Ask Further Study After Conferring With President

(Earlier Story on Page A-1.) AFL President William Green and CIO President Philip Murray reported agreement with the White House today for further exploration of what might be done to solve the Nation's manpower problems without resort to compulsory regimentation.

The organized labor leaders told reporters as they left the White House after conferring with President Roosevelt that they had reiterated their united opposition to any compulsory mobilization of manpower for the time being at least. "We agreed," Mr. Green said, "that we should explore the situation fully and completely to find the exception of certain costs, and at hard labor for five years. out just what is the best policy to pursue and the best action to be taken without resort to regimenta-

Pressure Shifted To Nalchik Area; Stalingrad Holds

By HENRY C. CASSIDY. Associated Press War Correspondent,

MOSCOW, Oct. 29 .- Soviet military dispatches said today the Germans were gaining ground with a large-scale offensive in a new sector of the Central Caucasus, attacking the deep Red Army defenses across the Nalchik Plateau with troops, tanks, artillery and planes.

This shift in invasion pressure southwestward from the Mozdok quarters announced today that area was noted as Stalingrad's garrison held on in the 66th day of siege against German attempts to capitalize on a 200-yard gain in bloody fighting yesterday.

The third Rumanian Alpine division was reported defeated in a battle for Caucasian foothills. The scene of this encounter was

U. S. May Shelve Plan to Draft War Manpower

Rising Opposition to 'Coercion' Expected to Halt Job Freezing

By JESSE O. IRVIN.

Faced with mounting opposition by management and labor to any coercive tactics, the administration was reported today to have decided to shelve compulsory proposals for mobilization of manpower to speed the war effort.

However, Paul V. McNutt, War Manpower Commission chairman, in an address before the Federal Advisory Council for employment security, reiterated his demands for national service legislation and declared further that federalization of the State unemployment compensation system was necessary to provide for an orderly labor market.

"We are now at the point where we will have to set up administrative machinery that will enable us to provide an orderly and effective labor market," Mr. McNutt declared. After declaring that "coercion cannot be minimized," Mr. McNutt said labor controls would soon be placed in effect in several industries.

He would not identify the industries.

Controls are now in effect in the non-ferrous metals and lumber industries in 12 Western States and in the dairy, livestock and poultry branches of agriculture. Opposition by labor leaders and the reported attitude of the War Manpower Commission's Management-Labor Policy Committee toward "freezing" of workers in their jobs or Government action transferring them from one field to another was said to have contributed to the decision to delay consideration of compulsory legislation which Mr. McNutt said was "imperative." McNutt at White House.

Mr. McNutt was a White House caller yesterday. He refused later to discuss the purpose of his mission. Congressional leaders, however, were said to have been informed that no White House recommendations for forced mobiliza-

Similar protests have been voiced by Presidents William Green of the AFL, and Philip Murray of the CIO. Senators Ask Probe Of Farm Price Control Program

Reed Says Henderson 'Sold' Roosevelt Policy To Force Wheat Down

Senator Reed, Republican, of Kansas charged Price Administrator Leon Henderson today with "selling" President Roosevelt a farm subsidy policy, without congressional authority, "to bring the price of wheat down."

Describing Mr. Henderson as a good actor who produces melodrama as rare and precious as any of the old 10-20-30 cent circuit," Senator Reed told the Senate he believed neither James F. Byrnes, economic stabilization director, nor Secretary of Agriculture Wickard wanted to include benefit payments in figuring the ceiling prices of farm products, as they had done.

"I think Mr. Henderson sold the President on it," Senator Reed said. "I feel sorry for those boys," he added, referring to Director Byrnes and Secretary Wickard.

Senator Reed charged that Messrs. Byrnes, Wickard and Henderson "are going to give subsidies to bring the price of wheat down," which he characterized as a "ridiculous, absured, silly, unfair and unreasonable

Senator Gillette, Democrat, o Iowa, joined Senator Reed in proposing an investigation by the Senate Investigating Committee of the administration of the Price Control Act.

The two Senators introduced a resolution calling on the committee to "make a full and complete, continuing study and investigation" of the maximum prices fixed on agricultural commodities, the payment of subsidies and the operations of the Commodity Credit Corp. in maintaining minimum or maximum prices on farm products.

The resolution was an outgrowth of an attack made by Senate Farm Bloc members on the action of the OPA and the Department of Agriculture in carrying out a directive by President Roosevelt to calculate Government benefit payments as a part of crop returns to farmers in fixing agricultural price ceilings.

Charges Ceilings Below Parity. Senator Gillette charged in a statement that farm price ceilings in some instances were being fixed By Roosevelt in some instances were being fixed at only 60 per cent of parity, whereas Congress had stipulated that they should not go below that point. Parity is a price level calculated to give farmers purchasing power equal to that of a past favorable period.

"The farming sections have been led to believe that price ceilings on commodities processed from farm products would be imposed under the express wording of the statute 'at a level which reflects to the producers of the raw materials a parity price for such materials." Senator Gillette declared, adding: "The administrative officials under direction of the President are imposing ceilings which allow prices for the raw materials in many instances running from 60 to 75 per This is true as to potatoes, wheat and many other

Candidacy of Socialist May Help Turn Victory to GOP

Mr. Lincoln is taking a preelection swing around the country. This is another in a series of articles on election prospects.

By GOULD LINCOLN,

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 29.-Four years ago the Republican candidate for governor, Raymond E. Baldwin, nosed out Democratic Gov. Cross by the narrow margin of 2,688 votes and became chief executive of the State for two years. Mr. Baldwin is running again—this time against Democratic Gov. Robert A. The Republicans believe he will win and the Democrats fear he can.

It looks like a close race, with only a few thousand votes dividing the candidates on election day. Republican estimates of victory run from 10,000 to 50,000. The Democrats, off the record, are saying that if they win at all it will probably not be by more than 10,000.

Not a little may depend on how the Socialist candidate for Governor, that earnest Scot, Jasper McLevy, Mayor of Bridgeport, makes out If he gets a big vote, so much the better for the G. O. P., the Republicans feel

In 1938 Mr. McLevy received an amazing number of votes-166,000 to 230,000 for Mr. Baldwin and 227,-000 for Mr. Cross. In 1940, the presidential year, Mr. McLevy was again running for Governor. His vote then was only 18,000. A good deal of his earlier vote was cast for President Roosevelt and apparently for the straight Democratic ticket, and some of it went to the Republicans.

Gov. Hurley was elected by 13,280 votes, riding on the President's coattails, and the President carried the State by 55,000. With no Roosevelt on the ticket this year, Gov. Hurley faces a very different situation. To Elect Six to House.

Connecticut, in addition to electnated B. J. Monkiewiez, who held this House seat as a result of the elections of 1938, but lost it in 1940. In this fight the winning candidate undoubtedly will be of the same party party as the successful candidate for Governor. In the 1st district, also, two old antagonists are fighting it out, Representative Kopplemann, Democrat, and former Representative William J. Mil : Republican. Mr. Miller won in 1938 and lost in 1940. It is a fairly close fight, and both sides are claiming victory. Hartford lies in this district, and Hartford is Democratic.

Representative Fitzgerald, Democratic incumbent in the 2d district, is running against John D. McWilliams, Republican. Even the Democrats admit that they have a tough fight in that district, and the probabilities favor Mr. McWilliams. The 3d district is expected to return Representative Shanley, Democrat, despite his opposition before Pearl Harbor to the President's foreign policy. New Haven, another Democratic stronghold, is in the 3d district.

Mrs. Luce Makes Headway. The flashy campaign, if there is one, is found in the fourth district, where Mrs. Claire Boothe Luce is carrying the Republican standard against the Democratic incumbent, Representative Downs.

Two things may help Mrs. Luce to win. One is the large commuter vote -those voters who live in the district and travel into New York City to their businesses each day. If this vote comes out in large numbers it will aid Mrs. Luce materially. The other thing is the fact that the McLevy Socialist ticket in her district is likely to cut down some of the Democratic vote. Mrs. Luce has covered the district actively. A good speaker, personable and dramatic, Mrs. Luce is making headway. Representative Talbot, Republican, who won the by-election in the fifth district, is a candidate to succeed himself. The Democrats have by no means given up hope of carrying this district, but the odds appear to be in favor of Mr. Talbot, since he was able to win there last January.

There was a very light vote in the by 3.612 votes. The vote next Tuesday, however, may be very light also. Indeed, that is the expectation. Generally speaking, a light vote will be of benefit to the Republicans, it is

Ordnance Man Redman said he had come up to watch the flight come in, and it was one of the few times that he had moved about the ship without his life belt, so when the order to abandon ship came he got a mattress, which he said is made of the same kopak contained in life belts.

"There was no disorder in getting off the ship." he related. "The men lined up and as their turn came slid down the lines which had been thrown over the ship's side. We had trouble getting away from the ship, due to the wind and the drift of the Wasp, but finally managed to paddle our way out of range of the carrier. "By this time the fire which had been spreading over the ship had

Ordnance Man Redman said he was picked up by a destroyer after about two and a half hours in the water, and when his rescue ship finally left the scene at about 7 o'clock that night the Wasp was still burning. "We gripe a lot in the Navy, and I was one of the worst ones," he said, "but when we saw the Wasp going up in smoke we got a pretty sad feling. It would have been too bad for any Jap who might have happened along at that time."

Surprised at some of the rumors which have reached him since he landed in the United States, Ordnance Man Redman said he heard once that the Wasp had been tied up somewhere and had been ordered "that it seemed the entire ship was not to move, and that the Japanese knew her exact position.

Principals to Report On Volunteers to Help Serve School Lunches

Ballou Asks That List Of Recruits Be Turned In Within 10 Days

Principals and supervising principals of District schools have been ordered to report to the Franklin School within 10 days the progress of recruiting of volunteer waitresses for Work Project Administration school lunches, it was learned today. Treasury Establishes Agency to Regulate Salaries Over $5,000

WLB Arranges to Use Wage-Hour Field Offices In Administration

The Treasury Department and the War Labor Board today announced establishment of agencies to control wages and salaries under the new regulations issued by the Govern-

Acting Secretary of the Treasury John L. Sullivan announced that the Bureau of Internal Revenue has set up a salary stabilization unit, which will regulate salaries of more than $5,000 a year and certain lower-paid professional and executive wages. The new unit will have regional offices throughout the United States and will be under supervision of a deputy commissioner of internal revenue. Veteran Treasury Department employes will be assigned to the new unit, which will have wide discretionary powers.

The WLB announced that it had arranged to use Wage-Hour Division field offices to help administer the new act. The WLB will control wages and salaries under $5,000 a year and it was said the control organization would be functioning within 10 or 15 days.

The primary function of the hun-dred-odd field offices of the Wage-Hour Division will be to answer specific questions of employers and employes as to the application of the executive order. The Wage-Hour offices, when fully staffed, will be able to tell an individual employer, for instance, whether an individual or blanket wage increase in his plant must be approved by the board to make it legal. Since some exceptions have been provided, it is expected many questions for specific interpretations will be asked.

Exemptions From Regulations. Exempted from the regulations, for example, are employers of eight or fewer workers, provided price ceilings would not be affected by any increases. Commissioners Order Longer Schedule for Street Lights

Will Burn Up to 15 Minutes of Dawn, Beginning Sunday

Beginning Sunday, street lights in the District will be turned on 15 minutes after sunset and remain lighted until 15 minutes before sunrise, under an order approved late yesterday by the Commissioners.

The present lighting schedule has a 45-minute difference between sun-set and sunup, and the change will mean an added cost to the District of about $7,200 a year, the city heads were advised. Walter E. Kern, District electrical engineer, said street lighting funds were sufficient to pay the increased cost .

The action of the Commissioners was based on complaints they had received against dark streets evenings and mornings, and their anticipated action was predicted in The Star earlier this week. In his report, Mr. Kern told the city heads:

"Complaints are being received from various sources that street lights are being extinguished mornings when it still is dark, under the present street lighting schedule, and this actually is the case. "The ideal time to light and extinguish public lamps is 15 minutes after sunset and 15 minutes before sunrise, respectively." One of the arguments for the hange was that there are many Government woman workers on the streets at times when lights now are unlighted.

Chicago Tribune Charges Suit to Dissolve A. P. Major Navy Losses Would Foster, Not Prevent, News Monopoly

ination as to rates, service, opera-

Cites Totalitarian States. "Since Tudor and Stuart times until this case no government of an English-speaking people has at-tempted to establish a privilege, patent or monopoly of the dissemination of news. The totalitarian states of today establish monopolies for the purpose of dominating the lives of their peoples by domination of monopolies thus established. The antitrust laws of the United States were designed to prevent monopoly, not to foster monopoly.

The answer challenged what it asserted was the Government's contention that "It is a prerogative to require news services to furnish news to any newspaper which applies, under the pretext that denial of such access constitutes restraint in trade in violation of the anti-trust laws." It was described by the defendants as "a subversion of the purposes and objects of the antitrust laws and contrary to the spirit and genius of a republican form of government.

The exclusiveness of the mutual return of local news by A. P. members to the A. P. is not an unreasonable restraint of trade or commerce nor does it tend toward moing to police, he was struck by a nopoly, the answer contended. It said this had been admitted by the United States at all times since the and foreign countries, and argued organization of the A. P. and by the formal opinion of the Attorney General in 1915.

Fears Loss of Competition. "The exclusiveness of news features, editorial comment and the like is the greatest single factor in making competition between papers, the answer said. "To forbid it is to destroy competition. The answer said the defendants rely upon the continued acquiescence of the Government in the conduct of the A. P. from 1900 to filing of the complaint, the written approval of the Department of Justice to the legality of the A. P. operations in 1915 and "the failure to taken action until this Nation has become preoccupied with winning the war and has relaxed its vigilance to preserve guaranteed individual liberties." It described the Government's suit as an effort to induce the judiciary to contsrue the anti-trust laws to place the press on the common level with commercial or business enterprises for the purpose of control that newspapers would be unable to and regulation.

Circulation Claims Cited. The rejection of Eleanor Medill Patterson's application, the answer said, did not restrain the Washington Times-Herald in the conduct of its business. The Washington Times-Herald, with U. P. and I. N. S., has built up the largest newspaper circulation in Washington and its owner, the answer said, claims that her newspaper is dominant in the field and that it has the most complete and best coverage of the news. The publishers of the Chicago Tribune said the newspaper's "preeminence" is due to the free play of the forces of competition and is neither "unwholesome" nor monopolistic, as charged by the Government. They added: "The defendants are advised to believe that it is not the province of the Government to determine wherether the newspaper situation in Chicago or elsewhere does not meet its views or the views of the current administration in charge of the Government in respect to the wholesomeness, but that the province of the Government is solely in respect to violation, if any,

P. in the same fashion that public utilities are controled and dominated by governmental authority. "The American press of today is superior to any press of the world; this pre-eminence is due, defendants believe, to the absence of governmental dominance and to the presence of the free forces of competition. Should the Government succeed in subjecting A. P. and other news agencies to governmental dominance, defendants believe that free competition between newspapers would be abolished, that competition between news agencies would be abolished and that the freedom and pre-eminence of the American press likewise would be abolished."

Other Services Discussed. The Government contended the American press was served by three news agencies—A. P., U. P. and I. N. S.—and that there was little likelihood any other organization comparable would undertake serving American newspapers with news gathered on a comprehensive basis.

The answer asserted there were many other news agencies in this that should they fail to serve their customers properly and economically the forces of free competition would give birth to other news

"There is no restraint whatsoever news agencies or any individual or group of individuals. It argued that access to the service of any particular news agency is not determinative of the success or failure of any individual paper. "Many newspapers having A. P. lone, or U. P. alone, or INS alone. have been very successful, and many more of these agencies have failed of success," it added. It cited the New York Daily News, New York Mirror, New York Journal, Baltimore Evening Sun as newspapers which developed large circulation before becoming A. P.

United Press and International News Service were in active competition with the A. P. It cited the claim of the U. P. to the "world's best coverage of the world's biggest news" and the INS contention that it has a better foreign news service than any other agency.

There is and can be no monopoly or restraint of trade in obtaining local news, the court was told, in answer to the Government contention that the exclusive return of local news by A. P. papers to the A. P. compelled competitors to employ more costly and less efficient and complete means of gathering domestic news.

The majority vote required for tain circumstances—four-fifths vote previously was required—is not a prohibitive condition on admission to membership, the answer said,

"A majority vote is the usual customary and lawful requirement for election to mutual co-operative organizations in this country; in fact, many such associations rightfully require a unanimous vote for admission of such members.'

"Fair Standard" for Admission. The requirement that an applicant make a money payment to the A. P. members competitive with him was designed, the answer said, "as recompense to an existing member for the decrease in value of his membership resulting from the taking away or dilution of the existing member's exclusive right to A. P. news service and to require the new member to pay, in part at least, for his participation in the fixed assets of the A. P. * *

"The A. P. news which members currently receive does not constitute full and commensurate returns for their contributionsassessments or return of local news: A substantial portion of such assessments is and always has been expended for the future betterment of A. P. service, patent improvements, employes' funds and other fixed assets."

The provision requiring an applicant to give up to an existing member in the field any exclusive upon the establishment of other right to news or news picture service was described by the answer as a fair standard for admission and not a barrier against admission.

The defendants expressed belief that it was passed "for the purpose of requiring a new applicant to relinquish his exclusive rights to news and news photo services in consideration of the relinquishnewspapers having access to one or ment by the existing member of his exclusive rights to A. P. service or of the dilution of the rights of several members, should there be several in the field.

> Threat of Prosecution Charged. Reviewing the genesis of the suit the answer said that the Government, in discussing with the A. P. its objections to its rules covering applications of new members early in 1942, "refused at all times to consider the permissibility of all standards other than (a) the applicant must be the sole owner of a newsand of the 'field,' and (c) assent in writing to its legal by-laws.

"The Government representatives," the answer continued, arbitrarily refused to discuss other standards of admission which A. P., even had it been a public utility, might lawfully have exacted:

"1. Contribution to capital assets of A. P. to which the applicant had not contributed but in which he snare.

"2. The permanency of the newspaper applicant.

Mr. Davis declared, in reply to question concerning the Navy's delay in anneuncing the loss of three cruisers off the Solomons, that he believed Japanese claims then were mainly "fishing expeditions" since the action occurred at night and the enemy "did not themselves know how much they had accomplished.

WPB Order Freezing Newsprint Production Believed Imminent

Present Levels to Apply Temporarily, but Cut Is Expected Later

The War Production Board is expected to freeze the production of newsprint and other paper within the next few days at present levels. A warning by E. W. Palmer, deputy chief of WPB's printing and publishing branch, that the freeze order "would not be the end of curtailment" indicated a cut in production might be undertaken later.

Paper sources in New York said they understood the order might be on the basis of holding production, with some exceptions, to the levels in bottling up the news which al- of the six months ending Septemways comes to them through their ber 30. Newsprint output in the United States and Canada during that period averaged approximately 330,000 tons a month, as compared with an average of 378,000 tons in the preceding six months Canada, which supplies 75 per cent of the newsprint used in this country, probably will join in any curtailment program. Papers Would Not Change.

Freezing of production at present evels apparently would make little change in the size, number or appearance of newspapers, magazines and other publications, but if actual curtailment is resorted to. Mr. Palmer said, it would be up to the publishers to make the best use of available supplies.

Meanwhile, a WPB official preof the Pearl Harbor attack was dicting the imminence of the "freeze administered by a man who has had He said it would show that Navy first-hand experience with news-

Welles Lauds Greeks For Will to Resist Axis Collaboration

Promises That Everything Possible Will Be Done To Speed Liberation

Undersecretary of State Sumner Velles, addressing a meeting in he Departmental Auditorium commorating the second anniversary Greek resistance to Italian agession, and President Roosevelt, a message to Ambassador Cimon Diamantopoulos of Greece read at the meeting, last night praised the Greek people for their refusal to collaborate with the Axis, implying a sharp rebuke to the Vichy gov-

The President's message, read to ne audience of 1,200 by Mr. Welles. balled more significant than Greece's initial reply to the Axis challenge "the fact that Greece has continued to fight with every means at its command."

"To those who prefer to compromise, to follow a course of expediency, to appease, or to count the cost, I say that Greece has set the example whic hevery one of us must follow until the despoilers of Freedom everywhere have been brought to their just doom," he Resistance Effective. Mr. Welles in his speech said that Greece "had no hesitations; no reservations about the right; no slightest thought of accepting an Axis-imposed 'collaboration.'

Describing the invasion of Greece Government Pay by Italian armies as an "act of shameless Axis treachery of a type which the world in recent years has often experienced," he credited the Greek people with having "shattered forever the hypnotic myth of Axis invincibility."

He pointed out that in five months Greece reduced "a boastful Axis partner to the status of a German vassal" and, with British assistance, "held the Nazi hordes at bay for precious weeks, making possible the changing decisively, and disastrously for Hitler, the timetable of Hitler's attack on Russia."

Important as were the direct military results of Greek resistance, Rittenhouse Hotel yesterday, the more important was the regeneration it brought in the morale of the freedom-loving peoples, Mr. Welles

"It showed us all," he remarked, "that honor and resolution and courage were neither impotent nor dead It proved again that those who value their liberty must be prepared to fight for its preserva-tion, no matter how great the odds."

Reporting that today the invaders are "stripping the land bare and leaving men, women and children to die of starvation in the fields and in the streets," Mr. Welles observed: "It is hard to resist when you are starving. And yet resistance within Greece goes on, resistance by the guerrilla leader in the mountains, by the saboteur behind the invaders lines, by the boatmen who put out at night from the darkened shores the fighting troops in North Africa." Assistance Hampered. He pledged that "we will leave nothing undone which will hasten otic" and reiterated recommendathe day of victory and liberation." He pointed out that "unhappily" the conditions of war now limit and hamper the extension of full as-patriots so that these may rejoin

sistance, declaring: "What we can do without helping our common enemies we are doing and will continue to do.' The Undersecretary promised that when victory has been won the Federal Workers, who recently took people of Greece will once more assume their proud and rightful the CIO. place in the family of nations and Greece will regain her territorial integrity and the achievement of County Taxpayers to Meet her legitimate aspirations for security in the world of the future."

tor Connally, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. announced he would resign then as predicted final victory over the cruel and barbaric forces and the resurrection and restoration of Greek freedom and institutions. The destiny that governs nations has already recorded it in the book of fate, he declared.

A. Michalopoulos, Greek Minister of Information, lauded his countrymen's deeds of valor and sacrifice He pointed out that in recent weeks Italians in Libya again have heard the battle cry of the Evzones, which "18 months ago struck chill fear into their hearts as they fled before our onslaught in Albania.

Cherish Democracy. The Greek people, Mr. Michalpoulos said, cherish the cause of democracy as dearly as do the people of America and are fighting because they do not intend to let any foreigner dictate the manner in which they are to live.

Calling attention to the fact that yesterday was also the 24th anniversary of the founding of the Czechoslovak Republic, he saluted the Czechs, who, he said, are "resisting the tyranny of the new order with heroism and tenacity."

Ambassador Diamantopoulos, final speaker of the evening, thanked President Roosevelt, Mr. Welles and Senator Connally for their tributes and declared the determination of the Greek people "to continue the fight until final victory is won."

Efficiency Is Hampered By Inadequate Living Standards, Group Says

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29 .-- The second constitutional convention of the CIO United Federal Workers of America was in adjournment reinforcement of the Near East and today after the 150 delegates had formulated demands for higher wages and improved living conditions for Government workers.

Ending a three-day session at the union voted a resolution urging immediate adoption of "the President's wage program"-which calls for time-and-one-half pay after 40 hours—and adding:

"The efficiency of thousands of Government workers is now hampered by inadequate living standards, since adequate wages won't buy good housing when there is none available, there must be effectuated low-cost housing programs for Federal employes. The necessity of longer hours of work and overcrowding in many centers creates problems which can be solved only by instituting health and recreation programs for Government workers and by making provision for hos facilities where necessary.

Another resolution demanded a 15 per cent pay raise in line with the "little steel" formula worked out by the War Labor Board.

The convention charged that promotion transfer and training programs in the Government are "chations for improved personnel machinery to obtain better use of manpower. Reputed discrimination against Negro workers was described as an important factor in the waste of personnel

Riva tossed restlessly on the hospital bed. "I'm going to die. I know it." Out in the hall, her parents were talking to the doctor. "We can't understand it. Our home was bombed. We were two months on a freighter getting here. She never seemed to mind anything . . . always laughing

Riva was sent to a place in the country. Even when the doctors had found out there was nothing physically wrong with her, they didn't want her to go back to the apartment her parents lived in. "When she sees you, she remembers too much," they said. A young woman showed Riva around that first day—the playhouse, the swings and slides and merry-go-round. Just looking at the merry-go-round circling made Riva shiver. "I'd never ride on that," she said. "You can't make me." She started to cry.

"Don't put out the light! Please!" Riva clutched the nurse's arm. "But the other children have to sleep." Riva lay rigid, waiting. She tried to keep her eyes wide but her lids were heavy. She slept. The nurse came running when she heard the screams. She took the sobbing child out into the hall. "They'll kill me. Bunny was asleep when they came and they killed her."

Riva rarely talked to the other children, never played with them till one day near Halloween. The art teacher asked her to draw a pumpkin. "Lookit the teeth in the pumpkin. She's making it smile! Gee, Riva, could you make us the skeleton, maybe?" Scissors and paste and a group of children around her. "First one on the merry-go-round," one of them yelled and they all darted away. All but Riva. The little boy who had watched, wide-eyed, as Riva's pencil drew the jack o' lantern, turned back. "C'mon, Riva." He tugged at her hand.

Riva hesitated. Then: "I . . . I . . . all right." They ran toward it together. The little boy swung on. As the merry-go-round circled, Riva stumbled, missed her step. Then she was on, clinging awkwardly to the metal shelf. She started to laugh. "It's fun," she yelled. Things have changed now. Riva doesn't wake up screaming any more. She's not afraid when the lights go out-not afraid of anything.

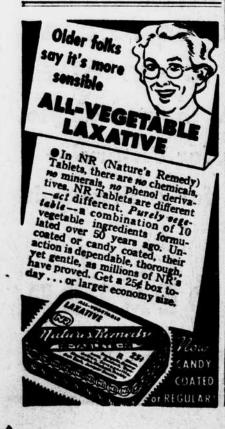

"I pledge allegiance" Riva knows she's safe now. The place in the country where hundreds of sick children have gone to grow strong again is the Christ Child Farm for Convalescent Children. Pay-as-You-Earn Tax Program Essential, George Asserts

Bankrupt Taxpayers Seen Unless Relief Is Voted In Lower Brackets

By the Associated Press. Chairman George of the Senate Finance Committee yesterday expressed the belief that lower-bracket income tax rates should be "readjusted" in the next tax bill and some form of pay-as-you-earn tax collection plan adopted, to clear the way for compulsory savings. Despite the Treasury's recommendation for immediate drafting of a new tax measure to provide $6,000,000,000, Senator George said no new revenue legislation would be considered until after the Seventyeighth Congress convenes in Jan-

Indeed, he added, some taxpayers might find their obligations too heavy to meet during the course of the war, maybe even next year. This might be true, he said, where men left high-salaried positions and large fixed obligations to join the Army or to take small-salaried Government posts as their contribution pledged by radio listeners and perto the war effort.

The Federal order was embodied n a consent decree signed yesterday by Judge John C. McDuffle and was described by Joseph C. Noah, regional wage-hour director, as ending litigation of long standing pending in several States.

The decree followed filing of a complaint in behalf of L. Metcalfe Walling, wage-hour administrator. in which it was alleged that the companies violated "hot goods" clause of the Fair Labor Standards Act by shipping in interstate commerce wood pulp, Kraft paper, wrapping paper, paper board, paper bags and other allied paper products made from pulpwood produced by suppliers who had violated the minimum wage and overtime compensation provisions of the law since its effective date, October 24,

The complaint listed International Paper as operating newsprint mills n New York and Canada, and Southern Kraft as owning eight paper mills or factories in Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, South Carolina and Florida.

The radio star was tense with emotion when, reading her script, she reminded Washington that "Hitler and his brothers in crime want to destroy our families, our way of life. They have said so time after time and we have seen it happen to other countries. Our men in uniform have no illusions about the enemy; our brave boys who are prisoners of war know it, too. So while we pray and work for victory, let's invest our money with Uncle Sam. We can make more money but we cannot make another America."

In thanking each bond purchaser personally, Miss Smith ended her greetings by saying "Good-by now," with emphasis on the now.

Stop grousing about the things you can't spend your money for. You can still buy War bonds with it.

POICH ROOFS COLLAPSE.—The porch roofs and supports of three row homes in the 200 block of Lynhaven drive, Alexandria, are shown following their collapse this morning. The crash, which sent a shower of slate over the porches, came a short time after parents of two families had sent their children off to school. The three homes are occupied by families of Army officers on duy here and in nearby Virginia. The homes are part of a war housing development near Potomac Yards. -Star Staff Photo.

The Omniscient OPA

If the findings of a special committee of the Commissioners' Traffic Advisory Council are correct, the Office of Price Administration's orders for thrice-yearly tire inspections -applying to all A-card holders and more frequently for truck operators -cannot be complied with. The findings were reached by the "simple mathematical process" of comparing the number of inspections necessary with the facilities and equipment for making them.

This tire inspection order of OPA is relatively unimportant in itself. But the order is so typical of a peculiarly bureaucratic state of mind developing in wartime Washington that it requires some analysis. It obviously was issued without any investigation whatever as to how it would be carried out. It was issued without any consultation with the local authorities who have been making automobile inspections for years and are familiar with the nature of the problem.

Any investigation would have revealed the fact that in normal years, with unlimited tires and gasoline, about 14 per cent of the cars inspected annually needed some adjustment affecting wear on tires. Yet, to get at that this 14 per cent, manifestly diminishing because of the public's knowledge that irreplaceable tires need extra care, the OPA wants to check three times a year on all tires. Owners of automobiles, whose mileage has been cut to about 2,800 miles a year under gas rations, are ordered to report for inspection every four months-during which possibly 900 miles have been driven-while trucks are to be inspected every 5,000 miles

If the tire inspection order cannot be complied with, then it will have to be changed. According to the advisory council committee, it cannot be complied with. So there will be more confusion, more backing and filling and more harrassing the public-all of which might very easily have been avoided in the beginning by deciding what was the absolute minimum of necessary inspection and seeking the co-operation of local authorities in bringing it about.

MacArthur's Statement

Close reading of the statement in which General MacArthur removes himself from the field of speculative presidential candidates should settle that political issue, but it leaves an important military question unanswered.

The "MacArthur-for-President in 1944" movement, if it properly may be called that, was extremely illadvised. General MacArthur's function as a soldier is to fight the war. Anything which interferes with doing that, as certainly would be true of the presidential candidacy which his well-wishers have sought to thrust upon him, deserves to be rebuked. and he has rebuked it, politely but firmly. In doing this, however, General MacArthur, in seemingly studied fashion, refrained from any comment on the really important question involved in this matter. The occasion for his statement was an article in the Christian Science Monitor to the effect that "political Washington" had set up the divided command in the Southwest Pacific with a view to sidetracking General MacArthur in Australia, and thereby squelching any political aspirations that might be entertained in his behalf. This strategy, the article continued, has backfired because of our reverses in the Solomons campaign, with the result that Washington opinion has veered somewhat away from its strong anti-MacArthur bias. It should be noted that no evidence was cited to support any of the accusations or implications of the article. General MacArthur's formal statement took specific note of the assertion that "political Washington was largely responsible for the establishment of two separate commands in the Pacific," but he contented himself with a flat disclaimer of any political aspirations and with praise of the co-operation which he has received from the Australians. His silence on the question of the division of command and the military consequences that have flown therefrom was conspicuous.

Perhaps General MacArthur felt that a complaint of this sort did not warrant comment from him. Possibly the dubious propriety of entering into any such controversy, even of the texts are written by distin-article, persuaded him to remain silent on the military phase of the matter. Now that this situation has been brought into the open, however, it would seem desirable for some one to put the record straight on the reasons for this division of command and the effect that it has had, if any, on the conduct of the war.

Second Phase in Egypt

The first phase of the great battle for North Africa, which is being fought on the desert approaches to the Valley of the Nile, is substantially completed. General Montgomery's Eighth Army has successfully penetrated Marshal Rommel's advanced positions all along the 40mile front between the Mediterranean and the Qattara Depression. In places, those penetrations have reached to a depth of four miles. This has been accomplished in six days of fighting which has raged continuously since the zero hour shortly before midnight of last Fri-

The second phase is now under way. This consists largely of infantry attacks under cover of creeping artillery barrages supplemented by an umbrella of planes. The infantry is stiffened by tanks, sparsely spaced but nowhere bunched in regular tank attacks, since that would draw devastating concentric fire from Rommel's deadly 88-millimeter anti-tank guns. In other words, what is now happening is a reversion to the head-on offensives of the last war, wherein infantry mastered trench and pill-box systems by frontal attacks. That is both a slow and costly process. Yet here it is inevitable, since there is no way of outflanking the entrenched enemy, in the strategic sense. That, of course, does not exclude the possibility of raids against Rommel's remote rear by light British forces sweeping widely across the open desert south of the Qattara Depression or by commando units landing along the coast. Such raids, however, even though successful, presumably could not be in force enough to change the strategic picture. They would at most be tactically helpful to the strategic objective, which is the breaking of Rommel's fighting front and the defeat or destruction of his main

This second phase may last a considerable time. The Allies' air supremacy hinders Rommel from bunching his tanks for mechanized counter attacks. Yet Rommel seemingly has enough air power to hinder Montgomery likewise from bunching his tanks at any point. The wily marshal has had more than two months to prepare a "defense in depth," which means a series of prepared positions, one behind another. How deeply this series extends is not known. Theoretically, there is nothing to have prevented Rommel from fortifying the entire stretch of the funnel that extends backward from his present front for fully 100 miles before the Qattara Depression ends at its western extremity, though it is unlikely that he has had the labor and materials to have completed so ambitious an undertaking.

For the immediate future, therefore, the outlook is one of slow British penetration of tenaciously held positions, achieved at high cost in lives. Apparently the British have distinct numerical superiority and can thus stand heavy losses. The first test will be whether they can pay the price over a long period. The ultimate test will be the functioning of rival supply lines. Rommel has much the shorter haul, yet Allied air superiority exposes that line to far greater punishment than the Axis can inflict upon the British 'supply line around Africa and up the Red Sea.

Such is the strategy and such are the logistics of the battle for North Africa. For both combatants the stakes are so great that they can be counted on to throw in every ounce of strength. More than that it is far too early to say.

History Not Neglected

A great many of his countrymen, it safely may be assumed, will be delighted to hear that Professor Erling M. Hunt of Columbia University has denied that the teaching of American history in the schools of the United States is being neglected. He is qualified to speak for the generality of his colleagues, and what he says is to the effect that in recent times: "Attention to American history, American life and American institutions has increased steadily." Charges to the contrary are branded as "uninformed and irresponsible."

Professor Hunt stresses the fact that emphasis is put upon American history during those periods when the largest numbers of young people are available to study it-"from primary grades through high school." He explains: "In the primary grades children sometimes study heroes and holidays, sometimes their community. In three years of the intermediate grades pupils in many towns and cities study American history from the Norsemen to the present. A twoyear course in American history is usual in junior high school." Whatever may be the case in colleges and universities attended by a relative minority of the population, "in public schools American history is a universal offering and a universal requirement for graduation. In about half of the forty-eight States the Legislatures have enacted such a requirement, but the laws are unnecessary. Every school board or high school faculty establishes and enforces the requirement. * * Most though he may have been in total guished American historians." on until its rights in Norway are and let's fight it. disagreement with the Monitor's It is admitted that American his- restored.

tory "has steadily broadened in scope" and that "textbooks have doubled in length in the past twenty years," but Professor Hunt is not disturbed by these changes. Neither is he unduly troubled by reports that "many pupils are bored by the repetition of the same facts" and that "many teachers (who) have been assigned to American history classes * * * have not been adequately prepared." What now matters to him and to every other thoughtful citizen is that: "War, as always, has stimulated interest in the teaching of American history-properly so, for American history is a chief source not only of information necessary to effective citizenship but of loyalty and sound patriotism."

Responsibility for Initiative

Elsewhere on this page today there appears a letter from President Stull of the Federation of Citizens' Associations which should prove helpful in remedying an obvious defect in the District's civilian defense organization. The Star regrets that the editorial which prompted this letter should have been misleading, for The Star is under no misapprehensions as to the responsibility of our citizens' associations in civilian defense. But there is an obvious difference of opinion as to the interpretation of that responsibility which should not be permitted to remain.

President Stull's recital of the original role played by the citizens' associations in organizing the civilian defense committees is accurate in every respect and it is true that, once these committees were set up. the formal responsibility for their functioning passed out of the hands of the 'citizens' association. The trouble is that the formal responsibility belongs to nobody for it was never assigned. If a neighborhood defense committee fails to perform adequately, no person or agency is charged with responsibility for seeing that it does.

The civilian defense officials have emphasized from the beginning that the whole civilian defense machinery is essentially democratic, that its success or failure lies with the people themselves. The point that The Star editorial sought to make was that remedy for unsatisfactory organization in the various communities can best be applied by the neighborhood citizens' associations. They are the only ones who have the organized machinery for initiating a petition-to the Co-ordinator for Civilian Defense, for instance—that the proper steps in remedy be taken; that a defense committee, which does not function, be replaced by one that does.

The citizens' associations, as such, have no more responsibility in the matter than the man on the street. But if they do not assume the responsibility in their own neighborhoods for correcting obvious weaknesses, and insist that corrections be made, then nobody else is going to do it. And if nobody does it, the citizens' association membership in that particular neighborhood will be the ones who suffer. The Star repeats that there is a splendid opportunity here for the sort of constructive leadership that has made the citizens' associations an asset to their communities.

Maryland Election

The charter question has overshadowed all other issues in the current election campaign in nearby Maryland. This controversy has made the campaign the bitterest in Montgomery County since the "Antis" and Fusionists challenged the rule of the Democratic organization about ten years ago.

The preponderant majority of registered Democrats in both Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties gives that party's candidates a definite advantage. The election of most, if not all, of the Democratic candidates is generally expected. The only race in which there has been more than perfunctory interest is the one for Congress between E. Brooke Lee of Silver Spring and J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg.

All this has permitted the Montgomery voters to focus their attention primarily on the charter issue. It has been debated from many public platforms, in the press and on the radio. Charges and counter charges have flown thick and fast. By this time the public should know that it may vote on two phases of the charter issue on election day. The voters are asked to decide yes or no on the question: "Shall a charter board be created for Montgomery County?" They also may choose five members from among ten candidates for the county charter board. Half of the candidates were nominated by the county commissioners and are "anti charter." The others are the "pro charter" nominees of the County Charter Committee. The matter is of real importance to the county and affords the citizens an unusual opportunity to express their views on the type of government under which they want to live. Regardless of how they vote, it is the clear duty of Montgomery residents to register their sentiments on the charter question.

Notebook of Science Progress In Laboratory, Field And Study

Rationing restrictions, especially of meat, may force considerable changes in the American diet in order to provide sufficient of the minerals and vitamins essential for good health.

There is little in meat, nutritionists of the Department of Agriculture explain. which cannot be found in other foods of which presumably there will be a plentiful supply. Replanning will be necessary, however, in order to keep civilian diets reasonably well balanced. Perhaps of greatest significance, it is suggested in a Department of Agriculture report just issued, is the question of an adequate supply of proteins—the nitrogen-containing elements of food which are the building stone of muscle and which are essential to both growth and life.

Calculations based on extensive surveys in the past have shown that about 27 per cent of these proteins in the average American diet come from meat, fish and poultry. The rest come from eggs and milk and grains. The meat proteins, however, are the best adapted for human utilization. Recent tests, however, have shown that the proteins in such plant products as soy beans and nuts need be supplemented by only small amounts of meat proteins to fulfill all requirements. If meat is reduced, the Department of Agriculture nutritionists point out, it will be well to make corresponding increases in milk and eggs.

Nearly a fourth of the total iron in family diets in 1940 came from lean meat, fish and poultry. But in the past few years cereals have contributed about as much of the mineral in a physiologically available form as have meats, and one of the best means of supplementing the iron is the increased use of whole grain products.

Vegetables, especially the dark green leafy vegetables, are good iron sources. The darker and thinner the leaf the higher the iron content. Peas and beans, eggs, potatoes, dried fruit and molasses also may be used to supplement meat. Over 40 per cent of the thiamin, or vitamin B-1, in the average diet is furnished by meat-most of it by pork. Recent experiments have shown, however, that at least one-half of this is destroyed by cooking. Even if meat were plentiful it would be necessary to add other foods to get an adequate supply. As a rule about one-fourth of the dietary thiamin comes from vegetables and fruits, with potatoes the single largest contributor. Dry beans, peas, peanuts and soy beans make a large contribution in proportion to the amounts consumed. Whole grains are one of the richest sources of the vitamin. Cereals and flours in the forms usually eaten, however, supplied only about an eighth of the required amount in the average diet.

One of the most important contributions of meat to the average diet is nicotinic acid. The proportion varies according to the income group from one-half to two-thirds of the required amount. About a fourth of the total supply is furnished by fruit and vegetables. One-tenth comes from potatoes alone. Less than a fifth comes from grain products, in the assortments now usually chosen by families.

A method of drying vegetables by which they can be compressed into an eighth to a thirtieth of the space they normally would occupy and yet retain all their original flavor months afterward has been worked out at the lowtemperature research laboratory at Cambridge University.

It promises to be one of the major steps in food preservation technique, following the meat-drying processes discovered by scientists of the Department of Agriculture here, to evolve from the Already, according to a report of the British correspondent of the American Medical Association, this technique "enables men in the front line in Egypt to enjoy British potatoes, cabbage and carrots as palatable and nutritious as when eaten at home

"Indeed," he continues, "it is claimed they are more nutritious, for the utmost care is taken that they retain their minerals. Potatoes are peeled by machine and have their blemishes and 'eyes' removed. After washing they are shredded by a machine to small chips. They then are blanched by two minutes in boiling water and sudden cooling. They next are dried in a tunnel heated by steam. Then they are packed in tins from which all air has been expelled and replaced by nitrogen.

"The great compression achieved by drying is shown by the fact that the same shipping space will carry eight times as much potato, 20 times as much carrot and 20 to 30 times as much cabbage as in the fresh.

"The new process differs from drying fruit in the sun in that the essential nutritive elements are retained, and reconstitution with boiling water and cooking produces vegetables which look and taste as good as fresh."

Calls for Fight Against Prohibition

To the Editor of The Star: Now that my blood pressure has subsided again after reading Anne Gravitt's letter, in which she went out on a limb with the sweeping assertion that "the consumers of alcoholic beverages are saboteurs," I am moved to wonder what strange malady has been responsible for changing otherwise normal human beings into prohibitionists. The concern of these peculiar folk for the efficiency of our soldiers and war workers would be touching if it were a little more real. Apparently, it has never occurred to them that efficiency depends upon morale, and that no soldier will have good morale if he suspects that his Government is going to permit the blue-noses to regulate his free hours. It seems just the least bit incongruous to attempt to reintroduce fascism at home at a time when we are fighting fascism abroad. Speaking as one who has a husband and four brothers in the service, I anticipate that they and their fellows will be slightly less restrained in their expressions of disapproval if they find prohibition in the saddle when they return.

"Bitty is very beautiful, all dressed up in his brand-new clothes which he acquired after shedding his baby feathers. His topcoat is olive green trimmed in front at the shoulders with primrose yellow. His cap is slate-gray edged with a fine black line above the white stripe over each eye. His shirt front is pure white, and his shoes and stockings are blue-gray to match his hat. His keen little eyes are reddish-brown. "We found Bitty in early August apparently deserted in his nest, which was 25 feet from the ground in a sapling ash. We watched for an hour and no parent bird came to feed Bitty, in spite of his loud crying. In the evening my husband returned to find Bitty on the ground, still alone and calling; he was too weak to resist being picked up, and rode home in the hollow of his palm. I told him we would take care of him for as long as he cared to stay with us. It seemed as though he understood, for he stopped crying and accepted some cooked egg yolk mixed with milk and whole wheat bread. Although he was so weak we feared for his life, he finally began to gain each day and his toorapid respiration became normal.

"Bitty's diet was more difficult to provide than that of our other bird visitors. We gave him ant's eggs, flies, small locusts and caterpillars, cabbage worms, raw hamburger, mashed cooked carrots and squash, kernels of sweet corn, corn borers and apple worms, plant aphids, blueberries and a great many grasshoppers-sometimes 100 in a single day. Half-hourly feedings seemed to be his chosen schedule until he learned to get his own food. Then the intervals between his calls to us for food varied. "Bitty always perched politely on the handle of my breakfast tray and had toast and tea with me. Even after staying out all night on three occasions, he came in for breakfast the following morning. Then he would 'sing' to the accompaniment of my husband's electric

"After four weeks we thought him ready for freedom, so we took him out to release him. But he wouldn't leave! So for three weeks he spent his days outdoors, calling to us when hungry and coming to our hand to be fed his favorite food-grasshoppers. We tried to teach him to catch hoppers himself, but he only perched in a nearby tree to watch us-cheering when we succeeded.

"Every afternoon Bitty came in to rest while I did. Then out he would want haps.

to go until early evening, when he chose to return to the security of his inside

"The weather began to grow cool and the books stated that vireos left for the South in September. What to do about Bitty worried us. We should love his company all winter, but to feed him properly presented a serious problem.

"Then one day we saw and heard a blue-headed vireo in the maple near our feeding station. Bitty ignored this cousin's visit and what had appeared as a solution to our problem vanished. Two days later we saw a red-eyed vireo in the same location with Bitty, watching us. The next day when Bitty returned from his early morning flight he brought back this brother with him-to be fed, we think, for he flew within a foot of me as I was giving Bitty his 'hoppers. Another time as my husband was coming from the garden two birds flew past his head, one going by each ear. One was Bitty, who came back onto his hand for something to eat. If Bitty had been our house guest earlier in the season, do you think we could have tamed this second vireo?

"On September 20, Bitty came in for the night as usual, but left his perch three times after dark, flying onto the window curtains. • Then he flew back and forth between us, chirping softly as if to tell us that the instinct to migrate was stirring in his blood and he must be off. It was a dark, cold and windy night, so we did not think it wise to let him go, and he finally settled down.

"The next evening Bitty indicated his desire to remain in the tree near the house. He took three grasshoppers, flew back into the tree, looked down at me and gently chirped his good-by. "It was a beautiful moonlight night and quiet-good for flying. "Sure enough, he was gone in the morning. We miss him very much. Still, we do hope he joined his family and will make a successful journey to Venezuela or wherever the vireos go this year.

"A delightful companion has left our home but not dur memories. We shall look for him next spring. Do you think he will call to see us upon his return? "I thank you for listenin', and trust that if you all do see our Bitty bird, you will offer him your famous Washington hospitality.

"Hopefully yours, I. F. L." * * * *

On the afternoon of the day that the above letter was received, a red-eyed vireo flew into the rhododendrons just outside the dining room window. We rushed out to give the three whistles, but by the time we got there the bird was gone. Later a friend living about a mile to the north reported the presence of a vireo that morning.

Comments on Star's Civilian Defense Editorial. To the Editor of The Star:

May I have the privilege of commenting on the editorial appearing in The Star of October 26 entitled, "Plug the Gaps Now," which, to say the least, is very misleading?

Your statement that there are gaps in civilian defense is undoubtedly correct. but your conclusion drawn from that fact is erroneous, insofar as you attempt to lay the responsibility for such weakness at the doors of the respective citizens' associations. I should like to recite

The writer (together with the president of the Federation of Civic Associations) undertook to organize the original meetings called for the purpose of creating a civilian defense organization in each of 66 areas in the District of Columbia. They were not citizens' association meetings; they were meetings of all persons in the respective areas, regardless of their affiliations. This was a year ago, two months before Pearl Harbor, at which time indifference and complacency were general throughout the city. Not all of these meetings were entirely satisfactory, but as a result of them a defense committee was elected by those present to represent each of the areas. Some of these have functioned well, some have changed personnel several times, and some have been entirely too inactive. However, the point which you have altogether missed is the fact that our responsibility ended when these meetings were completed. The matter then became a community affair embracing all groups and individuals within the specified areas. This was impressed upon me when plans were being made for these original meetings, and I in turn passed this information on to the several citizens' groups.

Our citizens' associations did not automatically lose interest in civilian defense by reason of the selection of these committees, but on the contrary, in many instances, voluntarily aided with contributions of their own funds and by solicitations in their communities. It was not their responsibility then, and it is not their responsibility now, and your statement that the "citizens' associations have never had a more important job cut out for them" is obviously based upon a misapprehension of the facts. I am afraid this will result in many persons believing that a task undertaken by these groups has been badly handled.

It is true that these meetings resulted in the selection of many persons for the civilian defense committees from the ranks of organized citizenry. It is also true that many so selected had no connection whatever with these groups. I have no way of knowing why some responses were not made to the questionnaire from the local Office of Civilian Defense. I do know as a fact, however, that in some of the areas which did not respond there are existing today excellent air-raid warden services, trained and ready for whatever emergency they may have to meet.

good time to strengthen, or to rebuild the neighborhood civilian defense committees which have lagged during the summer." Again you mistakenly place the responsibility for civilian defense deficiencies on the citizens' associations. Of course, these citizen organizations are interested in any important movement occurring within their boundaries, and are therefore necessarily interested in the civilian defense movement, but we ask you not to charge us with responsibility for the weaknesses of an organization which is designed for the protection of all the people. They are not citizens' associations defense committees; they are community affairs. We assume our share of shortcomings of any of our groups, but please do not hold to the idea that these defense committees are directed by or are responsible to the respective citizens' associations. This is an error into which many persons have fallen. If the Office of Civilian Defense desires that the various organized civic groups assume further responsibility in this matter, we will undoubtedly be told of it, and we will assume any responsibility which the defense of our neighborhoods require. If the civilian defense committees in certain areas are not doing their jobs well, why not throw them out and replace them with individuals who will function? We cannot do this. It is a job for those in actual charge of these local committees.

Argues for Principle Of Sheppard Bill.

To the Editor of The Star: There is considerable argument in regard to abolishing the sale of liquor in and around Army camps and naval stations. A proposal to restrict the sale of liquor in those places was included in the Sheppard bill, which was pending in the Senate some weeks ago, and, unfortunately, pigeon-holed.

If the bill had been passed, our Army camps, by this time, would be safer places for our teen-age boys, who in all probability soon will be inducted into

Evidently some persons are afraid that the passing of such a bill in time might bring about the return of prohibi But would any broad-minded person say that that is sufficient cause for its defeat?

Let us consider the moral and physical welfare of our servicemen, and also their efficiency, at this time of national peril, and let us put these interests first. Some may argue that the young men, if old enough to be in the service, should have snough restraint to refrain from drinking. Possibly so, but if they see older

U. S. Feels Toll in Offensive

Now Is the Time For Faith in High Command

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

These are days when faith in the high command is more than ever necessary. Naval actions in the Pacific have gone against us in the last few weeks not because our men have not fought bravely or because they have been unwilling to take the risks, but because the whole strategy of the present effort to make the Solomons secure inevitably involves big

David Lawrence. losses. The test of victory is not the number of ships lost but the effect of our whole counteroffensive in the Southwest Pacific. It is true that our forces have been compelled to take the defensive as the Japanese have counterattacked. But that counterattack was expected and the dangers in it have been fully realized from the start.

In fact, Japan could not allow the United States to take the Solomons without herself risking enormous forces to dislodge us. Defeat for the Japanese meant a terrible loss of prestige at home. But defeat for the American Navy is but one of a number of setbacks which are part of the long uphill struggle against forces superior in number and possessing an advantage in interior lines of communication short in length and quickly supplied from nearby bases.

Knew Attempt Coming.

Our high command knew that Japan had to turn out a big force to endeavor to retake the Solomons. Inferior as vet in numbers, our fleet could not risk a major battle in the areas near to Japan's bases. Our tactics have been to draw the Japanese fleet divisions toward the south where, with the aid of landbased planes, we could attempt attrition, picking off the Japanese naval units and planes.

Japan cannot replace lost ships as fast as we can. Japan cannot continue to supply her big armies in China and protect her transports against our growing number of submarines if she has to expend a good deal of her fleet in Southwest Pacific actions.

Japan cannot attack Siberia if with the United States. Josef Stalin already knows this and it means he need not keep such a big Siberian army intact and send enormous amounts of supplies over the Trans-Siberian Railroad that he really needs on the European front.

The overall strategy of the United States is succeeding. We are, to be sure, paying a high price. Offensives come high. Those who have been clamoring for a second front on the coast of France have a taste today of what it means to take the offensive and suffer heavy losses. This is no time to say our high command should not have attempted a counteroffensive unless better prepared. We had to go forward or suffer an attack on our big supply lines to Australia.

Breaks Bad for Us.

Many of the breaks have gone against us. Some of these cannot be disclosed. In Australia they must realize, for instance, that we are sorry they did not have a bigger fleet to help us in the Solomons and we on our part are regretful that everything has not been coordinated as it might have been as between ourselves and some of our allies.

The American people will take the good with the bad, the bitter with the sweet. Our naval officers are doing a tremendous job against odds not of their own creation. The Japanese transport their fuel and supplies a few hundred miles. We must bring our octane gas and our oil for surface ships 7,000 miles to the battle area.

The Navy isn't complaining about the fate that has forced it to fight a two-ocean war with a one-ocean Navy. The Navy has lost some valuable ships. Postmortems, some day when all the facts are available, will tell the whole story, but defeat against an enemy superior in numbers and with advantages of air and sea bases is not something to blame on our own command.

It is something to be swallowed grimly, knowing our men have done the best they can with the weapons available and knowing, too, that defeat can only tighten the resolution of our forces to persevere as more ships and more men and more supplies come up for the struggle that can never end till the whole Japanese Navy has been annihilated. In fact, we know that the Japanese have been making some preparations in the Gilberts from the announced raid which we made against Makin Island of that group some time ago, during which Japanese installations were destroyed.

The New Hebrides, the Pijis, Samoa, or Canton Island, all way stations on our long trans-Pacific line of communications, might be possible objectives for Japanese offensive operations coming from the Gilberts.

Thus, the Japanese may be seeking to attack or threaten our line of communications just as we are attacking theirs by the raids of our long-range aircraft from Australia against Rabaul and their positions in New Guinea and the Northwestern

This Changing World

Battles in Russia and Egypt Are Considered Side Shows Compared With Struggle in Pacific

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.

The intense battles in Russia and in Egypt are considered by most observers as only sideshows compared with the flerce fight raging over a large area in the South Pacific.

Before Stalingrad there is a see-saw battle in which a few hundred yards are won or lost every few hours. The Nazis are stalling. They are trying to avoid casualties in their forces while they hammer at our Russian allies with artillery and avi-

In Egypt Gen. Harold Alexander's 8th Army is progressing slowly. The British have pushed the Nazi-Italian forces back on the northern wing of the front beyond El Alamein, but since the opening of the offensive they have not advanced more than five miles. The American and British air forces are trying to soften the Axis lines before the tanks start moving in force.

But Gen. Alexander cannot afford to be reckless either with his men or his material. He must always bear in mind two facts: That German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel is a shrewd strategist and will take advantage of the slightest false move of his opponents and that reinforcements and replacements must come over a distance of 12,500 miles. Hence, while being on the offensive, the British commander must nurse his forces and his equipment carefully.

No Quarter Given or Asked. But while in Russia and Egypt the battles are on a relatively narrow scale—although large numbers are involved, the battle in the Solomons area is full of dangerous consequences for future operations of the United Nations and the security of Australia, New Zealand and even continental Unites States.

According to latest available reports, the Japanese have concentrated at least 75 per cent of their naval power in the South Pacific area. They have succeeded in reducing our carrier force to a dangerous minimum. They have the initiative and while they are hammering with a large naval air and land army at the defenders of Guadalcanal. they may be getting ready to start other operations in the Southeast Pacific.

The American forces, land, air and sea, are fighting the battle of their life. While only sketchy reports are being received heredealing mostly in generalitiesthere is no question that when the story of the battle of the last 10 days is pieced together, it will be an epic chapter in the history of this country and doubtless surpass in heroism and abnegation they must fight to the death because the Japanese are driving themselves even more mercilessly then in past engagements. The surface ships and submarines are in action day and night trying to make up, by the heroism of their crews, for the deficiency in numbers. Land and carrier based planes are in action at all times. The crews of the Flying Fortresses and of the smaller planes have hardly any rest at all. They come back to refuel and take off again regardless of the condition of their machines. So long as the motors can turn they return to Japs Keep on Coming. For the first time since Pearl Harbor the Japanese are up against a "maddening" opposition, such as they never found in Malaya, the Netherlands Indies or even in the Philippines. In spite of their superiority in ships. planes and men, they are challenged wherever their forces appear. More than once they have broken through the lines of the land defenders of Henderson Airfield on Guadalcanal but were pushed back almost immediately.

Japan's losses are very heavy; so, apparently, are our own. But the Japs keep coming and landing more forces all the time. The Tokio high command is packing its troops like sardines. Small transports contain three or four times the number of men usually placed on such ships. A 4,000-ton steamer for instance, will take on board several thousand men.

It is difficult to estimate the number of Japanese forming such an amphibious force. But a very conservative estimate places the figure at about 70,000 men. It is equally difficult to estimate the Japanese naval and air force. But from reports which had reached Washington some time before the Nipponese attacked it is believed that about two thirds of the entire Jap naval force has been concentrated in the area between Truk and the

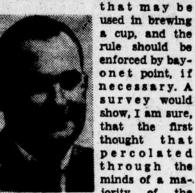

The Tokio high command is as fully aware of the importance of the battle as is our own high command. The Japs know that their future operations in the West Pacific depend largely on their success in this battle and they appear determined to take every conceivable chance to dislodge us.

They can afford-for the time being-to suffer as heavy losses as we suffer because their war is on only one front, while we are engaged on several. Until our navy yards produce enough ships to replace the severe losses we are now suffering and also to take care of our naval activities in other oceans we shall not be able to resume the offensive in the Pacific.

It had no more body than a ghost, less aroma than a lead pencil, no more color than Camille in the last act, and its taste was the same tangy, bracing one possessed by pure, clear spring water. The half-pound we have on hand will last well into the 1959's if today's formula is adhered to, but we won't ever have a decent cup of coffee.

Speaking for myself and, I am positive, for most of the other coffee-loving males of this country, I would rather have one honest-togoodness cup of coffee than 10,000 cups of a spineless, weak-kneed concoction that wouldn't arouse the curiosity of the most curious taste

Coffee rationing is going to be very tough on the conversation of a certain group of people. The people I mean are the ones who. when asked if they would care for a second cup of coffee, take an inordinate pride in refusing with these

"Thank you, no. I never drink but one cup of coffee. I love my one cup, mind you, but I never have a

The way they say this you would think that the refusal to have a second cup of coffee ranked among the great virtues of mankind. You would think that men and women had been canonized for having only one cup of coffee at a sitting. It will be hard on these people not to be asked to have a second cup and to be robbed of the chance to momentarily join the company of

I know what I am talking about because I am one of this group. It ago that when I refused a second cup of coffee I did it with a smugness and an air of superiority that made my critic want to hurl the coffee pot at me. But that's what a man gets for marrying his best friend and severest critic.

But as hard as coffee rationing is going to be on us "one-cuppers." it is going to be harder on those caffeine crackpots who tell you how coffee keeps them awake at night. You can't be in a gathering anywhere in this country where there isn't at least one person who, when served coffee in the evening, uses his refusal of the coffee as a springboard to launch into a long and highly uninteresting description of how the stuff keeps him awake at

He tells you of the last time he was foolish enough to have coffee at night; what time he went to bed; what time he tried to shut his eyes; the time he started tossing; the sort of tosses he tossed; how he got up and took something to try to put him to sleep; how it didn't work; how his wife said, "What in the world is the matter with you?"; what he told her, and, finally, how he eventually fell asleep when light was coming through the windows. Oh, yes, and how miserable he felt all day at the office.

Now, with coffee rationed, no one is going to ask this type of bore to have an after-dinner cup. Another thought: What is going to happen to the fellow who says, "I am never any good until I've had my cup of coffee." Reduced to one cup a day he may elect to have his one cup with his evening meal. He'll go wandering around being no good all day. He'll go without speaking to any one and carry a chip on his shoulder until 7 or 8 in the evening.

Unfortunately, coffee rationing won't put the quietus on those who grind their own beans. Here is the most superior, condescending, patronizing group on earth. They feel that any one who stoops to making coffee from ready-ground beans is a plebian in patches. I have yet to meet any one who ground his own coffee who didn't manage to turn the conversation so that he could tell you that he did. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Eight-Inch Shell Taken From Chest, Soldier Lives

CAIRO, Oct. 29.-A live anti-tank shell 8 inches long and 2 inches in diameter was removed from the chest of Gunner Louis Radlmeyer of Hertfordshire, England, in a surgery tent behind the El Alamein line Sunday.

Today he was siting up in bed and talking cheerfully between spells of heavy breathing. The surgeon, Maj. Donald Mackenzie of Auckland, New Zealand, said the shell entered Radimeyer's back near the spine, narrowly missed the heart and lodged in the pleural cavity with its nese tight-ly inclosed in the skin of the gun-

DEPRESSED SOUR--SUNK

Because of Insufficient Flow of Bile from the Gall Bladder

Try stepping up your Liver Bile flow this easy sensible way.
Go to your druggist today and ask him for a 4-ounce bottle of Kruschen—the famous English salts now made in the U. S. A.—all good druggists have this. Take half a teaspoonful in a glass of water (hot or cold) half an hour before breakfast and keep it up for 5 days.
This may be just what you want and need to help release the flow of that precious digestion-aiding bile juice. Try it to relieve such symptoms as sick head-ache and the sour sick feeling of so-called bilious indigestion—when due to this cause—as well as relieving constipation. Get Kruschen today—see if you're not joyfully surprised. At all progressive drugstores.

Rayburn Asks Election Of Victory-Minded Congress Candidates

Legislators' War Record Defended by Speaker In Forum Address

Speaker Rayburn of the House, speaking on the National Radio Forum last night, urged the Nation's voters to choose a victoryminded Congress in next Tuesday's elections and declared that "the significance of your choice will not scape our Allies or our enemies."
The National Radio Forum was arranged by The Star and broad-cast over Station WMAL and the Blue Network. As trustees of the Nation's fighting men, many of whom will be prevented from using their fran-chise by practical difficulties, we must not neglect to vote, Mr. Rayburn said.

"As trustees of their freedom as well as our own," he continued, "we have a special obligation to choose a Congress which will help bring their gallant efforts to a speedy and victorious conclusion.' Texas Representative cautioned against "voices of political confusion, seeking to capitalize selfishly upon your unselfish determina-tion to win this war and win it soon.

Warns of Promises. "They will court you with promises of counterfeit currency, tires tor all, taxes for the other fellow. rivers of gasoline, mountains of sugar, and victory without fighting," he said. They will promise you higher prices for what you sell and lower this total war.' prices for what you buy, higher wages for those who receive them and lower wages for those who pay them, higher taxes and lower taxes, bigger armies and smaller armies. eight-ocean navies and air armadas -all before Christmas. Beware of

"We in Congress may honestly and sincerely disagree as to how the victory may best be won. But those who sing to you that it will be cheap or easy bring you only the bitterness of broken hopes."

He observed that the best represented districts are those "wise enough to select a man of energy, intelligence and integrity and reelect him year after year." A man of this type and character, he said, serves more efficiently and effectively the longer he is returned by his people.

War Record Defended. Citing the war record of Congress the Speaker asked that it be "judged in the light of reason.' "I beg you to search our record and to search your own minds and hearts." he requested.

"Are not our weaknesses your own weaknesses? How often have we faltered where you have stepped surely? Is not our strength likewise your strength? Has not our progress, our achievement, our understanding, grown much as yours

"Have we not all together—your Congress, your President, and you, the people-moved forward in wisdom and in ever more understanding and devotion to the common cause? Do we not today as last year and the year before, represent your will for victory, your hope for freedom's future, your faith that, out of this ordeal of fire, America shall, with the mighty help of Divine Providence, emerge the leader of a free, triumphant, better world?" Some will say that Congress is too subservient to the executive or the wishes of special blocs, Mr. Rayburn said, replying that "neither accusation is fair to Congress as a whole.

Points Out Critics' Mistakes. Excessive meddling by Congress in the details of war administration would subvert the wise distribution of constitutional power and would impair the efficiency of Government,

He further contended that "too many critics mistake the deliberations of the Congress for its deci-

"They hear the farmer's problems explained and his point of view presented and they jump at the conclusion that Congress is controlled by a farm bloc," he said. "They hear the workers' difficulties explained and his case argued and they say that Congress is dominated by union

It is out of the airing of conflicting opinions in hearings, debates, and conferences, Mr. Rayburn concluded, that "a people's Congress comes to decisions that command the support of a free and democratic

Lexington Officer Cites Stamina of Sailors in Action

SAR Meeting Hears Capt. White, Who Served In Medical Capacity

There are strategic gains as to po-sition of our forces and the invading forces have been checked after being severely battered, Capt. Arthur J. White, executive officer of the Naval Hospital at the Academy in Anapolis, said last night at the meetng of the Sons of the American Revolution in the Mayflower Hotel. A medical officer on the ill-fated aircraft carrier Lexington during the battle of the Coral Sea, he told of the valiant teamwork of the ship's complement during "the smoke, fire and explosions" which accompanied the vessel's sinking. However, he declined to speak of the battle inident, but spoke of the stamina of he men in action. Fighting Instincts Promoted.

"We have sustained losses and we all regret them deeply," he said, "but one must realize we are fighting an enemy worthy of our steel in combat and one that asks no quarter and gives no quarter. That fact is fully realized by our men and this realization brings out all the fighting instincts which have been passed on to us from our pioneering ancestors." Capt. White pointed out it was necessary to return men to the mainland for a rest after a tour of duty in the combat area. "I believe this need is fully realized and insofar as is possible the rotation is being accomplished, with the full co-operation of all the de-

Urges Preparation. "This constant need for relief of men in the combat area is certain to call more frequently, as time passes, for more men to enroll for training in preparation for this urgent relief duty. As a result, it is incumbent on all who can do so to start preparing now for that job ahead, by maintaining themselves in the best physical condition possible," he stated.

The officer, who was injured during the battle of the Coral Sea and has received the Navy Cross, had high praise for the men of the service. In speaking of morale of the men, he added there "is a noticeable lack of the critical attitude." To the contrary, he said, "men become more tolerant of the other man's weaknesses. In sickness or in injury, nothing seems too much for one shipmate to do for another, and in time of tragedy there is no place to my knowledge where the milk of human kindness flows so freely." Births Reported Agnew, George and Althes, boy, Amsden, Raymond and Opal, boy, Babibgton, Walter and Willa, boy, Beebe, Tom and Kathleen, boy, Bell, Harvey and Elizabeth, boy,

Uruguay May Establish Relations With Russia

America Breaks Record In Taxes for Diversion

While $25,000 Ceiling Harasses Stars Public Marches to Box Office

By ANDREW R. KELLEY.

Those in Hollywood, who might feel depressed because the salary ceiling of $25,000 will be invoked on January 1, may take comfort in the fact that the industry has never been more prosperous at the box office. The average Mr. John Q. Public finds it hard to mourn with those who vision $1,000 a week as practical penury. For the first nine months of 1942, the total for amusement taxes was $104.433,539, which translated into admissions, means that more than a billion was expended by the public for diversion, most of it in the cinema shrines. This was $45,200,-000 more than the 1941 admission tax gross for the same nine-month

Receipts from other levies on entertainment were: Radios and phonographs, $456.869, down approximately $300,000; records, $127,256; musical instruments, $135,013; slot machines, $468,078, and bowling alleys and pool rooms, $94,892. The Bureau of Labor Statistics and other Federal agencies, who dig deep behind the significance of these figures, report that most families will find the funds to attend the movies on an average of once a week. This held true even during the 1929-30 depression years.

Some unofficial estimates are that 11:15 a.m., 1, 2:45, 4:35, 6:20, 8:10 at least 30,000,000 people in the and 9:55 p.m. United States don't give a hang about the movies. Good or bad, they stay away. This is an untapped audience of proportions which are imposing, even suggests Gallup samplings might find why. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's research bureau has undertaken to find out the reason the screen is shunned by approximately 25 per cent of our popu-

Poll is Under Way.

What are the reactions, the prefrences of movie goers? There have een several single efforts to determine what the public wants in the entertainment field. Now comes a ioneering move which will constantly chart the reactions of all ypes of audiences. This new nafonal poll will be a permanent one that will offer a continuing study and survey of movie audiences in all parts of the country. The study will be conducted for MGM by the Motion Picture Research Bureau. Representative mempers of movie audiences will be interviewed and asked to give frank expression to their feelings about ories, stars and types of produc-Thousands of these interlews will be conducted each week trained investigators. The refults of these scientific studies are spected to provide the closest approximation of what the public wants in its entertainment.

Mary Lost, But Won. Mary Brian, appearing in person at the Capitol Theater beginning today, is one star who managed to come along without winning the Atlantic City beauty contest, in which she completed. 'Twas some years ago and Louise Birdie Dantzr, her right name, was down to her last $5, when her mother heard of the competition at Ocean Park, Long Beach, Calif. So they invested $2 for a bathing suit, $1 more for some chiffon to trim up an evening gown, entered the beauty free-

To make a short story shorter, she didn't win. Instead she got the second award as the best "Miss Personality," which carried with it $100 in cash and a week's work at Al Kaufman's Metropolitan Theater in Los Angeles as presentation decoration. It was there that Jesse Lasky and Herbert Brennon saw her, suggested a screen test, out of which came the role of Wendy "Peter Pan," and a long movie

Talent Chance to Soldiers. Major Bowes' amateurs, heard on the radio every Thursday night include many from the military camps. They are not haphazardly chosen after they stumble into the studio and ask for a chance to give the network audience a thrill. Actually scouts for Major Bowes are combing the camps looking for those in uniform who have something to contribute in the way of talent. Those whom the wheel of fortune selects manage to arrange for three days furloughs, see New York with all expenses paid, and get $50 for their moments before the microphone. More, if they are outstanding in what it takes ...

Warner Bros. News Reel.

Warner Bros. will enter the newsreel field, with a semi-weeklky reease available after January 1. It is understood that the company vill not enter any pooling arrangeent with other newsreel, but will ncentrate on its own conception current events. Also its format to be entirely different from that current newsreels. It is further derstood that Warners tried to irchase one of other newsreel serves and having failed in this deded to enter the field with its own

HOLLYWOOD. "Ten Lucky Stars," 10 girls who won a 1-A rating in a sudden Hollywood beauty draft, have ben placed under contract by Warner Bros. who cornered a dwindling market by the quick maneuver.

The girls first will be featured in "Thank Your Lucky Stars," big Warner musical which will enlist the talents of every star and featured player at the studio. Then they will be groomed for individual assignments in other pictures. All have ambitions to become dramatic Although nearly every one of the girls came to this city at varying early ages with her parents, they originated in seven different States and two foreign countries.

The girls—Sylvia Opert, Mary

Landa, Harriette Haddon, Dorothy Dayton, Janet Barrett, Dorothy Schoemer, Harriette Olson, Nancy Worth, Lucille LaMarr, Joy Barlow -are typical of the new Hollywood beauty trend and the average Miss American Lovely. They average more than 5 feet 5 inches in height and weigh close to 120 pounds each. Only one is a blond. Six are brunettes, two have light brown hair and the other is a redhead.

Win, Lose or Draw Titles of Boxers

By FRANCIS E. STAN,

A-Heading for a Boston "T" Party

EN ROUTE TO BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Georgetown is rolling today toward a game with the team which may well wind up as the undisputed collegiate champion of the East-Boston College. The Eagles of Coach Denny Myers are among the top 10 unbeaten and untied elevens in the land, and if they hurdle the Hilltoppers, as they are expected to do by a margin ranging from 7 to 20 points, chances are they'll remain undefeated.

It will come as no surprise if Boston College finally is acknowledged as the best team along the Atlantic Coast. The Eagles have material With wins over West Virginia, Clemson, North Carolina Pre-Flight and Wake Forest behind them, odds are they've completed the toughest part of their schedule, even with Georgetown, Temple, Fordham, Boston University and Holy Cross ahead.

If there was any element of surprise connected with Boston College Boxing Association reported here it's in the way this fellow Myers has introduced the "T" formation. Clark Shaughnessy and Lt. Comdr. George Halas, foremost exponents of ing fighters now in the armed the system, maintain that it is not difficult to teach. This argument is services shortly would be placed in a open to debate; they may be too close to the "T" to appreciate the pitfalls and problems which beset the coaches who are not so familiar with the style and its modernized niceties.

For "True Copy" Myers Hires Brumbaugh

Myers first installed the "T" formation midway of last season. It was a bold gamble, in some ways. Myers was new to Boston College, ing" for the duration the titles of having succeeded the eminent Frank Leahy when the latter moved to men in the service. He added that Notre Dame. Without using the "T." Leahy was a tremendous success at B. C., winning 20 of 22 games. But Myers switched to the "T," after his team started slowly last year, and to assure himself of a true copy of the original he lured Boyd Brumbaugh, the old quarterback, from the Chicago Bears. The results were not long coming. Boston College finished the 1941 season with a sharp, ominous burst of skill and where it left off it picked up this season.

We happened to see the Eagles some weeks ago, while still in the early practice stages. Myers was leaning heavily on Brumbaugh, and proudly pointing to the fact. "The 'T' is something you just can't learn out of a book," he said. "You've got to have a fellow who's actually made it work."

Hoya Scouts Are a Bewildered Lot

The teachings of Halas, Shaughnessy, Ralph Jones and other masters of the "T" formation were poured by Brumbaugh and Myers into the Eagles, with the result that not only is the Boston College eleven riding high, but it is puzzling the scouts.

Georgetown had scouts to watch the Eagles' games with West Virginia, Clemson and North Carolina Navy. The reports to Head Coach Jack Hagerty, big, bundlesome batches of hen tracks, said, succinctly, "Boston College has a good running attack, but no passing."

Last week Hagerty sent Backfield Coach Hap Hardell to scout the Eagles. His report came back: "Not much of a running attack, but a wonderful passing game." This is the stuff that sends coaches to the Obviously, Boston College can roll on the ground or advance through the air. When stopped one way, it can resort to the other and gain.

Schedule Puts Pressure on Brave Old Army Team

Chief contenders for the Eastern title would seem to be Boston College, Army and Syracuse at this writing. Earl Blaik of the Army has done a fine job. He lost some good men, but he retained, and even gained, other good players. The pressure of stepped-up studies hasn't helped him, but, nevertheless, Army looks now to be as good as any team in the

The Cadets' schedule may help Boston College to win the mythical title classification in the new ratings. nolly ripped off several impressive championship. Looking stronger each week, Army has beaten Lafayette, Cornell, Columbia and Harvard. But this week the Cadets must meet a tough Penn team and thereafter will come Notre Dame, V. P. I.,

At Syracuse the large man known as Oscie Solem is doing a bit of a coaching job, too. He lost 15 lettermen and his trick offensive formation, which called for a reversible center. The rule makers reprimanded Solem for his 1941 ball-snapping strategy but even this wrist-slapping hasn't stopped the Orange boss. His Syracuse team has whipped Clarkson, Boston U., Western Reserve, Holy Cross and Cornell so far.

But this has been a comparatively easy schedule. Solem's troubles will start this week end when Syracuse plays North Carolina Pre-Flight. This is the term most likely to stop the Orange. If the Naval Aviators fail they might well soften up Solem's boys to such an extent that Penn State, Colgate or Rutgers will smooth the way for Boston College's bid for

Meanwhile, a determined if not great Georgetown team is en route to Boston for a game with the Eagles, and this hasn't been an easy game for either team in many years.

Disputed Triumph of Gophers Upheld by Big Ten Chieftain

Referce Masker Doesn't Concede Outcome Would Have Been Altered by Penalty

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.-Now that his findings, "We are willing to formost every one, including Referee give and forget," Coach Fritz Crisler James Masker and Commissioner said John L. We bear no ill will, and Michigan still was without a victory over the Gophers in 10 years.

Masker last night admitted a lapse in not calling a 5-yard penalty on Minnesota for too many times out in the last nine seconds of the first half, when the disputed play oc-

Griffith, Western Conference commissioner, in a statement said that "college games never are played over and scores are not reversed, no matter what may have happened, once the game is ended.

Contend Time Ran Out.

In his statement, however, he concluded after hearing reports and studying movies of the game that omission of the penalty (for taking time out to substitute after Minnesota already had exhausted its legal limit of three) was the only defection in the sequence of happening

Michigan officials contended that had the penalty been assessed with the clock ticking off the final seconds. Bill Garnaas would not have had time to kick the goal.

However, Masker did not concede that the lapse altered the outcome of the game.

"It was a lapse traceable to several elements which have been reported in full to Commissioner Griffith,' Masker declared. "But the time element is not as vital as some of the claimants appear to be representing. It would have taken me three seconds to pace off the 5-yard penalty and Garnaas still would have had six seconds to effect his kick. The kick would have been no more difficult from 5 yards back as the clearance on Carnaas' effort revealed. The oversight is regrettable, of course, but I am sure the half would not have expired while the penalty was being stepped off or before Garnaas had made his kick."

Crisler is Considerate. Orally, Commissioner Griffith said that "Things were happening fast and there have been other mistakes in other games under less confusing circumstances. Roosevelt Coach Juggles Team, Shot Through With Injuries, for Wilson Clash

Four Biggest Players In Line Are Among Those Ailing

Eastern and Anacostia To Battle With Loser Dropping Title Hopes

By GEORGE HUBER.

Coach Artie Boyd has his hands full this week doing some plain and fancy juggling with his Roosevelt team trying to get a starting line-up together for tomorrow's game at Wilson. His injured list for the last two weeks has read like the Who's Who of the Rough Riders with practically everybody who is anybody sporting some sort of break or sprain.

or at least play part time, in which case the Riders will be all right because they have a pretty fair first team. The four biggest men in the line, Charley Howard, end; Porky King and Sheldon Oremland, tackles, and Ralph Floyd, guard, and Quarterback Bill Garner and Halfback Irv Kolker, are the ailing boys. Howard, whose leg injury wasn't as serious as at first supposed, although it kept him idle against St. John's last week, and King, who will cover his broken nose with a mask, are listed at starters now, with the others still doubtful.

Roosevelt has to win this one to retain its mathematical chance at the title, and so does Wilson for that matter, but the Riders are given a better chance than the Tigers because they have five series games on the schedule to four for Wilson. The Riders also have won one game against Western, although it appears they may have called it a season after that because they haven't even scored in the last three games.

Play With Backs to Wall. Attracting the most interest in tomorrow's series double bill is the Eastern at Anacostia tilt. This is another "win or else" game, with the loser waving good-by to any chance of landing in the playoffs. No injuries will hamper either team and it promises to be a bang-up fray with no holds barred. Eastern-Anacostia is a young rivalry but it's growing into one of the traditional tilts. Lt. Rolland Lund of the Army Air Force, former Anacostia coach who had a lot to do with making this game the heated affair it is, was in town this week and spoke at a school assembly on Tuesday. He roused the whole school to a high pitch of excitement and the Indians are promising to scalp the Ramblers.

Heading the list of non-series tilts tomorrow is St. John's at Western. The Johnnies lost their opener to Central, but since then have won two games without being scored upon and have totaled 64 points themselves, all of which means that a good Western team will have some Mulvey May Bench Bishop. Coach Fred Mulvey of Western is contemplating one shift in the line-This would bench Ranny Bishop, tackle, and put John Minor Pace Carrying Ball or John Baxter in his spot. "He doesn't have that certain glint in his eye," adds Assistant Coach Billy Richardson, and they agree that perhaps a week on the bench will make Bishop mad enough to do the kind of playing of which he's capable.

And that's all the slender 19rear-old University of Rochester speedster, who has scored 54 points in five games, will say. But there must be more to it than that. Over the five-game stretch he has contributed 488 yards to the Yellowjackets' rushing total of 1,194 yards and has snared 11 passes good for 265 yards—only 85 yards less than the 350-yard total for the

To put it simply, he has accounted for better than 50 per cent of the team's scoring, 40 per cent of the rushing gains and 75 per cent of the aerial yardage.

Secrest reached his scoring peak last week when he scooted for five touchdowns in a 33-0 rout of Hamilton. The remaining three points were scored through conversions by Jim's brother, Dick, co-captain and quarterback of the team, whom Coach Dud De Groot terms the best all-around player on the squad. Of Jim he says: "One of the smartest kids I ever coached. He runs with also had a boost for Dick:

They said the committee was in agreement that the commission had not handled manpower problems effectively in general and they were anxious to acquaint the White House with the facts.

Labor Members Object.

Labor members voiced opposition to the national service legislation as proposed by Mr. McNutt. They say the commission has not given voluntary methods a fair trial. Management members declared they have not dissented to any of the labor panel's proposals and were complimentary in acknowledging labor's co-operation with their policyforming efforts.

Committee members were outspoken in their concern over a state- plants at Colorado-Big Thompson, ment accredited to Mr. McNutt that Estes Park and Marys Lake, Colo. he considered them purely as "advisory" to him and that he held the and other parts of the project lopower of veto as to whether the cated east of the Continental Direport would be submitted either whole or in part to the White House. The committee plans to devote the remainder of the week in completing the statement.

Chairman Responsible.

The executive order under which the commission operates, it was pointed out, places full responsibility with the chairman, and the commission itself and other committees formed by the commission act in an advisory capacity to him. Members of the committee said the report would recommend recognition of management-labor committees in the field and the strengthening of the operations of the United States Employment Service so that it could be depended on that Tuesday's battle did not repto function as a central agency for resent a clash between the main recruiting, transferring and placing armored strength of the two opposof labor.

Senator Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan, said the commission's action to defer trained farm workers on dairy, poultry and livestock farms promised little or no relief to farmers who already have lost their hired hands to the armed services or to more highly-paid industrial jobs. He declared the condition was becoming critical in many as the fourth WAAC officer below sections of the country.

Reports received in Government year. quarters from Arizona state that farmers have started plowing under unpicked and half-picked long staple cotton because no help can be had to harvest the crop. At the same time the Navy Department issued a statement that it would not accept workers engaged in vital war industries.

It added that steps already had been taken to carry out the Manpower Commission farm policy. Specifically, the Navy said, men in selective service classifications based on vital industries or eligible for those categories must obtain selective service releases, and dairy, livestock and poultry farmers in a deferred classification will not be accepted.

The Navy said agricultural regions, especially where farming activities are the principal industry, had been omitted from the Navy's drive for volunteers.

"In co-operation with the War Manpower Commission, the Navy also will direct independent contractors with Navy contracts not to employ men engaged in essential farming work, particularly dairy, livestock and poultry farming," the Navy said. "Through this directive and through this recruiting policy. the Navy is making every effort to keep the home front intact, in order that the battlefronts on land, on sea and in air may obtain the material and supplies necessary to the successful prosecution of the war."

To Spur Retirement

Action of U. S. Steel May Be Followed By Other Firms

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Oct. 29.-United States Steel Corp., in calling yesterday for retirement of $30,000,000 of outstanding debentures, set financial circles wondering how many high-grade securities might be taken out of the market as a result of relief provisions of the 1942 tax

It was pointed out a corporation could take advantage of a 10 per cent post-war excess profits tax redollar of refund with $1.50 of its own money and used the total for debt

"It may be that several hundred million dollars of high-grade corporate securities will be retired in this fashion," commented Dow-Jones, Inc., business news service. "Many of the institutional investors who now hold these bonds and notes doubtless will reinvest in Governments (Treasury bonds).'

Action similar to that of the steel corporation was expected from other companies, notably industrial concerns with an ample supply of cash and whose earnings are subject to the excess profits tax. It was pointed out that few railroad and utility companies had excess profits, for 18,000 of these units-9,000 trailleaving the industrials as the chief beneficiaries. Dow-Jones suggested as "logical candidates" such big corporations vided for each regular pumper in as Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), tional Steel and possibly American Tobacco, Standard of Indiana and Phillips Petroleum Co.

United States Steel's action will retire part of a $75.000,000 issue which was offered in 1940. The call applied to serial debentures maturing in 1944, 1946, 1947, 1948 and 1851. They will be redeemed on or after November 2 at prices stipulated in the debentures, with accrued interest to the end of the year.

New York Cotton

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK. Oct. 29.-Cotton prices faltered today after a feeble early attempt to extend the recent advance. Increased hedge offerings and fresh local selling, stimulated by Washington price control uncertainties, overshadowed a routine demand from trade and mill interests to fix prices on Government textile orders. The feeling of doubt over price control policies was charged with fresh uncertainties by the introduction of a resolution in the Senate proposing an investigation and continuing study of maximum prices fixed on agricultural commodities, as well as payment of subsidies and operations of the CCC in maintaining maximum and minimum prices on farm prices. Late prices were 45 to 60 cents a bale lower, December, 18.29; March,

Capital Financiers Awaiting Test of Ration Banking

Best Ways of Clearing Coupons Being Sought By Actual Practice

By EDWARD C. STONE.

Washington bankers are watching with deepest interest and await- Amer ing results of the ration banking am a program now being tested in upper Am B New York State which is expected am Co to furnish the workable details for Am Ca Nation-wide adoption by the banks Am Co in the near future. The banks are Am Ca co-operating with the Office of Am Cr Price Administration in efforts to tam develop the best methods of clear- Am Er ing these ration coupons.

All businessmen in the New York test area who handle sugar Am H and all dealers above the retail Am H level who handle gasoline are ap- Am Ic plying at the banks for "ration Am I banking accounts." The object of Am Lo the new system is to relieve War Am M Price and Rationing Boards of the | tam burden of handling millions of Am Po ration stamps, coupons and certificates, which interferes with their administrative duties and Am R makes an accurate check of ra- tam F tioning transactions difficult. Ration credits are to be transferred through the banks, much as tAm money is exchanged through checking accounts. Ration banking is Am Si expected to be more simple and Am St effective than the existing system. Am Si The banks will handle this paper with the same equipment and in Am T much the same way as checking accounts. "Overdrafts" are not to Am T be permitted. When the system is adopted na- Am w tionally, the banks are to be paid Am W for handling the ration coupons, Am V this being considered a very valuable service for the war effort. The added revenues in these days of APW limited bank loans will be highly Armo appreciated. Predictions are now Arm being made by the American Arms Bankers Association that the banks Asso will take up ration banking on a broad scale early in 1943. Sharp Trade Gains Noted. The Federal Reserve Board re- Atl Re ports some very sharp trade gains Atlas in many cities in the first nine Atlas months of the year, among the best being a 37 per cent upswing in Baldy Charleston, S. Half enough was enough!

You didn't have to be an earthquake specialist before Pearl Harbor to know a world-wide earthquake was in the making!

It was pretty plain something was brewing - and it wasn't beer! If anything - as far as beer goes - it was going to be half enough beer.

And that's about what happened.

We heard the rumblings way back when. And we figured you just don't walk out on your friends. For our friends, half enough was not good enough.

The simple answer - since we figured beer caps were going to be scarce - was to bottle quarts. And we did. We could have built another brewery with the investment we made on special equipment to bottle quarts. But with that job done - we didn't have to apologize to our friends; we didn't have to ask them to understand the situation. They wanted Arrow Beer. We gave it to them.

Then something else happened: folks really liked the new Arrow package-convenient...generous in size...wholesome! This Arrow Beer Victory Quart made thousands of old Arrow patrons happy, and won thousands of new friends.

You just can't help liking that big, friendly bottle. It gives you the good feeling there's plenty to go 'round. And when you set up its five full glasses for guests - you like knowing you're serving the most popular quart of beer in these parts!

In Victory Quart, regular size bottle, or on draught, money can't buy a finer beer than Arrow! It hits the spot!

Congress Move May Drop Bars, Bring in Nurses

Mason Says Action May Force Board to Relax Restrictions

A move among members of Congress to force the local Nurses' Examining Board to relax its requirements in order to admit more nurses from outside the District to practice here was revealed by Commissioner Guy Mason at a meeting of the District Medical Society last

The Commissioner sald he had been informed by certain members of Congress that, if the board did not revise some of its requirements to meet the present nursing shortage affecting local hospitals, they would present a bill immediately to change the law by which the board was set up in 1929.

Mr. Mason's remarks were made at the close of a session at which local doctors and hospital representatives had faced each other in an open forum on the wartime hospital situation. The Commissioner also announced that the contract for construction of a 150bed addition to Gallinger Hospital, granted priorities by the War Production Board last week, was signed yesterday and that ground for the project would be broken Classed as Defense Workers. He reported also that he had been informed by Price Administrator Leon Henderson, to whom he had addressed a letter on the subject 10 days ago, that local nurses would be classed as defense workers and that the order already had been given for a check to be made to determine which of them should be granted extra gasoline.

A few minutes earlier, Dr. Watson W. Eldridge, chief of medical and surgical supplies at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, had told the society that the shortage of nursing students now reducing the classes of training schools was due to the requirements of the Nurses' Examining Board. He said he had warned before the law creating the board was passed in former nurses, it is estimated, would the registration of nurses that 1929 that it would have this effect. return to active service if they could states: "Nothing in this act shall be effect, he continued, there has been care could be provided for their chil- from nursing any other person in a shortage of students, while there dren while they are away. had been a "plethora" before 1929. It was with the hope of working gratuitously or for hire, provided not afford to operate the schools,"

Broad Powers Granted.

Recalling that Miss M. Cordelia Cowan, executive secretary of the board, in addressing the society a few minutes earlier, had said that everything had been done to relax requirements "outside of changing the law," Dr. Eldridge pointed out that the legislation put the entire power over the nursing profession in the hands of the board and that, therefore, no change in legislation would be needed to revise the rules.

"This board went beyond a matter of merely setting curriculum requirements," Dr. Eldridge charged "It went so far as to say that table

"I've even seen Miss Cowan inspecting the homes with a meter to determine whether they had the required lamps. My son just has been graduated from a college at which his education cost me as high as $1,500 a year. I went there to visit him, and I want to tell you the students' quarters there couldn't begin to pass the requirements of the Nurses' Examining Board."

In answer to a report that some hospitals were reserving obstetrical beds for their own personnel, hospital representatives reported that their wards were constantly crowded. One superintendent said his own institution had accommodated as high as 102 babies at one time when its capacity was only 97. There was general denial that the alleged

Defense Council To Apportion Stirrup Pumps

Central Labor Union Funds to Finance Distribution Plan

A middle-of-the-road policy has been adopted by the Commissioners on distribution and sale to the public of the 21,640 stirrup pumps so far made available to the National Capital for fighting incendiary

The city heads rejected suggestions that the District buy all these pumps and attempt to apportion them among the 200,000 or more District households, or that they let a local retailer, who has secondary claims on the supply, sell them on a "first come-first served" basis. After hours of consideration yesterday at the District Building, in conference with civilian defense and legal officers of the District, the Commissioners decided instead to accept an offer from the Central Labor Union to lead them out of their dilemma

5,000 to Defense Workers. Under the plan, about 5,000 of the pumps would be purchased by the District to be distributed to fire wardens and to fire spotters of the civilian defence corps, for official use in case of an enemy attack.

The remaining 16,000-odd are to be purchased with funds donated to the District for emergency civilian defense use by the Central Labor Union, employing this money as a revolving fund. The 16,000 pumps are to be apportioned by the Civilian Defense Council to the 66 civilian defense areas, on the basis of population, but machinery for the distribution from that point on still is to be worked out. Commissioner Guy Mason said yesterday this, no doubt, would have to be on the basis of "first come—first served."

As revealed last Sunday in The Star, the Sports Center had an agreement with the New Jersey manufacturer for sale of the 21,000odd stirrup pumps. But the manufacturer was bound to give municipal authorities first claim, if they want-

The retail ceiling price on such pumps is $3.30, and it was stated from New Jersey.

Col. Bolles had calculated this might make a difference in total price to District residents of "nearly $40,000." Yesterday, however, officials computed that if freight charges were no more than 14 cents per pump, making the total net charge about $2, the difference between sale by the District and sale by some retailer would be no more than $27,300.

However, under the final decision by the city heads, the majority of the pumps will be sold through the agency of the Central Labor Union fund. The Commissioners shied definitely away from the direct problem of attempting to decide who might buy the pumps on the grounds that it would be impracticable for them to decide who might buy and number.

OPA Promises Further Fight On Bus Hike

W., M. & A. President Hits 'Threats,' but Refuses Fare Cut

Mr. Booth indicated that OPA officials may decide today as to what action they may take against the company on the grounds that the fare boost was in violation of the new price-control law.

Mr. Booth told The Star: "You may be sure we will not let the matter rest there. We go after either the big ones or the little ones, and we hit them hard." But decision as to what steps might be taken was postponed until sometime today.

Halloween Masks Banned In Possible Sabotage Fear

City Faces Most Subdued Celebration In History; Police Frown on Pranksters

The most subdued Halloween celebration in local history was in prospect as Washingtonians prepared today to observe the official "ghosts and goblins day" Saturday in a manner regulated by war.

For one thing, there will be fewer spooks abroad, a survey of department, drug and five-and-ten-cent stores indicated. Most stores reported only limited supplies of wigs and false faces, tin horns and other noise-making devices—explaining that they have been able to obtain few new Halloween items this year.

Resurrecting a law adopted back in Ku Klux Klan days, Police Chief Resurrecting a law adopted back in Ku Klux Klan days, Police Chief

Edward J. Kelly has announced a ban on the wearing of masks on the street by any celebrators, young or as follows: old. The reason is that it might be difficult to distinguish a goblin from Pranks Frowned On.

For the unmasked spirits who are abroad, there will be no objections to merry-making-but it's unpatriotic this Halloween to play pranks that damage or destroy property. Particularly frowned upon by police will be such tricks as draining automobile gasoline tanks, breaking street lights, ringing the doorbells of homes in which war workers are sleeping, and carting off metal garbage cans, which now are hard to

Police Chief Kelly, in an order shifting police working hours to provide an extra large force Halloween night, yesterday instructed his men to "deal firmly with pranksters who go so far as to endanger life and property."

Aiding the Metropolitan police in preventing pranksters from taking Washington apart will be a good many of the 4,000 members of the civilian defense auxiliary police. Part of OCD Job.

Protection of property is part of the job of civilian defense, local OCD headquarters pointed out today. Many communities throughout the country have assigned civilian defense groups to help defend against destructive fun making.

In Glen Echo, Md., for the fifth year in a row, boys and girls will be appointed to municipal offices for the night to divert their attention from the usual Halloween pranks. Every potential window soaper will be at least a deputy marshal. Mrs. Beulah H. McCuen, mayor of Glen Echo, says she figures it's better to let the youngsters run the town than to have them take it apart.

Affecting children and older folks alike, the Commissioners Tuesday urged the abandonment this year of large outside Halloween gatherings, and a survey today revealed that few large gatherings-either outdoor or indoor-have been

No Parade Permits. Chief Kelly, in his order yesterday, reported that no permits for general have been applied for up to this time. The annual Halloween parade sponsored by the Merchants & Manufacturers Association was abandoned last year, as were most of the smaller community and suburban business district celebrations. A number of small parties have been scheduled, however. The District Recreation Department has announced a street parade for Georgetown celebrants, led by a Halloween queen and culminating n a program of entertainment at Gordon Junior High School. There will be a dance at the Georgetown Boys' Club for the older boys and girls, and parties at all Georgetown playgrounds between 4 and 5 p.m. Saturday for tiny tots of the area. The co-ordinated Halloween program in Georgtown is sponsored by the Recreation Department, Georgetown Children's House, Georgetown Boys' Club, Montrose Mothers' Club, Burleith Citizens' Association, Glover Park Citizens' Association, Georgetown Lions' Club and the chairman of the Georgetown Neighborhood Council, Dr. Andre₩ Kress. Prominent Women Boosting Season; Newcomers to Capital Giving Aid

By Katharine Brooks.

Col. Robert Gordon McKay, U. S. A., and Mrs. McKay have come to Washington to make their permanent home and have purchased the house at 1071 Thomas Jefferson street. Mrs. McKay, who formerly was Miss Virginia Osborn, daughter of the late Prof. and Mrs. H. Fairfield Osborn of New York, at the time of her marriage to Col. McKay was the widow of Mr. Ralph Sanger of New York.

Col. and Mrs. McKay are welcome additions to Washington society and Mrs. McKay already has affiliated herself with worthy organizations of the National Capital. One of these in which she is particularly active at this time is the Woman's Committee of the National Symphony Orchestra for which she is serving with Mrs. Truxtun Beale as chairman of the Entertainment Committee. It is their problem to arrange for the entertaining of the artists who will? be soloists at the concerts of the orchestra through the coming season. Last year Mrs. Beale was the sole chairman of this committee and the festivities following each of the concerts added considerably to the brown cloth with a close-fitting gayety of the social season. This round hat of feathers in the same year the responsibility for these parties—as well as the glory for their success—will be shared by Mrs. McKay.

She sat at the speakers' table at the luncheon of the Woman's Committee at the Mayflower yesterday. Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, a symphony The luncheon inaugurated the committee's campaign for the sale of the tickets for the Wednesday evening subscription series of concerts of that organization.

She wore a black costume, the bodice of her gown having a conventiona pattern outlined in fine white stitching and her hat small and becoming. Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, chairman of the Woman's Commi (se, sat on her left and Dr. Hans Kindler, conductor of the orchestra, was on her right.

Quite the most delightful part of the reports and talks on the progress of the sale for these subscription concerts was the brief dialogue between Mrs. Howe and Mrs. Robert H. Dunlap, chairman of publicity for the Woman's Committee. The most of her opportunity and Corrin Strong and Mrs. G. J. Roy asked them as though she knew cliff. nothing of the plans of management of the orchestra and its concerts. Mrs. Howe appeared the patient and painstaking "explainer." Mrs. Howe was dressed in dark shade mingled with dark green and yellow. Mrs. Dunlap also was in brown, the narrow brim of her hat edged with soft brown feathers and about her shoulders a cape of mink

Others at the speakers' table were herself in black and tan, the suit of tan trimmed with black, her blouse of black with pin stripes of tan and her hat all black. At the high neckline of the blouse she wore a large pin of garnets matching her skin about the base of the crown.

Mrs. Corcoran Thom, chairman of the Box Committee for the Wednesday evening subscription concerts, was among others at the long speakers' table. Her committee gave an excellent account of itself, having worked before the opening of the campaign yesterday and reported that already 33 of the boxes have been sold for this subscription series.

Mme. Wistrand, wife of the Counselor of the Swedish Legation, M. Tor Hugo Wistrand, sat between Mrs. Edwin M. Watson, chairman for the Water Gate concerts, and Mrs. Eugene Byrnes, at the head of Committee on Associations. Others there were Mrs. Jack Bryan, vice chairman of the Wednesday Evening Subscription Concerts: Mrs. Charles Bittinger, head of the Orchestra Guild; Mrs. Robert Le Fevre serving with Mrs. Edwin B. Parker on the suburban group; Mrs. Emory Scott Land, who was in charge of the arrangements for the luncheon yesterday. Mrs. Edward R. Finkenstaedt, Mrs. Kindler, Mrs. George Hewitt Myers, the Misses Randolph, script was written by Mrs. Howe Miss Mary Alsop Cryder, Mrs. Peter answering scores of questions which Belin, Mrs. Charles S. Fairfax, Mrs. are asked about the sale and Mrs. H. Russell Bishop, Mrs. Joseph L. Dunlap-who did the asking-made Miller, Mrs. M. B. Hilton, Mrs. L.

> The Woman's Committee has established headquarters at 1727 K street where the special bureau for the re-sale and exchange of tickets or the Wednesday Evening Subscription series is under the direction of Mrs. E. R. Norris and Mrs. Rowcliff. As no tickets are sold for single concerts in this Wednesday evening series and there are many requests for these as well as an occasional subscriber who is out of town or for some other reason unable to use the ticket, this bureau acts as a clearinghouse for these situations.

> The National Symphony Orchesra will open its season Sunday afternon, November 8, the Wednesday evening series to start November 11 and before the two regular series the orchestra will give a concert-Wednesday, November 4 - from which all the proceeds will be given to the Community War Fund. The NSDAR has given the use of Constitution Hall for this benefit concert, Dr. Kindler has given his services to conduct and the Orchestra Association has given the orchestra. Other expenses in connection with the giving of the concert will be so cared for that all the proceeds will help to swell the War Fund. The orchestra gave a concert to benefit the USO, and through the summer a concert at the Water Gate from which the proceeds were divided between the Army Emergency ding. Relief and the Navy Relief.

Miss Dolores ValJean Kobilka was one of Saturday's attractive brides, her marriage to Mr. Thomas W. McGovern taking place at an 8 o'clock mass at Sacred Heart Church, with Msgr. James A. Smyth officiating.

The church was beautifully decorated with palms, chrysanthemums and gladioluses, and the wedding music included solo selections by Mrs. Dean, accompanied at the organ by Miss Marie Sullivan.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's gown was of white mous-seline de soie and lace, made with a draped bodice, bouffant skirt, long sleeves and sweetheart neckline. A coronet of miniature orange blossoms held her veil of illusion. She carried a white pearl prayer book overlaid with a single orchid.

Mrs. Alvin E. Norquist, aunt of the ride, was her only attendant. Her gown was of ice blue crepe with draped bodice and a very full skirt. Her short veil was held by a tiara of blue flowers and she carried an old-fashioned nosegay of yellow

Voteless Group Plans Program On D. C. Schools

Meeting on Nov. 10 To Hear Speakers Discuss Education

"Who is Responsible for the Dis-trict of Columbia Schools?" is the theme adopted by the education department of the Voteless District League of Women Voters for a luncheon meeting November 10, which will be a part of its educational program to focus attention on educational problems here.

Based on the findings of a twoyear league study which have been set forth in a booklet, "Look at Our Schools," the campaign will be carried on during American Education

Designed as a handbook of in-formation about the District public schools, the pamphlet calls for a complete overhauling of the legislation for public education here. Indorsing the findings of the Blauch-Powers report, it advocates repeal of all previous legislation for the school system and passage of a new basic code, establishing the law for operation and maintenance of the school system.

A panel of speakers will discuss educational matters at the November luncheon which will be sponsored by the education department headed by Mrs. Rensis Likert, but open to the general membership.

"We wish to impress upon those that people generally will become interested in this vital subject of ington's public schools."

Vote League Head Urges Women to Go to Polls

Miss Wells Stresses Importance of Election Tuesday

Miss Marguerite M. Wells, president of the National League of Women Voters, believes the elections next Tuesday are so important that even in cases where there are no 'good" candidates in the running, voters should go to the polls to make their choice Even if one candidate were only better" or "worse" than another, she would be inclined to make an election fight, she said yesterday.

The league started a campaign for a "better Congress" last January by stressing that "better candidates" must be available, she pointed out. But once the primaries have been concluded, she is not much impressed by the argument that there is no use getting out the vote f you haven't got a good man in

Belief that the next Congress is to be the most important in United States history has been stressed by the league in its campaign for a "better Congress" and was the subject of a broadside issued for Nation-wide circulation in Octo-

Miss Wells is afraid that many American women are going to feel that they are too busy to vote next Tuesday. Many have extra jobs during wartimes, she pointed out, and household responsibilities be-

She hopes, however, that the realization that democracy is in a more cookies made by members of the critical situation than ever before will have its effect in bringing women to the polls. Mileham Praises Drill of Wardens, Control Personnel

Incident Reporting Last Night Exhibits Marked Improvement

The first of the new series of training exercises for warden and control center personnel last night was is gearing its operations almost exmarked by noticeable improvement clusively to the training of women youths from NYA training centers in the reporting of incidents, civilian defense officials agreed today.

At the same time, Chief Air-Raid Warden William J. Mileham made it clear that only a small portion of the warden service in each area should be "alerted" for each exercise. This was to clear up a misunderstanding in some areas where all wardens had been ordered to stand by every Wednesday night for the duration of the three-month training program.

Both Herbert Friede, chief of communications, and Mr. Mileham commented on the marked improvement of the warden reporters. Mr. Friede said the improvement was noticeable where an "incident warden" had been delegated to make the calls instead of having any warden call in

An incident warden is supposed to be chosen for each telephone from which warden reports are called in to control centers. In an emergency these men would sift the reports of wardens at the scene of the disaster, eliminate duplications and fill out and call in the report to summon aid. They are chosen for their ability to speak clearly and their good judg-

Last night's exercise, during which no equipment was dispatched also marked the first time that incidents were prepared by deputy wardens of each area, an arrangement which the wardens themselves sought so that incidents more closely parallel what might happen in their local communities in a real raid

Mr. Mileham said that his assist ant chiefs had reached about half the areas on their incident report ing instruction tour. A special course in this phase of warden duty now is being prepared, he said, by Dr. Paul Douglass, local OCD director of training.

Boiler Breakdown Gives Students Day's Vacation

1.122 students a one-day vacation today when school officials decided against turning on the oil heating

The breakdown was discovered when the building was opened and water was found standing in the basement. There was no property peanut stand in front of the White House, was hopeful today of obtaining a license to sell war bonds following a short-lived career as bond salesman vesterday in the American Hellenic Educational Progressive Association's national drive for $50 .-000,000 in war bonds.

Steve started out yesterday morning rather auspiciously. Speaker Rayburn was his first customer Newsreel and newspaper cameramen were on hand to record the

The proceedings were interrupted briefly when Secret Service agents reached the crowded scene. Gatherings are not permitted in the vicinity of the White House. When the operatives discovered it was Steve, however, they permitted the Speaker Rayburn then purchased a $25 bond, and received a free bag of peanuts. That's Steve's policy-B bag of peanuts with each bond.

Business went along briskly until late afternoon when the vendor learned that he must have a Treasury Department permit to sell bonds Up to that time Steve's new secretary, Helen Checakalos, was busy taking down the names of purchas-

Steve said this morning he hoped to have his license by tomorrow or Saturday, in time for the week-end rush on peanuts-and bonds.

Tanks End Battle Ahead of Schedule In War Games

Blue Forces Overwhelm Defending Reds in Toughening Up 'War'

By WALTER McCALLUM, Star Staff Writer. HEADQUARTERS 3d ARMY SOMEWHERE IN LOUISIANA, Oct. 29.—Johnny Doughboy slugged his way in, but the tanks did the job this time in the flanking operation which brought to speedy end the current field problem of 4th Corps troops engaged in the toughening-

Sleepless for more than 30 hours and without food for the same interval, tank and infantry outfits with supporting units of the Blue Army, outnumbering the defenders by a 21/2-to-1 ratio, came off with a decision over the opposing Red

The problem, involving an aggressive action by the Blue forces against a covering force to drive it across a wide swift river and pre-vent arrival of Red supports, had been assigned 66 hours for comple-

Blue infantry and tank task forces executed a tactically bruliant pincers movement against strongly intrenched Red units, isolated them, drove their patrols across the stream and quickly brought to an end the maneuver with more than a day to spare. Elapsed time of the job was 40 hours and 45 minutes. The boys may have been hungry and certainly they were tired, so they made it quick, but it was the tanks which Exposed Flank Detected. Maj. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commanding the Reds, with Brig. Gen. Kenneth Buchanan in charge of his infantry, deployed his units to cover roads and paths from one direction, leaving an exposed flank. Infantry patrols of the Blues, under Brig. Gen. Roy Easley, quickly discovered the open southern flank. and by 3 p.m. of the second day Gen. Easley and armored division units under Brig. Gen. John B. Thompson moved north and south cutting in behind the advance patrols of the Reds and inclosing them in a giant pincers as many thousands of men worked their way through the scanty cover and down the roads of the maneuver area.

All through the second night patrols of the invading Blues, behind excellent intelligence reconnaissance work, filtered through the Red defense, and by the morning of the second day the Reds had begun to scramble toward the bridgehead they were supposed to defend.

Holding operations were shattered by the Blue armored units. despite desperately fought actions between tank destroyer units and the lumbering steel ships of the land they are supposed to destroy. Red Army engineer outfits, anticipating a concrete bridge over the river might be destroyed, cutting off their entire force, had thrown a pontoon bridge across in less than

They were right in their preparations, but so quickly was the mock battle concluded that the umpires called off the fight with capture of the Red Army before the bridge could be used. Nor could the Reds. because of the speed of the Blue advance, bring up covering forces to secure another bridgehead a few miles north. The whole thing, spearheaded by the armored units, was too fast.

Toughening Process.

This battle training of American boys here in simulated battle conditions is intended as a final toughening job before the men leave for other areas, largely as units trained to work as teams in task forces. In the words of Lt. Gen. L. J. McNair, commanding the United States Army Ground Forces, the objectives include attainment of a state of discipline which will insure success in battle.

But there are, as in every big organization, some bugs which must be straightened out. Dispersal of equipment has not reached a high state of perfection and moving troops still walk along road edges. Attack aviation would change all that, but at the cost of many lives in actual battle. A field soldier with full pack, cannot dive into a ditch in any number quickly enough to dodge bullets from tree-scraping, ground-strafing planes.

Sailor Has Way To Tell if Bomb Will Hit Ship

BALTIMORE, Oct. 29.-Merchant Seaman J. C. Courson who made a perilous convoy voyage to Russia has a formula to tell whether a bomb will hit your ship.

"All you have to do is watch it. If you can see any part of the tail and if the bomb looks oblong there's nothing to worry about. It'll miss. "But if you see only the points and it looks like a perfectly round dot

... Well ... Then it's time to stand from under. Courson should know. He saw hundreds of bombs loosed on his and other ships for five consecutive days during the trip to Russia. War bonds make bombers to bomb the Axis and lower our taxes. Why not buy some and help yourself?

Christie says I'm one smart woman about washin'... but it's really due to my havin'

SO MUCH

WISH we could tell you how many women have told us things like this-"So much more suds and longer-lastin' suds sure saves backaches and heartaches on washdays!"..."I get my wash extra white with less rubbin' and that makes things wear longer." ... "I cut my washin' time 'way down since usin' Super Suds."

Ma'am - don't you think more suds and longer-lasting suds would help you on washday? Just make the "milk-bottle suds test," and see all those thick, rich, long-lasting suds you get from Super Suds.

HOW YOU MAKE THE "MILK-BOTTLE SUDS TEST"

Just put two teaspoons of your present wash-day soap and a glass of water into a milk-bottle. Do the same with new sudsier Super Suds in another milk-bottle. Use any kind of water, even hard or cold water. Shake the bottles. Just see if there aren't more suds in the Super Suds bottle, and if they aren't longer-lastin' suds, too!

AND DISHES

"I found out how to get more suds by making this 'milk-bottle suds test,' " says Mrs. Cook

"We just got home from the town carnival in this picture. Young Christie is kiddin' his Dad about showin' off his nice new shirt. 'Course it wasn't really new. But, givin' so much more suds, Super Suds gets shirts real white with mighty little rubbin' ... so they keep on lookin' like new."

"When Christie comes home with a work-jacket like this-just standin' with grease-that's when I'm tickled pink knowin' I've got more suds to wash with. With Super Suds, those extra suds soak out grease lickety-split. And bein' such long-lastin' suds, they keep the soaked-out dirt from settlin' back on

This is Mrs. Mabel Quinlan of Hicksville, New York and her daughter, Betty, talking about Super Suds being so easy on the hands. Being so extra-sudsy, it doesn't need harsh chemicals to get dishes clean. Here she's telling Betty: "Your hands

FBI Agents Testify

Burger Becomes Angry When Asked if U. S. Promised Immunity

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—The intended plan of destruction of United States war plants by eight German saboteurs was related by one of the surviving members of the gang and three agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation to a Federal court jury yesterday. The Nazi saboteur, Ernest Peter

Burger, in two days of testimony in the trial of three Chicago couples on charges of treason, accounted for the gang's activities. The FBI agents told of uncovering the huge amount of explosives and sabotage fragile, feminine gown and jacket, material hidden by the German agents in the sands along the Florida coast after they landed from two German submarines last June.

> Earl J. Connelley, assistant director of the FBI, testified that one of the four Nazi saboteurs who had landed near Pointe Vedra, Fla., directed him to a place where they had hidden four boxes which contained 50 large blocks of TNT, a dozen coal type bombs, incendiaries that two shovels and four uniform caps of the German naval infantry were dug up a week later.

The FBI agent linked Herbert Hans Haupt, 22, one of the six Nazis executed in Washington, to the saboteurs' landing by stating it was Haupt who disclosed the location of the second cache.

But what you may not know is that, according to present scientific findings, you must have Vitamin B1 to efficiently transform the bread you eat into the energy you need every day.

This brings up the question—do you get enough Vitamin B, naturally from the food you eat—the way Nature intended? According to U. S. Health Officials-3 out of every 4 people fail to eat a good diet for enough vitamins.

Now this does not mean that you do not get enough Vitamin B₁ so that the bread you eat every day does you no good. What it does mean is this-unless you have sufficient Vitamin B1, you cannot properly

Washington experts estimate that 90,000,-000 man-days' work will be lost this year due to nutritional illnesses alone. A New York State Committee estimates industrial production could be increased 25% by better food. The problem will be solved when wives and mothers put better food on the table and in the lunch box.

A New Kind of Bread One place to start is your daily bread. Remember—bread accounts for 35% of the daily energy millions need. Now, wise Mother Nature put Vitamin B, as well as other vitamins and minerals into wheat. But unwise man took it outtrying to make bread whiter. Then, as a overnment, the makers of the new Wonder Bread put Vitamin B1 back into the bread itself—where it belongs. And, for good measure, added iron for red blood.

The result is a new and improved Wonder Bread. A bread superior in nutritional efficiency than old-style white bread. Report to the Housewife Produce Picture Bright This Week:

Meat Situation More Confusing

By Betsy Caswell,

If you want a look-in on a studious picture, just wander through some of the large local markets these days, and watch the managers and salesinen struggling with rules and regulations from OPA, etc. Noses deep in important looking documents, they are concentrating on all the new and complicated procedure that will govern their buying and selling for the duration. I can't say I blame them for being puzzled. The setup is mostly Greek to me!

This situation is particularly true in the case of the meat dealers, whereas the producemen are fairly free from the red tape. Although some items are "frozen" at certain price levels, the majority are allowed to fluctuate as usual, and, of course, there is as yet no rationing in this The produce picture itself is a bright one. There seems to be plenty of everything, and prices are, for the most part, reasonable. The first chestnuts, of the Spanish type, have come in from California, just in time to pinch hit for meat in a num- & ber of nutritious dishes. You won't confine your use of chestnuts to stuffing and puree to go with turkey this year-you'll make souffles and soups and casserole dishes with them, too. By the way, if you like the old combination of Brussels sprouts and chestnuts, we have some grand recipes for them. Nice white endive has arrived from New York State, and with bitter chicory makes a fine addition to the salad bowl. The endive, however, is not exactly cheap! Excellent avocados, French artichokes, little red radishes and crisp romaine are other salad items highly recommended. Good cucumbers, tomatoes, white summer squash, cauliflower and broccoii are also on the bargain list. And, of course, there are pienty of pumpkins for your Halloween celebration.

Fruits Improve In Variety

More and better fruits are coming in, with the advent of russet Bosc pears, rosy pomegranates, persimmons from West Virginia, green fresh figs from California and a few bananas. There are some pineapples obtainable at the specialty shops, but in general they are scarcer than usual. Florida oranges are still pallid as to juice, but should improve within the next few months. Tokay and Ribier grapes, as well as the seedless type are of good quality. A few crabapples and Seckel pears are still around, but for the most part are fast disappearing. Apples, of course, are plentiful and

Meat Situation Unchanged

The meat situation remains about the same—confusing! Last week end, some of the markets of one of the larger chains had nice little beefsteaks for sale—others, of the same chain hadn't a scrap of beef of any kind. It apparently just depends on how stuff is distributed, Scallops Can Be tain localities has exceeded the supply. And still dealers tell me Prepared in that they see little or no attempt on the part of the public to ration their meet purchases voluntarily as Many Ways their meat purchases voluntarily as the Government has requested.

About the only "new" item to be featured this week are fresh pork shoulders. Other buys will be leg of lamb, some cuts of veal, that elusive beef here and there, turkeys an extra large supply of various smoked sausages, such as bologna, cervelat, salami, etc., on hand the early part of this week. Whether in such a variety of dishes, that, this was because dealers were so though served often, it never beshort on other meats to sell that they were putting out all the sausage meats they had, or whether a new supply had been released we were not able to ascertain. Every- the scallops, dry them between towbody questioned was pretty vague about the whole thing! Fish Somewhat

Bad weather the first part of the week made fish somewhat scarce again, and prices were a little higher than usual. Watch for bargains in fish, therefore, for your week-end purchases, or fall back on cheese or nuts to replace some meat dishes. Eggs are so high in price that they drop out of the picture, almost, as a meat substi-

One Pound Will Go Long Way on Menu

By Marie Gifford

We've been asked by our Secretary of Agriculture to voluntarily limit our meat purchases to a total of $2\frac{1}{2}$ pounds per person per week. That means just 10 pounds of meat for a family of four. It will necessitate a bit of active planning on our part to use that amount to best advantage. But it's really not hard to do if you'll buy wisely and use every pound of meat to the very best advantage-stretch it to make the most servings.

I know of no purchase that will yield more downright goodnessmore servings per pound than package of pork sausage. Buy it in 1-pound rolls of sausage meat, -pound cartons of links (about 16 sausages), or 1-pound cartons of patties (about 12 patties).

Plan to make full use of both the meat and the delicious sausage fat that fries out. If French toast is served with the sausage, use the fat for frying the toast; if it's used in a casserole dish, use the fat for the white sauce and for "buttering" the crumbs.

A pound of sausage-not combined with other "extenders"—will only satisfy about 2 or 3 good appetites, but if you combine it in a casserole with potatoes, spaghetti, macaroni, rice, corn, etc., it can be stretched to serve 4, 5 or even 6.

SAUSAGE RAREBIT. pound pork sausage. 1/4 cup sausage fat.

3/2 teaspoon paprika.
Shape sausage meat into small balls and pan fry slowly for 10 to 12 minutes until well browned. Remove to hot plate. Use 1/4 cup sausage fat for sauce. Mix flour in fat, add milk and stir until thickened. Season with mustard, paprika and salt to taste. Add cheese and stir until melted. Serve over toast with balls of sausage on top. Serves 5. SCALLOPED CORN AND

Gelatin Does the Trick

Unflavored Type Used to Turn Leftovers Into Delicacies

DO IT WITH GELATIN! If you have the problem of getting variety into your meals, or if you are puzzled over what to do with odds and ends of left-over meat, vegetables or fruit, you will find a friend in unflavored gelatin. With its aid you can convert leftovers into good-looking, delicious salads, and you can add variety to menus with very little extra work. Serve these salads as the main dish for luncheon or supper, as a separate course, or as dessert. Incidentally you will be working hand in hand with the Government's nutrition program, because salads like these help you on the one hand to get fruits and vegetables into your menus and on the other to use up leftovers and practice war conservation to

Learn to Eat Wisely

Study Food Values to Gain Most From Various Items Available

By the Victory Chef

An undernourished, poorly fed populace is going to be no great help in winning this man's war. Improper dieting is no contribution. Sane, ensible meals seven days a week are all important.

Feeding the human body, though, is like feeding a furnace with coal. It is as easy to overfeed as to underfeed, and many a heating system fails to deliver efficiently because it is badly fed. The same things applies to the human body.

Many Americans have been overeating for many a day. Many others have been eating unwisely, regardless of quantity. In these war days it is the duty of each and every one to eat properly. The conservation of certain food items must be practiced. But in their places there are proper alternatives. Here, in these articles, I can give you but a few, but they are designed to point the way to your own thoughtful studies.

For example, just in passing, let me point out the general prevalence of a cup, even two cups of coffee at noon, following a cup or two for break-cash two club tricks. "After two cigarettes and half a glass of water, South saw a way out of his trouble. On the fourth round of trumps, he discarded the ace of hearts from dummy! Then he cashed the king and queen of hearts, discarding from dummy the ace and king of diamonds! "That allowed him to lead the jack of diamonds, forcing out the queen. while he still had his last trump to assure re-entry to his own hand.

Pretty neat, isn't it?" We'd say it was more than neat: brilliant is our word for it. Maybe we're too suspicious, but we think the hand has a sort of manufactured look about it. But our correspondent didn't say the hand was actually played; and it's certainly interesting enough, even if it just came out of somebody's fertile imagination.

Yesterday you were Howard Schenken's partner and, with neither side vulnerable, you held:

Today you hold the same hand, but the bidding is different: Schenken Jacoby You Lightner Pass 10 Pass (?) What do you bid? (Answer to-

The Most Perfect

Providence: Would I be presumptuous if I were to remind you of an outstanding error made in one of your recent articles, that of the 'most perfect example"?-R. D. have objected to "most perfect" as a violation of the general rule that superlatives such as "perfect" cannot be compared. But the rule is not an inflexible one. In "A Working Grammar of the English Language," the noted grammarian James C. Fernald has this to say: "Adjectives expressing some quality that does not admit of degrees are not compared when used in their strict or full sense; as, square, NATURE'S CHILDREN perpendicular, circular, absolute eternal, complete, perfect, etc. But such adjectives are often used in a modified or approximate sense, and when so used admit of comparison. If we say 'This is more perfect than that,' we do not mean that either is perfect without limitation, but that 'this' has 'more of the qualities that go to make up perfection than

'that.' Most modern authorities take the sensible stand that grammar and hairy bodies, have an exceed-("which youth loathes and maturity perfectest herald of joy"; Milton wrote, "Hail! divinest Melancholy," harmony."

The subject of comparisons and superlatives is discussed in detail in my free pamphlet which I shall be glad to send to you with my compliments and the good wishes of this paper. Send a stamped (3-cent), self-addressed envelope to Frank Colby in care of The Evening Star. Ask for Comparisons Pamphlet.

Great fear of spiders has been the truth in them. Tarantulas may be found in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California. They may be found in burrows which they construct themselves, in those left by a rodent or gopher, under a stone or some object. Tarantulas prefer spots that are not overgrown with weeds. They impede travel and for this reason plain, stony places appeal to them the exercise of excavating tunnels. They are not doing this to get food, as they can find all they need above ground. They seem to get a thrill out of pouncing upon a hefty grasshopper and they dote on fat cockroaches. If very hungry they will eat worms, though these are not relished. Tarantulas live to be very old. At 20 years of age they seem quite spry. The most critical time of their existence is when they moult. This they do twice a year during their early years, later once a year. A few days prior to moulting the spiders refuse all food and appear to be sick. The day before they lie on their back. The moulting process starts when the upper skin of the fore part of the body splits along the side. This opening gradually widens and the tarantula comes out.
