WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 7 .-Lt. Comdr. William Harrison (Jack) Dempsey, U. S. C. G. R., former heavyweight boxing champion, was awarded an interlocutory decree of divorce today from Hannah Williams Dempsey, former musical comedy actress.

Referee J. Addison Young of the Supreme Court, who heard the case last month, ruled that Dempsey's charge of his wife's infidelity in Los Angeles on November 22, 1942, "was proven beyond doubt.

The former boxer named Benny Woodall, lightweight fighter, and Lew Jenkins, former lightweight champion, as co-respondents.

Referee Young ruled that judgment would be entered on presentation of findings by the attorneys. "at which time the court will consider the question of the custody of the children and other relevant matters."

The two Dempsey children, Barbara, 6, and Joan, 8, were at their father's home in Scarsdale, N. Y., Arthur F. Driscoll, his attorney said.

LONDON, July 7 .- The Germans were reported by the Algiers radio today to have sent fresh troops to the Dodecanese Islands - potential Allied steppingstones to any invasion of the Balkans — and Berlin declared that Yugoslav and Greek guerrillas were being wiped out in another step to strengthen Axis defenses

House Stands Pat

Rejects Senate Scheme For Confirmation of Hundreds of Jobholders

By J. A. O'LEARY. The McKellar amendment to require Senate confirmation of employes in the 18 war agencies who get $4,500 or more a year was dealt what may be a death blow today when the House refused, 170 to 176, to withdraw its opposition.

A short while later the Senate voted to send the war agencies bill back to conference for another effort to work out an agreement on the McKellar amendment.

The Senate also sent the second deficiency bill back to conference on several remaining disputes, including the $15,000,000 relief fund for flood damaged farms in the Midwest. Representative Taber, Republican. of New York was prepared to offer compromise under which confirmation would have been required only in the case of persons employed since June 30 and whose pay is $5,500 or more. But when the House defeated the preliminary motion to recede from its disagreement with the Senate, it prevented Mr. Taber from offering the compromise.

Providence Printers Walk Out; Bulletin Halts Publication

By the Associated Press. PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 7 .-Members of the Providence Typographical Union No. 33 went on strike today in a contract dispute at the Providence Journal Co. plant and a picket line was established at the building, a union spokesman said.

In accordance with a previous announcement by the company, publication of the Evening Bulletin today will be suspended

The suspension will mark a break of 114 years of continuous publication in Providence. The plant was damaged during New England's 1938 hurricane, but publication was maintained then through newspaper printing presses in Boston and Woonsocket.

Alfred Whittle, international representative of the union, has contended that the company broke its contract with the union by paying over-the-scale wages to certain compositors.

The Journal company claimed it had paid over-the-scale wages to some employes in accord with a policy of 40 years' standing.

Vesterday the War Labor Board in telegrams to local and international presidents of the union, an independent organization, sought to prevent a walkout.

Union Position Unchanged. Last night, Mr. Whittle said he had seen the telegram, but that the position of the union had not changed.

C. M. Baker, president of the international union, said last night in Indianapolis that "all we're trying to do is to get the company to live up to a decision reached by a local board of arbitration."

Mr. Baker charged that "the publishers of the Providence Bulletin nounced today. refused to abide by the findings of a local arbitration board," headed forays, the announcement said. by the Rev. New Canadian Naval Nation's Crop Prospects Appear Brighter, Station to Graduate First Class Soon

By the Associated Press. H. M. C. S. CORNWALLIS, DEEP BROOK, Nova Scotia, July 7 .--Canada's small but hard-hitting navy will soon get its first seamen, gunners and stokers from a new $12,000,000 naval training base established here early this year on the shores of the Annapolis Basin.

First recruits arrived at the station late in June to begin an intensive 10-week training course at the large tract which the Canadian estate of the late E. P. Morse for $26.000.

Although construction of the 80 various schools is not vet completed. there were at the end of June 3.444 trainees, of which 147 were officer candidates and 60 WRENS taking specialized courses, in addition to 1.400 civilian construction workers. Work on the base is rapidly nearing completion and when the school is filled to capacity it is expected to have a complement of 10,000.

Canada started the war with only a small number of ships, but has assumed an ever-larger share of patrol and convoy work in the North Atlantic, and the Department of Naval Services was hard pressed to train the volume of recruits needed to man the expanding navy.

Deep Brook was chosen as the site for a training station not only because of its climate and geographical position near the Bay of Fundy, but month late because of protracted because the soil lent itself to economical construction.

Local Permits Not Needed By FPHA, Court Rules

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, July 7 .- United States District Judge J. Cullen Ganey ruled yesterday that the Federal Public Housing Authority does not have to comply with local building regulations in the construction of either "permanent" or "temporary" houses

The decision was handed down in a suit filed by Chester (Pa.) municipal authorities who arrested Renato D'Avito, New York, superintendent for the contractor, Domenico Lecascio, Pleasantville, N. Y., because the contractor had not obtained a building permit for the construction of 150 "temporary" homes for colored workers.

James A. Devlin, Chester building inspector, said the houses violated the municipal building code. Assistant United States Attorney Joseph E. Gold contended that the structures would be built along lines considered by the FPHA as safe and sanitary

Soviet Official Freed On Fur Coat Theft Charge

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO. July 7 .- Municipal Judge Twain Michelsen yesterday dismissed a burglary complaint against Capt. Nicolai Habalov, 41, member of a Soviet government purchasing commission, who had been accused of theft of a $995 fur coat here

Capt. Habalov, who said he formerly commanded the Soviet merchant fleet in the Baltic, was arrested two weeks ago in the early morning hours. He was carrying a silver fox coat. He told the arresting officers he had found the coat on the sidewalk and was taking it to police headquarters nearby. The coat carried a tag showing it came from a fur store, the window of which had been broken.

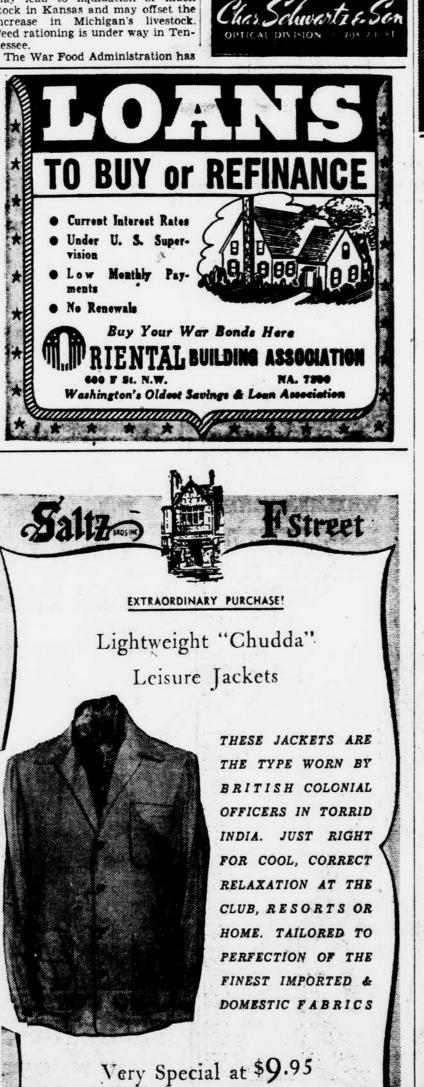

In dismissing the complaint, Judge Michelsen said that when Capt. Habalov's position and character was considered, the element of probable cause favored him. The jurist commented there was sufficient discrepancy in the case to lead to the conclusion that the captain's story was true.

Last week Secretary of State Hull sent a special representative from Washington to seek dismissal of the case.

Chiang Urges Immediate Blows Against Japanese

CHUNGKING, July 7 (P).-Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek issued a call today to the United Nations to strike at once in force against Japan because now, he declared, is the opportune moment "to reap great results" in reducing the time and cost of final victory.

In a message to the people of the Allied Nations on the anniversary of the day six years ago that China was attacked, the war leader asserted Japan now "is at her weakest, as her ready resources are ap-

Gen. Chiang, who told his own people in another message that the time limit for utter defeat of the Japanese invasion armies "cannot exceed two years." urged full support of the Roosevelt-Churchill agreement to "wage the war on the Japanese and European fronts with equal power. "In the execution of this strategy." he promised, "our Allies can count upon the determination of the Chinese Army to contribute whatever is within their power and to make whatever sacrifices necessary. Gen. Chiang ruled out any "negotiated peace," insisted it should be one "seeking the emancipation of entire mankind," and declared: "The United Nations should set up at the earliest possible moment joint machinery for the winning of the peace as well as the efficient prosecution of the war. "To safeguard international justice and collective security and to through Secretary of State Stiminsure the successful functioning of democratic government after the war there must be a postwar world the only nation, to protest against organization with the solid backing of an international force.' Our answer was a prolonged war of attrition which, according to preconceived plans, was divided into two stages. During the first stage captured, 22,064; enemy our aim was, by successive withdrawals, to extend the theater of conflict, spread out the enemy forces the better to destroy them. a total of 21 months spent in major battles with our Japanese enemy. The nature of the war being what it is, smaller engagements with the enemy are no less vital to us. Our statistics show that there have been 852 battles in which enemy strength involved was estimated at from 20,000 to 30,000 troops. There have also been 15.300 minor battles and 11,859 guerrilla skirmishes.

Girl Reporter Joins Rangers for Raid And Is Ruled 'Dead'

By MARION COLEMAN, Associated Press Staff Corre WITH THE SECOND ARMY IN TENNESSEE.—The Rangers took my identification cards, watch, money and other valuables and handed me three hand grenades, a Ranger knife, a pair of handcuffs, a steel helmet with a knotted cord covering and a blue arm band. And then they took me on a raiding party.

Under thick cedars in the middle of nowhere at their division command post, they told me about Rangers. About 20 of them had been called into the C. P. to get ready for making trouble. These task forces are extremely expendable. They are the dangerous pests of the enemy . . . the malignant mosquitoes that strike and strike to get in a maximum of damage before they are slapped down or get away. They travel almost impossible miles to cut around and approach the enemy from unexpected positions. Maj. Gen. Paul J. Mueller, division commander; Maj. Clio A. Harper, G-2, and the Ranger task force commander, Lt. Donald G. Smith, spread out maps on the grass and checked the proposed movement and mission of our raiding party. Then at dusk we had coffee and waited for darkness Given Ranger's Shoes.

They checked my outfit, disapproved of my thin-soled shoes and sent for Sergt. Samuel S. Dorrity, who had the smallest feet in the outfit. He brought me a pair of heavy high-topped shoes and, with the aid of heavy woolen socks, they fitted.

We checked out weapons. Two .30-caliber light machine guns, ammunition belts of blanks, M-1 and P-3 rifles, carbines, pistols, bayo-fretting and pushing elevator buttons as they did so, while others, including some of the 200 persons in the RCA Building's observation tower, made their way downstairs on foot.

Bob Sestera, a Radio City guide, who led the group from the observation roof down 75 flights of stairs, reported the trip took 50 minutes.

Officials of Rockefeller Center and of the AFL Building Maintenance Craftsmen's Union said the walkout resulted from an internal dispute in the union. Hugh S. Roberstson, executive manager of the Center, which includes 12 office buildings, said the management and union members would confer on the dispute later this week. "We were caught in between on the proposition," he declared. The strike began at 5 p.m., closing hour of most offices, and ended 55 minutes later.

John J. Birmingham, local advisory board chairman of the union, and Joseph Blek, local business manager, said the root of the trouble was a quarrel as to whether Birmingham was paid-up in his

GENERAL FORREST

Said It!

America is depending upon the railroads to get there first with the most ... the most men and planes . . . tanks and jeeps . . . guns and munitions : . : food : . . supplies. The long trains speeding by—night and day, week in and week out—getting there first with the most NOW, must bring a smile of satisfaction to General Forrest's ghost.

The railroads are now handling the world's toughest transportation job ... and it's going to get tougher. Rolling stock and roadbeds are taking more punishment than they have ever had to take before. They'll keep on taking it—keep on delivering. And they'll do an even better job when needed replacements are obtainable.

ROCK ISLAND'S Program of Planned Progress, begun seven years ago to serve a nation at peace, is vital in serving the nation at war. After the war when victorious America and her heroic sons will demand . . . and deserve . . . the finest, in transportation as in everything else, that Program must continue. We must establish now the financial reserve from which to supply the facilities for the finer transportation peace-time America will expect.

As yesterday—and today—so tomorrow ROCK ISLAND'S sole purpose is to provide the finest in transportation.

Others interned, the bureau said, included: Joseph N. Behr, S. J., Baltimore; Ralph B. Gehring, S. J., Raspeburg, Md.; the Rev. George J. Kirchgessner, S. J., Buffalo, N. Y .; the Rev. Reith, S. The Jesuit organization also received confirmation of the death of Father Thomas J. Rocks, S. J., Newcastle, Pa., in Mindanao, on June 4, 1942. The bureau said he was killed while attempting to escape from attacking Japanese.

Is the Gas Available?

Taken by itself, OPA's announcement that vacationists may use their a cards for holiday trips, might be sensible enough. The contention has been made before that A card holders should be permitted to use the small amount of gasoline available to them for anything they choose to do with it so long as there is enough gasoline to go around. But, taken with the other restrictions on pleasure driving, this new relaxation for vacationing motorists is completely contradictory and fails to make any sense.

After various experiments, OPA finally decided that the shortage of gasoline required an absolute ban on pleasure driving. Its agents have sought, with only partial success, to enforce this ban. Over the week-end holiday here, some 600 drivers were stopped and questioned as to their missions, and about 300 were cited for pleasure driving.

The announced relaxation for vaeation trips, therefore, is a reversal of policy. For how can the OPA permit a vacationist to use his A card gasoline — assuming that he has enough-to transport his family to and from the shore or the mountains, and at the same time apprehend a motorist who spends his vacation at home and uses his A card kasoline for trips to the golf course, or a cooling drive around Hains Point? No such distinction can be drawn if there is any hope for fair and adequate enforcement of the pleasure-driving ban.

the slump. It would seem, however, that this is not a time for official reticence. As Mr. Nelson puts it, "we are on the verge of one of the greatest trials in our national history," and every effort should be made to root out and expose any and all factors contributing to a decline in war production at such a critical period. Without knowing all of the causes of the lag, it is difficult to rectify this adverse state of affairs.

China's Seventh Year

For China this is an anniversary at once grim and glorious. It marks the start of the seventh year in its life-and-death struggle against Japanese aggression-the most terrible ordeal in even its age-long history. It was on July 7, 1937, that the Japanese troops fired on a Chinese detachment guarding the famous Marco Polo Bridge on the outskirts of Peiping. That brazen provocation was the spark which exploded the accumulated magazine of Chinese resentment, heaped high by six previous years of Japanese attacks and humiliations extending back at least to the seizure of Manchuria in 1931. The Marco Polo skirmish was the proverbial last straw that broke the announced Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to his compatriots, "we can endure it no longer. We will give way no more."

The Chinese leaders knew what they were up against. They were well aware that they could not face in open battle the might of the Japanese war machine. The best they could do was to fight delaying actions with the best of their troops while they "traded space for time" in the most stupendous mass migration in human annals. Literally tens of millions of Chinese, carrying with them everything from cherished personal possessions to factory equipment, moved from the coastal cities and open river valleys foredoomed to Japanese occupation into the mountainous interior, there to maintain themselves behind a screen of resistance wherein topography prevented the Japanese from using their mechanized superiority. That was the first phase of the war. By the autumn of 1938, the Japanese had reached approximately the present limits of their occupation, with the richest parts of China in their hands and an effective coastal blockade established. Free China was virtually isolated.

The Japanese boasted that they had won a contest which they refused to dignify with the name of war, but termed merely "the China Incident." Most resident foreigners doubted Chinese ability long to hold food for uncounted centuries. The policy, of course, is that weakening out. China's bitterest blow was when earliest inhabitants are denominated Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor at last brought allies, only to have the Burma road soon closed by the volcanic tide of Japanese conquest which threatened the whole Far and Middle Last. Then began China's darkest period. Worn down by years of desolating war, deprived of any foreign aid, and exposed to the ravages of economic inflation, the situation has been desperate indeed. Fear of a collapse of Chinese morale has spurred Allied efforts to do whatever was possible by such improvised expedients as the air transport service over the lofty Himalayas, the building up of an American air force. and credits to bolster the Chungking government's sagging currency. Yet all this has done little materially to meet China's crying needs. Nevertheless, China enters its sev-Greeks, Carthaginians, Athenians, enth year of war with renewed hope, Romans, Normans, Spaniards and largely due to the encouragement French, Garibaldi and his Thousand derived from increasing Allied activ--turmoil, not tranquillity. Instead, he released an astonishing statement filled with the most serious attacks on the full committee. its counsel, the radio industry and the "military." Of the committee, he said: "There it stands in its stark reality announcing to the public

At another point, evidently having in mind the disclosure that General Marshall and Admiral Leahy had asked that the FCC be divested of its radio military intelligence work, Mr. Fly said: "The House then voted Cox's resolution to 'investigate' the commission, particularly its chairman. Cox immediately joined forces with the radio monopoly and Wall Street interests on the

the absence of ample supporting evidence, which has not yet been forthcoming, it is difficult to avoid the conclusion that Mr. Fly, in this attack on the committee and what he calls the military, has done as much to prejudice his case as any evidence likely to be turned up by Representa-

Major Eliot Proposes 'War Cabinet' of Experts As Arbiter of Disputes

By Maj. George Fielding Eliot. (This is the fourth of a series of articles dealing with American problems of war organization and leadership.)

We have seen in the preceding articles of this series how the increasing complexity of modern war has made it impossible for commanders to exercise their functions without the assistance of highly trained, well-organized and thoroughly competent staffs.

In yesterday's article we began to apply these time-tested principles to the problem of national leadership, the leadership of the whole Nation at war. This problem is simple in a totalitarian state because the organization of that state is based on such leadership in time of peace. If democracies are to prove their right to survive, they must find an adequate solution for this problem in time of war, and means for transition from their normal status to the emergency status in which responsibility becomes centered, for the period of the emergency, in a single commander in chief.

Applying these lessons and principles to the task now confronting the President of the United States, we find that he requires a general staff, or perhaps we had better call it a war cabinet, of 11 men. Three of these deal with the elements of national action-foreign affairs, Army, Navy. Five of these deal with the means by which that action is taken-manpower, food, production, ransportation, internal security. There are three others which cannot be defined under either of these headings, but affect both-finance, economic warefare

To begin with, the whole of the activities of the executive branch of the Government should be brought under one or the other of these departments. The whole structure should be so simplified that there would be absolutely clear-cut lines of authority and responsibility. Each head of department should be able to hire, fire, reorganize, transfer, and, in general, be the boss of his particular activity. He should be responsible to the President alone, and all of his subordinates, without exception, should be responsible to him alone, or to their superiors in intermediate echelons of authority. Overlapping of functions, disputes, and all uncertainties which cannot be worked out between the department heads immediately concerned should become the care of the whole 11, sitting as a war cabinet for that especial purpose. Probably it would be necessary to have a special co-ordinator for the five "home front" departments, just as in the Army a deputy chief of staff may be charged with certain particular responsibilities. For this task on the national scale, the position

"CLIFTON STREET.

'Dear Sir: "Early one morning recently while sitting on a bench in Dupont circle, a midair battle took place between a large bug that resembled a beetle, and a female sparrow, that attracted my attention.

"The bug came zooming along at the rate of about 10 miles an hour, seemingly very happy and altogether oblivious of the enemy lurking nearby, when suddenly like a bolt of lightning out of a clear sky the bug was confronted by a sparrow that gave him such a scare he almost lost his equilibrium.

"As the sparrow suspended herself in midair, with wings fluttering incessantly, she closely resembled a hummingbird. The bug was bewildered by the nearness of the sparrow to the extent that for a moment he seemed almost helpless; but he soon realized his precarious position, and manfully tried to evade the severe attack of the bird by darting upward, then downward, and to both sides of the bird.

"The little sparrow was too quick and too clever to be outwitted by the bug and she made every peck count, finally crippling the wings of the bug. After a moment of severe combat in the air, both Mrs. Sparrow and Mr. Bug fell to the sidewalk.

"The bug, although crippled, twisted and squirmed and put up a strong resistance and for a few seconds it seemed as if he might escape from the clutches of the sparrow.

"It was very interesting to watch the sparrow as she hopped in high derision around the body of the bug. She seemed determined to get her portion of meat rationing that day, and not one bite of meat from that bug was wasted.

"She plucked the antennae, legs and head from the body of the bug, but still the body was far too big for the sparrow to swallow; so she stripped the body into fragments and after eating the most of it. she took the remains into her bill and flew up into a tree.

"Yours very truly, L. W. W." * * * *

That is the way you get your breakfast in nature.

That is the way you fight your battles when you revert from Christianity to nature.

Pick on somebody smaller than you are. and then jump suddenly, before he has time to get ready.

We have had some illustrious examples of all this, but our correspondent's tale of the sparrow and the insect sums it all up.

It also shows what interest one may find in a park, if willing to see what one looks at. Most persons, we believe. would say, "Oh, look at the sparrow after that bug!" Then would turn to something else. Or, perhaps, eight out of ten persons would not see the battle at all.

Q. Can a torpedo be seen before it strikes a ship?-P. L. S.

A. Torpedoes always travel under water on the way to the target. A torpedo cannot be seen with the naked eye those of men who suddenly refuse to do but the wake is visible.

> Q. Do birds refuse to return to their nests after their eggs have been disturbed?-E. L. H.

> A. Birds vary in sensitiveness in regard to disturbance of their nests. Any disarrangement will cause some birds, particularly pheasants, to desert them. Frequently, however, its is the constant visits by human beings rather than disturbance that causes the birds to leave.

The real danger in this change of of enforcement of the pleasure-driving ban, which is implicit in any relaxation, will begin another drain on supplies that will force more onerous conservation measures. It was only a few days ago that there was talk In some circles at OPA that A cards might be banned entirely. And if this is done, the fault plainly will be with the authorities who have not been able to make up their minds and stick to it.

Sometime ago Secretary Ickes requested that as petroleum administrator he be given authority over rationing of gasoline and oil, a request which Donald Nelson denied. But it becomes more evident now that he should have that authority. Mr. Ickes is hard-boiled, but he is also fair and not inclined to give way In the face of pressure. He is critical of the way fuel oil was rationed, and so are most of the people. He is critical of the way gasoline is being rationed, especially in the disproportionate ratio between gasoline coupons and gasoline supply. It may be taken for granted that whatever pollcy he adopted would be based squarely on the facts regarding supply, and we would not have the uncertainty which already has added to the confused picture under OPA procedure.

War Production Lag

Following in the footsteps of Undersecretary of War Patterson and General Somervell, War Production Chief Donald Nelson has added his voice to those warning the country that there was a "serious lag" in the production of war materials during May. Mr. Nelson reported increases In the output of aircraft and Navy and Army vessels, but these gains were more than offset by the drop in scheduled production of ground ordnance, merchant vessels and miscellaneous munitions.

This, in general, follows the line of earlier warnings from Mr. Patterson and General Somervell. But Mr. Nelson, unlike his predecessors, refrained from advancing any reasons for the slump.

Mr. Patterson and General Somerwell had given the rather unsatisfactory explanation that the decline was due to complacency and overconfidence throughout the country. No one, however, has undertaken to explain the manner in which complacency actually is translated into a falling off of output on the assembly lines, nor is there any explanation of the reasons for the rise in aircraft and combat shipping output in the midst of a psychological condition which depresses other production.

The result of this is to cast doubt on the sufficiency of the complacency and overconfidence theory, and to encourage the belief that there must be other reasons which either are not known to war officials or which they have preferred not to make public. | tion of the FCC should have been

Had Chairman Fly of the Federal Communications Commission chosen to issue a factual statement protesting against the designation of Representative Cox of Georgia to serve as chairman of a House committee investigating the FCC, there would have been a very considerable body of public opinion to support his position On the known facts of this case, it seems clear that the selection of Mr. Cox to head this investigating committee was an unfortunate one, since Mr. Cox is an avowed antagonist of the commission and all its works. Some time ago the FCC filed a complaint with the Department of Justice, alleging that Mr. Cox, in violation of law, had accepted a fee for representing a radio station before the commission. Mr. Cox denied that there had been any law violation, and the Department of Justice, after an investigation, concluded that there was insufficient evidence to warrant a prosecution.

Casualties

From the London Daily Express.

Set against the immense results achieved, the casualties of the 1st and 8th Armies in Tunisia have been light. They are dwarfed by the enormous total of German prisoners, which brings to mind Wavell's achievements in the early days in Libya. But let us remember that while for our armies as a whole losses have been mercifully small, for some of their units losses have been heavy. Tank squadrons have been wiped out. Battalions have come down to company strength, companies to platoons. In our thankfulness for the preservation of our armies for new tasks we will greatly honor these units which bore the chief losses in the fighting. They have done again the work of the soldier in history who gathered the spears of the enemy into his own breast so that his comrades could strike for him.

World Unity, Patriotism And State Rights Discussed. To the Editor of The Star:

Is my country preparing to follow again the shameful road of isolationism? Will other Borahs and Lodges and Reeds rise up to confuse or stultify our people? Will personal spites and political hatreds conspire to overcome the finer impulses of our Nation and force us away from our Allies into a path which can only lead to other wars, other periods of selfdestruction? Twenty-four years ago I would have given an indignant "no" to these questions. I believed then that God was leading us toward a brotherhood of man dreamed of by poets and hoped for by philosophers. But we were not equal to this high duty, this glorious undertaking. We rejected the League of Nations: we turned our backs on humanity. There was a time after Pearl Harbor when I believed that isolationism was dead. The country seemed united in a passion of patriotism. Never again, I thought, would we be torn by bitter prejudice; never again would we fail humanity. At last we had been driven to a deep recognition of the fact that no country can stand alone in this concentric world. But that happy period of union is passing, and with it goes much of my hope for the future.

Will the United States never realize what we did to the world when we destroyed the League of Nations? So long as we refuse to recognize our fault there will be little chance of betterment in our conduct. I hear one prominent Senator speaking lightly of our share in the League of Nations as if the organization could never have worked anyway. What right does he have to say this? If we had made our bravest effort toward the success of the League could the world have been in a worse condition than it is today?

Because of our attitude since the First World War, what country can trust us? To me it is infinitely tragic that the countries of the United Nations and all the broken states of Europe should look toward us with hope and yet an undercurrent of doubt. We are fighting with them and for them, but will we continue to work with them when the guns are silent?

Men of America, Congressmen, Democrats, Republicans, are you willing to fail the world again? Some of you scoffed at Woodrow Wilson's idealism. You followed the practical politicians. What did it gain you? You did not want us to accept a mandate for poor little Armenia. You wanted no boy of yours to help police the world. Where are your boys now? For all of you, Japan might have the mandate for every island in the Pacific. What was it to us? You would not grant a penny with which to fortify Guam. And now you are quibbling over countless things by which you may hamper your President. Some of you are more interested in the next election than you are in the salvation of the world. Can you not see the limitless chasm before us? Do you not have a vision of duty strong enough to close ranks and fight this thing through until must be force to back our efforts. Would it not be wiser for some of our sons to fly in an international air squadron than for all our grandsons to meet their enemies in battling fleets? Are we to prove that Hitler is right when he speaks of the weakness and degeneracy of democracy? Surely we can overcome our own squabbling and at the same time cease criticizing our Allies. What right have we to meddle in the Hindu question while we and the world remember what we did to the American Indians? There can never be world peace unless the United States and England can work together. Are we sane enough to do this and at the same time bring China and Russia into unity with us? As preparation for this greater endeavor, can we not be wise enough to call a truce on petty politics? Of all the superfluous causes of irritation, just now to the fore. I think the Marcantonio bill is the worst. If there are States in the South or elsewhere that require the payment of a poll tax before voting. does not the rule apply to whites as well as to blacks? To say that a State shall not make its own voting laws is absolutely facist. Such meddlesome interference with States' rights is certainly not conducive to the establishment of a world organization. In a union of States throughout the world, each country necessarily would have to give up certain rights; but if the great exemplar of union should reduce the right of her states to an absurdity, why should any country wish to join in a world federation? METTA FOLGER TOWNSEND. Lenoir, N. C.

Denies Waste of Paper By Government Departments. To the Editor of The Star:

M. C. Eaton, whose letter was published in The Star of July 5, should investigate his facts more closely. The paper mills always have made and are still making paper in sizes from which sheets size 8 by 101/2 cut without any waste.

Paper is shipped to the Government Printing Office in sizes 21 by 32 and 32 by 42. These are standard mill sizes. Paper 8 by 101/2 cuts eight out of a sheet 21 by 32 and 16 out of 32 by 42, without waste.

The Public Printer advocates and many departments now order letterheads size 8 by 5¼, for short correspondence; and that size sheet also cuts from the above mill sizes without waste.

Feud May Have Echo In 1944

By DAVID LAWRENCE. Of more than passing significance perhaps is the political aspect of the Wallace-Jones feud. For it does look as if Henry Wallace is serving his first and last term as Vice President. It is being taken for granted, of course, that President Roosevelt is to be renominated for a fourth term. No such certainty surrounds the identity of the vice presidential nominee.

For many months friends of the President have been talking about James F. Byrnes as the likely successor to Mr. Wallace. Such talk has not, to be sure, been pleasant to the ears of the present Vice President. but it has been rather pointed, and it would not be surprising if Mr. Wallace's outburst reflects to no small extent his feeling that the man in the White House is steering away from him on the political side. So far as the Democratic party is concerned, Mr. Wallace is a newcomer, and, while New Dealers aren't especially interested in the Democratic party as such, a large number of voters in the solid South are particularly disturbed as at the fate of their party. Shrewd political advisers have come forth with the suggestion that maybe the nomination of Mr. Byrnes, who comes from South Carolina, would go a long way toward assuring party harmony in Dixie, Advice of that kind isn't kept particularly secret, and hence reverberations from the Wallace camp have seemed to be inevitable.

Jesse Jones isn't in the political controversy himself, one way or the other, except that the Texas 'delegation in Congress is rather loyal to fellow-Texans and there is no doubt that they have had considerable pride in the achievements of the man who heads up the RFC and the Commerce Department.

The Texas political strength in the 1944 convention is not to be ignored. For there are other States which would follow Texas if it should decide that Mr. Wallace ought not to be renominated. For one thing there is the possibility that Texas may wish to unite behind Sam Rayburn, Speaker of the House, whose name came before the 1940 convention.

It is pleasant and reassuring to walk beneath the trees of Washington agair after an absence of almost three months and discover that much of America still exists. Picture Abroad Is Unfair.

It is alarming nevertheless to remember that people abroad are getting a stark and unrelieved picture of the United States. They can't see the trees and feel the essential normalness of life about us. They are impressed only by the bad news.

The United States has many friends in the European countries I visited-England, Ireland, Sweden and Portugal. Their affection springs from the simplest and the most complex reasons. An elevator operator in my hotel in London wanted me to help him travel to America so he could run a lift in a skyscraper. A young clerk in the hotel hoped he could migrate to America because he thought youth had a chance over here.

A Swedish businessman trusts fervently that the United States will spread its political dogma throughout the world.

Friends of U. S. Alarmed. However, many friends of America are growing alarmed by events of the past few months. Intelligent Europeans seriously wonder whether the United States is not ripe for a descent to Fascism.

Many of them who used to pray that the United States would maintain an international role now openly express the hope that the United States will withdraw into isolation.

Most Swedes find it incredible that the headquarters of democracy is afflicted by the "Negro problem." Gunnar Myrdal, a Swedish economist, made a Negro study in the United States for the Carnegie Foundation. The Swedes have been acutely aware of America's racial difficulties ever since The English, too, are puzzled by American racial antipathies. although they themselves do not hesitate to assume a superiority over the dark-skinned inhabitants of the empire.

What Europe Thinks of Us his car when he subsequently The native's' return to the picked up two colored soldiers.

The growing tendency in Sweden and England to hope that the United States will withdraw into its isolationist shell comes chiefly from our experience with the French refugee leaders and with the tentative political gestures made by the administration here toward co-operation with such Central European personalities as Otto of Hapsburg. It would be incorrect to say that any large proportion of Europeans want us to be isolationist. But there is a marked swing in that direction,

English shipowners and commercial airline managers are developing an acute concern about the United States. In those circles one finds a real British isolationism-the British equivalent of "America firstism," as an observant American friend of mine put it. He had been in London in an official capacity for some time.

Views Are Discouraging. For an American who has faith in America, it is discouraging that our foreign friends adopt these views

Apparently the views rest on the fact that they don't understand us.

They don't understand us because they still receive inadequate information about us. British papers are thin and many of them sensationalize the news from the United States. The best London correspondent in this country probably is Robert Waithman of the News-Chronicle, whose paper attempts to present a well-rounded picture of the United States.

They don't understand us because they-like us-don't know what our postwar intentions are. British foreign policy, for instance, in the long-term view is vague because American foreign policy in the long-term view is vague. I heard many complaints on this score.

The OWI has been doing a good job in London in supplying information to the British papers, but it cannot picture specifically what does not exist specifically. Nobody in Washington, much less in London, can predict the road the United States will travel when the peace comes. They don't understand us because we give the idea that we are trying to hide our shortcomings instead of trying to get rid of their causes.

Transmission abroad of the news about the Detroit race riot was held up almost 24 hours. I heard many comments in Lon don from men and women who thought that this sort of censorship piled sin on sin. Perfect understanding exists among topmost American and British military and diplomatic officials in London. The British have made concessions in the councils of war and so have the Americans. Each side now understands the compromises and why they were made. This sort of good will and community of interest has left the impression that the two countries can get together when each knows what it wants. The most striking picture of America one gets abroad is that it is a country which does not know what it wants beyond the desire to win the war.

Dispatches on the attack, which developed dramatically Monday, are meager These seem petty reasons for and are being scanned with inchanging a successful system for tense interest. The Germans are very cautious in their reports.

> Americans Far From Scene. The fact that the American and British military observers are hundreds of miles away from the scene of action-they are all at Kulbyshev-makes their reports no more interesting than the official communiques issued at Red Army headquarters. Hence the London and Washington high commands are compelled to guess as to the importance of the battle. But while a few days ago the general opinion was that the Nazis have lost too much precious time to start major operations now, in some quarters it is believed that if they still believe in the blitz war they have 10 full weeks ahead in which to try their greatest gamble.

Constantine Brown.

All kinds of reasons were given by the Allies as to why the Germans have remained static on a front where, since last March, they had sent no less than 202 divisions and mountains of war materials and supplies.

The speculations ranged from the theory that the enemy was state of affairs. Everybody wants completely exhausted and afraid to undertake any major operations while the American and British were poised to attack the Italian islands in the Mediterranean, to vague rumors about "talks" between Nazis and Russians through friendly intermediaries.

This Changing World— By CONSTANTINE BROWN. that the round-the-clock bomb-Washington military observers ings of the Reich's military and industrial installations had caused the Nazis such damage that they could not sustain a major offensive.

Those who feared "peace talks" maintained that our failure to open a second front in Western Europe-across the Channel-had completely discouraged Stalin, who no longer could see any reason why the Russians alone should bear the major brunt of the war.

The middle-of-the road observers, who indorsed neither of these extremist theories, and who believe that early July is not too late for the Nazis to start their long-expected break-through attempt, give a much more plausible explanation of the German delay.

The massing of a large American-British invasion force in North Africa has worried the German high command to a certain degree. After the conquest of Tunisia there were few Nazi troops in Southern Europe and practically none in Italy. There was the possibility, it was said, that the Italians might collapse unless strongly supported by Berlin. A regrouping of forces become inevitable. None of the Nazi units on the Russian front has been moved. But forces from the Reich itself had to be sent to Sicily, Sardinia, France and the Balkans.

Transfers Needed Time.

These transfers required a good deal of attention. The Nazis wanted to make sure they had enough manpower at all the "invasion points" to frustrate the Allies' efforts. They realize that the Italians alone could not defend their country.

The propaganda stories that the Germans have abandoned them would have further broken the morale of the Italian troops, and the Allies, in spite of a relative small number of troops, might have been able to walk into Italy practically unopposed.

In order to guard against such an eventuality, the Nazi high command, for the last five or six weeks, has been busy transferring ground troops, equipment, especially aviation, and supplies to important strategic points in Southern Europe. The Germans' communication system was overburdened by these transfers and it is not conceivable that they would start a major operation in Russia while their lines of communications were cluttered with trains going in a different direc-

It will be recalled that at the last national convention of the Democratic party held at Chicago, Mr. Wallace's name was booed and the convention distinctly did not want to nominate him. Had Mr. Roosevelt so much as lifted a finger of assent, Paul McNutt could have been named unanimously.

Mr. Wallace, nevertheless, is the symbol of New Dealism, and he has behind him a large number of the young New Dealers who have for the Democratic party, as such, an attitude which, for want of a more expressive term, might even be called contempt.

May Be Boomed as President.

It may be that Mr. Wallace is the logical candidate of the New Dealers for the vice presidency, and if Mr. Roosevelt doesn't relish a continuance of the present incumbent as a running mate, it may well be that the friends of Mr. Wallace will consider him as worthy of first place on the ticket.

There is a certain element of logic, too, behind that conception. For if Mr. Roosevelt considered Mr. Wallace the most capable man in the country to succeed him in the event that fate took him out of office, it does seem as if the Iowa statesman is worthy of consideration for the top of the radical ticket in 1944.

Incidentally, the President's bid for the left-wing vote by his veto message on the Smith-Connally labor bill didn't endear him to the Southern Democrats. Mr. Roosevelt apparently is growing more and more conscious of the fact that the 1944 campaign for the presidency is less than 12 months away.

It has been said that Mr. Roosevelt would be a candidate for a fourth term if the war is still on. There can be no doubt now that the war will be on not only in 1944, but in 1945. It is purely a coincidence, of course, that the "breaks," so to speak, are to benefit the President's political fortunes in 1944 as they did in 1940.

Blast Kills Miner, Injures Five Others

By the Associated Press. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 7 .- Two coal miners were in serious condition today, suffering from burns received in a mine blast which took another miner's life and injured three others.

The explosion, in the Powhatan mine of the Franklin Coal Mining Co., occurred yesterday about a mile and a half from the entrance to the shaft. Company officials said it was believed to have been caused by a mine car's trolley jumping off the wire, resulting in a spark which set off a pocket of gas.

The dead man was identified as Scott Bradley, colored, whose body was recovered several hours after the explosion.

Approximately 200 men were at work in the mine, about 20 miles west of Birmingham.

Nazi Flyers in Pubs.

The most discussed things in Dublin are the recent election and the filming of "Henry the Fifth" by Laurence Talivier at nearby Powers Court. For this film 800 Irishmen and horses were hired as extras and all the men had grown great beards. At least one paper came out editorially in favor of the beards being kept on after the film was completed, saying it made the men more he-mannish.

A bartender will ask you when you order whisky, "Large or small." Dublin's favorite answer was given by the late Prof. Tyrrell of Trinity College, who said, "There is no such thing as a large whisky."

It is not uncommon to see interned German flyers in the pubs and restaurants. They are on parole just as are the English flyers and are free to come and go as long as they make no effort to escape. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Union Maintenance Ordered at 3 Plants; WLB Stand Unaltered

y the Associated Press. The War Labor Board has announced its first maintenance of membership orders since enactment of the War Labor Disputes Act, evincing its belief that the law does not alter board policy on union security.

Chairman William H. Davis said the memory of Josephine Wheelyesterday the board acted in the wright Rust, Harry Lee Rust and light of opinion from counsel that Gwynn Wheelwright Rust. the act did not make such directives unlawful.

The cases in which the orders apply involve the McQuay-Norris Co., St. Louis and Indianapolis, and the of Maryland, will officiate. CIO United Auto Workers; Hermann Oak Leather Co., St. Louis, and the AFL Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers, and the United reredos and complete the focal Cork Co., South Kearny, N. J., and point of the Cathedral. the CIO United Rubber Workers.

Industry members of the board dissented from the decision, but WLB sources said that was not significant because they cast negative votes on most union maintenance decisions before enactment of the law.

The possibility of a challenge arises under a section of the law saying that the board shall conform to the provisions of the National Labor Relations Act. which recognizes closed shop agreements, and it is the WLB position that maintenance of membership, being less inclusive, also is covered.

The WLB standard maintenance of membership clause, used in the three cases vesterday, provides that employes who are union members may withdraw within 15 days. If they do not do so they are considered bound to maintain membership for the duration of the contract as a condition of employment. New employes are not bound to join the union, but if they do so voluntarily they are bound by the maintenance clause.

Mrs. Bolton said the Army expects a bumper crop of at least 300,000 babies with service-connected fathers or mothers, "and this creates a major problem in strange fields still not solved by OPA.'

Parade July 31 to Open Drive for 20,000 Defense Volunteers

A call for 20,000 additional civilian defense volunteers was issued today by Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, com-mander of the District Civilian Defense Corps, as plans were being drafted for a big parade to open the recruiting drive on Saturday, July 31. Civic and business groups, as well as military and municipal officers, are co-operating in the program, convinced the Civilian Defense Corps must be strengthened. as a matter of "insurance" against possible enemy action. Details of the program, still tentative, are being worked out by an Executive Committee appointed by the Commissioners.

Various classes of military units are to participate in the parade, under arrangements promised by Maj. Gen. John T. Lewis, commanding the military district of Washington, and naval units also will take part, it was said.

Service Bands to March.

The parade will be enlivened by the performance of service bands and probably a number of civilian units. Flags and pennants will be displayed, and all civilian defense workers may be provided slogan ribbons saying, "I Do My Part."

The tentative plan adopted at a meeting of civic and Government representatives yesterday provides for the parade to begin at 5 p.m. from Third street and Indiana avenue N.W., to swing down Constitution avenue to somewhere near Seventeenth street. However, there may be some changes in details. One idea is to turn north on Fifteenth street, then east on E street past the District Building. There still is some question also as to the exact time.

"But we can't go on that assumption." he said. William J. Mileham, chief air-raid warden, also brought out that much of the decrease was caused by the drafting of volunteers for the competition with other speedy armed services.

Capt. Whitehurst, who also is director of the District Civilian Defense Department, emphasized that keep pace with the great changes regardless of whether Washington ever could or would be bombed there was a need to provide "insurance." He said it is necessary to be fully prepared since "one does not take out fire insurance because he thinks his house is about to burn down, but

War Output Slackened During May Despite Rise in Planes, Ships By the Associated Press.

Production of planes and naval vessels reached new highs in May, the War Production Board's monthly report showed today, but the overall output of munitions remained unchanged from April. WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson's report noted declines in ground ordnance, miscellaneous munitions and merchant vessels, which he described as a "very seri-ous matter." The decline in merchant vessels was based on the dollar value of work done in shipyards. however, and not on the basis of actual deliveries, which in May were the highest so far with nearly 1,800,000 deadweight tons.

Of the four major programs, merchant ships led in the first six months of the year, with 44 per cent of the 1943 goal achieved. Army ordnance and the output of naval vessels and equipment were estimated at 40 per cent of the 1943 goals, and aircraft 35 per cent.

Calls for Joint Effort. "We have reached a point nov where gains in production will be won only through the most thoughtful and determined effort on the part of all concerned." Mr. Nelson

He called for the setting aside of personal and group interests "in the interests of all of us as much as it is humanly possible, for we are on the verge of one of the greatest trials of our national history." Presumably referring to forthcoming military operations, he said:

'We cannot afford to relax our forts for an instant. On the contrary, we must prepare ourselves to meet calmly and steadily the greatest strains to which we may ever be months following July 21. subjected."

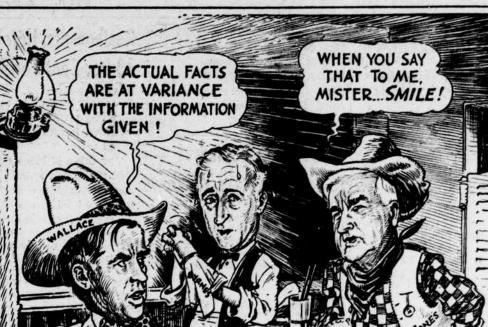

The May production box score, as ompared with April: Total munitions, unchanged; aircraft and aircraft equipment, up 5 per cent; ground ordnance, down 3 per cent; Navy and Army vessels (value put in place), up 2 per cent; merchant vessels (value put in place), down 4 per cent; miscellaneous munitions, down 7 per cent. Measured on a dollar basis, aircraft and related munitions and equipment production increased 5 per cent, but on the basis of planes alone the increase was 9 per cent, was issued simultaneously with the the executive order exempting Mr. and 10 per cent if calculated on the basis of airframe weight.

300 Toledo Homes Flooded Demands President Change Mind. After Erie Dike Bursts

By the Associated Press TOLEDO, Ohio, July 7 .- Pounding waves ripped two holes in an earthen dike along Lake Erie last night, loosening a flood that surrounded approximately 300 homes in two residential areas.

Police and Coast Guardsmen evacuated scores of families by boat as water poured through a 200-foot and a 50-foot break in the wall, inundating streets in Reno Beach to a depth of 10 feet in some places and cutting off residents in an estimated 75 homes.

Through the dark of night, and the heat of day, America's plane spotters have kept their lonely watch. Theirs is a job without recompense, without glory, without even the thrill of danger—yet they have kept to their posts. But there are times, when the fog rolls in or the skies are dark, that even the keenest human eyes are not enough. Then, along our shores and about our cities, we can depend on electronic sentries to scan the skies. - A-15

What is Electronics, Anyway?

1. What is an electron?

The electron is one of the fundamental particles of matter and electricity. Electrons are part of atoms; atoms make up molecules. And molecules, in turn, make up all the matter in the world, and in the universe of which the world is but a small part. The electron is far too small to be seen, even with the best microscopes. Thirty thousand trillion trillion electrons would weigh less than one ounce! Electronics is the science of electrons.

2. Who discovered electronics?

No one person. Electronics has grown as the result of the work of many scientists, in many countries, over the past 60 years. It is growing faster today than ever before, as scientists learn more about electrons and how to use them.

3. What is the difference between an electronic tube and a radio tube?

A radio tube is one of the many kinds of electron tubes. They are as varied as the jobs they do. Some are small as a thimble, others big as a man. Some are vacuum tubes, others contain rare gases. Some are made of glass, others of steel. New types are being developed all the time.

4. Is television an electronic development?

Yes. So is the radio, the X-ray, radar. Electronic tubes work in the long-distance telephone; they control important processes in industry; they count and sort and safeguard. New uses are being found almost every day.

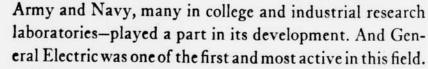

5. What does electronics promise for the future?

Many things. New products and services, new medical tools to help safeguard human health. Perhaps equally important, it will give us a tool by which we can make things faster, better, and cheaper, so that we can all afford more of them. RADAR is America's best plane spotter. Like the bat, which is equipped by nature with one of the most remarkable sets of blind-flying "instruments" known to man, radar can operate "blind" in night and fog. Waves from electronic tubes, incessantly scanning the skies, can "feel" through the dark the approach of an enemy plane.

America's best plane spotter

Radar, and the Spitfires, stopped the Stukas in the skies over England in 1940. Radar, helping to direct the fire of an American warship in the Pacific, enabled it to hit a Japanese warship 8 miles away in pitch darkness.

Yet radar is no more miraculous than your radio set. It is simply the application of principles discovered many years ago. Many scientists and engineers—in this country and in Britain, some working alone, some in the

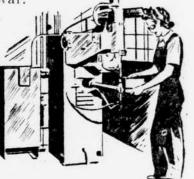

This was only natural. For, when in 1940 the Navy requested G.E. to begin the manufacture of radar equipment, we had been for more than 20 years engaged in the development and manufacture of the kind of electron tubes, circuits, and apparatus that makes radio, and radar, possible. Additional manufacturing facilities were started at once. And today, General Electric is supplying this equipment in quantity for the Army and the Navy.

Electronics is a Peacetime Science: We know it best through radio, a great and essential industry. But electronics works in almost every other industry, toomeasuring in millionths of an inch, converting electric current to heat steel furnaces and to refine aluminum and magnesium, seeing through inches of steel, protecting property and human lives, regulating lighting. And electronic controls enable women to do many complex jobs in industry, releasing men for war.

But the destiny of electronics is not to replace—it is to add to the products and services we enjoy, and to make easier our ways of obtaining them. Things like television merely await the war's end. And in the elec-

Representative Colmer, Democrat, of Mississippi, told the Associated Press one of the reasons the House committee refused to report out the resolution before it was that the House would have been put in the position of investigating the Senate's presiding officer-the Vice President.

Senate Democratic leaders have indicated they have no disposition to encourage an inquiry. Representative Wigglesworth, Republican, of Massachusetts was the author of the resolution that died in the House committee.

Held Matter for President. Chairman Sabath said the Rules Committee decided against reporting it because a majority "felt that efforts are being made to straighten out matters within the administration." He did not dislose the committee's vote.

Mr. Colmer said he thought the Rules Committe's action was based on these three points:

"1. That, if there is any investigation, it should be made by the Senate . . .

The general feeling among other legislators appeared to be that only the President could settle the dis-Dute.

Byrnes Failed to Make Peace.

War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes attempted the role of peacemaker last week, calling the two men to the White House for a conference, but afterward the exchange of charges and countercharges only grew more heated.

Mr. Jones' Reconstruction Finance Corp. is the financing agency for Mr. Wallace's Board of Economic Warfare which seeks, among other things, to obtain strategic minerals and other materials abroad, outbidding Axis nations where necessary.

Mr. Wallace last week accused Mr. Jones of delaying BEW's purchase of strategic war materials and said Jones had "harassed" administrative employes of BEW.

Will Redeem Bonds Br the Associated Frezs. NEW YORK, July 7.—The Atlan-tic Coast Line Railroad announced

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 7 .- Iron Age, trade magazine of the steel industry, reported today in its weekly summary that a recession from high production levels of recent months seemed to be developing in some manufacturing areas.

"In addition to the need for a little recuperation after 19 months of pressure," Iron Age said, "there are psychological factors such as the lull in the Allies' advance toward the continent, the changes in military requirements, the recent audacious coal strikes, the hot weatherfactors which when combined might explain the slight letdown. "However, authorities directing the war effort, picturing probabilities six to twelve months away, are starting to drive harder than ever for airplanes, ships, steel mill equipment and locomotives, among other 114 items," Iron Age said. "All the facts seem to emphasize anew the oftenrepeated warning that there is little hope for more civilian steel for some time to come. Lend-lease is increasing. * * *"

In Washington, Iron Age said: "The battle which has seesawed for the past two years between the War Production Board and the Army flared again during the past week when the Army intensified efforts to take away most of the WPB's authority over allocations of material through cutting the Class B list of products under CMP (the controlled materials plan?. At the end of this year, WPB now plans, under Army pressure, to voluntarily reduce its jurisdiction over more than 300 Class B product classifications to a mere 22. This means the WPB may relinquish authority over approximately 3,000,000 of the 5,000,000 tons of steel handed out to Class B product manufacturers per quarter." Estimating steel operations this week at 96.5 per cent of capacity. against a revised rate of 95.5 per cent last week, Iron Age commented: "This week, almost two weeks after John L. Lewis gave the backto-work order, miners in the Birmingham and Western Pennsylvania district were nearly 100 per cent back on the job. Curbls Proposed On Subletting D. C. Properties

Rent Control Unit Seeks to Protect Landlords, Tenants

The District Rent Control Admin-Istration is considering issuance of two new regulations to control the subletting of housing accommodations here, Ernest F. Henry, chief attorney for the office, disclosed to-

One of the proposed new orders would require an owner to give seven days' notice to all subtenants before dispossessing the person to whom he originally rented the property.

The other order would require all persons offering to sublet apartments or houses in return for the purchase of furniture to submit copies of their newspaper advertisements to the rent control office in advance of publication.

It would be required that all such ads contain the individual's name the address of the property and the amount of the rent ceiling. The person proposing to sublet to a furniture buyer would further be required to send the original landlord a statement of the contemplated change in tenancy Provisions Drawn Up.

These provisions are now being drawn up in proper legal form and drawn up in proper legal form and probably will be issued by the Disrict rent control administrator soon as "general orders," Mr. Henry indicated.

Purpose of tightening the restrictions on subletting, the attorney said, would be to stamp out practices, through which a number of subtenants and landlords here have been victimized

Because of the scarcity of apartments here, home-hunters sometimes buy furniture for several hundred dollars more than it is worth in order to get a place to live. Mr. Henry said. He added that a few "speculators" are believed to make a business of locating apartments, furnishing them and then subletting to persons willing to pay a high

District Faces Egg Scarcity; Price Raised

Supplies in Stores Shrinking Steadily, Survey Discloses

Eggs, though still obtainable in irtually all stores, gradually are ecoming more scarce here, a survey of wholesale distributors and retail establishments indicated to-

Meanwhile, the scarcity was reflected in the announcement of the second of a series of weekly boosts in the ceiling price of eggs. The District Office of Price Administration said ceilings on grade A eggs will be lifted 1 cent effective tomorrow in all except the small independent stores which did a business ast year of less than $50,000.

These small independents will be permitted a 2-cent increase in their prices for grade A eggs, the OPA said. Maximum prices on all other grades of eggs will remain unhanged for all stores.

Seasonal Decline.

Caused by the seasonal decline in egg production, the ceiling price boosts will continue at the rate of about 1 cent weekly until the first week in November, when prices again will decline, the District OPA

The seasonal drop in production has had much to do with the increasing scarcity of eggs here, dealers said today. But this year the shortage of eggs on the Washington market is more severe than previously.

The manager of a co-operative marketing company estimated that he is now handling from 30 to 40 per cent fewer eggs than a month ago. This is more than the normal seasonal decline, he said.

Shortages in Chain Stores.

Shortages also were reported by several chain grocery stores. One large chain said it has been able to keep most of its stores supplied with some eggs, but has been un-able to deliver as many eggs as the stores have requested.

Quinn Opposed And Supported For D. C. Bench

Former President Of Bar Association Hits Appointment

Nomination of Thomas D. Quinn to be a judge of the Municipal Court was protested and defended at a hearing today before a subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee. Senator McFarland, Democrat, of Arizona, who conducted the hearing. was to submit the testimony to the full committee later.

Henry I. Quinn, for 38 years a practicing attorney here and president of the District Bar Association n 1937, opposed Mr. Quinn's confirmation on the ground he had not actively engaged in law practice in District courts, and that the nominee's predecessor as administrative assistant to the Attorney General was a layman and former newspaperman.

Supporting the protest was Ward B. McCarthy, attorney, who held the nominee did not meet the terms of the Municipal Court Reorganization Act requiring five years' practice here as a prerequisite to appointment to the local bench. A third protestant, Huver I. Brown, colored, held that the nominee was 'not a particular friend of colored people," and predicted "racial discrimination" if the nominee is confirmed by the Senate.

Two Indorse Nominee.

Favoring Mr. Quinn's nomination were Robert I. Miller, attorney, who also advocated reappointment of Judge Armond W. Scott, and Alexander Holtzoff, special assistant to the Attorney General.

Asked by Senator Van Nuys, Judiciary Committee chairman, who came in late, if he believed the nominee, Mr. Quinn, would make a good judge. Henry I. Quinn replied: 'Yes, after a few years," adding that he knew the nominee to be a man of the highest integrity.

Mr. Holtzoff said practice in Federal departments, rather than actual appearances in court, meets the five-year requirement.

The nominee, in response to questions asked by Senator McFarland, narsson, was consecrated Titular shal while studying law at George-Bishop of Holar and Vicar Apostolic town, was bailiff and clerk to Justice Stafford, served as a special agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and as administrative assistant to the Attorney General. The work of a special FBI agent has been held to be equivalent to law practice, Mr. Quinn said, adding he believed himself to be qualified.

A call for 20,000 additional civilian defense volunteers was issued today by Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, commander of the District Civilian Defense Corps, as plans were being drafted for a big parade to open the recruiting drive on Saturday, July 31. Civic and business groups, as well as military and municipal officers, are co-operating in the program, convinced the Civilian Defense Corps must be strengthened, as a matter of "insurance" against possible enemy action. Details of the program, still tentative, are being worked out by an Executive Committee appointed by the Commissioners.

Various classes of military units are to participate in the parade, under arrangements promised by Mai, Gen. John T. Lewis, commanding the military district of Washington, and naval units also will take part, it was said.

Service Bands to March.

The tentative oplan adopted at a meeting of civic and Government for the parade to begin at 5 p.m. from Third street and Indiana avenue N.W., to swing down Constitu-tion avenue to somewhere near 500 Virginia Youths Seventeenth street. However, there may be some changes in details. One idea is to turn north on Fifteenth street, then east on E street past the District Building. There still is some question also as to the exact time.

Price Violations Found in 54% Of 646 Stores

Results of Survey Given at Meeting Of New Panels

Fifty-four per cent of the 646 reail food stores visited in a survey here early last week were found to be charging more than legal ceiling prices for at least one commonlybought food, Robert K. Thompson, District Office of Price Administration director, disclosed last night.

Prices of 12 selected foods were surveyed, with the greatest number of ceiling violations being reported in sales of meats, Mr. Thompson said. Forty-three per cent of the stores were listed as charging too much for pork chops, and 30 per cent for round steak.

Sixty-two per cent of the establishments checked were discovered to have made one error or more in the posting of maximum prices on the dozen selected food items.

Price Panel Personnel Attends. Mr. Thompson made his report on results of the survey at an OPA meeting in the Chamber of Commerce building, where members of the District's 15 newly-appointed price panels gathered to learn their roles in helping to obtain compliance with maximum price regulations.

The OPA director emphasized that the survey figures showed violations existing at the time the volunteer workers who made the store-tostore check called the retailer's attention to his failure to comply with posting and pricing rules.

"Compliance is now much higher than these figures indicate," Mr. Thompson said. He explained that in a "large majority of cases," the retailer made changes toward compliance while the volunteer worker was still in the store. The survey was conducted by about 200 volunteers, acting as price panel assistants. It extended to nearly all the 1.600 food retailers in the District, but only results of the first 646 store visits have been taoulated, Mr. Thompson said.

Percentage of Compliance.

Food items covered in the survey and the percentage of the 646 stores found to be observing ceiling prices were listed as follows

Bread, 99 per cent complying; coffee, 95; spaghetti, 95; sugar, 91; lard and shortening, 90; poultry, 90; butter, 88; eggs, 84; tomato juice, 78; canned corn, 75; round steak, 70; and pork chops, 57.

THE EVENING STAR, WASHINGTON, D. C., WEDNESDAY, JULY 7, 1943.

Postwar Co-operation By British and U. S. Called Vital by Evatt

By the Associated Press. LEEDS, England, July 7.—H. V. Evatt, Australian attorney general and minister for external affairs, said today a separate attack on every Japanese-held island in the Pacific would be "preposterous" and unnecessary

Mr. Evatt, who arrived in Britain three weeks ago, declared, however, it is essential to attack and reoccupy "some islands of crucial importance" and then apply pressure on Japan from all directions, including China and the Pacific.

Speaking at a ceremony in which he received the freedom of Leeds, the Australian official referred to the successful "island-hopping" in the Mediterranean and said "it obviously is desirable in the case of some islands in the Pacific.'

"In the Pacific as well as in Africa and Europe, progress is unmistakable-all the world can see it," Mr Evatt declared. "Through it all the co-operation of your Prime Minister and the President of the United States has been a solid foundation for future victory.'

Discussing the postwar years, he said:

"Our future is interwoven with yours. Our prosperity is depend-ent on yours. It is the same with the United States. The truth is we are members of one another-in peace as well as in war.

"Only on one condition can we advance to economic security while retaining the maximum possible individual liberty.

"The condition is that all Britishers in the British Commonwealth and Empire must stick together while maintaining the closest cooperation with the people of the United States who have helped us so much in the war."

OPA Official Ousts Gas Rationing Panel

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, July 7.-District OPA Director Alvin J. Williams yesterday announced the dismissal of Wayson McKee, chairman of the Commodity Ration Board in suburban McKeesport, and the entire gasoline ration panel of that board for "willfully disregarding the rationing regulations."

The 24 dismissed members were given until July 9 to apply for a hearing on the charges. Mr. Williams charged the panel and Mr. McKee had:

Prepared its own table on mileage in granting supplemental rations, disregarding the OPA's standard mileage table.

Issued additional coupons in renewing B and C books after these coupons were cut to 21/2 gallons.

Issued special rations for a purpose not set forth in the regulations.

Overissued coupons in granting supplemental rations and granted favoritism to individuals and business firms.

Mr. McKee said the board had prepared its own mileage table because "when OPA or any one says all cars will go 15 miles on a gallon of gasoline, they're crazy." He said the procedure was followed with Mr. Williams' knowledge.

Members of the board said they would hold a special meeting, probably today, to decide their course of action

Fourth precinct police arrested a 17-year-old youth this morning shortly after John Thomas Munsford, a sailor, reported he was robbed of $42 at Fourteenth street and Maine avenue S.W. Four other youths also were being sought.

Mrs. Dorothy Holmes of 2922 Sherman avenue N.W. told police her pocketbook, containing $220, was snatched by a boy as she was standing at the corner of Columbia road and Sherman avenue N.W. last night

G Street Bowling Alley Swept by $4,000 Fire

Fire of undetermined origin swept through the New Recreation Bowling Alley, 918 G street N.W., last night, causing damage estimated at $4,000 and threatening several Government offices.

Firemen turned in a second alarm as a precautionary measure when it was learned that the building also housed Government offices, including the Investigating Committee of the Civil Service Commission. Police said that the bowling alley was empty of patrons. Several of the alleys were damaged.

Zoom in Liquor Costs Laid to Tax Boosts And Outlaw Prices

This is the second of three stories on the liquor situation, reporting findings of a Nationwide survey by the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

Both by the bottle and the drink, Americans are paying more for their liquor than ever before-because of record Federal taxes and, back" for future profits. in growing instances, to outlaw prices-but they're still consuming increases are due to taxes, and all they can get.

While formal or informal rationing throughout the country has cut available supplies considerably - has more than offset any losses he some trade observers say there's 40 per cent less to be had than a year ducers making smaller withdrawals ago-the demand has increased 20 per cent since last year and 40 per cent since 1941.

Lush wartime pay checks, concentration of great numbers of persons in war-booming communities, difficulties in finding other means of diversion because of wartime restrictions, and finally, the tendency on the part of some to drink more in times of stress were listed among the reasons for the increased demand

A spokesman for the Distilled Spirits Institute said:

"Any buyer resistance to higher prices that is being shown by workers in the white collar class, whose wages haven't changed much in wartime, is more than overcome by the eagerness to buy on the part of the war worker who probably made $27 a week in peacetime and now makes $60 or more."

Conditions Summarized.

Here is a summary of conditions regarding prices and consumption of liquor found in the survey: 1. While the majority of the that hundreds of investigations of spirits. suspected violations have been made

The agency adds that it intends to set specific prices for all new brands. and older brands having new formulas, then set definite dollars and cents markups for wholesalers and retailers.

Few Admit Increases. 4. The few retailers who admit that prices are higher, aside from taxes, maintain that increases are due to higher operating and labor costs; elimination of discounts they once got from their distributors; the need, in some instances, of purchasing liquors they don't want in order to get those they do want; and finally, the temptations presented by purchasers themselves willing to pay premium prices. Distributors, on the other hand, say that every one is being treated alike in the matter of parceling out the available supplies, and some

SHORT SHORT STORY

"Private Lives of Muskrats"

"I've just been learning a lot about muskrats," said Elsie. "Will you look at this picture? He seems like a beaver and lives like one, too."

"Of course, under water," June replied smugly "and that is why his fur is thick and soft, with glistening over-hairs."

"Especially the backs!" Elsie added. "And THAT is why L. Frank Company's wonderful Northern Back Muskrat coats, like this, are such marvelous values. Everybody knows Northern muskrats are the best, and the backs... the sturdiest wearing."

"Sable-blended, too," June chimed in. "They're not dyed. Look at the beautiful rich coloring . . . oh, I love this gorgeous fur coat, with its smart tuxedo front."

"Anyone is wise who buys it right now, and doesn't wait until later," Elsie said emphatically. "And on L. Frank Company's convenient lay-away plan."

THE EVENING STAR, WASHINGTON, D. C., WEDNESDAY, JULY 7, 1943.

Martin Marauder Unit Created in Doolittle Strategic Air Force

By the Associated Press. AN ADVANCED BOMBER BASE IN NORTH AFRICA, July 7.--A large unit made up exclusively of B-26 Martin Marauder bombers has been created within Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle's Strategic Air Force after a long trial by combat in the North African theater.

The unit, believed to be one of the largest forces of Marauders battering Axis targets anywhere, has given this medium bomber a position of equal rank with its fellow worker, the B-25 Mitchell, used in the raid on Tokio.

In one 33-day, action-filled period since the fall of Tunisia, the unit made about 50 trips over enemy territory. During four days of operations against Pantelleria alone it dumped nearly 600 tons of bombs. Forty-six enemy fighters which challenged the Maurauders were shot down. A number of grounded enemy planes were destroyed and many more were damaged.

Flyers said figures such as these won respect for the plane in spite of its oversized engines and short, stubby wings.

They said the plane has fulfilled a demand for a low-altitude bomber of medium range, able to carry sizable bomb loads and fly at high speed to protect itself. Improvements have been made on the newer models as the result of experience in combat, particularly in the South Pacific.

One of the operations officers here, Lt. James E. Conlan, former professional baseball player, who has flown 300 hours of combat, said he believed the Marauder "is as good as any for bomb precision and area bombing at medium altitudes."

"It can handle about every job in the North African theater," he said. "I must admit that when you come down from flying formations you've done a day's work, but the men whose lives depend on the plane's performance consider it satisfactory."

'Foo-Goo' on Auto Plates, Driver Blames Pranksters

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY .- Detective Earl Kritser and Police Clerk Arthur G. Pope glanced at the license tag on the rear of the passing car-then looked again and swerved their machine in quick pursuit. It had no numbers at all. Just "Foo-Goo" in big black letters.

Driver John B. Rullo blamed a neighbor's little children and said he'd get some paint remover. The front license plate didn't say "Foo-Goo." It said "Goo-Foo."

Record Set as Court Grants Citizenship To 124 in Day

One-hundred twenty-four persons became American citizens yesterday at naturalization ceremonies in District Court before Justice Jennings Bailey.

The number was the largest ever receiving citizenship here during a single day and brought the total naturalized in the District so far this year to 854, against a grand total of 634 naturalized here all of last year, Mrs. Helen T. McGraw, clerk in charge of naturalization at the court, said.

In the group naturalized yesterday were 21 nationalities and among them was one serviceman, Gregg Quijano, 33, a Filipino, a yeoman in the Navy. Recalling how the Japanese have overrun the Philippines, Mr. Quijano, when asked about the Japs, said: "The first chance I have, I will give it to 'em."

A number of those naturalized have relatives fighting with American forces. Those interviewed, like Mrs. Fortunata C. Zagami, 1000 block of C street S.E., who has three sons in the Army, declared they were glad to become Americans.

The youngest naturalized was Jacques S. Bourbonnais, 16, of 2804 Fourteenth street N.W., whose father, Stephen Bourbonnais, a local hotel employe, was naturalized last November.

Gov. Arnall Protests WMC 'Labor Pirating'

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, July 7.—Gov. Ellis Arnall in a telegram to War Man-power Commissioner McNutt yesterday said the people of Georgia are "tremendously resentful" about the WMC's "pirating of shipyard labor for movement to the Pacific Northwest when Georgia's shipyards at Brunswick and Savannah are in urgent need of labor."

Mr. Arnall said Georgians "are unable to understand why ship construction companies with great political influence are given the right by your agency to pirate labor from those with little or no political influence.'

With the coming of the Bell bomber plant at nearby Marietta, which will employ 30,000 persons, the WMC has said Atlanta is faced with a critical shortage of labor and is faced with the possibility of going on the 48-hour work week some time this summer.

The Governor said also that Northwestern shipyards were advertising in Georgia newspapers for workers and that some of the advertisements carried WMC approval

Fishermen Get Break; Catch 50,000 Trout

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla .-- Dr. Jimmy Armstrong told fellow-members of the Rod and Reel Club here how he and Dr. Frank Olds caught 50,000 trout at one time.

He related that he and Dr. Olds created an artificial lake by damming a creek at their summer place at Highlands, N. C. A few months later a dam broke a short distance upstream and emptied a similar artificial lake containing 50,000 trout, dumping them into the Arm-strong-Olds lake.

The trout still are there except for some Drs. Olds and Armstrong have removed with rod and reel.

Our Fellow Americans . . .

NEGROES are Americans too!

WE HOLD THESE TRUTHS TO BE SELF-EVIDENT THAT ALL MEN ARE CREATED EQUAL, THAT THEY ARE ENDOWED BY THEIR CREATOR WITH CERTAIN UNALIENABLE RIGHTS, THAT AMONG THESE ARE LIFE, LIBERTY AND THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS."-DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

"A LL PERSONS BORN OR NATURALIZED IN THE UNITED STATES, AND SUBJECT TO THE JURISDICTION THEREOF, ARE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES AND OF THE STATE WHEREIN THEY RESIDE."-CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES, 14th AMENDMENT.

WE ARE AMERICANS TOO!

On the basis of the principle of the Constitution of the United States and the Declaration of Independence, whose 167th birthday we celebrate today, we address this appeal to the people of America and to the conscience of the world.

Right here in our own country is one of the great moral is sues of this wer: SHALL WE HAVE DEMOCRACY FOR ALL OF THE PEOPLE OR FOR SOME OF THE PEOPLE? An all-out was against facism cannot be fought on a jim-crow basis. Race prejudice is obstructing the nation's effort to win the war and plan a real peace.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE HAVE MET THIS ISSUE WITH IN DIFFERENCE, SUPPRESSION AND VIOLENCE. The recent riots in Los Angeles, Beaumont and Detroit are sufficient proof of this.

Negroes have shared in the building of our common country. From the Boston Massacre to the North African offensive, their blood has watered the sands of every war in defense of American democracy. Their labor, more than anyone else's, has built the South. Their music, folk tales and dreams have helped make American culture what it is. This is their country in which they were born, for which they and their fathers have toiled and died and to which they stand ready to give the last full measure of devotion.

But how are these thirteen million Americans treated?

- NEGROES ARE DISCRIMINATED AGAINST IN THE VERY ARMED FORCES WHICH SUMMON THEM TO SHED THEIR BLOOD FOR THEIR COUNTRY. They are drafted in jim-crow quotas, trained in jim-crow regiments and separated from their white comrades in arms in the fighting units. All too often, they are herded into menial tasks and labor battalions.
- Н. NEGROES ARE DENIED EQUAL OPPORTUNITY IN BOTH PUB-LIC AND PRIVATE EMPLOYMENT. They are discriminated against in training, placement, up-grading, and wages in war industry. Sometimes this is true when the Government itself is the employer. Moreover, thirty-three international labor unions bar Negroes from membership.
- 111. NEGROES ARE DENIED THE RIGHT TO VOTE IN MOST OF THE SOUTHERN STATES. A combination of intimidation, poll taxes, "white primaries," and all manner of specious "tests," stand as barriers between the Negro and the ballot box.
- DEMAND A DEMOCRATIC ARMY. We call upon the President 1. to enforce section 4A of the 1940 Draft Act which reads: "In the selection and training of men under this act, and in the interpretation and execution of the provisions of this Act, there shall be no discrimination against any person on account of race or color.

B-19

- 11. WE DEMAND EQUAL ACCESS TO EMPLOYMENT OPPOR-TUNITIES. This means a Fair Employment Practice Committee which has power to enforce decisions based on its findings; and no discrimination in training opportunities, placement, wages, promotions and membership in trade unions.

NEGROES ARE DENIED EQUAL EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUN-ITY. _ In most of the South the Negro child receives less than half of his share of the funds for public education, the Negro graduate student is denied the training of the tax supported state university and the Negro teacher is paid less for the same training and work as other teachers. Here again is the myth of "equal but separate." Even in the North and West Negro professors are barred from the faculties of practically all American universities.

V. NEGROES ARE CARICATURED AND SLANDERED IN THE PRESS AND ON THE STAGE, SCREEN AND RADIO. School textbooks paint the Negro as a happy slave, a buffoon and a corrupt citizen. Best-selling novels and million dollar movie plays repeat this lie of the history books. Newspapers play up Negro crime and play down the constructive achievements of Negroes.

- VI. NEGROES ARE DENIED PARTICIPATION IN THE POLICY-FORMING ADMINISTRATION OF GOVERNMENT. Even when there are Negro "race relations" advisers to government agencies. these "advisers" are not permitted to determine policy, even in this special area, and nobody accepts their advice.
- VII. NEGROES ARE FORCED TO LIVE IN RESTRICTED RESIDEN-TIAL AREAS AND SEGREGATED HOUSING PROJECTS. Isolated and forced into a ghetto, the Negro thus becomes the prey of profiteers and other exploiters.
- VIII. NEGROES ARE JIM-CROWED IN TRAINS, BUSSES, THEATRES, HOTELS, RESTAURANTS AND OTHER PUBLIC PLACES; AND THROUGHOUT THE SOUTH ARE FORCED INTO JIM-CROW SCHOOLS, LIBRARIES, HOSPITALS AND OTHER INSTITU-TIONS SUPPORTED BY TAXES PAID BY ALL OF THE PEOPLE.
- IX. NEGROES ARE LYNCHED AND MURDERED BY MOBS AND COWARDLY NIGHT-RAIDER BANDS. Such treatment in a democracy is intolerable. Accordingly, we appeal to the American people to support us in the fight to wipe out these antidemocratic practices.

SOUTH. The enactment of a Federal anti-poll tax law, abolition of the white primaries and other registration device that limits a free suffrage and enforcement of the 14th and 15th amendments to the Constitution will guarantee the right to vote to all men.

- IV. WE DEMAND EQUAL ACCESS TO EDUCATIONAL OPPOR-TUNITIES. This means equal facilities for the Negro child, equal pay for the Negro teaches and for the Negro student equal access to public, tax-supported institutions of learning.
- V. WE DEMAND THAT THE STORY OF THE NEGROES' CON-TRIBUTION TO AMERICA AND TO THE WORLD BE TOLD. THE NEWSPAPERS, RADIO AND SCREEN CAN THUS END THE CARICATURE AND SLANDER OF NEGROES.
- VI. WE DEMAND NEGRO AND MINORITY GROUP REPRESENTA-TION ON ALL ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES SO THAT THESE GROUPS MAY BE ABLE TO DETERMINE POLICIES FOR ALL OF THE PEOPLE.
- VII. WE DEMAND AN END TO RESIDENTIAL GHETTOS AND "RESTRICTIVE COVENANTS."
- VIII. WE DEMAND ABROGATION OF EVERY LAW WHICH MAKES A DISTINCTION IN TREATMENT BETWEEN CITIZENS BASED ON RELIGION, CREED, COLOR OR NATIONAL ORIGIN.
- IX. WE DEMAND THE STRICT ENFORCEMENT OF THE CON-STITUTION-ESPECIALLY OF THAT CLAUSE WHICH GUARANTEES: "NO PERSON SHALL BE DEPRIVED OF LIFE, LIBERTY OR PROPERTY WITHOUT DUE PROCESS OF LAW."

"Therefore, in the name of democracy, in the name of the common interests of humanity, in the name of a real victory and a real peace, we call upon our fellow Americans to join with us in this struggle for human dignity and equal justice for all. Moreover, the colored peoples of the world, in Asia, Africa and Latin America will test the sincerity of our declaration about world democracy by what happens to the Negro right here in the United States. Let us band together and make democracy a living truth."

brow pencil or eyeshadow marks them not-quite-nice somehow.

Of course, this is silly on the face of it. There's no more reason to feel wicked about using eye make-up than there is to assume that a dash of lipstick is the sign of a sinner. We go in for creams and lotions, rouge, powder and lipstick, paint our fingernails and perfume our skins, yet the idea that hair tints and eye make-up are "sinful" persists. And why? Well, our guess is because both of these beauty aids are too often in-correctly used. And when you have a poor hair-tinting or eye make-up job it is appallingly obvious and it does make you look vaguely "tough." So, dismissing the former process with the simple advice to enlist the aid of the best hairdresser you can find, let's turn our attention to the mirrors of your soul. There is no reason why you should not wear mascara during the day. Black or brown, according to your skin tones, is most suitable, with more extreme shades like midnight blue reserved for wear in the evening when electric lights are kinder to you than Ole Sol. If your lashes

Eyeshadow is probably the most skittish of all products of this type. Again we see no reason why you shouldn't use a bit of eyeshadow during the day and if you put it on carefully in a bright light you needn't turn out looking like an Indian on the warpath. There seem to be two schools of thought about color selection-one group sticking to the color of their eyes the other preferring a shade that harmonizes with their costume such as blue green, violet, etc. This is entirely a matter of experimentation and choice but it's safe to say that a thin film of eyeshadow applied deftly to the lids is likely to enhance your eyes as well as give you that completely groomed look.

So why don't you experiment with eye make-up? The Vanderhof Looney Bin Still a Funny Spectacle

By JAY CARMODY.

Time and events have laid terrifying marks upon the world in the last half dozen years, but not upon the world of the Vanderhofs and Sycamores in "You Can't Take It With You." Those rugged individualists who started the century of the common man without walting for an official proclamation turned up again last night on the stage of the National Theater under the generalship of Fred Stone in the role of Grampa Vanderhof. Their wackery, or perhaps they are the sane ones after all, remains captivating even -

Jackie has been brought up by Mother Doris Dudley to abstain from tears no matter what happens to him. And this presented a difficult problem in "The Human Comedy" in the scene where he had to run screaming from the window when the automatic figure falls forward. He just wouldn't cry, let alone scream. Some one then hit on the idea of showing Jackie the crying scenes from some of Mickey Rooney's pictures, on the theory that if a big boy like Rooney could cry, so could Jackie. No one knows what went on in Jackie's mind as he watched Mickey weep, but there was no more trouble with him on this score!

Greer Garson finally got around to doing the old-lady scenes in "Madame Curie" for which she tested in make-up five months ago. That's a long time to work on one picture. The man who is playing Hitler, Ludwig Donath, in "The Strange Death of Adolf Hitler," is a Viennese actor who started his Hollywood career as the voice of Hitler in "The Moon Is Down" and "Edge of Darkness." He worked his way down, so to speak, into the full-size body of Hitler. Donath got the jobs through amusing his friends with his imitation of Hitler's voice. He prophesies that Hitler will not live to see this picture.

Win, Lose or Draw Yanks Revive and Zoom Into Three-Game Lead as Nats Slump

By BURTON HAWKINS, ter Staff Corresponden

Lefty Leaves the Nats, but He Won't Be Forgotten

DETROIT, July 7 .- The Nationals have lost their sense of humor. It vanished here yesterday when Lefty Gomez packed his suitcase and headed home, unconditionally released by Washington. Lefty's brand of banter was brilliant, but also expensive. Clark Griffith was paying $11,000 a year for what amounted to considerable comedy, but virtually no pitching.

Lefty's wit never was vicious and in the majority of his rollicking stories Gomez made himself the victim. He told stories about himself that would have you believe he was the world's No. 1 lamebrain, but his cleverness didn't cease with his comedy. He belittled his pitching ability. Browns, 5 to 4 even when he was great, and when he lost th famd fast ball that made him great he didn't lose his laughter

Gomez was the personification of a big leaguer, or at least he typified the best in the big leagues. He dressed like a champion, he tipped like one and he talked the part. When his arm went bad, his throat didn't. He was a wonderful team man. He &-

Ruth's Homer Big Thrill

That doesn't seem to be any difficult manner in which to earn $11.-000 and perhaps it isn't, but Gomez Lefty's numerous admirers stepped made the Nats a more lively team up and said, "When are you going the six weeks he was with them. Without him that Washington bench will resemble the morgue on a busy day, with numerous bodies but no noise. Lefty was the Nats' cheerleader.

Lefty was reminiscing a little in the Nats' clubhouse here before he said "so long" to his mates. "There's no competition for the biggest thrill I've ever had in baseball," said Lefty. "The thing that gave me the biggest wallop I've ever had was when Babe Ruth called his shot on that home run against the Cubs in the World Series.

Gomez hadn't been used by Manager Ossie Bluege since May 30, when he traveled 423 innings against the White Sox. He had been employed in exhibitions, of course, and in the last one he pitched he seemed to do all right. Against the crack Great Lakes Naval Training Station team, he pitched five innings, permitted two hits and no runs.

Somebody suggested Lefty wasn't getting a square shake, that he hadn't been granted a fair trial, but Gomez didn't agree. "I think I've had a fair trial," he said. "Griff has been swell to me. I think I'll get out of baseball-I have a couple of offers in business-but if I feel I can pitch next season I'd like to go to spring training with Washington. I'd like to pitch for Griff."

Lefty's humor never stung, howbut Mike got a kick out of it, too. When he left the clubhouse and baseball yesterday, Mike said, "Gee,

He started six World Series games and his World Series record is six victories against no defeats. He won three and lost one in All-Star competition. Lefty was there when the chips were down. Syracuse Chiefs of the International League have just about reached the conclusion that Steve Gromek, late of the Cleveland Indians but now of the Baltimore Orioles, doesn't like them.

Gromek, who came down from the American League after the campaign was under way, defeated the Chiefs for the fourth time this season last night. He is the only Baltimore hurler to have turned the trick even once.

Manager Jewell Ens tried to halt the Gromek whammy by starting Tom Delacruz, the slender Cuban who had blanked the Orioles in his previous two outings. But it wouldn't work.

Delacruz was hammered from the hill in the seventh when the Orioles connected for a trio of runs that clinched their 6-to-3 decision.

Airlines, Army, Navy Fly Global Routes

Create 175,000 - Mile System Speeding Men and Goods to Battle Areas

WASHINGTON-Declaring that "the country is fortunate in having had such a high development of airline planes and operations at the beginning of the war," the Office of War Information last month reported that through the cooperation of the Army, Navy, commercial airlines and aircraft manufacturers, America has assembled the greatest air transport fleet in the world and is operating it over a 175,000 mile global system.

Shortly after the OWI report was issued, General Harold L. George, head of the Command, revealed that the system had come to the rescue of the British at El Alamein during Rommel's drive on Alexandria. The British were out of anti-tank ammunition. The nearest supply was five or six weeks away by water. The Air Transport Command sprang into action. Within 72 hours airplanes loaded with ammunition had flown the Atlantic, erossed Africa and had delivered their critical cargoes in Cairo to save the day.

Transports, Ferries, Trains

The Army Air Transport Command is fly ing more than 90,000 miles of transport routes which are being extended as fighting fronts expand, while the Naval Air Transport Service is operating more than 50,000 route miles. In addition, the 35,000 miles of civil air routes within the United States provide ready made routes for military use, the OWI report states.

The Army Air Transport Command flies six principal routes which cover practically every point in the Allied world. In addition it ferries airplanes from factories direct to tactical air force units, and also carries on a specialized training program for transport personnel

The Naval Air Transport Service conducts parallel operations except for the ferrying service. Its activities radiate from three main divisional headquarters; Atlantic, West Coast and Pacific.

Aircraft-Auto Team Hits Stride

Add Thousands Monthly to United's Own Production

EAST HARTFORD, CONN .- Teamwork between the automotive industry and Pratt & Whitney Aircraft division of United Aircraft Corporation is proving one of the great American weapons which Axis leaders overlooked in preparing their plans for world conquest.

A tour through the engine plants of Ford, Buick, Chevrolet, Nash-Kelvinator, Continental Motors and Jacobs Aircraft Engine reveals that the aircraft-auto team is hitting its stride in a manner which promises anything but aid or comfort to the enemy. From those factories are being shipped every day more and more of the radial aircooled Wasp type engines to add to the huge numbers from the main plant of Pratt & Whitney Aircraft at East Hartford. This is the third phase of Pratt & Whitney's program to meet the staggering war-time needs for its Wasp engines.

Pratt & Whitney actually began preparing for the present emergency when it was founded in 1925. From the very beginning it developed sources of supply for engine parts under a sub-contracting system which provided the maximum possible flexibility. Over the years, the sub-contractors became regular suppliers, ready to expand in time of emergency.

Pratt & Whitney Plans for Future

When European war clouds began to gather, Pratt & Whitney went to its regular sub-contractors, determined how much more they could supply and what help they would require. At its own expense Pratt & Whitney trained new sub-contractors.

The second phase came when Great Britain and France were hurriedly strengthening their air forces. They turned to Pratt & Whitney for engines. Pratt & Whitney plants

Led by Major M. K. Peyton, the four fliers were returning to Guadalcanal from a raid on Kolombangara Island when they spotted the mass flight of enemy planes 30 miles away. Regardless of odds, they made a bee line for the Japs and in a few minutes had intercepted them. In the rousing dog fight that ensued the air was thick with Zeros. One Corsair was surrounded by a swarm of enemy planes and went down fighting. A second chased one Zero, knocked it down and lost contact with the other planes. That left the Major and one other pilot facing 39 fighters and bombers. Adopting scissoring tactics, developed to an extraordinary degree. Six super-radio stations blanket the world, each capable of communicating with aircraft at any point on the globe. Along these sky lanes thousands of converted bombers and airliners are saving precious days in getting critical materials, officers and men to the fighting fronts. For example, the route to Australia which requires three weeks by surface transportation has been spanned regularly in less than two days.

Return with Priceless Cargo.

Returning, the airplanes are loaded with vitally necessary strategic materials without which war plants could hardly continue tungsten and block mica from the Far East, platinum from the Persian Gulf, beryl ore, quartz crystals, and industrial diamonds from South Africa, crude rubber from Brazil. Within the Western Hemisphere, the Army Air Transport Command alone is flying more than one million pounds of freight a week.

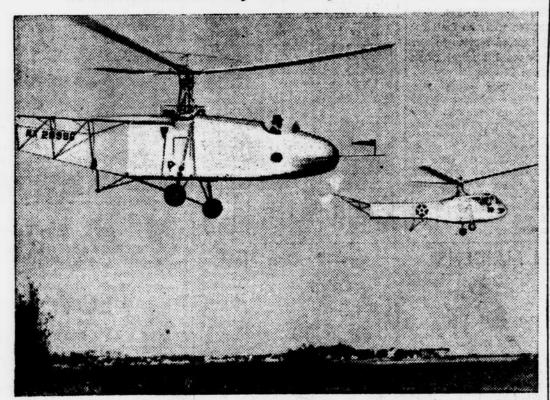

Among the two-engine converted passenger liners now in use are the familiar Douglas DC-3, the Boeing 247, the swift Lockheed Lodestar and the new giant Curtiss Commando. Converted four-engine land planes, formerly passenger carriers, include the Boeing Stratoliner and the huge Douglas DC-4. Flying boats are represented by

Among the converted bombers are the Consolidated Liberator Express land plane, the Consolidated Catalina and Coronado flying boats and the Martin Mariner patrol bomber. The engines of all the planes in these services are the radial air-cooled type, the report stated.

Commenting on the OWI report, officers of United Aircraft Corporation pointed out that Pratt & Whitney engines and Hamilton Standard propellers are used on the great majority of the airplanes operating over these global routes.

Nash-Kelvinator Teams up with United Aircraft to Build Sikorsky Helicopters for U.S. Army

Two types of Sikorsky helicopters in flight - the original VS 300 and one of a fleet of YR4A's, now being built for the Army by the Sikorsky Aircraft division of United Aircraft Corporation. A later type, the YR6, will be built under license by Nash-Kelvinator

BRIDGEPORT, CONN .- The Sikorsky helicopter, first successful direct lift aircraft in the United States and already in production for the U.S. Army here at the Sikorsky Aircraft division of United Aircraft Corporation, will also be built by Nash-Kelvinator Corporation under contracts recently placed by the Army and under license arrangements with United Aircraft. The numbers to be built have not been announced but it is understood that the Nash-Kelvinator contract heralds the first large-scale production of helicopters in the world.

This makes the third product of United Aircraft to be built under license by Nash-Kelvinator. The concern is already in quan-

Kelvinator teamed up with the Sikorsky Aircraft division in producing helicopters," said Eugene E. Wilson, president of United Aircraft Corporation. "Such a task involves the highest degree of engineering skill and the closest cooperation on difficult technical prohlems and manufacturing techniques. Nash-Kelvinator is already doing an outstanding job of collaboration in producing our engines and propellers and we are confident that this new association will accelerate progress in the helicopter field.

"Here again the United States will have weapons for war in shorter time because of the cooperation of the aviation and automotive industries-further proof of the statetions as the Marine landing on Guadalcanal. She steamed into action at Pearl Harbor, Gilbert and Marshall, Wake, Marcus, Midway, the Solomons, Santa Cruz, and helped turn back the desperate assault on Guadalcanal in the memorable action of November 13-14. During all these brilliant actions, which cost her a total of 85 planes, she proved able not only to "dish it out" but also to "take it". On August 24 at Guadalcanal and again on October 26 at Santa Cruz she suffered considerable damage and each time was back in the fray within two weeks.

One of the Enterprise's busier days came during the fierce battle of the Santa Cruz Islands on October 26, 1942. The big carrier was being defended by the famed "Battleship X" whose surprise fire power destroyed at least 32 attacking aircraft. In this same action, the Enterprise did a bit of defending on her own account. Her anti-aircraft guns brought down 30 Jap planes, while her aerial

Builds Propellers For Two World Wars

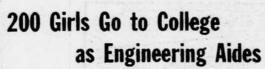

> EAST HARTFORD, CONN .- Eighty-fouryear-old Thomas A. Dicks, said to be the oldest employe in the aircraft industry, has helped build propellers for two World Wars. He started working on the dynamics of prothe business ever since. At his work as an engineering consultant of Hamilton Standard Propellers, Mr. Dicks recalls how as assistant foreman of tool design with Westinghouse in Pittsburgh he was first interested in aircraft propellers by Frank W. Caldwell, then in charge of propeller development at the Army's McCook Field at Dayton, Ohio, and now Director of Research of United Aircraft Corporation.

From that day to this, over 26 years, Mr. Dicks has taken an active part in the growth of the propeller industry as it harnesses the mighty horsepowers of modern aircraft engines with constantly increasing efficiency.

EAST HARTFORD, CONN .- In a move to meet the critical and growing need for air-craft engineers, the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft division of United Aircraft Corporation has established 200 fellowships for young women in nine selected colleges and universities.

The course of study includes mathematics, physics, chemistry, engineering, drawing, mechanics, metallurgy and industrial engineering. Each fellowship covers tuition, books, iees, room, board, laundry and a cash allowance to cover incidental expenses. The term of study runs 48 weeks. Institutions participating in the program include the University of New Hampshire, Brown, Michigan State, Ohio State, Syracuse, Illinois, Wis-consin, Minnesota and North Carolina State. The first group of students are already in their fourth month of study. Other groups

For her gallant combat record the Enterprise has received a Presidential unit citation, hrst carrier in U.S. history to be so honored. The Navy added that the Enterprise is still afloat, still fighting. In the words of one of her squadron commanders, "You can certainly say this for the Old Lady: 'Wherever anything is happening in this war, she's there and in the thick of it."

Products of United Aircraft Corporation constituted an important part in the striking power of the Enterprise. Pratt & Whitney engines power the Devastator torpedo planes and the Wildcat fighters. Hamilton Standard propellers drive the Dauntless scout bombers and Devastator torpedo planes.

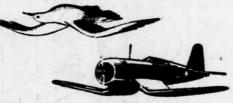

Inverted Gull Wing

Vought Head Tells How Navy's Corsair Fighter Got Its Shape

Piques Curiosity

STRATFORD, CONN .- Seeing more and more Vought Corsairs in the skies, aircraft spotters along the east coast have been asking the reason for the inverted gull wing design which helps make this Navy fighter so easy to recognize.

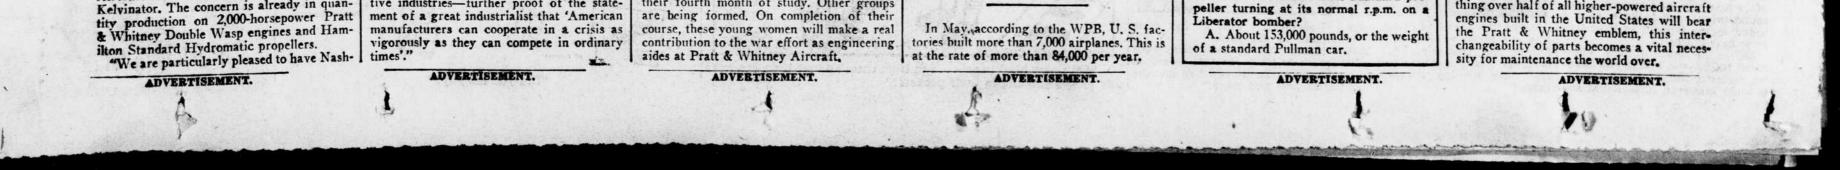

Rex B. Beisel, general manager of United Aircraft's Chance Vought division, creators of this fastest shipboard fighter, explains the 'why" of the inverted gull wing in this way. The Corsair is built around the 2,000-horsepower Pratt & Whitney engine, 50 per cent more powerful than any hitherto available. To harness such power in a fighter meant employing a propeller with a diameter of more than 13 feet. To enable a propeller of such dimensions to swing clear of the deck would, by orthodox design procedure, call for a long heavy landing gear difficult to retract into the wing. Engineers went to work on the problem and came up with the inverted gull wing, with a short, light gear that fits into the apex of the V angle, saving weight and providing ample clearance for the propeller. At the Corsair lines resemble an inverted gull same time they solved another problem. The inverted gull design allows the wing to stem from the fuselage at a perfect right angle, acrodynamically the most efficient position. The inverted gull design has other important advantages. It provides improved vision laterally for the pilot, because of the low wing points. When wings are folded, it also results in a lower overall height of the airplane when stored in the carrier under-were expanded. The orders placed at that time by foreign governments provided the first opportunity to get into quantity production. It was a dress rehearsal for the big show still to come.

The third phase developed when the fall of France in June, 1940, brought into being a vast American aircraft program. The need for engines became greater than any one manufacturer could possibly handle. Pratt & Whitney, therefore, suggested that the automobile industry be enlisted to help meet the demand by building engines under license at no profit to Pratt & Whitney Aircraft. In the meantime, it and the other established engine builders would hold the line.

Auto Companies Now Building Wasps

As a result of this step. Ford and Nash-Kelvinator today are building the mighty 2,000-hp. Double Wasp, Buick and Chevrolet are building the 1.200-hp. Twin Wasp. Continental the 600-hp. Wasp and Jacobs the 450-hp. Wasp Junior. To make possible greater speed in production, each licensee company is concentrating upon a single type.

The American aircraft program has been upped time and again since then. Now Pratt & Whitney itself has gone into a fourth phase to step up its own vast production even more. This is taking two forms.

A great engine arsenal is being rushed to completion at Kansas City, Mo., which will concentrate upon the Double Wasp. It is to be operated at neither profit nor loss by the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Corporation of Missouri, a new subsidiary of United Aircraft Corporation.

Pratt & Whitney has also enlarged the capacity of the main plant by development of a system of satellite plants in neighboring communities. They supply engine parts to be assembled at East Hartford. This satellite system provides a great expansion in facilities, without concentrating operations unduly at one spot and further complicating the housing and transportation problems.

Teamwork Builds Engines Fast

The wholehearted cooperation which has marked relations between the automotive group and Pratt & Whitney makes their teamwork one of the industrial epics of the war. While Pratt & Whitney itself was delivering all types of its engines in ever growing numbers and was working at top speed to engineer changes dictated by battle experience, it was also helping bring the auto companies into production. It supplied its designs and the know how gained over a long period of years.

The rigid system of mass production to which the auto companies were accustomed was not applicable to aircraft engine production. The licensee companies therefore adopted the flexible methods of quantity production as developed by Pratt & Whitney. As volume has grown, a new technique for quantity production of complicated aircraft engine building is evolving with all companies contributing their ideas and experience.

So perfectly have the designs been followed that parts built by Pratt & Whitney and its licensees can be assembled to make a perfectly functioning engine. Inasmuch as something over half of all higher-powered aircraft
