Roosevelt Backs Pay Boost for U. S. Employees

20 Per Cent Raise Would Be Given For Longer Hours

By J. A. O'LEARY.
The White House today threw its support behind the new wartime pay bill for Government employees, calling for a straight 20 per cent increase for a longer work week, instead of premium pay for overtime.

The word that the bill is "in accord with the President's financial and administrative program" was received by Chairman Bulow of the Senate Civil Service Committee in letters from Budget Director Harold D. Smith and Harry B. Mitchell, president of the Civil Service Commission.

Administration officials suggested only one amendment, the effect of which would be to suspend during the war the law that gives postal employees compensatory time off or overtime for Saturday work. The Budget Bureau called this amendment essential to bring about uniform treatment of Government personnel, since the new pay bill suspends the Saturday half-holiday law for other employees in order to establish 48 hours as the work week during the war.

Those Affected.
The bill would apply to all employees in the executive, legislative and judicial branches of Government, except heads of departments, elected officials and workers whose pay is adjusted by wage boards in accordance with prevailing rates in localities. The 20 per cent increase, however, would only apply to that part of a salary not in excess of $2,900.

The Budget Bureau estimated the cost of the measure at $270,831,000, after making allowance for savings resulting from the longer work week and the discontinuance of existing overtime pay for thousands of per annum employees in the War and Navy Departments.

The Budget Bureau pointed out, however, that the bill also lengthens the basic work week by 20 per cent and will go far toward eliminating inequalities in Federal pay schedules.

The budget director's report said: "It is our understanding that this bill has been introduced in lieu of any further extension of the authority to pay thousands of per annum employees in the War and Navy Departments, and also as a substitute for S. 2666, the uniform overtime pay bill, the provisions of which had previously been reported on favorably by the Bureau of the Budget."

Policies Outlined.
"S. 2913, if enacted, would give expression to the following policies: 1. Federal employees covered by the provisions of this act would receive an additional compensation amounting to 20 per cent on not more than $2,900 of their earned basic compensation. This means that the maximum additional compensation which would be payable under this provision would be $580 per annum.

"This increase is to be compared with the additional compensation which thousands of employees in the War and Navy Departments have been paid under the overtime pay statutes, which amounts, for a 48-hour week, to 21.6 per cent of their earned basic compensation. It should be noted also that there is no upper salary limit on the present overtime authority.

"2. Overtime compensation would be paid only to those Federal employees whose wages are fixed and adjusted from time to time in accordance with prevailing rates by wage boards or similar administrative authority and to those groups of employees, such as inspectors (for night, Sunday and holiday work) and postal employees (for work in excess of eight hours a day), for whom specific legal authority for payment of overtime compensation had previously been enacted. Per annum employees, especially in the War and Navy Departments, some of whom have been eligible for overtime compensation for work in excess of 40 hours per week, would not be included.

American Airmen In Far East Hit Japs Hard

By the Associated Press.
NEW DELHI, Dec. 4 (Delayed).—Although the 10th United States Air Force is still "in knee pants" compared with American air units in other war theaters, it did a man-sized job in November. Brig. Gen. Clayton L. Bissell declared today.

Gen. Bissell, who commands the United States air forces in India and China, said his men had made 21 heavy raids on Japanese installations during the month—including 10 on targets in Burma and Thailand in which 150 tons of bombs were dropped.

During the same period not one (See AIRMEN, Page 2-X.)

May Discharge Some If They Can Help In War Effort

The War Department today suspended the induction of men 38 years of age and over until further notice. Formerly the maximum age for Army induction was 45 years.

Explaining that it may be necessary "to waive this suspension from time to time," the War Department declared, however, that if this becomes necessary every effort would be made to secure the required men from "other than essential war industries or occupations."

The 38-year limit would be waived, the announcement indicated, only when the Army is unable to obtain needed skilled men and technicians from ordinary sources.

Some to Be Discharged.
Today's order also makes provision for the honorable discharge of men now in service who are 38 years old or over if they are qualified otherwise to assist in the national war effort.

The action was taken as a result of experience gained during the last three years. This experience indicates, it was pointed out, that men older than 38 are physically less able to withstand the rigors of present-day combat and that many can make a more effective contribution to the war effort in industry.

In passing the 'teen age draft amendment recently, Congress relieved men, who had become 45 since they registered, of liability for military service.

Discharge Procedure Given.
Other provisions set up in today's order are: Soldiers must voluntarily request a discharge in writing to his immediate commanding officer; his usefulness to the Army must be secondary to that of industry; a discharge also may be obtained on presentation of satisfactory evidence that the soldier will be employed in an essential war industry, including agriculture.

Explaining that each case will be considered on its individual merits, the War Department made it clear, however, that no soldier will be discharged unless a suitable, trained replacement is present and available.

The provisions governing discharge are subject to revocation at any time, the department declared. Furthermore, it was pointed out that the mere acceptance of an application for discharge should not be considered as a promise to release any individual. Acceptance merely means, the department said, that the soldier's request will receive consideration.

Price Control Moves Threaten Co-ops, Dairy Unit Says

'Distressed' at Lack of Program to Aid Food Production

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—The National Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation was on record today condemning many Government policies relating to the dairy industry and farming generally, and expressing the "supreme desire" of farm organizations to contribute their full share to winning the war.

Noting that changes in agricultural regulations were "coming out of Washington almost hourly," the Federation at the conclusion of a three-day meeting yesterday adopted 19 resolutions, the first of which charged executive departments had "given little heed to repeated declarations of Congress relating to agricultural co-operatives."

Cites 'Maladministration.'
This was followed by an assertion that "the demoralizing maladministration of the price-control system of OPA threatens the very existence of the co-operative movement."

The representatives of the co-operative dairy industry from 41 States in a resolution on production planning to win the war, said they were "distressed and disappointed" over the lack of "a clear-cut, dependable program on the part of Government to enable producers of war essential products to accomplish the task of producing necessary foodstuffs."

Industry continued the resolution, "has its iniquitous cost-plus guarantees; labor has laws and the administration guaranteeing high wages and short hours. Agriculture has not asked such special unwarranted privileges during wartime; rather it asks only a guarantee against sudden price declines manipulated by Government purchase programs. Agriculture needs substantially higher prices as a cure for 'too little too late.'"

Opposes Wage-Hour Laws.
The Federation also voted to oppose any legislation designed to place farmers under "the onerous compulsions and restrictions of the wage-hour-national-labor-relations laws," or to place additional taxes on farmers as employers under the Federal-State social security system.

Another measure opposed the freezing of farmers and farm hands on the farms, charging such action would reduce farmers to a state of "feudal serfdom." The Federation also voiced disapproval of "legislation vesting unlimited discretion in the President or his designates to repeal, suspend, or modify tariff, immigration and import-export restrictions. The Federation expressed confidence "in the integrity and patriotism of Congress to deal intelligently and swiftly with individual situations calling for changes in restrictions."

All officers, headed by President John Brandt, Litchfield, Minn., were re-elected.

Four Coast Guardsmen Better After Wreck in Icy Lake

Boat Capsized as Men Were Returning From Rescue Mission; Six Perished

By the Associated Press.
OSWEGO, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Coast Guard officials said today four men hospitalized after immersion in the icy waters of Lake Ontario, as the aftermath of a rescue mission resulting in the death of six comrades, were "all right" and soon would be back on duty.

Two of the men, John Mixon, 30, chief boatswain's mate, Grand Marais, Mich., and Fred L. Ruff, 32, motor machinist, first class, Erie, Pa., were in the boat, returning from landing two relief men on a light-house, which was smashed against a 10-foot, ice-sheathed breakwater yesterday.

The motor of the 38-foot patrol launch stalled, and an anchor failed to hold in the heavy seas. Capsizing of the boat threw eight men into the water, crested by 15-foot waves, six of whom drowned, including the rescued lighthouse crewman who had been marooned at his post for two and a half days.

Mixon and Ruff managed to reach the breakwater, where they were exposed for nearly an hour to a frigid wind, an experience that also befell Coxswain Sanford Gregory, 22, Tyler, Tex., who was plunged into the lake when a skiff, from which he sought to toss a safety line to Mixon and Ruff, was hurled up against the wall.

Andrew L. Cisternino, 21, Syracuse, seaman, second class, was hospitalized after he dived into the chill waters in a vain effort to recover the body of the station's commanding officer, John Gregory's companion on the skiff, Coxswain John Black, 21, Brooklyn, escaped a serious wetting.

A patrol along several miles of beach is being maintained in hopes of recovering the bodies.

Henderson Asks ICC To Cancel Increase In Railroad Rates

Anti-Inflation Program Is Held Jeopardized as Carriers' Profits Soar

Price Administrator Leon Henderson today petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission to cancel the freight and passenger rate increases granted to railroads earlier this year.

The action would save approximately $500,000,000 in yearly transportation costs, Mr. Henderson's petition estimated. He asked discontinuance of the rate increases on the ground that railroad earnings have improved markedly in recent months, and that the increases jeopardized the anti-inflation program.

The railroads were allowed to increase passenger fares 10 per cent February 10, and freight rates 6 per cent March 18. This action was permitted by the ICC with the understanding that it might be reviewed at a later date if developments warranted.

Mr. Henderson, explaining that he was acting on behalf of James P. Byrnes, Director of Economic Stabilization, said the time had come to re-examine the rail rate structure.

Ceilings Brought Big Saving.
He pointed out that the railroads had saved more than $600,000,000 during the first nine months of the year because of price ceilings which had been put on commodities they purchased. Their profit position, he said, was improved not only by this saving but by a marked increase in income.

Mr. Henderson's petition said that net railway operating income for the first nine months of 1942 was 69.2 per cent above the same period in 1941. He gave the dollar income for this period in 1942 as $1,524,767,285—$355,968,791 more than the comparable figure for the entire year of 1941.

He said that even if the ICC had not granted the rate increase requested by the railroads earlier this year their net income would have been approximately 42.4 per cent above the corresponding figure for 1941, when lower rates were in effect.

He pointed out that the rates charged by railroads are often critical elements of costs incurred by producers and distributors. These costs, of course, are passed along to the consumer and Mr. Henderson contended that the rail rate increase (See RAIL RATES, Page 2-X.)

Mason, Kech Support Bill to Use Schools As Nurseries

Officials Urge Passage In Testimony Before District Committee

BULLETIN.
Chairman McCarran of the Senate District Committee promised a subcommittee hearing this afternoon that he would "rush" the District nursery school bill through his committee and on to the Senate floor.

(Earlier Story on Page A-14.)
Commissioner Guy Mason and Corporation Counsel Richmond B. Kech told a packed audience in the Senate District Committee room this afternoon that they were in complete agreement with the sections of the Randolph bill which would open public schools for use as nursery schools.

Mr. Mason and Mr. Kech were testifying at hearings before Senator Capper's subcommittee of the District Committee.

Stating that yesterday's liquidation of all Works Project Administration projects before February 1 made the section of the bill which restores WPA nurseries to the District "unnecessary," both Mr. Mason and Mr. Kech asked that this section be struck out.

In answer to questions by Chairman McCarran of the District Committee, Mr. Mason stressed that the measure would not involve additional expenditures by the District government other than possible costs of heat, light and custodial service. He said funds for operation of the nursery schools for children of working mothers in the District could be obtained from the Lanham Act fund of $300,000,000.

Mrs. Izzetta Jewel Miller, regional supervisor of the war public services for the Washington area, was called to the stand by Senator Capper to explain details of financing nursery schools from Lanham Act funds.

Other Federal and local officials waiting to testify were Mrs. Thelma McKelvey, War Manpower Commission; Mrs. Basil Manly, Veterans District of Columbia League of Women Voters; Miss Dorothy Pearce, director of the day care administrative office of the OOD Child Care Committee; and R. L. Haycock, assistant superintendent in charge of elementary schools.

90-Day Ban Proposed On Auto Driving for Pleasure in East

New England Urges Closing Shows, Schools, Other Buildings

By the Associated Press.
A 90-day suspension of all automobile pleasure driving in the 17 Eastern Seaboard States was proposed today by Joseph White of Boston, New England member of the Oil Advisory Committee.

Mr. White, appearing before a group of New England Congressmen disturbed by the fuel oil situation in their area, first called for the 90-day driving ban for New England alone. Later, he told reporters he believed it should apply to all the Eastern States.

Other steps advocated for New England by Mr. White, whose committee is headed by Petroleum Administrator Ickes, included:

Confiscation Proposed.
Close up all non-essential oil heated buildings — theaters, small commercial, non-essential office buildings and churches and schools.

Confiscate "hoarded stocks of oil" and reallocate it to essential users.

List the types of buildings burning oil and starting with non-convertible hospitals as most essential, by process of elimination close down oil-burning buildings in a systematic manner, starting from the bottom of the list.

ODT Considers Action To Limit Truck Trips
By the Associated Press.
The Office of Defense Transportation is considering the possibility of limiting truck trips as a means of saving mileage, ODT disclosed today.

Spokesmen said the possibility was advanced by Director Joseph B. Eastman, but that no conclusions had been reached. Both the railroad and trucking industries were reported generally to be opposed to the proposal.

A one-way limit of 300 miles is being discussed, but it was pointed out that this figure was being used merely for discussion, and that some other might be decided on should ODT issue a restriction.

War Department Admits Fall of Tunisian Town

Third Furious Nazi Attack on Other Key Points Broken

Axis forces have captured Tebourba in Tunisia from the Allies, a War Department communique said this afternoon.

However, Allied armies have broken all Axis attempts to crack the United Nations ring south of Bizerte, reports from Allied headquarters in North Africa disclosed late today.

The Axis armies defending the approaches to Bizerte and Tunis have vainly thrown a third furious assault against American-British lines reaching from Tebourba to Mateur, the report said. It added that the Allies continue to hold vital roads and communications in the northern coastal zone of Tunisia.

No Reports on Losses.
While it gave no reports on casualties, the War Department communique issued here emphasized that the fighting was heavy and that Allied forces apparently were consolidating in the regions outside Tebourba.

The communique added that enemy mechanized and infantry units had forced their way into the key point of Tebourba, which is on the route to Tunis.

Units of Lt. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's 1st Army have been regrouped on the heights dominating the town, the communique went on.

Nazis Lose 33 Tanks.
The African headquarters spokesman said a series of violent tank battles was flaming in the hills facing the Tunis-Bizerte sector and reported that the Germans had lost 33 tanks since Tuesday.

The fall of Djedideida 12 miles northwest of Tunis, was acknowledged by the Allied spokesman said the occupation of this village or another in the shifting melee was of little importance.

Two daylight air attacks were made by the Allies yesterday on the docks of Bizerte harbor. Bombs from Flying Fortresses hit a ship, a warehouse, oil tanks and a railroad station. This area also had been subjected to a severe bombing Thursday night.

The RAF reported from Africa that its bombers, with the same persistence, bombed Tunis and Bizerte airbases, and that American medium bombers struck Axis sea communications at Bizerte.

At Bizerte the 12th Air Force, including P-38, twin-motored fighters and Spitfires, shot down three German fighters for the loss of one Allied craft yesterday. Additional information showed that the Americans accounted for three other Nazi planes on December 3.

Sky Battles Raging.
American and RAF fighters continued sweeps over the battle area, but communications gave only a fragmentary picture of great sky battles raging over struggling ground forces.

Late reports disclosed that Col. Edison Raff's force of Americans and Frenchmen fighting in Central Tunisia took a town yesterday by direct assault in which French use of their famous 75s played a decisive factor, a headquarters spokesman said.

Axis Chain of Air Bases Gives Present Advantage
LONDON, Dec. 5 (AP).—The Tunisian struggle at the moment is largely a battle of supply lines with those of the Allies so long and so harassed from the air that considerable time is required to build a powerful fighting force, a British commentator said today.

He noted that the North African campaign has been under way only a month, which he said, was hardly time to expect major battle successes in the extensive maneuvers involved.

As a comparison, when British forces moved inland in France in 1939 it took half a month to get men and equipment off the transports and up to position though no opposition existed at the time.

At the moment the Axis unquestionably has the advantage of a chain of air bases built up in advance. These include extensive facilities in Sicily and probably the only first-class air bases in the area of Bizerte and Tunis, the commentator said.

Inland air fields in the region which the Allies control are a little more than landing places which require much conditioning and supplying to transform them into first-class bases.

Roosevelt Set To Act Today On Manpower

May Also Form Wartime Food Administration

By JESSE O. IRVIN.
President Roosevelt expects to act today on the manpower problem and possibly also set up a wartime food administration, White House Secretary Stephen T. Early said this morning.

Mr. Early told reporters the President was working during the morning on "the manpower executive order" which he hoped to make public "some time today."

Meanwhile, high governmental sources said James F. Byrnes, economic director, is slated for the role of "Assistant President" under Mr. Roosevelt's plans, which also are expected to make Secretary of Agriculture Wickard food administrator and bolster the powers of Chairman Paul H. McNutt of the War Manpower Commission.

The sources said the former Supreme Court justice will act as arbiter in all food and manpower problems, with Secretary Wickard and Mr. McNutt reporting directly to him instead of the White House. Secretary Wickard already is a member of Mr. Byrnes' Board of Economic Stabilization, and Mr. McNutt is expected to become a member.

Wickard Order Drafted.
The executive order naming the Secretary of Agriculture as food administrator was drafted and approved several days ago before Mr. Wickard left for a swing throughout the country, while the order strengthening Mr. McNutt's powers was decided on yesterday at a White House session, the sources said.

Mr. McNutt is to take over control of the Selective Service System, it was said, with Mr. Byrnes acting as arbiter on problems arising between the manpower chairman and Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director of the War Relocation Service Act the director reports directly to the President, and the White House has delegated to Gen. Hershey deferment powers vested in the President under the act.

will be sent to those who have not furnished "satisfactory proof." The burden of proof that it is impossible to convert will rest with the consumers, the OPA pointed out. Those who do not take the steps required to show that it is impossible to convert will be automatically cut off from rations. Ration coupons issued to these users during the first two heating periods will not be affected by the order. The third heating period begins here January 4. Marylanders Get Orders. Similar orders have been issued to consumers in Maryland, through the OPA office in Baltimore—except that in Maryland conversion, or proof that it is impossible, must be handed by January 4. The orders grow out of a general directive issued last month from Federal OPA headquarters, directing local boards to force conversion by commercial and large-scale users. Success in forcing the large users to switch over to coal, it is felt, would go a long way toward easing the serious oil crisis in the 30 rationed States.

New Demands Reported for Japanese Workers

By the Associated Press. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 5.—Requests for employment of Japanese-Americans outside the Nation's 10 relocation centers exceed what the War Relocation Authority expected because of the growing manpower shortage. WRA Director Dillon S. Myer said. "The manpower situation right now is getting tough," Mr. Myer asserted. "Consequently inquiries are coming from many sources we never anticipated in the industry, agriculture, offices, hospitals and other sources." Mr. Myer, who stopped here on an inspection trip of the two Arkansas centers, said about 1,000 Japanese-Americans have been in betting indefinite leaves to take outside jobs; another 8,000 or 9,000 had been given group leaves for work in Western States and an increasing number of others soon would leave for outside employment. Mr. Myer commented that there was a definite improvement in community attitude toward the Japanese-Americans because residents adjacent to relocation centers were learning that two-thirds of the colonists are American citizens.

ODT 'Don't-Travel' Drive Cuts Holiday Mileage

By the Associated Press. The Office of Defense Transportation reported today its "don't travel" campaign resulted in reduced passenger traffic over the Thanksgiving holidays. Railway passenger agents said traffic at Thanksgiving, although heavy, was less than anticipated, while bus operators in the Chicago area reported reduction ranging from 8 to 35 per cent compared with Thanksgiving of 1941. Similar reports were received from other parts of the country. "It is apparent," said ODT Director Joseph B. Eastman, "that many persons gave up trips they normally would have made over the Thanksgiving week end. As Christmas and New Year approach, the urgent necessity of continued and wider public response to ODT's 'don't travel' campaign must be emphasized."

Cold Wave End Seen; Warmer Week End Forecast Here

First Fuel Oil Period Ends With Star Indicator At 79 Per Cent

The cold wave which has gripped the Washington area since Wednesday appeared near its end today following a drop to 27 degrees at 7:15 o'clock this morning.

Rising temperatures were forecast for the week end with a prediction of not so cold tonight. The season's low of 22 degrees was recorded here Thursday night.

The first fuel oil rationing period ended Thursday night, with the Star's weather box reminder yesterday indicating that domestic oil consumers should have used 79 per cent of the oil allotted to them for this period.

Consumers are still permitted to buy oil on their Period 1 coupons, however, and may continue to do so through December 17. They may also purchase oil by signing promissory notes for the coupons through Wednesday. This is permitted because many consumers have not yet received their coupons.

Yesterday's fuel oil consumption should have been 4 per cent of the amount allotted for the second period, which began yesterday and will end on January 4.

Fuel oil users were warned by the Office of Price Administration that while they would be permitted to keep whatever oil they might have saved from Period 1, they should not use this saving extravagantly. Later, it was pointed out, the weather may turn colder than normal, in which case the OPA will not grant additional oil allotments but will expect consumers to use whatever they might have saved during earlier periods.

tion had been recaptured by the Axis.

(The Axis also claimed that 750 Allied soldiers were taken prisoner.)

Rail Yards Smashed.

Cairo reports said that in addition to the three Italian warships reported hit at Naples, rail yards were smashed and great havoc was wrought among docks where ships were being loaded with Africa-bound Axis supplies.

The casualty figures given by the Rome communiqué ran higher than those in the first Fascist reports on heavy raids heretofore by the RAF on Northern Italy.

The Liberators said—the Italians called it "shock and violent"—was the 31st of the war against that port with its great Capo di Chino air-drome, arsenal, torpedo and plane factories and its vital port facilities.

Lying about 1,000 miles from RAF home bases in Britain, only about half that distance from Allied-held points in North Africa, Naples apparently is to feel more and more the mounting might of the Allies in the Mediterranean theater.

Nazi Column Routed.

While the situation in Northern Tunisia apparently was one of bitter deadlock, American troops under Col. Edwin Raft, 1st column commander, joined with French units in routing a Nazi armored column and capturing a town in Central Tunisia.

More than 100 prisoners were taken as the American-French units fought the Italian column southeast of Tebessa near the Algerian-Tunisian border, a North African spokesman said. The Axis troops were reported in retreat toward the coast.

The Mediterranean port of Sfax is some 140 miles east of Tebessa, about half that distance from Allied-held points in North Africa. Naples apparently is to feel more and more the mounting might of the Allies in the Mediterranean theater.

The situation in Central and Southern Tunisia was confused. Earlier advice had told of French and Allied troops reaching the coastal road between Gabes and Sfax and at another point north of Sfax. Yet reports persisted of engagements far behind these points, in areas far from Axis coastal bases.

"Tough Fight" Faced.

Authoritative London sources were quoted by the military correspondent of the Daily Mail as saying that Lt. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's 1st Army "faces a period of hard, tough and relentless land and air fighting before it can hope to pry the Germans loose from the bridgehead around Bizerte and Tunis."

Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was reported by one British source to have all the fighters needed in North Africa, but to be unable to bring them into action because of the lack of sufficient air fields near the front. American flyers were reported using British Spitfires and two German planes were reported shot down by this combination.

A Reuters dispatch said the Germans apparently had recaptured Tebessa and were heading southeast, but an Allied spokesman in North Africa said American guns commanded the heights surrounding the town and had beaten back every German attempt to break the Allied line.

It is possible that Tebessa might change hands several times, but the main thing is to keep the heights because as long as we have them the Germans can't use the town," the spokesman added.

The Allied situation at Djedeida was obscure after bitter clashes between counterattacking Axis forces and Allied troops which had driven up to within artillery range of Tunis itself. One report said American and British forces were still clinging to the western edge of Djedeida.

The Morocco radio reported that "the larger part" of a force of 50 Axis tanks thrown into a surprise attack in the Tebessa region had been destroyed or damaged. Berlin claimed 40 Allied tanks were destroyed.

The German-controlled Paris radio said today that "the outcome of the great tank battle, which has been raging for the last 48 hours in the Tebessa area, is still in doubt."

Allied bombers continued to range over all Tunisia, spreading destruction on air-dromes, railway junctions and seaports important for supplying the Axis forces. An Allied Mediterranean itself an Allied aerial offensive has been raging for days with long-range bombers reaching out to smash at supply and transport ships moving across the sea to keep the Axis troops there in the fight.

RAF torpedoed planes guarding the Axis shipping lanes to Tripoli and Tunisian ports sank one south-bound Axis cargo ship and set another fire Thursday night off the coast of Tripoli. The British announced today at Cairo. A direct hit was scored on one vessel and a violent explosion resulted in complete destruction, the communiqué reported. The second ship was listing heavily to starboard when last seen.

Little Activity in Libya. There was little air activity over the El Aghelia battle ground, where Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has entrenched the remnants of his defeated army for a stand against the British 8th Army. Medium bombers, however, attacked the marble arch landing ground near El Aghelia in a night raid.

There was no report of land action in Libya, but British patrols were said to have been "active in the forward area" yesterday.

It was disclosed today that seven of the eight Allied planes reported lost in the air fighting of the last three days were P-38 American fighters. The P-38s were used to escort Flying Fortresses in raids on the Bizerte docks and they engaged in many sweeps extending as far east as the coast between Sfax and Tunis.

The Fortresses scored direct hits on two vessels in the canal leading into Bizerte harbor. Against the eight Allied planes lost, 13 Axis planes were reported shot down.

Municipal Court Jury Dismissed With Praise

Praising a Municipal Court jury for its "splendid" work, Judge George Nelson in releasing jurors yesterday told them that a total of 224 cases had been disposed of during the November term of jury court.

Judge Nelson explained that more cases had been disposed of than had been filed during the November term, and added that the jury had done a "splendid job in aiding to bring the docket to a current condition for all practical purposes."

Of the total number of cases disposed of, Judge Nelson said, 110 were pleas of guilty, 47 cases were not-prossed, 21 verdicts of not guilty were handed in, 19 verdicts were dismissed for want of prosecution, 22 cases resulted in jury disagreements, 7 lunacy investigations were ordered and one jury trial was withdrawn.

Others who addressed the jury included Judge Nathan R. Margold, who presided part of the term in jury court; Sylvan Schwartz, assistant District attorney; William Dent, assistant corporation counsel; Harry Wells, head United States marshal, and Charles Driscoll, clerk of jury court.

Soldiers Buy Taxi, Charge Driver Fare

HATTIESBURG, Miss. — Fresh from a victorious crop game, two Camp Shelby soldiers riding back to camp in style happened to ask the taxi driver what he was going to charge. He said $6, and the soldiers squawked.

For several miles they haggled over the fare, and the driver finally impatiently screamed, "Why don't you buy yourself a cab?"

"Okay, okay," the soldiers replied. "We'll give you $450 for this heap."

The driver-owned agreed, the soldiers paid off, and then charged him $6 to bring him back to town.

Senate GOP Appears Victorious in Fight To Force BEW Audit

Democrats Unwilling To Delegate Cash Veto Power to RFC Board

By the Associated Press. A revitalized Republican minority appeared victorious today in a sharp behind-the-scenes Senate battle to force an accounting of Reconstruction Finance Corp. funds spent by the Board of Economic Warfare under executive orders.

Administration leaders, seeking Senate approval of a House bill authorizing a $5,000,000,000 increase in RFC borrowing and lending authority, were reported to have agreed unwillingly to an amendment denying any funds to the BEW or other agencies until the RFC Board of Directors gives advance approval of proposed expenditures.

Plans Compromise. Senator Danaher, Republican, of Connecticut said he would offer this amendment as a compromise when Senator Brown, Democrat, of Michigan renews efforts to obtain action on the bill next week. Senator Brown declined to comment on the amendment, but was reported ready to accept it in order to get the bill passed.

Senator Danaher told reporters he was interested in preventing what he characterized as "untrammeled and whimsical abuse of powers" conferred by executive order on various Government agencies, including the BEW, which is headed by Vice President Wallace.

His effort was in line with increasing minority resistance to some administration-sponsored measures since the November 3 elections. Minority Leader McNary blocked consideration of the bill in the Senate yesterday.

Senator McNary's colleagues wanted to study the RFC authorization measure, saying he was "astounded by the representations made by witnesses" before the Senate Banking Committee which had approved the bill.

Testimony Is Secret. Senator McNary had before him a copy of the testimony taken in a closed session of the committee. Members said it could not be made public because it contained war secrets.

"My part" Senator McNary declared, "shall insist upon a complete statement concerning the reasons for granting to the Reconstruction Finance Corp. a very large sum of money to be used without accounting for it in the usual way."

Banking Committee members said Secretary of Commerce Jones had testified in response to questions that the BEW and other agencies, armed with executive orders, had made requests on the RFC for certain funds to carry out secret projects.

Questions about the accounting made for these funds were reported to have brought testimony that the RFC had no way of knowing in detail how the money was spent.

Supporters of the measure conceded privately that if the bill is finally approved with the Danaher amendment attached, it would suppress executive orders and allow the RFC Board to decide whether proposed fund expenditures could be made.

Activities of the BEW, chiefly affected, for the most part have been conducted in secrecy, but it is supposed to promote and allow relations between the United Nations and to counter Axis economic moves against neutral countries.

German Bishops Reported Condemning Birth Practice

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—The Office of War Information quoted last night a pastoral letter which a Swiss newspaper said was issued by the Catholic bishops of Germany condemning Nazi practices in trying to increase the birth rate.

The OWI said the Swiss Catholic newspaper Die Ostschweiz published an account of the letter—the first document to be disclosed since the bishops met last May at the tomb of St. Boniface in Fulda, Germany. The Federal Communications Commission also reported that the Vatican radio broadcast a long summary of the letter to Germany last night.

"There is a tendency," the pastoral said as quoted by OWI, "to gradually go away with the essential segregation of sexes during youth meetings, hiking tours and on similar occasions."

In answer to the question "Why nature has given us certain functions if we are not to use them?"—a question which the bishops said was asked largely "by juveniles," the letter said:

"Unfortunately, those who refer to the animal example to justify their aberrations are far away from its naturalness, for here it is then only a short step to the monstrous plan that contemplates breeding a new people without matrimonial or moral ties."

Roosevelt Says U. S. Has Achieved Vast Output in Year

Message to NAM Warns Against Relaxation in Producing Arms

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—President Roosevelt in a message read at the convention of the National Manufacturers' Association last night, declared American industry has achieved an enormous task in war production during the past year.

The President warned, however, that the full objectives of production had not been attained and urged that there be no relaxation "on the part of manufacturers of our country as long as any hostile force confronts us."

The text of his statement follows: "The war congress of American industry knows as well as any body of men in the United States what has been accomplished in converting our country from the pursuits of peace to the purposes of war. The great majority of American manufacturers may well take pride in a tremendous undertaking which already well along the way, should reach peak force in the year 1943. The natural impatience of the American people is such that we fall frequently to realize that the men in adjustments involved in war are not fulfilled merely by desire but through painful toil.

"United as we are in the determination that the armed forces shall have not only all they need but enough for our gallant Allies as well, we have nevertheless been unable in a year of actual war—to reach the full objectives of production which we must attain. Conversion has been almost miraculous but is still not complete. You and your associates are more familiar than any of us with the difficulties that you have had to overcome.

"Obstacles fully as great as those that you have faced have presented themselves in the fields of government, agriculture and labor. It has not been easy for any segment of our population to make the adjustments involved in total war. We should and must realize that, in periods of great strain and trial, perfection of effort—no matter how much it may be desired—is not easy to attain. We should realize that the faults and delays we find in our own work are certain to appear in the efforts of others.

"Taken as a whole, however, the American people have met this threat against their quality as they have all others. As long as we, in all walks of life, are able to keep step—united in purpose for both war and the peace which will follow—we need have no fear as to the eventual outcome.

"Let there be no relaxation of the part of the manufacturers of the country as long as any hostile force confronts us."

NAM

the striving for increased production is not over. By the end of 1943, he predicted, America alone will produce almost as great a volume of combat armaments as all the rest of the world combined, and its production will be nearly twice as large as that of the Axis.

By then total United Nations production "will be nearly 3-to-1 ahead of Axis production," Mr. Nelson said.

"Ide in Our Favor." "Furthermore," he added, "the tide of production is now running strongly in our favor. For while the country is at last equaling the rate in volume of Axis production, our arms output is still rising. For at least another year it will continue to rise—very substantially.

"On the other hand, the Axis cannot count on much, if any, further expansion of its resources. Its human and material resources very close to their limits. It is also experiencing some serious interruptions to production under the bombing of British and American air forces. These interruptions will be more serious, not less, as time goes on.

Mr. Nelson ended his speech with a plea for consideration of the "radical changes in our business and social institutions," which he said were things that are "great hopes of the war and which he said "are going to be made regardless."

Post-War Planning Urged. Henry J. Kaiser, West Coast shipbuilding wizard, told the 4,000 industrialists attending the association meetings "that preparation for our life after the war" should begin at once.

He said industrialists must show the way to a decent standard of living for the country, or "surrender to the social politicians who have little to offer save an ultimate bankruptcy."

The first essential of the post-war world, Mr. Kaiser declared, is a country-wide and world-wide opportunity to work. He also asserted that the interests of organized labor in the enterprise system are identical with those of management and ownership.

Following his challenge for industry to lay the foundation for post-war reconstruction, Mr. Kaiser said: "If any one of us cherishes in his heart the illusion that he can reap the benefits of the special privileges or the unwarranted advantages of the past or that he can once again build a power known as a vested interest, let him consider the utilization of a war debt which may ultimately come to $500,000,000 and which represents in its underlying and more tragic significance the cost of competition untempered by the spirit of fair play."

Mr. Kaiser offered a "thunderbolt" sketch of possible post-war plans, citing four great needs when peace comes—housing, adequate medical care, transportation, highways—which, he said, should be planned for now, and as a means of financing such projects he suggested: "That War bonds be offered as down payments or pledges by citizens against items like new automobiles and new homes.

He said American industrial leadership can "surrender to the social politicians, who have little to offer save an ultimate bankruptcy, or we can win the greatest battle of its history by giving America the opportunity to work."

"We are now summoned either to show the way to a decent standard of living and self-respect for our people or to surrender, perhaps for the last time, to the compulsions and directions of the dictator state."

Time for Leadership. Mr. Kaiser, asserting the time has now come for American industry to take the leadership and actually put a plan into action, asked: "Has the automobile industry... the courage now to design and announce its 1945 models for delivery six months after the close of the war? Has the automobile industry the courage to advertise that it will now accept war bonds as down payments on the 1945 models?"

"Would it now aid the Government if the vital need of taking purchasing power out of the market by stimulating the savers to buy bonds with the full knowledge that those savings will assure the purchase of the automobile which will be so sorely needed when peace begins?"

Medicine on Insurance Basis. He asked whether the manufacturers would dare now to organize, finance and manage medical centers in every industrial community where medical service could be purchased on an insurance basis at a cost which would bring not only skill and facilities, but all the advantages of research within the reach of the common man and at the same time provide the doctors of America with a participation which would adequately remunerate them for their long and expensive training?"

"If the doctors fear socialized medicine, if industry is anxious about the widening powers of the state, why not venture, now, boldly, into the activity that will forestall the super-planners in their schemes to compel and direct medical service into the channels of distributive bounty."

There never will be any significant prosperity in America, he said, as long as there are "great hordes of people living on the margins of poverty anywhere on earth."

Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, told the industrialists he was concerned by "a feeling in some quarters that we are building too large an Army—that we could not transport it to active theaters even if we had it—in short, the belief that we do not know what we are doing or where we are going."

Such an attitude, he said, sometimes was occasioned by a reluctance to accept hardships, but usually it represented a desire to influence military strategy without knowledge of the factors involved. Enemy Strength Cited.

"No more tragic mistake could be made," the chief of staff declared, "than to ignore the great mass of enemy divisions and expect us to win this war on a shoestring or by some specialized process."

Recent news from the combat areas has been encouraging. Gen. Marshall said, but "I am disturbed by the rapidly of the change from a speculative pessimism to undue optimism regarding the course of the war."

"Nothing could be more dangerous to the success of our arms than the development of a national attitude that the victory is about to be won," he said.

"We are faced with a long ordeal and it is imperative that we devote every resource we possess to the relentless crusade which has just been started. The situation requires confidence and determination far beyond that ever before demanded of the American people."

Gen. Knudsen Speaks. Lt. Gen. William S. Knudsen, director of production for the War Department, said his chiefs in the War Department thought both management and labor had accomplished a good job in production and that all of the goals would be met.

"As an old shop hand," said Knudsen, "it warns my innards to see good old American ingenuity coming out on top."

"The will-to-win spirit has risen month by month among the men in the shop."

"We've got a job ahead of us," Gen. Knudsen said, "and we can produce just as much as Germany and Japan together and I'm willing to throw in Italy for good measure. Europe says we like to brag—but we also deliver."

Gen. Knudsen spoke of the shortage of materials, saying that, as a man of experience in the shops, he could assure the manufacturers that everything was being done to split materials in an intelligent way.

A message of greeting from his Army was sent by Gen. Douglas MacArthur from Australia stressing the unity of purpose between the men fighting at the front and the management and labor that produces the weapons. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek sent a message stating that "China pledges to you that the products of your toil will be used in preserving and extending freedom and democracy throughout the world."

Reporters Impaneled In Juror Shortage

TACOMA, Wash. — Instead of walking out with some stories, two Tacoma newspapermen walked into a jury.

Assigned to cover news at the courthouse, they poked their heads into the Federal courtroom. Federal Judge Charles H. Leavy promptly grabbed them for jury duty.

(There's a shortage of jurors because of vital defense work.) Lacking news from the two reporters, City Editor Frank Lockerby started searching, found them deliberating the fate of a condemnation action—making news instead of gathering it.

Democratic Court Honors Retiring GOP Register

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., Dec. 5.—William T. Davis, Republican, retiring register of wills of Prince Georges County, was presented a leather billfold by members of the Orphans' Court this week.

Judge Millard L. Thorne, speaking in behalf of the court, declared the gift was but a small token of the high regard the court had for Mr. Davis. He expressed the court's appreciation of his co-operation and the efficient manner in which he handled the business of the office.

Mr. Davis, in reply, expressed his appreciation to the court personnel for their many courtesies and stated that during the 23 years he had been in office the volume of business had increased to an amount that moved the Prince Georges County office from the fifth county in the bottom to fourth from the top. Mr. Davis was defeated at last month's election by William Clifton, Democrat.

Argentine High Court Weighs Evidence on Nazi Embassy Spies

Action Climaxes Probe Following Welles Charge Against Axis Diplomats

By the Associated Press. BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 5.—Evidence which Federal Judge Miguel Jantus said proved that members of the German Embassy staff were involved in espionage activities in Argentina was sent to the Supreme Court today to determine whether the Reich diplomats can be brought to trial.

Judge Jantus' action climaxed an investigation touched off more than two months ago when United States Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles asserted in a speech in Boston that both Argentina and Chile were being used as bases of operation by a Nazi spy ring.

The speech brought a demand from the Argentine government for facts, which were quickly supplied by the United States.

Ship Movements Reported.

The judge's statement that the German Embassy was involved came after he had heard the testimony of 6 of 38 persons arrested in a sweeping roundup of alleged spies. A responsible source said one of the six, Johann Jacob Napp, had testi-

Milk Price Increase Takes Effect in Two Maryland Counties

Four Other Localities Face Prospect of Similar Boost

By the Associated Press. BALTIMORE, Dec. 5.—Increases in the price of fluid milk took effect in two Maryland counties today, and at least four other localities faced a prospect of similar price boosts by the Office of Price Administration.

State OPA Director Leo H. McCormick last night ordered a price increase equivalent to a cent per quart in Frederick and Washington Counties, and asserted the move was expected to alleviate a fluid milk shortage in those two counties.

At the same time, he said an investigation of the milk situation was under way elsewhere in the State, listing the most critical areas as Annapolis, Cumberland, Elkton and Denton.

An announcement may be made regarding those areas "within a few days," he added.

Hundreds Ask Action.

The OPA director declared he had received hundreds of telephone calls and letters from residents of Frederick and Washington Counties asking that some action be taken so they could buy milk for their families.

"Consumers will certainly understand that this is a necessary increase," he said.

"Farmers in the area have reported that they have taken the milk to other markets for the high price because of the increased labor and feed costs," Mr. McCormick added.

Under the order, which took effect at midnight, milk producers will receive $3.37 per hundredweight instead of the former price of $2.91 per hundredweight. This will mean a retail price boost from 12 to 13 cents a quart.

"This price increase will bring to dairy producers a price per hundredweight which is within a few cents of the price which is being offered them elsewhere and is enticing them to take the milk to other, larger markets," the OPA director asserted.

Plant May Have to Close.

McCormick said OPA laws empowered him to make adjustments in the price of any commodities essential to the war effort in instances where such adjustments would alleviate a shortage without creating new shortages elsewhere.

Of the situation around Elkton, Mr. McCormick said he had been informed that if milk producers continued to refuse to take their product to a pasteurization plant at Elkton, the plant would be forced to close down. This would leave that entire section of the Eastern Shore without a pasteurization plant, he added.

At the same time, he announced the appointment of Dr. Roger B. Corbett, director of the agriculture experiment station at the University of Maryland, as price consultant in the State OPA office, assigned to the analysis of the milk problem.

Dr. Corbett has been assigned to the New York regional OPA office making a study of the Maryland milk situation. The new appointee is a native of Morgantown, W. Va.

Josephine Baker Finds Refuge in Casablanca

By the Associated Press. CASABLANCA, Morocco, Dec. 5.—Josephine Baker, colored dancer and singer in Paris music halls, is now in this war port living in the native quarter of Marrakech in a typical Arabian house. She has been in bad health but friends now say her condition is "quite good."

Miss Baker, formerly from St. Louis, married a French manufacturer, Jean Leon, in 1937. She has been erroneously reported dead several times recently.

An uninhibited performer on the stage, she sang and danced and disrobed on the Parisian stage to a fame that made her as noted in the Folies Bergere as Mistinguette and other French stars. This was in the 1920's and 1930's.

She was exploited for such odd eccentricities as walking along the Parisian boulevard with a perfumed pig and with two white swans. In Casablanca, in the midst of her flight from Nazi invaders, she lives alone in quite a splendid house for this African port. She is seen riding in the best of carriages drawn by two bay horses and followed by attendants through the market place, but she says she lives simply and with no telephone.

Army Pilot Safe in Crash

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 5 (AP)—The public relations office at MacDill Field announced yesterday that Second Lt. Douglas J. Lanora of Grand Forks, N. Dak., fighter pilot reported missing Monday while on a training flight, made a crash landing in a swamp near Crescent City and is safe.

CAPT. DIETRICH NIEBUHR, Named in Argentine spy probe.

ned that he made secret reports of the movement of Allied ships at the request of Capt. Dietrich Niebuhr, German naval attaché.

Should the Supreme Court decide that such action is warranted, it might ask the German government to waive diplomatic immunity for any of its representatives allegedly involved so that they might be tried as common spies.

In the event of a refusal, Argentina probably would be forced to declare the diplomats concerned persona non grata, authoritative quarters said.

Niebuhr's Expulsion Asked.

Niebuhr's expulsion from this country was demanded several months ago by a congressional investigating committee on the grounds that he had arranged the escape of more than 100 interned crewmen of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, which was scuttled in the River Plate in December, 1939, after a running fight with British warships.

In announcing that he was referring to the Supreme Court the evidence taken before his, Judge Jantus said:

"From the declarations of the six witnesses it develops that part of the information secured by them was sent to the German Embassy, where the staff co-operated in various ways related with the imputed actions."

"In this situation it is necessary to inform the Supreme Court of the known origin of these deeds wherein they involved the personnel of the (German) Embassy."

The judge's action apparently was taken with the approval of the foreign office because just before his announcement Prosecutor Bellisario Gache Piran conferred for an hour with Foreign Minister Enrique Ruiz-Gimenez, who has been a steadfast proponent of maintaining relations with the Axis powers.

It was expected that Prosecutor Gache Piran would make public Monday the full charges against the 38 persons under arrest.

Russia Says Finland Nears War With U. S.

The Soviet government, through the Embassy here, declared today that Finland has "virtually" gone to war against the United States. This marked the first Russian comment on Finland in two months.

The Embassy's information bulletin carried a note from the Soviet Information Bureau Moscow which said in part:

"From Finnish territory united German and Finnish forces treacherously attacked the Soviet Union, while from Finnish naval bases the German armed forces began systematically to act against the naval forces of Great Britain and America."

"Finland's action in this virtually starting a war against Great Britain and the United States was duly assessed as such in these countries. Great Britain declared war on Finland."

The United States maintains diplomatic relations with Finland and has resisted Russian suggestions for a break.

OPA Nears Full Ban On New Typewriter Sales

By the Associated Press. Civilian purchases of standard typewriters were virtually stopped yesterday in an Office of Price Administration order reserving more typewriters for the armed services and lease-lend.

Typewriters at present are rationed, but the new order designed to freeze virtually the entire stock of modern machines now in the hands of dealers or manufacturers. Obsolete models and stripped portables are exempt.

The status of typewriters will not be completely clarified until a new rationing order is issued soon, but meanwhile no new rationing certificates will be issued authorizing civilian purchases and existing certificates must be used by January 1.

erties may mean in the form of irreplaceable losses may be imagined by comparison with what would be the loss to the United States if Los Angeles, San Francisco, Wilkes-Barre and Milwaukee were wrecked. But, because Italy's industrial centers are so few, the actual injury to Fascist powers of aggression in the present circumstances is much larger than would be the case if America were to lose towns of the size indicated.

Il Duce probably did not intend to make any vital concession to the United Nations when he admitted that "Italy now is clearing her cities of women and children." All who can leave must leave. But his language is subject to the obvious interpretation here suggested. The production and replacement power of the Italian people, it seems definitely acknowledged, has been ruined, their efficiency has vanished before the onslaught of British bombers.

Eastern Front Enigma

Of all the far-flung theaters of this world-wide war, none is at once more important and more puzzling than that known as the eastern front. Here, millions of Russian and Axis soldiers are perpetually engaged along a stretch of over 2,000 miles. Yet this titanic struggle is waged in complete secrecy from all but the combatants themselves.

The present military situation is a notable case in point. Some three weeks ago, the Russians started a sudden pincer operation on both flanks of the Axis army besieging Stalingrad, and this operation was soon followed by another large-scale offensive on the central sectors west of Moscow, especially from Rzhev to Veliki Lyuki, with minor thrusts still farther north near Leningrad.

Here, however, agreement ends. Russian reports tell of continuous progress, especially around Stalingrad, accompanied by infliction of tremendous losses upon the Axis forces. Ten days ago, Moscow was claiming the virtual isolation of the Axis army before Stalingrad, which was represented as decimated and disorganized. Berlin admitted Russian penetrations of outer defense lines but described the situation as a complex war of movement.

During the past few days, this widespread battling from the Volga to the middle Don seems to have died down. At least, neither side reports much or claims heavy losses inflicted on the enemy. The natural inference is that the battle lines have been at least temporarily stabilized.

Four Italian Cities

In the latest of his oratorical efforts, Benito Mussolini has confessed serious damage to four cities raided by English airmen striking at Italian industry. A clue to the strategic significance of this admission may be found in his statement of the number of houses damaged.

But it is important to notice that Il Duce discussed the effect of Royal Air Force attacks in terms exclusively of residential buildings injured. He said nothing about air fields, railroads, dockyards, power plants, factories, warehouses, ammunition dumps, oil and gasoline storage tanks, communication lines, water systems, etc.—the actual objectives of the British invasion.

A Lesson Dearly Bought

In sentencing the engineer of the train that caused the wreck at Dickerson, Maryland, last September, Judge Charles W. Woodward of the Montgomery County Circuit Court said, "The sentence imposed on you can only be justified as a warning to other engineers all over the country."

For here was a man found guilty in the eyes of the law of negligence which caused the death of thirteen persons and substantial property damage. He had violated, not once but many times, safety regulations required by Federal law.

Of Stars, Men And Atoms

Notebook of Science Progress In Laboratory, Field And Study

By Thomas R. Henry.

The savage red man's war paint is the newest "evolution drug." Department of Agriculture specialists have reported recently that the chemical sanguinaridine, applied to seeds, will produce new species of plants, some of superior quality.

Sanguinaridine is the active principal of the "blood" of the bloodroot, golden-centered white flower which is one of the earliest spring bloomers in damp woodlands throughout Eastern North America. Broken off near the root, this plant gives off a red liquid which looks like blood.

For the past century it has had a limited, but legitimate, use in cough medicines. The alkaloid which it contains is mildly poisonous. A few years ago it was discovered that the drug colchicine, derived from the European crocus and long used in treatment of gout, had a remarkable effect when applied to plants.

Mr. Jeffers' Warning

The statement by William M. Jeffers, rubber administrator, that competition for critical materials is threatening to disrupt the scheduled production of synthetic rubber gives rise to very serious concern.

There is every reason to believe that Mr. Jeffers would not make such a statement unless he knew that his apprehensions were well founded. And, not being given to exaggeration, it also is safe to assume that his warning of the disastrous consequences that would follow a failure of the rubber program is grounded on facts.

As presently planned, the rubber program is based on the assumption that synthetic plants will come into production periodically through 1943, beginning next month. By the spring or summer of 1944 it is expected that enough synthetic rubber will be available to supply essential needs, and, through strict conservation measures, it is believed that the Nation's existing stock of tires can be made to last until the new rubber is available.

"All parasitic infections now seem likely to experience a new and widespread distribution to fresh areas as a consequence of the rise in business and travel which air transport has made possible," says Dr. Culbertson.

"When untreated many parasitic infections endure for years and some almost invariably end fatally. But it is a most fortunate fact that for most of these infections specific drugs are known which lead to cure. Sometimes the cures are dramatic and prompt, the parasite being eradicated at once and the symptoms being alleviated very soon.

"Malaria is the most important disease of man in the tropics. More persons suffer from the infection in warm climates than from any other disease and nobody living in the endemic areas can expect to remain free of it. Fortunately specific therapeutics long have been known.

The latest variation of the man-bites-dog theme comes from Pottsville, Pa. A pheasant hunter, accompanied by a half-pint-size terrier, ordered the animal into a likely looking thicket and stood by to await results.

Proposes Alternative Plan For Taxing Income

Several days ago Senator George proposed that monthly income taxes for 1943 be begun to be collected and that the 1942 taxes due in 1943 be postponed until after the war.

But he is, however, need for collecting income taxes monthly and there is difficulty in doing it and in collecting taxes for the past year and at the same time. In order that taxes may be collected monthly next year and that something may be done at the same time to drain off surplus money I propose:

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

War-time transportation will make the necessity for early starts in getting places plainer to a great many people.

Today it is plain enough to everybody that a full-time allowance will have to be given if one wishes to be "on time," and this applies to work, amusements, calls on friends and so on.

It is just as easy to be "on time" as late, and maybe the war is going to convince many of it.

Methodical people make these discoveries first. Usually, as a child, they take naturally to getting up early.

So it follows that alarm clocks should be kept in the best of condition for the duration. Alarm clocks should be kept working, and this means that they should be set correctly, because most of them have a tendency to run either fast or slow.

Timing all early-morning operations is a necessity. Because most persons do not do it, we have the spectacle of 15 minutes persons coming to work 5, 10, 15 minutes late.

Explains Baptist Attitude Toward Pacifists in Wartime.

As a past president of the Washington Federation of Churches and a member at present of the Federation's Committee on Conscientious Objectors, I should like to say a few things concerning the letter which appeared in your columns from my good friend and fellow Baptist, E. H. De Groot, Jr.

In appointing the committee on conscientious objectors the federation took no position on the views held by pacifists. It simply took the position that since the Government had recognized and made provision for the conscientious objector that it was the very least that the churches could do to do the same.

Immunities to most diseases also can be acquired passively. Antibodies which are developed in one individual can be transferred with blood or serum to another in which they act.

Does not the intelligence test for soldiers apply to officers as well? I received from my bank today three copies of a leaflet which reads: "Sabotage! Careless matches aid the Axis. Our country faces the greatest danger in its history. So do our forests. One careless match or cigarette—no matter who throws it—can do as much damage as an incendiary bomb to thousands of acres of precious timber and valuable watersheds."

There is no other way to be "on time." Being on time, at any engagement, means that the essential parts of the trip fall into schedule.

Getting around Washington is no easy task any more. Crowds and delays go together. Bring the mind entirely up-to-date, in this matter.

It takes more time, now, to get anywhere. Only the mind, operating in advance, can make up for it. Get an early start, no matter where you go.

Haskin's Answers To Questions

By Frederic J. Haskin.

A reader can get the answer to any question or fact by writing The Evening Star Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C. Please inclose stamp for return postage.

Q. Is it ever proper to display the flag at night?—B. O. S. A. The Flag Code provides that the flag may be displayed at night by civilians upon special occasions when it is desired to produce a patriotic effect.

Q. Which is the fastest snake to be found in the United States?—E. G. N. A. Observations by Walter Mosauer demonstrated that the Western whip snake is by far the fastest, but crawls at a rate of only 3 miles an hour.

Q. Do more people die of overeating or overdrinking?—B. N. A. More persons die from overeating than from drinking too much.

Successful Public Speaking—The subject should be full of interest to every one, for leadership is almost impossible to those who lack the ability to express themselves adequately through speech. You may not develop into an outstanding orator, but you can learn to put your ideas across in a manner pleasing to your listeners.

Q. Which of his works was the favorite of Mark Twain?—J. N. G. A. "The Prince and the Pauper."

Q. When the Christ Child was carried from Bethlehem to Jerusalem to be offered to the Lord in the Temple, what flower sprang up in the footsteps of the Madonna?—T. M. A. Legend says it was the snowdrop.

Q. What proportion of the large cities in the world are located near the Equator?—A. M. S. A. There are fewer than 50 cities in the world with more than a million inhabitants. Of these only four, Calcutta and Bombay in India, and Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo in Brazil are situated in low latitudes.

Q. What branches of the service are included in the term "armed forces"?—F. L. L. A. As it is generally used, the term "armed forces" refers to the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard.

Q. Who was the musician who was supposed to have supernatural powers?—J. S. A. The genius of the violin virtuoso Niccolò Paganini was so amazing that many credited him with supernatural powers.

Q. What city or town has the lowest annual average temperature?—B. M. B. A. The coldest average for regions where people live and work in usual ways is 34.6 degrees found at Hannah, N. Dak.

Q. Why do termites attack houses?—P. D. A. A. By gnawing wood termites obtain both food for themselves and a dwelling for the colony. In cutting the forests and utilizing the wood for construction of dwellings, man upset the balance of nature, hence termites may be expected to lodge in houses built of wood.

Q. Which is the senior service, the Army or the Navy?—R. C. H. A. Since the War Department was created by an act of August 7, 1789, and the Navy Department was created by an act of April 30, 1798, the Army is considered the "senior service."

Q. What was the tonnage of the German battleship Admiral Graf Spee?—G. O. A. The pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee had a tonnage of 10,000 and a crew of 1,107.

Q. What was the original number of Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States?—M. F. A. The number originally was six. In 1801 there were five, in 1807, seven, in 1837, nine; in 1863, ten; in 1866, seven, and since 1869, nine members.

Q. What proportion of the tax dollar is used to pay for war?—S. E. E. A. No recent figure is available. However, in about 1932 one authority made an estimate that 72 cents in every dollar spent by the Federal Government was for past and future wars. In 1930 it was estimated that 64.7 cents out of every dollar was spent for this purpose.

Q. Which of Gainsborough's portraits was stolen?—C. C. A. His portrait of Elizabeth, Duchess of Devonshire, was stolen mysteriously in London in 1876, immediately after it had been purchased by Messrs. Agnew. The picture was taken to New York and Chicago, and in April, 1901, it was traced by American detectives working for the Agnews. It was then sold to J. Pierpont Morgan, sr.

Joins in Protest Against Wasted Wood.

I read with amazement the article in The Star of December 2 about the burning of wood at the Camp Springs Airport after refusal to sell it to nearby farmers for heating purposes.

Why not burn the oil near the oil wells and refuse to sell it to customers, seeing we have so much these days? Why not burn the coal at the mines and let our people do without? If we had such brilliant management at our coal mines as we appear to have at Camp Springs, that probably would be the procedure!

Does not the intelligence test for soldiers apply to officers as well? I received from my bank today three copies of a leaflet which reads: "Sabotage! Careless matches aid the Axis. Stresses Need for Aid To Fighting Forces in Pacific. To the Editor of The Star: Not detracting in any way from the splendidly conceived and wonderfully executed campaign in North Africa (and trusting it will be brought rapidly to the most completely successful conclusion), still it must be apparent that we should send, and at once, from our West Coast, powerful reinforcements of all kinds, to enable our just as wonderful fighting forces in the Pacific to accomplish their "tasks" more easily and more thoroughly, and to bring, before too late, some hope to unfortunate American prisoners of war. No one can be better informed in the matter than our former representatives in those regions, Messrs. Grew and Sayre, and we should follow their advice, before Japan gets too strongly seated in her stolen, but temporary, positions.

Calls for Universal Prayers For Victims of "Madman." To the Editor of The Star: The Jews of Europe are doomed to die by the end of the year, 1942. This unbelievable news has been brought to us by authentic sources and has been confirmed by the Department of State.

But the millions of Jews are not the only ones who are condemned to death. The whole of Europe—eventually the whole world—is doomed to die under the ax of the madman and his armies. The only hope for the unhappy victims, and the victims to come, is a quick and complete victory of our Allied armies and the thorough destruction of the German military machine.

The extermination of the European Jews is not only a Jewish tragedy, but a world tragedy. Every victim—Jewish or Christian—will have died in vain, if the leaders of every church, and the heads of every civilized state fail to see that the spirit which destroys the Jews is the spirit of madness, vengeance and destruction which destroys human liberty.

And there is one opportunity for the leaders of all churches and the heads of all civilized nations to document their solidarity. December 13, 1942, should not be only a day of prayer for the Jews, proclaimed by one local Jewish leader. It should be a day of prayer for the entire civilized world. It should be proclaimed as such by the leaders of all churches and the heads of all united nations.

GOP Woes Tied Up in Peace Views

Isolationism May Prove Margin of 1944 Victory or Defeat

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Inside both the Republican and Democratic parties there is a problem of management which centers on the selection of a national chairman.

The problems are different in each party. The Democrats are faced with a revolt on domestic issues, the question of whether the philosophy of State socialism shall be adopted by following the lead of New Deal socialists or whether traditional Jeffersonian principles shall be restored.

The Republicans are united on domestic issues but they are divided on the extent to which a post-war program shall approximate the internationalism of Woodrow Wilson's day. The so-called "isolationists" who have been somewhat anesthetized by the war will revive their opposition to "entanglements" abroad and revert to the 1920 localism unless the international elements in the party can win the upper hand.

The fight was renewed recently because of the proposal of the Midwestern Republicans to name a man who was prominent as an isolationist before Pearl Harbor. This aroused the opposition of the Willkie Republicans and is believed to have resulted in the withdrawal of the name of the candidate in question for the chairmanship.

Hollister Has Support.

Ordinarily the picking of a national chairman has little to do with issues and usually it is a matter that is based on organizing ability and familiarity with local political situations. If a compromise candidate has been chosen, his previous stand on public questions will not have been sufficiently conspicuous to hail him as a factionalist.

One name being mentioned—that of former Representative John Hollister of Ohio—received wide support. But his business affairs were said to prevent him from devoting full time to the job and the task certainly requires 100 per cent of a party chairman's time, especially as the minority party has an uphill road to travel.

Mr. Hollister was one of the aides who journeyed with Wendell Willkie in 1940 and yet he was also one of the managers of Senator Taft's pre-convention campaign. He is popular in Congress and with the press and would make a successful chairman.

But who wants to take the post of national chairman in the Republican party if the feud between the isolationists and the international co-operationists is to be carried on with the same intensity that it has before? And what chances are there for success in 1942 if the Republican isolationists are going to drive not only Mr. Willkie but his immense following of independent voters away from the Republican party?

The Jeffersonian movement in the Democratic party will make a bid for the support of these independents and the Democratic party would win a signal victory in 1944 if a Senator Byrd of Virginia, for instance, were named to head the ticket and an isolationist were running on the Republican ticket.

It is widely believed that Mr. Willkie lost the election last time because hundreds of thousands of independents who had absolutely no use for the New Deal were afraid that Mr. Willkie would surrender to the isolationist wing of the Republican party on foreign policy if elected and that the whole future of the Allied cause might be imperiled. Mr. Willkie has demonstrated since the election how wrong were those who failed to understand his international views, but there has been no mistake about the conscientious adherence of many Republican groups and leaders to the 1920 Republican doctrine.

It may be, of course, that when the troops come home again many of them will be as isolationist and anti-foreign as they were after the last war, and the isolationists may prove to be the more successful voters, but at the moment the Gallup polls indicate that a majority of both parties seems to favor a strong international organization to keep the peace.

That is why the independent Republicans are insisting that foreign policy for the post-war period shall follow the international rather than the nationalistic point of view.

The Political Mill

Hoover Presents Program That Merits Fair Consideration for Conduct of War

By GOULD LINCOLN.

Almost on the eve of the gathering of the Republican National Committee in St. Louis to elect a new chairman and to deal, possibly, with policies in the light of the war, the party—and the country—has received sound advice from the only living former President.

Herbert Hoover, food administrator during the last war, is making full use of one of the clearest and most analytical minds in the country. Mr. Hoover laid down a dozen principles which should govern civilian economic organization for the total war in which the United States is now engaged. He has done so in simple terms, logically supported, which any one may understand.

Mr. Hoover's recommendations—as they may be considered—were given in an address to the National Association of Manufacturers in New York. He made no attempt to criticize the present civilian organizations for war—except by contrast which his own "principles" make manifest—with one exception. That was in regard to the tremendous civilian set-up, with its 2,500,000 civil employees of the Government—2,000,000 more than were required to do the job in the last war.

Cities Soldier Figures. He reminded the country that 17 months after the inscription Act was passed in the last war, 4,400,000 men were in arms, largely trained and equipped, and 2,000,000 of them had been carried overseas. It is now 27 months since the present draft law was passed, and about 6,000,000 men are under arms, though less than a million are overseas.

Mr. Hoover's first principle was important. It is, he said, that all civilian activities should be directed by civilians within limitations laid down by the legislative body. "Otherwise," he said, "we shall be a military dictatorship with all its implications."

Whether or not he has in mind a controversy which has existed over the handling of manpower during the war, this principle certainly applies. The American people would resent turning this power over to the military.

Mr. Hoover laid stress on the need of single-headed administrators for each of the civilian activities dealing with the war. These administrators must be given full authority to act within the scope of their peculiar fields of activity.

It would be as unwise, he pointed out, to have more than one commanding officer in a given civilian field of activity as it would be to have more than one commanding general in a military field of operation.

As Mr. Hoover visualizes the proper organization of civilian organization for war, the head administrators of all such major groups should constitute a war council, sitting directly with the President.

"Here alone," Mr. Hoover said, "the general economic and civilian policies should be determined, the conflicts and overlaps planned out with the President as umpire."

Important particularly is a demand that the Republican party "continue its opposition to any negotiated peace with the dictators and a pledge that the public party will support the participation of the United States in a post-war peace program designed to assure economic and political freedom to all the nations of the world."

Obviously if the Republican party will support such a post-war program, isolationism is dead.

Ford Delivers Giant Bombers To U. S. at Vast New Plant

Thousands of Women Help at Willow Run; Production Peak Due Late in 1943

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—Giant Consolidated B-24E bomber planes are being delivered to the Government at the Ford Willow Run bomber factory.

This was disclosed yesterday to a group of new writers who view the vast factory as part of an industry tour. The writers also learned officially that production is expected to reach its peak during the latter half of 1943.

Specific details regarding this latest achievement of the motor car industry at war were not permitted. The new writers, however, saw moving assembly lines, crowded with scores of huge four-engine bombers in varying stages of construction. They saw giant jigs and fixtures that reduced to minutes and hours assembly operations that formerly required days and even weeks.

Co-ordinating the work of thousands of machine tools laid out much like those of an automobile assembly plant, great cranes shuttled back and forth overhead. Five were operated by women, ranging in age from 21 to 30. They included a former dietitian, a radio singer a one-time elevator operator, a garment factory supervisor and a dress designer.

On the production lines and machines were thousands of other women workers, some riveting, some operating drills, presses and spot welding machines and many astir fuselages working in teams, others cleaning the shatter-proof glass noses of the great aerial warcraft.

Charles E. Sorenson, Ford vice president and general manager, commented that production "bugs," common to every mass production task, whether it be of automobiles or airplanes, had been "licked."

"The big problem now," said Mr. Sorenson, "is to train workers, to make professionals out of amateurs. That's even a bigger job than the whole plant."

There was a War Council or War Cabinet in every principal nation in the last war. There is one in every principal nation in this war except the United States.

Is there any good reason why there should not be such a war council here? The answer is "no." Already there has been lack of proper co-ordination and co-operation in the absence of such a council.

It has been responsible for too many conflicting statements, emanating from too many agencies of Government with overlapping authority over important civilian activities. And, indeed, there have been conflicts within the individual agencies of Government, due to the fact that the single administrator, with definite powers, has not been the order of the day.

Would Avoid Regulation. Mr. Hoover's "eighth principle" bears repeating, for the failure to live up to it already has hurt the country by the ears. It is: "The eighth principle is to do no more regulating than is necessary to attain the major objectives. Fixing of prices is necessary only or that comprise the essentials of the cost of living. To the great mass of the people, 95 per cent of the cost of living lies in less than 40 staple raw materials, and with price control starting near the source avoids a host of price fixing and policing of non-essentials."

The former President also urges the utmost and enthusiastic co-operation of civilians with the Government "with the least bureaucracy and force." The Government today is a mass of bureaucratic agencies—and all signs point to an increase in bureaucracy. No less a person than Leon Henderson, head of the OPA, has warned the people within the last few days they must expect more and more of this.

Mr. Hoover's final principle calls for the organization of all civilian activities for war "so as to assure the return to economic and personal liberty the moment the war is over." Too many persons fear today that this is not the policy of the New Dealers who have been seeking to extend Government control over civilian activities—not just during the war, but long before the war began.

Program Suggested. Representative Bender of Ohio, president of the National Federation of Republican Clubs and publisher of the National Republican, has made public a statement of policy for the guidance of the Republican party during the next two years, and has submitted it to the national committee for its consideration.

It deals with the war front, the domestic front and with the peace that must be made after this country has won the war. He favors, among other things, the creation of a joint congressional committee on the war effort.

Should the Republican party "continue its opposition to any negotiated peace with the dictators and a pledge that the public party will support the participation of the United States in a post-war peace program designed to assure economic and political freedom to all the nations of the world."

Obviously if the Republican party will support such a post-war program, isolationism is dead.

Post-War Rehabilitation Envisioned by Biddle

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va., Dec. 5.—Declaring there would be no "unrealistic compromise" such as that at Verdun, Attorney General Biddle pictured last night a post-war rehabilitation with soldiers standing guard while doctors, engineers and relief workers carry out their assignments in "newly liberated lands."

He foresaw also as "the next step" from North Africa the invasion of Southern Europe, with "the force of arms and the establishment of order shortly to be followed by the patient work of relief rehabilitation."

Mr. Biddle spoke at the University of Virginia in the first of two lectures sponsored by the William H. White Foundation. The second probably will be given in January.

"Ancient fears of entangling alliances, the traditional instinct to view the problems of the Old World as essentially dissimilar from our own will not compete with the pressing realities of hope and need that will accompany and follow the war," Mr. Biddle said.

THE opinions of the writers on this page are their own, not necessarily The Star's. Such opinions are presented in The Star's effort to give all sides of questions of interest to its readers, although such opinions may be contradictory among themselves and directly opposed to The Star's.

'I'd Rather Be Right'

Beveridge Report Held Test for United Nations—Whether Social Reform Will Emerge From War

By SAMUEL GRAFTON.

I have the odd feeling that Sir William Beveridge's report on social security to the House of Commons will arouse more anguished outcries here in America than in England.

Latest dispatches, by cable and carrier pigeon, reveal that, so far, not a single English editor has burst a blood vessel.

No English newspaper has leered, scolded, or made bad jokes about college professors.

So, the first point to be made about the Beveridge report is on the difference between English and America, as regards the tone of public controversy.

Had such a state paper been issued here, proposing, in substance, that a floor be placed under the economy, that no citizen ever be allowed to have less than a certain named income, or ever be permitted to go without medical care, or ever have to wonder how to pay for a baby, a great many feverish irrelevances would have been brought into the argument at once.

We can easily imagine that rumbling protest against the "brain trust" which would have swelled from the hoarse organ of American public comment.

Major Social Proposal. It is also a curious circumstance that America, which has a liberal administration, has had no important social proposal offered to it for several years, while Britain, which has a conservative government, has just got itself involved in a major one.

Why the difference? One of the reasons is Dunkerque. England has had its Dunkerque. But it was immediately after Dunkerque that social proposals began to flare up in England. A period of intense self-examination began, to find the reasons for that huge military disaster.

At that very moment, America, remote from the war, was completing the bipartisan congressional coalition against reform.

The English press began to question the English educational system, to wonder whether it allowed natural ability to rise to the top. The sober and extremely careful London economist proposed, in 1940, an "economic bill of rights," adding

Count Dino Grandi Mentioned As Mussolini's Successor

Duce's Ex-Foreign Secretary May Prove Too Tainted for Allied Approval, However

By HELEN LOMBARD.

Certain high officials in Washington, both the hour is not far away when the Italian people will switch from passive displeasure to active disapproval of Mussolini's alliance with Hitler.

Should Mussolini suddenly disappear from the scene it is expected here that either chaos will result or that one of the former Fascist leaders who is now in disgrace will take up the reins of government.

Count Dino Grandi, the Duce's former foreign secretary, whose name dropped from public notice when Mussolini banished him from the army as a reprisal for his anti-Nazi attitude, is suddenly being mentioned once more.

Grandi visited Washington in 1931. He came with the purpose of improving Italo-American relations which had been steadily deteriorating since the rise of Mussolini.

Secretary of War Stimson, who at that time was President Hoover's Secretary of State, was favorably impressed by the young Italian diplomat.

Made Friends in London. Grandi later went to London as Ambassador and made many friends there because of his evident dislike of the Nazis. Grandi is considered both energetic and intelligent, but whether his hatred of the Germans would prove strong enough to impel him to seize the reins in Italy and guide the country toward the Allies, should Mussolini be forced out of the picture, is a purely speculative matter.

Officials in close touch with Italian affairs believe the Italian people are not rebelling as much against Fascism as against Nazi domination. It might well be that the nation would accept the leadership of one of the old Fascists now living in obscurity because he disagreed with the increasing Nazi domination.

This possibility already is causing considerable concern among American liberals who are gagging over Admiral Darlan and who will certainly never swallow men with a background such as that of Generalissimo Francisco Franco should he show signs of "coming over," of Dino Grandi, who, though anti-Nazi, served faithfully the Fascist regime in Italy.

Even if Grandi could turn the Italian army against the Nazis he would still remain an unacceptable associate to influential elements in England and America.

As the break in morale occurs in one country after another in Europe, the Allies will again and again find themselves torn between military considerations and ideological aims.

The 73-year-old King Victor Emmanuel is reliably reported to be tired, bored and puzzled by the Euz-the right to a secure life to the older right of free speech.

Shortly after Dunkerque, Sir William was commissioned by the House of Commons to make his survey of social security.

But, begun on the impetus of Dunkerque, the report is finally published during a period of military success.

It is released at a moment when the English are feeling much better, much cockier, much stronger, when Mr. Churchill drops tart little comments about holding the empire which he would have preferred to swallow a year ago.

Test for United Nations. So, here, in a sense, is a United Nations test: whether, when we feel good, we can do the things we clearly saw to be necessary when we felt bad.

Now, a third point on the Beveridge report: It seems to me completely acceptable both by those who want fundamental social reform to come out of the war and those who want nothing of the kind.

Its most important feature is unemployment insurance, unlimited as to time during which benefits are paid, and without the requirement of a pauper's oath.

Now, if we can end unemployment after the war, this feature of the plan will be self-canceling. If there is no unemployment, there will be no need for insurance against dragons or werewolves, though an enterprising fellow could have made a snappy living for himself selling such policies just a few hundred years ago, when dragons and werewolves were unavoidable dangers, as all sensible men knew.

For that reason, if no other, one would like to see variants of the Beveridge plan adopted by all the United Nations. That would be a guarantee, by the whole community, of the seriousness of current promises to rout unemployment out of the world after the war. If the promise is kept, the Beveridge plan will largely cancel itself out and cost nothing. If the promise is not kept, the cost of unemployment will then be carried by the community, as was the cost of the war, and not by individuals.

The Beveridge plan backs up, with a money forfeit, all current speeches about ending war. That is its fundamental importance. It makes our oratory good.

Other princes of the house of Savoy, however, are strongly anti-Duce. Even Mussolini's favors have been considered "dirty tricks" by them.

Croatian Crown Resented. A great-nephew of Victor Emmanuel, the Duke of Spoleto, was extremely indignant when King Victor Emmanuel II bestowed a gold crown on him in Rome.

The Duke was once offered a Hollywood career by a talent scout who saw him on the polo field and immediately saw in his 6 foot 3 inches and dark good looks the successor to Rudolf Valentino's image on the silver screen.

The Duke, however, is still in Austria, playing polo, having turned down Hollywood and refused to take possession of the throne of Croatia.

He has been making futile efforts to have Mussolini back the unwelcome ersatz crown. Every time he attempts to see either King Victor Emmanuel or Mussolini to set the matter straight, he is refused an audience.

Should he hear tomorrow that the Nazi-Fascist created kingdom of Croatia has disappeared, he will give a rousing cheer for the Allies.

Martinsburg Will Get Its Second Airport. MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 5.—Plans for a new airport at the northern end of the city were disclosed yesterday when County Court grand juror Paul M. Ruppenthal ordered setting aside a tract for that purpose.

Mr. Ruppenthal said he was unable to disclose detailed plans for the project.

The city has another airport, Shepherd Landing Field, at the other end of the city, which has been operating for more than 25 years.

Disposition of Franco's Forces in Southern Spain Gives Rise to Fears Regarding His Neutrality

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.

The latest information regarding the disposition of Spanish troops is looked on with suspicion by the Allied high command.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco continues his strictly neutral attitude. Nevertheless, it is significant that the semi-mobilized Spanish army is distributed principally along the western and southern borders of Spain.

There is less than a covering force along the Pyrenees where the Germans have a sizable force estimated at between 50,000 and 150,000 men, including motorized units. Definite information regarding the strength of the Nazis is difficult to obtain; the whole of occupied Europe is watertight under fierce Gestapo control. The remaining neutral countries do not know much about military movements across their borders because all travel, exchange of letters and other means of communication have been cut off.

After the initial confusion caused among members of the German high command by the American landing in North Africa and the French assistance, the Nazis are taking stock of the situation and are believed to have completed a definite plan to counter the Allied offensive.

Because the Axis has sent large forces to Tunisia, Lt. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson, commander of the British 1st Army, has proceeded with greater caution than had been contemplated. In responsible military quarters the setbacks suffered by Gen. Anderson's forces are taken lightly. However, they may have a moral effect on such neutral countries as Spain which can cause trouble unless United States diplomatic action in Madrid succeeds in convincing Franco that the Nazis have no chance at all of winning the war.

Nazi 'Advisers' Remain. It is of paramount importance for us to have Franco remain neutral in spite of the tremendous pressure put on him by the Falangists, the strongly pro-Nazi group which has so many followers among high-ranking officers of the army. Like so many soldiers, the Spanish officers are looking to the immediate rather than the distant future.

The successful operations of Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower have induced them to endorse Franco's neutrality policy. The army in Spanish Morocco, which is well equipped and trained, could have been a serious menace to our flanks. But it has not budged because we arrived in North Africa with a sizable force and, moreover, the French forces form a respectable barrier between Spanish Morocco and French Morocco.

At the same time it must be remembered that German "technical advisers" are still at Ceuta, Melilla and Tetuan. Should operations in Tunisia take an unfavorable turn, which is not considered likely—there is no saying what the Nazis might be able to do with the Spaniards in Europe and Africa, in spite of Franco's definitely favorable attitude toward the Allies.

Nazi reinforcements continue to arrive in Tunisia from nearby Sicily and Sardinia. They arrive by air and sea and although many of their ships and planes are destroyed by the Allied navies and air forces the protection offered them by the Axis air and naval arm is sufficient to permit the landing of a relatively important quantity of men and supplies.

Luftwaffe Very Active. It is now obvious that the Nazis will fight in that area to the bitter end. Gen. Anderson's army is now being strengthened with American and French units. The French in particular are constituting an important reservoir of manpower for the Allies and, according to all available reports, they are fighting brilliantly against the Axis.

The Nazis have in their favor an excellent strategic line easy to defend because it is so short. Their lines of communication also are much shorter than ours. They are, of course, exposed to attacks from the Allied air force and navy. But so are ours. Packs of submarines in the Western Mediterranean are making communication between Algiers and Oran to the Tunisian ports difficult.

The Luftwaffe based on Sardinia and Sicily has been extremely active and has made the supplying of Gen. Anderson's forces by sea a difficult problem. Communications by land, where we have excellent railways and roads at our disposal are much safer but also much longer. Hence, the British general, who cannot take too many chances, is proceeding cautiously awaiting sufficient reinforcements before he strikes an all-out blow at the enemy.

But while we are strengthening our forces in Tunisia, the Axis is doing the same thing with a greater degree of success than was anticipated. It now appears highly improbable that the Germans will be able to assume a successful offensive in Tunisia. Every disposition has been taken to prevent such an offensive, because of its political implications. Should the Nazis succeed, however, in performing some spectacular coup, nobody knows how long Generalissimo Franco will be able to continue his present strictly neutral attitude. Disposition of his forces is creating some concern in responsible military quarters. It is too late, according to military observers, for the Germans to do real damage even if they obtained Spain's co-operation. But they can give us some unnecessary headaches.

Inside the prison proper the guards are completely unarmed. There is not a single blackjack, a single billy, or a gun. In fact, the only men who had instruments that could be used for violence, were the prisoners themselves. They wielded mallets, big scissors and cutting knives while their guards walked about unarmed. In one four-story industrial building there was but one guard.

Warden Sanford showed me about the prison as if it were nothing but a huge industrial plant of which he was rightfully proud. He didn't talk about the prisoners as such, but as workmen who were doing a good job of work for their country. When he addressed a young prisoner he said, "Son, would you mind showing the gentleman how your machine works?" The old ones he knew by name and stopped to have a chat with many of them.

The prison magazine, the Atlantian, is one of the best magazines published in the South. Its editorial policy now is based on the value of prisoners as fighting men and it makes a very good case of it. The magazine's humor page reflects the cheerful attitude of the men behind the walls. A poem on the blood bank is typical:

"Don't be surprised if you hear the news that some American soldier down in Australia wins the D. S. C. and steals the colonel's watch all at the same time. It won't be his fault. It'll be mine, and the Red Cross will share the rap for they came out and let us give them blood this month."

It was heartening to visit this prison and meet the man who runs it.

Convicts Display Patriotism, Too

By HENRY McLEMORE.

ATLANTA.—"We in Atlanta are delivering the goods. Those of us who know say don't lose your freedom."

This is the inscription on a huge banner that hangs in the Federal penitentiary here.

The men behind the walls do not lie when they say that they are delivering. Not even the workers in the Henry J. Kaiser shipyards have so speeded up production as have these men in gray behind the lowering gray walls.

Their pay is but a pittance as compared to those of workers outside, and they have no union to protect or their interests, but they now are working 56 hours a week, when even the prison laws require no more than 48 hours of them.

When the United States went to war they asked to be allowed to lengthen their working hours, and to toil on Sundays, Saturdays and holidays. On New Year Day, 1942, the entire prison population volunteered to work and contribute what they earned to the Red Cross. Since December 7 the men in this one prison have purchased more than $30,000 in War bonds out of their scanty pay. They have donated nearly $2,000 to the Red Cross, and they have given more than 500 pints of blood, or a good 10 per cent of all the blood donated in this area. In little more than a year the prisoners have stepped up their production an even 400 per cent.

They are building many vital things for the Army and the Navy. Out of their shops come aviator kit bags, azimuth cases, canvas hampers, canvas water tanks, clothing, cotton duck for military purposes, mail bags, mattresses, sea bags, shell covers, stretchers, tarpaulins, tents and trunk and plane covers.

I went through the big prison with Warden Joseph W. Sanford, originator of the Sanford Plan, which, in a nutshell, maintains that if prisoners are treated as men they will respond as men. Certainly proof of how well this rehabilitation plan works was before my eyes everywhere I turned.

Once the big gate clanged behind me, I lost all sense of being in a prison. We walked through humming cotton mills, where busy workers nodded at their boss and smiled. We visited classrooms where men were learning everything from their ABC's to complicated trades. We walked through a library that many a college would like to own, and through Bible classes where men gathered of their own free will and accord to study the Book whose rules they had broken.

Never once was there a single reminder that we were inside prison walls. The men didn't shuffle. They didn't turn their heads. They looked you in the eye. There were no lines of marching men. They walked about like students on a campus.

Minister of Guatemala And Wife Give Reception

Dr. Don Carlos Salazar Is Feted At Pan-American Union Building

By Katharine Brooks.
The Guatemalan Minister and Senora de Recinos gave a very delightful reception yesterday afternoon in honor of the Minister of Foreign Affairs of their country, Dr. Don Carlos Salazar, who is in Washington for a fortnight's visit. The stately Pan-American Union Building was the scene of the festivity and the arrangements differed from those usually made for such entertainments. The director general of the Pan-American Union, general Dr. Leo S. Rowe, stood at the imposing front door to greet the guests as they arrived and was assisted by the assistant director general, Dr. Pedro de Alba.

The several hundred guests mounted the white marble stairs and crossed the Hall of Flags to the center door to the Hall of Americas. Here the Minister and Senora de Recinos, with Dr. Salazar and the Chief of Protocol for Guatemala, Dr. Don Delfino Sanchez Latour, stood to receive. The lovely white Hall of the Americas, with its glittering crystal chandeliers, was filled through the afternoon hours from 5 to 7 o'clock with the many guests. The long buffet table, where a delicious buffet supper was served, was laid at the west side of the room close to the long windows overlooking the Aztec garden. It was a lovely sight as the sun set brightly and glowed through the tall poplar trees edging the garden. Liquid refreshments were served from two smaller tables, one at each end of the long room. Bright red poinsettias, a South American plant in bloom at the Christmas season, decorated the table and also were used in the patio.

Many of the guests stopped to see the extensive exhibit of Guatemalan textiles, one of the main industries of that country. Arranged advantageously in the exhibit room which is between the patio and the map room on the ground floor of the building, the beauty of the materials was greatly admired. One of the cases in the exhibit room contained and was loaned by Mr. John M. Cabot of the State Department and Mrs. Cabot, who collected them while the former was on duty in Guatemala. Mr. and Mrs. Cabot entertained at dinner later in the evening in honor of the guests whose friendship they made while they were in his country. Others at the dinner included the Minister and Senora de Recinos.

Guests at the reception yesterday afternoon were limited by the hosts to ranking officials of the Government and the heads of the diplomatic missions of the United States as well as a number of officials of the Army and Navy and a number from resident circles of the National Capital.

62 in Congress Support Palestine Restoration

The Zionist Organization of America yesterday submitted to President Roosevelt at the White House a joint declaration signed by 62 members of the House and Senate, supporting the proposal for a restoration of Palestine as the Jewish national home. Senator Wagner, Democrat, of New York, announced.

The list of signatories was headed by Senate Majority Leader Charles McNary, Minority Leader McCormack of the House and Minority Leader Martin of the House. Eighteen members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee signed.

The submission of the declaration climaxed a month's observance of the 25th anniversary of the issuance of the Balfour Declaration, calling for establishment of a Jewish national home in Palestine, and the 20th anniversary of the Congressional adoption of a resolution favoring the Balfour idea.

DAR Fills Two Army Trucks With 'Buddy Bags' for Soldiers

District Daughters of the American Revolution turned in so many "buddy bags" for soldiers at a Christmas party yesterday that the single Army truck which had called for the packages wasn't large enough to carry them away.

More than 1,000 of the bags, which are to be Christmas gifts for servicemen here, were collected at a meeting of the National Defense Committee of the District Daughters of the American Revolution Society. Each bag contains more than a dozen articles designed to provide comfort or recreation for men in uniform.

Christmas packages overflowed the library in the DAR Chapter House where the meeting was held. Chaplain Earl E. Wolf, who was present to accept the gifts, summoned an extra truck. And then he, chaplain, who was accompanied by two Army sergeants, had to ask the women to help them load the trucks.

The Daughters made the collection for the men guarding Washington and Hancock in the city. The formal presentation of the "buddy bags" was made by Mrs. Hubert E. Paddock for the DAR; Mrs. Frances Sherman, for the Children of the American Revolution, and Mrs. David L. Wells, for the Junior DAR.

An impressive part of the meeting was the minute of prayer observed at noon in accordance with a DAR practice established by Mrs. William H. Pouch, the president general. During this period Chaplain Wolf made a special prayer for DAR families with relatives in the service.

Other patriotic activities also were featured at the session at which Mrs. Arthur C. Houghton, the committee chairman, presided. Certificates of merit were awarded to 26 chapters in which 100 per cent of the membership had purchased War bonds. Eight chapters received gold seals, indicating that they have purchased bonds in the name of the chapters. The formal presentations were made by Mrs. Raymond Ewell, a Treasury Department representative substituting for William C. FitzGibbon, who was unable to attend as scheduled, and Mrs. George B. Hartman, vice chairman of the National Defense Committee in charge of bonds. Mrs. Ewell also made an address.

Mrs. George C. Ober, Jr., announced that over $1,500 has been raised by the local chapters for the blood plasma program. The formal presentation of the "buddy bags" was made by Mrs. Hubert E. Paddock for the DAR; Mrs. Frances Sherman, for the Children of the American Revolution, and Mrs. David L. Wells, for the Junior DAR.

Mrs. Leo Costello was the bride's matron of honor and only attendant. The bride attended schools in New Jersey and Maryland and Ensign Young received his B. S. degree at the University of Maryland, his M. A. at the University of Virginia, and was working for his Ph.D. at the University of Michigan when he enlisted in the Coast Guard.

Ensign and Mrs. Young will make their home temporarily at Dorchester House.

Miss Felton Bride In Arlington Church

The marriage of Miss Lillian Bernice Felton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Felton of Arlington, to Mr. William Ezra Bowers, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ray Bowers of Littleton, N. C., took place early last evening in the Central Methodist Church in Arlington.

Miss Audre Cleveland played the wedding music and accompanied by Mr. Robert E. Callaway, the soloist, and the Rev. J. H. Carroll officiated at the 7:30 o'clock ceremony before an altar decorated with palms and white gladioluses and lighted candles.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of dusty rose crepe with a felt hat trimmed with rose and blue velvet flowers. Her accessories were brown and she wore a corsage of pink roses and gypsophila.

Miss Marian E. Felton, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor and only attendant, and her costume was of light blue crepe, with which she wore a blue felt hat and corsage of white gladioluses.

Mr. Harold F. Yeager of Saratoga, Pa., was the best man and those serving as ushers were Mr. George Frank Felton of Arlington, brother of the bride, and Mr. Otis C. Spitzer of Luray, Va.

The reception after the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents and out-of-town guests attending both the wedding and the reception included the parents of the bridegroom and Mrs. Annie Bowers, Miss Lillian Bowers and Miss Maud E. Wilson, all of Littleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowers will make their home in Arlington.

Weddings Last Evening; Elizabeth Beach Bride

Married to Capt. Atwell J. Smith; Lillian Felton Weds W. E. Bowers

Banks of chrysanthemums at the altar of St. Albans Church made an impressive setting with lighted tapers in the seven branch candelabra for the colorful wedding last evening of Miss Elizabeth Holton Beach and Capt. Atwell Janvier Smith, U. S. A. C., of Detroit, which took place at 8:30 with the Rev. Charles T. Warner officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex M. S. Beach and attended Cedar Tree in Cannes, France; Mrs. Hall's Dulcinea, Barcelona, Spain; Ecole International, Palma de Mallorca and Penn Hall at Chambersburg, Pa.

Capt. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Sanborn Smith of Detroit. He attended Dartmouth College and is now weather officer with the United States Army Weather Service.

The music for the wedding last evening was arranged by Mr. Walter Nash, organist of St. Albans, and included solo selections sung by Miss Jeanne Geiger, a former classmate of the bride at Penn Hall.

Wearing a dress of eggshell crepe, the bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. Her gown was made with long sleeves and a long, flowing skirt, and pearl-studded Valenciennes lace trimmed the collar and sleeves and the close-fitting jacket. Her head-dress was a hat of fresh white roses and tulle and she carried a bouquet of white roses and bouvardia.

Miss Marie Crandall of Rome, N. Y., was the maid of honor and was costumed in aquamarine silk jersey with matching slippers and a halo wreath of yellow chrysanthemums. Her bouquet also was of yellow chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaids were dressed in the paler colors of the rainbow. Miss Elizabeth B. Smith, sister of the bridegroom, wearing aquamarine; Miss Barbara A. Snow, old rose; Miss Mildred M. Murphy, coral; Miss Henrietta S. Moore, champagne; and Miss Lois Kuckler, golden yellow. All of the gowns were made of silk jersey and they were worn with slippers to match, long white kid gloves and halo wreaths of daisy chrysanthemums. The bride wore a gown of daisy chrysanthemums made in arrangements. Deborah Dingwall was the flower girl and Thomas Jarvis Scully of Rome, N. Y., served as ring bearer.

The inspectors who find on the job an inspection that a wrong number has been given for a tire that is obviously the proper tire have been instructed to make a correction on the record and to initial the change, Whitney Leary, OPA director for the District, announced today.

The inspector, however, must fill out OPA Form R-47, which he is requested to send in weekly to the executive offices, 5601 Connecticut avenue N.W.

Blocking of Arsenal Investigation by U. S. Denied by Biddle

Attorney General Says Indictments Will Be Sought Next Week

A charge that Washington officials had "hamstrung" an investigation of alleged irregularities in the construction of the $40,000,000 Mechanicsburg (Pa.) Naval Depot was branded "ridiculous" yesterday by Attorney General Biddle.

He described the charges, made by United States Commissioner Sidney E. Friedman of Harrisburg, Pa., as "the irresponsible statements of a minor official."

Mr. Biddle also announced that Tom C. Clark, chief of the war frauds unit, has been directed to call Mr. Friedman before the grand jury tomorrow.

Mr. Friedman said today that the grand jury would probably do so "so that he can call the grand jury what evidence he has which indicates that any one in Washington prevented either the United States attorney or the Federal Bureau of Investigation from proceeding vigorously with this case."

Biddle Raps Press: "I am distressed that the press should have given such prominence to the irresponsible statement of an uninformed minor official," Mr. Biddle said in a formal statement.

Secretary of the Navy Knox told a press conference yesterday that the Navy has been superlatively on our toes to check even a suspicion of irregularity.

(At Harrisburg, Mr. Friedman, advised of the Attorney General's statement, said he would like to see a preliminary investigation of the facts all the way to the top.)

"I don't fear the truth. I don't care easily," "When his remarks were called to my attention, I personally investigated the background of this case," Mr. Biddle said.

He said the facts are so simple they are ridiculous. The facts are simply these. Shortly after the war began I created the war frauds unit of the Department of Justice for the specific purpose of giving No. 1 priority to war frauds cases.

The results of the investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation are immediately turned over to the war frauds unit to determine whether there should be criminal prosecution. The Federal Bureau of Investigation submitted its report on this case on November 5.

Speed in Case Cited: "The war frauds unit determined on presentation to the grand jury in the same month, and a few days ago sent two Department of Justice attorneys to Harrisburg to submit the case for indictment to the grand jury this coming Monday, December 7."

As any lawyer knows, that is unusually speedy preparation for a case. Therefore, at the moment this irresponsible official was making his unfounded charges, Department of Justice representatives were already waiting in Harrisburg for the grand jury to convene next Monday.

There seems to be some misapprehension in the public mind about the status of Mr. Friedman, a United States commissioner is not an employe of the Department of Justice.

Two More Arrested On Job-Selling Charge

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5 (AP)—Federal Bureau of Investigation agents yesterday announced two additional arrests under Federal indictments charging the sale of jobs to government shipyard workers for fees aggregating from $25,000 to $50,000.

A Maritime Commission inspector and four others were taken into custody Thursday at nearby Long Beach, where Richard B. Hood, FBI chief, alleged a job-selling scheme was operated for the last year.

Mr. Hood disclosed the arrest today of Warren Graham, Los Angeles salesman, here, and Robert L. Jayved, also of Los Angeles, in Salt Lake City. He charged representatives of the school toured the Midwest and obtained pupils on the promise of highly paid shipyard jobs in return for $150 tuition fee, but actually provided no instruction.

If the $150 fee was not paid at once, Mr. Hood said, the worker was required to turn back part of his salary when a job was procured. Seized by FBI agents at Long Beach, the school was operated by W. Held, W. F. Moffett, described as a former tire-shop operator; O. B. Bartlett, James F. Thornton, identified as a former Bethlehem Steel Co. employe, and Ray Palmer, all of Long Beach.

States' Rights Revival Demanded by O'Mahoney

Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, of Wyoming, today called for a revival of "State initiative and State activity" lest the people lose control over local affairs.

In a radio address, he said State and local governments had been losing their effectiveness for almost a generation and "now they are losing their power."

Senator O'Mahoney said the Constitution did not intend that the Federal Government would "swallow up the States."

"State lines have been disappearing," he said, "and as the Federal Government has expanded, regionalization of its activities has kept pace with that expansion."

These regional offices "have been administered by officials, appointed from Washington, who have been concerned without regard to local conditions or local desires," he added.

"It is imperative," the Senator said, "if the States are to survive as effective agencies of popular government, that they lead the way now to the restoration of local authority in the post-war world."

The chart covers all casualties reported for the period from December 7, 1941, to November 15, with the exception of the present campaign in Northern Africa.

Flour Sales Stalled As OPA Continues Retail Price Ceiling

Rising Wheat Market Reported Forcing Millers Off Market

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—The Nation's flour trade was at a virtual standstill today while millers and Government officials endeavored to find a way out of a predicament brought on by the ceiling on prices and a rising wheat market.

The crisis was precipitated by Thursday morning by the Office of Price Administration extending without change the flour price ceiling which has been in effect since October 3.

Many mills complained that as a result of recent wheat price gains they were unable to buy grain at prices low enough to justify their doing business under the flour ceiling. They had expected the OPA to permit a moderate advance to relieve this situation.

Since this was not done, the complaints of mills from all parts of the country were renewed with vigor. The Millers National Federation reported many flour makers had withdrawn from the market until the situation is clarified. Some have not sold a pound since before Thanksgiving.

As a result, the OPA's action has thrown the whole problem into the laps of Commodity Credit Corp. officials. The corporation, president of the CCC conferred with Secretary of Agriculture Wickard and other officials here yesterday by Mr. Hutson said the CCC, outright owner of about 250,000,000 bushels of old wheat and holder of collateral on almost 400,000,000 bushels of 1942 wheat under Government loans, was not ready to act. Mr. Hutson said steps may be taken next week to relieve the conditions. The Government officials were here for a regular AAA meeting.

Mr. Hutson pointed out that under the law the CCC sell none of its wheat to mills except at parity prices, which are almost 30 cents above the present market, although some of this grain can be sold to feed distributors or distillers below the market. Thus, it is possible, he said, that the CCC may offer producers who have stored 1942 grain the chance to pay off their loans at a discount of several cents a bushel to induce them to turn wheat over to mills.

The WAAC Recruiting Office here will open next week a special section for the recruiting of colored women from whom there is great need in WAAC ranks.

The first colored WAAC assigned to a post in the United States arrived yesterday, two companies strong, at Fort Huachuca, according to the Associated Press, and were met at the station by 10,000 official welcomees from the famous all-Negro division stationed there.

Members of the 32d and 33d Post Headquarters Companies of the WAACs marched to new barracks built especially for them on this post.

Board to Frame Charter Without Public Funds

Montgomery Unit Votes to Carry Out Work at Own Expense

The work incidental to framing a proposed charter for Montgomery County will be conducted by the County Charter Board at no expense to the taxpayers, it was announced.

In a resolution adopted unanimously, the board stated that its services are to be furnished to the county without pay or financial compensation of any kind and without reimbursement for travel or other personal expenses.

No additional jobs will be created, the board added. It will incur no expenses for secretarial, clerical or other personal services, although it will accept such services when furnished voluntarily in accordance with specific requests.

No Rent Expenses. There will be no expenses for rent or office equipment, since the board will use the teachers' conference room in the new Social Agencies Building at Rockville.

Despite the fact that it is an official agency of the county established by the Maryland constitution and elected by the people of the county, the board said, "It will not request the county or any other public source for appropriations or a nor will it solicit or accept funds from any private source."

Among Consultants. The board, headed by Frederick Lee, also said that it is conferring from time to time with authorities on various phases of governmental problems. These experts are giving their time to the board without charge.

Among these consultants are Lewis Merriam of the staff of the Brookings Institution, who directed the survey of the Montgomery County setup in 1941; Dr. Joseph P. Chamberlain, professor in the School of Law of Columbia University and director of the Legislative Drafting Research Bureau maintained by the university; Roy S. Braden, town manager of Greenbelt, and Willard F. Day, housing program supervisor of the National Housing Agency.

Greenbelt to Hold Rally Tonight for Defense Funds

Addresses, a beauty contest and band concerts will feature a "victory rally" tonight in the Greenbelt (Md.) Elementary School under sponsorship of the Greenbelt Civilian Defense Council. The rally is for the purpose of raising funds for equipment needed by the town's defense organizations.

The program is to begin at 7:30 p.m. The Greenbelt Band, under direction of Emerson Meyer, is to give a one-hour concert. The Federal Bureau of Investigation Band also will play. In conjunction with the rally the Greenbelt Athletic Club is sponsoring a "Miss Victory" contest.

Those scheduled to speak at the rally include Mayor Arthur Rydsticken, assistant town manager of the Greenbelt Civilian Defense Corps; Col. Henry S. Barrett, Maryland state director of civilian defense; Richard Massock, former Associated Press Bureau chief in Rome, and Frank Williams, former commercial attaché in Spain.

Civilian Defense officials from Prince Georges County scheduled to be guests include Robert Sherwood, director of Defense Council in the county; E. L. Zaleski, chief air-raid warden of the county, and Thomas Roseway, deputy chief air-raid warden of the county.

Roy S. Braden, town manager of Greenbelt, will be master of ceremonies.

Virginians Told to Train Draft Age Replacements

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 5.—Virginia industrialists had the advice of a War Department spokesman today to train men to take the places of so-called essential workers because there is no guarantee as to how long many of these men will be deferred.

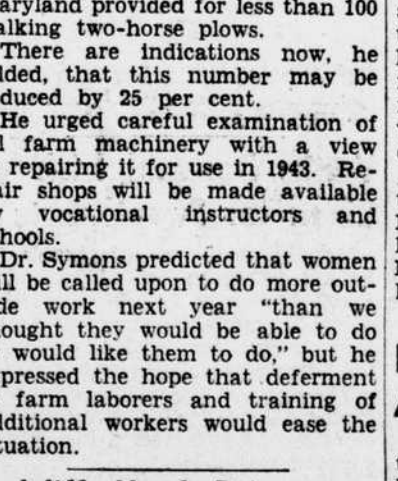

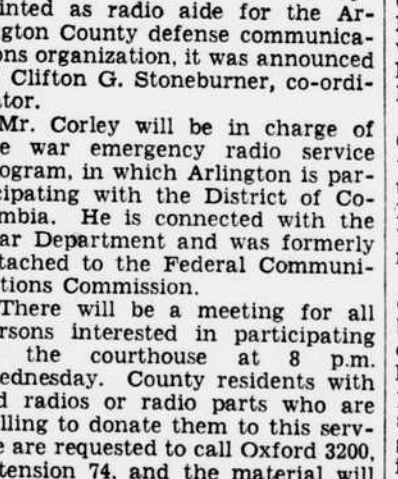

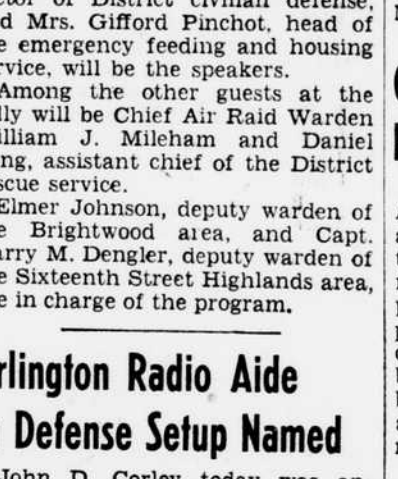

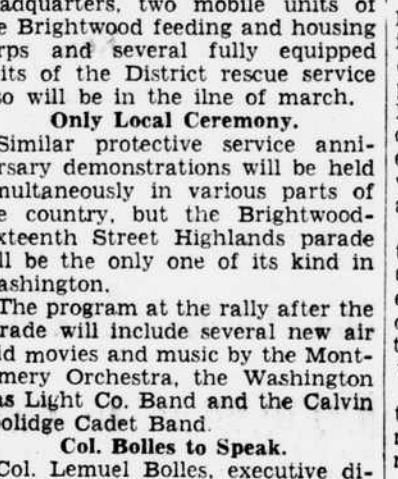

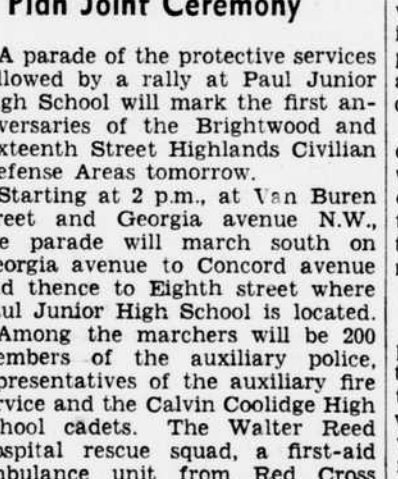

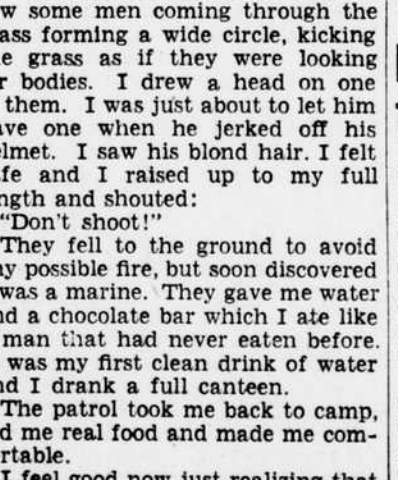

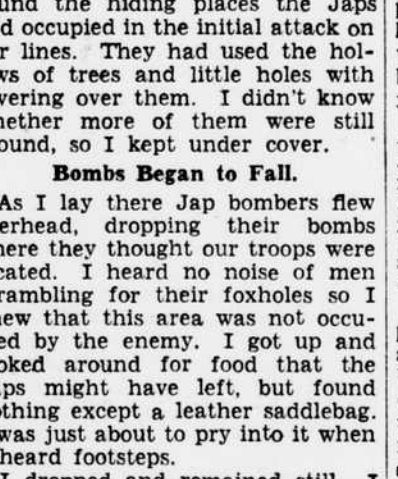

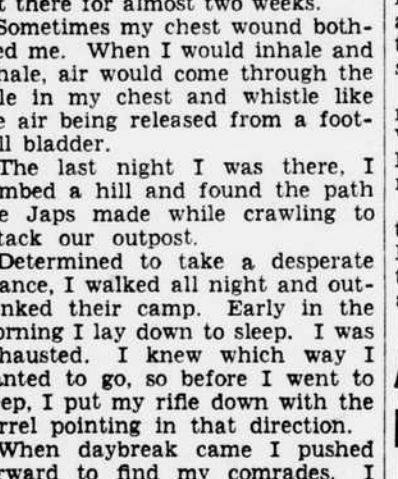

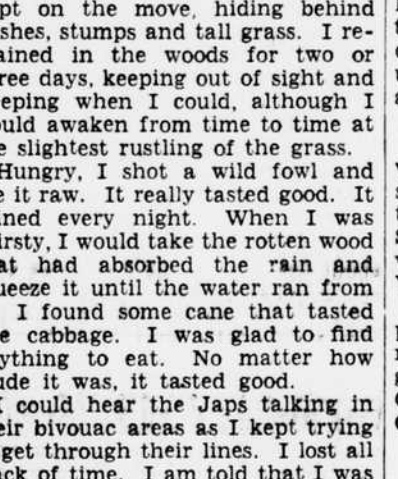

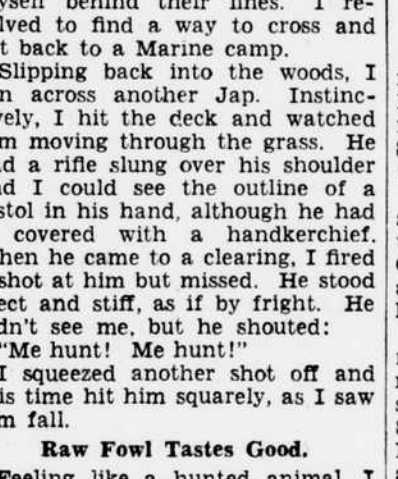

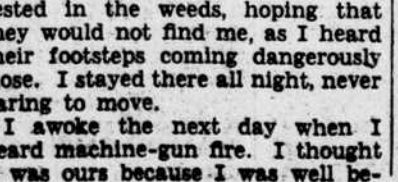

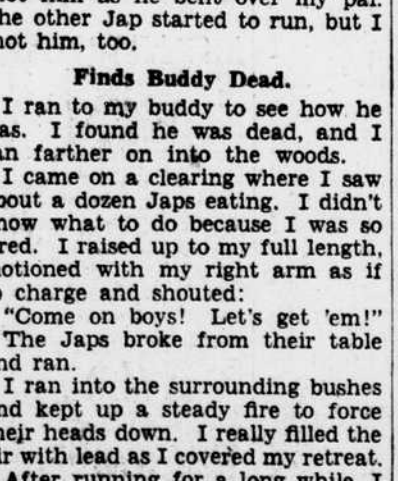

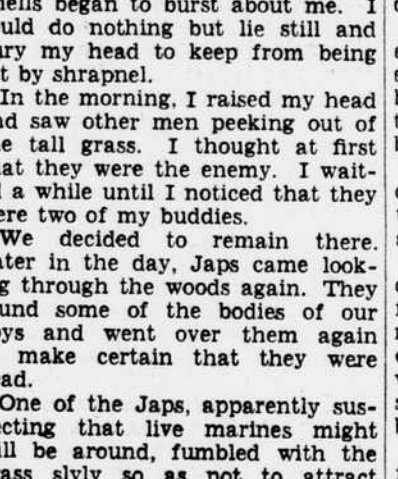

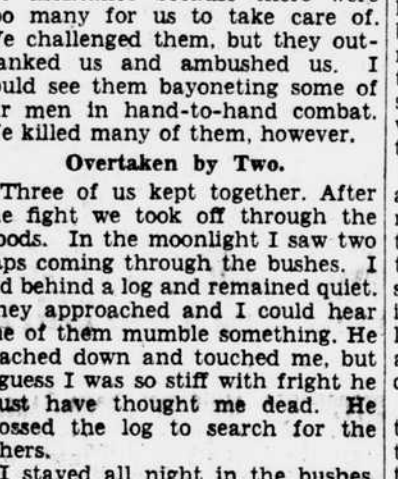

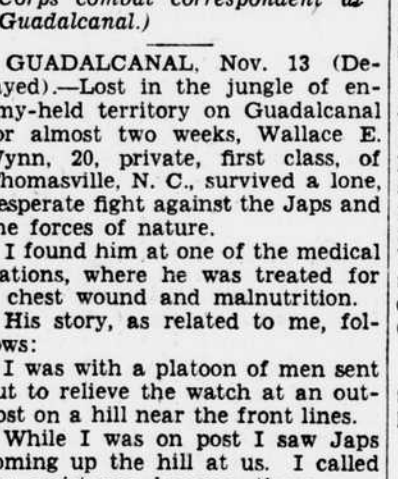

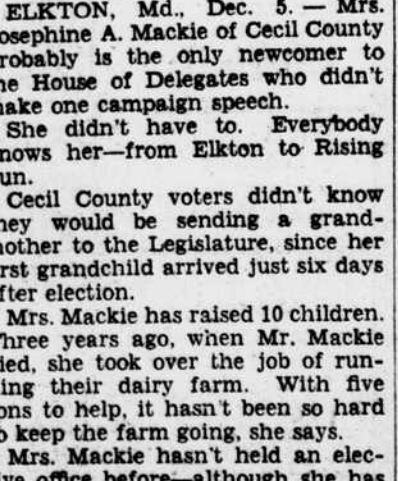

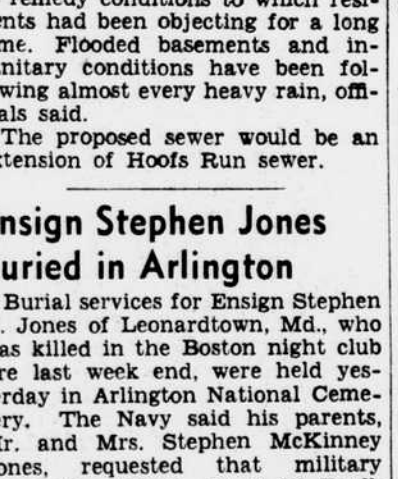

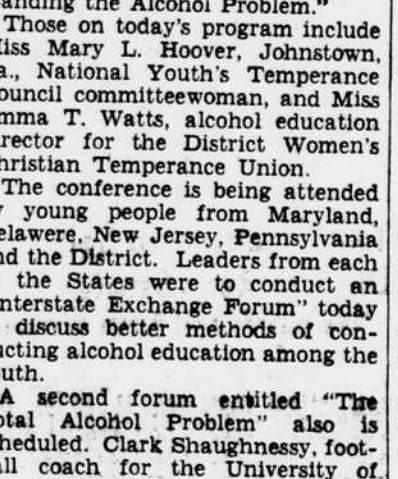

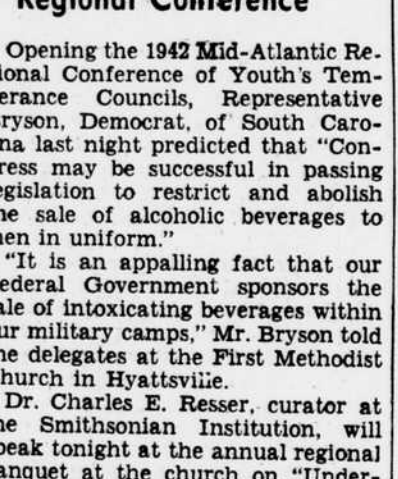

Ma J. Victor Swearingen, liaison officer of the War Department Manpower Bureau, in an address before the fall conference of the Virginia Chamber of Commerce secretaries, said industry could not be permitted to become a haven for men of draft age seeking to avoid military service. His comment, however, was not taken to mean that bona fide essential workers would be yanked from important posts to be put in uniform.

Gov. Darden, another speaker yesterday, reiterated his opposition to seeing Virginia become a highly industrialized State.

Pass Accountant Tests

Three men from Northern Virginia were among 11 candidates who passed the State examinations for certified public accountants last month, the State Board of Accountancy announced in Richmond yesterday. They are N. C. Humphrey, Lorton; Charles H. Meyer, Arlington; and S. Sterling Swart, Fairfax.

TOP THAT BUY WAR BONDS BY NEW YEAR'S

Price of Milk Increased in Two Maryland Areas

Four Other Localities Face Prospect of Similar Boost

By the Associated Press. BALTIMORE, Dec. 5.—Increases in the price of fluid milk took effect in two Maryland counties today, and at least four other localities face a prospect of similar price boosts by the Office of Price Administration.

OPA Administrator Leo H. McCormick last night ordered a price increase equivalent to a cent per quart in Frederick and Washington Counties, and asserted the move was expected to alleviate a fluid milk shortage in those two counties.

At the same time, he said an investigation of the milk situation was under way elsewhere in the State, listing the most critical areas as Annapolis, Cumberland, Elkon and Denton.

An announcement may be made regarding those areas "within a few days," he added.

Hundreds Ask Action. The OPA director declared he had received hundreds of telephone calls and letters from residents of Frederick and Washington Counties asking that some action be taken so they could buy milk for their families.

"Consumers will certainly understand that this is a necessary increase," he said.

"Farmers in the area have reported that they have taken the milk to other markets for $2.91 per hundredweight. This will mean a retail price boost from 12 to 13 cents a quart.

"This price increase will bring to dairy producers a price per hundredweight which is within a few cents of the price which is being offered them elsewhere and is enticing them to take the milk to other, larger markets," the OPA director asserted.

Plant May Have to Close. McCormick said OPA laws empowered him to make adjustments in the price of any commodities essential to the war effort in instances where such adjustments would create a shortage without creating other shortages elsewhere.

Mr. McCormick said he had been informed that if milk producers continued to refuse to take their product to a pasteurization plant at Elkon, the plant would be forced to close down. This would leave that entire section of the Eastern Shore without a pasteurization plant, he added.

At the same time, he announced the appointment of Dr. Roger B. Corbett, director of the agriculture experiment station at the University of Maryland, as price consultant in the State OPA office, assigned to the analysis of the milk problem.

Dr. Corbett has been assigned to the New York regional OPA office making a study of the Maryland milk situation.

The new appointee is a native of Morgantown, W. Va.

Citizen Group to Consider Plans for Hospital

The Randle Highlands Citizens' Association last night authorized appointment of a special committee to plan to erect a municipal hospital large enough to meet the needs of the southeast section of the District. The committee will be chosen within the next few days by Joseph Deckman, president, and a list of names was promised at the next meeting.

The association opposed any increase in the price of milk. T. Paul Mudd pointed out that any increase would place a greater burden on the lower-salaried groups who have large families and workers.

A request was made that District Court justices announce in advance the date on which they will be ready to consider appointments to the Board of Education and invite interested organizations to submit qualified candidates.

A committee was formed in an effort to improve the streetcar and bus service to and from the southeast section, especially during rush hours. The committee will circulate petitions and after research is made and data obtained will attempt to get a hearing before the Public Utilities Commission.

Mrs. Virginia Sholer of the Office of Civilian Mobilization spoke briefly about day nurseries, nutrition courses and recreation for the armed forces and war workers.

The meeting was held in the Orr School.

Impersonated Wardens, Two Get Year Term

By the Associated Press. VA. Dec. 5.—Police Justice John W. Rice, Jr. yesterday sentenced Stanley Elliott, 24, and Charles A. Thomas, 18, colored, of Middletown, to 12 months in jail on conviction of charges of impersonating air-raid wardens.

Elliott and Thomas were arrested after several motorists complained they were stopped for driving with lights during a blackout. The motorists said they were told that they must pay $5 or be taken to court where they would be fined $9 and costs.

Chief of Police C. W. Hollis said that Elliott, a private on leave from Fort Benning, Ga., was dressed in his uniform and that Thomas wore Elliott's overcoat and a Boy Scout hat.

Mr. Hayward is a graduate of William and Mary College and of Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexandria.

G. W. U. to Hold Physical Fitness Youth Conference

George Washington University will hold a physical fitness conference of persons interested in improving the health of the young men and women of the District, it was learned today.

Sponsored by the men's and women's department of physical education of the university, the conference is slated to take place in mid-January.

Also sponsoring the discussions will be the District Department of Recreation and the physical education department of the public schools. Recreation Supt. Milo F. Christiansen will serve on the Arrangements Committee, as will Physical Education Director Hardy Pearce of the schools.

George Washington University officials stressed that plans are as yet tentative but that they were anxious to hold the conference not only for their own students but as a public service. The War Relocation Authority, Office of Civilian Defense asked last month that such a general conference be scheduled here.

William Myers is assistant professor of physical education at the university and Miss Harriet Atwell is in charge of the women's department.

Survivors Describe Torpedoing of Two U. S. Ships Off Africa

Three survivors of the sinking of two transports off the North African coast, interviewed today at their homes in the Washington area while on furloughs, all agreed that they don't need to be told when a torpedo strikes a ship.

All three—two naval officers and an enlisted man—were thrown off their feet and sent sprawling when the Nazi subs fired torpedoes into the transports Bliss and Rutledge.

Louis C. Moran, 22, a boatswain, who is visiting with his parents at 2001 Thirty-seventh street S.E., said he slid more than 40 feet across the mess hall when the first torpedo hit the Rutledge. "And I was just getting set for a real outlet supper," he said. "When the second torpedo struck he remained on his feet."

Flames Swept Ship. Lt. (j.g.) Hugo Schulze, who is spending his 30-day furlough with his mother in Silver Spring, Md., said he was in the communications room when the Bliss was hit. "The ship broke loose," he too, was knocked down. With other officers, he made his way to the main deck by squeezing through a porthole. "The lights went out, flames, gas and smoke swept the entire ship, and it became very difficult to breathe," he recalled.

Ensign Harold B. Carleton, 26, of 1817 Lawrence street N.E., was on the bridge of the Bliss when the torpedo struck. Although he was uninjured at the time, he had a finger bandaged because of shrapnel wound received from an air attack earlier. He was assistant communications officer on the transport.

All three highly praised the conduct of officers and men following the torpedoing. Loss of life was small because everybody kept their heads, they said.

Lt. Schulze, communications officer on the Bliss and a former American University athletic star, said he hoped he would be given duty with the same skipper, Capt. G. G. Schetky, and crew. He recalled that Capt. Schetky was the last to leave the burning transport.

Mighty Moral of Navy. Boatswain Moran said he was "mighty proud of the Navy" and hoping he could get out to the Pacific war zone now that he is the veteran of the African campaign.

"I was just reaching for a tray when the torpedo hit," Boatswain Moran said. "I was standing on my feet. I went to the bridge to get orders, as the speaker system had gone out of operation."

The command to abandon ship was given, and he went over the side. He was picked up in a short while. After getting on the transport, he sank more than an hour after the first torpedo hit, he said.

Moran attended Eastern High School. Lt. Schulze said the survivors from the Bliss lived in Army uniforms for two days after the sinking, until an issue of Navy clothes were issued.

Ensign Carleton is a graduate of McKinley High School and the University of Maryland.

OPA Checks on Autos Lacking Proper Stickers

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5.—A force of 50 Office of Price Administration investigators has started a State-wide check of automobiles in search of persons who have failed to place proper gasoline ration stickers on their cars. OPA Enforcement Officer Cornelius P. Mundy announced yesterday.

As a result of the investigators' activities, Mr. Mundy said, 10 persons are scheduled to receive hearings December 17. Other investigations are continuing, he added.

Mr. Mundy cited as one of these reports from the Erie race track that 50 cars were seen without proper stickers last Saturday.

Such violators are subject to revocation of their ration books, explanation, and gasoline station operators who sell to such persons are subject to "criminal action."

W., M. & A. Fare Fight Going to Supreme Court

Henderson Hails Appellate Ruling on Seat Pleasant Run

The Washington, Marlboro and Annapolis bus line is "very definitely" going to the Supreme Court with an appeal from the decision made late yesterday by the United States Court of Appeals enjoining the carrier from increasing the fare of the Washington-Seat Pleasant run from 10 to 15 cents until formal notification of the proposed advance had been served on the Office of Price Administration.

The appellate tribunal reversed a District Court dismissal of the injunction suit filed by the OPA after the higher tariff went into effect October 26.

On behalf of the company it was said that the appellate court's decision did not have the effect of suspending the fare increase and that the higher rate would remain in effect until the issue was decided by the Supreme Court.

L. L. Altman, head of the W. M. & A. announced intention to appeal this morning, and said that a further statement would be forthcoming later in the day.

Henderson Hails Ruling. Leon Henderson, price administrator, hailed the Court of Appeals decision as greatly strengthening the hands of the OPA.

He said that common carriers and public utilities constitute an important part of the average family's cost of living. "The decision places us in a better position to lick the rising cost of living. . . . This decision will apply to many cases," he said, "and the regulatory agencies throughout the country. It establishes principles which we may expect to be followed by these agencies in passing on requests for rate increases."

Increase Held Unlawful. The Court of Appeals held that the increased rate was "unlawful" because the W. M. & A. lines had failed to give the price regulatory body notice as required by an amendment to the Emergency Price Control Act. This amendment provides that no common carrier shall increase any general rate of charge without first giving the OPA 30 days notice of the contemplated increase so that the OPA may intervene, if it wishes, before the agency having jurisdiction to consider the increase.

In this case, the W. M. & A. filed the proposed new tariff with the Interstate Commerce Commission on September 26. The amendment to the Price Control Act became law October 2. The increased rate was effective on October 26 and automatically 30 days after the filing of the tariff with the ICC—a 30-day period in which no objection to the increase was filed with the ICC.

Notification Proviso Upheld. The W. M. & A. lines did not file the proposed increase during the 30-day period from October 2 to October 28, during which the amendment was law. Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue in District Court upheld argument of the carrier that the increase was "made" with the filing of the tariff, and not when it went into effect on October 26.

The appellate tribunal, however, held that the increase was "made" on the date that the tariff was filed. The OPA of the proposed increase. The OPA now presumably will file objections to the increase before the ICC.

Maryland Bar Backs Clark for Judgeship

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 5.—The Maryland State Bar Association recommended to Gov. O'Connor yesterday that the president of the State Bar, James Clark of Ellicott City, be named to the vacant position of Judge Ridgely P. Melvin in the fifth judicial circuit.

Judge Melvin, who had been an associate judge, was elected chief judge of the fifth circuit in the November election. His unexpired term runs until 1953.

Judge William H. Forsythe, Jr., who was defeated by Judge Melvin for the chief judgeship in November, refused to accept any recommendation for the vacancy.

O'Connor, in Florida and will not return until Monday. He is not expected to act on the recommendations for at least 10 days.

Night Mail Collections Reduced in Arlington

Night collections of mail in Arlington County have been curtailed because of a manpower shortage and to conserve tires and gasoline, it was announced today by William A. Coates, county postmaster.

The curtailment amounts to about 50 per cent of the previous night collection, Mr. Coates said. The night collections now are confined to arterial highways, including Lee highway, Wilson boulevard, Washington boulevard, Columbia pike and Glebe road. There is to be a county-wide collection, however, on Saturday, Sunday and holiday, beginning at 7:15 in the evening, it was announced.

Maryland Holly Supply Largest Since 1934

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5.—Maryland's holly crop, which last year brought woodland owners more than $500,000, is expected to yield the largest supply this Christmas season since the Department of State Forests and Parks instituted its holly conservation program in 1934. State Forester Joseph F. Kaylor said yesterday.

The program provides a co-operative system under which woodland owners prune and treat the holly trees in accordance with specifications in order to have a yearly holly crop, instead of decennial crop. The program also provides a market for the holly, which is crated and shipped to dealers on orders received by the department.

Passage of Measure Banning Liquor for Servicemen Forecast

House Member Speaks at Temperance Councils' Regional Conference

Opening the 1942 Mid-Atlantic Regional Conference of Youth Temperance Councils, Representative Bryson, Democrat, of South Carolina last night predicted that "Congress may be successful in passing legislation to restrict and abolish the sale of alcoholic beverages to men in uniform."

"It is an appalling fact that our Federal Government sponsors the sale of intoxicating beverages within our military camps," Mr. Bryson told the delegates at the First Methodist Church in Hyattsville.

Dr. Charles E. Resser, curator at the Smithsonian Institution, will speak tonight at the annual regional banquet at the church on "Understanding the Alcohol Problem."

Those on today's program include Miss Mary L. Hoover, Johnstown, Pa., National Youth's Temperance Council committee woman, and Miss Emma T. Watts, alcohol education director for the District Women's Christian Temperance Union.

The conference is being attended by young people from Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and the District. Leaders from each of the States were to conduct an "Interstate Exchange Forum" today to discuss better methods of conducting alcohol education among the youth.

A second forum entitled "The Total Alcohol Problem" also is scheduled. Clark Shaughnessy, football coach for the University of Maryland, who was to have addressed the conference today, was called to Chicago last night. He prepared a statement for the forum.

Alexandria Appeals WPB Storm Sewer Ban

Refusal of the War Production Board to permit the City of Alexandria to proceed with construction of the proposed Hancock avenue storm sewer has led city officials to appeal to the United States Bureau of Public Health for a survey of the situation.

A sum of $36,750 was appropriated by City Council some time ago for construction of the sewer in order to remedy conditions to which residents had been objecting for a long time. Flooded basements and insanitary conditions have been following almost every heavy rain, officials said.

The proposed sewer would be an extension of Hoofs Run sewer.

Ensign Stephen Jones Buried in Arlington

Burial services for Ensign Stephen H. Jones of Leonardtown, Md., who was killed in the Boston night club fire last week end, were held yesterday in Arlington National Cemetery. The Navy said his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen McKinney Jones, requested that military honors be omitted. Lt. R. W. Faulk of the Chaplains' Corps officiated.

Civic Forum to Meet

The Civic National Forum will hold a round table meeting at the Whitehall Hotel tomorrow at 3:30 p.m.

William S. Bester of the General Accounting Office will preside and lead the discussion on "What Is the News?"

Cecil County voters didn't know they would be sending a grandmother to the Legislature, since her first grandchild arrived just six days after election.

Mrs. Mackie has raised 10 children. Three years ago, when Mr. Mackie died, she took over the job of running their dairy farm. With five sons to help, it hasn't been so hard to keep the farm going, she says.

Mrs. Mackie hasn't held an elective office before—although she has been on the Democratic State Central Committee for six years.

As for politics, she says: "I always thought it was the duty of women to take a part in their own government. I think things are getting better now that women are assuming more responsibility."

Marine Pulls Through 2-Week Trap in Jap-Infested Area

North Carolina Youth, Wounded and Starved, Fights Way Doggedly Back to Own Lines

(The following story was prepared by Sgt. Leopold Jupiter of New York City, a Marine Corps combat correspondent at Guadalcanal.)

GUADALCANAL, Nov. 13 (Delayed).—Lost in the jungle of enemy-held territory on Guadalcanal for almost two weeks, Wallace E. Wynn, 20, private, first class, of Thomasville, N. C., survived a lone, desperate fight against the Japs and the forces of nature.

I found him at one of the medical stations, where he was treated for a chest wound and malnutrition.

His story, as related to me, follows: I was with a platoon of men sent out to relieve the watch at an outpost on a hill near the front lines.

While I was on post I saw Japs coming up the hill at us. I called for assistance because there were too many for us to take care of. We challenged them, but they outflanked us and ambushed us.

I could see them bayoneting some of our men in hand-to-hand combat. We killed many of them, however.

Overtaken by Two. Three of us kept together. After the fight we took off through the woods. In the moonlight I saw two Japs coming through the bushes. I hid behind a log and remained quiet. They approached and I could hear one of them mumble something. He reached down and touched me, but I guess I was so stiff with fright he must have thought me dead. He crossed the log to search for the other two.

I stayed all night in the bushes. Shells began to burst about me. I could do nothing but lie still and bury my head to keep from being hit by shrapnel.

In the morning, I raised my head and saw other men pecking out of the tall grass. I thought at first that they were the enemy. I waited a while until I noticed that they were two of my buddies.

We decided to remain there. Later in the day, Japs came looking through the woods again. They found some of the men were still there. They approached and I could hear them mumble something. He reached down and touched me, but I guess I was so stiff with fright he must have thought me dead. He crossed the log to search for the other two.

One of the Japs, apparently suspecting that live marines might still be around, fumbled with the grass slyly so as not to attract attention to his search.

Shot Brings Others. I whispered to my buddy nearby that I had better get him before he found us. I raised my rifle, took careful aim, squeezed the trigger and shot him through the head.

Three Japs came running. The Jap that I had shot raised his arm and motioned to his comrades. When I saw him signal, I told the others that we had better make a run for it.

We took off and it was not long until we ran across six Japs. At sight of us, three of them ran for safety and the others rushed us with fixed bayonets. I told the others that we had better make a run for it.

One of them came at me and thrust his bayonet into my chest, but luckily I had turned to avoid the blade. Although the point entered my chest, it did not go in very deep. A cut of about three inches resulted. I fell to the ground and dropped my rifle for he had hit me with great force. I grabbed my rifle and shot him through the body. I had no bayonet because in my haste I had thrown my pack away to make running easier.

I looked around and spotted one of my buddies running, with two Japs pursuing him. He had no rifle—he must have lost it in the skirmish. One of the Japs caught up with him and drove his bayonet through his back.

He fell to the ground and the Jap stood gloating over his victim. I shot him as he bent over my pal. The other Jap started to run, but I shot him, too.

Finds Buddy Dead. I ran to my buddy to see how he was. I found he was dead, and I ran farther on into the woods.

I came to a clearing where I saw about a dozen Japs eating. I didn't know what to do because I was so tired. I raised up to my full length, motioned with my right arm as if to charge and shouted:

"Come on boys! Let's get 'em!" The Japs broke for their table and ran.

I ran into the surrounding bushes and kept up a steady fire to force their heads down. I really filled the air with lead as I covered my retreat.

After running for a long while, I rested in the weeds, hoping that they would not find me, as I heard their footsteps coming dangerously close. I stayed there all night, never daring to move.

I awoke the next day when I heard machine-gun fire. I thought it was ours because I was well behind the front lines.

Home Building Costs Up 18% In Two Years

Maintaining Repairs Cited as Duty Under War Conditions

A 5 per cent increase in the cost of construction for a standard six-room home during the year ending in October, as compared with a 13 per cent rise during the preceding 12 months, was reported today by the National Housing Agency.

Materials Index 121.6. The Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, a unit of the National Housing Agency, reported that its index of material prices for October showed a figure of 121.6, as compared with the 1935-1939 base of 100.

Wholesale building material prices showed no change during October. Slight increases were indicated in the wholesale prices of lumber and in paint and paint materials, but these were offset by a decline in the "miscellaneous items" group.

Because of the urgent need for conserving critical materials for direct war production purposes, new home building has been restricted to war industry areas, and there only in such numbers as is absolutely necessary to meet the housing needs of essential workers, Mr. Ferguson said.

"In view of these restrictions, it is all the more imperative that the present supply of existing homes be kept in sound repair, providing decent standards of sanitation and health," Mr. Ferguson stated.

The best method for protecting these properties is immediate attention to all essential repairs, regardless of how small or unimportant they may appear.

Under the War Production Board's construction conservation order L-41, maintenance and essential repairs that do not change structural design are permitted without authorization, provided the work does not involve the purchase of critical materials.

Loans to finance essential repairs may be secured under the FHA Title I program in amounts up to $2,500 from qualified private lending institutions. Such loans are repaid in regular monthly payments and are subject to the installment credit rules of the Federal Reserve Board's regulation W.

Also available under Title I are loans to finance the conversion of oil-burning heating equipment to the use of coal, as well as improvements reducing oil consumption through insulation, weather stripping.

Price of Homes Advances On Transportation Lines. A national real estate survey recently completed by the Appraisal and Management Service of America reveals a surprising difference in trends among different types of property.

This analysis of the real estate market was made by Homer Hoyt, economist of the organization, and was based on reports received by affiliated brokers in the leading cities of the country.

The survey shows a recent increase in the selling prices of single-family homes in the medium-price range near mass transportation in practically every city.

At the same time a decline was reported in the selling prices of homes that depend entirely on automobiles for transportation.

In most cities there is an increased demand for homes suitable for conversion into rooming houses for war workers.

Cox Appointed FHA Director For District

Walter C. Cox this week was named Federal Housing Administration director for the District, succeeding H. Loy Anderson, who resigned to enter private law practice.

Mr. Cox, former chief underwriter in the District office of FHA, long has been a resident of Washington. Educated in the local schools and business colleges, he was a commissioned officer in the World War.

Well known in real estate and financial businesses, he entered the real estate business here in 1923. Later he was an appraiser for several insurance companies and here, four years ago he joined the FHA.

He is succeeded as chief underwriter for the FHA here by A. Milton Talbert, a native of Washington and former chief of valuation.

Mr. Cox's post was filled by Joseph H. Hobbs, a former assistant.

FHA Commissioner Abner H. Ferguson accepted Mr. Anderson's resignation "with regret" and expressed appreciation of his work with the organization. The retiring official joined FHA in 1934 as a member of the legal division and later was named head of the District organization.

Prior to his Federal service he was district attorney for Marion County, Fla.

Permit Granted For 38 Houses In Alexandria

A permit for the construction of 38 row houses to cost $152,316 was issued this week to the Linden Construction Co. by A. R. Lash, Alexandria, Va., building inspector. The group is the last of three developments in Linden Gardens on Nelson avenue.

Mr. Lash reported that during November permits were issued for 14 row houses to cost $42,075, and for 12 apartment units costing $21,365. Residential construction thus amounted $63,440, while non-residential construction totaled $2,950.

Four Historic Places In St. Marys County Purchased This Week

Two Chesapeake Bay Estates Bought by D. C. Residents

Several historic places in St. Marys County, Md., were sold this week, including two on the shores of Chesapeake Bay.

St. Michael's Manor, at Scotland, was sold to Charles Stanley Visek of this city by Mrs. Carebel F. Smith, also of Washington. The 188-acre tract includes a brick mansion which dates from the late 17th century.

"Part of Hawley's Manor," a 110-acre estate at Point-No-Point on the bay, was sold to Lt. Comdr. Charles D. Griffin. It is one of the early Colonial bay manors and includes nearly a mile of water front on the Chesapeake. It was owned formerly by J. E. Driscoll, New York City. Sale price was not disclosed.

Hatton's Rest on the St. Marys River was sold by Roy L. Cassel of Washington to H. George Thompson, Bethesda, manager of the Montgomery County Ayrland Dairy Farm. The property includes 290 acres. Sale price was not disclosed.

It was reported from Leonardtown that Mr. Thompson expects to improve the property and make his home at Drayden in St. Marys County.

The Seven Gables Hotel on the Patuxent River opposite Solomons Island in California was bought by Harry Moreland of Waldorf, Md. It has been renovated and opened for occupancy by defense workers at the nearby Cedar Point naval flight test station.

Purchase was made from Mrs. A. X. Ryker, Silver Spring, at an undisclosed price. Containing 30 rooms it formerly was the home of Judge Parran Crane of the seventh judicial circuit of Southern Maryland.

Well known to Washington and Baltimore vacationists and fishermen for many years, Ryker managed the place. The new manager is A. M. Pickett of this city.

Realty Advertising In Newspapers Urged in Wartime

Business Executive Says People Still Can Be Educated in Ownership

Advertising in newspapers and periodicals should be continued during the war for the benefit of the real estate industry, Percy Wilson, vice president of Marshall Field & Co., wrote in an article for the current issue of the Mortgage Banker.

"Advertising should continue to educate people in the advantages of land and home ownership, building security for the future and that, under present conditions, it is a security second only to War bonds."

"It should convince the individual that a home or homestead can be acquired now out of earnings which may not be possible later. Even a vacant lot, properly selected and paid for, will insure a family a home of their own tomorrow."

"Written Salesmanship." "While every advertising medium can be used for this type of indirect selling, newspaper and magazine displays are particularly suitable. It has earned its credit as a success in the battlefield of modern business and plays a major role in the march toward a higher standard of living. Without real estate advertising—as a matter of cold fact—the growth of our cities to their present gigantic proportions could not have taken place."

Mr. Wilson also commented on rents and the possibility of increases. "In 1943 the head of a family earning $5,000 a year will pay 1,000 per cent more in income tax on the money he requires for rent than he did in 1939," he said.

"Should federal taxes continue up, and there is every reason to believe they will, the resulting benefits to the man who owns or is buying his home should be even greater."

Interest Saves Taxes. "Consider the head of a family who earns $5,000 a year and pays $75 a month rent. If, after a small down payment, the monthly payments are no greater than the rent, his comparative living cost requirements would be the same as if he rented. In many localities, a monthly payment of $75 will carry a $9,000 20-year mortgage at 4 1/2 per cent interest.

"During the first year, under such a plan, his interest payments and taxes may total about $50, which he would be permitted to deduct (See ADVERTISING, Page B-2)."

Home Purchase Encouragement By U. S. Urged

Feeling that the American family and home are institutions which represent freedom, security and happiness for the individual, the National Association of Real Estate Boards has called on its membership to heed the two following suggestions:

1. That, in addition to the purchase of bonds, our citizens also be encouraged by the Government to gain an added stake in America and its future through home ownership.

2. That the Government encourage the many institutions and others with large residential property holdings over the Nation to evolve an attractive and economic plan for sale to their present tenants providing for lower down payments, lower interest rates and longer term mortgages—all compatible, of course, with OPA regulations.

Pledging to use its best efforts to persuade home owners to open up their homes to war workers as roomers and tenants, thus expanding the use of present housing facilities, the association asked that a change be made in OPA rent regulations in order to make the war guest campaign more effective.

The association suggested that OPA change its regulations to eliminate entirely from the provisions of the Rent Control Act a householder who has four or less war guest tenants, so any family would be free to evict a tenant whose presence proves deleterious to the family life.

Gen. Fleming to Speak To Building Congress

With Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, Federal Works Administrator, as guest speaker, the Washington Building Congress will hold a forum meeting December 14 in the Mayflower Hotel to discuss the future of the building industry.

Convening at 8 p. m., the meeting will have several members of Congress on the program to present the legislator's view on building. Leon Chatelain, Jr., president of the group, announced today the annual Christmas party will be held December 22 from 5 to 7 p. m. in the Mayflower Hotel.

Building Permits Drop to $25,990 Here in Week

Building permits dropped this week to a new low with the issuance of 14 permits amounting to $25,990. The largest was for $19,000 issued to the Defense Homes Corp.

The corporation was listed as owner and the George A. Fuller Co., 1138 Munsey Building, as builder. Kenneth Franzheim, 728 Seventeenth street N.W., was named as architect.

Alan B. Mills, 1822 I street N.W., is the associate architect for the erection of the two-story brick and concrete boiler house located in the rear of the 3800 block of Quebec street N.W.

Meanwhile, the inspector's office issued a November tabulation which showed 466 permits for new construction and repairs amounting to $1,362,319.

$722,200 in Southeast. The November summary shows that for new building the southeast section of the city accounted for $722,200; southwest, $280,000; and northeast, $18,000. Repairs for the four sections of the city amounted to $292,199, the southeast leading with $145,765.

The inspector reported that 61 brick buildings and three frame structures were erected during the month. The number of new units was given as 20 in the northeast section of the city, 268 for southeast, none for northwest, and 112 for southwest, making a total of 400 new units in the city.

Other permits issued for $300 or more were: Angelo Jones, 1406 Harvard street N.W.; George Poletis, 1406 Harvard street N.W.; builder; L. R. Ray, 408 Raymond street, designer; to erect one-story brick addition, 2820 Fourteenth street N.W., to cost $1,800.

Studies of Building After War Slowed By Lack of Funds

Failure of Congress to Appropriate Compared to British Action

The current issue of the Architectural Forum contains a survey of post-war building programs in the States and larger cities. The magazine notes that "in numerous cases failure of Congress to appropriate additional funds for the National Resources Planning Board and the Federal Work Reserve has limited or stopped progress."

"This is in marked contrast to the situation in England where post-war planning is an accepted national responsibility, adequately financed and proceeding now," the Forum commented.

Among the responses to a questionnaire sent to Governors and Mayors were the following: "We have a State Planning Commission which is devoting part of its time to post-war problems. This program is now being reviewed for administrative guidance for war and post-war programs," Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor, Maryland.

"Virginia has a Planning Commission which is giving consideration to post-war projects. We do not propose to start any of the projects until after the war," Gov. Colgate W. Darden, Jr., Virginia.

"To supplement private industry in providing employment in times of labor surplus, an extensive program of economically sound public works has been prepared to meet anticipated needs of the State and its communities. This program includes projects of many types, such as public buildings for administration, education or institutional treatment, highways, recreational developments, reforestation and proposals for mine sealing and drainage, stream pollution abatement, etc."

"Naturally this program must be tentative, subject to revision and priority, depending upon the changing needs and conditions. Wherever possible, the projects will be self-liquidating or, as in the case of reforestation, will ultimately provide new and permanent employment opportunities."

"Some projects have received legislative approval, enabling construction to start when the war has ended; others have not yet received legislative approval, and some, such as were the war's concentration of workers in an industrial area has created acute conditions, may be unable to await the end of the war."

Begin "Self-Appraisals"

"Public works, however, is only one (and, at best, a supplementary) phase of Pennsylvania's preparations to meet economic changes which will follow the end of the war. To assist various localities or regions attain a better balance and diversity in industry, greater employment security, and economic stability, our Department of Commerce has initiated a program of community self-appraisal, based on the home rule principle of local determination."

"Approximately 100 communities have undertaken such self-appraisals in one or more phases. This requires local fact-finding of the community's needs, capacities and abilities, analysis of the facts discovered, and action to develop the community's resources of labor, raw materials and location in order to foster industries best suited to the individual advantages of the community."

"Through analysis of these local facts, each community may know in advance which industries may close at the end of the war, which ones must convert to peacetime production, and what new industries have the best chance of prospering because of local markets, local raw materials and local skilled labor."

"Through such advance knowledge and preparation to diversify the industrial character of the community, it becomes possible to cushion postwar change, and to make it more certain there will be jobs for America's soldiers when they come back and for the civilians during the war-to-peace transition period."

"Practically each one of our incorporated towns and 254 counties have post-war programs in various stages of development, many of these being advanced to the point of having plans and specifications prepared," Ernest J. Boyette, executive secretary to Gov. Coke Stevenson, Texas.

"New Hampshire does have a planning and development commission, whose work it is to handle all post-war projects. The commission is working on a capital budget to be presented to the 1943 Legislature that may be classified as a plan for such work."

"It is also working out a plan for community and municipal reserve financing, anticipating the day the war will come to an end and a number of public works will have to absorb potentially unemployed people. The designing and specifications of a number of buildings under the capital budget have been undertaken," Thorsten V. Kalljarvi, executive director, New Hampshire. "Planning board has been designated by Gov. Edison as the coordinating agency for the projects to be submitted by all State departments and agencies. The board to date has reviewed some $15,000,000 in projects," John E. Sloane, vice chairman, New Jersey State Planning Board.

Highway Projects Listed

"Gov. Carville has instructed his planning board some months ago to prepare the program of post-war construction activities. Some of the projects have reached the design stage. Highway projects have been listed and a great many of them have been designed and would be ready for advertising for bids within, say, a month or six weeks after the emergency."

"We have programmed for improvement in the post-war period, new facilities at the Mental Diseases Hospital, State Prison, the Industrial School, the State Capitol Building, the Supreme Court Building and several structures at the University of Nevada," Robert A. Allen, chairman, Nevada State Planning Board.

"An analysis was made of the available revenues and a determination reached that approximately $600,000 would be available for each biennial appropriation period. The projects approved came within this limit, excluding the various items of equipment under the sum of $5,000 each, and the 1941 Legislature made an appropriation to cover them for the current biennium."

"The program contemplates that just previous to each session of the Legislature the plan is to be brought up to date, adding an additional two years' projects," Roy H. Mills, secretary to Gov. Charles A. Sprague, Oregon.

"The functions of the State Planning Board are under the Publicity and Industrial Development Commission. We have an outline of proposed postwar construction projects in excess of $6,000,000, of which part of the funds are available—Elias J. Strong, secretary to Gov. Herbert E. Merv, Utah.

Six-Year Plan Envisaged

"Generally I am in agreement with a compilation of such public works programs and at the State level shortly I will have a report from the State Planning Council containing a six-year program of public works, that is beginning with the biennium 1943-1945—drawn up in relation to the State's financial abilities."

"More than likely the public works having priorities for construction in the biennium 1943-1945 will be deferred, except in emergency cases, until after the war, but possibly steps will be taken not only to have plans and specifications prepared but also to accumulate funds in some form for the day when the construction is ready to proceed," Gov. Arthur B. Langlie, Washington.

"Our Program Committee emphatically believes that the employment problem after the war, necessarily has to be met by private enterprise, if private enterprise is to have any excuse for its continued existence. We do not deny the importance of the public projects, but feel it is essential to emphasize that they cannot be the mainstay of post-war employment," James W. Culliton, assistant director Committee on Post-War Readjustment, Boston.

"My administration is tremendously concerned with what is to happen when the war is over. Because we have lacked any adequate machinery our endeavors thus far have been based more upon instinct than on scientific logic."

"The members of our planning commission would likely do a good job if given a chance, but in view of an inadequate subsidy they are satisfied to sign their names to an occasional plan and let it go at that. I have found that the average citizen doesn't understand or care very much about plans and programs, but he can be taught," Mayor Harry P. Cain, Tacoma, Wash.

Arlington Building Permits

Lowest Since February

Arlington County construction dropped to the lowest point since last February, the Building Department reported today. Only 108 permits were issued during November for a total of $415,745.

However, officials said, with almost $2,000,000 worth of business scheduled to be handled this month, the Department expects to exceed that of last year by a large margin. Total figures for this year thus far, they said, are $15,023,533, compared with $15,944,763 for the 12 months of 1941. In 1940, the building valuation was $12,839,105.

Last month's activities included 43 one-family dwellings, $151,000; five semi-detached dwellings, $45,000; seven apartments, with 63 units, $143,000; one church, $15,000; 49 alterations and repairs, $60,995, and three garages, $750.

Building Permits Issued

The Calvert County (Md.) Commissioners this week issued the following building permits: Elmer Ray, house at Huntington; Alfred Weisman, home addition at Prince Frederick; J. Briscoe Young, dwelling in Prince Frederick; Elmer Picher, house addition at Island Creek, and M. W. Hall, tenant house at Bowsen.

Householders Asked By FHA to Co-operate In Scrap Campaign

Hints for Individual Show How Residents Can Aid Metal Drive

The Federal Housing Administration, in an effort to assist the national scrap metal collection campaign, has issued the following statement asking home owners and apartment house dwellers for co-operation and pointing out what can be done by the individual to assist in the drive to make available more vital metals for war usage:

"The present national drive for scrap metal is bringing in thousands of tons of discarded, unused and unessential metal that will be melted down and turned into shells, guns, tanks, bullets and other implements of war necessary to defeat our enemies."

"This drive for metal is important. Scrap metal is necessary in the manufacture of steel. The national war effort needs and demands every pound we can lay our hands on. Therefore every home owner is strongly urged to make a careful scrutiny of his property for every ounce of scrap metal available."

"In nearly every home there is to be found many pounds of metal that should find its way to this pile of essential scrap. Every attic, cellar, garage and shed is the source of items that make a definite contribution."

"These sources should be gone over carefully for every item and pound of metal that is not absolutely essential to the owner and the operation of his home. There is any question as to its use, or future value, that item should be contributed."

"Scrap metal is needed badly by your country. It is your duty and responsibility to see that your scrap gets into this war. See to it, then, that your scrap metal gets to the nearest salvage depot as quickly as possible."

"Such items as old metal bed-springs, old irons, stoves, tire chains, lawnmowers, radiator washing machines, ash cans, old piping, garden tools, metal toys and skates, old wire, pots and pans are just a few of the items usually to be found rusting away in attics and garages and cellars."

"So get busy and give your home a thorough going-over for any scrap metal you find lying around. It will do the house good, too. Aside from making an important contribution to the national war effort, it will be a good thing to get some of the trash that has been cluttering up the house out of the way."

"But, in any case, start right now to go over your home for any and all metal scrap that can be contributed to this national drive."

Building Permits Total $46,500 In Fairfax

Commissioner of Revenue James U. Kinchele today reported 61 building permits were issued in Fairfax County, Va., last month, with an estimated value of $46,500.

New construction valued at $23,810 was included in 40 permits, while 21 permits for improvements were valued at $22,690. In October 38 permits, valued at $106,190, were issued.

County Clerk John M. Whalen reported his office recorded 419 deeds and deeds of trust, a slight decline from the October figure. The number of deeds recorded during the first 11 months of this year was 5,405, as compared with 6,928 for the corresponding period of 1941, he reported.

U. S. Funds Available To Remodel Homes In Industrial Areas

FHA Loans Up to $5,000 Provided for Conversion Into Apartments

By ELIZABETH GORDON. If you live in an area where expanded war industry has created a critical housing situation you can make a real contribution to the war effort by renting a room or an apartment to war workers. If your home isn't arranged properly for renting purposes, why not remodel it? You can—with the Government's approval.

If it is a large single-family dwelling it may be possible to convert it into apartments. You may spend as much as $5,000 to do such remodeling privately, and this amount can be financed by a Federal Housing Administration loan, which must be amortized within seven years. If you only want to convert one room into quarters for a war worker you may obtain a loan for that.

To obtain such a loan you must have an authorization from the War Production Board. Your lumber dealer, contractor or architect can supply the necessary form, WPB Form PD 406, which constitutes an application for a preferred property, so that you can purchase materials for the remodeling project. When this form has been filled out, file it with the local FHA agency, which, after making investigations, will submit the application to Washington for final approval. You may proceed with the remodeling as soon as you receive a preference rating. If you would like to convert your own house or a business property into apartments but do not want the responsibility of doing it yourself, the Government will lease the property from you and make the necessary changes, paying you an annual rental. The Government will have charge of all remodeling.

Conversion of your property will be undertaken by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, a division of the National Housing Agency. This corporation will pay taxes, assessments and insurance while the lease is in effect.

To lease your property, file a "conversion application" with the War Housing Center in your vicinity, which is operated by the NHA. This is known as NHA Form No. 50 and can be obtained from the center. The form will provide the Government with information it needs before making a decision about conversion. If the application is favorably received an expert from the HOLC will visit and inspect your property. If it decides to take it over the HOLC will close the lease and start the work. However, before any work is begun the proposed remodeling plans will be submitted to you for approval.

You may live in one of the converted apartments if you wish, paying the same rental as the war workers. The remodeling costs will be charged against the rent revenues. The Government will pay all current operating, maintenance and trouble by using a new line of paints with matched pastel colors in three different paint types, suitable for interior surfaces: Flat wall paint, semi-gloss and gloss enamel.

These paints can be used just as they come from the can, and require no tinting or blending to arrive at the desired color. Just pick your wall color and then select its mate in either the gloss or semi-gloss type. The semi-gloss finish is fine for woodwork or walls.

Although the three paints are washable, the semi-gloss is more durable from that standpoint than the flat wall finish. The gloss is a quick-drying enamel, and has such excellent covering capacity that one coat is sufficient for most jobs. Because enamels reflect their surroundings, the gloss is a trace lighter in color than either the semi-gloss or the flat wall.

Companion paints are available in 10 pastel colors: Orchid, blue, light blue, turquoise, green, yellow, ivory, cream, apricot and pink.

House Signs as Gifts. If you have ever tried to locate a house after dark in unfamiliar surroundings you know how welcome a house sign is which clearly indicates the occupant's name when automobile lights play on it. When every ounce of gasoline is precious, a sign which tells people where they are would be a welcome Christmas gift. Decorated house signs, with either names or numbers combined with a play motif, make splendid house-to-house gifts and are a good way to say thank you for a pleasant country week end.

A couple in Connecticut has been supplying attractive house signs for several years offering, in addition to their regular line, the decorative motifs, letters and numerals, so that individuals may make up house signs for themselves and friends at a substantial saving. The background of the sign we illustrate was made from one of an orange crate, to which two coats of white house paint were applied. The stakes can be made from any strong wood, such as spruce, redwood, chestnut or cedar. Most families would have some pieces of wood in their handyman's corner.

Decorative motifs for the signs are 75 cents each, and there are four patterns available: bird, bunny, squirrel or ship. The letters are 30 cents each for the 2-inch size, the numerals are 25 cents for the 3 1/2-inch size. The bird decoration and the lettering for a name such as "The Osbornes" cost about $4.80.

If you would rather buy a completed sign, just specify the motif, the letters needed and whether you want a solid background or silhouette type. A silhouette sign with a substantial wood stake will cost $4.50, plus 30 cents for each letter used. You have a choice of a bird, squirrel or any breed of dog as a motif.

half the October foreclosures were in cities of more than 60,000 population and pointed out as a consistent trend that the smaller the city, the lower has been the rate of foreclosure.

Home Mortgages Higher. Despite the lessened demand for construction loans caused by the stoppage of non-war housing, the volume of home mortgages recorded in October throughout the country was slightly higher than in September and August.

"During October non-farm mortgages of $20,000 or less reported by all mortgagees, are estimated at $357,000,000, a 3 per cent rise over September but a drop of 20 per cent from October of 1941," the report said.

Mortgages amounting to approximately $3,400,000,000 have been recorded over the January-October period, 14 per cent less than in the same period last year. After three months of slight gains, construction of privately financed urban dwelling units declined nearly 20 per cent from September to October, contrary to the usual seasonal trend. The number of new one and two-family houses was off only 12 per cent, whereas apartment house construction in October was only about one-half that of the previous month.

Only 172,827 urban dwelling units were built by private funds in the first 10 months of 1942, in comparison with 328,030 during the same period in 1941.

The number and amount of new mortgages made in October, by type of lender, is as follows:

	Number	Amount	Pct.
Savings and loan associations	27,404	$103,170,000	28.9
Insurance companies	6,904	32,577,000	9.1
Banks and trust companies	23,227	79,224,000	22.2
Mutual savings banks	3,930	14,817,000	4.2
Individuals	32,844	67,623,000	18.9
Other mortgagees	18,605	59,672,000	16.7
Totals	120,914	$357,083,000	100

Ten Suggestions Are Offered To Save Coal in Furnace

By JOHN BARCLAY. Another heating season is on us. When tending to the furnace, let us resolve not to follow those habits which waste money, coal, and cause inconvenience and discomfort.

There are 10 such bad habits which every homeowner would do well to avoid:

1. Excessive shaking of the grates: A gentle shaking will serve the same purpose and save fuel. Shake only until the first red glow appears in the ashpit, not until live pieces of coal drop through the grate.
2. Using ashes for banking purposes: The only place for ashes is in the ashpit—with the exception of a thin layer upon the grates. If you fire ashes on top of live coals you can expect clinker trouble and poor heat.
3. Burning rubbish or garbage in your furnace: Your furnace was built to burn coal, and you shouldn't put any foreign substance in it, as clinkers often result and fuel is wasted as a consequence.
4. Operating dirty boiler, heater, flue pipe or chimney: A clean heating plant—like a clean automobile engine—will give better service and greater comfort. Remove all soot and fly ash at least once a year.
5. Connecting two heaters into same chimney flue: This practice retards the draft and causes poor heat. If two heaters are connected into the same flue, make sure the draft on the one not being operated is completely shut off and all leaks sealed.
6. Operating hot-air furnace without water in the humidifier: Dry air is both uncomfortable and unhealthy. You will get much more satisfaction from your furnace if the humidifier pan is kept filled with water. This is an important health measure.
7. Carrying thin fire bed: The fire box should be filled flush with the lower edge of the fire door. Contrary to the belief held by many people that a half-filled fire box saves coal, it actually burns up more coal and at the same time causes much unnecessary inconvenience. A thick fire bed burns better, lasts longer and saves money.
8. Operating your furnace with damper controls disconnected:

Strange as it may seem, some people do not bother to keep their damper controls in good working order. These controls are as necessary to your furnace as brakes are to an automobile. They are simple to operate. If handled properly they will save much fuel and add greatly to the comfort of your home. Your fuel dealer can instruct you in the correct use of dampers.

9. Using incorrect-sized coal: For best heating results always use the size coal best suited for your heater. Today coal is prepared in several sizes, one of which is sure to give you best results. If the coal is too small it packs too much in the fuel bed. When this takes place it is sometimes difficult to bring up heat quickly.

Other troubles may also be caused from a fuel bed that is "packed." Because of the blasting that is necessary it is sometimes very difficult to have the draft pass through this bed of coals.

The heat may be retained to such an extent that there may be a possibility of clinkers forming. If the coal is too large in size the air will pass through it too quickly and actually rob heat from the fuel bed. Be sure the correct size of coal is being used.

10. Incorrect methods of firing: Always fire the coal so that the fuel bed assumes more or less a level position. The depth of the fuel bed will vary depending upon the size of the fire box. Fire the coal level with the bottom of the firing door, always leaving a strip of red coal exposed to act as a pilot light to ignite the gas that will come off from the fresh fuel. Follow the above suggestions and you will be sure to get more heat that will result in comfortable and healthy conditions during the winter. If you are in doubt about the correct operation of your heating plant, call on your local fuel dealer.

Paper Shields for Windows. If your house is not protected with storm windows you still can prevent large losses of heat by covering the inside of the windows with treated-paper shields, which prevent heat from escaping by creating a dead-air space between the window glass and the shield.

These paper shields are natural color and are placed in the upper sash of windows in occupied rooms, where they decrease the light almost as much as an ordinary window shade. Where light transmission is not important, such as in attics and basements, the entire glass surface should be covered by the shields. The window seals are supplied in rolls which contain complete materials for applying paper shield, tape for binding and a solution for cleaning surfaces to make the tape and shield adhere more firmly and later to remove the tape.

Tests show that these seals are about 73 per cent as efficient in moving air as a double window, insofar as its retarding of heat is concerned.

To apply the seals to the upper sash first measure the windows. The seals should be large enough to cover the glass and leave about a 1-inch margin all around the sash. Place tacks in the four corners of the sash. Before taping clean wood surfaces with the solution to remove grease and dirt. Then wipe off the entire edge of the paper shield. Tack up the upper part of the seal. Slice the bottom of the seal between the two frames. Now lower the top window and raise the bottom window so that you can get to the seal conveniently. Fasten down on all sides with the tape. Cut around the window lock.

The seals are available in four different kits, ranging from 79 cents for two 28 by 30 inch seals and other materials, to $1.25 for four 28 by 32 inch seals and binding materials.

Reds-Braves Player Deal Brings Snappy Finish to Major Leagues' Meeting

Win, Lose or Draw

By GRANTLAND RICE,
Special Correspondent of The Star.

Old Bill Brady Talks of War and Boxing

Bill Brady handled Jim Corbett when the pompadoured stylist beat John L. Sullivan 50 years ago. Later on the able Mr. Brady directed Jim Jeffries, another of the old-time greats.

For more than 50 years Mr. Brady has kept in close touch with boxing and the fight game in general, but he admits now that no one can guess what might happen beyond the fog of war.

"The length of the war will be a big factor," Bill says, "and who can say how long this war will last?"

"We know that after another year or two in the Army that neither Joe Louis nor Billy Conn can hope to be what they were at their peak form. I am referring to speed, skill, timing and reflexes. They may be just as healthy and just as powerful, but there is almost sure to be a dull edge on their sharpness."

"This doesn't mean, however, that they will be outclassed if they return to ring action. For who is coming along to show much more?"

More Boxing in This War Than in Last

"This war is different from the First World War," Mr. Brady continued. "The kids of 18 and 19 now are going into service. There is more boxing now, and there will be more and more boxing than any extended sweep of Army and Navy camps ever knew. This applies to millions."

"There will be a big average improvement on the boxing side. More men will know how to handle their fists and use their feet in the ring. But developing a champion under war conditions is another matter. It can be done, but it will take time—plenty of time after the war."

"We might take the case of Gene Tunney," Mr. Brady went on. "He went from the Marines to the heavyweight title. He was a fine all-around fighter."

"But don't forget that the Armistice came in November, 1918, and 1926 had arrived before Tunney could get the top. He was a smart, hard-working fellow who trained perfectly. Yet he needed eight years to get there. Three years after the war Gene still was just another floundering heavyweight, as he proved against Soldier Jones—I think that was the name—on the Dempsey-Carpenter card."

Few as Ambitious and Determined as Tunney

"Gene's boxing improvement came after he left the Marines—and you won't find as many ambitious, determined young fellows as Tunney was in his eight-year campaign. And on his way up he had to weather one of the worst beatings in ring history—from 160-pound Harry Greb."

"As I said before, there are several millions taking boxing lessons now from good instructors all over the country—camp by camp." Bill said. "The majority from this big group never would have boxed if it hadn't been for camp training. Naturally, many of these will show undeveloped talent that may lead to something after the war."

"We have several thousand kids here taking boxing lessons, learning at least how to stand and how to use their hands," Jack said. "Naturally, the great majority of these never could be good fighters in the ring. It would be the same if you were to take the fundamentals of golf to several thousand youngsters—maybe not even that many. But you would get a few who could take high ranking."

Less Than 1 Per Cent Reach Real Success

"It is the same way in boxing. I don't think many people know how many have been trying to get some place in the ring game—up in the thousands—but less than 1 per cent ever get anywhere."

"Boxing is one of the toughest games in the world to face. When you have a heavyweight champion, for example, you rarely have more than one or two challengers who are any good at all. Baseball and football and golf are full of stars, but there never are many good fighters—I mean topnotchers."

"I agree with Bill Brady," the Manassas Mauler went on, "that out of several millions who are being given intensive training under many good instructors, we should be able to dig up many more good ring fighters than we have had before. We won't have the answer for some time."

Cincinnati Bags Miller, Prized Shortfielder

Minors, in One Sitting, Finish All Business; Freeze Territory

By DAVE HOFF,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—The minor leagues' quick job of polishing off their business in one sitting brought the major-minor baseball party to a close yesterday and permitted virtually all of the various league officials and managers to be on their way home today.

The minors almost accomplished more in their one session—and raised more fuss—than the majors had managed to do in the preceding three days, but the boys from the big show threw in one parting salvo before they beat a hasty retreat.

Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, telephoned a railroad station in time to catch President Robert Quinn of the Boston Braves. By telephone they agreed that Quinn should give up Eddie Miller, the most prized shortstop in the National League for the last few seasons, in return for Eddie Joost, Nate Andrews and a fair bundle of Cincinnati cash.

Married, Have Children. Then Giles slammed down the receiver and the deal was accomplished—the only bona fide major league transaction at the four-day meeting.

Neither Joost nor Miller had anything exciting in the way of a batting average last season. Joost hit .224, and Miller .244. But both are married and have children, which in these days is as good as being a Dead-Eye Dick at the plate. Andrews, former St. Louis Cardinal and Cleveland Indian, pitched in the International League last year, winning 17 games and losing 12.

The minors, without too great a show of emotion, voted for a plan freezing territories of leagues forced to suspend during the war. This makes it possible for unwieldy surviving circuits to realign themselves during the emergency to make the best of involved transportation facilities.

But when they got to discussing financial matters, things sizzled. Some owners thought the cash-on-hand supply of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues—amounting to better than $200,000—should be split among currently existing minor leagues. But the Class C and D loops, who stood to get only a 25¢ apiece, weren't enthusiastic about the proposal and assisted in voting it down.

Waive Player Trade Commission. Other minor league bosses also protested that part of the cash fund had been built up with funds from now defunct teams and circuits and that it would be unfair to these groups to split the surplus among the survivors. They settled the whole matter by agreeing to do away with the traditional 2 per cent "commission" on each player trade and option until such a time as the association treasury should need bolstering.

Several individual minor leagues then went into separate sessions but except for such matters as setting opening and closing dates for 1943 and 1944, and making any necessary changes in the new season, preferring to await a definite Office of Defense Transportation ruling on the chances of additional gasoline and tire allotments for club-owned buses.

Ahearn Winner Over Ring Commission In Price Scrap

Allowed to Lower Cost Of Tickets; Opposes Ice-Melting Order

Goldie (the Kid) Ahearn, uncrowned deadweight champion of the District, was ahead on points as his bout with the District Boxing Commission went into the second round today. He made a fast start and had the commission reeling in its corner but the latter's durability and rallying power made a cautious hand in his pockets. The odds still favor the party of the second part.

For a guy fighting three others, "Gentleman Claude" Owen, Tom (the Bruiser) Morgan, Jr., and "Jarrin" John Agnew, Ahearn did all right in the opening canto, forcing his hydro-headed opponent to retreat and okay his move to lower prices for his all-heavyweight ring show at Uline Arena Tuesday night. He led through three fast habes corners to Morgan's middle, ducked a counter-attack from "Gentleman Jim" and clouted Agnew with Rule 5, Section 3, Page 39 of the District boxing code when he arose to object.

Ahearn had a cagey old ring hand in his corner in the person of Denny Hughes, a veteran of many legal ring battles, and his strategy seemed to be to outbox the wild-punching commission. Hughes made him go out swinging then advised him to slow down while he studied the slumy for more weaknesses.

"Gentleman Claude" and Tom (the Bruiser) weren't giving Ahearn too much trouble, but "Jarrin" John had a murderous counterpunch and seemed to be waiting a chance to put over a kayo. Moreover, he had a police badge. Agnew today was threatening to take Goldie for a ride in the paddy wagon if he runs Tuesday night without first melting the ice off the rink.

Ahearn, thinking of a $400 fee for restoring same, and of a possible $1,000 fine or 30-day stretch in the pen, was trying to figure a way out of his dilemma and ditto for Hughes. Goldie didn't want all that dough frozen, nor does he want to be placed in cold storage himself.

Giant-Dodger Tilt Marks Finish For Hein, Pros' Finest Center

Ace for 8 Seasons Will Coach at Union; Grid League Ends Campaign Tomorrow

By SID FEDER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—As a football game, with a bearing on the National League championship, tomorrow's tussle between the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers might very well be put on in a phone booth in Grand Central Station, for all its importance in the picture.

However, as matters stand, it ranks as the most interesting of the loop's three-game final card, because it marks the hall-and-farewell of the greatest center of his generation—if not of all time—Mel Hein of the Giants.

Mel—6-foot-3 and 230 pounds of offensive power and defensive skill, has been giving the rest of the league headaches for 12 years.

But it's definite. Mel, the nice guy and the great center, named as the pivot man on the all-league team for eight straight seasons from 1933 through '40 and most valuable man in the loop in 1938, hangs up his gridiron working clothes with this last game of the campaign. From here, he moves to up-State New York to become athletic director at Little Union College—through with the playing end of the game for keeps.

Had Enough, Hein Says. That's why this Dodger-Giant fuss, which doesn't mean much in itself, takes some of the spotlight from the Brooklyn Dodgers' season's last card. Oh, sure, the Chicago Bears, tussling with their neighborhood rivals, the Cardinals, will be showing their stuff for the last time before they take on the Cardinals in the National League championship. But the Cardinals are bent over with injuries, and a

Keen Wins Are Scored By Naval Air Boxers In Golden Gloves

Milstead Registers K. O., Rados Gets Decision; N. T. S. Team Leads

National Training School fighters lost seven bouts, but still got a rousing start toward the novice crown as nine other youngsters under Coach Bill McKeever's tutelage came through to victory in the opening round of the novice division of the Golden Gloves tournament last night at Turner's Arena.

Lou Rados, representing Naval Air Station, coached by Lt. Al Parrell, scored the most impressive victory of the evening, surviving Leon Goodhart's opening flurry of punches to get a unanimous decision. Another Air Station gladiator, Buddy Milstead, scored the cleanest kayo of the evening, patting Walter Hicks to sleep in the second round.

Naval Air's two victories represented the closest competition of the highly populated Training School squad.

Hot Stretch Duel Seen in Miami Golf Tourney

Revolta Two Shots Up, McSpaden Second At Halfway Mark

By JOHN WILDS,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 5.—Jut-jawed Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., one of golf's best front-runners, headed into the final two rounds of the $5,000 Miami Open tournament today with a two-stroke lead and no worries about the lead breathing on his neck.

"Somebody is going to win, so it doesn't make any difference to me whether I'm behind or ahead," he declared after wresting the top spot from Ben Lovinger of Springfield, Mass., with a 5-under-par 65 in the second round.

"But I've set my heart on winning this one," he added. "I've wanted to win it more than any tournament I know about."

Sinks Final Approach Shot. Revolta, who has picked up about $17,000 in Florida tournaments since he first gained recognition by winning the Miami Open in 1933, moved into the lead yesterday by sinking a 40-foot approach shot on the 13th for the 65 which gave him a 36-hole score of 135.

Revolta pointed out that he was four strokes ahead at this stage when he won the Open in 1933.

In second place was Harold McSpaden of Philadelphia, who had to work hard for the par 70 which gave him a half-way 137.

"As long as I don't do any worse than 70 I'll be satisfied," McSpaden said. "I figure about a 274 will win, and I'm not going to do as long as I don't go over 80. I had a bad second round, but I guess it was just one of those days."

Tie for Third Place. In a tie for third, as the field of nearly a hundred moved into the third round of 18 holes, were Lovinger, who slipped yesterday to a two-over 72 which gave him a 138; and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., who recovered from a bad start with a second-nine 31—the best of the tournament—to card a 66.

A tie for the fourth knotted Chief Specialist Willie Turnesa of the Navy, the amateur champion of 1938 and the simon pure leader with 67-71-139; Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., 72-67-139, and Fred Annon of white Plains, N. Y., with 67-71-139.

A stirring stretch duel was in prospect between Revolta and McSpaden, since each has the highly-developed short game needed on the Miami Springs course, where most of the greens are slightly elevated and offer difficult targets.

Backer of Underdog Gridiron Teams Has Banner Season

Harvest Best in Career of Betting Man With Navy Particularly Kind to Him

By LAWRENCE PERRY,
Special Correspondent of The Star.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—He was setting "on up" with a lavish disregard of expenses in the afternoon gathering place of a midtown club. His enthusiasm for football, particularly as expressed by his alma mater, Princeton, does not preclude an ambition each season to make money out of the sport. He always does. But this fall the harvest of financial increment has been far in excess of anything he ever has known.

This man whom we will identify by his given name, which is Norman, is a genial man about town of many accomplishments and deep insights—one of which is a cool, collected, unheated appraisal of sport. As to the last he never will make a bet on sentiment, nor in such wagers as he makes will he follow prevailing opinion. In other words, he follows a policy of playing odds on, practice which is a corner of the gridiron season of 1942 has netted him, in terms of amateur collegiate betting, what may be regarded as a king's ransom.

Has Banner Season. "Never," he said, displaying a roll of banknotes about the size of a checking dummy, "I have ever encountered a long afternoon gathering of the outstanding names on the honor roll of the dead through whose demise I have cashed in with entire satisfaction, to-wit: Navy as opposed to Army, Holy Cross as opposed to Boston College. Amherst opposed to Williams, Auburn opposed to Georgia, Yale opposed to Harvard, Navy opposed to Columbia. Navy opposed to Penn.

"I might say parenthetically that Navy this year was the most productive underdog I ever encountered in a long experience of underdogs. Well, to proceed, Illinois opposed to Minnesota, Georgia Tech opposed to Notre Dame, Iowa opposed to Wisconsin, Texas Christian opposed to Texas and Oregon opposed to U. C. L. A. These are the outstanding upsets which with a lot of minor ones my losses, were I happened to pick one that stayed under, are, if I may put it rather elegantly, negligible. So, as I asked you fellows a short time previously, will you have another one?"

Armstrong Removes Jenkins From His Path to Crown

Referee Halts Contest In Eighth; Victim Is Down Many Times

By the Associated Press.
PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 5.—Henry Armstrong, the tireless little Negro boxer from Los Angeles who once held three titles and now is trying to win back one of them, knocked ex-lightweight Champion Lew Jenkins out of his way last night.

Henry punched the Sweetwater, Tex., boy to the canvas eight times before Referee Tom Louttit stopped the one-sided fray and awarded Armstrong a technical knockout in the eighth round.

The two former ring rulers drew 4,750 fans and the largest indoor gate in Portland ring history, $16,892.

Armstrong, forcing the fight with mechanical persistence, bloodied Jenkins' face with a succession of left hooks in the first four rounds, and knocked him down twice—once through the ropes—in the fifth.

The same snapping left was good for two more knockdowns in the sixth but the seventh was spectacular. Armstrong put Lew down for nine times three times.

The third time it appeared as though the Texan intended to stay down but changed his mind at the last moment, leaped up and into Henry furiously.

He gave Armstrong a pretty good one over for the last 30 seconds but the Negro came out in the eighth with the same deadly attack and knocked Lew down for another toll of nine.

Lew got up, but the referee led him to the corner.

Jenkins entered the ring at 143½ pounds, Armstrong at 144. The former triple-crown holder cut Jenkins' eyebrow and cheek with sizzling jabs and dropped the Sweetwater, Tex., fighter eight times before Referee Tom Louttit called a halt.

A left jab to the head and a punishing right cross to the body finished Jenkins. The same blow sent him to the floor three times in the seventh round for counts of nine.

Braves to Share Griff Training Camp if Army Permits

Service May Take Over Field at Orlando for Use of Aviators

President Clark Griffith of the Nats reveals the Boston Braves will share the facilities of Orlando with Washington's baseball team next spring, but that Florida training site may not be available to either team.

The Army, it has been learned, is casting covetous eyes at Tinker Field, where the Nats have been training for several years. The field formerly used by the Nats there has been taken over by the Army, which now is considering use of Tinker Field's facilities for its flyers.

Griffith has been assured hotel space at Orlando, site of a huge Army air base, but if the Army takes over Tinker Field the Nats and Braves may be forced to look elsewhere for a training spot, couple of times this season and Phlatery and Edwards, of course, have more than a speaking acquaintance with Chicago's system.

The three of them will be in Chicago tomorrow to meet the Braves against the Cardinals in their final league game of the season.

Long Runs to Scores Decrease On Southeastern Gridirons

Drop in Rate of Touchdown Passes Noted; Only One Kickoff Tally Made This Year

By PRICE HOWARD,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

ATLANTA, Dec. 5.—Scoring on long runs, especially from kickoffs, is getting tougher in the Southeastern Conference.

The 12 members produced only 38 touchdowns on gallops of 50 yards or more this year—11 per cent of their 344 scoring sprees. This was a decline from last fall's 43, which represents 14 per cent of all touchdowns.

A drop in the rate of touchdowns also accompanied this dizzy football campaign. There were 988 aerial tallies—two more than last season—but the rate, 29 per cent, was a decline from last year's 31 per cent.

Only One Kickoff Touchdown. However, the scoring aerials were the most in eight years of compilations of these figures, beating the 1936 high of 97, which, like last year's 86, gave the coaches a 21 per cent return for the game. This year's 29 per cent is the second highest in eight years.

Blondy Black's 65-yard dash for Mississippi State against Mississippi was the only kickoff touchdown in the lot, compared with three last season and the 1940 high of four. Interceptions passed 13, more than 1941, but 1 under the 1939 high of 14. Punt returns were converted into 8 tallies, 2 under last fall's high. Blocked punts went for 2 touchdowns, whereas none was converted last fall and 9 in 1940.

Field goals—five—and touchdowns from fumbles—two—were the same as last season.

Black Makes Longest Run. Black turned in the Southeastern's longest run, a 97-yarder from scrimmage against Duquesne, in addition to his kickoff tally. The next longest was Clint Castleberry's 92-yarder with an intercepted pass against the Navy.

Georgia Best at Rushing. Georgia manufactured the most touchdowns, 54, led in rushing with 29, was top in passing touchdowns with 18, and set the pace in intercepted passes with four. Mississippi converted three punts into tallies for another high. Tulane was the only team to get as many as two field goals. Auburn and L. S. U. scored on two safeties each. Auburn and Georgia were the only members to turn blocked punts into points.

There isn't much point in criticizing the New York State Athletic Commission, as that august body has been worked over pretty thoroughly by expert critics, but its handling of the lightweight title situation was nothing less than noteworthy. Looks as if the commissioners might have decided they won't be in office after the new administration takes over and wanted to leave at least one good headache for their successors. Or maybe they were minders of that keeping the "titles" under the 13-man elimination way of keeping the big gates here and thus providing more tax money for the State. At any rate, you can expect Beau Jack or Tippy Larkin to trip over his long, gray beard some day when he's told that the 13-man elimination finally has ended, and he's due to defend his championship against the survivor.

Bethesda-Chevy Chase Beats Training School In Basketball Debut

Bethesda-Chevy Chase High's basketball team, runner-up to Washington-Lee for the Metropolitan Washington championship in The Star tournament last year, opened its first successful season after its big start yesterday. It routed the scholastic case season by routing National Training School, 41-21.

Al Vogt, former coach of the Braves, now is in the Navy and the team is coached by Ray Fearman. He has come up with a well-rounded degree that includes numerous experienced holdovers from last year, among them Bob Brewer, Havena Lettew, Harry Phillips, and Here Lettew. In addition to these, Bob Seitz, a tall newcomer, promises to be a big help.

Brewer was the big noise yesterday, racking up 14 points. Donald Durfee of N. T. S., was best for his quiet run of 13.

Today a year ago—Hank Greenberg, Detroit Tiger baseball star, was released from Army, being over 28-year age limit.

Conzelman's Great Talk Gains Long Desired College Degree

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Jim Conzelman, coach of the Chicago pro Cardinals, has realized one of his ambitions.

He never got a chance to complete his college course for a degree at Washington University, St. Louis, and it has bothered him for some time. But he had been promised a degree today—an honorary master's degree in physical education from the University of Dayton.

Conzelman scored an oratorical touchdown at Dayton last May when he delivered the commencement address, basing it on the young man's outlook on the war.

"I'm tickled to death," gloved Conzelman, "and I'll be in Dayton with cap and gown on to get the degree April 18."

The speech has been twice printed in the Congressional Record and the National Football League has distributed 15,000 booklets containing it in full. It is required reading material for every cadet at West Point.

over by the Army, and asked if his reservation had been received. "Maybe so, brother. I don't know," replied the soldier behind the desk. All I know is you've got to enlist to get in this place nowadays."

Cleaning the cuff—New York's College track coaches, who haven't any place to hold their Met intercollegiate meet this winter, are offering the program free to any club that wants to run it as a part of a Garden meet.

Bill Davison, Syracuse U. wrestling coach, must think he's hit a jackpot everytime he hollers for Andrews. Three of them, brothers Dave, Jim and Howie, are candidates for the mat team.

Steve Sundra, the St. Louis Browns' pitcher who bows for Sheriff Jim Carmick's team at Margate, N. J., during the winter, tossed nine successive strikes the other night then bogged down and finished with a 2-2 score. During the baseball season, Steve probably would settle for the nine strikes.

Pre-Flight Teams Credited With One of Best Morale, Training Jobs of War

Navy's Schools Make Fine Record on Grid Despite Handicaps

Game Is Only Sideline To Men Already Worn By Physical Routine

By GRANTLAND RICE, Special Correspondent of The Star.

Some one should go out into the deep-tangled wildwood and gather a few extra clusters of wild laurel for these Navy Pre-Flight teams, or Navy teams in general.

Under the direction of Comdr. Tom Hamilton they have turned in one of the great morale and training jobs of the war.

Contrary to general opinion, these Navy teams have drawn no outside breaks. Football has been added to their daily routine, the rough training schedule I've ever seen in sport. It is a man-making, battering collision that starts at daybreak and ends with darkness.

In addition to football it has meant boxing, wrestling, jujitsu, cross-country running, barricade climbing, swimming under water and every detail needed to make fighting men.

When these men finish this course they are ready for the toughest sector war has to offer.

At their best these Navy teams could have beaten any college team in the country with something to spare. But they were up against two killing handicaps—the weariness from overwork and the loss of stars from week to week who were sent into war action.

BACK ON JOB—Bill Alexander, veteran football coach, who, after taking time out to recuperate from an illness, has returned to the Georgia Tech team to prime it for the Cotton Bowl game with Texas. He is talking with Center Mutt Manning (left) and Clint Castleberry (right), aces of the "Rambling Wreck."

Midwest Teams Earn Laurels

For example, Bernie Bierman, coaching the Iowa Pre-Flight squad, lost five men in one week—five of his best.

The same thing has happened to most of the others, who had to face a physical schedule no college team ever approached—or few could meet.

In scattering these laurel blossoms I believe the largest sprigs should go to the Midwest—Michigan, Minnesota, Notre Dame, Wisconsin, Ohio State, Iowa and others who made this tough Navy schedule possible.

I also can add Harvard, Pennsylvania, Fordham, L. S. U., Alabama, Boston College, Missouri and other additions from the South and the Far West—especially Missouri.

But the Midwest, mainly the Big Ten, came through with the top job. The Big Ten has shown a tendency to face—almost all odds the hardest in the country. They had no breathers—no recess bell—no oasis in the desert of live or die.

Here's just one example—Michigan. Michigan had to meet Michigan State, Notre Dame, Minnesota, Illinois, Harvard, Notre Dame, Ohio State and Iowa. Yet Michigan added Great Lakes and Iowa Navy at its peak to this list. The same was true of Northwestern and Wisconsin, among others.

Great Lakes-Irish Tilt Heads Sparse Slate Of Waning Season

U. C. L. A., Trojans Face Easy Foes in Coast Loop Semifinals

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—A handful of long-winded campaigners square off in contests scattered throughout the South and West today, at least half of them inter-sectional affairs.

The day's sparse program brings a belated close to the year's gridiron activities in all sections except the Pacific Coast, where another week will be required to determine the conference champion.

A double feature awaits Los Angeles fans, who can see a pair of Pacific Coast Conference games this afternoon, one following the other. U. C. L. A. plays Idaho in one game and Southern California meets Montana in the other. If both U. C. L. A. and U. S. C. win as expected, the league title and the honor of representing the West in the Rose Bowl game will be at stake when the two get together next Saturday.

Mosconi-Ponzi Clash Expected to Settle Title Cue Meet

Leaders in Field of 6 Tilt in World Tourney At Detroit Tonight

By The Associated Press.

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—The world championship pocket billiards tournament may keep its dramatic quality right down to the moment the last ball drops into the pocket.

Today was wind-up day in the week-long tournament with Willie Mosconi of Jackson, Mich., and Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia apparently headed into a private showdown.

This afternoon Mosconi, winner in seven of eight games, engaged Erwin Rudolph of Charlton, Ohio, while Ponzi, winner in six of eight, met Irving Crape of Livonia, N. Y., the already unseated defending champion.

Thus, unless Ponzi were defeated with Mosconi victorious, the two would meet tonight in the struggle for which the fans have been hoping. The schedule pits the veteran Philadelphia showman against the reserved younger player in the tenth and final game for each.

In event of a tie, Mosconi and Ponzi play off Monday for the championship prize of $1,500 in War bonds. The runner-up will get $1,000 in bonds. At the start of the tourney, Mosconi humbled Ponzi, 125 to 0, in four innings.

Yesterday Mosconi defeated Crape, 125 to 26 in six innings, and Ralph Greenleaf of New York, 125 to 97 in 19 innings. Ponzi won from Jimmy Caras of Philadelphia, 125 to 48 in eight innings.

More than a dozen leading Washington pinmen will fire in the fifth annual Jefferson Open at Roanoke, Va., tonight, with Al Wright, Bill King, Leon Fleisheit and Ed Nash among Washington's last-minute entrants. Others will be El Geib, Bert Lynn, Perce Wolfe, Dave Burrows and Joe Pricci.

John Brookfield Keen.

Lusty pokes of 183 and 401 gave John Brookfield two season records in the Old Dominion Boat Club League at Alexandria Recreation. Another to shine on the Virginia drives was Mary Travers of the Virginia Public Service loop with marks of 160 and 354.

Slim McQuay, a 99-average bowler went to town in the Lucky Strike Navy Yard League with counts of 162 and 392 as Blue Print Section trimmed Drawing Room, 2-1. Torpedo Tube No. 1 moved one game behind the pacesetter Breech Mechanism No. 1, quitted with a 2-1 win from the third-place Progress No. 5. Lillafeno's 151 paced Planing to a 2-1 victory over Copper-smiths No. 2.

Milton Comley Florists pinettes maintained their one-game lead in the Rosslyn Ladies League with a 2-1 decision over Potomac Small Loan while the deadlocked second-place Arlington Trust and Rangers were winning 2-1 verdicts over Westmont. The four-place Virginia Hardware was led by Julia Ehlaupt's top 328 swept George Rucker Co. to gain on the leaders. Agnes Dixon of Comley Florists shared set honors with Bros.

while high-single went to Irene Clark of Gibson Grays with 125.

Crack Two Records.

An all-time league record went by the boards in the Brookland Merchants' loop when MPM Market posted 706 as Bill Dondera led the firing with a season high of 169. His set of 429 was part of a season high team tally of 1,828. MPM spouted to a three-way first-place tie with Nick's Shoe Shop and Brookland Bakery by swamping Rod Willis quitted.

Hyattsville Independents monopolized laurels in the Hyattsville Ladies' loop as Mrs. Farwell exploded with 134 and 367 and scores of 560 and 1,557 whitewashed Carr Bros. & Boswell.

Servicemen to Get Drives After Stars End Event In Chicago Landmark

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—The abandoned Auditorium Theater, a Chicago landmark for 53 years, opened its doors today for one of the biggest and most different shows—the all-star bowling tournament.

The field of 100 all-stars who have won their way to the big event through elimination tournaments in all sections of the country, will be fitted into 10 squads and will bowl a total of 30 games each in six days of firing. The highest nine men then will engage in three days of round-robin match play.

The 10th man in this competition will be the winner of a special 90-game match between Champion Ned Day of Milwaukee and Challenger Johnny Crimmins of Detroit.

The match game champion will emerge December 13.

The drives will be turned over to servicemen after the tournament, which is sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America.

Twenty Landon School Gridiron Warriors Receive Letters

Twenty members of the Landon School football team were awarded letters at the annual father-son dinner. Among the guests were Lt. Bob MacCartee, the school's former coach. Junior varsity letters also were awarded.

Masons Enter War Savings Bowling Event En Masse

Prize Coin Pays Freight; Chevy Chase Stages Red Cross Benefit

Inigorating impetus was given the drive for entries in The Star's War Savings Tournament, to open at all metropolitan Washington bowling plants next Monday, when Mike Cohen, president of the Masonic Bowling Association, today announced the entry of his entire organization, comprising 30 teams.

In a brief meeting last night, the Masons, like many other groups, decided to appropriate money from their prize coin to enter the giant tournament. The entry fee is only a dollar, but the rewards will be many and rich and, with full handicaps to be given, opportunity to win them equal for all.

The Masons needed next to no persuasion. "This is a tournament," said President Cohen today, "that no bowler can miss without being a chump."

Tourney at Ice Palace.

Besides lending a hand to a patriotic cause, Capital man and woman bowlers will be afforded a crack at some extra Christmas dough when newly appointed Manager John Mick stages a Red Cross handicap benefit tournament tomorrow at Chevy Chase Ice Palace as a part of the Nation-wide Bowlers' Victory Legion program.

Each contestant from an $3 entrance fee will donate 50 cents to the Red Cross. The three-game event which will start at 2 p. m. and run until midnight, will be one of several special week end attractions for Washington's bowling fraternity. Both sexes will receive a full handicap based on a scratch of 123. The winner will collect $50.

Hockey Loop Shuffle Over Week End Is Up To Canadian Teams

Leafs Have Lead Chance Tomorrow if They Beat Canadiens Tonight

By The Associated Press.

Canada's two entries in the National Hockey League, the Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens, have a chance to shuffle the standings from top to bottom this week end when they play two games while the other clubs are appearing only once.

The two rivals get together at Toronto tonight in the only contest on the evening's schedule, then take on the league's co-leaders tomorrow night. Toronto will be at Detroit tomorrow night and Montreal at Chicago, with the New York Rangers meeting the Bruins at Boston in the third Sunday game.

By winning tonight, the Maple Leafs could move from fourth to third place, only a point behind the pace-setting Chicago Blackhawks and Detroit Redwings. Then if both Canadian clubs should win tomorrow night, the Leafs would take over the league lead.

Two defeats for Montreal, however, would give the Rangers a chance to get out of the league cellar by clipping the Bruins.

The Maple Leafs will be without the services of their veteran winger, Dave (Sweeney) Schriner, tonight. Schriner, who has scored 10 goals this season, received a serious knee injury when the Leafs lost to the Canadiens in Montreal Thursday night.

The injury was diagnosed as a torn internal lateral ligament and may keep Schriner on the sidelines for three weeks, Coach Hap Day disclosed.

"It looks as if I may have to get out there myself," said Day, who also pointed out that Center Syl Apps has a strained wrist.

War Makes D. C. Clubs Give Up Plans for Links Alterations

Shortages of Manpower, Equipment Check Work; Golfing Sailors Frozen Out

By WALTER McCALLUM.

Shortages of manpower and equipment are making themselves felt on the local golf courses to the point where the course supervisors have virtually given up any prospect of extensive changes or improvements for the duration of the war.

"The situation has reached the point where most of us have reconciled ourselves to the fact that a maintenance job is about all we can handle with our limited manpower and equipment," said Dick Watson, veteran Chevy Chase greens supervisor. There was a time when Watson, like most of the other greenkeepers around town, had unlimited manpower and equipment to draw from. But those times are past.

"We can't buy any more mowing equipment or a lot of things needed on golf course maintenance," said Dick. "About all we can figure on is keeping the course in as good condition as possible with our limited facilities." In addition to the manpower and portable equipment shortages, the greenkeepers have been hit by inability to purchase certain chemicals for use in weed and insect control. These situations will not improve, leaving the greensmen faced with a maintenance problem with diminishing supplies and help.

Veterans Remain.

Most of the greens forces around town are headed by veteran employees who have remained on the job, but more than one or two men are needed to keep a golf course in first-class shape. O. B. Fitz at Congressional, Wuffy Cox at Congressional, Tom Fisher at Burning Tree and the other greenkeepers around town have problems common to all. They will discuss these problems at the annual meeting of the Mid-Atlantic Association of Greenkeepers at Bethesda next Monday.

Meanwhile the work of the United States Golf Association Green Section, somewhat curtailed, is being carried on from the Beltsville, Md., office instead of the old set up in the Department of Agriculture and at the now defunct Arlington Turf Garden.

Sandy Douglas Retired.

Alexander (Sandy) Douglas, veteran Chevy Chase Club caddy-master, has been retired, and Bobby Bowers, formerly of East Potomac Park, is doubling in brass as caddy-master and golf shop aide.

Woodmont Country Club's course gets considerable play through the week from enlisted personnel stationed at the nearby Naval Medical Center. But the cold weather of the last few days has forced even the hardy golfs to quit.

"Two husky sailors came into the golf shop yesterday," said Pro Gene Larkin. "They asked for a couple of sets of clubs and asked if they could play. I said 'of course.'"

"I thought it was a little cold and told them so, but they grinned and said they guessed they could take it."

"After the fifth hole they quit and came in and huddled around the stove. I asked them what was the matter."

"Tell you," said the tallest of the two. "It wasn't so bad out there, but when my putter began sticking to the green I thought we had had enough."

Gene explained that late in the afternoon the greens, which have thawed out under the midday sun, do a quick-freezing act when the temperature drops and that it is possible for a club to freeze to the moist surface of the grass.

Strengthened Lions Face Providence Here Tonight

Game Presents Simon, Graboski, Weaver To Capital Fans

Their hitherto loose-jointed defense bolstered by the acquisition of Cully Simon and Tony Graboski in recent deals, the Washington Lions will attempt to slice the huge deficit separating them from American Hockey League leaders tonight when they battle the Providence Reds at Uline Arena at 8:30 o'clock.

Simon, recently acquired in a deal with the Indianapolis Capitals, and Graboski, imported from Les Canadiens of the National League, may lighten a defense that has been the league's worst, yielding 80 goals.

Reds Are Weak Too.

Despite their second-place spot in the Eastern division the Reds have offered no baffling defense, either, for of the eight teams in the league only Washington's defensive record has been less effective. Providence has permitted 64 goals despite the presence at its goal of Mike Karakas, whom Coach George Mantha of the Lions labels the best goalie in the league.

A former all-league goaler when performing with the Chicago Blackhawks of the National League, Karakas was sought by several major league teams this season, but Providence requested $10,000 for his contract and interest did not run that high.

Washington also will display a third new player tonight in Freddy Weaver, 18-year-old blond who played with the Washington Eagles of the Eastern League last season. A favorite with Riverside Stadium fans last season, Weaver comes to the Lions via Indianapolis.

Washington In Third Place.

The Lions now are in third place in the Eastern division, topping only New Haven by a point. Washington is 15 points behind the pace-setting Hershey Bears and trails second-place Providence by nine points.

Washington's defense will be tested by such crack players as the Reds' Ab De Marco, the league's leading scorer, and Ossie Aubuchon, one of the circuit's flashier wingers.

In other games tonight New Haven will meet the Bears at Hershey, Indianapolis will face the Barons at Cleveland and Buffalo will tangle with the Hornets at Pittsburgh.

Frosh Smeared B. C., Holy Cross Coach Claims Four Led Rout and Sparked Other Crusaders to Greatness

By The Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—Coach Ank Scanlan doesn't want to "pop off," he says, after only a year of college coaching—but he does know five good reasons why his underdog Holy Cross Crusaders were able to smash vaunted Boston College in the season's biggest gridiron upset.

"The season, and our Boston game, proved how freshmen can play varsity football," Scanlan, a former Philadelphia high school coach, said at his home here.

"Everything is possible to a freshman. We started frosh tackles—George Connor, 17, and Ted Strojny, 19—and they outplayed Boston's great linemen. We also started Joe McAfee, a freshman back, and in the ninth minute an injury forced me to use another frosh, Joe Campbell, an end.

"Then we gained more ground than all eight of the B. C.'s better opponents. We got better every period.

"I shouldn't be attempting to explain 1942 scores, when we made more points (55 to 12) against Boston, No. 1 nationally in the Associated Press poll, than we did in our four previous games—Cohate, Brown, Temple and Manhattan.

"But I do think you have to write off October scores this year—because freshmen weren't stepping up until November. I'll admit I didn't expect much either from the frosh when the season opened.

"As for the team's spirit: At half-time with Boston I pictured us being ground to pieces in the remainder of the game. But you know what two of my freshmen told me?" They said:

"Relax, Ank—we're just getting started; we'll get three touchdowns in the third period. Well, they did."

A Lesson for the Week

Breeding New Kind of Men For a New Kind of World

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

By common consent, the world has taken on the highest task of all of its long history—a new sort of social order to follow the war. Slowly but resolutely mankind is making up its mind to become really civilized. We are getting ready to junk the old ways of greed and hatred and inequitable distribution of life's necessities and of bitter class division and of war. As we have gathered scrap for our hungry steel furnaces, so we are now preparing to turn in for non-conformers the old ways of our cruel civilization. We want to say good-bye forever to slums and poverty and undernourished children and fear-filled men and women. Above the red glare of war there has arisen before humanity's eyes the shining light of the sunrise of a new day.

Confronting the greatest task that mankind has ever undertaken, we perceive that it may not be accomplished by mere machinery or money. The guns that are blasting away the old obstructions are but a preliminary step in the operation. The demand of the church is for men who are different. As Paul wrote in our lesson text: "Mortify therefore your members which are upon the earth; fornication, uncleanness, inordinate affection, evil concupiscence and covetousness, which is idolatry: For which things the wrath of God cometh on the children of disobedience."

Not only are Christians directed, by the authority of Christ Himself, to be non-conformers, but they are also to be transformed and transformed. They are to be in the world as salt, as leaven, as in the Divine life. A changed church member changes things.

It is singularly true that the scandal of Christianity that, to outward appearances, many church members are no different from non-Christians. A large proportion are completely conformed to the world's way of thought and action. It is so, a passerby can tell a Christian from a heathen by the light upon his face as well as by his conduct. Real Christians are partakers of a new life, which causes them to be shapers of society, custodians of the standards of righteousness. This objective is a world so different from the old world that it may be called the Kingdom of Heaven. Nobody seems to have been quite brave enough to define the ultimate objectives of this world as the establishment of the Kingdom of Heaven upon earth.

Everybody who takes upon himself the solemn vows of church membership covenants to walk Christ's way. He agrees to do only the things that will please Christ. He accepts the role of a singular saint, animated by new motives and practicing a holy life.

Now it does not take a very profound mind to perceive that if enough persons follow Christ's prescription we shall soon have a new world, free from war and hatred and greed and cruelty and injustice. To attain this goal is the task of the church, since no other agency on earth can possibly reach it. It is the work of church members as well as ministers.

Meanwhile, the outlook is not wholly encouraging, in the light of the conventionalized Christian. A cynical paragraph has of late been appearing in the columns of the church press, credited to some anonymous "statistician," who says: "Five per cent of all church members do not exist 10 per cent of them cannot be found, 25 per cent of them never go to church, 50 per cent never contribute a cent to the work of the church, 75 per cent never go to the midweek prayer service, 90 per cent do not have family worship in their homes, 95 per cent never try to win a lost soul to Christ."

The Sunday school lesson for December 6 is "The Meaning of Church Membership"—Colossians, III-17.

The Week in Religion Swedish Churches Aroused Over Nazi Persecutions

Church leaders of Sweden this week issued the most outspoken attack against Nazi policies which has been heard in that neutral country since the outbreak of the war.

A storm of protests against the persecution of Norwegian Jews swept the churches as bishops of the Lutheran, Free Church leaders and laymen of all denominations denounced Premier Vidkun Quisling's anti-Jewish campaign and expressed solidarity with the Norwegian churches which recently presented a joint protest against the treatment of the Jews.

Only on one other occasion have the Swedish churches been so aroused. This was when Bishop Elvind Berggrav, primate of the Norwegian Church, was placed under house arrest. But the present protest is far more audible than the indignation which church leaders expressed when Berggrav was imprisoned.

The national-wide protests came to a head when the Swedish bishops issued a joint pastoral letter denouncing the "un-Christian hatred" being spread in different countries.

"Hatred is the most terrible, the most appalling among the dark forces let loose over this miserable world," the bishops said.

"Jesus condemned hatred in every form without exception. Hatred blinds and hardens. Hatred leads to perdition.

"If we want to be Christian we in earnest must fight hatred of all sorts." The bishops praised the resistance of the Norwegian Church, saying: "We were moved as we listened to the fearless Christian exhortation and words which our Norwegian oppressed sister church directed to those in power in her country not to rebel against the Lord's clear words by the use of deeds of violence in blind rage hatred."

The pastoral letter concluded by calling upon all Christian Swedes to pray daily for the sufferers and to give them further support.

Earlier, Bishop Gustaf Aulen, one of the nation's foremost religious leaders, decried "the horrible infection of racial persecution which is spreading toward Scandinavia."

For example, Bishop Gustaf Aulen, one of the nation's foremost religious leaders, decried "the horrible infection of racial persecution which is spreading toward Scandinavia."

"There appears to be no limit," he said, "to the depths to which hatred-blinded people will sink."

Before an overflow congregation in the Gøteborg Cathedral, Dean Ole Nysted, offered a prayer for the Jews, deploring the persecution of the Jews, and praying that "Sweden's church cannot stay silent when such things happen close to our frontiers."

The head of the Missions League, Axel Andersson, described the persecution of the Jews in Norway as "the worst atrocity in this war."

A leading Baptist churchman declared that "Norway has never had a so-called Jewish problem—these actions are inspired by strangers to the Norwegian way of life."

In addition to these and other outspoken statements on the Jewish situation, the Swedish Lutheran Church officially made known its attitude with regard to the persecution of the clergy in Norway when church leaders refused to invite Premier Quisling to send an envoy to the enthronement of Manfred Bjorkquist as Stockholm's first bishop.

The enthronement ceremonies were attended by all of Sweden's bishops and by representatives of the

Professor Ranks Jitterbugs in Class With Shakespeare

Less Emphasis On British Versions Of Language Is Urged

By the Associated Press. NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 5.—The head of the Nation's English teachers gave out today with the theory that both American jitterbugs and W. Shakespeare were hep to the jive. Both of them, said Max J. Herzberg, principal of Weequahic High School and new president of the National Council of Teachers of English, were made with the language—only in somewhat different fashion. "Hep-cat slang," Prof. Herzberg declared, "is the most remarkable breaking out of poetry we have seen in many years. All these kids are doing is trying to express themselves. They are really in the same class with Shakespeare, but they don't know it."

Slang Enlivens Language. A language will die unless slang adds new expressions to it, he added. There is a "juiciness and a forcefulness" in American expressions that can be found in no other language, Prof. Herzberg said, and as an instance he recalled the comment of an American marine describing a new tank: "You can turn it on a dime and get a nickel change." Simplification of the language is a goal for which all teachers of English should strive. "We are prone to be confined too much to British versions of the language when we should be developing and using our own," Prof. Herzberg contended. On newspaper staffs, he added, are found the greatest grammatical purists, for a well-edited paper contains less grammatical deviation than any other present form of writing. One of the aims of the recent teachers' conference in Chicago, Prof. Herzberg said, was to bring teachers of English more closely into the war effort.

Discussion Builds Morale. "A great deal of morale can be built in an English classroom through free discussion," he said. "It is just as important in secondary schools as military drill." The split infinitive, Prof. Herzberg remarked, is all right. So is that expression that has made teachers of English grit their teeth for years—"It's me."

He cited Webster's International Dictionary to support his contention. But "ain't" still has no recognized place in grammatical English. As for the hep cats, "even their language wears a zoot suit."

Farmer Substitutes Mule For His Weak Ears

By the Associated Press. SOUTHPORT, N. C.—Bennie Williams of Brunswick County is too deaf to hear his wife blow on a conch shell from any great distance, but his mule isn't—and that's why Mr. Williams never misses a lunch call. What happens when Mr. Williams is at work some distance from his house and food on is this: Mrs. Williams blows on the shell. The mule hears the signal, stops short and brays. Mr. Williams hears the bray and heads for the dinner table.

Farmer Seeks Return Of Borrowed Tools

By the Associated Press. OREGON CITY, Ore.—Farmer R. W. Oltendick determined to keep up his war production, ran this classified ad in a local paper: "Notice to my neighbors: 'Will you please return tools borrowed from me in the last 10 years?' Then he listed as many as he could remember."

A postal card with a note about rubber on it has come from a reader who has, I think, a sense of humor. Here is what Sheldon Kamin, who signs himself "a faithful reader," writes: "In school we are learning about synthetic rubber, but so far it is just one big blank to me. I hope that you will print a short talk explaining synthetic rubber process a little simpler so that perhaps it will penetrate my thick head."

The last words of Sheldon's message gave me the idea that he has a sense of humor. I feel sure that if he has learned little about synthetic rubber he is like most other people. The fact is that the United Nations would rather keep certain facts about this kind of rubber from the public. There are "secret processes" which the Axis should not know about.

Yet there are other things which were public property before the present war broke out. They are known to both sides, so there is no harm in talking about them. To start from the beginning, we have natural rubber. It comes from trees and plants of many kinds. These trees and plants produce a milky juice, and the juice hardens after it is taken out. Indians in South America played with rubber balls before white men knew anything about rubber. In the past century, Brazil was the leading rubber-producing nation of the world. That situation changed during early years of the present century. For more than 30 years, the main supply of rubber has come from Asia and islands near Asia.

Rita Hayworth's Dancing Conjures Astaire Debate

Ideal Partner Discussion Has Many Who Nominate Ginger as Perfect Mate

By ANDREW R. KELLEY.

Habit moviegoers will next week have a chance to see whether Rita Hayworth is the ideal dancing partner of Fred Astaire. This will be her second appearance with the agile and zinging stepping star of the tap and ballroom techniques. She appeared first with Fred in "You'll Never Get Rich" for Columbia Pictures, this time is melodiously framed with Jerome Kern tunes, played by Xavier Cugat's Band in "You Were Never Lovelier."

There are those who contend yet that Ginger Rogers was the ideal dancing mate for Fred Astaire, and the popularity of this co-starring team at the Nation's boxoffices bears out the claim. Ginger dropped the partnership because the preparation for these features was too exacting, since she had confined herself to straight dramatic roles. In "Ladies in the Dark," now in production, she has to dance again, but this time solo.

Rita Hayworth is no Johnny-come-lately in Hollywood. Actually this is her 36th picture. When she was 14 she made her stage debut in a stage presentation in California which accompanied the Trene Dunne-John Galt production "Back Street." In 1935 Fox signed Rita for a dancing bit in one of the industry's grandests for a dancing bit, "Dante's Inferno," which starred Spencer Tracy. Thereafter she made some 14 horse operas without winning any distinction.

How She Got Started.

Her climb to stardom began when she got her first "A" picture, "Only Angels Have Wings," and the way she achieved the role is interesting. Squandering $500 of her husband's money on a lush evening outfit, she got a table in a Hollywood night club in full view of the impulsive Harry Cohn, Columbia president, and Director Howard Hawks, led nature take its course.

When "Angels" was released favorable reaction was immediate. Lou Smith, Columbia's publicity chief, saw a new star in the heavens. She was instructed to remove avoirdupois from the wrong places by dieting—a difficult command because Rita likes to eat—was changed from a blond to russet red coiffure. In "Strawberry Blond," with James Cagney and Olivia De Havilland, she more than held her own. By that time Columbia's style expert, Maggie Maskell, had taught her how to dress, made her shapely, impeccably clad figure a fashion plate fixture of the women's style magazines. She even brightened the earth-bound pages of the National Geographic.

Zanuck Guessed Wrong.

Producer Darryl Zanuck of Twentieth Century-Fox, who had fired her once, negotiated with Columbia and laid a staggering sum on the line to get her for the role of the seductress, Dona Sol, in "Blood and Sand." Rita and the bull in Technicolor walked off with Zanuck's show, leaving his own star, Tyrone Power, a poor third. Since then "Blood and Sand" has been a flop. It is "Blood and Sand" which cemented her right to a place in the firmament. Today she commands about $1,500 a week, is worried about salary ceilings.

Dancing with Fred Astaire calls for an electric pace and good work. Since he reached the top of the Hollywood mountain on "Flying Down to Rio" in 1933, he has danced, other than with Ginger, with such partners as Eleanor Powell, Paulette Goddard, Marjorie Reynolds and Virginia Dale, the latter two in "Holiday Inn." Of Rita Hayworth Fred says: "She learned steps faster than any one I've ever known. I don't know how she does it, but she learns routines at lunch." Well, why not. She was brought up from childhood in a dancing family, the famous Caninos, or Spanish back-ground, and stars of many Broadway productions. Her father, Eduardo, planned her screen career, and her quick leap up the

Sheilah Graham Makes Tour of Hollywood Sets

Meets Joan Crawford's New Husband and Feels This Marriage Will Last

By SHEILAH GRAHAM.

HOLLYWOOD—Claudette Colbert, as French as she is American, reading the afternoon paper on the set of "So Proudly We Hail," turns pale and falls weakly into a chair. The French feet has just been scuffed. And after reading this, Claudette has to do her own comedy scene in the picture! She doesn't do it at all badly either, grabbing an extra and kissing him before they both embark for unknown parts of the Pacific.

Claudette is a nurse; so is co-star Paulette Goddard. Both girls are new leading men. Claudette marries George Reeves, Paulette loves Sonny Tufts. Let me introduce you to the new heroes. George has tolled in Hollywood four years. Apart from "Lydia," his film output has consisted of Westerns and "B's."

"This picture is my first real break," he tells me. "But I'm going into the Army at the end of it. I'm married, but we'll all be fighting until the war's over, and I might as well go before they call me." George is 6 feet 1, dark, and handsome.

Very Congenial Task. Mr. Tufts, making his first film, tells me that his role consists of making a huge amount of love to Miss Goddard, which isn't a bad break for any man, let alone a new-comer. Sonny belongs to the Boston family that founded Tufts College, but he became the black sheep of the family—"when I went to Yale." Sonny looks like Stirling Hayden. He is 14—6 feet 4½—blond, and handsome. And he is married, which is a great blow to the lonely females of Hollywood.

There are about 3,000 extras in uniform in "So Proudly We Hail." And as this is the set that all the soldiers come to visit, you can imagine what goes on. I saw a rookie slip into the line of phony soldiers, and march with them into the phony ship, but there was nothing phony about his marching, which is how he was detected!

Alice Faye Returns. Alice Faye, looking too fragile, tells me on the set of "Hello, Frisco, Hello," that her young daughter, Alice junior, will follow mama's footsteps and work in pictures—"about one a year." This is the first picture for Alice in 18 months.

Aherne's 10 Best. Brian Aherne has been going through studio fan mail of a decade and after this research comes up with what he calls the 10 best pictures of all time. Here they are: "Tillie's Punctured Romance," with Marie Dressler and Charles Chaplin; D. W. Griffith's "The Birth of a Nation"; "The Sheik," with Rudolph Valentino; the late James Cruze's "The Covered Wagon"; John Gilbert in "The Big Parade"; "All Quiet on the Western Front," original version with Lew Ayres; "Cimarron," with Richard Dix and Irene Dunne; Frank Lloyd's "Mutiny on the Bounty"; "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," with Jean Arthur and Gary Cooper; and Walt Disney's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Here's one dissenting vote. Somewhere a niche should be found for "Gone With the Wind."

Dan Terrell Parody. Dan Terrell is the F street poet laureate, who supplied the parody on "Tillie's Punctured Romance," which Art Brown is promoting in the Capitol Theater's songbook. Entitled "Buy a Bond and Pass the Ammunition," its rable rousing lines are: "We'll give the Japs a slapping! And catch old Hitler napping! With his pants hanging down around his knees!"

Rationing of Art. Friday was gloom day for the theater publicists. Uncle Sam, in his campaign to ration zinc, has cut down newspaper quotas. Hereafter halftone art must be confined to essential and must news photos. Means the praise picture is limited, and that by official United States edict, what Hollywood calls "cheese cake" or leg art is out for the duration.

Out in Hollywood they have been expecting this for some time and most of the big studios are prepared to supply a mat service. With mat, after the picture is cast, zinc can be used over and over again. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer was first in anticipation, has a complete mat service ready on the Next F street release, "Journey for Margaret." Rick La Falce reports that Warner Bros. is similarly equipped. They have been feeding a mat service to small newspapers, are prepared to extend it to metropolitan dailies to meet war conditions.

War Bond Drive. Starting Monday morning, December 7, all theaters in the District of Columbia will join with approximately 14,000 others throughout the country, to observe the first anniversary of America's entrance into the war by launching a seven-day War bond and stamp selling drive to be known as "Avenue December 7." According to the local chairman of the War Activities Committee of the Motion Picture Industry, John J. Payette and Carter T. Barron, the drive will last through December 13.

During this week, theater patrons throughout the Nation will be asked to help celebrate this anniversary by purchasing more War bonds in order to aid the United States Treasury Department war savings staff to raise the $9,000,000,000 needed for December.

In order to get the local drive off as auspiciously as possible, the Washington Committee has arranged to stage special ceremonies in all the theaters on Monday evening, the first day of the drive. The rallies will be held at approximately 9 o'clock at all the theaters.

At Last a Bona Fide Bird for Studio

When a film studio gets the bird, it probably doesn't come under the heading of news, but when a studio puts four of them under contract it becomes a matter of some importance.

Warner Bros. has just gotten on the dotted line the footprints of a quartet of ories. They'll be featured in "Thank Your Lucky Stars," the elaborate musical that has scheduled for appearances.

The birds are trained to swing in trees above the set and sing, which is just what Director David Butler needed.

Affections Alienated. Frances Gifford, who plays opposite Johnny Weissmuller in Sol Lesser's "Tarzan Triumphs," forthcoming RKO-Radio release, is the first new leading lady in this popular series in the past eight years. She was selected from among a group of thirty aspirants to the role.

Desert War Hit 'Props'

But Joe Behm Met Challenge By Improvising Armaments

HOLLYWOOD. War-time priorities and rationing have turned the life of Joe Behm into a nightmare.

Joe has been a prop man at 20th Century-Fox for 10 years. A prop man is the fellow who has to dig up everything used in a picture—except actors, of course.

Several weeks ago Behm was assigned to "The Immortal Sergeant," starring Henry Fonda. Behm will be very glad when the picture is completed.

Here are some of the things he had to produce:

One armored Bren gun-carrier (British), complete with Bren gun. One armored car (Italian), to be set after in one scene.

Six Enfield rifles and one Lewis machine gun (British). An authentic tin of emergency rations, such as is carried by RAF flyers.

Cheese in a tube, like toothpaste, such as is carried by Nazi troops.

As you can guess, "The Immortal" stripped to its chassis. Working from photographs, the Bren gun-carrier was built on one, the Italian "Sergeant" is a story of war as it is being fought on the Libyan Desert. And here's how Behm delivered the needed articles:

Two old trucks were taken from the studio motor pool. Each was armored car on the other. Tires for the latter came from the car-penter shop. They were made of wood.

The studio arsenal had a Lewis gun and three Enfield rifles. He got three more of the latter after contacting gun collectors.

Man-Mountain Dean Demonstrates on Ty

Sergt. Man-Mountain Dean, the one-time tussle champion, and now of Uncle Sam's Army, gave the pirates on "The Black Swan" set at 20th Century-Fox a lesson in the art of body tossing during the filming of the picture. Man-Mountain arrived for a visit just as Tyrone Power, George Sanders and Thomas Mitchell were staging a rough-and-tumble fight.

Director Henry King asked him for suggestions. Man-Mountain walked over to Power, grabbed him by the arm and threw him over his back. Ty hit the deck with a heavy thud.

"There," said Man-Mountain, wiping his hands, "is how it should be done."
