Housing Relief Expected Here In Six Months

4,307 Low-Rent Dwellings Will Be Completed, Says ADA

The District Alley Dwelling Authority reported to Congress today it expects to relieve the housing shortage in the Washington Metropolitan Area within the next six months with at least 4.307 low-rent dwellings for war

"This total may be exceeded," it said. "if projects deferred because of War Production Board restrictions can be constructed.'

Activities of the ADA were described in its annual report which was transmitted to Congress by President Roosevelt. The report covers its operations for the fiscal year ended June 30.

1,346 Units Completed. That 12-month period, the ADA said, marked the greatest concentration of planning and construction activity of any year in its history and resulted in completion of 1,346 low-rent dwelling units, an increase of 820 over the preceding fiscal year. And at the end of the last fiscal year, ADA said, it had in variouss stages of planning 751 dwellings of permanent construction and 1,694 units of the demount-

Job in Finding Sites. The report declared that one of the difficulties in providing lowcost housing lies in procuring sites.

The WPB, the ADA said, requires that sites be adjacent to sewers and water mains, because it will not permit use of critical materials to The authority pointed out it investigated 127 sites in the Metropolitan Area and found only 21 that were usable. Moreover, it said, many of the usable sites were in the comparatively high-cost residential areas where home owners objected to low-ocost housing construction for fear the Government housing might become permanent and injure the value of their property. Demands of War To Curtail Civilian

(Text of Budget Message on Page A-6.)

By GARNETT D. HORNER. New taxes or compulsory savings to raise an additional $16,-000,000,000 a year were proposed to Congress today by President Roosevelt in submitting a "total war" budget calling for nearly $109,000,000,000 in Federal expenditures during the 1944 fiscal year beginning next July 1. The Chief Executive described the budget, which estimated the costs of direct war activities in the coming fiscal year at $99,693,000,000, as presenting "the maximum program for waging war," and declared that effects of such a program necessarily "must be harsh."

With the Nation's entire productive capacity geared to the war effort, he said, civilians can be supplied with an average of only about $500 worth of goods and services during the 12 months beginning July 1—implying "an average reduc-tion of almost 25 per cent in civilian consumption below the record level of the calendar year 1941."

Details Up to Congress. Mr. Roosevelt left up to Congress the details of how the proposed $16,000,000,000 in additional revenue should be raised, emphasizing a twin objective of putting war costs on an approximately 50 per cent pay-asyou-go basis and helping to prevent inflation by draining off excess purchasing power.

"I believe that we should strive to collect not less than $16,00,000,000 of additional funds by taxation, savings, or both, during the fiscal year 1944," he said.

At a "seminar" press conference, the President explained to ques-At a "seminar" press conference, tioners that his reference to "savings" meant enforced or compulsory savings through legislation—in the form of taxes that would be returned to the taxpayer over a period of years after the war-and not such saving measures as voluntary purchase of War bonds.

He declined to specify, however, what proportion of the additional outright taxes and how much through what Budget Director Harold D. Smith referred to as "refundable taxes." This is a matter for Congress to decide in enacting revenue legislation, the President said. He did urge that collections be put "as far as feasible on a payas-you-go basis.'

Non-War Expenditures.

In addition to direct war costs, Mr. Roosevelt's estimates of Federal expenditures included $4,128,924,923 $3.000.000,000 for interest on the public debt, and $2,081,123,000 for ordinary expenditures of the RFC and Government corporations making a total of $108,902,047,823. The war spending program dwarted anything in history and represented more than the annual money expenditures of all the other belligerents on both sides of the war put together. It was nearly three times what Germany is spending, four times England, and 14

Mr. Roosevelt estimated America's war cost in the current fiscal year at about $77,000,000,000. Add to that approximately $100,000,000,000 estimated for the next 12 menths, and another $19,000,000,000 spent between Pearl Harbor and the beginning of the current year, and the American war bill between December 7, 1941, and June 30, 1944, will be $196,000,000,000—just $1,000,000,-000 short of all the money spent by the Treasury from the day George Washington was inaugurated in 1789 until the Japs attacked Pearl

Total Sum Cut $2,300,000 in Late Revision

(Budget Stories on Pages A-5,

Last-minute slashing of $2,-300,000 from the Commissioners estimates for services and new construction in a move to meet higher salary and wage costs, while still providing a tremendously increased debt repayment to the United States, brings the 1944 District budget down to $55.344.664, it was revealed today when President Roosevelt laid the document before Congress. Stripped of many needed municipal improvements or services made possible by war conditions, the budget remains one of the largest in history, although it is nearly $1,000,000 less than the record $56,310,949 Congress appropriated for the cur-rent fiscal year. The budget is almost devoid of any new construction—because of the virtual impossibility of getting priorities-and requests for increased personnel were eliminated in most cases.

No funds were included for new U. S. Flyer Blows Up school construction or for any major highway improvements, and while $500,000 was provided for purchase of school sites, proposals for many of the requested extra teachers and other school personnel were dropped. 100 More Policemen Asked.

One hundred additional police are provided for, which would bring the total authorized strength to 1,796, the largest yet, but in the eleventh hour blue-penciling Police Chief Ed-ward J. Kelly found his request for 200 more police cut in half.

The 1944 budget is predicated on continuation of the $6,000,000 Federal payment toward expenses of the National Capital and financial tables showed the city would end the year with a surplus and that no tax increase was in the picture.

It was computed by the Budget Bureau and the Commissioners that nisia, raiding Gabes, the village increases in wages and salaries of of Kebili west of that port and District workers, in the next fiscal Kairouan, an African Air Force which described the losses inflicted year would boost costs by $3,050,000, in addition to a "normal" hike in operating costs of $1,000,000. Pay raises already have been given per diem workers and legislated for classified employes, and congressional leaders have promised action this session on higher pay for police, firemen and school teachers.

The 1944 budget is based in part on Federal wishes, entirely in keeping with the desires of the commissioners, that since local moneys cannot be spent for peacetime construction and other capital outlay available funds be used to pay off Government debts at a faster rate with the idea of retiring them before the end of the war.

$6,500,000 Debt Payment.

On this principle the Budget Bureau and the commissioners recommended that in the next fiscal year the District pay to Uncle Sam $6,500,000 on such scores, although so far as could be ascertained the known requirement for 1944 would have been but $1,300,000. However the budget message, in discussing this question said the proposed payments for debt retirement next year would be 130 per cent more than last year's payments.

The 1944 repayment on the $18,-50,000 PWA loan-grant program adopted several years ago was placed in the budget message at $4,000,000. Under the law the District would have been required to repay $753.161. although with sums available this Gabes. vear the District repayment actually was stepped up to $2,500,000. for park and playground acquisition is proposed the District repay $1,000,000 next year, whereas under the combination of this debt and the PWA obligation the require-

Commissioners to borrow a second $1,000,000. In this connection it was noted that while the Commissioners had intended to include in their 1944 budget a District fund appro-(Continued on Page A-7, Column 3.)

Errol Flynn Goes on Trial As Move for Delay Fails

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.-Selection of a jury to try Errol Flynn on charges of criminal assault on two 'teen-age girls began in Superior Court today after Judge Leslie E. Still overruled a defense motion for continuance because of the absence of a key defense witness. Flynn's attorney, Robert E. Ford, declared that Hayward Kingsley, former captain of Flynn's yacht, Sirocco, now is in the Navy and unavailable for testimony. It was aboard the Sirocco that one of the plaintiff's, Peggy La Rue Satterlee, 16, Hollywood night club entertainer, charged that the actor twice attacked her while on a yachting trip in August, 1941. At Flynn's recent preliminary hearing, Miss Satterlee testified she made no attempt to cry out at Flynn's alleged advances because she figured her screams would not be heard over the noise of the vessel's

Flynn's second accuser is 17-yearold Betty Hansen, who left her Lincoln, Nebr., home for Hallyweod in hope she might eventually get movie roles.

(Earlier Story on Page B-1.) Disputes over the powers of Washington's Auxiliary Police, including questions of whether they may make arrests and should be provided arms, came to a head last week in action on a request by Police Superintendent Edward J. Flyers Call Shelling Of Munda Airfield Most Accurate

Three Who Spotted for Ships Declare Little Help Was Needed

By WILLIAM HIPPLE.

GUADALCANAL, Jan. 5 (Deaved).-Three Navy pilots who flew wer Munda on New Georgia Island uring the United States fleet's shellng of Japanese positions there early this morning said it was "the most accurate big gun firing we ever have

(A Navy communique January 6 reported a successful pre-dawn bombardment by surface vessels the previous day of the recently established enemy airfield at Munda, which lies some 150 miles northwest of Guadalcanal, but gave no details of the action.)

The flyers said they believed not a single anti-aircraft battery protecting Munda was left untouched. They reported terrific damage to the airfield, its planes and dispersal areas. Lt. Comdr. Dennis Crowley of Roanoke, Va.; Lt. George C. Duncan of Tacoma, Wash., and Lt. Marvin Barnett, Tampa, Fla., were the pilots. During the shelling they spotted targets for the warships.

First Shell Hit Runway. "The ship didn't need much help," Comdr. Crowley said. "The first shell struck directly on the runway a third of the way from the west end. Following shells worked toward the western end, then switched back and in neat succession ran the length of the run-way down to the east end just like a plane taking off. That done, the firing next fell in a pattern on both sides, covering a large area around the field.

"Opening the attack, we dropped bombs at 12:50 a.m., and were answered with heavy anti-aircraft fire. On the dot of 1 a.m., the first United States ship fired a salvo. "We saw the tremendous and brilliant flash of an explosion on the runway. The attack stopped dead and never resumed. The Japs were surprised completely. Many must have been killed, while others headed for dugouts. I don't think any of them tried to take their planes off. That would have been suicide, for the field was much too damaged The firing continued for 50 minutes, the ships taking turns until at the last the smaller vessels had moved close inshore to let go their salvos. The warships looked afire as they poured out their shells hot and heavy. It was almost as light as day in the space between the fleet Saw Four Big Fires.

"I saw at least four big fires which Mayer. might have been burning planes or probably from hits on gun positions he and ammunition.

Comdr. Crowley said a few Jap planes already in the air or called in from another field tried to atity to vest police power in others tack the ships, which threw up a shower of anti-aircraft. He doubted This would permit appointment of that the planes caused any damage. Lt. Duncan said the members of the District lines. Mr. Keech also his plane crew cheered themselves hoarse as the shells hit their-targets. "The ships threw so many salvos

Judge Says Former Star Wrote Letter Dealing With Mayer Threat Case

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.-Allegations of movie blacklisting, contained in a letter to a Federal judge trying an extortion case, brought back to the limelight today the name of Francis X. Bushman, mat-three decades ago. Judge Leon Yankwich disclosed receipt of Mr. Bushman's letter as jury returned its verdict last night in the trial of Channing Drexel Lipton, 25-year-old song writer, and Meyer Philip Grace, 39, former welterweight boxer.

Lipton was acquitted of attempting to extort $250,000 from Film Batavia area last week. Executive Louis B. Mayer, but the jury disagreed on a second count of threatening Mr. Mayer with bodily the fact, was acquitted.

Exceriates Former Star. Judge Yankwich excoriated Mr. Bushman for the latter's letter, in which, he said, the former film star charged he had been prevented by Mr. Mayer from working in major studios since 1925.

Lipton had testified during the case, which went to the jury last Friday, that he sent Mr. Mayer a letter to cause him "grief and anguish" and demanded $250,000 because, he alleged, Mr. Mayer had caused his father, Lew Lipton, a screen writer, to be blacklisted by the studios. The ban, Lipton said, followed a disagreement with Mr.

Two-Ton Blockbusters Unloaded on Target; Seven Planes Lost

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Essen, site of the great Krupp Armament Works, lay smoking today under the effects of a devastating bombardment by the RAF, which unloaded a great weight of bombs -including two-ton "blockbusters"—on the city Saturday night in the fifth raid on the Ruhr in seven nights.

part in the raid was not officially disclosed, but the acknowledgment that seven were lost might be taken as an indication that upward of 140 or 150 participated. Experience in the past has shown that a loss of 5 per cent of the planes participating in such raids can be reckoned with.

Heavy Opposition. The airmen reported they were met by heavy anti-aircraft fire and swarms of German night fighters over the target.

The raid was the fiftieth on Essen since the start of the war. The city, which has a peacetime population of about 500,000, lies in the heart of the great German coalmining district and produces large quantities of guns, tanks, locomotives, railway equipment and other material vital to the German war

Having just thrown off, after a bitter struggle, one form of non-resident government, they were not for rushing headlong into another that might be an unreasonable facsimile thereof. When the Constitution was being passed around for approval by the separate Colonies, Massachusetts hung back. John Adams and John Hancock, much respected patriots, didn't like the document. Up galloped Paul Revere-in daylight this time—to beg them to vote for the Constitution. He had been appointed spokesman for many neighbors who were for accepting the suggested form of government lest a worse fate befall them. The Colonies that had clung together in war were drifting apart ni peace and the bickering was sometimes

Adams and Hancock finally yielded to persuasion and came out in favor of the Constitution. Without their voices the whole plan of government might have been scrapped because Massachusetts was a powerful Colony-or independent State at the time-the others were waiting to see which way Massachusetts would go. Even with Adams and Hancock swinging to the Constitution, the vote was close in the Massachusetts convention, 187 to 168.

Twenty-four years later, he was awarded the Distinguished Service

His Secret Mission.

Maj. Rowan was selected to carry the message to Garcia because of his trustworthiness, his reputation for bravery, his knowledge of the island and his ability to speak Spanish. He was secretly sent to Kingston Jamaica. On April 23, 1898, which happened to be his birthday, he received a coded message instructing him to "join Garcia as soon as possible.

His specific orders were to ascertain the strength of the insurgents and to arrange for their cooperation with the American forces in the event of war. Embarking from St. Anns Bay, Jamaica, in an open sailboat, accompanied by a Cuban guide, he landed at night near Santiago on April 24. Here he disguised himself as a hunter. He eluded the outposts of the Spanish patrol before dawn and started out through the trackless jungle. For seven days and nights he crawled through the thickets and swamps, enduring unbelievable hardships. His route took him over the treacherous Sierra Maestra Mountains. Finally, on May 1, he reached Garcia with his message.

Gets Precious Information. Gen. Garcia, surprised and overoyed, not only supplied him with the precious military information but selected three of his most trusted officers to make the dangerous trip back across the country and to Washington. With only a few hours of rest, Maj. Rowan and his party laboriously made their way to Man-H. Wilton, president of the Virginia ati, on the north shore of the island. The statement followed an announcement Saturday by the oil firm of L. P. Steuart & Bro. that any consumer who was out of oil could obtain 100 gallons from that consumer, whether he had been a regular customer of the dealer before or not, could obtain as much oil as he wanted within the limit of Company Complies.

Curtis S. Steuart, secretary and treasurer of the Steuart Co., said today, however, that customers were being given oil in any amount for which they had coupons, provided they brought the coupons into the office to be detached. He said the 100-gallon restriction, announced in newspaper and radio advertisements, had been imposed on the supposition that many persons were out of oil and the firm hoped to spread its supplies by limiting quantities.

Instead of being swamped as he expected, Mr. Steuart said his firm received only 14 calls yesterday from persons entirely without oil and up to 10:30 o'clock this morning, only two calls had been received.

The Steuart Co. and the Petrol Co., described as "tenant and supplier" of the former concern, first ran into difficulties with the OPA Saturday when the Petrol Co. allegedly refused to supply several other dealers with oil while Steuart trucks were being loaded. Later oil was promised to the dealers on the basis of 100 gallons for each customer of their reports of need for emergency deliveries.

Allottted 25,000 Gallons. Joseph Richards, jr., vice president of the Columbia Specialty Co. Inc., Chevy Chase oil dealer, said today that his firm had been allotted 25,000 gallons of Petrol's oil. He said 4,500 gallons had been picked up over the week end to bring relief to distressed customers and the remainder was being collected today. He said, however that by tonight his firm would be in the same position as it was in Saturday morning and that unless oil was available elsewhere it would again make demands on Petrol under authority of the OPA ruling.

Mr. Richards said the Griffith Consumers Co. had voluntarily offered his firm 5,000 gallons of oil from a barge-load expected today. He said the normal demand of the tendent of public instruction, wrote behind because of lack of room, the to division school superintendents party slipped past the guns of the gallons a day. Oil obtained from the Petrol company over the week end, the oil dealer said, was allotted to consumers in quantities of 50 to use small industry in the war gallons for small homes, 75 gallons effort were laid before Congress for medium sized buildings and 100 today by the special House Comgallons for large places. Mr. Richards admitted any of his customers, under the Henderson order, might have demanded deliveries to the full value of their valid coupons, but he said in virtually all cases they were willing to co-operate by accepting the small quantities and thus allowing for a further spread of the supply. Proceedings Outlined.

The OPA official said that "any Upon the signing of the protocol, effort by any company to defy the he was ordered to Cuba to make a Government in regard to the antidiscrimination regulations will rewar conditions, with a view to its sult in immediate proceedings to occupation by American troops. He said official action would probably follow these general lines: If a supplier or dealer refused to abide by the order, the OPA could suspend the license of the violator citation for gallantry in action at and take over the allocation of the oil supplies.

Referring specifically to the Steuart company, the OPA official said that if this oil firm allows only 100 gallons to a customer who asks for more and who has coupons for more, it will be violating the OPA order. He said further that consumers did not need to present certificates that they were entirely without oil, as required by the Steuart firm.

The same official said that, while the Steuart company's operations might be proper in times of peace, such procedure as has been adopted

So important is the home front of the enemy in its bearing on our military strategy that by its correct or incorrect appraisal the lives of hundreds of thousands of American boys might be saved or lost. And healthy home fronts in the United Nations are essential to win the war.
The strategy in global war is

There have been explosions of Western civilization into world wars before, but total war was new in 1914. It becomes a contest of strength, spirit and endurance of civilians against civilians, as well as between armies and War Today Unlimited. Today the only limitation on the size of the military forces is the number of men who can be spared from the two jobs of producing arms and supplies for the military front and keeping the civilian population alive.

And total war is not alone combat between armed men. It is also war between armed men and civilians. Since the last total war the improved airplane and submarine have immensely increased the power of attack upon civil populations and their war efforts. The improved submarine through its intensified sinking of ships increases the power of blockade; the plane works to relieve and intensify it. Coal Shortage Grows As Miners Split Over Return to Work

5,000 Go Back to Jobs As 19,000 Continue 13-Day-Old Strike

By the Associated Press

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 11. -Approximately 5,000 striking miners returned to work today in Pennsylvania's anthracite fields, but an estimated 19,000 others continued a 13-day-old Government-condemned walkout that has created the most critical hard coal shortage in Heeding repeated appeals from Fuels Co-ordinator Ickes, the War Department and their own union leaders, 2,000 workers resumed production on a limited scale at three collieries of the Glen Alden Coal Co.-the industry's largest operator-while 3,000 took up their jobs again at three collieries of the Lehigh Valley Coal Co.

Decision by the six collieries to go back to work was reached at week meetings-called after Mr. Ickes denounced the strike as "intolerable" and Lt. Col. Charles W. Kerwood of the War Department. urged the men to return to the mines for one week pending settlement of their grievances. Chief of these is a dues increase of 50 cents a month, voted at the United Mine Workers convention at Cincinnati last October. The strikers contend they were not properly represented at the convention and want the increase rescinded. They also want a $2-a-day wage increase.

There was no estimate immediately available as to what extent the resumption of production would relieve the hard coal shortage-so acute that even some householders in this anthracite center found it difficult to obtain fuel.

Thomas Kennedy, international secretary-treasurer of the UMWA, estimated the strike had prevented the mining of between 200,000 and 250,000 tons of coal since its inception December 30.

Thomas Lambert of the United States Concilaton Service told the strikers over the week end that: "I don't think the Government will stand idly by if this unauthorized strike continues."

In Washington, however, spokesmen for the War Labor Board, the War Department and Mr. Ickes said they knew of no move to take over the mines.

Miners at the idle collieries, all in District 1 of the UMWA, claim that their working agreement calls for a monthly dues checkoff of $1, notwithstanding the union's convention action. Other issues indirectly involved

Brazil Decides to Use Youths, 18 and 19, Fail 50,000 Workers to Double Rubber Output From Appeal Board

Men Will Be Moved Thousands of Miles To Amazon Valley

y the Associated Press. BELEM, Brazil, Jan. 11 .- A decision to move 50,000 workers hundreds of miles overland into the in an effort to double Brazil's rubber production has been announced

The conferees will be joined shortly by Douglas Allen, chief of the United States Government Rubber Reserve Corp. operation in Brazil, way from Washington, and by other American officials.

The decision to speed up the migration of workers was reached by he Brazilian authorities despite the fact the recently-signed agreement between Brazil and the United States required only that the big group of migrant labor reach the Amazon region by May 31.

Recruited in Draught Area. Plans for the earlier arrival, and Norman A. Carroll, 21, electrihowever, increase the chances of greatly increasing the output of crude rubber in Brazil, the only major source of supply in the Western Hemisphere.

The migrants will be recruited Light Co., who had appealed from in the draught-stricken Northeast- 3-A. ern Brazilian states of Cerea and and Rio Grande do Notre, where from other parts of Brazil, including Rio de Janeiro.

Trip by Truck, Train and Plane. The men will be fed and given nedical treatment against the tropical diseases of the Amazon country before being moved out by the special committee headed by Brazil's economic co-ordinator, Joao Alberto Lins de Barros, who is now in the United States.

Some 2,500 trucks will bring the workers to Teresina, in the state of Piaui, from where they will be sent by train to Sao Luis, in Maranhao state, and thence flown to Braganca, in the rubber producing state of Para.

The workers will be paid more than enough to maintain themselves during their trip and thereafter, under the Brazilian-American agreement, each worker will get 60 per cent of the officially fixed value of his production.

President Declares More Manpower

Total Mobilization for War to Curb Making Of 'Unnecessary' Goods

By JESSE O. IRVIN. Declaring that "private thought and public discussion" on nonessential industrial activities "are very necessary," President Roosevelt in his budget message today warned that production of unnecessary materials "waste manpower at a time when careful economy and greater efficiency in the use of manpower resources is impera-

He informed Congress that total mobilization of "all our men and women, all our equipment, and all our materials in a balanced production program will enable us for 1944 of $3,714,638, compared with to accomplish the production goals $3,670,137 for 1943. The figure is underlying this war budget." Manpower Chairman Paul V. McNutt has stated that mobilization sioners in their estimates released

Needs Can Be Met.

The President declared manpower needs of the armed services and war production could be met without impairment of essential civilian requirements," and he stressed "the important distinction between 'essential requirements' and the thousand and one things that are nonessentials or luxuries."

In his report on progress the President said in spite of the increase in the armed services, industrial production rose by 46 per cent and agricultural production by 15 per cent "between the calendar years 1940 and 1942."

he asserted. He said more than 10,000,000 persons had been added to the working forces or the armed services since 1940. "7,000,000 of whom were unemployed and more than 3.000.000 of whom are additions to the Nation's labor and armed forces." Mr Roosevelt said a "unified and be provided to make available a million of persons for war industry and to restore to civil employment persons who are being disabled in the armed services." This was a reiteration of his message sent to Congress last October in which he requested legislation calling for a centralized service in the Federal Security Agency.

Veterans Oppose Plan.

It is understood that legislation has been drafted by Budget Bureau experts which is now being studied by administration and other interested officials. The proposal calls for full administration by the Federal Security Agency, which is being protested by representatives of veterans' organizations. They are reported to be seeking to have the Veterans' Administration pass on the needs of disabled veterans.

Mr. McNutt, besides his manpower duties, is Federal security administrator. The assistant Federal security administrator is Watson B. Miller. As both are prominently identified in veteran affairs, they are not participating in the effort by administration and congressional leaders to effect a compromise. Mr. McNutt is a former national commander of the American Legion, and Mr. Miller was for about 20 years rehabilitation service director of the same organization.

The Budget Bureau is reported to be pressing for action on the legislative draft and, it is understood. a conference may be held this week in order to attempt to iron out the

Text of President's Message on Record Breaking 1944 Budget

Proposed Spending Is Called 'Maximum Program for War'

Roosevelt Estimates Monthly Expenditures In Excess of 8 Billions

The text of the President's Budget message follows:

* I am transmitting herewith a war budget exceeding $100,000,-000,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1943. Last year I scalled the Budget an instrument offer transforming a peace economy into a war economy. This budget presents the maximum program for waging war.

We wage total war because our very existence is threatened. · Without that supreme effort we cannot hope to retain the freedom and self-respect which give life its value.

Total war is grim reality. It "means the dedication of our lives and resources to a single objective: Victory.

Total war in a democracy is a violent conflict in which everyone must anticipate that both lives and possessions will be assigned to their most effective use in the common effort-the effort for community survival-Nation survival.

In total war we are all soldiers. whether in uniform, overalls, or

Budgeting for Total War

The huge and expanding rate of war expenditures shows our determination to equip our fighting forces and those of our Allies with the instruments of war needed for victory. Monthly expenditures for war purposes mounted to $2,000,000,000 just after Pearl Harbor: they now exceed $6,000,000,000 and they will average more than $8,000,000,000 a month during the fiscal year 1944. For the whole of the current fiscal year total war expenditures are now estimated at $77,-000,000,000; for the next fiscal year, at $100,000,000.000. These estimates include the net outlays of Government corporations for war purposes and assume only a small rise in prices. Victory cannot be bought with any amount of money, however large; victory is achieved by the blood of soldiers, the sweat of working men and women and the sacrifice of all people. But a 100billion-dollar expenditure program does reflect a national effort of gigantic magnitude. It calls for vision on the part of those in charge of war production, ingenuity of management, and the skill, devotion and tenacity of the men on the farms and in the factories. It makes possible the expansion of our armed forces necessary to offensive opperations, the production of planes and munitions to provide unquestioned superiority, and the construction of ships which will make it possible for us to strike at the enemy wherever he may be. It reflects the determination of the civilians to "pass the ammu-Moreover, consumers' goods and services will have to be produced in an amount adequate to maintain the health and productivity of the civilian population. And all of this will have to be done while we are withdrawing millions of men from production for service in the armed forces.

Some persons may believe that such a program is fantastic. My reply is that this program is feasible. If the Nation's manpower and resources are fully harnessed, I am confident that the objective of this program can be reached, but it requires a complete recognition of the necessities of total war by all-management, labor, farmers, consumers and public servants—regardless of party. Production short of these military requirements would be a betraval of our fighting men.

This Budget does not include the detailed estimates of war expenditures which would reveal in-formation to our enemies. An additional reason for such action at this time is that rapid developments on far-flung battle fronts make it impossible to submit a detailed war Budget for a year ending 18 months hence. I "shall continue, however, to report on the broad categories of war expenditures. The following table summarizes our present estimates of war expenditures from general and special accounts and by Government corporations. Further appropriations will soon be needed to permit letting of contracts with industry for the next year.

dustrial production rose by 46 per cent and agricultural production by 15 per cent between calendar years 1940 and 1942. Industrial production has not been delayed and crops have not been lost because of lack of manpower except in a few isolated cases. More than 10,000,000 people have been added to the employed or the armed forces since the summer of 1940, 7,000,000 of whom were unemployed and more than 3 000 000 of whom are additions to the Nation's labor and armed Manpower mobilization is now entering a much more difficult phase. During the calendar year 1943 approximately 6,000,000 people will be needed above present requirements for the armed services and war production. This number can be obtained by transferring from less essential work and by drawing into the working force people who have not recently sought employment. Vigorous action is required to mobilize and train our reserve of women and young people, to accelerate transfer of workers to essential industries and to reduce harmful turnover and migration of workers in essential industries. It also requires prevention of labor hoarding and elimination of hiring restrictions based on sex, creed or race. I reiterate my previous recommendation for a unified and adequate rehabilitation service to make available a million persons for war industry and to restore to civil employment in the armed forces. Manpower needs of the armed forces and of war production during the calendar year 1943 can be met without impairment of essential civilian requirements. I stress the important distinction between "essential requirements" and the thousand and one things that are non-essentials or luxuries. The production of these non-essentials wastes manpower at a time when careful economy and greater efficiency in the use of our manpower resources is imperative. Private thought and public discussion of this subject persons who are being disabled are very necessary. Equipment-Were it not for an unprecedented program of conversion and the building up of a new war industry during the past two and one-half years we could not expect to fulfill the war-production program outlined in this

Some progress, but not enough, has been made in spreading war contracts more widely among medium-sized and smaller plants. Further efforts are necessary. In certain cases, of course, saving of manpower and materials requires concentration in those plants best equipped to produce a given commodity.

Materials - Furthermore, war production is limited by our supply of raw materials. The available materials must be transformed into the maximum of striking power. The production of less urgent or the wrong quantity of items or poor scheduling of production in any single plant or in the munitions program as a whole, results in waste of precious materials. The Nation's war production must be so scheduled that the right items are produced in the right amounts at the right

War contracts-The procurement program must achieve maximum production with minimum waste and with the speed essential in time of war. This is the controlling objective not only for the original negotiation of con-tracts but also for the renegotiation required by law. The law provides for the prevention or re-capture of excessive profits, thus supplementing and reinforcing the objectives of the excess profits tax. I believe that control of the costs of production is of equal war. An adequate food supply is, therefore, a basic aspect of a total war program. I have placed in the hands of the Secretary of Agriculture full responsibility for determining and fulfilling the food requirements in this war. Our agricultural production is larger than ever in our history, but the needs of our armed services and our Allies are so great that a shortage of certain foods is inevitable. The production of the less-needed commodities must be reduced, while the production of commodities for war and essential civilian use must be in-It is imperative also that this increased demand for food be adjusted to available supplies. There will be sufficient volume in our bill of fare, but less variety. That may hurt our taste, but not our health.

To facilitate this program, I am recommending appropriations for aids to agriculture totaling $837,-000,000 for the fiscal year 1944. Among the major items included in the $837,000,000 total are $400,-000,000 for conservation and use of agricultural land resources: $194,000,000 for parity payments on the 1942 crops, and $96,000,000 for exportation and domestic consumption of surplus commodities. Other large items included are $64,000,000 for payments under the Sugar Act, $38,000,000 for the Farm Security Administration and $31,000,000 for reductions in interest rates on farm mortgages. Prior to the 1943 appropriation acts, annual appropriations for parity payments were made s year in advance of actual need, and acreage allotments for the year ahead were used as a factor in determining payments on the crops of the current year. In the 1943 budget and appropriation acts, provisions were made to insure that all factors used in determining the amount of parity payments on the crops of a given year would pertain to the program of that year. Also, to bring this item into conformity with our general budgetary practice, the annual cash appropriation for parity payments was omitted, but the secretary was authorized to incur contractual obligations assuring the co-operating producers of cotton, corn, wheat, rice and tobacco that such payments would be made, if and as necessary, on their 1942 crops. The appropriation now requested, therefore, is simply the amount estimated to be necessary to compensate the producers of corn, wheat and certain minor types of tobacco for the disparity between the market returns from the normal yield of their 1942 allotted acreage and the parity price return from that production. It is expected that no parity payments will be necessary on the 1942 crops of cotton, rice and most types of tobacco. Since the established national policy is to assure the co-operating producers of these basic crops parity prices on the normal yields of their allotted acreages, I am again recommending that the authority to incur contractural obligations for such payments on future crops be renewed.

On the other hand, I am recommending a reduction of 50 million dollars in the appropriation for conservation and use of agricultural land resources. I am also directing the Secretary of Agriculture to utilize the 400 million dollars still provided under this heading as fully and effectively as the basic law will permit to encourage greater produc-tion of the crops essential to the war effort. This fund will not be used for restriction of production except of less needed crops. Payments will be made only to those producers who comply fully in their plantings with the stated war production goals.

For exportation and domestic consumption of agricultural com-modities the budget includes only the permanent annual appropriation of 30 per cent of customs revenues provided by law, plus reappropriation of unobligated balances. The food stamp plan, which is a major item of the current program, will be discontinued shortly. Although other items such as school lunch and school milk projects and the direct distribution of surplus commodities are somewhat expanded, there will be an over-all reduction of about 30 million dollars.

Provision for operations under the Farm Tenant Act and for loans, grants and rural rehabilitation are continued on about the same level as for the current year. Small farms, like other small war plants, must be encouraged to make a maximum contribution to the war. I hope the Congress will give as much sympathetic consideration to these smaller and poorer farmers as it has given to the smaller and poorer industrial concerns.

Because no one can immediately foresee all the needs we may encounter in fulfilling our essential war requirements for agriculture, various loan and purchase operations, involving contingent liabilities which cannot be exactly predetermined, may be necessary.

Civilian Consumption

In spite of a 100-billion-dollar war program, civilians can be supplied with an average of about $500 worth of goods and services during the next year. This implies an average reduction of almost 25 per cent in civilian consumption below the record level of the calendar year 1941. Even then most of us will be better fed, better clothed and better housed than other peoples in the world. Do not let us assume from that statement, however, that there is no need for great improvement in the living conditions of a large segment of our population.

It is the responsibility of the Government to plan for more production of essential civilian goods and less of non-essential goods. Production and distribution of goods should be simplified and standardized; unnecessary costs and frills should be eliminated. Total war demands simplification of American life. By giving up what we do not need, all of us will be better able to get what we do need.

In order to distribute the scarce necessities of life equitably we are rationing some commodities. By rationing we restrict consumption, but only to assure to each civilian his share of basic commodities.

The essentials for civilian life also include a good standard of health and medical service, education and care for children in wartime as well as in peace.

Stabilization Program

We must assure each citizen the necessities of life at prices which he can pay. Otherwise, rising prices will lift many goods beyond his reach just as surely as if those goods did not exist. By a concerted effort to stabilize prices, rents and wages we have succeeded in keeping the rise in the cost of living within narrow bounds. We shall continue those efforts, and we shall succeed. By making effective use of all measures of control, we shall be able to stabilize prices with only a limited use of subsidies to stimulate needed production.

Some would like to see the controls relaxed for this or that special group. They forget that to relax controls for one group is an argument to relax for other groups, thereby starting the cost-of-living spiral which would undermine the war effort and cause grave post-war difficulties. Economic stabilization for all groups-not for just the other fellow—is the only policy consistent with the requirements of total war. I have read of this bloc, and that bloc, and the other bloc. which existed in past Congresses. May this new Congress confine itself to one bloc-a national bloc.

Stabilization goes beyond effective price control. Under war conditions a rise in profits, wages and farm incomes unfortunately does not increase the supply of goods for civilians; it merely invites the bidding up of prices of scarce commodities. The stabilization of incomes and the absorption of excess purchasing power by fiscal measures are essential for the success of the stabilization program. I am confident that the Congress will implement that program by adequate legislation increasing taxation, savings, or both. Thus, we will help to "pay as we go" and make the coming peace easier for ourselves and our chil-

Civilian Controls

Total war requires nothing less than organizing all the human and material resources of the Nation. To accomplish this allout mobilization speedily, effectively and fairly we have had to adopt extensive controls over civilian life. We use the Selective Service System to man the armed forces. We are systematizing the movement of labor to assure needed manpower to war industries and agriculture. We regulate prices, wages, salaries and rents; we limit consumer credit; we allocate scarce raw materials. and we ration scarce consumer goods—all to the end of provid-ing the materials of war and distributing the sacrifices equi-

Such regulations and restrictions have complicated our daily lives. We save rubber, metal, fats—everything. We fill out forms, carry coupons, answer questionnaires. This is all new. We have overdone it in many cases. By trial and error we are learning simpler and better methods. But remember always that reaching the objective is what counts most. There is no easy, pleasant way to restrict the living habits—the eating, clothing, heating, travel and working habits of 130,000,000 people. There is no easy, pleasant way to wage total war. About 400,000 civilian employes of the Federal Government are engaged in the task of civilian administration for total war. They direct and schedule war production; handle the procurement of food, munitions and equipment for our armed forces and our Allies; supervise wartime transportation: administer price, wage, rent, labor and material controls and commodity rationing; conduct economic and propaganda offensives against our enemies, and do necessary paper work for the armed

Besides these Government employes millions of men and women volunteers-who draw no pay -are carrying out tasks of war administration, many of them after long hours at their regular occupation. These patriotic citizens are serving on draft boards. on war price and ration boards, in the civilian defense organization, the War bond campaign and many other activities. They deserve the gratitude of their

More than 1,600,000-or approximately three-fifths-of all Federal civilian employes are engaged directly in war production. They build and load ships, make guns and shells, repair machines and equipment, build arsenals and camps, sew uniforms, operate airports and signal systems. These are the workers in Navy yards, arsenals, storage depots, military air fields and other operating centers. It is scarcely ethical to try to make people believe that these workers are holding down arm-chair or unnecessary Government jobs.

This huge organization, created overnight to meet our war needs, could not be expected to function smoothly from the very start. Congressional committees and many individuals have made helpful suggestions. Criticism is welcome if it is based on truth. We will continue our efforts to make the organization more fully Compensation of Federal Employes.—Last month the Congress took temporary and emergency action, which will expire April 30, 1943, relative to compensation for Federal employes. The legislation removed inequities, lengthened the work week to conserve manpower, increased payment for longer hours and provided bonus payments for certain employes. The pay increases should be met largely by reducing the total number of employes proportionate to the increase in the work

In the present appropriation requests and expenditure estimates for the fiscal years 1943 and 1944, no allowance has been made for any cost increase resulting from the adjustment in Federal salaries.

The problems of Federal salary administration need further study in the early days of the new Congress for enactment of more permanent legislation for the duration of the war.

'Non-War' Expenditures

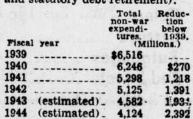

I am making recommendations in the usual detail for so-called "non-war" appropriations for the fiscal year 1944. This classification includes the same items as in former years.

Actually, the "non-war" classification now has little, if any, meaning. Most of these expenditures are related to the war effort and many are directly occasioned by it. This "non-war" category includes, for instance, expenditures for war tax collections, for budgeting, disbursing and auditing war expenditures, and for statistical and scientific services to war agencies. It includes also such items as the control of white pine blister rust, which I recently discussed. Expenditures for controlling this threat to our timber resources are necessary to avoid possible loss of millions of dollars in lumber from trees which require more than 50 years to reach

All counted, there are less than 850,000 civilian employes of the Federal Government, including the Postal Service, who are engaged in these so-called "non-war" activities. A few weeks ago I transmitted to the Congress a comprehensive report on "non-war" expenditures during the past decade. This document demonstrated the important reductions which had been made in these expenditures, especially since the start of the defense program.

The following table summarizes reductions analyzed in the report, to which it is now possible to add revised estimates for the fiscal year 1943 and estimates for 1944 as developed in this Budget. "Non-war" expenditures, fiscal years 1939-44 (excluding interest and statutory debt retirement).

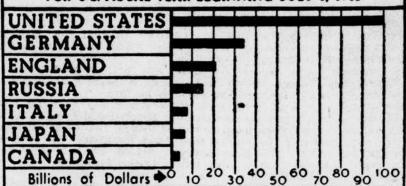

The table shows a reduction of 36.7 per cent in "non-war" expenditures in the next fiscal year compared with 1939. In appraising these reductions, it should be borne in mind that large items, such as veterans' pensions and social security grants, are controlled by legal or other commitments. In fact the outstanding increase for the fiscal year 1944 is for the Veterans' Administration, for which expenditures are estimated at $879,000,000, or $265,-000,000 higher than in the current year. Most of the increase is for nsurance for our fighting forces in the present war.

The most important reductions recommended for the coming year relate to work relief and general public works. Because of present high levels of employment I am able to recommend elimination of the Work Projects Administration. This action under present conditions does not cast upon the State and local governments more than the proper burden of financing the relief of those who are unable to work. Expenditures for general public works will be greatly curtailed. Continuing projects are directly related to war needs. Others have been discontinued as rapidly as this could be done without risking the loss of the investment already made.

I shall be glad to co-operate with the Congress in effecting further reductions in "non-war" expenditures through the necessary revision of underlying legislation and in every other way. It should be pointed out to the Congress and to the Nation, however, that we are fast approaching the subsistence level of government-the minimum for sustaining orderly social and economic processes-and that further reductions will necessarily be of much smaller magnitude than those already achieved. My recommendations contemplate that in the fiscal year 1944 96 cents of every dollar expended by the Federal Government will be used to pay war costs and interest on the public debt, and only 4 cents for all the so-called "non-war" purposes.

War financing has raised the requirement for interest on the public debt from $1,041,000,000 in 1940, the fiscal year before the defense program started, to an estimated $1,850,000,000 for the current year and $3,000,000,000 for the fiscal year 1944 under existing legislation.

Financing Total War

Financing expenditures which will exceed $100,000,000,000 is a task of tremendous magnitude. By meeting this task squarely we will contribute substantially to the war effort and clear the ground for successful reconstruction after the war. An adequate financial program is essential both for winning the war and for winning the peace.

Financing total war involves two main fiscal problems. One problem is to supply the funds currently required to pay for the war and to keep the increase in Federal debt within bounds. The second problem is caused by the disbursement of $100,000,000,000 a year to contractors, war workers, farmers, soldiers and their families, thus adding many billions to the people's buying power, at a time when the amount of goods to be bought is declining steadily. A large portion of this excess buying power must be recovered into the Treasury to prevent the excess from being used

Need for a Balanced, Flexible Revenue System

I hope that the Congress in working out the revenue program will consider that the fiscal measures must be designed not only to provide revenue, but also to support the stabilization program as well by deterring luxury or non-essential spending. The cost of the war should be distributed in an equitable and fair manner. Furthermore, care should be taken that the fiscal measures do not impair, but actually promote, maximum war production Finally, it is more important than ever before to simplify taxation both for taxpayers and for those collecting the tax, and to put our taxes as far as feasible on a pay-as-you-go basis. I cannot ask the Congress to impose the necessarily heavy financial burdens on the lower and middle incomes unless the taxes on higher and very large incomes are made fully effective. At a time when wages and sala-ries are stabilized, the receipt of very large net incomes from any source constitutes a gross in-equity undermining national

Fairness requires the closing of loopholes and the removal of inequities which still exist in our tax laws. I have spoken on these subjects on several previous oc-

The Congress can do much to solve our problem of war finance and to support the stabilization program. In the past, wars have usually been paid for mainly by means of inflation, thereby shift-ing the greatest burden to the weakest shoulders and inviting post-war collapse. We seek to avoid both. Of necessity, the program must be harsh. We should remember, however, that it is a war for existence, and not taxation, which compels us to devote more than one-half of all our resources to war use. An effective program of war finance does not add to the total sacrifices necessitated by war, but it does assure that those sacrifices are distributed equitably and with a minimum of friction.

We should remember, furthermore, that helping to finance the war is the privilege mainly of those who still enjoy the receipt of incomes as civilians during the war. It is a modest contribution toward victory when we compare it with the contribution of those in the fighting forces. By the end of the current fiscal year the public debt will total 135 billion dollars. By June 30, 1944, it will be about 210 billion dollars under existing revenue legislation. Before the present debt limit of 125 billion dollars is reached, the Congress will be requested to extend that limit. To do this is sound, for such a debt can and will be repaid. The Nation is soundly solvent.

Preparing for Total Victory

Preparing for total victory includes preparing the base on which a happier world can be built. The tremendous productive capacity of our country, of all countries, has been demonstrated. Freedom from want for everybody, everywhere, is no longer a Utopian dream. It can be translated into action when the fear of aggression has been removed by victory. The soldiers of the fighting forces and the workmen engaged in military production want to be assured that they will return to a life of opportunity and security in a society of free men

The economic stabilization program, although born of war necessity, will greatly facilitate post-war reconstruction. A determined policy of war taxation and savings will aid in making post-war problems manageab's by reducing the volume of additional borrowing and supporting the stabilization program. Because of the unavoidable magnitude of interest-bearing debt. taxes probably will never revert to the pre-war level. But substantial reduction from the war level will, nevertheless, be possible and will go hand in hand with a greater human security if the underlying fiscal structure is kept sound.

I shall be happy to meet with the appropriate committees of the Congress at any and all times in regard to the methods by which they propose to attain the objectives outlined in this message. We are at one in our desire quickly to win this war and to avoid passing on to future generations more than their just share of its sacrifices and

Fiscal Calendar Is Confusing to President, Too

President Roosevelt gets just as mixed up as you do about this fiscal year and calendar year business. He told a press conference at which he was explaining his budget message to Congress that he thought it would be an awfully nice thing if Congress would pass a law making the Government's fiscal year the same as the calendar year.

That was after considerable confusion over trying to get on a strictly comparable basis his estimate that about $500 worth of goods and ble this year. Stabilization of incomes and absorption of excess purchasing power by fiscal measures are essential for success of the stabilization program, he said, expressing confidence that "Congress will implement that program by adequate legislation increasing taxation, savings, or both," and thus help to "pay as we go" and make "the coming peace easier for ourselves and our children."

Mr. Fowler emphasized that a study of accounts shows that since 1942 the impending increased wage $8,500,000. And, he said, Budget Bureau officials had called this pointedly to the attention of the Commissioners at a recent conference which led to a suggestion that probably $5,000,000 should be cut from maintenance and operation requests for the next fiscal Subsequent studies resulted vear. in joint recommendations for the $2,300,000 cut reflected in the approved budget. It was estimated that the pro posed pay increases for school teachers, police and firemen, as embodied in the McCarran bill now pending before the Senate District Committee would add nearly $2,549,-000 a year to District costs.

Welfare Funds Slashed. In their final revisions of the District estimates, the Budget Bureau and the Commissioners struck off nearly $600,000 for public welfare which earlier had been approved. The District WPA sponsors' item of $155,000 was cut off entirely, leaving in doubt continuation of the free lunch program for needy school children and perhaps other similar projects, and proposed appropriations for several relief categories were slashed, amid reports that distribution of surplus commodities by the United States might end

One cut ordered by the budgeteers set up a prospect of savings of nearly $90,000 a year to the District government by the means of a reported reduction from $1.90 to $1.85 in the per diem per patient cost of maintaining District residents placed under care at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, ordered by the Budget Bureau. It was said this cut in fees would become effective sometime between now and July 1.

Funds for New Sites But Bans Building

Money for Fuel Oil And Coal Is Reduced More Than Half

While funds to purchase eight new school sites, including four in the crowded Anacostia area, are provided in the 1944 budget estimates for the public schools, no funds are provided for building the schools during the coming fiscal year, presumably because of wartime

Though the increased operational costs and purchase of sites increase the school budget $260,000 over its last year's total of $12,539,825, the total proposed appropriation is $118,000 less than school officers had hoped to receive. Among the items struck out was $12,500 of the $28,-500 requested to pay the increased cost of fuel oil and coal. Officials expect to have to reapply for the $12,500 in a deficiency appropriation. Also struck from the requests were provisions for salaries of half of the 20 teachers needed at the proposed Merritt Junior High-Elementary School, and salaries for assistant principals at the Macfarland, Langley and Browne Junior High Schools.

The plan to expand the physical fitness program to five periods a week in the junior high vocational schools, as was done last year in the senior high schools, is not directly affected by cuts in personnel requests, because officials had already planned to transfer salaries for teachers in less crowded areas to employ teachers for the new program.

The main threat to the proposed expansion, according to school officials, is the difficulty of finding male physical education instructors. The actual personnel slashes include salaries for two clerks for each of the eight elementary school divisions and several more clerks at the Franklin School

The budget for the Recreation Department shows the same cut in mainly affecting the care of playing fields and supervising of recreational facilities in the more crowded population areas. The cut in the request for playground supervisors will not be felt as keenly by the department if the War Production Board continues to hold up 29 playgrounds which were to have been

The school budget estimates continue all services for the deaf, dumb, blind and crippled, however, and add $1,000 for instruction of the blind and $6,840 to provide transportation of hard-of-hearing children and Braille students to the new special classes at the John Quincy Adams School

The 3 per cent increase in operational costs, in spite of a 4 per cent decrease in school enrollment, is attributed by the Commissioners to the influx of new war workers into certain sections of the city. Providing school facilities in areas not formerly developed has already necessitated erection of eight new schools during the past year and the Commissioners look ahead to further development with provision for the Water System Survey The Budget Bureau asked Congress today to appropriate $25,000 for preparation of plans for in-

The recommendations were contained in the 1944 District budget. which allocates $2,167,308 to the Water Department, a reduction of $1,237,587 under the appropriation for the current fiscal year. The cut, the Budget Bureau explained, was due to elimination of new construction items, made necessary by priorities on critical materials. Three of the principal new items for the Water Department in the budget provide $25,000 for each of

The fuel oil shortage in Washington and along the Atlantic seaboard is so serious now that complaining, continued fault-finding and quarrelling with the authorities will do more harm than good.

- Washington fuel oil dealers were pretty accurate in their predictions of what now has come to pass. But the dealers undoubtedly realize that existing conditions are beyond any single remedy, save a sudden and abundant supply of oil. As the authorities are doing everything humanly possible to get more oil. not merely for Washington but for other cities where conditions may be even worse, the dealers can serve best by continuing their splendid efforts to get what oil there is into 'the neediest homes. In this they need the OPA's recognition of the fact that the dealers themselves must practice informal rationing of their customers. To say that the dealers must deliver to those who have coupons, first come, first served, would ignore the fact that the neediest should come first. The first come, first served theory, as in the case of other proposals for changing the rationing system, etc., is based on availability of oil. When the oil is not available, the proposed changes in the system are ineffective. Even some of the changes which might in theory facilitate the delivery of oil in Washington cannot be made here without applying them elsewhere. And to apply them elsewhere might create more confusion, and in the end represent merely a substitution of evils.

The real trouble now is a lack of oil, caused not merely by the in- ever, would be to increase the antiadequate transportation with which we are familiar but aggravated by additional demands on this inadequate transportation with which we are not familiar. In other words, we are in for a bad time of it and it will help in the end to face that fact as frankly and as cheerfully as possible and expect no "solution" of our difficulties except warmer weather.

With the homes claiming first priorities, it undoubtedly will become necessary to base other priorities on the actual need of services furnished. Further modifications in validity of coupon dates may be made and further steps taken to pool oil supplies among all dealers. While such expedients may help, they will not cure the trouble until much more oil is available than there is in sight now.

Among articles made from paper which soon will be discontinued or much curtailed are paper napkins and paper doilies. American men are terrifically brave in a pinch and doubtless can bear up under that one among all their other troubles.

Hard Coal Strike

The strike in the Pennsylvania hard coal fields, in which some 21,000 men are idle, is an exceptionally reprehensible form of abuse, since it is the result of a strictly intraunion dispute.

Secretary Ickes, acting in his capacity of solid fuels co-ordinator, has described the strike as "intolerable," and has strongly urged a resumption of work. Upon receiving a vague reply, he said: "It is the responsibility of the anthracite workers and operators to produce this coal, and inconclusive words to the chilly homes of the Nation make a poor substitute for fuel."

In addressing this message to both the miners and the operators, however, Mr. Ickes failed to make it clear that the latter are in no way involved in the strike. The men left the mines in protest against an increase in union dues from $1 to $1.50 a month, and they have refused to resume work despite the action of their district officers in voting to return to the mines.

As matters stand, there seem to be two possibilities of getting the men back to work. One lies in action by the officials of United Mine Workers, who have always taken the position that they are able to control the members of their unions. and who probably can if they want to. But as yet it does not appear that they have attempted either to adjust the dues dispute or penalize the strikers. The other possibility lies in action by the Government. If this situation had been brought about by a comparable dispute among the operators of the mines. it should not and would not be tolerated by the Government. With real suffering on the part of the more than 300,000 tons, why should a different attitude be adopted toward the workers and union officials solely responsible for the strike?

Bloody-but Unbowed

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, veteran of many a sharp fight in the Upper House, emerged from the recent Democratic senatorial caucus with an unbowed, if slightly bloody, head. He retained his leadership of the Senate Democrats. Indeed, the vote for his re-election was unanimous. At that point, however, the unanimity of the Democrats vanished. A group of Democratic Senators, particularly aroused over the manner in which Senator Barkley had personally given the right of way in the Senate to the anti-poll tax bill during the last session of Congress, had something up the sleeve. It turned out to be a motion to elect two Senators to fill vacancies in the Democratic Steering Committee.

In itself, the motion appeared innocent enough, without any particular significance. It has been the practice, or the custom, to have appointments to the Steering Committee made by the party leader. The proposal, therefore, to elect to fill these vacancies was immediately construed by Senator Barkley and his more ardent supporters as a slap at his leadership, as, indeed, it was, At the bottom of the row was the bitter feeling on the part of Democrats from the Southern States growing out of the anti-poll tax fight. They had insisted the bill was unconstitutional, and that it was a matter which should be left entirely to the States-in this case States of the South—to handle.

The plan had been to place, by election, Senators Bailey of North Caroline and Overton of Louisiana on the Steering Committee. The proposal to elect members of the Steering Committee was rejected by a vote of thirty-four to twenty, only after Senator Barkley had threatened to resign from his office of leader if the resolution should be

Just where this fracas has left the Democratic leader, and the party as a whole in the Senate, has not yet been determined. There is an unpleasant suspicion that the Democratic leader might have the carpet pulled from under his feet at any time, or at a time when it might be particularly important to keep a majority of the Senate in line for an administration measure. Mr. Barkley has still to appoint the Senators to fill the two vacancies in the Steering Committee. He could, if he wished, smooth troubled waters by appointing the two Senators whom the insurgents had selected to "elect" to the committee. To do so, how-New Deal strength in the Steering Committee, which already is considerable The caucus, having continued Senator Barkley's power to appoint members of the Steering Committee, adopted a resolution calling for more frequent meetings of that committee to pass upon the legislative program. In this resolution. Senator Barkley concurred. As a matter of fact he had called the Steering Committee together a couple of times in the closing weeks of the last sessionafter the filibuster of the Senators from the Democratic South had killed the anti-poll tax bill. However, it eased the feelings of some of the Barkley opponents, who had been bitter because he did not have Steering Committee action on the poll tax

The Steering Committee also acts as a committee on committees, arranging the assignment of Senators to the standing committees. For that reason, too, it may have been important to keep the selection of its members within the hands of the Democratic leader-who also is regarded as the administration leader in the Senate.

The path of Senator Barkley, as leader, has not always been easy. Nevertheless he has shown himself a leader of firmness and, when occasion demanded, of tact. It looks as though, in the session of Congress now getting under way, it will be especially necessary for him to exercise the latter quality.

Taxicab Travel

Director Joseph B. Eastman of the Office of Defense Transportation undoubtedly is correct in saying that the use of taxicabs for pleasure riding is hard to control by order, yet it is clearly desirable that some method of curbing this evasion of the latest gasoline conservation order be found.

Since the purpose of the ban on pleasure driving is to save gasoline. it is obvious that nothing is accomplished to this end if a person leaves his car in the garage but takes a taxi to the movies or a concert. Furthermore, if this practice proves to be widespread, and is tolerated, it will be increasingly difficult to retain the co-operation in this conservation effort of the private motorists who have been asked to leave their automobiles at home and walk or ride streetcars or buses. Mr. Eastman and James H. Flanagan, chairman of the District Public Utilities Commission, have appealed to the public to "help out in this crisis by refraining from the use of taxicabs for mere pleasure." This, as a preliminary move, is desirable, and probably will enlist a large measure of support. It is clear, however, from the increase in use of taxicabs, that a number of persons have not been responsive to this appeal. Should this excessive use production already has been cut | have to be employed, both against the patrons and the operators of the cabs, where it can be shown that the latter knowingly hauled passengers on pleasure trips.

What these measures should be, as Mr. Eastman has suggested, is difficult to say. At the least, however, it would seem that, if motorists in their own cars are to be stopped and required to establish the legitimacy of their use, the same rule should be applied to taxicab riders, and that comparable penalties should be invoked in the cases of those who cannot show that they are engaged in necessary travel.

Our Auxiliary Police

No civilian defense volunteers have given a better account of themselves than the District's fine body of auxiliary policemen. But the very realistic process by which they were being trained must have convinced the wiser heads among them, as it did the Commissioners, that their extralegal status as members of the Metropolitan Police Department was entirely too vague and needed clarification. The action of the Commissioners in dispensing with their services, except in time of emergencies for which they have been trained, was taken with that point in mind.

The auxiliary police, as a part of the civilian defense organization, was created at a time when the regular police force was suffering from a chronic lack of manpower in the face of increasing demands for police protection. The volunteers have received their training by manning police posts with regular patrolmen and so well have they done their job that the tendency of police officials was to use them more and more as welcome additions to the force, instead of regarding them as available for duty merely during emergencies.

They were being sent unarmed on the streets for occasional duty that carried its hazards—as demonstrated by some of their exploits-yet the municipality seemed unable to indemnify them against injury or death in the line of duty. The wisdom of arming them was considered carefully and the decision against this step, in the opinion of The Star, was a wise one. For the failure to provide for their compensation in case of accident implied, on the other hand, a certain lack of responsibility by the municipality for their actions. It is a fine tribute to the character of these men, and the training they have received by the Metropolitan Police Department, that there has been no unfortunate incident between civilians and the auxiliary police. Their conduct has been exemplary.

The Commissioners naturally realize that when they divest the auxiliary police of responsibility in regular service with the force, they also remove a part of the incentive on the part of the volunteers to keep themselves in readiness. That has been a great handicap in maintaining the whole civilian defense system of volunteers. The most conscientious of volunteers grows weary of continued preparation for an emergency that in some ways seems more than ever remote. But the necessity for this constant state of preparedness is beyond question and our ability to maintain it here in Washington will provide the real test of the soundness of the local organi-

Speed Streetcar Traffic

One of the suggestions made by the Office of Defense Transportation to speed streetcar and bus traffic was to lengthen the distance between stops. Two years ago the Public Utilities Commission made fine progress in this direction, reducing the number of stops by 13 per cent on streetcar lines and 15 per cent on bus routes and raising the average distance between stops to 660 feet, as compared with the present ODT standard of 600 feet.

Perhaps it is not practicable to do any more along this line. But something certainly should be done to eliminate the congestion now, on streetcar lines especially, due to poorly placed loading platformsand traffic lights-on such downtown thoroughfares as F, G and Fourteenth streets. Could not some study be made of this condition, with a view either to changing the timing of the lights, eliminating them or lengthening some loading platforms while disposing of others?

Certainly the congestion in the afternoon and morning rush hours on these downtown streets could be reduced if the cars had more right of way to move and if they were not subject to stops both from traffic lights and loading platforms in every block. Substitution of traffic policemen for lights, and one long platform between Ninth and Fourteenth streets, should tend to facilitate loading and increase the flow of streetcars. And now that people are recovering their ability to walk. a walk of an extra block or two is not the terrific ordeal that it once was.

Describes Theory of 'Chain of Command'

Military Critic Explains How Authority Descends To Combat Officers at Front

By Maj. George Fielding Eliot. The exercise of the function of command in war is not always well understood even by soldiers. Command and responsibility go hand in hand. A commander in chief is directly responsible to his government, or to the organs of military direction set up by two or more allied governments working in co-ordination. He receives from this superior authority no detailed instructions, but only a general directive, indicating the objective which he is supposed to attain, and giving him usually the widest freedom of action as to the methods he will use in attaining it. Ordinarily, when a certain operation has been determined on, a commander in chief is selected and his advice is sought as to the forces needed and the means to be adopted. A commander in chief ought to be allowed full freedom of choice in the selection of the principal members of his staff, and as far as possible of his immediate subordinate commanders, all of whom should participate in the planning of the operation.

(To simplify the description, the remainder of this article will deal

Under the direction of the commander in chief the army commanders each are assigned a definite portion of the task allotted to the whole force. The authority of an army commander is therefore at the outset much more limited in scope than that of a commander in chief. Nevertheless it is rare that an army commander is limited as to methods, though his task is much more rigidly defined. The army commander, in turn, deals with the commanders of his corps (of which he has usually two or three) and with the commanders of his "army troops"; that is, artillery, engineers and other units attached directly to army headquarters and available for use in support of any of the corps, or for temporary attachment thereto if required. An army commander in our service is usually a lieutement general.

One more word as to orders-it is unusual for any unit in the field below the division to issue written combat orders. Regiments and subordinate units usually issue verbal orders, directly from the unit commander to his staff and immediate subordinates, who are assembled for the purpose if there is time; otherwise orders are sent by messenger or by signal communication. It takes many hours for the orders of a commander in chief to reach the lowest echelons, being expanded at each subordinate headquarters into the more detailed instructions required to execute the wishes of higher authority. "GEORGETOWN.

"Dear Sir: "I received a neat bird house as a Christmas present. I want to know whether I should put it up now, or wait until spring. This house is bright red. Do you think birds like red?

"I have not fed the birds much, except during snowy weather, but we have plenty of them most of the time. I do not dislike English sparrows and starlings, but do not find them as interesting as cardinals

"There is one bird we have over here in the summer, and it is the hummingbird. I have heard them make a squeaking noise, but I have never heard them hum. How close do you have to be to hear them hum?

"We had a flower box at the window, one of these long ones, and in it we had petunias, the pink sort, and to this box the hummingbirds always came. Sometimes in the evening they would come while we were eating dinner. Then they would be only a foot or so away, but they did not seem at all afraid.

"Sincerely, M. J. K."

The value of a bird house in interior decoration has never been recognized. Utterly aside from their value outdoors, bird houses go splendidly with Christmas tree decorations. Most of these small houses, intended for nesting birds, have artistic value. Hung on a tree in the living room, they give a note of cheer. Placed on the floor at the base of the tree, they seem just right.

The color of bird houses is a moot question. Many enthusiasts believe that green and white or brown are the preferences of the songsters.

Colors such as red are generally shunned by most of the birds.

This is true of both bird houses and feeding stations. We can see from our window a feeding station which is painted Chinese red. No bird has ever been seen at it.

Too bright colors are not as good as the more subtle ones.

Dark greens, grays and browns are good because they are the colors the birds are acquainted with in nature.

They do not dislike white, except in bird baths and foods. We have always noticed that the staring white bath is not as popular as the darker one. White foods, such as cottage cheese and popcorn, tend to frighten the guests at a feeding station. * * * *

Just why this is we do not know. There are few back yard gardens there, no matter how small, which do not

Red is a favorite color with the small birds.

The humming of the hummingbird cannot be heard except when one is

The albizzia tree is the best one to plant to attract the hummer. When this tree grows up and spreads its long feathery blossoms, scores of hummingbirds will visit it. We have seen this sight in nearby Maryland, and it is unforgettable.

Fortunately, the hummingbird is quite as interesting in twos as in hundreds. Therefore any gardener with a pair need not lament the lack of 50 pairs.

This is more or less true of all birds,

Marriage Suggested as Remedy For Relentiess Taxation of Unmarried. To the Editor of The Star:

I'd like to ask Secretary Morgenthau if his conscience doesn't rise up to confront him over some of the harshness meted out to single persons when income tax laws are written.

Evidently when a caucus gathers to write new tax laws, all thought is directed first to the unmarried. 'Twas ever thus since the writing of the first income tax. With great glee, authors of such bills descend on the single for the first and main trimming. After closing in and disposing of this kill, attention is turned on other victims, but never with such severity or with such relentless fury as the attack on the unmarried.

I wonder when will fall the straw to break the camel's back? Surely, it must come. I have raised this feeble protest realizing at the same time how utterly useless it is to do so. For I know without a doubt that the next income tax law, whenever it is written, will put the sharpest scissors to shearing the help-

Of course, there is a way out of our dilemma. We can get married. But that is only dodging the issue and not rectifying it. For the latter there is no hope. So, lads and lassies, let's all join hands and storm the marrying places. The main thing is to get married and avoid the income tax!

Proposes Signs to Ald Promotion of Car Sharing. To the Editor of The Star:

As one of the many Government workers finding it difficult to get to work in the District of Columbia, I am writing to make a suggestion for improving transportation in this area. This suggestion is based upon the observation, made standing for long periods on the curb in Arlington while loaded buses passed by, that there is a large unused reservoir of transportation facilities in passenger automobiles going into the District. So long as there are empty seats in passenger cars, available transportation resources are not being utilized adequately. It is toward remedying this situation that the present suggestion

Efforts to organize car pools have not solved the problem, partly because of the difficulty in finding persons going the same place at the same time, and partly because of the annoyance of waiting for other members of the pool, Motorists having vacant seats used to stop and ask people waiting for buses if they would like a lift. They become discouraged, however, because more often than not the persons asked would not be going to the same part of town. The problem, then is to devise some means for people who have vacant seats to see at a glance whether persons waiting by the side of the street are going toward their part of the Government area.

One way to solve this problem would be to adopt a method whereby persons waiting for buses could identify their destination to persons driving by. One possible solution is as follows: The area occupied by Government buildings can be divided into districts, perhaps from 5 to 7 in number, and maps showing these divisions be given circulation in the press. Motorists interested in sharing their cars then easily could ascertain the numbers of the districts to which they were going and the districts through which they would pass on the

Having discussed the above plan with a number of people, I am convinced that both motorists and pedestrians would be glad to co-operate in such an effort to meet the transportation crisis. JOHN O. Tribute Paid To "Other Girls."

To the Editor of The Star:

Everywhere one hears a great deal about the girls in the WAVES and in the WAACS. These girls are fully deserving. They are fighting daily to boast morale wherever it be low. But I believe that other groups of girls also should be considered for honorable mention. These girls may not come up to the standards of the WAVES and the WAACS, but nevertheless they should be given some recognition. Big War Debt Causes Fear For Future

Formula to Avert Social Disorder Declared Vital

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Astronomical figures of war budgets and the public debt mean little today to the average man. Some day they will constitute a problem in national policy that will rock the Nation with debate and or so or perhaps David Lawrence. in two or three years thereafter. Nobody assumes a war of a decade and nobody assumes that anything else matters except to provide the materials and the weapons to win.

But as the debt mounts and public expenditure reaches undreamedof heights, the fear of post-war collapse and catastrophe mounts also and the citizen wonders whether there will be at the helm of government men with narrow and selfish viewpoints or men with a firm hand and a realistic sense of how to meet the danger.

The present administration, beginning in 1933, endeavored to meet economic depression by more and more spending, so that when war broke on us the country had not yet come to grips with a decade of yearly deficits totaling $23,000,-000,000. The day of reckoning had not arrived because of the necessity of spending even larger sums to meet the perils of foreign-made aggression.

The economic problems, however, have not been solved. They have only been postponed and there is no evidence that the individuals in charge of our Government know of any other way to meet economic distress except to favor special groups and borrow more money. It is to be hoped that the best economic minds of the Nation will be mobilized long before the armistice comes so that some formula to prevent what conceivably could result in social disorder and panic may be prepared.

Price Ceilings Uncertain.

The history of the world shows that when nations go too far in lebt, they find some way to reputheir currency, sometimes they ask the lenders to accept a lesser sum in exchange for existing bonds and sometimes they allow the purchasing power of the monetary unit-in this case the dollar-to become less and less, so that over a period of time the working class bears the biggest ourden of all.

Misguided persons who call themselves leaders of the laboring classes are usually responsible for the debacles that come because they mistakenly oppose every measure that seeks to increase output per man or lengthen hours or in other ways find a means of increasing production, when in truth these are some of the paramount factors in preventing economic convulsion.

For sooner or later all the socalled price ceilings tend to break, and up through those ceilings prices soar. The reason they break through is that the same misguided labor politicians, thinking to make themselves secure with their rank and file, continually insist on wage in- gram: creases or premium pay for overtime, and in the end there is only one way under a private enterprise system for the producer to insure against loss or even perhaps make a profit and that's by getting a fair selling price for his goods.

Workers Bound to Suffer.

As prices rise, the purchasing power of the dollar goes down. Millions of citizens in the fixed salary brackets such as school teachers and white collar workers suffer and the farmers are unable, with the depressed prices they get, to exchange their products for citymade necessities of life. What is often called inflation is merely a runaway price level and a devalued monetary unit.

"It may be, of course, that America's inventive genius and her marvelous capacity for quantity production may help keep the price level down by producing goods at lower and lower prices even with a high standard of living for workers, but if union rules and ordinances, for example, keep housing costs at prohibitive levels and politicians become so fearful of the labor vote that they allow an organized minority to penalize the unorganized majority, little help can be expected from the so-called technological improvements that should tend to supply the citizens' wants at low costs and low prices.

So long as government is a matter of special privilege as it is today under the improperly labeled "liberal" administration, the workers are bound in the end to suffer. The true liberals are those who believe not merely that the Government owes every man an opportunity but that it should protect his right to work and his right to obtain goods made without restraints of either a labor or management monopoly. The big budget figures of today may cause no flurry, but some day today's budgets will cause an awakening as millions of persons discover that there is no substitute for hard work, that the citizen can't expect to get something for nothing and that a Na-tion's bonds—its vital credit—are only as good as the common sense of the citizens in choosing prudent

· President's Message His Most Confident Statement Since Beginning of War

By DOROTHY THOMPSON. The President's address to the new Congress on the state of the Union was the speech of a great war leader, and the most confident and affirmative statement from his lips since the beginning of the war. It was on a plane that lifted it above all partisanship. As a factual report of a year of war Derothy Thompson. it did much to put things into correct perspective. For the way to get a true picture of our war effort is by an over-all and comparative view; not by observing the thousand and one glaring defects, but by measuring where we stand now by where we stood a And from such a viewpoint, the American war effort un-doubtedly overshadows every other, Allied or enemy, considering the time into which it has been telescoped. True, we started out with the greatest industrial potential, but to shift the greatest industry to a war footing is not easier, but harder, than to shift a small one. The preparation of the smaller but still great German industry took six years and total dictatorship. We are not a military country, and thus the announcement that we already have a million and a half trained troops abroad is stupendous. Their training, their transfer across the seas, with the immense equipment necessary to modern warfare, the gathering of shipping for such a project and their convoy through submarine-infested seas is so fantastic that Dr. Goebbels has only one answer to the President's report: It is

They Don't Know America.

Again we see America living up to the slogan, "The poor fool didn't know it couldn't be done. so he went ahead and did it." Neither Hitler, Goebbels nor Tojo has ever had the faintest notion of what America is like.

The President's good nature, his admission of errors, the generosity of his spirit toward all Americans and all our Allies is also a cause for confidence, for it is a symptom of his state of mind. When the President is worried he is most irascible—a quality which he shares with all men. In his address to the Congress he was a happy warrior. And since he certainly knows the basis for his confidence, the whole country feels more elated.

In projecting a future for America of full employment and much greater security, I believe he will be backed by the overwhelming majority of Americans, even though the applause of Congress seemed a, little timid. In doing so, also, he appealed above partisanship to good will. Speaking of the aim of achieving freedom from want, he rejected a "post-war America which suffers from undernourishment of slums" or "the dole," just as he rejected a repetition of the "bogus" boom prosperity which followed the last war, only to end in general breakdown. He expressed confidence that full employment "can" be maintained, and that the major economic risks can be insured against for every family. In this he is following the objective of the Beveridge plan in Britain.

But instead of presenting the aim dogmatically, he pleaded that all Americans of good will should concentrate on the objective. He made it clear that he believed it could be accomplished inside a system of private enterprise. Our war effort itself proves that it can be. He asked that its achievement be "regarded not as an issue, but as a task, to be worked out with constant regard for the attainment of the objective, with fairness to all and injustice to none." He therefore recommended its achievement to the democratic process of public

Actually, the President's appeal is a challenge to the industrialists, the labor unions, the economists, and the Congress to produce a post-war program, which will assure continuing employment and a universal system of insurance.

What the President said about the length of the war is also important. He wisely made no prophesies, but he did indicate that we are gearing ourselves to a short war, and shall try to get it over as soon as possible. He indicated that to the best of his belief, it is not going to be an indefinitely protracted struggle. He said that the present Congress may possibly make the peace—and that suggests a time limit. On the subject of that peace, he was, necessarily cautious. Yet, he did make certain definite and clear statements, and it seems to me that this part of his speech is the most debatable. But to comment on it will require another column. (Released by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Accordingly, there was not a trace of truculence in his tone, save when he spoke of the enemy, and no provocative proposals. The fact is it was more unfair and one-sided law than a speech which left no room for

Job Problem Discussed.

And everybody will echo the Roosevelt desire to rid the Nation of unemployment. Being for that is like being for health and happiness. Being for that is like being for most of the New Deal objectives-instinctive and natural. Being for that is and started to work now, there is no like being for "Freedom from want reason the answer could not be and freedom from fear."

It took the war to cure unemployment and that is a cure worse than the disease. The New Deal made, such a commission would put millions of men on the WPA achieve at once two eminently derelief rolls, and hundreds of thou- sirable things. First, it would sands in the multitudinous bureaus the confusion engendered by some and agencies at Washington. Constantine Brown. American military observers are inclined to share the view of the Soviets, now that they have been treated more liberally by Moscow's high command in the last six weeks. They are allowed to follow closely the operations of the Russian military machine. This in itself is a clear indication that Russia is looking at the general situation with genuine optimism

The real reason those observers were kept hundreds of miles away from the front in the past was that the headquarters did not want them to see flagrant discrepancies between the official communiques and the actual results. Now, however, when the communiques tally with actual facts, as far as the progress of the Russian armies is concerned. there is no longer any reason to keep the foreign military observer in the dark.

The same military strategists who rightly refused to attack Western Europe last summer because such an operation would have been doomed to failure are now convinced that the American and British forces can do the job evolved free of the New Deal brand.

This Changing World

Experts Begin to Share Reds' Confidence Of Major Victory Over Nazis by Summer

By CONSTANTINE BROWN. The Russian high command and the Allies no longer regard the Soviet offensive against the Nazis as a "holding operation."

But while Allied military experts are cautioned about sharing the Russians' optimism that the Nazis will be crushed by the end of the summer, they do agree that the Russian offensive is on so large a scale and is performed with such enthusiasm and efficiency that even if the Germans are not actually beaten they will be so badly mauled and will have suffered such heavy losses that it will be relatively easy for the Allies to deal them the "coup de grace."

There is a great deal of talk in Allied military quarters about an offensive "somewhere on the European mainland" this spring

The situation has changed radically. The enemy is on the defensive on all fronts. A landing in Europe today would not have the negative object of relieving pressure on the Russians, but the positive object of joining the Soviet forces advancing from the east. It has about the same aim as the operation of Lt. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, who intends to join the armies of Gen. Bernard Montgomery by moving from west to east in North Africa, The Nazis are aware of the general strategy of the Allies and are reported gravely concerned. Never, since the outbreak of the war, has the situation of the Nazis been as bad. They know that the Allied forces are now fully prepared for an offensive. Moreover, Berlin's minions are increasingly dissatisfied with the progress of the war. The Italians are openly defiant to the Nazi rule in spite of the efforts of a small group of Fascists to play along with Hitler.

Although there have been official denials of serious trouble in Hungary and Rumania, reliable reports say that both those countries are on the verge of collapse.

Germans Realize Danger. And so, the Germans realize that these nations might become their most embittered enemies when they hear that the Allies have landed in Europe and are marching against Hitler's armies.

A few months ago when the Nazis were on the offensive everywhere any rebellious outbreak would have been put down with comparative ease. Now, Hitler has not enough forces to spare to fight the Russians, to oppose the Allies in the west and to deal with "local situations." No one here would be surprised to hear in the next few months that more guerrilla leaders like Gen. Draja Mihailovich have made their appearance in Hungary, Rumania and France.

Hitler is aware of all this. What his next move will be is hard to tell, but in competent military quarters it is believed he will treat himself to another spectacular offensive against some neutral country. This belief is predicated on two factors: He must keep up the morale of his people by showing them that their armies still have an offensive power, and he must organize his defense lines to cope with a possible attack against the Reich itself from two fronts, the west and the east.

It is difficult to ascertain where the Fuehrer may decide to strike in his last gigantic offensive. Some believe he will attempt to secure the western front by the occupation of Spain; others believe he will enter Sweden in order to keep the that a landing of the Allies in Norway will not threaten the

McLemore-Boosts Wigs After Viewing Congress

By HENRY McLEMORE. By actual count from the Capitol press galleries the Seventy-eighth Congress has 45 bald-headed members and 32 members whose hair is so nearly gone that all they have is a sort of Uncle Remus fringe. The bald-headed legislators are so bald that one could go over their noggins with a blow torch and not even singe as much as a pin feather. The

Henry McLemore. fringe boys aren't much better off, and when they leave their homes in the morning no sensible handicapper would offer more than even money on their chances of returning home with any interim need of a comb.

The two paragraphs above are nothing more than an introduction to a discussion of wigs and toupees. Why don't men wear them? Certainly it can't be because a glistening pate is supposed to add to a man's attractiveness. You can search literature with a fine-tooth comb without finding any mention of how a gal was enamored of a man because the sunlight shone brilliantly on his scalp or because the moonbeams glimmered softly on his polished skull. No one ever heard of a heroine of a novel sighing romantically as she ran her fingers through nothing.

Hair might not be man's crowning glory, but it doesn't hurt his appearance a bit. But when it goes 1,000,-000 men out of 1,000,010 do nothing about replacing it. They just say hail and farewell and accept the situation.

This is undoubtedly because a wig or a toupee for some reason is considered completely ridiculous. Either is always good for a joke and people go around nudging one another and saying, "Look, that man has on a wig."

Why is this? When a man's eyesight goes bad he gets glasses. When his ears begin wearing out he goes in the market for a hearing device. If he loses a tooth he has it replaced with a false one. No one goes into screaming hysterics over any of these artificialities. But let a man try to improve his appearance with hair that he had to pay money for and he becomes almost a buffoon.

As a matter of fact, a wig isn't half as funny as some of the tricks resorted to by men who are losing long hairs left on one side of their heads swoop them over the bald spot and plaster them down. It's just about the poorest bit of camouflage that you can imagine.

Some men with a little hair on the back of their heads brush it forward. Some with a little tuft left in front comb it straight up, hoping that no one will look over the little tuft and see the bald area

I, for one, am not going to be foolish about the wig situation. My hair is not going to be with me for many more years. My forehead is getting higher and higher, and it is not improving my appearance one bit. I have mentally marked a timberline on my head and when my hair retreats to that point I am going in for reforestation.

I am going to get my money's worth, too. None of those little Hollywood toupees or hairpieces for me. I want something straight from the Fiji Islands-pounds and pounds of hair. I never had a curl on my head. I have always had straight, red hair, but when I order my wig, I am going to order a curly black eyebrows and runs clear back to my coat collar. If the Fiji Islands aren't shipping wigs at that time, I'll settle for three or four well-cut cocker spaniel ears.

Naturally, I don't expect to fool any one with this wig. I intend to be perfectly casual about it. If it's a hot night, I'll check it with my hat. If anyone wants to try it on, I'll snap it off and let him see how it fits him. Sometimes I'll wear it rakishly over one eye, sometimes sedately straight on my head.

Rest assured, I'm not going around with a bald head as long as I have wig money in my pocket. And, if I am down on my luck when my hair reaches the timberline and can't afford a wig, I'll just paint hair on the top of my head.

(Continued From First Page.) what it is worth-a sobering indication of the difficulties which attend the inflicting of total or even crippling damage on Germany's newest 750-ton subs maneuvering in wolf packs.

The German radio claims day after day, over and over, that Germany's U-boats will win the war. The Reich is known to be assembling U-boats at a dozen, or possibly as many as 16 ports in Germany, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium and France and the number is believed to be increasing.

There is no way of knowing the exaggerations about German claims for U-boat construction but, nonetheless, clear-thinking British opinion somberly accepts the situation as serious and seeks to bring the full implications down to the man-inthe-street, aware that all the potentialities of the U-boat threat to the Allied Nations are not being appreciated with the deepest, gravest significance. The killing of U-boats is Britain's main job-such is the theme of more and more leaders speaking publicly. The British are coming to realize-especially after such a demonstration of U-boat tration as the latest convoy attackthat Hitler considers the U-boat his strongest weapon and that it must be met by intelligent and carefully planned counterattack.

Heretofore, absence on a Saturday ducer and director of the Jay Gould has only constituted a four-hour charge against leave or pay, but day law, the charge is for a full day. Annual leave is granted at the rate of 26 days a year and 52 Saturday absences, consequently, would mean that at least 26 days could not be compensated. The controller general's ruling also said that temporary and indefinite employes who take Saturday off will lose leave accruals inasmuch as the action would constitute a break in their service. The decision holding that over-

Pay-as-You-Go Tax Due for 'Early Action,' Ruml Believes

Plan's Sponsor Hopes For Congressional Approval by March 1

By the Associated Press. Beardsley Ruml, sponsor of a pay-as-you-go income tax plan, yester-day predicted "early action by Congress" and expressed hope the legislation could be approved by March 1, 15 days before 1942 tax returns

"The strong interest everywhere in the pay-as-you-go plan will result in early action by Congress," the chairman of New York's Federal Reserve Bank said. "In this way the ground will be cleared for other urgent wartime measures.

"The questions which have been raised can and will be answered. I feel sure we can all look forward to a successful solving of our old income tax debt problem.

Mr. Ruml recalled President Roosevelt's approval of pay-as-yougo in principle, noting that the only question the President raised was whether the Treasury would lose money. Mr. Ruml told newsmen the total loss over a generation's time would be about the same as one month's Government expenditures. In return for this, he asserted, the country would remedy "an old defect in our income tax procedure, a defect which has now had the result of putting 27,000,000 income tax payers in debt for the tax on their last year's income."

Under the Ruml plan, the 1942 taxes due March 15 would be written off the books, and instead taxpayers would begin paying to the Treasury whatever percentage of their current income was set by Congress. This might be done by a withholding tax, under which employers would turn the money over to the Treasury instead of giving it to the employes, but Mr. Ruml said mechanics of the plan were up to

La Follette Hopes Congress

Senator La Follette, Progressive, of | said. Wisconsin said here yesterday he hoped Congress would enact some kind of a pay-as-you-earn income tax collection such as the Ruml plan before March 15.

Senator La Follette, here for the launching of a Liberty ship named for his late father, Robert M. La Follette, declared he expected the new Congress would have "the dire and unpleasant job of collecting more taxes, combined with holding out income at the source for postwar credit and readjustment.'

He added it was "imperative that something be done to get the great majority of taxpayers, who have been in the habit of paying last year's income taxes out of current year's income, on a current basis."

Baltimore reported streetcars and buses crowded "as never before," with all available rolling stock in service. Night clubs and theaters there said attendance dropped 30 to 50 per cent from previous week ends.

In some cities taxicab drivers refused to accept calls on the outskirts of town where other means of transportation were available.

Hearings Set This Week. Hearings before District rationing officials for motorists whose names have been turned in to the local ORA will be held this week. The hearings will not be public, but results will be announced. Cases of Maryland and Virginia motorists cited in the District will be referred to rationing boards near their homes, it was said.

In New York City, Mitchell Jelline, associate OPA enforcement officer, said failure to report for hearings would result in motorists being struck off the ration lists for coffee, sugar and other articles. They will be kept off until they appear, he

TO ALL MONTGOMERY WARD PEOPLE

— You are free to join or not to join a union, as you wish. The Company fully respects this privilege. Your opportunity with the Company will be the same whether you are a union member or not.

2 - You do not have to join a union to work at Wards.

3—Wards is opposed to all forms of the closed shop. Liberty requires that an employee be free to join, to refuse to join, or to resign from a union without losing his job. Liberty requires that an employer be free to employ the person best suited for the work.

4—The President of the United States has commanded Wards to accept for its Chicago plant a form of closed shop called "maintenance of membership". Under this form of closed shop, employees are not free to resign from the union without losing their jobs. Wards is compelled to discharge every union member who fails to maintain his union membership in good standing (non-payment of dues, etc.). This making of membership in a union a condition of holding a job is the closed shop.

5 — Wards did not voluntarily agree to this requirement. Wards believes it to be illegal and uneconomic. Wards has accepted it under duress and only because the President of the United States expressly so ordered.

6—Wards is the only retailer in the United States upon whom the President has imposed any form of the closed shop. It is unfair to impose burdens upon Wards and not upon those with whom it is in competition. If the retail industry is to be subjected to the closed shop requirement, it should be legislated by Congress and applied uniformly against all retail establishments.

7—The National War Labor Board has now called a hearing to determine whether the employees at Wards' six large stores in Denver, Detroit and New York City must belong to the union in order to hold their jobs. Wards will continue to oppose this illegal and uneconomic requirement. Wards will reject any demand of the Board that employees be discharged because they fail to maintain their union membership.

8—The President of the United States has no authority to order Wards employees to remain union members in order to hold their jobs. Congress is the only law-making authority. Congress has passed no law requiring the closed shop.

Baseball's Spring Training Is Overdone

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (NANA).—If there has been a part of sport badly overdone, the prize goes to the length given to spring training in the major leagues.

This applies especially to the long list of exhibition games played along the route back home.

If owners and managers don't know this, the ballplayers do. Few ballolayers facing a 154-game schedule can handle 35 extra games without going stale. Two weeks' training should be plenty if the ballplayer keeps in fairly good condition through the winter.

I've heard several club owners and managers admit this, but they feel they must string along with the others, largely through alleged publicity

Training at home through a shorter period isn't going to hurt the quality of play.

Cobb Kept in Condition by Cutting Camp

I asked Ty Cobb one year why he had held out so long. "Money had nothing to do with it," he said. "I simply didn't want to wear myself out with too much spring training. Take my season in 1911. I held out that year and finally reported at Terre Haute on April 6. This left me about 10 days to get ready. That year I batted .420 and stole 96 bases. I still was fresh and feeling good through the last week, where some of the others

Cobb handled fewer training days than any other big-time ballplayer. This partly accounts for the fact that he was able to move at top speed for 24 years.

Cobb kept in condition by hunting most of the winter. His legs were elways ready to give him the transportation he wanted.

If Cobb had reported late in February or early March, season after season, he would have lost at least four years from his playing time. For Cobb only knew how to play the game one way-at top speed.

Exhibitions Reduced Ruth's Hitting Power

I'll admit. Cobb was an exception. So was Babe Ruth. One of the all-time sporting marvels is the way Babe Ruth carried his 240-pound system through 20 seasons on a brace of slender ankles.

Each year you had the feeling those thin ankle props were going to crack up, considering the fact that Ruth also averaged at least 30 exhibi-

The Babe weighed 253 pounds the year he collected his 60 home runs, from 15 to 20 pounds over his normal displacement. "I had enough heft that year to hit 'em a little harder," the Babe tells you. And he also feels certain he could have added a husky batch of extra homers if he hadn't been called on for so much exhibition play. It always has been my belief that major league seasons start too early and last too long.

The season should be condensed, adding the necessary double-headers There is no reason why a ball club can't get in good shape in its home town in three weeks' time. It might not be quite as sharp the first week or two, but it will be better off from July on.

Getting Talent Now Baseball's Big Problem

Baseball's main problem this season isn't going to be a matter of training.

It is going to be a matter of getting enough ball players to round up a squad.

If this part of the problem can be handled, it is more than probable that both pennant races will be closer and better.

Year after year we've seen the American League pennant race over by early August

This means two months of waste action so far as general interest in the pennant is concerned. It is like playing out the bye holes in a golf

National League races have been closer, but for the last two seasons they have been strictly two-team contests

This means that 13 out of the 16 big league clubs might as well be elling peanuts after July.

There is a chance under the new order that a greater number of teams will be better matched and that cities outside of New York, Brooklyn and St. Louis will have a chance to look at home clubs that are parked within reach of the top.

At least, some of these teams won't be 40 and 50 games away from

Baric's Return in New Role Is Example of War's Pranks

By HAROLD CLAASSEN,

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Rudy Baric of West Virginia University is offered as the prize example of how topsyturvy the war has made the college sports world in a single year.

A year ago Baric and his Oinderella teammates essayed a journey to New York where they were seeded last in the National Invitational Basket Ball Tournament.

They remained long enough to win the title. Baric, known to every spectator and player as "The Goon." took added honors as the tourney's most valuable player.

This week the Mountaineers return with Baric, still a student at West Virginia, not as a player but the team's coach—and as Mr. Baric to the public and the athletes. He took over when the previous mentor, Dick Raese, joined the Navy.

Although the Mountaineer squad has back only one of the eight regulars of last season, the 1943 Mountaineers have won four of their first five games, and Wednesday encounter the unbeaten New York University outfit.

Some Other Choice Affairs. That game sparks this week's cage menu along with such other choice morsels as Arkansas vs. Rice, Southern California at Stanford, George Washington at Duke, Kentucky at Tennessee, Oklahoma Aggies at Creighton and Illinois at Wisconsin.

In additon to Pearson the starting five probably will have Bob Phillips, Bub Huff, Eddie Cox and Billy Earle. Phillips particularly is outstanding. He was voted the best player in last year's Metropolitan tournament and is a good all-around player. Several good reserves are pressing this five for starting posts, among them Myron Gerber, who, like Huff, was one of the Generals' numerous good halfbacks during the recent football season.

If the Generals get by Eastern successfully - no easy task - they again will be figured one of the tough teams around here. Eastern has won three and lost two so far and is getting better all the time.

It was a piece of good scouting work, incidentally, that helped Eastern in its victory over Wilson last Saturday. Of Planted Fish to Maryland Lads

If the curtailment of auto travel continues through next summer Maryland country lads are going to get the breaks over their city cousins for fishing in streams and waters above the rise and fall of the tide. Fishing likely is to be better than ever, for thousands of game fishes have been planted through the fall and winter. More than 10,000 brooks and browns, short of legal length now, have more chance to achieve the record of the fall of 1940, when the o'Connor, Elmer Lach and the vet-wildness of "natives" than will the official total was 424. At present, eran Toe Blake who did the heavy heavy stockings to be made by the with the addition of the 43 deer

The stock of trout on hand in Maryland hatcheries approximates the stocks of the best previous years, and because lately it has been the policy to hold all fish until they are well above the legal limit the outlook next spring is as rowy as any spring in the history of the depart.

From the early counts of the State during late winter and early killed on the grounds of the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club, the 1942 figure stands at 440, and that is quite a score for Maryland never has been recognized as a deer State.

Big Six Pacers to Meet Two Camp Fives, Defense

Plant Team Saturday KANSAS CITY, Jan. 11.-Kansas,

the team that's setting a scorching pace in the Big Six Conference basket ball scramble, plays three equipped with gas motors in their games away from home this week under conditions that would gladden the heart of even the most dour Government transportation official.

Dr. Forrest C. Allen will bundle his City and 14,400 in the Hub. For a high-flying Jayhawk proteges on a Madison Square Garden game, 13,375 chair car at Lawrence, unload them some 40 miles later at Kansas City and proceed to play two service teams and a defense plant quintet in a Saturday night triple-header court program.

At that, the trip itself may be the most tedious portion of the ironman stint, for the Jayhawks probably will use every member of the squad against the three rivals, Camp Crowder, Neosho, Mo.; Rosecrans Field, St. Joseph, Mo., and the Kansas City, Kans., North American bombers, who have far from impressive early season records.

The three-in-one idea, product of Doctor Allen's fertile mind, might even backfire against its sponsor who is the object of much goodnatured gallery heckling. More than two hours of bench sitting under a verbal barrage from customers who couldn't tell the score but know to the last drop the copiou amount of water consumed by the ever-thirsty doctor, could become very tiring.

The three tilts add zest to an otherwise light program this week which includes only two conference struggles, both on Saturday. Nebraska, victorious over Kansas State, tries to preserve its clear slate on a visit to Missouri and Oklahoma is host to twice-beaten Kansas State. In outside games, Kansas State journeys Tuesday to Rockhurst College seeking vengeance for an earlier beating by the Kansas Citians, and Kansas entertains Oklahoma A. & M. Wednesday in the renewal of that bitter interconference rivalry.

The day before he left he tried to go out on a mission—"even if I only get one on the ground"-but Gen. Chennault, commanding the American Air Force in China, reminded him that orders were orders and kept him on the ground.

The 34-year-old Scott is well over the age when most fighter pilots are through. Yet he flew scores of combat missions, though not required to as a group commander. In six months of operations his fighters have shot down 109 Japanese aircraft, confirmed as destroyed, and 20 for certain on the ground, with a loss in combat of only five American planes "This group of fighter pilots in China is the finest bunch of men ever brought together in the world," Col. Scott said. "They've killed Japs

D. C. Counter Issues Make Good Showing During Year

Sharpest Rise Recorded By Barber & Ross Preferred Shares

By EDWARD C. STONE. Allis-Chalm 1 11 Alpha P C 1.50e 1 Amerada Corp 2 5 Am Airlin 1.50e 4 Capital securities, sold over the counter, generally speaking, per-formed favorably during the year 42. Price stability and a lively Am Bank N .10g Am Bosch .25e ... demand for certain issues stand out as high spots among these unlisted stocks and bonds. Price comparisons are revealing.

Quotations on six issues were ex-Am Car & Fdry Am Car & F pf 7 actly the same at the end of 1942 as on December 31, 1941, right "on the button." They did not vary the smallest fraction. These securities were Washington Auditorium 6s, with 84½ bid; Anacostia Bank. 160 bid; East Washington Savings Bank, 15 bid; Griffith Conpreferred, 104 bid; Mer-Transfer & Storage prechants ferred, 191/2 bid, and Suburban National Bank, 141/2 bid.

Another interesting group varied only two or three points during the year. Among these issues were Columbia Title 6s, D. C. Paper Mills 3s, Mayflower Hotel bonds and stock, National Press Building 3-5s, American Co. preferred and common, Hamilton National Bank and Fidelity Storage. In the course of the year these issues reflected much more stability than many securities listed on the big exchanges.

Two issues were much more col-Barber & Ross preferred jumped from 22 bid to 55 during the year, 33 points; National Press Building 41/2s moved from 351/2 to 411/2 bid. The Barber & Ross jump was due to the paying off of the company's bonds, while the strength in Press Building bonds also was due to improvement in the corporation's financial structure.

Other Notable Advances. Other notable advances in the Am Wat W 1st 6 real estate bond field included Washington Properties 7s, which pose 10 points to 84 bid. The common also moved from 4% to 51/2, a real rise for a low-priced stock. At Andes Copper 1_ A P W Paper____ the same time Raleigh Hotel stock moved from 30% to 361/2 The real estate picture in Washington has drawn comment in recent months from many annalists in other cities. Holders of real estate bonds, who had severe paper losses, have been rewarded for their patience. With hotels, office buildings and apartment houses taxed to capacity, real estate property earnings have been most favorable.

Perhaps the greatest amount of activity during 1942 was in Washington Railway & Electric units. They opened with 141/2 bid and 16 offered and closed with 121/2 bid and 141/2 asked, the units reflecting the lower dividend paid on Washington Railway & Electric common stock. The units originally were distributed by the North American Co. as dividend payments and Washington has been their best market. National Press Building 4½s,

Hotel bonds led the real group in activity. Bank stocks, as was the case on the Beth Steel 6 ___ 21 57% 56% 57

Mr. Waller served as Brown Shoe 2 ___ 1 chairman of this committee during the latter part of 1942.

Early in the war the banks had nuge sums of money which they were anxious to place in loans on war plants and materials. The commitloans going on a big scale.

Mr. Hemingway believes the committee faces an even greater task during the coming year.

Bank Elections Tomorrow. All the national and many other Washington banks will hold their annual meetings tomorrow, elect their directors and in some instances name their officers for the year. It was indicated today that about the usual number of new directors will be named, some to fill vacancies,

Small Concerns Expected To Get Hurt This Year

By the Associated Press NEW YORK, Dec. 11.-Small businessmen "will put up a game fight, but probably will get hurt in sales of $10,452,149 for the year 1943," Lew Hahn, general manager ended last October 31, against $337,of the National Retail Dry Goods 788 on gross of $5,682,459 for the Association, said today at the opening of the group's 32d national convention.

Steel Shares Lead Rise of Selected Industrials

> Budget Message Taken In Stride, but Final Prices Are Mixed

By VICTOR EUBANK, Associated Press Financial Writer. NEW YORK, Jan. 11.-The President's $109,000,000,000 budget message was taken in stride by the stock market today and selected industrials, paced by steels, moved up fractions to around 2 points. It was hardly a one-way trail, nowever, and while favorites stiffened after a slightly mixed opening, many leaders made little if any Utilities were subjected progress. to profit cashing in the wake of their recent rally. Top gains elsewhere were reduced in the final hour and losers were plentiful. Large blocks of low-quoted issues running to 10,000 shares for Packard Motors, which edged into peak territory for 1942-43, propped volume. Transfers approximated 900,-000 shares.

The picture of the Nation's expenditures in 1943, biggest in history, contained virtually no element of surprise for Wall Street. War news remained a hopeful influence, although the question of taxes arose to chill enthusiasm of some customers.

Liggett & Myers "B" and American Tobacco "B" developed followings when opinions were expressed that sharply increased sales of the major manufacturers in this line would more than offset higher costs. General Motors, Woolworth and United Corp. managed to regilster new peaks for the past year. Supported were United States Steel, Bethlehem. Youngstown Sheet, Crusible Steel, Santa Fe, New York Central, American Telephone, United States Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Kennecott, American Smelting and Philip Morris.

Alexandrian Is Dead, Another Unreported; Toll May Hit 6,000

Two Washington men and two others from nearby Virginia are among 310 reported dead or missing in action in a merchant marine casualty list made public today.

The list, covering the period between November 22 and December 21, raise the total number of casualties reported since September 27, 1941, to 3,211. Of this number 491 are reported dead and 2,720 are listed as missing.

Sinkings since have boosted the known deaths to more than 3,900, and the death toll since Pearl Harbor may be as high as 6,000.

Junior Engineer Etbine Vilanova, 42, brother of Odum Vilanova, 40-A Hume avenue, Alexandria, was the only seaman from this area listed as dead in the Seaman Andrew Lee Dennis, 35, whose sister, Miss Mary Dennis, lives at 323 Commerce street, Alexandria, also was reported missing. Mr. Vilanova was born in Spain and came to this country in 1917. He settled in Brooklyn and joined the merchant marine in 1919. He was naturalized in 1930. His only surviving relative in this country is the brother in Alexandria. His mother and several other members of the family live in Spain. Mr. Blocker entered the merchant marine at the outbreak of the World War. His wife said she doubts if is a well-known port in the world he has not seen since then. In the present war, she said, he has been in the "thick of the fight." Mrs. Blocker said her husband is a native of Louisiana. Before joining the merchant marine in 1914 he spent several years in California, where Mrs. Blocker made her home until coming here October 21, 1942, to work in the War Department's administrative division.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Blocker is survived by a stepdaughter. Mrs. Charles Brown of San Francisco The last letter she received from her husband, Mrs. Blocker said, was on August 21, 1942.

Mr. Spilman, who formerly had been employed by the Reconstruction Finance Corp., enlisted in the merchant marine last March, and first went to sea in June following a training course at Long Island, N. Y.

Besides his sister in Alexandria, he is survived by his father, Thomas Dennis, Upperville, Va., and a brother Thomas of The Plains, Va. Among the 310 names released in this No. 4 casualty list 28 were put down as dead and 282 as missing. Germans Face Difficulty On Turkish Chromium Deal

ANKARA, Jan. 8 (Delayed) .- A considerable part of Turkey's output of chromium-one of the largest in the world of this vital steel-alloying material-becomes available to Germany today, providing the Nazis can fulfill their part of a 1941 agreement to deliver armaments and other German manufactures in payment. The British and American em-bassies refused comment, but it was known that a Turkish-Allied deal for chromium was under way. Allied experts expressed doubt as to the Germans' ability to make the required deliveries, especially of arms and heavy machinery, and it was generally believed that the Germans would receive no chromium until the German side of the bar-gain was fulfilled. Nevertheless, this week Turkish and German officials settled on the list of German manufactures which the Turks want under a 100,000,000

Reichsmark credit opened in Berlin The original chromium agreement between the two countries was negotiated by Dr. Karl Clodius, head of the German Trade Commission, after a month's hard bargaining which ended in October, 1941, with promise of delivery of 90,000 tons of the metal in 1943 and a similar tonnage in 1944, if Germany could deliver arms and manufactures.

Official Doubts Theory Firemen Sank Normandie

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 11.-Fire Commissioner Patrick Walsh doubts the accepted theory that the former luxury liner Normandie toppled over at her pier last February 9 because of the amount of water poured aboard the vessel by firemen.

In his annual report, the commis-sioner stressed yesterday what he termed the comparative triviality of the fire and the small amount of water left aboard. He said the Normandie—rechristened the U. S. S. Lafayette before it capsized—displaced 83,000 tons while the fire department used only 6,000 tons of water fighting the blaze.

Curtailment of Auxiliary Police

Turns Down Proposal To Swear Men In As Special Officers

Suggestions that some of Washington's auxiliary police be sworn in as special officers, in order to give them legal authority for actions beyond blackout service, were met to-day wit ha definite "no" from Commissioner Guy Mason.

His statement came amid discussion of the possibility of disruption of the rank and file of auxiliary police because of the Commission ers' order Saturday limiting their services to blackout responsibilities on the ground that the law does not permit them to have regular police Commissioner Mason said "Congress from year to year has fixed the size of the police force. We cannot violate the intent of Congress by bringing more policemen in through the back door by permitting auxiliaries to perform regular police

Would Seek Increase.

"If Chief Kelly finds his force cannot give adequate police protection with the present authorized strength, then he should come to the Commissioners and tell us so,' he said. "If more police are needed we will go to Congress and sponsor an increase in the regular force Last fall the Commissioners approved a recommendation for 200 more police in the next fiscal year." Asked about reports that many auxiliary policemen would resign because of the limitation the Commissioners have placed on their activities, Commissioner Mason said: "This is their war as well as that of any one else in the District. It is their duty to help and it is not up to the rank and file of the auxiliary police to decide what their authority should be. That is up to the administrative officers of the department and the Commissioners. "If some of the auxiliary men went to quit, that is up to them." Cites Counsel's Ruling.

Commissioner Mason also said the Commissioners may empower auxiliary police to make arrests and to carry arms, they had not done so. He cited also that the corporation policeman not granted this power plied. by the Commissioners had no greater police authority than a private citiof a felony can and is expected to corporation counsel had advised the Commissioners not to empower auxiliary police to carry arms or make arrests.

Denies "Suppression."

Mr. Mason recalled that the District in the past year approved the employment of about 180 guards to patrol the Washington water supply and distribution system, at a cost of $300,000 or more. This was charged against the District's blackout fund. In addition, he said, the Commissioners had brought about the employment of 50 or more "defense guards," at a cost of about $78,000 a year, also charged to the blackout

Members of the Auxiliary Police Inspectors and Captains' Association, meeting at the Annapolis Hotel last night, contended that the men spend four or five nights a week at

A resolution was adopted, with the inspectors not voting, that the inspectors be reinstated. One of the effects of the Commissioners' order was to appoint no officers in the auxiliary force beyond the rank of

A mass meeting of the rank and file of the force will be held as soon as the status of the auxiliaries is clarified it was decided. At the same time, the association voted to carry on under the Commissioners' order since the men have taken the oath to serve during blackouts.

One of the resolutions adopted at the meeting was a vote of confidence in Maj. Kelly.

Vehicle Hits Another Taking on Passengers; Two Soldiers Injured

Many persons were late for work this morning when icy streets from yesterday's 21/2-inch Traffic Accidents Drop snowfall slowed bus, streetcar and automobile traffic. Most streets were expected to be clear of slush today.

Slippery streets contributed yesterday to the injury of 18 persons in traffic accidents. None were serious and only two persons were reained at a hospital.

Three persons were injured this norning when the bus in which they were riding was struck by a second bus, which skidded on ice at Sixteenth street and Spring road N.W. None was seriously hurt.

Treated at Casualty Hospital were Sylvia Ware, 28, colored, 1520 Carolina street N.W., internal injuries Julia Young, 26, colored, 438 Rhode Island avenue N.W., possible inter-nal injuries, and John H. Jennings, 28, colored, 2016 Twelfth street N.W., possible fracture of rib.

Police said the striking bus skidded as it came up behind another bus which was taking on passengers. A District sanding truck had to be called out this morning to sprinkle an icy grade on Magazine road S.E. near Bellevue. Regular Staff of 6 Augmented by 17 To Speed Work

The District building inspection force has been tripled and nearly 600 rooming houses have been inspected for fire and building safety devices since the Commissioners last Tuesday called for a sweeping inquiry into structures suspected as fire hazards, it was learned today.

Col. Joseph D. Arthur, jr., Assistant Engineer Commissioner, reported "excellent" progress to date and said he was confident that a backlog of applications for municipal licenses to operate rooming and boarding houses would be cleared in the near

In Montgomery County

Despite a drop of nearly 50 per cent in the number of traffic accidents and injuries in Montgomery County last year, the number of fatalities remained almost the same as in 1941, County Chief of Police Andrew M. Newman announced yesterday.

The accident rate decreased sharply after gasoline rationing began last summer and showed a further decline after inauguration of the 35mile-an-hour speed limit, according to the county traffic chart. A total of 439 accidents, 152 injuries and 12 fatalities was reported in the county in 1942. This compares with 837 accidents, 274 injuries and 14 fatalities in 1941.

BATTLING NEW-TYPE INCENDIARIES—Woman volunteers called into service during a bombing raid demonstration at Catholic University yesterday are shown training jets of water on one of the "burster" type of fire bombs. More Than a Spectacle.

It wasn't just a spectacle. Mr Sweetman, before the "village" was to be wrecked, went through a series of demonstrations to show the civilian defense volunteers what they might have to face, as well as to demonstrate to the general public why they should keep their attics clear of debris and how they should use the stirrup pumps they will soon be able to purchase.

Early in the game Mr. Sweetman velled to a photographer venturing near the shacks, "Keep away from there. You'll be blown up." The spectators forgot their umbrellas and leaned forward. He showed them why they should use a jet instead of a spray of water on the bombs. Playing a stream of water on one of the new type "burster" fire bombs, which have ar explosive charge, he kept his distance. Suddenly shrapnel and flames shot high into the snow-filled air. No sign of fire was left in the shack.

"You see, we can lick even the new fire bombs," Mr. Sweetman commented. Women volunteers were called on the field to throw jets from hoses against the incendiaries. Mr. Sweetman pointed out that they weren't trying to extinguish the fire, only hasten its buurning out. He showed them that the sparks and white flames streamed in the opposite direction, away from them. A line of laundry was strung between two shacks. To show the effect of a blast, Mr. Sweetman set off a high explosive. The line of laundry disappeared.

Then came the hum of airplanes. Fire engulfed a shack. A warden patrolling the area called in his report to the control center set up on the field. A road repair squad was summoned first to clear away the debris that blocked passage of the fire truck. That vehicle then appeared, manned by auxiliary fire-

Van Hyning Hits Relief Ceiling As 'Disgrace'

Appeal to Congress For Immediate Removal Urged

An appeal to Congress for im-mediate removal of the ceilings limiting the amount of relief which may be granted to each person or family on the District's public assistance rosters was proposed today by Conrad Van Hyning, who re-signed Saturday as welfare director to take a Federal Social Security post.

Mr. Van Hyning said he con-sidered the mandatory limits on relief payments "a disgrace." While the Commissioners have recom-mended that these be eliminated from the budget for the next fiscal year, the welfare director declared an appeal should be made at once as a means of preventing hardship for relief families during the winter and the remainder of this fiscal

He said such a proposal would be made to the Board of Public Welfare within a few days.

Resignation Effective February 6. The resignation of Mr. Van Hyning was accepted today by the Com-missioners. It is effective February 6. In submitting his resignation Mr. Van Hyning said:

"May I express to the Commissioners my appreciation of the cooperation and support they have extended to me during my period of office. My resignation is based only on my desire to become actively connected with the war effort." "Were it not for the war I should city's heads. He recalled that the new home for indigent infirm and for a new Receiving Home for Children, but that these, and other improvement programs, were shelved because of war priorities. Mr. Van Hyning said he felt the welfare establishment "had done a pretty good job" under all the prevailing circumstances including the war and limitation of funds. Mrs. Arthur Fowler Hostess After Symphony Concert

Entertains 50 in Georgetown Home; Mr. and Mrs. Myers Give Dinner

By Katharine Brooks.

Conversation at the very delightful late afternoon party which Mrs. Arthur Fowler gave yesterday following the concert of the National Symphony Orchestra centered about transportation as much as about the program which most of the guests had heard.

Mrs. Fowler entertained in her very attractive home on N street in Georgetown, her guests numbering about 50. The affair was another of those arranged in co-operation with the Woman's Committee of the National Symphony Orchestra through the efforts of the entertainment group which is headed by Mrs. Truxtun Beale and Mrs. Robert Gordon

Mrs. Fowler was extremely generous and served coffee and tea as well as other stronger and warming refreshment with dainty sandwiches culinary skill.

The hostess wore a simple street-length frock of black, several strings Engaged to Wed of pearls about her neck being the only relief to its severity. She greeted her guests wherever she happened to be in the drawing rooms. Tea was served in front of the windows in the second room and not far from a cheery open fire. Here many stood for some minutes after coming in and sipped their tea or coffee while they grew warm. Many of the guests arrvied on feet from streetcars three blocks away and others made the trip on foot, enjoving the snow.

Miss Edwina Eustis, who was so-Kindler conducted, was among the early arrivals, Dr. and Mrs. Kindler reaching there somewhat later. She wore the gown in which she appeared in the concert, of white chiffon with silver embroidery on the bodice, the long untrimmed skirt falling in soft folds. With it she kept on her short marten fur

Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, chairman of the Woman's Committee of the orchestra, was there with her son, Lt. Bruce Howe, and Mrs. George Angus Garrett also was accompanied by her son, Mr. McCullough Darlington, now in the Army, and several of his friends from a nearby camp who were in town for Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, who was hostess after the first concert this season, arrived fairly early as did Mrs. Beale and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, who is staying in town indefinitely because of the continued ilness of her son, Maj. Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., U. S. A., at Walter Reed Hospital. Mrs. Vanderbilt was in mourning without color or glitter to relieve its severity. Most of the feminine guests were in black with some of them having a blouse trimmed with gold like Mrs. Howe's and there were one or two in bright, warm red frocks like Mrs. Robert H. Dunlap, who, however, kept her Persian lamb coat on.

Representative Joseph Clark Baldwin of ew York City, a new member of the House, with Mrs. Baldwin and their daughter, Miss Fanny Baldwin, were there also. Mr. and Mrs. Laurence S. Other volunteers serve on the third floor, where there is a completely equipped writing room. another lounge, a piano, telephones, radio and a recording machine where the boys can make records of their own voices to send to the folks back home. Each record is packaged and mailed to any address the serviceman gives, completely free of charge. About 600 records a day are made here. Only a short time ago a group of British sailors were thrilled to have their voices recorded and sent back to their families in England. No ladies are allowed on the fourth floor, which belongs entirely to the men. It's equipped with showers, plenty of hot water and soap, clean towels and shaving materials. And do the men love it! They can even press their own clothes here because there is all the eq that, too!

Everything is free in the canteen except the food. The canteen is staffed by the War Hospitality Committee's volunteer workers and operated by Pepsi-Cola, who also gives the boys all they can drink-on the house. There is no definite entertainment program except the impromptu ones which the men themselves arrange. But since there's hardly a day that men-

some professionals in the e n tertainment or theater world before the war, others with talent, don't drop inwhipping up a little entertainment on short notice is nothing of a problem at all, Sunday morning the canteen opens at 8 o'clock and that's when most of the jam sessions take place. farris-Ewing Photo. Three talented sailors who play the piano (all at the same time) are faithful attendants at this, says Miss Mc-Garry, and she thinks they must go to bed right after supper Saturday night to be able to get there as early as they do every Sunday morning! On weekdays the canteen is open daily from 9:30 in the morning to 12:30 at night. Director of this amazing building and service is Joe Judge, the former star first-baseman of the Washington Nationals, since its opening October 10. Miss Mc-Garry has had the supervision of all volunteer workers arranging their schedules, duties, etc. She's a young woman and a very pretty one. Her hair is chestnut brown, her eyes extraordinarily lovely and blue-violet. She considers herself a native Washingtonian, having lived here for 15 years with her family. She attended St. Mary's School in Leonardtown, Md., and was graduated from the Washington College of Music, where she studied piano. She plays extremely well, but says modestly that she only sings to amuse herself. She has studied organ, too.

After she finished school she did recreation work at the Council of Social Agencies here and also worked with the recreation services under the War Hospitallink that brought her to the canteen-and a lucky break it was for every one that she came.

Choosing Job Made Difficult By Swiss Girl's Exciting Life

By Gretchen Smith

So much experience has been crammed into the life of young Miss or as though it had been cut out of pasteboard."

Miss Mantchik, who will return to land, and Los Angeles, Calif., that the 21-year-old girl is finding it difficult to decide on a choice of Visiting Mrs. Lewis Lorwin of 3000 Thirty-ninth street N.W., the attractive young foreigner has spent many hours here contacting persons interested in post-war rehabilitation

"You see, I speak six languages," she explained, "and I believe with my knowledge of these and my acquaintance with many of the countries of Europe, there may be opportunities for me in international social service and planning during the post-war period. I should like very much to go abroad and help with the rehabilitation work.

Born in Switzerland, the daughter of Russian parents, Miss Mantchik's first and early choice of professions was medicine. Her father, Dr. Herz Mantchik, was one of the leading ear, nose and throat specialists of Geneva before coming to the United States two and a half years ago.

Changes Studies. Miss Mantchik completed a premedical course at the Geneva Woman's College, but the changes brought into her life by the war also caused her to change studies when she entered the University of Southern California after going to Los Angeles, where she now makes her home with her family. With her proximity to Hollywood the Swiss girl found a natural interest in the moving picture companies, not, however, with a desire to be a movie star. She wants to enter the technical and administrative departments of the cinema

"There is always a demand for linguists in Hollywood," she commented, "and I already have had several opportunities to work as a translator and also as an adviser. However, I believe that the international field is more enticing," she "There is so much to be done for the people in Europe after the war. I have traveled widely in France and Belgium and know the people and, of course, their language

In addition to French Miss Mantchik speaks German, Spanish, Russian and English and she knows Latin.

"We were obliged to converse in Latin in the Geneva school I attended, as well as read it and translate," she explained.

Although the young visitor escaped the horrors of the Nazi invasion. leaving France six days before the Germans entered Paris, she saw much of the desolation of Spain while en route to Portugal, where she embarked for the United States.

Horrified at Ruins. "Our train stopped at several of the little towns where battles had occurred," she said. "They had tried to hide the destruction from travelers, building up the sections around the station. But we got off the train to look around and were horrified to see the ruin. In one little town there were practically no buildings left except the church. Of course, that was over two years ago," she continued, "but it will take a long time for the damage to

Miss Mantchik crossed on the George Washington and vividly recalls the excitement which prevailed when the ship was stopped by a German submarine off the coast of

'We were halted at about 3 o'clock in the morning," she said, "and the ship stopped so abruptly we were practically thrown out of our beds. The siren screamed. It is a dreadful feeling to be on the ocean with noise like that and not know what is going to happen.'

Miss Mantchik recalled that it was also disquieting to know there were not sufficient lifeboats for all abroad. "No one was hurt." she commented, "but one woman lost her handbag containing everything of value she owned-her jewels, her money and her papers, including her passport. The bag fell overboard and in the confusion no one rescued it." First Impression. The Swiss girl described her first impressions of the New York skyline and the Statue of Liberty. "I was a bit disappointed in the statue," she said, "as I had heard such marvelous descriptions of it But the New York skyline was one of the most wonderful sights I ever

"The systems of education are very different in Europe," she commented. There they stress languages and mathematics more than is done here. They also have fewer sports and less time for recreation.

Although she did not enjoy sports during her scholartic terms, Miss Mantchik spent much of her vacation time skiing and skating. She also is an accomplished dancer, having studied rythmic and ballet dancing at the Institut Jaques-Dalcroze in Geneva.

Western Butchers Charge Packers Neglect Civilians

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11 .- The Pacific Coast head of the AFL Butchers' Union, declaring major meat packers are neglecting the civilian population, last night asked for a congressional investigation of the Nation's current meat shortage. "I am in possession of facts," said Milton S. Maxwell, international vice president of the union, "to show these packers are creating artificial ceilings on livestock."

Butchers' Union delegates from Washington, Oregon and California, and of the San Francisco Meat Dealers Association, said the packers were selling most of their produce to the Government for "military purposes and lease-lend, and ignoring the needs of the civilian market." Jeudi Club Bows to War

Leonard's Menu Takes Note of Restrictions and Scarcities

As Reported by Arthur H. Deute

The time has come when the members of the Club de Jeudi, planning their Thursday night dinners, prepared by the men folks of the organization, must now shop around to see what the market affords.

No longer can each male member of the club tap his life savings, order some choice morsels and create "ohs" and "ahs" through sheer investment in deliciousness. On the contrary, each must work and cook within the limits of the supplies available. And this has sharpened interest in the menus. Here is a still greater challenge to culinary ability. So there was much speculation in advance of last Thursday's club dinner until Leonard, the chef of the week, announced: Duck Soup Savory Green Beans

Roast Duck with Oranges Small Browned Potatoes Endive with Duck Liver Shredded Fresh Pineapple Coffee

True to purely male cooking, here is a menu which combines plentiful wholesomeness, a flare for the unusual, with the main course providing the climax and then tapering rapidly to a simple but satisfying close. Rarely do you find an amateur male chef building his dinner up to a rich dessert. This dinner is typically mannish.

Leonard explained to me that his duck soup was made by preparing a broth from the feet and other "sidelines," adding a couple of cans of good chicken broth for volume and then going ahead as for chicken rice soup. What he wanted was to capitalize the name "duck soup," which so many people speak of but so few have eaten.

Leonard was centering his efforts on his masterpiece of the duck and orange, which is a grand dish. His small, browned potatoes were selected for simplicity. His savory green beans are very easy to prepare, but not known to most Americans. For this dish one requires a small package of dry "savory," an herb which may be found in any good food market. The green string beans are cooked tender in salted water (as little water as possible). Then using a bit of the broth a light cream sauce is made in which a few pinches of savory are added. Then this savory cream sauce is poured over the beans and beans and sauce are reheated together just before serving. (Better try this dish on yourselves to establish your taste requirements for the herb—very fine with a couple of trials.)

For the salad, the livers of the two ducks, augmented by an extra By Wilda Camery, R. The movies, the show, the magazine and the book, the ever-present comic, are entertainments that all children enjoy. No question about that. It is the effect on the children of these entertainments that we Every experience a child undergoes, changes him somewhat. He

Latin American Officials Get Army Training Films

Official United States Army training films were presented formally today to 12 Latin American countries at a special gathering in the offices of the Inter-American Defense Board at the Federal Reserve

Maj. Gen. Blanton Winship, coordinator of the board, made the presentation, in connection with showings of some of the films.

The pictures cover some 250 training subjects in all branches of the service, the board announced. Twelve countries have asked for the films so far, and other nations are expected to file requests shortly. Selections can be made, it was said, from about 600 topics, that cover engineering tactics, use of all types of guns, air force and mechanized unit operations. The pictures have been finished with both Spanish and Portuguese sound tracks, so as to be ready for showing to the armed forces of all Good Neighbor countries, as part of the program of defense of the Western Hemisphere.

"CAT PEOPLE." an REO-Radio pictured by Val Lewton, directed By J. W. STEPP.

The movie-going public, with just a faint blush of uneasiness on its cheek, now learns that lycanthropy is not confined to werewolfery and vampirism. As Bela Lugosi, Henry Hull and others have demonstrated many times before, some people have a habit of turning into madly howling wolves and blood-sucking bats in their weaker moments. On the other hand, or claw, Simone Simon has emerged from retirement to show that certain other elements of this human clay prefer the catlike shape in which to do their nocturnal killing. Thus, in "Cat People," showing at the Pix Theater for the next couple of days, is another Balkan legend appropriated by the movies (RKO-Radio). And on this occasion a degree of suspense has been at-tained, which certainly is better than par for this type of production. Miss Simon does change into a cat, or panther, or whatever it is. However, the producers, apparently sensing revolt at the box office, refrained from showing the metamorphosis in all its accustomed detail right before one's very eyes. The camera and prop men employ indirect devices for this effect in "Cat People." Consequently, the French prettiness of Miss Simon does not become distorted at any time, and the patient public does not have to sigh through another Jekyll-Hyde transformation on the order of the Braderic March year.

of the credit for suspense achieved goes. Eant Smith, Tom Conway, Jane Bandelph, Jack Holt and the several others of the cast simply move around and talk—although Mr. Conway does the latter with an accent admirably like that of George Sanders. But the lighting is good as Wife Simone stalks Husband Smith's lover (Miss Randolph) down a lonely lamplit street.
