Churchill Hopes For Early Talks With Stalin

Says Political Aims Won't Sway Second Front Decision

By the Associated Press. QUEBEC, Aug. 31.—Prime Minister Churchill said today that "nothing is nearer to the wishes of President Roosevelt and myself than to have a three-day meeting with Marshal Stalin."

The Prime Minister said he did not blame Russia for any criticism it had leveled at the Allies for not having launched a new offensive in Western Europe.

Foreign Ministers Parley. "And in the meantime it seems most necessary and urgent that a conference of the British, United States and Russian foreign ministers or their responsible representatives should be held at some convenient place in order not merely to explore the various important questions connected with the future arrangements for world security, but to carry their discussions to a point where the heads of states and governments may be able to intervene."

Mr. Churchill said a tripartite meeting among Britain, the United States and Russia "would be of very great advantage to every one and indeed to the whole free world."

Eden Confers With Malsky; Will See Winant Later

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden conferred today with Ivan Malsky, former Soviet Ambassador to Britain, at the Foreign Office and arranged to see United States Ambassador John G. Winant this afternoon in order to give both a first-hand account of the Quebec conference, where a tripartite meeting of the three powers was suggested.

One reliable source said no final decision had yet been made on the "big three" get-together, but at the same time it was learned that preliminary plans were formulated for an initial meeting of the "foreign minister level."

The possibility also was recognized that Mr. Eden, Mr. Malsky and Mr. Winant might sit down together after the separate conferences today. They know one another well.

400 Men Tried to Reach Coast, Germans Say; London Is Skeptical of Announcement

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The German radio declared today that British troops attempted a minor landing in Italy southeast of Reggio Calabria across from Sicily, but that it was "immediately scotched."

The German broadcast was recorded by Reuters. No details were given. Reggio Calabria lies just across the strait of Messina from Sicily, and a landing to the "southeast" would have been on the very bottom of the toe of Italy.

2,000 Believed Killed Or Wounded During Danish Rebellion

Uprising Crushed, but Germans Now Face Wave of Strikes

STOCKHOLM (AP).—German armored patrols ruthlessly shot Danes in the streets of Copenhagen today as King Christian X, in his first appearance since the Nazis took over Denmark Sunday, gave what his people interpreted as tacit approval of resistance to the military dictatorship.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 31.—Reports already received here from Denmark indicated today at least 2,000 persons were killed or wounded in fighting which began before dawn Sunday between Danish soldiers, sailors and civilians and the German occupation army.

Having crushed the last vestiges of the two-day old military revolt, the harassed German occupation authorities were nevertheless faced with a new threat in a series of general strikes in nine Danish cities against their dictatorship.

With the monarch a prisoner in Sorgenfri Castle, most of the government members jailed or under house arrest and scores of other prominent Danes in prison, Lt. Gen. Hermann von Hanneken moved to tighten the German military grip over the country by rounding up all Danish army and navy officers.

President Calls Pearson Liar; Tells of Soviet Parley Plans

Condensing charges ascribed to Drew Pearson, columnist and radio commentator, that Secretary Hull and other high State Department officials wanted the Soviet Union "to be bid white," President Roosevelt said this afternoon that the statement from beginning to end is a lie and that Mr. Pearson is a chronic liar in his column.

Asked whether he had "any information that Stalin will attend," the President replied that things were coming along pretty well and that was all he could say.

It was this incident that was the basis for a column assailed yesterday by Secretary Hull, who said that Mr. Pearson was guilty of "monstrous and diabolical falsehoods."

Raid Follows Up RAF Night Attack On Rhineland Plants

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Following up a heavy RAF attack on the Rhineland, American Marauders today raided a German airfield at Lille-Vanderville in France and a power station at Mazingarbe, France.

Headquarters of the 8th American Air Force called the attacks "successful." One of the B-26 medium bombers is missing.

Lauchlin Currie Takes OEW Executive Post In New Shake-Up

Two Resignations and Nine Appointments Revealed by Crowley

Director Leo T. Crowley of the Office of Economic Warfare today announced nine appointments within the agency, including Lauchlin Currie, administrative assistant to President Roosevelt, as executive officer for OEW.

Mr. Currie has been lent to the OEW. Mr. Crowley also formally acknowledged the resignations of Morris S. Rosenthal, assistant director of OEW in charge of the Office of Imports, and Monroe Oppenheimer, general counsel.

Other appointments were: Hugh B. Cox, assistant attorney general, who will serve as general counsel of OEW in place of Mr. Oppenheimer, in addition to carrying out his work as director of the War Division of the Justice Department.

Two Triumphs On Central Front Told by Stalin

Fall of Yelnya and Glukhov Follow Taganrog Success

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The Soviet Army captured the town of Yelnya, 45 miles east of Smolensk, in twin drives against the center of the German front, Premier Joseph Stalin announced today in two orders of the day.

The Soviet Premier first announced the victory at Yelnya, 45 miles east of Smolensk. A short time later he followed it up with the triumphant announcement that a second drive in the Sevsk sector had netted Glukhov, 42 miles northeast of the important railway junction of Konotop.

Stalin also disclosed that this push had captured Bryukh, 44 miles north of Sumy and 67 miles east of Konotop.

Three Victories in Two Days. The dual announcements, recorded here by the Soviet monitor, hailed the second and third important victories for the Soviets in two days.

Moscow had just heard the victory guns celebrating the capture of Taganrog, on the Sea of Azov, in Southern Russia, when the guns were ordered again to fire 12 salvos for Yelnya.

Yelnya is 35 miles west of Spas Demensk, the last town reported captured on the mainline railroad running from Latvia eastward through Smolensk and into Central Russia.

Stalin called Yelnya an "operationally important large road junction and the most important center of resistance on the defenses in the Smolensk direction."

Break Through Naxi Lines. The city was taken after Soviet troops broke through strongly fortified German defense lines, Stalin announced.

The capture of Yelnya, a day after the capture of Taganrog, gave striking proof of the power of the Soviet summer offensive which now has recaptured Orel, Belgorod, Kharkov, Sevsk, Karachev, Taganrog, Yelnya and hundreds of lesser towns.

Red Army cavalry and tank units which captured Taganrog were reported advancing to threaten the seaport of Mariupol, 75 miles to the west. They already had driven along the coast 28 miles toward the Mius River city.

The Red Army was exterminating the surrounded remnants of the German army's Taganrog group which had attempted to make a "Dunkerque" evacuation of the city.

Schroeder Unlisted For Tennis Match

Ensign Champ Shifted; Parker Heads Seedings

(Earlier Story on Page A-9) By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—With possibility of his being able to compete now remote, inasmuch as he has received naval orders which will take him out of the country, defending champion Ensign Ted Schroeder was not listed when the seedings were announced today for the national tennis championships starting tomorrow at Forest Hills.

Frank A. Parker, No. 2 in the national rankings, was seeded No. 1, with Francisco Saurio of Ecuador, undefeated this year, seeded No. 2. Others seeded in the men's singles were John Kramer, Montebello, Calif., No. 3; William Talbert, Cincinnati, No. 4; Seymour Greenberg, Chicago, No. 5; Sidney Wood, New York, No. 6; Joe Hunt, U. S. N., No. 7, and Lt. Edward Cook, U. S. N., No. 8. Pauline Betz of Los Angeles tops the elite seeded women players, with Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., in the No. 2 spot. The others are Margaret Osborne, San Francisco, No. 3; Doris Hart, Miami, Fla., No. 4; Sarah Palfrey Cooke, Miami, No. 5; Helen Bernhardt, New York, No. 6; Mary Arnold, Los Angeles, No. 7, and Dorothy Bundy, Santa Monica, Calif., No. 8. Radio Mechanic Held For Jury in Slaying Of Stenographer

John Walter Morton, 39-year-old radio mechanic, was ordered held for grand jury action without bond when arraigned before United States Commissioner Nathan C. Furness this afternoon in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Grace Grubb Groome, 57, whose body was found Sunday in Rock Creek Park.

T. C. Hutchinson, 3923 Ninth street N.E., a surprise witness, positively identified Morton as the man in bloodstained clothing he saw about 9:35 p.m. Saturday in a restaurant in the 1400 block of Park road N.W.

"He looked like he had been allowing in blood," the witness testified. He said Morton, who entered the restaurant to buy cigarettes, had blood on his face, shirt and trousers.

Mr. Hutchinson, a 30-year-old Capital Transit Co. employe, recognized Morton's picture in the newspaper and got in contact with Police Inspector Robert Barrett this morning.

Two Other Witnesses.

Also testifying at this afternoon's hearing were Detective Sergt. Robert V. Murray, who told of arresting Morton in his apartment in the 1400 block of Meridian place N.W., and James Gilmore, a bus driver, who said a man wearing a blue, blood-stained shirt boarded the southbound bus he was driving at Tilden street and Connecticut avenue about 8:56 p.m. Saturday.

Mr. Gilmore, who lives at 4009 Chesapeake street N.W., said he was not able to identify Morton definitely, but that the man who boarded the bus answered his description. The bus driver said he did not notice where the man, who appeared to be drunk, got off the bus.

Sergt. Murray quoted Morton as saying that he and Mrs. Grubb had gone to Rock Creek Park together and had an altercation. Morton told him of striking the woman once, then walking off with the comment—"To hell with you," the police officer testified.

Sergt. Murray submitted a blood-stained pale blue sport shirt, which he said was worn by the defendant at his home after the arrest.

Defendant Appears Calm.

Morton had nothing to say at the arraignment and remained more calm and subdued than he was 24 hours before, when arraignment proceedings were postponed to enable him to obtain legal counsel. Attorney Charles F. Haller represented the defendant at the proceedings today.

Meanwhile, seeking to build an airtight, scientific case against Morton, police revealed that Federal Bureau of Investigation chemists are making intensive tests of the man's blood-stained clothing, and of small scrapings and soil from his shoes.

The body of Mrs. Groome, who lived at 1361 Irving street N.W., was found early Sunday morning at a popular picnic ground near Pierce Mill, Rock Creek Park. Her disheveled clothing and blood-soaked body bore testimony to the struggle she waged against her assailant.

Police said Dr. Richard H. Rosenberg, deputy coroner, made a test yesterday to determine whether the man had had blood on his body and had obtained affirmative results. The test, said to be reliable if used within a reasonable time, is made with a fluid which turns purple any part of the skin that has been touched by blood.

One arm and various other parts of Morton's body were found to have shown the presence of blood.

Identified as Passenger.

The accused man, who police said is a widower, a young son in a Washington institution, was identified as a passenger wearing blood-stained clothing on a bus late Saturday night, and as the purchaser of two pints of whisky at a liquor store.

Julius Nachman, manager of the Tivoli Wine and Liquor Store, 3318 fourteenth street N.W., told police a man purchased liquor of a brand contained in a bottle found at the slaying about 6 p.m. Saturday. Mr. Nachman said the same man reappeared in the store about 11 p.m. and bought another bottle of the same brand. The second time his clothing was blood-stained, Mr. Nachman said.

Miss Minette Sherman of 3239 Davenport street N.W., told police she saw the man board a bus on Connecticut avenue Saturday night. She said he got off the bus at Calvert street and Connecticut avenue.

Yesterday Miss Sherman picked Morton out of a line-up at police headquarters as the man she had seen on the bus.

Description Fitted.

Morton's clothing and appearance "fitted to a T" Miss Sherman's description, police said. FBI tests are expected to reveal whether the blood on his clothing is that of the slain woman.

Mrs. Groome, who resided with her sister, Mrs. Edna Foltz, on the Irving street address, had been employed as a stenographer. The sisters had lived on Irving street since late last winter, according to neighbors.

Offer on Spy Case Evidence Reported

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Aug. 31.—The Detroit News said today that Mrs. Theresa Behrens, one of the four persons held here on charges of violating the Espionage Act, has offered to tell "many things the Government ought to know" in exchange for her freedom.

The newspaper said that in the presence of matrons and John S. Bugas, special agent in charge of the Detroit office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Mrs. Behrens declared: "I don't want to go to court. I don't want to testify. But I do know a lot of important things, and I will tell them if I can be assured of my freedom."

Questioned about the incident, Mr. Bugas said he had no comment. Mrs. Behrens is held under $50,000 bond, along with Miss Grace Buchanan-Dineen, 34; Dr. Fred William Thomas, 44; and Bertrand Stuart Hoffman, 27.

At Receiving Hospital, where she was removed last Thursday, Mrs. Behrens was reported still refusing solid food today. Attendants said she was accepting liquids.

Need for Bond Buying To Assure Victory Stressed by Hero

Purchase of bonds in the Third War Loan drive starting September 9 will supply the tools to fighting men who will achieve victory, a thrice-decorated hero of South Pacific naval battles today told Washington business and civic leaders at a luncheon meeting of the District War Finance Committee. The local quota is $94,000,000.

Capt. Laurence Allen Abercrombie, U. S. N., shared speaking honors with Robert V. Fleming, president of Riggs National Bank, who emphasized that inflation could be staved off if a purchasing power of $37,000,000,000 in excess of goods available is invested in War bonds.

Pointing out that the public bought $135,000,000,000 in securities in the Second War Loan campaign, Mr. Fleming said the Treasury is asking individual subscribers to buy only $1,500,000,000 more in bonds than were purchased by individuals last April.

War's Cost Given.

Discussing the District's $94,000,000 quota, Chairman John Reilly said the war is costing America over $10,000,000,000 an hour, adding "Before this meeting adjourns over 10 per cent of the money we are expected to raise will have been spent." He emphasized we are "selling the best bill of goods on earth—a share in America." Possession of a War bond, he stated, is the seal of a faith well kept and a belief in victory.

Capt. Abercrombie warned that the war is not over, and it will be long. Declaring we have just started fighting on the fringe, he said our Navy will be needed for peace as well as war. "Let us not scuttle our Navy as we did after the last war," he urged.

Raided Pacific Isles.

As sea when Pearl Harbor was bombed, Capt. Abercrombie said he took a vow to avenge the Arizona's sinking. Three weeks later his destroyer was the first Jap warship, a submarine, he took part in the raid on the Marshall and Gilbert Islands, where 30 Jap bombers were shot down, and in the battle of Santa Cruz, in which we lost the carrier Hornet, but destroyed 149 enemy planes. Capt. Abercrombie also participated in a night naval battle off the Solomons, in which our Navy suffered some losses in sinking nine Jap ships.

"America will strike a dagger into the heart of Tokio and Berlin, but we are headed for disaster unless the fighting men are supplied with the tools of war," he emphasized.

Ten enlisted men from war zones, guests of the committee, were accorded a rousing reception.

Gasoline

gasoline is needed for our fighting forces."

Meanwhile, the Bureau of Mines forecast that September demand for gasoline—military as well as civilian—remained in effect until March 3, when it was replaced by an honor roll system. The ban went back on May 20, however, when gasoline rations were reduced in the East.

The restrictions applied to the 12 Northeastern States, eight counties in West Virginia and the District. Although OPA's General Manager, Chester Bowles had expressed hope of Supplies and Distribution in the Midwest and Southwest to enforce existing rationing regulations. The Eastern OED, he said, has such authority.

Sees Saving at but 1 Per Cent.

Mr. Hartley estimated that the expected saving of 20 per cent in Midwestern gasoline consumption had not been more than 1 per cent in that region.

Adequate transportation was available for transshipment of gasoline to Eastern districts, he said, but deliveries from the Great Lakes routes were far below capacity because fuel was not available. He acknowledged that transportation had been the biggest problem to solve at the beginning of the Eastern oil shortage, but noted that the opening of several additional pipelines and building of an average of 50 steel barges a month for inland waterway travel had overcome this obstacle.

Mr. Hartley said stocks still could be built up in the Midwest in time for shipment East before the winter freeze chokes off the Great Lakes delivery route. He warned that the Office of Supply and Distribution must have sufficient authority to order shipment East of surplus or else it would find its way back into the black market. He said he was particularly interested in obtaining supplies from the Midwest rather than the Southwest because of the time saved. He estimated that 75,000 barrels would be daily if fuel was hauled all the way from the Southwest.

Mr. Hartley said the sentiments of his group would be conveyed to Mr. Ickes in a letter this week. "If the group would confer soon after Congress convenes on more effective measures for obtaining relief for the West."

Ickes Predicts Nation Must Stint Itself

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—Petroleum Administrator Ickes, in a signed article published in the current issue of Liberty magazine, predicted that the supply of gasoline may become so low that "the Nation as a whole will have to stint itself."

"We haven't been discovering enough crude oil," Mr. Ickes said. "Our experts tell us that by the end of the year our total productive capacity will just about equal our consumption, and when that point is reached we will be faced to face with the danger of producing inefficiently, with the probability that in any event our production will decline."

"The supply may become so low that not only the Midwesterner, the Southwestern and the Easterner, but of boosting Eastern gasoline rations early in September," Richard C. Harrison, chief of the OPA gasoline rationing section, reported that the increase may not come "for weeks or months" because Eastern gasoline stocks have been declining.

"That recalled Secretary of the Interior Ickes' warning that Eastern motorists were burning up many of their allotment, cutting their chances of an early increase in coupon allowances. B and C book holders in the Northeast now get 2 1/2 gallons on each coupon, while A book holders receive about 1 1/2 gallons a week.

Operators' Paper Says Shirking by Miners Causes Lag in Output

By the Associated Press.

"Enormous absenteeism and indifference" on the part of miners was blamed by a publication of soft coal operators today for a serious lag in coal production since the spring strikes—a lag which Secretary of the Interior Ickes says has reduced output below the year's estimated needs.

"It seems," said a bulletin of the National Coal Association, distributed to its operator members, "that the slogan 'No Contract—No Sweat' is in full operation in some sections."

The bulletin also took the Government to task for its part in the coal shortage problem, saying:

"In order to be fair about it, too, the record should also show that the Government itself, since last spring, has not fully contributed to the successful operation of the coal mines of this country. Threats of shortages and rationing, plus implication that the Government is going to do this, have not helped the situation at all.

Cites Manpower Crisis.

"A solution to the manpower problem with enforceable directives has not been forthcoming. And the labor situation grows steadily worse. All this, with a little more of this panic-crying out of Washington, and we may safely look for serious difficulty in getting sufficient coal to take care of the Nation, whereas the Government spokesmen might do more good by being less vocal, and if the miners go to work there will be no difficulties."

The War Labor Board, meanwhile, put into formal writing its refusal, announced last week, to approve payment of an extra $1.25 a day to Illinois coal miners for the time they spend traveling underground to and from work.

It gave these reasons for turning down an agreement between the John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers and Illinois coal operators for portal-to-portal pay:

(1) "The mine workers are not entitled to extra compensation under the Fair Labor Standards Act (wage and hour law) until the weekly working time exceeds 40 hours."

(2) "The miners failed to establish that the $1.25 was 'not an indirect wage increase in violation of wage stabilization policies.'"

Davis Writes Opinion.

WLB Chairman William H. Davis, writing the formal majority opinion, said:

"We understand very well what a good thing it would be if we could approve this agreement and put an end to the wage dispute in the bituminous industry. * * * There would be every reason in the world for us to approve the agreement if it were really a genuine settlement of a legal claim under the Fair Labor Standards Act."

"On the other hand, we have a grave responsibility to preserve the wage stabilization policy.

Claim Called Unsupported.

"The only way we can honestly discharge this responsibility, when we are called upon to decide whether the wage increase proposed in the Illinois agreement should or should not be approved, is to satisfy ourselves that the amount of the proposed wage increase is genuinely proposed and reasonable by the mine workers under the Fair Labor Standards Act. We have said that the proposed settlement must be submitted with supporting data sufficient to enable the board to determine whether or not it constitutes a genuine settlement of alleged claims arising under the Fair Labor Standards Act and not an indirect wage increase in violation of the wage stabilization policy."

"The proposed settlement now before us is not supported by any such data, and we cannot approve it. * * * The proposed settlement

Arkansas Governor Calls Nebraska's Bet On War Loan Result

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 31.—Gov. Homer M. Adkins of Arkansas today called Gov. Dwight Griswold of Nebraska on his offer to bet a $25 corn-fed hog that Nebraska could beat Arkansas in the third War bond drive opening September 9.

bet. Gov. Adkins said he would bet a white-faced calf against Gov. Griswold's pig that Arkansas's percentage showing in the drive would beat Nebraska's.

The Arkansas Governor's wagering heretofore has not been so successful.

and that the quicker the press realized it the better it will be.

The President said he was just as much disturbed by the Pearson allegation as was the Secretary of State. That sort of thing, the President continued, is detrimental not only to the foreign relations of the United States but to the unity of the United Nations and to the winning of the war.

He described the Pearson charge as an act of bad faith toward this man's country, and he said Mr. Hull had been polite in his remarks about it.

The reported resignation of Mr. Welles, who has not been at his desk for about 10 days, has been ascribed to differences between him and Mr. Hull. When the President was asked if he could confirm the resignation, he said he had no news on the matter and when there was something to say newsmen would probably be advised.

Reporters said that indicated that something was to be said, and the President laughingly responded that when and if there was anything to be said he would say it.

He emphasized that he would be the one to decide when anything was to be said.

Down Drafts' Held Possible Cause of Airliner Crash

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The crash of an American Airlines plane that killed 20 persons July 26 near Trammel, Ky., may have been caused by a series of "down drafts" in the midst of a severe thunderstorm, a weather expert informed an official Board of Investigation today.

George M. French of Arlington, Va., meteorologist of the Civil Aeronautics Board, told CAB investigators that all indications pointed to the presence of the storm and the plane's route carried it into the center of the area.

Mr. French said that residents near the crash scene told him thunder and lightning from the storm was the most intense ever experienced in that section.

The meteorologist said two storms developed and joined in the skies over Trammel about 20 or 30 minutes before the plane crashed.

White House Parley Held On News Co-ordination

By the Associated Press.

A conference designed to improve co-ordination on news releases between the State, War and Navy Departments and the Office of War Information was held today by President Roosevelt.

Elmer Davis, OWI director, told reporters some progress had been made, but that he preferred that Mr. Roosevelt be asked about details.

Participating in the discussion with Mr. Davis and the Chief Executive were Secretary of the Navy Knox, John J. McCloy, Assistant Secretary of War, and James C. Dunn, political adviser to Secretary of State Hull.

Suit for Portal Pay For 22,000 Miners Filed in Alabama

By the Associated Press.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 31.—A suit aiming to win portal-to-portal pay for 22,000 Alabama coal miners and designed to serve as a Nation-wide guide, was filed in United States District Court here today by the United Mine Workers.

The case proper involved nine employes of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co., United States Steel subsidiary, but Frank Parsons, one of the attorneys filing the suit against the company, said the court's decision would apply to all Alabama coal miners and was designed to serve as a national guide.

The suit asks five years back pay for the nine men on a portal-to-portal basis, asserting they spend two hours daily in the mines going to and from the working faces. Pay is now made on a "face-to-face" basis.

Ickes Cites Bitterness.

The NCA bulletin's view of the miners' state of mind since they failed to win a general wage increase coincided partly with the statement of Mr. Ickes in a national magazine this week that the miners are not working "at 100 per cent efficiency because of the bitterness growing out of the absence of a work contract."

John D. Battle, executive secretary of the National Coal Association, when asked about the bulletin, said he was "not making an attack upon the union." It should be noted, he added, that the reference was only to "some" of the mine workers.

Mr. Ickes yesterday estimated bituminous production for the week ended August 21 at 11,929,000 tons, compared with 12,030,000 tons the previous week. The Bureau of Mines estimated anthracite production for the same period at 1,293,000 tons against 1,327,000 tons for the previous week.

Restrictions already have been ordered on anthracite deliveries in the northeast in order to achieve an equitable distribution.

Welles Denies Candidacy For Tydings' Senate Seat

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 31.—Sumner Welles, whose resignation as Undersecretary of State has been persistently reported by unofficial political sources, said today "there's absolutely nothing in" a report that he would be a candidate for United States Senator from Maryland next year.

Mr. Welles' statement was made to the Baltimore News-Post in a telephone conversation from Bar Harbor, Me. Mr. Welles, whose home is at Oxon Hill, Prince Georges County, Md., had been mentioned as a candidate to run against Senator Tydings in the Democratic primary next May.

Mr. Welles last night canceled train reservations for Washington and expects to continue his vacation at Bar Harbor.

White House Parley Held On News Co-ordination

By the Associated Press.

A conference designed to improve co-ordination on news releases between the State, War and Navy Departments and the Office of War Information was held today by President Roosevelt.

Elmer Davis, OWI director, told reporters some progress had been made, but that he preferred that Mr. Roosevelt be asked about details.

Participating in the discussion with Mr. Davis and the Chief Executive were Secretary of the Navy Knox, John J. McCloy, Assistant Secretary of War, and James C. Dunn, political adviser to Secretary of State Hull.

1,000 Housing Units For Colored Families To Be Ready Jan. 15

Officials of the Federal Public Housing Authority said today they expected the publicly financed dwelling units in the Washington area for colored tenants to be ready for occupancy by January 15 and that bids for construction are expected to be asked by the end of September.

However, those units to be erected privately will not have a strict time schedule, since builders will have to obtain priorities on materials as well as find desirable locations.

Of the 3,200 projected living units for colored workers, 2,000 will be publicly financed and the remaining 200 will be developed through a public and private financing combination.

At FPHA it was said no sites had as yet been acquired for the new projects, and that it probably will take a month to complete the paper work. Of the Government units, 740 will be located in the District and suburban Maryland and 260 will be built in nearby Virginia.

The Government has stipulated that the privately financed living units must rent for under $40 a month, and probably will average $37.50. Of the others, 800 will be in the $40-$50 range and 700 may be rented up to $50 a month.

However, these figures, it was pointed out, are only for "shelter rents" and do not include utilities and building services. Under housing regulations up to $3 a room may be added to the base rent for utilities and services.

J. Bernard Wyckoff, head of the Washington Housing Association, yesterday commended the FPHA for its action in providing additional living quarters for colored persons in the lower income brackets.

Newspaper Blue Book Tells of Advertiser's Role in War Effort

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The power of the pen used in wartime advertising is mightier than anybody ever suspected, the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association said today in a foreword to the 1943 edition of its "Blue Book."

Tracing the advertiser's role in the war, the bureau said that advertising was confronted with the same problems of conversion that industry in general faced after Pearl Harbor.

"Force Nobody Knew."

"Comparing advertising to the 'force nobody knew' in industry—something that was taken for granted while people were enjoying its benefits—the bureau documents its story with vital statistics from 69 newspaper advertising campaigns in 13 classifications showing how 44 advertising agencies employed new illustrative techniques and dramatic description to inform, advise and sell.

"Out of conversion's labor pains came two great and parallel geniuses—that American industry, led to war, could outproduce the fondest estimates of peacetime optimism, and that advertising, likewise geared to war, could turn in a kind of performance that few of its practitioners had dreamed was possible."

"The success of advertising at war also has been due to a great public awakening, a vast popular thirst for information, that has nowhere been more apparent than in people's interest in and attitude toward their newspapers."

"During 1942 people bought more newspapers than ever before in United States and Canadian history. And they have followed with greater interest, read with greater thoroughness, both the news and the advertising content of newspapers, as attested time and again by the titling study of newspaper reading."

The survey shows how the Government called on advertising for Army, Navy and war shipping requisitioning of newspapers, by the highly successful scrap drive and numerous other projects.

Later grocery and processed food advertisers turned their space into promotion of rationing and public health themes, while transportation advertisers sought to explain its passenger and freight problems and telephone companies urged the public to make fewer calls.

Builds Industry Morale.

Industry, with less civilian goods to sell, devoted space to institutional advertising and published "help-the-war-effort" and War bond copy. Automobile and rubber manufacturers met special problems with specialized information, while aircraft companies built morale with news of amazing production.

The Blue Book concludes with the statement:

"Inevitably, more and more advertisers anxious to reach the people with informative messages have turned to newspapers. Almost as surely, those who have told their stories well in newspapers have been rewarded with new high marks of public attention and response."

AREAS LIBERATED BY RUSSIANS—Detailed here are areas once held by the Germans, but which have now been retaken by the advancing Red Army.

At Least 37 Jap Planes Added to Toll of More Than 300 at Wewak

By the Associated Press. ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 31.—Liberators and Lightnings, in a 14-ton bombing attack on Wewak, New Guinea, have added at least 37 Japanese planes, and possibly 49, to the more than 300 destroyed there since mid-August.

This new air victory, scored Sunday, was reported today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in a communique which also disclosed that Allied troops hold strong ridge positions above as well as below the airfield at Salamaua, 350 miles below Wewak.

At Wewak, where the enemy has sent in reinforcements to replace losses which have been mounting since August 17, the Liberators wiped out at least 12 planes on the ground while the Lightnings, in furious battles with 60 Zeros, downed 25 for certain, 12 probably and damaged at least 17 others.

Counterattack Repulsed. Previous communique on the land fighting at Salamaua have been concerned mainly with action below the airfield where American and Australian jungle forces have edged to the southwestern end of the air strip. But today's communique told of Allied forces repulsing Japanese counterattacks Saturday night and early Sunday on Kila Ridge, Kila, a small town above the airfield and slightly west of Salamaua.

Along a nearby ridge, which runs southward, Allied troops threw back the Japanese and killed at least 40 of the enemy, a spokesman said. The Wewak raid, in addition to destroying enemy planes, started explosions and fires among ammunition and fuel dumps.

Not a Lightning fighter was lost in the series of brilliant dogfights. The first battles were fought at altitudes ranging from 10,000 to 20,000 feet, during which time seven Japanese planes crashed. A short time later another large force of Japanese fighters appeared for combat with the same group of Lightnings. Eighteen enemy aircraft were shot down.

Supply Bases Bombed. The communique also reported a raid by a strong force of Mitchell medium bombers which dropped 45 tons of bombs on supply bases at Alexishafen and Bogadim, between Wewak and Salamaua. The bomber pilots went in at treetop height to strafe as well as bomb. Many barges were sunk.

Across New Britain from the New Guinea battle scene, a Catalina on night patrol dropped a 500-pound bomb squarely on a Japanese cruiser in the vicinity of Kavieng, New Ireland.

The latest reports from the Solomons were on limited air activity. American Corsairs destroyed eight tons of bombs on the ground and started fires visible for 20 miles in a raid on the Kahli airfield on Southern Bougainville, the biggest airfield remaining in Japanese hands in the Solomons.

Other escorted medium bombers struck at Santa Isabel Island, northeast of New Georgia, where Japan has a seaplane base, and Corsairs and A-24s kept up their destructive work against barges on which the isolated Japanese garrison at Vila Kolombangara, must depend for supplies.

The M-12, first used in Sicily, will be demonstrated by ordnance soldiers each day during the Army's "Back the Attack" exhibit beginning September 9 on the Washington Monument Grounds.

One of the very latest additions to Army Ordnance's select group of self-propelled big guns, this weapon kept the Axis on the run from Gela to Messina. Weighing 28 tons, it has a long-barreled 155-mm. gun mounted on a fast-moving medium tank chassis. It has an open top and lighter armor protection than standard medium tanks.

This heavy-hitting invasion vehicle roars into action on full tracks at 25 miles an hour. It can charge through medium forest timber, crushing machine gun nests on the way. The M-12 has a range of fire east of New Georgia, where Japan has a seaplane base, and Corsairs and A-24s kept up their destructive work against barges on which the isolated Japanese garrison at Vila Kolombangara, must depend for supplies.

Giant Italian Transport Sunk by U. S. Bombers

By the Associated Press. A 50,000-ton Italian transport of the Conte di Savoia class was sunk recently by bombs from two American A-24 Invader fighter-bombers as it lay at anchor at Bagnara, southwestern Italy, the War Department announced today.

The two planes were flown by Lt. William E. Westfall, Rusk, Tex., and Harry A. Stone, Savannah, Ga., in a formation led by Capt. John W. Marsh, El Dorado, Ark., on a sweep over Italy in search of targets. Having attacked a railway yard

Dr. Pezet Assumes Blame for Abortive Revolt in Panama

By the Associated Press. PANAMA, Aug. 31.—Dr. Jose Pezet, former vice president in the regime of Arnulfo Arias and a former Panamanian Ambassador to Costa Rica, took sole responsibility today for an abortive revolt against the government of President Adolfo de la Guardia.

Dr. Pezet and several others were rounded up for questioning after authorities nipped the budding revolt Sunday morning.

Dr. Pezet was reported to have made a confession to Judge Carlos Guevara in which he said "I am exclusively the only person responsible for what has taken place."

The only purpose of the plot, he was reported to have said, was to establish himself as President of Panama, because he believed that the present regime which overthrew President Arias in 1941 "was unconstitutional."

Dr. Pezet was vice president at the time of Arias' overthrow. He resigned his position, but subsequently served the new De La Guardia government as envoy to Costa Rica.

In his statement Dr. Pezet was said to have named his chauffeur, Camarero, of the presidential guard; Police Lt. Carrion and a former police lieutenant as the only persons with whom he talked concerning the plot.

Fathers to Be Given Physical Tests in Coming Month

The first of the District's prewar fathers who are not in nondeferrable jobs will begin reporting for their preliminary physical examinations early next month.

District Draft Director William E. Leahy advised draft boards to start "processing" the fathers though they cannot be inducted until October and probably will not be needed till November.

Despite earlier reports that draft board chairmen were rebelling against the father draft, officials who attended a closed meeting said the chairmen appeared to accept Mr. Leahy's explanation of the reasons why fathers would have to be called and the meeting was described as "routine."

Since it requires from a month to 45 days for fathers to go through the preinduction routine, Mr. Leahy advised the Draft Boards to begin the reclassification now.

After reviewing their own figures on the remaining supply of available men, Mr. Leahy indicated that the boards probably would be able to fill October calls without taking prewar fathers, except those whose jobs make them non-deferrable.

Realistic Program On Food Production Demanded by Landon District Public Schools Open September 20; Schedules Listed

Washington public schools will open Monday, September 20, on the following schedule, Frank W. Ballou, superintendent, announced today: Elementary schools at 9 a.m., junior and senior high schools at 9:30 a.m., with the exception of Browne Junior High, which for the present will operate on a staggered schedule, and vocational schools at 8:30 a.m.

First-time pupils applying for admission this term must appear with their parents from 4 to 6 p.m. Friday, September 17. The law provides that "no child shall be admitted to public schools who shall not have been duly vaccinated or otherwise protected against smallpox." Principals also will interview parents September 18 from 8 to 10 a.m. Children seeking to enter kindergartens and elementary grades are urged to apply to the principals of schools nearest their homes.

For admission to junior high schools, in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades, pupils should apply to those schools in the areas in which they live. To facilitate the registration in these grades, principals will be on hand at the schools from tomorrow on. Applicants must bring with them a copy of the last report card, and "There is growing fear that the administration is fooling foreign peoples with the same deceptive iridescent promises that it has tried on the American people in the past. Therefore, we will suffer humiliating loss of national prestige and friendship."

Students new to the city who plan to enter the ninth grade, divisions 1 to 9 (white schools), may be admitted to Central High School, provided they live in that school's territory. Other senior high schools in divisions 1 to 9 do not offer a ninth year of instruction. Students new to the senior high school courses in the 10th, 11th and 12th year are also advised that they must apply at those schools nearest their homes. Credentials from the school previously attended are required, in addition to the birth and vaccination certification. Qualified students desiring an intensive business course may seek admission at Roosevelt High School, and shop-work pupils or those interested in home economics courses are expected to apply at McKinley High School.

For colored pupils of the 10th, 11th and 12th year, registration is possible at the Dunbar High School. If they desire academic instruction, they should apply to Armstrong High if they wish shop courses or to the Cordozo High School if they plan to undertake courses in business. Students desiring admission to the Abbot Chamberlain or Dennison Vocational Schools should apply to the principals of those schools. This procedure also should be followed for admission to the Phelps or Margaret Murray Washington Vocational Schools.

Confronting Gen. von Hannecken was an abdication threat from King Christian. Refugees reported the King said he would step down if the Germans arrested Danes as hostages in connection with battles, sabotage or other disturbances. Denmark's most popular and influential figure, his threat of abdication, innocent persons should not be arrested.

Fortifications Blown Up. Reports reaching Sweden through rigid Nazi censorship said 1,000 army and 200 navy officers had been interned. One unconfirmed rumor reported a roundup of Danish military men in which 50 were arrested, including C. B. Henriques, leader of the Jewish colony in Copenhagen. Danes living in Sweden predicted, however, that the most stringent Nazi controls would not halt Danish resistance to the dictatorship. They asserted sabotage would continue against all efforts to subjugate the country, despite the severe penalties laid down by the German overlords. Already the Danes, besides sinking their own fleet, have blown up all Danish-ruled fortifications except those at Midelfort. Here, however, the garrison threw all its ammunition into the sea before the Germans had an opportunity to seize it. Telephone, cable and mail communications to Denmark remained severed today and there has been a dearth of authentic information on general conditions inside Denmark since resistance by Danish troops was halted Sunday afternoon. But refugees who succeeded in running the Nazi blockade brought colorful stories of the resistance which met Gen. von Hannecken's assumption of power.

Over the Nazi-controlled Danish radio the Germans announced that all civil functions would be Nazified in a "new arrangement of the public life of Denmark."

A stream of refugees—men, women and children—carrying only a few scattered belongings, poured into Sweden throughout Sunday. They came in rowboats, motorboats and small sailing craft. Scores were reported drowned as German naval craft shelled boats which refused to halt and turn back.

Chips, Virginia Army Dog in Sicily, Is Cited For DSC in Capturing Italian Pillbox at Licata

By THOMAS R. HENRY, Star Staff Correspondent. WITH UNITED STATES FORCES IN SICILY (By Mail).—The adjutant of a 3d Division infantry regiment has prepared a citation for a Distinguished Service Cross for Chips, Army police dog, who "with utter disregard for his own safety" single handedly cleaned out an Italian pillbox at the time of the Sicilian invasion July 10.

The circumstances have been carefully investigated by the colonel commanding the regiment, who came to the conclusion that Chips, acting entirely on his own initiative and with an instinctive appreciation of the situation, went far beyond his call of duty as a dog soldier and possibly saved the lives of many of his human comrades. Chips was one of the Army police dogs trained at Front Royal, Va. The regiment used to have four of them, but landed in Sicily with only three. The missing dog, Lena, was left at Algiers after giving birth to five fine puppies, of which the redoubtable Chips was the father.

The investigation shows that Chips was led ashore on a leash the day of the invasion by Pvt. John R. Rowell of Arkansas. The landing was just east of Licata. The two, according to the evidence, had advanced about 400 yards up the beach in complete darkness when a machine gun in a pillbox, camouflaged to appear like a peasant's small hut, opened fire.

Immediately Chips wrenched from Rowell's hand and dashed into the hut. There he attacked the enemy machine gun crew of two men and caused them to surrender to Pvt. Rowell, who brought them in as prisoners. "There was an awful lot of noise," Pvt. Rowell testified. "Then I saw one fellow come out the door with Chips at his throat. I called him off before he could kill the man. Right afterward the other fellow came out holding his hands above his head. He was saying something I couldn't understand."

This much of the Chips story has been verified and is the basis for the requested decoration. Details of a second incident the same night are confused and no mention is made of them in the citation. He is supposed to have enabled Pvt. Rowell to capture 10 more Italian soldiers walking down a road—but the mere act of capturing a lot of Italian soldiers on the road hardly entitles even a dog to a decoration in this war.

The dog of the three dogs, of whom Chips is the best trained and most intelligent, is to accompany sentries on leashes at night. Their sharp ears detect suspicious noises in the darkness while the soldier snatches a nap. The dog gives a low growl, whereupon the sentry releases the leash and the animal leaps at the source of the disturbance. Thus these dogs are protection against the most skillfully maneuvered night attacks. They are trained to leap at the throat.

In the daytime Chips is a friendly fellow about camp. He romps about with the soldiers and begs for scraps of food. He makes friends with them as individuals. But at night all friendships are forgotten. It is very dangerous for any one to venture near a sentry leading one of these dogs. Chips has a very keen sense of smell, but apparently cannot distinguish between a German and an American.

The recommendation for a DSC, it was explained at regimental headquarters, is in no way intended as a joke. The officers are agreed that Chips really deserves it.

A member of the public relations staff of the War Department said today that "it is against the traditions of the service to award the Distinguished Service Cross" to a dog or any other animal attached to the armed forces.

He added, "There is nothing connected with the medal to cause it to be held lightly and the Army does not hold it lightly, though there are lots of people who would like to see their mascots receive it." It was pointed out, though, that dogs have received "honorary" ranks in the service.

Michaux Asks Damages For Popularity Contest

Elder Solomon Lightfoot Michaux, colored preacher who frequently broadcasts his services, has filed a suit in District Court asking damages from the Tribune Publishing Co., 920 U street N.W., for allegedly using his name in a popularity contest for radio preachers.

The publication, the Washington Tribune, listed Elder Michaux sixth and last in the contest, the suit filed yesterday charged. Elder Michaux maintains his name was included in the contest after he had "positively and definitely" refused inclusion of his name. He asked the court to determine the amount of damages. He currently is conducting a series of Sunday night meetings in Griffith Stadium.

South Carolina to Get Soldiers to Aid Harvest. Chairman Fulmer of the House Agriculture Committee said today the War Manpower Commission had approved a request from South Carolina for 923 soldiers to help harvest crops for 34 days and that the War Department had promised prompt, favorable action on the WMC report.

Mr. Fulmer declared that a Georgia request for soldier aid also had been approved, with either prisoners or soldiers to be furnished in an undetermined number. The State had asked for 4,600 men.

Nazi Propagandists Guess At Topic of Pope's Talk

The German news agency DNB in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press did not specify the nature of those "dangerous results," but it forecast in a long commentary that the pastoral letter drafted at the recent Fulda conference of German bishops would emphasize the "air war and its effects."

There was some speculation in London that the Pope might deal with this and other aspects of the fighting which has brought the war very close to the Holy See.

ords read by Mr. Osborne, but the committee investigator said the commission had taken steps to have him deferred earlier that month, between the time he was first interviewed and appointed. Mr. Denny broke in to ask that the record show Mr. Erickson went into the Army July 22, 1943.

On Lloyd Seay was hired by the commission September 7, 1942, according to Mr. Osborne's testimony. The investigator presented entries from the files to show that FCC officials considered the man's draft status before his appointment, and asked for his deferment on September 9, 1942. Mr. Denny said that this employe reached the age of 38 last January and had been in a deferred status for only four months after going to work.

Fly Attacks Committee. A press release by FCC Chairman James L. Fly, labeling as "a bad headline" the committee's investigation into agency draft deferments, caused a brief flare-up near the close of yesterday's hearing. The Fly statement was issued after committee investigators had questioned the indispensability of some of the men the commission had helped to get deferred in order to continue in their radio and engineering jobs.

Hugh Reilly, associate committee counsel, showed the press released by Mr. Miller and protested the committee staff had tried to present factual information on the deferment cases. Against "Trial in Press." Mr. Miller expressed the hope that "parties interested in these proceedings will not try cases in the press."

When Mr. Miller added that he hoped they would have "the propriety to await their turn at bat," Mr. Denny joined in to say the commission regretted the necessity of issuing press releases, but that it would do the agency no good to have its answer to charges presented six months later.

Mr. Reilly said he was not objecting to the commission giving its side, but to the terminology in which the press release was couched. Mr. Miller told Mr. Denny he felt sure the committee would give Mr. Fly or any other commission official an opportunity to answer any charges presented.

Mr. Reilly and Mr. Walker yesterday called on Harvey Walker and Mr. Osborne, committee investigators, to relate the details of specific cases in which deferments were sought. That was before the committee decided to use names instead of numbers.

ers outside Denmark would form a free Danish government in London and ally it formally with the United Nations. Free Danish leaders headed by Christmas Moeller have been functioning in London, but until now had no authority to exercise governmental powers. The Nazi overlord recognized the military dictatorship powers which Gen. von Hannecken says he is applying under article 42 of the Hague Convention can be exercised only by an enemy force.

Confronting Gen. von Hannecken was an abdication threat from King Christian. Refugees reported the King said he would step down if the Germans arrested Danes as hostages in connection with battles, sabotage or other disturbances. Denmark's most popular and influential figure, his threat of abdication, innocent persons should not be arrested.

Fortifications Blown Up. Reports reaching Sweden through rigid Nazi censorship said 1,000 army and 200 navy officers had been interned. One unconfirmed rumor reported a roundup of Danish military men in which 50 were arrested, including C. B. Henriques, leader of the Jewish colony in Copenhagen. Danes living in Sweden predicted, however, that the most stringent Nazi controls would not halt Danish resistance to the dictatorship. They asserted sabotage would continue against all efforts to subjugate the country, despite the severe penalties laid down by the German overlords.

Already the Danes, besides sinking their own fleet, have blown up all Danish-ruled fortifications except those at Midelfort. Here, however, the garrison threw all its ammunition into the sea before the Germans had an opportunity to seize it. Telephone, cable and mail communications to Denmark remained severed today and there has been a dearth of authentic information on general conditions inside Denmark since resistance by Danish troops was halted Sunday afternoon.

But refugees who succeeded in running the Nazi blockade brought colorful stories of the resistance which met Gen. von Hannecken's assumption of power. Over the Nazi-controlled Danish radio the Germans announced that all civil functions would be Nazified in a "new arrangement of the public life of Denmark."

A stream of refugees—men, women and children—carrying only a few scattered belongings, poured into Sweden throughout Sunday. They came in rowboats, motorboats and small sailing craft. Scores were reported drowned as German naval craft shelled boats which refused to halt and turn back.

The inside story of the Liberator

—THE 4-ENGINE, LONG-RANGE BOMBER THAT CARRIES A HEAVIER BOMB LOAD FARTHER AND FASTER THAN ANY OTHER AMERICAN BOMBER NOW IN ACTION

The Liberator (B-24) bomber really has two inside stories.

The first is shown above. Here you get a hint of what makes this giant bomber such a deadly aerial slugger. It's the biggest American bomber now in action—with a speed of more than 300 m.p.h.—and a range of over 3000 miles. It can carry more than 10 tons of high explosives. From nose to tail-turret it fairly bristles with .50 caliber machine guns.

Now for the second inside story—the men inside the Liberator.

For, no matter how great a bomber may be, its combat performance depends on the greatness of the airmen who fly and fight it. And when it comes to the quality of its crews, you could search far, wide, and high without finding the equal of the fighting teams that man the Liberators!

You can scarcely pick up a newspaper without reading an inspiring account of their courage, their precision teamwork, their unselfish heroism, their consistently successful forays against key Axis objectives.

These are the men who make a great bomber greater!

Together, these fighting teams—pilots, bombardiers, navigators, radio operators, engineers, and gunners—are turning in a performance record that makes you proud you can say, "They are American boys!"

Here are just a few of their most recent exploits, picked at random from over-seas communiques:

Liberator Sinks Sub From 8-Foot Altitude—Submarine, lying on surface in wait for Allied convoy, blasted and sunk by depth charges from low-flying Liberator.

Liberators Over Rome—Large force of Middle East Liberator bombers make 2000-mile round trip to carry out their now-famous high-altitude bombing attack on Rome—dropping 700,000 pounds of high explosives with pin-point accuracy and devastating effect.

Liberators Blast Rumanian Oil Region—Coming in over the target as low as 10 feet, a formation of Liberator bombers explode vital Ploesti oil refineries and storage tanks, vulnerable points in Axis economic armor. This mission, called one of the most successful of the war, required a round-trip flight of 2400 miles for these "longest-reaching" American 4-engine bombers.

Liberators Raid Surabaya—Flying a total of almost 2500 miles, a large formation of 4-engine Liberators smash important objectives in Java's second-largest city, the Japs' main base in the Dutch East Indies.

Liberators Strike at Japan's "Pearl Harbor"—Liberator bombers make first attack of the war on important Jap naval-and-air base on Paramushiru Island in the Kurile group, sometimes referred to as Japan's "Pearl Harbor." This important target lies only 1200 miles north of Tokio itself.

Liberators Bomb Wake Island—For the second time in 3 days, Liberator bombers attack distant Jap-held Wake Island, scoring many hits and damaging air field.

The tens of thousands of men and women who build this Consolidated Vultee bomber are proud of the Liberator. Prouder still of the American boys who fly it!

Police Hunt Woman Reported in Room Of Murdered WAC

By the Associated Press. INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 31.—A "woman in black," unknown but eagerly sought after, today was believed to be holding the key to the slaying of WAC Corp. Maoma L. Ridings Saturday in a downtown hotel.

Police Chief Clifford R. Becker, investigating a bellboy's report of seeing the woman in black in Corp. Ridings' room when he took soft drinks up there the night of the murder, said, "I feel certain when this woman is found the case will be solved."

The possibility that the woman might have been a man masquerading was advanced by Lt. Noel Jones in charge of the detective investigation.

Dr. Roy B. Storms, Marion County coroner, said that the woman had been attacked and attributed her death to shock and loss of blood caused by a severed jugular vein.

Lt. Jones reported that an 18-year-old youth surrendered to police in Newcastle, Ind., and confessed to the killing. He was held on a vagrancy charge, but Lt. Jones said a check on the youth's confession failed to substantiate his account of being in Indianapolis the night of the killing.

Meanwhile, a milkman on his rounds found a WAC skirt of Corp. Ridings' size some blocks from the hotel.

Corp. Ridings formerly was employed by the Infantile Paralysis Foundation at Warm Springs, Ga., and her grandmother, Mrs. Annie Bullock, in an interview with the Columbus (Ga.) Ledger, said the woman was one of President Roosevelt's favorite nurses when, as Governor of New York, he visited Warm Springs for treatment.

Murdered WAC Lived Here as Civilian

Corp. Maoma Little Ridings once lived in Washington, according to Corp. J. A. Hawkins of 1301 Longfellow street N.W.

Mrs. Ridings lived with Corp. and Mrs. Hawkins from the summer of 1941 to May, 1942. At first she was quiet and well behaved, but later Corp. Hawkins said she began to drink.

Two men particularly were in constant attendance upon Mrs. Ridings. One was a patient at the Glenn Dale Sanitarium. Mrs. Ridings told the Hawkinses that he was her husband, according to Corp. Hawkins, and she used his car regularly.

The other man was much older than Mrs. Ridings and often took her out.

Mrs. Ridings worked for the Federal Housing Administration as a clerk-auditor and later was employed by the War Department, which she left to join the WAC in 1942.

Raids

(Vienna dispatches to Swedish newspapers today said residents of that city were in a panic as fear of new Allied aerial attacks mounted.)

(Refugees from Hamburg who have arrived in Vienna added to the unrest, the dispatches stated, with stories of the devastation caused when the city was all but wiped out.)

(Picardis tacked up around Vienna warned all persons whose residence in the city was unessential to leave immediately. Persons who had to work in the city were spending their nights in the surrounding countryside, the reports added.)

Nazi Airfields Raided. As the day wore on heavy aerial traffic continued across the English Channel, with the Allied raiders heading again for France, Belgium and the Netherlands. Nazi airfields apparently were the chief targets of the daylight operations.

Last night's raid shaped up as the third major assault on Germany in eight days.

British coastal observers said large formations of heavy bombers apparently had taken part in the attack, which touched off alerts in several Swiss cities opposite the German border.

The RAF's last previous heavy attack against Germany was directed against Nuremberg, Friday night. Berlin was subjected to its heaviest pounding of the war a week ago last night and was bombed the two succeeding nights by smaller forces of Mosquito bombers.

Paving the way for the night raiders, Americans and British medium bombers, heavily escorted by Allied fighters, made a heavy attack late yesterday on targets near St. Omer, in the northwest corner of France, which is a site of airfields guarding the sky approaches to Germany.

Such raids usually are intended to smash parked aircraft and demoralize German defenses.

Bricker's Comment At Indian Ceremonies Hints He'll Run in '44

By the Associated Press. DENVER, Aug. 31.—Belief that Gov. Bricker of Ohio will seek the Republican nomination for the presidency in 1944 was expressed yesterday by former Gov. Ralph L. Carr of Colorado.

Mr. Carr was one of several Republicans who visited with the Ohio chief executive during his recent vacation at a ranch near Sundance, Wyo.

He referred to a statement made by Gov. Bricker Saturday when being initiated into the Wahoo Indian tribe at Rapid City, S. Dak.

Gov. Bricker was given a name which means "Horse that wants to run."

Gov. Bricker replied: "I know it's not so much that the horse wants to run, but it's most important whether he's given the chance to run."

"I am sure that was an indication of his desire to obtain the Republican presidential nomination in 1944," Mr. Carr said. The Coloradoan declared other visitors at the ranch took the same view.

Gov. Bricker and his party left the vacation ranch for Columbus, Ohio, yesterday.

Bricker to Issue Statement Before Mackinac Parley

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 31 (AP).—Gov. John W. Bricker, home from a Wyoming fishing trip, said today he intended to issue "a statement" before he leaves Saturday for Mackinac Island, Mich., for the Republican postwar advisory council conference.

He did not hint what the statement might be about, but the Governor, considered a possible presidential candidate, said recently he would express himself "soon" on domestic and foreign policies.

Gov. Bricker conferred with various Western political leaders during a week's vacation in the Black Hills and disclosed that he talked with House Minority Leader Martin, former Republican national chairman, at Moline, Ill., on his trip west. He did not disclose any topics of their conversations.

The Governor told his press conference that nothing he said while in the West meant that he was or was not a presidential candidate.

Fight Against Draft Is Lost by Taking Case to Senator

Mr. Fabatz's board of its decision—1-A. A notice to report for induction promptly followed.

Said Mr. Fabatz: "I'm being railroaded."

Said the general appeal agent: "If every man in the District got that much attention, nobody would have any kick with selective service."

Said Senator Shipstead's office: "We really don't see that there's anything else we can do."

Place a stamp in that vacant space in your War savings stamp book; it will help put the Axis on the spot.

The story of Mr. Fabatz and the draft really begins last November when District Draft Board 9 put him in 1-A. Mr. Fabatz visited the board, asked to be put back in 3-A, was turned down and appealed the case.

The appeal board put him back in 1-A and Mr. Fabatz was notified to report for induction July 10. Mr. Fabatz went to his appeal agent.

Case Taken to Leahy. According to the appeal agent, Mr. Fabatz appeared to be a legitimate hardship case. He had a sick mother, and since he was nearing the age limit and was doing essential work the appeal agent decided the case was worth another appeal, so he wrote a letter to that effect to District Director William E. Leahy.

After talking to the appeal agent, Mr. Fabatz went to see Senator Shipstead. The senator said today that call was merely to ask the Senator to find out where his papers were.

However, Senator Shipstead's office said today it had sent Gen. Hershey a letter quoting Mr. Fabatz as saying he felt his case should be investigated.

"I am sending this material for your consideration and any action you may see fit to take," the Senator wrote.

Put in 3-D by District Board. Gen. Hershey requested the draft board send the file to national headquarters for review.

While the Presidential Appeal Board was considering the case, the District Appeal Board was busy, too. The appeal agent's recommendation was followed and Mr. Fabatz was put in 3-D as a hardship case.

Before the District Appeal Board got around to notifying Mr. Fabatz that his appeal was successful, the Presidential Appeal Board notified per cent of these plants reduced their accident frequency. Experience in accident prevention has accumulated a wealth of data in the form of known causes of accidents, applicable to any situation. The prime requisite for accident prevention in plants is determination by management to adopt an accident-prevention program. Unwillingness is attributable to an unconscious failure to recognize what can be done, rather than to any specific opposition.

The accident frequency (number of accidents to millions of man-hours) continues to increase, although there is an encouraging drop in the size of increase. Reasons for the increase are the inexperience of workers and the fact that less than one-fourth of plants with Government contracts have been helped by the safety experts. The majority, through ignorance or lack of interest, has failed to avail itself of a valuable service by the Government.

A Jittery Conqueror

Adolf Hitler is learning these days that the way of a would-be world conqueror is hard. His armies on every active front are being beaten. His principal cities are being pounded into rubble by enemy bombs. And there is a restless stirring throughout the little countries that offer possible avenues for invasion of the Reich. Der Fuehrer's latest move has been made against the little kingdom of Denmark, which he has held in a state of supposedly benevolent protective custody for more than three years. The Danes did not, and presumably could not, offer any resistance when the Germans overran their country as a companion piece to the treacherous invasion of Norway in April, 1940, the move which marked the end of the period of "phony" war. With a population of around 4,000,000 and no natural defenses, Denmark was not in a position to fight its powerful neighbor to the south. Hence the Danish government made no effort to build up a military organization, realizing that any armed force it might create could never offer more than token resistance to the Germans. Why throw away money on an army of no military importance, the government reasoned, when it could be spent to much better advantage in other directions?

But if the Danish capacity to fight the Germans was negligible, their capacity to resist was great. Hitler tried to win the Danes over to his concept of the new Europe, and Denmark was held forth as a shining model of what could be expected by countries willing to bow to the Reich and then to co-operate with the Nazi overlords. But the Danes were stubborn. Although faring better than the people of other small nations, they steadfastly resisted the German encroachment. An underground campaign of strikes and sabotage was carried on, and the Danish government refused to yield to German demands for more drastic treatment of these rebellious elements. So the Germans have marched in and the last flicker of liberty in Denmark has been snuffed out.

Yet it is easy to believe that this is not a source of gratification to Hitler, for it merely ties up more German resources at a time when Germany has no resources to spare. Nor is Denmark the only fresh sore spot in the new world order. Down in the Balkans, far from the centers of German power, there are other ominous stirrings. The mysterious death of King Boris has shaken Hitler's tenuous hold on his Bulgarian ally, and there is more than a possibility that the Bulgars may try to desert the Nazi standard. So what is Hitler to do? If he decides to send German troops to hold Bulgaria, from what source are these troops to be drawn? And if he decides against this, how is he to be certain that Bulgaria will not go over to the Allies, and thus breach the walls of fortress Europe?

Hitler may have the means to deal with these problems, and it may be that their importance is magnified in Allied eyes by wishful thinking. But the greater probability is that these upheavals in areas that once were squarely under his heel are serious matters to a man who, in whatever direction he may turn, is faced with grave threats that he never imagined he would have to meet.

Queen Wilhelmina

Today is the birthday anniversary of Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands. It was on August 31, 1880, that she was born at The Hague, the only child of King William III and the Princess Emma of Waldeck-Pyrmont. She succeeded to the throne on the death of her father, November 23, 1890, but was not actually "inaugurated" until September 6, 1898, the business of the state meanwhile remaining under the skilled direction of her beloved mother—one of the truly great women of her time. But Wilhelmina, even as a little girl, was endowed with something more than distinctive gifts of the mind and the privilege of careful training. She is by nature a person of noble character. During the portion of her reign preceding the German attack upon her country in the spring of 1940, she managed public affairs in such wise as to merit not merely the warm affection of her people, but their high respect. Her dignity was no less a legend than the simple and unpretending democracy of her bearing. She married in 1901 the Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin and on April 30, 1909, gave birth to the Princess Juliana, now the wife of Prince Bernhard of Lippe-Biester-feld. The whole family reflects the genius of its head. Especially since Wilhelmina has been in exile has she justified the admiration of her civilized contemporaries. No word of complaint has passed her lips. She has carried herself with the courage of William of Orange. Her pride in the unabated resistance of the Dutch community is a force in itself. She toils for the liberation of Europe with a magnificent zeal. At sixty-three she has reason to believe that she will live to see her hope achieved. Thousands of Americans, strangers to her, yet united with her in their labor for freedom and peace in the world, will rejoice when at last she returns to her own dear land as the living symbol of its emancipation.

GOP Faces Test

The acceptance by the American Labor party of the Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor, Lt. Gen. William H. Haskell, U. S. A., retired, has finally set the stage in New York for a test of Republican strength there. Had the American Labor party declined to support General Haskell and insisted upon retaining its own candidate in the field, there would have been no doubt of a Republican victory. As it is, the GOP in the November election will face the same combination of voters that it may be expected to meet in the 1944 presidential campaign, particularly if President Roosevelt is nominated for a fourth term.

With Governor Dewey at the head of his party's ticket, New York went Republican last year. The question is whether the Republican tide is less strong than it was a year ago. Since Governor Dewey will not be on the ticket this time, the Republicans may miss something of the personal strength which the former nemesis of racketeers has with the voters.

The Democrats, both Roosevelt and Farley factions, are lining up back of General Haskell. The American Labor party, announcing its support of the Democratic nominee, said: "General Haskell's joint designation by the ALP and the Democratic party assures unity of the New Deal forces in President Roosevelt's home State."

If there is unity of the New Deal forces, however, there also is unity among the Republicans. Their candidate, State Senator Joe R. Hanley, has received promises of aid from Republicans all over the State. Wendell L. Willkie, the GOP presidential nominee in 1940, has offered to campaign for him. This is in contrast to Mr. Willkie's attitude in the 1942 gubernatorial contest. He took no active part in that campaign—and only announced his support of the Dewey ticket four days before election.

Ordinarily, the election of a Lieutenant Governor in New York would hardly cause a ripple of national interest. The coming contest, however, has been built up as a curtain raiser for the 1944 national election. It seems almost certain, therefore, that national issues will be injected into a campaign for the election of an official who has nothing whatever to do with national affairs. The plea will be made by the New Dealers to elect General Haskell and uphold the hand of President Roosevelt, on the ground that a defeat for the Democratic party in New York would be regarded as a blow directed at Mr. Roosevelt. The ALP already has declared that united support of General Haskell will mean support of the "Commander in Chief."

Mr. Hanley will run with the active support of Governor Dewey, and his campaign will be based on the excellent record of the Dewey administration in Albany. But if the New Dealers bring national issues into the campaign, the Republicans may be expected to reply with an attack upon the administration of the OPA and other problems of the home front.

Work or Fight

There is at least one useful lesson to be learned from Montgomery County's unhappy experience with Maryland's "work-or-fight" law. The law was jammed through the closing days of the recent session of the State Legislature as a means of compelling young men who had been passed over by the draft to accept war-useful work. There are those, of course, who contend that such a statute is fundamentally bad and should not be enacted in any circumstances. Most people, however, will be in sympathy with the view that in time of war men who are not suited for military service should be required to accept useful employment, provided their rights are adequately safeguarded by the law and that they are physically capable of working.

The apparent miscarriage of justice in the Montgomery County case seems to trace back to two sources. First, the State's work-or-fight law was not written with care and it falls short of providing a desirable degree of protection for those who may be affected by it. Second, the law, such as it is, appears to have been carelessly administered in this instance. Until the Legislature meets again there is nothing that can be done to improve the law itself. But the officials charged with enforcing it can do a great deal to offset the defects in the statute by making a real effort to see to it that everything possible is done to safeguard the rights of accused persons. Certainly, it seems evident enough that the Montgomery County incident would never have occurred had the county officials made a little more effort to bring out the real facts of the case.

Trouble in Bulgaria May Involve Turkey

By Maj. George Fielding Eliot.

The Germans can ill afford to lose their hold on Bulgaria, but at the moment it is touch and go as to whether they can retain it. The death of King Boris has removed the central pivot of loyalty on which the Bulgarian Army and people were more or less fixed. The child-king Simeon can do no more than a symbol; all will depend on how the regency is administered in his very name—and by whom.

In the very fact that the opposition leader, Nicholas Mushonov, is reported as entering into Bulgarian policy even before the late King's visit to Hitler, suggests that the democratic and pro-Russian elements among the people are becoming so strong that even the pro-German officers' corps of the army must take their wishes into account.

The chances are that, as in Italy and in Denmark, the Germans must now assume the full burden of holding the Bulgarians down by force, or see the country pass into Allied hands. There are German troops and Gestapo officials in Bulgaria. Last spring the number of troops was reported increasing, because of the equivocal attitude of Turkey; but the dissolution of many of the Italian garrisons in Yugoslavia and Greece may have called some of the Germans from Bulgaria to replace them.

Probably the greatest service which Bulgaria could now be to Hitler would be to take over the policing of Yugoslavia and Greece, leaving to the Germans only the task of defending such key points as Salonika. The Bulgarian Army, which has some German equipment, can mobilize 18 divisions at full strength; it is intact and is composed of good fighting material. Some Bulgarian troops already have been used for such duties, and have made themselves thoroughly hated in the districts which they occupied.

But for Bulgaria to extend these commitments, or even to continue her present commitments, is now a proposition of which the Sofia government will do well to examine the consequences.

The Bulgars came into this war when it seemed to them—as it seemed to a good many others—that Germany victory was inevitable. Now that situation is exactly reversed—German defeat is inevitable. It is not the moment for the Bulgars to draw on themselves the ultimate and certain vengeance of their neighbors.

It is rather the moment for the Bulgars to stave off, if they can, the vengeance they already have earned for their actions of the immediate past. They might be able to do that if they now withdraw their troops from Yugoslavia and Greece and refused further to participate in the war.

The Germans could, of course, send reinforcements into the country and try to treat the Bulgars as they are in the course of treating the Danes. They might be able to hold the major centers, and to inflict considerable losses and hardships on the people of Bulgaria. But it must be remembered that the Bulgarian Army is strong, is in full possession of its weapons, organization and depots of supplies, and might well be able to defend the country against any force which the Germans, in their present straits, could send to so distant a corner of Europe.

The Turks must, of course, regard the present chaos in Bulgaria as a serious threat to their external security. They are in position to march in if they think fit. It is only 175 miles from the Turkish military center of Adrianople to the Bulgarian capital, Sofia.

But the Bulgars probably would resist a Turkish invasion, by their hereditary foes, as they would no other. The Turks have an alternative, and that is to invite the British 9th and 10th Armies, from Syria and Iran, to come through their territory if it should come about that Turkish and Allied viewpoints came into agreement as to the desirability of such a move.

There is another factor in the situation to be considered. The increasing hints that the King was shot by an inspector of police on his return from seeing Hitler, suggest very strongly that the death of Boris may have been brought about by agents of the famous IMRO, the Independent Macedonian Revolutionary Organization, which has borne such a bloody part in Bulgarian and Balkan politics for many years.

They are well known to have their members in key positions, especially in the ranks of the police and civil service; and Boris is well hated by them for his attempts to destroy their organization. Of late years the IMRO has been more or less driven underground, but it may turn out that as German power weakens, its leaders have decided that the moment has come to strike by the traditional method of assassination. In that case, the King will be only the first of many victims.

The immediate future of Bulgaria is obscure, but it does seem plain that the Germans, if they are to hold their ground there, must do so by taking on new military responsibilities at a moment when it is extremely difficult for them to find the troops. First Italy, then Denmark, now Bulgaria—this is a process which cannot continue indefinitely, with the Russians smashing onward toward Plova and the Dnieper and the shadow of Anglo-American power rising higher and blacker in the south and west.

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

"SHEPHERD STREET."

"Dear Sir: "Your popular column is quite correct in emphasizing the persistence of pigeons. But you say nothing about the persistence of gray squirrels. The latter are not only persistent, but I am convinced they are in league with Hitler."

"They are playing havoc with the Victory gardens in our neighborhood. I had never thought of squirrels eating tomatoes and cantaloupes, but they are doing so on a huge scale."

"I saw a squirrel go across my lawn carrying a tomato that weighed at least as much as he did. And how do you explain half a tomato dropping at my feet out of an oak tree?"

"For persistence I'll match my gray squirrels against your pigeons, and I'll swap you 8 gray squirrels for about 40 of your pigeons."

"Incidentally, how do you do away with gray squirrels, especially when they are so cute and so attractive that one has not the heart to harm them?"

"Sincerely yours, W. L. R., Jr."

Bird feeding and Victory gardens play into the paws of squirrels. It is impossible to blame them for taking advantage of a good opportunity. They will eat almost anything, if hard pressed for food.

No one who puts out a free lunch can blame these or any other creatures for coming.

Yes it is a fact that scores, perhaps hundreds of Victory gardeners have grown red in the face over the squirrels. As red as their own tomatoes.

After all, a few tomatoes or other edibles will neither make nor break a garden.

The point is, we believe, that most of the anger over squirrels and rabbits is misplaced and wasted.

They do little damage, in the aggregate, but it is not the aggregate, it must be confessed, which counts with the new vegetable gardener.

He is so interested in what he is doing, and so beset by insect enemies and drought, that the squirrels are simply the last straw.

Quite lively straws they are, too, as they whir around after food.

Wherever there is something good to eat, a squirrel will find it.

We believe that the entertainment they give is well worth the little food they eat.

We advise gardeners, Victory and otherwise, to calm down about the squirrels.

The sight of a grown man shooting squirrels in a Victory garden, when there are so many larger and more dangerous foes loose in the world, is not one to be proud of.

The only humane way we know to get rid of squirrels is to trap them and then take them across town and let them loose.

And this is much more trouble than it is worth, especially now when gasoline is at a premium. And the plan may not work out, after all, because there are always more squirrels.

We have just received word that over in Georgetown, where we used to live, in a block where there were no squirrels when we lived there, there are now scores of them.

This can be attributed to nothing but the popularity of bird feeding.

Where food is put out for the wild-birds, the squirrels will come.

So will pigeons. Our correspondent would find that 8 squirrels for 40 pigeons would be a very bad trade. Which is the most persistent, we do not know, but each species has ways of its own.

There is no humor in a pigeon, but a squirrel is a great natural comedian, and always gives entertainment for what he takes.

The plight of the common wild pigeons of Washington is causing concern. Where there used to be hundreds in Lafayette Park, today there are only a few.

The death of the famous peanut vendor by the White House has resulted in a lack of food for these birds.

Since passage of pedestrians has been banned on the sidewalk across from the park, there have been many fewer persons, and none to bring peanuts.

The lack of grains and seeds and peanuts has cut down on the number of pigeons which used to live on D street at Ninth.

In all sections of the city the pigeons have diminished in numbers. Where they have gone seems to be something of a mystery, but some observers swear that some of them have gone into meat pies. They assert that small boys have been seen to lure them, then seize them and hide them under their coats.

Water, at least, can be provided for the wild things which do so much to help make the city interesting for so many people.

A hot, dry summer brings peculiar demands for bathing and drinking, not only on the part of human beings, but also from the animals and birds.

Every householder can help in this by putting out some comparatively flat pan of water.

Any old tin or earthen vessel will do. Old flower pot saucers—the sort without holes, of course—will make excellent bird baths.

Put in a shady place, so that the water will not get too hot, such a dish is a veritable godsend to thirsty and dusty birds.

The bath is one of the great links between birds and men.

Birds bathed centuries before man discovered how pleasant and helpful the practice is.

They also flew grandly while man was crawling around on all fours.

They sang, too, long before the other two-legged creatures knew how to make other sound except "glub glub."

That the committee will accept this "recognition" does not make it less shameful for us to offer it.

OPA Accused of Having Too Much to Do.

This food situation is at times amusing—and again, foolish. Not long ago store shelves were bare of pineapple in any form. Then a shipment arrived, but the points required for its purchase were so many that people did not care to use up half their blue points for a month on one large can of pineapple juice that would deprive them of getting any other canned foods.

Now, consequently, the shelves are glutted with cans of pineapple-juice, shredded and sliced—and they stay there on the shelves. It would have saved labor, time, tin and transportation from Hawaii if it had been left there.

I do not imagine that our troops overseas are feasting largely upon pineapple, which most of them rarely had at home. Why not loosen up on some of these stored canned foods and relieve store shelves of excessive weight and storage to nobody's advantage?

The OPA evidently has so much to do that it cannot manage the job properly. We are not getting shell-shocked, but price-and-point-shocked.

I see that green apples are beginning to appear—never have I seen such runs before in any store. Farmers I know of used to let their hogs in to take care of such apples. They were not worth the time picking them up. Surely with proper management, we should not have a famine of our own making. We do not import our foods from Germany or Japan. H. B. BRADFORD.

General MacArthur Praised By Critics of Other Leaders.

It is with disgust mingled with apprehension that one observed the narrow partisan politics which has been exhibited in the ignoring of Gen. Douglas MacArthur during the recent Quebec conferences.

In spite of the fact that the war in the Pacific area was emphasized, and regardless of the fact that Gen. MacArthur, above all men, knows the Jap and his trickery in war, not even the general's name was mentioned. Perhaps there was some fear of an eclipse if Gen. MacArthur had appeared on the scene, or is it that Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill need no advice? Gen. MacArthur has shown his ability to carry on in the face of danger with too little equipment and much lack of support on the home front. He is too busy for politics. If all concerned were as conscientious as he, the war would soon be over. A thousand cheers for a great American, and a courageous general! MRS. G. B. W.

Haskin's Answers To Questions

By Frederic J. Haskin.

A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing The Evening Star Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C. Please inclose stamp for reply.

Q. What does the Army's new U ration contain?—R. S. A. The Army's new U ration for troops in the field provides a varied, palatable diet with no cooking necessary—merely addition of either hot or cold water for breakfast cereals, coffee, ham and eggs, roast beef, meat balls and spaghetti, and several other dishes.

Q. What continent is the most densely populated?—S. E. N. A. Europe, with about 118 people to the square mile, is the most densely populated. Asia comes next with 72, followed in order by North America and South America, Africa and Australia.

Q. Did Columbus prove that the earth was round?—E. L. H. A. Columbus and other educated men of his time accepted the fact that the earth is a globe. The idea was familiar to Greek philosophers from the 6th century B.C. onward.

Q. How many airplanes were produced last year?—O. D. N. A. In 1942 the United States produced approximately 48,000 planes of all types with a total weight of 291,000,000 pounds.

Q. What is the common cause of death of wild animals?—D. E. M. A. Few die of old age. Pneumonia is one of the commonest causes of death, and starvation is another. In addition to these, accidental injuries, diseases and natural enemies are the principal causes.

Q. How much gas does a Flying Fortress use in an hour?—H. L. A. A Flying Fortress burns 1 gallon of gasoline a mile. Fifteen gallons of gasoline will keep a fighter plane up one hour.

Q. Is the ability to shoot a rifle improved by closing one eye?—J. N. A. The National Rifle Association says that closing either eye does not improve one's ability to shoot a rifle. It is best to leave both eyes open whenever possible.

Q. What is the most costly golf course in the country?—D. D. A. This is a difficult matter to determine, but a leading golf course architect says that the first of the two courses at Boca Raton, Fla., was one of the most costly to finally reach its finished state.

Q. What is the source of the expression "Ivory Tower"?—C. B. H. A. The expression, "Ivory Tower," means a retreat or secluded place for meditation. It was used by Leonard Bacon in a poem, and was also the title of an uncompleted novel by Henry James.

Q. Is a birth certificate required before a ration book is issued for a baby?—J. H. L. A. Parents are required to show a birth certificate when applying for a ration book for a baby.

Q. What proportion of the human body is water?—A. P. S. A. Approximately 73 per cent is water. Thus a person weighing 125 pounds is only about 30 pounds of real substance, and most of that is bone.

Q. What is the origin of the scepter used by kings as a symbol of authority?—L. R. B. A. Its origin is prehistoric and undetermined. Scepters are mentioned in Homer and the Old Testament and their use has been general throughout historic time.

Q. How many colors are there?—A. T. P. A. Correctly speaking, there are but six colors, three primary—red, blue and yellow—and three secondary—orange, violet and green.

Q. Please describe the type of person known as schizoid.—R. G. A. According to the standards of physical examination during mobilization, the schizoprenic group comprises the numerous shiftless, untidy, perhaps morose, sometimes nomadic individuals, who have had what was regarded as quite a normal childhood. Somewhere between the ages of 12 and 25 they underwent a change, acute or insidious, with dilapidation of their social interest and the habits in which they had been trained.

Q. Who composed the "Symphony Modern"?—J. K. A. This is based upon the selection played in the motion picture, "Four Daughters," an original theme written by Max Rabinowitz. In a sequel, "Four Wives," the theme was elaborated into a symphonic tone poem by Max Steiner and published under the title "Symphony Modern."

Q. Where did Herbert Hoover get the money to feed Europe after the last war?—J. G. A. The American Relief Administration was created early in 1919 to administer a congressional appropriation of $100,000,000 for European relief, to be partially repaid by the countries aided. It has been authoritatively stated that Mr. Hoover received no remuneration for his services as director general of relief. Of the congressional appropriation, $84,000,000 was returned to the United States in foreign government obligations in 1919.

Fit Names Due U. S. Carriers

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Selection of "Shangri-La" as the name of a new aircraft carrier now under construction already has been announced by the Navy Department but it would be a mistake to assume that the name has won public approval. President Roosevelt is doubtless responsible for picking "Shangri-La" because that was the little joke he played on White House visitors when they asked him from whence came the planes which Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle led in the historic raid over Tokyo. It was not until several months later that it was disclosed that "Shangri-La" was in fact the aircraft carrier Hornet—later sunk by the Japanese in another battle zone of the Pacific.

It does seem as if something more dignified and appropriate could be used by which to remember the aircraft carriers we have lost or to name the additional ones to be building. The word "Shangri-La" symbolizes nothing American and it would seem far more fitting to name the new aircraft carriers after the brave pilots and crewmen who have given their lives already in the air battles of the Pacific.

Churchill Suggested. The Navy has many air heroes who could thus be honored, and if it were thought desirable to perpetuate the memory of Army flyers there is, for instance, the name of Colin Kelly. Most Americans would rather see an American name used to describe these new-type ships. But if a foreign name must be chosen, it would appear to be even more constructive as an evidence of good-will and international understanding if President Roosevelt were to honor the name of a distinguished half-American, namely Winston Churchill.

It would be easier to explain to the generations of Navy men yet to serve in future years the selection of Winston Churchill as the name of a fighting aircraft carrier of this war than the name of an imaginary locality first mentioned in a book of fiction. It certainly would be a fine manifestation of Anglo-American understanding.

It will be argued by the technical-minded that a portion of a recent War Loan drive was based on the name "Shangri-La" and that the public was told the funds would be used for that aircraft carrier. It was a good publicity stunt, perhaps, but the people who bought bonds will be ever so much more pleased if Mr. Roosevelt would ask the Navy Department to name the new aircraft carrier after the great Prime Minister of Great Britain, whose collaboration with our President has been so successful in carrying out the global strategy of the war.

Could Honor the Wrights. Sailors and officers of the United States Navy have for many years cherished the tradition that the names of our ships meant something. Our battleships have been named after the different States, our cruisers have been named after cities and territories, and our destroyers after naval heroes of the past.

It is a good custom, and since aircraft carriers have been so few in number it would seem to be appropriate to inaugurate the practice of naming them after heroes of the air, particularly the brave men who have distinguished themselves against the enemy in naval aviation. America, moreover, has never honored adequately the Wright brothers, who pioneered with the airplane, nor have we singled out for outstanding credit the inventors whose engines, instruments and devices have made us world leaders in mechanical achievements in aviation. This affords another means of using names to good purpose as incentive to others who may follow in inventive achievements.

To Have Fleet of Carriers. The number of aircraft carriers America will have in the future doubtless will be large. Where we had only seven at the time of Pearl Harbor, the Navy in future years may have as many as 50 or 60 large-sized ships from the decks of which planes are launched and dozens of converted or small-sized carriers, too. The names Hornet and Wasp, and Lexington, Princeton, and Yorktown, Enterprise and Essex indicate that no uniform formula for selecting names has as yet been developed for aircraft carriers. So this is the time for the public to appeal to President Roosevelt and Secretary Knox to honor these new fighting ships with a series of names that will fit in with naval tradition.

Certainly, the name of "Shangri-La" will always be associated with a bit of facetious humor and would require considerable explaining to the boys of our Navy who for the first time come aboard that particular aircraft carrier.

No lack of dignity, on the other hand, would be associated with the naming of our new aircraft carriers after American localities, after naval heroes, after great inventors, or after distinguished statesmen of other countries our Government wishes to honor.

The Political Mill

By GOULD LINCOLN.

This column today makes mention of opinions voiced by three men now playing their parts in the never-ceasing political battles in this country—one Republican, former Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas, and two Democrats, Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania and Senator Ellender of Louisiana.

Gould Lincoln.

Mr. Landon, in a radio address today from Kansas City, Mo., charged that the New Deal administration now is planning to put the American people on a vegetarian diet. He quoted former Gov. Lehman of New York, now head of the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations, as saying that "America must go on a cereal diet."

He also quoted an official of the Department of Agriculture to the effect that if this country lives up to its foreign food commitments, it is likely to go on a cereal diet. And he called attention to the recent crackdown of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard on a Food Advisory Committee which discouraged the idea that the United States should serve as the "breadbasket" of the world.

"So," said Mr. Landon, "one of the elemental issues before the American people today is whether we are going to hand over our postwar diet to the New Deal—along with our pocketbook."

Points Out Effect. The former Governor of Kansas, the GOP candidate for President in 1936, was speaking politically. He was stirring discontent with the proposals of New Deal planners, which he insisted included enthusiastic plans for America to feed the world, clothe the world and finance the world.

He, nevertheless, placed a finger on one effect which too enthusiastic world planning actually may cause—lack of interest on the part of the American people in international or world collaboration. This would be unfortunate. Mr. Landon does not like the idea of having imposed on the American people what he calls "a fascist New Deal vegetarian diet that has nothing to do with the wartime food situation, only postwar."

"It is a question," he said, "which the people will have to consider in connection with the movement to commit this country to international food policies after the war." Mr. Landon argued for a retention and expansion of both livestock and cereal production, with some assurance to the producers, by price floors, that they will not lose their shirts after the war shall have been won—and competition is resumed in a big way with such agricultural countries as Australia, Canada, Argentina, Brazil and South Africa.

Guffey Ridicules Council. Senator Guffey's contribution to the political battle was ridicule of the Republican Postwar Advisory Council, which meets next week on MacInac Island. He was able to see in this meeting only a political move. Bless his heart, of course it's a political move.

It is designed to bring about some kind of unity among Republicans on policies which their party should adopt for the national campaign next year. Said Mr. Guffey: "The GOP has a fierce factional war on hand. The prospective collusion between the Wilkie-Ally co-operation program after the war, and the isolation sentiments attributable to some other Republican candidates has little to do with international results and much to do with internal GOP strategy."

It is to Senator Guffey's interest—and to that of the New Deal as a whole—that there shall not be unity among the Republicans. Hence his interest in keeping alive, if he can, differences between the various political factions in the Republican party.

In conclusion, Senator Guffey said: "Building a platform for the Republican party does not come within my idea of the war's 'work or fight order'." It seems clear that postwar planning by the New Dealers, which will be included in the New Deal party's political platform next year, to Senator Guffey is entirely legitimate—but that something similar on the part of the Republicans is only an avoidance of war work or fighting. Senator Guffey knows that all of the New Deal Government agencies are at work on postwar planning—and those which are not have set up special postwar planning committees.

Senator Ellender's comments are contained in a letter which arrived too late to be included in the series of letters from members of Congress to The Star telling what the people back home have on their minds.

Ends Tour of State. The Louisiana Senator recently has completed a three-week tour of his State. He was "surprised to find so little criticism about the administration of national and international affairs in Washington." His constituents are happy over the success of Allied arms and optimistic as to the date of final victory. But, he wrote, there is real contention over the administration of OPA.

As he sees it, the OPA policy makers have taken care of the distributors of agricultural products, but not the producers. He mentioned the case of rice. A 13 per cent markup is allowed wholesalers and 28 per cent for retailers. Such percentages, he insisted, are out of line, adding there is no reason why rice should sell for 13 cents per pound, when the producers of it receive between 5 1/2 and 6 1/2 cents per pound.

"I, of course, heard a lot of criticism about Washington bureaucracy," Senator Ellender continued, "and the hope was expressed that Congress will take decisive action in eliminating many of the bureaus that are now functioning. "As to the presidential election, little is said, but the opinion obtained by me from my constituents is that Roosevelt is probably the only Democrat who could win next year. I find that the popularity of Mr. Roosevelt has declined to some extent in Louisiana but the feeling is that if the war is still on when election comes around that he will obtain a large majority of the votes in the State."

It has a very nice sound to say that we cannot give full recognition to the French Committee because we want the people of France to have a free and untrammelled right to select their own government.

Samuel Grafton.

But the people of France, even though they are not free, and are in fact very trammelled at the moment, have made a start toward selecting their own government.

They have built an elaborate underground movement. They welded this movement, last spring, into a Council of French Resistance, which brought together, in amazing unity, political groups of right, center and left, which previously it had seemed impossible ever to induce to enter the same room together except for the purpose of cutting each other's throats.

That council has recognized Gen. de Gaulle as its voice and leader, maintaining contact with him in spite of a thousand Nazi decrees forbidding it. It is closely linked with the French Committee at Algiers.

Is not this underground a part of the political life of the new France? Is it not part of the process, patient, heroic and inspiring, by which the new France is being built? Is it not an expression of the will of the people of France?

When we refuse to recognize the French underground, or any representative of it, are we not denying the French people the right to express themselves, in the tender guise of preserving that right for them?

What Is the Popular Will? The democratic underground is the only form in which the people of metropolitan France can express themselves today. They are using that form. Hitler says it is illegal to do so, but surely we cannot agree with Hitler on this point.

But, so far as we are concerned, all this does not exist. We take no notice of it, judicial, diplomatic or de facto. We do not concede the reality of this manifestation of the will of the people of France; we reject it, we turn aside from it, all on the excuse that we insist that the will of the people of France must be allowed to manifest itself. That is what makes our dubious recognition of the French Committee at Algiers so flat, stale and unprofitable. We recognize that committee only as the administrator of (not even as spokesman for, mind you) certain French overseas territories; we reserve a "free hand" in France itself.

Too Free a Hand. What is the "free hand" which we have reserved for ourselves in connection with France? Why, it is, precisely and specifically, freedom not to recognize or deal with the French underground if we do not choose to do so.

It is freedom to disregard a French popular manifestation, freedom to have nothing to do with it, freedom to pass it. That is the freedom which we claim for ourselves on the ground that we are preserving France's freedom to state her will.

It is not enough merely to say that we want the people of France to express themselves. If that is what we want, then we have to work at it. We have to nurture those expressions of France which are visible now. We need to cultivate all promising manifestations. The underground is a kind of democratic expedient but it is only expedient of the other kind that seem to make us forget the formalities.

How are we going to further democracy if we do not anxiously assist even the first feeble signs of it? France speaks. We cannot hear her, though our ears are so sharp for even a word from, say, a decrepit Fascist monarch. We slog along on our dusty policy of no-policy.

Newspapers Held Facing Pulpwood 'Starvation'

By the Associated Press. PORTLAND, Oreg., Aug. 31.—A congressional committee investigating the newspaper shortage ended its tour of United States and Canadian pulp centers today with a warning that "newspapers will be on a starvation basis by next May" unless workers are found to increase production.

The shortage can be ended and maximum production obtained with 40,000 more workers for the pulp industry in this country and Canada, said Representative Boren, Democrat, of Oklahoma, committee spokesman, in an interview.

The committee will recommend to Congress that "all pulp and wood cutting be classified as essential," Representative Boren said. "It appears to us that we should quit trying to divide up the shortage and take the necessary action to bring about maximum production of newspapers."

The committee, which includes Representative Wolverton, Republican, of New Jersey, and Beckworth, Democrat, of Texas, inspected paper mills here today.

This Changing World

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.

Prompted by the Allies' air blows against German-occupied areas and the continuous advance of the Russian forces from the east, the European nations from the North Sea to the Black Sea are seething and preparing to throw off the Nazi yoke.

Constantine Brown.

The news from Denmark and Bulgaria is spectacular. But those who keep in close touch with the realities of the situation are cautioning against placing exaggerated hopes on these rebellious outbreaks.

So long as Allied ground forces remain on the outer fringes of the European fortress we must not expect Hitler's subjected nations to do more than show openly their dissatisfaction of their master.

Whether King Boris of Bulgaria died a natural death, as the official communique from Berlin announced, or was the target of a well-aimed bullet is of little consequence. What matters is that there are about 150,000 Nazi troops in Bulgaria and this force can easily keep in line a country with a population of only 5,000,000.

The Bulgarian Army is a peasant army, deeply loyal to the Russians, irrespective of what political philosophy their rulers may represent. For this reason the pro-Nazi government in Sofia and King Boris refused consistently to send even a battalion to the eastern front.

The western Allies are less popular. In fact, to the mind of the Bulgarian peasant there is little difference between the British, Americans and the Germans. All the Russians are peasants; all the westerners are "gentlemen."

Might Shift to Allies. A shift from the Axis to the United Nations in Bulgaria is a strong probability provided American and British forces arrive in the Balkans and approach the Bulgarian border.

In such an event it is likely that we may witness a repetition of 1918 when the Bulgarian Army forced the abdication of King Ferdinand and surrendered to the Allies.

But it is pointed out that 25 years ago there was a strong French-British-Serbian Army at Salonika and advanced elements already had crossed the Bulgarian border on the way to the capital.

Observers of Balkan affairs say that this will happen again in the day when armies of the United Nations, regardless of whether they are Russian or American and British arrive near Bulgaria's borders. Until then, however, we must not expect much from that country.

Boris Was Shrewd. The officers are well in the hand of the Germans and the army is well disciplined and obeys its leaders. The officers would not dare make a move against the Nazis, because the German troops could handle any attempt to get out of the war effectively. Moreover, there is no one to surrender to at this time.

Some observers go so far as to suspect Nazi involvement in the death of King Boris should the story that he has been assassinated prove correct.

Boris was a shrewd man. He was one of the few Bulgarians who had close contact with the outside world and until 1938 was suspected of being friendly in the British-French coalition. But he never actually showed his hand.

So far as his politics were concerned he was playing the "Greater Bulgaria" game. That is to say, he desired an expansion of his country at the expense of his neighbors, the Yugoslavs, the Greeks and possibly the Turks.

Began to Waver. Any combination of powers which would guarantee him that expansion would have been welcomed. Personally he admired French culture and the British and American industrial developments. If ever an opportunity were offered to change horses, it is likely that he would have done this even in midstream.

According to those familiar with Balkan politics, there is room to believe that after the downfall of Mussolini and the successes of the Allies on all fronts, Boris began to waver and wonder how Bulgaria could get out of her present predicament.

What occurred at the meeting between Hitler and the Bulgarian ruler, just before his death, is not known. But it may be that on his return from the conference he showed some wavering in his allegiance to the Nazis and Gestapo Chief Himmler prepared his execution.

At any rate, the death of Boris is not likely to have any immediate effect in Bulgaria favorable to the Allies. The Germans probably will strengthen their lines with the Bulgarian Army, which is bound to remain loyal to its ties with the Germans at least until such time as the United Nations forces approach Bulgaria's borders.

McLemore—More Thoughts On Nuisance Ban

By HENRY McLEMORE.

Encouraged by collect wires from all parts of the country praising my courage in visioning a postwar world in which nuisances mankind has put up with for centuries would be abolished, I have given more thought to the subject.

In a previous column I enumerated some of the annoyances that should be done away with. In no way infringed on the rights of the world's great leaders. I made it plain that I didn't care to have a say as to whether or not Greenland should be given Czechoslovakia, Latvia turned into a victory garden, the Isle of Jersey given back to the cows, or the speed limit on the Burma road limited to 35 miles per hour for trucks and 55 for passenger cars.

I came out for getting rid of such things as dining by candlelight, small ashtrays, and people who buttonhole you and say, "Betcha don't know who I am." Since then I have thought of some more nuisances which could be done away with in the brave new world we are all being told will be ours before long.

It should be put in the Constitution right now that no man who is an Indian wrestler and who learned Spanish after his 45th birthday can hold the office of Vice President of the United States.

"In the Right Groove?" It isn't fair to the voters and taxpayers to have to read every day about how Mr. Henry Wallace has just thrown another victim to the floor with that iron grip of his which he got from husking corn. I know he got it from husking corn because I have read the stirring details of how his wrists were developed, at least ten thousand times.

What bothers me is whether or not Mr. Wallace is in the right groove. Should he be wasting his time around Washington doing whatever Vice Presidents do, when he obviously has such talent as an Indian wrestler?

I have a feeling he should be out on a reservation wrestling Indians. We must have hundreds of men capable of holding down the job of Vice President, but how many really good Indian wrestlers have we in this country?

As for Mr. Wallace's ability to speak Spanish—well, to me it's just downright embarrassing. You'd think he was the only man in the world who had ever mastered the Spanish language. What kind of a country is this when we come close to making a national holiday of the day that our Vice President graduated from a Spanish class?

Other Peevish Listed. Heaven help us if Mr. Wallace goes hog wild and learns another language. Businesses will declare half holidays, there will be dancing in the streets, bonfires and, I suppose, a lot of exhibitions of Indian wrestling.

Wouldn't it be better, too, if any man who had been married more than a year was forbidden to introduce his wife saying, "I want you to meet my bride." In my time I have met some of the oldest brides you can imagine. I have had men introduce their "brides" to me when they had been married so long their grandchildren were wearing out rockers on the porches of the old soldiers' homes.

I think the world could get along nicely, too, without those insurance advertisements which tell a man that even if he doesn't start saving until he is 45 he still can take mama on a round-the-world cruise if he is just thrifty enough to start putting away a couple of bucks a week with the Titmouse Mutual. You've seen those ads. An elderly couple leaning against the rail of a luxury liner obviously about to start on a luxury cruise, all thanks to Titmouse Mutual. I have traveled enough on boats to wonder continually how they manage it. My guess is that they go steerage with a box lunch. Either that, or while papa is upstairs helling around mama is downstairs taking in washing.

I've had insurance since I was knee-high to a grasshopper, and I don't think I could cross the Hudson first-class without passing the tambourine as we left the dock. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Three Big Cities Escape Traffic Fatalities in July

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Minneapolis and St. Paul, each in the 250,000-500,000 population class, and smaller Providence, R. I., turned in perfect records of no traffic accident deaths for July, the National Safety Council reported today.

For the country as a whole traffic accident deaths dropped 45 per cent below July, 1941, and the final figure of 1,810 deaths was 20 per cent under July, 1942, the council report said.

The seven-month total for 1943 was set at 11,780, a drop of 42 per cent from the 1941 period, but only 31 per cent under 1942's first seven months.

The largest city in the country with a perfect record for the first seven months was Mount Vernon, N. Y. (population, 67,400); Medford, Mass., with a 63,100 population, was second, and Wheeling, W. Va., 61,100, was third.

Alexander Laughlin Dies; Pittsburgh Industrialist

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 31.—Alexander Laughlin, 77, prominent industrialist for half a century, died yesterday at his home in Sewickley. His life was spent in the steel business although he was not connected with the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. Shortly after he came here in 1887 he founded Alexander Laughlin & Co., designers and builders of blast furnaces for steel mills. He still was president of the company at the time of his death.

In 1904 he purchased control of the Pittsburgh Steel Construction Co. in Ambridge. This firm later was absorbed by Central Tube Co., which Mr. Laughlin helped to organize. He was president of Central Tube until it was sold and liquidated in 1940.

Willard Archibald Dies; Retired D. C. Banker

Willard Archibald, 64, died yesterday at his home in the Kenesaw Apartments after a long illness. He retired several years ago from the investment banking business. A native of Trinidad, Colo., he was educated in schools here. For many years he was associated with the general offices of the Southern Railway prior to going into the banking business.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Martha Geisler Archibald, he leaves a sister, Mrs. Helen Archibald Close, and two brothers, Albert Archibald and Clarence C. Archibald, all of this city. Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the Shrine of the Sacred Heart Church with burial in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Capt. Robert Erickson, 33, Of Air Forces, Dies Here

Capt. Robert Erickson, 33, of the Army Air Forces died yesterday in Walter Reed Hospital after a five-month illness. He had been stationed at Patterson Field, Ohio, before he was ordered here for hospitalization. He was a native of Washington and would have been 34 years old Friday. He made his home at 607 Fontaine street, Alexandria, Va. His wife, Mrs. Motelle Erickson, during his illness has been maintaining a temporary residence at Hampton Court, 2013 New Hampshire avenue N.W. Capt. Erickson also is survived by a year-old daughter Linda.

Graveside funeral services, with full military honors, will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow in Arlington Cemetery.

Herman M. Grimes, 66, Lumber Executive, Dies

Herman M. Grimes, 66, vice president and treasurer of the Johnson & Wimsatt Lumber Co., died yesterday in Emergency Hospital after an illness of several months. He was a native of Occoquan, Va., and came here 53 years ago. Mr. Grimes was educated in Virginia and Washington schools and attended Columbian College, now George Washington University. He had been in the lumber business most of his life.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nina S. Grimes. Funeral services will be at 2:30 p.m. today at his home, 2811 Foxhall road N.W., followed by private burial.

Chinese Report Repulse Of Japs in Kinhwa Area

CHUNGKING, Aug. 31.—Clashes around Japanese-held Kinhwa, an important railway town in Chekiang Province, were reported today in a Chinese high command communique which stated that in one section "the enemy suffered heavily before retreating."

The Chinese attacked and killed more than half the Japanese troops conveying a mail-carrying boat near Tsinan and took booty, including more than 100 rifles, the communique said.

Arlington Rites Held For Harlow Hurley

Funeral services with full military honors were held yesterday in Arlington Cemetery for Harlow Hurley, who died in Mount Alto Hospital Thursday after a long illness. Mr. Hurley served as a first lieutenant in the World War.

He came from California seven years ago and since had practiced law here. He was the son of the late James Hurley, a former manager for the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad.

Mr. Hurley leaves a son, William Hurley, a flight officer stationed at Bowman Field, Ky., and a sister, Mrs. Hildegarde Hurley Gilmore of this city.

Thomas Hardesty Dies; Capital Transit Employee

Thomas E. Hardesty, 55, veteran employee of the Capital Transit Co., who died August 22, at his home, 918 I street S.E., was buried Wednesday in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Hardesty, born at Cedar Point Neck, Md., had lived in Southeast Washington for more than 30 years, during which he was an employee of the Capital Transit Co. Surviving Mr. Hardesty are his widow, Mrs. Ruth E. Hardesty; three daughters, Mrs. Evald K. Barry, Mrs. Edna E. Schum and Miss Doris E. Hardesty, and a son, Thomas Elwood Hardesty, now in the Navy. He also is survived by two brothers and a sister.

Lucketts (Va.) Man Dies In Auto in New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Police said a man, tentatively identified as Victor Lougheed, Rural Route 1, Lucketts, Va., died at the wheel of his automobile last night while he was driving on West Thirty-sixth street here.

The car crashed into a parked delivery truck. Papers found on the victim served as the means of identification, police said. They reported Mr. Lougheed registered at the Hotel New Yorker shortly before his death.

4 Brewster Guards Face Court-Martial

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—Four guards whose arrest by the Navy precipitated a three-day strike at the Brewster Aeronautical Corp.'s Johnsville (Pa.) plant last week were called before a Navy court-martial today.

The 4th Naval District said the charge against each was "disobeying the lawful orders of his superior officer." All four, although paid by Brewster and represented by the United Automobile Workers' (CIO) Union, are members of the Coast Guard Reserve (temporary).

Twenty-eight other guards arrested on the same charge have been released as "prisoners at large" pending determination of their cases.

The Navy said when the four guards were arrested that they refused to take the posts assigned to them. Aircraft Local 365 of the union, which announced it would "work through the courts" for their immediate release, insisted they should be allowed to choose their assignments on the basis of seniority.

Henry J. Kaiser, chairman of the Brewster board, said in New York, meanwhile, that he would meet with union officials at the corporation's Long Island City (N. Y.) plant today to discuss points of the union-management dispute.

More than 22,000,000 of Great Britain's 33,000,000 adults today are actively engaged in war work, with 2,000,000 in the Home Guards, more than 4,000,000 in civil defense and 9,000,000 voluntary and unpaid workers performing work important to the war effort.

Bright Outlook Replaces Gloom of Last Fall

A year ago as September, 1942, rolled in, sport's future was about as blue as indigo, doubled and redoubled.

College and pro football had only a brief season left where wanting talent would play before smaller crowds.

There was little chance that any Bowl games would be carried through.

Baseball was facing its last World Series, probably its last pennant races, until the war had ended.

There would be no big golf tournaments and such racing as we had left would get no big financial play.

The boxing outlook was packed with even deeper gloom. All the good fighters were in uniform.

The early autumn air was rife with the buzz of melancholy prophecies. It was all pretty gloomy. But?

It was all pretty gloomy. But? While we were sending some 10,000-000 fighting men into the air, below and along the seas, below and along the earth around the world, sport still had one of its greatest years.

And if sport in any way slowed down the war effort we have been getting some odd box scores from all fronts.

World Series a Honey Now another September—September, 1943—is moving in. What will happen before September, 1944, hammers on the door?

For one thing baseball will have one of the most interesting World Series it ever has known.

The Yankees before had wrecked too many World Series. It was different last fall. The Cardinals were the answer.

There is a new zip to the next show. Many cities have fallen off on the attendance side, but in spite of two runaway races several others, including Philadelphia and Washington, have had big advances.

In spite of the long list of colleges that have dropped football, there will be more than enough big games to keep the game at full speed and you can get a hot season, both on the college and the pro side.

Which happens to be more than pleasing to the millions now in the service.

And if you care to see what's happening around race tracks, try to

Sluggish Cards' Stock Drops as New Yorks Rush Toward Flag

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

A month ago the St. Louis Cardinals were talked of as probable favorites in the World Series, but if the annual classic were opening now the New York Yankees almost certainly would be odds-on choices.

They probably will be when the World Series opens in October. The Yankees have been picking up momentum on the home stretch while the Cardinals have been slowing down.

The difference between them was shown again yesterday, when the Yankees beat the Boston Red Sox 3-1, while the St. Louis Cardinals double-headed the Pittsburgh Pirates in the only games played in the major leagues.

At New York Rookie Charley Wensloff pitched four-hit ball and Roy (Stormy) Weatherly punched the winning ticket with a two-run homer, his third in two days.

This gave the Yanks their 13th consecutive series and a record of having won 42 out of 59 games since the streak started on July 5.

They now have plenty of power and speed along with the best pitching in the major leagues with a staff led by Spud Chandler, Ernie Bonham and Wensloff. Chandler has won 17 games and Bonham and Wensloff each 12.

The Cardinals have their spectacular speed and sharp hitting, but their fielding has become uncertain. In losing four of their last six games they have made 11 errors, five yesterday and at least one in every contest.

They have 11 hits in the 10-inning 4-3 first game with the Pirates and 13 in the 8-3 nightcap, but Rookie Alpha Brazle, who had not been beaten in any of his previous National League starts, gave Pittsburgh a dozen blows in the opener and his teammates made three critical errors.

In losing four of their last six games they have made 11 errors, five yesterday and at least one in every contest.

Harry Brecheen held the Buccaners to eight safeties in the second game and the Redbirds wrung up the decision with a five-run flurry in the third inning.

Appling Bags Bat Lead After Torrid Tussle With Wakefield

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—After several weeks of battling Dick Wakefield of Detroit for the American League batting lead, Luke Appling of the Chicago White Sox has taken control with a comfortable margin again.

The Tiger rookie was on top a week ago with a .330 average, but since then has dropped five points while the veteran shortstop of the White Sox has spurred upward from .329 to .337.

This pair apparently has the hitting lead in the junior circuit strictly between themselves because not another player in the entire league is above .300 level.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals continued to set an unapproachable pace in the National League with a .336 average.

Segura, Net Favorite, Likely First Foreign Champ Since '36

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—There's every indication that for the first time since 1936 a foreigner will rule over Uncle Sam's tennis forces at completion of the national meet which opens in Forest Hills' West Side Club tomorrow.

Francisco (Pancho) Segura of Ecuador, he of the two-handed grip and the pigeon-toed stance, is the choice to replace Ensign Ted Schroeder on the throne.

Perhaps Segura's tennis, which already has brought him the title in all six of the tournaments in which he has appeared this summer, won't be a par with that displayed by the pipe-smoking Fred Perry of England, who defeated Don Budge seven years ago in the most recent successful net invasion.

The war, however, has made that unnecessary. Some of Uncle Sam's best players won't be able to appear and others, such as Schroeder, won't be at their best. Schroeder will play in the afternoon of the streamlined, six-day tourney, but must stand watches aboard his ship during the morning and night.

If Segura wins, he will become the first South American to wear the crown. He reached the semifinal round last year before being stopped by Frankie Parker, 6-1, 6-1, 2-6, 6-2. Parker is back again this year, but his Army camouflage duties have given him little time to sharpen his game this summer.

Although a Segura victory would send a men's championship southward last year, one of the first, Anita Lizana of Chile was queen of the United States courts in 1937.

Charles Hare, former English Davis Cupper, but now a corporal in the United States Army, and Ladislav Nedetzka of Czechoslovakia, are other foreign threats.

Jack Smith, Big New Forward, Is Slated to Join Redskins Today

Jack Smith, husky lineman obtained from the Eagles-Steelers in the trade which sent Halback Leroy Zimmerman to Philadelphia, was to report today to the Redskins training camp at College Park, where the pro gridmen were continuing their conditioning in preparation for the Green Bay Packers game at Baltimore Sunday.

Smith should prove a valuable addition to the Redskins line. He is a brother of George Smith, regular Redskin center.

Bay exhibition was on Coach Dutch Bergman's calendar either this afternoon or tomorrow, with the emphasis on pass defense against the alert Don Hutson, peerless receiver. The Redskins will leave for Baltimore Sunday morning.

The Washington club's office has announced that 12 players from the world championship 1942 squad and the coach now are in active military service. They are: Al Aldrich, Ed Beiner, Ed Cifers, John Good-year, Ed Justice, Steve Juzwik, John Griffin, Clem Stralka, Bob Titchener, Marvin Whitted, Dick Todd, Bill Young and Coach Ray Flaherty.

No action has yet been taken on the conflict of dates between the opening Redskins game and the closing Washington baseball game at Griffith Stadium, both scheduled for October 2. The football game may be transferred to Brooklyn on that date and the Dodgers brought here October 31.

Fans Are to Honor Gibson Before Grays, Stars Tilt

Joe Gibson, catching and hitting star for the Washington Home-Steeds Grays, will be given a testimonial by fans Thursday night at Griffith Stadium prior to the 8:30 o'clock game against the Philadelphia Stars.

Gibson is in the midst of his best season. Not only does he lead the Grays in home runs and runs batted in, but he also has been hitting better than .500 all season.

On Sunday the Grays will meet the Kansas City Monarchs in a double-header.

Aqueduct, which opened its three-week fall meeting yesterday, has selected Labor Day as its war relief day. Sixty per cent of the profits that day will go to National War Fund, Inc., with the remainder earmarked for Long Island hospitals.

High Honors Won by Volkman, D. C. Ring Referee in Marines

Back from a tour of duty and action with the marines on Guadalcanal and in the Southwest Pacific and back to his civilian life, is First Lt. Harry Volkman, former boxing referee here. On a short furlough before being sent to another marine base and with his chest ablaze with service ribbons and a ladder of marksmanship and shooting honors, Volkman was introduced from the ring at last night's Jackie Wilson-Lulu Costantino fight at Griffith Stadium.

His face bronzed by the Pacific sun, Volkman declared himself very happy to be home, but a little surprised by his reception. He expected to slip into town, meet a few friends and slip out again, but he was the center of attraction around the ringside last night.

Earns Presidential Citation. Also surprising to him was news of the Navy Air Force, where he is a double-header Sunday.

The Giants have been mathematically eliminated from the National League race by the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees have applied the crusher to the Athletics in the American.

Yankee Series Set Back, Nats Face Soldier Nine

The Nats will have an additional day of rest before beginning their important four-game series with the Yankees in New York. Originally set to begin on Thursday, the series now will start on Friday with Thursday's game moved back to make a double-header Sunday.

Washington was to play an exhibition today at Fort Washington against the soldier team.

Net Title Hope Ended For Lt. Ernie Sutter By War Wound

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 31.—At 26 Lt. Ernest Sutter is through with competitive tennis—his career ended by a German shell which pierced his racket arm at Mater—and thus goes glimmering the last Sutter hope for the national championship.

For several years the Sutter boys to Promoter Joe Turner that may be hard to meet.

Gleason said he wants $25,000 to lay the title on the line here against Wilson. For an overweight match the price is $10,000. Gleason suggested first a non-title fight against Wilson and if won by Wilson, then a return match with the crown at stake.

Jack Laken, who does business for Wilson, snorted at these prices. "For a non-title fight we want the big end of the purse. After all, Wilson is the big attraction here. Naturally if we get a shot at the title we'll fight for free—practically," he said.

Unfair, Loser's Pilot Says. After the fight, Charley Johnson, Costantino's manager, said he never will bring another man here. "The outsider gets no protection from the referee," he claimed. Johnson was referring to the butt which opened a gash on Costantino's left eye in the fourth round, and to occasional heeling which kept claret flowing the rest of the way.

Reynolds (Charley Reynolds, the referee) not only didn't warn Wilson, but he gave no indication he even saw it, Johnson added. Laken countered with a claim that Costantino started the butting business in the first round and also indulged in low blows and constant shoving.

Brewer, CAAA Nines Clash For Berth in City Final

The city sandlot baseball championship series is approaching the end, with the winner of today's game between CAAA of the Potomac River Naval Command League and Heurich Brewers of the Industrial League taking on Headquarters Marines representing the Departmental League, tomorrow for the title.

The series is deadlocked, with each club owning a two-won-and-a-lost record following CAAA's 5-4 victory yesterday over the Marines. CAAA broke a 2-2 tie with the Marines in the seventh, enough to withstand the Marines' two-run outburst in the eighth.

Prestige Plus Old 'Punt, Pass, Prayer,' Tulane's Prospect

Numerically, the manpower situation is improved in the Greenlee camp. The squad has grown from 46 men to about 80 in the past three weeks. Buddy Gatewood, all-Southwest corner at Baylor last season, is the only letterman among the transfer students, however. Renfro and Howard McAfee, a second-string tackle last year, are the returning Greenlee lettermen.

Simons rates Georgia Tech as the strongest team in the Southeastern Conference, but says "Tulane is a cinch to finish among the top four teams."

And Little Monk isn't kidding. Besides his own team, only Georgia Tech, Georgia and Louisiana State are continuing war-time football in the SEC.

Tulane plays a six-game schedule, five of them at home. Alabama's withdrawal from an Alabamian cost the Greenies one opponent.

Tulane's schedule: October 2, Memphis Naval Air Tech at New Orleans; October 9, Rice at Houston; October 23, Southern Methodist at New Orleans; October 30, Georgia Preflight at New Orleans; November 13, Georgia Tech at New Orleans; November 20, Louisiana State at New Orleans.

Bears, Packers Rated Higher Than Redskins by Giants and Dodgers

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR. BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y., Aug. 31.—If you don't think it's appropriate that Bears should be an important topic of conversation up here where the Giants and Dodgers are getting ready for the pro football season, you should have seen Steve Owen in a cage with a couple of them yesterday. Some one had the idea that it would be a natural hook-up for pictures—Bear Mountain and the Giants' exhibition against the big bad Chicago Bears at Buffalo Sunday. Get it? . . . Anyway, Steve and Tuffy Leeman, who is spherical not too inconsiderable area of skin undamaged. He and Tuffy agreed the Giants will be lucky to do as well Sunday. Just then the naturalist in charge of the Interstate Park Zoo came along. "We have a nice tame skunk, too," he remarked. "No, thanks," said Steve. "We've got enough pictures."

Bear facts—Consensus around the two football camps is that the Bears and the Green Bay Packers, as usual, will be the teams to beat in the National League this season, and that Washington's Redskins won't be so troublesome unless Sammy Baugh's pitching form improves over his All-Star game showing. "We have a better team than last year and the others will be coming back to us," commented Leeman. "The Bears only have two guards—yeah, Danny Fortmann and George Musso—they've got Bronk Nagurski back; he'll be playing tackle and he'll probably play in his own territory. And they still have Bulldog Turner at center. Tuffy seemed to be having a rather hard time keeping an optimistic grin on his face—especially when he compared Turner's Redskins collection of rookie centers.

Just a suggestion—Ward Cuff, in his seventh pro season still one of the Giants' best backs, brought his wife and two small girls—about 3 or 4 years old—to camp with him. After watching them in action for a while, Owen decided that if worst came to worst he could put them in against the Bears and it wouldn't take long to wear down that Chicago line.

Program notes—The Dodgers, who started late and without very bright prospects, got quite a lift yesterday when Ben Kish and George Cafego, a couple of better than average veteran backs, reported unexpectedly. Both have been discharged from the Army for physical disabilities that prevent their playing pro football. Up to that time the only veteran in camp, Pete Cawthon, new Dodger coach, probably is the loudest tutor in the league. He never seems to stop for breath as he works his players—and by work he means just that. Hugh (Shorty) Ray, who drew up the pro rules, was on hand for his annual interpretation lecture and, talked at some length on the virtues of running plays quickly.

27 Die, 150 Injured As Collision Derails Train in New York

WAYLAND, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Twenty-seven persons were dead today—many of them from inhaling live steam—after the crack Lackawanna Limited passenger train and a switch engine crashed head-on near this southwestern New York community late yesterday afternoon.

Approximately 150 others of the 500 passengers on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western's New York-Buffalo express were injured, severely in some cases, in New York's worst train disaster in more than three years.

Moans of the injured mingled with the escaping steam from the switch engine as scores of volunteers dug into the tangled debris to effect rescue and remove the dead. The toll was the State's highest on a railroad since April 19, 1940, when the Lake Shore Limited of the New York Central Lines crashed on a sharp curve at Little Falls, killing 137 and injuring 135.

The engine of the limited, James E. Leroy of Buffalo, said the train was speeding through Wayland when he saw the switch engine on a siding paralleling the main line westbound track.

The engineer of the local freight locomotive apparently was confused and thought the limited had backed through and started to pull out on the main line to continue switching," he said.

"When I saw the other engine pulling out I slammed on the limited's emergency brakes, but it was going too fast to avert a collision. The two locomotives met at the switch."

The limited, a 13-car train, sheared off the front end of the switch engine and cracked the driving cylinder. The switch engine remained upright but its boiler was dented. The limited locomotive hurtled down the track and toppled broadside across two main tracks and two spurs. Three coaches, the diner, a baggage car and mail car, were derailed.

Eyewitness Descriptions. Eyewitnesses described the horror scene. B. J. Shields, Buffalo, said: "It was a seething furnace. Some of the persons were in such pain they begged to die."

Staff Sgt. Richard L. Franz of Marshfield, Ore., who suffered burns and was declared dead, said: "All I can remember is they slammed the brakes on and the train stopped. We didn't realize the train was wrecked. Then the steam pipe broke and everybody started screaming and began to pile out. The steam was so dense you couldn't see where you were going."

Robert Kaiser, Kenmore, said: "The odor of burning flesh was terrible."

Several formations of Mitchells with Lightning escort and RAF Wellingtons staged a day and night assault on freight yards at Civita Vecchia northwest of Rome.

Other medium, light and fighter bombers raided railway objectives in the Rome-Viterbo area during the day, and fighter-bombers struck at communications in Sardinia.

In all, 21 enemy planes were shot down, with 15 Allied aircraft reported missing.

The Portresses, meeting composition light opposition, strewed bombs throughout dispersal areas at the strategic Viterbo airfield, 40 miles north of Rome, leaving hangars and other buildings in flames. They shot down two enemy planes.

At Civita Vecchia, a rail junction for the Rome-Leghorn route and industrial town of Terni, the Mitchells knocked out tracks in the north-west section and scored direct hits on the railroad station, warehouses and locomotive sheds.

Night-flying Wellingtons guided by their fires followed up in two sharp attacks on warehouses, among block-busters, causing explosions and fires.

An entire train north of the town blew up, and chemical works and the transformer station suffered direct hits. The glow from the fires bright enough to be visible to other Wellingtons in the northwest of the entire Rome region had now been liberated from the Nazi invaders.

The Russians are now more than halfway to Mariupol, front-line dispatches to Moscow reported.

The capture of Taganrog followed the same general pattern as the pincers movements which resulted in the fall of Orel and Kharkov. The Soviet communique disclosed that Red Army divisions had advanced drive from Donetsk-Armovsk to the northwest of Taganrog, to Veselo-Voznesenskaya, 28 miles west of the city, while other Russian forces closed in from the east.

The communique said the Germans suffered heavy losses in men and equipment in the Russian counter-offensive. German broadcasts dismissed the defeat as a "strategic withdrawal"—the same terms used to describe the fall of Kharkov—and said military installations had been destroyed in the face of the Russian advance.

70 Axis Planes Engage Americans in Bitter Air Fight Over Italy

By the Associated Press. ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 31.—Newly massed concentrations of enemy fighters battled United States Marauder bombers and escorting Lightnings yesterday in the bitterest combat of the air war over Italy.

The medium bombers blasted railroad yards at Aversa, north of Naples. Seventy to 75 Germans and Italians jumped the Allied fleets near the coast and over the target, and a great running battle continued afterward more than 100 miles out to sea, with the Axis losing 17 planes. Meanwhile, Flying Fortresses raided the Viterbo airfield north of Rome with heavy rain of bombs. Allied headquarters announced today.

Detective Agency Head Fined in License Case

Municipal Judge John B. McMahon today sentenced Jeremiah T. Rapallo, 1412 North Carolina avenue N.E., to pay a $200 fine or serve 45 days in jail for operating a private detective agency without a license.

The Rapallo agency, known as the American Police and Guard Service, with offices in the Investment Building, was detected, police said, when Morris Boxer, a former member of the United States Secret Service, who was serving as an operative in the Rapallo bureau, told police that he had not been paid for his work.

Rapallo testified that the reason he did not pay his operatives was because his bookkeeper had embezzled some money. When Judge McMahon asked him why he did not report the man for the embezzlement, Rapallo said he "was getting around to that."

Assistant Corporation Counsel Warren Browning prosecuted the case.

Dr. Oberwirth testified that he made a naked-eye examination, and declared under prosecution questioning it would be possible that burned hairs might not be detected save by an examination under a microscope.

The defense had asked to introduce Dr. Oberwirth at the preliminary hearing because he plans to be absent from the colony when the case is expected to be brought to trial in October.

"From the evidence I am satisfied that a prima facie case has been made against you and I order you to stand trial at the session of the Supreme Court beginning in October."

De Marigny, leaning against a rail, received the ruling with no show of emotion. A moment later he lighted a cigarette and chatted with attorneys.

This 19-year-old, red-haired wife, who has steadfastly maintained that her husband is innocent, also took the ruling calmly.

Trial of Clatterback In 'Distant County' Indicated by Judge

By Staff Correspondent of The Star. LEESBURG, Va., Aug. 31.—Chances were slim today that Thomas William Clatterback, accused of the murder of five persons, would be tried in Loudoun County...

Venue Change Dropped. Maj. McIntyre's motion originally was for a change of venue, which would mean the removal of the trial to another county...

Remains Calm in Court. Clatterback came into the courtroom for the morning session dressed only in dark trousers and a neat white shirt. In the afternoon, he had added a blue serge coat, but still no necktie...

the prisoner. The handcuffs were removed in an anteroom of the court and the prisoner walked calmly into the trial chamber and took his place. During all of the proceedings, he remained calm and intent on the proceedings...

Four Farmers Chosen. Jurors tentatively selected were: Lawrence S. Arnel of Sterling, Fred S. Warren of Aldie, J. Nelson Titus of Luckettts, C. R. Hollandsworth and George Moss of Leesburg, all farmers, and S. T. Green of Leesburg, who gave his occupation as "following the races."

Hot exchanges over several of the prospective jurors occurred during the day among Maj. McIntyre, Judge Alexander and W. W. Butzner of Fredericksburg, who is assisting Mr. Harrison in presentation of the case.

At one point, Maj. McIntyre accused the judge of phrasing his questions in such a manner so as to change the answers previously given by the veniremen. Both Judge Alexander and Mr. Butzner objected to Maj. McIntyre's frequent interruptions of their questioning.

on the Love farm near Purcellville was given to newspapermen by Mr. Harrison. Judge Alexander issued orders not to allow newspapermen any privileges at the trial. He told reporters they would "have to take your chances with the others" and take seats in the spectator galleries.

There were indications that Clatterback would plead insanity when the trial actually began. Maj. McIntyre promised there would be some "surprises." Despite the alleged confession, Clatterback is being tried only on the charge that he murdered Mr. Russell. Authorities explain that this is the strongest of the cases against him.

Present in court were a number of relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Love, including their daughter, Sarah, who was not at home the morning of the slayings. Mr. and Mrs. Leon Russell, brother and sister-in-law of the dead tenant farmer, also attended the sessions.

After the luncheon recess, two newspapermen were locked out of the courtroom because the place was already filled, although only a few persons were standing in the rear of the room. When reporters appealed to the judge for admittance, they were ignored and had to resort to other means of gaining entrance so they could report the proceedings.

GOOD NEWS FROM THE PRODUCTION FRONT

116,170 "Ideas for Victory"

FROM G. M. WAR WORKERS

...and General Motors Is Rewarding That Spirit at the Rate of a Million Dollars a Year

Floyd C. Fox, a General Motors employe for 27 years, has received two $1,000 War Bonds for suggestions to improve methods of manufacturing parts of an aviation engine.

For a suggestion resulting in simplification of machine gun manufacture, submitted after she had worked in the gun plant only six months, Miss Esther Wrona received a $1,000 War Bond.

In all of its 112 plants in 50 cities of the United States and Canada, General Motors encourages employe suggestions for aiding war production, through a carefully planned system of awards.

As a result, G.M. war workers have to date contributed 116,170 written ideas. Yes, written ideas. Many of them good ideas, "Victory Ideas." Nearly 20,000 of them have been winning ideas and have been put into operation.

Eight thousand four hundred ideas were submitted the very first month. They are now coming in at a monthly rate of better than 10,000, or a yearly rate of one idea for every three workers.

Thus, the individual war workers of General Motors are being given full opportunity to add their bit to the continuing contributions of management, supervision and engineering, in those activities which deal with increasing production, saving materials, lowering costs and promoting plant safety.

Helping Those Who Help America In the first 15 months' operation of its plan to reward workers for ideas that assist our war effort, General Motors paid out $660,895 in War Bonds and Stamps. And today the awards are being made at the rate of better than a million dollars a year.

General Motors considers that money well spent. It is a merited reward to those who help America. It is a proper incentive for individual initiative. It is one form of appreciation to those who think as they work—who are not content merely to perform the requirements of their jobs.

Something Better, Faster Americans are always interested in finding ways to do things better and faster. This American spirit among General Motors men and women—now also increased by the desire to help win Victory and to back the men at the war fronts—accounts for their inspiring performance.

There must be a great inward satisfaction for all who have submitted suggestions, in the realization that they have made some effort out of the ordinary to help win the war.

They can say of themselves, as General Motors says—"Victory Is Our Business!"

Engineer Corps Sends Materiel To Bond Show

Heavy Guns Placed In Position on Exhibit Grounds

Equipment of the Engineer Corps was scheduled to arrive today for the Army-Treasury third war loan show on the Washington Monument Grounds.

Early morning visitors to the Monument were impressed by two 150-mm. howitzers of the type which hurled shells from 15 to 18 miles in the Sicilian campaign.

Chapel Being Built. Meanwhile, construction of a chapel is being rushed to completion.

Installation of electric lights was completed today, enabling Army personnel to work at night.

The 126-foot stage facing the arena, where movie stars and other celebrities will appear in behalf of the campaign, has been completed.

Railroad Engine Arrives. A 44-ton military engine, now resting on steel rails on the Washington Monument Grounds as a feature of "Back the Attack" was described today by Col. John A. Appleton.

Standard gauge, the engine is of a type being prepared for foreign service. It is among the first military equipment landed when a beachhead near a rail line has been effected.

Special Couplings. In foreign service, engines require couplings different in design from those on regular locomotives here.

Interests Onlookers. On its way down New York avenue from the B. & O. yards, the smokestack of the engine tore through way, trolley passengers gawked at its passage.

Game Warden Resigns. RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 31 (AP)—Jerry Robert Downs, game warden of Loudoun County, has resigned, effective tomorrow.

Shortage of Drivers Threatens Deliveries Of Fuel Oil in Fall

USES Expected to Aid In Locating Manpower In Critical Situation

A shortage of fuel oil truck drivers is expected to precipitate a delivery crisis in Washington with the approach of cold weather.

Mr. Scott said a survey has shown a very critical shortage of drivers is anticipated. Twenty-eight of 55 leading dealers reported that they will require an additional 200 men to man their trucks as soon as cold weather sets in.

The situation is the result of the customary practice of fuel oil dealers who lay off their truck drivers in the spring and rehire new crews in the fall.

Not all dealers anticipate difficulties, however, and the general situation already is under consideration of the local War Manpower Commission office.

One dealer said today he had put his regular drivers to work on his payroll in other occupations, as soon as the need for them was eliminated with the approach of summer.

As soon as cold weather sets in, we'll be hollering for experienced men but we won't be able to tell how many will be available until then," said F. M. Seaton, control operator of the John P. Agnew Co. fuel oil dealers.

Another dealer pointed out that the average dealer cannot afford to keep his drivers on the payroll during the summer and so they must naturally seek other work.

The pilot now in the Air Force is Ralph N. Read, who has been promoted to major. Others promoted are: Walter E. Carter, 4610 Morgan drive, Bethesda, promoted to major; Victor P. Alfaro, 4211 Forty-third street N.W., and Charles E. Flerst, 4210 Matheson drive, N.W., both promoted to major; Charles Heilmann, 5501 First street, N.W., George Lyon Miller, 3632 Windom place N.W., and Boris P. Rosen, box 218, Benjamin Franklin Station, all promoted from first lieutenant to captain; and George J. Newgard III, 1833 Massachusetts avenue N.W., and Andrew Canfield, 4211 Forty-third street N.W., both raised to the rank of first lieutenant.

Read, according to his friends at the airport, has been flying from La Guardia Field for the Air Transport Command, hauling supplies and headquarters staff officers to Alaska and South America. His wife, the former Miss Mary Jane Bowman, was a hostess for the airline.

Carter is stationed at Seymour Johnson Field, Goldsboro, N.C. Alfaro is in charge of an ear, nose and throat department at a hospital in Atlantic City.

Drivers Rush to Beat Deadline on Exchange Of Gasoline Books

Those Mailing Expired Coupons Before Midnight Can Get New Ones

Long line of motorists kept several of Washington's 16 ration boards on the go early today and by closing time at 4:30 a rush was expected as drivers sought to make last-day exchanges on expiring B and C gasoline coupons.

District OPA officials said motorists who mail their expired coupons and latest tire inspection certificates to their board before midnight tonight can beat the deadline.

While it was estimated yesterday that only half the 108,000 motorists involved had applied for new books, Ration Board officials indicated today that the rush late yesterday and today would bring in a high percentage of the expired coupons.

Not all dealers anticipate difficulties, however, and the general situation already is under consideration of the local War Manpower Commission office.

OPAs officials had pointed out the substitution of new books is designed to foil counterfeiters and stolen coupons.

Lt. James Hamilton Dies; D. C. Lawyer for 20 Years

Lt. James Hamilton, U. S. A., retired, died yesterday after a brief illness at his home in Hotel 2400. For more than 20 years he had been practicing patent law here.

A native of Ireland, he was brought to this country as a youth. He was graduated from West Point Military Academy in 1890 and later attended Boston University Law School. He also studied mechanical and electrical engineering at Cornell University and held a Ph. D. degree.

Services will be at 11 a. m. Thursday in the Fort Myer Chapel with burial in Arlington Cemetery.

Motorcycle Policeman Injured in Collision

Park Policeman Melvin S. Olson, 28, of Lanham Hills, Md., was in a "fair" condition today at Emergent Hospital, after an automobile forced his motor cycle into the side of a truck which was towing another vehicle on Memorial high-way near the end of the Fourteenth street bridge yesterday.

Mr. Olson is being treated for fractures of both legs and both arms. Another accident victim yesterday, Willie Singleton, 29, colored, of 2564 Fifth Sterling avenue S.E., was reported to be in fair condition at Casualty Hospital today.

Schools to Continue Student-Work Plan Urged by McNutt

Growing Number of Participants in Program Expected This Fall

The District public schools already have and will continue to have the type of "work-school program" recommended yesterday by WPA manpower Chief McNutt to help students work in industry and continue schooling at the same time.

When informed that WMC plans to advise all boards of education on how to carry out such a program, Superintendent of Schools Haycock called 100 students already were participating in District high schools. They came to school a little early and studied until 1 o'clock, he said.

Major Departures in Plan. Here are the major departures of the new organization blueprint: There will be nine money-raising divisions instead of five.

The structure of the Government division has been divided into 21 sections instead of having each department handled as a separate unit.

The Business and Finance Division, replacing the old Group Solicitation Unit, will cover twice as many firms as the old unit solicited, taking in all companies with eight or more employees.

A special division, called the National Accounts Division, has been set up to handle national firms with offices in Washington.

The Metropolitan Division will solicit every resident instead of soliciting only those listed on "prospect cards."

County Solicitation. The four surrounding counties will conduct separately organized solicitation in each county and each will have its own division.

First division to start operating in the campaign to support 145 welfare, USO and foreign relief organizations in the coming year will be the Advance Gifts Division, headed by Abbot C. Mills.

Assigned 2,400 Firms. The Business and Finance Division has been assigned nearly 2,400 firms, "a much larger job" than previously, when only firms with 15 or more employees were approached by this group.

Dr. Falls Heads Unit In War Loan Drive. Dr. W. Marion Falls, former president of the District Dental Society, will serve as chairman of the Professional Division during the Treasury's Third War Loan campaign here.

Revocation Board to Hear Last of Restaurant Cases

The License Revocation Board was scheduled to end its hearings today in cases involving nine restaurants charged by the Health Department with flagrantly violating health regulations.

According to Health Department records, the owners forfeited $25 collateral on health violation charges on four occasions since September 29, 1942.

New Organization Plan Drawn For Community War Fund Drive

Jennings Explains How 15,000 Workers Will Operate for Solicitation of $4,800,000

A new organization plan, designed to enlist the whole community in the effort to raise $4,800,000 for the agencies of the Community War Fund, was outlined yesterday by Campaign Chairman Coleman Jennings.

Departing in most respects from the campaign procedures of previous years, the new plan will require a volunteer force of 15,000 workers. "Our objective today is to build the organization and enroll all the workers necessary to present the appeal of the Community War Fund to every adult who lives or works in Washington or in the counties of Arlington, Fairfax, Montgomery or Prince Georges," Mr. Jennings told the Campaign Committee.

276 Reserve Midshipmen Graduated at Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 31.—Rear Admiral Randolph Jacobs, chief of naval personnel, today told the sixth class of Reservist Midshipmen graduated from the Naval Academy since 1941 that "when you accept your commission, you accept the rights and privileges, the duties and responsibilities of a select group of men."

Admiral Jacobs spoke at exercises in which 276 V-7 Reserve Midshipmen were commissioned ensigns in the Naval Reserve. They were given orders to report immediately for active naval duty. The graduation brought the total of commissioned reservists under the Academy's program to 2,282.

Central Ambulance Control System Goes Into Effect Tomorrow

Friede's Office to Handle All Calls for Service, Dispatch Equipment

Washington's new emergency ambulance service control system, designed to prevent delays and confusion which in the past have caused accident victims to be left lying in the street without attention for long periods of time, will go into operation at 8 a. m. tomorrow.

Capt. Friede, the new superintendent of the fire alarm system, whose headquarters will house the ambulance control center, announced today that, beginning tomorrow, emergency calls for ambulances should be given by phoning Hobart 3322. This will permit the caller directly in touch with operators of the new system, who will relay the messages to the nearest available equipment.

Should a person forget the Hobart 3322 number, he may ask the telephone operator for the ambulance control headquarters by name.

Will Relay Calls. If hospitals, police or fire departments receive ambulance calls, they will relay them or report to ambulance control headquarters, but officials ask callers to phone the center.

New telephone services have been installed and special operators detailed for the new system. The Commissioners yesterday approved an outlay of $4,100 for the installation of two-way radio equipment in the ambulances and fire equipment.

Fire-rescue apparatus and the police sub-car-ambulances already have two-way radio facilities.

Star Outlines Need. "Need for prompt dispatching of ambulances and accurate reporting on accident calls was described in stories by editorialists in The Star and led to action by District officials and hospital authorities to perfect the new arrangements, under the leadership of Commissioner Guy Mason."

Capt. Friede said there should be no delays or mixups hereafter in responses to emergency calls.

"With the co-operation of the public in prompt reporting of accidents or other emergencies where ambulance or medical care is needed quickly, the center should be able to assure prompt, immediate service," Capt. Friede said.

Warship Christened Self, D. C. Sponsor Relates

Mrs. Fred Pierce, 1945 Calvert street N.W., was back home today from christening the U. S. S. Bostwick, a destroyer named for her cousin, the late Rear Admiral Lullicut, at its launching at Wilmington, Del., yesterday.

"Yes, I failed to break the bottle," she said. "I hit it twice but it would not break. The ship was launched broadside. As it hit the water it rolled over, then straightened up. We thought the bottle hit the side and broke and everybody cheered."

Admiral Bostwick, who died in January, 1940, served on the U. S. S. Oregon at the battle of Santiago in the Spanish-American War and commanded the battleships South Dakota and New Mexico during the World War. After the war he rose to commander of the battle fleet.

Barrett to Become Chief Of Detectives Tomorrow

Robert Joseph Barrett will be sworn in as chief of detectives at 10 a. m. tomorrow by Maj. Edward J. Kelly, superintendent of police. He will be the youngest man to hold that rank in the history of the Metropolitan Police Department.

Inspector Barrett celebrated his 41st birthday July 20. Capt. Clyde N. Strange will be inducted as assistant chief. The Commissioners are expected to attend the ceremonies.

Ship Named in Honor Of Thomas H. Gallaudet

One of the Liberty ships launched from the yards of the California Shipbuilding Co. will be named Thomas H. Gallaudet, in honor of the first great educator of deaf children in this country, according to the Ship Naming Committee of the Maritime Commission.

Dr. Gallaudet pioneered the field of education for the men, Negroes and the handicapped. His son aided in foundation of Washington's Gallaudet College for the Deaf.

Moccasin Craft Kits Put on Ration-Free List

Have you a Boy Scout in your house? He can save you some shoe ration stamps—today.

PUC Accountant Asks $38,000 Gas Rate Cut

Company's Rate of Return Is 6.75 Pct., Hearing Is Told

Consumer rates of the Washington Gas Light Co. should be reduced by approximately $38,000 for the year beginning tomorrow, the Public Utilities Commission was advised today by V. A. McElfresh, PUC chief accountant.

After the opening of hearings on the sliding-scale argument, Mr. McElfresh said his studies for the last year showed that the company's value was $30,617,787, that the rate of return earned was 6.75 per cent. and that earnings in excess of the basic rate of return were $77,846. Application of the sliding-scale plan would indicate that approximately half this sum is available for rate reduction.

A rate reduction of $38,000 would mean a minute change in monthly bills of the company's customers, it was said. Should the PUC order such a rate cut, it was suggested, the reductions would probably be applied only to certain classes of consumers.

The McElfresh findings are expected to be contested by company witnesses. Argument also is expected when the commission considers whether the basic rate of return under the sliding scale plan should be reduced to a point below 6.5 per cent.

The OPA, which last year waged a determined fight against the $300,000 rate increase, finally granted a 900 rate commission and upheld in the District Court of Appeals, was not represented at today's hearing.

The company indicated it will maintain there is no reason for any decrease in rates this year and that the present charges should be continued. It is expected to contest continuation of the PUC ruling of last year that tax payments charged to operating expenses be limited to a 31 per cent rate on taxable income.

Also, a dispute is expected over the recommendation by Mr. McElfresh that a sum of $127,475 be refused as a charge against operating expenses. This sum the company accrued on its books in the last year for payment of maintenance and repairs to gas meters and maintenance of gas mains—work not yet performed because of shortages of materials and labor. The company's accrual is called a provision for deferred expenses, but Mr. McElfresh held the cost could be charged to operating expenses only after the work is done and the expenditures actually made.

A. S. Custer, 47, Dies; Union Station Official

Arlington S. Custer, 47, supervisor of the Union Station ticket office for the Washington Terminal Co. died yesterday in Casualty Hospital after a long illness.

A native of Parkerford, Pa., he had been a Washington resident for more than 20 years. He served in the last war. Mr. Custer was a member of Stansbury Lodge of Masons and a past grand master of the Odd Fellows here.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Mary Custer, he is survived by a brother, Carl C. Custer of Parkerford. He made his home here at 40 Sherman circle N.W.

Funeral services will be at the Ebenezer Baptist Church, 4612 Georgia avenue N.W., at 1 p. m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Parkerford.

Army Locomotive Is Featured In Monument Grounds Exhibit

Workmen remove blocks and braces from under the 44-ton Army "060 switcher type" engine at the Baltimore & Ohio freight yards, first step in its transfer from a flatcar to the tracks at the Monument Grounds.

The 26-wheel trailer which took the engine from the freight yards to the Monument Grounds is shown on Fourteenth street with the Monument in the background. No difficulty was encountered on the trip downtown.

A ramp reinforced with railroad ties was built from the end of the trailer to the tracks on which the engine will rest for public inspection. Here the engine descends the ramp.

A 44-ton military engine, now resting on steel rails on the Washington Monument Grounds as a feature of "Back the Attack" beginning September 9, was described today by Col. John A. Appleton of the Army Transportation Corps as a new and powerful adjunct to rail transportation evolved during this war...

Special Couplings. In foreign service, engines require couplings different in design from those on regular locomotives here, it was said, and the coupling links on this locomotive resemble the anchor cable of a battleship...

Interests Onlookers. On its way down New York avenue from the B. & O. yards, the smokestack of the engine tore through low branches of trees along the way, trolley passengers gawked at its passage...

New Plan Drawn For $4,800,000 War Fund Drive

Jennings Announces How 15,000 Workers Will Be Organized

A new organization plan, designed to enlist the whole community in the effort to raise $4,800,000 for the Agency of the Community War Fund, was outlined yesterday by Campaign Chairman Coleman Jennings.

Major Departures in Plan. Here are the major departures of the new organization blueprint: There will be nine money-raising divisions instead of five.

County Solicitation. The four surrounding counties will conduct separately organized solicitation in each county and each will have its own division.

Assigned 2,400 Firms. The Business and Finance Division has been assigned nearly 2,400 firms, a much larger job than previously, when only 150 or more employees were approached by this group...

County Unit Operations. Each county division will solicit every resident of the county at his home but, in addition, the county divisions have been assigned to solicit their own "advance gifts" prospects and county business firms.

Service Committees. The five Service Committees backing up the money-raising effort are: Public relations, Everett J. Boothby; speakers, Serge N. Benson; education, Mrs. Jouett Shouse; supplies, Louis D. Krakow; and audit, James A. Connelley, Sr.

Annapolis Navy Officer Is Awarded Silver Star. Secretary of the Navy Knox has awarded Silver Star medals to five officers and two enlisted men for "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity" aboard submarines on war patrols in the Pacific.

Third of Virginia Autos Untested as Deadline Tonight Approaches

Thousands to Be Caught Without New Stickers; Stations Report Rush

Virginia State police estimated today that tonight's deadline for the inspection of automobiles bearing B and C gasoline stickers would catch approximately one-third of the motorists in the Metropolitan Area without the new inspection stickers.

Lt. C. W. Carr said there would be no extension of tonight's deadline and added that B and C motorists who appear on the highways without new inspection stickers after midnight will be subject to fines.

Police reported lines two blocks long yesterday at Alexandria inspection stations. They said the city has only six inspection stations, while 12,000 to 13,000 license plates were sold this year.

5 Fairfax Draft Pleas Upheld, 3 Reversed

Two Cases Appealed To President's Board

Decisions of the Fairfax County Selective Service Board in four cases acted on this week by Board of Appeals, No. 3, were affirmed, and two decisions were reversed.

Leonard W. Bowman, Route 3, Vienna, dairy farmer, appealing to the President on the decision of the local board and the appeal board, in assigning him a 4-E classification, was classified 2-C.

Virginia OPA Officials To Review Gas Coupons. RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 31.—Harry G. Duval, Richmond district OPA rationing officer, said yesterday a vigorous campaign will be conducted throughout the State in September and October to review all "B" and "C" gasoline rationing.

Maryland Retailers To Fight OPA Ceiling On Package Liquors

$1,000 Fund Is Raised To Challenge Ruling In Federal Courts

BALTIMORE, Aug. 31.—The Mutual Retail Package Liquor Association, Inc., prepared today to challenge in the Federal courts the constitutionality of Office of Price Administration ceilings on wines and liquors.

Following a meeting of the group last night, President Benjamin Niport announced that application would be made immediately for an injunction to prevent the OPA from enforcing the ceiling prices, which became effective yesterday.

Mr. Niport and Harry G. Seiden, association counsel, had asserted that the new price ceilings would bring bankruptcy and ruin to most of the members.

Role of Civic Groups In Loan Drive Mapped

Arlington Organizations To Take Charge of Areas

The Campaign Committee of the Arlington County War Fund, at a special meeting last night, made plans for civic organizations and service clubs to take charge of local areas in the forthcoming drive for $48,500.

Formerly the direction of the campaign in local areas was left to key volunteers who worked directly under the Campaign Committee.

Prince Georges Schools To Be Opened September 9

Public schools will be opened at 9 a.m. September 9 in Prince Georges County, the Board of Education announced today.

Insanity Defense In Mass Slaying Case Expected

By Staff Correspondent of The Star. LEESBURG, Va., Aug. 31.—Chances were slim today that Thomas William Clatterback, accused of the murder of five persons, would be tried in Loudoun County.

Proceedings in the murder trial, which specifically alleges that Clatterback killed Walter Russell on June 1, were interrupted late yesterday afternoon to give Defense Counsel Maj. Robert A. McIntyre of Warrenton an opportunity to prepare affidavits to support his motion for a change of venue.

Judge J. R. H. Alexander, presiding in the Loudoun County Circuit Court here, yesterday indicated strongly that he would grant such a motion, which would move the trial to some other county in Virginia.

Clatterback, who the State charges, killed Mr. and Mrs. A. Morris Love, their son, James, and their tenants, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Russell, listened intently to the proceedings as they unfolded yesterday. Only once did his eyes stray from the judge or the attorneys or the prospective jurors.

Revocation Board to Hear Last of Restaurant Cases

The License Revocation Board was scheduled to end its hearings today in cases involving nine restaurants charged by the Health Department with flagrantly violating health regulations.

David Noy Kee, operator of a restaurant at 929 Ninth street N.W., will be the final respondent to appear before the board today.

Yesterday, Harry and Peter Xeron, president and secretary-treasurer of a restaurant at 1018 Fourteenth street N.W., told the board that they had installed new and modernized equipment in their establishment and were now able to meet Health Department standards.

Arlington GOP Announces Party Precinct Chairmen

Venue Change In Clatterback Trial Indicated

Clatterback, who the State charges, killed Mr. and Mrs. A. Morris Love, their son, James, and their tenants, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Russell, listened intently to the proceedings as they unfolded yesterday.

Clatterback came into the courtroom for the morning session dressed only in dark trousers and a neat white shirt. In the afternoon he had added a blue serge coat, but still no necktie.

Four Farmers Chosen. Jurors tentatively selected were Lawrence S. Armel of Sterling, Fred S. Warren of Aldie, J. Nelson Tinsley of Leesburg, C. R. Hollands of Northampton, and George M. Leeburg, all farmers, and S. T. Green of Leesburg, who gave his occupation as "following the races."

Hot exchanges over several of the prospective jurors occurred during the way an admitted prospector, Alexander and W. W. Butzner of Fredericksburg, who is assisting Maj. Harrison in presentation of the case.

At one point, Maj. McIntyre accused the judge of phrasing his questions in such a manner so as to change the subject of the proceedings given by the veniremen. Both Judge Alexander and Mr. Butzner objected to Maj. McIntyre's frequent interruptions of their questioning.

Another accident victim yesterday, Willie Singleton, 29, colored, of 2854 Fifth Sterling avenue S.E., was reported to be in a fair condition at Casualty Hospital today. He is suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries received, police said, when he walked through a line of moving autos into the fender of an auto in the 1900 block of Nichols avenue S.E.

CORN GROWS 14 FEET IN CULPEPPER—Byrd Leavell, assistant register of the Treasury, stands in his office beside some 14-foot stalks of corn from his Elmwood farm in Culpeper County, Va., in the heart of the drought area. Of 400 acres of corn planted in his 400-acre farm, about 25 acres of corn grew to the size of these stalks. He says he did nothing unusual to the corn and cultivated it four times.

Citizenship Is Conferred On Five Enlisted Men

Five enlisted men in the Army yesterday became citizens of the United States in naturalization proceedings in District Court before Justice Matthew F. McGuire.

Departing from his usual custom, the jurist stepped down from the bench and shook hands with each of the men. "It's the proudest boast that a man can make today that he is an American citizen. It is a privilege to be cherished and not merely a right," Justice McGuire declared.

The men were Pfc. Ernest Albert Larsen, 38, a native of Denmark; Pfc. Kurt Baer, 37, native of Germany; Pfc. Neil McPhee, 38, native Canadian; Pfc. Bernard Hans Eckstein, 19, born in Germany, and Pvt. Arno H. Zwillenberg, 21, also from Germany.

Pvts. Zwillenberg and Eckstein are stationed at Walter Reed and the other three are assigned to other posts here.

WFA Reminds Bakers To Enrich White Bread

The War Food Administration has sent out notices reminding bakers to start adding thiamin, niacin, riboflavin and iron to all white bread and rolls beginning October 1.

New Federal standards announced early last month thus will give consumers their traditional white bread with about one-third more vitamins and minerals.

Government nutritionists hope the enriched bread will become a permanent part of the American diet after the war.

"The same nutritive values could be achieved with whole wheat bread, but not enough persons like this product," the WFA said yesterday. Hence the decision to enrich the popular white bread.

Keynote of Simplicity Marks Weddings of the Late Summer

The warmth of the summer season and the seriousness of wartime bring extreme simplicity to the arrangements for the numerous weddings set for August. The short furloughs of the men in the service frequently preclude the complete plans for the weddings until a few days granted with very little advance notice, make it difficult for the prospective bride.

One of the weddings of particular interest in Washington which was arranged on only a week or 10 days' notice was that of Miss Martha Le Fevre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Le Fevre of Chevy Chase, and Lt. William Schaffer Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Smith of Traverse City, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Le Fevre and their daughter left Saturday for Chicago where Lt. Smith and his parents met them and the wedding took place yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed in the Cathedral Shelter of Epiphany Church, Canon David Gibson officiating at 5 o'clock.

Mr. Le Fevre escorted his daughter and gave her in marriage and her wedding gown was of a white lace bodice made long from which fell a full net skirt. Her fingertip-length veil was held by a coronet of stephanotis, similar blossoms falling from her white prayer book which had a white orchid on the cover.

Mr. Smith was best man for his son and the bride was unattended. Lt. and Mrs. Smith left after the informal wedding supper for a brief wedding trip after which they will be at home at Macomb, Ill., where the former is on duty at Camp Ellis.

Anne Callow Weds Sergt. Costello

Miss Anne Marie Callow and Sergt. Daniel Joseph Costello were married yesterday morning in St. Matthew's Cathedral in Washington. The Rev. John S. Spence officiated and said the nuptial mass at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Estelle Hunt Dean, soprano, sang accompanied by Mr. Melton Boyce, organist and choir-master of the cathedral, who also played the wedding marches.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Robert R. Callow and the late Mr. Callow, was escorted by her brother, Mr. Robert R. Callow. She wore traditional white, the long skirt, which had a train of satin and fell from the low waistline of the fitted bodice of Chantilly lace. The long sleeves of lace finished in points over the hands and a deep V formed the graceful neckline. Her tulle veil was held by a coronet of seed pearls and she carried white roses with a shower of stephanotis.

Mrs. Raymond A. Green was matron of honor for her sister, wearing blue chiffon and lace with a wide-brimmed hat of matching net and she carried pink roses.

The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Costello. He had as his best man his cousin, Mr. Paul J. Dooley, and the ushers were Mr. Thomas J. Callow, brother of the bride, and Mr. George Edward Lewis, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

The wedding breakfast and reception were held in the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Green. Mrs. Callow was assisted by Mrs. Helen Mudd, aunt of the bridegroom, and later Sergt. and Mrs. Costello left for a brief wedding trip. Sergt. Costello recently returned from 17 months' service overseas and Friday will enter the Officers' Candidate School at Barclay, Tex. Mrs. Costello will return here and be with her mother until his course is completed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Boyd again are in their Washington home after spending 10 weeks at the Inn at Bucks Hill Falls in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania.

Miss Poerstel Is Married to Lt. Prewett

Baskets of gladioluses and asters decorated the Walter Reed Chapel Annex at Forest Glen for the wedding of Miss Shirley Poerstel and Lt. James F. Prewett, which took place the afternoon of August 20 with Chaplain Cutton officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Maxwell Poerstel of Bethesda and the late Mr. Poerstel and Lt. Prewett, who is now stationed at Camp McCain, Miss., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Prewett of Memphis.

Dr. Samuel L. Hilton escorted the bride to the altar and she was attended by Miss June Wilson Huff. The wedding was informal, the bride wearing a street costume of chartreuse with white accessories and a corsage of tallisman roses. Miss Huff was dressed in aqua wool and wore sweetheart roses.

Cadet Midshipman Richard H. Poerstel, brother of the bride, was the best man.

Lt. and Mrs. Prewett left after the reception for Camp McCain, where they will make their home for the present.

Parish-Doggett Announcement

The marriage of Miss Willa Meredith Doggett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Doggett of Skipton, Va., to Sergt. Burton Emil Parish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Wells Parish of Takoma Park, took place Thursday evening.

The ceremony was performed in the Seventh-Day Adventist Church, the Rev. Paul W. Bradlet officiating at 8 o'clock.

Mr. George Harting escorted the bride, who wore a gown of white satin and lace with a half-length veil and carried a bouquet of white roses. Her maid of honor was Miss Kay Youmans, who wore blue taffeta and carried yellow roses.

Miss Alberta Parish, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Hildegard Ruhling were the bridesmaids, the former wearing blue and the latter pink taffeta, each carrying a bouquet of roses.

Sergt. Edward Moore was the best man and the ushers were Pfc. John Grace and Pvt. Theodore Schmalz.

Mr. and Mrs. Parish, parents of the bridegroom, were hosts at a reception after the ceremony, and later Sergt. and Mrs. Parish left for a visit to the home of the bride's parents.

Free Religion Called War Aim Of Polish Nation

"If the four freedoms are enacted in the peace after this war, the freedom of nations will be assured, and Poland will be happy to live under a regime in which those freedoms are guaranteed," Witold Wankowicz, former counselor of the Polish Embassy, declared yesterday before the Women's National Democratic Club.

In introducing the speaker, whose address was the last of a series of club has sponsored this month on "Freedom of Religion," Mrs. Hale T. Shenfield, first vice president, said the Washington group had taken the lead in establishing four freedom programs throughout the country and that clubs in Cleveland and California were running similar programs.

Speaking on the eve of the fourth anniversary of the invasion of Poland Mr. Wankowicz said that one of the main reasons his country took up arms against the Nazis was to defend its freedom of religion.

"From 25 to 75 per cent of the clergy in Poland were executed, imprisoned or sent into exile after the arrival of the Nazis, and the churches were closed," he continued.

Little thought is given in this country to freedom of worship because we have not had the necessity to give it thought, having lived always in a land where there is nothing to hamper the exercise of this privilege," he asserted. He pointed out that in other countries this has not been true and that even at present they are suffering from religious oppression.

Citing the history of religious tolerance in Poland, the speaker said that the Polish people desire to live under a free government, set up by their own people, in accordance with the four freedoms as they exist in this country.

Mr. Wankowicz was born in a part of Poland then occupied by Russia. He received a degree from Cambridge University and worked with the Red Cross in the World War. In 1919, he entered the Polish government and was sent to this country as a counselor in 1921. He was in charge of the Polish exhibit of the World's Fair in 1940, and is now with the British Purchasing Commission.

Seated at the head table with the speaker were Mrs. Shenfield, Miss Marjorie Carr, Mrs. Barton Stone Embrey, Mrs. C. O. Bradshaw and Miss Ellis Meredith. Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, wife of the former United States Commissioner to the Philippines, had as her guest Mrs. Alice Tisdale Hobart, author of "Oil for the Lamps of China"; Mrs. Harry Nourse and Mrs. Ernest Draper.

Announcement Of Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lee Henry of Arlington announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Ellen Henry, to Lt. Howard Martin Denny, U. S. M. C. R., son of Mrs. Mary H. Denny of Delaware, Ohio, with September 18 set as the day of the wedding.

Miss Henry attended Ohio Wesleyan University and George Washington University and is a member of Chi Omega Sorority.

Lt. Denny also attended Ohio Wesleyan University and is a member of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity.

Wed in Chicago

Mrs. Lillian Doub Tarvin announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Doris Lucille Tarvin, to Sergt. Warren Edward Nutt, U. S. A., Tuesday, August 24. The wedding took place in Chicago. Chaplain Henry E. Millikan, U. S. A., officiating.

Sergt. Nutt is on duty at Camp Savage, Minn., and after a short wedding trip he returned to his duty, and his bride joined her mother in Washington for the duration.

Servicemen Find Right Answers to Varied Problems at Volunteers' Information Desks

By RAINBRIDGE CRIST.
A soldier with a worried expression walked up recently to an information desk at a servicemen's club and said:

"I need a best man for my wedding. My friend who was to be best man has just been ordered to duty out of town."
A soldier standing nearby overheard the conversation and before the Civilian Defense volunteer woman behind the desk had to worry about meeting the request, came over to say he had been best man at four weddings and he guessed he had enough practice to do it again.

The last information worker saw of the men, they were walking down the street, bound for Baltimore and the wedding.

Even Arrange Honeymoons.
Not all the requests are as easy to fill. Actually, the women at the information desks of the service clubs have arranged honeymoon trips. The card index files have information on the marriage laws of the District, Maryland and Virginia.

Even list the name of a woman in Chevy Chase, Md., who will take care of all arrangements, "except buying the ring."

One information worker entered the following report on her record book, which speaks for itself:

"They (soldier and his fiancée) want us to help them get married. Bridegroom-to-be needed a room and his suit, which he had left at the dry cleaner somewhere on G street. We got him the room and his suit, and we hope he didn't lose the church or the girl!"

Since the desks have been open since Pearl Harbor, there has been a considerable number of unusual requests. There was, for instance, way at the start of war production. Of the 3,134,000 net increase in wage earners between October, 1939, and April, 1942, 84.6 per cent were men.

In the second phase of military manufacturing, however, the women engineered a complete reversal of the figures. From April, 1942, to June, 1943, more than 400,000 new employees in industry was 83.2 to 16.8 per cent in favor of women.

The Secretary noted that women in factories were rapidly shifting from nondurable goods manufactures to durable goods enterprises, where muscle counts, in aircraft, shipbuilding and even locomotives, the proportion of woman workers rose from 1 per cent in October, 1941, to 20 per cent in June, 1943. The actual number of women in these heavy industries zoomed from 4,300 in April, 1941, to 466,500 in June, 1943.

Some 30 per cent of all factory hands are women, Miss Perkins reported.

The men had things all their own way at the start of war production. Of the 3,134,000 net increase in wage earners between October, 1939, and April, 1942, 84.6 per cent were men.

In the second phase of military manufacturing, however, the women engineered a complete reversal of the figures. From April, 1942, to June, 1943, more than 400,000 new employees in industry was 83.2 to 16.8 per cent in favor of women.

The Secretary noted that women in factories were rapidly shifting from nondurable goods manufactures to durable goods enterprises, where muscle counts, in aircraft, shipbuilding and even locomotives, the proportion of woman workers rose from 1 per cent in October, 1941, to 20 per cent in June, 1943. The actual number of women in these heavy industries zoomed from 4,300 in April, 1941, to 466,500 in June, 1943.

of military security, they were told by Army officers that many of the men might only get to Washington once and that it was important to see that they had a good time.

The first course took five weeks. Since then the volunteers have been called back for refresher courses, with wounded men beginning to come into the city. Navy nurses have given instruction on the psychological approach to be used in talking to these veterans. They are told not to be patronizing or motherly.

Recently, a veteran of the North African campaign, blinded and badly disabled, came into a service club, led by a fellow soldier. One of the women at the information desk almost screamed. The other, who had served in a front-line medical unit in the last war, asked very calmly: "And what can I do for you?" That War Hospitality Committee official said, was the proper way to handle the situation.

At present, there are seven information desks, located at the Federal-Columbia Club, Union Station, Officers Club, Servicemen's Club No. 1, Masonic Service Center, YMCA and Stage Door Canteen. Mrs. Harold Sinton has succeeded Mrs. William Galvin as head of the information service, with Mrs. Galvin now serving as executive secretary of the War Hospitality Committee.

Each club has its own chairman, who, in turn, has an executive committee of three—one in charge of files, one for personnel and one for supplies. Each club has 40 to 50 volunteer women for the desks, with each woman working at least a three-hour shift a week. They must notify the desk well in advance of any cancellations and arrange for another person to take their places. They must also keep a "log book" of unusual questions and generally make a notation at the end of each shift of the number and types of questions asked.

The vast majority of the questions come under the heading of lodging, recreation, sightseeing, personal service—such as laundry and cashing checks—church services and restaurants. Not a request, of course, can be filled. If girls, for instance, call in for a group of soldiers to come to a party, the request is turned down, unless it comes from a recognized recreation club.

The information worker must be prepared for practically any question. They must either know, or know where they can get, information on street cars and buses, what presents to send their parents or what they can obtain lodgings or entertainment. They have to help servicemen get reservations on trains and buses and commercial and military planes. And they must be accurate.

They get both amusing and sad incidents. They may get a soldier with a corsage for his girl who wants the volunteer woman to write a "mushy" card for him, or they may have to arrange for a soldier to fly to California to see a dying mother. The information worker may even be called on to extend a furlough. One father, who was tired of seeing his daughter "pining away" for a soldier, asked the desk to find him.

But the volunteers don't mind the routine work or the brain-teasers. "The boys are so happy at every little thing you do," one worker commented, "that no one regrets the work."

Livestock Deliveries To Kansas City Are Heaviest in Years

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Aug. 31.—Plenty of steaks—and a beef crisis—are on the way.
 Grass-fat beef for a steak-hungry Nation is beginning to flood the Kansas City market. Receipts yesterday were approximately 240 carloads, the largest supply in several years.
 Southwestern cattlemen, though, fear a crisis will follow if widespread liquidation of their herds continues—and they're meeting Thursday to try to halt the stampede to sell and show the way to steadier supplies in the months to come.

Stockmen to Meet.
 Livestockmen of 15 States will meet with Government representatives and public officials to wrestle with problems of feed and marketing and of fitting the flow of beef to the complicated conditions of America at war.

George Montgomery, formerly chief of the feeds and grains section of the Office of Price Administration and now a professor of economics and sociology at Kansas State College, said widespread liquidation of livestock would seriously hinder the war effort.

And, he asserted, if present feeding conditions continue, much forced marketing may occur. Some cattle-producing areas are having difficulty in obtaining feed grains although crops are being harvested.

Asks Definite Policy.
 "Probably the most helpful action in this critical situation would be a definite statement of the national policy in regard to a wartime feed and livestock program," he declared.

Cattle now flowing into the Kansas City market are largely the grass-fat class, with a sprinkling of fed steers.

Cannon Takes Oath As Biddle's Aide

John Q. Cannon today was sworn in as administrative assistant to Attorney General Biddle, succeeding Judge Thomas D. Quinn, who yesterday assumed his new post in Municipal Court.

Mr. Cannon, a native of Salt Lake City, Utah, was born October 20, 1901. After working as a newspaper reporter in Salt Lake City, he came to Washington where he was graduated from George Washington University Law School in 1929, continuing his newspaper writing while a student.

In 1930 he joined the legal examining unit of the Civil Service Commission, and became assistant to the chief of the examining division in 1934. In April, 1937, he became chief of the personal section of the Securities and Exchange Commission, but returned to the Civil Service Commission within a year to assume charge of all examining work in the legal field.

Since 1940 Mr. Cannon has been assistant to the chief examiner in legal affairs, has been in charge of the enforcement of the Hatch Act, a member of the President's Interdepartmental Committee on Employment Investigations and an alternate member of the Board of Foreign Service Personnel for the State Department.

Mr. Cannon also has been an adviser to the department in administrative organization since the first of this year.

Married and the father of three children, he lives at 4623 Hunt avenue, Chevy Chase, Md.

Judge Quinn, Mr. Cannon's predecessor, spent his first day as a jurist yesterday sitting in Traffic Court and his method of handling cases received the full approval of veteran courtroom attaches—usually the hardest ones to please.

Said one: "That fellow knows what it's all about. He'll get along all right."

Assistant Corporation Counsel Milton Korman also praised the judge's handling of the cases.

Conditions Inducing Mental Strain in D. C. Cited by Overholser

Speaking before the Conference of Employe Counseling and the Council of Social Agencies last night, Dr. Winfred Overholser, superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, praised the Government personnel workers for their interest in psychiatry.

Dr. Overholser said it was desirable for the Federal Government to investigate the background of those who had suffered nervous breakdowns before employing them in Washington because the "stresses" of wartime living here might lead to further mental trouble.

Among the causes of mental breakdowns listed by Dr. Overholser were the crowded living conditions, the high cost of living which left virtually nothing at the end of the month for the $1,440-a-year worker, the lack of recreation and home-ickness.

Friendly Attention Helps.

"There is no place where you can feel so alone as in a large city," he said, "and sometimes all that is needed is a little friendly attention." He said also that the "lack of roots" here has added to the number of breakdowns. He explained that many persons, even though they have lived in Washington for a period of years, do not feel that the city is their home. Dr. Overholser quoted a friend as saying that "Washington is a place where every one is welcome but no one is missed."

Dr. Overholser was the principal speaker at a conference on "Health Services in Wartime Washington," held at Interior Department. Joining him on a panel discussion after his talk were Dr. Daniel L. Seckinger, assistant District health officer; Dr. John Orem, superintendent of Sibley Hospital and head of the Hospital Superintendents' Association; Miss Helen Shuford of the National Capital Housing Agency; Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, District coroner; Miss Gertrude Bowling, director of the Instructive Visiting Nurses Society and Willard C. Smith, administrator of the Health Security Administration, who served as chairman.

City's Assets Outlined.

Dr. Overholser said that "in spite of the climate" there were many things to be said in favor of the city. Among the favorable factors, he listed a "progressive health department," a good water supply system, the sanitary code, the municipal hospital and tuberculosis hospitals. Dr. Overholser said the disadvantages included the slums, the large number of homes without running water, crowded living conditions, the "inordinately high tuberculosis death rate among the colored," and the existence of typhoid, which, he said, "was almost inexorable."

As for the mental situation here, Dr. Overholser said that the city had the highest commitment rate to a mental institution in the country.

In response to a question from the floor about crowded living conditions, Miss Shuford said that "frankly" there was little help possible at present for families in the low income group. From a health standpoint, Dr. Seckinger said there was a need for complete housing units for families.

Lists Medical Facilities.

Panel members outlined the various medical and hospital facilities available in the District. Dr. MacDonald urged sympathetic handling of unmarried mothers and strongly condemned a case in which such a mother had been forced to resign from her Government job.

"That is the worst way in the world to handle these cases," he declared.

The meeting was brought to a close by Charles Cunningham of the War Department's counseling service, who served as a member of the sponsoring committee.

Peak War Production 'Not Far Off,' Nelson Says, Reporting Gains

By the Associated Press.
Asserting that peak production of many types of fighting equipment has been achieved or is "not far off," Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production Board announced today that July munitions-making increased 3 per cent over June.

He did not discuss how close July production came to schedule figures, the yardstick which would show whether our war plants are keeping abreast of estimated needs. But he disclosed that July output stood at 593 on WPB's production index, a 20-point gain over early summer months, when the index remained almost stationary.

Airplane production increased 4 per cent, signal equipment, 17 per cent, and Army ammunition kept even with June, but Mr. Nelson said "important further increases are required" in those three fields.

Step-Ups Must Continue.
"If our production goals are to be achieved," he said, "production step-ups must continue during the next six months."

"Monthly aircraft production, measured in pounds, more than doubled since July, 1942," he reported, "and is scheduled to double again before the end of 1944. During the month 7,373 planes were produced."

The WPB chief reported a 19 per cent July increase in the output of fighter planes, an 8 per cent gain in transports and a 13 per cent rise in the number of heavy bombers. Production declined for some unidentified types of planes, lowering the percentage increase.

"Ship construction calls for sharp step-ups in the immediate future," Mr. Nelson said, "but peak rates are not far off."

Deliveries of naval vessels, on a tonnage basis, were substantially lower in July than in June. But destroyers and destroyer escorts, important in the anti-U-boat war, were up 25 per cent. Patrol craft increased slightly, and submarine builders held their own with June. By the end of July 10,000,000 tons of the 19,000,000 scheduled in merchant vessels for the year had been completed, Mr. Nelson said.

Other Production Gains.
Other production gains for July: Artillery, antiaircraft guns and small arms, 5 per cent; combat vehicles, 9 per cent; motor vehicles, 6 per cent.

Mr. Nelson said "many serious bottlenecks" have been removed. "The production problem in magnesium and aluminum has been overcome. A new important domestic industry, diamond dies, has been erected almost overnight. Another achievement is the development of a generally satisfactory situation in steel. Although total requirements are still greater than supply, needs for all important programs are being met through increased production and better distribution.

Explaining the omission of references to production schedules, a spokesman for Mr. Nelson said the schedules of military requirements had been changed frequently, both to meet shifting strategic developments and—as in the case of aircraft—to bring impossible goals down to realistic programs. Because of this constant changing, he said, references to overall munitions schedules had become "more or less meaningless" and had been dropped. In other quarters it was said, an increase of 5½ per cent a month is required in the last half of this year to meet the 1943 goal of $65,000,000,000 worth of munitions output.

Asthma Mucus Loosened & Soud Sleep Promoted First Night

For Thousands of Sufferers
Choking, gasping, wheezing, recurring attacks of bronchial asthma ruin your sleep and rob your blood of vitality. You can't get air in and out of your lungs properly. But now it is no longer necessary to suffer from these terrible attacks without the benefit you may receive from a physician's prescription called Mucosin. Within a very short time after the first dose, Mucosin ingredients start circulating thru the blood, thus reaching the smallest as well as the largest bronchial tubes where they usually quickly help liquefy, loosen and remove thick strangling mucus (phlegm), thereby promoting free breathing and more restful sleep. In fact, Mucosin has proved so successful in helping thousands of sufferers from recurring spasms of bronchial asthma that it is sold under a guarantee of money back unless completely satisfied. So get Mucosin from your druggist today.

After Dark
News and Comment of the Night Clubs.
By the Spectator.

A new night club in Washington in this day and age of the vanishing beef and the plastic trombone? This question you are fully entitled to ask, if you will only slightly yawn a little less elaborately. It seems preposterous, yes; yet it is a fact. Moreover, the establishment itself should come as only slightly less of a surprise. Olmsted's, quiet sanctuary for diners, is the place, and it will be bowing in la vie gale in all its splendor one week from Thursday night.

It is the "Oh, pioneers!" spirit in full cry, the enterprise of Olmsted's. Goaded by a desire to enter the night club field, yet stayed by the enigma of methods and procedure, the management has been pondering the matter heavily these past few months. No place to simulate a night club, it muttered singly and in unison, biting on the ends of several dozen pencils. Food scarcity, help scarcity, supplies scarcity, it growled hurling pencil stubs against the office ledger. Then one day, at a ridiculously few weeks ago an idea intruded upon the scene. Olmsted's itself is the place, the management exclaimed, and retrieving their gnawed stubs commenced figuring rapidly.

The results of this consorting with the after-dark Muse are unique, around Washington, at any rate. Olmsted's, the restaurant, will not by any means go. It will function and presumably flourish during the same hours it has in the past. It is at 10 p.m. that things begin to happen to and in the platey room. A huge and vari-colored curtain will be drawn around the edges of the front two-thirds of the rooms. A corps of laborers picked up from some Government office will pile in to make a bit of extra change by moving a platform and piano up from some hidden recess to a location halfway back along the east wall. Flowers in their pots will be scooped away from atop the cocktail lounge barrier; tablecloths snatched from tables bearing altogether supper-clubian surfaces of leather. If you were there to watch it, it would probably look like the sack of Rome. But you won't be, so the only thing you will see, aside from the wall that will be the entrance, shortly after 10, of two attractive young ladies, who will array themselves about the piano and commence to entertain.

Of these the management is vastly proud, swearing by the beer of the prophet that local denizens seldom will have been entertained by such artists. Their names are Nancy Noland and Aileen Cook, both being of the chanteuse intine category. Altogether appropriate, since intimacy is to be the keynote of Olmsted Supper Club surroundings. Miss Cook plays the piano for all singing that is to be done in the house; Miss Noland's songs and patter will be executed on a prowling or table-to-table "chuckle-talkie," as the trade might choose to call it.

If you should have an inclination to open a lecture hall or delicatessen, let Olmsted's be your inspiration. Set it up right in the front part of your office.

Add openings:
After circulating about town, mostly at the Madrilon, for a matter of years, Mario Hurtado arrived last night at Treasure Island where he will remain committed to contract for eight weeks or so. Mr. Hurtado, who comes from a well-stocked musical family, is still fronting a trio with his marimba, which he plays in what certainly sounds to be authentic style.

Louis of the Copacabana has installed a couple of new people in the band: Gabriel Castellon, who sings, and Louis Roman, bass player. That still leaves Chuy Martinez, who plays trumpet and serves as the leader, and Rubio Turillo, pianist, with that very torrid singer, Felicia (we never have gotten her last name), on the verge of leaving her New York home for re-engagement at Louis' place.

Georgia Butler and Jerry King, the Anchor Room's song and piano duo, have thoughtfully been held over for an additional three months. Mishie Bess' Balalaika will start its fall season on Thursday, with its array of time-worn chavre sours presentations, new acts to be added here and there.

Astrologers, The Zaras by name, invade the Lotus this week as part of the floor show, which may partially explain the life purpose of astrologers who are not already parts.

Girl Playing on Trestle Is Killed by Train

By the Associated Press.
LUDLOW, Va., Aug. 31.—Trapped on a railroad trestle, Jacqueline Emery, 11, of Charleston, S. C., lost a race with death last night when she stumbled and fell in her dash for safety from a Rutland railroad train.

Her companion, Alice Thomas, 10, playing with her on the trestle, barely reached the end and dived into some bushes before the train reached her. She escaped with minor scratches and was treated for shock.

Jacqueline was the daughter of Mrs. Donald Emery, who was visiting relatives here. The tragedy was witnessed by several spectators.

Ciano's Whereabouts Plane Production Up 44 Pct. in Britain

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 31.—A good part of Europe joined the guessing game today over the whereabouts of Count Galeazzo Ciano, former Italian Foreign Minister and son-in-law of Mussolini who apparently has escaped from house arrest at his home in Rome.

He was variously reported arrested near the French frontier, hiding in the Spanish Embassy in Rome and at Innsbruck in Germany.

At least two reports had Ciano at Innsbruck. A Reuters dispatch from the Italian frontier said the latest word was that he had gotten over the border "with the assistance of foreign friends" and that his escape was causing great indignation throughout Italy. This coincided with the German underground radio Atlantic report, which said Ciano was at Innsbruck.

Simultaneously a DNB report from Rome quoted Stefani news agency as saying that both Ciano and Count Dino Grandi, member of the Fascist Grand Council, had been placed on the "retired list."

The London Daily Express quoted unconfirmed reports from Bern that Ciano, his wife Edda and their three children had been arrested near the French frontier.

The dispatch said Ciano was dressed as a peasant and had large bundles of French, Italian and Spanish currency in his possession.

NLRB Denies Seeking Repeal of Strike Law Referendum

By the Associated Press.
The National Labor Relations Board said last night that "despite reports to the contrary the board has reached no conclusion which would lead it at the present time to recommend to Congress the repeal of the strike referendum section of the War Labor Disputes Act."
Some administrative officials recently expressed the view that the act should be amended. They took the position that some local unions and independent groups were invoking the strike ballot provisions for purposes not intended by the act.
The NLRB, however, said in a statement:
"The act has been in effect for only two months. In this period, 180 notices of a labor dispute have been filed, 76 have been withdrawn, 13 have resulted in the conduct of strike ballots and 91 are still pending the expiration of the 30-day notice period required by the law. Of all these instances, only one strike has resulted."
"We do not see how it is possible in the light of this limited experience to make a fair appraisal of this section of the statute at this time."

Ickes Flays Texas Lieutenant Governor

By the Associated Press.
Secretary of the Interior Ickes last night described Lt. Gov. John Lee Smith of Texas as a man:
"Draped in the outer garments of patriotism and the underwear of self-interest."
The lieutenant governor had accused Mr. Ickes of "betrating the dignity which has snarled and confused the war effort on the home front since our very entrance into the war."
Mr. Ickes made public the correspondence which developed because the lieutenant governor could see no reason for the recent order cutting southwestern gasoline rations 25 per cent.
The cut, Lt. Gov. Smith wrote Mr. Ickes, "appears to be nothing more nor less than a cheap political maneuver to appease certain of the politically powerful States on the Eastern Seaboard. It is not in the interest of the war effort, but is a specious and stupid gesture wrapped in the sacred folds of the American flag to make it acceptable to a great and patriotic people."
Mr. Ickes replied:
"Perhaps you have motives which blind you to the fact that the demand for petroleum products is rapidly rising as our military, agriculture and industrial users step up their activities to meet the increasing tempo of the war."
"As you go vociferously forth, draped in the outer garments of patriotism and the underwear of self-interest, please remember that our tanks and trucks and jeeps cannot burn as fuel the crocodile tears that you shed, all the while resisting any reduction in the non-essential consumption of gasoline."

Schools Will Attempt To Keep Cheap Milk

School authorities will "do their utmost" to keep the penny milk program in operation, regardless of any rise in price that might result from the demand of producers here for a 70 cents a hundredweight increase at the producer level, Robert L. Haycock, assistant superintendent of schools, said today.
If the requested increase is granted and passed along to consumers, it might "indirectly peril the penny milk program," through which 2,000 to 3,000 school children in low-income areas of the city are provided with a daily quota, Mr. Haycock said. He pointed out, however, that Government subsidies might possibly be increased to cover the higher costs to milk producers, or that dairies here might be able to absorb the extra cost.
If the schools are faced with the necessity of paying a higher price for milk, authorities will do their best "to make an adjustment so that the program can continue," Mr. Haycock explained. He suggested that parents who now pay 1 cent a day for milk for the children might be asked to pay 6 cents a week in the event of a price rise.
A public hearing on the proposed price boost has been set for Thursday in Alexandria by the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association. The Agriculture Department also has been asked to approve the increase, but has set no date for a hearing.

Big Area for Fishing

Points off South Africa have 150,000 square miles of fishing lands, it is estimated, and as but a small portion of this area was fished before the war, experts believe much greater quantities could be taken from these vast regions without endangering future supplies.

Lt. Shearer, Navigator, Nearly Becomes Human Bomb on Raid

Air Medal Hero Dangles Beneath Plane After Slip

Second Lt. Alfred M. Shearer, Jr., who recently received the Air Medal and the Silver Star for his part in attacking enemy shipping, was not any too familiar with the interior of a B-24 when he left the base at Rabaul on his first mission.
Checking the bomb bay doors and auxiliary lever, a duty of the navigator, Lt. Shearer found the arrangement on the B-24 a little different from the trainer plane he was used to. Unsuspecting, he opened the door leading to the bomb bay, slipped from the catwalk and the next moment was hanging in space over the bay, grasping the catwalk with his legs and a 500-pound bomb with his hands.
Keeps "Dumb Stunt" Secret.
A few breathless seconds passed before the navigator had pulled himself to safety and the bombs were released.
"I shook for 15 minutes afterwards," Lt. Shearer said in recalling how he almost became a human bomb, "but I didn't tell any one—it was too dumb."
Lt. Shearer, who is visiting his mother, Mrs. A. M. Shearer, 2315 Fortieth place N.W., gave a modest account of his attack on enemy shipping in Ambon Harbor, Ambonia, Dutch East Indies, for which he received the Silver Star this month from Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of Allied Air Forces in the Southwest Pacific.
"We hadn't seen much action during previous reconnaissance, so we didn't expect any particularly on this mission," he said. "We had trouble with our guns on the way up; two nose guns were jammed and one was broken. Instead of turning back, we just put the belly gun in the nose and the broken gun in the belly."

Reaching the scene of attack, the leader of the three-plane formation peeled off to bomb an enemy cargo vessel, while Lt. Shearer's plane, the second, attacked a cruiser. Twice the plane was hit by ack-ack fire, but the cruiser was left listing and smoking. Subsequent reconnaissance revealed that it sank.
Getting back into formation, the first plane was late, and then a radio message told the crew the plane was under attack by Zeros. The Liberator returned to aid the lead plane and suddenly found itself the lone object of attack by the 15 Zeros.
"I had never fired a machine gun," Lt. Shearer said, "and the bombardier had never dropped a live bomb. The Zero pilots were blasting at us with 20-millimeter machine guns and hit us just above the radio cabinet. The man on the top turret was wounded by shrapnel, but went on firing, and the radio operator was disabled."
Prepare for Dangerous Landing.
Back in formation again, the Zeros continued to attack for 20 minutes. When they left, Lt. Shearer's plane was damaged in the wing, bomb bay tail, and the right tire was exploded. But it had shot down one of the Zeros.
Trying to land on return to the base with the right tire shot up was a hazardous undertaking. All loose items which could possibly be done without were thrown out; everything else was tied down; the wounded men were made secure; and the rest of the crew braced itself for the landing.
"The men held their breath as the pilot kept the plane on one wheel until he lost flying speed. Then by the skillful use of the left brake and the right motor, he completed the landing.

"It was a beautiful landing," Lt. Shearer said after describing it, "but pretty bouncy."
The worst hazard of his overseas assignment was the weather, the young officer said.
"You would fly for eight and 10 hours at a stretch without seeing the sun, moon, stars or the ground. You don't know what the wind is, and all you can do is guess at your course."
He saw plenty of action, he said, adding that "somehow our gray missions always turned out to be rough deals."
As he was telling his story, the telephone rang. The business which had brought him to Washington would take a few days longer. Lt. Shearer winked at his mother, whose husband, Col. Shearer, is now in England.
An expression of relief crossed her face for a moment. Then she went on smiling.

Double or Nothing

By Evelyn Hayes

Now is the time of year when we're so tired of the clothes we have in our wardrobes that anything new looks good enough to make us part with our hard-earned money. Perhaps it's a hat in the window. As we look at it, we catch the reflection of the little summer number we're still sporting. The hat in the window at that point looks even newer and smarter than at first glance. We forget that all the dark ones look new just because they are dark. So we rush in, try it on, and take the sales-girl's "It looks wonderful on you" as justification for buying it. In two weeks we'll find it doesn't go with a single one of our fall clothes, and we know that we should have looked before we leaped for that one. Just yesterday a friend of ours was bemoaning the fact that she had made such a precipitate buy last year. She finally wore it three times and yesterday gave it away, having resolved never again to buy in haste. She learned that you always repent at leisure.

Or your weakness might be a dress. The color is so pretty you think that you buy it without stopping to think how it will fit into your wardrobe. You may enjoy it for a couple of weeks, but then what? When the Government is asking us to buy only what we need, and to make what we wear last, a short-term fashion investment is no investment at all.

Before buying anything, ask yourself these questions: "Will it mix with the rest of my wardrobe?" "Is it a convertible fashion?" That is, one that can be changed from a morning to evening look by a quick change of accessories. "Are the lines essentially good enough so that I won't get tired of it?" If the answer is "Yes" to all those questions, then go ahead and buy it—assuming of course that you need it. One of the smartest girls we know says that she absolutely refuses to buy anything this year which can't be used two ways—sort of a double-or-nothing approach to fashion. Either it has double use, or it's worth nothing to you—see? That's a very good rule, and the farther you carry it, the better. Be stern with yourself. No matter how pretty that blouse is, don't consider it unless you can wear it several ways. Let's say you have a green and a gray suit in your wardrobe, and you see the prettiest beige blouse. To be sure, it may just be the right finishing touch to your green suit, but you can't wear it with your gray, so forget about it and shop until you find a gold blouse, for example, that will do double duty with both.

Buy dresses that are "happy medium" fashions, that are discreet enough to go to work, yet decorative enough to try on your best beau. Coat dresses are a fine choice because you can pull so many accessory tricks on them: tuck an ascot in the neckline, secure it with a jeweled pin; freshen it with a sprucing white gilet; make it into a changeabout with belts, and let the belt dress it up or down; and so on, ad infinitum. Bow-trimmed shirtwaisters are softer and more convertible than the classics of yesterday; you can do belt and button tricks with these. If you must go in for glitter, don't be lured by any of the Aurora Borealis numbers which you can wear only on special occasions. Instead buy a simple dark crepe with good body lines, and when you're in a glitter mood, dazzle your public with belt or pin or earrings.

Look for two-pieceers—but look carefully and be sure the blouse and the skirt are both smart enough and becoming enough to stand on their own. Buy a two-piece dress in the right color—and you have an extra blouse and skirt to juggle with other dresses and suits in your wardrobe. Best fashion investment of all is a good suit. The right suit will pay large dividends in usefulness and flattery. It should be adaptable enough to vary with accessories. And accessories should be sprightly enough to give a new look to an old dress. Have some, too, that will lend a night look to a day dress, such as a jeweled belt for date duty on a daytime jersey, or a star-dusted scarf to glamorize your workaday dress. Interesting jewelry will make last year's standby this year's conversation piece.

You can rely on accessories to create big effects with little dresses and suits, but beware of those that are committed to only one costume. Be sure that the color and type you choose can do duty every which way. Remember, your clothes, like you, must be able to stand plenty of overtime.

Some Advice On Travel Plans For Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiance is going to be best man at a large wedding out of town. I have been invited to come with him to everything that he will be going to and even to sit at the bridal table. But otherwise I am not taking part in the wedding. Mother doesn't think that I should go because I will have to stay in a hotel, alone. She thought it might be possible if I stayed at a woman's hotel. I don't want to go where I am a stranger and I'd like to go to the hotel where my family always stays. But your opinion will decide everything.

Answer: In this case I think both plans practical. Staying in a woman's hotel would leave no doubt as to the propriety. On the other hand, if the hotel is not one of gigantic size and if you as well as your parents are known to the personnel as well as to the proprietor you could, I think, go with perfect propriety. Your fiance should of course not put up at the same hotel. He should leave you at the elevators and you meet him in the lobby. Therefore should any one see you who knows who you are—which is not an unusual experience even in a large city—there will be absolutely nothing for even Mrs. Grundy's magpies to pick at.

You'll never regret a Rose Barrack costume like this, with its slim wrap-around skirt and soft wool jersey blouse in Shocking Pink. It's simple, smart and adaptable. Here, the young lady has dressed it up for an important dinner engagement with a sparkly belt and her precious gold and diamond bracelet with matching earrings. Other times she wears the blouse with her black wool dressmaker suit and the skirt with a multitude of other blouses.

Shopping Around

By Dorothy Murray

We remember the era when our friends strove to outdo each other in the matter of making their dressing table tops look like bargain day at the perfume counter. The more you had, the more envious the girls were of you. But uncluttered surfaces are the thing today and we should be glad of it. To keep that smooth and neat look we suggest a set of mirrored glass that is big enough to hold your brush, comb and hand mirror. You might try to secure a matching picture frame, and this with a pair of harmonizing lamps (if they can be found) would take care of all the vanity equipment needed on display. If you're doing the cleaning yourself now, you certainly should be glad of this new "neat" fad, for it means less articles to move.

In color and should go well with other hall furnishings.

A great many of the new apartments and homes are constructed so that the dinette is separated from the living room only by a large ceiling arch. This often causes a few problems in interior decorating, and then there's lack of privacy if guests happen to drop in while the family is at dinner. A foldaway screen is about the best answer to this situation. It could be placed in the archway, allowing just enough room for passage, thus separating the rooms. Perhaps you would like to try this arrangement for effect. If so, the wise thing to do would be to purchase an inexpensive screen first, then if you like it, a more handsome screen could replace it. For your experiment, secure a three-fold screen, well built with two-way metal hinges and sturdy wood frame. It's covered with gay figured wallpaper that if treated with a coat of shellac should make a nice appearance. Scented soap containing cold cream as one of the ingredients should be soft and soothing to the skin. You'll find it lathers freely in hard water. A box of 20 cakes will last a long time and is not expensive.

Painted Walls

Woman war workers are responding appreciatively to increasing use of bright paint on factory walls, floors and machinery. R. A. Massey, color expert, reports that more cheerful surroundings in industrial plants have stimulated woman's innate talent for maintaining cleanliness and order, resulting in less personal injury hazard. Many major war plants have adopted the new color technique, known as "Three-Dimensional-Sealing."

With cheese and cold cuts on the ration list and points for these at a premium, deviled eggs with a delicious salad of the garden or potato variety is a good choice for a luncheon party. The eggs are so easy to prepare that even a beginner would have no trouble, and for added charm "set off" the dainties by serving them in a small plate that will hold 15 eggs around the edge and has space in the center for sauce. The dish is made of American glass, and should go well with other clear glass accessories.

Fill that empty space over the hall table with an attractive plaque made by hand in Mexico. It consists of an oblong piece of heavy cardboard that has a black background and painted flowers in lovely shades. Against this is placed a graceful bird made of real feathers that have been dyed and pasted onto the board. The plaque is rich

MILK FORMULA STAINS.
(Requested by Mrs. H. F. S., Hyattsville.)

I've found a great many helpful tips in this column, and am appealing to some one with more experience than I've had to help me with a problem which distresses me very much.

It seems that the canned milk formula I feed my baby leaves stains on her shirts and other articles if I don't get a chance to wash them in cold water immediately after the article becomes soiled. Scrubbing and boiling just will not remove these stains, and though they are not terribly noticeable, I do want to keep my baby's things snowy white. I should be very grateful to find a way to remove these stains without using strong bleaches and am sure that some one must know how.

RUSSIAN DRESSING.
(Requested by Mrs. D. S. H., Damascus.)

I think your Readers' Clearing House a splendid idea. I would like very much to have a recipe for Russian Dressing.

THIRST QUENCHER—TWO REQUESTS.
(Thanks to J. M. V., Silver Spring.)

1 teaspoon ginger.
Juice of 1 lemon.
Mix thoroughly and serve very cold. More thoroughly and lemon juice may be added if desired. Perhaps this is the ginger drink requested by H. S. L.

I would like to make two requests. One is for recipes using dried soy beans. The other a recipe for making candied ginger. Thank you very much. The Clearing House really has been helpful.

CHILI SAUCE.
(Thanks to Anonymous, Arlington.)

4 quarts ripe tomatoes, peeled and chopped. Place in kettle with 1 quart vinegar, 2 tablespoons salt, 2 cups sugar, 1/2 cup horseradish, 1 pint onions, chopped; 1 tablespoon each of ground cloves, mustard, allspice, 2 tablespoons cinnamon, 1 tablespoon celery seed, 1 tablespoon white mustard, 1 teaspoon black pepper, 1 teaspoon red pepper. Mix thoroughly and cook slowly 2 hours. Stir occasionally. Pack in sterilized jars and seal at once.

and cool. When thoroughly chilled, serve in place of a salad.

(Cucumber Boats.)

3 potatoes (cooked).
1/2 cup cooked chopped ham.
1 tablespoon cream or the beaten yolk of an egg.
Salt.
Pepper.
6 tablespoons grated cheese.
Breadcrumbs.
Peel and mash potatoes. Add cooked chopped ham, cream or egg yolk, salt and pepper, and 5 tablespoons grated cheese. Mix thoroughly. Peel cucumbers, split each down the center, remove the seeds, and fill the cavity with the potato mixture, heaping it up and smoothing it with a spoon. Lay cucumbers in greased baking dish. Sprinkle with fine breadcrumbs and remaining grated cheese and dot with butter. Cook in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) until the cucumbers are brown and tender.

Famous French Recipes

By Edith M. Barber

The horrors of war are so far distant from the experience of those of us at home that it is very difficult for us to conceive of them. This was particularly true during those days of attrition before the Germans swept over Western Europe. Then those of us who had spent happy days in many of the countries began to visualize and take personally the attacks on those tiny Norwegian towns along the coast and the occupation of such cities as Amsterdam, Brussels and Paris which we knew and loved so well. How could we bear to think of the bells of Amsterdam missing? Who could imagine a silent Amsterdam? Who could think of German officers sitting at our favorite table at the Cafe de la Paix?

Imagine a France without fine food and wine in the smallest restaurant in the tiniest town. Some of our fondest memories of fine food are associated with the villages. That I am not alone in my feeling is shown by a recent letter from a reader who writes "Often the cooking in out-of-the-way places or very plain ones that have only local patronage proved to be of the best. The beef filets were so tender and cooked to such perfection that they would melt in your mouth. They thought nothing of preparing soufflé potatoes. They all looked like long balloons or little holsters, crisp, crunchy, hollow, blown-up. The French version of a chicken fricassee, and the peas and string beans, the Brussels sprouts with green filberts—all marvelous."

This letter makes me hungry and homesick and I can answer it only through the column as it is signed merely "Constant Reader." The practical request was for a recipe for soufflé potatoes for which to get best results it is necessary to have a special waxy potato. In the past years these have been coming from California, but it is not probable that they are available at retail nowadays. If this constant reader will send her address, I will send the directions.

I have chosen some simple but good French recipes to print today in this sparse season when butter and cream, for which so many of them call, are at a premium.

EGGPLANT VALS.

Peel the eggplant, and cut it into inch cubes. Cook for 10 minutes in boiling water and drain. Place the eggplant in a greased baking dish, and sprinkle well with salad oil. Add salt, pepper, a sprig of thyme, and a few sprigs of parsley. Then cover with a very thick layer of crushed tomatoes, from which the seeds and skins have been removed. Cook tightly covered in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) for 1 1/2 hours. Pour over the dish 2 tablespoons of vinegar and replace in the oven for 10 minutes. Remove from the oven

MANY WOMEN OVERJOYED OVER THIS "IMPROVED" FEMININE HYGIENE

Modern New "BACTERIOSTATIC" Hospital Tested With Splendid Results

Many doctors today recommend the regular use of douches for women who want to be refreshingly clean, for women troubled with offending odor, discharge and minor irritation. Some products may be harmful germicides which burn, harden and damage sensitive tissues. The regular use of strongly alkaline douches may cause irritation and injury, too.

But NOT Lydia E. Pinkham's SANATIVE WASH! Instead, this is a mighty effective "bacteriostatic" (the modern trend). It contains the same type beneficial ingredients which great numbers of Doctors and skilled chemists say is one best principle of douching. It discourages bacterial growth and infection, cleanses, deodorizes and relieves itching, minor irritations and discharge.

Pinkham's Sanative Wash is one product for Feminine Hygiene that, despite its great strength, has a beneficial effect on delicate membranes. Thus it may be used often as needed. Inexpensive, too.

Hollywood Sees Its Postwar As Era of Marital Bliss

By JAY CARMODY.
It should interest you to know that the postwar world looks a little brighter today. That's because Hollywood also is thinking about it. When Hollywood starts thinking about anything, the hues of it become rosier. It may be the natural optimism of the place or it may be the influence of technicolor. Whichever, or whatever, it is, conditions look brighter on the average than they did before—as if Pollyanna had taken up a problem which Schopenhauer had fallen asleep over.
You must not get the notion that Hollywood's contemplation of the postwar world is on anything like the scale of that of Roosevelt, as he signs himself now, or Churchill, as he, in turn, signs himself. It is purely local thinking. Home and hearthside stuff, and let some one else figure out how to feed and clothe and medicate dispossessed minorities and things like that.
The intimate and immediate profit of the war to the postwar world as Hollywood sees it is an increasing stability in the emotional affairs of movie stars. When peace restores husbands to wives, or vice versa, the broad assumption is that they will be so glad to see peace that the happiness will include the sight of each other—forever after, too. That is how it is thought of out there. In terms of how so-and-so after it is all over. The far horizon is only as far as Joe is today and when Joe comes home, the horizon will come with him. Maybe it is not as simple as that in your mind, but...
The report of this postwar brooding sifts through a Warner Bros. research man who went out among the people to find out just how they felt about it.
One of the people he approached first was Ida Lupino. From Miss Lupino's lips, poured in thought, came this estimate of the future: "When Louis (Heyward, her husband) gets back we're going to realize more than ever what a precious thing marriage is. It's horrible to be separated this way, but I think what we learn might well be worth the price."
That is the woman's viewpoint. Lt. Tyrone Power tossed off that of the other sex in the following words in a recent letter to Mrs. Power, Annabella:
"That crack about a man learning to be a good wife in the Army is more than just a laugh. I'm learning to make beds, sweep the floor and wash my clothes. And, seriously, I'm learning to put a curb on my temper. The Marine Corps is making out of me the best dandy husband you have ever seen."
At that, a good place for a better world to begin is the home—the more shaky than normal one of a cinema make-believer.
George Hall, the old bandleader who manages the affairs of Dolly Dawn, who is at the Capitol this week, may go back to the band business some day. He is out of it now because it was impossible to keep a trombone player, trumpeter, or whatever, longer than it took another hand leader to offer an increase in pay. But when you have been a prominent fellow in a business since the days when Mae Murray was the pet of Broadway and remember a whole biography of Caruso and other figures of that period, you don't drop it permanently.
Mr. Hall, who is still well up to the physical ardor of band leading and tramping from here to Joe there, was saying as much the other night.
He was saying much more, in fact, a virtual bookful of interesting things about the giants of entertainment whose names you had not thought of since you were a child.
"Those were the really fabulous days," Mr. Hall said with a ruminative expression in his eyes, "especially when you remember such things as Mae Murray's entrance at the Palais Royal. She wore a fur wrapper, which trailed behind her a distance

Like a Scene in a Movie

By HAROLD HEFFERNAN.
HOLLYWOOD. Their not-too-personal affairs: Average major studio movie steps on the budget at the rate of approximately $3,000 an hour—so you can readily see why interruptions by visitors are a great pain in the neck to the business manager. However, we watched "Buffalo Bill" come to a complete halt last week while one of the cast's lesser players greeted a visitor on the set. And the business manager just sat there smiling.
They stopped the cameras five minutes to permit Chief Thundercloud, who originated the screen character of the Lone Ranger's pal, Tomto, to say hello and good-by to his 19-year-old son. It was an unusual situation, even for Hollywood, where anything can and does happen. The handsome Indian's boy showed up wearing the uniform of a Navy ensign and the wings of an aerial gunner. The boy, Victor Daniels, was graduated from the Corpus Christi, Tex., and due to transportation difficulties which ate up precious time, almost turned back on his way to the studio.
Ensign Daniels has no Indian name. These will be conferred on him by the Cherokee Tribal Council soon as he has "counted coup" against the Jap. The name, Victor Daniels, is an arbitrary one selected by his boy's mother at the time of his birth. It was a farewell scene fitting for any movie—and we'll never believe any writers again when they say Indians don't show emotion.
News in nibbles: Joan Fontaine will do an imitation of Neil Gwynne, the great English entertainer, for her role in "Frenchman's Creek." Paulette Goddard will leave for Mexico City over the Labor Day week end, her stint in "Standing Room Only" permitting. . . . Writer Carey Wilson will call in one of his short subjects on Nostradamus. He wants to assemble them into a feature-length film. . . . Only technicolor scene in "Shine On, Harvest Moon" will be a chorus number with 16 hand-picked beauties impersonating vegetables in a victory garden setting.

TO HELP SHORTEN THE WAR... TRAVEL SPARINGLY*

There is an important and intimate reason why you are requested NOT to travel, unless it is absolutely necessary. For every day the war is prolonged increases the chances that someone close to you will become a casualty. And every way by which you can help Shorten the War increases his prospects for coming back to you!

With the acute shortage of passenger carrying equipment trains too often are over-crowded. Yet the peak of wartime travel has not been reached! Save all the Pullman and coach space you can for the men and women in the services... and, yes, for helping to quicken the time when those who are away will come back to you.

So if your proposed trip will not help Shorten the War, please don't travel.

Don't travel unless absolutely necessary

- Cancel your reservations promptly, if it becomes necessary to change your plans.
- Travel only during the middle of the week.
- Travel light, taking only one piece of baggage on train.
- Accept cheerfully the accommodations that are available.
- Wait your turn in the dining car patiently.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people eliminate about 3 pints a day.
If the 16 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 16 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Alice Faye doesn't expect to make another picture before January 1; in fact, some folks close to the Phil Harris message say it's doubtful if she'll ever return. Like that mother and domestic routine. . . . It isn't the can-can at all! It's the Parisian trot that Merle Oberon is going to do in "The Lodger." Anyway, it will display Miss O's underpinning to excellent advantage.

"Victor Mature goes to a lot of trouble to keep in touch with his Hollywood associates. He must write a couple dozen letters a week. Vic made good in movietown. Just as he's made good in the Coast Guard—after taking a lot of ribbing.
Mature adopted that "beautiful hunk of man" mantle because he was easy enough to recognize in it an express elevator to the top. He's now a bosun's mate, first class, and reports have it that he'll be a chief petty officer in a few months. Far as we know he's the first movie actor who actually crossed the pond in an enlisted man—not officer—status.
Hollywood will be glad to see him back. He has color, something Hollywood has been short on for years.

Paul Henreid and Ida Lupino were being propelled by the Rolls-Royce of ancient vintage for a scene in "In Our Time." It suddenly coughed to a stop. One of the thingamabobs in the old motor had given out. The prop man said there wasn't a replacement in Hollywood.
Finally some one thought of a foreign car agency in Beverly Hills. There they obtained a temporary replacement of the part from a newer car of the same make owned by Lady Mendl. Four hours later Henreid and Miss Lupino resumed their journey.

Rommel Is Reported Nazi Representative At Boris' Funeral

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 31.—Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has been appointed Hitler's representative at the funeral of King Boris of Bulgaria this week end, possibly to take over as military boss as well as to mourn, the Daily Mirror said yesterday.

Another London morning newspaper, the News Chronicle, reflected Turkish opinion that a cabinet backed by the Germans might be formed from a Bulgarian military clique. It said two or three German divisions were in Bulgaria to influence political policy.

In a broadcast recorded by Reuters the German overseas radio reported an unsuccessful search for King Boris' will.

Has Right to Name Regency Council.
It was suggested that his will might contain his nomination of a regency council for his successor, 6-year-old Simeon II.

"According to the constitution, the King has the right to name in his political will the three persons to constitute the regency council which will rule the country as long as the successor to the throne is a minor," the broadcast said.

The Rome radio quoted a death certificate issued by Bulgaria's Minister of Justice, Assil Mitakov, as saying King Boris, who died Saturday, was a victim of natural causes.

Heart Congestion Blamed.
"He died from congestion of the left artery of the heart, complicated by congestion of the lungs and by cerebral congestion," the broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, quoted the certificate as stating.

The Rome radio thus fell into line with the official Berlin announcement that the Bulgarian King had died of natural causes.

A previous report from a neutral source had said that Boris was the victim of an assassin, who shot him as he was returning to Bulgaria from a heated conference with Hitler, at which Hitler had demanded increased war efforts from his Balkan satellite.

Shanker Markets Get Stay of Ban on Meat Sale

The Office of Price Administration yesterday granted Samuel Shanker, operator of Country Garden markets in Arlington and Alexandria, a stay of an order suspending the sale of rationed meats, fish and cheeses in his stores until after an appeal has been decided.

The OPA order, issued August 14, restrained the Country Garden markets from the sale of these commodities for a 90-day period beginning September 10, on a charge of failure to collect full ration coupon value for the articles sold. The order was to be suspended after a 15-day period, however, if there were no more violations during that period.

Mr. Shanker entered an appeal on August 21 through his attorney, Frank H. Ball.

Chiefs of Two Army Posts To Be Retired for Age

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 31.—The commanding officers of Camp Pickett, Va., and Fort George G. Meade, Md., will be retired from active duty after terminal leaves of absence, effective September 30, the 3d Service Command announced.

Col. D. John Markey of Camp Pickett and Col. Oliver S. Wood of Fort Meade were among a group of 32 high-ranking officers of the command who have passed statutory retirement age.

Other officers in the command, which embraces Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia, to be retired include:

Col. John A. Cutchins of Richmond, Va., director of the command's internal security division; Col. Archibald F. Comiskey, president of the Permanent Reclassification Board at headquarters in Baltimore; Col. Harry H. Pritchett, command inspector general; Col. David McG. Speed, chief of the tri-State quartermaster branch, and Maj. Scott S. Garman of command headquarters.

Death Toll Reaches 22 In Alabama Mine Blasts

By the Associated Press.
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 31.—The death toll in two gas explosions in a Republic Steel Corp. coal mine here rose to 22 today as the Bureau of Mines and the State Division of Safety and Inspection opened investigations of the tragedy.

Staples Bailey, chief mine inspector for the Woodward Iron Co., died today of burns. He was a member of a volunteer rescue crew trapped at Sayreton Mine No. 2 by the second explosion.

Mr. Bailey, experienced in mine rescue work, had gone to the mine immediately after the first explosion, and aided in bringing approximately 20 injured men to the surface.

Rev. Glendale Burton Takes Pastorate in Arlington

The Rev. Glendale Burton, assistant personnel director of the Eastern Area Red Cross Headquarters in Alexandria, will become pastor of the Wilson Boulevard Christian Church, Arlington, November 1, it was announced today.

The Rev. Mr. Burton, who succeeds the late Rev. Ira P. Harbough, is a graduate of Taylor University, Upland, Ind., and the YMCA College of Commerce at Indianapolis. He received his bachelor of divinity degree from Butler University at Indianapolis.

Prior to coming to Alexandria, the Rev. Mr. Burton served as assistant Red Cross field director at Camp Knox, Ky. He has served churches at Mount Summit and Chesterfield, Ind., and with the Indiana State Board of Missions.

He is a director of the International Speakers' Forum, which he founded; is past president of the Toastmasters' International Committee and is a past president of the alumni association of the YMCA College of Commerce.

OPA Plans to Appeal Georgia Court Ruling Against Rent Control

By the Associated Press. ATLANTA, Aug. 31.—Attorneys for the Office of Price Administration (OPA) today prepared an appeal from a decision of the Middle Georgia United States District Court, which invalidated the provisions of the Emergency Price Control Act.

At the same time the OPA headquarters announced that administration and enforcement of the entire act, including the rent-control section, would "continue on the same basis" as before yesterday's ruling by Federal Judge Bascom S. Deaver at Macon.

Regional and district attorneys for the agency declared last night that immediate steps were being taken to appeal to the United States Court of Appeals at New Orleans.

They said a decision similar to Judge Deaver's would have the effect of bringing lower court decisions into conformity and declared rent control regulations would be enforced pending final adjudication.

The United States Emergency Court of Appeals at Washington and Federal district courts in Kansas, Eastern Michigan, Minnesota and Nebraska have upheld the rent section which Judge Deaver declared unconstitutional.

His opinion was sharply critical of "control by regulation" and of some agencies which he said appeared to regard the constitution as an "outmoded instrument." His decision did not apply to controls which regulate prices in a legislative function.

Wives Reported Living At Objectors' Camp

By the Associated Press. ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Representative Cole, Republican, of New York said last night a "personal investigation" of the civilian public service camp for conscientious objectors at nearby Big Flats "discloses a common practice in such camps to permit wives and girl friends of members to live on the station."

In telegram to Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selecting service director, Representative Cole added: "While cost of this hospitality is not borne by the Government and some effort is made to limit the length of the visits, I protest against the practice. The country respects the religious faith of any citizen in war as in peace. Any consideration should not extend to making available to conscientious objectors excessive privileges, opportunities... denied to men in military service."

"I strongly urge this matter be given your immediate consideration and a direct issued discontinuing this practice."
