Tobruk Falls, Nazis May Be Fleeing Tunisia

Rommel's Armies Apparently in Headlong Flight

(Earlier Story on Page A-1.) By ROGER D. GREENE, Associated Press War Editor. The great 2,500-mile Allied pincers sweep against the Axis armies in North Africa was fast closing today as British troops captured historic Tobruk, 80 miles inside Libya, and indications arose that the Axis might be quitting Tunisia.

From Agadir, westernmost landing place of American expeditionary forces in Morocco, to El Alamein, where the British Egyptian offensive started, the distance is approximately 2,500 miles, covering the whole arc of North Africa. American and British columns are now reported near or on the Tunisian border, 1,200 miles east of Agadir.

With the 305-mile British advance from El Alamein to Tobruk, the gap between the two armies thus stands at less than 1,000 miles. British headquarters announced that the victorious British desert armies entered Tobruk this morning and the Axis was in headlong flight.

They had previously captured Bardia, 15 miles inside Libya, and Hallaya ("Hellfire") Pass on the Egyptian-Libyan frontier. The German radio conceded the loss of the prize Mediterranean citadel within an hour after a special British war bulletin announced its capture.

This was the second time the port, in Axis hands since last June 22, had fallen to the British. Rommel in Wild Flight. Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's broken armies were now apparently in wild flight as the British reported that waves of RAF planes swept low over retreating Axis trucks and troop columns fleeing from Tobruk to Gazala, 30 miles further west.

British mobile columns were reported in hot pursuit of the retreating Nazis, who previously had abandoned most of their Italian Allies in the Egyptian desert in an attempt to make good their own escape.

AEF, Racing Rommel to Tripoli, Is Due to Reach Tunisia Today; Tobruk Re-Occupied by British

Nogues Reported Joining Darlan And Allies

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 13.—A powerful striking force of Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's combined British-American Army swept toward Tunisia today in strength which suggested that it might break on through and beat Field Marshal Rommel to Tripoli, the last major port of escape left after his headlong flight west of Tobruk.

There were many indications that this time the Axis was too late with too little in its effort to grab off Tunisia—and was well aware of it. A British announcement that RAF fighters had shot down six big Italian troop-carrying planes filled with German troops and flying north, probably from Tunisia, indicated that the Nazis might be hastily pulling out the garrisons they had rushed to that French protectorate.

Due to Cross Border Today.
Bright with prospects of continued Allied successes, this was the pattern of developments.
1. American assault troops leading the new British 1st Army were expected to cross the Tunisian frontier today, coming within 400 air-line miles of the great Libyan port of Tripoli, with little prospect of any resistance in Tunisia that they cannot handle.
2. Racing for safety, Marshal Rommel abandoned the historic siege port of Tobruk to the British this morning, too hard-pressed to put up a fight, with 600 air-line miles of desert trail between him and Tripoli.
3. French North Africa was adjusting quickly to its new role as a vast American-British offensive base, and the German-occupied Vichy radio said Gen. Auguste Nogues, former French commander general of Morocco, had joined Admiral Jean Darlan in allied councils at AEP-occupied Algiers.
4. An Allied spokesman declared here that "considerable numbers" of the German 1940 armistice commission in North Africa had been captured by the United States forces and presumably were considered prisoners of war.
5. Smuts Forecasts Great 1943.
Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, premier of the Union of South Africa, declared that the spectacular British-American campaign made possible a great Allied offensive year in 1943 which might end the war in 1944.
An Allied spokesman said preliminary and partial reports showed that United States casualties in the North African operation have been extremely light.
Observers here estimated that an American assault force which landed yesterday at Bone, 60 miles west of the Tunisian border, should cross that frontier easily today, leading the way for Lt. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's British 1st Army.
The Berlin radio broadcast a Vichy communique which said United States planes had bombed the Tunis airport. The Vichy radio said Tunis had alarms last night from 8:15 to 10:30 p. m. and from 6:10 to 6:45 a. m.
Axis radio broadcasts said both Marshal Petain and Pierre Laval had indicated an intention to remain in office and continue Vichy's collaboration policy. A dispatch to the Basler Arbeiter Zeitung (French newspaper, said the Havas (French) news agency had been taken over by the German service, DNB.
French Gen. Henri Honoré Giraud, who helped to swing Algeria and Morocco into the Allied camp, was denounced in a Vichy communique which declared he should not be obeyed "by troops or officials or the general population."
Marshal Petain's ministerial council said Gen. Giraud had "treacherously violated his official duties and betrayed his honor"; that Marshal Petain alone was to give the orders now.
The Allies played a trump in their bid for possession of the Toulon- (See AFRICA, Page A-2).

FENCE FOR VICTORY—As the campaign to salvage District fences, railings and ornamental grill-work gains momentum, William Smith, local scrap iron dealer, supervises the work of one of his laborers, Alf Johnson, who applies an acetylene torch to property owned by Mr. Smith's father, Joseph Smith, at 719 Mount Vernon place N.W. This fence measured approximately 112 lineal feet, weighed approximately 1,000 pounds. —Star Staff Photo.

Fence Scrap Expected To Yield at Least 500 Tons in D. C.

Owners Are Asked to Offer Material Through Accompanying Form

A thorough, carefully planned fence-scraping campaign will net the District at least 500 tons of salvageable iron and steel, William Smith, local junk dealer, estimated this morning as the Commissioners' Emergency Scrap Metal Committee moved swiftly to put the program into effect.

"That's a minimum estimate," said Mr. Smith, supervising a demolition job on his father's property at 719 Mount Vernon place N.W. to claim a 112-foot iron fence for an approximate 1,000-pound addition to the city's scrap collection.

The metal wholesaler, brother of Philip and Mark Smith, is one of the operators of the Joseph Smith & Sons' yard at 3610 Benning road N.E., site of one of the East's major processing plants.

Many Only Ornamental.

"There are plenty of fences around this town serving no purpose other than ornamental," he added. "And their dismantling would not necessarily detract from the beauty of the city. I'd say 500 tons—or 1,000,000 pounds—is a most conservative guess."

The Smith fence on Mount Vernon place, one of about four to be demolished during the last four weeks, is expected to proceed to open-hearth furnaces at steel mills several hundred—perhaps thousands—of a similar description within the next few months.

A plan for local collections, the main details of which already have been worked out, was approved by the District Commissioners yesterday on the recommendation of Col. Joseph D. Arthur, jr., Assistant Engineer Commissioner and chairman of the Emergency Committee.

All persons with fences, railings, gates, grillwork, etc. to donate to the District drive are asked to fill out the form appearing daily in The Star and other newspapers.

Dismantling Arranged.

According to the plan, as approved yesterday, the Repair Department of the District will dismantle all material donated to the Government, "satisfactorily to the donor."

The Star and other papers, in cooperation with the District Salvage Committee, will act as a clearing house for information concerning the availability of the materials requested.

Readers are asked to mail The Star form to the Salvage Committee, 412 Albee Building, Fifteenth and G streets N.W., where a collection program, based on the response among private householders to President Roosevelt's latest plea for scrap metal, will be organized.

Because of the vastness of the project, one of the most comprehensive undertaken to date in the District's quota-shattering scrap-metal drive, collections must await the ironing out of complete details, a matter which may consume several weeks.

Early Offers Asked.

Salvage leaders pointed out, however, that the sooner available fences are donated, the easier it will be to work out a collection schedule. Residents are asked not to grow impatient if they do not receive immediate response to their offer of the metals.

The fence-scraping program among private dwellings will be preceded in the immediate future by a District Government campaign aimed at accumulating approximately 55,000 pounds of fences and railings.

The fence-scraping plan approved by the Commissioners asks for "fences, railings, gates, grillwork and similar articles not needed for real protective purposes, or not otherwise performing an essential function and not of irreplaceable historic or artistic value."

Sources for these, the announcement says, are private dwellings, grounds, gardens, institutions, churches, businesses, commercial establishments and private schools.

Get In the Scrap! 200,000 Pounds of Metal Expected in Scrap Matinees

41 Theaters to Open Doors at 9:30 A.M. Tomorrow, With 10 Pounds As 'Ticket'

Forty-one theaters may add 200,000 pounds of scrap metal—iron, steel and non-ferrous items—to the District campaign total tomorrow in the first of three local "scrap matinees," a spokesman for the motion picture interests estimated today.

The theaters will open their doors to scrap donors at 9:30 a.m. with 10 pounds of scrap metal as the price of admission.

"Scrap matinees" will run from 10 a.m. to 12 o'clock noon. The theaters' regular Saturday matinees are scheduled later.

Donors are asked to observe the following suggestions closely:

1. Bring only scrap iron and steel. Do not bring rubber and rags.
2. Bring at least 10 pounds of scrap iron and steel.

Other Matinees for Rags.

Future "scrap matinees" dates for which will be announced later, will be devoted to the collection of rubber and rags, according to William C. Ewing, assistant to Frank La Face of the District division of the War Activities Committee of the motion picture industry.

A rough estimate of tomorrow's attendance, based on an average of 500 for each of the 41 showhouses, would place the total audience at approximately 20,000, he said. At 10 pounds of scrap metal per admission, the salvage "net" will approach 200,000 pounds, he added.

According to the District Salvage Committee, most of the metal collected tomorrow will be hauled away

Lower Ratio of Cut In Essential Gas and Fuel Oil Foreseen

All Petroleum Products To Bear Part of Reduced Consumption

Curtailment in consumption of petroleum products to meet the new and rapidly developing oil shortage in the East will be distributed over the entire field of petroleum use although oil for home heating and gasoline for essential driving probably will suffer less than other uses, a spokesman for the Office of Price Administration said last night.

Meanwhile, the War Production Board tightened control over the delivery of natural and manufactured gas by extending the prohibition against new gas deliveries to residential customers after November 30 to all gas heating equipment. Heretofore the prohibition in effect in Washington and other sections of the country did not apply to small unit heaters supplying less than 50 per cent of the heating requirements of the premises.

New Equipment Banned. WPB also prohibited after November 30 the installation of gas equipment by either residential or non-residential consumers if the delivery of gas for operation of the equipment is not permitted under the order. A spokesman said this action was designed to prevent situations such as developed in the Northeast Washington community of River Terrace recently where new home owners found they were unable to obtain gas for their furnaces. WPB forced removal of the gas burners and substitution of coal furnaces.

Greater centralization and Government control in handling petroleum problems can be expected soon, it was indicated today in a letter from President Roosevelt received by Federal Judge William P. Cole, Jr., who released it in New York. "I share your view," the President wrote, "that further centralization in the administration of oil matters is desirable. As a matter of fact, this subject has been under consideration for some time and I expect that a decision will be announced in the near future."

Reply to Judge Cole. The President's letter was in response to one sent to the President by Judge Cole shortly before he retired last month after nine years as chairman of the petroleum subcommittee of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

His letter, the judge explained, was a personal report to the White House in advance of the committee's formal report next month.

The OPA spokesman said the oil supply situation on the East Coast was under study and that announcement would be made early next week as to just where the necessary cuts in petroleum consumption would fall. He intimated there must be considerable curtailment in use of gasoline, though OPA was working on a plan to ease the blow on essential users of automobiles. He said it was highly unlikely that consumption of oil for home heating would be reduced much below the current 25 per cent curtailment.

OPA plans a "crackdown" on "black market" gasoline and oil operations which, he said, have been responsible for a sizable leak in rationing regulations. It is also planned to enforce strictly the Government's warning to heating oil users to convert to coal wherever possible. Commercial, industrial and institutional oil heat users already have been told to convert or be denied oil this winter. This ultimatum will be enforced, the spokesman said.

Tank Car Deliveries Off. Petroleum Co-ordinator Ickes said yesterday that consumption of petroleum in the East must be reduced 139,000 barrels per day. A cut of 80,000 barrels, he said, must be made in gasoline consumption and the remainder in fuel oil use because tank car delivery had dropped and use of oil by the armed forces increased since the African invasion.

OPA, the spokesman said, had never been as optimistic concerning oil deliveries eastward as OPA, and made allowance for this reduced supply in setting quotas for fuel oil rationing. It is difficult to estimate, however, he added, the increased oil needs of the Army and Navy and it was likely the Ickes figure on the petroleum deficiency would be reached.

WPB, in announcing further limitations in use of gas, stated that "the situation in many areas has become alarming." Gas companies will be required to curtail deliveries to residential customers when serious shortages in supply appear.

While Washington is not regarded as one of the most critical shortage areas, officials believe the situation will be very serious if the winter is severe.

Another report said the flow of Nazi soldiery from Russia into southeastern Europe was growing constantly. This report said 12 German divisions passed through Rumania last week, traveling west, and were believed mostly heading for Greek and Yugoslav points.

War Insurance Asked For Correspondents

Chairman Reynolds of the Senate Military Affairs Committee has introduced a bill to make American war correspondents eligible for war risk insurance.

"The correspondents of the press associations and many newspapers risk their lives daily in the front lines of this war," Senator Reynolds said.

"The casualties have been high. They wear the uniforms of the armed forces and are subject to military law. It is only just that they be made eligible for insurance under the National Service Life Insurance Act."

U. S. Will Rest Case Today in Trial of Six On Treason Charge

Father's Statement Links Defendants to Haupt, Executed Saboteur

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—The Government today prepared to rest its case in the treason trial of three Chicago couples accused of aiding a young German saboteur who came to this country with seven other Nazi agents on a mission of sabotage.

A climax to the three weeks of Government prosecution of the case came yesterday when United States Attorney J. Albert Woll read to the Federal Court jury a 23-page statement by Hans Max Haupt, one of the defendants and father of Herbert Haupt, executed Nazi agent. The statement linked each of the defendants to young Haupt and his mission for Germany.

After reading the statement Mr. Woll announced that the Government was ready to rest its case against the six—Haupt's parents, his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Froehling, and two friends of the Haupts, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Richard Wergin.

Defense attorneys said they were ready to call all of the defendants to testify.

Several statements each by the defendants have been submitted, but the elder Haupt's document disclosed many new details of the intended plot of the eight saboteurs, six of whom have been executed. The other two were sentenced to prison.

Hans Haupt was quoted as saying: That Hitler's government intended to "send more saboteurs by means of submarines if the first eight men arrived here safely."

"That all the defendants had full knowledge of Herbert's plans to blow up war factories."

"That Herbert had about $15,000 and that he was to use some of the money to pay people he hired to do sabotage work."

"That the saboteurs' funds ($170,000, mostly in $50 bills) were to be changed into bills of smaller denominations by an unnamed New York banker who "works with the German government hand in hand."

The elder Haupt's statement also disclosed that the submarine on which his son came here sank two freighters and in turn was bombed by a plane and that the saboteurs were to have held a meeting here last July 6 and "the head boss would be there." The arrest of the Nazi agents, however, canceled the intended meeting.

CIO Considers Plan Of Single Joint Control For Manpower

Convention Opens Door For Miners, but Declares Lewis Just 'a Memory'

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—Proposals that labor, management and the Government join in bringing the functions of procurement of industrial and manpower mobilization under a single joint control and urging establishment of labor-management-production committees in each plant in the Nation will be considered today by the CIO.

"Intelligent consideration of manpower mobilization does not involve the issue of compulsory or voluntary operation, but rather the formulation of a national (total war) mobilization plan," said the manpower proposal presented to the annual convention.

"Immediate manpower problems have arisen," the resolution added, "because of the absence of such a total war mobilization."

The resolution said the organization viewed "with complete suspicion the motives of those . . . with direct and drastic plans to draft labor and nothing more. If we have manpower chaos today due to lack of planned and centralized total war mobilization a job freeze merely freezes chaos and outrageous discriminatory practice."

Calls for Support.

The resolution dealing with labor-management-production committees called on the War Production Board and responsible Government officials "to really give effective support to this program and compel employers, when necessary, to participate and co-operate in the formulation of such committees."

The CIO has put out the latchkey for the United Mine Workers of America but officially declared its president, John L. Lewis, a "memory."

Convention delegates rose and bowed their heads in silence in what CIO President Philip Murray described as a "tribute to the memory" of the man who founded the CIO seven years ago but withdrew last month.

"Mr. Lewis is an established national prevaricator," Mr. Murray told the convention. "He," added Mr. Murray, when the applause subsided, "is universally recognized and very definitely placed in that category by members of organized labor and the citizens of the United States."

Mr. Murray and three others who had been closely associated with the miners' chief denounced him as a deserter.

Resolution Condemns Lewis.

The convention unanimously adopted a resolution condemning Mr. Lewis for "studied policies of disruption, raiding and disunity."

The convention also proposed that the War Labor Board gear its machinery to its expanded responsibilities by operating on an industry-wide basis instead of the case or company method.

Besides industry-wide bargaining, the resolution, which the convention adopted unanimously, urged that the board require insertion of an arbitration clause in all collective bargaining agreements to prevent overloading of the board's machinery with unsettled grievances. A statement of policy on wage retroactivity also was asked.

With thousands of wage agreements already awaiting board action, the resolution said:

"It can no longer be conceived that the members of the board can take up separately each individual labor dispute or agreement. The board's decisions to date have already developed, and the executive order of October 3 has indicated, a number of basic principles which are to guide wage determinations throughout the country. It is essential that the board, upon the request of the affected union, proceed to industry-wide conferences and determinations so that on the one hand the board may be freed from the unnecessary repetition of argument and the deliberation with respect to each of the hundreds of employers in each industry, and on the other the board may achieve sound industry-wide wage stabilization."

Could Operate Regionally.

Lee Pressman, CIO counsel, said that where unions are organized on a regional basis, industry bargaining could be operated regionally rather than nationally.

The convention also adopted, without discussion or dissent, a report of the Committee on Press and Publicity condemning newspaper campaigns "hostile and injurious to our country's war effort."

The resolution also said:

"The trend toward monopolization of the press by existing daily newspapers and their allied commercial interests—a trend which is typified by refusal of the Associated Press to serve new and independent papers—is a direct menace to a free press. The CIO takes the position that this trend should be combated by labor and all progressive-minded people."

Mr. Murray, Van A. Bittner, Allan S. Haywood and Frank Bender, all former UMW officials, assailed their one-time colleague, Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Bender, CIO director in Baltimore and former UMW official in Ohio, told the convention, "I am hoping the mine workers will take their proper place in the near future and align themselves with us, so we may go forward in a solid phalanx to establish the principles the CIO stands for."

Mr. Bittner, a former district president of the miners, said that "as far as labor and the American people are concerned, he (Mr. Lewis) is fast committing suicide for himself. I may have many sins to answer for when I meet my Maker, but it won't be deserting a union I asked other men to join."

Battering Ram Bandits Get $7,100 in Chicago

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—A battering ram technique, apparently new in holdups but which goes back at least to the Crusades, was used yesterday by four men who escaped with $7,100 from a currency exchange west of the Loop.

A moment after an armored truck which brought money to the exchange drove away, there came a crash at the wall back of the cages. A heavy timber crashed through a partition from a vacant store.

A man with a handkerchief mask and a gun burst through. He had a partner. Two other men waited in an automobile outside. Before startled workers recovered, the battering ram bandits and $7,100 were gone, police related.

matched, although the American force probably was slightly stronger. Sank Everything in Sight. Systematic shakedown reports from all the ships showed that two Japanese heavy cruisers and four destroyers certainly were sunk and one light cruiser and one destroyer probably sunk. Reports agreed that the American ships "sank everything in sight" and left little likelihood that any Japanese ship got away. (The Navy communique listed one enemy heavy cruiser, four destroyers and one medium transport sunk; another cruiser put out of action and another destroyer probably sunk.) It said one United States destroyer was sunk and several of our ships received minor to moderate damage. (Vice Admiral R. L. Ghormley, formerly in command of United States naval forces in the South Pacific, returned to Washington with word that reports indicated the full toll exacted by American forces was three cruisers and five destroyers sunk. Secretary of the Navy Knox, in revealing the claims, noted they were not being included in the Navy's official figures as revealed in communique.) The battle occurred only two nights before the enemy opened a new counteroffensive against Guadalcanal and, therefore, left a big gap in the Japanese naval force being shaped up for the stroke that began with the heavy bombardment of Henderson Field, core of the United States Marine establishment and now—16 days later—in full swing by land, sea and air. A clash of this kind, involving surface ships alone, naturally is rare in this day of naval air power. The United States Navy came through the World War without a single contest between surface forces. In the present war the United States and Japanese surface vessels had met three times before.

Enemy Entirely Off Guard. In the Macassar Straits last February, several American destroyers made a highly successful night torpedo attack on a large Japanese convoy and most of the Japanese fire in that engagement fell on other Japanese ships. Next, opposing forces met in the Java Sea at the end of February when a handful of United States ships steamed into the jaws of an overwhelming Japanese invasion force. The third time was at Savo Island the night of August 8 when Japanese cruisers and destroyers slipped in by night and surprised American and Australian cruisers and destroyers that escorted the original marine forces to Guadalcanal and Tulagi Islands. The first battle of Savo Island was a stinging defeat that cost us four cruisers—the Australian Canberra and the United States Astoria, Vincennes and Quincy. The second battle of Savo Island evened the score at almost the same spot and in much the same manner—a lightning stroke in the dark that caught the enemy entirely off guard. (At the time of the first battle I was on Guadalcanal where excited watchers on the beach could tell only one thing from the gunfire and the magazine explosions on the horizon—that one side was faring much better than the other.)

Ever since late in August a little more than a fortnight after the marines moved into the Solomons, Jap cruisers and destroyers and at least one submarine (the one called Oscar) have been slipping down to Guadalcanal every few nights with a boldness that amounted to sheer impudence. They would land troops and supplies in dribbles a few miles up the coast from the marines and then move along and toss shells at marine camps in a grand nose-thumbing gesture before retiring in the dark. Marine shore batteries were inadequate to stop them and night fighting from the imperfect Henderson Field had proved too costly.

Catapulted Plane Explodes. The marines soon named this procession of ships the "Tokio Express" and spoke of the cruisers as Pullmans and the destroyers as day coaches.

The way to stop it was with ships and the admirals proposed to do it in an action something like surprising the over-confident chicken thief with a sawed-off shotgun just as he reaches for the roost.

As darkness came on the appointed night, the American force was moving at a speed calculated to place it in the vicinity of Savo Island and Cape Esperance northwest of Guadalcanal shortly before midnight. That area was the favored terminus of the "Tokio express." The night was extremely dark. The sea was smooth with a southeasterly wind of 10 knots. The exposed officers and men wore lifejackets and steel helmets. Peering into the darkness they were tense and alert because of the value of surprise and the vital factor of getting in the first shot had been drilled into them hard.

It looked like a bad sign when one of the cruisers catapulted a plane and the plane immediately exploded on the water. (But luck was with the pilot and his radioman, as it later turned out. Suffering slight burns, they got the rubber boat from the flaming plane and paddled all the way around Savo Island and turned up safely at Guadalcanal three days later.)

In battle formation, the warships plowed ahead—cruisers and destroyers all in their assigned stations. Nothing turned up on the first run across the hot passage, and about 6 miles west of Savo Island the ships doubled back to continue the search.

Japs Thrown Into Confusion. Then it came—at 10:46. A column of Japanese cruisers and destroyers bearing southeast straight for Cape Esperance. Some destroyers between the opposing cruisers. Range about 4,000 yards.

Our ships put their searchlights on the enemy and instantly let go with the first shot. That first salvo and the incessant murderous fire that followed threw the Japs into confusion. It was 10 minutes before they returned the fire.

Ninety seconds after the opening round of gunfire, three Japanese destroyers were burning and the searchlights were no longer necessary. By the time the Japs had collected their wits enough to start shooting, they were turning away to the west, trying to break off the action. They were cut apart by the continuous stream of shattering fire from our large and medium caliber guns at short ranges. Most of the Japanese fire, once it did start, was wild. There were many splashes around our ships but few hits.

Torpedoes from both sides were streaking through the water but no Jap torpedo found its mark. Our torpedoes did.

One Jap cruiser was well ahead of the other three. For convenience in picturing the engagement, they might be called A, B, C and D, from the front to the rear.

Fight 39 Minutes Long. At 10:52, D, which had wheeled sharply to the north, rolled over and sank. B, which had swung sharply to the right in attempting to withdraw, blew up and probably sank.

That left A up ahead. As A made her right turn, her stern was a clean target for a broadside from our leading cruiser—and all the shots went home. They blew her stern off and she sank.

In the meantime, one American cruiser which had caught most of the hits scored by the Japs in the entire engagement, pulled off to the left toward Guadalcanal—with nearly half her main battery still firing.

By 1 a.m. the United States force could find nothing more to shoot at and took a course away from the battle area to count noses, consolidate and cool off.

The fight had lasted only 39 minutes.

The admiral, promoted to flag rank only last June, attributed the success of the action to complete surprise and, once that priceless advantage had been achieved, to "magnificent individual handling of each ship by its captain and the splendid gunnery and torpedo fire delivered by our officers and men." "In a night action like that," he explained, "I do not think you should give many orders. It is largely up to each captain individually. I led them into it and then they fought their way out."

Schulte Commended As Friend of Labor And of District

Testimonial Dinner Speakers See Return of Defeated Representative

Representative Schulte, Democrat, of Indiana, who was defeated for re-nomination, was honor guest at a testimonial dinner given at the Mayflower Hotel last night by several hundred members of the Central Labor Union.

Tributes were paid the retiring House member by William Green, AFL president; Representative McCormack, majority leader of the House; Senator Willis, Republican, of Indiana, and Commissioners John Russell Young and Guy Mason, Frank W. Lee, vice president of the City Bank, was toastmaster, and John Lochner, president of the Central Labor Union Council, presided.

Return Is Predicted.

Mr. Green said Mr. Schulte had proved a valiant friend of labor and predicted his retirement from Congress was not permanent.

Mr. McCormack, terming Mr. Schulte his campaign manager in his successful fight to become majority leader two years ago, said the failure of Mr. Schulte's people to renominate him was an "oversight" which he believed would be remedied at the next election. He termed Mr. Schulte, member of the District Committee, "a hard, but clean, fighter, faithful to his trust, and a level-headed legislator."

Senator Willis, pointing out that Mr. Schulte had served five terms in the House, said it made him proud to see his colleague so signally honored. He joined others in praising Mr. Schulte's congressional services. Mr. Schulte complimented Mr. Green as the leader of 6,000,000 organized labor men and women.

"How many of you," he asked the audience, "really have appreciated the headaches and heartaches Bill Green has endured in fighting labor's battles?" He added that "if critics can weaken Green, they are weakening 6,000,000 people."

"Real Friend" of District.

Mr. Schulte said he worked, as a youngster, in a steel mill for 16 1/2 cents per hour. With the advent of peace, he said, there would be a drive "to weaken, if not crush, organized labor." As a member of organized labor since 1907, Mr. Schulte said labor should remember its friends and resist efforts to diminish labor's influence.

Commissioner Young said Mr. Schulte had been a real friend of the District of Columbia in legislation affecting this city, and expressed his appreciation of the Indiana Representative's efforts.

Joining his fellow Commissioner, Mr. Mason said that although he frequently had disagreed with Mr. Schulte, he said he had never encountered "greater fairness."

Man Regains Eyesight He Lost in Air Raid

While riding in a bus, George Morley of London, regained his eyesight, lost in 1922 as a result of injuries sustained during an air raid on the British capital in 1918. He was traveling through Sussex, his face turned toward a window, when a dim, greenish blur appeared before him. Startled, he put his hand to his eyes. It was true, he could see. Back in London, he saw for the first time the wife he married 14 years ago. He thinks the return of his sight is traceable to a car accident in 1939.

Success in Algeria Clinched by Arranged Surrender of Fort

Sidi Ferruch Yielded
In Half Hour, Although Stronger Than Invaders

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN, United States Correspondent With the AEP in Africa.

(Distributed by the Associated Press.)
SOMEWHERE IN ALGERIA, Nov. 13.—The American success in Algeria was clinched within a half hour of the zero hour in the early hours of Sunday morning.

It was made possible by the well-greased capitulation of Fort Sidi Ferruch, a strong point commanding our principal landing beaches on the coast, 15 miles west of the city of Algiers.

Four of us—two Commando officers, a friendly French officer whom we had encountered in the darkness and myself—walked right into the main gate of the fort 20 minutes after we had scrambled ashore with the first assault force.

Still dripping from the surf, we shook hands with the commander of the garrison, which far outnumbered our own force, and were assured he did not wish to resist us.

He showed us the order he had received the previous evening instructing the local commanders to "facilitate the debarkation and the establishment ashore of the American troops."

Sidi Ferruch, which we had expected to take by assault, was far more potent than we had dreamed. It had four 75-millimeter naval guns and plenty of Hotchkiss machine guns.

If we had had to fight for it we might not have taken it and we certainly would not have taken it within the 30 minutes allowed us.

If it had opposed, the landing of our main forces on adjacent beaches would have been jammed badly, but once Sidi Ferruch was in our hands it was simply a question of getting our main combat team and its equivalent ashore and cracking on eastward to high ground overlooking Algiers from the west.

If we could do it by dawn and before the Vichy people had time to countermand the orders then we'd probably force the city's capitulation without a shot being fired by our particular force.

If it proved impossible to follow our very tight and optimistic landing schedule and our troops did not push 15 miles eastward by dawn, then there almost certainly would be some shooting before the city fell.

As it turned out our troops did not keep up to schedule and the shooting happened.

We spent a wild night trying to capitalize on our coup and we were only partly successful. There was a delicate situation at Blida Airdrome, 18 miles south. Wisely disregarding previous orders, Lt. Col. Tom Trevor dashed off in some camions (lorries) with 150 men and within an hour had cajoled and bluffed his way into possession of the city airdrome.

I set off in a frantic effort to locate our combat team and get them on to Fort L. Empereur, western bastion of Algiers, before dawn spoiled our game.

What we found was a single battalion led by one very tired lieutenant colonel, which had been landed miles away from its designated beach. When we found them—along about 4 a.m.—they were stretched out over a distance of three or four miles and the vanguard was still 10 miles from L. Empereur with a bare two hours in which to make it.

Needless to say, it did not make it and that was why the same battalion had to fight its way through the region of El Biar Sunday afternoon.

As far as we were able to learn, the honor of being the first American soldier in Algiers in this expedition fell to Marvin H. Anderson, strapping, pleasant-faced Commando who lives at Minneapolis.

Marvin came ashore at Sidi Ferruch, engaged briefly in his bloodless occupation, then at 5 a.m. was detailed to drive two pro-Allied French officers into Fighting French headquarters in Algiers.

While his teammates were fighting west of the town, Anderson caught up on his sleep, ate some good grub and surveyed the city from a window.

Monday morning he got tired of this life of luxury and took advantage of a truce to return to his unit.

Mechanics Shortage Seen Forcing Autos Off Highways

Head of Car Dealers
Asks Action to Avoid Nation-Wide Crisis

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Nov. 13.—Millions of passenger automobiles, trucks and buses soon will be forced off the Nation's highways, according to David E. Castles, president of the National Automobile Dealers' Association, unless immediate action is taken to check the growing shortage of automobile mechanics.

The shortage of men qualified to service and repair cars and trucks, Mr. Castles said today, threatens to become as serious a problem as lack of rubber.

"The rubber shortage," he added, "is, of course, a most serious one. We believe, however, that under the skillful administration of Rubber Director Jeffers this situation in time will improve, provided he gets the co-operation of the public in careful driving and thorough periodic tire inspections. But if immediate steps are not taken to check the present Nation-wide shortage of automobile mechanics, much of Mr. Jeffers' good work will be nullified."

Mr. Castles said that many shops throughout the country now are experiencing such a loss of skilled mechanics that they are employing women and older men.

"These innovations," he said, "have been helpful but only to a very limited extent."

Something like 435,000 new cars and trucks frozen in dealers' stocks are about to go into their second winter.

Drastic Action Urged.
"Recently the Government took steps to assure the proper preservation of these vehicles," Mr. Castles said. "It seems only reasonable that the Government should take some equally drastic procedure to keep in operation the 20,000,000 passenger cars and 5,000,000 trucks that are necessary for all purposes in our present national situation."

Mr. Castles emphasized the importance of passenger cars, trucks and buses to the Nation's wartime transportation needs and added: "At this time, when no new cars or trucks are being made and cannot be until some time after the war, maintenance and repair work are especially imperative. More than one-fourth of all the cars in the country are nine years of age or over, and therefore in need of constant repair."

Foundation Laid For Allied Offensive In Burma Area

Correspondent Finds More Weapons Needed, However, Before Move

After an absence of 15 months, A. T. Steele has returned to China where for many years he has been an acknowledged authority on Far Eastern affairs.

By A. T. STEELE, Foreign Correspondent of The Star and Chicago Daily News.

KUNMING, Nov. 13.—Traveling from hot, steamy Calcutta to this breeze-swept Chinese city on the Yunnan Plateau, you pass mountains and valleys grand in their beauty and high in their strategic importance. From this India-China front, the United Nations must one day begin their reconquest of Burma and reopening of the highway to China.

Despite the crying need for war materials which is still far from satisfied, the military picture in this zone has radically improved. Eight months ago when Burma was going to pieces, the Japanese had opened the critically undefended door to India. Since then, the Allies have laid a sound foundation not only for defensive but for offensive operations.

The launching of the offensive toward Burma awaits more planes, more naval strength and more armament. The necessary manpower is massed and ready. Despite heavy demands for American equipment in Africa and Europe, which cut deeply into supplies to this sector, air strength in India and China has been augmented manifold since the Burma disaster.

Effective Strength. It is strong enough to repel any Japanese air offensive based on present Japanese air power in Burma. However, Japanese sources of supply are close and India's sources distant. For a major defensive action, and for any kind of important offensive action, many more planes will be needed.

I spent a week in Bengal and its metropolis, Calcutta, before taking off on my flight to China. In that exposed province of Northeastern India and the adjacent province of Bihar are concentrated about 80 per cent of India's war industries. It is one of two areas against which the Japanese would almost certainly strike should they ever be able to summon sufficient strength to renew their push westward.

The other key region is the island of Ceylon and the adjacent southern tip of India, which is as important strategically as Bengal and Bihar are important economically. Whoever holds Ceylon and its naval base, Trincomalee, controls the greater part of the Indian Ocean.

British Not Idle. Don't think for a minute that the British have spent most of their time since the fall of Burma in drinking whisky at their clubs. There is still too much complacency in the assumption that "the Japs never will attack us now," and there are still plenty of weak spots. But big things have been done, especially in the construction of airports and the strengthening of coastal defenses.

The whole eastern coastline from the southernmost tip of Madras to the easternmost tip of Bengal now has a closely knit network of airdromes over which masses of aircraft can be shifted to any point of attack. Ground forces in that Indian coastal zone also have been enormously reinforced and their mobility increased within the limits of the transport available. Preparations are most intensive in Bengal and Assam, India's transport being utilized to bring blue-blooded horses from distant parts of the country.

The great imponderable of India's defense is the behavior of the Indian population in event of invasion. Would they drop their tools and flee from the factories and railways, thus seriously crippling the British rear? Would they intensify their sabotage?

British police officials, well pleased with the progress of their repressive measures against Mohandas K. Gandhi's civil disobedience movement, assured me that while a certain amount of panic and some flare-ups of sabotage and disorder would be inevitable in such a case, they were confident that transport at least could be kept running with the help of troops and emergency squads of Indians and Anglo-Indians organized for that purpose.

Rangoon Flight Recalled. Some observers, remembering the panicky flight of Indians from Rangoon during the Burma hostilities, are less sanguine.

Bengal long has been a hotbed of terrorist activity but with the arrest of the most important leaders, it is at present under fair control. The biggest concern of the authorities is the influx of Indian fifth columnists from Burma in the guise of refugees.

Undoubtedly, some of them come well stocked with Jap money and with instructions to establish an organization for sabotage and disorder when the time is ripe. So far there is no evidence of any link between the Japanese and Gandhi's rebellious Congress Party, but doubtless Jap agents are exploiting the movement as much as possible to their own ends.

From Calcutta I flew northeastward to an American base in Assam and thence eastward across the massive mountain barrier—which all American pilots call "the hump," dividing India and China. To the left the white peaks of the Himalayas glistened in the sun like a string of roughcut diamonds encircling the southern waistline of Tibet. To the right the densely forested hills of Assam rolled down to the dark valleys of Burma.

Rival Outposts in Jungles. Somewhere in those deep jungles along the approximate line of the Chindwin River, rows of Allied and Japanese outposts parallel each other with a 50-mile-wide strip of no-man's-land separating them. Lately the Japs have increased their patrol activity but as yet there is no sign of a major offensive in the making.

Military preparations in Assam rival those in India proper. The American pilots English have performed small miracles of engineering in multiplying the numbers of equipped airdromes which a few months ago were ricefield jungles or tea plantations. Improvements on roads and trails also have been pushed. Airpower, manpower and smooth-working communications will be all-important considerations when the big push through the jungle into Burma begins. (Copyright, 1942, by Chicago Daily News.)

Commercial Vehicle Mileage Rationing Postponed to Dec. 1

Delay Gives Operators Another Chance to Get Necessary Certificates

The Office of Defense Transportation last night announced postponement of the effective date of its mileage rationing program for commercial vehicles from November 15 to December 1. The action was taken to correlate the ODT program for trucks, buses and taxis with the rationing program for private passenger cars, the start of which was deferred to December 1. Postponement of the ODT program, Director Joseph B. Eastman pointed out, will allow commercial vehicle operators who have not yet submitted application for certificates of war necessity another chance to obtain the certificates before Nation-wide mileage rationing is started. After December 1 no commercial vehicle will be permitted to operate unless it carries a certificate of war necessity issued by ODT. This does not mean, ODT warned, that operators can wait until a few days before December 1 to submit applications and expect to receive certificates before deadline. Several days are required to process applications and return them to operators, it was said.

ODT stated that postponement of the certificate deadline does not change the period in which the tires of all commercial vehicles must be inspected. The inspections may be made anytime after November 15 and must be completed before January 15. Following the first inspection, the tires of every truck, bus or taxicab must be inspected every 5,000 miles or 60 days, whichever is completed first.

Free Bus Improved Lt. Col. W. H. Long, commanding officer of the Memorial Bridge Recreation Area, announced that a free bus shuttle service to the Memorial Bridge Recreation Area...

Servicemen may board the bus for the area, where approximately 1,000 cot accommodations are available, at any one of the following three stations between midnight and 5 a.m.

Inquiries Suggested. "If servicemen failed to get sleeping accommodations here last Saturday night," Corley said, "they did so of their own free will and volition. An inquiry at any USO office, appropriate civilian defense agency, Traveler's Aid or American Women's Voluntary Service office would have elicited the necessary information."

Recommendations on policies for servicemen's lodging centers were prepared by Mrs. Raymond Fowler, president of the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines' Club; Lt. John H. Simpson, special services supervisor for the military district of Washington, and William T. Thomas, director of lodging at Servicemen's Club No. 1.

50-Cent Cot Price Urged. The lodging service should be a non-profit enterprise. It is suggested that cots be priced at 50 cents each.

Special subcommittees of the Servicemen's Lodging Committee should be established to advise new lodging centers at the beginning of the service.

Relief Reports Urged. Lodging centers should cooperate with the central dispatch telephone service by phoning in when they are sold out and making a final report Sunday a.m. or until 12:05 a.m. Sunday, phone Executive 2532; after that, call Executive 2628.

Shuttle Buses Ordered to Cut Rush-Hour Load

Establishment of a shuttle bus service to operate in the morning and evening rush periods between the John Paul Jones Statue and H street N.W. and provide service for persons unable to board long-route buses because of crowded conditions was ordered today by the Public Utilities Commission.

The new service was authorized at the request of the Capital Transit Co. Many Navy Department workers and others in the Mall area, it was explained, have been using buses going from the Mall area to outlying points on Sixteenth street, Connecticut avenue, Potomac and Takoma and then transferring to other lines in the downtown business section.

The buses will operate on Seventeenth street, H street, Fifteenth street, park roads near the White House and the Monument Grounds and Seventeenth street to the statue.

Agents Turned Away. The light registration was attributed partly to the fact that many persons, unaware that the car owner himself must sign the application, sent agents to the schools to register for them.

Rush Expected Tonight in Gas Registrations

Only 48,491 D. C. Motorists Enrolled At Schools Yesterday Only 48,491 motorists in the District—about 40 per cent of the expected total—signed up at 28 schools yesterday under the gasoline rationing re-registration program.

This was proportionately much lighter than the number of applications recorded on the first day of the July registration. On that day, 49,503 motorists applied, but the registrations were divided over three days instead of two as in the current program.

Agents Turned Away. The light registration was attributed partly to the fact that many persons, unaware that the car owner himself must sign the application, sent agents to the schools to register for them.

Commuter Use Of W. & O. D. Again Studied

State and Federal Agencies Weigh Data In Special Report

The Virginia State Corporation Commission and the Office of Defense Transportation today had under study a report recommending re-establishment of passenger service on the Washington & Old Dominion Railroad between Rosslyn and Leesburg, Va.

Notes D. Ballantine, nationally known transportation consultant, reported the company can place one or more passenger schedules in operation each day "without any capital investment and at a relatively nominal expense."

At the same time, it was disclosed that "obstructions" are frequently "deliberately placed on the track" and the consultant believes that this may be due to the public's ill-feeling against the railroad for abandoning passenger service.

The SCC today indicated its desire to reopen a hearing of June on a petition of residents to re-establish passenger service. Following receipt of Col. Ballantine's report the commission announced at Richmond it will set a date within the next few days to open the case to take new evidence.

Sees Handicaps to Speed.

The commission said it would receive testimony from Col. Ballantine and place his report in evidence so as to permit it to act within the near future.

The SCC today on an inspection trip headed September 11 with officials of the ODT, the SCC and G. C. Baggett, vice president and general manager of the railroad, Col. Ballantine declared:

"Track conditions are such that no more than one mile per hour is permitted on any portion of the line; the frequency of grade crossings places another handicap on speed. Added to these restrictions is the necessity for extreme care to avoid obstructions deliberately placed on the track."

Sees Need of Service.

Col. Ballantine answered "yes" to the question of whether there is sufficient public need for the resumption of passenger service.

His study was undertaken at the request of the Virginia Engineering Corp. of New York City, which sought to determine whether one of its specially designed automobile power units would operate on the line.

The engineer, incidentally, reported that the function properly in this particular case because of heavy grades and curves encountered.

Shortly after he began his study, the Virginia State Corporation Commission and the ODT requested him to extend his investigation to determine whether there was a demand for service. The SCC now has before it a petition of Northern Virginia residents to require the company to resume passenger service.

He said he carefully studied records of hearings by the SCC and also data submitted by the committee for Emergency Transportation for Northern Virginia, of which John S. Brooks, Jr., and C. Reed Thomas, both of Vienna, are president and secretary, respectively. The committee included in membership the mayors or councilmen of Vienna, Fairfax, Leesburg and Falls Church. The committee would, therefore, "appear to speak with some authority for the communities affected," he said.

Estimates Commuters.

"From the various sources of information indicated it would appear that from 750 to 1,200 commuters are available as potential passengers on the W. & O. D. Railroad," Col. Ballantine added. "It will hereinafter appear that I would discount, potentially, it to be a demand of sufficient importance to justify the restoration of passenger service."

He said the railroad operates 52 miles of track between Rosslyn and Purcellville, a distance of 47 miles with a branch line from Bluemont Junction to Alexandria, of 7.3 miles, where connection is made with the Southern Railway and Potomac Railroad. The railroad owns only about 5 miles of track between Rosslyn and Bluemont Junction, from the Southern Railway, he said.

Between Rosslyn and Purcellville there are 83 "unprotected" highway and street grade crossings, 26 of them being within the first 7 miles out of Rosslyn. Today the combined effect of all hazards at the time passenger service was abandoned was to limit an overall speed between terminals to 21 miles an hour.

Cites Changed Conditions.

Electric trolley wires are in a state of disrepair, and the company now uses three Diesel electric locomotives as substitutes as well as an auto-rail car used to haul crew members.

Col. Ballantine pointed out that when the SCC authorized the company to discontinue the service in April, 1941, "the use of automobiles was not restricted, and there was plenty of rubber and gasoline available. Character of the service, there was little public use made of the W. & O. D. facilities. Today, of course, the situation has changed.

Reviewing passenger records, he said revenue from this source averaged $380 a day in 1939 and gradually decreased to $14.77 a day during the last three months of operation.

Figures 20-Cent Fare.

The firm has no bonded debt, he said, and was acquired for about $35,000. The report to the SCC shows in 1941 the company had total revenue of $245,458 and expenses of $197,619, leaving $47,839 as the net revenue. From this taxes and other miscellaneous deductions reduced the profit for that year to $22,445, he said.

He concluded it is "entirely feasible" for the railroad to im-

Insanitary Building Condemnation Bill Passed by Senate

Process Is Simplified; Two District Measures Go to House for Action

The Senate late yesterday passed a bill recommending the Commission to simplify the process of condemning insanitary buildings in the District. At the same time, it approved another measure making a minor amendment to the law governing the operation of co-operative associations in Washington.

Both bills now go to the House, which has not yet acted on them. They were called up by Senator Burton, Republican, of Ohio and passed by unanimous consent.

Under existing law, when an order is issued by the Board for the Condemnation of Insanitary Buildings, the property owner may ask the District Court to appoint a special board of survey to conduct a hearing.

Permits Direct Hearing.

Instead of having the court appoint a separate board in each case, the pending bill provides that the property owner may be heard by the Condemnation Board. The owner would still have the right to appeal to the courts if he felt the board acted arbitrarily.

The bill also reduces from 20 to 10 days the time allowed the owner to show cause, and reduces from 30 to 15 days the length of time the property may continue to be occupied after service of notice of condemnation.

The bill also repeals a provision in existing law which provides that building cannot be repaired, but must be demolished, if the cost of the repairs exceeds 50 per cent of the reproduction value of the building. The Commissioners took the measure, both of Vienna, are president and secretary, respectively. The committee included in membership the mayors or councilmen of Vienna, Fairfax, Leesburg and Falls Church. The committee would, therefore, "appear to speak with some authority for the communities affected," he said.

Broadens Penalty Powers.

The bill further increases the power of the Commissioners in fixing penalties of violations of building regulations. In recommending the measure, the Commissioners described the present process for the condemnation of insanitary buildings as "unnecessarily cumbersome," especially at this time, when housing facilities are limited and tenants find it difficult to move.

Senator Burton explained that the other bill relating to co-operative associations merely provides penalties for failure of such associations to obtain licenses to operate in the District. The issuance of such licenses was authorized two years ago, without a penalty clause.

diately begin passenger service experimentally.

He suggested use of a Diesel-electric locomotive handling two coaches with a seating capacity of 144 persons. Such coaches are immediately available from a Northern railroad on a rental basis of $12 a day. He estimated the expense for operating the experimental run would require the carrying of 223 commuters daily averaging fares of 20 cents each.

He said he had recommended stopping passenger service at Leesburg rather than Purcellville, a point 10 miles further, because his studies showed no great passenger demand beyond Leesburg.

Mrs. Nellie Fletcher, Leesburg property owner and active campaigner for passenger service, objected strenuously to the plan to end passenger traffic at Leesburg. She asserted there are sufficient passengers between Leesburg and Purcellville to warrant a continuation of the service. Col. Ballantine declared this would be shown from actual practice.

When Col. Ballantine released his report yesterday, the conference was attended by Milton E. Diehl, special assistant to Joseph B. Eastman, director of the ODT. Mr. Diehl also is Northern Virginia regional development transportation co-ordinator and a member of the Arlington County Public Utilities Commission.

Mr. Diehl said it was the ODT's policy not to intervene in such matters unless the State and local agencies have jurisdiction. In this case the SCC—fail to solve the problem. The ODT is cognizant of a problem in this area and would intervene if it is not solved. At present he is merely an observer, he said.

Others present at the conference were Frank Lyon of the Rabey Engineering Corp., Mrs. Fletcher and Mr. Brooks and Mr. Thomas of the Northern Virginia Committee for Emergency Transportation.

Automobile owners may obtain forms from the stations in Montgomery County tomorrow and the forms will be obtainable at the Fairfax County stations in a few days, it was announced.

Planes Not Hit.

He added that "in my opinion, not a piece of Jap metal from anti-aircraft guns hit our planes."

He told his squadron's early training on the West Coast and later over the Florida Gulf Coast, for their then unknown assignment.

"When Gen. Doolittle, then Col. Doolittle, walked into our squadron room and told us he had a dangerous mission ahead and that any one who refused to go was a deserter, we felt something big was in the offing," he stated.

"I remember seeing the expression on the faces of people as we crossed the Japanese coast," he said. "Some smiled, some wept at us, thinking they were Jap planes. As we neared Tokyo we passed under six pursuit ships. They did not see us. Every building was clearly outlined. We passed a railroad station, with crowds standing on the platform, and later, we saw waves, and later they ran to cover when they identified us."

"My work as navigator was finished, so I took my movie camera and began taking pictures. On our starboard side, not 200 yards away, lay an aircraft carrier. We could have destroyed it easily, but we were to carry on with our assigned mission. I saw columns of smoke rising in three or four different sections of Tokyo. Anti-aircraft guns found our range and some one said 'Let's get out of here.' We left without mishap."

Virginia's Post-War Needs Stressed In Talk by Gov. Darden

Strive for Balanced Economy, He Tells State Planning Board

By the Associated Press. RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 13.—Gov. Darden believes Virginia should strive for a balanced economy of smaller, decentralized industries, which would permit workers to have land to which they could turn for sustenance in times of economic troubles and depression.

He told the State Planning Board yesterday that he didn't want to see Virginia become "a great industrial State with mass industries." The drawbacks, he said, are too great.

"The ultimate happiness of the people suffers," the Governor declared, "if other States are a reliable example."

It would be a mistake for the State to attempt to absorb the 100,000 or 150,000 people who have come into Virginia to work in wartime industries, Mr. Darden said.

"It's not a lack of hospitality," he added. "We can't possibly take care of them."

The Governor recommended that post-war plans be held flexible and simple, because until post-war national policies are clear it will be difficult to map out a definite program.

The planning board named Raymond V. Long, director of vocational training for war production workers, as director of the board to succeed Hugh R. Pomeroy, resigned.

Mr. Long, a member of the staff of the State Department of Education for 23 years, was granted a leave of absence on March 1, to take over the vocational training program.

Mr. Pomeroy will leave December 1, to become executive director of the National Association of Housing Officials.

M'Gehee Seeks House Passage of Bill to Cut Jobs Tax

House Approval Would Send Experience Rating Proposal to Senate

By WILL P. KENNEDY. Prospects of passing by unanimous consent in the House Monday the revised unemployment compensation bill, which is estimated to save $5,000,000 a year in payroll taxes, were announced last night by Chairman Dan E. McGehee of the subcommittee which drafted this legislation.

Because the House intends to consider little or no important measures during the remainder of the present Congress, Mr. McGehee, with the unanimous support of the District Committee, is endeavoring to get emergency action on this unemployment compensation bill, which is of great importance to District employers, especially in view of the present manpower shortage.

If it passes the House Monday it will be rushed to the Senate for concurrent action, so that it may become law before the Christmas holidays.

Provides Experience Ratings.

This new measure provides for experience ratings, with employer contributions ranging from 2.7 per cent tax on payrolls to one-tenth per cent, placing a premium on steady employment of an employee. The accumulation of an employee's large surplus in the compensation fund, which already amounts to upward of $30,000,000.

John A. Marshall, executive officer of the Unemployment Compensation Board, testified at hearings that a surplus of $10,000,000 would be ample at all times to safeguard benefit payments and that the proposed scale should yield $5,000,000 a year to keep the system self-sustaining, and the fund would not be impaired.

Under the experience rating system, maximum benefit payments which are now $18 for 18 weeks will be increased to $20 for 20 weeks.

Pays Returned Soldiers.

The new legislation provides that men in the armed forces are eligible for benefits under this system after they return from war service. It prohibits payment of benefits to any person unemployed on account of going out on strikes. It also provides that an unemployed person can be forced to take employment as a strikebreaker.

The McGehee Subcommittee made a thorough study of Nation-wide experience with regard to unemployment compensation, and conducted extensive hearings, covering several months.

The subcommittee late yesterday authorized Mr. McGehee to report the bill favorably and seek prompt passage. The full District Committee was polled and supported the recommendations of the subcommittee.

Previously, the Navy had announced that 26,000 officers and men would be stationed at this largest construction training center yet established. The exact acreage of the enlarged camp was not disclosed.

Schulte Commended As Friend of Labor

And of District

Representative Schulte, Democrat, of Indiana, who was defeated for re-nomination, was honored guest at a testimonial dinner given at the Mayflower Hotel last night by several hundred members of the Central Labor Union.

Tributes were paid the retiring House member by William Green, AFL president; Representative McCormack, majority leader of the House; Senator Willis, Republican, of Indiana, and Commissioners John Russell Young and Guy Mason. Frank W. Lee, vice president of the City Bank, was toastmaster, and John Lochner, president of the Central Labor Union Council, presided.

Return Is Predicted.

Mr. Green said Mr. Schulte had proved a valiant friend of labor and predicted his retirement from Congress was not permanent.

Mr. McCormack, terming Mr. Schulte his campaign manager in his successful fight to become majority leader two years ago, said the failure of Mr. Schulte's people to renominate him was an "over-sight" which he believed would be remedied at the next election. He termed Mr. Schulte, member of the District Committee, "a hard, but clean, fighter, faithful to his trust, and a level-headed legislator."

Senator Willis, pointing out that Mr. Schulte had served five terms in the House, said it made him proud to see his colleague so signally honored. He joined others in praising Mr. Schulte's congressional services.

Mr. Schulte complimented Mr. Green as the leader of 6,000,000 organized labor men in a resolution.

"How many of you," he asked the audience, "really have appreciated the headaches and heartaches Bill Green has endured in fighting labor's battles?" He added that "if critics can weaken Mr. Schulte, they are weakening 6,000,000 people."

"Real-Friend" of District.

Mr. Schulte said he worked, as a youngster, in a steel mill for 16 1/2 cents per hour. With the advent of peace, he said, there would be organized labor. If not crushed, organized labor since 1907, Mr. Schulte said labor should remember its friends and resist efforts to diminish labor's influence.

Commissioner Young said Mr. Schulte had been a real friend of the District of Columbia in legislation affecting this city, and expressed his appreciation of the Indiana Representative's efforts.

Joining his fellow Commissioner, Mr. Mason said that although he frequently had disagreed with Mr. Schulte, he said he had never encountered "greater fairness."

Sponsoring organizations included the Central Labor Union, Building Trades Council, International Association of Fire Fighters, Moving Picture Operators, No. 224; Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, Local 555; Road, Highway and Heavy Construction Laborers Union, Laborers District Council, Hotel and Restaurant Employees Alliance, Local 456; Barkers Local Union No. 239, Drivers, Chauffeurs and Helpers Local Union No. 639, Bakery Scales Drivers Local Union No. 33, Sheet Metal Workers Local Union No. 102 and Plate Printers Union No. 2.

Furlough Cots Now Available For 2,100

Free Bus Service To Recreation Area Saturdays Improved

The temporary bottleneck in the District's Saturday night lodging accommodations for servicemen has been overcome through installation of a free bus shuttle service to the Memorial Bridge Recreation Area and the acquisition of extra cots, it was learned today.

A conference on servicemen's lodging, called by the Servicemen's Lodging Committee of the War Hospitality Committee, last night revealed that cots now available here number approximately 2,100.

This figure will be increased by 400 in the "immediate" future, and the ultimate figure may run as high as 3,000 if Community War Fund sources, earmarked for the purpose, are tapped, according to Lt. Comdr. W. A. Corley, U. S. N., retired, chairman of the Servicemen's Lodging Committee.

Free Bus Improved.

Lt. Col. W. H. Long, commanding officer of the Memorial Bridge Recreational Area, reported that a free shuttle service for military units, which was inaugurated last week, will be resumed, with improvements, tomorrow night and Sunday morning and will continue as long as it is needed.

Servicemen may board the bus for the area, where approximately 1,000 cot accommodations are available, at any one of the following three stations between midnight and 5 a.m.:

1. East end of the Union Station.
2. Servicemen's Club No. 1, 306 Ninth Street N.W.
3. Soldiers, Sailors and Marines' Club, 1015 L Street N.W.

Comdr. Corley indicated he has high hopes for continued successful operation of a plan which has been perfected in recent weeks and which was received enthusiastically last night. It was estimated that approximately 500 cots were available for servicemen in the District last week end.

Inquiries Suggested.

"If servicemen failed to get sleeping accommodations here last Saturday night," Comdr. Corley said, "they did so of their own free will." He suggested inquiries at any USO office, appropriate military defense agency, Traveler's Aid or American Women's Voluntary Service office would have elicited the necessary information.

Servicemen's lodging centers were prepared by Mrs. Raymond Fowler, president of the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines' Club; Lt. John H. Simpson, special services officer of the military district of Washington, and Lt. William T. Thomas, director of the district's USO office, are in charge of lodging at Servicemen's Club No. 1.

These recommendations, presented to the gathering last night, included the following:

1. To obtain information requested by military authorities, it is recommended that a uniform information procedure be established in lodging centers. Information desired includes the serviceman's name, serial number, branch of service and his point of origin.

2. To expedite the collection of statistical information requested by military authorities, it is recommended that all lodging centers forward to the office of the Servicemen's Lodging Committee, 306 Ninth Street N.W., not later than Sunday evening, a report of the week's registration, from Sunday p.m. through to Sunday a.m. The report form should be prepared by the Servicemen's Lodging Committee.

50-Cent Cot Price Urged.

The lodging service should be a non-profit enterprise. It is suggested that cots be priced at 50 cents each.

Special subcommittees of the Servicemen's Lodging Committee should be established to advise new lodging centers at the beginning of the service.

Servicemen who are uncontrollable should be referred to the military police (National 4000, Ext. 276) rather than District police officials. Servicemen in need of medical attention should be referred to military authorities rather than civilian personnel. (Note: If patient is transportable, send him to Army dispensary on E between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets N.W. If case in more serious, call War Department Dispensary, Republic 6700, Branch 3581, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard patients who are transportable should be sent to the Navy Dispensary, Nineteenth Street Constitution Avenue N.W., in ninth (westmost) wing of Navy Building. If case is more serious, call Navy Department, Republic 7400, and ask for Naval Dispensary.)

Lodging center have a burglar-proof safe or a strong box for the checking of valuables.

Sellout Reports Urged.

Lodging centers should cooperate with the central dispatch telephone service by phoning in when cots are sold out and making a final report on the Twenty-fifth Street N.W. If case in more serious, call War Department Dispensary, Republic 6700, Branch 3581, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard patients who are transportable should be sent to the Navy Dispensary, Nineteenth Street Constitution Avenue N.W., in ninth (westmost) wing of Navy Building. If case is more serious, call Navy Department, Republic 7400, and ask for Naval Dispensary.)

It is recommended that all servicemen's centers post at conspicuous places special bulletins of the Servicemen's Lodging Committee, the recreation bulletin and the Saturday night dispatch sheet.

Shift of 18,000,000 To War Jobs in 15 Month Forecast

Brig. Gen. McSherry Chief of Manpower Operations, Says Pirating Reduced

Labor pirating in American industries, for some time a serious threat to the war effort, has been reduced substantially in recent weeks, Brig. Gen. Frank J. McSherry, chief of operations in the War Manpower Commission, disclosed here yesterday at a luncheon meeting of the Junior Board of Commerce in the Annapolis Hotel.

At the same time, the principal assistant to Chairman Paul V. McNutt warned that 18,000,000 persons will have to be shifted to war essential jobs within the next 15 months, if the growing manpower crisis is to be solved.

He stressed that an "active war labor market" of 62,500,000 men must be set up by the end of 1943. The Government, he added, was counting heavily on women entering war industries "now that barriers against women working are being broken down."

Gen. McSherry cited the dropping off of labor pirating in Baltimore. During the last two weeks instances of the practice have dropped to zero, he said. He termed labor pirating "a serious threat" to the war effort.

Declaring that WMC was watching closely the labor situation in the steel industry, Gen. McSherry warned that if many more steel workers leave their jobs, production of steel faces a cut. By the same token, food this winter will be short, he added, should agricultural workers continue to be drained off farms.

He praised the co-operation of Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service chief, in reducing draft quotas in boards where there is a high percentage of essential war workers. "They have been most helpful to us," Gen. McSherry said.

Speculates on Length of War.
The speaker also warned that "sooner or later, if the war continues, we will have to come to a national service act." He added: "And this war may last two, three or four years." He declared: "We may be in the same fix as England." No privately-owned automobiles and our newspapers cut down to a few pages."

Gen. McSherry said he also had been "frozen" to his job, despite the fact "I would rather be out with the troops in Africa." He said he was slated to go overseas last summer with Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, now directing the North African offensive, but that his orders had been canceled.

The WMC official has been slated to assume the important task of revamping the United States Employment Service, it was learned this week. As Mr. McNutt's assistant, Gen. McSherry is responsible for virtually all of the major programs of WMC.

Inter-American Commission Of Women Is Entertained

Senora de Espil Hostess at Tea Honoring Senora de Guerrero

By Katharine Brooks

Friendliness and cordiality are the keynotes of all contacts which the delegates to the conference of the Inter-American Commission of Women have had with the women of this country. Scores of small and informal parties have been given for these visitors, women leaders in civic and national affairs of their countries, and several parties of larger proportions are on their schedule through this week. They will be in New York next week and will take part in a forum being arranged by one of the leading dailies of that city.

Many of the women from our neighbor republics are or have been active newspaperwomen and more than one will write reports of the present conference and their activities during their stay in the National Capital for their papers and magazines when they get home. A few are sending reports while here.

Senora de Espil, wife of the Argentine Ambassador and the ranking hostess of the diplomatic corps, gave one of these larger parties yesterday afternoon. Arranged quite informally with invitations by telephone early in the week, the attractive hostess entertained the wives of diplomatic missions, and officials of this Government. Senora de Espil stood at the top of the stairs in the wide hall of the charming Embassy on New Hampshire street at Q street. She was dressed in a street-length frock of black, smartly fashioned with three-quarter length sleeves and high neckline. A moderately long string of well-matched pearls gave a marked contrast. She wore no other jewels and no flowers.

Senora Ana Rosa Martinez de Guerrero of Argentina, chairman of the Inter-American Commission of Women, stood with Senora de Espil for some time and then went into the dining room where she chatted with the numerous guests. She, too, was dressed in black with rhinestone clips at the high neckline relieving its severity. Her round black hat was edged with a band of bright red feathers and a snood of black net caught her soft iron-gray hair. She, also, was without jewels and flowers.

The dining table where tea was served at one end and mate—South American tea—at the other end had in the center an ancient soup tureen of gayly decorated pottery which was filled with tiny white chrysanthemums, and about it four small dishes in the same pottery filled with gardenias. This was flanked by tall silver candlesticks with lighted white candles. Elsewhere in the room were vases with mauve and bronze chrysanthemums and in one corner a table where wine was served. Senora de Perodi, wife of the Military Attache, poured mate, said to contain so many or such powerful vitamins that one is able to do a day's work after one cup of the hot liquid. Wives of other members of the Embassy staff poured tea and saw that the guests were plentifully served.

Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, wife of the Vice President, was accompanied by her sister-in-law, Mme. Bruggmann, wife of the Swiss Minister, the latter wearing an olive green costume especially becoming to her titian hair. Mrs. Wallace was in black, with a short jacket of martin fur. Mme. Bostrom, wife of the Swedish Minister, who is dean of Envoyes at this Capital, was there, wearing a dark gown and olive green costume.

Mrs. Ralph William Case, wife of the South African Minister, and Lady Dixon, wife of the Australian Minister were in a group of the English speaking guests. Lady Dixon told friends of the former Minister and Mrs. Richard Casey that she had heard from Mrs. Casey a few days ago. The Caseys are in Egypt, where the former Minister is serving as a member of the war board, and Mrs. Casey is deeply engrossed in Red Cross work in hospitals and in other capacities. Their children remained in Washington, where they are attending school.

Mme. Hurban, wife of the Czechoslovak Minister, wearing an all black costume with a small round and very becoming hat, told many of her friends that the Minister had had the best night's sleep in several years after the news from North Africa came in Saturday night. Mme. Procope, wife of the Finnish Minister, also was there and wore an all-black costume, and Lady Bajpai, wife of the Agent General for India, wearing her native dress in purple and gold, gave a dash of color to the company.

Black predominated in the costumes, some of them lightened with bright ornaments on the bodices and many without color or sparkle to relieve the severity of the black.

Before joining Lt. Comdr. Mussen Mrs. Mussen had spent the summer in Aberdeen, Scotland, where her father, Surgeon Rear Admiral Horace Stephens, is now on duty. ## By the Way—

You wouldn't expect to find a charming old-fashioned apartment, furnished with Pennsylvania Dutch family heirlooms, in one of the newest and most modern of apartment houses on Sixteenth street, would you? But that's just what you'll find if you should go to tea with Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Ives Messenger. Mrs. Messenger's family come from Lancaster, Pa., her husband's from upper New York State. When Mr. Messenger was sent here last December (for the duration) as an expert at hospital lay-outs and specialist in hospital equipment, the Messengers both felt that "home" was where their own lovely furniture was, so they brought it along with them. Even the collection of old baptismal certificates of Mrs. Messenger's ancestors. These baptismal certificates are a form of art peculiar to the Pennsylvania Dutch. It is called "fracture" painting and many years ago was taught in the Pennsylvania schools. Colorful pictures of birds and flowers and gayly robed angels (some even are dressed in pink and blue polka dots) adorn the certificates. They are picturesque and amusing and many people collect them for their decorative value alone, but Mrs. Messenger's are all her own family so have a sentimental value as well. Some date back as far as 1800. She has a collection of old dolls too, which fill the shelves of a handsome secretary that came from Mr. Messenger's New York ancestors and is dated 1810. And she also has an interesting collection of antique jewelry which she wears with her smart new frocks.

Looking trim and tailored and sleek, Mrs. Messenger gave us tea from a lovely old silver tea service, and answered questions we asked about her war work here. Since coming to Washington she has taken the Red Cross Staff Assistance course, is a member of the Red Cross Speaker's Bureau, has completed the CDVO course on bombs and gases and is the radio chairman of the Civilian Defense Volunteer Office, putting on a weekly radio program. She and her husband serve as host and hostess every Saturday night from 10 to 1 a. m. at the USO Lounge at Union Station. Most prized possession

Newspaper Women's Club Hears Dr. Wei Cite Amity

By Gretchen Smith.

The picturesque phrases of speech for which Chinese poets and scholars have long been famous marked an informal talk given by Dr. Wei Tao-ming, Ambassador from China, before members of the Newspaper Women's Club at a tea given yesterday in his honor.

Describing the friendship which has existed between the United States and his country over a period of years, Dr. Wei said, "friendship is stronger than stone and cannot be broken. As with friends, so it is true among nations."

"I have been so happy," he continued, "to find the same sentiment of friendship which exists in China for the Americans, here in your country, realizing that it is leading to an ever closer Sino-American friendship. Because of a common enemy and a common cause our friendship assures even closer cooperation in the future," he added.

Answering questions from members and guests, the Ambassador spoke of the increasing influence of women in his country and their participation in professional and civic life. There are many Chinese newspaperwomen, he told the American women of the press, who are doing important reporting on war and general news. Pointing out the political importance of Chinese women, he said that 10 women were represented on the People's Political Council at Chungking, one of China's most important civic bodies.

In spite of untold and repeated bombings, China has saved the greatest part of her valuable works of art, Dr. Wei said. Many of these were carried from Peiping and Shanghai into the western part of China where the nation is now building its modern world. China will continue to build her important centers in the west even after peace has come, the Ambassador declared. There she is rapidly expanding schools and hospitals and centers of culture, he explained.

Mme. Wei, who shared honors with the Ambassador, made an attractive picture as she sat next to her husband, costumed in a black satin frock of Chinese design, embroidered in scarlet flowers. The severity of her high collared tunic was relieved by a handsome string of Chinese jade.

Following the Ambassador's address, members and friends thronged about the honor guests for a personal greeting. Several old acquaintances who had known Dr. and Mme. Wei in China were among those who attended the tea. Mme. Wei smiled as she was introduced to Miss Viola Smith, American Consul and registrar of the China Trade Act.

"The world is indeed a small place," she commented as she explained how she had met Miss Smith 15 years ago in Shanghai during the time she presided as Judge of the District Court of Nantao in Shanghai where Miss Smith was then American Consul at that city. Miss Smith smilingly recalled how she had visited the Chinese woman magistrate with a large international group of women, eager to meet the Chinese "lady judge" who had gained a reputation as a clever and brilliant lawyer before she had been appointed to the judgeship.

The honor guests were received by Miss Alice Eversman, the club president, who introduced members and their friends. Mrs. Cordell Hull, wife of the Secretary of State, and an associate member of the club, was among the first to greet Dr. and Mme. Wei. Others attending the tea included Mrs. Joseph Davies, Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, Mrs. Edward E. Gann, Capt. and Mrs. Smith Hempstone, Comdr. and Mrs. George Douglas Morrison, Mrs. Samuel O. Clark, Jr., wife of the Assistant Attorney General; Mrs. Joseph Powers of California; Senor Luis Zavala of La Paz, Bolivia; Mrs. J. J. Mack, Mrs. George Belic, Mrs. Ellen Wood Robofsky, Mrs. Tomas Cajigas, Mrs. Joshua Evans and her guests, Mrs. A. K. Ball, Mrs. Arthur L. Day and Mrs. A. R. Harris of Los Angeles.

Club's Support Of Children's Clinic Lauded

20th Century Group Hears Dr. Hightower Tell of Unit's Aims

Expressing his appreciation to the Twentieth Century Club for its valuable support of the Crippled Children's Clinic, which he heads at Gallinger Hospital, Dr. Robert B. Hightower stated his hope to "make the clinic an example for all other hospitals in the country" in an address before club members yesterday at the YWCA.

The Twentieth Century Club lends financial support to the circulating library and occupational therapy unit maintained in the clinic.

"We appreciate greatly all that has been done for the clinic by the Twentieth Century Club," he said. "You have added a feminine touch to our wards and have provided niceties which we, who are busy with patients, have not the time to occupy ourselves with."

The 1941 statistics, according to Dr. Hightower, show that the clinic gave 477 orthopedic patients 2,112 treatments or examinations; that 164 cardiac patients received 527 treatments or examinations, and that 30 plastic cases were given 54 treatments.

"During 1942 we anticipate a 25 per cent increase over 1941," Dr. Hightower said, "and there are lots of problems we haven't been able to work out yet."

"One of our great lacks is facilities for bridging the gap between the time the child is hospitalized and the time when it is ready to take its place in society as a useful citizen," he went on, explaining the problems of occupational therapy. "Another problem is the residence requirement, which demands one year's residence in the city before a child may be cared for in the clinic."

"The library department has been very useful. I think that service is of the greatest value to these bedridden children. I cannot tell you how much this service has meant to us all."

He explained the need for a fully equipped small dining room, permitting children to get away from bedside eating. Miss Elizabeth Messick, occupational therapist in the Crippled Children's Clinic, cited statistics showing that patients had been contracted 2,119 times in 1940, 4,217 times in 1941 and more than 6,000 times so far this year. Miss Mildred Page, librarian, told many anecdotes about the children's happiness over their library service.

The luncheon, which was attended by some 50 members of the club, was sponsored by the civic-education section, of which Mrs. Edgar Merritt is chairman. The speakers were introduced by Mrs. Richard Fay Jackson, chairman of the Gallinger Hospital projects of the club. Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of the organization, was an honored guest.

Two Women's Units Honor Crusader For Equal Rights

In celebration of the 127th anniversary of the birth of Elizabeth Cady Stanton, outstanding crusader for women's rights, members of the National Woman's Party and Chevy Chase Branch of the League of American Pen Women gathered last evening in the library at Alva Belmont House and heard Miss Jeanette Marks read her play, "Laughter," which traces the history of the feminist movement.

Miss Marks, former professor of literature at Mount Holyoke College, noted author and lecturer, is a member of both clubs. An ardent worker for the equal rights amendment, Miss Marks gave her views on American women and their freedom before her reading.

"Freedom is the American woman's birthright," she said, "and if she doesn't enjoy it now it is because somewhere along the line it has been lost and now it must be recovered again."

She recalled that during the World War women came to Washington in droves and were thrust into prison while clamoring for equal rights. Even when the jail doors closed on them they continued to appeal for the right to vote. They won.

"Women have sprung to the defense of freedom the world over," Miss Marks continued. "Large groups of women are nurses, physicians, WAACS, WAVES and in the Air Corps. Today American women are convinced that they will become complete partners in the four freedoms—forms of liberty which are theirs by birthright."

Miss Mary E. Downey, librarian of Alva Belmont House and chairman of the Chevy Chase Pen Women's League, presided.

Travel Club to Hear Talk on China

Intimate glimpses of life in China and at headquarters of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek will feature the talk to be given by Miss Elisabeth Redelstein at the monthly meeting of the Wanderlust Travel Club at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Miss Edith Robinson, 721 Dale drive, Silver Spring, Md.

Miss Redelstein, hospital supervisor at the Takoma Park Sanitarium and Hospital, spent 10 years in the Far East organizing hospitals and directing training schools in China, Penang, Singapore and the Philippines. She is well acquainted with the mode of living of the various social classes in China and has traveled with the generalissimo and Mme. Chiang from the seacoast to the interior. At the outbreak of the war Miss Redelstein was in Europe, which prevented her return to China, where many of her personal belongings still remain.

Miss Carol Arnold and Mrs. Bayard Keough will be assistant hostesses. Miss Frances Fox, president, will conduct the business meeting. Miss Mae Hickey, program chairman, will introduce the speaker.

Jeffers Hints Example May Be Made of Mileage Violators

Rubber Czar Declares Those Driving Needlessly 'Aren't Good Citizens'

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—William M. Jeffers, wartime rubber czar, said last night he was "in the mood to make an example" of people who violated gasoline-tire mileage rules.

Mr. Jeffers, addressing the Association of National Advertisers, said that while he did not believe in what he called a punitive approach, those who wasted rubber by needless driving "just aren't good citizens."

Synthetic rubber, he said, would not be made in sizable amounts before late in 1944, although one large butadiene plant—to produce the raw material—would start operating by mid-January, 1943. In all, he added, 10 large plants would come into production next year, in addition to smaller plants making products for the rubber program.

Discussing the problem of persuading people to conserve, Mr. Jeffers said that sometimes "misinformation" became widely circulated, and confusion resulted.

"A spokesman, perhaps a Government spokesman," Mr. Jeffers explained, "talks carelessly to a reporter. The result is a story headlined: 'Rubber Problem Licked,' or 'Tires For All.'"

"Some of the people, accepting these statements at their face value and not troubling to read the details, conclude that mileage regulations are not necessary, and are an infringement of their rights."

Mr. Jeffers commented that every driver would like to believe there is some short cut to rubber conservation other than mileage rationing and added, "Unfortunately there isn't."

The facts are, Mr. Jeffers said, that the Japanese cut off 90 per cent of our supplies and that as a result the United States is compressing into two years the building of a tremendous synthetic rubber industry which ordinarily would take a dozen years to build. And, he said, the Nation must bridge the two-year gap—until synthetics are being-through conservation. That, he indicated, is the reason for the present 35-mile-an-hour speed limit and gasoline rationing that is to be made Nation-wide on December 1.

"The greatest reserve supply of rubber we have in this country is in the million tons of rubber in the tires of our passenger cars and trucks," Mr. Jeffers said. "We must stretch that million tons as far as it will possibly go—and maybe a little bit farther."

Selling the American people on such conservation, Mr. Jeffers told advertising men, was his problem.

Jap Consul in Morocco Among 29 Fugitives

By the Associated Press.

TANGIER, Nov. 12 (Delayed).—Twenty-nine Axis nationals fleeing French Morocco on the arrival of Allied armed forces reached Spanish Morocco last night.

The Japanese Consul at Casablanca was among the refugees. In all there were 14 Germans, 6 Italians and 9 Japanese, men and women.

Soldiers of France today had an invitation from Gen. John J. Pershing, leader of their American comrades in the 1918 fight against "German barbarism" to join with the United Nations so they "will once more be free."

Gen. Pershing extended his invitation through a letter to President Roosevelt, declaring the "Axis has met its Marne" and faces "final, inevitable defeat."

Gen. Pershing said, his "former comrades-in-arms" will "hear the tramp of marching men who not so long from now will be swinging" on their way "past Chateau Thierry" to "victory at Berlin."

Producers to Rush Films to Africa to Entertain Troops

M-G-M Official Cites Generals' Praise of Movies for Morale

American picture producers have been asked by the Government to rush preparation of special prints of current productions so as to place American pictures as quickly as possible on screens in Algeria, French Morocco and other occupied areas.

Howard Dietz, vice president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer told members of the National Board of Review in New York yesterday of plans made by the industry to make this contribution to the war effort.

Speaking at an organization luncheon, Mr. Dietz quoted a statement received this week by cable from Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower which said:

"Motion pictures are of the utmost importance in providing entertainment and building up morale. Newsreels are especially of tremendous value, providing for the soldiers the means of keeping up with their friends in other theaters of war and with their families at home. The stories and the sets in feature productions bring their home country vividly to their memories. Let's have more motion pictures."

Other Generals Quoted. Mr. Dietz also quoted commanding officer of United States forces in other positions of the globe. Lt. Gen. Frank M. Andrews (cabled from Cairo) that "the use of motion pictures is considered highly important for morale purposes in this theater, and a definite aid in cementing Anglo-American unity. Other forms of entertainment are often difficult to obtain and motion pictures fill a real need."

Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel cabled from Iceland that "due to the isolation of so many of our installations, I consider that motion pictures are among the outstanding means used to stimulate a healthy state of mind in my command in Iceland. I feel that they are as necessary to the men as rations. All pictures are screened in a capacity house and we deeply appreciate your efforts to keep us supplied."

Maj. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, New Delhi, India, said that "motion pictures are needed and useful in stimulating healthy state of mind and improving morale. This statement based upon experience at many scattered stations where motion pictures constitute practically the only diversion for troops."

Maj. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner stated that "the Alaskan Command deeply appreciates the effort now being made to bring motion pictures to the far-flung outposts where no amusement facilities exist. Carrying this program into effect on adequate scales proves an important patriotic contribution to the health and morale of the troops in the Aleutians and other remote situations. The efforts to effectuate the program of top-flight entertainment is a worthy contribution to the national war effort."

Co-operation Cited. Mr. Dietz said the motion picture industry had been active in Government co-operation 18 months before Pearl Harbor. He commented on the international popularity of motion pictures, which are being shown in 48,000 theaters outside this country in addition to the 17,000 theaters at home.

In England, where they have plenty of war every day, they seek light entertainment on the screen, he said. He quoted Quentin Reynolds as writing that "when Mr. Churchill finishes his 15 hours a day under tremendous pressure, he likes to see something like 'My Favorite Blond.' Still wound up, he looks at it for 10 minutes and Bob Hope unwinds him, as his worries, bad temper, pettiness leave him. If Hope and guys like him should try to get into the Army, some one should flatten their feet or break an arm. There are only a few of us who can give renewed life and energy to men like Churchill and Bob Hope, who also is a fan of laugh pictures!"

R. A. Stevens Heads Arlington Kiwanis Russell A. Stevens has been elected president of the Arlington County Kiwanis Club, it was announced yesterday.

Other officers elected are Arthur T. Keene, first vice president; H. Brad Bloomer, second vice president, and William K. MacMahon, treasurer.

The newly-elected directors are Samuel P. Ford, Eugene L. De Hagh, Walter Vaughn, E. L. Usilton, Paul R. Rupert, Walter Hammer and Raymond L. Miller.

Noses Counted at White House Before the Coffee Is Made By the Associated Press. At the White House these days noses are counted before the coffee is made so none of the precious drink will be wasted.

But no "stretch-out" system such as that suggested by New York's Mayor La Guardia is being applied, Mrs. Henry Nesbit, the housekeeper, disclosed last night.

The Mayor's suggestion—and one that has stirred up a battle of words among coffee drinkers, makers and growers—was that used coffee grounds be saved and a little fresh coffee sprinkled in to make an extra cup later.

This suggestion has no appeal to Mrs. Nesbit, who said, "One cup of good coffee is worth more than two cups of poor, weak coffee."

"But," said Mrs. Nesbit, "we're making coffee go further by being very careful to make only just what we need. We count the number for whom we are to make coffee."

When it comes to the rationing of coffee, which begins November 28, the White House will abide by the rationing board's decision as to the amount allowed, just as it did in regard to sugar, Mrs. Nesbit said.

Mrs. Roosevelt already had left for her trip to Great Britain when Price Administrator Henderson announced that Americans were going to have to ease up on the coffee pot, but it's a safe assumption, judging by her serving sugarless desserts at the White House, that on her return coffee drinkers at the White House will toe the mark.

At the moment demi-tasse is served guests at luncheon and at dinner, and a full-sized cupful at breakfast. If breakfast is served in the guest's room on a tray, the coffee arrives in a pot. There's also a pitcher of hot milk so the guest can do his own stretching.

Long, Hard Fight Still Ahead, Legion Commander Believes

Major Offensive Hasn't Started Yet, Waring Asserts

America's major military offensive has not yet started, in the opinion of Roane Waring of Memphis, Tenn., national commander of the American Legion.

Asserting he was thrilled over the speedy triumph achieved in North Africa, Mr. Waring issued a warning, however, that "we must make sacrifices on the home front, and steel ourselves for a long, hard fight, and casualties that will ensue."

"This is no time for relaxation of the total war effort, Mr. Waring emphasized. "We should not allow ourselves to be unduly elated over temporary victories, or become discouraged over temporary defeats," he said during an interview yesterday at the Mayflower Hotel. He had participated with President Roosevelt and Gen. John J. Pershing in the Armistice Day exercises at Arlington National Cemetery Wednesday.

Three Main Objectives.

Pointing out that from 100,000 to 150,000 Legionnaires are again wearing their Nation's uniform, and that some 300,000 sons of the more than 1,000,000 members of the American Legion are in the service in the Army and Navy, Mr. Waring said the three paramount objectives of the Legion are:

"First, to win the war; second, to win the peace; third, to preserve the American theory of government and the ideals that our forefathers gave us."

Legionnaires affiliated with 11,000 posts throughout the Nation are again serving—this time mostly on the home front—as home guards, auxiliary firemen, policemen, air raid wardens and aircraft spotters. As the need arises, "they can fit into military and naval jobs, but not for combat service," Mr. Waring said.

The Legion leader paid tribute to Washington in wartime, asserting he had "never seen people working so hard as now."

He said he is confident the Axis will be defeated, but America must not be caught unprepared again, he asserted.

Repeats Armistice Plea.

"I cannot emphasize too strongly a brief statement I made at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier here on Armistice Day," Mr. Waring stated.

"Soon another Unknown Soldier may be brought here to rest, and another marble tomb may be erected over his sacred body. Let us hope, nay, more than that, let us now solemnly vow and pledge ourselves that never again will this America of ours allow itself to be so misguided, so misled, that never again will America be so untrue to the principles for which this new Unknown Soldier died, that there will ever be a possibility for a third Tomb of an Unknown Soldier consecrating this hallowed hill."

As the veterans of the World War pass away, the younger men now fighting the present global battle will assume the leadership, Mr. Waring said. "The American Legion welcomes them if they desire to join us," he stated. "They have a right to organize their own group, probably will do so. There is an age disparity, but no group could improve on the principles which led to the formation of the American Legion. In the future, now, and as in the past, our objectives are promotion of the national defense, good government and good citizenship."

Asks "Dictated Peace."

Our enemies, Mr. Waring asserted, "must be made to realize the meaning of total devastation, the meaning of a war of complete destruction; they have never had that lesson in modern history. They must be taught, the German people, the Japanese people and the Italian people, what war really means, and what retribution they will surely face again if in the years to come they again follow false warlike leaders. Yes, it must be a dictated peace, a just peace of realities, be-

By the Associated Press.
HOBOKEN, N. J., Nov. 13.—Six small children, who had been found "unkempt, unwashed and in terrible condition" in a room here are happy in St. Mary's Hospital, and police are searching for their mother.

Relief Director Austin Tighe said that the woman, Mrs. Henry Lorenz, had been receiving "adequate aid" from the city since coming from Baltimore, Md., where she said her husband had deserted her.

Police Inspector Bernard J. McFeely said the children had been alone for almost 20 hours.

Congress Heights Citizens Re-elect Officers

J. Louis Gelbman, president of the Congress Heights Citizens' Association, and all other incumbent officers were re-elected last night. The slate includes Benson Taylor, vice president; Mrs. Maude Liebbrand, second vice president; Mrs. Edna G. Dulin, secretary; Mrs. Loretta London, treasurer; Mrs. Alma Allen, financial secretary, and Francis Wahler, trustee. Mr. Taylor and Emile E. Chapman were chosen delegates to the Federation.

The association endorsed a stand previously taken by Mr. Gelbman not to oppose the Public Utilities Commission's decision on an increase of fuel gas rates nor to petition for another hearing.

Mr. Gelbman said that he doesn't believe "the difference the increase would make to the average individual should warrant the association's rushing into opposition."

In another motion, the group protested any decrease or termination of construction on the new Patterson School, Chesapeake street and Nichols avenue S.E. The motion was proposed by Mr. Taylor. The association also authorized Mr. Gelbman to form a committee to plan the establishment, somewhere in the area, of a war memorial tablet, listing all members of Congress Heights families serving in the armed forces.

Harry Liebbrand, chairman of the Salvage Committee, turned over $100 to the association that was realized from a recent scrap campaign. An appropriation of $10 was voted to the Community War Fund. The group met at the Congress Heights School.

World Peoples Have Few Radios For Expensive OWI Programs

Japan and Dominated Isles, Plus France And Germany, Have Little Opportunity to Hear

By HELEN LOMBARD.

Washington's latest spy story was brought to town by a Government official on his return from Chicago. This official did not know whether to laugh or become indignant when, after conferring with members of the Chicago Board of Trade on defense business, he was told the following story:

A Nazi spy was ordered by his chiefs to map a plan for the eventual aerial bombardment of the Capital of the United States. He was told to mark with arrows those buildings which are most essential to the war effort and whose destruction therefore must be the objective of Axis planes. The spy made a careful survey. He gathered information from all possible channels. After a lengthy interval he reported to his chiefs as follows:

"It is really impossible to give priority to any Washington Government building for attention from bombers. The American are so efficient that they have foreseen and amply provided against interference with any Government activities by destruction of their agencies. There are two, three or more persons doing the same job under different roofs. You could therefore destroy two-thirds of Washington's desks without hindering the American war effort."

When the final result of the November 3 balloting came in there was more than one Washington agency which failed to find this story funny. Public relations officers of many bureaus forgot to tell newspapermen to stop criticizing the Government.

Threat to Appropriations.
In Republican circles exuberance was scarcely polite. Even the fact that the party did not obtain control of the House was a good thing, decreed one prominent member, for the Republicans will now be in a position to criticize vigorously without asking responsibility for the conduct of the war.

That the new-found Republican strength will make itself felt in next year's appropriations no one doubts. The prevailing uneasiness among the mushroom agencies which have flourished in the warmth of unlimited funds indicates that even they have a premonition of what is in store for them.

Likely to feel the ax first are the hybrid organizations dealing with the "war on the mind" and with propaganda.

In the OWI the fattest salaries and the most numerous jobs are in the foreign propaganda division. Only a fraction of the OWI budget is being used to keep the American public posted on the war. An enormous personnel, which Elmer Davis has inherited and not selected, is being employed for the diffusion of propaganda to Japan, China, Arabia, India, Europe, North Africa and South America. The problem is not whether such propaganda is effective. The question is whether it is heard.

The broadcasts to Japan, for instance, are not likely to win many converts to the allied cause. The Tokio government, following the Nazi cue, has rendered the limited number of existing sets unfit for short-wave reception.

In the South Pacific islands under Japanese domination only the whites and the high native officials used to possess sets. These have now been confiscated by the conqueror.

France has never been as radio minded as this country. The sets in existence have been wearing out since the occupation; replacements are impossible, and the few radios which are capable of receiving short-wave broadcasts are hidden by their possessors and are being saved for the reception of vital communications which cannot be used for propaganda purposes. The Nazi authorities have made it an offense punishable by death to own a short-wave set.

In Germany a very cheap radio is now available to the population. It costs only about $4 and is very popular in the Reich. It is made of plastic and cannot receive broadcasts from stations more than 150 miles away. It receives local news, transcribed music and speeches of Nazi officials.

There are the huge Indian and Chinese populations and the Arab masses which could be regaled by the American broadcasts—if they had radio sets.

Troops in New Guinea Face Queer Contrasts Of Heat and Cold

Port Moresby Is Dry; Tropic Monsoons Bring Stifling Heat and Rain

Australian and Japanese troops hacking their way through the tree-tight jungles of tropical New Guinea face the heavy and seemingly never-ending rains that travel with the trade winds or the monsoons.

This huge dinosaur-shaped island with its head almost touching the Equator, its eye looking toward the southeast coast of Asia and its tail, 1,500 miles away, curved toward the northeastern tip of Australia's mainland, is a land of strange contrasts and climatic contradictions, says the National Geographic Society.

Tropical Cauldron.

Its low grasslands are often temporarily buried in the ooze of tropical swamps. Its tree-matted and vine-tangled jungles sweep up the mountain slopes and hesitate only at the swirling waters of the river's edge. And out of this tropical cauldron with its steam rising in clouds, mighty mountain peaks reach up from the very sea floor to well above 16,000 feet (Carstensz Toppen, 16,404 feet). These peaks frequently wear cold white hats of snow.

While most of the island drips, bomb-blasted Port Moresby, on the underside and near the end of the tail, is smothered in rolling clouds of dust. This is the driest spot on the island. Rainfall frequently drops to below 50 inches a year—about the same average fall as in New York—while Kikori, only 250 miles westward around the coast, is flooded with a 230-inch fall.

The weather in New Guinea depends a great deal on the direction of the monsoon and whether that monsoon is the "good" or the "bad"—the "dry" or the "wet." The wind that blows in from the east and southeast passes over the dry lands of Australia and travels over very little water before it strikes New Guinea. Its moisture content is comparatively low.

Stifling, Breathless Days.

It begins generally in May, reaches a peak in August, and tapers off in time for the wet northwest monsoon to take over late in November. Dry, when applied to the southeast wind, is a misnomer as far as certain areas are concerned, such as Kikori and the north part of Huon Gulf. Most of the 230 to 250 inches that falls over a period of a year in this section falls during the blowing of the southeast winds (May to October).

The northwest monsoon is the "bad" monsoon. It brings the stifling, steaming, breathless days. Humidity hangs like a leaden weight. Downpours turn once-firm ground into ankle-deep bogs. Electrical storms strike with great violence. Trees lashed by the fiery tongue of lightning appear to explode and splinters fly in all directions. Full-grown trees, undermined and uprooted, topple over into the rain-mad rivers and are carried away.

Temperature variations in New Guinea are very slight. Along the coasts and sea-level lands, where rainfall averages are as high as 200 inches a year, the temperature stands almost constantly around 80 degrees. The hottest months in the southeastern part of the island are October and November. In the northwestern tip the highest temperatures come in April and May.

Germans Claim Sinking Of Seven Ships Off Africa

By the Associated Press. BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Nov. 13.—The German high command reported today the sinking of a British cruiser, a destroyer and five transports and damage to 18 other Allied ships by Axis U-boat and plane attacks off North Africa.

(There was no Allied confirmation of these enemy claims.) The war bulletin said the cruiser, of the 9,100-ton Birmingham class, was sent down by five torpedoes yesterday off the Moroccan coast. It said the destroyer and three transports totaling 22,000 tons were sunk by submarines in the same waters.

The high command said occupation of the Southern French coast "has practically been completed."

Canada Takes Action On Prison Riot Story Printed by Magazine

U. S.-Born Correspondent For Time to Be Prosecuted Under Defense Act

By the Associated Press. OTTAWA, Nov. 13.—Edward G. Rohrbough, American-born Toronto newspaperman, today faced charges of violating Canadian defense regulations because he allegedly supplied Time Magazine with information on which the American periodical based a story of disorders among German prisoners at Bowmanville, Ontario, last month. The Justice Department announced the police had sworn out information against Mr. Rohrbough and a prosecutor had been named.

At the time of the trouble publication of details was suppressed by press censorship, but on October 23 after the Time story had appeared, Defense Minister J. L. Ralston issued a statement describing the disorders.

Mr. Ralston said the story contained "distortions and inaccuracies" which would "not only provide the enemy with material for propaganda, but might also be used by German authorities as an excuse for further mistreatment of Canadian and British prisoners of war in their hands."

P. I. Prentice, publisher of Time, subsequently made a statement in which he expressed regret for "the embarrassment its story has apparently caused the Canadian government." He said that Time had not realized the matter was to be kept secret and that its story was based "on a long report from a Canadian correspondent—who told us he had been an eyewitness of some of the scenes he described." The trouble at Bowmanville occurred October 10 when the German prisoners attempted to resist by force a flogging order issued in reprisal for the manning of British prisoners in Germany. The disturbance was quelled after several prisoners and guards had been injured.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 13 (AP)—Edward G. Rohrbough, Jr., who was charged by the Canadian government with violating the Defense of Canada regulations by furnishing information for a story about German prisoners of war to Time Magazine, is the son of Dr. E. G. Rohrbough of Glenville, Republican, recently elected to Congress from the 3d West Virginia district. The son is 31 years old. He attended the University of Virginia and West Virginia University.

New Club Opens Where Soldiers Can Entertain Families

Army War College Lounge Plans Two Dances, Three Movie Shows a Week

The Army War College last night opened one of the few service clubs around Washington where families and friends are welcome just as much as the serviceman himself.

"I like it here," explained Pvt. Fletcher Street, "because I can bring my kid sister to meet the fellows when she comes down from Philly to visit me." Though the Union Station service lounge, Stage Door Canteen and Hains Point lounge are fine for the soldiers, he explained, they do not specialize in entertainment of families as well.

The lounge is open every afternoon for visiting. Two evenings a week there will be dancing there and three evenings a week movies.

Crepe paper festooned the ceiling and a row of paper turkeys lined the walls for the gala opening last night. Fifteen members of the Red Cross Canteen Corps were on hand to serve refreshments to the men. Furniture on the balcony was donated by the Potomac Camp and Council of the American Red Cross.

In accepting the furniture from Mrs. Leigh Warren of the Potomac Camp, Col. T. F. Bresnahan, commandant of the college, emphasized the men's need for the lounge. Far from their own homes, he said, it means much to the soldiers to have a definite place to bring their friends.

Crowding around the Red Cross canteen workers to thank them for the hospitality, the servicemen expressed curiosity as to the meaning of the Red Cross caps and white cloth epaulets.

"At first," commented a tall lad from Charlotte, N. C., "I thought you all were the kind of girls we have to salute. And I don't like to salute a woman."

Hostesses from the college will be on duty at the lounge every day.

Kansas City Man Gets Run for His Money

KANSAS CITY.—Enos West was surprised when the stranger said that W. A. Julian, and not Henry Morgenthau, jr., was the Treasurer of the United States.

But he was most surprised of all, he told police, when the stranger ran away with the two dollars.

Kornarens, who lived at 1432 Girard street N.W., was held for the grand jury under $1,500 bond following arraignment on a charge of bigamy before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage yesterday.

Barkley Will Call Anti-Poll Tax Bill Up in Senate Today

Rejects Southerners' Plea To Aid Their Effort To Forestall Debate

Southern Senators aimed their parliamentary guns at an anti-poll tax bill which Majority Leader Barkley said he will call up for action today.

Senator Barkley turned down an eleventh-hour appeal from Senator George, Democrat, of Georgia and other members from poll tax States to aid their effort to forestall debate that might develop into a filibuster.

Immediately thereafter Senator Doxy, Democrat, of Mississippi said he would offer a point of order on which debate would be initiated.

Senator Bilbo, Democrat, of Mississippi also asserted if proponents got the bill up he would move to send it back to the Senate Judiciary Committee, opening the way for other speeches.

"We are not going to filibuster," Senator Bilbo told reporters, "but this bill is so far-reaching it will take a long time to discuss it, a discussion that will last beyond January 3."

Senator George agreed with Senator Connally, Democrat, of Texas that consideration of the bill, already approved by the House, will lead to discussions that "would best be avoided."

The bill would prohibit collection of the levy as a requirement for voting in either primaries or general elections for Senators, Representa### tives and presidential electors. It would not affect gubernatorial or county and municipal races.

Senator Doxy said that if the Senate took up the bill, he would insist on the presence of a quorum at all times during the debate, and asserted that "every parliamentary means will be used to prevent its reaching a final vote."

Pinchot Says Utilities Have Selves to Blame For Restricted Profits

Federal Bar Association Hears Ex-Governor Praise Publicly Owned Plants

Praising the operation of publicly owned electric power plants, Gifford Pinchot, former Governor of Pennsylvania, yesterday asserted the private utilities "can blame themselves for their restricted profits."

Addressing the Federal Bar Association's luncheon meeting at the Harrington Hotel, Mr. Pinchot said the net result of TVA and REA operations has been to "reduce the cost of electric energy in an electric age and increase consumption."

He asserted that 5,000,000 farm families now have the benefit of electric power "against the opposition of privately owned electric utilities."

Mr. Pinchot, known as the "first forester" of the Agriculture Department, drew a sharp contrast between present-day conditions and private power monopolies that existed a half century ago.

"When I first came to Washington more than 50 years ago," he said, "I studied the administration of the Public Land Office. The idea then was to get rid of these lands, with or without compensation, and put them in the hands of others as quickly as possible."

The speaker asserted that "in those days the power people had control of Congress and did not hesitate to use their influence." He related how an investigation revealed that "the people of the United States were paying $500,000,000 in excess of fair profits to power companies each year."

He recalled what he termed the "public be damned" attitude of some power companies, and declared that "today our people have a right to be indignant and demand of our leaders that private exploitation of public resources be stopped."

Mr. Pinchot emphasized that power companies should get a fair return on their investments.

Robert N. Anderson, president of the association, said at the conclusion of Mr. Pinchot's address that "the people of the United States owe Mr. Pinchot a debt of gratitude for his long fight against monopoly."

Rubber War Workers Really Hold the Bag

By the Associated Press. AKRON, Ohio. — Left-handed monkey wrenches, striped paint, sky hooks and other classic items of fiction used in kidding new hands around a shop will have to move over and make room for a new array of wartime things that are factual but sound even stranger than the fictitious articles.

A green hand at the rubber works, for instance, might think you were kidding him if you sent him to the stock room for a "hydrogen cell sack holder." But a review of new wartime products being made in rubber plants indicates such an errand would be strictly on the up-and-up. The hydrogen cell sack holder is used in a hardness-testing process for Army lard.

Some other new items in the rubber-manufacturers' vocabulary are: TNT drain-off hose, oddment trays, brow pads, fulminate dumping tray, sight shields, and hypochlorite reservoir bags!

Man Waives Extradition In Alexandria Bigamy Case

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 13. — Philip Handel, 29, of Brooklyn, who police said kept a diary showing he had three wives, has waived extradition to Alexandria, Va., to face bigamy charges.

A Brooklyn charge of being a fugitive from justice, under which Handel had been held, was dismissed by Magistrate Charles G. Kentgen when Handel agreed to go to Virginia voluntarily. He was handed over to Police Lt. Russell A. Hawes of Alexandria.

The Brooklyn man is accused of having married Shirley Warshansky, also of Brooklyn, in Alexandria in April, 1941, without having legally terminated a previous marriage made in Boston in 1934. Police said Handel and his first wife, Lillian, had two children. Handel also had a child by his second wife.

The bigamy charges were filed after Shirley reported to police she discovered a diary kept by Handel in which he recorded his relations with herself and his first wife. In addition, Detective John Bradley said, the diary revealed a "contract" drawn up by Handel with a third woman whom he described as his "legal wife" although the pair had not participated in a legal marriage ceremony.

Formation of the largest women's war industry army in United States history is fast rounding into shape, and by 1944 it will total 5,000,000 workers, congressional committees declared today.

The Senate Defense Investigating Committee said it had been informed that Ford Motor Co. officials now consider woman workers as the "salvation of its industry" and have rescinded a policy barring them from jobs in the River Rouge plant in Detroit and expected to hire them by the thousands in the next few months.
The Ford Willow Run bomber plant already has several thousand women at work, the Senate committee was told, and their work has been so satisfactory that Ford officials decided to let down the barriers at the River Rouge plant.
Children Cared For.
The Curtiss Wright plant at Buffalo also is reported employing women as fast as they apply, and is now operating a day care program for children, which, it is said, might be a model for the Nation.

The New England plants of the United States Rubber Co. are reported to be concentrating almost their entire hiring on women and are about to begin a day care program at each plant to induce young married women with children to seek employment.
Officials of the Pacific Coast aircraft industry have informed Government agencies that women constituted 25 per cent of all plant hirings last month.
John Green, president of the Marine Shipbuilders of America, CIO, has informed a Senate labor subcommittee studying the manpower problem that shipyards on both coasts and on the Gulf are now training a large force of women for both heavy and light work.
Make First-Class Machinists.
President H. W. Brown of the International Association of Machinists, AFL, told the Senate subcommittee that women "make first-class" machinists and were being employed in war industries throughout the country. He said his union did not bar them from membership.
President William Green of the AFL estimates there are close to 30,000,000 women who are not employed in industry and more than half of these fall within the vital age groups of 20 to 44 years.
Mr. Brown informed the subcommittee that it is clear that as the demands of the armed forces grow and as more men are called from bench, workshop and farm for combat duty, their places must be filled principally from the reserve manpower of this Nation.
"Women, with their alertness and their ability to absorb training, will not only help to solve the labor problem, they will reduce the turnover for many employers, who steps in now and takes the pick of the supply of women workers," Director Wendell Lund of the WPB's Labor Production Division, declared.
Ballyhoo Program Urged.
Mr. Lund, who is a member of the War Manpower Commission, holds that the solution of the labor supply problem begins within every community.
While the Senate Defense Investigating Committee was urging the Government to resort to "ballyhooing" to recruit women for war work, the Office of Defense Health and Welfare Services reported today that considerable headway is being made in getting communities to start day care programs to release women for work in factories.
The WMC's Management-Labor Policy Committee sounded a note of warning in the recruitment of new workers into the labor force against the employing of women with small children, but the Office of Defense Health and Welfare Services said this would be a problem except for the response of the communities to meet this situation. It was said that communities are realizing that this is their responsibility, which would be met by all resources.
Farm Work "Too Hard."
Community day care programs are reported operating with success, and much of the operating cost is being carried by mothers who leave their children at nurseries.
Concerning women on the farm, J. M. Hodson of Pioneer, Ohio, a farmer with 25 years of experience, told the Senate Labor subcommittee:
"There is nothing that disgusts the average farmer more than to tell him you are going to send him a bunch of girls or women to do his work. Certain light jobs they can help with, such as picking apples and things like that, but putting a woman on the mower or loading hay and operating a tractor is just too hard work. I think we are making a great mistake when we urge that type of labor too far."
In the local transit field, the woman conductor is returning, the Office of Defense Transportation reports. They also are hiring women as ticket agents, dispatchers, electrical repairmen and gatemen.
A few truck companies are engaging women as drivers, the agency reported, while the railroads are returning to the use of women. Besides their work in the yards and around the stations, women were reported busy in the shops, in the yards and on the trains. They are to be found as engine wipers and cleaners, laborers in shops and stores, station agents, draftsmen and levermen.
And, the ODT points with pride to Amy Fisher. She is a steam hammer operator for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Welfare Work of CYO Outlined by Bishop Sheil

The Catholic Youth Organization distributes about half a million dollars a year in charities, the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary Bishop of Chicago, fourth and national director of the CYO, told the National Catholic School of Social Science last night.

Bishop Sheil outlined the work of the organization, which was started 12 years ago in an effort to rehabilitate a million boys caught in the depression. Starting with a boxing club in Chicago, Bishop Sheil said the CYO now owned $4,000,000 worth of property, maintaining an airport, planes and instructors. Scholarships have been awarded to those who cannot afford flying instruction, he said.

Other work of the CYO, Bishop Sheil said, included training "master" dogs for the blind and teaching scades. The organization, he said, operates on a parish basis.

Aiken Asks Increase In Farm Milk Prices

Senator Aiken, Republican, of Vermont, asked Secretary of Agriculture Wickard yesterday to take immediate steps to obtain a small increase in the price of milk so farmers can pay higher wages to labor and forestall a milk shortage. The milk supply is dwindling, Senator Aiken said, because of the labor shortage, inability of dairymen to obtain repair parts and new farm machinery, and "inequitable price differentials" between markets.
"In order to recruit workers for the farms of America, Senator Aiken wrote to Mr. Wickard, "It must be made possible for farm operators to pay fair wages. The only way I know to accomplish this end is to see that the farmer receives prices for his products commensurate with the war economy under which we are now operating."
"Farmers do not want subsidies," he said. "They want fair prices for their products, and I believe they should have them even if it means adjustment in price ceilings in some instances."

Italy Hastily Looks To Defenses in Face Of Invasion Threat

Morale Reaches New Low as Result of Drive in Africa

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK, Former Chief of the Rome Bureau of the Associated Press.

Faced with its first threat of invasion in the war, a quailing Italy is hastily looking to its defenses against American and British troops, radio reports today indicated.

The obvious apprehension among the Fascists was considered all the more significant by those acquainted with wartime Italy because an Allied invasion still is believed to be a long way off.

Italian morale, meanwhile, almost certainly has reached a new low as the first effect of Allied occupation of French North Africa.

This statement is based on first-hand knowledge of the fluctuations of Italian morale in the past, particularly during the ill-starred Greek campaign. It is backed by the Fascist propaganda ministry's broadcasts to the people.

As overheard by American listening posts, the Rome radio is exhorting Italians to cease their trembling. Dictator Benito Mussolini's Popolo d'Italia has called on Italians to hold fast (tenere duro), a now familiar plea in times of stress on the internal front. Particularly, the Duce used it a year ago when Italians began to grumble more or less openly at the pinch of stringent food rationing.

Equally indicative of Italian morale is the jangling out of another brand of propaganda soothing sirup by the Rome radio. Ever since the RAF bombed Sardinia Tuesday, the radio has been appealing to the patriotism of the inhabitants of that island, 7½ miles south of Corsica. The broadcasts have featured the national anthem of Sardinia.

Similar attempts to instill spirit into the Sicilians and Neapolitans were made when their areas were bombed by the RAF last year. The Fascist leaders know that even if the Sardinians do not fall into panic under the bombardments, they are highly individualistic and an independent island people whose loyalty to the Rome regime might waver under the blows of an unpopular war.

This is not to say that Italians, cowed by 20 years of Fascism and now by the Germans, are ready for revolt, although a rebellion might develop from a successful invasion.

Reports reaching Government circles in Washington tell merely of a little more deterioration in morale since we left Rome last May, the same suppressed animosity toward the Germans and the same friendly feeling toward Americans.

With such a situation prevailing, with Italians further disheartened by the knowledge that Americans are now within easy bomber range to blast Italian objectives, with the Germans feeling they cannot trust the Italians to hold Sardinia and Corsica, Hitler is said to be diverting German Army divisions from Russia to Italy.

They would be the first German infantry to occupy Italy. The estimated 250,000 Germans on Italian soil thus far have been aviation units, complete with ground and supply crews, and sailors for German submarines in the Mediterranean, as well as gunners for Italian warships. Mussolini has been holding a million or more men under arms in Italy against invasion, while his propagandists were attempting to laugh off the possibility.

The German infantry reinforcements may be expected to drain further the barely sufficient Italian food supplies, though no word of worsening shortages has come out of Italy in recent months. The wheat harvest is said to be somewhat smaller than even last year's short crop, but the corn, rice and other crops are reported to be good.

PHILIPPINE ESCAPE

Loyalty of Natives Shown by Aid Given Officer During Weeks of Hiding

By CAPT. WILLIAM LLOYD OSBORNE and CAPT. DAMON GAUSE as Told to Lee Van Atta. (Eleventh Installment of Fourteen.)

(Capt. Osborne continues his personal story of the escape from the Philippines.)

We weren't more than a half mile away from Bataan when a Japanese reconnaissance plane roared over and dropped a flare pattern almost completely around our small boat. Immediately, we fell flat on the bottom of the craft, allowing it to drift with the tide. The plane circled for several minutes and was apparently satisfied that our craft was just drifting banca. As the Jap plane flew off toward Manila, we heaved deep sighs of relief and resumed paddling in an effort to get out of the flare zone.

When a new sound came to our ears—the throb of a fast motorboat approaching. We ducked again and once more allowed our banca to drift. The Filipino lieutenant and I peered cautiously over the gunwales of a speedy Japanese patrol boat within firing distance of us. We ducked again, faster this time. The enemy vessel approached within 30 feet. As its engines idled gently, all of us prayed long and fervently. The Japs remained there for about five minutes then, apparently content, they raced off again into the night. We had two close calls within 40 minutes.

We rowed for 18 hours, continuously bucking both wind and current. A dozen times I tried to take the oars away from the Filipino privates and give them rest but they wouldn't hear of it. If they couldn't help the Americans win back the Philippines, they said, they were determined to help an American get away from the Japanese.

Late the following afternoon we landed and separated our "forces," the lieutenant and I remaining together while the privates struck out for themselves. We pushed through the dense jungle undergrowth for nearly an hour until we found ourselves on the outskirts of a native village. We speedily were informed that we had arrived there exactly 10 minutes after a Japanese patrol of 80 men had left the village for Manila. Fearing that the Japanese troops might return, we remained in the barrio for only a few hours. However, through the lieutenant, we were able to secure clothes to replace our tattered garments, and a jug of water. It was the first liquid we had had for two days. By midnight we were ready to move on, our plans being to travel a few hours country, avoiding villages as much as possible and strike for the mountains, walking always by night and living off the country as much as possible.

Traffic of Death.
We slept the first day in a well-concealed ravine at the side of one of the province's most traveled roads. All day we watched as Japanese trucks rolled by, jammed with high explosive shells, technical equipment and men. We learned later that they were bound for enemy artillery positions. It was this road which fed the men and explosives to the positions which were eventually to force Corregidor's capitulation. We wished earnestly for some means to disrupt the traffic of death if only for a few days, but there was nothing we could do—we didn't have so much as a cap pistol between us.

The next 11 days were nightmares for both of us. With the exception of some cold rice and some native fruit, we had no food, and it seemed as if we were dodging Japanese patrols every minute of every day. Five days of our 11-day trek to temporary security were spent in scrambling up and down the rocky, rugged, steaming mountains of Luzon, completely without food. The days were so hot I would walk in my shorts, if we felt it safe to move at all, and the nights were so cold that the little protection afforded us by leaf covering was welcome.

On April 26 I ate my first full square meal since leaving Bataan 16 days before. It was at the home of friends of the Filipino lieutenant "somewhere in Luzon," and it was a feast such as I had never dreamed existed. There were big platters of chicken fried in coconut oil, native fish concoctions; chicken, rice, onions and peppers cooked to make a savory stew. For dessert we were served native candy—the first I had eaten since mid-December.

Filipinos Beg for News.
All through the metal neighbors with gifts for "the Americans" would arrive—food and clothes principally. It was almost pitiful the way they begged for news of Bataan and Corregidor. All of them had sons or brothers or fathers on Bataan or "The Rock," and they had heard nothing from them in months. But even as I answered their questions I knew it was time to be on the move again. Filipinos love to talk and a chance slip would not only spoil my chance of escape but would bring disaster to those who had befriended me.

Under cover of darkness that night I left for a point two days' walk distant. My friends described my destination as the safest place to hide out until I could make my plans for escape. For nearly three months I lived in the flimsy one-room hut I found when I arrived at the designated point. It was a dim, cheerless place, but it was a safe refuge, and that's what I needed most.

There were no furnishings of any kind. I slept on the floor, in spite of the lizards and huge but harmless spiders which roamed nonchalantly over me every night. Each day I would walk the mile to the nearest stream for water and to rendezvous with the other friends who were providing me with food. I had two occupations—taking care of three chickens, including a fighting cock which was presented to me, and keeping close tabs on the "bamboo wireless." The latter was perhaps the most interesting feature of my three months as a virtual hermit in the mountains of Luzon.

"Bamboo" Wireless Again.
Through the "bamboo" message system I could learn almost all the news from Manila, from the various prison camps and from the outside world. How it functions I do not know. I do know that news which had taken place a few hours before, hundreds of miles away, reached me in an incredibly short time. It was, I have since learned as accurate as a daily newspaper. Through the "bamboo wireless" I learned how rice and food prices had skyrocketed under Japanese control; rice, sugar and matches trebling in price compared to the pre-war Philippine scale. I heard how Philippine civil servants who had expressed pro-American sympathies were without jobs and without food—the Japanese pre-war fifth column on Luzon had taken care of them when the Japs arrived.

I learned that Filipino civilians were living under rigid military government; that they had, in fact, become almost slaves to the Japs. Men and women alike were compelled to bow to Japanese soldiers of any rank on the streets of Manila, while there were numerous cases reported of outrages against Filipino women. Incidentally, many of those outrages were well avenged by Filipino men.

Harsh, merciless punishment, it was learned, was being dealt to civilians who didn't "co-operate with the co-prosperity plan for Asia. Incidentally, Co-Prosperity Plan in the Philippines revealed some strange facets of Filipino character. Not unlike many Americans, I held the idea that Filipinos generally favored Asiatic rule and that if they were not openly pro-Japanese, they were at least sympathetic to the Japanese cause. That idea, as I learned during my three months of living entirely with the average Filipino native, is entirely erroneous.

Primarily, the Filipinos detest Japan because the Japanese, as a nation, vigorously reject Christianity. Almost every Filipino is a devout churchgoer and atheism is a creed he cannot understand. Secondly, Gen. MacArthur symbolized the finest thing in full-blooded white people to them and, to the natives, it was just the same as a personal envoy from General MacArthur. From their close association with him—often only through the "bamboo wireless," but to them, nevertheless, a close relationship—they had a deep respect for Americans. Every Filipino I met during those three months had nothing but tearful praise for the gallant Americans who directed and held together the defenses of the Philippines for so many months.

Patriotism Among Natives.
Naturally, 100 per cent of the Filipino population is not with America. There are Japanese sympathizers. But most Filipinos appreciate the opportunities that American protection offered them, and they long for the carefree lives they led before last December. I know they'll be on our side when we start on the road back to Tokio.

I remember as if it were yesterday my July Fourth celebration in a small barrio somewhere in the Philippines. The natives knew the meaning of the day to America and asked me if I would join them in a small, quiet observance. Of course I agreed. We assembled secretly before dawn in a village where no Allied flag had been seen for months. Five Filipinos slowly and carefully picked out the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" on cracked, aged guitars while the American flag was raised with solemn pride to full staff. From a hidden cache they had brought out the American banner for their observance of America's anniversary of freedom.

It was probably the only American flag to fly in the Philippines on July 4, 1942, but more than that it typified the resentment and defiance toward the Japs of that tiny village and of the Filipino people themselves. Our flag floated above that barrio all through the day of July 4, proudly waving in the light Filipino breeze while only 5 miles away Japanese patrols were scouring the underbrush in search of American or Filipino refugees.

In middle July, again through the "bamboo wireless," a message came from another American officer, Damon Gause, that he was anxious to rendezvous with me and make plans for an escape to Australia.

It was what I had been awaiting since the fall of Bataan. I left my hut that same night, and after nearly 15 days of steady marching through the worst jungle country I have ever known or seen I came out of a dense wood and into a small clearing by the side of a river. Gause was waiting for me. It was one of the happiest moments of my life. It was the beginning of our escape from a "made in Japan" hell.

Sammy Kaye's Orchestra Swings-Sways at Capitol

Screen Has 'Girl Trouble', Frothy Farce Starring Joan Bennett-Ameche

By ANDREW R. KELLEY.

Sammy Kaye and his swing and sway bandmen provide the bright spot on the new program at the Capitol Theater, with the screen carrying a lightweight trifle, "Girl Trouble."

Maestro Kaye still encourages those who feel that leading a band is nothing more than waving the baton rhythmically and in time to the music. His four volunteers who stepped up from the audience yesterday matinee were two high school students, a secretary from the FBI and a soldier with rhythm in his heart, who plays the violin. First honors went to the boy in uniform who competes later in the finals for cash prizes.

The Kaye specialties include vocalists whose repertoire includes the top tunes from the Hit Parade, including the clap hands "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition" and "White Christmas." Tommy Ryan, Nancy Norman, Arthur Wright, the Three Kaydets, Bob Cornell and the choir star in these vocals. The Sterners sisters are agile tap dancers and Don Cummings, a rope twirler offered a valuable line of patter, making him more of a monologist than a trickster.

Light Force on Screen. Art Brown gets the audience in hilarious mood for the stage program, with an organologue featuring "Der Feurher's Face."

"Girl Trouble" is a romantic farce so flimsy in story line that the actors sometimes resort to silliness. Don Ameche and Joan Bennett are co-starred, do their best to make it effervescent, aided by a cast worthy of better material.

It concerns a rich American girl whose wealth is frozen in England, the circumstances forcing her to rent the Park Avenue apartment and serve as its maid. Don Ameche as a South American rubber planter, seeking an American loan, becomes the tenant. This is one of those romances where the hero comes continually ahead of the story, can anticipate the happy ending after the usual farcical situations.

Joan Bennett, with her limited set of expressions, is not equipped to play farce of the wily-nilly type. Ameche plays Kaye, a money boy with typical insouciance. Billie Burke, Frank Craven, Alan Dinehart and Helene Reynolds have the other roles in a script that is as fluffy as autumn leaves.

Transportation Problem. Wartime transportation problems caught up with Sammy Kaye's band yesterday. The musicians left Providence, R. I., Wednesday night with 79 pieces of baggage, including all the instruments. The Kaye troupe arrived okay yesterday a.m., but the baggage was still some way between the District of Columbia and New England. They went on first show with borrowed instruments and a setting hastily assembled by Gene Ford. By late afternoon the baggage turned up. Hereafter the Kaye troupe will transport their own instruments, which makes it hard for the drummer.

Defeat of Rommel and his Afrika Korps will be included in "Sahara," in which Melvyn Douglas will star for Columbia Pictures. Which leads Variety to observe this should be the longest chase picture ever staged by Hollywood.

Kay Kyser Wants Okay. Kay Kyser is awaiting an okay from the War Department on his offer to take his wire troupe overseas, paying all expenses. The offer was submitted to USO-Camp Shows, Inc., with some thought of having his radio show originate from United States Army camps in Europe.

Maestro Kyser is really war conscious. Recently in Washington he addressed a Sunday night "command performance" radio show for one-half an hour. Later he met editors at the National Press Club and gave them the same talk without variations.

All-Star Are Overseas. An all-star, all-guitar troupe of top-ranking American entertainers, including...

COLLEGIATES DO O'CASEY PLAY—At Catholic University the players are presenting Sean O'Casey's "Juno and the Paycock," one of the standbys of the Abbey Theater in Dublin, seldom attempted by non-professional groups.

"Nightmare" Showing At Keith's, Proves Milder Than Title

"NIGHTMARE" is a universal picture written and produced by Dwight Dyer and directed by Tim Whelan. At Keith's Theatre.

There is not a whole lot to note in "Nightmare," Keith's current attraction, except that Miss Diana Barrymore is among us for the third time in two months on the same screen. Evidence of a peculiar time schedule or the RKO-Radio pressure machine at work on Miss Barrymore's behalf.

Nowhere has it been posted that "Nightmare" was intended as a comedy-mystery, all signs having indicated the picture would fall into the category of outright mystery-thriller. Well, perhaps it isn't one of those murder-with-fun items, but it certainly appears to have difficulty convincing itself and audience that something grippingly serious was to be afoot on the celluloid.

That line, incidentally, keynotes the indelicate spirit of "Nightmare," which deals with duplicity in England on the part of a girl and her accomplice and an English lord who works for Nazis. There is murder. The girl's ex-husband gets a knife in the back. And as it gradually develops, this was because he was on the track of the Simonov, or in the meantime Girl Barrymore and Helger Donlevy run from the police to avoid...

Wally Swallows a 'Chaw' As Retiring Marine Sarge

By HAROLD HEFFERNAN.

HOLLYWOOD—Make-believers at work: Almost any time the set visitors drop in at the MGM studio Wallace Beery can be viewed in the process of making a movie. No actor maintains a steadier picture-making diet than Beery. He's been in the game since 1913. And a while since that date his name has meant box office.

We find him today as a rough-and-ready top sergeant who has just been retired from the Marine Corps. It's for a scene in "Salute to the Marines." Wally is sitting in a chintz-covered rocking chair, wearing a new smoking jacket. He looks very uncomfortable. Wife Fay Bainter fusses around him, putting a pair of slippers on his feet and cooling to him like a baby. Daughter Marilyn Maxwell (one of the newer MGM cuties) is knitting in the background.

"There!" Miss Bainter exclaims. "Poor, tired footsies." Beery winces. Fay thrusts a pipe into his mouth, nearly burning his nose as she lights it. Both mother and daughter now leave the room. With great relief, Beery puts down the pipe. He fidgets, picks up a magazine. It's a woman's periodical and he drops it in disgust. Glancing around to make certain the way is clear, he pulls a plug of chewing tobacco from his pocket. He bites off a huge chunk and begins masticating.

Swallows the Cud. Suddenly he hears a noise. It is his wife returning.

He rushes to a flower pot and then changes his mind. Marilyn walks through the room. What to do with his chaw of chew? He hurries to the front screen door. It's stuck—and so is Beery. His problem is now acute. He starts for an umbrella stand.

"William!" Fay shouts, and Beery whirls to face her. "William are you?"

Beery closes his eyes, heroically swallowing the chew.

"No, Ma'am!" he says with effort, brushing tears from his eyes. "Fine." Director Sylvan Simon says, ending the scene. "That was very realistic, Wally."

"Should be," Beery grumbles, still wiping his eyes. "I really swallowed the stuff by mistake!"

Hanging Party. Robert Sterling and Van Johnson are a couple of Hollywood heroes who can tell you with authority that hanging is a most unpleasant business, even in the movies.

They went through the entire process of an old-time necktie party for a scene in "Gentle Annie," starring Robert Taylor and Susan Peters. All that is, except the actual hanging part.

"But," said Sterling, after it was all over, "you might as well be hung as scared to death."

Ropes were tied around their necks, with the proper hangman's knot, and then tossed over the limb of a tree. Sterling and Johnson stood tiptoe on the end of a buckboard drawn by two fractious horses. Every time the nags danced nerv-

Director Woody Van Dyke, a hard-boiled fellow who used to be in the marines. "We're getting too much realism now," moaned Van Johnson. Van Dyke assured the shaking heroes that there was no real danger. "I've staged dozens of hangings and never lost an actor yet," he soothed. Just then the horses, startled by a popping arc light, leaped forward and were only restrained from running away by their handlers. When the excitement had died down, Sterling remarked to Van Dyke. "If you don't want to break your record, and our necks, please tell the horses. I don't think they've read the script." Here's how movie dances are born. . . . The rehearsal hall at 20th Century-Fox is a vast, barnlike room with a grand piano at one end, a few hard, wooden benches along the walls and at the other end a huge mirror which runs from ceiling to floor. It's there so the dancers can study their own movements as they step through the prescribed evolutions. Betty Grable has arrived to rehearse one of the 14 members she will do in a picture called "Coney Island." Hermes Pan, the studio's dance director, who is sometimes her dancing partner in films, takes her in hand at once. He outlines a difficult tap routine which he has originated and proceeds to do it solo so that Betty can get the general idea. Then he takes Betty's hand and the two of them swing out. It's slow, difficult going. Each step, each turn, each tap must be done individually at first until the whole pattern is established. This goes on for hours until Betty is drooping, wilted and very far removed from the glamorous creature you see on the screen. She is literally reeling with fatigue as the session ends. But her sense of humor is still bubbling. "Any movie dancer who leaves this business to join the WAACS," she quips, "is a rank coward." (Released by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

Conway Must Be Animal Lover

HOLLYWOOD. Tom Conway, who plays the title role in RKO Radio's current release, "The Falcon's Brother," will be seen in a featured role in "Cat

People." This is a mystery thriller revolving around Simone Simon. Conway is an older brother of George Sanders. When both became prominent on the British stage they tossed a coin to decide which would change his name to avoid confusion. The loser, Tom, adopted the theater name of Conway.

Gave Up Medicine For Screen Test

HOLLYWOOD. Margaret Hayes, no in New York for radio appearance; and a stage production following her role in Samuel Goldwyn's "They Got Me Covered," forthcoming RKO Radio release, gave up a medical career to join a stock company. As a student of two and a half years at Johns Hopkins, Miss Hayes was one of 16 co-eds. After turning her back on medicine and her face to the footlight, Miss Hayes was one of the many actresses tested for Scarlett in "Gone With the Wind." Her Broadway stage debut was in "Bright Rebel." ### Budapest Players Delight With The 'Septet'

Warmly Applauded In Concert at Library of Congress

By ELENA DE SAYN. After hearing Beethoven's "Septet in E Flat Major, Op. 20" presented at the Library of Congress last night, it is easy to understand why this work was so enthusiastically welcomed at its first performance by Beethoven's contemporaries.

Its jolly rhythms, delightful scherzo and brilliant finale account for the instantaneous success scored some 140 years ago. Recall after recall rewarded the three Budapest players, Josef Roisman, violin; Boris Kroyt, viola; Mischa Schneider, cello, and their assistant artists, Ralph MacLean, clarinet; Fred Klein, horn; Elias Carmen, bassoon, and Anton Torello, double bass, for their splendid performance given Beethoven's early opus.

Mr. Roisman added to his talents as a leader those of a soloist last night, when he was heard in the effective cadenza, to which he lent a touch of brilliance, while Mr. Schneider gave an inimitable reading to the charming variation in rococo style in the "Tema con Variazioni," altogether too short to satisfy those who would have liked to hear more of his playing.

Other short solo, given each of the seven participating instruments in turn and forming individual bits of display to the accompaniment of one or more players, were presented with care, proper accents and beauty of tone. Mr. Torello deserved special praise for the ease and mastery with which he handled the double-bass.

It is hard to conceive why a mere compliment showered on Beethoven in connection with this particular work should have provoked his ire. Yet he was heard to say: "The Septet was written by Mozart," adding a rather equivocal remark: "There is of course feeling in it, but little art." That Beethoven placed feeling above form is quite obvious and it is to his rebellion against existing standards and tastes that posterity owes greater freedom of expression.

As an example of progress in this direction can be cited Schubert's "Octet in F Major Op. 166" for the same combination of instruments, with a violin by Alexander Schneider added, and performed after the intermission. The fullness of the ensemble, reminiscent of an orchestra, the richness of tone, overshadowing the comparative shallowness of Beethoven's only work in this form, were rewarding.

Although long-winded, it would have seemed a sacrilege to cut out an iota of the flowing melodies or to trim down some of the repetitions, and it is to the credit of this splendid group that compositions on the program were presented as they are, with all their good points and weaknesses.

OWI Is Licking Axis
In Propaganda War

Agency Spreads Story Of America's Growing Military Strength

By DON WHITEHEAD,
Associated Press War Correspondent.
CAIRO, Egypt (Delayed)—Elmer Davis' boys are meeting the enemy in the Middle East and giving them a licking in the first round of a great propaganda battle.

In less than six months time, a little band of American pioneers from the Office of War Information has splashed the story of Uncle Sam's growing military might from one end of Africa to the other, through Palestine, Syria, Turkey, Iran, Iraq and India.

Millions of people saturated by three years of Axis propaganda are hearing for the first time the real story of America.

Unlike the desert fighting, there are no lulls in this scrap. It's being waged day and night by radio, newspapers, posters, pamphlets, movies and word of mouth. Hitler's favorite weapon is being turned against him.

Vital Defense Move.
It provides a strange background for the actual fighting but it's vital to the United Nations in defeating Axis attempts to drive a wedge between the Allies and almost half a billion non-belligerents in this part of the world.

The Axis still is following the line of stirring up fears and hatreds to divide the people and turn them against the United Nations.

For example, in Palestine they play on the old enmity of Jews and Arabs. They tell the Arabs they are being robbed of their lands and that "as soon as we take Alexandria we'll let you kill all the Jews if you wish."

The American policy is to spread factual information on what the United States and her Allies are accomplishing, while driving home the lesson that the people of the Middle East can expect from the Axis only the miseries of Greece, Czechoslovakia, Poland and the other occupied countries.

Cairo Key OWI Station.
Cairo is the key OWI station in this part of the world and the man running the show here is Paul West, former assistant publisher of Time Magazine. He came to Cairo last March to get the ball rolling on the dissemination of American news. Already he's causing the Axis uneasiness. The enemy radio is saying "the American hand is beginning to reach out." It is reaching out and it's reaching far.

Energetic and capable, Mr. West pushed through a maze of difficulties to get his office into action. Ordinarily it takes two months to get a telephone installed in Cairo. He did it in two days. He rounded up a staff including Nick Parrino, formerly of the Cleveland Plain Dealer; Elmer Lower, former Associated Press newsphoto editor in New York; and George Rentz of Berkeley, Calif.

Dramatic simplicity and directness are the most effective points in the OWI releases. They are directed not only at the educated classes but at the masses of illiterates.

"If an Egyptian peasant is shown pictures of masses of ships, planes, tanks, guns and munitions as we are turning them out, then he gets the picture of American production and what it means," Mr. West says.

Results Are Good.
"We know we are getting good results from the reports of our agents scattered throughout the Middle East. And the best medium is by word of mouth. The people talk to their friends and neighbors in the bazaars and coffee houses and our story is spread through every class."

The OWI is pouring thousands of words and scores of pictures into English, Arabic and French language newspapers. Not a penny is being spent to subsidize the press. The editors are glad to get the news from America.

An Egyptian editor called Mr. West the other day. "You can't do this to me," he laughed. "Forty-two per cent of my news today came out of your office."

And there are other OWI distributing points in Turkey, Syria, India, China, and South Africa.

That's how the OWI is moving in to tell the story of America, a story symbolized by a poster showing Hitler with his fingers in his ears while American-made planes dive on him from all directions.

"No use, Adolf!" the caption says. "You can't shut out that roar."

Trinidad Area Housewives To Hear Consumer Aide
Housewives living in the Trinidad area will be addressed by Mrs. Adelaide Grant, chairman of the Consumer Committee for the Trinidad Defense Area, at a mass meeting at 10 a.m. November 21 in the Stuart Junior High School, Fourth and E streets N.E.

Mrs. Grant will tell her friends and neighbors, whom she calls an "Apron Brigade," of her experiences as price-checker for a survey conducted by the Office of Civilian Defense.

"I want to stress to housewives and mothers," Mrs. Grant says, "that helping in this price survey will be of value to our Government and to ourselves. We will be saving money and food. By saving here, we will be able to buy more defense bonds."

Other speakers will be Mrs. Minnie Frost Rands, chairman of the price survey of the Consumer Committee, and Mrs. Elizabeth Delman, chairman of the area program for the Consumer Committee. Trinidad is the first of the 86 defense areas in Washington to start a price survey.

Forthcoming meetings at Bancroft School, Eighteenth and Newton streets N.W., were announced today. At 8 p.m. November 17 Raymond P. Gilroy will discuss home repairs of plumbing. At 1:30 p.m. November 24 Harry Sweeney, senior technical adviser to the bituminous coal counsel, will speak on fuel conservation. A third session will be held at Bancroft School December 1, with home carpentry as the subject. The speaker will be announced later. Any one living near the school is invited to attend these conservation lectures, sponsored by the OCD.

Tot's Formative Years Are From One to Six

Parents Can Mold Characteristics During Period

By Lettice Lee Street

The ideals, hopes and pride of our great Nation, and of any country, are reflected in the clear eyes of our children—innocent minds of our young.

Every child is, of course, an individual in his own right. Some are positive, sturdy, intelligent and creative while others are weak.

He is plastic, susceptible to environment, open to suggestion and very imitative.

A child's home is his most constant and determining school; his parents, and others in his home, are his most influential teachers.

Only every parent could deeply realize this and be vibrantly alive to the fact that the environment they provide for their young, their knowledge and understanding of childhood, as well as their own behavior, are the most potent influences upon their children's destinies.

During babyhood and young childhood, small people are almost exclusively swayed by their mothers and fathers.

These early years, familiarly referred to as "the formative years" from 1 to 6, are, in fact, the foundation upon which the house of life is built.

Weaving 'Goes to War'

Decorative Fabrics by Famous Artist Now Play a New Role

By Margaret Novell

"Weaving is close to the heart of every woman," so says Dorothy Wright Liebes, famous artist who has spent a great part of her life in the study and creation of textiles.

She has lived most of her life in California, where brilliant color is a natural heritage, and has traveled to all corners of the earth where exquisite texture in weaving are synonymous with the name of Dorothy Liebes.

In addition to her part in bringing beauty to the home, Mrs. Liebes is participating in the war effort by organizing groups to teach weaving to persons suffering from shock.

Artists have waited a long time to be able to prove some of their ideas to manufacturers. The "handmade" look, so important to all textile lovers, was to most manufacturers merely a "mistake."

For a small drawing room furnished in fine French antiques she weaved pale, soft-green cloth with fragile black lace inserted at intervals.

Fabrics woven by hand are necessarily very expensive. Machine-made ones may be turned out at about a third of the cost.

Decorative fabrics are as beautiful as tapestry. They never go out of style and most of them improve in both color and texture with the years.

Butter Stretching

How to make a little go a long way is what every one likes to hear today. Here's a recipe for stretching a pound of butter to two: Soften one envelope of gelatin in one-quarter cup cold water, placing cup over hot water until gelatin is thoroughly dissolved.

Look Out for That Black Cat; Today's Friday the 13th

By Betsy Caswell

If a black cat starts to cross your path today, right about face and go around the block without looking back.

For today is double trouble—Friday the 13th. Let's hope it does its very worst for Messrs. Hitler, Hirohito, Mussolini & Co.

In case you're interested, we've dug up a few facts about just why this combination of day and date is so threatening.

The Christian Church, consciously or unconsciously—in the early days many of the pagan rites were worked into church celebrations to keep the interest of the "heathens"—fostered this attitude toward Friday, by stressing the fact that the Passion of Christ occurred on a Friday, and by making it a day of abstinence.

Up to some years ago in England not 2 per cent of the marriages in the midland district were celebrated on a Friday.

Years ago there was a superstition against launching ships on a Friday, or sending one out from port on a voyage on that day.

There is an eerie tale of a ship whose keel was laid in Wilmington on a Friday, named "Friday," and sent out under a new captain on a Friday.

A week to the day later she foundered, and was lost with all hands. It appears that the night after the keel was laid the wife of the builder and owner had a terrible dream in which she saw the ship sink.

A good story, anyhow. Now as for the 13 part of the combination. Although many people say that it was Leonardo da Vinci's great fresco of the Last Supper showing 13 at the table, that gave its unpopularity to the number, actually superstitions regarding its potential menace existed long before.

Up to a few years ago the dislike of the number was so great that tall office buildings and hotels were built without a thirteenth floor.

Some people, however, claim to have found luck in the number 13. Richard Wagner's name contained 13 letters, he was born in 1813, and 1 plus 8 plus 1 plus 3 equals 13.

He composed 13 operas; "Tannhauser," one of the greatest, was finished on September 13, 1860, and performed for the first time on March 13, 1861.

Edmond Rostand and a famous Duchess of Sutherland also swore by the aid of the number 13. And, of course, we have our own first 13 colonies, which were the lucky harbingers of our great Nation.

So you see, whichever way you feel about 13, you will be in good company. As to Friday, there don't seem to be many to speak in its favor.

Answer—When putting a lubricating cream on the face pat on at first. Then you can continue, using the fingers. Be careful not to stretch the skin.

For the greatest thrill in those first days of convalescence there is nothing that quite equals flowers, so, if you have a new mother on your list of friends, consider sending her some pretty posies and be sure they are nicely arranged in one of the holders designed especially for her.

Heavy cardboard waste baskets are rapidly taking the place of those gone but not forgotten metal ones that formerly adorned our rooms.

The newest item in table decoration is a California pottery arrangement in four sections. The two side pieces are oblong and the ends are crescent shaped.

If you are looking for something with which to "fill in" a gaping wall space between two windows, consider a large round mirror attached to a wooden strip which supports three shelves.

Beloved by the Washington career girl is the coat that is dressy enough for special occasions, yet simple enough to be worn to the office. News of Orchids, 'First Nighters' And Winter Coats Given Today

By Helen Vogt

A New York fashion expert whose business it is to publicize, among other things, orchids, sends us an amusing and typically American story in this morning's mail.

Somehow, we like the idea of our car being popping out after the "swing shift" to buy the best of our car.

Certainly, these are not days to go around "dripping orchids" or to demand flowers on every and all occasions.

So, let's buy War bonds first, necessities next. But don't let's forget the little "civilized" touches that are, in their way, pretty important.

As usual, this column offers its weekly report on what's being worn at the National these days, or, rather, these nights. Monday's audience at "The Skin of Our Teeth" was not especially a "dressy" one.

That is, there were very few dinner gowns in evidence. However, fashion news was made, principally by furs and accessories.

Winning Contract

BY THE FOUR ACES. (David Bruce Burraston, Oswald Jacoby, Howard Schenken and Theodore A. Lightner, world's leading team of bridge players, have devised a system that has beaten every other system in existence.)

Bridge Swindles—No. 125

The average defender is very anxious to make tricks with worthless trumps. Present him with the opportunity to ruff, and he will leap at it. Usually he will gain by it, but an astute defender will regard with some suspicion a gift of this sort when it is offered freely by the declarer.

The bidding: South. West. North. East. 1♥ Pass 2♣ Pass 3♥ Pass 4♥ Pass

West opened the nine of diamonds, dummy played low and East dropped South's king with the ace. A trump return would have made things a bit more difficult for South, but East shifted to his singleton deuce of clubs.

South put up the queen. West covered with the king and dummy won with the ace. South recognized the lead for what it was and realized that he had two club winners unless dummy could ruff out one winner with the nine of hearts—or unless East could be induced to make a mistake.

He therefore returned a low club from dummy. East eagerly ruffed, thereby handing South the game. South played a low club, won the trump return with the ace, drew one more round of trump, and cashed the jack of clubs.

Take My Word for It

SOME TROUBLESOME TWINS. Definite-definitive. There is a shade of fine distinction between these similar words. Definite means "having certain limits; exact or precise."

Disinterested-disinterested. While both words are interested, there is a further shade of difference in that uninterested implies "not having any interest whatever," as "He is uninterested in athletics."

Immoral-unmoral. I should advise caution in the use of these words, for they are not interchangeable. Immoral means "contrary to moral law; wicked; licentious."

There are innumerable troublesome words in English, such as farther-further, etc. My free pamphlet offers today only a sampling of these words, but will gladly send you a complete list of 100 words, if you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Frank Colby, in care of The Evening Star, 406 7th St. N.W., Washington, D. Bomb Squad Finds Bag Left in Treasure Hunt

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y.—Police were told a strange man had placed a paper bag in a tree as night fell. They rushed to the scene and found the bag—it contained hard round objects, and this note was attached:

"Little grains of sand are piled 1 1/2 miles north of intersection." The bomb squad was summoned and with great care opened the bag and found—apples.

Then they learned it was part of a treasure hunt.

Quail. No danger of mistaking Bobwhite's call for that of any other bird neighbor, since the name is repeated clearly for you several times. In the North, this bird is known as the Partridge. Devoted friends everywhere call it Bobwhite, and many have learned to imitate the clear, sweet call.

There are representatives of the Order to which Bob belongs on every continent; only the one suborder, Phasiani, has representatives (four families) of regular occurrence in the United States and Canada. All birds of this order are polygamous. The flesh of most species is edible.

light-colored and well-flavored. The species living in the Southwest and on the Pacific Coast are the most strikingly beautiful. One species only occurs in the Eastern States; the others are widely distributed from Texas to California and Oregon. Their range is continuous along the entire southern border of the country, from the Pacific to the Atlantic. However, there is an irregular belt along the northern border and a large area in the interior which comprises the Great Plains, the northern three-fourths of the Great Basin and the Rocky Mountains, which has been shunned by the Bobwhites.

All Bobwhites are intensely interested in the extension of agriculture. Fortunately, their food consists of insects, worms, and weed seeds, which the farmer is most happy to give them. Naturally, between the grower and the birds there is a great bond.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME —By Thornton W. Burgess

When Sammy Jay reached the place deep in the Green Forest where Paddy the Beaver was hard at work building a dam so as to make a pond, just for his own use, he didn't hide as had the little four-footed people. You see, of course, he had no reason to hide because he felt perfectly safe. Paddy had just cut a big tree and it fell with a crash as Sammy came hurrying up. Sammy was so surprised that for a minute he couldn't find his tongue. He had not supposed that anybody but Farmer Brown or Farmer Brown's boy could cut down so large a tree as that, and it quite took his breath away. But he got it again in a minute. He was boiling with anger anyway to think that he should have been the last to learn that Paddy had come down from the north to make his home in the Green Forest and here was a chance to speak his mind.

"Thief! thief! thief!" he screamed in his harshest voice. Paddy the Beaver looked up with a twinkle in his eyes. "Hello, Mr. Jay! I see you haven't any better manners than your cousin who lives up where I came from," said he. "Thief! thief! thief!" screamed Sammy, hopping up and down, and he was so angry. "Meaning yourself, I suppose," said Paddy. "I never did see an honest Jay, and I don't suppose I ever will."

KEEP YOUR 5 BEST TIRES— ALL OTHERS MUST BE SOLD TO UNCLE SAM

*If you own idle passenger car tires on or after
Nov. 22 it will be illegal to use gasoline in your car*

LEON HENDERSON, PRICE ADMINISTRATOR, ANSWERS QUESTIONS ABOUT THE IDLE TIRE PURCHASE PLAN TO HELP KEEP CARS ON THE ROAD FOR ESSENTIAL USES

Q What is an Idle Tire?

A Since the Idle Tire Purchase Plan limits the ownership of passenger car tires to five tires for each passenger car owned and to one tire for each running wheel of each passenger car trailer or other such equipment owned, any passenger car tire in excess of those limits is an Idle Tire.

Q How will the owners of Idle Tires be affected?

A Beginning November 22, it will be illegal to use gasoline or permit gasoline to be used in the operation of any passenger car if the owner of the car owns one or more Idle Tires. Furthermore, it will be illegal for any person owning a passenger car, to use or permit gasoline to be used in its operation if any person in his or her household who is related by blood, marriage or adoption, owns one or more Idle Tires.

Q What is the purpose of the Idle Tire Plan?

A The rubber shortage is serious. Your Government must have tires right now—today—for essential use. America's passenger cars must be kept running or the war effort will suffer.

Q What shall I do with my Idle Tires?

A The Government will buy them at ceiling prices. If you want to drive your car you must dispose of your Idle Tires as provided by the regulations. You MUST also file a Tire Record Form that certifies that neither you nor any member of your household who is related to you by blood, marriage or adoption owns Idle Tires.

Q How do I sell my Idle Tires to the Government?

A Follow the simple instructions at the bottom of this page. But don't delay. Idle Tires must be disposed of before November 22.

Q How do I file a Tire Record Form?

A Government Tire Record Forms may be obtained at War Price and Rationing Board offices, Post Offices and Garages. In areas where gasoline is already rationed, Tire Record Forms must be taken or sent to your War Price and Rationing Board by December 12. Earlier is better because this form also contains the Tire Inspection Blank which must be signed by your War Price and Rationing Board and which you must have in your possession after December 12.

In areas where gasoline rationing becomes effective November 22, Tire Record Forms may also be obtained at school houses when you register for gasoline. The forms must be filled in and presented before you can obtain a gasoline ration book.

Q Must I file a Tire Record Form if I own no Idle Tires?

A Yes, if you wish to use gasoline in your passenger car.

Q Are any passenger car tires excepted from the Idle Tire regulations?

A Yes—in three general classifications. Passenger car tires intended for use on cars owned or leased by Federal, State, local and foreign governments; passenger car tires in the hands of dealers (including car dealers), jobbers or manufacturers, bought or made for sale, if they have been reported to the Government on official inventory forms; and passenger car tires intended for use on trucks, taxicabs, public rental cars, jitneys, buses, cars licensed for hire, etc. The exemptions do not apply to the later group, however, if the owner of such tires also owns a private passenger car and uses gasoline in its operation.

Q What will I do when my own tires wear out—put up my car?

A No. Automobiles are essential to the war program. The purpose of this plan is not to take cars off the road—but to keep cars on the road—yours included, for essential driving. When you need tires, the Government will do everything possible to see that you are supplied.

Q What about synthetic rubber? Won't that solve the problem?

A Not quickly enough. Unless we take steps immediately to pool and use Idle Tires, many cars will be off the road by 1944.

Q I bought 2 tires before Pearl Harbor and put them aside for a rainy day. Do I have to give them up?

A Sorry, but it's America's rainy day now. The limit is 5 tires per passenger car. But you can keep your 5 best tires.

Q Does the Government want old tires?

A Yes. The Government must have all usable Idle Tires, new and used, even those needing repairs. Idle Tires beyond repair should be sold to scrap dealers.

Q What about bus and truck tires and tubes?

A Compulsion does not apply to bus-type and truck-type tires, nor to tubes of any kind, but the Government will buy all that are offered.

Q Can I sell or give my Idle Tires to a relative or neighbor?

A No. Usable or repairable tires can be disposed of only to the Government in accordance with the instructions given elsewhere on this page. Idle Tires that are beyond repair should be sold to scrap dealers.

Q Are there penalties for violation of the Idle Tire regulations?

A Yes. The penalties are severe for illegal use of gasoline on and after November 22, or for making false statements about tire ownership, or for illegal disposition of tires. If in doubt on any point, consult the OPA Mileage Rationing Regulations.

HERE IS HOW TO SELL YOUR IDLE TIRES TO UNCLE SAM AT CEILING PRICES

Keep your 5 best tires for each passenger car; one for each running wheel of passenger car trailers and similar equipment. All other tires, new or used, regardless of condition, are Idle Tires. Sell all usable Idle Tires (even those needing repair), to the Government before Nov. 22.

Railway Express Agency has been designated to collect usable Idle Tires (at no cost to you) and deliver them to Government warehouses. In areas where Railway Express has "pick-up" service, call or write nearest Railway Express Agency office and say you have Idle Tires for Uncle Sam. A truck will call.

In rural areas beyond Express "pick-up" zones, take usable Idle Tires and tubes to the Railway Express Agency office, usually at nearest railroad station. The Express agent will give you a receipt. Scrap tires should not be turned over to Railway Express. Sell them directly to scrap dealers.

At Government warehouses, Idle Tires will be appraised at ceiling prices, according to make, size and condition, less cost of repairs, if needed. (Typical prices are shown elsewhere on this page.) A U. S. Treasury check for payment in full will be sent to you by mail. Tell the express agent if you prefer payment in War Savings Bonds or Stamps at current purchase value.

EXAMPLES OF PRICES THE GOVERNMENT WILL PAY FOR YOUR IDLE TIRES

USED TIRE PRICES

4.75x19	6.10	4.95	3.20	2.20

Prices in column marked "9/32" or less" also apply for all regrooved and resanded tires.

Only popular sizes are listed. Other sizes priced proportionately.

The above prices apply to used tires which need not be repaired. If repairs are needed, costs fixed by the appraiser will be deducted, but no deduction will be made for regrooving. If tires received prove good only as scrap, scrap prices will be paid.

USED TUBE PRICES

Best price for most used passenger car tubes is $1.80.

NEW TIRE AND TUBE PRICES

New tires, including undamaged tires run less than 1,000 miles, and new tubes, will be paid for at maximum applicable OPA price. In nearly every case the manufacturer's current list price will prevail.

G. W. and G. U. Eager for Wins This Week End as Tuners for Their Battle

Win, Lose or Draw

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON. Dan Ferris Does Some Wishful Thinking

Dan Ferris' statement that AAU district associations will be encouraged to revive track meets this winter strikes us as a rare example of wishful thinking.

The national secretary of the ruling amateur organization wants the various and scattered chapters to put aside their social airs, pull on their old sweatshirts and gym shoes and go back to work.

Major track meets with the champs and potential record-breakers running always will have an attraction for the customers.

It takes money to put on a successful track meet. Money for traveling expenses, renting the hall, hiring of help—not the AAU brass hats who work for the love of it—and sundry other expenses.

But even more serious is the problem of drafting talent for the meets. Pray, where is it coming from, or does Ferris have a good suggestion in this matter?

A trackman is a delicate piece of machinery. He must watch his diet and hours as carefully as a thoroughbred racehorse.

Mr. Ferris Leaves Food for Argument

Ferris comes up with the hackneyed cry that conditions are like they were when he was an athlete. Certainly not. And did he have all the luxuries in those days we have now?

It's a Far Cry From Days of Athletic Clubs

Ferris, we think, wants a return to the days when every neighborhood had its own little athletic club, an appellation that was more than a figure of speech.

He has the right idea, but it's a far cry from those days. Perhaps the Army routine will spawn a harder breed that will continue to live in a wholesome way after returning to civilian life.

Maryland, Navy Gridders On Penn State's Slate For Next Campaign

Special dispatch to The Star. STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 13.—Penn State's gridmen will visit Maryland on successive week ends next autumn, traveling to Annapolis October 16 for a game with Navy and returning the following Saturday to battle the University of Maryland's Old Liners at College Park.

The game with Navy is a singleton, but that with Maryland will be the first of a home-and-home series, the Old Liners repaying the visit here in November of 1944.

Opponents faced during the current campaign who do not meet the Nittany Lions next are Penn, Cornell, West Virginia and Lehigh. In addition to Maryland, new home-and-home agreements have been reached with Georgia, Michigan State and Temple University.

Tulane, Florida and Vandy Leave Loop for Tussles

By the Associated Press. ATLANTA, Nov. 13.—Tulane's unpredictable Greenies, Vanderbilt and Florida step outside of the Southeastern Conference for entertainment tomorrow, and in the cases of Tulane and the Gators there's a question of who's to be entertained.

Colonials Face Tough Rival in Wake Forest

Hoyas Hope to Crick Loss Streak in Tilt Against N. C. State

Still hopeful of salvaging what might regard as a highly successful season from what threatened to become an extremely embarrassing campaign, George Washington University's football team will tangle with Wake Forest tonight at Griffith Stadium at 8:15 o'clock.

Crushed by William and Mary, 61-0, and walloped by The Citadel, Furman and Kentucky, the Colonials nevertheless will be content with their season's labor providing they upset Wake Forest then carry on to spill Georgetown.

Georgetown likewise seeks to return to the glory road after successive beatings by Detroit, Boston College and North Carolina Navy College. The Hoyas, who face N. C. State tomorrow at 2:15 at the same site, won't regard their season as a failure if they hurdle the Wolf-pack, then maul G. W.

The Hoyas' three straight losses are more than they've absorbed since 1933, but being defeated by Boston College and N. C. Navy Pre-Flight, two of the Nation's stronger teams, can't be termed humiliating.

Deacon's Record Impressive

In Wake Forest the Colonials will be facing a team that beat Duke, 42-0 conqueror of Maryland, by two touchdowns. Last week the Deacons walloped by a 28-0 score the V. M. I. team that trimmed Maryland 29-0.

Wake Forest also owns victories over Clemson and Furman and tied N. C. State, losing only to North Carolina and Boston College.

Reed Cochran, who tossed two touchdowns passes against V. M. I., is Wake Forest's most talented back and Coach Johnny Baker of G. W. has been attempting to impress the Colonials that they must halt him if they hope to stop the Deacons.

Cochran was the Southeastern passer last year, gaining 1,169 yards on 61 completions in 143 tosses.

G. W. followers are enthused over the manner in which Baker rallied his club after the William and Mary rout. The Colonials bounced back to play respectable football against Kentucky, then pulled one of the season's surprises last week by whipping Clemson, 7-0.

Preston a Star Tackle

In Pat Preston, 6-foot-2-inch 205-pounder, the Deacons are reported to possess one of the South's finer talents. Preston already has been invited to play in the annual Northwestern.

Contingent on another section driving home a better claim, the Deep South gives you:

George Poschner, Georgia's 6-foot 185-pound senior from Youngstown, Ohio, whose circus catches and brilliant defensive play have helped make Georgia the Nation's No. 1 team.

Martin Comer, Tulane's 6-foot 185-pound senior from Gary, Ind., whose spectacular performances with an up-and-down team have won admiration week after week.

man being in them. It will only be another decade or two before they learn how to stop Don Hutson.

Shorts and shells—Although the Sun Bowl game has been called off, El Paso fans like their post-season football so much that they've invited the Second Air Force team from Fort George Wright, Wash., to play there December 12, probably against Hardin-Simmons. The Mineralites bowling team of Chicago needed only an hour and 45 minutes to roll a 3,234 score recently, which should be a lesson to athletes who claim you have to "take your time" to be good.

If the Boston College Eagles keep on winning, every senior on the team will have a souvenir football at the end of the season.

Postman's Paragon—Smith Barrier of the Greensboro, N. C. Record reports that when Coach Jim Tatum of North Carolina was guest of the Greensboro Touchdown Club last week, he entered the club's football-picking contest and named 16 out of 20 winners to top the crowd.

"Maybe he should play the Paulding (Ohio) High has scored

IN ALL PRICE CLASSES

HIGHLY RATED—Martin Comer (left) of Tulane and George Poschner of Georgia, whom the Dixie fans are claiming deserve the end positions on the all-America eleven. Comer, who hails from Gary, Ind., scales 200 pounds, while Poschner, not quite so big, comes from Youngstown, Ohio.

Northwestern Tuned For Upset Victory Over Wisconsin

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Although the Western Conference has been subjected to an "upset week" football program almost from the season's start, it still hasn't exhausted all of its possibilities.

The Wildcats, who have not been out in the matter of conference victories since the 1923 season, get their last chance at a win this year when they take on Wisconsin tomorrow.

It also is their last chance to join the list of "upsetters," which by now includes six teams. Here are acknowledged upsets of the 1942 conference season:

Illinois, 20; Minnesota, 13; Purdue, 7; Northwestern, 6; Minnesota, 16; Michigan, 14; Wisconsin, 17; Ohio State, 7; Iowa, 6; Wisconsin, 0; Indiana, 7; Minnesota, 0.

Northwestern early in the season was regarded as among the Big Ten's stronger eleven, but the Wildcats started slowly and then found themselves handicapped by a succession of injuries.

Georgia Tech, Irish, Ohio State, Wisconsin Victories Seen

By HERB BARKER. Associated Press Sports Writer. NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Reserving the right to demand a recount after all the returns are in, this football guesser goes along his in-corrugible way:

Michigan-Notre Dame: You can tie yourself into a fine knot if you try to come up with the winner of this one by looking over their records and draw the appropriate comparisons.

Alabama-Georgia Tech: This is precisely in the same category. The Crimson Tide has one of the strongest defensive outfits in the country but could not halt Siskiwic and Georgia through the air.

Ohio State-Illinois: Very close. However, this guesser strings along with Ohio State.

Wisconsin-Northwestern: The Badgers should have recovered from their shocking upset by Iowa and rate the nod, Wisconsin.

Fordham-Boston College: The undefeated Eagles look for too tough for this Fordham outfit.

Texas-Texas Christian: The Horned Frogs seem to have run into a slump.

Baylor-Tulsa: This should prove whether or not Tulsa unbeaten and untied, belongs in the upper bracket.

Missouri Reaches for Crown

Yale-Princeton: Both in-and-outers and none of the rules of form apply to this particular game anyway.

Oregon-Southern California: Playing at home, Oregon engineered one of the season's prime upsets in beating U. C. L. A. last week.

Columbia-Navy: Governal will test Navy's aerial defenses to the limit but the vote must go to the Midshipmen.

Dartmouth-Cornell: Wally Kretz apparently is just what the doctor ordered for the Big Red.

Indiana-Mississippi-Tennessee: No reason to look past the Volunteers.

Oregon State-Stanford: Taking Stanford.

Georgia-Louisiana State: Eenie, meenie . . . Michigan State.

North Carolina State-Georgetown: Looks very close. On the toss of a coin, Georgetown.

Texas A. and M.-Rice: Even-Stephen, The Aggies.

Arkansas-Southern Methodist: Should be S. U.

West Virginia-Kentucky: The Mountaineers have had two weeks' rest. For that reason alone, West Virginia.

Skipping over the chalklines otherwise: Wake Forest over George Washington; Jacksonville Naval over

Scoring on Grid Not Job It Was Last Season

Running Attack Gets More Ground, Points Require Less Gain

By ARNOLD DERLITZKI, Associated Press Sports Writer.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Collegiate football not only is continuing its trend toward greater offense under wartime conditions, but it is doing it with an even greater economy of effort.

The Nation's gridiron teams were averaging 222.8 yards a game on the basis of figures released today by the American Football Statistical Bureau.

And where last year's collegians averaged a point for every 16 yards gained, they're getting that point this year by traveling only 15 yards.

The statistical bureau's reason for this was greater scoring fitness and even better coaching methods.

Gain in Running Attack

The advance in total offense can be attributed to superior running attacks, for at forward passing the country's footballers slipped from 1941 when they averaged 80.6 yards per game and also established a record for percentage of completions.

The 1942 figures per game compared with 1941:

Rushing average—1942, 141.2 yds.; 1941, 141.2 yds. Passing average—1942, 80.6 yds.; 1941, 80.6 yds.

Percentage of completions—1942, 36.1%; 1941, 36.1%.

The most offensive minded section of the Nation is the Midwest where major teams are averaging 247.7 yards a game per team, although running second to the Southeast in actual scoring.

In accounting for this, the statistical bureau pointed out that competition is more even in the Midwest and consequently there have been fewer one-sided games where points build up faster than yardage.

Midwest, Southeast Far Ahead

The Midwest and Southeast almost monopolize honors when it comes to sectional supremacy. Here are the figures:

Scoring—Southeast, 17.4 points per team per game; Midwest, 16.5; Southwest, 15.8; East, 14.8; Far West, 12.7.

Total offense—Midwest, 247.7 yards; Southwest, 241.9; Southeast, 239.1; Far West, 229; East, 224.9.

Passing—Midwest, 85.9 yards; Southwest, 82.8; Far West, 82.1; Southeast, 79.1; East, 71.3.

Most passes attempted—Southwest, 16.5 a game; Far West, 15.3; Midwest, 14.6; Southeast, 13.9; East, 13.

Percentage of pass completions—Southeast, 36.1; Midwest, 40.8; Far West, 37.1; Southwest, 37.0; East, 35.7.

Punting—Southeast, 37.45 yards per punt; East, 36; Midwest, 35.80; Southwest, 35.18; Far West, 34.91.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—The American Football Statistical Bureau came up with these "mosts" today among the Nation's major grid teams:

Most pass interceptions—23 by Stanford (for 191 yards).

Most yards from interceptions—375 by Wisconsin* (from 21 interceptions).

Least number of interceptions of own passes—None in 46 attempts, Hardin-Simmons.

Most passed against team—Boston College, 152; Missouri, 151.

Team with most passes completed against it—Missouri, 67; Kentucky, 66.

Line accounting for greatest yardage loss to opposing ball carriers—Texas A. and M., 311 yards.

Most yardage gained from punt runbacks—665 by Tulsa.

East Potomac Links May Be Useless Until Spring

Mud Slow to Go, Weather Will Determine When Course Will Open

The East Potomac Park golf course, centerpiece of the public golf courses in Washington, will not be opened for some time and may not be back in business until spring.

S. G. Leoffer, president of the company which operates all the public courses in the city, said today reopening of the layout depends on the weather, but held out little hope that East Potomac can be opened within a few days.

It's all a result of the flood of last month. "We found that we ran into real trouble down there," said Leoffer. "In the first place our facilities in the clubhouse were knocked out when water flooded the cellar, burning electricity we couldn't pump out the cellar and without a cellar it was hard to function."

Down on the lower end of the course the fairways were covered with a thick coating of mud and scum. We thought we could get it cleaned up in a few days, but that didn't work out.

As a matter of fact it will take a long time to get rid of it and it is slow work. If we have freezing weather soon it may be months before we can use the course. And it's possible it may be out of use part of the winter."

That means of course, that under good conditions it will be quite a while before East Potomac opens up at the old stand. Leoffer explained that much of the mud deposited can be broken up, and that it will not be practicable to shovel the mud from the fairway and greens. It will be absorbed, he pointed out.

Meanwhile, most of the public links play has shifted to Rock Creek Park and Anacostia Park. At the latter course the Pearl Harbor tourney, started last month, is being carried on, and will finish in a fortnight, probably to be followed by a turkey tourney.

G. W. High and Hopewell Are Well Matched for Contest Tonight

By GEORGE HUBER.
Another of those St. John's-Gonzaga thrillers comes up Sunday at Griffith Stadium when these two Catholic school rivals meet for the 14th time in the modern series. Both teams have good records, Gonzaga with four wins and two setbacks, and St. John's with four victories, one defeat and a tie, and the game really figures as a tossup.

Twice this season they have met the same teams but things also balance here on the basis of comparative scores. Gonzaga defeated National Training School, 20-6, while the Johnnies sank that club, 44-0. However, Gonzaga took Eastern into camp, 21-6, while St. John's got away with only a 13-6 win.

Last year St. John's was the favorite, but Gonzaga's Eagles scored in the last two minutes to win a 10-13 upset in a game that was a real thriller for the 8,500 present. With a similar game in prospect there should be at least 10,000 on hand at Griffith Stadium Sunday when the game begins at 2:15 p. m.

Has Pair of Star Backs.

Of the three stars on Gonzaga's team last year, Elmer Raba, Ronnie Waldron and Bernie Nolan, only Nolan is missing this season, giving the Eagles a pair of talented and experienced backs for Sunday's crucial tilt. Waldron has scored four of Gonzaga's 10 touchdowns and has booted six extra points. Raba has hit the heights at which he operated last season, but he still is one of the best in town and with his passing, kicking and running is a dangerous player at any time.

The Eagles have a fair number of good reserves for the backfield, among them Ray O'Brien, who distinguished himself in one recent game by scoring three touchdowns. St. John's also can match this with an experienced backfield, although it is handicapped somewhat by injuries. George Hughes, the big 19-pound kicker and punger, still is limping and was held out of Tuesday's game against Eastern. He's listed as a starter Sunday, however. Right now he's in fourth place in the individual scoring race among District and nearby high schools with five touchdowns and four extra points.

Hughes Needed as Kicker.

Although his main value is as a scorer, his kicking will be needed Sunday to match Raba's. Al Lucas, who with Hughes scored touchdowns against Gonzaga last year, also is listed as a probable starter, but he is too in the ailing list with damaged ankles. Otherwise the Johnny backfield probably will include at the start Charles Wilson, the team's best passer, and Joe Angeli, who joined the team before the season and has been in recent games. He's scored touchdowns in the last three games to save St. John's from defeat. The usual colorful ceremonies will add interest to the game. The St. John's Cadet Corps and band will parade both before the game and at the half. Admission price is 75 cents, with high school students, on presentation of their Athletic Association card, and servicemen being admitted for 40 cents.

In the modern series, Gonzaga has won eight games, St. John's three and two others ended in ties. Another interesting high school game this week end is tonight's tilt in Alexandria between George Washington and Hopewell, but the President's home schedule. The two appear evenly matched. Last week the Presidents were defeated by John Marshall's unstopable eleven, 25-13, while Arlington Eastern was defeated by the justices. The feature of George Washington's games are the pre-game and half-time maneuvers by the school band and the corps of pretty drum majorettes. Starting time is 8 o'clock.

Foltz, G. W. High Grigger, Off for Coast Guard

Marty Foltz, captain and leading scorer of the George Washington High School football team, will play tonight with his team finishes its home schedule against Hopewell. Foltz recently enlisted in the Coast Guard and leaves for his training station today. He is tied for fourth place among the District and vicinity schoony football scorers with five touchdowns and four extra points to his credit. He also was an outstanding basket ball player.

Assistants May Direct 'Bama-Engineer Tilt'

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTA, Nov. 13.—The big football battle here Saturday between unbeaten and united Georgia Tech and once-defeated Alabama may be directed entirely by assistant coaches.

Direction of the Tech fortunes rests on Backfield Coach Bobby Dodd, subbing for Coach Bill Alexander, who is ill.

Paul Burnum, first assistant coach, took charge of Alabama's football team yesterday when Coach Frank Thomas was called to Chicago by the serious illness of his mother.

Raider Lightweights Win

A 15-yard pass from Doug Kuldell to Bob Young gave Western High lightweights the touchdown by which they defeated Alban Towers, 7-0, in a football game yesterday at Western.

Former Eagles Clash As Hornets Invade Lions Tomorrow

Players who were teammates with the Washington Eagles of the Eastern Hockey League will oppose in an American League game here tomorrow night when the Washington Lions square off with the Pittsburgh Hornets at Uline Arena at 8:30 o'clock.

Frank Malley, formerly a winger and center who currently is being taught at defense by Coach George Mantha of the Lions, and Hal Dewey, Pittsburgh center, both made the jump from the Eastern League last season.

Although Malley and Dewey are the best known of the group four other former Eastern Leagueers, two on each team, also will see action.

Hank Dyck, Lion winger, coached and played with the Johnstown Blue Birds last season, while Leo Richard, newly acquired Washington center obtained from the Detroit Red Wings, finished fourth among Eastern League scorers last season while with the River Vale Skeeters. Squee Allen, also formerly with River Vale, will be playing for the Hornets, as will Hec Pozzo, a leading scorer with the Atlantic City Sevens.

The Lions will introduce four new faces in goalie Lloyd Stone, borrowed from Cleveland to fill in for the injured Paul Gauthier; Jimmy Jamieson and Richard, young Ossie Asmudson, an outstanding center last season with the Philadelphia Rockets. Joe Brown and Tony Graboski of the Lions have been recalled by the Detroit Red Wings and Les C. Canadiens, respectively, of the National League.

O'Brien, Colorful Ring Champ, Dies at 64 After Operation

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, colorful fighting great who admitted he was the best light-heavyweight in modern boxing history, died yesterday. He was 64. He succumbed in a hospital after an operation.

O'Brien, whose real name was Joseph Francis Anthony Hagen, had come here November 3 from his home in Ventnor, N. J.

He fought his way up to become undefeated world light-heavyweight champion and an unsuccessful claimant of the heavyweight crown—although he never weighed more than 170 pounds, admitted he was.

Since his retirement in 1912—after a 16-year career during which he lost only five of 184 fights—

Poll on Georgia Tech-'Bama Results in Blank Scribe, Unable to Get Prediction, Refuses to Commit Himself

By DICK HAWKINS.
Associated Press Sports Writer.
ATLANTA, Nov. 13.—In these days of scientific customer research no conclusion on any subject, from evolution to elections, is authentic without a poll.

Not having a speaking acquaintance with Mr. Gallup nor even an opportunity to interview all the sports experts who contribute to the Associated Press poll each week, I organized my own research department on the question of the week: "Can Georgia Tech beat Alabama Saturday?"

Starting at the logical beginning, I first asked the housewife who admits to the name of Mrs. Hawkins, an ardent Georgia Tech fan. The reply was no less ardent. "If Tech doesn't win I think I'll die."

Suspecting some bias in that answer, I next asked the garbage man. He grunted, "I dunno. What do you think?" That riposte had me stopped, so I next confronted the bus driver.

"Tech," he grunted. Scouting some constructive thought, I pursued the matter with, "What makes you think so?" The only reply was a smug finger pointing at a little sign reading, "Do not talk to operator."

Properly squelched but no less determined, I took my seat beside a streetcar and waited until it would have been called a flapper. Her reply was informative, but not in connection with football. Said she, "I just don't know what to think. My boy friend goes to Alabama, but I just lo-o-ove Georgia Tech."

That one might have discouraged another researcher, but no. The druggist behind the cigarette counter was next. When he said, "I just gave Alabama and six points," I thought had struck oil. Here at last was a man with an opinion. "But," he continued, "I can't take Alabama and 12, just to hedge."

And so to Grant Field, where Backfield Coach Bobby Dodd was putting the Jackets over the jumps in the absence of Boss Bill Alexander. If you want information, said I to me, go to headquarters.

"Well," said Bobby, looking down from his six-three to my five-by-five. Alabama's got a great team. I'm afraid they're too much for us. On the other hand—"

I didn't want to hear the rest. There's a limit to everything, even a researcher.

Which team do I pick? That, sir, is an unfair question.

Scoring Free-for-All Expected as Navy, Columbia Clash

Big Menace to Middies Is Seen in Governali, After Passing Mark

By PETE ZURLINDEN.
Associated Press Sports Writer.
ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 13.—Columbia's aerial circus and Navy's scrappy sailors dived into final workouts today in preparation for tomorrow's football duel at Baltimore's Municipal Stadium.

The contest, marking Navy's final "big city" appearance, is expected to attract between 40,000 and 45,000 fans if weather conditions are favorable.

Following the Columbia tussle, only the annual service battle with Army, scheduled here at Thompson Stadium November 28, will remain for Navy.

Although neither Navy nor Columbia boasts impressive seasonal records, spectators can expect one of the most interesting battles on the East's week-end grid program. In fact, Coaches Lou Little of Columbia and Navy's Comdr. John E. Wheelchel look for a scoring free-for-all.

Duke-Carolina Tussle, W. & M.-V. M. I. Tilt Top Southern Bill

By the Associated Press.
RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 13.—Top billing in the Southern Conference football realm this week are Duke's invasion of Chapel Hill for the traditional game with North Carolina and undefeated William and Mary's engagement with V. M. I. at Norfolk.

The Tar Heels have lost only to Tulane and N. C. State while Duke has stumbled in three of its seven games to date.

Comparative scores favor North Carolina, Duke beat Davidson, 21-0, a team that the Tar Heels mauled, 43-14, and the Blue Devils lost to Wake Forest, 7-20, whereas Carolina downed the Deacons, 6 to 0.

Despite the return of Joe Muha, V. M. I.'s brilliant fullback, to the line-up after an ankle injury, William and Mary was favored to maintain its unbeaten status and virtually clinch its claim on the conference championship.

Davidson announced Herb Rainey, veteran tackle, would be unable to play against Washington and Lee at Charlotte tomorrow, but the Wildcats still were favored.

Virginia Tech draws a tough assignment against Army at West Point tomorrow. Clemson tackles the Jacksonville Naval Air Station.

Hockey Bisons Don't Miss Ace Scorer in Bagging Providence Clash

By the Associated Press.
The Buffalo Bisons defeated the Providence Reds, 5-1, last night although they played without Fred Thurier, the American Hockey League's leading scorer.

By winning the Bisons increased their Western division lead to three points over the second-place Indianapolis Capitals.

The Reds missed an opportunity to tie the Hershey Bears for the Eastern division lead.

Thurier, who had left for Montreal Sunday to confer with his draft board, wired the Bisons that it would be impossible for him to reach Buffalo in time to play in last night's game. He also intimated that he would be in the Canadian Army shortly.

Boys' Club Grid Pacers Seek Fourth in Row

Georgetown varsity team in the Georgetown Branch, Boys' Club of Washington 140-pound football champion, Frank Ernie. He knocked out Bob Pittsimmans in 13 rounds for the light-heavyweight crown in 1905—and promptly turned his back on the title to campaign as a heavyweight.

He fought such standouts as Tommy Burns, Jack Johnson, Jack Blackburn and Fireman Jim Flynn in his futile attempt to become head man of the heavies.

COLONIALS FEAR HIM—John (Red) Cochran, Wake Forest triple-threat back, who'll lead the attack for the Deacons against George Washington at Griffith Stadium this evening. He's being compared in Dixie to Banks McFadden, Clemson's all-America back, whom fans here will remember.

Duke, N. C. Argue Over One Game

By the Associated Press.
CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 13.—North Carolina and Duke, whose football teams meet here tomorrow and which are the bitterest of enemies from a gridiron point of view, haven't yet been able to decide which won the 1939 contest. Both teams claim it by forfeit.

That's why the Duke record book shows 13 wins and 12 losses for the Blue Devils, while the Tar Heels insist they won 14 while losing 11.

Both agreed two games were tied.

Colan, Due to Battle Here November 23, Fighting In Chicago Tonight

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Johnny Colan of New York will seek his seventh straight win as a heavyweight tonight against Chicago's Nate Bolden in a 10-round bout in Chicago Stadium.

Colan in nine previous fights here won seven by knockouts and one by decision. He lost a decision to Antonio Christoforidis of Cleveland in his last Chicago appearance.

Colan is expected to weigh 180 pounds and Bolden 175. It may be the New York youngster's last fight for the duration of the war, for he plans to enlist in the Coast Guard next month.

Latsios Sure to Appear On Monday's Fistic Card, Says Turner

A victim of bad breaks on the last two cards, Nick Latsios positively will appear on Monday night's ring program at Turner's Arena, Promoter Joe Turner affirmed today. His opponent will be one Jimmy Willis of Wilmington, Del., and it will be a six-rounder.

Latsios' opponent failed to show, as he says in polite debating circles, a couple of week ago. Last week his scheduled foe was on the scene but 20 pounds overweight and the Boxing Commission refused to permit Nick to go through with the match. But this time everything promises to go right.

The bout is one of several supporting the feature attraction, in which Billy Banks and Lew Hanbury will battle. The victor will stake a strong claim to the town's 135-pound title, a belt worn some several years ago by the illustrious Lou Gevinson.

Osmanski Out of Game

CHICAGO Nov. 13 (AP).—Co-Coach Hank Anderson of the Chicago Bears said Bill Osmanski, injured, would be unable to play against the Green Bay Packers Sunday.

Torrid Scrap of Pass Masters Due in Maryland, Virginia Tilt

Mont of Old Liners, Cavaliers' Gillette To Spark Attacks of T-play Rivals

By ROBERT L. MOORE.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Tomorrow's air show at Charlottesville between Virginia and Maryland should blossom into what sports promoters sometimes refer to as a "natural."

In the first place, the game brings together teams coached by two of the Nation's foremost teachers of the famous T formation. Clark Shaughnessy, who is coaching the Old Liners to one of their most successful campaigns in the past several years, left Chicago when that university abandoned football and journeyed West to Stanford to make gridiron history by beating the Bluefield youngsters to put them into the Rose Bowl.

Cosch Frank Murray at Virginia was the first coach to introduce the T to a college in the South Atlantic area. Virginians are well aware of the result. Led by Bill Dudley, the Bluefield youngster who made the A. P.'s all-American team and now is setting a torrid pace in professional circles with Pittsburgh, the Cavaliers lost only to Yale, 21-19, a heartbreaker if ever there was one. That was last year.

Beau Jack Faces Blow In His Wallet as Well As Stolz's Punches

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Beau Jack, the Negro lightweight who owns a dozen pork-pie hats of various colors in addition to an awkward fighting style, also has the prospect of a double defeat tonight—Friday the 13th—in Madison Square Garden ring.

In order to get a crack at Allie Stolz, classy Newark lightweight contender, Jack had to guarantee the New Jersey scrapper a purse of $10,000. Stolz gets 35 per cent of the receipts, but if that falls below $10,000, the difference must come from Jack's share.

A crowd of 14,000 and a $35,000 gate, however, is expected for the 10-round affair.

But Jack, who was waiting on tables and shining shoes in the clubhouse of the National Golf Course at Augusta, Ga., not so long ago, still is the 8-to-5 underdog in the fight proper, despite a winning streak of 11.

Stolz recently whipped Chaiky Wright and lost a decision to Sammy Angott, the lightweight champion. Tonight's scrap suits for the Angott-Stolz rematch, originally carded for November 27, which was called off because of Angott's injured hand.

Tonight's scrap will be for a bout with Henry Armstrong, former triple champion, now on the comeback trail.

Skins Driven in Drills While Giants Wait About Injuries

Coach Flaherty Recalls Occasions When 'Weak' New Yorks Sparkled

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Reports that the New York Giants aren't ready for Sunday's football game with the Redskins brought forth vigorous protests from Ray Flaherty today as the Tribes' taskmaster sent his men through their final drill of the week.

"That's what they all say," he commented after learning that Steve Owen had announced the Giants would be lucky to hold the Skins to a two or three touchdown margin. "That's what they all say," he repeated, "and then they come up with one of their best games of the season. It always happens and it always seems to happen to us particularly."

Flaherty had reference to a couple of occasions when Owen whipped out the blubbering cloth and made it weighty with tears about the cripples and general unpreparedness of his squad. One of these incidents occurred in 1938 when the Giants, after squeezing out a 10-7 verdict over Washington, were supposed to lose the second game, but came off with their greatest triumph over Flaherty's men, 36-0. Again, in 1940, after blowing the duke in the first set, 21-7, New York wasn't even supposed to belong on the same field with the Skins, but it came back to win the second by identical figures.

The Tribes is ready for the test, Andy Flaherty said. Hare, Sammy Baugh and all the mailmen are ready to carry the baggage. Baugh's performance last week evidently means Samuel is hitting his high note of the season, especially in kicking, and an encore Sunday will do the Giants no harm.

Roy Zimmerman is ailing with a cold, but Bob McChesney, who was down with a touch of flu, is back and Johnny Kovatch, nursing a broken hand, has the mitt protected by a cast and will be able to play.

Clut Golf Champions And Pros Are Asked To Pair in Event

Scotch Foursome Affair, With War Bond Prizes, Urged by John Lane

By WALTER McCALLUM.

Right at the end of the golf season, when the birdie chasers are supposed to have racked up their clubs until next spring, comes an offer that may result in still another warm-while tournament, to be staged at one of Washington's leading clubs.

It is a Scotch foursome championship tournament, to be held at Columbia if sufficient interest can be generated, with the first pro-amateur combination to get $50 each in War bonds, with the runners-up each to receive $25 in War bonds. It would be played on a medal play basis with the professional and the club champion to represent each.

Undoubtedly the idea will have a warm reception from all the clubs around town, for much good golf weather remains and the tournament-hungry linksmen around the club champion to represent each.

Club Champions Included.

It arose out of a suggestion made by John Lane at Columbia. Lane has offered to donate the bonds, and Columbia will permit the use of its course, on any given day. But the tourney will have certain restrictions, if it is played. These would include the reservations that each club would be represented by one group of two players, to compete at Scotch foursome medal play for the championship. One of the players must be the club champion or the runnerup, the other the club professional.

These would be the following with the pro first: Columbia, Fred McLeod and Tommy Webb or Martin McCarthy; Chevy Chase, Bob Bennett and Ralph Bogart or Page Hufty; Congressional, Wiffy Cox and Dr. H. L. Smith or Parker Nolan; Indian Spring, Mel Shores and Eddie Ault or Pres Burrows; Burning Tree, Lew Worsham and J. E. McClure or Page Hufty; Woodmont, Gene Larkin and Howard Nordling or Ellis Edlowitz; Washington, Dave Thomson and Ralph Fowler or L. H. Whitten; Manor, Claggett Stevens and Earl McAleer or Lee Ritter; Kenwood, George Duffenbaugh and John O. McGeehan or Maury Fitzgerald; Prince Georges, Walter Bogley and Joe Balestri or John R. Miller; Bannockburn, Ernie Anderson and Tony Martino or Billy Houghton.

Insists on Alternate Shots.

Columbia pro Fred McLeod, long an advocate of the alternate shot method of foursome play, is all for it, but Fred insists that the competitors use the alternate drive, alternate shot method of play.

"It would not be a fair test of skill if the boys were to pick the best 'best shots,'" said Fred. "The only way to play a tournament of this kind is to determine beforehand which man will drive on the first tee and which will play the second shot."

In this John Lane, who has offered to donate the prizes, agrees. Such a tourney would bring out the best golf among the pros and amateurs around town. It would be played in foursomes and should, if played on a good day, bring out quite a gallery. It can be done this year, even though the weather may not be the best.

South game at Montgomery, Ala., on December 26.

G. W.'s only casual is Maurice Hurley, 23-pound tackle. Center Don Seibert and Tackle Dan Rosa are expected to return to action, though neither is slated to start.

Coch Jock Hazerty of Georgetown has decided to lose alternate backfields at State. During the week he has juggled his first-string line-up repeatedly and has reached the conclusion the Hoyas may display more punch employing a dual backfield system.

In Hazerty's start, the backfield will be Eddie Aepwe, Bill McLaughlin, Lenny Bonforte and Art Hines, but ready to take over when that combination lags are Joe Gyorgydeak, Paul Walsh, Ralph Linneman and Johnny Barrett.

Facing N. C. State have been Art Faircloth and Eddie Teague, former local high school stars, and statistics reveal the punting of the pair has figured prominently in the Wolfpack's success.

Faircloth Cracks Punter.

Faircloth, ex-Anacostia ace, has punted 44 times for an average of 41.4 yards, good enough to rank him seventh in the Nation in that department. Teague, former Eastern athlete, has punted 40 times for an average of 33.9 yards.

N. C. State's star is labeled the "puntingest team in the Nation" by the American Football Statistical Bureau. The Wolfpack has punted 86 times in eight games and hasn't had a kick blocked.

Boy Scouts and Cubs will be guests at both games. All Scouts and Cubs in uniform tonight will be admitted free at the Fifth street gate. Tomorrow they will be admitted at the pass gate upon payment of a 25-cent service charge if they are in uniform or present up-to-date registration cards.

Jenkins Will Contest In Jett Pin Event At Richmond

Nation's Top Duckpinner Also Slated to Vie in Santini Tournament

By the Associated Press.

LOU JENKINS, No. 1 duckpin bowler of the country, will be among Washington's big squad of pinballers shooting in the seventh annual Frank Jett tournament tomorrow on the John Marshall maple lanes in Richmond, Va.

Stationed at Camp Lee, Va., Jenkins also is expected to compete Sunday in the Tony Santini six-game event which will be inaugurated at Convention Hall.

Among the Capital rollers entered in the Jett are Joe Harrison, the 1938 winner; Bob Micetto, Ed Blakeney, Paul Jarman, Paul James, Ole Pacini, Perce Wolfe, Joe Joe, Fred Nick Rinaldi and Al Wright, who finished second in the event last season.

Sets Two Season Marks.

Last season's title-winning Mayor and Council quit came through with season records of 635 and 1,816 to swamp the strong Southern Dairies team in the Mount Rainier Major League. Mark Garilli's 160 and Harry Dawson's 390 led the assault.

Given a flock of free pins, women of Commerce & Savings Bank, led by Margaret Wingrove's 114 and 307, posted 1,590 to trim their male fellows workers in a special match at Hi-Skor by a margin of 45 strikes. Ernest Wilson's 116 and 325 were high for the men. In the regular Bankers' Ladies' League matches Yount of Second National No. 1 sparked with 121 and 344.

King Pin Manager Jimmy Moore fired 151 and 374 as Mullin's Cafeteria United Market to gain a first-place tie with House of Rouse and George Smith for the Rhode Island Avenue Business Men's League. Billy Towler's 350 led Windsor Shop's 2-1 win from House of Rouse while Bill Dodge's 153 and 351 gave Brookland Post Office a 2-1 edge over the Greyhounds.

Edna F. Crocker, 152 and 152, single aided the champion Shamrocks to trim De Perini Delicatessen, 2-1.

Rock Creek Team Collects.

Rock Creek teamrollers won an extra $25 by virtue of leading the Premier Club League at the first quarter pole in the championship race. Ted Harker banged out 411 as the pacesetter gained the prize-winning spot at Penn Recreation. Caldwell of Fairfax fired 153 as top single.

Teammates Tutein and Thurlby of the Hawks posted respective highs of 125 and 340 in the Buckingham Men's League at Arlington Bowling Center, while the pacesetter Tigers, two games ahead of the Clippers, garnered team highs with 363 and 1627.

No Basket Ball Cut Likely By Colleges in Virginia

By the Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 13.—No drastic curtailments is anticipated in the varsity basketball programs of State colleges for the 1942-3 season, a survey shows.

Athletic directors said that the sport will be carried on as usual, with perhaps changes in the schedules in order to save transportation.

William and Mary, which is expected to have the State's strongest quint, has carded 22 games.

N. C. Staters to Gather

Former students of N. C. State are invited to attend the North Carolina State Alumni Association meeting tonight at the Hamilton Hotel at 9 o'clock, when preparations for tomorrow's N. C. State-Georgetown football game at Griffith Stadium will be discussed.

Lemon of Tribe Enlists

CLEVELAND, Nov. 13 (AP)—Bobby Lemon, 21-year-old third baseman brought up from Baltimore late last season, has notified Cleveland that he has enlisted in the Navy at his home in California.

This Team Is Sure Not to Get Cocky

By the Associated Press.

That was a good line in the Manhattan (Kans.) Morning Chronicle. Writing of Kansas State, which lost to Oklahoma, 76-0, last week and apparently headed for its eighth defeat in a row against Indiana tomorrow, the anonymous author signed:

"One thing is certain. The Wildcats never will become overconfident."
