STALIN HITS FAILURE TO OPEN SECOND FRONT

U. S. May Cancel Out-of-Town Holidays

OPA First to Act; Public Transport Jam Anticipated

By ALFRED TOOMBS.
The Office of Price Administration has canceled all annual leave during the Christmas holidays for persons who would require public transportation to reach their homes, and all other Government agencies are likely to take the same action, The Star learned late today.

The OPA order to its employees has been sent to department heads in that agency. The executives are ordered not to grant annual leave during the period between December 15 and January 15.

The action is being taken, it was explained, as "a contribution toward solving war transportation problems." The order says that "no annual leave involving use of public transportation" is to be allowed during the prescribed month.

A spokesman at the Office of Defense Transportation said it appeared certain that similar orders would be issued in all war agencies. He said it was expected that an effort would be made to get old-line Federal agencies to join the action.

The ODT, it was explained, has been extremely worried over the Christmas holiday travel situation. It was pointed out that thousands of service men will be traveling home during this period and that the already overburdened railroads will be hard put to handle the traffic. It was indicated that every effort would be made by the ODT to hold down public travel during the holiday period.

The order to OPA employees, it was pointed out, does not bar annual leave from December 15 to January 15 for those who can reach their homes by some means other than public transportation.

U. S. Rules Salaries In Hollywood Can Exceed Limit Till '43

Treasury Says Action Has No Effect After End of Present Year

By the Associated Press.
The Treasury ruled, in effect, today that Hollywood's big salaries may continue to the end of 1942 without regard to the $25,000-a-year limit.

The motion picture salary situation was not mentioned specifically in the ruling, but it followed reports from Hollywood against a previous decree interpreted there as meaning that no one could be paid more wages in 1942 than he received in 1941, or more than $25,000 net, which ever is the larger sum.

There are many in Hollywood who already have had at least $25,000 so far this year and one point raised was whether they could be forced to fulfill their contracts at no added compensation.

Specifically, the Treasury said today that 1942 salaries in excess of 1941 salaries are permissible, when such 1942 salaries are required by a bona fide contract promulgated before October, 1942.

The Treasury emphasized that the new ruling relates solely to 1942 salaries and has no effect on application of the $25,000 limitation for 1943. It said employers and employees should arrange their contractual relationships for 1943 so as to comply with the salary limitations.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 6 (AP).—The film industry, which didn't coin the word colossal, but made it famous, could use the term today to describe its state of befuddlement as it awaited clarification of the new wage-ceiling order, which kept scores of highly-paid movie employees from receiving their weekly paychecks.

The seven major studios tried to win the salaries of their top-bracketed actors, producers, writers and directors as batteries of lawyers studied the Government's decree, which, as it is interpreted here, bars any one from receiving more wages than he drew in 1941, or more than $25,000 net, whichever is the larger sum.

There are scores—perhaps hundreds—in the studios who already have netted at least $25,000 so far this year, and one point adding to the puzzle of the industry is whether they can be forced to fulfill their contracts at no added compensation.

Army Career Or House Seat Up to Rogers

By the Associated Press.
Second Lt. Will Rogers, Jr., faces the choice of asking release from Army service or declining the seat in the National House of Representatives which he won in Tuesday's election.

President Roosevelt directed four months ago that all members of Congress then in the armed services should be placed as soon as possible on an inactive status.

This order, and Secretary of War Stimson's expressed attitude that present war conditions made it impossible to be both a soldier and a national legislator, were believed by officials to apply directly to Lt. Rogers.

Lt. Rogers, son of the humorist, won as a Democrat in the Los Angeles (Calif.) district, defeating Representative Leland Ford, Republican. Now on duty at Camp Hood, Tex., Lt. Rogers was quoted during the campaign as stating he would quit the Army and take his seat if he were elected.

The narrow Democratic margin in the House gave his action importance beyond his own political career.

Whether Lt. Rogers would be permitted on application to resign his commission completely, or be merely transferred to inactive status is a matter for Secretary Stimson, subject to approval of the President as commander in chief.

Higgins to Build 1,200 Planes in 200 Million Deal

Plans Six-Engine Cargo Craft Bigger Than Martin Mars

By JAMES Y. NEWTON.
Andrew Jackson Higgins announced this afternoon he had closed negotiations with the Government to build 1,200 cargo planes, a large number of engines of a new type, accessories for aircraft and to develop new "wood alloys." All of the projects will cost in excess of $200,000,000.

At the same time Mr. Higgins said he would build on his own accord a huge new cargo plane which will be able to carry a load nearly three times as great as the Glenn Martin Mars. This six-engine plane will be built of a new type of plywood, its loaded weight will be 300,000 pounds, while its normal carrying capacity was estimated at 100 tons.

Mr. Higgins said he had received a letter of intent from the Army calling for expenditure of about $30,000,000 to "convert" his unfinished plant at New Orleans for production of airplanes and plane accessories.

Contract Signed With Army.
He said he also received a letter of intent to build 1,200 planes of a type similar to the Curtiss Commando. This project alone, Mr. Higgins said, will cost about $180,000,000.

A definite contract has been signed, Mr. Higgins said, with the Army's Services of Supply to build a new type of engine which he developed in co-operation with an inventor. Without going into details of the engine design, Mr. Higgins said it would use much less gasoline than any now in service. The first order calls for marine engines, although Mr. Higgins said the design was very flexible and could be used for other purposes with slight alterations.

OPA Tire Inspection Plan in Maryland Is Held 'Doubtful'

Difficulties Expected By Elgin Because of Manpower Shortage

By the Associated Press.
The OPA tire inspection plan in Maryland is being held "doubtful" by Elgin because of a serious shortage of manpower, it was learned today from a spokesman at the OPA.

The spokesman said that the OPA had received approval from the War Relocation Authority for the tire inspection plan in Maryland, but that the plan was being held "doubtful" because of a serious shortage of manpower.

President Orders All Agencies To Turn In Spare Scrap Metal

Federal Departments Asked to Donate Everything Not Needed for Protection

By the Associated Press.
The President has asked me to tell you that the Federal Government must co-operate to the fullest possible extent in the national salvage program being conducted by the Conservation Division of the War Production Board.

All Federal agencies were ordered by President Roosevelt this afternoon to launch an intensive drive for scrap metal.

The President said Federal departments were to turn in "all surplus and excess metals except those of irreplaceable historic value."

The President's order was made public by Lesling J. Rosenwald, director, Conservation Division, War Production Board. He released a letter from Stephen Early, secretary to the President, in which Mr. Roosevelt's desires were set forth.

Mr. Rosenwald said that metal items which might be obtained from Federal agencies included fences, railings, gates, grillwork, etc.

No indication was given as to whether the iron fence around the White House, on which scrap collectors have been casting covetous eyes, was to be included in the drive.

The text of Mr. Early's letter follows:

D. C. War Fund Totals $2,372,389; Akers Asks Greater Effort

Teams Urged to Drive For $4,141,000 Goal By Next Thursday

By the Associated Press.
The last Community War Fund luncheon of the week at the Willard Hotel today saw total subscriptions increased to $2,372,389.44, leaving a remainder of more than $1,786,000 to be raised for the next three luncheons next week before the campaign closes Thursday.

The $156,758.83 reported today brought the total to date to $7,292,990.37 out of a goal of $14,141,000.

Campaign Chairman Floyd D. Akers called on workers to go out over the week end, and in a "door-to-door, store-to-store" solicitation get enough pledges to report more than $600,000 at each of the three forthcoming luncheons. They will be held Monday, Tuesday and Thursday.

Government Unit today reported 14,653 givers and $109,682.03 subscriptions, bringing the total to date to $3,392,947.88.

The total to date is $1,581 per cent of the goal of $2,065,000. John M. Carmody, member of the Maritime Commission reported.

Other Units Reported.
Group Solicitations Unit reported 3,003 givers, $29,227.55 today, bringing totals up to 24,867 givers, $705,000.

Improper Sale of Coffee Investigated in Maryland

By the Associated Press.
BALTIMORE, Nov. 6.—A State-wide investigation of coffee selling practices was under way in Maryland today, designed to protect consumers from having to buy other commodities to obtain the breakfast beverage.

State headquarters of the Office of Price Administration said the practice of requiring consumers to buy other commodities in order to get coffee was in effect a method of increasing the price of coffee, and therefore a violation of OPA regulations.

State Enforcement Officer Cornelius P. Munday said inquiries had uncovered one case in which a grocer was registered to sell coffee, but under a private rationing setup. The grocer, Mr. Munday said, required customers to sign blanks agreeing to purchase at least half their food requirements from him. In return for which he would sell them scarce commodities, such as coffee and meat.

Mr. Munday said the grocer in question had been called before the State OPA authorities and agreed to halt the practice. He said that where investigation disclosed such practices, warnings would be sent out to retailers before institution of court proceedings.

Britain Stages Big Checkup To Catch 'War Dodgers'

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 6.—United States and Canadian military police just last night in the biggest checkup yet on "war dodgers" and leave-breaking soldiers in London's West End.

Civilians, soldiers, sailors and air-men leaving hotels, cafes and subway stations were asked to show their identity cards.

A number of civilians who were unable to produce identity cards or gave a satisfactory explanation were taken to police stations for further questioning.

The police were reported to have taken the names of 6,000 persons found without identity cards while the number detained at police stations was said to have run into the dozens.

Two AWOL Soldiers Held As Robbers and Kidnapers

By the Associated Press.
MILWAUKEE, Nov. 6.—Two young men identified by Detective Capt. Alphonse Kraemer as soldiers AWOL from Camp Chaffee, Ark., today were charged in Marinette County warrants with armed robbery, kidnaping and automobile theft.

Capt. Kraemer said the men gave their names as Ernest Martin, 23, of Moreland, Ga., and Charles Bennett, Jr., 22, of Spring Hope, N. C. They said they had been absent from Camp Chaffee without leave since September 6.

The warrants were based on the story of George Massa, 19-year-old Iron Mountain (Mich.) taxicab driver, who said the men called him to an Iron Mountain restaurant Wednesday night and asked him to drive them to Pembine, Wis. At Pembine, Massa said, one man drew a pistol and forced him into the back seat. The men robbed him, he said, then drove to Milwaukee, forcing him to accompany them.

The men were arrested in the cab near Milwaukee.

Leary Acts to Set Up Tire Inspection Stations for D. C.

By the Associated Press.
In addition to the tire inspection stations to be named, Mr. Leary said he expected to make arrangements with Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer so that the annual District inspection could be arranged to count as one of those required by OPA.

The District OPA administrator urged those interested in appointment as inspection stations to apply immediately to the local OPA office at 5601 Connecticut avenue, N.W. No form will be necessary, he said. A letter stating the qualifications and equipment for the job will be all that is necessary.

Assures People Of Allied Drive Sooner or Later

Asks That Varying Ideologies Not Be Stressed at Present

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Nov. 6.—Joseph Stalin gravely told Russia's allies tonight that failure to open a second front would result in catastrophe for them, and at the same time assured his people that there would be such an Allied offensive "sooner or later."

He expressed confidence in the military potential of the Allied coalition—the United States, Britain and Russia.

It has "all the possibilities for victory and it will win," he said, urging at the same time that ideological differences between Russia and her Allies not be stressed "in the face of the common foe."

He said that if there were a second front in Europe drawing 60 German divisions away from Russia as during the first World War, "We would be witnessing the end of the German Fascist armies because our troops would be in Pskov, Minsk and Zhitomir."

Reds Fighting 3,000,000.
Instead, he said, Russia has 3,000,000 of the enemy arrayed against her in 240 divisions while only 15 Axis divisions were engaged by the British eighth army in Egypt.

He said that because of the lack of a second front the Germans had been able to break through the Russian lines last summer for their 300-mile eastward and southeastward drives which carried them to the banks of the Volga, into Stalingrad, and deep into the Caucasus.

"I think no other army or country could stand up to such an onslaught," he said. Then, answering the question, "Will there be a second front?" he said:

"Yes, there will be one sooner or later because it is no less essential for our allies than us."

Anniversary of Revolution.
Stalin's 44-minute address to the Soviet was in commemoration of the quarter-century anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

He said that it was not enough that Allied resources were growing, but that they must also be mobilized for victory.

"There are people who doubt that the British-Soviet-American coalition can mobilize all its resources."

"They say that as a result of our different social systems we cannot do this, but I think this is not so."

It would be ridiculous, he added, to stress ideological differences between Russia and her Allies in the face of the common foe.

"We must act in collaboration. The British-Soviet-American coalition has all the possibilities for victory and it will win."

"The moral and political reserves of the Germans in Europe are being exhausted" and the peoples are stirring, the Premier said. "The enslaved nations are awaiting their turn to take revenge on the oppressors."

Axis Coalition Falling Apart.
"They know that the Italian-German coalition is falling to pieces. They are banking on assistance from the democratic coalition. The moral and political reserves of that coalition are being exhausted."

British Army Drives Two Wedges Through Rommel Forces in Egypt; Capture of 13,000 Men Claimed

Allies Fighting Inside Enemy Positions

By The Associated Press.

CAIRO, Nov. 6.—Three fast armored divisions of the British 8th Army led by Lt. Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery have driven two wedges through Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces and are fighting inside enemy positions.

The Axis high commands conceded that the Allied offensive was nearing Matruh, 104 miles west of the old El Alamein battle line, but the British said officially only that the battle had been carried "well west of El Daba," 33 miles from El Alamein.

Tanks were operating at the heels of the Axis retreat in the El Daba sector, a British communiqué said. The steady liquidation of Marshal Rommel's forces was recorded today in the official disclosure that his losses by capture alone now total more than 13,000 men and that at least 339 of his tanks have been knocked out.

The full measure of the Axis defeat was indicated in a British communiqué which told of a roundup of large numbers of Italians abroad, apparently abandoned in their inland positions while the Germans on wheels or caterpillar tracks tried to save themselves by flight along the coastal road.

Full Retreat Reported.

Portions of Marshal Rommel's armies which managed to escape the tank wedging and encirclement were said by Gen. Montgomery to be in full retreat.

This situation—of deep tank thrusts encirclement and hammering pursuit—suggested that the fate of the German-Italian North African corps might well be sealed before the surviving portions could retreat across the Egyptian Libyan border some 150 miles farther west.

Gen. Montgomery told of the armored penetrations when he received correspondents at his desert headquarters yesterday to announce complete and absolute victory in the El Alamein.

(A well-informed British source at London said of the land offensive that "there is reason to believe that our armored forces now have succeeded in getting behind some of the retreating German and Italian formations and that their retreat is virtually cut off."

"There are high hopes that we may be able to annihilate them completely without having chase them across the Libyan desert as in other advances."

The Axis high commands still led the British in progress reports on the Allied offensive. The broadcast communique from Rome and Berlin placed the area of violent combat between Fuka and Matruh—62 and 104 miles west of the original El Alamein line.

79 More Tanks Destroyed.

The new British figures on tanks destroyed and prisoners taken incorporated the latest figures, 4,000 more men and at least 79 more tanks. And still the roundup went on in the desert and the relentless attacks on Marshal Rommel's rearguards continued along the coastal road, paced by a continuous aerial offensive which dwarfed the Axis air efforts.

(Allied pressure of the Axis' Mediterranean supply line was emphasized by the London Admiralty's report that six more Axis vessels had been sunk and two damaged by British submarines.)

Dispatches from the front suggested that the battle of North Africa rapidly was degenerating into a race across the desert, with Marshal Rommel's forces trying desperately to escape utter destruction.

Among the captives taken yesterday, a communiqué said, was the commander of the Italians' vaunted Trento Division and his chief of staff. (The authoritative British Press Association in London identified the Italian as Gen. Francisco Scotti.)

Axis Driven From Skies.

The Axis air forces appeared to have been virtually driven from the skies over Egypt, the British reporting that their troops were free from their own bombers hammered at the enemy almost unopposed.

Five enemy fighters which tried to intercept Allied planes were shot down yesterday along with a small communications aircraft. Allied losses were put at four planes.

As the 8th Army pursued its advance across the desert, the potential battle area, limited heretofore to the narrow 40-mile front between the Mediterranean seacoast and the Quattrà Depression, widened steadily.

(A Reuters dispatch from Cairo said the battlefront already had doubled in length—a statement which would indicate that fighting had progressed beyond Fuka.)

Some Still Holding Out.

Although some Axis forces were reported yesterday to be holding out in isolated spots on the southern end of the El Alamein line, Gen. Montgomery asserted that they would "quickly be put in the bag."

The British general called on his armored formations to follow up the victory he proclaimed, striking at the retreating enemy with unrelenting force.

Egyptian Victory One of Major Proportions, Roosevelt Says

British 8th Army Using Only Small Amount Of U.S.-Made Equipment, President Says

By The Associated Press.

President Roosevelt analyzed the Allied campaign in North Africa today as having the appearance of a victory of major proportions.

"We don't know and won't know, the President said, until we have had troops in action on a major scale. There is no way of telling how thoroughly trained troops will succeed until they have been in action, Mr. Roosevelt remarked."

The action, the President declared, is on a limited scale on both sides because of difficulties in getting in men and materials.

But he said that the importance of an operation could not necessarily be gauged by its extent, since its importance might be much greater than its size.

Probably far less than half of the equipment came from the United States, he said, and this equipment, he went on, has been instrumental in the advance only to a minor degree.

He was asked whether, if the British 8th Army were taken as a level of perfection in achievement and training, this country had anything to equal it.

"The President said, 'I don't know, but I hope so.'"

"I don't know and won't know, the President said, until we have had troops in action on a major scale. There is no way of telling how thoroughly trained troops will succeed until they have been in action, Mr. Roosevelt remarked."

He said, responding to another inquiry, that our operations on Guadalcanal in the South Pacific could not be regarded as of major proportions.

"The action there, the President declared, is on a limited scale on both sides because of difficulties in getting in men and materials."

But he said that the importance of an operation could not necessarily be gauged by its extent, since its importance might be much greater than its size.

He was asked whether, if the British 8th Army were taken as a level of perfection in achievement and training, this country had anything to equal it.

"The President said, 'I don't know, but I hope so.'"

"I don't know and won't know, the President said, until we have had troops in action on a major scale. There is no way of telling how thoroughly trained troops will succeed until they have been in action, Mr. Roosevelt remarked."

He said, responding to another inquiry, that our operations on Guadalcanal in the South Pacific could not be regarded as of major proportions.

"The action there, the President declared, is on a limited scale on both sides because of difficulties in getting in men and materials."

French Give Up On Madagascar, Ask Armistice

Terms of Surrender Are Communicated to Governor by British

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Vichy forces opposing the British in Southeast Madagascar asked for an armistice and hostilities ceased at 2 p.m. (Madagascar time) yesterday, an authoritative source announced today.

The only recent fighting on the island in the Indian Ocean has been in the southeastern section, so the armistice, in effect, terminates the Madagascar campaign.

The Vichy radio announced this afternoon that French troops in Madagascar evacuated the town of Antananarivo during the night of November 3 after heavy fighting.

Conditions Given to Annet.

A Reuters report from Port Louis, Mauritius, said the British radio at Tananarive, Madagascar's capital, broadcast an announcement that armistice conditions had been communicated to Armand Annet, French governor general of the island.

The British launched their successful campaign against Madagascar six months ago.

In May 5 a joint Admiralty and War Office communiqué announced that British forces had been landed in the island where, it was charged, the Japanese for months had been plotting to seize the vital Diego Suarez naval base.

Lying at the northern tip of the Madagascar east coast and only 300 miles from the African coast, this sheltered base is of great importance to control of the Indian Ocean and shipping around the Cape of Good Hope.

Diego Suarez fell to the British on May 7. Four months later they launched a drive, on September 10, to occupy all of the island, but Vichy resistance was fiercer than expected and it took 13 days.

The armistice request which brought an end to fighting in the southeast was the second made by Gov. Annet. The first was on September 16 when the British were closing in on the capital, but Vichy found the terms unacceptable and French resistance, such as it was, continued.

Three more batteries were silenced and 19 German dugouts and blockhouses were wrecked by Soviet shells on the steppes northwest of Stalingrad, it was announced.

"The Moscow radio reported the defenders of the city, in letter expressing determination to fight to the last breath, said: 'We are sure the time is not far off when we shall hear of the opening of a second front.'"

The letter was addressed to Premier Stalin. Delivered on the eve of the 25th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution, it expressed confidence that the troops would "deal a crushing blow to the enemy from Stalingrad."

"The entire world is watching our struggle," it said. "The voices of our Allies are reaching us from all corners of the globe, expressing admiration for our resistance. Accepting this moral aid, we are sure the time is not far off when we shall hear of the opening of a second front. This will be not only a moral but a real support for the defenders of Stalingrad and will hasten and help achieve victory over the enemy."

Bitter Fighting.

Savagery of the conflict southeast of Nalchik, where the Russians are fighting to hold the routes leading to the Grozny oil fields and the strategic valleys between the Caucasus mountain chains, was illustrated by an account from the Soviet Information Bureau.

"In one sector," it said, "about 250 Russian soldiers were killed."

Actress Injured in Studio

Carrier Survivor Saved 5, Tossing $500,000 Away

By The Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—Five months ago, when the aircraft carrier Yorktown sank during the Battle of Midway, Pvt. Peter Schultz, 22, of the marines, had a decision to make—lose $500,000 or save the lives of five sailors.

He saved the lives of the sailors. Pvt. Schultz told of the exploit during a Navy radio program, which originated at the site of Tun Tavern, birthplace of the marines.

Pvt. Schultz, a native of Short Hills, N. J., told this story.

"Five minutes after orders to abandon ship I was given a mail sack containing a reputed $500,000 to salvage. But at almost the same time I saw four sailors trapped in the ship's wreckage."

"I didn't have time to think or I dropped the sack overhead and went after the sailors. When they were safe, I went back to the ship to find a line, and there I saw a fifth sailor still on board. I hooked my hand in my belt and swam over to a destroyer."

Allied bombers also struck for the second successive day at enemy-occupied towns of Maobisse and Alley in Portuguese Timor, northwest of Australia, and at the Japanese north shore New Guinea base at Salamaua. The foe's Buin-Faizi area in the Northern Solomons also was bombed again last night.

The Navy disclosed that United States warships still were active in the Solomons. They shelled Japanese positions on the north coast of Guadalcanal near Kokumbona the night of November 3-4.

Army aircraft also continued to assault Japanese troops and supply dumps in the same area without opposition, but no results of either the aerial or naval attacks were detailed.

Nash Urges Unfiled Command.

Meanwhile, an appeal for a coordinated American naval and Army command in the South Pacific was voiced here by Walker Nash, Minister to the United States and the Pacific War Council from New Zealand.

Advocating unification "to get results," Mr. Nash asserted in a radio broadcast last night that "it is imperative that the United States commanders—Gen. MacArthur and Admiral Halsey—work in close cooperation."

McIver: "Well, what's happening?"

Whitley: "Well, it looks from here as though his bullets are tearing away part of our tail."

McIver (striving to keep the bucking plane on an even keel): "What part of the tail?"

Whitley: "It's that thing that wiggles—you know. I don't rightly know its name."

McIver: "Well, you must be able to see it from where you are. What's it called?"

Whitley: "I see it, sure, but I dunno what to call it. It's just one of those things that wiggle when you steer."

McIver (holding convulsively to the wheel): "Which way does it wiggle?"

Whitley: "An interval follows while Whitley studies the situation in the rear."

McIver: "Top gunner to pilot, it don't move in any direction now."

Whitley: "Top gunner to pilot, it don't move in any direction now."

Nazis Reported Using 500 Planes to Rush Troops to Rommel

Japs Said to Have Refused Hitler Plea for Naval Diversion Attack

By The Associated Press.

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 5 (Delayed).—Information received here from Greece today said the Germans, in a desperate attempt to bolster Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's retreating forces in Egypt, were using more than 500 planes to transport troops from near Athens, Greece, to an unknown German African base.

This information said the troops had been removed from the Russian front to near Athens.

An earlier report had said four trainloads of German soldiers from the Eastern front, transported through Rumania and Yugoslavia, had passed through Athens Monday.

Nazi Plea to Japs Reported.

The newest advice said transport planes to speed the passage of the reinforcements to Africa had been in use since Tuesday. Normally the troops would be sent by sea via Crete.

Another report in the Turkish capitals given circulation today by an informed Japanese quarter.

It said that a week ago Berlin had realized the perilous situation of the Axis forces in Africa and Hitler had appealed to Tokio for indirect aid in the form of a Japanese naval attack on Madagascar or South Africa which might compel a shift of strength southward.

This report added that Tokio would be expected to call things by their right names. In moments of stress he never gets excited, but names like aileron, or stabilizer, or rudder simply desert him.

Unfortunately, George commands the best view of attacking Zeros, being in the overhead gunner. Other members of the crew, like Navigator Lt. George B. Wallace and Bombardier Edward H. Hansen, both of Chicago, also must go through reporting things on the interphone. Such conversations as this frequently occur:

AFL Strike Sweeps Three Pittsburgh Department Stores

One Forced to Close; War Labor Board Asks Employes to Return

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 6.—A strike by members of three AFL unions today closed Gimbels department store, one of Pittsburgh's largest, and strikes by two of the three unions hampered operations at Kaufmann's and Frank & Seder department stores.

Gimbels closed after the Retail Clerks Protective Association and the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' Alliance joined in a two-day-old strike of building employes. The clerks remained at work at Kaufmann's and Frank & Seder.

The approximately 500 service employes, including elevator operators, involved in the strike are seeking a 20 per cent boost in wages ranging from $17 to $27 weekly. Charles G. Levey, international representative of the building service employes, said:

S. R. Robb, representing the department stores, said the union and turned down two proposals, one to accept a wage increase based on increased living costs and the other to place all controversial matters before the War Labor Board.

The War Labor Board today asked striking building service employes in three Pittsburgh department stores to return to their jobs pending mediation efforts.

The request was made in identical telegrams to S. R. Robb, secretary of the Labor Standards Association in Pittsburgh, and Charles G. Levey, international representative of the Building Service Employees' International Union, Local 29.

The board held that the strike interfered with war work in the Pittsburgh area and said "the board under its protective jurisdiction may act in cases where strikes are in progress."

Chiefs of Rail Unions Talk With Roosevelt

Presidents of two railroad brotherhoods, D. B. Robertson of the Locomotive, Firemen and Engineers, and A. F. Whitney of the Railway Trainmen, talked with President Roosevelt today about "the railroad situation generally as it affects labor."

Mr. Whitney said the question of wages was not discussed as "we are not bothering the President on that."

tion are growing from day to day." He said that "no same man would attempt to destroy the Hitlerites' military power."

The second task after that, he said, would be to eliminate the "slave system which Germany calls the 'new order' and the third task would be to destroy the builders of this order.

The Soviet Premier said that never before had Russia been as strong and well-organized on the home front.

he said, came after the Red Army had routed the Germans on the approaches to Moscow last winter, attacked and seized the offensive.

Nazis Far Off Schedule.

Returning a second time to mention of the second front, Stalin said that the Germans had been able to concentrate on one sector and take the initiative "because the absence of a second front in Europe enabled them to do it without risk to themselves."

Stalin asserted that the Russians recently had won possession of a German document showing that the Nazi plan—nowhere realized—was to take Stalingrad last July 25, then Saratov August 9, Kurland, September 15 and Baku September 29.

The main aim of the offensive was to finish the war this year by taking Moscow, Stalin added.

In their hunt for oil and for Moscow, the German strategists have gone into difficulties," he said.

The summer plans appear to have failed.

This main reason of German success this year is the absence of a second front," Stalin said.

Only Messages to AEF Acceptable; Many Wire Economies Ordered

By the Associated Press.

The Board of War Communications today ordered telegraph companies to refuse congratulatory messages, including holiday and birthday greetings and to discontinue all non-telegraphic services beginning December 15.

The BWC acted on information supplied through an investigation conducted by the Federal Communications Commission.

The BWC order also concerns reduction of handling time of messages, plans for the revision of the present priority system for handling urgent essential traffic, control of installation of teletypewriter equipment and leasing of telegraphic circuits.

The order also covers the elimination of non-essential circuits, and the curtailment of use of franks and elimination of "deadhead" and free service messages.

The FCC is requested to formulate plans for the stipulated controls.

The portion of the order calling for discontinuance of non-telegraphic services said that it included messenger, errand, distribution, remittance, installment payment and shopping service, sale of travelers checks, sale of mail money orders and acceptance of express packages.

When the order was issued, it included a list of messages which it included greetings for Christmas, New Year, Easter, Father's Day, Jewish New Year, Mother's Day, Thanksgiving, Valentine's Day, congratulations on the birth of a child, graduations, weddings, anniversaries and birthdays.

An exception was made for such messages when addressed to American expeditionary forces.

In addition, the board said, it would receive objections to the order discontinuing non-telegraphic services and telegrams to November 25.

Mad Dog Scare Causes Alexandria Quarantine

With one rabid dog reported in Alexandria (Va.) during the past week and another "suspicious" case under observation by health officials, Dr. W. A. Brown, city health officer today placed a quarantine on all dogs in the city.

Residents were ordered to keep their pets locked up or muzzled and leashed when outside.

Meanwhile, a rabid dog is reported to have been "running wild" in Belle Haven in Fairfax county and is believed to have bitten several other dogs before it was finally killed. All residents of the community have been warned to keep their dogs indoors.

Fixe Alexandria residents are now under treatment after being bitten by dogs thought to be infected with the disease. Dr. Brown said:

He warned any one scratched or bitten by a dog to take immediate care of the wound and to consult a doctor if there is the slightest possibility of the dog being rabid.

Dr. Brown said he would confer with Fairfax and Arlington county health officials today to determine the extent of the disease.

Rose Bowl Game to Be Played At Pasadena New Year Day

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 6.—The Rose Bowl football game, transferred to the East Coast last year when California went on an all-out war footing, will return to Pasadena New Year Day, an unimpeachable source said today.

The Associated Press learned that the formal application has not yet been sent to the Western Defense Command, but would be approved when received.

The Army ordered cancellation of last year's contest in the midst of intensive war preparations along the West Coast. The game was played on New Year Day at Durham N. C. Oregon State defeated Duke, 20-16.

WDC headquarters at San Francisco yesterday formally approved the East-West football game, also New Year Day, at San Francisco.

Tentative preparations for the Rose Bowl game, the Nation's original post-season classic which annually pits the Pacific Coast conference champion against an outstanding Eastern or Southern team, have been under way here for several weeks, in anticipation of Army approval. It will be the 29th renewal of the series.

There will not, however, be the gala setting of old. The Tournament of Roses Association has decided against holding the Rose parade, which annually drew hordes of spectators to watch flower-decked floats.

The football experts thus far have been silent on prospective opponents for the contest. University of California at Los Angeles, undefeated in coast conference play at the moment, is the West's outstanding candidate—although the Bruins lost contests, one to Texas Christian, 7-6; the other to St. Mary's Pre-flight, 18-7. Subsequently, the Uclans defeated Oregon State, Stanford and California in conference play, and a strong Santa Clara eleven outside the circuit.

Dr. Garfield read from a letter which he said the Kaiser office received in coast conference play at the moment, in which the Kaiser office said that the company's doctors would be deferred from military service on condition that "no prepayment plan shall be adopted for employes' dependents" and that "no full-time physician shall be employed by the company's dependents' dependents except in an emergency."

At Vancouver, Dr. Garfield said the Procurement and Assignment Service "is very sympathetic to service" so far as treating the employes is concerned, "but not if we take care of the families."

He is not anxious to treat the families, he said, "but there are only 15 doctors in Vancouver and they are working at capacity now."

Dr. Garfield also declared the procurement and assignment board in the Richmond, Calif. area "is not sympathetic toward our program."

Kaiser Doctor Says State Medical Group Threatened Draft

Shipyard Physicians Scored for Contract Care, Senators Hear

By the Associated Press.

Dr. Sidney Garfield, medical chief in Henry J. Kaiser's West Coast shipyards, said today that medical society officials had threatened to have the company's doctors drafted for the armed forces unless they quit treating workers' families under a prepaid medical care program.

Under the medical program the doctor said the workers would be expected to participate pays 50 cents a week to get company medical care.

Dr. Garfield told a Senate labor subcommittee, "we were told that 'if you take care of the families, we will declare that you doctors are non-essential.'"

Dr. Garfield said this "threat" was made by the Washington State Medical Society's Executive Committee. Under questioning by Senator Pepper, Democrat of Florida, Dr. Garfield said the chairman of that committee also was State chairman of the Government's service for the procurement and assignment of doctors for the armed forces.

Senator Pepper asked if "the same man who is supposed to represent the United States in the procurement of doctors for the Army and Navy" is taking "advantage of his position as a public official to promote the private interests of the medical association."

"That's it," Dr. Garfield said. "So that public policy emanates primarily from a private source," Senator Pepper commented.

At another point Dr. Garfield said the Procurement and Assignment Service "represents the views of the American Medical Association."

"I don't want this interpreted as an attack on the Medical Society," Dr. Garfield said, "but it is hindering us from doing a necessary job."

He explained that at Vancouver, Wash., private doctors and facilities were inadequate to care for all the families of the Kaiser shipyard workers.

Dr. Garfield read from a letter which he said the Kaiser office received in coast conference play at the moment, in which the Kaiser office said that the company's doctors would be deferred from military service on condition that "no prepayment plan shall be adopted for employes' dependents" and that "no full-time physician shall be employed by the company's dependents' dependents except in an emergency."

At Vancouver, Dr. Garfield said the Procurement and Assignment Service "is very sympathetic to service" so far as treating the employes is concerned, "but not if we take care of the families."

Definite Reservations On Some Eastern Lines Are Being Held Up

Pennsylvania, B. & O. And Seaboard Are Among Roads Changing Schedules

Travelers planning trips on a number of Eastern trunk lines are unable to make definite reservations for several weeks because of contemplated schedule changes, it was learned today.

The Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio will not make definite reservations until after December 5 and the Seaboard until after November 21.

Officials of the Atlantic Coast Line and the New York Central said they were accepting requests, subject to anticipated changes in schedules, which probably would be made late this month or early in December.

Reservations Through January.
The Southern Railway System and the Chesapeake and Ohio, however, are making reservations now right on through the month of January. Local ticket offices of those companies say no changes in schedules are planned so far as they know.

Spokesmen for the Pennsylvania, B. & O. and Seaboard said they were accepting "listings" for Pullman, chair car and coach reservations as usual, but were not making reservations for definite space until the new schedules are fixed.

Earlier Departures Forecast.
B. & O. officials here expect the changes going into effect December 6 will call for earlier departure times for some of their trains, explaining that the heavy loads being carried by the railroads in the war effort make it necessary to slow up some runs. This is mainly because of demands for each train to carry more passengers and make more stops, it was said.

Pennsylvania officials gave much the same explanation, pointing out that most of the Washington-New York trains are consistently running five minutes or more late because the schedule does not allow enough time for loading and unloading the increased number of passengers at stops along the way.

"There's no use kidding ourselves any longer," one official said, "so we decided to change the schedules to meet the new conditions."

Fear Confusion.
It was explained that under present rules a person making an advance reservation is required to pick up and pay for his tickets within 24 hours, and that considerable confusion would be caused if tickets were sold for a train to leave at 5:45 p.m. December 6 and by then its departure time had been changed to 5:30 p.m.

To avoid this confusion, the affected railroads simply are withholding the definite reservation which will be issued in the order of listings when the new schedules are completed. This is expected to be done within the next week or so. Departure times of affected trains are expected to be advanced as much as 15 to 20 minutes.

Edward Plack, assistant general passenger agent of the Seaboard Railway, said his office here was holding up definite reservations for some trains only to November 21.

The forthcoming schedule change is routine for Seaboard each spring and fall, he said, to meet changing travel conditions. He does not expect extensive changes.

Step Taken Voluntarily.
The railway spokesmen made clear that the schedule changes being planned were not ordered by the Office of Defense Transportation, but were undertaken voluntarily to meet actual operating conditions.

One official, however, said his office was "hanging in" in view of reports of possible ODT restrictions on holiday travel. Others said that they expected to have available for holiday traffic as much equipment as is now being used, but not as much as has been put on in past years to meet extra demands at the Christmas season. For this reason, it was said, many travelers accustomed to Pullman accommodations are bound to be disappointed.

Murray Calls Re-election Victory Over Wheeler

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 6.—Senator Murray, re-elected, says he regards the result as a personal victory in the face of "powerful opposition of Senator Wheeler's Democratic machine."

Senator Murray's statement last night said: "I consider my election a personal victory. I was re-elected by a strong Republican State organization and the powerful opposition of Senator Wheeler's Democratic machine, and with a national trend against those in office."

Senator Murray campaigned on promises to continue supporting the Federal administration.

Couple Given Prison Terms For Attempted Pandering

Wallace H. Welch, 43, and his wife, Erma G. Welch, 36, were sentenced by Justice Jennings Bailey in District Court today to one to three years on a conviction of attempted pandering.

They were found guilty in their trial in September of trying to lead into prostitution a 20-year-old girl who came here from Johnson, Pa., to seek Government employment. The girl lived with the Welchs in their apartment in the 1300 block of P street N.W.

Assistant United States Attorney Bernard Margolius prosecuted the case.

Japs Revive Charges Of Mistreatment Of Prisoners, Internees

Own Dealings With Captive Americans Called 'Fair' in Broadcast

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The Japanese radio, for a purpose not immediately clear, revived allegations today of bad treatment of Japanese nationals in the United States and Canada, stating protests had been lodged with the two governments and asserting Japan's treatment of war prisoners and civilian internees had been fair.

The last time this theme had been sounded was last summer, when Japan apparently sought to counter the stories of ill treatment, hardship and suffering told by the first American repatriates to reach the outside world from Japan, Japanese-occupied China and other places in the Orient after the outbreak of the Pacific war.

Today Domel said Japan had lodged "strong protests" last month with the Governments of the United States and Canada against "unreasonable and unwarranted" treatment of Japanese nationals. It added that "immediate remedial steps" were demanded.

Tells of "Very Fair" Treatment. Japan's treatment of prisoners of war and civilian internees, the Domel statement added, had been "very fair and humane."

Actually, Japan is unable to lodge protests directly with the United States and Canadian governments, the only diplomatic avenue being through an intermediary, Switzerland.

As to the statement that Japan's treatment of war prisoners and internees had been "very fair and humane" it is less than a month since the Tokyo radio said that United States airmen captured after the April 18 raid on Tokyo and other Japanese centers had been convicted of "inhuman acts" and had been or would be "severely punished in accordance with international law." It warned that flyers captured in the future would be dealt with sternly.

President Roosevelt on October 23 said that Japan would be violating the Geneva Convention on the treatment of war prisoners if she carried out threats against captured American aviators.

Threats of Reprisals.
The Berlin radio said today it had been announced officially in Tokyo that Japan would impose "reprisals" against British prisoners of war in Japanese hands in case the British government does not change its attitude toward German captives.

The announcement, attributed to the Japanese Foreign Office, was quoted as saying "the Japanese government has noted with grave concern the inhuman treatment of German prisoners of war and the intention of the British to extend this treatment also to Italian prisoners of war."

Presumably the Japanese were talking about the recent Nazi chainings and British reprisal chaignings of prisoners, all of which was started by the Germans, who charged the British bound the hands of Nazis captured during the Dieppe raid and another against Sark Island.

Regarding the treatment of Japanese nationals in the United States, on October 29 Secretary of War Stimson made public an American Red Cross survey report declaring elder Japanese aliens held in evacuation camps in this country "apparently feel that they are being extremely well treated."

Secretary Stimson said the Red Cross received the greatest number of complaints from the younger Japanese evacuees, "many complaining over losing contact with outside Caucasians."

Officials Here Regard Victory of British in Egypt as 'Limited'

Say Situation Looks Good, But Point Out Rommel's Army Is Not Wiped Out

By the Associated Press.
The news of the British victory over Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Axis forces at El Alamein has aroused elation in military circles, which are inclined, however, to view it as a still limited although brilliant success.

There is a general hopefulness that Lt. Gen. Montgomery's British 8th Army, supported by superior air strength, can follow up its advantage and destroy Marshal Rommel's force. But until this is done experts who decline to be quoted by name say that the chief immediate effect of the victory is to relieve the danger to Egypt.

Get In the Scrap!

Bust of Mussolini to Help Make War on Axis

One of Italy's Kings Also to Join Scrap Pile; More Jalopies Located in Parking Lots

Two metal busts, one of Benito Mussolini, second-string member of the Axis, and the other of King Victor Emmanuel III of Italy, will be tossed into the District scrap heap within the next few days, it was revealed today in a joint statement from the Navy Department and the District Salvage Committee.

The busts are of silver-nickel alloy, approximately twice life-size, hollow and weigh about 1360 pounds each.

As objects d'art they aren't highly regarded and as weighty items for the District scrap metal drive they won't add much to the total for the National's Capital. But the local metal processor, Phil Smith, operator of a wholesale yard at 3619 Benning road N.E., will mash up the prizes with a vengeance.

"I've never enjoyed crushing scrap the way I'm going to enjoy this job," Mr. Smith said today "... with feeling."

"I think they are not bad likenesses," he added. "That makes the job even easier."

From an Italian Liner.
When the 23,000-ton liner, S. S. Conte Biancamano, was seized by United States forces in Balboa, Canal Zone, March 30, 1941, the busts were slipped into two sacks and heaved overboard by the Italian crew, according to the Navy announcement.

United States Navy divers subsequently recovered the items and forwarded them to the Navy Department here.

The busts will be presented to Mr. Walker formally tomorrow, following which he will formally turn them over to Mr. Smith, who will then formally smash them into scrap.

Acquisition of the Italian busts high lighted the day's scrap activities, but on the jalopy front, things were still humming.

Eight Prospective Additions.
A check by The Star of more than 60 centrally-located parking lots revealed the location of eight apparently abandoned automobiles which can be considered prospects for the District scrap heap if and when title complications are eliminated.

Edward R. Altman, Jr., manager of several downtown lots with offices located at 636 I street N.W., reports he has one car which was left in his care two months ago and has not been claimed since.

He hopes to recover parking fees in the sale of the car if he can get the owner's consent to junk it.

John W. Boyer, manager of Boyer's Parking Lot, 627 L street N.W., reports he has two prospective jalopies, one of which he is willing to sell to regain the storage bill against it.

D. W. Moore, manager of the District Parking Service, 1419 I street N.W., says he has three possibilities for the scrap heap, two of which are abandoned cars. Disposition of the third may be held up by legal complications.

Mr. Moore says he is willing to

Montgomery Scorns Comforts And Joins in Thickest Fighting

British Commander Believes in New Tactics and Strictest Discipline.

By GEORGE TUCKER,
Associated Press Staff Writer.
As Britain's third all-out offensive gathered momentum for the knockout blow in the sandy Egyptian graveyard of so many military reputations, it seemed apparent that the Army of the Nile had at last found a rider who could cope with the rough-and-tumble Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, ex-storm trooper and desert fighter extraordinary, against whose panzers many Allied thrusts have been blunted.

He is Lt. Gen. Bernard Law Montgomery, a two-fisted, hard-fighting, non-smoking, non-drinking veteran of the World War and of campaigns in Palestine, India, Mesopotamia and Flanders.

Gen. Montgomery, second in command to Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, who succeeded Gen. Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck as commander-in-chief of the Middle East last August, gained stature when he smashed Marshal Rommel's drive on Alexandria two months ago after the Germans and Italians had rolled the British into Egypt and threatened to drive on to Suez.

Gen. Montgomery had been in Egypt just three weeks when he stopped Marshal Rommel and began laying the ground work for the present offensive.

Used New Tactics Quickly.
The fighting wasn't 24 hours old when observers noted tactics alien to anything the British had tried before. Instead of smashing ahead with armored units, Gen. Montgomery sent his infantry forward under cover of artillery fire to storm Axis defense positions and take them with hand-to-hand fighting.

As gaps were opened he moved up his tanks, virtually intact, where they could come to grips with Axis tank concentrations in close fighting. As these forces swung into action United States Army fighters and bombers joined RAF bombers and fighters in unremitting assaults against Axis positions day and night. One by one Italian and German strong points were overcome, and eventually Marshal Rommel's whole army was in retreat.

The man who planned and accomplished all this is essentially a field man, not a desk fighter. Dressed in shorts, wearing an old Australian slouch hat and with a revolver strapped to his hip, he is a conspicuous figure often where the fighting is thickest. He scorns personal comforts and rides to the front in trucks and armored vehicles with his men.

Old campaigners remember his insistence that the only standard of fitness is the standard of total war. When he was appointed general officer commanding Britain's Home Guard, in 1941, he ordered a quarter-hour's physical training at 7

Re-establishment of Lines.
A suggestion is advanced that if Marshal Rommel should succeed in re-establishing his lines, say, at Matruh or Halfaya, the main British objective of the destruction of the Axis army, still would not be realized.

The British would have regained control of "a few hundred square miles of desert," but the battle there would have been an important victory only in the sense that it removed the threat to Egypt.

However, the death of one German general in the battle and the capture of another is regarded as a significant indication that the battle of El Alamein was not a mere rear guard action on the part of Marshal Rommel's forces. Ranking general officers ordinarily are not found in the immediate area of a rear guard fight.

British Winning, Vichy Says.
The Office of War Information reported last night that the Vichy radio broadcast to Arabic-speaking peoples the news that the "British are winning in Egypt."

Berlin short-communications Commission monitors, told the Near Eastern peoples in Arabic, on the other hand, that "Rommel retreated south of El Alamein in order to reorganize his army and then take the initiative when he sees fit."

Student Scrap Drive Winners Due Here Tomorrow Morning

Four Oklahoma school children, Harper Snell, 8, of the Gyp School, Mays School, and Bobby Lee Walker, 10, of the Walco School, Osage County.

Young Terry and Walker were chosen by their classmates as the most helpful in their schools' campaigns for the War Manpower Commission, on compulsory manpower bills. Education and Labor Subcommittee also inquires into manpower situation.

The terms of the contest provide that three schools may send one representative each at the expense of the American Industries Salvage Commission, but townspeople put up the money for the second representative of the Gyp School.

The Lipey and Snell girls collected 4,607.38 pounds of scrap, each. Pupils of the Walco School brought in 3,881.94 pounds a pupil and those of the Osage School 5,315.95 pounds. School salvage drive officials here said no figures on total collections for any State had been submitted yet by State committees.

Dartmouth Students Oppose Plan to Train 18-19 Men for Year

By the Associated Press.
HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 6.—Dartmouth College undergraduates, through their student-governing councils, went on record yesterday against the proposal to train drafted men under 20 for a year, and telegraphed their feelings to Chairman May of the House Military Affairs Committee.

"We credit America's leaders with enough intelligence and honesty to realize the foolhardiness of sending untrained men into battle," the wire read.

"Believing this, we think that the Senate amendment would only hamstring our generals at a time when speedy action is necessary for our success."

George M. Verity, 77, Dies; Well Known Steel Man

By the Associated Press.
MIDDLETOWN, Ohio, Nov. 6.—George M. Verity, 77, chairman of the board of the American Rolling Mill Co., died at his home here today. He suffered a stroke Wednesday night.

Mr. Verity, long a leader in the Nation's "Little Steel" circles, is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jean Verity; a son, Calvin, vice president of Armco, and two daughters, Mrs. Newman Eberole and Mrs. Charles R. Hook, wife of Armco's president.

When Mr. Verity became head of the Middletown company in 1891 its capitalization was $200,000. The concern now has more than $100,000,000 in capital and assets.

Mr. Verity was known as a writer on subjects relating to capital and labor, and was the author of many articles published in national periodicals.

Mr. Verity had extensive commercial interests aside from Armco. He was a director of the Westinghouse Electric Co., Pittsburgh; of the Fifth-Third Union Trust Co., Cincinnati; of the Cincinnati branch of the Cleveland Federal Reserve Bank; of Middletown banks; member of Advisory Committee of National Industrial Board, New York; director of the American Iron and Steel Institute, and a member of the Ohio Society of New York.

Took Over During Stalemate.
Shortly after this Verity was transferred to India and Gen. Auchinleck came into command. With him came Lt. Gen. Sir Alan Gordon Cunningham, who organized what Prime Minister Churchill hailed as Britain's greatest desert offensive, because it was undertaken with equipment to match the enemy's. This bold thrust opened well. It drove Marshal Rommel out of Cirenaica, raised the siege of Tobruk, and carried all the way to El Aghela, more than half way across Libya. There the Germans held.

After a period of indecisive sparring Marshal Rommel suddenly lashed back and drove the British into another retreat that halted well inside Cirenaica. Here Gen. Cunningham was succeeded by Lt. Gen. Neil Ritchie. The next blow was not long in falling. The African corps, supplied with fresh men and weapons, fell on Gen. Ritchie—and not only rolled him up but swept clear into Tobruk, capturing 30,000 imperial.

Without pause they pushed into Egypt, threatening Alexandria and Suez. Gen. Auchinleck finally stopped Marshal Rommel at the El

Sulzberger Asks End To Zionist Pleas for Special Jewish Army

New York Times Publisher Says Efforts Only Add To Allied Difficulties

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 6.—Calling on Jews and non-Jews supporting pleas for a special Jewish army to desist, Arthur Hays Sulzberger, president and publisher of the New York Times, said last night that these pro-Zionist efforts "merely add to the difficulties of the United Nations."

Mr. Sulzberger cited demands for a separate Jewish army and post-war establishment of a Jewish national state in the Holy Land as matters which "create problems in the Moslem world" in his address before the Brotherhood of the Madison Avenue Temple.

"Presumably the British government has decided that, all other things considered, it will not help win the war to meet the demand for a separate Jewish army," Mr. Sulzberger said.

"Furthermore the United States Government has evidently not felt, either wise or expedient to intervene in this matter. It seems to me, therefore, that since those decisions have been made—and I think made with a conviction that will not be changed, at least during this war—it serves no useful purpose to continue, at this time, a campaign which not only embarrasses the United Nations, but can be distorted by the Axis in the Arab world." The publisher, recently returned from England, criticized at Americans who constantly criticize Britain's war effort. He said "Britain fought on when she stood alone, armed with little more than her courage."

War Fund

669.39. This is 54.92 per cent of the group total of $1,285,000, Kirk Miller reported.

Metropolitan Unit reported 975 givers, $17,849.25 today, for a total of 9,330 givers, $431,672.78. This is 54.57 per cent of the quota of $791,000.

Lee D. Butler, chairman, reporting for this unit introduced Dr. Dorothy Boulding Ferebee of Howard University and Freedmen's Hospital, a vice chairman of the Metropolitan Unit, who reported that her division of colored workers had raised 109 per cent of quota.

Among the contributions to the fund reported yesterday was that from the British Embassy personnel in the sum of $1,522.91 as compared to the $500 given last year to the Community Chest. The report came through Mrs. Rena Frank, captain of team 1.141, Cathedral Heights, sponsored by the National Council of Jewish Women, Mrs. Sidney L. Hechinger, division chairman of area No. 1. The money was turned over by Lt. Col. H. B. Blake-Tyler, first secretary of the British Embassy.

Some Cities Over Quota. Pointing to success of other cities in their War Funds drives already, Herbert L. Willett, jr., executive director of the campaign, gave the following figures of oversubscriptions: Indianapolis, 116.2 per cent; Milwaukee, 111 per cent; Peoria, Ill., 117.3 per cent; Tacoma, Wash., 101 per cent; Louisville, Ky., 113 per cent.

"Let us go on and do likewise," he recommended.

Several details of solicitation success were presented by the three leaders reporting for the three principal units.

G. Howland Shaw, assistant Secretary of State for the Government Unit, characterized the efforts of several agencies in going over their goals as an "admirable disregard of quota." Among these, were the First Division Public Schools, $2,238 as compared with a quota of $1,971; National Park and Planning Commission, 113 per cent of goal; Bureau of Internal Revenue, 101 per cent of goal; Corporation Counsel's office, District of Columbia, 125 per cent.

He also reported progress in the War Production Board, which is now 71 per cent of goal, and his own State Department which has reached 96 per cent.

For Group Collection, A. G. Neal gave the largest single report of the day, from Woodward & Lothrop department store, a total of 2,866 givers, a total of $35,049.49 in subscriptions. This includes the firm gift of $20,000, as compared with the firm gift of $12,000 last year to the Community Chest. The report came through Miss Daisy Reed, store chairman, and Joseph P. Donlin.

Other reports by Mr. Neal included: Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase Dairy, 652 pledges, $7,898, including the firm gift of $3,000, which is double that of last year. Named in this connection were Edgar N. Branner, president of the firm, and Clark G. Diamond.

Other Firms Cited.

Young Men's Shop was named by Mr. Neal for turning in 59 pledges totaling $416, with an average per gifter of $6.90. He also reported that McMahon Chevrolet Co., of which James F. McMahon is president, had turned in subscriptions in which every person had contributed four times as much as last year.

E. K. Morris of Metropolitan Unit, after giving several details, called on 10-year-old Jane McGuire of St. Vincent's Home and School to give the total figures.

Among Mr. Morris' reports were these:

In area 2, in which Mrs. R. Wallace McClellan is chairman, division 1 to 5, led by Mrs. Harrison G. Reynolds had reached 105 per cent of quota.

Team 1,251, Mrs. Preston Cavanaugh, chairman, reached 140 per cent.

Team 1,252, Mrs. Donald Davenport, chairman, reached 110 per cent; team 1,273, Mrs. James Simon, chairman, reached 107 per cent; team 1,223, Miss Phyllis Snyder, chairman, reached 110 per cent; in area 6, Mrs. J. F. Kennedy, chairman of team 1,612, reached 120.2 per cent.

In Montgomery County, area 4, W. Day Mullinix, area chairman, Four Corners division, was reported to have raised $721.75, on a quota of $700.

County Jurisdiction Of Roads Backed by Prince Georges Group

Proposal to Provide Weights and Measure Inspector Approved

A legislative program, including a recommendation that the State Legislature place all Prince Georges County (Md.) roads under the county's jurisdiction, was approved by the County Federation of Citizens' Associations at its meeting last night in the Bladensburg Firehouse.

The Federation also urged the passage of legislation providing for a weights and measures inspector in the county.

Declaring that county gas tax receipts have dropped sharply because of gasoline rationing, the Federation said that the placing of all county roads under the county's jurisdiction might remove the necessity for an increase in taxes to offset the decrease in gas tax receipts.

It was pointed out that some of the roads in the county are now maintained by the State Roads Commission, which consequently receives the revenue for their use.

William A. Carson, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, last week predicted that such an increase might be necessary unless additional gas tax revenue was forthcoming.

The federation asked the county commissioners to hold their weekly meetings alternately in Hyattsville and Upper Marlboro in view of the gas and tire shortage.

In addition, the commissioners were urged to establish branch offices of the Circuit Court clerk and county treasurer in the County Service Building in Hyattsville to accommodate residents in the suburban area.

A request by the Bradbury Heights delegation that part of the $500,000 county bond issue be devoted to flood-prevention work in the area was endorsed by the federation.

The District Communist party announced that a war fund rally at the National Press Club at 8:15 p.m. Sunday will be addressed by Charles F. Horner. Other speakers will be Peter V. Cacchione, Communist councilman of New York City, and Benjamin Davis, jr., secretary of the Harlem Communist party. The meeting, called to raise funds for the War Fund drive, will also pay tribute to the 76 members of the District Communist party who are now in the armed forces. Celebrating the 25th anniversary of the Soviet Union, Soviet films will be shown. In addition to a series of newsreels showing the Red Army in action, another film, "Commander Shors," will portray the struggle of the Russian people to evict the German invaders of 1918.

Russians to Celebrate Big Bolshevik Day In Spite of War

Workers Get Tomorrow Off to Mark Revolution, But Must Work Sunday

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Nov. 6.—It would take more than a war with Germany to keep the Soviets from celebrating the 25th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution tomorrow.

Red banners, revolutionary slogans, portraits of members of the Communist party's political bureau and all other traditional decorations have gone up for the holiday.

The day will be observed with as much energy as can be spared from the main task of beating the Nazis. All workers are to be given tomorrow off, but they will be called to work Sunday, their usual rest day, to make up the lost time.

Mrs. Roosevelt Sends Greetings. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Walt Disney and Donald Nelson were among Americans who sent greetings, the Soviet radio said. A broadcaster quoted Mrs. Roosevelt as follows:

"Every one is watching the heroic Russian defense with deep admiration and hope that the valiant armies there will be successful and eventually the forces of all the United Nations will crush their common enemy."

Official congratulations from the United States were sent by way of Kulybsky, the Soviet Union's secondary capital.

Another message of greeting, from the British Admiralty, promised that the British fleet would see that increasing supplies reach Russia for the Red Army.

The British military mission to Moscow congratulated the Soviet Navy and Red Army general staff and expressed confidence in an Allied victory.

Greetings from the Chinese, Greek and Iranian governments were published in Moscow newspapers.

The anniversary of the revolution—through which the followers of Nikolai Lenin overthrew the provisional government that succeeded the czarist regime—is something like a combination of an American Christmas and a political campaign.

Increased Supplies of Food. People get some presents and listen to political harangues. They already have had both. The presents have been increased supplies of food, distributed promptly on presentation of ration cards. A pint of vodka is given each worker against one ticket of the card.

Praise for the armed forces of Russia, Britain and the United States was among the anniversary slogan themes.

Stage and movie theaters presented special programs. The play, "Front," which criticizes old-fashioned generals and praises progressive young officers, was given its premiere last night.

Method of Fixing Ceilings On Fall Clothing Revised

By the Associated Press.

The Office of Price Administration has revised its method of fixing manufacturers' ceiling prices on mackinaws, flannel shirts and other types of fall and winter outer apparel, establishing the ceiling at the level at which each manufacturer opened his line in the period between December 1, 1941, and March 31, 1942.

This basis replaces the provision of the universal price ceiling which prescribed that the ceiling should be the highest price charged during March, 1942. The amendment, effective November 11, will have "relatively little effect" on retail prices.

OPA said. The March ceiling was an unsatisfactory one, it was explained, because virtually no shipments are made in that month.

ICC Asked to Deny Rate Increases to Carriers, Utilities

Recommendation by OPA Cites Resulting Danger To Anti-Inflation Fight

By the Associated Press.

The Interstate Commerce Commission had before it today a recommendation by the Office of Price Administration that it deny increases in transportation and public utility rates.

David Ginsburg, OPA general counsel, said yesterday control against rising prices must be applied as rigorously to transportation and public utility rates as to other prices "if the Government's fight against inflation is to be successful."

Mr. Ginsburg appeared before the IOC to oppose an application by railroads operating in Texas for higher intrastate freight and passenger rates.

The railroads are asking the commission to overrule the Texas Railroad Commission, which has refused to authorize some intrastate rates as high as the IOC-authorized interstate rates.

Mr. Ginsburg, representing James F. Byrnes, director of economic stabilization, as well as OPA, made it plain to the IOC that he was discussing principles which he believed would be applicable to all rate cases coming before it.

"It is not too much to say that the most urgent economic problem now facing the Nation is how to increase war production without setting off an uncontrollable spiral of inflation which would inevitably undermine the war effort and jeopardize the safe return to peace," Mr. Ginsburg said.

"If this stabilization program is to be successful, the authority to make upward adjustments must be exercised sparingly, and only in those cases where it is clearly necessary to correct those inequities or to permit the continuance of essential services.

Increase Called Unnecessary. "If the program is to be successful," he said, "it is also necessary that it be applied as rigorously with respect to transportation and public utility rates as with other prices affecting the cost of living."

Mr. Ginsburg said it was a "matter of general knowledge" that railroad earnings now were so generally favorable as to make it extremely unlikely that rate increases would be necessary to insure adequate transportation service.

He argued that "an increase of freight rates would be a threat to the whole structure of price ceilings" because such costs might be passed along.

Compulsory Control Over Workers Seen By Nelson as Certain

Impartial Treatment Should Be Assured To All, He Asserts

By the Associated Press. Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the WPB declared today that the Nation was going to have to exercise compulsory control over workers before we get through with the war.

Testifying before the Senate Military Affairs Committee studying manpower legislation, Mr. Nelson agreed with Senator Austin, Republican, of Vermont that all men and women ought to be assured that they would be treated impartially in demands for service with the armed forces or in war work behind the lines through the establishment of over-all manpower control.

"We are going to have to do it before we are through," Mr. Nelson said, emphasizing his point by rapping his knuckles on a table.

No Dilly-Dallying.

"I don't believe we ought to dilly-dally with this war," he continued. "I believe we ought to put our teeth in it. The people of this country are going to demand that Congress do something of this kind before we get through."

Senator Austin said others had agreed that adoption of manpower control was inevitable but many believed the time not yet ripe for such action. He asked Mr. Nelson if the latter did not believe that careful planning ought not to be under way on the manpower question.

"This is the time to keep bringing this before the public, to keep debating it and to bring out all its points," Mr. Nelson replied.

Putting a cigar, Mr. Nelson said he believed not everything yet had been done to mobilize manpower effectively in the war effort, adding that more cuts in civilian production were in sight.

Backs Selective Service.

"Our boys out on the Solomon Islands are entitled to everything this Nation can give them," he continued. "They are entitled to know that everybody at home is doing everything he can."

In response to questions by Senator Austin, Mr. Nelson said he felt the selective service system ought to be preserved as a democratic method of handling induction of personnel into the armed forces, adding that the principle of local administration of rationing appeared to be better than having some office in Washington, who might not know about local conditions, giving the orders.

Senator Hill, Democrat, of Alabama said he believed it was going to be necessary to extend the selective service principle to cover all individuals and business into the war effort.

Mr. Nelson agreed. "It seems to me it is always better to do a job with a clean-cut law passed by Congress than by administrative acts," he said. Senator Hill asked Mr. Nelson if he did not think it time for Congress to act.

Mr. Nelson reiterated his preference for legislation rather than administrative orders and added that "I think it would be well for Congress to survey the situation and determine what the needs are."

Kaiser Favors Compulsory Service.

Meanwhile, Shipbuilder Henry J. Kaiser had told a Senate Labor and Education Subcommittee he thought voluntary enlistments in the armed services should be halted and that a nine-member committee should be established to control the distribution of manpower and womanpower for the Nation's war needs.

Mr. Nelson, too, said he believed voluntary enlistments should be halted and cited five additional ways in which he thought the country could realize greater production from its reserves of workers.

The work week might be lengthened, he suggested; production could be increased through better management; greater use should be made of minority groups; less essential uses of manpower should be cut off and worker absenteeism should be stopped.

"There are too many cases of Monday morning sickness and payroll sickness," Mr. Nelson observed dryly. Kaiser said the proposed nine-member committee should be made up of a representative of the Army, the Navy, the Maritime Commission, agriculture, war industries, essential civilian industry, two representatives of labor and one representative classified as "neutral."

Classification of Workers. The committee's first job would be to classify all available manpower into four groups, those in the armed forces, in war industries, in essential civilian industry, including agriculture, and those in non-essential industry.

Regional offices would be set up with the regional director having full responsibility to provide a full utilization of manpower under a uniform national policy.

Having obtained only noncommittal answers from Secretary of Agriculture Wickard and Chairman Emory S. Land of the Maritime Commission, the Senate Military Affairs Committee called on Mr. Nelson and Brig. Gen. F. J. McSherry of the War Manpower Commission for their points of view.

Divergent views on a national service act were expressed from opposite sides of the chamber.

McNary Attacks Proposal. Senator Hill told reporters the hearings thus far had only confirmed his conviction that "we should have universal service legislation." Senator Hill is author of a bill that would give President Roosevelt broad powers to control the employment and distribution of labor.

Minority Leader McNary, on the other hand, assailed the proposal of compulsory manpower legislation as "un-American and undemocratic, the most dictatorial thing that was ever conceived, in my opinion, by American minds."

"Democracy was founded upon respect for the home and the hearth. The taking of a man from one section to another arbitrarily will be resented," Senator McNary added.

Land Urges Speed. Testifying before the Military Affairs Committee, Rear Admiral Land said yesterday he favored solving the manpower problem on a voluntary basis, but if that failed, he would favor compulsion.

"We haven't too much time to set up our minds," he added.

Tire Inspections

tires on cars. (Presumably this will be done also in next week's school house registration for mileage rationing.)

3. Check for correct air pressure in each tire.

4. Recording of speedometer mileage reading on tire inspection record.

5. A check for bent rims and out-of-true wheels.

6. Check for cuts or breaks in the tire sidewalls and treads.

7. Check general condition of tires for cuts, breaks and evidences of wear from badly aligned wheels, faulty brakes, unbalanced wheels, camber malalignment and excessive wear of kingpins, bushings and wheel bearings.

8. Obtain information from driver as to whether any tire has been injured inside and not repaired.

25¢ Fee Is Set. If tires pass this visual test, the inspector will sign the inspection record and the car may continue in operation. A fee for this service may be charged, not to exceed 25¢ for each passenger vehicle when it is not necessary to remove any tire. OPA claimed that each inspection will require only 15 minutes.

When visual inspection reveals probable serious tire ailments, inspectors will require removal of the tires for closer examination and will prescribe necessary repairs, which must be made before inspection approval is given. The completed inspection report will be required as a basis of renewal of gasoline rations.

Additional fees to be charged if a tire is demounted for inspection also were set up. These are: 50¢ each for passenger vehicle tires; 75¢ each for large truck tires. An additional charge of 50¢ may be levied for removing inside dual truck tires.

The District Commissioner's Traffic Advisory Council charged recently that the early OPA inspection plan was unworkable. The council said they were not enough qualified tire experts or mechanical equipment in the city to carry out the inspection as frequently as OPA required.

O'Leary Comments on Plan. Commenting on this, Mr. Leary said:

"I was under the impression and the Traffic Advisory Council was, too, that original OPA plans called for mechanical inspection. The interpretation put on the regulations today by OPA calling for a visual inspection is quite reasonable. I think that it can be done."

Mr. Leary said that a man "who really knows tires" can tell on examination approximately what is wrong with them. He said that excessive wear of kingpins, bushings or bearings can be shown by shaking the wheels of a car.

people would have to go without some luxuries.

Mr. Roosevelt indicated stern opposition to proposals in Congress for abolishing the 40-hour week in American industry, by declaring we do not have an actual 40-hour week, with most important war production plants working overtime, with many on a 48-hour week.

He said voluminous intelligence reports make it appear certain that German war production is falling off following extensive lengthening of the work-week to as much as 70 or 80 hours in some cases.

Told that some members of Congress apparently wanted workers in war plants to work six days a week, and 12 hours a day, the President cited recent experiences on his recent cross-country trip to support his contention that excessive work hours actually reduce production by tiring out the workers.

Long Week Has Handicaps. He said some of the plants he visited had workers fill out a card explaining why they were absent when they failed to turn up for any scheduled day of work. Where there was such overtime work—and in some cases overtime made the work week as high as 58 hours—the general excuse was that the worker was too tired, Mr. Roosevelt said.

In general, he said, studies in Great Britain and Germany show conclusively that when people are worked over a certain period, depending somewhat on the type of labor they do, production falls off after a month or two.

It is hard for people to realize, he emphasized, that you can't get any more production with an excessively long work week than you can with a shorter week.

He said intelligence reports last spring showed that Germany was greatly increasing the hours of work in her munitions industry. For about two months, he said, total

German production showed an increase, but then began to slide downhill until the time came when the output under a 70-to-80-hour week was not as great as it had been under a 48-hour work week.

Conferees Continuing. Disclosing that he began conferences with Mr. Lyttelton yesterday and was continuing them this morning, the President explained that periodic checkups were necessary to keep the British and American production programs in line with actual war needs.

Mr. Lyttelton serves with War Production Director Donald M. Nelson on the British-American combined production board.

The conferences with the British Minister, Mr. Roosevelt explained, were preliminary to preparation of production estimates for 1943 in both Britain and America for all munitions and supplies for all the United Nations. He pointed out that Britain and the United States are the principal producing countries but consider recommendations of the other United Nations in drawing up their production programs.

In connection with the manpower problem, sources close to the White House pointed out that it necessarily takes considerable time to work out a definite plan to assure adequate labor supplies for the Nation's factories and farms.

Manpower Plan Undecided. Indications were that the plan finally approved by the President probably would call for legislation to set up drastic controls along lines recommended by War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt.

While the President was described as feeling that the problem is not of an emergency nature calling for immediate action, he was said to believe that the need for an addition 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 workers next year would create an emergency unless something was done soon to prevent it.

Mr. Roosevelt told a press conference last week that he did not know of any factory being shut down at the moment because of lack of labor.

The shortage of manpower was said to be acute now only in certain sections of agriculture, particularly in dairying, and in a limited area, in the Southwest cotton belt. These problems were considered comparatively minor in relation to the entire industrial and agricultural picture.

In regard to the emergency in the Southwest, where cotton producers are resisting minimum wage schedules for workers supplied through Government agencies, Mr. Roosevelt said he did not know what solution might be worked out, but that he was sure the cotton will be picked.

Window Washer Flip Flops 40 Feet; Hurts Are Minor

By the Associated Press. DENVER, Nov. 6.—A window washer felt the buckle of his safety belt snap open while he worked 90 feet above ground on seventh-floor windows of the United States National Bank Building.

Instinctively he hurled himself backward and landed on the roof of an adjacent building—clearing a 16-foot space between the two buildings by inches. He turned a complete backward somersault, witnesses said, before landing on the roof, about 40 feet below the level of the windows he had been washing. The workman, Eugene E. Grabbe, 27, suffered leg and ankle fractures.

Girls at Anacostia Given New Course in Physical Education

Training Designed to Develop Co-ordination Without Big Muscles

Putting teen-age girls "over the jumps" of a new obstacle course at Anacostia High School, Mrs. Eva Lynn Rollins, physical education instructor, has introduced a novelty in the gymnasium designed to stress muscular co-ordination, without developing "big muscles."

The innovation has met with approval of Hardy L. Pearce, supervisor of physical education in the public schools, and is characterized as a "progressive step in the advancement of physical training for teen-age girls."

As explained by Mrs. Rollins, the race consists of "a series of consecutively encountered obstacles, including two forward rolls on the mat, climbing the stall bars, walking the balance beam, climbing a rope, two hurdles followed by forward rolls on the mat, springing over the 'horse' and under a rope or a mat."

Planned to co-ordinate with the hygiene course required for high school students and to achieve certain objectives in physical training for girls, the activity stresses muscular co-ordination.

Phases important to high school girls are said to be the development of agility, grace and rhythmic physical timing, good posture, poise, and body flexibility. The training also strives toward "speed in movement in co-ordination with the physical capacities and skills of the teen-age girls."

Although it is planned to develop physical endurance, the obstacle race is modified to achieve the desired objectives and skills that can be expected from well balanced physical education training. And it is "not conducive to big muscles."

Mrs. Rollins, who is new to the District school system this year, received her B. S. degree at Oklahoma A. and M., and taught for three years in Tulsa, Okla. She received her M. S. degree from the University of Southern California.

Soldiers Held for Murder After Cellmate Is Slain

Waynesville, Mo., Nov. 6.—First-degree murder charges were filed yesterday against two colored soldiers in connection with the fatal cell beating of J. Todd Warren, Richmond (Mo.), real estate dealer. The soldiers—Adam Mosley, 25, Memphis, Tenn., and Bernard E. Blalock, 30, St. Louis—are being held at nearby Fort Leonard Wood.

Immediately after the arraignment here today, Prosecutor Edward Chusick said, they will be taken either to Springfield or Jefferson City for safekeeping. "Feeling is running too high to keep the two in jail here," Mr. Chusick said.

Warren, jailed on a disturbance charge and placed in a cell with the two soldiers, was found Wednesday morning, his skull crushed from blows with a catsup bottle. The soldiers had been locked up at the request of military police.

Virginia Protective Force To Wear Green Uniforms

Richmond, Va., Nov. 6.—Units of the Virginia Protective Force will be issued spruce green wool uniforms for drill and combat use, the adjutant general's office announced yesterday.

Adj. Gen. S. Gardner Waller said the National Guard Bureau had authorized the uniform, which will consist of coat, trousers, flannel shirt, mackinaw and cap. The uniform will come from stores that were manufactured for the Civilian Conservation Corps, now disbanded.

Gen. Waller also announced today that State OPA rationing officials had notified him that Virginia's reserve militia, the Minute Men, would be allowed additional gasoline rations necessary to drive between their homes and drill.

Election Shooting Is Fatal To Second West Virginian

Williamson, W. Va., Nov. 6.—A shooting arising from an election argument claimed its second victim yesterday with the death of Cecil Ferrell, 37-year-old school official.

Deputy Sheriff Ken Kirk said Ferrell and a veteran policeman, Russell Preece, 45, exchanged shots election day in a tavern doorway in nearby Kermis as an aftermath to an argument revolving about the candidacy of the former's father for the Board of Education.

When the two men encountered each other outside the tavern, he said, both drew guns and fired three shots, mortally wounding each other. Preece died on the way to the hospital.

Native Chief Flags Down Food Until U. S. Flyers Get Wise

AN ADVANCED BASE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Oct. 18 (Delayed)—The native chief of Rennell Island, west of Guadalcanal, has gotten in bad with Uncle Sam's airplane men.

In fact, Col. L. G. (Blondy) Saunders has ordered his pilots to give the chief a great big snub every time they see him.

It came about this way. A scouting B-17 saw the chief on the island's beach beside a life raft and waving a parachute. The American plane came down, but the crew saw no place to land and thinking that American flyers were marooned on the island dropped emergency rations consisting of corn-beef, hardtack and chocolate bars.

Back at this base the pilot told Maj. George Howard what he had seen. The next day another scouting plane went over tiny Rennell and there on the beach waving the parachute beside the life raft was the chief. Down went the bomber and over went the rations as before. It seems this American fare was just to the liking of the chief for every day for two weeks the Melanesian scampers to his boat and raft everytime an American bomber went over. And, of course, the pilot dropped food to what they considered stranded fellow airmen.

Then the story came out. Several months ago a couple of Navy pilots were forced down in the vicinity of Rennell and made the tiny island in their raft. The chief found them and a short time later they were picked up by a Navy boat.

Almost tearfully the chief pleaded with them to leave behind the life raft and parachute when they went away. They did.

And the chief put them to good use—for the chief was wise to him now. The chief still comes out with his parachute and raft when a plane goes over and probably wonders why he has had to go back to the coconut, banana and tangerine trees for his food.

150 Student Nurses Sought for Training Classes in January

Elizabeth's will enroll additional students the last of March, while Garfield, another hospital with a nursing school, will be unable to open new classes early next year because of lack of room.

Only girls with from two to four years of college work should apply to Providence Hospital, it was explained. "This hospital, through its connection with Catholic University, not only graduates nurses, but also confers upon them the bachelor of science degree.

At Least Five Hospitals To Open Courses Aimed To Mitigate Shortage

A call for 150 student nurses from the District to help fill the gap in the nursing supply made by demands of the armed services was issued by the Graduate Nurses' Association today.

These students will be enrolled early next year in classes to be opened by at least five local hospitals. Their studies will continue for the next three years under present regulations, but their most immediate benefit to the hospital personnel shortage will come at the end of six months when they will be assigned to actual practice in the care of patients, thus lightening the burden on graduate nurses.

Classes Open in January. Classes will be opened in January at Gallinger, Georgetown, Sibley and Providence Hospitals. St. Elizabeth's will enroll additional students the last of March, while Garfield, another hospital with a nursing school, will be unable to open new classes early next year because of lack of room.

Only girls with from two to four years of college work should apply to Providence Hospital, it was explained. "This hospital, through its connection with Catholic University, not only graduates nurses, but also confers upon them the bachelor of science degree. Applications should be filed not later than January 1. These may be made directly to the superintendent of nurses at the hospital at which the applicant prefers to train. Information on the student nurse program can be obtained at 1746 K street N.W., home of the Graduate Nurses' Association and of the Nursing Council for War Service, either by personal visit or by calling National 2149.

New Zealand Envoy Asks Co-ordinated U.S. Pacific Command

Nash Broadcasts Appeal For Close Co-operation Between Army, Navy

By the Associated Press.

Walter Nash, New Zealand Minister to the United States, appealed last night for a co-ordinated American naval and Army command in the South Pacific "to get results."

"The Japanese work under a single command," he said, "so it is imperative that the United States commanders—Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Admiral William F. Halsey—work in close co-operation."

He spoke on the March of Time program broadcast by the National Broadcasting Co.

Both commanders, Mr. Nash said, "should know everything that the other has done, is doing, or plans to do. Every move should be discussed one with the other to determine how best to use both forces. They must work together to the maximum if they are to get results."

Separate Plans Called Dangerous.

"Co-ordinated under a single command," he said, "they can do what is necessary to meet and defeat the Japanese. Separate plans—unknown to the other—might jeopardize the lives of many thousands of men."

Discussing the fighting on Guadalcanal, Mr. Nash said, "if the American forces continue to fight as they have fought, they will drive the Japanese farther west and north. If this is done, and the balance of the Solomons and Bismarck Archipelagos is occupied by American and Australian forces, then the whole of the Japanese forces in the area would be in great peril."

He added that "even if it becomes necessary to give up Guadalcanal for the time being, we can still win through, but it would extend the war and cost a lot more lives."

Price Defends Censorship.

Byron Price, chief of the Bureau of Censorship, said on the same program that "some bad news has been delayed" in the interest of the United Nations' war effort.

Emphasizing that "every responsible official is bound to be concerned about deceiving the enemy," Mr. Price said:

"The enemy may or may not know what ships go down in a night battle or after the battle is over. It is good sense not to tell him where the weak spots are until you can bring up replacements. It may be that in their anxiety some military commanders have erred on the side of safety.

"But to say that news was withheld to deceive the American people doesn't make sense because every one knows you can't hide bad news indefinitely in a free country like this.

"No one questions that the American people are sacrificing a lot by not having immediate access to all of the news. But wars cannot be won without sacrifice, and I feel sure the public would rather miss some of the news than risk making it tougher for our men who are out fighting our battles for us."

Advertising Becomes Vital Home Weapon, Publishers Declare

Report Says No Medium Should Outdo Newspapers In War Effort

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—A report prepared for the American Newspaper Publishers' Association said today that "newspaper advertising has become a recognized and vital war weapon on the home front."

The report was issued by Frank Tripp, chairman of the ANPA Bureau of Advertising and general manager of the Gannett Newspapers, Inc., who said newspapers should demonstrate the "indispensable value of newspapers in the present crisis, as was done in the newspaper scrap drive."

Mr. Tripp said his committee had affirmed:

"That not only should newspapers justify themselves with the troubled people of this country by the wonderful service they are giving, but that newspaper advertising should do likewise."

"We hold that we should justify our advertising service to the American people," Mr. Tripp said, "that we should accept duties involving our country's war projects wholeheartedly and unselfishly and that newspapers should be outdone in the war effort by no medium on earth."

"We earnestly say that as of today newspapers can do no greater thing than this for the post-war position of an independent American press."

Two Die, 16 Injured In Wisconsin Crash

By the Associated Press.

MANITOWOC, Wis., Nov. 6.—Sixteen persons were injured, two fatally, in the crash of two automobiles at a highway intersection 14 miles southwest of Manitowoc early yesterday.

The dead were Javita Bonlander, 15 months old, Manitowoc County, and her brother, Daniel, 8 weeks old. Mrs. William Bonlander, the mother, suffered a possible skull fracture, as did Paul Reiser of Manitowoc, driver of one of the automobiles. His car, containing six small children and three adults, was in collision with one driven by Francis Groh, 17, of St. Nazans, in which seven boys and girls of high-school age were riding.

Free Hand by Army In 18-19 Draft Asked By Yale President

Urges Quick Passage Of Bill by Congress Without Restrictions

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 6.—President Charles Seymour of Yale, in the first special press interview of his five years as president, yesterday urged that Congress pass the 18-19 draft bill quickly and without the amendment requiring a year's training before combat service.

"The armed forces must be left with free hands to deal with the manpower put at their disposal," he declared, and explained that in his opinion, keeping all the boys for training a year would prevent picking out the most promising for higher training at universities.

"Only thus can they avoid the mistakes of the last war; only thus can they utilize their material to the best advantage. Only if their hands are free can they develop the use of university educational resources for training forces."

Speaking to newspapermen in his study in Woodbridge Hall, the president indicated he felt strongly about the proposed "restrictive" amendments. Of drafting 19 and 10 year olds in general, he said:

"I think it is a terrible blow to the country and its cost will be great—but it ought to be passed if the Army and Navy think it is necessary."

"And if we are going to have such a draft law, let's have a clean law and let the Army and Navy handle the boys the way they see fit."

"We of the universities have pledged all of our resources to the national service. We are convinced that the Army and Navy, in consultation with the universities, will develop wise training programs."

"But they can only do so if they are left free to use the men inducted into service as seems to them best. Congressional amendments to the draft law are a menace to university usefulness in the war."

Man Who Was Veteran at 13 Returns to War in Navy

By the Associated Press.

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—A soldier of fortune, Richard Le Cointe, 39, former Racine (Wis.) electrical supply dealer, has entered the war a second time.

Formerly a guerrilla fighter in Mexico, an observer and co-pilot in the French Air Corps, a tank gunner in the battle of Dunkerque and a commander of native troops at Martinique, Le Cointe is in uniform again, this time with the United States Navy.

Born in Guatemala of French parents, Le Cointe, then 13, took part in the Mexican revolution of 1914, serving as a second lieutenant in the revolutionary forces under Gen. Obregon.

Le Cointe went to Racine in 1916, and to France in 1922 to serve two years with the French Army. Returning to this country in 1924, he established himself in the electrical supply business in Racine and became an American citizen in 1940. When France was threatened, Le Cointe traveled there in time to serve with a French tank outfit, helping fight a rear guard action while the British evacuated Dunkerque.

Le Cointe made his way to Martinique, where he commanded native troops before the government decided he should be returned to the United States because of his citizenship.

Science Discovers Vitamin B1 Necessary To Help Transform Bread Into Energy

Yet Of The Millions Who Rely Upon Bread For 35% Of Their Daily Energy —3 Out Of 4 Fail To Get Plenty Of Vitamin B1, U. S. Officials Say

NEW IMPROVED WONDER BREAD PROVES DOUBLY GOOD

1. Because It Contains Vitamin B1 To Help Transform It Into Energy
2. Because It Stays Fresh Longer

What everybody knows is that bread is a major source of energy—millions of people rely upon their daily bread for 35% of their energy. But what you may not know is that, according to present scientific findings, you must have Vitamin B1 to efficiently transform the bread you eat into the energy you need every day.

This brings up the question—do you get enough Vitamin B1 naturally from the food you eat—the way Nature intended? According to U. S. Government Health Officials—3 out of every 4 people fail to eat a good diet for plenty of Vitamin B1.

Now this does not mean that you do not get enough Vitamin B1, so that the bread you eat every day does you no good. What it does mean is this—unless you have sufficient Vitamin B1, you cannot properly transform bread—or any other food—into the energy you need.

It's Up To You

Washington experts estimate that 90,000,000 man-days' work will be lost this year due to nutritional illness alone. A New York State Committee estimates industrial production could be increased 25% by better food. The problem will be solved when wives and mothers put better food on the table and in the lunch boxes of the nation.

The result is a new and improved Wonder Bread. A bread superior in nutritional efficiency than old-style white bread.

Yet it has the same fine whiteness; the same fine flavor; the same fine texture—as delicate and lacy as a treasured bridal veil.

To obtain this new, improved Wonder Bread—ask your grocer for it by name. And see for yourself how delicious and good it really is. Women everywhere are quitting old kinds for it by thousands every week.

It's Doubly Fresh

Then, too, this new Wonder Bread is doubly fresh—fresh when you buy it and fresh when you eat it. Because also-baked for lasting freshness—baked 13% longer than many ordinary kinds.

See how much longer doubly fresh Wonder Bread stays fresh in the lunch box.

Remember—this new doubly fresh Wonder Bread contains Vitamin B1. Get it at your grocer's today. You'll be glad you did!

Draft Chiefs Oppose Selective Service Shift To Manpower Group

Advocates of Change Assailed as Failing to Note Problems Involved

By JESSE O. IRVIN.

The Selective Service Administration was reported in informed circles today as feeling that those who are urging a change in the principle of selection by local boards of men for induction into the Army "fail to understand the problems involved in mobilizing men and women within our Nation for war."

These sources asserted that such thinking is based on "careless reliance on isolated statistics, disregard of two years' successful day-by-day operations of the selective service system, and complete indifference to the chaos which would follow the destruction of the system with nothing but a 'paper organization' to replace it."

The sources were directing their statement at the reported proposal of the War Manpower Commission to President Roosevelt to give it complete control over the administrative functions of the selective service system.

They were also aimed at the Tolman-Pepper bills which seek to place all manpower, procurement and production administration under an Office of War Mobilization.

Certain to Cause Impact.

Informed sources, which are reported to be close to the Selective Service Administration, said successful selection of men for armed forces from within the age groups liable for military service depends on the democratic process of "selection by your neighbor."

Contending that "our enemies will be defeated on the battle field and on the sea," they stated that the withdrawal of millions of men from industry and agriculture "to fight these battles" is certain to cause an impact regardless of the agency making the withdrawal.

The sources added: "After the needs of the armed forces are filled, there will remain 65 to 80 million men and women available as workers, with 15 to 20 million additional woman homemakers who can be recruited in an 'all out' mobilization. When properly used, this is an adequate manpower pool for the home front."

Technical Skills Needed.

"Productivity of the Nation would be increased by longer working hours, by reducing absenteeism, by eliminating the time interval between jobs, by training and upgrading, by better supervisory methods, by improving working conditions, and by maintaining the very highest morale and war consciousness among workers."

"The armed forces need men who have already acquired skills. In mechanized warfare, practically every soldier and sailor must have or must acquire a skill. . . . The need of skills in the Army alone is illustrated by the fact that the records of the adjutant general show that 4,000 technical engineers have been inducted where 5,400 were required; that 13,000 machinists have been inducted where 31,000 were required; that 2,000 toolmakers have been inducted where 8,600 were required; that 9,500 electricians have been inducted where 30,500 were required, and that 29,000 miners were inducted where 74,000 were required."

"Men and women, both skilled and unskilled, required to maintain a capacity production of essential agriculture and war industry must be supplied from those not required for military service. As rapidly as possible they must replace physically fit men needed for military service. The manning table program provides an inventory of worker requirements and a basis for the orderly withdrawal of physically fit men of military age as replacements are available from the balance of the population."

Open, Honest Process.

"Through the local board each community has a part in the war effort. The method of selection is open to public inspection. The men making the selection are not influenced by monthly pay checks. Ten million parents have been made date well content with the method by which their sons have been chosen. They expect other men to pass before the same open, honest process of selection."

"It is harmful to the war effort to attack local boards, and by general and unsupported statements, to undermine public confidence in them. It would be unwise to take out of their hands the functions of classification of registrants. Such functions cannot and must not be placed in the hands of paid Government employees. The real problem is to supply local boards with all possible assistance and information, in usable form, so that their judgment may be as nearly perfect as possible, taking into consideration the magnitude of their task and the fact that they are, after all, human beings."

"Occupational classifications have been as sound as the information furnished would permit. Improvements will be possible only if we all work to the end of securing better information."

Substitute Not Explained.

"No one has demonstrated how any substitute for the local boards would operate. No one has pointed to the methods of classification which would be followed. No one has indicated where the personnel would be found to operate the substitute system. Until these factors are disclosed and carefully weighed against the record of performance of the selective service system, it is folly to undermine public confidence by attacking local boards rather than giving them what additional help would be available if our energies were concentrated in that direction."

"A study of the occupational questionnaire would indicate that a solution to the problems of industry, as far as skills are concerned, will be found by inducing persons who have needed skills to use them. Taking the skills which are conspicuously in demand for production, we find from a summary of the occupational questionnaire for the third registration the following:

Occupation	Total placed	Em- ployed	Not em- ployed
Professional engineers	43,551	19,940	23,611
Scientists	18,998	10,544	8,454
Electricians	138,548	80,858	57,690

Economist Says Cities Carry Unequal Share Of Fund Campaigns

Public Already Harassed By Taxes, Living Costs, Bond Appeals, He Says

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Citizens of major cities frequently are asked to contribute disproportionately large sums to fund-raising campaigns, Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Chicago Association of Commerce, said today.

Mr. Lyon, formerly a professor of economics at the University of Chicago and for many years executive vice president of the Brookings Institution, said leading citizens who accept local sponsorship of drives ostensibly conducted nationally should investigate the extent of the campaign.

"They are approaching for additional contributions," Mr. Lyon stated, "a public already harassed by mounting taxes, by insistent appeals for purchase of war bonds and by rising living costs."

"When a national drive is under way, there is a natural assumption that it is being extended to all parts of the country and that almost every business and every person is being solicited with approximately the same degree of effort. The facts fall far short of supporting these assumptions.

"Many so-called national drives are not national in any comprehensive sense. Very frequently they are limited to certain areas, and often to certain cities. Cities usually are selected on the basis of size, though sometimes with an eye to the type of population and its probable response to a particular appeal."

"The big cities are most convenient for organizational purposes and offer a more economical opportunity for skimming the cream from larger companies or from more wealthy persons than is offered in smaller communities. The residents of larger cities are solicited more frequently than is fair, and also for a larger proportion of the total than if the drives were truly national."

"Local groups, in committing a community to participation in a national drive, assume an important responsibility concerning the origin and purposes of the campaign. They may place an inequitable large burden on their city or area if they fail to give careful thought to the total area included."

High-Riding Bureaucrats Face Curbs

Coalitions in New Congress Can Put 'Czars' on Hot Spot

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

The Democratic party is faced today with a crisis from within. Its defeat is due largely to the arbitrary and capricious manner in which left-wingers, possessed of vast powers over the citizenry, have abused their positions, especially in wartime. Unless the leadership of men like James A. Farley, who foresaw the reaction to the mistakes of the New Deal and tried to stem the tide, is taken, there will be a worse defeat for the Democrats in 1944.

David Lawrence.

This kind of comment is being heard on Capitol Hill, where, among the Democrats in particular, the feeling is one of resentment and bitterness against presidentially appointed administrators who, without experience with the psychological reactions of the public gained in running for office, have piled up red tape and restrictions without regard to the effects on the electorate.

Basically, the Democrats in Congress from the South, who are non-radical, are the ones who are loudest in their protestations that the defeat of their Northern brethren is due to mismanagement of the civilian economy by New Dealers. Renewed demand is being made that the 40-hour-week law be amended and that the tremendous expense of time-and-a-half in overtime either be curtailed or at least revised so that longer work weeks can solve the manpower shortage.

Draft System Criticized.

There is a revival, too, of criticism of the operations of the draft law, with its unfair quota system and lack of uniformity in applying occupational deferments, especially as they relate to farm labor. Administration of the draft probably played as big a part as any single thing in arousing resentment among the voters, unless perhaps it was the way Washington officials bungled the rubber situation and gasoline rationing.

There is no doubt that the New Dealers have a defense for their acts and that many wartime restrictions were necessary, but they ignored the necessity of informing the public and advising it of the sacrifices needed to attain the wartime objectives. Thus, for instance, the press would have been willing and indeed has been anxious to cooperate in every way with the Government in helping to prepare the people for wartime restrictions. But the administration seemed to think it was more important to start a fight with the newspapers by making more than a thousand of the publishers of daily newspaper defendants in a lawsuit over ancient issues that could have waited to post-war days for settlement.

The Administration's policy toward the press—a most important channel of communication between the Government and the people—just doesn't make sense. The President, as the leader of the Democratic party, has taken occasion to antagonize the press, and after his recent inspection trip he did not fail to accuse writers and editors of telling lies to the public. This is hardly a means of winning the cooperation of the press, because people don't become enthusiastic collaborators in America after being beaten over the head with a crowbar.

Investigations in Prospect.

It is fair to say that the press has been critical, but in a democracy the way to avoid criticism is to see to it that the evidence which gives rise to the criticism is met by corrective or remedial policies. Sensitiveness and resentments have no place in governmental operations. It is most unfortunate that in wartime the administration should be believed by many publishers to be carrying on a feud because the Associated Press happened to deny admission to a newspaper politically allied with the administration.

The congressional election results will stir up domestic issues and point a warning finger against the bureaucrats who have been riding high here in Washington in utter disregard of the people's wishes. The war effort will not be impaired but actually assisted when the new Congress takes office in January.

The Republicans, together with a group of Southern Democrats, will control the House. Undoubtedly there will be a wave of investigations to get at the manner in which public power has been used by the bureaucrats. Heretofore the administration has been able to

Election Result Viewed as Protest Against 'Immense, Amateur Bureaucracy' Handling War

By DOROTHY THOMPSON.

There are two aspects to the recent elections. The first concerns the reasons why they went as they did; the second concerns the results.

The first is easier to analyze than the second.

By and large, when the American people want a "tough" Government, they vote Republican. When they feel humiliated and "tender" they vote Democratic.

We are at war, Dorothy Thompson, and we feel tough.

Also, there is a popular tendency to believe that the Republicans are the more efficient part of our setup.

There is no blinking the fact that the American people are not wholly pleased with the conduct of the war. And although the vote was light, and no issues were really clarified, the conduct of the war was the latent issue.

The Roosevelt policy: To compromise, postpone decisions, put up one agency against another, run the war by an immense improvised and amateur bureaucracy, is unpopular. The vote was a protest against this state of affairs. It was protest rather than affirmation. For there was no real Republican line for which to vote. The line of the people was, "It can't go on like this; it must be improved."

Fish's Victory Analyzed.

Some of the voting was provincial. Hamilton Fish was re-elected, not because of his previous stand on foreign policy; rather, since most of his constituents once shared his opinions and now nevertheless wish victory, because a certain sense of fairness, plus satisfaction with his previous services for their district, led them to forgive him, as they forgive themselves.

Even the combination of Roosevelt, Wilkie and Dewey against Fish probably helped him. American communities dislike interference of outside "big shots" in their "private affairs." They have a special kind of isolationism of their own.

In New York State the absence of any dynamic candidate against Thomas E. Dewey almost gave him the election by default. The Democratic candidate was James A. Farley's machine-made pet, and a nonentity; the Labor party candidate simply split the Democratic vote.

Altogether, the results are as might have been foreseen.

Effect on President Discussed.

The consequences, however, involve a much larger political view. The President is weakened in Congress. He has a majority in the Senate, a very uncertain majority in the House. It is a situation where a very small margin of anti-Roosevelt Democrats can shift the vote. If the anti-Roosevelt feeling in the country increases, that margin also will increase.

This situation is unlikely to make the Executive stronger and more decisive; on the contrary, it may accentuate the tendency to squelch practically every attempt to get at the facts.

In the Senate, there will be a coalition majority, too. The spirit of the new majority will be one of prodding to get things done quickly and shorten the war. Too many people have been writing to Washington saying they believe the war is being prolonged unduly and that a more efficient mechanism would have gotten ships and planes and munitions manufactured much sooner and at a much less cost than has been the case to date.

Mrs. Roosevelt Leaves London for Provinces

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was told today that Britain has found that part-time workers such as housewives can be employed profitably in manufacturing.

Anne Loughlin, first woman chairman of the Trades Union Congress, told the President's wife that many employers had been reluctant to employ part-time labor at first, but subsequently found the output of such labor satisfactory.

Mrs. Roosevelt left London this morning for a tour of the provinces.

Del Rio to Leave Nov. 16

QUITO, Ecuador, Nov. 6 (AP).—President Arroyo Del Rio of Ecuador and his party will begin their trip to Washington Monday, November 16, it was announced yesterday. His first stop will be at Bogota, Colombia, where he will remain three days.

compromise, by creating greater areas of uncertainty.

The President need not follow this course. He may, on the contrary, interpret the vote as a demand for stronger leadership. If he reorganizes and streamlines his administration in the coming weeks, and if he is able to achieve major successes in the war in the coming year, he can turn the tide. But if he does not, the outlook in 1944 for the Democratic party is very bad.

Now, this is not merely an internal affair—and this is the crux of the matter. If the war is prolonged until after the next election, the coming administration will have to make the peace. Peace would be affected. There never has been any real certainty what kind of peace a victorious Roosevelt administration would make. But the peace would not be an America first peace, but an international peace. If the Republican leader really were Mr. Wilkie one might expect the same spirit at the peace conference. And on foreign affairs Mr. Dewey is an extremely dark horse with neither background nor experience.

This lack of certainty affects the politics and plans of other countries. If there should be indications in this country of the emergence of a new isolationism, or a new American imperialism—which is just as likely and arises out of the same spirit of rampant nationalism—then the politics of Britain, Russia and China would be affected.

This question is not answered by a unanimous declaration that we all, Republicans and Democrats alike, want victory. What kind of victory? A victory that is to be built on the dissolution of British world power, with the United States the primary heir? A victory with the United States calling the tune and then withdrawing from responsibility? A victory aimed against Russia? Or a common victory, leading to a new and mutual world organization, with liberty and justice for all?

Allies Are Interested.

These are the questions which only we must ask ourselves. They are questions which all our allies are asking themselves this very morning, and will continue to ask as the months pass.

They are not answered by the vote, for the voters were not asked the question. They arise as a result of the vote. They are not answered, either, by the change in personalities, for there is as yet no definite Republican policy on these questions.

So, in the face of this change, we need clarification. We need more vigorous leadership and more efficient administration from the President; and we need a definition of policy and political responsibility toward foreign affairs from the now powerful Republican opposition. If, on matters of foreign political policy, we can achieve unanimity between the parties, then the change can be all to the good. If we do not, the unfolding results of this election can be serious for the war of coalition.

And this, after all, is the main political problem of our times.

Roosevelt Can Accept Party Reversal as Excuse to Weed Out Wartime Incompetents

By FRANK R. KENT.

One thing clear about the election results is that there is no aid or comfort in them for our enemies. Perhaps they will attempt to construe them differently, but they will be making a mistake. Striking as were the Republican gains, they mean any lack of unity on the part of the American people in the relentless prosecution of the war to utter victory is wholly without foundation.

Frank R. Kent.

On the contrary, the returns are indicative of a desire for a more effective, whole-hearted, concentrated and increased war effort than we yet have made. This, having been said, it becomes possible to point out that the extent of the opposition party's gains in all sections of the country is significant of a deep popular dissatisfaction with the manner in which the war is being managed in Washington.

Making full allowance for all the administration alibis, still that fact sticks out more prominently than any other. It vastly outweighs the various grudges and irritations which customarily cause the voters to revolt against the party in power. It far overbalances the smallness of the vote; the "local situations"; the grievances of this, that and the other group; the customary back-swing in off-years, and sundry other more or less sound explanations and excuses.

Trend Is Only Explanation.

Proper consideration can be given these things, but lump them together, they do not account for an upset greater than any one expected or predicted. For that there must have been a basic reason. It can be explained only on the ground of a trend.

Trends are significant things in American politics. For over 10 years, the trend throughout the Nation has been running in one direction. In six successive elections, the trend has been all the New Deal way. For the first time since 1930, the opposition has scored really decisive gains—gains of a national and not merely a local nature.

This does not mean that Mr. Roosevelt has been repudiated by the country and it does not mean that the people are ready to turn this country over to the Republican party. It would be a mistake to make either of these assumptions.

Nevertheless, American political history shows that when, having run for a long period in one direction, the tide turns and starts in the other direction, it does not run that way for one campaign and then start right back again. Instead, it keeps on in the new direction until it runs itself out.

That has been the unbroken record, and on the basis of that record the Republicans are now almost as much entitled to hope that their party will capture control of the Government in 1944 as were the Democrats when, in the middle of Herbert Hoover's administration, the tide turned and gave them a House majority.

Of course, precedents are always being destroyed and it may not work out that way. But most politicians think it will.

What caused the tide to turn? There are two answers to that. One

Allied Success in Africa Particularly Vital For Its Effect on Mediterranean Countries

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.

The Allies have won the first round in what promises to be a bitter struggle in Africa. The enemy's lines have been cracked and the Axis forces are withdrawing as fast as possible using only their rearwards in powerful defensive operations. The British are moving ahead cautiously to avoid possible pitfalls. Air superiority in the desert fighting has again told its tale.

The long line of supplies from the United States and Great Britain to the Red Sea and Suez Canal ports were given particular attention in the months preceding the offensive. It is safe to say that replacements and reinforcements have been calculated with great care and transported so carefully scheduled that the Imperial forces will not find themselves handicapped by a shortage of men, machines and ammunition as in previous offensives.

The British commander-in-chief, Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, is known to be "carefully dashing." It is unlikely he will plunge his forces into a headlong offensive in a territory where space is of little importance. The chances are that the Axis bases at Tobruk and Benghazi will receive particular attention from the Allied Air and naval forces so as to check the arrival of reinforcements for Marshal Erwin Rommel's armies.

The key to an actual victory lies not in the miles of sand the Allied armies can gain. They have done that in the past without any particular advantage) but in a thorough interruption of the enemy's communication and supply lines.

Turks Enthusiastic.

What is even more important, however, than the military success of the Allies is the repercussion on the Mediterranean countries which have been under terrific diplomatic pressure from the Nazis. That pressure is likely to have less effect today.

In Turkey, in particular, it is said that the Allies' new successes against Marshal Rommel have been received enthusiastically. For many months the Turks have been subjected to pressure from Nazi Ambassador Franz von Papen. As weeks went by with-out the Allies being able to bite the German-Italian forces from their positions in Egypt, that pressure was increased while Turkey's resistance became more and more wobbly.

Not that the Turks have any love for the Germans. Since our entrance into the world conflict they intended more than ever to stick on the Allied side. But President Ismet Inonu could not afford to be sentimental and the Turkish government hinted more than once that military operations would determine the ultimate stand of the country, which has a good army but little equipment.

There have been many indications that the Germans contemplate directing their full war attention to Asia Minor as soon as operations in Russia are over. The Turks were nervous. On the one hand, the Allies were inactive and on the other the Nazis were gathering more forces in Greek areas. The Allied success on the El Alamein front is likely to quiet Turkish misgivings.

It is expected that a similar reaction will be felt in Vichy and particularly among the French forces in North Africa.

French May Change Minds.

North Africa is becoming of increasing importance to the Allies and to the Axis; and Berlin is expected shortly to exert real pressure on the Laval government at Vichy to compel an even stronger collaborationist policy than in the past. The Axis now desperately needs communications across the western Mediterranean and a firmer grip on the French North Africa empire.

The British report that 35 merchantmen have been surrendered by the French government to the Germans and the Italians is interesting. The Axis needs these transports desperately to rush reinforcements to Marshal Rommel. Since there is no likelihood that the British will make a lightning march such as they made against the armies of Italian Field Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, there is time for the Nazis to prepare their supply lines in the rear of what may become the final front. But in order to do this safely they must have complete co-operation from the French authorities in North Africa.

Laval and his Vichy henchmen likely will follow the Berlin line. But whether the administrators—civilian and military—who have actual control of North Africa will come through as the Nazis wish, is a matter of speculation. It is probable that Marshal Rommel's setback has had some effect on them.

Reader Says Goats Could Replace Cars

By HENRY McLEMORE.

There are a few things that I won't do for my readers. The only request that I have balked at so far is the request that I stop writing this column. My interest in belles-lettres, not to mention eating three times a day, was too strong for me to grant that one. Now, today, it seems as if I will have to turn down another reader—a Mr. Felton Ripley of Texas, who asks that I personally present to Joseph Eastman, head of the Office of Defense Transportation, his suggestion that goats be used to solve this country's civilian transportation problem.

Mr. Felton, who is a goat grower or raiser or rancher or whatever one who supervises the bringing of goats into this world is called, maintained in his letter to me that there are hundreds of thousands of strong, healthy, willing goats ready to pull vehicles. He points out, and rightly perhaps, that goats are very little trouble to keep, cost very little to feed, and are a natural replacement for the automobile.

"Until a man has driven a spanking team of goats," Mr. Ripley rhapsodizes, "he has not felt the full thrill of travel. Nothing is prettier, than a team of goats, horns glistening in the sun, whiskers riding the wind, spinning a wagon down the road.

"Businessmen would find a goat wagon ideal to reach their offices. Housewives would find goats the perfect means of shopping. Goats need no gasoline, no tire tread, no oil. As a patriot you must see this plan before Mr. Eastman and have him launch goats for defense."

Mr. Ripley of Texas has turned to the wrong man. He has, unfortunately, turned to a man who spent the best years of his boyhood trying to break to harness dozens of goats. I was given my first pair of goats on my sixth birthday. They were named Billy and Nanny, as are all goats. No one has ever named goats anything but Billy and Nanny. A bright green wagon and red harness came with them. Billy ate the harness in the first two days and, working horn-in-glove with Nanny, made a shambles of the wagon within a week.

Other Billys and Nannys followed this original pair, but I found all goats to be the same. They do not like to travel in a straight line. Head them toward point Q and they light toward Q and they hit it, lickety-split, for W or R. They do not like the feel of a paved or graded road under their feet.

If Mr. Ripley's suggestion is carried out, this country will do more cross-country traveling than was ever done before. A harnessed goat's natural habitat is a ditch, or a plowed field, or a heavily wooded area.

Mules are supposed to be stubborn animals, but a mule, when he wants a Ph. D. in stubbornness, studies under a Billy goat. When a goat sits down or lowers its head and braces its feet, nothing will move it. I learned to build fires by building them under the Billys and Nannys of my boyhood.

Goats are not affectionate. There is no such thing as making a friend of a goat. You can let a goat eat at your table, give him free run of the guest room, give teas and showers for him, hold musicales in his honor, and the first time he gets a chance to get it with his horns, he will. I still am not absolutely in line, from neck to knee, because of the sneak punches that my goats delivered to me when I was an unsuspecting child and my bones were still in the formative period.

The first poem that I ever learned—I couldn't have been more than 3 because I started helping with the cotton picking when I was 4, and I knew the poem at that time—concerned goats. I forget who wrote the poem—Byron, Wordsworth or Grantland Rice—but it went this way:

"Two little goats were walking in the pasture
"One little goat said, 'Let's walk a little faster.'
"The other little goat said, 'My foot's sore.'
"Excuse me, goat—I did not know."

CIO Charges Employers Seek to Overload WLB

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—CIO leaders, charging that many employers were deliberately overloading the machinery of the War Labor Board, want the board to issue a general order writing arbitration clauses into all labor contracts.

Philip Murray, president, here with other CIO leaders for the organization's annual convention next week, told reporters it was the view of the International Executive Board that many companies "are sabotaging agreements by having their managers advise our grievance committee representatives that they can go to the War Labor Board, that they do not propose to settle the grievances."

The CIO chief said President R. J. Thomas of the United Auto Workers had told the CIO board that "collective bargaining at many plants in the auto industry is breaking down by reason of management's refusal to settle grievances by arbitration where the grievance committee and plant managers failed to reach an agreement."

Mr. Murray said the CIO board was informed that thousands of such cases were on the way to the War Labor Board and that several thousand voluntary wage agreements are awaiting board action.

U. S. Birth Rate Drop To Lowest Recorded Point Is Forecast

Census Official Predicts War Will Result in 'Population Scars'

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Dr. Philip M. Hauser, assistant director of the Census Bureau, said yesterday that the war "will leave population scars which will have far-reaching, long-run effects," including the lowest marriage and birth rates ever recorded in this country.

In an article in the current issue of the American Journal of Sociology of the University of Chicago, Dr. Hauser said the Nation's participation in the war would accelerate the downward trend of fertility and slow the rate of national population.

As to the effect of the war on population, he asserted that there would be a surplus of women of marriageable age; "hollow classes" resulting from the smaller number of children born in the war period "will be perpetuated for generations" and "the war will leave a distorted internal distribution of population" caused by the concentration of workers in war production plants.

Present Rise Called Temporary.
Temporarily, he said, there has been an acceleration in the rate of the Nation's population growth, but, he added, "the war will leave population scars which will have far-reaching long-run effects. The pattern can be traced from the results in Europe in World War I when the birth and marriage rates fell sharply as the war progressed."
With the increase of the Nation's armed forces, Dr. Hauser predicted the marriage rate would drop precipitately to a point "probably well below that ever before recorded for this country." The birth rate, he added, likewise would drop to a new low.

Short Post-War Increases Seen
Loss by the United States of half a million men in the war, the census official said, would make the ratio of males per 100 females less than 100 for the first time in history, and appreciable numbers of partially and totally disabled men will result in an even lower ratio.
Mr. Hauser forecast increases in marriage, birth, and natural increase rates after the war, but said "these increases will not be of long duration. "Because of military mortality and disability, the emergence of 'hollow classes,' the imbalance of the sexes of marriageable age, the effects of the war on human motivation in the rearing of offspring, and other causes, will accelerate the downward trend of the birth rate and of population growth before the present temporary rise."

Air-Sea Rescue Outfits Risk Lives to Save Downed Pilots

Theirs is a Life Of Constant Peril Without Glamour

(One of a Series.)

By CLAYTON KNIGHT, For the Associated Press.

LONDON.—This is the story, not of those glamorous American, Canadian and British pilots of the fighter and bomber commands, but of the "glory-without-glamour" boys of Britain's air-sea rescue squadrons.

If the men of the merchant marine are the unsung heroes of the sea in this war, then these rescue flyers are the unsung heroes of the air, and I sandwiched in a visit with some of them during my tour of British, Canadian and American air stations in the British Isles.

Their cleverly-camouflaged airdromes dot England's coast line, and from them start special flights of planes whose sole function is the rescue of air crews who have been forced down in the water.

It's on missions every bit as dangerous as those of their brother pilots of the fighter and bomber commands that these men go, but they don't think it's exciting.

When you realize that it takes nearly a year of intensified training to turn out a bomber crew, and that human lives are doubly precious when they've been trained for such an exacting and vital job, it's easy to understand how important is the work of the rescue flyers in helping to snatch downed pilots back from death's door.

Flying Officer R. W. (Bob) Ernst of Waterloo, Ontario, a member of the Royal Canadian Air Force in Britain, thinks his job is unexciting and, well, sort of routine.

They say their job isn't exciting. They say they can't hold a candle to the lads who fly bombers deep into Germany several nights a week, deliberately looking for trouble. I say their wrong.

There is the story of the air-sea rescue pilot flying a Lysander plane on a hunt for a crew reported "down" somewhere in the Channel.

The Lysander is an easy plane to fly, designed and built years before this war and boasting slots and flaps, good visibility for both pilot and observer-gunner and in fact everything except the most important of all—speed. The Lysander is no match for the Luftwaffe's fighters.

The crew of this Lysander scoured the rough Channel waters where the bomber crew had reported they thought they were, but couldn't spot the yellow rubber dinghy. Twice the rescue craft had to return to its base to refuel. On its third trip across, the Lysander ventured to within 15 miles of the hostile French coast and there below was the tossing dinghy.

Not Much "Excitement."

Following the usual rescue procedure, the plane dropped a smoke bomb as near to the castaways as possible in case they might lose sight of them. Then it dropped a dinghy downwind so the distressed crew could drift toward it. This dinghy was larger than the inflated boat carried in all service aircraft and stowed in containers are flares, smoke bombs, water, rations, first-aid kits, sleeping bags, chemically heated hot water bottles and other comforts.

Meanwhile, the Lysander had reported the castaways' position by wireless and the navy, working in close co-operation with the "force," had dispatched a fast rescue boat.

The main part of the Lysander's rescue work was over. However, it circled overhead like a friendly eagle waiting to lead the rescue boat to the bomber crew in their new dinghy.

Sound like a routine job? Sure. Not exciting? No. It wasn't very exciting—until three Focke-Wulf 190s decided to interfere with the rescue.

No Spitfire... But!

The old Lysander was no Spitfire, but it carried a determined gunner and an adroit pilot and the lads in the dinghy cheered as they watched the battle overhead. It should have been an uneven battle, but that Lysander had beaten off two of the attacking planes and damaged the third by the time the navy arrived to pick up the water-soaked boys from the rubber boat.

"That's only the instance of the air-sea rescue squadrons.

A Wellington bomber on patrol in the Bay of Biscay developed engine trouble and had to make a forced landing at sea. The crew survived the crash landing and took to the dinghy. They spent a miserable night huddled close together for an angry sea that swept over their frail craft.

But the next day an Australian Sunderland flying boat showed up and the men in the dinghy thanked their stars as the "glory-without-glamour" boys swooped down in an attempt to land and pick them up. However, it's a risky business.

Witness Tells Court Of Paying Tomadelli $400,000 in 13 Years

Proceedings Postponed Due to Illness of Assistant Prosecutor

The illness of one of the prosecutors caused cancellation of today's session in the District Court trial of "Count" Juan J. Tomadelli on charges of defrauding Ernest M. Swingle, Elberon, N. J., out of $400,000 in the promotion of a "bottled sunshine" device.

The 55-year-old Tomadelli went on trial yesterday on a charge of mail fraud in connection with his sale of stock in the Tomadelli Electronics Corp., a firm that was to manufacture light bulbs said to take the needed current from the atmosphere.

Arrested in January, 1941.

The defendant, who raised orchids in an expensive apartment in a hotel here, was arrested in January, 1941. He numbered among his personal acquaintances several men occupying high governmental positions. Tomadelli was a propagandist for the Italian government in Argentina during the last war.

Mr. Swingle testified yesterday that he paid Tomadelli the money in batches of about $30,000 a year for 13 years—from 1928 to 1941. The witness, a 10-cent store manager, told Justice James M. Proctor and the jury that Tomadelli had represented to him that the Federal Government was interested in the light invention and planned to buy $300,000 worth of the bulbs.

J. F. T. O'Connor, former controller of the currency, was carrying on the negotiations for the purchase of the bulbs, Mr. Swingle said Tomadelli told him.

Denied Discussing Venture.

Earlier, Judge O'Connor, now on the Federal bench in Southern California, had denied on the witness stand that he ever discussed any

1941 Fuel Oil Sales Set 554 Million-Barrel Mark

Domestic sales of fuel oil reached the record figure of 554,329,000 barrels during 1941, the Bureau of Mines reported yesterday, a gain of 11 per cent over the previous record established in 1940.

Kerosene sales in 1941 also set a record, 68,996,000 barrels, though the increase over 1940 was only 2 per cent.

The increase in fuel oil sales was attributed directly to demands of railroads, gas and electric power plants, smelters, mines, manufacturing industries and the armed services.

College Head Commissioned

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 6 (AP)—Dr. Franklin F. Moore, president of Rider College, announced last night he had been commissioned a lieutenant in the Navy and would report Monday. Dr. Moore was elected president of the college in 1934 at 31.

Reciprocity Club to Hear Veteran of Tokio Raid

Lt. C. L. McClure, who was one of Brig. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle's raiders over Tokio, will be the principal speaker at the monthly dinner meeting of the Reciprocity Club of America at 6:30 p.m. next Thursday at the Mayflower Hotel.

Besides relating how the American airmen rained bombs on Tokio, Lt. McClure will tell how his plane crash-landed in Chinese territory after the raid. He and his four companions had to make a hazardous trip of more than 1,000 miles before they obtained treatment for wounds they received in the crash. Arthur Clarendon Smith, past president of the club, will introduce the speaker.

Dr. Lowrey Pendrick, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, will address the club at its luncheon meeting at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Poems of Two Capital Residents Published in Poetry Anthology

David Moore of The Star and Miss Salita Cooke Represented in Works

Two poems written by an Evening Star accountant were published this week in a national anthology of poetic works, "The Badge of Honor." David L. Moore, 31, of 2010 Wyoming avenue N.W., was one of two Washingtonians whose work was included. The second is Miss Salita C. Cooke, employed by the National Resources Planning Board.

"The Badge of Honor" is published by Poetry House, which every year selects a few works from among the poems being published all over the country. Work of about 200 poets was included in the 1942 edition.

Mr. Moore was born in Peking, China, while his father, Frederick Moore, was working for the Associated Press there. His father only a few months ago published a book, "With Japan's Leaders." Coming to Washington when he was about 10 years old, Mr. Moore went to the Friends School and was graduated from Harvard University in 1936.

After doing graduate work at Harvard in fine arts, he worked for a short time at the Home Owners' Loan Corp. From 1938 to 1940 he was assistant curator and assistant librarian at the Dunbarton Oaks Museum of Byzantine Art which Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss recently gave to Harvard University.

The accountant for The Star for about a year, Mr. Moore also acts as associate editor of "Whispers," a Magazine of Poetry." Published here, the magazine is circulated nationally among younger poets.

Miss Cooke taught school here and in Alabama, Texas and New York before being employed by the planning board. Like Mr. Moore, she has had numerous poems printed in newspapers and magazines. She belongs to the National Daughters of the American Revolution and the Poet Laureate League. She lives at 1316 Nineteenth street N.W.

Milk Substance Is Found To Control Blood Pressure

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—A substance obtained from milk which has been used with remarkable results in controlling malignant high blood pressure was reported by Dr. Myron Prinzmetal of Los Angeles.

The substance consists of derivatives from casein, the protein part of milk. It is given by injection. It will not cure, but may control for relatively long periods this form of high blood pressure, Dr. Prinzmetal told a meeting of San Francisco heart specialists yesterday.

'Spun' Nylon Hose Sales Illegal, OPA Tells Stores

The Office of Price Administration warned merchants yesterday that it is illegal to sell or offer to sell women's hosiery made from "spun" nylon, "blend" or nylon "combination yarn."

OPA said such hosiery cannot be sold legally until specific prices have been established. Maximum prices so far have been established for hosiery with the leg made from continuous filament nylon yarn.

Tokio Declares Election Clipped New Deal Wings

TOKIO (From Japanese Broadcasts), Nov. 6.—In the first Japanese comment on the United States elections, the Japan Times and Advertiser declared yesterday that "New Deal wings have been clipped."

The newspaper (subsidized by the Foreign Office) said the outcome was so long anticipated that the actual results "caused no ripple of surprise."

It added that one phase of the new political alignment would be "the intensified exchange of re-terminations of different camps in the Nation's political arena against which the outcome of the election left no safety valve."

"Whichever way the tide of Roosevelt's political fortune may turn our goals are set for final victory in the war and progressive achievements in the reconstruction of greater East Asia, whatever may be the vicissitudes in the enemy camp."

Committees in House Face Many Changes As Election Result

Republicans May Press For More Seats on Important Groups

By the Associated Press.
Sweeping changes in the membership of major House committees and new chairmanships for numerous minor committees will result from Democratic casualties in Tuesday's elections.

While the Democrats will retain the chairmanships and at least nominal voting control of all committees, they may be confronted next January by Republican demands for larger representation on some of the more important groups. Influential House Republicans said they expected a more proportionate distribution of places on such major committees as ways and means, rules, appropriations and banking on all of which except rules they now have only 40 per cent of the seats. Less than one-third of the Rules Committee members are Republicans.

Some Democrats believe the majority leadership would yield to Republican pressure and voluntarily give the minority more committee assignments for the sake of harmony and to avert a fight. There were others, though, who contended there was no precedent even back in the days of Republican House control—for departure from the traditional 60-40 distribution of committee assignments.

Representative Williams Defeated. As a result of Tuesday's balloting, primary defeats and vacancies, the Ways and Means Committee has seven Democrats and two Republicans either already out or on the way out; Appropriations, eight Democrats; Agriculture and Labor Committees, three Democrats each, and Military Affairs, five Democrats. The Banking Committee lost its ranking Democratic member, Representative Williams of Missouri, a general election casualty, while the Committee on Un-American Activities will start off the new year without two present members, Representatives Casey of Massachusetts and Beam of Illinois. Mr. Casey unsuccessfully sought a Senate seat and Mr. Beam did not seek reelection.

Many Chairmen Lose. Committees which will lose their Democratic chairmen include these, with the present chairmen:

Education—Representative Laramie of Indiana defeated Representative Barden of North Carolina.
Census—Representative Moser of Pennsylvania defeated for renomination; Representative Allen of Louisiana in line for chairmanship.
Election of President, Vice President and Representatives—Representative O'Day of New York not a candidate for re-election; Representative Worley of Texas in line for chairmanship.

Indian Affairs—Representative Rogers of Oklahoma not a candidate; Representative O'Connor of Montana in line for chairmanship.
Insular Affairs—Representative Koccolawski of Illinois defeated in primary; Representative McGehee of Mississippi in line for chairmanship.
Patents—Kramer of California defeated; Buckley of New York in line for chairmanship.
Post Offices and Post Roads—Romjoui of Missouri, defeated; Representative Birch of Virginia in line for chairmanship.

Roads—Representative Cartwright of Oklahoma defeated in primary; Representative Whittington of Mississippi in line for chairmanship.
Mexicans Rush to Volunteer
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6 (AP)—Senator Arturo Martinez Adamo of Mexico City said today the rush of volunteers in Mexico to take military training was so great the government was running short of people to train them. Senator Adamo will represent President Avila Camacho at a "Salute to Russia" rally Sunday.

Contract for 1,200 Planes Is Approved, Higgins Says
By the Associated Press.
Andrew Jackson Higgins, New Orleans shipbuilder, said last night a contract for construction of 1,200 large cargo-carrying airplanes by Higgins Industries, Inc., had been approved by the War Production Board.
Although the contracts have not yet been signed, Mr. Higgins said he had received a "go ahead" and already had started work with approximately 1,000 men on duty. "I am not waiting for formalities and technicalities," he said. "I may be jumping the gun on the actual signing of the contract."

The facilities will be located on a site of nearly 1,500 acres near New Orleans which Mr. Higgins started to develop for the Maritime Commission, which recently canceled its contract with the shipbuilder.
He said officials of his company and WPB had been "in the process of reaching a conclusion" on the contracts for the projects for the last several weeks.

Private Worried as Camp Monopolizes His Girl
By the Associated Press.
CAMP STEWART, Ga., Nov. 6.—"Miss Shoot 'Em Down" in the person of Ann Paulin of New York City, came here today for a three-day round of festivities in her honor, but the soldier responsible was worried.
Said Pvt. Charles A. Tepper of Chicago, as the camp made plans to honor Miss Paulin, "I hope they let me see her for a few minutes, anyway."

Miss Paulin, a refugee from Finland where she formerly acted in Finnish movies and now a New York model, was voted "the most beautiful correspondent" writing to a recent poll conducted among the soldiers by "Shoot 'Em Down," the camp newspaper.
She was sponsored by Pvt. Tepper, her soldier correspondent, who was among the official escort greeting her at Savannah.
She will be crowned "Miss Shoot 'Em Down" by Col. William V. Ochs, post commander.

Rescuer's Injuries Worse Than Victim's
By the Associated Press.
LINCOLN, Ill.—Walter Ruwe helped a woman in distress and suffered a more serious injury than the rescued victim.
Miss Harriet Graham suffered an ankle injury when her right foot got caught in a revolving door at the post office. Among those who rescued her was Mr. Ruwe, who drove Miss Graham home in his car.
In the Graham home, Mr. Ruwe slipped and fell on a rug and fractured his right ankle.

Rios Supporters Call For Axis Break in Chile Demonstrations

20,000 Join in Parade And Ask Alignment With United Nations

By the Associated Press. SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 6.—Thousands of representatives of the pro-democratic forces which elected President Juan Antonio Rios called for a break with the Axis and alignment of Chile beside the United Nations in demonstrations here last night.

Bearing flags and slogans, masses of men and women shouted vivas for the democracies and "Muera el Fascismo" (death to Fascism) on the plaza before the presidential palace.

Approximately 20,000 persons made up an orderly parade through the center of the capital to the plaza before sunset. President Rios waved to them from the palace balcony.

Ready to Make Sacrifices. Arturo Riveros, chairman of the Democratic Alliance and the Radical party, to which President Rios belongs, asked that Chile carry out the Rio de Janeiro accords "to save democracy and America."

"We are Chileans and Americans and as such we are ready to make all sacrifices, even life," Riveros said. Deputy Bernardo Ibanez, president of the Confederation of Workers, demanded that the government break with the Axis immediately. The presence of Argentine Deputy Perez meant, he said, that the Argentine people—whose government also still maintains relations with Berlin, Rome and Tokio—were not Fascists and "they are for liberty and democracy."

Resolutions calling for aid to the United Nations, implementing of the Rio accords, defense of the democratic regime and a planned economy for lowering the cost of living were sent to President Rios by the organizing committee.

Spies to Be Interned.

The committee said the resolutions were approved by the parties which belong to the Democratic Alliance, the National Youth Front, the Confederation of Workers, and "all the partisans of liberty and progress on the side of the United Nations, which are defending civilization against oppressors of the peoples."

Authorities of Valparaiso, Chile's chief port, announced that seven persons arrested on charges of participating in German spy activities were to be sent into internment today at Salamanca, 125 miles north of the capital.

Hans Hoffbauer and Consulate Clerk Horst Ketter, convicted of espionage, remained in jail at Valparaiso.

Showgirl Tells How She Met Errol Flynn

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—A Hollywood showgirl, who says she was twice assaulted by Errol Flynn on a yacht trip when she was 15, described at the actor's preliminary hearing yesterday her two weeks' acquaintance with him before that voyage.

The girl, Peggy Larue Satterlee, again was a composed witness. In contrast to the girlish Tyrolean outfit she wore Wednesday, she was clad in a powder blue suit with white shirt.

She was introduced to Flynn on a Thursday night in July, 1941, she said, by her sister, Mickey June Satterlee, over the telephone. The following Sunday, she, her sister "and a lot of other people" went for a cruise on the actor's yacht. She met him a few days later, casually, at a night club and the same night, she said, she and her sister went to an apartment with Pat Di Cicco, now the husband of Miss Gloria Vanderbilt, and Johnny Myers, a publicity man.

Flynn is accused of two statutory counts involving Miss Satterlee and one involving Betty Hansen, 17-year-old Lincoln (Nebr.) schoolgirl.

Farm Labor Co-ordinator Appointed by Wickard

By the Associated Press. Secretary of Agriculture Wickard has appointed Lyle F. Watts, regional forester from Portland, Oreg., as his assistant with a special assignment to co-ordinate farm labor activities of the department.

Mr. Watts has been with the Forest Service since 1913 and organized the School of Forestry at Utah Agricultural College in 1928. He was graduated from Iowa State College.

British Chief Promised Willkie To End Rommel

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Wendell L. Willkie said in a statement yesterday that when he was in Egypt, two months ago Lt. Gen. B. L. Montgomery said he "would eliminate Rommel."

"It is a thrilling and far-reaching accomplishment," Mr. Willkie said. "When I visited Gen. Montgomery some two months ago when he stopped Rommel's advance, I was convinced that the present result would follow in a short while."

"Gen. Montgomery told me then he would eliminate Rommel. He apparently is well on his way."

Metropolitan Conductor Made American Citizen

By the Associated Press. HARRISONBURG, Va., Nov. 6.—Ich Leinsdorf, 30-year-old Metropolitan Opera conductor, who owns an estate at Washington, Rappahannock County, was naturalized yesterday in United States District Court here.

Mr. Leinsdorf came to America in 1937 and took out his first papers in 1938.

Thief Works Hard For $122 in Tokens

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY.—C. L. Smith, who collects Missouri State sales tax tokens, said the thief must be a husky who doesn't mind manual labor.

Stolen from his car were: Four 36-pound sacks of 1 mill tokens. One 1-pound sack of 5 mill tokens. Value, $122.93.

He Stayed on the Beam Until Help Arrived

By the Associated Press. DENVER.—It could have been worse if Joe Kerley hadn't stayed on the beam.

He tumbled from a third-floor window into a ventilator shaft, landing on a beam 15 feet from the bottom. He fractured a jaw and acquired several bruises, but clung to his perch until rescuers arrived.

Movement Develops For 'Victory Coalition' On Capitol Hill

Republicans Couple War Support Pledge With Call To End 'New Deal Politics'

Idaho having been sealed for an official canvass, to be made November 23, when the tally sheet Chase A. Clark, Democratic incumbent, had 71,941 and Republican C. A. Bottolfsen 71,646.

While unity in the war effort appeared to be generally applauded, observers watched for a possibility that House Republicans and conservative Democrats might develop a joint drive not only to halt "New Dealism" but to erase some of its established works.

The first post-election session of the House heard demands from a Democrat and a Republican for repeal of the National Labor Relations (Wagner) Act and the wage-hour law. On the other side of the Capitol Senator O'Daniel, Democrat, of Texas, introduced a bill to suspend the 40-hour week for the duration "to help solve our manpower problem."

The strength that could be engendered behind a movement to knock down New Deal structures was doubtful, however, as many conservatives showed a disposition to avoid all controversy that might impede the war effort. Their attitude was voiced by Representative Ramspeck of Georgia, Democratic whip, who said:

"It seems to me Congress will devote itself almost exclusively to legislation designed to winning the war. I think the one thing we can agree on is our desire to win the war as quickly as possible, and it will be wise if we refrain from controversy matters which make no direct contribution to the war effort until we finish that job."

Easy Majority For Coalition.

While the Democrats retain control of the House in the new Congress, the margin is so narrow that a federation of Republican and anti-New Deal Democrats can muster a majority whenever party lines are not involved.

Senator Vandenberg described the elections as a demonstration of popular dissatisfaction with the handling of the war, and declared the administration "should deal more openly with Congress" and with the country.

Senator Taft, Republican, of Ohio attributed Democratic reverses to a "passion for regulating people and their lack of talent for doing so."

Senator Connally, Democrat, of Texas said in the Senate he wanted to make it clear that the reverses of the administration party could not be interpreted by the propagandists of Berlin and Tokio as any "reputation of our war purposes."

He attributed them to public impatience with the prosecution of the war and proved his point by a Washington bureaucracy. Actually, he said, the voters had registered a more desperate will to carry this war to triumph and victory.

Senator McNary agreed that "no issue of patriotism or unity" was raised in the campaign, and added that the administration had committed "enough mistakes and errors" to justify the people in calling it to account.

The Democrats' defeat, he said, represented revolts against wastes in expenditures which, he asserted, "blashed and shocked" him and against unnecessary employment by the Government "of people who should be home working at real war efforts."

Vice President Wallace, leaving a conference with President Roosevelt yesterday, told reporters that Mr. Roosevelt was in "excellent spirits." Mr. Wallace said the elections turned out the way they did because only a relatively small number of voters participated.

He said millions of young citizens now in the Army did not vote, and that most of the votes were cast by those who were "not likely to be Republicans."

"It is only a miracle that the House isn't Republican under these circumstances," he said.

Later Mr. Wallace telephoned the reporters from his Capitol office to offer additional comment. He said he believed the Democrats had established a modern record in keeping control of both branches of Congress for six straight elections, including this one.

"How long has it been," he asked, "since one party has held control of both branches of Congress for six elections straight running?"

By the Associated Press.
CAIRO, Nov. 6.—Gen. Ritter von Thoma, second in command to Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, was captured in the British desert drive when his armored car was set on fire by British tanks in a minefield, an official observer who had just returned from the front disclosed last night in giving first details of the incident.

Gen. von Thoma and his crew jumped out of their blazing reconnaissance car and a British tank leader immediately realized he had a top-flight captive when he recognized the general's uniform.

Gen. von Thoma, a Nazi tank expert, had succeeded Gen. Georg Stumme, senior aide to Marshal Rommel who was killed early in the British breakthrough of the El Alamein line.

A dispatch from an Associated Press correspondent in the field with the British 8th Army commander, conditions disclosed by this investigation, disclosed that Gen. von Thoma had spent the night in Gen. Montgomery's headquarters after his capture.

remitting fury and thus insuring his complete destruction. Reports from the battlefield indicated British tanks and armored cars were carrying out their chief tank's instructions to the letter, ably supported by the RAF and the United States Army Air Force.

Enemy bombers operating in endless relays, attacked the fleeing Axis forces from dawn to dusk yesterday, paying special attention to the coastal road which is the enemy's main artery of retreat.

Returning pilots reported breaches alongside this highway crowded with Axis trucks and tanks, indicating that the Marshall Rommel was using them as dispersal zones in an attempt to keep traffic moving along the coastal strip.

Allied armaments observed many huge fires burning along the line of the Axis retreat and it appeared that the enemy was burning supply dumps.

In addition to attacking targets in the immediate battle zone a mixed force of United Nations bombers swept across the Mediterranean Wednesday night to batter the Axis airdrome at Maleme, Crete.

Enemy mine torpedo boats also were sighted off the North African coast between Puka and El Deba by Allied naval planes assigned to the task of keeping much needed supplies from reaching Marshal Rommel.

Acute Fuel Shortage.

Advices from the front indicate that the Allied Mediterranean patrols were doing their work so well that the Axis armored forces were beginning to feel an acute fuel shortage.

A Reuters dispatch from Cairo said that not a single Axis tanker had reached North Africa in the last six weeks.

Gen. Montgomery paid high tribute to the operations of the Allied air forces, declaring they had played a major role in breaking the enemy's morale.

He also praised infantry and artillery units of the 8th Army, which he said, were responsible for the initial breakthrough. Montgomery emphasized, however, that victory had been achieved only by the full cooperation of both land and air forces, asserting that they had worked as one throughout the campaign.

Stores Remain Busy Despite Lull for Seasonal Items

Early Yuletide Shopping Helps Offset Adverse Weather in Week

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Adverse weather conditions lessened consumer interest in seasonal merchandise this week, although many lines showed a record fall turnover in retail stores, Dun & Bradstreet said today in the weekly review of business.

"The unusually early start of the Christmas shopping season," the agency said, "coupled with the prevalence of stock-piling on scarcity items, helped retailers to register gains over last year."

"Chief interest in wholesale markets centered on delivery dates, which were further extended in the week."

Retail sales volume for the country as a whole was estimated at 12 to 15 per cent over a year ago. Best increases were made in the Southern and Pacific regions, where gains of 15 to 20 and 18 to 22, respectively, were shown. Increases in the other districts were: Middle West, 13 to 18; Southwest, 13 to 16; New England, 10 to 13; Northwest, 5 to 10, and East, 8 to 12.

The agency said retailers reported rainy weather on election day caused disappointment in results for some special promotions planned for that day, but this was partially offset by better demand for special items, including warm sleeping and wearing garments in anticipation of lower temperatures in homes this winter.

This compared with $2,614,260 (adjusted), after providing $1,722,666 for tax, or $4.30 a common share, in the like 1941 period.

Chicago Grain

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Wheat and corn prices rose a cent a bushel today, to the best quotations in a month, as the grain market reflected improved demand for shipping business in cash corn and purchases by Ireland of 400,000 bushels of No. 2 yellow United States corn. Mills were more active on the buying side in the wheat pit than for some time, according to floor brokers.

This renewed demand, however, in most cases they noted, flour market activity was believed to be the best since establishment of ceilings more than a month ago.

Capital Trade Gain Over 1941 Leads Fifth District

Week's Store Sales Up 18 Per Cent From Period Year Ago

By EDWARD C. STONE. Retail trade in Capital department stores for the week ended Saturday, October 31, led the Fifth District with a gain of 18 per cent over the corresponding week a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported today. In the previous week this year the gain was 31 per cent.

Cumulative sales in the Capital in the four weeks ended last Saturday topped this territory with a 25 per cent return from the like 1941 period. Sales in the whole district were up 18 per cent, rose 11 per cent in Baltimore and in the group of other cities were 22 per cent better than last year, the review stated.

D. C. Store Collections Up. Collections on open accounts in Washington department stores in September were 48 per cent of the bills due at the beginning of the month, the Richmond Reserve Bank reported today.

Outstanding receivables at the end of September this year were 29 per cent lower than on the same date last year, reflecting the sharp Government curtailment in consumer credit.

Stores Have Ample Stocks. The same review reveals that Washington stores have ample stocks of goods on hand. Inventories were 38 per cent higher at the end of the month than on the same date in 1941.

Outstanding orders for merchandise were 15 per cent lower in this city than on the same 1941 date and 9 per cent lower in the Fifth District.

Equitable Reports Fine Year. Shareholders of Equitable Co-operative Building Association, meeting last night for election of officers and directors for the ensuing year, were told by Edward L. McAleer, secretary, that the past year was marked by resources of the institution reaching a new high of $2,433.

Directors: Ralph P. Barnard, Charles H. Doing, Arthur B. Heston, Robert L. Lewis, Theodore L. Wood, Arthur Peter, Frank J. Stryker, Col. Wilson L. Townsend, Dr. William Charles White and Messrs. Prill, Meem and McAleer.

National Mortgage & Investment preferred was in demand on the Washington Stock Exchange again today, 1,000 shares selling at 4 1/4, unchanged.

Capital Traction 5s also appeared on the board in a $500 transfer at 105 1/4, off 1/4. The market was quiet with 105 1/4 bid and none offered. Other bonds were quiet.

Sheaffer Dividend Voted. CHICAGO, Nov. 6 (AP)—Directors of W. A. Sheaffer Pen Co., Fort Madison, Iowa, have declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share and the regular quarterly dividend of 80 cents, payable November 25 to stock of record November 14. A year ago an extra of 50 cents was declared.

Chicago Livestock. CHICAGO, Nov. 6 (United States Department of Agriculture)—Sales: 10,000, total, 50,000, weights over 1,000 lbs., 10 lbs. lower, lighter weights, steady, good and choice 200-300 pounds, 14 3/4-15 1/4.

PHILIPPINE ESCAPE

Buried in Mud, U. S. Officers Avoid Detection by Nearby Japanese

By CAPT. WILLIAM LLOYD and CAPT. DAMON GAUSE as told to LEE VAN ATTA. (Fourth installment of fourteen.)

Capt. Gause continues his personal story of the escape from Bataan. In the preceding installment, he has told how his light truck, in which he had been carrying supplies to his besieged companions, had crashed head-on with a Jap armored car.

As the Japs spilled from the armored car which blocked our passage over the bridge, almost simultaneously Sergt. Baker and I reached to turn off the ignition key. That move probably saved our lives. Machine-gun bullets cut through the windshield and buried themselves in the gas tank at the spot where our heads had been a second before.

"Let's get out of here," Baker whispered, as we found momentary shelter behind the flimsy protection of the dashboard.

I knew the bridge was at least 25 feet above the water and that the Japs would fire at us unless we could keep under at least long enough to zigzag effectively when we came to the surface.

"Do you think we can make it?" I remember asking Baker. "Damned right!" Baker replied confidently. He nodded his head toward the truck doors.

I gave an affirmative nod and we shook hands quickly.

Refuge in River. The Jap machine guns were already trained on the dashboard, at about the location we were crouching. We heard their bullets plunging against the metal of the car.

We threw open the doors, using them for cover only long enough to utilize the running board as a level and jumped into space. The Japs were at the bridge rails, shooting at us as we hit the water.

The impact as I crashed into the comparatively shallow stream knocked every ounce of breath out of me, shooting pains stabbed through my head and stomach. Somehow, automatically, I suppose, I began propelling myself deeper until I could feel the muddy river bottom scraping against my belly. I wanted air as I had never wanted it before.

A thousand thoughts ran through my mind in the agonized seconds during which I half swam, half pulled myself along. I thought of home and of my wife and of Baker, and wondered half consciously how he was. I remembered the Japs waiting up above, too. Every second that I was in that river I remembered them.

Finally, I couldn't stand it any longer. My lungs were bursting. I broke surface about 30 feet from the bridge. Immediately I could hear the ping of rifle fire. The Japs apparently weren't wasting machine gun bullets on us. I inhaled deeply for a minute and then struck off downstream, clipping from left and to right as rapidly as I could, keeping my head bobbing or ducking all the time. I caught a glimpse of Baker to my right, diving and surfacing like a seal. He wasn't taking any chances either.

Letting the current carry us down and only using our little strength to weave back and forth across the river in order to dodge Japanese fire, we floated around a half bend in the stream and clambered ashore. Baker's pants legs, where the Japs had shot at him in the truck, looked like blocks of Swiss cheese. Almost miraculously, he had not been wounded. Both of us were exhausted, but we knew our first job was to find a temporary place to hide.

from that moment, I think, that we were living on velvet. About 3 o'clock in the morning rifle firing died down and the Japanese moved on toward the peninsula tip. Quietly we took off all our clothes except our shorts and socks and buried ourselves in the mud. We soaked there for nearly a half hour, completely covering our heads and faces with the foul muck. We knew it was the best camouflage we could use.

Surrender or Die Fighting? I lay there debating whether we should throw away our guns and plead for lives or keep our guns and die fighting. It was easier to keep the gun and at least try to fight—it wasn't hard to remember the particularly pleasant joy with which the Jap bayonet white men who are afraid to give their lives. I remembered other examples I had seen and heard about earlier on Bataan.

Even as I made the decision a flashlight flickered directly into our brush refuge from a distance of less than 10 feet. The glare from the central Japanese positions showed it to be an enemy soldier on routine patrol, moving through the brush silently. We couldn't hear the faintest crackle of a twig. We didn't move a muscle for fully two minutes as he let his flashlight rove over and around our hiding place. Then he moved off again. Baker and I solemnly shook hands and we knew our last meal—and that was only a small ration of rice at regimental headquarters.

Jap Patrol. We reached the bar, slushing our way through mud which had collected on the fringe of the sand and began to worm our way stealthily across. We had gone perhaps 10 feet when Baker grabbed me, suddenly motioning first to the left and then back. His face in the moonlight, with the thick, black mud dripping slowly down like chocolate sirup, almost made me break out in tears or laughter. I don't know which. I quickly looked where he pointed. Coming down the beach was a patrol of four Japanese soldiers—and they weren't more than 20 yards away. We kept dead still, our mud-caked heads protruding from the mud.

The patrol stood only a few feet from us for perhaps 15 minutes, laughing and joking in Japanese. As soon as actively seemed to be at least temporarily at a standstill, Baker and I moved from our temporary shelter to a mud flat, above the Japanese camp, which were protected by water growths. We dug in again and stayed in the mud the remainder of the night and all the next day, speaking only when we had to and not daring to move a finger—even if they were 2 feet under the filthy river muck.

Japs in Frenzy. All that day excitement and more excitement seemed to keep the encamped Japanese in a state of frenzy. We could see three Japanese women with the soldiers and they seemed to be lending the merry-makers, one of them stopping the celebration now and then while she fed an infant child.

About 9 that night we crawled to the mouth of the river. We found two big campfires blazing directly at the entrance and we could see enemy soldiers sitting around, eating rice and apparently drinking sake. We crawled to within 8 feet of the nearest Japanese soldier and saw there was no chance of our getting to the surf without being detected. We decided our only hope was to give the soldiers a chance to drink more and fall asleep, then we would have to risk walking right through the camp. We took the chance and it worked, although we almost stepped on the face of a sleeping soldier as we walked briskly through the dark encampment. Only a few Japs noticed us and they must have thought we were a pair of them on our way to beach on an errand.

We reached the river mouth safely and were half way to the surf when Baker grabbed my arm, whispering, "Oh, my God! Not again!" I turned to where he was looking. A group of 20 or so Japanese were trotting up the beach toward us, waving and yelling.

CAR OWNERS CAN NOW GET RUBBER TO KEEP THEIR CARS RUNNING FOR ESSENTIAL TRANSPORTATION

This Government Plan Becomes Effective November 22

1 YOU MUST SELL ALL TIRES OVER FIVE TO THE GOVERNMENT BEFORE NOVEMBER 22.

How? Call Railway Express who will call for your tires, give you a receipt, take them to a government warehouse for appraisal. Your government will pay you by check or War Stamps exactly what your tires are worth as determined by the official tire appraisers.

Which Shall You Keep? Your government wants you to keep your best 5 tires on your car. Sell the rest to Uncle Sam if they are usable or repairable; if not, sell them or donate them for scrap. Your tire dealer can tell you what you should do. It is illegal for you to have in your possession, after December 12, more than five tires per car.

2 YOU MUST FILE A TIRE RECORD FORM WITH YOUR LOCAL RATIONING BOARD.

A. In territory where gasoline rationing becomes effective November 22. Motorists will fill out their Tire Record Form (at their local school) and receive their basic "A" gasoline ration book at the same time (November 9, 10, 11). Bring your tire serial numbers with you.

B. In territory where gasoline rationing is already in effect, this form must be filed and signed by your Rationing Board before December 12.

This form lists the serial numbers of your tires and certifies that you do not own more than five tires per car.

Where? Get a copy of the Tire Record Form from your tire dealer, garage, or Rationing Board.

If you do not comply, you will be denied the privilege of purchasing gasoline.

3 YOUR ESSENTIAL-MILEAGE-STATUS WILL DETERMINE WHICH GASOLINE BOOK YOU GET.

What is essential driving? It is based on the number of miles it takes to get you to work plus additional miles for essential driving as determined by your local Rationing Board.

4 YOUR ESSENTIAL-MILEAGE-STATUS WILL ALSO DETERMINE THE KIND OF REPLACEMENT TIRES YOU GET.

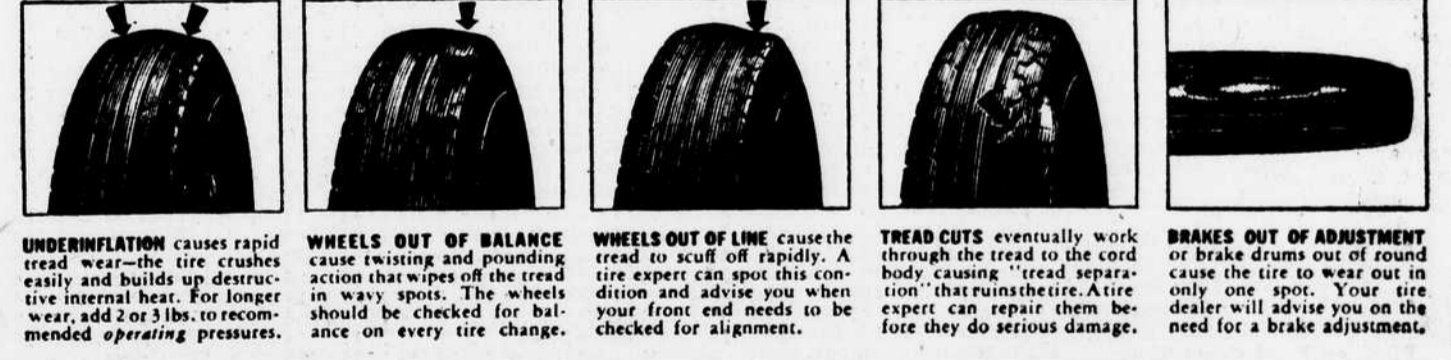

More essential drivers will get better tires—How calculated? Read the chart at the right. It tells all you need to know about Tire Rationing. Cut it out and keep it for reference. There are some few exceptions to the above. If you are in doubt, consult your "U. S." Tire Dealer or your Rationing Board.

It is made in the same molds that produced the world-famous U. S. Royal. The cord body is built to the highest standards possible so that it can be recapped after the tread has worn smooth—that's one reason why we use cord fabric of "first" quality. The rubber material is the best that our government can make available—all reclaimed rubber. The tire will give satisfactory service—providing you stay under 35 miles per hour and obey the rules of tire care.

Registration Of Tires Set for November 12-13

Enrollment Will Determine Future Gasoline Rationing

Washington gasoline rationing will be brought into conformity with the rest of the Nation and holdings of the National Automobile Tire Corporation will be revealed, at a registration here next Thursday and Friday in 28 elementary and high schools, school officials said today. These schools will be closed both days, with school teachers taking care of the registrations from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. each day.

Information disclosed in the November 12-13 registration will be the basis of future tire inspection. An Office of Price Administration ruling forbidding possession of more than five tires per automobile, it was pointed out, means that car owners cannot qualify for gasoline rationing without certifying they have disposed of idle tires.

Required Information.

In announcing that the OPA had set the November 12-13 dates for registration, Lawson J. Cantrell, assistant superintendent of District schools, said that the registration should bring with them the following information:

1. Their registration card and gasoline rationing book or books, including the basic A or D books as well as B or C books.
2. The serial numbers of all automobile tires owned. The serial numbers desired are not the raised numbers but the numbers which are stamped. The serial numbers of tires on the vehicle to be registered are wanted, including that of the spare, as well as those of other tires of passenger car type, owned by the registrant.

The registration form will embrace essential gasoline inquiries, as well as tires, so that the East will conform with the rest of the Nation in national gasoline rationing. This form will be retained by the registrar and forwarded to each motorist's local ration board. A separate tire inspection form will be given the automobile owner, who must report to an approved tire inspection establishment before January 1.

"It is of utmost importance that tire owners have the correct serial numbers," Mr. Cantrell said, "as future gasoline rationing may depend on the accuracy of these numbers." It will also be necessary for the owners to know the number of his local War Price and Rationing Board.

Places of Registration.

Schools handling the tire registration will be: in the District, Central High, Coolidge High, Eastern High, Hine Junior High, Jefferson Junior High, McKinley High, Powell Junior High, Roosevelt High, Stuart Junior High, Taft Junior High, Western High, Woodrow Wilson High, Banner Junior High, Briggs-Montgomery Elementary, Deanwood Elementary, Smothers Elementary, Douglas-Simmons Elementary, Dunbar High, Garfield Elementary, Francis Junior High, Briney Elementary, Eviding Elementary, Harrison Elementary, Randall Junior High and Young Elementary.

The Grover Cleveland Elementary School at Eighth and T streets N.W. will be closed earlier today. A further change announced was that the Carozo High School, Ninth street and Rhode Island avenue N.W., will be used instead of Shaw Junior High.

In order to avoid congestion, Mr. Cantrell requested car owners to register in the following order: Those whose last names begin with "A" through "L" are asked to register November 12, and those whose last names begin with "M" through "Z" on November 13.

Since November 11 is a legal holiday, schools will be in session only on Monday and Tuesday. Mr. Cantrell said, adding that night schools will be open only on Monday, November 9. Thus the tire registration gives students of 28 schools an unexpected three-day holiday.

Only residents of Washington will be registered here, Mr. Cantrell stated, adding "this is made necessary by the unusual amount of clerical work involved in the registration blanks from local boards to boards outside of Washington."

Entire Plan Changed.

It was originally planned to have automobile owners secure tire registration blanks from gasoline filling stations. Registration in 28 schools instead was decided on, District OPA Director Whitney Leary said, in order to get the blanks out as early as possible and to put tire-inspection slips in the hands of qualified persons so that they can be inspected by January 1, when new OPA inspection regulations become effective.

Meanwhile, some 3,600 excess tires have been turned in by District owners, it was stated by C. Arthur Williams, District agent of the Railway Express Agency, which is acting as collection agency for the Federal Government. Owners can sell these surplus tires to the Government at fixed ceiling prices or make a gift of them, Mr. Williams pointed out. He urged District car owners to get rid of extra tires before the tire registration, adding he did not know how his agency could cope with the situation if flooded with pickup requests two or three days before the deadline.

A receiving office at Second and I streets N.E. is being kept open by the agency 24 hours a day, Mr. Williams said. He urged local motorists to take their excess tires to this location at the earliest possible moment, "as we will be swamped with pickup orders." He added that Government experts also are on duty at the agency's main city office, 1503 H street N.W., to give speedy appraisal of tires brought in by owners.

"I am satisfied there are thousands of tires here still to be turned in," Mr. Williams stated, "One man brought in 11 used tires, some of them in fairly good condition."

Simulated Raid Will Be Staged At School Here

In a simulated enemy attack St. John's College, 1225 Vermont avenue N.W., is to be "bombed, burned and evacuated" at a demonstration scheduled for 10 a. m. tomorrow.

The "incidents" are planned by the Mid City OGD area, whose zone warden is John L. Wren, and is to be made into a movie filmed in color with sound track, under the direction of P. K. Bean, assistant zone warden.

The nearby street area will be roped off and, weather permitting, incendiary bombs are to be exploded from the roof, with OGD protective service workers coming in to extinguish the bombs. Smoke bombs are to be set off to represent a fire raging in the building, and the occupants of the college are to be evacuated.

Members of the emergency feeding corps are to be on hand to care for "victims" and medical and ambulance workers will stage demonstrations of the care of casualties.

If the demonstration and movie making turn out well, Mr. Wren said, the films are to be offered to the Federal OGD for educational use.

If weather prevents the show, the demonstration will be held at some future date.

Rush Hour Express Bus Service Ordered for 16th St. Nov. 16

Experimental Plan to Be Expanded as Conditions Warrant

By DON S. WARREN.

Rush-hour express bus service will be inaugurated on Sixteenth street N.W. November 16 on an experimental basis, beginning with the operation of two buses, these to be increased as experience warrants, under a decision announced today by the Public Utilities Commission.

The plan is to add express buses for trips beginning at three starting points on the Capitol Hill section, as fast as patronage demands, until the demand is satisfied, and to drop express buses if the plan is found not to suit riding habits of passengers.

However, buses placed in express service will not be in addition to those in the present local bus service, but will be provided by the gradual conversion of some "local" vehicles to express use. The fare for the special service will remain the PUC origin-and-destination cash, token or weekly pass fare.

Compromise Plan.
This plan is a compromise arrived at after a long battle over requests of the Sixteenth Street Heights Citizens' Association for express service, a petition opposed by the Capital Transit Co. which had maintained that express service, being "discriminatory" as to other sections lacking such superior service, should be granted only on payment of a higher fare.

The commission's decision was unanimous. The PUC allowed member Gregory Hanks to announce the plan since he had "fathered" the idea of a sort of selective "limited-stop" service for Sixteenth street, on the basis of the PUC origin-and-destination survey which was managed by Mr. Hankin.

The new service will begin November 6 with the operation of two express buses, starting at Eastern avenue. One of these will be run "local" to Underwood street and then will express to Eleventh and K streets via Sixteenth street and Massachusetts avenue and then will be in local service to a terminal at Eleventh and C streets N.W., back of the old Post Office Department Building.

The other will go to a second terminal at Eighteenth street and Constitution avenue N.W., the express run being between Underwood street and Twenty-first and G streets N.W. The route to be followed will be Sixteenth street, New Hampshire avenue, R street, Twentieth street, New Hampshire avenue, south on Twenty-first street to Constitution avenue and then east to Eighteenth street.

To Add Third Starting Point.
The order explains there will be ultimately three starting points on Sixteenth street, at Eastern avenue, Underwood and Taylor streets, and two termini, at Eleventh and C streets N.W., and at Eighteenth street and Constitution avenue N.W.

The commission's order stipulates that the new service shall be provided out of conversion of local buses to the new express service and shall not be assignment of "additional" buses to Sixteenth street.

When the maximum service is provided, the Eastern avenue, depending on available demands, then a start will be made on express runs to the two termini from Underwood street, and then after this has reached its maximum, similar service will be started, with two buses, from Taylor street.

Reverse in Evening.
From Underwood street the express buses will run local to Taylor street, then go express to either Eleventh and G streets or to Twenty-first and K streets, and then local to Underwood street and then go express either to Eleventh and K streets or to Twenty-first and G streets, then on to one of the two termini.

From Taylor street, the ultimate express buses will run local to Euclid street and then go express either to Eleventh and K streets or to Twenty-first and G streets, then on to one of the two termini.

The order also provides that all of the buses are converted to express runs, the headways between the remaining local buses shall be lengthened "to the end that the bus runs shall, so far as practicable, be so scheduled as to have 100 per cent load factors, at the point of maximum load, provided that reasonable headways shall be maintained over all portions of the line."

The company is required to transmit to the PUC a daily traffic count at the express points for all local and express buses for the first 10 days after each group of express buses are put into operation.

Highway Plans Frozen by Drop in Gas Revenue

Collections Decrease 34 Pct., Whitehurst Tells Senate Group

A marked decrease in gasoline tax revenue has forced the District Highway Department to freeze its contemplated program of improvements, Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways, today told a special Senate Committee studying Washington's transportation situation.

On the basis of declining revenue, Capt. Whitehurst said the Highway Department would have faced a deficit of $2,500,000 at the close of the current fiscal year if it had carried out the various projects that had been planned, but as a result of the freezing order the department will end the year "out of the red."

He further explained no major highway construction projects are contemplated for the next fiscal year, and that the department will devote its activities chiefly to the maintenance of the existing system. Normally the District collects a tax on approximately 170,000,000 gallons of gasoline a year, Capt. Whitehurst said, but his most optimistic estimate bases the collection of 100,000,000 gallons in the coming fiscal year.

September Shows 24% Drop.
The drop in the collection of gas tax revenue, he pointed out, started with gasoline rationing. In June the collections were 27 per cent below those of the same month in 1941. Progressively the collections continued to dwindle, he declared, and his last calculations in September showed a 34 per cent drop as compared with September last year.

Capt. Whitehurst also disclosed that the flow of traffic in Washington had declined nearly proportionately with the reduction in gasoline consumption. There was 25 per cent less traffic on the streets last month, he said, than in October, 1941.

Capt. Whitehurst detailed to the committee, of which Senator Burton, Republican, of Ohio, is chairman, the progress that has been made on the primary projects in his carefully planned program of a year ago for removing so-called traffic "bottlenecks."

These included the overpass at Fourteenth street and Maine avenue S.W., the widening and extension of Independence avenue, the widening of Twenty-third street N.W., from Constitution to Pennsylvania avenues and new roadways in Anacostia leading to the District-Line and to Bolling Field.

Other Delays Foreseen.
Two other principal projects in the program—construction of an elevated highway along K street N.W. from Rock Creek to Key Bridge and erection of a bridge across the Anacostia River in the Capitol Hill section—probably will not be carried out until after the war, Capt. Whitehurst indicated, although plans for these and other necessary improvements in the highway system will be ready when the critical manpower and material situation eases off.

Capt. Whitehurst reported that plans for the South Capitol street bridge "are well along" and that working drawings for the proposed overpass at Dupont Circle are "progressing" and likely would be completed by next spring.

Capt. Whitehurst described these projects as the "happy side" of the picture. "But the other side," he added, "is not such a happy one."

What was at this point called attention to the decline in gasoline tax revenue and the subsequent "freezing" of highway construction.

Non-Fatal Mishaps Fewer.
Although there were more traffic fatalities in the District in the first 10 months of this year than in the same period of 1941, traffic accidents have dropped 23 per cent. Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer told the committee.

Traffic—all types of motor vehicles and streetcars—has taken a toll of 89 lives so far this year, Mr. Van Duzer said. In the first 10 months of 1941, he said, there were 79 traffic deaths.

Chairman Burton inquired particularly about the part streetcars and buses had played in the mounting traffic fatality record. Mr. Van Duzer replied that so far this year streetcars had killed 18 persons and buses 2. The comparative record for the first 10 months of last year was streetcars 8, buses 1.

Of the 89 killed in traffic so far this year, Mr. Van Duzer emphasized, 61 were pedestrians, 27 of whom failed to cross the street at crosswalks. Last year 59 pedestrians lost their lives from January 1 to October 31.

Would Tighten Regulation.
The traffic director commented that pedestrian travel had mounted as a result of the increase in population and the reduction in the use of private automobiles and urged that the pedestrian control regulation be tightened to prevent walkers from crossing in the middle of the block.

"It would take a million cops to enforce such a regulation," interrupted Maj. Edward J. Kelly, superintendent of police.

Maj. Kelly was questioned at length by Senator Burton about his difficulties in keeping the police force up to its authorized strength. He revealed that there are 89 existing vacancies, but he hoped to fill at least 40 of them next week, he said. He said, however, he planned to hold 11 of the vacancies "open" until he could find 11 women who would like to join the force to help protect women who have come to Washington to take Government jobs.

The total authorized strength of the police force is now 1,700, Maj. Kelly said, 195 having been added in the last year. And next year, he revealed, he will ask for 300 more.

"That seems to me to be an extraordinary increase," remarked Senator Burton.

"We need them," Maj. Kelly replied, "because of the population increase."

WELCOME TO WASHINGTON—A stenographer arriving to work for the Office of the Alien Property Custodian is met at Union Station by Mrs. Lauretta B. St. Cyr (right), representative of the agency's personnel office. From the station the new APC employe is escorted directly to a clean, low-cost, conveniently located room which previously had been inspected and reserved for her by Mrs. St. Cyr. Above, Miss Virginia Donovan is being greeted by her new landlady.

Group Taxi Riding Extension to 24 Hours Daily Is Considered

PUC Also Weighs Ban On Trips to Theaters And Other Amusements

Possibilities of placing Washington taxicabs on a group-riding program for immediate occupancy are guaranteed to every girl coming to Washington to work for the office of the alien property custodian. This guarantee is part of a program inaugurated five weeks ago when the APC found itself unable to obtain trained stenographic help because of the higher priorities of other agencies.

The office now employs a traveling personnel agent, who visits areas not already touched by war industry and recruits stenographers and typists for APC jobs. As soon as a girl contacted by this recruiting agent has passed the civil service examination in her home town, she receives a friendly, informal letter from Mrs. Lauretta B. St. Cyr, personnel representative in the APC office in Washington.

This letter, congratulating her, explaining where and what hours she will work, and asking for telegraphic notification of the time she will arrive, is only the first step in the welcoming of new employees of the agency to Washington.

Arrivals Met at Station.
Each new arrival is met at the station and escorted to a room selected in advance on the basis of her income and religious faith. After unpacking, the girl accompanies Mrs. St. Cyr to the office, where she is introduced to her new employers and co-workers, assigned to specific duties, and put to work immediately.

As an antidote for any possible dissatisfaction with work conditions, housing, or other aspects of the new job, employees are invited to discuss these problems with the personnel office.

The APC also, in an effort to maintain the religious ties of its new girl employes, turns their names and addresses over to a church of the faith to which they belonged back home.

This introduction to Washington contrasts sharply with that of many other Government stenographers and typists, some of whom must spend wearying hours in house hunting in Washington before they are certified by the Civil Service Commission and informed of the agency for which they will work.

Was Crowley's Idea.
The property office's program of taking an interest in each employe as an individual and paying the way for her in Washington was based on suggestions from Leo T. Crowley, alien property custodian, and worked out in detail by Harold M. Salmon, personnel chief, and C. W. Satterlee, assistant head of personnel.

Largely responsible for the stenographer and typist shortage, Mr. Salmon and Mr. Satterlee decided, were the widely-circulated stories of overcrowded conditions in Washington-Fairfax Motor Transportation Co. reporting a similar situation. "The company," he said, "had stopped sending 'dead head' buses into Washington at 6:30 to carry construction workers to the Pentagon Building. Between 7:30 and 8:30, the buses are now overcrowded causing inconvenience to both office employes and construction workers, many of whom are late in reporting to work through no fault of their own."

H. H. England, secretary and treasurer of the Arnold Bus Service said this line was not seriously affected because there were few construction jobs on the route served by its buses.

A Capital Transit Co. official said its facilities were not affected by the change in hours because most construction workers it carries travel in the opposite direction from office workers in Washington.

Further staggering of hours for office workers was suggested as a possible solution of the problem.

After unpacking, the girl accompanies Mrs. St. Cyr to the office, where she is introduced to her new employers and co-workers, assigned to specific duties, and put to work immediately.

As an antidote for any possible dissatisfaction with work conditions, housing, or other aspects of the new job, employees are invited to discuss these problems with the personnel office.

The APC also, in an effort to maintain the religious ties of its new girl employes, turns their names and addresses over to a church of the faith to which they belonged back home.

This introduction to Washington contrasts sharply with that of many other Government stenographers and typists, some of whom must spend wearying hours in house hunting in Washington before they are certified by the Civil Service Commission and informed of the agency for which they will work.

Was Crowley's Idea.
The property office's program of taking an interest in each employe as an individual and paying the way for her in Washington was based on suggestions from Leo T. Crowley, alien property custodian, and worked out in detail by Harold M. Salmon, personnel chief, and C. W. Satterlee, assistant head of personnel.

Largely responsible for the stenographer and typist shortage, Mr. Salmon and Mr. Satterlee decided, were the widely-circulated stories of overcrowded conditions in Washington-Fairfax Motor Transportation Co. reporting a similar situation. "The company," he said, "had stopped sending 'dead head' buses into Washington at 6:30 to carry construction workers to the Pentagon Building. Between 7:30 and 8:30, the buses are now overcrowded causing inconvenience to both office employes and construction workers, many of whom are late in reporting to work through no fault of their own."

H. H. England, secretary and treasurer of the Arnold Bus Service said this line was not seriously affected because there were few construction jobs on the route served by its buses.

A Capital Transit Co. official said its facilities were not affected by the change in hours because most construction workers it carries travel in the opposite direction from office workers in Washington.

Further staggering of hours for office workers was suggested as a possible solution of the problem.

School Milk Program For Poorer Children Depends on OPA

District Office Asked To Abrogate Retail Price Ceiling

The future in many elementary schools of programs under which milk and crackers are served to children of poorer homes hinges on a ruling expected soon from the District Office of Price Administration, it was revealed today by Robert L. Haycock, first assistant school superintendent.

Rising wholesale costs of milk and crackers and the OPA ceiling on retail prices have combined to imperil the program in many parts of the city, Mr. Haycock said.

Previously, a graham cracker has been served for 6 cents to elementary school children who were able to pay. The half pint of milk was purchased wholesale for 3 to 3½ cents, with the slight profit being used to provide milk and crackers for the needy children.

Half pint of milk, however, now costs 4 cents wholesale, and in many schools the Parent-Teacher Association which sponsor the project must raise the milk and cracker price to 6 cents to finance the free servings to poorer pupils, the assistant school superintendent said.

This increase, however, is blocked by the OPA ceiling on food prices, which fixes the amount charged in March as the maximum.

Mr. Haycock said the schools have appealed to the District OPA, asking that the milk and cracker sale be regarded as an "abnormal situation" and that the regulation be "not fully applied."

Whatever the OPA ruling, he pointed out, the serving of hot lunches to indigent children and the Government-supported penny-milk program will not be affected.

Two of the men were arrested yesterday when Sgt. Cook and Detective Sgt. Watson Salkeld received information that they were attempting to dispose of a valuable oriental rug. Police say the two men admitted breaking into a warehouse in Washington where they were on two occasions, once to take the rug and the other to get the cash.

According to their story, police reported, the men took the rug, valued at $450, to Alexandria and stored it there. They were attempting to dispose of it in Washington when they were arrested, police said.

Statements by the men implicated the three other men, police said. Among them was Watson H. Miles, 54, of the 500 block of Twenty-first street N.E., who had been employed at the store since 1910 as a shipping clerk. Miles was charged with grand larceny after an attorney had served a "six-hour writ" on the Police Department.

Police are attempting to trace some of the stolen property, which includes blankets and household furnishings. Police said they were told Miles did not participate in entering the warehouse.

Gallery to Display Whitney Ballroom
By The Associated Press.
BALTIMORE, Nov. 6.—Nearly intact the ballroom of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney's Fifth Avenue home in New York will be displayed by its new owner, the Walters Art Gallery, after the war.

The ballroom was brought from New York in five big vans, but won't be assembled until a new building is constructed after the war. Heirs of the late Mrs. Whitney gave the early 18th century paneling, ceiling, painting and musicians' gallery to the Walters Art Gallery.

Married Men Won't Be Called Before January

D. C. Draft Boards To Take Single Group On City-Wide Basis

Induction of married men from the District will be postponed until after the first of the year, local draft headquarters announced today.

The announcement, it was explained, was based on a survey of local boards to determine how many single men, with and without collateral dependents, are still available. As a result of these reports, it was said, draft officials were reasonably sure that married men would be home until after Christmas.

Since some local boards still have a large pool of single men while others have exhausted the bottom of that list, December calls on some boards will be heavy and on other boards will be nominal.

By putting the calls on a city-wide basis, it was explained, the boards would exhaust all their single men at about the same time.

Won't Make Predictions.
Draft officials would not make any predictions on the date married men without children will begin entering the Army. Two determining factors are the size of the calls and the fact of the teen-age amendment on Capitol Hill.

Draft officials explained that they had held up the call for the last 10 days of November until they were certain each board would have sufficient single men to fill the call. At the same time, instructions were given to the boards that only single men were to be called.

Included among the single men who are almost certain to be in the Army by Christmas are those who are turning 20 and are thus eligible for service; the old 1-B group of men with slight physical handicaps; February 16 registrants whose order numbers are being reached for the first time, and men who are contributing so little to collateral dependents that these dependents can be cared for as well or better through allotment and allowance payments.

Number Is Small.
Local officials said that in proportion to the number of men registered in Washington, the number who are contributing a large amount to collateral dependents is relatively small.

It was indicated that a local board would give as much consideration to a man who has the sole support of a wife as to one who has no other home as it would to breaking up any other home.

Draft headquarters announced that local boards have completed the classification of all but a thousand men who have not received their notice of classification, but have not yet finished their lists. A few boards are troubled by delinquents who have failed to report, any many of the boards are holding up classifications to obtain additional information.

Notices Are Delayed.
It was explained that because boards were instructed to complete classifying the men registered with them as quickly as possible, they have not had time to send out all the notifications as to status. Single men who have not received their notice of classification, but have been notified to report to a hospital for a preliminary physical, can get an idea from that, however, that their induction is coming up, it was said.

Local boards were told to start re-classification by the end of the 25th of December, draft officials said. About half the men already have been re-classified and are among the men now being inducted.

Montgomery Charter Board Will Organize Tonight

The newly-elected Montgomery County Charter Board will meet for the first time at 8 o'clock tonight at the Board of Education Building in Rockville to elect a chairman and draw up plans of procedure.

Members of the board are Tarlton Brooks, Thomas M. Anderson, Frederic P. Lee, Mrs. Minnie P. Hostetter and Stephen James.

Since the board is required by a State constitutional provision to draft a charter for the county within six months after its election, it is believed the group will schedule frequent meetings and public hearings immediately.

Tax Collections Increase

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 6 (AP)—Federal tax collections in Virginia last month totaled $32,373,240.43, compared with $28,684,424.88 a year ago, U. S. Early, jr., collector of internal revenue, reported yesterday.

Construction Work Hour Shifts Cause Virginia Bus Bottlenecks

Changes in working hours made by construction companies in nearby Virginia to conform to daylight hours has caused early morning bottlenecks in transporting workers to construction jobs, it was revealed today.

R. T. Mitchell, traffic manager of the A. B. & W. Transit Co. of Virginia, said that the company had stopped sending "dead head" buses into Washington at 6:30 to carry construction workers to the Pentagon Building. Between 7:30 and 8:30, the buses are now overcrowded causing inconvenience to both office employes and construction workers, many of whom are late in reporting to work through no fault of their own.

H. H. England, secretary and treasurer of the Arnold Bus Service said this line was not seriously affected because there were few construction jobs on the route served by its buses.

Police Holding Five Men In Furniture Store Thefts

Five furniture store employes, all colored, are being held by police in connection with the theft of more than $2,000 in household goods and $199 in cash, according to Detective Sgt. George W. Cook.

Two of the men were arrested yesterday when Sgt. Cook and Detective Sgt. Watson Salkeld received information that they were attempting to dispose of a valuable oriental rug. Police say the two men admitted breaking into a warehouse in Washington where they were on two occasions, once to take the rug and the other to get the cash.

Bill Lets Terminal Firm Park Cars on Capitol Plot

David Lynn, Capitol architect, is authorized under a bill introduced today by Representative Hebert, Democrat of Louisiana, to permit the Washington Terminal Co. to use part of the Capitol grounds south-east of Union Station for car parking during the war period and for six months thereafter.

The bill provides that any money received for the use of such grounds shall be turned over to the Treasury. The use of the grounds would be in accordance with such terms and conditions as Mr. Lynn may draw up.

Jap Envoys in Europe Called to Confer With Axis Friends in Berlin

General War Aims And Submarine Attacks May Be Discussed

By the Associated Press. BERN, Switzerland, Nov. 6.—Japanese diplomats in Europe have been called to a conference in Berlin at which, foreign observers said, they possibly will check on how far they can count on their Axis partners keeping up their end of the fight under the Allied air bombardment, the attack in Egypt and in face of a second winter in Russia. These observers thought the Japanese also would go over general war aims and the warfare at sea doubtless would be an important point.

Organizational Problem. There have been reports that Japanese submarines are in the Atlantic and there is no doubt that the Axis is eager to obtain the fullest Japanese co-operation at sea on this side of the world as well as in the Pacific. The Neue Zuercher Zeitung correspondent, meanwhile, reported the diplomats had been called to discuss new means of co-operation under the tripartite pact. The first speculation in foreign circles was that the conference might concern Russia, but information given out in Berlin emphasized that the conference, which is expected to open in the next few days, would deal primarily with organizational problems.

New Post for Envoy. It was reported that the Japanese envoy to Rome, Zembel Horikiri, has been appointed to a new post as minister-at-large in Europe. His job will be to direct the whole diplomatic set-up in Europe in carrying out whatever new tripartite collaboration is agreed on.

Twelve to 14 chiefs of legations and embassies, including the envoy to Ankara, have been summoned to the conference, which, some observers said, could concern Japanese relations with Russia and whether the Axis policy requires Japanese participation in the Soviet campaign despite the lateness of the season; the Near East policy and the possibilities of co-ordinating the Japanese and German drives toward the Middle East junctions; the Axis summer drives that failed.

Edward Haight, 17, Smiles When Jury Returns Verdict

By the Associated Press. WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Seventeen-year-old Edward Haight must die in the electric chair for the slaying of two little sisters. The Stamford (Conn.) laborer only smiled in Westchester County Court yesterday when a jury of six men and six women found him guilty on two first degree murder charges. The verdict carries a mandatory death sentence.

The jurors deliberated 96 minutes after hearing testimony as to how Haight on September 14 lured Margaret, 7, and Helen Lynch, 8, into a stolen station wagon, tried to assault one, maltreated the other, and tossed both into Westchester waters to drown. One of the children's bodies was found in a shallow stream near their Bedford Village (N. Y.) home. Haight directed police to the second in nearby Kenisco reservoir. Throughout the trial, Haight retained the carefree attitude he had displayed ever since his arrest, and while the defense and prosecution

The defense retained a psychiatrist in an attempt to prove that Haight was insane, but the State called two psychiatrists who testified that the youth knew what he was doing. When District Attorney Elbert T. Gallagher displayed a photograph of the children's bodies, two jurors wiped away tears. Haight laughed. He will be sentenced formally next Tuesday.

Elected to House, Rogers Expects to Stay in Army

By the Associated Press. CAMP HOOD, Tex., Nov. 6.—Rep-representative-elect Will Rogers, Jr., of California, who is Second Lt. Rogers here, said today he did not believe members of Congress in military service would be recalled to Washington. He returned from a four-hour hike over the Central Texas blackland to comment: "The choice, of course, is up to President Roosevelt, but I believe there will be a change in policy now that the election is over. Congressmen served in the last war, and in the Civil War." Beyond that, he hardly knew what to say about his election victory over the incumbent Republican, Leland M. Ford. "This is the first time it's happened, you know," he remarked. The 29-year-old son of the famous humorist would not comment on the 18-19 draft except to quip: "This is one time I can truthfully say all I know is what I read in the papers."

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Stettinius Honor Soviet Commission

Vice President and Mrs. Wallace Are Among Ranking Guests

The Vice President and Mrs. Henry A. Wallace were among the many distinguished guests at the dinner party given last evening by the former Secretary of War. The dinner was given in the Louis XVI room of the Shoreham Hotel and was in honor of the members of the Soviet Purchasing Commission, who are here to secure vital supplies for the U. S. S. R., with their wives. Also among the ranking guests were the Ambassador of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and Mme. Litvinoff.

The members of the commission, who were the guests of honor, were Gen. A. I. Belyayev, chairman of the commission, and Mme. Belyayev; Mr. K. I. Lukashchik, deputy chairman of the group; Mr. A. A. Rostarchuk, member in charge of the metals department, and Mme. Rostarchuk and Mr. and Mme. L. A. Ravin.

Mr. and Mme. L. A. Ravin, Mr. Ravin is the chief of the department of industrial machinery and equipment for the commission.

Other Soviets present were the counselor of the Embassy and Mme. Andrei A. Gromyko, Mr. and Mme. I. S. Stepanov and Mr. and Mme. V. Teplov.

The Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Claude R. Wickard were also present, as were the Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Jesse H. Jones. A number of members of the Little Cabinet and their wives attended the dinner, and among these were the Undersecretary of the Navy and Mrs. James V. Forrestal and the Undersecretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Paul H. Appleby.

Mr. Robert P. Patterson, Undersecretary of War, was unable to be present, but Mrs. Patterson was there. Mr. Dean Acheson, Assistant Secretary of State, and Mrs. Acheson; the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. John J. McCloy and the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Adolph Berle were others of the cabinet group who were among the guests.

The deputy commissioner of the War Shipping Administration, Mr. Lewis W. Douglas, was there, and also Mr. Donald Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board.

Also among the guests were Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Admiral and Mrs. William D. Standley.

Word has been received that the President of Ecuador, Senor Carlos Arroyo del Rio, will arrive in Washington on the 20th of the month. During his stay he will be accorded the customary honors that are extended to the visiting heads of Allied governments, and he will be the honor guest at a dinner at the White House, probably upon the evening of his arrival here.

His Ambassador to this country, Senor Capitan Colon Eloy Alfaro, and Senora de Alfaro will give a large reception at the Pan American Union, and there will undoubtedly be a number of teas and luncheons in his honor.

Amelia Rosenbusch Wed to A. C. Shepard

Mr. and Mrs. Carl William Rosenbusch of Georgetown announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Amelia Elizabeth Rosenbusch, to Aviation Cadet Allen Caperton Shepard, son of Mrs. Maurice E. Shearer, wife of Col. Maurice E. Shearer, now stationed at the Marine Barracks at Mare Island, Calif.

The wedding took place at the First Presbyterian Church in Lake Charles, La., Saturday, with the Rev. William L. McLeod officiating.

Mrs. Rosenbusch accompanied her daughter to Lake Charles and was joined there by Mrs. Shearer.

Later Ensign and Mrs. Cockrell left for a wedding trip, the bride wearing a cocoa wool costume with brown accessories and a corsage of orchids. They will be at home at 416 Forty-seventh street N.W.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were the grandfather of the bride, Mr. S. W. Holloway, and Mrs. R. E. Ball, both of Raleigh, N. C.; Mrs. J. Thomas Allen of Wendell, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. John Ailes of Pennsylvania, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Hassett, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Peach and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon S. Crawford, all of Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Comer and son, Billie Comer of Wytheville, Va.

The Rev. Frank I. Cockrell and his sons, Charles Cockrell and Frank Cockrell, jr., came from Davidsonville, Md., for the wedding, and Mr. and Mrs. Selwyn K. Cockrell, jr., and their daughter, Patricia Cockrell, came from Baltimore.

Mrs. Cockrell is a student at the University of Maryland, where she is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority. Before entering the service Ensign Cockrell received his B. S. degree from Randolph Macon College. He is a member of Phi Kappa Sigma Fraternity.

Schoenfeld-Fleming Wedding Cards

The only attendant for the bride was Miss Mildred Telford. Lt. Roland Newton Jefferson, U. S. A., served as best man for Mr. Gordon, and the ushers were Mr. Daniel Estes Martin of Ashland, Va., and Mr. Catlett Lockhart Buckner of Louisville, Ky.

Mrs. Gordon was graduated from Hollins College in Virginia and until recently held a position as secretary to the Military Attache of the Air in Ottawa. The bridegroom was educated in England, attended Norwich University in Vermont and is at present associated with the National Film Board of Canada in Ottawa.

Mrs. John H. Heister is chairman of the affair while Mrs. J. Godfrey Butler is in charge of the prizes.

Alumnae to Give Card Party, Dance

A card party and dance under the auspices of the Holy Cross Alumnae Association will be held Tuesday from 9 to 12 at Dunbarton College on Upton street.

Mrs. John H. Heister is chairman of the affair while Mrs. J. Godfrey Butler is in charge of the prizes.

By the Way—

Beth Blaine

Thirteen years of life in South American countries and a real knowledge of the people and customs have well fitted Mrs. Herbert Stabler for her job as assistant to Mr. Arthur Wild, in the office of Nelson A. Rockefeller, co-ordinator of Inter-American affairs. Mrs. Stabler knows South America, not from the outside looking in, but from the inside out. Her late husband was for many years chief of the Latin American Division of the Department of State. He was sent on various important missions to South America and with Mrs. Stabler and their two sons lived for three years in Ecuador and Chile and for ten years in Caracas, Venezuela when he served there as an executive for one of the large oil companies.

The Stablers loved life in Venezuela especially. They lived in a lovely big house with a patio and lush flower gardens and the days were pleasant and busy and interesting. Mrs. Stabler indulged her love of pets and at one time had 12 dogs and 18 cats sunning themselves in those tropical gardens! Venezuelan servants were inexpensive and friendly and plentiful. Inclined to be a little slow in their work perhaps, because that was their easy-going way of life. But if they became a little TOO slow there were always more to be had. For excitement and color and atmosphere there were trips all through Venezuela when Mrs. Stabler always accompanied her husband. Both spoke Spanish and soon learned to know and like the people. When Mrs. Stabler left Venezuela, her own personal maid, Henrietta, wept so copiously that her mistress didn't have the heart to leave her behind so brought her along, and to this day Henrietta is still with her.

Henrietta is learning to cook now. She's pretty good at it too although she hasn't yet achieved much variety in her menus. "What Henrietta likes, she learns to cook," says Mrs. Stabler, "and what she can cook we eat." She loves fish, so very often Mrs. Stabler eats fish. And very good fish it is too—even if they have it a lot.

The two Stabler boys are grown now. Warwick, who married the former Pontaine Fahnestock, is overseas as a lieutenant in the Army and Wells is here in Washington working with the Division of American Republics of the State Department. It was while Mr. and Mrs. Stabler were in Paris in 1938 that Mr. Stabler died. His widow returned to this country and went to New York to make her home. Shortly after that she was made head of the New York World's Fair Hospitality Center. She worked for the New York American Women's Voluntary Services and also, sometime before, had been executive secretary for Finland, Inc. She is extremely efficient and attractive and intelligent. She likes people and they like her. It was for these reasons and the fact of her knowledge of South America that she was chosen as Mr. Wild's assistant.

Right now she is helping Mr. Wild arrange circle tours of the United States which visiting journalists from 19 American Republics will make here this fall and winter. The visiting newspaper publishers and writers are coming at the invitation of the National Press Club. They will interview leaders in government, industry and the press and inspect war industries, training camps and naval centers while here. Also they will visit newspaper plants, industrial concerns, universities, radio stations, medical centers, etc., and while on tour will send stories to their own papers and broadcast to their home lands. Mr. Rockefeller feels that the tours will help immeasurably to further the ever growing mutual understanding among the peoples of this hemisphere and that they are extremely important. In order to give all his time as director of the tours Mr. Wild, who is director of the Harvard University news office, has been granted leave of absence from the University by President Conant. And the Department of State and the Office of Inter-American Affairs are co-operating in the project.

20th Century Club Hears Talk on War
"Over Here—Over There" was the subject of a talk by Mrs. Georgette Howard Ross yesterday at a meeting of the Twentieth Century Club held at the YWCA.
Mrs. Howard, a well-known student of international affairs, spoke on the situation in France, declaring that "something may soon happen there," with indications that Gen. Charles de Gaulle may prove to be the George Washington of his country.
Reports were made by chairmen of the National Defense Committee, the Red Cross Committee, the garden section and the Finance Committee.
New members announced included Mrs. Kendrick Nichols Marshall, Mrs. F. W. Reichelderfer, Mrs. James Vincent Hopkins, Mrs. Charles F. Creighton and Mrs. William M. Balinger.

Girl Scout Official Leaves Today to Join the WAVES
Washington's latest contribution to the WAVES is Miss Eleanor Durrett, executive secretary of the Girl Scouts of the District, who will leave today for Smith College, where she will enter the officers' training course. Announcement was made by Mrs. Edward W. Sturdevant, Girl Scout commissioner, who states that Miss Durrett, who has been director and executive secretary for the past three years, leaves behind a record of accomplishment. During the period she has directed activities of the local organization the membership has increased from 3,000 to 4,000, Mrs. Sturdevant added.
Miss Durrett also has been vice president of the National Association of Girl Scout Executives, president of the Executive Council of the Community Chest agencies, a member of the Executive Board of the Recreation Division of the Council of Social Agencies and program chairman of the American Camping Association of the National Capital section.
Miss Durrett was presented with a shoulder badge as a parting gift by members of the District Council. Appointment of a new executive secretary will be announced by Mrs. Sturdevant in a few days.

Blood Plasma Project Being Sped by DAR
Society to Provide Funds for Donor Centers and Units
Continued expansion of the blood plasma program, one of the major war projects of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, is announced by Mrs. William E. Pouch, president general, in accordance with action by the Executive Committee.
The society will provide funds for establishment of two permanent blood donor centers for the American Red Cross and will purchase at least 10 mobile blood plasma units for collection of blood donations by the Red Cross. As the Red Cross expands its centers other mobile units will be added.
Each unit costs upwards of $2,350 and each blood center from $1,500 to $2,000, Mrs. Pouch said.
Participation by the District chapters in this national project will be discussed by Mrs. Arthur C. Houghton, State chairman of the Committee for National Defense, at a luncheon to be given at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapter House, 1732 Massachusetts avenue N.W., by the Eleanor Wilson and Anne Hill Chapters.
Mrs. C. E. Channing, regent of Anne Hill Chapter, will head the receiving line preceding the luncheon. Mrs. Roger Williams and Miss Katherine Mosler will lead the singing of "America."
Mrs. C. H. Lane, regent of the Eleanor Wilson Chapter, will preside at the meeting following the luncheon. Assisting hostesses are Mrs. Guy Mason, Mrs. Harry Whitford, Mrs. E. S. Calbreath, Mrs. George F. Warner, Mrs. George Phillips, Mrs. H. F. Harnesberger and Mrs. J. H. Graves.
Gideon Lyon, for more than 50 years on the editorial staff of The Star, will lecture on "The Great Chalice of Antioch" before the Historical Research Committee of the District Chapter of the DAR at 8 p.m. Monday at the Chapter House. Mr. Lyon will describe the chalice and the interesting figures depicted on its frieze, as well as relate the story of its rediscovery.
Mrs. J. Nelson Anderson, State chairman of the American Music Committee, has arranged a short program of appropriate music. Mrs. Wilfred J. Clearman, State vice president, will preside. The business session of the meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.
Capt. Joseph Magruder Chapter, DAR, is meeting today at the Chapter House. Mrs. Edwin J. Ryan, State chairman of the "American Indians" committee, will describe plans and work of this new national committee. Dr. Lida B. Earhart, Mrs. Joseph A. Horner and Mrs. Joseph H. Wheat will serve as hostesses.
Mrs. John Morrison Kerr, State chairman of Red Cross Committee, will speak at the regular monthly meeting of the M.J. L'Etant Chapter, DAR, at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapter House.
Susan Rivers Chapter will meet at 12:30 next Friday for coffee preceding the business meeting at the home of Mrs. Guy Withers, 1735 New Hampshire avenue. Mrs. Roland C. Bryant, regent, will preside. Miss Luella F. Chase, State chairman of approved schools of the District, will outline the winter's work and plan a Christmas box for the chapter's scholarship girl at Tamassee DAR school in South Carolina. Mrs. Guy Withers is State vice chairman of this committee.
Dr. G. Canby Robinson, national director of the American Red Cross Blood Donor Service, spoke this morning at a meeting of the DAR National Defense Committee at the Chapter House. Mr. Arthur C. Houghton, chairman of the District National Defense Committee, presided.

Petworth Club Hears Talk on Life in Army

Woman's Interest Aide Cites Importance Of Home Front

"Women and the Army" was the subject of a talk given by Miss Margaret S. Banister, organization director of the Woman's Interest Section of the Bureau of Public Relations of the War Department, before members of the Petworth Woman's Club yesterday.

Speaking on the program which followed a noon luncheon at the Petworth Methodist Church, Miss Banister discussed many important facts which she said women should know about the Army and its men. The speaker declared that the United States Army is "the best fed, clothed and cared-for of any army in the history of the world." She explained how modern warfare calls for scientific, mechanized training as no other period in history has done.

"Men can't just spring to arms in this war," she said. "They must be trained over and over again until they become letter perfect."

Explaining that the Women's Interest Section was established to give information to women to reassure them as to the welfare of their men in the Army, she added there were also things which the women should be told regarding their own responsibilities.

"They should know of the Army's need for nurses and the adjustments the civilian population must make to supply this need," she declared. "They should know about the dangers of rumor mongering and careless talk, about the problems of transplanted wives, the community problems caused by military concentrations in camps and posts and the need for day nurseries and pre-school care of children. They should understand the importance of building up a psychological front and should realize that this is pre-eminently a woman's front."

Miss Banister called attention to the shortage of men with specialized skills and the need for specialized training in civilian occupations necessary to the war effort.

"A whole program of pre-induction training is being projected into the secondary schools of the country," she commented.

"This war involves women, all civilians, in fact, as no other war has done," she concluded. "It makes demands, calls for more effort, opens up more opportunities for service. For this is total war."

A luncheon at noon in charge of the home section, headed by Mrs. Katherine Noord, preceded Miss Banister's talk.

During the morning members brought contributions for "the pantry shelf," sponsored by the philan-

Winter Ends Mud In Alaska; Troops Get Warmest Clothes

Woolen Underwear, Heavy Enough to Stand Alone, Part of Equipment

By the Associated Press.
HEADQUARTERS, ALASKA DEFENSE COMMAND, Nov. 6.—This is the season in Alaska when the Army abandons the routes it used all summer and begins using those which were impassable a couple of weeks ago.

The beginning of winter, peculiarly enough, does not automatically immobilize anything in this Northern war theater. Not tanks, not airplanes, not footsoldiers. In fact, the Alaska soldiers are sighing with relief at the end of the mud which has oozed under their boots for the last seven months.

Alaska is one of the wettest spots in North America. Much of the great territory is swamp-dotted with lakes, criss-crossed with water-courses which have a hard time deciding whether to be sloughs or rivers, steaming when the sun shines and continually soggy when it is not frozen.

It's a local superstition that the city of Fairbanks would disappear entirely into the mire if the muskox underneath it ever thawed out completely. Soldiers who have battled stuck trucks and foundered caterpillars all summer believe the story implicitly.

"Winter Trails" Becomes Feasible.
The Alaska soldiers are linking up with the United States proper will doubtless be much easier to keep open this winter than in the spring. So will a thousand military cowpaths all over the northern part of the territory. Those little dots which on many maps of Alaska are marked as "winter trails" come into their own now.

All is not simple, of course. Frost oozes out of the ground all winter. Not only must railroad tracks be kept free of snow, but crews must battle against ice that rises literally out of the earth beneath the rails. Water systems freeze—the city of Fairbanks keeps its sewer system operating with an electric wire running through the pipes to warm them.

Airplanes operated all the year around in Alaska even before the war.

The tractor train was the first competitor of the dog sled in these parts. Now tractor trains, pulled by huge caterpillars and including caterpillar trailers, are ready to begin hauling supplies to some remote Army outposts.

Clothing of Best Wool.
So far as clothing and equipment is concerned, no army on earth can spit in the teeth of a blizzard with more assurance than this one.

Consider Joe Deakes, private. His clothing issue begins with wool underwear, in several weights. If Joe is going to spend the winter in one of the really cold places, say where a thermometer is no good if it won't register 80 below, his underwear is a wooly suit of armor that will practically stand up in the corner by itself. Joe also has as many wool socks as he can handle, enough so that he can, if he likes, wear two or three pairs at a time.

His winter issue uniform itself is all wool—good wool, not the short-fiber stuff of which most armies make uniforms—and heavy. He has general issue shoes with an extra rubber sole underneath the leather. He also has high, oiled leather boots that are almost entirely waterproof, overboots with a half dozen buckles, and heavy shoe-pacs, those rubber-footed, leather-topped combinations without which no Maine man or sourdough feels well dressed.

Joe also has, if he needs them, snowshoes or skis, complete with excellent bindings and good poles. Joe's gloves are woolen with cuffs that reach half way to his elbows. He has a soft wool scarf that is 14 inches wide and will wind three times around a size 15 neck without stretching. His caps are several—the usual garrison and field caps, also a knitted affair which comes clear down around his neck with only a hole left for his face.

Fur-lined Ear Muffs.
If that is not enough, he has a sweater which would have delighted grandpa's heart. Its turtle neck will come up far enough to cover everything except the top of Joe's head. And still another cap is a quilted affair with fur-lined ear muffs that come down around his chin and even a furred cross-bar to protect Joe's nose. He can hardly breathe in it, but it's warm.

His overcoat and short coats are heavy, his field jacket has a wool lining, and his parka has a removable alpaca lining worth somewhat more than its weight in nickels.

If Joe happens to be in the Air Force and flying, he draws also sheep-lined flying boots (secret: even non-flyers find them the finest kind of cold-weather house boots) with leather and rubber exteriors, fleece-lined flying pants, a natty fleece-lined short flying jacket, or, if he knows the supply sergeant especially well, perhaps a long white parka jacket. Either way, he is not only protected against cold but is so well insulated that he could double for a football tackling dummy without even getting bruised. Fancy white fleece-lined flying mittens complete the outfit.

Few Hours of Daylight.
There are lined waterproof trousers for snow work, rubberized suits for places where it is really wet, dozens of other items for all kind of conditions.

Sleeping bags are down-filled, double for warmth and with a third waterproof cover for really bad weather.

Practically everything has slide fasteners that can be operated with gloved hands. Sleeves pull tight at the cuffs, collars close around the neck.

For most soldiers, winter in Alaska will mean principally wandering around in the dark. In the Far North, there are at this season only a few hours of daylight. Even in the Aleutians, 5 o'clock in the afternoon means a deep dusk. And at any of those places, a flashlight is an essential part of a soldier's gear. The foxholes were merely ugly in summer, but now they're lethal.

Joe won't freeze to death this winter in Alaska, but he's likely to break his neck if he doesn't watch his step.

Mothers' Club to Meet
The Mothers' Club of St. John's College High School will meet at 8:15 o'clock tonight in the school to hear a discussion of their sons' military training by Sergt. Thomas H. McDonald, professor of military science and tactics. Mrs. Harold F. Sinton will preside.

Physician to Discuss 'Freedom From War'

Dr. Evan W. Thomas, assistant professor of medicine at New York University and section chief at Bellevue Hospital there, will discuss "Freedom From War" at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Friends Meeting House, 2111 Florida Avenue N.W.

Dr. Thomas is chairman of the New York Metropolitan Board for Conscientious Objectors. He was imprisoned for his beliefs in World War I. His topic will deal with a consideration of world policies that may "lead to the end of the use of violence among nations as a way of settling differences." His address will conclude a series of discussions sponsored by a Washington pacifist organization.

Quarterly Examination Of Tires Disapproved By Northeast Group

Conference Invites Rhode Island Avenue Association to Join

The Northeast Conference last night joined other civic groups of the District in disapproving quarterly examination of tires, stating that it would be a burden and would probably be very costly.

Vincent P. Boudren, conference president, said authorities would be notified of the action.

L. M. Green, a recent witness before the Public Utilities Commission, assured the conference that the cross-town bus line would not be discontinued in view of the number of passengers served.

Joseph P. Quinn, Brookland delegate, spoke on the housing situation in his territory.

Mr. Boudren announced that recent resolutions demanding the removal of weeds from the Burroughs School grounds and the cleaning up of Langdon Park had been answered by prompt action by the District's Recreation Board and the Health Department.

He reported that nothing had been done, however, about the septic tanks being used by the new housing units at Thirty-first and Adams streets N.E., despite letters to the Health Department demanding a sewage system.

Mr. Boudren's suggestion that the Rhode Island Avenue Association be invited to join the conference was approved.

The meeting was held in No. 12 police precinct.

Halting of Construction On School Is Opposed

Halting work on the Walter B. Patterson School was opposed last night by the Washington Highlands Citizens' Association.

Members said the school was approximately 80 per cent completed and that it could be put in condition within three or four weeks. A letter will be sent to the War Production Board relative to continuing construction.

A resolution was passed asking for 50 more policemen for No. 11 precinct.

The members favored Senator McCarran's congressional move to increase the number of beds in the hospitals and also the Randolph bill to establish nursery schools in the District.

The meeting was held at the home of Frank J. Woodsmall, Mrs. Charles H. Hagerty presided.

Eire Rations Electricity

Gas rationing drove so many people in Eire to the use of electric stoves that electricity for lighting and heating now also must be rationed.

14 Students at G. W. Named for 'Who's Who'

Fourteen George Washington University students have been nominated by a faculty committee for inclusion in the "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

According to Fred Everett Nessell, registrar and chairman of the committee, 10 seniors and four juniors were selected for campus leadership and scholarship. Among them are Kim Vought, president of the Student Council; Miss Anna Bean, editor of the Cherry Tree, co-captains of the football squad.

Others included are Richard P. Ballard, George E. Bishop, Charles Daugherty, James Graham, James Rausch, William Stell, Miss Mina Brown, Miss Dorothy Farwell, Miss Patricia Orr and Miss Charlotte Patterson.

3 Nature Walks Slated In Parks Over Week End

Three walks for persons interested in parks and waterfowl have been scheduled under sponsorship of the National Capital Parks, one of them in conjunction with the Washington Audubon Society.

The first, designated as "an autumn nature hike," is to be conducted by a park naturalist in the Rock Creek Park area at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The hikers are to assemble at Connecticut avenue and Albemarle street N.W. and follow a route from the Soapstone Valley Park through Rock Creek Park to Sixteenth and Holly streets N.W.

At 8:30 a.m. Sunday a "bird walk" will be conducted at the Roaches Run Wildfowl Sanctuary, in joint sponsorship with the Washington Audubon Society. Persons interested in the latter trip are to assemble at the south end of Highway Bridge.

At 2 p.m. Sunday a "nature walk" is to be taken through the wooded stretches of Upper Fort Dupont Park. Persons going on this hike are to assemble at Alabama avenue and Boulevard street S.E.

Germans Keep Watch For New Allied Moves Elsewhere in Africa

Nazi Radio Again Reports Massing of United Nations Ships at Gibraltar

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 6.—With Marshal Erwin Rommel's armies fleeing westward in Egypt under a threat of annihilation by the British 8th Army, the Axis powers today of a wary watch for new Allied ventures which might imperil its position elsewhere in Africa and on the Mediterranean.

"The enemy is showing increasing uneasiness regarding Allied movements to the south and west of Libya," the London Daily Telegraph commented.

For a third successive day the German radio talked, without confirmation, of a concentration of United Nations warships and transports at Gibraltar, estimating that 125 naval vessels had reached the small harbor there. Previous Axis reports said that American troops had reached Gibraltar.

Spain Said to Be Worried.
The German propaganda sought to show that Spain is worried. "The news from Gibraltar has revealed considerable military activity there," said a Berlin broadcast of a Madrid dispatch to Transoceanic German news agency.

"It is believed that much armament is being stored in the rock fortress, including tanks, fighters and bombers. Such developments are being viewed with concern."

The Nazi-controlled Paris radio also said that additional RAF squadrons had arrived at Gibraltar. Earlier this week the German commentator, Rear Admiral Luetzow, discussed on the Berlin radio the possibility of Allied operations against North Africa, led by Americans, and a movement against Casablanca, from the west, that is, the Atlantic.

Vichy, France, and Spain divide the control of North Africa. Casablanca is in French Morocco.

Concentration South of Tripoli.
At the same time Axis military commentators have been reporting a gathering of Allied forces in the Chad area, due south of Tripoli, Libyan capital, and have noted the presence of a Fighting French force at Kufra Oasis, 400 miles south of Derna, Eastern Libya.

The Belgian newspaper Le Soir recently reported that Marshal Rommel had detached a portion of his African Corps to stand guard against attack from Kufra Oasis. The London Evening Standard summed up the current concern of the Axis as follows:

"All Africa may soon be at stake. Such is the fear in Berlin and Rome."

Anything less than complete destruction of Rommel's forces might be taken as an Axis victory, the Evening Standard commented. To accomplish this, it noted, the British would have to drive in force across 1,000 miles of desert to Tunisia—a never-accomplished feat—or tackle the Axis forces from the rear while they are still under frontal assault.

London observers saw in the potential complete occupation of North Africa the possibility of establishing a base for a second European front, reopening the Mediterranean to Allied shipping and thus saving three-fourths of the sailing time to the Middle East and increasing aid to Russia both by releasing more material and delivering it faster.

Flyer Uses Gun To Puncture Raft Fouling Plane
By the Associated Press.
SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Nov. 4 (Delayed).—A Flying Fortress crew today had a narrow escape from a freak accident which threatened to send the four-motored B-17 bomber plunging to the ground.

The Fortress was taking off on a mission when the wind pried open a hatch door and released a deflated life raft which blew back and lodged against the tail. Fixed to inflate when released, the raft began filling up, freezing the controls.

The pilot, Lt. Merrill Ehlers of Pharr, Tex., and the co-pilot, Lt. Bill Wilson of Fort Worth, Tex., both braced against the controls, but the plane whipped wildly and plunged toward the ground.

As the crew prepared to bail out, Pvt. Lowell Lee of New York turned a machine gun on the inflated raft, puncturing it and enabling the pilot to regain control.

OPA to Set Prices For Turkeys Shipped Here From Far Areas

Order Expected Today Will Assure Supply For Thanksgiving

Office of Price Administration officials said ceiling prices on turkeys shipped here from outside nearby farm areas would be announced today, clearing the way for importation of a sufficient supply of fowls to satisfy Washington's Thanksgiving appetite.

Many local dealers buy turkeys from farmers in nearby areas. Price ceilings on these fowls already have been established.

Marketing of outside turkeys has been slowed down because of OPA failure to announce the price ceilings since the cost of birds was frozen by congressional action in September. Farmers and dealers have been wary of selling turkeys for shipment until they learned the OPA price ceilings.

Local dealers said the supply of turkeys had kept up with the local demand so far and added they believed the announcement of ceilings at this time would make it possible to bring in enough for Thanksgiving demands.

The ceilings on fowl imported from the Pacific Northwest and the South are expected to be set in the OPA order today, and once these are established, it was said, it will be merely a question of shipping enough fowl to meet the local demand.

Other sections of the country, which do not have nearby sources of supply and which are dependent on fowl shipped long distances may not fare as well as Washington at Thanksgiving, it was stated.

Early Yule Mailing Asked; Post Offices Seek Help

Fearing that already overtaxed District post offices will not be able to hire all of the men needed this year for the Christmas mailing rush, District Postmaster Vincent Burke today urged the public to do their Christmas shopping and mailing early.

"If the people of Washington handle their Christmas mailing in the usual manner—this business of waiting until the last 10 days—there is going to be widespread disappointment," the postmaster declared.

He explained that the postoffice is now trying to hire 2,500 to 3,000 additional men for the expected rush. Mr. Burke said the postoffice must keep the war mail and Government mail going. With the increased volume of mail the postoffice is handling, together with transportation difficulties, he said, thousands of soldiers, sailors, marines and civilians will be disappointed if Christmas mailing is not done now.

German Gang Brought $170,000 to Bribe U.S. Workers, Court Told

FBI Agent Cites Haupt's Confession at Trial of 6 Accused as His Aides

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—A Federal Bureau of Investigation agent testified in Federal Court yesterday that the eight German saboteurs who came to this country in submarines last June had $170,000, which was to be used in an effort to bribe American workers to help them in their intended plot to destroy vital war industries.

The testimony was by W. B. Helme, special FBI agent, in the treason trial of six Chicago men and women who are charged with giving aid and comfort to Herbert Haupt, one of the German saboteurs. He and five others were executed in Washington last August 8.

Mr. Helme testified that he and FBI Agent James L. Handley, in questioning Otto Richard Wergin, one of the defendants, used a digest of Haupt's confession, which he said contained the information about the $170,000.

Cites Haupt's Confession.
Mr. Helme said that he and FBI Agent James L. Handley, in questioning Otto Richard Wergin, one of the defendants, used a digest of Haupt's confession, which he said contained the information about the $170,000.

Defense Attorney Paul A. Warnholz failed to block introduction of Wergin's statement to the FBI agents and it was read to the jury by United States Attorney J. Albert Woll. The statement related that Wergin knew his son had left the country with Haupt in 1941 and that he talked to Haupt at his home last June 21 and 22.

Fearful for Life of Son.
Wergin's statement said that Haupt had told him: "If I said anything about his (Haupt) being in this country, my son would be shot by the German Gestapo. Herbert also told me he had something to mention in this country. I knew then there must be something wrong. . . . I did not mention the matter to any one because I know what goes on in Germany. I know they will kill my son and the relatives of myself and wife will be jailed." Wergin's wife and young Haupt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Max Haupt, and his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilhelm Froehling, are the other defendants.

Charles E. Mills Dies; Veteran U. S. Engineer

Charles Edward Mills, 59, of 3711 Eighteenth street N.E., died at his home yesterday after an illness of several months.
Born in London, England, Mr. Mills moved to Philadelphia when he was 16. A few years later he came to Washington and had lived here since. Mr. Mills had been employed as an assistant civil engineer in the War Department for the past 18 years.

During the World War he served overseas as captain and major in the Marine Corps. A member of the Episcopal Church, Mr. Mills was also a fellow in the Geographical Society of New York.
Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Lucy F. Mills, and a son, Benjamin Lee Mills, both of Washington; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Dorothy Ward of Richmond, Va.; and two sisters, Mrs. Edward Blanchard and Miss Catherine Mills, both of London.
Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery tomorrow. Details of the funeral will be announced later.

Funeral Services Tomorrow For Elmer Clarence Young

Funeral services for Elmer Clarence Young, 54, life-long resident of Washington who died Wednesday after an illness of more than a year, will be held at the Lee funeral home at 11:15 a.m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery.
Mr. Young, who lived at 110 Thirty-fifth street S.E., had been an employe of the District government for more than 20 years. He was a member of the Ingram Memorial Congregational Church.
Surviving Mr. Young are his widow, Mrs. Maybelle O. Young, and a son, Herbert Young, both of Washington; a daughter, Mrs. Lillian Bowen, of Arlington; two stepsons, George and Howard De Franceaux, and two stepdaughters, Mrs. Mabel Blackwell and Mrs. Nina Sheets, all of Washington.

Johns Hopkins Doctors Win National Award For Research Work

Howe and Bodian Honored For Outstanding Study As Pediatricians Meet

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Dr. C. Anderson Aldrich of Chicago at a meeting of the American Academy of Pediatrics today presented the E. Mead Johnson awards to three doctors "for outstanding research in pediatrics" during the last year.
Dr. Aldrich announced the winners of the first prize were Drs. Howard A. Howe and David Bodian of Johns Hopkins University, on their paper on "The Penetration of Polioyeltis Virus From the Gastro-intestinal Tract in the Chimpanzee."

Second prize was awarded to Dr. Harold E. Harrison and his wife of the Yale University School of Medicine on their report on "The Renal Excretion of Phosphate in Relation to the Pathogenesis of Rickets and the Mode of Action of Vitamin D."
The awards, established four years ago and to be given annually for 10 years, carry a prize of $500 and $300 for first and second prize, respectively.

The national defense program for the country's pediatricians, Dr. Edward Clay Mitchell said today, was to strengthen the physical, mental and moral fiber of the Nation's children.

Dr. Mitchell, president of the academy in an address to the group's 12th annual meeting, told the pediatricians "we must remember that the national future rests in the small bodies and minds" of the country's children. He said there were about 36,000,000 children under 16 years of age in the United States and that about 2,000,000 babies were born in this country each year.

Declaring that national defense implies "strengthening from within," Dr. Mitchell contended that "by starting at the very foot of our social structure, our children—the next generation—and by strengthening the physical, mental and moral fiber of that group, we shall build a firm foundation without which the rest of our problem might well crumble."
The medical profession is confronted with many new problems because of the war, Dr. Mitchell said, but he added the aims of the

Potomac Rivermen 'Harvesting' Corn Crop From Trees

Rivermen along the upper Potomac are reaping a harvest of corn—not from fields but from the trees that line the river's edge.
Bottom land corn from far upriver was washed down by the recent flood, coming to rest in the trees. Nearby residents are even cutting them down to salvage the crop.
One river veteran of the Harpers Ferry area says he already has "harvested" three barrels of corn, enough to keep his chickens in feed throughout the winter.

pediatricians in wartime "are identical with those in time of peace—for every child, health protection from birth through adolescence; the building of a healthy generation, sound in mind, body and in purpose."

Nazi Blitz Curbed, Gen. Sikorski Says

By the Associated Press.
LIVERPOOL, Nov. 6.—Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski said today that "Hitler's blitzkrieg is under control primarily because of the equality of air and panzer forces."
"The former superiority in armaments of the Third Reich is dwindling," the prime minister of the Polish government-in-exile declared in an address.

He said the Allied road to victory demanded a "daring conception and the wresting of the initiative from the enemy, the beginning of which is observed now in Africa."

Austria Crowded With Nazi Wounded, Yugoslavs Say

Hotels, Public Buildings And Hospitals Reported Taken Over by Army

By the Associated Press.
BERN, Switzerland, Nov. 6.—Austria, whose capital once was a synonym for gaiety, is flooded with German wounded, information received by Yugoslav circles here reported today.
Virtually all the country's hotels, public buildings, sanatoriums and hospitals have been requisitioned by the German Army, these reports said.
This was the picture of Vienna as drawn by the Yugoslav informants: All noted hotels and many palaces have been turned into hospitals and are crowded with gravely wounded men. In the streets of the once joyful city there are only old men, women and wounded soldiers.

Police Sent to Russia.
The city now is without police as these were said to be more urgently needed in Russia.
In the cafes wounded soldiers are served by waiters, all of whom are more than 60 years of age.
All able-bodied men in Vienna have been sent either to Russia or the occupied countries of Europe.
Travelers affirm that the number of wounded now in the Reich, a closely guarded secret, is great.
All Workers Foreign.
One German medical officer, according to information received by the Yugoslavs, was quoted as declaring the number of Germans who died on the Russian front last winter as a result of cold and gangrene had reached 1,000,000.
Workers who fled Germany and returned to homes in the Balkans reported there were many industries in Germany which, aside from supervisors and directors, now have not a single German workman.
Foreign workers in some instances are even employed in railroad offices.

All Must Do Part to Win War, Gen. McSherry Says

"If we are going to win this war," Brig. Gen. Frank J. McSherry, director of operations of the War Manpower Commission, told nearly 200 attending the annual fall dinner of the Takoma Park Chamber of Commerce last night at the Indian Spring Country Club.
After outlining the various organizations and co-ordinated agencies comprising the commission, he said the United States now has 15,000,000 persons engaged in essential industries and that within another year this number will be increased to 20,000,000.
Inspector Richard H. Mansfield of the Metropolitan Police Department gave a chalk talk illustrating the attire worn in the early 80s. He also spoke on co-operation police receive from children in reducing traffic accidents.
Lt. Walter Hinton, U. S. N., pioneer trans-Atlantic pilot, spoke briefly and presented a sound picture showing the bombing of Germany by the Royal Air Force.
The invocation was made by the Rev. R. Paul Schearer, pastor of the Takoma Park Presbyterian Church. The address of welcome was delivered by George A. Cook, president of the chamber. Miss Maxine Galloway was the soloist, while Warren D. Haley led community singing. Mrs. John Lucker was accompanist.

Mrs. Janie M. Baskerville Dies at Sullins College

By the Associated Press.
BRISTOL, Va., Nov. 6.—Mrs. Janie McTyeire Baskerville, 80, dean of Sullins College for many years and member of a family long prominent in Southern educational circles, died at the college yesterday.
Her father, the late Methodist Bishop Holland Nimmons McTyeire, was president of the board of Vanderbilt University and her husband, the late Dr. William Malone Baskerville, was head of the department of English at Vanderbilt and was one of the founders of the Southern Association of Colleges.
A daughter, Mrs. William E. Martin, is the wife of the president of Sullins.

Baltimore Women To Sponsor Destroyer At Fore River Plant

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Six ships will be launched in New England early next week, two of them sponsored by the wives of Army generals on Armistice Day, the Navy announced today.

Mrs. Sherman Miles, wife of the commanding general of the Army's 1st Service Command, and Mrs. Kenneth Blood, wife of the major general commanding the New England sector, will christen two special ships in a Wednesday double launching at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Fore River plant in Quincy.
At the same yard on November 9 the destroyer Ordronaux, named for Capt. John Ordronaux, a privateersman in the War of 1812, will be launched, with a granddaughter, Mrs. J. Henry Judik of Baltimore, as sponsor.
Also on November 9, two special ships will be launched at the Boston Navy Yard. The sponsors will be

Mrs. Elizabeth Haggerty, wife of a yard employe, and Miss Loretta Watts, daughter of an employe.
A coastal transport will be launched November 10 at the Camden Shipbuilding & Marine Railways Co., Camden, Me. The sponsor will be Miss Barbara Pitman, daughter of an electrical engineer employed at the Bath Iron Works, Bath, Me.
The "special ships" were not further described.
Rare Mineral Found
A rare mineral having optical qualities similar to the diamond, with high powers of refraction, has just been discovered in South Africa.

Murphy Asks for Avoidance Of Public Controversy on War

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Justice Frank Murphy of the Supreme Court has appealed to the Nation to avoid "public controversies that might breed distrust or ill will between ourselves and our gallant comrades in arms."
Declaring "we are a people devoted to free speech and a free press," he question of the so-called second front."

Justice Murphy said "a distinguished world traveler" recently had declared that "we are losing good will in certain areas by failing to define clearly our war aims" and that while "our Allies in Asia and Western Europe . . . know what they are fighting for they are not so sure about us."
"No one, I believe," declared Justice Murphy, "can justly doubt our intentions and our purposes. We are not fighting for imperialism anywhere. Our aim is to establish conditions under which the right of self-government and self-determination may be exercised to the full by any people."

Near-Hurricane Hits At Cuba, Bahamas After Skirting Florida

Miami and Palm Beach Believed Safe, but Tip of State Is Threatened

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 6.—A storm, brewed in the tempestuous Caribbean, skirted along the north coast of Cuba today, but its main force apparently was headed through the straits and into the Gulf of Mexico, aimed away from Florida and its resort area.

A wide area of storm winds, reaching hurricane force of 75 miles or more near the center, threatened the Central and Southern Bahama Islands off the Florida coast and Cuba.

The Weather Bureau at Miami said the main force of the tropical disturbance might pass inland over Cuba before proceeding westward toward the Gulf of Mexico.

Peril Great South of Miami.

However, the heavily populated areas of Florida southward from Melbourne and including Palm Beach were threatened with heavy gale winds, although Forecaster Ernest F. Carson expected these sections to miss the worst of it.

South of Miami and in the Key West area at the tip of the State the threat was great and civilian and naval forces took all precautions to protect themselves against property or personal loss.

The worst of the storm apparently missed the Bahama Islands where the Duke and Duchess of Windsor maintain their official residence at Nassau.

The Weather Bureau's official 10:45 a.m. (S. W. T.) bulletin follows:

"Tropical storm central at 8:30 a.m. Eastern war time about 85 miles north-northeast of Nuevitas, Cuba, or latitude 22 degrees 40 minutes west or west southwestward 14 to 18 miles per hour.

"This storm is attended by a wide area of gale winds to the northwest of center and hurricane or near-hurricane winds near center.

Course Is Indicated. "Center of storm will move westward along north Cuba coast and will move inland over Cuba this afternoon or through Florida Straits just north of Cuba. Strong north to northeast winds will continue along southeast Florida coast.

"Strong north winds reaching gale force along Florida keys.

"Caution: Advise all interests North Cuba to Florida Straits and southeast coast. Storm warnings remain displayed from Melbourne to Key West."

Along lower Florida's Atlantic Coast line and down the archipelago to Key West, vessels hurried into port. Storm shutters were fastened to windows facing seaward.

Miami Schools Closed.

Miami's public schools were ordered closed for the day and a high school football game was cancelled. The Weather Bureau went on an emergency basis to keep the area informed, and wartime censorship of storm news was lifted to permit notification of all who might be threatened.

Navy officials in the area announced that hotels housing Navy and Coast Guard personnel along the water front in Miami were being shuttered and that the service was taking the same precautions that civilians in the area are schooled to observe.

The storm apparently gathered more rapidly than usual and the customary two or three days advance notice was missing. Before daylight, however, the Weather Bureau began broadcasting its warnings and stormwise Miamians began protecting their property before 6 a.m.

Barometers Remain Steady.

Barometers at Miami southward to Palm Beach and southward in the Key West area, which usually herald an approaching tropical disturbance by dropping at a slow, regular pace, remained steady during the early forenoon.

The 10 a.m. reading at Miami was 29.95, which showed no change for many hours past. This situation existed from Melbourne to Key West in all the threatened area.

Reports of the storm came just nine days before the normal end of the "hurricane season," which usually is considered to run from June 15 through November 15.

However, the area was not caught unprepared. Always ready for such emergencies, public agencies, the military and civilians swung into action to protect unsheltered areas.

Army Flyers on Alert.

At West Palm Beach, the Army's Air Transport Command, Caribbean Wing, announced it was ready for any eventuality and would stand by to function according to advance plans. No other details were given.

In midmorning, Palm Beach, Fort Lauderdale and other schools in the area followed Miami's lead in canceling classes for the day, although there was little outward evidence of the approaching blow, except for strong winds and occasional showers. These had continued intermittently since early morning, when the Weather Bureau made its first broadcast of a dawn warning.

Jacques W. Redway Dies; Was Noted Geographer

By the Associated Press.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Jacques Wardlaw Redway, 94, noted geographer, died today.

Through his writings and lectures, geography teaching was placed on a professional plane and he was the first to show the relation of geography to history and economics, according to the National Cyclopaedia of American Biography. For 40 years Dr. Redway had been meteorologist for the United States Weather Bureau in Westchester County.

He was born near Murfreesboro, Tenn., in 1849.

Dr. Redway's "Manual of Geography," published in 1887, and revised editions were reputed to have sold 15,000,000 copies. He was a prolific writer and had visited South America, Europe and Asia for geographical studies.

His principal popular works were "The New Basis for Geography" and an edition of "Sir John Mandeville's Travels." He also wrote "Inquiry Concerning the First Landfall of Columbus" and "The Treeless Plains of North America."

Bradbury Heights Group Told of Victory Corps Plan

Members of the Bradbury Heights Citizens' Association were told last night they could register November 17 in the Bradbury Heights Methodist Church in the Victory Volunteer Corps, unit of the Civilian Mobilization Division.

Mrs. Virginia B. Scholar, area secretary, explained that the purpose of the corps was to act as a middle-man in supplying the public with information on various Government regulations, car-sharing and rationing information. Mrs. Augusta Faines, regional chairman, whose territory takes in Bradbury Heights, Randle Highlands, North Randle, Summit Park, Anacostia and Hill Crest, also spoke briefly. Henry Austin, president of the association and chairman of civilian mobilization in Bradbury Heights, presided.

AWOL Soldier Ends Life At Home of Sister

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The body of Pvt. James Nolan, 39, a member of a technical school squad at Scott Field, Ill., was found slumped over a gas range in the Brooklyn home of a sister early today, police reported.

Police said Pvt. Nolan committed suicide, adding that his sister, Kathleen Nolan, told them Pvt. Nolan had been AWOL for a week.

Governor of Oregon Protests as Portland Faces Meatless Days

Wires Wickard; Dispute Rages Over Cause of City's Shortage

By the Associated Press.
PORTLAND, Oreg., Nov. 6.—Portland's war-wetted appetite, growing daily as new workers arrive and threaten to pop the city's seams, today faced the prospect of meatless days—not once a week, but for the rest of the year.
Whatever the cause—a dispute rages on that point—only about one week's supply of meat remains under Office of Price Administration quotas for November and December.
Gov. Charles A. Sprague wired a protest to Secretary of Agriculture Wickard and also asked Senator McNary to put on pressure in Washington to relieve the shortage.
"Something Must Be Done."
Morton Tompkins, master of the Oregon State Grange, charging Washington with "woefully inadequate knowledge of food problems," said something must be done. And all small meeting packing firms in the city said that unless it were done right away they would close down, and that was that.
Meanwhile, Portland's thousands—almost 200,000 more than during peacetime and many of them hungry shipyard laborers—looked on dazed while the controversy over what caused the shortage grew white hot.

Richard Montgomery, Oregon OPA director, blamed the packers. He said they paid little or no attention to the OPA quotas, went right ahead and butchered the rest of the year's allotted supply.
The packers said flatly that the OPA quotas were ridiculously inadequate for the city's growing population, that they couldn't operate on a part-time basis anyway.
Fear Labor Problem.
OPA quotas, they contended, meant handling an insufficient volume of meat which would preclude running their plants day in and day out. As soon as they shut down for a few days, they said, their labor would quit and take steady jobs in the shipyards.
So all the small packers got together and announced they would close down—for good—November 13, which would leave only the big Swift and Armour plants operating. But they hastened to add that they really didn't mean it, that it was mostly big talk to force the OPA to boost the quotas.
Today they wondered if they really did mean it and didn't know it.

Shanghai Jews Ordered To Mark Their Autos

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The Japanese, copying an anti-Jewish pattern established by their Axis partners, have ordered all Jews in Shanghai to place blue markers on their automobiles, the Berlin radio reported today in a Shanghai dispatch.
"So you want Tokio bombed again? Well, bombs cost money, so help buy some with War bonds and stamps.

Five More Arrested As District Police Continue Vice Drive

Maj. Kelly Commended By La Roe for Raids On Downtown Hotels

The drive to break up prostitution here continued today as a special vice squad arrested five additional persons on District streets. A charge of soliciting was lodged against one of the men. The other four—two women and two men—had not been formally charged.
Arrest yesterday of Kachig Harry, 53, hotel operator, of the 3800 block Cathedral avenue N.W., on a charge of operating a disorderly house, brought to 11 the number of persons against whom formal charges have been lodged by police in their drive to rid Washington of undesirable characters. Harry was released under $2,000 bond pending trial.
Police were also holding seven women and six men as witnesses.
Wilbur La Roe, Jr., chairman of the Civic Affairs Committee of the Washington Federation of Churches, meanwhile, congratulated Maj. Edward J. Kelly, superintendent of police, on his "effective" vice raids on certain downtown hotels, but declared "this is but the first step."

"The public will follow the matter with keen interest with a view to seeing that all those guilty are adequately punished," wrote Mr. La Roe in a letter of commendation. He added: "Our hats are off to you and to Detective Sergt. Roy Blick, and to Assistant Superintendent Callahan and Assistant Chief Barrett."
"We cannot afford to let leniency injure the soldier boys who visit this city," he said.
"It is said that present laws are inadequate to deal with the furnishing of girls in response to phone calls, and solicitation by phone. If you will let us know wherein you find the laws inadequate I assure you that the Washington Federation of Churches will vigorously advocate necessary changes in the statutes."

Others die for you; the least you can do is buy for them. Get your War savings stamps now.

Confusion of Washington Also Serves to Befuddle Axis

Domestic News Carefully Digested to Get Secrets U. S. Allegedly Let Slip

By HELEN LOMBARD.

Confusing the enemy, one of the many tasks of the psychological warfare division, has been relatively easy. With most of Washington in a state of advanced confusion, the Axis analysts of American broadcasts and newspapers could not fail to be in somewhat of a daze after conscientiously sampling the news front in the United States.

This situation is not without practical advantage to America. From certain reactions which have been observed, it is clear that the Axis powers listen carefully to American broadcasts, not so much to short-wave stations as to the domestic news, from which they expect to pick up hints regarding military and diplomatic moves.

The American newspapers also come in for a share of attention. The Axis is a very faithful clipping bureau patron. Bundles of American newspapers go off to Lisbon at regular intervals. Broadcasts and newspaper articles are analyzed and catalogued.

Look for Every Secret.

The reputation for a certain garrulousness, which has been fastened on Washington officialdom, has led our enemies to believe that most of our secrets are published in the press or announced over the radio, and that the careful foreign listener or reader cannot fail to pick up vital information from the welter of official pronouncements and contradictions.

On several occasions, therefore, the Axis has gulped down scoops and indiscretions which subsequently turned out to be duds.

For the time being, in spite of certain positive results, there is still a lack of unity in the organization of the branch which comprises sections dealing with military-political strategy. There is as yet no overall direction such as the PWE (political war executive) board which serves as a guiding committee for the British outfits engaged in the same kind of work.

In Washington there is still some discussion about the jurisdiction and function of the various branches of the psychological warfare division. In spite of the enormous scope of this vast and mysterious realm, there is much carving up of territory and dispute about jurisdiction.

Donovan's Secret Unit.

The Donovan organization, for instance, which functions within the frame of the War Department, and which used to comprise both open and secret war propaganda and activities, now deals only with the secret matters.

Another organization, headed by a high-ranking military man and functioning within the OWI, is now dealing with open propaganda, although it was originally allocated only the secret weapons of psychological warfare.

There is yet another branch of the OWI, formerly headed by Archibald MacLellan, which feels confident that it is the logical administrator of both secret and open propaganda and that the two were more or less one and indivisible.

Washington also hears that some of the OWI colleagues of the former editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, Lt. Comdr. Paul C. Smith, may soon follow his example. Comdr. Smith gave up his commission and his OWI job to become a private in the Marine Corps. When the former West Coast editor informed one of his OWI friends of his intention to quit in order to join the combat services, his colleagues snapped at him the following taunt: "Coward!"

Santa Claus Will Be in the Toy Store Beginning Tomorrow

so come in and tell him your secret wish for Christmas

After months of busy days in his own workshop and happy planning with American toymakers, too—Santa Claus has time now to come and find out exactly what you hope to find under the tree.

Your parents will probably want to come with you—so please remind them that it is most important to come early, because Santa Claus' supplies are limited—he naturally abides by priority rulings, for the North Pole, you remember, flies the American flag. His workmen have been needed in war industries so toys of many kinds are not plentiful and, when present supplies are sold, they will not be replaceable this year. He wants to be sure your secret dreams come true—but wartime deliveries and lack of storage space make it difficult for even Santa to be sure of just the right toys for every one—this is a year when it is most important than ever to remember: make Christmas choices early.

resolution by Harry C. Grove, president of the association, commending them for outstanding work in apprehending the thieves. The award took place at the regular monthly meeting of the Connecticut Avenue organization at All Souls' Memorial Church.

Capt. A. C. Belt of the precinct was on hand to congratulate the men. Capt. Belt also used the occasion to reprimand residents of the Connecticut Avenue sector for violating parking regulations.

"All would be well," he said, "if they would take as much care to avoid getting tickets as they take to dispose of them."

Deputy Warden Harry Borjes, reporting on civilian defense activities in the area, said the number of volunteers has "increased tremendously" in recent months. There are now 1,000 volunteers, he said.

Miss Blanche Weaver, chairman of the Connecticut Avenue Salvage Committee, who spoke on the collection of scrap, was given a vote of thanks for her activities. A proposal to contribute $10 to the Community War Fund was approved unanimously.

3-A Men Can Acquire 3-B Status by Taking War Plant Jobs

Task Need Not Be Listed As Essential, Draft Officials Explain

By the Associated Press. Three-A men can become 3-Bs by getting a job in a war plant, even if it's only as elevator pilot.

Selective Service officials said today they hope to induce large numbers of men now holding non-essential jobs to shift to war work by offering them longer draft deferment.

Officials at headquarters here said they had laid down the policy that men in Class 3-A (deferred because of dependents) who engage in an activity supporting the war effort should be transferred to 3-B (deferred because of the nature of their work), whether or not their particular jobs are listed as "essential" in their line of work.

Double Status Explained. Such men would thus have a double-deferment status. However, officials emphasized that this would not assure deferment for any specific length of time, such as the six-month period covered by the classification of a single man as necessary in essential work, but only until classes with lesser deferment claims are exhausted.

This illustration of the operation of the double-deferment policy was given:

A childless married man working as a barber could shift to an aircraft factory and get reclassification from 3-A to 3-B, even though his work consisted only of sweeping the factory floor or running the elevator.

This would defer him beyond the call of other married but childless barbers, but would not postpone his induction beyond the call of other men in the aircraft plant who did work that was necessary to keep up the plant's production.

Plan Is Succeeding.

Likewise, all 3-A men in or entering farming, newspaper work and other occupations in the critical list should be reclassified to 3-B until it becomes necessary to make inductions from the ranks of persons in similar status, when the questions of the essentiality of their work or the number of their dependents would be considered.

The officials said the double-deferment policy, despite the major limitations on the extent of additional deferment provided, already was scoring noteworthy success in persuading married men to shift to war-connected work.

Thirty-four occupations have been listed as critical by selective service and lists of key jobs within those occupations have been sent to local draft boards to guide them in determining deferment questions.

D. C. Hospital Officials Get Association Posts

By the Associated Press. ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 6.—A recommendation that the Maryland Legislature adopt new methods of appropriating funds for hospital care of indigent sick highlighted the opening yesterday of a two-day meeting of the Maryland and District of Columbia Hospital Association.

Dr. Edwin L. Crosby, assistant director of Johns Hopkins Hospital, presenting the recommendation, urged the association members to present the results of a recent "uniform cost survey" to Gov. O'Connor, the Legislative Council, Legislature, State Public Welfare Department and Baltimore City authorities.

Other events of the association's annual meeting included election of O. K. Pike, director of the Doctors' Hospital, Washington, to the 1943 presidency; address by Mr. Pike, J. Milton Patterson, State public welfare director, and a banquet address by James A. Hamilton, American Hospital Association president.

Other newly elected officers include Sister Rosa, second vice president, director of Providence Hospital, Washington.

Named to the board of trustees were Mattie Gibson, director of Children's Hospital, Washington.

Gov. O'Connor welcomed the association to Annapolis.

Bill to Give President Tariff Powers Introduced

By the Associated Press. An administration bill to arm President Roosevelt with authority to adjust tariffs and trade agreements for the duration of the war was offered in the Senate yesterday by Chairman George of the Finance Committee.

In line with a "presidential message Monday, it would allow the president to suspend tariffs, import duties and other restrictions against a free flow of "persons, property and information" between this country and its allies.

Minority Leader McNary said the president "wanted authority to tear down tariff barriers" and the proposal would strike "at the heart" of the average American, "used to high standards of living."

Senator George emphasized he introduced the bill "by request" and Finance Committee study, saying it would have to originate in the House because it involved tax questions.

Justice Department Is Center of Fighting On Home Front

Its Agencies Operate In Many Fields to Aid U. S. War Effort

By the Associated Press.

While the Army and the Navy fight the Axis in far places Uncle Sam still waves his big stick in all directions at home.

The locale is often the Federal courts. The home front is an important sector in the world scene, and much of the widespread "crack-down" has been in the name of keeping the machinery running.

Activity centers in the Justice Department, which has been investigating or prosecuting in such varied fields as railroads and railbirds, meat packing and munitions making, brick and bread baking, patents and plastics, milk and music, acids and aluminum, spies, sedition and sabotage.

Other units have not been far behind. The Federal Communications Commission is dialed in on everything that goes through the air and has time to find out how much transcription is used in broadcasting and the nature of labor relations in the industry.

OPA Active in Wide Fields.

The Treasury and the Alien Property Custodian have been interested in the $7,000,000,000 holdings of enemy aliens, with the result that the Government controls some important businesses.

The Office of Price Administration has been trying to maintain its ceilings with injunctions.

The War Labor Board is working to solve employer-employee problems by mediation. In a few cases where strikes have affected war production the Government has directed the Army or Navy to take over plants temporarily.

The Post Office Department has been active against some newspapers and magazines on two grounds—printing either seditious or seditious matter.

The Federal Trade Commission complained against the advertising practices of some of the largest tobacco companies.

FBI Opposes Axis Spies.

Biggest single project is the work of 4,000 agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation who match wits and daring with the secret agents of the Axis countries. They have broken up two major spy rings, rounded up two bands of spy saboteurs who landed from submarines and restrained other enemies within the country so completely that Attorney General Biddle has been able to report complete absence of organized sabotage thus far.

The Anti-Trust and Criminal Divisions of the Justice Department and their offspring, the War Frauds Unit, have accounted for much of the other activity.

The Anti-Trust Division has under way an investigation of the entire transportation industry which will involve the largest segment of business ever covered by a Sherman Act inquiry. The division also has gone into court against the nearly 1,300 member newspapers of the Associated Press in an effort to force the association to open its membership to any one willing and able to pay the cost of the service.

Action on Other Fronts.

On dozens of smaller fronts—from contracts for window cleaning to violations of War Production Board orders—the Anti-Trust Division has been active. Such giants of industry as E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., General Electric Co. and Standard Oil of New Jersey have been indicted on charges of restraint of production, distorting markets or fixing of prices in materials needed for the war effort.

The Criminal Division brought charges of seditious conspiracy against 28 persons in one group and of aiding the eight Nazi saboteurs against a dozen others. In addition, it is constantly active in lesser cases as the prosecuting arm of the Justice Department. Evidence gathered by the FBI goes to the Criminal Division for use in court.

The War Frauds Unit has been prosecuting alleged collusion bidding on contracts with the Government. Several indictments already have been obtained.

Enemies' Wealth Frozen.

The Alien Enemy Control Unit oversees the 1,100,000 residents who are subjects of enemy countries. About 10,000 have been taken into custody for hearings and more than half the 7,000 cases disposed of have resulted in internment for the duration.

The alien property custodian has seized many millions of dollars of Axis-owned property, to operate it for the duration. In addition, he has taken over all Axis-held patents and made these available to American producers. The great bulk of the enemy's wealth in America—about $7,000,000,000—is virtually dormant under freezing orders of the Treasury.

In some instances the Treasury has sought to sever relationships between American and German firms and to compel United States companies to compete actively with the foreign companies in the South American market.

Agudarth Ackim Installs Maisei as President

Paul Maisei was installed as the new president of the Agudarth Achim Congregation at a meeting at the congregation's headquarters, 909 Quackenbos street N.W. Other officers installed were:

Louis Robbin, first vice president; Bernard C. Wehl, second vice president; Isadore Brem, secretary; Theodore Rose, financial secretary, and Israel Bern, treasurer.

The retiring president, Jacob Reikind, was named an honorary president for a year.

Questions and Answers

Marbleized Paper Very Effective Covering for Surface of Table

By Margaret Nowell

Dear Miss Nowell: Some time ago I read in the paper about a marbleized paper to be used on the tops of furniture such as tables, dressers, etc. I have inquired every place where I thought they might sell it, but without results. They all say they never have heard of it. Will you kindly tell me where I could purchase some? Also, does it come in sheets, and what is their size? Does it come in different colors?

ANSWER—The larger wallpaper stores carry marbleized paper in about 6 different colors. The sheets are 32 by 40 inches and they are matched so that four of them make a complete pattern. They cost $1.80 a sheet. One sheet would do a table top nicely. On a larger top you would want to match and center the pattern, so there would be some waste. They are very beautiful in color and pattern and cannot be distinguished from real marble at a distance.

Dear Miss Nowell: I have several very expensive silk lamp shades which are badly soiled. Is it possible to clean or wash these? I have heard that they can be shampooed at home. If so, will you tell me how to go about it?

ANSWER—There are several fine upholstery cleaners that are useful for this purpose, or you may make a live suds of mild soap and use that with a soft sponge to get good results. Remove all edgings and banding that may be stuck on. Sponge with the suds, a small area at a time, and then wipe over the cleaned space with clear, cool water. Proceed to the next area. A light touch and very little moisture is the secret of the whole thing. Do not place in the sun but on a table in an airy place so they will dry as quickly as possible. Use an up and down stroke and be sure to overlap sufficiently so that there will not be soiled marks on the finished product. If you feel that this is too much of a task, the professional cleaners can do a very good job for you, especially if your shades are of good material and well made.

Dear Miss Nowell: I have a maple bed of the spool type, which is not unusual in any way. It is a reproduction and the proportions are nice, but the finish and the wood are mediocre. I also have a fine mahogany chest of drawers which is in good condition, but needs refinishing. I would like to use the two pieces in the same room. Could the bed be refinshed to match the chest? I also have a wood-framed mirror that does not match either piece. This is all good furniture that might be used to furnish this room if I could just make them look as though they were related. K. C.

ANSWER—To remove all the finish from the maple bed is quite a job, especially at the spool turnings are so difficult, and for this reason I would not suggest that you try to refinish the maple bed to match the mahogany. As it is not a fine piece, seems too bad to waste that much effort on it. If the chest would be better to paint the bed, and possibly decorate it. Select a color (or antique white) that would be interesting in the room. Paint the mirror frame to match the bed and decorate it to match also. Then repeat the mahogany beside the bed in a night table, and you may also find a small chair that can be painted to match the bed. With a combination of the painted and decorated pieces and your nice mahogany, the room will look as though you planned it that way.

Dear Miss Nowell: We wish to put up a fence around our "back yard" to screen it from the neighbors and also to make a background for planting next summer, but we cannot decide what color to paint it. The house is red brick with white trim, but as the garden is not seen from the street, it does not seem to affect it. R. D. S.

ANSWER—A white fence gives a very neat, trim effect, especially if it is a picket fence, but it is very noticeable and has the effect of making the garden seem smaller and "hemming you in." With plenty of space, however, this is very nice, as the green foliage looks well against it. Personally, I do not care for green, as "paint" green never seems to go with "foliage" green, and they clash in a good way. With plenty of space, however, this is very nice, as the green foliage looks well against it. From a Woman's Angle - - -
Good Ice Cream Is Always a Treat; Nice Way to Supply Milk Quota
By Betsy Caswell,
Woman's News Editor.

The American housewife has always been a careful buyer of food. If it hasn't been carefully kept in the store, she doesn't want it. If the color and freshness aren't up to par, she shakes her head and shops somewhere else.

This fussiness has paid dividends; for, in many respects, Americans have long been the world's best-fed people. And today, they're being better fed than ever—in spite of wartime shortages.

The American housewife, largely inspired by the national nutrition program, is becoming increasingly fussy about the food she serves her family. She still wants the price right. She still wants it fresh and colorful. She still wants it appetizing. And, in addition, she wants it nourishing.

This new attitude toward foods has resulted in some casualties among old-time favorites. Others, not always so popular, have won new favor. Still others are in greater favor. In brief, the American housewife is reevaluating the various items of diet—and one of her chief standards of value is nutrition.

Dairy products, always popular, now seem to rate higher than ever. And one dairy product, which has been eaten mainly for pleasure in the past, is now being regarded as a genuine food rather than an end-of-the-meal treat. This is ice cream.

For years, leading medical authorities, dietitians and nutrition experts have endorsed ice cream for its food-value. But the American people paid little or no attention and went ahead eating their ice cream cones, sundaes, sodas and plates of strawberries, vanilla and chocolate simply because they tasted good. Now, they're beginning to realize that they're probably better off, physically, because of all this ice cream eating!

With the food-value of ice cream becoming generally recognized, and with the wartime stress on nutrition being what it is, the minerals, vitamins and proteins of ice cream are being counted in with the daily allotments supplied by other foods.

Many housewives have learned that a single serving of ice cream supplies sufficient essential nutrients to change an unbalanced meal into a balanced one. The reason for this is apparent, when it is realized that milk should be a part of every meal. Millions of people admit this, but rebel at drinking their full share of milk. Yet those who will rebel at a serving of ice cream are few and far between—and ice cream, by weight, is 80 per cent pure milk and cream! So, American housewives reason—with one eye on the nutrition chart—"I'll make them eat part of it. And this dish of ice cream will do the trick!"

One of the best things about ice cream is that you can make it yourself at home, or you can buy it ready made, and tuck it away in the freezing tray of your ice box to await your pleasure. It is always available, always at hand, and always a source of needed food values.

"Roll your own"—or buy it at the corner store—you've got America's favorite dessert either way!

Now that porters are as scarce as rubber tires, it seems to me we ought to begin to learn how to carry our own bags. Of course, you always can grip the handle with your hand and tug. And if you have four bags instead of two, the trick is to carry two at a time and make two trips.

But all that seems very primitive. I don't see why we don't take a tip from our allies, the Chinese, and start carrying things on poles. The Chinese have two ways. Either one man takes the pole and hangs a bundle from each end of it, balancing the pole on his shoulder . . . or else two people take the pole, one at each end, and the bundle balances in the middle. Either way ought to work, if you are equipped with a pole.

I suggest that we start with our umbrellas and our husbands' canes. Once we have learned to carry things properly with them, then we really might get out an old broomstick every time we go traveling and carry our bags properly.

Simple and striking is this outstanding dinner gown of black crepe designed by Nettie Rosenstein and featured in today's fashion show for the benefit of the British-American Ambulance Corps. The American Beauty velvet roses at the high neckline are repeated at the point of the skirt drapery which is caught high to reveal the wearer's black satin evening slippers with multicolored bows.

Learn to Sew a Fine Seam

Home Stitchery Has New Importance In Wartime Conservation Plan

By Helen Vogt

What once was almost an apology is fast turning into a boast. Women who have made their own clothes for years used to try to disguise the fact, more or less, and did their best to make the home version look as nearly as possible like the "store-bought" model. Today there's a turnabout. If you're smart enough to create your fashions, you're entitled to do a little restrained bragging about it, receiving compliments on a new dress with the modest words, "Oh, it's just a little thing I whipped up the other evening while listening to 'Information Please.'"

Since the start of the war, women have made home sewing a fashion, along with those other fashions of conserving and saving. Moreover, they're putting originality and thought into these creations and achieving those distinctive touches that are the trademark of the fine dressmaker. This year it's possible to be your own stylist, to turn out clothes that are well made and "different" and which often gain individuality through the use of leftovers, scraps or odd bits.

Many are the suggestions which have been offered on this subject lately, books written, sewing centers come into being and women generally encourage to learn or relearn this thrifty art. The stylists, too, have their own ideas about what you can do to turn out a smart wardrobe at home, and some of these suggestions we're passing on to you today. Many of them are direct "staples" from well known designers; others are original ideas which may give you an inspiration all your own.

For example, you can work wonders with pockets. You may not use patch pockets of wool on a woolen suit or dress, that's against WPB wishes. However, you may use contrasting scraps of materials, bits of fur, trimming material, crocheted or knitted string or yarn—all smart and successful. Then you may match these with other trimming at neckline or belt, in cuffs or buttons.

If you're using a short remnant of fabric, consider the use of a contrasting yoke, maybe a knit or crocheted one. Other yarn bits for interest are a crocheted edge on neckline, sleeves or hem, fringe used in the same way, or a bib front of crocheted.

Co-ordination and ensembling are important in home sewing, for they emphasize that "hand-made look." Along these lines you may have necklines and hemlines to match, scalloped, trimmed in applique or handwork of any kind, edged in upholstery fringe or looped wool. Neckline "transformations" suggested by designer Lyolene, formerly of the Paris couture and now working in New York, should also give you some hints as to what you may do with "odds and ends." She suggests a pastie taffeta jabot onto a band which has buttonholes to match the buttons down the front of the dress. Or makes a big fluffy bow of black velvet for the neckline of a black dress and attaches it to a front panel with buttonholes for your dress buttons.

Incidentally, you can do amazing and wonderful things with buttons, old or new. String them on a cord for bracelet or necklace to match the ones on your dress. Cement

Patriotic Duty Of Children To Assist

Helping With Work Frees Parents for Essential Jobs

By Lettice Lee Street

We all want to be honest with our children, and we also want to give them small responsibilities gradually so that they will not sag under the real load they will have to carry when they are grown. The inevitable time will come when they will divorce themselves from us and their homes; we want them to be ready and self-reliant.

Right now mothers may help make their children conscious of responsibility by letting them understand that they are citizens of this country who can do a real service in wartime.

In a home whose father has joined the armed service, or left for another city to labor in war industries, or who is seldom at home, even over week ends, because of his long working hours, much of the burden of the home formerly assumed by him is now dumped heavily upon his wife's shoulders.

There it is, another load, but the mother does not complain, she is a soldier on the home front. She does not show her worry before her children but she should not protect them from reality. Youngsters as old as 7, 8, 9, 10 and up can be a real help—and it is very good for them to do their share and to receive appreciation for their efforts.

To evade the war in the home is weak, it is not being honest, not being patriotic and will make children soft. It will also deprive them of the glorious feeling of being worth while to their country in times when every man, woman and child can do his share.

But children have to be led and inspired, and every little boy and girl can be told exactly what he or she can do. It is easy to fire a child's enthusiasm—and patriotism is inflammatory!

Here are some of the things boys and girls may do to help Uncle Sam: A clever mother can make it clear that their work is not for her alone, it is to help daddy at war. It is to help their wonderful country.

Boys who envy the fighting men will turn eagerly to tasks if told that by working they free a man to fight, or to take his important place in war factories.

A boy can cut the grass for his mother and for the neighbors, he can sweep the sidewalk, carry out trash and ashes, bring in wood, go to the store for packages and thus save tires and gasoline, take care of his clothes because wool is needed for overcoats for fighting men, wash his rubbers, clean the furnace, be a "sis" but because this will save leather which wears out more quickly when it is wet.

Girls should learn to do housework in times of war or peace. I believe, no matter what one's financial status, domestic helpers are going to be more and more scarce because millions of women will be called to war work.

We have all read in the newspapers the splendid job that boys and girls all over the country are doing in collecting scrap metal—keeping it up! Children who buy War savings stamps with part of their allowances should feel very proud.

Boys and girls! The jobs mother asks you to do at home are not just dull duties, they are a patriotic need in times when every citizen has to help if he is to win the war. Uncle Sam calls on you, and you and YOU!

Why Grow Old Question Box

By Josephine Louman

1. "Will you please send me some different ideas to make a party a success? This particular one is going to be for a boy who has just enlisted in the Navy. The party will be given very soon, in two weeks, so hurry."

ANSWER—Sorry to fail you. This is out of my line, but I would have tried. However, by the time I could possibly get this answer in print it would be too late.

2. "What can be used for a clear white skin? I have heard of milk and also lemons. Are rosy cheeks with lipstick prettier than a white face and lipstick?"

ANSWER—A clear white skin requires careful cleansing and a lubricating cream only. I imagine that lemons would be too strong for it and besides you do not need a bleach. Milk or cream would be good. Many smart women use no rouge but lipstick and eye make-up only. This depends on your skin.

If it has natural glow perhaps a little lipstick alone would be most becoming. On the other hand, some women look too white without rouge and lipstick stands out on the white face garishly. I would say go light on rouge and use your own judgment as to what is best for you.

3. "What sport do you think is best for the longest time? I just learned tennis when they said I was too old to play it."

ANSWER—Swimming. It can be indulged in all your life.

Jerkin, Skirt And Blouse Pattern

By Dorothy Murray

Tie This One! . . . The man who is a fiend about keeping his ties in apple-pie order can be kept happy with an attractive wooden tie rack equipped with small pegs. It makes the selection of the "tie-for-the-day" an easy matter, as each one rests in uncrumpled solitude on its own peg. The rack also is equipped with a helpful guide on color harmony so he will not appear in public with such weird combinations as green socks, blue tie and red handkerchief.

More Living Room . . . Added drawer space is always welcome and in small apartments it is almost necessary. An excellent way to increase your storage space is to purchase a neat cabinet sturdily constructed and gaily covered in flowered chintz. These come in several sizes with a corresponding number of compartments, and there is a wide selection of colors from which to choose.

Well-Dressed Babies . . . Gold-filled baby pins are really wonderful to include among the infant's accessories. In this day when maid service is so hard to get, most young mothers have all the work to do themselves, so they'll be pleased to eliminate the extra time and trouble it takes to sew those lovely pink and blue rayon satin bows on the tiny garments after each laundering. Now, of course, attaching the bows with just an ordinary pin is not in keeping with the daintiness of one so young, so that's where these engraved and inexpensive ones come in handy. Some have a simple engraved design for decoration, others have enameled tops, plain or flowered. Only two pins come on a card, but because of their small cost, it is practical to keep a supply on hand.

Shower Suggestion . . . Other excellent articles include among baby's equipment are covers for his bottles. These are made of terry cloth along the lines of the knitted covers which absorb the moisture on beverage glasses. The bottle covers come in sets of four and are packaged in attractive boxes covered with "babyish" designs. Consider this if you're seeking something different in the way of a shower gift.

To Go to Your Head . . . If you are one of the many young ladies who insist upon going without a hat, you might wear a large flower or bow in your hair as a passable substitute. The new fall and winter supply is now on display and the collection includes, among others, large felt flowers in dark colors and huge bows of velvet ribbon. These are neatly attached to combs to keep them securely on top of your head.

Hobby-Happy . . . Scrap books made especially to take care of the match folders so many people collect as a hobby are on display in several local shops. The cover of the album is made of simulated leather and each page has a series of twin slits which allow the folders to be flattened out. Directions and suggestions on the best way to arrange the covers, such as by State, city or section, are included in these books.

Tasty Tidbits Most good cooks cut ripe olives in good-sized wedges for Spanish casseroles. But try small or medium sized whole ripe olives the next time you get hungry for one of these chilli-flavored tomato sauce entrees. Ripe olives, whole, hot and chili-spiced, make delicious tidbits.

HELPS PREVENT COLDS From Developing . . . At the first sneeze, sniffle or sign of nasal irritation, put a few drops of Vicks Vapo-rin up each nostril. Its quick action aids nature's defense against colds.

Manners of the Moment

Now that porters are as scarce as rubber tires, it seems to me we ought to begin to learn how to carry our own bags. Of course, you always can grip the handle with your hand and tug. And if you have four bags instead of two, the trick is to carry two at a time and make two trips.

But all that seems very primitive. I don't see why we don't take a tip from our allies, the Chinese, and start carrying things on poles. The Chinese have two ways. Either one man takes the pole and hangs a bundle from each end of it, balancing the pole on his shoulder . . . or else two people take the pole, one at each end, and the bundle balances in the middle. Either way ought to work, if you are equipped with a pole.

I suggest that we start with our umbrellas and our husbands' canes. Once we have learned to carry things properly with them, then we really might get out an old broomstick every time we go traveling and carry our bags properly.

JEAN.

WE'VE ENLISTED! U.S. NEEDS US STRONG. EAT NUTRITIONAL FOOD.

Meet the Johnson family—they've enlisted. Enlisted in Uncle Sam's program for better nutrition. They know that nutritious foods can help win the war, for the right foods build the health, strength, stamina and energy the nation needs today. The Johnsons eat the right foods every day as part of their wartime duties.

Let Schneider's Dandee Enriched White Bread provide the basis for your own better nutrition program! This delicious bread is extra nourishing because it's extra rich in Vitamin B1, Niacin, (another important B vitamin) and iron. All these factors in proper amounts are essential to health. And you find them all in this enriched loaf in addition to the basic food-energy value of good white bread.

Remember—Bread is Basic! Eat plenty of Schneider's Dandee Enriched White Bread every day. It's the kind of white bread Uncle Sam urges people to eat! Schneider's DAN-DEE Enriched WHITE BREAD CHARLES SCHNEIDER BAKING CO.

'The Navy Comes Through' Tribute to Gun Crews

New Picture at Keith's Glorifies Courage of Sailors on Convoys

By ANDREW R. KELLEY.

Among the heroes of the sea who endure the perils and hazards of warfare are sailor crews of the merchant marine, and "The Navy Comes Through," new picture at RKO-Keith's Theater high lights their courage in surface battles with the enemy.

For excitement and thrills this is one of Hollywood's best features, abounding in action and, with it all, weaving in romance. The story stems from Boyden Chase's fiction, "Pay to Learn," is based upon experiences which the author underwent while serving on a sub-chaser in the last World War.

The saga of the merchant marine ship Sybil Gray, with a naval crew aboard, stages battle scenes of realism, with Nazi planes downed by machine gun fire, submarines outwitted and sunk by Yankee ingenuity.

O'Brien in Uniform. Pat O'Brien plays the role of chief petty officer in charge of a small crew of bluejackets assigned to a merchant marine vessel in convoy service.

Since the crew feels that Murphy showed a lack of courage under fire, his relations with fellow sailors are unpleasant. CPO O'Brien also nurses resentment because his sister, Jane Wyatt, is romantically attached to the former officer.

Director Sutherland maintains a brisk pace and the feature can be commended to those who like to applaud the valor of our fighting men.

Hollywood persists in placing in the shadow of the Capitol, making the same error as "War Against Mrs. Hadley," which placed the War Department at the back door of congressional headquarters.

Supplementary attractions include the Pathe news reel, Walt Disney cartoon, "The Sleep Walker," and Variety Views with a travelogue on India.

Army Show for Europe. Eddie Dowling's dramatic experiment with William Saroyan and Gilbert K. Chesterton goes into the records as a "failure."

"This Is the Army," with Irving Berlin, will be flown to England some time in February with soldiers overseas given a chance to cheer it in the camps.

Maxwell Anderson has withdrawn his new play, "Eve of St. Mark."

Bing Crosby as Minstrel In 'Dixie,' Done in Color

HOLLYWOOD—Make-believers at work! Slapstick and technicolor are introduced for the first time in Paramount's "Dixie," story of Dan Emmett, originator of the minstrel show.

But here we find Director Eddie Sutherland attempting to whip the old enigma. He stages his color brawl in a cafe kitchen, where the white of the chef's outfits offsets the gleaming copper utensils in the background.

Bing, as Dan Emmett, who authored the song "Dixie," and De Wolfe as Mr. Bones, prototype of all the minstrel end men, have eaten a sumptuous meal in the cafe, but unable to pay for it, have been herded into the kitchen by Fortunio Bonanova, the headwaiter.

The slapstick role is a slight departure for Bonanova, who for the past four months has been playing Fernando, imperturbable and dignified guerrilla fighter in "For Whom the Bell Tolls." He is a little worried for fear the cake episode seem too completely undignified in contrast.

Knowing George M. Cohan for a generation was to know an actor with a great heart. His personal benefactions were extensive, but he preferred to keep them secret.

Mickey Rooney Bounces Into Halls of Eton

The Expected Result Is Havoc Of Foolish, Unseemly Nature; Bonnie Baker Sings on Stage

By J. W. STEFF.

To the Capitol Theater yesterday came the second in the recent series of bloopers of good old bland, lackadaisical Hollywood, which by this time probably has been thoroughly awakened to a wartime watchdog.

Which more or less brings us back to "A Yank at Eaton," starring Mickey Rooney. No one bothered about a story for this one. No one expects anything of a Mickey Rooney picture but Mickey Rooney.

Master Rooney, who isn't exactly boyish any longer, spends most of his time disgruntled with the thought and fact of going to school at the English institution. He hoots at its customs, mocks British dialect, leads his classmates into indignities—all, no doubt intended to be funny, but proving almost vulgar and certainly ridiculous instead.

Pepper Sees Need Of Fighting Spirit For U. S. Victory

Federal Bar Association Speaker Says Fear Ties Tongues on Post-War

Senator Pepper of Florida yesterday called on America to display a fighting war spirit.

Americans have not made up their minds to win the war, as contrasted with Axis peoples "hardened by years of ordeal and discipline," he told a luncheon meeting of the Federal Bar Association at the Harrington Hotel.

"Our soldiers, sailors and marines are fighting because when one shoots at you, you shoot back in self-defense," Senator Pepper said. "Can civilians win, however, if we keep thinking only about ourselves, our jobs, our immediate horizon and blot out the fate of other peoples? We are not spiritually refined in the crucible of war to make us a dynamic force throughout the world. If we do survive, it will be a conquest of the spirit over the body."

He said America is "afraid to talk about a post-war world, because we might offend somebody." He added that "every sensible Englishman knows the British Empire faces restriction, not expansion."

Liberalism in this country has encountered resistance for the past two years, Senator Pepper said, adding that Tuesday's election proves "the trend of the country is definitely more conservative."

He flayed pre-war isolationists who discounted Hitler's menace to the world and also paid his respects to "some responsible members of our State Department who, up to a few months ago, were saying Hitler would collapse this year."

Robert N. Anderson, president, who introduced Senator Pepper, announced that Gifford Pinchot, former Governor of Pennsylvania, will be the speaker next Thursday.

The Vanquishing American Makes War in the Heart of Kansas

THE Vanishing American and his war paint are gone from the plains of Kansas these many years.

But war has come back to Kansas—and finds in the Vanquishing American of today a better, craftier, more resourceful fighter. He fights where he is, with what he has. He fights for ~~his~~ liberty and freedom to the everlasting glory of the "little fellow" with the ingenuity and skill and individual initiative that built this country in the first place.

In Collier's out today Denver Lindley tells the story. It breathes reassurance that the "little fellows" really understand all-out war—and they're fighting it, American fashion.

Out of chicken hatcheries, garages, back rooms of old stores in Wichita—out of tents erected under the trees and out of factories built on the open plains from old oil derricks, come giant glider transports for our Army. And these Kansans are but typical of the "little fellows" everywhere in America.

Collier's writes of and for people of action. Well written, it's easily read. Where the heat of public interest is most intense—be it home front or battle line or diplomacy arena—there you'll find Collier's staff men. Such editorial vigilance produces a natural vehicle for the advertiser's own report. Small wonder that advertisements in Collier's are getting such thorough and responsive reading.

Battle of Ace Centers to Spice Georgetown-N. C. Navy Game Tomorrow Night

Win, Lose or Draw

By FRANCIS E. STAN.

Reuben, Reuben, We've Been Thinking . . . Etc. Now that the Nation's big college football teams are moving down the stretch a plugging question arises: What will the Washington powers-that-be do about post-season spectacles and the transportation problems in connection with them?

As It Was in Peacetime Years

But the transportation bugaboo is something with which to reckon and deep down inside sports people admit it. The football peepies have their fingers and toes crossed. The baseball folk are putting up a brave front and speak optimistically of a full season in 1943, but they are by no means certain that there'll be any such sport. And the big reason is fear of a crack-down on civilian travel.

An Aisle's the Style for Grid Stars

It was during the World Series last October that baseball people, at least, became aware of the true import of the transportation problem. When the Series moved from St. Louis to New York the players were lucky to get first-class accommodations. The newspapermen who made the grade were miracle men.

Make-Shift Hammocks, Old Doors Lure Sandman

It's getting worse all the time and along these lines we have the word of the Joe Folliess people—the nicest sports folk in the world—that nothing short of ingenuity will make things more comfortable. The Folliess show, still the grandest in the sports-show business, used to go from town to town in big-league style. The transportation brass hats whittled them down. Instead of Pullman, all to themselves, these magnificent ice-skaters scramble for coach seats like Joe Blow and all of his relatives.

Ladies Keep Big Ice Show Going

Make no mistake about it, the Folliess come under the heading of sports. Messrs. Roy and Eddie Shipstad, president and manager of the Folliess, seem to be in the class of Ziegfeld as far as formations, lighting, beauty, etc., are concerned. Essentially, though, the main performers are athletes. Only a real athlete can qualify for a major role in the Folliess, now running at Riverside Stadium.

Old Liners Twelfth In Nation in Total Football Offense

Maryland's grid squad took along an enviable offensive record when it left last night for Durham, N. C., where the Old Liners will play the Duke Blue Devils tomorrow in a Southern Conference game. Maryland has piled up 1,822 yards in six games, five of which it has won 974 by passing and 848 by rushing, for an average of 304 yards per contest, it is revealed in figures from the American Football Statistical Bureau. This puts the Old Liners in twelfth place in the Nation on total offense and in a class with such outfits as the Iowa Seahawks, Tennessee, Indiana and Arizona, ahead of them by a slim margin.

Underdog Colonials May Give Clemson Real Argument

CLEMSON, S. C., Nov. 6.—Clemson's surprising Tigers, whose tie with Virginia Military Institute was one of the season's biggest surprises, will be the favorite over George Washington in their Southern Conference clash tomorrow, but the Colonials were expected to make a real fight of it. Once before this season Coach Johnny Baker brought the M. V. South and it almost upset the dope before bowing to The Citadel, 14-2, in a ripping, slashing duel, so Clemson will be on guard. The Colonials were due here early this afternoon and were to work out in the Clemson stadium.

Cameraman Muffs Big Touchdown

By the Associated Press. CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 5.—The man with the very red face hereabouts the last week is the operator of the Harvard movie camera at the football games. His films failed to show Harvard's deciding touchdown over Princeton last week, the only game the Crimson has won this season.

Setter Wins Field Trials

BRISTOL, Va., Nov. 6 (AP).—Beau Essign's Don, a smooth working setter owned by Virgil P. Hawes of Staunton, Va., won the members all-age stake, which closed out the 18th annual Tennessee fall trials.

Kovach Rated All-America By Crowley

Hagerty Sees Derringer As Worthy Foe; Many Stars With Visitors

Service team players probably won't be eligible for All-America honors this season but Jimmy Crowley has a center on the North Carolina Pre-Flight Cloudbusters who he thinks could make them all in Joe Kovach, 190-pound former Fordham reserve. Crowley couldn't be far wrong because the boy last year was picked on Francis Wallace's All-America sophomore eleven for a Nation-wide magazine, but Kovach is expected to furnish additional evidence tomorrow night when the Cloudbusters square off with Georgetown at Griffith Stadium. He's a solid-blocking, bone-bending tackler and one of the big reasons why none of the Sailors' previous opponents have gotten the ball past the 15-yard stripe on running plays.

Frosh Appear to Lend Punch To Football, Survey Shows

Teams Using Them Have Higher Scoring Averages Than Last Year, A. P. Finds

By HAROLD DEANSEN, Associated Press Sports Writer. NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—All those dire predictions of second-rate football early this fall because various conferences and independent elevens augmented their slender supply of gridiron talent by use of freshmen aren't borne out in a survey made by the Associated Press.

Robinson Is Heavily Favored to Defeat Dellicurti Tonight

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Although Ray Robinson, Harlem's tap-dancing, zoot-suited fighter, is a heavy favorite to win his 38th consecutive professional bout tonight, approximately 10,000 fans are expected for his 10-round scrap with Vic Dellicurti in Madison Square Garden.

Robinson Is Heavily Favored to Defeat Dellicurti Tonight

It will be Robinson's second start in the middleweight ranks, having easily polished off Jake Lamotia recently. The Harlem Hammerer will take a 12-pound weight handicap into the ring with him against Dellicurti but expects to offset this with his heavier attack, longer reach and his greater height. Dellicurti will weigh in the neighborhood of 136, while Robinson, who exhausted the supply of welterweight opposition while building up his victory string, will come in at about 144.

Redskins in Top Fettle for Cardinal Game, Final Big Test of Eastern Drive

Galloping Goldberg, Pitching Schwenk Menace Tribe

Invaders' Record Isn't Impressive, but They Can Be Dangerous

Come what may Sunday when they meet the Chicago Cardinals on the home lot, the Redskins are in the finest physical condition they've been in for the stretch drive since "Doc" Mauro took command of the squad's health department.

Steve Silivinski has a swollen knee and hasn't been able to work at all this week, and Johnny Kovatch was in bed two days with a cold, but otherwise the Skins are shipshape for what promises to be a gruelling finish. At this stage of the campaign the Tribe usually has three or four key men in sick bay but fortune seems to be with them this year for they have needed all their manpower to remain on top in the Eastern division.

George Smith, still recuperating from a knee operation, is the only serious casual.

Game Is Genuine Test. Sunday's game is the last real test for Ray Flaherty's crew. The Cards' record is nothing to boast about but it is one of those teams that can be troublesome on a warm afternoon. It has a good passer in Bud Schwenk, one of the circuit's best running backs in "Biggie" Goldberg and is handled by one of the game's smartest coaches, Jimmy Conzelman. It's a combination that adds up to trouble in any company.

The Tribe's complement has been reduced by the loss of Johnny Good-year, rookie back from Marquette, who has been called to active duty by the Army Air Corps. Picked eighth by Flaherty on the strength of scout reports and eloquent recommendations, Good-year failed to attain the goal set for him. It is possible that he had more important things on his mind, such as the Army, but he was a much better player than he showed with the Tribe.

Not a Serious Loss. Johnny's departure will not affect seriously the team's plans, as Flaherty is relying more and more on veterans to see the club through the final stages of its drive to the Eastern title and has relegated back-field rookies to minor roles. Good-year's going, however, reduces the roster to 32 men, one under the legal limit.

Meanwhile, league statistics reveal Washington and Green Bay own the best balanced attacks in their respective divisions, although Green Bay has the lowest rushing offense in the ground-gaining machine. The Packers, still very much in the race for the Western division crown, have gained an even 2,224 yards, rolling up 1,206 through the air, while Washington has 1,906 to its credit and the Bears.

Green Bay, however, lacks the balance of the leaders, for the Skins have gained 944 yards rushing and 962 passing and the Bears have picked up 878 rushing and 895 passing.

Army Officials Silent On Possibility of Rose Bowl Tilt

East-West Game Okayed But Pasadena Hasn't Made Application

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Army authorities today would not comment on the possibility of the Rose Bowl game being played in its usual setting next New Year Day although Lt. Gen. John L. Dewitt, head of the Western Defense Command has approved plans for the return of the annual East-West game to this city.

William Coffman, general manager of the East-West all-star fray, sponsored by the Shriners for charity, announced in New York that the Army had approved plans for playing the game here this year. Last winter it was transferred hurriedly to New Orleans when the Army clamped down on all coast sports.

It could not be learned whether Rose Bowl officials had made a direct application to play the game but they recently voted to hold it if approval could be obtained. Last year the colorful spectacle was moved to Durham, N. C., where Oregon State, Coast Conference champion, defeated Duke. It is believed generally the Army will give the game the go-ahead.

During the early months of the war the Army maintained a strict policy of prohibiting large crowds for outdoor sports events. It was first relaxed in Pacific Coast League baseball when games were permitted under certain conditions. A few weeks ago nearby Bay Meadows race track was granted approval to operate and is running a 45-day meeting.

Dog Better Picker Than Grid Expert

By DICK HAWKINS, Associated Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA, Nov. 6.—In case you are taking these fantalk football predictions seriously, draw up a chair and let me tell you a story.

Last week my 15-year-old daughter decided to make her own selections. So she wrote the names of all Southern and Southeastern teams on large pieces of paper and did the same with the names of opponents.

Wadding the papers into balls after separating them into competing pairs, she threw each pair into the yard for her cocker spaniel to retrieve. The one he brought back first was her selection.

She beat me by one. What price 20 years of sports writing? Of course, the cocker is a remarkable dog.

Notre Dame, Wisconsin, Texas, Penn Among Grid Favorites

Missouri Picked Over Nebraska for Title; Defeat Seen for Maryland and G. W.

By HERB BARKER, Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Taking the weekly aim in the general direction of football winners (and hitting some, perhaps):

Wisconsin-Iowa: Not as easy as some might think. It seems certain that Wisconsin will have lost some of its flurging punch after the victory over Ohio State and Iowa boasts a real scoring punch when Tommy Farmer's pitching arm is in shape. Still, a vote for Harter, Hirsch, Schreiner and Wisconsin.

Notre Dame-Army: Normally this is close every year. It probably will be again. Despite the Penn defeat, Army is a well-rounded outfit and should extend the Irish to the limit. Doubtfully, Notre Dame.

Texas-Baylor: The upset of T. C. U. proved Baylor's class but even so this stubborn guesser goes along with Texas on this one.

Georgia-Florida: Frankie Sinkwich and his mates will have trouble getting "up" for this one but there is entirely too much class in the Georgia ensemble to permit any choice but Georgia.

Kentucky-Georgia Tech: Ditto on this one. Georgia Tech.

Temple-Boston College: If Boston's Eagles aren't the best team in the East somebody will have to prove it to this corner. Boston College.

A Vote for U. C. L. A.

U. C. L. A.-Oregon: Peculiar things happen to teams from Southern California when they invade the Northwest. Nevertheless, a determined ballot for U. C. L. A. heading, perhaps, for the Coast Conference title.

Pitt-Ohio State: This seems to come under the head of unfair competition. Ohio State.

Indiana-Minnesota: The Gophers are clicking in accustomed style now and that spells trouble for the Hoosiers, Minnesota.

South Carolina-Alabama: The Gamecocks have been a disappointment, Alabama.

Navy-Penn: Penn is the undisputed powerhouse of the East's Ivy League with a hard-bitten line and a set of great backs led by Bert Stiff. No reason to expect Navy to do more than make it close. Penn.

California-Southern California: Throw out the form charts here. California seems to have pulled itself together finally. The Trojans have had two weeks to get ready. All of which leaves us just where we started. On the flip of a coin, Southern California.

Harvard-Michigan: Perhaps this will be no run-away, but there's no reason to believe the Easterners can cope successfully with the Wolverines. Michigan.

Missouri-Nebraska: This should

G. W. High Has Tough Job in Game With John Marshall

Foe Is Unbeaten in 24 Games; W.-L. Is Host To Fairfax Eleven

George Washington High of Alexandria faces its toughest football assignment so far this season when it meets John Marshall High of Richmond tonight at 8 o'clock on the Alexandria school's gridiron.

The favored Justices have won 23 games with only one tie in that streak, which includes several one-sided victories over Washington high school teams. This year they defeated Eastern, 32-0, and last year they topped Eastern, 24-0, and Roosevelt, 39-0.

The Presidents are confident, though, of providing plenty of opposition, having won three of their latest four games, the other ending in a scoreless tie on that muddy night of October 16.

Another Virginia schoolboy football feature today has Fairfax meeting Washington-Lee this afternoon at Ballston. Fairfax is playing its first season in the Virginia Class A Conference.

Earlier this year it was topped by George Washington, 19-13, and today's score will give some basis for comparison between G. W. and W.-L. for their big game on Thanksgiving morning.

Probably close. N. C. State. Davidson-North Carolina: Taking North Carolina.

Skipping over the chalklines otherwise: Villanova over Iowa State; Tennessee over Cincinnati; Furman over Citadel; Clemson over George Washington; Iowa Naval over Fort Knox; Oklahoma over Kansas State; Oregon State over Montana; Tulsa over Oklahoma A. & M.; William & Mary over Randolph-Macon; Virginia Tech over Richmond; Virginia over Washington & Lee; Kansas over Washington (St. Louis); Lafayette over Rutgers; Colorado over Utah; Colorado State over Utah State; Denver over Brigham Young; Marquette over Manhattan; Santa Clara over Loyola.

Wildcats, Illinois Got Dark Start

By the Associated Press.

The first game between Northwestern and Illinois, which meet tomorrow, in 1892 was called because of darkness with the score knotted 16-16.

The contest was a Champaign, and only four Northwestern students went downstate to cheer the Wildcats. Since then the teams have clashed 35 times, with the Illinois holding a 17-15 victory edge, three games ending in ties.

Navy Regains Schnurr, Sure It Will Give Penn Hot Fight

By the Associated Press.

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 6.—Reassuring news for Navy followers about Saturday's football game against Penn at Philadelphia is that Tackle Fred "Buz" Schnurr, who, with Center Dick Fendon, has been one of the Middle's most durable players this season, will start at right tackle.

Injured against Notre Dame, Schnurr at first was due to miss Saturday's combat, but he has recuperated enough to go back into service.

Another shift in the line-up announced by Coach John E. (Billik) Whelchel sends Dave Collins of Newport News, Va., and Plebe Ben Chase of San Diego, Calif., to guard in place of Ed Salsig and Art Knox. Chase started the season at tackle but was shifted to guard. Collins, a senior, has done sterling work as Salsig's understudy.

Records make unbeaten, once-tied Penn an outstanding pre-game favorite, but Navy backers are conceding nothing. They predict a tight tense contest.

Steer to Be Slain If Baylor Loses

By the Associated Press.

WACO, Tex., Nov. 6.—The Baylor Bears should be able to handle the Texas Longhorns in their football game Saturday. For they have a real, live steer to practice on.

The steer was given to Frank Kimbrough, Baylor coach, by the Downtown Quarterback Club. If Baylor wins, he can keep the animal.

If Baylor loses, the steer will be butchered to provide steaks for the annual banquet for the team.

Virginia Tech's Eleven Consistent on Grid; Awaiting Spiders

By the Associated Press.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Nov. 6.—Virginia Tech's Gobblers, who play the University of Richmond Spiders tomorrow, are having their most steady season in history.

Week after week, with one exception, the Gobler running attack has rolled up the yardage while a sturdy defense has stacked up the ground game of rival elevens and forced them to take to the air.

In six games for which statistics were kept the Techmen have averaged 238 yards net per game by rushing while opponents were averaging only 75.

William and Mary's undefeated Indians, leaders of the Southern Conference, outgained the Techmen on the ground, netting 153 yards to Tech's 95.

Rates Tech and 'Bama As Good as Georgia

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 6.—As far as Coach Ab Kirwan of Kentucky is concerned Georgia isn't the best football team in the Nation.

He rates Georgia Tech and Alabama equally as good.

Kentucky lost to Georgia, 7 to 6, earlier in the season, and to Alabama, 14 to 0.

His Golf Tourney Off, Bing Crosby States

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 6.—Bing Crosby has announced that his annual $5,000 pro-amateur golf tournament, scheduled for January, at Rancho Santa Fe was out for the duration. He said that for military reasons it would be difficult to hold the contest.

The $10,000 Los Angeles Open has been canceled for the same reasons.

Davis to Aim for Kayo In Fighting Morales

Al (Bummy) Davis, who kayoed his first two opponents locally, will try to make it three in a row Monday night when he boxes Felix Morales in the top 8-rounder in a ring card at Turner's Arena.

Promoter Joe Turner is trying to arrange a holiday bout between Davis and Henry Armstrong, former welterweight champion now in the throes of a successful comeback and there is a good chance he'll succeed.

Beaten Buckeyes Still Leading in Offense

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Although Ohio State's Buckeyes suffered their first Big Ten defeat last Saturday they continue to lead the conference in total offense, followed by the team that beat them, Wisconsin.

The Buckeyes have averaged 362.5 yards in conference play while the Badgers have made 290 yards a game through rushing and passing.

Shetterly on Peddie Team

Henry T. Shetterly of Silver Spring, Md., is a member of the lightweight football team at Peddie School, Hightstown, N. J.

Coaches to Turn Cheer Leaders If W. and L. Defeats Virginia

By the Associated Press.

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 6.—The war cry around Lexington this week is "Beat those whoos!"

And if Washington and Lee manages to do so—beat the Virginia Cavaliers tomorrow—they're going to tear down the county courthouse, literally speaking, of course.

Some of the students at W. and L.—the ones who are particularly handy at promoting unusual activities—got an idea and the coaching staff—Head Coach Jerry Holstein, Cy Young, R. A. Smith and Bull Simmons—agreed to the proposition.

After the final whistle of tomorrow's home-coming battle, remember, if the Generals are victorious—the student body, team members still dressed in gridiron togs and the coaches will parade to the center of Lexington to the courthouse, where the coaches will be hoisted to the top of the structure and will step into the roles of cheer leaders.

"Listen, if we beat that bunch, TU

Tilts in Which Big Six Teams Play Figure To Be Red Hot

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 6.—This week's Big Six Conference football predictions: (Prediction record to date: 27 wins, 3 losses and 1 tie.)

Villanova over Iowa State—Clipper Smith's Villanova Wildcats clipped Manhattan—a team good enough to give Duquesne a licking, 32 to 0. The Cyclones continue to improve, but not enough for this one.

Kansas over Washington—Washington has Lee Tevis back in harness, and the game rates almost as a tossup.

Oklahoma over Kansas State—The Sooners have scored against only two of their six opponents. Here's a chance for them to catch up.

Missouri over Nebraska—Great Lakes took a lot out of the Tigers in giving the Missouri "T" a 17-to-0 crossing. Much hinges on the condition of Steuber and Bouldin.

Baseball Just Conditioner To Hank Greenberg Now

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—As far as Hank Greenberg is concerned, baseball is just a good game for conditioning soldiers.

Greenberg, former Detroit Tigers slugger, now is a lieutenant in the Army Air Forces, in charge of physical training at a Fort Worth, Tex., base.

"I can't talk baseball now; I haven't played in over a year," said Greenberg, here for a conference. "To me it's just a good conditioner for troops."

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 6.—Coach Frank Murray of Virginia still is going about the task of plugging the holes left in his backfield by injuries to George Grimes and Herbert Munnhall.

A saga of fortitude and bravery . . .

FROM THE PHILIPPINES

By Capt. W. L. Osborne and Capt. Damon Gause of the Philippine Command of the U. S. Army

In their own words, these two fighting Americans—who are believed to be the first American officers to escape from the Philippines since the fall of Corregidor—tell how they existed furtively for weeks in the barren mountains of Luzon . . . lived through blood-chilling hours in shark-infested waters . . . spent nearly two months in a twenty-foot broken down motor sailboat, surviving a forty-eight-hour raging typhoon hundreds of miles from land . . . dodging their way from somewhere in the Philippines to Australia.

For 159 days they fought to make good their escape. And their remarkable story, now appearing exclusively in The Star, tells every thrilling detail from the seige of Bataan to their safe arrival in Australia, where they were awarded Distinguished Service Medals by Gen. MacArthur. Don't fail to read it!

Kansas City Families Say OWI Menus Call For Too Much Meat

Government-Suggested Ration Being Tested By Three Households

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Nov. 6.—If space in their refrigerators and cash in their pocketbooks permit, three Kansas City families will finish a whole week's test of Government-suggested meat rationing menu tomorrow.

But it's quite a strain, they admit. Their comments: "We don't need that much meat." "We never buy that much; it's too expensive, too."

"We're not accustomed to that much meat and the bills are higher." And the mounting supply of leftovers, they agreed, requires lots of refrigerator space.

Housewife Puzzled. Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Sayers, the Ernest E. Petersons, with three children, and the Arthur W. Gilberts, with three children, began the test Sunday with menus supplied by the Office of War Information, specifying 2 1/2 pounds of meat a week for each adult and lesser amounts for the younger children.

Mr. Sayers is a war worker, Mr. Peterson a utility company employee and Mr. Gilbert an educator.

"Since Sunday we've accumulated a big assortment here," Mrs. Sayers reported in perplexed tones. "I'm wondering if that is quite right to do, in wartime and all. Maybe we can have guests and use up the extras."

"Since we started this," Mrs. Peterson agrees, "we've had phone calls and letters from lots of interested people—and I've only found one family that says they use that much meat."

Can't Find Bacon. She found three flaws in the menus, although meals are well balanced and appetizing: They don't use leftovers, they call for too much meat and they don't use enough eggs.

"I tell you it's pretty hard to stick to the menus," she added. They specify such items as oranges—"which are at their peak price right now."

Meats included for the week are: Sunday, lamb roast; Monday, soup and cold sliced lamb; Tuesday, pork chops; Wednesday, lamb pie; Thursday, Swiss steak; Friday, bacon and fish; Saturday, bacon in baked lima beans.

The very first day Mrs. Gilbert encountered trouble: "Why, it says bacon! We haven't been able to find any bacon for a long time!"

Marriage License Applications

Under D. C. law, couples must apply for a license on one day, wait three full days and receive their license on the fifth day. Sundays and holidays are counted the same as other days.
