U. S. Forces Tighten Grip On Airfield

Lockheed Fighters Fell Three Zeros In Buin Area

By CLAUDE A. MAHONEY. Fighting against enemy patrols described as "active," Army and Marine Corps forces advanced the western flank of our positions on Guadalcanal Island to the westward of Point Cruz on November 18 (East longitude time), the Navy announced late today.

Point Cruz is 5 miles west of the ital airport and about 1 mile west of the Matinkau River. The gains thus took the United States forces well into territory formerly held by the Japanese and add to the security of American forces on the island described yesterday by Secretary of Navy Knox.

On the same day, Army Lockheed fighters shot down three Zeros in the Buin arear, in addition to those previously reported in Navy Department Communique 196

The Navy said that on the following day, United States patrol activity resulted in the advance of our outpost line, but gave no locations or estimates of the distances of this advance. In this patrol activity. about 35 Japanese were killed, while United States forces "suffered few casualties."

On November 21, 11 attack missions against enemy installations on Guadalcanal were carried out by our aircraft, and ground forces engaged in minor activities.

The three planes shot down bring to a total of 613 the number of Japanese planes destroyed since action began in the Solomons area

Extension of the outpost obviously is a continuation of what is beming a steady advance a began with annihilation and dispersal of 1,500 Japanese invaders on November 18. This was described in a communique yesterday and later augmented by a press conference by Secretary Knox. The ground gains followed within week the tremendous sea battle n which 28 Japanese ships were destroyed and at least 10 others damaged. Today's communique formally acknowledged information given by Secretary Knox yesterday, that raised the number of Jap ships sunk from 23 to 28. Secretary Knox said yesterday that our position on the Solomons is "now very secure," and that if the Japanese came back they would 4 be forced to engage in vigorous fighting in order to regain any of the territory.

Doriot Severely Injured By Crowd in France

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 21. - Jacques Doriot, a leading French pro-Nazi, was attacked by a crowd armed with bludgeons recently and was taken to a hospital severely injured, the London Daily Express said today in a French frontier dispatch quoting Paris reports.

The dispatch said Doriot and his bodyguard were set upon as they left a meeting of Doriot's National Popular party, which has demanded that France declare war on the United States and Britain because of the Allies' occupation of French North Africa.

It was reported that the editor and politician suffered four broken ribs and may lose the sight of his left eye as a result of the beating.

In New Guinea, westward of the Solomons, the Japanese fought savagely to forestall what seemed to be imminent disaster. The fiercest fighting of the campaign raged in the Buna-Gona areas where American and Australian troops had pinned the invaders back against the northeastern coast.

One United States force was within a mile of Buna and engaged heavy fighting and another was attempting to wrest a landing field on the outskirts of the village from the defending Japanese. This second unit reported that it had met heavy machine-gun fire within 500 yards of the field. The Japanese increased their group would appeal directly to the White House for a delay even as the chance diminished that Congress would pass legislation halting the Appeal to President. Representative Ford, Democrat, of California, insisting, however, there is a chance for congressional action, said he and others were requesting Chairman Steagall to call a meeting of the House Banking Committee to consider legislation to postpone rationing beyond the December deadline.

"No one," he told a reporter, would object to rationing if it were proved that the armed services needed additional fuel. But there has been no such claim and we don't believe it is true.' Mr. Ford said the primary pur-pose of officials ordering "arbitrary" rationing was "further to regiment the people.

McKee Faces Wife Again in Court as Baby Vanishes

Stepdaughter Believed To Have Taken Child to Block Custody Order

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21 .- A father and mother who exchanged bitter recriminations at a long, hardfought divorce trial, faced each other in court again last night as a search was ordered for their vanished 2-year-old son, one of the main issues at stake in their court battle.

Mrs. Evelyn McKee, 34, already grieving over a court order yesterday which deprived her of the child's custody, sobbed almost incoherently when she was brought before Superior Judge Thurmond Clarke last night and denied she knew where the boy was.

Stepdaughter, Baby Vanished.

And Mark T. McKee, 54, transportation magnate, sat tense and strained as Mrs. McKee voiced her belief that her stepdaughter, Cynnthia McKee, 20, had vanished with the baby, Terry Alexander McKee, in a misguided effort to frustrate the court's custody order. She said Cynnthia also is missing.

Cynnthia is his daughter by a former marriage. But they are es-tranged and she sided with her stepmother in the contested divorce trial which ended yesterday with finally extricated the men nearly an hour later by prying open the truck's cab. The spilled gasoline prevented the firemen from using acetylene torches to free the two.

The men in the truck, both colored, were identified by police as Cecil Bond, 20. of the 1600 block of Eleventh street N.W., driver of the truck, who had to have crushed toes on his right foot amputated and who suffered cuts and possibly a leg fracture, and Willie Johnson, 26, Arlington, who suffered cuts on both legs and possibly a hip fracture.

Bus Driver Injured.

The bus driver, Leonard L. Rock. 21 of the 600 block of Marvland avenue N.E., suffered cuts on the right leg and possibly a wrist fracture. He was released after being treated at Casualty Hospital.

Mr. Rock, the police said, told officers he was driving the bus, without passengers, west along Florida avenue when the truck passed him at Eleventh street. The bus then hit the truck when the latter swerved into its path, police quoted the bus driver as saying.

A coroner's jury yesterday exonerated the driver of an Army ambulance and a streetcar motorman in two traffic deaths.

Pvt. Arno S. McClellan, 26, stationed at Fort Washington, Md., driver of the ambulance, was released in the fatal injury of James E. Evans, 47, of Chevy Chase, Md., on November 17.

Mr. Evans was struck and instantly killed in front of 1701 North Capitol street.

In the second inquest, Charles E. Ninson, 32, of 532 Fourteenth street S.E., street car motorman, was freed in the fatal injury of Edward F. Jenifer, 70, colored, of 1146 Sixth submerging U-boat and the bombstreet N.W. early yesterday.

British observers say that this scant month of heavy raids already has shaken civilian morale badly in Northern Italy as well as smashing many war industries and dock facilities and disrupting communications.

The London Daily Sketch has reported that Gen. Riedel, anti-aircraft defense chief for Germany, is being sent to Italy at the request of Premier Mussolini to reorganize Italian defenses against British raids.

The writer of this newspaper's "Inside Information" column, commenting on the effect of the raids, added:

Pre-Medical Student Deferment Sought By Brig. Gen. Hillman

Source of Future Doctors In Danger, Says Officer Of Army Medical Corps

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.-Brig. Gen. Charles C. Hillman of the Army Medical Corps, says the supply of future physicians required for both the military and civilian effort "must not be curtailed at the source."

Explaining that the lowering of the draft age to 18 created new problems for medical and premedical students, Gen. Hillman expressed hope that the War Department would work out comprehensive plans to assure a continuous supply of new physicians for essential industries and civilian communities.

Gen. Hillman, speaking at an American Medical Association conference yesterday, said that unless provision was made to assure a minimum of two years' pre-medical education for those planning to enter medical schools, "only women Get In the Scrap! and the physically unfit would be able to enter medical schools."

ing in approved medical schools, Gen. Hillman told the conference, are being placed under military jurisdiction, with inactive status, in order to complete their medical education and one year internship.

Col. Leonard G. Rowntree, chief of the medical division at National Selective Service headquarters, who spoke at the same conference, said that with the induction of youths of 18 and 19 "the problem of the medical student and pre-medical students is again uppermost, since their training requires ordinarily seven years. In the accelerated program now in operation a minimum of five years training is involved."

Various solutions have been suggested for the handling of the education of this group, he said, and asserted that "there is a possibility that special enlisted corps will be created" to cover the pre-medical student program.

Dr. Frank H. Lahey of Boston, chairman of the Board of Procurement and Assignment Services for Doctors, said the country as a whole had met the quotas of physicians asked by the armed forces. They now have 6.5 doctors for every 1.000 men and there is one doctor for every 1,500 civilians.

Repairing • Renovizing • Modernizing Homes

A Suggestion from Us to You

It has been the Eberly policy down through the years to serve home-owners, in and around Washington, in the most efficient way.

In these times of war and man-power shortage we all realize how difficult it is to get the "small jobs" around the house done carefully.

So here's what we've done:

Set up a new department, specially to meet this acute problem, delegating certain members of our organization, thoroughly capable and trustworthy, who are best equipped to do these small, but very essential things-such as

Installing sash cords	Adjusting windows
Replacing broken glass	and doors Pointing up fire places
Painting kitchens and bathrooms	Installing storm win- dows and doors and the many other small services around the home, which may have been overlooked or neglected.

Please! Let us know in advance

These men make up their schedules on a weekly basis. Therefore we ask your cooperation by planning to have your work done on the particular day allotted to your neighborhood. It helps you-for it means you pay only for the actual time the man is doing the work. And you will be helping in the patriotic effort to save tires and gasoline-as well as befitting by the time saving element in travel back and forth, which often costs more than the actual work you are having done. The dimes and dollars thus saved can be a big help in purchasing War Bonds and Stamps.

service that will meet these needs and your obligation to the home.

Last Year You Had FIFTEEN!

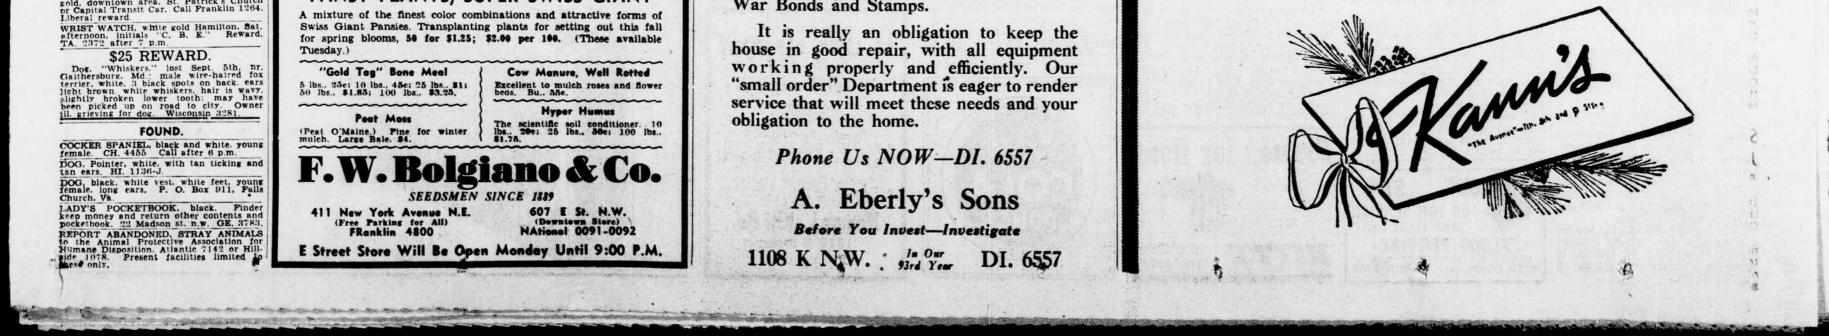

Wartime conditions make it necessary to limit the number of evenings the store will be open to only FIVE between now and Christmas. This means that your shopping time will be materially shortened and that store facilities will be taxed beyond capacity during December. We therefore urge you to begin your Christmas shopping at once . . , if you haven't already done so . . . and that you shop early in the day whenever possible.

On These 5 Days Store Hours Will Be 12:30 Noon to 9 P.M.

Monday, November 23rd Thursday, December 3rd Thursday, December 10th Thursday, December 17th Monday, December 21st

On all other days the shopping hours will be from 9:30 in the morning to 6:00 P.M.

Shipping Bottleneck Main U. S. Problem, Gen. McNair Says

Sees Military Tactics More Important Factor Than Mere Strength

By the Associated Press.

-FORT KNOX, Ky., Nov. 21 .-Warning that a shipping bottleneck probably will prevent this country from bringing its full power to bear against the Axis overseas, the commanding general of the Army ground forces today predicted that tactics would be a more potent factor than "mere military strength" in winning the war.

In a speech before the newly commissioned graduates of the Armored Force Officer Candidate School, Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair asserted that the grim fact stands out that we must economize, in both peronnel and materiel.'

The development of the armored force particularly, and of all the Army in some degree, was entering a new phase, he said.

Manpower Not Unlimited. "In 1940, we left the lean and hungry days when money for the Army was very, very scarce," said Gen. McNair, "and entered a period when all bets were off and the sky was the limit. The armored force was denied nothing in the way of elaborate and costly equipment, and fortunately took full advantage of the good going.

"The new era is based on the realization that our manpower is not unlimited, that shipping is a bottleneck, and that we probably shall be unable to bring our full power to bear against our enemies overseas.

Gen. McNair said the fighting in Libya and Egypt had established once more that "tactics may well be a more potent factor than mere military strength," and that the tactics of armored warfare still were developing

Rail Line Lincoln Rode To Gettysburg to Be Halted

By the Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Nov. 21 .- Passenger service on the railroad line over which Abraham Lincoln traveled in 1863 to deliver the Gettysburg address is about to be abandoned.

Western Maryland Railroad officials told the Maryland Public Service Commission the Baltimore-Gettysburg line had few passengers, in some cases the lone one being a railroad official inspecting the roadbed and lamenting a $25,000 annual 1055.

The PSC granted permission to discontinue passenger service, and yesterday the Public Utility Commission of Pennsylvania took like action. Railway officials said service would be halted in a few days.

During its expansion the Western Maryland acquired the former Hanover Branch Railway Co., over which President Lincoln traveled to Gettysburg. At the end of that journey he handed a silver watch to the conductor, John Edkert, saving: "Here's something for you. Take it. May God be with you." The watch is now in the safe deposit vault of a Baltimore bank.

fare increase on the Washington-Seat Pleasant run of the Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis lines. The appeal was filed yesterday, asking for a reversal of a ruling by Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue which denied the OPA a final injunction to halt the increase until the line had given notice of the proposed increase

An amendment to the Emergency Price Control Act which became law October 2 provided that all common carriers must give the OPA 30 days notice of intention to increase rates. so the price regulating body may intervene if it wishes. In this case, the W. M. & A. filed the proposed new tariff with the Interstate Commerce Commission on September 22 and the rate was to take effect October 26

Justice O'Donoghue held that the line "made" the increase with the filing of the tariff and therefore was not required to give notice to the OPA.

'Turkeys Enough' Forecast For D. C. Thanksgiving

Washington's supply of turkeys for Thanksgiving will be "generally plentiful" in the opinion of a local arge wholesaler and the exact retail prices to be charged were today in the process of being figured out by local retailers.

While price ceilings have been set by the Office of Price Administra-tion, the system is complicated through different price scales al-lowed stores, according to the amount of yearly business they do and the form in which the turkeys are to be sold, as well as grades of turkeys, etc.

A spokesman for OPA estimated that top grade and plain dressed turkeys weighing 16 pounds or under probably will retail here for a mean of 51 cents a pound, with lower grades selling as low as 41 cents a A small percentage of pound. turkeys, however, such as those quick frozen and eviscerated may sell as high as 81 cents a pound, the spokesman said.

One problem facing local wholesale dealers is that of obtaining enough help to butcher the fowl. The concensus seemed to be, however, that there will be sufficient number of turkeys for those who will want them, but that there will be no great surplus.

A. "The Annunciation," by Jan van Eyck. With his brother Hubert he dis-

tion of ships. It is difficult, however, to follow his reasoning. In the first | has had that Axis forces had peneplace, production in the Kaiser yards can hardly be better than in the past. although it is obvious that it could be seriously impaired by labor trouble. Secondly, William Green, AFL president, has made it clear that his organization will fight the effort to invalidate its contracts with every resource at its command. And, when wishful thinking is put aside, it is only reasonable to suppose that the AFL will do precisely this.

Should this inter-union fight materialize and lead to a loss of production at the yards-as certainly would be the case-then the National War Labor Board would step into the picture. Its job is to keep production going, a matter with which the NLRB is not directly concerned. Ultimately, no doubt, the situation will be straightened out. But meanwhile, at the most crucial stage of the war, we are faced with the prospect of losing potential shipping which is most urgently needed.

General Le Jeune

Every great fighting organization must have for its support an endowment of traditional idealism. To say that Lieutenant General John Archer Le Jeune was part of the spiritual fabric of the Marine Corps is to pay him a high tribute. He was a military character certain to be remembered for the compelling power of his own personality. Everything that he did was an exemplification of what he was. His unseen presence is an inspiration in the Solomons and in North Africa today. That being true, he would ask nothing more of any fate.

General Le Jeune, as Washingtonians knew him, was a man of very obvious distinction. Though small in stature, he gave the impression of vast physical reserves. Dark of complexion with black hair and deep set eyes, he was nicknamed "Old Indian" and appeared to enjoy the sobriquet. Strangers often regarded him as hardened in manner, but actually he was patient and congenial. Born in Louisiana, January 10, 1867, of French and Scottish descent, he grew up in an atmosphere dominated by a father who had been a cavalry officer in the Confederate Army. His education was acquired at Louisiana State University and at the Naval Academy at Annapolis, from which latter he was graduated in 1888. It would be feasible to write the story of his career entirely in terms of important events in which he shared from boyhood onward. He was on board the Vandalia when it was wrecked in the Samoan hurricane, March 15, 1889; he commanded the marine detachment of the Cincinnati at Matanzas and San Juan Point, Cuba, during the Spanish-American War; he took 400 marines to the support of the revolution by which Panama achieved independence in 1903; he was in charge at Cavite Barracks in the Philippines this is the first notice the outer world trated thus deeply in this sector. According to Moscow, the Axis has suffered such heavy losses in men and equipment that no further threat to the Central Caucasus may be anticipated for some time.

Appraisal of the military prospects on the eastern front are extremely difficult, because so little is known as to the relative strength of both sides. For months, rival armies totaling several millions of men have been battling almost continuously in what is perhaps the most sustainedly ferocious conflict of all times. The upshot must be a mutual weakening of profound significance for future operations. Despite extensive losses of territory, resources and population. Russia presumably still holds the edge in manpower. But it is unlikely that the badly crippled industrial system of the Soviet Union is able to match the output of Axisdominated Europe, while the amount of munitions and supplies received from its allies has almost certainly failed to meet the deficit. If the Axis could concentrate on the eastern front as it did last year, the success of a Russian winter offensive would be dubious.

However, the amazing transformation in the overall picture wrought by recent Anglo-American triumphs in North Africa introduces a new element in the situation on the eastern front. The most immediate consequence has been the undoubted weakening of German air strength there, due to the imperative necessity of diverting much of the Luftwaffe to the Mediterranean area. Despite unverified reports, it is unlikely that Axis ground troops have been withdrawn directly from the eastern front. But the German high command must be using troops from the general strategic pool for service in the Mediterranean and North Africa that might otherwise have been available for service in Russia. That indirect drain undoubtedly will influence Axis strategy in Russia, compelling a more cautious policy and the avoidance of what, under different circumstances, would be justifiable risks. Conversely, this will permit the Russians to be bolder and to take bigger chances than they formerly would have done. Such are the basic trends. To forecast more would be unprofitable.

Travel Restrictions

The disinclination of the Office of Defense Transportation to ration civilian passenger accommodations on rail and highway, puts it squarely up to the public to exercise restraint and confine travel to the absolute minimum.

Travel rationing has been under consideration for some time by the ODT, but the program would require complex administrative machinery. and for the present-at least through the holiday season-no attempt will be made to impose restrictions.

trend is a by-product of the administration's wage and hour policies, and there should be no surprise that the prospect of a forty-hour week with time and a half for overtime has drained the farms of labor. In one way or another, however, these vanished workers will have to be returned to the farms, or substitutes provided for them.

Presumably, this could be done by paying higher wages and decreasing working hours on the farms. But if this is going to be the answer the farmer will have to receive more for his products, and this, in the normal course, would have to be compensated for through higher prices to consumers. The Office of Price Administration is extremely reluctant to lift any of its price ceilings, however, even though they were fixed at a level which fails to give proper weight to the farmer's wage and labor problems. Higher food prices would mean higher wages, and that in turn would serve only to aggravate the original blunders. Another possible solution which is being talked about calls for the payment of subsidies to farmers or distributors, or both. More moneyhundreds of millions of dollarswould be made available so that farmers could pay higher wages and receive more for their products without a direct increase in the prices charged consumers. The catch is, of course, that the public still would be footing the bill, although it would be more or less hidden in the national debt. To pursue this course would amount to nothing more than the use of public funds to conceal and compensate for the blunders of official Washington. Perhaps it is the easiest way out, but as a precedent it is filled with highly disturbing possibilities. It is to be hoped that there will be no resort to it until there has been at least some real effort to deal with the causes which are at the bottom of the problem.

Sentenced to Freedom

Jails, ranging in variety from the ittle brownstone jug of Maine to the Spanish type adobe calaboose of California, are yet spiritually akin. Invariably the management takes the attitude that the customer is always wrong. No criticism need be attached to the management for this attitude; officially, a judge and jury have already decided that the customer is wrong. The net result, however, is that the jail is a poor substitute for the home. An important exception must be noted. A chronic inebriate at Daytona Beach, Florida, became so enamored of the jail, as a means of getting supper, sleep and breakfast, that he developed into a serious problem. The turnkeys, fed up with him, asked him to leave, but to no avail Something had to be done. A stern judge, overriding his possible constitutional rights, pronounced an unusual sentence. It was to stay out of jail, under penalty of a five-dollar fine. It almost broke his heart. So

The doses of the drugs and of the liver extract given the rats were far larger, relative to size, than would ever be given to human beings.

Occasional development of agranulocytosis, even in a non-malignant reversible form, however, is a problem of serious concern to medicine. The white cells are the soldiers of the body which go into action to combat infection. If they are seriously effected, there always is the possibility that resistance to future infections may be lowered and that larger and larger doses of the drugs might be necessary with repeated infections.

* * * * More than 11,000 workers in American war industries have been killed or injured, on or off the job, every day since December 7-the equivalent of 43 Atmy battalions at wartime strength.

Of these 42,600 have been killed This is the astounding revelation of Dr. Victor G. Heiser, medical consultant of the Association of American Manufacturers Dr. Heiser does not differentiate between those actually killed on war work and those who have died in accidents outside the factory.

Because of absences of war production workers from their jobs this year, he says, industry has lost 121,500,000 man hours, or enough to have produced 5,000 extra bombers. Some of the absenteeism may have been deliberate, he believes, but most of it has been due to the unsanitary conditions and irregular hours which have been inevitable in such rapidly expanding industries.

"There are," he said, "innumerable cases of four or five men camping out in a single room, and taking turns in doing the cooking. You know what this probably means in terms of the kind of food they eat. Inexperienced workers, lack of proper eating facilities for three good meals a day and other conditions present special problems.

"Ninety per cent of the absenteeism is from reported sickness. It is difficult to tell how much of this was genuine. I suspect that a disgraceful amount of time has been taken off by some workers for purely personal reasons—such as hunting for another job, going shopping, hunting or fishing, a staying home to recuperate from a bad week end.

"But nearly every man reporting for work in war industry today brings with him the ghost of fatigue and inefficiency from poor living habits and hidden hunger; the half-aliveness that men feel when they are poorly nourished.

"There is actual evidence to show that many industrial workers drag through their shift at reduced efficiency because of mental and physical disability. Improper diet is blamed as the first and most frequent cause. Next in order come lack of sleep, non-recuperative recreational habits, temporary effects of alcohol, domestic difficulties and so on down the line.

"One thing is sure. We can't beat the Axis by accidents as usual, sickness as usual, diet as usual and holidays as usual."

Letters to the Editor

Discusses Cost of War In Terms of Single Tax Doctrine. To the Editor of The Star:

Junkerism or Prussianism, a combination of landlordism, militarism and industrial control at their worst, is the real power in Nazi Germany. It dates back to the feudalism of the Middle Ages that saddled Europe with an arrogant aristocracy from whose proprietary privileges are derived the monopoly breeding systems of land tenure that have spread to all parts of the earth.

More lebensraum, the main pretext on which Germany started the destruction now going on, means to the Junker caste only more and bigger baronial estates. more small farms to be turned into wildernesses for the delectable sport of sticking wild pigs, more and bigger mines and factories to be operated by labor cowed to servility by forced disunity. The Axis "new order" is mere camouflage for a return to the old order of the robber barons to put the earth in control of an assortment of totalitarian overlords

There is no telling the ultimate cost in dollars alone of the belated resistance to this long-planned assault on civilization. With the end not in sight, billions on billions, beyond the capacity of a Methuselah to count, already have been spent. They quite eclipse the billions added to the burden of production and consumption by our New Deal benevolences, including bonuses to absentee landlords for non-production, and conversion of a host of actual and potential gleaners of wealth into leaners on Government bounty. The bulk of this colossus of cost never can be met. So, after victory, it would be immeasurably better for the living and coming generations to wipe the slate clean for a new start. But even with that, devotees of the Henry George economic philosophy that had its origin with the physiocrats of pre-revoluntionary France, might well ask the world. "what price landlordism?"

Pleads for Economic Salvation Of Danubian States and Peoples. "o the Editor of The Star:

The complexity of Central Europe presents one of the problems which we shall have to solve in order to achieve a satisfactory peace settlement. It is an area which constitutes the heart of the German war effort and, therefore, draws our attention even now.

The 24th anniversary of the collapse of the Hapsburg empire offers an appropriate opportunity for the examination of the situation in the Danube Basin, the place from which the First World War spread to engulf the entire globe and the region where Hitler fought the preliminary battles of this war. What makes this area the powder keg of Europe? What solution are we to offer to these people in order to intensify their resistance to the Nazis? What program will insure their maximum cooperation now, and what will prevent

A. The plate rails were in use from approximately 1880 to 1910. The walls of rooms of this period were very often paneled to the height of the door or window and plates were arranged on the top of the paneling. It was customary to display plates of all sorts on these ledges.

Q. What branch of the Army has the castle with two towers for its symbol? -E. M. D.

A. In the Corps of Engineers the button contains a castle with two towers. Symbolically this represents the storming of ancient fortresses and the building of castles. The modern inference is that the engineers are constantly storming the enemy's fortresses and cotinually building bridges and other aids to warfare.

Reforms in

President's Notice

Step to Uniformity

Of Problem Is First

Prospect

President Roosevelt disclosed to his press conference that he fully realizes the lack of uniformity among the local draft boards in handling occupational deferments. The President's frank discussion of the draft sitution is the most encouraging piece of news on this tangled problem that has come out of Washington in a long time, and amounts to a confirmation of David Lawrence. the points made at various times in these dispatches concerning the operation of the Selective Service Act.

Mr. Roosevelt referred first to what he observed on his recent inspection trip. He said that there were some operations in a factory, for example, which do not need a lot of skilled workers-in other words that you could teach a girl to do such work in three or four weeks Then a man holding such a job could not be deferred, but, if a girl could not be obtained or taught that kind of work, the job holder would be deferred.

There are the cases of two foremen, in one of the plants visited by the President. He said they were not only skilled, but they were in charge of 25 to 30 machines-they not only had the managing skill and knew all about machines, but they also had leadership.

Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that these two men happened to live in different ends of town. One had a wife, but no dependents. The draft board gave the man in the north end of the town an exemption but did not give an exemption to the other, and the two cases were almost similar in every respect.

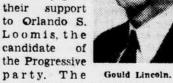

Uniformity Possible.

The President added that there was no uniformity but that the Government was doing the best it could under the circumstances and that probably later, when the next steps are taken, it may be possible to get some uniformity from the draft boards. A further suggestion came from the President that by having the manager of the plant or supervisor icular kind of work certify

Progressive party is an outgrowth of the Progressive La Follette Republicans, who for a number of years dominated the GOP under the leadership of the late Senator Robert Marion La Follette, and then of his sons, Senator Robert M. La Follette and former Gov. Phillip La Follette. The Democratic party, as such, is a weak member in Wisconsin politics.

The defeat of Gov. Heil, however, does not indicate that Wisconsin is any less Republican than the other States of the Midwest which demonstrated effectively their return to the GOP. The entire Republican State ticket, outside of the Governor, was elected. A Republican Legislature was elected, and nearly all of the county offices have gone also to the Republicans. The Democrats, it is true, took two congressional districts away from the Republicans, while the Republicans took one away from the Progressives, so the House delegation in the new Congress will be composed of five Republicans, three Democrats and two Progressives. In the present Congress, the make-up of the delegation is six Evjue, editor of the Capital Times, a Progressive newspaper in Madison, had a good deal to do with putting the skids under Gov. Heil. Early in the campaign, the Progressives, feeling the swing toward Republicanism which operated in Wisconsin as well as in the rest of the Middle West, feared there was little chance of defeating Gov. Heil-although the Governor during his four years in office had made a flock of enemies.

By CONSTANTINE BROWN. The national existence of France has come to an end. The few shreds which gave the French people a vague illusion of independence have d i sappeared. So have the politicians described generally as collaborationists. All the g o v ernment officials have become Nazi officials paid Constantine Brown. by the French people.

Pierre Laval is described as a super Quisling, because while there may be some spark of honest conviction in the Norwegian leader's heart, there is none in Laval's. The French Premier is all calculation and venality. He has built up a fortune out of his collaboration with the Nazis and intends to keep it as long as possible.

Marshal Petain, who was reported at one time to have become thoroughly disgusted with the state of affairs and to have tired of serving as a mere rubber stamp in the hands of Laval, his lieutenant, has now accepted his position and handed over every ounce of authority to Laval.

In some quarters, Marshal Petain is being compared with the late President von Hindenburg. Near the end of his career Hindenburg had become senile. and once, when Hitler's brownshirts were parading under his balcony in the Wilhelmstrasse he turned to his aide, his own son, saying, "Well, I did not know we had captured so many Russians." But Hindenburg commanded the full respect and loyalty of the German nation and had he not been double-crossed by the military leaders who saw in Hitler a man who could remilitarize Germany and bring it into another war, the Austrian would never have had a chance to amount to much.

Respect for Petain Gone.

Marshal Petain now commands the respect of nobody. His feeble voice is being heard more frequenty than in the past over the radio, reading out short speeches and admonitions written for him by Laval, who in turn follows strict orders from Berlin. He does not have enough authority to keep even an old crony like Gen. Maxime Weygand out of iail.

McLemore-Rail Travel Problem

Will 'Solve' Itself

By HENRY McLEMORE. I have some good news for the Government today. One of its major problems is about to solve itself. refer to the problem of civilian railway travel. It is not going to have to be rationed. The Government is not going to be forced to print cards giving you and Mr. Jones and Mr. Smith and me the right to get on trains and go where our business takes Henry McLemore. I speak authoritatively, having just come back from an extended railroad trip. Wise civilians soon will attempt to conduct their business by smoke signals, tom-tom beating pony express or Indian runner rather than face the perils and rigors of the combination men's smoking-dressing-washing room on the trains of today.

In peacetimes that little room with the black leather seats was no haven of delight. Its washing facilities were worked out on a ratio of one chromium basin for each 100.000 passengers handled, and on most roads there used to be a standing prize for the man who was smart enough to get a towel and a mirror at the same time. Add to this the fact that the Pullman porter considered the room his private boudoir and could nearly always be found sleeping across one length of it, and you could always be sure of a merry congestion no matter what hour you decided to do your primping.

Now, in 1942, those bygone days in the Pullman smoker seem like the good old days. Even midgets bearing letters from their members of Congress have trouble getting in now. A few days ago, thanks to a brilliantly executed pincer movement I worked on a couple of fellow passengers. I forced myself into the smoking room, hoping to shave and get a little of the train dust off of me.

Unable to get within 4 feet of a mirror. I used the shiny bald head of a fellow in front of me as a mirror. It didn't work though, It was very unsatisfactory. With the jostling of the crowd and the movement of the train. I shaved the man next to me, while the man on the other side of me, washed my ears.

I thought, of course, that I was shaving myself until the fellow I was giving such a good going-over said, "Not so close buddy. And no

He declared that he didn't think we had enough of that kind of co-operation and that the local boards do not consult enough with the manageemnts of businesses as to their personnel training practices, but that the situation was getting better all the time.

What the President may not know is that members of some local draft boards do not even acknowledge letters from employers and some do not grant hearings at all, simply declaring that hearings are optional and not mandatory

Some members of local draft boards, when presented with the facts concerning key employes, ask this question: "Well, what would you do if the man died?" On that basis, of course, every one can be replaced. but it also means that training new employes slows up the work for a year or more, until such time as skills are attained equal to that of the man drafted.

Board Overworked.

In the last war there were regional appeals boards which handled occupational deferment problems almost entirely and this per mitted of more co-ordination and more familiarity with employer-employe problems than is possible under the system today.

The local draft boards are overworked and are understaffed. They operate in inadequate quarters, and some one who has access to billions a bit of lending or leasing inside the United States to enable these draft boards to function more smoothly Their clerical staffs are inadequate and their facilities insufficient. thought on the situation. One holds that efforts should be made to get a "compromise" candidate for chairman who has no special record on the isolationism issue and put him across, avoiding a row. The other takes the position that it is a good time to bring this issue to a showdown, and have a fight if necessary. The isolationism issue is for the Republican party today very much what the old national prohibition issue was for the Democratic party back in the early 30s. Al Smith, a wet. had been overwhelmingly defeated for President in 1928. Democrats from the dry States of the South and West sought to make the party stick to the dry side of the question. Prohibition, however, was on the way out, and the Democrats jumped on the wet wagon, while the Republicans in 1932 stuck to the dry. Isolationism is on the way out now, although some of the pre-Pearl Harbor isolationists will tell you that the results of the elections show the contrary.

For the first time, it is believed the American hierarchy made specific reference to the Negro group in pleading for economic opportunity for minorities. WMC Begins Survey Of Importing Mexican, Puerto Rican Workers

Food Production Goals Call for 1,500,000 More Laborers, Study Shows

By JESSE O. IRVIN. Food production for home consumption, the armed forces and the United Nations will require 1,500,000 new farm workers next year, the Agriculture Department announced oday. At the same time, the War Manpower Commission has under consideration a plan to import Puerto Ricans and Mexicans to aid in meeting these farm requirements, a spokesman said.

Approximately 3,000 Mexicans already have been certified for entry into the United States for farm work. In order to relieve unemployment conditions in Puerto Rico, the commission is considering a proposal to bring in thousands of workers from the Caribbean island.

The United States Employment Service is planning a survey to determine how many copper, lead and zinc miners will be needed from the reported surplus labor supply in Mexico to relieve a miner shortage in the non-ferrous metals pits in 12 Western States.

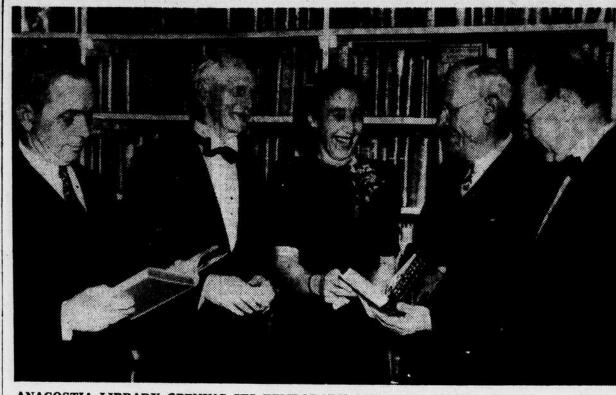

Committee Proposes Importations. This survey is one of the recommendations made late yesterday by the War Manpower Commission's Management-Labor Policy Committee for the importation of 5.000 to 10,000 Mexicans to increase production of metals.

WMC Deputy Chairman Fowler V. Harper said the recommendation was indorsed by Undersecretary of War Patterson and Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell because production of these metals, which are vital to the manufacture of munitions is far below capacity due to a manpower shortage.

WMC estimates indicate copper production can be increased approximately 2,500 tons a month for each 1,000 miners added to the present working force.

Rail Workers Said Not Needed. The deputy chairman said the management-labor group had refused the request of Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of De- library. fense Transportation, to import Mexicans as maintenance of way workers on railroads. The committee held that there was a surplus of such workers in the United States. of the new branch library at Eight-Mr. Eastman had said 12 large Western railroads have reported 14.359 vacancies among maintenance crews.

Old Dominion Passenger Plan Held Unfeasible

Cars Scrapped and Terminal Removed, Line Head Says

Restoration of passenger service on the Washington & Old Dominion Railway, as recommended in a recent report by a transportation ex-pert, is not feasible, G. C. Baggett, vice president and general manager of the railway, said today. He claimed the report does not take into consideration all of the problems involved.

Col. Noten D. Ballantine, nationally-known transportation consultant, made a survey of the railroad from Rosslyn to Purcellville and reported a need exists to restore passenger service for commuters between Rosslyn and Leesburg, Va. He recommended that the company rent railway cars at $12 a day, obtainable from the New York, On-tario & Western Railway, and reestablish passenger service on an experimental basis. Col. Ballantine said he recommended this plan so the company would not have to make a capital outlay in purchasing equipment

clared:

"The facts are that with the discontinuance of passenger service on April 12, 1941, by authority of the State Corporation Commission, all passenger motor and trailer cars were scrapped; the large and commodious passenger terminal formerly located on the Rosslyn Plaza approach to the Key Bridge was removed by order of the District authorities, and all the 40-odd passenger shelter stations at country points along the line were disman tled leaving the company with no facilities for the handling of passengers.

"In 1929 the line to Great Falls was in existence and the passenger revenue derived from the operation of that branch made up a substantial part of the $380 a day * * (shown in the Ballantine report). When the Great Falls line was abandoned in 1934, it placed an added burden on the Leesburg-Bluemont line which has always depended upon freight, mail and express for its support.

Diesel Freight Engines. "In anticipation of an increased freight business by reason of large housing projects on and near the line, the present company recently bought three Diesel electric freight becomotives which will enable it to discontinue its all-electric operations and release the copper trolley and other wires for war purposes. "Now with all of our facilities Of Meat in Virginia devoted to the hauling of freight

TWELFTH STREET CIRCLE-Helen Gatch Durston has sketched symbols of two of the cornerstones of American life, mail and taxes. Standing by the entrance of the Internal Revenue parking lot on Twelfth street, near Constitution avenue, she looked through the trees to the corner of the Internal Revenue Building and across the street to the curved facade of the new Post Office Building. The group of buildings, when completed according to plan, will be known as the Twelfth Street Circle.

The first of the units in the Federal Triangle to be constructed, the Internal Revenue Department Building, was finished in 1935. There is administered the collection of all Federal taxes except customs duties. Internal taxes were first levied in 1791, but the first income tax was not imposed until the Civil War.

The United States Postal Service was first inaugurated in the Colonies in 1691. The First Postmaster General appointed by the Continental Congress was Benjamin Franklin, who served for 38 years, with headquarters in Philadelphia. The Postmaster General was not permitted to sit with the cabinet till 1829. Milestones in the postal service include pony express in 1836, city delivery, 1863; air mail, 1918, and "V" mail, 1942.

Planners Study Question of Raid Shelters

Undertake Study While Conceding Prohibitive Costs

Experts of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission ex-pressed the opinion today that a long-range study of air raid protec-tion for Washington should include plans for the construction of shel-ters, although they admitted that the cost would be prohibitive. Regardless of the cost factor, the commission is assembling statistical as saying he was "more than thrilled" by the news that his son took charge of the battered cruiser after Rear Admiral Daniel J. Calssion is assembling statistical data leading up to the possible construction of shelters and also killed by Japanese shell bursts. reported that it is co-operating with District officials in studying plans for outlying areas which are not now adequately protect-ed. It was agreed that it would take at least three months to complete a study of all requirements. Planning officials feel there is little to be feared from air raids on Washington, but because nothing s certain in war they are inclined to explore all the possibilities of shelters.

Population Guide for Areas. Their study, it was disclosed, in-volves the preparation of maps giv-ing a picture of Washington's population centers. The congested central areas with more than 50 persons to an acre are set aside for one study. Other studies involve population areas of 20 to 50 persons per acre and areas of less than 20 ersons to an acre of land.

Another map is being prepared designating areas where single resi-dences, row houses and apartment nouses predominate.

houses predominate. The District's air raid shelter sec-tion, which is working with the Park and Planning Commission on the se-lection of sites based on the popula-tion surveys, has had plans for a splinter-proof concrete shelter for some time. The plans have been laid away because the War Depart-ment has informed the District the hazard at the present time is not hazard at the present time is not great enough for protection con-struction. In addition, the War Production Board has ruled that no critical materials can be allowed for shelter at this time. Stress Importance of Early Study. An official of the shelter survey section explained that when the need comes it may come in such a hurry that there would be no time then for a survey of sites.

The commission also is interested in another phase of the situation. Pointing out that District officials had selected 900 buildings for use as raid shelters, they claimed that the owners of only about 300 of these buildings had agreed to let their property be used for such purposes. terials approximately three times above normal, we are confronted with a demand to restore passenger train service by assigning one of our three Diesel locomotives to a two-car coach train. This would leave us with only one locomotive to handle our freight since one other is now used exclusively to operate our United States mail and express trains. These latter trains operate at times to best suit the convenience of the Railway Mail Service, but are entirely unsuitable for commuter service.

Mail Service Seen Impaired. "Should the proposed coach train be corsolidated with the present mail trains, the Post Office Department has informed us that it would impair the service more or less seriously and no doubt would be made the basis for vigorous protests and criticism of the service by patrons affected. Obviously it would be impossible to buy any additional mctive power for operation on an experimental basis."

The State Corporation Commission has reopened the case, in which testimony was taken in June on petitions of residents to restore passenger service. The commission will additional testimony, including the report of Col. Ballantine. An order will be entered by the commission at a subsequent date.

There are certain areas, it was felt where new construction could be started without conflicting with such orders involving non-critical materials. All areas under study are within convenient distances

Eligible Drivers To Ask Recaps After Dec. 1

OPA Warns Motorists Not to Wear Tires Below Retread Stage

Motorists in the District, along with their fellow drivers throughout the Nation, will become eligible for replacement tires or for the recapping of their present tires after December 1, but they were reminded today by the Office of Price Administration not to allow their old tires to wear down beyond the point at which they can be recapped.

L. P. Steuart, OPA rationing officer for the District, meanwhile reported tire registrations were fewer than anticipated. Only 106,779 registrants were recorded and of these only 3,680 reported they had more than five tires in their possession. The total number of excess tires indicated was 7,106. The total figure fell below even the official figure announced last Saturday after the close of registration as 108.098. Today's total indicates that 30,668 cars have gone off District streets in the last six months. The mileage rationing registration form, which District motorists signed on November 12 and 13, and which car owners in nearby Maryland and Virginia are still filling out, contains a pledge over the signature of the applicant not to drive his car after any of the tires are worn to a point beyond which they cannot be recapped. Motorists will learn through the periodic tire inspections when they are approaching this point.

If the tire inspector indicates that a tire should be recapped, the driver will be obliged to obey his pledge not to drive on that tire until he has had it recapped or replaced.

All May Apply.

After December 1, ration boards will accept applications from all motorists, whether they hold "A," "B," "C" or "D" cards, for recapping or for replacement tires. Regardless of the kind of rationing book he holds, any motorist may apply for recapping at any time. When he receives a certificate from his board, he may then have his tire recapped-provided there is enough rubber to do the job.

For replacement tires, which are to be designated in various grades consistent with the importance of applicant's mileage to the war effort, the driver may find himself inable to his board. "A" card drivers, for example, will be allowed to apply for replacement tires only after Project in Month the 25th of each month-by which time his local board's allotment of replacements will be pretty well

TWELFTH STREET CIRCLE-Helen Gatch Durston has sketched symbols of two of the cornerstones of American life, mail and taxes. Standing by the entrance of the Internal Revenue parking lot on Twelfth street, near Constitution avenue, she looked through the trees to the corner of the Internal Revenue Building and across the street to the curved facade of the new Post Office Building. The group of buildings, when completed according to plan, will be known as the Twelfth Street Circle.

The first of the units in the Federal Triangle to be constructed, the Internal Revenue Department Building, was finished in 1935. There is administered the collection of all Federal taxes except customs duties. Internal taxes were first levied in 1791, but the first income tax was not imposed until the Civil War.

The United States Postal Service was first inaugurated in the Colonies in 1691. The First Postmaster General appointed by the Continental Congress was Benjamin Franklin, who served for 38 years with headquarters in Philadelphia. The Postmaster General was not permitted to sit with the cabinet till 1829. Milestones in the postal service include pony express in 1836, city delivery, 1863; air mail, 1918, and "V" mail, 1942.

Planners Study Question of Raid Shelters

Undertake Study While Conceding Prohibitive Costs

Experts of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission expressed the opinion today that a long-range study of air raid protection for Washington should include plans for the construction of shelters, although they admitted that the cost would be prohibitive.

Regardless of the cost factor, the commission is assembling statistical data leading up to the possible construction of shelters and also reported that it is co-operating with District officials in studying plans for outlying areas which are not now adequately protected. It was agreed that it would take at least three months to complete a study of all requirements. Planning officials feel there is of 1932. For four years he served little to be feared from air raids on in commission. After two years' to explore all the possibilities of shelters.

> Population Guide for Areas. Their study, it was disclosed, involves the preparation of maps giving a picture of Washington's population centers. The congested central areas with more than 50 persons to an acre are set aside for one study. Other studies involve population areas of 20 to 50 persons per acre and areas of less than 20 persons to an acre of land. Another map is being prepared designating areas where single residences, row houses and apartment houses predominate. The District's air raid shelter section, which is working with the Park and Planning Commission on the se-lection of sites based on the population surveys, has had plans for a splinter-proof concrete shelter for some time. The plans have been laid away because the War Department has informed the District the hazard at the present time is not great enough for protection construction. In addition, the War Production Board has ruled that no critical materials can be allowed for shelter at this time Stress Importance of Early Study.

An official of the shelter survey section explained that when the need comes it may come in such a hurry that there would be no time then for a survey of sites.

The commission also is interested in another phase of the situation. Pointing out that District officials had selected 900 buildings for use as raid shelters, they claimed that the owners of only about 300 of these buildings had agreed to let their property be used for such purposes. Planning officials are co-operating in a study of the remaining 600 buildings to see how many owners can be bought into the shelter program. Before adjourning its November meeting yesterday, the commission initiated a new housing study to determine what can be done in certain areas to promote private residential construction

Even supplementary book drivers Cross, it was announced yesterday coming week that merchants may may have to get in line for replacement tires. If local boards find they have more applications than tires, they will allot their supply of rubber first to those drivers whose necessary mileage seems most important to the war program.

Drivers who fail to keep their pledge not to drive on tires that are ready for recapping probably will find scant sympathy from their ration boards when they come in to apply for replacement tires. Delmarva Peninsula has been designated a "critical area" by the Army and Federal funds and equipment have been furnished for suppression of forest fires. From the Pocomoke River to the Atlantic Coast, on the lower Eastern Shore of Maryland, the section has been termed a "most critical" area, as have sections surroundings various defense works. In these sections all brush burning and marsh fires have been completely banned. Throughout the Peninsula, outdoor fires at night are prohibited. Approximately $20,000 in Federal funds have been allocated to Wicomico and Worcester Counties in Maryland for the prevention and suppression of forest fires and the State and the two counties are also aiding in financing the program. The Army is also supplying equip ment and arrangements have been made to call out soldiers from camps on the shore to fight fires in an emergency.

Arlington Extends

Tire Form Deadline Following a national order by the Office of Price Administration extending from tomorrow to December the deadline for disposing of excess tires above five for each passenger car, the Arlington County Rationing Board today said its deadline would be similarly extended for the filing of tire registration forms. It was urged, however, that all motorists should make an effort to complete the forms and mail them to the board prior to December 1 because of the large amount of work involved. The later the forms are sent in, the later will be the date they are mailed back to the motorists, consequently delaying the time when tire inspections can be and $250,000 a year, as more persons made. The inspections must be performed before January 31 in Arlington.

Shift From War To Peace Economy Seen as Problem

By FRED H. MORHART, Jr. Star Staff Corresponde ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 21.-As 2,657 delegates to the 35th annual meeting of the National Association of Real Estate Boards today began departure for all sections of the country, they had mixed feelings concerning post-war conditions.

Expanded industrial resources and the construction of new homes has given them cause for worry as to the future of the real estate market. However, a number of Government officials during the "war conference" held here this week gave assurances that in all probability there would be no such market collapse as was experienced after the last war.

One of the major problems the delegates are taking away from the conference is how to shift from a wartime economy to one of peace. Also, many of the group were asking the question as to methods of peacetime reconstruction and ultimate financial responsibility between private operators and Federal agencies in the building, loan and reconstruction field.

Sees Need for Teamwork. In an address last night before the Institute of Real Estate Management being held in connection with the association's war conference, Chester C. Davis, president of the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank and former administrator of the old Agricultural Adjustment Administration, said despite an expected $200,000,000,000 or more post-war public debt, if the war outlasts 1944, there will remain the element of the country's real wealth which will not have been expended. This, he declared, will keep the United States from bankruptcy.

"If we are to manage ourselves even fairly well during the years of threatened boom and depression after the war, we are going to need teamwork of the highest order on the part of the leaders of private industry, of labor and of national. State and municipal goverment," Mr. Davis stated.

Family Dwelling Still May Be Built, Says NHA

New Standards Of WPB Designed To Save Materials

Despite the restrictions imposed by new war housing standards recently announced by the War Production Board, a family dwelling still may be built with "sound, comfortable construction," according to John B. Blandford, jr., administrator of the National Housing Agency.

This agency, he said, collaborated with the WPB in preparing the new limitations which are applicable alike to private and Governmentfinanced housing for war workers and their families.

Savings in Wood, Metal. "Our purpose in fixing such standards was to provide a basis for private enterprise to continue to produce a large part of the essential war housing. This long has been an issue, particularly in Washington, between private contractors and Federal officials. Recently Government regulations were relaxed to some extent, but builders not only in the National Capital, but throughout the Nation have made an issue of this point.

An attempt, which annually has been made since 1925, to change the by-laws of the organization today was tabled on objection from the floor. The perennial problem has been to find means of reconciling conflicting membership requirements of the 487 local boards to permit NAREB's institutes to receive or retain qualified members without impairment of the privileges of local boards.

Resolution at Conference Sees Private Supply As Subordinated

Special Dispatch to The Star.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21 .- The United States Savings and Loan League at its war conference here this week adopted a resolution declaring: "There is abundant evidence that public housing officials are using the war housing program as a vehicle to broaden the scope of social housing."

The resolution continued: "The privilege and preference accorded public housing over private home construction of equally urgent need has hampered private enterprise, which in the face of these obstacles has shown an excellent record in providing war housing.

Takes Stand.

"The United States Savings and Loan League, with a membership of nearly 4,000 thrift and home-financing institutions representing over 6.-000,000 of our thrifty citizens, now takes a positive stand in the interest of private enterprise and expresses its determination to do the war housing job to the extent that permanent units are required. Government policy should be directed toward getting the job done and the issue of social housing should not be permitted to retard progress on this most important factor of the civilian front.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 21.-John Springer Gray, priorities manager for the War Production Board here, says little if any residential construction can be accomplished for the duration of the war without permission of the WPB. He reminded householders that residential construction in any 12month period cannot exceed $200. "I'm sorry to say," he reported, "that there have been a number of cases brought to my attention in which a householder has built up to the $200 limit and then written in to say that it doesn't seem right that he cannot obtain the critical materials needed to finish the job.

Mr. Gray said that many people seem to be confused as to what can be done in regard to replacements in plumbing and heating equipment. He emphasized that in cases where a furnace cannot be repaired, the

(Editor's note: The conference between Elmer Layden, pro football commissioner, and officials of the Redskins at a downtown hotel the other day was described as a routine visit by the latter and with having no bearing at all on plans for the championship playoff here December 13.)

Layden: You fellows really are getting the breaks in the weather this season. If this keeps up it'll be ideal for the playoff.

Redskins (chorus): Now, Mr. Layden, we aren't mentioning anything about the playoff until it's absolutely certain we're going to be in it. Not that we're superstitious, y'understand. We just like to take things as they come and without jumping the gun.

Layden: Certainly, certainly, and I don't blame you. One never knows what'll happen in pro football--not even myself. But if we had weather like this for a playoff, say in Chicago, we'd pack 'em in.

Redskins: We'll pack 'em in here, too-even if the weather isn't as good as this. Why, against Brooklyn we'll break the home attendance record for the season. We've only got a few thousand seats left now.

Don't Mention Price Hiking, Mr. Layden, Please

Layden: Pro football draws well here, doesn't it? But we ought to have more than 35,000 fans at the playoff. Why, in Chicago we'd have---

Redskins (interrupting): We can get 40,000 in Griffith Stadium for the playoff by adding some circus seats. But we aren't going to talk about that Layden: Certainly, certainly, and I don't blame you. One never about as traditional a game as the knows what Il happen in pro football. But I was just thinking what a conference has to offer, is expected crowd like that would mean in Chicago. The gate probably would go as high as $125,000.

Redskins: A hunnert and twenty-five grand. We'll do that much here.

Layden: Yes, yes, but not without hiking the prices.

Redskins: We only raised prices a dollar for the last playoff here. in his soened year at the Buckeye But didn't we agree not to talk about that?

Layden: Certainly, certainly, and I don't blame you. But I was wondering what the price range would be for a playoff in Chicago, probably a $7 top and $3 bottom. Seven and three. Why that sounds like an old playoff score.

Why Should Bears Need More Players?

Redskins: We beat the bears, 7-3, once. But we don't talk about the until the outcome of this afternoon's playoff and, anyway, you're wrong about the prices. Don't league regu-Minnesota and next week's tussle lations say prices must be agreed on by the competing clubs and approved by the commissioner?

Layden: Confidentially, you name your price and I think I can get George Halas to go along with you. What do you say to a $5.50 top? That's reasonable enough?

Redskins: Five-fifty is about right. But say, didn't we agree we weren't favored today, making it possible going to talk about the playoff?

Layden: Certainly, certainly, and by golly we won't. By the way, candidate for the coach-of-the-year how many players are on your roster?

Redskins: Exactly 32. We're carrying more than most clubs. The rest of them are cutting their players loose to save expenses, aren't they? Layden: No, I wouldn't say so. Some of the lower clubs have cut down, but you take a club like the Bears. They want to sign a few and bring their roster up to 35 or 36.

Redskins: They can't do it. They've got to stay within the limit for icapped by colds, should have little the playoff. It's in the rules.

Georgetown Presents Its Best Backfield In Month Today

George Washington's underdog Colonials placed their hope of victory largely in the hands of Dame Fortune as they entered battle against Georgetown's football team today at Griffith Stadium in a tussle expected to attract 10,000. The kickoff was slated for 2:30.

Again in its familiar role of favorite in the 15th game between the local rivals, Georgetown was to present its strongest backfield in a month, with Flank Dornfeld and Johnny Barrett functioning together for the first time since the Hoyas launched a three-game losing streak against Detroit on October 24.

Georgetown snapped the string of defeats last week, beating N. C. State, 28-20, in a stirring tiff, and the Hoyas unveiled another spectacular back in Joe Gyorgydeak, second-string quarterback. Eddie Agnew was to start at quarterback but Gyorgydeak was expected to be rushed into action before the game aged.

Gyorgydeak Adds Punch. It was Gyorgydeak who completed 12 of 19 passes against N. C. State, scored three touchdowns and set up the fourth with his passing. Functioning with the triple-threat Dornfeld, hard-hitting Barrett and crispblocking McLaughlin, he was expected to give Georgetown's backfield its most potent punch of the season.

Georgetown entered the game rating an edge of two or three touchdowns, but the Colonials nevertheless had reason to hope they could spring a surprise. An overflow crowd will sit in at Ohio Stadium as the well-balanced squads renew a football rivalry that is one of the most bitter in the Midwest.

While Brown has insisted his squad has gotten along "on a shoestring" this season, Crisler said as he brought his team to town, "Ohio hasn't got anything to worry about.' Michigan got some bad news with the information that Ohio's fastest halfback, pint-sized Tommy James, would be able to see some action despite a shoulder separation suffered in the Illinois game last week Brown said, however, "I'm not planning to use him unless something unforeseen comes up when I can use him in a spot run." 700 Camp Theaters Make Uncle Sam Movie Tycoon

Largest Chain Operation In United State Run By Self-Sustaining Branch

By ANDREW R. KELLEY.

On Wednesday Uncle Sam opened his 700th camp theater, thus became the largest chain operator of motion picture houses in the continental United States.

As the United States Army expanded amazingly during the past 12 months the growth of screen entertainment kept pace. On October 5, 1940, the first 100 of the modern theaters devoted to motion pictures had been erected in the military? establishment. By April 5, 1941, 200 had opened their doors. By September 30, 1942, this had been increased to 600. In the 84 days which have elapsed since. the United States Army constructed another 100, bringing the total to

Growth of the Army motion picture service was described to the Society of Motion Picture Andrew B. Kelley. Engineers, meeting in New York, by R. B. Murray, director of the service, who had his craftsmen build a modern camp theater for the convention delegates. This work, Mr. Murray said, had been accomplished in the face of the difficulties common to all these days, incident to priorities, critical materials, loss of trained employes to the armed services, shortages of replacements, etc. By a combination of the imposition of greater burdens on willing backs and an all-out streamlining of administrative and operational methods and procedures, the 600 per cent increase had been accomplished with an increase of but 275 per cent in civilian employes, the expansion here being from 81 to 304 employes.

Motion pictures follow the servicemen when they go overseas, due to the generosity of Hollywood producers who supply them free of charge to the United States Army. Soldiers in theaters of operations throughout the world are supplied with current releases in 16-mm. form. In other words, when Hollywood producers finish a feature picture they make prints in the 16-mm. form and give them to the Army. Thus soldiers in Iceland were away ahead of American civilian moviegoers, for these features can be shown as soon as received, frequently weeks ahead of national public release. The duties of this officer are the normal duties of a theater manager. He is accountable for all equipment. coupon books, admission tickets and funds. He is also responsible for fixtures, the selection and supervision of personnel and the administrative operation of the theater in accordance with Army regulations. The various theater positions are filled by enlisted men who are appointed thereto by the theater offi-
