Brown Tells Senate Parity Fight May Go to Supreme Court Eight Known

Sees 'Collision' Of President And Congress

Michigan Democrat Declares Executive Has Power to Act

(Earlier Story on Page A-L.) By the Associated Press,

Senator Brown, Democrat, of Michigan, declaring Congress was heading toward a "collision" with the Chief Executive that might have to be settled in the Supreme Court, asserted today that President Roosevelt has ample powers to act on his own initiative to reduce farm prices. Senator Brown took the Senate floor to plead with his colleagues to pass an anti-inflation bill without an amendment proposed by farm bloc members which would revise upward by 12 per cent the basis of agricultural parity level at which ceiling prices could be fixed. He said that if this amendment, already approved by the House in passing the anti-inflation bill, were finally adopted by Congress, the bill would be vetoed. "There is not the slightest doubt in my mind," he declared as a hushed Senate listened intently, that the situation after the veto of this bill will be one in which the American people will demand that the President take action." Cites Presidential Authority.

Neither was there the slightest oubt in his mind, the Michigan mater added, that the Pre and distribution of food in the interests of national defense.

This reference to a priorities section of the Second War Powers Act gave the first public indication of the authority on which the Presi-dent might depend if he carried out his you-do-it-or-I-will request to Congress on September 7 that it act before October 1 to cut back the level at which farm prices could be

Senator Brown's statement was made to the Senate after these swiftly moving developments:

1. Administration leaders agreed to offer a compromise which would direct President Roosevelt to lift farm price ceilings where they failed to reflect the increased cost of farm labor and other items.

posal to alter the parity base itself.

3. Majority Leader Barkley indicated no further efforts to compromise would be made and the issue would be fought out on the Senate

Deplores Discord on Matter. Senator Brown did not enlarge on his reference to the third branch Government and left to others the inference that the Presi orders might be challenged in court. Taking the floor immediately after the Agriculture .Committee members had voted to reject an administration-sponsored compromise, Senator Brown told his colleagues:

"I believe the Congress and the President are headed for a collision. * * * I am fearful at this time when unity is the need in the conduct of the Government today that we are going to have criticism, (See INFLATION, Page A-20.)

12 Believed Missing In 3-Train Crash

Reports From Dickerson, Md., Say 10 Bodies Already Taken From Flaming Wreckage

Eight bodies had been brought from the B&O wreck at Dickerson to the morgue of W. R. Pumphrey at Rockville, Mr. Pumphrey reported at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The general offices of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad reported from Baltimore at 3 o'clock this afternoon that seven persons were known to have been killed and 12 were missing, after the collision early today involving two passenger trains and a freight, near Dickerson, Md., 35 miles west of Washington. The dead, a railroad spokesman said, were passengers and a flagman on the night express from Cleveland, which was rammed by the crack Ambassador from Detroit after stopping for a signal. The rear Pullman on the Cleveland train was hurled into the pathway of a passing freight and then buried under tons of wreckage, principally heavy steel piping from overturned freight cars. Fire broke out when the oil-burning engine of the second train turned over.

The only dead man identified was J. M. Guillhart of Ellicott City, the flagman.

Coincident with the report from Baltimore, a telephone call to The Star from the scene of the accident brought word that 10 bodies had been recovered. The number of injured was put at 30.

Engine and Several Cars Buried. The engine and two or three cars of the second train also were buried under wreckage, according to reports from the scene. There was an unconfirmed report that 26 soldiers were buried

C. W. Van Horn, vice president of the B&O, issued the following statement in connection with the wreck: "At 7:35 o'clock this morning, train No. 20, the Ambassador, operating between Detroit and Baltimore, struck the rear of train No. 18, Cleveland-Washington night express, 1/2 mile Dickerson, Md., the rear sleeper of train No. 18 being knocked into the side of freight train No. 97, which was passing on the opposite tracks. The sleeper and the one immediately ahead were badly damaged. The accident occurred on double-track railroad protected by automatic signal. The cause is not immediately available, but will be developed by investigation. The extent of the casualties is not yet available. This is the first train accident involving injuries to passengers on the B&O for the past 28 years."

Three bodies—two decapitated—were found on the right of way, where they presumably had been hurled from a wrecked car. Two men died under the flaming baggage car of the second train. One man lived for several hours trapped in the wreckage while physicians sought to relieve his pain with hypodermic in-

Mr. Poel said he lived on Columbia road near Connecticut avenue, but had only recently moved and did not know the number of the house. No one could give him any information about the child and nurse. Thirteen cars in the freight train were derailed, and four of the gondola type loaded with heavy steel pipe, piled over the pas-The train crews were uninjured and enginemen of the second

Waste Dealers to Be Ready Sunday For Second Half of Metal Drive

All District residents living west of North and South Capitol streets are asked to gather metal scrap, to be placed on the sidewalks near the curbing in front of their home by 8 a.m. Sunday. Trucks will pick up the scrap starting at 8 a.m.

Disclosing that 65 per cent of all scrap collected in last Sunday's salvage drive had been carted away from emergency depots in the eastern half of the city, retail scrap dealers reported today they would be ready Sunday morning to handle the nearly 2,000,000 pounds of scrap expected to be collected in the western portion of Washington in the second half of the city's whirlwind drive.

Thirty-eight retail junk dealers met last night at 710 Fourteenth street N.W. to discuss problems involved in seeing that scrap is swiftly sorted, processed and sent on its way to mills of the Nation turning out steel for America's war

Agriculture Group Insists on Including Farm Labor Costs

(House Roll Calls on Page A-16.)

By the Associated Press. Thirteen members of the Senate Agriculture Committee voted unanimously today to reject an administration-sponsored compromise to the anti-inflation bill which would direct President Roosevelt to lift farm price ceilings where they did not reflect increased labor and other costs. Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Oklahoma, said all members present at a meeting with leaders of farm organizations had agreed to stand by and Senator Hatch, Democrat, of New Mexico, which would increase the level of parity prices by approximately 12 per cent by including all farm labor costs as a factor. The House adopted a similar amendment yesterday in passing a measure authorizing and directing Mr. Roosevelt to stabilize prices, wages and salaries at September 15 levels, so far as practical. Had Sought to Split Bloc.

"I am not in any position to accept any compromise," Senator Thomas told reporters as he walked, out of the conference room. Senators Thomas, Hatch and Minority Leader McNary left the meeting together. Others Attending Parley. Other Senators who attended and apparently favored the administration compromise included Majority Leader Barkley, Senators Brown, Democrat, of Michigan; Wagner, Democrat, of New York; Tydings, Democrat, of Maryland; O'Mshoney, Democrat, of Wyoming; Taft, Republican, of Ohio and Reed, Republican, of Kansas. Senators Reed and Tydings had prepared the compromise proposal, which Senator Thomas said was revised only slightly when it was offered at the meeting by administration leaders.

The House action in passing the anti-inflation bill yesterday with an amendment identical to that proposed by Senators Thomas and Hatch was credited with stiffening the determination of Senate farm bloc members to force the same proposal into the bill there now. Senator Thomas told reporters he veto the measure if the parity change were made. "If the farmers are knocked out of this change in parity and indus-go up, I am afraid of the effect on food production," he said. The situation shaped up like this in the Senate. An unofficial poll showed 40 of the 96 Senators committeed to support the principle of an upward parity division, with 22 against, 19 undecided, 8 refusing to comment and 7 not reached. An authoritative source, declining to be quoted by name, said the administration was supporting this compromise, which would not disturb the present basis for computing parity, but would direct President Roosevelt to take into account farm labor costs in modifying price ceilings to correct "gross inequities." This same source said that if the parity revision were included in clared today "there is not a word of any bill sent to the White House, President Roosevelt would veto it and could be expected then to take the initiative in fixing farm prices, as he threatened to do if Congress did not act before October 1. There was a possibility that administration forces might abandon the legislation altogther, letting the President use his present wartime powers as he said he would in his?

recent you-do-it-or-I-will message. Fight Centers on Parity Change.

Thus far the whole congressional controversy over the anti-inflation measure has centered on the proposed change in the parity standard. Based usually on 1909-14 farm prices, this standard is calculated to equalize the amount farmers pay for the things they buy with the amount they receive for what they sell. The legislation would direct the President to stabilize prices, wages and salaries, so far as practical, but he could not order any ceiling placed lantic port, informants said, the on a farm commodity where the Germans have set up machine guns price of that article had not reached

House Vote on Nursery Bill Planned Monday

The Randolph nursery school bill and three other District measures which already have passed the Senate are to be considered in the House next Monday at a District Day session, Chairman Randolph of the House District Committee announced today.

Having completed a poll of the committee, which shows approval of the nursery school bill, he will report that measure to the House tomorrow, Mr. Randolph said.

He also explained that conferences are being held on District unemployment compensation legislation, which proposes to reduce the contribution of 2.7 per cent by employers as a payroll tax to one-half of 1 per cent because there is a substantial surplus already accumulated. Chairman Randolph hopes soon to have this bill considered in the House.

The three other bills which are on the calendar for action Monday are: Retirement of Police Court judges; incorporation of St. Ann's Infant Asylum and provisions for better birth registrations.

Referring to the recent Justice Department report to Congress on an investigation made by the FBI, Representative Dies said that of hundreds of Federal workers' names submitted by the committee to the department for investigation, only two were found to have Communist connections and were dismissed. The Justice Department, Repre-

Streamlining of WPB To Cut Munition Board To 'Nucleus Unit'

Small Committee Also To Handle Expansion Of War Plants

The Army and Navy Munitions Board will be reduced to a small "nucleus unit" with a majority of its officer personnel either transferred directly to the War Production Board or sent into the field. The Star learned today.

There will be no big-name man appointed to succeed Ferdinand Eberstadt as chairman of the ANMB, an official said. Instead, an officer probably will be placed over the remaining "nucleus unit," which will do a little co-ordinating of military production, he added.

Mr. Eberstadt last Saturday was named a vice chairman of the WPB by Chairman Donald M. Nelson and given authority to see to it that materials are on hand to carry out war production. As announced by Mr. Nelson, Mr. Eberstadt "will be responsible for the determination of programs and schedules and will be in charge of the flow of materials to manufacturers and producers throughout the war effort."

About 1,000 Employes.

The ANMB, it was estimated, now has nearly 1,000 employes, about 400 of whom are commissioned men of the Arm yand Navy. A number of the officers will follow Mr. Eberstadt into the WPB with a majority of the others given assignments in

Meanwhile, it was learned that selection of sites for war plant exsmall committee composed of an officer each from the Army, Army Air Force, Navy and Maritime Commission. This action is another Buildings for Scrap step in Mr. Nelson's streamlining

Two units are to be dissolved and replaced by the small, new Facility Clearance Board, it was learned. These are the ANMB's Facilities Clearance Committee, which first cleared projects initiated by the armed services, and the WPB's un-wieldy, 14-member Plate Site Board, which gave final approval.

The Plant Site Board, headed by Houlder Hudgins, WPB director of procurement policy, included six representatives from various WPB branches and one each from the Agency, National Resources Planning Board, War Manpower Comand Federal Security

Col. Textor Heads Unit.

Col. Gordon E. Textor, an officer board, it was understood. An order setting up the new board has been signed though not yet announced A number of employes of the two committees to be dissolved will be ransferred to the new board. The action is expected to reduce reatly the time frequently required to pass on plant projects. In addition it will give the Army Air Forces a direct voice in deciding on plant locations.

Brig. Gen. William H. Harrison of the Army's Services of Supply, former production director of WPB, was mentioned as the Army's probable selection for the board, while Brig. Gen. B. E. Myers of the Material Command has been sugsested as representative for the Air Forces. Neither the Navy nor. Maritime Commission has named members, it was understood. Another question so far unsettled is whether a WPB official would be made chairman.

The services, it was said, have been reluctant in some cases to disclose details of secret manufacturing processes to so large a group. This has resulted occasionally in misunderstanding and delay in obtaining needed facilities. The new board, compact and composed of high officers, will be able to do a better job of co-ordinating plant expansion with strategic production sched-

Old Plants Sought.

Efforts of WPB recently have been concentrated on finding old or abandoned plants for use in war production rather than to build new ones. It was estimated that only havre de Grace Bridge spent on expansion is going into new buildings. This trend will be continued as more and more plants shut down because of restrictions on purely civilian manufacture.

The appointments of Mr. Eberstadt and Charles C. Wilson, president of the General Electric Co., who was placed in charge of production, as vice chairmen, was highly pleasing to other officials at WPB. They see in the actions by Mr. Nelson a restoration of power to WPB which President Roosevelt extended in his executive order setting up the agency. They see that Mr. Nelson really has "got tough," and that Mr. Eber-stadt and Mr. Wilson are two men well qualified to help him carry out this policy. WPB means to retain for civilians the control over all war production, and to deal directly with the armed services.

Legal Move Possibly May Take In Slums Now Being Occupied

Chairman Donald M. Nelson has asked War Production Board attorneys to investigate the legality of condemning abandoned or unusable buildings for scrap. There are thousands of such structures throughout the Nation, it was said, from which a large amount of badly-needed materials, particular-Army, Navy, Agriculture Depart-ment, ODT, National Housing cases owners have been reluctant cases owners have been reluctant to sell the old buildings or let them be razed for scrap.

> In New York City, for example, it was stated that there are more than ement buildings, which have abodes. These would yield thousands of tons of scrap iron, copper, tin and other metals. It could not be learned whether Mr. Nelson is considering taking ac-tion against slum dwellings which are occupied though obviously insanitary. Washington has thousands of sub-standard dwellings in alleys and elsewhere which might be salvaged in such an event. Civic leaders and housing officials long have urged that these dwelling be razed. The Alley Dwelling Authority embarked on a sizable slum reclamation program here which was cut short by the war.

Should WPB decide to condemn for salvage inhabited slum dwellings as well as unused ones, a large rehousing program would have to be undertaken, particularly in crowded war areas like Washington, it was pointed out. One official said families removed from slum areas could be housed for the duration of the war in trailers and temporary housing, built with use of little critical materials. This, it was held, probably would not be done in cities like the Capital where housing is still insufficient although full use is made of sub-standard buildings.

Scrap Drive May Get

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 24.—Gov. O'Conor said today he had asked 3d Service Command officers whether the old double-decker bridge at Havre de Grace was important militarily, or could be torn down to aid the scrap metal drive.

War Production Board officials estimated the bridge would yield 3,495 tons of scrap steel. The double-decker has been used only for pedestrian traffic since completion of the new bridge three-quarters of Six months ago the military recommended retention of the old bridge because of its possible emergency use in case of damage to the new span Gov. O'Conor said if the Army officers decide the bridge has no strategic value now, he would call a meeting of the Department of Public Works to approve scrapping the bridge.

"The attorney general would be asked for a ruling to determine the legal procedure by which the State could give away the bridge, if the Department of Public Works approved the proposal," Gov. O'Conor

Scrap Metal Need Is 'Truly Critical,' Steel Men Warn

Grace and Watson Say Nation Must Collect Millions of Tons

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The need for metal scrap was described today as "truly critical" by steel men who said this country had stopped live ing on its metal "fat" and now must dip back 40 years for steel and iron junk.

The statements came as this Nation's newspapers—more than 1,600 have pledged their help—assumed leadership in the drive to collect the scrap lying around American homes, farms, factories and build—

"Many millions of tons of iron and steel scrap must be collected if the tremendous tonnage of steel needed in the Nation's war efforts are to be produced," said Eugene R. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel Corp.

17 Million Tons Needed.

Steel men estimated they would need to pile up at least 17 million tons of scrap between now and January 1, when war production is expected to reach its peak. Monthly consumption of scrap now is running about four million tons; the greatest in history, but still not "The recovery of scrap is so vital," said Ralph H. Watson, vice president of the United States Steel Corp., "that every farmer and every householder has a heavy responsibility for the country's production of guns, tanks, ships and shells."

Because scrap collection was lagging badly the Government asked

Mr. Watson said: "We did not make or collect all the scrap which was consumed last year. The Bureau of Mines reports 2,746,000 tons less scrap on hand at the end of 1941 than at the beginning. To this extent we were living on our fat in 1941. This year have to be more than the normal

Owner Donates Railway For Scrap Metal Use

Py the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 24 .- To the furnaces of freedom a former Russian immigrant boy has offered the small railroad which was the realization of his earliest ambition.

Samuel R. Rosoff, now a wealthy subway contractor, will scrap his upstate 41-mile railroad, the Delaware & Northern, for metal to be converted into guns and armament for his adopted Nation.

"Everything I have I owe to this great Nation which gave me my start," Mr. Rosoff said. "I came here as a poor immigrant boy from Russia, and today I have everything

I need in life." Mr. Rosoff bought the railroad in 1928 for $70,000 at a receiver's sale and spent more than $600,000 improving it. The line was appraised at $10,000,000 in December, 1937, he

The road could have been sold at a profit on several occasions, Mr. Rosoff added, but he held onto it because his boyhood ambition when he was selling newspapers and magazines on trains was to operate his own railroad. An Office of War Information official estimated the 7.000 tons of metal in the road would supply sufficient scrap for 400 medium tanks.

Farm Labor Shortage May Spur Legislation To Avert Food Crisis

House Unit to Hear Gen. Hershey Explain Manpower Needs

Apparently convinced that Government officials intend to do nothing about a farm labor shortage, members of the House Agriculture Committee today were reported on the verge of drafting legislation to deal with the problem.

Before taking any such action, however, Chairman Fulmer said the committee would seek the opinion tomorrow of Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, and possibly later that of Paul V. McNutt, War Manpower Commission

"It may be that Gen. Hershey will have some recommendations," Mr. Pulmer said. "At any rate, we want to hear his views and try to get an ides of the manpower needs for the

Church Federation Officer Sees Critical Religious Problem

Dr. Reissig, Installed As Secretary, Calls for United Stand for Solution

Religious leaders of Washington nust stand united to cope with the complex spiritual, moral and social problems caused by the neverending influx of thousands to the Capital, Dr. Frederick E. Reissig said last night as he was installed as executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches.

The tasks which the Christian forces of this city face are beyond comprehension, he said.

"The housing situation, the health and medical care, race relations delinquency growing, crime increasing, family life disrupted, children motherless and fatherless for too ong a period each day, the moral problem, the loneliness and homedckness of thousands—all problems that develop when thousands are thrown closely together and far from home ties. The churches must assume their share of these problems and needs."

21% Cut in Delivery Of Meat for Civilians Begins in October

Public to Be Asked to Hold Down Purchases Pending Rationing

By JAMES Y. NEWTON.

Deliveries of meat for civilian consumption will be reduced 21 per cent below 1941 levels in the last quarter of the year the War Production Board's Foods Requirements Committee announced today. The action was taken to make certain adequate supplies for Army, Navy and lease-lend uses.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, chairman of the committee, who made the announcement, accompanied it with an appeal to civilians voluntarily to hold consumption at 21/2 pounds of meat per person per week. This limitation is held necessary to prevent a serious distribution situation until actual rationing can be placed in effect early next

The amount of meat available for civilians will be controlled by limiting total packer deliveries into public consumption. The following percentages of total packer deliveries during the final quarter of last year will be allowed for civilian consumption: Beef and veal, 80 per cent; lamb and mutton, 95 per cent; pork, 75 per cent.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the Office of Price Administration plans to handle meat rationing on the point basis rather than through use of coupons. In this way the supply of various meats can be con-trolled. For example, should an acute shortage arise in beef because of over-buying, the number of points required from a ration book to purchase a pound of beef can be increased in proportion to other meats.

Then, should a consumer insist in using his weekly allotment of points entirely for beef, he will obtain considerable less poundage than if he bought lamb or pork. The weekly meat allotment under rationing probably will be 21/2 pounds. The ration book of the consumer also will be charged with the amount of meat ordered in a restaurant or hotel, in the same way that purchases in a market will be deducted from the allotment. Unless this step is taken, officials fear the effect of rationing will be destroyed in these days when the purchasing power of the average person is so greatly increased. Only adults and adolescents will be entitled to full rations of meat, it was understood. A system where-by a child under 6 years will receive a quarter ration, those from 6 to 12 a half ration is being worked 6 to 12 a half ration is being worked out. Allowances also will be made Admits Ax Slaying of for invalids, old people and vege-tarians in households. These will receive less than a full ration. Men engaged in manual labor are expected to get more than the 21/2-pound weekly allotments.

OPA recently ordered 150,000,000 all-purpose ration books from print-ers and these will be used for meat rationing. The books will not be ready for distribution to rationing boards until nearly Christmas.

The registration for meat rationing is expected to involve a great deal more detailed work than sugar Forms will be more like those used for gasoline rationing, an official said, in which the applicant will be asked to explain specifically by whom the ration is to be consumed, age, physical condition, type of

The limitation in amount of meat available for civilians in October, November and December this year is expected to create serious distribution problems. The Government, led by the Agriculture Department and OPA, is expected to carry on an intensive campaign until rationing is set up, in which the public will be urged to reduce consumption of Secretary Wickard said limitation orders effectuating the policy on restricted civilian meat deliveries will be drafted and issued by OPA. In actual operation, he added, the order may not result in as much as a 21 per cent cut, since adjustments will be made when necessary to allow for changes during the past year in the pattern of distribution related. and the wartime food requirements of different areas.

Mr. Wickard commented that the 21/2-pound allowance to which persons are asked to limit themselves "is entirely adequate for good nutrition." He explained the new steps taken in the wartime meat program

"During the coming year American farms will produce and packing houses will handle over 24,000,000,000 pounds-a greater amount of meat than ever before in history.

"But the demand for this meat will be even greater than the huge

There must be sharing of the supply."

The problem faced, the Secretary said, is to make sure that the said, he tossed out his bundle of 17,500,000,000 pounds of meat will be shared fairly among all civilians, and this can only be done by rationing. He said the wartime meat supply for civilians would usually be field because of a second flat tire regarded as normal. The demand and went to that city in search of now, however, is abnormal, "because a new tire. of high buying power, coupled with a decreasing supply of most things

Ickes Calls Parley To Increase Hours In All Coal Mines

Spokesmen for Labor And Producers to Meet On Enlarging Output

Solid Fuels Co-ordinator Ickes today summoned producers and labor representatives to a conference to consider increased working hours in the Nation's coal mines to meet wartime requirements.

Mr. Ickes announced that more than 35 persons, representing virtually every wage-negotiating unit in both the bituminous and anthracite industries, had been requested to meet with him Tuesday.

He said expected requirements for 1943 exceeded 1942 production and that it was "imperative" that increased hours of work be considered immediately.

Union Has 35-Hour Week. Contracts of the United Mine Workers (CIO), generally call for a five-day, 35-hour week in both bituminous and anthracite mines. Anthracite contracts, however, allow for a six-day week 12 weeks a year beginning in November. UMW officials said they understood Mr. Ickes would ask for a sixday, 42-hour week.

These officials said there was no shortage of coal at present, but that enlistments of miners in the armed services had created a problem. They suggested that enlistments be halted and the selective service system be allowed to function for all miners. Mr. Ickes said preliminary estimates indicated requirements for 1943 would approximate 600,000,000 tons of bituminous and 60,000,000 tons of anthracite. He estimated 1942 production at 560,000,000 tons of bituminous and 58,000,000 tons of anthracite. "Investigations indicate that the Nation's mines will not be able to supply future coal requirements on the basis of present working time and other conditions affecting the coal supply," Mr. Ickes said. Wants Full Supply Assured. He added that it would be necessary to protect the industry from loss of further manpower and to increase the working time of miners "in order to assure that the supply of coal will be adequate where and when needed in the future." Mines must obtain sufficient equipment and supplies to maintain expanded operations, Mr. Ickes said. In some areas, he reported, increased working hours already are necessary in order to maintain adequate current production. Mr. Ickes again urged consumers to continue to maintain stock piles at present levels and to increase them at every opportunity "just as long as there is coal available for that purpose." bituminous industry can supply more coal than is being ordered, but "the end of the period in which this will be possible is in sight." Anthracite mines already are behind in filling orders for certain domestic sizes, he reported, but added the prediction there would be sufficient hard coal for this winter. "provided that fair distribution can be maintained."

Connally Forecasts 200-Billion Outlay For War by 1944

Nation Facing Biggest Tax Burden in History, Forum Audience Told

With Americans facing the greatest financial burden in their history, the war costs can be met only by increased taxation and borrowing, Senator Connally, Democrat, of Texas explained last night over the National Radio Forum, arranged by The Star and broadcast over WMAL and the Blue Network.

"Since Pearl Harbor," he recalled, "we have appropriated approxi-mately $130,000,000,000, and by the end of the fiscal year 1943, it may be in excess of $200.000.000,000. Senator Connally, a high-ranking member of the Senate Finance Committee, explained the pending tax bill, designed to collect from the people more than $26,000,000,000 annually "When the taxes levied by the States, counties, cities and other local governmental instrumentalities are added," he said, "the total tax burden will approximate $35,-000,000,000, nearly one-third of the estimated national income for 1943.

43,000,000 to Pay Taxes. "This increase will be secured mainly from corporate and individual income taxpayers through increased excess-profits tax rates and increased individual norma and surtax rates and through the levying of the victory tax, as provided under the Finance Committee bill. Under the bill it is estimated there will be approximately 43,-000,000 taxpayers, of which number approximately 16,000,000 will be new taxpayers. While the tax burden will be severé the sacrifices will be trivial in comparison to those being made by our boys in the armed

Senator Connally pointed out that the bill reduces exemptions for sinpersons from $750 to $500 and married men from $1,500 to reased from 4 to 6 per cent and per cent. "Those paying the victory tax." Q. I want to convert my oil burnhe added, "will receive a post-war er, but my oil dealer tells me that credit which will be returned to the taxpayer after the war or may of the credit against his regular income tax for payment of life in-surances and debts outstanding prior to a certain date, as well as for purchase of War bonds."

On the controlled list in the new order are such items as greeting cards, loose-leaf binders and fillers, printed social stationery, tablets, diaries, mottoes, commercial letter cans, bottles and boxes, legal forms, check books, souvenir post cards and stenographers' notebooks.

The expanded list of exempted items was contained in amendments to the general maximum price order, under which the industry formerly operated. Besides books, magazines, periodicals and newspapers the exemptions were enumerated as follows:

"Pamphlets, leaflets, sheet music, music rolls, stamp albums, maps, charts, catalogues, directories, programs, house organs, menus, advertising matter printed on paper (except such articles as containers, of which serves a purpose other than that of advertising), time tables, tariffs and price lists."

For wholesalers, retailers, jobbers, supply houses and stationery stores reselling controlled commodities, the regulation repeals the pricing and record-keeping provisions of the general maximum price regulations so that dealers may continue these former practices uninterrupted. The blanketing of all sections of the industry in a single order simplifies pricing problems of printers who also sell at retail, it was explained, and printing.

A pricing formula was provided for printers who must determine a ceiling on a new type of job whose ceiling could not be fixed at the highest March price for the same or similar products. This formula is as follows: (1) Cost of materials figured at actual costs or at ceiling price, whichever is lower; plus (2) production charges based on rates used in March; plus (3) profit margin as used in March.

To ease the strain on the Reich's sorely overtaxed transportation systems, certain branches of German economy have for some time been curtailed. German bakers, for instance, are forbidden to deliver bread distances greater than 50 kilometers (31 miles). Beer cannot be shipped farther than 250 kilometers (155 miles).

Under the new decree such measures are to apply to almost all goods within Geermany. In the future, manufacturers will not be allowed to sell goods for delivery wherever they like, while consumers will not be able to go far afield for purchases.

With the disastrous results of last winter's transport crisis still fresh in their minds, the Nazis now put this problem first. Its solution, writes Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering's Essener National Zeitung, is the "most urgent task of the day and the future." (Copyright, 1942, by Chicago Daily News.)

Funds for War Housing Passed by Senate

By the Associated Press.

Legislation to double the present $600,000,000 authorization for construction of housing facilities for war workers was passed by the Senate yesterday and sent to the House. The proposed $600,000,000 increase would authorize the construction of 205,000 living units for migrating war workers, in addition to 70,000 dormitory units for civilian workers at Army posts, camps and stations. Senator Taft, Republican, of Ohio said workers in "any number" of war plants now lacked adequate housing. Senator La Follette, Progressive, of Wisconsin, said the amount of construction proposed was "conservative." "The situation has reached the point where housing will be a very critical factor in war production in the coming winter," Senator La Follette declared.

News and Comment of the Night Clubs. By the Spectator. Trade Mark Registered, U. S. Patent Office.

When Dick Koons-or some mys terious force mightier than he-decided to create a Latin-American Department in his Mayflower Lounge band, he was pinning his faith on an unassuming little guy who is a guitarist and a cousin of Roberto Estalella, one-time ace of Mr. Clark Griffith's corps of ace ballplayers. That Mr. Koon's confidence in Johnny Valencia was well-placed is testified each passing day by frightful numbers of patrons which jam the Lounge and wax enthusiastic over this latest turn in entertainment policy.

Mr. Valencia, who stands only a couple of shades taller than Burton the Page, came indeed as a happy chance to Mr. Koon's organization.
The Lounge had been looking for some added touch of novelty for its musical soirces, and when Johnny Valencia popped into the picture, experience-wise from recent assign-ments at the Troika and Madrillon, the new scheme formulated more or less on the spot. Here was a fellow that could put on a show with the caboclos, the chocayos, the cuicas and the timbales. (Surely you know what they are.) Moreover he could sing, and play guitar—and the band needed a guitar, especially.

In this lad the Lounge found not only a highly useful individual, but one of esteemed and interesting antecedents. Although American-born himsel, Mr. Valencia's father is Colombian, noted as a planist and instructor in Spanish. He, in fact, teaches that language at a local branch of the Berlitz School which is quite noted in the language line. Mr. Valencia's mother, on the other hand, is Cuban, a concert violinist who, under the name of Marte de la Torre, has traveled through three continents in company with Ernesto Lecuona, the well-known pianist and composer (Victor Herbert of Latin-America). Lecuona even dedicated his popular "Anda-lucia" to Senorita de la Torre. As for the distant branches of the family, like the Estalellas, baseball for better or worse remained their forte, so far as Mr. Valencia can remem-

Johnny Valencia started his career as a guitarist at the age of 9 while touring Spain with his mother and Senor Lecuona. He was learning piano at that time, but growing bored with the prevalence of that instrument in his environment soon turned to the strings. By a sort of logical progression he moved from the ukulele, to the banjo, to the four-stringed guitar until finally he arrived at the six-stringed job which he has fancied ever since. Professionally, he broke in with Nilo Menendez, another composer of note, and with Tito Guizar, the Mexican tenor, with whom he helped popularize ancho Grande" which has since been beaten from pillar to post. He has, furthermore, his explanation of the origin of the conga. It was instituted during one of those dance festivals known as "comparsas" in the streets of Cuba. Not in the ballroom; not in the Africa jungle. So remember that the next time you hear people start theoris-

Mr. Valencia's specific duties as chief of the Latin-American Department are as follows: (1) Sing the Spanish songs, (2) play guitar most rhythm devices, (8) score the music for all rhythm instruments, (4) serve as "technical advisor" on all Latin-American numbers, such as seeing to it that "appropriate" tunes are played in the authentic rhythm peculiar to each type. We summarize from Mr. Koons' official proclamation. He is, you can see, busy. But, then, he's capable.

El Patio's Little Jack Little came up with one of his better slogans the other night. For use on one of his radio bond programs, you know.
"It's not what you make; it's what you save—put your savings into War bonds and help save your country."

When the Madrillon's Trio Lyrico, as a title, was abandoned in favor of the current "Hurtado Trio," many may have wondered just how the personnel was affected—Mario Hurtado, for one, having been a Madrilion fixture since time immemorial. We took our first long look at the "Hurtado Trio" last night, then looked again—and there they all were: Ramon still at guitar, Mario at the marimba, and Joe (of the sad expression) plunking away at bass the same as ever.

Of course, Mario had the spotlight and the somewhat self-consciously affable smile common to all leaders of dance ensembles.

The Balalaika's chorus for the current Don Cossack revue has been featuring a particularly stirring Russian marching song which one seldom hears unless it be on recordings of the Red Army Choir of the U. S. S. R. Its name is "Meadowands." And it's done in adequately stirring fashion, with sound effects. by the chorus with Tenor Azaroff.

The management of the Hotel 2400 which loves to be dramatic about its various departments such as the Lounge Riviera, sends a notice which leads off: "For several days the Lounge Riviera has carried a by-line 'Watch for an important announcement.' This isn't t, but it is important: The Board Cassi Cassano, guitarist attached with the Anchor Room, is offering these days a version of "Oh Chichornya" (spelling is ours, and probably quite original) that may be classed as a freest of free interpretations. The kind of thing in which conversations are carried on with patrons, other tunes are super-imposed and the performer acts perplexed-all in the course of the song's presentation.

At a recent sea food fete, such occasions being staged periodically at Olmsted Restaurant, Inc., it was not the fishy delicacies, brilliantly illuminated as they were, that caused every one to exclaim. It was

It is the story of Phenix City's "efficient job in suppressing organ-ized commercialized prostitution" as 3 Belgian Ex-Ministers related in an interview today by Capt. James A. But now, the captain added, it has changed from Fort Benning's number one problem "to its present position in which no prostitution or veneral disease problem exists." This was brought about, Capt. Loveless said, by a hard-hitting civilian-action campaign which was backed by Army co-operation and was aimed at complete supression of prostitution. While the syphilis rate among present United States soldiers has been reported the lowest in history, Army officers see venereal disease as still a serious problem, espe-cially in the Southeast, with its heavy concentrations of men in training.

"The problem of venereal disease in the soldiers is essentially a problem of prostitution," Capt. Loveless declared, although "many people continue to believe that the

Revolt in the House

The open break between the President and Congress which has resulted from the House vote on the farm parity question is a matter of gravest concern.

What the House has done is to rewrite the parity formula to take into account the cost of farm labor-not just "hired" labor but even the labor of the farmer, his wife and his children. This will have the effect of forbidding the imposition of price ceilings on farm products under 112.5 per cent of parity, which obviously would result in a substantial increase in the cost of living.

The members voting for this provision contended it was necessary to insure an adequate supply of farm labor and to protect the country against a serious food shortage next year. The fact is, however, that the action will not assure the farmer of an adequate labor supply, nor does it assure the country of a sufficiency of food. What it will do is raise the cost of living, provide the incentive for renewed demands for higher industrial wages and give an added and probably disastrous twirl to the inflationary spiral.

This attitude on the part of the House is in defiance of the President on two points. The first was his demand for "adequate" legislation to lower the ban on farm price ceilings to parity, or the highest price of a recent date. The second was the announcement of his "unalterable opposition" to any revision of the parity formula at this time.

Mr. Roosevelt has served notice that he will deal with the farm price question by executive action should Congress fail to meet his demands by October 1. That recourse remains open to him, provided he is willing to take such a step in the face of a three-to-one vote against him in the House and a probable adverse vote In the Senate. But, while such an exercise of his executive authority might deal with the immediate problem of farm prices, it cannot be a solution to the basic farm problem.

The supply of labor to work the farms has been drawn off by the demands of the military services and By the attraction of higher wages and shorter hours in the war industries. The present situation, threatening to result in a breakdown of the normal relations between the President and Congress, is the direct result of the attempt to deal with the problem of allocating manpower in piecemeal fashion. When we needed men for the Army, we took them with little thought of the conseguences to our food supply. When we needed men in the munitions factories, we got them by the expedient but short-sighted device of paying higher and higher wages. And now we are reaping the inevitable harvest. The capacity of the farms to produce their essential products is breaking down, and the problem is crying for relief.

The question is how to approach its solution. Shall we attempt to handle it by another stopgap device, such as that proposed in the House? Or shall we attempt to ignore it by simply imposing arbitrary farm ceilings, and nothing more? Obviously, neither course runs to the heart of the problem. What is needed, and what we must have, is an intelligent and comprehensive program for the allocation of manpower on a compulsory basis, either by legislation or executive action. When we make up our minds to take that approach to the problem, we will cease to be plagued by these constantly recurring crises. Until we take it, we will have no alternative but to muddle through one crisis after another. with the ultimate solution growing more and more difficult.

GOP Platform

The most satisfactory aspect of the statement of legislative principles which has been ratified by the House Republicans is the clear-cut declaration that the war must be fought to a victorious finish—that there must be no attempt to negotiate a peace in advance of the total military defeat of the Axis.

On this score the language of the resolution was explicit and to the point, "Freedom," the GOP members said, "is at stake. It permits no compromise or appeasement. The Axis dictators must be vanquished."

war," but it remains to be seen how they are offered more information

bers when they come to vote on specific questions. Certainly, in yesterday's vote on the farm parity question, the President did not receive wholehearted support from the Republicans in the House. If this is a fair sample of what is to be expected in the future, it seems plain enough that this part of the statement was adopted with distinct mental reservations. That section of the resolution dealing with the post-war period is indefinite enough to accommodate almost any kind of attitude toward the peace settlement. The resolution points out that the United States has a responsibility and an obligation to work with other nations to "bring about a world understanding and cooperative spirit" with a view to maintaining peace. This phraseology is watered down still more, however, by the qualification that this must be done without endangering our own Government or weakening our way of life.

The inadequacy of this statement might be damaging except for the very plain fact that under existing conditions the sort of peace we may have is of relatively small consequence compared with the sort of war we can fight.

Terrorized Europe

The announcement by the Inter-Allied Information Committee in London that the known number of executions by the Germans in occupied countries of Europe is approaching the quarter-million mark reveals with terrible clarity the nature of Hitler's "New Order." Everywhere, the basis of Nazi rule over conquered populations is obviously brute force exercised by terroristic methods unprecedented in any war waged in modern times. Certainly, the German atrocities perpetrated during the last war pale into insignificance before what is now going

A breakdown of the death list published by the Information Committee shows that a majority of these executions occurred in Poland, the Polish government in exile reporting 100,000 of their countrymen shot after German trials for alleged offenses and 70,000 shot as hostages. This indicates something more than mere terrorist repression. In conjunction with mass imprisonments and deportations of Poles running into the hundred thousands and accompanied by very high death rates from starvation, exposure and disease, it substantiates Nazi admissions that Hitler plans to stamp out the Poles as a nation by the systematic "liquidation" of all elements who might make serious trouble in the future. It is to be noted that similar threats have been made by both German and Italian spokesmen concerning the Serb element among the Yugoslavs, though as yet the executions and deportations there have not attained the relative proportions of those in Poland.

In Occupied France the Low Countries and Norway, executions of specific offenders and hostages have been hitherto on a smaller scale, but the grim toll mounts as resistance to German rule persists and the possibility of a "secondfront" invasion of Western Europe perturbs the Nazi rulers of lands seething with rebellious discontent. Only last week end 5,000 arrests were made in Paris alone, in retaliation for patriotic acts of violence and sabotage. Thus the vicious circle of reciprocal terrorism completes itself.

The indomitable resistance of the conquered populations to the Nazi regime has just been dramatically shown by the current flare-up in Luxembourg. This tiny Grand Duchy with an area of just under 1,000 square miles and 300,000 inhabitants. has often been regarded as a quaint survival of the middle ages. Yet so wedded are the Luxembourgers to their miniature nationalism that, when the German government summarily declared Luxembourg annexed to the Reich and began conscripting its able-bodied males for military service, the little country went on the rampage culminating in a general strike which closed its important steel mills and blast furnaces. Ruthless repression has answered this patriotic demonstration, but that will not turn recalcitrant Luxembourgers into acquiescent German subjects. When a minute principality can react so vigorously against a threat to its independence, the insuperable difficulties facing the Germans elsewhere can be imagined. The spirit of occupied Europe is unbroken, and Nazi ruthlessness seems to harden rather than weaken it.

Scholars' Duty

The duty of scholars in the prevailing world crisis has been discussed with incisive intelligence by Prof. Lyman Bryson of Teachers College. Columbia University, now educational director of the Columbia Broadcasting System and the Office of War Information. "Your scholarly wisdom," he has told his colleagues, "will have no influence on political action unless you get it understood by the general public and the Government officials who are operating agencies of the public. In this war and in the peace to follow, the people should have access to the real issues as they did not last time." Prof. Bryson hastens to explain that he appreciates the improvements in common knowledge which There also seems to have been an have been effected during the past effort made to avoid ambiguity in quarter century. "By every conceivthe assertion that the "Republican able index." he declares, "it appears party has given and will continue to | that the people of the United States give the President loyal, whole- are better able to meet the issues of $18,000 a pound. hearted and patriotic support in the this war. They are better educated.

agencies, and they absorb more of it. In general, they are a more mature population."

The "deliberate obscurantism" of some scholars, however, may interfere with making "organized wisdom" a factor in the reconstruction of the world, Prof. Bryson expresses his belief that too often in the past learning has been isolated from "practical use." "One of the most astonishing discoveries I ever have made in my own life," he explains. "is that in all the long history of the relations of policy makers in action and men of thought, no one has ever studied the methods of connecting thought with action."

Something familiar, none the less, distinguishes the dilemma which Prof. Bryson puts into these provocative words. Many of his contemporaries, undoubtedly, will recall Shakespeare's discussion of the same problem in the soliloquy of Hamlet. "Conscience," the sorrowful Dane is prompted to believe, "does make cowards of us all" and "the native hue of resolution is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought. And enterprises of great pith and moment With this regard their currents turn

And lose the name of action." The difficulty is not new. Prof. Bryson is justified by the experience of the ages. He performs a service by insisting upon a marriage of pragmatic philosophy with the management of human affairs.

Ralph Adams Cram

It is not easy to discuss Ralph Adams Cram. He himself made that discovery in his youth. His genius was beyond the reach of ordinary processes of analysis. Born at Hampton Falls, New York, December 16, 1863, he came of Unitarian and rationalistic stock, yet seems to have been a romanticist from his earliest days. In his autobiography, he omits everything prior to his seventeenth year and his hegira to Boston, where in Pinckney street, he first encountered contemporaries who cared more about art than about any other interest of the moment.

Perhaps Dr. Cram might have been happier at that time and later if he had not been obliged to find his own religion. Granted too much freedom in boyhood, he was a grown man before he chose a faith equal to his need. Having embraced Anglican Catholicism, however, he ceased to be "a spiritual vagabond." The Gothic ideal satisfied him. He became its valiant and courageous exponent, fighting for it with a passion which was evangelical in character. Whether or not he was a great architect may be a matter for debate, but there can be no question about the power and the efficiency with which he inspired the making of magnificent designs. He was partly if not wholly responsible for the new buildings at West Point, including the chapel, the post headquarters, the riding hall and several cadet barracks; and he sponsored the Graduate College and the Cleveland Tower at Princeton, the revision of the Cathedral of Saint John the Divine in New York, and the East Liberty Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh. Each of these compositions is a monument of which any creative worker would be proud.

But Dr. Cram, dying at 78, must be remembered not merely for what he did. He is destined for immortality for what he was-a modern American who, in an unfriendly season, dared to reaffirm the high values of medieval civilization. It is not too much to suggest that he had something of Saint Francis of Assissi in him. He was gentle and kindly by nature and very reverent in his own peculiar way. But he also was akin to Peter the Hermit, and he preached vast crusades which sadly needed to be preached. His books prove him to have been a prophet as well as a profound philosopher. He condemned the extravagances of democracy with a burning zeal. Society, he insisted, can be redeemed only through revelation. His hope, up to the last, was for the development of a religious dynamic competent to solve the tragic problems of materialism and war. That he achieved much toward the making of a new heaven in a new earth is conceded by all who are familiar with his story.

Heavy Sugar

The rationing which seems to work the least hardship on the American public was the yery first to occur that of sugar. Indeed, in many instances the only "hardship" worked is the "necessity" of buying sugar while the coupons are still valid, when the housewife would prefer to spend her hard-earned sugar on something

The coupons, be it noted, call merely for sugar in general-no particular kind is specified. It can be white, brown, granulated, lump or pulverized. It follows, then, that they are good for D-ribose sugar, from which vitamin B-2 is made. Housewives who specialize in collections of various sugars, on the principle that the coupons must not be allowed to lapse, should add D-ribose to the list. It cannot as yet be obtained from the corner grocery but may be purchased direct from scientific laboratories, where it is made. It will not do, however, to put that pound or two of D-ribose sugar on just any vacant shelf in the pantry; it is more practical to rent space in the toughest bank vault obtainable and place it there.

It so happens that when last heard of, D-ribose sugar was selling at

Notebook of Science Progress In Laboratory, Field And Study

By Thomas R. Henry. The world's first breech-loading rifle now is in the collection of the Smith-

It was the personal weapon of Maj. Patrick Ferguson of the 71st Highlanders, and was used against Colonial troops at the battle of Kings Mountain, North Carolina, in 1780. Several hundred of his troops probably carried similar

But Maj. Ferguson was the inventor of the piece. His own gun, beautifully made, comes close to the original of an invention that revolutionized ordnance. It did not pass into general use for at least a quarter century after Kings Mountain. Armies notoriously are conservative. In those days they were especially slow to accept new ideas and a few years later were protesting over the poor sportsmanship of Napoleon in not sticking to conventional methods of warfare. When the United States Government accepted a breech-loading rifle in 1812 it is unlikely that the inventor ever had heard of the unfortunate Mai, Ferguson. The Scotch major was a favorite of Lord Cornwallis. He presented the rifle to a fellow British officer, a grandfather of Gen. Watts de Peyster of Civil War fame, who presented it to the Smithsonian. The rifle has a 31-inch barrel, rifled with eight grooves. One great advantage, especially stressed by the inventor, was that it could be equipped with a bayonet without hampering the loading operations and used both as a firing and stabbing weapon at the same

Maj. Ferguson long had an unsavory reputation in American history and his name is coupled with that of Tarleton. This was largely unjust, Gen. de Peyster held, and he cited a letter in the Ferguson family archives to show that once he deliberately spared the life of George Washington when the American commander was at his mercy.

Writing to a relative in England, Maj. Ferguson said: "We had not lain long when a rebel officer, remarkable by a huzzar dress, passed toward our army within 100 yards of our right flank, not perceiving us. He was followed by another dressed in dark green and blue, mounted on a good bay horse, with a remarkable high cocked hat. I ordered three good shots to steal near to them and fire at them, but the idea disgusted me and I recalled the order.

"The huzzar in returning made a circuit but the other passed within 100 yards of us, upon which I advanced from the woods toward him. Upon my calling he stopped, but after looking at me proceeded. I again drew his attention and made signs to him to stop, levelling my piece at him, but he slowly continued his way.

"As I was in that distance which in the quickest firing I could have put half a dozen balls in or about him before he was out of my reach, I had only to determine; but it was not pleasant to fire at the back of an unoffending individual who was acquitting himself very cooly of his duty, so I let him alone.

"The day after I had been telling the story to some wounded officers who lay in the same room with me, when one of our surgeons who had been dressing the wounded rebel officers came in and told us that Gen. Washington was all the morning with the light troops and only attended by a huzzar officer in huzzar dress and he himself dressed and mounted in every way as above described. I am not sorry I did not know at the time who it was"

Maj. Ferguson was reputed to be the best shot of his day in Great Britain. He could draw a pistol out of the holster with his left hand, throw it in the air, catch it as it fell, and shoot the head off a bird nearby. He was commissioned an officer at the age of 14, and saw service in France and Germany. His next military experience was as a member of an expedition to put down an Indian insurrection in Tobago in the West Indies. His right arm was shattered at the battle of Brandywine, when he is supposed to have spared the life of Washington. Allegedly, he was not in favor with Sir William Howe, who welcomed the opportunity to disband his riflemen and to return to military stores the remarkable weapons with which they were armed, Upon his recovery, however, Maj. Ferguson's command was restored.

Proposes Conscription Of Industrial Labor. To the Editor of The Star:

There is need for conscripting industrial manpower. By the same logic that it was necessary to draft men for the military forces in 1940, it now is imperative for us to conscript the workers who move the wheels and that fabricate the products. The urgency is not one of controlling labor as much as it is one of regulating laborers; it is a matter of directing and guiding proper skills, not of coercing the skillful.

The problem is that of achieving total efficiency in industry. We should be satisfied with nothing less. Indeed, we are being called upon to become as efficient as our soldiers are being trained to become effective. On the battlefield there can be no half-way killing of Japs and Germans. They are dispatched entirely, completely, wholeheartedly. So must we orient our thinking in terms of industry. We must go at using our tools with the same intensity, the same fixity of purpose, the same cold determination. Singular problems having to do with industrial manpower, only an authoritative central agency can resolve. These have been enumerated again and again: centralizing labor reserves where they are most vitally needed; efficient utilization of skills where they best can be adapted; pirating of skilled general swift economic production of war materials with as little waste and red tape as possible. It is to be hoped that legislation quickly will give the proper agency complete authority to regulate manpower and so to adjust the weights of the labor pool that the scales will surely be tipped this will be interpreted by the mem- by a responsible press and other win to Russia, may get only a winter. THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

"UPPER THIRTEENTH STREET.

"A very interesting and very small bird came to our tree the other day. I hope you can tell us what it was. "It was very small and had black and white stripes on it. "We have had a brown creeper and we are acquainted with that bird, but we have never seen this new one before. It had a very slender bill. "This bird was as much of a creeper as our brown creeper, in fact, to us it seemed to do a better job. It was on the tree for a long time.

"Thanking you in advance, I am "Sincerely yours, M. V."

The reader's bird was the black-andwhite warbler, a common summer resident hereabouts. The specimen seen probably was in migration. The blackand-white warbler is one of approximately 30 warblers which come to Washington and vicinity. It is more generally seen in the suburbs than in the city. At one time this bird was known as the black-and-white creeper, a name which ornithologists regard as a very good common name, because it had the quality of describing the bird accurately and helping an observer to identify it. Our correspondent properly noted the creeping habit. Birds which commonly are called creepers are small species which have short legs and thus seem to be resting right on the surface of tree or limb. The appearance of creeping is caused not only by this closeness, but more by the short hitches which the bird takes. The black-and-white warbler, or creeper, as we may call it, really does a better job at creeping than the tiny brown creeper. The black-and-white warbler can do anything on a tree trunk or limb that a white-breasted nuthatch can do.

This bird has many popular names. In various sections of the country it is called the pied creeper, the black-and-white creeping warbler, the striped warbler, the creeping warbler and the varied creeping warbler.

This small creature is a great fiver. It thinks nothing of flying from the Hudson Bay region to the West Indies, Mexico and Central America.

Yet this bird is scarcely more than 5 inches in length. The bill is shorter than the head and very fine. The wings are long and pointed, while the tail may be even across or somewhat forked.

The male, as usual, is the schowy member of the family. The female is slightly smaller and duller in color. Her white stripes are not clear white, but have some buff mixed in them. The blueblack stripes which the male displays are indistinct and flecked with gray in the

The darker stripes of these warblers are called by some observers blue, and by others black. This is often the case in bird color. The way one happens to see them makes the difference, because light catches them at a different angle.

This warbler begins nesting about the middle of May and usually has another brood in June.

An interesting feature of this bird is that it nests on the ground.

The nest is large, considering the size of its creator. It is made out of old leaves, grasses, strips of bark and the stems of weeds. If the mother bird can get it, she lines the nest with hair. The nest is often covered partly by a canopy, and this leads some observers to think that it is an oven bird's nest. The structure usually is placed at the foot of a tree trunk, old stump or shrub.

Sometimes it is at the base of a large rock. The eggs are five in number, white or cream in color, and speckled with brown or chestnut. The speckles usually are not all over the eggs but are collected in a sort of wreath around the large end.

The scientific name of this bird means moss pulling." The bird is pulling moss to get at insects.

All of the warblers which come here are very small. The black-and-white warbler is the easiest to identify. Some people call it the zebra bird. The other warblers are extremely difficult for the amateur observer to identify. All warblers will look alike to him. There are so many of them that are yellowish or greenish-yellow with grayish wings that positive identification seems impossible. We wish again to say that identification never is necessary for the enjoyment of bird watching. Most of us are not scientists and have no particular desire to be. For the average person to be too perturbed about the identification of a bird seen in the yard or on a walk is to miss the best part of the sport. We do not mean that one should not be interested enough to want to know the name of a strange bird. That is only natural. The important thing, however, is that the bird is exactly the same bird whether you know the name of it or not. Its beauty, appeal and interest are in it, regardless of whether you know its name.

The warblers and sparrows are two groups of birds which a home bird student has a great deal of difficulty identifying. He will usually know four or five in each group, and the rest will be Greek

If he is particularly interested, he may like to make a special study of these birds. Some 30 species of warblers and 19 species of sparrows come to this region. A few of the sparrows remain the year around, notably the English and song sparrows.

A good plan is to get colored illustrations of all the warblers together so that they may all be seen at once. Handle the pictures of the sparrows in the same way. In this way perhaps the maze in which the student finds himself may be partially relieved, because he can more readily see the points of difference between them.

If he finally throws up his hands in despair, he may be consoled by knowing that most other persons do. One has to be an ornithologist to be able to identify all the warblers and all the sparrows. It is whispered that even ornithologists cannot always be too sure. But it makes no difference, except to an ornithologist perhaps. The warblers and sparrows are grand little birds, with or without names.

Letters to the Editor

Urges "Positive" Prepagande To "Strengthen Understanding."

To the Editor of The Star:

A few months ago a good deal of newspaper discussion centered about a proper name for this war. Although many names have been suggested-Global War, Peoples War, War for Freedom-many persons insist on distinguishing our wars by the numerals I and II.

But whatever title we give it, we are in reality engaged in a war for the soul of man. Our enemies have no lesser intention than to enslave completely the soul of every freedom-loving man.

Our enemies know that man cannot serve two masters. Either the higher nature or the barbaric part of man will prevail. Lincoln, proclaimed that no nation could remain half free and half slave. In our day President Roosevelt has said that our globe cannot be inhabited by democratic and totalitarian governments at the same time. Every 'Hitler" knows that as long as he has not obliterated the higher intelligence in man, he has not conquered the earth, for men with free consciences do not submit to any master but one.

Our Government does not have to use totalitarian methods today because it always has encouraged education for the enlightenment of our people. The heroic histories of all free peoples prove that man's motive is primarily biosophic, that is, to express man's essential desire to live intelligently, at peace with his neighbor. Men have sacrificed everything whenever this desire has been threat-

I feel that our Government should be more articulate in expressing what Americans stand for and what our enemies are against. It is true we have stated our purpose, but we should state it more clearly and more often. Our enemies know how to use propaganda for their ends; it is no crime for Americans to use a positive kind of propaganda which will serve to strengthen our understanding of the meaning of this conflict and will emphasize the need for unity on the basis of the love of freedom of the soul. NORMAN ROBERTS.

Finds Sharing in Sacrifice Semething to be Proud About. To the Editor of The Star:

On September 3 a letter of mine was published in your paper in which I harshly criticized the nursing profession. I stated that the salary offered graduate nurses prohibited many earlier graduates from re-entering the profession, and that the lack of facilities in this city for caring for young children was a factor to be considered. Much of this is true, but there also is another angle to the situation. Read-wardly as I realize how many of our loved ones are fighting and dying so that we at home may carry on in our accustomed comfort. I blush with shame and honestly I do, for the sheer inequality of it all. We, too, are Americans, just as truly as these boys who are laying down their lives upon the too, make a few adjustments and sacrifices? I complained that the tops in salary offered graduate nurses was $100 per month, and commented that it would cost housewives and mothers that sum to go back to work. Well, what of it? Haven't many of our fine men quit salaries of $5,000 and upward to join the Army?

Won't our children in years to com have infinitely more respect for their parents if our record in World War II is one of active participation?

Discusses Canadian System

Of Gasoline Rationing. To the Editor of The Star The rationing of gasoline according to size of car-large, medium and smallwas too complicated, according to letters

I had from the offices of L. Henderson and J. Dean. If they found this system too complicated, I can't help wondering how they can possibly handle fuel oil rationing for domestic heat. Maybe that isn't complicated. Canadians seem to be able to handle complicated gas rationing, but I was sorry to read in your paper how drastic their cut was to be in gas for non-essential driving. For the next six months, according to your news item, non-essential driving in Canada is to be cut to 20 gallons per month. Of course, smaller cars get less in Canada, as it should be. All cars in the United States get 15 miles per gallon by order of L. Henderson. WESTCHESTER.

Commends Book Review For "Telling Off" Author.

To the Bditer of The Star:

Seldom have I so heartily agreed with a book review as with that of Mary-Carter Roberts of Emil Ludwig's "Stalin." The only argument that may be raised is that her criticism of Mr. Ludwig might have been more pronounced Your reviewer's analysis of Mr. Ludwig's loosely assembled string of words as a "typical German piece of tactlessness" is wholesome and accurate.

The fact that Mr. Ludwig was halled in the past German republic as a great author-biographer does not speak well for the German literary state of mind, which, it seems, has been grossly overing the paper and the magazines and rated in this country. If that goes for sibly be said about German literature under the Nasi regime that would not be outright charity? But then, we can hardly be expected to be charitably inclined toward anything Teutonic in spirit.

Constitutionality of Executive Order on Wages Questioned

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Some day, when the war is over and the courts get around to passing on the constitutionality of various acts occurring during the war, there may be some far - reaching damage suits involving back

History reveals that after the Civil War the Supreme Court questioned some of the acts of President Lincoln, and it has been the experience of the Nation David Lawrence. with acts performed during war that a great deal more objectivity occurs in the calmer moments of a post-war period.

Literally hundreds of millions of dollars of payments for double time or premium pay may be the subject of litigation and employers may find themselves saddled with judgments involving enormous sums just because the President has issued an executive order of doubtful constitutionality which impairs existing contracts between unions and

Many of the leaders of the national unions are sending word to their locals not to take the initiative in abrogating any contracts involving double time or premium pay, but to put the burden of reopening the contracts on employers or on the Government.

'Powers Under Question.

Most of the union lawyers are assuming that the President has the right to impair their contracts under his so-called war powers. There is, of course, a difference of opinion on this point, for while Congress by legislation may impair private contracts, no such authority has been delegated to the President and none is inherent in his executive office.

When the famous gold clauses were being argued after America departed from the gold standard. many persons thought even Congress didn't have the right to impair private contracts. There certainly has been little support for the theory that the President may nullity private contracts without previous sanction by Congress.

The new executive order which calls for nullification of certain provisions of private contracts by October 1 as they relate to overtime pay could be challenged through damage suits, but it is unlikely that these would arise during the war. The statute of limitations in some States would bar the reopening of these matters, but there are several States in which the statute does not begin to bar law suits till three or five years have elapsed.

The principle is, of course, vital to the future of union labor, because if a President can at any time during war nullify contracts that exist between an employer and a union, he can order unions to do virtually anything that he thinks they should do if he only bases his action on a claim that it will aid the war.

No Automatic Powers.

The Constitution, of course, does 7 More Get Air Medals not grant to the President as Commander in Chief any new powers For Aleutian Operations during war that he does not possess in peacetime. The only chance for the recent executive orders to be validated would be by act of Congress, which body alone possesses and may delegate war powers to the President. The President's order is scheduled to go into effect on October 1, and it may be that by that time Congress will have delegated to the President full power over wage payments. The question might still arise as to indemnifying employers who are subject to suits for back pay, and the safest way to avoid the issue would be for Congress to stipulate that wherever private ocntracts conflict with the provisions of the new wage control bill, the Federal Government shall indemnify the contractors against losses arising out of actions under State laws governing private contract obligations.

The more the issue of wage control by the Federal Government is studied, the more it becomes apparent that a far-reaching step is being taken now under the stress of war and with little thought to the legal implications for the after-thewar period.

Light Vote in Minnesota's Democratic Primary Takes Six Congressional Candidates Off Ballots

By GOULD LINCOLN. A curious situation has developed in the congressional campaign in Minnesota, due to the light vote cast in the Democratic primaries there September 8.

Under the election laws in Minnesota, only those candidates who receive at least 10 per cent of their party vote in the most recent election can have their names placed on the ballot. Attorney General J. A. A. Burnquist of the State has ruled, therefore, that Democratic candidates for the House in six congressional districts are ineligible to go on the ballots, since their votes did not meet this qualification. These districts are the 3d, 4th, 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th.

All of these congressional districts are represented in the present Congress by Republicans, except the 9th, which sent Representative Buckler, Farmer-Labor, to the House in the 1940 elections. There is no chance for the Democrats to take any of these districts away from the Republicans in the coming election—and in the 9th district the Republicans may be victorious

Mr. Buckler is not a candidate there this year. However, lack of Democratic nominees on the congressional ballots in these districts would be unusual, to say the least. Attorney General Burnquist has explained that they can be nominated by petition, which requires 500 signatures in each congressional district.

The Democratic candidates for the three remaining districts, the 1st, 2d and 5th districts automatically go on the ballot, the attorney general ruled, because they had no opposition in the primary for nomination.

Democrats Vote Elsewhere. One story has it that so many Democrats went into the Republican primaries to support Gov. Stassen and Senator Ball that it caused the failure of the Democratic congressional candidates to receive sufficient votes to go on the ballot in the six districts mentioned.

Gov. Stassen and Senator Ball early turned their backs on the isolated stand of the great bulk Harbor. They supported strongly the President's national defense policies and the measures put forward for defense. Both Gov. Stassen and Senator Ball were renominated.

Minnesota, in the control of the Farmer-Labor party very largely for 16 years prior to 1938, when Gov. Stassen was elected chief executive, has swung strongly to the GOP in recent years, with a consequent falling off in the Farmer-Labor party's influence. During that period the Democratic party in the State, divided into factions, was a minor political party when it came to elections—although it was able to elect its candidates in a congressional district or two occasionally. On several occasions, the New

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Sept. 24.-

Dealers in Washington urged the Democrats of Minnesota to join forces with the Farmer-Laborites, in order to make it impossible for the Republicans to win. Indeed, on some occasions, the Democrats were persuaded to withdraw their candidates for major office to the extent of having them throw their support to the Farmer-Labor candidates.

Some of the Democrats of Minnesota deeply resented this attitude on the part of the New Deal administration. They have been and are today anxious to build up the Democratic party in Minnesota into one of the two major parties.

Birth Control Referendum. The coming election in Massachusetts will find the voters of the Commonwealth expressing themselves on the question of birth control. Question No. 1, placed on the ballot by petition of sufficient registered voters. authorizes the dissemination of birth control information by physicians, medical journals, etc. The issue has aroused tremendous interest in the State and will have the effect, it is believed, in getting out a much larger vote than might have been the case if this referendum had not been included. The Catholic clergy is beginning an active campaign against the amendment.

It has not become a political party issue. Gov. Saltonstall, Republican, has announced that he intends to vote against the proposal and so has the Democratic nominee for Governor, Mayor Roger L. Putnam of Springfield, who is running against Gov. Saltonstall.

The Governor insisted, when he announced he would vote against the referendum, that he was making the announcement in order to keep the issue out of partisan politics. Mayor Putnam previously had said he would oppose the referendum.

"Medical Rights" Referendum. The referendum is sponsored by the Mothers' Health Committee, which objects strenuously to having it called a "birth control referendum." The committee refers to it as the "referendum for medical rights." Both houses of the State Legislature turned their backs on legislative proposals of this character. However, a sufficient number of voters have lined up in favor of of information to force the issue before the electorate.

Opponents of the birth control legislation say the question has been so loosely drawn as to make it possible for quacks and self-styled medical journals to give all kinds of advice to young men and women on this subject, creating a bad situation. Its supporters, on the other hand, insist that they are acting in the interests of public health.

Whatever the voters may think about the question of birth control, it is clear that the voters who come out to vote on the referendum will in all probability vote on the candidates up for election on November 3. That in itself will make the political campaign all the more strenuous.

'Get-Tough' Advocates Are Reminded That France Attempted It and Failed

Japs Proceeding Cautiously in Pacific Area, Hoping to Catch U.S. Fleet Off Guard

By CONSTANTINE BROWN. Sketchy reports reaching us from the South Pacific indicate the Japanese are concentrated now for their big attack, probably in the Solomon Islands, but are not quite sure of themselves. Right now they appear to be waging a war of attrition, hoping to wear down our naval commanders and lead them into a misstep. Several times Japanese striking forces have been sighted off the Solomons by our air scouts, but each time they have beat a hasty retreat as soon as they were spotted. This is not to be construed as cowardice on the part of the Jap admirals. The Japanese high command is fully aware that another naval defeat would jeopardize the outcome of the war as far as Nippon is concerned, even if heavy casualties were inflicted on the American fleet.

The Japanese fleet has been built up over a period of years by hard work. Losses so far suffered have been serious but have not crippled the Japanese fleet. Another Coral Sea or Midway, however, would place the Japanese naval forces definitely on the defensive and would give the United States supremacy in the Pacific. Hence, the Japanese high command is proceeding cautiously, hoping to catch inferior American task forces off guard and overwhelm them in a surprise

Japs Learned a Lesson. The enemy seems to base this plan on the daring of the American high command and expects a repetition of the sinking off the Malay coast of the British battle cruiser Repulse and battyeship Prince of Wales, or of the battle off Java, in which United Nations naval forces were destroyed.

While it is believed that a large fleet of Japanese transports is somewhere in the Pacific, strongly convoyed by the bulk of the Japanese Navy, this convoy has not yet been sighted in the battle area. The Japanese, who learned a lesson at Midway, are not likely to repeat their mistakes. The transports carrying the landing forces will not appear anywhere until the Japanese fleet has successfully given battle to the American naval force in the

Meanwhile, the Japs are continuing their raids on the Solomon Islands with invasion barges. These raids are very costly and while a number of "jungle fighters" have managed to set foot on the principal islands, their number is being rapidly and greatly reduced by our marines.

Solomons Situation Gains. The Jap soldiers' experiences in Malaya and the Netherlands. Indies have made them firstclass jungle fighters while our marines are only now learning this type of warfare. The Americans' experiences in the Solomons have taught them rapidly. however, and after only five weeks of combat they are more than a match for the Jap veterans.

While the situation in the Solomons cannot be described is felt now in competent quarters than a week ago. Whether this is due to realization that our position is not as bad as was first thought or is due to arrival of reinforcements in that area is difficult to say.

The situation in New Guinea also appears to have taken a favorable turn in the last few days. The Japanese have crossed the Owen Stanley range north of Port Moresby, but it appears that the Japanese force is small and is not accompanied by either artillery or tanks.

At the present moment this force is waging guerrilla warfare against Australian patrols. It is not large enough to make a frontal attack on Port Moresby itself or other nearby towns. The Jap plan seems to be to keep the harassing force active while a large army attempts to march down the coast to Port Moresby. United Nations forces in that area are believed to be strong enough to meet any such move.

Laws of War? Japs

Never Heard of 'Em

By HENRY MeLEMORE. From what we have read and eard the Japanese, Germans and Italians are not fighting this war strictly according to the code of rules and othics as set forth at The Hague Convention in 1907. They have either misplaced their minutes of this gathering or taken them out in the backyard and burned such conduct is Heary Melemore. ung entlemanly, nean, and even downright naughty. A lot of people have spoken to them about it, and called their attention to the black mark they'll get for throwing away the rule book, but this hean't done much good.

Of course,

They continue to shoot and bomb civilians, romp around disguised in the other guy's uniform, conscript slave labor, take no prisoners or shoot, stab, bayonet and mutilate those they do take, starve citizens of occupied lands, shoot hostages and innocent people-in short, they behave terribly.

Dreadful as it is to contemplate, it begins to look as if the Axis fighters have deliberately adopted the policy that anything goes just so long as it is horrible, deadly, destructive and uncivilized. You know, the old end-justifies-the-means business

We mention this because it has been called to our attention by a reader that down in Miami Beach the Army Air Force is conducting a school for officers in which one of the subjects taught is rules of war-

A final examination is given on the subject and among the questions asked—to be answered "true or, false"-are:

A platoon commander orders his men in battle: "Go get 'em, men! Mow 'em down to the last man. Ask no quarter; give no quarter!" This order, the officers are told, violates the rules of warfare.

A belligerent forces a Red Cross plane to the ground, uses some of the sanitary supplies, and allows the pilot and plane to go free. This is authorized practice under the rules of war.

After a person has been repatriated he may enter his own army and again be used in military service.

The rules of warfare set forth c means for their emcacy among which are reprisal and the payment of damages. A spy, who, after rejoining the army to which he belongs, is subsequently recaptured by the enemy, is treated as a prisoner of war and incurs no responsibility for his previous acts of espionage.

And so on-my reader writesfor 20 questions.

The writing reader wants to know -and so do we what all of this has to do with war as war is being fought by the Axis today. What possible: good are rules of warfare when one set of contestants won't shide by them and makes it clear that he has no intention of doing so and that he considers them as something that went out with handlebar mustaches?

Can you imagine a United Nations soldier saving his skin by saying something like this to a Jap or Nazi:

"Look here, old fellow, you can't do this to me. Really, you can't. It is specifically prohibited by The Hague Convention of 1907 and the amendments adopted at Locarno in 1925. Now, behave yourself, or I'll have to report you for violating not only the letter but the spirit of the rules as well."

The hours the officers spend on such a subject as rules of warfare should be utilized for something useful, such as how to shoot a German in the back when he isn't looking, how to cut a Jap's throat from 10 paces without making a sound and how generally to outdirty-trick an enemy that has no decency or thought of fair play. The war has been going on quite while now, and there hasn't been one single instance of one of our foe being killed by a blow on the head with a rule book. The enemy we are fighting understands but one language, and it is spoken by a gum, not by a frock-coated Of course, we may have the Axis soldiers all wrong. They may be all sweetness and light, as Herr Goebbels says, but wouldn't you hate to face one with nothing but a copy of the Locarno agreements in your hands? Distributed by McNaught Syndicate. Inc.

With a War bond the price of admission, more than $1,822,675 worth of bonds were bought by Washingtonians who filled every one of the Capitol Theater's 3,434 seats for the victory world premiere of "The War Against Mrs. Hadley" last night.

The audience, which included cabinet members, congressional leaders and outstanding members of the armed forces, heard brief talks by Edward Arnold and Fay Bainter, co-stars of the picture, before the drama was unfolded on the screen.

Referring to the War bonds he has been helping to sell in personal appearances throughout the country as "bonds of freedom," Mr. Arnold said they proclaimed to the world that this country means to adhere to the Christian principles on which it was founded.

Pictures Transformation. Miss Bainter remarked on the transformation in the character of "Stella Hadley," the Washington socialite she plays in the MGM picture, from a woman who felt that fighting the war is a job for some one else to one who finally does her part on the home front.

Miss Bainter paid particular tribute to one Washington woman in the audience, Mrs. William Mason Wright, who has lived through four wars. She said Mrs. Wright lived in a frontier post as a bride, with her first son being born at the close of the Indian Wars. She had another son to care for when her husband was fighting in the Spanish-American War. Both her sons as well as her husband were in the World War. Now her husband is a retired major general, but her sons are on active duty.

The sons are Col. Mason Wright, fr., of the Army and Capt. Jeraud Wright of the Navy. Mrs. Wright's daughter is the wife of David Key of the State Department.

The premiere of "The War Against Mrs. Hadley" was arranged through the District War Savings Staff.

Civic Group Aid. Success of the premier was attributed to the co-operation of the District Bankers' Association, the Board of Trade, the Merchant and Manufacturers' Association and Washington civic organizations. The Bankers' Association reported bond sales of $1,430,950 in 51 banks which handled tickets. The Board of Trade sold another $292,325 through its special War Bonds Committee. Substantial sales were reported by

The price of admission ranged from a $25 bond purchase for a seat in the balcony to $1,000 and up for seats in the golden horseshoe. Regular popular-price performances of the picture begin today at the

Mr. Arnold and Miss Bainter were scheduled to leave for New York today and will take part in a salute to "Mrs. Hadley" on the Kate Smith CBS radio program tomorrow night. Mr. Arnold's appearance here climaxed a tour during which he was credited with more than $7,000,000 in bond sales.

British Plane Factory Uses Blind Men

Royal Air Force members who have made numerous raids against the enemy and are now engaged as instructors visited a British factory recently and were amazed to find that many employes were blind.

London reports the blind pass on various component parts of the aircraft. Each man had his own trained dog to lead him to and from his work, all of which is done by touch. The plant manager was enthusiastic about the success of the experiment. which he said proved that blind men could give most valuable help to the nation.

Cannibals Help Build Airfield For U.S. Forces

AN ADVANCED UNITED STATES ARMY AIRFIELD IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Aug. 18 (Delayed) .- Cannibals make good laborers for Uncle Sam, according to Capt. Martin Teem, United States infantry officer from Ellejay, Ga. He said cannibals, soldiers, sailors and marines all were working together in construction of a strategic airfield. "Needing labor," Capt. Teem said, "we sent a sergeant from Massachusetts infantrymen to an adjoining island to get labor recruits.

"When he got to the village the cannibals were just finishing a feast. The main dish was 10 women stolen from a neighboring tribe. It seems the rival tribe stole the wife of the chief, and this tribe retaliated by stealing the other chief's 10 wives. So the sergeant says.

"It was known these were cannibals but friendly to the whites. They only eat each other.

"The sergeant dickered, and they agreed to come over and help us for a certain period. They'd heard of the good treatment and good wages Americans gave other natives, and they were glad to try it.

"The cannibals wear only one piece of clothing, but the natives on our island are pretty well civilized and wear clothes, after a fashion."

Peru Plants Million Trees Along Pacific Coast

Peru has planted more than 1,000,000 trees in its program to provide its Pacific coast regions and placed burglary charges against with forests. The regions east of the Andes are as'famous for trees as the coast regions are for dearth of them. The western slope, however, will produce forests if given the slightest encouragement. The plan of the Lima government has for its goal not only timbered zones, but defense of the coastal valley lands from erosion during

Kaiser Builds Boat In 10 Days, Pledges Even More Speed

Liberty Ship Launching Cuts Two Weeks Off Previous Record

By the Associated Press. PORTLAND, Oreg., Sept. 24.-Ten days from keel-laying to launching. the 10,500-ton Liberty freighter Joseph N. Teal hit the water yesterday to rip an amazing 14 days from the previous speed record for shipbuilding.

Yet even greater speed was promised by Builder Henry J. Kaiser, who watched the vessel slide gracefully into the outfitting basin of his Oregon Shipbuilding Corp.

"Do you think you ever will build a ship in less than 10 days?" an interviewer asked Mr. Kaiser.

"Absolutely," he replied, adding: "Nothing is impossible." Once in the outfitting basin, workers poured aboard the Teal to begin another race for a record. The Teal was christened by Mrs. John Boettiger of Seattle, daughter the publisher of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Let's not have another October, 1918!

In the last war, October, 1918, was a black month for the United States.

Black not because of military defeats-but because thousands of people, both soldiers and civilians, lay sick and dying from a "Flu" epidemic that killed more Americans than the enemy ever did.

And one of the causes for the rapid spread of the disease was reported by authorities as "transmission through eating and drinking utensils."

The same wartime conditions—the big army camps, the

British Planes Attack Several Localities On Coast of Sicily

Town Machine-Gunned, Highway Bombed During Raid, Italians Report

By the Associated Press. ROME (From Italian Broadcasts), Sept. 24.—The Italian communique acknowledged today that British air raiders had attacked several localities on the south coast of Sicily, machinegunning the town of Trapani and the nearby island of Colombaia and bombing the highway between Gela and Licata.

One of the British raiders was reported shot down by anti-aircraft fire over Porto Empedocle. The raids caused one fatality and nine other casualties, the bulletin said.

The Italians also reported that British torpedo-carrying planes had attacked an Axis convoy in the Mediterranean, but said two of the planes were destroyed by fire from escorting vessels, and the convoy continued its course.

(The Italian announcement failed to say whether any losses were inflicted on the convoy. The report of the attack, however, bore out a British communique from Cairo saying British torpedo planes had scored a direct hit on an Axis vessel off Greece.)

On the Egyptian front, the communique said, there was only minor artillery and patrol activity. .

Axis Vessel Bombed

Off Greece, Cairo Reports CAIRO, Sept. 24 (P).—British torpedo-carrying aircraft were credited officially today with scoring a direct hit on an Axis vessel off the coast of Greece in continuing attacks on Marshal Erwin Rommel's overseas supply line.

A communique announcing this success also reported a slight increase in enemy air activity over the Egyptian battlefront yesterday, but said the RAF came through the day without any losses.

Except for night patrol activity the land front remained quiet, the bulletin said. Large fires were set by big bomb-vote of 163 to 105 yesterday. The proposal was offered by Representative Brown, Democrat, of Georgia. It turned down a compromise somewhat like the Reed-Tydings proposal 174 to 128 on a teller vote. Final passage of the measure was by a vote of 284 to 96. This happened shortly after leaders had abruptly adjourned the Senate to forestall a showdown there until compromise efforts could be made.

Fate Rests With 19 Senators. Their chances of obtaining Senate approval of any compromise however, appeared to rest largely with 19 Senators who said they were undecided yet on how to vote.

This group included 12 Democrats and seven Republicans, many than ever was vital to the Nation. f them from farm States and some whom said they were inclined toward support of the amendment Administration lieutenants were said to feel, however, that if they could wean some of the farm bloc members away from the Thomas-Hatch proposal with the Reed-Tydings compromise, they could save the anti-inflation measure from an almost certain veto.

.The argument most frequently emphasized by proponents of a higher parity level was that the attractive wages offered by war plants was making it impossible for the farmer to retain his helpers without increasing their pay.

This problem already was being studied by the House Agriculture Committee, which yesterday heard Secretary Wickard warn of a possible food shortage unless some means were found to keep farm production up.

Thomas Favors Showdown. The contention of administration

spokesmen in the House debate was that higher parity prices would make it impossible to stabilize living costs at reasonable figures. Moreover, they argued that a higher parity would not help alleviate the farm labor situation.

The Office of Price Administration has estimated that as passed by the House the legislation would rease the cost of living by $3,-000,000,000 to $3,500,000,000 a year. Although Mr. Barkley and others apparently were pinning high hopes on the Reed-Tydings amendment, Senator Wagner, one of the authors of the anti-inflation measure, said Wolcott, Republican, of Michigan, he feared it would not satisfy the farm bloc members.

amendment and indicated he would would give Mr. Roosevelt unnecesing the day.
"All I am trying to do is to get the parity formula on farm costs to include labor," Senator Thomas said. "I want it in the law, to establish the principle, even if nothing much actually is done about it." Senator Thomas said his amendment might not do much to obtain labor for the farm, but it would encourage the farmer. to work earlier and longer, day and night, to-do the work of the boys who have gone into the Army and the hired help who have gone into war industries." "It would give them a little more money to pay wages," he said.

"But if the farmers are turned down, then I am fearful of the result. I am afraid a lot of farmers will say, Everybody else is getting a lot of money and I can't get my cost.' I am afraid the farmer will net try to get labor if he can't pay

"I think I am doing something for the national interest when it Melps the farmer to keep his morale

Senator Bankhead, Democrat, of Alabama, a farm bloc leader, said enemies that there should be any e was still for the Thomas-Hatch mendment, but added: "I wouldn't say that I would not make any compromise."

"In my judgment," Senator Bankhead said, "these little increases of percentage in the parity calcula-tions will be totally insignificant next year. "The big problem then will be the rationing of food, because the farmers will be unprepared to produce enough food." Unacceptable to President.

When he asked for the legislation in question, Mr. Roosevelt told Congress that in his opinion he had sufficient authority under his wartime powers to take any necessary action. At that time he said that if the legislation were not enacted by October 1, he himself would act independently to avert a threatened inflation.

The House farm bloc took control of the situation at the outset, however, and voted its higher-parity formula into the bill with ease. Throughout the debate, spokesmen for the farm bloc repeatedly argued that the high wages paid in the war industries was making it impossible for the farmers to retain their labor without paying increased against the assault and supply colwages. Agriculture Department economists estimated today that the parity price formula proposed in the House version of the anti-inflation legislation would increase present parity prices approximately 12 per cent. total of the year was reported today by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. For 23 leading cities transactions in the week ended September 2 totaled $8,150,989,000 or 28.2 per cent over the aggregate for the comparable week of 1941. There was a rise of 82 per cent from the week ended September 16. New York reported the highest figure since the week of March at $4,314,950,000, an increase of 32.6 per cent over a year ago.

The sharp expansion was credited by the mercantile agency to enormous check clearances incidental to the quarterly tax payment period. Substantial advances over figures of a year ago included Portland Oreg., 47.2 per cent; Kansas City, 43.8 per cent; Pittsburgh, 38.4 per cent; San Francisco, 35 per cent;

Stocks Continue to Lead Advance

Market Rise Extended Fractions to More Than a Point

By VICTOR EUBANK, Associated Press Pinancie! Wester NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Stocks, led by rails and industrials, today added fractions to more than a point to yesterday's rally, with volume reaching the second best level of

Sharpening the buying appetite was the heightened inflation threat resulting from the apparent refusal of Congress to enact the administration's wage-price controls, a revival of dividend expectations for many companies long in the nonpaying class, and more favorable news from the Stalingrad battle

The War Production Board has eased its priority regulations to help assure iron and steel producers adequate maintenance, repair and operating supplies during the fourth quarter of the year.

WPB told the iron and steel producers yesterday they could accept these supplies in excess of amounts already authorized in order to maintain maximum production.

It was made clear that the authorization was on a trial basis. In a telegram to the producers Ernest C. Kanzler, WPB's directo general for operations, said WP ecognized the fact that steel mill production must be maintained at the highest level and in order do this materials for upkeep must be made available.

Soldiers Pay $2,800 Monthly to Sleep and Study in Warehouse

Sum Goes to F. M. Ney, Who Took Risk to Install Improvements

A two-story brick warehouse at 4100 Georgia avenue N.W. has been converted into barracks for 140 soldiers in the Army Signal Corps attending classes at the Capitol Radio Engineering Institute, while the Government negotiates for taking over an apartment house large enough to accommodate all the Army students at the school.

Each man housed in the 18-yearold warehouse pays $20 a month for the privilege of sleeping and studying there out of his $82.50 monthly subsistence allowance, according to Capt. H. R. Clapp, jr., officer in charge of the men.

"Of course, it's not the best place in the city," the officer said today, but we were anxious to house the men as close to the school as possible. This place was offered us and after certain agreements, it was accepted.'

Meanwhile, negotiations are under way for the Government to take over an apartment house large enough to house all the men attending the school. The total enrollment of soldiers at the school is restricted information, Capt. Clapp said. A large number are being housed in private homes in the vicinity of the school.

The $2,800 which the men housed in the warehouse pay each month goes to Ferdinand M. Ney, a wholesale liquor dealer, who has leased the property from the Hanson-Owen by having them pay $20 a month Co., Inc. Mr. Ney pays this concern

Similarly, the movies could do a better job with others. He blotted out the whole field of fiction, since it was already handled adequately by standard and reprint publishers. These are days when you make room for a few more in your car; and you move back in the bus to let a neighbor get on.

These are days when you conserve in little ways-just as quickly as you used to conserve in big ways.

Thanks a lot for the grand reception you've given the new Arrow Beer Victory Quart. It's the fastest selling quart of beer in these parts!

But thanks a lot more for helping us conserve on precious metal and on gas-and rubber-wasting delivery trips.

The Arrow Beer Victory Quart makes one beer cap do the work of three. And this modern package-especially appropriate for home use-means you can have as much Arrow Beer as ever -without hurt to the war-effort.

But whether you buy Arrow Beer in the popular new Victory Quart or the regular size bottle-Arrow Beer's quality stays on the same high level as ever. We haven't been able to keep up with the demand-and we're not going to try. We're just not going to hurry the brewing of Arrow Beer. There's only one way to brew Arrow Beer, and that is to stick to our policy of one standard, the highest-one quality, the best, one beer, the finest. Money can't buy a finer beer than Arrow. War Fund Drive Will Aid Many Agencies Here

Leaders Discuss Scope of Campaign For $4,141,000

Instead of contributing to 23 different campaigns at different times of the year, 450,000 potential contributors will be called on at one time for one great campaign of the Community War Fund in the Metropolitan Area, Floyd Akers, campaign chairman of the fund, stressed

Mr. Akers addressed the 130 members of the general committee of the war fund at a meeting in the Chinese room at the Mayflower. He explained the five major divisions into which the hoped for $4,141,000 will be divided for use in 1943.

Almost 61 per cent of the fund will go to the Community Chest and other local welfare agencies, 14 per cent to the local and national USO, 8.6 per cent to the home front agencies, 9.7 per cent to foreign war relief agencies and 6.04 per cent as a contingency fund—for emergency demands that come up during the year and are considered worth while.

Film Shows Scope of Aid. Edwin C. Graham, general chairman of the war fund, presided and outlined the tremendous growth in the scope of the movement since it was first inaugurated by a nucleus of community leaders last spring.

The Community War Fund film,
"The Light Behind the Blackout," was given a public showing for the first time, with an introduction by Herbert L. Willett, jr., executive director of the war fund. The 14minute film with sound effects gives spot shots of wartime Washington before the air-raid siren blacks out the city lights. Then a kaleidoscopic view of the various social and charitable agencies supported by the fund

In quick flashes the audience was taken from the Hebrew Home for the Aged to the happy pre-school youngsters at the Friendship House nursery school; to the YWCA; to a sick room brightened by the visiting nurse; to the bustling Travelers' Aid stand at Union Station where the narrator says trains pull in every five minutes with more war workers for the Government; to the boys' clubs: to a cheerful dance of servicemen and finally to the somber scene of desolate civilians in war-ridden

War Fair Plans Pushed.

All these and many other efforts are among the 120 agencies served by the Community War Fund, the narrator of the film concludes. Col. William P. MacCracken of the War Fair Committee reported that plans are going ahead for the War clusive, at the Uline Arena. M. J. Uline, whose co-operation has made the use of the arena possible, was introduced.

Fair to be held October 22-30, in-

No admission or tickets will be required for the fair, which will combine exhibits of the various agencies that are beneficiaries of the fund, with hospital demonstrations, a stage and variety show with celebrites participating and other features designed to show the aims of the fund.

Col. MacCracken stressed that the fair will show clearly to the 200,000 Washingtonians expected to attend that their 1943 contributions to the fund will be used for national war relief agencies, foreign and domestic, as well as for all community welfare funds. Tells of Contributions.

Mr. Akers told of contributions that have already come in ranging from $2 sent by a former Washington newspaper carrier now in a Boston hospital to $2,200 from Am-bassador Joseph C. Grew, who colfected the sum from passengers on the Gripsholm carrying evacuees from the Far East war area.

The campaign chairman said that each of Washington's 310,000 Government workers will be expected to give $6.38 and that those persons in the more than 1,100 corporations and offices where more than 14 persons are employed will be asked to give approximately $11.68 each. He reported that Washington is 23d from the top in Community Chest activities out of 24 cities in the United

Instead of contributing to 23 different campaigns at different times of the year, 450,000 potential contributors will be called on at one time for one great campaign of the Community War Fund in the Metropolitan Area, Floyd Akers, campaign chairman of the fund, stressed yesterday. Mr. Akers addressed the 130 members of the general committee of the war fund at a meeting in the Chinese room at the Mayflower. He explained the five major divisions into which the hoped for $4,141,000 will be divided for use in 1943.

Almost 61 per cent of the fund will go to the Community Chest and other local welfare agencies, 14 per cent to the local and national USO, 8.6 per cent to the home front agencies, 9.7 per cent to foreign war relief agencies and 6.04 per cent as a contingency fund—for emergency demands that come up during the year and are considered worth while.

Film Shows Scope of Aid. Edwin C. Graham, general chairman of the war fund, presided and outlined the tremendous growth in the scope of the movement since it was first inaugurated by a nucleus of community leaders last spring.

The Community War Fund film,
"The Light Behind the Blackout," was given a public showing for the first time, with an introduction by Herbert L. Willett, jr., executive di-rector of the war fund. The 14minute film with sound effects gives spot shots of wartime Washington before the air-raid siren blacks out the city lights. Then a kaleidoscopic view of the various social and charitable agencies supported by the fund

In quick flashes the audience was taken from the Hebrew Home for the Aged to the happy pre-school youngsters at the Friendship House nursery school; to the YWCA; to a sick room brightened by the visiting nurse; to the bustling Travelers' Aid stand at Union Station where the narrator says trains pull in every five minutes with more war workers for the Government; to the boys' clubs; to a cheerful dance of servicemen and finally to the somber scene by the Community War Fund, the Col. William P. MacCracken of the War Fair Committee reported that plans are going ahead for the War Fair to be held October 22-30, inclusive, at the Uline Arena, M. J. Uline, whose co-operation has made the use of the arena possible, was introduced. No admission or tickets will be required for the fair, which will combine exhibits of the various agencies that are beneficiaries of the fund, with hospital demonstrations, a stage and variety show with celebrites participating and other features designed to show the aims

Col. MacCracken stressed that the fair will show clearly to the 200,000 Washingtonians expected to attend that their 1943 contributions to the fund will be used for national war relief agencies, foreign and domestic, as well as for all community welfare funds.

COLLEGE FURNISHINGS GO ON BLOCK-Hundreds of rare and antique items collected over a 48-year period were auctioned off at National Park College at Forest Glen, Md., yesterday as officials prepared to turn the institution over to the Federal Government for use as an Army hospital. In this photo Miss Irene Baker examines a French mantel clock and a Chinese foot warmer, some of the curiosities included.

Dozens of statues which once adorned the campus and principal buildings of the fashionable girls' school are among items which will be offered for sale as the auction goes into its second day today. Mrs. Beverly T. Avent here looks over one of them. Many valuable paintings also are on the list.

Miss Becky Roess, one of the more than 500 persons who attended yesterday's auction, poses with an elaborately carved, two-fold floor screen. Carvings are of ivory and represent both flower andebird life. A majority of the items on sale were collected by the first college president, Dr. John A. Cassidy, many of them from abroad.

Approximately 300 office workers at the new Army airport in the ington, Baltimore and Richmond Camp Springs-Meadows (Md.) area today were moving into their new office building, which was completed their three-day strike in Baltimore yesterday—exactly one week after construction began.

The building, which is a one-floor, barracks-like structure, is located on the Camp Springs road about 11/2 miles from Meadows.

An infirmary to treat workers on the project also has been built, while foundations are being laid for a cafeteria, which will provide lunches for up to 3,000 laborers, and a machine repair shop. Construction of an employment office is expected to be completed today, according to Lt. Col. Eben Longfellow, in charge of construction. Col. Longfellow said that as the work gets into full swing approximately 5,000 workmen will labor in two shifts of 10 hours each. An area 6,000 feet long and 400 feet wide already has been cleared all high school students. The course and bulldozers are now leveling the ground, Col. Longfellow said.

Hilland Fires First Blast in Behalf of Candidates

Montgomery County's Republican campaign for the November elec-tions will get into full swing Saturday when campaign headquarters are reopened at 7240 Wisconsin avenue in Bethesda, it was announced yesterday.

In the meantime, Hilland of Bethesda, who was elected chairman of the Republican State Central Committee for Montgomery County at a meeting of the new committee Tuesday night, wasted no time in firing his first blast for the election of Republican officials at the polls on November 3. Mr. Hilland yesterday issued a statement in which he described the achievements of GOP candidates and expressed his confidence that his party would be victorious in the State elections. The new Republican county chairman praised the GOP candidate for Governor, Theodore Roosevelt Mc-Keldin of Baltimore, as "an inspiration to all of us who know him. He also recounted the tax record of Gov. O'Conor of Maryland and pointed out that income taxes had risen considerably since Gov. O'Conor first took office.

Points to Tax Rises.

"When he took office," Mr. Hilland declared, "the tax on both earned and unearned income was ½ of 1 per cent. He increased the tax on earned income to 21/2 per cent-and increase of 400 per cent. He increased the tax on unearned income to 6 per cent-an increase of 1.100 per cent. He made the Maryland income tax one of the most oppres-sive of any State in the Union." The tax on earned incomes has been reduced to 2 per cent, Mr. Hilland conceded, and the tax on unearned income to 5 per cent; but both taxes are still higher than they were before Gov. O'Conor took office. "The Republican platform," he added, "promises immediate reduc-tions of 50 per cent in the Maryland taxes on earned and unearned in-comes and pledges a 100 per cent reduction after the war."

Mr. Hilland also urged the election of J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg, in the 6th Maryland district.

Pledges War Effort Support. "Mr. Beall believes that the winning of the war is the principal issue of the campaign. He has pledged his full support to the President in the war effort. He has promised to exert his influence to curb improvidence and extravagance in the various alphabetical agencies in Washington not conected with the war effort." Mr. Hilland recalled the efforts of E. Brooke Lee, Democratic candidate for the congressional seat, to obtain passage of the jai-alai gambling bill in the Maryland Legislature. This bill to legalize the game was withdrawn after civic organizations protested its passage.

The new county chairman also reminded the voters that it was Lt. Col. Lee who introduced the bill which placed the wholesale beer business in the hands of Montgomery County. Mr. Hilland said he was convinced that the voters of the county were not sympathetic with this action because "they did not want to steal their neighbors' business" nor did they want "to go into the beer business." He also pointed out that "the people of Montgomery County do not favor State socialism."

Gas Ration Book Holders Warned in Fairfax

FAIRFAX, Va., Sept. 24.—Fairfax County holders of supplemental gasoline ration books which expire October 22 should notify the County Ration Board at once of any change in work status, Mrs. Mollie Cleveland, executive secretary of the board, announced today.

Supplementary ration books will be mailed out by the board to all present holders by the deadline, Mrs. Cleveland said, if no change in status is recorded, and it will not be necessary for the applicant to appear in person at the board office. If any change has been made it will be necessary to supply all information in detail before the board can issue a new book. The information may be mailed to the board. This regulation does not apply to holders of S books, which do not expire until November.

British Urge French To Quit Coast Before Invasion Is Launched

Offensive to Begin When Attainment of Goal Is Certain, Radio Says

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Declaring the United Nations are preparing for an offensive against Germany which will be launched without warning, the British radio appealed anew to the French people last night to co-operate by evacuating French coastal areas.

"In the course of our military operations," the message said, "it was necessary, and today it is more necessary than ever, to envisage the possibility of landings by British and Allied troops on French soil, of operations by our navy in French territorial waters and attacks by the RAF on military objectives in Occupied France.

"An offensive of the United Nations is being prepared. On the day when we can be assured of attaining our goal—which is nothing less than the annihilation of Hitlerite Germany-this offensive will be launched.

Colombian Ambassador Entertained Yesterday

Other Farewell Parties Being Planned For the Retiring Diplomat Next Week

Diplomats took leading roles in the social news yesterday with the Belgian Ambassador and Countess van der Straten-Ponthoz being among the hosts. They had guests lunching informally with them in the Embassy on Massachusetts avenue. More formal was the luncheon which the Governing Board of the Pan-American Union gave in honor of the retiring Colombian Ambassador, Senor Dr. Gabriel Turbay. The Ambassador will leave Tuesday to return to Colombia, where he will assume his new duties as Minister of Foreign Affairs. No successor will be appointed until after he takes over his new post.

The popular Ambassador has been entertained at a series of parties given by his many friends at this Capital and Monday the Undersecretary of State, Mr. Sumner Welles, will be host at luncheon at the Mayflower as a farewell fete. The members &-

Miss Grunwell Is Recent Bride Of Ensign Davis

Large Reception Is Held on Lawn In Arlington

St. Mary's Episcopal Church was the scene of the marriage of Miss Eleanor Louise Grunwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Grunwell of Bellevue in Arlington, to Ensign Frank Elwood Davis, son of Mr. Leonard Davis and the late Mrs. Davis. Officiating clergymen at the ceremony, which took place Saturday, were the Rev. Payton R. Williams and the Rev. George Tittman. Mrs. Joseph Kelley and Mr. John Murphy were the soloists. The church was decorated with white flowers, palms, ferns and lighted candles for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a brocaded white satin gown made with a shirred bodice with a sweetheart neckline and a train. A three-quarter-length veil was held by a Mary Queen of Scots cap and the bride carried her grandmother's lace handkerchief. Her flowers were white roses and

Other attendants for the bride were Mrs. John J. Rooney, jr., and Mrs. John R. Grunwell, jr., who wore rose taffeta gowns matching that of the maid of honor and carried bouquets of gold and rose dahlias and bronze chrysanthemums, and Mrs. Edward H. Jones and Miss Martha Wills Schoenfeld whose blue gowns also were matching. The flowers carried by Mrs. Jones and Miss Schoenfeld were rose dahlias and blue delphinium. Ensign Robert Fleming was the best man for Ensign Davis. The ushers were Mr. Halford Davis, Mr. Gardner Franklin, Mr. Lawson Cox and Mr. Alfred B. Grunwell. Following the ceremony a reception for about 300 guests was held on the lawn of the Grunwell summer residence in Arlington. Mrs. Davis is a graduate of Wilson Teachers' College and did graduate work at George Washington University. The bridegroom is a senior in the George Washington University Law School and is a member of Kappa Alpha Order and the Gate and Key honorary fraternity.

By the Way-

Gertrude Stein says that the way everything is remembered is by writers and painters of the period; that no one really lives who has not been well written about or painted. Sculptor Jo Davidson has been called a plastic historian for his accurate portrayal of important people of these our times. At a recent exhibit of paintings done by men in the service held at the Mellon Gallery here, one could have traced the events of this war as realistically and perhaps even more vividly from the painted figures than from the pages of a history book.

Artists all over and the people who are outstanding in it will live for posterity in art as well as in print.

One of the most promising of the younger portraitists is Miss Eleanor Martin who has come to Washington and taken a studio here. Ever since Pearl Harbor she's been concentrating on painting men in uniform. She has done some excellent ones too -which we understand are to appear shortly in a well-known magazine. Her likenesses are striking and she is meeting with the same success here in the new field of war art that she enjoyed in a rather different type of painting in Honolulu and Cuba before the war.

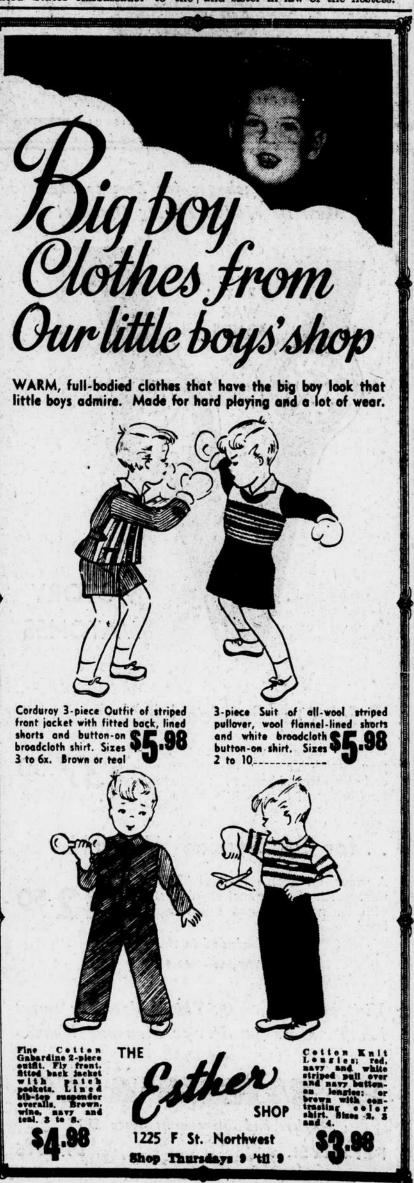

One of the most admired of her men-in-uniform portraits is that of Lt. Comdr. Eugene Carusi. The one she did of Capt. William Heard, U. S. N., is excellent too, and so are the ones of Capt. Blaise de Sibour and Lt. Kenneth Jenkins, as well as those of Maj. Roderick Tower, Lt. Angier B. Duke and Lt. Gordon King. Just now Miss Martin is in the midst of doing one of a pretty young WAAF, the bride of Lt. Col. Ronald Bramwell-Davis -and herself a lieutenant in the WAAFS.

Plans Pushed For Girl Scout Victory Fund

Committee Outlines Plans for Campaign To Buy War Stamps

Plans for a Victory Fund cam-paign to be launched next month by the District Girl Scouts were outlined yesterday by Mrs. O'Neal Johnson, chairman of the Program Committee, at the committee's first meeting of the fall at Scout headquarters.

With more than 700,000 Girl Scouts in the country, it is estimated that the Victory Fund will reach $500,000 by Thanksgiving. The fund will be made up of War savings stamps purchased by individual Girl Scouts and by adults in Girl Scouting, who, in turn, will forward the stamps to a central Victory Fund committee at Girl Scout national headquarters. The Central Committee will convert the stamps into War bonds and will hold them in trust until world conditions permit their use to help children who have suffered from the war.

Argentina Reported Denied Free Use of San Francisco Port

Plan to Establish Service To West Coast Expected To Be Abandoned

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 24.-A government source said last night that reports received here indicated that Vice Admiral Francisco Stewart had been unable to persuade officials in Washington to permit a majority of the vessels of the Argentine state merchant fleet to dock at Ban Francisco.

As a result, the source said. Argentina probably will abandon plans to establish service to the Pacific Coast of the United States via the Magellan Straits.

Argentina already has forbidden her ships to visit the United States East Coast, bowing to a Nazi block-

Ship on Trial Run.

The liner Rio de la Plata sailed recently for San Francisco with calls scheduled at various ports on the West Coast of South America, but this was emphasized as a mere trial run. The ship carried only 19 passengers although it can accommodate 100.

A Foreign Office official said the Japanese Embassy had "sought information about" the proposed Pacific coastwise service, but he refused to say whether the information had been made available, and the Japanese did not say why they wanted to know.

Sources here said Argentina had sought to use San Francisco as a terminal point for most of the ships rather than calling at New Orleans. because maritime traffic to the gulf port was unusually heavy.

"Strategic Military Port." They understood United States officials had informed Admiral Stewart that San Francisco was a "strategic military port" unable to accommodate foreign ships. Fleet headquarters here was informed Admiral Stewart is expected to return from Washington within a few days. Last June 15 Germany announced a Nazi blockade zone of the Eastern United States, effective June 26. Gulf of Mexico ports were not included. Argentina recognized the blockade July 7 by ordering her merchant ships to avoid the blockade

It's common sense to be thrifty. War bonds help you to save and help to save America.

If at such times you suffer from cramps, backache, distress of "irregularities", periods of the blues—due to functional monthly disturbances.

disturbances—
Start at once—try Lydis E. Pinkham's Compound TABLETS (with added iron). They not only help relieve monthly pain but also accompanying tired, nervous feelings of this nature. This is due to their soothing effect on one of woman's most important organs.

Taken regularly—Pinkham's Tablets help build up resistance against such symptoms. Also, their iron makes them a fine hematic tonic to help build up red blood. Follow label directions. Get today! SHOP TONITE TILL 9 P.M. . . . ALL REMNANT MERCHANDISE ON SALE FRIDAY ONLY AT 9:30 A.M.

Mrs. Roosevelt and Morgenthau to Speak From Treasury Steps

Final details are in readiness for the parade tomorrow that will mark the opening of a Nation-wide Schools at War program under the joint sponsorship of the War Savings Staff of the Treasury Department and the United States Office of Education, it was announced to-

Twenty colorful units from public and parochial schools of Washington, comprising more than 4,000 school children, will be included in the line of march. Each will have a minimum of 108 members, and each will represent a specific wartime activity now conducted in the schools.

To Hear Morgenthau. The parade will begin at Constitution avenue and Seventh street N.W. at 11:30 a.m. and will follow Constitution avenue to Fifteenth street and thence to the south Treasury steps Put Boston on Alert and to Sherman Park. There, under the direction of Orville S. Poland, master of ceremonies, will be held a program that will be highlighted by talks by Secretary Morgenthau and John W. Studebaker, commissioner of education.

An ariginal brick from Independsented Secretary Morgenthau by Mrs. Bruce Gould, co-editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, as a symbol

Mrs. Roosevelt, who will appear sounded at 10:10. on the south Treasury steps. Her topic will be "A Message to Children Everywhere."

Program to Be Broadcast. Still other speakers will be Dr. Homer Anderson, former superintendent of schools in St. Louis, and Mayor Bernard Samuel of Philadelphia The program at the Treasury will begin at 12:30 p.m. and will be broadcast nationally by the Mutual Broadcasting System. A platform will be erected for the speakers, and the steps will be decorated with flags of the Allies and pan-American nations.

Boise L. Bristor, school statistician, will serve as grand marshal during the parade. Music will be furnished by a chorus of 300 school children and by the Army Band.

The Schools at War program will be carried on in public, parochial and private schools of all States and Territories. It has been arranged to commemorate the establishment of the Bill of Rights as part of the American democracy.

Teacher, Fearing Disgrace, Ended Life, Police Say

DENVER, Sept. 24.-A school teacher killed herself here because she feared disgrace over a previous shooting in her home, Detective Sergt. Charles J. Burns said today The teacher, Miss Irene McGuckin 50, died Tuesday night.

Sergt. Burns gave this account of the events precipitating her death: Frank Swaisgood, 30, whom she was helping through the University of Wyoming, accused Dr. Curtis B. Hinton, Miss McGuckin's tenant, of chiseling on rent due her. Dr. Hinton shot Mr. Swaisgood in the hip and thigh. Miss McGuckin picked up the pistol, placed it in her mouth and

"I'm sure she did it because she felt the disgrace of a shooting in her home would be too much for her, a public school teacher, to bear, Sergt. Burns said.

Grabs Thief by Tail

Their experiments under the able guidance of Maj. Gen. Edmund B Gregory, the quartermaster general may have far-reaching effects on post-war clothing.

Russians Alone Balked. Prominent in the work of designing desert clothing, as well as various other paraphenalia essential to life in the hot, waste places of the earth. is Dr. Frederick R. Wulsin, Harvard University explorer and anthropologist, who has led several desert expeditions.

Much of this necessarily is kept secret because such a detail as the technique of obtaining drinking water in the desert might mean the difference between victory and defeat in a campaign. The basic principles of the bush shirt, however, have long been known to all the combatants. Throughout most of history, Dr. Wulsin explains, the shirt has been worn outside the pants by most peoples.

Only the Russians, among Europeans, consistently have refused to tuck it in and have been subjected to some ridicule because of what now appears to have been common sense. The dress of Europeans before the Middle Ages, Dr. Wulsin points out, was essentially an undershirt covered by a loose outer garment which might be compared either to the present shirt or to the coat. Such was the jerkin and the Roman tunic. They were garments designed for service and comfort.

Easily Adjusted to Heat.

Then, probably because of an effete fancy of the wealthy, folks began putting "decorations"-collars and cuffs-on their undershirts, worn next to the skin. This led in turn to a separate garment, with no known utilitarian purpose, to be worn under the jerkin. It was tucked into the pants. The outer garment itself was somewhat modified to become the present day coat. The models of bush shirts devised by Quartermaster Corps specialists look like coats. "But if we called them 'coats'", say Dr. Wulsin, somebody would be sure to have the bright idea of putting shirts under them and the idea would largely be defeated.

The great advantage of the bush shirt for desert warfare, he explains, is that it can be adjusted so easily to variations in temperature. It is fitted with an adjustable belt. When a soldier is cold he tightens the belt and the warmth of the garment is increased. When he is hot he loosens the belt and allows the air to circulate. This cools him off rapidly, as long as he keeps moving.

"Shorts" Not Official Garb.

The shirt is worn with loose pants with extremely large pockets to carry food, ammunition, etc. They can be either full-length or "shorts," and this, certain authorities believe, should be left to the commanding officers in the field. "Shorts" never have been officially approved by the United States Army. There are various objections to them. One is that the knees get skinned when soldiers are obliged to crawl on their stomachs. Another is that bare knees attract mosquitoes and are scratched badly when passing through brambles. There is no question but that they are cooler. Without trying to balance the score, many clothing designers say, some consideration must be given to the fact that British, French, Italians and Germans after experience in desert fighting have all adopted Exeremely Cold at Night.

Perhaps no area of warfare. Dr Wulsin says, requires such adjustable clothing as the desert. The idea that a desert, even close to the Equator, is constantly hot, he explains, is a complete fallacy. Almost anywhere it is likely to get extremely cold at night. Also a fallacy is the idea that deserts are wastes of sand. A map of North Africa, for example, shows no great expanse of sand near the region where British and Germans now are

This terrain is mostly broken rock. The rocks soak up heat during the day and give it off very rapidly as soon as the sun goes down. There is no thick blanket of water vapor to reflect it back again, such as one finds in temperate climates. It simply becomes diffused into space. A British officer recently returned from North Africa told Dr. Wulsin that he always needed two woolen blankets at night in summer and four or five in winter. A heavy overcoat was needed all winter.

The best way to root for victory is to dig deep into that pocketbook or purse and buy War savings stamps.

Clear Forecast of Meat Situation Is Difficult to Make; Produce Up

By Betsy Caswell, Women's News Editor

If there is anything really clear in the food picture these days it is that many things are scarce, for no particular reason, quality is poor, and prices high. Not very comforting, but, unfortunately, facts! The meat situation is, of course, most pitiable of all. And it is rendered all the more difficult by the fact that shortages are not necessarily general. There is no consistency upon which one may depend; as we mentioned last week, one set of stores will have no beef at all, while others will feature several cuts. One by one the items on the grocers' shelves that we have suggested as substitutes for scarce or rationed foods, are disappearing in their turn. Certain brands of canned goods have become practically non-existant, and only the higher-priced types remain to be purchased.

'Frizzled Beef' Excellent for

Brown It in Butter And Stir in Flour Before the Milk

We always called it "frizzled beef" at our house. This was the Pennsylvania Dutch version of creamed dried beef and it is the only way that this dish ever appears on our table and that is often. I do not know anything I would rather eat than creamed dried beef and pop-

While dried beef is not cheep by the pound, it has so much flavor that when combined with a cream gravy it goes a long way. The beef is not scalded in boiling water as some recipes direct. I cook the beef in butter until it is brown and frizzled and then stir in the flour and let this brown slightly before the milk is added and the whole stirred until it is thick and creamy. This method of cookery brings out the flavor of the beef for chopped meat, with a little onion added to the butter while the meat is being stirred and cooked until it has lost its red color. When this is served on toast it needs a little dressing-up to brighten its color, such as minced brighten its color, such as minced brankley. Both of these dishes are parsley. Delicious Swiss 'Fritatta'

Excellent Meal for Four People Evolved From the Leftovers

By the Victory Chef

Odd, how little suggestions or remarks will carry one back, far over the years, to something entirely unrelated. Here I was recalling a mountain village in the Swiss Italian, or rather the Italian Swiss, country. It was many years ago, but I could recognize, in memory, the appealing aroma of a "fritatta," cooking in a round dish, with four hungry souls waiting for it to be served.

What brought this to mind was a peek into the refrigerator of a housewife who didn't "have a thing in the house for dinner—not a thing. I telephoned hours ago, but I don't suppose they will do anything

"If you'll let me be a fourth for dinner," I said, "we can do wonderfully well with just what I see right here and what I know we can find around the kitchen." "It's a deal," the lady replied, and so we went to work. We started

Oysters Now Return To Menu in Cooked And Raw Form

It is always wonderful to have a new culinary experience, especially we added half a cupful of the to- in cellophane to conserve metal for when it takes place on the shores of Long Island, overlooking Great Peconic Bay. Although I have been to many a clambake, it was only last week that I attended my first oysterbake.

A trip around the bay on an oyster boat had made us hungry. The side dish, leaving just enough fat bags have been ordered by coffee glowing embers of the charcoal fire in the skillet to handle the eggs.

Now the four eggs were broken turers of the cellophane used. Every in the garden were waiting for our return to start the baking of some of the largest oysters which the beds in this bay supply. They were placed on the grating, and how they hissed as they cooked! They are very obliging and signal when they are ready to be taken from the fires, as the shells pop open with a bang. While we ate these, split lobsters, also from the bay, were broiled for us and served, of course, with a butter sauce. Melted butter was poured over the oysters when they were served on their half shells. With the lobsters there was native corn on the cob, boiled just a few minutes over the same fire. Hot rolls and plenty of coffee and water-

Publicity's One Thing Uncle Mike's Gonna Get

One thing Uncle Mike Jacobs won't have to worry about in one thing Uncle Mike Jacobs won't have to worry about in connection with the forthcoming heavyweight championship fight between Billy Conn and Joe Louis is publicity. He'll get it—and between Billy Conn and Joe Louis is publicity. He'll get it-and in a variety of ways.

His own, private corps of tub-thumpers will boom it up, of course, as they know they are supposed to do. There'll be a deal of the old hip, hip, hurray, but if Jacobs' drummer boys concoct a relationship between this fight and patriotism it will be purely

Some of the other publicity will be more unusual, and less savory The fight, as originally planned, was to have been for the Army Emergency Relief. Of a sudden Promoter Jacobs broke out a list of debts. In effect. he said, "Louis owes me $59,805.50. Louis also owes John Roxborough the the oldest baseball organization in sum of $41,148.03. Atop these debts, Conn owes me $34,500."

This is more than $135,000, and it's shaved off the top before a ticket -ringsides selling at $40 per copy—has been sold. That's a pretty big until this year. "nut" to hold up for cracking, especially for a spectacle between two soldiers that had been planned, in the beginning, to be for the benefit of the Army

In Which Col. Taylor Washes Some Hands

Entirely overlooked, apparently, was the highly publicized back- Yankees in the World Series opening income tax of more than $100,000, which Louis is supposed to owe Uncle next Wednesday, Sam. Naturally, Louis' debt is frozen for the duration. He's entitled to that freeze, wearing the uniform of The Beard. But while Uncle Sam gives the freeze, Uncle Mike gets his dough. And so does Roxborough, a gentleman whose "business activities" caused the Government to indict him and put him away for a period of time as penance,

"What gives?" is a natural question for the man-on-the-street patriot to ask. "Who's relief is this, anyway?" Not knowing for sure, the ques- hundred this year didn't mean a tion was put by this bewildered bystander to Col. John Thomas Taylor thing.

of the Army Press Relations. "Here's the way it is," Col. Taylor explained. "The War Department isn't promoting anything. As for Army Emergency Relief funds, we put as old Lefty Larry French marked our football and our boxing into the hands of promoters whom we think up one of the finest pitching perare the best in their respective fields. Naturally, we don't expect a 100 per cent turnover to the A. E. R. There are certain expenses to be met

"The football campaign was placed in the hands of a committee, southpaw from a no-hitter, but also headed by Grantland Rice. We had nothing to do with contracts, sched- from a perfect game. The laughing ules and things of that sort. Our boxing also was headed by Mr. Rice boy never walked a man, never let and his committee. The War Department has nothing to do with the any one get to first base except Etactual promotions."

Rice Sees 'Twister,' and Looks for Wreckage

As was suggested earlier, a layman is apt to become bewildered because Mr. Rice resigned as president, or chairman, of War Boxing be cause, when Promoter Jacobs presented his bill for $135,451.53 for "old debts," the forthright Mr. Rice had no clothespin handy to pin on his nose. "The deuce with this fight," Mr. Rice said, in effect. "I thought we were trying to go all-out for Army emergency relief."

With this walkout Mr. Rice sat down and wrote, in part, "In diting the coming heavyweight battle between Joe Louis and Buly Conn | Cardinals to clinch the pennant tofor the Army emergency relief, under promotion of Mike Jacobs. War Department is stepping into what we used to call a 'twister' in the South and the Dodgers lost to the Boston

"A twister is better known as a tornado, or a cyclone. It leaves a lot So that's the way it is, apparently. The buck was being tossed around like the football with the Chicago Bears in "T" formation. Rice decided it was all too swift and retired to a more familiar haven, the press box.

An Officer Says: 'I Hope It Doesn't Come Off'

A lot of smart sports people, including some in the armed forces, hope the fight doesn't come off at all. We talked with one the other day, a high officer. You'd recognize his name in a moment. Here's his view-

"The Louis-Conn fight undoubtedly is the foulest act in the history of sports. If it isn't called off it will be a black eye to all of the services. "Hundreds of thousands of men have been called into the service owing money. But they have no means of paying it back. Yet, here's a fellow (Louis), who's paying it back to a man not even in circulation (Roxborough), and to another man (Jacobs), who's so hard up that Conn, Nashville, Shreveport the challenger, must use his estate as a training camp."

A Solid Vote for a Guy Stepping Out

This is purely a guess, although based on conversations with competent service people, but the "benefit days" are about over. The Navy, Series Tomorrow for instance, wants no further parts of Relief Society affairs. The War Department, although Col. Taylor has stressed that there have been no "direct promotions." still has its AER setup. But the War Department's No. 1 boy, Grantland Rice, has quit the boxing end. He doesn't see why Louis and Conn, now soldiers in the Association for the fourth consecu-Army, should be paid $135,000 "for what was started as a 100 per cent Army Emergency Relief bout. "What about Bataan? What about Wake Island? What about the Solomons? What about the casualty lists?" asks Rice. "Joe Louis has had some tough financial breaks. So have millions of others. What about the others who have lost lives, arms, legs and eyes? Are we really at war, or not? How can any special soldier be singled out for consideration above all others? Why should the fact that Joe Louis and Billy Conn owe their managers and promoters $135,000 enter into the present picture of a world at war, in the most vital war in world history?"

That's Granny Rice's side of the argument and for the time being this bystander will cast a vote for the president who abdicated and who said cleaning it up, "the heck with it."

Cards' Speed Not Enough. Every one remembers that Owen muffed the ball and that Tommy Henrich reached first. But that still would have been forgotten Pa., and Seno's understudy, Joe quickly if Di Maggio, next up, had not slashed a single and Keller had not driven them both in with a terrific double off the right-field wall. That's an illustration why Di Maggio and Keller will have to be rated above any combination they might face. In the matter of speed afoot the Cardinal trio might hold a slight advantage, but not enough to matter. Both Keller and Di Maggio are much faster than is generally realized. The Cards, with young Harry

Walker and Coaker Triplett to call on, probably would be less weakened injury to one of their regular gardeners than would the Yankees. Walker, in particular, has looked good as replacement for Moore in recent games. The Yanks haven't much to fall back on in the veteran George Selkirk and Tuck Stainback. Comparison of the two left fielders offers a more ticklish problem if one is influenced by the figures.

they would rather face with two out and the winning run on second, that the answer would be an almost unanimous "Don't be silly!" Keller, like Di Maggio, has not had particularly good year. Yet both of them have knocked in over 100 runs—a feat not approached either runs—a feat not approached either by Musial or Moore. Keller has Zuber blasted 26 home runs to Musial's 10. Musial and Moore, while fitting perfectly into the Cardinals' hair-raising style of play, simply are not the power punchers that the two big Adkins 1 Yankees are.

One of the best samples of the havoc Di Maggio and Keller can create in a given situation was supplied in the famous fourth game of the '41 series—the one where Mickey Owen dropped what should have been the game-ending strike and four Yankee runs poured across to beat the Dodgers, 7-4.

Despite Forced Line-up Change Sanders, Subbing for Ailing Hopp, Shines In Club's 103d Win

Cards Hold Pace

By CHARLES DUNKLEY. Associated Press Sports Writer. ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 24 .- The

ennant-bound St. Louis Cardinals today are 24 hours closer to hitting the jackpot—the National League championship, their first since 1934. Even illness or a replacement in the line-up failed to check or stop these amazing Cardinals, who last night registered their 103d victory of the campaign to equal the New York Giants' mark of 1912. The league record, however, is held by the Chicago Cubs at 116 in 1906. Behind the superb two-hit pitching of Rookie Right-hander Johnny Beazley, a marvelous 23-year-old youngster, the Cardinals smothered the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 2, and were to tear into them again today, doggedly determined to triumph and sweep on to the championship.

Cards Need Two to Clinch. If the Cardinals win the next two of the remaining three games, they can't miss regardless of what Brooklyn does.

Billy Southworth, manager of the Red Birds, selected big Morton Cooper, ace right hander, to face Cincinnati. Cooper will be seeking his 22d victory and his 9th straight. He will be opposed by Ray Starr, with a record of 15 games won, 12

Beazley and Ray Sanders, a rookie first baseman, thrilled the top-coated crowd of 26,514 with their achievements last night. Southworth was forced to replace Johnny Hopp, ill with a cold, at first base and Sanders, a rookle first sacker, filled in for him with marvelous success. He smashed a triple to score two of the three runs regisfaultlessly.

Beazley chalked up his 20th victory of the campaign in checking Cincinnati with two hits. The Reds failed to get a runner past second base after the first inning, in which laying the game tomorrow night at they got off to a quick two-run

Not Bothering About Dedgers. Southworth clung to his decision of taking his opponents one at a time regardless of what Brooklyn does. "We're confident of making the grade," Southworth said, "but we're playing today's game today, and not thinking about tomorrow or what Brooklyn is doing. That's or what Brooklyn is doing. That's the way it's going to be." Terry Moore, laid up for 10 days with a pulled muscle in the calf of his left leg, may be able to resume his place in the line-up at center field when the Chicago Cubs play here Saturday. Martin Marion, slat-like shortstop, is playing with his left ankle thoroughly taped. He injured it several days ago and it has bothered him since.

Fullback Is Key Player Of Offense G. U. Is to Encounter in Start

Georgetown has received warning to concentrate much of its defensive tactics on 220-pound Fullback George Sutch tomorrow night when it stacks up against Temple at Phil-adelphia in the Hoyas' tough football opener. Overshadowed by the veratile Andy Tomasic in Andy's junior and senior years, Sutch showed last year he could rip an opposing line to shreds and this season is expected to blossom as a full-fledged triplethreater.

While freshmen are eligible to compete on Temple's varsity team this season, it is likely Coach Ray Morrison will string along with experience. Quarterback Al Drulis, Halfbacks Angelo Sparagna and Eddie Bilikiewicz and Guard Sid Beshunsku are key figures who also are veterans.

Other experienced men among the Owls include Don Serino, Johnny Sylvester and Joe Papiano, all of whom showed flashes of grid brilliance last season. Also at center Temple will have Jimmy Wood-6-foot-3-inch 215-pounder, who was regular center at the close of last season.

Temple, which won seven of nine games last year, including a 17-7 victory over Georgetown, has lost valuable men, though, in Tomasic, Ends Frank Moister and Cliff Seaver and Tackles Hank Zajkowski and Frank Kilroy.

Due chiefly to those losses, Coach Morrison will test two freshmen against the Hoyas tomorrow night. Indian Joe Nejman, a 195-pound back who starred at Frankford High in Philadelphia and later at Bordentown Military Academy, is regarded as Tomasic's successor.

Billy Glenn is a freshman end who has shown well, but it is doubted if either will start against Georgetown, though they're slated to see plenty of service in the con-

For Varied Defense In Opening Tilt

Connecticut to Employ Single and Double Wina In Attack Saturday

Couch Clark Shanghnessy of Mariand, who was completely in the dark until a day or two ago as to the type of attack he would have to face in playing the grid opener with Connecticut at College Park, has found out in some way that he will have to prepare a varied defense for the Nutmeggers.

Tutored by Shaughnessy's fellow alumni of the University of Minnesota-J. D. Mrs. Hadley is soon living in solitude, consumed by loneliness, the victim of her selfish purposes. Her regeneration begins when she is officially notified that her son has won the D. S. C. for bravery beyond the call of duty, and that his pal, killed paper enemy. She softens further when a telegram comes announcing the birth of a grandson to Patricia with her son-in-law's family. Soon she is immersed in war work, eventually Elliot Fulton returns with When something happened to the orange blossoms and a ring. Stella realizes the war is here for a while, and she must become part of it. Brilliant Fay Bainter.

Of course, all of this is propaganda to stir up war consciousness, but it's good propaganda. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer fitted it with a gives it the expert polish and emo-tional surge of a fine actress. She has many scenes alone, where the impact must come from within and be mirrored by expressions. Tales of Manhattan' will be the attraction following "Holiday Inn" at Loew's Palace. "Holiday Inn," the Bing Crosby-Fred Astaire musical with Irving Charles Laughton, Edward G. Rob-inson, Ethel Waters, "Rochester," Thomas Mitchell, Eugene Pallette.

The development of this plot is said to provide one of the most unique entertainments the screen has ever offered. The cast was directed by Julien Duvivier, noted French director, and produced by Borris Morros and S. P. Eagle. Some of the most famous writers in Hollywood prepared the special sequences of the production. Among them were Ben Hecht, Ferec Molnar, Donald Ogden Stewart, Samuel Hoffenstein, Alan Campbell, Lamar Trotti and L. Vadni. Original music was prepared by Sol Kaplan, Ralph Robin and Lee Ranger.

Staff Additions

At Jewish Center The Jewish Community Center recreational arts department announces two additions to its staff. assisting in the music classes.

The establishment of a teen-age dramatic group is an innovation, and will be closely linked with the modern dance class for production work. Dance classes, to be conducted by Mrs. Flora B. Atkin, will emphasize physical fitness. Registration for classes in dance, drama and music will be held September 28-30, from 3:45 to 5:45 p.m. at the Jewish Community Center. Classes will begin October 5.

'Orchestra Wives' Next at Capitol

"Orchestra Wives," Glenn Miller's econd picture, will be the attraction at Loew's Capitol following the world premiere week of "The War Against Mrs. Hadley." James Barton and Linda Ware will share honors on the stage.

George Montgomery, Ann Rutherford, Lynn Bari, Carole Landis, Cesar Romero, Virginia Gilmore and Mary Beth Hughes are among the featured players in this 20th Century-Fox production, which has more hit tunes by the composers of Miller's "Sun Valley Serenade" successes, Mack Gordon and Harry Warren.

A story of a girl who marries the trumpet in Glenn Miller's Band and becomes a "brass widow," this new production is said to tel lan intimate story of a band "on the road." Archie Mayo directed and William LeBaron produced the photoplay.

VFW Is Speeding Plans For Armistice Ball

The Armistice Day Ball Committee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet tomorrow at the Willard Hotel to plan for the annual ball on November 11. Proceeds will go toward the upkeep of the VFW National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich., which is maintained for widows and orphans of men who have seen foreign service. The home, which is caring for four children from the District, is sponsored by the VFW and the ladies' auxiliary. The organization also aids needy veterans and their families and contributes to comfort of patients in Government hospitals.

A Hidden Danger

When the opponents hold only five cards of a suit one usually holds three cards and the other holds two. A 4-1 split is not so uncommon, however, that the possibility should be overlooked. South saw this hidden danger in today's hand, and he also saw an ingenious way to circumvent it. West dealer.

the spade king, then took the ace | 9 and queen, noting with satisfaction that he had not encountered a bad trump split. Next he led a low club. West played low and dummy won with the jack. But when East dropped the 10 South had something to think about. If he just went ahead with club leads West would be able to win 16 two club tricks—assuming that East's club 10 had been a singleton. A switch in plans was indicated and a heart return from dummy was the first step. West won and returned a diamond, whereupon dummy cashed the top diamonds and returned the low diamond.

South didn't care who won the third diamond. If West won and returned a club, South could win the queen and lead a club toward dummy's king, thus losing only one club trick. If East won and could return a club (his 10 might have been a falsecard) the suit would split normally and only one club could be lost. And if anything but a club were returned South could discard a club while dummy ruffed; and then he need concede only one club trick. As it happened, East won and had to give South the ruff and sluff.

The rays are obnoxious fish. They cause a lot of trouble to waders. Their habit of burying themselves in the sand where they are unnoticed until you step on their tail with your bare foot, receiving a severe wound from one of their spines, sends you limping to the shore. Close to the base of the tail are one or several spines, barbed along the sides that may be as long as 12 inches. These make ragged, ugly wounds and may, if poisoning.

Sting rays also use their tails as a most effective weapon, striking a blow that may be fatal to some of

Then when within striking distance the ray darts suddenly over to the small fish or crustacean and smothers it with its great flat body. When the creature is dead or too numb to make any trouble, the ray rolls off and enjoys his "catch."

Sting rays are not edible. There are a few isolated records where mention has been made of some one experimenting with the idea but nothing really authentic has come to our notice. As far as their food habits are known they do not take an undue share of important food fishes. They seem to be a great bother to swimmers or waders as these fish are quite abundant in wise to take care to be on the lookout for them.

Bonds, Spirits Unit Of Justice Department Falls Under War Ax

Pre-Repeal Activities To Be Reallocated, Personnel Shifted

As a further move toward streamlining the non-war activities of the Justice Department, Attorney General Biddle announced today the abolition of the bond and spirits division, effective October 20. Liquidation of this division, which handles litigation and other matters arising under the National Prohibition Act prior to repeal, and associated revenue laws, will save the Government about $150,000 annually, Mr. Biddle said.

Activities of the division, which has a staff of 57 persons, including 30 lawyers, will be distributed among the criminal, tax and other divisions of the Justice Department. Many of its employes are expected to receive other assignments in the department.

Abolition of the division and transfer of its functions to other units results from months of study by department officials, in co-operation with the Bureau of the Budget. The move, Mr. Biddle explained, is designed to place the Justice Department further on a war footing. Previous steps included the transfer of the Bureau of War Risk Litigation to the claims division, and the establishment of a war division, to co-ordinate the wartime activities of Joseph Lawrence has been director of the division since its establishment. Mr. Lawrence said today that it will take some time to complete the reallocation of its activities, and that he is not yet ready to announce his new assignment.
