GOVERNMENT IS REPORTED FLEEING BERLIN U. S. Warships Blast Mainland of Italy; Nazi Communications Cut

Violent Blasts Are Set Off at Coastal Cities

Allied Planes Bomb Axis Troops and Supply Lines

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 19.—American warships shelled the Italian mainland yesterday for the first time, developing violent explosions at Gioia Tauro and Palmi, and Allied air fleets deprived beaten Axis troops of respite by pounding communications throughout Southern Italy, it was announced today.

"United States Naval forces which had been supporting the advance of the United States 7th Army in Sicily have taken up shelling military objectives on the Italian mainland now that the island has fallen," a communique said.

Specific targets of the first thrust were bridges and power installations at Gioia Tauro and Palmi, on the Gulf of Gioia.

Palmi, a town of 11,000, is 20 miles north of Reggio Calabria on the main coastal road used by Axis forces retreating after their defeat in Sicily. Gioia Tauro is 6 miles farther up the coast.

Roads and Railways Bombed. Light bombers and fighter bombers carried out attacks on roads and railways which also might be employed by the remnants of German and Italian forces, hitting the tracks and destroying enemy vehicles.

"Medium bombers attacked bridges at Angitola and roads and rail communications at Pontolodi di Stalletti," it was announced.

Ground activity was "limited to occasional exchanges of artillery fire across the strait of Messina," headquarters announced.

Fighter-bombers led a small Axis naval vessel in a sinking condition off Southern Sicily and medium bombers sank an enemy merchant craft in the Gulf of Eufemia, just north of the Gulf of Gioia.

The Bizerte area was again attacked by enemy aircraft last night, and aerial communications with Axis command posts were cut.

Two enemy aircraft were destroyed on the night of August 17 in addition to those already reported.

From all operations, three Allied aircraft are missing, the bulletin said.

While "wrecking crews" of the Northwest African Air Force chased Axis forces across Southern Italy, Middle East squadrons maintained action in the Aegean Sea.

CIO Official Charges Antistrike Act 'Gag'

Frankenstein Says Radio Station Barred Speech

Richard T. Frankenstein, vice president of the United Automobile Workers (UAW), complained today that a Columbus, Ohio, radio station had used the Smith-Connally Antistrike Act to prohibit him from making a "political speech."

Announcing he had taken the matter up with the Federal Communications Commission, Mr. Frankenstein said in a statement that he was forced to exclude all reference to the Ohio congressional delegation before speaking over Radio Station WHKC August 8.

The announcement from UAW headquarters asserted Mr. Frankenstein's speech criticized Senator Taft, Republican, of Ohio and Representative Vorys, Republican, of Ohio for what was termed "anti-labor, anti-Roosevelt, anti-farming voting records in the Seventy-eighth Congress," as well as praise for Senator Burton, Republican, of Ohio for "farsighted approach to American farm policy."

Mr. Frankenstein said John Moses, WHKC program director, told him to delete all references to political figures, basing his interpretation of the Smith-Connally law on a syndicated column by David Lawrence.

"This is the first known instance of a radio station using the Smith-Connally law to prohibit a union official from making a political speech," he said.

He asked the FCC for opportunity to give the full speech over WHKC.

Storm Misses Virginia; Picks Up Speed at Sea

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 19.—The Norfolk Weather Bureau reported today that the tropical disturbance in the Atlantic had missed the Virginia coast by about 500 miles and today was moving northward at a speed of about 20 miles an hour.

The storm, which was reported southeast of Cape Hatteras yesterday afternoon, picked up speed during the night and early today had passed east of Cape Henry. Small craft warnings in this area were ordered down.

U. S. Breaks Up Jap Landing on Vella Lavella

Only 300 of 1,500 To 2,200 Reach Shore of Island

UNITED STATES HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Aug. 19.—Hundreds of Japanese troops were killed or captured during an enemy attempt to land on newly conquered Vella Lavella Island early yesterday.

The enemy forces were packed on possibly 20 to 30 large barges holding approximately 75 men each, indicating a force of 1,500 to 2,200 men, and not more than 300 of them were believed to have reached shore.

A headquarters spokesman at the South Pacific command of Admiral William F. Halsey in making the announcement said that our planes spotted a Japanese force early in the day and a "light" United States task force surprised and intercepted them.

Escorting Destroyers Flew. Four Japanese destroyers which were escorting the barges "took off for home," the spokesman said. United States warships engaged them for half an hour, seriously damaging two. One probably sank.

A third enemy destroyer was hit. (The Allied communique today mentioned a half-hour night engagement off Vella Gulf in which Allied surface units ambushed an enemy force of four destroyers escorting "a number of barges.")

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said that in addition to seriously damaging two destroyers and hitting a third, most of the barges were destroyed. Some of the remaining barges probably succeeded in landing on the northeast coast.

Japs on Vella Lavella. The American force broke off its action against the Japanese destroyers to go after the enemy landing barges, crowded with troops.

The engagement took place in bright moonlight with the Americans firing both torpedoes and shells.

The spokesman said there has been no ground action on Vella.

WMC Sees No Hope To Fill October Call With Non-Fathers

Figures Only Slightly Lower Than Draft List For September

By MIRIAM OTTENBERG. The October call for men for the armed forces—the unknown quantity in estimating how many fathers will be drafted in October—is only slightly lower than the September call and not low enough to fill with nonfathers.

A War Manpower Commission spokesman said late today. The formal call from the armed forces for October was received by WMC this afternoon. The September call, which it almost duplicated, was for 312,000 men for a services.

Officials indicated that there had been some hope that the October call would be lower—particularly in the light of recent statements from ranking Army and Navy spokesmen that the demand for men to the end of this year had been reduced.

WMC and Navy Estimates Vary. WMC officials made it clear, however, that these statements had not been reflected in the call.

A WMC spokesman told reporters that the figures given out by Secretary of the Navy Knox earlier this week did not conform to estimates WMC had received from the Navy. Secretary Knox had been quoted as saying that 194,500 additional officers and men would enter the Navy this year.

WMC Chief McNutt, however, had told an earlier press conference that calls for the Navy alone were averaging 100,000 men a month.

Lawrence A. Appley, WMC executive director, told reporters today the WMC had not been advised of any changes in Navy demands.

No Figures on Fathers. Asked about the variation of more than 200,000 men, Mr. Appley declared: "We deliver the goods as we get the orders. If there is confusion in the figures, you'll have to straighten them out where the confusion exists."

Officials could give no estimate as to the exact number of fathers who would be drafted in October because of the size of the call, but Mr. Appley suggested that the additions to the non-deferable lists, announced last week end, might mean that the only fathers called in October would be those who did not leave jobs now listed as non-deferable. He admitted, however, that there was no way of knowing how many fathers held these jobs and how many would switch to defense work.

Residents of Messina Greeted U. S. Forces With Wine, Music

First Men to Enter City Find Destruction Exceeds Anything They Had Seen Before

By THOMAS R. HENRY, Star Staff Correspondent. MESSINA, Sicily, Aug. 17 (Delayed)—I was the second American reporter in this city, the goal and end of the Sicilian campaign. I entered with a detachment of the 3d Division. The men were sweaty and unshaved after two weeks of constant fighting.

During the final hours before the entrance into Messina, we crossed a dry riverbed and then climbed 4 miles along the side of a very steep 1,000-foot high hill in face of little opposition. It was a bright moonlight night.

American big guns shelled Messina and the mountain sides all night to make way for the infantry dragging heavy machine guns.

At last we entered the town—in the pale light both of sunrise and a white moon. No troops or gunfire opposed us.

The people carried big jugs of wine on their shoulders. They held bouquets of oleanders in their hands. Men leaped from the sidewalks to kiss begrimed soldiers of the United States. They cried a near riot.

"It was never so mad in my life," Sgt. Begovitch said. The first men with him, dodging the embraces of the happy men of Messina, were Kenneth L. Carr, Scranton, Pa.

High Transport Cost To Pentagon Impedes War, Lewis Testifies

Labor Turnover Large Because of Fares, He Tells ICC Inquiry

Maj. Gen. John T. Lewis, commanding general of the Washington military district, declared today that "extremely high and discriminatory" transportation rates to the Pentagon Building in Virginia were impeding the war effort through a large turnover in civilian personnel dissatisfied with transportation facilities.

The testimony of Gen. Lewis came as the Interstate Commerce Commission opened a public hearing on trans-Potomac bus fares involving four Washington and Virginia transportation companies.

A survey made by the War Department, Gen. Lewis said, shows that the major cause of the turnover among civilian employes in the Pentagon Building was "high transportation rate."

Miss Florence Bolkan, representing the United Federal Workers of America (CIO), told the hearing this afternoon that "excessive fares tend to lower morale among workers who are making an important contribution to the war effort."

"In fairness to these workers and as an aid in maintaining and heightening morale," she added, "we believe a significant contribution to the all-out war effort would be made by eliminating the extra fare to and from these buildings."

The statement was read on behalf of the War and Navy Department branches of local No. 1 she said.

Col. Albert M. Barron, chief counsel for the War Department at today's hearing, estimated in an opening statement to Commissioner William J. Patterson that the turnover of employes at the Pentagon Building is approximately 36.8 per cent higher "than among similar employes at accessible locations within ALGIERS (AP)—Two directors-general of the State Bank of Morocco were arrested and imprisoned at Rabat today on order of the French Committee of National Liberation for allegedly exporting 1,543 pounds of gold illegally to the enemy from North Africa last February. The arrested officials were identified as Bapst and Desoubry. A French official said the gold shipment was destined for Germany by way of Vichy and was sent to Portugal from Rabat for transshipment.

ALGIERS (AP)—The United Nations radio at Algiers today broadcast a Bern dispatch quoting Adolf Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter as saying that "the whole German government has left Berlin."

The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press. There was no immediate explanation or confirmation of the report.

The statement that the "whole German government" had moved came as a surprise in London, although there had been numerous unconfirmed reports the last three or four weeks that some governmental departments were being transferred.

Vans Believed Going to Vienna. These reports—none of which had any official confirmation—told of great vans being loaded at the doors of Berlin ministries and rolling away—possibly to Vienna, Lins or Breslau.

Neutral reports have told of the moving of some governmental offices to Vienna shortly after the Germans announced that they were withdrawing nonessential civilians from Berlin.

One Britisher said that "if the report is true it undoubtedly is inspired by the fear of a 'Hamburg' bombing which in a single night might destroy tons of records and create chaos in the governmental machinery."

There also was the possibility that removal of the government might be a forerunner of an attempt, such as that of Rome, to obtain an "open city" status for the Reich capital.

Hitler's Paper Called Source Of Dispatch

Algiers Radio Quotes Story Emanating From Berlin

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Aug. 19.—The United Nations radio at Algiers today broadcast a Bern dispatch quoting Adolf Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter as saying that "the whole German government has left Berlin."

The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press. There was no immediate explanation or confirmation of the report.

There also was the possibility that removal of the government might be a forerunner of an attempt, such as that of Rome, to obtain an "open city" status for the Reich capital.

Million People Involved. This was regarded as doubtful, however, due to the great concentration of electrical and other factories in the Berlin area and its importance as a transportation center linking the eastern front with Western and Southern Europe.

There were no accurate estimates in London of the number of persons who would be involved if the whole government moved, but a conservative guess would be that at least a million of Berlin's 4,400,000 population are connected in some way with civil or military government.

The city already is in the middle of the evacuation of more than a million women and children, whose removal was ordered after Hamburg was almost wiped out by a combination of heavy R.A.F. and United States Army Air Force raids.

In Allied Bombing Range. American Liberators operating from North African bases struck within 27 miles of Vienna when they attacked Wiener Neustadt last week, and the Austrian capital is only about 700 miles from Sicilian bases now held by the Allies.

Breslau and Vienna are also only about 700 miles from Britain. If the Allies took Northern Italian fields their bombers would be only about 400 miles from Vienna and Lins and about 500 miles from Breslau.

800 Workers Strike At West Point Field

Col. Jones Says Delay May Block Training

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 19.—A strike of 800 workers at West Point, N. Y., today threatened to interrupt flight training of the United States Military Academy Aviators, officials said today.

Col. A. B. Jones of the Corps of Engineers issued a statement in New York stating that the strike was called by the Building Trades Council of Newburgh, N. Y., and that "it was intimated that they desired the district engineer to force" a contractor at Montgomery Airport, nearby, "to enter into a union agreement." The union could not be reached for comment.

The strike, involving principally operating engineers, teamsters and chauffeurs, which began Tuesday, was holding up completion of paving projects and other war contracts in the vicinity. The union officials said.

Col. Jones called the strike a "clear violation of the agreement of July 22, 1941," between Government defense construction agencies and the construction trades department of the American Federation of Labor, which he said provided that "there shall be no stoppage of work on account of jurisdictional disputes or for any other cause."

Maj. Gen. Francis B. Wilby, Academy superintendent, said if the work was stopped any length of time, the delay would be seriously affected because of interruption of the cadet flight training program.

Gen. Davidson Will Succeed Bissell in India Air Command

By the Associated Press. BOMBAY, Aug. 19.—Maj. Gen. Clayton L. Bissell of Kane, Pa., gave up command of the United States 10th Air Force in India today. He will be succeeded by Brig. Gen. Howard C. Davidson of Washington, D. C.

A formal announcement of the transfer said that Gen. Bissell had been "selected for a new assignment of great importance" and would return to the United States within a few days.

Gen. Bissell yesterday completed his first year in command of the 10th Air Force, during which it poured increasingly heavy bomb loads on Burma, operating even through the monsoon season despite the doubts of old timers in this theater.

Gen. Davidson lived at 3238 R street, N.W. He was born at Wharton, Tex., in 1890 and was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry in 1913, following graduation from West Point. Later he went to aviation school at San Diego, Calif., and in 1916 went with the punitive expedition to Mexico. From 1922 to 1926 he was assistant military attaché at the American Embassy in London. In 1940 he was assigned to the Hawaiian Islands as commanding officer at Hickam Field. He became a brigadier general April 7, 1941.

the conclusion of this meeting, at which time the President and Prime Minister will hold a press conference to give out such of the decisions as can be made public. There is speculation, too, in connection with Mr. Roosevelt's scheduled visit to the Canadian capital at Ottawa next week, that the Canadian Parliament might hold a special meeting to hear him speak. That would offer the Chief Executive an extraordinary opportunity to review, in so far as publicly possible, the accomplishments of the latest staff discussions.

Such timing, it is noted, would not only limit the reserves of men and munitions which the Germans could throw into counterattacks, but would also weaken the resistance to the Russian advances and prove a powerful factor in keeping the Red armies rolling. This latter purpose apparently is the motivation behind the latest hue and cry in Moscow for a "second front." The line taken by the army newspaper Red Star is that the struggle for Sicily had failed to divert a single German division from the Soviet front.

2 British Medium Guns Outshoot Nazi Weapons

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The British radio last night announced details of two new medium guns used by British artillery units against the Nazis in North Africa and Sicily. "They are the 4.5 and the 5.5 inch, and each of them has surpassed the comparable German weapon," BBC said in the broadcast, recorded here by CBS. "The 5.5-pound shell of the 4.5 gun is highly effective at ranges up to about 11 miles," the announcement continued. "The 5.5 can throw a 100-pound projectile with devastating effect at a maximum range of more than 8 miles, exceeding its German counterpart by almost a mile."

Appeals Court to Rule On Price Overcharge

The United States Court of Appeals has agreed to review a case involving the question of the amount a purchaser who has been overcharged by a retail store should be awarded in a suit where the overcharge is proved. The case to be reviewed concerns the purchase of a can of soup from the American Stores, Inc., by Miss Josephine McCorry, 1727 Massachusetts avenue N.W., for 14 cents when the selling price was 10 cents. The Office of Price Administration, an intervenor, is appealing from a decision of the Municipal Court of Appeals which upheld a decision of the Small Claims Court of Municipal Court, which awarded Miss McCorry $5. The Opa contends that under the law a purchaser should be awarded $5 or treble the amount of the overcharge whichever is greater.

Nancy de Marigny Returning to Nassau To Aid Husband
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Nancy Oakes de Marigny, 19-year-old wife of Count Alfred de Marigny, said today that "I am going back to Nassau and stay as long as my presence there is of vital aid and comfort to my husband."
She said "this talk about Freddy's murder at Nassau, Bahamas, in the slaying of his father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes, American-born gold-mining millionaire and baronet who was bludgeoned to death in his mansion at Westbourne, Bahamas, July 8."
Mrs. de Marigny, who has made several trips between Nassau, New York and Canada since her husband's arrest, said today:
"What we have learned here will eventually be revealed in court. I am more than convinced—in fact, you can say I am positive—that Freddy is not the guilty party."
She said she had been visiting her mother, Lady Eunice Oakes, in Niagara Falls, Ontario.
"In the eyes of many people," Mrs. de Marigny said, "I suppose I'm just the hysterical wife trying to save my own pride in defending my husband. But it is much more than that. I have always believed that Freddy could not have done this terrible thing—now I know that he did not. . . . I am the only person who can help Freddy."
Meanwhile, she said, her father's will would remain unprobated "until mother feels like handling any business matters." She said she knew nothing about the will "except that I was not disinherited as has been claimed."
She talked about Freddy's and father's disagreements have been exaggerated.

Gaspard L. Thiebault To Be Buried Tomorrow
Gaspard L. Thiebault, 53, who died Tuesday at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore after a long illness, will be buried after funeral services at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow from his home, 3655 Sutherland road S.E. Requiem mass will be celebrated at 9 a. m. at St. Francis Xavier's Church, with the Rev. Anthony Chouinard, Mr. Thiebault's cousin, officiating. Burial will follow in Cedar Hill Cemetery.
Mr. Thiebault, who was a pressman at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, was born in Minneapolis, Minn., and lived in Wisconsin before coming to the District eight years ago. He was a member of the Holy Name Society of St. Francis Xavier's Church and of the Washington Printing and Pressman's Union No. 1.
Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Della Trombley Thiebault; a son, Lowell Thiebault, an aviation student in the Army Air Forces; two daughters, Marilyn of the Marine Corps Women's Reserve and Joyce Rita Thiebault. He is survived also by two sisters and two brothers.

Dean With Social Vision Urged For Cathedral by Canon Lucas
St. Albans Headmaster Sees Opportunity for Great Leadership
By JAMES WALDO FAWCETT.
"A dean with social vision is wanted at Washington Cathedral," Canon Albert H. Lucas, headmaster of Saint Albans, the National Cathedral School for Boys, since 1929, said today, bringing into discussion a hitherto neglected aspect of the problem of current changes in the Protestant Episcopal Church throughout the United States.
"What we need," Dr. Lucas declared, "is a dean who will be as big as any bishop, a man with a big work to do and vision for the doing of it. Washington Cathedral should be what Liverpool Cathedral is—community church. If you start with that thought, you must realize that we require a dean who can interpret the social gospel from the pulpit and bring a little community love to the Cathedral."
"Vast Movements Under Way."
"We already have a few persons here who are almost literally dying for the Cathedral; they at least are living for it with their whole souls. We want more of them. We ought to have a dean who visualizes his work as a lifelong assignment—a job to spend his life in."
"Great things are happening in this world. Do you know that within 15 years we may have a Labor President in the White House? The church cannot stand aside from the vast movements that are sweeping the earth. The new Bishop of Washington should be a top-notch man and so should the new dean. I love this Cathedral and I know that nothing can stop it, but I want it to go ahead and to be something precious and vital in the life of the whole country."
"Washington Cathedral should

Youth Flees Prison Camp On Day Pardon Is Signed
By the Associated Press.
RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 19.—A youth, whose name was withheld, escaped from a State prison camp on the very day that Gov. Darden had been convinced by his mother that her son ought to be pardoned.
The Governor disclosed yesterday that the mother asked for the pardon in order that her son might return to school in September. On her assurance that she would see that he went to school the Governor agreed to grant a conditional pardon for the youth, charged with robbery.
Gov. Darden had the pardon made out and signed it. Only to be advised by penitentiary authorities that the youthful prisoner had escaped.
Now there will be no pardon.

Hull Aide Forecasts Trusteeship Over Colonies in Africa

By the Associated Press. CHAUTAQUA, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Some form of international trusteeship over former enemy territories in Africa was envisaged today by Henry S. Villard, a State Department official, who also asserted that "instant liberation" of colonial dependencies would bring chaos.

"Whatever the dispositions of the peace to come, it is unlikely in the extreme that the former enemy territories in Africa will come into the outright possession of any one power," Mr. Villard said in an address at the Chautauqua Institute here.

His statement followed assertions of British officials in the House of Commons that not all of Libya would be restored to Italy after the war.

"It is improbable that the United States would alone accept jurisdiction or control over former enemy territory," Mr. Villard said. He advocated an "open door" trade policy to make raw materials accessible to all, thereby destroying "one of the fundamental excuses for conquest by force."

Assistant chief of the State Department's Division of Near Eastern Affairs, Mr. Villard expressed what he termed "the standpoint of the American Government."

"Notwithstanding the astonishing and probably Axis-inspired rumors which crop up from time to time, this Government—in keeping with its traditional policy throughout the world—has no designs on the colonial possessions of other nations and no desire to carve out for its exclusive benefit any portion of Africa," he said.

Invasion

face the danger of being cut off by landings to the north, but is quite likely to employ forces large enough to establish widespread positions to the north.

It still was not clear just where this northern line was likely to be, but one from just north of Spezia on the west coast through Bologna to Rimini is the basis of much speculation.

The invasion message, read from the United Nations radio at Algiers and from BBC in London, urged patriots "to perfect all preparations in the shortest possible time."

New Phase of War. The broadcast, directed primarily to the people of metropolitan France, declared a new phase of the European war, "the liberation of occupied countries," has begun now that the occupation of Sicily is complete.

"We obviously are not going to reveal where the blow will fall," the message said, "but we are confident that the blow will fall in the west."

"People of the occupied country which is to be the first to welcome the armies of liberation will be notified at the last minute."

Until that time arrives, all patriots were asked to aim all their actions toward performing their duties for giving assistance to the Allied invaders while at the same time exercising "the greatest care" that they do not fall into the hands of the enemy.

All those elements which are to contribute in any way whatsoever to the success of eventual operations on French metropolitan territory must be fully equipped to carry out their task," the broadcast said.

"In the past you have heard similar messages from Allied headquarters," the announcer said in conclusion. "You have just heard one of greatest importance."

Possible Invasion Points. The invasion blow could fall from the hands of the victorious Sicilian armies now poised in Messina across from Italy or from the big concentration of troops waiting and training in England. The blow against the continent could come from the south or the west—or both.

Opinion is growing in Britain that there may possibly be more than one divisionary blow accompanying major landings.

German commentators were quoted to the same effect in Stockholm dispatches to London morning newspapers. These commentators were said to predict "a double second front" might be launched by the Allies at any moment.

A dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Thomas F. Hawkins in Bern said indications there were that Germany is planning to fight a delaying action from Southern Italy northward, will do her best to keep Italy in the war, and will make a determined stand at the Brenner Pass in the north.

Eisenhower Message Reported. The Madrid radio, in a broadcast last night heard by the Associated Press, quoted "informed circles" as saying Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had messaged "President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill that Allied armies were ready for immediate invasion. The same circles were said to believe the time was only a few hours off.

This broadcast may have been a version of Gen. Eisenhower's statement of yesterday in which he said both the American 7th and British 8th Armies "are ready to go at any minute."

(CBS recorded a London broadcast which said the United Nations radio had instructed the people of Reggio Calabria in Southern Italy how to disrupt telephone communications vital to German troops who escaped from Italy.)

Wallace Says Speech Attacked Monopoly, Not Profit System

By J. A. O'LEARY. Vice President Wallace came out today in defense of the profit system, declaring that one of his recent speeches on corporation practices has been misinterpreted and misunderstood in some quarters. He told newsmen he has not attacked corporations in general, or the profit system, adding, "because I feel 95 or 98 per cent of them are harmless or beneficent, and suffer as much from the small minority as any other group of the population."

Recalling some of his writings on the subject in 1938, the Vice President explained that his criticism has been directed against monopoly—the controlling of output and outlets.

To Expand Views Later. Mr. Wallace emphasized that he was not attempting now to give a complete outline of his views, because, he said, "I am hoping at some future time to talk on it before some business group, preferably the Chamber of Commerce."

"The corporate form of organization is essential in a democratic country like the United States for efficient carrying on, not only of large scale business, but also many types of small scale business," the Vice President said. "Much of the progress of the United States during the past 70 years has been due to corporations."

The difficulty with corporations comes when certain of the larger ones try to control the agencies of public opinion, including even the schools, and then go on to dominate elections, control state legislatures, the national Congress and even the President himself.

"During the greater part of the time since 1870, Washington has been a way station of Wall Street. In the postwar period, I hope and believe that we shall continue to have corporations, including the large ones, some of which have been guilty of trying to control public opinion, elections and government. But it's vital for the people who buy from the corporation who sell to them, who work for them—I say it's important for the farmers and workers and all the rest of the common folks to see through the propaganda of certain of the big corporations."

Mr. Wallace said when these corporations advocate "old fashioned Americanism, they really mean corporation-controlled government—not the free Americanism of the United States in the precorporation days." He said that by free enterprise "they really mean free enterprise for big business, but not for little business."

The Vice President reiterated a suggestion he made several months ago that in the postwar period the tax system should be so modified as to place an incentive on young and growing corporations, which could play an important part in furnishing employment.

Nimitz Rescuer Admits Burglary; Asks Probation

By the Associated Press. OAKLAND, Calif., Aug. 19.—A young sailor identified in Superior Court as the man who rescued Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, after a seaplane sank in San Francisco Bay last year, asked for probation yesterday on a burglary charge. He was Raymond E. Gastil, 23, of Alameda, Calif. Gastil pleaded guilty to the burglary charge.

Donald Thompson, deputy probation officer, cited the rescue of Admiral Nimitz and commented that Gastil "has been and should continue to be an asset to the Navy."

Judge Lincoln S. Church referred the matter to the youth correction authority. Gastil said he committed the robbery because an allotment to his divorced wife left him only $5 a month.

The report of Probation Officer Thompson said Gastil dived into the bay to bring out the admiral and other Navy companions who were trapped in the wrecked seaplane.

OPA Postpones Hearing In Steuart Fuel Oil Case

A hearing on charges of rationing irregularities by L. P. Steuart & Bro., Inc., in connection with fuel oil transactions last winter, was postponed indefinitely because of the illness of the OPA commissioner scheduled to hear the case today.

The OPA has accused the Steuart firm of purchasing more than 5,000 gallons of oil from the Petro Co. without turning over coupons for that amount and of violating rationing regulations in making deliveries to local consumers.

Curtis B. Steuart, secretary-treasurer of the firm, said yesterday that the charges "are undoubtedly the result of efforts on the part of my company to keep the residents of Washington warm during the last heating season at the expense of, according to OPA, some technical breach of its regulations."

Mr. Steuart said his company had not "willfully, intentionally or knowingly" violated any regulation. He also said the regulations cited have since been abandoned by the Federal agency because they are impractical.

The Steuart company is represented by Attorney Renah P. Camalar.

Brazil's Coffee Exports To U. S. Set Record

By the Associated Press. RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 19.—United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery said yesterday he had been informed that Brazil's coffee exports to the United States during July "broke all monthly coffee export records since the World War."

"In one day alone," Mr. Caffery said, "more coffee was loaded than during any other day in Brazil's history. Shipments from Santos, also during the month of July, were higher than during any preceding month. All three shipments were made by private firms."

Curb Printed Matter Of Bureaus and Save Paper, Harless Urges

By the Associated Press. KENOGAMI, Quebec, Aug. 19.—A law preventing the mailing by any Government bureau of printed matter except on request of the recipient was urged today by Representative Harless, Democrat, of Arizona, as a means of conserving newsprint and other paper.

"In my State alone, if Federal Government bureaus would quit sending out unnecessary printed matter," Representative Harless said, "the saving would equal the shortage of newsprint in the entire State."

Representative Harless, member of the House subcommittee which is inspecting newsprint and paper producing areas of Quebec, said that the over-all saving for the United States under such a law probably would balance the entire amount conserved by the limitation which restricts newspapers in their use of newsprint.

The Arizona pointed out that newspapers now are permitted generally about 10 per cent less paper than they were using last year. In Phoenix, Ariz., Representative Harless said, the population growth was around 25 per cent in two years, making the reduction in effect around 35 per cent under demand.

Representative Harless said the committee, which is headed by Chairman Boren, Democrat, of Oklahoma, and includes Representatives Brown of Ohio and Wolverton of New Jersey, Republicans, and Beckworth, Democrat, of Texas, felt the War Manpower Commission should act quickly to get prisoners of war to work in pulpwood cutting areas.

He pointed out that Canada, where tremendous amounts of pulpwood exist, also has available large numbers of war prisoners who could help meet the shortage of wood.

The committee tour today included newsprint mills in the Lake St. John district.

A chance meeting yesterday with A. B. Meyers, a senior executive of the Bowater Paper Mills of Newfoundland, permitting the committee

WLB Asked to Put Pulp Labor On Basis of Farm Workers

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP)—The American Paper & Pulp Association said yesterday that immediate action by the War Manpower Commission was necessary to avert a drastic shortage of paper which might gravely affect the national economy.

Basically, decreased output springs from manpower shortages in the pulpwood-cutting areas, the association said.

In a plan of action suggested to the W.M.C. by W. W. Tinker, executive secretary of the association, urged that labor employed in pulpwood-cutting be placed on the same basis as agricultural workers, and that a uniform and co-ordinated program be directed to all employment offices and draft boards.

Further steps suggested included immediate approval of previous industry recommendations for the conservation of fiber, employment of prisoners of war along with experienced wood cutters transferred from other industries, action to encourage increased production through the $1,000,000 congressional appropriation for this purpose and steps to facilitate importing pulpwood from Russia and other sources.

The association reported that receipts of pulpwood dropped off 32 per cent in the first six months of 1943 compared with the same period in 1942, while domestic wood pulp fell off 17.5 per cent in the first half of 1943.

In the plan submitted to the W.M.C. the association made recommendations for corrective measures in the Pacific Northwest, the Southern region and Lakes States region.

Gasoline Consumption In East Held Threat to End of Driving Ban

PAW Says Stocks Were Overdrawn by 22,700 Barrels Daily Last Week

Eastern motorists had further warning today that it may not be possible to lift the pleasure driving ban September 1 unless they abide by restrictions, as the Petroleum Administration for War disclosed that gasoline stocks in the East declined last week.

Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum administrator, declared that the stocks were overdrawn 22,700 barrels a day last week. He said the trend is continued, and will obviously delay the time when more liberal supplies of gasoline can be made available for civilian use.

The Office of Price Administration, which has the job of distributing gasoline supplies allotted by PAW, was silent as to the effect of the decline in stocks on motorists' supplies. There was little official information to indicate to Eastern car owners just what to expect next month, when they have been promised a lifting of the pleasure ban and a slight increase in rations if they "are good."

Before releasing the weekly Eastern petroleum supply bulletin, the PWA had appeared more optimistic about the gasoline situation. A statement was issued saying that the "Big Inch" was moving more oil than was expected on the leg from Texas to the Midwest and that oil had started to flow from the Eastern terminus of the line.

Mr. Davies said that stocks in the East available to civilians declined last week to 34.5 per cent of normal. A chart prepared by his office showed that military demand would take 30.6 per cent of total gasoline produced East of the Rockies during the remainder of this year, 37.6 per cent next year and 39.8 per cent in 1945. Last year it absorbed only 12.5 per cent.

Plane Demands Large. Military demand includes gasoline for airplanes, ships, tanks, trucks and other vehicles. Big bombers alone consume staggering amounts of fuel, most of which is shipped from the East.

Authorities say that each of the planes that participated in Tuesday's raid on Southeastern Germany and on Nazi airbases in Southern France burned a weight of gasoline equal to the weight of its engines for each two hours in the air.

If only 200 Flying Fortresses took part in the raids, their combined gasoline consumption amounted to some 300,000 gallons, or as much as 100,000 A coupons would be worth in the East.

At Wewak a once potent force of 225 planes was reduced to an impotent 10 in two spectacular raids by our bombers and fighters Tuesday and yesterday. Japanese flyers and ground crewmen killed exceeded 1,500.

A communiqué from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters today reported that destroyers on Tuesday night intercepted four Japanese destroyers escorting barges believed bound for the enemy's air base at Vila on Kolombangara. Three destroyers were hit and one probably sunk, after which the majority of the barges were destroyed. No American warship was damaged.

In the same area that night, Japanese planes found an American supply convoy withdrawing from Vella Lavella and succeeded in sinking a small cargo ship. Down the coast 350 miles, the Japanese air base town of Salamaua is largely in ruins from more than 1,000 tons of bombs dropped in the last month by Americans and Australians.

Five miles below Salamaua, in the jungles and on the mountain ridges, Japanese troops are fighting to keep Allied jungle forces from capturing the airbase.

Americans in Sicily Tell Colorful Stories Of Heroic and Humorous Acts They Witnessed

By T. R. HENRY, Star Staff Correspondent.

WITH ADVANCED TACTICAL AIR FORCE LIAISON, 7th Army, Sicily Front, Aug. 6 (Delayed)—The 45th Division's battle in a grove of olives, otherwise known as "Bloody Ridge," seems likely to prove one of the most colorful of the war.

Reports of individual exploits of men under fire for the first time are now coming in.

The battle took place from Thursday to Saturday of last week, the Germans being met in hand-to-hand fighting in a struggle over nearly unclaimable rocks.

Outstanding among the exploits reported today is that of an Oklahoma sergeant's platoon. The men had paused to rest during a lull in the fighting and awakened in confusion when they were brought suddenly under machine gun and mortar fire.

Although the foe virtually surrounded the unit, the sergeant, who is a quick thinker, got his men organized. After a half hour's fight, the foe was stopped cold, but early in the struggle the sergeant was put out of action by three shrapnel wounds. Then a fellow Oklahoman, Sgt. Kibby, took over and led a bayonet and pistol charge which completely routed the enemy.

Sergeants Win Prize. The work of the two sergeants has been singled out for special praise for it is considered that but for their action the detachment almost certainly would have been wiped out.

Wary troops returning from the front also tell of the bravery of a Wisconsin soldier, Harold McKillip, a member of a light machine-gun company, which was ordered to advance up a rolling stone slope in a dawn attack. Soon the company came under fire and three pieces of shrapnel pierced the Wisconsin man's helmet and lodged in his head. Despite his wounds, he kept on for four miles, although he was carrying a heavy tripod on his shoulder. He made no mention of his injury until a medical sergeant noticed blood leaking out of his helmet.

Despite war's grimness, some humorous episodes also are taking place. One of these involves Capt. Abe Henson of Oklahoma City, who encountered a platoon car with

Joseph Kennedy's Son Saved As Japs Run Down PT Boat

Young Skipper and 10 of Crew Stranded On Enemy Isle

By LEIF ERICKSON, Associated Press War Correspondent.

UNITED STATES TORPEDO BOAT BASE, New Georgia, Aug. 8 (Delayed)—Out of the darkness a Japanese destroyer appeared suddenly. It sliced diagonally in two the PT boat skippered by Lt. (j. g.) John F. Kennedy, son of Joseph P. Kennedy, former American Ambassador to Britain.

Crews of two other PT boats, patrolling close by, saw flaming high octane gasoline spread over the water. They gave up as certainly killed that black morning of Monday, August 2, Skipper Kennedy and all his crew.

But Lt. Kennedy, 26, and 10 of his men were rescued today from a small coral island deep inside Japanese-controlled Solomons territory and within range of enemy shore guns.

I was aboard the PT boat making the rescue, a daring and skillful bit of navigation through reef-ferged waters of Ferguson Passage. Ferguson Passage is between Gizo and Wanawa Islands in the New Georgia group.

Two men of Lt. Kennedy's crew were lost when the enemy destroyer rammed the boat at a speed estimated by the skipper at 40 knots. Those who survived with Lt. Kennedy were: Ensign Leonard Thompson Sandusky, Ohio, executive officer and former Ohio State tackle; Ensign George Henry Robertson (Barney) Ross, Highland Park, Ill.; Machinist's Mate Patrick H. McMahon, 39, Los Angeles; Machinist's Mate Gerald E. Zinser, Belleville, Ill.; Gunner's Mate Charles Harris, Boston; Radioman John Maguire, Hastings-on-the-Hudson, N. Y.; Machinist's Mate William Johnston, Dorchester, Mass.; Ordnanceman Edmund Mowrer, St. Louis; Torpedoman Roy L. Starkey, Golden Grove, Calif.; and Seaman (First Class) Raymond Albert, Cleveland.

McMahon was burned badly on his face, hands and arms. Although the burns were infected by salt water and exposure, he did not once utter a word of complaint. "McMahon's a terrific guy," Lt. Kennedy said. "It was something which really got you seeing old Mac Lie there."

Never Complained of Pain. "You could see he was suffering such pain that his lips twitched and his hands trembled," Thomson added. "You'd watch him and think if you were in his place you'd probably be yelling. Why doesn't somebody do something?" But every time you asked Mac how he was doing he'd wrinkle his face and give you a grin.

Allocation of Steel For Civilian Articles Is Boosted by WPB

Pins, Home Equipment To Be Available in Slightly Larger Quantities

By JAMES Y. NEWTON.

As part of the campaign to keep the home front economy in a healthy condition, the War Production Board has allocated 125,000 tons of steel for production in the last three months for kitchen and household equipment, bed springs, stoves, pins and needles and hot water heaters, it was learned today.

While only about four-fifths of 1 per cent of the Nation's expected steel output in the last quarter of the year, the allocation, nevertheless, represents an increase of 25,000 tons in the allotment for similar manufacture in the current quarter.

Meanwhile, it was learned that Arthur D. Whiteside, head of the Office of Civilian Requirements, is drafting for WPB issuance an over-riding directive to manufacturers receiving allotments of materials for civilian goods which would compel them to sell only in civilian channels the products made from the material. This would prevent the Army or lease-lend, for example, from buying finished end products after they have been made from the civilian allotments. WPB, it was said, believes a considerable quantity of goods intended for civilians has been diverted.

Officials regarded the increased steel allocation, though small, as significant of the growing attention being given the home front.

The 125,000-ton fourth-quarter allocation of steel includes 17,000 tons for warm-air furnaces, pipes, etc.; 20,000 tons for kitchen and household equipment; bed springs, 12,500; cooking stoves, 9,000; hot-water heaters, 20,000; 427 tons for pins; hook, eyes and other fasteners, 8,400; and heating stoves, 10,000 tons.

It was estimated that a ton of steel will enable manufacture of a million pins. The 427-ton allocation covers production of hairpins, bobby pins, safety pins, straight pins and needles, all items that have become increasingly scarce.

Plans are being made at WPB to permit manufacture, perhaps in the early part of 1944, of a limited number of such civilian goods as electric refrigerators, washing machines and irons. Production of the goods, considered essential, has been halted for more than a year, and they are virtually nonexistent now.

Automobile repair parts are becoming scarce, and the Office of Civilian Requirements is giving greater attention to that problem. A sizable allotment of steel was made for this purpose in the fourth quarter, a figure not included in the 125,000-ton allocation. Neither does the allocation include steel for such military-civilian manufacture as farm machinery, railroad equipment, etc.

WPB officials say there is an acute shortage currently of electric light bulbs and radio tubes because of heavy military demand for tungsten. This situation will clear up within a few months, however, when military demand for the metal drops off.

In an address earlier this week, War Mobilization Director Byrnes said that civilians must make up the deficit that they will not have nonessential goods for the remainder of the war. He added, however, that "we must do what we can to increase the supply" of essentials "without hurting the war effort."

WPB Chairman Nelson recently said that "if it becomes necessary to produce a given quantity of cook stoves or farm machinery or whatever to maintain civilian health and welfare, we are going to produce them regardless of the scarcity of the materials involved. Obviously, the reverse is equally true, and we are not going to open the manufacture of less essential articles as long as materials continue tight."

$37,000,000 Transferred. More than $37,000,000 has been sent by postal and telegraph order from the United Kingdom to Eire during the war.

Increased Air Losses Show Rise in Allied Power, Army Says

By the Associated Press.

Mounting losses of Allied heavy bombers over Europe, the Army Air Forces said today, are—paradoxically—a sign of increasing Allied air might.

They mean, said officers, that Britain and America are sending ever greater aerial armadas to blast Germany and German-occupied Europe. Numerical losses are higher, but the rate of losses is not.

The comment was apropos of reports that large numbers of planes failed to return from recent raids. For instance, the RAF reported 41 bombers and one fighter lost in Tuesday night's attack on Berlin and Peenemuende; the United States 8th Air Force reported 36 heavy bombers, one fighter-bomber and five fighters missing in its attacks on Regensburg and Schweinfurt.

Figures Analyzed. Do these figures mean that Allied losses are approaching the "allowable" rate at which bombing operations cease to be "profitable"? Do they mean that German opposition is increasing, or becoming more effective? The answer is "No!"

"Look," said one officer, "what is an 'allowable' rate of loss? Some experts have said it's 10 per cent of the planes sent on a mission, others say 5 per cent. In either case, it's just a lot of stuff.

"Statistically, there is only one way to figure allowable loss. You can afford to lose as many planes and crews as you can replace, provided you get through to your target.

"If you need 1,000 planes to accomplish your job, and your production is 1,000 planes a day, then you can lose 1,000 planes to reach the objective.

Allied Might Increases. "Are Britain and America able to replace their losses? The answer to that is obvious—they are replacing them and also increasing the size of their forces."

So much for statistics on allowable losses, but more important is the morale of the men flying and fighting the bombers. No one, said the airmen, has yet determined the point at which the loss ratio begins to affect the morale of the crews, unless it was the Germans in their blitz against Britain.

The Air Forces assume that at some point the crews would lose their confidence, possibly even their willingness to start out, but it's just an assumption. Much more important to morale, say officers, is knowing that the assignment is carried out, regardless of losses.

Know Job Is Being Done. "It's simple in a place like Sicily, where the results are obvious to every one," said one airman.

"In Western Europe the results are not so obvious, but, just the same, the men know the job is being done, and their morale is extremely high."

D. C. Liquor Dealers Prepare to Enforce New Price Ceilings

Washington's liquor dealers today were prepared to meet the new price ceiling regulations which go into effect August 30, following a meeting at the Hotel Statler last night.

Detailed instructions on how to comply with the new rules were presented by John L. Laskey, chief attorney for the District OPA, who told the dealers the markup ceilings resulted from public indignation over soaring liquor prices and other practices among the trade.

Dealers were warned the OPA was aware of an evasion in some quarters whereby customers were made to buy wine along with certain scarce brands of whiskey. He said his agency would arrest such violators.

To End Unfair Practices. The regulations, Mr. Laskey pointed out, were imposed for the benefit of most of the dealers against the unfair practices of a few. The new ceiling became necessary, he pointed out, chiefly as a protection against uncontrolled prices on the large number of unfamiliar brands which sprang up after ceilings were imposed on the established brands.

Concern over unequal distribution of stocks among the retailers was expressed at the meeting. The OPA counsel said that under present regulations there was nothing his agency could do to assure each dealer his fair share of supplies. He pointed out that such control was impossible without rationing.

Rigid Enforcement. Enforcement of the new liquor ceilings, Mr. Laskey said, will be rigid. In addition to the OPA inspectors who will check observance, the OPA attorney said his office was depending on the public to notify OPA authorities of possible violations.

He pointed out that all stores will be required to post their ceiling prices and asked that the public report failures to comply with this regulation.

"We have along the public very helpful in this respect on other ceilings," he said, "and with the help of consumers in checking obvious offenses, our inspectors have been left free to work on backroom practices. Fortunately, there aren't many of these in the District."

Last night's meeting was held under the sponsorship of the District Retail Liquor Dealers' Association.

Germans slowly fell back after suffering another 2,000 casualties, the communique said. In the northeastern suburbs of shell-wrecked Kharkov, meanwhile, Soviet shock troops kept up the searing street-to-street battle against reinforced Nazi units which has been going on for the better part of a week.

In the wheeling movement south of Kharkov, which took them across the Donets River to Zmyev, the Soviet battalions were being reinforced by great quantities of enemy war material, including mortar batteries, machine guns and trucks which the Germans left behind in their hasty retreat.

Gains in the Kharkov area were made against fresh reserves which had been thrown into action by the German command. These held momentarily, but superior enveloping tactics enabled the Red Army to continue its advance, the Russians said. They reported capture of a factory strong point from a German attacking Nazi troops during the fighting yesterday.

At the northern end of the 400-mile active front, converging Russian divisions were blasting the approaches to Bryansk from three sides, and Soviet dispatches said 1,300 German dead were counted on the battlefields. North of Bryansk, on the Spas Demensk sector, an advantageous point was stormed and here another 1,000 Nazis were slain in short but fierce fighting, the war bulletin said.

The Bryansk operations yesterday resulted in Soviet gains of from 2 to 6 miles in which 40 villages were captured, including the rail junctions of Beryezovka, 21 miles to the northeast and Malinka, 20 miles to the east, the communique declared. Earlier reports had placed advancing Red Army troops at one point within 15 miles of Bryansk, capture of which would unhinge an important sector of the Germans' defense setup.

The Berlin radio, in a broadcast recorded yesterday by the Associated Press said that the Russians were opening a fourth offensive at Izum, 72 miles southeast of Kharkov. Capt. Ludwig Serorius, Nazi military commentator, said Red Army troops had gained "initial successes" on that sector, and admitted the thrust presented a new threat to the German forces in front of Loozovaya and the Dnieper River bend. Osovaya, important rail junction 75 miles behind Kharkov, is 50 miles from Izum. Between these two cities runs the Loozovaya-Slaviansk Railway, main feeder to German forces in the Donets Basin.

WARSHIPS' TARGETS—American warships (symbol, pointers) shelled the Italian mainland yesterday for the first time, aiming at bridges and power facilities at Gioia Tauro and Palmi (A). Among targets of Allied bombers in Southern Italy was the Ponte di Staletti area (B).

their offensive over the Eastern Mediterranean. Axis shipping and harbor installations of three Greek islands, Zante, Melos and Spros were attacked by RAF Beaufighters and Wellington bombers both Tuesday and Tuesday night, a Cairo communique said.

While the American 7th Army was advancing along the northern coast of Sicily, United States warships frequently lent support by smashing enemy concentrations and installations ahead of the troops, but they never before had attacked the mainland of Italy.

British naval forces, however, have bombarded Italy on several occasions. The Italian command said that the Axis heavy toll inflicted on Axis forces during their brief defense of Sicily was emphasized in headquarters announcements.

It was stated that the entire Italian 6th Army was destroyed during the campaign, at least half of the soldiers donning civilian clothes and deserting, filtering back to the villages and hill areas of Sicily.

More than 130,000 Italians were captured, killed or wounded. Officers said the Germans lost two complete divisions, killed, wounded or captured, and a large amount of heavy equipment including an undated number of 60-ton Tiger tanks.

It was announced at headquarters yesterday that the Axis lost more than 167,000 men killed, wounded and captured on the island up to August 10, while Allied casualties from the beginning to the end of the campaign were 25,000.

Of the Allied casualties, Canadian units lost 25 officers and 360 soldiers killed, 100 officers and 1,100 soldiers injured and 10 officers and 300 soldiers missing up to August 4, it was announced today.

An Ottawa announcement said this total was exactly the number of casualties suffered at Hong Kong, where the entire Canadian garrison was lost.

Army Is Fifth Lost by Italy. The loss of the 6th Army makes a total of five armies Italy has lost since the beginning of the war. The 1st, 5th and 10th were destroyed during the African fighting. The 8th disintegrated in Russia.

The 6th Army originally was composed of two corps comprising 300,000 men with 1,700 guns and 150 tanks. (Presumably, both manpower and material had been cut appreciably in previous campaigning and by desertions of troops who donned mufti in Sicily.)

The Italian high command said in a communique broadcast from Rome that German planes sank a 3,000-ton Allied ship and damaged five others totaling 100,000 tons at the Tunisian port of Bizerte while four torpedo-carrying planes attacked an enemy convoy near Bizerte.

A merchant ship was declared torpedoed in the Cape Passero area off the southeastern tip of Sicily. The enemy raided places in the Provinces of Reggio Calabria, Naples the District, such as the Munitions Building. Similarly, he said, the turnover rate at the Army Air Forces annex at Gravelly Point is 107.1 per cent higher than in the District.

"These turnover figures are merely one indication of the adverse effect of these high fares on the morale and efficiency of war service employees. In the opinion of the departments (War and Navy) these high fares are detrimental to the effective prosecution of the war effort," Col. Barron asserted.

Most persons using the bus lines are civil service employees in the lower salaried brackets, Col. Barron pointed out. About 55 per cent of all War Department civilian employees receive a base salary of $1,440 a year or less, and about 80 per cent receive a base salary of not over $1,820 a year, he said, adding that the figures for Navy employees are similar.

Called as second witness, Lt. Comdr. R. F. Randolph of the office of the Assistant Secretary of Navy, told of a similar civilian turnover at the Navy's Arlington annex, and said that it was the belief of the Navy Department that this condition was due to bus fares.

Motion Overruled. After Gen. Lewis' testimony, E. Barrett Pretyman, special counsel for the Capital Transit Co., moved that the general's testimony be stricken on the ground that it was being given "second-hand." Commissioner Patterson overruled the motion and ordered the hearing to proceed.

At one point, after Gen. Lewis had been cross-examined on his personal knowledge of the nearby transportation situation, Col. Barron jumped to his feet and declared that "cracks and sarcasm are not necessary."

The hearing was called after charges by both war agencies that transit companies were exacting excessive rates for service between the District and nearby Virginia. Secretary of War Stimson had asserted that "glaring inequities" permeated the entire system and that the companies have enjoyed a tremendous increase in net profits.

Present fares from the District to the Pentagon building are 10 cents on all buses with the exception of Capital Transit, which charges a 10-cent District fare, pass or token, plus a 5-cent Virginia fare.

Quezon, Over Radio, Warns the Philippines Against Jap Promises

President Roosevelt today sent birthday greetings to Manuel L. Quezon, president of the Philippine Commonwealth, and expressed conviction that "in the not too distant future your country and people will be freed from our common enemy."

The head of the Philippine government in exile is 65 today, and in a broadcast to the islands said that if any in the Philippines takes seriously the promise of Japan to make the islands independent, he should examine the Nipponese pattern for "independence" in Korea, Manchuria and the occupied provinces of China.

Independence will come to the Philippines, and "the time of redemption is not far off," said Mr. Quezon, but the broadcast emphasized that it is to the United States and the United Nations that the islands must look for true freedom.

Of Mr. Roosevelt's broadcast of last week pledging establishment of the Philippine Republic with the defeat of Japan, Mr. Quezon asserted: "President Roosevelt makes no promises lightly. He spoke with the power and might of the strongest nation on earth, standing behind every word he said."

The speech of President Roosevelt is the best gift that you and I can receive on this anniversary of my birthday. * * * My last word to you today is to keep your faith in President Roosevelt and the American people."

Gen. Quezon also received a birthday message from Gen. Douglas MacArthur, which, asking God's blessings, added: "May He preserve you for that coming great birthday of the Philippine Republic."

The Quezon family spent the day at the summer residence at Saranac Lake, N. Y. Mr. Quezon's broadcast was short-waved from San Francisco.

Brazil Soon to Dispatch Army Abroad, Dutra Hints

Gen. Enrico Gaspar Dutra, Minister of War of Brazil, indicated last night that a Brazilian expeditionary force soon would be headed overseas.

Gen. Dutra said at a press conference that Brazil is preparing for every eventuality, but he could not say where, when or with what type of troops his nation would take more action.

That, he explained, was for the Brazil and United States Governments to decide and to determine the opportune moment for Brazilian overseas participation.

Brazil has been aiding the United Nations cause with coastal patrols and by supplying strategic materials.

Emphasis was given the southern republic's desire to step up her aid to the Allies with announcement that Gen. Zenobio da Costa and Gen. Alcio Souto are expected to arrive today in Miami en route here for conversations.

Four Firms Represented. In addition to the Capital Transit Co., counsel for the Washington, Virginia & Maryland Coach Co., the Arlington & Fairfax Motor Transportation Co. and the Alexandria, Barcroft & Washington Transit Co., appeared today.

At the outset of the hearing, H. E. Ketter, the State corporation counsel of Virginia, moved that the hearing be discontinued on the ground that the ICC did not have jurisdiction. The chairman took the motion under advisement and said a decision would be reached on it later.

Business Executive Will Direct OPA's New Consumer Unit

Reagan P. Connally, New York department store executive, has been appointed director of the newly-created Consumer Goods Division of the Office of Price Administration, General Manager Chester Bowles announced in declaring that wartime price regulations will be redrafted to follow more closely standard business practices.

Mr. Connally is the second businessman named this week to a high position of price policy in the OPA. Earlier, Mr. Bowles had announced appointment of James F. Brownlee, president of the Frankfort Distilleries, as head of the agency's entire price section.

Mr. Connally is president of Interstate Department Stores, a chain with retail outlets in a large number of cities. He started his career as a clerk in a general store in a small Texas town.

Mr. Connally will be in charge of the rewriting and simplification of price regulations applying to department stores, dry goods stores and other retail outlets selling clothing, household furnishings, hardware and similar consumer goods. The work of his new division formerly was scattered among a number of OPA sections.

"We want to make compliance easier and price control more effective," Mr. Bowles said. "We have chosen Mr. Connally because he has the training for this assignment and, equally important, he has strong convictions of the imperative need of holding the line on prices against all pressures."

In taking office, Mr. Connally said he would rely heavily on the stores themselves to help make price control work. He added: "The primary sources and the manufacturers and the distributors of consumer goods are as keenly aware of the dangers of inflation as any group in America."

Strikers Take Notice

The capacity of the War Labor Board to enforce its orders, challenged in several recent cases, should be materially increased as a result of the latest executive order issued by the President.

It became necessary for the board to strengthen its enforcement arm after its authority had been flouted by John L. Lewis in the coal case. There are those who contend that Mr. Lewis is not defying the order of the board, and in a narrow technical sense this may be true. The fact remains, however, that Mr. Lewis has prevailed upon the miners to return to work under a "truce" extending to the end of October, and even this working arrangement is subject to termination by the mine leader if the Government returns the mines to private operation. By no stretch of the imagination can it be said that these conditions imposed by Mr. Lewis are compatible with the intent of the board's order, and it can hardly be doubted that it is this successful defiance by the president of the mine workers which has encouraged several employers to emulate him in challenging the ability of the board to enforce orders which are distasteful to them.

Faced with this serious condition, the board appealed to the President for help, and the language of his executive order conveys the impression that Mr. Roosevelt is standing squarely behind his wartime labor relations agency.

The order, in his application to noncomplying employers, is very drastic. Mr. Roosevelt retains to himself the power to take over the plants of employers who refuse to obey the board's orders. But the board now is empowered to call upon the Director of Economic Stabilization to impose indirect economic sanctions on recalcitrant industrialists. Included among these sanctions are the revocation of war contracts, the withholding of essential materials and the denial of access to transportation and fuel. On the face of the matter it seems evident that, henceforth, no employer can hope to defy the board without being promptly driven out of business.

The penalties provided in the case of union noncompliance are less drastic, but they are significant to the extent that they mark a definite stiffening of the President's attitude toward violators of the no-strike pledge. A rather mild sanction is provided in the form of an authorization to withhold union dues checked off in a plant under Government operation. The coercive effect of this provision is largely vitiated, however, by the requirement that the dues be held in escrow for the union, to be delivered to it upon compliance with the board's orders.

It is in the final paragraph of the executive order that one finds the more effective sanctions which now may be invoked against strikers. Under the language of this paragraph the Director of Economic Stabilization may be called upon to seek the cancellation of draft deferment of strikers, or their employment privileges, or both. In effect, this latter provision, if enforced with determination, might well amount to a Government blacklist of striking war workers. And this can be done without taking the plant away from the employer. The mere existence of this provision should prove extremely helpful in discouraging wildcat strikes, and if it should be enforced in a few instances the probabilities are that this form of production stoppage would soon be reduced to a minimum. The irresponsible workman may be expected to hesitate before leaving his job if he is made to understand that the Government, for the duration of the war, intends to see to it that he is denied employment elsewhere.

Milan Cathedral

War is no respecter of cathedrals. Americans who have toured the continent of Europe in years gone by know only too well what frightful havoc the conflicts of past centuries wrought in the sacred fanes of the people. Unhappily the strife which Hitler loosed upon the world has spelt disaster for great numbers of churches. The latest casualty reported is that of the third largest Christian temple ever built.

Dedicated to "Marie Nascenti," Milan Cathedral was begun in 1386 under the patronage of "the splendor loving" Gian Galeazzo Visconti, the richest and the wisest prince of his generation in all Italy. It was intended to shelter a congregation of forty thousand. The area it covers is said to be fourteen thousand square yards. From the facade to the corona is nearly five hundred feet. The dome is two hundred and twenty feet in height, the central tower three hundred and sixty feet above the pavement. Nothing like the roof exists anywhere on earth. It is a forest of intricately carved marble pinnacles. Two thousand statues of saints and martyrs adorn the exterior walls. The stained glass windows in the choir are believed to be the largest ever attempted.

Of the many mysteries concerning the cathedral, possibly that involving the premier architect is the most strange. Nobody knows who he was. His genius is conceded; he certainly was one of the rarest artists, one of the truly dynamic personalities of the modern epoch. But with a consecrated humility he concealed himself. His glorious work is anonymous. The secret will intrigue the imagination of multitudes so long as any fragment of the cathedral survives, yet it never can be read. Simone da Orsenigo superintended the construction program after 1387. German and French masters were summoned to his aid. The task to which they applied themselves never has been altogether finished.

But the cathedral of the Milanese was far enough advanced toward perfection to be consecrated by Saint Carlo Borromeo, the reformer, October 20, 1577. The upper phases of the vast structure were commenced in 1759. Napoleon Bonaparte ordered a new campaign of repairs and additions in 1805 and was rewarded by having his effigy in classic costume introduced into the grand design. Visitors from the United States have made pilgrimage to the cathedral in legions. From the top of it they have looked up to Mont Blanc and the Matterhorn. Within the building they have held their breath in reverence before the spectacle of painted darkness. The picture is a symphony of grandeur and solemnity impressive beyond words. Surely, the reconstruction of such portions of it as have been hurt in recent weeks Americans of all denominations will be glad to contribute when at last peace has been won.

Scandinavian Turmoil

All Scandinavian, German-occupied and neutral alike, is gripped by an intense political crisis. The detonating incident is a campaign of terrorism launched by the German occupational authorities in Norway, with this action coincides with political tension in subjugated Denmark and with Sweden's vigorous assertion of its neutrality by formally ending German transit privileges. These developments are reacting upon each other and intensifying the critical trend throughout the Scandinavian North. Coupled with the possibility of an Allied invasion of Norway, they may portend sensational happenings in the near future.

The Germans must be fearful of big trouble in Norway; otherwise they would hardly have resorted to the terrorist measures which disrupt even their own hand-picked native Quisling regime. The sole efficacy of that subservient organization in Norwegian eyes was that it preserved at least a semblance of domestic government. Now, the last vestige of that pretense must be destroyed when the Chief of Police in the capital city of Oslo is court-martialed and shot by the Germans, and when the entire native police force is compelled, under pain of death, to sign a declaration of "loyalty" to the Reich and is formally incorporated into the German armed forces. In addition, wholesale arrests are being made, including all retired Norwegian army officers paroled at the beginning of the German occupation.

These extreme measures do not seem to have been caused by native violence or wholesale sabotage. The Norwegian government in exile has been warning its citizens at home not to provoke German reprisals by a premature revolt, and those instructions apparently have been obeyed. It looks therefore as though the German authorities are expecting trouble from without, which would logically mean either Allied commando raids or a genuine invasion.

The effect of this terrorism in Norway upon Sweden is profound. The Swedish press is outspoken in its condemnation, and popular manifestations are taking place, notably the smashing of the windows of the German Tourist Agency in the heart of Stockholm, the Swedish capital. Incidentally, the execution of Oslo's police chief occurred the very day after the Swedish Government had banned the transit of war materials and supplies across Swedish territory to the German garrisons in isolated Northern Norway, and four days before the transit of German soldiers "on leave." By those very decisions the Swedish Government showed its determination to assert its neutral rights under any circumstances, and popular indignation at the new wave of German terrorism in neighboring Norway should harden the Swedish attitude.

The rising tide of self-assertiveness is seen even in little Denmark, where the Danish Government has refused to take extreme measures demanded by the Germans to deal with patriotic demonstrations, and has threatened to resign if Berlin continued to insist. That would be a body blow to German prestige, because Denmark has been held up by Nazi propaganda as the model exhibit of the rewards and favors shown a country that submits and "collaborates" with the Reich in its European "New Order." However, here again, the Germans seem highly nervous about Allied invasion possibilities and feel compelled to take military precautions, regardless of their political effects.

Thus do Germany's troubles grow in what has been one of the quietest and most assured portions of their European Fortress. The threat of Allied power massed in Britain hangs like a veritable sword of Damocles over the whole of Festung Europa. Not knowing where the stroke will fall, Berlin must nervously prepare against all eventualities.

Taxes Can Kill

As the time draws nearer for writing a tax law to raise from twelve to sixteen billion dollars in new revenue, the question arises as to how heavily the levies should fall upon industrial corporations. The normal tax rate upon corporate earnings is 40 per cent. Representative Robertson of Virginia, a Democratic member of the Ways and Means Committee, which handles tax legislation, is outspoken against any effort to raise this rate. It is his view, as it is of others, that the best incentive to increased production is the profit incentive. If profits are cut off, production lessens and new capital fails to seek investment in productive enterprise.

The war today demands production and increased production. The War Department, therefore, is vitally interested in the new tax law. It does not wish to see tax levies so increased that they may hinder production in any degree. There is another important element. When the war is over, industry in this country must be converted from war to peace time production. Industrial corporations must be permitted to retain sufficient surpluses to make possible this conversion, and also to keep running during the process. Otherwise, many businesses will fall and millions may be thrown out of employment.

This is the view taken by the National Industrial Conference Board and also by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor. The board has just published the results of a survey which indicates that Federal taxes already are impeding the accumulation of reserves which will be vitally needed by industrial corporations if they are to survive postwar readjustments. Corporations now engaged in war production must set aside money to meet their tax payments, or must borrow the money to make these payments with the hope that future earnings or liquidations will produce the cash to repay the loans.

The Executive Council of the AFL, meeting in Chicago, has gone on record in its declaration that private industry, when the war is over, must provide the jobs to take care of the returning soldiers and to give employment to the millions now engaged in war production. President Roosevelt's demobilization proposals, while meritorious in the opinion of the council, can only be regarded as stop-gap protection. What the council demands is that plans be made without delay for the reconversion of industry to peacetime work so that there will be no disastrous hiatus.

The council is equally insistent that capital be encouraged and not discouraged to make possible industrial expansion. It has used this significant language: "The Government should not only permit, but should stimulate opportunities to make a reasonable and fair profit for firms that are willing to increase production and employment. These business firms must be given assurances that they will not be taxed to death."

Jeep Pilot

In New Guinea there is an American pilot who makes it very unhealthy for anything that gets in his way. The Japs have found it out, and give him a wide berth as he appears in his P-38 pursuit ship, but they are not alone in scattering when he is at the controls. His American comrades scatter, too, if the controls are those of a jeep, for by a strange series of circumstances this hot pilot, who flies through the air with the greatest of ease, is just learning to drive a car.

He has recently soloed, conditionally. That is to say, he drives on a long, straight road after due notice has been given to the entire post to watch and pray. The jeep, he says, is too complex, and any such simple maneuver as avoiding a pedestrian by diving below him or zooming over him is denied. He marvels how any one, for mile after mile, can have the skill to follow faithfully a road with curves in it, and his respect for the A-card driver is high. Gradually he is acquiring the knack of allowing other drivers elbow room, instead of casually looping or rolling out of their way by a simple twist of the wrist. But the lessons come hard, and for relaxation he hops in his plane and refreshes up his mind by knocking off a few more Japs. Then he tackles the jeep again with a grim determination to master its intricacies so that after the war he can become a real sure enough motorist, if he can get any gas.

WACS, WOOLFS and WAVES get all the glory. How about a toast to the homemaking WIVES—Women in Very Essential Service.

Where to Strike Next Is Allies' Problem

By Maj. George Fielding Eliot.

The conquest of Sicily is complete. In five weeks the Allied armies have put an end to all resistance in that island's 10,000 square miles of mountainous terrain. From first to last, the result was never in doubt.

The initial surprise, by which the ports of Syracuse, Augusta and Licata became the funnels through which the Allied troops poured into Sicily in irresistible strength; the overwhelming air superiority; so constantly maintained and exploited; the magnificent power drive of the British 8th Army against the strong German positions on the Plain of Catania and the slopes of Etna; the no less magnificent sweep of the American 7th Army into Palermo and along the north coast; the smashing thrusts of the Canadians in the center; the steady support of naval units, both by gunfire and in the covering of amphibious flanking thrusts—all this was co-ordinated into one mighty operation of war on which every element played its part and worked harmoniously and terribly for the attainment of victory.

With that victory, the name of Dwight David Eisenhower takes its place among the great captains of American history. This is said in no spirit of disparagement for the great achievements of his British, Canadian and French associates. Every one of them, from Gen. Alexander and Air Marshal Tedder and Admiral Cunningham down through the long hierarchy of command, deserves his full share of credit for the Sicilian victory. It was Gen. Eisenhower's great task to take British, French, Canadian and American troops, air forces and naval forces, and to weld them into one hard-hitting, smooth-working machine of war. He had to overcome all the obstacles that national pride, personal jealousy, the differences in systems of tactics and administration, differences in armament and equipment, and political complications could throw in his path, in addition to overcoming the resistance of the enemy.

It is no simple task for an American officer, of no previous great reputation in the military world, to take over such a command and to assume authority over officers of other nationalities some of whom, at least, were generals or admirals when Gen. Eisenhower was a lieutenant colonel of infantry.

But Gen. Eisenhower has done it, done it thoroughly and successfully. Twice the forces thus placed under his command have struck the enemy—once in Tunisia, once in Sicily. On both occasions, the enemy has broken under the blow. Every American may well feel proud that our Nation has been able to give to the common cause of all free peoples, not only sacrifices of blood and treasure, but leadership of such splendid quality.

And now that Sicily is ours—what next? No doubt that has all been thought of long ago; for if one blow is to follow another, the plans must be laid and the preparations begun long before the first blow has been struck.

There was a time when it seemed that Sardinia would almost certainly be the next target after Sicily. Sardinia leads the way to Corsica and the beaches of Southern France. But the fall of Mussolini and the consequent political chaos in Italy raises the question of whether, after all, a landing on the Italian mainland might not have become more attractive than it seemed a few weeks ago.

Of course, whatever is to be done must be well within our means. The Germans would like nothing better than to draw the Allied forces into an invasion of the continent at a point where superior German forces could be brought to bear. A bloody repulse of the first serious attempt at landing on the continent would, above almost anything else, suit the enemy's purposes.

It would reinforce his frantic propaganda to the effect that the Festung Europa is impregnable; it would have a very bad reputation on the Russians, who are hoping for a permanent diversion of German land power as well as air power; and it would strongly reinforce the coming German peace offensive, whose only real bargaining point is the cost of continuing the war.

Therefore the Allied high command must continue to see to it that its blows are struck in measure with its powers; that the advantages of air and naval superiority are made full use of, to support land operations in areas where the advantages of time and place and communications are on our side, and where the enemy cannot, without disproportionate effort, oppose us in equal or superior strength.

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

Childhood memories of the birds come back with the following paragraph from a correspondent's letter:

"I used to like to see and hear the thrush in the hazel bushes when I drove the cattle to pasture in early morning, and the catbirds with their mew in the bushes and wild shrubbery, and the saucy blue jay scolding in the trees above. Now there is something about a blue jay that helps with his noise making to enliven the otherwise loneliness of the wide open spaces."

We wonder how much of the recognition of birds and bird songs comes from later days, rather than from childhood. Do most farm boys know the birds, and recognize them at the time?

Many of them do, without doubt, for there are on record the thoughts of some musicians, telling of how the birds were their first musical teachers. Such widely separated musicians in time and purpose as Beethoven and Will Handy testify to their interest in birds. Beethoven shocked the musical purists of his day by placing the note of the quail and cuckoo in his sixth symphony, the "Pastoral." Handy has testified, in his "Father of the Blues," that the jay was among his earliest teachers.

The blue jay, a typical American in feathers, was called by a recent correspondent here "an Indian," and we think that is a very good way to think of him. The jay is pure American, a bird one either likes or dislikes.

There is no halfway about the jaybird. He comes and goes as he pleases, and whether he is coming or going he is making a big noise about it.

We believe that actually very few people dislike this songster, even when they say they do. We feel sure that if they would watch the bird for a time, they would end up by liking him.

How is it possible not to like him, he is so full of life and spirit, so wild and free, so everything except in singing?

He is not much of a musician, it must be admitted; and he is admitted to the classification of "songbird" merely because he has the right number of muscles in his syrinx; but he tries hard, and at times manages to squeeze out some soft notes which generally are attributed to other birds.

One of the most appealing sights in bird watching is that of a jay bending his knees, as it were, while he thrusts out his neck and emits one of his loud squawks.

The jay has another noise of which he is very fond. It is something on the order of a wooden rattle, with implications of mirth beyond most feathered things.

The truth is that the blue jay is perhaps our first feathered comedian.

It is impossible to watch a band of them for any time without feeling that they know a good joke and are willing to share it.

Just how they manage to put over this feeling is impossible to say, because they are just birds, without any of the human sparkle of eye, or opening wide of mouth in a merry grin.

Yet it is quite plain that jays understand something funny, as we humans say. They have been known to play jokes on each other, then to perch around in trees and shout with laughter at the butt of the joke.

Mark Twain tells of a wag of a jay which pretended that he was going to fill up a deserted cabin by dropping acorns down the chimney.

The remainder of his band thought they would try their hand at it, and labored for hours, after which the original fellow nearly laughed himself off his perch.

Strangely enough, no such thing as the convention idea has been attributed to this bird. Crows are said to hold "conventions," and to sentence to death a culprit, and to end his career by pecking, but as far as we know the jays have never indulged in this sort of thing. No doubt they have too much good humor.

It is impossible, we believe, to think of the blue jay as a bad bird, after one has been sold on him as a humorist.

It is true that at times he commits ill deeds, such as taking an egg from a nest, or even slaying a baby bird.

On the other hand, an observer may watch jays for many years, without once seeing an instance of such a thing, until he is willing to believe that blue jays never do such things, after all.

The fact probably is that such an ill deed is the exception, just as it is among human beings.

Jays, as a group of birds, are much too busy with their constant flights and squawks to bother much with other birds, especially with their young. They are good parents, none better, and are so much on the go that ordinarily they do not have time left for bad deeds.

They fly mostly in small bands, usually not more than four to six, probably the mother and father bird, and the children of the past spring.

Their entry to a bird-feeding station is always picturesque. They will herald their coming with mighty screams, then fly down, one after another, with a flash of white and blue. The other birds will leave, for the time being, but not in haste, as if afraid.

The jays stick around for a few minutes only, mostly not over 20 minutes, at the most. Then, with another mighty flourish, they fly away together. That will be the last seen of them until next day, when, at almost the same minute, they fly in again.

Just how or why they achieve this periodicity is not known, except that perhaps many bird species display a similar "timeliness" without most of us being aware of it. Faithful observers swear that some species take turns at sitting on the nest in regular periods to the minute, day after day. Perhaps it is nothing unusual, then, for such wise birds as blue jays to time themselves with a clock that needs no winding.

Q. How many fathers have lived to see their sons President of the United States?—J. B.

A. Two fathers have lived to see their sons President: Dr. George T. Harding and John Coolidge.

Q. Is it true that a python eats infrequently?—P. N. C.

A. A python eats practically any living thing it can capture, from a mouse to a deer. If it eats a large animal, say a 40-pound pig, it would be satisfied for several months.

Q. How long is the mainspring of a watch?—J. E. H.

A. The mainspring is from 10 inches to 2 feet long, depending on the size of the watch.

Q. Please explain the duties of a headquarters company.—B. M.

A. The War Department says that the headquarters company in an infantry battalion handles most of the details of the regimental organization. It serves as a general office.

Q. Has popcorn ever been known to pop or explode while still in the field?—E. L. H.

A. The Bureau of Plant Industry says that corn has been known to pop when still in the ear and on the plant. It is believed that some strains of corn show the tendency to pop in the ear as an inherent characteristic, and that in such cases extreme heat conditions are not required.

Q. What are the principal islands of the Solomon group?—E. B. U.

A. The 10 principal islands are Buka, Bougainville, Shortland, Choiseul, New Georgia, Santa Isabel, Malaita, Guadalcanal, San Cristobal and Rennell.

Q. Were private yachts used in the last World War?—T. R. B.

A. The yachts Norma, Corsair, Alcedo and Aphrodite were used for patrol duty off Brest, France, and off Gibraltar.

Q. When and where was Willie Hoppe, the billiard champion, born?—V. G.

A. Willie Hoppe was born in Cornwall, N. Y., October 11, 1887.

Q. Who played the principal parts in the "Merry Widow" when it was first produced in this country?—E. T. C.

A. When the operetta, opened at the New Amsterdam Theater in New York City on October 21, 1907, Ethel Jackson played the Merry Widow, and Donald Brian, the Prince. The first run in New York totaled 242 performances.

Q. How does such a public official as Harold L. Ickes, with so many different things to look after, manage to keep up with his work?—F. E. B.

A. Mr. Ickes arrives at his office at 8:15 in the morning and remains until 6 in the evening. He takes work home with him. He works on Sundays, including members of his staff he sees about 25 callers a day.

Q. What was the average wage of bituminous coal miners last year?—M. H. E.

A. In 1942 the wage earned by the bituminous coal industry earned on the average $1.06 per hour and $35 per week for a work week that averaged 32.9 hours.

Q. What is the siccoco?—J. McM.

A. The term "siccoco" is applied to the warm, moist, oppressive southeast wind experienced on the Northern Mediterranean coast, chiefly in Italy, Malta and Sicily.

Q. When did marble table tops become popular?—R. R.

A. From Elizabethan England come records of marble stone table tops in 1588, although it was not until the early part of the 18th century that marble appeared as an important furnishing feature in England. Its use in Italy most probably predates this. Marble-topped stands and tables were at the height of their popularity in the 1870's.

Q. Who were the War Hawks?—D. E. W.

A. War Hawks was the term applied to those members of the Twelfth Congress (1811-1813) whose advocacy of war with Great Britain brought on the War of 1812. Their leaders among whom were Clay and Johnson of Kentucky, Porter of Western New York, Grundy of Tennessee and Calhoun of South Carolina, came chiefly from the West and South, the regions least affected by British interference with "free trade and sailors' rights."

Q. What is the area of New York harbor?—L. H. C.

A. The New York harbor area comprises 431 square miles, and is the busiest stretch of water in the world.

Q. When was the Federal tax on candy imposed?—R. A.

A. The Federal tax on candy was imposed by section 613 of the Revenue Act of 1932, effective June 17, 1932. The rate was 2 per cent, based on the selling price of the candy manufacturer. It was repealed May 10, 1934.

Trees are our masters; in their inner being pulsates the life that only God can give. They are twice blessed, not hearing and not seeing. The useless struggles man must wage to live. Unselfishly they stand and welcome birds, and beasts, and toil-torn men in summer heat; they show the dull futility of words with silent beauty, living and complete. Prophetic of eternity, they stand for centuries, yet humbly yielding when they fall before the blow of mortal hand and give themselves to meet the needs of men.

All those who seek their presence feel the ease and restfulness reflected by the trees.

Campaign to "Save" Physicians Depleted by One of Them.

To the Editor of The Star: Due to the depletion of physicians, because of the war effort, I have read in various publications advice to the public to spare the physicians who are left in practice as much as possible by not consulting them unless patients are seriously ill.

I believe this is pernicious advice, and I desire to call attention to the results which might follow if the advice were acted upon.

No patient is in a position to judge how serious his illness may be, and it is a well known fact that self medication leads many times to serious consequences.

Abdominal pain is often interpreted by the patient to be "indigestion" (whatever that is), but it may mean appendicitis, gall stones, kidney stones, ulcers of the stomach or intestines, hernia, vagotonic disturbance, intestinal parasites, tubal or ovarian disturbance, disease of the spinal cord and other serious diseases which require prompt and expert diagnosis if disaster is to be averted.

A lump in the breast or in other parts of the body, bleeding from any of the natural orifices may mean cancer, which requires immediate and thoughtful attention to prevent prolonged suffering and death.

A small abrasion in the skin may admit deadly germs, with dire consequences, unless attention is immediately given by the doctor.

Loss of weight, accompanied by thirst and itching of the body is usually diabetes, which requires careful and detailed instruction early, to prevent death.

Mild nausea, accompanied by slight, but persistent cough, attributed usually by the patient to too many cigarettes, some times means early tuberculosis.

Headache is a symptom of many serious diseases, which the doctor knows about, and which should be investigated and should have the cause determined.

Eruptions of the skin may be manifestations of constitutional disease which can be serious, or can be communicated to others.

This letter would be too long if I continued the many symptoms which the general public might consider too insignificant to justify taking up the busy doctor's time to describe to him, but which are very important to the public health and to the individual himself.

Therefore, I believe this bad advice, to stay away from the doctor except when one is seriously ill, should be withdrawn. I think the public can help a lot by calling on the doctor at his office, where he has the paraphernalia for diagnosis and immediate treatment, and continue to be advised by him as to what to avoid in order to maintain good health.

Spending Criticized As New Deal Failing.

To the Editor of The Star: No man possessed of patriotism will object to paying his share of the tax load. But people resent the padding of Government payrolls and the main tenance of unnecessary bureaus.

The "spend in order to save" theory has resulted in the most dangerous deficit in history, and the end is not in sight.

Letters to the Editor must bear the name and address of the writer, although the use of a pseudonym for publication is permissible. The Star reserves the right to edit all letters with a view to condensation.

Respect for money has been relegated to horse-and-buggy days. Deficits are said to be desirable and old fashioned thrift obsolete.

According to the Federal Register, there were over 2,200 alphabetical bureaus in June, 1943. The cost to taxpayers is well-nigh incalculable.

In an address at Chicago in July, 1932, Franklin D. Roosevelt said: "I know something of taxes. For three long years I have been going up and down the country preaching that Government, Federal and State and local... costs too much, I shall not stop that preaching."

Just when does the Roosevelt administration expect to practice what it so fervently preached?

League of Nations Issue Simplified by Alleged Quotations.

To the Editor of The Star: In 1919 during the campaign for ratification of the Treaty of Versailles by the United States, President Wilson is reported by the daily press to have made this statement: "If the United States should fail to ratify the Peace Treaty of Versailles, it will break the great heart of the world."

To which Senator Hiram Johnson, isolationist, is supposed to have retorted: "If it will break the heart of the world for the United States not to ratify the treaty of Versailles, let the heart of the world break."

Today, along with the broken heart of the world, thousands of American mothers' hearts are breaking also.

"Social Security" Scheme Rejected by Critic.

Antistrike Law Strongly Implemented

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

President Roosevelt at last has utilized the powers given him by Congress to prevent John L. Lewis or any other individual from tying up the Nation's war production by strikes or any other form of work stoppage.

David Lawrence.

The Smith-Connally law—denounced by union leaders as an antilabor measure and passed over the President's veto—finally has forced the constructive piece of machinery to stop strikes that has yet been devised for war conditions.

It is apparent that Mr. Roosevelt was reluctant to use the Smith-Connally law and it is apparent also that Chairman William H. Davis and his colleagues of the War Labor Board were about to throw up the sponge and resign unless a forceful policy in dealing with both recalcitrant employers and unions was sanctioned.

Believers would be recalled, Mr. Roosevelt, it will be recalled, told his press conference only a few weeks ago that he saw no way to make Mr. Lewis obey a WLB order.

WLB lawyers read and reread the War Disputes Act (the Smith-Connally law) and discovered a way to make it apply drastically to both unions and employers.

But in the last few months public opinion has mounted to fever heat on the subject of labor stoppages and the administration has been persuaded by WLB that it must pursue an independent and consistent policy toward employe organizations as well as employers who defy the board's orders.

Ingenious Machinery. The device is an ingenious one. If a union or an employer declines to accept a War Labor Board proposal for settlement, pressure can now be brought to bear on either the employer or the union because the law provides power for the Government to threaten to seize or to seize a plant.

Once the property is seized, the Government, as custodian, can do what it wishes with respect to the terms of employment. This procedure is wholly constitutional.

This policy evens up matters as between employers and unions and if fairly enforced means that the board at last can effectively prevent strikes. There is less possibility today than ever before that Mr. Lewis or the Miners' Union will try another coal strike while the war is in progress.

Draft Threat a Mistake. The President deserves the utmost commendation for accepting the views of Chairman Davis and the War Labor Board and for finally permitting the adoption of an even-handed policy.

To use entry into our armed services as a penalty is a grave mistake. Congress should provide the proper penalties for individuals who seek to obstruct or defy WLB orders, but the same administration which opposed so vehemently any enforcement provisions in the Smith-Connally law and now has been compelled to apply them by executive order, will have to back such changes in order to restrain recalcitrant individuals from interfering with war production.

On the whole, however, a start has been made toward a constructive labor policy for the Nation in wartime and the American people have an independent Congress to thank for the Smith-Connally law.

The Political Mill

By GOULD LINCOLN.

Reports brought to Washington from many sections of the country are that the Republicans want Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for the presidential nomination next year.

Gould Lincoln.

Wendell L. Willkie, standard bearer in 1940, has his devoted adherents. Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio has a considerable following also, but mainly in Ohio itself and neighboring States.

It is logical that this should be so. In the first place Mr. Dewey, as Governor of New York, holds a place which he won by a decisive vote last year.

Rose From Defeat. In addition, Mr. Dewey has risen from defeat, which he met in the gubernatorial race of 1938 and again when he made a bid for the presidential nomination in 1940.

Gov. Dewey himself, however, has stated unequivocally that he is not and will not become a candidate for the presidential nomination.

Here again he is in a good position. He has become as much of a mystery man as Mr. Roosevelt was in 1940 when he declined to tell any one whether he would run for a third term, and as he is today, the Democrats will be kept guessing about Mr. Dewey, just as the Republicans were guessing about Mr. Roosevelt in 1940.

Mr. Dewey is sincere in his declaration that he will not be a candidate for the presidential nomination.

next summer, will make the selection of a presidential nominee. Could Not Decline.

If the convention should decide that it wants Mr. Dewey, and actually nominates him, he could not decline, not if he hopes for political preferment in the future; nor could any man, particularly at such a time, turn down a presidential nomination of one of the great political parties.

The late President Calvin Coolidge, when he was still President, was approached by a Republican member of Congress who asked him if he would be a candidate to succeed himself in the 1928 election, and if not, why not.

Mr. Coolidge had been in the White House since the death of President Harding in 1922. Mr. Coolidge replied that no man could remain in the White House for more than eight years and retain his popularity.

Even today, it has been said in many quarters that if it were not for the war he could not hope to be re-elected again.

The recommendation by War Mobilization Director Byrnes that politics and political discussions be postponed until the fall of next year, when the presidential campaign takes place, has much justification, in view of the war effort.

Politics Rolls Along. But the American people, generally speaking, are able to differentiate between the war effort and domestic politics.

The Willkie, or "One World," school detests these uncertainties, and desires to leap forward to a mature, settled relationship with Russia. It is impatient to get on with the business of living in the rest of this century.

It knows where it is going, while the Roosevelt school sometimes political debate is likely to fall on deaf ears.

Mr. Byrnes frankly admitted that the Democrats have been at it, just as much as the Republicans, it is immaterial which side started the row at this early date.

I'd Rather Be Right

By SAMUEL GRAFTON.

If there is any one question on which a democratic decision has been reached in this country, it is the need for getting along with Russia.

Samuel Grafton.

Nobody is flatteringly getting along with Russia, or, at least, nobody stands up in meeting and says so, in those words.

The open quarrel is over method. Particular approaches to Russia vary a good deal, of course. "Some do it with a bitter look, some with a flattering word."

The Roosevelt school of thought on the question is in favor of military partnership with Russia, of supplying her with munitions, but it also favors letting nature take its course on the question of political relations, feeling our way slowly, recognizing no instant obligation for political agreement with Russia on such "western" questions as France, Italy and, perhaps, Germany.

Relations Improvised. (In a sense the administration is pulling back from final decisions, and improvising on the question of our relations with Russia, very much as it improvises and feels its way, on a day-to-day basis, on the question of our relations with Italy.)

But the American people, generally speaking, are able to differentiate between the war effort and domestic politics. Republicans as well as Democrats have their sons at the front.

The Willkie, or "One World," school detests these uncertainties, and desires to leap forward to a mature, settled relationship with Russia. It is impatient to get on with the business of living in the rest of this century.

It knows where it is going, while the Roosevelt school sometimes political debate is likely to fall on deaf ears.

proceeds so slowly it seems to have lost its rudder and to be going nowhere at all.

There is yet another school of thought on the Russian issue, and this one might be called the "old sea dog" school, a phrase which was born when Admiral Standley, our Ambassador to Moscow, scolded the Russians for being insufficiently grateful for lease-lend.

This is the school which tells Russia that the road to better relations with the United States is for her to forget about the second front, to give up the Balkan states, and to declare war on Japan tomorrow morning.

But when Russia begins to be a bit of an old sea dog herself, as when she sets up her own Free Germany Committee, without asking us, this school goes into a hopping fury.

Has No Plans. But when Russia begins to be a bit of an old sea dog herself, as when she sets up her own Free Germany Committee, without asking us, this school goes into a hopping fury.

Acquittal on Charge Of Peas Theft Ordered. Municipal Court Judge Nathan Margold directed a verdict of not guilty yesterday in the case of Ernest Orndorff, 39, Springfield, Va., who was charged with the larceny of a bushel of green peas from a freight car in the B. & O. Railroad yards.

The jurist ruled that the Government had failed to present sufficient evidence against the defendant to warrant the case going to the jury.

This Changing World

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.

There is a good deal of speculation in Washington military quarters that the Russian offensive might be slowed down and the eastern front thus will remain stalemated.

Constantine Brown.

The suspicion that military operations in Russia might become less active is not based on military considerations, but on the tone of the official Soviet press, which continues to demand an Allied offensive which should draw "between 50 and 60 Nazi divisions" from the east.

The official army newspaper, Red Star, published on Wednesday another plea to the "freedom-loving people" to concentrate their efforts on the Hitlerites. Without demanding in so many words an Allied attack in Western Europe, it pointed out the conquest of Sicily and the other operations in the Mediterranean area can be of little importance to the hard-fighting Soviet soldiers so long as they do not draw more than one-fourth of the Nazi forces from the east.

The Allied strategists at Quebec are deciding at this moment where our troops will go, now that Sicily has been conquered. Their decisions are based on the available forces in Europe and Africa and on the best chances of striking at the enemy in the next few months before the full 1944 spring offensive can start.

Consolidation Possible. The warnings of the newspaper reflect the thoughts of the Moscow government. If they are not heeded, a second war may be fired from the Russian front itself in the shape of a "consolidation" of the newly acquired positions in preparation for another winter campaign.

From the military point of view, this would be understandable. The Russians have forged ahead fast and are far from their bases of supply. These must be reorganized. Red Star's statement that there are 211 Nazi divisions now in Russia is probably correct.

The Nazis are withdrawing much closer to their own supply bases. To offset this advantage, which the Germans have drawn from their defeat, the Russians will have to slow down their operations and bring up a mass of supplies in order to move on against such a formidable force.

The Nazi Army apparently is intact. According to the few worth-while details Washington was able to obtain about the operations on the eastern front, only 10 Nazi divisions have been put out of action since the beginning of the Russian push. This would leave the Germans with upward of 200 divisions—about 3,000,000 men—to fight on a straighter and shorter line than eight weeks ago.

Care Seen Necessary. Under these circumstances it would appear reasonable that the Soviet high command should decide to catch its breath. Field Marshal Timoshenko is said to have told an American who discussed military strategy with him last year that "a lightning offensive is a rout forward in which the supply lines are as much disorganized as those of the enemy who is routed backward."

But the repeated complaints from Moscow, including the most recent one in Red Star, that the Allies are "breaking faith" or that they are not taking full advantage of the powerful and unexpected Russian summer offensive—gives a political flavor to what normally should appear sound strategy.

The Allied strategists at Quebec are deciding at this moment where our troops will go, now that Sicily has been conquered. Their decisions are based on the available forces in Europe and Africa and on the best chances of striking at the enemy in the next few months before the full 1944 spring offensive can start.

Soviets Fully Informed. The Russians know how many divisions we have for an immediate action. They also have a good idea of the Nazi strength in Europe, particularly the Nazi fortifications. The underground movement in France, which is composed of 80 per cent Communists, has kept the Soviet high command fully informed of the situation in Western Europe.

Hence, Premier Stalin must realize that it was not the lack of desire on the part of the Allied strategists, particularly the Americans, which caused the present inaction on the western front.

Any slowing down of the Russian offensive, reasonable as it is from a strictly military point of view, is worrying the American and British general staffs. There have been many rumors lately indicating the possibility of the Nazis offering peace terms to the Russians. They are not based on unconditional surrender, since Stalin has not intimated that slogan. These rumors won't permit the Allied high command to take unwarranted chances.

Tense Drama Lies Behind Soviet Gains

By HENRY C. CASSIDY.

OREL.—The terse lines of communications and the stiff phrases of front line dispatches tell you that "after stubborn fighting, the Soviet troops occupied" a populated point or city.

But walk across the still-steaming battlefield and see what such terms as "defense lines broken—town occupied—prisoners released—mines removed" really mean.

They have taken on even new meaning in some types of fighting in the Red Army's first summer offensive. Here is what they meant in retreating the battle of Orel:

"Defense lines" meant three rows of barbed wire stretched between wooden poles, backed up by solid land mines and then a continuous front line trench with communicating trenches running back to the rear.

Two hundred yards back there was a similar line, farther back still another.

Deep timber-supported dugouts were built on the rear sides wherein the enemy took cover under artillery bombardment and then emerged to reply with his own blaze of fire to any attempt to advance.

To break such lines meant sending artillery into the open under enemy fire to blast the positions out of the ground.

"Occupation of the populated point" at Mtsensk, just north of Orel, meant fighting a way through such defenses into the once beautiful garden town famed in Russian literature where now the only living things were two cats and one dog.

The only building intact was a log cabin.

In the yard at that house Maj. Gen. Boris Terpilovskiy, the first commandant of Mtsensk, established headquarters in a stable with the ground covered with straw. His staff set typewriters on a door laid across some barrels to tap out the orders. They lived in a dugout which was blown up by a delayed action enemy mine the day after they moved.

How Orel Was Entered. To enter Orel meant a dash across a railroad track on the east side of town where the bombings made an opening while the enemy remained on the hills to the rear, then fighting down Moscow street past ruined factories and apartment houses to the Oksa River running through the city.

There 35 Tommy-guns crossed the stream just before the bridge was blown up and two steel spars rose from the concrete foundations and sagged into the water. They established a foothold in a two-story brick house on the west bank and held that bridgehead until reinforcements crossed the 100-yard-wide shallow stream by fording or over pontoons.

"Prisoners released" meant finding fellows like Sgt. Pilot Dmitry Demovoy, 21, who told his story as though recounting a nightmare.

He made a forced landing north of Orel and was given refuge in the cellar of a peasant house, but the Germans found him and made him a prisoner.

Hanged Three Times. His wounds unbandaged, he said they took him to the command post, hung him by the neck three times for five minutes each and drained off 800 grams of his blood in a futile effort to make him talk about the strength and position of his regiment. Then they threw him into a concentration camp.

They go off in anywhere from 1 to 45 days and any day might be the day you are there. That's what those terms really mean.

Ball park "handy" says "Take him out!"

3-Ring "handy" says... "Make it BALLANTINE!"

Early man was a strong, silent character. He talked with signs, instead of in words. And to this very day, the hand says it quicker! Hitchhiker's "handy" means "Share your car?" Playgoer's "handy" means "Good, do it again!" 3-ring "handy" means "I'm having Ballantine Ale!"

This is the "handy" that hurries along a glass of "something better" in a moderate beverage, America's finest since 1840! That's when Peter Ballantine testing for PURITY, BODY and FLAVOR, found his now-famous trademark in the three moisture rings left by his glass on the table.

'Lucky' Yankee Flyer Suffers Broken Neck; His 3 Brothers Killed

By L. L. WINSHIP.

LONDON, August 19 (By wireless to NANA).—The custom is that people who ride in railway compartments in England do not talk to one another, but Sgt. Arthur McLemore and I, being alone, took a chance. He was on his way north to a bomber station to pick up the belongings of his youngest brother, reported lost on a raid over Germany.

This is what the sergeant said, in the railway compartment:
"I was the first to leave home, in Mississippi. I went to Canada when the war started, trained seven months and then came over here. I guess I'm responsible for my three brothers following me. They came in order: The next youngest and then the next youngest to him and then the youngest, who just had it."

Three Brothers Killed.
Sgt. McLemore's three brothers were killed flying, in the order in which they enlisted.

"I was the only lucky one in the family," he said.
"How come you were so lucky?" I asked.
"Well, I broke my neck," he replied. He was "lucky" to break his neck, because it kept him in a plaster cast for nine months. As an RAF (pronounced raff) pilot he had been on 16 bombing raids over Germany and 10 "gardening jobs"—planting mines. They are sown like seed. McLemore's "luck" came on the way home.

We both stared out the train window. A flock of bombers was just coming over the horizon, high above the very blue and very peaceful North Sea.

"Well, I guess you've made your last trip with those boys," I said. Sgt. McLemore's job now is at a desk in the office of Col. Lester Lear.

Nine Times Over Germany.
He looked across at me for a long minute and said, "Well, I guess it's no harm in telling now, and Col. Lear couldn't kick because I wasn't in the American Air Force then, but I've been over Germany nine times since I got out of the hospital."

"How do you mean?"
"I've got a lot of friends in the RAF. They let me ride along." So while he was convalescing from a broken neck, Sgt. McLemore rode a bomber over Bremen and Cologne and such places. It was probably against all the rules of the RAF and it certainly is against all the rules of common sense and safety, but the boys who ride the bombers seem to be living by a set of rules of their own.

He spoke quietly of the crash which broke his neck.
"A bunch of fighters found us," he related. "We had been caught in the searchlights, and it was just like being sprayed with a garden hose. But we got away and I thought we had lost all the Jerry fighters. Four of the crew had it; all the others, except the radio man, were wounded."

Crashed on Land.
"Then another Jerry came out of nowhere. We had nothing to fight back with, but we kept on going, off our course and hit the deck on the Isle of Man." (When you "hit the deck" you crash on land; when you crash into the sea you "ditch.")

"How did you get out of the plane?" I asked the sergeant.

"They say I shot through the top of the bomber. The radio man had it when the plane burned. A farmer saw me lying on a hill and thought I was dead. I'm lucky all over. If he had moved me with a broken neck, it would have been too bad. Then a RAF orthopedic doctor found me and sent for two pals of plaster of paris and put it all over me, clothes and all."

"What did you do during those nine months, read a lot?" (He had been studying to be an Episcopal rector before the war.)
"I guess I spent most of the time learning to wiggle my toes."
The sergeant can wiggle everything now. "What's that goldfish on your sleeve?" I wanted to know.

Landed in North Sea.
"You get that the first time you ditch," he said. Under the goldfish was a wavy bar. You get one of these every other time you ditch. So McLemore's luck included landing in the sea a couple of times. He didn't like to recall the times he ditched, because he lost most of his crew both times.

"The second time I didn't even write a report about it," he said. "Only three of us got out. The dinghy (rubber boat) was upside down and we were so tired we couldn't even swim to it. I'd got my shoes off. You have from 30 seconds to four minutes to get out of the plane and you know just what to do, like a fire drill in school.

"But we were so tired. I got to the dinghy but I couldn't turn it over. Then I saw the tail gunner sitting alone on the tail with his Mae West (inflated life preserver) on. I told him to come over and help me turn the dinghy over. He just sat there. I wasn't excited, I just talked to him like a child. I said: 'You've got to come over here and help me.' Finally, he slipped off the tail, and hung on there. Then I heard him gurgling water. I knew then he had it.

Flies as RAF Guest.
"The mid-upper gunner was in the water, only four feet away, but it seemed to take him an awful long time to come those four feet. We turned the boat over. The paddles were still in it and we paddled around in the North Sea. Toward morning we saw one of those rescue floats which are anchored all over the North Sea. They're just like hotels. You go down the hatch and there are beds and hot coffee and radio and blankets and books and everything. I wanted to get into it, but just then a launch came along and we came ashore. But it's no fun coming home without your ship and crew."

MORTON'S SALT
WHEN IT RAINS IT POURS

Salt some away!
Now while fresh vegetables are available from garden and market, can some or put some away in salt brine with Morton's Salt.

How thankful you'll be this winter for the home canned vegetables you had the foresight to "put up" now. All that good eating and good nutrition ready and waiting—and no ration points needed to get it! Have no qualms about being able to do the canning. If you've been preparing meals you'll have no trouble at all putting up a healthy array of fine looking canned vegetables. Morton's Salt has helped preserve the garden-fresh flavor of vegetables for some of America's most famous brands. Now that thousands of home canners are going into action to win the fight on the vital food front, we'd like to help them too. We've prepared an interesting little booklet on home canning and brining of vegetables. It may have some recipes and ideas that you haven't seen. We'd like to send you a copy. Don't let this fresh vegetable season go by without doing something about your future food needs. Salt some away. See your grocer for home canning and brining supplies.

Sergt. Giusta Is Killed On Eve of Furlough To Visit Home Here

Just as they were preparing to welcome him home on his first furlough, Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Giusta of 703 Wayne avenue, Silver Spring, were notified yesterday that their son, Sergt. Joseph T. Giusta, had been killed in a bomber crash near El Paso, Tex.

Mr. Giusta said his son was to have left Diggs Field tonight for his first visit home since he entered the Army Air Forces last November. He said reservations had been made for the trip from Texas on an air line.

Sergt. Giusta, a radio operator and gunner, was among 12 crewmen killed when their bomber crashed while on a routine flight about 30 miles from El Paso, Mr. Giusta was informed by the War Department.

Born in Washington, Sergt. Giusta moved to Silver Spring when a child. He was educated at St. Michael's Parochial School in Silver Spring, and at St. John's High School in the District.

Before entering the Army, Sergt. Giusta had been employed by the Veteran's Bureau, and later had been a paid member of the Silver Spring Volunteer Fire Department, where he was in charge of the switchboard.

Mr. Giusta said he had requested the body be shipped home for burial in Arlington.

Mrs. Roosevelt Opposes Equal Rights Amendment

By the Associated Press. CLEVELAND, Aug. 19. — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and 79 other women leaders have signed a letter opposing the equal rights amendment pending in the Senate, Miss Elizabeth Magee, general secretary of the National Consumers' League, announced yesterday.

Copies of the letter were mailed to every Senator and Representative in the House of Representatives. "We oppose the so-called equal rights amendment because it disregards the fact that while men and women are equal in right, they are not identical in economic and social function or in physical capacity."

Miss Magee said other signers included Mrs. R. A. Angelo, president of the National Council of Catholic Women; Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, former Ambassador to Norway; Freda Kirchwey, editor of the Nation, and Mrs. Garrie Chapman Catt, veteran leader of the National American Women's Suffrage Association.

40 Per Cent Stepup Urged In U. S. Tea Allotment

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 19. — Benjamin Wood, managing director of the Tea Bureau, said yesterday the government should step up the United States' tea allotment by 40 per cent or more before December 31 to avert consumer shortages and to allow retailers to build up inventories.

He said a minimum increase of 20,000,000 pounds above the present 1943 allocation of 50,000,000 was essential, adding reports from India indicated stocks were sufficient to provide such an improvement if shipping were made available.

Mr. Wood said a second quarterly survey of stocks showed an estimated five months' supply of tea in the country.

Actual trade stocks at mid-year were about 11,000,000 pounds, compared with 11,000,000 on March 31, or sufficient to supply present restricted demand for about 2½ months.

An additional estimated 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 pounds, however, already has been allocated to the trade but not yet received, placing the stocks position equivalent to about a five months' supply.

13 Atlantic City Hotels Will Be Army Hospitals

By the Associated Press. The War Department disclosed yesterday that 13 Atlantic City (N. J.) hotels and the municipal auditorium will be transferred to the Surgeon General for use as convalescent hospitals.

The hotels are the Haddon Hall, Chalfonte, Cedarcroft, Keystone, New England, Warwick, Rydal, Ritz Carlton, Colton Manor, Ambassador, Dennis, Traymore and the Lafayette, etc.

All of these were taken over by the Army some time ago and have been used for other purposes.

New Potatoes Make Summertime Meals Hearty!

One thing is certain: We can't "keep going" at our best speed unless we keep our summertime meals hearty and really nutritious. One easy and economical way to do this is to serve potatoes in some form every day. Whether boiled, scalloped, in cream, sauted, or in combination with other foods as in salads and stews, potatoes appeal to and satisfy robust appetites. They contain vitamins A, B, C and G, as well as the minerals Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron.

COOKING NEW POTATOES—They need only to be scrubbed before cooking. Their highest concentration of minerals is close to the skin. If you prefer them peeled, peel thin. Cook potatoes about half covered with water—they need this much water to cook their starch grains. And by all means save this water for soups, sauces, or gravies because it contains so many vitamins.

POTATO SALAD—Cook 4 unpeeled medium-size potatoes in boiling water about 40 minutes. Drain, cool and peel. Slice or dice into large bowl. Add 2 diced hard-cooked eggs, 1/2 cup finely diced onion, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1/2 to 1 cup chopped sweet, sour, or dill pickle, and 1 to 2 cups mayonnaise, salad dressing, or boiled dressing. Chill about 2 hours. Serve 6. (Note: Salad may be varied by adding nut meats, celery, cheese, or leftover meats.)

What the Folks Back Home Are Thinking

What have members of Congress learned from the people back home during the summer recess?
The Star sent letters to Senators and Representatives in every section of the country, asking what their constituents had on their minds.
The answers have been interesting. Most of the members had no objection to being quoted. The letters of those who requested they be not quoted are published without their names.
Another installment of these letters is published here. Others will follow each day.
The letters published today were written by Representative Jennings Randolph, Democrat, of West Virginia, chairman of the House Committee on the District of Columbia, and Representative Charles E. Eaton, Republican, of New Jersey, ranking Republican member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Representative Randolph's letter follows:
"It is my considered judgment that citizens generally believe that Congress must participate actively in the planning of postwar measures. The executive heads should welcome the co-operation of the legislative branch in establishment of a policy of mutual understanding and responsibility with the nations of the world. I favor passage of the Fulbright resolution as the initial step.

Mr. Randolph.

"Our people are thinking in terms of the men and women who are serving on the fighting fronts of the world. We must place in motion effective programs to rehabilitate our returning armed forces. Job placement and assimilation into peacetime economy must be provided for approximately 8,000,000. Coupled with this tremendous undertaking comes the problem of transferring some 20,000,000 additional workers from war industry to other production. "Wise procedure must be followed in conversion of plants and equipment into private channels when mammoth defense contracts cease. Nationalization or Federal control of business must be stopped. Toward this desired end there must come trust between Government and commercial leadership.

Simpler Rationing Needed.
"There is need for further simplification of rationing and regulation. The American people are eager to comply on the home front, but they expect common sense to guide the orders. Congress may be called on to assist. Washington cannot ignore the ground swell of this problem.

"I believe that there is an excess of Federal employees. Last fall I urged that 250,000 individuals, at least, be eliminated. With the slackening of the war effort, reductions should be hastened. There will be strong demands to continue bureaus and agencies, but thinking Americans expect its Congress to act with courage. Governmental costs can and should be drastically pruned.

"We must check pressure groups. We must guard against selfish blocs. More consideration must be given to the welfare of people as a whole. Within Government itself there exists thousands who are subversive in action. Congress has made a start, which must be strengthened in striking from public payrolls those un-American elements.
"We must avoid 'made work' after victory comes, and the Federal process in which lesser political subdivisions will join must be constructive. A long overdue airport and highway building program should be set in motion.

"I do not care, at this time, to discuss possible presidential candidates. I have strong views on this subject, which I will frankly review at a later date. We need now less maneuvering for political reasons and more unity to accomplish at the earliest date the successful conclusion of a war which is sapping dangerously our physical, moral and spiritual resources. Wisdom in statecraft will be needed to a greater degree in preparing and keeping the peace than was necessary during hostilities.

Mr. Eaton's Letter.
Representative Eaton's letter: "The attitude of mind which I have found to be practical among my constituents is about as follows:
"First—There is a unanimous determination among all classes to win the war and to make all necessary sacrifices to that end.
"Second—There is very serious anxiety as to the rapidly mounting public debt and the increasing burden of taxation which will continue in carrying this debt after the war.
"Third—I have found practical unanimity as to proper treatment of our armed forces when peace comes, but my people as a whole seem to believe that the initiative ought to come from their Representatives in Congress rather than from the Executive. One of their expressed reasons for this attitude is the fear that this action may be used by the Executive for political purposes in 1944.

Public Confused.
"Beyond these considerations there seems to be a growing confusion, anxiety and unrest among the citizens wherever I go with reference to the existing confusion and un-American methods of the various bureaucracies in Washington in their dealing with the citizens. This particularly pertained upon the OPA.
"For example: Our people take the very sound and constitutional position that the gas rationing law ought to have been made to apply to every one equally throughout the country and not to penalize the citizens of the Eastern seaboard as against those of other sections.

They are particularly indignant as to what they describe as the Gestapo method of interfering with the private rights of the citizens by OPA officials in the use of their automobiles.
"They take the ground, with which I am personally in full accord, that there ought to be an allotment of whatever meager amount of gasoline that the authorities decide is available for each citizen and then, they ought to be left absolutely free as free Americans to use that small amount of gas anywhere, any way, anytime that they please. They register disapproval of the contradictory announcements made through the press day after day by various bureaucracies in Washington and especially by the absurd and frequently stupid directives sent out by starry-eyed economic planners in Washington which are calculated to weaken, if not destroy, American business.

"Personally, I am greatly reassured to find everywhere in my district these fundamental American positions consciously or unconsciously taken by my American fellow citizens."

Tomorrow letters will be published from Senator Raymond E. Willis, Republican, of Indiana and a Democratic Senator who has written "of the record."

Woman Gets Thanks For 'Picking' Pocket
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK—Arthur Gordon is one man who doesn't mind a woman going through his pockets.
Mrs. Azalia Miller, a dry-cleaning firm employe, did just that to a pair of Mr. Gordon's trousers sent to be cleaned and pressed. Out popped a bank roll of $1,300, which was returned to the grateful Mr. Gordon.

$1,000 Prize Heads Record List of Rosslyn Pin League

With the team championship worth $1,000 and second place $500 and the total prize list approximately $4,000, Rosslyn Independent League bowlers this season will battle for more dough than any other duckpin loop of its size in the history of Capital bowling.

Besides this unprecedented prize list for his 20-team suburban league which will open its 14th season early next month, Galt Davis, the Rosslyn Bowling Center chief, today announced that substantial prize increases will be made in all other leagues rolling at his nearby Virginia plant.

First place awards in the Building Supply and Arlington County loops will be $250 each, while the Rosslyn Ladies League champions will divide $200. The Rosslyn Merchants' League also will have a $200 top prize.

With $50 as the award, a galaxy of the city's leading curlers are expected to shoot it out for the Rosslyn Independent League individual title. Eddie Keith, defend-

Ort, Thomas, Poyner Share Season's Mermaid Honors

Jean Ort of the Shoreham Club and Leola Thomas and Helen Poyner of the Ambassador Club share honors as the Capital's top swimmer women swimmers this summer after last night's big wind-up meet at the Takoma pool. Miss Ort was a double winner in last night's AAU championships; Leola Thomas won one event and set a record, and Miss Poyner, while not a winner, scored points in three events to go with the two titles won in the recent A. Earle Weeks Memorial meet, a competition in which Misses Ort and Thomas also scored.

Miss Ort's victories in the 50 and 100 yard free-styles helped Shoreham to a team triumph in the women's events, as that club scored 29 points to the 26 registered by Ambassador. The men's team title went to Ambassador.

Miss Thomas' record was established in the 150-yard individual medley as she barely finished ahead of Ensign Helen Perry of the WYAMS, representing Shoreham, the former leader, in 2:02. Ensign Perry also put a record on the books as she defeated Miss Thomas, the former record holder, in the 100-yard backstroke. Time was 1 minute, 14 seconds.

Men's 50-yard free style—Won by J. La Salle (Ambassador); second, Budt Roland (unattached); third, Paul Buse (Ambassador); fourth, Fred Beckwe (unattached). Time, 1:28.5.

Men's 100-yard free style—Won by Jean Ort (Shoreham); second, Helen Poyner (Ambassador); third, Margaret Stone (Ambassador); fourth, Margaret Stone (Ambassador). Time, 2:01.4.

Men's 150-yard medley—Won by Leola Thomas (Ambassador); second, Helen Poyner (Shoreham); third, Betty Ross (Shoreham); fourth, Betty Ross (Shoreham). Time, 2:02.8 (new District of Columbia record of 2:02.8 set by Betty Ross in 1942).

Men's 200-yard free style—Won by Paul Smith (Ambassador); second, Edward Bennett (Washington Boys' Club); third, Ed Bennett (Washington Boys' Club); fourth, Ed Bennett (Washington Boys' Club). Time, 2:27.2.

Penn State's Outlook Rosy to Grid Coach

By the Associated Press.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Aug. 19.—Cornell, North Carolina and West Virginia went on Penn State's 1943 grid schedule today as Coach Bob Higgins began putting a squad of 75, most of them Navy and marine cadets, through preliminary training.

The Nittany Lions will meet North Carolina at Chapel Hill, N. C., October 2 instead of Georgia; West Virginia at State College, October 30, in place of Michigan State, and Cornell at Ithaca, November 6, instead of Syracuse. The changes were made, Higgins explained, because the other schools had curtailed or eliminated their football programs this year.

"I'm quite enthusiastic about what we have here," declared Higgins. He added he was thinking of "stenciling the names of the boys on their shirts so we'll all know each other," since there are so many strange faces among the cadets.

The returning regulars are Pvt. Bobby Williams of the marines, Seaman Red Moore of the Navy and Alder Conel, Johnny Higgins and Sparky Brown, all advanced ROTC men who returned to Penn State to await openings in officers' candidate schools.

Hard-Hitting Crackers To Test Grays Tonight

Atlanta Black Crackers baseball team brings a record of nine victories in its last ten games to Griffith Stadium tonight, where it meets the Washington Homestead Grays at 8:30 o'clock.

Listed as Atlanta's probable pitcher is Melvin (Sunny Jim) Echols, who recently turned in his 10th win of the season. The Grays may counter with Lefty Jones, a former Atlanta hurler. The Crackers feature a hard-hitting lineup with such sluggers as Harvey Young, George Fletcher and Judge Owens.

Manpower Lack Makes Santa Clara Quit Grid

By the Associated Press.

SANTA CLARA, Calif., Aug. 19.—The Santa Clara Broncos aren't going to play football this year because of a "shortage of manpower" and because Army trainees are prohibited from intercollegiate competition.

Army trainees make up 94 per cent of the men on the Santa Clara campus.

Men Drafted, Rockhurst Can't Play Football

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 19.—Rockhurst College has dropped football for the duration after arranging with Coach Lew Lane said was one of the most attractive schedules in the school's history.

The entire first and second squads have been lost to the draft leaving a "hopeless outlook," Lane said.

tenth victory, limited Chicago to nine hits. He was nicked for a run in the second inning and another in the fifth, while the Nats produced their other run in the third inning when Vernon walked, stole second and later scored on Early's single to right.

Dutch Leonard was to face the White Sox here today in an attempt to notch his ninth triumph, with Mickey Haetner slated to pitch the tomorrow's night game.

Winning Contract A Mixed Blessing

Possession of a partial score is sometimes a mixed blessing. The reduced trick requirement for game is, of course, highly advantageous, but as against this the selection of the right trump suit becomes more difficult, as does slam bidding. The fact that this difficulty is largely psychological does not make it any less real.

Both sides vulnerable.
North-South 40 on score.

The bidding:
North East South West
1♣ Pass 2♥ Pass
Pass (1) Pass

North was wrong, conventionally and logically, in passing to South's jump shift response. Conventionally, this type of response demands that the opener make at least one bid, regardless of the partial score. Logically, North should have wanted to rebid rather than have South in a contract that might not be secure. Presumably, South would not have "jumped" without a fit in North's suit, but North knew that he himself had no fit for South's suit. A six-diamond contract would have been easy to fulfill, but South actually went down at two hearts, and without playing very badly.

West led his singleton diamond. Declarer won with the king and laid down the ace and king of spades. To his horror, East ruffed and returned a diamond. West ruffed and shifted to the club eight. Desperately trying to prevent any more diamond ruffing, declarer put up the club ace and led trumps. As the cards lay he could have saved his contract by refusing the finesse—by cashing the ace, then leading a low trump to force out West's king—but declarer could not be expected to know just how the cards lay. Actually, he tried the finesse. West won with the king, cashed the club queen, then exited with a spade. Since East still held the J 10 9 of trumps against declarer's A 8 3, the defenders were assured of two more tricks, which were just enough to defeat the contract.

North-South's loss of 100 points was quite a "swing" from their potential profit at six diamonds!

Army Plane Plunges Into Home, Killing 3 Children and Pilot

By the Associated Press.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 19.—A collision of two P-38 Lightning interceptors sent one of the planes plummeting into the Linda Vista housing project yesterday, taking the lives of three children and an Army pilot.

The dead children were identified as Nicholas Schumacher, 5, and Margaret Schumacher, 3, children of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Schumacher, and Kathleen May Long, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Long.

The P-38s collided while maneuvering with a group of planes over San Diego. The pilot of one bailed out and suffered minor injuries. He was identified by the Army only as Lt. Harry L. Upchurch. His plane crashed into a canyon at the east end of Linda Vista, starting a small brush fire.

The other plane fell into that portion of a duplex occupied by Mr.

Gov. Dewey Leads in Poll Of 1944 GOP Delegates

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—James S. Kemper, insurance executive who is conducting a poll among delegates to the 1944 Republican National Convention to ascertain their choices for a 1944 nominee, reported yesterday that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York was in the lead.

Mr. Kemper said that Gen. Douglas MacArthur ran neck-and-neck with Gov. Dewey in early returns, but that Gov. Dewey moved out in front in later tabulations. Hesses, former Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota, Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, Gov. Earl Warren of California and Wendell Willkie, the 1940 standard bearer.

He said the poll still was incomplete and that replies now coming in may alter the "picture" somewhat. He disclosed no figures, but said he expected to make them public after the latest returns were tabulated within the next few days.

Among those mentioned in the poll—besides Gov. Dewey, Gen. MacArthur and Senator Taft—were Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, Gov. W. H. Green of Illinois, former President Herbert Hoover, Alf Landon, the 1936 nominee; Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, and Gov. Harold Stassen of

D. C. Banks to Send Large Delegation To ABA Conclave

Nearly every bank in Washington will be represented at the War Savings Meetings of the American Bankers Association in New York, September 13-15, it was indicated in the financial district today.

Final plans have been completed, an ABA announcement said. Economic phases of the bank's past year period and the role the banks will play in the future will feature the day program.

Sydney G. Hobson, vice president and general manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, is the latest addition to the program, his subject being "Canadian Banks in the War."

War finance and the domestic economy, inter-American fiscal policy, and international fiscal policy will draw speakers from North America, Central America and England, including Luis G. Segorria, president of the Mexican Bankers Association.

C. B. Upham, deputy controller of the currency will discuss "The National Banking System." Marcus Nadie, New York University, O. M. W. Sprague, director of the War Finance Division, and Dr. Harold G. Moulton, Brookings Institution, of Washington; Joseph C. Rovinsky, Chase National, who was connected with the Treasury for several months; and President Henry M. Wilson of Brown University, are among the many other speakers who will consider war problems in their relation to banking.

Hall Takes Treasury Post. Edward Hall, former president of the Investment Bankers Association of America, and president of Harris, Hall & Co., a Chicago firm, has been named to fill the duties in the Treasury as assistant director of the War Finance Division.

Sales of life insurance in Washington in July totaled $6,140,000, scoring a surprising gain of 35 per cent over July, 1942, when sales amounted to $4,407,000, it was reported by Sales Research Bureau at Hartford, today.

The record followed a 32 per cent decline in 1942, the best advance this year. Sales in the first seven months of 1943 amounted to $37,003,000 in Washington, which brought the year's business to within 2 per cent of last year's policy total for the same period.

Maryland made a still better record in July, sales of $12,066,000 being 41 per cent better than last year. The seven months' total of $68,799,000 was down 1 per cent.

Virginia reported a July gain of 37 per cent in new policies, which totaled $9,245,000. In the longer period sales reached $61,393,000, 3 per cent ahead of last year.

Regular Dividends Declared. Directors of the Lincoln Service Corp., industrial banking firm, have declared the regular dividend of 1 1/2 per cent on the 6 per cent cumulative participating preferred stock, it was announced today.

RADIO FORUM SPEAKERS—Social security problems were discussed by these Social Security Board officials last night on the National Radio Forum, arranged by The Star and broadcast over Station WMAL and the Blue Network. Participants were, left to right: Ewan Clague, director of the Bureau of Employment; Miss Jane Hoey, director of the Bureau of Public Assistance; and John J. Corson, director of the Bureau of Old Age and Survivors Insurance. —Star Staff Photo.

Forum Speakers Cite Need for Remedying Security Shortcomings

Our present unemployment insurance system will not be able to protect America's millions of civilian war workers and ex-service men and women in the readjustment period after the war, Ewan Clague, director of the Bureau of Employment Security, Social Security Board, said last night.

He spoke with two other Social Security Board officials, John J. Corson, director of old-age and survivor insurance, and Miss Jane Hoey, director of the Bureau of Public Assistance, on the National Radio Forum arranged by The Star and broadcast over Radio Station WMAL and the Blue Network.

"Indications are," said Mr. Clague, "that our present system will not be able to meet the (postwar) test unless changes are made."

Mr. Clague first listed the reasons and then the changes recommended by the board.

48 State Systems.

"First of all," he said, "our present system, which is really 49 different State systems, just won't be able to pay all the benefits to which persons are entitled if there is as much unemployment at the end of the war as is expected.

"If all the money already accumulated and being accumulated for unemployment payments were in one great fund, there would probably be enough to go around. But the money is divided into 48 separate State reserve funds. Some of them are larger than others and we can't make certain that most unemployment will occur in the States which have the most money to pay benefits."

Second reason cited by Mr. Clague was that many persons are not covered by the unemployment insurance law of the State in which they are now working, or were working before they went into military service. He also cited the 10 to 15 duration of payments to 26 weeks to persons unemployed that long."

Age Case Cited.

He said that at present only 100,000 persons are drawing unemployment insurance and most of these for only short periods.

Mr. Corson cited an ideal instance of the workings of old age insurance—a man whom rheumatism was retiring from the lathe. He found he could get $32 a month. His wife, over 65, was entitled to an additional $16. With $48 a month he decided to step aside for some younger person, who would not lose time at the lathe through rheumatism.

"We are proud of what old-age and survivors insurance has accomplished so far," said Mr. Corson. "But our pride does not blind us to two important shortcomings of this program."

The first shortcoming, he said, was the number of workers not covered, which he put at 20,000,000 for the most part the same groups mentioned by Mr. Clague.

"The second," Mr. Corson said, "is failure to provide social insurance payments when a worker is permanently disabled. When a man becomes so ill or disabled that he can never work again, the effect on the family income is just as bad as if he were too old to work or if he had died.

"In fact, it is worse because permanently but there is additional expense to meet because of his illness."

Aid Denied Many.

"The board has proposed, therefore, that insurance protection be provided against permanent disability."

Miss Hoey said there are now many people all over the country who cannot be helped by public assistance funds because they do not happen to be 65 years old, or blind, or because they do not come within the definition of dependent children, or because they haven't lived in a particular State long enough. She said the board has recommended that the Federal Government be allowed to help the States take care of any person who needs assistance. It has also recommended that proportionately larger grants be allowed to the poorer States, she added.

She outlined two other recommendations. "The first," she said, "concerns medical care for persons receiving public assistance. At present, individuals must pay for

Easy Does It — Kitchen Hint

1 Smelly garbage pail? That's bad anywhere, but especially if you live in a crowded neighborhood, trailer or lodging house. Because odors and decaying food attract flies, and flies may spread disease germs.

2 Empty garbage pail and pour in water. Then add 2 1/2 tablespoons of Lysol disinfectant to each gallon of water. Wash pail clean of food particles and unseen germs, with long-handled brush. Let dry in sun.

3 Nice thing about this powerful germicide . . . Lysol gets rid of odors, too. Soapy in nature, makes cleaning easier. Many hospitals disinfect with Lysol. Try it!

4 Lysol costs little because it's so concentrated—you dilute it for use. Get Lysol today, at any drug counter. Oper. 1942, by Loh & Puh Products Corp.

Action to Assure Livestock Feed Pledged by CCC

Liquidation of Herds Pictured as Alternative in Parley on Situation

Farmers in the drought-stricken States near the Nation's Capital today had assurance of Federal aid in preventing wholesale liquidation of livestock due to reductions in essential feed crops.

At a meeting of farm leaders from Maryland, Virginia, Delaware and West Virginia yesterday, H. Hutson, president of the Commodity Credit Corp., said immediate steps would be taken to bring into the area hay and grain needed to forestall widespread reductions in present livestock numbers.

Pointing out that "thousands of farmers" are facing a "catastrophe" due to the feed shortage, and that a serious reduction in food production will result, farm leaders requested the War Food Administration through the CCC to allocate increased quantities of grain and protein supplements to meet the "imperative" needs of the drought area.

CCC also was asked to purchase and distribute, through co-operators "and/or" private agencies, sufficient amounts of hay to meet emergency needs, at prices "commensurate" with price ceilings on milk, meat and other livestock.

Slaughtering Increase Asked. Farm leaders said increased liquidation of livestock is inevitable unless farmers in the drought area can obtain at least 200,000 tons of hay and not less than 600,000 tons of grain in addition to their normal purchases of both these feeds.

Leaders also urged that slaughtering quotas be increased to "enable liquidation of livestock, which will be necessary in the drought area regardless of other relief measures, without disastrously low prices." The Government also was asked to pursue a "policy designed to avoid forced liquidation of dairy cattle."

In view of the "tremendous" losses suffered by farmers in the drought area, amounting to "at least $50,000,000," it was said, some governmental action was asked toward reducing the cost of added grain and hay that must be purchased in consequence of drought losses.

Mr. Hutson told farm leaders, the CCC had purchased about 35,000,000 bushels of corn, sorghum, and August 15, and had distributed all but three or four million bushels to corn processing industries. He said CCC was in a position to move some of this corn into the drought area, provided that transportation facilities could be worked out.

Beauty Winner, 5 Fights Leukemia With Cheerfulness

ORA MAE CARVER.

The only answer Ora Mae Carver, 5-year-old winner of 14 District beauty contests and judged to be the fifth most beautiful baby in America in 1939, has to all the blood transfusions, pills and medicines she has to take is, "Put a top on my head and I'll be a pill bottle."

Ora Mae, who is suffering from an acute leukemia, is reported to be in a serious condition at Providence Hospital. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Carver, 1728 Minnesota avenue S.E., she has been ill since May and confined to the hospital intermittently since that time.

A favorite with the hospital staff, Ora Mae for the past year has been one of the most popular attractions at USO centers throughout the city, where she has entertained soldiers with her acrobatic and tap dancing.

Never Sick Previously. Never before sick for even a day, the youngster has long blond curls and wide blue eyes. When asked to show just where the blood transfusions have been made, she stretches out two tiny but chubby arms faintly marked at the elbows with many blue dots.

She quite used to these blood transfusions by now. For the most part she is cheerful and spends a large part of the time painting pictures in several large color books her parents have brought her. However, the other day when she was quite ill she refused to speak to any one and later explained to her mother that she was tired and the doctor had told her to keep quiet.

Among her most faithful daily visitors are the Sisters at the hospital for whom she sings, while gazing raptly at her mother for assistance. "Coming in on a Wing and a Prayer" and "Jesus Loves Me" Ora Mae, who was in the kindergarten at Ketchum Grammar School, also was a faithful Sunday school student.

Since she began attending Sunday School three years ago, she had only missed one Sunday. She liked to teach the other children at the school the church songs she knows, among which "Jesus Loves Me" is her favorite. At home, Mrs. Carver said, Ora Mae was a great help around the house. She could wash and wipe dishes as well as any grown-up and just recently was learning to bake cookies.

Barrage Balloon To Be Featured At Army Show

Big 'Sausages' Kept Dive Bombers at Bay Over Great Britain

An unusual feature of the Army's contribution to the Third War Bond drive—an exhibit of our armed might on the Washington Monument Grounds beginning September 9—will be a barrage balloon.

Balloons of this type proved a big factor in London's defense against the Nazi blitz. By experience the Germans learned they could not fly low for strafing purposes. Not only did cables keep the Luftwaffe from piercing this defense, but the presence of these floating "sausages" enabled the British to concentrate heavy anti-aircraft fire against the invader.

Inflicted with helmets, the balloons are operated and controlled by a ground winch. Surveys Completed. The spectacle will be a joint Army-Treasury affair, the Army handling the purely military features and the Treasury sponsoring a war bond drive and entertainment program daily.

Construction of a grandstand and stage for the Army's "Back the Attack" exhibition will be started today if lumber arrives. Col. Clarence Renshaw, Corps of Engineers, has representative on the site. As rapidly as plans are received, his office will put them into effect, Col. Renshaw said.

Surveys have completed drawings and space allocations have been made. The Air Force will have the largest space of any single Army section, with captured enemy planes on exhibit as well as American equipment. Stage to Face Arena. The stands will be 137 feet long, a stage 26 feet high and 23 feet wide will face an arena, which is to be lighted by cables kept by the Luftwaffe from piercing this defense.

When tanks, planes, artillery, and other military equipment are placed on exhibit, Uncle Sam will be treating Washington area residents to a sight seldom made available to civilians. The Treasury Department, co-operating with the War Department in drawing off the guard, will purchase to help fighting men at the front, will have a short program each day and night, featuring entertainers from the motion picture, radio and theatrical world.

War bond booths will be placed on the grounds. Before the 12-day exhibition is concluded, Washington's entire population shall have had opportunity to inspect the Army show, officials said today. Four Army Bands to Play. War weapons costing hundreds of thousands of dollars will be displayed during the night and day of the exhibit.

Music will be furnished, alternately, by four Army bands during the big bond-selling drive. Another highly interesting daily feature will be the playing of the White House military police, a colorful ceremony which will be staged on the Monument grounds. Bond Sales Unhindered By Taxes, Margenthaou Says

Secretary of the Treasury Margenthaou expressed further satisfaction today with War bond sales and reported that every check the Treasury has made indicates pay-as-you-go taxes have not interfered with bond purchases.

Victory Gardeners Receive Rewards

Presentation of prizes was the climax of the Victory garden contest among 400 employees of the Census-Navy Hydrographic Offices at Suitland. Receiving prizes (left to right) are Rear Admiral G. S. Bryan, in behalf of Hydrographic Office for second place in best group of gardens; Roy Pier, second in original garden group; James H. Graves, first prize winner in the standard garden event; Bertha N. Gustafson, first prize winner in women's division; Howard H. Saxton, winner with Roy J. Stewart, absent, of original garden contest; Philip Hauser, assistant director of Census Bureau, master of ceremonies, and Zellmer R. Pettet, receiving Agriculture Division prize for first place in groups of gardens.

Back From the Wars Veteran of 50 Bomber Raids Describes U.S. Attack on Convoy Maryland Flyer Says He Was 'Too Foolish' To Be Afraid on His First Mission

"I was too foolish to be afraid the first time I went on a bombing raid," Technical Sgt. Claude J. Blackwell, 33, of 5500 Landover road, Landover, Md., said today. He has just returned to Washington from Africa, after participating in 50 raids.

"I was anxious to get at the enemy," he went on. "I made me lose all sense of danger. We made a raid against a troop convoy going along a winding road that looked like a piece of moving black thread from 6 miles up. A couple of fighters came at us, but nothing else happened in that action. Maybe that was the reason I wasn't frightened until later."

The flight that did scare me was an attack against a sea convoy of three troop ships and two destroyers. We had 16 planes, and when we reached the convoy, 35 enemy fighters sprung on us like a nest of hornets. We kept moving ahead on the plane and his the escort and the bomb run in spite of the way these yellow-nosed planes buzzed in, took some shots at us, and whizzed away. They came so close we could see the faces of the pilots. Tail Gunner Hit. "One of them came in on the right wing of the plane and hit the tail gunner's position of wobbled for a moment in the air, and then started to plunge down with smoke and flame shooting from the engine."

In the meantime another plane had gotten our tail gunner, Gallery. He was hit badly. I cried back to him and gave him first aid while he was still in the air. Stories of Veterans Wanted by Star For Publication This is another of a series of interviews with men from the Washington area who have returned from overseas duty. mannng the gun. It was tough and go all the way back, and I don't mind saying my knees felt like water when I got out of the plane. "People in Europe are different from us," the Eastern High School graduate said, "but the French girls in Africa are closest to the American girls in the way they dress, act and dance. They get on to our style of dancing very quickly, though their inability to speak English is a handicap."

Smiled at Criticism. "I danced with a girl and said to her that she caught on to the jive very well, and she smiled. I then followed up and told the next one she was a good number, and she smiled. Finally, after pushing a fat girl around, I said sweetly, 'You're graceful as a Mack truck!' and she smiled. "The Arabs were the most unusual people. They gathered around us to sell oranges whenever we showed up with G. I. underwear or old barracks bags. One old fellow took one of my bags in exchange for a basket of oranges. He cut two holes in the bag, tied the top around his waist and strutted away as though he had just bought a new suit of clothes."

Returned in Four Days. He was anxious to get home, Sgt. Blackwell said, and made the trip in four days. "Columbus and his crew never looked more anxiously for a sign of America than we did. Some of the fellows jumped out and kissed the ground when we landed, and all of us salaamed to and 17 will be opened September 1 at Boyce School near Sperryville, Va. This camp will house 100 adults and 100 youths. All of the adult farm hands and half of the high school boys will be recruited in the District, he said. The remainder will come from the Sperryville vicinity.

Civilian Defense Drive Enrolls 5,736 Recruits

Campaign Will Be Continued Until September 10

District civilian defense officials today announced 5,736 new workers were enrolled in the recent intensive recruiting campaign that was highlighted by a parade and pageant. While the goal for additional recruits has been placed at 20,000, Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of the District Civilian Defense Department, said he was pleased with the results and felt sure additional volunteers would sign up. He said he felt the campaign also had served to revive interest in defense work among the 50,000 workers previously enlisted.

Drive Continues to September 10. Capt. Whitehurst announced the recruiting campaign would be continued to September 10. The District government was the source of the largest number of new volunteers. The drive brought in 1,847 new volunteers from the municipal establishment. Next highest was the air-raid warden service, which signed up 1,874. Edward A. Dent, District assessor, who served as chairman of the District general Participation Committee reported today to Frank A. Smith, general chairman of the third anniversary District Civilian Defense recruitment campaign, that he was gratified with the response that had come from city government workers.

5,000 Questionnaires Sent Out. He said some 6,000 questionnaires had been mailed to District government employees, not including police, firemen and school teachers, 100 per cent of whose personnel already was engaging in defense work, the staffs of the penal institutions and other specialized agencies whose employees would not be available for general civilian defense operations. Mr. Dent said final returns on the questionnaires showed that 2,248 of the District government workers surveyed already were engaged in civilian defense work; that 1,117 replied they did not desire to enroll and that 1,985 had signed enlistment forms. He calculated that nearly 80 per cent either had enlisted or were engaged in civilian defense work.

3,000 Donors Weekly Set As Goal of Center Here A quota of 3,000 donors weekly has been set by the American Red Cross for their new Blood Donor Center in process at the corner of 15th and 51 Louisiana avenue N.W. It was announced today. Included in this figure are 1,200 pints which the mobile unit, composed of two trucks, is expected to furnish. The center, equipped to handle 500 donors daily, is staffed with 5 Army and Navy doctors, 53 salaried employees and from 50 to 60 volunteer workers every day. Since the beginning of the Red Cross plasma program two years ago, 88,217 residents from the District of Columbia, Virginia and West Virginia have given their blood. Individuals should make appointments 24 hours in advance and large groups two or three days ahead by calling District 3300. Prospective donor may even have breakfast—just avoid greasy or fatty foods.

Woman Gardener Wins Prize Despite Drought and Vandals Mrs. Bertha Gustafson Proves Perseverance Can Pay Dividends Because she persevered, Mrs. Bertha N. Gustafson, 3869 Alabama avenue S.E., enjoyed the thrill of hearing her name called yesterday as winner of a $25 War bond and first place in the women's garden division among several hundred Census Bureau-Navy Garden Club contestants. Youthful vandals and drought did not deter her. With her husband, she cultivated their 15 by 50 foot plot at Suitland. Because they were able to get gasoline for gardening purposes, their work also provided recreation, and tending the crop proved good exercise. Other Winners Get Bonds. Sharing top honors with Mrs. Gustafson were James H. Graves, 1614 Seventeenth street N.W., winner of the standard garden prize, and the team of Howard H. Saxton, 1534 Newton street N.E., and Roy J. Stewart, 1009 Park road N.W., winners of the original garden award. Each division was awarded a $25 War bond.

The award helped convince Mrs. Gustafson, who is hardly a veteran gardener, that gardening is her favorite pastime henceforth. "We counted up the value of our crop, based on retail prices, and figured we ate about $16 worth of produce from our plot," she said. "We also were able to can 35 pounds of green peas, beans, lima beans and some tomatoes. Next year I'll be back working on another crop." To get off to a good start, Mrs. Gustafson took two half-days from annual leave to plant her crop. Then she averaged about two nights a week cultivating it. During the recent dry spell she hauled water to irrigate the plot. Winner Born on Farm. The other major winners might be termed veteran gardeners. Mrs. Gustafson, for example, was born on a farm on the James River near Richmond, Va. He said he appreciated winning the $25 War bond but the biggest thing he got out of his 30 by 50-foot plot was the fun he had. "None of us went into Victory Gardens in the hope of winning prizes. We, instead, kept in good physical condition and watched our growing crops with a degree of pride, a pride that wasn't lessened when we were able to eat fresh vegetables."

Asked the formula for raising a prize crop, Mrs. Gustafson laughingly said, "A mixture of perseverance and perhaps 1 per cent inspiration. For example, I think the judge's attention was drawn to my plot because of the soy bean border I placed around it." Mr. Saxton Long a "Farmer." Mr. Saxton was so much interested in agriculture as far back as 1904 that he and a cousin went to the World's Fair in St. Louis on profits derived from a truck garden. He modestly disclaimed any credit, bestowing it on his cousin, partner, Mr. Stewart. The latter used the same hoe with which he worked a garden in Potomac Park during World War I. "He literally loves that old hoe," Mr. Saxton remarked. What had been lush fields of green in May have become scorched by the protracted dry spell. But the some 400 Federal employees who kept up their gardens to the end, out of 524 who originally staked out plots, derived the satisfaction of seeing it through. Dr. Phillip Hauser, assistant director of the Census Bureau, and Rear Admiral G. S. Bryan of the Navy Hydrographic Office emphasized in presenting the awards. Agricultural Agent E. C. Clarke of Prince Georges County told of the part food is destined to play in the winning of the war, and urged all contestants to work gardens next year. Other prizes awarded were: Original Garden Prize. Howard A. Saxon and Roy J. Stewart, $25; Roy Pier, $10; Ensign Louis Prahar, $5; J. N. Hutcheson, $3; Snider W. Skinner, $1. Standard Garden Prize. James H. Graves, $25; John A. McKnight, $10; L. C. Elgin, $5; James Thomas, $3; Zellmer R. Pettet, $1. Women's Garden Prize. Bertha N. Gustafson, $25; Mary C. P-C Airlines Chief Urges Planning Now For Jobs After War

Kutz Is Given Scroll Citing Washington as World's 'Victory City'

Declaring that returning American soldiers will not want work relief, Government handouts or unemployment insurance, but jobs for which they have been trained, C. Bedell Monro, president of Pennsylvania-Central Airlines, today called on the Nation to borrow the vision and drive of aviation in planning the postwar economy. Speaking at a luncheon of the Junior Board of Commerce, Mr. Monro said the country's greatest single responsibility, apart from its efforts to win the war, is "to plan now to win the peace at home."

His address followed a ceremony at which District Commissioner Charles W. Kutz was presented a scroll honoring Washington as the No. 1 Victory City of the world. Government Help Needed. American business is free to compete and thus free to invent and develop," must solve the problem, Mr. Monro said, declaring Government cannot do it, although its whitehearted co-operation will be necessary in the work. Narrowing his subject to the field of aviation, the speaker pointed out that only solid, long-range planning now will save the industry from complex employment problems when men in uniform are mustered out of service.

"There are actually two 'tomorrows' with which we are concerned," he said. "The first is the immediate postwar period and the second the later postwar period." Absorption of thousands of technicians, pilots, mechanics, radio operators, navigators, meteorologists and others trained by the military into civil positions can be met by "over-all but regulation expansion," he said. The speaker told his listeners that means charity, relief, disillusionment, bitterness—all the old evils again, all the evils against which we must plan and must prepare," he said.

The three things to guard against in this planning, Mr. Monro said, are the creation of an air transport monopoly in the foreign field, the projected invasion of the air world by surface carriers seeking a gigantic monopoly in the field of national transportation and destructive, mushroom growths without adequate Federal control and regulation.

D. C. Health Officials To Weigh Ending of Day Milk Routes

Preventive Measures Seen Advisable to Avoid Illness Among Children

Whether daytime milk deliveries should be abandoned to avoid spreading disease will be determined by a investigation by District health authorities, it was decided yesterday after a conference between Health Department officers, dairymen and representatives of the District Medical Society and the Office of Defense Transportation. Health Department records fail to show an abnormal increase in throat infections and gastro-intestinal ills among infants and small children using milk, but Dr. George C. Ruhland, District health officer, deemed it advisable to take preventive steps. Principal advocate of the return to night milk deliveries was Dr. William De Kleine, chairman of the medical society's Public Health Committee. He attributed much spoilage to milk left at homes where working mothers were not present to provide proper refrigeration.

Responsibility for the day-time delivery order was denied by William M. Tobin of the local ODT office, who said dairy officials had voluntarily inaugurated the present system 19 months ago when it became necessary to conserve tires and gasoline. Daytime deliveries made it possible for drivers to collect monthly bills while serving milk, thereby avoiding a return trip. Mr. Tobin said his office has a plan to put into effect within two weeks to co-ordinate regional deliveries to the milkshed here, but indicated that the method of home deliveries was for dairies to decide. Dairy spokesmen denied there had been many complaints about milk spoilage under the present system, and said that any attempt to revert to night-time deliveries would create a serious manpower problem. Records of almost 8,000 babies cared for in local medical clinics showed no increase in ailments attributable to spoiled milk, but Dr. Ella Oppenheimer, director of maternal and infant welfare, pointed out that canned milk was recommended for dairies to decide.

Sharp Improvement Noted as Result of Cleanliness Drive

A sharp improvement in sanitary conditions in grocery stores and eating places has been noted as a result of the drive to clean up such establishments, the Health Department reported today. Health Officer Dr. George C. Ruhland said his office had received the wholehearted support of the Washington Restaurant Association and other groups in its efforts to stamp out disease-breeding conditions. Grocery chains and wholesale dealers also were joining in the campaign, he said, circulating pamphlets urging store owners to clean up their establishments and instructing them in particular points to observe.

Says Courts Are Aid. The current drive does not mark a new intensification of the Health Department's efforts to maintain sanitary conditions, however, Dr. Ruhland said. He declared the department has waged an unrelenting battle against uncleanness but that the courts recent action forcing accused grocers and restaurant owners to stand trial on charges had lent added force to the drive. Another important factor, he said, was the discontinuation of the District government's practice of issuing licenses to stores over the Health Department's objections. Grocers Fined. Meanwhile, the drive to stamp out insanitary conditions in groceries gained momentum in Municipal Court yesterday when four grocers were cited on health violation charges. In addition, two restaurant owners were fined on health violation charges. During the last month the emphasis in the campaign against health violators dealing in food has been on restaurants. This week, however, seven grocers have faced court action on health violation charges. Two grocers yesterday were fined $25 each for failing to keep their floors clean and two others were permitted to forfeit to appear for trial.

Defendants Listed. Those fined and the charges are: Isaac Louis Asrael, 5504 Fourteenth street N.W., "many gnats and flies, trash and garbage on floor of basement"; Philip Steink, 2403 Benning road N.E., "uncovered garbage cans in rear yard which contained decomposed chicken." Forfeiting collateral were David Gilbert, 1700 First street N.W., "many flies in store, and on fruit, many pies and in meat case"; William Booth, 5507 Fourteenth street N.W., "large pile of garbage and trash in basement of store." Fines of $25 were imposed on restaurateurs Max A. Bassin, 811 Market place N.W., and Thomas Lalehas, 239 Fourth street S.W.

Marines to Spend Free Days Working on Farms in Fairfax Two marines stationed at Quantico will spend their free days each week as farm workers in Fairfax County, Va., as part of the campaign to recruit harvest workers in the District, said today. Mr. Jones said the marines, Corporal William R. Imor and Corporal Alfred H. Daniels, volunteered yesterday because they said they thought they could spend their free days to best advantage as harvest hands. They will work two and four days a week on alternate weeks. Meanwhile, Mr. Jones said at least 150 Washington vacationists will be needed for work on nearby farms between now and September, he said. Fifteen harvest workers must be recruited this week for farms in the county, he said, and an additional 75 will be sent to the labor camp at Timberville, Va., by September 1. Mr. Jones said a new labor camp for adults and youths between 15

Liquidation of Herds Pictured as Alternative In Parley on Situation

Farmers in the drought-stricken States near the Nation's Capital today had assurance of Federal aid in preventing wholesale liquidation of livestock due to reductions in essential feed crops.

At a meeting of farm leaders from Maryland, Virginia, Delaware and West Virginia yesterday, J. E. Henson, president of the Commodity Credit Corp., said immediate steps would be taken to bring into the area hay and grain needed to prevent widespread reductions in present livestock numbers.

Pointing out that "thousands of farmers" are facing a "catastrophe" due to the feed shortage, and that a serious reduction in food production will result, farm leaders requested the War Food Administration through the CCC to allocate increased quantities of grain and protein supplements to meet the "imperative" needs of the drought area.

CCC also was asked to purchase and distribute, through co-operative and/or private agents, sufficient amounts of hay to meet emergency needs, at prices "commensurate" with price ceilings on milk, meat and other livestock.

Slaughtering Increase Asked. Farm leaders said increased liquidation of livestock is inevitable unless farmers in the drought area can obtain at least 200,000 tons of hay and not less than 600,000 tons of grain in addition to their normal purchases of both these feeds.

Leaders also urged that slaughtering quotas be raised temporarily at local markets to meet the emergency needs of livestock, which will be necessary in the drought area regardless of other relief measures, without disastrously low prices.

The Government also was asked to pursue a "policy designed to avoid forced liquidation of dairy herds." In view of the "tremendous" losses suffered by farmers in the drought area, amounting to "at least $50,000,000," it was said, some governmental assistance was asked toward reducing the cost of added grain and hay that must be purchased in consequence of drought losses.

Transfusions Sustain Life Of Girl, 5, Known for Beauty

The only answer Ora Mae Carver, 5-year-old winner of 14 District beauty contests and judged to be the fifth most beautiful baby in America in 1939, has to all the blood transfusions, pills and medicines she has to take is, "Put a top on my head and I'll be a bottle."

Ora Mae, who is suffering from an acute leukemia, is reported to be in a serious condition at Providence Hospital. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Carver, 1728 Minnesota avenue S.E., she has been ill since May and confined to the hospital intermittently since that time.

County Councils Plan Studied In Maryland

Action Would Ease Congestion During Assembly Sessions

By the Associated Press. BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 18.—A proposal to create councils for each of the 23 Maryland counties to enact purely local laws and thereby relieve some of the congestion during the sessions of the State's General Assembly was under consideration by the Legislative Council today.

After a prolonged debate, Senator James J. Lindsay, Democrat, of Baltimore, newly-elected chairman of the council, announced he would appoint a subcommittee to study the proposal.

Two vacancies were filled by the council in yesterday's session, the second adjournment of the 1943 Legislature.

Mr. Brice, who resigned recently to take up his duties as a member of the Public Service Commission, was replaced by Senator John B. Funk, Democrat, of Frederick and the vacancy caused by the election of Former Delegate Gordon was filled by William F. Strohmeyer, Democrat, of Anne Arundel.

At home, Mrs. Carver said, Ora Mae was a great help around the house. She could wash and wipe dishes as well as any grown-up and just recently was learning to bake cookies.

For the past several days she has had a great longing for Italian spaghetti and yesterday her father promised to bring her some in the afternoon.

"I have to have it in the daytime," she explained, "because I have to have medicine at night."

Sharp Improvement Noted as Result of Cleanliness Drive

Restaurant Association, Grocery Chains Aiding, Dr. Ruhland Says

A sharp improvement in sanitary conditions in grocery stores and eating places has been noted as a result of the drive to clean up such establishments, the Health Department reported today.

Health Officer Dr. George C. Ruhland said his office had received the wholehearted support of the Washington Restaurant Association and other groups in its efforts to stamp out disease-breeding conditions.

Sharing top honors with Mrs. Gustafson were James H. Graves, 1814 Seventeenth street N.W., winner of the standard garden prize, and the team of Howard H. Saxton, 1594 Newton street N.E., and Roy J. Stewart, 1000 Park road N.W., winners of the original garden award.

Another important factor, he said, was the discontinuation of the District government's practice of issuing licenses to stores over the Health Department's objections. It was the practice several years ago, he said, for applicants to make deposits of $25 to $50 in advance of time, legally binding the District to issue operating licenses whether or not the places were approved by health officers.

Meanwhile, the drive to stamp out insanitary conditions in groceries gained momentum in Municipal Court yesterday when four grocers were cited on health violation charges. In addition, two restaurant owners were fined on health violation charges.

Those fined and the charges are: Isaac Louis Asrael, 5504 Fourteenth street N.W., "many gnats and flies, trash and garbage on floor of basement"; Philip Steine, 2403 Benning road N.E., "uncovered garbage cans in rear yard which contained decomposed chicken."

Forfeiting collateral were David Gilbert, 1700 First street N.W., "many flies in store, and on fruit, cans, pies, and in a meat case"; William B. Brown, 3503 Fourteenth street N.W., "large pile of garbage and trash in basement of store."

Woman Victory Gardener Wins Prize Despite Drought, Vandals

Mrs. Bertha Gustafson Enjoys Thrill When Perseverance Brings Her Award

Because she persevered, Mrs. Bertha N. Gustafson, 3809 Alabaster avenue S.E., enjoyed the thrill of hearing her name called yesterday as winner of a $25 War bond and first place in the women's garden division among several hundred Census Bureau-Navy Garden Club contestants.

Youthful vandals and drought did not deter her. With her husband, she cultivated their 1 1/2 by 50 foot plot at Suttland. "Because they were able to get gasoline for gardening purposes, their work also provided recreation, and tending the crop proved good exercise."

The award helped convince Mrs. Gustafson, who is hardly a veteran gardener, that gardening is her favorite pastime henceforth.

"We counted up the value of our crop based on retail prices, and figured we ate about $16 worth of produce from our plot," she said. "We also were able to can 25 plants of green peas, lima beans and some tomatoes. Next year I'll be back working on another crop."

To get off to a good start, Mrs. Gustafson had two half-days from annual leave to plant the garden. Then she averaged about two nights a week cultivating it. During the recent dry spell she hauled water to irrigate the plot.

Winner Born on Farm. The other major winners might be termed veteran gardeners. Mr. Graves, for example, was born on a farm on the James River near Richmond, Va. He said he appreciated winning the $25 War bond but the biggest thing he got out of his 30 by 50-foot plot was the fun he had.

Sharp Improvement Noted as Result of Cleanliness Drive

Restaurant Association, Grocery Chains Aiding, Dr. Ruhland Says

A sharp improvement in sanitary conditions in grocery stores and eating places has been noted as a result of the drive to clean up such establishments, the Health Department reported today.

Health Officer Dr. George C. Ruhland said his office had received the wholehearted support of the Washington Restaurant Association and other groups in its efforts to stamp out disease-breeding conditions.

Sharing top honors with Mrs. Gustafson were James H. Graves, 1814 Seventeenth street N.W., winner of the standard garden prize, and the team of Howard H. Saxton, 1594 Newton street N.E., and Roy J. Stewart, 1000 Park road N.W., winners of the original garden award.

Another important factor, he said, was the discontinuation of the District government's practice of issuing licenses to stores over the Health Department's objections. It was the practice several years ago, he said, for applicants to make deposits of $25 to $50 in advance of time, legally binding the District to issue operating licenses whether or not the places were approved by health officers.

Meanwhile, the drive to stamp out insanitary conditions in groceries gained momentum in Municipal Court yesterday when four grocers were cited on health violation charges. In addition, two restaurant owners were fined on health violation charges.

Barrage Balloon To Be Featured At Army Show

Big 'Sausages' Kept Dive Bombers' Bay Over Great Britain

An unusual feature of the Army's contribution to the Third War Bond drive—an exhibit of our armed might on the Washington Monument Grounds beginning September 9—will be a barrage balloon.

Balloons of this type proved a big factor in London's defense against the Nazi blitz. By experience the Germans learned they could not fly low for strafing purposes. Not only did cables keep the Luftwaffe from piercing this defense, but the presence of these floating "sausages" enabled the British to concentrate heavy antiaircraft fire against the invader.

Inflated with helium, the balloons are operated and controlled by a ground winch.

The spectacle will be a joint Army-Treasury affair. The Army handling the purely military features and the Treasury sponsoring a war bond message and entertainment program daily.

Construction of a grandstand and steps for the Army's "Back the Attack" exhibition will be started today if lumber arrives.

Col. Clarence Renshaw, Corps of Engineers, has a representative on the site. As rapidly as plans are received, his office will put them into effect, Col. Renshaw said.

Surveys have completed drawings and space allocations have been made. The Air Forces will have the largest space of any single Army section, with captured enemy planes on exhibit as well as American equipment.

D. C. Health Officials To Weigh Ending of Day Milk Routes

Preventive Measures Seen Advisable to Avoid Illness Among Children

Whether daytime milk deliveries should be abandoned to avoid spoilage will be determined by an investigation by District health authorities, it was decided yesterday after a conference between Health Department officers, dairymen and representatives of the District Medical Society and the Office of Defense Transportation.

Health Department records fail to show an abnormal increase in throat infections and gastro-intestinal ills among infants and small children using milk, but Dr. George C. Ruhland, District health officer, deemed it advisable to take preventive steps.

Principal advocate of the return to night milk deliveries was Dr. William De Kleine, chairman of the medical society's Public Health Committee. He attributed much spoilage to milk left at homes where working mothers were not present to provide proper refrigeration.

Silver Spring Man Dies In Crash of Bomber Near El Paso, Texas

Just as they were preparing to welcome him home on his first furlough, Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Giusta of 703 Wayne avenue, Silver Spring, were notified yesterday that their son, Sergt. Joseph T. Giusta, had been killed in a bomber crash near El Paso, Tex.

Mr. Giusta said his son was to have left Diggs Field tonight for his first visit home since he entered the Army Air Forces last November. He said reservations had been made for the trip from Texas on an airplane.

Sergt. Giusta, a radio operator and gunner, was among 12 crewmen killed when their bomber crashed while on a routine flight about 30 miles from El Paso, Mr. Giusta was informed by the War Department.

Virginia Plans to Curb Overloading of Trucks

By the Associated Press. RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 19.—A second conference is planned soon by highway officials with the Commission of Trial Justices to co-operate with the Governor on law enforcement, to study the problem of overloaded trucks using Virginia highways in violation of State laws.

At a meeting held here yesterday the trial justices heard facts relating to overloading of trucks and the resultant damage to highways.

Burton Mays, traffic and planning engineer of the State Highway Department, stated that round-the-clock checking on overloading had caused a considerable reduction in violation.

Army Physicians Find New Disease in Texas Transmitted by Ticks

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—A new disease called bulls fever, which was found in Texas and apparently is transmitted by a tick, is described in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The report was made by Col. John C. Woodland, Maj. Mordcaai M. McDowell and Capt. John T. Richards of the Army medical Corps, who said the disease was first recognized at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

They said the disease resembles Colorado tick fever in some respects, but also might be confused with other disease conditions, such as malaria.

The physicians found the disease

apparently does not spread easily, and seemed to confer immunity on those contracting it, since no recurrences have been observed.

The disease usually began with a chill, followed by fever, headache, prostration and nausea. Recovery took a long time. The doctors said all the victims had repeated and prolonged exposure to bites by a tick called the Lone Star tick, so named because of the star-shaped mark on its back.

The number of deaths from typhoid fever in 93 large cities has been cut in half within two years, the journal also reported.

The 50 per cent reduction in these cities, for which data are available, was based on the following death rates per hundred thousand population—50 in 1940, 37 in 1941 and 25 in 1942.

Fort Wayne, Ind., continued to head the list, with no typhoid deaths in eight years. South Bend, Ind., had no death listed for seven years.

Fifty of the 93 cities reported no typhoid deaths in 1942. New England cities had the lowest group rate, which was .12.

Harriet Sturgis Becomes Bride Of Lt. Knox

Simplicity marked the wedding of Miss Harriet Murray Sturgis and Lt. Richard Griffith Knox, U. S. M. C., which took place yesterday afternoon in St. Mary's Chapel of the Washington Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul. The ceremony was performed at 5 o'clock. Canon Theodore O. Waddell officiating and the reception was held in the Army Navy Club at Seventeenth and I streets.

The bride, who is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Samuel D. Sturgis, was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. C. D. Voorhis of Cape Elizabeth, Me., her father being on duty in the South Pacific. Her wedding dress was of pale pink organdie, severely simple, with full long skirt made longer in the back than in the front, its only trimming being the pleated frill outlining the sweetheart neckline. Her finger-tip length veil of pale pink illusion was held by a Juliet cap and her nosegay was of pale pink rosebuds and lilies of the valley.

Miss Travis Bell, of Norfolk, was maid of honor, wearing pale lavender organdie, equally simple as the bride's costume, and her short matching veil was held by a garland of pink roses and forget-me-nots which also formed her small nosegay.

Miss Stoddard Wed Yesterday

Miss Marin Stoddard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Wilson Stoddard of Kensington, and Lt. Irving M. Day, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Day of Somerset, were married yesterday afternoon. The wedding took place in the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, the Rev. J. Hillman Hollister, officiating at 5:30 o'clock.

Arrangements for the wedding were informal and the bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in brown crepe with which she wore brown accessories and had a bouquet of white orchids.

Mrs. Virginia Stoddard Jackson was matron of honor for her sister, wearing green crepe with brown accessories and had a bouquet of purple orchids. Miss Margaret Day, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, her costume of gold crepe with brown accessories and purple orchids.

Mr. Hartley D. Day was best man for his brother and the ushers included Mr. David C. Dickinson and Mr. Richard P. Dickinson. Lt. and Mrs. Day left immediately after the ceremony by motor for Denver, where the former is on duty at Lowry Field.

Mrs. A. J. Boyd left yesterday for Wilmington in company with Miss Ann Klutey and Mr. Fred Klutey, who came from Wilmington with their uncle Mr. Robert Chichester, for a short visit. Mr. Chichester had been visiting his sisters, Mrs. Frederick Klutey, Mrs. Huga Galloway and Mrs. Phillip D. Laird, and his brother, Mr. Richard Dupont Chichester. Before returning to her Silver Spring home Mrs. Boyd will visit her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Gilpin, in Kennett Square, Pa.

Miss Cornelia H. Thomas returned yesterday from Hartford, Conn., where she spent the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Metzger are spending a week at Bethany Beach, Del.

Returns From Visit

Mr. W. S. Oglesby has returned to his apartment here after a visit of two weeks with his family in Richmond.

Women's Group To Start Drive for Ambulance Plane

A campaign for the sale of $115,000 in War bonds to finance purchase of an ambulance plane will be launched August 25 by the District Federation of Women's Clubs.

Plans were discussed at a meeting yesterday of the Ambulance Plane Committee, including a representative from each of the affiliated clubs. The drive will continue until September 15.

Mrs. Carlton C. Duffus is chairman of the committee in charge, with Mrs. John Shaw as co-chairman.

Public co-operation will be sought, with bond buyers asked to allocate purchases to the cost of the plane. Radio programs are being arranged under chairmanship of Mrs. Frank J. MacMaugh. One of the programs will be a dramatization of the trip of an ambulance plane to bring wounded men from Africa.

Contact chairmen appointed include Mrs. Tilmann Bacon Parks, banks; Mrs. C. H. Blair, stores; Miss Etta L. Taggart, professional group, and Mrs. Duffus, motion pictures. Mrs. Leo Kasehagen is in charge of publicity.

Arlington Council To Hear of OWI

Percy L. Greaves, jr., of the publicity division of the Republican National Committee, will address the monthly luncheon meeting of the Arlington Council of the Republican Women's Council of Arlington at noon tomorrow at Brook Manor. He will discuss the Office of War Information.

Guests will include three of the Arlington County Republican candidates, William P. Ames for the House of Delegates, Ralph Remington for clerk of the Circuit Court and John Paul Jones for trial justice.

Organized in the spring, the council has been featuring monthly meetings and now has an enrollment of nearly 100 members. Mrs. Leonie M. Gilbert is president.

Soroptimists Plan Surprise Program

A "surprise program" is planned by the Soroptimists Club of Washington for its resumption of weekly meetings September 1 at the Willard Hotel. Miss Helen Barnhart will be in charge.

The club, which discontinued regular luncheons during July and August, had its only get-together of the summer this week when members were guests of the president, Miss Mildred Clum. The occasion was a chicken dinner at the Stables. An informal program included the reading of horoscopes, songs and accounts of individual club members' most embarrassing moments.

$3,250 in Bonds Sold

A total of $3,250 was raised for the War bond drive sponsored by the Washington Girls' War Bond Committee and Alpha Phi Pi Fraternity at a party given by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Seidel, according to an announcement. Bobbie Seidel, daughter of the host and hostess, is a member of the War Bond Committee, which is seeking to sell enough bonds to finance replacement of the 39 planes lost by the United States in combat July 4.

D.C. WOMEN IN UNIFORM

SWEETWATER, Tex. — Four young women, formerly of Washington, recently were graduated from the Women's Flying Detachment here at Avenger Field as pilots and will go immediately into the job of serving as noncombat pilots for the Army Air Forces Transport Command. They are Helen Wyatt ALITA CORBETT, ELEANOR THOMPSON.

Snapp, 25, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Wyatt, Clinton, Mo.; Barbara J. Ward, 24, formerly employed by the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics; Alita Corbett, formerly with the air branch of the Military Intelligence Service, War Department, and Eleanor Elaine Thompson, formerly secretary for the certificate section of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

Mrs. Snapp, who formerly was employed by the Bureau of Engraving, Treasury Department, took her civilian pilot training course at National Law School. Her husband, Lt. Ira B. Snapp, jr., is serving with an amphibious division of the infantry overseas.

Miss Ward, also a former hostess with the Pennsylvania-Central Airlines, is a graduate of Cornell University. Her brother, Pvt. Don D.

BARBARA J. WARD, HELEN W. SNAPP.

Ward, jr., is taking technical training at Atlanta, Ga.

A graduate of Smith College, Miss Corbett learned to fly at Swan Island, Portland, Ore. Miss Thompson, who learned to fly through the Civilian Pilot Training Program at Catawba College, Salisbury, N. C., of which she is a graduate, has a brother, Lt. (j.g.) Julian B. Thompson, Naval Air Corps, who is serving in the Atlantic theater of operations.

ENGLAND.—Seven WACS from the District were among the first Women's Army Corps expeditionary force to land in Great Britain. Known as the 1st WAC Separate Battalion, its members are spread out over the entire United Kingdom on a variety of key jobs with the 8th Air Force. They will serve as secretaries, stenographers, teleprinters, telephone operators, plane plotters and drivers. Some personnel, however, have been assigned directly to schools for brief courses in British methods and procedures.

Those from the District include Sgt. Marie Marik, 26, 1412 Massachusetts avenue N.W., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Marik of Washington; Corpl. Lucy D. Marshall, 23, 5906 Thirtieth street N.W.; Pfc. Evelyn J. O'Neil, 32, 225 Twentieth street N.E.; Margaret C. Frank, 25, daughter of Mrs. Nora McDonald, 2403 Huidekoper place N.W., and Elise Hastings, 32, daughter of Mrs. Lulu Jane Hastings, 5610 Fourteenth street N.W., and Pfc. Mary R. Bielaski, daughter of Mrs. Edith P. Bielaski, 1603 Hobart street N.W., and Bessie B. McCullough, 32, daughter of Mrs. Ida McCullough, 1045 Quebec place N.W.

Prior to joining the WAC last October, Sgt. Marik was section chief of the procurement division of the Quartermaster Department, Marine Corps, at the Navy Annex, Arlington, Va.

Formerly employed as a clerk-typist by the War Department, Corpl. Marshall enlisted in August, 1942. She has two brothers in the service, Merle Marshall, who is serving overseas, and Freeland Marshall, who is stationed at Port Casey, Wash.

Pfc. O'Neil was buyer and division manager for Sears Roebuck in Washington before joining the WAC last January. A former telephone operator employed by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., Pfc. Frank enlisted in December, 1942. Her husband, Frederick M. Frank, is serving in the Army; a sister, Ellen S. Bache, is also in the WAC; a brother, Richard McDonald, is in the Merchant Marine, and three other brothers, Charles, Cyril and Francis McDonald, are in the Navy.

Bielaski, formerly employed as a supervisor and instructor for the National War Agencies, has a brother, Frank H. Bielaski, who is a private in the Army. Pvt. McCullough before enlisting last February was also employed as a telephone operator for the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.

WASHINGTON.—Ensigns Mary Twitchell Arrison and Ruby Gail Chisler, the first two enlisted women to be commissioned in the Navy from the Naval Reserve Midshipman's School at Northampton, Mass., are now assigned to duty in the District.

Both women prior to their officer's training were stationed here.

Ensign Arrison, Presidential Ensign M. T. Arrison, Gardens, Alexandria, Va., is now serving with the electronics division of the Office of Procurement and Materials. She has been in the Navy since October. Ensign Chisler, who resides at the Allen Lee Hotel, Twenty-third and F streets N.W., is stationed at the Naval Research Laboratory in Anacostia.

FORT OGLETHORPE, Ga.—Pvt. Emily Golding, secretary to the commercial adviser of the British Embassy for the past 15 years, is now taking her basic training here at the Third WAC Training Center. A native of Barrow-in-Furness, near Liverpool, England, Pvt. Golding came to the United States in 1924. She attended Strayer Business College for two years and then became secretary to the commercial adviser.

Pvt. Jane Power Morgan, former Western High School student, will report for duty in the District Recruiting Office following the completion of her recruit training here at the Third WAC Training Center. The daughter of Col. Malcolm Elliott, Regular Army, now stationed as division engineer of the Upper Mississippi Valley Division with headquarters in St. Louis, at one time served in the Chief Engineers' Office in Washington. Pvt. Morgan's husband, Capt. E. W. Morgan, jr., is serving with an Engineer Corps unit in India.

Thirteen privates have been called to active duty and have reported for recruit training here at the Third WAC Training Center. They are Alice Brigante, 2025 I street N.W.; Betty Burdette, 3018 Fifth street N.W.; Mary E. Coyle, 4401 Thirtieth street N.W.; Irene A. De Witt, 2131 G street N.W.; Elizabeth W. Falson, 2122 California street N.W.; Grace L. Hill, 2131 O street N.W.; Arvilla C. Johnson, 2109 F street N.W.; Hannah M. Kennedy, Fairfax, Va.; Frances T. Mooney, 105 Thirtieth street N.E.; Elizabeth B. New, 419 Agnew street N.W.; Virginia M. Wallace, 2601 Monroe street N.W.; Vera L. Walters, 1746 K street N.W., and Mary L. Welsh, 4428 Rosedale avenue, Bethesda, Md.

Six privates who have been stationed here at the WAC Third Training Center have received new assignments. Detailed to report to the Army Air Base at Santa Ana, Calif., are Sadie Kesselman, sister of Mrs. Anne K. Nusbaum, 7307 Hillton avenue, Takoma Park, Md.; Elva G. Wilson, 4922 First street N.W.; Virginia M. Wallace, 2601 Fogelman, 316 Emerson street N.W.; Eugenia Artchawager, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Brodsky, 1506 F street N.W., will report to Camp White, Ore. Irma C. Cussler, 1414 B. Street, 419 Agnew street N.W., has been sent to the Halloran General Hospital, Santa Ana, N. Y., and Mary Eugenia Wise, daughter of Mrs. Mary T. Hepburn, 3903 Utah avenue, Brentwood, Md., has been assigned to the Station Complement at Camp Van Dorn, Miss.

Colombian Girl's Operation Arranged by Phone Calls

By The Associated Press.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Aug. 19.—Officials of the Warm Springs Foundation today were ready to proceed with an operation on Carmen Uribe, 12-year-old South American girl, but only after telephone calls to several parts of the country to obtain the necessary permission.

Carmen was stricken with poliomyelitis when she was 2 years old and an examination indicated an operation is necessary to restore use of her legs.

The girl was brought here from her home in Colombia by Walter W. Hammond, Tariff Commission ministerial expert, who had her parents' permission for the surgical treatment. Officials of the foundation said, however, Mr. Hammond left Sunday before authorities obtained the permission, and it took until yesterday to locate him.

Slogan of 'Free Press, Free People' Adopted For Newspaper Week

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—"A free press and a free people—an unbeatable team," is the slogan adopted for this year's observance of National Newspaper Week, October 1 to 8, the National Newspaper Week Committee announced today.

The committee is headed by Vernon T. Sanford of Oklahoma City, Okla.

"Since the newspaper profession is more intimately and directly concerned with the affairs of our 133,000,000 American citizens than perhaps any other one privately-owned institution," said Mr. Sanford, "the publishers, acting through their press associations, four years ago, set aside one week during the year in which they could unite for the promotion of a public relations program to better acquaint readers with their newspapers."

"It is hoped that through this year's observance of National Newspaper Week the newspapers may not only bring about a better understanding of the free press as a right of the people, but may also intensify appreciation of all our constitutionally guaranteed rights and privileges."

Aerial Freight Trains Switching Cargoes in Sky Seen After War

By the Associated Press.
IOWA CITY, Iowa, Aug. 19.—Coast-to-coast, nonstop aerial freight trains, which will switch their cargo in the sky like railroads now shift boxcars, were predicted for the postwar period today by Roy A. Watkins, Chicago aircraft company executive.

The freight trains that fly will create an entirely new marketing system for large farmers, ranchers and plantation operators, Mr. Watkins said in an address prepared before a joint meeting of civic clubs.

Mr. Watkins, executive vice president and general manager of the Howard Aircraft Corp., said nearly every farmer "could grasp his opportunities" could own, lease one or more air-freight fuselages—bodies without wings.

Pickup by Helicopter.
"On short notice," Mr. Watkins continued, "he will be able to load tons of the products of the land. A helicopter will pick up his fuselage and carry it to an airport. Wings will be bolted in place by ground crews, and the fuselage will become a freight glider."

"Coming out of the sky will be an aerial freight train. The farmer's glider will be pulled into motion by an aerial switcher, taken aloft and will be able to glide into position behind the aerial freight train."

"Such freight trains may cross the country without a stop, circling airports and cutting out or taking in gliders at will by means of devices which are already available."

Sees 'One Dismal Project.'
"There is one dismal prospect, and that is the possibility of failure to handle our postwar problems correctly. Congress must give business a healthy atmosphere in which to work, and also we must kill off any movements to nationalize our transportation services and airplane manufacturing."

"There are people in Washington today who think aviation manufacturing ought to be controlled. We must resist that to the bitter end and let initiative blossom in the hands of the citizens themselves."

D. C. Naval Officer Has Part in Landing On Vella Lavella

Under continuous bombardment by Japanese aircraft for 10 straight hours in which 15 near misses were scored, an American landing craft returned to its base after the occupation of Vella Lavella last Sunday.

One man who went through the experience was Lt. (j. g.) Oliver A. Quayle, 4000 Cathedral avenue N.W., ship's bow gunnery officer. Lt. Quayle, a graduate of Dartmouth College, is the son of Oliver A. Quayle, Jr., former national treasurer of the Democratic party. When Lt. Quayle was knocked flat by a near miss, he said it reminded him of the first time he tried skiing and returned to duty.

J. Norman Lodge, Associated Press

correspondent who was aboard, reported that the "ugly duckling," as landing craft are called, was attacked in the afternoon by 12 Zeros and 12 twin-engine bombers. With the aid of planes it fought off the Japs. United States ships knocked out two Zeros and four bombers.

Just after the attack the landing boat put off its cargo of 70 tons of equipment and two heavy caliber guns, then started for home. But at 8:30 Jap planes came back again and stayed until 6:25 the next morning.

One bomb exploded so close astern that the vessel sprang an oil leak. The skipper, who would not wear a helmet because it gave him a headache, ran the little craft around in circles and zigzags dodging bombs and it came through without a scratch.

900 Boy Scouts May Aid 900 Hospitals in New York

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Manhattan's 90 hospitals may have 900 Boy Scouts as assistants—serving without fee—by the end of the year.

Sidney Root, a Boy Scout neighborhood commissioner, said yesterday that the Manhattan Council of Boy Scouts planned to recruit volunteers as soon as the boys return from summer camps and jobs. He said that 100 Scouts have been working in four hospitals since July 1 and have proved very helpful to the institutions.

Child Hit by Truck Dies in Hospital

D. C. Traffic Toll

Killed in 1943..... 55
Killed in same period in 1942 66
Toll for all of 1942..... 109

Carl Smith, 2, colored, of 1511 First street N.W., died at Sibley Hospital shortly before noon today after being struck by a truck near his home. His was the 55th traffic fatality of the year, as compared with 66 last year.

According to police, the child darted from the curb and was hit by the rear wheel of a paving truck operated by James E. Willis, colored, about 40, of 142 Elm street S.E.

Miss Claudia Gallier, 26, of 1629 Montague street N.W., suffered a lacerated scalp, abrasions to her right eye, right knee and both hands when she was struck by a streetcar today at the intersection of Sixteenth, Harvard and Mount Pleasant streets N.W.

Miss Gallier, a pedestrian, was taken to Garfield Hospital, where her condition was reported as not serious.

The streetcar was operated by Edwin R. Fisher, 1813 Thirty-fifth street N.W.

Give up that vacation drive cheerfully, we need gasoline to take the enemy for a one-way ride.

Officials Undecided On Date of Issuance Of Fourth Ration Book

By the Associated Press.

War Ration Book No. 4 is in the offing, but the Office of Price Administration said last night no date for its appearance has been set, and the agency hasn't decided how or when civilians will register to get it.

Edward F. Stegen, a regional rationing executive, said in Chicago yesterday a national registration for Book No. 4 would be held between October 20 and November 1.

"It may be issued around the first of the year," said an OPA official, "or it may be issued around the first of December. We can't tell because the details have not been worked out."

The agency hasn't decided whether the registration—when it is made—will be handled by schools, as with the No. 1 and No. 2 books, or by direct mail like Book No. 3.

Book No. 3 was put out as a safeguard for consumers to use when stamps in their No. 2 books become exhausted. It contains brown stamps instead of red for meats, butter and the like. Book No. 4, when it appears, will contain red and blue point stamps similar to those in Book No. 2 and will be used for the same purposes.

Meanwhile, the OPA decided that persons in military service can get Ration Book No. 3, but the shoe stamps will be removed.

Men and women in the armed services can get shoe purchase certificates from the Government. Commanding officers will issue eligibility certificates to military personnel entitled to the ration books.

'Door Is Still Open' On New Tax Program, Morgenthau Says

By the Associated Press.

Emphasizing that "the door is still open" on an administration tax program, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said last night that lesser and even higher figures were being discussed than the $12,000,000,000 previously mentioned as a new revenue goal.

The Secretary met reporters in an informal press conference at the conclusion of the second of a series of exploratory tax conferences, which he described as a "good meeting with very good spirit." Executive agencies concerned with taxes are seeking to arrive at a united front in the conferences.

Mr. Morgenthau reported the discussion dealt with taxes from the standpoints of revenue, impact on inflation and effect on production.

Declining to go into details, the Treasury head told questioners the group had considered a spending tax along "with a lot of other things." To another question, he said the idea of an individual excess profits tax was not being considered in the Treasury.

It could only happen here—and now. Bob Demarest, head water for Mrs. Kramer's Victory Room, was looking disconcerted the other night. There was, as well, more than a hint of puzzlement in his expression, which naturally required explanation.

"It's like this," sobbed Mr. Demarest, swabbing the tears from his cheeks. "My maid at home didn't show up today."

Tut, tut, he was told. That kind of thing is happening to everyone in this vale of shortages.

"But you don't understand," Mr. Demarest sniffed. "When I called her on the phone this morning she told me WHY she couldn't make it. She had to stay home because HER maid didn't show up."

The Del Rio is a popular rendezvous for the night set around town. Its measure of popularity perhaps can be ascribed in part to the mirrors which line the walls almost as far as the eye can see. With a frequency that would surprise you, you notice the males among spectators giving vent to their vanity in the mirrors. Few can resist at least a furtive glance at themselves whenever they rock to their feet. But it is of course the ladies for whom, essentially, the mirrors hang. At no matter what distance from the mirrors the ladies may be, they must needs give that coiffure a reassuring pat, puff a sagging ruffle here and there or simply gaze in wonder at the unmitigated beauty before them.

One there was, however, the night before last, who must possess a character of Olympian candor. Either that, or someone at her table had taken pains to alter the lady's ego for the evening.

As she arose from her ringside table to leave, she of course turned to regard her reflected self. The lady stared, and she continued to stare as her passage out brought her to within four feet of the be-mirrored wall. At that point she stopped and threw a hand across her face. "Oh, no," she was heard to groan as she moved off, a sobered if shaken woman.

Paul Kain, he of Glen Echo ballroom, annual appraisal of the music situation dutifully is being circulated at this time among susceptible quarters, of which this is one.

Opines Maestro Kain: "The jitterbug brand of swing is here to stay. The 'Charleston,' 'Big Apple' and other dance tricks and fads were mere forerunners of the jitterbug brand of swing which is here to stay."

Maestro Kain thereby reveals a remarkable brand of consistency, having issued an almost categorically identical statement during the summer of 1942, and, if we are not misinformed, sometime during the same period of 1941.

Stick by your convictions, Mr. K!

The Lotus has a new show this week, which is a gem of an announcement that won't surprise a soul. That is, if the soul is familiar with the Lotus's policy of semi-weekly floor show change. The talent consists of June Hammond, a little tap dancer to whom, it is bruited about, a fine career some day will come; Bohn and Matthews, a team by the sound of which would be either ballroom or acrobatic (acrobatic it is), and the Melodaires Quartet, which has a lot of "barber shop" stock in its repertory.

Davey Crocker, whose telescoped Grand Orchestra Symphonette et Populaire supplies music lovers in the Dubonnet Room, has a daughter, Jacqueline, aged 18. Jacqueline Crocker is going to be married next Sunday. Following the marriage ceremonies she will have a reception. Where? Why, in the Dubonnet Room.

Plot counter-plot.

Note on Our Shattering Age: The glass breakage rate at the 400 has been lowered from 2,500 weekly to a modest 2,000 weekly.

Having just signed Miss Lory Jones, a former Powers model, as songstress in his band, Ted Straeter has taken the next logical step. He has written a song about her entitled "Have You Met Miss Jones," the strains of which are currently floating about the Embassy Room. Mr. Straeter's move was especially logical as far at least as the title is concerned. Jones is not the girl's name. Being of joint French, Hindu, Polish, Dutch and English stock, her name happens to be Westervelt.

"Have You Met Miss Westervelt? Let's see you try to do something with THAT."

From some source—certainly not a foxhole in the Solomons—comes a report of a new song. It is based, jointly, on the marines and a species of frog (Rana Guppy) peculiar to the South Pacific area, and it is entitled "Bullfrogs and Marines."

A Mrs. Wayman, co-author of this potential wartime epic, expressed her inspiration for it as follows: "All of a sudden the bullfrogs and marines and the queer double syllables of pidgin English... all swam up to us out of the peace and quiet of an evening at home while we thought about the marines over in the Solomons."

The report clearly places the emphasis on Rana Guppy, "bullfrogs that infect the Solomon Islands... weigh as much as two pounds and are the largest in the world." And so on into the encyclopedia.

It may be that Irving Berlin's astuteness as a songwriter is a bit more well known than Mrs. Wayman's, but we should say that he would have gotten right to the heart of the spirit of the Solomons with something like "The Jap and the Fighting Leatherneck." Somehow that combination swims more readily to mind, and without the aid of scientific classification, "Jap"—an amphibious reptile, treacherous, cruel migrant of the Southwest Pacific islands and the Asiatic mainland."

9 D. C. Area Officers Are Given Temporary Promotions in Army

Nine officers from the Washington area have received temporary promotions, the War Department announced today.

Promoted from first lieutenant to captain were Lyle Addison Brookover, 4505 Forty-sixth street N.W.; John M. Hannan, 2323 Fortieth place N.W.; Howard Norman Bissell, 2810 East West highway, Chevy Chase, Md.; and Launor Frank Carter, formerly of 314 North George Mason drive, Arlington, Va.

Those who were promoted from second lieutenant to first lieutenant were John Henry Zabel, jr., 2633 Adams Mill road N.W.; Walter Frederick Rhine, 108 Rittenhouse street N.E.; Alfred Buhr Pettit, formerly of 307 Franklin avenue, Silver Spring, Md.; Robert Edward Carter, Bishop High School, Alexandria, Va.; and Henry Granville Strobhar, 324 North Thomas street, Arlington.

Brookover an Ex-reporter. For a number of years prior to going on active duty at the Adjutant General's School at Fort Washington, Md., in March, 1942, Capt. Brookover was in the Military Intelligence Reserve. He was in charge of the first V-mail station which opened in New York City in June, 1942, and was assigned to Air Force headquarters here in September. The son of Mrs. Eva K. Brookover, he was formerly a reporter for United Press.

Capt. Hannan was inducted into the Army in the first draft. Later he attended officer candidate school at Fort Sill, Okla., where he is now stationed, and six months ago was promoted to first lieutenant. The son of Mr. and Mrs. William O. R. Hannan, he attended the University of Tennessee. Two brothers are also officers: Capt. John J. Hannan, Hannan, Jr., who was just promoted last week to that rank, now on maneuvers in Texas, and First Lt. Charles Rogers Hannan, stationed at Camp Fanning, Tex.

Capt. Bissell is the husband of Mrs. Louis Bissell and they have two children. A Reserve officer before his assignment to active duty, Capt. Bissell has been with the office of the Chief of Statistical Services here since April, 1942. A native of Indiana, he came to the District in 1936. He attended George Washington University and was employed in the Inspector general's office of the War Department before entering active service.

Lt. Zabel is in the Chemical Warfare Division at Camp Sibert, Ala., and entered the service in January, 1941, at Fort Benning, Ga. He was born in Washington and attended Gonzaga High School and Catholic University. His father is a lieutenant in the Army, his brother a "flying commando" and his sister a SP4R. Before entering the service, Lt. Zabel was engaged in surveying work. Before entering the service, Lt. Rhine was an engineer for the District government. He entered the service in November, 1942, and is at Fort McPherson, Ga. The son of Mrs. Marie Leukhardt, he is a graduate of Eastern High School and George Washington University. His wife, the former Barbara Stone, is with him in Georgia.

Capt. Carter, whose father teaches at Episcopal High School in Alexandria, received his commission on graduation from Davidson College in North Carolina. His brother, Lt. Francis E. Carter, jr., is in the Navy.

Gerrit Tenbrink, of Holland, Michigan, is your man—if you'll wear wooden shoes. And a lot of people are these days, judging from the way his business has boomed. Robert Arthur Jones tells how this Dutch cobbler is taking the pinch out of shoe rationing—Sunday in THIS WEEK Magazine, with The Sunday Star

Miss S. to Desert Obscurity To Return to Broadway

By JAY CARMODY.

When any group of movie fans sits down to name its favorite screen actresses...

FORGET MAGGIE? - The average theatergoer offhand may consider Margaret Sullivan an actress deep in the heart of family and obscurity.

Miss Sullivan is a name on the tip of more tongues today than she has been in years...

Her current emergence into the outer fringe of the spotlight is the result of her intention to return this year to the theater.

When she leaves the screen to have a baby, as she has on three occasions, you will see a note of it perhaps and that will be all.

That was what happened when Miss Sullivan left her most recent retirement to assume her place in the cast of "Cry Havoc."

Miss Sullivan, who has brought a special kind of radiance to the screen, which a lot of customers prefer to glamour and other more spectacular kinds of impact or appeal.

By avoiding studio contract tie-ups of any kind, she has been allowed to select what parts she will play and those she thinks should be avoided as a plague.

As the wife of Leland Hayward, one of the more successful agents in Hollywood, Miss Sullivan is ably represented whenever a studio starts looking over its literature and trying to figure out who should be in it.

Her greatest recent successes were "Shopworn Angel" and "The Little Shop Around the Corner," in which she was happily endowed with James Stewart as leading man.

Her latest success was "The Shopworn Angel" and "The Little Shop Around the Corner," in which she was happily endowed with James Stewart as leading man.

Starlight Series Is Concluded by Britt Ensemble

The Wednesday series of the Starlight Chamber Music Concerts in Meridian Hill Park concluded last night with a program by the Britt String Ensemble.

The coolest temperature of the season added to the pleasure of last night's program in the beautiful setting of the park.

A change in name from that of the Britt String Sextet to Britt String Ensemble and a change of personnel, with Horace Britt the sole cellist and Viola Wasterlain replacing the first violinist of last year.

The quality of the playing of the ensemble was demonstrated immediately in Mozart's popular "Quintet in G Minor, K. 516," which glowed with fervor and spiritual beauty.

The particular feature of yesterday's program was the first performance in this city of Bohuslav Martinu's "String Quintet," which was given to the American premiere nine years ago at the Coolidge Festival.

The "Quintet" has a sweeping method of exposition which is distinguished by sharp contrast of mood.

The Ex-Great Garbo Hesitates

Gabriel Pascal is in Hollywood trying to convince Greta Garbo that the sooner she plays the title role in his movie version of George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan," the sooner she will regain her lost place in the film firmament.

Instead, the picture, originally titled "Tale of Two Sisters," will have Gloria de Haven and June Allison, both new Metro starlets.

When Margaret Sullivan finished "Cry Havoc" at Metro she gave out that old story, no more movies and no more plays.

One Ice Skater Who Bounced Into Success

Freddie Trenkler is known as the "bouncing ball of the ice" and it's a good descriptive, especially that bouncing business... He's bouncing as usual in "Stars on Ice" at the Center Theater...

I skated the more confidence I acquired... In those early years Freddie specialized in figure skating and he entered many competitions of the international junior championship all over Europe...

He got the idea of comedy skating when he saw a small boy skipping around while desperately trying to get upright... Freddie's success in this country traces to 1937, when he appeared in "Gay Blades"...

Trenkler has little time for outside interests or hobbies, because he is always busy practicing or trying out new tricks... He arranges all his own shows and designs his costumes...

Lee Bowman joins the boys working in "Cover Girl" with Rita Hayworth... She now has Gene Kelly, Jess Barker and Otto Kruger...

When and if Spencer Tracy ever completes "A Guy Named Joe," he will star in "The Seventh Cross"...

Spencer Tracy wants to accept the radio show he has been offered, but Metro's policy is against studio stars on weekly commercial broadcasting programs...

Report to the Housewife

By Betsy Caswell,
Women's News Editor

Chickens are the big news this week—they will be plentiful and not too expensive. The majority to be found will be fryers, but there will be a few bakiers and stewing fowl about, too. Some dealers hope to have a small number of ducks, but shipments are slow these days, and definite predictions are "out."

Fish continues a good buy. Porgies, croakers, sea bass, trout and butterfish are recommended. There'll be salmon and halibut from the North, together with some fine jobbers—a bit lower in price than they have been—and good crab meat and fresh shrimp from nearby and Southern waters. Some dealers expect fresh swordfish shortly, if that delicacy is one of your favored seafoods.

Although the War Food Administration predicts that most corns and butcher shops will have more beef for sale during the next two months than they had in June and July, supplies seem to be slow in materializing in most Washington markets. Pork is expected to be very plentiful, and in general pork is and has been easier to obtain than other meats. This week end, for instance, will see such items as fresh and smoked "picnics," hams and Boston butts featured in many stores. There will be some lamb and veal available, but not enough to take care of the average demand. Some beef will be in a few markets, but you will have to watch the advertisements or go hunting for it.

Fruits and vegetables are showing the effect of the drought on produce from nearby areas. The California shipments, though of excellent quality—are fairly expensive. Peas, string beans and young limas, however, are not too costly, and are very good indeed right now. Tomatoes are plentiful and cheaper and are of good quality for home canning as well as for table use. Potatoes, corn, beets and green peppers are attractively priced and eggplant are with us in full force. This is good because eggplant can be used in so many ways as a main dish substitute for meat. There is a small supply of iceberg lettuce on the market—better, at the moment than the usually tastier Boston type. Rather high in price and none too high in quality are cauliflower, broccoli and celery.

Cantaloupes are excellent just now, and there have been some fine honeydews available—at a price. The first luscious Kelsey plums have come in, to supplement the Duartes and Santa Rosas already here. Ribier and Malaga grapes add glamour to the fruit bowl, and pink-cheeked Bartlett pears are as good as they look. Sugar-sweet fresh pineapples are moderately priced for this fruit, and peaches and apples are fairly plentiful and reasonable. Some berries, such as blackberries and blueberries, are still to be had, and lemons, if you're interested, are a bit cheaper than they were last week. Limes, though, are scarce.

Here and There: At least 20,000,000 pounds of honey have been added to this year's honey crop recently because the weather was sunny while the sweet clover was in bloom. . . Bees in other countries are helping to soothe America's sweet tooth, too, for honeys from South America are being shipped in to the United States. Among them may be coffee flower honey from Guatemala, logwood honey from Cuba and alfalfa honey from Mexico. . . You'll get more canned salmon this year, says the Office of the Co-ordinator of Fisheries. . . OPA points out that it's the red ration stamps that are used to buy chili con carne. Both types, the brick or the sausage form, and the canned item come under the meat rationing program. . . Brooms are going to lose their "frills," but not their efficiency. That word "frills" is certainly getting a workout these days. . . It is expected that there will be approximately the same amount of dried raisins and prunes for civilian consumption this year as were available last year. Supplies of apricots, peaches, pears and apples will be scant indeed. The outlook for figs has not yet been reported. . . Paper steps out in hundreds of new guises. A new processing makes it adaptable for such items as rain-coats, draperies, sheets, water-resistant paper bags, alarm clocks, and even cooking stoves! . . . The new collection plan for salvaged tip cans from apartment buildings goes into effect almost at once, with the first collection scheduled for August 26. Collection service will be rendered all apartment buildings (over four-family) in the District of Columbia once a month, on the last Thursday of the month. Have your cans washed, bottoms and tops cut out, flattened and collected in a suitable container by themselves. Only prepared cans will be collected. If you have an apartment janitor or resident manager consult with them as to placing the container for collection, but if you live in a "self-service" unit place the container with the cans on the last Thursday of the month before 8 a. m. Directly in front of the entrance to your apartment. . . Don't forget to return all empty bottles that you have hanging around the house and there's a new drive on for paper salvage, too. Watch the papers for details.

Two Recipes For Canning Peaches

Readers are hopeful. A number have written to ask me to discuss the best method of canning peaches. There are several good methods, and if you found one satisfactory, there is no reason to change to another. The two preferred methods are: Packing the peeled fruit in hot jars before covering with sirup, or simmering the fruit a few minutes in the thin sirup before packing. The latter method is best for the harder fruit. In any case, the filled jars must be partially sealed and processed in the boiling water bath, 15 minutes. Remember that the boiling water must come over the top of the jars, as this prevents the drawing out of the sirup. Time should not be counted until the water actually begins to boil again after the jars have been placed on the rack.

Peaches are prepared for canning by dipping in boiling water for not more than one minute. They should then be placed in cold water so that the skins may be rubbed off easily. A wire basket is convenient for dipping a small amount of fruit at one time. A large square cheesecloth may replace the basket. Nowadays, fruit is usually halved or sliced because this saves jar space. After the jars have been processed the proper length of time, they should be removed from the canner, and the screw tops should be tightened, the second hole on a lightning jar should be snapped in place, but no attention should be given to the self-sealing jars. They should not be inverted to test for leaks until after they are cooled. The weight of the fruit will sometimes dislodge the rubber if they are inverted while hot.

Spiced peaches may be canned without the processing of the boiling water bath. A reader asks if it is necessary to tie the spices in a bag. She says that she likes the flavor which spices give when allowed to remain with the fruit. The only reason that it is suggested that spices be tied in cheesecloth, and then removed, is the fact that they tend to darken the fruit if allowed to remain in the sirup.

CANNED PEACHES.
Scald peaches in boiling water, not more than one minute. Dip in cold water, and rub off skins. Cut for the sake of the dealer's health, and her country's wartime food situation. Fewer tomatoes on the market would go to waste if city women generally realized how easy tomatoes are to can and how much those home-canned supplies mean next winter in vitamins and ration points. Even the apartment housewife with only a two-burner stove in a kitchenette can put up tomatoes. All she needs is a shallow kettle, a deep-covered kettle with a rack in the bottom, and glass jars. No pressure canner is necessary.

Briefly, here is the wartime way to put up tomatoes: Scald and peel tomatoes. Remove stem end and bad spots. Quarter or leave whole. Heat to boiling in shallow kettle. Pour into hot sterilized jars, adding 1 teaspoon salt for each quart. Seal or partially seal jars. Put on rack in kettle of boiling water deep enough so water comes an inch over top of jar. Boil 10 minutes. Lift out jars, seal and store in a dark, dry, cool place.

One reason home-canned tomatoes may be especially useful next winter is that the Government is buying 17,158,000 cases of commercially packed tomato products for military use and has asked canners to hold 3,500,000 more cases in reserve for possible buying later. Each case holds 24 No. 2 cans, so at least 413,792,000 cans are going to war that in peacetime would be going on grocery shelves.

Inexperienced Cook Able to Can Tomatoes

Rich in color, flavor and vitamin C, tomatoes in their prime are pouring into markets in many parts of the country from nearby areas. A valuable food but especially so this year when some vitamin C foods are shorter in supply than last year, tomatoes are too perishable to stand long waiting for buyers. Every basket of tomatoes that spoils means a loss of food to some American.

One reason home-canned tomatoes may be especially useful next winter is that the Government is buying 17,158,000 cases of commercially packed tomato products for military use and has asked canners to hold 3,500,000 more cases in reserve for possible buying later. Each case holds 24 No. 2 cans, so at least 413,792,000 cans are going to war that in peacetime would be going on grocery shelves.

Now That Chickens Are Back—Let's Go Fancy With Them!

To learn what wonders can be worked with a 5-pound fowl, try one of the most famous middle American chicken dishes next time you want to serve something really special.

There are as many ways of cooking chicken as there are countries and traditions in these brilliant lands stretching from Mexico to Panama. Chicken with raisins, olives and tomatoes, chicken with pineapple and bananas, chicken baked in coconut shells—they sound either very strange or absolutely fascinating, depending entirely on your ability for adventuring, but they were recipes used by the Aztecs, "tried and true" recipes many centuries before our Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock!

This Arroz con Pollo recipe is definitely in the Spanish tradition. It is a brilliantly colorful dish for the rice, rich and moist with tomato and onion, is tinted bright yellow with a tiny bit of saffron, and just before serving the whole dish is sprinkled with green peas and scarlet bits of pimiento.

If you can't get Spanish saffron from a grocer, try your drugstore. It's well worth a little extra trouble to have a complete assortment of herbs and spices on hand these days. The more limited the choice of foods, the more flexible our cooking methods have to be, and interesting seasonings become more important than ever.

ARROZ CON POLLO.
¼ cup chopped celery.
1 tablespoon minced parsley.
1 tablespoon salt.
3 cups boiling water.
¼ cup salad oil.
2 tomatoes, sliced.
2 onions, chopped.
½ teaspoon pepper.
1 pinch saffron.
1 teaspoon paprika.
2 cups pimiento, chopped.

Have chicken cut into pieces for serving. Put into a large saucepan with parsley, celery, bay leaf, water and salt. Cover tightly and simmer over low heat for 1 hour. Meanwhile, fry garlic, onions and tomatoes in the salad oil. Wash rice thoroughly and add to the tomato and onion mixture. Let it stand 15 minutes, stirring constantly to avoid browning.

Add pepper, saffron and paprika to chicken broth in the saucepan, then pile the prepared rice mixture carefully on top of the chicken. Cover tightly and boil very gently until the rice is cooked and the chicken is tender, about 45 minutes to 1 hour.

Spoon rice out carefully on to hot serving dish and pile chicken pieces in the center. Sprinkle with heated peas and pimiento.

"Pan Dowdys" are always welcomed by the family, and this one should be no exception. The recipe elsewhere on the page uses apples, but there is no reason, if you prefer, not to make the dish with peaches.

TOP-OF-STOVE COOKING: (IRON IN WATER.)

(Thanks to Mrs. J. P. C., Cambly, Ind.)

Here is a reply to the lady who wanted some ideas on top-of-stove cooking. The following are dishes that I prepare all the time and we enjoy them very much. I cannot give you the exact measurements, as I just cook whatever amount I think will be used.

Ham and potatoes: Take a slice of smoked ham and brown in a heavy skillet. When browned add thick sliced potatoes and pour about a cup of milk over the potatoes and meat. Put on tight lid and cook over a very slow fire until the potatoes are done. If too dry, before the potatoes are done add a little more milk. Stir often. I believe you will say that potatoes fixed this way are the most delicious you have ever tasted.

Meat balls, tomatoes and potatoes: Make meat balls with chopped onions and brown on all sides in heavy skillet. When done pour a can of tomatoes in with the meat balls and add potatoes that have been quartered. Cook until potatoes are tender. Pour over slow fire with tight lid. Season to taste. When served with a salad it is a complete meal.

Another one is to take sliced pork, chops or steak and brown in a heavy skillet. When done add sliced onions and potatoes quartered. Pour in about 2 cups of water and cook slowly with tight lid on until potatoes are done. Add a thickening, and here you have meat, potatoes and gravy.

Request:—Can any one tell me what to do when water is full of iron? I live out of town and have a well. When the tubs are filled for my laundry you can't see the bottom. It makes the clothes very yellow. The only way I have found so far is to fill my tubs four or five days before washday and let all this settle to the bottom and then siphon into clean tubs. To the water that I heat I add a softener, and the iron will come to the top and can be skimmed off. The rinse water is what has me puzzled.

I enjoy your column very much, but I should like to see it. It should be in every day!

(Thanks to Mrs. A. H., Hyattsville.)

In reply to Mrs. B. W. K., Washington, who requests a recipe for uncooked fudge I'm sure she will enjoy the following for candy, and, made with a little more milk, as an icing. Nut meats may be added, of course.

4 ounces baking chocolate.
3 cups sifted confectioner's sugar.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Melt butter and chocolate in double boiler, stir until blended. Stir hot milk into sugar, beat until smooth. Stir in chocolate mixture, vanilla and salt. Beat until smooth and thickened, about 5 minutes.

SEVERAL CONTRIBUTIONS.

(Thanks to Mrs. R. R. S., Sandy Spring.)

I guess I have been reading and accepting recipes and household hints from The Clearing House long enough without giving something in return. The Star's Woman's Page is the best I have read in any paper.

Here is an uncooked fudge for Mrs. B. W. K.:
Beat one egg very light and add to it 2 tablespoons cream (or evaporated milk) and 1 pound confectioner's sugar. Melt ½ cake of chocolate over the steam of a kettle with 1 large tablespoon butter. Add these to egg and sugar mixture and flavor with 1 teaspoon vanilla. Stir well or until chocolate is well mixed and pack about ½ inch deep in buttered pan. Set away in cold place for an hour, then cut in squares and serve.

½ peck green tomatoes.
5 onions.
12 peppers (9 green, 3 red, if possible).
Put all through food chopper (cut coarse). Put on stove and let boil 15 minutes. Drain and let cool.

To 2 pints vinegar add 1½ pounds sugar. Tie 2 tablespoons ground cloves, 2 tablespoons ground cinnamon in a rag and boil in vinegar for about 10 minutes. Lift out and add 3 tablespoons cornstarch and boil enough to cook cornstarch, which thickens the mixture somewhat. Then add to the tomato mixture:
2 tablespoons salt.
2 tablespoons celery seed.
Mix the chopped ingredients and vinegar mixture together and let cook slowly 20 minutes. Seal in jars. Makes about 5 pints.

This recipe we made in cooking class in high school during World War I. It proved so economical and delicious we have always used it. We prefer the molasses purchased loose from a barrel, where you take your own jar to be filled, to that in cans. Sirup is not a good substitute, as it changes the flavor entirely. We called it "Egless, sugar-free, butterless gingerbread".
Pinch salt.
2 teaspoons baking soda.
2½ cups flour.

Mix all dry ingredients. Put sour milk and molasses in a mixing bowl. Add dry ingredients (through sifter) to milk and molasses. Melt fat, add it to the other materials. Beat thoroughly and turn at once into shallow loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven 20 minutes or until done. My husband's favorite salad dressing is unusual but good. It is sweet, too:
Beat 2 eggs very light, add 1 teaspoon each of salt and prepared mustard. Beat again. Add 1 can condensed milk. Beat again. Add ½ cup lemon juice or vinegar. Beat again thoroughly. More lemon juice or vinegar can be added to suit individual taste. Also more seasoning. Beat again.

The sewing recipe was clipped many years ago from The Philadelphia Inquirer and is the best brown sugar icing I have ever eaten, and it never fails:
2 cups light brown sugar.
1½ cups vanilla.
6 marshmallows.

Melt butter, add cream and sugar. Cook until mixture forms soft ball in cold water. Remove from fire and add vanilla, gelatin, just as it is, and marshmallows. Beat until consistency to spread. It will become somewhat lighter in color. Once tried this will always prove a favorite.

Apple Pan Dowdy

Apple pan dowdy is a famous member of that great, good family which includes apple pie, apple cobbler, apple dumplings and apple-upside-down cake—among men especially one of the most popular of the culinary tribes.

Apple pan dowdy is either a dessert or a meal, as you choose. For sheer deliciousness it is hard to surpass. For the meal, a big serving in a deep saucer or bowl with plenty of milk (if cream in quantity is a little rich for your family's taste). For dessert, serve with cream.

¼ teaspoon cinnamon.
1 tablespoon butter.

Core and slice apples, arrange in well-greased baking dish. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon, dot with butter. Add water. Roll biscuit dough very thin and place over apples. Sprinkle lightly with old-fashioned brown sugar. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) 10 minutes, then reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and bake 30 to 35 minutes longer, or until apples are tender. Approximate yield: Six portions.

Leftover Halibut Used in Salad

Here's a nice way to take leftover cooked halibut and quickly make a main dish of a cold supper out of it.

Cut the cold halibut into convenient bits, using a very sharp knife to prevent ragged pieces. Place in a bowl and moisten with French dressing. Place the halibut on pieces of lettuce and dress again with a mixture of mayonnaise and lemon juice—using lemon juice to taste. This gives your salad a sharp, definite flavor.

Now your salad is ready except for the touching up. For this you can use boned scrod pieces, placed on each portion. Or one or two anchovies, if you have them. And you may add bits of sliced pimiento, slices of hard-boiled egg, bits of capers.

District Marine Flyer And Wingman Route Disguised Jap Planes

Lt. Alvin J. Jensen, 1236 Eleventh street N.W., has been having a rough time with Japanese treachery in the skies over the Solomon Islands, but in his letters home he prefers to talk about the steak dinners he is getting.

Mrs. Catherine Jensen, resident manager of the apartment house at the Eleventh street address, gets most of the news about her son through the press. His latest exploit, told in an Associated Press dispatch today, described his attack along with another pilot, on 11 Japanese planes disguised to look like American fighters.

But in his letters Lt. Jensen passes off his combat experiences with the curt observation that the American forces are meeting some "real tough fighting."

Lt. Jensen came to Washington with his family from Clemson, S. C., in 1934. He lived in Cherrypdale, Va., and attended Washington-Lee High School. Later, when his mother moved to the District, he went to Woodrow Wilson High School.

After graduation, he worked at the Government Printing Office and during the summer of 1940 attended a Marine Corps class in aviation on Saturdays. Later he took a Civil Aeronautics Administration course and received his private pilot's license.

When war began he was called into active service by the Marine Corps and stationed at Quantico for a year, studying ground work. He was later assigned to Pearl Harbor. Last April he received his commission as a second lieutenant and his flyer's wings. Within four weeks he had shot down six enemy planes, three of them in one day.

Also participating in flights against Japanese forces in the Solomons is Lt. John P. Cox, Marine Corps flyer of Silver Spring, Md. Lt. Cox, a graduate of Montgomery Blair High School won his wings in 1938 at Moultrie, Ga. In a letter home recently he revealed his squadron had accounted for 96 enemy planes—the third highest score in the world.

B'nai B'rith to Sponsor Bond Drive for Million

A $1,000,000 war bond drive will be launched September 9 by the men's and women's Argo Lodges of B'nai B'rith as part of the District's third war loan campaign.

The lodges' drive will end with a "War Bond Cavalcade," featuring a variety of entertainment, in the Shoreham Hotel on the evening of September 22. It was announced by Assistant United States Attorney Bernard Margolis, a member of the committee.

The cavalcade is to feature a two-hour variety show, admission to which will be through the purchase of a War bond. Entertainment is to include singing by Mme. Genia Ury, famous French soprano, and a tableau depicting War bond posters and the four freedoms.

Members of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, Government officials and diplomats are to be invited to the cavalcade, it was announced. Mrs. Nathan Hurwitz is chairman for both the special campaign and cavalcade.

Others assisting her as committee chairmen include Mrs. S. Elliott Levinson, Mrs. Maurice Solomon, Bernard Fischgrund, Dr. Harry Ostrow, Dr. Milton I. Baldinger, Samuel Cohen and Joseph Tudor.

Schepmann Named to Head Nazi Storm Troopers

A Berlin broadcast yesterday said that Gen. Wilhelm Schepmann has been appointed by Hitler as chief of staff of the Nazi Storm Troopers.

Schepmann fills the vacancy left by the death of Viktor Lutze, who died May 2 after injuries received in an automobile accident.

The broadcast said Gen. Schepmann's rank related to his position in the Storm Troop organization and not in the German Army, although he was said to have received several decorations as "company commander and orderly officer" in an infantry regiment in the present war.

It said he was dismissed from a minor administrative post by the German Republic "without pension," but his "constructive work found its reward" when the Nazis came to power.

He joined the party in 1922, the broadcast said, and formerly was in command of Storm Troops in Saxony.

Recall Memorable Meal

Food rationing in England has aroused new interest in a tombstone in Berkswell in which are carved 21 eggs, 16 rashers of bacon and two loaves of bread to commemorate a meal consumed at one sitting by Clement Docker in 1775 to retain his title as the county's champion eater, his last meal.

BUNGLE FAMILY

Nature's Children

By LILLIAN COX ATHEY. GREAT MARTINETTA. (Rhyacionia tylosis) Martinetas inhabit the elevated tablelands of South America. They are found chiefly where there are patches of scattered dwarf scrub. They live among the thorny growth, and apparently they do not require water. Often they are seen in the driest districts where there are no places for water to collect. These birds have very handsome plumage. It is densely banded and spotted with black and pale brown. There are black verticals and a long recurved crest of black feathers somewhat edged with cinnamon brown.

There are two lateral stripes on the head above and beneath the eye. The slender throat is cinnamon white and a pale tint of brown beneath. The breast has numerous black bars and under the wings are a pure white. The under tail covers have broad black bands. On the wings there are many markings. The bill has a black hue and the sturdy legs have a bluish cast. The female is clothed in a slightly paler shade of the color patterns.

What is so interesting about these birds is their keen delight in dust baths. This place is highly regarded by all members of the clan. The "dust" is hollowed out to form a circular spot that is finally made quite deep. Here will come the birds every day for their bath. There must be a friendly agreement as to each one's bathing in the dust. There has been no report of disputes among them and only one appears, as if her allotted time must be kept. She leaves promptly and another arrives.

Coveys of from 6 to 30 birds may be seen together in a field. But they resort to flight at once. And they jump up one after another and are on their own to escape. Sometimes, they run away and are very swift. As they retreat, whether flying or running, they utter a shrill, squealing cry in great terror. Their flight, although it appears to be rather violent and loud, is also accompanied with a soft walling note that is rather pathetic. As the flapping of the wings ceases, so do the notes of complaint.

The call note is never heard during the winter. In September, the birds begin to utter in the evening a long, weird, slightly modulated whistle. This is the way the concealed birds have of talking over the day's events with each other. Their plumage blends so well with the growth about them it would be almost impossible to find them unless you heard their whistles or looked them in the eye. The nest is placed at the roots of small isolated trees. There may be from 12 to 16 elliptical eggs of a beautiful deep green color and highly polished. Owing to the extreme wariness of these birds, little has been learned of their domestic affairs.

Uncle Ray's Corner

Many thousands of badgers live on this continent, but people seldom see them. Their holes may be found on prairies and mountainsides, also about the edges of deserts, but the animals themselves are hard to locate. There are two main reasons why badgers seldom are seen. One is the fact that they are "nocturnal." They use the nights to hunt their food and spend most of their daylight hours inside their "dugout" homes.

The other main reason badgers are not often seen is that they are careful when they do wander from their holes. In twilight or moonlight, they watch out for enemies. They are tough little fighters, but they have enough sense to know that they are no match for men with rifles. The badger has a gray coat of rather long hair or fur. There is a streak of white running from the nose over the head. The gray coat matches the ground in some places, and this is still another thing which keeps them out of sight. The western prairies of Canada and the United States are the favorite homes of badgers. In that region they do a good deal to keep down the number of pests. They feed on mice, gophers and prairie dogs.

A full-grown badger is usually a little more than 2 feet long and weighs about 15 pounds. We may say that it is "built close to the ground." In other words, it has short legs. Time and again badgers have proved their skill in fighting. In past times, when these animals were more common than today, the so-called sport of "badger-baiting" was carried on. A barrel was laid on the ground, and a captured badger was placed at the open end. Then it was attacked by one or more dogs. The badger always put up a brave fight. It was more than a match for a single dog, and sometimes fought off two or more dogs.

A young man once caught a badger by the tail and hind legs as it was running into its hole. He could not pull it out, and called on the help of a friend who was with him. Even the two together were not able to pull the badger out. If they had succeeded in capturing it alive, they might have been bitten for their pains. This animal has sharp teeth, and uses them when attacked.

Uncle Ray "Sights in Strange India" is the title of a picture leader. It contains 10 pictures by Frank F. King, several hundred words of text by Uncle Ray, and a well-addressed envelope bearing a 3-cent stamp to Uncle Ray in care of The Evening Star.

Points for Parents —By EDITH THOMAS WALLACE

Promptness, one of the by-products of consideration for others, is more effectively taught by allowing an offender to suffer the consequences of his procrastination than it is by giving constant reminders and criticism.

This

Mother: "Since we've all agreed we'll start on our hike to the park for our picnic at 5, let's also agree not to remind each other to get ready and any one who is late will have to come alone."

Not This

Mother: "John, you're going to get to the park at 5, aren't you? You made the sandwiches yet? I don't see why I can't teach you children to be prompt. Goodness knows, I've talked enough about it."

Educational Films Teaching Chinese

Between 4,000 and 10,000 persons attend the biweekly programs of educational motion pictures shown by Nanking University, now located at Chengtu, China.

Visual education was introduced to the Chinese by Dr. H. R. Wei of the University of Chicago and Swen Ming-ching of the University of Nanking. Aided by funds from the United States, the university bought trucks and equipped them with microphones, projectors and screens. Teams of trained men are sent out to tour China. Each night the screen is set up in a village marketplace. The teams have penetrated to remote tribal areas.

SONNYSAYINGS

Woo-hoo! Tommy! Come a runnin' and look at a dog that a So'ger owns half ob!

Famine Fought

Efforts are being made to purchase rice in Huanan Province of China to relieve serious famine conditions in the Sz Yop district near Canton, caused by Japanese troops destroying growing crops and villages before their withdrawal in the spring of 1942.

Take My Word for It

By FRANK COLBY.

Handbook for Office Workers.

Q. Please advise whether common usage has made correct the spelling of PERCENT as one word. I am constantly being corrected for spelling it as two words.

A. Most dictionaries show only "per cent." Merriam-Webster's lists "percent" as second choice. I recommend "per cent," since it is a shortening of the Latin per centum.

Q. Should canceled be spelled with one or two "l's"?

A. First choice: canceled, canceling, traveled, traveling. Second choice: cancelled, cancelling, travelled, travelling.

Q. Is the hyphen correct in the French phrase "fait-accomplir"?

A. None of my dictionaries, French or English, shows the hyphen. Correct: fait accompli. The phrase means "an irrevocable accomplishment." The "m" has the French nasal sound. Say: fesh-tak-aw (n)-PLEE.

Q. Is this sentence correct, "Our plant is larger than any plant in the State"?

A. No, for your plant is included in "any plant in the State," and a thing cannot be larger than itself. Better: "Our plant is the largest in the State. Or: Our plant is larger than any other in the State. Q. The office has almost come to blows over this sentence: "The management does not approve of you (or your) reporting late." Please help us to understand.

A. Correct: The management does not approve of your reporting late. Possessive case should be used in such sentences. Wrong: "We regretted our secretary's resigning." Right: We regretted our secretary's resigning. A simple, non-technical key to this usage is contained in my free pamphlet. Send a stamped (3-cent), self-addressed envelope to Frank Colby, in care of The Evening Star. Ask for POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS Pamphlet.
