Agencies Funds Bill O. K.'d; Job Approval Cut

Senate Also Passes Deficiency Measure In Last Minutes

(Earlier Story on Page A-1.) Both houses of Congress this afternoon abandoned a plan to require Senate confirmation of employees of 18 war agencies in the higher salary brackets in order to send the $29,000,000,000 war agencies bill to the White House.

The Senate earlier passed and sent to the White House a $253,256,000 "catch-all" second deficiency appropriations bill in which it agreed to abandon its amendment to revive the Federal Crop Insurance Corp.

It acted on a conference report adopted earlier by the House.

The House acted first on the job confirmation issue and a few minutes later the Senate agreed without a rollcall to give up its fight for the McKellar job confirmation amendment. This sent the war agencies bill to the President, and left only the $1,377,010,010 labor-Federal security bill to be finished up later in the evening.

Taking up the confirmation proposal late in the day, the House refused to give the Senate power to confirm or reject such appointees. This left it up to the Senate to retreat in its stand or delay recess of Congress.

By a rollcall vote of 260 to 89 the House rejected a compromise in the war agencies appropriation bill which would have given the Senate confirmatory powers over future employees who receive more than $5,500.

Littell Attacks Navy Defense Of Oil Contract

Justice Aide Asserts President's Orders Were Avoided

(Earlier Story on Page A-3.)
By the Associated Press.
Assistant Attorney General Norman M. Littell declared today the Navy Department had avoided President Roosevelt's "clear instructions" to condemn the Elk Hills petroleum reserve and criticized the Navy's defense of its contract with Standard Oil Co. of California for development of the reserve.

Mr. Littell's statement, filed with the House Public Lands Committee, also termed "incredibly naive" a statement in the Navy's report, made yesterday, that Standard would have lost millions of dollars by the contract, which has been ordered canceled.

Declaring the Navy had neglected to quote pertinent parts of the President's letter of March, 1942, in which he defined procedures to be followed at Elk Hills, Mr. Littell contended the Navy report "risks to the proportion of a major deception in its treatment of the presidential letter."

No emphasis was placed in the Navy report, he asserted, on the President's concluding instruction that "if satisfactory arrangements cannot be promptly concluded with the owners of property in the reserve, then you are authorized to institute condemnation proceedings through the Department of Justice."

Instead, Mr. Littell asserted, "a contract in no respect in compliance with the President's instructions was executed and put into effect."

"The Navy report," he continued, "does not even contemplate that what is described as a great loss of oil, due to drainage from Government lands to Standard's properties, could be stopped tomorrow by condemnation. This patent omission from the naval report on my testimony, and avoidance of the President's clear instructions to condemn, forces me to state that the recognition of condemnation as a solution may be long overdue."

The Justice Department official contended Navy testimony showed certain technical details of the Elk Hills reserve in the past which, he argued, could have been prevented at any time.

"For the past two weeks," Mr. Littell declared, "the highly skilled experts, technical and legal staffs of the Standard Oil Co. of California as well as Navy Department personnel, has been concentrated upon my report."

Derides Defense.
"Facing this array with my own humble, technical staff, I have felt somewhat like an early Christian waiting in the center of the arena for the lions to be let loose to tear me limb from limb. But instead of lions there come dashing out of the cages a lot of kittens. But the drama of their mewling fills the public arena."

Mr. Littell added that while investigation of the contract continues, oil is not being drained, but extracted, from Government properties at Elk Hills.

Action Clears Way to Recess By Tomorrow

Conferees Ordered To Accept Modified Version of House Bill

BULLETINS.
In an administration victory, both houses of Congress today abandoned efforts to outlaw subsidy payments for wartime food price rollbacks. They sent to the White House legislation continuing the Commodity Credit Corp. for six months—without the subsidy ban that ran head-on into a presidential veto a week ago.

With both houses speedily disposing of current business, Senate Majority Leader Barkley drafted a resolution under which the Congress may recess tonight until September 14. The Senate was expected to act first on the resolution.

(Earlier Story on Page A-1.) Bowing to threats of a veto, the Senate abandoned by a 34- to 33 vote today a legislative prohibition against the payment of food price subsidies.

The action paves the way for a summer recess of Congress tonight or tomorrow.

On the vote, the Senate instructed its conferees to accept a modified version of a House-approved bill extending the life of the Commodity Credit Corp. for six months and enlarging its borrowing power from $2,650,000,000 to $3,000,000,000.

Clears Way for House Bill.
The action cleared the way for formal approval of the modified House bill, which—unlike the Senate version—contains no mention of subsidies, and thus permits continuation of the present meat-butter payments. The Senate had voted to prohibit Government payments to processors to cut the retail price of such foods as meat and butter.

The conferees quickly carried out the instructions of the Senate, and within an hour brought the bill back with the ban on subsidies removed. It was adopted without debate and without a roll call.

The House is expected to act during the afternoon.

It was brought out in the debate that if the conferees had filed a formal disagreement report, it would have had to go to the House, where a majority might have accepted the Senate's ban on subsidies.

Best against its will, the bill would have been back on the President's desk in substantially the same form in which he vetoed it last week, and adjournment for the summer would have been postponed indefinitely.

Before the Senate acted, Senator Maloney, Democrat of Connecticut told his colleagues that if he persisted in retaining the prohibition against rollback subsidies the bill would face "a certain veto" by President Roosevelt.

Fight Against Yielding.
Senator George, Democrat, of Georgia commented he thought the Congress is "traveling a long way from representative Government," if a majority allowed a presidential veto to force it to acquiesce in subsidies against its will.

"The American people will certainly ask in 1944 who dictates the policies of this Government," he said. "Are they dictated by the..."

Wounded Death Rate In African Campaign Reaches Record Low

Gen. Kirk Ascribes Saving of Many Lives To Surgery and Plasma

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 8.—Major Gen. Thomas Kirk, surgeon general of the Army, said today that the death rate in the Army's evacuation hospitals during the African campaign was between 2 1/2 and 3 1/2 per cent of admissions and was "the lowest rate of any army at any time."

Gen. Kirk said at a press conference that during the last war the mortality rate was 15 per cent, and ascribed the modern low percentage to plasma, excellent and advanced surgery and the use of sulfa drugs.

Plasma, given at the front lines, resulted in saving lives which would have been lost if means were not available for treating shock cases, he said, adding also that "the cream of surgery in America, the middle-aged and the younger men who have been teaching" were stationed at evacuation hospitals at the front.

"Death on the battlefield often comes from shock and hemorrhage," he said. "Plasma, plus surgery, is the answer. If infection sets in later, it is controlled by sulfa drugs."

Turning to the South Pacific theater, Gen. Kirk asserted that "malaria is our big enemy; for every battle casualty there are two cases of malaria down out."

He listed the total Army casualties to date, exclusive of Attu and the recent Guadalcanal offensive, as 7,500 dead; 17,128 wounded and 22,687 missing.

Army casualties in the South and Southwest Pacific area, until the start of the present offensive, were, he said, 1,864 killed; 3,500 wounded; 1,236 missing, and 156 prisoners of war.

Ickes Acts to Set Up Permanent Program Of Coal Distribution

Seeks to Know 'Where And to Whom' Anthracite Went Last Season

By the Associated Press.
Secretary of the Interior Ickes, as solid fuels administrator, ordered the anthracite industry today to report immediately "where and to whom" the approximately 58,000,000 tons of commercial hard coal were distributed in the last burning season.

A temporary program for controlling anthracite distribution to assure equitable distribution of short supplies has been in effect since June 22, and Mr. Ickes said the new order was a step toward the permanent program of allocation for rationing he is developing.

The reports, he said, will make it possible "to estimate fairly closely the requirements of each community in the anthracite consuming area and to take into account wartime shifts in population, conversions from fuel oil and other factors. We must have this information available to complete the permanent hard-coal distribution program which is now being developed. A carefully integrated plan is required to prevent inequities in meeting anthracite requirements next winter because of wartime shifts in distribution."

The study will cover distribution during the "coal year" April 1, 1942, to March 31, 1943.

"Some 200 producers, wholesalers and dock operators will file by July 26 reports showing distribution by sizes of coal, method of transportation and how tonnage was distributed among various types of consumers, including power plants and railroads."

Gen. Smuts Thought Victor In South African Election

By the Associated Press.

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, July 8.—Although the outcome of yesterday's parliamentary elections will not be known for at least two weeks, political observers predicted today that Prime Minister Jan Christiaan Smuts and his coalition government would be returned to office by a comfortable majority.

Main issue in the election, which drew a near-record vote, was the question of whether the Union of South Africa is to continue to participate actively in the war.

Premier Smuts' chief opponent, Dr. D. F. Malan, Nationalist Party leader, campaigned on the promise that "if we gain power our policy is to cease active participation in the war."

The Smuts party holds 72 of Parliament's 153 seats, and has been supported by the Dominion, Labor and Native parties, which together control 15 seats.

Guard Fires Gun Accidentally in White House

By the Associated Press.

A shot sounded in the White House offices today.

It nicked the plaster and made a hole in the wall of a downstairs corridor without injuring any one. One of the soldier guards at the White House was taking a riot gun away to be cleaned and inspected and had removed the magazine, but not the one cartridge left in the chamber. The remaining one was fired accidentally and created a moment of extreme excitement.

U. S. Denies Seeking Control of Press at Hearing on A. P. Suit

No Evidence of Monopoly Offered by Government, News Service Declares

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 8.—The Government renewed its charge that the Associated Press operates in violation of antitrust laws in court arguments today and the A. P. countered that "the Government has submitted no evidence" that the co-operative had monopolized the gathering and dissemination of news.

Attorneys for the antitrust division of the Department of Justice asked a three-judge Federal court for a summary judgment—verdict without trial—which was opposed by the Associated Press.

Charles B. Rugg, a special assistant to the Attorney General, opening arguments for the Government, told the court that in this case the Government is "not seeking to control or regulate the operation of the press of the country" nor abridge freedom of the press.

John Henry Lewin, another special assistant, who concluded the Government's arguments, said the AP's operations represent a "primary boycott of the type which has been uniformly banned under the provisions" of the Sherman antitrust law.

AP Brief Presented.
Timothy Pflieger, one of counsel for the Associated Press, presented a brief in opposition to the Government's contentions that AP's restrictive membership operations were monopolistic.

"Throwing open to any newspaper wishing its service would destroy the foundation upon which the co-operative enterprise has been created," the AP brief said.

In asking for summary judgment, the Government seeks to have the case decided on documentary presentation without testimony.

Mr. Rugg said there were four facts which "have not been controverted" which, he said, were sufficient to make the taking of testimony unnecessary.

Four Points Raised.
Mr. Rugg listed the uncontroverted facts as:

1. The Associated Press is engaged in interstate commerce.
2. The by-laws of the Associated Press contain a provision making its news service exclusive to its members.
3. That in its 43 years of existence the AP has interpreted these by-laws so as to deny services to non-members.
4. That the AP occupies an outstanding position "in the industry of gathering and collating world news."

"No substantial or genuine issue exists as to the fact that the AP occupies a pre-eminent position in the industry of gathering and collating world news."

Army Planes Get New Insignia to Aid Recognition

By the Associated Press.

A new airplane wing insignia has been ordered for all Army planes.

The War Department announced today the new insignia consists of a white star on a circular field of blue, a white rectangle attached horizontally at both right and left of the circle and a red border enclosing the entire device.

The department said that the new insignia was developed because the present device can be confused with Japan's red dot and Germany's black cross on a wider white cross when seen from a distance.

Nats Lose 8th Game In 11 Starts on Tour To Cleveland, 5-2

Indians Batter Pyle for 6 Extra-Base Hits in First 3 Innings

By BURTON HAWKINS, Star Staff Correspondent.
CLEVELAND, July 8.—The Nationals lost their eighth game in 11 starts on their current Western trip today, dropping a 5-2 decision to Cleveland in a morning contest as the Indians pounded on Ewald Pyle for six extra-base blows in the first three innings to grasp a 4-1 lead.

Washington scored in the first inning after George Case and George Myatt, installed at second base for the slump-slacked Gerald Priddy, walked successfully. Stan Spence sacrificed and Case scored after Bob Johnson fled to right.

Lou Boudreau's second successive double, with the bases filled in the second inning, fetched the Indians' two runs, and they added two more in the third inning as Ken Keltner and Mickey Rocco doubled and Ray Mack tripled to blast Pyle from the mound, Haefner taking over.

The Indians boosted their lead to 5-1 in the fifth as Rocco smashed his third straight double off the right-field fence to score Buddy Rosar, while Johnson's double and Jake Early's single produced Washington's other run in the sixth.

Vernon collected four of the Nats' seven hits off Rookie Al Reynolds, while Rocco's three doubles paced the Indians' nine-hit run.

FIRST INNING.
WASHINGTON—Case walked. So did Myatt. Spence sacrificed. Reynolds to Mack, who covered first. Johnson fled to Cullentine. Case scoring after the catch, Myatt holding second. Moore fanned. One run.

CLEVELAND—Myatt threw out Hockett. Boudreau doubled to left. Cullentine fled to Moore. Boudreau holding second. Keltner walked. Myatt threw out Edwards.

SECOND INNING.
WASHINGTON—Early fanned. Vernon beat out a slow roller to Mack. Sullivan took a third strike. Pyle fled to Hockett.

CLEVELAND—Rosar walked. Rocco doubled off the right-field fence. Rosar skipping at third. Mack walked, filling the bases. Reynolds fanned. Hockett lined to Moore, the runners holding their bases. Boudreau doubled off the right-field fence scoring Rosar and Rocco. Mack stopping at third. Cullentine fled to Case. Two runs.

THIRD INNING.
WASHINGTON—Case fled to Hockett. Myatt went out the same way. So did Spence.

CLEVELAND—Keltner doubled to right. Edwards fled to Case. Keltner holding second. Myatt dropped Rosar's pop fly in short right field but when Keltner tried to take third

Uniform Freight Rates Proposed in House Bill

By the Associated Press.
Uniform freight rates throughout the Nation are proposed in a bill by Representative Harris, Democrat, of Arkansas, who said it "is only fair, just and right that we have the same opportunities in every section of this country for development."

Mr. Harris said the present rate structure, under investigation by the Interstate Commerce Commission, favored the North against the South and West by giving the North lower rates than prevail in the other areas.

Germans Claim New, More Powerful Tank

By the Associated Press.
German military circles were quoted in a Transocean Agency dispatch broadcast from Berlin today as saying that Nazi tanks of a new design and even heavier than the 60-ton Mark VI Tigers were being sent into the battle of Kursk.

"Details of these super-Tigers are still treated as a military secret," said the broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press.

Murder Warrant Sworn In Drowning of Family

By the Associated Press.
RICHMOND, July 8.—A warrant charging Walter Paul Harrison, 31-year-old streetcar operator with the murder of his wife and four children was sworn to today by police and Commonwealth's Attorney C. E. Maurice said he will present the case to the Hustings Court Part II grand jury Monday.

The man's wife, Mrs. Mary Estelle Harrison, 30, and four boys ranging in age from 6 weeks to 10 years, were drowned in a water-filled quarry near Stop 8 1/2, Petersburg pike, June 25, when the family automobile in which they were seated rolled backward into the water. A fifth child, a girl, was sitting beside the car.

Harrison was arrested June 28, the day after he returned from Purdy, where the funerals for his wife and children were held. He was committed to jail in default of a $5,000 bond, on a warrant charging him of suspicion of murder.

Treasury Has 'a Hundred' Tax Ideas, Secretary Says

By the Associated Press.
Treasury Secretary Morgenthau said today a proposal for an excess profits tax on war-swollen personal incomes was "only one of a hundred" tax ideas that would be considered in drafting a new revenue measure.

He declined to commit himself on the plan, which the House Ways and Means Committee has mentioned as a possibility.

Mr. Morgenthau told his press conference he had nothing else to report on tax legislation except that the Treasury's tax expert, Randolph Paul, met yesterday with Colin F. Stam, chief of staff of the Joint Congressional Tax Committee, for preliminary discussion of the new revenue bill.

Sir Harry Oakes Dies At His Nassau Home

By the Associated Press.
NASSAU, Bahamas, July 8.—Sir Harry Oakes, one of the richest men in the world, died at his home here last night.

The body was found this morning and officials immediately launched an investigation.

(AP Miami, Fla., the Daily News said Detective Capt. James J. Baker and Capt. E. W. Melchen of the homicide squad had been summoned to Nassau this morning on a secret mission.)

Sir Harry, who was made a British baron in 1938, was born at Sangerville, Me., December 23, 1874. He maintained homes at Niagara Falls, Ontario; London, Palm Beach and Nassau.

Sir Harry, whose fortune has been estimated as high as $200,000,000, has many enterprises here, and is the largest real estate owner on the island of New Providence.

After 15 years of unsuccessful search for gold, and after traveling to the Yukon, the Philippines, Australia and elsewhere, he discovered a rich vein by accident.

The story is told that he was put off a train at Kirkland Lake, in Ontario, and stumbled upon gold as a result. One of his mines was said to be the second richest in the world.

The gathering of world news, Mr. Rugg asserted. Mr. Rugg also told the court the contract of the Associated Press with the Canadian Press and the contract by which the AP acquired Wide World Photos, Inc., represent a combination and conspiracy in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Mr. Rugg told the court that in "effectively denying to some competing newspapers the right to obtain news and news pictures furnished by the A. P., its members the co-operative operated as a monopoly.

The Government attorney said one of the questions involved was whether the by-law of the Associated Press required each of its "more than 1,200 members to furnish local spontaneous news to the A. P. exclusively" and declared "that forbidding the furnishing by members of their employees" of such news to non-members was in violation of the anti-trust law.

Mr. Rugg said that "the decrees proposed would not prevent the defendant from publishing anything they desire and the relief we seek is in harmony with the ideal of the First Amendment to the Constitution," Mr. Lewin said.

The Government has charged the Associated Press with acting in restraint of trade by not making available its world-wide news report to all newspapers financially able to pay their proportionate share of the cost of operations.

Membership Structure Defended. The Associated Press defended its membership structure on the premise that members have the right to choose their associates in the news-gathering field and maintained that without some degree of exclusivity news gathered by the organization would lose much of its asset value built up over long years by the members who paid for its expansion and improvement.

Mr. Rugg said that when Marshall Field, publisher of the Chicago Sun, fell to obtain Associated Press membership he sought the service of a Press Association, an AP subsidiary supplying AP news to radio stations. Mr. Rugg added that Mr. Field was told Press Association's service was available only to radio stations.

Mr. Field then sought, Mr. Rugg continued, to obtain the AP Picture Service, but was told it was available only to members of the Associated Press. Mr. Field, he said, then took United Press service and was unable to obtain International News Service because of a special contract which had been held with another Chicago newspaper.

Mr. Rugg said Mr. Field's attempt to buy Acme Picture Service was unavailing because Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, held exclusive rights to Acme in Chicago.

The attorney said the Chicago Sun sought proxies from Associated Press members to support his application for AP membership, but obtained none.

Rugg said that 11 employees of the Chicago Tribune interviewed more than 500 members of the Associated Press when Mr. Field sought membership and, that as a result of interviews the Sun's application was denied.

105 Applications Rejected. During the history of A. P. Mr. Rugg asserted, 105 applications for membership had been turned down. He told the court the steps a paper took in seeking AP membership and said:

"These are barriers inviting mechanics for a selective boycott." Mr. Rugg said no paper could get up AP news or pictures unless the applicant did business in a locality where there was no competing AP paper in either the same morning or afternoon field.

Mr. Rugg said that press association had been "very active in soliciting business" and it had refused service to only one station. Mr. Lewin, who concluded the Government's argument, said the Associated Press operations represented "a primary boycott of the type which has been uniformly banned under the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust law."

STILL IN THERE PITCHING—"Sleepy Jim" Crowley of Notre Dame Four Horsemen and Fordham fame has abandoned the soporific system which gained him football success with reversion to work at restoring health to war casualties.

Now a lieutenant commander in the Navy, Crowley is recreation director of a fleet recreation center somewhere back of the South Pacific front and supervises "occupational therapy" for the ill and wounded. Using a coconut for a football, he is shown explaining the art of forward passing to Mike Ryan of New Zealand, Frank Bono of Norristown, N. J., and Jim Goza of Durant, Okla.

Incapacitated during the Pacific campaign, Lt. Col. James Roosevelt (right), son of the President, turns over command of his Marine "raider" group to his executive officer, Maj. Charles S. Banks, 26, of Newark, N. J., at the recreation center. Col. Roosevelt has returned to the States to recuperate.

copy before publication is subject to regulation and control of Congress and that Congress intended to regulate it in the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Unpublished Copy Immune. "Copy prior to publication by printing is as immune against expropriation by other means as a clergyman's sermon or prayer prior to utterance from the pulpit or altar; as a judge's decision prior to utterance from the bench; as a jury's verdict prior to utterance in the courtroom; as a voter's ballot prior to utterance by deposit in the official box."

"This case involves the ancient natural right of any free man who puts his thoughts into writing to retain his exclusive copy, and to print or otherwise use or dispose of that copy as he sees fit, without restraint."

Members of the Associated Press have the same privilege and freedom of using these thoroughfares (teletype, telephone, etc.) for the distribution of their thoughts in copy that the men of Virginia enjoyed when they sent word along the dusty highway to the sons of liberty in Boston that the hour to resist oppression had arrived. The integrity of their right of communication is just as secure. Their communication is copy.

"It is considering whether A. P. is subject to any common law obligation to serve all comers," the Associated Press' brief continued, "one must go beyond the precedents dealing with news gathering agencies, since the gathering of news is but a preliminary step to the publication of a newspaper. News agencies exist solely to supply newspapers with news."

"It has uniformly been held that the publication of newspapers is strictly a private business and subject to no duties as common law as to who shall be served or in what manner. Thus it has been uniformly held that newspapers may accept or reject advertising as they see fit; that they may refuse to publish any material submitted by governmental authorities, and that they may elect any means or channels of distribution that they please."

Strange Result. "It would indeed be a strange result if newspapers were free to conduct their business as a strictly private enterprise in every respect but the gathering of news, without which there would be no papers to publish."

"If news gathering were subjected to regulation at the hands of the Government, newspapers would necessarily be regulated also. If a newspaper may not join others in the collection of news on a co-operative basis for mutual benefit of the participants without running afoul of governmental interference, the extent and character of the news which the paper can publish is limited accordingly."

"If the means whereby papers obtain news can be thus circumscribed, the Government can control prior to publication the news available to the reading public in a manner far more subtle, but no less direct, than censorship."

"News gathering on anything like its present scale would be impossible if the right to exclusive use of the news report were denied. Newspapers would not pay the cost of

Simplified System Of Pricing Groceries Is Issued by OPA

Won't Apply in Areas Where Dollars-and-Cents Ceilings Are in Effect

By the Associated Press. The Office of Price Administration, responding to demands for a simplification of food-pricing methods, today issued over-all fixed markup regulations, under which most groceries will be priced by sellers.

The new regulations become effective August 5. The result will be: Wholesalers will price most dry groceries under one regulation, instead of a great many. Retailers will have one regulation for almost all dry groceries and perishables except meat.

Major grocery store commodities not covered are beer, liquors, candy, bread, milk, ice cream, fresh fish and tobacco.

The regulations supply the fixed markups which wholesalers and retailers will apply to net cost to establish their ceiling prices. OPA said its studies indicate that the markups provided will maintain the same general level of prices in effect April 8, the date of President Roosevelt's holding-in-order.

The new markups will not apply where community-wide retail dollars and cents ceilings are in effect.

Hull May Reconsider Agreement on Relief

By the Associated Press. Senator Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan, told the Senate today that Secretary of State Hull has agreed to reconsider a projected agreement for participation in a United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration, in view of questions whether it constitutes a treaty.

Declaring he had no quarrel with the subject matter of the draft agreement published by the State Department, Senator Vandenberg asserted the question is whether the Senate should pass on the proposed pact, as it is required to do with treaties.

Senator Vandenberg reported that a Senate foreign relations subcommittee conferred with the Secretary yesterday and as a result, the Senator's resolution calling for an investigation of the procedure "is under mutual consideration."

Mr. Hull expressed belief earlier that a final agreement on postwar rehabilitation machinery would be reached among the United Nations without serious delay.

In a note to the State Department last week, the Netherlands government stated its plan for a four-power central committee of the United States, Great Britain, China and Soviet Russia did "not seem compatible with democratic principles."

Asked about the effect of such obligations on plans for a United Nations conference on the subject, Mr. Hull said he did not think any such serious or difficult questions were being raised as would seriously delay a final agreement.

Boiler Invented in Prison Wins Medal for Russian

MOSCOW, July 8.—Prof. Leonid Ramzin was awarded the Order of Lenin and the Stalin prize of 150,000 rubles for designing a "uniform" boiler which is reported to save from 12 to 14 per cent in fuel, it was announced today.

The ruble has a "nominal" value of about 10 cents, but its true purchasing power cannot be determined accurately because there is no free market.

Prof. Ramzin designed the "uniform" boiler in 1931 while serving a prison sentence incurred while he was leader of the "Prom" industrial party. Later on he was rehabilitated and is now chief of the "uniform" boiler department of the Commissariat of Heavy Industry. The boiler has been ordered into serial production.

Secret Radio Urging Italians to Revolt

ALGIERS, July 8.—Tunisi radio monitors said today that a clandestine Italian station identifying itself as "Radio Italo Balbo" had openly urged the Italian people in broadcasts for the last three nights to overthrow Premier Mussolini.

The Italian station was quoted as saying: "The perverted Italians of the present Fascist party are doomed to die in disgrace. Italians, this group of faithful disciples of the Great Marshal Balbo appeals to your morality as Catholics. The scandals that soil our people must cease and criminals must be punished."

(Marshal Balbo, air and military hero of Italy, was killed on a flight over Tobruk in June, 1940.)

new thrust constituted the second prong of a pincers closing in on the Japanese. At dusk tonight a flight of Liberator heavy bombers unloaded explosive bombs on Southern Bougainville Island, which is not the enemy's major air operating base in the Solomons. This was the first strike our heavy bombers have been able to make on the Key Kahili base since the New Georgia offensive started. That enemy territory has been closed in by a tropical weather front for days. Returning pilots reported seeing a gasoline dump afire.

Ordnance Observers Report Enemy Has No Superior Weapons

By WALTER McCALLUM.

Revealing that special ordnance observers have been assigned to all active theaters of operation to spot captured enemy ordnance and report to the War Department in advance of actual shipment of the captured material to this country, Col. Scott B. Ritchie, an American Army ordnance officer, says our enemies have "mystery" weapons or any weapon of firepower superior to standard American ordnance.

Many specimens of captured enemy ordnance have been received at Aberdeen, Md., one of the major United States Army ordnance testing and proving grounds. Col. Ritchie makes the statements in "Army Ordnance" published by the Army Ordnance Association.

Officers and enlisted men assigned to spotting enemy war materiel are equipped to be the eyes and ears of the ordnance department. They are attached to G-3 in the Army table of organization, but their technical mission is performed under the direction of the chief of ordnance.

Good Points "Lifted." At the same time Maj. Gen. Levin H. Campbell, Jr., chief of ordnance, revealed that ordnance engineers and scientists at the Aberdeen Proving Ground make use of any "good" enemy idea, adding that the enemy infrequently has a good ordnance idea.

"This study of captured enemy equipment is just another instance of the way the enemy can be defeated—with the good features of his own weapons, if need be," said Gen. Campbell.

Another phase of the study of captured enemy weapons is their use by American troops against the enemy. Many thousands of pieces of enemy ordnance were captured in North Africa, and now are ready to be turned against their former users.

American ordnance experts study captured foreign weapons, and prepare operating and training manuals to be issued to American troops. "Considerable enemy equipment has already been furnished to troop units and schools for training purposes," says Col. Ritchie.

Some Kept Secret. Details of others can be revealed, among them the German 88-millimeter gun. The Nazi armies have employed several different sizes of guns using the tapered barrel principle, which squeezes the bullet and gives it high initial velocity. But the projectile loses its higher velocity early in flight and the gun is not more effective than the standard type—ranging greater than a few hundred yards.

The Japanese have made copies of many weapons used by other armies, but Japanese ordnance tends to be lighter and of inferior firepower, probably designed to give the smaller Jap soldier less weight to carry. It is obvious that Japanese ordnance mass produce high quality weapons over a long period of time to compete successfully with American weapons.

"The Germans," says Col. Ritchie, "are using much ersatz materials as plastics for gunstocks and steel for cartridge cases. It is quite evident that they have a thorough conservation program and are being increasingly forced to save on those materials which are critical in their economy."

"Neither Germany, Italy nor Japan has demonstrated any weapon superior in military effectiveness to the best American standard. It seems entirely logical that, as the war progresses, the superiority of American ordnance will become more pronounced as the impact of American design and productive ability is brought to bear in greater measure on the enemy. This, coupled with the courage and ability of our fighting forces and those of our allies, is the surest guarantee of ultimate victory."

Gen. Wood Named Chief Of 8th Air Force Supply

Brig. Gen. Myron R. Wood, whose home is at 4215 Vacation lane, Arlington, Va., has been appointed chief of the supply division of the 8th Air Force Service Command, according to a London dispatch of the Associated Press.

He will be in charge of supplying the thousands of items necessary for the repair and maintenance of all United States aircraft in the European theater of operations. He also will be responsible for procuring supplies and equipment for American troops being flown by the Royal Air Force.

Gen. and Mrs. Wood moved into the Arlington address about four years ago. Gen. Wood is a native of Boulder, Colo.

Krupa's Former Valet Seized as Draft Evader

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—The FBI today arrested John Patekos, 20, former valet to Drummer Gene Krupa, on draft evasion charges.

The Government charged Patekos was used by Krupa to carry marijuana cigarettes. Krupa was sentenced in San Francisco last week to one to three years on his conviction on a charge of inducing a minor to transport narcotics.

Patekos, missing since Krupa's arrest, told arresting officers that he had no intention of evading the draft. He added: "I got here from Chicago and this is the first permanent address I had for some time."

people through the votes of their representatives here or are they dictated by outside agencies?" Joining Senator George in the fight against yielding, Senator Tydings, Democrat, of Maryland declared that the Senate's action, without giving the House a chance to express itself on the Senate amendments means "in effect the legislative will is denied a chance to express itself."

"When we go home the people will say, 'We did not send Byrnes, Brown, Vinson or Jones. We sent you.' Is Congress to be passed all the time, or is it to face the issues?"

Senator Maloney, one of the Senate conferees, made the motion as an individual Senator to instruct the conferees to send the Senate's position. He and other Senate conferees explained that four of the five men appointed to represent the Senate had not supported the Senate's subsidy plan, and for that reason they felt a responsibility to surrender the will of the Senate majority in the conference room.

Senator Maloney said he made the motion giving the Senate a chance to instruct its conferees because, with the House conferees adamant, he saw no other way out of the deadlock.

Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, of Wyoming, is opposed to the rollback subsidies, but said he would support the Mahoney motion in the belief "it is the most effective way to preserve unity and continuity of Government action in the present situation." He told Republicans who questioned him that to let the Commodity Credit Corp. die would be more harmful than passing the extension of it without a ban on rollback subsidies. He predicted, however, the subsidy program will not prove effective and that by supporting the Mahoney motion he will be placing the responsibility on the executive.

Asks "Who Makes Laws." Senator George argued, however, that eight days have already elapsed since the Commodity Credit Act expired adding: "If we can revive it now we can revive it later."

At one point Senator George said that former Senator Brown, now price administrator, "for whom I have the highest respect, declared in this body that the law did not authorize subsidies except as the administrator would come back here and ask for the money."

The Georgia Senator said the question to be determined is, who makes the laws. "Are the Commissioners sitting in the office of every policy-making official of Government?"

Roosevelt Praises Work of Members Of Maritime Union

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 8.—President Roosevelt, in a letter read at the National Maritime Union (NMO) Convention today by its president, Joseph Curran, expressed appreciation for the "reaffirmation of your no-strike pledge for the duration."

"The men who sail our ships are doing a splendid job throughout the world and I feel sure they will continue to give their best efforts to the earliest possible conclusion of this world-wide struggle," the President said in the letter to Mr. Curran.

The President added that he approved the "announced cardinal purpose of this convention—to discuss ways and means to make our contribution to the war effort even greater than it is now."

"Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of June 29, 1943, dated in person by you together with enclosure outlining the record of the five torpedoed seamen who accompanied you at a conference held in my office on June 30. I am greatly interested in the account of each of the men present and realize some of the hardships they have undergone in defense of our country. They formed a most interesting group and it gave me great pleasure to receive them in person."

"It is of genuine interest to note that 12,000 members of your union proudly wear torpedoes on their lapels and I can only understand how much I appreciate the reaffirmation of your no-strike pledge for the duration."

"The men who sail our ships are doing a splendid job throughout the world and I feel sure they will continue to give their best efforts to the earliest possible conclusion of this world-wide struggle."

"I feel sure your fourth national convention convening in New York next week will be a success and I approve the announced cardinal purpose of this convention—to discuss ways and means to make our contribution to the war effort even greater than it is now."

Bates Released Again After Contempt Appeal

Harrison Bates, 47, and socially prominent writer, for the second time, found himself in the custody of the United States marshal when Justice James M. Proctor of District Court discharged a writ of habeas corpus obtained last Thursday, again was released on bond this afternoon pending an appeal from a contempt of court judgment.

Chief Justice Edward C. Elcher on June 30 had adjudged Mr. Bates in contempt in connection with failure to obey a court order to pay temporary maintenance to his wife, Dorothy Nicholas Bates of Chevy Chase, Md. The defendant was adjudged in contempt by virtue of being $650 behind in payments.

Last Thursday, after being held in custody for several hours on the contempt judgment, Mr. Bates was released on $2,000 bond pending the hearing today on the habeas corpus writ. Justice Proctor refused to allow Mr. Bates to remain on bail, pending appeal from the discharge writ. This afternoon, Arthur Hillard, Mr. Bates' attorney, filed a writ of habeas corpus judgment and took out a supersedeas bond of $1,000, pending the outcome of the appeal. The bond guarantees payment of the $650 in the event the appeal is lost.

Beef From Southwest Ranches Expected To Relieve Famine

By the Associated Press. COTTONWOOD FALLS, Kans., July 8.—Don't throw away that steak pan yet. A lot of beef is coming in from the hills and the plains. The thundering herd is on the march again: millions of pounds of beef from the grass ranges of the Southwest, is ready for market.

The ranges are beginning to dry up—a little later this year because of the heavy rains during the grazing season. Now the ranchers face the choice of selling their big herds or holding them and feeding expensive and scarce grains.

End of Beef Famine Seen. Some associated with the cattle industry believe the beef famine will be broken with a rush of grass-fed beef in the next two weeks.

Listen to Clint Squires, Beaumont, Tex. rancher, who in addition to running steers for himself handles hundreds of head for Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas cattlemen.

"We have had more rain this summer than in any season for several years," he says. "The grass is excellent and the cattle are making good gains." The season has arrived when the grass cures and the cattle put on finish.

The Blue Stem pastures of eastern Kansas and the rugged Osage country of northern Oklahoma are filled to capacity with grazing cattle—some 750,000 head.

July 15 is expected to see many of these moving eastward to market, dry cows and old steers first.

Packers Expect Higher Prices. Most cattlemen agree that younger stock will find its way to markets later in the summer and through the early fall, to meet the feeder demand.

Although forced into the market with a huge supply of fresh meat, the cattle will get a higher price than a year ago, Kansas City packers said. Grass-fed steers at the Kansas City stockyards yesterday were $11 to $13.50 a hundred pounds, as compared with $9.75 to $12.75 a year ago.

What portion of the beef will go to the civilian platter no packer in Kansas City was willing to hazard a guess.

Packers and cattlemen did agree, however, that the civilian supply will not be choice cuts, but meat fresh from the ranges—instead of the more tender feeder-lot beef.

Tobin Declares He Favors Taking Miners Into AFL

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, July 8.—Daniel J. Tobin, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, declares he favors affirmative action on the application of John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers for re-employment with the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Tobin's views were made known yesterday in an editorial under his signature appearing in the July issue of the International Teamster, official organ of his organization.

"I am strongly in favor of uniting the labor movement, and to that end I will do all I can to bring the miners back into the Federation," he declared.

Mr. Tobin is chairman of a committee of three appointed by the AFL executive council to confer with Mr. Lewis.

He said that "any one who insinuates that there is any political maneuvering on either side of this question doesn't understand the case," and added:

"... Unions within the Federation have free political choice, barring Communists. The Federation cannot force any one to vote other than in accordance with his conscience.

"If political officeholders interfere in any way in the cementing of the labor movement, I know that the men of labor would rebuke that political party or political officeholder."

Chinese Drive Japs From Town in Burma

By the Associated Press. CHUNGKING, July 8.—Chinese troops have driven the Japanese from Mengting, a Burma-Yunnan Province border town which the invaders occupied a week ago, and started them on a general retreat westward, a high command communique said today.

Several hundred casualties were reported inflicted in a brisk Chinese counterattack begun last Saturday.

"Those (Japanese) remaining are being rounded up, while retreating troops were waylaid and attacked by Chinese forces," the communique said.

Birthday Dinner to F. B. Noyes Marked by Tribute to His Wife

An unusual tribute to the late Mrs. Frank B. Noyes, who died last November 8, was paid at a dinner in honor of Frank B. Noyes, honorary president of the Associated Press and president of The Evening Star Newspaper Co. in New York City last night.

The dinner, given by Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, was in observance of Mr. Noyes' 80th birthday anniversary.

At Christmas, in 1941, Mrs. Noyes chose for her Christmas cards a poem she had written, "What Is Time?", which she printed and sent to many of her friends. One of them was Mr. Cooper, who, in addition to his work for the Associated Press, is known as a composer. Mr. Cooper, moved by the words of the poem, put them to music, but laid the work aside with the idea of playing it some time for Mrs. Noyes.

Her death intervened, but when Mr. Cooper had perfected the score he turned over the orchestra arrangement to his friend, Dr. Frank Black, musical director for the National Broadcasting Co. Last Friday evening, without previous announcement or identification of the work other than by its title, the song was sung on the Cities Service Hour radio program by Lucile Mann, accompanied by the Cities Service Orchestra and Chorus under direction of Dr. Black.

Neither Mr. Noyes nor his friends at dinner last evening knew of this background, which Mr. Cooper related in his greetings to Mr. Noyes, reviewing their 33 years of work together in the Associated Press. He then played a recording of the song, taken from the broadcast, and presented the record to Mr. Noyes as a birthday present.

The only speeches at the dinner were off-the-record talks by Henry C. Cassidy and Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press correspondents in Moscow. In addition to Mr. Noyes, Mr. Cooper and the correspondents, those present were: M. H. Aylesworth, Paul Bellamy, Dr. Black, George F. Booth, William L. Cheney, L. F. Curtis, John W. Harris, John L. Horn, Clarence E. Huntington, Kelland W. J. McCambridge, Col. Robert R. McCormick, B. M. McKelway, Robert McLean, Lloyd Stratton, Niles Trammell and John N. Wheeler.

Los Angeles Police Hunt Stolen Car and Baby

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, July 8.—A distraught mother kept anxious vigil at nearby Culver City police station early today while officers sought her automobile—stolen, she said, while her 15-month-old son was asleep in the back seat.

Mrs. Marie Clay, 30, told officers last night she parked the car near a roller-skating rink, and left it for a few minutes to watch the skaters. When she returned the car and the baby, Jimmy, were gone, she reported. Wrapped in blankets, the child probably was not noticed by the thief, she said.

Mrs. Clay said she first thought her husband, Hugh N. Clay, 31, a metal jlg operator, had come for the car, but later she located him at his work and he joined her in the watch at the police station.

Bill Curbing War Broker Fees Sent to President

By the Associated Press. The Senate sent to the White House today legislation designed to scale down "excessive" fees paid to "war brokers" by manufacturers for getting Government contracts and pass the saving along to the Treasury.

It is a substitute for a bill introduced last year which would have prohibited the payment of any contingent fees for services in procuring Government contracts.

The new measure does not prohibit the payment of such fees, but defines the arrangements between the agents and the manufacturers as subcontracts, and makes those subcontracts subject to the same renegotiation proceedings as the principal contracts between the manufacturer and the Government.

The bill covers only agents who receive $25,000 or more gross income a year from such commissions or fees. The provisions are retroactive to April 28, 1942, the effective date of the original renegotiation law.

Election Fund Inquiry Urges Strengthening Laws on Gifts

By the Associated Press. A special Senate committee appointed to investigate senatorial campaign expenditures in the 1942 elections reported yesterday that it had looked into charges in five States and recommended Federal action in none of them, but suggested strengthening of laws which prohibit senatorial campaign contributions from any corporation engaged in interstate commerce.

While voting unanimously to take no further action regarding the 1942 primary election in New Jersey, the committee found that radio time in behalf of Albert W. Hawkes, the successful candidate for the Republican nomination to the Senate and later elected to Congress, had been bought on Station WGR, and that the money paid the station had not been included in his reported campaign expenditures of $49,555.56.

New Jersey law permits a senatorial candidate to spend up to $50,000.

Referred to State Officials. The committee said it decided that "inasmuch as expenditures in the primary election at which Mr. Hawkes was nominated were limited and controlled by the laws of New Jersey, rather than by Federal statute, a statement of all of the facts in the matter, together with photographic copies of the documents pertaining thereto, should be referred to the attorney general of New Jersey for such action as he might see fit to take thereon."

Other charges originating in Oklahoma, West Virginia, Tennessee and New Hampshire were investigated, but no action was recommended.

In its general conclusions, however, the committee said serious consideration should be given to the subject of "shadow filings" by candidates with the same name or initials as other, better-known candidates, but added that "this is perhaps most effectively dealt with through State and party agencies."

Senator McFarland, Democrat of Arizona, is chairman of the committee. Other members are Senators Andrews, Democrat of Florida; Mead, Democrat of New York; Willis, Republican of Indiana and Aiken, Republican of Vermont.

Oklahoma Inquiry. The order permits States to develop, involve charges of fraud and corruption in a municipal election, when the committee held was outside its jurisdiction.

The committee's investigators said they were unable to obtain any evidence supporting very indefinite charges involving the candidacy of Senator Stewart in Tennessee's Democratic primary.

The Oklahoma investigation concerned the filing of Josh Lee, North-eastern Oklahoma farmer, as a candidate in the Democratic primary against the then Senator Josh Lee.

The State Election Board, Farmer Lee's name from the ballot and the committee found no further need for investigation. Former Senator Lee was defeated in the general elections by Senator Moore, a Republican.

5 District WACS Lead Sternly Disciplined Lives in North Africa

By THOMAS M. HENRY, Star Staff Correspondent. ALGIERS (By Mail)—In the shadowy cloisters of a century-old convent which they share with black-robed sisters, the company of WACS on duty here, including five Washington girls, leave the turmoil of war when they go to their quarters outside the hot, crowded city.

They stroll through cool, walled gardens of geraniums, daisies and bougainvilleas where, daisies and starchy night, the atmosphere is filled with the sound of bells calling to prayer. They wash at an open well in the inner courtyard, which is overlooked by a marble figure of the Good Shepherd holding a lamb in his arm.

Taken Over for Billets. Before the war, this convent was an exclusive school for girls. It was taken over by the Army for WAC billets, but the nuns have retained their own quarters on one side of the convent.

The coming of these highly modern girls from the outside world has been altogether acceptable to the sisters, most of whom speak only French. One result has been that in a few months nearly all the girls in uniform have learned to talk comprehensively in a tongue of which they had only a high school smattering before. It has greatly increased their value in the Army offices to which they are assigned.

Washington girls in the North African WAC contingent include Marie R. Brunner, Sylvia Lustick, Bessie Snyder, 3700 block of Beach drive, N.W.; Catherine C. Walther and Margaret Enright, 2600 block of Seventeenth street N.E.

First sergeant of the company is Anne M. Bradley, 207 East Thirtieth street, Baltimore, whose picture now appears on WAC recruiting posters throughout the United States.

Glad She Is Ahead. Auxiliary Brunner, although born and educated in New York, lived in Washington with her aunt, Mrs. Charles R. Cooper, at 1650 Twenty-ninth street N.W. A former secretary with the Social Security Board prepared the 25-year-old WAC for her present job as company clerk. She writes to her aunt regularly, telling about the occasional fresh eggs they have and how pretty the flowers are.

Auxiliary Brunner is glad she was sent to Africa in January because she felt it just had to get in this way.

Auxiliary Lustick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lustick, live at 4521 Iowa avenue N.W.

The 24-year-old WAC wrote home for a pair of shoes which her mother has sent her. She has written her parents that "milk is rare, eggs are scarce, but we can get plenty of nail polish."

Auxiliary Lustick is a graduate of Roosevelt High School and studied French at George Washington University. She used to be a stenographer at Port Meade and since January has been one of the Army's confidential stenographers in Africa.

Cities Bathing Facilities. Auxiliary Walther, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman W. Walther, is one of the teletype operators at the post. In her last letter to her mother, she told of her first bath since January (the girls finally got a bath with hot and cold water) and how much she enjoyed it.

A graduate of Western High School, Auxiliary Walther is a former General Accounting Office employee.

A sister, Mrs. Joseph Richards, Jr., lives in Chevy Chase; another in Milwaukee, and her brother, Charles M. Walther, works at the telephone company in Washington.

In and out of the convent quarters the girls lead a highly disciplined life—more so, on the whole, than do the man soldiers around Allied headquarters. They are snappy saluters. On six nights a week it is "lights out" at 10 o'clock and on Saturday nights at 11. Only with special passes can they be out after 8:30 p.m., the French curfew hour.

CHICAGO.—GENTLEMANLY THING TO DO—Policeman Thomas Doyle (left) and Police Sgt. Eugene McNally turn their backs as little Diane Cherie, 2, starts to don makeshift clothing which they obtained for her when she was found in the nude on a busy North Side street. Diane spent three hours in the police station before her mother telephoned trying to find her. Then she was returned home, less than a block from where police spotted her.

Eat From Mess Kits. A limited number of passes from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. are given each day and a few can have passes which will get them by the MPs until 11. But these MPs are instructed to show them no favors and are much more likely to demand their passes than they are those of man soldiers. They sleep in double-decked bunks, and eat with mess kits from a field kitchen set up in the convent courtyard.

During the past few weeks, some have been moved from the convent to a fairly-modern apartment house in the city, because of the difficulties of the transportation, due to the irregular hours at which they work. Here life is just as Spartan as in the country and the same general regulations are in effect.

The WAC is in North Africa, officers of the company say, to help win the war in any way she can, and the actual duties to which she is assigned are only part of the picture.

Providence Journal Studies Strike Suit

By the Associated Press. PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 8.—Publishing again, the Providence Journal Co. sought its lawyers' advice today as whether it could sue for civil damages as a result of a typographical union strike that costed the Evening Bulletin to miss publication yesterday.

The company announced it had asked attorneys whether suit could be brought under either the common law or the War Labor Disputes Act.

The union, an independent, called the strike yesterday morning on the contention that their contract had been abrogated because of the payment of over-the-scale wages to certain members of the union.

Faced with a New England War Labor Board order to "return to work immediately," the strikers went back to their composing room machines last night in time to permit the company's morning newspaper, the Journal, to be published today.

Thus the Journal maintained unbroken a stretch of 114 years of continuous publication. The one-day suspension of the Bulletin was its first in 80 years.

In Washington, meanwhile, Representative Baldwin, Republican of New York, a member of the House Labor Committee, said Congress could not afford to ignore "defiance of the agency set up by Congress to handle labor disputes" and added that the WLB must be given "more drastic powers or some other more powerful agency will have to be set up." He said he would propose such action by the House as soon as possible.

Court Aids Newcomer In Hunt for Room. Problems facing a District newcomer in search of lodging were described in Municipal Court yesterday by Louis Richardson, 19, colored, who was charged with sleeping on a park bench Tuesday night.

Richardson, who came here one week ago from New York City, said he was employed in a local restaurant as a dishwasher, but that he couldn't find a room. This, he said, explained his presence on a park bench.

Listening sympathetically, Judge Nathan Margold enlisted the aid of Attorney Milton Lewis to help Richardson find a room. Sentence was suspended.

Arizona Pastor Named Bishop of San Juan

By the Associated Press. The Rev. James Peter Davis, pastor of St. Patrick's Church in Beebe, Ark., has been named Bishop of San Juan, Puerto Rico, according to an announcement received here yesterday from the Vatican.

The new bishop succeeds the Most Rev. Edwin Byrne. At 39, he comes out of the youngest Catholic prelates in the United States.

Zacchini Sues To Recover Cannon for Act

By the Associated Press. TAMPA, Fla., July 8.—Hugo Zacchini wants his cannon back.

One of the human cannon balls, Zacchini, he filed suit yesterday in Circuit Court to recover his double repeating gun which he says earned him as much as $20,000 a year. It is impounded under a replevin action at Lancaster, Pa.

Hugo said he lost his cannon when an acceptance corporation in Pennsylvania impounded it, claiming the Zacchini brothers had defaulted on a payment on a loan covering the equipment of the Zacchini Bros. Circus. Hugo claimed the cannon was his personal property, but that he and Brother Bruno own the rest of the show. The cannon, he went on, was put up as additional collateral for a loan on the other equipment.

With the Tampa suit, Hugo tendered a check for $2,150, claiming it covered the principal and interest due on his gun, but which he said the acceptance company refused to accept in Pennsylvania. He asked further that the company be enjoined from proceeding with the Pennsylvania suit and be ordered to deliver the cannon to him.

Chinese-American Girls Open USO Club Here

A group of Chinese-American girls has opened a USO Club for men of their race in the armed services at the YMCA, 1736 G street N.W. The clubroom will be opened every morning at 8 o'clock. Eighteen Chinese-American youths in uniform attended the club's first party Saturday night.

The club was started about a year ago as a Government employe club. In becoming a USO Club, the girls asked Dr. Edward Whitney Leong, George Washington University professor, to become president of the organization.

Other officers are Mary Lee, War Department, vice president; Frances Wong, WPB, secretary, and Dorothea Chan, St. Elizabeth's Hospital, treasurer.

Nazi Radio Declares Allied Assault Units Ready for Invasion

By the Associated Press. LONDON, July 8.—The Berlin radio reported today that battle units of the Allied Mediterranean fleet, reinforced by recently arrived American cruisers and aircraft carriers, had left Gibraltar, leading to the supposition that the American Allied commander is preparing for an attack against Europe.

The broadcast, which was recorded by the Associated Press, declared the Allies, in addition to strong concentrations of warships and transports, had 44 infantry divisions and 15 to 20 tank formations poised between Morocco and Syria.

These forces were said to include parachute battalions and air-borne troops whose task, the broadcast declared, "would be to create at first one or more bridgeheads."

"At first sight," the German radio said, "these figures would appear considerable, but at least half of the Allied forces are regionally and locally tied down" in Algeria, Syria, Palestine, Egypt, Cyprus and elsewhere.

Other forces also are held down by a complicated supply system, while "it is an open secret that Gen. Eisenhower's American divisions have still to be thoroughly overhauled as regards training," the broadcast said.

The available effective forces, therefore, it added, constitute only a fraction of the total Allied troops stationed in the Mediterranean.

The broadcast, by the propaganda agency known as the International Information Bureau, declared that among the fleet units leaving Gibraltar were two British battleships of the King George class—which includes the King George V, Duke of York, Anson and Howe.

Several hundred thousand tons of merchant shipping still remain concentrated at Gibraltar, the Germans said.

The broadcast reports concerning Allied naval movements and manpower were totally without confirmation from any Allied source.

Italians Reported Worried Over Attack on Rome's Port

ALGIERS, July 8 (AP)—European reports to the French press in North Africa yesterday said Italian authorities had become alarmed at the possibility of an Allied landing at Ostia, seaport only 10 miles from Rome.

As a result, the reports said, all commuters' trains between Rome and Ostia have been ordered to return each night to the capital instead of remaining overnight at Ostia and the number of such trains reduced from 40 to 2 daily.

Lamont Tilts With Poet Benet On War Profits of 'Big Boys'

By FRANK MacMILLAN. Associated Press Financial Writer. NEW YORK, July 8.—One of the strangest literary-economic arguments of recent years will appear in print Saturday when Thomas W. Lamont, chairman of the board of J. P. Morgan & Co., tilts on the subject of war profits with his friend, William Rose Benet, poet and Pulitzer Prize winner.

Mr. Lamont, in a letter to the Saturday Review of Literature, addressed to "Dear Bill"—Mr. Benet is an associate editor of the Review—will protest against a statement by Mr. Benet in the May 22 issue of the magazine that the people of the United States "have a strong suspicion that capital is cashing in on the war."

"Sometimes, when I think over what I stand myself, as a patriot, I guess it is against having the country run for those 'big boys' and having it run for Mr. Wallace's common man," Mr. Benet had said.

Mr. Lamont in reply will cite composite records of 40 big companies engaged largely in production of war materials which show: Sales between 1940 and 1942 were up 81 per cent; wages were up 96 per cent; taxes increased 193 per cent; while net profits declined 17 per cent and dividends paid to stockholders were 20 per cent lower.

"No, Bill," Mr. Lamont's letter will say, "I do not believe you need be concerned about the big boys in industry.

"On the contrary, I assure you from personal knowledge, that what we have to be concerned about is this: Namely, that many of our industrial concerns under present tax legislation, far from cashing in on the war, are more likely to be dangerously depleting the corporate reserves they will surely need to meet the task of reconversion of their plants from war uses and machines to peacetime production when the war ends.

"Of course, we may squeeze the corporations until the pips squeak, but let us leave them enough to prepare for this vital task of reconversion."

"Clash on 'Self-Righteous.'" "The banker and the poet also clashed over Mr. Benet's reference to the self-righteousness of capital toward the recent high-handed conduct of John L. Lewis (and most of the press, which can always be counted on to side with the big money)."

Mr. Lamont will say: "I cannot help wondering what your definition is of capital that has shown such self-righteousness.

"Is it the recent high-handed conduct of both houses of Congress? Or is it the conduct generally of our millions of citizens who own the greatest single capital item in our country, namely, our farms, and of the other millions who own the shares of our great industrial and transportation corporations?"

Quizzed on Free Press. "Having started originally in newspaper work," Mr. Lamont will continue, "and for years followed the course of the public press, I have always felt that its independence, just as in England, had been recognized and accepted as one of the glories attained up to the present time only by Anglo-Saxon peoples.

"Have I been wrong about this all this time? And are you able, moving as you do more closely in journalistic circles than I can hope to do, to assure me about this lack of independence in the press?" To Mr. Benet's statement that "we have seen unuttered initiative and free enterprise run a country right into the hole," Mr. Lamont will ask another question:

"In other words, it was primarily the initiators and free enterprise men who brought on the present business depression that began late in 1929?"

Rather, Mr. Lamont will declare, it was the aftermath of war, "a period in which the whole civilized world went into a tailspin."

Asks For "Formula." In conclusion, Mr. Lamont will say:

Navy Denies Elk Hills Deal Gave Monopoly; Sees Oil Conserved

By the Associated Press. The Navy, denying its contract with the Standard Oil Co. of California granted the firm a monopoly of the Elk Hills petroleum reserve, has declared the transaction, now rescinded, would have conserved oil for the Government.

In a statement to the House Public Lands Committee yesterday the Navy said its officials believed oil conservation laws of 1920 and 1938 had authorized the contract, legal provisions of which have been declared by Assistant Attorney General Norman M. Littell and Controller General Lindsay Warren to go "beyond" provisions of Teapot Dome contracts in the Harding administration.

The Navy said that under the contract Standard would give up "millions of dollars of profit" that it would otherwise make from its own property there.

Contend Output Limited. Contending the transaction limited production from the reserve to 27,500,000 barrels during a five-year period, the Navy estimated Standard would have drilled approximately 62,500,000 barrels of oil from its land alone during this period—double the amount allowed under the contract—if no limitation were placed.

Of this, it continued, between 12,000,000 and 15,000,000 barrels would have been drained from Navy's lands during the period.

"Since Standard agrees to limit the production during such period to 27,500,000 barrels and to produce after such period only enough to cover its costs, the conclusion is inescapable that Standard by entering into this contract with the Navy is giving up millions of dollars of profit that it would otherwise make in the operation of its own properties," the statement said.

The Navy said the contract would have prevented drainage from its

Fall Hearing Promised On FCC Regulations On Congress' Return

Regulation of radio broadcasting by the Federal Communications Commission will get a thorough airing before Congress when members return from a summer recess, Chairman Wheeler of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee announced today.

Senator Wheeler said he is in accord with a proposal by Senator Taft, Republican, of Ohio that Congress—and not the FCC—write the specifications for Government restraints on radio. He made it clear, however, that he did not agree fully with Senator Taft's contention in the Senate yesterday that FCC regulations point toward ultimate "destruction" of the radio networks and the limitation of their freedom of expression. "I am in favor of free speech," Senator Wheeler told an interviewer, "but I don't want that freedom to be regulated by a couple of chains that are owned and controlled by large financial interests in New York which have been guilty in the past of filling the air with propaganda on foreign policies with which they agree."

Court Decision Cited. Senator Taft told the Senate that recent decision of the Supreme Court in the National Broadcasting Co. case "subjects the radio stations of this country to the absolute and arbitrary rule of the Federal Communications Commission."

The FCC regulations prohibit broadcasting networks from making contracts with radio stations excluding the stations from optioning or selling broadcast time to other networks. Among other things, the rules also cut from five to two years the period for affiliation between a chain and a station and a network from having more than one station owned or controlled by it in a single service area.

The NBC and the Columbia Broadcasting System fought the regulations to the Supreme Court, which last May in a 5-2 decision held the FCC had acted within its licensing powers. The Mutual Broadcasting system sided with the commission in the court test.

"It is my belief that this opinion threatens freedom of speech in the United States unless it is corrected by legislation," Senator Taft declared.

Asserting there had been "reckless disregard" on the part of the administration for freedom of the press as well, the Onlon said that a Justice Department suit brought against the Associated Press under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act "shows the attitude of the administration that the press and distribution of news shall be subjected to the same kind of rules as the manufacturer or the chain store."

Amals Stand on Associated Press. "No doubt today the Associated Press could secure the dismissal of the suit, if they were willing to run their business as the Department of Justice or some other New Deal agency thinks that the distribution of news should be run," Senator Taft said.

"Regardless of the legalities of the case, it is clear that the policy which directed the bringing of this suit is part of the general passion for Government control, and those who brought it show a reckless disregard for freedom of the press. Those who drafted the Sherman Act surely had no thought that it could ever be used for such a purpose."

Senator Taft said it is his opinion that attempts to abridge the freedom of the press thus far have been frustrated by "the ingrained insistence of our people that has prevented any great progress toward actual suppression of the freedom of newspapers and magazines."

"There is as yet," he added, "no Federal agency in control of the press, and there is as yet no Federal bureau which licenses the press. But what is true of the newspapers is no longer true of the radio—the blood brother of the newspaper as an instrument of free speech."

Rules Should Be Limited. Radio regulations should be "limited to the essential rules necessary to prevent confusion in the air, decent expression and affording of facilities to all points of view," he asserted, adding:

"If Congress feels that rules to prevent monopoly in the network field should be added, they should be made by Congress and not by a subordinate agency of the Government. And by no means should such regulations be allowed to open the door of Government control of radio, as the act of 1934 is now interpreted by the Supreme Court."

"We are governed by an administration, which however much it may be interested in abstract freedom in Europe and Asia, certainly does not seem interested in individual freedom in the United States."

He argued that the Government has no right to "blanket the voices which speak in opposition."

"When Mr. Elmer Davis (head of the Office of War Information) requisitions all four networks to hear his weekly outpourings, and every one must listen or turn off the radio, it is an infringement upon freedom of speech," Senator Taft said.

Mr. Davis has said that OWI did not hear his weekly outpourings, and that no compulsion was exerted in arranging his weekly broadcast.

(OWI's radio bureau said today that when the series of talks was arranged, Mr. Davis called in all four networks, offered the 15-minute program to any or all of them, and said he would be satisfied with one. None of the chains, OWI said, wanted another network to have it alone. By mutual agreement the present arrangement was arrived at: Three of the four networks carry Mr. Davis on Friday night; Mutual Broadcasting System, broadcast it by transcription at 3 p.m., on Saturday.)

Sensors Wheeler and White, Republican, of Maine have proposed legislation which would require radio stations to afford equal opportunity to both sides to discuss public or political questions if they permit any broadcasts of this nature. At the same time, the measure would prohibit the FCC from regulating the business of radio stations from exercising control over their programs or from censoring broadcast material.

Costello Committee Winds Up Inquiry On Jap Evacuees

Chairman Costello of the Dies Subcommittee set up to investigate release of Japanese from the 10 relocation centers in which they were placed after the outbreak of the war indicated today that the inquiry had ended.

The final witness was Dillon S. Myer, director of the War Relocation Authority, which supervises the camps.

The subcommittee has no further program," Mr. Costello said. "The members will get together soon to draft a report."

The report, he added, will contain the subcommittee's findings and certain recommendations with respect to the operation of the camps in WRA and the release of the Japanese, the majority of whom are American citizens.

Inquiry Started Month Ago. The subcommittee began its investigation in Los Angeles about a month ago, and continued it with a series of public hearings here. The only witnesses here were Mr. Myer, three Japanese-Americans formerly connected with the Japanese-American Citizens' League, and the wife of one of them.

At the Costello subcommittee closed its investigation, a special House Appropriations subcommittee appointed to investigate Federal workers whose political philosophies have been criticized by Chairman Dies cleared three of those named by him of any subversive activities or associations.

Evidence Held Insufficient. The Appropriations subcommittee, headed by Representative Kerr, Democrat, of North Carolina, said it heard the cases of Marous Goldman, Interior Department employe, and Nathaniel Weyl and David Wahl, Board of Economic Warfare workers, and failed to find sufficient evidence that they are unfit to continue in the Government service.

"In the opinion of the committee," said Mr. Kerr, "there is now not before it sufficient evidence to conclude that any of these men are unfit to continue in the Government employment by reason of their present association or membership in or with organizations whose aims or purposes are or have been subversive to the Government of the United States."

Another development growing out of activities of the Dies subcommittee was an announcement by Representative Thomas, Republican, of New Jersey that he planned to introduce a bill to remove administration of the war relocation centers from the WRA to the War Department.

He said the WRA is conducting "just a silly social experiment."

Special Camp Planned. Mr. Thomas is a member of the Dies Committee, but did not serve on the subcommittee which conducted the investigation of the WRA.

In concluding his testimony, Mr. Myer said his agency hopes to set up soon a special segregation camp for "disloyal Japanese," now in the 10 relocation centers. He expressed the hope the Army would undertake the task of moving these persons. He estimated the cost of making the shift at about $1,000,000.

Mr. Myer also expressed the hope that Japanese-Americans released from the relocation centers would continue to live in the various sections of the country in which they are now confined.

"Much will be lost for the country and lost for the evacuees," he declared. "We want no more little Tobies."

Don't lose hope "if you've tried a Star 'Want Ad.' NA. 5000.

New FEPC Negotiating With Capital Transit On Hiring Policies

The new Fair Employment Practices Committee has taken up the Capital Transit Co. case and conferred at length with company officials in regard to alleged discrimination against employment of colored persons on streetcars and buses.

This was announced late yesterday at a press conference, where the committee said in a formal statement that a date for a hearing "will be set as soon as it appears that efforts to settle... by negotiation have failed."

Mr. Francis J. Haas, chairman of the committee, who asked if the committee hoped to settle by negotiation instead of bringing the case to a hearing, responded somewhat cryptically.

"We are always hopeful." Later, however, he insisted that the local case was on the agenda for a hearing.

Father Haas, who is on leave from Catholic University, where he is dean of the school of social sciences, said the committee of seven members conferred at length yesterday with E. D. Merrill, president of the company.

Further Data Needed. The committee felt the need for "further information," he said, and would get further reports on the case at the next meeting of the committee, probably in about two weeks. Union leaders also may be heard, he indicated.

"We may be able to settle it," he said, adding, "maybe not."

Hearings in the Capital Transit case had been indefinitely postponed by the old FEPC.

Father Haas announced the committee will hold hearings here September 15-17 on charges that some 26 railroads and six unions discriminated against colored workers in employment practices.

The railroad hearings originally were set for last January, but were ordered "postponed indefinitely" by War Manpower Chairman Paul V. McNutt.

Father Haas said most of the railroads involved operate in the Southeast. He said names of the railroads and the unions were unavailable at present.

During his press conference, which was attended by three other members of the committee, Father Haas announced that the committee had "accepted the responsibility placed on it to promote the fullest utilization of all available manpower, regardless of race, creed, color or national origin."

To further this end, he announced, an agreement is being formulated with the War Manpower Commission to implement the enforcement of the executive order of the President assuring nondiscrimination. Details of this agreement have not been completed, he said.

Autonomous Committee. He emphasized, in response to repeated questioning, that the new FEPC is not under jurisdiction of the WMC, as the old committee was, and now is entirely "autonomous," under the Office of Emergency Management, in the executive offices of the President. It has power to call on any other Government agency to help enforce the executive order, and may appeal direct to the President himself, Father Haas explained.

Twelve regional offices of the new committee, he said. Two appointments in the headquarters of the committee were announced. They are two assistants, Malcolm Ross, well-known writer and publicist, who has been with the National Labor Relations Board and OWI here, and George M. Johnson, colored attorney, who was assistant to the former executive secretary of the committee, Lawrence W. Cramer. Mr. Cramer has gone into the military service.

Mobile Case Acted On. The FEPC yesterday approved, with qualifications, settlement of a case involving alleged discrimination by the Alabama Dry Dock Co. at Mobile, where it was agreed colored persons would work on 4 ways out of 12. Father Haas read this official decision of the committee: "The committee accepts the accomplished fact of the settlement made in Mobile to end a crisis in war production, except that it cannot give its approval to the complete segregation of Negroes on the four ways, and does not consider that a precedent."

Asked if he had found any evidence in Detroit that Axis influence was behind the recent riots there, Father Haas replied, "I did not."

A recurrence of such riots, he thought, might be prevented by eliminating the causes, which he said were shortage of housing, recreation and city transportation, intensified by influx of an additional $5,000 new population.

All members of the committee attended the hearing.

tended the two-day session. They were: Industry members, Miss Sara Southall, supervisor of employment and service, International Harvester Co.; Samuel Zemmurray, president of the United Fruit Co., and P. B. Norfolk, editor and publisher of the Norfolk Journal and Guide; labor members, Boris Shishkin, economist, AFL; John Brophy, director of Industrial Councils, CIO, and Milton P. Webster, international vice president, Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

Outlines Objectives. The objective of the committee's work, under the executive order, was outlined by Father Haas in a statement of policy.

"The objective," he said, "is to further the prosecution of the war, work morale and national unity. This duty, to give every industrial American a chance to serve his country, must be achieved. It is obviously basic to democracy. It is a war necessity. It is what all right-minded people want."

"The committee is conscious that this sound objective must be pursued where wartime crowding in houses, buses and recreation grounds have bred irritation among decent people, and have afforded irresponsible persons the opportunity for shameful mob violence. This is cause for grave concern, but not for despair."

"I learned last week in Detroit, where mixed races make tanks and airplanes side by side, that the workers in war plants did not lose their heads at the time when hoodlums were rioting in the streets of Detroit. This committee takes hope from the decency and patriotism of the overwhelming majority of the American people on this issue, and will carry out its duty in that light."

'Public Policy' Is Called Issue in A. P. Suit

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, July 8.—The American Civil Liberties Union said yesterday in a statement that the issue in the Government's anti-trust suit against the Associated Press, which opened in Federal Court here today, was "one of public policy."

"The issue before the courts is one of public interest in regulating the gathering and distribution of news," the statement said. "Success in the Government's suit would require the Associated Press and presumably other associations to accept as members all those willing to pay the price of its services."

The union declared that "whether it is desirable public policy to make press associations common carriers is a matter which does not raise an issue of civil liberties or civil rights. It is for this reason that the union has not attempted to intervene in the pending case."

Emphasizing that its opinions were not directed against the Government's suit, the union asserted it saw "no issue of freedom of the press properly speaking on either side in the case."

The Associated Press was charged in a civil suit by the Department of Justice with violating the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws.

Hope Dare Files Suit To Divorce 'Dixie' Davis

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, July 8.—Plans of Hope Dare, red-haired former showgirl, and Richard (Dixie) Davis, one-time counsel for a huge New York policy racket, to create a new life for themselves in Southern California were on the rocks today. The former Follies beauty, who stayed by her dapper young attorney during his much publicized association with purported gambling interests, revealed that they separated last Tuesday when she filed suit for divorce yesterday. She charged cruelty.

Miss Dare said her husband is earning about $250 a week from an ice cream and malt manufacturing business and from his interest in a burlesque road show. She said she would like $200 a month for support.

Davis and his wife came to California in 1940 to seek seclusion after he completed a term of less than a year in prison on a charge of conspiracy to operate a lottery. They started out quietly at Palm Springs, Calif., operating a vegetable and fruit juice stand at that desert resort.

In New York, Davis had been the lawyer for the late Dutch Schultz when the latter was reputed to be making $20,000,000 a year in a policy racket. The attorney was disbarred, jailed and subsequently granted leniency following investigations by Thomas E. Dewey, then district attorney.

Newsprint Quota Cases To Be Made Public; Maas Is 'Satisfied'

By the Associated Press. The War Production Board has decided to make public henceforth its proceedings in the handling of newsprint quotas. Representative Maas, Republican of Minnesota said that satisfied his demands that something be done to avert what he called a threat to freedom of the press.

Mr. Maas charged the WPB's Printing and Publication Division with favoring some publishers over others and using newsprint quota machinery for "censorship" purposes. WPB Chief Donald M. Nelson issued a flat denial yesterday, then conferred with Mr. Maas, who said Mr. Nelson agreed to his recommendation for publishing the quota cases, probably in the Federal Register daily.

The legislator added after his conference that he was sure Mr. Nelson "never approved any such policy." He has not known of the trend in this division. He did not realize the dangers of the potential abuses that are possible under the procedure that the Printing and Publishing Division operates.

Mr. Maas issued his statement after Mr. Nelson denied that the WPB exercised any censorship of magazines and books by withholding paper allotments and asserted such charges by Mr. Maas in the House Tuesday were based on misinformation. Mr. Maas' statement said: "Donald M. Nelson, director of the War Production Board, got in touch with me today in connection with my charges made on the floor of the House that the Printing and Publishing Division showed evidence of being used for control of the press, including magazine and book publishing."

"Did Not Realize Dangers" "I am quite convinced that Mr. Nelson not only has never approved of any such policy, but has not known of the trend in this division toward this objective. I am sure, also, that he did not realize the dangers of the potential abuses that are possible under the procedure that the Printing and Publishing Division operates. I do not think that he has had any realization of the dangers inherent in the secret method of operation indulged in by the Printing and Publishing Division."

"After disclosing my sources of information, which included an investigation by a highly reputable law firm for a number of months, Mr. Nelson has agreed to my recommendations and has assured me that rules for procedure will be adopted by the Printing and Publishing Division and that all appeals with their disposition and reasons for final decision will be published, probably in the Federal Register daily."

"This is satisfactory to me as I am sure that there is no danger of a secret control of the press by controlling white paper so long as all of the proceedings are open to public examination."

In denying Mr. Maas' censorship charge, Mr. Nelson declared that "nothing resembling censorship is practiced," directly or indirectly, by the WPB.

"The existing system of paper conservation orders has been devised purposely to avoid any possibility of censorship," he said, adding: "We are faced with a diminishing supply of paper—what is printed on that paper is not within our province."

Publishers of books, magazines, and newspapers all have a quota equal to approximately 90 per cent of the paper they have been using in the past. Under the published orders of the WPB they can print anything they choose on that paper. When publishers need more paper than they are allotted, they may appeal for more on hardship grounds, Mr. Nelson pointed out, but when relief is granted it is done "without any consideration of editorial content."

The WPB chief said he will submit soon a detailed report on operations of the Printing and Publishing Division. This will go to chairman Boren of the House Subcommittee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, which has been conducting an investigation of WPB's paper conservation program.

Action on Pay Raise Applications Ordered Speeded by Treasury

By the Associated Press. The white-collar man whose recommended pay raise has been held up in Government files for a decision on whether it violates the hold-the-line order is about to get some attention from the Treasury, it was indicated today. Full speed ahead on requests from business for approval of salary increases was reported ordered.

The Treasury's salary stabilization unit has done little more than mark time for about two months after President Roosevelt's hold-the-line order of April 8, imposing rigid controls on existing pay scales. The reason for this was that the Treasury was awaiting clarification of the order and that didn't come until mid-June.

Since then the department's various regional units have been hard at work trying to catch up with the piles of requests. Treasury salary jurisdiction applies only to persons paid more than $5,000 a year or to executive employees receiving more than $30 a week and administrative and professional employees paid more than $200 a month. The War Labor Board has jurisdiction over other wages and salaries.

The first clarification of Mr. Roosevelt's order came May 12 from James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director, who then was stabilization director, but many cases still were not acted on until further directives could be obtained to apply to specific cases.

In his May 12 ruling Mr. Byrnes held that increases might be granted on the showing that the war or would correct gross inequalities, provided that no increase should cause a rise in prices nor interfere with price reductions. No announcement has been made of the later directives, and officials are not at liberty to discuss their application.

Procedure Outlined. Only last week, however, the Treasury outlined general procedure for approval of pay increases for supervisory employees working longer than 40 hours a week but not covered by Wage-Hour Act provision requiring payment of time and a half for overtime.

Without laying down a set rule, the Treasury held that in general such supervisors could be paid for overtime at the rate of the highest hourly-paid worker, provided the supervisor's pay is equal to or less than that of the highest hourly-paid worker.

Officials expect the overtime instructions to prove a big help to the regional stabilization units and also look for early slackening in the number of vacation pay cases. These factors probably will contribute to a faster tempo in handling of other applications.

Before the holding-the-line order, most applications were being handled within 10 days. This is the goal again.

Committee to Outline CIO Political Policy, Indorse Candidates

By the Associated Press. One segment of labor, as another presidential campaign draws near, has set up an organization with instructions to draw up a program of political action and specify candidates favorable to the program. A Political Action Committee was established today by the National Executive Board of the Congress of Industrial Organizations. Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, was named chairman.

CIO President Philip Murray said the committee "seeks the active cooperation of other labor organizations and other groups." Its decisions will be reported to the full CIO board at its September meeting.

Serving with Mr. Hillman are R. J. Thomas of the United Auto Workers, S. H. Dalrymple of the United Rubber Workers, Albert Fitzgerald of the United Electrical Workers and other Van A. Bittner or David J. McDonald of the United Steel Workers.

The board also in meeting yesterday decided to hold the annual CIO convention in St. Louis the third week of November, reaffirming its no-strike pledge and adopted a resolution assailing the Antistrike Act which forbids strikes in Government operated industries or mines in wartime.

The resolution took a shot at John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, by declaring that "labor-halting forces in Congress enacted this vicious antilabor measure to wreak vengeance for the acts of an individual who flouted the needs of the Nation for continuous production of vital war materials" and recklessly caused a national strike in the coal fields.

Another resolution recommended Congress set up an agency to "plan for peace at home," an assignment the CIO group said should have been entrusted to the National Resources Planning Board whose funds have been shut off.

One official likened the new committee to labor's Nonpartisan League, which was the CIO's political arm under Mr. Lewis.

Senate Unit Puts Off REA 'Politics' Probe Until Autumn

By the Associated Press. Senator Shipstead, Republican of Minnesota said the Senate Agriculture Committee decided today to postpone until autumn an investigation to determine whether "political groups or organizations" have been created to "influence administration" of the Rural Electrification Act.

Senator Shipstead told reporters the inquiry, based on his resolution which does not require more than committee approval, was postponed because of the forthcoming summer recess.

He referred reporters to an article by Judson King, director of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association which has been conducting a campaign against Administrator Harry E. Blatory of the Rural Electrification Administration, demanding his removal from office.

Mr. King's article asserted the association was "the brain-child of one man—Robert B. Craig, a deputy administrator of REA up to his resignation in May."

Senator Shipstead's resolution says the Agriculture Department has declared funds of REA co-operations have been taken "to promote and finance insurance companies," a use, it contended, "is open to serious question."

It calls for an inquiry to determine: 1. "Whether political groups or organizations have been created to influence the administration" of the act. 2. Whether the REA has suffered since it was brought under the Agriculture Department and should be restored to the status of an independent agency.

Platform Is Prepared For Officials to See Righting of Normandie

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 8.—The one-time French liner Normandie may yet get in the war—as a troop carrier for the United Nations.
Construction of an observation platform and the tearing down of work shacks on the side of the partially submerged hull gave indication yesterday that the job of righting her—one of the greatest marine salvage operations in history—is nearing completion.
Workmen were under orders to have the 400-foot observation platform, from which the righting will be watched by naval and other officials, completed by July 15.
The Manhattan Borough president's office gave the Navy permission to construct this observation deck on the southbound roadway of the West Side elevated highway between Fourth-eighth and Fifteenth streets. The salvage workers have been removing the shacks and catwalks which they had named "Normandieville."
Soon after the Pearl Harbor attack the United States took title to the Normandie from France and was in the process of converting her to military use under the name Lafayette when fire swept her on February 9, 1942.
Shifts of salvage crews, working around the clock, have labored since then to reclaim the $50,000,000 vessel from the muddy bottom of her Hudson River dock, where she came to rest after capsizing.
Rear Admiral E. L. Cochrane told a House Appropriations Subcommittee last May the total cost of salvaging, rebuilding and outfitting the vessel as a troop transport would approximate $20,000,000.

Pearl Buck Urges Repeal Of Chinese Exclusion Act

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 8.—Pearl S. Buck, speaking at a "tribute to China" rally, said last night that "the least" America could do for China was to repeal "obsolete immigration laws which discriminate against the Chinese alien" and place the Chinese on a quota basis.
Miss Buck, in a speech over Radio Station WHN, called on the United States to reassure the Chinese with a clear-cut policy toward the East "in lieu of the airplanes and ammunition and food and all the things we are sending to other Allies which we are not sending to the Chinese except in very small quantities."
Warning that if the Allies delayed attacking Japan for two years "it would be too late," she declared that America "is using her (China) unmercifully in allowing her to be the chief opponent to our bitter enemy, Japan."
China, she said, would have more to contribute to a postwar world "designed for peace" than any other country.

Dr. Wei Tao-ming, Chinese Ambassador, speaking on the same program, said Japan's failure to conquer China was her "Achilles heel," because it was the stumbling block in her "greater dream of world domination."

First Viereck Witness To Be Called by Defense Monday

Defense Attorneys Leo A. Rover and John J. Wilson, who were named by the court to represent German Agent George Sylvester Viereck, will call their first witness Monday in the District Court trial of the Nazi propagandist following a four-day recess ordered yesterday by Justice Bolitha J. Laws.

The Government rested its case late yesterday after calling in rapid succession seven witnesses and introducing surprise evidence obtained from the British government. The jury of three women and nine men listened intently as Special Prosecutor George A. McNulty read from weekly reports allegedly prepared by Viereck on the American scene, which he reportedly sent to Dr. Hans H. Dieckhoff, former German Ambassador to the United States, who later was assigned to the German foreign office in Berlin.

Correspondence intercepted. Reports were first identified by Miss Nayda Gardner, an examiner for the British censorship office in Bermuda. She described how British censors intercepted correspondence to an agent in Lisbon, Portugal, who in turn was to transmit the reports to Berlin. Some of the reports, the witness said, were permitted to continue on their way but others were seized and never reached their destination.

Wheat Export Subsidy Discontinued by WFA

The War Food Administration announced today the discontinuance of its wheat and wheat flour export subsidy program, asserting remaining domestic wheat stocks were needed for food and livestock feed in this country.

Under the program, in effect since 1938, payments were made to exporters to enable them to buy wheat at domestic prices and sell wheat and flour in foreign markets in competition with lower world prices. For the year ended June 30 sales of wheat for export totaled 2,885,254 bushels and sales of flour, 2,165,087 barrels. Most of this was shipped to Caribbean countries.

after April, 1933, when his resignation from German service was accepted. The jurors also heard testimony from James V. Blaine, special agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who identified certain documents sent overseas by Viereck; Dr. Robert T. M. Kemper, University of Pennsylvania professor who told of the Nazis taking over all newspapers in Germany, and H. Charles Spruiks, ceremonial officer for the State Department's division of protocol.

Viereck is charged with violations of the Foreign Agents Registration Act, and the Government contends he failed to list all foreign principals for whom he worked prior to our entrance into the war and that he failed to give a comprehensive account of his activities.

Maharajah's Car Breaks Down As C Book Honeymoon Begins

dian prince and his American wife were forced to spend their first night together like many another Western couple—in the "honeymoon cottage" of an auto court. Gasoline rationing presents no difficulties. The Maharajah said he had been issued a C card by a Los Angeles ration board when he bought the car, shortly after he arrived in the United States late last year. He said he had not found it necessary to apply for supplemental gasoline allotments to make the trip to Reno and return to Los Angeles. The new Maharani, who divorced Frank Arthur Crane here Tuesday, is the Maharajah's third wife. He divorced his second, the former Marguerite Lawler Branyan of Fargo, N. Dak., on Tuesday.

Axis Losing Heavily In Vital Materials, Commons Is Told

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, July 8.—Dingle M. Foot, parliamentary secretary to the Ministry of Economic Warfare, told the House of Commons today that during the past year the Axis lost at sea 30,000 tons of rubber, 5,000 tons of tin, 25,000 tons of edible oils and considerable quantities of quinine and tungsten. Since the Allies occupied North Africa, 700,000 tons of Axis shipping have been sunk and 300,000 tons severely damaged, Mr. Foot said in a debate on the economic warfare being waged against the enemy. In the spring and summer of 1942 several ships were able to run the blockade between Germany and Japan, but this has been virtually halted in the past eight months, Mr. Foot revealed. With the Allied blockade of Europe working effectively it will not be relaxed to give food and other relief to the peoples of the occupied countries, because any relaxation would inevitably be exploited by the enemy, Mr. Foot advised Commons. "Undoubtedly there are acute shortages of certain kinds of foodstuffs in the towns and cities of conquered Europe, he said, but he asserted it would be a mistake to suppose that famine prevails generally. Mr. Foot disclosed that part of the job of the Ministry of Economic Warfare is to determine just what resources may be available to the invading armies in any part of Europe that is chosen for landings. Recent information, Mr. Foot explained, indicates that the Germans are taking all movable equipment from the Ruhr and "if this is so it is extremely significant, because it shows that they themselves know that the battle of the Ruhr is lost." Mr. Foot reported that the Germans are making strenuous efforts to increase the steel output of France, Belgium and Luxembourg.

Union Security Issue

The War Labor Board, in issuing its first maintenance-of-membership orders since passage of the Connally-Smith antistrike bill, apparently has decided to get in the first punch on this revitalized issue of union security.

The board's standard maintenance-of-membership clause set up what might be called a voluntary closed shop. It is voluntary in the sense that workers who belong to unions are given the right to withdraw during a fifteen-day period.

But if those who are members do not withdraw, or if new workers affiliate with a union, they must maintain themselves in good standing with the union in order to keep their jobs.

This device was hit upon by the board as a means of compromising union demands for closed-shop agreements—a compromise which the board felt was justified by the agreement of unions not to strike during the war to enforce closed-shop demands.

The clause has been granted by the board despite bitter opposition from many employers. Passage of the Connally-Smith bill has raised a serious question as to the legality of maintenance-of-membership orders, although in fairness to the board's position it should be said that neither the language of the act nor the intent of Congress is clear.

When first reported from the House Military Affairs Committee, the bill contained specific language forbidding the board to order union security. This language was eliminated in favor of a clause simply requiring the board to conform to the provisions of the National Labor Relations Act.

And the pertinent clause of this latter statute provides that an employer shall be allowed to make a closed shop contract, language which seems to mean that he cannot be compelled to enter into such an agreement. There is also the further fact that during debate in the House on the Connally-Smith bill, Representative Marston, opposing the measure, asked whether it did not forbid the board to order maintenance of membership.

Representative Smith, co-author of the bill, replied that it did—"that maintenance of union orders of the War Labor Board are in conflict with the expressed provisions of the National Labor Relations Act." "I think it clear from the provision of the (Connally-Smith) bill that this House, by adopting the bill and the conference report, means so to instruct the War Labor Board."

On the basis of these facts, it would seem that the preponderance of evidence points to the conclusion that Congress intended to forbid future maintenance-of-membership orders. Yet there certainly is room for doubt, and it can hardly be said that the board, in adopting a contrary construction, has taken a position that is plainly erroneous.

In all probability, this is an issue which will have to go to the Supreme Court for final adjudication. Meanwhile the board is faced with an even more difficult question pertaining to enforcement of union security orders.

At the moment the United States Gypsum Company is refusing to accept a maintenance-of-membership clause ordered by the board before passage of the Connally-Smith bill. And at the same time John L. Lewis is refusing to accept the board's order directing him to sign a contract with the coal operators. Thus, the board is in the painful position of having to decide whether it should attempt to enforce its order against the Gypsum company if it cannot enforce its order against Mr. Lewis.

Rudolph Forster

Rudolph Forster, who died yesterday, was an outstanding representative of the highest type of public servant. His absorbing interest was his work. His duties required tact and judgment, great discretion and an encyclopedic knowledge of the laws, customs and even the traditions of his Government.

career. It was of a class of men and women in Government, so well exemplified by Mr. Forster, that Mr. Roosevelt spoke a few years ago in connection with the award to Mr. Forster of an honorary degree: "The value of man's service to his country is not always measured by popular acclaim nor by repeated mention in the daily and periodic press. In every governmental organization, local or State or National, there exist men and women whose names appear not in the headlines, but who are principally responsible for the actual functioning of a great and complex machine."

Giraud Arrives

General Henri-Honore Giraud is the most recent in the long list of distinguished world figures to visit wartime Washington. His heroic background and his fine record of co-operation with us in North Africa enhance popular interest in the specific reasons which have brought him here at this particular time.

The primary object of his mission is military, especially the expediting of up-to-date American equipment to re-arm the French forces in North and West Africa, today numbering some 300,000 and capable of expansion to at least 400,000.

Those forces, consisting largely of well-trained professional soldiers seasoned for campaigning under Mediterranean conditions obviously represent a formidable addition to the Allied war effort in that entire region. Their speedy rearmament and integration with Allied grand strategy would, of itself, justify a visit by their commander to confer with our supreme war leaders.

These military aspects of the mission are those which have been officially emphasized. It has been made clear that General Giraud comes hither in his capacity as commander of the French forces and will be received as such. Nevertheless, it is impracticable to isolate purely military matters from those political and diplomatic considerations which so strongly affect French co-operation with the Allies in the war against the Axis.

One of these is the effective liaison of the technically separate armies of Giraud and De Gaulle with the Allied forces. Those armies are still so sundered in spirit as well as in leadership that they probably could not yet serve together without mutual damage to efficiency and morale. But both have their places in the overall strategic picture, and their proper disposition should be carefully worked out.

Another important subject for discussion is the status and authority of the French Committee of National Liberation set up at Algiers, the chairmanship of which Giraud holds jointly with De Gaulle. The committee ardently desires recognition by the American and British Governments as the legal trustees for France's rights and interests, and as accredited spokesmen for France in Allied councils.

Washington and London have thus far hesitated to extend formal recognition to a body so divided within itself that it has been unable to function properly and has at times been threatened with internal dissolution. The problem becomes more pressing with the impending collapse of Admiral Robert's authority over the French West Indian islands of Martinique and Guadeloupe.

That collapse has been hastened by American economic pressure. The pro-Vichy admiral has made no approach to the Algiers committee and is dealing solely with the United States. Yet it is an open secret that the committee is as opposed to an American occupation of the islands as is Robert himself and expects that its representative will take over the authority which Admiral Robert feels impelled to lay down.

German Objectives In Russia Are Obscure

Major Eliot Discusses Differ Offensive Of Kursk Offensive

By Maj. George Fielding Eliot.

The Germans are attacking in Russia, but exactly what their purpose may be is not easy to tell as yet. If I had to make a guess now, on the basis of available information, I would be inclined to the view that this is a limited-objective operation for the recovery of Kursk—but I would add very hastily that this is only a guess.

The recapture of Kursk by the Germans would enable them to re-establish their old strong defensive line—Bryansk-Orel-Kursk-Belgorod-Kharkov. As long as the Russians hold Kursk, Orel is in a dangerous salient, threatened from three sides, and the Germans are compelled to make unusual sacrifices in order to hold it.

As previously pointed out in these articles, the persistent German defense of Orel made no sense unless there was a German intention to go back to Kursk as soon as opportunity offered. Moreover, as long as the Russians remain in Kursk, the Germans never can be entirely happy in Belgorod and Kharkov, because the main lines of communication of those fortresses always will be exposed to a Russian attack from the northeast.

The Veto Power

Representative Hutton Summers of Texas, veteran chairman of the House Judiciary Committee has proposed an amendment to the Constitution which would enable Congress to override a presidential veto by a majority vote, instead of the two-thirds vote now necessary.

A companion amendment, also by Mr. Summers, prohibits appointment to Federal office of any member of Congress during the term for which he is elected and for a two-year period after his term has expired.

These proposals, Mr. Summers says, "definitely increase the possibility of promoting the redistribution of governmental powers now concentrated in Washington and the re-establishment of democracy in this country."

His contention is that the presidential veto, necessitating a two-thirds vote to override, plus the powerful influence of presidential patronage, now is nullifying Section 1 of Article I of the Constitution which says: "All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives."

Mr. Summers' argument is that the President in effect sits in the Senate, by virtue of his two-thirds rule on vetoes, with the voting strength of fifteen Senators, if all members vote on a veto. In the House his voting power, similarly described, is that of seventy-two Representatives.

This, in the opinion of Mr. Summers is wrong, and violates both the spirit and the letter of the Constitution. When the Constitution was written, and the presidential veto inserted in Section 7 of Article I, including the two-thirds rule for overriding a veto, the subject was debated at length. The founders feared lest the legislative branch should be so powerful as to become tyrannical.

It was to strengthen the hand of the Chief Executive that this provision was adopted. A proposal was made to give the President an absolute veto—but rejected on the ground that this would make him practically a monarch. A tentative provision was written making a three-fourth vote of Congress necessary to overturn a veto. But this was finally amended, and the two-thirds vote placed in the Constitution.

In the early days of the Republic, the legislative branch was the great power in the Federal Government. The Executive's powers were infinitesimal as compared to those a President has today. The debates of the Constitutional Convention, however, reveal that even then members of the convention feared that with a rule compelling a two-thirds vote to override a veto, it might be impossible for Congress to repeal a law which had been proved a bad law.

Clearly, that is what Mr. Summers has in mind today when he demands merely a majority vote to enact a law despite a presidential veto. All the States have given their governors qualified powers to veto acts of the Legislatures—except Rhode Island. It was not until 1902 that the veto power was given to the Governors of North Carolina and Ohio. In four States, the power given to the governors is only the right to demand reconsideration of legislative acts—Vermont, Connecticut, New Jersey and Indiana.

In twenty-seven States, a governor's veto may be overridden only by a two-thirds vote; in three, by a three-fifths vote and in others by a majority vote. The regional war manpower commissioner of Cincinnati lifts the ban against the bare legs of women employees. "We're at war now," he says, "and the less those girls wear, the more War Bonds they can purchase."

Revitalizing Local Defense

It is gratifying that the Commissioners are taking a new lease on life as regards their local civilian defense organization, and it is a fine idea to have a new recruiting drive for volunteers started off with a parade. There has been a notable absence of martial demonstrations in this war, although there is nothing like a brass band, marching feet and waving flags to stimulate the civilian's response to appeals. The response, incidentally, will be quicker if there is more emphasis on the need for something

German Objectives In Russia Are Obscure

Major Eliot Discusses Differ Offensive Of Kursk Offensive

By Maj. George Fielding Eliot.

The Germans are attacking in Russia, but exactly what their purpose may be is not easy to tell as yet. THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

UNITED STATES NAVAL AIR STATION, Jacksonville, Fla.

"Dear Sir: While I have been in Florida I have noticed a great many birds that were not common in D. C. The most interesting, I think, is that black-masked rooster, the shrike. They don't seem to have any regard for their personal safety. They would just as soon fly within a few inches of you or their giant rivals, the planes, as not. Isn't this the bird that impales his prey on a thorn?"

"The most amazing and most plentiful of Florida's birds in the wintertime are the gulls. They always seem hungry. If you buy a bag of popcorn and scatter a little out on the beach, they will immediately flock around you and scream for more. They will hover in midair and catch the popcorn as you throw it to them. Indeed, they are such gluttons that they will follow you as long as there is anything left for them to eat. We have often played 'Pied Piper,' leading them from the beach at Daytona up to Main street."

"By the way, it may be interesting to you to know 'Our Navy' magazine's history of the word 'gullible.' It was derived from the fact that gulls will catch anything thrown them in the belief that it is food. Well, could be! "Yours very truly, D. R."

Bird watching is one hobby any soldier, sailor, marine or aviator may follow in any part of the world. Aviators, in particular, have an opportunity to study the birds at close range—sometimes too close—and especially to watch them in relation to the stresses and strains of flying. This sort of study might in time reveal some more of the secrets of flying.

The birds were, after all, the first aviators, just as they were the first musicians. That is one reason, we feel, why all flying men ought to be musicians, or at least musical enthusiasts. No doubt a bird can fly better because he can sing. Maybe our flying forces would prove even better aviators if they have plenty of singing and playing of musical instruments.

The birds have known all tricks of the air for centuries. Some of them know everything, but not every species knows everything. The swallows and starlings, for instance, fly perfectly in mass formations. Every individual bird turns at exactly the same moment, without apparent signal. How they all know what to do, and just when to do it, remains one of the many mysteries of bird life. Some investigators believe they use radio, of a sort.

Tribute Paid To Confidant of Presidents. To the Editor of The Star: Those who knew Rudolph Forster will be grieved at his passing. He leaves a record significant and unusual as an intimate associate of seven Presidents.

Marked characteristics in Mr. Forster's professional career were faithfulness to duty, guarded speech and discretion. His record at the White House will be treasured. The appreciation and affection of many who were acquainted with him will linger. OTTO TORNEY SIMON.

Comments on Report Concerning Cinchona Procurement. To the Editor of The Star: After reading the editorial "Time for a Showdown" and admiring the common sense therein, I read the text of Jesse Jones' answer to the committee on charges against him and, under "Cinchona Bark" was astounded by this: "None of the plans recognized that the procurement of cinchona bark, particularly in Latin America where it was not well understood, requires skilled and experienced handling."

No quinine, or cinchona, the South American tree which yields quinine, as we know it, is a drug as familiar to the average person in the American tropics as the Lord's Prayer. In Europe it is often called Jesuit bark or Peruvian bark. I am sure that during my 15 years in Latin America I used or heard quinine spoken of at least once a day. This bark was used in infusion long before independence from Spain was achieved; so it would seem high time that people who were slow to this drug for at least two centuries would have a fairly good idea here as to its procurement.

A former boss of mine, who has spent 25 years in South American countries and who is working for one of the major oil companies and who, incidentally, is not a New Dealer, told me with pride that the BEW employes he has met in those countries are well-informed, well-trained, businesslike individuals, and that Mr. Wallace is admired for his honesty, friendliness and catholicity. Glad to Have Them From the Calvary Herald. Canada and the United States have undertaken a substantial task in supplying ample quantities of food to others of the United Nations. Britain obtains wheat, bacon, dairy and poultry products from Canada, and the United States supplies huge amounts of dairy products, lard and other foods to the United Kingdom, Russia and North Africa.

Both of these North American nations have also their domestic populations to consider, and food consumption has increased because most workers are employed at salaries or wages which enable them to purchase more food. The Canadian surplus of wheat and coarse grains, located mostly in the prairie provinces, will be made available to the United States if the necessity is urgent. When that time comes some means to provide the necessary transportation will undoubtedly be discovered. Today these Canadian surpluses are gratifying. Without them a rather disastrous situation might arise.

Sixty Hours to Anywhere! From the Topeka Capital. Air-minded Americans, and the term is rapidly beginning to include all of us, are beginning to realize something of the almost unlimited possibilities of air travel in the postwar period. Instead of going to Colorado or Minnesota to fish, we may instead take a jaunt up to Alaska, or fly over the Mediterranean, or maybe stay at home here in Kansas and welcome folks dropping in from England, China and Russia.

As one of the aircraft companies expresses it: "Try to find a spot that's not more than 60 hours from your local airport." Think of that! Distance has now become a matter of hours, anywhere in the world, rather than a matter of days and weeks and months. Increase of Pay for Government Workers Denied. To the Editor of The Star: The Star of July 3 printed an editorial on "Community Chest Salaries" which caught my eye since I have been a contributor to the Community Chest ever since it has been established.

I am not concerned with the advances suggested for the Community Chest employes for the advance in the cost of living doubtless has been such that they are justified, but I am concerned when you make the statement that these advances are generally less than the salaries granted throughout the Government service. In the departmental service the Government employes' income has been increased about 20 per cent, not through one cent of salary advance but by stretch-out method of increasing the work week from 39 to 48 hours and not paying employes for this additional time, which is substantially the same old rate. True, their income has been increased by the additional number of hours' work which they put in, but many

A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing The Evening Star Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. Please inclose stamp for return postage.

Q. In 1940, what per cent of the population was agricultural?—E. E. H. A. In 1940 the agricultural population of this country, which at one time was 95 per cent of the total, had declined to approximately 23 per cent, and since 1940, this decline has continued.

Q. Where is the sanctuary for bald eagles?—L. E. W. A. The Mount Johnson Island Sanctuary for bald eagles is in the Susquehanna River, about eight miles north of Conowingo Dam. This is the only one of its kind in the world.

Q. Is it not a fact that Maine extends farther east than North Carolina?—R. K. A. Yes, Eastport, Me., is the easternmost city in the United States. It is situated on Moose Island, Passamaquoddy Bay, in longitude 66 degrees 59 minutes west. This is several degrees farther east than the easternmost point in North Carolina.

The Children's Book—Here is something especially for young children—stories and verses from the best loved classics of childhood. Also included in this little 32-page publication are riddles and paper folding which will provide fun for the youngsters on rainy days. Mother, too, will like this little booklet for the memories it brings back to her in the poems and stories which are all-time favorites.

Q. Why do the pupils of Elton College in England wear top hats?—R. D. A. When King George III, patron of the school, died in 1820, the pupils went into mourning by wearing top hats, black coats and vests. This afterwards became the characteristic manner of dress.

Q. When and where was Jack Johnson knocked out by Jess Willard?—E. M. A. Johnson was knocked out in the 26th round in the fight at Havana, Cuba, on April 5, 1915.

Q. What is a tramp steamer?—M. M. A. A steamer is called by this name when it does not belong to any regular steamship company, but is owned or operated by an individual.

Q. What causes a film of yellow powder to be seen on a porch after rain?—C. H. G. A. The Weather Bureau says that undoubtedly the yellow powder on the porch was pollen. The usual cause of a "golden rain" is pollen from forest trees. In these cases the turbulent air raises the pollen from the trees to rather high levels, then when the conditions are right, it is precipitated with the rain. When the rain evaporates, it leaves the pollen as a yellow powder.

Q. In what direction should a tennis court be laid out?—N. Y. A. Such a court should be laid out with the ends north and south.

Q. In Romeo and Juliet there occurs the phrase "Set up my everlasting rest." What is its source?—E. L. H. A. The expression is derived from gaming. The rest was the highest stake the parties were disposed to venture.

Q. May fats be stored in glass jars?—E. D. M. A. The Bureau of Human Nutrition, and Home Economics says that fats should be strained into clean, wide-mouthed cans—never into paper bags or glasses. To preserve the glycerin content, salvaged fats must be stored in a cold place away from the light.

Q. Is spinach native to the United States?—W. F. E. A. Spinach was not introduced into this country until 1827. Sir Joseph Banks, the English naturalist, found spinach in New Zealand while circumnavigating the world, in the year 1770.

Q. What mammals have no tails?—B. R. W. A. Besides man, the gorilla, orangutan, chimpanzee and guinea pig are the mammals without tails.

Q. Where was Teresa Wright, the motion picture actress, born?—M. S. W. A. She was born Muriel Teresa Wright in New York City on October 27, 1918.

Q. What is the first of all temperance pledges in New England?—M. C. M. A. Alice Moore Earle so classed a passage in the diary of Gov. John Winthrop: "The Governor, upon consideration of the inconveniences which had grown in England by drinking one to another, restrained it at his own table, and wished others to do the like, so is grew, little by little, into disuse."

Q. What city in the United States has the greatest amount of sunshine?—V. T. A. Yuma, Ariz., has the maximum amount of recorded sunshine, 88 per cent of the possible. Localities having in excess of 80 per cent are extreme Western Texas, Southern New Mexico and Arizona and portions of Nevada and California.

Singing Haven

Nothing can hurt the heart securely sheltered Beneath the sturdy rafters of a song. Even though storms descend, the singing haven Is like a rock immeasurably strong. Yet it is like the fragility of petals, Is like the whisper of a scented wind, Resembles much the gauzy shimmering pattern Of webby lace between the grasses pinned. Blessed is he whose heart has found in singing A welcoming peace and love the seasons long; Blessed is he a million times and over That in so frail a thing finds what is strong. ROSE MYRA PHILLIPS.

Agencies Now Squirm Under Scouting

By DAVID LAWRENCE. There's just a touch of irony in the hurt attitude which some of the bureaucrats are adopting with respect to the behavior of a congressional investigating committee. The New Dealers are past masters in the art of tormenting the citizenry with the smearing powers of a congressional committee. Now that a hostile majority in the House is turning the spotlight of scrutiny on some of the arbitrary acts of Government boards and commissions, it is interesting to see the New Dealers squirming and crying out about unfair tactics.

David Lawrence.

It wasn't unfair, doubtless, for the administration to permit the tax affairs of leading citizens to be held aloft through congressional committees as examples of tax avoidance when the laws at that time permitted the tax deductions. Tax avoidance was deliberately confused with tax evasion. It wasn't unfair, apparently, for the Federal Communications Commission, now under special investigation, to deny a hearing to Elisha Hanson, counsel for James Stahlman, when the right of the commission to order an investigation of newspaper ownership of radio stations was being challenged.

Other Chapters in Story. It wasn't unfair, either, for the FCC in 1933 to adopt a resolution throwing open to agents of a Senate investigating committee information obtained from an unlawful seizure of private telegrams of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Cos.—an action which a Circuit Court of Appeals here subsequently denounced as illegal.

Nor was any righteous indignation expressed by New Dealers when a House investigating committee asked, on the witness stand, a member of a presidentially appointed board why Federal funds were used to lobby against pending legislation—an action in plain violation of the Federal statutes—and the answer given by the Government official was that the end justified the means.

Nor was there any righteous indignation voiced by today's defenders of the FCC when the Justice Department, though impounded by a formal letter by Representative Howard Smith to do so, failed to prosecute the official in question.

Violations Ignored. As for prosecution of members of Congress for alleged technical violations of the statutes concerning the practicing of law before Federal departments, there have been many cases of this kind that have not been pursued by the Justice Department under either Republican or Democratic administrations. In fact, under the present regime, violations of the Federal Corrupt Practices Act by persons influential in the Democratic party have also been ignored by the Justice Department.

Thus it will be recalled that the Democrats got out a campaign textbook in 1936 and obtained contributions from corporations in violation of the plain language of the law. Some of the textbooks were even autographed by the President, but the whole episode was ignored by the Justice Department. Presumably the statute of limitations has run out by now.

The House recently ordered an inquiry into the affairs of the Federal Communications Commission. It is unfortunate that the chairman of the commission and the chairman of the House investigating committee apparently have so little fondness for one another, but the issues involved go deeper than the clash of the two personalities.

Smokescreen Futility. The evidence thus far reveals that the joint chiefs of staff of the Army and Navy petitioned the President last February in the interest of military security to remove the FCC from the field of radio military intelligence and that to date the President is apparently being placed in the position of caring more for his alliance with the members of the FCC, which has the political power of life and death over radio stations, than for the wishes of the joint chiefs of staff in time of war. This is an issue which has nothing to do with the personalities in the investigating committee or in the commission and no amount of smokescreening is going to erase the basic questions that have gone unanswered.

Also the public is interested in knowing how licenses for radio stations have been awarded in the past. It is entitled to know how licenses are granted and what considerations of politics or favor, if any, are involved. The House committee has seized certain files and records of the FCC, whereupon a cry of unfairness has arisen. If the files contain nothing that proves irregularity in handling licenses for radio stations it is difficult to see why there should be so much furor over the "routine" procedure of a congressional investigating committee.

It might, of course, be better if Representative Cox resigned from the inquiry and if the chairman of the FCC resigned from the commission, but so long as one stays in the picture, the House is likely to desire to keep them both in it, for sometimes only through these clashes do the real facts come to view. Only by congressional exposure sometimes does invisible Government become visible.

The Political Mill

By GOULD LINCOLN. The stage is being set for a bitter political campaign next year. On one thing alone the New Dealers and the anti-New Dealers are united—the successful prosecution of the war. On every other conceivable issue they are fighting all over the lot. The lines are being drawn in no uncertain way. The New Dealers are intent upon holding, if they can, the votes of the great mass of workers—who are making more money today than any workers ever made anywhere. They are opposing legislation that would cut into these gains by labor. They are against a Federal sales tax.

Gould Lincoln.

They are for the so-called "rollback" Government subsidies, which are in effect a further wage increase by reducing prices which must be paid for food. They are against anti-strike legislation, or any legislation that is opposed by organized labor, such as the Hobbs anti-racketeering bill. They do not want the pay-as-you-go income tax law, with its withholding tax. The anti-New Dealers, including both Republicans and Democrats, are supporting, for the most part, the legislation which the New Dealers oppose. They are attacking the administration of the "home front," relying on the discontent aroused by rationing regulations, the shortage of foodstuffs, bureaucratic interference with business and the like.

The anti-New Deal forces in Congress have dealt the administration blow after blow. They have eliminated agency after agency set up by the New Deal administration—the last being the National Youth Administration.

Fight Over Rollback Subsidies. This they have accomplished by denying money to continue these activities. They passed the anti-strike law, with its ban on political campaign contributions by labor unions, over a presidential veto in jig time. They have engaged in a knock-down, drag-out fight with the President over the rollback subsidies. They have cut appropriations for OPA and for the OWI. They have pigeonholed the Guffey Coal Act extension bill.

They are lining up pro and con in the fight between Vice President Wallace, head of the BEW, and Jesse Jones, Secretary of Commerce and head of the RFC. Indeed, the charge is being made more openly now that the attack by Mr. Wallace on Mr. Jones is a New Deal move—an effort to "purge" Mr. Jones. A strange circumstance is that the President apparently has done nothing so far to bring an end to this controversy between the Vice President and his Secretary of Commerce, which is being waged publicly with extreme bitterness. The danger lies in possible effects which these desperate controversies and political maneuvering may have on the war effort itself. The anti-New Dealers insist they are striving to improve conditions on the home front—that unless these conditions are bettered there may be a lowering of morale among the people. The New Dealers declare these attacks are made on the President for political purposes alone. They charge that these attacks will undermine the confidence of the people in the administration and that, in itself, will hamper the war effort and lower the morale of the people.

In Congress the anti-New Dealers have demonstrated again and again in recent months that they have the upper hand. It would be disastrous if, because of this power, they should oppose everything which the administration proposed, irrespective of its merits. The battle on the home front then would seriously menace the battle overseas. This country has but one Government, and that Government must wage the war. Coolidge has on both sides are not happy over the picture which Washington presents today. Many Republicans in Key Posts. The charge is made in anti-New Deal quarters that from the start of the war the administration has endeavored to run it as a New Deal affair. Reference is made to the failure of the President to make use of men of undoubted ability in various war activities. This is true only in part.

The President has two Republicans in his cabinet who never could be classed as New Dealers—the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy. There are many Republicans in key positions in the war agencies. There are several who are working as assistants in both the War and Navy Departments.

This country is not going to get along with winning the war by covering up mistakes, either on the home front or abroad. They should be uncovered and corrected. But neither is it going to progress with the war if one half of the population gives a great part of its energy to hating the other half, and vice versa. The elections and the preceding campaign next year are inevitable. If President Roosevelt seeks a fourth term, he will have to stand on the record he has made both in the war and at home. His opponents will attack his administration at the same time.

But in the meantime, it is folly to attempt to break down the administration. War production must continue and everything possible must be done to see that the armed forces have all the sup-

I'd Rather Be Right

By SAMUEL GRAFTON. Our gurgling over the absence of a German offensive in Russia was hollow. There is a German offensive, a big one, on the Orel-Belgorod front. Those who fought the war with a loud ha-ha directed against the Germans for not being able to make an offensive have now had their ha-ha returned to them. They may wear it on their lapels, under their V-bonnets.

Samuel Grafton.

Those Americans and Englishmen, too, who rested their propaganda case against Germany on her presumed inability to mount an offensive in Russia, now have no case. It has blown up. We made a claim; a foolish, premature claim. It has been answered. Let that be a lesson to us, to stop snickering. Snickering is not propaganda. Even if the New German offensive ends soon, even if it turns out to have been a feint, the biggest feint in history, an elephantine feint, there will still be no ground for resuming the chuckles and low laughs with which we had blithely unprepared ourselves for this great threat.

If the German offensive was delayed, it was delayed for a reason; when it was made, it was made for a reason; if it halts, it will halt for a reason. To search out these reasons, to come to know them, in all their awful seriousness, is our task, and not to make each other's ribs sore with much nudging and early and feverish self-congratulation.

Bomber Losses Up. What was Germany doing while we thought she was only holding her wounded toe? While we have been improving our defenses against plies they require. The American people must be protected from inflation, and they must be provided with sufficient food and civilian goods to maintain their morale.

It may be possible largely to eliminate from the coming campaign the question of America's foreign policy. It would be a fine thing both for this country and for the nations allied with it, if this could be accomplished. The Republican party can, if it will, write a foreign policy strong and broad enough. And the New Deal party at the same time can, if it will, refrain from adhering to fantastic promises which would only bring about severe differences among the American people.

the submarine, which is Germany's weapon of economic blockade, she has been improving her defenses against bombing, which is our weapon of economic blockade. Our ratio of bomber-losses seems to have increased lately. We have taken a great deal of cheery comfort in the fact that Germany has switched much of her aircraft production from bombers to fighters. That is cold comfort, especially for American and British bombers. What's there to be glad about in Germany's switch to fighters?

Germany seems, also, to have decided to defend Italy. Hanson Baldwin, in the New York Times, names the German divisions which have been sent to save Mussolini. He makes the flat statement that the moment for an easy victory over Italy has passed. Italy's new cockiness supports this account. Her first wild terror seems to have evaporated like a nightmare dream.

No Cause For Mirth. I do not bring up these points to cause alarm. I bring them up to show there is no cause for mirth. I bring them up so that maybe from now on we can avoid doing from movie-comedian's double-take, in which the smirk of glee forever fades down to the wistful oh! These moods of strange, unreal delight come on us whenever we try to puzzle out some way of defeating Germany without a second front.

If Germany delayed her offensive against Russia, we may be sure she did it for German reasons, not American reasons, nor British reasons.

Only the second front, dividing Germany's armies, and therefore paralyzing her will, can shape the future of the war along American and British and Russian lines. Let others read the auguries, the insides of chickens, the wet tea-leaves as they will; I believe we can take our comfort only from what we do, not from what the enemy does.

Frank S. Staley, 64, Dies; Associate of Rockefeller

By The Associated Press. NEW YORK, July 8.—Frank S. Staley, 64, vice president and a director of Rockefeller Center, Inc., died Tuesday after a long illness. Born in Springfield, Ill., Mr. Staley had been a business associate of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for the last 21 years, largely in the field of real estate. President of the Normandy Realty Co., Mr. Staley also served as vice president and director of the Deekins Corp. and the Van Tassel Garage Co., both formed by the Rockefeller Foundation for handling real estate projects.

This Changing World

By CONSTANTINE BROWN. Although the visit of Gen. Giraud as guest of President Roosevelt fully was expected to have a purely military character, there are indications that matters pertaining to the political jockeying for power in Algiers will have to be discussed. Such discussions have become imperative because it is impossible to divorce the military situation from the restlessness caused by political agitation.

Constantine Brown.

Highly placed officials in Washington are of the opinion that to pull together to defeat the Axis the consequences of the existing strife might become tragic for the French and their Allies, on whose success the whole future of democratic France depends.

Competent quarters here no longer attempt to camouflage the fact that the situation in North Africa has reached a point where strong action may become necessary. So long as the fight of the faction headed by Gen. de Gaulle was directed principally at obtaining political power in North Africa without contributing more than words and propaganda to the Allied military efforts, Washington and London attempted to minimize the dangers of the situation.

Matter Concerns Allies. But when reports began to pour in that efforts of agents of the leader of the Fighting French were directed at disorganizing the forces of Gen. Giraud was attempting to create a modern army, it was obvious it could no longer be considered an affair of the French themselves. It became a matter of concern for the American and British authorities who have a large military stake in North Africa and the Mediterranean.

It is of only relative importance that some reports indicate that Gen. de Gaulle and many of his followers show dictatorial tendencies which, in many respects, are akin to those of the enemies we are fighting. Many views and opinions will have to undergo a change before the Allied forces—assisted, we hope, by the French—liberate France.

Gen. de Gaulle has shown himself inexorable toward the French officers and high-ranking officials, such as the former governor of Dakar, Pierre Boisson, who had many dealings with Vichy and Marshal Petain. Yet there are a number of former strong Vichyites in the ranks of Gen. de Gaulle.

The difference between them and the others is that they took good care when they changed horses to pledge their allegiance to the French leader in London. That was the fire which purified them of all past sins. Little Said Officially. This remarkable attitude was observed in Washington. It was obvious to American officials that Gen. de Gaulle wished to create a powerful political machine by which he would hoist himself as the unchallenged ruler of France. All these facts have been registered in Washington for several months. But in a desire to show that we do not wish to interfere in the political affairs of an area in which we have only a temporary vital military interest, little was said about it officially.

But when Gen. de Gaulle managed, by clever maneuvering and by using some men who follow only personal interests, to obtain almost complete control over the Committee of National Liberation, the United States began to intervene.

Gen. de Gaulle was told that, after all, North Africa is a military area where the military commander in chief—Gen. Eisenhower—must have the last word in all affairs. When it was discovered recently that the friends of Gen. de Gaulle, by a misguided burst of enthusiasm for their leader, began an intense anti-American propaganda campaign, the situation could no longer be ignored or allowed to follow its present course.

Drastic Step Seen. We are in a military area in North Africa. And, while we have made every effort to give the French people the impression we are merely their guests, it has become increasingly difficult to maintain that attitude.

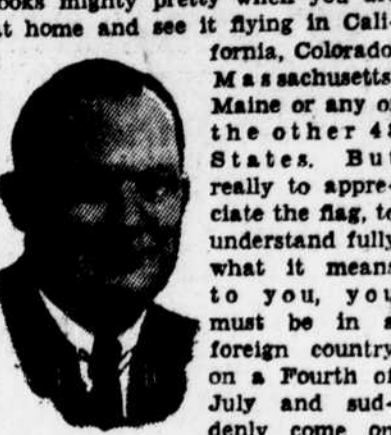

Some drastic step may have to be taken soon. What this step will be depends mostly on the French themselves. Gen. Giraud is a good soldier without political ambition, and we trusted him from the day he escaped from France. Yet he is now being described by his own fellow Frenchmen—followers of Gen. de Gaulle—as a stooge of the British and the Americans who does not represent the French national aspiration.

We in Washington consider that the main French national aspiration is to defeat the Nazis. And in this we are doing more than our share as far as France is concerned. Gen. Giraud agrees 100 per cent with us in this respect. This causes those who are seeking to further their own political interests to describe him as a stooge.

Too many military considerations involving many American lives are involved for President Roosevelt to allow the present situation to continue.

McLemore Celebrates Fourth On American Soil

By HENRY McLEMORE. DUBLIN.—George M. Cohan was right—it is a grand old flag. It looks mighty pretty when you are at home and see it flying in California, Colorado, Maine or any of the other 48 States. But really to appreciate the flag, to understand fully what it means to you, you must be in a foreign country on a Fourth of July and suddenly come on its colors whipping in the wind.

That happened to me here in Dublin on the Fourth. Some Irish friends were driving me through the winding roads of Phoenix Park when, just as we took a bend in the road, there was the Stars and Stripes, standing out above the trees. It was flying from the staff of the American Legation. A good stiff breeze held it straight out. Every star, every stripe seemed to be telling the world that this was Independence Day, not only for the United States but for the world.

Colors Never Brighter. I have been looking at the flag and respecting it ever since I was a school child and recited the Oath of Allegiance every day. But never were its colors so bright as at that moment. The red was redder, the blue bluer and the white whiter. I could feel that crazy little tingling feeling up my spine. The hair on the back of my head sort of bristled and there was a catch in my throat.

I asked my Irish friends if they would mind stopping the car near the Legation gates. I knew that under international law or something of the kind that the Legation grounds—all the space enclosed within the walls—was American soil and that I wanted to touch it. I am sure my friends thought I was batty when I climbed out of the car and made my way past the guard at the gate. He wanted to know what I wanted and I said, "Nothing much, pal, but I am an American citizen and this is the Fourth and I would like to spend a few minutes on American soil."

My passport got me through and for 10 minutes—right in the heart of Dublin—I celebrated the Fourth of July. I didn't celebrate it in the usual way with firecrackers. I just walked around, getting a kick out of being on a part of America, even if the part I was on was thousands of miles away. I picked American flowers. I picked up American rocks from the drive and then I scuffed my feet on American grass. I stood in the shade of American trees. I sniffed the air and would swear it was a bit different from the air outside the gates. It was air—maybe this was my imagination—that smelled of Georgia pines and Oregon redwoods and the little streets in New Orleans and New York.

Turmoil Forgotten. And, all the while the flag was still there. One look at it and all I could think of was the goodness of my country. Forgotten were the strikes and the fights between various parties and inflation and income tax and all the other things which are given so much prominence.

All I could think of was that at the moment I was a part of the greatest Nation on earth and that above my head flew a flag that is respected even by its bitterest enemies. The Axis powers may rant and scream with hate against the Stars and Stripes, but they know in their hearts that their hate is based on the knowledge that as long as it flies they cannot win. I don't know what the members of the American Legation thought of me, walking around the grounds. They must have seen me through the windows. If they ever see this, they'll know what they saw was just a country boy—a homesick country boy—recreating a few memories of America. I might have been there yet had not the Irish friends begun honking the horn. If this all sounds corny to you, if it all sounds like stuff and nonsense, just spend a Fourth of July on alien soil and just see that flag away from home. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Training-plane "handy" means...

means... "On your own!"

3-Ring "handy" means...

Before man learned to speak his mind, he talked with his hands. And to this day, hands talk for us. Playgoer's "handy" means "Hurrah! Do it again!" Hush "handy" means "Quiet, please." Thinker's "handy" means "I've got an idea!" When Peter Ballantine tested his brew for PURITY, BODY, and FLAVOR, he saw three moisture rings left by his glass on the table. The 3-Ring trade mark has since come to stand for "something better" in a moderate beverage. And now it's come to life this "handy" way, to hurry along your glass of Ballantine Ale... America's finest since 1840.

Federation Head Assails Women's Apathy on Voting

By The Associated Press. LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., July 8.—Influence of women to their voting privilege was criticized today by the president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women, Inc. Dr. Minnie L. Maffett, in an address before the Board of Directors session at the federation's annual meeting here, questioned "whether women have met their full responsibilities as citizens." "Since 1919 women in the country have had the right to vote, and yet statistics prove that no more than half of us have accepted this privilege," she said. "It is useless for women to rail against the faults of man-operated government," Dr. Maffett asserted, "if they fail to fulfill their citizen obligations."

Rich Diamond Dealer Now Is Private in British Labor Unit

By a Staff Correspondent of The Star.

ALGIERS.—From one of the biggest diamond dealers in the world to a private in a British labor battalion in North Africa is the strange story of Jacques Novak.

A few years ago, according to the story he told when picked up by an American jeep, he was waiting beside the road in the shade of an olive tree awaiting transportation to a hospital for treatment of an injured foot, he supplied a good share of the diamonds for engagement rings through the lower Mississippi Valley. There was certainly something unusual about this elderly man in his British field uniform.

He was an operator on the Brussels diamond exchange. His chief outlet was through his brother, Wolf Novak, wholesale diamond dealer of Memphis, Tenn. Some years his business netted him as much as $200,000, when times were prosperous in the United States and Southern boys were buying their girls big diamonds.

Started Business in 1916.

It was a business he had built up since he came to Antwerp from his birthplace, Kiev, Russia, in 1910. He left Russia as soon as he had put in his two years' service with the army. Then came the German invasion of Belgium in May, 1940, and he fled into France, leaving all his property behind. The next step was his arrest by agents of the Vichy government as a "Communist." He was sentenced to a North African internment camp where for two years and eight months he led, he says, a life of hell on earth. Worst of all was his inability to communicate with anybody.

About two months ago he was released to join one of the alien companies of the British pioneers where he has all the privileges of any British soldier except that of bearing arms.

The 58-year-old soldier, by his own testimony, has been one of the world's richest diamond traders but today he is childishly happy over his warm clothes, regular meals, and clean bed in a pioneer camp. It is such a change from what he has known for nearly three years and the old days in Antwerp seem like a dream.

Whether or not Mr. Novak's story is entirely true, he is not untypical of the sort of man one is likely to pick up any day along a North African roadside.

North African Notes.

North African notes: A priest in the flowing white robes of a Dominican monk with a wooden crucifix suspended by a chain of beads about his neck—but wearing the red fez of the Moslem. He explained that he is a French Army chaplain of a regiment with both Moslem and Christian soldiers in which the fez is part of the uniform and he was wearing it with his religious robes because he had mislaid his more appropriate headgear.

A company of American colored soldiers marching along a dusty road and counting off to keep in step: "Hot toe-ee-ho, hot toe-ee-ho."

Sometimes a little incident gets one mad all out of proportion to its significance—which is what happened yesterday when a fat Arab demanded 50 centimes, 1 cent, for sitting on a bench in a public park. He was hooted out by irate soldiers and left vowing to bring the gendarmes.

Civil Service Orders Hatch Act Ouster of 2 Illinois Engineers

By the Associated Press.
The Civil Service Commission ruled today that officials of the Illinois Highway Division violated the Hatch Act during the 1940 general election campaign to an extent that warranted removal.
The commission administers the act, which prohibits political activity by Federal employees, and also by State employees paid from Federal funds advanced to the States.
The commission named as the two Matthew J. Fleming, assistant chief highway engineer, and Charles M. Slaymaker, district engineer. The former is understood to have resigned.
Mr. Fleming's violation, the commission declared, involved "systematic collection of 2 per cent of employees' salaries for the benefit of the Democratic State Central Committee" and "a leading role in the 20-letter plan," whereby, it was explained, employees under him were instructed to write that number of letters to friends seeking support for candidates of the party.

Slaymaker Aided Plan.
The commission said Mr. Slaymaker also participated in fund collections and the letter-writing plan. It added that both were guilty of "making an active part in the management of a political campaign, in that they directed preparation of campaign literature . . . used their official influence . . . in the election . . . and coerced employees to make contributions."

The commission said that in fairness to both it should be noted "four higher officials appear in the evidence of 1940 political activities in the division."
"The law of physics to the effect that the force of pressure applied from above is determined in part by the height from which it comes is also true in the realm of politics," the commission declared. It listed the officials as:
The then Governor, John Steele; Charles P. Casey, director of the department of public works and buildings; Warren P. Brockhouse, assistant director, and Ernest Leberman, chief highway engineer.
If Other Violators Listed.
The commission said the report Mr. Fleming had resigned had no bearing on the case as its findings would prevent his re-employment by a State or local agency within 18 months.
Referring to 59 other employees of the same office, the commission listed 17 as violators but said their violations were not serious enough to warrant dismissal. Fifteen were held not subject to the act and 27 as non-violators.
One of the important issues involved in the cases was definition of the term "principal employment," the commission reported, and in this connection it has approved the following general rule as a yardstick:
"Any employee of a State or local agency is subject to section 12 (a) of the act if as a normal and intended incident to his principal position or job he performs duties in connection with an activity financed in whole or in part by Federal loans or grants; otherwise he is not."
The commission rejected the defendants' contention that before an employee of a State or local agency can be held subject to the Hatch Act it must be shown that as such he does more work on which Federal funds are applied than he does on work which is exclusively State or locally financed.

U. S. Workers Schedule Dance Next Wednesday

The National Association of Government Employees, composed of some 2,000 Federal workers here, will hold its second dance next Wednesday in the Washington Hotel ballroom from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

WATCH RADAR!

WATCH ELECTRONICS!

WATCH CROSLLEY!

YOU'VE run across both these words recently—radar and electronics.
For instance, you read the other day about a Jap battleship that was sunk, at night, by one of our ships eight miles away! An amazing new development of radar helped do that.

Practically every day you read about an enemy target that has been visited by Allied bombers. That's electronics at work . . . electronics helping to get the planes over the target, helping them drop their bomb loads accurately, helping them find their way home. The list of wartime achievements of both these dramatic developments grows with every allied advance.

And these dramatic achievements paint another picture . . . a picture of peacetime America, in which the wonder working benefits of these scientific advances will go to work for you.

That will be Crosley's job, and the job of other manufacturers tomorrow . . . to develop the new dream products that will go into your home, help make your working day easier, your leisure more comfortable.

No one can be sure exactly what these products will be. But can you imagine this—a new oven that will cook your Sunday roast by high frequency waves . . . cook it thoroughly, in less time, without even heating the pan in which it sits.

A home radio that will bring you undreamed of reception plus an action image of the broadcast in full color.

A bright, new family car that will give you close to fifty comfortable miles per gallon of gasoline.

And this is only the beginning. The necessities of war have pushed scientific development ahead years. Among Crosley's many contributions to our war effort have been highly useful applications of both radar and electronics. That's Crosley's full-time job today—to devote every ounce of experience and skill and hard work to help win the war. Right now Crosley is developing fighting equipment to our Armed Forces and our allies at a rate of more than $100,000,000 a year. And tomorrow, this same Crosley inventiveness will go to work for you . . . will produce the "dream products" you are waiting for.

But here's one word of warning!
Don't think that you can fall out of line in the Victory Parade, step into your appliance dealer's, and have these dream products sent home. Here's why—

To develop and design these dream products and convert factories to their production will take time—perhaps years for some of them. It is time that can't be spared by Crosley or any other manufacturer until the war is won. The first products any of us produce will probably have normal yearly improvements added to the pre-Pearl Harbor models.

But you can salt away some War Bonds on this fact!
Dream products are coming! You'll find many of them on your Crosley dealer's floor just as soon as it's humanly possible to get them there. And when we say "humanly" possible we promise you the experience and ingenuity of one of the finest engineering staffs in the country, plus the skill of the thousands of Crosley workers who are today handing our fighting men and their allies war-winning quantities of the finest, most modern fighting equipment.

Yes, when dream products do arrive, Crosley will have them for you as soon as anyone else . . . and faster than many.

J. William Stohman, Bakery Owner, Dies In Chevy Chase

J. William Stohman, 78, well-known Washington businessman and proprietor of the baking establishment bearing his name, died yesterday after a long illness at his home, 328 Dorset avenue, Chevy Chase, Md.

Born in Baltimore, Mr. Stohman was brought to Washington by his parents when he was only two months old. The family settled in Georgetown and J. W. Stohman, Mr. Stohman's father eventually took over the bakery which had been founded by the elder Stohman's aunt, and the son succeeded him. Under Mr. Stohman's direction Stohman's Bakery became a landmark on Wisconsin avenue.

Mr. Stohman, Jr., now conducts the business, since expanded to include confectionery and catering.

A past president of the Potomac States Bakers' Association, Mr. Stohman enjoyed a wide acquaintance and the esteem of business associates in this city. He maintained a residence in Georgetown but shortly after the turn of the century began spending the summer months in the suburbs where he subsequently made his permanent residence.

Active in civic affairs, he served 20 years as Mayor of Somerset, Md., and was one of the founders and charter board members of the Bethesda Fire Department.

Mr. Stohman was a member of Blessed Sacrament Church and a member of the Holy Name Society of that parish.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Annie O'Donoghue Stohman, and nine children, Frederick Stohman, J. William Stohman, Jr.; Mrs. D. G. Mahony of Syracuse, N. Y.; Dr. Martin A. Stohman, Edwin L. Stohman, Mrs. J. B. McGrane of Philadelphia, M. Helen Stohman, Mrs. J. W. Anderson and Mildred A. Stohman.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at the residence, followed by a requiem mass at Blessed Sacrament Church. Burial will be in the family plot at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Ludvig Ekis Dies; Latvian Statesman

Ludvig Ekis, 50, financial and economic adviser of the Latvian Legation in Washington, died yesterday after a long illness. He made his home at 1827 Ingleside terrace N.W.

Mr. Ekis, a distinguished Latvian statesman, was born September 11, 1892, in Latvia, and from 1918 to 1919 he participated actively in Latvia's struggles for independence.

From 1934 to 1938 he was the Minister of Finance of Latvia.

He was educated at Riga and served in the Russian Army from 1914 to 1917 and then in the Latvian Army from 1918 to 1920. Mr. Ekis then entered the diplomatic service, becoming secretary to the Berlin Legation, and later going in a similar capacity to Helsinki, Finland.

In 1925 Mr. Ekis became chief of the administrative section of the Foreign Office. Since 1926 he has been counselor of the London Legation, chief of Western section and League of Nations Department of the Foreign Office, Minister to Lithuania, minister of finance and acting foreign minister.

Mr. Ekis came to this country in January, 1941. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Alma Ekis, and a son, Sigurd, a student at George Washington University, who received his draft notice to join the Army the day his father died.

Funeral services will be held at Elyson's funeral home, 1300 N street N.W., at 3 p.m. Saturday. Burial will be private.

Win, Lose or Draw Feeble Pitching Marks Collapse Dropping Nats to Fourth

By BURTON HAWKINS, Staff Correspondent

The Sports Scene Viewed From a Roller Coaster

CLEVELAND, July 8.—George Case, who has stolen 24 bases this season, has been thrown out only five times. On three of these occasions the catcher was Paul Richards of Detroit. Case and Stan Spence have been the only Nats to steal bases since the team deserted Washington, and Spence owes his steal to Case, who whisked into third on the advance end of a double steal at St. Louis.

With the baseball season nearly half over, Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis' Baseball Guide has finally reached the desks of the Nation's sports writers. It's a 708-page book, 51 pages of which are devoted to printing in large type the names of baseball players in the service. It's a complete, informative volume, but it's a little disappointing to a collector of a Christmas card in July.

Gerry Priddy, who is in a terrific slump, wants to submit to an exhaustive physical examination and Dutch Leonard, whose pitching hasn't been passable, says he wants an X-ray made of the ankle he broke last season. Priddy wants to fly home to Los Angeles during the three-day layoff created by the All-Stars, but which time he expects to be a father.

Weren't Fooling Dykes. The suspension of Ed Smith White Sox pitcher, came as no surprise to scribes. Manager Jimmy Dykes recently told them he was aware of some of his pitchers were doing too much training in night clubs.

Sid Luckman, who frequently is referred to as the Chicago Bears' famed braintrust, may be as smart as he's cracked up to be, but a gentleman we met this week prefers to believe he isn't. He says he's seen Luckman's wrist taped, with sequences of plays penned on the tape, too often to feel that Sid is a superman between the ears.

Help Clark Shaughnessy install the T formation at Pitt, Luckman says, "I think Shaughnessy is the greatest teacher of the T formation in the game. Give him two years under normal football conditions and he'll have Pitt right on top again." After the abrupt manner in which Shaughnessy deserted Maryland, it may be discreet to ask if he plans to give Pitt two years. If Shaughnessy ever fulfills his ambition of becoming head coach of the Bears, Hunk Anderson will leave the organization. They don't click.

Drinks Were on the House

When 45 candidates reported for summer football practice at Wisconsin, Coach Harry Stuhldreher had to search for somebody he knew.

Guehtler Ambitious In Bowling Series

Southpaw Bub Guehtler, whose brilliant maple-spilling last week end was the highlight in the Lucky Strike All-Stars' sweep over the Aheer shortshooters at Bethesda Center, aims to be the first bowler to fire three successive 400 sets in match-game competition when the two strong combinations meet for the second time Saturday night at the Lucky Strike.

Picked by Capt. Hokie Smith to pair with Ollie Paolini in the doubles after leading the team victory with 400 in the first round, Guehtler came back with 408 and had been pressed by Bill King in the singles he more than likely would have become the first Washington bowler to mark up three straight 400s. His set was 378.

Hi-Skor will be the scene of Sunday's Red Cross benefit tournament and as added features Manager Eddie Winslow has carded the rubber match between the starchy Madge Lewis-Al Wright and Frances Wilson-Perce Wolfe combinations and a team match with the Bratburd Pigeettes and a mixed aggregation composed of Evelyn Naylor, Ruth McClinton, Harry Schooley, Charley Buckner, Hal Lee Roy and Larry Sullivan.

The mixed doubles start at 8 o'clock and the team match at 8.

Pete Gabardini started with 151 and 420 as Maxey's Esso whitewashed FHA with 584 and 1,683 in the International mixed loop at Greenway Bowl. Eve Rude Beauty Salon with a 2-to-1 win from Jap Haters replaced Absher as league leader when the latter dropped the odd game in V-5 with Vernon Neitzey's 131-350 the edge.

Hope Wilkinson's 311 was tops for the fair rollers in the Mount Rainier mixed loop, with Matt Ransom's 342 best for the men.

Clay, Reds' Outfielder, Boasts Powerful Arm

Dean Clay, Reds' outfielder, boasts of a powerful throwing arm. He threw a ball over the right field fence, 322 feet distant, at the Houston (Tex.) Buffs' Stadium last year. And if the occasion demands, he can play the infield. With Rochester this spring he played a number of International League games at short.

Jeff-Johnson Bout Tells Maid's Age

ATLANTA, July 8.—An agitated housewife telephoned the Atlanta Journal sports desk, inquired the date of the Jack Johnson-James Jeffries heavyweight championship fight.

"I suppose you think it's silly," she explained, "but I'm trying to find out how old the maid was when she was born, but her mother says it was the day Jack Johnson fought Jeffries."

Hot Spurts by Tigers, Chisox Hasten Fall Of Washington

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer

The honeycomb seems to be over for the Washington Nats.

Before the start of the double-header on the Fourth of July Washington still was a wonder team and in a virtual tie with the New York Yankees for first place in the American League.

Today the Nats are in fourth place as the result of losing five of their last six games and even though they are only a single percentage point out of the Yankees' grasp, prospects of threatening for the lead again are not bright.

The Nats' present plight may be traced to weaknesses that were apparent even before the club collapsed on its current Western trip. They had a problem at third base that was so hopeless that Manager Ossie Bluege in desperation finally installed veteran outfielder Bob Johnson at the hot corner.

Tigers, Chisox Spurt. Since becoming an infielder last Friday the big Indian has hit three home runs and cranked his bat capably in the field, but he hasn't been able to hold the club above its challengers. The pitching has been unsatisfactory and the infield play spotty.

Moreover, the Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox have taken advantage of the Nats' slump to put on two of the fastest spurts of the season in the American League. The Tigers, who moved into second place yesterday by beating Washington, 9-1, have won 9 of their last 10 games and the Sox have won 8 of 10.

Hal Newhouser, the Tiger's slim southpaw star, pitched five-hit ball in beating the Nats, and his teammates gave him two four-run innings. Twice Don Ross came to the plate with the bases loaded and singled.

The White Sox nosed out the Boston Red Sox, 3-2, when Wally Moses stole home with the bases loaded and his 18th in the 14th inning. It was his 10th stolen base of the season. Johnny Humphries pitched eight-hit ball over the extended route and gave only one safety in the last seven frames.

Yanks Sweep Series. New York's Yankees completed a sweep of their four-game series at St. Louis as Spud Chandler shut out the Browns, 4-0, on six hits. Nick Eiken accounted for one of the leaders' runs with his sixth homer of the year and fourth of the Western trip.

The only other teams to get into action yesterday were Cincinnati and Boston in the National League. They divided a double-header. Eimer Riddle pitched three-hit ball as the Reds won the first game, 5-1, and Manny Salvo came back with a five-hit performance for a 4-2 decision in the nightcap.

At North End he will be up against Capt. Alvin Kay's veterans Snacko and Applejack, Elsie Thompson's Hi-Boy and Mrs. F. Stone's Sing Song and Synarchy. Dr. and Mrs. Walter Kees will be up on Mrs. Stano's entries.

Among the hunters and jumpers competing for the championships will be Eya Rabbit's Jack's Queen, Angelina Carabelli's Our Day, Dorothy Smith's St. Nick, Penlon Fadel's Brown Betty, Thelma Pulver's Wind Day, A. W. Callett's Red Shell and Mrs. Cora Smith's Gone Away. There probably will be entries from other riding schools. Barry Leithead of Rockville and Mrs. Barber of Bethesda also will show.

Besides the open back class, which starts the program, four hunter and four jumper events are scheduled. Hunter classes will consist of after and hunter, green hunter, women's working hunter and working hunter, the last two to be run over the outside course.

The jumpers will compete in a warmup, open jumper, handicap jumper and modified Olympic.

'Entry Blanks' Out For Bond Bowling

'Entry blanks' for Silver Spring's War bond bowling tournament were expected to be available at all Metropolitan Washington banks today. The "blanks" are applications for War bonds with the memorandum receipts attached thereto being the bowlers' tournament credentials.

Other than the purchase of a bond there is no entry fee for the event, the prizes, totaling more than $3,000 in War savings having been donated by Silver Spring limousine and the Washington government will run from July 18 to July 21. The goal—purchase of a Flying Fortress.

St. Paul Club Handed Record Walloping

Even though 1942's last-place St. Paul Saints are resting in fifth place today, they still must be rated the American Association's most beaten-up team.

On May 3 they took a 24-to-3 lambing from Milwaukee and on May 8 they fell before the Brewers again, 20 to 0. Last night the Saints absorbed an 18-to-1 pounding from Indianapolis. Those are the three highest totals of runs made in this year's race.

Indianapolis also defeated St. Paul in a second contest, 6 to 4, and crept back within a game of the idle leading Milwaukee club.

Twin Track Competition Carded at Banneker

Entries close tonight for the colored Government employes track and field meet tomorrow at 5:45 at Banneker Recreation Center. There will be events for both men and women.

Entries may be filed with Joseph Cole or Beatrice Strydan at the District Recreation Department, Adams 2650.

Badgers Have Lone Vet

MADISON, Wis., July 8 (AP)—Forty-five candidates have reported for summer football practice at Wisconsin, but only Fullback Len Calligan has had any experience in a Badger uniform.

Wyatt's Shoulder Lame

BROOKLYN, July 8 (AP)—Whitlow Wyatt, veteran Brooklyn pitcher, has been ordered to do no throwing for two weeks because of a lame right shoulder.

Fielding Mark Set By Bosox's Doerr

CHICAGO, July 8.—Bobby Doerr of the Boston Red Sox has set a major league fielding record for most chances accepted without an error by a second baseman and still is piling up the count.

Since making a misplay May 20 in Cleveland, Doerr has handled 285 plays flawlessly, topping the established mark of 271 Oscar Melillo made with the St. Louis Browns from April 30 to July 8, 1933.

Balata Ball Rated Liveier Than Old Pill

Before members at his Plum Hollow course, where next month's Ryder Cup matches will be played, Demaret stepped to the tee with half a dozen balls—three from the pro shop shelves and three reprocessed numbers. His longest drive of 255 yards was with an old pellet.

The reprocessed ball averaged 8 yards more in distance. Later Demaret repeated his experiment and got the same difference.

"Prewar golf balls, if you can find them, have lost a lot of punch," Demaret explained, "while the balata cover on the renewed ball adds a lot of distance. I've been playing with the old ones all year and, boy, do they carry."

"The reprocessed ball naturally isn't as durable as the prewar pellet, but it holds up well for at least one round."

HIGHWAYMAN—Wally Moses of the White Sox stealing home with the 14th-inning run that brought a 3-2 victory over the Bosox in Chicago yesterday and sent Dykes' club into third place.

Yankee Doodle, Flashy Jumper, North End Horse Show Entry

By LARRY LAWRENCE.

North End Stables' equitation field on East-West highway at the head of Sixteenth street will be the scene of a horse show starting at 2 o'clock Sunday. A varied program will give owners of both hunters and jumpers opportunity to vie for championship ribbons in two divisions.

Making her first appearance in many months in show rings here will be Mrs. Fred J. Hughes, back from Fort Bliss, Tex., and anxious to show her jumper, Yankee Doodle, now a thoroughly experienced competitor.

Yankee Doodle, known locally as a youngster under the name of David, has competed in numerous shows in Texas and, according to Mrs. Hughes, has won every jumping class he has entered.

At North End he will be up against Capt. Alvin Kay's veterans Snacko and Applejack, Elsie Thompson's Hi-Boy and Mrs. F. Stone's Sing Song and Synarchy. Dr. and Mrs. Walter Kees will be up on Mrs. Stano's entries.

Among the hunters and jumpers competing for the championships will be Eya Rabbit's Jack's Queen, Angelina Carabelli's Our Day, Dorothy Smith's St. Nick, Penlon Fadel's Brown Betty, Thelma Pulver's Wind Day, A. Speed Afoot Carrying Chisox Nearer Top

CHICAGO, July 8.—If bats won't break up a ball game, use your feet. That is the policy with Chicago's White Sox, who are running wild on the bases and getting away with it.

They got away with it again yesterday—a steal of home in the 14th inning by Wally Moses with two out and the bases loaded—to continue their dazzling dash up the American League ladder.

Just 17 days ago the harum-scarum Hogs were tied for last place. Today they are in third, four games behind New York's pace-setting Yankees. Tonight they get around to the Yankees in the first of a five-game series. Victory would be the 11th in their last 13 games.

Yesterday's stolen base, which brought a 3-to-2 win over Boston, was the 77d of the season for the flighty-footed Sox, whose only rivals in this matter are Washington's Nats and their George Case.

It was the third time this year the Sox have stolen their way home and the second time Moses has accomplished the trick.

Strain of Extra Work Tells as Carrasquel Bows in Detroit

By a Staff Correspondent of The Star.

CLEVELAND, July 8.—As Washington tumbled to the fringe of the second division, Manager Ossie Bluege today war in the midst of a pitching plight that borders on desperation. His nine-man pitching staff has consistent performers only in Mito Candini and Early Wynn, and as a result the Nats' pitchers are overworked.

There are indications, too, the Nats' hurlers were overestimated by virtually everybody except Manager Jimmy Dykes and his Yankees. Sox, who said when Washington's pitchers were bumping off most foes regularly earlier in the campaign, "Those pitchers simply aren't that good. With a couple of exceptions, Washington simply has a flock of throwers."

Washington's pitching situation may improve, but the outlook isn't rosy. Bluege is inclined to employ Dewey Adkins only when games are lost, he'll lose Ray Scarborough to the Navy for less than a month and he has seen three of his original starters, Alex Carrasquel, Dutch Leonard and Ewald Pyle, take some brutal beatings.

Carrasquel Is Punished. How desperate Bluege is becoming over his pitching is reflected in his managing the last several days. He started Carrasquel against the Browns in the second game of a double-header Sunday and because his relief hurlers were weary and the game beyond recall, he permitted the big Venezuelan to remain on the mound for the route and absorb a 10-3 shellacking.

That game was called at the end of seven innings to permit the Nats to catch a train, but Alex had a hard day's work. He pitched to 36 batters only two less than Wynn pitched to in beating the Tigers the other day at Detroit.

Bluege stuck Carrasquel back on the mound with only two days rest yesterday, the first time in many seasons a Washington pitcher has been asked to start two games in four days after traveling as long as seven innings in the initial effort.

After four innings of scoreless, one-hit pitching, Alex lost his effectiveness and Detroit pushed over four runs in the fifth en route to a 9-1 victory.

For the first time in more than three weeks, Bluege planned to restore Pyle to the status of a starter here today as the Nats and Indians collided in a morning game in opening a five-game series. Bluege was promised Pyle on the strength of a recent fine appearance against St. Louis.

Hitting Sinks Saddy. Washington is hoping to improve on its feeble Western trip record at Cleveland's expense. The Nats have won only 3 of 10 games on this journey, dropping successive series to Chicago, St. Louis and Detroit as they pitched to center field.

The Nats' hitting isn't enthusing Bluege either. Gerald Priddy has gone plateward 22 successive times without obtaining a hit and the Nats in general suffered a slump yesterday as Harold Newhouser limbered up his Washington pitching staff.

Produced its only run in the 11th inning on Mickey Vernon's single and Stan Spence's double.

Carrasquel invited his downfall in the fifth by walking Jimmy Bloodworth to single things. Paul Richards stepped to center field and Bloodworth stopped at second, and when Newhouser put down a bunt, Alex stabbed futilely at the ball three times and saw an easy force play at third evaporate on the error.

Bluege Sticks to Line-Up. Vernon took Doc Cramer's bounding and whipped the ball to Catcher Angelo Giuliani, forcing Bloodworth, but Don Ross then singled to center, scoring Richards and Newhouser. Dick Wakefield's double fetched Cramer across and Wakefield scored later on an error by Third Baseman Bob Johnson.

After Washington obtained its run, the Afters got four more in the sixth off Jim Mertz as Cramer walked, Bloodworth, Ross and Wakefield singled and Newhouser doubled. Detroit scored its final run in the 11th on a single by Harris' triple and Richards' double. Ross and Wakefield each collected 3 of the Tigers' 11 hits.

Washington made the trip here last night by boat, the first time in more than 20 years that the Nats for the first time had to travel to Cleveland other than by train.

Bluege plans to stick to his altered line-up that will find Gene Moore playing in the outfield against right-handed pitching and Red Marion taking over against southpaws.

Dykes Suspends Smith

CHICAGO, July 8 (AP)—Manager Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox has suspended Pitcher Edgar (Lefty) Smith indefinitely for being out of control. Smith has won four and lost six games.

Rickey Digs for Talent

PONTIAC, Mich., July 8 (AP)—Branch Rickey, Jr., son of the Brooklyn general manager, will conduct a three-day tryout here July 24 to 26 for 200 potential players recommended by high school coaches and sandlot observers.

Stars Yesterday

Hal Newhouser and Don Ross tied for the ball to Catcher and latter twice singled with bases loaded to tie-scoring runs against Senators.

Gene Chandler, Yankees—Shut out Browns on six hits. Elmer Arnes—middle pitched three-hitter in winning first game of double-header. Gene Newlin—hit five hits, performance in nightcap.

Stole home with bases loaded and two out in 14th inning to beat Red Sox.

OUTDOORS

The first year book of the International Game Bird Association is off the press and is available to anyone without charge as long as the supply lasts.

It is made up of contributions from angling members from all over the world. Anyone interested in game fishing will find the contents highly interesting and instructive. Actual records are not included, for they are contained complete in other forms. Both may be had by writing Francesco LaMonte, secretary and associate curator of the American Museum of Natural History in New York.

The shortened season in the South in 1942, fewer hunters and the scarcity of ammunition are just a few of the factors responsible for the remarkable increase in game birds in the fields and coverts of the Atlantic States.

Observant sportsmen have noticed a surprising increase in traveling nearby Maryland and Virginia highways. Many have been perched on trees flanking the lesser traveled by-ways; even an occasional pair of chukars are noticed feeding in the hedges, while the whistle of the Bobwhite is heard everywhere.

These signs must be considered carefully for they denote at least twice the crop we have enjoyed in more than a decade, and something must be done about harvesting it this fall.

There are those who should know who continue to believe there will be some ammunition released for this purpose. Certainly it is important for what is true in the coastal area probably is true in other sections, and as the harvest of sportsmen last year totaled in excess of 250,000 pounds of game, the potential crop this season possibly might be half a billion pounds.

Great Lakes Tilts On WMAL Mike

Two exhibition baseball games between major league teams and the Great Lakes Naval Training Station will be broadcast locally by WMAL, the Evening Star station. The Yankees will play Great Lakes tomorrow and the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight with the Bluejackets on Tuesday, July 27/ both games to start at 3:15.

The broadcasts will be short-waved to servicemen around the world. Great Lakes is managed by Mike Rockchane and has numerous former major leaguers in its line-up, among them Johnny Mize, George Dickey, Bob Harris, Tom Ferrick, Eddie Pellagrini and Earl Grace.

Lightweights Starr, Cummings Listed For Turner Semi

Two fast lightweights have been matched for the semifinal spot on Promoter Turner's boxing program next Monday night at Griffith Stadium. Signed for an eight-rounder are Maxie Starr, North Dakota Indian and now a soldier at a nearby Maryland camp, and Tuffy Cummings of the Royal British Navy.

Both have appeared in six bouts. Starr's most recent bout was when he went against Beau Jack at the ball park. Although overmatched against the former champion, he showed plenty of heart and willingness before being knocked out in six rounds. Cummings on the same card was decided by Eddie Kane.

Before the Beau Jack bout, Starr fought two snappy draws against Pete Galiano and decided Collier Ostwalk.

Wills Picked to Fight Montgomery July 20

Frankie Wills local welter, will be the opposition for Bob Montgomery, New York lightweight champion, in the 10-round main event of the Liberty A. C. boxing program at Griffith Stadium on Tuesday, July 20.

Wills has signed to make 145 pounds for ten bouts, which shouldn't be hard for Wills to do. He has a weight advantage probably of 10 pounds.

Frankie earlier was in line for a big fight this summer after his upset win over Al (Bummy) Davis, only to receive a temporary setback when he himself was upset by R. J. Lewis. Since then, however, Wills has put two good fights behind him. He whipped Jerry Fiorelli at Richmond and recently at the stadium chilled Manuel Rosa in two rounds.

Tillet Fast Mat Victor Over Rugged Sharkey

The Original Angel, Maurice Tillet, has his winning streak intact here after taking 15 minutes to pin rugged Babe Sharkey in last night's feature rassling match at Turner's Arena.

Michelle Leese won the semifinal in 16 minutes against Ace Freeman in the other matches, the Mask won over Chief Mambu Tabu, Ed Pavloski defeated Allen Cherney and Johnny Long and John Bonica provided a draw.

Sandlot Leagues Stage Two Shutout Tussles

The Departmental Baseball League second-half schedule opened yesterday with Naiman Photo blanking B. M. Balcony, new entry in the loop, 5-0.

Another shutout was registered when Heurich Brewers trimmed Preter Cab, 10-1, in the Industrial League.

Selected Utilities And Rails Improve On Stock Market

By VICTOR EUBANK. Associated Press Financial Writer. NEW YORK, July 8.—Selected utilities, a few rails and specialties had the go-ahead in today's stock market while many leaders elsewhere continued hampered by the red light of speculative and investment doubts.

Individual situations accounted for strength of assorted issues. Some bidding was attributed to the good war news from the Pacific, but a most-heretofore discernible in the cloudy German-Russian battle picture.

Inflation temperatures rose slightly in the wake of the Senate's veto-lifting corn ceilings to $1.40 a bushel. Commodities enjoyed an early brisk run-up, but subsided when the House committee killed the Senate decree and left the grain price matter up in the air.

Airliners and amusements led stocks on the morning upswing and gained ran to a point or more for favorites with the 1943 high plane-tickets. There were scattered retreats toward the close although advances were well in the majority.

Ickes Denies Mines Are Operated Under Lewis' Terms

By the Associated Press.
 NEW YORK, July 8.—Solid Fuels Administrator Ickes, in a letter published in the New York Times today, challenged a recent editorial statement by that newspaper that "what the administration is saying, in brief, is that it must accept John L. Lewis' terms because it is powerless to do anything else."

"I challenge that statement," Secretary Ickes said in the letter. "It simply is not true that the Government is operating the mines on John L. Lewis' terms. The fact is that the miners are working on terms dictated by the Government."

Points to May 1 Order.
 Asserting that he was "sure that the miners would be the last to claim that they have won a victory," Secretary Ickes continued:

"You seem to overlook the fact that the mines were turned over to me under the President's order on May 1. They have been in the technical control of the Government ever since that day. You not only overlook this fact, you appear to be deliberately trying to create the impression that the Government undertook to operate the mines only after John L. Lewis and his fellow officials had announced that while they would not work for the Government, they would work for the private operators, and by repeating the editorial statement to which Ickes took exception."

Answers Letter.
 The Times, in an editorial published on the same page, answered the letter by stating that "the Government has made no attempt to enforce" the order of the War Labor Board requiring Lewis to sign a contract returning the men to work for the private operators, and by repeating the editorial statement to which Ickes took exception.

"The point that we made, however, and that is too clear to be questioned, is that John L. Lewis agreed to return his miners to work only if the Government would continue to operate the mines," the editorial said. "Work would automatically terminate," he announced, "if Government control were vacated before October 31. We must repeat, therefore, what we said in our editorial of June 30. . . ."

French Leader Cites Brig. Gen. Roosevelt

By the Associated Press.
 ALGIERS, July 8.—Maj. Gen. Terry Allen and Brig. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., were cited today in dispatches for conspicuous service by Gen. Alphonse Juin, military commander of French Africa.

Referring to Gen. Allen, who commanded the 1st United States Infantry Division in the Tunisian campaign, Gen. Juin's order said: "He rushed his division onto the Ousselia plain and brought to French troops there on the 29th, 30th and 31st of January decisive support in spite of difficulties of terrain."

"He gained, in a few days, initiative over the enemy and then blocked all further advance of the enemy."

"By his coolness, his tactical sense and his personal actions he built between French and American troops placed under his orders a tested solidarity and comradeship."

Gen. Juin's citation of Gen. Roosevelt said: "As commander of a Franco-American detachment on the Ous-

No-Credit Liquor Rule Indorsed In Price Is Cut

OPA Sees No Conflict In Bill Discount Plan Unless Increase Results

John L. Laskey, chief counsel for the District OPA, today advised the Commissioners that their proposed no-credit rule on sales between liquor wholesalers and retailers would be in conflict with the price control program unless there was a "corresponding" decrease in price.

Mr. Laskey further said he could see no conflict with the price control program in a suggested rule fixing the amount of discounts on bills from wholesalers to retailers, unless a price increase resulted.

Earlier the Commissioners had been advised that the discount plan had to be dropped because of OPA objections.

Mr. Mason broke into his arguments to declare: "There is no use kidding yourselves—you are not kidding us."

He added that the general practice was for distillers to sell advertised brands for one price and to distribute liquors made from the same mash at a cheaper price under different brand names.

Mr. Davis had contended credit arrangements possible under past rules had made possible cheaper prices for alcoholic beverages here than in neighboring areas.

This view was challenged by Mr. Mason, among those opposing the proposed rule were John H. Melrose, chairman of the Alcoholic Beverage Committee of the Washington Restaurant Association; Harry Wechsler, president of the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association; Joseph C. Garrahy, representing the Washington Hotel Association; and George S. Jones, representing several Washington restaurants.

Brewers Support Rule. Support for the no-credit rule came from Wash. B. Williams, representing the District Brewers Association; George H. Hocker, the Brewers' Association of Maryland and the District; and P. A. Sugrue, past president of the retailers association, who spoke as an individual.

Proponents said that since retailers could see no reason why the retailer could not pay cash to the wholesaler. When opponents pressed for specific reasons for a ban on credit, Commissioner Mason declared it was offered to prevent "dead-house conditions," meaning conditions in which wholesalers and manufacturers.

He said there were known instances in which retailers with small retail credit had been given very heavy credit by wholesalers.

Mr. Wechsler said "all the distillers' things" in the liquor business would be wiped out "if instead of a mere credit ban the Commissioners adopted a stated graduated rule on discounts, with a top limit of 4 per cent discount."

Hotel and restaurant spokesmen protested the no-credit rule would cause grave inconvenience in their accounting for payment of supplies, and it was argued that inconvenience would be caused by the fact deliveries are "unpredictable" during war conditions.

Nearly 100 hoteliers, wholesalers and representatives of hotels and restaurants attended the hearing and divergent views as to the reasons for banning credit and the effects of such a rule were voiced.

At one point, Commissioner Guy Mason engaged in a sharp exchange with Manuel J. Davis, representing a number of licensees, who maintained a no-credit rule would prove a burden to the retailers.

USES to Recruit Vacationists for Farm Work

Director of Campaign To Get 'Hands' for Nearby Area Named

The District United States Employment Service today launched a drive to recruit thousands of Washington vacationists to serve between now and November 1 on nearby Maryland and Virginia farms—in a move designed to alleviate a shortage of farm hands.

Simultaneously, K. Vernon Banta, director of the local USES, announced the appointment of John Jones, former Pennsylvania farmer and one-time Agriculture Department employe, to head the campaign.

One of the first developments will be a meeting tomorrow of nearby county agents with USES and War Manpower Commission officials when specific labor needs of farmers will be outlined and the total number of recruits to be sought from Government and other businesses will be established.

Mr. Banta said the campaign will attempt to provide workers principally for harvesting in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties in Maryland, and Fairfax, Prince William and Loudoun Counties in Virginia. If the need arises, he said, workers also may be sent as far as the Eastern Shore in Maryland, one of the State's principal truck farm areas.

To Contact Agencies. Mr. Jones, it was said, will work closely with the personnel departments of Government agencies and will sign up all employes who are willing to work on farms during vacations. In this manner, it was expected, the "hands" will be available for placement on farms through all the harvest season.

Mr. Banta said workers will be placed on farms as requests are received by the USES from county agents, who will aid in the allocation of workers in the various counties. Workers will be paid the prevailing rate for farm hands in the areas to which they have been sent.

Some of the vacationing workers may be Federal labor camps, Mr. Banta said, while the greater proportion probably will remain at their homes in the District, being transported to farms each morning.

May Organize Pools. The USES hopes these workers, he said, probably will be left up to the farmers, although some counties may organize transportation pools whereby all workers coming into the county would be distributed by means of a central transportation system.

Recruiting will be open to both men and women, and their placement will depend on the needs for agricultural workers in the two States.

Persons interested in the program may apply at the District USES office, 501 K street N.W.

Mr. Banta said Mr. Jones will be paid with funds provided by the Extension Service to employ a director and a clerical worker for the campaign.

Concert by Boys' Band Planned for Sylvan Theater

A concert of patriotic music by the Boys' Club Band and a variety show will be presented at the Sylvan Theater this week end by the District Recreation Department.

The band concert will be presented at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow. The band, also known as the Junior Optimists, is composed of boys between 10 and 18 and is directed by Joseph D'Urso.

The variety show, which will begin at 8:30 Saturday, will include songs by Lola Saunders, soprano, and a demonstration of "magic" by Carl Shumaker, president of the Washington Assembly of the Society of American Magicians.

Accompanied by the Sylvia Kaplowitz group and dancers from the Phil Hayden studios also will take part.

The programs are sponsored by the recreation department in cooperation with the War Hospitality Committee.

Roosevelt Praises Women's Bureau in Anniversary Program

Radio Forum Speakers Include Secretary of Labor Perkins

Speakers on the Radio Forum program over Station WMAL, as the 25th anniversary of the Women's Bureau of the Labor Department was observed, were (left to right) Senator Caraway, Democrat, of Arkansas; Secretary of Labor Perkins, Miss Mary Anderson, Women's Bureau director, and Representative Rogers, Republican, of Massachusetts.

guard the standards under which they are employed."

"For one thing," she said, we must avoid long hours of work. I'm rather proud of the fact that my State of Massachusetts enacted the first enforceable hour law for women and, incidentally, the first minimum wage legislation.

"But coming back to the present, we can well follow the recommendation of the eight agencies of Government most directly concerned with the war effort, including the War, Navy and Labor Departments.

For both men and women the work-day ought not to exceed eight hours. A 48-hour week will provide one day of rest in seven. There should be a meal period of at least 30 minutes in a work shift."

Stating that it would have been "impossible" for this country to have obtained such a tremendous war production rate without womanpower, Senator Caraway said "the great majority of American women today are proving themselves worthy of the tradition of the pioneer women of another day."

Field Expands in War. "I took Pearl Harbor," she said, "to show this country how essential and extensive a part our women have to take in waging and winning a war. A week before Pearl Harbor, there were only 4,000 women in aircraft production. Today there are 300,000. Railroadings is a new field for women but some one had to do the job so they are doing it. And they aren't all office workers. They are operating steam hammers, turntables and rivet heaters."

"They are tractor drivers, crossing watchmen, locomotive wipers, yard and crew clerks, stationary firemen. Almost without exception, where there is a war job to do, women are doing it."

"Their good sense recognizes the dignity and the urgency of any job that contributes to the maintenance of the democratic way of life."

Crop Report Expected to Show Few Gains Since Last Survey

By MALCOLM LAMBOURNE, Jr. The Agriculture Department will release tomorrow its most comprehensive crop report of the year.

Indications are that it will show little improvement over a month ago. At that time consumers were told that food production would fall short of goals set last winter.

Covering the major food and feed crops, the report will give their acreage figures of the year and estimated production expected at harvest.

One source in the department said that while weather conditions have been generally favorable since spring, through most of June—one month of good weather would not necessarily permit farmers to recoup earlier setbacks resulting from heavy rains and subnormal temperatures.

Tomorrow's report, compiled from surveys of some 250,000 field agents and farmer volunteers, will give acreage figures on the following crops: corn, winter wheat, spring wheat, oats, barley, rye, flaxseed, rice, sorghums, cotton, hay, dry beans, dry peas, soybeans, peanuts, potatoes, sweet potatoes, sugar cane, sugar beets, commercial crop apples, peaches, pears and grapes.

Stewart Named Treasurer of Shrine for 7th Term

Leonard P. Stewart, prominent Mason and businessman of Washington, has been re-elected at Chicago to the post of imperial treasurer of the Shrine of North America for the seventh successive term, according to the Associated Press.

Mr. Stewart also continues as treasurer of the 15 Shriners' hospitals for crippled children which now have resources of more than $17,000,000. He is remaining in Chicago for several days to meet with the Shrine hospital committees.

Servicemen Urged To Get Receipts at $1-and-Up Hotels

Rent-Control Chief Says Plan Will Help Stop Week-end Overcharges

Guests at small, so-called "hotels" in the downtown area featuring rooms "1 and up" will be asked to obtain receipts when paying for lodgings in an effort to break up the practice of overcharging servicemen on week ends, the District Rent Control Administration announced today.

"We already have obtained receipts for several men who were overcharged," said District Rent Control Administrator Robert F. Cogswell, "but most of them can't remember their room number or its location and unless we have that information we can't help them. But if they get receipts the information contained in them will help us prosecute the case."

Must Post List. Mr. Cogswell said such lodging houses also will be required to post a list of room rates where guests can see them when registering.

"We hope this will put an end to the old excuses these places always give to the effect that a new clerk was on duty, or that the overcharge was a mistake. We want to make sure there is no mistake and we want to make sure we have the evidence against these people when they are guilty of violations."

Rent control investigators have had these places under observation on some weeks, Mr. Cogswell said, but that his office had discovered that many newcomers to Washington, most of them of foreign extraction, had gained a virtual monopoly on the business and kept one another informed of the investigator's movements by grapevine methods.

Hope to End Gouging. There is nothing the Rent Control Administration can do about signs advertising the $1 rooms as long as the place has two or three rooms at such a price. That is an old gag and racket, the administrator said. A guest seeking inexpensive accommodations naturally finds the $1 rooms gone and usually is willing to pay a higher price for some place to sleep.

"It isn't until the following Tuesday or Wednesday that these servicemen suddenly find out all their money gone and begin to figure out how they spent it," Mr. Cogswell said. "Then they remember the price they paid for a cheap hotel room and it makes them pretty mad."

"We hope to put a stop to that."

8-Hour Day Restriction Relaxed on Public Works

Laborers and mechanics employed on public works in this country by the Interior Department may work more than eight hours daily under an executive order issued today by President Roosevelt. The manpower shortage was responsible for relaxing the regulation which has limited them to eight hours a day except in cases of emergency.

They will receive time-and-a-half for the overtime, the order said.

District Schools Plan Fight for NYA Machines

U. S. Agencies Have Priority Under Conference Report

District school officials will fight to obtain use of idle National Youth Administration machinery here, although Federal agencies have priority under terms of a compromise conference report scheduled to be acted on by Congress today.

This machinery throughout the country valued at $97,000,000, is available to any Federal agency except the Lease-Lend Administration, and to vocational schools for the duration and six months thereafter.

The director of procurement of the Treasury Department would be custodian of NYA real and personal property and would decide allocation of the machinery.

Informing that application for the machinery's use would have to be made within 90 days of the measure's enactment, Supt. of Schools Lawson J. Cantrell said the District would apply.

Could Outfit Four Shops. "We will apply in 90 minutes," he said. "I inspected the NYA shop here yesterday. There is splendid machinery there we need badly. In fact, we have requests now for six additional machine shops this fall, and the NYA equipment could outfit four new shops. I am confident."

With NYA's aid ended by act of Congress, save for a small sum to permit orderly liquidation of assets within six months Congress was scheduled to act today on a conference compromise report, enabling vocational schools to utilize NYA machinery without compensation.

Under the proposal, application would be made to the Procurement Division of the Treasury Department.

Mr. Cantrell said he had been advised that the NYA shop at Thirteenth and S streets N.W. has machinery valued at $200,000.

District schools where vocational training shops would be greatly benefited through the addition of NYA machinery, Mr. Cantrell pointed out, are Abbott, Phelps, McKinley and Armstrong.

Badly Needed Here. "With this machinery badly needed here, and our school system unable to acquire practically new machinery from other sources, I cannot conceive of a situation whereby the NYA machinery here would be sent outside the District," Mr. Cantrell stated. "I feel certain our needs will be given favorable consideration, once the formula for disposing of the machinery is set up."

Allocation of NYA machinery to District schools would be determined, Mr. Cantrell emphasized, by a study of the situation. "Until we have gone through into the situation, any comment would be superfluous," he added.

Approximately 2,000 District boys and girls attended vocational classes here during the last school year. Until its official opening was ended by act of Congress, the local NYA shop expended $165,550 for the last fiscal year, and trained 2,000 students yearly since the agency began operations in 1935. More than half of those trained in the District center, Project Manager Edward R. Rodriqez, said, have entered war industries. The Washington Navy Yard alone, he added, had been calling for 50 trained workers a month.

Northeast Businessmen Give Red Cross $2,350

A check for $2,350 to defray the cost of a mobile blood donor unit was presented to the District Red Cross Chapter by the Northeast Businessmen's Association at a luncheon meeting today. It was accepted by Mrs. William Leahy, chairman of the District Red Cross Motor Corps.

Otto S. Lund, chapter manager, said the mobile unit since May had collected more than 5,000 pints of blood which otherwise would not have been obtained. He also mentioned that an ambulance donated by the association to the chapter has been in constant use since its arrival a year ago.

Two mobile blood donor units are now in constant service, making daily trips in and around the District Metropolitan Area.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt received from Norman Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross, a report stating that "in spite of the difficulties of supply, transport and establishment of effective control, more than 32,500,000 people in more than 30 countries have received food, clothing, medical supplies and other aid." The report covered the period from July, 1940, through April, 1943.

Engaging Russian Works Presented at Water Gate

By ALICE EVERSMAN.
By shortening the intermission and the time between numbers, the National Symphony was able to finish the program at the Water Gate last night with only a fine drizzle to inconvenience the audience. The threat of rain kept many people away but the small crowd made up for its lack of numbers by the cordiality with which it received the Russian program Sylvan Levin had arranged. The guest conductor and the Greek pianist, Anna Antoniadou-Kydis, were the center of attraction, both being well equipped for the particular style which the program required.

Mme. Kydis is an accomplished performer and her presentation of the Tchaikovsky "Concerto No. 1" was polished in all its essentials. She had a liquid tone which took on a fluent clarity in runs and a reflective beauty in passages of more profound intent. If crisp power was somewhat wanting in the opening chords and at other high points of the concerto, she established a vigorous climax in the final movement. The finest of style and thoroughly grounded musicianship are more her elements than brilliancy of display, and these again were illustrated in two light encores which her pronounced success called for. The stirring overture, which Glilka wrote to his opera, "Russian and Ludmila," was directed in swift, forceful manner by Mr. Levin. There is hardly a better number with which to set the mood of a program than that from the pen of the father of Russian music. His vivid fantasy, abandon and melodic wealth were equally a part of the genius of Moussorgsky, whose "A Night on Bald Mountain" and prelude to his opera "Khovantchina" were the second orchestral offerings. More intense and dramatic than Glilka, the two works by Moussorgsky scan the range of his talent for realistic depiction and sensitive etching. The weird theme of "A Night on Bald Mountain" and its startling orchestral delineation were not quite realized in Mr. Levin's reading, which did little more than to present the score with fidelity to instructions. While holding the orchestra to a spirited performance, he applied less finesse to achieving the powerful effects the composer had in mind. The prelude was more finely conceived and Prokofiev's "Classical Symphony," which followed, was the orchestral high point of the evening. This composer, who has been called a classic, a modernist and a revolutionary, has proven his claim to all three in this symphony. Fusing the past and the present and at all times a nationalist, Prokofiev's keen sense of humor gives him an individuality all his own. With the performance of the Polovstian Dances from Borodin's "Prince Igor," the program covered the best known and most engaging works of the colorful Russian school.

Trio Excellent In Concert on Meridian Hill

By ELENA De SAYN.
Dark clouds did not alter lovers of chamber music from braving the uncertainties of the weather last night to hear the Le Roy-Foster-Scholz ensemble at Meridian Hill Park. Not large in numbers, but interested and responsive, the audience seemed to enjoy fully the excellent program presented by the trio, and the piano solo number in particular. Played by the American-trained artist, Sidney Foster, Chopin's "Sonata in B Minor, Op. 58," was greeted by shouts of "bravo" and salvos of applause at the end.

The pianist, the only member of the group new to Washington, impressed one from the first by the manner with which he delivered the piano part of Haydn's "Trio in D Major, No. 30." True to style, admirably seconded by his partners, he brought out the irrepressible humor and gaiety of the composition, making it distinctive by the amount of freedom put into its execution.

It is not often that classic and romantic music find a worthy interpreter in the same person as was the case yesterday. Mr. Foster seemed to be the medium in whom both schools were reconciled. His playing of Chopin's famous and exacting work was memorable. It was his authoritative deliberation, articulation of every phrase, and innate appreciation of their musical value that carried the measure beyond the foot lights and earned him the well-deserved ovation. Again, his repose was doubly effective since it alternated with a will-o-the-wisp-like swiftness in passages which called for utmost speed and agility. Rene Le Roy, well remembered through his frequent appearance in Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's series, proved himself once more master of the flute. His chief solo, Bach's "Sonata for Flute and Piano in E Minor," played with the assistance of Mr. Foster, gave him many opportunities to display his quality of tone and breath control. Due to the character of this suite and the amount of interest it should command, a position on the program preceding the Chopin number may have been more appropriate.

Beethoven's "Variations on a Theme of Mozart for Cello and Piano," played by Mr. Scholz and Mr. Foster, disclosed the former's sensitive tone and accomplished ensemble. Debussy's "La Botte a Joux," consisting of eight charming pieces for the three instruments, was the last selection on this enjoyable program.

Army Officers and Officials Take Lead in Social Events

The Military Attache of the Brazilian Embassy, Col. Stenio Calo do Albuquerque Lima, who also is head of the military mission from his country, and Senhora do Albuquerque Lima gave a late afternoon party yesterday. Their several hundred guests included officers of the United States Army, members of the Brazilian-American Defense Commission, the Inter-American Defense Board, and military attaches of the Latin American embassies and their wives.

Col. and Senhora do Albuquerque Lima stood at the foot of the steps in the Chinese room of the Mayflower where they gave their party, and received. Senhora do Albuquerque Lima wore a gown of black crepe made with long skirt and trimmed with two diamond studded slips at the neckline. She wore no hat.

Another party in which the military predominated was that of Air Chief Marshal Sir Christopher Courtney, who gave a farewell fete in the Chinese room of the Mayflower.

Tuesday afternoon his guests were all men and included those officers of the United States with whom he has had close contact during his several weeks in Washington. Sir Christopher has been here with the mission of supply and organization and his guests also included the members of that group as well as those in the air council for Britain and officers of the British Army as well as that of the United States whose friendship he has made during his stay here.

M. Adrien Tixier, head of the Fighting French Delegation, and Mme. Tixier have been in New York, where they went to meet Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, chairman of the French Committee for National Liberation. They returned yesterday afternoon accompanying Gen. Giraud, who is a guest of this Government and is staying at Blair House. Numerous informal fetes are planned for the distinguished officer. Gen. Giraud had tea yesterday afternoon with the President and during his stay M. and Mme. Tixier will entertain him.

Other visitors in Washington who are being informally entertained are Senor Francisco J. Macin, secretary for international affairs of the Mexican National Moving-Picture Syndicate, and Dr. Pedro Cosio who is former minister of finance in Mexico. Senor Macin has come on business, for the purchase of material for the Mexican film industry, but also he will take advantage of his trip to interview officials of the various organizations of workers in the country. Senor Macin is secretary for technical and economic affairs of the Mexican Workmen's Confederation.

Dr. Cosio has come to take part in the preliminary sessions to constitute an international stabilization fund. He has come at the invitation of the Treasury Department and the preliminary sessions will be followed by the establishing of a conference of the ministers of finance of the United Nations, which will constitute a stabilization fund in an effort to avoid the post-war financial upheaval which followed the Great War. Dr. Cosio also is being informally entertained by his countrymen in Washington.

The departure of the Second Secretary of the Dominican Embassy, Dr. Horacio Vicioso, is another reason for numerous parties among the diplomats. Dr. Vicioso has been appointed First Secretary of his government's embassy in Brazil and shortly will leave to assume his new duties. Yesterday afternoon Senor Don Miguel Guerra, one of the other second secretaries—there are four attached to the Dominican Embassy—and Senora de Guerra gave a late afternoon party for the former's retiring colleague. The diplomat was honor guest at dinner Tuesday evening when the Ambassador and Senora de Troncoso were the ranking guests.

Nancy B. Early, Lt. McLachlen Are Married

The Rev. Philip C. Bentley officiated at the marriage of Miss Nancy B. Early to Lt. Thomas Park McLachlen, U. S. A., which took place Monday morning at 11 o'clock at St. Alban's Church. The church was decorated with white carnations and palms and ferns.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Early of this city and Lt. McLachlen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lanier P. McLachlen of Chevy Chase.

Mr. Early gave his daughter in marriage. The bride wore a gown of white lace and net with a fingertip veil which was held by a pearl tiara. She carried a bouquet of white stephanotis and white orchids. Mrs. F. Eugene Somers of this city was the bride's matron of honor and only attendant. Mrs. Somers was gowned in blue lace and net and she wore a short matching veil. Her bouquet was of pink roses.

Lt. McLachlen had his father as his best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held for the immediate families at the bride's home. When Lt. and Mrs. McLachlen left for their wedding trip the bride was wearing a white summer suit with black accessories and a corsage of orchids. They will make their home in Charleston, S. C., where the bridegroom is stationed.

Mrs. McLachlen attended George Washington University and is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Fraternity. The bridegroom studied at the Washington College of Law.

Viola Savage Is Married

The marriage of Miss Viola Ann Alleen Savage of Winnipeg, Canada, to Mr. William Jerome Crowder of this city took place June 26 at 3 o'clock in St. Matthew's Cathedral, with the Rev. Edgar L. Morrison, D. D., officiating at the double ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Isobel Savage and the late Mr. Alexander Savage and Mr. Crowder is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Lansdale Crowder.

Mrs. James Nolan, jr., sister of the bridegroom, was the bride's only attendant and Mr. Covert Crowder was his brother's best man. The bride wore a French blue afternoon frock with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses and forget-me-nots. Mrs. Nolan wore a yellow costume with red roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the University Club and later a dinner for the family was given. Mr. and Mrs. Crowder will reside in Washington.

Edwinna Briggs Wed in Canada; Ruth Daphne Fink Recent Bride

Two weddings have taken place recently, one in Washington and the other in Canada, that hold much interest for Washington residents. One was that of Miss Edwinna Dorothy Jean Briggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Briggs of Westmont, Quebec, who became the bride of Mr. Harold A. Traver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin C. Traver of Gloversville, N. Y., Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in St. Matthias Church at Westmont. The Rev. Canon Gilbert Oliver officiated at the ceremony.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of white point d'esprit over satin and a long veil of tulle illusion which was held by a head-dress of plumed net trimmed with pearl lilies of the valley. She carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and white sweetpeas.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Mrs. J. E. Armstrong of Toronto and Mrs. G. A. Birnie and Mrs. R. K. Morrison of Montreal. The flower girls were Carol Armstrong and Heather Birnie, nieces of the bride.

Mr. Traver had Mr. Robert Traver of Gloversville as his best man and the ushers were Mr. A. Briggs, Mr. E. Briggs, jr., Mr. R. K. Morrison, Mr. G. A. Birnie, all of Montreal, and Mr. J. E. Armstrong, jr., of Toronto.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home after which the couple left for a short trip to New York. For traveling the bride wore a light blue suit with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Chenoweth was best man, and the ushers were Mr. J. Clifton Lanham and Mr. Paul Fink, brother of the bride.

Miss Kueffner attended Summit School for Girls in St. Paul and is a graduate of Carleton College. Mr. Childs was graduated from the engineering college of the University of Minnesota and is a member of Beta Theta Pi Fraternity.

Garden Canteen Marks First Anniversary

More than 600 people gathered in the gardens of the American Red Cross yesterday for the luncheon party to celebrate the first anniversary of the Red Cross Garden Canteen.

Members of the Canteen Corps, in their crisp blue uniforms, served the many people who gathered under the gay peppermint striped awning of the canteen. Among the servers were eight volunteers who stood behind the cafeteria when the canteen was opened a year ago. Approximately 100,000 meals have been served since it was opened and its reputation as a first-rate place to eat has been firmly established.

High lights of the afternoon was the cutting of the birthday cake made especially for the occasion. The cake was cut by Mrs. Sherman Troubridge, chairman of the Red Cross Canteen Corps. Mrs. Harry Knox, food director, and one of the hardest working members of the Canteen was given the first piece. Other canteen members officiating at yesterday's ceremonies were Mrs. Frederick Wildman, chairman in charge of the chapter canteen, and her vice chairman, Mrs. Mastin White.

Distinguished guests attending the party were Mr. Norman Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross; Mrs. George Angus Garrett, chairman of Volunteer Special Services; Mr. Earl Nash, chairman of Public Relations; Mr. Otto Lund, chapter manager; Mr. Randolph G. Bishop, assistant to chairman, J. Clifford Folger, and Mrs. Wilmarth S. Lewis and Mrs. E. L. Wallis, former chairman of the chapter canteen.

Started with a two-fold purpose, the canteen now serves as training center where volunteers learn to work in groups and to handle food in large quantities and provide a nutritious as well as tasty lunch for the increasing Red Cross personnel in the adjoining buildings.

In connection with the celebration Mrs. Troubridge made an earnest appeal for more volunteer day time workers. Recently the canteen assumed responsibility for a new detail, that of serving light refreshments to donors who have just given their blood. This new assignment will begin when the D. C. Red Cross Blood Donor Center moves to its new quarters in the Acacia Mutual Life Building, 51 Louisiana avenue, at noon on July 31.

Mary H. Kueffner To Wed July 17

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Kueffner of Rockville announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Hill Kueffner, to Mr. Tappan Childs of Pando, Colo., son of Mrs. James A. Childs and the late Mr. Childs. The wedding will take place July 17 in St. Luke's Church at St. Paul, Minn., former home of both Miss Kueffner and Mr. Childs, and will be followed by a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vincent Brewer, uncle and aunt of the bride.

Miss Kueffner attended Summit School for Girls in St. Paul and is a graduate of Carleton College. Mr. Childs was graduated from the engineering college of the University of Minnesota and is a member of Beta Theta Pi Fraternity.

Other Affairs In Club Circles

Dr. Eugenie Leonard, dean of women at Catholic University, was guest speaker before the Zonta Club of Washington yesterday noon at the first of a series of July luncheons to be held at the YWCA, Seventeenth and K streets N.W.

Dr. Leonard, a member of the club, spoke on "Women and the Postwar World." In her talk she traced the contribution of women in building the world from the Greeks up until the present day.

Charter Presented

The Victory Chapter of the War Mothers of America, organized by Mrs. Anna T. Hodgkins, received its charter from the national president, Mrs. Elizabeth Martin, July 2, at the home of Mrs. Marian E. Nense, chapter president.

Mrs. Walter Criswell, State president, presided at the meeting and installed the new officers. The new officers, including Mrs. Nense, are Mrs. Helen A. Oliver, first vice president; Mrs. Nicotia C. Rogers, second vice president; Mrs. Mamie T. Wright, treasurer; Mrs. Sophia E. Cox, recording secretary; Mrs. Marie A. Keyser, historian; Mrs. I. Howe, custodian of records; Mrs. Sarah A. Bombardier, chaplain, and Mrs. Margaret Sells, sergeant at arms.

Clarendon Club

The Clarendon Woman's Club of Arlington had as its guest speaker at the first of its summer meetings yesterday afternoon Lt. S. V. Tipton, U. S. N., of the Naval Procurement Office, who spoke on "Work and Women's Auxiliary Services."

Lt. Tipton stressed the point that 34,000 women are needed in the WAVES and the Marines in addition to the 14,000 already in the service of the Navy and the Marines.

Mrs. William Marshall, State chairman of stamps and bonds, announced the sale of $2,179.95 in stamps and bonds during the one day volunteer members of the club manned the stamp and bond booth in Clarendon. Members were urged to donate blood to the Red Cross. Mrs. Claude O. Thomas, charter president, was congratulated on her fifth donation to the blood donor center.

Mrs. Ernest Feldler, Mrs. William Schock, Mrs. Claude O. Thomas and Mrs. Kenneth Pearson have just received production pins for 100 hours work with the Red Cross.

Accident Curb Drive To Be Launched by Junior Board July 18

Washington will participate in the first community anti-accident drive being held throughout the country by the United States Chamber of Commerce, Winfield Weitzel, president of the Junior Board of Commerce of Washington, announced last night. It is scheduled to start here July 18.

Under the title "Smash the Seventh Column," the drive will be concentrated in a week's activities, each day of which will be devoted to a phase of the city's life, such as government, business and industry, home, traffic, pedestrians and children. Co-operating with the Junior Board in the development of the program for Government accident prevention day will be the War Department Safety Council, headed by Col. Pelham D. Glassford, chief of the Internal Security Division of the Army.

National Unit Being Formed.
A national committee composed of prominent persons in industry and Government is being formed to advise the junior chamber in its nationwide drive. The committee and a local advisory committee will meet for the first time at the Junior Board's luncheon at the Hotel Statler next Thursday and will preview a new Pete Smith film, "Seventh Column."

The local Advisory Committee includes Chairman McCarran of the Senate District Committee, Chairman Randolph of the House District Committee, Granville Gude, president of the Washington Board of Trade; William J. Milham, chief air raid warden; William A. Van Duzer, traffic director; Washington I. Cleveland, head of the local branch of the American Automobile Association; O. P. King and P. Y. K. Howat.

Ewing Heads Campaign Unit.
Robert Ewing has been named chairman of the junior board's campaign committee. He will be assisted by James Willey, Preston Grant, Ferd Naubem, George De Franceaux, John Jacobson, William Herrmann, Robert Dunn, William Blumenauer, John Gates, J. D.

Jameson, William Carl, William Stewart, Douglas Buttard, Donald Hale, Robert Hill, William Blocher and William Rieley.

With more than 600,000 pieces of literature, the committee, it was said, will attempt to reach every home in the Washington area, as well as motorists, pedestrians and Government and private employees. At least 20 large downtown stores have agreed to arrange window displays and 10,000 posters will be distributed by Boy Scouts to smaller neighborhood stores.

Lions Club Hears How Sub Was Sunk

Comdr. James A. Hirschfield, Coast Guard, told how his ship, the Campbell, rammed and sank a submarine in the Atlantic last winter at the weekly Lions Club luncheon yesterday at the Mayflower in honor of National Heroes' Day.

Heroes of the Spanish-American and World Wars who were introduced at the luncheon included Col. Charles C. Allen, U. S. A., retired; Col. Joseph M. Heller, Maj. Owen C. Halloran and Capt. Fred Kochli.

Streetcar Motorman Halts Baby's Crying

ATLANTA.—Concerned over the steady crying of a baby on a trolley car, the operator of the car asked the mother:

"Don't you think the baby needs a drink of water?"

The mother insisted it was something else, but when the baby continued crying the operator stopped his car in front of a curb service drug store and ordered a cup of water.

The baby drank most of it and soon was fast asleep.

Atwood Is Installed As President of D. C. Rotary Club

Albert W. Atwood, former chief editorial writer of the Saturday Evening Post, was installed yesterday as the new president of the Washington Rotary Club. The ceremony took place yesterday at a luncheon at the Willard Hotel.

Mr. Atwood, in a brief inaugural talk, recalled that the club here was formed in July, 1912, and said he hoped that he could bring to his post the same youthfulness of spirit he had when he began his job as reporter for the old New York Sun 40 years ago.

Prof. Nemeias Gueiros of Recife, Pernambuco, Brazil, presented to the Washington club a flag from the Rotary Club of Brazil. A professor of law, he said he was anxious to visit the leading law schools of the United States. He introduced Dr. M. Xavier da Siveira of Rio de Janeiro.

Mr. Atwood announced that the appointed officers included George E. Muth, secretary; W. Spencer

Brenner, treasurer, and Leo May, sergeant at arms. Howard S. Le Roy is vice president and Thomas J. Groom was elected to take his place on the Board of Directors. The other new directors are Erant Low, Daniel Holland and Albert H. Lucas. The president announced that W. E. Knight, member of the Rotary Club in Tryon, N. C., was present to attend the golden wedding anniversary of Clifford K. Berryman, cartoonist of The Star, and that Mr. Berryman had visited Mr. and Mrs. Knight on their golden wedding anniversary last October.

Complainant Loses Case Before He Starts

OMAHA.—The complaining witness was so hard of hearing the prosecutor had difficulty in questioning him.

"What's the complaint?" queried Municipal Judge Dennis O'Brien.

"He says his neighbor's dog barks and howls so much it keeps him awake at night," said the prosecutor.

Chinese Art Exhibit To Close Tomorrow

A window display dedicated to the Chinese people on the sixth anniversary of their fight against Japanese aggression has been arranged to call attention to the United China Relief art exhibit at the 1218 Connecticut Avenue United War Relief Center.

The exhibit, open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily, will close tomorrow.

The special window was designed and arranged by Mrs. Getel Nastasi, local artist.

Former U. S. Worker Admits Falsifying Dependency Status

Joseph L. Mathews, 32, who is said to have held several positions with the Government, yesterday pleaded guilty before Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue of District Court to five charges of making false statements in violation of the Selective Training and Service Act.

His case was referred by Justice O'Donoghue to the probation officer for an investigation and report after the court had been informed that Mathews had orders to report for duty on the merchant marine. The false statements were in connection with claims Mathews was said to have made regarding persons dependent upon him, and financial obligations.

Architect Denies Guilt.

In another arraignment before Justice O'Donoghue, Oscar Vatek of the 5000 block of Lowell street, N.W., a senior architect with the Federal Public Housing Authority, pleaded innocent to conspiring to secure payment of illegal compensation.

George Dewey Conner of Chevy Chase, Md., also a senior architect of FPHA, who was charged along with Mr. Vatek in the conspiracy indictment and also charged with accepting a fee of $1,000 from a manufacturer of prefabricated houses while acting in his capacity as an official of FPHA, yesterday filed demurrers to the indictments against him.

Claims Indictments Faulty.

The demurrers claim the indictments faulty on grounds that the section of the code under which Mr. Conner is charged applies only to 10 executive branches of the Government. In turn, it is claimed, FPHA is not one of the executive branches and that, therefore, the section of the code does not apply. Mr. Conner also claims in the demurrers that the indictments fail to charge an offense.

Pleas of innocence were made before Justice O'Donoghue by James F. Boyer, 56, charged with receiving certificates for whiskey while falsely representing himself as a salesman for a distilling corporation. Funds he allegedly received amounted to more than $2,600, according to the indictments.

George B. Galland, 42, described as an assistant secretary and assistant treasurer of the Manhattan Cleaning Co., engaged in the laundry and cleaning business, pleaded innocent to an indictment charging embezzlement of more than $25,000 of the company's funds.

Bogus Marine Lands In Jail After Theft

How a New Zealand soldier and cook at an internment camp masqueraded as a United States marine, was entertained in a doctor's home and stole $80 from the son of his host was told in court at Napier, where Derek Rollitt was sentenced to 12 months in prison.

The impostor also obtained $120 from his host, Dr. Frank N. Harvey, after telling him that he had lost his wallet containing $180.

Mine Operations Give Realism to War Films

Two British sailors, on leave in Johannesburg, South Africa, were startled during a motion picture showing a dramatic aerial bombardment when a tremor shook the theater. They jumped to their feet, but found the rest of the audience calmly enjoying the picture.

Then the tars learned that Johannesburg audiences are prepared for thrills with their war films. The tremors are caused by pressure bursts and falls of rock in nearby gold mines.

Failing Finances Plague Lord Mayors

Mrs. Kathleen M. Canning of Birmingham, England, who was left $2,650 by her uncle, Sir William Noel, Lord Mayor of London, said that actually he left nothing at all. This was due to the expenses of his office as Lord Mayor and the disappearance of his legal business as a result of the war.

His office was bombed and closed down. Mrs. Canning added that she knew of two other Lord Mayors of London who had died without money in the last 10 years.

WITH D.C. FIGHTING MEN

CUNTER FIELD, Ala.—Three aviation cadets from the Washington area have completed the second phase of their flight training here at the Army Air Forces Basic Flying School. They are Meyer Tupper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Tupper, 1223 Concord street N.W.; James Henry Titworth, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Titworth, 213 Kennedy street N.W., and John F. Noonan, Jr., son of John F. Noonan, 315 Cedar avenue, Takoma Park, Md.

DOTRAN, Ala.—James Russell Sirlouis, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Sirlouis, 1624 Nicholson street N.W., recently was graduated from the Army Air Forces Advanced Flying School here at Napier Field and was awarded his pilot wings and commissioned a second lieutenant. He is now attending Central High School and the University of Maryland, formerly in the Veterans Administration. He has been in the service since last October.

CAMP CHAFFEE, Ark.—Capt. Arthur G. Desendorf, 3001 Foxhall road N.W., has been promoted to major here, where he is stationed with an ordnance platoon. Commissioned in May, 1942, Mr. Desendorf attended the Special Service School at Holabird, Md., and the Atlanta Motor Base at Atlanta, Ga. He has been stationed here since December. In civilian life, Mr. Desendorf was an operator of a petroleum business at 1410 I street N.W. He attended Central High School and the University of Maryland.

CHICO FIELD, Calif.—Aviation Cadet Richard E. Hamilton, 24, 5475 Thirty-first street N.W., recently completed his pilot training here at the Army Air Field and is now on the final lap of training before winning his wings. A graduate of St. John's College, Cadet Hamilton attended Georgetown University. He served one year in the Air Force before entering cadet training and received his primary flight instruction at Eagle Field, Calif.

LOWRY FIELD, Colo.—Pfc. Robert R. Pitts, 33, Brandywine, Md., recently was an operator of the Armament School of the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command here. A graduate of McKinley High School and the University of Maryland, Pfc. Pitts formerly was employed as an engineer for the Potomac Electric Power Co.

CAMP GRANT, Ill.—Sergt. Harry H. Meiners, Jr., 715 Quebec place N.W., recently was selected as the "Man of the Week" in a Medical Training Battalion stationed here. Sergt. Meiners, who attended Roosevelt High School and Hope College, Holland, Mich., formerly was employed as a stock clerk in a Washington Department store. Inducted in June, 1942, Sergt. Meiners, after graduation from Clerical School, became a company clerk here. He held this position until he voluntarily left to become a platoon leader.

SCOTT FIELD, Ill.—Pfc. Ralph A. Taylor, husband of Mrs. Florence Taylor of Washington, has arrived here at the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command Post, where he will receive an intensive course in radio operating and mechanics to fit him for duty as a member of a fighting bomber crew. FORT HARRISON, Ind.—Pvt. Leonard D. Frigillana, husband of Mrs. Ann E. Frigillana, 929 I street N.W., and Grover Dare, husband of Mrs. Mildred Dare and son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Dare, 2219 Shannon place S.E., have arrived here at the Finance Replacement Training Center to begin their basic training in finance. Pvt. Frigillana formerly was employed as a contract reviewer for the General Accounting Office, and Pvt. Dare was a bookkeeper for the O. R. Evans and Brothers Co.

EDGEWOOD ARSENAL, Md.—Sergt. Conrad A. Alberding, Jr., 705 Quincy street N.W., recently was graduated from the Non-Commissioned Officers' Staff Course here at the Chemical Warfare Service School.

CAMP LEE, Va.—Pfc. Nathan Berel, husband of Mrs. Annette J. Berel, 1900 F street N.W., has been promoted to technician, fifth grade, here at the Quartermaster Replacement Training Center, where he is a clerk in the Personnel Section. Technician Berel formerly was a correspondent with the Bureau of Census, Department of Commerce. He has been in the service since last October.

NEW! "BACTERIOSTATIC" FEMINE HYGIENE Taking Great Power With Women! Many doctors use the regular use of bacteriostatic for women who want to be refreshingly clean—for women troubled with itching odor, itching or discharge. Some products may be harmful germs—others may burn, irritate and damage delicate tissues. Pinkham's Bacteriostatic Wash is an effective "bacteriostatic" (the modern term). It not only discourages bacterial growth and infection but cleanses, deodorizes, relieves minor irritations and discharge. Has beneficial effect on delicate membranes. Externally!

Belgian Patriots Execute 16 Nazis in Reprisal

NEW YORK, July 8.—The British radio, quoting a Belgian underground newspaper, reported yesterday that Belgian patriots had executed 16 Germans in reprisal for the slaying of eight Belgians by Nazi occupation officials.

The broadcast, recorded by CBS, quoted the paper as saying: "Eight Belgian hostages were murdered in Charleroi in February in retaliation for the execution of the Fascist Mayor Teufel. Then the Nazis were informed that the crime would be avenged."

"Now the promise has been fulfilled. For each of the murdered Belgian hostages, two Germans were executed."

3 Dead, 3 Missing As Storms Sweep Northern Ohio

CLEVELAND, July 8.—Three persons were dead and a like number missing today in the wake of storms which swept through northern and eastern sections of Ohio.

Elgy Gardner, 44, farmer at Pleasant Hill, near Steubenville, electrocuted.

David Meese, 8, struck by lightning at Brightwood, near New Philadelphia.

Missing in the Steubenville area were Mrs. Charles McNeil, 36, and her 14-year-old daughter, and Andrew Thompson, 50. The three were believed to have perished when flood waters demolished their homes.

Fire Chief Edward Green reckoned damage in the Steubenville area would exceed $100,000.

The city's main water line from the Ohio River supply source was washed out and a city service crew was making emergency repairs.

Flood waters halted production temporarily at the Wheeling Steel Corp. plant.

Coast Guard boats from the Ohio River were hauled to the scene by trucks and used to evacuate 300 families, who were cared for at civilian defense canteens established in churches.

Erection of two lakeside residential areas in Toledo was completed by cost guardsmen, as Lake Erie waters continued to pour through three breaks in levees. The Coast Guard early today expressed the belief the waters would begin to recede.

An estimated 27,000 war workers were idle in Akron as high waters caused power plant shutdowns at the Goodyear Aircraft Corp. and the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. Good-year officials said 200,000 gallons of water flooded conduit tunnels from the powerhouse to plant buildings.

Partial production was resumed at Firestone last night.

A. B. F. Goodrich Co. spokesman said "considerable production was lost" because of lack of power and because of water flooding some departments.

Red Cross Chapter Goes to New Quarters

The District Chapter of the American Red Cross today began moving into several rooms of Memorial Continental Hall for the duration of the war.

Activities which will gain several thousand additional square feet of space include hospital and recreation (Gray Ladies) nurses' aides, Army and Navy auxiliary, staff assistance, camp and hospital, canteen, nutrition, dietitians' aides and the Red Cross Motor Corp.

The rooms have been cleared of their Colonial furnishings and antiques. They include the museum, lobby, downstairs north room, archives room and several State DAR rooms: Ohio, Missouri, Louisiana, District of Columbia, Illinois, Oklahoma, Iowa, Vermont and Pennsylvania.

Mrs. William H. Pouch, president general of the DAR in a statement said she regretted her inability to be present. She added: "We are glad to be serving to our 'good neighbors' across the street, and hope that the Volunteer Special Services will find our accommodations ample to take care of the growing needs."

The space was accepted for the Red Cross by J. Clifford Polger, chapter chairman, from Mrs. Charles Carroll Hall, National DAR chairman of buildings and grounds.

Argentine Sailor Circles Globe in 30-Foot Boat

BUENOS AIRES, July 8.—Vito Dumas, Argentine sailor who set out June 27, 1942, to circumnavigate the globe in a 30-foot ketch, arrived back home yesterday after his long, solitary voyage.

Dumas visited Capetown, South Africa, on the first leg of his trip, then proceeded to Australia and New Zealand. He reached Valparaiso, Chile, several weeks ago and then completed his voyage by rounding Cape Horn, the first yachtsman to do so from west to east.

Prankster Sends Police To Library for Bookie

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO.—Police raids on hand-book establishments once again have prompted an unidentified person to complain to the State's attorney's office of a "book" at 118 North Michigan avenue.

Police Capt. Thomas Duffy told the State's attorney's office:

"There sure is a book there, but until the writer is more specific we don't know the book that he complains of because there are thousands of them at that place."

No. 118 North Michigan avenue is the address of the public library.

ing in your library, having songs around your piano, putting on amateur shows and holding dances with swing bands.

"Remembering my Rhythm?" she writes, "it took 1,000 years to build the pyramids. But if they had used hamburgers and doughnuts instead of stones, this club would have had them done in three months. Or, the 'sinker' to each hamburger and doughnut floating in a 12 foot wide between Australia and San Francisco would be completed day after tomorrow. It has been fun teaching the Australian how to cook hamburgers and doughnuts and make doughnuts. A but I shall never want to smell nor see another of each from here on in."

War Bond Buyer Lists Arms She Wants Bought

By the Associated Press.
MIAMI BEACH.—Along with a check for $18,500 worth of War bonds, Mrs. Samuel T. Shapiro sent a letter asking that it be used to buy:

—One hundred anti-tank shells, 100 tanks, one motor trailer and three reconnaissance cars for the Army; 100 steel helmets or tents, 10 field rucksacks and five submarine guns for the Marine Corps; 100 life preservers, 10 fragmentation bombs, five radio receivers, 10 depth bombs and six diving outfits for the Navy; and 10 parachutes, 20 flying jackets and an aerial camera for the Air Force.

Any money left should be used for beds for Army hospitals, she said.

Man Halts Runaway, And Car 'Runs Away'

By the Associated Press.
COFFEYVILLE, Kans. — Staff Sgt. Charles L. Hogan of the Coffeyville Army Air Field drove his car alongside a runaway horse, grabbed the bridle, stopped his car and jumped out.

With the horse halted and calmed, he looked around to see his car rolling swiftly toward a tree.

He caught it in time, too.

Bootlegging Reported Climbing High Again; Drys Renew Drive

This report on the enforcement problem is the last of a series of daily stories giving findings of a Nation-wide survey of the liquor situation.

By the Associated Press. Bootlegging of liquor is on the up-grade again.

As lean periods loom ahead for American drinkers because of restricted supplies, there is evidence on the one hand of some attempts to make the lean days fatter through traffic in contraband liquor—and, on the other hand, of attempts to make them even leaner through prohibition measures.

The Government's overall view of the bootlegging and moonshining picture is that it's at its lowest ebb since the days of national prohibition, due to wartime shortages of materials, difficulties of transportation, and the march of many moonshiners to the colors.

Comeback Attempted. A Nation-wide survey of the liquor situation made by the Associated Press shows that while such law-breaking is low for the country as a whole, moonshiners in a few States are attempting a comeback, and other types of bootlegging prevail in many sections.

Reports from Virginia, West Virginia, South Carolina, Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Kansas and Florida indicate that makers of white mule and other concoctions are making persistent, though sometimes rather crude, attempts to get going in the hills and swamps.

Furthermore, there are signs that the present shortage of liquor, restrictions on hours of sale in some communities, and variations in liquor supplies between bordering States has spurred activity in many parts of the country by non-manufacturing bootleggers and black marketers.

They range from a few big operators, who still manage to keep trucks going over somewhat long distances, to small operators like taxiab drivers, bellhops and the suitcase bootlegger.

In California, customs officials report a 10-fold increase in attempts to smuggle liquor across the border from Mexico.

On the prohibition front, a bill proposing wartime prohibition has been submitted to Congress by Representative Bryson, Democrat of South Carolina. Also pending in Congress are seven other bills proposing restrictions of various kinds on alcoholic beverages.

Point to "Hangovers."

Dry leaders persistently call for restrictive measures on liquor in the vicinity of military establishments and war plants—they declare that "Monday morning hangovers" are a factor in industrialism absenteeism—and recently the Anti-Saloon League of America appealed to President Roosevelt to "prevent the sale of intoxicating liquor, including beer, on any property controlled by the Government or to any man or woman in United States uniform."

While there has been no formal action by the drys to seek a legislative return of unlimited national prohibition such as prevailed in 1918, wet forces claim that dry adherents are using appeals for wartime restrictions as stepping stones toward a bone-dry America.

Here is the picture on the moonshine situation:

While many States report that illicit distilling is cramped by shortages of copper, sugar and other supplies and by other wartime factors, other reports show that:

In the swamps of Florida about 50 stills are now being confiscated monthly—an increase of about 50 per cent over 18 months ago.

In Arkansas, shiners who had suspended operations because of lack of sugar began pooling their rationed sugar a few weeks ago and now are in operation.

Sorghum Being Used.

There's not much moonshine flowing in the mountains of Tennessee any more, but a few old timers are trying to make rum out of sorghum molasses, which a revenue agent in Washington described as "pretty good rum—but the only trouble is, a man's apt to get sick long before he gets a buzz on."

Operators in Oklahoma and Kansas, two of the Nation's three prohibition States (with the exception of 32 beverages) are also cooking up molasses rum, as are others in South Carolina. And in South Carolina, there's evidence of sugar bootlegging, with revenue agents reporting that rationed sugar was found in six of 11 stills seized in a week.

In Texas, which had a big mortality of moonshiners a year ago, things are stirring again in the eastern hills, due to new acquisitions of sugar.

For lack of sugar, shiners in Virginia are using sour mash as a base, and the number of stills being found there is on the upgrade. So, too, in West Virginia.

Lack of copper doesn't necessarily stump the hill-billy distiller, as even Stewart Berkshire, deputy commissioner of the United States Bureau of Internal Revenue's Alcohol Tax Unit, will admit. Mr. Berkshire told a congressional committee several months ago that "they get along without a great deal of copper. They take an old Ford radiator and a few tubs. They get by with a minimum."

Moonshine Prices High. While the 1943 moonshiner may be short on production, he's long on price. The "white stuff from the hills" is selling for anywhere from $6 to $10 a gallon.

There's no reported moonshining in California, but some San Franciscans are chucking over the fence they get from Honolulu regarding imitation bourbon which is made one day and on sale the next—at $3.07 a quart. "It's better than hair tonic," reports a Honolulu informant, "but just barely!"

Bootlegging salesmen and black marketers are far more numerous throughout the land than are members of the moonshining fraternity—and some of them don't even do any leg work.

The Michigan Liquor Commission freed a group of employes in Detroit, accusing them of giving liberal tipping retail vendors more than their share of the available supplies.

Others travel plenty. Bootleggers cart stuff into dry areas of Eastern Tennessee from wet belts as much as 125 miles away. Indiana, which is an open State, with liquor stores operated by private business, reports that drinkers from Ohio, where strict rationing is in effect, have made the rounds of Indiana package stores and then lugged the stuff back home "for sales to taverns or the Sunday hotel bootlegging trade by bellhops."

Sales Limited in Buffalo. New York State reports that dealers in Buffalo had to limit sales to a bottle "for persons they didn't know" to check big purchases by Ohioans, and New Jersey declares

Pennsylvanians were raiding their stocks aplenty for a while. But Jerseyites are having some trouble with the home club, too—some bartenders have been refilling empty bottles of favorite brands with other whisky.

The suitcase bootleggers are doing business in the dry States of Oklahoma and Kansas. The Oklahoma operators get their stuff from retailers in Texas, and the Kansas division buys from several neighboring wet States, traveling mostly by train.

They sell their wares to the lads back home at $5, $6 or $7 a pint.

Petty bootleggers in Virginia buy liquor for $1.50 a pint in State stores and then sell it to servicemen after hours for $5 or $8.

In Arizona bootlegging picked up as soon as liquor restrictions were lifted, and 200 leggers were arrested between January 1 and June 1. They concentrated on selling to the Indians—to whom sale is otherwise prohibited—to soldiers after hours and to some mining camps where liquor sales on Sundays were banned in an effort to avoid Monday absenteeism.

Speakeasies thrive in West Virginia and Washington State, where sales of hard liquor by the drink is taboo, and in Louisiana the latest whisper along the bayous is that: "Some one is making home brew!"

Report to the Housewife

Unless there is a drastic—and unexpected—change in the food picture in local markets by the very last of the week, most Washington households will be making their main dinner dishes of macaroni and cheese, bean loaf, fish, cottage cheese, bacon, and with luck and enough coupons, fresh pork shoulder. Because the meat situation is really tight this time, and any cuts of beef, veal, lamb or even fresh pork will be few and far between.

In many instances, it is said, the shortages are being caused by the "squeeze" being placed on meat packers, who lose money on every head of cattle slaughtered because they must observe OPA price ceilings while prices of live animals remain unrestricted.

Meat sundries, too—such as kidneys, hearts, brains and liver—are scarce, and expensive when you can find them. Most markets in town report not a single chicken to be sold—even specialty stores have been unable to obtain them most of the week. A few squabs and an occasional duck have been obtainable from time to time, but are bought up so rapidly that supplies last only a short while. Eggs are priced higher, now, and are somewhat scarce besides. The fish situation remains about the same, although in many instances prices have edged upward.

Every housewife has been meeting a shortage of butter in local stores of late and been forced to fall back on margarine, which, fortunately in this day and age is reinforced with essential food values and is not unpleasant in taste and texture. (Not like the margarine of the last war!) Some distributors blame the Government's 7-cent order rolling back the price of butter for the scarcity—others point out that many creameries have decreased their butter production preferring to make cream in fluid form, rather than make it into butter to sell at the roll-back price. Whatever the cause, Mrs. Washington knows that it is mighty hard to find in town these days. The only "Polynanna" remark we can make on the situation is

Sour Cream Has Many Uses In Menu

Prejudices are always hampering. This applies to food particularly. Take sour cream, for instance. Those whose childhood began before milk and cream were pasteurized associate sour cream with the days when a hot spell or a thunderstorm "turned" the milk and cream.

Today they tell you they just don't like sour cream and won't even try the cultured sour cream, which is a product especially designed for use as a salad dressing, or to use with meats, or perhaps best of all, for use with berries. Pasteurized sweet cream should be used while it is fresh. Of course, it will keep in a good refrigerator several days if the top of the bottle is carefully wiped before it is covered. This type of cream does not sour, it simply gets old when it is not fit for use. The cultured sour cream is thicker than heavy whipped cream of prewar days and often comes in paper cans. It looks most attractive when passed in a bowl to serve with berries.

The other day we persuaded a credulous man to take a small bit on lightly sugared raspberries, and he came back for more. There is nothing better than sliced cucumbers dressed with sour cream, sprinkled with chives or with a little minced onion and parsley. Then, of course, there are the Hungarian "paprika" chicken and veal dishes which must have sour cream for the sauce.

Perhaps some one can invent a descriptive name for cultured sour cream which would appeal to those with deeply rooted prejudices. Actually the flavor is very much like that of what the French call "crème fraiche" which all of us who have been in France in happier days enjoyed so much with the berries.

Cool, Molded Fruit Salad With Iced Coffee for Warm Evening

Frosty glasses of iced coffee and a cool molded fruit salad make dining on warm evenings a refreshing interlude. You'll find the recipes below.

You'll find cool delight on summer evenings in a molded fruit salad and an iced beverage, whether you serve them for a porch party dessert or for late evening refreshment when neighbors meet over cards or conversation. It's good hot-weather strategy to serve iced coffee for your cold brew, now that rations are easier. You needn't be troubled by the scarcity of cream, either, for you can make a creamy and delicious brew by pouring hot milk over frozen coffee cubes. And you can make the jellied fruit mold hours ahead of time and tuck it away in the refrigerator.

that by buying margarine instead you do save some red points! Fruits and vegetables continue to be expensive, although quite plentiful and of good quality. Every one is being urged to eat potatoes now, so they will provide some of the "stick-to-the-ribs" type of food at a little bit of ground meat—any kind will do—or if you like to make a fish pie or casserole, you can top it with fluffy potatoes instead of pastry.

dough and save your precious shortening for other things. Hot dogs are still to be had—and they are always good with a nice mound of mashed potato. Scalloped potatoes, topped with grated cheese can pinch his corn dish, and of course when the weather turns warm there is always potato salad. Don't forget, either, that you don't always have to serve the usual potato salad with celery, green pepper and mayonnaise. Try slicing the potatoes in thin slices instead of dicing them, and dressing them with a sharp vinegar dressing, with celery salt and finely crumbled crisp bacon. If you will experiment you will be able to introduce all sorts of new wrinkles to the art of potato salad making.

Asparagus is about over—this weekend will probably see the very last on the market this season. Peas are somewhat scarce, too, and very high. Snap beans and cabbage are reasonable, as are carrots, beets, and corn. Cucumbers and eggplant are good, onions are more plentiful than they have been, and broccoli and cauliflower are excellent. There is little spinach available, but kale is plentiful, and you may be able to find some turnip greens. Squash, peppers, okra, lettuce and tomatoes are of good quality and not too high, but celery is scarce, and fairly expensive. There are not many mushrooms or avocados to be had just now.

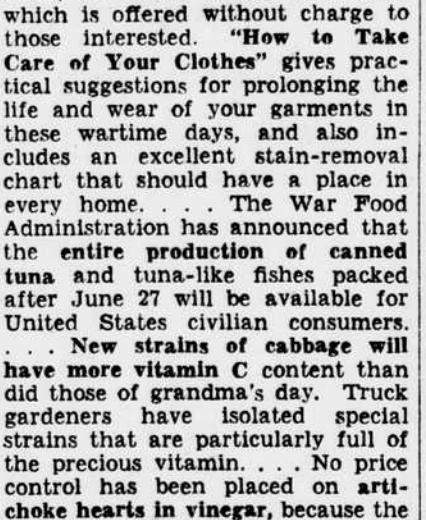

Good apricots from California, mangoes, coconuts, plums, cherries, green apples, small but delicious pears from the West Coast, pineapples, red and black raspberries, blackberries, blueberries, honeydews and cantaloupes, good peaches and very expensive watermelons round out a fruit list that is liberally but far from cheap in any item. Some fresh figs and seedless grapes are also to be found in specialty stores, with a few supplies of currants and cooking cherries seen in some markets.

Here and There: "How to Wash the Wartime Fabric" is the title of a most helpful pamphlet issued by Eleanor Ahern, director of the home economics department of the University of Maryland. The booklet is designed to aid American women in getting best results from their laundry efforts in these days when more and more homemakers are turning to their own "elbow grease" to offset the commercial laundry problem. Complete instructions for washing all sorts of materials and garments are included. . . . "The sanctification of spinach has gone far enough," says Dr. Henry C. Sherman, internationally known chemist and nutritionist. He points out that "green and yellow vegetables are important for their contribution to the vitamin A value of the diet," but states that "science does not specifically stress spinach." In fact, spinach has been found to be an unfortunate example of virtue, because it contains a relatively large amount of oxalic acid which renders unavailable the calcium which spinach contains. Other green foods, including broccoli, cabbage greens, collards, dandelion, kale, looseleaf lettuce, turnip tops and water cress are practically free from oxalic acid and are important dietary sources of calcium, vitamin A and riboflavin. So, the next time junior rebels at his spinach, make his being bright than you be thin.

Hot and cold foods, packed side by side to form a complete meal may now be served up to five hours after filling through a new system for in-plant feeding of war workers being developed by the National Blood Donor Center at the Academy of Nutrition, Inc., in New York City. The container around which the system is built consists of five compartments, each sealed with snap-in paper covers. A menu for "pre-ordering tomorrow's meal" is included, and when the containers are filled with the food, the unit is sealed and readied for delivery to the worker who has ordered the meal. Other details are worked out to a fine point, and the result is that workers fed by this method will receive adequate, well-balanced meals, selected according to their own preferences, delivered right to them at their post—thus saving time and energy. Quite an idea when it gets in full swing. . . . Good Housekeeping Institute, Fifty-seventh street and Eighth avenue, New York City, offers a nice booklet for 5 cents, "Canning the Victory Garden Crop," which speaks for itself in timeliness and efficiency. Directions for canning by various methods are clearly given, and the amateur should have no trouble in following them to a successful conclusion.

Another booklet in today's mail is issued by the Dan River Mills, 40 Worth street, New York, which is offered without charge to those interested. "How to Take Care of Your Clothes" gives the latest suggestions for prolonging the life and wear of your garments in these wartime days, and also includes an excellent stain-removal chart that should have a place in every home. . . . The War Food Administration has announced that the entire production of canned tuna and tuna-like fishes packed after June 27 will be available for United States civilian consumers. . . . New strains of cabbage will have more vitamin C content than did those of grandma's day. Truck gardeners have isolated special strains that are particularly full of the precious vitamin. . . . No price control has been placed on artichoke hearts in vinegar, because the red taint involving such a procedure would be all out of proportion to the importance of the commodity. . . . WFA has renewed its limitations on pet food manufacturers, to provide a minimum maintenance diet for household animals, and at the same time restrict the use of protein supplies in pet foods. Towner and Tabby will have to get along just as they have been doing.

Maize sure can pack a punch into an ordinary lunch! She's found Heinz Mustard's just the thing to give a sandwich zest and zing!

Some call it garnishing, but we'll call it art. Fluffy white cauliflower and shiny green mint accent the attractiveness of the pork shoulder steaks in this pretty picture platter. The subject of the picture, however, needs no accent on its other merits. Its goodness will be obvious the moment that you taste it; its economy is apparent (only at the market); its method of preparation is amazingly simple, as you'll find by reading the recipe elsewhere on this page.

Readers' Clearing House

Each Monday, Wednesday and Thursday this space is devoted to an exchange of ideas, recipes, house-keeping short cuts and suggestions between the housewives in Washington and vicinity. Please send your contributions or requests to "Readers' Clearing House, The Woman's Page, The Evening Star."

The views expressed in this "open forum" are not necessarily those of The Star, but are simply an exchange of opinion between readers of The Woman's Page. As it is obviously impossible for this department to test all recipes submitted to the column, we can assume no responsibility for them.

MUSTARD PICKLE.
(Thanks to Mrs. G. M. B., Washington.)

1 quart cucumbers cut in pieces.
1 quart white onions.
1 quart green tomatoes cut up.
4 large green peppers.
1 large cauliflower, separated.
Put in brine made of 1 cup salt to 1 gallon water—24 hours. Then I scald in same brine and strain.
Make a paste of 1 cup flour, 1 box dry mustard (6 tablespoons), 1 tablespoon tumeric mixed with vinegar, 1 cup sugar, 2 quart vinegar. Boil mixture until thick and smooth, stirring constantly to avoid burning. Add pickle while mixture is hot, and it is ready to bottle.

If you can get small onions do so, but if not, large onions cut up as just as good. This is a delicious mustard pickle.

CANNING.
(Thanks to Mrs. M. R. W., Washington.)

In reply to canning question of W. J. T. of Silver Spring. The following is a copy of a letter I received from the National Pressure Cooker Co., Eau Claire, Wis., dated June 18, 1943.

"Replying to your inquiry of recent date, we do not recommend canning in the 'Presto' cooker. To insure the proper results in canning and thorough sterilization, canning equipment should have a steam gauge that will accurately register the amount of steam pressure. . . . When the indicator on the 'Presto' cooker is at 'cook' position there is 15-pound pressure in the utensil, which is the proper pressure for canning purposes, but this cooker, being designed for short periods of cooking would not maintain 15-pound pressure for the period of time that is required to insure perfect sterilization in certain foods. . . . However, you would find it quite satisfactory for canning small fruits and berries which do not require long sterilizing periods, but we would not recommend your using it for the canning of vegetables, meats or fowl, which require long canning periods. . . . We trust this covers the information you desire, and if there is any way that we can further serve you, please let us know. . . . Yours very truly, National Pressure Cooker Co. (S.), M. M. Whelan."

W. J. T. and myself do not seem to be the only ones asking this question since my letter appears to be a form letter.

WINDOW BOX.
(Thanks to Mrs. R. W. C., Ashton.)

In answer to the request of B. M. G., would say that the ivy philodendron will do well in a north window—or on an inside archway away from a window. I have two jars of philodendron which are doing well some distance from a window.

Also have found that it does better when kept quite moist in a jar without drainage.

WHAT TO EAT?
(Requested by Mrs. E. S. O., Washington.)

I know I'm not alone in my misery—but maybe other, more experienced housewives have solved the problem of wartime menus better than I have. My husband hates the synthetic "loaves" made from beans and so on—he will eat them if he has to, of course, but I would like to be able to make him some other main dishes that would be more to his taste. He works hard and needs good food. But what can I do with eggs sky-high in price; meats out of the picture almost because there are only two of us and you know few red points that gives us; cheese rationed—and you can't eat it every day—and poultry nonexistent? Fruits and vegetables are so expensive that they wreck the budget every time. I know that fish is one answer—but even fish is getting high and sometimes is hard to find.

We don't happen to belong to the "war-swollen income group" and we're finding it mighty hard to manage wisely and thriftily. If any of your readers can give me any suggestions for improving my house-keeping methods I will bless them forever.

POTPOURRI.
(Requested by Miss A. L., Bethesda.)

Can any of the Clearing House readers give me a recipe for old-fashioned potpourri or rose bowl? Also, have any of them directions for making bags of sweet lavender for linen closets? Thank you so much.

TWO REQUESTS ANSWERED.
(Thanks to Mrs. William L. B., Washington.)

I hope the following contributions will be read by those requesting information in a recent edition of The Star. Your column is a very helpful and interesting one, and I always enjoy it.

Pomander Ball.
Select firm oranges. These do not have to be treated in advance. Use a large darning needle to pierce the skin and stick whole cloves very close together all over the orange. Put aside and let dry and cure until the skin is darkened. These are grand to put with bed linens or towels. I have some with pillowcases that have been there for four years.

Starch for Mats.
My neighbors use a special starch for their crochets mats. If you will phone me, Columbia 4770, I will give you the name. I do not believe it would be permissible to print a trade name in this column.

Did You Know?
Shortening in many cakes may be reduced by one-fourth cup. Reducing the shortening makes cakes which do not keep so well as richer cakes, but they are still good cakes. Serve them fresh. Recipes are better if cake flour is used instead of all-purpose flour. Cake flour is not only lighter than shortening. It is unratioed as well.

BRAISED PORK SHOULDER STEAKS.
2 tablespoons flour.
2 tablespoons fat.
Dredge the shoulder steaks in flour. Brown in hot fat on both sides. Cover and cook slowly until steaks are done, about 45 minutes for steaks three-fourths inch thick.

Pork shoulder steaks, logically enough, are cut from the shoulder of pork. The steaks can be identified by their shape, oval at one end and slightly squared off at the other, and by the bone, which may be either round or long and narrow, depending upon whether cut from the rib or arm side of the shoulder. The steaks are sometimes called pork shoulder chops. They are both tender and delicious and more economically priced than the better-known and therefore more-demanded cuts.

Every time your refrigerator is defrosted it should be given an all out washing and spilled foods should be wiped up immediately with a cloth moistened with soapy water. Finger marks, food splashes and mop splashes on the outside of the refrigerator should be removed as soon as they occur to preserve the fine finish.

Facts on Fats

By Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics, Agricultural Research Administration.

In fighting fat waste, the "pound wise" homemaker is "penny wise" as well, for no scrap of fat is too small to matter. To help the homemaker become both pound and penny wise in the use of fats, the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics in the United States Department of Agriculture has put out a folder entitled "Fats in Wartime Meals" which includes with numerous helpful suggestions eight fat-saving recipes. A free copy may be obtained from the Office of Information, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

In "all-out" fat saving, even the bits of table fat that cling to clean wrappings can be scraped off and used to grease pans or to rub over the crust of piecrust, poultry-made bread. The homemaker can use trimmings from meat—good flavored beef fat or ham fat—to season dishes in the same way that she uses salt pork. Drippings from roasted or broiled meat or from poultry may be added to soups, used in sauces for scalloped dishes, mixed with vegetables for flavoring, basted over lean meats while they are cooking, or substituted for other fat in cake, gingerbread, waffles, muffins, biscuits, piecrust, poultry stuffing and macaroni. The more strongly flavored fats of lamb and mutton can be used in crust for meat pies or in spice cakes, gingerbread or orange cakes.

1 teaspoon salt.
3 teaspoons baking powder.
2 tablespoons fat (drippings, rendered pork, beef fat or lard).
Milk to make soft dough (¾ to 1 cup).
Sift the dry ingredients together and mix in the fat well. Stir in enough milk to make a soft dough. Drop the dough by spoonfuls onto a baking sheet and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for about 15 minutes or until lightly browned. This recipe makes about 12 biscuits. The fat may be reduced to 1 tablespoon in the above recipe, but this makes a crisper and less tender biscuit. To make a "lid" for meat or vegetable pie roll the dough about one-half inch thick, cover the stew and bake in a hot oven. As a spread for bread to replace butter some people like the taste of rendered poultry fat or drippings from cooked meat, seasoned with salt and maybe a little onion. For variety in "extending" table fats the housewife may mix them with salad dressing, nut butters, chopped orange peel, or green vegetables, such as chopped lettuce, parsley, chives and the like. Or she may whip them up with gelatin and milk, or milk alone; prompt use is advised, for they soon get a "cheesy" taste. The home economists point out that this doesn't make more fat, but it does make it go farther.

Pat trimmed from either cooked or uncooked meat has to be rendered before you can put it to work. In other words, it has to be melted away from the connective tissues. Best method is to cut the fat into fine pieces or run it through a grinder and melt it in a double boiler or a pan set over hot water. When it is thoroughly melted strain it through a clean cloth. The pieces saved in straining may be used for cracklings in muffins and other hot breads.

Smoking is bad for fats—breaks them down chemically, makes them harder to digest, and lessens their keeping properties. Low heat should be used on fats, particularly on butter, oleomargarine, drippings and olive oil which have a low smoking point. Proper storage, the home economists say, is just as important as the use of fats. Conversion of fats. Fats should be kept cool when not in use. And that includes the little cup of drippings which some let stand on the back of the stove or in the hot sun on the kitchen table. Storing fats in a closely covered container away from strong-draw and strong-scented foods and away from the light is a wise conservation measure. Another is to check on fats from time to time to be sure they aren't turning rancid, especially before new fat drippings are added to old. Every housewife should save for Uncle Sam any fats which cannot be used in the home. These should be strained into a clean, wide-mouthed can—never into a paper bag or glass. To preserve the glycerine content, salvaged fats must be stored in a cold place away from the light; when at least a pound has accumulated, the amount may be taken to the meat dealer. These fats end up in munitions or are put to other industrial uses that speed the war program.

Pull up your chairs, folks, and jump out of the window. Another publicist has just had another mistral of the brain, the vibrations from which have lost no time in transmission to fingertips and thence into the written word.

This latest great agitation from a publicity office concerns the air-drome-sized Summer Gardens of Uline's, and more particularly the band which only today open among them. Freddy Shaffer and his Victory Sweethearts is its name. And inasmuch as it is practically a brand-new organization, you probably have gotten only the vaguest of hints that such a one has ever existed. The comptrollers of the Summer Gardens' destiny, being astute as such people must, assume this regrettable state of public enlightenment. The publicist apparently has that assumption tacked on the dashboard of his typewriter. Before the band even has a chance to brush the train soot from its collective instrument case, he is conducting his first public soiree.

The weapon he employs is a simple, terse phrase, which unfortunately is accompanied by no explanation whatever. If ever a slogan needed explanation or justification, "Hi, Freddy!" is that one.

It is an exuberant sounding thing. But is the sort of forced-draft greeting which usually is reserved for family relatives whom one doesn't see very often and in whom one isn't particularly interested anyway. Of course, if Mr. Shaffer had got his professional start locally, say 10 years ago; if he had gone off then to conquer farther fields, tonight finally to return there might have been cause for the fan-fareish welcome. The old friends and well-fishers sort of thing.

As it is, Mr. Shaffer started his career in the Mid-West and in the Mid-West he has remained until now. When he returns, a conquering hero, to Indiana, then may the chorus of "Hi, Freddy" with three !!! ring loud and long.

For sheer originality the slogan "Hi, Freddy!" as it applies locally, goes all but unrivaled. Like a bodiless head, it hangs there in mid-air furiously winning prospective customers toward the Summer Gardens (by street car only eight minutes from downtown. Probably 10 minutes from Brookland and 20 minutes from Georgetown.) There can be smaller doubt that Mr. Shaffer and his Victory Sweethearts are a most unusual and probably highly musical aggregation.

Anchor Room. The microphone into which he sings while beading the keyboard juts up from the floor between his arms, knees and into his face. Surprisingly, this interferes in no way with pedal-work, the roulades, cadenzas or the other components of the ensemble that is Mr. King. Probably the result of a certain stoicism. He once knew, a barn dance fiddler who played with the microphone between the violin and his face. He sang, too.

Wayne Hume in the Mayflower Lounge. Make yourself-at-home they call her. She visits more tables per night than any three previous lounge singers combined. Try to follow the course of the fitting Hume some evening, and don't forget your bifocals.

Jerry on the Starlight Roof of the Roger Smith. You only see Jerry once a night unless you happen to wander into the boiler room, where you assuredly have no right to wander. Jerry is the bulbous over-shoulder fellow who appears the moment the last measure of Miles Hallett's music disappears somewhere over Pennsylvania avenue. It is his task to unfasten all the electric plugs on the bandstand and to encase and anchor the music equipment; lest it, too, blow away into space. Jerry? Just an added note of color for the patrons.

Duward Bowersox in Burt's Trans-Lux. How that citizen manages to bend down to engage in animated and intelligible conversations with Trans-Lux passersby without dropping a stitch in his melodic line provides constant bafflement for sideliners. The union discussions thus set to music are his best.

TRUDY CLARKE,
One of the featured vocalists with Carlos Molina's band currently appearing at Herb Sachs' Del Rio.

However, until he, for one, have had a chance to see and hear them at work, we shall practice a degree of restraint.

Let the "Hi, Freddy!" of the publicist remain reverberating about the walls of his office. Our greeting for Mr. S. at this time cannot in conscience be more than a subdued "Jo, friend," without even the "!"

Monarchy Backers Punished by Franco, German Radio Says

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, July 8.—The German radio said yesterday that disciplinary measures had been taken against members of the Spanish Cortes who last month wrote Generalissimo Francisco Franco asking that the monarchy be restored in Spain.

"Their offense is regarded as all the more culpable, as it took place at a time when Spain, in view of the international situation, requires inner unity," said the broadcast, recorded here by the Associated Press.

All the 25 signers of the message to Franco were understood to have been members of the Spanish Cortes, whose duty it is to advise the cabinet and chief of state and who enjoy parliamentary immunity. Some, at least, were members of the National Council of the Falange, Spain's only party.

The Berlin broadcast continued: "Political circles state that other members of the Cortes who signed the letter to Franco have voluntarily resigned.

"The proceedings are not only condemned by the Falange, but also by most of the monarchists and Spanish public opinion.

"It is also pointed out that Gen. Franco has repeatedly asserted that the question of monarchy cannot be debated at the present moment and its solution must be postponed to a later date."

The petition to Franco asked that Prince Juan, the son to whom King Alfonso assigned the throne before his death in Italy, be returned from his present exile in Switzerland.

There are more than 70 conventional branch offices for Star "Want Ads" located throughout the city.

3 Free on Pledge to End Picketing of Embassy

Three persons arrested Monday by police for picketing the British Embassy won their freedom yesterday when they promised to refrain from picketing the embassy in the future. Earlier the three had refused to commit themselves to any pledges. After a night in jail, however, they informed Municipal Judge Nathan Mayrold that they had changed their minds. They qualified their promise, however, by stating that should they "feel compelled" to picket they first would notify the judge.

Shelter Is Wanted For 'Monster' Children

By the Associated Press. NEW ORLEANS.—The following ad appeared in a recent issue of the Picayune: "Wanted by a naval officer's wife—whose husband is serving overseas—and three youngsters in the form of my little children—to rent—a 2 or 3 bedroom house, apartment, barn or cage on whatever is supposed to serve as shelter when such terrible creatures as children have to be considered—not exceeding $50 per month—furnished or unfurnished. "$20 reward—subject my acceptance."

OPA to Allow Points For Food Bears Steal

By the Associated Press. DENVER.—Residents of Estes Park, Colo., high in the rugged mountains, want more ration points—because of the bears. They complained to the Colorado

Fish and Game Commission that bears are stealing their food. Since the animals are wards of the State, they argued, the State should make good for the stolen ration food. The commission relayed the argument to the Office of Price Administration. The OPA said the victims could obtain point replacements by explaining to their local board how the food was lost. Uruguay Feels Fuel Pinch Many industrial plants, office buildings and apartment houses in Uruguay are converting their fuel systems to wood burning because other fuel is not available.

GRIFFIN THE GREATEST NAME IN SHOE POLISH

ONE OF THE GREATEST BLOOD-IRON TONICS YOU CAN BUY!

You girls who suffer from simple anemia or who lose so much during monthly periods that you feel weak, "dragged out"—due to low blood iron—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound TABLETS (with added iron)—one of the best ways to help build up red blood to get more strength—in such cases. Follow label directions. Get today!

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be their kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people eliminate about 2 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Draft Appeal Board Denies Deferments In 50 Cases

The manager of the fuel oil department of a heating company was among the 50 men who lost their appeals for deferment in actions of the District Board of Appeal for the week ending June 12, it was announced yesterday.

Occupational deferment was denied Charles H. Wood, 34, manager of the fuel oil department of A. P. Woodson Co. At the same time, the appeal board granted occupational deferments to two employes of Safeway Stores, Inc., and several auto mechanics.

In all, the appeal board granted 11 requests for occupational deferment and four requests for deferment in 3-D because of hardship to dependents. It denied 50 requests for a change of classification.

No Fathers Appeal. For the first time, no fathers appealed and there were more requests for deferment on hardship cases than because of occupation.

Granted occupational deferments were:

Lavelle Edmiston, 30, Prince Georges County, Md., patrolman, Metropolitan Police; William M. Clark, 29, Arlington County, Va., substation operator, Potomac Electric Power Co.; Leo F. Nelson, 33, auto mechanic, S. and G. Garage; Bernard Vaughn, 27, mechanic, Capital Transit Co.; Ralph W. Sherman, 32, Brooklyn, N. Y., serviceman, International Business Machines Corp.; Woodrow W. Stephenson, 30, head meat cutter, Safeway Stores, Inc.; Homer F. Watson, 27, buyer, Safeway Stores, Inc.; Charles T. Duncan, 18, student, Dartmouth College; Nelson B. Coffman, 37, shop foreman, Dupont Motor Repair Co.; John A. Drury, 28, carpenter, General Ship Repair Co.; Glenn M. Spaulding, 29, machinist, United States Navy Yard.

Those who were granted deferment because of hardship to dependents were: Emil Nouza, 29, patrolman, New York City Police Department; Howard Carter, 19, employed at Greyhound bus garage; Raymond J. Gauzza, 25, paper hanger; John F. Smith, 18, clerk, Washington Terminal Co.

Objector's Plea Denied.

The appeal board denied the request of Verner Nielson, 30, for classification as a hardship case. He was continued in 1-A-O as a conscientious objector for noncombat duty. The appeal of Edward L. Jordan, 39, of the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society, for classification as a minister, was denied. He was continued in 1-A-H, available for duty when men over 38 are called.

The appeal board also denied the requests of the following men for occupational deferment:

George A. Poore, 27, deliveryman, Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase Dairy Co.; Quentin P. Hansen, 22, fingerprint technician, Federal Bureau of Investigation; Charles O. Jorg, 32, controller, Auth-Loffer, Inc.; William E. Cooke, 37, assistant chief clerk, State Department, 30-day stay of induction recommended; Clifton R. Mothershead, 26, patrolman, Metropolitan Police; William G. Younes, 23, accountant, Audit Service Co.; John Caruso, 25, manager, Catania Bakery; Maurice H. Goubeau, 31, assistant secretary, M. E. Horton, Inc.; Sol Yasney, 27, production supervisor, Geophysical Instrument Co.

Also, Arthur Sprintzin, 25, assistant economist, War Department; Clyde R. Carter, 18, student, Phelps Vocational School; James A. Hansbrough, 25, patrolman, Metropolitan Police; Ralph C. Jenkins, 34, patrolman, Metropolitan Police; David R. Glasco, 26, electrical apprentice, L. T. Washington Co., 60-day stay of induction recommended; Ralph D. Widner, 25, assistant flight test observer, National Bureau of Standards; Henry A. Miller, 34, job superintendent, Robert E. Anderson Co.; Ned C. Krouskop, 20, student, American University.

Hardship Pleas Denied.

Denied classification in 3-D as hardship cases were: William R. Tillingame, 26, employed at Railway Express Agency, 60-day stay of induction recommended; Clifton F. Soffel, 31, Lease-Lend Administration; Charles W. Stannard, 30, Army Air Depot, Middletown, Pa.; Arthur J. Boylan, 24, clerk, Agriculture Department, New York City; Angelo J. Vammino, 32, taxicab starter, Union Station; Eugene L. Shiro, 33, Office of Price Administration; Jack Lichtenberg, 28, junior inspector, Potomac Electric Power Co., 30-day stay of induction recommended; Irving H. Fox, 20, 60-day stay of induction recommended.

Also, Frederick G. Goettker, 34, clerk, St. Elizabeth's Hospital, 60-day stay of induction recommended; William H. Green, 33, upholsterer, Zallton Hoffman Co.; Richard M. Sullivan, 32, claims examiner, General Accounting Office, 60-day stay of induction recommended; Paul J. Barrett, 24, clerk, Navy Department, Milwaukee, Wis.; Leo Joel, 34, Social Security Board, 60-day stay of induction recommended; Philip Stone, 24, assistant meteorology observer, Newark, N. J.; Harry A. De Mars, 33, draftsman, War Department; Nathan N. Gordon, 28, economics analyst, Treasury Department; Edgar H. Hope, 22, steam fitter's apprentice, Singer & Clough Heating Co.; Thomas C. Mueller, 36, paper hanger.

Also, Marion D. Pitts, 25, agent, Continental Life Insurance Co.; Bowman E. Conrad, 27, manager, Jacobson's Market; Eric S. Laurence, 21, Mt. Rainier Loan Co.; Max Kirchner, 27, clerk, Agriculture Department; Abe Alenstein, 30, Bureau of Engraving and Printing; David D. Etzler, 37, assistant display manager, Julius Garfinkel & Co.; Jules Levitan, 19, clerk, War Department; Joseph L. Mathews, 32, clerk, War Department; Simon Katz, 25, assistant taxicab driver, War Department; Jack Picoult, 31, general contractor; Richard W. Holland, 29, laborer, Federal Works Agency; Samuel C. Shoup, 36, special agent, Bureau of Motor Carriers, Interstate Commerce Commission, 30-day stay of induction recommended.

Clock Across Channel Gives Britons Time

By the Associated Press. DOVER, England.—Seven young girls in a leisurely amuse themselves by telling the time from a clock in the center of Calais across the Channel.

On clear days they can plainly see the French coast and taller buildings, and with glasses can see the hour and minute hand on a clock tower in the town itself.

Why
will the weather man play a big part in rebuilding Europe?

Because
new war-time discoveries now make it possible to pre-plan a whole nation's climate. Arthur Bartlett explains how the weather man expects to handle this big postwar job, in "Can We Tame the Weather?"—Sunday in THIS WEEK Magazine, with The Sunday Star

Recognition for Mr. Andrews

By SHEILAH GRAHAM, HOLLYWOOD.
Dana Andrews has finally been promised a solo starring status, because of his fine portrayal of a bit role in "The Ox-Bow Incident." Twentieth Century-Fox, which shares his contract with Sam Goldwyn, will star him either in "The Eve of St. Mark" or in "The Keys of the Kingdom"—whichever is ready to shoot first... The lead in "Eve of St. Mark" incidentally was originally offered to Jimmy Cagney, who is now receiving acting offers from every studio in town. Cagney now has his own producing company but is willing to act for another studio, on his own terms. "The money part doesn't interest me, I have all I want," he tells would-be employers. "But I want a good picture and a good co-star." Paramount wanted Jimmy for the jockey role in "Sally O'Rourke," but he didn't think the part suited him. Universal is now trying to sign him for a picture.

Walter Huston again plays the part of Peter Stuyvesant—in the movie version of "Knickerbocker Holiday." He appeared in the Maxwell Anderson musical play on Broadway. They are trying to get Nelson Eddy and Marta Eggerth for the singing, romantic leads. The part will have to be good before Mr. Eddy accepts because he is a rich man, and like Cagney, is highly particular about the jobs he accepts. . . . Joseph Cotton finally gets in a picture for his boss, David Selznick. He has charge of the male romance in "Sins You Went Away," the cast of which gets better and better, with Shirley Temple, Claudette Colbert, Jennifer Jones, Monty Woolley and Hattie

Time's Voice Becomes Visual
For eight years the United States public has known the familiar "voice" of the March of Time, with its ringing slogan, "Time Marches On!" In all these years, the public has never seen the owner of the voice.

Now, in March of Time's latest film, "Invasion," the man behind the voice will make his initial appearance on the screen in person, as chairman presiding over a meeting of commentators.

Westbrook Van Voorhis in the film discusses with Hanson W. Baldwin, Paul Schubert and De Witt Mackenzie the factors which will determine where the United Nations will strike the Axis in Europe.

Besides exciting scenes showing the surprising extent of preparations being made for invasion, the film shows scenes of the various branches preparing for embarkation and shows how the invasion route which can be most readily supplied is likely to be the one chosen.

Duffy's Script Staff Will Be Imported
HOLLYWOOD.
Unusual arrangements for the screen play of "Duffy's Tavern," the first Skirball-Spitz presentation to be released by United Artists, were announced with the signing of the three writers responsible for the nationally famous radio show to write the scenario. One of the few times that radio scriptwriters have gone along with their broadcast achievements, the deal involved the services of Abe Burrows, Mac Benoff and Parke Levy.

Long Wait for Crime
Clarence Kolb, after more than 50 years on stage and screen as a comedian, will deliver his first villainous characterization in RKO-Radio's "The Falcon in Danger," one of the mystery series starring Tom Conway.
The venerable troupe was at one time a stage producer. He made his film debut in 1935 at the RKO-Radio Studio in "Toast of New York" with a memorable impersonation of William K. Vanderbilt.

It seems as if Ann Sheridan will have Dennis Morgan, to make love to her, and Jack Carson, in the comic, in all her pictures. The trio were in "Animal Kingdom," later abandoned, are currently in "Shine On, Harvest Moon," have appeared in "Wings for the Eagle" and are scheduled for "The Gay Blazer," which is our old friend, "The Gay Nineties." . . . New title for Bette Davis' "Tower of Strength" is "Misunderstood," which sounds right down Betty's alley. . . . Martha Raye joins Betty Grable in "Pin-Up Girl." . . . Lester Cowan wants Helen Hayes to repeat in the movie version of "Harriet."

Teresa Wright, when she comes back to picture-making, will appear for Boss Sam Goldwyn in "Bid for Happiness," based on the Helen Hayes radio series. . . . Margaret Sullavan, who gave up her acting career for motherhood, seems now to prefer her career again because after "Cry Havoc" she will probably go to New York for the lead in the John Van Druten play titled, for the time being, "The Voice of the Turtle."

****
If you hear of a flower called "the constant nymph gardenia" you will recognize the fine hand of the Warner publicity department, which has persuaded the National Florists' Association to render homage to the studio's "Constant Nymph" . . . The first of Robert Benchley's new short series at Metro is "Looking for Words," which is something Bob is never doing.
Margo, a Mexican, continues to run the gamut of nationalities. She was a Jap in "Behind the Rising Sun." She will be a French girl in "The American Story" . . . Bing Crosby gets his best singing partner in "The Parade." She's Rise Stevens, who made her debut with the Metropolitan Opera last season . . . Irene Dunne has agreed to star in "Road to Yesterday" for Columbia . . . I hope Harold Lloyd falls for Sol Lesser's surrealist eloquence on the subject of "Girl Eddy" and sells it to the producer who wants it for young Lon McCallister of "Stage Door Canteen" fame. It would be a natural for Lon, as it was for Lloyd when he starred in it.

(Released by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD.
Paul Stewart, screen, stage and radio actor, has arrived in Hollywood for his last acting part before enlisting in the Army. On arriving at the film capital he reported to the RKO-Radio studio for his role in "Government Girl," in which Sonny Tufts will play opposite Olivia de Havilland.
Stewart, who made his film debut in "Cliffen Kane," has a featured role in support of Cary Grant in this company's forthcoming "Mr. Lucky."

Winning Contract

By THE FOUR ACES. A 'Normal' Result. When a deal is played more than once it frequently proves that what is apparently a dry-as-dust average result hand actually contains potential dynamite.

South dealer. North-South vulnerable. ♠ 8 7, ♥ J 10 6 4, ♦ 10 6 4, ♣ Q 7 2. ♠ K 8 4, ♥ A K 10 8, ♦ 6 3, ♣ J 5 3. ♠ J 10 6 5, ♥ 3 2, ♦ 8, ♣ Q 8 2. ♠ A Q, ♥ A K 9 7, ♦ A K J 10 9 8, ♣ Pass.

Played in a team-of-four match, the bidding at one table went: South. West. North. East. 2♠. 2♥. 3NT. 3NT. Pass. Pass.

Though East opened a spade, nothing could prevent declarer from winning nine tricks and chalking up 600 points—apparently a "normal" result. At the other table, however, South was not content with the three no-trump contract and took it out with five clubs.

West opened the heart king and declarer found his contract in grave danger. In addition to a losing heart he had an almost certain loser in diamonds and, even if the diamonds broke, South would face the necessity of winning a spade finesse if the trumps failed to split.

But West failed to resolve his problem with a trump lead. Instead, he led the heart 10, figuring that East's ruffing out dummy's jack would be as safe as a trump lead. This did not prove the case. When dummy played the heart jack, East's ruff deflected him to two trumps.

Yesterday you were Theodore Lightner's partner and, with neither side vulnerable, you held: ♠ 4 2, ♥ K Q 8 3, ♦ A K 9 8 7 5, ♣ 8. The bidding: Schenken. You. Jacoby. Lightner. 1♠. Answer—Double. This is a more constructive call, and a safer one, than a two-diamond bid.

PVT. BREGER ABROAD

By Lt. Dave Breger

"We need FOOD! Stop fishing for materials!"

Thirty Seconds Over Tokio—No. 10

We were one-man arsenals. We were going to take off during the evening of Monday, April 20, come in over our cities in the dark and fly the rest of the way during the remainder of the night, landing after dawn in China. And with the time drawing near, Doolittle was as restless for action as any of us. Inspecting our ship, he told us not to get any of our automatics close to the compass during the flight. We were one-man arsenals. Each of us was given at least two .45s, two knives, searchlight, emergency rations, morphine, sterilized bandages and holsters and straps to hold these things to us. We were walking magnets, and the thought of that sent us back to our maps again. We had them down pretty fine, but it was a little disturbing to have the Navy boys tell us that the best available maps of the China coast line failed to show correctly its numerous coves, irregularities and the islands that skirt it.

Book-of-the-Month

As we worked the tension mounted on the ship. The Hornet was pulling away from the force, accompanied by spray-sputtering cruisers and knife destroyers. The carrier shuddered with new power and we plunged deeper and deeper into Japanese-controlled waters. We were about 1,000 miles off Japan now. We were coming into the homestretch, and everybody knew it. We worked on and cursed the turret.

Nature's Children

These fish are the survivors of an ancient group of enameled scale fish. They are found in the fresh water of North America. At times they become abundant in the Mississippi, the Great Lakes and the rivers of South Carolina. Taking it all in all, these fish are certainly unusual. They are protected by an armor of thick quadrangular scales which are heavily coated with enamel. They have the most completely ossified skeleton, as well as the most perfectly jointed backbone, of all fishes. And their bones are green.

Uncle Ray's Corner

Some persons have the foolish habit of "calling names." Sooner or later, this habit gets them into trouble, and it is also likely to make other persons feel sad. If a person is called "a donkey," it is an effort to class him as dull-witted or stubborn. The donkey is a relative of the zebra, also of the horse. Usually, we speak of wild donkeys as "asses" and use the name "donkey" for one which is tame.

Down or from side to side. This feat is possible because of the special way in which the zebra are articulated to one another. All gar pike are carnivorous. They may reach a length of 6 feet and weigh 30 pounds. This combination enables them to overpower large neighbors. And it is the practice of these fish to hide in the reeds until a victim comes within striking distance of the powerful jaws. Usually, it is caught sideways, the gar soon adjusting the captive so that its head points toward the gar's throat. With a gulp the whole fish is swallowed.

As swimmers they have few equals. They are known to ascend swift rapids, and they have great tenacity of life. When they become too numerous in shad-filled waters they play havoc with the shad nets. Fishing has to be postponed until the pike can be handled and the nets repaired. There seems to be little need for the bony pike.
