Explosives Seized in French Terrorist Roundup

LONDON (P).-The German-controlled Vichy radio said today French police had seized a quarter of a ton of explosives, 6,500 incendiary devices and 336 pounds of chemicals in a roundup of 157 alleged terrorists in Paris and 134 others in other parts of France.

War Department Eight-Hour Law Suspended

President Roosevelt today suspended the eight-hour law for laborers and mechanics employed by the War Department on public works within the United States that are essential to the prosecution of the war. This affects workers engaged in tasks relating to the storage and movement of war materials and the embarkation of troops. The men will be paid time and a half for overtime.

Workers on Sick Or Annual Leave To Share Overtime

Prescribing regulations for administration of the new war pay legislation for Federal employes, President Roosevelt today directed all agencies to establish an "official work week," and said that persons absent on approved annual or sick leave are entitled to the extra compensation for the hours over 40 worked by their units. The President has called for universal establishment of the six-day. 48-hour week in the executive agencies under the new law which grants time and one-half overtime for hours over 40, and the effect of the ruling on leave is to pay an employe compensation at the 48hour rate, despite absence, so long as it is approved. Concurrently the District Commissioners today decided that the municipal government would continue to work a 44-hour week Commissioners had been advised by municipal department executives there was no need for the city divisions to work the extra four hours. Details of the overtime pay bill as applied to muncipal workers were being considered today at a meeting of a group including Corporation Counsel Richmond B. Keech and District Budget Officer Walter L.

The law, which provides a 10 per cent flat increase for employes who will not draw overtime, is retroactive to December 1, and the regulations provide that "official" overtime worked since the effective date shall be compensated at the overtime rate This will give back pay on a 48hour basis for the War and Navy

Departments, and on a 44-hour basis virtually all other units, the work week having been raised voluntarily from the former 39 hours at the outbreak of the war. The overtime pay and the flat raise is to be calculated on the first $2,900 of an individual's salary, with "ceiling" of $5,000 on the total beneficiaries of the legislation to those earning something less than In directing establishment of an official" work week. President Roosevelt said that no employe would be required to stay on duty in excess of the fixed hours "except upon the order of the head of the department or agency or of such officer or employer as has been dele-

that can be earned, which limits

gated specific authority to require such additional work. The hourly rate of an employe's compensation is to be figured at oneeighth of a day's work, and a day's pay-under the law-will be 1-360th of the per-annum salary. Where leave is taken without pay, therefore, the deduction for a day will be 1-360th of the annual pay.

GPO Asks Ruling. The regulations were expected to clarify the situation with regards to Government Printing Office employes, but made no mention of this group, and as a result, officials there expected to send a request for a ruling to the Controller General, later today.

The pay law is open to an interpreptation that would bar any GPO workers from its benefits, but officials are certain that the overtime grant will be applicable to approximately 1,000 per annum employes. About 7,000 persons on an hourly basis, are not expected to benefit because they already receive overtime pay, and it is not believed the rary government to unite all flat increase will be applicable to

Minister Protests Forcing Church to Collect Victory Tax

Dr. James H. Taylor, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, yesterday protested the Government's method of collecting the victory tax from ministers and other church For hours the rescue operations employes by requiring the church of the principle of "separation of church and state."

His protest was made during the morning service yesterday when he released by the railway after the body of a small child lying be- read a prepared statement outearlier reports had listed a total side the station building. Whether lining his views. He emphasized of 232 casualties, including 32 she was thrown there by the impact or crawled there before she of the tax itself-but only the method of collection.

"As far as I am personally concerned," said Dr. Taylor, "I want direct to the Government as I do my income tax.

"Let this be clearly understood in advance. I am not raising any question here about the wisdom or necessity of the Victory tax. I desire to speak of the fact that it is implied in the law that the church shall collect the tax from the min-

"The law states, as I understand it, that the employer is to withhold 5 per cent of the wages or the salary of the employe. Now the minister may be regarded as an employe of the church and so the church may also be regarded as an employer. Then the church has been designated by the States as an agent for the collection of taxes of its employes, of the minister, of the sextons, or of other persons em-

"This assumed apointment of the church by the State, as a collector of taxes, is in clear violation of the fundamental principle of our belief in the separation of church and State, and means an entering wedge into the destruction of our religious liberty. "We ministers of the gospel will pay our Victory tax promptly and willingly to the Government, as many of us are doing now in respect to the income tax. But I do protest against designating the church as a tax collector. It violates, in my opinion, the fundamental principle of the separation of church and State."

Cols. De Rohan, Semmes And Gen. Harmon Win Citations

Two Washington Army officers and one from nearby Virginia were among nine officers and enlisted men who have received decorations for bravery or meritorious services during the Allied invasion of North Africa, the War Department announced today.

They are Lt. Col. Harry H. Semmes, cavalry officer of 3000 Thirty-ninth street N.W.; Col. Frederick J. De Rohan, cavalry officer, of the Wardman Park Hotel, and Maj. Gen. Ernest N. Harmon of

Brig. Gen. Lucien K. Truscott of Charlottesville, Va., also received one of the awards which were presented by Maj. Gen. George S. Patton, commanding general of the Western Task Force in the North Africa operations, at ceremonies at the American Army headquarters in Morocco. Gen. Patton Honored.

Gen. Patton himself received an Oak Leaf Cluster to his Distinguished Service Medal for "planning and execution of the attack on French Morocco."

Gen, Harmon was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for conduct at Safi, where the War Department said he demonstrated "the highest character of combat leader-After attacking the harbor and town, Gen. Harmon led his force on a 90-mile march ending with the forcing of a river crossing. He had previously been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry during American landing operations on the Morocco coast.

Gen. Truscott won the Distinguished Service Medal for his part in leading the landing operations November 8 at Port Lyauty. The town and harbor were captured against superior resisting forces.

Col. Semmes added an oak leaf cluster to the Distinguished Service Cross and cluster he received in the First World War. He was well known as a patent lawyer in Washington until he was commissioned and returned to the Army last March. The War Department said he rallied American tanks against a larger force of hostile tanks knocking out four of the opposition and scattering the remainder.

Son Also Saw Action. Col. Semmes left his own tank to organize his forces personally. His son, Harry H. Semmes, jr., a lieutenant in the Armored Force, saw action at Port Lyautey.

Col. De Rohan was awarded the Silver Star for commanding the assault force which captured the old fort of Kaspa at Mehdia, near Port Lyautey. "Under intense machinegun fire, mortar and artillery fire, the War Department announcement said, Col. De Rohan co-ordinated fort by storm.

Senate had amended the bill to strike out the retroactive date, it would have had to go back to the House for action on that change and it was feared in some quarters that such a course might have tied the bill up on adjournment day, since one objection would have been sufficient to block action.

Teachers were not covered by the temporary general pay bill which became law last week because the only municipal employes included in the bill were those subject to the Classification Act. The teachers have a separate pay law. Senator McCarren said there is no

"servant of the District more entitled to proper compensation than the policemen and firemen, because neither is really ever off duty, inasmuch as they never know when they may be called from their homes.' Every one in the Government who has anything to agreement that it would be a good idea not to announce any rationing measures unless they are ready to be put into operation-if we could help it. But the new system of point rationing, which you will find explained in temorrow morning's newspapers, will require the cooperation of thousands of wholesalers, hundreds of thousands of retail grocers and of the million and a half of local OPA volunteers.

To familiarize them with their parts in the program will take time and in that time partial and mistaken stories are likely to get around as to what is going on and what is intended. So it seemed best to tell the people tonight what is intended and why, even though it is not going to be put into operation till some time in February.

Cites Figures on Anticipated Larger Farm Production in Coming Year

Following is the text of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard's radio address last night:

Tonight I want to talk about the Nation's food supply. The way we manage our food supply will have a lot to do with how soon we win this war. Food is a weapon—a most our fighting Allies will need about a powerful weapon. And the food we quarter of all the food that we proconsume here at home is just as much a material of war as the food Incomes Are Greater we send abroad to our soldiers and | For Many People. What are the essentials for the of others. right kind of a food program? Basically, they are simple. First, we need to produce as much of the right kinds of food as we can. Second, we must see to it that this food, once produced, is used where it will do the most good.

So far as food production is conably well. For three years in succession, our farmers have broken all previous high records. If you can't buy all the butter, bacon or beefsteak you want, it isn't the farmer's fault. He has done his part; has done it in spite of many obstacles, and is making plans to do it again in 1943. The same is also true of the food processing industry which has likewise done well in spite of obstacles.

Rationing Is Fairest Way To Assure Food for All

Moreover, there are definite limits to the amounts of food we can produce. We have only so much good many beef cattle, so many fruit trees. Labor, steel, rubber and many other materials are scarce. If we production, we will have less for our armed forces and for other war production.

For instance, the steel that will go into canned foods for civilians next year will be enough to make 22,900 medium tanks. That is something to remember the next time you are inconvenienced by the smaller

Since there are limits on our We cannot afford to waste food or to give some people more than their fair share. Even though the total supply of food is enough to go around, people in some communities today are unable to get their fair share of certain kinds of food. That is why canned fruits and vegetables will be rationed, and that is why meat is going to be rationed.

Rationing of some foods is the best and fairest way to be sure empty shelves in crowded defense It is a way to assure the health of our children. It is a way to keep people strong and healthy for their war job It is a way to make food a stronger weapon for winning the war.

Big Role in War Strategy. Since we are breaking all records for production some people may wonder why it is necessary to ration any food. If we didn't send any food to our soldiers or Allies our people here at home would have more than they could eat. But, of course. we intend to use our food as we are using other vital resources-to Confident Americans Won't Resort to Hoarding.

Pending the time when the program goes into effect, I am conwould face a much stronger German fident that Americans will have the to hoard dried fruits and canned fruits and vegetables or any other food for that matter. If you want to help the Axis, one of the best ways is to hoard food.

Also, it will be a matter of selfish interest not to hoard, for you will be required to declare all of the supplies of rationable goods you have on hand. Excess stocks will be deducted from your ration allowance. This part of the program, of course, is designed to protect the Of course, we are furnishing our overwhelming majority who always armed forces and Allies more of want to play fair. This table, appended to the text of Secretary Wickard's radio address last night, shows the nutritive value of estimated per capita consumption of the civilian population in 1943 as compared to the National Research Council recommendation, the consumption in the 1936-1940 period and the 1941 consumption.

The figures of 1936-1940 and 1941 consumption were estimated by the Agriculture Department's Bureau of Home Economics. Those for 1943 show the nutrients of estimated civilian per capita supplies under production goals: National food supply about as big as we had however, that every one will not get as much of every kind of food as he or she wants. There may not be as much pleasure in eating, but just the same there will be enough as much per capita for our civilian for an adequate and healthy diet. As part of the Nation's wartime food program, we should have a well-planned nutrition program. Malnutrition is not altogether a matter of poverty. Sometimes it is a matter of ignorance. In this as in other phases of the program, the Government and the people must co-operate. Britain already has demonstrated that an effective food program can mean a rise in the dietary standards of the people as a whole, even though there is a reduction in total food supplies.

All in all, British people are better fed now than before the war began and it is because they are dividing their supplies better than they did in the past. The nations of the future must see to it that their people have enough of the right kinds of food to eat. We have made a beginning toward this end. Now is the time to go farther.

I realize that this entire food program is something comparatively new to all of you. We never have fought a global war before, either. I am depending on you to make the program a success. With your support I do not see how we can fail. For many of us here at home the battle of food offers our greatest opportunity to contribute most directly to winning the war. I am confident that you will make the most of this opportunity.

The point system-known as Lord Woolton's food "currency"-is used for such commodities as American canned meats, canned salmon, sardines, rice, rolled oats, dried fruits and breakfast cereals. It was used for canned fruits when they were available.

Thus, consumers will be encouraged to eat the kind of food of which we have most.

Changes in the value of the various kinds of food will be announced about once a month. The changes in value will be based on surveys made constantly to determine what commodities are fastmoving and what are slow-moving. The reasons for food rationing

The Right Approach

Secretary Wickard and Elmer Davis did a good job last night of talking to the American people about the food-rationing program. Their approach is the right one. Rationing will be easier to enforce and easier to accept when its purposes are frankly explained and the people being threatened with the penalties of non-co-operation.

There is a small proportion of the people who are "chiselers" and hoarders and who will do everything that ingenuity can devise to circumvent the various war restrictions. But the great majority of people will be ready to do whatever is asked. and do it cheerfully, provided they understand the reasons and the necessity for compliance. In their radio conversation with the people last night, Mr. Davis and Mr. Wickard were frank and convincing in their explanation of why the forthcoming "point system" of food ration must be begun. By taking the people into their confidence, so to speak, they undoubtedly succeeded in enis listing much support at the outset that otherwise would be lacking.

This is an approach to the whole program of restrictive measures that should be thoughtfully developed as the war progresses. Rationing cannot be altogether voluntary. But voluntary compliance with obligatory measures can be gained by properly appealing to the good sense and patriotism of the people.

Procedure Traditional

There is nothing new about the Idea of rationing. Since long before the beginning of written history the custom of dividing food into equal portions during seasons of scarcity has prevailed among peoples aspiring to be regarded as civilized. The word signifying such sharing is very old. It comes down to modern usage from the Latin "ratio," meaning "a calculation." "a reckoning" or. "an account." Naturally, the phrase often, if not invariably, has had a military connotation. Soldiers had regular allotments of bread and meat in Caesar's campaigns. The practice has continued ever since.

Captain John Smith was familiar with the philosophy of rationing when he arrived at Jamestown in 1607. Many of his companions were dreamers, incapable of helping themselves. Woodrow Wilson says of him and them: "He was a partisan of his own way of making a colony, and it may be colored the narratives he wrote to be seen at home; but he was no sluggard at work, and knew how to take the burden of tasks which no one else would attempt. He at least found ways of getting food from the Indians, and of making interest with their chiefs. Though he took authority when it was not given him he made the lazy, 'humoursome, and tuftaffety sparks' of the settlement work, upon penalty of being set across the broad river to shift for themselves or starve.'

Massachusetts, in the famine of 1621-22, had recourse to a similar system of parceling out what sustenance was available to be distributed among the venturers of the Mayflower. The same conception of equity appeared whenever there was need for it during the whole Colonial period. It moved west with the frontier, was adopted by both the Union and the Confederacy in the strife between the States and always was brought into effect in such emergencies as that which developed for the Greely Arctic expedition in 1884.

Within the experience of living generations rationing, however, has assumed a significance especially "indicating the apportionment to each member of a population * * * of his due share . . of commodities in a time of shortage." It was in that civilian relation that both Germany and Great Britain in the First World War evolved "distinct rationing plans." The general commanding in Bradenberg in September, 1914, "assumed control of all cereals" Bread cards were in use in many German cities shortly thereafter. Early in 1915 the control of wheat, rye, etc., was "followed by that of practically every article of daily consumption." A "central company" was organized with the support and approval of be made available to consumers until the Imperial Food Bureau, and "the | such time as normal operations could country's supplies were thus cen-

was set up in August, 1914, and "the date gasoline coupons last week end. cabinet decided upon a rationing scheme . . under which each householder was invited to register with a particular retailer" in June, 1917. Some 1800 "food control committees" were appointed and on January 1, 1918, "the rationing of individuals began," covering tea. margarine, bacon and cheese, then meats and fats. Each person received two cards with numbered coupons. This procedure was simplified when a single book was issued to each individual on July 14, 1918. By the end of the restriction in May, 1919, it was agreed that it had served its purpose-"the prevention of injustice, waste and fraud."

The Single Objective

While General Henri Giraud seemed the logical successor to Admiral Darlan, there was room for disturbing doubt whether he would inherit the political support of the elements in French North Africa whose allegiance to Darlan stemmed from their loyalty to Marshal Petain. This doubt now has been temporarily resolved by the prompt and unanimous action of the French Imperial Council, dominated by the Governors of French Morocco, French West Africa and Algeria-men whose support gave Darlan his power.

But General Giraud's ability to hold what he has gained will depend largely upon the unanimity with which his own statement of objective is adopted by his countrymen-and are asked to co-operate, instead of by the friends of France in Great Britain and the United States. "Only one thing counts: France and her empire; there is but one aim: Victory." If Frenchmen everywhere can unite behind that rallying cry, forgetting other things until victory is secure, the dramatic course of events which led to Giraud's assumption of command will have been providential, indeed. The inability in France to forget other things while remembering only the single aim of victory was a cause of her undoing.

> But there already are those who will want to tell General Giraud to occupy himself immediately with the removal of some of the incidental results of Germany's subjugation of France before proceeding directly to the main job of removing France from that subjugation. He is being advised to release political prisoners, remove refugees from concentration camps, abolish the laws dictated from Vichy, establish freedom of the press, call the Arabs and the Jewish leaders into his councils and by other gestures and devices to demonstrate his utter repudiation of Nazidom and Vichy. Some of the Free French in London are reported to be at work already on a "four-point" program for French unity-when the need is for a one-point program. And it is to be assumed that the same elements in America, comfortably distant from the scene of action, who bitterly criticized Darlan will be as quick to criticize General Giraud for any delay in proving to them his sympathy with their assorted ideas of what should be done on various political fronts.

For Americans, as well as for Frenchmen, Secretary Hull gives sound advice in emphasizing that now "the all-important consideration is that we be not diverted from the supreme objective * * * for control the African continent and the Mediterranean." Let other desirable steps to efface Nazi influence from North Africa await the first and essential step-the removal of the Nazis from North Africa. General Giraud is a soldier. Let him act as a soldier, not a politician.

Wartime Food Problems

Announcement of the plan to ration all canned, dried and frozen fruits and vegetables, following the suggestion from Donald Nelson, chief of the War Production Board. that consideration should be given the advisability of storing large stocks of food, clothing and other necessities near the big civilian consuming points, is indicative of the critical conditions that will be faced in this country during the coming

Neither Mr. Nelson's proposal nor the rationing announcement was intended to alarm the people, however, and they should not have that effect. On the contrary, there is ground for reassurance in the fact that top officials are taking steps to safeguard civilian supplies-food in particular before the problem reaches an acute stage. It is unfortunate that this task was not tackled seriously six months or more ago. Had that been done, the probabilities are that there would be much less deprivation this winter. But it was not done, and this past opportunity cannot be recaptured. It is possible, even at this late date, however, to guard against a real breakdown in food supply, and this is what Mr. Nelson, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard and others propose to do. They believe that while shortages in many lines of food are inevitable, no one actually will go hungry because of any distribution failure. And this, under the circumstances, is about the most that can be expected.

Mr. Nelson's recommendation closely parallels the program being devised by Secretary Wickard, as food administrator. The objective apparently is to maintain, under Government control, reserves of food and other essentials. In event of emergencies, such as that which stripped the East Coast of fuel oil a few days ago, these reserves would be resumed. Had something of this sort been in effect with respect to Meanwhile, in Britain a "royal fuel, for instance, it probably would not have been necessary to invali-

There is a further aspect of this matter, however, which concerns the effect of the war on the country's distribution system, that term being used to include wholesale and retail establishments as well as transportation itself. The exigencies of war, aggravated in some respects by official incompetence, already have borne down heavily on the Nation's wholesalers and retailers, particularly the latter. And, as Mr. Nelson points out, this pressure will increase as the war progresses. "In this connection," he said, "we must squarely face the fact that the entire lines of some distributors will be eliminated and major parts of the lines of others no longer will be available."

In other words, many stores will be eliminated, and this at a time when transportation limitations will cut into the distribution of a restricted supply of food, and when, for the same reason, the individual consumers will find it more difficult to reach the dwindling number of places where food and other commodities are sold.

All of these factors lend indorsement to the wisdom of maintaining substantial storage depots for emergency purposes and rationing certain commodities to insure maintenance of a better balance among available supplies. As protection against unnecessary hardships, or worse, this is something that we can, and should, do.

Synthetic Rubber If Senator Gillette is correct in his assertion that the synthetic rubber program is two or three months behind schedule, the Agriculture Subcommittee which he heads can render a real public service by ascertaining and publicizing the reasons for this delay.

It has been asserted that the synthetic rubber plants slated to come into production during 1943 can be in operation in time to meet the Nation's rubber needs-provided the materials for the construction of these plants are made available. Hence, the natural inference from Senator Gillette's comment is that the necessary materials have not been forthcoming, and if this is the case there is ample reason to demand a public explanation.

Asserting that the "over-all situation" is a desperate one, the Iowa Senator said the thing that disturbs him is the apparent "complacency" in bringing synthetic rubber into production. At the same time, however, he expressed the belief that Rubber Administrator William M. Jeffers is doing his best to get the rubber program under way. This points to the conclusion that the complacency which disturbs Senator Gillette is to be found in the War Production Board, presumably on the part of those who control the allocation of materials.

In this connection it should be recalled that the Baruch report described the rubber shortage as our number one problem, and recent experience with localized curtailment of private transportation because of a temporary depletion of gasoline stocks serves to confirm this estimate.

There are two basic aspects of this matter, and neither complacency nor anything else should be permitted to obscure them. The first is that the breakdown of private transportation which surely would follow a failure to meet our synthetic rubber schedule would be a major disaster. The second is that the schedule can be met if the officials in charge of the war program want to

It is to be hoped, therefore, that Senator Gillette and his subcommittee will go to the heart of this matter, and that a full explanation will be demanded if it is found that there is a disposition on any one's part to push the synthetic rubber program down to a secondary status.

Nimrod in Reverse

Nimrod is described as a mighty hunter, his prowess recorded for all time in the Scriptures. The impression is created that he never missed a shot, and always got plenty of shots. When he went out after feathered game, for instance, he got the bird in the field, instead of from his scoffing friends upon returning home skunked. If he ever did come in empty-handed, he must have sneaked in the back way and not been caught, which is all that counts. It is interesting, then, to speculate how the mighty Nimrod would have made out the other day if he had been with a party of his devotees on a lake at Carrolton, Missouri. The conditions looked ideal for a field day, even for Nimrod. A swarm of large Canadian geese descended, ripe for the slaughter. But something went haywire; these silly geese did not play according to the rules. Dropping on the hunters with a rush, they attained a position too close for anti-aircraft fire, and dive-bombed them nearly to extinction. It was all the hunters could do to beat them off with gun butts; not a shot was fired. It was too dangerous. The navy department, consisting of the man at the oars, fortunately was able to evacuate the trio from the danger zone by pulling for shore in a hurry. The geese occupied the lake and honked in derision, perhaps mixed with a mild regret that they had been unable to follow up perfectly and get their game bag limit of three hunters in one day.

It is hoped that among the ammunition now being used in the war against red tape there will be some real blockhead busters.

Sees Darlan Death As Unifying French

Entire Empire May Fight As Unit for Liberation, Military Critic Believes

By Maj. George Fielding Eliot. The very strong possibility that the death of Admiral Darlan may result in the unification of all Frenchmen now engaged in active resistance to the Axis, is one of the most important military considerations of the moment. Should this take place, we may very well see the whole of the French African empire, plus Syria, the Pacific Islands and the French West Indies, fighting as a unit for the liberation of the mother country. France overseas may achieve the regeneration of metropolitan France.

In so doing, and quite aside from questions of strategical position, important contributions to the military power of the United Nations will result. The existing military units, French and native in French North and West Africa would, if brought to full war establishment and properly equipped, be able to provide from 8 to 12 divisions, with corps and army troops, or an army of. say, 300,000 men all told. In World War I a total of 750,000 natives were enlisted from the French colonial empire, of which 665,000 came from North, West and Equatorial Africa. From this region no less than 379,000 native soldiers were sent to fight in France, and many others fought in lesser theaters of operations.

The total population of this great African bloc, including the mandated territories of the Cameroons and Togoland, is 1,200,000 Europeans, mostly French, and about 36 000 000 natives.

One great difficulty is, of course, equipment. In order to raise a great native

army in French Africa, vast amounts of arms and stores will be needed, and Africa has no resources of her own in the matter of industrial production, though this is not true of raw materials. Another and perhaps greater difficulty is the need of adequate numbers of French officers, non-commissioned officers and specialists. In some native units of the pre-war French Army, the proportion of Frenchmen to natives has run as high as 20 per cent. There is no reservoir of trained native officers, and little possibility of creating one. No native, in pre-war days, could rise above the rank of captain, and very few ever attained a grade above that of lieutenant; nor could there be more than one native lieutenant to a company or battery. There were no native artillery units, though natives served in French artillery units as drivers, mechanics and ammunition tenders. Thus, though the creation of a great mass of native infantry is theoretically possible, the job of forming and training all the vast organization of technical arms and services which is necessary to a modern army will be a particularly difficult one in Africa because of lack of foundation, once the possibilities of the existing military organization has been exhausted.

The tendency will inevitably be to draw on existing units of French troops (zouaves, marine infantry, chasseurs D'Afrique, artillery, tanks, engineers) and on the Foreign Legion for leaders for the new formations of native troops. The French units will decline in establishment and gradually disappear except for a few highly technical outfits uniess some means is found to keep them up to strength. The only reservoir of recruits for them and for the officer training schools which will spring up all over the French empire, will be France itself; and France is captive.

Under these circumstances it seems inevitable that great numbers of young Frenchmen, eager to serve in arms now that the French flag may fly freely again over so great a portion of the world will seek by every available means to leave France and join the forces which are fighting for her redemption. It seems likewise inevitable that there will spring up and grow a great organization devoted to the purpose of enabling these young Frenchmen to fulfill so laudable an ambition, and one so directly contributory to the success of Allied arms

The enemy will, of course, reply with repressive measures; Laval and his associates will do all they can to prevent men of military age from leaving the country, either by sea, or across the Spanish frontier: but if the whole of the French empire (save captive Indo-China) is in arms against the Axis. flinging the tri-color once more to the winds of battle, if France marches again beside her traditional associates to crush the traditional foe, the conditions will be very different from those of despair and defeat which have preceded the present state of affairs.

Frenchmen will never allow it to be said that only the natives of the colonies and the single million of Frenchmen in Algeria were found to reclaim France from the Hun. We are about to see the beginnings of the greatest "underground railroad" of all history, which events now taking place will inevitably bring into being

Defends His Contention That Preparedness Leads to War. To the Editor of The Star:

My assertion that disarmament is the best thing that could happen to any nation, so flatly disagreed with recently by Mrs. Alice M. Thurston, is based upon the conviction that arming is the source of that fear of one nation by another nation which precipitates wars. In other words, I believe that we do not arm because we fear other nations so much as we fear other nations because Incidentally, the sure-fire methods for bringing about a third world war in 20 or 30 years are not so few as Mrs. Thurston seems to think. She might turn to the front pages of any of our newspapers, go "eeny-meeny-miny-mo" in selecting an article, and find an illustration of a sure-fire method for bringing about a third world war.

Commends Articles By Army Officer. To the Editor of The Star

I wish to congratulate you on the recent articles by Maj. Gen. J. N. Greely, printed in your editorial page. They discuss a vitally important military situation most informatively and simply. I hope the series will be continued. I should think they must prove interesting to your readers in this emergency.

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

"CLYDESDALE PLACE.

"Dear Sir: "This morning, for the first time, a fine blue jay flew into our window-sill feeding box, stuffed his bill with sunflower seeds and flew away to the Zoo Park across the street.

"He liked it so well that he came back several times for more, disposessing a cardinal that had appeared in the meanwhile.

"At one time I counted six cardinals around the feed box, either in the elm tree immediately adjoining, waiting for their turn, or else upon the window sill eating seeds. We love to have the cardinals come and frequently watch them, keeping perfectly still in the room while they are on the window ledge. They seem to grow more used to it and to be less afraid each day, but I clearly notice that the female cardinals are the boldest; they usually come first, then the males.

"The coming of the cardinals always brings a lot of sparrows-invariablyand they are pesky things; they scatter the seeds all over the place and are so untidy in their feeding.

"If a female cardinal is feeding in the box and a male alights on the window ledge, she immediately departs to the limbs of the tree, while he eats his fill. Seemingly, he won't tolerate another cardinal while he is feeding, but he does not seem, much, to mind the sparrows, titmice, nuthatches and chickadees feeding at the same time. "These latter birds come in droves

about three times each day

"Sometimes a male cardinal will be eating seeds and along comes, like a red flash, another male cardinal, and knocks him off the window ledge without any preliminaries at all. At times I have counted six cardinals on the window ledge or in the box; their bright black eyes shining and watching right and left; ever on the alert for the least sign of danger.

"It is really funny to see how quickly Mrs. Cardinal must depart and sit in the tree waiting, while Mr. Cardinal takes his seeds with the utmost leisure, No gallantry, it seems, among the men and women cardinals.

"I want to ask you where all the titmice, nuthatches and chickadees go when night comes-I have often wondered. When the wind is blowing and the snow falling on a cold, dismal night, what sort of shelter do they seek and find? Have they nests somewhere to go to, or do they find refuge wherever they can in some tree and just hang on? "I think I know where the cardinals hang out-the ones that come to our window ledge feedbox, but do they have nests in winter as well as in summer-"I wish you would please explain something about the birds' shelter places, where they sleep in wintertime; it should prove to be very interesting. "Very truly yours, E. A. C."

* * * *

Birds sleep mostly in evergreens. These are their winter homes, and if the evergreens, this would be enough. Some species seek refuge in thick vines on walls, while still others prefer the tangled masses of the climbing

No birds sleep in nests except the young, spring and summer. The mother bird, of course, sleeps there when brooding. Contrary to popular impression, the nest is not the birds' home in any human sense of that word. It is merely a nurserv_ or better, a cradle. Occasionally the few bluebirds which winter in this vicinity will sleep in bluebird houses, but this is by no means the usual thing.

Sometimes the English sparrows roost on cold winter nights in areaways and on ladders and farm implements which are run under a shelter of some sort. Both sparrows and starlings will roost in barns. Starlings sleep on the ledges of downtown buildings. We have heard of a few robins which managed to tough out a Northern winter by sleeping in a barn.

Most of the birds which winter hereabouts ask nothing better than an evergreen, such as the yew, juniper, cedar, etc. Clinging to a good perch and sheltered by the overlapping growth of the various limbs, the songsters are able to pass the coldest nights comfortably. They also sleep in hedges.

It must be remembered that our song birds are highly developed creatures, whose normal temperatures range from 101 degrees to 106 degrees, and sometimes even higher. This high degree of heat comes in mighty handy on a cold night More than this, the birds are protected by their marvelous feathers. which not only shed water like the proverbial duck's back, but keep in the high degree of warmth which the little creatures possess.

It was not for nothing that our ancestors took to feather beds.

Another factor which helps to keep the birds warm is the high carbonaceous diet which they prefer in winter. Such a diet is warming. Every one can help the birds in this respect by putting out seeds, grain and bread stuffs. Friends of birds are everywhere, and between them all they manage to help a great many birds over the winter.

According to our observations, few wintering birds sleep in the immediate vicinity of feeding stations. Once we thought an old starling was going to sleep in the tray, but long after darkness came he silently flew away.

Most birds fly to the south when they leave a feeding place at night. It is impossible to know surely just how far they go, but we believe that most of them do not fly more than a few blocks. Usually there will be a large and luxuriant evergreen or several of them, and these are the usual sleeping places of the eaters.

The cardinals, being the first to appear in the morning and the last to go at night, would seem to be sleeping some place comparatively close. We think we know where a pair of redbirds sleep, but have resisted the temptation to trail them and turn a flashlight into their We do not feel that such a hard-working couple should be disturbed in their well-earned rest.

Let us hope that no friend of birds will permit his inquisitiveness to lead him to be a busybody. There are too many busybodies at large in the world as it is.

Discusses Influence of Assassination On the Course of Political History.

To the Editor of The Star Benjamin Disraeli, speaking in the House of Commons about the death of Abraham Lincoln, gave it as his decided opinion that: "Assassination has never changed the history of the world." How right or wrong he was probably itself is merely a point of view. There have been occasions when the sudden destruction of an important personality has had vast and cataclysmic effects. The murder of Admiral Jean Darlan. former Vice Premier of the Vichy government of France, is potentially, if not already in terms of established fact, an incident of tremendous significance. President Roosevelt's comment on the news suggests the seriousness of its im-

The truth about the admiral's elimination from the troubled European and North African scene perhaps may not be disclosed for years to come. His part in recent events has been a matter of bitter controversy-so much so that there undoubtedly are many individuals on both sides of the Atlantic who will rejoice quite frankly and openly that he is gone. But the Government of the United States dealt with him in a crisis of importance to the whole of civilization and, though the arrangement admittedly was temporary and expedient, now is not the time for any American to speak ill of a man who has paid with his life for an action helpful to the United Nations in their struggle with the Axis. Darlan probably was a Quisling of a sort, but it was not for that reason that he was assassinated. Indeed, if his murderer, as Mr. Roosevelt indicates, was an agent of the Nazis or the Fascists, his status in history will be clarified by the circumstances under which his career has terminated.

French politics have been mysterious ever since 1789, and this latest tragedy seems to be related to a tendency to seek expedient means for not always honorable ends. The list of Gallic politicians who have been assassinated includes President M. F. Sadi-Carnot, 1894: Jean Jaures, 1914: President Paul Doumer, 1932; Foreign Minister J. L. Barthou, 1934. But it is fair to admit that the murderers of the last two of these were not Frenchmen. X. Y. Z.

'Imbalance' Creates Lag In War Effort

Biggest Blunder Seen in Handling of Air and Sub Problems

By DAVID LAWRENCE. There's one word which describes aptly not only the status of the war effort of America, but also that of the United Nations. That balance." Unless the condition is corvious estimates as to the length of World War II must be revised and likewise all previous estimates as to the number of men who will wounded. The "imbalance" starts right here in Washington and extends to London. A necessary censorship over the facts and figures helps coincidentally, though not intentionally, to hide the tragic absence of a co-ordinated production to meet a co-ordinated distribution of weapons and supplies

The British do not see eye to eye with out own people as to the way supplies shall be distributed in this global war, and the military leaders of our Nation find themselves handicapped by incompetence of administration on the home front which is tending to impair the civilian economy and create such a painful "imbalance" as to have repercussions on the produc-

For, while much rationing is necessary, the maladministration and inefficiency that has accompanied it is inexcusable and indefinable-not the least element of which is the latest cry that "everything is needed for North Africa," a claim which is not confirmed by those who ought to know.

The central trouble, of course, is that the President is a poor administrator and that he makes the same mistakes of zeal and enthusiasm in particular directions that his coworker, Prime Minister Churchill makes. Both men are temperamentally great and inspiring leaders, but they have made some serious errors which in due time will be disclosed, and though these will not mar the broad record of leadership, historians will ask why their fellow countrymen were so acquiescent and passive while such blunders were in process of being made.

Sub Situation Bad. At the moment, the most spectacular blunder lies in the handling of the aircraft and submarine Having neglected air power for years, the administration now has swung to such an extreme as to effect adversely the flow of materials to build the escort ships and the cruisers, destroyers and capital ships required to convoy supplies safely and to break down the submarine menace

And the submarine situation is bad. The sinkings near our own coast have let up somewhat, but the losses on the other side of the ocean have mounted considerably. Much of the food, much of the oil, much of the gasoline needed both at home and overseas are at the bottom of the ocean. Not a single official estimate has been released by Britain and America since the war began to indicate the billions of dollars of materials and supplies lost through submarine activity. "Victory through air power" has been a good slogan that has swept the country, but it has come to mean victory through air power alone. Yet air power has had more than a year of huge production at the expense of other needed weapons, and the enemy has been permitted to increase its undersea warfare. Air power, it might be bases, but the enemy has been caverns to protect them.

Air power has failed parents who have not been able to to lick the submarines and to destroy the small remnant of Germany's nuisance navy. This is largely a British problem and more questions are asked about it and go unanswered than any other single phase of the naval war.

Air power has had its priorities.

but what has happened to the enormous amount of aircraft produced this past year? Has it been permitted to dribble away a little here and a little there? Air power is fully recognized as an essential part of modern warfare and in its proper place can make land and sea operations many times more effective than they ever have been. But our Navy in the Pacific needs more air power or else it needs a co-ordinated command so as to make better use of it in that area. The Japanese do not have a separate air command, but the navy controls all airplanes used in offensive and defensive operations in and around islands and other land bases. Propaganda for a separate Air Corps has cost America plenty, and the existence of a separate air force in Britain independent of naval or

By DOROTHY THOMPSON. My mind keeps going back to a statement made by Mrs. Roosevelt at one of her press conferences, two or three weeks ago. A feminine reporter from a college newspaper asked what girls in college could do to help the war effort. Mrs. Roosevelt is quoted as replying. "I believe girls had better get out of

The italics in this quotation are mine. They point to the contrast in Mrs. Roosevelt's words, On the one hand, she praises training-for something in particular. On the other, she outlaws study for "nothing in particular." And she implies that the one form of study will create people who can work, and the other won't

Now what Mrs. Roosevelt advocates is that everybody be trained and nobody be educated. For the difference between "training" and "education" is that the one is undertaken to fit the individual for a job, and the other in the hope of fitting him for life. The one tries to make an efficient mechanic, doctor, cosmetician, or farmer; the other tries to create an efficient person -for instance, an intelligent cit-

Had Mrs. Roosevelt suggested that girls who could find necessary war tasks postpone their education, she would. I think, have made a constructive suggestion. But she drew a general comparison between useful and useless knowledge, to the detriment of the latter

Question of Adjustment.

Now, I should like to advance the proposition that so-called "useless knowledge" is the most useful knowledge that any one can possess, and that the mental processes involved in getting it fit the person for almost any task that may come to his hand.

A so-called "liberal education" is training for "nothing in particular." It is pre-eminently a grammatical, historical, mathematical and cultural education. The advocates of "useful" knowledge have made terrible inroads on it, as higher education has raise the question: "What good will Latin do my child? Or calto need it."

The result of the substitution of "training" for "education" would be to create a society of people, each of whom knew how to do some one thing competently, but all of whom would be at a loss under new circumstances which rendered his job unneces-

Battleship Coming Back as Potent Weapon With Pacific War Sector as Special Field

By CONSTANTINE BROWN. Far from being an obsolete and costly war implement, the battleship is coming into its own with a vengeance. The so-called

"battleship admirals" themselves who also were described as good for the junk heap after the Prince of Wales and the Repulse were sunk by Japanese bombs and aerial torpe-

Constantine Brown. does, began to have certain doubts about these floating fortresses.

Nevertheless they stood by their guns and maintained that the modern battleship would prove the most important ship in naval warfare before the end of the war.

Now, after the United States, the Japanese and the British have lost most of their carriers, the ideas of the "old fogies" appear fully justified. An American armada of battleships and cruisers may bear out earlier than expected the contention of the "battleship admirals" that in an action over huge stretches of water such as the Pacific the modern battleship with cruiser speed and powerfully protected by anti-aircraft guns is the main requirement for a successful

Lack Anti-Aircraft Guns. It can be revealed now that the reason the two British men-ofwar were sunk after a short battle by the Japanese planes is that they did not have sufficient anti-air protection.

The day may not be far away when an American naval detachment comprising the most modern battleships will be in action and contribute to the final defeat of Japan.

The new American battlewagons have cruiser speed and are practically unsinkable by torpedoes launched from submarines or destroyers. Moreover they have such a large number of anti-aircraft gunsthe exact figure is a military secret—that they can withstand aerial attack without land-based or air-carrier protection.

KNOW YOUR TAXES!

Look at the table below. It shows the approximate amount of FEDERAL INCOME TAXES you will pay next year on your 1942 income.

Will it be possible to make your quarterly tax payment (1/4 of the total) next March 15 out of a single month's income?

If not, start now to SAVE FOR TAXES. Put

New Ones Going to War.

Early next year the United States Navy will have eight new fast battleships fully commissioned. It is a military secret, of course, where these ships will be sent into action. who felt something so acutely that they had to sit down at a desk and write about it.

Letters From Soldiers. There were letters from soldiers. One, a private from Camp Shelby, wanted to know why only officers could be served something to eat after midnight in the towns around the camp. "My pass was good until 6:30 in the morning," he wrote, "but not even a lunch wagon would serve me a cup of coffee. I had to get a newsboy to go in and buy me a cup of coffee and bring it out to me where I enjoyed it on the curb.

That's a helluva note, ain't it?" Another, from a paratrooper, who was trying to make Youngstown, Ohio, before the holidays, asked:

"Why is it that everybody on earth gets a priority card on airlines but soldiers? This is written to you from the Jacksonville airport where I have been for two days of my 10-day furlough, waiting for a ride North. Children get on, old ladies get on, fat businessmen get on, but me and my buddy can't get on. What's wrong with a soldier?"

Ask About Rationing. An old lady writes: "I am 65. All alone. My son is in the Army. B have made a little living for years by selling eggs. Now I can't get tires or gasoline to get into town to sell my eggs. What is going to happen to me?'

Salesmen write: "Thanks for trying to get us a little gasoline. If being chased out of our jobs will help win the war we are glad to oblige and we don't want any decorations, but nobody has even hinted at how it helps the war effort to keep thousands of salesmen 'grounded,' thus cutting off their means of support, their ability to pay taxes and buy bonds, while all the time their tires are rotting through disuse. Just doesn't add up."

Mothers write: "Word of my boy's death came today. In the paper I read of decorations being given those who are alive. My boy gets nothing. Is there nothing that goes to those who die for their country, unseen and unsung?"

This country needs an official columnist. In six months his mail will tell him more about how the people who make this country feel than all the politicians, poll gatherers and propaganda hired hands could gather in six years. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Fireman's Alertness Kept Toll Down in Illinois Train Wreck

Closing Steam Valve Prevented Scaldings In C. & N. W. Accident

DIXON, Ill., Dec. 28.-Investigators today credited the quick thinking of a fireman with preventing a heavier toll in the wreck of two Chicago & Northwestern Railroad trains here in which two persons died and 30 others were injured.

The line's mail train, westbound from Chicago, plowed into the rear of the transcontinental passenger train, the San Francisco Challenger, at the Dixon station shortly before midnight Saturday. The Challenger was carrying 489 passengers, many of them soldiers and sailors returning to their stations after Christ-

Shuts Off Steam Valve. Harry R. Beisel, 32, of Melrose Park, fireman on the mail train, succeeded in closing off the live steam valve just before being thrown clear of the wreckage and thus prevented a possibly heavier toll of injuries from scalding. He then went back to close a broken steam heating line which was hampering rescue

The dead were Chris Larson, Chicago, engineer of the mail train and Charles Voltz, Chicago, flagman, who was in the Challenger's rear Pullman which was pushed by the mail train locomotive under the car immediately ahead of it and wrecked. Besides the flagman only two other persons were in the rear Pullman and they escaped injury. 19 Cars Derailed.

The impact of the crash derailed three of the mail train cars and all made a scheduled stop shortly before Chairman Paul V. McNutt anthe wreck. The locomotive tender of the mail train left the tracks, rolling for about 50 feet before it crashed

Nazi Youth After War

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Dect 28.-James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany, declared last night that the Hitler youth "must be kept down by an army of the United Nations and watched as if they were convicts" after the war.

"Let the German people shake with fear-it is time that they realized something of the horror for which they are directly responsible, Mr. Gerard said in a broadcast.

America is not yet ready to decide definitely on a post-war set up, he asserted, adding that "some think we should encourage them (Germans fearful of post-war punishment) by establishing a sort of near Communism here."

The Hitler youth "can never become decent, quiet, law-abiding citizens of a peaceful Europe," he said, so they must be controlled so that "they can never again harm a world which seeks peace and quiet and all the blessings of a decent

Petain Decorates Admiral Who Scuttled Fleet

LONDON, Dec. 28-The Vichy radio announced today that Marshal Petain had decorated Admiral Jean De La Borde, who, as commander of the French fleet at Toulon, thwarted the Germans by giving the order to scuttle the ships in that French Mediterranean base

The radio said the admiral was awarded the Badge Francisque de Gauls (representing the old Gallic battle-ax used by Marshal Petain's supporters).

The admiral later dined with Pierre Laval. Admiral De La Borde was arrested by the Germans at Toulon shortly after the scuttling. On December 6 he was reported released at the request of the Vichy govern-

After the Americans went into North Africa, De La Borde renewed his pledge of allegiance to Marshal Petain and was reported in mid-November to have ordered the admirals under him to give new oaths of allegiance to the marshal.

Rosar Didn't Recognize Bed of Roses

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.-It is pretty clear that Buddy Rosar, a catcher now in the employ of Cleveland, never studied the recent history of the New York Yankee Ball Club, from which he was traded with great precipitation.

The Yankee Ball Club is run-successfully, by and large-by a pair of deceptively soft-spoken and fundamentally relentless men, Cousin Egbert Barrow in the front office and Mr. Joseph V. McCarthy on the field. The Yanks have been celebrated for upward of 10 years now as a great happy family. Unless you observe closely, you are apt to miss the point that whenever a member of the family fails to please Mr. Barrow or Mr. McCarthy or both, he disappears suddenly and more or less quietly

This doesn't happen often, thanks to the businesslike devotion of most of the Yankees to their own best interests, but it does happen. The names of Ben Chapman, Johnny Allen, Monte Pearson, Jake Powell, Babe Dahlgren-and, now, Buddy Rosar-come to mind in this connection.

Others Have Gone While Still in Prime

The six men mentioned above had one thing in common which distinguished them from other Yankee discards: They still were in the prime of baseball life and of potential physical value to the club when they left it. dered an investigation to bring out Tony Lazzeri, Joey Sewell and a few others departed from New York, the "full facts." Chapman, Powell and Allen never made history after leaving the Yankees, but Chapman and Allen at least retained strong market value for several years thereafter. Other players, less gifted, lingered on, because their personalities pleased the management.

The case of Pearson was the forerunner of Rosar's. Pearson, brilliant but erratic, aroused the resentment of Mr. Barrow and Mr. McCarthy by not living up to what they expected of him.

Rosar Picked Bad Time to Take Examination

Rosar's history was a rough parallel to Pearson's, but a much more emphatic case in point

Rosar is young and healthy. He was brought up in the Yankee farm system and carefully chosen over other candidates as the Yankee not play was made late Saturday catcher of the future. In the normal course of Yankee procedure, he night. Many in the crowd of 18,671 would now be following in the footsteps of Joe Gordon, Red Rolfe, Charlie knew nothing about it when they Keller, Phil Rizzuto, Tiny Bonham and other Yankee farm products who appeared at the park. took over the big job when the time was ripe. Bill Dickey slowed down visibly last season, and Rosar was his replacement.

The fact that Dickey and Rollie Hemsley make up a pretty good catching staff under wartime conditions, when older men have their uses, does not alter the basic truth that Rosar was the most valuable piece of catching material on the Yankee roster, as of December, 1942.

But last summer, when Dickey was injured and the heat was on, Rosar played hookey from the team to take a police candidates' examina- relations for the league, said Baugh tion in Buffalo. Whether, considering all the circumstances, he can fairly be said to have run out on the Yanks or not is beside the point. Barrow and McCarthy thohught he ran out on them, and that spelled

Devens and Broaca Startle by Leaving Team

I can recall only two cases where Yankee players reversed the formula and kissed the Yanks good-by of their own free will. These cases bewildered the Yanks at the time and still do. Mr. Charlie Devens, a great young pitcher from Harvard, resigned at the height of Yankee prosperity to work for less money as a stockbroker. While the boys still were trying to figure out that one, another pitcher, Mr. John Broaca, befuddled them by disappearing on the eve of a World Series that would have netted him five or six thousand dollars in prize money. Mr. Broaca 11:30 p.m. through plane or if he would be performing with his knee wanted to be a prize fighter.

Rosar as yet has gone no farther down than Cleveland, three places south in the American League.

Single Mistake Thwarts Tribe Of Triumph

Farkas' Unclever Pass Snared for Marker And All-Star Win

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON. The experts who said the Redskins without Sammy Baugh would be just another football club almost had to eat their words yesterday. Almost but not quite, because a short pass that might have sealed a Redskin victory boomeranged into a 97-yard touchdown run by Bill Dudley that tied the score and eventually paved the way for the National League All-Stars' 17-14 victory over the champions. The fray, committed on a field frozen in the first half and mushy in the second, attracted a meager crowd of 18,671 to Shibe Park at Philadelphia, but sponsors of the game said tickets bought but unused would swell receipts for the benefit of the United Seamen's Service fund.

Dudley, feather-footed Pittsburgh halfback, snatched Andy Farkas' pass on his own 3-vard line and moved down the field like a kite in a high wind behind a cloud of interference for the score that changed a threatened rout into a tight football battle. His run, almost a duplication of his 84-yard touchdown romp with the kick-off in the opening league game of the season against the Redskins, snapped the champions' winning streak at 11

Dudley's feat, plus a 50-yard march culminated by John Petty's smash from the 1-foot line, plus a tremendous 43-yard field goal by Lee Artoe, both of the latter from the Chicago Bears, were the winning ingredients in the All-Stars' attack. Andy Has Easy Target.

It almost worked. Farkas, who ardently has longed to be a passer as well as ordinary ball carrier, leaped high in the air. Masterson was in the clear and a short lob would have netted a touchdown. But Andy threw a sharp, low ball down the alley, straight into the willing hands of Dudley, coming up to stop the running play. An emergency ruling, adopted because of manpower shortage, permitted the All-Stars to employe more than four men from any one club yesterday and the Bears came up with 10. They got 10 points for the winning cause, but in the final analysis it was Dudley's run that won the day. In the waning seconds of the first half with nine Bears on the field the All-Stars reached the Skins' 6-inch line and couldn't put the ball over. They had a first down on the 3-yard stripe, but both Gary Famiglietti and Sid Luckman were unsuccessful in their efforts to nudge it over the final chalk mark. The Tribe missed Wilkin, but not as much as it missed Baugh. Zimmerman's passes were hurried, largely because he didn't get the protection Baugh usually enjoyed, and his timing was off. The absence of Baugh's kicking also hurt, for Zimmerman couldn't get a quick-kick over the Stars' safety-man's head and his regular punts didn't have the uncanny placement and power of the Texan, whose absence disgruntled his mates, to put it mildly.

Georgia and 'Bama Fear T-Formation in Bowl Grid Contests

Bulldogs Have Faced Famed Maneuvering Once, Tide Never

Vols Are Afraid of Tulsa Aerials; Tech and Texas Respect Each Other

By GRANTLAND RICE, Special Correspondent of The Star. NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (NANA) .-Who will win the four major bowl games, which is no knock at the Sun Bowl game, headed by a good Hardin-Simmons team? We have received the answers from the eight coaches handling these bowl outfits, where you can figure out your own answers. Wally Butts, Georgia-"We have played only one game against a team using the T formation. That was Auburn. You know what Auburn did to us. Every time I looked they were on our 10-yard line. I know we are meeting a good, desperate team, with a fine passer and a great field general in Waterfield. In my opinion the odds are all out of line. It should be an even bet We hope to win, but know what we have to face. All I can say is Babe Horrell, U. C. L. A .- "Nothing to say except this: We'll be out there pitching and hustling. The odds all are against us, but I believe it will be a tougher, closer game than many seem to think. You won't see a smarter field general or a better pinch-passer than Waterfield. Just

A word from Head Coach John Barnhill of Tennessee-"We were loaded with sophomores this season. I knew we would have a slow start. This led to an early tie and a defeat against a fine Alabama team. After that we struck our stride against Fordham and L. S. U. At the finish our team potentially was a good team. Not a great team, but a good one. We still lack the necessary experience.

But we are in good physical condition—and ready to go. "Tulsa has a great passing attack. We'd rather face a running attack. We definitely fear Tulsa's passing. You know what a hot passing attack can do to you, if it starts clicking. And we know a lot about Glen Henry Frnka, Tulsa-"I think we can outpass Tennessee and outkick them. But we haven't their physical power nor their manpower. We know that. I don't believe they will have any one who can match Glen Dobbs. But I know we haven't enough big, fast men to match them physically. But it will be a game worth looking at. We happen to have the only bigtime unbeaten team, and this won't help us any. But I can tell you these Tulsa kids will be out there at New Orleans giving 100 per cent of all they have.

Better Than They Thought. Bobby Dodd, Georgia Tech-"Bill Alexander and I honestly thought we'd lose five games this season. But in some way they kept on winning. I mean Auburn, Notre Dame, Navy, Duke and Alabama. We didn't rate this. It was the spirit of these great kids that carried us We went over the peak after Alabama. We had little left. If Texas is as tough as I hear they are, we can take quite a beating at Dallas. For this Georgia Tech team with few replacements, gave out more than it had to give all year. Local talent again is heavily spotted throughout the schedule with the feature engagement expected to the eight-rounder between Charley Petro, the Southeast welterweight, against Joe Torres of Puerto

One other eight, three sixes and four are on the card starting at 8:45 p.m. Petro, whose brother Danny also is doing well in the fight business, has had 11 bouts since turning pro, with only one draw to mar his record so far. His last action saw him successful in six rounds against Tuffy Cummings, but Torres figures to be a mite tougher. The eight-round distance also is a more sever test for Charley. Torres is no stranger in the Turner's Arena ring. Gene Johnson The other eight on tonight's program sends Stoney Lewis, local middleweight, against Soldier Taylor Miller. Miller is said to be a puncher of note while Lewis is something of a boxer and has ability to take a hard rap or two without folding. Another promising welterweight encounter has Alexandria's Nick Latsios meeting Jimmy Willis of Wilmington. This is expected to be one of the more active of the three six-rounders. Detroit Pin Leader Urges Post-War Intercity Loop

Would Be One of Most Popular in Any Sport, Declares Banker

troit's leading patrons of the bowling game, Banker Herbert A. (Herb) Mertens, rolled up a proposal today for the post-war formation of an intercity tenpin league. Mertens, making his proposal informally, suggested that the cities in which the sport especially thrives could get together a league with ABC sanction that would correspond to organized baseball and

"It's bound to come," Mertens said, "and as soon as the war is over I'm going to see if it can't be started. An enthusiast of the sport, Mertens has been prominent with its great progress in Detroit. Johnny

Crimmins, best known of Detroit's aces, owes part of his fame to the interest Mertens gave him. Mertens suggested that such cities as Chicago, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Buffalo, Cleveland, St. Louis and Coulmbus be included in the league. There would be two "representative teams" from each city playing weekly matches, one at home while the other was away. "Bowling is becoming a spectator sport," Mertens said, "and I believe a league of star teams meeting each other every week would be one of the most popular in any sport. "While we can't predict just what is going to happen after the war, sors and distributors, extending to retailers, already has been in effect for some time and the new order will carry it on to consumers, Mr. Goddard pointed out.

Refers to WPB Order. He referred to a War Production Board order establishing for processors of canned goods and distributors an eight-month basic period ending last August. The order held the canners and wholesalers to 70 per cent of basic amounts of rationed canned goods up to April 1, 1943. Between August 1 and December 1 they could have 35 per cent of this 70 per cent, and the other 35 per cent between December 1 and April 1. This, of course, had the effect of limiting retailers to these amounts of new purchases. If, for instance, a distributor had 100 per cent of his eight-month quota between August 1, 1942, and April 1, 1943, amassed and he already had delivered 50 per cent of it, he could deliver only 20 per cent more—the rest of the goods would be frozen.

Mr. Goddard said reports to the institute indicated the volume of canned goods on hand, among both wholesalers and retailers, had fallen off in the last 30 to 60 days.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The American Iron and Steel Institute estimated today steel mills would operate this week at 98.2 per cent of capacity and produce 1,679,900 net tons of steel ingots.

The estimate was a slight increase over the 98.1 per cent operations of last week, which turned out 1,678,200 tons of steel. A month ago operations were at 98.3 per cent for 1,681,600 net tons of steel and a year ago at 96.1 per cent for 1,587,800 net tons.

G. M. War Deliveries Soar.

General Motors Corp. announced today its war materials plants in the United States and Canada had delivered $1,699,941,198 in supplies in the first 11 months of this year. For the past two months deliveries had been at an annual rate of about $3,000,000,000 a year, the announcement shade.

November deliveries totaled $247, 685,749, slightly under those of October, all totals being at the issue of shifts in Government in the form of price reductions and the fact that November was a shorter month.

For October and November combined, however, the value of deliveries exceeded by $89,942,036 the total for all of 1941.

many cases toward the close and declines of fractions to a point or so were well distributed. Belated tax offerings, particularly in low-quoted issues, came out in sizable blocks and helped lift volume to around 1,200,000 shares, one of the largest of the year to date. Peace-rated stocks, apparently buoyed by the continuance of good war news, again were among the early risers, although some of these faded after midday. Selling, it was suggested, was inspired in some instances by the idea the usual yearend rally on which many buyers had been banking may already have taken place. The thought arose also that reinvestment demand in the past several weeks had been pretty well satisfied Stocks touching best marks for 1942 before meeting opposition included General Motors, Chrysler,

SAVES MANPOWER, MATERIALS AND MONEY-AND GETS THE JOB DONE

Fortunately For All Of Us American Industry Has This "Know-How"

HEY said that America was unprepared for war and could not arm in time. But they overlooked our "secret weapon" -industrial "know-how."

They forgot that in America free enterprise had for years been encouraging-stimulating-urging men to learn how to make things better and better-in greater volume-at constantly lower costs.

Now that the needs of peace have given way to the demands of war-now that "Victory is our business"-our training in this mass production is making itself felt.

And today Victory is your business—just as it is ours.

And as a "stockholder" in Fighting America you want to know how well your business is operating; whether the experience and skills developed under peaceful American free enterprise are proving valuable now; whether we have acquired an abilitya "know-how"-which is equal to the demands of total war.

So one organization gives you herein a few of the many examples of how American "know-how" is getting the job done -is saving manpower, materials and hundreds of millions of

These are some of the things being done to avoid the tragedy of "too little and too late"-to make sure that your boy at the front has every advantage of superior equipment and protection.

TO MACHINE GUNS

This story of quantity production methods in the manufacture of one type of machine gun illustrates a principle exemplified throughout General Motors' production for war. Design improvements and production short-cuts have been made possible by the close cooperation and assistance of original manufacturers, machine tool producers and the Army Ordnance Department.

1. INCREASING OUTPUT

Many new processes, new tools and design changes have made possible double the output in the same man-hours. Manufacturing capacity and manpower were released for additional vital war tasks.

2. REDUCING COST Production short-cuts, material savings and expanding output have reduced the original cost by half, with consequent important savings in the nation's expenditure for war material.

3. RAISING QUALITY

Design changes for quantity production have likewise raised quality. Many of the more than 200 changes have helped to make possible superior performance, added durability.

4. CONSERVING MATERIALS Many thousands of pounds of vital materials were conserved through better processing and the substitution of less critical materials. The number of special steels was cut from

Our Lady of Victory †1 Ceremony Honors Holy Innocents

A sermon of hope in a war-torn world was given by a 10-year-old boy yesterday afternoon at the Church of Our Lady of Victory, 4835 MacArthur boulevard, where about 100 children and nearly as many adults attended a special service to mark the Feast of the Holy Innocents.

Dressed in the robes of a cardinal, James Konouck, a student of St. Stephen's School, stood inside the altar rail and delivered the sermon following a procession of children dressed as priests, nuns and angels.

Tableaux Presented. The celebration opened in the parish hall, where a number of children presented six tableaux based on gospel stories from St. Matthew. The group then formed a procession to the church, where services opened with the boy's sermon.

The text of the sermon follows: "My dear friends, we have seen Skrabski, 2820 Pennsylvania avenue this afternoon the age-old story of the Holy Innocents, of the wicked the innocent Babe of Bethlehem. Instead he sent to Heaven the first martyrs to sing forever the praises of that sweet Babe, and the kings and rulers who sought to crush the Child and destroy His work are forgotten or are despised

Union Head Says Low Pay Keeps Oil Trucks Idle

Charge Is Denied By Official of Fuel Dealers

A charge that competent drivers o man fuel oil trucks were available, but were unwilling to work at wages of from $20 to $22 a week was made today by Robert Lester, president of the Teamsters' Joint Council after it was learned that dozens of trucks were idle because dealers complained they were unable to hire

Mr. Lester said that Local 639 of of the Teamsters' union had a mem bership of about 3,500 and that there were always between 50 and 60 men milling around the office looking for work. He said, in addition, drivers were available from other sources.

"As far as we are concerned." the union leader said, "there is no shortage of drivers, but rather a shortage of available drivers at the wages the dealers pay. You can't expect a man to drive an oil truck for from $20 to $22 a week and work all sorts of hours when he can get another job at $40 to $45 a week and work regular hours.

Denies Wage Charge. The union leader's charge was denied by Lester Scott, director of the oil heating division of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, who said regular wages generally were at least $30 a week for drivers, with time-and-a-half for overtime. Mr. Scott said he believed Alexander Konouck of 4500 MacAr- the manpower shortage was "natural" and that it was brought about by the draft of men into military service. These men, he said, cannot worked in excess of 40 a week. "Tank truck drivers are making pretty good wages and have all season," Mr. Scott said. "They are paid more now than ever and get overtime pay besides. In past years, you couldn't get competent truck drivers for less than $30 a week. I doubt very much that pay has anything to do with the shortage." May Call on Army. Meanwhile, Renah F. Camalier, Walter L. Fowler, District budget officer, who has served for the past two years as chairman of the special committee, said the Commissioners had placed properties assessed at about $25,000,000 on the tax rolls, in keeping with the findings of the committee. He estimated almost all of these holdings now would be restored to tax exempt status, under the bill signed Saturday by the President. Annual tax receipts of $437,500 thus will be lost. The Commissioners today directed Corporation Counsel Keech to prepare regulations necessary to the administration of the new law and instructed Assessor Edward A. Four Injured In Traffic

Jurisdictional Row Arises From Death Of Steamfitter

D. C. Traffic Toll

Killed in same period of 1941 93 Toll for all of 1941

A 19-year-old War Department stenographer and a 45-year-old steamfitter were dead and four persons injured today as the result of week-end traffic accidents, one of which brought a recurrence of an old jurisdictional dispute between Virginia police, District police and military authorities.

The dead girl was Miss Frances Skrabski. 2820 Pennsylvania avenue S.E., who was killed instantly shortly before midnight last night when struck by an automobile as she crossed Pennsylvania avenue at Twenty-eighth street S.E. She was returning from a neighborhood movie with her roommate, Miss Emily Marmury, 19.

Woman Injured. Miss Marmury, who also was hit by the automobile, was treated at Casualty Hospital for bruises. According to police, both girls were knocked about 20 feet. The impact threw one of Miss Marmury's shoes nearly 100 feet. Miss Skrabski was pronounced dead by Dr. Albert Coleman, who accompanied a Casualty Hospital ambulance to the Driver of the automobile, according to police, was Edwin H. Moran. 24, of 1594 Southern avenue, Bradbury Heights, Md

An inquest will be held at the District Morgue at 11:30 a.m. tomorrow if Miss Marmury is able to leave the hospital.

At the request of Army authorities, an inquest will be held at the same time in the death of Rufus Smith, 45-year-old steam fitter of 4453 Farraday place N.W., who was fatally injured late Saturday when struck by an automobile on a roadway about 500 yards west of the Pentagon Building. Mr. Smith died in Emergency Hospital of a fractured skull at 3:20 a.m. yesterday, about nine hours after the accident.

Controversy Arises. Virginia police, District police and military authorities engaged in a controversy over their jurisdiction in the case, and the question of in Virginia, 16,085 servicemen or whether the death is to be counted their families have received aid ploye of the Washington Post. as a District or Virginia traffic fatality was left for consideration by the inquest jury. If the death is added to the District's total, it will bring the year's traffic toll to 108, including Miss Skrabski's death last night. Last year at this time 93 persons had been killed in traffic accidents.

Third precinct police carried a report which said Mr. Smith had been hit by an automobile operated by Col. Eugene Elder. Army Signal Corps officer, of 4700 Connecticut avenue N.W.

Probe Delayed. Investigation of the accident was temporarily delayed yesterday by the controversy over jurisdiction. Virginia police denied any knowledge of the accident and said that had it occurred at the Pentagon, it was a case for either military authorities or District police.

Inspector Arthur E. Miller, District traffic supervisor, refrained from sending accident investigating unit officers to the scene, contending it was beyond the jurisdiction of the District police.

An investigation finally was ordered by Maj. Edward J. Kelly, chief of Metropolitan police, who shortly after noon assigned Detective A. D. Clarke of the accident 123,000. unit to the case

Washington Mr. Camalier, who will confer oday with Price Administrator Henderson and other Government officials connected with fuel oil first that Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt be asked to furnish drivers and then, if this failed, would request that soldiers stationed here be assigned to aid in emergency fuel deliveries.

Either of these steps, the consultant said, would relieve what appears to be the crux of the present confusion enveloping the oil rationing system. He reported that he had made a survey during the week end and had discovered that dozens of trucks were standing idle because dealers were unable to get drivers, Mr. Camalier's principal task in his new post, which is non-paying and in the nature of a liaison job

By the Associated Press.

Among the unusual experiences of Americans in this war was that of the six members of the crew of a B-25 bomber, forced down in French West Africa last May while flying to an eastern combat zone. For nearly seven months, during their internment by Vichy authorities, they were shunted across 6,000 hiles of jungle and desert. Four kept diaries, which Joseph Morton. Associated Press war correspondent in West Africa, read and combined into a single narrative.

The diaries were composed by Second Lts. Daniel E. Kelley of Waco, Tex.; George A. Young, jr., of Westwood, Mass., and Jerome M. Goldsmith of Atlanta, and Corpl. John F. Tom of Leakey, Tex. July 9 to July 29-Lt. Kelley: As I wrote before, the first two weeks were the hardest. We got bad food and the weather was very hot and dry. Most of us were up and down with malaria, and all we did was stay in bed all day and suffer. Finally, we made contact with the Consul at Dakar, and that helped our morale quite a bit.

We found that our families know where we are and what our status is. Then we also started raising hell about the food, and it became a little better. Now we have our own cook and houseboys, and things are going along fine. We play bridge quite a bit among ourselves during the day.

Hear U. S. Broadcasts. During the day it's so hot you have to stay inside. At night we have access to the post radio, and we listen in on the London news broadcast and occasionally hear a regular broadcast from the States.

Sounds good. We are all sick mentally and physically of Africa. The quicker we get out of here, the better for our health and minds. We have all weighed since we have been here and each one of us has lost from 15 to 45 pounds. I suppose people will wonder why we haven't tried to escape. We are free to roam around here and the vicinity of Gao as much as we like without a guard. We are not prisoners. But escaping is not as easy as it looks in movies or reads in books. We are 500 miles from the nearest English border and there are plenty of French between. We have thought and planned escapes plenty of times, to have them fall through in the end. July 30-Lt. Kelly: We have heard from the Consul at Dakar again. He seems to have been doing all he can for us and until something turns up I guess we will be here for a long time. One thing he wrote was pretty nasty. We wrote our families and asked that they send us some American cigarettes. He wrote back that he had become accustomed to Algerian cigarettes and he guessed we

July 31 to August 21-Lt. Kelley We finally received a telegram from Gen. Boisson at Dakar, saying that we were to be free, to be patient and not to try anything. This was good news to us and we have been treated just like any other white man since.

We aren't even considered in ternees or prisoners. We are free to do as we like. By the Way—

It was a year ago last June that Mrs. Walter Chappell joined up with the American Women's Voluntary Services Motor Corps. Always a good driver, she is now an expert one. She has taken all the courses offered by the motor corps-first aid, advanced first aid, motor mechanics, map reading and civilian protection, and she is now in charge of the Pentagon Building detail for the AWVS. Under her supervision there are about 30 young women, all AWVS motor corps girls. Taking turns in two shifts a day, these girls drive the Army station wagons that transport ordnance officers from the Pentagon Building to their various duties. Four girls are on duty from 8 to 1, four others from 1 to 6.

Each morning the Army sends one station wagon to the AWVS headquarters on Florida avenue to pick up the drivers for the morning shift, and each day at 1 the morning shift girls drive to Constitution avenue and Nineteenth street and meet the four afternoon drivers, who take over from then on. At 6 in the evening the Army returns the girls to the AWVS headquarters. There are in all five station wagons and a pickup truck. Mrs. Chappell has recently been commissioned an officer in the motor corps and sports a stripe on the shoulder of her smart gray blue uniform. It's a very becoming uniform to her, too. The color looks well with her blond, blue-eyed good looks, and the tailored lines suit her slim, erect and youthful figure. She has always worn tailored clothes for day, but she prefers floating pastels for evening. It's difficult to believe that any one as youthful, pretty and attractive as Mrs. Chappell should have a son at Princetonbut she has, and right now he has enlisted in the Marines and expects to go on active duty in January. A younger son, Hayward, is at Hill School. Her husband is a lieutenant commander in the Navy. Before the war Mrs. Chappell spent most of her time running her house, and running it very well. The food was perfect and so was the service. There was always an open wood fire and plenty of flowers and soft-shaded lamps. The company was good, too, and an invitation to dinner at the Chappells' was not one to be declined. Well, now that we're at war the Chappells don't give formal dinners-but it's still a cozy place to drop in and even if Mrs. Chappell is busy doing her motor corps work she seems to have gotten everything so well organized before she started that it runs like a clock and whether the hostess is home or doing motor corps duty at the Pentagon you'll find the house a comfortable and charming oasis in a busy and war frenzied Washing-

GOP Women's Group Elects Mrs. Suthers

Federation Chooses Six Other Officers For 2-Year Terms

Mrs. W. Glenn Suthers of Chicago is the newly elected president of the National Federation of Women's Republican Clubs, according to an announcement today from the federation's Washington headquarters.

Mrs. Suthers and six other new national officers will take office January 1 to serve for two years.

Others elected are Mrs. Ann Scott Wilson of Huntington, W. Va.; Mrs. Conger Smith, Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. George R. Lamade, Williamsport, Pa., and Mrs. Jessie Williamson Berkeley, Calif., vice presidents; Mrs. Roy T. Bishop, Portland, Oreg., secretary, and Mrs. Louis Leech, St Paul, Minn., treasuser.

As the federation canceled its 1942 convention to avoid unnecessary wartime traveling, the nomination and election of the new officers was conducted by mail.

Mrs. Suthers, who succeeds Mrs Charles W. Weis, jr., of Rochester, N. Y., will head a membership of 360,000 in 39 States and the District of Columbia. She will be the third president.

Formerly executive secretary of the women's division of the Illinois State Republican Committee, Mrs. Suthers is now president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Republican Clubs. She was treasurer of the national federation for the last

She also has been identified with public educational work for many years. She has a 12-year record as a lecturer on current events and government and as a teacher in parliamentary procedure and civics in the adult educational division of Chicago's public schools.

Women's Registration Held Likely by WMC Advisory Unit Head

Mrs. Roosevelt Believes 'Neighbors' May Thwart Canned Goods Hoarders

National registration of women still is a strong possibility before the war is over, it was indicated at Mrs. Roosevelt's press conference today by Miss Margaret A. Hickey, chairman of the War Manpower Commission's Committee on the Problems

Miss Hickey said she did not have authority to speak for the commission, but emphasized that discussion of registration of women is "an important item" at each meeting of the Women's Advisory Committee. Though her committee has not yet made any recommendation to Paul V. McNutt about national enrollment, she indicated it still might Turning her conference over to Miss Hickey, Mrs. Roosevelt took time out to brand "as another one of those rumors "the persistent story of little Diana Hopkins' use of a White House car and gasoline for personal trips.

A reporter returning from a recent visit to Pennsylvania told Mrs. Roosevelt that there had been adverse criticism over a report that Harry Hopkins' daughter had ridden in a White House car while hundreds of war workers here came downtown in streetcars and buses. Mrs. Roosevelt said 11-year-old Diana would hardly be going anywhere by herself in any case.

Sees Hoarders Reported. Mrs. Roosevelt also reiterated her often-expressed hope that people would not "go out and buy and buy and buy" before rationing of canned goods begins early in 1943. She said that hoarders who try to conceal the amount of goods in their cellars probably will not be successful, "because it is wonderful what your neighbors know about you."

Miss Hickey said that the four most important matters that her Women's Advisory Committee considers at their meeting each month are extension of community services, removal of industrial barriers against | o'clock tonight. older women workers, a broader training program of women tech- ter. 8 o'clock tonight. nicians and specialists, and extension of the child care program.

Her committee is especially anmembers call the narrow interpretation of care of children of working mothers as "day care." This program will have to be a much broader one of extended educational, health, library and vocational facilities, she said, rather than imply physical care of children between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Miss Hickey intimated the com-

Such community services as feeding and laundering now existing in some parts of England must be set up on a 24-hour basis here in some private war centers, she said.

The national registration of women is a "thorny problem." Miss Hickey said, and involves demands from hundreds and hundreds of communities with varying interests. So far, voluntary enlistment of women workers has turned out fairly well in some places, she said, but poorly in others. Mrs. Roosevelt suggested that the American Women's Voluntary Services be fully utilized to educate women to the genuine need for their co-operation and special services.

Miss Hickey reiterated the War Manpower Commission's estimate that twice as many women workers would have to enter industry in 1943 as have done so in the two preced-

Potato-Stuffed Squab

Piece de Resistance Served by Joe At Latest Jeudi Club Dinner

As Reported by Arthur H. Deute

From the Eastern Shore of Maryland, Joe Kendall brought the idea of placing a whole potato inside of a squab and roasting the two together. The Bill Peases of that interesting countryside found the recipe written out by hand in an old scrapbook in their family, and at their house Joe first ate this delicious morsel. And so it became the central feature of his culinary effort as he prepared to entertain the Club de Jeudi.

This is indeed a dish for a man to cook when he wants to turn his hand to the preparation of a delightful and delicate epicurean masterpiece. As is always the case in the assembling of a good dinner, it is not just the main dish which counts but the surrounding and supplementary dishes and so it is with special in- & terest that we may note the menu!

To Keep the Boys Warm

By Peggy Roberts

Teen-age boys like plenty of outdoor exercise. Even on the coldest days and nights of winter, fun in the open air is an important part of a boy's activity. Your son will appreciate a warm helmet and a pair of warm mittens for the cold weather, especially when they keep him comfortable about the ears, neck and hands without bulkiness. The set is knitted in a simple stocking stitch with mitten cuffs and cap top in ribbing, so if you know how to knit and purl you can make both mittens and cap easily. The set is for a 15 to 18 year old boy

Worrying Breeds Extra Trouble,

Courage, Thought Help Overcome Difficulties

By Lettice Lee Streett

Dear Mrs. Streett: My baby is still little-only 3 weeks old. She is doing fine, but will you tell me if I should awaken her to feed her? I never saw anything sleep the way perhaps prescribed more often by too much. I am worried about her all the time and afraid to leave the house for fear she'll smother or get sick while I'm gone. My husband is in the Navy, and I worry about him so much I can hardly sleep at night. Please give me some advice.-Mrs. I. W. B.

Husband's Attitude Toward Wife, Her Consideration Big Help

By Dorothy Dix

The old saying that if we take care of the little things the big things will take care of themselves, never has a better exemplification than it has in marriage. For it is the little habits and ways of husbands and wives that make, or break, a marriage far oftener than their real characters, or any crime that they commit

A man may be the noblest of his kind. He may be as moral as all the Ten Commandments. He may be sober and industrious and loyal and faithful. He may toil like a galley slave to keep his wife soft and comfortable, yet make their marriage a hell on earth to her by his irritability and grouchiness that keep her walking on eggs for fear of riling him in some

It is the graces we weave about marriage that make it lovely and beautiful, not doing one's duty. No man feels especially grateful to his wife for being a good housekeeper and making him comfortable and darning his socks. He thinks he is lucky to have gotten a good cook instead of one who would poison him with food that would make an ostrich call for the bicarbonate. But, after all, that is her duty. That is her part in the marriage contract and doesn't call for any beating of the cymbals.

It is her playing up to him, her always treating him with tenderness, with appreciation, with understanding, and making him feel that he is the center of her world, and that she thinks him the most wonderful creature in it; it is her keeping herself always looking attractive and being sweet to live with, that makes him thank God on his knees for her.

And even more so with women. It is not the fine houses and limousines that a man gives his wife for which she is grateful. It is his gratitude towards her. As long as he feeds her on soft talk she will starve for him without a whimper. As long as her husband takes an interest in holding her hand she will work it to the bone to support him, and think it a privilege to do it It is the little things that count

Of Public Welfare Massachusetts Group Proposes Correction of

Uncertain Libel Laws

BOSTON, Dec. 28.—Asserting that newspapers still remain the best protection that the public has Tiring of that, the Great Dane against wrongdoers, the Massachuwaited at the landing pit and setts Judicial Council declares that pounced on each cadet as he landed. they "should not be hampered by After chasing half the cadets off the uncertainty that now exists as to the (libel) laws."

At the request of the State Legislature, the council made a study of several bills to amend libel laws and the law of libel in general, along with other statutes. The council made its report yesterday.

Maine Law Recommended. "Whatever criticism may be made, legitimately, of the press, it still remains the best protection the public has against wrongdoers," the council said, "and the fearless exposure of evil by the press should not be hampered by the uncertainty which now exists as to the laws."

The council recommended a statute, based on Maine law, to allow evidence, in mitigation of damages, that a plaintiff already has brought other libel actions for substantially the same libel. It would tend to eliminate so-called 'multiple or chain" libel suits.

The council also suggested enactment of a measure that would say "the publication of defamatory matter in pleading of civil proceedings shall not be privileged until the opening of the public trial of a case on the merits." This recommendation was made after the group had discussed the laws of Massachusetts. New York and other States.

Radio Responsibility Cited. Renewing a recommendation of two years ago, the council called for enactment of legislation that would

"Whoever, by himself or his agent, makes a statement by radio broadcast which if published in writing would be a libel, shall be deemed to have made and published a libel. and shall be civilly and criminally responsible therefor according to the same provision of law, practice and procedure as in other proceedings for libel."

The council added, however, that such a provision would not subject 31 residents of nearby Kishaco- After the wedding, Dr. Greenleaf ity for statements of which it had tlement, ill of smallpox, the first visited four families in Dover, Del. portunity to prevent.

DON'T GET A LOAN Until You Compare Costs Household's Rate

2% Per Month on All Loans

Here are two good rules. 1. Don't borrow unless you must. 2. If you do borrow, get your loan at the lowest rate you can. Household's rate is 2% per month on the unpaid balances. Total cost of $50 loan, repaid in six monthly instalments, only $3.58. Many other plans. No endorsers required. No credit inquiries of friends. If o loan is the answer to your problems, phone or visit us.

CANARY ISLANDS Lin 1402 speak of certain insects as "dragonflies," though they are harmless to human beings and even help us by destroying mosquitoes. In the East Indies and in Southern Asia, some small, bright-colored lizards are called "dragons." These lizards live in trees and are not to be feared by any one who goes into the forest.

Closer to what we might expec dragons to look like are large lizards found on Komodo and a few other islands of the Dutch East Indies. They are called "dragon lizards" and sometimes reach a length of 10 or 11 feet. They are meat eaters and kill many a small pig, but no

Winning Contract By THE FOUR ACES,

Just as one of the most brilliant plays by a declarer consists in forcng an opponent to lead up to a nesse, so one of the most brilliant defensive plays is unblocking with high cards to avoid being hrown in the lead. For example

Pass Pass Pass West opened the ten of hearts, South winning with the king. Declarer next laid down the ace of spades and was bitterly disappointed to discover that East had a sure trump trick. Since the combined nands also held a sure club loser. South really had his work cut out for him. But after some thought he came up with a plan which very nearly worked.

He led a diamond to dummy's ace and returned the club three from dummy. East looked at this trick with deep suspicion and played the jack. At the ninth trick, South led his last diamond, ruffing with dummy's spade queen! East then brilliantly underruffed with the eight of spades!

Dummy returned a low club, and East carefully put up his queen. South won with the club ace and returned a club, but West was able to win with the club nine. Any return then allowed East to make a trump trick. If East had been forced to win the eleventh trick, however, he would have had to lead away from his trump jack and would not have made a trump trick.

Formerly, the cutting and burning of the yule log was a ceremony in which one's family and neighbors took part, and usually was the occasion for feasting, dancing and singing of carols, after which
