Howard Hughes Plant Will Build Cargo Craft, McNary Says

Senator McNary, Republican, of Oregon said he was informed today the War Production Board and armed forces had agreed to et a contract to Henry J. Kaiser, West Coast shipbuilder, for construction of three mammoth cargo-carrying airplanes costing a total of $18,000,000.

Senator McNary said it was his understanding the three ships would be constructed in the California plant of Howard Hughes, airplane designer and associate of Mr. Kaiser. The contract covering the three planes, the Senator said, would be in the nature of a trial to determine the feasibility of constructing such ships on a mass production basis.

No Profit on "Pilot" Planes. According to Senator McNary's information, Mr. Kaiser would construct the first three ships without any profit to himself or associates. Mr. Kaiser was understood to have been instructed to draft plans for a large factory and to submit estimates and data on its possible location for use if the first three ships turned out satisfactorily. Mr. Kaiser has urged that he be permitted to construct a large fleet of cargo-carrying planes, contending that he could obtain the materials that he could obtain the materials disturbing the present production program for bombers and fighting and necessary technical aid without

Mr. Murray said freezing of wages through the pending anti-inflation bill would "destroy morale of American workers." Stabilization with relation to living costs, he added, should be the goal.

Senator Smith said he had a majority of the Agriculture Committee back of him in his stand that the bill should redefine parity to include

The American airmen pounded Buna for 45 minutes, one of the attackers sweeping so low his plane clipped off the top of a palm tree and gouged a large section from a wing, but the pilot brought his plane home safely.

The returning pilots said they started fires which sent flame and smoke swirling up 2,000 feet in this attack, which followed a 26-ton Allied bomb attack last Saturday on the Japanese air base at Buna. The assault obviously was delivered with a view to relieving pressure on the Australian forces locked in combat with the Japanese near the village of Ioribaiwa, on the southern slopes of the lofty Owen Stanley Mountains.

A spokesman at Allied headquarters, however, said both sides were busily maneuvering for position, and it appeared probable that the lull would be short-lived.

Australians were reported countering Japanese tactics with their own flanking movements and infiltration and this was taken here to mean a stiffening of resistance against the invader.

Parity Change Facing Defeat In Committee

House Unit Majority Reported in Favor Of Scrapping Plan

A majority of the House Banking Committee was reported today to favor scrapping of the controversial higher farm price parity provision in the antiinflation bill drawn by Chairman

This could mean an end to an effort, supported by some farm organizations, toward a redefinition of parity to raise the level by including a computation of all farm labor

A group of committee members met informally last night, and it was said they decided to attempt far-reaching revisions of the Steagall bill. Some favored substitution of a new bill

Those wanting sharp revisions or a new bill, while refusing to be quoted directly, expressed confidence that a majority of the committee would favor a bill embracing definite stipulations for the regulation of wages and salaries. The Steagall bill would direct the President to establish such maximum salaries and industrial wages "as will bring about and maintain a fair and equitable relation" with maximum farm prices.

Fulmer Urges Fight for Farmer Chairman Fulmer told the House Agriculture Committee that from the standpoint of the farmer the House bill, with its redefinition of parity, "is much better than the Senate bill."

At the outset of an informal committee gathering, Mr. Fulmer said the farm Representatives must "put up the best fight we can to get the best we can for the farmers.' The committee was told by Representative Andresen, Republican, of Minnesota that regardless of the type of legislation enacted, if it failed to coincide with the wishes of the President "He's going to go ahead and do just what he wants to "And we've got a Supreme Court that will support the President." Mr. Andresen blamed what he called the administration's highwage program for the growing infla-

Labor Stabilization Formula.

Senator Brown, Democrat, of Michigan said the completed bill was likely to contain a wage stabilization formula similar to that evolved by the War Labor Board in the "Little Steel" case, thus permitting pay increases of 15 per cent over January 1, 1941, levels which would match increases in cost of living.

The Michigan Senator said provision also would be made to count customary bonuses in as part of the annual salary of workers, where they had received similar bonuses in the past. Senator Brown said that WLB

Chairman William H. Davis had estimated the "Little Steel" formula would provide a wage level little different from that prevailing at present The President wrote Chairman Wagner of the Senate committee

In response to this, Chairman The Steagall measure proposes that the parity level be raised to cover the costs of all labor on the farm, including the farmer, members of his family and hired help. Mr. Steagall said Government experts had told him that inclusion of all labor would increase the parity level 12 per cent, but if only hired help were considered the increase would be 4 per cent. Senator Bankhead's farm labor proposal was before the Senate committee as it sought to whip into final shape a bill which would authorize and direct the President to stabilize prices, wages and salaries as far as practical as of either August 15 or September 15 levels. Senator Brown said the latter date might finally be

The committee tentatively agreed yesterday to revise one section which would have prevented the imposition of ceilings on farm prices at below the highest point they had reached between January 1 and September 15. Senator Brown said the effect of this would be to level off price "humps" that developed because of seasonal demands for such commodities by adjusting the price level downward in these cases.

Types of Light Bulbs, Lamps Cut in Half Under WPB Order

Strict Control Over Radio Tubes, Signal Devices Is Decreed

By the Associated Press. More than half of the various types of electric light bulbs and lamps now manufactured were ordered eliminated by the War Production Board today, effective November 1.

Although the order will not result in curtailment of total bulb production, WPB said it would reduce the number of types made from 3.500 to 1.700. Lamps for which there is no present essential demand, and bulbs for which suitable substitutes are available, will be discontinued.

Several Types Dropped.

Thus, the common household electric light bulb formerly made in voltages of 110, 115, 120, 125 and 130 will after November 1, be made only in the 115, 120 and 125 volt types. These have proved satisfactory for most household uses, WPB said. Likewise, 50-watt and 75-watt lamps will no longer be made on grounds that lamps in wattages of 15, 25, 40, 60 and 100 are satisfactory.

Use of colors in lamps also was restricted by the order, which permits manufacture of only red, blue and green bulbs.

The board also established strict tubes, signal equipment, microphones, remote control apparatus, and other electronic devices.

Deputy Warden Staff Is Rallied to Collect Big Pile of Metal

About 10 Tons Brought In by 92 Air-Raid Messenger Boys

As District salvage groups continued to pile up scrap metal in strategically located depots, a small "mountain" of vital war materials took shape and was growing in size at 831 Rittenhouse street N.W., the residence of Elmer Johnson, deputy air-raid warden for the Brightwood

The scrap metal, collected by 92 air-raid messenger boys, represents one of the largest single collections in the District. Unable to estimate its weight, Mr. Johnson and his assistant, Blake B. Espey, who is in charge of the air-raid messenger service for the area, figure the pile totals "at least several tons." Concervative estimates place the collection at 10 tons.

The collection includes the conventional list of items, plus such unusual objects as a ship's anchor, a German helmet, a movie camera and

Relayed Through Wardens. Mr. Johnson set the plan in motion through the eight woman daytime sone wardens of the Brightwood area, who, in turn, passed on suggestions to 59 sector wardens. From the sector wardens, plans were relayed to 92 messenger boys under the direction of Dick Moyer, 824 Sheridan street N.W.; Walter Robbins, 831 Marietta place N.W., and Jack Bowman, 810 Tuckerman street N.W. The three boys are students a Calvin Coolidge High School. Preliminary planning, which in cluded a survey of the scrap metal stocks in six square blocks of the Brightwood area, consumed two days. The messengers then started collections with large wagons and within a week had amassed the volume of materials now awaiting final disposition in Mr. Johnson's back vard.

1930 Auto Offered. The eight woman daytime zone wardens who participated in the effort were: Mrs. Izetta Huey, 5232 Eighth street N.W.; Mrs. Mary Little, 924 Longfellow street N.W.: Mrs. Alice Herrmann, 810 Concord avenue N.W.; Mrs. Evelyn Helmick, 5721 Thirteenth street N.W.; Mrs. Margaret Brown, 717 Rittenhouse street N.W.; Mrs. Ethel Lindsay, 6223 Piney Branch road N.W.; Mrs. Blanche Landry, 6322 Seventh street N.W.; Mrs. Ruth Humphreys, 6408 Ninth street N.W.

In another section of the District, Mrs. Louise Downing, 3714 Thirtyfifth street N.W., wife of Rossa F. Downing, offered a 1930 sedan, in- day drive. But authorities should to the salvage drive.

Wide Public Interest. The 110 city refuse trucks will leave their Southeast shops at 8 a.m. Fifty-five of the business vehicles will be lined up on a parking lot at John Marshall and Pennsylvania avenue N.W. at 7:45 a.m. The other 55 trucks are to assemble at the same time at the dump at Oklahoma avenue and Benning road N.E.

Because Washington must find and collect 26,500,000 pounds of metal scrap before January 1 to meet the District's quota, great public interest is attached to the metal to be collected Sunday, as well as the follow-up effort the following Sunday in the Northwest | Production Board Chairman Donald and Southwest sections.

Our people without a doubt will co-operate fully in this collection, but it is earnestly hoped that in the future the day of rest and worship will be kept as free as is possible for its intended purpose.' The Scrap Committee previously had decided against protests for the collection being held on Sunday.

Dr. John K. Cartwright, pastor of Immaculate Conception Church, Eighth and N streets N.W., said in commenting on the Sunday angle of the collection:

A list published in The Star indicates what metals are wanted and not wanted in the September 20 and 27 collections.

Plans for the Sunday collection are practically completed. Exact location of the emergency stock piles remains to be announced. Each of the collection trucks will be designated by printed posters and an American flag.

Labor to Co-operate. John Locher, president of the Washington Central Labor Union, announced today that members of 125 labor organizations affiliated with the Central Labor Union will take part in Sunday's drive. He said each union organization had appointed committees to co-operate with the Special Salvage Committee in every possible way. These mem-bers have been requested to collect as much scrap as possible in his or her home and place it on the curb for collection.

Japan Will Not Crack But Must Be Crushed, Grew Tells America

Former Ambassador Expects Eventual Collapse In Berlin, Not in Tokio

3 the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 18 .- Describing Japan as our most formidable enemy, far tougher than Germany, former Ambassador Joseph C. Grew told a war rally luncheon here today that the Germans cracked in 1918 and they will crack again, but the Japanese will fight until they are utterly crushed.

Mr. Grew, who was an American diplomat in Berlin in 1917 and American Ambassador in Tokio in 1941, indicated he was profoundly shocked to hear people in this country talk as if Germany in time would be defeated "and then we'll mop up the Japs.'

He agreed with those who believe German morale will not survive a series of setbacks. But he added, in a speech broadcast over the NBC network:

"The Japanese will not crack. They will not crack morally or psychologically or economically, even when eventual defeat stares them in the face. * * * Only by utter physical destruction or utter exhaustion of their men and materials can they Confidence Is Superb. "That," he said, "is the difference between the Germans and the Japanese. That is what we are up against in fighting Japan." It is difficult for Americans who have never lived in Japan, Mr. Grew continued, to form any conception of the overweening confidence of the Japanese Army and Navy in their ability to subjugate not only large areas of Asia but of the Western Hemisphere, too.

"You realize that the Japanese are already in the Aleutian Islands, don't you?" he asked. "Not far from Alaska * * * I mention it merely as a concrete indication of what the armed forces of Japan hope to do, and what they intend to doand what they will do if they can. "Indeed, the Japanese themselves have said that their tactics have frequently been based on the principle of attacking through a particular area in the knowledge that their enemies have been lulled into a false sense of security and complacency by the very assumption of its impassability."

The most important factor in Japanese victories, however, is "the spirit which permeates all the armed forces Illustrating the fanatical, uncompromising sterness of this spirit, Mr. Grew told how he once received from the Chinese government the name of a Japanese who had been taken prisoner in China and who wished to let his famly in Japan known he was alive and well. The Ambassador communicated this information to the government in Tokio, which replied that it "was not interested in receiving such information. So far as they, the government, were concerned, and also so far as his own family was concerned, that man was officially dead. . Manchukuo Pictured As Japs' Bulwark Against Russia

11th Anniversary of Mukden Incident Is Marked in Nippon

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.-Fresh Japanese utterances on relations with Russia, half-placating and half-threatening, were pegged today to Japan's observance of the 11th anniversary of the Mukden incident, first of the totalitarian aggressions which finally set the world at its greatest war.

Manchukuo, the puppet state founded by that aggression, was pictured in official Tokio comment as a bulwark against Russia, giving the Japanese a free hand for action in other theaters.

This running war of nerves flared sons in various parts of the city for into the open Wednesday when Gen. Shunroku Hata, Japanese commander in chief in China, was to put up $2 collateral for appearquoted by the Tokio radio, via the ance in Traffic Court today. As for the anniversary, the colonel said Manchukuo had wiped out all but a thousand "Manchurian bandits"-actually Chinese patriotsand "is making her presence felt in the north without the slightest menace from within."

The Japanese Army seized Mukden, then the Manchurian capital. just 11 years ago. Five months later, after further war operations, the three northeastern provinces of China—Fengtien, Kirin and Heilungkiang, along with Jehol, were proclaimed an "independent state," and named Manchukuo.

Rumors Termed "Incorrect." At Hsinking, now capital of the puppet state, a spokesman for the Kwantung army which garrisons their formidable equipment, their Manchukuo, facing Siberia, attempted to allay reports of worsenfare and their spectacular successes, ing relations between Japan and

Britain Achieves Goal Of 5% Crop Increase

LONDON, Sept. 18.-More than 1.000,000 tons of shipping space has been saved because British agriculture has achieved its goal of a 5 per cent greater crop yield from each cultivated acre, an official of the Ministry of Agriculture said today. "The increase in the wheat yield has, been especially notable this year." he said. An all-time bumper harvest was achieved largely by plowing up more than 2,000,000 acres of grassland and wider use of agricultural machinery.

18 Officials Slain Before Order Was Restored, Home Minister Says

By A. T. STEELE, Chicago Daily News.

NEW DELHI, Sept. 15 (Delayed).—With police control largely restored over the greater part of India after five weeks of the most serious revolutionary upheaval since the Indian mutiny nearly a century ago, the British are still confronted with problems of tremendous magnitude vitally affecting India's part in the Allied war effort.

Political issues are no nearer settlement than they were five weeks dandhi's active followers are still at arge, working underground with the oclaimed aim of making trouble therever and whenever the opporunity offers.

Largest Steel Plant Closed. Since the opening of the legislave Assembly here, the government as lifted the veil nearly all the way in the record of the first five weeks rebellion, which Gandhi's arrest ecipitated. It is now possible to port that for the first two weeks be biggest steel plant in the British mpire-Tata works in Bihar-was ut down as a result of the walkout its 50,000 employes. Sir Reginald Maxwell. India's ome minister, reported the conseuences of the five week's disturbnces as follows: 658 rioters killed. which 340 fell from police firing and 318 from military firing; 1.003 counded, of which 850 were from blice firing and 153 from military fring. Rioters killed seven civil ncials and 11 officers and soldiers. Maxwell put particular emphasis the fact that the worst disturbices occurred in places where they buld do maximum damage to the ar effort and that showed evidence long and careful planning.

In Bihar, center of the country's ar industry, "thousands of rioters we themselves up to an orgy of estruction of communications and ther government property," and whole district with their small depending forces, government officials and police were isolated for days on

For a considerable period, Maxwell said, the Province of Bengal, which. is India's main bulwalk of defense against the Japanese, was almost completely cut off from Northern India. Maxwell referred significantly to sinister motives, and the selective and careful planning of sabotage of the war effort, but offered no proof of fifth column connection between the rebels and the

Maxwell declared the movement has been brought under control in nearly all except a few isolated districts in the northeastern part of the country, that most of the industrial plants have resumed operation, and that, "although this suicidal movement has not yet finally been quelled, we can feel some justifiable confidence in our power to deal with any situation that may arise."

Maxwell's speech serves as a equel to the report given to the Prime Minister Churchill, whose remarks continue to evoke heated criticism from practically all sections of Indian opinion. Even the Moslems, with whom Churchill dealt most gently, attack the Prime Minister vehemently through the columns of Star of India, an organ of the All-India Moslem League.

"Seldom," says this newspaper, "has a speech so provocative and patronizing been delivered in Parli-ament * * (Churchill's) arrogant pronouncements about the (Sir Stafford) Cripps proposals being the last word in British statesmanship, are utterly futile. * * * (His) boast about white soldiers indicates that part of his bombast was meant for American consumption."

The British-owned Civil and Military Gazette, one of the stanchest supporters of the British policy in India, calls Churchill's statement "little short of calamitous." This organ holds no brief for the All-India National Congress party's rebellion, which it terms an "orgy of hooliganism" which must be excised, but it points out that the Prime Minister "made a grave mistake in concentrating on an ugly growth and ignoring the body which it dis-(Copyright, 1942, by Chicago Daily News.)

British Troops Land In East Madagascar; Tamatave Is Occupied

Fresh Invasion Follows Rejection of Terms For Armistice

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Sept. 18 .- A strong new British force has landed on the east coast of Madagascar and occupied the port of Tamatave after some French resistance, the British East Africa command announced today.

Tamatave is 130 miles northeast of Tananarive, the island's inland capital, and the first British beachhead on the east coast. The new landing came after the French colony had turned down British terms for an Reuters said it heard a Vichy broadcast reporting that one British column had driven to within 75 miles of Tananarive. This column presumably was one pushing toward the capital after the previous landings on the west coast.

Both British and French radio reports from the island had announced the occupation of Tamatave, but the communique was the first dislanded forces rather than by an offshoot of the columns moving toward Tananarive through the interior.

Little Damage to Town. Tamatave, Madagascar's principal commercial seaport, was said to have fallen into British hands with little damage, although it underwent a brief naval bombardment. One of the main railways on the island . links Tamatave to Tananarive.

Text of Canadian Statement on Raid Against Dieppe

Conduct of Troops in "Reconnaissance in Force" Highly Praised by Defense Minister; Benefits Are Found in Action in Spite of "Very Heavy Price" Paid for Information

By the Associated Press

OTTAWA, Sept. 18 .- Following is the text of the statement on the Dieppe raid of August 19 issued today by Defense Minister J. L.

It now is possible to give somewhat fuller details of the combined conditions could be considered to were preceded by minesweepers operation against the enemy forces approximately those in which the clearing the way, was a remarkable in the Dieppe area carried out Au- operation was to be conducted. gust 19 by forces which included a

It is obvious that many facts connature cannot be revealed without which he is very anxious to obtain. It is, therefore, impossible to tell Dieppe area. the full story of the Dieppe operaassistance to the enemy.

Reconnaissance in Force.

Objectives of the operation: The United Nations have an agreed offensive policy. In the preparation and development of such a policy the acquisition of the fullest possible information concerning the enemy's strength and dispositions and every other element in the situation affecting the conduct of operations against him is a matter of the most fundamental importance Such information is available from many sources, but it is frequently the case that facts essential to the successful prosecution of offensive operations can only be gained by fighting for them. The Dieppe operation must be regarded in this light. It was, in fact, a reconnaissance in force conceived with the important object of obtaining information and experience vital to the general offensive

It was considered most important opportunity for practical experience in the landing on an enemy-occupied coast of a large military force, and in particular in the problems arising force of heavy armored fighting

The strategic objectives of the operation now have been outlined in very general terms. It also had what may be termed tactical or local objectives involving the destruction of enemy installations in the Dieppe area and the infliction of as much local damage as possible upon the

It is impossible to discuss these objectives in detail.

The task of carrying out these operations against a well-fortified and strongly-held coastline was one which could be intrusted only to troops of a very high standard of training and general quality.

McNaughton O. K.'d Plan. Preliminaries of the operation: The employment of Canadian military forces was approved by the GOC-IN-C 1st Canadian Army (Lt. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton). He had satisfied himself that the objectives of the proposed operation were vital to the agreed offensive policy and that the means available were likely to be adequate for the task

The planning of the enterprise, so far as the Canadian military forces were concerned, was directed by Gen. Roberts, the military force commander. Canadian plans were concerted with the chief of combined operations (Vice Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten) by Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, general officer commanding a Canadian corps.

In all combined operations, there is a force commander for each service element involved. At Dieppe, while the military force commander. as already stated, was Gen. Roberts. the naval force commander was Capt. J. Hughes-Hallett, R. N., and the air force commander was Air Marshal T. Leigh-Mallory.

The Canadian military force involved was composed basically of large elements of two brigades of the 2d Canadian Division, commanded by Brigadiers W. W. Southam (of Toronto), and S. Lett (of Vancouver), and a battalion of the 1st Canadian Army Tank Brigade. The Canadian Army troops engaged comprised about 5,000 all ranks. In addition, detachments of all arms and services played essential parts in the operation.

All Troops Highly Trained. Units of the 2d Canadian Division were chosen because, although these troops had been in the United Kingdom since 1940, they had had no opportunities for active employment such as had fallen to troops of the 1st Canadian Division in France in June of 1940 and in the expedition to Spitzbergen in 1941.

The 1st Canadian Army Tank Brigade was the first Canadian armored formation to arrive in the United Kingdom, which it reached In June, 1941.

All the troops chosen for the enterprise were in high state of general training, apart from additional and special training which they received for this operation.

In addition to the Canadian forces, the military units employed included the 3d, 4th and Royal Marine "A" Commandos (special service brigade troops), as well as small detachments of United States Rangers and Fighting French troops.

The naval force participating included no vessels larger than destroyers and was composed primarily of various types of landing craft and support craft. In addition to vessels of the Royal Navy, the force included a Polish destroyer and some Fighting French chasseurs.

The air force consisted of units from all operational commands of the Royal Air Force, from the Royal Canadian Air Force, the United States Army Air Force, the Royal New Zealand Air Force, and Polish Czech, Norwegian, Belgian and Fighting French squadrons.

Thorough Understanding Reached. This operation was most carefully prepared in advance in every detail. The officers charged with planning the operation had at their disposal operation was checked on a largescale model of the area to be raided and when the plans were completed most thorough understanding had been established between the three operation plan: The town of Dieppe lies at the mouth of the River D'Arques, which treated rapidly up the coast and provides a fairly spacious harbor lying to the south and east of the ation. town. East of the river and harbor is a lofty headland overlooking the have afforded the German troops town and a similar headland lies immediately to the west.

On a great part of the coast in this vicinity cliffs make a landing from the sea virtually imposssible, but there are areas of low ground providing avenues to the interior in the vicinity of Puits, a little more than a mile to the east of the river, and Pourville, situated at the mouth of the River Scie, about a mile and the objective, and the officer in coma half west of the town.

The beach immediately in front of Disppe itself is suitable for landing operations, but the approach the fire of the battery. to the town is obstructed by a seawall which the Germans had turned into a more formidable obstacle by that our forces should have an the use of heavy barbed wire, while the beach is also commanded by the headlands on either side.

The pian for the operation provided that assaults should be deout of the employment in such a livered by special service brigade troops against enemy coastal batteries at Varengeville, roughly 5 miles west of Dieppe, and Berneval, roughly 6 miles east of the town. The capture or disablement of the enemy guns at these points was considered necessary to the safety of our naval vessels offshore and the successful execution of the landing operations closer to the town.

Other Landings Arranged. Simultaneously with the special places Canadian forces were to land at Pourville and Puits. The troops landed at Puits were to secure the headland east of Dieppe, from which the enemy would otherwise be in a the town itself. The main attack was to be delivered against the front of the town, with machine guns and mortars, and following a naval and air bombardment. Heavy tanks were to be employed in this attack in support of the Canadian infantry. The need for knowledge and experience concerning the transport and landing of tanks was fundamental to the operational plan. The tanks once ashore, it was, of course hoped to re-embark them if conditions were favorable. Orders were given, however, that tanks were to be disabled and left behind if it were a choice of re-embarking men or machines.

As for the more limited and local objectives of the raid, enemy batteries and a radio location station were destroyed: heavy casualties were inflicted upon the enemy and and one and possibly two armed vessels were sunk. For the lessons learned and the

LOWEST IN NICOTINE LOWEST IN TARS AND RESINS

AS SHOWN BY READER'S DIGEST TESTS

The aim of Old Gold has always been to give you a pleasant, flavorful smoke. On the basis of flavor alone—the delicious new taste that comes from an added natural flavoring of precious tobacco-thousands enjoy this fine cigarette.

Many smokers, however, are interested in various amounts of nicotine and tarry irritants in cigarettes. The degree of difference that exists is in our favor, according to impartial tests of 7 leading brands, as reported by Reader's Digest. These tests showed Old Gold smoke lowest in nicotine, lowest in irritating tars and resins. Apparently this carries weight with many smokers. Since the report was published, thousands have changed to Old Gold.

Try new Old Golds, soon! They give you something new in smoking pleasure.

Many could train troops, or assume administrative duties to release other men for active duty, he added. Others could teach preinduction military or naval courses in high schools-and the committee may recommend establishing refresher courses to aid such men, he

Some relaxation of rationing restrictions may also be urged, Mr. Atherton reported, to aid the 81,000 veterans providing their own transportation as East-Coast air raid watchers. "A high proportion of them are in defense industries. They need cars to go to work, and they're up against the proposition of quitting the air raid service or quitting their jobs."

A post-war program to provide military training for all boys under 22 may also be considered.

Metropolitan Life Wins Suit Dismissal

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 18.-A $750,000 suit against the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. and other defendants. brought by Morris H. Siegel and Samuel M. Siegel, insurance counselors, was dismissed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Benedict D.

The suit was the third brought by the Seigels against the insurance company and its officers, the two others being suits for libel. One of these went to trial last spring and resulted in a verdict for the defendants; the other, asking $250,000 damages, is pending.

The complaint dismissed by Justice Dineen charged conspiracy to injure the plaintiffs' business.

It is likely that several fighter pilots, whose ability is so great that the major burden of fighting the whole distance from the Philippines through Java to Australia is being borne by them, will soon receive relief and promotions.

Gen. Kenney, like his predecessors, has been frequently in New Guinea, already, and the changeover to his command is not a sudden but a smooth and prepared-for transition. (Copyright, 1942, by Chicago Daily News.)

Farm Bloc Rebuke

In announcing his "unalterable opposition" to any change at this time in the method of computing the parity price of farm products, the President is clearly in the right. This proposal to alter the parity price formula, sponsored principally by Chairman Steagall of the House Banking Committee, is nothing more than a camouflaged method of maintaining farm prices at aboveparity levels. It would give the appearance of holding farm prices in line with the President's program to control living costs, but actually it would serve to raise these prices.

As the President himself expressed ft: "The parity principle for which this administration has stood since 1933 was a good standard for peacetime—it is a good standard for war. To recalculate parity now and to offer to the public 100 per cent of a new and higher parity would be to offer stabilization, yet destroy the possibility of achieving it." This analysis of the farm bloc's latest maneuver is as clear and as accurate as any that could be made. It is to be hoped that Congress, with the inequities of the proposed new parity formula so convincingly demonstrated, will look to the larger good of the country as a whole and refuse to yield to this newest pressure group demand.

At the same time, it should be of farm labor and the high wages that must be paid to obtain any agricultural help constitute a serious threat to the farmer. The remedy does not lie in revising the parity formula to take into account the cost of farm help, for in an increasing number of cases farm labor cannot be had at any price. What is needed is a full understanding of the gravity of this problem, and a earefully planned governmental program to assure the farmers sufficient help to enable them to plant and harvest their crops.

The Government's deliberate program to boost wages paid in factories and shipyards has caused the migration of labor away from the farms. If we are not to fall down on the job of food production next year, this condition must be corrected and only the Government can do it.

The Army's Fighters

A recent news dispatch from Seattle related an interesting story of the exploit of a young naval officer who had been presented with a box of cigars by his commander because he refrained from jettisoning his torpedo while making a dangerous flight close to the water in a Navy plane. But, of even greater interest, was the rather curious fashion in which this dispatch gave the public its first performance report on the Army's P-38 fightersthe so-called Lockheed Lightnings, whose combat abilities have been the subject of considerable controversy.

According to the story related by the Navy officer, two P-38s "escorted by" a B-17 Army bomber—the Flying Fortress type - trapped and destroyed two Japanese four-engine bombers. Ordinarily bombers are escorted by fighter planes, and to say that fighters were escorted by a bomber normally would imply that the fighters were unable to take care of themselves.

Apparently, however, that implication was not intended in this instance, as the report makes it clear that the P-38s did a very businesslike job of blasting the Jap planes out of the sky. This is very interesting news, considering the doubts which have been cast on the performance of these tremendously fast high-altitude fighters. But it would seem more in order to have these significant facts brought to public attention in an adequate announcement by the Army Air Force.

A Worth-While Acquisition

The Government has made so convincing a demonstration recently of its need for such an establishment that there should be no opposition from any quarter to the purchase of the Blair mansion and its permanent use hereafter for the accommodation of distinguished guests of the United States. The State Department long felt the need for such quarters but poses of the founders Dr. Thomas in times past evidently was unable | Hopkins Gallaudet and his son, Dr. to convince Congress. And until the | Edward Miner Gallaudet, are carried recent death of the late Gist Blair, forward with ever-increasing social a newspaper headline. If it really who occupied it as his home, the and cultural significance. Blair house was not available. It Dr. Hall himself is entitled to much are recommended; it would be hard was placed at the disposal of the of the credit the college has achieved to find any sharper scrap.

Government only recently and while there have been numerous reports that the mansion might be bought as a guest house for distinguished visitors, yesterday's Star brought the first definite confirmation that negotiations to that end actually were under way. The proximity of the home to the White House and the State Department, its historical association with residential Washington of the past and its adaptability to the uses planned for it make it ideal. The physical problem involved in finding suitable quarters in Washington now makes the purchase a very real need. But even in the happier days to come, when there is more room in town and our visitors are brought on less emergent errands, there should be fit quarters to place at their disposal.

Japanese Jungle Tactics

The war in the South Pacific is as complex as it is far-flung. Extending over millions of square miles of island-studded ocean, it has many phases and at least three strategical aspects-those of land, sea and air. For the moment, land fighting holds the spotlight and centers around the tactically separate yet strategically connected operations on Guadalcanal Island in the Solomons and in the New Guinea hills back of Port Moresby. In both those areas, savage battles are being fought between relatively small, yet highly specialized units. And the outcome apparently will be determined by the relative skill and stamina of the respective forces.

Probably the greatest single surprise of the Pacific war has been the extraordinary ability of Japan's jungle troops. First in Malaya and then in Burma, they applied infiltration tactics which quickly overwhelmed their British and East Indian opponents. Much the same was true in the Netherlands Indies. And it begins to look as though history might repeat itself in New Guinea. During the past ten days the Japanese jungle specialists have made an amazing series of advances, first across the reputedly impregnable Owen Stanley Mountains, and then through the rugged foothills between the main range and the seacoast. In the past three days they have gone fully twenty miles through terrain covered with supposedly impenetrable jungle, and they have accomplished all this against the stubborn opposition of veteran Australian troops who are also jungle-wise. They are now halfrecognized that there is substantial | way from the mountains to Port Guinea which covers the approach to Northern Australia. At Guadalcanal the situation is > thus far less disquieting. Guadalcanal is a large island, nearly one hundred miles long and averaging between thirty and forty miles broad. The interior is hilly to mountainous and, for the most part, clad in heavy jungle. Early in August, key points on the coast, together with a halfcompleted airfield, were captured by our Marines as part of the brilliant surprise operation which took the Southern Solomons. The remnant of the Japanese garrison of Guadalcanal was driven into the interior, where they were systematically hunted by our forces. However, they were never exterminated, and recently they have been heavily reinforced by Japanese troops landed probably by speedboats under cover of darkness. Although the airfield and coastal points are still in our possession, it looks as though the jungle hinterland was mostly in Japanese control. Whether our forces on Guadalcanal were not strong enough to maintain the offensive against the strengthened Japanese, or whether the latter's infiltration tactics through the dense jungle succeeded there as on New Guinea, has not yet been revealed by our communiques.

One thing, however, appears certain. The highly trained Japanese jungle fighters are opponents so dangerously resourceful that none but the best troops can cope with them on that difficult terrain. It is now known that the Japanese high command has been training large units for years in this highly specialized type of warfare, their training grounds being Formosa and Southern China, where semi-tropical jungle country is abundantly found. That is one more proof of the meticulous care with which the war lords of Tokio prepared for the gigantic gamble they have undertaken.

Dr. Hall's Fifty Years

The fiftieth anniversary of the beginning of the professional career of Dr. Percival Hall, president of Gallaudet College, is worthy of celebration by the whole community of Washington. Having served the deaf and the partly deaf for half a century, he has earned the gratitude of their neighbors and friends throughout the country. The work he has done is highly specialized and for that reason may not be comprehended adequately by the general public, but it is profoundly appreciated none the less even by those persons who lack understanding of its details. In brief outline, it perhaps should be explained that the institution over which Dr. Hall has presided since 1910 is unique in the world. It is the only school of higher learning for deaf mutes in existence. That means that it occupies a particular place, fulfills a distinct function. The pur under his management. Born in the District of Columbia and educated at Harvard University, he came to his task through deliberate and conscious desire to help young people who were handicapped by defective hearing. His apprenticeship was spent at Washington Heights School for the Deaf. A natural interest in mathematics and engineering qualified him to be an instructor in those fields and he still maintains his enthusiasm for them. The demands of his administrative duties have not removed him from academic enter-

But the value of Dr. Hall to his fellow-citizens since 1892 is best demonstrated by mention of the record of success which the alumni of Gallaudet College have established in that period. Many graduates have become teachers and supervisors in schools for the deaf. Others have gone into the ministry. Many more are editors, printers, chemists, photographers, real estate operators, farmers and industrial workers. Each is a human proof of victory over circumstance. Sustaining each is the unseen influence of great love for the human family.

Fuel Oil Rationing The threat of fuel oil rationing, which has been in prospect ever since the critical shipping shortage developed, soon will become an accomplished fact, and in consequence, most of the area between the Atlantic seaboard and the Rocky Mountains will go on a restricted basis. There is no disputing the need for the program, and it wisely has been instituted far enough in advance of the winter months to enable consumers to shape plans to meet it before severe weather sets in. At present, it seems likely that supplies will be at least 25 per cent below normal, and this translated into terms of heating means that the average home must get along with temperatures ranging from 65 to 68 degrees, as compared to the 70 and 74 ordinarily considered desirable. Such a change in living habits will cause a certain amount of discomfort, and even more serious consequences may follow unless extreme care is taken. In a thoughtful discussion of this very point recently, the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers declared rationing would impose a responsibility on the medical, public health and engineering professions to establish methods and procedures | Harbor, beginning with 29 strikes in Janto offset reduced temperatures and uary, there were about 350 strikes in prevent discomfort and ill health.

Federal officials are urging strongly basis for the claim that the shortage | Moresby, the main Allied base in New | the conversion of oil heaters to coal, but that solution has only limited possibilities. One of the major difficulties is inability to procure coalheating equipment. At a forum on the heating situation here this week, | clares: "The series of strikes throughout a representative of a large fuel concern reported that orders had gone unfilled for more than a month. He also expressed the opinion that a coal shortage would develop if 20 to 25 per cent of the local oil users turned to that fuel. That perhaps

The inauguration of oil rationing again points to the need for cutting non-essential use of gasoline to an absolute minimum so every available ounce of transportation can be used for handling fuel for heat. Further restrictions on the operation of pleasure cars already are contemplated as a part of the rubber conservation program, and in the light of the fuel situation it is evident that delay in acting along this line is doubly dangerous.

Damage Control

A little known and less publicized branch of naval training is that of damage control. The enemy hits a ship, knocking out some vital portion. Extensive repairs are necessary at some naval base, but that comes later. Time's a wastin', and the enemy is on hand to be struck, so the damage control officer gets busy. He may not bring his vessel up to par in efficiency, but by clever makeshifts he keeps it going while the going is good.

Now, it seems, the Army is making a belated start in this direction. It is a humble one, and not strictly official. It was initiated by a Topeka barber who served recently with the Kansas State Guard, and whose tonsorial soul was professionally horrified at the military damage inflicted on heads by the inept manipulations of the amateur sheep shearers drafted by the Army and turned loose on a defenseless soldiery to practice as barbers. He passes out business cards with the legend "Service Men's Barber Shop. Army Haircuts Repaired."

His work is said to be miraculous. He takes the worst-mauled head, and restores it to 90 per cent usefulness. Even in the toughest and most pitiable cases, he is proud to say that he has never yet had to resort to amputation.

Bishop Urges Laws to Control Groups Making Use of War For Selfish Purposes

To the Editor of The Star:

The vital matter, not only for the United States but, indeed, for the whole world, is to win in this war against the domination of cruel, merciless brute force which, in its mad lust, is trying to rule the world by crushing out freedom of speech, the press, religion and individual action. For over two years our country shamefully stood on the sidelines while the horrible, unprecedented persecution of innocent, helpless people was being carried on. Because of "the little Americans," the isolationists and the peaceat-any-price pacifists, the cowardly neutrality law and the "cash and carry" law were enacted. In May, 1940, many outstanding leaders, including churchmen, foresaw that participation in the war by our country was inevitable, but not until Pearl Harbor did our country. under compulsion, meet her responsibility and declare war.

Today the United States is joined with other Nations in the war with the Axis powers. The vital matter is to win this war. Nothing must be allowed to interfere with this objective. The Conscription Act is calling, and will continue to call, millions of our sons into the armed forces. The Government determines their food, their uniform, their work, their pay, and when and where they shall fight. Everything is made to bend to the one great objective of winning the war.

It is obvious and distressing, however, that there are certain groups which are more concerned to take advantage of the war situation to secure personal benefits and advantages, regardless of the effect upon vital war aims, than they are in winning the war. The labor and capital question has faced the country, and faces it daily with its conflict for higher profits and higher wages. The first great objective with many capitalists (not all) and many organized labor groups (not all) is money. Other men must give up social and business life to fight and to die, to protect the freedom and the homes of these selfish and covetous business and labor traitors. Several months ago the writer insisted that the time had come to conscript all capital and labor necessary to help the Government win the war. Legislation to give a fair return to capital and management, legislation to tell laboring men where, and how many hours, and for what fair wages they should work should have been passed months ago. Men in the armed forces cannot strike, nor should men in the war industries be permitted to strike, but since Pearl June, about 400 in July-altogether for the first seven months about 1,500 strikes. Virtually all these strikes involved members of organized labor unions, and were called in violation of union labor's "no strike" pledge made after Pearl Harbor. Dr. George Gallup in Liberty (issue of September 12) de-1940 and 1941 caused mounting public anger, particularly against union leaders of the more militant type. . . The inevitable result was that the public began to think that some of the big unions were putting their own interests ahead of national defense. . . If nothing is done, there is certain to be an ever-increasing public demand for antiunion legislation. . . More than three in every four voters are in favor of legislation to outlaw strikes in the defense industries.' Why this difference in the treatment of men in labor unions and our armed forces? Is the difference political. because the labor unions are organized, and can be used as a political voting bloc? In the New York Times of September 11 a dispatch from Blackpool, England, states that "Joseph Padway, general counsel of the AFL, as a visiting speaker, told the English Congress of Labor that American workers would demand the nomination of President Roosevelt for a fourth term." Does this explain the special tenderness shown toward labor, and contrawise does this special tenderness explain the arrogant demands of labor? Has not the time come when the rank and file of American citizens should demand in no uncertain terms that Congress and the President shall outlaw all strikes in defense industries and fix hours, wages and profits in all such industries?

The farm bloc politicians, who have claimed, without full warrant, to represent all the farmers, likewise have taken advantage of the war situation, and have been clamoring and fighting for increased prices for the necessities of life, regardless of the fact that the rank and file of the consuming population have not received any such increase in wages, as have the members of labor unions. A fair ceiling and floor should be promptly set upon farm products, taking that question entirely and permanently out of politics during the war.

Some radical Negro organizations are also attempting to take advantage of the war situation to demand immediate changes which will secure to Negroes additional rights and privileges, such as would not be possible of attainment in normally progressive advance. However, it is worthy of note that some very wise Negro leaders fear the effect upon race relations of such aggressive efforts to take advantage of war conditions to push for changes too rapidly. The Negro weekly, the Norfolk Journal and Guide. considering this effort as untimely, declares: "The time has come for the 13,000,000 Negroes of America to throw all that they have into this war. The time has come when we must fight desperately to save what we have gained during the past 75 years." In an address to the youth of the world, President Roosevelt denounced certain political groups, declaring: They play petty politics in a world crisis." This necessarily focused attention upon the injection of presidential activity in the New York political conflict. The country also is disturbed with the apparent effect of the approaching elections upon congressional action, or non-action. The great body of the American people realize and insist that the main and vital matter is to win the war. Such citizens are increasingly indignant at the tenderness with which these pressure groups are being handled advocated Government subsidies, in place by both Congress and the President.

Pressure groups and "politics as usual" JAMES CANNON, Jr.

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

"SIXTEENTH STREET. "Dear Sir:

"Although our story goes beyond the theme of the quoted language, this letter is largely inspired by a recent article appearing in your column, particularly the following paragraph: 'It does no good to put foods in feeding stations, if you expect the robins to get it. They are not seed eaters, of course, and do not frequent feeding stations. We never recall seeing a robin at a bird feeding station.

"Two of us live in the vicinity of Six teenth street and Park road-in an apartment having some trees and shrubs nearby. Last January we decided to make a serious attempt to attract the birds to our narrow window ledge.

"We first put out feed on the ledge. The wind promptly blew it off. The casement window and frame are constructed of steel so there was no available method of attaching a feeding tray. We set out a heavy shallow crockery dish into which we placed sunflower seed, raisins, a piece of apple and a small dish of water. * * * *

"Days and weeks passed without any response whatever-not even so much as an English sparrow. We persisted and regularly set out fresh feed.

"Three months passed. Then one day a mockingbird appeared and fed on the raisins and apple. With raucous noises and dive-bombing tactics, he drove all the other birds from the vicinity. We called him Sergt. McGinty. He patrolled the place and fed with us for about a week. One day he disappeared, apparently never to return. We have often wondered as to what ever became of the "Shortly thereafter came the heavy snow of last March. Robins, forlorn and dejected, tried in vain to find something to eat and protection from the wintry winds. One sat in a tree for hours, almost motionless, casting hungry eyes in the direction of the feed on the ledge. To our considerable delight, he finally mustered up sufficient courage to come to the ledge for a raisin. He was a large, full-chested male in fine plumage. He found the raisins to his liking and, in the days to come, came back for them again and again.

"In due time the robin found a mate and brought her to the festive board. They built a nest in the vicinity, and later came and left with their bills overfull of raisins. The fledgings were brought to the ledge for raisins. We noted that Mom fed the children first and then herself, if any were left; Pop always took care that he had a few raisins left for himself.

"Our raisins being (apparently) a contributing inducement, Mom and Pop raised a second family, which also was brought to the ledge for feeding. Meanwhile, a pair of cardinals occasionally came to feed on our sunflower seed.

"With the second family of robins also came a family of catbirds. For about

I two weeks the competition was keen for a place on the ledge. There was a tense moment when a baby catbird with open mouth and fluttering wings appeared on the ledge before the mother robin. However, the situation was relieved when the robin flew away-after striking a pose and disdainfully looking down its bill at the baby.

"When mid-July came, the families of robins and catbirds left, presumably to prepare for their long flight South. Later a family of cardinals came,

"Our birds have been an almost neverending source of interest and pleasure to us. In fact, they have been a tonic for our thoughts and mental processes in these sordid times.

"Yours sincerely, F. M. W." * * * *
The robins would not have come, in the first place, if there had been any other birds at the feeding station. They do not like to feed with other species, especially with sparrows.

That is why they are not usual feeding station quests It must be very interesting to have a sparsely patronized station, with just a which many birds do not give. This is one of the best features of the windowsill feeder. It allows the observer to see as closely as possible.

A thin curtain may be placed so that it hides the interior from the birds, but does not prevent the observer from getting a good look. In some cases this precaution will not be necessary.

It all depends. One of the mistakes of bird watching is to believe that every bird must act exactly like every other bird of the same species.

All one can do is report what one has seen. Other persons may have birds act differently. Birds are individualists. too, just as the peoples of democratic nations are. With the exception of bees and a few other creatures, the instinct toward individualism is one of the golden threads of conduct. * * * *

During the storm referred to by our correspondent, a lone robin sat on a stump in the snow.

He wanted something to eat, but he would not come to a plentiful supply placed in a cleared space in the snow. And he never came.

He was an individualist, all right. Robins like best to eat off the ground. Raisins thrown in the grass will attract them, and at this sort of a "feeding staspecies, particularly catbirds and cardi-

Thinks "White Persons"

Must Justify Negroes' Faith. To the Editor of the Star:

No greater tribute could be paid to the loyalty of the American Negroes to their country than the simple recounting in The Star of their repudiation of Japanese propaganda spread by some misguided members of their own race. In Harlem, the largest Negro community in the United States, only 200 persons could be found who would even attend meetings where such propaganda was disseminated. And better yet, it was the Negroes themselves who reported the situation to the Federal authorities.

However, as Pearl Buck points out in her book, "American Unity and Asia," the sober truth of the matter is that Japanese propaganda is not wholly untrue when it states that the white man nowhere in the world has given the colored peoples a fair break.

We white persons can only rejoice that the Negroes are intelligent enough to see that they would lose everything in the event of an Axis victory. In our turn, we must not fail to live up to their trust in American democracy, and this can be done only by giving every Negro his share of the fruits of democracya chance to work where he is best fitted to work and to play where he desires. JOHN Q.

Finds "Overlapping" and Incompetency In Other Branches of "New Deal." To the Editor of The Star

The Baruch committee's report on why the rubber program had bogged down is most revealing. It found a multiplicity of overlapping and conflicting agencies, overstaffed with misfits and incompetents, people without special knowledge who made important decisions, and all this complicated by the demands of politics and resulting in indecision and chaos which threatened collapse on both the military and civilian fronts.

Unfortunately, that is not limited to the rubber field. We have the same thing on the anti-inflation front, and also threatening collapse. A few months ago it was on the civilian defense front. and a few months earlier it was in the national defense field. In fact, the New Deal has always been that way-a multiplicity of overlapping and conflicting agencies over-staffed with incompetent persons who have no special knowledge, but who have authority beyond their capacity to use wisely. Look how they are running around in circles in the economic and fiscal fields. We are told that living standards and "social gains" must be maintained, but there is scarcely any attempt to curb Government spending, which must be paid "in the sweat of every man who labors." On one hand they grant pay boosts to everybody, from war workers to Government clerks, and then wonder where they can impose more taxes to raise the money to pay these boosts. First they raise the income of the people, and then they seek means to reduce the "surplus buying power" to prevent inflation. "stabilized," and then creates a board which raises wages, especially in the higher brackets. Government pays it, it won't cost any body anything! But the gem is the recent proposal of a withholding tax which is to be returned to the taxpayer at the end of the war. Thus the "surplus buying power" of the people will be drawn off and the Government will obtain much needed revenue. Clever? Yes-until you begin to inquire where the Government will get that money at the end of the war! Perhaps this will be in the same category as social security benefits, when these become due.

EDW. WOLESENSKY.

Criticizes Senate Tax Bill From Middle-Class Angle. To the Editor of the Star:

The income tax bill which the Senate committee has passed is a far cry from the one recently passed by the House of Representatives. As I understand it, the original bill called for a deduction of 5 per cent of taxable income from the pay envelope for income tax, not 5 per cent of total salary plus the regular income

We do not object to increased income taxes at this time, or sales taxes to help our country, but it seems too much to arbitrarily take 5 per cent of our salaries before we even receive them, hold the money without interest, and then pay back a certain per cent of this.

I think my opinion represents that of a great many people of the middle classes. Is this a democratic or even business-like way of handling the tax problem? Are we not capable of making our own payments, or must we be treated as children who cannot save any money? Do the Senators realize the amount of bookkeeping involved? A large per cent of the tax collected will have to be spent to keep the accounts. And think of the mistakes which could be made, with all the changes which are taking place!

The statements which are put forward that we must be taxed to prevent inflation antagonize many of us, as are also those whick state that the Government is afraid the American people have more money than they know what to do with. Not one of my acquaintances is in this category. I am making a fair salary but I keep a strict budget, and after I pay necessary expenses, house, food, laundry, etc., I have exactly $5 a month left for clothes for the family, and $2 a month left for personal allowance for myself and child. This must cover amusements, school supplies, gifts, postage, etc. I owe money to my insurance and retirement fund. Perhaps others do not figure quite as close as I do, but it is a fair sample of how the American people stand financially.

Why not have a uniform sales tax? The income tax as presented will work many hardships, and will take all or more of any raises which we hope to get. These are granted because of the higher cost of living. Let us hope that | The sune the winds played this bill will not be approved as it stands.

Larger Fleet Of U.S. Subs Is Suggested

Public Interest and Speedier Production Are Recommended

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Americans invented both the airplane and the submarine but the Germans thus far have made most effective use of both weapons.

Much is being said about victory through air power but it will be noted that a submarine sank the Yorktown, our latest loss in aircraft carriers. In the Atlantic. the Nazis have succeeded in sinking an enormous amount of shipping and some valuable cargoes, including the very air- David Lawrence. craft and munitions needed to maintain our air forces overseas.

Why has the submarine been neglected in public discussions? Why is there no Seversky or Kaiser demaiding better and faster submarine construction? Why is it that the United States neglected the building of this vital weapon until 1940, although the power of the submarine to destroy tonnage was proved beyond doubt in the First World War?

There is every reason to believe that American submarines are giving an excellent account of themselves in the Pacific. Although our number of undersea boats available in the Pacific are doubtless not anywhere near the number used by the Nazis in the Atlantic, it is estimated that we have destroyed at least a fourth of what the Nazi submarines have accomplished in the Atlantic.

Latest Navy Department figures show that our submarines have sunk about 100 Japanese ships. The Nazis are estimated by unofficial figures to have sunk somewhere between 450 and 475 Allied ships on this side of the Atlantic. No estimates as to the amount of dollar loss involved have ever been revealed, but it is clear that from a military viewpoint the submarine has done damage that compares well in effectiveness with the military damage done by dropping bombs abroad.

More Attention Suggested.

It is not being suggested that emphasis be placed on the subany other weapon but that the importance of the submarine be recognized in the allocation of critical materials, in the speeding up of construction and in the general advancement of the program.

Authoritative figures show that on October 10, 1941, Japan had 71 submarines and seven building or a total of 78. Germany had 120 in service and 180 building or a total of 300. The United States had 113 in service and 73 building or a total

After Pearl Harbor we began appropriating more money for submarines. Official data reveal that Congress authorized in December tonnage equivalent to about 23 more and in June, 1942, Congress stepped this up by tonnage equivalent to another 100 submarines.

This would mark a grand total of 309 built and building, which is just about what the German program was already nearly a year ago. and the other from the United Since then, Germany has used up a States Dairy Division at Beltsville, good many undersea boats and is Md., have made production records believed to have a speedy construction program for replacement well under way.

America is building many of the large type capable of traveling across the Pacific. But the submarines must be operated from land bases or mother ships for fuel.

The absence of bases in the far Pacific has handicapped our submarines but as the United States Navy gradually re-acquires bases in the southwest and western Pacific, the opportunity for effective sub- duction of the average dairy cow marine action will be steadily in- in the country, according to the creased.

officers. This is entirely a volunteer sociation. service, but the Navy is able to keep up with construction in the matter of manning the new boats with trained men and officers.

It takes about 11 months to build large submarine. Can this time a large submarine. Can this time be cut by the various speed-up formulas that have helped us to turn out planes and cargo ships at record production? Very little is known by the public about submarine construction. There has been a good deal of secrecy about it, but with the splendid work being done by American submarine crews in the Pacific, the opportunity for stimulating the whole submarine program would seem to be increased by disclosing more and more about our offensive operations with the submarine. Japan's many sea lanes are traversed by cargo ships and transports which carry supplies and men to bases in the Netherland East Indies and in and around the China Sea. This must inevitably furnish a chance for American submarines to play an effective part in defeating Japan-provided we can get enough submarines built soon enough to help our fleet in the Pacific. Another 100 submarines in service now, in addition to what we have in the Pacific, might turn the whole tide of the war in that area.

Essential, Untapped Labor Resources Springs From People in School-to-Farm Movement

By DOROTHYY THOMPSON.

While we are discussing the placing of workers in the most effective places—the problem concerning Paul V. McNutt, to whom a new executive order gives authority over 2,300,000 Federal employes -we must not lose sight of the fact that the basic problem is to create totally new cadres of workers. This country is short of Dorothy Thompson. manpower. The war is forcing us to give up many old prejudices, among them the one that this country is overpopulated.

Our enemies are able to draw upon enormous reserves of workers-Hitler in the conquered countries inhabited by 230,000,-000, plus Germany and Italy which together are another 120,-000.000

And Hitler has made the most of it. He has transferred 6,-000,000 foreign workers to Germany alone, as well as using the workers in the industries of the countries where they dwell.

Our own population is about 132,000,000, and of these only 54,000,000 are normally classified as working or wanting to work. There are only 80,000,000 persons between the ages of 15 and 65, male and female. Probably the total of those over 16, who could be put to whole or part-time work, is not more than 65,000,-000. Out of these also must be drawn an Army of from 10,000,-000 to 13,000,000.

Others Withdrawn.

Out of productive work also must be drawn Federal and State and other officials. We learn that 1 in 20 of our normally employable persons is already on the Federal payroll. This bureaucracy is too big. It is greatly to be hoped that Mr. McNutt will reduce it drastically

The question remains whether the creation of new cadres of labor can be done from above by decrees and by a new bureaucratic organization ordering everyone what he has to do and where he has to go, or whether we, the people, have creative power in ourselves, assisted by the Government but relatively free of hureaucracy h can meet the problem.

The use of manpower is not merely a matter of quantity but of quality-of putting the right person in the right place. There is no instance, Government or otherwise, that can decide that as well as the individual person, who knows his talents and the circumstances necessary to his

A Place for Youth. Yes, and in a way that will promote their health, strengthen their characters, add very much to their knowledge, and integrate them deeper into the Nation.

Useful work can be part of their education, furnishing a complement to their book learning and an antidote to their largely urban life. They can be used for seasonal labor on farms.

Their school year can be shortened and adjusted to make it possible for them to work from sowing to harvest in those parts of the country where there are clear seasons. The training of their brains will not lose by this. provided they are integrated in farm life with its marifold skills.

The brain is developed indirectly through the hands and the body, as well as through direct mental exercise, and the greatest test of intelligence is its capacity to adapt itself to new situations and differing circumstances. The challenge of new environments has, historically, brought out the greatest physical and intellectual qualities in persons and races.

Proved in Experiment.

Schoolboys over 16 and schoolgirls over 18 can be turned with extreme rapidity into adequate and very useful agricultural workers, and enjoy themselves in that work. This was proved this summer on a small but representative scale by the Volunteer Land Corps, which made a laboratory test of 600 in the state of Vermont. Almost without exception they were city youths, whose average age was about 17. They were recruited fairly hit or miss. with probably too little attention paid to their physical and moral qualifications.

Yet 80 per cent of them were retained by their farmers on wages, the simplest test of whether they performed the work they were expected to do.

But this never would have been possible if it had been bureaucratically organized as a mere labor-exchange matter. It was organized as a patriotic pioneering movement; it was supervised by its own county field agents; it was supported by such institutions as the Grange and the Extension Service, as well as by bodies of farmers and local leaders; it continually invoked the spirit and the mind as well as the body; it created a press for the exchange of mutual experiences; it discovered poets among its members and used them-without taking them off from pitching

Not Regimented. And so, small as it is, it is already a vivid part of the Nation, of a dead mechanism. What we need is not first to atomize the Nation and then regiment it, but to sink deep into the springs of its creative power and release it into the channels where it will fertilize our great land.

and a self-creative part instead

It is probable that in an emergency this country must be organized from above. But it must be organized simultaneously from below by the people themselves, otherwise nothing will come to fruition.

The result is divided authority, duplication, conflict and confusion.

The silly rubber setup which the Baruch report scrapped was just a considerable number of existing one instance. There are numerous agencies and the removal from the others. Revamping of Navy Department Heads Expected to Bring Officers Here From Field

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.

Complete revamping of the internal organization of the Navy Department is expected to follow promotion of Rear Admiral John Towers to vice admiral and his assignment to the Pacific as air forces commander

Admiral Ernest J. King. commander in chief of the United States Fleet, intends to bring back to Washington to head the various bureaus officers who are familiar with modern warfare and have seen it first hand. He wants only officers who have seen active service in the last few months so they can approach the various problems of naval warfare from the practical point of view as well as the theoretical.

Rear Admiral John S. McCain. who succeeds Admiral Towers as chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, is fresh from the thick of battle. He has distinguished himself recently in the active zone of operations in the Pacific and it is assumed that he was in command of the fleet air force under Vice Admiral Robert L. Ghorm-

Admiral McCain is said to have been exceptionally successful in co-operating with the Army Air Forces while at his former post. Thus his appointment has been received happily by both Army and Navy officers, who have been somewhat disturbed by the occasional lack of understanding between the two aviation services.

Closer Understanding Sought.

The transfer of Admiral Mc-Cain from the combat zone to Washington at this time is regarded as a clear indication that Admiral King wants not only positions of authority held by men who have "delivered" in the field but also that he wishes to achieve far closer understanding between the Army and Navy.

Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, and Admiral King have talked the same language ever since they began to work together. While there have been frequent stories about lack of friendly co-operation between the Army and Navy-the service heads in Washington have had the most cordial relations from the moment Admiral King was transferred from command of the Atlantic fleet to be commander of the United States

There has, however, been frequent friction between ranking subordinates in the Army and Navy due to the fact that West Point didn't talk Annapolis language. These frictions, which seldom were aired in public, led some members of Congress to suggest that the first class men in both military institutions should be given a chance to work .together. While this, of course, would not be practical under present circumstances, greater harmony between the ranking officials of the Army and Navy has been ordered and already a number of heads have fallen because co-operation has not been

Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, will discuss strategic problems of aviation together and it is assumed that Admiral Nimitz will make decisions regarding use of naval aviation after full consultation with Admiral Towers.

While rated as a good officer, Admiral Towers has seen active service in only World War 1-25 years ago. He is regarded as a good executive, but his qualities could not be developed fully while he lacked personal contact with the role aviation is playing in the Pacific war.

Our last meal in the place we are leaving is always a gourmet's nightmare. Nothing is saved. Nothing is spared. Everyhting is put on the table. A handful of watercress. A bit of sour cream. An old fragment of meat loaf. A remnant of a lamb chop. A slice or two of rye bread that should have joined its fathers long ago.

Even the pup, Cindy, must do her share. She is asked to eat things that even a dog shouldn't be asked to eat. And, if she refuses, which she always does, we wrap it up and take it with us, so that she gets it for her next meal.

The last three days spent in the place we are leaving is spent in constant discussion of how much to leave in tips. It is not until you leave an apartment that you realize how many persons have served you in one way or another. We solve it this way: First, we shake the hands of all the attendants. We try to give the impression that they are our pals, first, last, and always.

Then, just as we leave them, we thrust a sealed envelope in their hands, and run.

Orthodox, Reformed Jews Prepare to Mark Eve Of Day of Atonement

Messages of spirtual comradeship were exchanged between Washington faiths today as both Orthodox and Reformed Jews prepared to mark the eve of the Day of Atonement, Yom Kippur, starting at sundown Sunday

From the Washington Ministerial Union came a greeting to the Wash- will be broadcast over Station ington Hebrew Congregation, which | WMAL. Rabbi Norman Gerstenfeld termed "a profound commentary" on the comradeship of the religious forces of the community

Rabbi Gerstenfeld Replies.

"In the name of our common humanity, our common aspiration of soul in response to the Fatherhood of God, and in our common desire to know God's Will and to do it," said the message, "the members of the Washington Ministerial Union wish to express to the members of the Jewish household of faith in Washington their most cordial greetings and their deep sense of spiritual kinship with you in the mood of humility, gratitude and repentance which marks your celebration of the Day of Atonement.

In Rabbi Gerstenfeld's response he prayed "that God will bless the religious life of our American community so that with clean hands and pure hearts we will have the strength to help our generation find its way to God's covenant of righteousness for all the children of

The celebration of the Day of Atonement will begin, for both Orthodox and Reformed Jews, with the Kol Nidre service Sunday evening. On Monday afternoon the Yarzheit, the memorial service, will be held and the Yom Kippur celebration will conclude with services, which in most cases will start at sundown Monday.

Services for Servicemen. A Day of Atonement service will be held at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Jewish Community Center for Jewish men in uniform stationed in the Washington area. Monday there will be a service at 10 a.m., a memorial service at 1 p.m. and the closing ceremony of Yom Kipper will start at sundown. Rabbi Isadore Breslau and Cantors Abrasha Rabofsky and Louis Fenik will officiate at the Jewish Community Center services.

Navy Department employes of the Jewish faith will be excused from work on the Day of Atonement if they can be absent without interrupting urgent war tasks. Arrangements have been made for the employes to make up time lost, which will be charged to annual leave or leave without pay, so there will be "no loss to productive hours," the Navy announced yesterday.

William Buckley Retires; 45 Years With Government

After 45 years' continuous Government service, William Buckley of Chevy Chase, Md., retired yesterday as chief of the payroll section in the General Accounting Office. In recognition of his "long and valued" service, employes in the office presented him with a $50 War bond. A resident of Washington for almost all of his 70 years, Mr. Buckley first en-tered Govern-

Bradley Assails Kelland For War Politics Speech

Representative Bradley, Democrat, of Pennsylvania yesterday accused Clarence Budington Kelland, author and publicity chairman of the Republican National Committee, of sticking "a dagger in the back of every boy who is in the service of the United States" by declaring the New Deal sought to postpone an all-out war effort until after the election.

Mr. Bradley read a newspaper article quoting Mr. Kelland as saying there were indications that the administration was putting off calling on the public for necessary sacrifices until after the elections.

"If the gentleman was quoted correctly, then it is a serious indictment not only of the President but of the Chief of Staff of the Army and the Chief of Naval Operations, who would have to be parties to it." Mr. Bradley said. "That's a dastardly thing." Representative Dingell, Democrat

Mary Roberts Rinehart's Tish' on Capitol Screen

Battle of Midway Shown As Navy Documentary On Downtown Screens

By ANDREW R. KELLEY.

Doubtful if Mary Roberts Rinehart would recognize her endearing and understanding Aunt Tish under the liberal coatings of slapstick which Hollywood has applied in bringing the character to the screen. "Tish" is animated by Marjorie Main as a giddy old sprite with acid tongue, covering a noble heart of platinum. Her companions in buffoonery are Aline MacMahon and ZaSu Pitts, two fine character actresses just a bit unhappy in completing the clownish trip. As a picture derived from a scenario with scrambled "Tish" will satisfy those who enjoy laughter predicated upon ludicrous situations and broad burlesque. When it attempts to become sentimental in projecting two reasonable romances, the

In Los Angeles one waits from twenty minutes to one hour on a corner for street cars. Bus service is even less adequate. If one is fortunate enough to catch a car or bus he rides endless miles on a sightseeing tour. Anyone without an automobile in Los Angeles has been a patient soul indeed.

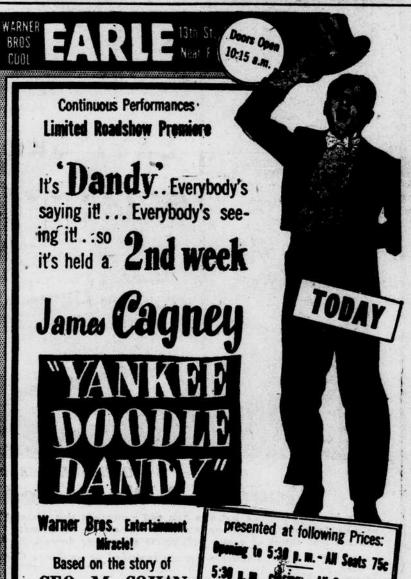

What will the film studios do to keep their sound stages properly manned for the production of pictures?

"Frankly, we have no idea how the problem can be met out here,' said one of Hollywood's leading studio executives. "Most of our workers live far from the lot. It would be easy to say, have them live in close. But where would they find living accommodations? Every apartment, every hotel and private residence within close proximity to the studios is occupied today.

Perpetual Holds U. S. Record. The Perpetual Building Association of Washington, with resources of $55,363,607, continues to maintain its leadership as the largest home building institution in the United States, according to a report released today by H. F. Cellarius, secretary-treasurer of the United States Savings and Loan League. In second place, nearly $20,000,000 behind is the Railroad Federal Savings and Loan Association of New York with assets of $35,589,693. Mr. Cellarius said that more than half of the building and loan associations of the Nation reflected net gains during the first six months that the Nation was at war. Thirteen Washington associations were reported to have resources of $5,000 -000 and over.

Next in rank to Perpetual in Washington is the American Building with resources of $15,240,053, with National Permanent third with $12,170,097. Others are: First Federal Savings & Loan

U. S. Bond Purchases Urged.

Winslow B. Van Devanter, chairman of the Victory Fund Committee for the District of Columbia, said today there are four important reasons for the buying of United States Government securities. Such purchases help finance the war successfully without unusual economic disturbance; they are a safe investment; help avoid inflation and have great thrift value against a possible "rainy day." His committee is working especially nard to press the sale of Treasury bills, tax savings notes, certificates of indebtedness and other similar issues. Montgomery Joins Exchange. Thomas C. Montgomery, who has

Cattlemen Fear Reduction in Beef Output

FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept 18. President Claude K. McCan of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association said today cattlemen were disturbed over the reduction of beef production in the United States.

McCan here for a directors meeting of his association, said "there is 19 per cent less cattle on the feed lots than there was a year ago, yet the number of cattle on ranges has reached an all-time high mark of 77,000,000 animals?

"The industry is not going to take the responsibility for the reduction in beef production," he said. "That responsibility belongs in Washington because of the intolerable ceilings placed on meat which disrupted the jacking industry. "Ceilings fell down because industry could not operate under them and it was a case of go broke or evade the ceilings."

CHICAGO, Sept. 18 .- After rye futures prices had advanced 2 cents a bushel and wheat a cent, the grain market turned reactionary today and the early gains were reduced by late profit taking and hedging sales particularly in the wheat pit. Short covering and buying stimu-

Thousands of American troops have arrived in Britain recently. While they have been whisked away to camps already, announcement of their arrival was not permitted until today. They came in a typical convoy of great ships, which were well-known passenger liners in peacetime, and disembarked at a number of British ports. The crossing of the Atlantic was made swiftly and not a single Ger-

The arrivals consisted mainly of fighting men and anti-aircraft and transport units. There were also hundreds of Army technical experts and some Army Air Force personnel.

Big Demand Supported By Rise in Payrolls And Farm Cash

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 18 .- The fall upswing in retail business this week carried dollar volume above the comparable period of a year ago,

The mercantile agency said "a strong buying movement" had been supported by sharp gains in payrolls and cash from newly harvested

Dun & Brastreet, Inc., reported to-

Features of the week were fall apparel, house furnishings, gifts for servicemen and a heavy call for woolen underwear and sweaters, particularly in the areas where fuel oil curtailment is expected.

The weekly trade survey found a general tendency to buy merchandise of better-than-usual quality. In footwear, shoes sold well as consumers bought extra pairs. The retail trade turnover was estimated at 2 to 5 per cent above 1941 figures, although the East continued to lag 1 to 4 per cent behind last By regions, percentage increases were, New England, 1 to 3; Middle West, 3 to 7; Northwest, 2 to 4;

South and Southwest, 5 to 10, and Pacific Coast, 4 to 8. Wholesalers reported a spurt in demand for holiday items and continued heavy re-orders for late fall and winter merchandise.

Reserve Board Reports.

Department store sales last week were 3 per cent below the correeral Reserve Board estimated. In the previous week sales were 26 per cent higher than in the same 1941 week, while during the four weeks ended September 12 sales were 1 per cent above the similar 1941 period. The board reported these percentage increases for Federal Reserve districts: Boston, 2; Philadelphia, 6; Richmond, 5; Kansas City, 11; Dallas, 9, and San Francisco, 4 per cent. These districts reported decreases: New York, 10; Cleveland, 8; Atlanta, 7; Chicago, 5, and St.

Traffic Increased. Since the extension of the Potocross-town bus line, traffic has greatly increased through the Zoo and Rock Creek Park. Planning Commission officials said some of the roads need straightening and widening and a few additional bridges may be required. It was thought that the entire road system in the Zoo needed a general Of War Production overhauling and re-study to meet present traffic conditions.

Brig. Gen. John J. Kingman reported that the War Department is now engaged in studying the question of who will control the network of roads connecting the new Pentagon Building and other war structures on the Virginia side of the river. He is the representative on the commission of the chief of Army Engineers.

A report from the War Department will be made, he said, at a later meeting of the commission. The commission today voted to have special maps made of Alexan- duction Board and vested with dria and Arlington, and Fairfax powers to make certain that pro-Counties to add to its master map duction programs are met. of the District. After that the mansion would be turned over to the Interior Department as a historic shrine. Interior's National Park Service is the official custodian of many famous which have been ecquired by the Government for preservation as public shrines.

The commission today ordered a restudy of the site for a large service garage at Suitland, Md., where Federal construction is under way The original site for the garage was considered too close to the highway. Upon learning that Col. Beverly C. Snow is being relieved as Assistant Engineer Commissioner on October

14. a letter was directed to be sent to the War Department commending his services as a co-ordinator of the planning commission. Col. Snow is being assigned to Fort Belvoir, Va. The commission planned to consider what progress has been made in the six-year Federal building program before it closes its September session later today. Announcement was made that Mr.

Delano had been made honorary emeritus chairman of the commission and his guidance and advice therefore still will be available. Detailed reports on development plans for two neighborhood playgrounds were made yesterday by Thomas C. Jeffers, a member of the staff. They are the Congress Heights Playground in Anacostia and the Francis Junior High School ground on the Rock Creek Parkway south of P Street Bridge.

Field House to Be Erected. The former embraces an area of five acres. Equipment for a children's play area will be installed and a field house erected. Plans also provide for additional facilities, such as softball diamonds, basket ball courts and tennis courts. The Francis playground already has a swimming pool, but is lacking in a number of athletic facilities. Ample provisions of this kind will be made. Supt. Irving Root of National Capital Parks took up with the commission yesterday plans for repaying and widening Seventeenth street to 44 feet from Constitution avenue south to the Tidal Basin at the John Paul Jones statue. Erection of additional Navy buildings in the vicinity has caused an increase in traffic. The commission announced that it will co-operate with Alexandria, Va., in trying to preserve the colonial character of architecture along the George Washington Memorial Park-

With the local War Fund campaign to start at an early date, the commission voted to lend its large model of Central Washington for an exhibit to be placed in the Uline Arena. The model has attracted much attention at various World

Fairs in recent years. Secretary Thomas S. Settle reported yesterday that the members of the commission and the entire staff had subscribed an average of 10.8 per cent of their salaries to the purchase of War saving bonds. A resolution was adopted commending the staff of 19 members. A report on the status of District legislation was made by Mr. Settle, who recounted the successful enactment of a number of bills in which Gen. Grant had previously taken an interest. Gen. Grant had served as executive officer of the commission for about nine years to 1933. Among other things, Mr. Settle reported that the gasoline tax, which was increased from 2 to 3 cents a gallon, will not produce the revenue

Three of the candidates nominated by the Board of Montgomery County Commissioners for a proposed charter board would, if elected, "deliberately sabotage" the charter movement, it was charged today by President Allen H. Gardner of the County Charter Committee, who declined to accept the commissioners' indorsement.

The nomination of the three men who "already have tried to kill the charter movement with their misleading statements," he said, leaves the public with no recourse other than to "take the matter into their own hands" by nominating additional persons. His own name was placed in nomination without his advance knowledge, he said.

The County Commissioners yesterday announced the nomination of five men to the proposed charter board. They are J. Bond Smith and Joseph A. Cantrel, publicity cochairmen of the United Democratic Organizations of the county, who have bitterly assailed the charter movement in an effort to defeat it; Roger J. Whiteford, attorney, who spoke against a proposed charter form of government before the congress of the United Democratic Organizations; O. W. Anderson, county agricultural agent, who has made no public commitments on the issue. and Mr. Gardner. Committee Head's Statement.

Mr. Gardner's statement declared: "The commissioners' nomination of candidates for the charter board is an act of hypocrisy true to the best traditions of professional politicians. Three of the nominees, Mr. Cantrel, Mr. Smith and Mr. Whiteford, already have tried to kill the charter movement with misleading statements. Group to Probe Alcohol and Tobacco Study

Gannon Indicates Committee Will Hear Defenders of Course

The special committee to review alcohol and tobacco instruction in the senior high schools will meet at the end of next week, it appeared from events today.

The committee of three will be called, it was indicated by Dr. James A. Gannon, the representative of the Board of Education in the group, as soon as Health Officer George C. Ruhland has either appointed his representative for the meeting or elected to serve himself.

Ruhland Out of City.

According to board action taken Wednesday, Dr. Gannon, Dr. Carroll A. Reed, assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum, and Dr. Ruhland or his representative were to review the alcohol and tobacco instruction with an eye to making any "constructive criticism" they considered necessary.

Dr. Ruhland left the city early this morning, according to his office, and is expected to decide his course of action when he returns early next week.

"I want to go into the matter thoroughly before I decide what to do," Dr. Ruhland commented yes-

May Hear Opposition.

The first meeting of the committee will be called by Dr. Gannon as the board's representative, it was indicated, but the group will choose its own chairman upon convening. At least one of its meetings, Dr. Gannon indicated yesterday, will be open to representatives of the National Civic League, Anti-Cigarette Alliance and other groups wishing to speak on the alcohol and liquor instruction. The committee was appointed by the board at the request of Dr. Gannon. On thorough reading of the course of instruction on drugs in the new senior high school physical education program, he stated, he had found "more moralizing than scientific truth."

Dentist Found Guilty Of Negligent Homicide

Dr. John P. Fitzgerald, 48, a dentist, who lives in Westgate, Md. was found guilty by a Municipal Court jury today of negligent homicide in the death of Benjamin E. Talbott, 63, of 3512 Massachusetts avenue N.W., on August 7, 1941.

The jury, in a sealed verdict returned last night and which was ppened today by Judge Nathan R. Margold, recommended leniency for the defendant. Judge Margold said he would take the recommendation into consideration, but added the serious nature of the case calls for some penalty-not necessarily a jail sentence, but possibly a fine." Mr. Talbot was struck shortly after midnight as he crossed Massachusetts avenue at Edmonds street N.W. He died in Emergency Hospital about three hours later. Assistant United States Attorney John B. Diamond presented evidence to indicate that Dr. Fitzgerald was traveling at a speed greater than the 30-mile limit on Massachusetts avenue on which he was traveling. Lt. W. J. Liverman of the Accident Investigation Unit, testified that there were skid-marks at the scene which varied from 51 to 70 feet. One of the marks started within the limits of the imaginary crosswalk, Lt. Liverman said.

Defense Attorney Joseph A. Kaufmann said he would file a motion for a new trial and was given 30 days in which to prepare his brief.

Zoo Roadway Widening Taken Up by Planners

Commission Confers With Whitehurst On Crowded Artery

The National Capital Park and Planning Commission will confer today with Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, District director of highways, on a proposal to straighten out and widen the main roadway extending through the National Zoological Park.

This road is the route usually taken by motorists using the Rock Creek Parkway and the traffic is increasingly heavy.

Meeting under the chairmanship of Brig. Gen. U. S. Grant, 3d. who has succeeded Frederic A. Delano. the commission also will consider what progress has been made in the six-year Federal building program before it closes its September session later today.

Announcement was made that Mr. Delano had been made honorary emeritus chairman of the commission and his guidance and advice therefore still will be available.

Detailed reports on development plans for two neighborhood playgrounds were made yesterday by Thomas C. Jeffers, a member of the staff. They are the Congress Heights Playground in Anacostia and the Francis Junior High School ground on the Rock Creek Parkway south of P Street Bridge.

Field House to Be Erected.

The former embraces an area of five acres. Equipment for a children's play area will be installed and a field house erected. Plans also provide for additional facilities, such as softball diamonds, basket ball courts and tennis courts. The Francis playground already has a swimming pool, but is lacking in a number of athletic facilities. Ample provisions of this kind will be made.

Supt. Irving Root of National Capital Parks took up with the commission yesterday plans for repaying and widening Seventeenth street to 44 feet from Constitution avenue Paul Jones statue. Erection of addigs in the vicinity has caused an increase in traffic.

The commission announced that it will co-operate with Alexandria; Va. trast to the State Senate, which has tage of the charter movement. in trying to preserve the colonial character of architecture along the George Washington Memorial Parkway. At a recent meeting of the Alexandria Council, a commettee was appointed with this plan in mind. A zoning committee also was named to see that restrictions are adhered to along the Memorial highway. The Federal planning agency in the past has been helpful in advising on new construction and remodeling of houses on the route of the highway through Alexandria and has promised to co-operate in such matters in the future.

To Loan Exhibit.

With the local War Fund campaign to start at an early date, the commission voted to lend its large model of Central Washington for an exhibit to be placed in the Uline Arena. The model has attracted much attention at various World Fairs in recent years.

Secretary Thomas S. Settle reported yesterday that the members of the commission and the entire staff had subscribed an average of 10.8 per cent of their salaries to the purchase of War saving bonds. A resolution was adopted commending the staff of 19 members.

A report on the status of District legislation was made by Mr. Settle, who recounted the successful enactment of a number of bills in which Gen. Grant had previously taken an interest. Gen. Grant had served as executive officer of the commission for about nine years to 1933.

Among other things, Mr. Settle reported that the gasoline tax, which was increased from 2 to 3 cents a gallon, will not produce the revenue anticipated. Part of the gasoline revenues were to be diverted to construction of the Fort Drive roadway and on other park roads. The revenues are falling off despite the increase in the rate because of present tire conditions and gas rationing. However, he believed when the war is over more revenue will become available for park roads.

Short-Cut Road Repair Urged To Save Tires

Improvement Would Give Year-Round Use, Fairfax Groups Say

Special Dispatch to The Star. FAIRFAX, Va., Sept. 18 .- The Fairfax County Federation of Citizens' Associations has requested its Road Committee to investigate the possibility of improvement of "shortcut" roads as one means of conserving tires and gasoline. The resolution was offered by Dr. Thomas P. Martin, former president of the federation, and a copy was ordered sent to Delegate Robert J. McCandlish, jr. It was pointed out that there are a number of littleused roads in the county, which offer considerable saving in mileage over regular and improved routes, and which may be used the year around, with some little improvement.

Two Vacancies Cited. Another resolution adopted by the group, requested the County Board of Supervisors to fill vacancies on the County Public Utilities Commission, caused by the resignation of two members, because of the Hatch Act. The Federation extended a vote of appreciation to P. M. Gelbman of Tremont Gardens, one of the commission members, for his activities. Mrs. Robert Osborne, chairman of the School Committee, submitted a report which called attention to the County School Board submit another application for a school grant under the Lanham Act.

Federal Grant Canceled. A previous Federal grant for improved school facilities in the Falls Church area, where the enrollment this year is unusually large, was canceled because Federal officials said the increase last school term did not justify the grant.

Joseph Sawyer, chief air-raid warden for Fairfax County, said there are now 1,500 trained wardens serving the county, and receiving orders from nine control centers, which in turn get their signals from the central control center at Fairfax. Mr. Sawyer said the wardens will begin a house-to-house canvass, October 1, to get local residents to co-operate in the "share-your-car."

Fred Morgan was elected vice president of the federation, succeeding H. A. Ward, who resigned.

Housing Project Plumbers Will Take Alexandria Test

Plumbers working on Parkfairfax, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.'s $7,500,000 apartment house project in Alexandria, have agreed to take the examination required of all journeyman plumbers by the Alexandria city code. Robert Roth, representative of J. L. Murphy, plumbing contractor, said the plumbers would register for the examination with the city plumbing inspector today.

Mr. Roth said he was unable to explain the men's change of mind after they had previously refused to take the examination, but the decision of the Alexandria City Council to uphold the code made it necessary for him to inform the plumbers that they would have to comply with the city regulations if they wished to remain on the job.

Medical Society Auxiliary to Aid At Parley Here

With the 1942 annual scientific assembly of the District Medical Soclety scheduled for September 30-October 1 at the Mayflower Hotel, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the organization is making arrangements to assist with the entertainment. The society also plans to set up a Pan-American exhibit and to operate a booth in the hotel lobby for the benefit of the Medical and Surgical Relief Society. Details of the responsibility to be assumed by the women were discussed at a meeting this week at the Medical Building

Funds to provide kits of instru-ments and supplies to the doctors in the front lines will be raised at the booth where tickets, as well as match folders and many objects of art will be on sale. The kits, it was said, cost $110 each.

Wives of the visiting delegates and wives of the Latin American diplomats contributing to the Pan-American exhibit will be entertained at an informal buffet luncheon at 1 p.m. September 30 at the Sulgrave

The Social Committee also is arranging the annual informal dinner to be held September 30 at the Mayflower Hotel with Assistant Secretary of State Adolph A. Berle, jr.,

Mrs. L. Bryson Norris is hostess chairman for the Pan-American exhibit and Mrs. E. E. Hadley heads the committee in charge of the benefit booth. Mrs. Jesse Mann is chairman of the Social Committee. Mrs. A. Magruder MacDonald is president of the auxiliary.

Constitution Day Exercises Held by District DAR

That history has failed to accord Edmund Randolph the recognition he is due was contended by Charles S. Collier, educator, writer and lawyer, in a Constitution day address before District Daughters of the American Revolution last night. Prof. Collier pointed out that Randolph, an early governor of Virginia, was a leading figure at the Constitutional Convention and was the author of the "Virginia Plan."

The address by Prof. Collier, who is with George Washington University, was the principal feature of the exercises held at the DAR Chapter House in celebration of the 155th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution.

Mrs. Geoffrey Creyke, State regent, presided, while the speaker was introduced by Mrs. Wilfred J. Clearman, State historian. Representatives of several patriotic organizations extended greet.

The program opened with a concert by the United States Navy Band Orchestra, while the choir of St. Paul's Methodist Church also provided music. Miss Lillian Chenoweth, vice president general; Mrs. Howard L. Hodgkins, honorary vice president gen-eral, and Mrs. Carlos Campbell, chairman of the Correct Use of the Flag Committee, also participated.

not caused any widespread outbreak of communicable diseases so far is "without scientific explanation," according to Miss Gertrude Madley, just returned from England where she was chief nurse of the Red Cross-Harvard Hospital.

Miss Madley, herself, refuses to support any theory and British authorities wonder why there have been no epidemics, she told a press conference yesterday.

One supposition has been that by having to eat the things they can get, the English are on an improved diet, Miss Madley said. Garden vegetables are available throughout the summer, she declared, and the English are eating more salads than heretofore. The standard brown flour also is nutritious.

Miss Madley returned to Red Cross headquarters here when the Red Cross-Harvard Hospital was taken over by the United States Army. Established for a study of wartime diseases under siege conditions, it originally was operated jointly by the American Red Cross, Harvard University and the British Ministry of occasion a field unit dealt with a paratyphoid outbreak in Bristol. The latter was not of epidemic proportions, however, and was soon brought under control, Miss Madley declared.

Twenty-five per cent of the patients treated at the hospital were civilians, she explained, and it often assisted in the diagnosis of puzzling cases sent in by English doctors.

A native of Great Britain, Miss Madley came to the United States at the age of 14 and is now an American citizen. She was a World War nurse with the British forces in Malta, Italy and France and also has been a hospital supervisor in Wales, Bermuda and London.

Her home is in Detroit and she was with the Herman Kiefer Hospital there as supervisor of the communical disease division before taking her recent Red Cross assignment Accustomed to British reserve she confesses that she was amazed at the friendliness extended to the Red Cross nurses of her unit when they arrived in England in June, 1941.

Total strangers invited them to tea and dinner, she said, and on the streets or in buses and restaurants they were often greeted by "Hello, America."

Following her press conference yesterday, Miss Madley attended a tea at the Red Cross headquarters given by Miss Mary Beard, director of the nursing service of the American Red

There she shared honors with Miss Elizabeth Smellie, of Ottawa, Canada, matron-in-chief of the Royal Canadian Medical Corps. Guests were members of the nursing profession.

Laval Makes Bid For Compromise With Catholic Clergy

Reported Concerned Over Protests on Deporting Jews and Drafting Labor

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 18.-Roman Catholic France is giving Pierre Laval acute concern in his program of deporting Jews and conscripting labor for Germany, and it was reported last night that he has evening. made efforts to compromise with the clergy.

Whether the Vichy premier would be successful appeared in doubt in view of the persistent and definite protests by French bishops and the papal nuncio, according to reliable information reaching here from private diplomatic quarters with French connections.

Laval's hope and efforts politically have been directed at trying to persuade the clergy, which exercises great influence, to cease its series The result of the ensuing struggle could not be foreseen, but there is no doubt it had surpassed in its importance for the welfare of Laval and France any political questions with which the pro-collaborationist premier has had to deal in the past. The Bishops of Lourdes and Montaubain have been questioned by the police in the past few weeks after their protests against the treatment of the Jews. The Jesuit assistant to Pierre Marie Cardinal Gerlier has been arrested for his reports on the situa-

The Rome correspondent of the Tribune de Geneve, Geneva, Switzerland, said Vatican circles viewed the French anti-Semitic laws as "Above all a new attempt by the Vichy government to win favor in the eyes of Germany inasmuch as the relief given has as yet been far from that promised."

The correspondent pointed out that the treatment of the Jews of Italy at present was more lenient than in France and most European countries, under German domination, probably because "Fascist Italy desires to maintain good relations with the Vatican."

wages 51/2 cents an hour, retroactive to February, and imposed maintenance of membership and dues check-off provisions. The same order was issued in the case of five subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corp., which balked chiefly at making the raise retroactive to February 15.

The board took its unprecedented action today at the request of the union, which has been attempting to negotiate contracts with these companies.

The 41 companies employ about 200,000 workers.

correct as far as he goes!" Povilas Zadeikis, Lithuanian Minister to the United States, applies the saving to the Atlantic Charter Though too early for predictions. Mr. Zadeikis wishes that the charter was more developed concerning "territorial aggrandizement." His impatience is justified on recalling the perilous perch of his little Baltic country under Russian domination from June, 1940, to the following summer and now under German rule. He waits and watches somewhat helplessly and with doubt, naturally turning for succor to the postwar world.

He claims that Europe must fall into her natural mold. "Plans are nice," but he insists that men will fight to be masters of their native land and that unless you deport them they will unalterably strive for their sovereignty, so you might as well respect their will-implying, of course, his fears of a postwar state of Lithuania subject to Moscow. He pointedly addresses the Soviet Ambassador in America as the author of the book "Against Aggression." People Must Decide.

As most diplomats in the Capital, he, generally speaking, does advocate Upon selling $1,500,000 in bonds, he a world federation backed by some returned and was a member of the form of compulsion, either economic Lithuanian military delegation to or physical, to be assumed by the France. Grand Central Palace Taken Over by Army

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 .- The 30year-old Grand Central Palace, exposition hall which has displayed everything from gardenias to motorboats in its annual shows, is to be taken over by the Army as its induction center for New York City and surrounding counties.

A victory garden harvest show next week will be the last to grace the old hall for the duration of the war. The first four and a half floors of the five-floor building will be used as induction offices, replacing the center at Governors Island.

Army officials said the principal reason for the move was the inadeuate transportation facilities beween Manhattan and Governors

Argentine Legislators Four Enter Guilty Pleas In White Slavery Case

CLEVELAND, Sept. 18.-Four convicted white slavers whose operations extended into five States, today were under prison sentences ranging from 7 to 12 years.

Pleading guilty unexpectedly in the fourth day of their Federal Court trial on charges of conspiring to operate a white slave ring and transporting girls for prostitution, the four were denounced by Judge Emerich B. Freed as "the lowest form of humanity."

Sentenced to 12 years was Louis Peter Morei, 51-year-old Cleveland man, described by Assistant United States Attorney Roy C. Scott as head of the ring.

Lowly Tin Cans Begin March From Capital to War in About 3 Weeks

Christian Heurich, Jr., Heads Collection; 159 Trucks Volunteered

At last something will be done in the Washington area to salvage the lowly tin can. Preliminary plans for a long-range collection campaign here to serve as a model for other cities were made yesterday at a meeting of War Production Board officials and representatives of local breweries and bottling concerns in the Hamilton Hotel.

The drive will not begin until after September 27, when the city's intensive scrap metal drive ends, it was stressed yesterday.

A total of 159 trucks to collect cans one or more days a week at collection depots for shipment out of the city to detinning plants was volunteered by the local concerns at yesterday's meeting.

WPB has appointed Christian Heurich, jr., as head of the District Committee for Tin Can Collection. He, in turn, has appointed William A. Xanten, superintendent of city refuse; Dan Holland, Joseph Coad, N. S. Almony and William Raleigh

The committee will meet at 10 a.m. Monday at the Heurich Brewing Co. to work out best possible methods of routing trucks offered the committee, ways of assorting cans at depots and other matters. Mr. Heurich said the drive would be ready to start in three weeks. Charlton MacVeagh, head of WPB detinning program, estimated that 120 tons of tin could be collected here each month once the drive went into full operation.

James E. Colliflower, chairman of the District Salvage Committee, offered facilities of existing salvage depots and said he believed the Commissioners would give their approval of the drive

WLB Aide Lauds Unity
Of Labor and Industry

Of Labor and Industry

The willingness of labor and industry to abide by the decisions of the War Labor Board demonstrates clearly that these factions have mobilized for victory, Wayne L. Morse, public representative on the WLB, said here yesterday.

Mr. Morse, who is dean of the University of Oregon Law School, spoke at a meeting of the Federal Bar Association. He reviewed the procedures of the WLB, explaining the significance of such decisions as the "Little Steel" wage formula and the maintenance of membership formula.

Speaking of the enforcement of board decisions, he pointed out that "there has not been a single case involving a defiance by either a labor union or an employer in which the board has not met that defiance with a unanimous front.

"Both labor and industry sides of the table recognize that when the majority has spoken in a decision it is the responsibility of every member of the board to do all in his power to see to it that the decision is put into effect."

Three Children Are Hurt In Traffic Accidents

Three children were in a serious condition in hospitals today as a result of separate traffic accidents

Angelina Bruno, 3, of 631 Florence street N.E. was in Casualty Hospital.
She was treated for a fractured skull, face lacerations and brush burns to her legs. The child was struck by an ice cream truck as she crossed Florence street near her home. Police listed the driver as Vernon J. Simmerman, 20, of 1612 D street N.E.

Vinnie Byrd, 5, colored, of 37 Massachusetts avenue N.W. was treated at Sibley Hospital for skull fracture and head abrasions after being struck by an automobile in front of 45 G street N.W. The child later was transferred to Gallinger Hospital. Police said the driver of the car was Theodore Wade, 30, colored, of 1815 Eighteenth street N.W. In a third accident yesterday, Bruce Murray, 8, colored, of 3221 Connecticut avenue N.W. was struck by a car in an alley near his home. He was taken to Emergency Hospital and treated for a fractured left arm and concussion

Kelly Orders Probe Of Speed Trap Charge

Superintendent of Police Edward J. Kelly today ordered Inspector Arthur E. Miller, head of the Traffic Division, to investigate charges that motorcycle police hide in alleys and side streets to trap motorists violating traffic regulations.

Maj. Kelly said the practice was "not tolerated" by his office, and denied charges leveled against his men by George E. Keneipp, manager of the Keystone Automobile Club. In a letter to Maj Kelly yesterday,

Mr. Keneipp said many motorists had reported to the club that they had been stoped by police in this manner at various speed traps.

At French Embassy Here, Joins De Gaulle

Had Been Ordered Back To Vichy From His Legation in Bulgaria

ANKARA, Turkey, Sept. 16 (Delayed).-Jules Blondel, former Vichy French Minister to Bulgaria who was ordered to return to France last month, has instead left Vichy's service and is on his way to join Gen Charles de Gaulle in the Near East, a Fighting French announcement said today.

Jules Blondel, born in 1887 was attache and later third secretary at the French Embassy in Washington from 1916 to 1920.

A career diplomat, he went from Washington to Mexico City, and then to Constantinople, Buenos Aires and, in 1935, to Rome,

He became charge d'affaires in Rome in 1936, when the Italians refused to receive Count de St. Quentin as Ambassador because the French government would not recognize King Victor Emmanuel of Italy as Emperor of Ethiopia. He was transferred in 1938 from Rome to Dublin, and after the establishment of the Vichy regime he was sent to Sofia.

Colombia Sets Up System To Buy Wild Rubber

Colombia is buying wild rubber at a fixed price through one of its governmental agencies and is showing much interest in the possibilities of obtaining large quantities of rubber locally. To secure substantial quantities it will be necessary to establish depots where the native gatherers can be paid at once, it is pointed out in Bogota. Former importers whose business was curtailed by prevailing world conditions are collecting rubber for sale to the United States or for domestic manufacture. It is expected that the practice will spread to other parts of the country once buying depots are established.

Before such an industry can attain real importance, native gatherers must be taught better methods of extracting and coagulating wild

Kin of Dieppe Prisoners Notified by Red Cross

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—Families of some of the Canadian soldiers missing after the Dieppe raid on August 19 have received notice from the International Red Cross that these men are prisoners of war.

J. L. Ralston, Dominion defense minister, announced Tuesday that 2,547 officers and men were missing out of casualties totaling 3,350 in this raid, but there was no indication just how many of the missing were taken prisoner.

Among those reported alive were 21 officers whose families were notified of their safety in brief Red Cross cables received last night and today. These communications said further information would follow.

Gas Restrictions Affect Industries in Dublin

Gas restriction in Dublin, Eire, is threatening industries and hospitals. Until the quality of coal imports improves, gas will be available only between 7 a.m. and 8:30 a.m., 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., and 5:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Those industries dependent on gas, which have no alternative supply, apparently will be forced to close down. Gas company officials said that particularly affected were newspapers, chocolate manufacturers, biscuit manufacturers and foundries.

According to a leading Dublin surgeon, the whole system of hospital administration will be upset. Gas company heads say the coal now imported is "completely unsuited to the plant."

Eight Get Air Medals For Aleutians Service By the Associated Press

HEADQUARTERS OF ALASKA DEFENSE COMMAND, Sept. 18 .-Award of air medals to eight officers for meritorious service in the continuing Battle of the Aleutians was announced yesterday by Maj. Gen. Simon B. Buckner.

The service covered in the citations included carrying personnel and vital supplies to the battlefront, traversing hostile regions in the face of enemy aerial patrols and braving weather hazards of the treacherous

Better to Redye Faded Rug Than to Try to Bleach It

Process Will Cause Shrinkage, Desirable in This Instance; Other Homemaking Hints

By Margaret Nowell

Dear Miss Nowell-I have a plain colored broadloom-type rug which I have used for 2 years in a sunny apartment. I have now moved into a new home and find that with the current furniture arrangement there are large faded areas visible on the rug. It was impossible to place my furniture in such a way as to cover these marks. Is there any way that the unfaded areas can be bleached to match the rest? The rug is in perfect condition, and will be good for many years, but I am very unhappy about the effect of my room with the faded spots so noticeable. The rug is also about 3 inches too long for the room. May this be cut off and

Answer-It may be possible to bleach out your rug so that it would be of uniform color, but this is not a task to attempt at home. Better than that, in my opinion, would be to redye the rug. You may dye it the same color, or a deeper shade or even an entirely different color. The dyeing process will cause the rug to shrink slightly and in this way you will find that it will probably fit thes room without needing to be recut and retaped. It is also quite possible that dyeing will prevent the fading again and you will be able to get the necessary years of service out

Comfort

Change From Old To New Style Is Practical Idea

By Lettice Lee Streett There is a vast difference between sentiment and being sentimental; the first is response from the heart to that which is real and endearing and the second is inclined to be a bit sappy. Well, to my mind, there is nothing sappy about a young mother who lovingly fingers the tiny clothes her expected baby will so soon be wearing. As she touches the soft fabrics and smiles at the ridiculous tininess of shirts and dresses she can see, in her mind, her own precious bambino, safe, alive and kicking inside of them This is a happy thing, collecting her baby's trousseau.

The stork is doing a roaring business these days, according to my ask about the layettes for their infants that I think we should devote today to answering them.

you should buy. In days gone by infants were practically hog-tied in seeds and concentrated orange juice. yards and yards of beribboned, embroidered, lace-inserted and edged 'long" dresses. The modern baby thinks it is a very constructive change that these cumbersome clothes are out of style—and his mother does, too.

Comfort should be your first conapparel, and second to this, your own convenience, particularly if you plan to do His Majesty's laundry. By the way, if you feel you can afford a diaper service, by all means subscribe to it. Your new baby will be preoccupied with two important tasks, eating and sleeping. He will sleep about twenty hours out of the twenty-four, which he must enjoy in peace and comfort, if he is to feel fit and fine.

Consequently, eye each pretty little dress with a view as to whether or not it is a practical sleeping model. Actually, I think that new babies need only be dressed in their cozy lightweight cotton knit nighties. This type of nightgown, opening down the back so that it is easy to put on and take off, is much the best. Flannel is too thick and bulky and somehow homemade nightgowns are never quite as efficient, or fit as well, as the scientifically designed sleeping garments. Everything a new baby, or any baby or child for that matter, wears, should be loose, but not overlarge. Too-big shirts, nightgowns, dresses, sweaters, etc., will bunch up lumpily under the sleeping baby's little back or tummy. So many inexperienced mothers tend to overdress their babies-they pile mounds of blankets on them as well as heavy woolen shirts and sweaters. This is not healthy-and besides, it makes the baby wretched with perspiration, and such overbundled babies even suffer with prickly heat in the dead of winter. Choose lightweight clothing, especially if you live in a steam-heated apartment or house. Part wool and part cotton shirts are heavy enough for winter-time wear if the baby's room is warm and if he is well covered when he takes his airings. Big buttons, or too many buttons ough ruffles of lace, raised embroidery, and bunches of ribbon bows are all disagreeable bores, according to the baby, as he sneezes when a lace collar tickles his nose Give me peace, he says: I want to sleep, please, Mummie, and I want comfy clothes to snooze in. Yes, clothes for our modern babies are practical and simple in design, but they may also be pretty Dainty hand needlework is beaubut certainly is not necessary.

What Happens When We Send Abroad Five Billion Pounds of Foods?

The Consumers' Guide, in its September issue, presents a picture that should make all Americans proud. With American farmers and packers working "all out" in the war effort since March 15, 1941, we have managed to supply our Allies abroad with more than five billion pounds of life-giving foodstuffs. Five billion pounds of food can't just up and leave the country with-out making its loss felt at home. This loss is reflected in higher prices, in certain scarcities, temporary or sustained. We have our own fighting men to feed, too, millions of them, and they must get the best of everything, no matter what the home folks must do without. In addition to all this drain on our supplies, we find a larger per cent of American people have money enough to pay for good food than ever before. Learn While You Play ...

We can't guarantee just how much card playing will be accomplished if you use those new "airplane spotter" cards, but undoubtedly you'll have a lot of fun with them. There are 52 different silhouette views of principal combat planes of the countries at war. Each of the four suits is devoted to one of the countries, with diamonds for Germany, clubs for Japan, hearts for Great Britain and spades for the good old U.S.A. The cards were designed as an aid to both servicemen and civilians, to help learn to distinguish between the various types of airplanes of both friend and foe. They are within the same price range as ordinary playing cards, but they are much more unusual than any you have seen heretofore.

Fair and Colder ...

Well, it won't be long now before blankets will be reappearing from storage and the housewife will inherit the job of scanning them for any defects. In a great many cases, she will find that the blankets themselves are in excellent condition, with many years of use ahead, but the binding is pretty well faded and worn. This is really a small matter, for packages of binding can be purchased at a nominal cost and the job of sewing it on the blankets is an easy one. The binding is made of rayon satin material, comes 5 yards in length and is 3 inches in width, with folded woven edges, an excellent feature. Some of the packages include two spools of matching thread, a smart idea that will save the homemaker many minutes of hunting for "just the right color." Yellow, pink and maroon are among the shades represented.

For Thoughtless Guests . . .

How many times have you given a large party and after the guests have departed found one or more cigarette burns on your tables, or upholstered furniture? It is disheartening to say the least, and almost makes the hostess feel that she never wants to entertain again. Accidents, of course, will happen, but if reasonable precaution is taken they will be at a minimum, so wise housekeepers are enlisting the aid of such gadgets as an inexpensive glass ash tray that is "self-extinguishing." It is made with so many grooves that even the most careless guest finds it almost impossible to lay a cigarette anywhere on the tray without getting it into one of the grooves, where, of course, it will go out safely and tidily.

New Footwear Regulations Are Practically Painless

WPB Restrictions to Conserve Sole Leather Leave Plenty Of Room for Good Design

By Helen Vogt

The boys up at WPB have a nice sense of timing. With a rare understanding of the feminine mind they have managed to give us fashion restrictions that are sensible, reasonable and practically painless.

First, of course, came L-85, the ruling on dresses and such which cut down on material by regulating jackets, pleats and other fabricdemanding details. Next they gave us time to see how successful the new silhouette could be and to discover that despite rstrictions we could be smartly and becomingly dressed. Even the "Doubting Tessies" were convinced.

Then, having won our hearts and our confidence, they brought forth a new ruling henceforth to be known as M-217, or the footwear conservation order, if you want to be formal about it. The order, which will affect footwear for the spring and summer of 1943, is designed primarily to save precious leather by reducing the number of "fancy" shoes in a wardrobe. Shoes henceforth will be limited to six colors and

The demand of our armed forces for sole leather is the reason for this conservation and the restrictions do not apply to shoes in which leather or composition rubber soles are not used. And how groundless our fears proved to be? Pennant Appears Cinch for Cardinals, Three Games Up, as Dodgers Lose Spirit

Win, Lose or Draw Durocher Called

By FRANCIS E. STAN.

Another Year and an Epitaph in Brooklyn

BROOKLYN, Sept. 18. - Whether they fully deserve it, the epitaph of the Brooklyn Dodgers must read: "They could give it but they couldn't take it."

A year ago, "Our Bums," could do no wrong. Here in Flatbush a little world of Flynns, Vigilantes and Goldsteins went wild as a band of men named Durocher, Wyatt and Medwick shoved the war off the front page. Today the Flynns, vigilantes and Goldsteins are bitter and cold. "Bums," they hiss, bitingly, and they don't preface the charge with the old, endearing, "Our Bums."

Well, that's the way it goes in sport. A year ago the Dodgers charged down the stretch to win the National League pennant from a good, game, young team, called the St. Louis Cardinals. This season the Dodgers simply didn't have it.

Over a short winter, too many key players grew old. As of August 16. the Dodgers held a 10-game lead. On August 29 they led the Cards by five full games. Today they are finished. Almost, anyway. They're three fat games behind and the clock is running against them.

Macon's Brilliant but Bums Are Bums

We happened to be on hand as the grave was opened for them yesterday at Ebbets Field. At the wake sat only 10,518 cash customers. burgh Pirates for their sixth setback They had about as much fight in them as their erstwhile "Beloved Bums." There wasn't a bloody nose nor a pop bottle bounced off the noggin of an umpire the whole afternon, which the Pittsburgh Pirates dedicated more pathetic was the way the Cards to a small victory program of their own. The Pirates won a just decision,

The Pirates perhaps were pretty lucky with a disturbing series of fluke hits in the early innings, but the Bums were pretty sad. This about tells the story. Anyway, Ed Head pitched long enough to to Al Javery-after being muffled lose the game (he worked one and one-third innings) and after he re- with five hits for eight framestired with a 3-0 count against him, a left hander named Max Macon three Dodgers were walking meekly

Macon was pretty brilliant. He gave only two singles in nearly eight innings and did everything except get down on his knees and beg the Bums to win the game. The failure of the Bums to answer his prayers, chicken. we thought, was significant.

When the Dodgers Stuck Out Their Chins

Maybe the difference between the Cards and Dodgers was best explained yesterday. Both of their starting pitchers were knocked out, as two underdog teams took early leads. Both the Cards and Bums got | inning off. Up to that point, Max superlative relief pitchers. But the Dodgers instead of getting a "lift" hadn't hit a ball out of the infield from Macon's work, sullenly proceeded to lose their sixth decision in all afternoon, and he kept his record

On the other hand, the Cards, apparently beaten as they went into the final inning at Boston, mustered a rally. They scored five runs to defeat the Braves, 6-4. Chances are they won the pennant in the process. fall of the Bank of England or if

Steve Juzwik's addition to the Redskins apparently is one of the best breaks Ray Flaherty has had since the Tribe pitched its tepee on the Potomac's banks and called it home. Angered Phillies Eager to Leap On Dodgers

Crushing of Flag Hope Would Avenge Stight In Spring Training

By JACK SMITH,

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18.-That feud between the cellar-dwelling Phils and the almost-mighty Dodgers is cropping up again—and don't be sufprised if the lowly fellows blast the Bums' last glimmering hopes for the National League pennant in the four-game series opening in Brooklyn today.

They're not talking about it publicly, but it's common knowledge here that Manager Hans Lobert's much-smeared losers still are rankled by the "slight," as they called it, which they suffered at the hands of Larry MacPhail last spring. MacPhail called off a Phils-Dodger exhibition game, presumably because the Phils mightn't bring in much cash. The Phils had their day, later, of course, when Lobert refused to let the Bums near his spring training diamond for another exhibition fray.

Would Be Sweet Revenge. But the fullest and sweetest revenge would be a Phils' sweep in the closing series, squelching the Dodgers in their losing battle for a crack at World Series money.

They might do it, too. Don't laugh yet—the cellar-dwellers have a habit of reviving in the closing days of a season long enough to whip clubs in reach of the pennant. They did it with the Giants a few years back and won the nickname, "the Giant killers." And they did it with the St. Louis Cardinals here

Phils Mad, Says Lobert. "Who knows?" Lobert said yesterday, eager for the Brooklyn game. "Maybe we'll clean their clocks." "Sure we're 57 games off pace, but the boys really are getting mad now. "We've taken a kicking around all season, from fans, newspapers and don't like it. There's real fighting spirit in them now, and don't think

Many District Yachtsmen Serving Efficiently With Coast Guard Flotillas

Auxiliarists Man Own Boats for Potomas River Patrols

Scheduled to Protect Course of PRSA Sail Series This Fall

By MALCOM LAMBORNE, Jr. With little or no fanfare, a select group of local yachtsmen in four Coast Guard Auxiliary flotillas here has been lending a hand to regular Coast Guard Reserve vessels in various duties this summer, and the prospect is the group will continue work with the service through the

Approximately a dozen yachts from Flotillas 2, 13, 11 and 21 have participated in local patrols and have been doing a bangup job, according to Ensign William Smith, who's in charge of auxiliary activities in the captain of the port office. Yachts from Flotilla 2 aiding in Coast Guard patrols include Commodore Jacob Jacobson's Spica II of Corinthian Yacht Club and Harry E. Smith's Toby II. This group is headed by Robert W. Billups as commander

Flotilla 13 in command of Judge Marguerite, Charles A. Stock's Vagabunda, H. H. Leffert's Biddy and Jim Jester's Nowa II.

Crews Mostly Auxiliarists. Flotillas 11 and 21 have been combined under the leadership of Comdr. Bradford E. Buckley, and between them, they have volunteered Paul Hamm's 28-footer, Theodore Namey's Chalomar and Dr. M. A. Leese's Ginger II. On all work with the Coast Guard, the owners volunteered their craft, and in the majority of cases went along with their boats.

When an auxiliary yacht went into this temporary service, Ensign Smith explained, a petty officer was placed on board and the boat flew the Coast Guard ensign and the commission pennant. Crews were made up mostly of auxiliarists.

One of the most important jobs performed by this group during the summer was patrolling of the Water Gate concerts above Memorial Bridge. Two auxiliary craft went on patrol each night of a concert and remained on duty until the last straggling canoe returned to its Georgetown dock.

On one occasion Harry Smith. who is fleet captain at Corinthian. while on patrol with his Toby rescued two canoeists who were thrown his fish box every time out. Just how long will a bird dog hold a point? Many of us have heard by the District Coast Guard officer that classic story, with slight variations here and there, about a bird dog that disappeared in the fall, and whose skeleton was found on a stanch point in the spring, point-just how long a bird dog will hold a point, but last fall passers-by along a country road stopped to watch a group of men standing in the middle of a large field, writes Peter Boggs in the Omaha World-Herald All were intently gazing alternately at their watches and at a pointer diligently on point a few yards away. As the minutes ticked by the size of the crowd increased.

It all began when two men, with a friend to hold the wagers, went to the field to settle a bet as to how long the pointer, owned by one of the men, would hold a point. The dog held steady for 2 hours and 20 minutes.

Taillight Is Undoing Of Bait-Eating Fish

Here is the story of a flounder which ate the bait off a hook and started to swim away only to be caught by his own taillight. The taillight was the shiny red disc placed on his chassis in April, 1941, when he was planted along the Maine coast by the United States Bureau of Fisheries.

The flounder's nemesis was Mrs James A. Hartzell of Baltimore rent, which might not occur in midchannel until several hours later. City, who reported the catch in Boothbay Harbor, Me.

Bridge Swindles—No. 116

Had he been a less resourceful player, South might have complained bitterly about the unfortunate duplication of strength and distribution in the North-South hands. As it was, he gave his opponents a chance to make a mistake, and wound up with nothing to feel sorry about. South dealer.

mond raise from North, for then he would have taken his chances at a grand-slam contract. He felt conservative in bidding only six, despite the fact that North's bidding warned him of duplicated heart strength. That, however, was not so troublesome as North's three small diamonds—a weakness which bidding 12. Cooks in could not disclose.

West opened the queen of hearts and South thought things over for a moment. His best chance was to find a doubleton queen or king of diamonds in one opponent's hand with which to stage an eventual end-play. (He considered the possibility of finding both high diamonds in the East hand, but correctly dismissed it as less likely.) But since the diamonds might be so located that the end-play could be prevented (as indeed they were) South decided to disguise his plan by staging the key play before the opponents realized what was going

He therefore played a low heart from dummy on the opening lead and ruffed in his own hand. Then he laid down the diamond ace! Had this play come three or four tricks later East might have dropped his queen, foreseeing the end-play. As it was he played his low diamond. South then led a low trump to dummy, discarded two diamonds on the high hearts, then cashed his high clubs. Finally he exited with his low diamond and the defense was helpless. If East won with the queen, he would have to give declarer a ruff-and-sluff, and if West stepped up with the diamond king, South's jack would become estab-

British Are Confident, United in Purpose, American Discovers

Drone of Planes Overhead Gives Feeling War Is Being Won

Gladwin Hill has just arrived in London, fresh from a roving Wide World assignment which carried him into many parts of the wartime United States. Here he gives his first impressions of a wartime London.

By GLADWIN HILL,

LONDON, Sept. 18.-In England oday you get a much stronger conviction that the war is being won by the United Nations than you felt back in the United States.

This feeling comes partly from knowledge that the planes droning overhead were not going out only to scout for submarines, but that they are definitely going across to drop bombs on Germany. Part of it comes also from the fact that half the people, both men and women, seem to be in uniform, and the other half are equally preoccupied with their part in the war. But the feeling comes mostly from the spirit of the people; with the enemy only 27 miles away and with rations cut to a single egg a week per person, there still is a mass spirit of unified and purposeful confidence. It is a feeling in evident contrast to some of the differences seen in the United States with squabbles over gasoline ration cards or how to make synthetic rubber.

Contrast Understandable. The contrast is understandable. England, with one-third the population of the United States, is more homogeneous, more compact, far easier to mobilize into a total war program. And England has had three years of rugged experience in a fighting war in which to iron out kinks as compared with the nine months in which the United States has been working out solutions to its own war problems. These advantageous factors have helped set English faces uniformly in that characteristic faraway look of dogged determination which once led some one to observe that "the British Empire was acquired in a fit of absentmindedness." It is a glassy, inscrutable countenance, but it is mystically reassuring. When the English, who constantly half expect the Nazis to reattempt another air blitz, say they can take it, you get the feeling that it is useless for the German bombers to establishments which look closed but which are really open. They are only operating behind boarded fronts for blackout convenience and for bomb protection. War Hasn't Upset Courtesy. The bomb damage is inconspicuous until you visit a certain few sections where several adjacent blocks were razed by delayed action bombs or by fires started by incendiary bombs.

And the war hasn't upset the courtesy of the English, which is so intense that it makes the rough and ready Americans blush.

Your waiter says "thank you" when he presents his bill, "thank you" when he is paid, "thank you" when he brings your change, "thank you" when he gets his tip and a final "thank you" in case he forgot any "thank yous" en route. The cautiously - driven taxicabs still screech to a stop and the driver apologizes to suicidal pedestrians. The major difference of everyday life in London is in the food. People are rationed to 20 cents' worth of meat per week, and to three pints of thin milk and a pound of candy. Sausages contain an unseemly amount of bread crumbs, but there has been American canned pressed ham which is a prized item. The restaurants ration books need not be presented, but they are restricted by an ingenious system of serving what amounts to a subsistence meal. A three-course dinner has a maximum $1 charge, but the fancy places are allowed an extra $1 cover charge.

Poultry and Fish Dishes. A typical menu at Simpson's, once among the world's leading restaurants, offers four entrees-ham, pigeon pie, chicken and cold duck. Poultry and fish are the reigning dishes, although a few establishments use a sort of "speakeasy" method to produce a steak dinner for $5.

You hear no complaints about the rationing of food and clothing (as for clothing, you are restricted to about one new outfit a year). The gasoline and rubber problem is solved by prohibiting pleasure

The minor inconveniences include, because of a shortage of civilian labor, the fact that laundry

The most difficult problem for Americans here is finding apartments equivalent to those in the with their meals, but this irritation United States. For instance, instead of a neatly furnished modern apartment with refrigeration which rents for about $75 a month, you have a small choice of flats in drafty, unheated, converted mansions without refrigeration and incompletely furnished. Such a flat costs $100 a month.
