Sleet May Rise To 5 Inches Here By Tomorrow

Emergency Crews To Work Tonight To Clear Streets

(Earlier Story on Page A-1.) Washington's winter sleet may rise from a depth of nearly two inches at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon to five inches by tomorrow morning, with a freezing rain mixed with sleet adding to the storm's severity, the Weather Bureau predicted late today.

Meanwhile, city officials will put an emergency force of 100 men to work, beginning at 10 o'clock tonight, to help refuse, water and sewer crews keep traffic open on arterial streets. Public utility services had emergency crews standing by in anticipation of the storm's growing intensity.

District officials said the earliest the city could secure 100 workers from the United States Employment Service was by 10 o'clock tonight. Collection of garbage and trash was halted early today and the crew put to work keeping heavily traveled lanes open with the aid of 125 city snow plows.

Few Buses Stalled. The American Automobile Association reported it was receiving three calls a minute this afternoon from motorists whose cars had been stalled. An official described the street conditions as "the worst we've ever seen."

He added that motorists were complaining about lack of speedy removal of slush from the streets.

Although bus and streetcar traffic was considerably behind normal schedules, Capital Transit Co. officials this afternoon said only a few buses had been stalled. Potomac Electric & Power Co. officials said the only service interruption here had been at Thirty-sixth street and Sully road S.E. early today, with service restored in a half hour. Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. traffic department reported it expected some lines to be severed in nearby Virginia and Maryland if the sleet continued into tonight. Damage in the immediate Washington area has not been "excessive," officials said, due to wires being encased in cable.

Meanwhile, the A. B. & W. Transit Co. planned to start its late afternoon passenger service from the Navy Building on Columbia pike, Arlington, at 4 p.m. today, loading passengers at five-minute intervals. The Navy agreed to begin releasing its workers at 4 o'clock today, with service restored in a half hour. Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. traffic department reported it expected some lines to be severed in nearby Virginia and Maryland if the sleet continued into tonight. Damage in the immediate Washington area has not been "excessive," officials said, due to wires being encased in cable.

Highway Traffic in the Winchester Area Stopped, and Thousands of Richmond Homes were Without Electric Current as the result of the Virginia capital city's worst sleet storm and freeze in a half century.

The Associated Press news circuit linking Richmond with Newport News, Norfolk, Roanoke, Lynchburg and Danville was out, but newspapers in those cities were being served on a single general news circuit filed by Washington. Snow fell in the Culpeper, Fredericksburg and Covington areas was about 3 inches.

Two Lost Students Hunted In West Virginia Wilds

(By the Associated Press.) MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 28.—A searching party left Morgantown today for the mountains to search for two West Virginia University students, missing since yesterday.

Kenneth Orders, 21, of St. Albans, and Louis M. Coughlin, 21, of Clarksville, left Morgantown by bus yesterday, intending to hike from the foot of a mountain to Cooper's Rock, scenic spot about 12 miles from Morgantown.

Doughboys Get Clippers to De-Ice Beards

(By the Associated Press.) JERSEY CITY, N. J., Jan. 28.—Uncle Sam's soldiers serving in cold climates are being provided with beard clippers, the Jersey City Quartermaster Depot said today, so they will not get ice in their whiskers.

Li. Warren A. Pratt, purchasing and contracting officer, said shaving can be "inconvenient and dangerous" in cold climates, and ice in your whiskers is no fun. Hence the G. I. clippers.

Late News Bulletins

Joint French Forces Take Gadames

LONDON (P)—French forces of Gen. Henri Honore Giraud and De Gaulle from the Lake Chad area were reported in a French communique broadcast from Algiers today to have joined in the conquest and occupation of Gadames, Italian stronghold in the desert 300 miles southwest of Tripoli. (Earlier Story on Page A-1.)

Twenty-two Nazis Reported Shot for Mutiny

MOSCOW (P)—The Tass News Agency published today a dispatch from Bern which said it was reliably reported that mutinies broke out last month in German units stationed at Bayonne and Dijon, France, when they were ordered to the Russian front. Four German officers and 18 men were shot at Bayonne, the dispatch said, while a platoon of infantry at Dijon which protested against being sent to Russia was disarmed and sent under escort in sealed cars to Germany.

England to Call Women of 40 for Work

LONDON (P)—Labor Minister Ernest Bevin told the House of Commons today the call-up age of women for industrial mobilization would be raised from 30 years to 40 and indicated that thousands of others not called would be required to do part-time work.

Americans in Tunisia Reach Maknassy

LONDON (P)—Reuters quoted an Algiers radio broadcast today as saying that American troops had reached Maknassy, 33 miles from the Gulf of Gabes, in an advance toward the rear of the Mareth Line, 75 miles to the southeast. (Earlier Story on Page A-1.)

Gestapo Executes 23 Austrians

STOCKHOLM (P)—Austrian newspapers report that 22 workmen and one woman have been executed by the Gestapo within Austria since January 1, bringing to 83 the total known executions there in the last two and a half months. Most of those put to death were said to have been charged with treason or preparation for treason in connection with the circulation of defeatist literature or of pamphlets advocating an independent Austria.

Guadalcanal Never in Doubt, Returned Commander Asserts

Gen. Vandegrift Describes Valor of Marines on Island

There was never any question that the marines would hold Guadalcanal, even in the darkest days of the campaign, Maj. Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift, commander of the marine forces who landed there in August, said today at a press conference here. Gen. Vandegrift and most of his fighting force were replaced in December by Army troops under Maj. Gen. Alexander M. Patch, Jr., after one of the longest stretches under fire American troops have ever endured.

Unquestionably, Gen. Patch's forces will hold Guadalcanal as the marines left it," declared Gen. Vandegrift.

There never was any thought that we couldn't hold it.

Jap Raids Diminished.

Bronzed from four months of fighting under a blazing tropical sun, Gen. Vandegrift, with Lt. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, Marine Corps commandant, was questioned for 45 minutes by a score of newspapermen but he carefully avoided answering queries that might reveal any information that would aid the Japs.

The story that unfolded during the interview revealed the hardships suffered by the marines— "hardships," Gen. Vandegrift said, "which never shook the morale of the battling marines."

The marine commander told the newspapermen that the first 72 days after the invasion of Guadalcanal

Catroux May Be Head Of De Gaulle Group Sent to Washington

(By the Associated Press.) LONDON, Jan. 28.—The Fighting French are considering sending Gen. Georges Catroux to head Gen. Charles de Gaulle's delegation in Washington, reliable sources said today.

Gen. Catroux, head of the De Gaulle forces in Syria, is usually entrusted with the most important diplomatic tasks within the Fighting French movement.

Members of the De Gaulle National Committee were reported eager to continue the discussions which their chief had with President Roosevelt at Casablanca.

Details of their conference were not disclosed, but well-informed quarters indicated they began an examination of the question of a better understanding between the United States State Department and the Fighting French.

Having failed to achieve a complete rapprochement with Gen. Henri Giraud, Gen. de Gaulle was reported planning no further action beyond the appointment of a mission—probably composed of four or five men—to represent the Fighting French in North Africa.

Senate Group Approves Rutledge Nomination

(By the Associated Press.) A Senate judiciary subcommittee approved the nomination of Wiley Rutledge of Iowa to the Supreme Court, Chairman O'Mahoney announced today.

"The subcommittee has authorized me to draw up a favorable report for presentation to the full committee Monday," Senator O'Mahoney said.

Senator O'Mahoney said the subcommittee had voted against holding hearings today by two Washington last week.

Justice Rutledge is now a member of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

Nazis to Compel All Citizens to Labor for State

Edict Applies to Boys Of 16, Girls of 17; Exceptions Are Few

(By the Associated Press.) LONDON, Jan. 28.—Compulsory labor service for all German men from 16 to 65 and women from 17 to 45 was decreed today by the German government, according to an announcement broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by the Associated Press.

The decree required all persons affected to register at local labor offices.

In London authorities said this represented labor mobilization on an unprecedented scale.

A preamble to the decree, Adolf Hitler's labor commissioner, Fritz Sauckel, warned the German people, already under heavy pressure to produce for war needs, that they must devote their "energies solely to fighting and working for the community and thus make possible the earliest attainment of final victory."

(A Berlin broadcast recorded in New York said "the compulsory labor service does not affect persons who are already at work 48 hours weekly" and further exceptions were provided.)

Students, clergymen, foreigners and women with one child below school age or two children under 14 and men and women already employed were reported to be the only general exceptions to the decree. Mothers who have but one child of school age are to be called if there are not sufficient childless wives.

Before the Berlin announcement, informed London quarters said that drastic new laws, with perhaps even the death penalty for failure to comply, were likely to be announced or foreshadowed in a speech by Hitler on the 10th anniversary of his rise to power Saturday.

It was said the German leader might effect this by placing his people under modified martial law.

(A German broadcast recorded in New York said the Hitler announcement "is generally expected in Berlin to be marked by the presentation of some kind of statements by prominent quarters." It added that the official program for the day had not yet been announced.)

Australia Believes Japs Prepare for Invasion Try

(By the Associated Press.) CANBERRA, Australia, Jan. 28.—Belief that Japan is preparing a major operation against Northern Australia was expressed today in Australian government quarters.

Government informants said information had been received that the Japanese were increasing their concentrations of troops and shipping in areas from which Northern Australia would be threatened.

The dispatch did not mention the bases at which these concentrations were reported, but Gen. Douglas MacArthur's air forces have been active over the entire fringe of islands above Australia, from Timor on the west to New Britain on the east.

U. S. S. Essex Gets Trophy From English Regiment

(By the Associated Press.) LONDON, Jan. 28.—The 200-year-old Essex Infantry Regiment of the British Army, which fought in the American Revolution, today presented a silver image of an eagle, its regimental emblem, to the United States aircraft carrier Essex, which was launched last year.

The emblem was handed over to Rear Admiral Alan G. Kirk, United States naval attaché.

The carrier was named for Essex County, Mass., which like the regiment, took its name from Essex County in England.

Fierce Senegalese Sail Happily To Engage Hated Nazis Again

(By JOSEPH MORTON, Associated Press War Correspondent.) DAKAR, French West Africa (Delayed)—The first big convoy of French Senegalese soldiers, fiercest of all native African fighters, has sailed from Dakar to reinforce Allied troops in Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia.

These red-fleshed colonialists, most of them 5 feet or more tall, marched to their ships with flags flying and bands playing. They stepped along with a smile, obviously eager for action after months and months of preparation.

They bore with them one of the most powerful of all military weapons—a bitter and lasting hatred of the enemy.

Distinguished for gallant service in France both in 1914-18 and in 1940, these Senegalese have been known as soldiers unable to forgive or forget. They have been biding their time, nursing memories of losses in previous battles, of mistreatment as prisoners and of exploitation at Germany's hands when she controlled a large section of Africa.

The man who directed the training of these natural-born fighters, Gen. Pierre M. Tristani, selected the vanguard from a reservoir of more than 60,000 men. Many of them had been stationed in Senegal for months, others were scattered throughout the other colonies comprising French West Africa.

THEY'RE ON THE NORTH AFRICAN FRONT NOW—The first detachment of Women's Army Auxiliary Corps is now in North Africa, attached to the headquarters staff of Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of the Allied forces there. They were carried across the Atlantic to a point along the Mediterranean coast by troop transport and later flown to their destination. This truckload was on its way to the docks when the photographer snapped the picture.

Medical Group Seeks Data for Health Plan In Quiz of Doctors

Information on D. C. Patient Load Needed In Wartime Program

Taking the first step toward implementing its new six-point program for protecting health of civilians in wartime, Washington, the newly organized Committee on Medical Service today sent out questionnaires to doctors here for a survey of their patient load.

The new committee, which includes representatives of the Medical Society, United States Public Health Service, District Health Department, Emergency Medical Service for Civilian Defense and the Health Security Administration wants to know especially how many calls doctors here were unable to answer.

May 'Phone for Physicians.

When panels are completed, it was explained, any person who has no personal physician of his own, or who cannot reach a doctor, will be able to get in touch with one through the centrally located Medical Bureau in the Medical Society headquarters. The phone number, which now is attended 24 hours a day, is Republic 6100.

The 13 physicians who constitute a nucleus of the panel system, which is designed to cover the entire community, accepted appointment from Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, president of the Medical Society and chairman of the new committee.

These doctors for the most part have only one selective service district, while others have accepted responsibility for two or more. They will help establish the panels in their areas.

The physicians and the numbers of their selective service districts are as follows: Dr. William J. Stanton, District No. 1; Dr. Sidney C. Cousins, 2; Dr. Mary Holmes, 3; Dr. F. X. Courtney, 4 and 5; Dr. Charles W. Harnberger, 6; Dr. Glen Pincock, 7; Dr. Frank A. Hornaday, 8, 9, 10. (See DOCTORS, Page 2-X.)

Motorist Is Killed By Train at Bladensburg

Frank M. Settle, 38, of 6 Franklin street, Hyattsville, Md., was killed today when his automobile was struck by a train on Defense highway at the B. & O. crossing at Bladensburg, Prince Georges County police reported.

Police said Mr. Settle, who was alone in the car, was taken to the Island Memorial Hospital at Sandy Spring by the Bladensburg police squad, where he was pronounced dead upon arrival.

Bulgarians Restive As Germans Demand Help Against Russia

Rioting Reported Over Attempted Levy of 10 Divisions of Troops

(By the Associated Press.) ANKARA, Turkey, Jan. 28 (Delayed)—Travelers returning to Turkey from Bulgaria report that general unrest and even riots were precipitated after Germany made new demands on the Bulgarians shortly after the beginning of the year, chiefly for help against Russia.

The reports said Bulgaria might be forced to contribute perhaps 10 divisions to Hitler's armies, but the Germans faced trouble if they insisted on using Bulgarians in Russia.

The Bulgarians long have looked to the Russians as brother Slavs and their best friends and have considered it unthinkable that they would be required to bear arms against the people who gave them their independence in 1877.

The travelers said it was felt the Bulgarians might be more willing to fight Turkey or oppose an Allied invasion in the Balkans, but the basic Bulgarian policy is to keep the army home for defense of their Macedonia. (See BULGARIANS, Page 2-X.)

Army Bars Release Of Selectees Over 38 All at One Time

Discharges to Be Made Gradually to Avoid Disrupting Training

To prevent the disruption of Army training, the War Department announced today it cannot release at one time all of the selectees over 38 years of age who are eligible for discharge from the Army under current regulations.

Explaining that there are approximately 300,000 men in this age group, it was said that discharges must be regulated so as to interfere as little as possible with units now in training. All of the 300,000 are not eligible for discharge under the regulations, which stipulate various conditions.

As soon as the teen-age youths who are now being inducted have received sufficient training to serve as replacements, it is anticipated there will be a more rapid rate of release from active service of men over 38 years.

Included among the older group are many thousands of skilled mechanics who had enlisted voluntarily to fill urgent needs of the Army.

Under Army regulations those eligible for discharge must be handicapped by age to such an extent that their usefulness to the Army is secondary to their usefulness to industry. They must furthermore present evidence that if discharged from the Army they have jobs waiting for them in essential industries and agriculture. No enlisted man will be discharged, however, unless a suitable trained replacement is available.

French Ban Salvation Army

BERN, Switzerland, Jan. 28 (P)—The French Salvation Army was dissolved by an official decree published today, a Vichy dispatch to the Journal de Geneve said. Its activities, the decree declared, "conflicted with national relief measures."

Japs to Observe Russian Pact, Berlin Says

Radio Quotes Speech By Tani, Who Praises Argentina Also

(By the Associated Press.) Japan intends to respect her neutrality pact with Soviet Russia and assumes that the Soviet government will do the same, the Japanese Foreign Minister, Masayuki Tani, declared today, according to versions of his speech to Parliament broadcast by Axis radios.

A Berlin version recorded by the Associated Press quoted Tani as saying that Tokio's policy of respecting the neutrality pact with the Soviet Union concluded in April, 1941, has undergone no modification. "This attitude, he added, was based on the assumption that the Soviet government would likewise respect the pact."

Tani, addressing the Diet as it reconvened after a long New Year recess, remarked that "Almost all the American states, including Chile, have now succumbed to the pressure of the United States."

(Chile broke diplomatic relations with the Axis last week, leaving Argentina the only American nation still on friendly terms with Japan and her allies.)

"Should Argentina maintain her policy of neutrality notwithstanding this United States' pressure, we shall entertain all the more respect for her," Tani said. "It is the desire of Japan to continue friendly relations with Argentina."

The same session heard Premier General Tojo outline Japan's position in the war.

4 U. S. Ships Sunk

Four United States merchant vessels, proceeding in convoy formation in the South Atlantic, were sunk by a flotilla of enemy submarines early in January, the Navy Department announced late today.

The survivors of all four vessels were reported to have been landed at Miami, Fla. The vessels were the Collingsworth, the Broad Arrow and the Birmingham City, and the Minotaur.

Trial Nears Jury

Testimony in the trial of William Withers Arbuckle, 47, former manager of the Senate restaurant accused of embezzlement, was concluded late today in Justice Bolitha J. Law's District Court. The case is expected to go to the jury tomorrow morning.

Crop Payments Planned

Secretary Wickard announced today the Government would pay subsidies to growers of the four major canning crops—tomatoes, peas, sweet corn and snapbeans—to assist farmers to produce sufficient quantities of vegetables to meet wartime needs. Simultaneously, OPA stated that the subsidy payments will hold prices paid by housewives for canned goods to approximately the same level as paid for this year's pack.

Hecht Ruling Near

The Office of Price Administration's case against the Hecht Co. went to Justice F. Dickinson Letts for judgment late this afternoon in District Court following eight days of lengthy testimony and argument. Justice Letts told opposing counsel that they could expect a decision "shortly" on OPA's request for an injunction against the firm.

Jap Landing Repulsed

(By the Associated Press.) SHORE DEFENDERS inflicted heavy losses on Japanese troops who landed from two warships on the coast of Kwangtung Province near Swatow January 21, the Chinese high command said today. It reported that the Japanese withdrew to their ships immediately after the engagement.

Place of Abode Is Goal of Ode In Modern Mode

Lt. Charles Yonts, a reservist in the Army Signal Corps, dismayed over inability to locate a suitable home for his wife and 3-week-old daughter, has written a poetic wand ad in a desperate attempt to find a place in Washington to live.

The 14-line verse—it rhymes—appeared in the apartment wanted column of The Star today.

Lt. Yonts, a former actor from Milwaukee, said he was expecting his wife and baby to arrive here Sunday, but that so far efforts to locate a suitable home for them had failed.

"Out of desperation, I thought I'd try poetry," he said. The poem appears on Page B-17.

D. C. Officials Plead For Continuation of 29 Playgrounds

Mason, Christiansen Go Before Facility Review Committee of WPB

Commissioner Guy Mason and Recreation Superintendent Milo F. Christiansen this afternoon went before the Facility Review Committee of the War Production Board to ask for continuation of construction of 29 District playgrounds.

The special hearing at the Federal Security Building was granted after the District Recreation Board and the Commissioners joined forces in appealing the committee's decision in December to stop construction of the playgrounds for the duration.

National Capital Parks Supt. Irving C. Root also attended the meeting. He has indicated that the Interior Department may appeal some of the WPB stop orders if they receive the District officials' win their battle.

Capt. W. H. Smith, chairman of the facility review committee, will not issue any decision for several days, a WPB spokesman said. Mr. Christiansen said he is anxious for an early decision so that if construction is continued the playgrounds can be completed by spring.

Federal officials were by the committee to attend included D. V. Aud, acting director of the Public Works Administration projects; Harry Thomson, National Park Service; Banks Hudson, special assistant to the director, Governmental Division, WPB; and Frank V. Maxton, also of that division; T. G. Mooney, Priorities and Materials Division; Henry Sullivan, assistant regional director, and E. R. Boyle, civil engineer, all of the Federal Works Agency; and Edward A. Conover, field recreation representative of the District area of the Federal Security Agency.

Mr. Christiansen said he hoped to prove to the committee that men and equipment used on the playgrounds would be idle if the work is not continued. The committee members have contended the workers and machines could "aid the war effort" more on other types of work.

Three Deny Operating Drug Canteen for Soldiers

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Charged with operating a "marijuana canteen" visited by soldiers, two men and a woman entered innocent pleas in Federal Court today.

Judge William Bondy issued a bench warrant for the arrest of a fourth defendant, Michael N. Bryan, soldier friend of novelist Ursula Parrott and former guitarist in Benny Goodman's band who is under a year's sentence for escaping from a Miami (Fla.) stockade.

Those who pleaded innocent to the conspiracy charges were Rose Haberman, alias Rose Reynolds, a night club entertainer; Theodore Reede, night club master of ceremonies of New York; and Peter Altwerger of Camp Kilmer, N. J.

"This case involves the source of supply of marijuana going to our armed forces," Assistant United States Attorney Clayton D. Holinger told Judge Bondy in requesting a speedy trial, which was set for February 4.

The indictment charges the defendants operated a "marijuana canteen" in the New York hotel room of Miss Haberman.

Mr. Holinger said Miss Parrott, alleged to have assisted in Bryan's escape from the stockade, would be a Government witness.

Bureau Rules Ball Players May Get Salary Raises

The Bureau of Internal Revenue has ruled that baseball clubs may grant salary increases to players on the basis of merit of service, provided such raises are within the club's established salary schedule.

Under the bureau ruling, it was learned today, clubs must file a schedule of salaries paid in the past or last year, and the range from the lowest to the highest salary in that schedule will be accepted by the bureau as the club's "established salary schedule."

Provided no one is raised to more than the highest salary in the schedule, players may be given increases within that schedule for merit or service without prior permission from the bureau.

The bureau has jurisdiction over all salaries in excess of $5,000 a year, and those under $5,000 paid to unorganized executive, administrative or professional persons.

Boy Bicyclist Held In Death of Woman, 79

A coroner's jury today ordered Harold Faucon, 14, 3217 Connecticut avenue N.W., held for juvenile Court action in the fatal traffic injury December 2 of Mrs. Alice Sweetser, 79, of 3133 Connecticut avenue N.W.

According to testimony young Faucon's foot slipped from the pedal of his bicycle as he was about to pass Mrs. Hall on the east sidewalk of Klinge Bridge. Losing control of the bicycle he was thrown from it after Mrs. Hall was knocked down by the front wheel.

She died in Doctors' Hospital December 10. It was the year's 103rd traffic fatality.

The girls, who attend the Health School, Thirteenth and Allison streets N.W., are Shirley Davis, 8, of 1411 G street S.E., and Mary Anderson, 13, of 1301 Juniper street N.W. They sold the actors first souvenir programs of the Birthday Ball. (Story on Page B-1).

Jap Victory Assured By Conquests, Tojo Tells Postponed Diet

Nippon Now Wealthy in Resources, Foes Lack, Premier Asserts

Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo told the Japanese Diet today that victories achieved by Japan's armed forces during the last year had laid the foundations for certain victory over the United States and Britain, whom he charged with "sinister ambitions to dominate the world."

The Premier, whose address was reported by the Tokio radio in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, boasted that Japan's position both for offense and defense had been completed by the establishment of outlying bases and by the acquisition of vast natural resources.

Session Delayed a Week. The address marked the reconvening of the Diet after the New Year recess. The session had been delayed a week because of Tojo's illness, according to Japanese announcements, and the Tokio radio said the Premier still was suffering from fever.

"Tojo said casually that of course it will require great efforts on our part to make these resources demonstrate their real wealth and power," he said, "but that Japan's position, nevertheless, was secure."

"In contrast to our position," he said, "the United States and Britain—which boasted of their wealth and resources before the war—now are exposing a great shortage in vital war resources."

"As for the supply of rubber and tin, which they previously obtained from the Southwest Pacific regions, they now are so uneasy and distressed they cannot succeed in concealing their predicament."

"Fight for 'Great Ideal.'" Turning to Japan's war aims, the Premier said the Japanese people were fighting for a "great ideal" they had cherished for 3,000 years—to enable all countries, each in its proper place, and all peoples to live their lives in peace and security.

"Japan," he declared, sought only to promote their own prosperity at the expense of other countries, and monopolize the world by exploiting other peoples, is wholly different in its essence."

Brown Rejects Protests Of 3 Chicago Landlords

Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown has rejected protests of three Chicago landlords against the freezing of rent.

Some other method of rent control was requested by the 900 Michigan Avenue North Corp., Emil W. Carlson and Charles W. Wilson and Emma Bennett. They contended rent increases would assure landlords of a fair return on their property.

"The facts alleged by them conclusively demonstrate that their maximum rentals represent the best bargains they were able to obtain in a normal market. To permit them now to increase their rents would allow them to utilize demands created by war activities to extricate themselves from their financial difficulties."

Mr. Brown said any of a number of alternate rent controls would be either unfair, inflationary or impossible to administer.

Travel by Air Expected to Be Cheapest

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Harold J. Bond, president of Pan-American-Graeco Airways, believes increased traffic and developments in planes will bring air passenger traffic to levels of any other means of travel after the war.

Roads also will be believed air mail rates between the United States and Latin American countries would be reduced to levels approximating present air mail rates in this country. He spoke yesterday in acceptance of the award of the Inter-American Safety Council for 1942 on behalf of his company.

was perhaps the hardest because the Japanese "came over" every day, but afterward lay down, with desultory raids every few days.

Gen. Vandegrift explained that perhaps the event that shook the marines the most was a Japanese Navy bombardment of Guadalcanal last October, which lasted for 2 hours and 45 minutes. The marines, he said, were shelled for that entire period by 14 and 8 inch shells from Jap warships off the coast.

Tells of East Flight Home. Gen. Vandegrift, after leaving Guadalcanal December 9, went to Australia, where he conferred with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commander of the American forces in the Southwest Pacific. When he returned to the United States, he said, he was met by a "great crowd" of people on December 9. Gen. Vandegrift said, "things had quieted down. I have since seen by the press, he added, "that the Japs have been pushed westward and that Henderson Field is secure from ground and artillery attacks."

At the outset of the press conference, Gen. Vandegrift remarked about the last time he had made flying from Australia to Washington. The actual flying time, he explained, was 58 hours and the elapsed time was 88 hours.

"That's fast moving, even for a marine," he remarked gallantly. Gen. Vandegrift pointed out that the war in the Southwest Pacific is not comparable to the last war, when troops had available to them rest and recreation centers not far from the front lines.

How They Lived at Front. "That was unusual, since the men on Guadalcanal had a mission to do, and under that situation had to stay out there until relieved."

Describing conditions on Guadalcanal, Gen. Vandegrift explained that men not on the defense lines lived in improvised shacks and tents, but those on the defense areas lived in foxholes with overhead covering or in trenches or in machine-gun emplacements.

Men on the fighting front, he said, were served two hot meals a day, one at 8 a.m. and the other at 4 p.m., but in the middle of the day had only sandwiches to eat. "I don't know," he said, "whether you would call it braver or fanaticism. But when the Japs has a job to do, he will stay there and do it, even though he knows he is to be killed."

Used Japs' Rations. Gen. Vandegrift said that when the marines first landed on Guadalcanal they supplemented their own rations with Jap rations found on the island. These included, he said, 3,000 cases of canned mushrooms, 1,000 cases of what he described as "delicious" canned crab meat and a large quantity of corned beef and rice.

Gen. Vandegrift declared that no one should underestimate the fighting ability of the Japs "in any way." "I don't know," he said, "whether you would call it bravery or fanaticism. But when the Japs has a job to do, he will stay there and do it, even though he knows he is to be killed."

He also said that the Japs are experts at camouflage, and rather than being captured committed haraki. He cited instances also in which Japanese about to be captured pulled out their guns and blew their heads off.

For that reason, Gen. Vandegrift explained, not many prisoners were captured. All together he estimated that not more than 500 were taken prisoner during the four-month siege of the island by the marines. Most of those captured, he said, were wounded and nearly unconscious.

Gen. Vandegrift described the invasion of Guadalcanal as the biggest amphibious landing ever put on by American troops prior to the invasion of North Africa. He said all of his men had been keenly interested in getting started and, fortunately, enough, did get off to a good start.

There is not much difference in this war than in previous battles in which the marines have taken part. Gen. Vandegrift said, "except that it is being fought in the jungles. As an illustration he said:

"Take the Indian war and bring them up to date with modern equipment and you have a solution. It is my opinion, as how to fight jungle warfare."

The Japs timed their raids over Guadalcanal so precisely, Gen. Vandegrift said, that they came over at the same time each day. One result was, he remarked, that the moon-hour luncheon of the marines was changed "to accommodate them."

Col. Gerald Thomas of Bloomington, Ill., attended the press conference with Gen. Vandegrift, who introduced him as "right-hand man" throughout the Solomon campaign.

McNutt Called to Tell House Group of Plans For Smaller Colleges

Committee Fears War Training Program May Force Many to Close

Apprehensive over the future of hundreds of small liberal arts colleges throughout the country, the House Military Affairs Committee decided today to call on War Manpower Chairman Paul V. McNutt for an outline of the Government's plans.

Chairman May announced that Mr. McNutt would testify tomorrow and specifically would be asked to show the committee how the smaller schools would fare under the military training program to be carried out in co-operation with colleges and universities.

Mr. May and other committee members said testimony already given by Army and Navy officials indicated that little or no consideration has been given to the smaller institutions, most of which are independently operated, many by religious organizations.

Would Have to Close. "Apparently, these smaller schools would just be out of luck and have to close unless something is done," commented Representative Kilday, Democrat, of Texas, a committee member.

Institutions selected by the Army, Navy and War Manpower Commission will be required to house and feed military students and for providing special courses, textbooks and equipment. These payments, committee members felt, would help finance continuation of some schools while other groups have been drained by the armed services.

Testimony to date, much of it given behind closed doors, indicated, committee members said, that there is "a grab" in progress among the Army, the Navy and the Manpower Commission for the larger and better-equipped schools of the press.

That there was no need to close the smaller schools and that their loss would be a serious blow to American democracy was argued before the committee yesterday by Wheeler Sammons, Chicago, editor and publisher of Who's Who.

Mr. Sammons, who said he had made a detailed study of higher education, told the committee the small schools could be saved if the services needed by the Army and the Navy were allotted proportionately among all schools.

"Common sense alone convinces me that in the emergency brain-power should be rationed and allocated against not only the requirements of the services, but of the industry and the civilian necessities essential to support of the services."

Thomas Asks New Formula For Increasing Wages

DETROIT, Jan. 28.—R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers (UAW), urged the War Labor Board today to abandon the little steel formula for determining wage increases, declaring it was both inadequate and unfair.

Mr. Thomas, a labor member of the board, proposed immediate recognition of a realistic formula recognizing an advance of at least 30 per cent in the cost of living since January 1, 1941, so that workers through their unions can confidence to bargain now for comparable increases in wages.

The little steel formula, which the board adopted as a principle in directing wage increases, permits a 15 per cent increase in pay to meet the rise in living costs since January 1, 1941.

Mr. Thomas, who made his proposals in a statement to the press, said the little steel formula "has never been a fair means of deciding increases. He contended that it was unfair to many lower paid workers because it was based on "percentage of salary."

Wind Locks Policemen In

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Patrolmen M. P. Nelson and Mike Walsh were escorted a drunk through the back door of the patrol wagon. It was quite a while later that a pedestrian led the officers out. They said the door blew shut—and locked.

Pessimistic Nazi Radio Stories Seen Move to Lull Allied Efforts

Davis Warns Broadcasts May Seek to Hint War Is Nearly Over

Elmer Davis believes the pessimistic note in German radio reports of reverses in Russia may be intended to lull Allied peoples into believing they needn't work hard to win the war.

"The note is so pronounced that it may be open to suspicion," the director of the Office of War Information said at a press conference yesterday.

"The fact is that Germany is taking a licking in Russia," Mr. Davis continued. "It seems conceivable that the propagandists are painting it blacker than it really is, so that when and if the Russian offensive finally is slowed up, the German people will be considerably heartened."

The trend may also be in line with the German "strength through fear" policy, Mr. Davis said, that is to galvanize the Germans into greater efforts by warning of the "awful things that will happen to German civilians if their country is defeated in the war."

The policy also is a return to Hitler's original propaganda line, which represented Nazism as the world's great bulwark against Communism, Mr. Davis said.

Speaking of the possible German hope to persuade people in the Allied countries that the war is about over he called attention to an incident in South Bend, Ind., Tuesday night, where some persons were convinced that the much-heralded announcement of the end of a victorious struggle. When a locomotive whistle got out of order, about 10 p.m., these persons thought it was the start of the victory celebration.

Mr. Davis said it must be presumed that the appointment of Marcel Peyronnet to be Governor General of Algeria was made with the knowledge of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

The appointment has stirred criticism because of Peyronnet's former affiliation with the Vichy regime.

President Urged to Stay Home During Peace Talks

CLEVELAND, Jan. 28.—Arthur D. Whiteide, president of Dun & Whiteide, Inc., New York, believes the President of the United States should remain at home during the next peace conference.

"I'm afraid that if our President goes over for this peace conference we will be out-traded just as we were at the end of the last war," Mr. Whiteide declared last night before the Cleveland Treasurers Club and the Association of Credit Men.

"We're not shrewd enough that way, I believe, that's all," Mr. Whiteide, who was at the 1918 peace conference with President Wilson, maintained that if the President did not "dope out things at home" there would be a repetition of the previous peace conference.

After predicting victory over the Axis coalition in Europe before next winter, Mr. Whiteide urged the establishment of a three-year "emergency" period for internal reconstruction after the war, during which the Nation's industry could revert to peacetime production.

Federal Judge Rules Rationing Constitutional

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 28.—Constitutionality of the war rationing program is upheld by Federal Judge Paul Leahy, who says it is a "proper delegation of legislative power."

He rejected in a ruling yesterday the contention of Charles Light of Wilmington, charged with making a false statement in registering for a sugar rationing board, that there is no constitutional power for the United States to ration consumer goods.

The judge said the act of Congress giving that power to the President "meets the proper test" in that it confers a clear statement of the policy and purpose Congress seeks to accomplish, and "an intelligible statement of the standards for which that purpose is to be worked out."

Citing military needs for rationed commodities, Judge Leahy said, "The needs of the consumer are subordinate to these basic necessities. He held that the President's war powers are "practically limitless to preserve the Nation."

Chey Chase Woman Held On White Slave Charge

A woman identified as Mary Ann Swait, 59, of the first block of Raymond street, Chevy Chase, Md., was arrested last night on charges of violating the Federal White Slave Traffic Act, the Federal Bureau of Investigation announced today.

The prisoner has posed as a "Dr. Swift," a masseuse and physiotherapist and has brought girls to Washington from New York, Atlantic City and other points for immoral purposes, a statement from the FBI said.

Director J. Edgar Hoover of the bureau said the woman had operated from an address on Church street before her activities from her Chevy Chase home.

Her record reveals, Mr. Hoover said, that she has been closely connected with prostitution since 1916, principally in New York City.

Casablanca Talks Were Shaped Over Backgammon Board

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 28.—Decisions which will guide United Nations' strategy in this critical year of the war apparently were shaped largely over a backgammon board.

During their 10 days in Casablanca, Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt did much of their work at night and usually did not retire until 2 or 3 a.m., long after most of the members of their party.

At these night sessions the President and the Prime Minister often played backgammon while discussing and formulating the world strategy of the United Nations.

Memorial Services Held For Alexander Woolcott

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Actors, authors, playwrights and critics attended memorial services in Columbia University's McMillin Theater today for Alexander Woolcott, who died Saturday night after becoming ill during a radio broadcast.

There were no religious services. The body of the author and raconteur was cremated Tuesday. The ashes will be deposited at Hamilton College, N. Y., his alma mater.

"His Golden Pages," said Lloyd Paul Stryker, lawyer, who went to Hamilton with Mr. Woolcott, "will live through the years—but what he wrote was far less notable than what his body was."

George Backer, former publisher of the New York Post, presided. Paul Robeson recited the "Twenty-third Psalm." Other talks were given by Carl W. Ackerman, dean of the Columbia University School of Journalism, and actress Ruth Gordon.

Among the 300 persons present were Harpo Marx, Katherine Cornell, Dorothy and Lillian Gish, George S. Kaufman, Dorothy Parker and Mrs. W. Averell Harriman.

OPA Allows Price Rise On Nine Groups of Food

The Office of Price Administration has authorized price increases based on increased production costs, on nine groups of food products.

The groups are canned chili con carne, shooting potatoes, Julianne potatoes, pretzels, nut topping, canned prune juice, canned dried prunes, canned prune concentrate and all other canned dried prune products, canned noodle and chicken dinner, canned chicken a la king and canned homestyle chicken.

In these cases, OPA said, wholesalers and retailers were permitted to pass on to their customers specific price increases which OPA might from time to time allow manufacturers or processors because of increased production costs.

Detroit Times Boosts Price to 4 Cents

DETROIT, Jan. 28.—The Detroit Times, an evening newspaper, announced today that effective February 1 the price of its daily edition would be increased from 3 to 4 cents and its Sunday edition would be sold for 12 cents instead of 10.

The announcement attributed the increases to "rising costs in every direction, caused largely by the war."

Farm Lobby Imperils War Food Program, Jackson Declares

Ousted Agriculture Aide Charges Wickard Office Is Withholding Figures

(Earlier Story on Page A-5.) Hitting at "administrative confusion, indecision and fear" within the ranks of the Agriculture Department, Gardner Jackson, whose dismissal as special assistant to Undersecretary Appley was announced last night, charged late today that farm lobbyists, certain members of Congress and officials of the department were impeding the food-for-freedom program.

He further charged that Secretary of Agriculture Wickard's office was withholding figures showing with "compelling force" the large proportion of total increase in certain essential food staples which was accomplished in 1942 by some 500,000 farm families now receiving Farm Security Administration assistance.

Charges Indecision, Fear. Mr. Jackson has been a staunch supporter of FSA and with Herbert W. Parisius, who resigned recently as food production administrator after leveling a blast at department food production methods, has advocated an extension of FSA aid to farmers.

He said that for over two years—beginning with the resignation of Milo Perkins as surplus marketing administrator—forces within the department early forecasted the tremendous food demands of global war and had tried earnestly and patriotically to get agricultural production converted to all-out war purposes.

"Administrative confusion, indecision and fear, working in conjunction with the high-price, low-production-as-usual farm lobby, typified by Ed O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau, have prevailed against these forces," he declared.

"The result may be tragic for the people of our nation and for the United Nations' struggle against the Axis powers. The steady flow of right-sounding words from the Department of Agriculture can not conceal the inadequacy of performance."

His "Banker Philosophy." Mr. Jackson said it was from the Nation's "under-employers" that our greatest expansion of production must come. He added: "But, of course, Ed O'Neal and his associates through their mouthpiece, Senator Harry Byrd and others like him on the Hill, are looking at this problem on the national basis. They are looking at it from the point of view of protecting their special interests."

He said he joined with Mr. Parisius in a "banking" of all credit functions over to an agency and individuals "dominated by glassy-eyed banker philosophy" will help food production materially in this crisis.

"In crucial months in the food production problem 'are right now,' he said.

Admiral Land Calls Steel Ship Building 'Bottleneck'

Read Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, told an executive session of the Senate Military Affairs Committee today that steel was the biggest "bottleneck" against a merchant ship construction program of 20,000,000 tons this year.

He told the committee that the 300,000 additional workers needed to reach such a goal could be found among women, men above the draft age and men with minor incapacities exempted from the military force duty. He said he was opposed to compulsory manpower distribution unless it was absolutely necessary.

The shipbuilding manpower problem is "acute," Admiral Land said, but he added he thought it would be able to find the 100,000 additional workers that will be required by April or May to assure the 16,000,000 tons, or 5 1/2 merchant ships a day, construction program for 1943 outlined in the present Roosevelt bill, which he already has assured priorities.

Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, of Wyoming told reporters that he brought out by questioning that Admiral Land had been unable to obtain priorities set for a requested program of 18,890,000 tons this year.

W. Drummond Holland, 53, who died here Monday, was buried yesterday in Rockville, Md., by his widow, Mrs. Edna Donnelly of Washington.

Surviving Mr. Holland are his widow, Mrs. Edna D. Holland; a son by a former marriage, W. S. Holland, Bethesda; two brothers, Otto of this city and Paul Holland of East Orange, N. J., and a sister, Mrs. Edna Donnelly of Washington.

Bulgarians

The German high command was reported threatening to make the Bulgarians evacuate Macedonia and Thrace as a penalty for refusing to aid the German war effort. King Boris, it was said, however, is holding out.

German diplomatic circles in Istanbul were reported as saying—possibly for Allied ears—that Hitler had asked Bulgaria for 20 divisions to fight Russia next summer.

One traveler recently out of Bulgaria said it now appeared to feel the effects of the war least of all of the Southeastern European countries. Prices were reported 30 per cent lower than in Turkey; white bread and flour are available, unlike Turkey where even brown bread is rationed; however, there are meatless days in Bulgaria, although Turkey has meat daily.

The most notable thing in Bulgaria, said this traveler, was road-building everywhere by compulsory labor. Few Germans were seen abroad in Bulgaria, but by rail and highway a continual flow of German troops to and from Greece and Yugoslavia was reported.

Stimson

"It is an inherent right of every faithful citizen regardless of ancestry, to bear arms in the Nation's battle," Mr. Stimson said. "When obstacles to the free expression of that right are imposed by emergency consideration, those barriers should be removed as soon as humanly possible."

"Loyalty to country is a voice that must be heard," he added, "and I am glad that I am now able to give active proof that this basic American belief is not a casualty of war."

"The 'miser' unit will eventually take its place beside other special Army groups of Hawaiians, Filipinos, Canadians, Poles, Italians and Greeks which are now in training."

Loyalty Must Be Proved. No individual will be inducted into the new Japanese unit if doubt exists as to his loyalty, the War Secretary reminded.

The initial procedure in its formation will be voluntary induction. Facilities for this will be National, including the Hawaiian Islands and the war relocation centers in this country. There are many hundreds of loyal American citizens of Japanese extraction in these centers, particularly on the Pacific Coast, it is claimed.

The new unit will be trained separately from the battalion of Japanese extraction—originally a Hawaiian National Guard organization—which is already a component of the Army.

Two additional colored men's air squadrons are being organized for combat training, Mr. Stimson also announced. These new units will include an air group which will include the one squadron now being trained.

Rumor of Army Casualties Is Branded as 'Vicious'

Assistant Secretary of War Robert A. Lovett today branded as "vicious, reckless and completely untrue" a rumor that "50 per cent of personnel in Army planes en route to our fronts are killed in transit."

In a letter to Representative Brooks, Democrat of Louisiana, read on the floor of the House, Mr. Lovett said that during 1942, 99.7 per cent of all aircraft accepted for domestic ferrying and foreign flight delivery were delivered to their destinations.

Mr. Brooks had called the rumor to the attention of the Assistant Secretary.

Mr. Lovett said that the percentage of fatal accidents to deliveries in such operations was only 2 of 1 per cent during the six months' period ending December 31, 1942.

Allied Air Forces Resume Offensive On Tunisian Front

Two Italian Destroyers Blasted; Bad Weather Limits Land Activity

By the Associated Press. Allied air forces have resumed the offensive in Tunisia with a series of attacks on Nazi ground targets and a blast at two Italian destroyers, one of which was left in a sinking condition, the Allied spokesman announced today at headquarters in North Africa.

Bad weather limited ground activity to patrolling. B-25 Mitchell bombers, escorted by P-38 Lightnings, found the two destroyers 100 miles off Tunis in the Mediterranean narrows and scored two direct hits that left one burning and shipping water. The spokesman said four bombs fell close to the stern of the other destroyer and probably damaged it.

The RAF and the 12th Air Force combined in sweeps with Spitfires, Lightnings, Warhawks and Boston bombers, raking Nazi transports and fuel dumps with cannon fire over a wide area.

Nazi Gas Truck Blasted. RAF Spitfires blew up a German gasoline truck on the road between Tunis and Font Du Fahs, destroying a tank and a tank carrier at the same time. Staff cars were shot up and German officers leaped into ditches and fields to escape the rain of bullets.

Lightnings strafed a truck column, leaving many vehicles in flames. Boston bombers, escorted by Warhawks, bombed a troop concentration at the hamlet of Mezzouna, 13 miles east of Maknassy, and the observers reported many direct hits. Lafayette Escadrille fighters, French pilots under United States command, joined a group of American Lightnings to attack German ammunition and fuel dumps.

The RAF rounded out a 24-hour attack with a night raid on Bizerte, Axis-held naval base. All American planes were reported to have returned from the operations. A communicé said one Allied aircraft was missing.

Four Enemy Bombers Destroyed. "Additional reports," the communicé said, "show that in the attack on Algiers on the night of the 26th and 27th of January four more enemy bombers were destroyed, making six in all that night."

An American attempt to drive a wedge between the converging armies of Marshal Erwin Rommel and Col. Gen. Jürgen von Arnim in Central Tunisia was suggested by Axis reports today.

The Vichy radio said last night the United States forces originally concentrated on Tebessa, Algeria, 150 miles southwest of Tunis, had begun an offensive.

A Berlin military spokesman was quoted by the German radio this morning as saying the Americans were "planning a major offensive." Presumably such a drive would be toward the Gulf of Gabes, a relatively vulnerable sector on the line of Rommel's retreat.

The British 8th Army continued its drive toward Tunisia yesterday and its patrols were in contact with the enemy in the Sabirath area, 41 miles west of Tripoli and less than 60 miles from the Tunisia-Libya border, it was announced today in Cairo.

Raid Southern Italy. A communicé said air activity yesterday and Tuesday night was on a small scale, "but successful attacks were made on enemy rail communications in Southern Italy." One aircraft was listed as missing.

Sabratha is a small town on the coast, road running west from Tripoli. Advice from the North African front said that torrential storms had terminated a week of fair weather, bogging down many important roads and making the terrain totally unsuitable for tank operations.

The break in the weather came just as United States ground forces were becoming increasingly active in Central Tunisia, the spokesman perhaps, of an Allied attempt to drive a spearhead through to the coast near Sousse and thus cut communications between Rommel and Von Arnim.

Bride of Sailor on Naisek Refuses to Give Up Hope

An 18-year-old wife of less than a year, Mrs. Melvin E. Shewbridge, is still hopeful that her husband is alive although reported missing last week on the Coast Guard cutter Naisek, long overdue.

The husband was a machinist's mate, second class. He married the former Betty Triessler May 3 at Takoma Park, Md. Mrs. Shewbridge lives at 5117 Charles street, Beaver Heights, Md., is a War Department secretary and a member of the class of 1942 at Eastern High School, where she was vice president of Phi Pi Epsilon Sorority.

Her husband was last employed by the Southern Oxygen Co. of Arlington, Va., and was called into service shortly after he was married. Although Mrs. Shewbridge has not seen her husband since he began his tour of duty at the Manhattan Beach Training Station, N. Y., she has received a number of letters from him while on patrol duty.

Two D. C. Girls Drive Red Cross Clubmobile To Scattered U. S. Army Camps in England

Misses Tyler, Ellis Cook Doughnuts and Serve Coffee

By THOMAS R. HENRY, Star Staff Correspondent.

LONDON (By Mail). Driving through blinding snowstorms on black north of England nights, dressed in the new Army combat uniforms which make them look like deep-sea divers, two former Washington girls have inaugurated here the Red Cross field canteen service for American soldiers stationed in lonely spots over the British Isles, far from any town.

Few soldiers not in actual combat had had more hazardous experiences than these young women who a few months ago were pounding typewriters in Government offices.

They are Miss Eileen Tyler, 2426 Nineteenth street, former clerk in the Washington field office of the FBI, and Miss Anne Ellis, whose mother, Mrs. Charles Pynchon of 2205 California street, formerly contributed articles to The Evening Star.

Toughest of Jobs. Altogether they have had perhaps the toughest job of any Red Cross workers in England. They are operators of a so-called "clubmobile," United States troops here are widely scattered. In one village, many miles from any center where the ordinary activities of the Red Cross can be carried on, may be encamped a single company, or even one platoon. The girls seldom can get leave and when they do, transportation often is not available.

The Red Cross conceived the idea of fitting out cars, for the most part converted English buses, which had been off the highways because of gasoline shortages, into traveling doughnut-and-coffee kitchens with phonographs and records for entertainment and dancing. The plan was to station one of these at a central point and send it out 50 to 60 miles in a different direction each day to take in the isolated camps.

Since Miss Tyler and Miss Ellis started the first clubmobile five months ago, they have placed on the English roads, and eventually 50 will be in service. Doughnuts and Coffee. The chief activity to date has been the serving of American-style doughnuts and American coffee. The two girls have fried thousands on thousands of doughnuts until, they say, they are "tired of them."

After a stop they have about 300 coffee cups to wash and the floor of the truck to scrub before they can start back, unless, as usually happens, a mess sergeant voluntarily assigns some k. p.s. to the job. But the girls don't like to have this check and analyze time and they prefer from routine, not to increase their work. They have little time to be homesick for Washington and letters are few and far between. But Miss Tyler wanted to be remembered to her two roommates at 2426 Nineteenth street, Miss Milbrey Curry and Mrs. Anne Ockle, and Miss Ellis wanted to send her greetings to Mrs. Gregory Williamson of 2131 Leroy place.

Hanfstaengl Reported Aiding U. S. Psychological War

Former Hitler Aide Secretly Brought From Canada

By JAY FRANKLIN, North American Newspaper Alliance.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Today the United States Government is making public one of the best-kept secrets of its psychological warfare against Hitler and the Nazis—the fact that Dr. Ernst Sedgwick (Putzi) Hanfstaengl has been giving the Government the low-down on Hitlerism for several months.

The purpose of publishing this news at this time, after half a year of official secrecy, is to aid in the psychological detour of Adolf Hitler on the eve of the January 30 Berlin celebration of the 10th anniversary of his seizure of power.

For Putzi Hanfstaengl devoted 15 years to helping Hitler rise to power and keeping him in power. He was one of the creators of the Nazi movement in Germany and has intimate knowledge of Hitler, Goering, Goebbels and other Nazi leaders. Now he is devoting his knowledge to the destruction of the Nazis and the defeat of the Germany they have enslaved.

Son in Army Air Forces. Dr. Hanfstaengl is half American by birth, his mother having been a member of the famous New England Sedgwick family. His former wife, from whom he is divorced several years ago, also is an American citizen, Miss Helen Niemeyer of New York, and their son, Egon, American-born, left Harvard many months before Pearl Harbor to enlist in the Army Air Force.

Pearl Harbor, it is understood, was the reason for Dr. Hanfstaengl's decision to place his knowledge at the disposal of American authorities. He had fled from Germany in 1937 to save himself from Hitler's bump-off artists, and was living in London at the time of the outbreak of the war in September, 1939. He was interned by British authorities as an enemy alien and later was sent to Canada along with numerous other British prisoners of war. After his son joined the United States Army he made known to Washington his desire to be of service to the cause of the United Nations.

Details of the transfer from Canada to American jurisdiction are still secret. It is understood the terms offered to Hanfstaengl were stringent, that he agreed to be kept incommunicado and under such other conditions as would maintain the secrecy and security of the entire operation, and that it was further understood that any deviation from these terms meant his prompt return to the Canadian prison camp.

Condition Satisfied. One of the reasons for this unusual arrangement was that the American authorities wished to satisfy themselves that Hanfstaengl really could make a useful contribution and desired to verify his professional good faith. Both of these conditions are now said to be satisfied. Details as to the sort of information which Hanfstaengl has supplied to the American and British authorities at Washington have not been divulged, but it is understood that it has been found valuable by a number of different agencies concerned with his prosecution of the war.

It is, however, easy to guess at the sort of knowledge which Dr. Hanfstaengl might be able to produce. As one of the public relations experts behind the rise of Hitler, he possesses a thorough understanding of German public opinion and Nazi psychology. As a talented pianist and as former head of the great Hanfstaengl art business in Munich, he was the link between for two hours. The former built a fire for them and after some hot drinks they were able to start out again. About daylight they got back to their station. Christmas Eve. Christmas eve—of all times—their doughnut-making apparatus broke down just after they started operations at another isolated camp and it took hours for the best mechanics among the soldiers to fix it. But all the boys had plenty of doughnuts and coffee before breakfast.

After a stop they have about 300 coffee cups to wash and the floor of the truck to scrub before they can start back, unless, as usually happens, a mess sergeant voluntarily assigns some k. p.s. to the job. One Small Voice —By John Kieran

The Influence of War on Men's Wear

Balaklava. Or was it Tennyson who made it immortal? Anyway, Gen. Cardigan was in on it all the way and one report had it that Gen. Cardigan (seventh Earl of Cornwall) was the first man of the Light Brigade to reach the Russian lines that dreadful day. That's the worst of having a good horse at such a time.

But perhaps some historians trace out another ancestry for the cardigan jacket. Maybe it came from the Cardigan area in Wales. The Blucher-type shoes—boots is the more familiar word in England—go back, of course, to the Gen. Blucher who arrived in time to swing the victory at Waterloo. Wellington and leave Napoleon wandering the field in a daze at dusk, "immense somnambule de ce reve ecroule," as Victor Hugo described him. M. Hugo, by the way, never could quite forgive the Duke of Wellington for winning at Waterloo. According to M. Hugo, Waterloo was a battle of the first order won by a general of the second.

Lord Raglan had a coat named after him, because the cardigan jacket preserves the name if not the fame of Gen. J. T. B. (seventh Earl of Cardigan, Gen. Blucher, appearing not too late with too little, but just in time with plenty of stuff at Waterloo. He left his footprints on the sands of time by the means of the Blucher boot or shoe. But aside from the Invalides, the pages of history and the hearts of Frenchmen, where is the memory of Napoleon enshrined? Why, in the pastry window at the bakery or on the dessert plate at dinner—a "napoleon!"

If they could do that to Napoleon, what has Fate in store for Hitler? In what form and for what purpose will Dr. Putzi's name survive? This corner is open for suggestions and prophecies, at least some of which should be printable. Ransack the animal, vegetable and mineral kingdoms for something peculiarly fitting. It's just possible that the Greeks will have a word for him when this war is over.

The names of men have come down to us not only as the names of ships and shoes and sealing wax and crests and things, but as islands (Tristan de Cunha, Juan Fernandez) in far seas, succulent foodstuffs (sandwich, from the Earl of Sandwich; shaddock, the early name of grapefruit, from one Capt. Shaddock, a pigsticker, who was supposed to have brought the South West Indies from the South Seas), flowers (Bougainville, from Admiral Antoine de Bougainville, who found the blooming vine three centuries ago where the Japs now hold the forts), and trees (the linden is named after Linnaeus).

In attempting to select something special in that line for the name of Hitler, perhaps the competitors should start with the lowest form of animal life and work downward. (Released by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Well-dressed Generals. What did England get out of the Crimean War? Among other things, the raglan coat. It was named after Lord Raglan, the commander of the British forces in the Crimea. Fitzroy James Henry Somerset, first Baron Raglan, was in the battle of Waterloo and standing not far from the Duke of Wellington when he was hit in the right arm so badly that the arm later was amputated. During the Crimean War there often was warm debate as to whether or not, in war councils, Lord Raglan had a good head on his shoulders, but there was general agreement that, in the field, he always had a swell coat on his back. Happily, he is best remembered now for what he wore, rather than for what he thought or did.

We still wear cardigan jackets and there are those who say that the buttoned jerseys trace their name back to the Gen. Cardigan (James Thomas Brudenell, seventh Earl of Cardigan) who was with Lord Raglan in the Crimea and, indeed, the commander of the famous Light Brigade that made the immortal charge at the throat as she lay in lower berth 13 of sleeper D. In Los Angeles Detective Capt. Verne Rasmussen said Folkes admitted the killing, saying he had stabbed Mrs. James with a sharp boning knife at the instigation of another unidentified man. Mr. Rasmussen said Folkes' statement told of a deal made with a man on the train who assertedly informed the cook he had to get Mrs. James "out of the way" and offered him $1,000 to "do the job." Folkes said the man first asserted he was Mrs. James' husband, Mr. Rasmussen reported, but later the colored cook referred to him only as "the other man." Ensign James was not on the train with his wife. The detective quoted Folkes as stating he didn't get any money from the man, but that he entered Mrs. James' berth and stabbed her with the knife. Before Folkes signed the statement, Dr. Paul de River, a psychiatrist, Dr. Paul de River, was called in to examine Folkes. Dr. de River pronounced him "sane but of the emotional, braggart, exhibitionist type."

Educator Says Stores May Have to Close to Supply Farm Labor

Maryland in Grave Need Of Men to Harvest Crops, AWWV Rally Is Told

Cities like Cumberland and Hagerstown may have to shut down their stores and shops to supply Maryland farmers with sufficient labor to harvest their 1943 crops, Dr. Thomas Symons, dean of agriculture at the University of Maryland and head of the State Extension Service, predicted here last night.

Maryland farmers are losing 10 men to industry to every farm hand being drafted, he told an American Women's Voluntary Services farm rally held in the Interior Department auditorium. Draft boards in the State have given "sympathetic treatment" in the drafting of farm labor, Dr. Symons said, but the problem remains serious.

He told of attending a farmers' cooperative meeting in Frederick yesterday at which farmers asserted they would not be able to meet 1943 food production goals set by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard unless they had more help. Not Always Fault of Army. John O. Walker, who was appointed by Agriculture Secretary Wickard today to recruit a volunteer army of farm workers, told the group that American farmers were "badly frightened . . ." that they won't be able to harvest their crops this year. He estimated it would require 3,000,000 people to plant and harvest crops in 1943.

Declaring that the "fault does not always lie with the Army," Mr. Walker pointed out that Army and other armed services had taken 40 per cent of the farm help that has left America since the war began, while industry has taken 60 per cent. He said that "all idle men and women in this country" will have to do their part in solving the problem "before the war is over."

Mrs. Eugene Meyer predicted that it might be necessary to release experienced men from the Army for farm work unless the drain of manpower from farms was halted. She urged that time and by the Government in solving the problem. Land Army Courses Planned. The rally last night, called by the AWWV Women's Land Army, was designed to recruit women in the new movement of part-time aid to farmers during harvesting and planting periods.

Classes to acquaint women with farm subjects will be given under auspices of the Land Army beginning next week. One course will be held at the University of Maryland starting Tuesday from 10:30 a.m. to 4:40 p.m. Another will open Wednesday, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., at AWWV headquarters, 2170 Florida avenue N.W. Miss Anita Phipps, head of the Washington AWWV, introduced the speakers and an Army Air Forces band played. Woman Government worker, dressed in farm clothes, sang the Land Army's song, "We Make This Vow."

The Office of War Information issued the following statement last night: "Ernst (Putzi) Hanfstaengl is not in the employ of the Office of War Information. Nor have his services been utilized in any way by the OWI."

Hearings Scheduled Tuesday on Plan for Pay-as-You-Go Tax

House Group to Meet Tomorrow to Study Move To Lift Debt Limit

House committee hearings will begin Tuesday on pay-as-you-go tax plans, separating this subject from the general tax problem in the hope of putting many income tax payers on a current collection basis for at least a part of 1943.

Chairman Doughton announced also that the Ways and Means Committee would meet tomorrow to consider his bill to raise the national debt limit from $125,000,000,000 to $210,000,000,000, and a favorable report was expected.

Taxpayers Warned to File.
The chairman said general tax matters, including a presidential request for $16,000,000,000 revenue in addition to the $33,000,000,000 expected from present laws, probably would be considered after a pay-as-you-go measure was put on the President's desk.

Mr. Doughton and Chairman George of the Senate Finance Committee have jointly admitted that any pay-as-you-go legislation would not remove the necessity of taxpayers filing their returns by March 15, as required by present law.

Asks 20 Per Cent Withholding Levy.
Preliminary to the committee session, Representative Robertson, Democrat, of Virginia, member of the tax-framing group, suggested a plan calling for erasure of lower-bracket 1942 income taxes and imposition of a 20 per cent withholding levy on current incomes (after allowable deductions) of all taxpayers.

This was a modified version of a proposal by Beardsley Ruml, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, to skip all 1942 individual income taxes, high as well as low brackets, in attaining a pay-as-you-go basis. Mr. Doughton is vigorously opposed to general forgiveness of 1942 obligations.

Offering what he termed a middle course, Mr. Robertson said:

"The only income tax that all pay alike is the normal tax of 6 per cent and the first bracket surtax of 13 per cent, a total of 19 per cent. If that amount of the 1942 liability be eliminated, all taxpayers would be treated alike. Yet the Treasury would lose much money unless a substantial proportion of 1942 liability be collected at the source.

Extends Ruml Plan.
"A withholding tax of 20 per cent, not upon gross but upon net taxable income, would extend the Ruml plan to 90 per cent of the taxpayers, making them 100 per cent current. And instead of causing loss to the Treasury, would add millions of dollars to the Treasury receipts for the fiscal year of 1944."

The plan was designed to put relatively low income groups on a 100 per cent current basis.

Mr. Robertson said he knew of no practical way, even with full adoption of the Ruml plan, to make all taxpayers current, especially those working at no pre-determined income, such as professional men, businessmen and farmers.

Mr. Robertson also suggested: "A 10 per cent (on net income) compulsory savings levy and elimination of the present 5 per cent Victory tax. The compulsory savings levy would have no connection with the withholding levy, the savings going into purchase of bonds redeemable by the purchaser after the war."

Urges Lifting of $25,000 Top.
Erasure of the $25,000 (after taxes) salary limitation imposed by executive order.

Consideration of a Federal sales tax as a means of helping raise the $16,000,000,000 in additional revenue. Mr. Robertson emphasized that he was offering the plan as a basis of discussion and analysis, and that he was ready to consider any suggestions for improvement of his proposals.

Senate Vote on Flynn Expected To Be Decided by Close Margin

Poll Shows Outcome May Rest With 28 Members Whose Views Are Unknown

A poll indicated today that the Senate vote on confirmation of President Roosevelt's nomination of Edward J. Flynn as Minister to Australia is likely to be decided by an extremely close margin next week.

Of 88 Senators reached by the Associated Press in interviews, 28 Democrats and a Progressive announced they would vote for confirmation of the President's long-time political and personal friend for the post.

Against these 28 favoring the nomination, 21 Senators, including four Democrats and 17 Republicans, were listed as publicly opposing confirmation. Eight Senators—four Democrats and four Republicans—were away from Washington, and their views could not be ascertained.

The final decision apparently rests with 20 Democrats and eight Republicans who either had not made up their mind or if they had, were unwilling to say so publicly.

Democrats generally were reluctant to comment on their position because of the political implications involved, but there were indications that balloting might not be strictly on party lines.

One non-partisan private canvass showed the possibility of a 48-to-48 tie vote, if all members participated, which would give Vice President Wallace the deciding ballot.

While these private nose counts indicated a trend, there seemed to be genuine indecision among many Senators as to the course they would pursue. Copies of the Foreign Relation Committee's hearings on Republican charges against Mr. Flynn were being read with unusual diligence by members who could not attend the public sessions, and next week's debate was expected to have telling effect on the outcome.

Several Are Undecided.
As an indication of the indecision that existed, Senator McClellan, Democrat, of Arkansas told reporters:

"I'm not fully satisfied in my own mind. I am not sure that I'll feel justified in voting for confirmation until I've read and heard all I can on the matter. All this could have been avoided through another appointment."

Similarly, Senator Langer, Republican, of North Dakota said, "I haven't made up my mind at all."

The Foreign Relations Committee's 13-to-10 approval of the nomination yesterday, carried with it a break in party lines, when Senators George of Georgia, Van Nuys of Indiana and Gillette of Iowa, all Democrats, voted with seven Republicans against confirmation.

On the other hand, Senator La Follette, Progressive, of Wisconsin, who sits on the minority side of the Senate, joined 12 Democrats in supporting the nomination.

Van Nuys Explains Stand.
Senator Van Nuys said, "We are in war and pleading for the unity and co-operation and confidence of the people in our national leadership. Irrespective of Mr. Flynn's competency to fill the diplomatic post in question, it was well understood that his nomination would cause dissension and bitter controversy not only in the Senate but in the country as a whole.

"This nomination is particularly unfortunate at this time when Washington is full of trained and experienced diplomats who would be delighted to serve their country in this important post and whose nomination would have been acclaimed without a single protest."

Flynn Quits as Chairman Of Bronx Democrats

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Edward J. Flynn, Minister-Designate to Australia, resigned yesterday as chairman of the Executive Committee of the Democratic Committee of Bronx County.

In a letter to Harry B. Chambers, chairman of the Bronx Democratic County Committee, sent from Washington and dated January 26, Mr. Flynn asked that his resignation from the post he had held for 22 years be made effective immediately.

Mr. Flynn resigned as chairman of the Democratic National Committee last week. Tuesday he relinquished his post as a New York member of the Democratic National Committee.

Senators Ask Grew For Advice on Use Of Jap Internees

Those Potentially Loyal Could Be Released, Chandler Declares

The advice of Joseph C. Grew, former Ambassador to Japan, was sought today by a Senate Military Affairs Subcommittee studying means of separating potentially loyal Americans from other Japanese now held in a dozen detention colonies.

Chairman Chandler, asserting the committee had been informed that nearly two-thirds of 106,000 Japanese in the colonies could be released for military or production service, said:

"If this is true, something should be done to separate the loyal Americans from the avowed enemies of this country in those camps."

Senator Chandler said he had invited Mr. Grew to appear at an executive session this afternoon because his knowledge of the Japanese would be most helpful at this time.

Mr. Grew was in Tokyo when the war started. The committee has under consideration a resolution by Senator Waldorf, Democrat, of Washington to transfer supervision of the Japanese colonies to the War Relocation Authority back to the War Department.

Committeemen have received numerous complaints, Senator Chandler said, that the Japanese were being "pampered." The committee plans to tour camps in California, Wyoming, Idaho, Colorado, Utah, Arkansas and Arizona later.

The subcommittee was told of three classes of Japanese in this country—the American-born, American-educated Japanese, most of whom, Senator Chandler said, are loyal Americans; the American-born, Japanese-educated, and the Japanese-born, Japanese-educated. The latter cause most of the trouble.

he said, because of the number of Shintos among them. The Shintos are members of a religious sect whose loyalties are to the Emperor," Senator Chandler declared.

Group Health Reports Records for Medical Care and Membership

The Group Health Association has reached a new high in the number of members and their families receiving medical care and hospitalization under a pre-payment plan.

Miss Edith Rockwood, president of GHA, declared that "despite the manpower and other difficulties brought about by the war, the year 1942 was one of marked progress for GHA and one of increased service to the community."

The recent Supreme Court decision which upheld the conviction of the American Medical Association and the District Medical Society for alleged restraint of trade against GHA in violation of the Sherman Anti-trust Act was explained to the meeting by Dennis O'Rourke, general counsel of GHA.

Waller R. Volkhausen, secretary-treasurer of GHA, reported that the membership had reached the new high of 8,145 persons including members and their dependents, eligible for service.

Dr. Scandiffo reported that during 1942, the four staff physicians who had taken leave of absence to enter military service.

Dr. Scandiffo commented on obstacles he said the present District licensing laws imposed in the way of physicians trying to transfer their licenses from States to this city.

and fighters, continue large scale operations in Tunisia, Mr. Stimson said, and on one day—January 24—destroyed an estimated 28 enemy planes on the ground.

Discussing the pursuit of Rommel's forces by the British 8th Army, Mr. Stimson said that despite efforts of the fleeing Axis forces to destroy the air bases near Tripoli and to block the harbor and demolish the port facilities there, both will soon be in use by American and British forces.

"At one time it was estimated there were as many as 200,000 Axis troops in this area, and probably relatively few escapees."

"So this is the end of the great German offensive of 1942, which reached the Volga and seriously threatened the oil fields of the Caucasus. There is a good chance that the German forces will be driven back to the point from which they started their attack."

"The magnificent resistance of the Russians against heavy odds, may well make the struggle at Stalingrad one of the decisive battles of history."

"The Russians are making progress all along their lengthy front, he said, but German resistance in the vicinity of Rostov is stiffening a fact which Mr. Stimson interpreted as indicating the Germans might be trying to evacuate their forces from the Caucasus entirely."

Joseph J. Sinnott Dies at 82; Veteran House Doorkeeper

Native of Virginia Employed at Capitol For 56 Years

Joseph J. Sinnott, 82, doorkeeper of the House of Representatives since 1931 and an employee of the Capitol for 56 years, died last night at his home, 3527 Thirteenth street N.W.

Although he suffered a slight head injury in a fall at the Capitol yesterday morning, relatives said his death was believed caused by a heart attack.

House officials said that Mr. Sinnott had served longer in the Capitol than any other employe on the House payroll. He was first elected House doorkeeper in 1911, serving until 1919. He was House minority clerk during subsequent Republican administrations, but was again elected doorkeeper in 1931.

Born in Richmond, Va., August 9, 1860, Mr. Sinnott came to the Capitol in 1887 as secretary to a House member from Virginia. His almost uncanny memory for names and faces once drew a personal compliment from Woodrow Wilson. It was when Lord Balfour came from England in 1917 and made an address in the House. After the speech he expressed the desire to meet the members. President Wilson came down from the gallery and Mr. Sinnott introduced the entire membership, one by one, to the visitor and Executive without missing a name.

Mr. Sinnott had his "problems" when several thousand persons wanted seats in the galleries on special days when only a few hundred seats were available. He was struck once during the Fifty-ninth Congress when he ran down the aisle to separate two members arguing over State matter.

Long active in Masonic circles, Mr. Sinnott was a member of Mount Pleasant Lodge, and was one of the oldest members of the National Press Club.

Surviving Mr. Sinnott are his widow, the former Alice Weaver Westmoreland County; a daughter, Mrs. Virginia Sherman; a granddaughter, and a brother, William B. Sinnott of Silver Spring, Md.

Funeral arrangements will be made today.

saluting. Both the pilot and copilot of the bomber testified that they observed no maneuver of recognition from the airliner in response to the bomber's wing-dip salute.

"We are driven to the conclusion that this collision resulted from the reckless and irresponsible act of the bomber pilot and that the captain (pilot) of the airliner was without fault."

All aboard the airliner were killed. (The CAB's authority in the case is limited to announcement of its findings, it has no punitive power except over licensing of civilian flyers.)

The airliner was piloted by Charles Fred Pedley, 42, who had flown more than 17,000 hours. The co-pilot was Louis Frederick Ruppert, Jr., 26, a friend of Lt. Wilson.

When Lt. Wilson in the bomber, which was being ferried from Long Beach, Calif., to Palm Springs, was Staff Sgt. Robert Reid Leicht, 25, co-pilot.

Reviewing the evidence, the board said that Lt. Wilson and Mr. Ruppert had met on the evening preceding the fatal flight and had discussed the possibility of seeing each other in the air, since they would be leaving about the same time.

Sergt. Leicht testified that Lt. Wilson told him he would "like to thumb his nose" at Mr. Ruppert in the air.

The board said weather conditions were satisfactory and did not contribute to the accident. It also said that there was no evidence that Mr. Ruppert had agreed to any arrangement which would have violated civil air regulations.

Inclement weather, which made it difficult to draw a jury, today forced the postponement of the trial of Richard L. Whitte, 17, charged with the murder of Miss Madeline Matthes, 25, a Jehovah's Witnesses member.

The trial, which was to begin today in District Court before Justice Matthew P. McGuire, was postponed to the next jury term on Tuesday.

Miss Matthes was found dead April 15, 1942, in the Whitte apartment at 1422 N street N.W. Investigators said death was caused by puncture wounds of the lungs. Assistant United States Attorney Bernard Margolis will handle the prosecution.

On September 11 a District Court jury found Whitte of sound mind and ruled he must stand trial.

Million-Dollar Blaze Destroys Factory and 8 Homes in Virginia

Furniture Plant at Marion Burned; War Works Saved Nearby

MARION, Va., Jan. 28.—The Virginia Lincoln Corp.'s furniture plant burned here last night and Leon Deville, company secretary, estimated the loss to be approximately $1,000,000.

Eight homes near the plant also were burned, but firemen kept the flames from spreading to a Lincoln Corp. building across the street in Southeast Marion which was engaged in war work.

The two-story brick furniture plant, covering more than a block and employing 650 workmen, was burned to the ground. All available fire equipment in this Southwest Virginia area was sent to Marion, including machines from Bristol and Wytheville. Firemen had the double problem of keeping the flames away from the war plant on one side and from spreading to Main street and the Smyth County Courthouse a block away on another side.

The fire broke out in the finishing department at about 11 p.m. and spread quickly. It was under control at 2 a.m., but firemen continued to throw water on the embers throughout the morning.

A large quantity of furniture was stored in the plant. Also lost was machinery which is believed to be irreplaceable at this time.

No plans were announced immediately from the war plant on the site pending the arrival of C. C. Lincoln and John D. Lincoln, president and vice president, from Texas. No one was injured. Some of the burned houses lost all of their household effects.

According to New York FBI officials, he had a long criminal record and had been operating closely with Japanese agents in the United States since 1932. He served in the Navy from 1918 to 1930, then was dishonorably discharged, used 19 false names, and was wanted in Washington for violating the postal laws, the FBI said.

A major theme of the Pacific Movement, the Government said, was to stir up racial prejudices and resistance to the war program by telling colored persons that a Japanese victory would obtain their "liberation."

The department said that branches had been established in 17 cities, principally in the Middle West.

The count involving the draft law said that colored persons were offered the status of "minister" in the "Triumph Church of the New Age," described as "a pseudo-religious adjunct" of the movement.

Members of the movement were urged to apply for certificates as ministers of the church—including payment of a fee—under the representation, the department said, that such a certificate would exempt them from military service.

The indictment covers only acts alleged to have been committed since the Pearl Harbor attack and concerns principally meetings held in East St. Louis under the leadership of Butler or Erwin, the Justice Department said.

Jap Propaganda Cited. Among the statements cited in the indictment and which the department said were "designed to mislead and corrupt the patriotic, loyal and law-abiding population of colored people of East St. Louis" were these:

"The Japanese are brothers of the Negroes, and the Negro race will be better off under Japanese rule than under white rule."

"Members of the Pacific Movement of the Eastern World should accumulate as many guns and as much ammunition as possible in order to be able to stage an uprising to assist the Japanese when they invade the United States."

"This is a white man's war, and Negroes should not participate in it."

Convict Says Jap Gave Him $800 to Get Recruits

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—George Johnson, colored inmate of the Menard (Ill.) Penitentiary, testified yesterday that in 1934 an unidentified Japanese gave him $800 to recruit members for the Peace Movement of Ethiopia who were to help overthrow the United States Government when war broke out.

Johnson, sentenced to 1 to 20 years for burglary and larceny at East St. Louis, Ill., testified at the trial of four officers of the Peace Movement of Ethiopia before Federal Judge William H. Holly on charges of sedition and conspiracy to commit sedition.

The four defendants are Mitte Maude Lena Gordon, president, her husband, William Green Gordon, founder; David James Logan, executive officer, and Seon Emanuel Jones, president of the Chicago local.

Johnson testified that the Gordon women, her husband and Logan sent for him in 1933, the year he was paroled, and asked him to join, but he refused. They again sent for him in 1934 when he met the Japanese, whose identity he said he did not know and who told him the war would break out in 1944.

Black Dragon Society Accused of Fostering Disloyalty of Race

Two Colored Leaders And Jap Named in Sedition Indictment

By the Associated Press. A charge that Japan's notorious Black Dragon Society launched a Nation-wide movement to alienate the loyalty of American colored persons was made yesterday in a sedition indictment returned by a Federal grand jury at East St. Louis, Ill.

The Justice Department said the two-count indictment named the Pacific Movement of the Eastern World, Inc.; General Lee Butler, president of the corporation; David D. Erwin, its national adviser, and a Japanese described only as "John Doe."

Butler, who resides in East St. Louis, and Erwin, a St. Louisan, both colored, have described the Pacific Movement as a fraternal organization and have denied any subversive activities.

Erwin is the bishop of the "Triumph Church of the New Age."

The charges were conspiracy to cause insubordination, disloyalty, mutiny and refusal of duty in the armed forces, and conspiracy to hinder compliance with the selective service law.

In commenting on the indictment, Attorney General Biddle said "attempts by Japanese agents to infiltrate Negro groups have been indignantly repudiated by responsible leaders of our Negro citizens throughout the country."

The Justice Department said Mimo De Guzman, 42, a Filipino now under sentence for forging money orders, was the actual founder of the Pacific Movement, which at one time claimed 100,000 members. The department said De Guzman acted under the direction of Satoshi Takahashi, a retired Japanese army officer, and that colored persons were program arms and ammunition against the defense when Japan attacks the West Coast.

Former D. C. Resident. De Guzman formerly was a Washington resident and in September, when arrested in New York City on a charge of failing to return his draft questionnaire, told FBI officials he lived at 1236 Euclid street N.W. That was denied by persons at that address, who said De Guzman went with a girl who had lived there.

According to New York FBI officials, he had a long criminal record and had been operating closely with Japanese agents in the United States since 1932. He served in the Navy from 1918 to 1930, then was dishonorably discharged, used 19 false names, and was wanted in Washington for violating the postal laws, the FBI said.

A major theme of the Pacific Movement, the Government said, was to stir up racial prejudices and resistance to the war program by telling colored persons that a Japanese victory would obtain their "liberation."

The department said that branches had been established in 17 cities, principally in the Middle West.

The count involving the draft law said that colored persons were offered the status of "minister" in the "Triumph Church of the New Age," described as "a pseudo-religious adjunct" of the movement.

Members of the movement were urged to apply for certificates as ministers of the church—including payment of a fee—under the representation, the department said, that such a certificate would exempt them from military service.

The indictment covers only acts alleged to have been committed since the Pearl Harbor attack and concerns principally meetings held in East St. Louis under the leadership of Butler or Erwin, the Justice Department said.

Jap Propaganda Cited. Among the statements cited in the indictment and which the department said were "designed to mislead and corrupt the patriotic, loyal and law-abiding population of colored people of East St. Louis" were these:

"The Japanese are brothers of the Negroes, and the Negro race will be better off under Japanese rule than under white rule."

"Members of the Pacific Movement of the Eastern World should accumulate as many guns and as much ammunition as possible in order to be able to stage an uprising to assist the Japanese when they invade the United States."

"This is a white man's war, and Negroes should not participate in it."

Jackson Is Ousted By Wickard in Row Over Food Output

FSA Supporter Says He Was Accused of Being 'Center of Agitation'

Gardner Jackson, special assistant to Undersecretary of Agriculture Paul Appleby and a strong supporter of the Farm Security Administration, said today he had been ousted from the department by Secretary Wickard with the charge that he was the "center of agitation" over Mr. Wickard's food production methods.

Mr. Jackson, who declared he would issue a formal statement later, was notified of his dismissal Saturday by an assistant of Mr. Wickard.

Economy Reasons Cited. He said he had received no formal communication from the Secretary on the action but that a memorandum from Mr. Wickard had been handed to T. Ray Reid, personnel director, which abolished his office. Mr. Jackson said Mr. Wickard's assistant had charged him with spreading dissatisfaction within the department.

A spokesman for the department said Mr. Jackson's post had been abolished for reasons of economy. Observers, however, saw the action as widening the rift among some top-ranking officers in the department over Mr. Wickard's food policies. Two other department officials have resigned recently. In each case they criticized the Secretary's food production and distribution methods.

They are Donald Montgomery, consumers' counsel for the department, and Herbert W. Parisius, director of the department's food production administration.

Both Mr. Parisius and Mr. Jackson have been staunch supporters of FSA and have urged its expansion to bring more low-income farms into the food-for-freedom program.

The latest upheaval added evidence, according to some observers, that Mr. Wickard had virtually abandoned support of FSA and would leave its fate up to Congress.

Mr. Jackson recently was criticized on the floor of the House by Chairman Dies of the Committee on Un-American Activities.

Before taking the $5,600-a-year assistantship more than a year ago, Mr. Jackson served as a Washington representative of the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union.

Archie Bell, Drama Critic And Author, Dies at 65

CLEVELAND, Jan. 28.—The theater, radio and the newspaper profession mourned today the death of Archie Bell, 65, author, world traveler, former drama critic and friend of the stage's great.

Stricken 10 years ago with a heart ailment, Mr. Bell died Tuesday at his home here.

Once called the dean of drama critics of the Middle West, he became drama and music editor of the old Cleveland World in 1900. Ten years later he took a similar position with the Cleveland Plain Dealer and then became press agent for Actress Olga Nethersole.

In 1914 he returned to newspaper work as drama editor of the Cleveland News.

He numbered among his intimate friends such celebrities as Mme. Schumann-Heink, Rosa Ponselle, Cornelia Otis Skinner, Sir Henry Irving, Sara Bernhard, Sir Hubert Tree, Enrico Caruso, Richard Mansfield, Lily Langtry, Minnie Maddern Pake and Julia Marlowe. Many of them visited him when in Cleveland.

Funeral services will be tomorrow.

OWI Rebukes Jeffers For Calling Military Expeditors 'Loafers'

Rubber Chief Says Statement Was Reply To Direct Question

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, reported yesterday what he had sent a letter to Rubber Director William M. Jeffers mildly rebuking him for his recent charges that Army and Navy expeditors in war plants were "loafers" and were impeding production.

Mr. Davis said he called Mr. Jeffers' attention to President Roosevelt's letter of August 20 instructing all agency heads to clear all public statements with OWI before delivering them.

Mr. Jeffers declared later that there was nothing in the Davis letter to which he could take exception. He pointed out again, however, that he had not made a speech in voicing the charges before the Council of State Government's in Baltimore Monday, but merely answered a question addressed to him in a forum session.

Questioned about the Jeffers charges at a press conference yesterday, Mr. Davis said: "We have had that problem before with other gentlemen. We have been able eventually to persuade them that such statements are not in the public interest."

Associates of Mr. Jeffers said he had voiced "the utmost respect for Mr. Davis' views" while feeling, nevertheless, that the OWI chief had "made a mistake."

"But it is now 14 months since Pearl Harbor and one year since the synthetic rubber plant appropriations were made," Mr. Jeffers was quoted by a spokesman.

"In all those months not a single pound of synthetic rubber had been made by those plants," he continued. "I know the capacity of business in this country if it can once get rolling, and my only concern is to help get it rolling."

To accomplish this aim, Mr. Jeffers was quoted, "I will speak my mind."

Alex Taylor Dies at 80; Famed Race Horse Trainer

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Alex Taylor, 80-year-old trainer of race horses, died today at his Chertsey, Surrey, home.

Known as the "Wizard of Mansion," Mr. Taylor trained three Derby, eight Oaks, five St. Leger, four 2,000 Guineas and five Ascot Gold Cup winners. He took complete control of the Manton Stables in 1902. When he retired in 1927 he had trained over 900 winners, which earned $3,200,000.

Resentment Threatens Civil Service Gains, Ramspeck Warns

Asks Businessmen to Aid Committee's Probe in Radio Forum Talk

Public resentment will sweep aside the civil service gains of recent years unless there is improvement in Government personnel practices, Representative Ramspeck, Democrat, of Georgia, chairman of the House Civil Service Committee, said last night in a talk in the National Radio Forum.

The forum, a blue network feature, is arranged by The Star and broadcast locally through WMAL. Mr. Ramspeck spoke in connection with the personnel inquiry soon to be undertaken by his committee, and introduced Dillard B. Lasseter, who will direct the investigation.

The latter, in turn, sketched his views of the prospective task and of the accomplishments to be sought.

At the outset of his speech Mr. Ramspeck pointed to the growth of the Federal establishment, which now numbers approximately 3,000,000 persons, with a payroll of $6,000,000,000, and emphasized that this demonstrates the need for the inquiry to determine if retrenchment is possible.

He urged those who have knowledge of practices that need correcting to bring them to the committee's attention.

"Businessmen and others who have dealt with Government agencies can render a patriotic service by advising the committee of any facts showing inefficiency or overstaffing," he said. "I appeal to all of our citizens to help the committee with any information they may have. The name of persons furnishing information will not be used without their permission."

Normal Procedure Suspended. Referring to conditions surrounding this growth, he continued: "Frankly, I have been disturbed lately by some of the things happening here and elsewhere in reference to the public service. If conditions are not improved, I have fears that the resentment of the people will sweep aside the merit system and the improvements we have made in the Government regarding personnel policies."

Explaining that normal civil service procedure has been suspended in recent months to speed recruiting, Mr. Ramspeck said that few examinations have been held, applicants for administrative and executive positions have been named by the Civil Service Commission solely on education and experience.

"Appointments have been made for the duration of the war and the appointees will not attain civil service status," he continued. "The commission does endeavor to have the best qualified applicant selected and has rejected many applicants, but the departments and agencies, during the period of rapid expansion incident to the war, have had wide latitude in making selections."

Cites Misuses. "The departments and agencies have also been permitted to make grade promotions without the approval of the Civil Service Commission."

"This new procedure was adopted to speed the employment of persons needed in the war effort. I am afraid that many cases exist where advantage has been taken of this new procedure by officials. It has made easier the employment of relatives, friends, former business associates and chums of college days—even though those appointed were often not the best qualified persons obtainable. Many competent men and women, seeking an opportunity to serve their Government in its hour of emergency, have sought positions in vain—while they have seen others, less qualified, get these places at good salaries, because of some connection with an official, not because of ability."

Seek to Boost Quality. "These people, so appointed, in many instances have not had the first essential for public service, which is the ability to get along with the public, nor have they remembered that all Federal employees owe courtesy and consideration to each citizen. There has arisen much resentment in the country over many of the appointments made in the manner I have described. Much of this resentment has been directed at the civil service system—partly, at least, because the changed methods have not been understood."

The object of the investigation, Mr. Ramspeck concluded, will be to improve the quality of public service and "to reduce costs and the number employed."

Mr. Lasseter said one aim of the inquiry would be the elimination of "unnecessary administrative detail." He conceded that this would require care, because Government "necessitates a certain amount of what is commonly known as red tape."

While the inquiry is directed at overstaffing, he said "I think we would not be doing a full job if we did not also investigate understaffing which may exist in certain agencies."

Gas Station Operator Brings Suit to Block OPA Suspension Order

Says Evidence Produced At Hearing Failed to Support Charges

John H. Schwarzmann, operator of a service station at Pennsylvania avenue and Thirteenth street S.E., filed suit in District Court today for a permanent injunction restraining the Office of Price Administration from enforcing a 15-day suspension order against him. The order was effective today.

Arguments on the appeal, originally scheduled for Motions Court today, were postponed by Justice James M. Proctor, pending further consideration of Mr. Schwarzmann's complaint by OPA.

Justice Proctor revealed that an application for a rehearing will be placed before OPA before any District Court action is taken.

Named defendants in the suit, first of its kind in the District, are Prentiss M. Brown, OPA administrator, and Paul M. O'Leary, OPA deputy administrator.

The complaint states that on November 16, 1942, an OPA inspector took inventory of the gasoline on hand in the storage tanks at Mr. Schwarzmann's station and examined the gasoline ration coupons on the premises.

Lack of Proof Charged. In November, the complaint states, Mr. Schwarzmann was notified that he was charged with having violated the provisions of Ration Order No. 5-A of OPA's gasoline rationing regulations on the allegation that he "did unlawfully transfer gasoline with out obtaining gasoline coupons in exchange."

The complaint further states that at a hearing of charges on December 5 the sole evidence presented by the OPA in support of the charge was "to the effect that an OPA investigator found a shortage in Mr. Schwarzmann's gasoline supply," that Mr. Schwarzmann offered seven separate causes for the shortage, and that OPA did not present "one specific instance of transfer of gasoline without receipt of gasoline ration coupons, and that the evidence "in no way" supported the charge placed against Mr. Schwarzmann.

Held Inequitable. Frank E. Scrivener, counsel for Mr. Schwarzmann, argues that compliance with the suspension order would result in irreparable injury, loss and damage to Mr. Schwarzmann's business in that public patronage would be materially affected if not completely destroyed, and Mr. Schwarzmann's "unimpaired reputation in the neighborhood and community" would be destroyed by the stigma attached to the enforcement.

Subpar Farm Families Move to Eastern Shore. By The Associated Press. BALTIMORE, Jan. 28.—Six farm families from sub-par Western Maryland farms are scheduled to move to the Eastern Shore tomorrow, the start of a possible mass movement.

The Federal Government, through the Farm Security Administration, is sponsoring the migration, and Maryland FSA officials said more than 2,800 farmers in Garrett and Frederick Counties already had been asked to volunteer.

John D. Leatherman, State FSA director, said 50 more families were expected to follow those going tomorrow.

Kent and Queen Anne's County farmers, on whose properties the transplanted families will live, will pay $10 toward the cost of moving the people, their household furnishings and personal effects.

All those enlisted, Mr. Leatherman said, had an average gross income of $750 in the 1940 census. The FSA was assisted in the campaign by the office of Fred B. Gambrell, farm placement supervisor for Maryland.

Proposal to Combine District and Nearby Ration Setup Killed

OPA Representatives Admit Strong Opposition Prevents Move

By J. B. ZATMAN. The Office of Price Administration plan to place rationing in nearby Maryland and Virginia under the jurisdiction of the District OPA appeared today to have been abandoned following a meeting yesterday of Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties rationing officials and OPA representatives.

The OPA representatives admitted yesterday that they would have to drop the plan because of the strong opposition against it.

Those attending the conference included Prince Georges County Commissioners William A. Carson and John H. Beall, Leonard H. Burch, chairman of the Prince Georges Ration Board; George Cook, Sherman Hollingsworth and Merle Hardy, members of the Prince Georges Board; and Julius P. Stadler, Montgomery County rationing chairman.

Proposal Called Unfair. Mr. Carson told the OPA officials that the present rationing setup in the nearby counties could carry on the work to the best advantage of the residents and that the OPA proposal would be "unfair" and "entirely unsatisfactory."

In reply to a suggestion that the nearby areas would have a greater opportunity to obtain fuel oil if they were merged with the District, Mr. Carson pointed out that dealers in both Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties get their oil direct from Baltimore.

He also said that District fuel oil firms would not abandon deliveries in the nearby counties "because they have to compete with fuel oil dealers in those areas and they want to keep their customers after the war."

Congressmen Opposed. Senators Tydings and Radcliffe and Representatives Sasser and Beall have objected strongly to any move to transfer rationing procedures in nearby Maryland from the jurisdiction of the State Office of Price Administration in Baltimore.

In addition, members of the Prince Georges Ration Board have threatened to resign if such a change is put into effect.

The Montgomery County commissioners, going on record against the proposed merger, said that it would increase the "bureaucratic or administrative" rating of the District office and thus permit higher salaries and a greater number of appointments.

In a telegram sent recently to Mr. Sasser, Leon Henderson, a former OPA chief, declared that the present setup creates unnecessary duplication and results in a "wasteful expenditure of public funds."

Special Deputies Named

ROCKVILLE, Md., Jan. 28 (Special).—To guard property in Montgomery County during the war, Earl J. Chesley, G. Robert Howes and Raymond S. Vines have been named special deputy sheriffs by Sheriff Robert W. Farmer.

Old Law Requires Name of Agency On Federal Car

Any Government agency which does not have its full name conspicuously painted on the side of its vehicles is violating the law. So states a United States statute passed in 1904, and amended in 1905.

Several Federal regulatory bureaus interested in preventing alleged misuse of Government cars have requested that such markings be made obligatory. The Budget Bureau has ordered all agencies to put United States shield and Federal tags on every vehicle. But there has been difficulty in telling to which agency a car belongs.

The ancient statute provides, in part, as follows: "That no appropriation act for Federal carriages and vehicles be made unless such vehicles used for official purposes 'have conspicuously painted thereon at all times the full name of the executive department or other branch of the public service to which the same belong and in the service of which the same are used.'"

Exemptions are provided in the act for the President and certain other officials in the executive branch.

Victory Book Campaign Opened in County

Prince Georges County opened a Victory book campaign this week to obtain books for servicemen. Carl W. Hintz is chairman of the county committee.

Prince Georges County supplied 6,000 books last year. The campaign should get in touch with Mr. Hintz or a member of the committee.

Committee members are Ralph Simmons, College Park; Francis A. McCann, Laurel; Mrs. Florine C. Steel, Hyattsville; Public Library; Mrs. Reba S. Harris, Greenbelt; Public Library; Mrs. Alfred R. Lee, Beltsville; Miss Ethel W. Reagan, Hyattsville; Frank S. Taylor, Mount Rainier; Mrs. Leo F. Caine, College Park; O. R. Carrington, University of Maryland; and Maude G. Hyle, Upper Marlboro.

salaries and a greater number of appointments.

In a telegram sent recently to Mr. Sasser, Leon Henderson, a former OPA chief, declared that the present setup creates unnecessary duplication and results in a "wasteful expenditure of public funds."

Most of the other passengers recovered from the fumes without assistance, according to Lt. Wallace Jones, an Army officer stationed at Fort Washington, who said he arrived to catch the bus "just as the heads were bobbing."

Lt. Jones said he and another man stretched two Army officers in the snow, wrapping them in coats and loosening their clothing.

Agreement Reported On Export Priorities For Uruguay's Needs

Credits From U. S. Also Seen as Result of Visit by Dr. Guani

By LEON PEARSON. Alberto Guani, Foreign Minister and Vice President-elect of Uruguay, has told the State Department that the power plant in Montevideo is being fueled with corn and sunflower seed, and he would like something better.

He will get something better: 1. Priorities on the export of machinery for the completion of a hydroelectric plant at Uruguay.

2. Credits with which to pay for the machinery.

3. Further credits for other public works projects.

The priorities come first on the list because priorities are more precious than gold.

The Foreign Minister has just completed a five-day stay in the Capital. Uruguay has been a leader in taking measures against the Axis.

In fact, it was Dr. Guani himself, as Uruguayan delegate to the Rio conference a year ago, who introduced the resolution calling for a break of relations with the Axis.

Light and power for the city of Montevideo are provided by an old steam-generating plant equipped with Diesel engines. Yet in the heart of Uruguay stands a half-completed hydroelectric power project which was begun by a German

26,000 Dressmakers Ordered to Return to Jobs in New York

Dubinsky Takes Action After WLB Decision to Assume Jurisdiction

By The Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Approximately 26,000 New York dressmakers were ordered to return to work today by David Dubinsky, president of the AFL International Ladies Garment Workers Union, after a two-day stoppage as a result of a dispute with five employer associations.

Mr. Dubinsky said he ordered the members of the dressmakers union, an ILGWU affiliate, back to their jobs last night after the War Labor Board had informed the union it would take up the dispute if the employees returned.

He pointed out the union was following its previously announced position that the workers would resume their work if the WLB assumed jurisdiction in the case. The stoppage was voluntary and not ordered by the union.

Julius Hochman, manager of the dress joint board of the ILGWU, said yesterday that a 15 per cent wage increase had been pledged to 6,000 members of the union.

"The Secretary of Labor has this day certified to the National War Labor Board the dispute involving the Popular Priced Dress Manufacturers Group, Inc.; United Better Dress Manufacturers Association, Inc.; United Popover Dress Manufacturers Association, Affiliated Dress Manufacturers, Inc., and the National Dress Manufacturers Association, Inc., and members of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union. We are advised that the employees involved in this dispute are engaged in a strike which is seriously interrupting production."

"This strike is continuing in violation of labor's pledge to the President that there shall be no strikes for the duration of the war. Orderly procedures exist for the peaceful settlement of all labor disputes and the War Labor Board will, in accordance with its established policy, consider the controversy on its merits. However, it will not and cannot consider the merits so long as this strike continues. We feel confident that the employees will respond to the request of their Government that full production be resumed immediately."

Arbuckle Key Witness Called to Face Court as Testimony Is Riddled

Prosecutor Introduces Henderson Letters to Refute Story of Meeting

The case of William Withers Arbuckle, 47, former manager of the Senate restaurant, charged with embezzlement, is expected to go to the jury today following scheduled concluding arguments before Justice Bolitha J. Laws in District Court today.

Trial of Arbuckle, expected to resume this morning, was postponed to 1:30 p.m.

The second day's testimony yesterday reached a spectacular conclusion when John L. Laskey, young prosecutor, submitted letters admittedly written by a key defense witness purporting to show that the witness, Robert C. Henderson, testified falsely in direct examination during the afternoon.

Henderson, who had maintained he was present at a meeting between Arbuckle and Edward H. King, Arbuckle's assistant, when certain envelopes of Senate restaurant funds were alleged to have been turned over to King by Arbuckle, was held in $500 bond and ordered by Justice Laws to appear in court tomorrow to show cause why he should not be held in contempt.

Place Witness in Canada.

Mr. Laskey carefully sorted the packet of letters, introducing them one by one in a dramatic session of a trial now extending into its third day.

The letters, which Henderson admitted writing, purported to show that the witness was in Canada between September 2 of 1938 and January of 1939.

Both Henderson and Arbuckle under examination and cross-examination said that they were present at a meeting to which Mr. King was a third party and during which Arbuckle turned over several envelopes of restaurant funds. The defense had contended that the money was handed over to Mr. King on his return from a month-long vacation. Arbuckle was indicted for embezzling $1,080. Mr. Laskey introduced evidence purporting to show Arbuckle failed to account for $1,925 in restaurant funds.

Under Mr. Laskey's cross-examination, Henderson, who had taught in a school operated by Arbuckle, admitted he had not been present at the alleged September or October, 1938, meeting between Mr. King and Arbuckle.

Court Calls for Explanation.

At the conclusion of testimony, Justice Laws dismissed the jurors, ordering them to return to court at 10 a.m. today, then addressed Henderson in the following words:

"I feel you have imposed upon this court. Unless you can offer a satisfactory explanation I'll have to punish you."

Introduction of the letters, written from Walkerton, Ontario, Canada, and dated from September 2 through December of 1938, confounded the witness, who squirmed under Mr. Laskey's examination and testified with nervous gestures.

After admitting he had testified falsely as to his whereabouts in September, Henderson then repeated his second testimony and under direct questioning from defense counsel, said he returned to Washington around the middle of September for a short period. He told the jury that the refreshing of his memory led him to recall that he had been in the District in "late September and early October."

Introduces Letters.

Mr. Laskey then set out to tear apart this testimony, introducing a letter Henderson wrote to Arbuckle in September and letters written in October and November.

Finally, the prosecutor alleged again that during the period from September to January, 1939, Henderson did not return to Washington. Henderson's answer was: "Apparently."

Henderson added that from the letters Mr. Laskey offered in evidence, it appeared he, Henderson, did not return to Washington until January. Mr. Laskey asked: "Is that your recollection of it?" Henderson answered that that had not been his recollection until Mr. Laskey produced the letters.

Radio Engineers Install Dr. Wheeler Tonight

Dr. L. P. Wheeler, chief of the Technical Information Division of Federal Communications Commission, will be installed as president of the Institute of Radio Engineers tonight at 10:30 o'clock in a national broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The Washington section of the institute will hold its annual banquet at the Willard Hotel at 8 o'clock tonight, with Dr. Wheeler as one of the guests.

Army and Navy communications officers will speak at a technical session preceding the dinner.

Pacific Naval Heroes Gouged By Landlords at Home Base

Both Sailors and Officers Are Charged High Illegal Rates for Cheapest of Rooms

By MILTON SILVERMAN.

VALLEJO, Calif., Jan. 28.—America's naval heroes, veterans of the battles of the Pacific, are returning with their ships to this war-jammed city, home of the Mare Island Navy Yard.

They want a decent, clean place to live here with their families, and at a price they can afford.

But they find that neither $60-a-month sailors nor $300-a-month commanders can compete with $12-a-day shipyard workers.

So these men come back from the sea—men like Comdr. W. G. "Moon" Chapple and his submarine gang, Chaplain and the South Pacific, Capt. Albert France and Comdr. Bruce McCandless and their crew of the hero ship San Francisco and Comdr. Charles Wilkins and Comdr. Frank Latta and their men, the first to shell Japanese cities.

$150 a Month for Room.

One of them was charged the illegal rate of $150 a month for a second-class hotel room.

Another had to pay $420 a month for meals and one room for himself, his wife and one child.

Another paid $75 a month for a poorly furnished four-room house whose kitchen and bathroom had to be shared with other tenants.

In one auto court a young sailor and his wife were paying $65 for two dilapidated rooms—a bedroom and a living room each 9 feet square. There was a gas heater—but no vent to carry off the fumes.

Officials estimated the landlord of the court was collecting $7,800 a year in rents from what was perhaps a $12,000 investment.

In a York street section known as "Tobacco" a submarine ensign under direction of his wife, paid $52 a month for a makeshift one-room shack with cheap, worn-out furniture, no heat and no toilet facilities.

One Room for Hero's Family.

Look what happened to the Chapples—Comdr. "Moon" Chapple, his wife and their 7-year-old son. Remember "Moon" Chapple? The Japs do.

He was skipper of a little American submarine patrolling the waters near the Philippines when war broke out. He got one Jap transport five days later and then proceeded on one of the most amazing exploits in American naval history.

He took his ship through a jagged reef-guarded opening in a Philippine bay, knocked off a huge Jap transport and then went through four hellish days and nights while Jap planes and destroyers unloaded one depth charge after another on him.

He and his men came out as one of the most heroic submarine crews in the Navy.

They could get one room—for $6 a day—and only one room.

"Maybe you don't know what that means," Mrs. Chapple said. "But Moon and I hadn't seen each other for two years and four months. And we're still pretty fond of each other. So we got one room. And day and night we had our boy as a chaperon."

$13 Day Food Bill.

Their food bills ran from $13 to $15 a day.

But why stay in Vallejo? "Look," said Mrs. Chapple, "it takes two and a half hours to commute to San Francisco. And when you haven't seen your man for more than two years—when you know he's leaving again, and it may be two more years—or it may be forever. Well, you won't give up two and a half hours a day for anything. Most of the families we know are going through the same thing. We were all—well, you know, sort of sour."

Sour? Bitter. These were America's heroes—a whole submarine full of them. They were promised America would never forget them.

Listen to Comdr. McCandless and his wife.

Remember Comdr. McCandless? The Japs will never forget him, either, and the rest of the men on the cruiser San Francisco—the bunch of fighting mad kids who took their battered ship through the amazing battle of the Solomons.

They couldn't find a place in Vallejo, and they had to come to San Francisco.

"Sure, I'm commuting every day," he said. "Like I? I hate it. But it's the best we can do—and maybe there will be another time for us, and maybe it will be better."

"There's the one thing that bothers the men," he said. "It's not the fighting, or getting hit. They don't spend much time worrying about that. But they do worry about their families back home."

"Those who saw what happened in Vallejo these last few weeks are going to worry plenty about their families."

plan, each of these projects represents a step in the great work of developing the Washington of the future.
Strategic Balance
The most difficult problem of American grand strategy is the proper apportionment of our striking power between the two ends of the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo Axis. It is essentially an American rather than a United Nations problem, because we are both the arsenal and the manpower reservoir of the Allied cause. Furthermore, we are at war with the entire Axis, whereas two of our main partners and some of the junior members of the United Nations are not. Russia is neutral toward Japan, while China is not warring against Germany and Italy.

and to feel that it would have been better for the country if the inquiry had not been ordered. Yet it must be recognized that the board is doing only what it is bound to do under the terms of the act.
Heretofore, when the board has proceeded against some employer on behalf of the AFL, the union has demanded that the law be fully enforced, regardless of how the employer might feel about the matter. And the law has been enforced in that spirit. Hence, as a matter of simple justice, one might expect the AFL to accept a decision by the board rendered under the terms of the act, even though it happened to cut in its direction. But spokesmen for the union have made it clear that they are in no such frame of mind. On the contrary, they are demanding that the board drop its lawful proceeding and are threatening to withdraw from labor's no-strike pledge if the board persists in pushing the case.

A Good Committee
The District is fortunate in retaining Representative Mahon of Texas and Representative Stefan of Nebraska as the chairman and ranking minority member, respectively, of the Subcommittee on District Appropriations.

Despite the fact that Japan struck the first blow against us at Pearl Harbor, our Government has consistently concentrated its main efforts against the European end of the Axis. And the Anglo-American conference just concluded at Casablanca makes it abundantly clear that this policy will be continued. Indeed, the trend of events makes this virtually inevitable. Our growing commitment in North Africa, the victorious Russian offensive, and the increasing menace of the U-boat all combine to make "Hitler First" the enduring slogan.

New Banking Role
In undertaking to set up a ration coupon banking service for dealers—not consumers—the commercial banks of the country are making another important contribution to the war program.

For the time being coupon banking will be limited to coffee, sugar and gasoline, but when the point system of rationing for processed fruits and vegetables goes into effect it will be broadened to cover those commodities. The system will work largely as any other banking arrangement. A dealer (the program is compulsory as to some, voluntary as to others) will open an account by depositing coupons received from his retail customers. Then, for example, if he wants to buy more sugar from a wholesaler he will simply send in his coupon, accompanied by a check on his coupon rationing account.

Letters to the Editor
Says Occupation Army Should Have Education Program.
When hostilities cease, it is probable that we shall need to maintain a large military force in Germany for many years. The German people are going to require close watching for at least a generation and unless we are blind to the significance of events since 1919 we dare not do otherwise.

Q. Who discovered vaccination?—N. C. B.
A. Vaccination, the protective inoculation against smallpox, was discovered by Sir Edward Jenner in 1798.
Q. How old is the sport of wrestling?—T. S.
A. Wrestling is one of the oldest sports. Bouts were depicted on Egyptian tombs showing that the sport was known in 3000 B.C.

New Bridge Approaches
The Fourteenth street and Maine avenue grade separation and the widening of Twenty-third street, with the overpass at Virginia avenue, are two of four major highway projects designed to improve the Washington approaches to Potomac River highway bridges. Both have been finished long ahead of original programming because the Pentagon Building construction made such facilities immediately necessary. This fact also made funds accessible from Federal appropriations, with a lessened financial burden on local taxpayers. Both jobs represent a vast improvement, from which the Capital and Virginia residents will continue to derive benefit for many years to come.

Case for Amendment
When the National Labor Relations Act was submitted to Congress its sponsors frankly conceded that it was "weighted" on the side of labor and argued that this was necessary to give labor an equality of bargaining power with industry. Lacking a privileged position before the law, these sponsors said, the working people could not hope to organize and bargain collectively with their economically more powerful employers.

The March Payment
There are mounting indications that Congress will put the Federal income tax on some sort of pay-as-you-go basis, whether it be through adoption of the Ruml plan or some similar proposal. This will be brought about, if for no other reason, through the pressure of public opinion—a force that will become almost irresistible when the people feel the full impact of this year's war tax bill.

Discusses Importance Of Food Problem.
Herbert Hoover says that it is the job of American and Canadian farmers to furnish food to the United Nations now and that it will be to a starving world when the war is over. This internationalist economist and humanitarian has some suggestions as to how this job may be done.

There are two interesting features in connection with the Maine avenue and Fourteenth street grade separation. One is that the detour, constructed around the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to divert about 65 per cent of highway bridge traffic during construction work, remains a permanent part of the highway system. Another is that the grade separation makes more accessible a new, projected route from Northwest Washington to Anacostia; a route that eventually will follow Maine avenue S.W. to a widened and extended P street, which will become a main approach to the South Capitol street bridge across the Eastern Branch.

But the AFL unions, although they have derived great benefits in the past from strict enforcement of the law, are objecting strenuously to any enforcement in this instance which might prejudice their position in the Kaiser yards. It is quite possible to sympathize with the AFL viewpoint

When it is considered that some 2,000-000 agricultural workers have been drawn away from the farms—half into munition plants and half into the armed forces—the foregoing suggestions do not seem too inappropriate.

It might be mentioned in connection with the suggestion of Mr. Hoover, that according to report, Germany utilized to the fullest extent last season all available labor of the conquered nations, as well as her own reserves, in getting in the crops.

Africa Flight Symbolizes New Era

Airplane to Achieve Greatest Victory With Peace

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Entirely apart from the military significance of the President's trip to North Africa, the trans-Atlantic journey is symbolic of the ending of one era and the beginning of another. It has implications for the future of democratic government and for the establishment of machinery whereby peace can be preserved.

For the airplane, which has made many thousands of safe trips back and forth across the ocean, now carries a President of the United States to confer in person with the head of another government. The incident means that the world is relatively small, that distances no longer furnish an insurmountable barrier for personal communication and that the day of second-hand and indirect diplomacy has been superseded by a day of direct contact.

One who doubts now that Mr. Roosevelt will feel free to fly to the next peace conference and then back to America quickly to explain what has happened? Who can doubt that in the future when a crisis in world peace occurs an American President will fly abroad to Geneva or The Hague to confer with the parties at interest, offering a practical means of mediation?

The failures of written diplomacy with its formal language and super-condensed code messages is well known. The opportunity for personal persuasiveness and the give-and-take of personal discussion whereby passions may be cooled and misunderstandings removed is at hand.

The airplane has proved its worth in combat. But its greatest chance to help make peace and keep it ahead. As long as there are airplanes to carry important messages back and forth, men of first-rate ability in the business and governmental world can travel any distance quickly to help adjust the tangled economic questions that so often are the root of friction leading to war.

Just as the Atlantic is now being spanned a dozen times a day by relays of planes carrying cargo or passengers or warriors, so the Pacific is being spanned also. In four days American representatives of the armed forces fly back from Australia or to New Zealand or to other combat areas. In about six days or less an envoy can get from Chungking or India to America.

What is not generally realized is that the reliable airplane motors of today are doing jobs which never before have been tried, and the amount of engine failure is negligible, just as the amount of poor navigation is reduced to the minimum.

Little has been revealed about the wonderful achievements of the air transport service, which comprises all the private air lines. Little is known of the way the famous Pan-American Clipper planes are carrying important passengers back and forth across the oceans. Military necessity still keeps the details secret, but the public can well infer that a President of the United States did not hesitate to use the plane to cross the Atlantic.

War Seen Streamlined. The airplane has come into its own in this war, not only as means of combat, but as a vehicle of quick communication and transportation.

When the President of the United States decides to use personal and direct conference instead of written messages through couriers or radio to get together with the military and civilian chiefs of our major ally in this war, it means that the airplane has gotten final recognition despite the accidents and failures and the hazards of weather. For on the law of chance, the airplane has fared very well with the risks of weather and man-made errors.

Plainly the President must have had the best pilots, excellent escort both above the sea and on the surface, and, since the secret of his proposed journey, though not known in detail, was well kept by the press, the American people will have cause for congratulation that the war is being streamlined to bomber speed—at least on the military side.

The airplane is an American invention. It was designed not for war, but for peace, and in peacetime it will realize its greatest victories.

The Political Mill

Administration to Face Its Hottest Debate As Flynn Nomination Reaches Senate Floor

By GOULD LINCOLN.

The stage has been set in the Senate for one of the hottest political debates of the Roosevelt administration—over the nomination of Edward J. Flynn of New York, former Democratic national chairman, to be United States Minister to Australia. The nomination will be called up in session next Monday.

The fact that three Democratic members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted against the Flynn nomination, when a favorable report was ordered by the narrow margin of 13 to 10, is indicative of the closeness of the vote when it comes in the Senate itself.

Mr. Flynn's nomination is a personal one to President Roosevelt. His critics have charged he is paying off a political debt to a politician who has served him well in the past but who in recent months has been discredited. Supporters of Mr. Flynn and the President reply that the attack is an effort on the part of enemies to discredit Mr. Roosevelt.

One thing seems clear. President Roosevelt's antagonism toward a very material group of Democratic Senators, which went so far in a number of cases as an effort to "purge" them from the Senate—is coming home to roost. The President sought to defeat for renomination all three Democrats who voted against Mr. Flynn in the committee, either by his personal efforts or through some of his friends. There are other Democratic Senators who have weathered the Roosevelt storm against them, too, and who appear ready to vote "no" on the Flynn nomination. Added to them are Democratic Senators who are violently opposed to the New Deal administration for other reasons.

Fight on Other Grounds. None of the Democrats whom the President sought to "purge" admit that their attitude today grows out of the purge campaign. They will go to the bat against Mr. Flynn on other grounds entirely—and certainly can find enough other grounds.

The charge will be made that Mr. Flynn is not qualified for a diplomatic post, that he has not had training along those lines, and that to send him to Australia, an important war area, makes it all the worse. However, political debts, including large donations to campaign funds, have been paid heretofore by many administrations with appointments to important diplomatic posts.

It is an open secret that the Flynn appointment has been a source of grief to many of the Democrats in the Senate who will finally vote for him. They have been importuned by many persons in their States to vote against confirmation. Newspapers have attacked the appointment widely. Some of these Senators say they intend, during the course of the debate, to lay the responsibility for the Flynn appointment right in the lap of President Roosevelt. If people feel outraged because of the appointment, then they should realize, these Senators insist, just who is responsible for making the appointment and place the blame there.

Republicans, feeling the public sentiment back of them, are going to town in their opposition to the nomination. With one possible exception, it is expected that the 38 Republican Senators will either cast their votes or be "paired" against Mr. Flynn. It has been rumored that Senator Langer of North Dakota, Republican, may support the nomination, although he has said only that he has not made up his mind.

Holds no Office Now. Mr. Flynn, long an important figure in New Deal democratic politics, has denuded himself entirely of political offices. He has quit the national chairmanship of the party. He has resigned as New York's state member of the national committee. And he has retired from the democratic leadership in his home bailiwick, the Bronx, where he first became politically prominent. Should the Senate finally reject his nomination, he will for the time being be well out of the political picture.

President Roosevelt during his 10 years and more in the White House, has been very successful in having his major appointments confirmed by the Senate. The principal defeat he has had in this field was when Senator Carter Glass of Virginia led a fight against Floyd H. Roberts, who had been appointed United States district judge for the Western district of Virginia. Mr. Roberts was "personally obnoxious" to Senator Glass, and the Senate turned the nomination down by a vote of 72 to 9 in February, 1939.

None of Mr. Roosevelt's diplomatic appointees have been rejected in the past by the Senate, although many of them had no more diplomatic experience than Mr. Flynn—for example former Gov. George Earle of Pennsylvania.

Envoy Rejections Rare. It has been rare in the last half century to find the Senate rejecting any diplomatic appointment, whoever the President who sent in the nomination. It has been considered a prerogative of a President to pick his own representatives in foreign countries, since he is charged, as Chief Executive, with handling all negotiations with foreign countries.

Back in the days of Andrew Jackson, however, there was a bitter political feud between factions in the Senate and President Jackson. The Senate, in 1831, rejected the nomination of Martin Van Buren to be Minister to England. Mr. Van Buren, who later was to be Vice President and President, had been Secretary of State in the Jackson cabinet before he was appointed Minister to England. He had gone to England on an interim appointment when the Senate rejected his nomination with a vote of 23 to 23. John C. Calhoun was vice president at the time, and ready to cast his vote against the nomination, although a tie vote defeated Van Buren. Another appointee of President Jackson, made a few years later to the London post, also was rejected—that of Andrew Stevenson of Virginia, speaker of the House.

An antagonistic Senate rejected six nominations made by Andrew Johnson to the post of Minister to Austria in 1867; and Murat Halstead, an editor from the Ohio Valley, nominated by President Harrison in 1889 to be Minister to Germany, was rejected by the Senate of those days. Mr. Halstead had acquired the dislike of the Senate by writing articles charging the purchase of certain Senate seats.

Mississippi Travelers Map Share-Ride Program

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 28.—As a first move in a planned State-wide "share-the-ride" program, the Mississippi Travelers Association today announced the establishment here of one of 25 "self-dispatching" centers at which car drivers and persons who need transportation can get together.

A large board is to be mounted in the lobby of a downtown hotel in each of the 25 cities. On the board is a map of the State, with the cities numbered, and on each side of the board are hooks with the same numbers.

On blue cards, drivers list the cities they plan to visit and when, the number of passengers they can carry and their phone numbers. On white cards, would-be passengers write where they want to go and when, and likewise list their numbers.

The cards are hung on the numbered hooks for quick reference, and the only attention the board needs is an occasional check to remove outdated cards.

Nazi Public Denied Taxis Save With Police O. K.

The German public must have police permission to use taxicabs after February 1, in order to save them for crippled persons, war wounded, doctors, expectant mothers and others, the German radio has reported in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press.

Travelers with very heavy luggage may be granted use of taxis in "exceptional cases," it added.

'I'd Rather Be Right'

Hitler Seen Invoking His Favorite Ghost To Make German People His Last Victims

By SAMUEL GRAFTON.

Notes for a speech to the Germans, Germans! For the first time, your "commentators" and "newspapers" are beginning to tell you the truth about your reverses in Russia. They are overdoing it, with a purpose. Military news on your radio is now preceded by funeral hymns. When a Goebbels sheds tears he must shed the biggest tears on earth.

Germans! Your correspondents at the front apparently have been given the word to go it big in describing the horrors of the Russian winter offensive. They beat their breasts, they tell you that the Germans trapped near Stalingrad have been reduced to less than human beings. Each of your writers now tries to outdo the others in telling the terrible story of the Russian war.

This is the strangest Nazi ceremony that has yet been offered to you, Germans; a new routine of compulsory weeping in strict formation.

Germans! The writer of these lines has no great fondness for you. He does not wish you well. But he asks you to ask yourselves why the Nazi propaganda has embarked on a campaign to frighten you, as it once tried to frighten us.

Fuehrer's Easy Tears. Whenever your Fuehrer has been in a particularly difficult position, he has always threatened to die, and let the Russian hordes sweep into the west, over his body. When, in 1933, there seemed a chance that a decent world might stop him, he talked incessantly of Russia, day and night of Russia. When, in 1941, American aid to England became impressive, he even sent Rudolph Hess to England to talk again of Russia, to frighten the west again.

Always the same picture, Germans, always your Fuehrer, shedding his easy tears, giving the world the same choice between accepting him, or a triumphant Russia. He frightened many in the west with that choice. He frightened France to death. And he frightened many individual Englishmen, and individual Americans.

So, Germans, we in the West are used to your Fuehrer's famous alternatives, either Caesar or Communism. We in the West have learned, slowly, painfully, at great cost in blood and treasure, that there is a third choice, that we can become strong enough to fight your Fuehrer, strong enough to help Russia, and strong enough to live our lives, regardless, in our own way.

Germans! Do you see what is happening? The only people left in the world whom Hitler can frighten with his famous alternatives is the German people. He is talking to you as once he talked to England, to France, your Voelkischer Beobachter now prints the big headline, for Germans to read: "Victory of Bolshevism!"

And all of your correspondents outdo each other, now, in telling of the terrible might of the Russians. And now there are, suddenly, funeral hymns on your radio. Your Fuehrer is burning the Reichstag, again, to frighten you into accepting him, again. The Nazi propaganda organ now plays for you the tune it once played for us, Germans! The man who once conquered France by this means has now turned it cynically upon you, his own people.

Favorite Ghost. Germans! The writer of these lines has not, as he says, much love for you. He does not wish you well. But he asks you to ask yourselves whether your Fuehrer is not trying to make you forget that there is a third way, a way of building your own lives so that you can live without either Caesar, or Caesar's favorite ghost.

Germans! Listen to the dreadful noises on your radio! Ay! Ay! Ay! Ayeeeeee! Every noise uttered in your total state has a purpose, Germans. These noises say that your Fuehrer is conducting a campaign against you, as against so many Czechs, so many Frenchmen.

The Fuehrer's propaganda, once turned outward against the world, is now turned inward upon you. You, his first victims, are now becoming his last victims. The circle is closing, Germans! The writer of these lines disdains to plead with you. He says to you merely that if you do not break the circle now, it will go hard with you. He says to you, without sentiment, that we have alternatives to offer, also, and perhaps harsher ones than any left at your Fuehrer's command.

Drive Against Short-Measure Firewood Sales Opens Here

Householders Urged to File Complaints By New Head of Weights Department

A drive against farmers or wood merchants selling short-measure firewood was announced today by J. Thomas Kennedy, the District's recently appointed superintendent of the Department of Weights, Measures and Markets. He urged householders to file complaints if they find they are being swindled.

Answering complaints already received, he and his staff have taken a number of cases to Police Court for prosecution. Three operators this week received fines of $5 or $15, he said.

Mr. Kennedy said that complaints became more numerous in recent weeks, with development of the coal and fuel oil shortages. "Many householders," he said, "have been depending on firewood for heat or supplemental heat."

Urging householders to co-operate, Mr. Kennedy explained it is difficult to get evidence unless necessary data is collected exactly and properly. He said cord wood, as distinguished from kindling, less than 8 inches in length) must be sold by the cord or by a fraction of a cord.

He asked that persons believing they had been given short measure to call the department. However, the wood must be stacked and measured before a case can be made at court. A cord is 8 by 4 by 4 feet, or 128 cubic feet.

Mr. Kennedy said his department had found wood merchants or farmers selling firewood as much short of a cord as 50 per cent. He cited one case where only 27 per cent of a cord had been delivered to a buyer who had paid for a "full cord."

Sharp Price Increase. In addition to the question of measure, Mr. Kennedy reported there had been a sharp increase in prices. Cord wood now is selling, he said, at $17 to $25 a cord. "We could help the OPA if it fixed a ceiling price," he said.

Mr. Kennedy said he found that most of the complaints as to short measure were against farmers or wood merchants from out of the District. He said one operator,

Axis Expected to Use Conference 'Oversight' In Attempt to Split Chiang and Followers

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.

A certain amount of curiosity has been aroused in Washington diplomatic quarters over the fact that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was not invited to attend the historic meeting at Casablanca.

It is true that the Chinese leader, whose role in the war against the Axis cannot be minimized, is busy in his own country keeping his armies and particularly his generals in order. The official communique issued Tuesday night also made it clear that he had been informed of all the momentous decisions taken at the meeting between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

But while the communique said the two leaders had invited Russia's Premier and Commander-in-Chief Joseph Stalin, there was no indication that a similar invitation had been sent to the Chinese supreme commander at Chungking.

In some diplomatic quarters it is feared that this apparent oversight may be taken advantage of by the Axis to push its propaganda to detach, if not Chiang himself, at least some of his followers from the Allies.

Chinese Dissatisfied. It is common knowledge in Washington that the Chinese are not satisfied with what is being done for them. The fact that they have been assured a place in the Allied supreme military council is of minor importance. They have been pressing London and Washington for an offensive to open up at least the northern part of Burma road so they can obtain the necessary weapons to fight the Japanese.

Unless communications between China and her Allies are made more satisfactory, it will be difficult for the Chinese to fight more than a guerrilla war.

The Nazis are most anxious to bring about some sort of an understanding between the Chinese and the Japanese to free at least 500,000 Japanese troops for action somewhere else, either in India or Siberia.

As the military and political situation deteriorates for Hitler the Nazi pressure on Tokio is increasing. If only half the rumors being circulated about the Nazis' efforts to effect a reconciliation between the Japanese and the Chungking government were true, the situation would cause considerable concern to the Allies.

Chiang Loyal to Allies. Chiang unquestionably is loyal to the Allied cause. Most of his associates are equally loyal, but the Chinese have been fighting for almost six years and unless they see some real assistance in the near future, elements may be found in Chungking which favor an understanding with Japan if the Japanese can offer face-saving peace terms.

The Chinese are hungry for lease-lend materials and they know they cannot get them unless the Japanese are at last kicked out of Upper Burma.

They talked plainly about the matter at the meeting at Mont Tremblant in Canada a few weeks ago and they told us in equally plain language in Washington that an offensive in that area was essential.

Gen. Archibald Wavell, who commands Allied forces in the Indian Ocean, has at his disposal a large force with which to start operations against the Japs. Unfortunately there are military and political reasons why the British commander in chief hesitates to embark on a large offensive move.

Big Naval Force Needed. While he has sufficient troops at his disposal, the communications between India and Burma are so difficult that an operation might not be successful unless it were supported by a large naval force attacking the Japanese in the Gulf of Bengal. For the time being it appears that the British cannot afford to dispatch such a force which must comprise battleships, cruisers, carriers and other auxiliaries. The British fleet has a big job to perform in the Mediterranean and the Atlantic and there are not sufficient ships to spare for the Indian Ocean.

On the other hand, a large proportion of Gen. Wavell's army is composed of Indians. The Indian people feel that Burma is an independent country and that the British never had any right to interfere with her independence. Hence there is a strong feeling not to support any action of Gen. Wavell's if it is directed against Burma.

The fact that it would be aimed at the Japanese and as an aid to the Chinese does not seem to be taken into consideration by the leaders of the All-India Congress, who insist that before any operations are undertaken the British government must make a statement regarding the future independence of Burma.

These considerations are regarded in some quarters to be the principal reason why Chiang Kai-shek was not invited to attend the Casablanca conference. It is likely that the hard-pressed Chinese commander may have brought in a note of doubt in the conversations which deal with the military point of view, principally the Allied efforts in Europe in 1943, while the Pacific and Indian Ocean areas will have to be taken care of at a later date—after Hitler and Mussolini have been defeated.

McLemore—

Waves His Wand At Admiral Tunney

By HENRY McLEMORE.

One of my many New Year's resolutions was to never again write another word about Admiral Gene Tunney.

You know who the admiral is. Of course. Strictly a career man. After years of experience on the storm-tossed waters of the prize ring, he has reached a point where he is in charge of the Atlantic, Pacific and Central Park Lake land-based fleets. I gave him up on New Year Day along with fletching my own food, bobbing for apples on Haloween, opium and serving as a lookout for moshers in Grand Central Station.

But I find it impossible to stick to my pledge. It is impossible to ignore Admiral Tunney. He won't let you.

The admiral now is speaking, writing and gesticulating against competitive sports for men in the armed forces. He feels that such things as boxing, wrestling, football, baseball, basket ball and, as far as I know, handball, croquet, roque, curling, fencing, rope climbing, archery and tennis, are silly. It is his contention that mass exercise is much better and that the physical would have a lot to offer the Army if something on the order of a wand drill were adopted for the hardening of the troops.

Sides Lined Up. Lined up with Admiral Tunney, and applauding his every move, are the physical culture instructors of the country. Lined up against him, and hooting his every effort to have competitive sports removed from the soldiers' calendar, are the coaches of the country. On one side are men (the coaches) who feel that sports where rough, hard body contact is involved, offer the best training for fighting men, and on the other side are men (the physical culturists, or "muscle jerks" as Dr. Mal Stevens chose to term them) who feel that a sort of mass squat tag is the ideal training for combat against the enemy.

Speaking for myself, I am against the admiral (you could, I have possibly guessed that by now, could you?) and the physical culturists. I am against them because I know of atrocious torture did to me. I was a wand-driller in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades in grammar school.

Wand drilling was part of the curriculum in the grammar schools of Georgia at the time, and the daily routine with the silvers of wood left us so worn out and bored and generally disgusted that many of us could not eat our peanut butter sandwiches, which our mothers had carefully packed for us, when recess time came around.

"One-two-three-four." I can hear Miss Wheeler calling the numbers now, and feel the dust of the schoolyard, as scores of us swung the confounded wands about in an effort to develop muscles and grace.

How About Bean Bag? If Admiral Tunney succeeds in having the tough, competitive sports eliminated from the Army and Navy sports program, and is casting about for a quiet, gentle sport to replace football and boxing and the like, I suggest bean bag.

We used to play this when rain prevented us from frolicking outdoors during recess. It isn't a rough sport, yet it develops cunning, coordination, and a certain amount of meanness. It used to delight the boys in the fifth grade to throw the bean bag at the girls, throw it hard. The girls couldn't catch very well, and it was more fun to see them have to duck under a desk to prevent getting hit with the little canvas bags filled with hard beans.

Squat-tag is good—especially for wearing out the knees of the trousers—and so is drop-the-handkerchief. But for all-around fun and exercise I suggest to Admiral Tunney that we have our soldiers take up a game which we called "go in and out the window." It was more fun.

You know, I'll bet that to spite me for writing this column, Admiral Tunney will never let me stand beside him on the bridge of his flagship as he directs a task force in operation against the enemy.

Avila Comacho Cites Unity Between Americas

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 28.—President Manuel Avila Comacho of Mexico declares the participation of American nations in the war is evidence of their unity and "will for progressive and equitable collaboration."

"Nothing separates us at present and nothing will in the future," President Comacho emphasized in a message read last night by Dr. Francisco Castillo Najera, Mexican Ambassador to the United States, at the University of Rochester conference on Latin America.

"We are young nations," the President wrote, "inspired by a genuine ideal and desirous of developing, within a reign of peace, a situation of living together in which all communities will be governed by a reciprocal respect for sovereignty and the will for progressive and equitable collaboration."

"Our participation in the present conflict is, above all, a tribute to that profound purpose of dignity and independence."

ADVANTAGES OF WHOLE GRAIN OATMEAL FOR AMERICA'S CHILDREN and WORKERS

Again Proved By New Discoveries!

Leads All Whole-Grain Cereals in 2 Growth Elements

Protein, meat's main food element, is a requirement for normal growth in children. So is Vitamin B₁. Big bowls of Quaker Oats, served to children each morning, help make up for smaller amounts of meat.

For whole-grain oatmeal is now known to lead all natural cereals in both of these growth elements.

Rich in These Stamina and Energy Factors for Adults

Lack of Proteins means less stamina for adults. Lack of Vitamin B₁ means lack of energy. Millions of working Americans today need plenty of both.

Quaker Oats contains larger amounts of both than any natural cereal and its protein is higher in quality than whole-grain wheat, corn or rice.

Leads All Grains as Supplement for Restricted Foods

For the duration, many of us must do with less meat, milk and cheese—all growth and stamina foods. But the growth of American children and the stamina of our adults need not be penalized, if the proper advantage is taken of the supplies we have.

And we can help make up for lesser amounts of these restricted foods by eating hot Quaker Oats breakfasts daily, and by using this rich whole-grain source of Protein and Vitamin B₁ as a meat "extender."

Oatmeal Helps Wartime England

England, as a nation, is healthier than when it went to war. Highest production efficiency levels have been maintained, despite severe food shortages.

The British Ministry of Food made oatmeal the subject of its "War Cookery Leaflet No. 1." England is reported to be eating nearly 70% more oatmeal than a year ago. We are fortunate in this country in being able to get all the wholesome Quaker Oats our families need.

How The Delicious Hot Quaker Oats Breakfast Helps You Now!

MAKE MEAT GO UP TO 40% FARTHER WITH THIS DELICIOUS RECIPE

Here is a delicious "extender" meat loaf, developed and tested in the Quaker Oats Kitchens. It is firm and smooth in texture, completely delicious. When you "stretch" in meat dishes with Quaker Oats, you keep them high in Protein, meat's main health factor, needed by your family for growth, energy and stamina.

Quaker's Delicious New COMBINATION MEAT LOAF

Cooking Time: 1 Hour Temperature: 375° F.
1 1/4 pounds beef chuck (ground) 2 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 pound pork loin ends (ground) 1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup onion (cut fine) 1 teaspoon mustard
1 cup Quaker Oats 1/4 cup catsup
(quick or regular, uncooked) 1 egg (well beaten)
1 cup water

COMBINE all ingredients in order listed and mix well. Pack firmly into loaf pan (about 3 1/2 x 8 1/2 in.). Bake in moderately hot oven (375° F.) for 1 hour. Slice and serve hot or cold.

TOMATO SAUCE: Heat a can of tomato soup according to instructions on the can. Makes a delicious sauce for this loaf or the veal loaf.

IN THE light of present-day food problems, oatmeal stands out as America's No. 1 whole-grain cereal.

We now know that Quaker Oats—true, whole-grain rolled oats—helps us meet many important food scarcities . . . helps protect the stamina and energy of our workers, helps protect the growth of our children.

Oatmeal does provide, more than any other natural grain, the protein our children must have for growth, our workers for stamina.

Oatmeal does provide protein of a higher quality than whole-grain wheat, corn or rice.

Oatmeal does provide, more than any other natural grain, the precious Vitamin B₁. The vitamin that enables us to use the energy of foods. It is an absolute necessity for normal growth. It is needed by every worker for full energy.

The Vitamin B₁ of the Quaker Oats breakfast is retained, 100%, throughout cooking, though many other types of food may suffer a "cooking loss" of as much as 80%.

There is no breakfast cereal that is enjoyed so much by so many people as delicious Quaker Oats. How fortunate that this wholesome whole-grain, the breakfast favorite of America, is so plentiful. On grocers' shelves across the country, you can find the familiar round package, picturing the kindly Quaker. It stands for growth, strength, thrift. And there is plenty for all.

A big bowlful of delicious, creamy, hot Quaker Oats costs less than a penny. Yet look what you get: Protein, Vitamin B₁, Riboflavin, Niacin, Iron, Calcium, Phosphorus, easily digestible Food Energy.

And thrifty Quaker Oats as a meat "extender" keeps costs down, yet keeps meat dishes high in Protein and Vitamin B₁.

You owe your family the extra benefits of hot Quaker Oats—now, more than ever.

Start your family on Quaker Oats today. They will enjoy its stimulating warmth. They will enjoy its delicious flavor. They will gain its healthful benefits. Now, more than ever, Quaker Oats is America's Super Breakfast Food.

Karen Morley of Films Sues Vidor for Divorce

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 28.—Eight months ago Screen Actress Karen Morley and Director Charles Vidor conceded they were "talking over" marital difficulties, but yesterday Miss Morley stated that reconciliation efforts have failed. She filed suit for divorce, charging cruelty.

The couple separated September 10, 1940. Their romance, begun at the studio where both worked, culminated in a marriage at Santa Ana, California, in 1932 which they kept secret for a month.

Miss Morley asks approval of an agreement which includes a property settlement and gives her custody of their son, Michael, 9.

OPA Counsel Accuses Hecht Co. of 'Apathy And Indifference'

Closing Arguments Made; Overcharges Repaid, Dulcan Says

Closing arguments in the Government's price-control case against the Hecht Co. were begun in District Court today as OPA counsel accused the company of "apathy and indifference" and stated "admitted" violations by the company would form the basis of the OPA request for a permanent injunction.

Arguments are expected to close today when the case will be given to Justice F. Dickinson Letts for judgment.

George M. Austin, OPA counsel, said that the Hecht Co. had admitted, among other things, a total of 2,500 violations and 940 evidences of overcharging, with a cost of $4,900 to consumers.

Overcharges Repaid. Earlier, Charles B. Dulcan, sr., vice president and general manager of the Hecht Co., had stated mistakes were made in "good faith" and any overcharges are being paid back where the consumer is known and will be given to charity if purchasers cannot be determined.

Taking the stand late yesterday in the 10-day-old proceedings in which the company has opposed the OPA petition for a permanent injunction to halt further alleged breaches of the law, Mr. Dulcan said every effort had been made to abide by the regulations, and outlined the company's course since price fixing was inaugurated early last year.

Charles A. Horsky of defense counsel said Mr. Dulcan would be the last witness for the company.

Force Specially Trained. Mr. Dulcan told the court that Hecht had set up a special bureau to handle OPA matters even before the price ceilings went into effect; that the force had been trained for the functions that would be necessary, and that no expense had been spared to make this branch of the store efficient although it had been difficult to recruit help. All officials of the store, he continued, had been impressed with the necessity of living up to the law, and he read a memorandum addressed to the heads of the establishment in April, before the law became effective, in which he said, "We will live 100 per cent within the law."

Mr. Dulcan also told of a trip made by a member of the company's board to Canada, to study price control there, and explained that posters had been distributed through the store setting out that the company was complying with OPA regulations to "encourage" the public to report any violations.

U.S. Ships West of Aleutians Attacked by Jap Planes

After months of inactivity, the Japanese forces based on Kiska in the Aleutian Islands were reported in a naval communique today to have attacked United States ships operating to the westward of the American base on the Adrenof Islands in the Aleutians.

The attack was made by two Japanese float planes, but, according to the Navy, no damage was suffered by the American vessels. Naval spokesmen refused to say what type of vessels were attacked or to admit that they were naval craft.

Book for Workers Tells Advantages Of Stable Wages

The Government printed thousands of vest-pocket-size pamphlets today to convince workers that wage stabilization is in both their own and the national interest.

The tiny booklet, "Your War and Your Wages," described the relation of wage stabilization to living costs. It gave this example: "A 10-cent-an-hour raise in normal times means that $4 more worth of goods can be bought on Saturday night. But supposing that prices meanwhile rise high enough to absorb that $4—then what has been the use of the long arguments before a Government agency to win that 10 cents an hour? None!"

Armstrong Cork Votes Common Dividend

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 28.—Directors of Armstrong Cork Co. declared an interim dividend of 25 cents per share on common stock, payable March 3 to stockholders of record February 8.

They also declared a dividend of $1 a share on the company's preferred stock, payable March 15 to stockholders of record March 1.

Welcome Program Series For Newcomers to Open

The first of a series of informal "Washington Welcomes You" programs, relating to allied arts and high-lighting cultural and historic associations of Washington, will be held at 4 p.m. Sunday at the Phillips Memorial Gallery, 1600 Twenty-first street N.W.

An informal talk on the gallery and some of its art treasures will be made by a gallery staff member. At 5 p.m. Miss Beatrice Pinckney Jones, pianist, will offer a program. The chairman will be Miss Laura King.

Drive to Enroll Women For War Savings to Open

The women's division of the District of Columbia War Savings Committee will launch a house-to-house campaign next Monday with a view to enrolling an estimated 300,000 Washington women in the War Savings League, through the purchase of War savings stamps or bonds.

The programs will be held at the Lincoln Memorial Museum, 511 Tenth street N.W., on the site of the old Ford Theater. A talk on the theater and the assassination there of President Lincoln will be given by T. Sutton Jett of the museum staff.

The league membership is made up of women who have purchased savings stamps or bought a bond.

Mrs. John Jay O'Connor, chairman of the women's division of the committee, recently named Mrs. Donald F. Roberts chairman of the house-to-house campaign. Serving with Mrs. Roberts on the Campaign Committee are Mrs. Raymond H. Ewell, in charge of training; Mrs. Walter E. Ward and Mrs. Howard Le Roy.

The civilian mobilization division of the Office of Civilian Defense is to co-operate with the War Savings Committee of the Treasury Department in arranging to have the Block Leaders Corps make the house-to-house canvas, it was announced.

Splendid Cough Syrup Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking. To get quick and satisfying relief from coughs due to colds, mix this recipe in your own kitchen. Once tried, you'll never be without it, and it's so simple and easy. First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Then get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any drugist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, known for its effect on throat and bronchial membranes. Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid medicine and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste. And for quick, blessed relief, it is amazing. You can feel it take hold in a way that means business. Loosens phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Pat Rooney, Dancing at 60, Sighs for Old Vaudeville

By ANDREW R. KELLEY.

Pat Rooney in his nimble 60s and with snow-white hair won an enthusiastic hand Tuesday night from Lou Costello, one of the famous team of film comedians.

The diminutive dancing Pat had just concluded his tap dance to the tune of "Daughter of Rose O'Grady," at Jimmy Lake's Gay Nineties night club, and the Hollywood visitor's enthusiasm was for one of the few remaining acts of old-time vaudeville.

Rooney has been down to see Pat Rooney tap through a live dancing routine, and so have many of the old-time regulars of the two-a-day on Fifteenth street. They still sigh softly for the era when Keith-Albee were giants of the amusement world.

It's Pat Rooney's idea that the two-a-day vaudeville is in heaven, which is a nice place to be. My own thought on the subject is that variety as he used to know it is embalmed in the movie producer's back pocket, for the very good reason there is more money in showing pictures.

The appetite for good vaudeville still exists but there is no entrepreneur willing to back it.

Some Great Acts. Some day in his leisure Pat Rooney plans to write a book about the vaudeville he knew, as distinct from what motion picture houses now present under that title.

Today's programs comprise a crop of one-act sketches in rhythmic routines. The one-act sketch is a faded memory, there are no longer any monologists worthy of headline, and the barber shop quartet is as outdated as a model T Ford.

Pat Rooney years for the days when his "Rings of Smoke" played 40 weeks annually and generally closed the seven or eight act vaudeville bill. The screen portion of the program, confined to Aesop's Fables and the newsreel, was allotted but eight minutes of the two hour and one-half entertainment.

When Pat Rooney speaks of the best vaudeville being in heaven, he is referring to the great acts which have passed on after making their characteristic and permanent contribution to the art of entertainment.

Such acts as Sarah Bernhardt, with her $1,000 a performance at Keith's Palace on Broadway; Nat Wills and Joe Jackson, two of the greatest of tramp comics; Eva Tanguay, who was the glamour girl of the late 90s; the Four Cohans, Frank Tinney, Vesta Victoria, Bert Leslie, Frank Fogarty, Julian Eling, Press Eldridge, Lew Dockstader, Bert Leslie, James and Bonnie Thornton, Collins and Hart, Rice and Prevost, Will M. Cressy, Emma Carus, Norah Bayes, Lillian Russell, Harry Houdini, Albert Chevalier, James Richmond Glenroy, Walter C. Kelly, James C. Conbett, Karno's Night in an English Music Hall and Irene Franklin, to name just a few of his headline contemporaries.

Likes to Reminisce. In those glamorous days of the past Pat Rooney and Marion Bent were considered tops in standard dancing acts. "In my youth there was charm and simplicity about vaudeville," says Pat Rooney, "and a versatility which has completely disappeared. Maybe I grow over nostalgic, but I think these acts were far superior to what passes today as vaudeville. Keith's circuit had tremendous habit patronage, customers who came every week and knew every act. These bills had novelty and variety and acts were not chained to a microphone. We had good bands, too, such as the Boston Symphony and the Padettes, and for glamour nothing today could challenge the pretentious swimming act of the shapely Annette Kellerman.

I don't suppose two-a-day vaudeville will ever be revived as an institution, but it is my judgment that somebody with the vision of a Marcus Loew or E. F. Albee could pile up a great fortune by financing

CHILD STAR—Little Ann Carter plays the daughter of Paul Muni in "Commandos Strike at Dawn," opening on the Earle Theater screen on Friday.

Marriage After Career Is Plan Of Susan Peters

Andrews Sisters Irked Over Ban on Records Which Costs Money

By SHEILAH GRAHAM.

HOLLYWOOD—"Darling," coos Susan Peters into the telephone on the set of "Faculty Row," "there's a 'sneak' tonight in my picture. Which one? 'Assignment in Brittany.' Meet me here at 8 o'clock." Hollywood's most promising leading lady skips away from the telephone with a "don't-you-dare-ask-me-who-he-is" expression on her angelic face.

To cut a long evasion short, the man is Susan's beau, Richard Quine, a young actor now playing the lead in "You've Never Been Licked." But he's licked so far when it comes to getting pretty Susan (she made her big hit in "Random Harvest") to marry him.

"I shan't do that until I'm good and ready," says the 21-year-old girl. "Right now I want to make dozens of pictures." She does not believe that pictures mix with marriage. Funny thing, but Susan got her break at Metro when an executive saw the test she made for Warners to whom she was under contract one year without doing a thing—"not even leg art!"

Watching Herbert Marshall introduce his screen wife, Mary Astor, to the dean of "Faculty Row" is Allyn Joslyn, who is fighting for a few more words to make his part bigger. He doesn't quite know what he's playing all he knows is that he wants more of it. "I had to give up a good part in the new Fred Astaire picture for this one," he mourns. "I was the 'other man,' and lost the girl (Joan Leslie) to Fred. Losing a girl is as good as a death scene!"

It's any comfort to Joslyn, part of his current role consists in being knocked down by Marshall.

Patty is knitting. Laverne is touching her toes, Maxene is yawning. Ladies and gentlemen, meet the Andrews Sisters! They are on the set of their latest picture, "Always a Bridesmaid." And they have a huge bone to pick with Music Boss James Petrillo. In the past four years the girls have sold eight million records! But since Petrillo banned recorded music last August they have not made any new records. Some of the old ones, however, "Strip Polka" for one, are doing all right. Four of them in the past six months have resulted in one million sales.

All the girls are tired. "We've made nine pictures in two years," Laverne tells me. "And every time we finish a picture we are out on the road again doing five and six shows a day."

"We bought a lovely house," says Patty dreamily. "It's opposite Deanna Durbin's in Brentwood," sighs Maxene. "Cost us $50,000," states Laverne. "It's lovely to have a house."

"But we're never in it!" wails Patty. "Oh, well," consoles Maxene, "it's since work at the Earle. Sam Jack Kauffman, conductor of the Capitol Theater Orchestra, will do the introductions for that theater.

Old-Timers Click. The ban on pleasure driving hasn't affected attendance at Ice-Capades with 36,000 in one week seeing the Ulme Arena's show on the frozen surfaces. The show stoppers of the big troupe are Irma Thomas, 44, and Orrin Markus, 51, who are professionally known as the Old Smoothies.

Irma Thomas is the mother of the Thomas twins, who are touring with a rival steel blades show, Ice Follies. Mary and Jane Thomas occasionally have a chance to hop a train and visit Mom. Mother and daughters all learned to skate at the same time and Orrin Markus was their instructor. Mrs. Thomas was 38 years old before she ever laced on skating shoes and she acquired all of her proficiency at the Highland Park Country Club at St. Paul, Minn. Truly this couple are in a class by themselves. They're just getting started as a team and it looks as though they'll be around for a long time.

Earle Opens Early For 'Commandos' John J. Payette, general zone manager for Warner Bros. Theaters, announces that the Earle Theater will open at 10:15 a.m. and present the first show at 10:35 a.m. on Friday, January 29, opening day of "Commandos Strike at Dawn."

Starring Paul Muni, "Commandos Strike at Dawn" is an eloquent indictment of Nazi tyranny as practiced in Norway, and a heartening portrayal of the efforts of the Norwegian people to combat Nazi aggression.

Sponsored by Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne, Norwegian Ambassador, "Commandos Strike at Dawn" was previewed at the Departmental Auditorium on January 14, as part of "United Nations Week" celebration.

Seven for One "Forever and a Day," feature drama to be released in the spring by RKO-Radio, is the first picture to carry the credits of seven ace directors. They are Rene Clair, Edmund Goulding, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Frank Lloyd, Victor Saville, Robert Stevenson and Herbert Wilcox. Each director handled a sector of the century-spanning plot from 1804 to the London blitz.

Dean Murphy as Emcee. Dean Murphy, well-known stage personality who has appeared in Washington a number of times, will be master of ceremonies of the President's Birthday broadcast from the President's Birthday broadcast from Commissioner J. Russell Young's office on Friday, January 29, at 11 a.m. Mr. Murphy will also officiate in the same capacity at Warner's Earle Theater during the President's Birthday midnight show that same evening.

The broadcast from the District Building will be a half hour, and will be broadcast by a number of stations at that time, and by all stations at some time during the day. All the stars and personalities in Washington for the occasion will be introduced to radio listeners at that time. With Dean Murphy doing the nice for Mum and Dad." Maxene married a few months ago Lou Levey, the manager of the sisters, and lives in an apartment with him. "We make between $50,000 and $60,000 a year on our records," says Laverne. "One hundred thousand a year for our pictures, and more than $1,000 a week for our personal appearances. But we haven't very much because we split it five ways. Mum and Dad each get one-fifth. That's the way it's always been with us, sharing and working. Say, we had quite a treat last night, we had a regular vacation. We took time off and went to the movies!" Frances Langford is talking about her recent trip to Alaska with Bob Hope (on the set of "Cowboy From Manhattan"). "Some of the boys up there," she says, "hadn't seen a woman in two years, and when I put my head out of the plane, soldiers with long beards appeared from every bush, and all I heard was: 'Hey, guys! A dame!' At one time when Bob and Frances were doing their stuff to an audience of 25 men it began to snow. Miss Langford was born in Florida, and has spent a lot of her life in California. She thought the snow was debris blown by the wind from a fire!

OUCH! MY BACK

Relieve muscular back-ache with powerful OMEGA OIL

Oh me—Oh my! How's a man going to work with his back tied up with knots of painful, stiff muscles? Try good old Omega Oil. Rub it on. It rubs right into the skin and goes to work fast. Through three generations Omega has been a blessing to thousands. Extra strong, but won't burn. Only 35¢ at all drug stores.

If You Get Up Nights You Can't Feel Right

If you have to get up at night your rest is broken and it's no wonder if you feel old and run down before your time. Functional rather than organic or systemic kidney and bladder trouble often may be the cause of many pains and symptoms simply because the kidneys may be tired and not working fast enough in filtering and removing irritating excess acids, poisons and wastes from your blood. So if you get up nights or suffer from burning, scanty or frequent passages, leg pains, back-ache, or swollen ankles, due to non-organic or non-systemic kidney and bladder trouble, you'll make no mistake in trying the prescription called Cystex. Because it has given such incense, happy relief in so high a percentage of such cases, Cystex is sold under a guarantee of money back on return of empty package unless completely satisfied. Try it now. Cystex costs only 35¢ at drug stores.

Thousands Proclaim Wonder Bread Now Better Than Ever

Because It Slices Better
Because It Tastes Better
—Due To "Slo-Baking"

—grocers everywhere can guarantee that the Wonder Bread you buy today is today's bread.

Fresh when you eat it because "slo-baked" for lasting freshness. And that's the quality you want for sandwiches.

Contains Vitamin B₁

Then, too, Wonder Bread contains Vitamin B₁. Which is necessary because the human system cannot properly convert the carbohydrate of bread into energy without it.

Mother Nature put Vitamin B₁ into wheat but, to make bread whiter, man took it out. Now—it is back where Nature intended.

Eat More Bread For More Energy

Probably the best low-cost source of energy—bread can be used on the table, in cooking and by serving more sandwiches.

Wonder Bread is made with finest ingredients and with expert skill by the famous "slo-baking" method. So you know it is good for you. Try it and you will discover it tastes good, too.

Army to Control Raid Defense in Eastern States

Revised Regulations To Go Into Effect In Three Weeks

By MIRIAM OTTENBERG. Civilian protection in the District and in 16 Eastern States from Maine to Florida went under military control today with the public given three weeks to learn an entirely new set of rules for blackouts and air raids.

Drastic revisions in air-raid regulations, to become effective February 17, include the following major innovations: 1. The District will blackout on the "blue" signal, which will be an audible warning of a steady continuous blast of two minutes' duration, similar to the old "all clear." Civilian defense forces will be mobilized but pedestrians and traffic will be allowed to move.

2. The air-raid devices will sound intermittent blasts on the "red," formerly the only public warning, but will always be followed by a return to the "blue" signal, which will be in effect until enemy planes are at least 300 miles away.

3. The steady "red" "all clear" has been eliminated. The regular air-raid warning devices can no longer be used for this purpose. Col. Lemuel Bolles, executive director of District civilian defense, said instructions on the "all clear" will be issued after the commanding generals of the Military District of Washington and the 3d Service Command have had a chance to confer.

4. Periods of blackout and periods of air-raid or air-raid tests are no longer of the same duration. The military can order a blackout at any time when attack seems probable and the "blue" alarm can be sounded without the "red" ever being sounded.

5. Certain radio stations, on selected frequencies to be announced, will remain on the air to broadcast official bulletins during the periods of the "blue" and "red" signals under the control of the service command. Radio stations operating on frequencies between 3,000 and 30,000 kilocycles will not be silenced. Stations below 3,000 and above 30,000 kilocycles will go off the air except for the specially selected ones and Army, Navy and emergency stations on a controlled basis.

6. The military officially recognizes for the first time that its approved blackout lighting equipment for vehicles is not available and allows vehicles to proceed on low beams or dimmed headlights. At the same time, the regulations indicate that a substitute device may be accepted.

The regulations, which carry penalties of $100 or 30 days in the Eastern Defense Command, internment for aliens, fines ranging up to $5,000 or imprisonment for a year, are to be enforced by State and local governments.

While the proclamation under which Lt. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commanding general of the Eastern Defense Command, extended military control to cover air-raid protection was being issued simultaneously in Washington and the 16 States under his command, ranking civilian defense officials and military chiefs of the area attended an all-day session in New York yesterday.

Two major points were brought out at the meeting—why the military was assuming control and how the new regulations worked.

1. Lt. Col. E. R. Clouson told the officials that air-raid warning systems have varied radically even in adjoining States, that this has hampered compliance and confused travelers who are faced with figuring out sets of signals and regulations that differ radically from what they were accustomed to.

"Hitherto," he said, "the commanding general with the responsibility for the protection of the entire coast and its inhabitants has had little or no control over a vital phase of his defense mission. In a military sense, such a situation is incongruous * * * for after all, you and I know very well on whose shoulders the blame would be promptly and vociferously laid were a real emergency to arise within the Eastern Defense Command, and were there any failure of defense agencies due to the fact that each was following its own independent system and was not acquainted with the system of its neighbors. Enemy raiders are no respecters of State lines."

In the same note, Gen. Drum declared that "we don't want another Pearl Harbor. It isn't fair to our people to take a chance. We would be classed as criminals." He said he had been told by his Commander in Chief, the President, to make the air-raid protection system effective and added simply, "we'll obey that order."

More Drastic Moves Indicated. Indicating that more drastic measures might become necessary, including the exclusion of aliens from the Eastern Defense Command, Col. M. W. Howze told the group that "it is better that military authorities assume control now rather than in the midst of a national catastrophe."

Director James M. Landis of the Office of Civilian Defense, which worked with the War Department and the Eastern Defense Command on the regulations, pointed out that mobilization of civilian defense forces would be speedier under the audible "blue" signal since the cascading telephone mobilization had failed to work and, in any case, had been unable to reach moving or visiting wardens.

Ex-Md. U. Student Is Killed In Aerial Combat in China

Second Lt. Pyles Had Shot Down Three Jap Planes

Second Lt. George Vinton Pyles, 22, Army Air Forces, credited with bagging three enemy planes in the China area, was killed in action January 16, the War Department has notified his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Wilmer Pyles of Temple Hills, Md.

"It may help the morale of American flyers everywhere to know that our son recently wrote me that 'what few flyers we have here are giving the Japs hell,' Mrs. Pyles said today.

"Going Was Tough." A letter from Lt. Pyles, dated December 30, 1942, and received by his parents, said he was in the Asiatic zone, stated he had been out on a mission (combat duty), the "going was pretty tough," he said he was damaged but he was okay.

In another letter, Lt. Pyles wrote "the odds are 12 to 1 against us." His parents said their son had written them a Christmas message in which he started "you can add two more Jap planes to my string."

After attending Oxon Hill elementary and high schools, Lt. Pyles entered the University of Maryland, where he became a member of the varsity boxing team. After completing 200 hours solo flying at the College Park Airport, he enlisted in the Army Air Forces in April, 1941, and was sent to China, with other young pilots, to replace the American Volunteer Flyers there.

Was Due for Leave. Lt. Pyles had had a year of constant fighting over the Burma Road area and over Chinese soil. He wrote his parents he was due to obtain leave and return to this country in April, 1943.

No details of his death in action have been received by his parents. In addition to his parents, Lt. Pyles is survived by two brothers, G. Gordon Pyles, 19, University of Maryland student, who enters the Army next month, and Wilmer D. Pyles, attorney, of Marlboro, Md.; and two sisters, Miss Nina Pyles and Mrs. T. Coleman Farrell, of Temple Hills, Md.

Clearing House For Emergency Fuel Oil Studied

Merchants' Group To Ask Plan Unless Other Aid Arrives

Unless other action is taken within the next day or two to alleviate the fuel oil shortage here, the Commissioners will be asked to set up a central clearing house to provide for prompt emergency deliveries to families that have run completely out of oil, Lester Scott, director of the oil heating division of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association said today.

This method of handling distress cases is already being used with some success in New York City, Boston and several other Eastern cities, Mr. Scott said. He warned that some kind of clearing house would have to be set up "before conditions here have become desperate."

Advantages Claimed. The clearing house method, he explained, would make it possible for consumers who are out of oil and who cannot obtain a fresh supply from their usual dealer to get almost immediate relief. At the same time, he said, oil dealers would not be played or caught from persons who say they are out of oil but who still have some on hand.

Mr. Scott said that in New York a committee had been set up by local authorities and in Boston the Governor had appointed a man specifically to handle emergency cases. He said it appeared the Commissioners would be acting within their authority to establish a similar system here.

Meanwhile, the fuel oil situation in the District was characterized by Clyde Morrill of Boston, secretary of the Atlantic Coast Oil Association, as being no better and no worse than conditions generally throughout the East.

Complete Confusion. Mr. Morrill said everywhere in the East oil distribution was in a state of "complete and utter confusion." He blamed much of the difficulty on the conflicting orders issued by the Office of Price Administration and the Petroleum Administrator for War.

He said that the Government is totally incapable of anticipating an emergency. It must be tossed right in its lap before any action is taken.

The oil representative said the current crisis had all the earmarks of the disaster that struck up to now, he pointed out, consumer tanks when the season began. Because of distribution breakdowns, he said, most consumers' tanks were now nearly empty.

Mr. Morrill said he was in Washington to seek some means of relief. He was to confer today with representatives of the PAW.

Graduate of McKinley. He attended the Maryland School for the Blind in Baltimore and later was graduated from McKinley High School here, where he kept pace with and topped many of his school mates by his amazing memory. He learned to type and answered most oral examination questions by this method.

It still amazes his fellow workers at Bolling Field to see Irvin work on a radio. His fingers find complicated wires and tubes with the expertness of a concert pianist playing a difficult score.

Irvin's interest in radio began when he attended school in Maryland. There he "played around" with small sets under the guidance of a teacher who was a "ham." The instructor read instructions to him while Irvin's nimble fingers "learned" the mechanism.

Irvin soon could dismantle and put together the average home radio set. He thought he should be in the Army Specialist Corps. The Army, though, thought Irvin was too young.

Boss Is Skeptical. Desiring to do something to help the war effort, Irvin finally became an apprentice radio technician at $1,080 a year.

"Naturally," says Christopher G. King, assistant foreman, "I was a bit skeptical about Irvin's ability to hold down a job at Bolling Field. Aircraft radio is a long way from the family set, and we can't afford to make mistakes. The transmitters and receivers must be letter-perfect for the ships, and I don't mind admitting now I was dubious

Overtime Pay Permitted for 40-Hour Week

Controller General Sends Opinion to Secretary of Labor

Government employes can collect some overtime pay under the temporary war pay bill, even though they may work no more than five days totaling 40 hours in a week and are absent on a leave-without-pay status on the sixth day, Controller General Lindsay C. Warren held today in a decision given the Secretary of Labor.

"The proper concept of the law based upon all of its provisions * * * and its legislative history," Mr. Warren said, "is that an increase in compensation is authorized for employes coming within the purview of the law because of the war emergency and the increase of the cost of living."

Under the law employes in the executive agencies, which are on a 48-hour week, are entitled to time and one-half for hours over 40. As Mr. Warren interprets the legislation, however, this overtime provision actually raised the base pay, though no overtime may be worked.

For example, a $3,440 employe's pay would be figured at $4 daily under the law which prescribes a 360-day work year. By adding the overtime rate it becomes $4.87 per day. On that basis, an employe would get $4.35 overtime while working only a 40-hour week. Higher salaried workers would benefit in proportion.

The controller general recently ruled that employes on annual and sick leave were entitled to the overtime rate.

In another decision today the Controller General said the law permitting Federal employes to accumulate up to 90 days' leave was retroactive to September 8, 1939, the opening date of the national emergency declared by the President. The previous limitation of 60 days was removed because many workers have been unable to take their leave due to the pressure of war work.

Two Held Under Bond In Taxi Robbery

Two men were held for the grand jury today under $5,000 bond each, charged with the armed robbery of a taxicab driver Saturday night.

The colored defendants, Oscar Jones, 23, of the 1500 block of Swann street N.W., and Joseph E. Ryan, 22, of the 1300 block Corcoran street N.W., pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge John P. McMahon in Municipal Court yesterday.

Aldred Corbi of 114 Upsal street S.E. testified that the defendants robbed him of $8 at the point of a gun, shortly after entering his cab at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue N.W.

Early Appointments To D. C. Committee Seen by Randolph

Delay Won't Hold Up Teacher Pay Increase Bill, Chairman Says

Confidence that the four present Democratic agencies on the House District Committee will be filled promptly by experienced men was expressed today by Chairman Jennings Randolph. He emphasized that the teachers' salary increase bill now pending in the Senate would not be held up in the House through failure of the House District Committee to organize.

"Just as soon as the Senate passes the teachers' salary increase measure I guarantee that the House District Committee will promptly upon it," said Mr. Randolph today.

He pointed out that action probably would not be taken by the Senate for a couple of weeks because Chairman McCarran of the Senate District Committee, who is sponsoring the legislation, is absent from the city.

Chairman Randolph said that he expects the Democratic caucus, which will meet in a day or two to elect a successor to Joseph J. Simnett, the veteran doorknocker of the House who died last night, will approve a provision under which four former members of the District Committee will be allowed to serve again on the committee in addition to other major House committees.

The four men slated to succeed themselves on the House District Committee are Representatives Alessandro of Maryland, Russell of Texas, Harris of Arkansas and Hebert of Louisiana. These four Democrats served on the District Committee in the last Congress and were actively interested in District legislation.

Bus Drivers Face Draft, Federation Assured

Following a protest to draft authorities, the Federation of Civic Associations has been assured that no streetcar or bus operator of the Capital Transit Co. would be drafted solely on the basis of his employment, Frederick S. Weaver of the association said yesterday.

Mr. Weaver said the protest was submitted to District Selective Service Director William E. Leahy on the ground that the transit company was not justified in seeking such favored treatment at a time when it was still apparently refusing to hire colored operators.

suspension of normal activities. Although the blackout continues, he pointed out, the acute tension is relieved and war production can be resumed without delay. At the same time, he added, fighter commands may be less likely to flash the "red" when they realize that the shift from "blue" to "red" can be made quickly.

Permit No All Clear Sound. The one defect in the new regulations, he said, was the technical possibility of producing three different warning sounds with the result that the all clear had to be eliminated.

Stars to Visit Ball For Servicemen at Willard Sunday

Jolson and Loretta Young First of Hollywood Group to Reach Capital

Men in uniform will be given a special opportunity to see the stars visiting Washington for the Presidential Birthday Ball. Scheduled events for them will range from visits to hospitals to appearances at the USO Birthday Ball in the Willard Hotel Sunday.

As the stars began to arrive for the celebration, spread over two days this year, the Birthday Ball Committee announced that individual stars whose departure schedules permit will appear at the Willard dance.

It was emphasized that only men in uniform and USO hostesses will be admitted to the Sunday dance which the stars have been asked to visit before they leave town.

Other special recognition for servicemen will include visits by the stars to Walter Reed and Navy Hospitals tomorrow afternoon, a trip to Fort Washington Saturday afternoon and appearances at the Stage Door Canteen Saturday night.

Three Expect Wives. For three men in the service the visit of the stars will have a special significance. The three men all hope to see their wives here. They are Lt. Col. Tom Lewis, husband of Loretta Young; Capt. James Ray Hendricks, husband of Laraine Day; and Lt. Maurice Adler, husband of Anita Louise.

On the other hand, the servicemen will contribute their own talents to the Saturday night round of entertainment. A mobile unit from Camp George G. Meade, Md., including a tap dancer, an Irish tenor and a concert pianist, will tour the celebrations.

Both the President and Mrs. Roosevelt will participate in the celebration. The President will speak during a birthday ball program scheduled over the four major networks from 11:15 p.m. to 12:15 a.m. Saturday night. The place from which the President will speak and the exact time were not disclosed.

Mrs. Roosevelt, meantime, will walk from one birthday ball to another, cutting the birthday cake at the Willard Hotel.

Loretta Young and Al Jolson led the parade of stars into the Capital for this year's celebration. The actress arrived last night. Mr. Jolson planned to entertain the boys at Walter Reed this afternoon.

Others to Arrive. Due to arrive today were Dennis Morgan and Geraldine Fitzgerald, coming from New York; Laraine Day and Robert Young, who have been making community fund drive appearance in Boston; Lucy Monroe, and Lynn Bari.

The entire contingent coming in from Hollywood is scheduled to arrive at 8:40 a.m. tomorrow. Anita Louise, who is due in at 7:30 a.m., will remain at the station to greet the other stars. The Hollywood group includes Mr. and Mrs. James Cagney, Edgar Bergen with his wife, Joseph Biegler, Roddy McDowall with his mother, sister and teacher, Janet Blount with her mother and father and Roy Rogers.

Methodist Union to Hear Dr. Hough at Dinner

Dr. Lynn Harold Hough, dean of Drew University, will be the principal speaker at a victory dinner sponsored by the Methodist Union of Washington at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Hamline Methodist Church, Sixteenth and Allison streets N.W.

The affair will climax the annual membership campaign being conducted by the union, whose present membership is 3,343. Goal of the drive is 4,000.

Place in War Effort For Handicapped Workers Found

Blind Radio Technician, 18, Works on Planes To Keep 'Em Flying'

A blind radio technician and a one-armed painter employed here represent working, heartening proof that the physically handicapped are being used by the Federal Government to ease the critical manpower shortage.

Both represent, too, victory over a physically handicapped person's toughest obstacle to perfection in any occupation—affliction since birth or childhood.

Irvin Hershowitz, blind for all 18 years of his life, does his competitive bit for the war effort as a civilian radio technician at Bolling Field. Victor E. Sharar, painter employed at Walter Reed Hospital, has been without the use of one of his arms for all but six of his 45 years.

Irvin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hershowitz of 4120 Nineteenth street N.E. A ponderous 16-inch in size, Irvin has the sensitive fingers of the blind.

He attended the Maryland School for the Blind in Baltimore and later was graduated from McKinley High School here, where he kept pace with and topped many of his school mates by his amazing memory. He learned to type and answered most oral examination questions by this method.

State Budget Bill Proposal Faces Fight

Delegates Seek Advance Copies Of Amendments

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 28.—A controversy on the floor of the House of Delegates was expected today over a proposal that all House members be provided with printed copies of proposed amendments to the budget bill at least 24 hours in advance of consideration.

Although the resolution providing such a step had not been reported by the Rules Committee, members of the House who declined to be quoted by name said the committee had decided to hand down an unfavorable report.

The Rules Committee was represented as having decided that to single out amendments to a particular bill for such treatment was unfair.

Meanwhile, the same committee was expected to report favorably today on a resolution which would in effect remove the Governor's power of absolute veto over its bills.

Speaker Thomas E. Conlon, chairman of the Rules Committee, said the group would make a favorable report on the resolution, introduced by Delegate Bernard S. Melnicov of Baltimore.

The resolution, similar to one introduced in the Senate but on which no action has been taken, would require the House clerk to date all bills within six days of final passage. The Governor would then have another six days in which to approve or veto them.

In the past the Assembly traditionally has delivered all bills to the Governor without dating them, which allowed him to hold them until after the Assembly adjourned.

Floor Fight Promised. The Legislative Council bill introduced in the Senate would have the same effect but it would not apply to the present session of the Legislature.

Speaker Conlon said he understood Gov. O'Connor would support the Melnicov resolution.

Proponents of the resolution, which would require the House printer to supply copies of committee amendments to the budget bill to the Delegates, and would delay action until 24 hours after this had been done, promised a floor fight on any unfavorable committee report.

The resolution was offered January 20 by Delegate Jerome Robinson of Baltimore, who asserted, "It is impossible for members of the House to follow amendments to the budget bills during the proceedings, and the journal is not usually sufficiently up to date to show amendments to such bills in time to inform the members."

Wider Job Benefits Asked. Both Houses of the Assembly had their busiest days yesterday.

One of the most important bills introduced during the day was brought into the Senate by Senator George W. Dell, of Baltimore. It would liberalize State unemployment compensation benefits.

Backed by the administration, it would extend coverage to every employer in Maryland having one or more persons on the payroll.

A total of 29 bills were passed during the day, most of them minor measures prepared by the Legislative Council.

Seventeen new bills were introduced, 11 of them into the House. The Senate passed 21 bills.

Fairfax Board Delays Pleasure Driving Hearing. Fairfax County Ration Board officials said yesterday that hearings on alleged violations of the ban on pleasure driving, scheduled last night, were postponed until February 3 to allow persons summoned before a special board more time.

Members of the special group that will conduct the hearings are John A. K. Donovan, Falls Church attorney; Col. Waldron E. Leonard of Fairview, and Benjamin Runyon of Falls Church. The hearing will be held at 8 p.m. in the Trial Justice Building.

Laurel USO Plans Ball. Officials of the USO Club at Laurel, Md., will stage their own President's Birthday Ball at 9 p.m. Saturday, Mrs. Roosevelt will be invited to attend. Music will be furnished by the 7th Division Infantry Orchestra from Fort Meade.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS. The sextant is a hand navigating instrument for measuring, by reflection, position of the sun and stars so a mariner can determine his position at sea. The present-day sextant, called an endless tangent screw sextant, costs about $235.

Took Up Painting Early. Determined to make his own way, Mr. Sharar learned to paint at the age of 12. Except for a short period, he has been a painter since he was 16. He has worked all over the country, including the Grand Coulee Dam.

He has worked at Walter Reed for about three years, and his foreman, Roy C. Gordy, says "he is better than most men who have full use of both their arms."

He has a son, Victor, Jr., 21, who is stationed at Fort Worth, Tex., as an air cadet, and a daughter, Alice, 12, besides contributing through his job to the war effort, Mr. Sharar manages to buy two $25 War bonds a month.

"Men who hold a gun in their two hands need to be helped, too," he said.

"But I found Irvin not only could tune a transmitter but could do the job better than any one in the shop because of his amazing sense of sound."

That was last September. Since then young Hershowitz has been raised to $1,200 a year and soon will be eligible for another increase.

Forty-two years ago, when Mr. Sharar was a child of 6, he was playing "tag" with other youngsters near the railroad tracks in Williamsport, Md. He slipped off the depot platform and under the wheels of a freight train, losing his right arm just above the elbow.

Representatives of the two groups also asked for legislation requiring that no liquor license shall be granted to establishments within 1,000 feet of a school or church. There are no restrictions on their location at present, it was said.

DAMASCUS, Md., Jan. 28.—For the outstanding 4-H gardening project Gladys Arnold will receive a $25 War bond donated by Sears Roebuck Co. and the national 4-H committee. At the same time her sister Evelyn will be given a gold medal for the best 4-H canning record in Montgomery County.

ROCKVILLE, Md., Jan. 28.—Delegates from the women's missionary societies of seven Baptist churches of Montgomery County convened in the Baptist Church here this morning for an all-day session. The churches represented are those at Kensington, Rockville, Mount Zion, Cedar Grove, Germantown, Travilah and Barnesville. Mrs. Philip Watkins, president of the group, is in charge. Market Co-Operative Elects Officers. Stockholders of the Women's Co-operative Market of Montgomery County at their annual meeting elected Mrs. Edward O. Henderson of Potomac a director and re-elected Mrs. James Purdum, Clarksburg, and Mrs. John Darcy, Buck Lodge, members of the board.

Teachers' College Students Urged to Stay in Work.

FARMVILLE, Va., Jan. 28.—Gov. Darden, stating that competent teachers were needed now more than ever before, urged students of the Farmville State Teachers' College to remain in the education field on graduation.

Speaking on the college's "war emphasis day" program yesterday, the Governor outlined the role of education in wartime and said every one should consider first what ought to be done rather than seeking the easiest field.

Americans must accept, he said, the increasing responsibility of the home front.

Arnold Bus Line Under Fire on Cut in Service

Official Assails Firm For Failure to End Service at Rosslyn

The Arnold-operated bus line, in opposing an ODT proposal to make Rosslyn its terminal on Sundays, is the only one in the Washington area that thus far has refused to comply with an ODT order issued last April with respect to conserving public transportation equipment.

Milton Diehl, the Northern Virginia representative of the federal agency, charged today.

Arlington County officials and representatives of the Arnold-operated line have objected to the proposal, declaring that it would create an "impossible" traffic situation.

Mr. Diehl said that in April, Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, announced that wherever possible, paralleling street car and bus lines should be curtailed.

Claims Others Co-operate. Such a policy has been followed in Washington and throughout the country, Mr. Diehl asserted.

For example, he continued, the Washington, Manassas & Annapolis Bus Co. now engaged in a program of turning most of its buses around at Barney Circle, while the Montgomery Bus Lines Co. will suspend its downtown operations and use the Rosslyn car barn as its terminal beginning February 12.

Only the Arnold-operated line—the Washington, Virginia and Maryland Coach Co.—is refusing to take similar action and is opposing the ODT proposal, he added.

Admitting that the rate problem is the principal stumbling block in the proposal, Mr. Diehl said he did not think bus riders should pay two fares or even any increased fare.

If the proposal is approved, he explained, passengers would pay one fare on the Arnold-operated buses and another when they got on Capital Transit Co. equipment at Rosslyn.

"I think such a setup is absurd," he declared. "These two companies should get together and agree on a reasonable division of the total fare. If that's done, I don't think the public object to getting off at Rosslyn."

Foresees ODT Order. In answer to a charge by officials of the Arnold-operated line that the ODT is holding up delivery of 20 new buses until the firm approves the Rosslyn proposal, Mr. Diehl said that was a question to be answered by ODT officials.

"I don't determine policy," he said. "I just make a report to the national office and the officials take action."

He added that he believed the ODT would order the Sunday turnaround at Rosslyn if the Arnold line "does not show a willingness to cooperate."

The ODT official also asserted that "not one objection" to the proposal had been offered at a meeting last Monday of the Cherrydale Citizens' Association.

C. S. Cobbin, president of the association, said that, in his comment today, but one member of the group said he "understood" that the body would make no protests to the move as long as it was considered necessary in order to conserve rubber and transportation equipment.

On the other hand, Arlington County Board Chairman Basil de Lashmutt said yesterday that residents of the county are "incensed" at the situation.

Silver Spring Library Trustees Are Elected. Mrs. Howard D. Dozier, Mrs. H. H. Howlett and Mrs. Edward M. Lee were elected trustees of the Silver Spring Public Library Association at the annual meeting at the county building.

Mrs. Howlett, president of the association, and Mrs. Dozier were re-elected. Mrs. Lee was elected to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Howard P. Bailey.

Due to the gasoline shortage the library, beginning Monday, will issue books for four-week periods instead of two weeks. It was announced by Mrs. Louise S. Ferguson, librarian. The move is to encourage library patronage, which has fallen off sharply since the ban on pleasure driving.

Mrs. Ferguson recorded that the circulation for the library in 1942 was approximately 62,000 books. Nearly 1,000 new members were added.

Market Co-Operative Elects Officers. Stockholders of the Women's Co-operative Market of Montgomery County at their annual meeting elected Mrs. Edward O. Henderson of Potomac a director and re-elected Mrs. James Purdum, Clarksburg, and Mrs. John Darcy, Buck Lodge, members of the board.

Virginians Warned To Get Liquor Ration Books This Week

Those Failing to Apply Face Delay Until Feb. 8, Official Declares

Virginians who do not apply for liquor rationing books this week will not be able to do so until February 8, E. E. Lawlor, Jr., manager of the Northern Virginia area, said today.

Contrary to reports that books would be issued at the ABC Board next week, Mr. Lawlor declared no civilian registration would be handled between next Monday and February 8, with the exception of transients, who will be given special books with a limited number of coupons.

On February 8, persons who have not done so may register at ABC stores, but they are urged to apply this week if possible.

To date no announcement of an extended general registration and no sale period has been announced.

Mr. Lawlor said stores were still crowded with registrants all day, and Alexandria reported an average of 400 books a day per store.

Registration Is Banned. Regarding the change of plans to register naval personnel, a representative of the commanding officer of the 5th Naval District has informed the State ABC Board that it was impossible for Navy men in Virginia to be registered and issued ration books under direction of the 5th Naval District.

It was stated that the district lacks the machinery to handle the work and does not have jurisdiction over all the naval, marine and Coast Guard units in the State.

The naval officials said, however, that they would co-operate with the ABC Board and the board was informed that the Norfolk Naval Operating Base would handle the distribution of the special cards for sailors on brief liberties of less than 72 hours ashore.

An ABC spokesman said a delay would be necessary in registering Navy personnel because a new method of issuing books must be sought.

Washingtonian to Head Alexandria Chest Unit. William G. Ilch was elected president of the Alexandria Community Chest at a meeting of the Board of Directors yesterday.

Mr. Ilch, who will succeed Clarence G. Robinson, was chairman of the 1942 Community War Fund campaign, during which more than $63,000 was raised. He is president of the Aero Auto Club, and, though a resident of Washington, has been prominent in Alexandria civic affairs.

Judge Harry F. Kennedy was elected president and John Schafe treasurer.

An executive secretary will be appointed later.

Arlington Board No. 1 Calls 32 for Induction. Arlington County Selective Service Board No. 1 announced yesterday that 32 local registrants have been called to report at the Courthouse Wednesday. They will be sent to Charlottesville for induction. They are:

Speaking on the college's "war emphasis day" program yesterday, the Governor outlined the role of education in wartime and said every one should consider first what ought to be done rather than seeking the easiest field.

Americans must accept, he said, the increasing responsibility of the home front.

A. B. & W. Passenger Load Rises 122 Per Cent in Three Months

With only a 19 per cent increase in equipment and a 31 per cent increase in number of drivers, the Alexandria area's only transit firm, the A. B. and W. Transit Co., handled 122 per cent more passengers during the last three months of 1942 than in the same period of 1941, according to figures released by R. T. Mitchell, traffic manager of the company.

In October, November and December of 1941 the average load carried was 900,000 passengers a month with 1660 drivers handling 105 buses.

In the same period last year, 2,000,000 passengers were carried monthly by 125 buses manned by 210 drivers.

It is the only public transportation between Alexandria, Washington and Fort Belvoir, and the only one in Alexandria. The A. B. and W. thus serves not only Alexandria's 55,000 residents, but employees of the Pentagon Building, the Navy Annex, the Naval Torpedo Station, the Army Air Forces and the National Airport who live in the District. It also serves the more than 30,000 men from Fort Belvoir and their visitors.

Although the 32,000 Pentagon Building and the 6,000 Navy Annex employees also use Capital Transit Co. facilities and the Arlington-Fairfax lines, there are approximately 4,200 Army Air Force workers, 2,000 Naval Torpedo Plant and 1,500 National Airport employees who depend on the A. B. and W. for transportation.

The pleasure driving ban brought an extra load estimated at 15 per cent and a 25 per cent increase in week-end traffic.

Recently the Office of Defense Transportation gave the bus line some help by releasing 30 new buses, thus allowing A. B. and W. to retire six buses no longer considered fit for use, and to return six borrowed from a Government agency.

Tuesday's ODT order authorized use of the new buses 3,000 miles a month instead of 2,000 as originally ordered. This will permit the new buses to operate in both morning and evening hours instead of only in emergency.

The A. B. and W. reported to the ODT last week that most of the new vehicles had run the 2,000 miles allowed for January in less than three weeks and were lying idle in the barn. In 1942 the buses not subject to ODT regulations ran 9,000 miles a month.

Other difficulties facing the company are a serious shortage of mechanics, and tire problem.

ROTC Course Completed. Albert W. Jones of Arlington and Joseph B. Workman, Silver Spring, are among seniors at the Western Maryland College in Westminster who have completed an advanced course in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. They are now awaiting their orders to report for active duty pending completion of their college work.

Mrs. Roosevelt to Attend Congressional Club Event

Senior Jose Carrasco Lunch Guest; Dinner Parties Precede Concert
Mrs. Roosevelt will be the honor guest of the Congressional Club at an informal breakfast Friday, February 5, at 11 o'clock at the club headquarters, 2001 New Hampshire avenue. The President's wife is a honorary member of the club. She will speak at the breakfast on "The War Work of English Women." Only members may attend the luncheon. At the regular Friday afternoon program tea at the club, tomorrow, Mrs. Lawrence Lanier, director of the Stage Door Canteen in Washington, will be the speaker. Her subject will be "The American Theater Wing War Service and the Stage Door Canteen."
Mrs. Jed Johnson is program chairman and the tea tomorrow is the first afternoon meeting since the installation of the new officers.

Senior Jose Carrasco, editor of El Diario, the oldest daily in La Paz, Bolivia, who is in this country at the invitation of the Department of State, was the guest of honor at luncheon Tuesday of the assistant Chief of the State Department's Division of Cultural Relations. The luncheon was given at the Mayflower and the other guests included the Bolivian Ambassador, Dr. Luis Fernando Guachalla; the director general of the Pan-American Union, Dr. Leo S. Rowe; Mr. Nelson J. Riley of the Office of the Co-ordinator of Inter-American Affairs; the First Secretary of the Bolivian Embassy, Senior Don Carlos Dorado Choptera; Dr. Alfred Metraux of the Smithsonian Institution, Mr. Ernest Hill, Mr. Ralph Hilton, and from the State Department, Mr. Lincoln White, Mr. Shiras Morris and Mr. Arturo Morales.
Senior Carrasco will visit newspaper plants here and in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. George Renchard had guests dining with them informally last evening at the Sulgrave Club and with them went later to the first of the 15 to 30 concerts which the National Symphony Orchestra gave in Constitution Hall. These concerts are for those between the ages of 12 and 30, their elders only being allowed to hear the programs provided they had interested a number of 15-to-30 in the concert. Dining with Mr. and Mrs. Renchard were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merrill and Lt. P. H. B. Orway-Smithers, Assistant Naval Attaché of the British Embassy.

Miss Anne Mitchell and Miss Dolly Corbin were hostesses at dinner in the former's apartment and later with their guests occupied their box for the concert. With them were Mrs. Charles Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ansberry, the latter just back from a short stay in New York; Miss Yolande de Maucliff, Mr. Robert Van Bortner, Mr. Max Millard and Mr. Joseph Parker.
A group of young men who work late in their offices met downtown for dinner and went on to the concert, having taken a box for the series. The group included Lt. Manson McCormick, Ensign William G. Thompson, Ensign John Exton, Mr. Frank G. Handy and Mr. Frank Severance, jr.

Mrs. Keyes Returns
Mrs. Frances Parkinson Keyes has returned from New Hampshire and entertained a group of friends at an at home Sunday evening at her home in Alexandria.

Legion of Merit Awarded Mexican, Brazilian Officers

For "extraordinary fidelity and essential service" rendered to this country's war effort, the War Department has awarded the new Legion of Merit to Brig. Gen. Crisobal Guzman Cardenas of the Mexican Army and Brig. Gen. Amaro Soares Bittencourt of the Brazilian Army.

Each served as military attache of his country in Washington, while Gen. Cardenas performed additional service as delegate to the Inter-American Defense Board.

The rank of commander was bestowed upon the two Latin American generals, who contributed to "the present close co-operation" in inter-American affairs, the citation declared. The Legion of Merit, like the Purple Heart, stems from the Badge of Military Merit, America's oldest decoration, established by George Washington in 1782.

Sergeants to Reunite As Privates in Army

By the Associated Press. BOISE, Idaho.—There'll be another sergeant at the Salina, Kans., Army base.

Frank H. Sergeant of Eugene, Oreg., who puzzles telephone callers at Gowen Field barracks by greeting them with "Priv. Sergeant speaking," will be transferred to Salina to rejoin his twin brother, Philip, also a private.

The transfer order came after the twins' mother wrote President Roosevelt that they never before had been separated.

Your word may be as good as your bond—but Uncle Sam would rather have the bond.

LONDON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Arthur Granville Bradley, 92, author of numerous books on Canadian and British history and sport, died Monday, it was announced today.

Buy U.S. War Bonds "SALADA" TEA

THE NEWER Jelleff's Yes—tomorrow—Friday—our January HALF-PRICE DAY! (Average Half Price!)

Most of the items are listed below—and it looks like another extraordinary day in spite of market conditions. This merchandise is from our own stocks and surpluses from makers who clear through us. Being just before we close our books for our fiscal year, there is more merchandise from our own stocks than usual. Extra salespeople and helpers of any kind are hard to get—therefore—Please don't expect the best of service. Please don't expect delivery immediately—rather, take packages with you. Please don't ask for credit or refund. These prices are made only for final clearance. Pin fittings, 25c. A charge for gift boxes. Store opens 9:30. Many buses and streetcars direct to 13th and F Streets—or transfer easily to this point.

Meats 'Hit and Miss' Proposition; Fish and Produce Plentiful

By Betsy Caswell, Women's News Editor.

As one dealer puts it, meat comes under the heading of a "hit and miss" proposition this week. (As it has for some time.) Stores rarely keep even a few hours in advance what meats will be shipped in to them, and like all the rest of us, they just have to take what they get. That is why you may be surprised when you go to the market to find a nice little roast of beef available—or you may discover that there is nothing but pork for you today. An open mind, as we have said many times, is essential for shoppers in wartime Washington, and your menu may be revised a dozen times in the course of one marketing tour.

There is usually a good supply of meat sundries on hand, although few of the store's shelves feature them particularly. With all the animals slaughtered for the armed forces and overseas consumption, there is a steady stream of these organ meats pouring in for civilian use. These meats do not keep well over long periods of time, and therefore, in spite of their high food value, are not used in instances where shipping to far distances becomes a factor. That is all to the civilian's benefit, because all of these meats are rich in vitamins and iron and the best type of protein. You may not like some of them, but this is no time to be "choosy," and we advise you to start learning to enjoy them right now!

This week end you will find some markets featuring a pork roll, which, it is suggested, you bake whole like a ham. This will be good for slicing cold, later on, too. Then there will be another lot of those meaty barbecue spare ribs on hand, and there is plenty of nice sauerkraut to go with either of these meats. Chickens, of course, will be available, along with a few turkeys, some ducks and plump little squabs. If you and your budget feel that there is good meat, as well as oysters and clams, available.

Wonderfully juicy MacIntosh apples, not often seen around here at this time of year, have come to local markets, and strawberries are unusually tasty and sweet. Navel oranges and tangerines are good for eating "out of hand," and if you search for them you will be rewarded by some of the tiny little "ruby apples" that the children love. Pineapples from Florida are enormous this week, and ripe and sweet as well. And don't overlook the humble little cranberries—their juice makes a fine tangy breakfast drink that is mighty good for you. Tomatoes are still high in price, and not too good in quality. String beans, lima beans, peas from Florida, artichokes and Brussel sprouts are all recommended. Spinach, kale, mustard and turnip tops and fine collards offer a tempting array of healthful greens. Potatoes are crisp and bunches of chicory lend new interest to salads, and you can bring a breath of spring to your wintertime meals by combining them with scallions, red radishes, water cress and a few leaves of chives. Spinach for a truly epicurean dish.

You may have noticed that a week or so ago in our "Readers' Clearing House" we published some suggestions for using milk cartons in salvaging fats. We were assured by our contributors that they had had no trouble in disposing of these fat-filled cartons to the butchers who handled the salvage. Now, however, an individual in a Government bureau takes us severely to task for passing along such information. It seems that tin cans will do—of course, we all knew that in the beginning, but with tin cans becoming fewer and fewer, most housewives have been trying to find some workable substitute. It now appears that contrary to our understanding of the original orders, we can use any type of tin can—no top is needed.

The No. 2 cans will hold a pound of fat, our informant stated, and should be used in place of the cartons, which make the fat impure, due to the paraffin with which the cartons are treated. (Mighty fussy, this fat!) The butcher, the scolding went on, will see that the tin can goes to the proper tin can salvage depot. We suggested mildly that the butcher could scoop out the fat and return the tin can, thereby saving lots of metal, but we were told haughtily that wasn't necessary at all—there would be plenty of tin cans at least for this year. And when they were all used up then something would be done about it. We again intimated that it would be a good idea if the Government bureau looked ahead a bit, and did something about it before the eventuality occurred—we were told in no uncertain terms that that was a foolish idea, and unworthy of attention.

The telephone conversation ended on a note of mutual distrust—and the feeling on our part that if some of the big shots who guide the housewife's destiny would come out from behind their barricades of typewriters and secretaries long enough to really see just what problems do confront home makers of Washington, we might get a little more practical instruction. But that, we suppose, is too much to expect of such important people. They deal only in theory.

'Meat Sundries' Delicious If Cooked Well

Baked Stuffed Heart Makes Fine Dish

While the majority of housekeepers have used liver regularly on their menu, many have learned only recently that other of the organ meats are delicious when properly cooked. Perhaps sweetbreads have been used when they were available and when the food budget allowed for their purchase. The cook brave enough to try brains, which are always much cheaper, has discovered that they are not unlike sweetbreads in flavor and texture. Method of cooking is much the same. While beef kidney is not so delicate in flavor as veal kidney, it is particularly good when combined with beef for a stew or pie. On the other hand, a beef heart differs very little in flavor from a calf's heart, but being larger, is not always so tender. It takes longer to cook. A braised heart with fruit stuffing is a most appetizing dish.

In case you have never tasted heart, I should mention that it is not unlike fresh tongue. I like to add a little vinegar or a few minced pickles to the brown gravy which I make for the heart.

BAKED STUFFED HEART.
1 beef heart or 2 calves' hearts.
3 cups fruit stuffing.
Flour.
Salt.
Pepper.
Have fat, veins and arteries removed. Wash heart thoroughly and fill cavity with stuffing. Sew edges of meat together. Roll in seasoned flour. Melt bacon fat or other drippings in baking pan and brown heart on all sides. Add boiling water to depth of 1 inch. Bake covered in slow oven 275 F. about 2 hours, until tender, and serve on hot platter with brown gravy.

FRUIT STUFFING.
1/4 cup bacon drippings.
2 tablespoons chopped onions.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
2 cups chopped apples or 1 cup chopped apples and 1/2 cup chopped cooked prunes.
Heat drippings, add onion and cook 3 minutes. Mix bread crumbs with salt and prunes. Stir in onion. Mix well. If stuffing is too dry, add water in which prunes were cooked. Yield: About three cups stuffing. E. M. B.

With eggs a bit lower in price, the harassed housewife can use more of them than has been the case in recent weeks. We suggest this casserole of hard-cooked eggs and oysters, blended with bread crumbs, spices and oyster liquor, as a perfect main dish for a cold winter evening. You'll find the recipe below.

SOAP SAVER.
(Contributed by Mrs. E. Y.)
"Those annoying, slippery little bits of hand and bath soap can't go wasted these days. We put them into a jar, wait until there is a goodly collection, and then melt them down with a very little water over a slow fire. When all melted, we pour them back into the jar, and have a fine soap jelly to use in laundering very fine underwear, sheer hose—and even for washing the children's hands!"

HOME BAKED YEAST BREAD.
(In Response to Telephone Request.)
Straight Dough Method:
2 cups scalded milk, water or "potato water."
1/2 oz. compressed yeast.
6 to 6 1/2 cups flour.
1 tablespoon salt.
2 tablespoons sugar.
2 tablespoons fat.
Crumble yeast in 1/4 cup of the liquid, when lukewarm. (For preparation of potato water, see below.) To the rest of the liquid, add the fat, sugar and salt. When lukewarm, add the dissolved yeast, one-half of the flour and beat. Add the remaining flour gradually. Toss on flour board and knead until smooth and elastic. Place in bowl, cover, let rise until doubled. Shape into loaves. Place in greased pans. Let rise until dough is nearly to top of pan. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 45 minutes, or until bread shrinks from pan.

Sponge Method.
1 cup scalded milk, water or "potato water."
1 teaspoon sugar.
2 cups flour.
1/2 ounce compressed yeast.
Crumble the yeast with the sugar and add the liquid when lukewarm; stir in the flour and beat to a smooth batter. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. This part of the bread is called the sponge and is mixed with the following ingredients to make a stiff dough:
1 cup scalded milk.
2 tablespoons fat.
1 tablespoon salt.
1 tablespoon sugar.
4 cups flour.
Pour the milk over the fat, salt and sugar. When lukewarm add the sponge above. Stir in the remaining flour gradually. Toss on lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic. Place in bowl, cover, let rise until doubled. Shape into loaves, place in greased pan and let rise until dough is nearly to top of pan.

Eggs 'n' Oysters Long Island

Chop six hard-boiled eggs fine. Add these to 1 pint of breadcrumbs. Season with 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon white pepper and 1/2 teaspoon mace. Put a layer of this mixture in the bottom of a well-greased casserole. Then arrange a layer of the best oysters, alternating with egg mixture until the casserole is full. Arrange a layer of crumbs on top. Take 2 large tablespoons butter, dot on top, pour in oyster liquor and bake in a 450-degree F. oven 20 minutes. Serves eight.

Potato Water.
Potato water helps keep bread moist and also hastens the rising. To make potato water (1 cup) wash and peel 1 or 2 potatoes, cover with boiling water and when thoroughly cooked drain off and save potato water. Mash potato fine and add to potato water.

Dinner From New Orleans

Famous Restaurateurs Give Secrets Of Two Most Cherished Recipes

By the Victory Chef

I wonder if you'd like to travel to New Orleans with me and there we shall select a few wonderful "native" recipes and cook these dishes for our Victory dinner.
We shall not stray—in fact, we shall probably get up from the table telling ourselves we have overaten in a big way. But it will be truly a Victory dinner—for we shall use only half a pound of ground beef for the meat ingredient in the main course.
Then we'll have a wonderful and piquant salad and then dessert in the approved Creole manner.

Here is the menu:
Spaghetti Felice
A Salad of Tomatoes Audibert
Compot of Fruits au Kirshoff
Coffee

The spaghetti recipe was given me by my friend M. Felice, the charming captain at Arnaud's very good restaurant. And the salad really started out in Grenoble in France and was touched up in New Orleans by another very good friend, Francois Audibert. We shall enjoy a bottle of good dry red wine—and that shall come from California—with an honest label on the bottle which does not insult our intelligence before we can taste the wine itself. But more as to that anon.

THE SPAGHETTI FELICE.
First you mince one large or two small onions and cook until tender (but not browned), in half a cup of good olive oil. Now add a quart can of tomatoes and one small can of tomato paste. Next add one rubbin' of garlic minced fine, one level teaspoon cayenne, one tablespoon thyme or marjoram, and salt and pepper to taste. In the meantime, while this sauce is cooking, fry half a pound of ground beef in a little fat, stirring steadily and keeping the meat from forming a mass. When the meat is nicely browned, add it to the sauce.

Take the contents of a small can of mushrooms, or the same amount cooked fresh mushrooms, chop fine and have ready to add to the sauce shortly before using. Keep the sauce simmering. Don't let it dry out. The flavor improves with time.
Now take a 1-pound piece of cheese of the Parmesan type—there are good American cheeses of this type which may be found in most good food shops everywhere but surely in Italian neighborhood stores. Grate this. It will make about four cups.

Now cook the spaghetti. Bring plenty of water to the boiling point. Salt the water. Put the spaghetti in and cook rapidly until it is tender—but not soft as you try it with your thumbnail. Then run the spaghetti into a colander, let plenty of cold water dash through it to wash off the starch. Drain well and put back into the kettle in which it was cooked. Toss in a good lump of butter or margarine and let it melt in the spaghetti. Then toss in a cup of the grated cheese and mix it around. Now, on a large platter, place a quantity of the spaghetti, pour a liberal amount of sauce over it and it is ready to serve. Sprinkle with cheese and serve the rest of the

Bluefish Here From Florida

Another welcome arrival from Florida waters which bids fair to remain throughout the winter is the fine-tasting bluefish, reports the Fishery Council. Gracefully shaped, with a rather long head, large mouth and forked tail, the bluefish gets its name from the deep blue color which shades into the green along the side, blending into the silvery color of the belly.

A fish of wide distribution, it occurs in the warmer parts of the Atlantic and Indian Oceans. On the Atlantic Coast of America it ranges from Maine to or beyond Venezuela. On the coast of the United States it is taken in commercial quantities from Massachusetts to Florida. In some localities the small fish are called "tailors" and are sometimes known as "snapping mackerel" and "greenfish."
The sportsman's delight attains a length of 3 feet 9 inches and a weight of 27 pounds. However, the general run is about 1 to 4 pounds, although 10 or 15 pounders are occasionally caught. Curiously enough, the average size of the bluefish in the northern part of its range is greater than in the southern.

Very little is known about the life history of this "terror of the seas." It is believed to spawn off shore during the summer, for the larvae have been found some distance at sea, but the eggs of the bluefish remain unknown, and the rate of growth and age at which the first spawning occurs have never been determined.

"Never had baking come out so nice and tender!" ... say Washington Homemakers

... uses mostly left-overs to make a real "party" dish ... serves 6 economically

TEMPERATURE: 425° F.

- 5 tablespoons fat or dripping, melted
- 1 tablespoon PILLSBURY'S BEST Enriched Flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 cup celery salt
- 1/2 cup onion powder
- 1 1/2 cups milk or vegetable water
- 1 1/4 cups chicken broth
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 2 cups diced cooked potatoes
- 1/2 cups (No. 2 can) string beans, well drained
- 1 cup diced cooked carrots

1. Combine fat, flour, and seasonings in saucepan and cook until thick and smooth. 2. Add chicken, onion powder, celery salt, Worcestershire sauce, and milk. 3. Add remaining ingredients and cook until thoroughly heated. 4. Turn into 12 x 6 x 2-inch casserole. Place in hot oven to heat through thoroughly at same time the turnovers are baking.

It's every woman's ambition to have all her baking come out full-bodied and satisfying, yet so tender it fairly melts in her mouth. And that's the reason for the "tender" blend of wheats in Pillsbury's Best. Some wheat are strong and full-bodied; others are tender and delicate. Pillsbury's "tender blend" is a scientific mixture of these different fine wheats. See how this fine all-purpose flour gives delicate tenderness to all your baking—from wholesome bread to the loveliest biscuits, cakes, and pastry.

Chicken Turnovers

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 1/2 cups PILLSBURY'S BEST Enriched Flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 4 to 5 tablespoons cold water

1. Pan-fry onion in fat until tender; remove from pan. 2. Sift flour into remaining pastry pieces over the mix-ure. Add chicken and seasonings. 3. Cut in short-ening, measure, add salt, stir again. 4. Cut in short-ening a little at a time, until dough is moist enough to hold together. 5. Roll out on a lightly floured board to about 1/8-inch thickness. Cut with floured-thin-sharp cutter into 12 pieces. 6. Place about 2 tablespoons of above chicken mix-ure on half the pastry. 7. Fold over opposite edges, seal with fork. 8. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven. When done, arrange turnovers over top of casserole. Garnish with parsley and pimiento. Serve.

Note: If desired, turnovers may be made by cutting pastry into six 4-inch squares. Place chicken mix-ure on half of pastry, moisture edges slightly, fold over opposite edges, seal with fork.

For better bread—stick to the "tender blend" flour. Thanks to its "tender blend" of wheats, Pillsbury's sure on half of pastry, moisture edges slightly, fold over opposite edges, seal with fork.

See how this fine all-purpose flour gives delicate tenderness to all your baking—from wholesome bread to the loveliest biscuits, cakes, and pastry.

FOOD RATIONING HINTS

Make your rationed foods go further by serving, plentifully, baked goods and bread to keep meals satisfying and nourishing.

For example: Bake meat pies with fluffy biscuit topping. Stretch the meat ration with flour-thickened gravy. Serve meat stews with tender dumplings. Stretch canned vegetables in souffles or with flour-thickened sauces. Stretch canned fruits in puddings, cobblers, shortcakes.

Remember that when you use enriched white flour—which fortunately is plentiful—you further your government's nutrition program.

I'm sure 'GAME' for it!

Epheures swear that meat, fish and game are not the same without a dash of savory C. & B. Meat Sauce to add real, honest-to-goodness flavor. Try it.

Butter Sent to Russia Helped Roll Germans Back, Wickard Says

Answers Criticism of U. S. Sending 'Less Than 1 Pct. of Its Supply'

By the Associated Press
CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—Butter shipments to Russia last year were only a fraction of the Nation's supply, Secretary Wickard has disclosed, and he believes there is no justification for any criticism of the amount sent to the United States ally.

The Secretary of Agriculture in reporting that 1942 butter shipments to Russia were 17,000,000 pounds, said "there has been criticism of our sending even that much." He disclosed the amount was "about one-tenth as much as our Army required, and less than 1 per cent of our total supply."

"I don't believe we should begrudge a small shipment of butter to an ally who is fighting as bravely and is doing so much to bring the final downfall of Hitler's power," Mr. Wickard said in a speech to the National-American Wholesale Grocers' Association.

"In fact, the butter shipments that both our people were a small fraction of the fats and oils we sent to Russia. The Russian soldiers are spreading fat on their black bread. They are eating the tallow and the lard. The Russians especially want some of their fats to be in the form of butter for their soldiers—the soldiers who are rolling back the Germans in subzero fighting. I am glad we could send it to them, and I am sure you are, too."

Military and lease-lend needs took between 12 and 13 per cent of last year's food production, Mr. Wickard said, with nearly all the lease-lend food divided between Russia and Great Britain and other parts of the empire. He said food shipments to Russia were, for the first time, larger in December than the combined shipments that month to the United Kingdom and other British destinations.

"Practically all of the food we sent to Russia went directly to the Red Army," Mr. Wickard told the grocery executives. "Wherever it went along the long eastern front it helped deal the heaviest blows that have staggered Hitler's army. I am proud to think that American food helped break the siege of Leningrad, helped hold Stalingrad, and helped crack the Nazi lines in the Caucasus."

Women's Reserve to Free Marines for Combat Duty

By the Associated Press
Lt. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, commandant of the marines, announced today the establishment of a Marine Corps Women's Reserve.

The women are to relieve trained marines for combat duty.

Gen. Holcomb said that the women's reserve still was in the "planning stage" and applications would not be received before February 15.

Informed persons said today that Mrs. Thomas W. Streeter, attorney of Morristown, N. J., would head the reserve. There was no confirmation of this report from official Navy or marine sources.

The feminine marines will have no official abbreviated name such as the WAVES, WAACS and SPARS of the Navy, Army and Coast Guard. Their full title will be United States Marine Corps Women's Reserve.

Unit Suspends Collection Of Magazines for Camps

Because of the difficulty in arranging for delivery of magazines to nearby Army camps, their collection has been temporarily discontinued by the Silver Spring unit of the women's activities section of Montgomery County civilian defense, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. C. W. Mitchell, area chairman for Silver Spring.

Playing cards, small games and records are still desired, however, Mrs. Mitchell said, and may be sent to her home at 818 Bonifant street.

Nearly 3,000 fiction, travel and science magazines have been collected. The magazines, together with nearly 100 books, 75 decks of playing cards and 40 boxes of puzzles, have been taken to Fort Meade, Walter Reed Annex and Camp Lewis.

Design Has Feminine Appeal

1735-B/ By Barbara Bell

Talk about feminine appeal—what could have more of it than this bewitching, be-ruffled blouse, skirt and suspender outfit? The blouse is exquisitely designed with a frilly look at neck and wrist and the skirt with accompanying suspenders is one of the delightful fashions of the season.

Barbara Bell pattern No. 1735-B is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 28, 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 12 (30) blouse with long sleeves requires 1 1/2 yards 35 or 39 inch material, skirt and suspenders 2 yards.

Science Note, Nation's Health Depends on Diet

By Sara Kirstein
From a nutritive standpoint the well-being of the United States and the whole world will be affected by medical experts' ability to educate people to the far-reaching benefits of a simple daily diet. One of the leaders in this work is Dr. William De Kleine, until recently medical director of the American Red Cross. Dr. De Kleine's reputation as "nutrition expert" is well earned by virtue of a brilliant career dating back to 1914, when he left a well-established medical practice in the Midwest to enter public health service. Not the least of his accomplishments are his trail-blazing in the early campaign against tuberculosis, his work in child-care education under the Commonwealth Fund of New York and his research into the possibilities of dried blood plasma. Actually, however, his success in practically reducing the death rate from pellagra in the South brought recognition of the much-discussed dry yeast, which promises to bring to a Nation already facing shortages in many staple foods, not only a substitute but

Now that pellagra is no longer as prevalent, dry yeast has been turned to the task of supplying vitamin B to the Nation. According to Dr. De Kleine, 50 per cent of this country's population is suffering from a deficiency in vitamin B.

As shortages in our staple articles of diet increase, Dr. De Kleine points out that supplemental forms of vitamins will become more and more important. A balanced diet is the best way to universal health, he notes, but when such a diet becomes impractical, due to the exigencies of wartime, other sources of the needed food components must be introduced. Hence the ever-growing interest of scientists in vitamin concentrates and in the dry yeast.

Baby Chicks Rushed to Help Overcome Shortage of Meat

By the Associated Press
SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 28.—Baby chicks are rushing the season to solve the meat shortage—even though the Army has taken most of their cod liver oil.

Post office clerks already are sorting mail to the echoing cheep! cheep! of thousands of chicks, moving in their perforated cardboard boxes, from commercial hatcheries to farm brooder houses a full month ahead of schedule.

They'll make the earliest—and possibly the biggest—crop of spring flocks that Ozark Mountain folk have yet produced, shippers predicted.

Without an early start, hatcheries at Clinton, Mo., alone shipped 118 carloads of baby chicks through Springfield terminals in four months last year. And there'll be millions of pounds of extra fowl this year, hatcherymen say.

The growing fowl will have to eat lots of greens this spring, though, suggests C. T. Patterson, operator of Missouri's biggest poultry farm and former head of the State poultry experiment station at Mountain Grove.

American Air Force pilots, he explained, are getting most of the cod liver oil that used to furnish vitamins in powdered pure yeast taken by Sunshine, greens and yellow corn will do as well, he reassured his neighbors.

IDAHO MEAL TICKETS

Bake large Idaho Russet Potatoes in hot (450°) oven about 50 min. Cut off tops, scoop out potato and mash, adding butter, salt and hot milk. Fill shells with creamed chicken, vegetables or meat. Top with seasoned mashed Idaho, add butter. Brown in oven.

LESS PEELING WASTE—BETTER COOKING TASTE!

Idahos go farther and taste better. When you boil Idaho Russets, be sure to start them in small amount of cold salted water. Cover them tightly. When boiling, reduce heat and simmer. Never overcook Idaho potatoes.

LOOK FOR MY RUSSET BROWN COLOR AND NETTED SKIN

You can always tell an Idaho Russet. Its skin is deep golden brown and has an even net-texture. Watch for them at your grocer's. Ask for them Idaho Russet Potatoes.

Plain Wall Surfaces

Insulating board planks come in sheets as large as 12 feet long by 4 feet wide. These large pieces can be turned lengthwise, and one piece will finish an entire upper wall 12 feet long.

Many decorators always think of panels only 6 or 8 inches wide, and object to the effect of breaking up the wall space every few inches. An attractive application of these larger planks was recently made in a basement gameroom. A ship motif was cleverly carried out. Panels (4x12 feet) were used on the upper wall. Seagulls were painted on the smooth blue surface and life preservers were hung around the room.

Bootlegging of Sliced Bread Reported in New York City

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Has the missus learned to slice bread yet? Does your sandwich require excessive muscular effort to force it into your mouth?

If the unsliced bread situation has you down, you can apparently pull your hat low, slip into some stores here and murmur, "Joe sent me. How about a sliced loaf?" And you'll get it.

That is the general accusation made by several bakeries against other bread dealers, says the temporary food industries committee, which is investigating the charges of bootlegged sliced bread in violation of the Agriculture Department's slice-your-own order.

De Witt C. Reed, manager of the new complaints department of the committee, clarified the order which might never have led to bootlegging if the American people hadn't gone so whole-heartedly for an invention named after an honorable English gentleman of the 18th century, John Montagu, fourth Earl of Sandwich.

Under the amended food distribution order No. 1 all bread slicing is prohibited unless done at the place of consumption, Mr. Reed pointed out. Before the amendment, early this week, the order had a loophole which permitted small stores, bakeries and delicatessens to slice the bread on their own machines, while the large manufacturing bakers were not permitted to do so.

Mr. Reed said one instance of a merchant slicing bread for his customers with a knife was reported. Taboo, brother, taboo.

It is an extra service, violates the purpose of the order, which was designed to prevent a rise in bread costs, Mr. Reed explained.

Furthermore, he said, it gives the slicer an unfair competitive advantage.

Your word may be as good as your bond—but Uncle Sam would rather have the bond.

ODT Aide Assails Arnold Bus Line on Cut in Service Firm Called Only One In This Area Failing To Comply With Order

The Arnold-operated bus, in opposing an ODT proposal to make Rosslyn its terminal on Sundays, is the only line in the Washington area that thus far has refused to comply with an ODT order issued last April with respect to conserving public transportation equipment.

Mr. Diehl said that in April, Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, announced that wherever possible, paralleling street car and bus lines should be curtailed.

Such a policy has been followed in Washington and throughout the country, Mr. Diehl asserted. For example, he continued, the Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Bus Co. is now engaged in a program of turning most of its buses around at Barney Circle, while the Montgomery Bus Lines Co. will suspend its downtown operations and use the Tenleytown car barn as its terminal beginning February 12.

Only the Arnold-operated line—the Washington, Virginia and Maryland Coach Co.—is refusing to take similar action and is opposing the ODT proposal, he added. Admitting that the rate problem is the principal stumbling block in the proposal, Mr. Diehl said he did not think bus riders should pay two fares or even an increased fare. If the proposal is approved, he explained, passengers would pay one fare on the Arnold-operated buses and another when they got on Capital Transit Co. equipment at Rosslyn.

Points for Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE.

Whether or not a child comes to his parents with his difficulties depends largely upon his previous experiences.

Ann: "I felt so bad about it, mother. I couldn't wait to get home and tell you... Now I feel a lot better."

May: "Why don't you go tell your mother?" Jean: "I'm afraid. She'd scold me and maybe give me a whipping."

Take My Word for It

By FRANK COLBY.

Most—Almost

This week's slip of the tongue. "Most all the money was spent."

Wrong: "Most everybody were there." No. Decidedly. There are two errors here. Everybody, every one, nobody, no one, etc., are considered as singular. Right: Almost everybody was there.

Wrong: "Most all of the food was gone." Note. It is best usage to omit "of" when using "all" and "the." Correct: Almost all the food was gone. Or: Most of the food was gone.

Wrong: "We were most frozen." This is an especially common error. Better say: We were almost (or nearly) frozen.

Wrong: "We were most nearly there when..." An impossible location. Better say: We were almost (or nearly) there when...

Who are English words so hard to spell? The difficulty is not in the words themselves, but in the fact that English is a composite language made up of Anglo-Saxon, French, Latin, Greek and Spanish. Most of the words in the English language were introduced into the language by some of these other languages. This is why it is so hard to spell. 84-Pound Girl Welder Starts on War Job

By The Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—When Dorothy Josephine Baumgartner saw one of those sizzling high-powered welding outfits, she was captivated. Yesterday she finished a NYA training course and, a full fledged welder now, left to take a job in an airplane parts factory.

Dorothy is 18 years old, 4 feet 4 inches in height, and weighs 84 pounds.

Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Chatterer the Red Squirrel sat in the doorway of his winter home, which, you know, was the summer home of Drummer the Woodpecker, and Chatterer was doing some hard thinking. Right down in his heart he was almost sure that Farmer Brown's boy was ready and willing to be the friend of all the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows, just as Tommy Tit the Chickadee had said a day or two before. But, somehow, it was dreadfully hard to really and truly believe it. It always is hard work to believe a thing when you always have believed just the other way around. All, or nearly all, the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows had looked on Farmer Brown's boy as their greatest enemy for so long that even when Tommy Tit did what he had said he would do and ate from the hand of Farmer Brown's boy, it was hard to believe that others could do the same thing. And yet, Tommy Tit insisted they could.

"If you and Farmer Brown's boy are not friends it is all your own fault," said Tommy. "How can you expect him to be friendly if you always run away and never give him a chance? All he wants is a chance to be friendly. I know, because I have proved it. I trusted him and now he is the best friend I have."

"I suppose," said Chatterer to himself as he thought it all over, "I suppose that I could try for myself."

Nature's Children

COMMON HALIBUT (H. Hippoglossus.)

On October 15, 1942, we had on hand 13,927,000 pounds of frozen halibut. Stocks of frozen fishery products reached 113,500,000 pounds on that date.

Halibut, the largest member of the flounder family, is found in all northern seas. It prefers the deep valleys and gulches between offshore banks, burying itself in the sand to hide from its foes and to capture its prey. For this reason, nature has placed the eyes of the halibut on the sides.

At one time, cod fishermen on the New England banks considered the halibut a pest because of their determination to steal cod from their nets. However, it was not long before the merits of the halibut was realized, and the fishermen were only too willing to go as far as the Grand Banks of Newfoundland to bring this fish to the Eastern market.

Today, it is one of the delicacies of the table, and nearly every market of so that you see "broiled or baked halibut."

A halibut matures when 11 years old and may live to be 40. The older females weigh as much as 300 to 400 pounds. A male in his prime will weigh 80 pounds. As a rover, he searches the sea floor to depths of 2,000 feet or more for mussels, clams, very brave. No one with such a pleasant smile could be very bad at heart. Perhaps Tommy Tit was right, after all. He was not thinking it all over and try again the next day. So he scampered back to his home in the Old Orchard, taking the fat nut with him, and as he ran he could hear Tommy Tit.

"Dee, dee, dee! See me! See me! What are you afraid of, Mr. Fraydy?" called Tommy Tit.

Chatterer felt his mouth water as he looked with longing eyes at the fat hickory nut. And it hurt his pride to hear little Tommy Tit laughing at him. He suddenly shut his teeth with a snap and darted forward to his teeth and then back to the safety of the Old Orchard. Not until he was there did he dare to so much as look to see what Farmer Brown's boy was doing. When he did look he found that Farmer Brown's boy hadn't moved. He was smiling, and somehow that smile made Chatterer suddenly feel crabs and fishes of flat form. Often, he will lie on the mud to watch for his prey.

Young halibut swim upright and have their eyes in the opposite sides of their head. As they grow, the head twists sidewise and the left eye actually moves to the right side. Youthful halibuts remain for some time in the "nursery area" but adult members of the family are wide rangers. Scientific studies have been made to establish the roaming instincts of the older halibuts; those tagged on the Alaska Peninsula have been caught 200 miles from the place of tagging.

Today, the Pacific halibut fishery is carried on in the most efficient administration possible. In this way, the fishing, the use of the proper fishing gear and the careful research done to protect the stock, will benefit the fishermen as well as the consumer. Since we have been made aware of the importance of fish in our diet and the substitution of more fish for the meats needed for our Army, it is good news to know that our halibut and other favorite fish are not only protected, but abundant for our needs.

Teacher Is Found Guilty Of Whipping Boy With Strap

By The Associated Press.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 28.—Mrs. Susie Lorimore, 36, teacher in a Phoenix denominational school, was convicted of aggravated assault after admitting she had strap-whipped five-year-old pupil because of his "defiant attitude."

Mrs. Hazel Fay Schulze told the court yesterday her son, Jimmy Hoffman, bore at least 25 marks on his back after the alleged beating.

The boy's grandmother, Mrs. Maude J. testified she heard the sound of the whipping from outside the school building. Her grandson's screams, "Oh, please quit. I won't do it," brought her into the classroom where Mrs. Lorimore, the mother of six children, told her the child had been guilty of misbehavior, she said.

Mrs. Lorimore was released on her own recognizance pending sentence February 8.

A. P. Requested to Answer Questions Filed by U. S.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The Anti-Trust Division of the Justice Department filed in Federal District Court yesterday 127 questions which the Associated Press is asked to answer in the Government's monopoly suit against the non-profit news-gathering organization.

Associated Press counsel explained the Government's newest move in the case is not unusual in anti-trust proceedings. The A. P. counsel added, has 15 days in which to answer the interrogations, unless the time is extended by the court on request of the defendants. Although it is not generally done, the attorney said, the A. P. could file cross-questions of its own.

The questions deal with the operations of the co-operative and its subsidiaries and asked detailed information on the wires leased, number of employees, cost of operations, methods of gathering and handling the news.
