Justice Lett's decision followed an OPA appeal from a PUC order which permitted the gas company to increase its rates by approximately $200,000. Notification of the rate increase was given the Government October 15. The rates were increased November 16.

The effect of today's ruling is to vacate the commission's order raising the rates. Legal counsel for the gas company, however, indicated it is possible that the present rates may remain in effect pending an appeal of the District Court decision to the United States Court of Appeals. In addition to the Government price-fixing agencies, the Washington League of Women Shoppers and various civic bodies attacked the PUC order increasing the gas

Justice Letts ruled that the league and the civic groups are voluntary unincorporated associations and are "without capacity" to sue, and accordingly "may not prosecute this appeal." The court therefore granted the PUC motions to dismiss the complaints of these groups.

Certain Actions Held Illegal. Branding certain commission actions in the hearings as "arbitrary and illegal," Justice Letts wrote: 'True, some of the evidence offered by the appellants to broaden the scope of inquiry was received. I think upon the record it is clear that the commission regarded the inquiry within narrow limits and within the scope of the order of March 20 as interpreted by the commission and that the commission closed its ears to the insistent demand of appellants to give consideration to the new factors required by the Act of October 2, 1942 (a Price Control Act Amendment)

Air Battles Accompany Bitter Action; Axis Loses 19 Planes

Po the Associated Press.

American forces have smashed forward in three sectors of Tunisia against heavy Axis opposition, mainly in the direction of Maknassy, an Allied spokesman announced today at Allied headquarters in North Africa.

Aerial battles accompanied the bitter ground action which may lead to the long-awaited general offensive and the final battle for North Africa. The air fighting was officially reported to have cost the Germans 19 planes, against a loss of 5 Allied aircraft.

At the same time, a Cairo communique announced occupation of Zuara, 65 miles west of Tripoli, by the British 8th Army, the main body of which is rolling forward again today less than 35 miles from the Tunisian frontier.

They will be able to "police" and see that approved use is made of the materials. Allocations already have been worked out on paper. Actual cutting of the "materials pie" will take place later in the week. Allotments are to be made strictly on an end-product basis, that is, so much for guns, so much for tanks, ships, planes, raillease-lend on so on.

For weeks top WPB men have been engaged in getting in the production program of the 14 claimant agencies for materials before the Requirements Committee, fitting them into an overall program that will not call for more materials than German siege force of 330,000 men will be available in the April 1which Adolf Hitler boasted never June 30 period. Plant stoppages for lack of material will be a thing of the past, since each factory will know precisely the quantity of materials it is to get and will be able to plan production accurately in advance. Officials predict the output of war goods will be

A large share of credit in working out the overall war program was given to Ferdinand Eberstadt, program vice chairman of WPB and head of the Requirements Committee. In balancing the materials budget, extensive use was made for the first time of the controlled materials plan, which is the placing of the priority system as a means for distributing copper, steel and aluminum. CMP, as the new plan is called officially, was developed by Mr. Eberstadt, and it was said he also worked tirelessly in formulating

In mapping future allotments of materials officials admit that programs for production of civilian goods were hard hit and held to a minimum. In setting civilian quotas a policy calling for repair and rebuilding of things was Two Giant Clippers Took adopted rather than one for manufacture of new goods. This policy was pursued not only for such civilian things as household goods but also for equipment for railroads, for war housing and farm machinery. WPB experts say that only $67,-600,000,000 in goods and services will be available for civilians this year, a reduction from the rate of the last quarter of 1942 of 18 per only mountains and the Black Sea cent. Army, Navy Slow War Production, Jeffers Charges

House Unit Told Interference Delays Rubber Output Also

By JAMES E. CHINN.

Army and Navy interference is seriously delaying production in vital defense plants of the country, Rubber Director William M. Jeffers charged today before a joint Naval and Military Affairs Subcommittee of the House. "It seems to me," he declared, the job of the Army and Navy is to fight and not attempt to run

Mr. Jeffers also complained thatcontroversies over priorities have delayed development of the synthetic rubber production program. 18 "The whole controversy has been in getting priorities from the War Production Board," he said. "The worst difficulty is to get decisions' as to what is first and what is second. There are too many people still experting on the rubber pro-

Decision "Don't Stick." Mr. Jeffers pointed out there have been a "lot of conferences" about priorities for the plants which he hoped would relieve the rubber shortage by the production of synthetics, but as yet no decisions had been made that "seem to stick." In response to a direct question, he said, it was up to Donald W. Nelson, chairman of WPB to make the final decisions.

The rubber director was called before the joint committee, which is studying the war production program primarily to answer state...

spect to "loafers" was this:

"If we can keep the Army and Navy and these loafers out of these plants we will get production out."

Later the rubber director testified he had been told the Navy had from 10,000 to 15,000 "expediters" scattered throughout defense production plants, and, he understood the Navy is still seeking more. "Filling up these plants with socalled expediters who tell the superintendent how to run his own shop," he declared, "are among those things that are delaying produc-

He declared further that "interference" in production by the armed forces appeared to him to be an attempt to impede his own duties as prescribed by President Roosevelt at the time of his appointment. In support of his contention, Mr. Jeffers read excerpts from a letter he received from a defense worker whose name he asked the joint committee to treat as "confidential."

Worker's Letter Quoted. One paragraph of this letter read: "Many inspectors, or loafers as ou call them, certainly impede production. They seem to think we arebuilding ornaments instead of armaments." The letter also said it is "common knowledge" that a great deal of time is lost in the production plants processing war materials. Mr. Jeffers pointed out that between the spring of 1942, up to the time the Baruch rubber report was submitted to the President, little progress had been made in the development of synthetic rubber due to "confusion, clashes of personalties, too much experting and too little two-fisted direction. Mr. Jeffers pointed out he made his first "progress" report as rubber.

Formula Is Mapped On Disposal of U. S. Projects in Canada

Governments Work Out Post-War Liquidation In Exchange of Notes

OTTAWA, Ontario, Peb. 1 .-- A permanent formula for the postwar liquidation of defense projects constructed in Canada by the United States is provided in an exchange of notes between the governments of the two countries, presented in the House of Commons today by Prime Minister Mackenzie King. The formula decrees that all im-

He pointed out the synthetic rubber production program cailed for the use of certain critical materials materials that are vitally needed to produce high octane gasoline for fighting planes and for convoys escorting ships carrying American soldiers and supplies to the battle zones of the United Nations. Escaped Massigli to Get De Gaulle Appointment

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The escape of Rene Massigli from France within the past few days will lead to the appointment of another prominent Frenchman to Gen. Charles de Gaulle's French National Committee in London, and one who will be able to speak with authority of conditions prevailing in France today. M. Massigli, well known in the world of diplomacy before the war, intended to come to London with Gen. D'Astier de la Vigerie and both had laid plans for their escape. M. Massigli was caught by the French police at the direction of the Germans on the very eve of his departure. Gen. De la Vigerie arrived in London over a month ago but M. Massigli managed to escape his captors and is here now.

M. Massigli was pre-war head of the political division of the Quai D'Orsay but disagreed on France's Munich policy and so was sent to Turkey as ambassador at the beginning of 1939. His anti-Nazi views and antipathy to Vichy led to his recall from Turkey in the summer 1940. He had been living in semihiding in the South of France and planned to escape from there when the Germans occupied Vichy France. Copyright, 1943, by Chicago Daily News consisted in a reference to Lincoln's famous Gettysburg Address as having been composed while Lincoln was riding on a train toward Gettysburg-jotting down the words of the immortal speech on the back of an envelone he took from his pocket. That story belongs in the class with the Parson Weems account of how the youthful George Washington said:

Toscanini Changes Verdi Hymn Phrase To 'Italy Betrayed'

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Feb. 1.-The words "Italia, Patria Mia"-"Italy, My Homeland" in Verdi's "Hymn of the Nations," were altered to "Italia Tradita"-"Italy Betrayed," by Arture Toscanini as he led the NBC Symphony Orchestra in the score for the first time yesterday afternoon

Composed for orchestra, chorus and solo voices, the words of the famous composer were rewritten by the noted conductor in his own hand.

In 1931, Mussolini attempted to force Toscanini to play the Fascist hymn, and when he refused to do so had him beaten by gangsters.

TODAY IS OUR 100th BIRTHDAY

ON February 1, 1843, Mutual Life's Policy No. 1, in the amount of $5,000, was issued on the life of Thomas N. Ayres, a New York business man. This was the first life insurance policy issued in America by any company operating on the mutual plan. Today we enter our second century of service to American families, with nearly 1,000,000 policyholders, more than $31/2 billions of insurance in force and-we hope-some of the foresight and courage of our founders.

From the beginning, The Mutual Life was a distinctive American institution, operated in the public interest. It was the first company to return its earnings solely to its own policyholders . . . first to entrust the conduct of its affairs to trustees representative of its policyholders . . . first to develop the "agency system". We salute our own agency force and those of other life insurance companies for the public service they have performed in educating American families to the benefits of life insurance.

Their soundness has been proved by a century of performance through wars, depressions and other catastrophes. The Mutual Life in the last 100 years has paid more than $41/2 billions in benefits to policy. holders and their beneficiaries. Today it is a national institution, with offices in 47 States and the District of Columbia. We had originally planned a nation-wide 100th Birthday Celebration, but have laid those plans aside to help conserve men, materials and transportation for a sterner purpose. Later, perhaps, our Centennial can be observed by combining it with a Victory Celebration after America has triumphed in this war for Freedom and Security. And triumph we will!

Rehabilitate Lands, Drum Tells Graduates

Commencement Held at G. U.; Rear Admiral Young Receives Degree

American soldiers "face the greatest task of pioneering that any Army has ever undertaken in rehabilitating, as well as liberating, the conquered peoples of the world," Lt. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commanding general of the Eastern Defense Command of the 1st Army, declared yesterday at commencement exercises of Georgetown University.

Concurrently with the fighting, he said that American soldiers will furnish news as well as food and medicine to the people of lands freed from the foe and that later Government bureaus will perform these

The Very Rev. Lawrence C. Gorman, S. J., president, conferred an honorary degree of doctor of military science on Gen. Drum and also honored a high-ranking naval commander and a civilian at the 144th annual commencement, the first held in midwinter. Rear Admiral William Brent Young, paymaster general of the Navy and chief of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts. was made a doctor of law. So also was John J. McShain, building contractor of Philadelphia and Washington. The former was graduated from Georgetown law school in 1915 and practiced law here before going into the Navy in 1917. Mr. McShain attended the college in his

All German Sea Power Will Be Concentrated In Attacks, Doenitz Says

the Associated Press. LONDON, Feb. 1.-Germany menaced the Allies today with the threat of a greater submarine war, backed by the total power of the Nazi Navy. Her warning of what the Allies were expecting, a desperate effort

Match Spark Blamed For Seattle Hospital Fire, Killing 30

Three Missing Patients Feared Dead; 2 of 17 Rescued May Not Live

B: the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 1.-A match head flying from the hands of a stove repairman started flash flames surging through the frame structure of a suburban sanatorium yesterday and brought death to at least 30 persons in the worst disaster of its kind this area ever has known.

Twenty-eight bodies have been recovered from the mucky ruin that was a refuge for old-age pensioners, aged ill, and a few mental cases. One other inmate died in a hospital and 17 were under treatment today for burns. Two of the rescued are not expected to live.

Three of the 49 patients reported in the building when the fire began were unaccounted for, and officials feared they, too, were dead.

Flames Spread Quickly. The first tongues of fire licked at a lower floor of the Lake Forest Park sanatorium shortly after noon. Almost in a matter of seconds the entire structure was a mass of flame The repairman, M. R. Baird, told Prosecuting Attorney Lloyd P. Shorett that as he finished his task of connecting an outside tank to an oil heater, he lit a match. The head flew off, he said, landing in a pile of waste near the heater.

"In 15 seconds," he added, "the whole room was in flames." Physicians, ambulances and firemen were called from Seattle and surrounding rural communities. They arrived in time only to look on the ruins and help remove bodies of

Secretary and Admirals Under 7-Hour Bombing At Guadalcanal

Fy the Associated Press.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 1 .-Secretary of the Navy Knox has returned from an inspection of far-flung Pacific outposts with the predictions that "there are darn good prospects of an air attack on Tokio" and that "within the next 30 days all organized resistance on Guadalcanal will disappear.

The Secretary, who stopped here briefly yesterday en route back to Washington on his 20,000-mile inspection trip, twice within the last two weeks was under Japanese air attack. The first attack was a short one at Espiritu Santo in the New Hebrides and the second, a much heavier one of seven-hour duration, was on Guadalcanal. No casualties were reported in either attack.

With Secretary Knox during the attacks were Admiral Chester W Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet, and Admiral William F. Halsey, commander of the South

"I think the Japs will fight tough, hard, persistent war. I will not discuss strategy, but will say we have just begun to fight and haven't hit our hardest blows yet. "Every base has an abundance of supplies and men are living well and the spirit of our men everywhere is magnificent.

"Our submarines are doing a magnificent job and operations against the Japanese lines of communications are going at a good rate. I think destruction of shipping is a matter of great concern to the Japanese. Knowing their shipping resources and their capabilities of building, we can readily understand their concern."

Bootlegged Products Often as Dangerous As Bathtub Gin

CLEVELAND, Feb. 1-It seems the men who are running this sudden "black market" in meat are lifting their methods, chapter and verse, from the Al Capone era. And for he same reason—high profits. In the Midwest-well, it sounds very much like the days of walking up two flights and asking for Joe In the East, it's a fancy financial transaction masked by phoney sales Here in Cleveland, one of the badly hit cities, the OPA legal counsel, James C. Gruener, says few complaints are coming from customers about excessive prices. He suspects they'd rather have meat and no questions asked.

Policing Difficult, OPA-ers have a minor headache on the policing end. Their appropriation from Congress sets aside no money to buy meat to get evidence. And, prices being what they are, it would take a little more than hay to sample meat prices over just one State. There are solutions for this coming up. But they're sh-sh. Farmers kill more live stock than they used to. The little packing houses do the same That's in spite of the quota which was laid down so hopefully. Only 70 per cent of the live stock slaughtered were supposed to go to civilians. Nobody knows what's happened to that hopeful percentage. Then what happens?

This madhouse is creating scenes that are reminiscent of liquor bootlegging-right down to bathtub gin. Much of this bootlegged meat is slaughtered in insanitary conditions, and none of it passes under Government inspection. City health commissioners are getting gray hairs over the epidemics that could arise as a result OPA hears that some of the bootlegged meat is slaughtered under cover of night, in innocent-looking old barns that never held more than three milk cows. Barns with no sanitary provisions. At midnight trucks pull up in the drifting snow. In lantern light, men hurry the carcasses into the trucks, and the trucks roar off so they can be at the other end of their drive before dawn, and the carcasses safely stowed in back rooms. The farmer quietly gets rid of the evidence and goes to bed with a new bulge in the money sock.

Soups your whole Family will enjoy

It's high time for those hearty, satisfying meal-in-themselves soups to stage a comeback, for they're the kind of offerings that do a nourishing wartime job. Simple though they are, they can offer everything in the way of good eating. And it's just the right time of year to let them do de-

BRING BACK THE SOUP POT - Remember the soup pot that simmered continuously on the back of Grandmother's stove? Every bone, bit of meat trimming, leftover meat, and drippings went into the pot to make a rich stock for a variety of substantial soups. The idea is just as good as it ever was. Save every iota of trimming, rind, scrap and bone, put them in a pot, cover with water, and simmer covered until every bit of good is gleaned from them. Strain from the makings, and you have a rich stock to serve as a basis for soups, gravies and sauces.

BUILDING A SOUP-To this stock, add the water you've saved from cooking vegetables (they've more flavor and vitamins than water), vegetables, rice, barley, spaghetti, potatoes, or anything else that pleases your palate. If you have leftover vegetables, use them. Just heat them in the soup, and be careful not to overcook any of the vegetables, for they'll be mushy and not so appetizing.

Season to taste, and remember that there are other seasonings besides salt and pepper. A dash of meat sauce, catsup, thyme, the juice of a lemon, onion, and garlic are just a few things that will give personality to soups.

CREAMED SOUPS-From the same stock, you can make any number of delicious cream soups. Thicken the stock with 2 thsps. flour and 2 thsps. melted butter or substitute and two cups of milk, plain or diluted evaporated. When thick, add the vegetable waters, about 2 cups, and the cooked vegetables. Mix well and heat to almost boiling and serve in generous

CANNED AND DEHYDRATED SOUPS_ For those quick soups that start the meal off successfully or serve as a light meal in themselves, canned soups or dehydrated soups which come in both cans and packages, are the happy answer. Dilute them if called for with vegetable water if you have it. These soups are downright delicious and do a rollicking good job of supplementing that meat or meatless course.

Mr. Flynn Withdraws

Edward J. Flynn's decision to ask the President to withdraw his nomination to be Minister to Australia seems to offer the best solution of what had become an embarrassing and troublesome problem

When Mr. Flynn announced this step, it had become apparent that the administration lacked the votes to secure his confirmation by the Senate. This was not entirely attributable, as Mr. Flynn implied, to the partisan determination of Republican Senators to vote as a body against him. There was, undoubtedly, a certain element of partisanship in the fight against the nomination. But the inescapable fact is that Mr. Flynn could have been beaten only through the refusal of a substantial minority of his own party to support him, and the latest indications were that nearly onefourth of the Democrats would have voted against confirmation.

The opposition to Mr. Flynn, at the outset, rested largely on complaints impugning his personal integrity. During the committee hearings, however, when all the facts were brought together, it became evident to the fair-minded that these complaints had not been substantiated. But. during these hearings, the committee also went into the question of Mr. Flynn's qualifications for the important diplomatic post to which he had been named, and several influential Senators indicated they would oppose the nomination in the belief that Mr. Flynn was not the best man for the job, especially in view of the prevailing military situation in the Southwest Pacific.

Presumably, the President will grant Mr. Flynn's request for withdrawal of his name rather than force the nomination through to a finish fight. That will give Mr. Roosevelt an opportunity to choose another nominee, and the probabilities are that he can select any one of a number of Democrats for the post without encountering any serious opposition-Republican or otherwise-in the

Blaine Anniversary

Wednesday last was the fiftieth anniversary of the death of James G. Blaine, an American exponent of world polity who, considering the lasting value of his achievements, should be better known to his countrymen. It is not too much to say in his behalf that he was the forerunner of the modern school of thought concerning the position of the United States as a compelling force in international affairs. He revived Henry Clay's doctrine of hemisphere solidarity and put into effect the principle of reciprocity in trade concessions. If only for those services, he merits a generous remembrance.

Mr. Blaine, born at West Brownsville, Pennsylvania, January 31, 1830. was educated at Washington College, and, settling at Augusta Maine, in 1854, became a practical newspaper man. His editorials in the Kennebec Journal and the Portland Advertiser introduced the word "Republican" to the East, and he thus may be regarded as one of the founders of the party so designated beginning in 1856. Elected to Congress in 1863, he was Speaker of the House of Representatives from 1869 to 1875. A Lincoln supporter and a faithful Unionist, he nevertheless "did not share the radicalism and vindictiveness of the extremists," opposed both Thaddeus Stevens and Charles Sumner, disapproved "coercive measures" aimed at the South and emerged from the reconstruction period "with the reputation of a liberal who could . . . be trusted even by the Grand Army." Chosen a Senator in 1876, he resigned to become Secre-1892.

WLB Faces Battle

There is every indication that the War Labor Board is facing the hardest kind of a fight to maintain the wage policy laid down in the socalled Little Steel case last year, and which has been more or less adhered to in subsequent rulings.

Speaking in Boston last week, labor board, said he thought it was a "great tribute to the patience of American industry and labor that they have accepted this annoying, though necessary, curtailment in such a spirit of co-operation." It appears, however, that Mr. Davis was unduly optimistic, for it is evident that important elements in both labor and industry are chafing under the restraint of the Little Steel

Most of the pressure for higher wages, naturally enough, is coming from labor unions, although Mr. Davis has been quoted as saying that 75 per cent of the recent requests for wage and salary increases were made by employers. They do not present a serious problem, however, for the board has demonstrated that it can handle employers. But it has not demonstrated any comparable control over strong labor groups.

For this reason it is disquieting, to say the least, to read that John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, will demand a wage increase of about $2 a day for his miners when their present contract expires in April, although the great majority would not be entitled to any increase under the Little Steel formula. Mr. Lewis is preparing the ground for this fight with a direct attack on what he calls the "arbitrary and miserably stupid (Little Steel) formula," and a general denunciation of the manner in which the Government has handled labor since the no-strike pledge was given. This cannot be dismissed as mere oratory, for Mr. Lewis demonstrated in the captive coal mine fight, in which he wrecked the National Mediation Board, predecessor of WLB, that he is not to be easily put aside. Should he stick to his demands this spring, he members of the labor board will have their hands full. Nor is this outlook brightened any by the equally vigorous demands from the garment workers, a powerful AFL union, and the twenty railway brotherhoods. The latter do not come under the WLB, but if any of these demands is successful, the Little Steel formula, for practical purposes, will be out the window.

These wage demands are not without some justification. The stated purpose of the board's formula was to bring wage earners abreast of a 15 per cent advance in living costs between January 1, 1941, and May, 1942. From then on, in theory, living costs and wages were to be "stabilized." but this stabilization has not prevented a 4 per cent advance in living costs since May, nor has it served invariably to hold wages within the steel formula. Furthermore, the prospects favor a still greater rise in the cost of living, as evidenced by the action of the House Agriculture Committee in voting recently to include all farm labor costs in the determination of parity

The President has said that wage earners must accept a reduced standard of living. But if Congress boosts farm prices it is idle to suppose that wages can be held down. Conversely, if general wage increases are approved it is virtually certain that the farmer will be given more for his products.

This, probably, is the inevitable result of the administration's insistence upon divorcing wage regulation from cost of living control. Had this problem been tackled as a whole, at the outset, through comprehensive legislation, the country might not now be threatened with another inflationary spiral of rising prices and mounting wages. But the chance was missed and the future, certainly for those with relatively fixed in-

New Childbirth Technique

Announcement of "a new type of spinal anesthesia," alleged by its sponsors to make possible "comfortable and painless childbirth," has aroused considerable public interest. The current edition of the Journal of the American Medical Association reproduces the opinions of physicians who have used the new method and tary of State in the cabinet of who therefore are qualified to discuss President James A. Garfield in 1881 | it. Their judgment, it seems, is that and occupied the same position in it is "100 per cent effective." In the treatment, a solution of metycaine is injected into the lower tip of the spine of the patient at intervals during the entire course of labor. The Associated Press explains: "The pain-killing drug bathes the nerves at the end of the spine but does not enter the membranes covering the spinal canal, with the result that the anesthesia does not cause loss of consciousness or hinder muscular movements which have a part in voluntary delivery of the baby." Dr. Hingson and Dr. Edwards have warned their professional colleagues that particular training is needed for the safe and successful performance of the physician's and nurse's work in the circumstances.

Lay commentators naturally will William H. Davis, chairman of the hesitate to express dogmatic views regarding so highly specialized a subject, but it does lie well within their province to point out that while more American babies were born in 1942 than in any previous year in the Nation's history-approximately 2,-800,000, or about 21 per 1,000 population—what really matters in a world where human life is becoming increasingly precious is that both mothers and babies shall survive. Any scientific progress that will contribute toward that objective is certain to be welcomed.

Kacketeering Issue

Nine years after it presumably had disposed of the issue. Congress once again is faced with the question whether racketeering in the guise of labor activity should be given any special exemption under the law. A so-called anti-racketeering statute, designed to clean up a variety of rackets disrupting interstate commerce, was passed in 1934. But when this measure at last found its way to the Supreme Court a year ago that tribunal ruled that Congress had not intended to include unions within the scope of the statute.

The majority decision, delivered by Justice Byrnes, now director of economic stabilization, provoked a sharp dissent from Chief Justice Stone. It was shown that members of the Teamsters Union had been waylaying trucks coming into New York and extorting sums of money equivalent to union wages from the drivers by beating or threatening to beat them. In some cases the union men offered to drive the trucks within the city; in others they simply took the money and disappeared. For the court to condone such practices, the Chief Justice said, would be to sanction what was plain robbery at common law. But the court did sanction it, on the theory that Congress, in passing the law, had intended to exclude unions from its scope.

To overcome the effect of this decision Representative Hobbs of Alabama has introduced an amended anti-racketeering bill, and the House Judiciary Committee has reported it favorably. This brings the question squarely before Congress. Most union spokesmen are opposing the measure, but their opposition is based on the untenable contention that it is not possible to wipe out vicious racketeering which masquerades as union activity without also stifling legitimate labor aspirations. Certainly it should be relatively simple to show that a distinction can be drawn between proper labor practices and outright rackets. If this is done labor will benefit no less than the country as a whole.

Pleasure?

A burning question—that is, a gasoline burning question-nowadays is what to do with belated guests who have, patriotically, walked over earlier in the evening and are therefore temporarily car-less. The weather was fine when they started, and the distance only eight blocks, but now those eight blocks are drenched in pouring rain. They look at it in dismay, and say, hesitatingly, "Will you drive us home?"

One thing seems sure—the host must not make the usual careless retort: "Why, certainly, it's a pleasure." If it's a pleasure—and it may seem like one, when the guests already have stayed an hour longer than they were figured to remain—then it is unpatriotic and illegal to drive them home. On the other hand, keeping them until morning, while the host camps out on a sofa, seems a rather roundabout and unsatisfactory way of winning the war. One solution would be to drive the guests home, after all, but growl at them all the way, so that by no stretch of the imagination could it be called a pleasure trip, and then apologize after the war. This, too, seems rather devious. Will the OPA please clarify this situation?

Price Administrator Prentiss Brown announces he intends to give businessmen a bigger voice in drafting the regulations under which they operate. Possibly if one keeps very quiet, a faint whisper will be heard.

Sees Russian Drives Shifting North

Military Writer Points Out That Balance Sheet Is Heavy Against Germans

By Maj. George Fielding Eliot.

It is beginning to look as though the Germans in Russia are about to lose all the gains of their summer offensive. They are still holding the line of the Donetz but to the north the Russians are going ahead in the Voronezh sector, clearing up the region between the Oskol and the Upper Don, while to the south the relentless advance of Yeremenko and Maslennikov continues in the Tikhoretz has gone the way of Kropotkin and Armavir; only the branch line through Krushevskaya now connects the army of the Caucasus with Rostov, and in Kruschevskaya at this moment the German sentries must be straining their ears for the first rumble of Yeremenko's guns.

Meanwhile, the thrust from the western Caucasus is getting under way and has retaken Maikop, the one tangible asset the Germans acquired in all their Caucasian operations. It looks very much as though the Germans would be unable to retain even a meager foothold in the Caucasian area, and it looks very much as though the steel ring of Russian armies was closing in on Rostov.

So far, so good. Let us suppose that the remaining German positions in the Caucasus are liquidated, and that Rostov is regained by the Russians. Then what will be the over-all picture on the Russian front?

It is roughly this: The Germans will be back where they started last summer. Not quite, of course. They will have a net gain in Sevastopol, net losses in Velikie Luki and Schluesselburg. For their labors and casualties of the campaign, they can count the destruction they have wrought to the industries of the Donetz Basin, of Rostov itself and of Stalingrad. But the balance sheet is otherwise heavily against them, for there can be no question that in dead and wounded, in prisoners, and in losses of military material, the cost of the campaign to them has far exceeded the cost to the Russians.

It will, however, be in the field of morale and prestige that the Germans will have lost most heavily. For the first time since the war began a great German land operation has not only met decisive and unmistakable defeat, but has been rolled back to its starting point, with heavy losses of prisoners and

This is not said in deprecation of what the British have done in Africa but there the Germans had the excuse of poor communications and scanty forces. In Russia they have been beaten in full-scale war, with all the resources of Germany available to sustain the armies that suffered the defeat. It would be easy to explain what happened in Africa, from the viewpoint of German internal morale: it will be impossible to find any satisfactory explanation for what has happened in Russia.

But it would likewise be a mistake for any one to assume that this is final and complete defeat for Germany, or that the Russian Armies are now going to begin a triumphant march which will carry them clear to the Unter Den Linden. They are a long way from

Let us try to examine the position from the Russian point of view, assuming the Germans to be back at their winter line of last year. There is some reason to think that having cleared Rostov and the Donetz Basin, the Russians might continue the pressure in the direction of Kursk and Kharkov, but what they actually do in those areas seems likely to depend on the determination with which they are resisted.

If the Germans show signs of cracking, the Russians may go ahead. But I should think it very possible that the main weight of the Russian offensive might be shifted to the north. In the north the Russians have two very considerable advantages-the raising of the siege of Leningrad and the capture of Velikie Luki. In the north, also, they are much closer to actual German territory than in the south, and the Finns are clearly wavering in their allegiance to their Nazi alliance. The Russians might very well, therefore, concentrate their next effort on smashing once and for all the stubborn German resistance in Rzhev, and in the twin fortresses of Lake Ilmen-Novgorod and Staraya Russa. Having done this, they could look forward to clearing most of the shore of the Gulf of Finland, and perhaps regaining Smolensk and the line of the Dvina. It is doubtful whether the Germans have sufficient reserves to make good their Northern positions, and there might be a general withdrawal before heavy Russian pressure. Meanwhile, in the south, the major Russian operation might be a repetition of last winter's campaign for the recovery of the Crimea. which, if successful, would enable the Russians to resume their old mastery of the Black Sea, and might by land compel a German withdrawal behind the Dnieper.

The great point to be kept in mind is the position next year. Will the Germans be able, as their leaders promise, to resume the offensive against Russia? It would hardly seem so, from the material and manpower point of view alone. But the Russians may well mean to make sure, by depriving their enemies of the strategical positions which would make such an offensive possible, and for their own part regaining as much lost territory as they can, not only for its own sake, but in order that they may set about improving the shattered communications in preparing for a spring offensive of their screech owl. This is a fairly common permanent resident, often observed in the city. For several years, one or more roosted every winter in the trees of the old Agricultural Department grounds.

The barn owl at one time was an uncommon permanent resident, according to May Thatcher Cooke, in her "Birds of the Washington Region." It has nested, she says, in the towers of the old District Jail and in various towers other owls found in the District of Coof the Smithsonian Institution, and uses the latter as a winter roosting place. | ican long-eared owl, the short-eared Apparently deceived as to the season by the heat from the building, young have been hatched here in late fall and the snowy owl. sense. It is a clear call to a mate. The word "screech" is not a good one. because the cry is a mournful wail, rather than a screech. But the word has the sanction of time. Other common names for this bird are little horned owl, grav owl, red owl, little dukelet, mottled owl and shivering owl. The latter is a name used in the South. "Shivering" better describes the sound than "screech," perhaps. And the noise sometimes makes listeners shiver, too.

As to its being named both gray and red owl, this is explained by the fact that it develops two distinct plumage phases. The ornithologists have a name for it. It is "dichromatism," which merely means two-color. The bird leads a double life when it comes to color Scientists tell us a bird of one color may be mated with a bird of another color, "and all their young may be of one color, either red or gray, or the parents may be of one color and the young of mixed colors." This accounts for the bird being called mottled owl.

So it may be realized that this is, truly, some bird.

It is about 10 inches in length, with a wing spread of 22 inches. Looked at perching, it does not seem to have such long wings. This is true of owls and hawks. Some of the smaller hawks have tremendous wing spreads. It is said that one gray screech owl was fed exclusively on liver-long before the days of liver therapy—and that the bird turned red, but it has been held that one experiment of this kind is not enough to prove that these color changes George Gladden says that an interesting peculiarity of the screech owl is that the male and female mate for life, or at least retain that relationship for several years. He says that this is one of the comparatively few instances of monogamy in the bird world.

Unlike most American wild birds, the screech owls do not keep a very clean nest. It is described by Dr. Gladden as often "exceedingly filthy."

A Story of Frustration

Objectively Told. To the Editor of The Star

A War Department worker who lives in Landover Hills, Md., until recently was allowed to buy 132 gallons of gas for a period of three months. In line with the "share-your-car" request, this worker carried five passengers daily. four of whom were fellow workers employed in the same office with him, and the fifth a draftsman employed in the Coast Guard at Thirteenth street and Pennsylvania Avenue.

These passengers reside in Brentwood and Mount Rainier, Md., and Woodridge. D. C., all on the direct route traveled by the owner of the car. Each felt that he was doing his part to meet transportation requirements.

But the owner of the car, when recently he applied for his regular quota of gas coupons, was told that he is to receive only enough coupons to buy 48 gallons of gas to last 2 months and 13

A telephone call to the OPA brought the information that these six workers employed in the War and Navy Departments are not considered as being in essential war work. The result is that the owner of the car, who was performing his duty, no longer drives to his work because of being deprived of sufficient gas, not to be used for joy riding, but for legitimate business.

He must drive from his home to a point where he can connect with Capital Transit service, must leave his car parked at a curb, hoping it will be there with its tires intact when he returns at the conclusion of his day's work. His passengers? They have returned to the crowded streetcars and buses from which he rescued them at the behest of those who continue to advocate "share your car."

Argues Case for Men No Longer Very Young. To the Editor of The Star:

There is no good reason why a man's age should be his cross. The only time a man is too old to work is when he loses interest in his daily life. Horace Greeley said the darkest hour in any man's life is when he sits down to plan how to get money without earning it. The salesman over 50 may not have the same kind of qualifications in his favor which endear the younger man to the hearts of merchants everywhere, but he has many points in his favor which make him not only worthy of consideration but a practically indispensable factor in the business world as well. The war has brought about many changes in trade customs and conventions. It is now giving prominence to the salesman over 50. For a goodly number of years men of 50 have been neglected in nearly all branches of business. The man over 50 is not moved byevery wind that blows. He is not made envious by the salaries other companies are paying. He is not induced by sugar-coated promises. He has demonstrated to his own satisfaction that the old adage. "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush." is true. He is stable. The three big considerations, therefore, that argue in favor of the man over 50 are permanency, stability and industry. What more could any sales manager want. T. C. MEHAN.

Clearing Streets Urged As Means of Saving Cars.

My observation leads me to believe that thousands, if not tens of thousands, make no use of their garages. Machines are let stand on the streets in all kinds of weather, rain, snow or sleet, bitter cold or hot sun.

The depreciation due to such weathering is very great, especially as concerns tires.

I have observed cars standing in the same spot five or six days at a time. Yet there is, I believe, a police regulation against cars being parked at the same place over 48 hours.

It seems to this writer much could be done to save rubber tires by compelling owners to place their autos in their garages and at the same time clear our streets from the menace of so many parked cars.

Nazis Show Vulnerability In Morale

Opportunity to Win German People Away From Leaders Offered

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Again Hitler, Reichmarshal Goering and Propaganda Minister Goebbels have exposed the inside of German morale and particularly its vulnerability

If the United Nations fail to perceive the direction which these three speeches open up to them, they will miss a fateful opportunity to shorten the war and save the lives of millions of soldiers who otherwise may be needlessly sacrificed.

It is conceded on all sides, for instance, that this war can end by the internal collapse of Germany before there is a complete military triumph by the Allies. This means that it can end by the overthrow of Hitler and the Nazi party and the emergence of a free republic.

The speeches in Berlin on the 10th anniversary of the rise of Hitler to power reveal significantly that the Nazi leaders are afraid of internal revolt. These points were made

1. That "No situation is ever so desperate for Germany that we cannot master.

Win or Perish Philosophy. 2. That sabotage must be prevented and that "Each one who attempts to evade his duty will be destroyed.

3. That "It is not easy to fight Russia" and that if victorious. "Bolshevism would not halt at the Swedish or Swiss border or any other border" and that "Bolshevism would flood Europe to its extreme corner."

4. That for Germans it is a winor-perish outlook and that if the war is lost by Germany, barbarism will sweep Europe.

It is plain to see that the Nazi propaganda strategy is aided considerably by the failure of the United Nations except for a few vague statements made all too infrequently—to differentiate between the criminals of Nazi party and the vast number of innocent German men, women and children who have become the victims of Hitler's mad act in plunging his people into sud-

If, on the other hand, they realize that the objective of the United Nations is merely to rid the world of Nazi criminals and the Nazi philosophy and substitute for it the doctrine of the four freedoms, the chances to batter down the resistance of the German people who support the armies will be materially enhanced.

It is worth noting that Goering made a special point of answering those elements in Germany who already must be thinking of some way of ending the war by conferences with the enemy. Allies Must Be Ready With Reconstruction Principles When Axis Surrenders Unconditionally

By DOROTHY THOMPSON.

When President Roosevelt announced in his press conference at Casablanca that the United Nations' war aim toward the Axis was "unconditional surren-Grant, who, in the American Civil War, had made the same demand on the leaders of the South. Gen. Grant, said the President, was known as "Unconditional Surrender Grant." The analogy is thought-provoking. Gen. Grant was fighting a civil war-not an international war. The issue in that war was the right of the Southern States to secede from the American Union. Slavery was a secondary issue. The basic principle involved was the authority of the Constitution throughout all the States of America. Before Gen. Lee was called on to surrender the emancipation proclamation already had freed the slaves.

Knew What Defeat Meant. There could be not the slightest doubt, on the part of the leaders of the South, as to the exact meaning of "unconditional surrender." It meant that the South rejoin the Union and submit to its Constitution and its laws. It meant that the Southern Confederacy be dissolved and its parts reintegrated into the United States of America. Therefore, Gen. Lee knew what he was doing when he surrendered "unconditionally." Actually it was not, in essence, an unconditional surrender, for if the conditions were not to be negotiated, the principles governing those conditions were

If one were to pursue this analogy to its logical conclusion. "unconditional surrender" would mean that the nations of the Axis would have to abandon their attempt to secede from the principles of civilization governing the rest of the world, and join the United Nations, for world governed by law.

But one cannot pursue this analogy to such a logical conclusion because there is no world governed by law and there never has been. Nations are still considered as soveriegn bodies; what has been called "international law" is merely agreements or treaties among sovereign nations which can be unilaterally denounced, broken, or changed; no force exists, or ever has existed, to create, supervise, or enforce any law above nations.

And there is no indication in any official utterances of the President or Prime Minister Churchill that we intend to create such supra-national institutions. "Unconditional surrender," in this case, therefore, means surrender without condition of some nations to other nationsnot surrender to a constitution.

There are two factors in such a demand. There is the party on which it is made and there is the party that makes it.

The demand is made on the governments and peoples of the Axis. Since unconditional surrender means-according to statements which are official-that the present government of Germany will be displaced and that its members will be tried as war "unconditional surrender" means, for them, suicide, The terms are, therefore, impossible of acceptance, for the present governments But the terms also seem to rule out any possibility of a palace revolution in Germany. at least. Mr. Churchill has apparently modified the terms for Italy, for he has said, "one man and one man alone stands in the way of peace." But any group of Germans, realizing the disaster to Germany and planning to overthrow the Nazi regimeshould such a group exist-will hardly, under these conditions, undertake such a risk and responsibility. A revolution which comes into power only to give away its power the next moment. in an unconditional surrender to other outside powers, does not make sense

Not Voiced by Stalin.

But there is another factor to be considered. Stalin has not demanded "unconditional surrender." Had he done so, the demand would have had a definite meaning for one group of Germans-namely the German Communists. In their minds the analogy approximates that of the American Civil War. In the minds of German Communists "unconditional surrender" means the total defeat of Fascism, the beginning of the social revolution and the opportunity to join the Soviet Union, as an integral and equal part of it.

But there is nothing to indicate that "unconditional surrender" to the western powers means the integration of a democratic Germany, as an equal member of the democratic world

The demand for "unconditional surrender" imposes a supreme obligation on those who make it. We are asking the German nation and people to deliver themselves, unconditionally, into our hands. To consent to that means to divest themselves of all responsibility and place the entire responsibility on us.

Are We Prepared?

The question for us is, therefore: Are we prepared for this responsibility? Do we know what we intend to do with an unconditionally surrendered Germany? And who is "we"? The President? The State Department?

Mr. Churchill? Again I say that we had better get some principles for the reconstruction of Europe and get them quickly. For unconditional surrender, under these conditions, can only come as unconditional breakdown. And unless there are some principles to fill a vacuum, chaos will fill it. German Hint of Defensive War, So Costly to Allies as to Induce Peace, Seen in Goering's Talk

The speech of Reichsmarshal Herman Goering, who pinch-hit for Adolf Hitler on Saturday at the Berlin anniversary of the Fueher's rise to power, might be interpreted to mean that the Reich expects soon to begin fighting only a defensive war and has pinned its hopes of saving itself on making an Allied offensive so costly the United States and Britain may be induced to discuss peace terms short of complete surrender

None of the communiques from the battle fronts has given American observers a better picture of the actual military situation in Germany than the speeches made in Berlin by Hitler's spokesmen. They also indicated that the German people are being forewarned that soon they may have to stand a siege which might increase the privations they have been used to since the outbreak of the war.

Goering's emphasis that the Reich still has ample reserves of men shows that the losses have been very heavy and that the Nazi regime intends to draft more and more young men. The campaign in Russia has been fought. particularly in 1942, mostly with "mercenaries"-Rumanians, Hungarians and Italians.

Nazis Move Out.

The German troops themselves have been spared as much as possible and have been thrown into battle only when a very critical situation warranted it. In the present retreat under Russian pressure, the Nazi divisions, according to reliable reports, were moved out of the danger zone when a strong Russian move was suspected and the allies of Herr Hitler were left behind to cover the retreat, supported in most cases by a few Nazi units to prevent them from surrendering without any fight whatsoever.

Usually reliable reports from neutrals who visit Germany occasionally say the losses of Nazi aviation have been extremely serious. The toll of airplanes has been less felt than the loss of pilots. This is observed now on the Tunisian battle front. where the Nazi flyers are far less experienced than those the British met a year ago and accounts for the fact that the Luftwaffe's losses are estimated in North Africa at 3 to 1.

Goering Points to Bolsheviks. The planes themselves are of as high a quality as in the past, but the men who handle them obviously are far less experienced than those who participated in the aerial warfare in Poland, the Lowlands and in the early attacks against the British Isles. The fact that Goering who is said to have lost some of his

"embonpoint," weighing now only 230 pounds-continues to harp on the danger to Europe from the "savage hordes of Bolsheviks" is regarded as an endeavor of Nazi officials to keep the allies of Germany in line because of the danger to their countries if the Russians overrun Europe by breaking through the Axis lines.

The forthcoming active participation of the American armies on the European fronts is worrying the Nazi high command. Berlin knows as well as Washington that if the Americans made their appearance anywhere on the European soil they would be treated as liberators instead of enemies by the European people regardless of whether they are Germany's associated or subjected nations. Since it is difficult to describe the American-British forces as a danger to Europe, Hitler's spokesmen continue to play the now somewhat antiquated "Communist record."

The notion that Germany may have to surrender was brought officially to the notice of the people of the Reich for the first time Saturday when they were warned that the word is nonexistent in the Nazi dictionary. The Germans might get accustomed to that ugly word if it is repeated by their own people often enough.

More Peace Feelers Out.

It is known in responsible quarters here that Nazi agents in the neutral capitals of Europe are now sending out more feelers than heretofore. The fact that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill announced after their Casablanca meeting that the only peace terms offered to the Axis would be "unconditional surrender" has made these agents even more frantic in their efforts.

Neutral governments, fully realizing that it would be useless to approach the Allies with any kind of suggestion of peace by negotiation, have refrained from transmitting these suggestions.

But there are other means which the Berlin agents are employing. They are called direct approaches, and are based on the old story which the Nazis now have brought out again-that the Germans are determined to fight to the bitter end and that the exhaustion of the Allies in their effort to conquer Germany will be so great that only the Russians and the Japanese will benefit by it.

These "kindly thoughts" are not given any attention. The Allies' peace terms were given publicly to all the dictators in the communique issued January 26 by the President of the United States and the Prime Minister of Great Britain.

Mothers of

Fathers

By J. P. McEVOY. By way of introduction, I wish to announce that after I have written this article I am going away and will leave no forwarding address. The only hint I can give you is that where I am going there will be no mothers and no fathers-for after this, mothers are going to have very little use for me and fathers are going to be too scared to take my part. Now what do I mean when I say fathers make the best mothers? At the beginning, mothers know nothing about babies. They learn at the baby's expense. If the first haby survives they use what they have learned on the next one. By this process of trial and error. mothers manage to raise families If the family is large enough, it raises itself.

A Hardy Breed.

And how have we survived this terrifying process? Only because babies are indestructible. Not only can you bounce a baby on your knee. but you can practically bounce him on the floor. If babies weren't so hardy, none of us would be alive today.

I can remember 'way back when mothers nursed bables. Today fathers fix their formulas. Right at the beginning we have eliminated mothers. And why do fathers have to fix formulas? Because mothers can't add. Don't let all that nonsense in the cooking books fool you-"11/2 teaspoonsful of this and 21/3 tablespoonsful of that." Women pay no attention to it.

There is practically no woman who can cook who can add oneand-a-half of anything and twoand-a-third of anything else. They have their own secret measurements. They call them dabs and dashes and smidgins. Now that's all right when you're cooking up something for a husband. He doesn't know any different, and if he does he can always take you out to dinner. But those dabs and pinches and smidgins don't get by when you are preparing the baby's formula. It must come out exactly even. That's where fathers come in.

Inherit Another Task.

At first mothers won't let anybody change the precious baby. Certainly not the father-the clumsy brute. But this doesn't last long. From changing the baby, fathers rapidly graduate into dressing the child. Mothers dress the child in its Sunday best, but fathers dress it all week long. To be sure, fathers don't make the little garments, but they could.

In fact, if the mother is really smartly dressed the chances are pretty good that some man designed her outfit. Every woman knows men are the best dressmakers, the best cooks, the best baby doctors and they know-but they won't admit it-that men make the best mothers.

Now the child is ready for school. He comes home with a black eye. Mother is sorry, but dad is sore. Mother says, "You stay away from that boy." Father says, "Go out and knock his block off." Mother says, "I don't want my boy to fight." Father says, "I don't, either, but as long as he is going to have to fight he might just as well win as

Teach Girls, Too.

Mother says, "That's the trouble with this world; you men think everything is settled by fighting." Father says, "I'm not trying to make the world over, I'm just trying to survive in it. I want Willie to survive, too. And, if he's going to survive he's going to have to take his own part."

Boys should be removed from the influence of women at an early age -I would say 6 months is even a little late. Little girls should have men teachers, too. Since girls must know when they grow up how to bemuse, confuse, wheedle, dazzle and undermine the male, they can't start learning too early. Heaven knows they start early enough at home working on their fathers and the experience they gain is useful all their lives. Mothers supply the theory, but fathers supply the practice and I leave it to you which is the more valuable. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

LONDON, Feb. 1.-Gen. Henri Giraud, high commissioner of French North Africa, was quoted in an interview in the Daily Mail today as having said he would be "the last of all Frenchmen to try to or wish to impose a Vichy-minded administration on either North Africa or France.

An even more urgent need for relief will arise in countries liberated after long exposure to the full fury of Axis oppression-countries plundered, despoiled and starved, with populations driven to despair by the "matchless ruthlessness" of Nazi or Japanese butchery and pillage, he asserted.

In such areas, Mr. Lehman said "we will find conditions close to chaos," with economic life destroyed no food, no goods from which to fabricate clothing, and "no medical facilities to prevent the spread of pestilence and epidemic from the concentration camps and

Just How 'Commandos' Came to Life on Screen

Lester Cowan, Producer, Faced Many Difficulties With His War Picture

By ANDREW R. KELLEY.

"Commandos Strike at Dawn" overcame a world of difficulties from the time the idea was born in the showmanship brain of Lester Cowan until it actually landed in projection booths for screen presentation. Actually, this was the first motion picture made in Western Canada, entirely on location, and is the only one thus far to have been made, to the final scene, away from a studio. The settings are the rugged mountains and the water-lapped shores. of Vancouver Island, British Columbia completed, the company assembled and the actual job of making the picture began. Ordinarily the beginning of that job on a location trip consists merely of selecting the personnel, collecting the necessary equipment and putting both aboard a train.

In this case it was complicated by a war and an international border. Before any male member of the company could leave the United States he had to obtain permission from his draft board, and in several instances that permission was refused to men who were close to induction, making substitutions necessary. Every one, male and female, had to provide evidence of citizenship status. "American Empire" is an ambitious-sounding title for a film that is nothing more than an ambitious "Western," the kind over which the kids cheer their lungs out every Saturday matinee. As such, its cast comprises reasonably impressive names-Richard Dix, Preston Foster, Leo Carillo-but also as such, it is routine in every department. The major perceptible difference lies in its length, which is tedious, and the fact that it is proportionately more involved. This, the average matinee moppet would not tolerate, although even he would probably be able to anticipate each development in this sagging saga, showing at the Pix through Friday. Drawing Richard Dix out of obscurity for a role in "American Empire" did not render the old-timer a signal service. Not only was he presented a jaded subject in which to perform, Mr. Dix received a part distinctly secondary to that of Preston Foster-and Mr. Foster's was no pot o' gold. These gentlemen appear as steamboat-operating partners, who decide to build for themselves (and Frances Gifford) a cattle kingdom in Texas just across from Louisiana. They do so, but in the course of success. Mr. Foster becomes greedy, insolent to his neighbors and harrassed by Mr. Carillo's rustlers across the big creek. Naturally, he pays for it by (a) losing his young son, (b) his partner, (c) his wife, (d) 10,000 head of cattle. Recconciliation and prosperity set in when he saves a nearby town from bandits and proves to one and all that he is a pretty square fellow after all.

The customary prairie derring-do consists of a running gun fight with rustlers, a cattle stampede and a ripsnortin' pistolfest between Mr. Carillo's hombres and the "good guys" of Mr. Foster.

Pep Best Feather Fighter Since Attell, Johnston Claims Veteran Boxing Manager Rates Willie Above Canzoneri, Chocolate, Armstrong

By SID FEDER. Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK, Feb. 1.-Last Friday night James Joy Johnston

didn't show up in Madison Square Garden, and since Mr. Triple J had been around for days shelling for Wee Willie Pep over Allie Stolz, the boys thought he stayed away in fear of what was going to happen to Willie It turned out, however, that Pep punched the ears off Allie, and today James Joy phoned to say he was absent because a cold prevented him from talking. This comes under the head of a major calamity. He may not be the biggest noise on Broadway, but he's no worse than a photo finish against the Times Square air-raid siren.

Now that he can whisper loud enough to rattle the windows again, the derby hat wants it strictly understood he not only thinks Wee Willie is good-but that he's just about as great a featherweight as has come down the pike since able Abe Attell ambled out of California. That Tony Canzoneri and Henry Armstrong and Kid Chocolate, who were pretty fair country clouters. But Jimmy insists and Jimmy should know. After all, he's been around almost as many years as Florida has had

More than a handful of the oldtimers tell you that during Abe's 15-year run, from 1900 to 1915, he was the greatest fighter, pound for pound, who ever lived. "But I really mean it about this 20-year-old Connecticut kid," insisted Johnston. "After all, he's won 59 straight fights, and no one else ever did that. What's more he can do just about everything the best of 'em could.

"You know, around Attell's time, there were two other great featherweights - Terrible Terry McGovern and Young Corbett. Since then, the only ones you could put in the 'great' league were Tony Canzoneri, Kid Chocolate and Henry Armstrongwhen they were featherweights. In my book, Willie ranks right up with them, and he's getting better

"The main thing about him is that, like those other greats, he can make an opponent fight to suit his style. Remember the night he won the featherweight championship (New York version) from Chalky Wright in November? He was a hit-and-run kid, but Chalky admitted that was the only way to beat him. "Against Stolz, from what I hear, Willie was completely different-just walked in banged away, and then outsped Allie And that's just what Stolz doesn't like. Ever notice Pep's footwork? That jab and sidestep stunt he does makes other fighters look

"On top of that, he's also doing foolish.

what ever great fighter does. Now that he's won his title, he isn't just sitting back admiring it. He's going out and fighting anybody, any time, any place. He just beat one lightweight and now they're going to match him with Beau Jack, who's recognized as world champ here. Just listen to pop—the kid's great."

Reaching War Goals To Be Hard Task, Bank Warns

Arms Output Alone Must Equal Total In 1929 Boom

By the Associated Press NEW YORK, Feb. 1.-To reach the volume of war spending contemplated in the President's $109 .-000,000 budget, Americans must produce for war alone a total of goods and services about equal to share, for the fiscal period ended the total $99,000,000,000 national production of our busiest peacetime year-1929.

This comparison was made in the monthly letter of the National City Bank of New York today in summing up the coming year's economic problems. The bank pointed out that this all-time high output for war must be accomplished while providing for the nonwar needs of the Federal and local governments and the essential requirements of the civilian population.

Restraint Necessary. To do the job will be no easy task," the report said, "but will require, as the President said, the full harnessing of the Nation's manpower and resources. "Obviously we cannot do it unless many now unemployed are employed, women are brought into industry and those who are producing work longer hours and more

"Not only will the job require a great national effort, but also great national restraint. The report said interest in opinions regarding the length of the war was widespread, but that few businessmen could change their present war policies and that while manufacturers could think and plan for the post-war period, merchants "can do little but move with

On the industrial front, 55 per cent of production was converted to war purposes in 1942, the report said, and will be raised to approximately two-thirds of a greater total production in 1943.

Distrust Decreases. Distrust in Washington of "big businessmen" and for tested industrial policies is decreasing, the bank's statement said. "More progress is being made in the co-ordination of the productive effort," it was stated. "Changes made in Washington in recent months have inspired confidence, and confidence and teamwork between business and Government is

Popular demand for a "pay-asyou-go" income tax plan is sweeping the Nation, the report said, and the need for such a tax basis "has become the most immediately pressing issue in the whole tax question."

are expected to get this year. Such sharp reductions in the standard of living have led high Government officials to advocate a "chief of staff" for civilians. They say that unless the reduction is carried out on a planned and orderly basis the civilian morale may be undermined.

As reasons for immediate necessity of planning for a healthy civilian economy one official gave the following points: 1. This year delayed effect of restrictive actions taken in 1942 will 2. Restrictions already felt will be prolonged and will become more burdensome

3. New emergency cuts will be 4. Civilian morale will need more support as danger to United States shores disappears.

trading was slow today as traders awaited new incentives and prices fluctuated within a narrow range. Buying on technical factors and routine price fixing slightly outweighed liquidation and hedging.

While the farm parity formula question was foremost in traders' minds unsettling reports came from the textile industry, especially stories that the extent of lend-lease inquiry for textile goods for export was greatly exaggerated. However, it was recalled that the Army would be in the market later this month for about 18,000,000 units of underwear.

| Second | S January Meat Production Lags Behind Year Ago

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.-Meat production in January dropped 5 per cent below a year ago, the American Meat Institute reported today, but was more than 20 per cent higher than the average for the month during the 1929-1933 five-year

Out of the January production, the institute said, "a substantial ered to the United States Government for our armed forces and for shipment to our fighting Allies under the lease-lend program.' The institute reported January cattle marketings were 10 per cent under last year, hog marketings were about the same and sheep marketings, highest on record for January, were up 5 per cent from last year. January calf marketings were almost 35 per cent under a year ago.

United States Treasury Position

On D. C. Exchange During January

Capital Transit Scores Six-Point Advance And Leads Sales

By EDWARD C. STONE. January prices on the Washington Stock Exchange scored almost constant advances, reached new highs for a much longer period and at the same time continued to return some exceptionally high yields, a survey Capital Transit was in the best demand, 333 shares changing hands during the month, the closing price of 33 revealing a gain of practically 6 points. At 33 the stock yields

5.30 per cent. Potomac Electric Power 6 per cent preferred ended the month at 116%; practically unchanged, and now vields 5.10 per cent. Potomac Electric 51/2 per cent preferred moved up about a half point to 115, to yield 4.65 per cent.

Washington Gas common, at 17. was off a fraction from the month's high mark. At the present dividend, rate of $1.50 a year, the stock yields. the extra high return of 8.69 percent. Gas Light $4.50 preferred, at 92, is at the high for 1942, and yields 4.99 per cent, while the $5° preferred, off 2 points, ended January at 98% to return 5.96 per cent. Riggs National Bank common has sold at one price this year, 250, toyield 4.80 per cent. Washington Loan & Trust, selling at 200, yields 5 per cent. Other bank stocks have been neglected. Real Estate Title Insurance at 150 returns 4 per cent. Mergenthaler Linotype, at 40, pays. the highest return on the exchange, dend rate of $5 a share. Ration Expansion Forecast. A need for further rationing of 12.50 per cent, at the present divicommodities and tighter price controls was forecast by the monthly business survey of the magazine, Banking, official journal of the American Bankers' Association. Assuming that the fight on price inflation will stop at nothing that is necessary, it is possible to line up several things fairly sure to happen, Taxes are bound to be increased so. it will very probably be necessary to place the additional burden on those who are the chief beneficiaries of the Treasury's spending. From now on the only people able to pay higher taxes will be those whose income are higher as a result of the war. Another certainty is that the sale of Treasury issues, both War Savings bonds and the regular Victory offerings, must be greatly expanded. Just as with taxes, it would be better if the selling effort were aimed. more definitely at those areas and individuals who are on the receiving end so that the Treasury can get it back from those who got it, the magazine says.

In his annual report, William Montgomery, president of the Acacia. Mutual Life Insurance Co., stated that the company plans to make further extensive purchases of Government bonds during the coming year, and at the same time to be helpful to people in the purchase of homes.

In practical application of this point of view, Acacia last year increased its mortgage loan account by approximately $5,000,000. As all December 31, the mortgage loan account stood at $62,865,000, virtually all of which represented funds oaned to men and women for the purpose of buying individual singlefamily dwellings.

District Second in Trade. The Federal Reserve Board has announced that the Richmond Reserve district stood second in department store sales gains in 1942 with an increase of 18 per centioves 1941. San Francisco headed the 15 trade areas with a 22 per cent gain Kansas City was third, up 17 per Trade in the Dallas area was 14 per cent better than in 1941, while the Atlanta and St. Louis districts found trade 12 per cent ahead of the previous year. Boston, Philadelphia. Cleveland and Minneapolis districts reported 11 per cent upswings.

Chicago sales were up 1 per cent. The New York district stood at the bottom of the list with a 7 per cent advance. The average gain for the 12 districts for the year was 12;

Garrett Back From Training. George A. Garrett, resident partner of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane, New York Stock Exchange. firm, was expected back in the financial district late today after taking a month's military training at the special school at Fort Leavenworth. The school takes a very limited number of business and pro-fessional men and gives a rigid course covering a wide field of Army activities. The preliminary report for 1942 of the Virginian Railway shows net earnings of $2.73 a share on the common stock against $3.90 per commonshare in 1941.

Capital Traction Bonds Up. Capital Traction 5s sold at a new high for 1943 on the Washington Stock Exchange today, 10518... The final bid was 105 with none offered at any price. The high for these bonds last year was 106 with 103 the low. Sales were the heaviest of any issue in the list. So far this year other bonds have been very much neglected. While: bids remain strong, there are 11

issues which are not being offered for sale at any price. The highest bid, 126%, is on Washington Gas 55.

Spending by Marines In Canal Zone Involves Purchase of 'Chits'

Ship's Service Store Requires 'Go Between' Money, Even for Beer

(Sergt. Murphy of 107 Woodbine street, Chevy Chase, Md. a Marine Corps Combat Correspondent who wrote the following story, is a former member of the editorial staff of The Star.)

MARINE BARRACKS, COCO SOLO, Canal Zone, Jan. 25 (Delayed).-Money may just be money here find that it may be one of several things. In the United States of America, if you want something, you just get money (and maybe a ration card) and buy it; here it's not as simple as A large part of every Marine's pay is spent at the nearby ship's service store, which corresponds to Leatherneck buys all his toilet arti- has something in common with cles, extra clothing, soft drinks and servicemen all over the world; he beer, magazines, etc.

But if you see something you want in the ship's service, you don't just pull out your roll. You price it. Salvages Right Drawer then go to the cashier and purchase a "chit" for that amount. The "chit" shows the amount paid and the department of the store in which it may be used. And it is good only on the day of issue.

"Chits" for beer are worked on a slightly different system. They cannot be bought singly, but must be purchased in a book of 12, which sells for $1. These are the only chits which may be used any time, with the provision that they have not been removed from the book.

Newspaper An Exception. The exception that proves the rule that nothing be sold for out-and-out cash are Panamanian newspapers. They sell for a nickel in the ship's

The laundry used by Marines and sailors at Coco Solo is also a part of the ship's service. Getting laundry entails checking a list at the store's cashier cage to see if your bundle is ready, buying a chit for the right amount and going down to the laundry itself to get your clothes. To save some of this bother, the laundry does provide charge ac-

Admittance to the movie hall on the base costs 15 cents. The tickets there are good at any time. Some far-sighted Marines buy several on payday to avoid the standing in line which accompanies the purchase of just about everything a Marine wants to buy. Panamanian Coins Creep in. Marines here are paid on the 15th and the last day of the month, in good American currency and always in even dollars. As soon as you get some change, however, you notice that almost invariably there are a couple of Panamanian coins mixed in with the United States ones. "Aha!" says the new arrival, "I've been hooked!"

But he hasn't. Panamanian currency, made in the same denominations as United States, is interchangeable with it.

Melton Honors Mother In Special Concert Song

Metropolitan Tenor's Singing Finds Ready Response From Audience At Popular Sunday Program

By ALICE EVERSMAN.

The success of James Melton, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera, as soloist with the National Symphony Orchestra at its concert yesterday afternoon grew as the program progressed. Singing songs in English as a concluding group and following it with several encores, he completed his triumph by asking permission to sing one of them to a certain person in the audience. Collins Joins Group of High Officers Waging War in Front Lines

By WILLIAM HIPPLE. Associated Press War Correspondent.

WITH ADVANCE UNITED STATES TROOPS ON GUADAL-CANAL FRONT LINES, Jan. 26 (Delayed) .- Maj. Gen. Joseph Collins of New Orleans showed today that he could supervise individual hand-to-hand fighting as well as maneuver larger Army units.

In so demonstrating he joined s growing number of generals who ren't fighting this war in the traditional manner. That is, they no longer sit at comfortable posts far from the front directing operations olely from maps and second-hand

In the dense jungle northwest of Kokumbona, Gen. Collins led a small party which captured three jap soldiers and killed three others.

Contact Accidental. The action was more or less accidental, for the general originally set out with the object of contacting a forward Army unit. He was accompanied by Lt. Col. J. K. Bush cf Salem, Ind.; Capt. Paul Melichamp

The general motioned him to come out. The Jap refused so Gen. Collins sent his men in to get him. The struggling Jap was pulled out. Next they came upon a holed-up Jap armed with a bayonet, but no rifle. The Jap drew the bayonet across in front of his throat. The Americans were not sure whether his gesture meant he intended to cut his own throat or theirs, so Gen. Collins ordered a double "flanking" movement while Col. Bush slipped in close with a wooden club. The colonel finally managed to hit the Jap's arm, knocking the bayonet out of his hands. Then capture was

The next Jap was found in a leanto resting and apparently unarmed. The Americans told him to come out. He also refused and reached to the top of the lean-to where a hand grenade was fastened. Col. Bush grabbed the Jap's arm and the others rushed in to pin him down.

In the other three cases—the fatal ones—the general's party tried to take the Japs prisoners but they were obstinate. They were found in dugouts and holes and tried to fire rifles or throw hand grenades. As a result they were shot—one of them by Capt. Melichamp.

Missionary Sees World Seeking Answer in Religion

Leaders of thought are turning to religion as the answer to world prob-lems, asserted the Rev. Frederick Lee, returned missionary to China, at the Seventh-Day Adventist Theological Seminary last night.

"Science has failed to make a new world of abundance and peace," he said. "Education and culture have failed to lessen the threat of war. We hear on every hand the cry of statesmen, university professors, journalists and writers of the need of moral values in life. We have been too materialistic in our outlook in recent years. We have neglected God, and this is the reason for the present catastrophe." He spoke at a special service opening the seminary's winter term. Entering the winter class are a number of advanced ministerial students, and also active Bible instructors. Church leaders, Mr. Lee said, are looking forward "to the greatest missionary advance in all lands that Christianity has ever seen."

Tamale Pie Is Piece de Resistance At Recent Jeudi Club Dinner

These days, every dinner given by the Club de Jeudi is a challenge to the amateur male chef whose turn it is to plan and cook the dinner. The planning is, as a matter of fact, more of an undertaking than the cooking. In the first place, no good amateur chef will lower himself to depend upon ingredients upon which any rationing board, even not yet established, would be apt to frown. In the second place, many of those good things to which the amateur male chef normally turns are just not to be had. The club did find that, in the early days of meat doling, man after man turned to a trusty chicken or two-but that was quickly slapped down by the critical feminine members.

As these truths kept going round and round in the mind of Roy English who was the impresario at last .-

Thursday's dinner he finally worked out a menu and collected the ingredients, even though he went far afield. Here was the array:

Roasted Oysters in Shells Mexican Tamale Pie Bottled Beer Field Salad Chilled Grapefruit With Creme de Menthe

First, we glance at the roasted oysters. Somehow or other, this simply grand and appetizing item is seldom served, and for no good reason, as they are easy to prepare, just so one can get fresh, raw oysters in the shells. Figuring six oysters per person, the oysters are washed and the shells well scrubbed. Then, unopened they are placed in a dishpan and set into a very hot oven to roast. In 15 to 20 minutes they are open and ready to serve. Remove, just as they are, to plates covered with nankins and fold over the oysters To eat them, each interested partaker holds a corner of napkin in his left hand, his knife in his right hand, gives the shell a little further lift, and then with an oyster fork or what have you handy removes the edible delicacy, dips it into a bit of melted butter and lemon juice or cocktail sauce and-there you are.

Margarine Now Butterlike In Flavor

Most Is Fortified With Vitamin A; Use It Freely

By Edith M. Barber

Butter has been the symbol of plenty and of good cookery for many centuries. Our Colonial ancestors introduced milk cattle to the New World as soon as possible and felt that they were settled permanently when butter for home use could be produced. As our pioneers went westward cattle followed. For generations we have been accustomed to considering butter the staple spread for our bread and have been lavish with it in use for cookery.

Disguise' House Plants

Add Appropriate 'Fake' Flowers If Real Ones Are Not in Bloom

By Margaret Nowell

Dear Miss Nowell: My house plants are looking very sick these days. They have no blossoms at all and now most of the leaves are starting of the country, from the mountains to drop. Would this be because they have been indoors so long? The ivy is the only thing that still seems to be growing. I am quite upset because these flowering plants were the sole decoration of my dining room window and when they were in bloom just "made" the room. Can you give me any advice on what to do with them?-P. B. D.

Answer-I can only give you general advice because I do not know what kind of plants you have. It may be that excessive dryness in your house after the furnace has been on for three months is having an effect.

Or the house may be too warm; most? house plants do not thrive in the occurred when our dog jumped up temperatures that we enjoy. They may need some plant food to give them a new "lease on life." It may be that some of them are past their blooming period and will need three or four months before they pick up again. I would suggest you drop in to see the florist who sold you the plants for individual advice on the different varieties. Some may need food, etc. You might buy a few artificial flowers, such as geranium blossoms, and tuck them in blooms start again. It combines a dye which darkens the scratch to match the wood and a wax polish which fills up the crack and makes it less noticeable. Or you may do the job yourself. Dear Miss Nowell: I planted some bulbs just before Christmas for indoor blooming. I find they seem to be growing very fast, with plenty of leaves but no sign of flowers. Were these poor bulbs?

Answer-You do not mention the variety of bulbs-but most of them should be started in a cool, dark place so that roots become established before top growth starts. Yours may have had too much light and warmth. Suggest you retard these by placing them in a dark, cool place and if you are starting new ones keep them in the dark at least three weeks. American China On Display

A fascinating exhibit, being held locally this week, features a new luxury china, created in America of materials collected in various parts of Vermont, the sand banks of the South and the clay valleys of the Western section.

In past years the designs for dinnerware were adopted from patterns which originated during the decorative periods of many countries, but certain designers believed that the ware should be molded to shapes that best suited our table service; therefore a plate was created that boasts simple, fine lines, as well as a more generous well for food.

A group of famous contemporary painters was commissioned to create nandsome decorations for this Amercan-made china. The original works of these artists can be seen in the world's leading art galleries and the reproductions on the china are strictly typical of each individual's style and treatment. Decorative pieces, service plates, vases, trophies, occasional pieces and complete luncheon and dinner services are being shown. They are decorated with a wide variety of patterns ranging from the American flag over Mount Vernon to flowers and animals.

The various pieces have been effectively arranged for this exhibit, each one being placed near the painting from which its design originated. Also several unusual and interesting new table settings have been planned including an aftertheater supper setting and a group based around a Chinese motif. The display forms an interesting adventure in ceramics and one that is well worth looking into. D. M.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS. Very, very carefully Peter Rabbit crept across the smooth ice of Paddy the Beaver's pond. Already Peter had bumped the back of his head and had bumped his nose, and he had no intention of getting any more bumps if he could help it. So he watched every step and presently, without another tumble, he reached Paddy's house. Once, the winter before. Peter had visited the house of Jerry Muskrat out in the Smiling Pool, so he thought he knew just what to expect. But he found that he didn't know as much as he thought he did. The fact is. that while Paddy's house was very like Jerry's in some ways, in others it was very different. It had been no trouble at all to jump on the roof of Jerry's house, but Peter went three times around Paddy's house before he found a place where he could scramble up, and even then he slipped and scraped his ehins. But he reached the top at last and there sat down to get his breath. And while he panted for breath Peter looked around, and suddenly his heart gave a great jump. Someone else had been before him on the roof of Paddy's house and Peter had only to glance at one of the footprints in the snow to know who more than this he had tried to Peter could tell that by the way a house that no one can break into. the next meal is coming from. dig, for the mud of the roof was a house myself." ost had arrived, and Jack

Wild cucumber is an annual vine grown for ornamental purposes throughout the Eastern States. On the Pacific Coast, the perennial member of the family, the one pictured here, is better known. The flowers are in small sprays and are starry white. These are soon followed by fat green burs, or seed pods, that are prickly and swing by their tails among the leaves. These pods are the most interesting part of the wild cucumber. Mature burs crack open at the lower end, curling back, and from the parted lips of the bur the plump green or brown seeds tumble. These seed pods, when young and tender, have been used by small Spanish boys as our own boys use soft snowballs. The cucumber pod, when striking its object, has a most

9-Point Peace Plan Reported by German Military Junta

Dispatch From Sweden Tells of Possibility Of Sidetracking Hitler

By EDWIN SHANKE.

Associated Press Foreign Correspondent.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 1.—The military junta in Germany now feels that if Nazi military and economic difficulties continue to threaten a debacle, the only solution would be of the country.

(This is one of the moves frequently reported as part of a "peace offensive.")

They will then, according to infor German officers to seize control formed sources here, proclaim a program through which they believe they may arrive at a basis of understanding with the United Nations.

Reliable sources here, in quoting a German state official, said that German officers are quietly and carefully watching developments, but are making no predictions as to when the time for such a move would be at hand.

Nine-Point Program.

Nine-Point Program.

The junta is represented as being convinced that the German people will look to them for action once the military reverses result in a hopeless situation that will become crystal clear to every one despite the camouflage propaganda of Propaganda Minister Goebbels.

A nine-point program has been prepared by the junta, sources here said, embracing:

1. Removal of the Nazi regime.

2. Return to old frontiers, which will be concentrated on defensive lines;
3. Establishment of civil administrations in the occupied territories to be formed.

istrations in the occupied territories to be formed by nationals of the respective countries; 4. Removal of all measures against Jews:

against Jews;
5. A proclamation that Germany has no territorial claims beyond the borders of the old Reich;
6. A plebiscite for Austria;

Would Revive Poland.
7. A proclamation that Germany considers a strong Poland neces-

8. Adherence to the Atlantic Charter principles;
9. The granting of two African colonies to Germany.

It is recalled that responsible sources in London received information in November of a military junta which was planning gradually to isolate Hitler and take over authority in Germany.

Reports are current of such a group of "revolutionaries" who hope to save the situation when chaos appears imminent—though they may be Axis-inspired to observe Allied reaction.

Allied reaction.

Hitler's shake-up among tried and proven officers, according to recent reports, and the steady increase in strength and power in Heinrich Himmler's SS (Elite Guard) is significant in the light of the reported existence of a military junta. Keen observers say they believe such moves might be Hitler's method of trying to crush out the opposition without a thoroughgoing purge, which might crack the home front wide open.

British Women Load Slag as War Workers

British women war workers are taking to heavier jobs in such numbers that they'll be able to hold their own if any one gets tough with

In one of the largest steel works in England 500 women workers have been transferred from lighter tasks to such jobs as riveting, crane driving, cold sawing, stamping and other work requiring brawn, says the Office of War Information. In some plants they are even loading slag, a tough job for a husky man.

Additional equipment would solve the problem. But switchboards and telephone lines take lots of copper, rubber, tin, lead and other materials which have gone to war. And in this serious business of speeding the victory these materials must go into tanks, guns, planes, munitions, instead.

You can help if you will ask yourself before you telephone: "Is my call necessary? Have I planned my conversation so that I can be brief? Have I checked the directory when in doubt about a number and before calling Information? Have I asked the children and the rest of the family to cooperate?"
