Messina Escape Port Is Laid Waste by

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 7.-The massed power of Allied air fleets laid waste the Axis escape port of Messina in Northeast Sicily yesterday in round-the-clock

Approximately 350 tons of bombs Messina as the air blows on the enemy evacuation route from Sicily surpassed in concentration anything yet attempted by the Allied air forces during the campaign. Flying Fortresses, Wellingtons, Marauders and Mitchells pulverized roads, evacuation beaches and other points opposite the Italian mainland, and Mitchells, Bostons and A-36 Invaders rained explosives on Adrano, Bronte and Randazzo, in the circular section around Mount Etna still held by the Germans. Canadian Wellingtons also dropped blockbusters on Naples in the fifth Allied raid against that big Southern Italian port this month. (An RAF survey showed that 12,000 Axis planes were destroyed or captured in the Middle East and North African campaigns London Daily Mail said in a Cairo dispatch. Eight thousand of them were German.)

RAF Liberators and Halifaxes from the Middle East raided San Giovanni, on the toe of Italy, last night, starting fires on railway sidngs and the ferry terminus. Beaufighters shot up a trawler off the west coast of Greece.

Punished by continued bombardment, the heavy concentration of enemy ground defenses in the Messina area offered "considerably less fire" yesterday than previously, and Allied airmen saw no enemy planes over the targets there.

Eight Allied planes were reported missing from the many hundreds of missions yesterday. Unescorted Flying Fortresses,

NEW YORK (A) .- A Stefani News Agency dispatch broadcast by the Rome radio said today martial law would be extended tomorrow to all Italy under a royal decree signed Wednesday. The broadcast was recorded by United States Government monitors. Zones of Southern Italy were recently declared areas of military operation. By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 7.-Roman Catholics throughout the world and the people of Italy in particular have been called on by Pope Pius XII to turn to God "in penitence and prayer" that peace might be brought to the world.

In a letter to Luigi Cardinal Maglioni, papal secretary of state, the pontiff said that "we who carry in our soul the sorrow and anxiety of all shall not leave anything untried to substitute hatred with charrity and struggle and victory with the serenity of peace.

Italian Hopes Fading. The Pope's action came in the midst of warlike utterances by Premier Pietro Badoglio and while Italy's hopes of avoiding ultimate surrender to the Allies were fading on the battlefields of Russia and Sicily and in the bomb-shattered

It appeared, however, that Hitler has not completely abandoned hope of holding Italy in the Axis orbit. An Italian frontier report said Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop met the new Italian foreign minister, Raffaele Guariglia, somewhere in Northern Italy yesterday. While there were no details available on the subjects discussed, it was presumed the Nazi leader sounded out Italy's plans for the immediate future and her position regarding her alliance with Germany. How long Von Ribbentrop planned to stay in Italy was not divulged.

Many arrests have been made among refugees from bomb-battered Hamburg, Reuters said, to prevent their spreading fantastic stories of casualties in that north port city.

Berliners' fears that their city will be singled out for devastation when autumn nights make longer Allied raids possible were reported also heightened.

Peace Strikes Reported. The Zurich Die Weltwoche said strikers demanding peace had piled new troubles on Germany's already overtaxed war industries, that workers in some factories in Austria had refused to work and the action had been followed in Stuttgart and Berlin factories. Promises of increased rations and the presence of Nazi Elite Guard members in the factories failed to deter them, the newspaper said. The collapse of Mussolini and his

Fascist regime has struck German morale with the weight of a "political Stalingrad," whose final effects on the Axis may be much more important than has vet been indicated, Die Weltwoche said. No other single event of the war has resulted in a comparable blow to the morale of the German people except the disastrous defeat at Stalingrad, the newspaper said, and this view was reflected in reports from other neutral countries bordering the Reich. Dispatches to Swiss newspapers told how the German Propaganda Ministry was left practically "gasping for breath" at the collapse of the Mussolini government. The best it could do, Die Weltwoche reported, was to tell the German people to "rely with confidence in their own strength," assuring them that "only weapons are decisive.

$285,000,000 in Gold Still Safely Stored In Martinique Vault

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN,

Associate Press Foreign Correspondent.) FORT-DE-FRANCE, Martinique. Despite repeated orders from the Vichy government to sink some $285,000,000 in gold coin stored in Fort Desaix's casemates, France's greatest single cache of wealth is safe in Allied hands. Officials recently found messages from Vichy in Government House, ordering Admiral Robert to resist with force any foreign intervention tilling industry has requested that or internal uprising and to sink the gold and scuttle the French warships and merchantmen in Fort-de-France's harbor. The orders were sent on an average of once every three days.

Plans for sinking the gold in the event of foreign attack had been completed. The 8,766 boxes of metal were to be loaded aboard one of the ships and take to sea at a point known for its great depth. Here, where the sea is too deep for successful diving and retrievement, the gold was to be dumped overboard and the ship itself scuttled.

With Col. Pierre de Chevigne, member of the French delegation from Washington and interim chief of the island's police and military establishments, leading the way, a guard of honor greeted our inspec-tion party at the fort's gateway. The colonel led the way toward the gold-studded casemates holding the coin from the Banque de France.

$32,000 in Each Box. An air of heavy somnolence hung over the fort as we descended the underground stairs. A sergeant in charge of a detachment of four colored soldiers shouted "Hyp!" The guards came to rigid attention. Beyond the heavily armored door was the treasured casemates with con-crete walls and arched ceilings. The containers, each holding about $32,000 in coins of various nations, resemble so many boxes in a shoestore. Most of the coins are French Louis d'or, or 20-franc pieces of the days when the franc was more valuable, but one-third of the total is in United States $5 and $10 gold coins. The "shoeboxes" are piled to shoulder height within three casemates about 50 feet underground and further protected by an additional 40-foot rampart built above the ground at the fort's inner wall. The boxes are sealed with heavy steel bands which require some time to break About two months ago the United States naval observer, Capt. A. S. Hickey, and Marcel Malige, the con-

Reported Gold Still There.

They told the inspectors, however they could choose any of the 8.766 boxes and, according to the story recited in Fort de France's cafes, Capt. Hickey pointed to a box in an obscure corner near the bottom of the pile. It took several soldiers a quarter hour to dislodge it and drag t to the center of the room where it was opened.

Inside was found a large sack containing several smaller sacks. Opening one of these the inspectors found glittering coins of the Latin monetary union. Capt. Hickey plunged his hand in the sack, drew out a handful of coins and let them fall through his fingers. The American officials were thus satisfied the gold was still there, and so they reported to Washington. Plenipotentiary Henri - Etienne Hoppenot, Col. de Chevigne and Admiral Lambert, Free French naval officer, likewise are satisfied the gold is still there. The future use and location of the French gold is still undecided, presumably, though, it could be used to underwrite purchases of arms and munitions in the United States.

When France fell, the gold was oaded on the fast cruiser Emil Bertin and taken to Halifax under the command of Admiral Battet who then went to Martinique despite reported efforts of British ships to halt his mission. Admiral Battet left Martinique, joined the Giraudists and made an attempt to swing Admiral Robert to Gen. Giraud's

Patton Tells Sicilians American Troops Aim Only at Liberation

By the Associated Press.

PALERMO, Sicily, Aug. 4 (Delayed).-Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, jr., in a letter to the Sicilian people, expressed "sympathetic feelings" for a people suffering under Fascism or Naziism, which he said America intended to destroy wherever found.

His letter was published in the first issue of Sicilian Liberata, Italian-language newspaper which Army officers said combined the "best features" of two previous daily papers appearing in Palermo. The letter follows:

"The purpose of the Americans under the leadership of our great President Franklin D. Roosevelt is not-I repeat, not-to enslave but to liberate those peoples of the world who have suffered for 20 years under the malign influence of Fascism and Naziism.

"It has been with deep regret that we had to fight the Italian armies in Sicily, but our outstanding success over both Italian and Germans in Sicily indicates our superiority, and we shall continue ruthlessly to destroy any formed military opposition no matter by whom presented. "Here in Palermo we have established excellent relations with His Eminence the Cardinal, and through him with the church. The people of Palermo must realize that our civil administration is doing everything to provide the necessary supplies and grain for maintenance of the life of the community. "On the other hand, any mis-

Admiral Ernest J. King outlined today an Allied world strategy aimed at keeping China in the war and exerting "every possible effort" to assist Russia by diverting German forces from the eastern front.

The commander in chief of the Inited States Fleet said that in the Pacific area the Allies are following a "concerted plan of operations" to put increasing pressure on Japanese communications and also capture strategic positions "which enable us to give the enemy more hell as we go along."

Admiral King, a member of the Allied high command, discussed the war in an interview with reporters at the Navy Department.

He had been asked particularly to discuss the situation in the Pacific on this anriversary of the start of the conquest of Guadal-

"It further follows that the Allies are bound to exert every possible effort to divert German forces from the Russian front so that Rússia can do even better."

The admiral declared that with regard to the war on Japan the position of China is somewhat analogous to that of Russia.

"And it's all too apparent," he added, "what the difficulties are in The British Navy besides pounding getting supplies to China. He said that while the principal effort of the Allied powers has been exerted against Germany and Italy, the operations in the Pacific to date, in general terms, "are rather more than what are commonly called holding operations because we have a general plan whereby we maintain unremitting pressure on the Japanese wherever they may be got at with the means available.'

District Legionnaires To Elect Officers and Delegates Tonight

Election of department officers and delegates and alternates to the national convention to be held in Omaha next month will be held tonight at the final session of the annual convention of the District Department of the American Legion at the Mayflower Hotel. The Resolutions Committee will make its report tonight

Candidates for department commander are C. Francis McCarthy of Sergt. Jasper Post, department membership officer, and John C. Chase first vice commander of the deparement and a member of Washington Police and Fire Post.

The convention was told last night by Warren H. Atherton of California that if America should fail in this present world conflict, gone would be the rights and privileges of free men, the union and individual ownership of home and farm; the church and the school and the town meetings.

Mr. Atherton, who is expected to be the next national commander of the Legion, continued that "this is a war of all of us. Why then should men die on New Guinea, Attu and Sicily while we selfishly try to get more for doing less. When liberty is at stake, all must take less and

In company with Roane Waring, national commander, he flew 25,000 miles last spring on a detail from Gen. George C. Marshall to see two fronts, the home front and the battle front.

Flemming Speaks.
Commissioner Arthur S. Flemming, Civil Service Commission, told of the interest of members of the commission in employment opportunities after the present war ends. He said that there was no question but that preference will be extended to veterans by both public and private employers. The commission, he said, is dedicated to the task of doing everything within its power to make sure that the Federal Government takes the lead in the development of a sound veteran preference policy. In referring to the overall reduction in force program the commission, he said, will see to it that the veterans of all wars are extended the preference to which they are entitled by law. He said that of the 3,029,000 employes on the payrolls, 1,650,000 were war service appointees.

Capt. James C. Clarke and the members of his guard of honor were presented with certificates by Department Comdr. Patrick J. Fitzgibbons, who in turn was presented with a travel kit by Capt. Clarke on behalf of the guard.

J. Ernest Isherwood, past department commander of Pennsylvania, spoke on the movement to bring veterans of the present war into the American Legion, and outlined a program of activities about to be launched by national headquarters. Trophies Awarded.

How Are We Doing? In an address delivered at the East Texas State Teachers' College, Speaker Rayburn apparently has undertaken to squelch criticism of this country's war effort. And since the Speaker made public a considerable amount of military information, it is presumed here that he spoke with the knowledge and approval of the

Mr. Rayburn had no apologies to offer for the job we have done in raising, equipping and transporting the Army. And he told the "grumlins"-a composite grumbler and gremlin-that our war effort is "better than we know." Mistakes here and there were conceded and the Speaker acknowledged that some things had been done the wrong way, but on the whole he spoke as a man who is well satisfied with the job that has been done and full of confidence for the future. Now it may be that this attitude is justified by the record. Certainly our accomplishments have been anything but small, and it may be true that we have done better than we had any right to expect.

But, if this be the case, what is the average citizen to think of the warnings and exhortations which have been coming from the top men in the Nation's war effort-men like Secretary of the Navy Knox, Undersecretary of War Patterson, General Somervell and Donald Nelson? They war and needlessly sacrifice the lives of American soldiers at the front. Only this week, Mr. Byrnes, the "assistant President," called in Bernard Baruch to advise him on methods of checking the drop in warplane production. How is all this to be reconciled with the satisfied tone of the Speaker's address?

It is possible, of course, that there is no direct conflict between what Mr. Rayburn had to say and the relatively gloomy statements which have been coming from these other equally authoritative sources. But it can hardly be doubted that the impressions the public will receive from the two sources are completely at va-

According to the Speaker, we are doing a swell job. According to the others we are falling by the wayside in a most alarming fashion. Won't somebody put us straight? How are we doing?

Mount Etna History

British troops are fighting on the slopes of Etna. The burning mountain is the symbol of Sicily. When it is taken, the whole island will belong to the Allies. Meanwhile, how incredible it is that only a few months ago none but a few professional military men had thought of the road into the Axis fortress of Europe as leading past the steaming crater which allegedly was Vulcan's forge The classics are being brought very close to living genera-

For instance, consider Empedocles. How strange it is that he should owe his present fame to Hitler! The time in which he lived was the fifth century before Christ. He was a native of Agrigentum, the son of a citizen of wealth. Even as a youth he won celebrity for his knowledge of medicine and natural history. In his maturity he was known as a poet, a philosopher and a statesman all combined. "His consequence • • • became at length so great that he ventured to assume several of the distinctions of royalty, particularly a purple robe, a golden girdle, a Delphic crown and a train of attendants." Miracles of healing were attributed to him. His conception of the deity was rationalistic and logical. He glimpsed the modern discovery that there is no real destruction of anything in the universe but only "a change of combinations." His theory of human knowledge glorified "pure intellect" above the evidence of the senses. He died at sixty, and dwellers in the hills about Catania still insist that the manner of his death was deliberately dramatic. In order that he might spend eternity with the gods, they believe. he threw himself into Etna's flames. The volcano cast out his bronze sandals to solve the mystery of his as forty-three. Gladstone, Queen Victoria's democratic minister, climbed to the edge of the sulphurous pit in 1838 and left a vividly graphic account of the experience in his journal. How deep is the cavity may be guessed from the enormous quantities of molten rock expelled upon the surrounding terrain. One prehistoric flow exceeded 1.100 million cubic feet; and there have been several comparatively recent carpetings of equal dimensions.

Red Summer Drive

The larger significance of the Russian victories at Orel and Belgorod is well expressed by Joseph Stalin himself. In his triumphant order of the day to his troops, the Soviet generalissimo says: "The legend of the Germans that Soviet troops are allegedly unable to wage a successful offensive in the summertime has been dispelled."

That is the literal truth. The military operations of the past month have been a progressive revelation of the Red Army's tremendous strength and unprecedented striking power. It was on July 5 that the Germans launched a pincer movement from Orel and Belgorod to nip off the Russians' Kursk salient which lay between. In a single week that German drive was smothered with enormous losses. Then the Red Army started its counterdrive, which has revealed a sustained momentum much greater than that of their

Most of the news released from Moscow and Berlin alike concerned the fighting around Orel; so the logical supposition was that, however intense and bloody, this was a limited operation, tactical rather than strategic in character. The fall of Orel alone would not immediately have endangered the main German defense line, because it was a salient backed by the big German strong point of Bryansk some eighty miles to the westward. The abandonment of that exposed and costly salient would straighten and shorten the German line. While Bryansk stood, there would be no danger of a Russian break-through on this part of the eastern front.

Very different is the significance of the capture of Belgorod, 165 miles to the southward, which was stormed by the Red armies on the same day that Orel fell to their arms. This unheralded Soviet triumph took the world by surprise. But the meaning was clear. Two simultaneous accomplishments of such magnitude tell us that production is slumping | showed that Russia's summer camdangerously, that complacency, over- paign was a real strategic offensive confidence, strikes, etc., on the home with major aims in view. Furtherfront are threatening to prolong the more, Belgorod is itself an outpost of Kharkov, only forty miles to the southward. And Kharkov is the key point in the whole southern section of the eastern front. Its temporary capture by the Russians last winter imperilled the entire German position in the Eastern Ukraine. By a desperate German counterattack which caught the Russians overextended, Kharkov was recovered. But its renewed fall would revive the same peril. Further Russian triumphs in this highly strategic area logically would force the Germans to abandon everything east of the river Dnieper, including the Crimea and their tenaciously held bridgehead in the Caucasus. That would indeed be a German disaster surpassing Stalingrad.

Meanwhile, the capture of Orel gives the Russians uninterrupted use of the main north-south railway line which runs from Moscow through Orel, Kursk and Belgorod, and thence through Kharkov clear to the Crimea. This trunk line will greatly facilitate the movement of troops, equipment and supplies for operations either against Kharkov or Bryansk. It should be remembered that in Russia railways play a major role in communications problems, owing to the absence of good roads. We may therefore expect heightened Russian pressure all the way from Bryansk to Kharkov as soon as the Orel link has been repaired and put in running order.

This mounting Russian offensive must be a terrific headache to the German high command, faced as it is with new problems through the collapse of Italy and the necessity of bolstering its Balkan garrisons. The Allied capture of Catania in Sicily and the likelihood of a second Tunisia there further emphasizes the fact that Germany is reduced everywhere to the defensive and that the overall initiative has passed to its encircling foes.

Why a Military Secret? A good many people share the curiosity of Professor Walter E. Spahr of New York University, about the "invasion money" printed in Washington and sent abroad for use in Sicily and other lands. What is the nature of this money? Who is liable for its redemption? What is the reserve against it and who authorized its printing? These and other questions are asked by Professor Spahr. And Mr. Morgenthau's answer is that it is all a military secret, to be explained "in good

One remembers the stories coming back to this country early in the war, of how Japan's invaders flooded Manila and other points with their printing-press versions of Philippine currency; of how the Germans, marching into Belgium and France, took their printing presses along with them and established the value of their currency with the point of a 396, the former described by Pindar same thing; perhaps it is a military if melted all together, would probof 1669. The number of important of national honor if we win the war disturbances since 1700 are reported and knowing that its redemption would be of relative unimportance if we did not.

The real mystery about this currency, however, is why its history, the authority behind it and its purpose should be considered a military secret. What is the secret? That we are using it in Sicily? That we used its counterpart in North Africa? That we may use more of it in Italy and Germany? From whom is it necessary to keep this secret? From the Germans and Italians? What would they do about it if they knew? A secret from our own people? Why should they have to wait to find out until Mr. Morgenthau decides that all can be told? What is there, as a matter of fact, to tell?

It is hard to understand why there should be any secrecy about our invasion money or any other kind of money that bears the seal of the United States. And the danger of making a military secret out of it is that it tends to clothe with suspicions, if not ridicule, other information withheld on the same ground. When the Treasury chooses to share its secret about invasion money it should also reveal what made the money a military secret.

Count the Costs

No American would deny to the armed forces anything that will aid them, preserve life, and bring more speedy victory. The cost of war is something else. It can be higher or lower, depending on the wisdom of the program and the efficiency of procurement and economy in expenditure. President Roosevelt, in his recent summation of the 1944 budget, makes no plea for careful or curtailed expenditures. His plea is for the spending of at least $100,000,-000,000 in the present fiscal year. Expenditures of money are essential to the war. They will not necessarily win the war. On the other hand, excessive taxation may sink the American people. The Chief Executive and his Secretary of the Treasury are demanding a greatly increased revenue from taxation. "Stiffer" taxes is the proposal. Secretary Morgenthau has made public tables showing that this country is meeting 35.9 per cent of total Government costs-which includes the cost of war—as compared to 47.1 per cent by Canada and 51.7 per cent by Britain. The impression conveyed by these percentages would be more accurate, however, if it were pointed out that the United States is spending a great deal more on the war than either Britain or Canada. The reaction of members of Congress to the demands for greatly increased taxes is both natural and to the point. Chairman Doughton of the House Ways and Means Committee, Chairman George of the Senate Finance Committee and Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia have promptly suggested that some effort be made to keep down the cost of war. These are signs that the Congress in the future will be more particular; that it will demand fuller information as to the needs for huge appropriation bills, which follow the estimates sent to them by the Executive.

Senator Byrd has pointed out that the appropriations and authorizations for appropriation already made by Congress have far exceeded the actual spending ability of the Government for war purposes. Indeed, the President himself, in his budget summation, said that in the threeyear period ending June 30, 1943, $330,000,000,000 had been appropriated for war purposes and that only $110,000,000,000 had actually been expended. At that rate, the Virginia Senator said, enough money has already been appropriated by Congress to carry on the war for another two years if the President's goal of $100,000.000,000 annual expenditure is reached.

The time has surely come when there must be closer scrutiny of appropriations as well as of expenditures.

A Marked Man

A marked man is Leo Laverne, wanted by the FBI for parole violation. Leo is a walking gallery of art -the tattooer's art; and if, in the present laundry crisis, he ever loses his shirt, along with it he will lose his liberty. For be it known that the shirt conceals a large shield with eagle, two American flags, a sailboat and a rising sun. Tucked away in odd anatomical corners are two stars, a heart, a crucifix, another bird, a rose and a bracelet. In the vast open spaces of the vest are a scene from Pearl Harbor, another sailing ship, another eagle and a dragon. The words "U. S. A., 1931" and "Manila, P. I., 1922" also assist identification. A setting sun, three more hearts, a butterfly and a bouquet of flowers are additional adornment, to say nothing of three pretty girls. Through the tangle, in close quarters, races a string of thoroughbred horses, and here and there are occasional glimpses of Leo himself.

Leo also has fingerprints on file, but even Mr. J. Edgar Hoover admits that this is gilding the lily, and that they will hardly be necessary. Any one spotting Leo in the raw is requested, as soon as his eyes recover from the glare, to stagger to the nearest telegraph office and notify

'Neck' of Nazi Power Not Yet Broken

By Maj. George Fielding Eliot.

The last act of the Sicilian drama is rapidly drawing to a close. Catania and Palermo are in our hands; Adrano is

That means that the Germans are withdrawing round the western side of Mount Etna, endeavoring to shorten their line to one between that great volcano and the Tyrrhenian Sea on the North-roughly, the line Naso-Randazzo. Such a line would cover the approaches to Messina from the West. The intense German resistance in this area, coupled with the collapse of all resistance farther south, is eloquent testimony to the nature of the German plan.

It may not be possible for the Allies to outflank this position by a thrust up the East coast from Catania toward Taormina. The road is narrow and thus easily defended by small forces. It is reported blocked by landslides, which may have been aided by German demolition parties. However, the constant presence of Allied warships off both the North and East coasts suggests that a landing in the German rear may be attempted, and might well, under the circumstances, prove decisive.

Meanwhile, the escape-hole at Messina has been thoroughly blasted from the air again. The report speaks not only of the destruction of shipping in the harbor and of port installations, but also of attacks on troop concentrations already there.

This bears out the previous reports that the evacuation of Sicily already is well under way. It fits in with the shortening of the German line, necessitated by the reduction in the number of remaining German troops who are acting as rear guards to cover the withdrawal of their comrades.

Under the conditions existing in Sicily, with the Germans being driven into the apex of a narrowing triangle, both shores of which are commanded from the sea by Allied fleets and with the air overhead in full control of Allied air power, the prospects for a successful retirement of the German forces to the Italian mainland do not appear bright.

Some, of course, may get away. Some probably have already done so. But it does seem likely that the major part of the three German divisions—the 15th, 29th and Hermann Goering Divisionswhich have been fighting in Sicily will either leave their bones there or be compelled in the end to surrender like trapped rats within a blazing triangle of flame from which all escape will be

These Germans have fought well. They have put up a brilliant defense, first of the rivers crossing the plain of Catania, then of the slopes of Etna and of Catania itself, and now they have succeeded in withdrawing to a shorter line, which they are defending with equal skill and determination.

They are outnumbered at least two to one, probably even more heavily. They have no naval support and little air support. But they are certainly making a fight of which any army might well be proud. There is no use in disguising that fact. It is one we shall do well to bear in mind for our future guidance. We may well ask ourselves, if three trapped German divisions, hopelessly outnumbered and far from home, make such a fight as this for a corner of Sicily, how will the bulk of the German army, with room to maneuver and with better air support, fight for the defense of Germany itself when that time

We will also do well to remember that the whole Allied force in Sicily amounts to no more than 8 or 9 divisions. There are as many again, probably, in North Africa. If re-inforcements have arrived, there may be as many as 20 American, British and Dominion divisions under General Eisenhower's command. That might well be enough to clean up Italy, if only Italian resistance is to be encountered there.

But the Germans-not counting any troops of satellite nations at all-have over something like 300 divisions, perhaps a little less. Of these, 200 are on the Russian front. That leaves 100 divisions for the garrisons of Western Europe, of the Balkans and for the strategic reserve. Roughly speaking there are about 40 of these divisions in France and Northern Italy, about 20 in the Balkans and about 40 in the strategic reserve, which can be thrown in wherever it is needed as soon as it is plain where the need is greatest.

Hence the Western Allies must still limit their land operations to areas where the Germans cannot deploy their full available strength. And all the Americans and British do in the Mediterranean is directly connected with what the Russians are doing as they push on past fallen Belgorod to the assault of Kharkov.

The German problems are greater than ours and will presently become insoluble. But the Germans still have the option of reducing their Russian commitments by a sudden withdrawal to prepared positions well in rear of their present lines, and so far as the Mediterranean theater is concerned the Allies are not yet in strength sufficient to meet in the open field, in full battle, the forces that would then be at the disposition of the German high command.

The Western Allies must still, for a time at any rate, pursue the strategy which has served them so well of using the command of the sea and air superiority to compel the enemy to come and fight us on battlefields of our choosing, under conditions which give us the necgreat German difficulty is to know where we shall next choose such a battlefield. That difficulty is like a slowly tightening noose about the German neck. But that neck is, as yet, very far from being broken.

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

Hunger brings out all the intelligence and meanness in man or beast.

This has been shown in European communities where food riots have taken

It may be demonstrated in little in

They will become belligerent, where before they were calm and peaceful. * * * *

The other day we grew tired of a dozen pigeons which frequented a feeding station designed for smaller birds. We had tried before to get rid of them, but, not being willing to add to the bloodshed now bathing the world, we wanted to outwit them.

Persistence will often accomplish results where harsher methods fail. Unfortunately, the pigeons know this,

They may be accounted the most persistent of all feathered things.

* * * *
This time, we thought, we will be more persistent than they are. "Easier said than done," the pigeons would have said, if they could have used words. Whitey, in particular, would have spoken so, we feel confident. Whitey is a mild-mannered bird, one usually run around by the others. She had never pecked at another, nor chased after them. * * * *

We secured an old wire trash burner, placed a saucer of seed and grain on the ground, and inverted the burner over it. First we had wired the burner so that the pigeons could not stick their heads through at the bottom This scheme, however, did not work, because squirrels could get in, and these birds. Usually such outwitting is nothing more than the use of a bit more brains, combined with persistence.

Unfortunately, when the latter ingredient is used, one is entering the personal province of the pigeons. When it comes to persistence, as we have often said here, there is no other bird, probably no other creature, quite their equal.

Having lined the bottom sides, for a distance of 6 inches up from the ground. we sat back to see the realization of pigeon dreams. We could see them, we thought, finding it impossible to get food, and finally going away, one by one, until all were Well, the frantic efforts of the big birds to get at the seed were extremely interesting. They went around and around the burner, like the wooden figures of a merry-go-round, minute after minute, trying to find a way to get at the seed.

Each pigeon thought, it was plain, that he could find entry. So around and around they went. poking their bills at the paper, even trying to pull it down with their feet.

This went on for many minutes, with Whitey turning from mild to vicious. She began, for the first time in her life, to chase other pigeons. She would peck at them, as they came around the circle, and succeeded in frightening most of them away. * * * * Finally, only she and another pigeon were left. It was working!

But we had forgotten about pigeon persistence. Finally Whitey managed to make a break-through in the paper.

A few seed were kicked out by the birds, and these were devoured by Whitey and her companion. They were enough to renew their determination. They spent the next few days hacking away with their bills at the heavy paper.

* * * * The next morning we looked out of the window. "Whitey and her pal will be gone," we thought. But nothing of the sort. Whitey was there with 11 others, all milling around the wire container. She had torn down an entire section of paper, and a squirrel inside was cooperating to the extent of throwing food in all directions, in his effort to get at

Wartime Impressions And a Hint Toward Peace. To the Editor of The Star:

To any one interested in teeming humanity there is no more alluring and absorbing spectacle today than is found in our Nation's Capital.

That the housewives of America are among the Nation's most patriotic citizens cannot be disputed. Cheerfully, they adapt themselves to rationing; the tedious process of selecting, making the 'points" reach; the long waiting in line; the carrying home of the heavy bundles. Have you seen that crippled woman doing this? She is doing it every day. Have you noticed those elderly women with packages too heavy for their weakened backs and arms? And the younger woman with a child (or several) toddling at her side—sometimes a babe in arms for young children cannot be left at home alone.

Women are not complaining of this, their job, their contribution to the cause. They do protest, however, against the insolent treatment they often receive from those who serve, the persons behind the counter, men and women. Those ill-bred individuals who mistake discourtesy for efficiency should be instructed that politeness pays and that it requires no more time than rudeness. That goes for all employes everywhere. means those who serve in public eating places, in offices and elsewhere. It means those streetcar operators who drive as though hell-bent to exterminate the Huns and Japs. That driver who ignores the value of human life, who, in a dangerous emergency fails to slacken his speed-what can we say of him? We've seen it so many times-storm and sleet, blinding the eyes; slippery crossing; glare from passing autos; the burden of an umbrella and perhaps bundles. The pedestrain having all these to contend with must meet the jangling imperious approach of a streetcar whose operator sits high and dry. Sometimes the threatened victim is a child-we pity him as he scampers for his very life. Sometimes an adult, possibly infirm. No allowance is made for disconcerting circumstances. What does it matter that a human life is at stake? The casualty report reads: "He walked directly in Speed has become a fetish. No time

If Mr. Grafton will reflect that tactful handling of that situation might save the lives of American boys, possibly he will feel less inclined to excoriate those who disagree with him. Mr. Grafton says we wish to "smash another Roosevelt agency" (OWI). So what? Can any columnist, editor, or other writer enlighten me regarding one fact we have learned from that organization that we have not already heard over the air or read in the newspapers. I, for one, am rather tired of having the OWI disseminate stale news to the tune of million dollars annually of taxpayers' money. Possibly there may be others who have the same reaction. As for morale, well, we have taken our

A. A. Alexander, the colored and senior member of the firm, is one of the wellremembered athletes at the university several decades ago. He and his partner have built many bridges and other construction works throughout the Midwest. The matter of race never enters into considerations for his services. It is stated that District authorities in charge of highways have commended the contractors for the planning and progress of the work despite the obstacles of priorities and wartime hindrances. In Washington, and about the coun try, there are colored men who rank high in engineering and architectural skill. It is sad that too frequently in some sections of our country talent such as these men possess must be lost to the Nation because of lack of opportunity for training available elsewhere in the country and in the world at large. The most sensational piece of war news today is neither in Europe nor in the Pacific but here in America, where an unprecedented drop in airplane production suddenly has taken Engines of a certain factory which has been supplying an abundance of motors have declined drastically in production and the heavy bombers which are so much needed on every battle front are off in production by percentages that are truly appalling. The exact figures have not been revealed, in fact it is doubtful whether Washington yet knows the full story of what has happened in the last 30 days on the production front, but the most conservative estimate in certain aircraft units puts the figure of decline at 50 per cent and the most extreme estimate puts it as high as 85 per cent. This means that in the last 30 days we have produced in a certain sector of our production front only half as many units as we did in each of prior months, and if the extreme figure is correct then we have produced only about onesixth of each of previous months this year.

Various Reasons Seen. Why has this occurred? The situation has been developing for the last six weeks and various explanations are advanced, among them labor troubles, absenteeism, the bungling of the Selective Service System, which has either inducted necessary workers or threatened to take them; increased strain on management due to renegotiation and tax troubles, and last, but not least, some recent suits filed by the Justice Department alleging faulty workmanship, which, it is said, has in turn demoralized management and workers and produced such a tight inspection as to slow down production.

How does it happen that this situation was permitted to develop? Has the airplane industry no champion inside the Government who can keep it free from these harassments? Have prosecutions been instituted even though defects already had been cured, and was such a drastic policy necessary in the middle of war, especially when the small number of defects have not been proved to be out of line with the hitherto accepted as practical?

The whole problem demands a thorough inquiry and it is disappointing that Charles E. Wilson, who was brought to the WPB especially to step up airplane production, has proved himself unable to keep production up and instead seems to have been confronted with lower production than in previous months of this year.

Duties Increased. It may be that Mr. Wilson has been given too much to do. It will be recalled that when Donald Nelson removed Ferdinand Eberstadt, the duties of Mr. Wilson were increased to the point where he subsequently became executive vice chairman of the whole WPB. Yet his primary job was to care for airplane production, and here the Nation at a critical time in the war is confronted by what might really be termed a major disaster. These developments have come about not without warning. Undersecretary Patterson of the War Department said he was not satisfied with the WPB setup when Mr. Nelson removed Mr. Eberstadt. It was emphasized at the time that the specialized job of caring for aircraft production must not be neglected

The whole West Coast aircraft situation now is being described as in a pretty bad shape, comparative- on Virginia side of Memorial Bridge, ly speaking. The record production of previous months has suddenly been cut down. One aircraft manufacturer pleaded for occupational deferment for some 50,000 employes of various aircraft plants and the Selective Service System has finally Eagle gate, Upshur street, 10 a.m. been compelled on orders from the President to pay some attention to the deferment demands of this allimportant industry.

Mr. Roosevelt has called in James Swimming in private pool. F. Byrnes, who in turn has dumped the problem on B. M. tions of the ideologists is well understood. He, of course, was well aware of the power given the old BEW to formulate economic foreign policy for this country, a power which has rested in the State Department in the past, with the approval of the President. Furthermore, Mr. Hull has protested that information relating to this country's foreign policy should not be put out by other Government agencies without an opportunity for the State Department to check

Only confusion or worse could result from promiscuous governmental statements. It was rumored that the Secretary of State had threatened to turn in his resignation unless his department was given the opportunity to pass on such statements before they were issued.

Mr. Hull has a high ideal of service to the country. He is no resigner. His friends insist that he will stay on the job. He is a persistent and firm executive. There is a pretty well-authenticated theory that the Secretary of State has gone on the theory that if these various agencies of the Government, seeking to encroach on the duties of the State Department-and the ideologists -were given enough rope they eventually would hang themselves. This is just what happened in the case of the BEW and more recently in the case

On the surface, however, amicable relations exist. Mr. Hull calls them in to discuss matters of foreign policy-big and little. When the discussion is ended, however, it is Mr. Hull who decides the policy-which, of course, must in the end be passed on by the President himself.

It is not a healthy situation to have the Secretary of State and State Department under the fire of snipers within the Government itself. It is a situation with which the President can deal effectively and forcibly, if he will. Secretary Hull himself occupies a high place in the regard of the American people, as well in the regard of foreign governments.

It is entirely unlikely any step would be taken by the President to remove Mr. Hull from his present position. Indeed, there has been no suggestion of such a move on the part of the President.

Mr. Hull is a strong supporter of the policy of international cooperation after the war, just as he has been a constant fighter for removal of trade barriers to promote international commerce.

He may be relied on to protect American interests. Any foreign diplomat who thinks he can pull the wool over Mr. Hull's eyes is due for an awakening.

This Changing World—

By CONSTANTINE BROWN. There are strong rumors in Washington that an early meeting of the best Allied military and political minds will be held to examine the new situation in the European theater of operations and plan the next military and political strategy of the United Nations. Such meetings, which have occurred several times Constantine Brown. in the last 18 months, are regarded as essential to co-ordinate the Allies' military and political

At each gathering, certain decisions are taken. So far, they have all turned out even more successfully than had been anticipated. After each set of victories the situation must be analvzed again and new plans established for the next operation of the Allied forces. Diplomatically, too, the present situation must be closely examined because each setback of the enemy brings forth another crop of problems concerning all member countries of the United At the last meeting of the joint chiefs of staff, under the supervision of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, the present operations in the Mediterranean were decided. The question of what to do after the fall of Sicily-the demise of Mussolini's Fascist regime had not then been expected -was left in abeyance. The British had ideas of their own while the American planners reserved judgment. Swift Collapse Surprising.

The Sicilian campaign was more successful than even the most optimistic observers expected. The collapse of the Italians was swifter than they dared hope for. The Nazis, instead of striking at the Eastern front, as was considered likely, have been rolled back from important strategic positions close to Mos-

We shall have to wait and see whether the Red armies will continue the drive on the Eastern front or will await to start over again next winter, after having forced the Germans to readjust their lines in the south and thus removed the threat to the Caucasus. The new military situation brought about by the collapse of the Italians in the South and the defeat of the Nazis in the East necessarily will be the principal topic of discussion of the Allied strategy framers.

The question of how to employ the increasing strength of the American-British forces in the European theater will have to be answered and the possibility of striking at the Germans in the next few months, either through the Balkans or the south of

While political problems were left almost completely in the background at previous meetings, President Roosevelt and Prime give a good deal of thought to them at any future meeting. According to some observers, it looks as if the policy-framers have muffed the Italian question. Everybody approves the policy of unconditional surrender, but the question of how it is applied is a different matter.

Minister Churchill will have to

As far as the Germans and the Japanese are concerned, it is felt that an uncompromising and harsh "take-it-or-leave-it" policy is absolutely essential. Any change in our Casablanca pledges would give the warlike people of those two countries the impression that they have not lost the war. Such a situation existed in regard to the Germans

The Italians, however, are different. They know they are ficked, and have known it ever since they entered the war. When, under the blows of the Allies in Sicily, they disposed of Fascism, there might have been a possibility of obtaining immediate, qualified surrender from Premier Badoglio and King Victor Emmanuel if their face could have been saved. Badoglio "Diffident."

Peace terms demanding only disarmament of the Italian forces with promises that Italy's national territory-this, of course, does not include Africa-would remain intact, might have brought about an immediate agreement on peace from the Rome government.

But an adamant "unconditional surrender." with whispers that it might not be as bad as it looks on paper, made Badoglio diffident and enabled the Nazis to convince him that Italy as she has existed since 1866 would be only a memory. Badoglio was told that the British would keep not only all the North African possessions of Italy, but also Sicily and Sardina. The Nazis insisted that Istria, the territory known before the last war as Italia Irridenta, and possibly parts of the Italian Riviera. would be given to France and Yugoslavia.

ritories after a peace was concluded with the Rome govern-position of Southern Europe and the Balkans, which may be entered by the Allied forces this year, will have to be gone over once more by Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Churchill and their political advisers. So will the problems of the internal organization of the liberated countries when they are freed from the Nazi yoke.

A Husband's Responsibility

A husband's first responsibility is to assure his wife's future support. One step toward assuring it is to make a carefully planned will, creating a trust that will provide adequate income for his wife.

And then he should select a trustee whose experience, diligence and responsibility will safeguard the estate and cause it to provide satisfactory income-a trustee whose administration of the estate will not be interrupted by war-service, illness or death.

McLemore-Doffs His Cap

To the CAP

By HENRY McLEMORE. WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. - I doff my cap to the CAP. In fact, I almost wish I were a two-headed

CAP. I didn't feel this way until two hours ago when I completed a trip from Daytona Beach to a base near West Palm Beach with two Civil Air Patrol captains. They came up and brought me down so I could Henry McLemere. do a few stories on what is the old man's branch of the Air Service.

Before I go any further, let me tell you that I have never met flyers for whom I have more admiration. and that goes for the hot fighter pilots I have watched take off for sweeps over France and Germany, and the bomber boys who tool the giant Fortresses in the face of enemy flak and fighters.

The two CAP captains - Zack Mosley and Art Keil-brought me down in a ship that looked as if it were on lease-lend from the Smithsonian Institution. I wouldn't be at all surprised, in fact, if its motor wasn't stolen from Eli Whitney's cotton gin. Yet this crate, this fugitive from a salvage drive, is the pride of the coastal patrol base near here from which they operate.

Take-Off Brings Laughs. We took off from a military base and the kids there couldn't help laughing as we taxled to the line between rows of modern divebombers and pursuit planes. Sold at auction, the CAP ship wouldn't bring enough to buy the instrument panel on any of the ships we wheeled and coughed along between while getting to the runway. Its own instrument panel would make the face of a Mickey Mouse watch seem complicated, and the few dismal little instruments on the dashboard didn't work. The air speed indicator showed eight miles per hour as we were airborne and 210 when we cleared a pine thicket so closely I could have robbed a sparrow's nest had I chosen to. Capts. HELL IS HOT!

In recent weeks we have had many letters asking us to write an article in the papers proving that hell is hot, and hell is fire. We offer for proof the following Scriptures: Matthew 25:41, "Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting FIRE, prepared for the devil and his angels:" Mark 9:47-48, "And if thine eye offend thee, pluck it out: it is better for thee to enter into the kingdom of God with one eye, than having two eyes to be cast into hell FIRE: "Where their worm dieth not, and the FIRE is not QUENCHED." Revelation 20:10, "And the devil that deceived them was cast into the lake of FIRE and brimstone, where the beast and the false prophet are, and shall be tormented day and night for ever and ever." Revelation 20:14, "And death and hell were cast into the lake of FIRE. This is the second death."

Revelation 21:8, "But the fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which BURNETH with FIRE and brimstone: which is the second death." Luke 16:24, "And he cried and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus finger in water, and COOL my tongue; for I am tormented in this FLAME." Revelation 14:11, "And the SMOKE of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever; and they have no rest day nor but yourself! We in America have the radio and men of God to warn us. You have the daily papers that now permit the Gospel of Christ to be published. You have the true story of Rickenbacker and his men, and how they prayed My closing thought is this, all we have sinned and come short of the glory of God. Then all must be saved. Christ will save you from any and all sin, if you will get on your knees, pray and ask God to save you. For He would not be a Saviour unless He has saved us from something. His death on the cross, if we trust Him, will save us from this awful hell.

My prayer to God is that you will be saved today. I John 1:7, But if we walk in the light as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ, his Son cleanseth us from all sin." -DALLAS F. BILLINGTON.

Morgenthau's Figures On British-U. S. Taxes Assailed by Celler

Representative Celler, Democrat, of New York, charges that comparisons made by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau between taxes in the United States and in the United Kingdom and Canada are "inaccurate and misleading."

In a statement. Mr. Celler said yesterday the Secretary "ignores completely the heavy burden of State and local taxes in the United States as well as the multitude of 'indirect' or 'hidden' taxes.' "How inconclusive such a comparison is." Mr. Celler continued. "can be seen from the fact that in 1941-42 the British government collected 90 per cent of total taxes in that country. In the same period in the United States, the Federal Government collected only 62 per cent of total taxes. These figures are particularly significant, indicating, as they do, the large amount of State and local taxes in the United States." Mr. Morgenthau, in connection with administration requests for higher taxes, issued a series of charts this week which, among other comparisons, listed as taxes, after postwar credits, for a married person with no dependents and $2,000 annual income as follows: In the United States, $188; in Canada, $231; in the United Kingdom, $378. Mr. Celler asked whether the listing of these lower bracket taxes meant that Mr. Morgenthaus intended "to recommend that Federal income taxes on the lower income groups in the United States be increased to approach the quoted

Tax Experts to Begin Answering Questions On '43 Levies Monday

Federal tax experts will be ready Monday morning to begin advising taxpayers here on the complicated problem of how to file the new "declaration of estimated income and victory tax," which is due on or before September 15.

About one-third of the taxpayers in Washington probably will have to file this new form, which was disclosed for the first time yesterday, according to estimates of Commissioner of Internal Revenue Helver-

When the new forms were announced, the realization that more cash payments will be due on September 15, despite the withholding tax which already is taking about 20 per cent from pay envelopes came as a surprise to many Washingtonians. They began calculating what their prospective obligations tors, lawyers and ministers. Briefly, the new system provides that these people must figure out how much they owe the Government in both victory and income taxes for the whole year 1943 and estimate how much they will have paid during the whole year through withhalding taxes and eash payments to the collector. If the taxpayer then owes a balance, he must pay at least half of it by September 15 and the other half by December 15.

The local office of the deputy collector, where experts will be ready to advise the public beginning Monday, is in room 1002 of the Revenue Building, Twelfth street and Constitution avenue N.W. The hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

By Enemy Mine

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Perzel of Vienna, Va., have been notified by the War Department of the death of their son, Sergt. Foster Perzel from injuries received in North Africa while experimenting with an enemy land mine.

Sergt. Perzel was one of the first group of volunteers from Fairfax County and was inducted at Fort Meade February 25, 1941.

He was assigned to the engineers and was sent to Ireland in June, 1942, and to Africa last December. The accident occurred in January while he was taking a mine apart to determine its method of operation. Sergt. Perzel's company commander at the time was Capt. William R. A. Kleystauber of Alexandria, who is now a war prisoner in Germany after his capture in the Tunisian campaign.

Mrs. Perzel also has received a letter from an officer with Sergt. Perzel's outfit, Lt. Stephen M. Barker, Georgetown, telling her particulars of her son's death.

Sergt. Perzel is survived by his parents, a sister, Mrs, Elizabeth Pettellat of Falls Church, and a brother, John G. Perzel. He attended Fairfax High School and was engaged in the building trade at the time he entered the service.

Smoking in Most Theaters

Col. Arthur Sees Ninth Street Sites Only Exceptions

Smoking was prohibited in nearly Washington theaters by the commissioners today.

The Commissioners set up regulations against smoking in the vicinity of combustible drapes, carpets and upholstered chairs. Only the Ninth street theaters, in the opinion of Col. Joseph D. Arthur, jr., Assistant Engineer Commissioner, will permit moking under these regulations.

The burden of enforcing the new regulation was placed directly on the shoulders of the theater managers. Patrons still may smoke in "regularly established" smoking rooms, Col. Arthur said, such as ladies' powder rooms and lounges Funds Raised in U. S. that are of fire-proof construction and do not obstruct the exits in any

Many Conferences Held.

The prohibition against smoking Ambassador Reports was made after numerous conferences with motion picture owners and operators here. Several downtown theaters have been permitting smoking in their balconies for some time. Others, Col. Arthur said, have had rules against the practice but have failed to enforce them. The smoking regulation was issued with numerous other technical rules on the handling of film, also evolved in the conferences with theater managers. The Commissioners also declared that any night club, restaurant or hall with a seating capacity of more than 100 persons must have its draperies flameproofed and approved by the chief engineer of the Fire Department.

While no performer may smoke in a theater dressing room, the Commissioners decided, smoking be permitted on stages when the Fire Department believes it to be a "necessary feature of the performance.

Bar Dangerous Product. Issued at the same time with the smoking regulations was a prohibition against manufacture of calcium carbide or liquefying acetylene in the District. Such manufacturing is so dangerous. Col. Arthur that the Commissioners wish to make sure it is never undertaken in this predominantly residential city. The product now is being manufactured in nearby Virginia.

Minor regulations in accordance with the latest recommendations of the National Fire Underwriters' Association were issued for storage of pyroxylin finish. Rules on storage of explosives were amended slightly A note written in red crayon on to agree with the latest recomdations of the Intersta merce Commission

Changes in regulations on the handling of miscellaneous refuse were also made by the Commissioners to coincide with actual methods now in use by the city refuse division.

Court Declares $30 Trailer Tax Unconstitutional

Judge Melvin Finds Arundel County Levy Can't Be Justified

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 7.-An Anne Arundel County trailer tax law, enacted by the 1943 Legislature, was declared unconstitutional, null and void by Judge Ridgely P. Melvin, chief judge of the Fifth Judicial Circuit, yesterday Stating that the imposition of a tax must survive the test of uniformity and equality, Judge Melvin ruled that a $30 annual license fee on trailers in this county fails to meet the test in either respect. The decision was handed down on the case of James Matthew English-trailer owner of Rock Creekeversus the county commissioners. the county building inspector and the clerk of the circuit court. Singles Out Trailer Dwellers.

Mr. English had contended in a bill of complaint thta the tax law was unconstitutional and in the hearing before the court July 28 further contended that the tax was imposed on the "right to live in one's own home. Judge Melvin in his opinion on the

"The admitted facts show that of all the home dwellers in Anne Arundel County, it singles out those who inhabit a particular type of building, namely, trailer homes, and would make them pay for the privilege of merely living therein, while leaving free from the tax all home dwellers who happen to live in some other kind of habitation.

"For the courts to uphold such a statute as this would mean the giving of judicial approval to the legislative branch of the Government to enter a realm of taxing authority that would have practically no limitations, and would be contrary to the spirit, if not the letter, of all constitutional guarantees.

"No Possible Justification." "There could be no possible justification in law for placing a tax on a man's home and then if it be a trailer home, to also tax him for the right to live in it, while at the same time allowing the owner of a cottage only a few yards away to live in it free from the habitation tax imposed upon his next-door neighbor, the trailer house owner. That is conceivably the precise situation that could arise under this statute. 'Moreover, the tax it imposes is an arbitrary one and has no regard to By the Associated Press. value, uniformity or equality, as the organic law requires. That is to say, the owner or tenant of a $300 trailer would have to pay the $30 annual license fee just the same as the owner or occupant of a $2,500 trailer "There is also no question here of regulating the camps (for trailers) as regards health, safety and welfare of the community, for health regulations are admittedely already in force and this statute does not undertake to deal with the subject of regulations at all." Judge Melvin concluded:

"Trailer camps in this State have arisen largely as an outgrowth of the war emergency and are doing some part toward solving the housing problem. * * * This entitles the dwellers to the same consideration as the dwellers in other kinds of homes or living quarters. . . ."

245,900 War Worker Housing Units Begun In First Half of 1943

the first half of this year on 245,900 housing units for war workers, with 50,500 completed in June alone, John B. Blandford, jr., national housing administrator, reported today. This compared with 248,435 units started during the last six months of 1942. In June 28,700 units were started, the survey showed.

These totals included both privately financed and publicly financed war housing built under local quotas established by the National Housing Agency on the basis of labor migration data supplied by the War Manpower Commission

By June 30 242,600 privately financed family units had been completed under NHA local quotas and with WPB priorities assistance in purchase of necessary materials. There were in addition to a considerable volume of private units serving war housing needs which were built in critical areas without priorities assistance during the earlier phase of the war production program, he said.

Under NHA policies, privately financed construction is scheduled if the need is for family units for which a postwar demand is reasonably likely and if the priavte builders can meet necessary wartime restrictions. There are any number of new paints on the market which were especially designed for the amateur painter. They are easy to mix, simple to use, and the finished job is bound to be satisfactory if the directions are followed.

Kalsomine is well known to all of us. It is ideal for a quick surface where finger marks or grease spots are not likely to be a menace. It does no do in the dining room, bath, kitchen or the halls. Water paints of the resin emulsion or the casein variety are most popular. They are increasingly washable after about 30 days. One of their best attributes is that one coat does a nice job of coverage. These give a pleasant dull wall finish. This may also be used on wood but the surface is more durable when woodwork is finished with a semigloss enamel, which is so easily

Use Pigmented Wall Primer. Flat wall oil paints are well known to all of us. These may be stippled to give an even finish and though more trouble to mix and apply have a much longer life.

Pigmented wall primer should be used under all oil paints. This comes in white, may be tinted slightly to match the finish coat and has the welcome properties of sealing a porous wall and all mended cracks and patches and giving the perfect working surface for the finish paint job.

executive vice president of the National Association of Home Builders, interest on the part of private build- family homes, they reported.

"Surpassing all expectations, apfiled during the past week reached a new high," Mr. Cortright said. 'Applications rose from an all-time low of 2.905 units during the week ending June 26, to a total of 10,217 units during the week ending July 24 an increase of 300 per cent."

Because of the lag of 60 to 90 days between the time applications for priority assistance are filed and the time construction actually gets underway. Mr. Cortright said that no improvement is reflected in "new starts" in the month of July.

However, he is confident that by the end of this month there will be and brick plant office, 1201 N street a correspondingly satisfactory in- S.E.; to cost $16,000. crease in the number of units put under construction.

They will complete the last lap of the war housonly American industry can make." On his recent trip across the country with FHA Deputy Commissioner Earl S. Draper, Mr. Cortright studied many angles of the war housing job. He consulted with programming officials of the NHA and representatives of the War Manpower Commission. Local problems confronting builders, material shortages, increased costs, and FHA processing problems were analysed. Mr. Cortright reports nue N.W., owner and builder; G. E. that many misunderstandings between builders and regional Government officials have been satisfactorily ironed out and that all agencies of Government now realize that the builder can start construction as rapidly as allocations are made and red tape cut. "It was evident," said Mr. Cortright, "that the one amendment welcomed by builders more than any other was that permitting the sale of one-third of the total number of units in any one project." Heretofore, materials have been allocated by WPB only for the construction of housing "for rent," which required the builders to become landlords. While some builders with large, well established organizations could assume this responsibility, the greater number could not. and the result has been that many of the smaller contractors were unable to take up "rental" priorities. Mr. Cortright noted with particular interest the fact that since the adoption of this amendment builders have become active in many areas in which there was almost no private construction. In the northwest. for example, privately-financed construction of war housing has risen n a mere one-tenth of the volume to better than 50 per cent.

Fine Records Carried To Tennis Finals

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Aug. 7.-A major producer of tennis talent, California has a pair of postwar Davis Cup prospects in lanky Bob Falkenburg and little Herbie Flam, who are overwhelming favorites to seize the national junior and boys' singles championships today.

Top-seeded, Falkenburg and Flam have swept through the week-long tournament in straight sets and with a negligible loss of games. Falkenburg's opponent in the junior final is second-seeded James Brink of Seattle, while Flam's boy rival is sixth-seeded Edwin Davis of Baton Rouge, La.

Army Denies Blame For Dumping 37 Cars Of Potatoes in Indiana

VINCENNES, Ind., Aug. 7.-Col. Edwin B. Bobzien, commanding George Field, Ill., only military establishment in the immediate vicinity, disclaimed last night any connection with the dumping of 37 carloads of spoiled potatoes, except to explain in a statement that the

of this foodstuff." "We have assisted, as requested by proper authority, in the salvaging of this foodstuff," the statement said, "but that is our sole connection with this incident."

He did not name the "authority." Army trucks carried the potatoes from a local storage establishment to a dump here, and Representative Landis, Republican, of Indiana asample of New Deal blundering." Representative Landis said he was demanding an investigation by the Program Expected War Food Administration.

Mr. Landis said he understood the potatoes were shipped here to Aid Britain Mr. Landis said he understood about July 7 after standing on a railroad siding at St. Louis for "several days.'

FDA Says Potato Losses

Have Been Less Than 1 Pct. The Food Distribution Adminipounds of Southern potatoes purchased by the Government in the past five weeks, had spoiled.

Figures on disposition of the early potato crop, which flooded northern markets in recent weeks, were released following a statement from Representative Landis, Republican, of Indiana, that 37 carloads of potatoes he said were Governmentowned were unloaded onto dumps at Vincennes, Ind.

FDA said it had purchased about 6,400 carloads of potatoes, mostly from North Carolina, and that after sorting, some 1,500,000 poundsabout 50 carloads-were destroyed. The Government paid growers the support price of $2.25 a hundred pounds for grade 1 potatoes.

Say Action Prevented Waste. There have been reports recently of large quantities of potatoes arriving at marketing terminals in a spoiled condition, but FDA insisted that the percentage of spoilage of Government purchases had been relatively light. "If we had not stepped in," an FDA spokesman said, "there would have been lots

Many commercial buyers had refused to buy up the early crop potatoes because of their perishability and accordingly, the Government, was forced to move in, he said. FDA made the following estimates

Federal Workers Win House Design Contest

First prize of $1,000 was shared today by Oliver Lundquist and Erro Saarinen, Finnish architect, both of the Office of Strategic Services, for their joint design submitted in an international competition "Design for Postwar Living," sponsored by the National Magazine of Arts and Architecture

The winning design called for the prefabrication of all parts of the house except in the living room. Several hundred plans were submitted in the contest undertaken to obtain a cross-section of expert opinion on the houses Americans of Harvard University, who worked together. A Los Angeles designer, Raphael S. Soriano, won the third prize of $250. Awards of $100 each were made to Susanne and Arnold Wasson-Tucker, Boston; George A. Storz, Chicago; B. H. Bradley, Chicago; Lt. Royal A. McClure, Seattle, and Lois and Fred Langhorst, San Francisco.

Fifty of the exhibits, including the eight prize winners, will be shown in museums from coast to coast, sponsors of the contest said. beginning with a three-week showing at the Los Angeles County Museum, opening tomorrow.

Landlubbers Trained Quickly to Handle Transports to Sicily

By JOHN A. MOROSSO, 3d.,
Associated Press War Correspondent.
WITH U. S. AMPHIBIOUS
FORCES OFF SICILY, July 14 (Delayed).—One of the most amazing facets in the Allied invasion of Sicily is that a large percentage of the men and officers manning the American ships were landlubbers snatched from civilian life only a short time ago. They come from all walks of life and they have had to learn fast. In the opinion of Rear Admiral Alan G. Kirk they did an excellent job.

When war came to Europe the American Navy had few transports. Taking a long-range sight Navv experts began acquiring passenger liners to convert into transports. Then came the amphibious force organization and that meant more ships and more officers and men.

Unofficial estimates today say that more than 80 per cent of the men operating assault transports had never been to sea a year ago. The fact that they have done a good job is attributed to the Navy's training and to the remarkable adaptability of the American boy.

Skipper Native of Maryland. A good example is our own assault transport, a converted passenger liner. When we put out from the States for the Sicilian invasion 31 of our 47 officers had never been to sea before boarding this ship. Their only experience was in extensive maneuvers in American waters.

The only Annapolis man aboard was our skipper, Capt. Philip P Welch, a native of Lothian, Md. The only regular Navy man was Lt. (j. g.) E. A. Carmody, an engineering officer who had spent 14 years in destroyers, two in cruisers and about a year on this ship. The rest came from the Naval Reserve, the Merchant Marine and

Our naval air liaison officer was Lt. (j. g.) Francis B. Gummere, 32, Cambridge, Mass., with a year in the Navy behind him. Frank suffered multiple compound fractures of the right leg when our landing boat broached the rocks.

One of the most important jobs on a ship is that of first lieutenant and this post was held by Lt. (j. g.) A. J. Rousseau, 31, Providence, R. I. His first and only naval service was on our ship.

One of the busiest men we had aboard was gray-haired, kindly Lt. Comdr. L. E. Paro, 43, Winthrop, Mass. Paro, former assistant supply officer in the Boston Navy Yard, has these duties aboard our ship: Troop and supply officer, debarkation officer, ship's berthing officer and coding room officer. Our senior medical officer and surgeon was Lt. Comdr. Joseph Courtney Fremont, 42, Detroit, a man with no sea experience except what he picked up on the Great Lakes. One of his assistants was Lt. William A. Clark, 28, Little Rock, Ark. Dr. Clark was an obstetrician and gynecologist before he joined the

And I keep thinking about the letters that Mr. Parker, the missionary, and three of my Chinese friends managed to get out of the country after we left for home. Today, after the battle, after the dangerous task of landing troops in a pounding surf and then landing their supplies, these boys are bettermen and better officers. Through the hell of it all we lost only one man, and ironically enough he was on his college swimming team.

(Aphidae family). Spinach aphids prefer the nourishing green juice of their host plant in liquid form. Indeed aphids never take solid food. They flourish on the sap of plants and the plants, deprived of their nourishment, wilt and die.

Nature's Children

By LILLIAN COX ATREY.

SPINACH APHID

To compete with our enemies, reliable information concerning their mode of attack and their life habits aid us in handling a given situation. Aphids have mouth-parts especially designed for piercing tender plant tissue and sucking sap. Further, aphids attack almost every type of fruit, cereal, forage and orchard Therefore, the control of aphids or plant lice, is an everpresent problem to growers. Aphids have a development that is remarkable in several ways. In the autumn ggs are laid for the first time during the year. These are tiny, oval and black. They are fastened to the bark of trees, around winter buds, on tips of branches, shoots and stems of winter hosts. They hatch when vegetation revives. The aphids hatching from these eggs will all be females and "stemmothers." They do not have mates. These stem mothers will be the progenitors of countless generations progenitors of countless generations has a more steady light than that through the months until autumn of a true star. The real stars egg-laying time again returns. Some of these females will have wings, others not. The ones having a mode of transportation are known as migrants. The winged daughters leave nome when conditions become too than any star to be seen in the crowded. It requires but two weeks for an aphid to mature. From this Venus is not too far from the time on she will give birth to several daughters each day. These immediately take their place among great grandmothers, aunts and girl cousins already established on the In the autumn, males will be born.

Their mates will lay the millions of eggs that winter over. Were it not for the presence of natural enemies, tiny as the aphids are, they would destroy practically all plant life. But our industrious friends, the ladybird beetles, move right into a colony and they as well as their offspring wax strong and bright as Venus. happy on the tender body and juice of the aphids. Then there are the greedy maggots, larvae of the syrphus flies, valuable allies of ours. We must not forget to mention the original pole-sitters, the antlions, offspring of the lacewings. Their thoughtful mother places her eggs on the underside of a leaf as close to the aphid colony as possible. Aphid lions step from their egg shell, stroll down the thread "pole" and find themselves in the midst of abundance. All they have to do is reach over, lift from the "bar plant. There are many contact sprays which are quite effective. As soon as the presence of aphids is discovered, usually the spinach leaves are curled and wilted, immediate steps must be taken to save the plant. Soap washes, nicotine sprays and mulsions, when carefully given, usually affect the digestion and life of the famous sap drinker.

Uncle Ray's Corner

A question about the sky appears in a letter from Dorothy Templeton, who savs:

"I am writing you this letter because I know you are interested in scientific work. Tonight I happened to be looking at the skies when I noticed a peculiar-looking body. It was larger than any star I have ever seen. My mother says it has been there for some time. I can see it when it gets dark. It shines in the western sky. It doesn't seem to twinkle as most stars do, so I wondered whether it really is a star. Can you please tell me what it is?"

I feel sure that the object of which Dorothy speaks is the planet Venus. It has been especially bright and beautiful this year, and it is scheduled to remain an "evening star" until early September. After that it will change to a "morning star.'

People often call planets "stars." but there are differences. The light which comes from planets is reflected sunlight. A planet has no light of its own.

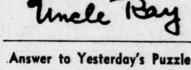

A shining star, on the other hand, has its own light. Like our sun, it gives forth heat as well as light. A true star is, indeed, a "far-away sun." It looks small because it is so distant. All true stars are thousands of times as far away as our sun is. Some of the true stars are millions of times as far from us as the sun is from the earth.

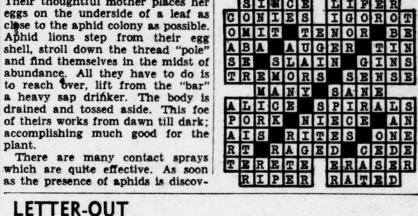

A planet such as Venus or Mars "twinkle" when we see them at night. Like the planets, the moon reflects light from the sun, but there is no twinkling about moonlight. At certain times Venus is brighter heavens. Those times come when There are times when Venus comes as close as 26,000,000 miles from the earth. At other times, when it is on the other side of the sun, it is as much as 160,000,000 miles from the earth. A smaller planet, known as Mercury, has appeared in the sky many times this year. It appeared, not far from Venus, for several weeks the past spring. Now it is back again as an "evening star" but does not stay in sight very long after sunset. It is not nearly so Shells Burst Overhead.

I entered this town with three other correspondents while intermittent German shells still burst overhead about an hour after the first American marched in. Other units of an infantry division were still coming up. All soldiers were halted at the destroyed bridge. The correspondents made their way with scouts over a mile detour by goat tracks up near unclimbable slopes. through blackberry brambles and across the wide, dry bed of the San Stefano River, filled with rolling stones. The leader stepped cautiously in the footsteps of the scout ahead and others stepped in his tracks. We were warned there were mines. everywhere. Engineers had not yet arrived to probe with locators and payonets

We finally met a farmer who said he had worked in the United States. He said he knew just where the Germans had put the mines. The old man led the way and the others followed with reasonable con-

On the other side of the bridge we came upon the first German corpse, beside the road, with a rather elaborate coffin nearby. It looked as if a burial party had fled in the act of picking up the body.

Red Cross Established.

In the town of 7,000, with 4,000 evacuated, the first sight was a big Red Cross on a white sheet hanging across the street at a building where the Americans were trying to set up a field hospital. The first Americans we met in the hard-fought-for town were Pvts. Yares Godfrey of 157 Patrick street, Emporia, Va.; Edgar Deese of Dothan, Ala.; Dale Hawley of Longmont, Colo., and Wallace McNeil of Greencamp, Ohio.

We asked an apparently friendly Italian crowd the way to Fascist party headquarters, usually the center of town activities. They led the way, but the door was locked. A small boy climbed through a window and opened the door. The crowd followed us in. They appeared to go wild with rage when they saw Mussolini's picture. They tore the photograph and glass-inclosed Fascist mottos from the walls and trampled them underfoot. We had to restrain them for fear of being

We located Col. Schaefer at the police station a few minutes later, in a room filled with otwnfolks apparently overjoyed at their deliverance. The town barber was trying to cut the colonel's hair. Troops Lacked Water. Col. Schaefer said his men put in nearly a week of hell, without rations, often without water, in desolate mountains. They had to live largely on grapes, figs and tomatoes, now plentiful in the hill villages. They spent one night pinned down by shell fire after taking a little mountain town. Again last night they were under heavy shell fire in the hills just above San Stefano. A prisoner revealed this morning that the Germans were quitting the town, and the coloned hurried his command forward, finding only friendly Italians left. He actually was the second American to enter the town. The first was a 1st Division lieutenant on reconnaissance. His jeep driver had been killed running over a mine, and he had stumbled into the town, not knowing its name, and found the Germans too busy getting out to notice him.

The town had not been bombed from the air, and artillery shelling had done little physical damage, but had convinced the Germans the place was untenable.

There is a sixth high ridge east of the town where it was believed the Germans would make a stand after evacuating San Stefano, but apparently they retired beyond it to set up new lines, as only a few stray guns and snipers were firing this afternoon.

Details of fighting in the hills are accumulating, as scattered units get together, and many acts of individual heroism are being reported. This is being written on the Mayor's typewriter at midnight. after the correspondent was kicked out of a police station, the Cabinieri wishing to go to bed. Intermittent firing continues in the hills.

Things like that keep coming back, as at such times when one would want to write about how well Una Merkel looked at luncheon yesterday. She should be described, but how? By any one except John Fredericks—if the woman who called up was right? It wouldn't be fair to Miss Merkel to say merely that she did: was wearing a little black something which looked like a dress but might have been a suit. Or that she wore a little black hat with a veil. It seems too generalized to inspire other women to go out and copy Miss Merkel's costume, a becoming thing indeed. All things considered, it will have to be enough to say she looked very fetching in whatever she was in.

Repairing . Renovizing . Modernizing Homes

Don't Take Chances -they can be expensive

The more intensive the war effort the greater the necessary enforced restrictions on essentials. Because construction is practically out all the more important is maintenance and up-keep THROUGHOUT the home.

Have The Eberly Plan help you-have us send a supervisor to go over the house with you-advising what to do-and then turn the doing of it over to our skilled craftsmen. It is that "stitch in time" that'll save the day for many a home.

Have us look over the heating plant-to see that it will work with maximum efficiency. Inspect plumbing in baths and kitchen. Tighten windows and doors. Storm windows will be a help to comfort . . . look into the condition of the roof . . . the gutters and downspouts . . . the cement walks and porches . . . and all other points of deterioration. By all means Insulate

That is one major improvement that will repay its moderate cost many times over in saving of fuel and comfort, both in summer and winter. We use the Rock Wool that does a perfect job. And Painting

-another "must"—we'll use the lasting Dupont Paints.

After the survey we'll submit a complete estimate—which will be most reasonable for it has only one overhead—and the work, much or little as you specify, will all be done by our workmen-with only ONE responsibility—OURS.

Convenient arrangements to budget the bill can be made through the Eberly Financing Plan.
