War and Navy Urge Caution On Contract Law

Careful Study Should Precede Any Change, Finance Group Is Told

By the Associated Press.

Representatives of the War and Navy Departments and Maritime Commission told the Senate Finance Committee today that any drastic changes in the law regulating renegotiation of war contracts should be preceded by the most careful investigation.

Chairman George, who opposes the present renegotiation law on the ground that it is filled with uncertainties for the business man and is "open to abuses," indicated that the three Government departments so far have presented only clarifying amendments to the measure.

Careful Investigation.

"They have made no recommendations on vital and drastic changes in the act," he said. "They feel that changes of that nature should be made only after a most careful investigation." Under present law, the agencies

Administration Assailed for Not Curbing Prices Could Have Been Done

Months Ago, Halleck Says in House Debate

A blunt statement that the administration could have stemmed the rising cost of living months ago had it demonstrated "courage and strong leadership" came today from Representative Halleck, Republican, of Indiana as the House opened debate on anti-inflation legislation.

He followed to the floor Representative Sabath, Democrat, of Illinois, who declared that under the powers delegated by the bill, President Roosevelt "will procede to bring equity and justice to the farmer as well as the wage earner."

Representative Halleck, who nominated Wendell Willkie for president at the last Republican National Convention, maintained that Congress itself, "with a little encouragement" from the administration. would have written over-all controls against inflation last year when it passed the price control act.

Farm Bloc Active.

"Last summer," he cried, "when the clouds of runaway inflation were beginning to gather, it might have been better for the leaders of the administration to send some word up here, instead of waiting until now and saying 'do it by October 1 or else."

Eastman Says U. S. Must Make Best Use Of Old Vehicles

Complete Co-operation Of All Needed, He Tells Police Chiefs

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 .- The Nation must put all its old vehicles in the "best possible shape" to offset the rubber shortage, Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, declared in a speech before the International Association of Chiefs of Police todav.

The lack of rubber for tires and critical repair parts was "not a hopeless situation," Mr. Eastman said, but the solution for lack of all critical materials was to handle the "same flow of traffic with the same old equipment-in fact, a diminishing supply."

He warned that there could be "no salvation" without the complete co-operation of the public, police and other civil agencies with the Government.

Mr. Eastman declared that taxicabs, which he said were regarded by some as a luxury, relieved the load on cheaper transportation systems and held a place in the transportation picture.

"We would be in a sorry plight if we were deprived of taxicab service," he said

The transportation director named reduction of speed as "top in importance in the preservation of tires." He said he hoped all States would establish a maximum of 35 miles per nour. as called for by President Roosevelt and the Baruch committee report.

The Convention of Police Chiefs also heard J. Trueman Thompson, director of the Highway Traffic Advisory Committee to the War Department, urge careful plans for the double procedure of traffic in event of bombings or sabotage.

Edward J. Ennis, director of enemy control, Justice Department, disclosed that 6,800 enemy aliens had been seized between the outbreak of war and September 1. He said 50 per cent of that number had been interned, 35 per cent were on parole and 15 per cent released.

Of the 6,800, he said 3,000 were seized in the first three days after Pearyl Harbor. Mr. Ennis estimated there now are 1,250,000 enemy aliens in this country of whom many "obviously are friendly.

Dieppe and Solomons Indicate Turning of Tide, Vinson Says

Sees Growing Strength Of Allied Navies as Spelling End of Axis

By the Associated Press.

"Dieppe and the Solomon Islands are merely forecasts of the shape of things to come," Chairman Vinson of the House Naval Affairs Committee declared today.

The Georgian's statement, asserting that "at sea we are beginning to turn the corner," was issued after President Roosevelt had requested yesterday an additional $2,731,154.-308 to bring the Navy's current year appropriation to a record high of approximately $17,000,000,000.

Cites Growing Sea Power.

"We are now pushing our greatly augmented program of naval construction with the utmost speed at our command," Representative Vinson said. "When it is completed and joins forces with the British and other Allied navies, it will give the United Nations a more nearly global strength at sea than the world has ever seen, and seapower, welded by ships and aircraft, is the anvil on which the decision in this global war is being hammered out.' Representative Vinson predicted the new Navy would give the United States "the added escort and patrol craft needed to put an end to the U-boat menace" and "will enable us to take the offensive with superior force in any theater we chose

"When the new land front is launched in the west of Europe,' he said, "it is seapower that will launch it. Seapower will transport the men and material needed to the point of attack. On Offensive in Solomons. Already, he declared, we have taken the offensive in the Solomons and "there for the first time we have wrested the initiative from the enemy, and our new Navy should enable us to retain the initiative right to the end.'

On June 30, 1941, Mr. Vinson said, a United States not at war had 697 a nip and tuck battle with adcombat, auxiliary, patrol and mine ministration forces today in its vessels building, while on June 30, effort to inject a new and higher 1942, there were 3,230 vessels in this basis for agricultural parity category under construction in addition to 218 being built for Allied nations. This, he added, does not include 11,659 smaller vessels under construction.

Counting all types of planes, he went on, "we added 4,895 new aircraft to the Navy's air arm in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1942, as compared with 2,067 in the preced-

Kaiser Recruiting 20,000 New Yorkers For Oregon Yards

Total of 50,000 Sought; Special Trains to Take Workmen West

y the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.-Hiring of 20,000 New York workmen for the Portland (Oreg.) shipyards of Henry J. Kaiser began today, with Mr. Kaiser's agents expecting to send the first 600 West on a special train Thursday.

Thomas Murphy, Kaiser recruiting chief, said 50,000 men were being sought from New York, Indiana, Illinois and Texas. He added that if New York's unemployment problem promoted a lively response, perhaps the entire 50,000 would be taken from here.

Fifty special trains supplied by a Nation-wide syndicate of railroads will transport the workmen to Portland for $75 each, including meals. Mr. Murphy said the Kaiser company would pay the syndicate for those hired, deducting the amount from pay checks over a period of several weeks.

AFL Men Get First Call.

Only persons to be interviewed the first few days will be American Federation of Labor building trades members carrying referral cards from their unions. When these are exhausted, Mr. Murphy said, the United States Employment Service will be asked to furnish the rest.

No previous knowledge of shipbuilding is required, agents said, Clerks and white collar workers will be welcome and will be trained as journeymen at the shipyards.

Mr. Murphy said no 1-A men would be accepted and there would be no "pirating" of other war industries.

Women able to weld will be hired, he said.

"But we may be back in New York later for 50,000 women for all lines," Mr. Murphy remarked.

Face Housing Problem.

Meantime, Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, ecently appointed regional director of the War Manpower Commission, expressed concern over the housing problem the Kaiser company faced in importing thousands of workmen to Portland.

She also indicated that a scheme which leaves only "a reservoir of unskilled labor" in New York would not be tolerated, nor would the transport of men across the conti-p nent who might have to return East to face military call.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 .- War conditions in Europe have created a health situation which is threaten ing a calamity worse than fighting, trustworthy dispatches reaching the United States said yesterday. A shortage of doctors, equipment and medicines; the strain of war, deficiencies in diet, an influx of for-neutral channels said Nazi medical circles were alarmed by the number eign workers of uncertain health and return of soldiers from the battlefields where they have come into contact with disease and vermin, were said to be creating a serious problem for Germany, concerned with keeping up the efficiency of her industrial and home front.

OCD Auxiliary Policemen To Get FBI Handbook

A special handbook for auxiliary police officers, prepared in co-operation with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, is to be issued soon, it was announced today by James M. Landis, director of the Office of Civilian Defense.

The booklet will be distributed to accredited auxiliary policemen through their local defense councils. Mr. Landis also reminded local police departments, who are primarily responsible for training auxiliary officers, that graduates of the FBI's civilian defense schools are available to provide special instructions. Dean Landis characterized the operation of the auxiliary police system as "one of the best answers to the dictator nations" in that it represents groups of "free men disciplining themselves."

One amendment thus tentatively approved would authorize and direct the President to act on or before November 1 to stabilize prices, wages and salaries so far as practicable on the basis of levels which existed on September 15.

Senator Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan succeeded in amending another section to make it plain that if subsequent adjustments were made by the President they must be made not only to correct inequities but because they were necessary to aid in the effective prosecution of the war. To eliminate a possibility that high salaries might be "frozen" at the September 15 levels, the Senate adopted an amendment by Senator Overton, Democrat, of Louisiana permitting employers to reduce salaries of $5,000 a year or more, if they chose, without first obtaining the President's consent.

Unified Legionnaires Demand Stepup In War Effort

Assignment of Civilians To Roles in Conflict Urged by Veterans

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, September 22 .--The lost Legionnaires—the 1,500 men who came to the 1942 American Legion convention confused and ill at ease in their awkward role as civilians in a uniformed, marching, fighting world-are going home with renewed hope. They're going to help win this new war.

They may not have any 1943 convention. They may be too busy. And the thought is adding new sparkle to the eyes that sighted down the barrels of those World War I rifles 25 years ago.

With a unity never before seen in American Legion history, the convention recorded demand after demand for a more vigorous war effort -and effort in which every Legionnaire can take an active role.

Want Places as Teachers.

An estimated 100,000 Legionnaires have tried in vain to enter the new Army. Disabilities that 25 years have brought them intervened, but the Legion is not abandoning its efforts to find places for them as uniformed teachers or military administrators.

Every civilian, too, the Legion demanded, must be assigned an immediate wartime role. There must be immediate legislation to conscript capital, labor, industry and agriculture, as well as men for the armed forces, the convention declared.

The vote to admit as members veterans of the present war proved almost a side issue as the delegates concentrated on methods of speeding the day of victory.

fight convention, and a shouting unanimity marked the election of Roane Waring, Memphis utility executive. as national commander.

Legislative Program.

Legislation urged by the convention would provide:

Job security for all returning from the armed services. One year's compulsory military training for youth after the war. Fewer deferments of young, ablebodied men in essential jobs, and no deferments at employers' requests unless substitute employes cannot be found.

Commissioning of women surgeons and physicians.

Another resolution urged every effort be made to bring the Nation's air force to its highest possible strength.

And-remember those long, dusty, got woozy when the oxygen failed eary marches of 25 years ago? - and bailed out, alighting on the one last resolution was adopted. Allies Can Destroy Germany From Air, Gen. Eaker Asserts

Necessary Force to Be Assembled Rapidly, Bomber Chief Says

y the Associated Press.

LONDON, September 22 .- The conviction that it is possible to destroy Germany from the air is expressed by Brig. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, chief of the A. E. F. Bomber Command, and he holds that the necessary forces "will be rapidly asembled.'

Gen. Eaker, who was nominated for promotion to a major generalcy by President Roosevelt yesterday, declared in an interview published by the London Daily Mail that the enemy would fall before a sufficiently powerful series of vertical assaults. "By destroying his munitions plants and communications you can bring his armies to a halt," he said.

"By destroying his shipyards you can make it impossible for him to build submarines'

The general said "there is hardly corner of Germany" which United States bombers would not reach within the next few months.

"It should not be assumed that we are committed to high-level bombing," he said. "The United States Army Air Forces will bomb anywhere and in any way that the weather indicates is most suitable."

He declared there were enough airdromes in the British Isles now built and building to accommodate all Allied air forces needed for the destruction of Germany.

the Pope was last Saturday. Since then he has been conferring with the British and French envoys to the Vatican and the representatives of conquered Poland and Yugoslavia. Italy Claims Repulse Of Allies in Libya After 5-Day Fight

Heavy Losses Declared Inflicted in Battle Below Bengasi

By the Associated Press

ROME (From Italian Broadcasts), Sept. 22.-The high command said today that Allied mechanized forces which struck through the Libyan desert against Axis forces in the neighborhood of Gialo Oasis at dawn last Wednesday finally had been driven off after a five-day fight. "Yesterday, as one of our motorized columns was nearing," the high command said, "the enemy withdrew from the fight in a southerly direction, pushed and bombed by squadrons of our air force." (The Gialo oasis is on the caravan trail to Cufra and about 250 miles southeast of Axisoccupied Bengasi. The attack may have been another in the daring series of desert raids launched from Fighting French bases in Equatorial Africa.)

The high command said the Allied forces were "superior" to the German and Italian detachments garrisoning the area.

"After having repulsed the first attack with strong artillery fire, the resistance of the garrison continued reported.

In subsequent fighting German and Italian air forces offered strong support and heavy losses were inflicted on the invaders in both manpower and material, the communique said.

No developments were reported from the Egyptian front. Two British raiders were reported shot down over Tobruk.

Blast at French Seen As Hint That Italy Is Losing War Hope

Growing Dissatisfaction Over Share in Spoils Indicated by Press

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS, ociated Press War Correspondent BERN, Switzerland, Sept. 22. bitter tirade against France by a semi-official Italian publication was interpreted today as indicating Italy's growing dissatisfaction with what she has gotten out of the Axis and her dwindling hopes of winning any material rewards from participation in the war. This conclusion was drawn by experienced observers from an article which appears in the weekly foreign Affairs Journal, Relazione Internationale, and which, though directed at France, lacked any expression of faith that the Nazis would support Italy's war ambitions. The article, voicing a fear known to have been widely held for some time in Italy, expressed belief that Pierre Laval, French chief of government, is co-operating with the Germans in the hope of winning the upper hand over Italy and foiling Italian territorial ambitions.

Opposition to Nazis.

Relazione's viewpoint coincided in many ways with views generally held in United States quarters. It made these points:

1. The "patriotic ideal" of Frenchmen is that France is bound to the Anglo-Saxons in "obstinate opposition" to the Nazi new order. 2. Laval knows this and is cooperating with the Germans while at the same time trying to maintain American relations so that he can ported this morning for assignment hop an Allied bandwagon if necesfore. sity requires.

The article obviously could be accepted as having had an official nod and therefore as representing Italy's dissatisfaction with the result of her propaganda campaign this summer for Nice and Corsica.

Reliable private advices are to the effect that Italy hoped to realize her claims after the Salzburg meeting between Hitler and Mussolini several months ago.

Diamond Stickpin Helped Prod Wilson To Presidency of G-E

Wide World.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 .- "There just ain't no golden chariot that will take you there."

When Charles E. Wilson said that about achievement, he was president of a blue-chip corporation with assets of $375,000,000 and 67,000 workers.

It was a "simple noun: work," no golden chariot, that made him president of General Electric. It will again be that noun he will have to apply in his new, incredibly more vast job of vice chairman of the War Production Board.

In his new post as top production authority in the war program. "Charlie" Wilson will have "the responsibility of seeing to it that programs and schedules for all phases of our war efforts are met.

He will be dealing with a $5.000, 000,000 monthly business.

But there was a day when $3 a week was the financial sphere with which Charlie Wilson coped.

Served as Office Boy. He was an office boy at Sprague Electric Co., (later to become a subsidiary of General Electric) and he had two ambitions. One was to become general manager of the plant. The other was to own a diamond stick pin like the one his boss wore in his tie.

The boss was a stocky plant superintendent named William T. Ruete. Before he died he gave Charlie the stick pin, but during his lifetime he gave him a great deal more.

He found out the tall, stringy errand boy's personal story. He learned that Charlie's father, a book binder, had died when Charlie was injuries he received in the Sunday crush at the opening of the Brooklyn Bridge.

He learned that Charlie's mother, who became the bread winner as well as housekeeper, cherished imaginings that she could send him through high school and onto college. Refusing to realize inevitability, she spent the evenings encouraging him in his aptitude for mathematics. Charlie, with an eye to reality even at 12, saw the sooner he got to work the better. For $3 a week he took the 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. errand boy's job at Sprague

According to detectives, the unidentified soldier joined in the chase of the alleged slaver and a colored companion and hurled a bottle containing gin at one of the colored youths.

Then, police said, one of the colored youths turned and fired a pistol shot which ripped through Pvt. Hamner's jaw and lodged in his throat. The victim died nine hours later in Emergency Hospital without regaining consciousness.

After questioning a dozen suspects. police admitted they were stumped as to the identity of the gunman. A colored man armed with a gun was picked up by Thirteenth precinct police last night, but witnesses failed, police said, to link him with the crime.

Police were still attempting to piece together conflicting accounts of events leading up to the fatal shooting and pointed out that questioning of the unidentified soldier who threw the bottle might help to clarify the evidence.

Preliminary Estimates

While the estimates submitted to the Commissioners this year by the municipal departments are the lowest in the past six years, they still exceed by a substantial margin the current year's appropriations. The Commissioners must find ways, therefore, of reducing these estimates still further. The virtual prohibition against new construction will, of course, simplify the task. But it is more important than ever this year to find budget economies which will be made possible by other war dislocations.

Shrinking gasoline and automobile tax revenues, for instance, should be reflected not merely in a curtailment of highway construction items but in a reduction in expenses of the Traffic Bureau. An interesting suggestion in this respect came from the Keystone Automobile Club at yesterday's public hearings on the preliminary estimates. An argument to suspend the annual inspection of automobiles was supported by statistics designed to show that no reduction in the proportion of accidents due to defective automobile equipment has resulted from the inspection of automobiles. The other side of the argument, of course, will be that it is more necessary than ever to inspect automobiles because of rapid deterioration in tires and and more severe. Even Southern equipment and the lack of replacements. If the Keystone Club's statistics are correct, however, it is going to be difficult to justify the inspections this year, or to justify anything but a sharp reduction in Traffic Bureau expenses. Speaking for the Board of Trade, E. Barrett Prettyman urged that the expenses of defending Washington should be borne by the Federal Government. Certainly the Commissioners should make some attempt to correct the highly unsatisfactory deal they have made in borrowing money from the Treasury-at interest-in order to meet extraordinary expenses in connection with defense of the Capital which, in large measure, are obligations of the National Government. There is no reason in the world, for instance, why the local community should be paying all the expenses of guarding the water supply system; much less is there reason for the District to be forced to pay interest on money advanced for this purpose from the Treasury, which pays no interest whatever on deposits of local tax revenues in the Treasury. Aside from the normal economies they will find in shaping up the District budget, the Commissioners assuredly should make a serious attempt in Congress to rectify such an Inequity.

conquer poverty, insecurity and unemployment." The Nazis, of course, deny the efficiency of the religion which stresses the worth and the integrity of the individual human soul. It is in that circumstance that Lord Halifax discovered his best hope and most confident reassurance. The vision of the great cathedral church of London again inspired him when, at the close of his address, he used these words: "I have tried to show you what St. Paul's means to us. standing clear above the city-a reminder that what we are fighting to preserve, freed of all that once marred our view, is the Christian way of life: an inspiration to fight better; an assurance that after victory, by following the Christian way more faithfully, we shall come to the kind of future we long to see.'

War Autumn

A major stage in the eternal procession of the seasons has arrived. The sun's direct rays have crossed the Equator. Autumn has come to the Northern Hemisphere. Beyond the Arctic Circle, the sun has dipped below the horizon, and in the remote polar regions, winter's icy legions are already gathering in darkness and cold. With growing swiftness, the polar chill will rush southward on the wings of northerly gales, sleet and snow. Though still distant from our temperate climes, winter is on the way. And even in the subtropics. there will be seasonal changes of dryness or rainfall. Conversely, in the Southern Hemisphere, this equinox heralds spring. So everything there is in reverse, with summer in the offing.

All this has a vital bearing on the course of the planet-wide struggle in which mankind is engaged. Never before has the influence of the weather on war been more appreciated or better understood. Every battle ground is, to some extent, affected by the climatic changes that are now taking place, while for some of them the weather will be a major factor.

Especially is this true in Russia. The climate of European Russia resembles somewhat that of the central portion of our own continent, including both the Mississippi Valley and adjacent Canada. There is the same interminal stretch of land from north to south, with no mountain barriers to break the prodigious sweeps of cold from the Arctic in winter and of heat in summer from warm regions. The chief difference is that the Russian winter is longer Russia is distinctly cold. The mid- labor through the medium of the winter climate of Stalingrad approximates that of Minneapolis and St. Paul, while even Astrakhan at the mouth of the Volga and tempered by the Caspian Sea, is slightly colder than St. Louis in the wintertime. Only in the Crimea and the region alike. south of the Caucasus do mountain barriers shut off the north winds and afford really mild winter seasons. However, winter campaigning in Southern Russia is not handicapped by those extremely low temperatures which froze the German synthetic | mately fair balance among all the oils and cracked the German synthetic rubber on the Moscow and Leningrad fronts last year, thus disrupting their highly mechanized war machine. But in Northern Russia, General Winter will take command as before, while on the Arctic Sea front the long nights and storms will greatly improve the chances of Anglo-American convoys bound for Murmansk and Archangel. In North Africa, winter is the ideal campaigning season, when the blasting heat of summer gives place to relatively cool weather. The same is even truer of potential fighting grounds in the Near and Middle East. In India, autumn ends the monsoon rains and gales which, during the summer months, interfere with land, sea and air activities alike. It may therefore give the Japanese the signal for an attempt to invade a country filled with discontent and unrest. In the full tropics of New Guinea and the Solomon Islands, winter is only a name, but Australia, being in the antipodes, is entering its spring and summer, with all that these imply. Such are merely the climatic high lights of the wartime months that lie ahead. But remembering the climatic factor will make it easier for us to evaluate the conditions under which pending campaigns will be fought. We may be sure that the rival general staffs have the weather always very much in mind.

United Nations representatives here are still ministers. Before the war is over, it is probable that they will all be ambassadors. The envoys of Greece and Yugoslavia are being made ambassadors as a sign of appreciation by the United States of the resistance within Greece and Yugoslavia. Does that suggest we do not appreciate the resistance inside Czechoslovakia, whose representative here remains a minister? Or that we do not appreciate the fight being put up for the Allies by Canada, Australia, Union of South Africa and New Zealand, whose legates are not ambassadors? The answer to each question, of course, is no, just as it is to the question whether we are not grateful to the people of Luxembourg for their anti-German stand, or the people of Costa Rica, Guatemala, Dominican Republic, Haiti, Honduras, Nicaragua and El Salvador for ranging themselves on our side in the war. In time, they probably will all have ambassadors here.

Ominous Parallel

A Brookings Institution study of the French experience with price control has brought to light some with our current effort to stabilize living costs.

Generally, the French experiment has not been successful, and it has failed because the government lacked the courage or the ability to deal impartially with strong political pressure groups. Instead of approaching the problem with a view to protecting on an equitable basis the interests of all the French people, the government made special concessions to the farmers and the city wage-earners, the principal pressure groups in France and in this country. The result, according to the Brookings study, was that price-control objectives rarely were achieved, and then generally at the expense of the retailers. This fatal defect-preferred treatment for farmers and organized wage-earners-was plainly evident in this country's first attempt at pricecontrol legislation, and it is now conceded that the effort failed for this reason. At the moment, Congress is engaged in an attempt to repair this original blunder, but the prospects of achieving any real success are not bright.

Possibly, the special favors conferred on the farmers will be whittled down a little bit, but there is not even an attempt being made to rectify the unbalanced wage advances which have been granted to War Labor Board. Thus, while we

By Thomas R. Henry.

Death from fear, with no physical injury, seems entirely possible. This is the verdict of Dr. Walter B. Cannon, professor of physiology at Harvard University, based upon a study of killings allegedly accomplished by voodoo doctors and witches, reported from many parts of the world.

Supposedly, such a magician can kill an enemy merely by pointing a stick at him, granted the intended victim knows the malevolent intention. Reports of such happenings generally have come from explorers and missionaries and commonly have been doubted by most physicians.

Dr. Cannon, he reports to the American Anthropological Association, obtained records of such happenings from medical men whose own prejudices would be against believing what they saw with their own eyes. Still they were assured that the phenomena were real. The deaths, Dr. Cannon says, can be explained on entirely natural grounds, without any recourse to the supernatinteresting and ominous parallels ural. Practically the same thing happens in surgical or wound shock, one of the most serious medical problems of the present war.

In the first place, he points out, fear has an extreme effect on the sympathetic nervous system. This results in releasing large quantities of adrenalin, a powerful stimulant to nerve activity, into the blood stream. Nature intends that this reaction should make an organism more competent temporarily to defend itself against sudden peril. Dr. Cannon and his associates have performed many experiments with socalled decerebrate cats in whom the entire top of the brain, the seat of conscious reactions, has been removed. These animals live for some time after such severe operations but the average reaction is one of intense and constant rage, with the brakes provided by the conscious part of the brain entirely removed. There is an enormous adrenalin secretion.

The animal's hair stands on end. Sweat exudes from the toe pads. The heart rate goes up to as high as 300 beats a minute, blood pressure goes up, blood sugar increases to as much as fivefold normal. In a sense, the injured creature is supremely equipped for fighting. Rage and fear have almost precisely the same effects, Dr. Cannon says.

But a decerebrate cat usually dies in three or four hours. Death is preceded by a very great drop in blood pressure, such as is found in wound shock. Occasionally an animal does not show this subconscious rage. Then, with no particular sympathetic nervous system stimulation, it may live for a long time. The same result is achieved, one of Dr. Cannon's associates found, by disconnecting the sympathetic ne system at the same time the top of the brain is removed. The essential mechanism, Dr. Cannon says, is a lowering of the amount of circulating blood by the action of adrenalin in constricting some of the small arteries. This results in a reduced supply to the heart and the nerve centers. This, in turn, results in less blood being pumped through the circulation. This, again in turn, deprives the arterial walls of oxygen and makes it easier for the blood plasma to leak through them. This last phenomenon is what is believed to happen in shock. Dr. Cannon admits that it would require extreme fear indeed to bring about such a result. But there were reliable cases of it reported from the First World War. There is no doubt, Dr. Cannon says, that the highly superstitious victim of a witch doctor suffers this sort of fear. He knows that everybody else in the community is certain that he will die. that they already are taking steps to placate his ghost. There is nothing he can do about it and no surcease of the terror until it finally sends him into fatal shock.

Christianity the Issue

Lord Halifax, British Ambassador, speaking to a world-wide radio audience on Sunday, declared that "the real issue" of the Second World War is "whether Christianity, and all that it means, is to survive." The Axis concept, certainly, is at variance with that view of the contest; but the United Nations gradually have brought their thinking to agreement that the prevailing strife for them, if not for their foes, is "a struggle to keep open the road from a Christian past to a more Christian future.'

It is imperative, Lord Halifax explained, that Nazi fanaticism should be met with an enthusiasm and zeal of superior dynamic power. "The flame of our faith," he insists, must burn "as fiercely as theirs." If Germans "are ready * * * to give themselves for a cause" which "they have been trained to believe * * * has the highest claim on their devotion." they must be opposed by a revived and strengthened faith in the sacred cause of which St. Paul's Cathedral in London, as the Ambassador suggested, is the symbol. Britain "is still essentially a Christian land," and the embattled people of Britain are a Christian community which has learned "a new humility, which we needed" and-an American observer might add-a new pride equally helpful.

Lord Halifax did not affirm that his country always has been loyal to Its elemental doctrine. "We acknowledge," he frankly confessed, "that in the past we have tolerated much of which we are now ashamed." A "new

More Ambassadors

The Government's announcement that the legations here of Greece and Yugoslavia are to be raised to the eminence of embassies serves as a reminder that distinctions still survive that were framed in the days before government of the people, for the people, by the people became a global aspiration. The ambassador, in the word's original concept, was the representative of a ruler authorized to speak for the ruler to another ruler, or chief of state. The minister was a lesser fellow, sent by a government to deal with a government; he lacked the authority which made it possible for the ambassador to command the ear of the ruler when he wanted it. In Washington, the capital of democracy, we have both ambassadors, who dwell in embassies, and ministers, who live in legations, and the wonder grows why the dismay hope for some improvement over the original legislation, there seems to be virtually no prospect of a price-control formula under which all citizens will share and share

It is worthy of note that Canada has been substantially successful in her effort to stabilize living costs, but Canada went about it in the right way-enacting legislation at the outset which struck an approxifactors which make up the cost of living. Unfortunately, we set out to follow the example of France instead of that which was set by Canada, and there is no assurance that we have yet learned the lesson of that mistake.

Turnabout

At the Hatfield (Pa.) County Fair, a corps of women were eating slice after slice of cake, unselfishly disregarding the extra weight that they would take on. They were judges of all the hundreds of cakes sent in by housewives, and to prevent political skullduggery, the cakes were numbered, and the names corresponding to the numbers kept in a secret file. When the judging was over, and the answer decoded, a special committee on eligibility was hastily summoned, but after much discussion the result was made official. The outstanding cake artist of the county, a winner of five prizes, had turned out to be a mere man. But worse was to come. "It was nothing," he said shyly. "I owe all my success to my father. He taught me to bake." There is no doubt that the best man won; even the losers concede that, but he had better watch his step. If not married already, he may be some day, and not only will he have to make all the cake in the family, but it had better be good. It would be highly disturbing if his wife complained that he didn't bake cakes the way his father used to bake them.

Readers Discuss Social Effects Of Alcohol and Tobacco Habits. To the Editor of The Star

I have been interested in many phases of human welfare for many years, and, of course, read the letter on the liquor question by Dr. J. Raymond Schmidt printed in The Star of September 19. with considerable interest. I also was interested to read Dr. J. A. Gannon's position upon the subject of alcohol and tobacco, appearing in the same issue.

In our religious views, and our medical and other views, we all are products of our education and association. It seems to me that the whole question resolves itself into whether these habits are wholesome or unwholesome for our bodies

I have Dr. W. Sinclair Bowen to thank for recommending a small book entitled "Tobaccoism," by Dr. J. H. Kellogg of Battle Creek, Mich. I do hope Dr. Gannon will read it and then see if his ideas on that subject will not go into reverse.

In the tobacco, or in its smoke, there several deadly poisons-nicotine. prussic acid and arsenate of lead. I hardly think these are "God's gifts to man" to put into his lungs. There is hardly anything more irritating to the throat membrane than tobacco smoke. I think it is of great importance for our growing children to learn the facts regarding the harmful effects of the alcohol and tobacco habits

It is pleasing to note that The Star is upholding its good name by publishing letters for and against Dr. Gannon's stand on the effects of alcohol and cigarettes on the human system.

Although millions are spent for advertising whisky and cigarettes, not one claim is made by the manufacturers that their products will produce a healthier race or long life.

It was on a silk-raising project that, in 1869, the first Japanese came to California. They settled at Gold Hill, not far from where Marshall discovered gold and started the '49 gold rush.

For more than 40 years the undersigned and its predecessors have been trying to awaken Americans to the Japanese menace, including Japanese propaganda even in our school textbooks. Most ears remained deaf until the explosion of Pearl Harbor.

This committee, composed of representatives of several patriotic societies and a few individuals, still calls attention, as it has for many years, to the danger of dual citizenship. It feels that any native-born Japanese who could have renounced allegiance to the Mikado, yet refused to do so, has no right to enjoy the protection the Stars and Stripes afford to Americans. It advocates cancellation of such American citizenship as a protection against fifth columnists.

Reports Finding of Committee Investigating Persecution of Churches. To the Editor of The Star

With reference to the Rev. Mr. James H. Phillips' recent letter and the attitude of the Nazis toward the Christian churches, your readers may be interested in a report entitled "Religious Persecution," just issued in London by the Inter-Allied Information Committee. This, the third of a series of reports on conditions in territories occupied by Germany or Japan, surveys comprehensively the Axis campaign against religion and gives details of crimes which they have committed. Persecution varies in the different countries from subtle efforts to under mine religious organizations-as in Germany itself and, to some extent, in Belgium where the Nazis have not perhaps altogether forgotten Cardinal Mercier and the lessons of the last war-to ferocious assaults on all forms of worship and belief, collective and individual, and deliberate efforts to extinguish them.

Methods range in severity from the suppression of ecclesiastical publications to the systematic destruction of churches and the murder of priests. The report contains numerous well-documented accounts and incontrovertible evidence of planned activities. Churches have been destroyed or converted to base uses, such as stables or moving-picture houses. Shrines and other holy places have been desecrated and defiled. Sacred vessels have been systematically looted everywhere. The clergy have been deported, sent to concentration camps or tortured to death.

In China missionaries have been massacred by the Japanese, nuns have been detained by the military and even sold the gypsy sleeping dens which we once visited on Seventh street. Time and wars have wrought many changes, but we wish they had left the gypsies alone.

Stalemate Foreseen in Germany

Information From Country Leaves Out Possibility of Victory

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Information from inside Germany is rare these days, but in Switzerland are observers who have an opportunity to talk with persons who pass across the borders of France as well as Germany. From these sources comes to this correspondent today some interesting news of what is being contemplated by the most thoughtful of the German people.

Summarized, David Lawrence. these impressions are reported: 1. There is a prevalent belief among thoughtful and well-informed Germans that Germany cannot possibly win the war.

2. The belief prevails that the war will end in a stalemate.

3. Confidence in Hitler as a superman began to wane when he began making excuses in his public speeches for the events leading up to the attack on Russia. His strategy in attacking Russia while leaving his other flank open to attack from Britain by air has been continuously questioned.

4. Entry of the United States into the war has lowered German confidence in ultimate victory and is the prime reason for the belief that a stalemate will end the war.

5. Inside France, the explanation offered by Laval's closest friends for his attitude of collaboration with Germany is that he believes he will be the great mediator of this war and will bring about the peace, after which his pro-German acts presumably would be forgotten by his own countrymen.

6. There still prevails both in France and Germany among some of the better informed persons a theory that in America an appeasement group will arise to help accept a stalemate.

The informant who furnished this background data, covering a report made after many months of contact through Switzerland with passing travelers, was able constantly to refute the notion that there was any possibility of appeasement and pointed out also that evidently Laval is wholly unaware of how bitter is the opposition to him throughout the world. An opportunity was presented to tell these same friends that America, now roused to an intense feeling over war issues, would not be satisfied with anything less than unconditional surrender by the Axis. The same source of information brought word that many people in Southern Europe, particularly in Switzerland, who have been in contact with important persons in the Balkans were at a loss to understand why until only recently there was no air bombardment of such key localities as Rumanian oil fields and railroad centers. For months it has been a matter of puzzlement that these bases of supply escaped bombardment its duties next January. At present there are 65 Democratic Senators, 29 Republican, 1 Independent and 1 Progressive. Thirty-four seats will be contested for on election day-24 Democratic seats. 9 Republican, and 1 Independent, as of today.

It is obvious that 41 Democratic Senators will go right ahead holding down their present jobs, since they do not come up for re-election this year. A majority of the Senate is 49. This means that the Democrats have to win only 8 of their

24 contests where sitting democratic Senators are involved. It is a cinch they will do this, and more. Twelve of these Democratic seats are held by Senators from the "Solid South" and socalled border States, where nomination by the Democratic party this year is equivalent to election

The nominees in these "sure" Democratic senatorial contests are Senators Bankhead of Alabama, Bailey of North Carolina, Lee of Oklahoma, O'Daniel of Texas, Chandler of Kentucky, Stewart of Tennessee, Glass of Virginia, Maybank of South Carolina, Ellender of Louisiana and Russell of Georgia and James Eastland of Mississippi, who defeated Senator Doxey for the nomination, and John L. McClellan of Arkansas, nominated for the seat now held by Senator Spencer.

Democratic Majority Seen.

If all these 12 Democratic Senate seats go to the Democrats. as they surely will, the Democrats start their contest for control with 53 seats in the bagfour more than a majority.

The Democrats, however, will win other Senate seats. For example, former Senator and present Gov. Neely of West Virginia is regarded as a sure winner in November. It has been a long time since the Republicans won a State-wide contest in West Virginia, and there seems little prospect of their doing so this year. Senator Hatch of New Mexico is another Democrat expected to win. Still others are rated as having chances, among them Senators Schwartz of Wyoming, Smathers of New Jersey and Brown of Michigan.

Two Republican Senators up

While the claim that a large convoy had been practically annihilated is obviously exaggerated, it seems likely that under the protection of a heavy storm and squally seas they have been able to inflict serious losses on Allied shipping.

The shipping problem is just about the most difficult confronting the United Nations' high

Mourns Passing of Old Auto Trade-In Days

By HENRY MCLEMORE.

As I was pogo-sticking along the bridle paths of Central Park the other morning, astride my fractious, five-gaited pogo stick, I chanced to look up at the leaves and noticed that they were turning. This gave me quite a turn. It struck me that this was the time of the year when I had been accustomed to turning - turning in my old automobile for a new one. Henry McLemore. This was the time of year, I remembered, as my pogo stick tried to brush me off against an elm, that the automobile companies had always announced their new models.

In the old days, the middle of September found the men of letters of the automobile companies burning their typewriters at both ends in an effort to make car owners dissatisfied with the models they owned.

For a week, at least, Detroit became the center of beautiful prose. Chryslers, Fords, Zephyrs and Buicks were described in words which even Romeo could not think up to call Juliet. The fact that only a year earlier these same men had used every known superlative to describe the car of that year held them back not a lick.

Then there was the great automobile show in New York's Grand Central Palace, which, incidentally, will soon be turned into an Army ing Russia assistance. It is induction center. This show served as the clincher. If by chance you months the rate of sinkings on didn't believe the written adverour Atlantic Coast will be retisements, all you had to do was to duced, not only because of the visit this display to see for yourself that your old model was a pile able to afford our ships against of junk and that you should get it Nazi prowlers, but also because off the streets as soon as you could straighten out the down payment effort to cut the supply line to and make your peace with the finance company.

Few Could Resist Auto Show.

Very few car owners were able to resist this show, even those who just dropped in to look. When you got home, after two or three hours of rapturous gazing at special models, the conversation always went this way:

"I know ours has gone only 12,000 miles, but look at it this way: We're soon going to have to buy some new tires. The battery is getting old, the left back door is sprung, and there is that big hole somebody burned in the upholstery. To get our car put in top shape would cost just as much, so the salesman says, as to turn it in and get a new one. Honestly, I think we have a chance to make a saving. We can turn this one in and get a car that will last us a lifetime. You know, of course, the new model has improvements they never heard of this time last year." Well do I remember my visit to the automobile show of four years ago. I owned a convertible roadster at the time-one of those one-mantop jobs, provided your surname is Tarzan. I left that show convinced that the only sensible car for any man to own was a long, seven-passenger, solid black sedan. I came within an ace of signing the papers on the strength of the fact that salesman said that no other type of car on the market had such a tradein value. "This car will last you forever, naturally," the salesman said. "But if you ever want to get rid of it, you can almost name your own price. Undertakers are always on the lookout for cars just like this one. Big, black and solemn looking, they use em to follow hearses. More cars like this go to funerals than any other car in America."

They will surely win a new seat in Nebraska, unless Senator Norris, Independent, decides to throw his hat in the ring for re-election, as his friends are urging him to do. The Republicans have nominated Kenneth Wherry, former State chairman for the Senate there, and the Democrats. Foster E. May, a radio commentator.

Glass Is Unopposed.

The Republicans also have chances to win in Wyoming, and perhaps in Rhode Island, where Senator Green is up for renomination and re-election. Rhode Island will nominate its candidates in convention next week. They may have a chance also in Delaware, where the Democrats have nominated Ennalls Berl in place of Senator Hughes and the Republicans, former Gov. Buck. Only one of the Senators now up for re-election is entirely without opposition-Senator Carter Glass. The Republicans, feeling they had no chance to win against the veteran, and feeling themselves and directly opposed to The Star's.

Sympathy for United Nations.

One of the most interesting reactions coming from Germany is revealed in the questions constantly asked concerning the British and American readiness to fight on the side of communistic Russia. This question was answered on every occasion by the statement that if the Germans and Italians would explain their alliance with Japan, they could understand American and British aid to Russia.

The attitude of people inside France, in both occupied and unoccupied territory, is one of strong sympathy with the cause of the United Nations. Lately there has been a tendency to criticize Marshal Petain, who, it is felt, made a major blunder when he consented to let Laval into his government. It is , feared now by the French that Laval will build up his own organization and police force inside France so that Petain's position would be as insignificant as was Hindenburg's after Hitler had built up his power. There is a steadily declining faith in Petain as a savior. It is argued that he lost his chance to save France by failing to take a firm stand against Laval

One aspect of the future is often discussed in Switzerland. It is the nature of the reprisals that will be taken in almost every country now dominated by Germany, not only against Nazis who happen to be there, but against the Quislings who played the German game. The wrath that may flare up when the war ends is expected to bring a reign of terror and revenge the like of which the world has never before witnessed.

Senator Herring's opponent is

> Conciliation Service Acts In Wage Dispute; To Meet in Baltimore

A hurriedly called meeting of petroleum truck drivers and representatives of three oil transportation companies including one concern here, was to be held in Baltimore today in an attempt to settle a drivers' "vacation" which the United States Conciliation Service estimated affects more than 90 drivers and helpers.

Seventeen drivers for the M. J O'Boyle & Sons here failed to appear for work yesterday morning, while an additional 18 men who normally are added to the pay roll at this time of the year did not appear, according to R. M. O'Boyle. The dispute was over wages.

The Washington concern claims that it ships 200,000 gallons of petroleum products in the Washington area, or about 70 per cent of all gasoline, fuel oil and alcohol handled here.

Today's meeting was called by L. F. Rye of the Baltimore office of the Conciliation Service. Representatives of the AFL Truck Drivers and Helpers Local No. 355 in Baltimore were asked to attend.

> Navy Notifies Agency Jack Singer Is Unaccounted For

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 .- The In ternational News Service said today it had been informed by the Navy Department that Jack Singer, its correspondent with the Pacific Fleet, was missing in action.

The INS said that its last dispatch from Mr. Singer, carried a week ago and with a late August date, described a trip on a torpedo plane that sank a Japanese carrier. The place where that action took place was not disclosed. Mr. Singer, who was born in New

Mr. Singer was with Clark Lee, Associated Press correspondent, aboard an aircraft carrier in the Coral Sea on August 6, but whether he was missing in connection with subsequent action of this task force was not known.

In his long delayed story, released last week, Mr. Lee said in part * * * "For Jack Singer, the other newsman aboard, and myself, it seems we've been waiting a lifetime. We haven't had much to do, and, although everybody has been friendly, it's been a long, hot trip.

Former Nurse Heeds Call Refresher Course Student Urges Return to Tasks in Emergency

Calling for the return of former nurses to wartime service, the Nursing Council for War Service has asked The Star to publish the following account of the experiences of a graduate nurse of 20 years ago who volunteered to take the refresher course at Sibley Hospital: Edith M. Beattie, R. N.,

Executive Secretary. Nursing Council for War Service, District of Columbia.

Being the proud product of Sibley Memorial Hospital, Washington, 13, and Lilybeth and Dorothy, twins of 11.

All these years I've had the daily grind of meals, dishes, laundry mending, etc., which does get tiresome. But, on the whole. I have liked the job of homemaking and have tried to make it successful. Having been out of the nursing harness for 19 years, I have wished terribly to get back into it, since Pearl Harbor. However, I figured that no businessman would dream of going back to where he had left 20 years ago without brushing up the rusty spots. I still believe that "practice makes perfect." I decided to take a refresher course in nursing and wrote to the director of

The chance to hear our Dr. Cotz and Dr. Kauffman in classroom was of inestimable value to me. They certainly know their subjects. I mark each one 100 per cent as my teacher. Of considerable interest to me was the comparison of the nurses' training school of today with what we had in the good old days of 1919-1922. If I had it to do over again, I'd take it now, too. I would still feel confident that I was on the right track. The reasons are: First, no other field offers a woman so much

I have made new friends and renewed old friendships. Nothing else would have given me this opportunity in that length of time. I really did enjoy my stay at Sibley. My neighbors and friends here say that I look 10 years younger.

Cards' Success in Flag Surge Due to Formerly Unheralded Brown, Rivals Say

By FRANCIS E. STAN, Star Staff Correspondent.

Win, Lose or Draw Star Golf Vets

BOSTON, Sept. 22 .- If Whirlaway and Alsab meet again-and unless money has no value whatsoever, they most certaainly will- For War Fund

Even as the Calumet comet and racing's $700 bargain colt hit the wire as a team last Saturday at Narragansett-a fat two minutes before the judges examined the photo of the finish and posted No. 2 (Alsab) on the board-the matter of a return joust was on thousands of tongues.

Perhaps never was there a match race so close, not even when Zev ran against In Memoriam. Here are two great pieces of horseflesh. Alsab and Whirlaway. and the issue remains in doubt. A 3-inch margin is not enough to convince Whirley's backers that Alsab is a better horse.

If and when they race again, probably at Belmont or at Pimlico in names of the past today for a stint the Maryland's track famous "Special," Whirlaway's supporters will be of war relief. willing to stick to the weight-for-age arrangement, meaning that Whirly, as a 4-year-old, again would carry 7 pounds more than the 3-year-old winter tour, Tournament Manager Alsab, still a colt. This seems reasonable. Assigned equal weights, chances are that Whirly would prove too much for Alsab.

Choice of Young Bierman Not Very Popular

When two horses run a mile and three-sixteenths and finish as the probably with the $10,000 Miami 'Sab and Whirly did in the big park just across the Rhode Island State line, there can be no way of rating one a favorite over the other. One more jump and it would have been Whirlaway's race. Thousands thought that Warren Wright's charger had caught and passed Alsab, anyway, and had it not been for the photo, another bitter argument, reminiscent of the time In Memorium was pronounced second to Zev after apparently winning, would be raging yet.

Not enough has been said of a mite of a fellow named Carroll circuit, but we'll have a higher Bierman. He was the jockey who rode Alsab, and probably one of the quality of competition than ever bereasons why the board betting on the 'Sab was 8-to-5. Bierman was a fore.' discredited sort of a jock until he flashed across the finish line the other day. 'He wasn't even supposed to ride the new champion.

Alf Robertson was to have been the boy. But Alf got suspended and, Bierman was substituted. Alsab backers, as a whole, didn't like the last winter circuit had indicated the choice.

Veteran Woolf Figured to Outsmart Young Carroll

Bierman had been a pretty good jockey for some time-good enough to have ridden for some crack stables. He was the contract rider for the to hear from Miami shortly on our big Valdina Farms Stable until recently, when Bierman and the Valdina inquiry as to dates. Two cities in management came to a parting of the ways. The tip went out that Arcaro out- | be played." smarted Bierman. Next thing, Arcaro was riding for Valdina.

Bierman was up against a tough customer in Georgia Woolf, the cool veteran who is called the "Idaho Iceman." The betting the other for charity, Corcoran said, before day seemed to be based as much on the Woolf-vs.-Bierman angle as on the horses, but Bierman fooled all except a few, like Sarge Swenke, the trainer, and Albert Sabath, owner of Alsab.

The kid took his horse to the front at the outset. It would have of the top pros," he continued. been difficult to have done anything else. He might even have done so "Walter Hager, Gene Sarazen and leading Alsab afoot, so slow is Whirlaway from the barrier. But when Tommy Armour have agreed to he kept hustling Alsab every time Whirly made a bid for the lead, the make the tour with us, and Bing stands groaned. Like his older rival, Alsab likes to come from behind. And here was Bierman, screaming "Sab, Sab, Sab" in the colt's ear the entire way. "No matter how good Alsab is in the stretch," yelled a race critic as they approached the far turn, "he's no Whirlaway. The boy's doing all right."

Second Sacker Most Valuable To Top Team

Jimmy Is Whole Show As Bucs Are Beaten; Hughson Wins 21st

By SID FEDER, Associated Press Sports Writer. The chances are you never are going to see Jimmy Brown up there in the Hall of Fame. And you'd be willing to bet his chances of landing the most valuable player award any year are about as bright as one of those "solid gold" watches you can pick up for a dollar.

But when it comes to handing out the posies to the guy who did as much-or more-than anyone else to bring the St. Louis Cardinals the National League pennant, don't overlook James Roberson Brown of the Jamesville (S. C.) Browns, pals. Of course, the Cards still have the little job of sewing up the flag first. But after their 2-to-1 win over Pittsburgh yesterday-in which Second Sacker Brown, incidentally, knocked both runs across-they still sported a 21/2-game bulge, with only five to go, even though Brooklyn took a 3-to-1 decision over the Phillies. And around Broadway today the boys are laying 20-1 against the Rivals Afraid of Jimmy.

There will no doubt be some arguments over Jimmy Brown. From day to day when the folks sit around over their soda pop, they talk about Mort Cooper's zip-ball and the awful things Country Slaughter does to pitchers. And when you mention Jimmy, they generally brush him off with, "Oh, yeah, he's pretty good too, but he's only batting .260." Yet, National League managers say he's the key man in the works, the guy who holds the infield together. And opposing infielders shudder when he gets on base, because, they tell you, "he'll steal anything."

It should also be pointed out that it's not so much what Jimmy does while he's in there-but what the Cardinals do when he's out. For, in the last three seasons-1939, '40 and '41-it was while Jimmy was on the shelf with assorted ailments that the Cards blew their chances. And as soon as he got gack into action, they thundered down the stretch.

Cards Seem to Need Him.

Just go back to '39. Early in the campaign he and Johnny Mize collided going after a pop fly. When they dug Jimmy out of the wreck-to the surprise and dismay of Woolf, he stole a good half length on a restrained Whirlaway, putting him two and a half lengths ahead.

Half-length "Steal" Probaly Won the Race

Woolf answered immediately. He let Whirly go and the Calumet charger began to overhaul the colt. But it was a long, tough pull. Ten more wards and Whirly and Woolf would have made it. But at the more vards and Whirly and Woolf would have made it. But at the wire it was the other pair. That half a length "steal" won it, in our book at least.

If they meet again, there will be a new respect for Bierman on the part of racing people, from the $2 plunger to Woolf.

The next time it may not be so easy for Bierman to "steal" those precious few feet. If he can't do it, Whirly may regain his throne by winning by half a length, conceding 7 pounds and all. The next time you should be on hand.

Expense Angle Promises to Make Louis-Conn Fight War Department Headache

Favoring of Special Soldiers Arouses Public Feeling

Heavyweight Title Bout Should Be Called Off, Noted Critic Says

By GRANTLAND RICE, Special Correspondent of The Star. I doubt that sport has known a controversy of wider ramifications than the Louis-Conn fight has brought about.

The main argument doesn't concern the possible or probable winner. It concerns the matter of paying out something like $135,000 to two soldiers in connection with an Army emergency relief fund.

Those supporting Louis and the War Department bring up these important points:

1. Louis risked his title twice for Army and Navy relief.

2. Louis has had an amazing record for sportsmanship. In the Army, he finds himself heavily in debt to the income tax department. Mike Jacobs and Roxbury, his manager. Why not give him the chance to get at least partially out of debt?

3. He was made certain representations from a member of the War Department that would cover the debt matter. Louis told me he thought this also included his income tax.

4. In the rush of things, the War Department made the original mistake, not Joe Louis.

5. Whatever happens, the Army emergency relief fund will net close to $500,000 for dependent families. 6. The whole show was started badly-but why not get all the money possible and forget the first mistakes?

Arguments Against Fight. Against this argument we have the following national feeling:

1. Too many fighting men, whose main business is the winning of the war, have been taken away from Army and Navy jobs to make relief money and promote morale. 2. Joe Louis and Billy Conn now are soldiers in the Army. Why should they be paid $135,000 for what was started as a 100 per cent Army Emergency Relief bout?

3. What about Bataan? What about Wake Island? What about the Solomon Islands? What about the Army now in England, Libyathe flyers in China? What about the present and coming casualty lists?

4. Joe Louis has had some tough financial breaks. So have millions

Ray Flaherty didn't expect to see his men knock 'em dead in their first two or three games but rather suspected they would need a couple under their belts to get their bearings. And that was before the wave of minor injuries struck Ed Cifers, a regular end who hasn't even approached top form yet; Dick Todd, all right Andy Farkas, Vic Carroll, who has yet to play before a home-town crowd this year, and Bob Seymour.

Juzwik Proves Great Help. Steve Juzwik's addition has helped mmeasurably but couldn't be expected to offset the loss of that crew. The Redskins' greatest strength this season lies in their ability to substitute without weakening either offensive or defense structure. They have, as one old football man put it, a highly desirable evenness that will have telling effect when manpower is the decisive factor between a couple of evenly matched teams.

singled out for consideration above all others?

7. Why should the fact that Joe Louis and Billy Conn owe their managers and promoters $135,000 enter into the present picture of a world at war, in the most vital war in world history?

Hurried Mistakes Stand Out. It is my belief, under all the existtory ing tangles, that the fight should have been called off. I may be entirely wrong Many others, the majority, in complete honesty of opinion, have felt otherwise. They have felt that the earlier and hurried mistakes made can be handled for the benefit of all concerned, including the Army Emergency, which is the main factor, the main idea. Many of them believe that the majority of the country will support Joe Louis and Billy Conn in their stands—especially after the promises made.

There is no question that these mistakes were natural and to be expected in such a rush affair. But it seemed to me that the fight had picked up too much dynamite to be carried on

In the first place, it is sure to be a War Department headache, which undoubtedly the War Department can handle. In the second place, this will be the first time in his career, justly or unjustly, when Joe Louis will be under fire.

Being under fire is an old story for Mike Jacobs. Mike isn't bothering about this part of the story. Billy Conn was left almost entirely out of the picture.

$300,000 Won't Go to Relief. Unfortunately, the fight was first presented as 100 per cent for the relief fund. Then there were certain debts supposed to be around $37,000 that had to be handled War Department agreethrough Later these debts were ments moved up to $135,000. The ball park renting will approach $40,000. There will be other expenses totaling $75.000.

The cost in sight already is close to the $300,000 mark. If the fight grosses around $800.000 or a $1,000,-000, there still will be a big fund left for Army Relief.

Everyone knows that relief benefits can't be held for nothing. But there is a national psychology involved when expenses reach such totals that happen to be something apart from the money going run of seatrout in the bay this to dependent families

The Nats will complete their 1942 campaign here tomorrow when they battle New York in a single game. Among other Nats who probably will be playing for the last time until the war is over are Catcher Al Evans, slated to report to Norfolk Naval Training Station next month; Outfielder Bruce Campbell and Infielders Frankie Croucher and Ellis Clary.

For the second straight year Washington was hoping to supply the runnerup to Boston's Ted Williams for American League batting honors. Last year Cecil Travis finished second to Williams and this season Stan Spence still retains a faint chance of nosing out Johnny ican Institute of Food Distribution today warned that consumer food buying still was "running wild" and that wholesalers were delivering far more goods to retailers than justified by their reduced lines and smaller stocks.

Latest records submitted by wholesale grocers, the Institute said. showed wide variations in the current business record, ranging from increase of 50 per cent to declines of 10 per cent in cases where stocks were seriously low. Eighty wholesalers, reporting dollar volume last week, the Institute said, showed an average increase over last year of clines which averaged 6.7 per cent. The Institute also said that a real shortage of foods necessary to maintain health prevailed only on the European Continent, in Japan and in Japanese-occupied territories. In an analysis of the world food situation, it said there was a "probability that this food shortage will shortly be extended to the western part of Asiatic Russia.' "Bounteous harvests in 1942 in North America and Great Britain have temporarily improved the food situation for the United Nations. Disappointing harvests have made the food situation in Axis-dominated Europe more serious.

"Widespread bad harvests in 1943 would make the food situation critical in practically the entire world."

The present bill was drafted as a compromise after the administration bill, providing generally for time-and-one-half overtime to "white collar" employes to offset All-Night Parking Ban rising living costs, drew objections from organized postal workers who would not benefit by it. Lengthy hearings were held on the first bill from organized postal workers who hearings were held on the first bill by the House Civil Service Committee several months ago. Ceiling Basis Different.

The original bill proposed to limit the amount a worker could draw in straight time and overtime to $3,800 The new measure takes off this ceiling, but provides that no overtime shall be paid on any portion of an employe's basic rate of compensation in excess of $2,900.

Postal workers, who are on a 40hour week, would be assured four hours overtime under this measure. They now draw straight time for overtime, while the new measure would give them time and one-half. Postal unions have argued that a 44hour week is not necessary in the postal service. The bonus rate for those not receiving overtime would be 10 per cent of their basic compensation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.-Cotton prices held firm today as mill buying and trade price fixing lifted values. The upturn in part was attributed to technical reasons after the continuous decline in prices since last Wednesday. The Senate Agricultural Committee's vote in favor of supporting an amendment to the price-control measure requiring all labor costs to be included in computing parity lent strength to the market. There was heavy switching from October to later months in anticipation of the first notice day Friday, which helped steady distant positions.

Late values were 10 to 85 cents a bale higher, October, 18.02; Decmber, 18.32, and March, 18.54. Futures closed 20 to 75 cents a bale

Clark Urges Congress To Broaden Scope Of Petrillo Inquiry

Says Union Ban Against Recorded Music Is Dangerous to Morale

Expressing "tremendous concern" over what he termed the danger to wartime communications and wartime morale of a labor union ban against recorded music, Senator Clark, Democrat, of Idaho, proposed today the broadening of a congressional inquiry into activities of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL).

Senator Clark told reporters the federation's prohibition against records and transcriptions for radio stations and juke boxes, which became effective August 1, had stopped production of virtually all recorded music and "Congress must find means of lifting this order."

James C. Petrillo, president of the federation, described the ban as "simply a strike against the record companies." In an interview at New York last night he said the companies had not "bothered to approach the federation and sit down with us to work out a compromise solution which would help both sides.

Only One Quarrel. Contrary to the general impression,' he said, "this union has no quarrel with the radio stations and companies or any one else except the record companies.

"The musicians don't want to put anybody out of business. We want to live and let live. But nobody seems to care about the poor musician who is being put out of business."

He previously had explained that the order was issued to protect union musicians thrown out of work by the use of "canned music" in dance halls and elsewhere.

Senator Clark said he would ask Chairman Wheeler of the Senate Commerce Committee to call a meeting tomorrow at which Senator Clark planned to urge a "full investigation" of what he described as a "dangerous situation."

Ballou Moves to Relieve Strain on Crowded Districts

A plan for transfer of teachers from less crowded areas to congested ones, with more individual attention for all students through smaller classes, was promised for the public school system today by Supt. Frank W. Ballou as a drop in enrollment was reported by the District's 175 schools

The total of 75,918 students enrolled when the schools opened yesterday represented a drop of more than 3,000 from last year's opening day total according to School Statistician Boise Bristor. Officials and principals all over the city attributed the decrease mainly to a widespread wartime employment among secondary school students.

"The reduction is not uniform throughout the system," explained Dr. Ballou, "and that raises the question of reorganizing the system a to transfer teachers to congested areas.'

Smaller Classes Urged.

"It is entirely possible," he continued, "that the entire system then will be able to benefit from smaller classes and from more individual attention for the students."

Registration of Jewish students today will not make up for the enrollment drop, Dr. Ballou explained, because the schools opened last year during the celebration of Yom Kippur.

Enrollment of Wilson Teachers' College, according to the official figures, dropped from 808 last year to 495 this year; the senior high schools from 14,713 to 12,532, and the vocational schools from 902 to 717.

The Jackson Elementary School, reopened by the Board of Education with the stipulation that its last year's enrollment of 120 pupils must increase to warrant classes there, reported instead a drop to 95 pupils.

Jackson's Lowest in City. Jackson's enrollment of 95 pupils was the lowest reported anywhere in the city. This school was closed two weeks ago by school officials because its last year's enrollment of 120 pupils was considered too low in the face of teacher need in the Anacostia area. The board reopened it in special meeting, however, with the comment that the parents had not been given enough notice of the change, and that construction in the area might increase the enrollment during the trial reopening period of six months. "In fairness to the community." said First Assistant Superintendent of Schools Robert L. Haycock, who first proposed the closing, "it must be stated that a factor in the low enrollment is the possible illness of some of the Jackson pupils with measles, chicken pox, or other childhood diseases. But at present, it is true that only 95 pupils are enrolled." The Jewish religious holiday would have little effect on the total at the Jackson, commented Miss Margaret Patterson, principal. The committee retained the Commissioners' recommendation that all institutions file a statement annually on March 1, showing the use to which exempt property was put during the year, to aid the District in keeping track of changes in status of property.

Over a long period of years Congress from time to time has granted exemption to certain institutions or societies by name. Congested Area Scrap Drives Schools to Get Mapped in Two More Teachers Nearby Areas

Ballou Moves to Relieve Strain on Crowded Districts

A plan for transfer of teachers from less crowded areas to congested ones, with more individual attention for all students through smaller classes, was promised for the public school system today by Supt. Frank W. Ballou as a drop in enrollment was reported by the District's 175 schools

The total of 75,918 students enrolled when the schools opened yes- tinue through Friday while the terday represented a drop of more drive in Montgomery County will than 3,000 from last year's opening day total, according to School Statistician Boise Bristor. Officials and principals all over the city attributed the decrease mainly to widespread wartime employment among secondary school students. "The reduction is not uniform throughout the system," explained Dr. Ballou, "and that raises the question of reorganizing the system to transfer teachers to congested areas.'

Smaller Classes Urged. "It is entirely possible," he continued, "that the entire system then will be able to benefit from smaller classes and from more individual attention for the students." Registration of Jewish students today will not make up for the en- service clubs who will take the rollment drop, Dr. Ballou explained, because the schools opened last year | turned over to dealers. during the celebration of Yom Kippur.

10-Point Labor Plan Outlined For Farmers

B-1

Maryland U. Expert Says Worker Supply Is at All-Time Low

By the Associated Press.

A 10-point program to help alleviate the farm labor problem in Maryland was presented to agriculture today by Dr. S. H. DeVault, who said the situation will be more critical next year than it is now. Commenting that the farm labor problem now is more serious than at any time in recent years, the head of the University of Maryland's agricultural economics department added:

"Farmers now are straining about every effort possible to maintain farm production on a high level. It is difficult to determine how they will be able to further increase production with a still further depleted labor supply."

At All-Time Low.

He said that the supply of farm labor on July-1 was only 56 per cent of normal, an all-time low. At that time approximately 86,000 persons were employed on Maryland farms.

War industries and the armed forces have drawn heavily on the normal supply, Dr. DeVault said, and farmers have been paying the highest wages in 22 years in an effort to obtain help.

He suggested this program for next year:

1. More use of the United States Employment Service by farmers in registering their needs for labor. 2. More exchange of labor among farmers.

3. More custom work done on farms.

4. Keep on the farms the people who already are there and are needed.

Would Defer Workers.

5. Continue to co-operate with the Selective Service in the deferment of essential agricultural workers. 6. Train boys of high school age for farm work.

7. Make more use of prison labor. 8. Make more use of the labor of conscientious objectors.

9. Make more use of farm machinery, particularly tractors, tractor equipment, milking machines and hay harvesting equipment. 10. Adopt the slogan fight" and see to it that the present Chief Judge Barse of Municipal Court today called a conference of his associates and traffic officials for 4 p.m. Friday to work out a stable program and policy of enforcement" for punishing District automobile drivers who speed and violate other regulations in the Government's plans for conserving gasoline and rubber.

Plans for the conference were outlined by Judge Barse in a letter to Secretary of the Interior Ickes, petroleum co-ordinator, who several times in the last few weeks has complained that the District courts have not co-operated to the fullest extent in imposing heavy pcnalties on speeders and other violators of traffic regulations.

"The court is in thorough accord, of course, with the public policy involved in the President's request,' said Judge Barse, "and we shall endeavor to co-operate in every way in the enforcement of that policy to the extent permitted by present penalties imposed by law." Voters' League AWVS Drivers Give Up Presses Study Own Gas for Month Of D. C. Rule By Frances Lide 10 Neighborhood Meetings to Be

Held Today

Ways and means of calling the attention of voters to the "problem of District of Columbia government" are developing out of a series of neighborhood meetings being held this week by the Voteless District League of Women Voters in connection with its campaign to distribute the National League broadside on Washington: Our National Home

Women in several groups yesterday decided to send broadsides to their personal friends in various States, with the explanation that only elected representatives can change the system of government here. The league leaflets point out that no citizen of the District votes was cut out of the program when

Starting yesterday, the neighbor-hood meetings which are for league members and their friends will continue through Thursday.

Each session is featured by a discussion of the broadside which calls Washington's system of government "slow, indirect and irrespon-

Woman Consultant Replacement of Men

Miss Sara Southall To Help in Meeting War Industry Needs

Appointment of Miss Sara Southall of Chicago as consultant on replacing men in industry with women in the War Manpower Commission's division of operations was announced today by Chairman Paul V. McNutt.

Miss Southall, who has been a member of the personnel relations staff of the International Harvester Co. in Chicago for 21 years, will report to Brig. Gen. Frank J. Mc-Sherry, director of the division of operations, and will work with Miss Thelma McKelvey, a member of the WMC staff, on all matters concerning the use of women in the war effort.

The appointment of Miss Southall comes three weeks after the naming of the Woman's Policy Committee of the WMC, an advisory, non-administrative body of 12 women.

Mr. McNutt explained that in adding a woman consultant to Gen. McSherry's staff he had in mind the replacement of hundreds of men who will be shifted to the armed forces or to other war industry jobs. Miss Southall, he said, has had long experience in handling the problems of women in business.

For several months, Miss Southall has been serving as a consultant in Chicago or, the employment problems of colored persons and other groups. Physical Fitness Courses Urged by Interfederation

A letter favoring increased attention to physical development of boys and girls in high schools of the Metropolitan Area was drafted last night by the Interfederation Conference to be sent constituent bodies for consideration.

In the light of wartime conditions, the conference felt, that physical education is "insufficiently stressed" in many schools. The letter advocates more intensified military training courses, and recommends military field instruction for boys. Introduction of the courses as parts of the regular curricula, with appropriate credits, was also stressed.

In another letter to be sent member bodies, the organization opposed any increase in fuel gas rates for the

Hundreds of Refugees Ask Admission to Switzerland

By the Associated Press.

BERN, Switzerland, Sept. 22.--The "absolute impossibility" of sending refugees on to the United States or South American countries has made necessary new and more rigid barriers against hundreds clamoring at Swiss frontiers to get into the country, Justice Minister Edward von Steiger told Parliament today. Up to today only 30 visas for the United States have been issued here this year, Brazil has granted 31 and the Argentine five, Von Steiger said. Switzerland, he asserted, is giving asylum to 9,600 refugees, while considerations of economy and national safety warranted a maximum of not more than 7,000.

The number of those trying to enter is increasing steadily, and to a point endangering the security of the nation, he said.

'Quickie' Priority System Instituted To Halt Stoppages

Field Men Ordered To Grant High Ratings In Emergencies

By the Associated Press. Chairman Donald M. Nelson of stances." the War Production Board today to avert war plant stoppages or quantities of critical materials. thorized, effective at once, to assign advised not to accept calls from night. high priority ratings for the purchase of limited amounts of steel copper, aluminum and other materials if they are not available through ordinary channels in time to prevent the shutdown of a munitions line, aircraft plant, shipyard or other essential industry.

The plan, enabling WPB representatives in the field to cope with temporary shortages whenever and wherever they appear, was developed because of increasing reports over the last two months of scores of threatened plant shutdowns or slowdowns caused by hitches in the flow of materials.

In the case of an actual loss of essential output, the regional office may assign the top emergency priority rating, AAA. In lesser emergencies, ratings up to AA-2x may be granted.

"Suppose, for instance, completion of a ship is being held up because a small amount of steel is needed for a critical part." the WPB announcement said. "If it is impossible to obtain the steel in any other way. the WPB field officer may assign whatever emergency rating is necessary to assure its immediate delivery. With the way cleared for the part to be made, the ship can be delivered without delay."

Only a small, specified percentage of the total supply of each material has been earmarked for such emergency use each month.

The materials affected by the order are aluminum, refined copper, lead, nickel, pig iron, scrap steel, assorted structural steel, other steel except plante, and zinc.

The materials to be included are crude rubber, synthetic rubber, cadmium, ferrochrome, cobalt, cork, formaldehyde, molybdenum, tantalum ore, titanium ores, tin, tungsten and vanadium.

Glenn L. Martin Plant Area Deficiency in Medical Care Cited

McNutt Says Steps Being Taken to Meet Such Situations

The Maryland community in Baltimore County around the Glenn L. Martin aircraft plant was cited today by Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, as one of the industrial areas most critically in need of additional medical care.

Mr. McNutt said plans to meet the need for medical facilities in communities where a shortage of physicians has developed were being made by the United States Public Health Service and the Procurement and Assignment Service of the Manpower Commission. The two services are co-operating closely in taking steps to meet these emergencies, he added.

In many areas, Mr. McNutt explained, an acute need for medical services had come from extraordinary increases in population brought about by expansion of war industries and other war activities. In other regions, he reported, commissioning of physicians in the armed forces has left communities without sufficient medical service.

Needed in Norfolk Area.

Norfolk. Va., was another area cited by Mr. McNutt as urgently in need of more docotrs and medical facilities.

Other areas which he mentioned were Valparaiso. Fla.; Huntsville. Ala.; Childersburg, Ala.; Tevarkana. Ark.-Tex.; Bremerton, Wash.; Pryor-Choteau, Okla.; Vellejo, Calif. and Velasco and Wichita Falls in Texas.

Mr. McNutt directed attention to the communities named as "among the most critical." He said there were more than 300 areas where the lack of medical care was being felt. These communities are "distributed throughout the industrial areas of the country."

The manpower chief announced his approval of a statement of policy adopted by the directing board of the Procurement and Assignment Service, in which it accepts responsibility for ascertaining the needs of the civilian population and for helping to provide the necessary medical personnel.

Certain Needs Acute.

This policy provides that needs should be met through State medical and dental societies and other State organizations. But the statement of principles adds:

"That, since these problems have been occasioned by the war, and in many instances transcend State lines, the Federal Government has a definite responsibility to co-operate with the States in meeting these needs by the provisions, when necessary, of financial and technical assistance.

WPB Allows Priorities To Keep Radios Repaired

Efficient maintenance of home radios was on the preferential list at the War Production Board today. WPA announced that radio parts, hitherto subjected to sharply restricting orders, could be bought by distributors and dealers from manufacturers on priorities if they were needed to repair home radios.

The procedure does not require repair shop operators or householders to do anything, but makes it easier for large distributors to obtain parts from manufacturers, Linford C. White, chief of the WPB Distributors' Branch, explained.

Only items essential to keep receiving sets going will receive preference ratings. Unnecessary radio gadgets and phonographic attach-ments will not be included.

Housekeeper Quizzed In Mystery Slaving Of Rich Chemist

Stabbed and Garroted, Chicago Bachelor's Body Is Found in Home

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22 .- Police today searched for information on the private life of Gustave Redemske, 55, well-to-do bachelor chemist, to aid them in solving the mystery of his slaying in his fashionable Beverly Hills home.

Assistant State's Attorney Francis McCurrie said police had questioned Mr. Redemske's 25-year-old parttime housekeeper and her husband. Lt. James Geary said she had been with Mr. Redemske Saturday.

Mr. Redemske was found yesterday, strangled and stabbed, and Lt. Geary said he apparently had been dead since Saturday night. He had been stabbed in the heart and a tie was twisted about his neck. A length of rope was found on a divan and a bloody rag was clutched in his left hand. His body, fully clothed and covered with a bedspread, was found on the divan in the living room

His body was discovered by Mr. Redemske's superiors at Armour & Co., where he was employed as a research chemist. They had gone to his home, where he lived alone, when he failed to report for work. The house and its furnishings were in disorder, police said, indicating a search had been made for valuables. Although police investigated a robbery theory, they also delved into the private life of the chemist

Meanwhile, a coroner's jury was summoned for an inquest.

Chinese to Nationalize Production of Silk

By the Associated Press.

CHUNGKING, Sept. 22.-The Chinese government will start nationalizing the production and distribution of silk in 1943, making it a controlled commodity for export like wood, oil, tea, bristles and minerals, it was announced officially today.

The government abandoned a partial control of silk production and marketing in 1940 because of practical difficulties. The new regu-lation is believed due to the outbreak of war in the Pacific which has brought calls from China's Allies for Chinese silk, especially for parachutes.

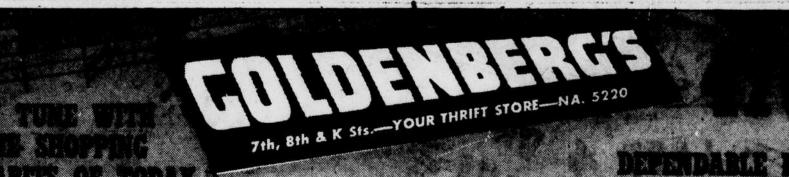

Chinese silk has been moving by air to India and overland by the northwest route. A conference now is being held in Chengtu to decide on effective measures for enforcing the nationalization program.

Washington Fashion News Gathered About Town

Recent Appearance of Several Very Well Known Designers Faithfully Reported Here

By Helen Vogt

Today is the day a vivacious little lady bounces up to a microphone and tells Washington women just what is what with fashions. The speaker is Florence Reichman, known for years as a designer of millinery and now becoming equally famous as the creator of outstanding dresses and suits. She's in town with her new collection for fall and winter, a collection which makes as much sense and which is just as attractive and smart as its originator.

There are no fussy frills about Mrs. Reichman. Neither are there any "busy" details about her new fashions. The slim lines, interesting drapery and feminine touches which mark this season are in evidence but they are subtly done, with the wearable feeling that is so important in wartime wardrobes. Always interesting is this designer's understanding of the "minor details" which indicate fine quality and workmanship. This year you will find, among others, little jackets with delicate fringed treatment around the hem, the same fringe repeated on a tie at the neckline. Incidentally, there is a great .

As you may or may not know, Mrs. Gallagher once thought of being a sculptor-before she became a designer-and it is evident from her handling of fabrics that she is well aware of what the proper lines can do for the feminine figure. She does them-and beautifully, as you will see.

The Macmillan Co. of New York sends us a slim little book, bound in red, white and blue, called "Thrifty Cooking for Wartime," by Alice B. Winn-Smith, which is as pleasant to read as it is timely. Here in concrete and usable form are set down the important new rules for wartime cooking. Not all of them are really new; some of the best and thriftiest date from previous wars-the First World War, our Civil War and even the kitchens of Revolutionary days.

Christmas Comes Early . . .

Much has been said and written about sending the boys who are overseas their Christmas packages now in order to relieve the heavy bulk of mail. This is an excellent idea all around, for not only can one eliminate at least one problem long before the time for purchasing the rest of the Christmas list, but the selection of gifts designed for servicemen have not at this point been "picked There are sewing kits and shaving sets in leather and khaki material, sweater, scarf and sock sets in regulation wool, writing portfolios in various styles, pipes and tobacco in small packages (these are more than welcome to the boys on foreign duty) and many other articles. As a suggestion, several members of the family can have new pictures taken. If "he" has been away many months he would undoubtedly appreciate receiving an article of this type. Two pictures can be inclosed in a lovely folder made of smart pigskin that is small enough for him to carry. Can't you just imagine his face when he sees the family smiling at him!

"Way to a Man's Heart" . . .

The following two items might have been included in the above paragraph, but because servicemen always seem to be hungry, these food packages could be sent at frequent intervals. The packages come already wrapped for mailing, which is a time-saving feature, and the boxes are real checkerboards, with the necessary "men" inclosed in the center of the food assortment. There are two kinds from which to select-one contains all sorts of candy, raisins, and chewing gum and the other holds cheese, crackers, cookies and jam. There is another package on the market that would be excellent to send the boys who are still on duty within the borders of the United States. This cannot be sent overseas, however, because it is two inches over the size allowed for shipment. It is a checker game box like the one mentioned above, but it contains three jars of preserves, a box of marshmallows, a box of raisins, a package of hot chocolate mix, a tin of sardines and a box of crackers. "Blessed Event" Gift . . .

If you have an invitation to a baby shower and are at a loss what to buy, consider a set which includes a terry knit bath sheet, a plain knit towel and two wash cloths attractively wrapped in cellophane and tied with rayon satin ribbon. These sets come in the usual colors, white with pink and in blue and pink with white trimming. Not only do they make a pretty showing, but they are so useful that the mother-to-be will wish she had several more.

Undernourished peoples can't win wars! That's why a vital part of our Nation's war effort is to make America strong through better nutrition. And leading the advance in this drive is MILK. (See Government chart on right.)

NATURE designed MILK as the most nearly perfect food. And we've improved upon Nature by making Sealtest Homogenized Vitamin "D" Milk an even more perfect food.

To its naturally rich store of vitamins, we add 400 units of Vitamin "D" to every quart. And it's homogenized . . cream in every drop. This gives each glassful an equal share of nourishment.. tends to make it more readily digestible . . and gives it a richer, creamier flavor.

Keep your family strong, alert, vital during these trying times. Make this finer Sealtest Homogenized Vitamin "D" Milk a must item on your daily food list. Order from our milkman-your favorite store-or telephone MIchigan 1011.

(we were told) gallantly floated the dancing space. From time to time one even caught snatches of the establishment's theme song, most logically "I Sailed Away to Treasure in the meantime, was devoted to pleased considerations of the mir-walls, the knee-deep broadloom carpeting of the place and the red, white and blue upholstering of the furniture which almost cheered out loud. In fact, every one seemed enormously cheerful, especially Own-hands that night as the most successful of political machinists.

Tumultuous, too, in its own rare-

* * * * One night only-last night:

The occasion being the anniversary of Mexico's Independence Day, Salvador Duhart, First Secretary of the Mexican Embassy, made a sort of keynote speech in Spanish which was punctuated by concerted choruses of "Vivo" from the large Mexican section down near the front. Photographers were active, Madriguera, himself, posing with every one but the chef. We sat at a table in company with a large, rotund representative of a magazine published in Mexico City, a gentleman who knew Heywood Broun well and lovingly and who continually interrupted his discourse to say hello to virtually every person passing by (whom he also knew well). Only other important interruption to this hectically enjoyable evening was a press agent who couldn't let five

Cosmos' cozily dim nooks and recesses. Joe Hesse, the man who has yet to forget a face, was back again at the door to extend greetings and assistance in locating tables. The Cosmos' delightful status quo, in short, has been maintained.
