German Reserves Unable to Halt Kharkov Advance

BULLETIN.

LONDON (A).-A new Soviet offensive in the central front aimed at Smolensk, 85 miles to the northwest, began near Spas Demenskoe a few days ago, a special Russian bulletin announced tonight.

The offensive struck in two directions: From the district northwest of Spas Demensk southward and from the region southeast of the town toward the northwest. The troops moving south cracked the strongly fortified German defense line on a front of 22 miles, the bulletin said.

MOSCOW, Aug. 13.—Battles around Kharkov, great German Ukraine base, approached final stages today as German defenses about the city crumbled under the blows of the Red Army.

Counterattacking fresh German reserves were unable to dislodge Soviet troops threatening the city from the north and east, which had advanced at one point to within five miles of the city. The Russians were said to be gathering for a final Special Units Serve as Infantry.

The newspaper Red Star reported the main battles were raging along the Kharkov-Poltava rail line. The enemy here was throwing in fresh reserves, including all sorts of special units operating as infantry, to stem the Soviet advance.

Soviet tanks operating ahead of the main masses of troops gave the Germans no breathing spell or a chance to arrange their forces.

The capture of Kilontaev 30 miles up the Vorskala River from Poltava threatened that German base. Operations there run along a wide bulging front stretching west from Kharkoy and jutting across the Kharkoy-Poltava railroad and back to the district west of Akhtyrka.

Dispatches on the Chuguev battle described strong fortifications through which the Germans supplied their entire defenses of the western bank of the Northern Donets. Soviet troops forced the river far north of the city and closed in through the

Red Army Opens Ickes Asks Discharge New Drive to Of Miners by Army

Interior Secretary Ickes announced today that he had requested the War Manpower Commission to obtain the release of coal miners from the armed forces as a means of increasing anthracite production to avert a threatened shortage, particularly in Vermont and the Pacific Northwest.

War manpower officials have already announced a serious shortage of coal miners, citing conditions in the Northwest. The WMC would have to ask the armed forces to furlough the men or put them on reserve status. Thousands of men were moved into the copper mines in this way.

It was learned authoritatively that OPA is disappointed in the size of the allocation made by the Petroleum Administration to the East One official said the allocation was the current daily allotment of 328,-000 barrels. If this is true it would permit OPA to do little more than lift the pleasure ban. The agency had hoped to increase A rations to 3 gallons a week, and possibly raise B and C values from 21/2 to 3 gallons, thus equalizing values in the entire territory east of the Rockies.

There also was evidence that the Petroleum Administration and OPA were not in agreement as to which agency should assume responsibility (See GASOLINE, Page A-10.)

Railway Yards Hit; Huge Armada Meets Stronger Resistance

Planes From Doolittle's Africa Command Carry Out Allied Warning

BULLETINS.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP).-American bombers which attacked Rome today returned without the loss of a plane despite strong enemy fighter opposition, it was stated officially tonight.

ON THE SWISS-ITALIAN FRONTIER (AP) .- A Swiss telegraphic agency dispatch said today that American air fleets dropped numerous bombs at Rome today in the quarters of Tuscalano and Tiburtino, the latter of which flanks the switchyards and Termini Railroad Station, already heavily hit in the raid July 19. The dispatch said the Church of Our Lady of Loretto was reported badly damaged.

By the Associated Press.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 13.—An American air armada of possibly 500 planes swarmed over Rome shortly before noon today, smashing the San Lorenzo and Littorio railroad yards, key hubs of the Axis communications system in Italy.

The first waves of Flying Fortresses from Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle's command roared over the San Lorenzo yards a little after 11 a.m., while lighter Mitchells and Marauders were coming in at low level over the Littorio yards, bombing and pouring tracers into the already burning target area.

The bombers participating in the mass attack were said to equal in number those which raided the Italy capital July 19, when 500 heavy American bombers and 200 fighters took part. A total of 1,100 tons of explosives were loosed then.

Recent Allied Warnings Carried Out.

The American and British commanders of the Strategic North-Africa Air Force thew every type of heavy and medium bomber in their assault on Rome. The huge fleet was escorted by Lightning fighters.

Philippines Won Right To Freedom at Bataan, Roosevelt Declares

By the Associated Press. The Philippines won their right to independence by the fight the natives put up on Bataan. President Roosevelt says. Furthermore, the islands will "soon be redeemed from the Japanese yoke.

In those words, Mr. Roosevelt spoke last night to the Filipino people on the 45th anniversary of American occupation of the Pacific territory.

The moment the Japanese are ousted, the President said in his recorded broadcast, the Philippines will have their own republican government. By their battle against the Japanese in December, 1941, and for weeks thereafter, they "gave final proof that here was a nation fit to be respected," he declared.

The Philippine government will have a voice in the peace, Mr. Roosevelt added.

Jap Pledge Countered.

The Chief Executive's remarks were interpreted in Philippine circles here as countering Japanese Premier Tojo's reported pledge to the Japanese-seized islands that they will be made an independent nation by the end of this year.

Joaquin M. Elizalde, Philippine resident commissioner in Washington, gave this meaning to the address. He also said it meant that the islands would not have to wait until July 4, 1946, for full freedom, as provided by the Tydings-McDuffie Independence Act, but that political Independence would be "automatic when the Japs are driven out."

New Legislation Needed. This would require amendatory legislation by Congress, but Mr. Elizalde saw no difficulty there. Present law provides for full freedom after a transition period to prepare the islands economically to become a republic.

Mr. Elizalde said Tojo's independence promise was being followed up by a commission in the Philippines this commission were co-operating voluntarily with the Japanese or at the point of guns.

"Obviously." he said, "the President's message to the Philippine on the purchase of Algerian wheat people is to counteract Japanese propaganda.

Farm Leaders Fear Milk Shortage Unless Prices Are Adjusted

The War Food Administration and the Office of Price Administration are faced with the necessity of choosing between a readjustment of milk prices or a milk shortage "without parallel," Charles W. Holman, secretary of the National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation, declared here today in the wake of similar warnings on two other fronts. In a formal statement, Mr. Holman charged that "on the heads of the administration rests the responsibility of readjusting the relative prices of agricultural commodities. feed and farm wage rates if the Nation's milk supply is to be maintained-and if our limited grain supplies are to be conserved in their conversion into human food.'

Policies adopted by the administration since the war began in regard to milk prices and production gard to milk prices and production have failed to take into account the efficient utilization of scarce feed supplies, equitable treatment to milk producers and the resultant effect on war food production, the farm leader asserted.

Jones Receives Warning. War Food Administrator Marvin Jones was warned yesterday by a group of dairymen and poultrymen of Northeastern States that 43,000,-000 consumers in that region face short supplies of milk, eggs and poultry during the next 12 months unless the Government takes steps to provide livestock feed.

Farmers in 13 New England and Middle Atlantic States, who normally depend on imports of corn and other feed products from the Midwest, are now unable to obtain supplies, the producers said, because Government price policies discourage their shipment East.

A report was laid before Mr. Jones by a committee of the Northeastern Dairy Conference and the Northeastern Poultry Producers' Council headed by J. A. McConnell of Ithica N. Y. He also is chairman of the National Feed Advisory Council, a governmental advisory group. The feed grain shortage for the coming year in the Northwest was estimated at 1,675,000 tons.

Goss Fears Shortages. Albert S. Goss, master of the National Grange, in an address before the Junior Board of Commerce yesterday, likewise warned of serious milk shortages in the Nation, resulting, he said, in part from OPA ceilings on milk. He alos predicted that milk rationing will be inevitable in some sections of the country. He described the dairymen's plight as one of the most serious in agri-

Biddle Blames Riot In Detroit on Poor Housing, Recreation

Urges Care in Shifting More War Workers To Congested Cities

By the Associated Press.

Attorney General Biddle expressed the opinion today that improper housing and recreational facilities for both Negroes and whites had been a contributing factor to the Detroit riots and "other racial or hoodlum clashes" in recent months.

Mr. Biddle said it seemed to him to be advisable, therefore, that responsible officials give careful consideration to the availability of such facilities before taking any steps to fill manpower requirements in already congested areas.

Mr. Biddle made his observations in a letter to Lester B. Granger. executive secretary of the National Urban League, New York, who had written to express concern over statements attributed to Mr. Biddle in reports to President Roosevelt on racial problems.

Young Mother Faces Arraignment in Thefts

A 21-year-old mother of two small girls was held for the grand jury under $500 bond today on a housebreaking charge. Police said she admitted she had ransacked three homes in the Southeast section in the last three weeks.

She revealed she had carried her two children, 2 and 4, with her on two of her expeditions, police said. On one occasion, she told police, she took the children into the home.

The sale of a class ring to a pawn broker for $1.50 led to the arrest of the young woman, Mrs. Julia King, and her 24-year-old husband Wednesday at their Hillside (Md.) home by Precinct Detectives Francis E. Burgess and J. E. Lowry, who were assisted by Elon Turner of the Prince Georges County police. The husband was released by police after questioning.

Sulpician Society Elects Father Lardner Acting Head in U. S.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 13. - The asked me to sit down again on his Catholic Review announced today that the Sulpician Council had elected the Very Rev. Dr. John J. Lardner, S. S., of Baltimore, acting provincial of the Sulpician Society in the United States.

Father Lardner, former rector of St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, and superior of the School of Theology, Roland Park, succeeded the Very Rev. Dr. John F. Fenlon, S. S., who died recently. The announcement was made by the Very Rev. Anthony Vieban, S. S., rector of the Theological College of Catholic University and ranking member of the Sulpician Council in the United States.

The council was convened by the Most Rev Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore and Washington, out of "deep friendship" for the society and interest in its work, the Catholic Review said. Other council members, who voted 5 to 1 for Father Lardner. are: The Rev. Dr. Louis A. Arand, S. S., superior of divinity college, Catholic University: the Very Rev George A. Gleason, S. S., president of St. Charles College, Catonsville: Father Lardner, the Very Rev Lloyd P. McDonald, S. S., superior of the school of philosophy, St. Marys Seminary, and the Rev. Thomas C. Mulligan, S. S., of the St. Marys philosophy school.

The publication said that Archbishop Curley had informed the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicogani, apostolic delegate in Washington, of the election and that the papal representative had forwarded the information to the congregation of religious in Rome. The Sulpician Society is a pontifical congregation.

Father Lardner, a native of Baltimore, received degrees from Loyola College and St. Marys Seminary here. After completaing postgraduate work at Catholic University he received his licentiate in sacred theology. His doctorate in sacred theology followed studies in

Rustling Seen Motive Pennsylvania-Central In Torture Slaying

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo., of operations into four additional Aug. 13.—In a search for clues in States and 22 cities in the Eastern the torture slaying of a sheepherder, Undersheriff William MacFarlane said today one possibility was that the elderly victim was bound and left to die by sheep thieves.

The body of Bert Purdy, 65, was found in his camp wagon yesterday in a remote gully about 18 miles south of Hayden. Colo. His arms and legs had been drawn back and tied at the small of his back. He had died, authorities said, of exposure, shock or heart failure.

While explaining that it was not certain that Purdy was the victim of rustlers, MacFarlane said several livestock and sheep thefts had been reported recently in this Northwestern Colorado section. Purdy's employer, Eber Howell, noticed the herder's 1,300-sheep flock had scattered. The howling of Purdy's dog attracted Howell to the wagon. The dog lay beside the MacFarlane said Purdy was bound by an expert. The harder he struggled to become free, the tighter he drew the cords. The rope was a quarter-inch cotton twist not often found in the sheep country.

The sheepherder had been robbed. His pockets were empty, and the wagon had been stripped of supplies brought to him last Sunday and of two high-powered rifles. Authorities, however, discounted robbery as the slaying motive.

The bill by Chairman May of the House Military Affairs Committee, which would prohibit the draft of any fathers into the armed forces, is the sort of arbitrary restraint on the use of manpower which by all means should be avoided. But it was avoided only with difficulty earlier in this session and it will be harder to avoid it when Congress comes back. For the administration will be unable to demonstrate by the record that it is making the best use of available civilian manpower. And if the military authorities were unable to convince the House early this year that the size of the armed forces should be left for them to decide, they are going to be hard put to do it now. The fatal weakness in our efforts to solve the manpower problem has been the glaring inconsistency between our conception of military service and civilian service. We have faced the inevitability of military service without flinching; but our been confused with human rights and property rights and every other right except the Nation's right to depend on its citizens for support of the men on the battle fronts. We are now facing the ugly consealternatives quences, with no workable program to deal with them. There has been a lack of candor, on the part of the manpower authorities in connection with the draft of fathers that is not to be explained merely by the uncertainties of war. Conflicting statements about the necessity for the step have confused the matter from the very beginning. In postponing their induction again, by waiting until the Nation-wide pool of non-fathers is exhausted, the manpower authorities are in effect public does not yet know definitely whether the date now tentatively set for induction of fathers is based on military necessities, or whether it is merely another indirect effort to scare fathers into essential industry. The "voluntary" method of allocating manpower to needed industry is falling apart. A substantial part of the serious manpower shortage in the essential warplane industries on the West Coast is attributed to the fact that men are leaving the aviation industry to get higher pay in ship-

Unless the administration can present Congress with some evidence that it has a civilian manpower policy that will work and that the draft of fathers is an inescapable war necessity, such measures as the May bill, which have plenty of support, will be enacted. At the same 'time it is becoming increasingly clear that legislation in the form of a national service act, putting everybody in the Nation on an equal footing for wartime service, is the remain alternative in the avoidance of continued muddling with manpower.

Midsummer Madness

Were he alive today, Thomas Paine would be the first to concede that he was moved by a brash impetuosity when he wrote in 1776 that "these are the times that try men's souls." In the jargon of today Mr. Paine "hadn't seen nothing yet." The citizen of 1943, no less than Mr. Paine, is oppressed by heat and war. But there are also new and strange burdens to be borne.

There is, for instance, the shock to one's nervous system that comes with the disclosure that Henry A. Wallace will have no truck with a policy of economic scarcity. And on top of this, without warning, we are dealt a staggering blow in the form of an announcement from that loyal New Dealer Judge Marvin Jones that there have been too many directives from Washington, and that this is bad for the country.

Yet it is necessary to put these things in their proper perspective. They were but the premonitory rumblings which served notice that the worst was still to come; that the supreme crisis of our midsummer madness had not yet been reached. But now it is over, and we know the worst that there is to know Harold Ickes, after posing all these years as the friend and champion of the people, stands accused as a tool of the "interests." Out of sheer perversity, if one can believe the Labor Policy Committee of OPA, Mr. | in 1765 he brought out the first Ickes, the mere mention of whose name has been enough to throw big business into a convulsive shudder, craved.

try to rob the people of a billion or more dollars.

Incredible, you say? Perhaps so, for those of faint heart. But let the summer soldier and the sunshine patriot skulk away and say that this simply cannot be true. The real American will steel himself to face this crisis and see it through. And from now on he will believe anything.

The Pacific Side of It

In the conference soon to be held at Quebec between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill, the spotlight of public interest is focused upon matters affecting Europe, where momentous developments obviously impend. The progress of United Nations arms both in the Mediterranean and in Russia tends to shift the emphasis in longrange planning there from the military to the political phase, with postwar diplomacy acquiring heightened importance and requiring immediate attention.

What is not generally realized is that this stepping-up of the European war-cycle involves a corresponding acceleration of the Pacific phase of the world struggle. Between those two main phases of a truly global conflict, a wide timedifferential has existed ever since Allied statesmanship resolved to concentrate on Europe and relegate the war against Japan to a secondary place. But the very fact that the war in Europe is evolving so satisfactorily implies that the war against Japan can now be promoted in Allied grand strategy to somewhat the status which Europe held six months ago in the thinking of the inter-Allied high command. The layman should always remember that general staffs never bother with. the present so long as things go according to schedule, but concern themselves with a more or less distant future. Sicily, for instance, was threshed out by our top-flight strategists months before the actual invasion. It ceased to interest them after the first landings and consolidations had proved the eventual success of that operation. It is well nigh certain that Italy is similarly pigeonholed by our grand strategy, and probable that European invasion plans have been theoretically worked out in all their strategic

If this be true, the logical deduction is that our military and naval master minds are concentrating on the new aspect which military progress in Europe has produced upon the Pacific and Far Eastern theaters of operations. This, of course, does not necessarily mean that such long-range planning will result in immediate large-scale shifts of troops and warships to those theaters. It may well mean, however, that the ground-plan for defeating Japan has ceased to be academic speculation and that the strategic means for encompassing its downfall can now be considered and worked out in the light of altered

Assuming the correctness of this hypothesis, Pacific and Far Eastern strategy should rank high on the agenda of the coming Quebec conference. Military factors should be reinforced by political considerations, especially by China's rapidly worsening domestic crisis, which is arousing grave concern in the Allied high command. It is recognized by Allied leadership that unless the war against Japan is vigorously pressed in the near future, there is a real danger that China may cease to be militarily effective and might even be forced out of the war altogether. Preoccupation with the Pacific and Far East at the Quebec conference may also account in part for Soviet aloofness from its proceedings. Now, as formerly, Moscow avoids carefully any diplomatic step which might compromise its neutral status with Japan. For Soviet Russia, the Pacific war does not exist. This, of course, is one of the chief handicaps to United Nations solidarity. But it is a handicap which can be removed only by a Russian change of attitude toward Japan. And of this there is small likelihood while the Red Army is engaged to the hilt with

Blackstone

The Capital of the United States undoubtedly is an appropriate place to set up a statue of Sir William Blackstone, but he will need explanation to the average citizen. Even the generality of American lawyers. to whom his "Commentaries" still are a Bible of a sort, know little of the story of his career. Few men of his degree of modern importance more definitely belong to another

Born in London July 10, 1723, Blackstone first won notice at Charterhouse and then at Pembroke College, Oxford. He brought a reputation for excellence in scholarship with him when he entered the Middle Temple in 1741. Chosen a fellow of All Souls in 1744 and called to the bar in 1746, he attended the courts at Westminster for seven years with such scant profit that finally he decided to retire from the pretense of practicing. His failure gave him the opportunity upon which his fame is built. A series of lectures on the British constitution which he delivered at Oxford led to the establishment of the Vinerian professorship. and Sir William was named the first university teacher of common law in England. In 1759 he published an ster, "and business and the honors of his profession soon crowded in upon him." He was elected to Parliament, made King's counsel, appointed solicitor general to the Queen and principal of New Inn Hall. During the last decade of his life he was a judge of common pleas, "but attained no special distinction."

As to how great he was as a jurist. there is controversy. Had his influence been so effective as some writers have claimed, the American Revolution would have been unnecessary. He enjoyed considerable popularity in high circles, but George III did not listen to him. Neither was he consulted by the royal ministers -North, Grenville and others-who supported his majesty as "director of the national policy." Sir William's share in the deliberations of the House of Commons was "inglorious." He was "cold, reserved and wary, exhibiting a frigid pride." None of his most deservedly celebrated contemporaries was his friend. A recent biographer says: "The fame of Blackstone is greater in the United States than it is in his native land and bids fair to continue to be."

One clue to the solution of the problem perhaps may be discovered in the "Commentator's" occasional "liberalism." "The law of nature," he declared, "is superior in obligation to every other. It is binding all over the globe, in all countries and at all times; no human laws are of any validity if contrary to this, and such of them as are valid derive their force and all their authority. mediately or immediately, from the

The decision of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor to postpone action on the proposal for readmission of the United Mine Workers until the October convention does not necessarily means that the Federation's door has been closed to John L. Lewis and his miners. But it is definitely in the nature of a rebuff to Mr. Lewis, and it may result in the withdrawal of his application for reaffiliation.

When Mr. Lewis moved for a return to the AFL several months ago it was generally believed that the latter would be happy to receive back the powerful mine workers' union. But for reasons which are none too clear this has not proved to be the

The committee appointed to deal with Mr. Lewis has been rather stand-offish in its attitude. Certainly its handling of the proposal has not been marked by any enthusiasm for the return of Mr. Lewis. One of the difficulties has centered around the UMW District 50-a catch-all union which was created for the purpose of organizing workers other than miners and which has been in conflict with several of the AFL craft unions. It is understandable that the executive council would be reluctant to readmit the miners without some determination of the future of District 50, for to do otherwise would be to invite an intensification of jurisdictional quarrels within the parent body. And it is reasonable to believe that the hostility of the Progressive Miners' Union of Illinois, a rival group chartered by the AFL after Mr. Lewis withdrew, was an influential consideration.

But it also is probable that other factors entered into the decision. When Mr. Lewis stalked out of the AFL in 1935 to set up the CIO he left much bad feeling behind. By 1937 this had flared into the open. William Green, AFL president, accused Lewis of pursuing political ambitions in fostering dual unionism, and suggested that the CIO sitdown strikes might be a preliminary step toward a dictatorship by several hundred Communists on the CIO payroll. Mr. Lewis replied that Mr. Green becomes "inebriated by the exuberance of his own verbosity," and later followed this with the statement that "I have explored the mind of William Green and I give you my word there is nothing there."

These intermittent clashes have left a heritage of bad feeling which has not been cleared away. And while this of itself might not be sufficient to induce the executive council to deny membership to a union with some 600,000 dues-paying members, it might well be enough to tip the balance when taken with such other things as Mr. Lewis' uncompromising attitude with respect to District 50. And there is the further point that there undoubtedly are members of the council who would have good cause to wonder what the future would hold for them should Mr. Lewis be restored to a position of power in the inner circles of the AFL.

Air Power Held Futile To Win War in Russia

By Maj. George Fielding Eliot.

The trouble with much of our thinking on the subject of how to win the war in Europe is that it is out of focus. We solemnly discuss whether Germany can be defeated by air power alone, for example, without ever taking into consideration the fact that Anglo-American air power would never have been able to make as much headway as it has if the Germans had been free to devote their attention to defense against it, instead of having about two-thirds of their total resources tied up in maintaining their Russian front.

We must keep constantly in mind that the Russian front is the main front in Europe, that the Russians are making the main United Nations effort against the Germans, and that sound military principle required that the efforts of Anglo-American air power and amphibious power be directed toward aiding the main effort first of all, as secondary operations must always do if they are worth their cost. Unless this is so, such secondary operations are almost always a violation of the basic principle of economy of force.

Now, whatever air power may be able to do in the west, it is perfectly evident that air power is not going to win the war in the east. In the east, the decision will be taken on the ground, by land forces aided by air support. The Russians have not been doing much strategic bombing, indeed are not equipped for it on a large scale. The Russian high command is, of course, perfectly aware that Anglo-American air power is cutting down the total German war potential, and thus reducing the ability of the Germans to fight the Russians in any way.

They are, likewise, aware that these operations have compelled the Germans to concentrate the bulk of the German fighter force in the west, which gives the strong Russian tactical air force a great deal more freedom of action, and restricts the Germans in bombing Russian positions because of lack of fighter protection for the German bombers.

All this is very good, from the Russian viewpoint. If the Russians were going to continue to be on the defensive, if they were to be no more than the anvil. upon which the Anglo-American hammer was to beat the Germans to a pulp, they would doubtless be quite satisfied with the prospect of increased air attacks rather than any other form of attack.

But the Russians are on the offensive. It is a ground offensive in which ground troops will be the decisive element. It is also a very promising offensive, which the Germans have got to do something about and do quickly, or else give up a lot of Russian territory and resources which will be of immense value to the Russians in the further prosecution of the war.

The only thing the Germans can do. as previously pointed out in these articles, is either give up territory in Russia, execute a broad and deep withdrawal, or else put in their strategic reserve of ground troops in a large-scale counterattack like that which saved them, in the very nick of time, from disaster last February.

Hence the Russian view is, and very properly, that the greatest contribution which their Anglo-American Allies now can make to the prosecution of the war in Europe, is to tie up that German strategic reserve. Air attacks will not do that. Air attacks engage only the enemy's fighter forces, and antiaircraft and airraid precaution forces.

They leave his ground forces free to act wherever needed, except and until they so impair his whole war potential as to paralyze him altogether. And the most ardent advocate of air power hardly will claim that such complete paralysis can be brought about by any air attacks we are capable of delivering, in time to prevent a German counterattack in Russia this summer

The only way that can be done is to compel the Germans to engage their strategic reserve elsewhere, by Anglo-American land operations on a sufficient scale and of sufficient threat so that the Germans neither will be able to check them with local reserves, nor dare to let them gather headway.

The Germans must be confronted, not with the present alternative of giving up Russian territory or putting in their strategic reserve, but with the alternative of giving up Russian territory or losing territory of even greater value to them elsewhere. That is what the Russians now mean by a second front, and it is a perfectly logical thesis of war. (Copyright, 1943, New York Tribune, Inc.)

Pity the Boss!

From the Joliette L'Action Populaire. Times are hard for employers, except perhaps for those who get war contracts. As time goes on difficulties increase unceasingly; scarcity of labor; difficulty of repairing or replacing machines; more work than ever; raw materials less varied and slow to secure; constant increase in the costs of administration whereas selling prices are fixed by law: unusual complications in accounting problems inherent in each kind of business-and what more? As a matter of fact, has not the employer become a state functionary? He must carry out a multitude of subtractions from wages for income tax purposes, war loans, contributions to health insurance, to unions, to collective agreements: he has to collect Federal and provincial sales taxes on his sales. All this requires a multitude of reports on precise formulas, often more or less clear, which he has to fill up and forward at stated intervals with his cheque. The smallest of business houses needs an accountant who can untangle himself out of all this stuff and not lose much of his time.

A Modern Fable

From the Montreal Star

In the smoking car the man with a country house told a story about two powerfully built tomcats that fought a duel just before dawn on his lawn.

"The sun rose to reveal the scene of battle, the fighters gone, the grass covered with cat fur," he said. "Very soon there appeared many of the birds that had selected my place for their summer home. They quickly cleared the lawn of fur, using it to line their nests."

"Well, what about it?" asked one of "You might call that a modern fable,"

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

"Dear Sir:

than the male?

"Recently I have been watching these birds, of which we have a large number, and have seen the female sitting still, but never the male.

"Until this year my only idea of a hummingbird was on the wing, with those shimmering wings going full blast, as in all the pictures. "This summer I have caught many of them doing what seems to be simple perching, and in each and every case it has been the female.

"Can this mean that the female of this species is lazier than the male, or is it just that I have happened to see the mother taking a little rest?

"I do not know where the nest is, if any; can you tell me how high the nest is put, and how large it is? I imagine the eggs are very small. "Sincerely, H. O'T."

* * * * The mother hummingbird works harder at feeding her young than most birds, so no doubt she is entitled to a bit of "time

Instead of cramming raw insects down their throats, as ordinary birds do, the mother hummingbird eats minute insects, waits until they are partly digested and then regurgitates them. This semi-digested food is given the young birds both by the male and fe-In this way the hummingbirds may be said to be the inventors of predigested foods. Just how or why they evolved this method is not known, except that the young are so small that perhaps they could not take even the smallest of insects in the raw. * * * * The nest is placed from 10 to 30 feet

It is about the size of an English walnut, forming a cup made of dandelion down-one good use for it-intertwined with matted plants and ferns. It is no wonder that so few of them are ever seen, because they are camouflaged with moss so that they seem to be mere protuberances on the limb. Only two eggs are laid in the nest, which is lined with down. These are pure white.

It is not an unusual thing for hummingbirds to rest.

They are so small that most often they are overlooked when perching. Perching is, as a matter of fact, a favorite diversion of these little birds. They perch more, perhaps, than most birds, because they seem to like to look around, and to preen their feathers.

"ARLINGTON, Va. Both sexes indulge in a great amount of preening. This is both to smooth "Is the female hummingbird lazier their feathers and to catch lice. It is hard to think of these fairylike birds being covered with lice, but such is the hardship to which nature consigns them. Whatever nature may have done to help living creatures, she often does things, and encourages conditions, which make it difficult for them to live * * * * There is only one hummingbird species recorded for Washington and vicinity. It is the ruby-throated, the male having a red patch beneath the chin, the female being all green. In other parts of the country, notably the Southwest, there are some other species, including the black-chinned hummingbird, Anna's hummingbird, the broad-tailed hummingbird and the roufous hummingbird. The male of the latter species is cinnamon-roufous all over, with the exception of the crown, which is bronze green.

The broad-tailed hummer is 4 inches long, as compared with the 31/4 inches of our ruby-throat. It perches for very long periods.

Ordinarily the rubythroat rests for only a few minutes at a time, during which period she (or he) keeps looking around, not only for the pleasure of it, but also to keep an eye on the food sup-

Contrary to popular impression, this bird lives mostly on tiny insects, which it gathers from the bells of flowers, to which the "bugs" have been attracted by the nectar. Hummingbirds also drink the nectar, and this fact is utilized in attracting them to glass tubes filled with sugar water. Unfortunately, ants will come, too. * * * * The broad-tailed hummer, which makes its home in the mountains of the West, is said to be able to throw one leg over its wing and scratch itself while in flight. All the hummingbirds are specialists in making their toilet.

An observer of the broad-tail says that the creature spends hours polishing its bill, which it does with its claws.

Our ruby-throat similarly spends much time on feathers and bill. Our most exciting hummingbird adventure was when a pair of ruby-throats flew out of a bed of gladioluses and were within a foot of our face before they saw us. Instantly they stood still in the air, their tiny wings beating for all they were worth.

We looked at the hummers, and the hummers looked at us, and it would be difficult to say which was the most surprised at the meeting eye to eye.

Letters to the Editor

Urged in Behalf of World Peace. To the Editor of The Star.

Taking the various polls that are being conducted today at face value, we find that the majority of people desire some instrument of world peace. This is a manifestation of our growing understanding that peace cannot long endure in our country if the remainder of the world is in flames.

In the desire for an organization for world peace we have made a great step toward that end. However, until we include in that poll: "Are you willing to support financially the rebuilding of not only the conquered countries but the enemy countries?" we have missed the keystone of the structure for world peace, and that is that peace will not continue as long as one country goes hungry while another has plenty. Witness the stupid jokes about giving every Hottentot a quart of milk.

Omitting the ideal of human brotherhood or the desire of every person to see that his fellowman does not suffer want, and taking the dollar-and-cents view of practical business, we would find that it is cheaper to help our fellowman to become self-supporting than to live in an armed world where each nation covets other nations' resources and experiences war every 20 years or so.

It is here that we are missing one of our best political weapons for ending the war quickly. Our President did not go far enough in saying that we would have no truck with the Fascists. He should have pledged our Nation's resources to the rebuilding of not only the conquered nations but also to the enemy nations when they have overthrown their Fascist governments. Such a pledge would place us in the forefront of the struggle for world peace, and our Allies would certainly assist us in this pledge to build a peace organization whose foundations rest upon freedom from want for the entire world. Single Tax Doctrine Again Set Forth.

To the Editor of The Star "Free America" seems on the way to becoming one word as "damn-yankee" is said to be in the South

Our radio Chauvins would have us believe we are the only free people on earth, whereas, we have no more of freedom than is general throughout the British Empire and even less than in some parts of it that are breaking away from the squirearchial conditions of the mother country imposed upon them as

On a like Colonial basis we undertook to found a state dedicated to freedom and equality and have rested there unmindful of the centuries of demonstration that freedom and feudalism are at opposite poles; that bread-and-butter freedom, or freedom from want, as now phrased, is unattainable under whatever government, where the soil, the sole source of human subsistence, is given over to private control and exploitation as a means of profit without labor.

The advantages both in spirit and substance given the Russian people by abolition of their feudal system of land tenure with its train of privileged parasites may be judged by comparison of the Russia of today with the Russia of the tsars, and the fact that in the recent world-wide depression, Russia presented no spectacle of mass unemployment

To sum up, we need no more of New Dealism revamping old deals, dispiriting social aids, sops to soldiers and the like, to bury us deeper under more mountains of debt. We need, instead, to prevail over the pocket patriots back of our facade of democracy in a way to open our lands and markets to the fullest, free production and exchange by the millions of us who have few or no resources beyond capacity for labor. That done, we may think more of extending freedom to the rest of backward humanity

Confirmation of Report Concerning Waste of Gasoline.

To the Editor of The Star: With reference to the article in The Star for August 10 concerning the gasoline situation in Southern Maryland:

Like your reporter I recently had occasion to travel to Southern Maryland on business, and I, too, was amazed at the way gasoline is wasted in that' area. I talked to many of the workers at the Naval Air Base at Cedar Point and learned that many of them travel back and forth between the base and Washington or Baltimore each day. Many of them living on the base think nothing of driving to the same cities for "dates" in the evening.

I observed a steady stream of traffic on the road between Leonardtown and Washington, all of which was traveling around 60 miles an hour. Your reporter did not touch upon the waste of gas by the Navy itself. While I was at the base I heard Navy pilots talking about flying to Washington or Norfolk to get a haircut I will add that I traveled by bus, or at least I went to Cedar Point by bus, because I did not have gasoline enough to drive my own car. I had no difficulty in getting a ride back to Washington with some of the sailors on the base.

Theories Offered to Explain Stalin's Absence From Conferences.

To the Editor of The Star: There has been much talk about the position of Russia, about the reasons Stalin has not attended the major war conferences. May I advance two reasons, either one of which could reasonably be an answer?

Russia today is carrying the heavy load of the war, besides which the efforts of her Allies seem small. The absence of the directing head of Russian government even for a few days might be disastrous to Russia's war efforts. Stalin cannot afford to take the risk. The other reason is that Stalin, the head of the government which has suffered so much, may fear that punishment of Germany and her criminal leaders may not be accomplished by the nations who failed to punish similar criminals in the First World War, and that in a conference he might be outvoted by them.

Legal Club Cuts Output Of Engines

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Despite efforts in various quarters to gloss over the facts and thus keep the truth from the American people. a crisis has arisen in the manufacture of aircraft engines which is so serious that high officials have begun an intensive study to see what can be done to reverse the production figures.

It is not just a question of failing to reach goals or schedules. It is a case of an actual David Lawrence. drop-off in engine production by one of the principal airplane engine makers, and the disease may spread to other manufacturers. Thus, in one branch plant where the production schedule for March was about 1,700, there was actually produced in that month more than 150 above that schedule, but in July that plant had fallen to about 277 and the estimate for August is down to the total of 45 engines. Any such drop is a sensational dedevelopment. If it were confined to one plant, it might be glossed over, but the fundamental conditions have begun to affect other plants and the production figures we shall see for August, September and October may show similar drops in other plants. Indictments Bring Caution.

The major reason for the decline is the solar plexus blow dealt the aircraft industry by a series of indictments and criminal proceedings against individuals and companies for alleged defective parts. If the Government is going to prosecute some of the best companies in the country on the ground that the margin of judgment from specifications which the engineers say is acceptable cannot be accepted and if men who exercise such judgment must run the risk of criminal proceedings, then production is bound to drop off.

Nobody is willing to take such risks, and those who insist on perfection instead of practicability will have to take the responsibility for breaking down America's aircraft production at a critical time in the

Not merely the aircraft engine makers in the plants affected are completely frustrated but evidence of a bewilderment and discouragement comes from other engine manufacturers

All this is happening at a time when the Government wanted aircraft engine plants to expand their production.* That seems to be out of the question, and now it's a matter of trying desperately to keep the production figures from falling nationally.

Report Not Specified. The War Production Board got out a report last week end which covered deliveries in July, but did not reveal the dropoff in engine production or the reduction in heavy bombers of a certain important type. All the figures were lumped together and the impression was given that the only thing wrong was a failure to reach goals set perhaps too high.

The facts are that after the line in one of our big bomber Truman Committee report came plants. out and indictments were filed irrespective of the remarkable record in production made by the plants the public to believe that all is in question since the outbreak of rosy on the aircraft production war, the engine makers began to front and that its just a matter tected. Fear Spreads. So the inspection has become so rigid as to reduce engine production, and word is spreading throughout the aircraft industry that somebody has begun to be more interested in putting the aircraft engine makers in jail than in getting acceptable production. Engine makers are wondering what to do and the fear that has spread in the last six weeks doubtless will be reflected in lower and lower production figures.

Other factors are slowing up production output in other plants as, for instance, the drop in heavy

On the Record—

By DOROTHY THOMPSON. On Tuesday Walter Lippmann published an article describing the difference between two sets of "idealogues" in foreign policy:

Those who wish to have any dealings with any of the popular national forces until after the war is

The latter is obviously our policy and, defending it, Mr. Lippmann-apparently reflecting official views-produces the odd argument that we should not wish to see a popular revolution in Germany because its leaders would be compromised with the people by having yielded to unconditional surrender.

Mr. Lippmann seems to believe that two opinions are in conflict in the ethereal realm of abstract ideas. This is wholly unfactual. Two policies are approaching a serious conflict. Each is backed by great powers, only one of which is engaging the bulk of the enemy forces. The conflict between "idealogues" is a conflict between a nation with a border on Germany, whose armies are inexorably pushing out the Germans, and the Anglo-American powers who have not yet engaged the Germans. It is a condition that confronts us, and not a theory. Failure to see this condition is idealogical and not

U. S. Policy Outlined.

The American policy is: Make no appeal and no promises to popular forces in Germany that might overthrow Hitler and liquidate the war; offer whoever arises the same formula: "Unconditional Surrender"; occupy and administer Germany with the AMGOT, for an undefined period; and sometime, somehow, come to peace with a new regime. or with several in a dismembered Germany. This policy has never been defined, but Mr. Lippmann's article and those of Kingsbury Smith and our behavior, indicate that this is our plan.

The Russian policy toward Germany has been forecast by Stalin's speeches and made crystal-clear in the manifesto issued by the Free German Committee in Moscow. It takes a diametricany opposite line from ours. It appeals to the masses of the German people, and to officers and soldiers of the army, to overthrow Hitler and his supporters responsible for the war, withdraw all German troops behind the German border lines, establish a democracy, and negotiate a peace. . It specifically defines the kind of government and the conditions under which Russia is prepared to make immediate peace. And it threatens to adopt our policy only in case the German army and people do not revolt. This is what Mr. Lippmann presents as a conflict between "idealogues." But it is a conflict between Allied nations.

It will serve no good purpose to gloss over the situation and lead

The Moscow manifesto says in "The continuation of a hopeless war would be tantamount to the nation's doom. . . . But Germany must not die! If the German people continue . . . to allow themselves to be led to their doom . . . their guilt will increase. . . .

"Hitler will then be overthrown only by the force of the coalition armies. But this will signify the end of our national independence.

"If the German people, in good time, . . . prove in deed that they want to be a free people, and are determined to free Germany of Hitler, they will then win the right to decide their fate themselves. . . .

"No one will make peace with Hitler. . . . Hence the formation of a genuine German government is the most urgent task. . . .

"This government must be strong and possess the necessary power to render harmless the enemies of the people. It must . . . establish firm order and represent Germany with dignity to the outside world. . . . It must immediately stop military operations, recall German troops to the Reich frontiers, and embark on peace negotiations, relinquishing all conquests. In this manner it will obtain peace, and once again place Germany on an equal footing with other nations.

"This means . . . a strong democracy that will be implacable . . . that will ruthlessly suppress any attempt at new plots . . . or against European peace . . . It means the restoration and extension of political rights and social gains; freedom of speech, press, assembly, conscience and religious beliefs . . . freedom of economy, trade and handicraft; guaranteed right to labor and to lawfully-acquired property . . . confiscation of property of those responsible for the war . . This manifesto undoubtedly is the most important political document of the war to date. Now imagine that the German people, under whatever leadership, should accept these Russian terms. Can any one assume that the Russian armies will fight on to force the Germans to "unconditional surrender?" To whom? To us? To the AM-

GOT? The manifesto is a specific offer of a specific kind of peace, to a specific kind of Government. And if we don't like it, we have only one choice: To conquer Germany before Russia has accomplished her aims. If we do like it, the only thing for us to do is to make the same offer, and do so immediately.

In the domestic field it is hard to see how the Republicans can produce a platform to be described as 'liberal" by the present-day "liberals" without paralleling the spurious liberalism of the New Deal in which the practical facts of good government have no place.

Candidate Makes Platform.

Anyhow, Mr. Willkie must know that it makes little difference what the platform is. The presidential candidate makes the platform. It is what he is and what he says that counts-not the platform. Hastily thrown together planks by a resolutions committee working in the convention heat and turmoil are of little consequence. The important thing is the nominee and his interpretation of party policy.

How much platforms amount to was shown by the completeness with which, after his election, Mr. Roosevelt ignored the sound principles of He is running for it just as hard as the 1932 Democratic platform. This Changing World—

By CONSTANTINE BROWN The Chinese government is looking hopefully to the Roosevelt-Chuchill conference and expects that the Allied strategists will decide on a campaign against the Japanese in Burma. This Gener alissimo Chiang Kai-shek considers of paramount importance to the successful termination of the war.

The situation of the Constantine Brown. Chungking government has become nearly desperate. The amount of essential materials which the Chinese are receiving is far from satisfactory. Hunger and starvation are prevalent in the regions under the Chungking jurisdiction. But privations have become second nature with the Chinese and will not affect their determination to remain in the war.

It is of vital importance that the Allies keep the pledge they have given Chiang to start a campaign against Burma after the monsoon season is over. This promise is the only thing which has kept his generals loyal in spite of tempting offers from Japanese agents.

If the Allies cannot find means to start a real offensive against Burma this year, Chiang will lose face, and in such an eventuality he fears his forces will disintegrate. Some of Chiang's generals will go over to the enemy bag and baggage. Others may prefer to retire to certain sections of China to lead the leisurely life of local war lords subsidized by Generals Unimpressed.

Recent victories of the Allies in Europe and the local successes of the American forces in the Pacific have made little impression on Chiang's generals.

The operations are too far away from China and it will take men like the Generalissimo himself to hold a long-range view regarding the eventual defeat of the Japs. Chiang's generals do not take this long-range view.

After eight years of continuous war, in which China has lost 200,000,000 of her 470,000,000 inhabitants to the Japanese, the Chinese generals are getting fed up with being loyal. This attitude has become more accentuated in the last 18 months since the Burma road was closed and those niceties of life which kept the generals and their families happy are no longer available.

The Japanese propaganda today is more active than Tokio's military machine. Chiang has been warning us for several months that unless a large-scale offensive is started in Burma, he may be compelled to withdraw to some obscure corner of Tibet, abandoning the country to the enemy and his stooges.

At present there are 30 Japanese divisions in China and 10 in Burma. Each division is 30,-000 men strong. A new army of Burmese and Indians who have been captured at Hong Kong and Singapore is being formed in the newly created Japanese-sponsored Burmese state.

Strong Army In India.

Whether this new force will be provided with modern war equipment is unknown. The Allies-particularly the Britishhave a powerful army in India available to fight the Japanese. Chiang is convinced that a whole-hearted offensive by the British forces, supported by the increasingly strong American aviation, could dislodge the Japanese from Burma and China thus could be saved.

The military importance of that country to the United Nations is a matter which has formed the subject of interminable arguments and discussions. Whether China offers us the best means of attacking Japan is a matter concerning which there are as many opinions as there are specialists discussing it. But one thing stands out. The Japanese are keeping 900,000 men in China to which must be added at least another 100,000 military police. Should Chiang's resistance collapse, the Japanese would be able to withdraw at least 600,000 men for use in other areas.

China Weakens Japs. American strategy in the fight against Japan has been formulated for some time. There are, of course, many "ifs" and "buts" in our war plans. But whichever way we decide to tackle the Japanese when our hands are no longer tied in Europe, there is no question that the war will be much longer and more wasteful in human lives and materiel if they can throw another 600,000 men against us. Like the Nazis, the Japs are at a great disadvantage if they have to fight on

So long as Chiang can be kept in the war, even with only a relatively unimportant military force, the Japanese will not be able to offer the same stubborn resistance. Once we no longer are engaged across the Atlantic, the Chinese army, supported by an Allied ground force and substantial aviation, which we could muster in that area with the greatest of ease, can be a fatal thorn in the Japanese side the day we open up in earnest against the Nipponese.

The facts undoubtedly will be American and British strategists. Chinese Generalissimo hopes that a decision to undertake a real offensive this fall against Burma will be reached. This, he maintains, is the only way to avoid complete disintegration of the Chinese armies. Africa, and son, Sergt. Warren

An intensified campaign to recruit blood donors on behalf of the American Red Cross was launched today in the District and 32 key cities in the country by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Five hundred thousand leaflets informing policyholders and others where donors can be cared for will be distributed by agents in cities where adequate laboratory and blood processing facilities are located. In connection with distribution of the leaflets, Leroy A. Lincoln, president of the company, said, "Experience among our own employes shows that most people appreciate that blood plasma often is the deciding factor between life and death for our fighting men, and because of this many people are anxious to volunteer as donors. Every Fuel Oil User Should Know This-

Without question—the tremendous storage facilities of L. P. Steuart & Bro., Inc., did much to alleviate and thereby prevent a more serious crisis in the Washington Fuel Oil situation last Winter. We were never out of oil at any time! We not only met the ration requirements of all of our own customers, but we were also able to accommodate thousands of other home owners, apartment houses and hospitals who could not be supplied by their regular dealers. We feel that our foresight in building our huge storage tanks performed a real public service to Washingtonians.

MILLION GALLONS STORAGE CAPACITY

Jurisdictional Fight In Aircraft-Auto Industry Faces AFL

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Aug. 13.-A reported application from the Mechanics Educational Society of America for the American Federation of Labor's charter rights over machinists foreshadowed today possible new jurisdictional warfare in the great aircraft-automobile industry.

President William Green said the AFL Executive Council would hold a hearing today on the MESA application.

The International Association of Machinists quit the AFL a few months ago, vacating the charter rights in the machine field. The divorce has not become final, psychologically speaking. Harvey Brown, IAM president, has said his ma-chinists were still "AFL-minded" but wanted an equitable settlement of their row with the carpenters. Bait for Big Union Suggested.

There are sideline suggestions that the AFL's flirtation with the MESA is bait to lure the big machinists' union back into the fold. The machinists claim a half million members. The MESA claims only 40.000 to 45.000 members.

The other principal union in aircraft and automobiles is the CIO United Auto Workers.

The MESA is headed by Matthew Smith and was the nucleus of the Confederated Unions of America which Mr. Smith formed in Chicago last October. It set out to become a third labor movement. Donald Cameron, secretary of the CUA said Mr. Green's announcement of an application from the MESA was news to him.

"As far as we know." said Mr Cameron, "they (the MESA) have been offered an AFL charter but haven't taken it up.'

Bid to Society Denied. Mr. Green, answering a press conference question, denied the AFL had solicited an application from the Mechanics Educational Society. The society's membership is located principally in Detroit, Cleveland, Toledo and Elyria, Ohio.

The AFL Executive Council declined yesterday to join the CIO political action committee in a cooperative enterprise and decided instead to purseue its traditional policy of setting up an independent political committee "to support our friends and oppose our enemies, regardless of party."

Mr. Green, who will head the committee, said Congress members who voted for the Connally-Smith antistrike bill will be opposed vig-

A formal statement by the council said there was evidence that public opinion was turning against the act and added: "We hope that the members of Congress who voted to enact this Fascist measure over the President's veto will weigh the results of their hasty action during their present vacation and be prepared to reconsider when they return to Washington next month."

British Expert Tells Of Early Problems in

food problems plagued the organizers of Great Britain's nursery troubling organizers of the District's nursery schools, Miss Lillian de Lissa, British nursery school expert, said

Attended by nursery Eastern seaboard, the conference Federal Security Agency, Federal Works Agency and Office of Civilian

Miss de Lissa described weeks of waiting for British mothers to discover nursery schools opened by the government for their children.

"Her description certainly tallies with the problems of the new District child care centers," Mrs. Henry P. Chandler, chairman of the Dis trict Child Care and Protection Committee and chairman of today's meeting, pointed out. Equipped to make him falter in his offensive care for 200 children, the four centers here have enrolled only 82 after a month of operation.

Government Shared Costs.

At first England followed the system now in effect here of letting the Government meet 50 per cent of the expenses of nursery schools, Miss De Lissa said. Now, however, the British government pays all of the cost in all communities.

Fifty per cent of costs were met first in England by the local community, she added. Officials here, on the other hand, get no support from the District government and are forced to make up their share of the cost from fees, paid by

Once mothers had discovered the schools, Miss de Lissa said, enrollments increased swiftly to the overcrowded stage. From an enrollment schools have expanded to care for 300,000 children.

There is a bill pending before Parliament, the British expert added, which may lead eventually to universal nursery school care for British children.

Hot Meals Problem.

Serving of hot meals to children is a problem for English nursery schools just as it is here, Miss de Lissa continued. Food supplies are low, unreliable and hard to transport. Mothers often cannot pay even the cost of their children's food at the schools, she said. The government, therefore, has taken

Difter Demands Probe N. Y. Bond Market

Of OWI Propaganda

After Congress Meets

Representative Ditter, Republican, of Pennsylvania says that when Congress reconvenes "a thorough probe" will be demanded into what he termed the stupidity and "distorted propaganda" of the Office of War Information.

Mr. Ditter yesterday issued a statement as chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee.

In his charge of stupidity, Mr. Ditter cited the OWI broadcast quoting a columnist's reference to the King of Italy as a "moronic li tle King." He said, "It is conceivable that this particular broadcast quoting a columnist's reference to the King of Italy as a "moronic li tle King." He said, "It is conceivable that this particular broadcast delayed the capitulation of the Italian government and thereby added to American casualties."

In his other count, the legislator said the OWI was telling radio stations, in effect, "to broadcast that the Atlantic Charter frees the world for the Taylor of the Atlantic Charter frees the world for the Atlantic Char tions, in effect, "to broadcast that the Atlantic Charter frees the world from fear and want. " " that the Atlantic Charter has been adopted by all of the United Nations, a plain misstatement of fact."

"The Office of War Information was placed on probation by Congress in June," his statement said. "It has violated that probation."

for the proposed reduction in Western rations.

PAW took the stand, it was said, that they simply make the allocations and that it is the responsibility of OPA to make ration adjustments necessary to "live" within the allotments.

OPA maintained that since their actions were governed entirely by the amount of gas given them it was up to PAW to take responsibility for the Midwest reductions.

OPA also believes that the Petroleum Administration by its announcement of the "equalization" plan has led Eastern motorists to expect more gasoline than they will get.

By Washington Gas Sales in July

By EDWARD C. STONE.

Sales of the Washington Gas Light Co. in July and the first seven months of this year established new peaks for both periods, company officials reported today. July sales totaled 890.970 thousand cubic feet against 866,680 mcf. in July a year ago, an increase of 24.290 or 2.80 per cent. In the seven months sales totaled 11,482,510 mcf., in comparison with 10,548,755 in the like 1942 period, an increase of 933,755. 8.85 per cent, the report showed.

Officials said the two new sales records were due to war expansion in the Capital. The excessive heat in July accounted for the small gain over the same month a year ago. Sales by months in thousand cubic feet compare as follows with the corresponding months a year ago:

Plan for Interim Camps For Jewish Refugees Proposed to Hull

Three members of the executive board of the Emergency Committee to Save the Jewish People of Europe yesterday proposed to Secretary of State Hull the immediate formation of a United States agency with funds to set up interim camps in neutral countries, where refugee Jews may be cared for until they can return to their homelands.

Details of the meeting with Mr. Hull were disclosed at a press conference in the Carlton Hotel by the three men-Peter H. Bergson, head of the Palestine delegation to the United States: Jo Davidson, internationally known sculptor, and Dean Alfange of the American Labor

Army Denies Raw Fats Burned at Camp Ritchie

The War Department last night issued a denial of charges that hundreds of pounds of raw fats from the kitchens at Camp Ritchie. Md., are burned nightly instead of being saved for use in the manufacture of explosives.

The denial was prompted by publication of a statement purportedly made by a soldier cook at Camp Ritchie that from 300 to 500 pounds of fat trimmed from meat in the butcher shop are burned daily in the incinerator. An investigation was ordered by Army officials which revealed for one thing, it was said, that the camp incinerator has not been in use since April. In compliance with Army orders that all waste materiels be salvaged whenever possible, the department said, all cooked spent frying fats. bones and raw fats as well as trap grease accumulated in interceptors at Camp Ritchie are saved for ex-

Enough waste fats are collected in Army camps throughout the United States, it was declared, to make 1,500,000 pounds of dynamite a month, as well as leaving a residue of rendered grease from which 5,000,000 pounds of soap stock may be made.

DOSING' FOR GOOD?

Try This Natural "Regulator" Food!

Don't lose hope, even if you've tried one harsh pill or cathartic after another, with no lasting relief! For many people there is a safe, pleasant way! One that doesn't prod your bowels—rob your system of water—or "sweep you out"! It's KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN!

The secret, scientists say, is that KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN "gets at" one big cause of common constipation-by supplying the cellulosic elements needed for normal evacuation-should they be lacking in the diet. These elements assist the intestinal flora in lightening and fluffing up the contents of the colon, for easy, satisfactory elimination!

Eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN egularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you, too, don't give up "dosing" — for good! Remember, too—ALL BRAN is amazingly nutritious! Each ounce contains more iron than two eggs, more phos-phorus than a glass of milk! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Laundries Here Ask Permit to Raise Pay, Prices

Petition WLB and OPA For Help in Solving

Manpower Problem By MIRIAM OTTENBERG.

Petitions asking for permission to grant wage increases amounting to $10,000 and to raise laundry prices from 5 to 20 per cent have been filed by the Laundry-Dry Cleaning Owners' Association of the District for "a majority" of the city's laundries, it was learned today.

In submitting the petitions, association officials told the War Labor Board and the Office of Price Administration that the laundries were not financially able to absorb the increased costs resulting from increased wage rates.

Although WLB grants the wage increases, laundry officials indicated. wages will not be raised until price adjustments have been approved. More Critical Daily

Despite the midsummer slump which has found the laundries able to go back on a seven-day schedule, association officials said the laundry situation is becoming more critical here all the time, that a large amount of machinery is idle for lack of adequate help and that the laundries have been informed by the area War Manpower Commission that it will not recruit work ers until the laundries pay a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour.

The association said the laundries were willing to comply with WMC's so unless they received permission for commensurate price increases. It was estimated that individual For Airmail Service increases would average $2 a week. with the lowest-paid workers on a 48-hour week at time and a half for overtime receiving increases amounting to $2.50 a week. Scale Worked Out.

Low wages in laundries have con sistently been given by the local WMC as the reason why it was difficult to recruit workers. When the laundries called for help in June, several hundred workers were located by the local United States Employment Service, but early in July, Acting Area Director Fred Z. Hetzal notified the laundries that they could expect no further help in recruiting unskilled workers until wages were adjusted.

Laundry officials indicated that they will expect help from the USES now that they have filed the petitions. Housewives, Dealers and Officials Take Exception To Federal Report

That Labor Department report of decline in food prices in cities sounded as pleasant as a shower in a drought, but an unofficial survey showed today it didn't soak in with lot of the customers.

Many persons in different parts of the country said they had not discerned any 2 per cent decrease, as the department reported for the mid-June-mid-July period. It may have been because their areas were not affected by the reported decline. because they haven't been buying the items said to have lessened in

One Washington explanationfrom Joseph B. Danzansky, representative of the National Indepen dent Poultry Council and the National Association of Non-Slaughtering Meat Processors and Wholesalers-was that the Labor Departsalers—was that the Labor Department's figures failed to reflect the black market prices that consumer. A restaurant association survey showed that in the year ended last April prices of the 130 most commonly used foods increased 42.7 per

An official of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association also said the Labor Department's figures might have been correct, but explained that so far as fruits and vegetables are concerned, a price decrease nearly always occurs beween mid-June and mid-July, when many crops are placed on the market. Prices of most fresh fruits and vegetables are now even lower, he said, but are likely to fluctuate rapidly, depending on the weather. A Memphis housewife suggested that the Labor Department was mistaken. She said: "I think they'd better check their statistics again; prices keep getting higher Vegetables Advanced.

Comments on Secretary of Labor Perkins' announcement of a decline in food prices included the following from key cities:

Laundries Here Ask Permit to Raise Pay, Prices

Petition WLB and OPA For Help in Solving Manpower Problem

By MIRIAM OTTENBERG.

Petitions asking for permission to grant wage increases amounting to $10,000 and to raise laundry prices from 5 to 20 per cent have been filed by the Laundry-Dry Cleaning Owners' Association of the District for "a majority" of the city's laundries, it was learned today.

In submitting the petitions, as-sociation officials told the War Labor Board and the Office of Price Administration that the laundries were not financially able to absorb the increased costs resulting from increased wage rates.

More Critical Daily.

Despite the midsummer slump which has found the laundries able to go back on a seven-day sched-ule, association officials said the laundry situation is becoming more critical here all the time, that a large amount of machinery is idle for lack of adequate help and that the laundries have been informed by the area War Manpower Commission that it will not recruit workers until the laundries pay a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour. The association said the laundries were willing to comply with WMC's "indirect order" but could not do so unless they received permission for commensurate price increases. It was estimated that individual increases would average $2 a week. with the lowest-paid workers on a 48-hour week at time and a half for overtime receiving increases amounting to $2.50 a week.

Scale Worked Out. The pay increases being sought provide a minimum of 40 cents an hour. Workers now being paid between 40 and 60 cents an hour would get a 5-cents-an-hour increase Those between 61 and 70 cents an hour would get a 4-cent raise and those between 71 cents and $1 an hour would get a 3-cent-an-hour Price increases would vary from

Low wages in laundries have consistently been given by the local WMC as the reason why it was difficult to recruit workers. When the laundries called for help in June, several hundred workers were located by the local United States Employment Service, but early in July, Acting Area Director Fred Z. Hetzal notified the laundries that wages were adjusted. Laundry officials indicated that they will expect help from the USES now that they have filed the petitions. LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13 .-Here's a new saga of Billy the Kid. He is, for the purpose of exact identification, Billy Sarni. Only 15 years old. Not yet out of high school.

Yet he's the first-string catcher of the Los Angeles baseball club, a team that is running away from the pack in the Pacific Coast League. A series of accidents projected the youthful Billy into the spotlight. First, Eddie Fernandes was injured, and a few days later Billy Holm went out with a split finger. The Angels didn't have a catcher.

In deperation President Clarence (Pants) Rowland went to Sarni's parents. They had intervened against flattering offers from various major league clubs -the Pittsburgh Pirates, Boston Red Sox, Cleveland Indians and Schoolboy, 15, Is Top Catcher for Los Angeles oned, should stay at home and in school. But the veteran Pants Rowland was persuasive, and, aided and abetted by a $10,000 bonus, one of the highest ever made by a Class AA baseball club, won over the parents.

Sarni joined the Angels the next day and in his first turn at bat smashed out a home run. If the club was inclined to be jittery about a mere youngster handling the catching duties it changed over quickly. Billy has played 12 games and is batting a neat .321. He has thrown out 11 runners trying to steal. Three times men trying to score have charged into him, bounced back and been tagged out. He's still calling signals, and head at them, either.

There are some of these tiny editions that have been named currant tomatoes. They resemble our regular currants. They have a slightly sweeter flavor than our garden variety. Pulled from their stem, washed and chilled, they resemble handsome jewels resting among the vegetables of your salad. Of course, the cherry tomato is round and red. It is delicious spiced or pickled to be used with cold meat during the winter. The plum and pear tomato are somewhat larger. One is pale yellow, the other rich plum color. These have very thin skins and are never peeled. The others in the growing list are called red pear, gooseberry and husk. The last is quite swee and has a slight citrus flavor.

There is no secret in growing these plants. Indeed, they respond quickly to average attention, and if closely watched and kept from drying out, they more than repay you for the time spent.

Cinema's, This Is the Army' Keeps Its Zest and Flavor

By JAY CARMODY.

From its opening as a stage revue in New York on July 4, 1942, to its Washington premiere as a movie last night at the Earle, "This Is the Army" has been rhapsodically praised. It has been accepted as a harbinger of victory, almost a preview of it. The most dignified and judicial of critics have sung its praises in the streets, juggled their superlatives with sheer abandon and grown lyrical in the melodic traditions of Irving Berlin and George M.:
