BYRNES HEADS NEW OVERALL WAR AGENCY

Senate Limits President's Use Of Special Fund

House Reversed on Dismissal of Three Government Employees

By J. A. O'LEARY.

The Senate today unexpectedly passed the $143,630,591 urgent deficiency bill, which carried an Appropriations Committee amendment sharply restricting the President's use of the $89,322,166 balance in his emergency funds.

Approved also was the committee action reversing the House in its attempt to cut three Government employees from the Federal payroll.

The ban on the President's emergency fund and the retention of the three employees now await final determination by a conference committee.

Conferees also will be called on finally to decide the future of the National Resources Planning Board, which weathered a move in the Senate yesterday to abolish it.

Doubt Case on Congress Power.

The House also has voted to take the three names from the Government payroll on recommendation of the Kerr subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee which inquired into a longer list of Government workers who had been accused of association with alleged subversive organizations or movements.

Senator La Follette, Progressive of Wisconsin told the Senate just before it eliminated the House provision that he has serious doubt whether Congress has the constitutional power to remove employees from executive agencies in this manner.

The approved Senate amendment would prohibit the President from transferring his emergency funds to any agency except War and Navy. If Congress has made appropriations for the agency, or for functions of any agency, the President may not transfer the funds to any other agency.

Senators Lucas, Democrat, of Illinois, and Hayden, Democrat, of Arizona, urged the conferees to give the language careful scrutiny before accepting it. They feared it might go further than the committee intended.

Ship Canal Mentioned. Senator Hayden suggested it might be so construed as to enable the President to go ahead with the Florida ship canal, which is authorized, but for which no appropriation is available.

This broad restriction was adopted in the Senate Committee to take the place of one the House already had approved, merely preventing the President from allotting emergency funds in the Planning Board or the Farm Security Administration.

Carnegie Steel Indicted; Jury Takes Recess

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, May 28.—A Federal grand jury indicted the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp. today on a charge of "knowingly and willfully" concealing material facts from Government agencies in connection with a Senate committee investigation of complaints that the company furnished sub-specification steel on war contracts.

The jury declined to indict four Carnegie-Illinois employees against whom indictments were filed with Judge Nelson McVicar yesterday.

Reveille System Goes Awry for Ft. Knox Soldier

By the Associated Press.

FORT KNOX, Ky., May 28.—A soldier in the Armored Force Replacement Training Center walked into a telephone booth and called a Louisville number.

The soldier waited a few moments, smiled and started to hang up. Then he listened attentively, frowned and dropped 30 cents into the coin box.

"Why'd you answer the phone?" he growled. "It cost me my last 30 cents!"

He left the booth and disgustedly told another soldier. "I call my wife this time each morning to wake her up in time to get to work. You see, we don't have an alarm clock—can't buy one any place.

"She's not supposed to answer the phone. And I always hang up after the operator tells me nobody answers. That way it doesn't cost anything. But this morning that sleepy-headed wife of mine answered and the operator told me to deposit 30 cents!"

Red Forces Repulse German Infantry in Kuban Delta Area

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, May 28.—Sharp land and air battles are raging in the Kuban Delta area after a period of comparative quiet, but neither official Russian disclosures nor dispatches from the front today confirmed German reports that a Soviet Army of 150,000 is attempting a big offensive to Kerch Strait.

Both the midnight and the noon communiqués were silent on the fighting northeast of Novorossisk, where the German and the Red Army are reported to be engaged at least 10 Russian divisions and great wedge of tanks was trying to batter through a narrow sector under cover of more than 200 planes.

The German broadcast said the Russians scored temporary gains yesterday, which were wiped out in German counterattacks by nightfall.

Nazi Infantry Repulsed. Front line dispatches, however, declared the Red Army had repulsed a big group of enemy infantry trying to improve its positions and said the Red Air Force and the German plane fleet were fighting great battles in the same area.

The Russians reported they ward off the Nazis, downing 64 German planes in one day while losing 13 Russian craft.

West of Rostov the Red Army was reported to have taken the initiative in violent local combats which resulted in the capture of an important hill and a general improvement of the Russian position. The Germans made repeated but vain attempts to recapture the hill. It was said.

Artillery exchanges and scouting forays marked yesterday's action along other sectors of the battlefield, especially in the Smolensk, Kalinin, Volkhov and Donets River fronts, the latter south of Balaklava.

New Action Near Leningrad. The Soviet news communiqué told of continued Russian activity in those areas and west of Rostov, and noted new stirrings on the Leningrad front where eight German planes were reported shot down and 34 German outposts destroyed by Red Army detachments which killed about 200 of the enemy.

Long-range Red Army planes blasted German airdromes and the ship and planes in the Black Sea fleet sank two enemy motor barges, the noon war bulletin said without going into detail on the engagement.

A Red Navy force has been waiting in the Black Sea for any attempt to evacuate the Germans from Novorossisk. A Russian drive into the Taman Peninsula to the shores of Kerch Strait, across from the Crimea, would spill the German forces around Temuk and men in the Axis Novorossisk defenders with their escape possible only by the Red Navy-guarded Black Sea route.

Giraud and De Gaulle May Meet Tonight

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 28.—Informed quarters said today that Gen. Charles de Gaulle was expected to meet Gen. Henri Giraud tonight in Algiers to initiate talks which may bring about a union of French elements now fighting the Axis.

This was the first indication that Gen. de Gaulle already had left London for North Africa, although dispatches from Algiers yesterday intimated that a meeting between the two French leaders would take place soon.

ALGIERS, May 28 (AP).—Gen. Georges Catroux, liaison officer between Gen. Henri Giraud and Gen. Charles de Gaulle, arrived today from London to assist in the reception here soon of Gen. de Gaulle.

Essen Pounded Again by RAF in Night Assault

23 Bombers Are Lost; Nazi War Industries At Jena Hammered

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 28.—A great fleet of heavy RAF bombers attacked Essen and other targets in the Ruhr last night, a few hours after speedy Mosquito bombers had made a daring dusk attack on important German war industries in Jena, the British announced today.

The Air Ministry news service said the attack was the heaviest Essen has suffered this year and that the planes attacked in 10 waves, dumping their bombs within 50 minutes in accordance with "saturation" technique.

The Air Ministry said a new wave-bombing plan was employed, with each wave of equal strength, but varying bomb cargoes so that each load caused the greatest possible devastation at successive stages of the attack.

Well over 1,000 tons of explosives were cascaded into the Krupp works, which was at a standstill for at least a month after three terrific assaults in March and April, the ministry said.

A returning pilot said the fires "appeared to weld themselves into a solid mass over a wide area."

23 Bombers Are Lost. Twenty-three bombers were lost in the Essen attack, said the announcement, which declared the raid was carried out "in great strength."

The number of planes engaged last night was reported only slightly fewer than the total sent on the record raids against Dortmund and Duesseldorf.

The Berlin radio, in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, acknowledged "considerable damage" in Essen. It claimed 20 planes were shot down.

Other British planes laid mines in enemy waters during the night. 22 Miles From Dueseldorf. Essen is 22 miles northeast of Dueseldorf, which was blasted by the RAF in a smashing assault Tuesday night.

Essen became the most heavily bombed city in the world after the last previous raid on April 30—an assault which brought the total weight of high explosive and fire bombs dumped on this target to more than 10,000 tons since the start of the war. Last night's raid was the 56th on the city.

New Methods Aid Allies In Fighting Submarines

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 28.—New methods of fighting submarines are showing such notable results that informed quarters here viewed the whole picture of the battle of the Atlantic since the start of the war.

In opposing the measure, selective service officials argued that they now trying to carry out the State-wide plan, as far as it is practical, but that the language of the bill would leave no leeway and would retard the induction of men as needed.

In a brief filed at the request of the committee, Col. Lewis Sanders of selective service pointed out that, even if the war lasted 10 years there would never be time when it could be shown that every single man in a State had been called for induction.

This would result not only from essential occupational deferments, but because new registrants are constantly coming within the military age brackets.

Col. Sanders argued that, if the bill was strictly interpreted any married man called could get a court stay against induction by showing that there was one registrant still uncalled in a higher category in that State.

Senator Reynolds said committee members agreed that the calling of married men, particularly those with dependents, should be put off until they are needed, but they felt this could be best accomplished by allowing selective service officials to make constant checkups on the status of deferred single men. The chairman said the testimony was to the effect that selective service follows that procedure.

Kilday Bill Shelved By Senate Military Affairs Committee

Reynolds Says Action On Draft Measure Was Unanimous

The Senate Military Affairs Committee today tabled the House-approved Kilday bill to make the State-wide system of drafting men mandatory, and to repeal the work-or-fight orders used to induce men to transfer from non-essential to war jobs.

Chairman Reynolds said the committee was unanimous in a motion to table the measure. While it would still be possible to take it from the table later in the session, the Senator pointed out that, in practice, bills tabled are seldom revived.

The main purpose of the bill, sponsored by Representative Kilday, Democrat, of Texas, was to avoid taking married men from the local draft board area, while an adjoining board in the same State still had unmarried men uncalled.

In opposing the measure, selective service officials argued that they now trying to carry out the State-wide plan, as far as it is practical, but that the language of the bill would leave no leeway and would retard the induction of men as needed.

In a brief filed at the request of the committee, Col. Lewis Sanders of selective service pointed out that, even if the war lasted 10 years there would never be time when it could be shown that every single man in a State had been called for induction.

Doughton Believes War Retail Sales Tax Might Be Necessary

Will Consider Plea for $16,000,000 More After New Bill Passes

By the Associated Press.

Chairman Doughton of the House Ways and Means Committee, long-time foe of a Federal retail sales tax, said today he might favor such a tax "as a last resort" to help finance the war.

"I am speaking for no other member of the committee," he said, "but for myself, I believe that a sales tax should be adopted only if, at all, after all other reasonable means of taxation have been exhausted."

Mr. Doughton expressed this view as Capitol Hill began speculating on how to raise $16,000,000 additional, in taxes and compulsory savings, as recommended by President Roosevelt.

Other lawmakers, speaking privately, predicted Congress would consider a wartime retail sales tax, possibly ranging as high as 20 percent on selected items.

There was talk also of possible taxes on "spending." The administration last year opposed any Federal sales taxes, but pluggered for a spending levy.

The Ways and Means Committee will start work on a new general tax bill "as soon as practicable." Mr. (See TAXES, Page A-8.)

Japs' Attu Positions Are Split Further By American Attack

Enemy Force Is Being Broken Up Into Small Points of Resistance

American troops have attacked the third main position which the Japanese had held on Attu Island south of Lake Cories, the Navy reported today, and indications were that the entire enemy force on the island was being rapidly broken up into very small points of resistance.

Several important points were taken by the ridge south of Chichagof corridor in hard hand-to-hand fighting.

Authorities said the Attu fight might be won before the week end, or two or three more days might be needed to clear up final pockets of enemy resistance.

The United States northern forces have penetrated a part of a ridge a short distance southwest of Chichagof Harbor, the communique said, and fighting continues to clear the enemy from peaks in the vicinity.

The ground operations were supported by Army heavy and medium bombers and fighters. Medium bombers and fighters also made three attacks on Kiska, scoring numerous hits.

The Navy issued no reports on Attu fighting later than Wednesday. A spokesman said, however, that "every bit of information we have indicates it is continuing."

There were indications in today's war bulletin that Japanese opposition had pretty well lost its character of organized fighting.

This is a kind of situation in which the Japanese soldier fights most stubbornly, however, and the job of American troops became increasingly one of hand-to-hand combat with bayonets and grenades.

Earlier this week the Navy had disclosed the taking of Chichagof Valley, the first of the three original positions set up by the Japanese on the northeastern tip of the island to fall into American hands. Assaults on the force at the head (See ATTU, Page A-8.)

Michigan Is 'Surprised' At Plans for Night Game

By the Associated Press.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 28.—Herbert O. Fritz, athletic director of the University of Michigan, said today he was "quite surprised" at the announcement of K. L. Wilson, director of athletics at Northwestern, that a football game will be played at night.

"The game has always drawn well in the daytime and I don't know what will be gained by playing at night," Crisler said. A night game would require the Michigan team to remain another night in Chicago, he added.

Crisler said he would be glad to discuss the game with Wilson, however. Wilson had said it would be played the night of October 2 in Dyche Stadium.

Four Survivors of Sinking Fit After 39 Days at Sea

By the Associated Press.

Four survivors of a torpedoed British merchant ship were rescued by a Navy patrol bomber several days ago after 39 days on a life raft in the Atlantic.

Today's announcement said the bomber, on routine patrol, was piloted by Lt. Maurice Kaufman of Wappingers Falls, N. Y. The waist gunner, J. Albert Willey, aviation ordnance man, second class, of Alexandria, Ind., sighted a smoke bomb signal that led to discovery of the raft and its occupants.

The plane landed safely alongside and four men were picked up.

Navy doctors ashore pronounced them remarkably fit. No other survivors of the medium-sized ship have been reported.

The rescued crewmen reported their passengers had included women and two small children. Two torpedoes hit the ship at night, several days ago.

The survivors reported their food supply was nearly gone when the plane picked them up.

Yugoslavs Deny Crisis Over King's Romance

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 28.—Members of the Yugoslav government-in-exile today ridiculed reports that a cabinet crisis had arisen over a romance between King Peter of Yugoslavia and Princess Alexandra of Greece.

They became unofficially engaged last year without the usual state formalities.

At that time, the Yugoslav government issued a statement declaring that neither a formal engagement would be announced nor would any marriage take place during the war out of consideration for the conquered peoples of both countries.

Government officials said there has been no change in the situation since then.

Chinese Raid Ichang, Base for Japs' New Yangtze Offensive

Much Damage to Military Installations Reported; All Planes Return Safely

By the Associated Press. CHUNGKING, May 28.—Chinese bombers, escorted by fighters, today bombed Ichang, Yangtze River port and base for the latest Japanese drive in Hupeh Province, the Chinese Central News Agency said.

The report said there was much damage to military installations and all the attacking planes returned safely. A Chinese high command communique said the Chinese were battling two divisions of Japanese west of Ichang, where on Tuesday and Wednesday 1,000 Japanese were reported killed. Large quantities of war supplies were reported seized.

The Chinese also were said to have recovered several points west of Lihshen, 75 miles southeast of Ichang.

Chen Heads Defenses. Gen. Chen Cheng, Vice Minister of War and one of China's most brilliant strategists, is commanding the forces opposing the Japanese offensive in Hupeh Province, which Chinese authorities consider the opening phase of the battle for Chungking, an official statement disclosed today.

Gen. Chen, one of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's most trusted generals, was given command of a war area embracing Western Hunan and Western Hupeh in 1940 and has concentrated on the Yangtze, a free China community in the Hupeh area outside Japanese occupation.

This part of Hupeh, the statement said, now forms an important link between Central China—Hunan and Kiangsi Provinces—and Western China—the area around Chungking. "Strategically speaking," it added, "this area is now the main bulwark of the defense of Chungking both along the Yangtze and on land."

Provisional Capital Established. The provisional capital has been established at Enshih, 93 miles west of Ichang, the former capital, Wuchang, has been in Japanese hands since 1938.

A Japanese broadcast asserted that China's elite, well-equipped troops of the 18th Army are on the verge of extending to the Yangtze war zone around Ichang, 435 miles east of Chungking.

The broadcast also said that in 20 days of fighting the Chinese 87th and 97th Armies had been practically wiped out and Yu-yangkwan and Ichang were occupied in a southwest advance 35 miles from the Japanese river base of Ichang.

The Japanese said they cut off the Chinese 18th Army in a swift attack across the Yangtze. The Japanese said they occupied two towns about 6 miles southwest of Ichang. Other Japanese units crossed the Chin Kiang River to the south and outflanked the 18th.

Robertson Hits WLB On Mine Wage Stand Urges Coal Operators To 'Stop, Look, Listen'

By the Associated Press. Representative Robertson, Democrat, of Virginia, charged in the House today that the War Labor Board is "attempting to force the coal operators to agree to a wage scale which in normal times would mean bankruptcy for them in the absence of a law enabling them to pass the burden on to the consumer."

The Virginia chairman of a ways and means subcommittee on extension of the Bituminous Coal Act, said the board is "attempting to pass upon the assumption the Congress will provide such a law."

"My advice to the coal operators," he declared, "is to stop, look and listen, else they may wake up one hot summer day in the near future to find they have been left holding the bag."

"Partial success for the increased wage demands of the coal miners is now assured. Yet the AFL and the CIO are merely waiting to ascertain the definite measure of that success before pressing their new wage demands."

"After yielding to the coal miners, the War Labor Board will have a fat chance to deny the future demand of the AFL and the CIO. Then we will see new life breathed into the Bankhead and Farm price bills still pending in the Senate. It all adds up to price inflation of a very dangerous character."

Recently, he said, "the President made a fine and inspiring speech on the subject of holding the line against inflationary wage increases."

But he added, "his special committee to consider a demand for railroad workers has breached that line."

Allies Again Batter Airfields on Sardinia And Pantelleria

13 Enemy Fighters Are Destroyed in Softening Of Italian Defenses

By the Associated Press. ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 28.—Allied bombers and fighters slashed again yesterday at Villacidro and Decimomannu, important Axis airfields in Sardinia, and the island of Pantelleria, it was announced today.

Thirteen enemy fighters were destroyed in combat—all from a hornet's nest stirred up at Decimomannu—and many more on the ground in the continued softening up of Italy's outer defenses.

Allied fighters unloaded more than 4,000 fragmentation bombs over the Decimomannu airfield. Crewmen said the explosions smashed a large number of grounded planes and damaged many more.

Strong enemy fighter groups intercepted the bombers, and a fierce 18-minute running fight ensued. The Marauder gunners shot down seven of the attackers. The P-40 Warhawk escort accounted for six others.

The only American loss in the battle, in which enemy fighters pursued the bombers to within 25 miles of the North African coast, was a Warhawk which fell into the sea. The pilot was rescued.

A Middle East air communique issued in Cairo said Allied long-range fighters again ranged over the Aegean Sea yesterday at the eastern end of the Mediterranean, destroying at least one Junkers 88.

The Cairo announcement, reporting further on Wednesday operations, said two small enemy vessels were attacked that day off the coast of Greece, one being left in a sinking condition while the other was definitely sunk.

All Middle East command aircraft returned safely.

The Italian communique, broadcast by the Rome radio and recorded by the Associated Press, acknowledged Allied raids on Sardinia and Pantelleria, reporting some damage resulted in the Pantelleria raid.

The Italians also said Sicily was struck by the bombers. Nine Allied planes were declared shot down during the day. Two Italian planes were reported to return to their base, the communique said.

10,000 Italians Reported Fleeing to Mountains

STOCKHOLM, May 28 (AP)—Their homes in Southern Italy blasted by Allied bombs, 10,000 Italians are in flight to mountain villages to escape further raids, the Rome correspondent for the Dagens Nyheter reported yesterday.

The correspondent wrote that the refugees were receiving preference over vacationers at resorts and hotels along the way.

3 Boys Are Killed by Train As They Watch Another Pass

By the Associated Press. CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 28.—Three small boys, carrying home their term's end report cards certifying advancement to higher grades in grammar school, sat down on the railroad tracks today to watch a freight train pass and were killed by another train whose approach they failed to notice.

Charleston city police identified the victims as Robert Eugene Hall, 9, promoted from the second to third grade; his brother Herbert Roy Hall, 12, advanced from the fourth to fifth grade; and Paul Kautz, Jr., 9, son of a former Charleston confederator, who also would have entered the fifth grade next September.

The brothers were sons of Roy T. Hall, employe of a highway contractor. Their mother was reported somewhere in Tennessee at the time of the accident, and the father was at work.

Railroad officials said the children were hurled 30 or 40 feet and their bodies badly mangled when struck by the Chesapeake & Ohio passenger train as they watched the freight on the opposite track.

Representatives of civic and welfare organizations today urged the Commissioners to sponsor appropriation for the resumption of the housekeeping aide program and to make it an official project of the city government.

A spokesman for the Commissioners said they were impressed by the arguments presented and that a decision probably would be reached early next week.

They have asked the group to give information as to what service is provided under the United War Chest, formerly the Community War Fund, in an allocation of $800,000 made for home and child care, to see whether there would be duplication. One of the Commissioners also said he felt there would have to be a definite understanding as to what would constitute indigency in the light of the program, since it should be limited only to families in financial need.

The group, of which Mrs. Harold Marsh was one of the spokesmen, stressed that such a program was needed more in wartime than during peace since so many young women became married and were unable to provide help of their own in case of illness, and that it was cheaper to provide essential housekeeping service by the proposed program than under a system of placing children in foster homes or other agencies when adult care at home was lacking.

They also argued it would prevent the breaking up of family life and permit persons to be discharged from hospitals sooner.

Six Die as Navy Bomber Crashes in Florida

By the Associated Press. LAKE CITY, Fla., May 28.—Six men were killed last night when a twin-engine bomber from the Lake City Naval Air Station crashed in a pine forest while preparing to land after a routine night flight.

General Dependence On Food Subsidies Is Risky, Davis Says

Tells Senate Committee It Can't Be Chief Weapon In Fight on Inflation

A Senate Agriculture Subcommittee inquiring into proposed subsidy payments to compensate for a food price rollback was told by Food Administrator Chester C. Davis today that "a general dependence on broad subsidy payments would be dangerous."

"You simply can't make it a chief weapon in the fight against inflation," he declared, "I don't think that use of subsidies as a means of holding inflation down permanently would do it."

Referring to an Office of Price Administration order for a 10 per cent rollback in the retail price of butter, meats and coffee beginning June 1, Mr. Davis said he doubted the wisdom of the proposal to pay processors subsidies to compensate for reduced market prices.

Asked by Chairman Smith about civilian food prospects this year, Mr. Davis expressed belief there would be "an abundance to eat but not in the types of food our tastes would have us purchase."

"I should think," he added, "that we should push protein substitutes, for example, and not try to make meat more attractive by price cuts."

"And I think that we should encourage the production of milk solids. To concentrate on butter production doesn't seem the wisest course of pursuit."

Meanwhile, Senator Bushfield, Republican of South Dakota, disclosed that the subcommittee had submitted a bill to prohibit payment of subsidies for food products without congressional authorization.

"Failure to insist that subsidies of the type now contemplated by OPA be paid only out of funds specifically appropriated for that purpose by Congress," Senator Bushfield said, "will be tantamount to a green light for the administration to go ahead with its attempt to bolster up and preserve inequities in the price structure by paying general subsidies whenever it sees fit."

By the Associated Press. LEWISBURG, Pa., May 28.—Dr. Hu Shih, former Chinese Ambassador to the United States, told Bucknell University graduates today that "the new world order which we want to see set up after this terrible war must be a kind of league to enforce peace."

"It must be an international organization based upon the principle of a threat of overwhelming power to prevent aggressive wars," he said in a prepared commencement address.

GOP and Democratic Senators Applaud Byrnes' Appointment

View President's Move As Step in Centralizing War Authority

By the Associated Press. President Roosevelt's appointment of James F. Byrnes as war mobilization director brought praise from both Democrats and Republicans in the Senate today.

Senate Minority Leader McNary told reporters he has "tremendous confidence" in Mr. Byrnes' ability to "exercise the authority of war mobilization" and Chairman Truman of the Senate's War Investigating Committee said he is "very glad we finally have a centralization of authority."

Senator Taft, Republican of Ohio, suggested that Mr. Byrnes ought to head a war cabinet, a development that Senator Mead, Democrat, of New York, said seems indicated in President Roosevelt's statement accompanying the appointment.

10 Sign Statement. Ten Senators joined in a statement calling the President's new war mobilization setup "a strong step in the right direction" of carrying out what was sought in the Kilgore-Pepper-Tolan bill.

"We hope this presidential action will now gear the entire domestic economy and mobilize all resources to the urgent tasks set by the Churchill-Roosevelt conferences and their accompanying staff decisions," the statement read.

"It is hoped that this office will at last establish that economic high command which has been repeatedly urged by this committee. This had reference to a Military Affairs Subcommittee, which two weeks ago issued a preliminary report on war mobilization plans.

"We hope that the director of war mobilization will proceed at once to establish the machinery necessary to balance and schedule the war program of its constituent offices," the statement continued. "We trust that this will strengthen scheduling activities already begun under Mr. Charles E. Wilson of the War Production Board.

Co-ordination Major Problem. "As the interim report of May 13 has pointed out, such a move opens the way for the co-ordination of manpower, production and economic stabilization policies, which hitherto been lacking. The handling of economic stabilization, particularly as applied to prices, wages and food production, will be one of the major problems which face this new office."

Those joining in the statement are: Senators Thomas, Democrat, of Utah; Murray, Democrat, of Montana; Capper, Republican, of Kansas; Holman, Republican, of Oregon; Ball, Republican, of Minnesota; Truman, Johnson, Democrat, of Colorado; Pepper, Democrat, of Florida; Green, Democrat, of Rhode Island, and Wallgren, Democrat, of Washington.

Senator Kilgore, Democrat, of West Virginia, one of the authors of the war mobilization bill, is ill, but authorized a brief statement in which he said he trusted the order

Mussolini Reported Deciding to Resist In Islands to End

Defenses on Sicily and Sardinia to Be Boosted, Morocco Radio Declares

By the Associated Press. LONDON, May 28.—Premier Mussolini met secretly yesterday with his Fascist party chiefs and decided to continue resistance in Sicily and Sardinia "to the end," the Morocco radio said today in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press.

All fortifications on both stepping stones to the Italian mainland will be strengthened immediately, anti-aircraft batteries will be increased and Sicily's bomb-battered airports will be enlarged under decisions of the Fascist leaders, according to the broadcast.

(The Morocco radio has not always been accurate in its presentation of the news of the Mediterranean theater and this account was not confirmed in other quarters, but, with the threat of invasion growing, some such arrangements were due to be made by Mussolini.)

The report by Italian dispatches that Allied ramp boats or invasion barges had been attacked by Axis warplanes in the Bizerte and Sousse harbors underlined the urgency of defense measures.

Reports from neutral centers told of heightened perturbation among the Italians.

A Tass dispatch date lined Bern said all Rome courts had been transferred to Florence—a move which had been predicted for Mussolini's government. The Soviet agency also said all universities in the southern provinces had been closed and the students withdrawn to Northern Italy.

The Free French News Agency said in a dispatch from Ankara that several Hungarian divisions, including armored units, had arrived in Bulgaria, presumably en route to Greece.

The Cairo radio said large air maneuvers were held recently in the Athens area.

Dissension in OPA

Spurs Move to Shift Food Power to Davis

Clash of Chief Aides Gives Brown Choice Of Discharging One

By CARTER BROOKE JONES.

With the movement to transfer control over food prices and rationing from the Office of Price Administration to the War Food Administration gaining influential support in Congress, dissension within OPA apparently left Price Administrator Brown today the choice of discharging one or the other of two top-flight OPA executives—Lou Maxon, deputy administrator in charge of public relations, or Dr. J. K. Galbraith, deputy administrator directing price control.

Mr. Maxon, a Detroit advertising executive serving OPA for $1 a year, demanded the job next to the administrator's with complete control over policy-direction and personnel. And he said he would resign if he didn't get these powers. Dr. Galbraith, former assistant professor of economics at Princeton, declared he would resign if Mr. Maxon gained his objective. Mr. Maxon then reported that if he were OPA second in command, he'd give "the professor" 15 minutes to pack up and leave.

Confronted with this situation, Mr. Brown, without naming the two officials, told reporters last night that if his ranking advisers couldn't get along, he would pick the one he considered best and let the other go. But the administrator added that he doubted if he would decide the matter for a couple of weeks, and he was more concerned at the moment with subsidizing and other food policies.

He gave no indication of which official he was inclined to favor. Patman Favors Davis. Meanwhile, Chairman Patman of the House Small Business Committee proposed, as some members of the House Banking Committee have that supervision over production, distribution and prices of food be centered in Food Administrator Chester C. Davis. Mr. Patman said he would offer the plan as an amendment to a measure extending the life of the Commodity Credit Corp. This bill is before the Banking Committee.

"Congress," said Mr. Patman, "made a serious mistake when it divided authority and responsibility on food prices between the OPA and the Secretary of Agriculture. A difference of opinion between these two departments leads to undue delay and oftentimes great hardships."

Chairman Fulmer of the House Agriculture Committee disclosed he is working on a measure, to be introduced early next week, which would place "the entire business" of food supervision in the hands of the War Food Administration, "with the power that Mr. Davis thought he would have when he became administrator."

Mr. Fulmer predicted that unless Congress acted on the food situation, the executive branch would have to do something. Grange Backs Davis' Control. The move in congressional quarters to give Food Administrator Davis complete control of all Government functions connected with food—thus removing it from the jurisdiction of the OPA—also won the backing of the National Grange. Albert S. Goss, master of the organization, advocated this before the House Banking Committee.

His position was recorded only a few minutes after Representative Patman formally notified the Banking Committee that he would offer three amendments to the Commodity Credit Corp. bill. They would: 1. Turn control of the food problems over to the food administrator. 2. Turn administration of all petroleum and fuel problems over to Secretary Ickes as petroleum co-ordinator. 3. Place enforcement of both fuel and food regulations under the Justice Department.

Many observers felt that if food control were taken from OPA, the OPA Doing Good Job, Brown Says; Scoffs At Adverse Rumors

Price Administrator Prentiss Brown said today "OPA is doing a more effective job than it has ever done in its history. It will do an even more effective job in the days ahead," and declared any "charge that it is coming apart at the seams is nonsense."

"Some people have left the organization—others undoubtedly will leave from time to time," he added. "I demand of my staff that they carry out my instructions with force and with intelligence. Those who cannot or will not follow those instructions will go."

"Do not be misled by all the cry in Washington, the American people are behind the OPA. I will not let them down."

Wilson Would Amend War Bond Ads Bill To Safeguard Press

Iowa Senator Proposes Treasury Co-operation With Publisher Groups

Senator Wilson, Republican, of Iowa fears the freedom of the press might be impaired by legislation, as now drawn, to appropriate up to $30,000,000 annually for Government purchase of newspaper advertising space and for publication of information to promote War bond sales.

He added in a statement yesterday that he had introduced amendments which he believes would provide safeguards. Point to Amendment. One of the amendments would strike out a section which Senator Wilson said could be interpreted to mean that the "Secretary of the Treasury, in co-operation with certain publishers' associations, shall prescribe regulations under which they determine whether criticism of any public official is justified, and having decided, the Secretary of the Treasury shall 'protect editors and publishers' in their right to publish such criticism."

The Iowaian said he doubted that such was the intent of the author, Senator Bankhead, Democrat of Alabama, but added the section "is still subject to that interpretation." "From the record of the last 10 years in developing armies of Government employees," Senator Wilson continued, "may we not ask whether the doors of the newspaper offices would swing open to new Government agents, announcing their purpose to protect the editors, in court or elsewhere, and under the guise of protection take their liberties away from the press?"

Commenting on a provision in the section prescribing regulations to avoid interference with the independence of a newspaper, he said: "I am hesitant about the effect of a declaration by Congress amounting solely to a fatherly admonition to such officials and employees merely to 'avoid' interference with the independence of any newspaper."

"Fatherly Fashion." "Also in fatherly fashion," he said, "advices the administrators to 'keep the war finance campaign in all of its phases as non-partisan as possible.'"

"Are we to assume that the sale of Government securities," Senator Wilson went on, "might be made a partisan issue?"

As a substitute for this section Senator Wilson proposed one which would provide merely that the Secretary of the Treasury, in co-operation with recognized publishers' associations, prepare the material and "fairly allocate" it to the individual newspapers.

Raid (Continued From First Page.) ing out at dawn toward Northern France. At Jena, the speedy Mosquitoes struck the Carl Zeiss instrument factory and the Schott glass works. First reports said both were sharply damaged. The works are rated as the most important of their kind in Germany.

Penetrate Balloon Barrage. Darting out 500 miles from their British bases, two formations of the Mosquitoes reached Jena just before dark and swooped down through a balloon barrage to 200 feet to make the attack despite intense opposition from ground guns. Three bombers were lost. British fighters on patrol sweeps over Northern France and Belgium soon after dusk last night destroyed two enemy fighters and shot up communication targets. One pilot was credited with attacking two locomotives, bombing canal lock gates, damaging two tugs and a barge and strafing a contingent of German troops.

Barclay Is Greeted By 60 Members of Howard U. Faculty

Lunch at Fort Belvoir Follows Half-Hour Visit To University

President Edwin Barclay of Liberia visited Howard University today and met more than 60 of the administrators and teachers assembled in the new library.

"It is an honor to have you here," said Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of the university, as he met President Barclay on the steps of the library. Mr. Barclay was accompanied by the Liberian President-elect, William V. S. Tubman, and a military aide, Brig. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis.

First the Liberian officials went inside President Johnson's office to meet a few of the chief administrators of the university. These included James A. Nabrit, Jr., secretary; D. Johnson, treasurer; G. Frederick Stanton, administrative assistant to the president; the deans of the nine academic schools and Librarian Walter G. Daniel.

Then the party motored around the university's 55 acres and 26 buildings. Mr. Barclay went inside only the library, which was built at a cost of more than $1,000,000 and dedicated by Secretary of the Interior Ickes in May, 1939.

Lunch at Fort Belvoir. Later Mr. Barclay and Mr. Tubman met about 50 of the full professors of the university in the "browsing room" of the library. "After his half-hour visit the Liberian leader drove to Fort Belvoir for lunch with the commanding officer and a troop inspection. The State Department officials accompanying Mr. Barclay were Edward W. Nash and Frederick P. Hibbard, in charge of affaires at Monrovia, Liberia.

Mr. Barclay addressed both the House and Senate yesterday. In the House Mr. Barclay, descendant of one-time American slaves, said his country had derived its constitution from this Nation and that its people were carrying out the democratic principles of government. Echoing the theme of Prime Minister Churchill's speech from the same rostrum last week, Mr. Barclay stated that the peoples of the world must battle together to save democracy because countries like his own can not continue "unless we fight to preserve the principles of democratic government."

Aid Pledged to U. S. At a press conference later, Mr. Barclay said he had given President Roosevelt a pledge of the Negro republic's aid to the United States insofar as compatible with his country's national interests. "Liberia is co-operating with the United Nations in whatever matters she can bring to successful fruition the great work undertaken by them for the maintenance of democratic ideals throughout the world," he said.

Liberia's main industry is rubber growing, Mr. Barclay said, with the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. producing about 80 per cent of the output and a Liberian company the remainder. He added that fear of competition from synthetic rubber was causing the American hesitancy to develop Liberia's natural rubber resources to the fullest.

American Negro troops are helping defend his country, whose bases protect the west coast of Africa, he said, since Liberia has no army or air force, but only a frontier guard. After several more days here, the Liberian President will leave on a trip arranged for him by the State Department to meet representative groups in Philadelphia, New York and Xenia and Columbus, Ohio.

Cult conditions." These swift craft previously have raided Berlin and Oslo. Co-leaders of the attack were Wing Comdr. R. W. Reynolds and Squadron Leader W. W. Blessing. Reynolds won the DSO for his part in the January daylight attack on Berlin which forced Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering to delay the speech he was about to make during the Nazi anniversary celebration.

Meanwhile, award of the Victoria Cross to Acting Wing Comdr. Guy P. Gibson, 25-year-old leader of the raid on the Moshine and Eder dams in Germany's Ruhr Valley the night of May 16, made him the RAF's most decorated man of the war. Five Trips Over Berlin. Gibson previously had won a double Distinguished Service Order and a double Distinguished Flying Cross for various exploits in carrying 370,000 pounds of bombs to enemy territory in 74 operations, including five trips over Berlin.

On six occasions the pilot has emerged safely from tight corners when his craft was shot up by flak, but he says he never has seen an enemy night fighter. Simultaneous with last night's announcement of the award to Gibson of England's highest decoration for valor, 33 other flyers on the dam-busting raids were honored with various awards, including the Distinguished Service Order for Flight Lt. Joseph C. McCarthy of St. James, Long Island, N. Y.

Lt. McCarthy already was the holder of the Distinguished Flying Cross.

By the Associated Press. RENO, May 28.—Mrs. Helene O. Edmonds Noble, socially prominent New Yorker, has obtained a divorce from Herbert Noble, Jr., attorney for the National Labor Relations Board. Custody of two children, Herbert Noble, 3d, 11, and Helene Noble, 7, was awarded to Mrs. Noble. Mrs. Noble charged her husband with extreme cruelty, asserted he struck her on several occasions and shouted at her in the presence of their children. The Nobles were living with Mrs. Noble's mother when the separation occurred, records showed. The Nobles were married in New York June 19, 1930.

Two Federal Agencies Fear Absenteeism In Gas Shortage

Census Bureau and Hydrographic Office Begin to Feel Pinch

The Census Bureau with half its 3,300 employees at Suitland, Md., arriving in automobiles, faces a serious transportation problem unless the gasoline situation improves over the week end, a spokesman for the agency said today.

There had been some general tardiness Tuesday due to changes in bus operation and employees driving their own cars hunting for gasoline, he said. That has straightened out since.

The Navy Hydrographic Office with 800 employees housed in a nearby building is having the same troubles. These agencies are dependent on motorized transportation in the matter of the arrival of their employees.

The commandant of the War Department's Pentagon Building across the river, where 12,000 employees arrive by bus and 17,000 by automobile, said he "is not as concerned about the gasoline shortage as the newspapers are."

A check on the employees during the first two days of this week revealed less than 1 per cent tardiness. That small percentage has disappeared since, it was said today. No increase in absenteeism was noticeable.

With the extension of pipe lines and the arrival of barges, the gasoline situation will continue to get so that those determined to get some gasoline for their cars can do so, the commandant feels.

"Our employees arrive early for the most part," a spokesman for the War Department said today. "For one thing, a lot of them get breakfast here. As for the automobile transportation two or more members of our car pools usually have a car, and where there are two cars one of them is likely to have enough gasoline."

At Agriculture Department, one of the largest agencies in point of employment, it was said, "the general feeling is that there has been no change this week in the time employees are arriving at work. Many employees report they are leaving home 15 to 30 minutes earlier."

Other Federal departments made similar statements.

Jones Stresses Need Of Saving Small Firms

Essential to Democracy, Commerce Head Says

Secretary of Commerce Jones told the Senate Commerce Committee yesterday that preservation of small business "is essential to a democracy."

Mr. Jones agreed with a statement by Senator Clark, Democrat, of Missouri that some Government agencies have dealt primarily with large business concerns during the war.

"At the beginning of the war, particularly, it was easier to deal with big business and it was the surest way to get quickly what was required," Mr. Jones said.

"However, at present, industry is doing a good job, supplies with few exceptions are coming along smoothly and they now have more time to spread the work around to small business."

He said he was "highly in favor" of a measure by Senator Wiley, Republican, of Wisconsin to provide for an Assistant Secretary of Commerce for small business and one by Senator Mead, Democrat, of New York to aid small business by collection and dissemination of specific business management practices.

Pvt. Donald W. Bonney Dies Of New Guinea Illness

Pfc. Donald W. Bonney, 20, of 7007 Woodland avenue, Takoma Park, died yesterday at the Bushmill General Hospital, Brigham, Utah, from malaria contracted while on duty with the Army Air Forces in New Guinea, his parents were informed today.

A graduate of Roosevelt High School, he was a freshman at the University of Washington, Seattle, at the time of his enlistment in January, 1942. He was active in the high school cadet corps and a member of Boy Scout Troop No. 33.

Pfc. Bonney left for Australia in February 1942, and was brought back to the United States early this month. His family was not at his bedside, as he was to have been sent to an Army hospital in the Washington area.

He is survived by his father, Victor Bonney, a chemist with the Food and Drug Administration; his stepmother, Mrs. Edna Bonney, and a sister, Mrs. Carl Hayes.

Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

IN ANNAPOLIS CLASS—Midshipman Leo G. D. Weimer, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. D. The picture used in yesterday's Star over the name of Midshipman Weimer was inadvertently submitted by the academy and was not that of the midshipman.

OPA Fuel Oil Ration System To Be Simplified for 1943-44

Consumers Will Be Given Opportunity To Fill Their Tanks During Summer

By GOULD LINCOLN.

Fuel oil rationing for the winter of 1943-4 is being worked out by the OPA with the utmost care for the protection of the health of the people.

Here are highlights of the program, tentative full but which will be announced in full very soon:

1. Simple honor system reapplication blank.
2. Consumers given opportunity to fill tanks during the summer.
3. Streamlined coupon mechanics.
4. Ration banking for suppliers and for large consumers.
5. Simplification plan for small users (mostly kerosene).
6. Increased rations for small homes.

Three Months on Plan. With a year's experience to its advantage, the OPA has worked for nearly three months on the new program. It has conferred with consumer and labor groups. It has received suggestions from members of Congress, governors, mayors, health officers and members of the oil industry.

Many conferences were held with regional and district officers who have been in charge of fuel oil rationing. Careful attention was given to all the complaints and criticisms of the rationing program in effect during the last year.

Although there was a demand in some quarters that the whole system of 1942-43 rationing be scrapped and a new start be made, it was deemed unwise. The new program is based on the old, with improved and streamlined amendments designed to aid the consumers as well as to conserve in every way possible the fuel oil supplies.

An effort has been made also to correct incidental inequities growing out of the administration of this year's plan.

The first basic decision reached was to do away with a general recalculation of individual rations. In other words, except in special cases, rations will be reissued on the basis of this year's calculations.

The second basic decision was to put rations in the hands of the consumer during June. This carries with it the opportunity to fill consumer tanks without delay this summer.

This is particularly important in the East Coast States and also in the Northwest, where consumers' tanks represent a substantial portion of total storage capacity. The fillup of these tanks will help stock positions at the beginning of the next heating season and also increase the efficiency of delivery operations by the oil industry.

The plan is for a general re-registration for present ration holders during the first two weeks in June. Since no new information will be required of the consumer, a simple one-page application form will be sufficient for re-registration.

Beyond identifying the consumer and indicating that there has been no change of address, the form will constitute an application for renewal of this year's ration. It will be subject to whatever adjustments the individual consumer may be entitled to under the new regulations.

No declaration of inventory on hand will be required on this renewal application form. The board, at the time of reissuing the ration, will check this year's calculations for any errors that may have been made.

Forms Simplified. Those consumers who will need a ration for next winter for heat and hot water purposes, and have not had a ration during the current year will be required to file the detailed application form. Wherever possible, the 1941-42 consumption of the previous occupant will be used in calculating the ration in such cases.

Last year's forms for private dwellings and for all other structures, somewhat simplified, will be available after October 1.

The local rationing boards are at present engaged in addressing renewal forms for all rations. These forms will be distributed by mail within the next few days.

Consumers will be required to file the renewal form before June 15 or run the risk of not getting next winter's ration until October or November. This sanction is necessary, it is said, because the local boards' schedule is already filled for the months of July, August and at least part of September.

Industry co-operation will be sought in obtaining maximum compliance with the June 15 deadline. The renewal form may be returned by consumers' mail, so that no long waiting lines at local ration boards will be necessary.

Two problems arise in reissuing rations if the circumstances have changed since the original issue. It has been decided to adopt an honor system for changes which reduce fuel oil needs, and by a simple form to bring out changes that increase them.

Consumers will not be asked to describe or to identify downward changes, but simply to estimate the reductions in fuel oil requirements and notify the local board.

The reporting of upward changes in oil needs has been postponed until after October 1. Consumers who know now of such changes will receive their rations on the basis of this year's circumstances, however, and will have an opportunity in the fall to apply for an additional allotment if they still need it.

Will Correct Inequities. Modifications in the rules are being made to take care of inequities which showed up during the last heating season. Evidence has been accumulated showing that the floor area formula for private dwellings produced disproportionately large cuts for small homes.

An analysis of over 20,000 cases indicated a need for some upward adjustment in the formula allowance for centrally heated private homes. This will apply to dwellings, but varying as to floor space in the different zones. The rule laid down is for upward adjustments as follows:

For dwellings up to 600 square feet in Zone A; 800 square feet in Zone B; 900 square feet in Zone C, and 1,000 square feet in Zone D.

Fuel oil rationing is applicable to 32 States and the District of Columbia, and this has been the present setup. Zone A includes Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Northern New York, and the northernmost Midwest States. Zone B includes Pennsylvania, the rest of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Zone C is composed of Delaware, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia and West Virginia.

Degree Day Adjustment. Provision is being made also for a "degree day adjustment" in lower Zone D, the warmer regions. There 65 degrees appears to be an inaccurate measure of fuel requirements. Temperatures during a considerable number of months of the year drop well below 65 degrees during a certain part of the day and rise well above 65 degrees during the warmest part of the day.

The new regulations give certain consideration to large homes, where the old regulations produced real hardship in certain cases. The maximum area to be included for a single person in calculating next year's ration will be raised from 2,000 to 3,000 square feet. The increments will remain at 600 square feet for the second person, plus 300 square feet for each additional person.

Consumers who require fuel oil and kerosene for non-heating purposes will not be included in the general registration in June but will continue on their present schedules. Commercial, industrial and governmental rations will continue to be issued quarterly.

Cooking, lighting and other domestic, institutional and agricultural rations will be issued on a semi-annual basis, according to the present schedule of expiration. The 30-day overlap period for renewal of these rations will be continued also.

Coupon Plan Simplified. The coupon system has been simplified, particularly with reference to values. Also the writing of serial numbers on the coupons has been eliminated.

The question of the proper conversion policy for next winter is still, it is said, under consideration. An announcement may be expected in the near future. There may be a recognition of a lesser need for conversions in some areas than in others.

No re-registration of suppliers and dealers will be required in making a transition to next year's program. If need for it should develop, it will be put off until after the summer season.

West Point Senior Class Views Latest Weapons

By the Associated Press. ABERDEEN, Md., May 28.—Members of the West Point graduating class, already well schooled in the theory of warfare, had a vivid insight into the actual power of modern military weapons today.

The West Pointers, 540 strong, spent all of yesterday at the huge Aberdeen Proving Ground, where all Army ordnance is tested, viewing demonstrations of Uncle Sam's most deadly and effective weapons and military technique.

Maj. Gen. L. H. Williams, chief of ordnance of the British Army, witnessed part of the show put on for the cadets.

By far the most spectacular demonstration was a display of the skipper's new "Jap" task force in the Bismarck Sea.

A medium bomber carrying a 500-pound bomb swooped down on a dummy ship anchored off the proving ground at a speed of more than 300 miles per hour. At not more than 50 feet above the surface of the water it loosed its bomb.

The missile hit the water, bounced upward about 25 feet, hit and bounced off the water again and then crashed into the target with a terrific explosion.

45% to 65% of Stores In Survey Charged With OPA Violations

President of Association Quoted Erroneously, House Record Shows

By the Associated Press. Dr. Paul Nystrom, president of the Limited Variety Stores Association, Inc., told the House Small Business Committee, printed hearings showed today, that in a study by the CIO at Detroit it was found "that from 45 to 65 per cent of all of the retail stores visited were in violation of OPA orders."

At the time Dr. Nystrom testified, he was quoted erroneously as saying that 45 to 65 per cent of the 6,240 stores represented by his association had violated regulations of the Office of Price Administration. The CIO investigation in Detroit was not connected with the Variety Stores represented by Dr. Nystrom's association.

It was "just beyond human possibility for retailers, such as the ones in the variety trade, to keep up with" OPA's hundreds of orders, regulations and amendments, he said.

As to violations, Dr. Nystrom commented: "Violations Prevalent. I would rather expect that one could go into almost every store in the United States, regardless of whether it were a chain store or an independent store, and find violations under these many orders."

He suggested a simplification and codification of OPA orders to aid understanding and compliance.

Low Hahn, general manager of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, declared yesterday that "certain influences in OPA care very little about the small business concern; the philosophies of this group appear to be distinctly totalitarian."

Appearing before a House Commerce Subcommittee investigating OPA regulations, Mr. Hahn said he spoke for about 6,000 stores.

Cites Reasons for Failure. "Never before in the history of our Government did any Federal agency start out with more in its favor than the Office of Price Administration when Leon Henderson took the freshly granted mandate of Congress, and something like $100,000,000 to undertake price control," Mr. Hahn told the committee.

He said that a "year of failure, in my judgment, has been due primarily to the recruiting under the banner of OPA of every disgruntled crackpot, every disgruntled reformer and every half-baked young law student who could be enlisted in that service."

"All of this might have been so different if the attitude of OPA people had been one which invited co-operation," he said, "and if somewhere near the top there had been a real conviction that the men of business are as capable of patriotic devotion to the cause of the Nation as any of the young lawyers and assistant professors who have been set over them."

Battle Demands Unlearned As Yet, Gen. McNair Says

MOBILE HEADQUARTERS, 3d ARMY, La., May 28.—Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, Army ground forces commander who was wounded during the Tunisian campaign, said yesterday that "we haven't learned our lessons well enough to meet battle demands."

Gen. McNair, inspecting the 3d Army maneuver field, declared he had brought with him from Africa "a lot of new ideas, some old ones reborn, but nothing radical."

"We have to do what we always have been trying to do, only do it better and try harder. We haven't learned our lessons well enough to meet battle demands. We haven't done badly at all; we have won victories. I think the price has been too high in some instances, but there is nothing to be discouraged about."

GREYHOUND URGES: AVOID TRAVEL OVER MEMORIAL DAY

Bus Service Will Be Temporarily Reduced During the Gasoline Emergency

Greyhound Bus service throughout this area is being reduced to save gasoline during the present emergency. This is being done in compliance with fuel conservation orders of the Office of Defense Transportation. Undoubtedly this curtailment of service will mean some inconvenience and delay. Greyhound feels certain you will appreciate the need for this reduction in service and will co-operate fully by leaving the limited space available over the holiday weekend for absolutely essential travel.

New Blows at Nazis And Japs Seen as Strategy Talks End

Roosevelt Announces
'Complete Agreement'
On Future Plans

By the Associated Press.
Conclusion of the strategy conference between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill was viewed here today as marking the beginning of a new phase of this global war—a phase in which the United Nations are destined to undertake full-scale offensives in both Europe and the Pacific.
The end of the historic meeting was announced by President Roosevelt late yesterday. He said simply that "complete agreement" had been reached on future plans. What those plans are will become known only as they unfold in action.
The very wording of the President's statement suggested that when the conference began there were questions of vast strategic importance which required answering to the satisfaction of both British and American leaders. The fact that, as Mr. Roosevelt indicates, they have now been answered leaves no doubt that decisions of supreme importance have been made.
President's Statement.
The President's statement said only this:
"The conference of the combined staffs in Washington has ended in complete agreement on future operations in all theaters of the war."
That the war against Japan received the fullest consideration was made clear by Mr. Churchill in his address to Congress. Yet it was equally clear that there had been no change in the grand strategy previously agreed on to smash Germany first and Japan second.
The war in Europe is expected to be won by some time next year at the latest, but the conflict in the Pacific may run on until 1945 or 1946, according to reliable estimates.
The forces available for use against Japan's flank have been greatly increased. Mr. Roosevelt revealed at a recent press conference that the bulk of American strength already was in the Pacific. When those forces grow sufficiently strong and the time is right, there probably will be an American thrust which will so directly threaten Japanese vital interests that the Japanese fleet will be compelled to fight.
Destruction of that fleet is generally considered to be the primary objective of the American naval high command. Occupation of new island bases, now that the supply lines to the Southwest Pacific have been secured, is secondary to that purpose. But Japanese strategy has become so defensive within the last six months that they no longer appear willing to fight for a position which they do not need vitally.
Their failure to make a counter-attack by sea on United States forces at Attu Island—which stands in direct contrast to the long struggle they put up for Guadalcanal—not only doomed their garrison there, but also at their main Aleutians base on Kiska.
Burma Road No. 1 Task.
The weakest spot in the Allied ring around China at present, observers here agree, is on the continent of Asia. China, which could be made a formidable offensive base, is isolated from British and American arsenals except by air transports from India. Reopening of the Burma road remains the No. 1 task of the Allied forces in India in order that bulk supplies may be moved into China rapidly.
The presence of Field Marshal Sir Archibald Wavell, the Allied chief in India, and his top sea air officers in Washington for the Roosevelt-Churchill talks gave considerable weight to speculation that a drive to break the Japanese hold on Burma is a primary objective of the high command.
Because of the monsoons which flood Burma's valleys in the summer, the job cannot be fully done before next fall or winter, but planning at this time would be necessary to assure its accomplishment then.
Participation of Russia in the war against Japan would quickly solve the problem of bases from which to bomb the main Japanese islands, but this may not be possible at least until the war in Europe is won.
Mr. Churchill was at considerable pains to explain to a press conference Tuesday the enormous effort Russia had expended and would continue to spend in fighting Germany. He left the impression that nothing more could or should be asked of her now.

Stay or Set Aside Order

Members of the Public Utilities Commission today were considering a new attack on their decision in the Potomac Electric Power Co. rate case, the latest challenge coming from the power concern.
In a petition filed with the PUC late yesterday, Pepco asked for reconsideration of the recent rate reduction order, charging the commission had made a number of errors, the effect of which would be "irreparable property loss and lessened revenues" for the power company.
OPA Petition Previously Rejected.
A reconsideration petition which had been filed by the OPA and other intervening Federal agencies was rejected Monday by a PUC majority decision. The spokesmen for the Federal agencies had insisted the rate reduction order should have been for not less than $2,000,000 instead of some $312,000.
Pepco yesterday claimed the rate reduction should be stayed, if not set aside. One of the grounds was that the PUC had erred in excluding $1,429,644 from the rate base, this representing the difference between book cost and the consent decreed value placed on properties retired from public service since the sliding scale plan was put into effect in 1925.

Tax Allowance Protested.
The company also protested the PUC had erred in excluding from charge against operating expenses any income tax liability of the company in excess of a rate of 31 per cent. During the recent rate case, the company had claimed it was entitled to credits for all taxes it was required to pay.
The company protested the commission had ordered a rate reduction despite a showing that company earnings for the past calendar year were less than the basic 6 per cent rate of return permitted in the sliding scale plan. It said attempted changes of the sliding scale formula were unreasonable.
A petition for reconsideration of a decision by the PUC is a necessary first step if a party to a case wishes to carry a text to the District Court. A decision by the PUC on the Pepco petition is expected within a day or two.

Rear Admiral Rosendahl Takes Over New Command

By the Associated Press.
LAKEHURST, N. J., May 28.—Twenty years from the time he first reported to the naval air station here for training on lighter-than-air craft, Rear Admiral Charles E. Rosendahl was back as the first chief of naval airship training.
Creation of the post, the 4th Naval District announced, places the lighter-than-air training program on an equal footing with the other four training commands in naval aviation, all involving plane operations.

Expansion of the airship service and selection of Admiral Rosendahl as chief results from the performance of blimps in convoy and coastal anti-submarine patrol work since the outbreak of the present war, the Navy said.

Admiral Rosendahl, a native of Chicago and one of the outstanding exponents of lighter-than-air craft, came here first in 1923 and was graduated as a pilot in 1924.

UNSEEN SERVANTS Number Five STEPHEN GIRARD

He Built Up A Fortune . . .
Then Used It To Build Up Our Nation

HE ROSE from cabin boy to be the first American with one million dollars in property. But in Philadelphia's yellow fever panic, he was the unseen servant who created the miracle of confidence, that put fight into a hope-drained public. Later, when financial panic came, he poured his own fortune into the United States Bank to restore faith in our monetary system.
Conscious of physical disfigurement and sensitive from mistreatment at home, Stephen Girard did not thrust himself forward—so was not always seen behind the good he did.

Today's volunteer nurse, the Civilian Defense Worker, the buyer of a war bond, and the car-sharing, victory garden planter are all unseen servants in the fight for freedom.
This company, too, operating under wartime restrictions and pressure, with many of its key employees in the armed services, is, like many other public service companies, an unseen servant in the war effort. Extra hours are being devoted, extra facilities added, and all other steps possible are being taken to guard our standards of service. Directly and indirectly we, therefore, guard the health of thousands of unseen fighters on the home front.

RETALIATORY RAID—This scene is the result of a retaliatory raid by the Japanese on the American air base at Funafuti, largest of the Ellice Islands, recently taken over by the Army. American airmen had carried out a devastating raid on the Japanese island of Nauru in the Gilbert Islands, concentrating on the huge phosphate works and airfield there. The American raid was staged by a large force of four-motor Liberators and no planes were lost. The Japs lost from five to seven Zeros.

Eastern Gas Dealers Urge Nation-Wide Restrictions on Use

Appointment of Ickes As Czar of Industry Also Proposed

Placing of the entire Nation on the same restricted basis as Eastern Seaboard motorists in the current gasoline shortage was urged today in a statement issued by the Eastern States Gasoline Dealers' Association at a conference here.

Meanwhile, a clue to the severe shortage was seen today in a report that consumption during last month was only about one-third less than that used in April, 1942, despite supposedly stringent rationing restrictions by the OPA.

A tax report of the District tax assessor for April showed that revenue was paid on 8,276,121 gallons as compared with 13,294,946 gallons in April a year ago, before rationing began. This represents a decrease of 4,018,825 gallons.

In the April, 1942, report of the assessor, however, 508,217 gallons of aviation fuel were included, while aviation gasoline did not appear in the report for last month. The actual reduction in tax-paid gasoline sold to rationed drivers, therefore, was only 4,366,598.

The gasoline dealers offered three recommendations to alleviate the present situation: (1) a requirement of the shortage; (2) keeping in force a priority system on gasoline coupons; (3) limiting supplies of gasoline dealers on a uniform quota basis instead of the present coupon system; and (4) setting up county advisory boards or appeal boards made up of Government officials, two supply and oil company men, and two dealers.

Could Have Averted Black Market. The present breakdown could have been averted, the statement said, had OPA adopted a rationing of gasoline to districts, rather than coupon rationing, when restrictions first went into effect. Such a plan, it stated, would have eliminated the incentive for a coupon black market; coupons would have been eliminated by unscrupulous dealers and would have made any counterfeit ring operations unprofitable.

The dealers also stated that the quota system would have prevented price crises arising from the over-issuance of B and C coupon books, which led to the use of 2,000 barrels of gasoline a day in excess of the 356,000 barrels a day set by PAW for the East Coast.

Theorists Blamed. Poor, impractical planning by economic theorists was blamed for chaotic conditions in gasoline distribution. Such planners, the dealers' statement said, had lost sight of the fact that automobiles now in use must last three years or more and are the backbone of war industry transportation. It is high time, it continued, that "practical men handle this gasoline rationing muddle."

Commenting on the tax assessor's report, oil company officials pointed out that none of the gasoline listed in the report was for military purposes. Only that which was actually sold in the District, through ordinary channels, is included in the report. The list includes 22 oil companies and nine post exchanges at military camps. It was pointed out that the post who are subject to the same rationing regulations as other motorists.

District OPA officials could not be reached for comment on the significance of the figures. Nor was it possible to obtain statistics which would show the number of gasoline ration coupons which have been legally issued.

Unnecessary Driving Blamed. A spokesman for the Petroleum Administration for War, however, said his office "has been saying right along that motorists were doing too much unnecessary driving." He refused to say whether gasoline black markets in this area was a factor in the failure to reduce consumption more than the 33 per cent indicated by the assessor's reports.

It has been generally reported that the illegal use of coupons, and even counterfeit gasoline coupons which have found their way into this area, have made tremendous inroads on the supply of gasoline here. Petroleum Administrator Ickes made reference several weeks ago to the large number of illegal coupons which were being used in the East and added that even the "issuing agency" had no idea how many coupons were in circulation.

What effect the pleasure driving ban will have on total gasoline sales in the District will not be ascertained for some time, but during last February, when the first restrictions on pleasure driving were in effect, the reduction amounted to less than 40 per cent. This was about the same per cent of reduction as was recorded between September, 1941, and September, 1942, when supplies were in better shape and motorists were still getting about four gallons a week.

92 Drivers Cited. The District's gasoline situation remained unchanged today with PAW officials announcing the arrival of additional supplies and motorists still trying to find it.

Ninety-two suspected violators of the pleasure-driving ban were reported, bringing to 559 the total number reported since the ban went into effect. Eighty-nine cars were found in the vicinity of Griffith Stadium last night by District OPA inspectors, while Metropolitan police turned in three drivers.

Elimination of all unnecessary traffic lights during non-rush-hour periods was urged today by William B. Bennett, vice president and secretary of the Capital Transit Co.

Mr. Bennett's letter, addressed to Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer, stated:

"In view of the stringent restrictions on automobile and bus traffic and the consequent reduction in traffic on the street, which we understand will probably be effective until at least the latter part of July, we are asking whether you will give consideration to the cutting off of all traffic lights during that period which can be accomplished without increasing the accident hazard to vehicular or pedestrian movements.

Would Eliminate Many Stops. "While we have, of course, no checks at this time at various locations to indicate what these reduced volumes are, the elimination of traffic lights should not only conserve the restricted allotments of gasoline to buses but also reduce gasoline consumption on other vehicles by virtue of eliminating stops and starts occasioned by traffic light operations."

Public transportation here was unaffected by yesterday's Office of Defense Transportation order to reduce mileage by 20 per cent immediately. Bus schedules in the Metropolitan Area were adjusted earlier in the week in anticipation of the order and operations of major taxicab companies were curtailed automatically by the gasoline shortage.

In another development, the American Automobile Association proposed the establishment of a national committee, headed by Bernard M. Baruch, "to straighten out the muddled petroleum situation in the same way that a blueprint was drafted for rubber."

Would Have Two Functions. Thomas P. Henry, AAA president, said such a committee would have two functions: First, to give the public the facts to re-establish public confidence; and, second, to put the national petroleum policy on a definite track that will assure supplies for all military requirements and essential civilian needs.

Issuance of yesterday's order, ODT spokesman said, was necessary to "protect the public against the collapse of transportation service in July. We cannot permit service-as-usual today at the risk of no service later."

ODT, the spokesman said, found that some bus and taxicab operators failed to begin stretching their rationing voluntarily to meet the overall 40 per cent reduction in mileage ordered last Sunday. That reduction was to be accomplished by extending the valid period for all current "T" gasoline coupons until July 25.

While motorists failed to see any humor in it, the shortage did produce a few laughs.

H. C. Mockabee, operating a service station at Kenilworth and Deane avenues N.E., refused to sell gasoline today "while it was dragging." He sat tight while a line of cars a half mile long, which began forming at 6:30 a. m., waited for skies to clear.

"I ain't gonna get wet," he told a reporter. "When it was snowing and sleeting last winter they wouldn't come out to buy gas, so let 'em wait now."

Plumbers, too, found themselves handicapped by the shortage and in many cases unable to obtain gasoline to supply repair equipment. One employer reported his workers were using wood fires to melt down lead and that many service calls could not be made because of the distance involved. Transporting equipment by bus or streetcar is next to impossible, he said.

DT reported that deliveries to 25 major Eastern terminals totaled 2,938 tank cars (about 637,700 barrels) during the 24-hour period ending at 12:01 a. m. yesterday, a decline of 9 per cent below receipts in the preceding 24 hours and 24 per cent below daily average deliveries last week.

MacArthur's Flyers Blast Lae, Preparing For Ground Attack

Fighters Strafe Base And Are Followed Up By Heavy Bombers

By the Associated Press. ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 28.—The havoc wrought by more than 28 tons of bombs attested today to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's determination to blockade and deplete the Japanese garrison at Lae, New Guinea, with his Air Force until the day its weakened defenses can be overrun by ground troops.

His bombers have kept Lae, first occupied by the enemy January 23, 1942, poorly supplied for many months by striking at shipping bound for it across the Bismarck Sea and at New Guinea coastal roads over which it could be provisioned from bases to the north-west. But yesterday's big raid by swarms of Mitchells, Liberators and Beaufighters was the first heavy one posed directly at Lae itself.

Lae, whose big air-drome, hangars and workshops once served the peaceful purpose of an aerial ferry to the gold fields, is only about 20 miles along the Huon Gulf coast from Salamaua. And Allied ground troops, infiltrating from the scenes of their Papuan Peninsula conquests, 150 miles to the southeast, stand less than 15 miles from Salamaua.

Strafed By Fighters. Since a Lae-bound convoy of 22 ships was wiped out by Allied bombers in March, the Japanese have been hesitant about risking ships for that purpose. But earlier this week, the same stormy weather which has grounded most Allied flyers provided the enemy with cover for such an undertaking.

Lae was due a raid. First the Beaufighters came over. At a cost of one fighter they dived through anti-aircraft fire to pour 12,000 rounds of ammunition from the height of tree tops on the Japanese, their buildings and the anti-aircraft batteries.

Then the big four-engine Liberators struck at the air-drome with 2,000-pound bombs, fragmentation bombs and incendiaries. One fire quickly broke out which could be seen 40 miles away.

After them came the two-engine Mitchells, blasting both at the air-drome and the town. They were followed by still another flight of Mitchells.

One supply dump fire was visible for more than 70 miles. Two enemy planes on the ground were hit by bombs. Not a single Japanese plane took to the air.

Other Allied air blows were dealt above Lae in the Pimshinhan and Madang sectors.

Today's communique disclosed that on Wednesday 31 Japanese bombers and fighters attacked Allied positions below Salamaua between Morobe and Douglas Bay, but that "damage was slight."

'Block Buster,' Now Used Against Germany, Rated Deadliest Weapon in All History

By WALTER McCALLUM.

"Block busters devastate Deusseldorf." Rhineland factories put out of action by air bombing.

"Berlin feels impact of 4-ton bombs."

"Thousands of tons of bombs fall on Dortmund. Essen again feels weight of bombing."

What does it all mean, to the man in the street? To Americans who never have heard or felt the shattering impact, the deadening concussion and the disrupting, tearing explosion of modern bombs dropped from great heights, these headlines are routine. But to the people of Germany, forced by circumstance to take the unprecedented impact of this deadliest and most destructive weapon of war, it means life itself.

Air bombing, so the air power advocates say, concentrated as it has just been concentrated, came in an early end to the war. Ground force advocates point out that, although the destructive (physical and mental) effect of air bombing is obvious, the airplane does not occupy territory, although its bombs can devastate cities and lay waste entire areas.

Bombs Now More Destructive.

What happens when a 4,000-pound bomb falls in the middle of a paved street, or plunges at 1,000 feet a second through the roof of a modern office building? The British have used many 4,000-pounders in giving such cities as Berlin, Dusseldorf, Dortmund, Essen, Stuttgart and other German population and war factory centers far worse poundings than even much bombed London got during the blitz of 1940. They are using even bigger and more destructive bombs, and biggest point of all, the American Air Force, despite many raids by the big B-17s, hardly has begun to swing its weight over Germany and occupied France.

Records of the United States Army Air Force show that the impact and explosion of a 2,000-pound bomb is the most destructive phenomenon both to structures and to human beings that the long history of war has developed. An airplane carrying bombs is, in effect, a traveling gun platform with far more mobility and greater range than the biggest and best gun ever invented. The bombs it drops are the projectiles.

The explosive effect of a 2,000-pound bomb dropped from an airplane traveling at 200 miles an hour from 20,000 feet kills human beings within hundreds of yards of the explosion.

It rips and tears apart heavy concrete and steel structures with a shattering, rending effort, heightened by the rarefaction or suction of the air returning to fill the vacuum caused by the explosion developed when pressure of gases within the bomb case by the detonation of compressed explosive charges rush out at the rate of about 7,000 a second; nearly 80 miles per minute.

Fragmentation of the bomb case alone sends shrieking, rending bits of steel flying at incredible speeds for hundreds of yards around the explosion. These bits of flying steel will kill human beings at many hundreds of yards. A 2,000-pound bomb shatters into about 6,000 fragments, each a potential killer. But the shocking effect on the human body is fully as lethal. This alone will kill at a range within many yards of the explosion.

Almost Causes Suffocation.

Hardest to understand is the recoil wave, caused by the air rushing back to fill the vacuum. Testimony of people who have survived the shock of block busters is to the effect that the rarefaction or suction seems to draw the air from their lungs, almost suffocating them.

The shock of impact and explosion of a block buster sets up in the earth a miniature earthquake, violent but short lived. It exerts tremendous pressure on building foundations and buried pipes. Building foundations crumble and collapse. Water, gas and sewer mains are broken. Successive impact of many block busters in saturation bombing by heavy bombers would, the advocates of continuous genuine heavy bombing claim, destroy the capacity of human beings to live a normal life, with ordinary conveniences, in a city under such attack.

A 2,000-pound bomb will penetrate 45 feet into ordinary earth before explosion. It will penetrate 7 feet of solid concrete. It will penetrate concrete reinforced with steel beams a distance of 3 feet. If the block buster (and this is a small one) strikes reinforced concrete, similar to that used in the floors of a modern building, the effect is even worse. The bomb penetrates each floor progressively and goes through more footage of concrete than if it struck a solid block of such material, detonating many floors below the point of entry with devastating effect.

Fuses can be set by timing methods so the bomb will not explode until maximum penetration has been achieved, whether in concrete, steel or earth. The modern block-busting bomb may be the deadliest, most destructive weapon ever developed in the bloody history of man's fight against man. It carries many times more explosive effect than an artillery shell and its range far surpasses that of any artillery piece.

Physically a bomb is a steel case surrounding hundreds of pounds of high explosive, with a rounded nose, a pointed tail and flat metal fins on that tail to make the bomb "track" correctly in its accelerating fall through the air. The bomb case simply is a steel container for high explosive, with the container disintegrating under the explosion and adding to the killing effect by thousands of widespread steel fragments.

It takes a lot of airplane to carry heavy bombs. But the heavy bombers of the air force, the B-17 or Flying Fortress and the B-24 or Liberator, are equipped to handle heavy bomb loads.

J. C. Williams' Store Willed to Employ

Masonic Groups Receive Part of $78,000 Estate

A pharmacist in his employ for 10 years, as well as hospitals and homes for the aged and crippled, are to be the beneficiaries under the terms of the will of the late Joseph C. Williams, 59-year-old druggist, who died here May 21. The petition to the will, filed for probate at District Court, lists the property as being valued at more than $78,000.

To the pharmacist, Theodore J. Heller, Mr. Williams willed his drugstore business at 701 North Carolina avenue S.E.

The will provided for specific bequests of $1,000 to the trustees of the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children, $500 to Providence Hospital, to build a drinking fountain on the second floor; $200 to the Methodist Home and $100 to the Masonic and Eastern Star Home.

The will also provides for specific bequests of $100 to Mr. Williams' brother in California, described as his sole survivor, and similar amounts to a nurse and physician, after which the residue of the estate is to be divided equally between Providence Hospital, the Masonic and Eastern Star Home, the Methodist Home and Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children.

The will named Paul B. Cromelin, attorney, as executor, and authorized the sale or rental of real estate, as may be desirable, in fulfilling the provisions of the will.

The petition to the will lists, specifically, real estate valued at $11,050 and personal property valued at $67,631.66. Included in the personal property are stocks and bonds, $43,925; banking and building association accounts of $14,266 and the stock and fixtures of the drugstore business, $8,000. Jewelry, household effects, an automobile and a small amount of cash help to make up the remainder. Debts were listed at $850.

Mrs. C. Mathews Dick Divorced at Las Vegas

By the Associated Press.

LAS VEGAS, Nev., May 28.—A divorce has been granted here to Mrs. C. Mathews Dick, wife of a retired businessman of Newport, R. I.; Washington and New York City.

Mrs. Dick charged mental cruelty. The hearing was private and papers in the case were sealed. A settlement was made out of court.

The Dicks, who formerly lived at 2234 Massachusetts avenue N.W., were prominent in social circles here. They are members of the Chevy Chase and Sulgrave clubs, and also belong to social clubs in New York City.

Mr. Dick is the son of the late Albert B. Dick of Chicago, who founded the manufacturing firm bearing his name.

Mrs. Dick was the former Garnett Crosson. The two were married in 1920.

'Complete Agreement'

The announcement that the combined British-American military staffs have reached "complete agreement on future operations in all theaters of war"—when given a literal interpretation—is a development which augurs well for the future.

For some months past there have been reports in Washington of differences of opinion between our own military leaders and the British. These differences have been as trivial, or as serious, as the latest rumor to find its way into circulation.

The probabilities are that both staffs, and certainly those at the top, have been in agreement on the basic strategy calling for the defeat of the Axis in Europe before undertaking full-scale war in the Pacific.

The differences, such as they were, have had to do with the tactical means of implementing this strategy—the emphasis which should be placed on the conduct of the war against Japan within the framework of the "beat Hitler first" strategy.

It is quite likely that this has also involved some disagreement as to the conduct of the war in Europe. The available evidence indicates that members of the American staff take a more serious view than the British of the difficulties inherent in defeating Japan if the Japanese are given the time they need to "dig in" throughout the vast territory they have conquered.

If this is the true measure of the differences which have prevailed, it is evident that they have had to do with the methods of carrying out the basic Allied strategy and not with the strategy itself.

Dr. Eckstein's Observations

On an evening half a decade before the beginning of the Second World War a group of newspapermen representing four different nations was assembled informally in the lounge of a steamship crossing the Atlantic from New York to Southampton.

But the incident lingered in the memory of the Hollander, the Britisher and the Americans into whose experience it had come. None of them at the moment was aroused to the danger constituted by the growing greed and aggressiveness of the Mikado's realm.

To illustrate the primitive nature of even the best aspects of the social culture of Japan, Dr. Eckstein tells of his observations of two middle-class families with which he was acquainted. In the first of these households perfect order and discipline prevailed; the children were controlled by a glance or a gesture. But in the other home the younger generation was governed by systematic torture; a youngster was pinched into obedience.

Power of endurance undoubtedly is produced by such savage methods of correction. The Japanese are a race that can endure suffering. It happens also that they have the weaknesses of the Spartan theory of society.

A Deserved Compliment

There is an implied compliment, over and above the usual satisfaction with his services which such action would denote, in the President's re-appointment of Chairman James H. Flanagan to the Public Utilities Commission.

In any governmental agency which exercises quasi-judicial functions, such as the Public Utilities Commission, the continued respect of the public, in fact its value to the public, depends upon its fairness and integrity.

The Casualty Lists

There is no comfort to be derived from any casualty list save the thought that it might have been larger. But in this sense there is cause for profound gratitude that the casualties thus far on Attu, and the completed totals for the Tunisian campaign announced yesterday by Secretary Stimson, are far smaller than the nature of these battles and the devastating power of modern weapons of warfare might have led one to fear.

Any offensive is apt to be expensive. But the obvious hazards of the attack on Attu, under the notorious handicaps of weather and terrain in that area, led many to fear that no matter how valuable might have been the objective, our soldiers would pay a heavy price to attain it.

Although it may be statistically irrelevant, without taking into account many other factors, it is interesting to compare the total losses of the Allies—"less than 70,000"—during the seven-month Tunisian campaign with the 73,000 casualties, on both sides, during the three-day Battle of Gettysburg; the 17,000 casualties suffered by Hooker's army at Chancellorsville in eight days of fighting, with the 18,558 casualties in the American forces from the time of landing in Africa to the surrender and mopping up after Bizerte.

The nature of warfare, of course, has changed with the increasing effectiveness of weapons. A few machine guns would make mass suicide of a Pickett's charge. An advance by infantry these days is more reminiscent of Indian fighting than the massed slugging matches of Civil War days.

Edsel Ford

Edsel Ford was a man not easy to know. His whole life was spent in the shadow of his father. He was part of the greatest independent industrial organization in the world and vast responsibilities undoubtedly were his as president, treasurer and general manager of the Ford Motor Company for nearly a quarter of a century.

Indian Division Upholds Tradition

Major Eliot Explains How Hindus, Moslems and Sikhs Fight for King Emperor

By Maj. George Fielding Elliot.

When the German commander in chief in Tunisia, Col. Gen. Jurgen von Arnim, surrendered to the 4th Indian Division, he brought to an altogether appropriate climax the long and splendid African career of that distinguished unit.

The 4th Division is a typical division of the Indian Army, which is an army that should be better known in this country—and very likely will be better known before this war is a great deal older.

For a clue to the personality and character of Edsel Ford it seems best to turn to those aspects of his career which were distinctively his own. He was not a person of obvious enthusiasms; his manner habitually was aloof and reserved; he rarely expressed himself on any issue about which there could be any difference of opinion.

What influence the passing of Edsel Ford may have upon the Ford organization and its subsidiaries is a question which only time can answer. His father may resume the management of the entire world-wide establishment. Meanwhile, it is evident that nothing will be permitted to interfere with the continuance of the current program of war production.

Trade Agreements Issue

An excellent case against the unwarranted delegation of legislative power to the executive branch of the Government was made out by Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming in his National Radio Forum address Wednesday night.

The men of the Indian Army are of many races and of various religions. In the ranks of the 4th Indian Division, Hindus and Moslems fight side by side with Sikhs, with an equal devotion to duty and an equal courage in the face of all adversity.

The Indian Army knows no politics. It fights for its King Emperor on every battlefield where its duty calls it. It is itself a symbol of the unity of India and of the possibility of Indians of all faiths, all classes and all races co-operating in a common purpose.

Undoubtedly, it is necessary that Congress delegate a certain amount of legislative authority to the executive branch. Such agencies as the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Securities and Exchange Commission and the National Labor Relations Board, to mention but a few, perform functions which cannot be exercised directly by Congress.

A Good Job

Our British treasury is often attacked. Too often its representative sits in on the great departments of state and says "No" to expenditure which might be fruitful. It does many things which infuriate the people. Yet it is managing the financial wherewithal of our war effort with great skill.

Undersea War

A total of four submarines destroyed and six others probably destroyed were reported in London as the result of a battle between the undersea boats and escort ships of a westbound Atlantic convoy recently. The action continued at intervals through eight days. It was estimated that 25 submarines were in the attacking force—a formidable "wolf pack" which, despite its strength, was the group which received the punishment.

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

"ALEXANDRIA, Va.

"Dear Sir: "I would like to know how long it will take for me to win the confidence of the birds?"

"I have been feeding them for two years, and still they act afraid of me. "This rather hurts my feelings, because I have tried to be good to them, and have put out plenty of good food for them the year around.

"It does not like to believe such a theory, but from my own experience I am almost forced to admit that there may be something in it.

"It takes about 10 years to make the birds in a given yard feel quite "at home" with the owner.

"This is because a new strain of birds must be bred up for each yard where bird feeding is carried on.

"It may seem a long time, but it is well worth it.

"In our own experience, it has required exactly that time, or maybe a year less, for the songsters to act what we prefer to look upon as natural.

"The change began a year ago, that is after nine years of intensive feeding.

"Then we discovered that the birds, especially those which summer here, did not seem so "jittery" when we went into the garden.

"Before this, every one had flown away at the opening of the back, or kitchen, door.

"Now a few of them remained.

"For another thing, the birds were much quicker in finding any feeding station which had been taken away from an old position and placed in a new one.

"Over many years, they had required from a full day to four or five days to find the new location, and to begin to eat normally.

"This time they discovered the station in two or three hours.

"During the 10th year, we found that all the birds, especially the catbirds, mockingbirds and robins, as well as a few wood thrushes, were very much more friendly than they had ever been.

"The only explanation, as we see it, is that a race of birds has been bred which are used to the yard, and to the people in it, and to the varied possibilities in the placement of feeding stations.

Letter of Criticism of Britain Brings Sheaf of Replies.

To the Editor of The Star:

The letter written by Mrs. Estella Bucknam, criticizing the English people is just about the most stupid and selfish one I've ever read. To speak of the loss of 50,000 lives in so stupid a way, as if they were pigs and not the human lives they were, is repulsive.

Naturally, we can criticize anybody—as free people. But how can she feel that American leaders didn't know what was going on in Europe?

We certainly were isolationist. And what makes her think that the American people are so righteous that they do not deserve a few hard knocks, too?

Having known both the good and bad in Americans, I say that the common people in England—or most any other country—are as valiant as we are.

Letters to the Editor must bear the name and address of the writer, although the use of a pseudonym for publication is permissible. The Star reserves the right to edit all letters with a view to condensation.

To the Editor of The Star: Free Americans do have the right to criticism, if it is just.

As to where were the smart men of England, they are dead. They died in the First World War. A whole generation was wiped out. Anthony Eden is about the only representative of that generation, as Dorothy Thompson pointed out recently. England's leaders were old men without vision (and without vision the people perish). The people were weary of war and wanted to pursue their own separate ways just as the United States did. England never has been isolationist. Free trade has ever been her policy till the United States built high tariff walls and compelled others to do likewise.

Our oceans have been policed by the English. Is that no contribution to the general welfare? All European countries have and are contributing great men to our country. There are no more unjust rules in Europe than there are in the United States. We are an infant nation, with just as many problems to solve as any other nation, and we never will solve them with hate in our hearts. God is not mocked, and "a new commandment I give unto you, that you love one another" is not a request, but a commandment.

England has 39,000,000 people crowded into a space the size of California. How can there be thousands and thousands of acres for "high hats" to hunt on? Compared to the great American playgrounds, the Sun Valleys, the Yosemite, England's playgrounds are like postage stamps.

England is the home of democracy. For a thousand years the common people have known what to do with their leaders. They sometimes behatted them. And they have carried law, liberty and freedom into every corner of the globe.

Now that every one who can do so is participating in the Victory garden plan, what becomes of their overflow?

Already radishes, quantities of garden lettuce and other fresh vegetables are being left in the ground too long.

It is about time that some organization to distribute the excess garden produce began to function.

Why not deliver the goods to the nearest markets to be disposed of?

Q. If Grand Coulee Dam were hollow, how many people would it hold?—E. L. H.

A. It would hold every person in the United States.

Q. What is the derivation of the word "cellophane"?—D. H. B.

A. The name was devised by Jacques E. Brandenberger, Swiss inventor, from the first syllable of "cellulose" and the Greek word "phaneros," meaning "glass-like or transparent."

Q. What color is best for Japanese beetle traps?—H. D.

A. Japanese beetles prefer yellow and in one State it was found that yellow test traps captured 50 per cent more beetles than those of other color.

Q. Where did the disease commonly referred to as athlete's foot originate?—B. W. B.

A. Medical authorities believe that athlete's foot originated in the Orient.

Q. How many fish go from fresh to salt water to spawn?—E. K.

A. The common fresh-water eel is the only American fish known to do this.

Q. Did the Mormons give the religious names to the peaks in Zion National Park, Utah?—B. G. H.

A. The titles, such as the Altar of Sacrifice, the Great White Throne and Angel's Landing were given by the fiery and eloquent preacher, Frederick Vinson Fisher. He visited the canyon in 1911 and named many of the outstanding peaks.

Q. Is the house at Wakefield, Va., a replica of the one in which George Washington was born?—S. W.

A. The present Memorial Mansion is not a duplicate of the original dwelling, no authentic picture of which has been found. However, it conforms architecturally to the traditional home of a Virginia planter.

Q. What is the all-time speed record for a marching army?—T. F.

A. The record for sustained marching is probably that of Alexander's infantry forces, who after the Battle of Arbelia traveled at the rate of 36½ miles a day for 11 days.

Q. What is the significance of the title of Russell Conwell's famous speech, "Acres of Diamonds"?—R. B. D.

A. The author showed by means of anecdotes that the world is filled with the diamonds of opportunity, merely waiting to be recognized, used and polished into success.

Q. What became of the Charter Oak of Connecticut?—E. N. N.

A. The famous tree stood until 1856, when it was blown down in a storm. Some of the wood was used to make the handsome Governor's chair in the State Capitol at Hartford.

Q. Does any State beside Delaware use part of a circle in its boundary?—M. F. M.

A. Delaware's northern boundary has the only part of a circle used anywhere in the United States as a State boundary.

Q. Who is the foremost parachute jumper?—H. S.

A. Parachute-jumping records are not officially recognized in the United States. J. Floyd Smith in Parachutes says that probably the greatest artist at parachute jumping was Spud Manning, who on March 1, 1931, at Los Angeles, Calif., jumped 16,655 feet. He fell 15,265 feet before pulling his rip cord. His average rate of descent was 225 miles per hour. A certified barograph was strapped to his back.

British Plan Flexible for Adjustments

Government System Is Argument for Trade Agreements

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, comes from the wool-growing and cattle-raising State of Wyoming, hence anything that touches the tariff system could conceivably touch the interests of his constituents.

So the Wyoming Senator wants to make sure that the people of Wyoming will have a voice in the making of reciprocal trade agreements or that they will have a veto against agreements which affect them adversely.

This is the position which many other Senators, irrespective of party, have also taken. But the Wyoming Senator has put his finger on a weakness in the American system whereby power is delegated to the Executive and there is no joint responsibility by Congress and the Executive for an agreement made with another government.

Too often the same issue has been raised for the mere purpose of defeating tariff revision. Too often it has been plain that the effort to bring about congressional ratification of reciprocal trade agreements is a device to kill the trade agreement process altogether or weaken the hands of the negotiating body in America.

Other Legislatures Rule. But the truth is, as Senator O'Mahoney states in his latest utterance on the subject, other countries do have in their legislative bodies under the parliamentary system a right of ratification.

The State Department under Secretary Hull, has instituted the system of reciprocal trade agreements through a delegation of legislative power granted in advance of the making of the trade agreements themselves. The process has been ruled to be constitutional.

Senator O'Mahoney points out, however, that the American people are at a disadvantage through that delegation—or abdication, as he calls it.

"The legislative system of free government," he says, "is preserved in Great Britain and in Canada. Here it is being transformed into an executive bureaucracy. Consider the situation in Great Britain as compared with the situation here."

Not only is Winston Churchill a duly elected member of the House of Commons from Epping Division of Essex, but Sir Anthony Eden, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, is a member of the House from Warwick and Leamington.

Thus it is that the men who in Great Britain discharge the functions performed here by the Secretary of State, the Tariff Commission, the Department of Agriculture and the other departments concerned in the framing of trade agreements are the elected representatives of the people and at all times they have complete supervision over the activities of the experts who carry out details of the work. Here in the United States the Congress exercises no such supervision.

"I want the people of America to have the same legislative power that is retained by the people of Great Britain, by the people of Mexico, by the people of Brazil, indeed, by the people of 22 of the 26 countries with which these agreements have been made."

Time to Stop. "We cannot preserve representative government in the United States if Congress continues to throw its power away to the Executive. I care not how respectable and good-intentioned the Executive may be, he should not be permitted to exercise the legislative power. If we desire to retain representative government in this country, Congress must stop delegating its functions. This is the time to begin."

"At this hour when we stand upon the threshold of a new free world to be erected after the United Nations have won their victory, Congress must retain its power to regulate foreign commerce, its power to levy taxes, and the Senate must retain some supervision over international arrangements or else the people themselves will have been excluded from the reorganization that is to come."

What the Wyoming Senator apparently does not advocate is the establishment of a parliamentary system for the United States. He indicates that the American system of separate branches of the Government is satisfactory. And yet he

Stalin Sincere in Dissolving Comintern Because It Had Outlived Its Usefulness

By DOROTHY THOMPSON.

As we have seen, the evolution of the Comintern dates from the coming to power of Stalin, when it became solely an instrument to avert successful war against Russia.

Stalin's theory was that capitalist-imperialist countries in combination would attack Russia.

He believed that Munich was confirmation of this. Immediately, the pacifist activities of the Comintern began in all countries. It was Stalin's greatest concern then to split the "capitalist alliance," even by signing a "pact of friendship" with Hitler. In this case, Stalin behaved as any shrewd nationalist leader would behave, but not as the leader of the Comintern could be expected to behave.

The various Communist parties, in backing this move, revealed themselves as exclusively concerned with the welfare of the Soviet Union, even at the sacrifice of every revolutionary principle of their own countries.

But history did not develop, either according to the pattern of Trotsky or Stalin. It burst all pre-conceived theories.

Stalin Was Suspicious. During the first eight months of the war, Stalin suspected a "phony war." The Russians had the same concept as Hitler, that with the collapse of France, Britain would make a deal with Germany.

So, during this period, American Communists were attempting to keep this country disarmed and out of the war. Hess flew to England with the object of winning British collaboration for war against Russia. The speculation of Stalin, as well as of Hitler, was that Britain would act in the interests of the "ruling class," and not according to larger national interests.

Both were wrong. But by this, the concept of the Comintern also was proved wrong. For the Comintern had accepted this split between "Liberals" and "Tories" and had tried to exploit it. But the common British national interests prevailed.

Misestimating Britain, no less than Stalin misestimated her, and too late to change his plans, Hitler attacked Russia and a "tory" Prime Minister immediately accepted an alliance with Russia.

History will prove that this was the doom of Hitler. But it was also the doom of the Comintern.

German Workers Meek. For the attack on Russia, nothing happened as the Comintern had planned. The strongest Communist Party in Europe had been the German. But German workers did not arise to protect the Soviet Union, nor did they very thing which would put the United States on a par with Britain in matters of trade negotiations would be a flexible system enabling this country to adjust itself overnight to changing conditions in the economic world—a circumstance that persuaded the sponsors of the reciprocal trade agreements for the last 10 years to insist that Congress delegate the power for two or three year periods and take it back if the process doesn't work satisfactorily.

desert in masses on the Russian front.

In China, which has the strongest Communist Party of any country, the Communists fought Japan, but so did Chiang Kai-shek. In fact, the history of this war has demonstrated that the defense of the Soviet Union does not depend on Communist parties in other countries, but on arrangements that the Soviet Union is able to make with other governments.

At the beginning of his war, Stalin had the choice of waging a nationalist war or a class war. In no appeal to the Russian people has Stalin ever denied the non-capitalist structure of the country. But he has stressed the national interests of the Russian people against a foreign invader. He found in a showdown that Mother Russia was a better slogan than Father Marx.

Well, why then did he not dissolve the Comintern at the beginning of his war?

No doubt he waited to see whether the German proletariat would not rise and make a revolution.

Also, he remained suspicious of the Western countries. Would they really fight, or would they hope that Germany and Russia should exhaust each other, and then come in, either as sole victors, or even make a deal with Nazism purged of Hitler? The Comintern was doomed, in my belief, on the day that American troops landed in force in North Africa, and Churchill and Roosevelt announced "unconditional surrender." It was no longer wise for Stalin to ride two horses at the same time.

Has Nationalist Aims.

Furthermore, Stalin has national war aims for the Soviet Union. He wants his hands free, in the future. It makes, for instance, a difference, whether he looks at Germany with the eyes of the Soviet Union, as a great power, or views it through the eyes of the Comintern. For the interests of the German revolution and of the Soviet power are not necessarily identical.

Stalin, in contrast to Trotsky at Brest-Litovsk, is not going to relinquish any Russian national interests for the sake of the brotherhood of workers all over the world. In fact, any one who suggests it is a fifth columnist and gets shot.

Therefore, it is logical that Stalin should dissolve the Comintern. The last value that it had for the Soviet Union was its nuisance value to the world abroad. Probably, he has kept something he had no more use for, in order to sell it as part of a deal. This is the timing—right now—when there may be a meeting with President Roosevelt, when Italy may be getting out of the war, and when Stalin may even wish to win from the Vatican a concordat.

People who doubt his sincerity simply do not see this picture in the frame of history. Nothing he has ever done was more sincere.

Great Game of Politics

Political Aspects Aside, Poll Tax Repeal Would Imperil States' Constitutional Rights

By FRANK R. KENT.

Passage by the House of the poll tax repeal bills, coupled with the speech in New York by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in which she urged repeal of all poll taxes, recalls that it was in 1936 the strategists of the Roosevelt Administration brought off what many regarded — and with reason — as one of the cleverest coups in all political history.

This consisted in taking away from the Republicans in the Northern States their great basic asset of the solid Negro vote while using loyalty to the Democratic label to keep the South within the party lines. This feat was repeated in 1940 and had no little to do with Mr. Roosevelt's election for a third term. There is a division of opinion as to whether it can be done again.

After the 1936 election, in which Mr. Roosevelt polled 96 per cent of the Negro vote in the so-called pivotal States, James A. Farley, then the President's chief political manager—and a very practical man, indeed—held that the chief factors in turning the trick that year were: First, the WPA; second, Federal jobs; third, Mrs. Roosevelt.

All three again operated effectively in 1940. Now, the WPA no longer exists, but the influence of the other two, plus that of the White House-favored CIO labor leaders, is being exerted in behalf of the poll tax repeal proposals which the administration periodically supports but which, until now, have been blocked by Democratic Senators from the South through filibustering tactics.

Solid South May Crack.

According to press reports, Mrs. Roosevelt on Sunday night, inaugurating New York's second annual city-wide Harlem Week observance, made a speech advocating repeal of all poll taxes to a group of 200 persons in a private home. On Monday, the House by a large vote took the poll tax bills away from the committee and passed them two days later. Mrs. Roosevelt's name was brought into the somewhat acrimonious debate and it is apparent a more determined fight than before will be made to put them through the Senate.

Should this be successful, some political observers feel that, in the event of another Roosevelt nomination, the Democratic solidity of the South might crack again as it did in 1928, when four States broke away.

The thing above all others, it is argued, that has kept the South Democratic has been the conviction that a Democratic national administration is always more sympathetic with the South's political treatment of the Negro than the Republicans. When this is no longer true, than the basic reason for the South's political solidity disappears. In this matter of taking over the Negro vote and still holding the loyalty of the Southern States on the old grounds of sympathy, the South, it is said, can be played for a sucker twice, but not the third time.

Risk Worthwhile.

The other view is that there is no limit to the gullibility of the South, and that its ingrained habit of Democratic voting, plus other reasons, will nullify any tendency to revolt in 1944, poll tax or no poll tax. But, even if this is not so, the risk is worth taking. It is contended, because the big debatable States in the North where the Negro holds the balance of power, with their larger electoral votes, will more than offset any possible defections in the South.

Cheese Scarcity Predicted For 1943, Possibly 1944

Scarcity of cheese will continue through this year and perhaps 1944, Deputy Food Administrator Roy F. Hendrickson declared yesterday in an address over the National Farm and Home Hour.

Demands of various agencies, as well as needs of foreign countries, remain above the supply, he said. Mr. Hendrickson reported he had made the following allocation proposals to Food Administrator Chester C. Davis for a 12-month period beginning July 1:

The military, 10 per cent of total cheese production; civilian population, 53 per cent; United States territories, 7 per cent; lease-lend, 30 per cent.

Mr. Hendrickson said our Allies were receiving more cheese than any other food product, principally because of its high nutritive value.

Japanese Reported Attempting to Evacuate From New Guinea to Avoid Another Defeat

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.

There are indications that the Japanese are attempting to evacuate their forces from New Guinea to avoid another defeat even worse than the one at Guadalcanal.

The Japanese are said to have learned that the American-Australian troops in New Guinea have been reinforced recently. They are expecting an American offensive in the next few weeks.

The withdrawal from areas still held in New Guinea is being attempted by the Japs to prevent another setback which might have serious repercussions at home and, particularly, on the subjected peoples in newly occupied territories.

The operations are, of course, difficult because the American air forces are hammering at every transport which puts into the available harbors. According to reports, the Japs are attempting to perform at least a partial evacuation by sampans, which are less of a target when weather conditions make it risky for larger ships to be used.

Expect Pacific Thrust.

But while this activity is going on and the enemy is consolidating further in positions in the New Britain Islands in view of a possible attack against Rabaul, American observers believe the imperial Japanese staff is concentrating a large force to strike at our forces somewhere in the Pacific.

This belief is based on the fact that the Japanese are still very strong and cannot adopt a static strategy. Their operations in China are important and might be successful. But while further Japanese victories against the forces of Chiang Kai-shek would hurt the Allied cause, they so far are not sufficiently spectacular to impress the masses in the Far East, which in the last few months have witnessed only Japanese reverses.

Although these reverses are not of a nature to enable us to say that they have more than dented the enemy's striking power, unquestionably they have had an adverse effect on the Japanese in the conquered territories.

When the blow will strike no one can say. The huge expanse of the Pacific prevents us from making any efficient observations to determine the position of the Japs' concentration. Information concerning the movement of the Japanese fleet is not easily obtainable.

U. S. Power Limited.

Our naval and air strength in the Pacific still is limited. That is to say, we can have a superior strength against the enemy in any one given area, but our forces cannot be everywhere.

The Japanese have the advantage of being able to concentrate wherever they want, in secret. By the time they decide to strike and we discover their movements, the bulk of our warships and air force may be thousands of miles away.

Hence, the Japanese might be able to strike in various directions from their home bases. Speculation regarding a possible offensive ranging from an attack on Alaska, Midway and Hawaii to a powerful raid on the West Coast or an attack somewhere in the South Pacific.

Admiral Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, must make dispositions to prevent a successful Japanese attack over this entire area, and it is generally admitted in well-informed quarters here that if the Japs want to pay the price and take big chances they might be able to score an initial success in whatever area they may choose.

Ship Losses Worry Japs.

Shipping losses, particularly in the merchant marine, are giving serious headaches to the enemy. For military reasons, nothing much can be said about the successful operations of our submarines against enemy vessels, but it is reported in responsible quarters that the losses are far heavier than those admitted by the official communiques from Tokyo. So far, we have taken a heavy toll with relatively small losses.

So long as the Nazis have not been brought to their knees in Europe, we cannot begin a general offensive against the Japanese. Our strategy will have to be confined to local offensives and to preventing the enemy from striking a serious blow.

The next few months will be the most dramatic in the history of the war across the Atlantic. Should we be compelled by strategic requirements to dispatch to the European theater of war larger air, naval and military forces than was anticipated at the recent staff conferences in Washington and, by necessity, send smaller forces to the Pacific, there is a strong probability that the Japs might choose their time to strike when the campaign in Europe is in full swing.

The Japs would assume that our commitments in the Atlantic are such that we shall be compelled to leave our forces in the Pacific to fight as best they can with whatever they now possess.

McLemore—

Hears Flyers Urge Change in Training

By HENRY McLEMORE.

LONDON.—The veterans, who learned the hard way, and the newcomers, who are in the process of learning the hard way, all agree that a change should be made in the heavy bombardment training program in the United States.

From tail gunner to pilot, they tell you, these men who are flying every day in a round-the-clock bombing of Germany and its conquered possessions, that a change not only would result in greater efficiency in American bombing but would bring about a big saving in men and machines.

As they explain it, and they must know, having gone through flying schools at home themselves, the biggest need is for instructors who have had combat experience, men who have survived attacks by the enemy fighters and flak.

Tail Gunner Speaks.

"The only guy in the world who can show you how to beat off the attack of Jerry when he peels off and comes in," a tail-gunner sergeant said, "is the guy who has been up there in the tail and had a bunch of fighters swarm at him. Guys who haven't had the experience can't try to teach you, but you could learn more on two or three operations than an instructor who hasn't looked a Focke-Wulf in the eye, could teach you in a month of Sundays."

This sergeant, by the way, fired just 1,300 rounds of ammunition on a recent raid on Germany.

A young co-pilot with only three or four sorties under his belt had this to say about the value of instruction by men who have made their bomb run through things much worse than hell and high water: "I thought I knew something about evasive tactics until I watched my pilot on our last trip. He showed me things I didn't know you could do with a ship. I learned more in five hours than I did in six months of practice. A pilot like that could really teach at home. Put him in charge of training a crew and when it reached the combat zone it would know most of the answers."

Veteran Pilots Agree.

Veteran pilots, men who have been here for months, feel the same way about it. They make it clear that they do not mean to belittle the instructors who haven't seen combat duty, but they also make it clear that their bombing missions here have taught them things which, if at all possible, should be imparted to crews before they are sent into action. They are convinced that such instructions, even if it slowed down mass production of bomber crews a bit, would more than pay for itself in the saving of men and planes.

The veterans and newcomers also are of the opinion that the present training setup does not include enough hours of practice at high-altitude formation flying. The crews get here with the "necessary" number of hours—but not enough. The hours, so they say, are logged at the height at which our daylight raids are made. They point out that hours of flying at low altitudes are useless over here.

Bombers Change Character.

"Our heavy bomber is a different ship altogether at high altitudes," a pilot with upward of 20 missions said. "The speed, the maneuverability and everything changes. Yet, I have seen crews with fewer than six hours of high-altitude flying start off over the toughest territory in the world."

He said he thought this might be because, when our bombers first went into action, they were in the Pacific theater, where low-altitude bombing could be done. "But you can't do that over here. Come down low in these parts and those anti-aircraft guns will knock the insignia off your wings."

None of these suggestions for improving the training of our bomber crews was offered with any bitterness. All the men seemed to have but one aim and that was to make American bombing the best in the world and to make it so good that every single bomb that went up in our ships would find its Axis target. Peruvian Exhibit to Open At Children's Museum

A special program at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow will mark the opening of the Peruvian exhibit at the Children's Museum, 4215 Massachusetts avenue N.W., museum official announced today.

Lt. Col. Jorge Sarmiento, Military Attaché of the Peruvian Embassy here, who with Mr. and Mrs. James Barclay Young gathered the materials for the exhibit, will speak. Miss Gladys Gomien of Chile and members of the museum's Spanish Club, which she directs, will act as interpreters and guides.

The exhibit, free to the public, will continue throughout June. Buses marked "N2" stop at Ward Circle near the museum.

Wellesley Extends Leave Of Lt. Comdr. McAfee

Lt. Comdr. Mildred H. McAfee, director of the Women's Reserve, United States Naval Reserve, has been extended one more year of leave of absence from the presidency of Wellesley (Mass.) College by the trustees of the school.

The Navy, in announcing the action yesterday, said that because of the importance of maintaining higher education during wartime it had arranged to permit Lt. Comdr. McAfee to be in residence at Wellesley with some frequency during the academic year to give general direction to college affairs.

Detroit Pays Homage At Edsel Ford's Bier

7,500 View His Body At Funeral Parlor

By the Associated Press. DETROIT, May 28.—Approximately 7,500 persons, representing a cross section of Detroit's industrialists, bankers, public officials and labor, viewed the body of Edsel Ford before it was moved this morning from a midtown funeral home to Christ Church at Grosse Pointe, a Detroit suburb, for afternoon funeral services.

The quiet services, with the Right Rev. Frank W. Creighton, Episcopal Bishop of Michigan, and the Rev. Francis B. Creamer, rector of Christ Church, officiating, were for members of the family and closest associates.

Mr. Ford, who was president of the Ford Motor Co. for 24 years, died Wednesday morning from a recurrence of a stomach malady aggravated by undulant fever.

Persons waiting to see the body of the 49-year-old industrial leader formed long lines in front of the funeral home yesterday, and the procession was broken only when members of the family arrived.

Throughout the day flags of schools in Detroit and suburban Dearborn were flown at half staff

Marquis Merry del Val, 79, Former Ambassador, Dies

By the Associated Press. MADRID May 28.—Alfonso Merry del Val y Zulueta, the Marquis of Merry del Val, 79, for 13 years Spanish Ambassador to London, died at San Sebastian Wednesday night.

The Marquis was one of Spain's outstanding diplomats throughout the 20th century. He served in the London post from 1918 until 1931 and was previously personal secretary to the late King Alfonso XIII, whom he taught English. He served as Minister to Tangier and Brussels before his assignment to London.

His brother Rafael, who died in 1930, was a Spanish cardinal and secretary of state to Pope Pius X and president of the Camarleno Apostolic Council under Pius XI. When civil war broke out in Spain, the Marquis was living in retirement in Biarritz, but he immediately offered his services to the Nationalist cause.

His son, Pablo Merry del Val, was until recently chief of the Spanish foreign censorship, while another son, Alfonso, was in the diplomatic service. Funeral services were held at San Sebastian last night.

Mississippi Recedes After Record Crest At Cape Girardeau

Some Flood Area Farms Won't Be Tillable Within a Month

The Mississippi River and some of its flooded tributaries were receding at several critical points today while thousands of farmers in inundated areas hoped to be able to start belated crop production soon.

Army Engineers estimated, however, some of the land would not be tillable for another month.

Even as it receded from flood-devastated areas, the Mississippi reached a record crest at Cape Girardeau, Mo., of 42.4 feet, topping the 1844 mark of 42.19. Dikes to the south were expected to be able to hold the torrent.

The Illinois and Arkansas Rivers also were dropping and Col. L. B. Fragin of the United States Army Engineers at St. Louis said he did not expect the Mississippi to get out of hand below Cairo, Ill.

The Ohio River, in past years an equally dangerous partner in flood destruction, was below bankfull.

However, Col. Pezain warned that while the Mississippi was receding above Cape Girardeau the danger there was not over. The remaining levees, he said, were saturated and a sudden washout could put thousands of additional acres under water.

The crest of the Arkansas was moving on from Little Rock to Pine Bluff after inundating 50 blocks of the former city. Below Pine Bluff the stream is flanked by huge levees that the Army engineers believed would be able to hold it.

Meanwhile, the water-rationed residents of Fort Smith expected a plentiful water supply by Monday. The 125th Engineers Battalion last night completed emergency connections with the city's regular water source. The connections were the second constructed in two weeks. Previously laid emergency lines were broken as the flood continued to rise.

37,000 Soldiers Fighting Mississippi Valley Floods

More than 37,000 soldiers were diverted from combat training to fighting floods in the Mississippi Valley, the War Department announced yesterday.

They worked in co-operation with the Coast Guard, Weather Bureau, Red Cross and other relief agencies in seven flooded States.

More than 51,000 persons were evacuated from flood areas "primarily by troops" and additional thousands were rescued by other organizations, the department said.

The number of deaths and extent of damage to vital war installations

Cases Dropped as Inductees Prove 'Good Soldiers'

A wartime innovation—a military file—is now in effect in Municipal Court to aid both servicemen and court officials.

The military file is administered by Judge Nathan Margold, who classifies the cases of defendants called to the armed forces before their cases come to trial.

Under the new plan, when a man goes into the service, his case is catalogued and continued for six months. At the end of that time, if the report from military officials indicates that the individual has adapted himself well to military life, the charge against the defendant is dropped. Only misdemeanor cases are handled in Municipal Court.

Judge Margold pointed out that the new plan also aids court officials by preventing a backlog of too many cases.

"It isn't fair to a man when he comes back from fighting a war for his country to have a misdemeanor charge facing him," Judge Margold stated.

The judge said that another hardship that would face returning servicemen would be the task of locating their witnesses.

Thirty cases against servicemen have been dismissed since the plan went into effect.

"would have reached more tragic proportions but for the availability of equipment and trained military personnel," the department said.

Amphibious jeeps, Army trucks, assault boats, landing barges and motorized pontoons, the department said, were used in evacuation and in repairing of levees.

Housing also was provided some food refugees and more than 2,000 were quartered at Camp Gruber in Oklahoma.

Administration Gains Aid in Fight to Block Trade Pact Veto Plan

Close Vote Expected in First Senate Test on House-Approved Bill

The administration appeared today to be picking up votes in its fight to prevent any amendment of House-approved legislation renewing the reciprocal trade agreements authority for two more years.

After preliminary oratory, the first test of strength is expected to come on a Finance Committee-approved amendment permitting Congress to end any trade agreement—or all of them, for that matter—six months after the close of the war by passage of a joint resolution.

Close Vote Expected.

The proposal seems headed toward the closest sort of vote, largely on party lines. As the situation stands, 39 Senators—10 fewer than a majority—are publicly committed to support it and 37 to oppose it.

Twenty still remain uncommitted. The administration gained four recruits today when Senators Pepper of Florida, McClellan of Arkansas, Hayden of Arizona and Tydings

British Carrier Has Left Gibraltar, Nazis Report

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 28.—The Berlin radio reported today that the 23,000-ton British aircraft carrier Formidable and four destroyers have left Gibraltar for the Mediterranean.

The broadcast, recorded by Reuters, was without confirmation and was along the lines of reports issued in the past apparently in an effort to elicit information.

Several troop-laden transports and some 20 merchant ships were reported anchored in the Gibraltar roadstead.

Final Vote Next Week.

Senator Tydings, for instance, said he believed the amendment is akin to "saying you'll give up smoking six months after the war."

Senator Aiken, Republican, of Vermont, a proponent of the amendment, said he remained unconvinced that any change in the act will disturb American relations with other United Nations.

"Our Allies won't worry about that so long as we keep filling their baskets," he declared.

Senator George said he hoped for a speedy vote, though there appears little chance of a final decision before next week.

ELITE'S DRY CLEANING SERVICE

Is Again Ready to Serve You

Last week we were forced to discontinue this popular service, as a result of labor shortage and too much business in this feverish war capital.

Today, thanks to the patience and good sportsmanship of our customers, we've caught up—and are ready to again serve certain of your Dry Cleaning needs. Please note, however, that this restored service is limited to Men's and Women's and Children's Apparel—

- We Are Not Yet Prepared to Accept Household Dry Cleaning, Including Curtains, Draperies, Upholstery and Similar Heavy Articles.

We must ask your cooperation, not to swamp us with Apparel. For example, if you have several heavy Suits and Overcoats to be cleaned—send one or two this week—one or two next week, and so on. Mix 'em up with lighter garments—not too many of one kind at one time. That gives us a break—also gives a break to the other fellow who wants ELITE Service, too. And that, after all, is the traditional American idea of fair play. Thanks again, and lots of 'em!

- YOU MUST BRING A GARMENT HANGER FOR EACH GARMENT.

Sorry to make this a "must". But you'll have to blame Adolph and Benito and Tojo. We simply can't get new Hangers—the material has gone to war. So no fooling—there must be one Garment Hanger for each and every garment brought in for Dry Cleaning—not one Hanger for several garments. Thanks for your understanding and cooperation.

'Bataan' a Tumultuous Tale Of Dramatic Yank Patrol

Palace Picture, Pronounced True To Its Scene by Experts, Is Noisy Epic of Gallant Group

By JAY CARMODY.

The geography of global war is hard to follow. The name that is shining, or sad, in today's headlines is gone tomorrow. Lightning war goes like that. It strikes, levels and moves on and the mind and heart of the non-combatant must be stripped of yesterday to keep up with today. Only the most dramatic names remain in consciousness. That is the way it has to be and it is a good thing, no doubt.

Among the few unforgettable place names, one that is both glorious and tragic, is Bataan, the latest to be enshrined in the textbook on current history which the movies are writing with all the passion they can muster. "Bataan," with an all-male cast, headed by Robert Taylor, opened at the Palace yesterday and as war pictures go, it is a noisily arresting spectacle which has been pronounced by eyewitnesses to be an accurate facsimile of that epic combat. That the eyewitnesses were asked for their opinions testifies to the fact that M-G-M that you might find it incredible. Now that they have spoken, however, there is little to doubt but assume that Bataan was like "Bataan" and that the seeming exaggerations were within the heroic dimensions of the picture. It is melodrama at its most melodramatic.

It is a compact story that "Bataan" tells with such an obligato of noise and death for almost two hours. It is the tale of a patrol of 1200 American soldiers and a sailor, a patrol assigned to hold a mountain pass against the Japs moving down on Manila. It is just a patrol or mountain wasteland with a bridge across it, the soldiers muse aloud. They never could have conceived of its existence, and they are glad to hold it because in the war against slavery, it might prove the most important speck of land in the world.

With this dramatic premise laid down for it, the cast of "Bataan" is set down to a remorseless one-sided struggle that can have but one ending.

On its way to that ending, Robert D. Andrews' screenplay takes little time out, that little to establish the character of the 13 men, a group somewhat too patly varied. The principals among them are Taylor as a hard-bitten sergeant, a true-blue Jewish corporal, Robert Walker, as a drugstore cowboy turned sailor; George Murphy as a flyer with a disabled plane concealed in the jungle undergrowth, and a main-chance villainous corporal played by Lloyd Nolan.

The others include a conscientious objector medical corps private, a gigantic colored private on his way to the ministry in civilian life; a new West Point captain who admits he does not know a thing about Bataan, and an assortment of Filipino troopers. Neither military disaster or sheer coincidence is likely to set such a varied characterization for a story, but it is handled plausibly enough on this occasion.

"Bataan" leaves no doubt in anyone's mind that the handful of under-armed, malarial Americans were able to hold out for more than three months against the Jap invaders of the Philippines. It is impossible to count the Japs who storm their untenable position in the picture, but 20 to 1 seems not at all unreasonable as the ratio. Best of the brace of battles is the first, which ends up in a bayonet and gun but melee after the Americans have exhausted their supplies of machine gun and tommy gun ammunition and their stock of hand grenades. The wiles of Jap jets have no chance against the rough-and-tumble of Sgt. Taylor and his blood-lusty troops. It is a pretty protracted combat, one supposes, but it never has a dull moment. It is much better, and twice as plausible as the climatic combat in which Taylor, standing in the foxhole already marked with a cross bearing his name, shoots it out with virtualy the whole Jap Army. You, too, may not believe that part of it. As unglamorous as you ever saw him, Taylor gives a convincing performance as the tough, fatalistic sergeant in "Bataan." It looks good even beside the sure-fire work of Thomas Mitchell as the amiable, tough-twitch corporal and the ingratiating playing of young Walker as the wistful, adolescent sailor. Murphy and Nolan are a couple of others who make very convincing members of the gallant patrol which Gary Garnett directed so capably within the limited, realistic scene of "Bataan."

You, too, may not believe that part of it. As unglamorous as you ever saw him, Taylor gives a convincing performance as the tough, fatalistic sergeant in "Bataan." It looks good even beside the sure-fire work of Thomas Mitchell as the amiable, tough-twitch corporal and the ingratiating playing of young Walker as the wistful, adolescent sailor. Murphy and Nolan are a couple of others who make very convincing members of the gallant patrol which Gary Garnett directed so capably within the limited, realistic scene of "Bataan."

On its way to that ending, Robert D. Andrews' screenplay takes little time out, that little to establish the character of the 13 men, a group somewhat too patly varied. The principals among them are Taylor as a hard-bitten sergeant, a true-blue Jewish corporal, Robert Walker, as a drugstore cowboy turned sailor; George Murphy as a flyer with a disabled plane concealed in the jungle undergrowth, and a main-chance villainous corporal played by Lloyd Nolan.

The others include a conscientious objector medical corps private, a gigantic colored private on his way to the ministry in civilian life; a new West Point captain who admits he does not know a thing about Bataan, and an assortment of Filipino troopers. Neither military disaster or sheer coincidence is likely to set such a varied characterization for a story, but it is handled plausibly enough on this occasion.

"Bataan" leaves no doubt in anyone's mind that the handful of under-armed, malarial Americans were able to hold out for more than three months against the Jap invaders of the Philippines. It is impossible to count the Japs who storm their untenable position in the picture, but 20 to 1 seems not at all unreasonable as the ratio. Best of the brace of battles is the first, which ends up in a bayonet and gun but melee after the Americans have exhausted their supplies of machine gun and tommy gun ammunition and their stock of hand grenades. The wiles of Jap jets have no chance against the rough-and-tumble of Sgt. Taylor and his blood-lusty troops. It is a pretty protracted combat, one supposes, but it never has a dull moment. It is much better, and twice as plausible as the climatic combat in which Taylor, standing in the foxhole already marked with a cross bearing his name, shoots it out with virtualy the whole Jap Army. You, too, may not believe that part of it. As unglamorous as you ever saw him, Taylor gives a convincing performance as the tough, fatalistic sergeant in "Bataan." It looks good even beside the sure-fire work of Thomas Mitchell as the amiable, tough-twitch corporal and the ingratiating playing of young Walker as the wistful, adolescent sailor. An Assignment That Grips

Capitol's Spy Film Makes Up in Action What It Lacks in Finesse

By J. W. STEPP.

"It's that new French actor, Pierre Oumont," remarked the lady at our elbow to her friend. "He's nicer than John Gabeen."

This was the very beginning of "Assignment in Brittany," the Capitol's new feature, when Mr. Oumont had just had his flowing Bedouin beard shaved off and emerged as an intelligence officer with the Fighting French. In scarcely more time than is required for the movie camera to follow his parachute jump to the ground, the good lady doubtless reached the point where she wouldn't have cared if the male lead had been Ben Turpin. The film adaptation of Helen MacInnes' novel leaves the movie-goer in such a state of nervous suspension.

The heading course of "Assignment in Brittany" automatically places the picture in the Hitchcock category. What it lacks of the old master's finesse is amply compensated for by its sheer momentum. There are rather larger sprinklings of balderdash with the dash for "Assignment" to rank with the most plausible of war-suspense yarns. The connivances with the Breton peasants sometimes are miraculous instead of merely successful, such as the escape sequence in which the folks rescue Gestapo-ized Mr. Oumont from a Nazi prison stronghold at an outlandishly bright hour of day. Director Jack Conway's work is limited to a few scenes, but with a fabulous precision that suggests there has been a temporary lapse in Hollywood's new-found conception of Nazis as intelligent scoundrels.

However, a basically reasonable tale of suspense has seldom been spoiled by the simple intrusion of exaggeration.

Pierre Oumont and his compatriots, loyal and collaborationist, lead a hectic existence from start to finish. As a British agent he impersonates a Breton whom he resembles exactly, and is faced with the chore of working his way into the other fellow's home life. His success is only limited. His acquired fiancee, daisy-fresh Susan Peters; mother, Margaret Wycherly, and clandestine love, Signe Hasso, learn Agent Oumont's game in fairly short order. But inasmuch as the impersonator is there to locate a secret Nazi sub base, the loyal among them and all the peasants contribute stoutly to the success of his project. The Nazi-loaders, of course, do their best to frustrate it. The natural result is a melee of rushing figures, pistol shots, nocturnal stabbing and one or two mass machine-gunnings. And, adding sauce to this fruity salad, come the Commandos, who certainly leave that base a shambles.

During the raid, incidentally, you'll

Sonia Does the Cooking

She and Husband Take Tiny Flat As Home on Their Days Off

By SHEILA GRAHAM.

HOLLYWOOD.

Sonja Henie has taken a two-room apartment at Laguna to be near husband Capt. Dan Topping when she is not working in "Winter Time." The couple own several million dollars between them, but the reason for the small apartment are (A) they couldn't get a bigger one, and (B) Sonja is doing the housekeeping. . . . Betty Grable's romance with Bandmaster Harry James is proof of the contrariness of women. Betty broke with George Raft because, among other things, she thought he was too old for her. But James is no chicken either, and is a good ten years older than Betty. Incidentally, Betty does not want to be labeled James' "girl." In spite of her lengthy telephone calls, she considers herself in the non-engaged class and free to play the field, if she chooses—which she doesn't at this moment.

"I've got bags under my eyes," says Diana Barrymore. "I've had them all my life, and my father had them. I inherited them from him."

"Yes," cracks a friend, "but he made his!" . . . Shirley Temple's current position as the number one sensation of Hollywood does not at all surprise her. "I've been in the picture since I was 6," she says. "She's always had appeal," says Charles, "even at the age of 3!"

According to Joseph Cotten, Clark Gable is, or rather was, the best actor in Hollywood. "He has such unbridled vitality," says Joe. "When he's on the screen, you feel his presence. He doesn't have to speak to make you aware of him." I think this a pretty good summing up of that elusive quality, personality.

House Farm Group Lays Groundwork For Food Inquiry

Agriculture Committee Expects to Show Role Of Middlemen in Sales

Under a unanimous House mandate to investigate the Nation's food marketing system, the House Agriculture Committee laid the groundwork today for an inquiry which Chairman Fulmer said he expected to result in bettering the economic position of farmers and consumers. "Unless I am mistaken," Mr. Fulmer said, "we will be able to show that most of the food dollar goes to middlemen, a leechlike link that can be eliminated by streamlining our food distribution system."

Mr. Fulmer said the committee, authorized to make the investigation by a resolution adopted yesterday, probably would send subcommittees to various marketing centers to make first-hand studies. The House gave the committee full subpoena power.

Too Many Middlemen.
"There are too many middlemen performing overlapping functions in the distribution of farm products," Mr. Fulmer declared. "There is no point in attempting to offer subsidies to hold down food costs unless we correct the wasteful and disgraceful manner in which farm goods are marketed. Many middlemen are absolutely robbing the public and food costs won't come down until these leeches are removed."

As an example of the spread between retail costs and the price a farmer receives, Mr. Fulmer said a loaf of bread containing about 1 cent's worth of wheat costs the consumer 10 or 12 cents.

Meanwhile, the War Food Administration embarked today on a Nation-wide search for idle farm machinery, announcing it would be requisitioned by the Government and distributed where it is needed most to boost food production.

The WFA promised farmers a reasonable price for such machinery. How much could be salvaged for release to active production areas has not been estimated.

Windfall From Japanese.
A spokesman said a windfall of farm implements was left by Japanese removed from their West Coast farms and this probably will get the first attention in the campaign. In the meantime the National Farmers' Union called on Congress to offer farmers war food production contracts as a means of letting them "know exactly where they stand."

Submitting its program to the Senate Agriculture Appropriations sub-committee, now holding hearings on a $707,000,000 agricultural appropriation bill for the next fiscal year, the union also requested:

1. Establishment of the Farm Security Administration on a permanent basis and $1,000,000,000 in PSA production loan authorizations for small farmers.
2. Appropriation of $5,000,000 to develop a veterans' tenant-purchase farm program.
3. Restoration of President Roosevelt's agricultural budget requests, including authorization of commodity loans, continuation of crop insurance, maintenance of minimum nutrition plans, such as school lunches, and maintenance of all essential agricultural administrative activities.

Would Remove Confusion.
Declaring that award of war food production contracts would "remove much of the uncertainty and confusion now existent both in Washington and out on the farms," James G. Patton, president of the union, added they would represent "a democratic, binding agreement between the Government and the war food producers."

In consideration for the farmer's agreement to plant stated acreages of needed, high-risk war crops, he said, the Government would assure the farmer a minimum price, insured income through war crop insurance, credit to begin production, and technical and supervisory assistance.

UAW Sets Convention For St. Louis in Fall
By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, May 28.—The United Automobile Workers-CIO will hold its annual convention in St. Louis the last week of September or the first week of October, Secretary-Treasurer George F. Addes announced yesterday. The convention originally had been scheduled for Toronto.

Fixing the date for the UAW-CIO meeting settled one of the minor points at issue between the two factions in the union led by Mr. Addes and Walter P. Reuther, vice president. Mr. Addes said the Executive Board voted almost unanimously in favor of the last date in St. Louis.

Mr. Reuther and others had urged that a special convention be called as soon as possible, claiming that the issues of incentive pay, the election of officers and the no-strike pledge should be discussed and settled earlier than October.

Pope Praises German Bishops for Fight on Foes of Christianity

Broadcast Follows Vatican Attack on Nazi Charge Of War Responsibility

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 28.—The Vatican radio, in a broadcast beamed to Germany, quoted Pope Pius XII last night as commending the German Catholic bishops for their efforts to "erect a bastion against those wretched people who harbor such hostile and unjustified aversion to Christianity."

The broadcast, recorded by the United States Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service, followed by 24 hours another in which the Vatican radio denounced as "propaganda" an assertion by the German-controlled Paris radio that the Catholic Church had "a crushing responsibility in unleashing the present war."

Last night's broadcast quoted from a letter which the Vatican radio said, the Pope had dispatched to the German bishops in session at Fulda last October 25 in response to a message which they sent him on the occasion of his 25th episcopal jubilee.

In the letter, the Pontiff deplored "the fact that many people tenaciously strive to do away with that ancient glory that hitherto we have so deeply admired—that is, to destroy that which the Christian religion has given to the German nation in the course of many centuries."

"Of this the Pope complains just as have the German bishops," the broadcast declared, "and he praises the German shepherds who, together with Rome—as the letter expresses it—are doing everything within their power to erect a bastion against those wretched people who harbor such hostile and unjustified aversion to Christianity."

The broadcast added that "the Pope particularly recommends to the bishops to admonish the faithful 'that they should not fear those who sometimes do violence to the mortal body but never may harm the immortal soul.'"

OPA Sweet Cherry Price $40 Ton Higher Than '42
By the Associated Press.
Sweet cherry growers will receive an average increase of $40 a ton over prevailing 1942 prices, the Office of Price Administration announced yesterday.

This will result in higher ceilings for the 1943 packs of canned, frozen and brined sweet cherries. Retailers and wholesalers will be allowed to calculate new maximum prices based on these higher costs.

Turbo-superchargers...

ANY FRONT, Today—This is the tail of a bomber—the kind that is turning broad daylight into twilight for the Axis. The history-making details are in your newspaper nearly every day.

One of the reasons why our planes can successfully attack the most heavily fortified areas in the world in daylight is because they can go "upstairs." They can operate thousands of feet above the range of the best Axis anti-aircraft fire—where the cold reaches 60 below zero and the air is so thin that ordinary engines lose four-fifths of their power. But American planes can reach these heights and maneuver and fight there because they are equipped with General Electric turbo-superchargers.

The turbo-supercharger is a fire-eating machine that takes its power from the red-hot exhaust, and uses that power to cram fresh air down a big engine's windpipe fast enough to give it "full military power" at almost any altitude. Because one part must operate in an arctic 60-below-zero, while the other end spins at a blistering 1500 degrees, and because the rotating parts have to travel twelve times as fast as the plane's engine—the turbo-supercharger is one of the toughest of all machines to design and build.

General Electric designed and built the first turbo-supercharger for a plane in 1918 and in the intervening 25 years has been working continually with engineers of the Army Air Forces and plane manufacturers to perfect it.

When the demand came for more high-flying planes, G. E. greatly increased its facilities to manufacture turbo-superchargers and turned over its designs and know-how to other manufacturers chosen by the Army. Development of the turbo-supercharger is another example of the engineering and research that are today developing better war weapons and will tomorrow provide products for better living in the peacetime world to follow. General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

THINGS TO REMEMBER:

- ★ If it's an American-built high-altitude bomber or fighter, it's turbo-supercharged.
- ★ The turbo-supercharger is an outstanding example of the co-operation of American industry and the armed forces, each working in its own sphere.

Temporary Treatment

Application of Ammonia Followed by Wax Polishing Hides, for Present, White Stains on Maple Table

Dear Miss Nowell: I have a maple dinette set which is only 2 years old. For unknown reasons white marks have appeared on the surface of the table, although I keep a felt pad on it when it is in use. I have used different kinds of polish to try to restore the finish, but without results. Do you know of any method of removing these stains?

By Margaret Nowell

not splash on you or drip on a painted surface as it will leave a mark. Handle it cautiously as it is a poison.

Dear Miss Nowell: We have a small bedroom, 8 by 10, with a south and east exposure, which we would like to do over so that it could be used as a guestroom, either for a lady or a man. The furniture is a nice brown-tone bought some years ago, and consists of a bed, dresser and mirror, Cogswell easy-chair, pewter lamp and hanging bookshelf. I had thought of using a wall paper in a blue paneling design, a brown hooked rug and brown and white woven coverlet and dresser covers. Then I could switch to a white, woolly string rug, white candlewick spread for a feminine visitor. Could you suggest a middle ground scheme for this room, one, perhaps, which would not require so much scene shifting? What curtaining is best for the south window? The eastern exposure consists of a half-glass door to the sleeping porch. And what would you suggest for chair upholstery?

I. M. H.
Answer—My only criticism of your plan is that the brown-and-white theme and especially the pine paneling wall paper is going to "close in around you" in this tiny room. You need a wall surface which will open the room up and give it color. I would suggest that you select one of the trim, little block-printed wall papers with a neat pattern printed on a white, yellow or pale-green ground. The color of your maple furniture is at its best against this background. Try the simplest white ruffled tieback curtains at both door and window, with sparseness again the motif. You could then select bedspread and chair cover in a deeper tone of your wall color (either green or yellow), the bedspread in a plain candlewick and the chair in a small calico or glazed chintz pattern. With these your brown hooked rug would be a nice balance and the room would be ideal for either a man or woman without any scene-shifting. Keep the wall paper and fabrics very simple in design, keeping with your early style maple furniture. This prevents a too frilly room, but the light walls and color notes will be feminine enough for women guests and you will find the room does double duty nicely.

We Need Much More Than Just Brains

By Dr. J. B. Warren

The only difference between most of the inmates of mental hospitals and ourselves is that we are able to get along with others and earn a living. Inmates of mental institutions have as much brains as we have, in fact, they have more than the average, but they cannot seem to get along in the world. Learning to give and take, remembering the other fellow's rights and expecting to receive your own helps us to remain normal.

Child's Crocheted Jerkin

By Peggy Roberts

There's nothing to hamper a young lady's style in this happy-go-lucky jerkin. Crocheted in cotton or wool yarn in her favorite color or in variegated stripes if you want, this handy slip-on will be a faithful wardrobe companion to your young daughter from washday to washday. The stitch is attractive and easy to make; the style is simple enough to go with overalls or pretty enough for "Sunday best." Directions are given for 6, 8 and 10 year old sizes.

Here is one of the twenty-five hats designed by college girls in a recent contest. Youthful and feminine, it sits comfortably on the head and frames the face in a flattering manner. It will be shown, along with other prize winners, at a local store tomorrow.

College Girls Design Type of Hats They Hope to Find; Those Clothes Rationing Rumors Crop Up Once More

By Helen Vogt

It is, as the saying goes, always darkest just before the dawn—even in the fashion world. Now you take hats for college girls—goodness knows for seasons the college girls wouldn't take them. They embarked on a program of hatlessness that drove milliners to the brink of distraction, and even when some head-covering was a "must" they turned sweater-clad backs on orthodox millinery and went in for kerchiefs tied under the chin or compromised with a sprig of posies or a velvet bow in the hair.

But now, as a leading fashion magazine adds with suitable apologies, "something new has been added." And that "something new" is a hat on the head of the co-ed.

Like most weighty problems, the answer to why college girls didn't wear hats was so simple that it was almost overlooked. They didn't wear them primarily because they couldn't find any that were smart looking without being ultra-sophisticated, comfortable without being dowdy. In a word, they wanted young hats for young people.

So, this same magazine, which is practically a "bible" for the young set, conducted a contest for college girls and asked them to design the type of hat they would wear. In response came over 400 designs from young ladies from Massachusetts to California. From these, 25 selected as prize winners were made up by such leading milliners as Florence Reichman, Sally Victor, Lily Dache, Mme. Pauline and Helen Garnell. Furthermore, the hats have been reproduced in quantity and are being sold at moderate prices to college students and young business girls throughout the country.

In Washington, a leading store will have a fashion promenade of 15 of these designs tomorrow. They represent three types: Sport, suit and equally unpatriotic to believe whimsical reports of proposed rationing, pass them along and meantime stock up on clothes that will obviously look hoarded when and if fashions are restricted. So if you hear more rumors, why not make it part of your contribution to the war effort to either squelch them or at least not help them along? Remember that if clothes are controlled everybody will be in the same boat.

Another thing that seems to be fretting women is the report that no more bobby pins will be made for the duration. This, according to the most authentic sources we can contact, is not so. Bobby pins, like so many other things, have gone to war. That is, the steel required for these gadgets now goes into guns, planes, tanks and ships. Only 25 per cent of the 1941 bobby pin production is made today.

But you can find bobby pins. If your store is out of them today, ask again tomorrow, for they receive fresh shipments all the time. Sure, they're scarce, but they're not extinct; so keep trying. And please buy only one card, thus sharing the limited amount with others whose treasures may be just as unruly as yours!

Hasty War Marriage Seldom a Success

Mistaken Pity to Pretend to a Love That Has Ceased to Exist

By Dorothy Dix

It is easy to understand why war stimulates romance and brings about a bumper crop of engagements and marriages. Every one is in a highly emotional state in which even the most commonplace and prosaic become idealistic and are filled with lofty and noble sentiments. Boys are keyed up to sacrificing themselves for their country, and girls see knights in shining armor in every Tom, Dick and Harry who has on a uniform.

So it is no wonder that lonely lads in camp, hungry for the feminine society to which they have been accustomed, see the only ones in any skirt that passes by; or that girls think they have found their affinity in any good-looking soldier with a slick line. Nor is it surprising that a boy and girl who have known each other all their lives without entertaining the slightest sentimental feelings towards each other, suddenly think they are in love because they hate to part.

Love at first sight, which is, in reality, the rarest of all phenomena, becomes commonplace. The hurry-up furlough wedding is the order of the day. Strangers meet and marry and say good-bye without ever getting acquainted, and poor old Cupid quits aiming his darts. He just shuts his eyes and blows away and lets his arrows hit whom they may.

This romantic orgy in which the young have been indulging has gone on long enough now for the returns to begin to come in, and they are at once humorous and pathetic and tragic and, oh, so intensely human. For the old stage that out of sight out of mind was never so vividly illustrated as it is in the plight of these boys and girls whose temperature has already gone down from fever heat to subnormal, and who realize that what they mistook for the grand passion is just a passing fancy from which they have completely recovered.

To this column come daily dozens of letters from both boys and girls telling the same story and asking the same question. "I met a pretty girl and I thought I was in love with her, and I asked her if she would wait for me until I came back after the war and she promised to do so. But now that I have been thinking it over I know that she wouldn't suit me at all, and anyway, I have found another girl who is just my ideal. It's the real thing this time. How can I break off with the other girl without hurting her?"

Or perhaps it is worse. It is the man who married a strange girl on the very eve of being sent overseas, and who is desperately anxious to know how to rid himself of an unloved and unwanted wife.

Often still, the letters are from girls who, swept away by a whirlwind courtship, got engaged to some lad they hardly knew by sight, or who succumbed to the glamour of a soldier and married the old beau they had refused a dozen times and who, as soon as they woke up from the hypnotism induced by gazing on brass buttons, realized what a mistake they had made.

"How can I write Jim, who is maybe wounded and suffering in the muck of a tropical swamp, that I don't love him and I want to break my engagement to him? I can't bear to think of hurting him." Or: "Shall I tell my husband that our hurried wedding was a mistake and that I do not love him, or shall I go on pretending to care for him and wait until after the duration to let him know that I want a divorce so that I can marry my old sweetheart?"

Now the writers of these letters are good, honest boys and girls. They have not intentionally deceived those to whom they are engaged or married. Swept away by war hysteria and the need we all feel in moments of stress for some one of our very own to cling to, they truly believed they were in love with Mary or John, and it was only after time and distance had given their feelings time to tell that they realized that they had guessed wrong; that they had diagnosed their heart throbs incorrectly, and that what they needed to cure them was a dose of bicarbonate instead of an engagement or wedding ring.

To these bewildered youngsters, torn between a sense of honor and self-preservation, I would like to say that they should let no mistaken feeling of kindness or pity keep them from telling their sweethearts of their wives and husbands the truth. No man or woman can do a crueler thing than to keep alive a broken dream in another's breast, or to marry a woman or man for whom they have no affection. For it takes love, and a lot of it, to stand the wear and tear of marriage.

It may hurt the soldier like a stab in the back from the hand he trusted, to find that his sweetheart has ceased to love him, but in the turmoil of war a man does not have time to dwell upon his emotions and he will suffer less than he would if he came back home expecting love and found love dead, or given to another.

For Pretty Posies . . .

Something new and interesting in flower containers are miniature wooden tables with pottery bowls inserted in the middle. These small tables are patterned after the Chinese teakwood variety that is so popular with many homemakers. The article is designed to hold only short-stemmed flowers, but many attractive floral arrangements may be achieved.

'Double in Glass' . . .

A practical and useful measuring container for the feminine chef is now stocked in quart sizes. The item can be used for pound measuring and can also double as a pitcher, for it's made of clear glass and comes in dainty shape with a convenient handle.

'A Place for Everything' . . .

Latest in ice box dishes are those of pottery. The dishes come in sets of three, but additional articles such as casserole dishes and pitchers are available to round out the group. Though bright blue is the only color now in stock, there is a good chance that a supply of varied colors will arrive before long. These dishes are excellent to use for leftover fruits and vegetables and will help keep your refrigerator looking neat and orderly.

Time-Saving Gadget . . .

Solled clothes hampers are a "must" for every household. The most popular style seems to be the wicker hamper with simulated mother-of-pearl top, but we found one recently that should be seen before you make a final decision. It's entirely of metal. It's an adaptable size for almost any bathroom and comes equipped with a cloth clothes bag fitted on two rods inside. When it's time to gather the weekly wash together, all you have to do is remove the inner bag, pull the drawstrings and it's ready for the laundryman. You will find the article a timesaver and practically all standard colors are included in the selection.

Room Deodorant . . .

A new room deodorant may be obtained in six fragrances including wistaria, bouquet, geranium, violet, pine and Oriental, or, if you prefer it, also comes unscented. The equipment looks like a penny matchbox and the homemaker merely strikes one of the deodorant "matches" and lets it burn. Scented ones clear the room of unpleasant odors and leave a refreshing fragrance.

Useful Nonsense . . .

A kitchen shower present that's sure to bring a laugh yet is also a very practical article is a lady's head carved of soap, with a golden wig of a metallic substance to be used for cleaning pots and pans. Around the "glamour girl's" shoulders is a dishcloth shawl. Red, blue and green are the colors.

Win, Lose or Draw

By BURTON HAWKINS.

Priddy Wants Some Pennant Talk From Other Nats
Without moving a muscle the Nats were wedged into a first-place tie by sunset yesterday and in Washington's clubhouse last night the chatter naturally revolved around the American League pennant race in general and the Nats' chances in particular. It was a happy, perspiring game that was preparing to battle the Browns.

"The h—l with tying for first place," said the newest Nat, Pitcher Lefty Gomez. "Let's get out there tonight, win this one, get into the lead and stay there. By the way, if any of you fellows want my autograph you'd better get it before Sunday. I'm pitching Sunday and after that Griff may want to sell me back to my wholesaler."

A reporter stepped over to Second Base Manager Priddy and asked what he thought of the Nats' chances, now that Washington had played every team in the league. Priddy quickly held up one finger, then said, emphatically, "And I mean it. We can win that pennant."

Have Reserve Strength
Priddy was requested to enlarge on that statement and he accommodated. "We have the reserves now. Picking up Alex Kampouris meant a lot to us. He can fill in anywhere and do a good job of it and while he may strike out a lot he also will get a long hit and occasionally break up a ball game."

"The Yankees never won with just nine men. During the course of a season a ball team is likely to have injuries and illness. When anything happened to the Yankees' regulars they always had capable replacements to stick in there. Well, we have 'em now and we're gonna be tough. All right, but maybe no tougher than four or five other clubs including us."

"It's a peculiar sort of race," continued Milan. "Cleveland takes three straight from the Yankees at Cleveland and the Red Sox come in there and take a double-header from the Indians. The Red Sox were in the cellar and Cleveland in first place today, but Boston beats 'em another double-header. The team that could get hot right now and put on a spurt would have a nice advantage and that team could be Washington."

Then the Nats filed out of the clubhouse, trotted on the field and proceeded to move into first place. By losing the Browns topped into the basement but separating the top and bottom clubs are only four games. Pluere and Miller could be correct in envisioning the most even scrap in years.

Correct, too, could be Priddy. The Nats, after all, are on top and getting remarkable pitching. For a team rated 100-1 by the Nation's leading writers, Pluere and Miller could be correct in envisioning the most even scrap in years.

"This team needs to talk pennant. I don't believe it's aware of the fact we have a dogged good team that can take it all. It's time for us to wake up and start buzzing about that pennant. We can win it, I tell you."

"We're getting great pitching and I believe we'll keep on getting it. Here we are battling for first place and we haven't been hitting worth a nickel, but that's where we'll improve a lot. We have too many good hitters on this team not to give our pitchers more runs than we have."

Bluege Sees Hot Fight
"George Case figures to hit around 300 and Stan Spence may top him. Bob Johnson will hit between 280 and 300 and give us a lot of long hits in the press. And don't overlook Mickey Vernon and Jake Early. They're long ball hitters, too, and they'll be breaking up some games. I ought to hit between 280 and 300."

"We've seen every team in the league and I'm convinced there isn't a better club than us. We can't afford to get out of it. At the same time we got around realizing it. Manager Ossie Bluege was inclined to be more reserved. "I haven't seen any team in the league that's outstanding," offered Ossie.

"On the other hand I haven't seen any team that's altogether out of it. Right now Boston is in the cellar only three and a half games out of the lead. It looks like a terrific fight to me—the best in years."

"Seven teams in the league have learned the Yankees aren't invincible," said Coach Clyde Milan, and that help. The Nats have had seven of their last eight games and while they aren't that bad it shows they aren't the same old Yankees. With their pitching they'll

Red Cross Duckpin Tournament Swings Back to Lucky Strike
Event Begins Second Jaunt Around Plants; 1,921 Compete, With $1,100 Contributed

The longest sustained tournament in the history of Washington bowling will be given fresh impetus Sunday, when the Red Cross benefit handicap swings back to the Lucky Strike under the sponsorship of the Metropolitan Washington Bowling Association.

Seventy-five bowlers of both sexes braved the worst snowstorm of the winter to get the patriotic affair off to a flying start at the Lucky Strike, and after 20 consecutive weeks of competition over the various city and suburban maple lanes under the direction of Dick Hobart, secretary of the operators' association, the first series was brought to an end last Sunday at Mount Rainier with a field of 95 contestants.

Over the 20-week period a total of 1,921 men and women participated for an average of 96 each Sunday. To Manager Julie Singer and his Greenway Bowl went the honor of staging the biggest tournament. But only two shots of the record field of 160 at Greenway was the entry of 153 at Rossly Bowling Center.

President Arbanga not only staged the third biggest Red Cross tournament at Silver Spring with 138 contestants but in conjunction held a mixed doubles to give the Red Cross fund an extra boost. The two events netted $211. So far approximately $1,100 has been donated by the bowlers and alleys to the fund.

Prize winners at Mount Rainier in the last test were: Men, John L. Harrison, 741 (550); Richard T. Leary, 737 (520); Bill Mischo, 720 (515); Richard M. Matthews, 705 (587.5); M. L. Mamari, 705 (587.5); Tom Rook, 701 (55); John L. Meade, 699 (53.50); Jack Money, 689 (53.50); John Howard, 682 (52); H. M. Anderson, high scratch set, 634 (53.50); Reddy Roberts, high game, 159 (53.50); Women, Evelyn Nickel, 700 (52.50); Esther Chacona, 693 (51.00); Emma Bourne, 692 (46); Louise Gallili, 686 (53.50); Elizabeth Lample, 678 (53.50); Edith Peterson, high scratch set, 534 (53); Eula Abscher, high game, 115 (53).

Ralph Nicholson Stars
Banging out 145 and 424, Ralph Nicholson of the Greenway Bowl won two records in the Greenway Bowl Commercial Summer League. Leland Nicely's 132 and 345 were the heaviest wallpops as Blue Birds swept Official Cleaners.

Big Buck McDonald scattered the maples for top single of 156 in the Takoma Commercial while Roy Horton divided honors with a 277 set. Bratburd's Pigs swamped Kessler Barbers to the Suddith Motors for first place.

Spoldi Kayoes Spencer
SAN JOSE, Calif., May 28.—(AP)—Aldo Spoldi, New York lightweight, scored a technical knockout over Al Spencer of San Francisco in the sixth of a scheduled 10-round bout last night. Spoldi weighed 136, Spencer 137.

McCadden Gains Triple For Jockey Record
COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 28.—Jockey Willie McCadden rode winners in three races at Euclid Park track yesterday to boost his total for the meeting to 44, two more than the previous record set by Paul Keiper in 1938.

President Establishes New Committee on Fair Employment

To implement the Government's policy of "no discrimination" in war industry or in Government because of race, creed, color, or national origin, President Roosevelt today established a "new" Committee on Fair Employment Practice.

The new executive order, which is the first since the Executive Order Abolishing Old Group; OEM to Supervise New One.

Three Members Had Quit. The old FEPC was headed by the new executive order. Three of the seven original members of FEPC already had resigned.

Increased Power Hinted. The new order provides that all war industries incorporate in their contracts with the Government provisions obligating the contractor not to discriminate because of race, creed, color or national origin.

President Roosevelt issued the new order not only as President, but also as Commander in Chief.

Mr. Byrnes said that he had functioned in a somewhat similar capacity on several occasions at the request of the President, but he said that this was more or less an informal procedure.

Prado's Gift of Quinine To Roosevelt Goes Into National Pool

L. F. Bradley Is Elected New President of Pharmaceutical Body

A gift of 100 pounds of quinine presented to President Roosevelt by President Manuel Prado of Peru, was turned over to the national quinine pool last night at ceremonies concluding the annual meeting of the District Pharmaceutical Association at the Shoreham Hotel.

Last night, the quinine is to be used to combat malaria among the Allied armed forces in tropical areas. Lt. E. G. Dennis of the Navy read a letter from President Roosevelt, in which the Chief Executive presented the gift and said: "I heartily approve of every undertaking which has for its purpose the increase and conservation of our precious store of quinine."

46 Barrels Collected.

Charles R. Bohrer, assistant secretary of the American Pharmaceutical Association, supervisor of the national quinine pool, said that quinine collected at the association's building on Constitution avenue, now amounts to 46 barrels and 37 cases. It will be shipped soon to a drug company for reprocessing. Quinine in original packages can be sent direct to troops, but that in open packages must be reprocessed first. The movement is necessary because the supply of quinine from the Netherlands East Indies has ceased. In a resolution adopted at the close of its business session, the District Pharmaceutical Association endorsed David Maxwell of Maxwell & Tennyson pharmacists, as a member of the District Board of Pharmacy, to succeed Louis F. Bradley, who retires July 1, after serving about 25 years.

Mr. Bradley was installed as the new president of the association at ceremonies last night. He succeeds S. F. Higgin, other new officers elected at the March meeting, also were installed. They are: Benjamin Striner, first vice president; David Maxwell, second vice president; Paul Reznick, third vice president; J. E. Donaldson, fourth vice president; Harold Kinmer, secretary; Roger Lusby, treasurer; W. Paul Briggs, W. H. Whittlesey and Mr. Higgin, Executive Committee; Vincent Norelli and Orlando Hall, delegates to the Federation of Citizens' Associations.

War Bonds Are Bought. War bonds worth $2,000 were bought by the association at the final session. Office of Price Administration plans for placing ceiling prices on certain products sold at drug stores were explained by Frank A. Delgado of the OPA. Among the prices to be controlled, he said, were those on "essential oils, botanical drugs and household staple family remedies."

Dr. Paul C. Olsen of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science said, "We want to get rid of price control as soon as the war is over," but added that if the "popular drive" against OPA succeeds at present and "we lose the OPA we may get something much worse—inflation, which would be ruin for us all."

Dr. Olsen said he expressed the feeling of the pharmacists, however, objecting to too many price ceilings on products, because in the long run it would hinder progress in the profession. Other speakers yesterday included Remy B. Deschner, District area manpower director; Dr. John N. McDonnell of the WPB; Nelson Miller of the Commerce Department and Robert W. Rodman, editor of the Journal of the American Pharmaceutical Association. Practical Pharmacy Edition, who presided. Mrs. John P. Ruddick, president of the Women's Pharmaceutical Auxiliary, presented to the American Pharmaceutical Association for use in its research laboratory a set of prisms for a "refractometer." It was accepted by Dr. E. P. Kelly, executive secretary of the association.

Assault Defendant Escapes Death in Second Trial

Bernard Lee Williams, 23, colored, who last year escaped the death penalty on a charge of criminally assaulting a 17-year-old colored girl when the Court of Appeals reversed a District Court conviction, yesterday again was found guilty of the charge at his second trial but now does not face the death penalty.

Late yesterday a District Court jury which sat before Justice Bolitha J. Laws returned a verdict of guilty against Williams after 20 minutes' deliberation, but declined to recommend the death penalty. As a result, Williams faces a possible maximum penalty of 30 years' imprisonment. The trial yesterday lasted approximately three hours, with Assistant United States Attorney Bernard Margolus conducting the prosecution.

The criminal assault, it was testified, took place in August, 1941. The Court of Appeals pointed out that Justice Thomas B. Kennedy of the Federal district of Wyoming, who served here in the first trial, had made an "erroneous and prejudicial" charge to the jury, neglecting to say the jury could return a verdict of not guilty.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO—William Mercur typewriter is going to get a mild surprise when he starts to operate it. In reporting the theft of the machine to police, Mr. Mercur, New York theatrical producer, showed Sgt. William Murphy a sample of the machine's work. The printing was in Hebrew characters.

Defendant Learns All Monkeys 'Wild'

Monkeys may appear fairly tame to the average individual, but according to the District police code they are classified as "wild animals" and cannot be displayed or placed in public.

Edward G. Richardson, colored, of 217 G street S.W., found this out yesterday when he appeared in Municipal Court on charges of violating the code. It seems that police found the monkey chained in the alley in the rear of the defendant's home.

Driver Shortage Threatens Fall Fuel Deliveries

By MIRIAM OTTENBERG.

Distributors of fuel oil and coal expect to be 50 per cent short of labor to deliver fuel when fall comes because of the summer lay-off of drivers who fear cannot be replaced, it was learned today.

Although both fuel oil and coal dealers are trying to hold their more experienced help over the summer by finding jobs for them to do, they expect the delivery situation to be "critical" by October 1.

The distributors admitted that some people may have cold homes despite their coupons and sufficient fuel in the city because delivery trucks cannot be manned.

Lester Scott, director of the oil heating division of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, said the oil distributors had had difficulty in getting help and keeping it last winter and they are now worrying about the coming season when they will have to find approximately 150 new men with the training and experience required for the job in a tight labor market.

Many of the men who are being kept on during the summer, he said, will be lost by fall to the draft which, with a high labor turnover, has complicated the employment picture in the fuel distribution industry.

Employers are supposed to release workers who are employed at less than full time, which is the case in fuel oil distribution during the summer, and many distributors can't carry the extra overhead of keeping fully staffed in the slack period.

A. T. Brown, chairman of the coal division of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, said coal dealers were accustomed to lay off some of their drivers during the summer but this year they are trying to find work for them around the coal yards and on the trucks so they will be available when the heavy demand for coal comes.

If the fall demand is as heavy as usual and the need for drivers is not met, Mr. Brown said, deliveries will have to be curtailed and "the customers will suffer."

Coal dealers expect the coal shortage to be relieved by the end of now taking orders for delivery at their convenience.

Mr. Brown pointed out that people who used coal heat could beat the threatened labor shortage by ordering their coal now, even if delivery is delayed, Mr. Brown said, while people whose homes are heated by oil could not store enough, even if they could get the coupons, to last them through the winter.

Since fuel distribution is now listed as a "locally needed activity," coal dealers, Mr. Brown said, are counting on the area War Manpower office to be of some help to them in recruiting and holding their labor.

Mr. Scott said he believed the WMC employment stabilization plan would give the fuel oil distributors some added protection since it won't be so easy after this to quit jobs.

Gallon Blood Donors Will Be Decorated

Persons who have given a gallon of their blood to the armed forces through the Red Cross Donor Center are to be given special recognition, District Chapter Chairman John C. Folger announced today.

A small red ribbon is to be awarded those giving an eighth donation. Under the new system, a bronze pin is awarded for the first donation, a silver one for the third, and the ribbon added to the silver pin for the eighth. The ribbon and silver pin will be symbols of the "Gallon Clubs" in communities throughout the Nation.

At least six District residents are eligible to receive the red ribbon decoration. Donations at Twenty-third and C streets N.W. can be made at intervals of eight weeks, but are limited to five each year, Mr. Folger said.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS Sick Bay

In this war our wounded fighting men have a greater chance for recovery than in any previous conflict because of the medical aids and services that have been developed by the War and Navy Departments.

Your increased and continued purchase of War Bonds is required to help the Treasury Department finance this hospital transport service.

NO GAS TODAY—RAIN—H. C. Mockabee had gasoline at his service station at Kenilworth and Dean avenues N.E. today, but refused to sell it in the rain, despite a waiting line of cars approximately half a mile long. He explained the customers hadn't bothered to come around last winter in bad weather when gas was more plentiful, so he refused to get wet accommodating them.

Signals for Air Raid Tonight Are Listed By District OCD

Test to Come Between 8 P.M. and Midnight; Instructions Issued

The District Civilian Defense Department today issued a summary of the signals to watch for in the blackout test scheduled at some time between 8 p.m. and midnight tonight.

While in an actual raid, the signals may not come in the ideal order, the sequence of the signals tonight will be based on the idea that the "enemy" is sighted at sufficient distance to make a preliminary warning possible.

Here is the description of the signals and instructions issued by OCD:

"The first signal, called the blue, indicates that planes have been sighted and an air raid is possible. It is a long-drawn-out blast lasting about two minutes. All homes and buildings must black out. Pedestrians may still move on the streets but vehicles must reduce speed to 15 miles an hour with headlights on depressed beam.

"The next is the red signal, which means that an air raid is imminent. It is a series of short blasts on the horns or a rising and falling wail on the sirens. Homes and buildings remain blacked out. Vehicles must stop and extinguish all lights. Cars must be at the nearest curb providing it is not within 25 feet of a streetcar loading platform. Double parking is permitted only where it will allow 12 feet of clear roadway. Occupants of all vehicles, and pedestrians, must get off the street and into the nearest available building or shelter.

"After the red signal the blue will sound again, indicating that the planes have passed, but danger of their return is not over. It is the long-drawn-out blast which was heard first. Homes and buildings remain blacked out, but vehicles and pedestrians may move on the streets and vehicles speed may be resumed again. The blackout will be over."

Citizens' Group Elects Atherholt as President

Gordon M. Atherholt, deputy warden of the MacArthur boulevard area, was elected president of the MacArthur Boulevard Citizens' Association at its meeting last night in the Palais de Beaulieu.

Others named to serve with Mr. Atherholt were: R. L. Parsons, first vice president; R. H. Blatter, second vice president; Mrs. Dorothy McGhee, recording secretary; R. G. Hudson, corresponding secretary; Cole E. Johnston, treasurer, and C. E. McGhee and Mr. Atherholt, delegates to the Federation.

The association asked that the streetcar tracks on the Cabin John line at Galena place and Cathedral avenue be lowered because of the difficulty of automobiles crossing. It also requested that tar and gravel be placed in the alley back of the 5500 block of MacArthur boulevard.

40 WAACS in Offices Of Joint Chiefs of Staff

The War Department said today that 40 WAACS are now on duty in the offices of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington where plans are formulated for global war strategy.

"The Chiefs of Staff organization is eager to take the lead in releasing every man of combat duty age to field services," said Brig. Gen. J. R. Deane, secretary of the staff. "Every enlisted man available for combat duty will be replaced eventually by WAACS, WAVES and limited aviators."

The 40 WAACS on duty, selected for special qualifications and learning their jobs rapidly and most satisfactorily, are serving as typists, stenographers, clerks, receptionists and auditors.

Memorial Rites Honor Dead of All Wars Sunday

Number of Grocery And Other Stores to Be Closed Monday

In tribute to the American dead of all wars, Memorial Day will be observed solemnly at several ceremonies Sunday, with the principal event at 11:30 a.m. at Arlington National Cemetery.

The program for the day will be in marked contrast with Memorial Day last year, when the first great military parade after Pearl Harbor drew an estimated 125,000 persons to downtown Washington. President Roosevelt and high ranking officers reviewed the display of America's might.

Stores to Close Monday. Virtually all commemoration will take place on Sunday, Memorial Day itself, but Monday will be observed throughout the business district, where nearly all big stores, including department stores and chain groceries, will be closed throughout the day.

Housewives will have to plan food supplies today and tomorrow for a long weekend, since many stores will not open until Tuesday morning.

The Government departments, however, will work Monday. A suggestion had been advanced that Federal employees here donate an extra hour's work without pay, in memory of America's war dead.

Services Sunday will include: 10 a.m.—At the Water Gate, Arlington Memorial Bridge, the First Reserve Association, Branch No. 4, will conduct services with the memorial oration by Shipmate P. G. Cronan, past national president of the FRA, and president of Branch No. 4.

A floral anchor will be launched in the Potomac and there will be three volleys by a firing squad.

Cruelty Is Charged To Man in Trapping Of Dog in Garden

Northeast Resident Says Animals Were Damaging His Vegetables

212 Fifth Street N.E., a butcher, of 212 Fifth Street N.E. will appear in Municipal Court tomorrow to answer a charge of cruelty to animals lodged against him after a stray German shepherd dog was caught in a baited steel trap yesterday.

Policemen T. E. Howie and J. B. Southard of the ninth precinct, who assisted in releasing the dog from the jaws of one of two traps allegedly set in Mr. Ross' backyard, swore out a warrant charging the butcher with cruelty to animals. Mr. Ross posted $100 collateral pending his appearance in court.

Police were notified by neighbors yesterday after the dog's howls were heard. The dog refused to allow any one close enough to spring the trap. A veterinarian, Morris Black, succeeded in throwing a noose around the dog's snapping jaws.

Police said the traps were set between two stakes. A rib roast bone hung from a wire strung between the posts.

According to police, the traps had been set by Mr. Ross after his victory garden had been torn up several times by dogs.

The owner of the dog has not been located. The dog disappeared after its release from the trap. Police said it was without collar or tag.

Corporation Counsel Richmond Keech, declaring he was "shocked" by the incident, said that the District laws regarding the setting of traps are "weak." The law prohibits the trapping of squirrels, chipmunks and the like, but does not mention domestic animals. However, it was said, there are broad laws relating to cruelty to animals.

Daily Rationing Reminders

Blue coupons, Book 2—Those marked G, H, J, K, L and M are all good now for rationed canned goods. The G, H and J coupons will expire at midnight June 7. The K, L and M coupons will remain valid through July 7.

Red coupons, Book 2—These can be exchanged for meats, butter, margarine, fats and oils, cheeses and canned fish.

Stamps marked E, F, G, H and J are good now. The E, F, G and H stamps will expire at midnight May 31. The J stamps, however, will remain valid throughout June.

Stamps marked K, L, M and N will be good through June 30 after they become effective on the following dates: K, next Sunday (June 30); L, on June 6, M on June 13 and N on June 20.

War ration book No. 3—Forms on which applications for this new book are to be made are now being distributed through the mails. These should be filled out and mailed back immediately, and in no case later than June 10. It is not necessary to address the forms to return them, since the correct address is printed on the reverse side.

Sugar—Stamps Nos. 15 and 16 in ration book No. 1 may be used to obtain sugar for home canning purposes. Each of these stamps will be good for 5 pounds through October 31.

Families needing more than 10 pounds of sugar per person for home canning purposes must obtain sugar for home canning purposes. Each of these stamps will be good for 5 pounds through October 31.

These new rules governing sugar for home canning do not affect the regular allowances of sugar for general use. Coupon No. 12 in book No. 1 is good for 5 pounds through May 31. Stamp No. 13 in book 1 will become valid June 1 and will be good for 5 pounds from that date through August 15.

Coffee—Stamp No. 23 in book No. 1 is good for 1 pound through next Sunday (May 30).

Stamp No. 24 will become valid May 31 and will then be good for 1 pound through June 30. Another stamp will become good June 30.

Gasoline—Pleasure driving is forbidden to holders of all types of gasoline ration stamps.

The existing "T" allowances of gasoline must last their holders through July 25, instead of the previous date of June 30. This represents a cut of about 40 per cent in the "T" rations.

No. 5 A coupons are good for 3 gallons each through July 25. The B and C coupons, good for 3 gallons each, expire on dates indicated in individual books.

In addition to those winning top honors, those receiving awards were: Life and portrait class taught by Mr. Lahey, second prize of $25. Mrs. Ien Henderson, honorable mention to Mrs. Ione Conway, Mrs. Margery Ward, Robert Willis, George Washington University student, and Mabel E. Williams.

Life and portrait class taught by Mr. Weisz, second prize of $25 to Inez Leimbach; honorable mention to Evelyn Anderson, Doris Matthews, Charles Shinn of George Washington University and Mary Macatee.

Miss Peggy Bacon's life and portrait class: Second prize of $25 to Isabel Moncreu; honorable mention to Carl Tuttle, Ruth Chew, May Holan and Dorothy Sleeth.

Drawing Prize to Mrs. Balls. Mrs. Isabella Sa Pereira, won second prize of $25 in the drawing contest for the whole school. Honorable mention was given to Ione Conway and Helen Leavitt.

Composition class: Second prize of $25, Isabella Sa Pereira; honorable mention to Mrs. Ethel Ogan Tassa and Mrs. Minnie Berg.

Corcoran School of Art Awards Prizes to 52; Work Now on Exhibit

34 Adults and 18 Pupils Of Children's Classes Honored as Term Ends

Thirty-four adults and 18 pupils from the children's classes received prizes last night at the Corcoran School of Art concluded its 1942-43 term.

An overflow audience gathered in the Corcoran auditorium to see R. M. Kauffmann, member of the board of trustees of the Corcoran Gallery of Art, present the awards.

The winners had not been informed beforehand and some gasped with surprise when Richard Lahey, principal of the school, called their names.

Awards of $50 were won by Arvid Hedin, Charles Washburn and Miss Charlotte Lamm in the life and portrait classes; Carl Tuttle, drawing class; Mrs. Evelyn Wynne, composition; Mrs. Lola Conka, landscape, and Mrs. Sarah G. Silberman, sculpture.

Those winning $5 in the children's classes were Barbara Reid, Hedy Nisholz, Sylvia Willetts, Peggy Hughes, Mildred Bank and Morris Zelditch.

Works Now on Exhibit. Work of all the 500 pupils of the school was displayed in four rooms last night. It will continue to be on exhibition from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. through next Friday, except for Sunday and Monday, when the winners in each painting class were selected by a jury composed of Mr. Lahey, Eugen Weisz, vice principal of the school; Miss Peggy Bacon, Reginald Marsh and Mrs. Nan Watson. Sculpture judges were Heinz Wenneke and Mrs. Dorothea Greenbaum.

Before the prizes were awarded, Mr. Weisz presented on behalf of the students a silver bracelet to Miss Agnes Mayo, for 17 years secretary of the art school. C. Powell Minnigerode, director of the gallery, praised her as the "best school secretary in the world." Mr. Weisz added that her influence has been an "important element in the character of the school."

In introducing Mr. Kauffmann, Mr. Minnigerode said that three generations of his family had been represented on the gallery's board of trustees. Samuel H. Kauffmann, his grandfather, was president of the board when he died in 1906. His father, Rudolph Kauffmann, was a member and Mr. Kauffmann himself has been a member since 1928.

In addition to those winning top honors, those receiving awards were: Life and portrait class taught by Mr. Lahey, second prize of $25. Mrs. Ien Henderson, honorable mention to Mrs. Ione Conway, Mrs. Margery Ward, Robert Willis, George Washington University student, and Mabel E. Williams.

Landscape class: Honorable mention, Mrs. Nell Morris and Mrs. Natalie Bents. Antique class: Honorable mention to Diana Weatherwax and Mrs. M. O'Neil.

Sculpture class: Honorable mention, Maxim M. Elias and Mrs. Marcia Oboler. The first prize won by Mrs. Silberman was donated by Mrs. Corcoran Thom.

Honorable mention in the children's classes went to Phil Lee Baldwin, Jan Lawson, Virginia Tester, Barbara Berry, Lou Ann Humphreys, Patsy Lou Schick, Jimmie Mason, Charles Whitney West, Patrick Stewart, Jane Stouffer, William Tenschert and Janet Vaughan.

Several George Washington University students received credit for work at the school through special arrangement between the two institutions.

Budget Bureau Witness Told He Condemns Self

Stone Informed His Recommendations Bring Bad Results

By WILL F. KENNEDY.

Donald C. Stone, head of the Budget Bureau's division of administrative management, was told today by members of the Ranspeck Civil Service Committee that he was condemning himself "if, as you say, the various Government agencies accept your recommendations and the results are as bad as you yourself have told us."

At the close of a two-hour session, Chairman Ranspeck said he was frankly disappointed in the work of the management division. Representative Rees, Republican of Kansas, criticized Mr. Stone because he had said he "not only doesn't have authority to order agencies to stop waste of money and manpower, but thinks he should not have it."

When Mr. Stone protested that he "hadn't had much chance" to describe the work of his division and its accomplishments, Chairman Ranspeck invited him to prepare a statement of the management division. Representative Rees, Republican of Kansas, criticized Mr. Stone because he had said he "not only doesn't have authority to order agencies to stop waste of money and manpower, but thinks he should not have it."

The distributors admitted that some people may have cold homes despite their coupons and sufficient fuel in the city because delivery trucks cannot be manned.

Many of the men who are being kept on during the summer, he said, will be lost by fall to the draft which, with a high labor turnover, has complicated the employment picture in the fuel distribution industry.

Employers are supposed to release workers who are employed at less than full time, which is the case in fuel oil distribution during the summer, and many distributors can't carry the extra overhead of keeping fully staffed in the slack period.

A. T. Brown, chairman of the coal division of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, said coal dealers were accustomed to lay off some of their drivers during the summer but this year they are trying to find work for them around the coal yards and on the trucks so they will be available when the heavy demand for coal comes.

Since fuel distribution is now listed as a "locally needed activity," coal dealers, Mr. Brown said, are counting on the area War Manpower office to be of some help to them in recruiting and holding their labor.

Coal dealers expect the coal shortage to be relieved by the end of now taking orders for delivery at their convenience.

Mr. Brown pointed out that people who used coal heat could beat the threatened labor shortage by ordering their coal now, even if delivery is delayed, Mr. Brown said, while people whose homes are heated by oil could not store enough, even if they could get the coupons, to last them through the winter.

Mr. Scott said he believed the WMC employment stabilization plan would give the fuel oil distributors some added protection since it won't be so easy after this to quit jobs.

Gallon Blood Donors Will Be Decorated

Persons who have given a gallon of their blood to the armed forces through the Red Cross Donor Center are to be given special recognition, District Chapter Chairman John C. Folger announced today.

A small red ribbon is to be awarded those giving an eighth donation. Under the new system, a bronze pin is awarded for the first donation, a silver one for the third, and the ribbon added to the silver pin for the eighth. The ribbon and silver pin will be symbols of the "Gallon Clubs" in communities throughout the Nation.

At least six District residents are eligible to receive the red ribbon decoration. Donations at Twenty-third and C streets N.W. can be made at intervals of eight weeks, but are limited to five each year, Mr. Folger said.

Transit Official Urges Cuts in Traffic Lights

Says Elimination of Stops, Starts Would Conserve Gas

Elimination of all unnecessary traffic lights during non-rush-hour periods was urged today by William B. Bennett, vice president and secretary of the Capital Transit Co., to help alleviate the gasoline shortage, which remained critical here today.

Mr. Bennett's letter, addressed to Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer, stated: "In view of the stringent restrictions and curtailment of gasoline for automobile and bus traffic and the consequent reduction of traffic on the street, which we understand will probably be effective until at least the latter part of July, we are asking whether you will give consideration to the cutting off of all traffic lights during that period which can be accomplished without increasing the accident hazard to vehicular or pedestrian movements."

While we have, of course, no checks at this time at various locations to indicate what these reduced volumes are, the elimination of traffic lights during the period mentioned, the restricted allotment of gasoline to buses but also reduce gasoline consumption on other vehicles by virtue of eliminating stops and starts occasioned by traffic light operations.

Public transportation here was unaffected by yesterday's Office of Defense Transportation order to reduce mileage by 20 per cent immediately. Bus schedules in the Metropolitan Area were adjusted earlier in the week in anticipation of the order and operations of the bus and trolley companies were curtailed automatically by the gasoline shortage.

Meanwhile, the American Automobile Association proposed the establishment of a national committee, headed by Bernard M. Baruch, "to study and report on the national petroleum situation in the same way that a blueprint was drafted for rubber."

Thomas P. Henry, AAA president, said such a committee would have two functions: "First, to give the public the facts to re-establish public confidence; and second, to put the national petroleum policy on a definite track that will assure ample supplies for all military requirements and essential civilian needs."

Issuance of yesterday's order, an ODT spokesman said, was necessary to "protect the petroleum against the collapse of transportation service in July. We cannot permit service-as-usual today at the risk of no service later."

ODT, the spokesman said, found that some bus and taxicab operators failed to begin strict rationing of rations voluntarily to meet the overall 40 per cent reduction in mileage ordered last Sunday. That reduction was to be accomplished by extending the valid period for all current "T" gasoline coupons until July 25.

Expected Quick Return to Normal. "Some cabs and bus companies," he said, "evidently went right ahead on a business-as-usual basis, figuring the crisis would be over when all their coupons had been used and they would be able to obtain more."

Others, apparently, decided to use up whatever supplies they could get and then close up when it was gone.

"The time to save gasoline is now, as well as the end of the gasoline ration period."

While motorists failed to see any humor in it, the shortage did produce a few laughs.

H. C. Mookabee, operating a service station at Kenilworth and Deane avenues N.E., refused to sell gasoline today "while it was drizzling."

He sat tight while a line of cars a half mile long, which began forming at 6:30 a.m., waited for skies to clear.

Plumbers Handicapped. "I ain't gonna get wet," he told a reporter. "When it was snowing and sleeting last winter, they wouldn't come out to buy gas, so let 'em wait now."

Plumbers, too, found themselves handicapped by the shortage and in many cases unable to obtain gasoline to supply repairs to equipment.

One employer reported his workers were using wood fires to melt down lead and that many service calls could not be made because of the distance involved.

Transporting equipment by bus or streetcar is next to impossible.

ODT reported that deliveries to 25 major Eastern terminals totaled 2,938 tank cars about 637,700 barrels during the 24-hour period ending at 12:01 a.m. yesterday, a decline of 9 per cent below receipts in the preceding 24 hours and 24 per cent below daily average deliveries last week.

While predicting an upward trend in Eastern deliveries toward the end of this week, ODT said this would not be apparent in the Eastern supply situation for several days thereafter, and the shortage of gasoline for civilian consumption "may continue indefinitely."

NO GAS TODAY—RAIN—H. C. Mookabee had gasoline at his service station at Kenilworth and Deane avenues N.E. today, but refused to sell it in the rain, despite a waiting line of cars approximately half a mile long.

110 Ration Books Lost In Last 30 Days in Arlington County

Board Reminds Losers Of Limited Period For Replacement

Disclosing that 110 war ration books have been reported lost within the past 30 days, the Arlington County Ration Board today warned that the minimum time for replacement of lost books is 10 days.

The board added that in cases where books are lost through negligence 30 days will be required after the facts of the loss are established in Richmond and investigated by the food panel before books will be re-issued.

Food division officials advised persons losing ration books to go first to their grocer, where a number of lost books usually are turned in each day. Officials said 44 books have been turned into the board office, and advised persons who have lost books to check with the board before taking steps to replace them.

Board officials said that if it becomes necessary during the peak of the fruit canning season sugar substitutions will be set up throughout the county to accept applications for canning sugar in excess of the 10 pounds available on stamps 15 and 16 in Ration Book 1.

This will enable persons who have access to large supplies of fruit to make applications for an additional pound of sugar. This extra sugar, however, will become available only after stamps 15 and 16 have been used.

Officials said five pounds of canning sugar may be used for jams and jellies, but warned that the original ruling that one pound of sugar must be "stretched" to produce four quarts of fruit still holds good.

Motorists seeking renewals of supplementary gasoline rations were reminded by board officials that it still is necessary to show the income records in connection with the application for new books.

Officials said May 31 is the deadline for the second tire inspection for C book holders, June 31 for B book holders and September 30 for A book holders.

Engineer's Plea For Parole Continued Imprisoned for Wreck Which Cost 12 Lives

By the Associated Press. ANNAPOLIS, May 28.—A plea for executive clemency for Raymond Rufus McClelland, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad engineer, sentenced to two and one-half years for manslaughter in connection with the Dickerson train wreck last fall, was among 27 cases continued yesterday until a later date by the State parole director.

McClelland was convicted of manslaughter by the Montgomery County Circuit Court after testifying that he had run his passenger train past a yellow warning signal and rammed the rear end of another train, resulting in the death of 12 persons.

Parole Director Herman M. Moser took no action, and said that McClelland would not be eligible for parole until October. Michael Delea, the engineer's attorney, said McClelland would be eligible for a position as stationery engineer at the University of Maryland hospital.

issue further curtailment orders. In general, ODT said, the 20 per cent reduction will be a prerequisite to the filing of appeals by bus and taxicab operators from the 40 per cent curtailment. Operators who make the 20 per cent reduction may apply to ODT field officers for relief if they can show that it is impossible for them to curtail mileage by the full 40 per cent.

Lot Rezoning In Kensington Sought Again

Commissioners Told Election Is Proof Shift Is Wanted

Establishment of commercial zoning on the north side of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks in Kensington, described as the issue in the last municipal election and center of a number of stormy zoning hearings in the past six years, again was sought yesterday at a rezoning hearing in Silver Spring.

Col. Clarence V. Sayer, Kensington Mayor, told the county commissioners the townspeople definitely showed their desire for commercial zoning for this area in June when they elected him and two councilmen who had publicly announced they supported the rezoning. Former Mayor Robert L. Lewis, who was a candidate for re-election, and the two councilmen on his ticket were defeated because they opposed the zoning, Col. Sayer asserted.

The Mayor argued that most of the present business section is old and not suitable for present-day demands. He said the town needs a place for recreation for children and adults, such as a theater and bowling alleys.

Lot Owner Appears. Newman G. Garmack, owner of one of the lots whose application for rezoning was heard, said that because of its proximity to the railroad it was not suitable for residential purposes. The property, located at the intersection of Lincoln avenue and Bladensburg road, is opposite the lot on which Kensington firehouse is to be built, he urged.

Also heard on the rezoning was Orville L. Murdock, agent for the property. He urged the Garmack plot. He said a petition bearing the signatures of more than 400 property owners supporting the proposed change and displayed plans for a modern shopping center.

F. E. Chase, realty dealer, told the council there is a great demand in Kensington for a shopping center. The only property on the rezoning, he said, are "big boys who have always fought improvements coming into the town."

Traffic Hazard Feared. Opponents of the rezoning charged that a shopping center would create a traffic hazard and spot zoning, and is unnecessary. The proposed commercial site, they said, is within walking distance of the established business district and might create a "ghost town" in the neighborhood.

Several citizens appeared to oppose the rezoning and a number of letters in opposition were introduced. Opponents pointed out that the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission has recommended denial of the subject.

Another application, heard by the board, was the petition of Rose E. DeFranceschi for reclassification of a lot to residential B for two-family house construction. No one appeared to oppose the plea. The board planning commission has recommended its approval on the ground that it is "premature."

Petition Presented. Also heard was an application of Ralph G. Shure, agent, for reclassification from residential A to industrial zoning in Linden, and also rezoning from residential to commercial of another portion of the site. Thomas Griffin presented a petition signed by 37 property owners in the neighborhood protesting the application.

Regarding this petition, the Park and Planning Commission recommended denial of the application, overriding the recommendation of Chief Engineer Irwin I. Kaplan and Senior Planner Earl D. Fraser.

The commission said it has inspected the property and believes that to rezone the site would "create an inequitable and heavy burden upon the adjacent residential community of Linden and consequently is unwarranted at this time."

Industrial zoning in this location is expected to result in the establishment of a coal dump or pocket. The trucks distributing the coal so dumped would be required to use the streets of the residential community of Linden. These streets are lightly paved and not wide. To add the operation of a large number of coal trucks to the traffic to be borne by the street system would, we believe, considerably increase the traffic dangers of the residents of Linden, damage the residential value of their property and generally interfere with Linden as a long-established residential community.

Hearings were also resumed yesterday on the applications of Earl A. Blundon for rezoning to residential C of three lots in the vicinity of Maple and Second avenues in Silver Spring and of Opha Mays, agent, for rezoning of property in Takoma Park.

The Park and Planning Commission last week announced it had recommended denial of the Mays application and approval of the Blundon application. The commissioners reserved decision.

Communicable Diseases Show Increase in Virginia

By the Associated Press. RICHMOND, May 28.—A sharp increase in the number of cases of meningitis, measles and diphtheria reported in Virginia during the last week was shown today in a weekly report yesterday of the Bureau of Communicable Diseases of the State Health Department.

Measles more than doubled the number of cases for the corresponding week last year, while the number of meningitis cases was four times as great as the same week in 1942.

There were 376 cases of measles reported, as compared with 155 a year ago. Alexandria had 66 cases and Arlington 19.

Meningitis cases totaled 25, compared with six a year ago. Warwick County led all reporting agencies with six cases.

One case of typhoid fever was reported in Arlington County, compared with six a year ago.

Dealers Attempt to Hold Men by Work In Summer Layoffs

Distributors of fuel oil and coal expect to be 50 per cent short of labor to deliver fuel when fall comes because of the summer lay-off of drivers who they fear cannot be replaced, it was learned today.

Although both fuel oil and coal dealers are trying to hold their more experienced help over the summer by finding jobs for them to do, they expect the delivery situation to be "critical" by October 1.

The distributors admitted that some people may have cold homes despite their coupons and sufficient fuel in the city because delivery trucks cannot be manned.

Lester Scott, director of the oil heating division of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, said the oil distributors had had difficulty in getting help and keeping it last winter and they are now worrying about coming season when they will have to find approximately 150 new men with the training and experience required for the job in a tight labor market.

Draft to Affect Situation. Many of the men who are being kept on during the summer, he said, will be called up by the draft which, with a high labor turnover, has complicated the employment picture in the fuel distribution industry.

Employers are supposed to release workers who are employed at less than full capacity in the case of fuel oil distribution during the summer, and many distributors can't carry the extra overhead of keeping fully staffed in the slack period.

A. T. Brown, chairman of the coal division of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, said coal dealers expect the coal shortage to be relieved, he said, and are now taking orders for delivery at the regular rate and for drivers to be recruited and holding their labor.

Mr. Brown pointed out that people who used coal heat could be the threatened labor shortage by ordering their coal now, even if delivery was not made for some time, while people whose homes were heated by gas could wait long enough, even if they could get the coupons, to last them through the winter.

Since fuel distribution is now listed as a "locally needed activity," coal dealers, Mr. Brown said, are counting on the area War Manpower office to be of some help to them in recruiting and holding their labor.

Mr. Scott said he believed the WMC employment stabilization plan would give the fuel oil distributors some added protection since "it won't be so easy after this to quit jobs."

Miss Paterson Wins Award at U. of M.

Senior Co-ed Is Honored For Fostering College Life

By the Associated Press. The senior award for the University of Maryland co-ed doing the most to foster college activities was presented last night to Miss Bertha Ann Paterson of Towson, Md.

The presentation was made during Class Day ceremonies, a part of the university's commencement week program. The service award, made by the staff of the dean of women, is given annually to a senior co-ed. Miss Paterson was editor of the Old Line, student magazine.

Margaret Ruth Beattie of Beltsville was awarded the Delta Delta Delta Sorority Medal, presented each year to the sophomore girl with the highest scholastic average during the first three semesters.

The freshman Nu Sorority award for the freshest girl with the highest scholastic standing in the college of home economics went to Ruth Maurine Lingle of Queenstown.

Frank S. Mervine of Takoma Park was awarded the Chester B. Hale dramatic award, for the senior who has done most to foster dramatics.

Senator Radcliff, democrat, of Maryland will deliver the commencement address to more than 300 graduates at exercises tomorrow.

Blue Coupons, Book 2—Those marked H, J, K, L and M are all good now for rationed canned goods.

The G, H and J coupons will expire at midnight June 7. The K, L and M coupons will remain valid through July 7.

Red coupons, Book 2—These can be exchanged for meats, butter, margarine, fats and oils, cheeses and canned fish.

Stamps marked E, F, G, H and J are good now. The E, F, G and H stamps will expire at midnight May 31. The J stamps, however, will remain valid throughout June.

Stamps marked K, L, M and N will be good through June 30 after they become effective on the following dates: K, next Sunday (May 30), L on June 6, M on June 13 and N on June 20.

War ration book No. 3—Forms on which applications for this new book are to be made are now being distributed through the mails. These should be filled out and mailed back immediately, and in no case later than June 10. It is not necessary to address the forms to return them, since M and N correct address is printed on the reverse side.

Sugar—Stamps Nos. 15 and 16 in ration book No. 1 may be used to obtain sugar for home canning purposes. Each of these stamps will be good for 5 pounds through October 31.

Families needing more than 10 pounds of sugar per persons for home canning purposes must make application to their ration boards for all over this amount.

These new rules governing sugar for home canning do not affect the regular allowances of sugar for general use. Coupon No. 12 in book No. 1 is good for 5 pounds through May 31. Stamp No. 13 in book 1 will become valid June 1 and will be good for 5 pounds from that date through August 15.

$18,000 Granted For 26 County Play Centers

Prince Georges Heads and Planning Body Assure Funds

Establishment of 21 white and 5 colored recreational centers in Prince Georges County this summer for children between the ages of 6 and 14 was assured today after the county commissioners and the Maryland-National Park and Planning Commission yesterday authorized grants of $13,000 and $5,000, respectively for the action.

The commissioners' action was taken after a delegation from the County Child Care Committee and R. M. Watkins of the Park and Planning Commission appeared before the board in Upper Marlboro to appeal for funds. Mr. Watkins said the commission was prepared to contribute $5,000.

While the committee asked for a total of $18,000 to operate 25 centers during July and August, an additional $2,000 was granted to enable the committee to establish another white center.

Locations of Centers. The white centers will be set up in schools in the following areas: Laurel, Beltsville, Berwyn, College Park, University Park, Riverdale, Hyattsville, Mount Rainier-Brentwood, Cottage City-Colimar Manor, Bladensburg, Braddock Heights, Marlboro, Takoma Park, Silver Spring, Pleasant, Greenbelt, Capitol Heights, Lanham, Glenn Meadows, Edmonston and Chely-Tuxedo.

Colored centers will be opened in North Brentwood, Fairmont Heights, Land, Bladensburg and Laurel. Children will be charged for coming to the various centers.

The funds will be administered by the Board of Education, which will select a supervisor and 50 recreation instructors, while the entire project will be under the direction of the Child Care Committee and Mr. Watkins.

Included in the delegation yesterday were Mrs. Joseph C. Longridge, Miss Mildred Alexander, Dr. Nelson Fodor, assistant county health officer, Mrs. Catherine Green, Mrs. Dorothy Ogburn, G. Shugart, assistant superintendent of county schools, and Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton.

Centers to Open July 1. Declaring that the centers will open July 1, Mrs. Hamilton appealed to the various communities affected to contribute funds for paper, crayons, paint and similar equipment. Those desiring to contribute should call her at Hyattsville 0369, she added.

The committee and Mr. Watkins first appeared before the commissioners Tuesday. At that time the board, while indicating their approval of the project, said the necessary funds would have to come out of a $300,000 bond issue authorized by the 1941 State Legislature. A recommendation to that effect would have to be made by the Advisory Committee to the county commissioners before action could be taken, they added.

Members of the Advisory Committee explained later, however, that the bond issue is earmarked for specific projects and could not be used to finance recreational centers.

Alexandria Red Cross Seeks Nurses' Aides

The Alexandria chapter of the Red Cross has planned an accelerated nurses' aides course to start June 21 to meet the nurse shortage problem at Alexandria Hospital.

Mrs. Howard Richards, chairman of nurses' aides, said the course is planned primarily for college students and teachers on vacation, as well as for recent high school graduates who wish to spend their summer vacations in this essential service, and thereby relieve the shortage caused by summer vacations.

The course will consist of two weeks of class work, given five days a week from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. This will be followed by two weeks' training in the hospital.

They will be asked to serve approximately six hours a day for five days a week after completion of the training course.

Persons interested in registering should call the chapter house, Alexandria 5952, to arrange an appointment.

Insurance Agents Elect

Marvin L. Wilson of Alexandria was elected vice president and made chairman of the board of the Virginia Association of Insurance Agents yesterday at the closing session of a two-day meeting at Richmond. New directors include J. W. De Jarnette of Bowling Green and Howard M. Armfield of Leesburg.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Sick Bay. In this war our wounded fighting men have a greater chance of recovery than in any previous conflict because of the medical aids and services that have been developed by the War and Navy Departments.

One of those aids is the hospital transport plane service that has been bringing our wounded back from Africa.

Locked in Restaurant, Cooks Himself Meal

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY—John Baker, opening his restaurant, found a man was sleeping in a booth. The visitor explained he had dozed off about closing time and had been locked in. Waking in the night, he was hungry. He found some roast beef, warmed it, made gravy and fixed up the accessories and had a lunch, then decided he might as well finish his nap since he couldn't get out. Mr. Baker's considering offering him a job as cook.

Wife of Ecuadoran President Feted Before Leaving on Tour

Distinguished Company Is Present At Luncheon of Senora de Alfaro

Senora de Arroyo del Rio, wife of the Ecuador President, who has been the guest of the Ecuador Ambassador and Senora de Alfaro, will go to New York today on the first step of her tour of this country. Senora de Alfaro gave a luncheon yesterday in honor of her guest, the occasion being in the nature of a "hasta luego" fete rather than a farewell party. Senora de Arroyo will come back to Washington for another short visit before starting her return journey to Ecuador, and many of those at luncheon yesterday were preparing meetings in the future.

Senora de Alfaro plans to join Senora de Arroyo and make at least a part of the tour with her. They have been friends since childhood and the journey will be all the more pleasant for Senora de Arroyo with a good friend beside her, especially as she speaks no English.

The hostess and her honor guest stood at the foot of the steps into the ballroom at the Mayflower to receive the sixty-odd guests and luncheon was served at one long table laid in the Chinese room. In the center a tall vase was filled with a cluster of mauve peonies with stock and greens and at intervals low mounds of ragged robins, with yellow and red snapdragons matching the tall lighted tapers carried out the national colors of Ecuador. A large Ecuador flag was hung in the ballroom in front of which the hostess and Senora de Arroyo planned to stand but they were eager to greet the guests as they arrived and with each of the arrivals moved closer to the door. Both wore black with touches of white at the neck of their frocks and small close fitting hats also trimmed with white.

Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, wife of the Vice President, was the ranking guest with Mrs. Cordell Hull, Mrs. Harold L. Ickes, Mrs. Claude R. Wickard and Mrs. Jesse H. Jones representing the Cabinet circle. Mrs. Hull looked particularly well in a pale green crepe tailored dress, her small hat trimmed with bright flowers and having a veil in the same shade as her dress. The small round hat matching the heliotrope dress which Mrs. Jones wore was trimmed with a cluster of bright Defense stamps, it being a custom of this cabinet hostess to wear one of these bouquets with every costume.

Senora de Espil, wife of the Argentine Ambassador, and the ranking hostess of the diplomatic corps, was greatly missed yesterday, but did not arrive by plane from California until mid-afternoon. Her Western trip was hurriedly arranged and she was on the West Coast only a few days.

The wives of heads of diplomatic missions of the American Republics, including Senora de Baron, wife of the Cuban charge d'affaires, were other guests. Also in the large company were Mrs. Tom Connally, Mrs. Sumner Welles, Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller and a number of friends who are not in official circles. Among these were Senora de Alfaro, wife of the former President of Panama; Mrs. James Finn of Baltimore, formerly Senora Beatriz Carbo, daughter of the first Ecuador minister to this country, the late Senor Don Felipe Carbo, Mrs. Finn, who is the wife of Lt. Finn, U. S. N., is a sister of Senor Esteban F. Carbo, who has been financial counselor of the Ecuador Embassy. Another Ecuadorian at the luncheon was Senora Graciela Escudero, who has been a student in Washington for a year, having won a scholarship in social service work at the National Catholic College of Social Service. Senora Escudero will leave the middle of next month to return to Ecuador.

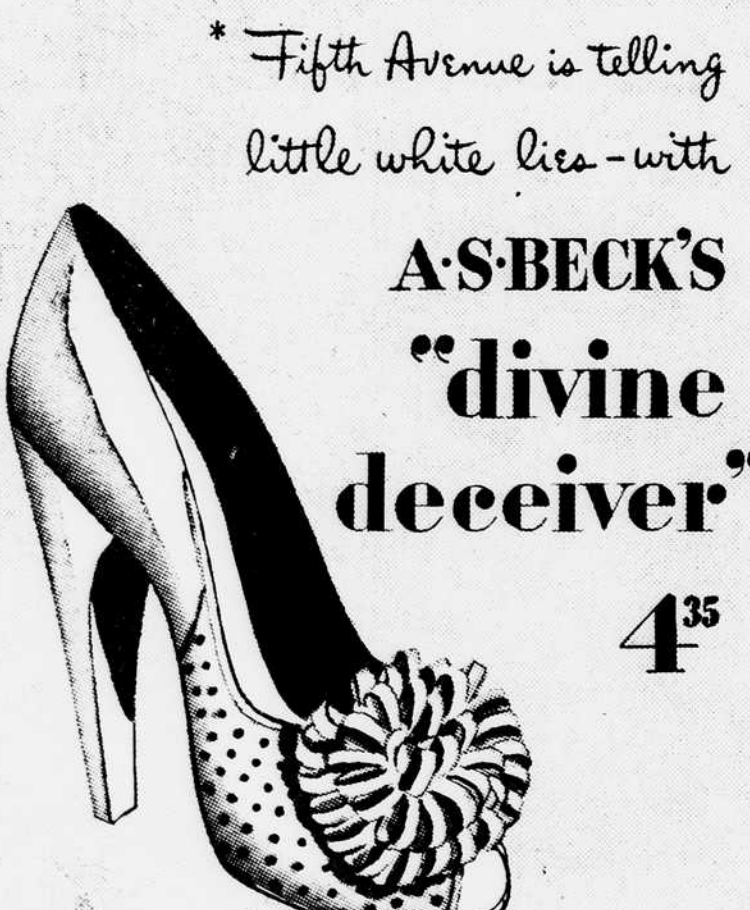

The luncheon was well within the limits of war rationing for although there were four courses, only the butter and the small cups of coffee at the close of the meal had point value. Following the cantaloupe filled with jellied soup, a steaming dish of paella—a Spanish way of cooking rice with sea food—and string beans were served. This was followed by a green salad and the dessert was a fruit ice. A simple and delicious meal, well within the confines of food regulation.

Virginia L. Muse, Capt. Merchant Are Married

Couple Away on Wedding Trip To West Coast

The marriage of Miss Virginia Lucille Muse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archer Allan Muse of this city, to Capt. Robert Allen Merchant, Jr., U. S. M. C., son of Maj. Robert Allen Merchant, Army Air Forces, and Mrs. Merchant of Long Beach, Calif., took place May 20 in the chapel of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church with the Rev. John W. Rustin officiating.

Miss Edith Gottwals, organist, and Miss Lola Saunders, soloist, presented the nuptial music. The church was decorated with palms, white flowers and candelabra.

Miss Sarah Thurman of Atlanta, Ga., was the bride's only attendant. She was attired in a blue silk crepe suit with matching accessories. Her corsage was of talsman roses. Lt. (j. g.) Robert John Hansen, U. S. N., of Dubuque, Iowa, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Archer Allan Muse, Jr., and Mr. John Lloyd Merchant.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, following which Capt. and Mrs. Merchant left for an extended wedding trip to the West Coast.

Both Capt. and Mrs. Merchant attended Matur High School in Norfolk. The bride studied at George Washington University and Capt. Merchant attended Virginia Military Institute and the Marine Basic School in Philadelphia.

Mr. Dyke Cullum, Jr., is spending a 10-day leave from the bomber squadron school at Fort Worth, Tex., with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dyke Cullum of Silver Spring.

Mrs. W. P. Barnes, wife of Ensign Barnes, U. S. N., and her small son, Byron, of Takoma Park, are visiting Ensign Barnes' mother in Hopkinsville, Ky. They will return the early part of next month.

Mrs. Grace Van Allen and her daughter, Miss Barbara Van Allen, of Takoma Park, left Wednesday for Booth Bay Harbor, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Bond Smith of Takoma Park have had visiting them Mr. Smith's son, Ensign J. Bond Smith, Jr., U. S. Coast Guard Reserve, who is on 10-day leave. For the past five months Ensign Smith has been in charge of a patrol boat operating out of the Naval Section Base at Ocracoke, N. C.

Mr. Ernest Harmon, son of Mrs. Harriet A. Harmon of Takoma Park, is spending a week in Cleveland, visiting his brother, Mr. Robert Harmon.

Mrs. Pehr B. Moller and her two children have given up their home in Silver Spring and have joined Lt. Moller, U. S. A., in Georgia.

Commander Donald Hendrie Johnston and Mrs. Johnston of this city announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret Ann Johnston, to Lt. (j. g.) Reuben Farrlor Woodall, U. S. N., son of Mr. Reuben R. Woodall and the late Mrs. Woodall of Springville, Ala.

Miss Johnston was graduated from Mount Saint Agnes Academy in Baltimore and has been attending the College of Chestnut Hill in Philadelphia.

Lt. Woodall is a graduate of the Baylor School in Chattanooga and attended the Marion Institute before entering the Naval Academy. He was graduated last June with the class of 1943 and has been attached to the Pacific Submarine Force.

Miss Charlotte D. Mark of this city and Miss Edith L. Berger of London, England, will leave Washington tomorrow for a visit to Sea Island, Ga., and Charleston, S. C.

Mrs. Ruth Grantham, daughter of Mrs. Frances Grantham, became the bride of Mr. Frank Hine, son of Mrs. Emma Hine of South Carolina May 15 at 5:30 o'clock in the Metropolitan Baptist Church with the Rev. John Balbach officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Robert Grantham, wore a gown of white marquisette with a finger-tip veil and carried a bouquet of white roses and sweet peas.

Attendants for the bride were Miss Mary Gerry and Miss Marjorie Johns. Their gowns were of pink and blue organza and they carried bouquets of mixed flowers.

Mr. David Hine was the best man and Mr. Clyde Rowe served as usher.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Emma Hine.

Miss Mary Frances Lohr, whose marriage to Mr. Bernard James Coyle, Jr., will take place Monday, was the guest of honor at a buffet supper given last evening by Miss Lorraine Coyle, Mrs. Bernard Coyle, mother of the bridegroom-elect, entertained at the same time for a number of her friends at a seated supper who were invited to meet Miss Lohr.

By the Way—

Beth Blaine

Mrs. Harold Baetjer looks as trim and modern and up-to-the-minute efficient as the compact and very modern small apartment where she and her husband live. You have a feeling that this bright young woman has streamlined her life just as she has her wardrobe and her home. There doesn't seem to be any "clutter" about any of it.

It's all in good order—smooth, practical and purposeful. She manages to fit into an already busy schedule a great deal of volunteer Red Cross work; and has for the past two years. She took the Staff Assistance course of the Red Cross and is helping with the class now in training. She does duty at the information desk at the Chapter House and spends a great deal of time working at a local Army post recreational center.

This particular center, she told us, is maintained primarily for the servicemen stationed in and around Washington. It has a well-equipped lounge and through the canteen and production units of the Red Cross serves doughnuts and cookies and coffee or tea to the men, and looks after their clothes, mending them or altering them whenever necessary.

Then, too, there is the information desk where the men can find the entertainment program for servicemen all over the city, also news of the various church services. Also this information desk helps the men find rooms or hotel accommodations for visiting members of their families and just in general "lends them a helping hand."

There is a well-stocked lending library with a good selection of books and new magazines. Sometimes there are dances with a real dance orchestra and refreshments and entertainers. Being young herself and full of fun, Mrs. Baetjer especially enjoys arranging good times for the servicemen and the WAACS, too, she told us, now are beginning to come to this center.

Although she has lived in Washington only about eight years (before that she made her home in California) Mrs. Baetjer feels very much a native of the Nation's Capital. She went to school here at National Park and returned to live in Washington with her mother when she met her husband, who was just finishing his studies at Georgetown University. Now he is working with the foreign service school there. He's a native of Baltimore and a son of the late and very famous X-ray specialist, Dr. Baetjer, who was so much beloved and respected by patients and doctors alike.

Betty C. Shields Recent Bride of John O. Propert

Ceremony Held In Chevy Chase Baptist Church

Miss Betty Crocker Shields became the bride of Mr. John Oliver Propert Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Chevy Chase Baptist Church with the Rev. Edward O. Clark, assisted by the Rev. Clarence W. Cranford, officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis F. Shields of this city and Mr. Propert is the son of Mrs. J. K. Propert of Philadelphia and the late Mr. Propert.

The church was decorated with white flowers, palms and ferns and white candelabra with a lighted cross in the background. Mrs. French McCraw of Gaffney, S. C., aunt of the bride, played the nuptial music.

Mr. Shields gave his daughter in marriage. The bride's gown was fashioned with a fitted bodice which had a net yoke and round neckline and long sleeves. The skirt of the gown was of net and ended in a train. The bride wore a finger-tip length veil of illusion which was held by a scalloped coronet head-dress wreathed with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley with a white orchid in the center.

Miss Virginia Clark, daughter of the officiating minister, was the maid of honor. Her gown was of white marquisette and made with a fitted bodice and full skirt. The left side of the gown was trimmed with a lace applique design. Her bouquet was of white carnations and baby's breath and she wore white ostrich tips in her hair.

Mrs. Kerper Propert, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was the matron of honor and Miss June Schrage and Miss Nancy Moul were bridesmaids. Their costumes matched that of Miss Clark.

Dick Cranford, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Cranford, served as ring bearer.

The bridegroom's twin brother, Mr. Kerper Propert, was the best man and the ushers were Mr. Frank Propert, another brother, Mr. James Berry and Mr. Orville Leudtke.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the social hall of the church. When Mr. and Mrs. Propert left for their wedding trip the bride was wearing a white silk jersey frock with a navy blue coat and accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Miss Leah Levin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leah Levin, will be the bride in the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bowdley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence W. Bowdley of Rochester, N. Y.

Miss Holland was graduated from the Sibley Memorial Hospital School for Nurses this week.

The wedding will take place in the chapel of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church June 9 following Midshipman Bowdley's graduation from the United States Naval Academy. The Rev. John W. Rustin will officiate.

Douglass Urges Women to Help In Making Peace

Addresses Annual Luncheon of D. C. Women's Clubs

Women's place in a "winning war" is to take the leadership in making peace a success, Dr. Paul F. Douglass, president of American University, told members of the District Federation of Women's Clubs at their annual luncheon yesterday at the Statler Hotel.

Peace will not come, the speaker continued, as a result of noble sentiments. Rather, he declared, it will come by the same hard battle of persuasion which women used in their own enfranchisement.

"Woman's place is no longer most essential at the lathe or the drop-fore, but in the forefront of the crusade for a new free world," Dr. Douglass asserted. "And do not be deceived," he warned. "This world will not come quickly or easily."

The speaker compared the battle for peace to the infantry action in Tunisia, when hand-to-hand fighting was required to gain a mile a day over sacro-sacred hill positions.

Wars are won in the end, he pointed out, by infantry action, by confident professional skill, by man-to-man action. And in the same way, he continued, the crusade for peace will be won by inch-by-inch advance, by women who have a "confident professional skill" in the mobilized persuasive agencies of peace.

Sharing the program with Dr. Douglass was Mrs. Hester Beall Provensen of the University of Maryland, whose subject was "Responses." Mrs. Provensen pointed out that it is necessary for women to decide which things are important and which are "trifling" in responding to their duties in a wartime period. She also suggested that an "understanding heart" is needed not only in individual action, but in group enterprises.

A feature of the luncheon was a musical program by Frances Coates Grace, soprano, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Marion MacGregor. The soloist included several selections from opera and "Plain Chant" by Still.

The Takoma Park Choral Group provided the concluding musical feature.

Mrs. Arthur C. Watkins, federation president, presided at the luncheon and introduced the honor guests.

Presentation of a service flag by Mrs. Tilman Bacon Parks showed that five federation members are wearing gold stars and that 239 now have husbands, sons or daughters in the armed services.

Mrs. Ellis Logan, dean of past presidents, pronounced the invocation, and Mrs. Edward Campbell Shields led in the salute to the flag. Mrs. Marie C. DeL, president of the assembly in singing the "Star Spangled Banner."

Guests at the speakers' table included Judge Fay L. Bentley, Mrs. P. C. Elliott, president of the District Congress of Parents and Teachers; Mrs. Walter K. DeL, president of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Joy Elmer Morgan, president of the Washington Council of Church Women; and Mrs. Thomas A. Wadden, leader of the voluntary alcohol control movement.

Clubs affiliated in the federation had separate tables. The attendance totaled more than 300.

Pen Women Plan Garden Party

Miss Edna Holland of New York and New Orleans, well known as a singer of Negro spirituals, will be the guest artist at a garden party to be held by the Chevy Chase Branch, League of American Pen Women, from 4 to 7 p.m. Sunday at the home of Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson in Chevy Chase.

Miss Holland, who will include both Louisiana ballads and spirituals in her program, will be accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Margaret Watson. The singer will appear in the picturesque costume worn during the period when the best of the old Creole songs originated.

Mrs. Clarence Crittenden Calhoun, who is in charge of the program, will conclude it by reading "The Great Chalice of Antioch" and her original poem on the subject.

Other features will include violin selections by Roy Comfort, accompanied at the piano by Frank Irving, and a reading of the biography of Miss Mary Elizabeth Downey. Miss Downey is the retiring president of the Chevy Chase League and recently was elected chairman of the District Branch of the National Woman's Party. Her biography will be read by Mrs. Hester Beall Provensen.

Newly-elected officers also will be installed at the meeting. They include Mrs. J. Emmet Sebree, president; Mrs. Harrison Bates, first vice president; Mrs. Charles G. Lueck, second vice president; Mrs. Charles A. Calhoun, third vice president; Mrs. Charles L. Curtis, Jr., secretary; Miss Viola Offutt, treasurer; Mrs. C. C. Calhoun, auditor, and Mrs. Emma W. P. Slack, historian.

Mrs. Nicholson, the hostess, is the founder and a past president of the Chevy Chase League. Her guests will include members of the District and Baltimore branches.

League Is Told Of Club's Growth At Final Meeting

Army-Navy Group Hears Needs of S. S. and M. Club

A talk on the new land army, the prospects of canning this summer, and the courses in agriculture at the University of Maryland was given by Mrs. John N. Johnson of Annapolis yesterday before members of the Women's Army and Navy League.

The address was a feature of the organization's final meeting this season held at the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Club, 1015 L street N.W., with about 200 in attendance. Mrs. Raymond Fowler, president of the club who introduced the speaker, responded with the wish that the canning would be successful and that those who canned would "remember" the Soldiers, Sailors, and Marines' Club. The canteen is in need of food, she explained.

The minutes read by Mrs. John Hull, recording secretary, revealed that 50,000 men have been fed in the past year.

An appeal for spoons to be used in the canteen was made by Mrs. Henry Jewett, chairman of the canteen. With existing priorities, purchase of spoons in large quantities is impossible at this time, she added.

Appreciation was expressed for the interest of the Travel Club in planting and donating the plants for the two large urns which are placed at the entrance to the clubhouse.

The league voted that a representative of the Coast Guard should be elected to the board of directors. The vacancy left by the resignation of Mrs. William C. James, wife of Brig. Gen. James of the Marine Corps, was filled by Mrs. Robert Kilmartin, according to the report.

Refreshments were served, with Mrs. Thomas Robbins, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Phil Porter, vice president of JANGO. Members of JANGO, in uniform, also assisted in serving and at the tables.

Officers Installed As Travel Club Closes Season

The Wanderlust Travel Club wound up the season with its annual dinner last night at the Fairfax Hotel. The theme was "Toward International Understanding in the Postwar World."

The entertainment program was presented by "home talent." Many of those who have addressed the organization during the last year were special guests.

With Miss Beryl Brannon presiding as toastmistress, the program included an entertainment by members dressed in costumes to represent various foreign countries; special music by Miss Carol Arnold and a humorous forecast of club members' postwar plans by Miss Mae Hickey, program chairman. Miss Hickey also conducted a skit dramatizing the Four Freedoms.

Miss Frances Fox, retiring president of the club, conducted installation of new officers.

Miss Hickey is the new president; Miss Alice Matthews, vice president and editor of Lusty News; Miss Lucille MacDougall, corresponding secretary; Miss Roberta Wollenhaupt, recording secretary; Mrs. G. Randolph Balthus, treasurer, and Miss Ann Wetheroth, historian.

Mrs. Edward Coleran was in charge of dinner arrangements, assisted by Miss Mary Sue Gallicott, Miss Gladys Taylor and Miss Mary Weir.

Honorary members who were honor guests included Mrs. Ridgley Chapline, who was recently a guest speaker for the club; Mrs. Nellie Van D. Smith, president of the District League of American Pen Women; Mrs. John L. Waters and Mrs. Willis Widmyer, mother of the Travel Club's founder.

Chevy Chase Group Plans Music Event

The Chevy Chase Chapter of the Young Women's Christian Association will hold a musical program and silver tea at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Sidney Morgan, 3719 Morrison street N.W. Proceeds will go toward financing summer activities.

Miss Elizabeth Redelstein, now with the Washington Sanatorium, who formerly was a companion to Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, will discuss her personal experiences while on foreign service.

Musicians will include Representative Harve Tibbott, who will be one of the singers; Sgt. Virgil Fox, Army Air Forces; Sgt. Henry Beard, Fort Meade; and Pfc. Erno Valasek of the Army Air Forces Band.

War Housing Areas to Get U. S. Sum in Lieu of Taxes

Cities and counties in Virginia and Maryland where Government housing projects for war workers are located will receive checks from the Government in amounts equal to the taxes they would receive if the projects were privately owned, Oliver C. Winston, regional director of the Federal Public Housing Authority, said today.

Alexandria, one of the first cities in Virginia to benefit, is being sent checks totaling $43,668, Mr. Winston said.

Fairfax County, for which $732 has been allocated; Montgomery County, which is to receive $7,911, and Prince Georges County, to get $24,877, are among the 18 other cities or counties in the two States for which payments already have been allocated, approved for payment or paid. Additional sums will go to all the communities except Alexandria.

High-Speed Training Equips Navy's Flyers To Tackle Enemy

8-Week Final Course Gives Young Airmen Great Skill

By WILLIAM J. WHEATLEY, Star Staff Correspondent.

NAVAL AIR OPERATIONAL TRAINING COMMAND, JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 28.—Scientific simulation of aerial combat in an intensive training course here puts such a super finish on teen-age Navy flyers that they are able to go into an engagement against the best air fighters the enemy has.

Rear Admiral A. B. Cook, former chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics and now in command of this station which receives newly commissioned naval aviators from preflight and intermediate training courses, says that here the young airmen do everything that the aviators in the Fleet do except actual firing. During the eight weeks they are here—a course that used to take one year in the Fleet—they are given three or four times as much flying as ordinarily is done by Fleet aviators during any year.

They practically live in the air from the day they report until they are sent to the forces all over the world. These eager, quick-thinking youngsters are termed "musclemen" by some of their instructors because of the stiff physical training that hardens them.

Trained in Teamwork.

The enlisted air personnel, many of whom train with the same pilots with whom they will go into combat later, include the "free" gunners who operate a gun in any direction of fire as distinguished from a fixed gun and the navigators.

Many gunners work with their pilots during the training period in all phases of flight. They may be called on to engage in such as navigation, radio torpedo runs, glide bombing, dive bombing and torpedo bombing.

Schools such as the one here have been established to do on shore what formerly was done in the fleet. Until the establishment of the schools, naval aviators were sent to the fleet to get their operational training in a slow and tedious task aboard ship.

At the present time the young aviators are trained in one particular type of plane, but as soon as sufficient planes are available it is planned to give them training in all types of planes.

The training command here includes 10 auxiliary fields along the Atlantic shore of Florida. At each field special instruction is provided in only one type of plane.

Novel Training Devices.

Devices used in training the "free" gunners are novel. The gunners are taught to estimate the range by the amount of the sight filled by various types of enemy planes. Mounted on rods on a movable platform are scale models of planes made by high school students throughout the land. These are in a blacked-out area behind a screen. The instructor turns a handle moving the planes, then flashes on the lights and the gunners are required to give the range.

The effectiveness of the training and the accuracy of fire of the gunners were realistically demonstrated in one phase of the training yesterday in this particular phase.

At some point on a movie screen an enemy plane is shown with a bull's-eye indicating where the gunner should aim to destroy it. When he pulls the trigger in the turret gun a spot of light shows where he is firing. If he is hitting he gets the sound of machine-gun fire, but if he misses a bell rings.

After preliminary training the gunners are taken on the range to fire at moving targets. Sleeve targets bearing markers of the fishing ship and swastikas are attached to little cars running at 40 miles an hour over a system of tracks so operated from a control tower that they do not follow a direct line pattern. Airplane turrets are mounted on automobile trucks which are driven at high speed along a nearby road and the gunners fire at them. The flight of tracer bullets shows observers the accuracy of fire.

In addition to daytime dive bombing, carrier landings and other training courses, the student officers here work well into the night. They take off and land at night on both land

WAVES have replaced enlisted men here in operational duties during the night flying. Two were in charge of the control tower to maintain radio contact with planes in the air. They are doing a job which has brought praise, even from veteran naval officers who accepted them at first with their tongues in their cheeks.

Hunter Trapped in Cave Eats Coyote Pups Raw

By the Associated Press.

CODY, Wyo., May 28.—Barney Roussan, a Government trapper, was in a critical condition today after being pinioned by fallen rock for six days and nights in a coyote den near Meeteetse.

Dr. R. C. Trueblood, who termed Mr. Roussan's ordeal "the most gruesome I've ever heard of," said the trapper had eaten from one to three coyote pups, raw, before the rescue and had slashed his arm and a rib "trying to find an artery" after giving up hope of rescue.

Mr. Roussan, about 40, crawled into the den seeking coyote pups. He was trapped by rock falling on his back and legs.

A search was started after the man's dog returned to his home carrying Mr. Roussan's cap. The dog would not return with searchers, but two small boys found the hillside den where Mr. Roussan was trapped.

Monjar, Three Others Convicted of Fraud

Mantle Club Officers Face Prison Terms

By the Associated Press.

WILMINGTON, Del., May 28.—Four officers of the Mantle Club, which for 15 years has preached business ethics to an estimated 30,000 members from Rhode Island to California, faced prison sentences today, convicted of using the mails to defraud and violating the Securities Act of 1933.

A Federal District Court jury brought in verdicts of guilty last night against Hugh B. Monjar, president and founder of the organization, and three members of the club's Board of Governors. This ended a four-month trial in which Monjar was defended by hundreds of the persons he was accused of victimizing.

Convicted of conspiracy were eight other co-defendants, including Monjar's wife, Josephine, who shared the $100,000 home Monjar admitted buying—with funds obtained from members—in the main line Philadelphia suburb of Ardmore.

Three others, all West Coast residents, were acquitted. Sentencing of all the defendants was deferred by Judge Paul Leahy after Chief Defense Counsel Daniel O. Hastings, former Senator from Delaware, announced he would ask a new trial.

Monjar and the other principal defendants, John Fenton Jones, Abraham J. Cooke and Clement O. Drew, all of Wilmington, face possible maximum sentences of 97 years and possible maximum fines of $49,000 each. The maximum penalty for the conspiracy charge is two years imprisonment, $10,000 fine or both. The jury recommended clemency for those convicted of conspiracy.

OAKLAND, Calif., May 28.—A six-alarm fire in Oakland's warehouse district today swept over a square city block and threatened the huge Moore Drydock Co. shipyards.

Every available piece of fire-fighting equipment in the city was called.

The fire enveloped a lumber mill, the Western Paper and Box Co. yards and the warehouse of the Grandma Baking Co. at Fifth and Magnolia streets.

The big Moore shipbuilding yards where Liberty ships are being built adjoin the blazing warehouses.

Headliners Club Cites 16 for Outstanding Work on War Fronts

Those to Receive Awards Include Ernie Pyle And Henry Cassidy

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 28.—Henry Cassidy, correspondent for the Associated Press in Moscow, was cited last night by the National Headliners Club for his reporting of the war in the Russian-German theater.

Mr. Cassidy, recently returned to the United States for a rest, was one of 16 to win the club's 1943 awards.

The club, which annually honors outstanding work in the various fields of news reporting, for the first time in its history included women among its selections.

Two Women on List.
Silvia Porter of the New York Post was cited for her financial articles, and Virginia Scott of the Great Falls (Mont.) Leader was similarly acclaimed for having written what the club selected as the best domestic feature of the year.

Other persons named were: Charles Collingwood, Columbia Broadcasting System war correspondent, for news broadcasting in the North African war zone.

Bill Henry, Los Angeles Times columnist.

Ernie Pyle Included.
Robert C. Miller, United Press, South Pacific war front; Drew Middleton, New York Times, North African front; Keith Wheeler, Chicago Times, war combat reports in the Aleutians; Ernie Pyle, Scripps-Howard newspapers, for stories from the North African front; Jack Vincent and William K. Hutchinson, International News Service, for story on the execution of German saboteurs.

Al Brick of Fox Movietone News for his film on the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Vaughn Schoemaker of the Chicago Daily News for his editorial cartoons and Robert L. Mooney of the Philadelphia Inquirer for baseball action photography.

The awards will be presented on June 5 at the annual banquet of the Headliners Club here.

Five D. C. Area Cadets Honored at Fishburne

Special Dispatch to The Star.
WAYNESBORO, Va., May 28.—Five Fishburne Military School cadets from the Washington area have been presented medals by Col. Morgan H. Hudgins, superintendent, for having passed the entire 1942-3 school year without a single demerit. It was announced today.

They are Charles J. Farrington, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Farrington, 1516 Live Oak drive, Silver Spring, Md.; William M. Glasgow, jr., son of Capt. and Mrs. William M. Glasgow, 728 Washington street, Alexandria, Va.; Robert S. Heckrotte, son of Comdr. and Mrs. Sherwood Heckrotte, 1008 East Capitol street, Washington; Warren K. Laffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Laffer, 4515 Thirty-eighth street N.W., and Roy Lyman Sexton, jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Roy L. Sexton, Westchester Apartments, Washington.

Another cadet, Marvin Haigler of 916 South Orme street, Arlington, Va., received a conduct medal for a half year. He entered Fishburne at mid-term.

Victory Gardens

SEED-CORN MAGGOTS

By WILBUR H. YOUNGMAN,
The Star's Garden Editor.

Several gardeners have reported that when their bean seedlings emerged from the ground—newly sprouted plants—that they showed insect injury on the stems and on the seed leaves (cotyledons). This injury seemingly took place before the seedlings reached the surface of the ground, probably in many cases causing gardeners to think that they had planted bad seed.

No. 79

This maggot, or tiny worm, is commonly called the seed-corn maggot and closely resembles the common cabbage maggot. It is a tiny white worm approximately one-fourth inch in length and hardly as large around as the lead in a pencil.

They seem to be most common in gardens where large quantities of weeds and other decaying vegetable matter were turned under this spring, or where a liberal application of fresh stable manure was made before plowing. They are seldom troublesome in the older garden plots where the supplies of humus are low.

In most cases the best remedy at this season is to replant the beans, since the period of active injury by the maggot is about past. Control may be had through applying a solution of camolene (1 oz. to 10 gals. of water) or corrosive sublimate (same dilution) to the soil along the row of seedlings. Fertilizing the young seedlings and getting them through the ground quickly is another method. Or we may sprinkle the seed bed after planting with a carbolic acid emulsion or spread sand and kerosene. These latter methods, which may not be practicable, are designed to keep the flies from depositing their eggs near the seed.

To avoid injury in another season it is recommended that manure, compost, and other vegetable matter be turned under in the fall, so that by spring conditions will not be so favorable for the maggot.

Clip and save for your victory garden scrapbook.

Women 'Invade' Factories In New Personnel Jobs

The vast increase in the number of women workers in factories is resulting in the employment of many women as personnel officials and employee counselors. Miss Mary Anderson, director of the Women's Bureau, United States Department of Labor, reported concurrently with the release of a pamphlet, "Women in Personnel and Industrial Relations Work in War Industries."

Surveys of the Women's Bureau have been made in Government armenals, aircraft factories, ammunition plants, tool factories and shipyards.

Before the war, women were virtually barred from being personnel officers. Today, however, employers find it necessary to get the woman's point of view when they hire large number of women workers on the production line.

One of the purposes of women's counselors is to break down antagonism of male foremen, supervisors and employes against the new women workers.

Stabilization Chief Was Early Sponsor of Pay-as-You-Go Tax

Judge Vinson Served As Chairman of House Taxation Subcommittee

By the Associated Press. Tall, sharp-faced Fred M. Vinson, 53-year-old Kentucky lawyer, tax expert and Federal judge—in that order—is the new economic stabilization director.

Named by President Roosevelt today to succeed James F. Byrnes, who was moved into full direction of home-front activities as war mobilization director, Judge Vinson is best remembered for his work as chairman of the House Ways and Means Taxation Subcommittee.

He served seven House terms before being appointed by the President in May, 1938, as an associate justice of the United States Court of Appeals for the District.

He was one of the first pay-as-you-go tax collection sponsors. As chairman of the tax subcommittee, he proposed in September, 1937, a withholding levy on taxable salaries up to $5,000. His aim was not only to increase revenue but to overhaul the entire tax system, wiping out inequities and some of the excess language that makes these laws so intricate.

Born at Louisa, Ky., January 22, 1890, he was graduated from the Kentucky Normal College and took his law degree at Centre College. He began his law practice at Louisa in 1911 and was city attorney and commonwealth attorney before his election to Congress in 1922. He served three terms in the House and after a lapse of two years returned for four more terms.

His Kentucky home is at Ashland. He is married and has two sons.

22 Corporations and Nine Individuals Held Guilty

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Federal Judge Matthew T. Abruzzo fined 22 corporations and nine individuals a total of $120,500 yesterday. All defendants had entered pleas of nolo contendere to an indictment charging them with conspiring to defraud the Government on asphalt paving contracts with the Works Progress Administration.

Judge Abruzzo imposed fines ranging from $10,000 each for seven corporate defendants to $250 for some of the individuals. United States Attorney Harold M. Kennedy in Brooklyn, said the defendants engaged in a conspiracy from December, 1934, to December, 1942, which resulted in collusive bidding on contracts in Queens and Richmond Counties, New York City, and Rockland County, N. Y. The Government, he said, expended over $1,000,000 in the contracts, an amount he estimated to have been $350,000 more than should have been expended.

The seven corporations fined $10,000 were the Atlantic Refining Co., the Shell Co., the Sinclair Refining Co., the Sweeney-Vacuum Oil Co., the Texas Co., the American Bitumuls Co., and the Barber Asphalt Corp.

Originally 57 defendants—29 corporations and 28 individuals—had been named by the Government. J. Wolfe Chassen, special Federal assistant district attorney, said that the Government had recovered more than $500,000 in a civil action from those who were not in court yesterday.

Emmons to Give Up
Hawaiian Command And Take New Post

Speculation Arises That He May Succeed De Witt
At San Francisco

By the Associated Press.
HONOLULU, May 28.—Lt. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, commander of the Hawaiian Department of the United States Army during the grim days following the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, will relinquish that command June 1 and be succeeded by Maj. Gen. Robert C. Richardson. Gen. Emmons, who made the announcement of the change yesterday after he had received the Distinguished Service Medal in recognition of his outstanding work here, did not disclose his new assignment, but speculation immediately arose that he might take over the Western Defense Command and the 4th Army, now headed by Lt. Gen. John L. De Witt.

San Francisco Post Hinted.
"There wouldn't be a more pleasant place to serve" than San Francisco, Gen. Emmons said in explaining he was unable to announce his new post.

In San Francisco, Representative Welch, Republican of California, said earlier in the week that there was a difference between Gen. De Witt and a War Department faction over Gen. De Witt's vigorous opposition to any relaxation of the rules excluding Japanese from Western defense areas, and because of it, Gen. De Witt was to be transferred, with Gen. Emmons replacing him. In Washington, Secretary of War Stimson, at a press conference yesterday, termed such reports of differences "nonsense."

Gen. Emmons took over the command of the Hawaiian department 10 days after the Pearl Harbor attack. His 17 months here have witnessed the throwing up of defenses costing hundreds of millions of dollars.

Nimitz Praises Emmons.
Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific areas,

BEAUTY QUEEN CANDIDATE
—Betty Jane Lawrence, 1009 K street N.W., is a candidate for "Queen of the Night of Thrills" to be held June 18 at Griffith Stadium in the annual benefit sponsored by the Masonic and Eastern Star Home. One of 12 contestants, she is being sponsored by Washington Centennial Chapter No. 26, O. E. S. Entries will be closed on June 11.

In presenting to him the Distinguished Service Medal, said Gen. Emmons assumed command when "the prospects were indeed very grim. . . . Gen. Emmons immediately proceeded to increase and strengthen the defenses. His responsibility extended far to the south and west, where he was charged with the construction of air bases which now are serving us so well."

Gen. Emmons, who is 55, said he would leave for the mainland as soon as he was relieved.
Gen. Richardson, 60, a native of Charleston, S. C., was transferred here recently from the 7th Training Corps at Jacksonville, Fla. He has been decorated for heroism in the Philippines in 1905 and wears the Distinguished Service Cross for AEF action in the World War. In 1941, he took command of the 7th Army Corps at Birmingham, Ala.

Lt. Umstead Reported

Marine Corps Officer Was Native of Kensington

Second Lt. Cecil J. Umstead, U. S. M. C. R., 33, of Kensington, Md., has been missing in action since April 17, the Navy Department announced yesterday.

Lt. Umstead when last reported was traveling as a passenger on a Royal Australian Air Force plane, said Mrs. Edith Umstead, his wife. She is living at 10 Baltimore street, Kensington, and is employed at the General Accounting Office.

A native of Kensington, Lt. Umstead attended Central and Gonzaga High Schools. He later studied at Georgia Institute of Technology and George Washington University. As a registered civil engineer in Maryland he helped to build up and promote the development of Rock Creek Hills, Kensington. His home there at 3542 Raymond road is now leased to Rear Admiral J. J. Broshek of the Bureau of Ships, and Mrs. Broshek.

Lt. Umstead and his wife, the former Edith Hale, were married about a year and half ago. He had been in the service five months when reported missing. A brother, Leslie Umstead, also lives in Kensington.

Rubber Official Found In Costa Rican Jungle

By the Associated Press.
SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, May 28.—Theodore Foley, Cleveland-born official of the Goodyear Rubber Co., was found yesterday by a searching party which had combed the thick jungles of the San Carlos region in Northern Costa Rica since a Taca Airways plane on which he was a passenger was first reported missing May 21.

Search was continued for the pilot and two other passengers. The searching parties pushed on today aided by Mr. Foley's instructions. Assisting were three Army bombers and 26 officers and men trained in jungle rescue work who were sent from the Canal Zone by Lt. Gen. George H. Brett, commander of the Caribbean Defense Command.

The plane was reported lost on a flight from San Carlos to San Jose. Still missing are the pilot, Pablo Torres Balbuena, a veteran of the Spanish Civil War; Edwin McKibbin, Taca sales manager and former Eastern Air Lines employe from California; and Rufino Quesada, San Carlos businessman.

Seized Prisoners
British Soldiers

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 28.—American soldiers at a United States bomber station thought they had made a prize catch—five German paratroopers—until the protesting prisoners were identified at headquarters as British soldiers on maneuvers. The men were garbed in German uniforms to lend realism to the military problem. An American officer spotted the first man near the bomber station and in 30 minutes all five were rounded up, with the Americans refusing to believe the men's cockney accents.

"They wouldn't even look at my credentials," one of the "prisoners" grinned, after explanations were made at headquarters.

Jack Nichols, Named To TWA Post, Plans To Leave Congress

Ex-Member of District Committee Becomes Airline Executive

Representative Jack Nichols, Democrat, of Oklahoma, former member of the House District Committee, plans to retire from Congress, the Associated Press reported from Kansas City, Mo., today in a dispatch which also reported Mr. Nichols was elected yesterday as a vice president of Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc.

Mr. Nichols was quoted as saying he would issue a statement today about his future plans.
Mr. Nichols, 47, who has represented the Second Oklahoma District in Congress for five terms, was chairman of the House committee which made a survey of civil and commercial aviation.
In announcing his election, Jack Frye, TWA president, said Mr. Nichols was named to the executive post because of "his broad-gauge legal and investigative experience which has familiarized him with many problems confronting commercial aviation."

Mr. Nichols was assigned to the District Committee when he arrived here in 1935. He served as a member of a subcommittee dealing with the Griffen-Hagen plan for the reorganization of the District government. He fought for a sales tax for the District and was a member of the subcommittee which proposed Camp Springs (Md.) as the site for a new airport for Washington. Gravelly Point subsequently was selected as the site for the airport. The bill for construction of a new building for the recorder of deeds was introduced by Mr. Nichols.

House Group to Probe Navy Plan to Develop Elk Hills Oil Fields

Voorhis Assails Contract With Standard; Fears Exhaustion of Reserves

By the Associated Press.
The House Public Lands Committee decided today to conduct a "thorough investigation and hearing" into Navy plans for development of the Elk Hills Navy oil reserve in California. The Elk Hills oil fields were involved in the oil scandals in the early 1920's.

Today's action came after Representative Voorhis, Democrat, of California told the committee that, in his belief, the Navy had entered into an exclusive contract with the Standard Oil Co. of California under which he said "the Standard Oil Co. will receive a considerably larger percentage of the oil in the Elk Hills field that it should in right and equity be entitled to."

Mr. Voorhis also told the committee "that it is my great fear that all the oil in the field (which he described as larger than any in the world except one in Arabia) would have to be virtually exhausted" before Standard can pay back to the Navy the Government share of the first five-year production. He said the contract provides that Standard shall receive for the first five years the entire production and shall then repay to the Navy its accumulated share.

The committee has under consideration a bill by Chairman Peterson at the request, he said, of the Interior and Navy Departments. It would give the Navy full jurisdiction over a strip 1 mile wide surrounding the Elk Hills field and would permit cancellation of leases in the strip at the end of their primary terms.

Celebrities' Jeweler Jailed in New York

Flato Held on Suspicion Of Putting Gems in Pawn

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 28.—Paul E. Flato, a jeweler who counted nobility and stage, screen and radio celebrities among his clientele, awaited arraignment in Felony Court today, charged with suspicion of grand larceny in the pawning of jewelry consigned to him on memorandum.

Assistant District Attorney Emanuel Robbins said the 42-year-old jeweler and jewelry designer admitted accepting $100,000 in jewelry on memorandum, most of it from other dealers, and pawning it because he was short of funds.

Flato was arrested yesterday and placed in a cell in police headquarters.

The district attorney's office said investigation into Flato's affairs came after David Davidoff, an attorney for several jewelry dealers, lodged a complaint.

Flato, who maintained offices here and in Hollywood, reported to police recently that a $60,000 diamond pendant had disappeared from his New York office. Police said the pendant had been sent to him on consignment.

Among Flato's clients were Mrs. Duke Cromwell, Infanta Beatriz, daughter of the former King Alfonso XIII of Spain, and former Queen Victoria Eugenie of Spain.

In 1939 he mounted and set for the first time the 125-carat Jonker diamond, largest stone cut from the original 726-carat Jonker.

J. A. Crooks Again Heads Federation Law Group

James A. Crooks of the North Capitol Citizens' Association has accepted reappointment as chairman of the Law and Legislation Committee of the Federation of Citizens' Associations. President Harry S. Wender announced today.

Named as vice chairman was Guy H. Birdsall of the Friendship Association and legislative counsel for the Veterans' Administration. Eugene E. Ditto of Georgetown will serve as secretary.

Mr. Wender requested that the committee present its views to the House District Committee on the bill of Representative Hebert, Democrat, of Louisiana to widen the authority of the Commissioners. Mr. Wender also suggested that the committee study the question of reform in the sentencing of prisoners in local courts.

Those named to serve on the committee included: Charles H. Bates, Society of Natives; Lt. Culver B. Chamberlain, Cathedral Heights; Cleveland Park; Philip U. Gayart, Burroughs; Ernest F. Henry, Petworth; John J. Hurley, Michigan Park; Thomas E. Lodge, American University Park; James F. McFarland, Washington Highlands; John A. Saul, Brightwood; Mrs. Elizabeth Sullivan, Progressive of Georgetown; Harry N. Stull, Stanton Park; Mrs. Leslie B. Wright, Forest Hills; M. J. Wright, Glover Park; Francis J. McDonald, Jr., Dahlgren Terrace, and Mrs. H. L. Parkinson, Burieth.

Three Women Flyers From D. C. Area Get Ferrying Wings Today

Will Be Assigned to Air Transport Command Bases in U. S.

One District woman, one from Chevy Chase, Md., and another who was a former resident here are among the 43 women pilots who will fly ferrying air-planes after their graduation today from the Army Air Forces Flying School at Avenger Field, Sweetwater, Tex.

They are Miss Catherine Vail, 3900 Fourteenth street N.W.; Mrs. Mary Tufts Trotman, 6621 Strathmore street, Chevy Chase, Md., and Miss Virginia Alleman of Big Prairie, Ohio, who worked here for the Huber Corp.

Miss Vail began to fly two years ago, becoming the only woman member of the University of California Flying Club. She is a member of the CAP and the 99s.

Mrs. Trotman bought plane. Mrs. Trotman took her first air ride in a glider and learned to fly after that, purchasing her own plane. Her husband is a lieutenant in the Army.

Miss Alleman began flying while working here as a secretary. She had more than 200 hours of flying time before entering the Army school.

The graduating class today is the second class to complete the course. The first group was graduated from Ellington Field last month.

Representative of America's outstanding women flyers, they will be assigned to Air Transport Command bases throughout the Nation and will relieve men flyers for combat and other duties.

Former CAP Member. The women flyers originally came from 38 cities and 17 States to take their training at Houston, Tex., upon the completion of which they flew to Sweetwater for the concluding ceremonies.

Most of them were members of the CAP before entering the Air Force Women's Pilot Training program. A majority own their own planes. Some of them were stunt flyers and practically all have brothers, husbands, or relatives in the armed forces.

Two of the group are mothers, one being the mother of two sons, ages 9 and 5. Among them are former air line hostesses, Olympic stars, school teachers, nurses, parachute riggers, meteorologists, secretaries, flight instructors, newspaper writers and musicians.

Selected for Marines. Robert Ludlow Allen, 32 Denwood avenue, Takoma Park, Md., is among 25 members of the 1944 class at the Naval Academy who have been selected for appointment as second lieutenants in the Marine Corps, academy officials announced today.

WLB Grants First Pay Raise Since April 8 'Hold-the-Line' Order

Orders Continuance of Union Shop Clause at Everbest Plant, New York

The War Labor Board has made its first award of a wage increase to correct "sub-standards of living" since President Roosevelt's "hold the line" order of April 8.

This action was taken yesterday when the board ordered an average 10-cent hourly pay raise for 68 employees of the Everbest Engineering Corp., New York. The board also ordered continuance of a union shop clause in the new contract, from which the industry members of the WLB dissented. The industry members are Ruben B. Robinson, Cyrus Ching and Frederick S. Fales, and their attitude drew sharp criticism from Wayne L. Morse, public member of the board, who said that "by taking the position that they will not vote for continuation of a union shop or a closed shop clause they become suspected of favoring an open shop movement."

6,000,000 Workers Covered. Commenting that about 6,000,000 workers were covered by closed-shop and union-shop contracts, Mr. Morse said that "unquestionably this number could be greatly enlarged under war conditions if the unions of the country were not patriotic enough to live up to their no-strike pledge." The board, in its majority opinion written by Vice Chairman George W. Taylor, said the wage rates paid at Everbest were below the standard for similar work in similar plants in the industry. It cited various comparative figures which showed differences ranging up to 38.4 cents an hour.

Other overnight developments on labor front were: Striking employees of the United States Rubber Reclaiming Co. plant in Buffalo, N. Y., voted to return to work after a Navy spokesman warned them that unless they ended the "walkout, the Army or Navy would take over the plant." The two-day tie-up involving 438 workers caused two Connecticut war plants to shut down for lack of rubber. Lt. Henry Clifton, industrial relations officer of the Third Naval District, said.

Blame WLB Delay. The walkout, which was unauthorized, resulted from "delay of the War Labor Board" inconsidering the request of the CIO Rubber Workers' Union for an 8 1/2-cent hourly wage increase, Herbert Welch, a union spokesman said. Thomas Knowlton, WLB representative, told the strikers the wage issue would not be considered until the plant was in full operation.

In Jamestown, N. Y., another unauthorized strike, involving CIO United Automobile Union members, tied up the Marlin Rockwell Corp., manufacturer of ball and roller bearings. Estimates put the men idle at 1,600 to 1,900. The strikers blamed the trouble in the failure of the WLB to act on a request for a 10-cent hourly wage increase.

In Utica, N. Y., production of sheets and pillow cases for the Navy was halted by a strike at the Utica and Mohawk Cotton Mills as a protest against the suspension of eight loom fixers.

Strikes which had halted production of Army jeeps at the Willlys-Overland Motors, Inc., Toledo, and at the Standard Shipbuilding Corp. in San Pedro were settled.

Nelson Is Reported Pleased by Creation Of War Super-Agency

Comment Withheld Until He Studies Order; Brown Praises President's Move

Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, was described today as pleased by President Roosevelt's creation of the Office of War Mobilization headed by James F. Byrnes. While Mr. Nelson said he would have no formal statement at present, Prentiss Brown, price administrator, issued a brief statement praising the move. Mr. Nelson, whose future policies in war production presumably will be dictated largely by Mr. Byrnes and his new all-powerful committee—though Mr. Nelson is a member of the committee—was reported by a WPB spokesman to feel that the President's decision would expedite the war on the home front.

Knew of Plans for Agency

Mr. Nelson, it was learned, knew in a general way that the super-agency was to be established, though he had not been advised of the details. He read with interest press dispatches describing Mr. Roosevelt's announcement. It was said he would await study of the President's order before making any comment. Although Mr. Nelson up to this time has been given complete authority to determine war production questions, he was reported to feel that the WPB program would function even more efficiently with the new super-agency ready to act as arbiter in any disputes and to decide appeals from the various war agencies on questions of policy.

Brown's Statement

Mr. Brown, whose agency recently has come in for wide criticism in and out of Congress, issued this statement:

"Any task that Justice Byrnes undertakes will be well done. This organization will help tremendously. It is needed, and a better choice for the job could not be made." There was considerable speculation in official WPB and OPA circles over whether the Office of War Mobilization would have authority to consolidate or transfer functions from one war agency to another. Several influential members of Congress are backing a plan to turn over control over food prices and rationing from OPA to War Food Administrator Chester C. Davis. A bill also is pending in Congress to make the Office of Civilian Supply, now under WPB, an independent agency.

Two Army Flyers Die In Crash in Indiana

VINCENNES, Ind., May 28.—Maj. Milton Heath, public relations officer at George Field, near here, said today that Grover C. Justice of Phoenix, Ala., and Pvt. Gordon B. Smith, 20, of Detroit, were killed yesterday in the crash of a training plane. The plane fell in the backwaters of flooded White River three miles east of Decker.

Walter Lee Nominated For War Manpower Post

The nomination of Walter Orlow Lee as principal industrial specialist in the Bureau of Manpower Utilization of the War Manpower Commission was sent to the Senate by President Roosevelt today with 15 other manpower nominations for area and regional WMC offices. Mr. Lee, who has been industry specialist in charge of the printing and publishing section of the Office of Civilian Supply, War Production

Board, would be employed at $5,600 to travel around the country assisting war industries with labor problems. Before entering the Government service in 1941, Mr. Lee operated a printing business in Arlington, Va. He has also been associated with printing establishments in Norfolk and Richmond. He lives at 1725 Seventeenth street N.W. Counting three to a family, more than half a million people will read this issue of The Star. If you have a "want," tell them through a Star "Want Ad." Ginsburg's OPA Files To Be Assembled for Committee's Inquiry

Associate Counsel Says Personal Papers Also To Be Shipped Back

The Smith committee of the House Investigating Federal agencies was to subpoena Office of Price Administration officials today in an endeavor to reassemble the files of David Ginsburg, former general counsel of the agency, now in the Army.

The files were distributed before Mr. Ginsburg left his office, Thomas T. Emerson, associate general counsel of the agency, told the committee yesterday in answering a subpoena demanding the file of the former general counsel's correspondence.

Mr. Emerson said he had talked to Mr. Ginsburg by long-distance telephone and that the latter had said he was ordering boxes containing his personal papers which had been shipped to his home at Huntington, W. Va., returned to Washington so there would be no question of his keeping anything from the committee.

Says Papers Distributed.
The witness said Mr. Ginsburg had four or five filing cabinets in his office which contained personal effects he had brought from the Securities and Exchanges Commission, where he was formerly employed, and copies of reports and drafts of legislation accumulated at the OPA. His correspondence as general counsel was normally sent to the files of the assistant general counsels interested in the subject matter or to the general files, Mr. Emerson said.

Mr. Ginsburg told him on the telephone the witness said, that he had spent the evenings of his last four days in office distributing the material in his files among his associates or sending it to the general files.

Parents From Latvia.
He was born in Boston, the witness said, his parents in Latvia, then Russia. A variation of the spelling on his birth certificate probably was due to his father's pronunciation; he had not changed his name. He was educated at Boston Latin School and Harvard, where he was successively awarded degrees as a bachelor and master of arts and doctor of philosophy.

After traveling on his fellowships in France and Spain, the witness said in response to questions, he had worked as educational director of Sidney Hillman's committee organizing the textile industry. He then worked for the WPA as head of the writers' project in Massachusetts and also did a study of defense housing needs in Quincy, Mass., for the same agency. He returned to Spain as correspondent for the Nation and wrote a book on the country's problems.

The counsel asked him what statistical experience he had had when he undertook his present work.

"None," said the witness.
Mr. Allen then read from a civil service report on Mr. Manuel that "the applicant was not suitable and his employment should be terminated." Mr. Allen told the committee that Leon Henderson, then OPA head, had refused to carry out the civil service recommendation in Mr. Manuel's case.

The committee hearings will continue Tuesday.

Mother Bathes Baby As Her House Burns

KANSAS CITY.—Mrs. M. J. Shively felt strong enough to give her 12-day-old daughter, Maurine, her bath.

Just as she started, a neighbor boy told her the roof of her house was afire. She took time out to call the fire department and went back to bathing the baby.

She and the firemen finished their respective jobs simultaneously.

Parley on Migration Problems Meets to Draft Final Report

Session Is Told Waste of Resources May Lead to Nationalization of Land

The Executive and Editorial Committees of the Institute on War and Postwar Problems of Youth Migration, which opened Wednesday night at the National Education Association, 1201 Sixteenth street N.W., met at 10:30 a.m. today to begin preparation of a final report.

The general session last night, held after a full day of section meetings, heard a warning that this country may face nationalization of land if it cannot preserve its natural and human resources. It also heard a speculative prediction that the development of agricultural products for industrial uses, such as alcoholization of grain, might place farm wages in line with industrial wages and result in the construction of industries in farm areas.

Dr. O. E. Baker, professor of geography at the University of Maryland and specialist in population trends at the Agriculture Department, said the soil is being depleted at the rate of 5 per cent a decade and that depletion of farm population is even higher.

Cites Land Responsibility.
"The American tradition," Dr. Baker declared, "would be to preserve private ownership of land. But this can only be done by some means of adequate financing of agriculture and by a development of the responsibility for the future on the part of the farmers and the rest of the Nation."

"If time proves that natural and human resources cannot be saved from depletion, then our present system of land tenure must be replaced if a national decline is to be avoided."

He predicted nationalization by the British within 10 years.

In discussing the postwar period Ewan Clague, director of the Bureau of Employment Security of the Social Security Board and chairman of the institute's committee on Postwar Occupational Guidance to Young Rural People, presented the possibility that during the two-year transitional period after the war, unemployment might range from 7 to 4 1/2 millions. This condition, he said, might be met through social security legislation, public works and a training program in the schools.

Sees Industries Near Farms.

Mr. Clague said he thought a million persons would drift back to farms after the war under unfavorable conditions. He then presented what he termed the "speculative" statement that industrial uses of agricultural products would raise farm wages, thus providing an incentive for a shift to farm areas.

Dr. Howard A. Dawson, director of rural service of the National Education Association, who reported on rural and city educational programs, said that rural schools should help to prepare students for their work before they migrate. Dr. Dawson said the committee also wished to stress the need for physical fitness programs and health examinations. The speaker said the committee hoped the institute would back such Federal legislation as the High School Victory Corps plan, in-service training of teachers, emergency aid for teachers' salaries, and child care in war work centers. Citing guidance work in District schools, Dr. Dawson said that urban schools were under obligation to maintain guidance departments and evening schools for those who wished to advance themselves through training.

In presenting a report for the occupational training section of the Institute, R. W. Gregory, assistant director of the rural war production training of the United States Office of Education, declared that a "training program should help such migration as is useful and perhaps deter the other kind."

Soda Puts Out Auto Fire
IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (P)—When Mrs. Donald Jones' automobile caught fire, a bystander rushed into a nearby confectionery and grabbed a bottle of soda pop. He quickly extinguished the blaze.

How to Save Wrapping Paper
You can help ease a critical shortage of raw materials for paper making and save valuable time for busy salespeople and yourself if you'll remember this suggestion on your next visit to the stores—and you won't have to sacrifice to do it, either.

Here's how:
If the article you buy is already packaged or covered—such as a tube of toothpaste, carton of cigarettes, book or jar of cold cream, for instance—or if it doesn't need wrapping—such as, say, a chair, ironing board, utility cabinet or other large article—ask the clerk not to wrap it.

SUGARLESS! THESE HONEY-FLAVORED ALL-BRAN MUFFINS

You've probably enjoyed famous All-Bran Muffins many times before—but now, try them flavored with honey! Helps you conserve sugar. Contains all the minerals, vitamins, carbohydrates and proteins of ALL-BRAN. Try them soon!

Honey All-Bran Muffins
3 tablespoons shortening
1/2 cup honey
1/2 cup buttermilk
1 cup flour
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
Blend shortening and honey. Add egg and beat until creamy. Add milk and All-Bran; let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift dry ingredients together; add to first mixture, stirring until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.) about 25 minutes.

Winning Contract

By THE FOUR ACES.

Bridge Swindles--No. 147

The simple swindle in the following deal was used by Harry Fagin of New York's Mayfair Bridge Club team, winners of the recent Van derbilt Cup national contract bridge team-of-four championship.

West dealer.

West. North. East. South.

1♠ Pass 2♠ Pass 3♠ Pass 4♠ Pass

West, Harry Fishbein, opened the spade ace, then led another spade, which East, Fagin, won with the king. His return was the deuce of hearts. West won with the ace and returned a low heart.

Declarer was in a most uncomfortable spot. The deuce of hearts return certainly looked like a singleton. If it were, and North's king were played and ruffed, declarer would still have to lose a trick to West's queen. This would cause him to be set at three clubs. The finesse of the ten, even if it lost, would not of itself cost the game, and would, indeed, save it if East's deuce of hearts proved to be a veritable singleton.

So South finessed the heart jack and lost to East's queen. Then came the unpleasant surprise. East returned a diamond and West ruffed. West led another heart, which East ruffed, and a second diamond lead by East gave West another ruff and set the contract 300 points.

If East had returned diamond instead of the heart deuce, South would probably make his contract. West's best return after ruffing the diamond is a low heart. North's would then draw the trump diamond, then lead a heart. If East won the queen, he would have to lead a diamond, giving North a heart discard; if West overtook East's queen, it would establish North's jack.

The bidding:

Lightner. Schenken. You. Jacoby.

1♠ Pass 1♠ Pass 2♠ Pass 3♠ Pass 3♠ Pass 3♠ Pass

Answer--Five spades. Remember partner's three-spade bid came as a mere preference, hence you have no right to assume that he has good spade support. Moreover, as far as you are concerned, there still does not seem to be a good fit between the combined hands. Hence, an abrupt leap to a slam on your part would be optimistic. On the other hand, for you to bid only four spades, virtually giving up hopes of a slam, would be too timid and would represent a decided under-estimation of your strength.

Score 100 per cent for five spades, 80 per cent for six spades, 60 per cent for four spades.

Uncle Ray's Corner

What is the difference between a catfish and a bullhead?

That question can be answered simply--all bullheads are catfish, but many catfish are not bullheads. The bullhead is a special kind of catfish. There are 23 main families of catfish.

The common bullhead is found only in North America, but it has a close relative in China. It is a small fish, seldom more than a foot long. It lives in ponds, lakes and slow rivers, chiefly in the eastern half of the continent, from southern Canada to Florida.

Other catfish are widespread over the world. They are found in Asia, Nature's Children By LILLIAN COX ATHEY. PSEPHENUS LEONTEI (Family Parasitoid) Here is a beetle that flies so fast the human eye cannot record its flight. We have recorded in this column some fast flyers, but this beetle leaves them all behind. Evidently it has only this gift to call attention to itself. So far as we are able to find out, it has no economic importance. And it has not collected a string of common names, as is the case with insects that are well known.
