning and a gradual expansion based on an actual showing of the superior service to passengers.

Constitution Anniversary

One hundred and fifty-five years ago today the members of the Constitutional Convention assembled at Philadelphia and signed the basic charter of American freedom. George Washington, explaining the contemporary significance of the event, expressed his belief that: "Should the States reject this excellent Constitution, the probability is that an opportunity will never again offer to make another in peace."

Thomas Jefferson regarded it as "questionably the wisest ever yet presented to men." Speaking for a second generation, Daniel Webster declared: "We may be tossed upon an ocean where we can see no land—nor perhaps the sun or stars. But there is a chart and a compass for us to study, to consult and to obey. That chart is the Constitution."

A rival, Henry Clay, agreed that it was intended for the welfare of "unlimited, undefined, endless, perpetual posterity."

Neither the wisdom of the Constitution nor its beneficence, however, are beyond the constant need of protection and defense. The first President, in his farewell address, September 17, 1796, warned: "If, in the opinion of the people, the distribution or modification of the constitutional powers be in any particular wrong, let it be corrected by an amendment in the way which the Constitution designates. But let there be no change by usurpation."

Justice David Davis, in the Milligan decision of 1866, insisted: "The Constitution of the United States is a law for rulers and people, equally in war and in peace, and covers with the shield of its protection all classes of men, at all times and under all circumstances. No doctrine involving more pernicious consequences was ever invented."

It is made for people of fundamentally differing views, and the accident of our finding certain opinions natural and familiar or novel and even shocking ought not to conclude our judgment upon the question whether statutes embodying them conflict with the Constitution of the United States."

The danger to the fundamental law, more or less naturally, is incessant. Probably there never has been a moment during the past century and a half that it has not been in peril. Currently, it is threatened by opportunists who would interpret it to their own expedient purposes as well as by enemies of the Nation abroad who, by conquest if they can, will destroy the civilization of which it is the fabric. The latter challenge, certainly, is the more compelling; but it does not follow that the former is unworthy of attention on the part of citizens who love their country and value its institutions of ordered liberty.

Also Leningrad

The prolonged struggle for Stalingrad, now seemingly reaching its tremendous climax after many weeks of unremitting slaughter, tends to obscure another siege, 1,000 miles to the northward, about which comparatively little has been said. Yet a current dispatch from Walter Kerr, Moscow correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune, tells a story about that second siege which surpasses even the drama on the Volga in tenacious heroism and stark horror.

The story was written to commemorate the first full year of the siege of Leningrad. On September 16, 1941, Field Marshal Ritter von Leeb, commander of the German left wing in Hitler's blitz attack on the Soviet Union, forged the last link in the chain of steel which cut off all land communication between the great port-metropolis on the Gulf of Finland and the rest of Russia. Simultaneously, the Finns had forged a similar chain across the narrow peninsula north of Leningrad which divides the Finnish Gulf from extensive Lake Ladoga. Thus, Russia's historic "window to the west," created by Peter the Great and bearing his name until the former capital of the Tsars was renamed after Lenin, the architect of the Bolshevik Revolution, was sorely beset. Supplies and reinforcements could reach it only by a hazardous and insufficient water route across Lake Ladoga, segments of whose shores remained in Russian hands.

Leningrad is the second largest city in Russia. The census of 1939 gives it a population of 3,200,000. When the siege began, those who had left the city were probably replaced by refugees from the German advance, and there must have been a very large garrison. The chances are that nearly 4,000,000 civilians and troops were jammed into the city limits, plus certain rural areas on its northern and eastern sides. This huge mass of humanity was thenceforth subjected to all the horrors of modern warfare. In some sectors the German lines were close to the city, which was systematically bombed by heavy guns and flights of Stuka bombers. Many of the great warehouses holding foods for three years' consumption were destroyed. As the terrible winter closed down, the population suffered in unheated houses and starved on rations which, for the old and unemployable, ran down to one and one-half slices of bread per day. All the public services ceased to function. There was no electric light, no running water, no sewage disposal. The sick died in their homes or on the streets for lack of medical and hospital care. The Moscow censor passes Mr. Kerr's appalling statement that "certainly more than 1,000,000 died, and I have heard the number put as high as 1,800,000."

Yet Leningrad has not surrendered, and goes into its second year of siege still full of fight. During the past week, the North Russian Army has staged an offensive aimed at the narrow corridor of fortified territory which chokes off land communication with Leningrad, and the garrison is hammering at the other side. During the summer, conditions in Leningrad have naturally been easier, and when Lake Ladoga freezes deeply, as it soon will, temporary railway tracks can be laid across the ice, as was done last winter. The fortifications of Leningrad are so strong that the Germans have never been able to storm them by frontal assault.

From all this, it would perhaps be erroneous to argue that Stalingrad can likewise hold out indefinitely. The strategic conditions are not the same. But the spirit is identical in both cases. So it can be predicted that Stalingrad will hold to the death and inflict a terrible price on the invaders.

Rubber Czar

The designation of a railroad executive to straighten out the Nation's chaotic rubber situation has come as a distinct surprise, but it is gratifying that Donald Nelson and the President, apparently being unwilling to entrust the job to a rubber expert, have seen fit to turn to a man of such outstanding ability as William M. Jeffers, self-made president of the Union Pacific Railroad.

Mr. Jeffers has said frankly that he knows nothing about the synthetic rubber business, and this is disappointing, for it means that he will have to use valuable time acquiring the fund of specialized knowledge already possessed by a number of men in the rubber industry. It appears, however, that the President and Mr. Nelson, for reasons of policy, preferred not to name as rubber administrator any one already identified with the industry. Presumably they felt it would be wiser to embark upon the thorny path of ironing out the rubber problem with a clean slate, and therefore chose an administrator who could not be accused of sympathy for any of the several factions within the industry. Whether this policy is a wise one depends, of course, on the length of time it will take for Mr. Jeffers to assimilate the detailed information which he must have before he can step into the incredibly confused rubber situation and effectively take command.

The story of his career in the railroad industry indicates that he is a man of marked ability, determination and energy. Furthermore, he has indicated that he fully appreciates the importance of the difficult responsibility which he has been asked to assume, and that he intends to waste no time in getting down to brass tacks. All of these things are good omens, but the general disposition will be to withhold judgment until there has been time to appraise tangible results of the appointment. For in this critical rubber emergency, it must be results, and not prospects, that count.

Manpower Problem

It is becoming increasingly evident that the Government, before many more months have passed, will have to take complete control of the American labor force. It will be necessary to assign a man to a particular job, and in the absence of exceptional circumstances, to forbid him to leave it. This is not a pleasant outlook, but it is essential if we are to exert our maximum war effort.

The latest evidence that the so-called voluntary controls over labor are breaking down is to be found in the recommendation of a War Labor Board panel that wage increases in excess of the cost-of-living formula be granted certain Western metal miners. Earlier this month these workers, who have been migrating in large numbers to higher-paid jobs, were put under certain restraints by an order of the War Manpower Commission. Apparently, however, the Labor Board panel feels that this is not enough, and that special inducements in the nature of exceptional wage increases should be given to hold the miners at their present jobs and to attract new workers to the mines.

It seems obvious on its face that this is a self-defeating proposal. These miners have received wage increases of about 40 per cent during a period when the cost of living has risen about 15 per cent. Thus, they are plainly not entitled to an increase under the principles laid down by the board in the "Little Steel" case. If an exception were to be made for the reasons advanced by the panel, the inevitable result would be a series of demands for special treatment by workers in other critical industries, and it would not be long before the board's wage stabilization formula would have to be junked. The hard truth of this matter is that there are shortages of labor in virtually all of the key war industries. The metal mining shortage is by no means an exception to the rule, and even if that situation could be handled satisfactorily through a form of special pay increase bonus, it would merely serve as precedent for increases in some other sorely beset industry.

As an example, one might cite the critical shortage of farm labor. Because of the migration of farm help to higher-paying jobs, crops are going to rot in the fields this year. But would any one contend that the solution lies in an order requiring a wage rate for farm labor as high as that paid in the shipyards, which the panel proposes in the case of miners? Assuredly not, unless we are prepared to toss our cost-of-living control program out the window.

What is needed, and what ultimately we will have to come to, is the setting up of governmental authority to require all men to work where they can make the most effective contribution to the war effort. No one wants to do this, but the longer we put it off, the harder it will be to win the war.

No Time for Them Now

It may be wishful thinking to read into the recent defeat of Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia and the failure of the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith to obtain the senatorial nomination of Michigan Republicans a significant trend in the voting sentiments of present-day electorates. The only significance may be that a majority of voters in both States were tired of these two particular candidates and preferred the other men.

It is worthy of note, however, that Gov. Talmadge and Mr. Smith were brothers under the skin—members of a particular cult of politicians whose absence in these serious days will make the heart grow fonder. Both of these men directed their main appeal to the less admirable emotions, never the intelligence, of the voters. Both of them were exponents of a school of demagoguery that in the lush days of peace and panaceas might be excused as among the foibles of democracy; but which is as dangerous as it can be in times of total war, when courage and stamina and high principle are vital attributes of the people.

Mr. Smith's bid for the senatorial nomination of Michigan Republicans was no idle threat. He polled a substantial vote. Nor is he ever an idle threat. A skilled and effective orator, an astute judge of the things that people want and a glib promoter, he was an adept pupil who studied faithfully under the late Huey Long and who found good hunting among the Townsendites and Coughlanites. He has been credited by expert observers with having more on the ball than his teachers. It is well that he has been defeated and a credit to the discernment of Michigan voters that, temporarily, at least, he is out of the running.

Notebook of Science Progress In Laboratory, Field And Study

By Thomas R. Henry.

In the animal laboratory at Cornell University there are some 18-month-old "puppies" about three-fourths the size of normal dogs of their age, which have been kept young and healthy apparently through semi-starvation.

The experiment was reported to the American Chemical Society this week by Drs. C. M. McCoy, W. T. James and L. L. Barnes of the Cornell faculty.

When the puppies were three months old they were placed upon diets of natural foodstuffs that are eaten by man. These were of excellent quality, but the amounts allowed were so small that the animals could barely grow and remained very thin.

They were kept in unheated quarters throughout the winter. They were more active than other puppies given all the food they desired and rested an epidemic of bronchial infection that swept through the kennel during the winter. Their bones grew regularly, even when the body weight was kept constant.

When they were allowed all the food they desired they ate about twice as much as normal dogs for a whole month and the final body size was about three-fourths that of an ordinary dog of the same breed. Today they still behave like puppies while their well-fed litter mates are adult animals.

The results indicate, the chemists reported, that mixtures of foods can be prepared for man which will keep him in excellent health on very limited supplies for long periods. These mixtures would be low in sugars, fats and starches. The low fat content would make it possible to keep them for many months without spoilage.

They contain all of the proteins, minerals and vitamins necessary for life and growth. All that is restricted is body fuel.

Some immunity to disease function, the Cornell chemists believe, may be associated with this low intake of energy-producing substances.

The food of the American soldier, which necessarily contains many prepared products, is watched closely by the office of the Surgeon General of the Army, the chemists meeting this week were told by Col. Paul E. Howe.

The introduction of purified or processed foods in the past—polished rice in the Orient, cornmeal in Italy and condensed milk for babies—often was accompanied by a significant incidence of malnutrition, Col. Howe said. But these innovations came before the function of vitamins was known.

"Processing of foods," he declared, "is not always detrimental, but revaluation of the product is required. The canning industry, for instance, demonstrated some years ago that in the canning of most vegetables and fruits and in properly processed canned foods, the losses in nutritive value may not exceed the losses in fresh foods during the course of marketing, or the ordinary process of preparation in the home.

"The war has brought to the fore new nutritional problems. The crux of these problems is the conservation of nutrients in our food, particularly in processed foods. The world-wide extent of military operations introduces additional problems in the preservation of food nutrients. The need to use foods that do not require refrigeration and the necessity to save space and tonnage have presented some serious questions.

"The messing operations of the Army are constantly reviewed to determine whether the food provided contains the quantities of nutrients required to maintain a healthy, efficient soldier. The conditions that exist in the Army may become problems of the civil population should it be required to use increased quantities of dehydrated foods. Dehydration and other processing methods involving heat may modify considerably the original nutritive value. Certain of the vitamins are easily destroyed and may in considerable measure be lost through processing. Packaging and storage often result in further deterioration.

"It is highly important to conserve the maximum nutritive value of the natural product. Along with technical developments in the industry should go research on nutritive values not only of the canned and packed product but also of the food as it will be consumed.

"Comparison with the usual methods of preparation of fresh foods often will be valuable in demonstrating the advantages of a particular process. If there are losses the consumer should be informed of the fact and extent of these losses."

Wants Women to Study Art of Knitting

To the Editor of The Star:

It is with trepidation that I write this for fear it may act as a boomerang. It is my habit to ride the public conveyances of this city and in the process of ambulating to the rear of the vehicle in my endeavor to locate a seat, my eyes scan both aisles to ascertain how many women are trying to knit. I say "trying," for I believe that 9 out of 10 women are unskilled in this art.

My mother and grandmother did not make such a task of it as the majority of women nowadays seem to with their winding of yarn around the needle before each stitch is taken, plus the awkward manner in which the needles are held. As I remember, it was just one continuous motion with no hesitancy or abrupt movements, but rather a gliding of stitches from one needle to the other.

Our women should be commended for their spirit. Usually the garment is being made for some one dear in the service. But how many of the finished articles fit the intended wearers? Most fit very poorly and a great many never are completed. A purchased machine-made garment actually would cost less and certainly give a better fit.

If women must knit, time ought to be taken to learn the art properly. The time and material put to such use unsuccessfully must be considered. Wool is a commodity on the list of scarcities and should be used in sparing measure and not merely as a means of occupying the feminine mind. JOSEPH G. ACKER.

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

"GAITHERSBURG, Md.

"Dear Sir: "Although I have several bird books and a set of Audubon bird cards, I am unable to identify the following visitors to my yard, so am appealing to you for help, as I did once before when you straightened me out on the Carolina wren.

"The first—about 9 inches in size; round head, stubby black bill. Gray back, with two short white bars near the tip of each wing. Yellow breast.

"The second—about 5 1/2 inches in size. Black, brown with yellowish cast; eyes, round with the same cast. Breast perfectly marked with narrow brown stripes. I saw this bird only yesterday. It somehow reminded me of a wren by the way it held its tail, and it walked, rather than hopped.

"The reason I am so anxious to identify all the birds that come to my yard is because I keep a record of them in a scrapbook in which I paste a picture of each one with its description, cut from an inexpensive bird book. Then I watch for one of your articles to appear on the same bird, and paste it in alongside.

"This makes your column doubly interesting as I am always hoping you will write about one of 'my' birds, and as a matter of fact, I do have an article for most of the 38 I have recorded over a period of two years.

"Thanks to the recent one on the black-billed cuckoo, I was able to positively identify one last week while sitting on my porch. It flew into the shrubbery not more than 2 feet away and did not seem to be afraid of me as it remained for almost 10 minutes, during which time it devoured three caterpillars. It would hop clumsily from one bush to another and pluck the worms from the underside of a leaf.

"I consider myself fortunate since you say this bird is seldom seen. I am also glad to learn that it is the same as the 'rain crow' whose call I have so often heard in the woods across the street.

"I hope I am not presuming in asking you to identify the above birds but you know all your readers look upon you as an absolute authority on the subject.

"It might interest you to know that I send a great many of your articles to a bird-loving friend in Pittsburgh who in turn sends them to a friend in another State. It must be very gratifying to give as much pleasure to other people as you do.

"Thanking you, and with kind regards, I am,

"Yours very truly, N. R. F."

The larger of the two birds is probably a crested flycatcher.

The smaller must be the ovenbird. It is difficult to be sure of an identification from some other person's observation.

There is just a chance that the large bird might be a phoebe or a yellow-

Reports Sacrifices of Man

Who Will Buy When War Ends.

To the Editor of The Star:

Here are some of the things one man has done since December 7, 1941:

He has ridden in a bus only four times, and then did not go outside the District of Columbia. He never since that December day has ridden a single time in an automobile, either his own or anybody else's. He has no car. He has not ridden on a train, nor been outside the District except on hikes. He spent his vacation at home in Washington. He has turned in every bit of scrap rubber and all other available scrap that had accumulated in his bachelor apartment. He has saved all his razor blades and turned them in at intervals; saved newspapers; saved paper bags and returned them to the grocer. He eats only such food as he understands to be good for his health, thus reducing spending. He has not bought a single suit of clothes, pair of shoes, overcoat, topcoat or raincoat, and is determined, if at all possible, not to buy any of these things until the war is over. He buys only what is absolutely necessary. With his savings he buys War bonds.

He spends nothing for tobacco, tea, coffee, beer, wine or any other kind of poison.

When the war is over—when peace comes—he will be able to buy when buying is needed.

Defends Congress Against Suggestion

Of Responsibility for Rubber Shortage.

To the Editor of The Star:

Credit for the Baruch-Conant-Compton report on rubber, insofar as it deserves credit, must go to Congress and not to the executive. In vetoing the rubber bill to provide a special rubber organization—just what the Baruch report now recommends—the President misrepresented the Gillette report and the farm bloc in Congress by telling us the bill provided for (1) "civilian luxury" and "joy-riding" and (2) production of rubber from grain which might be needed for food.

There was no foundation whatever for the first of these charges. The Baruch report asking for rationing of rubber reflects, not on Congress, but on the Executive for the incompetence that is making such rationing (and the inefficiency it entails in the Nation's war enterprise) much more severe than it should have been. The Gillette committee, not the Baruch committee, was wholly responsible for shaking the Executive out of his lethargy and getting responsibility for failure to produce rubber, not for joy-riding but for both civilian and military needs, fixed where it belongs—and that is not on Congress or the farm bloc.

As for producing rubber from grain, the rubber bill said nothing about grain. It sought to produce rubber from farm and forest products—from the things Germany and Russia have been using; from grain only as we have a surplus too large to fit our storage capacity at a time when construction of storage plants rather than plans for rubber synthesis must be seen as inconsistent with the

Advisers Can Cloud Task For Jeffers

Rubber 'Czar' Must Become Thoroughly Grounded in Problem

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Not a single man on the list recommended by the Baruch Rubber Committee finally became rubber administrator. The top man on the list declined the job, but it is not known whether President Roosevelt asked any of the others.

The reasons for the declination by the top man are not revealed, but they were persuasive. It is further reported that one of the reasons which probably was not cited to the President concerned the peculiar setup of the new rubber unit inside the War Production Board.

It is said that the man in question didn't think he could function effectively that way. William M. Jeffers, head of the Union Pacific Railroad, who was drafted by the President to become rubber administrator, admits he knows very little about rubber. He has not been a part of the rubber industry and the Baruch committee specifically suggested that some one with experience in rubber should be chosen.

Mr. Jeffers, however, is as good a man as could be chosen if the selection was not to be confined to those who know something about rubber. He is an excellent administrator, and if he can resist the Washington pressures and run his own show, he will make a success of it, though it is unfortunate that the country has to wait now for a new administrator to learn all about the rubber problem before he can function effectively.

If he doesn't spend some weeks learning the job and attempts to make decisions on the basis of what subordinates and rubber advisers hereabout tell him, he may walk into a hot bed of controversies and find his task even more difficult.

Solution Still to Come. The rubber problem has by no means been solved by the appointment of an administrator. The mistakes and blunders that have been made will not be erased by reshuffling the personnel—an old, old device in use in the world of official makeshifts and alibis. The rubber problem is one that is understood by millions of persons who ride in autos.

The Baruch report states the bald facts. It is as severe an indictment of inefficiency in Washington as could have been written. Unfortunately, nothing is being done about correcting such a system. The same men who have been making the mistakes in maldistribution or allocation of materials are still in positions of responsibility. For the word "rubber" the word "steel" or any other commodity might be substituted, and the picture of inefficiency is the same.

It is growing more and more apparent that the best men in industry do not want to serve in Washington and that too many second-raters have been pressed into service. The constant sniping, as well as the political pressure, is too widely known to make businessmen of high qualifications feel they can do an effective job.

The Jeffers appointment is said to have been influenced very largely by Harry Hopkins. Mr. Jeffers is a business associate of Averell Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific, who has been constantly doing assignments for the administration in the business field. Although Mr. Jeffers is 66 years old, he is vigorous and active and, in railroad circles particularly, he is praised as a man to be counted upon to do an excellent organizing job.

Urged to Push Program. The Baruch committee advised the hypothetical rubber administrator referred to in its report to "bush through the present program." This means that while some processes might be better, the work that has been done already toward getting synthetic rubber cannot be wisely scrapped. The Baruch committee recommended also that a determined effort be made to get information from Russia, which the Russians are willing to release, and that concurrently with the butadiene to be derived from petroleum, the Government should experiment with the alcohol process.

Nation-wide rationing of mileage so as to conserve rubber is almost as big a problem as getting production of synthetic rubber. It is not clear whether the administering of the rationing end of the rubber problem will be transferred from other agencies and centered in the new rubber unit, but if it is, then the rubber administrator will have his hands full in that direction at the same time that he is expected to follow through on synthetic production of rubber.

The Political Mill

Review of Primary Results Show 'Purge' of So-Called Isolationists Largely a Failure

By GOULD LINCOLN. The Tuesday wind-up of the primaries for party nomination in the coming congressional and gubernatorial elections brought few surprises. As in the case of the other States, incumbents in the House and Senate won re-nomination with few exceptions. The so-called isolationist issue, by which a good deal of stork was set last spring by various so-called "purge" political committees, aided and abetted by the Democratic organizations, did not pan out. Only a few of the so-called isolationists were defeated.

In Massachusetts, Senator Lodge, Republican, won re-nomination with little real opposition, as was expected. His Democratic opponent will be Representative Casey—an attractive, active member of the House. Mr. Casey, a strong supporter of the New Deal administration, ran in a field of four for the Senatorial nomination. His closest opponent was former mayor John F. (Honey Fitz) Fitzgerald of Boston, father-in-law of former Ambassador Kennedy.

Mr. Casey had 105,000 votes to 80,000 for Mr. Fitzgerald. About 49,000 votes were split between two other contestants. It is obvious, therefore, that Mr. Casey did not have a majority of the total vote cast in the Democratic primary. A plurality is all that is needed to win in the Massachusetts primaries.

Curley at Odds With New Deal. Former Gov. "Jim" Curley, who won the Democratic nomination for the House from the Eleventh Congressional District over the New Dealer, Representative Eliot, is trying to stage a political comeback after several defeats at the polls in the general elections. The 11 district, in which Mr. Curley is running, has been Democratic, although in the re-districting of the State some new territory has been included.

Mr. Curley was at one time a member of the House. While he jumped on the Roosevelt bandwagon in 1932, Mr. Curley has been at odds with the administration on numerous occasions. If he is elected to the House, there will be no particular rejoicing in administration quarters. His youthful opponent, however, was regarded as a particular friend of the administration. Mr. Curley defeated Mr. Eliot by about 7,000 votes.

Both the Democratic and Republican leaders of the House were re-nominated in Massachusetts—Representative McCormack of Boston and Representative Martin of North Attleboro. Both are expected to be re-elected in November. The veteran Representative Treadway, Republican, ranking GOP member of the House Ways and Means Committee, was re-nominated, notwithstanding the opposition which developed.

It is not without interest to learn that both Senator Lodge and Mr. Treadway won re-nomination although one of the purge committees had declared that their effort in Massachusetts centered about these two Republican members of Congress—both of whom were charged by their opponents with being "isolationists" and seeking to defeat President Roosevelt's national defense program.

Treadway's Election Expected. Mr. Treadway—and also Senator Lodge—insisted he was not an isolationist. Mrs. Rogers, Republican, was another of the Massachusetts members of the House to be re-nominated. It was Mrs. Rogers' bill, providing for the establishment of the WAACS, which was passed by Congress and under which thousands of American women are to be taken into the service to relieve from non-combatant duty many men who are qualified for the fighting forces.

Both Mrs. Rogers and Mr. Treadway are regarded as sure of re-election on November 3.

In Michigan, which has become again Republican, the GOP Senatorial nomination went to Judge Homer Ferguson. Judge Ferguson, known as the racket-busting, one-man grand jury, has succeeded in placing a lot of crooked law enforcement officers, gamblers and vice-establishment heads in jail in Wayne County (which is Detroit). He stands high in his home community.

Gerald L. K. Smith, ranking former follower of the late Senator Huey Long of Louisiana, tried for the Republican nomination against Judge Ferguson.

Judge Ferguson received 190,000 votes and Mr. Smith 105,000. Elton R. Eaton, a publisher in Plymouth, had 37,000 votes.

Faces Brown in Election. Judge Ferguson will run against Senator Prentiss Brown, Democrat, in the general election. Senator Brown is popular and has made a good record in the Senate. The Republicans are happily out of the situation which would have occurred had Mr. Smith received the nomination.

As a demagogue, Mr. Smith ranks well up with Senator Long. With the tide turning Republican this year, as various political events have indicated, Mr. Brown will have a real fight on his hands. The Republicans have nominated a strong ticket headed by Judge Ferguson and Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly for Governor. The Democrats renominated Gov. Van Wagoner.

In New Hampshire, a personal political feud will have its big moment in November when Senator Bridges, Republican, runs against former Gov. Murphy, who when he was chief executive of the State was a Republican, but who has now become a Democrat. There is no love lost between Senator Bridges and Mr. Murphy, who is a millionaire industrialist.

Senator Bridges defeated Mr. Murphy, then Governor, in his effort to be a member of the State delegation to the Republican National Convention in 1940. The two have had other difficulties.

It was a foregone conclusion that Senator Bridges would defeat Gov. Murphy if the latter entered the Republican primary. Mr. Murphy, therefore, took the only course open to him to run against Senator Bridges—he became a Democrat.

'I'd Rather Be Right'

Laval Unwittingly Carries Message Of Battle Against Fascism in France

By SAMUEL GRAFTON. The people of France have managed to get another message through to us. The joke is that they have got Laval to write it for them. He thought he was only composing a decree requiring all Frenchmen to give compulsory labor to the Nazis. What he has really written, between the lines, is: "Frenchmen will not work for Hitler; I have tried my best and I cannot persuade them to do it; they have rejected the New Order; France remains democratic in spite of all my efforts; the only way I can get Frenchmen to help Hitler is at the point of a gun." Quite a message.

Thus does Laval, the Fascist rat, serve unwittingly as a secretary, recording the will of the incorruptible soul of France.

This Is Civil War. The battle for France is under way. It has not waited for the second front. The people have already won several major engagements in it; once, when they refused to free 50,000 French prisoners of war by voluntarily sending 150,000 skilled French workers to Germany; again, when they refused to work for Germany even after Laval closed 1,300 French factories to make them do so; and now, again, by precipitating the compulsory labor order, which can only be called a form of civil war between the French people and the Fascist contemptibles in Vichy.

Laval's order is a confession that the democrats of France have won a victory. It means that Fascism still stops at the Rhine. We must recognize the Laval order for what it is, a declaration of civil war. The pathetic and puzzled gendarmes of Vichy will now try to make Fascists of the French people, after the might of German arms has failed to do so.

Pétain's Muddled Tears. All the issues in France are brilliantly lit up by Laval's forced-labor decree. For two years Pétain and Laval have tried to make it appear a case of France against England, of France against the world, of France striving to maintain her empire; now they have made it clear: it is quite simply a case of the French people versus the Fascists. French Fascism has had to take the chains out of the closet and show them. That issue will no longer be muddled by the tears dropping off the end of M. Pétain's nose.

The next wave of strikes the world will see will be strikes against Fascism. For having decided to fight the people of France explicitly, and by declaration, Fascism will certainly be confronted by popular weapons. The people will use what they have.

In fact, Fascism's new tactic of proclaimed war against French labor may mark the beginning of a new use of the strike throughout Europe. When we remember how the appeal of the democratic cause popped from capital to capital throughout Europe in 1944, starting in France, we may take a moment

Repetition of Midway Indicated at Solomons If Ghorrmley Has Received Reinforcements

By CONSTANTINE BROWN. The third battle of the Solomon Islands is on and American forces have been on the defensive for the last five days. But only brief communiques, indicating that the Marine force is holding its own, are available.

Reading between the lines, it appears that the Japs have sent a substantial force to retake these islands, which are of great strategic value to both sides. Under darkness of night, we are told, some Jap detachments have landed on Tulagi Island, while the same communiques inform us that Jap men-of-war are shelling our positions.

The implication is that Vice Admiral Robert Lee Ghorrmley either has not received badly-needed reinforcements to prevent Japanese men-of-war from landing forces in the Tulagi area, or is concentrating the bulk of his force to hit the Japanese when they deliver their major assault.

The battle is on and we shall know what Admiral Ghorrmley's strategy is in a few days. There is no question that the American forces are in the hands of one of our ablest naval officers who, if properly supported, will give as good an account of himself and the units under his command as he did in the first battle of the Solomons, when he captured the principal Nipponese bases.

Marines Fought With Skill. It is equally true that the American forces fighting in that area of the Pacific will live up to their reputation. At least 75 per cent of the Marines participating in the first battle were what may be described as "raw troops," men in service for less than a year. From all accounts they fought with the skill, shrewdness and brilliancy of veteran leathernecks. But in modern war these qualities alone are not sufficient.

Until further news from the Solomons reaches us it will be difficult to say how many reinforcements in warships, planes and men have been sent to that area. After the first battle every high-ranking officer knew the Japs would return in force to try to recapture the islands.

It is deeply regretted in many quarters that our "commitments" on so many other fronts prevented the high command in

McLemore

Use Found At Last For Rubber Reports

By HENRY McLEMORE. Our staff scientist, a little gnome who works with test tubes and bunsen burners back of the couch in the living room, may come up with a tremendous discovery any day now.

For weeks he has been hot in pursuit of a formula which would enable him to take the reports on the rubber situation and convert them into rubber. If he hits on it, this country's negligence in not stocking up with the precious stuff before the Japanese took Malaya and the Netherlands Indies will be counterbalanced, and there will be more than enough rubber for all military and civilian needs.

Without the exact figures at hand, we figure that this country now has a stockpile of rubber reports from various agencies in excess of 1,000,000 tons. Almost every one has had some sort of report to make. We have had Jesse Jones' report. We have had the Baruch committee's report. Also, Leon Henderson's report, the rubber companies' report, and the reports of those sterling analysts, Tom, Dick and Harry.

All of these reports are going to waste; that is, they were going to waste until our staff scientist, a Dr. Something-or-Other, decided to put them to use. He feels (and you should see the bright light of research shining in his eyes when he darts from behind the couch to beat the dog to a bone or a biscuit) that they can be put to use.

Let us hope he is right, and that before very long he will emerge from his laboratory with a four-ply, whitewall, non-skid tire in his arms, fabricated entirely from reports on the dismal situation.

Unless he does, the American rubber situation is bound to get worse and worse. Certainly, reports will never remedy the situation. They are all nice reports—you couldn't ask for any better—but they all miss on one point—they don't explain how the shortage is to be met.

Take Mr. Henderson's report to the Nation via radio a few days ago. He started off as if he were going to throw a real Sunday punch by saying that unless the shortage were solved we would lose the war. That was enough to make any American sit up in his chair and start listening.

So was his next statement, that American drivers were wasting a billion tire-miles a day in needless driving.

So was his next one, in which he pointed out that civilians have a bigger stockpile of rubber in their possession than the Government has.

Then, brethren and sistren, was the time for Mr. Henderson to let loose with his haymaker. Then was the time for him to ask, and flatly, that those of us with tires, who didn't need them for some essential war work, give those tires to the Government; that we not let the day pass without putting away our cars for the duration and contributing their rubber to the Government so that the tanks might roll, the planes fly, the guns fire and the boats ride the seas.

But he didn't do it. He petered off into the same old talk that all the rubber reports have given us: Drive slowly. Walk when in doubt. Keep the precious things properly inflated. Pat them on the head and tell them bedtime stories. Keep them happy and in good spirits.

For what? So the civilians can keep on having tires to roll on while the Army and Navy have to resort to a conservation program. In the name of sweet heaven what is the sense of that? There must be 10,000,000 car owners and drivers in this country who could carry on their work if they never rode in an automobile again until the war was over.

It can't be that Mr. Henderson and all of the others don't know that a good half of the driving that is done in this country each day could be stopped without hurting any part of the war effort. Papa has a car. The family has a station wagon. Brother and sister have a car. Miles and miles every day covered by drivers going nowhere, doing nothing.

Why doesn't the Government get completely honest and completely tough about it, and take the tires it needs? Is this a war or a picnic? Meanwhile, the good doctor will continue to seek a formula for making rubber out of rubber reports.

Nothing Wrong' at 101

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Mrs. Fannie Maria Peters, who is celebrating her 101st birthday, says she doesn't see why she shouldn't live to be 105 at least. "There's nothing wrong with me now," she said.

Policeman Uses Lasso To End Traffic Jam

CHICAGO.—Policeman Herman Lukow had to resort to cowboy tactics and lasso the party responsible for a traffic jam on the Northwest Side.

Lukow rushed to the scene after motorists appealed to the Cragin avenue station that a plump opossum, fat from his wooded retreat and dazzled by the bright lights, veered dizzily back and forth across the street, tying up traffic.

Lucembourg Deportations Reported Begun by Nazis

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The Nazi conquerors of Lucembourg are beginning deportations in efforts to stop anti-German activity in the little grand duchy, a Reuters dispatch from a German frontier point reported last night.

The dispatch said Nazi commissions are compiling "black lists" of Lucembourgeois known to be loyal to the grand duchess, and it was reported reliably that the first batch already has been rounded up.

The Germans were quoted as saying they were prepared to deport the entire population (286,913 in 1935) if necessary and bring in German workers to keep the iron mines running.

Lucembourg ranked high as a steel-producing center before the war, but since the German occupation production was said to have dropped from 2,000,000 tons annually to 100,000.

The Lucembourgeois last week began a general strike in protest against incorporation of the grand duchy into the German Reich and the call of three classes of youths to the Nazi armed forces.

Russian Woman Sniper Irked by U. S. Attitude

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Li. Ludmila Pavlichenko, Russian woman sniper credited with killing 309 Nazis, declared yesterday that "it is plain to see that with American women what is important is whether they wear silk underwear under their uniforms."

She added grimly: "What the uniform stands for, they have yet to learn."

In an interview at the Soviet Consulate here, the attractive lieutenant said she had been amazed by "the silly questions asked me in America." "One woman even criticized the length of the skirt of my uniform, saying that in America women wear shorter skirts and besides my uniform made me look fat," the Russian woman fighter added. "This made me angry. I wear my uniform with honor. It has the Order of Lenin on it. It has been covered with blood in battle."

Midnight Explosion At Winchester Arms Plant Injures 14

Blast in New Haven Is Heard in Towns 12 Miles Away

By the Associated Press. NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 17.—A midnight explosion so powerful that it knocked sleepers from their beds shook the huge plant of the Winchester Repeating Arms Co., injuring 14 persons.

Eight of the injured were taken to New Haven Hospital and six to the plant hospital early today. Doctors said that the condition of none was serious and that the name of the most severely injured worker had been removed from the danger list.

Winchester Works Manager Thomas I. S. Boak, terming the explosion "accidental," said it occurred in a small sheet metal outbuilding when a worker dropped a tray containing explosives. Fifteen persons, most of them women, were in the building at the time.

The roof of the building, not attached to the walls, was blown to bits and windows throughout the factory were shattered, although the Army's explosive safety branch in Chicago said no machinery was destroyed.

Mr. Boak estimated the damage to the new building at $10,000. The mighty blast was heard in towns 12 miles away, rattled windows and rocked houses in far corners of the city, and some persons reported to police and newspapermen, threw them to the floor as they lay asleep.

There was no fire after the explosion although an alarm summoned about 10 pieces of city and factory apparatus.

The Army recently declared the Winchester plant a closed area and so strict was the guard thrown about the factory that Richard H. Simmons, chief of the Connecticut office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was at first not allowed to enter. A police line held back a crowd estimated at 3,000.

Former Army Officer Held as Member of Illegal Tire Ring

Ex-Colonel, Four Others Charged With Operation Of 'Black Market'

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—A former Army colonel and four other men stood accused today of operating what the Government termed the largest tire bootlegging ring in the Nation organized to sell illegally re-capped automobile tires. Three of the defendants are in custody and the other two were being sought today.

United States Attorney Mathias F. Correa said the "black market" operators disposed of the tires by declaring them to be used, not re-capped, although ration certificates are necessary for the purchase of re-capped tires, they are not needed for the sale or shipment of used tires.

Mr. Correa said the ring operated by sending out circular letters to taxicab companies, trucking concerns and dealers in auto accessories in Virginia, Maryland, Tennessee, the District of Columbia, and New York.

The three defendants arrested and arraigned in United States District Court were Leo Handler and Michel J. Cryne of Brooklyn and Richard Guest of Manhattan. Mr. Correa said Guest was a former confidante of a man convicted of mail fraud in 1934 and now wanted in Boston on another mail-fraud charge. Each was held in $5,000 bail.

Two Waive Hearings. Handler and Cryne waived hearing and Guest was to decide today if he wants a hearing preparatory to grand jury action. The other defendants are George A. Lynch of Freeport and Martin Mandell of Brooklyn. Mr. Correa identified Lynch as a former Army colonel, but gave no further description of him.

OPA officials said the ring sold re-capped tires at prices substantially over the ceilings established by the Government. Tires were sold by the syndicate for prices ranging from $17 to $50, they said, including recaps which before the war were worth no more than $6 or $7.

As many as 50 tires were sold to one buyer, they said. There was no explanation as to where the defendants obtained the large number of tires.

Irving C. Rutter, OPA official, said that the offense was "a crime which constitutes so great a sabotage as to be of material aid to the enemy."

The defendants face a maximum penalty of two years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine each since they are charged with ordinary conspiracy to violate the War Powers Act.

William Robie, 78, Retired D. C. Policeman, Dead

William Robie, 78, a retired farmer of Billingsley, Md., and a former member of the Metropolitan Police Department, died yesterday at Garfield Hospital after an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Robie retired from the police force here 45 years ago and engaged in farming in Maryland. For the last few years he had spent his winters in Florida.

He is survived by three sons, A. N., William F. and Norman H. Robie; four daughters, Mrs. Mildred Jansen, Mrs. June McDonald, Mrs. Anna Narden and Mrs. Doris Dulin; nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Lee funeral home, Fourth street and Massachusetts avenue N.W. Burial will be private.

Mrs. Frances E. Abellera Succumbs to Illness

Mrs. Frances E. Abellera, 49, wife of Rulanda Thomas Abellera and a resident of Washington for nearly 20 years, died yesterday at her home, 10 Brandywine street S.E., after an illness of two months.

A native of San Juan, Puerto Rico, Mrs. Abellera received her early education at the Ateneo de San Juan. She was active in church affairs here, being a member of the Congress Heights Baptist Church.

Besides her husband, who is an employe of the Washington Navy Yard, she is survived by a son, Lt. Thomas Abellera, now overseas with the United States Army Air Forces, and seven daughters, Mrs. Mary Abasolo, Mrs. Evangeline Paredes, Mrs. Frances Sarigumba, Mrs. Edith Farran and the Misses Dolores, Jeannette and Nora Abellera, all of Washington.

Services Set Today For Louis G. Loomis

Services for Louis G. Loomis, 47, a resident of Washington for the last 32 years, who died Tuesday at Garfield Hospital were to be held at 2 p. m. today at St. Sophia's Greek Church, Eighth and L streets N.W. Burial was to be in Glenwood Cemetery.

A bartender, Mr. Loomis had lived at 917 D street N.W. for the last 20 years. He came to this country from Greece when a boy and received his education in the public schools of the District. He is survived by two cousins, William and Spiros Loomis, both of Washington.

Mrs. Laura Guerdum Dies in Chevy Chase

Mrs. Laura H. Guerdum, 87, resident of Washington for nearly 60 years, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Milda M. Madden, 2 Kenilworth drive, Chevy Chase, Md.

A native of Sweden, Mrs. Guerdum was the widow of Olaf W. Guerdum, who was a graduate of the Norwegian Military Academy and was for many years a civil engineer in Norway, Canada and the United States. Services will be held tomorrow at the William Reuben Pumphrey funeral home at Bethesda, followed by private burial.

PEP BOYS ADD NEW DEPARTMENT

Result of Nation-Wide Survey

Something new has been added at the Pep Boys stores. An entirely new department has been completely furnished with TOP quality WORK CLOTHING . . . and every item is priced so low it will amaze you.

Rather than enter this new field in a half-hearted way, we decided to study the clothing market until such time as we had sufficient information to enable us to offer TOP quality for the least amount of money. A Nation-wide survey was made to determine the needs of the War Production workers and the type of merchandise necessary to withstand the hard usage such clothes usually get . . . and the result is our new WORK CLOTHING department where your dollar will take home greater values.

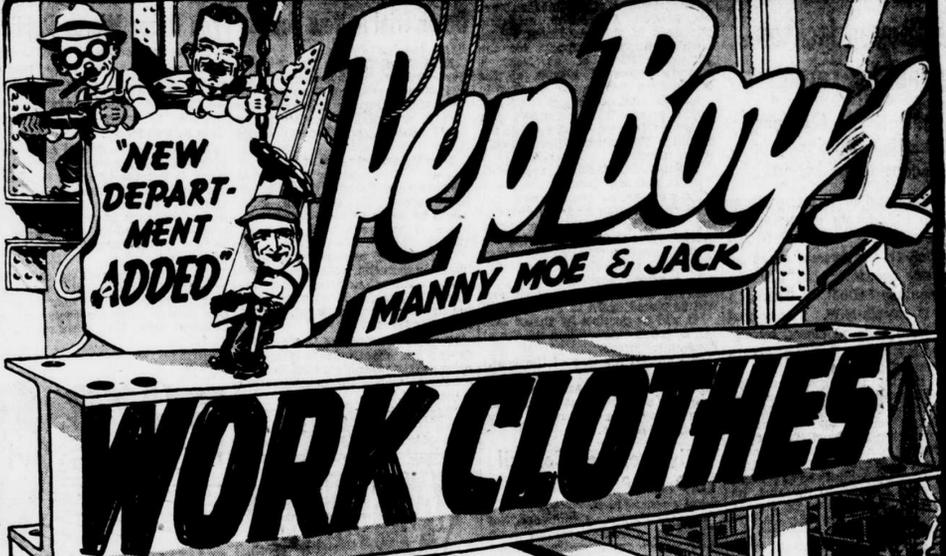

We can go on and on telling you of the values we have in store for you in Work Clothes, but that would take columns and columns. Let's take a couple of items to prove our point:

In the right hand side of this ad you will see Real McCoy Work Socks advertised for 69c for a box of six. You will have to cover a wide stretch of territory to come even close to meeting this price. In each box you will find a certificate guaranteeing you six months of wear. Should these socks not give you the wear you are entitled to you will receive six new pairs free of charge. Imagine such value at 69c for a box of six pairs of Real McCoy Socks. Yes, look at that Army Undershirt at 19c. Where can such a value be duplicated? Even if you were to use it as a polishing cloth for furniture it would be worth 19c.

Take a gander at the Sturdy Poplin Cloth Sports Jacket at $1.29. It is genuine DuPont Zelan treated to resist wind, water and perspiration. It has a convertible type collar; elastic bottom inserts to insure perfect fit; two large patch pockets; six button fly front; two button adjustable cuffs; full pleated cellulose back; extra underarm fullness, and in a choice of two colors.

No matter where you may go, and we prefer that you compare our values with the biggest stores in town, you cannot find a better BUY anywhere.

Rest assured that we would not attempt to go into this new venture unless we were certain that we could offer the wearer of WORK CLOTHES the same sensational values that we presented to the buyer of auto accessories since our inception, and unless we were confident that a CREED upheld since 1921 could be maintained in our WORK CLOTHES department: "If you can buy it elsewhere for less, return it, and we will either refund your money or return the difference."

Board Reverses Self To Reopen Jackson School for Term

Indications of Larger Enrollment Bring Reconsidered Action

Amid applause by a large group of parents attending its special meeting, the Board of Education this afternoon reopened for one semester the Jackson Elementary School, at Thirtieth and R streets N.W. The school had been ordered closed by the board last week because of greatly reduced enrollment.

In making the recommendation which reversed the action of a week ago, Acting Supt. of Schools Robert L. Haycock stated that the parents had not been informed fully of the impending change in time to make arrangements for their children elsewhere. Uncertainty as to possible population changes in the area, he said, is an additional reason for the reconsideration of the order. A survey made in the area yesterday, he added, revealed that a certain number of houses are being remodeled for new tenants, five new houses are being erected, one building is expected to be converted into apartments and more tenants are expected in other apartment houses.

The members of the Jackson Parent-Teacher Association, crowding the back of the boardroom voiced such enthusiastic support for the recommendation of at least a semester more of classes at the school that they had to be sharply reminded that the board itself had not yet acted. When order had been restored C. Melvin Sharpe moved reopening. The entire action took only seven minutes.

When L. M. C. Smith, representing the parents, thanked the board for its action, he was warned that "full co-operation and understanding" would be demanded by school officials from the parents during the next six months. The enrollment of the school will be closely watched, with a strong possibility that if it does not increase sharply the school will be closed again in February.

"It will be possible by then," said Mr. Haycock, "to ascertain the actual community needs."

The special meeting of the board was decided on at its regular meeting yesterday when Mr. Smith appeared to complain that parents had been given only a day's notice of the impending closure.

Willy Proposes Council To Draft Peace Treaty

By the Associated Press.

Senator Willy, Republican, of Wisconsin, offering a resolution in the Senate today to create a foreign relations advisory council in which Congress and the State Department would formulate the peace treaty to end World War II.

25 Officials of Bund Go on Trial in New York

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Twenty-five officials of the German-American Bund, including Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze, former national leader who is a confessed spy, went on trial today before Federal Judge Alvin D. Barksdale.

The defendants are accused of advising Bund members to avoid military service under the Selective Service Act. If convicted, each would be liable to a maximum sentence of five years and a fine of $10,000.

Originally, 28 persons were named in the indictment, but three pleaded guilty. Those standing trial include Wilbur V. Keegan, counsel for the Bund, and national, district and unit leaders.

Kunze was sentenced in Hartford, Conn., last month to 15 years in prison after pleading guilty to conspiracy to violate the peacetime espionage act.

Judge Barksdale, who is from North Carolina, proceeded today with selection of a jury.

Don't Varnish Auto Tags, Van Duzer Warns Public

District motorists, advised to prolong usefulness of their license plates by applying varnish to them, today were warned against the practice by Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer.

According to testimony of Bureau of Standards paint and varnish experts, it is more likely to have the opposite effect from the one claimed. Varnish, it was explained, has a tendency to shrink and become brittle when applied to a painted surface, cracking the paint underneath.

Mr. Van Duzer pointed out that present tags must last one more year at least, and the only suggestion he can offer for their care is to keep them clean with soap and water.

Maryland Postmaster Nominations Listed

President Roosevelt today sent to the Senate the nomination of William A. Strom to be postmaster at Annapolis, Md. He also nominated James G. Archer for postmaster at Bel Air, Md., and Ralph Sellman at Mount Airy, Md.

Nominations for postmasters in Virginia included Kathryn C. Ross, Accomac; Fred Adams, Galax; James R. Gregory, Martinsville; Eugene P. Whitman, Pulaski; Vernon C. Griffith, Shenandoah, and Gervis E. Lemley, Stephens City.

Trade Mark Registered, U. S. Patent Office.

When is a cake not a cake, yet still uncannily looks like one? The answer to that pertinent question yesterday was answered by Bertie Hellman and a staff of press agents all of whom make various types of music for the Neptune Room.

Miss Hellman, one of the pianists for the Four Keyboards ensemble in the room, happened to remember once again an old Viennese culinary custom, it seems. So after due arrangements with the chef, who promptly affected a harassed look, and several segments—or chunks—of the press which opened a fishy, yet sporting, eye, the party was called. Lots of gay, abandoned banter over the fruit cups; and then, enter the anxiously awaited "Musical Cake" courtesy of Miss Hellman.

One was covered with a white icing, the other with a sort of pink. One was, in fact, surmounted by a miniature piano; both were liberally dotted with what appeared to be radishes. They WERE radishes!

And then other surprises started swiftly to unfold. One of these cakes—the white one—was covered with cream-cheese "icing," the other beautifully smeared with a salmon-and-butter combination. Between the bread-layers of the first was something like chicken, egg salad, minced ham and cheese. Several kinds of fish, in keeping with the icing motif, formed the contents of cake-dream No. 2.

Both were duly sliced by Celebrant Hellman. Both were eaten in staid calm by the assembled guests. And, by our troth, they tasted delicious—the cakes.

But the thought of it!

Speaking of the fine art of preparing food—the display window of the newly opened Pan and Bill's is a thing to fetch a gasp from patriotic passers-by.

Specializing as it does in steaks of every genre, this establishment has made an ice-house of its Connecticut avenue front, a cold storage plant which at this time is fringed with huge red cuts of beef in the center of which has been placed a sizable pattern of the American flag.

Executed as follows: Red stripes, radishes; white stripes, cauliflower; blue field, grapes; stars, ha, that one got the management! The stars were cardboard stars.

Speaking of coincidences, which we weren't, but which we will be before you can bat a herring's eyelash—Evelyn Knight of the King Cole Room is currently flushed, with a new honor. The songstress has been asked by the Treasury Department to fly to Charleston, S. C.,

CAROL KING, Dance with the show now appearing at Helen Hamilton's Troika.

Jewel, we will add further, is actually the surname, you vaudeville-stepped cynic.

The Del Rio has abandoned its traditional title, Cocktail Hour, in favor of "Champagne Hour." However, champagne drinking at this time, though enjoyable, will not be compulsory.

Raid on Tokio Shocked Japs, Panama Envoy Says

By the Associated Press.
 NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Panama's Minister to Japan said yesterday the Japanese, "who have a god for everything, thought their gods were slipping" April 18 when low-flying American planes bombed Tokio.

Dr. Angelo Ferrari said the Japanese, unable to believe Americans would be so daring, were greatly shocked by the sudden assault and unprepared to cope with the raiders.

He related that he saw the colors on the wings of the United States bombers from the garden of his Legation where he and his family were under constant guard by 12 Japanese policemen.

Saying the Japanese had no respect for diplomatic code or status, Dr. Ferrari added:

"They call you 'our excellency' and treat you the same as the least of the foreigners whom they abuse. They do not believe anybody, not even father to son."

"Their servants are spies. Every Japanese is a soldier, whether in uniform or not. They had dictaphones in our Legation since 1940."

Overnight Jail Stay Mystifies Sheriff

By the Associated Press.
 CARROLLTON, Mo.—One of life's little mysteries has Sheriff Joe Lyons puzzled.

A big fellow came along with a little woman and asked the sheriff to place the little lady in jail overnight. The sheriff obliged. Next morning the little lady left without offering any other explanation except that the big fellow "was my husband."

Goebbels Says He Can't Tell When War Will End

By the Associated Press.
 NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—An article by Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, summarized in a Berlin broadcast yesterday, emphasized two points—that the Germans are asking when they will have peace and that Herr Goebbels cannot answer them.

Concerning "the frequently voiced question regarding the duration of the war," the broadcast said the propaganda minister wrote in Das Reich:

"Just as in a time of crisis before the outbreak of war little usually can be said as to whether the war will come at all and when it will come, so little usually can be said during war

Kirkwood, Best of Golf's Trick Shotmakers, to Round Out War Relief Program

Joe Will Put on Show After Links Vets Clash Sunday

Wood, Evans Will Tackle Jones, McLeod; Women Fill NBC Tourney

By WALTER McCALLUM.

It's been 21 years since Joe Kirkwood, the good-looking Australian last put on the top exhibition of trick shotmaking existing anywhere in the game of golf. But Joe will be one of the featured performers in that big war relief links show at Columbia Sunday at 2 p. m.

ADDS SPICE—Joe Kirkwood, trick shot artist, who will do his bit in the big war relief exhibition golf show at Columbia Sunday.

His Pro Is Surprised More Than Champion By Title Victory

Among a lot of surprised people around town, including the new champ himself, no one was more surprised when Bill Bailey won the District amateur golf championship than George Duffenbaugh, pro at Kenwood, where Bill plays.

"I called him up to congratulate him," said George. "He told me he was as surprised as any one. But I'm sure he wasn't as surprised as I was. You see we didn't know much about Bill here at Kenwood. I knew he was a fairly good player. I'd seen him play with his dad on Sundays and noted that he had a good swing and that he hit that ball straight. But no one had told me he was a champion in the making and I guess he didn't think so himself."

"Guess what he said afterward?" He said, "George, I was really lucky. My best round was 75, and I won matches with 77s."

But that isn't the real story. The true yarn is of a youngster with a lot of courage, good golf shots and the will to win. Bill Bailey was the best in the tournament and that's all there was to it. His modesty itself is refreshing.

Nevers Commissioned

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—Ernest Alonzo Nevers, greatest football hero in the 50-year history of Stanford, has been commissioned a captain in the Marine Corps. He will train for combat duty at Quantico.

Golf Pupil Defies His Teacher In Worsham-Barnett Match

The pupil met the master today over the verdant Green Spring Valley course of Baltimore with a possibility that the new champion might come out of the meeting of Lew Worsham, the pupil, and Bob Barnett, the master. Lew is favored to win the title, but first he had to lick his former boss. It was Barnett who picked Lew as a future links star, gave him a job at Chevy Chase, and helped him on the road to the post he now holds at Burning Tree.

Only other Washingtonian left in the Orleto City match play championship was Al Jamison, who has hopped around at a lot of jobs and now has given up his latest post, at East Potomac Park. Al clashed with Andy Gibson, the straight-shooting Baltimore Scotsman, in another quarter-final match. Other matches found Eddie Johnston, the mid-Atlantic junior champ, playing John Chase of Clifton Park, and rotund Leo Kernan, the home club pro, meeting Jim Duke.

Out of the tourney were Leo Walper, the Bethesda driving range pro,

Budding Young Star Mild Net Threat To Mrs. Gray

Mrs. David Gray, reigning queen of the District's net colony, faced a mild threat to her claim on the Government tournament title today in Eleanor Fishburn, budding young star who was conceded only a slim chance of stopping the blond ace.

Sara Moore and Dorette Miller faced in the other semifinal for the right to meet the winner. In men's competition meanwhile Don Leavens, favorite for the crown, was paired with Gene Hermann while Bobby Bensinger, youthful dark horse, was to play the veteran Austin Rice.

Georgia Eleven Too Good

Georgia's football faithful, anxious to bet an honest dollar on their favorite, can't get a wager on the Georgia-Kentucky game at Louisville. Bookmakers are quoting no odds and Kentuckians are demanding from 16 to 30 points.

Move to Play Frosh Is Likely To Fail in Southern Group

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 17.—The question of freshman participation in varsity football has flared anew in the Southern Conference, but Dr. A. W. Hobbs of North Carolina, president of the group, said that he had received no request for a meeting of representatives of the 16 schools.

Clark Shaughnessy, head mentor at Maryland, was among the coaches who expressed their approval of letting the frosh participate. Shaughnessy said he favored such a move because of the speed-up of the college course to three years or less.

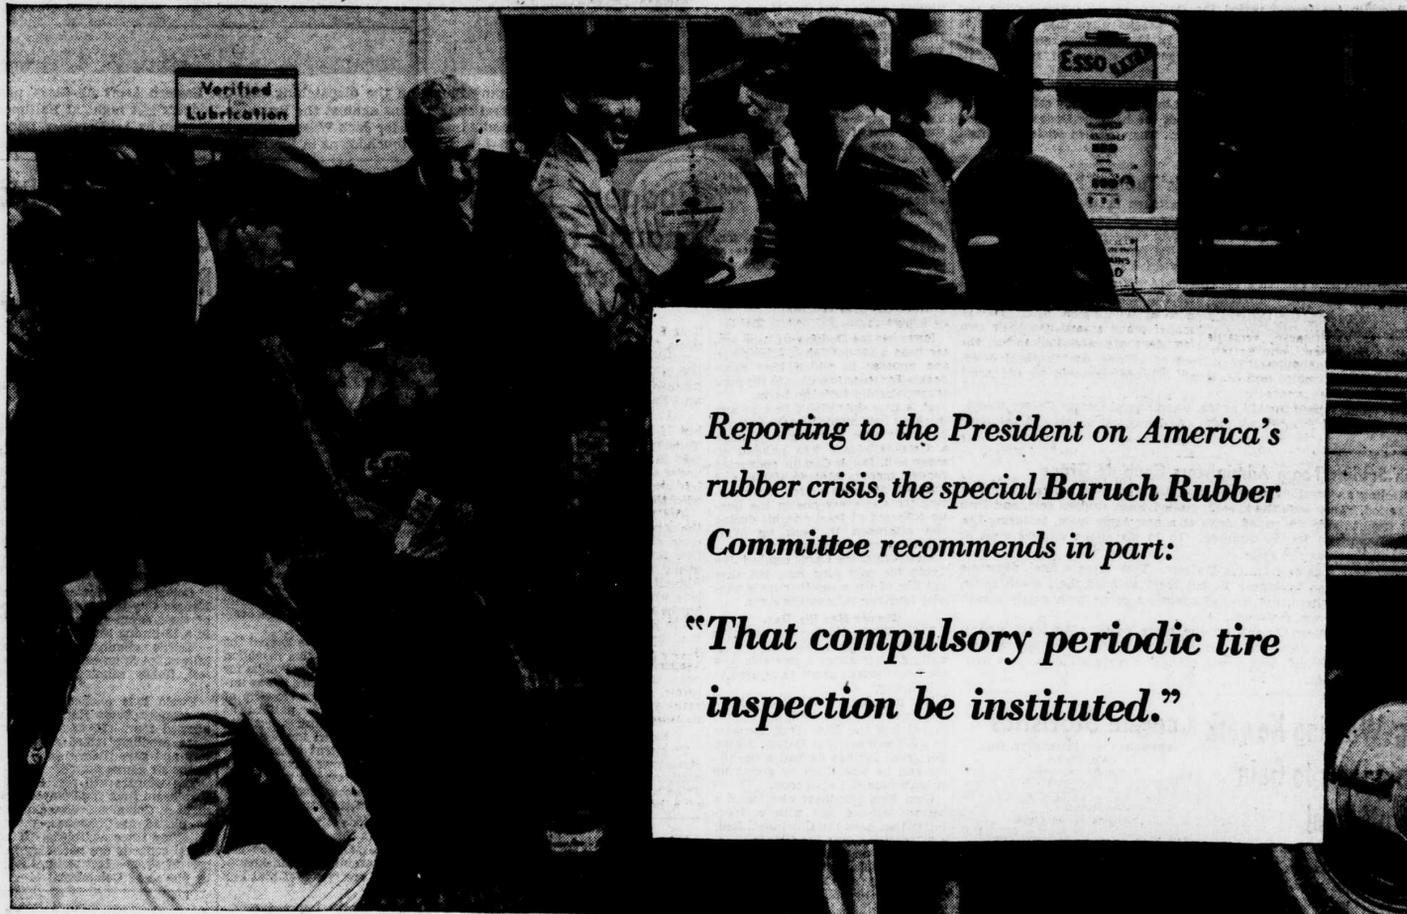

Dr. Hobbs added that he did not contemplate holding such a meeting. While he did not commit himself either for or against the plan, Dr. Lee W. Milford of Clemson, one of the four members of the Conference's Executive Committee, said he definitely favored a meeting to rule on the matter. He said changing conditions had given a different perspective to the question.

Medalist and Champ In Opposite Halves At Bannockburn

SAVE YOUR TIRES!

Reporting to the President on America's rubber crisis, the special Baruch Rubber Committee recommends in part: "That compulsory periodic tire inspection be instituted."

Thousands are already guarding future mileage with Esso "16 to 1" tire service!

Five weeks ago . . . long before the President's special rubber committee recommended "compulsory periodic tire inspection" as a means to keep the nation's motor cars rolling . . . Esso Dealers launched a remarkable new program to do that very thing!

Based on two new scientific instruments, this service lets your Esso Dealer measure accurately the mileage remaining in your set of tires as they stand right now. In 16 cases out of 17, we have found that motorists have more miles left than they think they have!

That extra mileage is vital. It must be saved. It can be saved for you by your Esso Dealer. As fast as possible we are supplying Esso Dealers with the new tread depth gauges and tire mileage calculators. Your Esso Dealer has his or soon will have. See him now. Let him measure your miles to come. Then let him help you see that you get every last one of them!

NEW TIRES? . . . If your tires are completely gone, and you have a rationing certificate for new ones, see your Esso Dealer. He can get deep-tread new Atlas tires in any size. Then let him help you keep them right for the duration. Don't buy new tires unless you absolutely have to. Don't buy less than the best when you do!

STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF NEW JERSEY

CHESS

By PAUL J. MILLER. Definite arrangements have been completed for a playoff for the United States chess championship between co-holders Isaac Kaszdan and Samuel Reshevsky, the latter having held singly the title since Frank Marshall relinquished it in 1935.

On three successive occasions Reshevsky successfully defended the coveted crown, only to split honors with Kaszdan in the recent 1942 biennial tournament sponsored by the United States Chess Federation.

For several months matters have been most unsatisfactory with the press rarely mentioning Kaszdan as a co-champ but giving Reshevsky the lion's share of the limelight. However, at the Dallas, Tex., congress of the USCF both masters officially were recognized as American champions. Now comes the playoff, beginning October 7, with the first four games of a 14-game match series to be held under USO auspices during October at Army camps. After an interlude games will be resumed around November 15 and matches rotated among cities within 200 miles, as the crow flies, of New York City. It sufficient cooperation is forthcoming from local fans one of the matches might be staged in Washington.

Chairman of the Match Committee is Maurice Wertheim, president of the Manhattan Chess Club. Officers of the United States Chess Federation for the ensuing chess year are: George Sturges, Boston, re-elected president; George Emlien Roosevelt, Manhattan, first vice president and treasurer; Donald B. Dyer, Milwaukee, second vice president; L. Walter Stephens, Brooklyn, third vice president and tournament director; and Ernest Olfe, 1111 North Tenth street, Milwaukee, Wis., secretary, to whom all inquiries ament the year book of championship games should be addressed.

Georgetown's First-String Line Okay, but Dubofsky Fears Lack of Reserves

Rates Perpich Lone Forward in Class With 1940 Wall

Backfield Experienced, Speedy and Versatile; Agnew Is Surprise

By BURTON HAWKINS.
"This," moaned Mush Dubofsky with a majestic sweep of his sizeable paw in the general direction of ponderous, puffing athletes, "is the worst line I've had at Georgetown. George Perpich is the only fellow who could have played on our club two years ago but maybe we won't be so bad at that. Maybe we'll give 'em some surprises."

The man with the suddenly shifting moods, whose duty it is to construct an acceptable line for Head Coach Jack Hagerty, is entering his 10th season as the Hoyas' line coach. No great disgrace is attached to the current Georgetown forward wall when Mush labels it the worst he's had over that period for he has produced some sturdy specimens in his time.

"Ah," reflected the man who resembles Robert Taylor behind the ears, "what a joy it was to handle that 1940 line. Tackles, guards and centers, all good and plenty of them. If that any of them play more than 10 minutes I was doing an injustice to fellows on the bench because they were just as good. "What memories," mused Mush. "Lio, Fullivoie, Matusa, Relchey, Ostinato, Lascari, Bizios, Paternoster, Daniels. Yeah, Perpich is the only fellow in our line now who could have played with those boys."

Oja Only Helpful Reserve.
"Our line strength starts and stops with our first team," fumed Dubofsky, an outstanding guard on Georgetown's '29 and '30 eleven who later played with the New York Giants. "We've usually had plenty good reserves but this season the only fellow who might help as a replacement is Ollie Oja, a tackle."

"That's the way it shapes up now, anyway. I hope some of the other fellows surprise us, but it doesn't look as if they might. We'll have a good first line—no top to par, but good—yet nobody to help them out when they get weary." Operating in that first line are Tackles Ross Sorce (265) and Perpich (218), Guards Bus Werder (208) and Tom Ponsalle (195) and Center Whitley Erickson (186). End Coach George Agnew has come up with a brace of fine flankman in Bob Duffy (187) and Lucian Robustelli (207), but he isn't happy about replacements.

Hagerty owns a speedy and capable backfield with five fellows curiously competing for the jobs. He has an experienced, versatile quartet in Ed Agnew, John Barrett, Frank Dornfeld and Bill McLaughlin, all seniors, but Sophomore Charley Miller may wedge his way in there. Miller is the speedy chap who ran 101 yards against the G. W. frosh last season.

Agnew Cause for Joy.
The surprise package of the group is Agnew. An all-Philadelphia back at St. Joseph's High, Agnew enjoyed a successful freshman year at the Hilltop, then failed to show anything the following two seasons. "He has been his own worst enemy," informs Hagerty. "In anxiety to make good he tightened up in games, but he seems to have overcome that tendency."

Agnew has directed the Hoyas in scrimmages with Navy and Hagerty has been aided by his generalship. Agnew and Dornfeld will handle the bulk of the passing, though for the sake of deception Barrett and McLaughlin also will do some slinging. Hagerty is equipping his team with a diversified attack. The Hoyas will use single wing, spread and "T" formations. If they remember the signals they should pack a punch.

Toil, Change of Name Mark Rise of Eliot As Illinois Coach

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Today's success story. Back in 1929, a fellow with thick-rimmed glasses stepped off the train at Champaign clutching a battered suitcase and fondling a mere $8 as starting money in the University of Illinois. He had come in from Kents Hill, Me., where he prepped in football, baseball, track and hockey, following a term at the Brighton (Mass.) High School.

He stretched out the bankroll until he got a job as a short-order cook in a restaurant to tide him over. He fired furnaces, cleaned snow from walks, collected tickets at a dance hall and was guard at the Illinois Ice rink. His last name was Nusspickle, which he dropped a few years ago to become known as Ray Eliot, who is making his debut this season as head grid coach at Illinois.

Wrong Address Costs Cop Pistol Laurels

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Sept. 17.—Policeman Byron Engle made the highest score—but failed to win a pistol competition at Drumwright, Okla. Because he was a non-resident of the State, he yielded the championship to an Oklahoman who placed fourth. Engle had never fired a shot until he joined the police force a year ago. His wife, also a novice, did her bit in the Oklahoma competition last week end. She finished first in the only women's event.

Six Dixie Conference Elevens Taper Off For First Tilts

W. & M. Being Watched In Game With H.-S.; Rookies Prominent

By the Associated Press.
RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 17.—With sophomores slated to play prominent roles at least in reserve capacities, six Southern Conference football squads began the tapering off process today for their initial tests Friday and Saturday of the war-hampered football season.

William and Mary, which battles Hampden-Sydney at Norfolk tomorrow night, will have the honor of tearing the lid off the 1942 campaign at far as Southern Conference teams are concerned. Coach Carl Voyles said that of six injured players, only Drewery Holloway, regular right guard, and Bob Steckroth, reserve sophomore guard, definitely were out.

Clemson plays Wake and Davidson get together for the first conference scrap on Saturday afternoon at Wilmington, N. C. Davidson, if practice sessions of the last few days are any indication, will place a seasoned starting team on the field against the Wolfpack, but must depend on sophos to fill the key reserve spots.

Both squads plan to use Tennessee's single wingback style, with the emphasis on passing. State has groomed Art Faircloth of Washington for the key role and Davidson has groomed Art Faircloth of Washington for the key role and Davidson has groomed Art Faircloth of Washington for the key role.

With Vincent Injured, Maryland's Reserve Linemen Get Test

Coach Clark Shaughnessy, who still is searching for line reserves to round out his University of Maryland football squad, has been given an unwanted opportunity to test newcomers because Reggy Vincent, first-string tackle, is on the injured list.

Vincent, first member of the Old Liners' No. 1 Red team to become a casualty, is nursing a recurrence of a knee injury suffered last season. He may be out for the remainder of the week.

Golf Must Give Freely To Relief, Jones Says

By the Associated Press.
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 17.—Whether golf can survive the war depends upon the contribution the game can make to the war effort, says Capt. Robert T. (Bobby) Jones, former "grand slam" champion. Capt. Jones, stationed here, told a civic club that golf tournaments have contributed more than $250,000 to war agencies and added that "we all need friendly golf for fresh air, a change of atmosphere and the relaxation afforded during these trying times."

Lewis-Wright and Mehler-King Duos Bowl Rubber Match

A rubber match between the stary twosomes of Madge Lewis-Al Wright and Alma Mehler-Bill King will be an added attraction tonight at the weekly mixed tournament at the Bethesda Bowling Recreation with Lois Gladding and Karl Gochenour engaging Lillian Copeland and Rex Stewart. Action starts at 7 o'clock.

Edna Cowles shone with 115 and 285 as the Budget Ladies' League opened at New Recreation. Team highs of 451 and 1,245 went to the E team, but the F quint snapped the odd game. Medler's 226 topped the men and

Gridmen Well Suited For Passing Game, So Iowa Adopts It

Ohio State Star Hurt Having Picture Taken; Gopher Back Flashy

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—The Iowa Hawkeyes, it appears, are preparing to treat the Western Conference to an extravaganza in forward passing. Iowa has been working on an overhead attack since September 1, and apparently with good reason. Coach Eddie Anderson has two excellent tossers in veterans Tom Farmer and Jim Youel and a third threat in Sophomore Sam Vacanti.

As receivers he has Bill Burkett and Bill Parker, both very offensive-minded ends, and a number of sticky-fingered backs. Moreover, the club will be fast. How well the serial circus will function may be seen in the Hawkeyes' opening game Saturday against Washington University.

Highlights at other Big Ten camps yesterday: Two 70-yard runs by Minnesota's Herman Frickey, one on a pass and another on a punt return. The unusual accident that befell Lee Horvath, one of Ohio State's backs. He injured his shoulder while posing for a photographer.

Wisconsin's Badgers lost two regulars for Saturday's opener against Camp Grant, Guard George Makris and End Bob Remick. Sophomore Ray Florek's twisting 45-yard touchdown dash in an Illinois scrimmage.

Dives Into Miami Pool, Comes Up in Ocean

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Sept. 17.—Edward Knox, 14, dived into a swimming pool here—and came up in the Atlantic Ocean 200 yards from shore. He was treated at a hospital for abrasions.

Lewis-Wright and Mehler-King Duos Bowl Rubber Match

Miss Downing's 115 was high among the fair rollers as the FBI Files Division Mixed League opened at New Recreation. Joe Weakley's 404 was the highlight as Eddie Taverner bumped the Floyds, 2-1, with a score of 1,801, in the Clarendon Major League opening. Manning's Service routed Arlington Tire three times, inserting top game of 648. Jack Talbert's 153 also featured.

Bill Pruitt won the Greenway Bowl Mixed League tournament with a gross 408 while Earl Roberts was the runnerup with 406. Bobbie Jones copped the women's top prize with 386. Long of Shop No. 18 with 157 and 363 and Burton, Night Liners, with 148-378 were tops in the Navy Yard Morning League at Spillway.

Brooklanders' Surge Marks District Pin League's Start

Long Trailers in Star Loop, Club Turns in Surprising Counts

Karl Gochenour's 188 game and Ray Watson's 433 set that helped Brookland Recreation to a 2-1 victory over Alexandria Receptions indicate the bowling outfit that has been a trailer through several seasons may be a factor this time in the crack District League.

Top last night with team counts of 679 and 1,884 as the circuit ushered in its 37th season, it took a 166 final effort by the veteran Eddie Keith to take one game from Brookland. Gochenour made four strikes and two spares in his big game and had a set of 428.

Clarendon Bowling Center and Bethesda Bowling Center were the only teams in the 16-club loop to score shutouts. Lee Marcey's 379 and Jack Talbert's 141 led Clarendon's 3-0 win over Arcadia, while Bethesda swamped Arlington with a 1,771 count.

The champion Lucky Strikes beat Roslyn, 2-1, losing the middle set on a roll-off settled by Billy Stallcup's spare and Bill Krauss's strike. Last year's runnerup Hi-Skor fired 649-1,868 to trim Hyattsville Recreation, 2-1.

Injustice Is Claimed As Millich Is Given Rassling Verdict

Referee Hank Vogt read the script wrong at the weekly meeting of the Muscular Club last night at Turner's Arena which accounts for the decision Joe Millich holds over Johnny Long, a grave miscarriage of justice. It seems that Vogt counted out Long as Millich applied a body press, despite the Johnny's foot was entangled in the rope at the time. Ring etiquette decrees the hold must be broken under such circumstances and the boys must make a fresh start, but Vogt ruled his verdict couldn't be reversed and allowed it to stand. Undoubtedly both boys will be rematched to see that justice is done.

In other matches Ace Freeman and Jim Austeri drew, Benny Shapiro made short shrift of John Yanski, Maurice La Chappelle and Michele Leone drew and Eddie King got the nod over Jack La Rue via disqualification.

The little bay filly fought off strong bids from New Hope for the big slice of the $6,800 purse.

Fears Team Too Green to Even Finish Season; His, Other Weeping Discounted by Fans

By DICK HAWKINS, Associated Press Sports Writer.
ATLANTA, Sept. 17.—That doleful sound you hear these early autumn days is the first movement, opus 3, of "The Coaches' Lament."

The time has come, with first games just a few days away, when coaches great and small bury their season's hopes—to be exhumed piece by piece as the winning schedule unfolds.

This great aid to team morale knows no geographic bounds and the Southeastern Conference boasts its quota of major league wailers. Coach Monk Simons of Tulane blew the pitch pipe for the song of lament yesterday when he told the New Orleans Quarterbacks Club that his hopes of finishing the season at all with his Green Wave were small. It is a sad commentary on human nature that most of his hearers were reported to have discounted the statement.

Mississippi loses End. Mississippi lost another player when George Lambert, husky freshman end, quit, and Coach Harry Mehre, who sings lead base in the doleful chorus, is practicing for a solo part.

Georgia's Bulldogs were covered with a blanket of gloom spread by Coach Wally Butts—no amateur in the dig department—as he called the roll. Dick McPhee, rugged half-back and the best line-backer on the squad next to Bill Goodwin, is out of action with a severely strained shoulder. Van Davis is nursing a badly-cut right eye and Brooks Pierce, second-string right tackle, reported to his draft board at Trion, Ga.

The sounds from Vanderbilt are not so sad. Coach Red Sanders is watching with hope the performance of little Jay Ball at tallback. Art Rebrovich and Red Burns, regular and reserve veterans at that post.

Gridders Off to War, Oglethorpe Likely To Quit Game

All Members of Small Squad of Last Season Now Are in Service

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTA, Sept. 17.—Oglethorpe University, whose Stormy Petrels achieved much attention with colorful, up-and-down football, may abandon the gridiron for the duration.

Coach John Patrick said today all players of the little squad of 1941 who were expected back on the campus had enlisted in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard, and added: "We have no one out for practice and won't know whether we will have until school opens next week. If enough students turn out to have a team we'll play. Otherwise I guess we're through."

Coach Patrick said if an Oglethorpe team played at all its games would be exclusively with service elevens. Should Oglethorpe abandon football, it would become the 41st Southern college to do so.

Under present law, price ceilings on farm products may not be set lower than 110 per cent of parity or the highest market price between January 1, 1942, and September 15, 1942. In general, the President would be authorized and directed to stabilize wages and farm prices "so far as practicable on the basis of the levels which existed on August 15, 1942."

Representatives of farmers' organizations opposed the bill at yesterday's hearings.

The program the President insisted on today has little more chance of proving workable than that which he insisted on six months ago, declared Albert S. Goswami, master of the National Grange. He suggested an interim bill freezing all prices and wages for 90 to 90 days while Congress worked out "sound legislation."

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, said that unless farm prices reflected the rising cost of farm labor, there was a real danger of a wartime food shortage.

William Green, president of the American Labor Union, said that the bill's purposes although taking some exceptions to details.

Mr. Bitter proposed four amendments to the bill: (1) Eliminate a clause authorizing the President to reduce wages below their present level. (2) Use September 15, 1942, as the base date. (3) Limit individual incomes to $25,000 after payment of taxes. (4) Prohibit a reduction of wages below their stabilized levels for a period of two years after the war.

War and Navy Departments, the Marine Corps, Coast Guard, the Treasury, the Office of Civilian Defense and his own office to withdraw the ban which became effective August 1, but Mr. Petrillo refused.

He said that while Mr. Petrillo's offer appeared to cover all recordings, the union leader had indicated statements he was willing to permit recordings for home consumption, but there was no legal way to guarantee they would not be used commercially.

As a matter of fact, recording "practically all instrumental musicians" were members of the federation.

He said Mr. Petrillo's action was not based on any "specific grievance between his union and the recording companies," but because recording music supplanted continuous work of live musicians.

Senator Clark remarked that Mr. Petrillo had not replied to an invitation to testify before the committee.

Speeding

one of the offenders was driving a car with Government tags and that his fine was $10.

"This is not enough," the Secretary said. "Government employees ought to be set an example. How can the average driver be expected to regard the request of the Federal Government if the man who draws his pay from the Government disregard it?"

"I am glad to be asked to do about it. Mr. Tokes volved uncertainty. He said park police expend time and energy fruitlessly making arrests if inadequate punishment is meted out."

"We ought to make it hurt," he concluded.

Secretary Tokes' letter to Judge Barse follows:

"Until the Saruch Committee was appointed by the President to find and report to him the facts with respect to the rubber stamping high officials in the Government, including the President himself, had been pleading with the public to keep their cars down to a limit of not to exceed 40 miles an hour. As a result of the representations of the Senate Committee, an effort now is being made to persuade people to keep their speed down to 35 miles an hour or under."

"Several months ago we posted our parkways for a 40-mile speed limit. From my own observation I was aware that some drivers were exceeding this limit. Accordingly, several days ago I gave instructions to the park police to make arrests of any one whom they caught in the act of driving faster than 40 miles. Then, on Saturday, after the President had admitted the 35-mile-an-hour speed limit recommended by the Senate, I have been ordered to change to arrest any driver going more than 35 miles an hour. The police have been making arrests and doubtless cases soon will be coming before your court."

"It seems to me that any driver who will willfully and contentiously ignore an appeal from the President, which, if complied with, would have the effect of saving both gasoline and rubber, has earned far himself the term 'lacker.' He has no right to be regarded as a loyal and patriotic citizen. Yet, from reports that come to us, this situation exists in all parts of the country. I know that in driving from my farm in Maryland, until recently 40 miles an hour, during the last several months, I have been passed by car after car. I believe the only way to deal with this flagrant disregard of the public welfare is to impose severe penalties. It seems to me to be especially desirable in the capital city of this country that motorists who disregard the speed regulations be made to feel the heavy hand of the law."

"I further seem to me that lawless Government employees should be more heavily penalized. The other day one park policeman stopped two Government employes on a parkway. One was driving at a speed of 80 miles an hour, and the other at 52 miles. One of them was actually in a car bearing a Government license and the other was personally calling this dereliction of patriotic duty to the superior of each man, but more than this is needed to make such people realize that they have a double duty—one to conserve gasoline and rubber, the other to set a good example to fellow motorists."

"I have ordered the signs in all our parkways changed so that hereafter 25 miles will be the speed limit. This is in conformity with the suggestion in the Burch report. I shall continue to keep extra policemen on our parkways with instructions to halt into court every possible motorist exceeding the limit. I hope the court will co-operate by imposing such penalties as will persuade these slackers that the Government regards the speed regulations and rubber as a serious matter."

Gov. Darden is calling a special session of the Legislature to set on a plan wiping out the public debt and to consider other wartime legislation.

The Japanese advance yesterday brought them into contact for the first time with the main body of the Allied forces defending the approaches to Port Moresby, which also had been reinforced during the last week.

The invaders apparently were attempting to repeat their infiltration maneuvers, which have resulted in the past in much fighting at close quarters, with frequent hand-to-hand encounters.

While Toribawa is only 32 miles by air from Port Moresby, it ordinarily takes two days to travel between the two points by land along narrow, tortuous trails.

Allied planes were reported fighting the ground forces and supporting by continually strafing the Japanese from low levels, although the dense jungles provided the enemy with cover which made detection from the air difficult.

The general's body, found in a field, was reported identified by a captured German officer, Lt. Fritz Kelsier.

Of the nine previous night attacks, which the British have launched against Germany since the first of the month, all save one have been on a major scale and most have involved hundreds of planes.

The targets have included Saarbrücken, Karlsruhe, Dulsberg, Frankfurt, Duesseldorf, Wilhelms-haven and Bremen—which was raided twice.

Reflecting the tenacious created in Germany by this continuing offensive was a Berlin broadcast yesterday warning the German people to "be on the alert that the Blackout is complete." The warning was repeated by all Nazi radio stations.

While the RAF was over Germany last night a few Nazi raiders dropped bombs at several places in East Anglia, but official reports said they did little damage and caused no casualties.

Nine persons were killed yesterday, however, when German raiders bombed and machine-gunned three towns on the British south and southwest coasts.

British fighters simultaneously made a daylight sweep over Northern France, patrolling the coast from Bork to Le Trepout without challenge from German planes. counter-pledge of their own. Senator Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan was reported considering an amendment that would "stabilize" prices by October 15.

The Senate Banking Committee yesterday ended two days of public hearings and was to go into closed session today to consider amendments to the bill.

Two amendments prepared by Senator Bankhead, Democrat, of Alabama, a farm bloc leader, appeared likely to generate spirited discussion. One, which the President objected to, was the provision to include farm labor costs in computing parity prices.

The other would call for a floor under farm prices for three years after the war, either through Government crop purchases or loans at 90 per cent of parity. This proposal differed from a House bill sponsored

Mr. Davis said members of the armed forces and workers in war industries got a large part of their recreation from freshly recorded popular music.

Paraphrasing the said, he is not an "addict of the juke box," but that it was popular with soldiers, sailors and marines at home and that at our outposts it "is a vital necessity for the entertainment of our troops."

While Mr. Petrillo promised his musicians would continue to make recordings for the armed forces, he said the number of radio programs produced by the Army was small.

Commanding officers at various posts, he said, had told the War Department the cessation of the supply of recorded music "will jeopardize the complete morale and propaganda structure at combat zones."

Federal Projects Account For $191,541,000 of Big Volume

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The Engineering News-Record reported today that engineering construction volume for the last week totaled $206,000,000, compared with $197,510,000 in the previous four-day week and $120,215,000 in the like period last year.

Federal construction accounted for $191,541,000, against $183,923,000 the week before and $83,543,000 a year ago.

Ball Loadings Drop. The Association of American Railroads reported today that 814,885 tons of revenue freight were loaded during the week ending last Saturday.

This was a decrease of 78,075 cars, or 8.2 per cent, compared with the preceding week. A decrease of $9,771 cars, or 10.8 per cent, compared with a year ago, and an increase of 10,620 cars, or 1.3 per cent, compared with 1940.

Atlantic Coast Line Calls $12,000,000 Notes

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Directors of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad today authorized a call for redemption of 10-year of the outstanding $12,000,000 10-year collateral trust 5 per cent notes as next December 15 at 102 per cent. The notes were due to mature May 1, 1945.

The redemption in advance of maturity was made possible by the call provision of the indenture securing the notes, an announcement by the railroad said.

Atlantic Coast Line's funded debt, including the issue just called, totals about $158,351,000, according to company's balance sheet.

AMA Cuts Purchases

Of Meat Sharply to Ease Shortage

Agency Buying Only Every Other Week For Lend-Lease

By WILLIAM FERRIS. Associated Press Financial Writer. CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Purchases of meat by the Agricultural Marketing Administration, Government agency which buys for lend-lease shipment to other United Nations, have slumped sharply over the last several weeks, a compilation of Department of Agriculture reports shows today.

Slumping today of the agency's buying was a necessary result of the meat shortage, livestock experts said. The AMA, which formerly made heavy purchases weekly, now buys only every other week in an effort to make more supplies available for domestic consumers.

Actual shipments of AMA-purchased meat to other countries are a military secret and the total supplies held by the agency are not disclosed.

Buying Criticized. At the time the meat shortage came to a head there was much criticism of continued heavy buying by the agency during the summer months of slack production. It was argued that the agency could reduce its buying, utilizing stocks it presumably had on hand for lend-lease export.

The recent reduction in purchases does not mean that corresponding downturn has occurred in the aid this country is giving to the food stocks of Allied nations, trade sources asserted. They added that the agency could be making the same total available, drawing from its stocks of frozen meat.

It was expected by livestock experts that the AMA's buying would expand within a few months as the autumn and winter run of hogs and cattle, which will be exceptionally large, comes to market.

Rep Prices Down. Prices of hogs, which are more inflated by AMA buying than cattle, have declined recently, but livestock men attribute the slump to the threat of ceilings and increased offerings than to the AMA's program. The top price of hogs yesterday was $14.40, compared with $15.50, a 25-year peak, in mid-August.

Ceilings for Dried Prunes And Raisins Due Soon

Price ceilings at the grower level will be established for dried prunes and raisins in about two weeks, the Office of Price Administration and the Agriculture Department announced yesterday.

These price ceilings, the first to be fixed on any fruit, will be set at the same level as the buying support levels to growers announced by the Agriculture Department August 22. These prices were described as approximately 110 per cent of parity to the grower.

These new prices, which constitute both support and ceiling levels for agricultural raisins, are sufficiently high to encourage maximum production and yet not too high to discourage consumer distribution of that portion of the packs available after military and lend-lease requirements are filled.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard and Price Administrator Leon Henderson said in a joint announcement.

Public Is Reassured

On WPB Order to Conserve Shoes

Spring Declares Ample Supplies Planned For Civilians

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Assurances that the public need not feel unduly apprehensive over its essential needs for footwear because of Government regulations were given to more than 2,000 shoe manufacturers and dealers by W. J. Spring, chief of the shoe unit of the War Production Board, at a meeting here.

"The conservation measure under which the military will function hereafter is by no means drastic," Spring said. "It has set a limited goal based upon a conservative appraisal of needs and available resources. With full co-operation, that goal can be reached, thoroughly ample supplies of footwear maintained for consumers and really drastic dislocations avoided."

One of the principal things the conservation program will do, he said, was to restrict drastically the choice of styles available and this may be expected to be felt strongly by the spring of 1943.

Oil Men Face Big Job. PITTSBURGH, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Bruce E. Brown, assistant deputy petroleum coordinator for war, told the National Petroleum Association today the big job for the oil refining industry in 1943 is to keep going with a maximum production of essential civilian products, a minimum of other products, a maximum of equipment and a minimum demand for critical materials.

In an address prepared for delivery to the 40th convention of the association, Brown said there were certain units of the industry which had other duties and other units which had opportunities for war.

Chicago Grain. CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Cross-currents of the anti-inflation debate in Washington continued to disturb the grain trade here today and prices fluctuated nervously throughout the session.

The most important effect of the Washington news was that it restricted market operations on all sides. Small buying attributed to mills and professional traders lifted prices fractionally at times.

Peoples Drug Sales 17.2 Per Cent Above Year Ago in August

Continuing steady and substantial gains so far this year, net sales of Peoples Drug Stores, Inc., during August totaled $2,713,065.01, an increase of $397,379.76, or 17.2 per cent above the total sales of $2,315,685.25 in August a year ago, W. H. Churchill, treasurer of the big chain system, reported here today.

Net sales in the first 10 months of this year amount to $20,238,479.77, in comparison with $17,710,822 in the like period in 1941, a notable increase of $2,527,657.55, or 14.3 per cent, today's report said.

In July Peoples Drug Stores reported a gain of $390,546.94, or 17.4 per cent, practically the same as the record for August.

Washington will furnish many speakers at the annual convention of the Controllers Institute of America, which opens in Chicago next Monday for the discussion of inflation, simplification of business reports to the Government, adjustment of war contracts, civilian goods inventory limitation and the 1942 Federal tax bill.

Among the Government speakers will be Kenneth H. Rocky, chairman, Navy Price Adjustment Board; Stuart A. Rice, Bureau of the Budget; W. W. Wertz, SEC; Thomas H. Sanders, WPB; Paul Grady, Navy Department; Dr. E. R. Reed, Federal Reserve Board; OPA, and Frank P. Smith, OPA.

Paul F. Cadman, economist of the American Bankers Association; Thomas N. Tarleau of the Treasury and Ellsworth C. Alvord and Clinton Davidson, both of Washington, also will speak.

The three-day conference will be attended by several hundred controllers, treasurers, vice presidents and other chief accounting executives of leading American firms.

Quarterly Dividend Voted. Directors of the American Security & Trust Co. have declared a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent payable October 10 to stockholders of record September 30, President Corcoran Thom announced today.

Net earnings of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway in the first eight months of this year were equivalent to $2.03 per share on the common stock against $2.91 per share in the like 1941 period.

In the first seven months of 1942 the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad reported a net profit of $4.50 per share, the common stock against $4.40 last year in the same months.

Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones states that the War Damage Corp. has already collected $106,000,000 in premiums and estimates that approximately $300,000,000 such insurance is now in force.

Reserve Staff Changes Noted. The Federal Reserve Board's September bulletin notes recent promotions in the legal staff, J. F. Drablich, formerly assistant general counsel, now being designated general attorney.

George B. Vest and E. Magruder Wingfield formerly assistant general counsel; are designated assistant general attorneys, the Bulletin says.

Water Wyatt, for several years general counsel of the Reserve System, has been devoting considerable time to special duties, it is announced.

Bank Deposits Up Sharply. Various estimates, while not precise, are generally indicative of trends and make it evident that individuals are accumulating savings and that a large portion of these deposits is held in cash—currency or bank deposits, says the Bulletin.

Probable continued increases in national income, accompanied by further decline in the volume of consumer goods, particularly durable goods, available for purchase and a decrease in consumer debt, are the legal staff, J. F. Drablich, says, will leave an even larger amount than at present available for savings in cash and securities.

In July and August there was a more rapid increase in bank deposits and currency than has occurred in any previous period.

Southern Bell Earnings Rise. Seventeen Class I railroads in the Southern district, had estimated operating revenues in August of $22,214,822, compared with $40,281,322 in August, 1941, or an increase of $4.9 per cent.

Freight revenues in August, amounted to $48,873,922, compared with $33,960,098 in August, 1941, or an increase of 43.3 per cent.

Passenger revenues totaled $10,664,598, compared with $9,971,244 in August, 1941, or an increase of 16.6 per cent.

Capital Transit in Demand. Capital Transit stock drew all the attention on the Washington Stock Exchange today when 50 shares changed hands at 23 1/2, against last week's close at 23 1/4, the high for the year.

The stock is now selling ex-dividend, the closing bid today being 23 1/4 with 24 asked. Steady improvement in earnings has caused an increased demand for the stock, the year's turnover to date being around 3,500 shares. The low for the year was 17.

Bank of Commerce & Savings and Carpel Corp. stock have been added to the list of issues now being quoted ex-dividend.

WPB Bans Metal Doors For Army and Civilians. The War Production Board prohibited yesterday the production of metal doors, frames and shutters for either military or civilian use. Excepted were fire doors meeting maximum specifications for airplane hangars.

Previously, manufacture of these products for civilian use had been controlled by the denial of preference rating applications for metal except for essential uses. Manufacturers will be permitted to all orders received prior to today provided the door, frame or shutter is intended for a priority-rated building or project already under contract and delivery can be made within 45 days.

Low-Priced Issues

Hold Spotlight in Stock Market

By VICTOR EUBANK, Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The stock market continued its penny serenade today as low-priced issues generally dominated the ticker tape while leaders shifted indifferently over a narrow range.

As a group, rails did fairly well after a hesitant start, but the majority of these slipped under the best. Small fractional advances were well distributed in the final hour, although minor declines were plentiful and numerous stocks were unchanged. Small blocks of apple orchards selling under $10 helped put the day's total at around 400,000 shares.

Buying predicted on individual situations, the main bulkwork for the list, Bullish forces on the whole still leaned toward conservatism pending settlement of anti-inflation and tax questions and the appearance of more impressive war bulletins.

In the stock division new tops for the year or longer were posted for American & Foreign Power common and second preferred, International Telephone, Panhandle Producing and Chicago & Eastern Illinois "A."

In front of the greater part of the day were Santa Fe, New York Central, Union Pacific, Southern Railway, Great Northern, United States Steel, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Johns-Manville and Western Union.

Among occasional losers were Bethlehem Steel, American Telephone, Texas Co., Anaconda, United States Rubber, Boeing, General Electric, Consolidated Edison and Public Service of New Jersey.

U. S. to Require 60 Per Cent of 1942 Salmon

The Agricultural Marketing Administration notified the salmon industry yesterday that the Government would require at least 60 per cent of the 1942 canners' pack for the military forces, lend-lease and other Government distribution.

After salmon canners have offered this part of their pack to the AMA purchasing agent, officials said they probably would receive releases of 20 per cent of their pack for normal trade outlets. The remaining 20 per cent will be retained by canners until final determination is made of Government requirements.

The total salmon pack this year is estimated at 5,700,000 cases. The AMA also announced Government requirements of Maine sardines had been placed at a minimum of 2,250,000 cases, or slightly more than two-thirds of the estimated 1942 pack of 3,400,000 cases.

U.S. Grant, 3d, Named to Head Planning Board

Tribute Paid to Delano, Retiring After 25 Years

Brig. Gen. U. S. Grant, 3d, was unanimously elected chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission today as its members paid a parting tribute to the retiring chairman, Frederic A. Delano, whose 25 years in the development of Washington were lauded in the resolution.

Mr. Delano, who presided for the last time at the September meeting of the commission, said he had submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt on April 28, 1941, suggesting his retirement "because of my age and increasing responsibilities." He is now 79 and is chairman also of the National Resources Board.

"The President asked me to remain until he had found a suitable successor," the veteran chairman explained. "Finally he found what he and I think is an ideal man in Gen. Grant."

Gen. Grant, he said, had helped him some 20 years ago in getting Congress to pass legislation creating the Planning Commission and from 1924 to 1933, he was executive officer of the commission and therefore familiar with its policies. He also reminded that Gen. Grant had participated in the movement that resulted in the enactment of the Capper-Crampton Act, which governs all land purchased for park use in the District.

Appointed to Fill Out Term. The commission thereupon elected Gen. Grant as its chairman. He had been appointed by Mr. Roosevelt to fill the remainder of Mr. Delano's term as a member of the commission, which expires next April.

His reappointment after that date is up to the President. In expressing its appreciation of Mr. Delano's long service, the commission adopted the following resolution:

"Be it resolved, That the members of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the staff express their deep regret at the resignation of Mr. Frederic A. Delano, chairman, after more than a quarter of a century's service of time and effort to the development of Washington.

"The very appointment was due to his earlier activities 20 years ago in the formation of the Committee on One Hundred of the American Civic Association, which aroused Nation-wide interest in the National Capital and resulted in the Ball-Gibson Act of 1924 creating the National Capital Park Commission and authorizing appropriations for the purchase of park lands."

"Two years later, the Capper-Gibson Act enlarged the membership of this body and included in its duties consideration of the many complex problems of modern city planning. To this new body Mr. Delano was appointed as one of the distinguished citizens, and in 1929 he was elected chairman. He brought to this task a wide experience and sound judgment, resulting from service on the planning bodies of both Chicago and New York."

More Playgrounds Assigned. "Mr. Delano's leadership in the development of today's Washington have seen a far greater improvement of this city than any other similar period in its history, and this accomplishment may, in large part, be justly accredited to his skillful guidance."

"A regional plan, a comprehensive recreation system, expanding as the city grows; a fort drive, a huge sports center on the Anacostia, a monumental development eastward from the Capitol, the acquisition of the C. & O. Canal and George Washington Memorial Parkway, and a connecting parkway to Baltimore, are but a few of the projects measuring the National Capital of the future, to be continuously and harmoniously developed upon the plans formulated under Mr. Delano's direction and for which we owe him a debt of gratitude."

"Although no longer officially connected with the commission, we know that this leading, progressive citizen of Washington will ever lend his support and guidance to the work of the commission."

The commission announced also that it has taken steps to assign the following playgrounds for local use: The Palisades, Lafayette Recreation Center School, Coolidge, Banker, Francis and Taft Recreation Centers, the Landon Park Playground and Fort Manassas Playground.

Last Site Acquired. Gen. Grant had participated in earlier conferences concerning these new playgrounds.

The commission also was informed by Norman C. Brown, its land purchasing officer, that the last property needed to complete the Harrison School playground site has been acquired without condemnation.

The new colored playground is located across from the school on the south side of V street between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets N.W., and provides facilities for a very congested colored population.

The playground site, all of which was purchased direct, embraces one acre of ground. All lots acquired were improved to a substantial degree. Mr. Brown reported, ranging from residential flats to second commercial usage. The acquisition of the land proved one of the most difficult problems the commission has encountered for some years.

A small addition to Alger park at Thirty-first street and W place S.E. will be acquired as an addition to recreational facilities in the neighborhood.

Oklahoma House Member Auxiliary Policeman at No. 8

With Seven Children, Long Hours Don't Mean Much to Him

All the auxiliary police stationed at No. 8 precinct may not know it, but one of their buddies, the husky fellow with the Western accent, is a member of Congress.

Representative Ross Rizley of Oklahoma has done nothing to advertise the fact that his "business" is on Capitol Hill. The only time he mentioned it was when his home at 6140 Thirty-first place N.W. was reached in a routine search for volunteers.

"I told them then," he said yesterday, "that my duties might interfere once in a while, but that long hours didn't mean much to me. They don't, you know, when you're working to feed and educate seven children."

Faithful to Duties Since. That was back in February. Since then Mr. Rizley, who has practiced law for 25 years, has taken the required courses, attended meetings except when a late session kept him on the Hill, and covered every blackout except those last month, when he was home in Oklahoma seeing his constituents.

With a neighbor, he patrols his beat once a week. He explained No. 8 requested him to do that, "probably just to keep in shape."

His longest patrol was the one the night of the dark-to-dawn blackout, when he was on the street from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m.

As far as Mr. Rizley is concerned, being an auxiliary policeman is the least he can do. His oldest son is in the service, a son-in-law and daughter are at Camp Bowie, Tex., where the man is a corporal and the girl is a bookkeeper in the quartermaster department, and a son still in college is in the enlisted reserve.

"There's no reason in the world," he said, "why I shouldn't do something, too, particularly when I was told it was hard to get enough men in my section."

Three Children in School Here. Then there's another reason for Mr. Rizley to wear the overseas cap, the auxiliary policeman's uniform. "My three children are in school here," he explained. "If the bombings come, somebody's got to work at civilian defense for their sake."

As for being a member of Congress, Mr. Rizley said, "When we're living here and our families are getting the benefits of the District, we should certainly have the same interest as everybody else in helping to protect it."

Seek Permission to Speak. Both the organization will ask permission to open before the special committee, it was learned after adjournment of the meeting.

"Instruction showing the harmful effects of these drugs," said Dr. J. Raymond Schmidt, general superintendent of the civic league, "is more needed now than ever before."

"We can marshal the evidence of hundreds of scientific experts," declared Dr. Ellsworth Carpenter, vice president of the alliance, "who will prove that Dr. Gannon's statements are false, ungrounded and demoralizing. In the event, and that they serve to promote, though, of course, unintentionally, addiction to tobacco and the train of diseases which are inseparably connected with cigarette and tobacco slavery."

The proposal, made to the board last week, closed the school during January was tabled by the Rules Committee because it was said, "serious dislocation" of the school system and "relatively unimportant savings" would result. Dr. Gannon had offered the plan as a means of saving fuel, said he had received no reaction to it from the Office of the Petroleum Administrator.

Other Expenses Cited. At least $10,000 of the usual $40,000 January fuel bill would have to be spent to protect school equipment, it was explained, and at least $4,000 of the usual $14,000 electric light bill also would have to be expended. Problems of arranging salaries, night classes and defense meetings also would arise from the January closing, it was indicated by Acting Superintendent of Schools Robert L. Haycock.

The recommendation of school officials to close the Jackson, Mr. Haycock told the board, was an economy measure taken on the basis of a 120-pupil enrollment last June in an eight-room school officially supposed to accommodate 320 pupils.

Adjustments of the school system to wartime demands ordered by the board yesterday included approval for the first time of enrollment of girls in shop courses at the Abbott and Phelps Vocational Schools; organization of a medical-dental bill to educate the war-affected students; and setting up of two new dental clinics for students in the Dennison and Chamberlain Vocational Schools.

The committee on student activities approved appearance of District school children in a parade September 25 symbolizing war work done in the system. The students will march along Constitution avenue and pass before a reviewing stand at the Treasury Department, where Mrs. Roosevelt and high ranking educators will be conducting a war savings rally.

Alexandria will not participate in Virginia's surprise blackout early in October, according to Civilian Defense Co-ordinator Carl Budwey.

Alexandria has been exempt from all State blackouts because it participates in all District tests.

Education Board To Reconsider Jackson Closing

Special Meeting Set For Today After Parent's Protest

In response to pleas by parents from the Georgetown area, the Board of Education was scheduled to hold a special meeting at 2 o'clock this afternoon to reconsider action it took last week to close the Jackson Elementary School because of greatly reduced enrollment.

Charles D. Drayton, a member of the board, suggested the special meeting at a meeting of the board yesterday after L. M. G. Smith, father of a Jackson School pupil, had appeared to complain that no notice had been given in time for the school's Parent-Teacher Association to protest the closing.

Branding the board's action in ordering the school closed as "dictatorial, undemocratic and hasty," Mr. Smith declared that enrollment at the school would increase on opening day Monday because of construction of new homes and dwelling units in the area during the summer.

Rewriting of Course Proposed. The school board's regular meeting yesterday was concluded in a burst of protests by spokesmen of anti-alcohol and tobacco groups as a special committee was appointed to review the course of instruction on alcohol and tobacco for the senior high schools.

The committee, composed of Health Officer George C. Ruhland, Dr. James A. Gannon, board member who proposed the review, and Dr. Carroll A. Reed, first assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum, is scheduled to meet within the next few days. According to the motion made by Dr. Gannon and approved by the board, it will review the course of instruction and make "any constructive criticism the committee deems necessary."

In proposing revision of the alcohol and tobacco units in the new physical education course approved by the board only last week, Dr. Gannon declared:

"This action is not an endorsement of alcohol and tobacco. I would take the same action on instruction on sugar and salt. We should teach the truth, as scientifically as we know it, of alcohol and tobacco."

Sees Lack of Information. In studying the proposed instruction, he said that "as a medical man" he had found "a lack of information" in the alcohol-tobacco course as drawn up by the teachers of the physical education department. The rest of the course, on such subjects as anatomy, physiology and nutrition, he approved wholeheartedly.

Representatives of the Anti-Cigarette Alliance, Inc. of the District, and the National Civic League stood up in the back of the room as soon as the board had approved appointment of the committee and demanded repeated over the course of the board members, to be heard.

"We do not usually answer questions," explained Mrs. Henry Gratton Doyle, president of the board. "We will be glad to hear you, as we always have when the matter is actually up for discussion." She emphasized that a motion had been made only to appoint the committee and not to open a discussion of the entire liquor and tobacco question.

Plans were completed for the third phase of control center exercises tomorrow night following a "shake-down" meeting of civilian defense officials at the District Building yesterday.

Col. Lemuel Bolles, executive director of District civilian defense, who called the meeting, commented that the actual functioning of the seven sub-centers was well advanced mechanically, but the functioning of all elements was just getting started.

He visualized the wardens who report incidents, the control center which dispatches equipment to the scenes of incidents as a team which had to work together.

Defects Absent. He noted no major deficiencies, however, that could not be corrected by training and repeated exercises such as are now going forward.

For the test tomorrow night, all warden posts will be covered, although not all of them will be called upon to report incidents. The various dispatching services will assign to duty only enough workers to man the channel of communications down to the actual dispatching officer, who will not dispatch equipment to the units that have gone had it been a complete performance.

Doctors Scarce. Chief difficulties brought up at the meetings yesterday were the unfamiliarity of wardens with the forms used for reporting incidents, the problems of priority officers in deciding which incidents should be given precedence and the scarcity of doctors during the tests because of their night office hours.

Chief Air Raid Warden William J. Mileham reported his assistant chiefs would go out into the areas to educate the wardens in reporting incidents, and control center officials said they planned to shade maps of the areas they covered to point out the critical sections.

40 District Registrants Will Report Tomorrow. A group of 40 District registrants will report tomorrow for assignment to training camps. Inducted into the Army September 4, they are:

5 Candidates Named For Charter Board By Commissioners

Three of the Appointees Have Opposed Move For Government Change

Five candidates for election to a proposed charter board which would study changes in the government of Montgomery County have been nominated by the Board of County Commissioners.

A referendum on the question of whether the board shall be established will be held coincident with the election on November 3 if petitions now before the Board of Election Supervisors are found to be in order.

The commissioners' action was taken at a special session at Rockville yesterday. Three of those nominated already are on record as opposed to a charter form of government, a fourth is the leader of charter proponents and the other nominee has not publicly committed himself.

Joseph A. Cantrel, counsel to the commissioners, and J. Bond Smith, counsel to the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, both of whom have bitterly assailed the efforts of those seeking a change to a charter form of government, were among the five nominated.

Another nominee is Roger J. Whiteford, attorney who told a recent meeting of the Congress of the United Democratic Organization of the County that "the charter form of government for Montgomery County won't let you keep a democracy."

The others are Allen H. Gardner, chairman of the County Charter Committee which has led all efforts to bring about a study of proposed changes in government, and Otto W. Anderson, county agricultural agent, who so far has remained aloof from the controversy.

The commissioners' action was taken a day after Mr. Garner had presented the petitions to the election supervisors. The names on the petition are now being checked.

The only Republican member of the Board of County Commissioners, Walter Johnson, was absent yesterday, and John E. Oxley, anti-organization Democrat, voted against the nominations because he said a majority of those selected "would naturally oppose any change proposed by the Charter Committee."

The remaining members, all Democrats, voted for the nominations. They are Board President Thomas E. Hampton, R. Watt Farmer and O. W. Roby.

Budget Professor Named

The school of accountancy of Columbus University announced yesterday that the Board of Trustees has appointed Norman P. Cassidy as professor of budgets and budget systems in the department of Federal accounting, a course that deals with the preparation of the Federal budget and the work of the Office of the Budget.

Upper Sixteenth Street Express Bus Decision Considered by PUC

Hearing Ends; Plan to Drop Alaska Avenue Service Is Protested

With a record before it that is weighted with conflicting figures and arguments on how to conserve street space, the Public Utilities Commission today considered its answer to the proposal for express service for upper Sixteenth street.

Hearings were concluded late yesterday after spokesmen for 25,000 persons living in the Silver Spring area protested against the proposed abandonment of the Alaska avenue section of the S-2 bus.

Abandonment of this service between Georgia avenue and Sixteenth street had been urged by PUC witnesses as a means of forcing many residents of North Washington to ride Georgia avenue streetcars instead of the proposed Sixteenth street express buses.

Plan "Not Flexible Enough." General opposition to the pending proposal as a whole was expressed by F. W. Lovejoy, executive secretary of the Washington Regional Committee of Defense Transportation Administrators, who told the commission he could not see that the plan was "sufficiently flexible" to conform to the riding habits of the public and doubted it would result in any "real" saving in bus mileage.

Explaining there will be but a limited amount of new bus equipment available, and that consideration should be given to the possibilities of pooling buses of all companies, Mr. Lovejoy said the Sixteenth street express bus plan was a trend away from such a pooling. He said the only merit he could see in the plan from the viewpoint of the Office of Defense Transportation, was its value in reducing bus miles traveled.

Questioned by Hankin. Under questioning by Gregory Hankin, PUC member, Mr. Lovejoy agreed that one of the objectives of the ODT was to shut bus riders to rail services wherever possible. Mr. Hankin has been arguing that abandonment of the upper end of the S-2 line was necessary to keep the proposed Sixteenth street express buses from "bleeding" passengers from the Georgia avenue streetcars.

Protesters of the Silver Spring representatives over the Alaska avenue route elimination were presented by Joseph E. Hayes of the Allied Citizens' Committee.

He reported that his group found that 1,274 Marylanders board District buses at the Georgia avenue terminal in the morning and 1,374 are discharged there in the evening, to transfer to Maryland shuttle buses or to private cars.

Mr. Hayes declared the PUC origin and destination survey figures were not a correct basis for decision and argued this was so, if for no other reason, because many thousands of persons had been transferred in Government jobs or to military service since the PUC survey was completed.

When the American Expeditionary Force landed in Ireland recently, newspapers reported the citizenry remarked at the similarity of the steel helmets worn by our boys with those worn by German troops. These steel helmets are protection from shrapnel fragments and other light missiles. We need thousands of them for they are a regular issue to every American soldier.

The board also rejected the appeal of James Ludden McAndrews, 28, for classification in 4-D as a potential divinity student.

Kelly Asks Volunteers For Auxiliary Police. Maj. Edward J. Kelly, superintendent of police, today appealed for 2,000 to 3,000 able-bodied men between the ages of 21 and 60 to join auxiliary police force. He said applications may be made at the nearest police precinct or at the office of Sgt. John F. Ryan at Municipal Center.

The auxiliary police force now consists of 3,800 men.

Job Deferment Pleas Rejected By Draft Unit

Eight Given Stays By District Board For Dependency

Clamping down on occupational deferments from the draft, the District Board of Appeals refused to grant a single change in classification because of jobs at its latest meeting local draft headquarters announced yesterday.

The board, reporting on its actions for the week ending September 4, granted eight appeals for deferment because of dependents, rejected 32 occupational claims, and cases to local boards for additional information and referred the case of a conscientious objector to the United States attorney.

Meanwhile, William E. Leahy, District draft director, warned employers in war production areas that occupational deferment for their employees to see that form 42-A, "affidavit to support claim for occupational deferment," is filed at the time the registrants file their questionnaires or as soon as the employer determines a change of status is under consideration.

The draft director explained that many registrants were waiting until they received notice of classification in 1-A before seeking occupational deferment, which in some cases has delayed or prevented reclassification in 2-A or 2-B. Employees, he said, should notify their employers when they receive their questionnaires.

Granted deferments were Galen H. Klaus, 24, Maritime Commission audit clerk; Harry Miller, 24, Armory Co. Co. industrial worker; George Conover, 30, WPA photostat operator; Elton B. Chapman, 24, Soil Conservation Service employe at New Boston, Tex.; Warren Emig, 21, Railway Express Co. truck driver; Charles Allan, 21, truck helper for Jelleff's; Sylvio B. Maynard, 44, vice president and treasurer of a real estate company, and John M. Hunter, Jr., 31, Great American Insurance Co. supervisor.

Job Deferments Rejected. Those whose requests for occupational deferment were rejected were Morton B. Horne, 42, C. H. Cronin, Inc., member, who also was suggested for 2-A or 2-B. Employees, he said, should notify their employers when they receive their questionnaires.

Darden Calls Special Session On Public Debt

Assembly to Weigh Plan to Liquidate Virginia Surplus

By The Associated Press. RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 17.—The Virginia General Assembly will convene in special session Tuesday, September 29, to consider a plan evolved by Gov. Darden for wiping out the State's $18,159,999 debt and perhaps to act on "other wartime emergency legislation."

The Governor, after conferring with legislative leaders and fiscal advisers, issued the call last night, but did not elaborate on the proposals he would submit to the session, the sixth extra session in Virginia in the past 23 years. The last one was in December, 1936, for the enactment of a State unemployment compensation law.

Those called into conference before the announcement was made gave unanimous approval to the session, and Senator Aubrey G. Weaver of Front Royal, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he had "no doubt" a resolution will be promptly adopted by the legislators confining the deliberations of the General Assembly to such measures as the Governor may submit.

Brief Session Seen. If this is done, the session probably would last only a few days. "I am calling," the Governor said, "a special session of the General Assembly in order to lay before them a plan to liquidate the public debt. The treasurer and I have for some time been at work on the program to be submitted. Changes in the provisions of the sinking fund and an appropriation of the monies needed for the operation required certain changes in the statutes covering these subjects."

"The special session is being called to deal with the public debt. However, I shall submit such other wartime emergency legislation as may be deemed necessary."

Rayne Murphy, the State Treasurer who resigns from the House of Delegates to accept appointment by the Governor to his present post, was among those present at the conference in the Governor's office last night.

Enough Funds in Treasury. The State's total public debt amounts only to $18,159,999, of which $14,731,000 is payable from the general fund and $3,428,999 from the State highway fund. In the treasury there is far more than enough to discharge the whole amount.

The general fund has an unobligated surplus of $18,638,880, there is an officially undisclosed surplus in the sinking fund, and there are millions of dollars earmarked by the 1942 General Assembly for capital outlays that cannot be spent before the end of the year.

A large portion of the surplus is yielding little if any income. The Governor obviously felt he had a sound plan to offer, because the last special session in 1936 cost $77,355. The regular session of 1942 entailed expenditures amounting to $5,000.

Floor Leader G. Alvin Massenburg of Hampton, in a statement coincidental with the Governor's announcement, said he was in thorough accord with the Governor's action and declared this "a most opportune time to save the State a considerable sum of money by revising some of the laws pertaining to our investments."

Gov. William M. Tucker, who presides over the Senate, also expressed approval and said he did not believe the session would be more than a few days. Speaker Thomas B. Stanley of the House declared the best time to prepare for retirement of debt was when funds were available, and likewise approved the Governor's call.

Others who joined in the Governor's conference were State Controller Henry C. Gilmer, Budget Director J. H. Bradford, Tax Commissioner C. H. Morrissett, Attorney General A. P. Staples, Senate Clerk E. R. Combs, House Clerk E. Griffith Dodson and Col. Peter Saunders, the Governor's executive secretary. Senator Henry C. Gilmer, of the 93-year-old President pro tempore of the Senate, was not present but approved the call.

Not more than 35 Senators and 84 House members will attend, as there are five Senate vacancies and three House members have resigned, three are dead and one apparently is in the service serving with the armed forces.

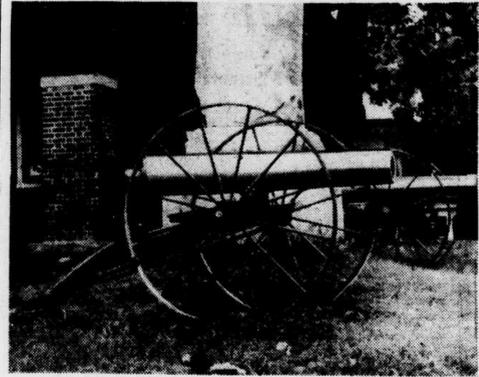

Nearby Virginia Leaders Approve Session Call. The call for a special session met with the approval today of the legislative delegation from nearby Northern Virginia.

State Senator William D. Medley, who represents all of the nearby jurisdictions in the Metropolitan Area, said: "It seems to be the logical thing to do, especially when wartime restrictions prohibit us from making many capital expenditures. We can't build roads, and this money should be put to work some way. Retirement of the debt now would place in a better situation after the war when revenues undoubtedly will decrease although our bonded indebtedness still will have to be retired."

Delegate Charles R. Fenwick of Arlington said: "This is the most desirable time to liquidate the debt, so that we may start off after the war with as little indebtedness as possible."

Delegate Robert J. McCandlish Jr. of Fairfax County, expressed similar views, and said "it is the best thing that can be done." He said he also expected special legislation would be asked to increase the Governor's wartime powers. He said that some of the measures enacted at the regular session had not given Gov. Darden the authority which the General Assembly had intended.

Fairfax Courthouse Relics Are Spared From Scrap Pile

These two cannon, which for years have adorned the lawn of Fairfax County Courthouse, were saved from the scrap heap yesterday by the County Board of Supervisors.

Special Dispatch to The Star. FAIRFAX, Va., Sept. 17.—Two ancient bronze cannon and a group of old iron cannon balls of Civil War vintage, long a landmark on the courthouse green at historic Fairfax Courthouse, may eventually be destined for the scrap pile, but they were at least given a temporary lease on life yesterday by the County Board of Supervisors.

Mrs. Douglas Murray, chairman of the County Salvage Committee, which Thursday opened a two-week drive to collect everything in the nature of scrap which can be found in the county, appeared before the board and requested that the relics be turned over to her committee for scrap.

Mrs. Murray said that if the board acceded to her request, the cannon would not be sold to a junk dealer, but would be turned directly over to War Department officials, as a token of the County's contribution to the Nation-wide scrap drive.

Ownership in Doubt. Question of ownership arose during discussion on the request, and a search through old minute books of the board's proceedings, failed to throw much light on the subject except to disclose that they were donated by some civic-minded citizen or group of citizens in 1910.

Discussion also disclosed that the members of the board were divided on the subject of disposing of the relics for scrap. One of the older members, who well remembers the War Between the States, strenuously voiced his objection to such a proposal.

Committee Named. It was finally decided to name a committee consisting of Commissioner of Revenue James U. Kincheloe, member of James Thrift Camp, Confederate Veterans; Former State Senator John W. Rust, president of the Manassas Battlefield Park Association, and County Clerk John M. Whalen, to investigate the history and ownership of the relics, before any further action is taken.

The cannons bear markings indicating that they were manufactured in 1856, probably at the Washington Navy Yard, and the old cannon balls are said to have been collected from the Bull Run battlefield.

Southern Maryland Fair Opens With 4,000 Exhibits

Best Cattle Prizes To Be Awarded Today At Marlboro Grounds

Hundreds of nearby Maryland residents crowded into Upper Marlboro today as the annual three-day Southern Maryland Fair opened at the Marlboro Fair Grounds.

Despite the gas and tire shortage, farmers from Prince Georges, Anne Arundel, Calvert, Charles and St. Marys Counties entered more than 4,000 exhibits to make the fair one of the largest in recent years.

Judging of the fair is the feature of the scattered exhibits, which range from the most primitive to the most advanced of farm products, was virtually completed yesterday. Prizes for the best cattle will be awarded today with judging of light draft horses scheduled for tomorrow.

Air Raid Booths Set Up. To conserve tires and gasoline, farmers will be permitted to take their livestock entries home after the judging today instead of waiting until the last day of the fair.

A high-light of the fair will be a 14-class horse show at 1 p. m. Saturday, open only to members of the Southern Maryland Horse Breeders' Association and horse breeders in Southern Maryland.

A special junior department has been organized for 4-H Club boys in Southern Maryland. Entries include hogs, poultry, tobacco, potatoes and dairy cattle.

Another department has been created for children, with prizes to be awarded for the best tea towel hummed by a girl under 7, best doll dressed by a girl under 7, and by a girl under 14; best painting by a child under 14 and best chalk mural by a child under 15.

Anne Arundel County Plans New School. ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 17.—Supt. of Schools George Fox announced yesterday a new school building would be constructed at Riviera Beach to help alleviate congestion in Anne Arundel County schools, where defense workers' children had overcrowded present buildings.

Mr. Fox said approval had been granted for erection of the new building and that work would be started immediately. He expects the building to be completed by January 15.

Meanwhile, full use of all available facilities, transportation of children from congested to less-crowded schools and planning of teachers' schedules temporarily are solving the problem, Mr. Fox added.

Maryland Draft Seen Exceeding 1918 Shortly. BALTIMORE, Sept. 17.—Selective service officials said yesterday that by the end of the year more Marylanders will have been drafted into the Army than during the World War.

Falls Church Mayor Refuses to Resign in Annexation Dispute

Gibson Declares Council Failed to Show Expediency Of Taking in Area

By a Staff Correspondent of The Star. FALLS CHURCH, Va., Sept. 17.—Mayor Burns M. Gibson today refused to resign in response to a resolution passed by the Town Council urging him to quit because he opposed annexation proceedings by Falls Church against adjacent Fairfax County territory.

"It is my opinion," he said, "that the Council itself might be in error in view of the verdict of the court. The Council brought the suit and failed to show the expediency or necessity of annexation and if any one resigns it should be the Council. However, I am not asking the members to do so."

Mayor Gibson testified in behalf of Fairfax County in the recent suit while members of the Town Council gave evidence in favor of taking in 2,100 acres of county territory. His resignation was asked by the council Monday night.

"I was elected by the people to serve my second term which began September 1 and I intend to serve my term," Mayor Gibson said. "I did not offer my testimony to the court. I was ordered to appear in court by the Board of Supervisors who know of my position in the matter."

Mayor Gibson offered a resolution in May asking that the annexation suit be postponed indefinitely. "After being ordered to appear as a county witness," he concluded, "I did voice my convictions for which I have no regret."

New Farm Machinery Rationing Is Ordered

Rationing of new farm machinery and equipment was ordered today by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard to control the distribution of the limited supply now on hand to assure its greatest possible contribution toward meeting the goals in our food-for-freedom program.

The order, effective today, will govern sales for the rest of 1942 and Mr. Wickard said it would be followed later by an order regulating 1943 sales.

Secretary Wickard explained that because of military requirements, particularly for steel, "the amount of materials which will be made available for manufacture of farm machinery and equipment in 1943 will provide much less machinery and equipment than will be needed."

Secretary Wickard placed Fred S. Wallace, special War Board assistant in charge of the national rationing program and State war boards of the Agriculture Department were given charge of the State programs. County rationing committees will be established to administer the plan in counties.

Bauserman to Address Groveton P.-T.A. Group. GROVETON, Va., Sept. 17.—James E. Bauserman, elementary supervisor for the public schools of Fairfax County, will speak at the meeting of Groveton Parent-Teacher Association at 8 o'clock tonight in the school auditorium.

PUC Considers Decision on Express Bus

Hearing Closes; Marylanders Protest Alaska Ave. Plan

With a record before it that is weighted with conflicting figures and arguments on how to conserve tires and buses, the Public Utilities Commission today considered its answer to the proposal for express service for upper Sixteenth street. Hearings were concluded yesterday after spokesmen for 25,000 persons living in the Silver Spring area protested against the proposed abandonment of the Alaska avenue section of the S-2 bus.

Abandonment of this service between Georgia avenue and Sixteenth street had been urged by PUC witnesses as a means of forcing many residents of North Washington to ride Georgia avenue streetcars instead of the proposed Sixteenth street express buses.

General opposition to the pending proposals as a whole was expressed by F. W. Lovejoy, executive secretary of the Washington Regional Committee of Defense Transportation Administrators, who told the commission he could not see that the plan was "flexible" enough to conform to the riding habits of the public and doubted it would result in any "real" saving in bus mileage.

Explaining there will be but a limited amount of new bus equipment available, and that consideration already being given to possibilities of pooling buses of all companies, Mr. Lovejoy said the Sixteenth street express bus plan was a trend away from such a pooling. He said the only merit he could see in the plan, from the viewpoint of the Office of Defense Transportation, was its value in reducing bus miles traveled.

Mr. Lovejoy added that a question of saving six to eight minutes on a trip from Eastern avenue to downtown Washington, taken alone, was of little concern to the public in its effort to conserve buses and tires. He said the convenience of certain sections of the riders was not a thing the ODT "would get very excited about," and warned that as the war goes on it would have to accept more and more inconvenience.

Questioned by Hankin. Under questioning by Gregory Hankin, PUC member, Mr. Lovejoy agreed that one of the objectives of the ODT was to shunt buses to rail services wherever possible. He argued that "abandonment" of the upper end of the S-2 line was necessary to keep the proposed Sixteenth street express buses from "bleeding" passengers from the Georgia avenue streetcar.

Protests of the Silver Spring representatives over the Alaska street route elimination were presented by Joseph E. Hayes of the Allied Citizens Committee. When he offered survey figures about the number of riders using the S-2 line, Mr. Hankin objected that the witness was not an expert. Mr. Hayes agreed, but said his group asked the commission to consider his committee's survey for what it was.

At this point S. R. Bowen, county engineer, recalled that Carl Harris, PUC engineer, had been permitted to testify at length in favor of the proposals, although he had not been qualified as an expert on transportation management and Mr. Bowen said he had not continued. He reported that a group found that 1,274 Marylanders board District buses at the Georgia avenue terminal in the morning and 1,372 are transferred to Maryland shuttles buses at private care.

Mr. Hayes declared the PUC origin and destination survey figures were not a correct basis for decision and argued this was so, if the other reason, because many thousands of Marylanders had been transferred in Government jobs to military service since the PUC survey was completed.

Savings Claim Disputed. Mr. Hankin later argued that 51,000 miles of bus travel would be saved each year only by reason of eliminating the Alaska street section of S-2. Dean J. Combs, county engineer, took issue with the estimate, suggesting that substitute bus service might be necessary.

Mr. Harris then attempted to show that the origin and destination figures were not as complete as he was showing by nearly his theoretical calculations figures reported by Mr. Locke. As to the riders carried on Alaska avenue run, he said his calculations were only 6 per cent above those of Mr. Locke. As to counts at Scott Circle, he said his figures were 14.8 per cent higher, but later it was brought out that he had omitted counts from two survey areas because he had not yet had time to figure them, and he agreed inclusion of these would have increased his percentage of error.

James H. Flanagan, PUC chairman, remarked that if there were a 15 per cent error as to counts at Scott Circle, it would be an error that should be considered.

Mr. Hankin and Mr. Harris, however, agreed that it would make no difference in the case of the Sixteenth street bus proposals since it was based on the idea of starting with a minimum-demand number of express buses, the number to be increased or decreased as actual experience dictated.

Fairfax Board Votes To Revise County Zoning Ordinance

T. J. Stockton of Burke Named to Supervise Redrafting of Measure

Special Dispatch to The Star. FAIRFAX, Va., Sept. 17.—Acting on a recommendation submitted by Charles C. Walker, chairman of the County Planning Commission, the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors yesterday authorized revision of the county zoning ordinance. It appointed T. J. Stockton of Burke to supervise the redrafting of the measure.

Revision of the ordinance, which has been in effect since March, 1941, was recommended by the Planning Commission to meet changing conditions.

Tract Re-zoned Granted. The board granted the application of Arthur M. Bowling to rezone a tract of land located at Happy Valley, Mount Vernon district, from suburban residential to business, and disapproved the action of the Board of Zoning Appeals in denying the application of the Forestville Volunteer Fire Department for a permit to erect an engine house at Forestville. E. Russell White, zoning administrator, was instructed to approve the permit.

Action on the request of Robert B. Walker, county defense coordinator, for an appropriation of $4,500 to establish 11 casualty stations and 25 mobile first-aid units was deferred until the next meeting.

Approval was given to Mr. Walker's request to locate a central control station in the Trial Justice Building, in space now occupied by the Chamber of Commerce. The control center is now in the police station. Establishment of an auxiliary control center at Penn Daw, lined, with a direct, telephone line, also was approved.

$50 Fund for Posts. The sum of $50 a year for each of the observation posts in the county, maintained and operated by the Aircraft Warning Service, was appropriated.

Dr. S. D. Gardner of the Virginia Department of Health notified the board that Dr. James A. Pogue, United States Public Health Service, had been named to succeed Dr. C. E. Waller, health director for Fairfax, Loudoun, Prince William and Stafford Counties, and will be located at Fairfax. Dr. Waller will resume his duties as full time health director in Loudoun County.

The board approved a resolution requesting a supplemental Federal grant of $17,482 for the construction of a water and sewer system in the village of Accotink, adjacent to the Fort Belvoir reservation. The board has been informed that the original grant of $26,400 is insufficient to construct the project.

Students Picking Apples In Frederick Vicinity

By The Associated Press. FREDERICK, Md., Sept. 17.—High school students were recruited today by the United States Employment Service and Frederick High School officials to help harvest the bumper apple crop in the county. Teachers in the school carried on the recruiting among students willing to help, with Boy Scouts expected to supplement the number.

Some orchardists in the Frederick vicinity reported men, women and high school boys already at work.

G. C. Cannon, farm replacement representative of the Employment Service, said Scout officials already had agreed to co-operate and added that transportation would be supplied where needed.

Nearby Areas Also Report Need for Nursery Schools

Committees Set Up in Montgomery, Prince Georges and Alexandria to Help Solve Problem

By SUSAN B. ANTHONY II. The lack of nursery school facilities for children of working mothers is causing a serious problem in nearby Maryland and Virginia as well as in the District, according to polls made in Montgomery and Alexandria, Prince Georges Counties and in Alexandria.

Citizens in these areas have set up child care committees and are trying to get either Lanham Act or WPB funds for nursery schools.

In Montgomery County the Child Care Committee, headed by Mrs. Wesley McCune, has placed 54 preschool children in nursery schools or private homes or has found maids for parents. Since August 3 the committee has conducted a counseling service each morning in the Montgomery County Building, Silver Spring.

Trained Workers Volunteer. Trained social workers volunteer their time to give advice to working mothers on where to leave their pre-school children. The committee keeps a file of the few nursery schools in the county, a list of homes where foster care can be provided, a list of special schools for special children and of boarding homes run by the State. Mothers who want advice can call Shepherd 1554 between 9 a. m. and 12 noon. Evening appointments for consultation can be made.

Mrs. McCune and the committee chairman for the Silver Spring area, Mrs. Lincoln Fairley, have led the movement in the county to get Lanham Act funds for nursery schools.

School officials have recognized the problem and may offer a child-care course in the high schools. Schools for children of registered nurses would greatly relieve the problem of staffing the new 160-bed hospital in the Bethesda-Chevy Chase area which was recently announced by the Federal Works Agency, members of the Suburban Hospital Association, Inc., believe.

Randolph G. Bishop, president of the board of the association, said plans were being developed to establish a nursery or play school in connection with the hospital for children of available nurses. Mothers who are registered and who are interested in the plan are asked to call Mrs. Frank R. Garfield at Wisconsin 5302.

800 Questionnaires Sent Out. In Alexandria 800 questionnaires have been sent to working mothers to determine the specific type of care needed and locations. The Alexandria Committee on the Day Care for Children is directed by Mrs. Robert Lyle and Miss Barbara Watkins, who is also in charge of welfare services of the Alexandria OGD and is director of the Alexandria Department of Welfare.

650,000 Marylanders Registered in Draft. BALTIMORE, Sept. 17.—Selective Service officials yesterday reported more than 650,000 Marylanders had been registered in the two years operation of the Selective Service System.

The number drafted from Maryland in the second year was 200 per cent more than the number inducted in the first year, said Col. Henry C. Stanwood, director.

County Appoints 5 Candidates for Charter Board

Commissioners Name Three Who Have Opposed Move

Five candidates for election to a proposed charter board which would study changes in the government of Montgomery County have been nominated by the Board of County Commissioners.

A referendum on the question of whether the board shall be established will be held coincident with the election on November 3 if petitions now before the Board of Elections Supervisors are found to be in order.

The commissioners' action was taken at a special session at Rockville yesterday. Three of those nominated already are on record as opposed to a charter form of government, a fourth is the leader of charter proponents and the other nominee has not publicly committed himself.

Farm Agent Named. Joseph A. Cantrell, counsel to the commissioners, and Bond Smith, counsel to the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, both of whom have bitterly assailed the efforts of those seeking a change to a charter form of government, were among the five nominated.

Another nominee is Roger J. Whiteford, attorney, who told a recent meeting of the Congress of the United Democratic Organization of the County that "the charter form of government for Montgomery County won't let you keep a democracy."

The others are Allen H. Gardner, chairman of the County Charter Committee which has led all efforts to bring about a study of proposed changes in government, and Otto W. Anderson, county agricultural agent, who so far has remained aloof from the controversy.

The commissioners' action was taken a day after Mr. Garner had presented the petitions to the election supervisors. The names on the petition are now being checked.

GOP Member Absent. The only Republican member of the Board of County Commissioners, Walter Johnson, was absent yesterday, and John E. Oxley, anti-organization Democrat, voted against the nominations because he said a majority of those selected "would naturally oppose any change proposed by the Charter Committee."

The remaining members, all Democrats, voted for the nominations. They are Board President Thomas E. Hampton, R. Watt Farmer and O. W. Roby.

Mr. Hampton said that in addition to naming Mr. Gardner and Mr. Anderson, whom the commissioners regarded as the most capable and best-informed farm agent in the State, "we have nominated three experienced and capable attorneys, all of whom have first-hand knowledge of governmental practices and problems in Montgomery County and the District of Columbia."

He added that "we believe the drafting of the new constitution or charter for the county is primarily a task for lawyers with real experience in affairs of local government."

Oxley Opposes Action. Mr. Oxley said he did not believe it proper for the county commissioners, who have opposed the charter movement, to nominate a slate that is made up predominantly of organization Democrats.

"If I should vote for such a list of candidates, I would feel like a lawyer hired to defend a man and at the same time doing everything possible to help the prosecution," he declared.

Cuddle Duck Bib Set

By Peggy Roberts

It's time to begin thinking of making the family's Christmas presents, for this is certainly a year for ingenuity and economy. First on the list is baby, who is pleased with so little, but who really rates the best. A soft flannel or terry cloth cuddle-duck will keep baby happy for hours at a time and coupled with a practical bib to match, you have a gift to delight any youngster.

Pattern envelope contains hot-iron transfers for duck and bib; color chart, stitch illustrations and full directions.

Vice President Wallace Joins Family in Iowa

New Chinese and Colombian Ambassadors To Become Members of Diplomatic Corps

The Vice President, Mr. Henry A. Wallace, has joined Mrs. Wallace in their Iowa home, where they are having a small family reunion with his mother, Mrs. Henry C. Wallace, widow of the former Secretary of Agriculture. Mr. Wallace's father served in the cabinet of President Harding and with Mrs. Wallace made many friends in the Capital. Mrs. Henry A. Wallace and her daughter, Miss Jean Wallace, went West several weeks ago and with the Vice President expect to be back in their attractive apartment at Wardman Park Hotel before the first of October. Miss Wallace then will resume her studies at college.

Members of the diplomatic corps who have been enjoying brief vacations are turning their steps Washington-ward in preparation for the autumn and winter season. And there are numerous changes in the personnel of the corps. There will be new Ambassadors from China and Colombia and there are changes among members of embassy staffs as well. There is no date set for the departure of either the present Chinese Ambassador, Dr. Hu Shih, or the Colombian Ambassador, Senor Dr. Gabriel Turbay. China has selected its new representative, Dr. Tao Ming Wei, who with Mrs. Wei is in New York for the remainder of this month but no choice will be made to fill the post of Colombian Ambassador until Dr. Turbay returns to his homeland and assumes his new duties as Minister of Foreign Affairs. After his departure and until the new representative of the Colombian President arrives the First Secretary of the Embassy, Senor Don Alberto Vargas Narino, will be charge d'affaires.

The Danish Minister and Mme. de Kauffmann, with their two daughters, Tilde and Lisa de Kauffmann, will be back before the first of next week. Mme. de Kauffmann and her daughters are in New York staying at the Waldorf after spending the summer in New England. Mme. de Kauffmann has made one or two trips back to Washington since she went to New England with her daughters early in the summer, but they have been brief.

The Swiss Minister and Mme. Bruggmann and their sons are back from a three-week vacation in the North Carolina mountains. The first vacation for the Minister since he took over his post here. The Minister and Mme. Bruggmann are among the few diplomats who have had their own garden this summer and at the present Mme. Bruggmann is deep in the work of canning tomatoes from her garden.

The Australian Minister and Lady Dixon will be hosts late Saturday entertaining in honor of Gen. Edward Kenneth Smart, retiring head of the Australian Military Mission, and his successor, Gen. Vernon Sturdee. Gen. Smart has been several months and the guests will be those he has known and worked with during his stay here. The party also will serve to introduce Gen. Sturdee. The guests are asked after 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Harry Hopkins To Be Hostess at Service Canteen

Mrs. Harry Hopkins will continue her efforts in war work in Washington, having played an active part in New York before her marriage earlier in the summer. She has accepted a post as senior hostess for the American Theater Wing of the Stage Door Canteen and met with others in this group yesterday afternoon in the Shubert-Belasco Theater.

The canteen will open in that theater Saturday, September 26, and others who have accepted posts with Mrs. Hopkins are Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Mrs. Paul V. McNutt, Mrs. Royal Ingersoll, Mrs. Thomas K. Finletter, formerly Miss Gretchen Damrosch; Mrs. R. Golden Donaldson, formerly Miss Frances Starr; Mrs. William E. Borah, Mrs. Albert L. Cox, Mrs. Edward Hayes and Mrs. Archibald Engel. These hostesses met yesterday and others who will join them after the opening of the canteen are Mrs. Leland Lovette, Mrs. R. H. Grant, Mrs. Harvey Delano, Mrs. Genevieve Tobin Keighly, Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, Mrs. Claude Pepper and Mrs. Martin Vogel.

Mrs. Lawrence Langner is director of the canteen and presided at the meeting yesterday. She explained that the canteen will be open daily from 5 o'clock in the afternoon until midnight and will provide entertainment and light meals to all servicemen of the United Nations. The duties of the senior hostesses were outlined. Those who attended the meeting yesterday will be a committee whose first work will be the enrollment of others interested in serving at the canteen.

Leaving for Beach

Mr. Ralph E. Heitmuller will leave this week end to join Mrs. Heitmuller and their children at Rehoboth Beach, Del., where they will close their summer home and return to Washington the following week to place their three young sons in school.

Marilyn Bauer Is Married to C. H. Davis, Jr.

Woodside Methodist Church Is Scene Of Wedding

One of the loveliest weddings of the early fall took place last evening at the Woodside Methodist Church when Miss Marilyn Bauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence William Bauer of Aspin, Md., became the bride of Mr. Courtland Harwell Davis, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Courtland Harwell Davis of Alexandria, Va. The candlelight ceremony took place at 8 o'clock with Dr. W. E. Putt of Green Springs, Ohio, grandfather of the bride, officiating, assisted by Dr. Ralph D. Smith, pastor of the church.

White gladioluses, fern and palms decorated the candlelight altar and tall cathedral candles, tied with white satin bows, marked the pews. While the guests were assembling Miss June Fulk of Bethesda sang "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly."

Wearing a gown of white satin made with a long fitted bodice, long sleeves and a full skirt with a graceful train, the bride was given in marriage by her father. The low round neckline of the dress had a collar of Duchesse and rose point lace brought from Bruges, Belgium, some years ago, and her short veil of tulle was held by a tulle bow and trimmed in seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses with a white orchid in the center.

Miss Jeanne Bauer, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of periwinkle blue satin, fashioned with a very full tiered skirt and a fitted bodice. Her shoulder-length veil of matching tulle was held by a white bow of the same shade and she carried an arm bouquet of Picardy gladioluses.

Miss Elaine Davis of Alexandria, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Polly Clark of Silver Spring were the bridesmaids, wearing gowns of Picardy-colored satin made like that of the maid of honor and wearing veils to match. Their arm bouquets were of lavender bouillie and yellow gladioluses.

Mr. Robert MacGowan of Alexandria was best man and the ushers were Mr. Oliver Ryder, Mr. Harris Wayland, Mr. William Meeks and Mr. Samuel Meeks, all of Alexandria. Following the wedding a reception was held at Hayden Farm. Mrs. Bauer wore a plum-colored gown trimmed with velvet of the same shade and a corsage of tallman roses and lilies. Mrs. Davis, mother of the bridegroom, was in blue-gray crepe and wore tallman roses.

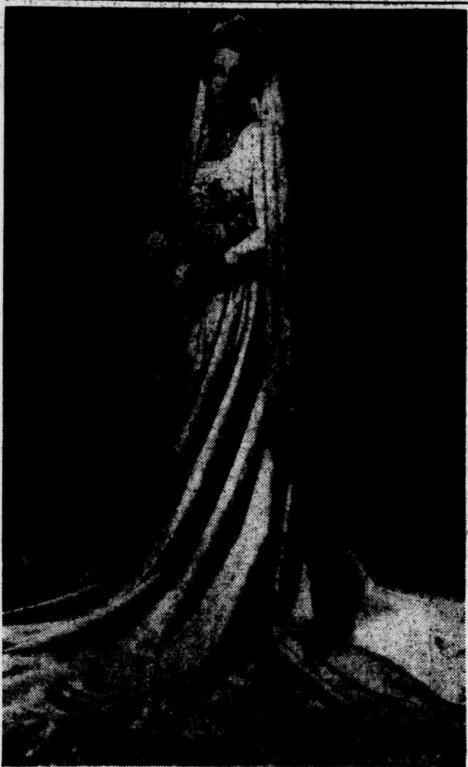

Immediately after the reception the couple left on a wedding trip to Sea Island, Ga., the bride wearing a distinctive suit of gray velveteen, with a gray velveteen hat and matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

After October 1 they will make their home in Charlottesville, Va., where Mr. Davis will resume his studies at the University of Virginia.

The bride is a graduate of National Park College and a member of Phi Delta Psi Sorority. Mr. Davis was graduated from George Washington University and is now attending medical school at the University of Virginia.

Besides Dr. Putt, other out-of-town guests were Mrs. Putt, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Renz of Cincinnati and Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Rolle and their son, Mr. Richard Rolle, of New York.

MRS. CHESTER ADGATE CONGDON II. —Turgeon-Weeks Photo

Miss Madelaine King Becomes Bride of Lt. C. A. Congdon II

The past few days have seen a number of weddings of interest to residents of Washington, one of which took place yesterday in St. Johns Church, when Miss Madelaine Crayder King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Ture King, became the bride of Lt. Chester Adgate Congdon II, U. S. A. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bannister Congdon of Duluth, Minn. Miss King and her father, Lt. King, were in the service during the war. The Rev. F. Ernest Warren officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory brocade made with a fitted bodice and full skirt which ended in a long train. Her veil of antique Belgian lace is a family heirloom worn by several brides in her family. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis.

Mrs. Harry Barrett Henn was matron of honor, wearing a gown of rose faille taffeta and carrying an arm bouquet of delphinium and rose colored chrysanthemums tied with a blue ribbon.

The maid of honor, Miss Jean Franz of Mount Holly, N. J., wore a gown similar to that of the matron of honor as were her flowers.

Miss Clara Bannister Congdon and Miss Caroline Woodward Congdon, sisters of the bridegroom, were the bridesmaids. Their French blue fall gowns were made like those of the other attendants and their flowers, tied with rose ribbons, were also matching.

Mr. Eric Ture King, Jr., brother of the bride, was best man and the ushers were Mr. Dana Chapman Rood, Jr., of Independence, Kans.; Mr. James T. McAndrews of Chicago and Arlington, Mr. Thomas H. Darling and Dr. Pinckney J. Harman, both of Washington.

After October 1 they will make their home in Charlottesville, Va., where Mr. Davis will resume his studies at the University of Virginia.

Besides Dr. Putt, other out-of-town guests were Mrs. Putt, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Renz of Cincinnati and Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Rolle and their son, Mr. Richard Rolle, of New York.

By the Way—

Beth Blaine

With more and more professional labor being siphoned into war industries, it will soon be necessary for home owners to do a good bit of their own repairing—or not have it done at all. Most women have a natural bent for using their hands. It doesn't take them long to learn the proper use of tools—how to repair that old broken chair, that leaky plumbing, the fresh paint job or that falling plaster. The American Women's Voluntary Services has a night class which is called the Home Repairs Course. It gives instruction on plumbing, carpentry, electricity and painting. It meets at the AWVS headquarters twice a week, every Tuesday and Friday evening from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock. The complete course is 12 hours of instruction, and the instructors are men ably qualified to teach these women how to take care of and lengthen the working life of useful equipment already at hand.

MISS MURIEL HINDS. —Underwood & Underwood Photo.

Director of the night training school is good looking British-born Miss Muriel Hinds. By day she holds a responsible job with the National Geographic Society—where she has been since she first came to the States in 1930. She is now an American citizen, as is her father who fought with the British in the last war and went through most of the Blitz in London in the present one. She's extremely able and executive and very popular with the women who work under her.

Assistant Director of the night training school is attractive Miss Maria Sutherland who was with the AWVS in New York and transferred to the Washington AWVS when she came here to work with the graphics division in the office of war information. She's done quite a bit of sculpturing as a hobby, but now she is turning her artistic talents to more practical use in the research work she's doing in connection with war time posters.

Miss Sadie Morris, who has practiced law in New York and is in Washington doing some legal work for the Government, is class chairman for this particular group. She's a member of the class herself and a very enthusiastic one. Mary Hornaday, just back from Des Moines where she's been writing about the activities of the WAACS, could hardly wait to get started on the Home Repairs Course. She is going to be one of the most efficient, say her instructors.

Frances Penn, who is a member of the Civilian Protection Unit is taking the course on the side and loves it. She's just bought all the necessary equipment and tools and is busy making herself a bookcase for her Washington apartment.

There are loads of other interesting women all loving the lectures and the classes. Probably the most popular class was the instruction in plumbing night before last. If you've tried to get a plumber in a hurry, you'll know that it would be a nice thing to have someone who knew something about plumbing repairs right in your own home—or better still to know something about it yourself. Well, you can! All you have to do is to give up two hours of your time and the AWVS does the rest for you!

Miss Lyons Wed

Mrs. Virgil Tancill Lyons announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Helen Mae Lyons, to Mr. James Edward Durant. The marriage took place Saturday in Falls Church. Mr. and Mrs. Durant will be at home after October 1 at 120 Cameron road, Falls Church.

Betrothal Announced

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Whitt of Greensboro, N. C., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marie Whitt, to Mr. Ronald Underwood of Oark, Ill. The wedding will take place October 25.

Mrs. J. M. Hammond Back in Bethesda

Mrs. James M. Hammond is back in Bethesda after a month's vacation in Bainbridge, Ga. Before leaving Bainbridge last week Mrs. Hammond was honor guest at a farewell dinner party, given at the Sportsman's Club by Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Haddon of Bainbridge. There were 88 guests at the dinner.

Mrs. Hammond's son, Mr. Boen Evans Belcher, who went with his mother to Georgia, remained there to enter the armed forces.

Colorful Style Show Tomorrow Will Aid Work of AWVS

Mrs. Francis Biddle, Mrs. Frank C. Walker and Mrs. Jesse H. Jones, wives of cabinet officers, are among those who have taken tables and boxes for the fashion show tomorrow afternoon which will benefit the work of the American Women's Voluntary Services. In addition to the smartest of fashions to be on parade, there will be prizes, one of the new frocks, hats, shoes and even a cosmetics kit as well as a permanent wave.

Mrs. Randall H. Hagner is chairman of the Committee on Arrangements and although Mrs. M. Lowrie McCandless has had charge of the tickets the few remaining may be had at the door of the Mayflower ballroom when the show begins at 4:30 o'clock.

Others reserving vantage points for the event tomorrow are Senora de Martins, wife of the Brazilian Ambassador; Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, who has given her table to Lady Lewis as she is remaining on Long Island a bit longer; Mrs. Peter Goelt Gerry, Miss Paulita Guffy, Mrs. Emory Scott Land, Mrs. Francis Cooney, Mrs. John R. Williams, Mrs. James Lawrence Houghtaling, Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, Mrs. Francis Freed, Mrs. Mae Hamilton, Mrs. Henry Miller, Mrs. Ralph Snowden Hill and Mrs. M. Robert Guggenheim, who with Col. Guggenheim recently returned from the West. Serving with Mrs. Hagner on the committee are Mrs. Angier B. Duke, Mrs. Warren Lee Pierson, Mrs. Fearon Rust, Mrs. Palmer Dixon and Mrs. Lawrence Wood Robert, Jr.

The wedding will take place Saturday, October 16, in the Presbyterian Church in Decatur, Ga., and Representative Ramspeck will join his family there a day or so before the ceremony.

Mrs. Dunson, wife of Ensign Jarrell Midley Dunson, Jr., U. S. N. R., who was Miss Dorothy Ramspeck before her marriage March 1, also will join her parents and sister in Decatur for the wedding. She now is at New London, Conn.

Soroptimists Hear Australian Military Aide

Officer Says Women Of His Country Are Regimented

Women of Australia in the war effort and a great many of them, some over 60 years of age, do heavy manual labor in munitions factories, Lt. Col. George Sutton of the Australian Military Mission told members of the Soroptimist Club yesterday.

"Our women work at sheer hard labor," he said, "but they have been regimented like the rest of the nation, so that the best abilities of every individual are used to greatest advantage."

Forty-five members and their guests attended the weekly luncheon at the Willard Hotel. Miss Estelle Zirkin, president, presided, and Mrs. Eleanor Lee introduced the speaker. "A tremendous army of women labor in the munitions factories," Lt. Col. Sutton continued. "They are doing magnificent work. Many of them are women in their 60s. After a day in the factory they are filthy, weary, grimy and sometimes a little dejected. If the war lasts long enough—and I think it will—it will also happen here in the United States that everybody will be regimented until each man, woman and child is doing active war work."

Lt. Col. Sutton likened the Australian people to Americans in their hospitality and willingness to "meet the other fellow halfway." All consumer articles, such as fuel, gasoline, clothing and food are rationed in Australia. Gasoline is down to three gallons a month or 60 miles of driving. The government eventually wants automobiles to be used only in emergencies and for essential driving, he said.

"We entertain many thousands of American troops in our country, we feed these American troops, and we feed them adequately and well, although I hear they sometimes become 'fed up' on mutton."

Mrs. Mary Catherine Lewis, chairman of the Soroptimist Club's evening at the Stage Door Canteen, informed club members that for one evening in October they will be responsible for feeding 2,000 men in uniform at the old Belasco Theater. The following committee chairmen will assist her: Misses Mary Bourke and Mary Turner, food and kitchen; Misses Peggy Statham and Eleanor Austin, Men's Committee, and Misses Agnes Cady, Celia Stach, Mildred Clum and Sallie Dillard, food donations and delivery. Senior hostesses will be Misses Loraine Good, Jean Bennett and Elinor Lee, and the Junior hostesses will be Misses Florence Mearo, Isabel Peterson and Zada Daniels.

Miss Ruth Fernler, soprano, sang at the meeting yesterday, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Jewell Downes. It was announced that a young Norwegian who escaped from a Gestapo prison in Norway will address the club at its next meeting.

Dietitian Elected

Miss F. Louise Hagel, consultant dietitian at the Washington Medical Building, has been elected president of the District Dietetic Association. Her assistants are Miss Mary Warmuth, president-elect, who will take office on expiration of Miss Hagel's two-year term; Miss Louise Clark, treasurer, and Miss Alice Latson, secretary. Miss Warmuth is associated with Providence Hospital, Miss Clark with Mount Alto Hospital and Miss Latson with Children's Hospital.

U. S. A. 'Land of Plenty,' Says Visitor From England

By Frances Lide.

Accustomed to life in England after three years of war, Mrs. Frances Nowlin Head says her impressions of this country since her return last week are of a "land of plenty."

To one who hasn't seen a lemon, grapefruit or banana for

Mrs. Head finds herself standing in front of the fruit counters simply staring in admiration.

Peaches were selling in England when she left at $1.20 each and although she saw oranges occasionally they were only for children.

"I asked my green grocer who bought his peaches and he said they were usually sold for such purposes as delicacies for invalids," she said.

In New York, where she spent two days after arriving by clipper, Mrs. Head was dazzled by the "brightness" of the nightly dim-out. She has become so accustomed to total blackouts that when she goes out in the evening in England, she doesn't bother to carry a torch.

To see private cars in use seems strange after England and Mrs. Head is amazed at the size of our newspapers. Most London papers are down to three sheets, although the London Times usually has five, she said. Even our sugar rationing has her puzzled, for everywhere she's eaten she has found either bowls or sugar on the tables or a seemingly unlimited amount of lump sugar.

Secretary to the Press Attache of the American Embassy in London, Mrs. Head is making her first visit home in nearly eight years. She had booked sailing for home leave in August, 1939, but after England declared war all leaves were canceled. Stopping at the clubhouse of the American Association of University Women during her stay in the Capital, she plans to leave on Monday to visit her parents in Kansas City.

An admirer of the English for their "great ability to improvise," Mrs. Head describes such interesting sights in London as farming allotments in the parks, window boxes filled with tomato plants, ducks swimming about on "static water" tanks—the tanks being there to help fight incendiary bombs—and people raising chickens in coops on their roof tops.

All the smart squares and parks are used for gardens these days, she says—and she is familiar with the sight of a group of firemen working a farming allotment in Hyde Park.

You still see plenty of clothes in London shops, but she says they are very expensive and when the current stock gives out "utility clothes" will be the rule. These are designed according to government regulations and are "very wearable," she says. But on the whole, she added, clothes don't matter very much.

After this month, she said, there will be no ice cream in England. Cream went off the market three years ago.

In her position at the American Embassy Mrs. Head sees many of the visiting newspaper people and shortly before she left had luncheon with Esther Van Wagener Tufty, former president of the Women's National Press Club, now speaking and writing on a "goodwill tour" in England.

Mrs. Head, who has lived in various parts of the world and is the author of a children's book on China, hasn't done any writing since the war began.

But she's kept a scrapbook on important events since three days before the war and makes regular notations in a personal diary.

One of her latest entries records the fact that one of London's famous old streets is now known as "Jeep street," for it houses a contingent of American soldiers who dart back and forth in the Army bank cars.

DAR to Broadcast On Constitution

"What the Constitution Means to You Today" is the subject to be discussed on a special Constitution Day radio program to be broadcast by the District Daughters of the American Revolution over Station WDCB at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The program has been arranged by the DAR Radio Committee and the guest speakers will be Mrs. Geoffrey Creyke, State regent, and Mrs. Wilfred J. Clearman, State historian, who will be introduced by Mrs. Edgar B. Merritt, State chairman of radio in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Creyke will preside tonight at the Constitution Day celebration in the garden of the Chapter House at 1732 Massachusetts avenue. Mrs. Clearman has arranged the program.

Plan Box Social

Members of the Washington League of Women Shoppers and their friends will attend a box social at 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Wilson, 4800 U street N.W. Each guest will bring a box lunch for two, which will be auctioned off. Proceeds will benefit the league. There will be camp fire singing and cider will be made on the grounds from freshly picked apples.

In case of rain the supper will be held Sunday.

Sorority to Meet

Mrs. Patricia McGrath will preside at the first meeting of the season of Kappa Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, at 8 o'clock tonight at 710 Fourteenth street N.W.

Netherlands Mission Asks U. S. to Help Replace Lost Ships

Special Group Looks To Rehabilitation of Nation in Europe

The Netherlands government has been seeking replacements from the United States for its merchant marine losses, it was disclosed here today, but the American Government is still hesitant about making this sort of agreement.

Dr. M. P. L. Steenberghe, former Netherlands Minister of Trade and now the chairman of the new Netherlands economic, financial and shipping mission, revealed the ship negotiations at a press conference which announced the establishment of his mission.

The British government has supplied the Dutch with a number of ships, he said. The Dutch tonnage is now 2,000,000, with a good many of the vessels chartered to United States service.

Looks to Reconstruction.

The special task of the mission will be to prepare for the economic reconstruction of the Netherlands in Europe. Dr. Steenberghe said. He met the press at the Dutch Embassy, in company with Dr. G. H. C. Hart, vice chairman of the mission, and the Netherlands Ambassador, Dr. Alexander London.

The mission will open an office in a few days at 1620 Belmont street N.W.

The chairman thought the post-war reconstruction of the Netherlands would bring a system where the Government exercised a greater control over domestic economy than in the past. There can be no reconstruction, he said, without co-operation among all the United Nations.

Dr. Hart, former secretary general of the Netherlands Ministry for Colonies, is head of the mission's Board for the Netherlands Indies, Surinam and Curacao.

This board is to buy machinery and other equipment for restoration of communications by sea, land and air to the Indies, now under Japanese control, and for rebuilding factories and other installations destroyed by the enemy or by the Indies government.

Members of Board.

Dr. Steenberghe will preside over the board for the Netherlands, whose members include also:

B. Klein Mookkamp, the Netherlands Minister here; F. C. A. van der Steen, former chairman of the Netherlands Indies Maritime Commission; Capt. Cornelius Brouwer; E. A. H. Peters, agricultural attaché, Netherlands Embassy; A. H. Phillips, head of economic policy division; Aug. Philips, Netherlands Ministry of Finance; D. M. de Smit, former head of shipping division, Netherlands Ministry of Trade, Industry and Shipping.

Dr. Hart's colleagues are: E. C. Zimmerman, chairman of the Netherlands Purchasing Commission; P. H. W. Sitsen, head of the industrial services in the Netherlands Indies; Dr. P. Homig, director of rubber research in the Netherlands Indies; Raden Loekman Djajadiningrat, director of education in Netherlands Indies, and Dr. A. Smits, managing director of the Java Bank.

FBI Says Nazi Suspect's Photo Is Authentic

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The Federal Bureau of Investigation yesterday termed "entirely unfounded" the contention of a German father that a picture of his son in a Nazi uniform—released by the Justice Department and distributed by the Associated Press wirephoto—was a "phony."

The son, Helmut Leiner, is under Federal charges of being an aide of the eight Nazi saboteurs—six of whom have been executed—landed from submarines.

The father, Felix Leiner, Astoria, Long Island, sent letters to several newspapers and to Attorney General Biddle declaring the department's photograph was "phony," and called Mr. Biddle's release of the picture as a "cheap trick" to forestall a "fair trial" for his son.

The FBI said the picture was "unquestionably the same Helmut Leiner now being held for trial."

The FBI made a thorough investigation of charges challenging the authenticity of the photograph, said P. E. Foxworth, assistant FBI director, and found the charges entirely unfounded.

"Helmut Leiner, himself, looked at the picture and identified himself as one of the two men wearing Nazi uniforms in the photograph."

Pinch in Manpower Forecasts Woman Motormen, Bus Drivers

Washington and other American cities yet may see their streetcars operated by "motorwomen," with "conductresses" collecting the fares. Buses also may have feminine chauffeurs.

The Office of Defense Transportation is making a study of the possibility of replacing men with women in various forms of transportation.

At the Capital Transit Co. it was said today that to date there were no plans to replace any male streetcar or bus operators with women. But it is growing increasingly difficult to obtain men for street vehicles and interurban buses in most sections of the country.

In connection with its investigation of transportation manpower, ODT announced last night that it was making a first-hand study of the role women are playing in England's transportation system. And the study is being undertaken with a view of applying its lessons to this country if necessary.

Miss Dorothy M. Sells, chief of the ODT personnel supply section, will go to England for the survey, expected to take two months.

"It is inevitable that a great many women will be employed in transportation work in the United States, as more and more men are called into war industries and the armed services," Miss Sells said. "This

Encampment Ending Today May Be Last for GAR

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 17.—A half-hundred Civil War veterans convened today for what probably will be the last formal national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

As the fighting men of '61 met to elect a national commander, members of various affiliated organizations expressed belief that no future GAR national encampments would be held.

Of the 50 Civil War veterans attending this year's meeting four marched in the annual parade yesterday. Most of the veterans are nearing or over the 100-year mark in age.

The various organizations affiliated with the GAR also were to conclude their business sessions today with election of officers.

Second Front Urged In Petition of Women

A petition calling for the immediate opening of a second front in Europe has been presented to President Roosevelt by Sylvia Beisscher, president of the United Federal Workers' Auxiliary, affiliated with the Congress of Women's Auxiliaries. It was announced yesterday.

The petition, signed by more than 100 women, declares that the signers are willing to make all the necessary sacrifices for carrying out such an offensive.

OPA Considers Higher Food Price Ceilings Under New Formula

Industry Representatives Confer Here to Remove Price Squeeze Handicaps

Increases on a number of food products on which ceiling prices already have been fixed were under consideration today at the Office of Price Administration.

At the same time, OPA was reported to be reviewing a suggestion that its entire formula for fixing maximum food prices be "overhauled."

Changes in the method of fixing maximum ceiling prices first were suggested at an all-day conference at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday of 20 leaders of the food industry, appointed last June by Price Administrator Leon Henderson to serve as a national food advisory committee to work with OPA in the solution of problems and adjustments under the Government's general maximum price regulation.

Seeks to Prevent Squeeze. While details of the proposed new formula were not disclosed, it is designed, it was said, to preclude a price squeeze on wholesalers and retailers such as occurred when the existing ceiling prices on food products were fixed by OPA. In that instance, it was pointed out, both wholesalers and retailers had agreed to make purchases at higher prices six to eight months before the ceiling prices were set, and as a result had to take a loss on the products contracted for in advance.

The committee, which was appointed by Mr. Henderson for the specific purpose of working out a full and complete solution of the problem of the food industry in a spirit of mutual understanding, is understood to have heard at its meeting yesterday the fundamental principles of the proposed new formula.

Alternative pricing methods are reported to be the basis of the formula. Such an alternative schedule, it was pointed out, would cover the normal "time lag" between wholesale and retail operations and keep wholesale and retail prices on an even keel.

The result would be, it was said, that wholesalers, instead of holding products for possible higher prices, would release them to the retail markets and replenish the shelves in the retail stores of familiar brands of canned goods in particular, which are fast disappearing because wholesalers are holding up the 1942 pack in the hope of recovering losses on the 1941 pack due to arbitrary price ceilings.

Members on Committee. The committee was recruited largely from special representatives who had been working in conjunction with various war agencies. Its members include P. M. Brinker of Dallas and D. E. Robinson of Pittsburgh, independent retailers; John T. Menzies of Baltimore, Austin Ingelhart and A. C. Reinhold of New York, packers and manufacturers; E. N. Richmond of San Jose, Calif., and H. L. Cannon of Bridgeville, Del., canners; Jack Wilson of Cambridge, Mass., representing soap and shortening manufacturers; Fred C. Charlevoix, Pa., and Frank J. Grimes of Chicago, representing a voluntary group of wholesalers; W. H. Albers of Cincinnati and Sidney Rabinowitz of Boston, representing super markets; Alfred Dorman of Statesboro, Ga., and A. C. McGuire of McKeesport, Pa., representing small independent wholesalers; William B. Mackey of Philadelphia and Francis Whitmarsh of New York, representing the larger independent wholesalers; William D. Miller of Chicago and Leon J. Johnson of the District, representing co-operative distributors, and Hunter Phelan of Norfolk and Ralph Burkhard of Somerville, Mass., representing proprietary chains.

2 A.M. Classes to Train Aircraft Workers

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—Class bells will ring at 2 a.m. next week on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California in 26 tool engineering courses for aircraft wing shift workers.

"The need for additional technical personnel is so urgent that the university has waived all campus regulations to permit these 'dawn patrol' classes," said Prof. Thomas A. Watson, supervisor of war training courses in tool engineering.

Perfectly Mated... Yet

PERFECTLY MISERABLE—she's lost her husband's love through "one neglect"—carelessness about feminine hygiene (intimate personal cleanliness). Today, so many modern wives use Lysol disinfectant for this purpose. It cleanses fast, thoroughly, and deodorizes, too. Yet it's so gentle it won't harm sensitive vaginal tissues—just follow easy directions. Costs so little. Write to Lehn & Fink, Bloomfield, N. J., for FREE Feminine Hygiene Booklet WA-5 (in plain wrapper).

Red Cross Committee Plans for Rally to Recruit Nurses' Aides

Mrs. Roosevelt to Speak at Meeting Scheduled On September 25

Plans for the Red Cross nurses' aide recruiting rally to be held at the Departmental Auditorium Friday, September 25, were discussed at a meeting of the Working Committee in the Walsh House, 2020 Massachusetts avenue, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Harry Hopkins, chairman of the Program Committee, reported that she is ready to have 1,300 programs printed for the rally. Mrs. Hopkins, who is doing volunteer nursing at Columbia Hospital, appeared in her nurse's aide uniform.

The rally has as its main purpose recruiting nurses' aides in the District to help relieve the serious shortage of trained nurses. These aides do non-professional work in the wards and must take the Red Cross nurses' aide course, in addition to passing a physical examination and performing practice work in hospitals.

Mrs. Edward A. St. John, chairman of the Working Committee, said District leaders have been invited to attend the rally, and that the presidents of 300 women's clubs, DAR chapters and parent-teacher associations have been urged to appoint four delegates to the rally. Young women will be registered as nurse's aide candidates from the floor at the meeting.

Mrs. Roosevelt will be the principal speaker at the rally. Mrs. Dwight Davis and Miss Mabel Boardman also will speak, and Mrs. Hopkins will describe her experiences as a nurse's aide.

Mrs. David Yerkes announced that 200 posters publicizing the rally will be distributed in various sections of Washington. The Red Cross Motor Corps will deliver the posters to nurses' aides to be placed in stores and other public places.

Rationing Cuts Accidents

VICTORIA, British Columbia (AP)—Auto accidents are running about 25 per cent below those of 1941 and officials attribute the drop to rationing of gasoline and tires and imposition of a 40-mile speed limit. The number of personal injuries and the amount of property damage show even greater declines.

New Rubber Czar Has Traits Needed to Do a Tough Job

Jeffers, Rail Executive, Has Regard For Men Who Wear Overalls

By Wide World.
OMAHA, Sept. 17.—The Nation's new rubber czar and the giant locomotives that roar over the tracks of the railroad he directs both have the power it takes to haul a tough load to its destination.
William M. Jeffers, choice of President Roosevelt and War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson to direct the rubber program, even looks like a locomotive.
He is big and husky. He weighs more than 200 pounds and is just one inch under six feet.
But 66-year-old Mr. Jeffers, who rose from a $15-a-month Union Pacific call boy to president of the railroad in 1937, is no machine. He has never lost his touch with the man in overalls and they love him for the way he speaks for them.
His most recent declaration in that regard came after he observed what he believed was too many "society folks" getting recognition in the administrative work of the Red Cross.

Backbone of Democracy.
He sat down and wrote National Red Cross Chairman Norman Davis that if the Red Cross was to do its job, the people who eat in the kitchen must be permitted to take some of the bows along with the socialites.
"The backbone of this democracy still eats in the kitchen," was his succinct remark to Mr. Davis. And the Red Cross chairman responded by calling on local chapters to give the working man more representation on administrative boards.
Conservative members of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce were surprised when Mr. Jeffers suggested "the little fellows, who in reality are the big men," be given a part in chamber activities. He purchased 10 memberships in the chamber for representative conductors, brakemen, engineers and other clerical and operations Union Pacific employees.

Got Letters of Protest.
Bernard Baruch, in his report on the rubber situation, said that unless the needs are met the country faces military and civilian disaster. That's another way of declaring unless the problem is solved Hitler and his allies will win.
But back in 1939, Mr. Jeffers was saying "Hitler isn't going to win this war and we should tell him we're going to see that he doesn't win."
Mr. Jeffers' comments brought him hundreds of letters of protest, but Mr. Jeffers stood his ground. He knew there was a war to win and America had a part to play in the victory.

And now, given a job that may mean the difference between victory and defeat, Mr. Jeffers plans to administer it in the same way he has handled many a tough assignment. In his own words:
"When you want to find out what's going on, you go out and ride the rails. You talk to the man who runs the machine, the section foreman, the man who's doing the job. I make it a practice to find out what's needed, then open the throttle."

Quit School at 14.
Mr. Jeffers, born in North Platte, Neb., January 2, 1876, quit school when he was 14 to help support his family. He took a job as call boy for the Union Pacific Railroad. Later he became a telegrapher and a clerk in the maintenance of way department.

Gradually he climbed to more important posts. He became general manager in 1916 and one year later was named general superintendent. He was promoted to executive vice president in 1932 and became president in 1937.
The problems he must solve are many and technical. He'll be the complete boss. He must reorganize, consolidate and administer all the efforts of the Government to alleviate the rubber shortage.

He must work out a 100,000-ton increase in Bufiledine output to come into production in six months. He must direct building of facilities for production of 100,000,000 gallons of alcohol for use in the synthetic rubber program.

His "Worry" Henceforth.
He must boost synthetic production to the point where it will be possible to relax restrictions on civilian driving. Above all, he must meet military needs.

But Mr. Jeffers was told there was a job to do. The President and Mr. Nelson believe he is the man to do it. The 10,000 employees of the Union Pacific, a surprising num-

First-Aid Class Lacks Bandage for Cut Finger

By the Associated Press.
HUGO, Okla.—At one of these wartime first-aid classes Mike Hughes stuck his hand in the electric fan, lacerating three fingers.
Excitement was high, since no one had a bandage. Somebody suggested an emergency bandage from a petticoat, but there were no petticoats.
Finally, even as you, the first-aiders called a doctor.

Metal for Nine Planes Made by Man in Week

By the Associated Press.
VANCOUVER, Wash., Sept. 17.—Gul Selberg, 54-year-old potman at the Aluminum Co. of America's Vancouver plant, completed seven consecutive 16-hour shifts the last week, a company spokesman disclosed.
His 112 hours of work in seven days produced enough aluminum to build nine fighter planes.
"I have a son with the Navy somewhere in the Pacific," he explained. "I can't fight, but I can produce aluminum. Nine more planes today might end the war a day sooner and bring my son home a day earlier."

Alcoa officials believe Mr. Selberg set a national record.
"While such a long work week is definitely against the company's policy, we appreciate Selberg's voluntary efforts," David H. Beeten, superintendent of the reduction plant, said.
Working in rooms heated to between 135 and 140 degrees makes the potman's job one of the most difficult in the plant, company officials said. He tends the huge pots in which the reduced aluminum is melted before it is poured into pigs.
War bonds are an investment in America's future. Nothing in the world is safer today. Buy!

50 Eagle Squadron Members Shifted to Army Air Forces

Men Formerly Flying With RAF to Retain Identity in New Setup

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Sept. 17.—Fifty members of the American Eagle Squadrons were transferred from the Royal Air Force to the United States Army Air Forces in Europe yesterday, it was announced.
The text of the announcement follows:
"A board of senior American Air Force officers sitting as a reviewing body completed the transfer of 50 members of the Eagle Squadrons to the United States Army Air Forces, it was announced today at the United States headquarters of the European theater of operations.
Will Retain Identities.
"Eagle Squadrons Nos. 133, 121 and 71 are composed of American personnel which has been operating with the RAF for the past 18 months. Following the transfer of the personnel, the three squadrons will operate as a fighter group.

"Each squadron will retain its former identity and remain intact as an Eagle Squadron in the newly formed fighter group.
"Arrangements now are being completed for the transfer to the United States Air Force of all United States nationals now serving with the RAF and RCAF who desire to make application."
Assignments Announced.
The board announced the following assignments:
Executive operational officer of the group—Squadron Leader Chesley Gordon Peterson, Santaquin, Utah. Flying in 110 operational sweeps, he has shot down six enemy planes and wears the Distinguished Service Order and the Distinguished Flying Cross.
Commander 71st Eagle Squadron—Squadron Leader G. A. Daymond, Hollywood, Calif., one of the original members of the Eagle Squadron. He has been in 80 flights, has seven planes to his credit and wears the DFC with bar.
Commander 121st Eagle Squadron—Flight Lt. W. G. Daley, Amarillo, Tex. He has been in 110 sweeps and has shot down eight planes. He wears the DFC.
Commander 133d Eagle Squadron—Squadron Leader C. W. McCollip, Los Angeles. He has been in 80 sweeps, has nine enemy planes and wears the DFC.

25th Anniversary Of NFFE Celebrated By 'Family Party'

Steward, President and One of Organizers, Cuts Birthday Cake

Members of the National Federation of Federal Employees last night celebrated the 25th anniversary of its founding with a "family party" at the Willard which was climaxed by the traditional cutting of a birthday cake.
Luther C. Steward, national president since the early days of the federation, recalled the meeting here at which it came into existence as an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor. The constitution was approved on September 17, 1917. Mr. Steward was the only member of the organizing group present last night, although several of the other participants had been members of locals in existence at the time the federation was created. The federation now is an independent organization.
"The goals we set for ourselves in 1917 have been our goals until they were progressively realized,"

Mr. Steward said, adding that the federation had taken part in every movement since that day for improvements in Federal employment conditions.
On behalf of the membership, an oil painting of Urey J. Biller, veteran second vice president, an expert on retirement legislation, was presented to the national body. The presentation was made by Henry G. Nolda, president of Local 2, and in accepting the portrait President Steward recalled Mr. Biller's work for adequate retirement laws and declared that he had "lived to see the fruition of his labors."
Lewis H. Fisher, head of the retirement division of the Civil Service Commission; John J. Barrett, president of the United National Association of Post Office Clerks and chairman of the National Legislative Council, and Miss Gertrude McNally, secretary-treasurer of the federation, were other speakers. Several congratulatory telegrams were received and finally the cake was cut by President Steward.
The party was arranged by the

Francis P. Geoghegan Requiem Mass Is Set
A requiem mass for Francis P. Geoghegan, 25, who died Tuesday at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary R. Geoghegan, 627 Massachusetts avenue N.E., will be held at 9 a.m. tomorrow at St. Joseph's Church, Second and C streets N.E.

A native of Washington, Mr. Geoghegan was a graduate of St. John's College and had attended George Washington University. He had been employed by the United States Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Besides his mother, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary McCrehan

SHORT ACCOUNTANCY COURSE FOR WOMEN

Opportunities for women in accountancy are increasing in a proportion greater than the number of women accounting students. The war, with resulting expansion of business and government coupled with the induction of many men into the army, has increased this demand.
To meet this need we offer a short coordinated accounting and business law program which may be completed in one year in the day division or may be taken in evening classes. Basic Accountancy Certificate awarded at end of course may be applied toward requirements for B.C.S. degree.

George M. Cohan's Friends Relive Tender Memories

Vice President Wallace Makes His Film Debut In U. S. Victory Short

By ANDREW R. KELLEY.

Rosy recollections of the past circulated freely in the French room of the hotel Raleigh yesterday, when a group of George M. Cohan's old friends gathered for a "Yankee Doodle Luncheon."

At the head of the table was a framed picture of George M. Cohan in "Song and Dance Man" character, and the luncheon began with glasses raised for the absent guest. It was agreed that Warner Bros. in the current screen glorification had captured the color and glamour of an eventful era in the American theater.

Andrew R. Kelley.

Mr. Plöhn, former general manager for the star, brought personal greeting to the diners from George M., whom he saw last week. His personal collection of Cohaniana has been loaned to Warner Bros. for the duration of the picture. Comparing the screen recreations with vivid memories, this hard-boiled jury conceded that Josephine Cohan was among the greatest of dancers of all time, that Fay Templeton had a tremolo in her voice not present in the new manifestation. Since the picture was not released until it had the approval of its hero, any criticism was deemed captious and minor.

"Yankee Doodle Dandy" has broken the Earle Theater's box office record in its first week, and the publicity department reported that 35 people in Washington, born on the 4th of July, have accepted the house invitation to be guests. One engaged couple, George U. Herl of 817 21st street and Eleanor Thomas of 645 D street N.W., were both born on Independence Day, had their birth certificates to prove it. They saw the picture together.

Mr. Wallace proved an actor well up in his lines. As a precaution, Director Bill Pine had the speech written out on a blackboard in case the statesman faltered. It wasn't necessary, for the Vice President had his words memorized. They had two days assigned for the shooting, but the star was so adept they finished it in a morning. This included a Spanish version for South American release, which he recited without a pause and with the proper inflections. Paramount liked his work so well Bill Pine suggested he become a character actor, if the vagaries of politics should take him away from the Capitol.

Two other "Victory Shorts" prepared for OWI were screened yesterday by Eddie Fontaine at the Paramount exchange. They are "A Letter from Bataan," which will make your blood tingle, and "We Refuse to Die" based on the Nazi massacre at Lidice. You will be seeing them on the downtown screens shortly.

The age of chivalry is still with us. A letter from Don Pond objects to classifying the Fourth Estate's "sob sisters" with the feathery mid-gendered. He makes out a good case, basing it on personal experience in city rooms. His clincher is: "Please can't we get away from this fallacy about women's lack of ability. As the war goes on they seem to be showing more and more."

This brings us to a point of discussion about the ages of women on the stage, screen and radio, or those who make a career of the lively arts. They have two ages, the one that is set down in the birth records, the other conceived in the little white lie designed to prolong their careers.

Hollywood recognizes this gentle deception, with most releases from the production center stating that the feminine of the species was born December 12, or some other convenient date, year not mentioned.

A professional career on stage, screen or radio, is short for the average artist. As long as they can create and sustain the illusion of youth, most editors protect their war against Father Time. One New York columnist with a busybodyish yen once had the London bureau look up the birth record of Lynn

When Rosalind Russell visited her brother, Corpl. George Russell, at Camp Chaffee in Arkansas, it was plainly a case of reciprocal entertainment. The boys in camp welcomed Roz and entertained her in command cars, jeeps and even tanks, bumping over the rough terrain of the training ground. Roz put on a great show for the boys that night with songs and comedy scenes from her latest picture, "My Sister Eileen." This photo was taken by a Government cameraman recording the visit of Corpl. Even Roller Skates Provide Stars Solution For Tire Shortages

This business of conserving automobile tires is producing some strange scenes around the film factories.

Funniest sight of the week was dignified Cecil B. De Mille, riding to work on a motorcycle, while in the sidecar sat his chauffeur, who took the contraption home after depositing the veteran producer at his studio.

Betty Rhodes, June Havoc and Ray Milland ride motorbikes and scooters, but Barbara Britton and Marjorie Reynolds prefer plain bicycles.

Young Roasting Chicken Good Buy; Meat Situation Still an Enigma

By Betsy Caswell,
Women's News Editor

It looks as if poultry is going to be the choice of many Washington housewives for this week end. Plump young turkeys, frying and broiling chickens—and, good news to all—the first big supplies of tender, weighty roasting chickens will be available in most stores and markets.

These roasting chickens are young and tasty—really the familiar fryers grown somewhat bigger and heavier. They are easy to cook, taking much less time than the average bird of older and tougher tendencies. Select a roaster that is 3½ to 6 pounds, depending on your needs. The bird should be plump, well rounded, indicating a good yield of meat, the skin should be waxy and thin. Look for a good, but not excessive, layering of fat beneath the skin—no excess in the abdominal region—a flexible breastbone, smooth shanks and feet. A four-pound market dressed bird (that is, with head and feet on, feathers removed but not drawn) should serve four people amply, with perhaps some leftovers for next day.

Meat Situation Still An Enigma

Although many dealers will tell you that they have plenty of pork and beef available, others will cry that they can't get these meats for love or money. In the majority of small "exclusive" retail markets, buyers can find pretty much anything they wish—in many of the larger stores supplies are so skimpy that unless the housewife does her marketing at 8 a. m., there is nothing left in the way of meat for her to buy. This would appear to be a matter of faulty distribution, judging by the ease with which other dealers seem to obtain a sufficient quantity of meat—and also by the fact that where one concern means that it can get no beef, another of about the same size and importance, may feature roasts of beef as its week end buy.

Some markets have reported a shortage this week of smoked hams, along with bacon. We have not been able to ascertain as yet whether this condition is general in Washington or not. There seems to be a great mystery about this meat business! However, we do know that there is plenty of lamb and veal still available; that odd meats, such as frozen beef, tongue, beef, pork and veal livers, and of course, oysters, are also recommended. Oysters, by the way, are higher than in other years, but still remain a good and nourishing buy.

Fish Is Plentiful And Very Good

Fish goes along serenely here in Washington, in spite of rumors of scarcities and higher prices. For a nominal sum you can buy deliciously fresh tinkers, mackerel, flounder, filets, butterfish, croakers, rockfish, bass, trout and perch. Nice salmon is available, too, but a bit more in the luxury brackets. Tender little scrod from Boston, good shrimps and, of course, oysters, are also recommended.

Eggs continue high; Cheese Good Buy. Eggs are still 'way up there, and it is said they will go right on climbing. Use them as economically as you can, therefore, and choose less expensive grades for cooking in other dishes. Pullets' eggs are cheaper, and very good, although smaller than the regular standard eggs; they are hard to get in the average store, but egg dealers, and certain country stalls in the large markets usually have a supply on hand, if you will take the trouble to look around for them.

Cheese continues to hold a prominent place in the menu-planning of the 1942 housewife. It is such an inexpensive and satisfactory food, taking the place of meat in nourishing main dishes several times a week, that it is becoming increasingly popular. Many women who used to regard cheese as something destined only to accompany apple pie, or to spread on crackers, are rapidly learning its value and importance in keeping the family meals up to par, and the budget comfortably on even keel.

Newcomers of the week are bright green globe artichokes, to serve in place of salad or dessert at luncheon or dinner. This early in the season they are especially tender and good; Artichokes Arrive; Fresh Prunes In. Newcomers of the week are bright green globe artichokes, to serve in place of salad or dessert at luncheon or dinner. This early in the season they are especially tender and good;

A "V" of vegetables from your Victory Garden—or even from the produce dealers' shelves—makes a patriotic and delightful main course that uses no meat. Cheese added to the baked stuffed acorn squash provides one food value missing, and the whole provides a nourishing combination that is hard to beat.

Victory Garden Plate The Latest Thing

For a truly spectacular service, try a Victory Garden Platter. Not only the substance of the platter, but the design itself may be keyed to the Victory theme—with whole ears of corn and whole carrots arranged to form a V on a chop plate or platter. With baby lima beans, and stuffed squash in which cheese is used to enhance the mellow flavor of this vegetable, the Victory platter becomes a triumphant whole meal in itself.

VICTORY GARDEN PLATTER.

- 2 acorn squashes.
- 2 teaspoons chopped onion.
- 2 teaspoons finely chopped green pepper.
- ¼ cup melted butter or margarine.
- 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese.
- 2 cups soft-bread crumbs.
- Salt, pepper.
- Cooked whole ears of corn.
- Cooked whole carrots.
- Cooked lima beans.
- Melted butter or margarine.

Bake the squashes in a moderately hot oven, 400°, about 35 minutes, or until tender. Cut in half lengthwise and scoop out the centers, leaving shells about ¼ inch thick. Mash the pulp and combine it with the chopped onion, green pepper, ¼ cup of butter or margarine, shredded cheese, crumbs and seasonings to taste. Pile this mixture in the squash shells and place them in a moderate oven, 350°, to brown the tops. Place the stuffed squash halves in the middle of a round chop plate, end to end. Arrange the corn and carrots on both sides of the squash, to form a V pointing toward the squash. Fill the plate at the point of the V with lima beans.

Stew Seasonings

Seasonings are important in stew and it is best to have a variety, with no one too much in evidence. Herbs, parsley, celery, chopped green pepper and onion can be used alone or in combination.

Knowing How to Buy Eggs Means Getting Full Value

American women are good buyers—shrewd buyers—when they know the facts. We are a land of great plenty. But we are at war and we must conserve our plenty, use it wisely and wisely to carry through to a great American finish. Some consumer goods will be scarcer than others. Wisdom demands that the more plentiful foods be used to fill the gaps made by the scarcer foods. Eggs are a large and powerful portion of our food wealth. Eggs not only fill their regular place in the national diet, but have all the qualities to fill the gaps of many of the scarcer foods. Eggs are never a "substitute," but the real thing. Here is some simple arithmetic to bring home economics to home management: Standard size eggs weigh 2 ounces each, or 24 ounces (1½ pounds) per dozen. When you buy a dozen eggs you are buying a pound and a half of fine quality protein food. Comparing "pound" prices with the general cost of meats, you will find that eggs cost you only 23 cents a pound if you pay 35 cents per dozen; 27 cents per pound if you pay 40 cents a dozen; 30 cents a pound if you pay 45 cents a dozen, and so on up to 40 cents a pound if you pay 60 cents a dozen. Of course, there aren't apt to be "leftovers" with eggs—but there is no waste, either. Now, if standard sized eggs at average prices are more than your war ridden budget can stand, one solution lies in purchasing pullets' eggs. These are a food bargain knocking like opportunity at your kitchen door. In many localities they are coming to market from nearby farms to serve wartime needs. And they sell much, much cheaper than standard sized eggs!

THE HEALTHFUL SPREAD FOR YOUR DAILY BREAD

Roasting chickens are with us again—and mighty welcome news this is for the household that is a bit weary of the summery fryers and broilers! These young chickens are bigger than the other two types, but because they are young and tender, require little more cooking time. Above is a fine 5-pounder, roasted to a golden brown, and garnished with crisp chicory and spiced apricots.

Save Up That Sugar Supply To Make Sweets for 'Boys'

Calling the home front! Here's a tip from some smart win-the-war housewives we met lately. They manage to lay by part of the family's sugar ration each week, saving it up for a periodic splurge in the baking line. But it's a splurge with a difference, for the baked goods are earmarked for the loneliest men in Uncle Sam's service in home camps. If you don't know a "loneliest" man—and you don't, of course, otherwise he wouldn't be lonely—get in touch with one of the many agencies who are just waiting to find him for you. Consult local USO headquarters, for instance—or the YMCA, Knights of Columbus, YWHA, or any group that is active in providing recreation for men in the service—chaplains always know the lonely boys in camp—the fellows without mothers, sisters, sweethearts and wives to send them the little luxuries the other fellows get. You can't, of course, send them "goody" cakes—they'd be "messy" not "goody" by the time they arrived. But there are many cakes, cookies, candies and other homemade delicacies that are excellent travelers. We've collected several satisfactory recipes to give you today. Select one or two. When they're all baked and cooled and ready for sending, wrap them well in waxed paper, pack them firmly in a sturdy sardine, address plainly and mail. Since regulations about mail for our lasses change from time to time, we recommend that you stop in at the local post office and find out just how big and how heavy any individual package may be. Then pack your goodies accordingly. Also, don't get a notion about shipping perishable foods to servicemen stationed in foreign parts. It can't be done, and the postal authorities will not accept the package.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE.

- 2 cups sugar.
- 1 cup milk.
- 2 squares (2 ounces) unsweetened cooking chocolate.
- ½ teaspoon salt.
- 2 tablespoons butter.
- ¼ teaspoon vanilla.

Combine sugar, milk, chocolate and salt in a saucepan over low heat, stirring constantly until sugar is dissolved. Cook gently to 235 F., or until a little of the mixture forms a soft ball in cold water. Add the butter and cool to lukewarm (110 F.). Add vanilla and beat until nearly stiff. Then pour the mixture into a greased pan. When cool cut into squares. Approximate yield: 1½ pounds.

NUT BREAD.

- ¾ cups sifted flour.
- 3 teaspoons baking powder.
- ¼ cup sugar.
- ¼ teaspoon salt.
- ¼ cup chopped walnut meats.
- 1 egg, beaten.
- 1 cup milk.

Mix flour, baking powder, sugar, salt and walnut meats. Combine egg and milk. Combine egg mixture with dry ingredients; mix well. Pour into greased loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 F.) 1 hour. Cool. Yield, 1 loaf. (Send along a jar of pineapple cheese spread for a sandwich filling.)

BROWNIES.

- ¼ cup shortening.
- 2 squares (2 ounces) unsweetened chocolate.
- 2 eggs, well beaten.
- 1 cup sugar.
- 1 cup sifted cake flour.
- ¼ teaspoon baking powder.
- ¼ teaspoon salt.
- 1 cup broken walnut meats.
- 1 teaspoon vanilla.

with CHICKEN Fat

Rich chicken flavor! Chicken fat in "soup" on sausage. Add water—cook 10 minutes. Cook 10—Serve 2.

Modern Roasting Is Streamlined

Now autumn comes—the time to rediscover toothsome morsels in roasting chickens. The market offers for your selection delectable roasting chicken in any size to suit your needs, 3½ to 6 pounds. The poultry industry has produced a bumper crop to help in the wartime situation, for eating chicken helps to save other meats. It's patriotic to eat chicken!

Modern roasting is tailor-made for today's busy schedule. No fat-spattered oven, no overbrowning, no drying out of meat, no exhausted homemaker when these simple rules are followed: Roast well-greased, trussed bird in shallow pan on a rack at constant low temperature, 325 to 350 degrees F., with no cover, no water added to the pan. Basting is unnecessary except to brush with melted fat if the skin appears dry.

"V" STUFFING.

- (A delightful treat with an extra nutritious twist.)
- 2 tablespoons fat.
- 1 onion, minced.
- 1 cup celery, diced.
- ¼ teaspoon salt.
- ½ cups dry bread crumbs.
- 1½ cups chopped cooked prunes.
- 1 large tart apple, sliced.
- ¼ cup melted fat.

Cook onion in the 2 tablespoons fat until golden brown. Add celery, salt, bread crumbs and fruit. Blend. Mix fat in lightly but thoroughly.

THE NATURAL WAY

You know you like oranges! But do you know how they help you get the vitamins and minerals you need? They're first in vitamin C. And they also contain vitamins A, B1 and G; calcium and other minerals.

DON'T TAKE A CHANCE

You don't "store up" vitamin C, so you need it every day. Without plenty of citrus fruits, the chances are you won't get enough to feel and do your best.

Play safe. Have orange juice for breakfast. Put oranges in lunch boxes, salads and sugar-saving desserts. Ask for trademarked "Sunkist" Oranges—finest from 14,500 cooperating growers. Buy in quantities; they save!

Meat Rationing No Hardship For the Clever Housewife

The Secret Lies in Choosing Cuts That Can Be Cooked to Make A Little Go a Long Way

By the Victory Chef

If we are honest with ourselves, we must admit that, as a Nation, we are wasteful. Nature has provided for us so generously that we have not taught ourselves how to make the most of things. Food, clothing, gadgets of all kinds are tossed around with little regard to their cost. Into the scrap heaps and garbage can we have been throwing millions of dollars worth of usable materials and ingredients. Now, if we are practical and intelligent, we can turn to what we have been disregarding and out of these things create much neglected wealth.

Waste in industry is being stopped—and stopped short. Now we come to conservation in the homes—particularly in our kitchens. This fact was forcibly brought home to me the other day when I was called to make some adjustments on a kitchen range that was giving trouble. The lady of the house had just remarked how necessary it was to economize and conserve in every way possible these days, when a delivery boy walked in with a basket of meat, vegetables and fruit from the market.

Deciding that precept is always better when followed by example, I undertook to teach that lady the true meaning of conservation. I remarked:

"I am wondering whether American housewives really understand their responsibilities as well as their opportunities. For instance, you could have helped twice in this business of conservation. You could have taken a market basket and walked to the nearest store and market. You'd have saved delivery—man power and gasoline and tires. Then, too, by shopping in person you'd have selected exactly what you want and no doubt saved money on your purchases. As by-products, you'd have conserved telephone time (which is most valuable at this time) and you'd have had for yourself some healthful physical exercise in the form of a nice, brisk walk!"

"I'm sorry," she replied, "but, you see, I have no market basket!"—which I realized was an inane and lame excuse. My only answer was that of our wasteful living practices are due to equally inane excuses!

"Speaking of baskets," I said: "Would you mind letting me peek into the contents of your package of meat?"

When I saw what she had ordered, 2 pounds of choice veal chops for her family of four, I remarked: "You know, of course, that 1 pound of veal, properly prepared, would give you a more interesting dish than 2 pounds of chops simply fried in fat—and a pound of meat saved. I can save you a pound of meat and meat products per week for a family of four—that is, 2 1/2 pounds per person, you'll suffer no hardship—in fact, many homes will be better off. And what is to be the rest of your dinner menu?"

"A can of peas and some baked potatoes, cup cakes from the Women's Exchange, a brick of ice cream to be delivered by the druggist, and coffee!"

"Lady," I said, "with your permission we will take back the veal and in their place we bring home 1 pound of shoulder veal. The peas you can save for an emergency and the cup cakes we shall exchange for a loaf of good, sour rye bread. The ice cream we shall cancel for this time. While at the market we'll find us four tomatoes. I see you have an onion and three rather dried out carrots and a sad looking bell pepper in your vegetable bin. Potatoes you have, too. We'll get a bit of native cheddar cheese and four pears. See, you have a bottle of sherry in your cabinet. We will make out very well indeed!"

Here is the menu:

- Veal, Victoria Sauce
- Mashed Potatoes
- Broiled Tomatoes
- Rye Bread in Chunks
- Chilled Pears
- Roasted Rye Slices
- Coffee

This dinner is a joy to prepare. First, we cut our pound of veal into pieces about the size of walnuts. These we roll in flour. While we are doing this, in a heavy iron skillet we have heated some cooking fat and into it sliced our onion. We cook it gently—not letting it brown. Now we remove the onion, setting it in a saucer for future use. And into the pan we place the veal, letting each piece fry to a rich brown.

When the veal is well browned, we add boiling water to cover and commence simmering the veal, adding a bit of water now and then until the veal shows signs of becoming tender. Now we replace the onion, and also our bell pepper, minced very fine and the carrots in slices. Everything simmers now until tender. Then we thicken the liquid to make a lovely, smooth sauce, now we touch it up with salt and pepper to taste and last of all we add a couple of tablespoons of sherry to attain the desired flavor.

The potatoes have been mashed because here is much fine sauce to serve as gravy—not a drop must be wasted. The tomatoes have been cut in halves, topped with a mixture of bread crumbs and a little butter, pepper and salt, and placed under the broiler to cook—not too soft.

Some of our loaf of rye bread we slice into slices about two inches thick and then cut into quarters, in conveniently sized chunks in the European peasant manner. These chunks we serve with the meat and potatoes and tomatoes.

Following that course, for dessert we have the chilled pears, bits of cheese, and rye bread sliced very, very thin and toasted in the Melba manner. The coffee may be black or au lait.

Please note that in this nice little dinner there was meat with a delicious sauce—two vegetables were provided, the dessert was healthful and nourishing, and throughout the dinner we conserved on both meat and sugar.

(This article is the first in a series on making the most of our foodstuffs, with special emphasis on meats.)

Spiced Beets Lend A Colorful Touch To Plain Meal

Sliced beets have the colorful touch and the "bitey" taste that can high-light many a meal. It is surprising how many times an otherwise good selection of food just lacks that something to make the meal outstanding.

You do not need to stand over a hot kitchen stove to make spiced beets. No, just make a few at a time. Start with canned beets, and the task ceases to be a task; instead it's just a simple trick in cooking.

- SPICED BEETS.
- 1 No. 2 1/2 can beets.
 - 1/2 cup vinegar.
 - 1 slice onion.
 - 1 tablespoon brown sugar.
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt.
 - 6 whole cloves.
 - 1 stick cinnamon.
 - 3 peppercorns.

Drain the liquid from the beets and add vinegar, onion, sugar, salt and spices. Simmer 10 minutes; strain and add beets to the hot liquid. Cool and let stand over night before using.

Beets prepared in this manner are especially good to serve as a relish and are also good used in vegetable and fish salads, or served hot with broiled meats.

If you lack the small amount of brown sugar, use white sugar, or you may find the family likes the spiced beets without any sweetening at all.

You may find that spices will be difficult to get, in which case use the variety of spices that you do have. No doubt the combination of cinnamon and cloves is the most commonly used. The favorite one, but that does not mean that it is the only combination to use.

Sometimes try making a gelatin ring mold, using the spiced beets and liquid. Then unroll it onto a bed of salad greens and fill the center with old-fashioned cole slaw, and surround the outside with sliced cold canned meat.

From now until April apples will be a principal part of the fruit section of the Nation's 440,000 food stores; for there seems to be enough of "the king of fruits" to go around. There should be no scarcity this winter of apple pie, pan dowdy, baked apples, apple strudel and those thousand-and-one palate delights that good cooks through the ages have devised from apples. Department of Agriculture says: "Even with the heavy demand for apples in various forms for military, lend-lease and other wartime requirements, abundant supplies of fresh apples will be available for home consumption."

Grimes Golden, Jonathans, McIntosh and Delicious are the first varieties in the markets in real volume; through September and October Grimes and Jonathan are both old-timers, both famous for either cooking or fresh-eating; McIntosh and Delicious are primarily for fresh eating—lunch boxes for school and factory, between meals, and the family apple bowl. Jonathan's red skin, under cooking, lends a delightful pink to the cooked product, which apple-wise cooks use to their own advantage.

Beginning Today, Apples Are Listed as Victory Food Specials; Eat Them!

These honey baked apples are sure to please the family! With apples assuming the title today of Victory Food Special through September 26, we're giving you a recipe or two and a story about our favorite fruit that is of timely interest. Use apples as much as you can now, the Government urges, for they are especially plentiful and inexpensive.

All over the Nation, on 80 million of apple trees, our largest fruit crop, apples, is reddening from stem to calyx, and being gathered, cleaned, graded, packed and started toward America's 28,000,000 pantries, cellars, cold storages or where are we?

For five long months, since last May, the apples have been hanging on the trees, from blossom through the stages of green youth. Five months is a long time to hang from a tree. Humans can't do it.

Now, with September's crisp sunshine and cool nights, the apples have grown up. Their raw starches have changed to sugars (levulose, precisely). Skins are reddening or turning gold, or both. The "abscission layer," nature's little device for automatic apple-picking, is swelling. This corky layer, between apple stem and twig, gets longer and longer. Within a couple of weeks it will literally push the apple earthward. Isaac Newton, rubbing his hit head, got only part of the truth. Gravity governs direction, but nature's little device, the abscission layer, gives the push.

The race to beat the beetle is on. Some 18,000,000,000,000 of apples are being plucked all over these United States to fill 122,000,000 bushels; or, figuratively, to fill a solid train of 250,000 cars, 245 miles long.

Apple picking this fall is a real rush. Government has said, emphatically: "Food must not be wasted, and apples are food." But about 50 per cent of the orchardist's usual help is not there; is in the armed forces, in war-working plants or such.

So, the women are going out into the nearby orchards and packing houses, as they did in 1918; the same women who have responded so heartily to Government's appeal to aid the food situation by home-canning. High school is being adjourned in the orchard belt, for two weeks or so. The apples are coming. It's apple time again.

From now until April apples will be a principal part of the fruit section of the Nation's 440,000 food stores; for there seems to be enough of "the king of fruits" to go around. There should be no scarcity this winter of apple pie, pan dowdy, baked apples, apple strudel and those thousand-and-one palate delights that good cooks through the

Dinner for One Need Not Be a Boring Problem

By Helen T. Toal

In these times of war housekeeping presents a problem that is different. It's always been comparatively easy to plan meals for two or three or four, but what of the wife left alone whose husband is a member of one of the armed forces—whose job takes him away for months at a time? "Oh, just go out for dinner—lunch and breakfast will take care of themselves," your friends say. But in my case, as in many others I'm sure, I have a baby daughter that I can't not leave unless adequate arrangements are made well ahead of time.

What's more, keeping well depends on food—the right kind. And how easy it is if you must eat alone often not to plan—just to grab something from the icebox! And yet more than ever before the women of this country must keep fit and strong. It's so easy to feel tired and run down if we don't eat properly; and yet for most of us it's so hard (and such a bore, too!) to plan meals for one.

My baby has her milk, applesauce and cereal at 6. By 6:30 she's in bed for the night and I have the evening before me. It's a much nicer evening if I've planned a simple supper that I can carry on a tray to the porch, the garden or the living room.

But aside from choosing nice places to eat (and I'm speaking of dinners, for I eat my breakfast in the kitchen while the baby bottles sterilize and lunch wherever it's convenient), there's the matter of what to eat. I offer here some simple dinner menus for one:

- (1) 4 grilled sausages. Baked potato (put in the oven when you start to fix the baby's supper—it will be done when she's in bed and the rest of the supper is fixed).
- 2 broiled tomato halves.
- Milk (or coffee).
- Bread and butter.
- I have purposely not included dessert, as I find most women think it more bother than it's worth. To satisfy my (!) "sweet tooth" I keep a box of candy on hand and nibble on that after dinner if I feel the urge.
- (2) Tuna and celery salad on lettuce.
- Tomato wedges and pickle slices.
- Stuffed eggs.
- Triscuit.
- Iced tea (or coffee).
- This supper may be fixed on a plate early in the afternoon and left in the refrigerator until the "spirit moves you" to eat. There's nothing new about the menu, but it's easy and can be fixed while you are busy in the kitchen.
- (3) Canned spaghetti in cheese sauce with crisp bacon slices.
- Raw carrot and celery sticks.
- Hard rolls.
- Milk (or coffee).
- (4) A small dish of scalloped potatoes baked with a pork chop on top (take cover off to brown for last 15 minutes of cooking). This may be put in the oven when you start the baby's supper and takes about the same time as a large baked potato.
- Head lettuce salad with any dressing you prefer.
- Milk (or coffee).

TARZAN

(Follow Tarzan's thrilling adventures in The Sunday Star.) —By Edgar Rice Burroughs

WHILE HIS WARRIORS WERE NEWING A PATH FOR THE TANK...

BY TAUNTING AND CHALLENGING THEM, HE DECEIVED THE NAZIS DEEPER AND DEEPER INTO THE WILDERNESS.

OAKY DOAKS

(Laugh at Oaky Doaks on Sundays, too.) —By R. B. Fuller

I DON'T KNOW MUCH ABOUT BABIES, SCOTTY, BUT...

WE MEANS WE WERE OVERCOME BY YOUR LOVELINESS, MISS QUICK!

HEH... HEH... HEH... YOU SAY A MAN DROPPED IT GETTING INTO A TAXI? LET'S SEE IT...

HE WAS IN A HURRY. SO HAD BEEN FOLLOWING HIM BUT COULD NEVER CATCH UP...

DAN DUNN

(Dan Dunn is a regular feature of The Sunday Star.) —By Norman Marsh

DAN! LET ME IN! IS SOMETHIN' WRONG?

I HEARD A CRASH, SO I—GALLOPING GOLDFISH! WHY TH' BLACKOUT?

I WAS BEING STRAFED FROM THAT BUILDING ACROSS THE STREET, 'TWIN! SOMEHOW I SUSPECT NAW HAWK HAS A GRUDGE AGAINST ME!

PROBABLY BECAUSE I'M ABOUT TO BREAK UP HIS LITTLE SHORT CUT TO THE LONG GREEN!—SEE WHO'S AT THE DOOR!

THE NEBBES

HELLO, AMBROSE, HOW ABOUT ONLY ONE SPARRERISS? THEY'RE SUPER SUCULENT!

I'M RUNNING THE PLACE 'TIL MAX GETS BACK. I'VE BEEN HERE FROM HIS ARMY TESTS.

SEE HERE NOW—I WOULD THE MOST PLACE AND YOU GOTTA GET A REGULAR MANAGER.

DON'T YOU THINK I'M ABLE TO HANDLE THE JOB FOR A FEW DAYS?

NO, I DON'T—I'VE GOT TO TAKE OVER THE PLACE MYSELF!

BETTER STICK TO YOUR BANK—ALL YOU KNOW ABOUT BEGGING IS HOW TO CONSUME IT IN LARGE QUANTITIES!
