Peace Pact Bill Backers Show Strength in Test

Procedural Disputes Likely to Postpone Vote Until Tomorrow

By the Associated Press.

A powerful bipartisan House group fell into line behind the Fulbright postwar collaboration resolution today and demonstrated sufficient apparent strength to pass it by a twothirds vote.

A 252 to 23 vote, by which time for debating the resolution was extended from 40 minutes to four hours, provided the first measure of col-laborationist power. The opposition attempted in vain to limit debate, hopeful that the members, if denied an opportunity to discuss the measure, would return it to the Rules Committee.

Time taken by the procedural row and by two quorum calls, however, made it likely that the House would defer a final vote until tomorrow.

Hoffman Opposes Move. The first indication of definite opposition to the resolution appeared in a speech prepared for delivery by Representative Hoffman, Republican, of Michigan and distributed to newsmen before the debate opened. In its stead, he suggested substitution on the foreign policy statement drafted at the Republican conference at Mackinac Island.

"Are we here today," he asked, "the representatives of the people in Congress assembled, to wipe out the Declaration of Independence and, in its place, adopt a declaration of interdependence upon Great Britain and others nations of the old the House in opening debate: "We of this generation have a real contribution in the known history of man-attaining the great objectives of permanent peace. It will require vision and courage and the united effort and men and women of good will to bring this about.

'We have the golden opportunity.' The House Foreign Affairs Committee earlier wrote into the resolution an amendment saying, in effect, that Congress has the power to approve or reject any international arrangement to preserve

The qualification—demanded by the Republican minority—was accepted unanimously by the committee a short time before the House was called into session to act on the resolution itself, with leaders of both parties predicting approval.

The resolution by Representative Fulbright, Democrat, of Arkansas would place Congress on record as "favoring the creation of appropriate international machinery with power adequate to establish and to maintain a just and lasting peace among the nations of the world and favoring participation by the United States therein." The amendment added these words: through its constitutional

Hearing Set for Thursday

Announcement was made late today that public hearings on a bill designed to tighten sanitary regulations in public eating places in Washington will be started at 10:30 a.m. Thursday before a subcommittee of the Senate District Committee, headed by Senator Overton, Democrat of Louisiana. The proposed legislation was sponsored by Chairman McCarran of the District Committee following conviction in Police Court of a number of proprietors of lunchroom and restaurants on charges of violating the existing sanitary code.

Steuart Hearing Adjourned The hearing of the case of L. P. Stuart & Bros., Inc., fuel oil dealers, accused of rationing irregularities, was adjourned this afternoon until some time in October to perpreparation of briefs. Earlier, Curtis P. Stuart, an official of the firm, testified his company was able to maintain fuel stocks while others ran out because rival dealers imported five carloads f gasoline for every carload of fuel oil during the January shortage. War Show Canteen Turns Out 4,200 Doughnuts a Day reasury-sponsored Army War Show at Washington Monument Grounds what exhibit he likes best and he doubtless will fix you with a steely eye and say:

"Why, the Red Cross mobile doughnut-making center, of course." This automobile, donated to the Red Cross by the blind, sits near the thatched Red Cross shack to the west of the grounds. It keeps half a dozen cooks busy all day and most of the night making 4,200 doughnuts a day, and they admit they could give away twice that many "sinkers" if time remained to cook them. Lines Form at Opening.

Any person in uniform gets doughnuts and coffee free. Long before it is officially open at 11 a.m., lines of military personnel form before it, coffee mugs in hand.

The unit on display is the smallest of its kind. Others are so large "it's no trick at all to stand up in them," Red Cross workers said, and still others "were converted from buses, so you can understand they have lots of room in them."

When operated in combat areas in the field, the canteen requires the services of only two or three persons Each can turn out doughnuts at the rate of 35 dozen an hour.

The doughnuts are made of specially prepared batter. The coffee is made elsewhere and transported to the Red Cross exhibit in mammoth insulated jars. It doesn't take long for the Army, Navy and Marine personnel, as well as a few policemen on duty at the grounds, to empty one of the coffee containers. Care for Lost Children.

Lost children are taken to the Red Cross exhibit, and on a Sunday it is not unusual for 50 or more to turn up tearfully asking if any one seen their mothers. Frantic parents are a dime a dozen at about the time the show closes, while other parents are apparently re-lieved to be rid of their charges. Some have even tendered a quarter to Red Cross personnel, with the

World's Biggest Fleet Now Backs U. S. Bid For Victory at Sea

Industrial America's outpouring of ships, planes and munitions for the Navy has built up the mightiest sea-air power in the world-a gigantic fleet operating around the globe.

A Navy inventory disclosed today that the fleet now includes 14,072 vessels, 613 of them warships. Three years ago, the Navy had only 1.076 vessels, of which 383 were fighting

The air arm, described as "the most powerful naval air force in the world," now has more than 18,000 planes of all types, compared with 1.744 on hand in 1940.

During July, 1943, the Navy received almost 1,200 completed vessels and close to 2,000 planes, the report said. By contrast, in the same month three years ago, five newly completed vessels and 25 new planes were delivered.

Record Construction.

"No naval construction program of comparable size and speed has ever been accomplished by any other nation," the Navy said. "Ability to build this huge new naval forceand to continue to build at the present rate-is one of the foundation stones of our military strategy.

None of us will be completely happy until a certain day arrives . . . the day of Victory. The day our boys are back; our sons, brothers and husbands. We want our way of life to go on, and we're fighting to make sure it does. We want Jim or Bill (you know his name) to be sitting right there in his easy chair with his pipe or studying in his own room. We want to have friends in for dinner again ... and a big roast beef for them.

We want to be able to take a long drive in the country, buy a new car, have fun, be happy. We want to live again on that sunny side of things of which Coca-Cola, itself, is such a symbol. There are so many things we want back-little things, big things. Yes, so many. None of them will come unless we win. All, and more, will come when we win. The War Bonds you buy will hasten the day...the day of Victory.

Victory at Bismarck Sea: Sighting of Convoy North of New Britain; Japs Operate Behind Thick Weather Front

In the battle of the Bismarck Sea an Allied air force carried out to perfection the Army airman's concept of the protection of our own shores. Long-range reconnaissance planes (Flying Fortresses) discovered an enemy fleet approaching New Guinea. Despite difficult weather, succeeding flights followed its movements. And when the fleet came within range it was struck and annihilated by a coordinated attack of high and medium altitude bombers, skip-bombers flying at mast height and deck strafers pouring cannon and machine-gun fire onto the enemy gun crews.

Glenn Clark had been with us from the first, going up to C. O. as others were transferred or promoted. He had a calm integrity that promotes confidence. Occasionally a cherubic smile would illuminate his broad face. First we called him by his initials, "G. W.," and then we shortened that. We called him "Geedub."

Used Old Planes First. The bombardment group of which our squadron was an element had been the first to reach Australia, arriving by ship in February, 1942. We had had it pretty rough. The group leader wangled a flock of 3-25s (Mitchells) consigned to the our squadron was stuck with A-24 Rive hombers (Douglas) that cruised at 150 miles an hour. If the Zeros came along our planes didn't have a chance. The pilot had two .50caliber machine guns fixed in the nose, as in a fighter. The trouble was she wasn't fast enough to get after a Zero with those guns. It was like giving a man a gun and then chaining it so that he couldn't point it at his enemy. One day in 1942 seven A-24s went out on a mission to Buna. They encountered Zeros and two came back. We had a much better plane now, a two-motored Douglas with a tail and tunnel gun as well as the pilot's nose gun. That helped with Zeros but would make no difference in getting up against the flak thrown by a warship. It looked as though we might be in for one of those terrible days of the year before-

Two Crews for Each Plane. Because equipment replacements had not kept up with equipment casualties we had two crews for each plane. Sunday night 12 pilots and their crews went off alert, 12 more came on. I suppose that those who were not openly relieved that they were not going to fly against a Jap leet were secretly so. There was one exception. He was the baby of our group. Charles Mayo, just turned 21, a tall, blond, nice kid who was as eager as a substitute on football team. He argued with Clark about going off alert and succeeded in getting himself named as standby pilot. We had 13 planes. We were going to fly 12. If one couldn't take off he would go. Things were getting pretty tense. Every one walked around with his eye on the weather. The overcast was getting heavier. Weather reports on the teletype sent in by our reconnaissance planes showed the Jap fleet was operating behind an advancing weather front. A front like that would move down from the northwest with hundreds of miles (five days) of thick weather behind it. "It will be just like Milne Bay," everybody said.

In September during heavy weather the Jap had convoyed transports with destroyers to unload their troops at Milne Bay at the very tip of our end of New Guinea. No one had seen him. He had been unable to reinforce his beachhead and the Aussie ground forces cleaned the Japs out in short order. But it was bloody business. We all credited the Japs with studying the weather since 1926 and knowing what was coming Remember Midway.

Monday night we sat up until 3 a.m. at operations, drinking black coffee, talking and thinking this thing out. We had all seen the picture in Life of the 15 pilots of the Navy's Torpedo Squadron 8 taken on the deck of their carrier with an "X" marking Ensign Gay-the only one who came back. Skip-bombing would appear to be more dangerous than torpedo launching. In torpedo work the pilot releases his torpedo at a mile to 1.000 feet from a warship. His hopes of success and his hopes of survival vary inversely as he gets in nearer That is, the nearer he gets the more chance he has of hitting the ship with his torpedo and the less chance he has of escaping. If he is going fast his torpedo will trip when it hits the water. He has to make a straight run of it-stay right on the beads of the opposing gunnerswhen he is releasing his torpedo And if they haven't knocked him out by that time, he has to give them a beautiful target as he turns. belly to them, at the end of his

The skip-bomber can come in from any angle and from any height with all the speed his plane is good for, weaving and diving, using all kinds of deception tactics. Bismarck Sea and the experience of the Navy's Torpedo Squadron 8 off the Solomons, when they avenged their companions lost at Midway, show that either can be done with a good chance of survival for the pilot, if it is an attack co-ordinated with other types of bombing that rocks the ship's defending guns away from their target or the gunners away from their guns.

There was some horsing around as well as a lot of serious talk that night. Some one would say something technical and Finlay MacGillivray from Sante Fe. N. Mex., a typical fullback with short dark hair

Shift Would Be Complicated.

A new chief of staff would be compelled to earn the confidence of the Army, the Congress and the country which Gen. Marshall now enjoys to an extent without parallel in war. This would mean adaptation of the service to the policies the successor would inaugurate. Further, it would serve as a serious handicap to our war effort because necessary legislation constantly must be sought and prompt acquiescence by Congress naturally depends upon the degree of faith it has in the chief of staff.

As the public appreciates, it was Gen. Marshall, who, at the instance of the President, created the powerful armies now on fields of battle, under whose direction our military establishment has been reorganized to greater efficiency, who was reattle trainin given to the men, who expanded the air component to the strength which he visioned modern war requires, who has performed his work with a minimum of friction and no scandal, and whose intimate relations with Admiral King and Gen. He has declined to be led into adventures not directly aimed at winning the war, however attractive they seemed at first blush. The United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers proposed that the Government reply on the tax laws for recovery of any excessive profits in war contracts.

"I remain of the view that continuation of the renegotiation statute for the duration of the war is in the public interest," Mr. Patterson, said, adding:

"In view of the oft-expressed fear that renegotiation may become a permanent fixture * * there is no reason that provision should not now be made expressly providing that the renegotiation statute shall not apply to contracts entered into after cessation of hostilities.

"In this connection the retention taxes are carried to the point of of the present statutory limitation, confiscation of earnings over and which provides that renegotiation

Thoughts on the care and use of meat

WITH so little time available, I've had to cut my food shopping trips down to about three times a week. And I've found this presents some real problems in how to keep meats at home, and what kinds to buy so they will keep. Under rationing, of course, we have to be extra careful.

I've discovered one simple little formula. When I shop, I buy a quick-cooking meat for use that very evening and a longer cooking, good-keeping variety for the next night or two.

Sometimes, when they're available, I get chops or ground meat to use right away. At the same time, I get lamb or beef ribs for long cooking, and wieners or sausage to keep.

Any meat that I want to keep for a day or two without cooking, like beef, pork, veal or lamb, I handle this way: After unwrapping it, I lay meat on pieces of waxed paper and fold it over so ends are open and pop it right into the re-frigerator. I've learned that if it's wrapped too tightly, it may spoil.

Some, I know, store meat in the freezing unit of their refrigerator, or else have a special container for meat. I've tried putting meat right in the freezing because it keeps well for a long time there-but I had a terrible time getting it out again unless I defrosted the refrigerator and of course it must be thawed before using.

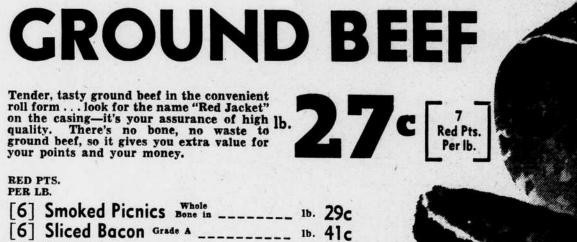

I've been preparing meat for our din-ners in a variety of ways, recently. Here are two of the ideas I have found especially good:

Kidney Saute-Allow 2 lamb kidneys per person. Wash and slice thinly; flour heavily; saute in bacon drippings or other shortening until brown. Add water to cover; season to taste with salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Cook until tender over low heat, about 20 minutes. Serve over hot toast, biscuits, rice or noodles.

Oven Barbecued Ribs-Use breast of lamb or pork spare ribs allowing about a half lb. per person. Place whole or half rack of ribs in pan, meat-side up. and cook 1 hour to 1 hour and a half in a 400° F. oven or until brown and done. Turn when half-way through cooking and season with salt and pepper.

STEP UP YOUR MEALS WITH SAUCES is the title of my article in this week's Family Circle Magazine. I think you'll find some interesting ideas in it. Your free copy is ready at your Safeway.

Congressional study of the expected drain on social security funds now held by the Government, in the light of wartime developments, was suggested today by Chairman George of the Senate Finance Committee.

More Aerial Attacks Hint Allied Plans to Smash Bougainville

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 20.-What appeared a sustained and determined effort to reduce the defenses of Bougainville Island by American aerial attack advanced into its second week today, with the enemy's air bases there further shattered and his air reserves further diminished.

Three surprise night raids by Mitchell medium bombers against Kahili and Ballale airdromes at the southern tip of the big Solomon Island, followed by a daylight assault in force on Ballale by fighter-escorted Dauntless divebombers and Avenger torpedo planes, marked the latest stage in this campaign of de-

These victims of the furious air war could be added to 84 other Japanese aircraft previously reported destroyed aground and in the air over Bougainville since the full-scale American aerial offensive began September 11

Besides, the airdromes themselves fast were becoming of doubtful value to Japan. Even before the latest attacks, Ballale was described as virtually unusable, and now it has blossomed with new fires, its gun positions, revetments and garrison areas blasted and torn.

Six U. S. Planes Lost. This, the communique said, was achieved at a cost of two American bombers and four fighters, the pilots of two of which were saved. For the period of the current Bougainville air offensive as a whole. American plane losses were reported as standing at a ratio of 1 to 6 for the enemy Japan's willingness to pay a high price to retain Bougainville was understandable. Situated at the northern end of the chain, it is the enemy's last securely held position in the Solomons. Beyond that, it is the stepping stone from the southeast, both by land and air, to Rabaul, New Britain, and its fall would ex-pose that anchor of Japan's South Pacific defense system to direct and perhaps fatal attack.

-Here are 7 Practical Things you can do

TICTOR PLITT, like many of us, is busier than vever at a war job. He finds himself in position to spend more money than he used to ::: but he's thinking about the future. He wants, for himself and his family, those personal benefits that mean so much to every American—and he's willing to work and save for them today.

You can do what he is doing . . . we all can. We can follow the seven-point program suggested by our Government . . .

- 1. Buy and hold war bonds-to lend our country the money it needs now to fight the war to victory.
- 2. Pay willingly your share of taxes-including increased taxes-that our country needs. 3. Provide for your own and your family's future
- by adequate life insurance and savings. 4. Reduce your debts as much as possible and avoid making needless new ones.
- 5. Buy only what you need and make what you have last longer. 6. Live faithfully by the rationing rules to con-
- serve goods of which there are shortages. 7. Cooperate with our Government's price and wage stabilization program.

THESE things are typically American—hard work and thrift are part of the American tradition. They have won us freedom and made us great.

So if today the necessary self-denial seems hard, keep in mind that you are working for what you want in your post war world.

Keep in mind, too, that by spending less and saving more you are helping to put a brake on the cost of living. An uncontrolled rise in prices is the worst thing that could happen to us on the home front now.

Why not join Victor Plitt and millions of other Americans in their fight for a better tomorrow? Follow the simple budget form here. Follow it to help win your own Post War World.

AMERICA'S LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES bring you this plan of action not only to help you to win the kind of future you want, but to urge you to join wholeheartedly with all loyal Americans to keep down living costs during these critical war days.

One of the effective ways to hold down living costs, as our Government suggests, is to buy and hold life insurance—a way which 67 million policyholders have already taken with the guidance of their life insurance

Remember that the premiums you pay for your life insurance are also helping to pay for the war-for a large part of them are invested in Government bonds.

VICTOR F. PLITT is an aviation mechanic -lives at 41 Sherman Rd., Farmingdale, L. I. He's putting at least 10% of his wages in War Bonds, he's saving in other ways and he's paying for his home. He uses the form below for his budget as a "blueprint" to help attain his personal Post War World.

Labor Budget Plan

The text of what Bernard Baruch and John Hancock describe as a labor budget plan is a persuasive argument, in its implications, for a national service law.

While the report does not pass judgment on the merits of a national service act, it is no secret that Mr. Baruch is skeptical of the wisdom of taking such a step. Although Britain has enacted legislation of this sort and has obtained good results with it, there are many who contend that resort to compulsion or threat of compulsion would not be feasible in this country. There are several grounds for this opinion, but the principal one is that Americans should not be required by law to work for a private employer. In the language of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. there must be no resort to "involuntary servitude" in the United States.

There is, certainly, a great deal of force to this contention, and it will be readily granted that we should not resort to compulsory legislation unless the need for it is clear. What are the facts as to that?

At the outset it is necessary to keep in mind that millions of men are being compelled by law to fight this war. It is true that they are serving the country and not some private employer, but the fact remains that they have been taken out of their homes by the Government and sent to the fronts. And the greatest responsibility of those of us who remain at home is to make certain that these men at the battle fronts are given the absolute maximum of support. Mr. Baruch's report concedes that this is not being done at this time.

Although we have been at war for almost two years, we have not yet succeeded in making the fullest use of our war production facilites. We are not producing as many weapons for our fighting men as we could and should produce, largely for the reason that we are not making the best use of our labor force. The question is how to rectify this deficiency.

The essence of Mr. Baruch's plan is to bring labor supply and demand into balance community by community throughout the country. To accomplish this the labor budget plan has been worked out, and under it manufacturers will have to get along with the number of workers allotted them on a priority basis, and workers will be limited in their choice of jobs. This is being done now on the West Coast because it has to be done, not because of any capricious desire to restrict the freedom of employers and workers. The only essential difference between this and a national service act is that the Baruch plan, while compulsory in effect, rests upon what is called a voluntary basis. But to a very considerable extent the freedom of workers to choose their own places of employment is restricted, and if this were not the case the labor budget plan would be certain to fail.

Whether it will be successful is something that remains to be determined. It is to be hoped that it will succeed, and even if it does not the progress made under it should be helpful in clearing the way for a national service law. But we should not overlook the fact that this long search for an alternative to frank compulsion has been costly in war production. In fairness to the men who have been sent into battle, we must recognize the fact that the successful conduct of the war comes first, and if this cannot be done on a voluntary basis we must go to compulsion all along the line.

What Ho! The Bicycle

Some of the traffic authorities and their friends are fairly itching to get their hands on the bicycle and plans are afoot to ask that Congress pause in its deliberations over the war long enough to pass a law requiring registration, taxation, tagging and inspection.

That is a wholly natural development. Nothing can expect to remain uncontrolled for long these days, and the bicycle, for some strange reason, has remained a free agent-possibly because there was such fun regulating the automobile that the bicycles, in normal times, were picayune stuff. But now that automobiles are declining and bicycles are increasing, the bicycle looks like white meat. The fixers are after it with all their customary zest for something new to regulate.

Perhaps identification tags and some form of registration would be helpful in recovering stolen bicycles and in making out proper tickets for traffic violators, so that more people is a weighty one, judging from the Geshell assumes his duties October 1. arguments in its favor. The fact that some other cities require such things is another reason to excite envy here in Washington.

But the insatiable ambition of the traffic people and their friends to inspect bicycles, in addition to registering and tagging them, is nothing more nor less than a proposition to | servation. inflict another unnecessary and highly annoying nuisance on an easygoing and good-natured people.

Cleanup on New Guinea

The storming of the twin Japanese bases of Salamaua and Lae, and the destruction of their garrisons, originally estimated at 20,000, is an achievement notable not only for its effects on the local military situation, but even more as a demonstration of the offensive technique perfected by the Allied high command. It is not too much to say that this brilliant exploit can be repeated against other enemy strongholds in the South Pacific area under a formula with almost mathematical certainty, given the requisite strength in manpower, equipment and sup-

This formula is no brilliant improvisation. It has been evolved slowly and painfully by General Douglas MacArthur and his American-Australian staff colleagues. The first stages were worked out by the costly process of trial and error against a foe that had experimented for many years in the art of jungle warfare and employed troops specially trained and hardened for this peculiar and difficult type of warfare. When MacArthur took up his task in the spring of 1942 he was heavily handicapped, not only by lack of men and equipment, but also because he possessed a mere handful of junglewise Australians, his American troops being untrained and unseasoned for such campaigning. The first half-year was a heart-breaking defensive struggle against superior enemy forces, then in the full flush of their aggressive power.

The new technique was put to its primary test in our attack on Guadalcanal in early August, 1942. The experiment was long and costly. But it was ultimately successful, and the fanatical obstinacy of the Japanese high command wore down its strength in ships and planes even more than in ground troops. Meanwhile, the rapid flow of military, naval and air reinforcements from the United States redressed the strategic balance to at least parity in the South Pacific, and made possible a sustained offensive throughout that region. The unsolved factors in the strategic equation were cost and time. The conquest of Guadalcanal and the reduction of the Japanese footholds in Southern New Guines or Papua had been so slow and prodigal in casualties that the process of "island-hopping" threatened to drag out almost indefinitely. The technique obviously had to be perfected and its tempo stepped up. This has been achieved by an amazingly effective co-ordination of every branch of the armed services. Answers have been found to the Japanese defense system of multiple log-and-concrete "bunkers" hidden in the jungle and other tricky devices. This quickened tempo has been simultaneously shown by the Allied offensives on New Georgia Island in the Solomons and on New Guinea. Compare the time and cost of reducing New Georgia with Guadalcanal. Still more striking is the comparison between the reduction of the Buna-Gona area in Papua with that of Salamaua-Lae. just completed. The decisive offensive against those twin Japanese strongholds started only a fortnight ago. It involved a very skillful coordination between troops sent overland, disembarked from barges and dropped from air transports in the Markham Valley, while ceaseless precision bombing from airplanes systematically blasted the Japanese ground defenses in a way artillery had not been able to accomplish. Thus, operations which formerly consumed months have been compressed into a matter of short weeks, or even days. The reduction of Japan's New Guinea strongholds controlling the strait between that island and New Britain, combined with our steady climb up the island-ladder of the Solomons, bring in sight the next major objective, the conquest of Rabaul, the main Japanese base in the entire region. And beyond that, still other objectives become strategic possibilities.

It will be difficult indeed for Goebbels to tell his dupes that Italy has retired from the war according to a masterly plan of the German general staff

Psychiatrist for Court

The appointment of a psychiatrist for Juvenile Court represents definite progress in meeting the problems of juvenile delinquency here, and climaxes a long effort by Judge Fay Bentley to bolster her staff by the addition of a medical aid competent to recognize and deal properly with

Since the passage of the revised Juvenile Court law five years ago. Judge Bentley has urged that a psychiatrist be assigned permanently to the court, which has been required to rely on an outside agency for examination of those youngsters whose lapses were believed due to mental quirks. When the new home for the court was built in 1940, a clinic was provided, but no attendant was made available until a few days ago when the Public Health Service assigned Doctor Stanley Geshell from the Federal Narcotic can be haled into court. The subject | Farm, Lexington, Kentucky. Dr. | is smoke there is fire.

The operation of a clinic in connection with Juvenile Court conforms to the best practice, and has obvious advantages. It will speed the disposition of the court's work, and should provide for a greater degree of personal attention for youth-

The problem of juvenile delinquency, always serious, has grown to greater proportions as the result of the war which has upset family relationships, and it is important, consequently, that it be treated as intelligently as possible. The innovation here is a step in that direc-

Conjecture over whether the voice and the words attributed to Mussolini in the Saturday broadcast were really his own or those of some stooge is unimportant. The significant thought, which undoubtedly occurred to everybody who heard the speech or read it, is that it no longer makes the slightest difference whose voice or whose words were used. The voice was from the tomb and the words were empty echoes of a dead past.

The intriguing question is not who made the speech, but why it was made at all. We are accustomed, with some reason, to credit the Germans with an astute and highly developed sense of propaganda. But what could they hope to accomplish by letting the Italians, and the world at large, judge for themselves the contrast between the ghostly mumbo jumbo that came over the radio and the fiery eloquence of Il Duce in the breast-beating balcony days of old? There must be a catch in it some-

Mussolini assassinated, or Mussolini held prisoner by his parachuting "rescuers," might have lived in the memory of his people as Mussolini the martyr. But it is hard to make a martyr out of a man who tries to dramatize the details of his own descent into oblivion. How hollow the appeal to Blackshirts! Italians! Here is the big Blackshirt himself. crying over his betrayal at the hands of the dynasty whose breakdown, twenty years ago, he prevented: but which, now, "in accordance with an old statute of 1848, at the point of the bayonet and under a state of seige," disposes of him after a twenty-minute interview with the King and hustles him off to jail in a waiting Red Cross car.

For what is he appealing? "Take up arms again, at the side of Germany, Japan and the other allies." Take up arms, after the broken voice on the radio has catalogued the items of "Italy in chaos and despair * * * war developing on our own territory * our empire thrown away * * the royal navy given to the British." All this may make sense of some sort. but only the sense of truth as to how desperate are those who put this man before a microphone to reveal the depths to which the mighty now are fallen.

Help!

The problem of help is ever with us, and probably always will be. Witness an advertisement run recently in a Chicago paper by a firm desperately in need of new employes. "Come one, come all!" it reads. "The star attraction is a good permanent job for you when the war ends. You don't need any experience. We'll teach you this radio work to the tune of $123 a month — daytime shifts only. Saturday until 11:30 a.m., automatic pay increases, seniority, promotions, free retirement and hospitalization. You'll hear the music of Tommy Dorsey, Harry James and all the other big-name bands. Gettogether parties once a month."

Similar difficulty in getting help was prevalent in the last century. The farmer of the gay '90s used to have to advertise, too, on occasion. His ad was simple, "Hired hand wanted, usual terms," and he, too, had to wait, sometimes for as much as two days, before the help arrived. When he did, the new man had to be pampered. The "usual terms" permitted him to loll in ease in his attic cot until four a.m., and he actually had fifteen minutes off, along about six o'clock, for breakfast. Even worse was yet to come. Time out for lunch and supper were longer, and at any time during working hours, which were cut short at nine p.m. after the stock was bedded down, the employe had the right to quit for ten seconds or so, drink a glass of water or mop his forehead-and the final straw was the necessity of shelling out, once a month, the staggering sum of twenty dollars.

Time after time the Japs persistently move in new airplanes to New Guinea, only to have them destroyed in wholesale lots of fifty or more. To the neutral observer, if any, this must seem plane foolishness.

Herr Goebbels is having a hard time explaining why so many German soldiers are dying in Russia. Cheer up. Goebbels-at the rate the Soviets are advancing now, it will not be long before no more Nazis die-in Russia

Real Gains Seen In Italy's Fall

By Maj. George Fielding Eliot. The fruits of Italy's surrender are beginning to be garnered. It was inevitable that the Allies would derive widespread advantages from having knocked out of the war one of the major enemy powers, one of the two chief partners in the Rome-Berlin Axis. Just what these advantages would be has been the subject of much speculation. Now the dust of the Italian collapse is beginning to settle, and we are seeing a little more clearly, though we do not see everything Definitely in the bag, today, we have: (1) The Italian fleet, removing the last naval danger (other than from submarines) in the Mediterranean, and permitting strong reinforcement of Allied naval forces in Far Eastern waters.

(2) Sardinia, taken over by its Italian garrison, which advances our air and sea power toward the north part of Italy's Mediterranean coast, and which exposes Corsica-and thus eventually the south coast of France-to direct attack.

(3) A secure foothold in Southern Italy, stretching across from Salerno on the Tyrrhenian Sea to Bari on the Adriatic, with good seaports in our possession, and with command of the Strait of Otrante, the entrance to the Adriatic

There are reports of other occurrences not definitely confirmed, not yet certain by any means, but suggestive of the possibilities of the immediate future:

(1) The reported occupation by Allied forces of the Aegean Islands of Cos. Samos and Leros. It is quite possible that these islands may-like Sardiniahave been taken over by their Italian garrisons and are being held for Marshal Badoglio, which means, in effect, for the Allies. While it does not seem likely that any large Allied expedition could have reached them-because to do so it would be necessary to get by Rhodes and Scarpanti, still in German hands as far as is known-it is quite possible that Allied parachutists, or small sea-borne forces, carried by destroyers or torpedo boats, may have arrived.

The situation on Rhodes itself is uncertain; the Germans certainly hold the main airfield, because it has just been bombed by our Middle East flyers, but there are reports that Italian troops are in arms against the Germans in the interior of the big island.

(2) The reported occupation by Yugoslav Partisan troops of the ports of Split, Senj and Susak, on the upper Dalmation coast. This, if true, would seem to open a gateway into the interior of Yugoslavia for the passage of Allied arms and ammunitions sent across the sea from Italy. However, two points are to be kept in mind; first, that the forces meported in Split, etc., are those of the Partisan leader, "Tito," not those of the recognized Yugoslav government under Gen. Draja Mihailovich, and until the exact relationship between these two Yugoslav forces is cleared up, we cannot be certain how to act; second, that there is no certainty that any Patriot forces in Yugoslavia can long maintain hold on seaport cities against German attack, since the very essence of the Patriot success has been to strike and run, never giving the Germans a chance to hit against a definite target with their superior weapons. But the very need for German action is a diversion of German striking power from other points, and there are clear indications that the increased German difficulties in Yugoslavia are largely due to Italian forces joining the Patriots, and handing over to them stores of weapons and muni-

(3 The political repercussions in Hungary and Bulgaria, which we see less clearly at present, but which seem to be taking a turn in both cases unfavorable to the Germans. It would be useless at this time to try to foresee in detail what may happen in those countries, but the trend is plainly perceptible.

Obviously, the concrete product of all these and other disturbances of the Axis position, set in motion by the surrender of Italy, may be long in taking form, and it may be some time before we shall see the whole of what we have gained. Just as obviously, it would in most cases be a very good thing if the Allied high command were in position to rush with military force to these various areas and take immediate advantage of the confusion and uncertainty, backing up those who are or may become favorably disposed to the Allied cause, dealing drastically with the remnants of pro-German elements. Impatient voices will be raised here and in Britain, crying to the four winds of lost opportunities and accusing our high command and the governments behind it of everything from sympathy with "Fascist" regimes to cowardice and

But the fact remains that we have in the Mediterranean only so much fighting power, and so much shipping. We must devote that fighting power and the shipping, which is our means of transporting it, to those purposes of greatest military advantage at the moment. We must concentrate on these purposes, to the exclusion of all others. To dissipate our strength over a large number of objectives would be to assure failure everywhere. And let us again remember, as Gen. Eisenhower has recently reminded us, that our main objective is not the taking of an island here and a town there, but the destruction of the enemy's fighting forces.

Time for a Question

From the Winnines Free Press

The air force needs more air crew? Well and good. More air crew must be found, if the young men are available anywhere. But, the public is asking, have adequate steps been taken to find, inside the air force as now constituted, all the potential air crew that is already there? It is enough to visit any air establishment to see numbers of young men employed on administrative tasks who certainly look like potential air crew. It may be that they have special skills that keep them in their present posts. Few questions have been asked of the authorities who have charge of our armed forces about their use of their recruits. The time has come to ask them now, for the simple reason that the number of young men of military age and good physical category is limited. There are no longer in Canada unlimited numbers to call on. The situation calls for the most scientific use of the limited resources we have.

THIS AND THAT

By Charles E. Tracewell.

"ROCKVILLE, Md.

"Dear Sir: "Fall days bring the best walking weather. In summer it is too hot to walk, and in winter it is too cold; it seems to me that the only enjoyable time is autumn, when the weather has cooled off just enough to be nice.

"Yet it is too cold to stay in the house! We humans are hard to please, are we not? The weather is seldom right. Mostly it is too hot or too cold. or too wet or too dry. Things are never just right. I hope nobody complains about this attitude. It is, oh, so very human! We are all like that, whether we admit it or not.

"Our brave boys in the jungles do not complain about the weather. Of course, not! What good would it do them? We at home complain, and ought to complain, if for no other reason than to do their share of grumbling for them. They, too, would worry about the weather if they were here.

"I think that walking in the heat is very miserable, whereas walking on a cool fall day is glorious. Then one can step out in the best fashion. It is true that walking wears out sole leather. what is left of it, but it adds to one's length of days, makes the blood course through the veins, and adds to mental health, too.

"There are so many threats to all of us from Fascism, both abroad and at home, that I think anything which adds to our mental well-being, which keeps us alert and on our intellectual toes, which adds sheer joy to life, and we do not know why, is something to treasure.

"That is exactly where walking come: in. Now and then some person gets this lift by walking alone, but most people get more spirit out of it by walking with some one. I think people make a mistake in thinking that the long walk is the only good walk.

"I would instruct people, if I could, that many small or short walks are better than one long one of equal aggregate time. I think this is where many house-bound people make their great mistake; they think because they do not have time to walk for several miles that they do not have time to walk at all. Yet every one sinks down in a chair, now and then, and reads, or listens to the radio. I read and listen to the radio, too, and think them wonderful, but I sometimes give them up and go out for a walk around our block.

"In this way I get the cobwebs out of my mind, as the saying is, and work up some blood movement, get the stagnation out of mind and muscle, and yet do not spend much time at it.

"Often at the office I miss my lunch by going for a walk. I honestly believe that half an hour walking in the sui.shine is as nutritious as the usual sandwich lunch, and maybe a great deal better for some persons. Are not most of us too fat, as it is? With increased cereal diets, we are all in danger of getting so fat that we cannot waddle. Grain carbohydrates are fattening in a blowing.

way that potato carbohydrates are not. Eat more potatoes, would be my plea. Potatoes are especially good for sedentary workers along in middle age, because they are among the most laxative foods there are. I would even say that they are the only laxative food, since their bulk is mild and gentle, and their starch easily handled by older digestive systems.

"Eat potatoes, then, and walk a lot or as much as you can, and you will have a much better chance of going through middle age successfully. "Sincerely yours, E. B. F."

We believe our correspondent gives good hint here.

Most of us are in such a hurry that we forget to walk. There are several interesting ways of fooling ourselves, in this respect. One is to pick a restaurant at noon which is several blocks away from where we work.

Another is to select the sunny side of the street. It may not be much walking, and it may not be much sunshine, but it will be considerably better than none. Another way of getting in more walking is to eat less at lunch.

By eating less we are able to walk more. * * * *

Cereal diets, as our correspondent points out, tend to build up fat.

Just why this is we leave to the scientists. Perhaps it is because we eat too much of them at a time, and what is left over, as it were, is stored up as fat. Good health for the civilian in wartime means refusing to be stuffed with cereals, and getting a maximum of vitamins and minerals. These two latter may be secured from foods or from concentrates, with the preference given to foods which contain them, if possible. It is not always possible.

Much walking will help make up for the rigors of a too-cereal diet. It is always possible to walk a few extra bus stops on the way to work, or to get off a few blocks before one has to. In this way a respectable mileage may be built up in a month or so. Nothing which an athlete would be proud of, it is true, but better than nothing.

It is quite plain that our correspondent, and many another person, is not a member of any hikers' organization. Sturdy souls-and soles-are needed for real hiking.

Galloping through the brier bushes at a 6-mile-an-hour clip is good, if you can do it, but not so good for the office personality who or which seldom finds time for even a slow walk on sidewalks. It is easy to find the time, we believe.

How to find the will to walk? That, my hearties is another matter. It takes more than potatoes to build up will power. But if anything will build the will to walk, it is a fine fall day, with the sunshine gleaming and the cool breezes

Letters to the Editor

Reconstruction Planning Held Needed Now.

To the Editor of The Star: It is recorded in the Scriptures that Jonah once besought the Lord to destroy the city of Ninevah, and that the Lord replied, "Should not I spare Ninevah, that great city, wherein are more than six-score thousand persons that cannot discern between their right hand and their left hand?" Does any one doubt that there are millions in the world today who do not "know their right hand from their left hand" as far as understanding the widely varied and complex causes which brought on this World War? They do, however, realize the terrible toll that it has already taken in human lives—the greatest in all history.

They recall that the forces engaged in the first World War reached Armistice Day without any consideration having been given to plans for peace.

In consideration of these facts, millions believe that there is an obligation now resting upon all the nations to begin at once definite plans for reconstruction and new construction on a world-wide basis. ANNA WHITTAKER ROUSSEL.

Why Not Abolish All Cities and Start Over?

To the Editor of The Star: It is too bad to spend any more money on the City of Washington. The city is suffering from such a severe case of obsolescence, that it would be far cheaper to move it to some more desirable place and start from scratch. Important considerations that should influence the creation of a new capital should be:

1. A more central location in the United States. 2. A desirable climate—the present one is abominable. 3. An arrangement like Vatican City, Rome, which would include nothing but government buildings, completely selfsufficient and self-governing. Architecture should be of pleasing Colonial brick with white trim, which is in good taste, but not exhorbitantly priced like marble. etc. Residences should be nearby, also of controlled architecture. The housing unit at McLean Gardens is a good example of pleasing architecture. The eternal argument about what the Government should pay toward the upkeep of the Capital City would be solved at last, and the horrible mess of slums all scrambled up with our million-dollar marble memorials and buildings could

This should be an outstanding postwar matter for Congress to work on.

Popular Vote Sought On Postwar Issue.

To the Editor of The Star. To commit or not to commit this Nation to long-time political and military alliances with foreign powers which might entail loss of sovereignty is something that should be decided by the American electorate at the pois in next year's general elections. The report of the Republican postwar advisory council gives assurance this will be a clear-cut issue in 1944. Efforts to commit this Nation to anything so momentous before the man on the street and the woman in the home have had the opportunity to make their opinions known will only result in further splitting the country.

Indications are that certain members of Congress employed the vacation matter.

period to the pursuit of personal enjoyment rather than in gaining firsthand knowledge of the sentiments of the folks back home. This writer travels rather extensively in the home States of certain advocates of immediate commitments, contacting quite an extensive cross section of the population. He certainly finds no such unanimity of opinion on postwar domestic or foreign policy as these advocates purport to have found Better not rely too much on the mail, boys. The opposition may have given up writing you in disgust and 13 biding its time until 1944.

Great Men's Sons

Suggested Candidates. To the Editor of The Star:

If the leaders of the Republican party want to insure victory at the next national election, all they have to do is to nominate Senator Robert Taft for President and Gen. Theodore Roosevelt for Vice President

They are illustrious sons of two of our greatest Presidents.

Both young Teddy and the Senator from Ohio have filled many important public offices with great credit to themselves. Both are worthy and well qualified in every respect. In my humble opinion, they are the best vote-getters available. Unlike most of the other prospective candidates, both have millions of friends and no enemies.

Opposes Change in Immigration Laws.

To the Editor of The Star: In the future we may expect vigorous efforts to change our immigration policies from a matter of domestic to international concern. It is now being suggested that we regulate by treaty the persons who may be admitted into a country as political refugees. Thus a nation party to the treaty would lose its right to determine for itself whom it would exclude. The next logical step would be to regulate by treaty the persons who may be admitted as immigrants. Thus our immigration laws could be nullified

Nearly all arguments to relax our immigration laws are predicated on the proposition that immigration should be looked upon as an international rather than domestic matter. Every one knows that admitting 107 Chinese a year would do us no good from a domestic standpoint, but it is said that we should placate the Chinese.

Admitting unassimilable races from Europe, the Near East and other countries can do us no good, but it is urged that we should help absorb the excess populations of those countries.

Our country in the past has been an excellent dumping ground for foreign undesirables and other nations would like for us to continue to be a dumping ground. They will succeed if they can persuade us to regard immigration as an international rather than domestic R. WILSON.

Soviet Post Seen Open For Welles

By DAVID LAWRENCE. President Roosevelt has had on his desk for several weeks the resignation of Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, but there has been no official announcement of its acceptance. Knowing the close personal friendship that exists between the President and Mr. Welles and also that Mr. Roosevelt has a high regard for Mr. Welles' ability and experience in foreign af- David Lawrence. fairs, the National Capital has assumed that the President was holding up the announcement of Mr. Wlles' resignation so that he could couple it with an appointment to another important post.

The opportunity for such an announcement of transfer is now available as a result of the circumstances surrounding the arrangements for a three-power conference of high officials of Russia, Britain and the United States soon to be held at Moscow.

Secretary of State Hull is said to be anxious to attend the conference, but that his physicians have advised against the exhausting and nerve-wracking days that would have to be spent in airplane journeys to Moscow. If the conference were to be held in London the situation, it is thought, might have been different and Mr. Hull would attend, but the Russian Foreign Minister rightly has contended that since he had to consult Marshal Stalin frequently the meeting would be more likely to be productive of good results if it were held in Moscow from which point Mr. Stalin has been unable to depart on conference trips abroad because he is in personal command every moment of the vast military operations of the Soviet Army.

Would Prefer Naval Duty. The news that Admiral Standley, American Ambassador to Russia, is returning to the United States is associated with the fact that the admiral has on more than one occasion indicated his desire to return to America and leave the diplomatic service. He was formerly a chief of naval operations and undoubtedly would prefer to be on active duty in the naval service.

The unfortunate internal situation in the Department of State which contributed to the resignation of Mr. Welles need not be reviewed except to comment that the so-called differences of opinion on major policies such as on our attitude toward Russia are largely imaginary because it is well known that not a single step of significance in the conduct of foreign policy has been taken without the knowledge and full approval of President Roosevelt.

Mr. Welles has doubtless been ambitious to succeed Secretary Hull believing that the latter might retire because of age. Always, when an undersecretary is thinking of succeeding, his chief cliques and groups Marksmanship Training Nurses' Aides' Classes form inside a department and friction arises.

Hull Truly Great. Cordell Hull is one of the truly his colleague, Secretary of War Stimson, his usefulness has not been impaired by his advancing years. Indeed, his vigor and tenacious clinging to the fundamentals of Ameriable and enviable one. He is respected abroad and at home. He now will need in place of Mr. Welles an active administrator as Undersecretary and a career diplomat like Norman Armour, American Ambassador to Argentina, who has had wide experience and has an especially pleasing personality, has been mentioned.

Mr. Welles' talents are much too valuable to be lost to the United States and if he can be prevailed upon by the President to become American Ambassador to Moscow with perhaps special charge of our relations with the Balkans countries as problems related to the peace arise there a useful appointment could be made. His first task would then be to represent the United States at the three-power conference at Moscow and thereafter carry on duties in connection with the many complicated but vital agreements that will doubtless flow from such a conference and require a trained diplomat like Mr. Welles to help execute.

Inquiry Into Bidding By Arlington Planned

Directors of the Arlington County Board of Trade have authorized the committee on county taxes and fianances to make an immediate investigation into charges that county officials are failing to require competitive bids for materials purchased by the county.

The investigation was authorized. It was said, because of the "tremendous number of calls" to board members by persons who charge that the law is not being observed and tax money is being wasted.

On the Record-

By DOROTHY THOMPSON. It is now clear that the Germans are retreating from Russia. They are not retreating early enough, or as they would like to have done. They are retreating under pressure and they suffer great losses in men and material. They make continual counterattacks, but these are obviously for the purpose

Dorothy Thompson. of rescuing their armies, not for the purpose of advancing or holding ground.

The Russians say they are even throwing in some of their reserves for this purpose. But this does not change the factthat the overall picture is of withdrawal. It is borne out by the fact that they are evacuating German nationals from the whole Ukraine.

On the other side we see that the Germans are offering a terrific resistance in Italy. From a strategical viewpoint, the concentration of their forces there seems very unwise. It has been argued by military commentators that the Germans throughout the war have been superb tacticians, but wretched strategists. This is, to an extent true. The German war plan has been bad. from the beginning. But I doubt whether this explains the present behavior, which is dictated both by military and political considerations.

Some months ago the German military radio commentator, Gen. Dietmar, compared the German situation with that of Frederick the Great in the Seven Years' War. At that time Prussia was fighting a war against a coalition, and Frederick's strategy was always to defeat the first army to appear menacing, before a common pressure could be exerted. So now, when the Anglo-American forces are appearing in Europe, they must, according to Gen. Dietmar, suffer a drastic defeat even though they may later

Divide Their Strength. The Germans must, according to this theory, use their internal position to deal blows first with the right hand and then with the left, never allowing both fronts to be equally strong at the same

For behind this military policy is a political strategy. That strategy is to play the Russians against the Anglo-Saxons and vice versa. Germany today is in a position where she knows she cannot win the war and is only playing her hand not utterly to lose it. And in order to play the Anglo - Americans against the Russians and vice versa, she has to confront us with facts, not

So let us ask: What is the political meaning of the withdrawal from Russia?

From the German viewpoint it means the threat that Central Europe will be open to the Red Army. And this means that, lacking an agreement between Russia and the Anglo-Americans regarding the fate of Germany, the Russians, on the spot, will decide the issue What is the political meaning of the terrific resistance at Salerno? It is the German intention to bring home to the Anglo-American powers, the fact that they alone, without Russia, are unable to defeat the German Army.

Both facts together are designed to tell the following story: the western powers have no chance to impose their war aims on Europe. They can only enable the Russians to impose their war aims. Therefore, say the Germans to us by actions instead of words -negotiate a peace before it is too late.

Now all this would be transparent and easy to deal with if we had an understanding with the Russians concerning the future of Germany and Europe. But we have not. And I am compelled to believe that the reason we have none is because the Anglo-American powers and their leaders think rhetoric counts. Neither the Russians nor the Germans do.

Consider Self Interest. Both the Russians and the Anglo-Americans are considering their own national self interest. Mr. Cordell Hull has asserted and justified it, and it is in the nature of nations. It is an open secret that the Russians have been extremely difficult to deal with; that they have shunned or postponed conferences with the President and Mr. Churchill. One can only assume that they wished to be in a better position before such a conference should occur. The best position for the Russians is at a time when we are inextricably engaged on the continent of Europe, and when the German armies are retreating from Russia. This moment is

Meanwhile, we have committed ourselves to the unconditional surrender of the German armies. and the Russians have not. We have made the phrase into a policy in dealing with Italy. The Germans are well aware that there is no agreement between the Anglo-Americans and the Russians regarding the future of Germany and Europe. That is no doubt why they have sent-according to a recent report—the former German Ambassador to Moscow, von der Schulenburg, to Stockholm, obviously with the object of putting out feelers to Moscow. And from Switzerland other Germans are putting out feelers in our direction, offering a change of government in Germany in return for peace.

This is a dangerous situation. It would not be dangerous if we had an agreement with Russia. And, as I see it, it will be impossible to reach an agreement without a change in our policy. If the Anglo-American powers are playing for a world hegemony, they will, I fear, get some astonishing surprises.

LOANS

LIFE INSURANCE POLICIES

After the payment of two full years' premiums, most life insurance policies have a 'cash or loan value." This loan value, which increases as premiums are paid, provides a convenient, inexpensive method of borrowing when there is a need for funds.

While borrowing on life insurance should not be done indiscriminately, at times it is necessary and even profitable to do so.

Loans on life insurance policies are just one of the well-rounded banking services offered by this institution.

You obtain these advantages when you borrow on your life insurance policies at this bank.

- 1. An attractive rate of interest.
- 2. Prompt and efficient service.
- 3. Advice based on years of experience in making life insurance loans.

In the sense that Mr. Hull was unsympathetic toward a lot of the crackpot ideas developed by the stargazing experimenters who are bent on the socialization of the country, he certainly was not one of them. However, he was-and is—entirely loyal to Mr. Roosevelt and no critical or unsympathetic word concerning the President's policies ever passed his lips. This Changing World—

By CONSTANTINE BROWN. A reign of terror worse than that existing in any of the countries occupied by the Nazis since trial. 1939 now prevails in Northern Italy The puppet Fascist government under the nomin al leadership of Mussolini acts with unheard - of cruelty at the bidding of the Gestapo.

In spite of Constantine Brown. various reports to the contrary, coming particularly from neutral countries, the bulk of the Italian people refused to follow their liberal leaders during the 30 days of the Badoglio regime.

But many thousands who had hoped that the overthrow of the Fascists actually would open a new era in Italy have now been jailed and mass executions are taking place daily. The regime of terror is particularly violent in the Turin and Milan areas. The Blackshirts are back in power. They no longer use castor oil against their victims but a pistol shot in the back of the head. All those who welcomed with enthusiasm the "dawn of a new era" have been labelled as Communists and rutMessly executed. The little food and other goods still available in the regions of Italy under Nazi domination are being taken into the Reich Occasionally food trains appear in the northern cities with the Fascist emblem prominently displayed. They are advertised as Germany's personal gifts to the friends of Il Duce. German propaganda emphasizes the fact that the miseries now befalling the Italian people were caused by the people themselves who did not oppose the "treachery" of King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Badoglio. Hence with few exceptions the people themselves now have to suffer the consequences of their "folly."

Little Opposition to Nazis. From reliable reports received here it appears that there is no resistance to the Nazi domination. The stories received from various quarters and prominently displayed in America and England that the Germans are having a tough time with Italian troops stationed in Northern Italy appear to be the product of wish-There were some slight skirmishes when the Germans first decided to take over the nonoccupied portion of Italy, but on the whole the Italian Army offered practically no resistance. Entire divisions were disarmed by Not even the powerfully organized and fanatic Communists who formed the bulk of the underground movement in Italy were able to do anything constructive. Their real leaders remained in the background. The few cell chiefs who, without awaiting orders to start trouble, tried to organize wholesale sabotage were arrested and executed without

Martial law is strictly enforced. In spite of the harsh measures imposed by the Nazis through their Fascist stooges there are no indications that there will be any rebellion. If the American-British force can throw the Germans out of Italy, they will be heartily welcomed by the Italian people. But the Italians themselves will not attempt anything which would only increase the terror in the Fascist-Nazi dominated country. The Fascist regime, which at one time boasted that it had the interests of the common people at heart and was going to bring back the glory of the Roman Empire, is now nothing more than the tool of the Gestapo.

Attitude Is Understandable, The lackadaisical attitude of the people is understandable. They are starved out and brow beaten to the point that they are interested only where and when they can get another crust of bread or a handful of macaroni. The Italians are tired and look for aid from outside to save them. They do not feel that they can do anything for their own salva-

This frame of mind of the people explains why the Badoglio regime failed.

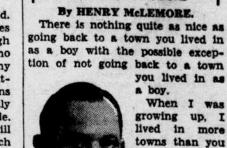

The impassionate appeals of the liberals to the masses to rise and stand by the new regime found little or no response. The beautifully worded appeals carried many fine ideals but no food. In some instances there was a promise of food but it was not accompanied by anything tangible.

The Allies had hoped that the prestige of the King with the army and the prestige of Badoglio with the people would bring forth a wave of fanatic enthusiasm at the news that the war was over. It was hoped that in their frantic desire to have peace the people of Northern Italy and the forces which still were well garrisioned would make it difficult for the Nazis to take a strong grip of the area north of the Po River. Lassitude, hunger and an oriental fatalism frustrated our expectations.

Badoglio himself was aware of the frame of mind of the population and the armed forces. He told the Allied generals whom he met before signing the armistice that some of his best divisions would defend Rome and added, "They are the best we have but whether they will fight or not is anybody's guess." Years of hunger and privation have undermined and dampened the fiery revolutionary spirit of the Italian people to a point where they are no longer capable of doing anything for themselves. Many of our psychological warfarers are concerned over the Italian situation. They fear that the same causes which have taken all fight out of the Italian people may come to bear in the case of the people of other subjected nations on whom we must rely to help us defeat the Nazis by hitting them in the back.

returning to hese various places. These visits are nearly always the same. To begin with, my mother usually writes and says, "Son, I have just heard that you are going to such-and-such a place, and you must not fail to call up Mrs. T. W. Wilkins. She would, be terribly hurt if she found out you were that near and didn't call up. She was so fond of you when you were a child, and I am sure she'll want you to come out and have dinner with her. And, if you have the time, you ought to call Aunt Sarah Groat. She's failed a great deal lately, and it would be nice for you to run by and cheer her up for a few minutes."

Enthusiastic Reception.

I have called Mrs. T. W. Wilkins and Aunt Sarah Groats all over the South and a typical telephone conversation goes about like this: Me: Mrs. Wilkins, this is Henry McLemore. Mrs. Wilkins: Who?"

Me: Henry McLemore. Mrs. Wilkins: How do you spell it? Me: M-c-L-e-m-o-r-e. Mrs. Wilkins: Are you any kin to

Mrs. J. S. McLemore? Me: Yes, mam. I'm her son. Mrs. Wilkins: Let me see, now. Which one of the boys would you

Me: The youngest one. Mrs. Wilkins: Oh, that one. Well, I certainly do want you to remember me to your dear mother when you see her. Good-bye.

The Aunt Sarah Groats may have failed quite a bit, but not so much that they can't recall dozens of discreditable acts performed by me when I was a boy. I have yet to meet an Aunt Sarah Groat who could recall one praiseworthy thing I had ever done.

Even worse on the ego than the old friends of the family are the people about your own age, the ones you went to school with, that you run into here and there. They all look at me with undisguised surprise as if unable to figure out why I am not in jail or the gutter. Or, at least, in rags and tatter and knocking on the kitchen door for a handout.

Shock After Shock.

I am always running into people who say, "I'll swear, I wouldn't have known you, boy. You look right good. What are you doing for a living these days?"

I always explain that I write daily newspaper column.

"Yeah, it seems to me I heard you got into some kind of newspaper work. What paper do you work for, boy?"

There's another shock about returning to old home towns, and that is meeting once again the sweethearts of long ago. The girl that you first thought you were in love with has no business ever growing up and becoming president of the garden club. It does something to a man to see his one-time steady date wearing those kind of shoes that were strictly made for comfort, and putting on her glasses to look up a phone number. Of course, the most horrible part of all this is that the one-time girl of your dreams is also giving you the once-over and doing her share of wondering how she could have ever felt the way she did. The places where your hair has receded seem to gleam like lighthouses, and no matter how hard you try to hold your stomach in there comes a time when every man must really felt there was need for a club offering a distinctive atmosphere. Here we have what amounts to a private club.

Extensive lodging to servicemen coming to Washington for specialized training is a feature. From 40 to 100 soldiers and sailors live at the mission for periods of 4 to 10 weeks. Soldiers come here from all parts of the country for Signal Corps training. They work in three shifts embracing 24 hours a day. "There is always one shift sleeping at the club," Mrs. Bennett explained.

Founded in 1884 as a rescue mission on the second floor of 909 Pennsylvania avenue, Central Union Mission was moved later to 930 Pennsylvania avenue N.W., Mai, Ramsey explained. Later the mission bought the old Seaton Hotel Building at 621 Louisiana avenue N.W., to which Mr. and Mrs. Bennett came in 1915. VOLUNTARY CONSERVATION is VITAL TO VICTORY

The War Production Board has asked the electric power companies and other industries, to put into effect immediately, a nationwide voluntary program for the conservation of fuel, manpower, equipment and other critically needed materials. The Potomac Electric Power Company will wholeheartedly give all aid and assistance to our Government in this

You, as an individual user of electricity, have an important part to play in this voluntary program. No matter whether you are a small or a large consumer of electricity, your sincere cooperation is necessary to the success of this plan. You are asked by your government, to do this:

USE ELECTRICITY ONLY IF AND WHEN IT IS NEEDED

There is no shortage of electricity either in Washington or throughout America. Here in Washington, there is and has been ample generating distribution and other necessary electrical facilities to take care of all the present needs of wartime Washington and this area. However, the government and this Company ask you to voluntarily cut down your use of electricity as an aid to the war effort. Simply told, the less electricity you use, the more coal, manpower, transportstation facilities and materials you release for war needs.

In asking you to reduce the amount of electricity you are using, the government does not expect you to grope in the dark, or impair your eyesight, or cause accidents by cutting down visibility to a dangerous level. This voluntary program of prudent use of electricity is nothing more than a common sense job of economy in regard to your necessary use of electrical energy. In complying with the plan below, the business man, the householder and this Company, will all make sacrifices. If our joint efforts result in reducing by one life or a single day, the cherished Victory, then our job should start today.

Your Government asks you to do these things:

Residential

(a) Eliminate all waste in the use of various electric appliances such as refrigerators, radios, ranges, space heaters, water heaters, etc.
(b) Turn off lights and appliances when not actually needed.

U. S. Pay Raise Procedure For Lower Ranks Eased

Pay raises under the new ruling may be given after 90 days' employment to those entering at a salary above $2,000 but not exceeding $2,600. Old rules are in force, however, for $300 and $600 promotions on an entrance salary of more than $2,600. Six months' service is required for a $300 promotion, 12 months' service for a $600 raise.

Civil Service said the regulations apply to those with and without classified status.

The new ruling means time exceptions must be submitted to the commission for prior consideration and cannot be approved by directors of personnel subject to later audit by the commission, as has been done in the past, it was announced.

New Recapping Prices Set for Buses, Trucks

The Office of Price Administration has set maximum prices for recapping with Grade A camelback truck and bus tires in sizes smaller than 8.25-20. Reflected in the slightly higher ceilings is the change from grade C to A camelback, authorized by the War Production Board for the smaller tires.

The increase, it was said yesterday, will be offset by increased mile-

Illustrating the price differential OPA said the cost of recapping a size 7.00-20 bus and truck tire, with conventional tread, will be $11.80 when Grade A camelback is used. The Grade C price is $11.25.

· A MAN AND A RAILROAD -they're guided by the same code

We all know someone like Ed Bell. That's not his name, but it will serve.

Ed was doing pretty well in business fifteen years ago. He was working hard, looking ahead, had rosy plans for the future.

But along came the depression and you know what happened. Borrowing, debts, a struggle to keep going.

feet. Today he's working in a war plant-working harder than he ever worked before. He's got responsibilities, plenty of them, and

Ed stayed at it. Slowly he's climbed back on his recognizes them, too. Taxes to be paid. Debts to be paid off. War bonds to be bought. And Ed has always put first things first. He likes to buy things for his family as much as any man, but he feels that the meeting of his obligations should come before anything else.

Many railroads have a similar history, and are now faced with the same kind of obligations.

They have been through a lot in recent years. High costs for labor, material and taxes, and low revenues due to depressed traffic. The average net earnings of all our railroads from the 1929 market crash to the attack on Pearl Harbor amounted to only a fraction over 2% per year on investment.

It is small wonder, then, that thirty-seven Class I railroads sought relief in bankruptcy. And that many others had a tight squeeze because of the burden of debt they carried.

In recent months railroad income has improved. Carrying the huge loads of war traffic, they averaged for 1942 about 51/2% return on investment.

Now they are faced with the same question that confronted Ed Bell. Shall they pay out these earnings to their families of stockholders, or shall they use them to reduce their overpowering burden of debt-so that once again our railroads can become sound and solvent institutions?

In the interest of both their stockholders and the public most of our railroads - and this in-· cludes the Nickel Plate - are currently placing debt reduction first.

Some Stray Thoughts Behind the Headlines

Braves Sweep Phillies in Twin Bill-And we're wondering if Manager Freddy Fitzsimmons of the Phillies still is believing what he said back in July when he grasped the reins of Cox's army of incompetents. Owner Bill Cox had fired Bucky Harris and supplanted him with Fitzsimmons who said. "I believe the Philadelphia club has great possibilities."

If Fitzsimmons believed what he said he is a fit speciman for shock treatment by now, for he hasn't done any better than Harris, who at least took a lot of assorted junk off baseball's scrap heap and lifted it into rarified atmosphere of the first division long enough to get Philadelphia fans steamed up about baseball.

When the Phillies took their anticipated plunge Cox gave Harris the ax. At the time the Phillies were playing .424 baseball for Bucky. Despite | 5 of their remaining 14 games Fitzsimmons' vision of "great possibilities" the Phillies have played .429 ship in eight years. Under the circumstances this would seem no hardship for the Bronx Bombers, but there is every indication that gaining those five victories will be one of the toughest tasks the Yankees have faced this year.

The fact that they missed clinching at least a tie for the title by dropping a double-header to the Nats yesterday may prove the turning point. The double loss, 3 to 2 in 10 innings, and 5 to 1, gave the Nats a sweep of the three-game series against three of the best Yankee pitchers, Charley Wensloff, Spud Chandler and Ernie Bonham.

Flag for Nats Could Happen. If the Nats win all of their remaining 12 games they will finish the season with 21 straight victories (remember the Chicago Cubs in 1935?). In that case the Yankees would have to win four games from the always difficult Detroit Tigers, Cleveland Indians, St. Louis Browns and Chicago White Sox to tie. It is a bit more difficult to see how Cleveland, a notoriously poor team but it is possible. The Indians have 13 games left to play, all on the road. Four are against the Yanks and three against Washington. If the Indians, who beat Detroit twice yesterday, 1 to 0 and 6 to 2, win all 13 while the Nats win 9 of 12 and the Yanks only 1 of 14, the Tribe would finish on

Wynn, who registered victory No. 17 yesterday at Griffith Stadium in the 10-inning, 3-2, opener of a double-header with the Yankees— also beaten in the second game, 5-1, to the undisguised glee of 30,851 cus-tomers—is calculated to start three imes in the Nats' remaining 12 games. Eight of these contests will be played as part of twin bills.

When the Nats resume operations Wednesday night in a twilight-night double-header with St. Louis they'll carry a nine-game winning streak into action and also will own a string of 15 successive triumphs at Griffith Stadium. Wynn probably will pitch Thursday night against the Browns and otherwise figures to face the White Sox and Tigers.

Case Resting Sore Leg.
George Case, striving to lead the league in stolen bases for a fifth successive season, hopes to return to the Nats' line-up following a twoday rest. Leading Chicago's Wally Moses by two stolen bases, Case was forced to retire in the second game with a pulled muscle in his left leg. Case tied his personal record in the first game, stealing his 51st base to match his 1939 output. Moses continues to jeopardize Case's supremacy since the White Sox have played two less games than the Nats.

The Nats, victorious in 14 of their last 18 games and winner of their last five collisions with the pennantbound Yankees, succeded in embarrassing the league leaders in the nightcap. Mickey Haefner limited them to two hits, both delivered in the first inning, while the Nats pounded Ernie Bonham for 14 hits, including three each by Stan Spence and Gerald Priddy. The two triumphs sliced New York's lead to the still commanding advantage of nine games, but the Nats at least succeeded in delaying New York's pennant party. To clinch the pennant the Yankees need to win only five of their remaining 14 games even should Washington sweep its remaining Heafner Pitches Best Game.

Heafner, who captured his 10th win against only four losses, yielded a run in the first inning when Charley Keller tripled to score Frankie Crosetti, but thereafter the Yankees reached base only four times, twice on walks and twice on errors by Third Baseman Bob Johnson. Little Haefner struck out seven in unleashing his best performance of the year. The Nats pounced on Bonham for three runs in the first inning as Case beat out a bunt, Spence tripled and Jake Powell and Mickey Vernon

Hart, Dorazio Scrap Tonight Promises To Be Thriller

Tonight's 10-round heavyweight boxing match at Griffith Stadium has the makings of a fast, exciting bout all the way, with Al Hart, a big counterpuncher with an especially potent right meeting Gus Dorazio, an infighter and body puncher whose main weapon is a vicious left hook. Such combinations usually make for a fight worth watching, and there's no reason tonight's principals shouldn't be slugging from the opening bell, with a match against Jimmy Bivins promised the winner. A bout with Bivins means a sizable chunk of money, not to mention the high rating among heavyweights that would go to any one making a good showing against the Clevelander, generally rated as best of those in action today. Hart is bigger than Dorazio and

There was little news from the British 8th Army, which now has advanced some 250 miles from the southernmost toe, but it was considered probable that the German withdrawal reported by the Invaders near Contursi might have been caused by the 8th Army cutting due north past the Salerno bridgehead. In sweeping out on the Sorrento Peninsula, the Allied forces mounted a direct threat to the port of Naples from yet another side. Amphibious forces have taken over all islands immediately off the port.

"As we control all the heights of the Sorrento Peninsula we undoubtedly control all of the peninsula since it is unlikely the Germans would stay in the lower parts just to be destroyed," the spokesman declared.

Badoglio escaped from Rome a few hours before the Germans took over the city and made his way to Allied territory by automobile and ship, an American official who talked with the Italian chieftain disclosed today.

The American said Badoglio gave this version of his escape:

After announcing the armistice terms to the Italian people on September 8, Badoglio realized that the German troops around the capital planned to take it over and to take fook a large number of government automobiles and made up a caravan in the early hours before dawn on September 9. ICC to Conduct Hearing on Bond Bid Debate

The Interstate Commerce Commission agreed today to hold a public hearing on the question of requiring competitive bidding in all sales of railroad and other securities.

Date for the hearing will be fixed later. Interested parties were directed to file their printed briefs during the next 20 days.

The case stems from contentions of Halsey. Stuart & Co., Chicago, and Otis & Co., Cleveland, that some railroad bonds have been sold to "favored" New York bankers, regardless of the bids of other investment houses.

Enrollment Cut Sharply in D. C. Public Schools

Threat of Rain Reduces Attendance In Elementary Units

Wartime employment cut enrollment heavily today as 178 public schools opened their doors to thousands of students all over the District. Threat of rain also caused temporary low enrollment in elementary schools.

Officials had expected enrollment to be low in any case. When gray skies threatened this morning, parents of elementary school children from 5 to 7 years old telephoned school officials they would bring their children in for the first time tomorrow. Officials had expected elementary scools to show the only "normal" registration in the system.

Enrollment Cut Sharply in D. C. Public Schools

Threat of Rain Reduces Attendance In Elementary Units

Wartime employment cut enrollment heavily today as 178 public schools opened their doors to thousands of students all over the District. Threat of rain also caused low enrollment in temporary elementary schools.

Officials had expected enrollment to be low in any case. When gray skies threatened this morning, parents of elementary school children from 5 to 7 years old telephoned school officials they would bring their children in for the first time tomorrow. Officials had expected elementary scools to show the only "normal" registration in the system.

Countess van der Straten-Ponthoz is a native of the Argentine and remained on her family's ranch for some time after her son's marriage in November. In fact, she did not join the Ambassador here until the early spring.

The Countess will go to the southern republic, probably some time next month, but the Ambassador cannot be sure that he will be able to go so far from his post at this Capital at this time. At any rate, his stay in South America will be brief, but the Countess will remain some time, visiting among her relatives, especially her son and daughter-in-law, Charles van der Straten-Ponthoz and Mme. By the Way-BETH BLAINE

Mrs. William Austin is in charge of interviewing the women who volunteer to the Antiaircraft Volunteers, and right now, especially with the drive on for more volunteers, that's a very important job. This interviewing office is the only contact that the AAV work has with the outside. . . . As you all know the Antiaircraft Volunteers work on the filter and operations boards at the control center, where the course of every plane in the sky is charted and watched. And as you can imagine it is not only a vital part of our defense but a very direct part. The Antiaircraft Volunteers work for the Army and those who took part in the Army War Show "Back the Attack" were the only civilians in the show.

Every day from 10 to 5 (except Saturday when the hours are from 10 to 1:30) the AAV office at 2324 F street is staffed, and for the convenience of the women who work during the day the hours are extended to 9 o'clock Monday and Wednesday nights. It is Mrs. Austin, who, as interviewing aide, runs the office and it is she who passes judgment on whether or not you will make a good Antiaircraft Volunteer. The work is important and not too easy, but extremely interesting and about as near to the actual front as civilians can get.

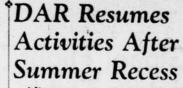

During the summer loads of young high school and college women home on vacation volunteered and did such a good job and became so much interested in the work that almost without a single exception they have volunteered to come back during Christmas vacation. However, this does not solve the problem of getting volunteers right nowvolunteers to fill the gaps left by those returning to college and high school girls.

Mrs. Austin, herself a Navy wife, feels that there must be a great many young Navy or Army or Marine wives like herself, with small households to run and some spare time for war work who should welcome this opportunity to serve their country in such an important way. . . . She loves the work, she told us, and she is a shining example of the type women the AAV can use. Intelligent, efficient and quiet spoken her very manner is reasouring of calm security in the face of danger. You know to talk to Mrs. Austin, that she would never lose her head. That she would do whatever job she had and do it

The Austins have lived in Washington for about a year, when Mr. Austin was made a lieutenant (j. g.) in the Navy. Before that he was instructor of music at Harvard University. Mrs. Austin is a graduate of Radcliffe College and before her marriage taught music at a small country day school outside of Cambridge. Both she and her husband play the piano and sing he plays extremely well, says his wife, who claims she plays only "fairly" well. . . Friends say differently. Both keep their love of music alive by getting together with other music-loving friends every Thursday evening for group singing.

After a summer recess several local units of the District Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, are planning to resume activities at meetings this week.

The Historical Research Committee will hold its first session of the fall at 10:30 a.m. Thursday at Alva Belmont House, 144 B street N.W., under the direction of Mrs. Wilfred J. Clearman, State historian. If weather permits, the meeting will be held in the garden.

Mrs. Harry Howard, past national historian of the Children of the American Revolution, will tell something of the history of the house and the program will include a tour of the building.

Keystone Chapter will meet a 8 p.m. Thursday at the home of the regent, Mrs. James D. Skinner, 7525 llaska avenue N.W.

Plans for the fall season will b discussed by members of Fort Mc-Henry Chapter tomorrow evening at the home of the regent, Mrs. Mary Carroll Greathouse, 2023 R street N.W. These will include a benefit dinner to be held October 6 at the Fairfax Hotel. A program of music will be presented by Mrs. John T. Bowen, pianist. Hostesses will include Mrs. Greathouse, Miss Viola Reece, Mrs. Ernest L. Etchison and Mrs. Josephine C. Franklin. A marker in memory of Minerva Gertrude Culton will be unveiled by the Susan Riviere Hetzel Chapter at 4 p.m. Sunday in Rock Creek Cemetery. Friends are invited to

City Club Plans Meeting Oct. 6

Mrs. Harold Heffner has been appointed chairman of the Program Committee of the Women's City Club, which plans to start a series of meetings October 6, according to an announcement.

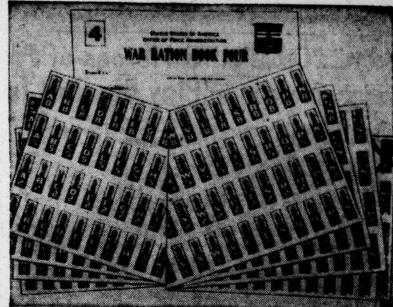

Other committee chairmen pointed by Mrs. John T. Lucker, the new president, are Mrs. J. Frank Bowling, membership; Mrs. Ger-trude Lyons, music; Mrs. C. D. Lowe, civics; Mrs. Thelma Vernon, house; Mrs. Janis Gould, ways and means; Mrs. Anton Auth, ambulance; Miss Jessie O. Elting, Red Cross; Mrs. Lowe, conservation; Mrs. Perry O. Huff, business and professional section; Miss Lottie L. Anderson, library; Ensign Esther Holmes, U. S. N. R., publicity; Mrs. Harry M. Packard, hospitality; Miss Blanche Crapo, bulletin, and Dr. Margaret Miller, junior guild.

A Red Cross demonstration and a talk on accident prevention will be featured at the first meeting which will open with a half-hour business session at 7 p.m

The board of directors will meet September 28 at the clubhouse.

Knapp to Speak

Laurence A. Knapp, special assistant to the Attorney General, will address the Women's Bar Association of the District at its first meeting of the season at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Statler Hotel. Mr. Knapp, who is chief of the Latin American section of the War Division of the Justice Department, will discuss his work as liaison officer with the Inter-American offices in the District.

New War Ration Book Designed to Serve For Next 2 Years

War Ration Book No. 4, to be issued late next month through

The book, which will become valid in November, will combine both Montgomery County courthouse at point and unit stamps. There will green and black.

The red and blue stamps will be used in conjunction with red and Woodward, Stedman Prescott and blue tokens, to be introduced early in 1944 and given as change in stamp expenditures for meat, dairy products and processed foods.

The green stamps will be used on an "interim basis" with blue pro-J. Whiteford, H. Winship Wheatley, cessed food stamps, much in the manner the brown stamps of book No. 3 are now being used in the meats-fats program.

Twelve of 96 unit stamps, printed in black, are designated for sugar. The same number are marked for coffee, which no longer is rationed. These and 72 others marked "spares' will be reserved for any additional foods rationed, OPA said.

Use of the new book for two years compares with four or five months for earlier ones. But the cost of printing and distributing it-about $1,500,000—will be about the same, OPA stated.

Arrangements are being made through the school system here to handle the registration October 21 and 22. Registration must be handled at schools, the OPA explained, because of a lack of time for mail distribution.

Norge salutes the women war workers

Wherever women are working at mechanical jobs in the nation's war plants, they are doing their work well . . . helping to shoulder America's burden in this global conflict.

We at Norge, completely in war work, know the value and sincerity of these and other willing workers. We salute them all: those who volunteer in Red Cross, A.W.V.S. and

O.C.D. activities; those who enlist in our armed forces; and those who, in their own homes, contribute mightily to the war effort by doing their own work, raising and preserving their own foodstuffs, practicing economy and conservation in every way possible.

Norge Rollator refrigerators and other home appliances are doing their part, too, by lightening household duties, conserving food, adding to the efficiency of women war workers. Soon after the victory, Norge will salute these women with a brilliant new line of household appliances that will emphasize America's new-era standards of living.

Covering Naval War Nightmare to Writers

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Covering news of Mediterranean naval operations accompanying the battle of Salerno has been a "nightmare nostrum" to Allied war correspondents.

That quip by James Cooper of the London Daily Express was quoted by Desmond Tighe of Reuters who said in a dispatch from the Mediterranean that the correspondents "had one of the most difficult assignments of this war endeavoring to get the first naval news back from Salerno." Describing how various correspondents sent dispatches, Mr. Tighe said:

"Paul Kerne Lee of the Associated Press, who has just arrived in Malta after 10 days in a bombarding cruiser, fired dispatches by signal line to various craft which disappeared in every direction.

"He had one lucky break when he threw cables to one vessel which got hit, was slightly damaged and forced to return post haste to Malta for repairs. He now finds that the only subsequent dispatch which arrived was one brought back by a competing correspondent."

Mr. Cooper tucked one dispatch under the arms of a wounded man being slung overside to return to his

Missing Philadelphia Girl Found Slain in New York

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Police today were seeking the identity of a man clad in a sailor's uniform who was reported to have been with 15year-old Frances Mary Wallace of Philadelphia Saturday night several hours before she was found slain in hotel room here.

The girl, found lying on a bed with her skull crushed and a wooden coat hanger thrust down her throat, was identified yesterday by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wallace of Philadelphia.

The couple had reported their daughter missing last July. Detective John Hawthorne said it had been established that the girl and a man in a seaman's uniform registered at the hotel and that the man was seen leaving about 45 minutes later.

Sinkings by U-Boats Hit New Low Mark of One Ship in 28 Days

By the Associated Press. A new record low of destruction by U-boats operating in the West-ern Atlantic has been established in the last 28 days with only one Allied or neutral merchant ship sinking announced Since the Pearl Harbor attack, Uboats have destroyed 687 neutral Charles Adams, 24, of 6137 Shadyand Allied cargo ships in the Western Atlantic.

Last week, as in two of the three previous weeks, no new sinkings front lines before dawn at El Guetwere announced, bearing out Secretary of Navy Knox's recent comment that the Allies have given the U-boats " a good shellacking."

Marine underwriters took notice of the improved shipping situation by announcing reduction of war risk insurance rates on shipments between New York and the United Kingdom, Eire and Northern Ireland to 4 per cent, lowest quoted rate since 1940.

A year ago the rates on similar shipments was 10 per cent. In the first 20 days of September the Navy announced only one Western Atlantic cargo ship loss. During September, 1942, 30 non-Axis merchant ships were reported sunk

CHRISTMAS MAILING INSTRUCTIONS FOR GIFTS TO THE MEN AND WOMEN OF THE ARMED SERVICES ABROAD

The Post Office Department has issued a bulletin (No. 18613) giving directions as to the mailing of Christmas Gifts to the service men and women overseas, the principal points of which are itemized herein:

1. TIME OF MAILING-Christmas parcels and cards, which are unsolicited Christmas gifts, must be mailed to:

> ARMY PERSONNEL Sept. 15 to Oct. 15

NAVAL PERSONNEL Sept. 15 to Nov. 1

Gifts to Army personnel may be mailed before Sept. 15, or after Oct. 15 only on presentation at the Post Office of a letter from the man or woman overseas requesting the article which is being sent. This regulation was not in effect a year ago. The Navy Department does not have this requirement of a letter of

You are asked to indorse each gift parcel, "CHRISTMAS PARCEL."

- 2. SIZES AND WEIGHT-Parcels shall not exceed present limit: 5 pounds in weight, or 15 inches in length, or 36 inches in length and girth combined.
- 3. PREPARATION—Owing to the great distance this mail must be transported and the handling and any storage it must undergo, it is absolutely necessary that all articles be packed in substantial boxes or containers and be covered with wrappers of sufficient strength not only to resist pressure of other mail in the same sack, but to withstand the weight of other stacks of mail. Furthermore, as each parcel is subject to censorship, delay in handling may be minimized by securing the covering of the parcel so as to permit inspection of the contents. We are prepared to pack your overseas package to meet the regu-
- 4. PERISHABLE MATTER—No perishable matter should be included in any parcel.
- 5. HOW TO ADDRESS PARCELS—Addresses must be legible. Parcels addressed to overseas: ARMY PERSONNEL

In addition to the name and address of the sender, parcels should show, the name, rank, Army serial number, branch of service, organization, A. P. O. number of the addressee, and the Post Office through which the parcels are to be routed.

NAVAL PERSONNEL

In addition to the name and address of the sender, parcels should show, the name, rank or rating of the addressee and the Naval unit to which he is assigned with the Navy number assigned thereto, or name of the ship and fleet Post Office through which the parcels are

Mail for the Coast Guard personnel is addressed the same as for Naval personnel except that the words "U. S. Coast Guard" shall be used in place of "U. S. Navy" after the name.

When buying merchandise to be shipped out of the country it is imperative that you have this informatoin with you to give to the sales clerk.

6. POSTAGE—Postage must be prepaid from the office where mailed to the Post Office in care of which the parcels are addressed.

Because the Kind of Sale You'd Expect Is Impossible Under Wartime Conditions * * * Because the War Production Board Wishes to Discourage Excess Buying * * *

We will NOT have an Anniversary Sale This Year!

For as many years as most Washingtonians remember, Kann's has celebrated its Anniversaries with a great storewide sale. Every department participated and wide assortments of all kinds of goods were provided at lower-than-usual prices. But this long-standing custom is impossible of accomplishment this year. Many manufacturers have turned from civilian needs to wartime essentials. Restrictions, priorities and shortages have further limited the quantity of available merchandise. We couldn't have a storewide sale if we wanted to! Reduced personnel and curtailed delivery service are still other complications.

Furthermore, the War Production Board, as part of its program to discourage excess buying and to limit purchases to essential needs only, has asked all retail merchants to discontinue all promotions on textiles and textile products except in the case of regularly established clearances. Therefore, there will be NO Anniversary Sale this year!

We firmly believe that nothing is more important than winning the war. If eliminating "sales" will help, we're wholeheartedly for eliminating them . . . a policy we have already followed for quite some time. However, we want you to know that there is an adequate supply of merchandise to take care of reasonable civilian needs. And with regulations designed to assure everyone his or her necessary share, there is no need for "scare" buying or hoarding. The War Production Board, in our opinion, does not object to the selling of goods in a regular way, at the lowest prices possible . . . which is what Kann's will continue to do. Unquestionably, the best bargain we can sell you today is a United States War Bond . . . $18.75 for a $25 Bond, $37.50 for a $50 Bond, $75 for a $100 Bond and so on. We are at your service!

11/2 cups sugar.

4 cup milk. squares chocolate. 2 tablespoons butter

2 teaspoons corn sirup 14 teaspoon salt (scant). 1 teaspoon vanilla.

2 teaspoons cream. Mix sugar, milk, corn sirup, salt, bring to boiling point and add 2 squares chocolate and 2 tablespoons butter. This mixture will appear curdled. Cook to firm, soft ball stage. Remove from fire and cool in pan of cold water for 15 minutes. Add vanilla and stir until creamy. Then add the 2 teaspoons cream and beat until firm. Add nuts, peanut butter or raisins, if desired. I have been told it will keep two or three months in a tin box, but we have never been able to leave it uneaten for that long!

COOKERY TERMS DEFINED (Thanks to Mrs. M. L. B., Silver Spring.)

These are the cooking terms defined as requested by Mrs. E. T. C. of Washington.

"Folding in"-Two foods are blended together by putting the spoon vertically down through the foods, turning the spoon over gently, and then bringing it vertically up through the mixture. In the case of folding in egg whites, the purpose is to prevent the escape of air which has already been incororated in the whites. A gentle motion is most important

"Scalding milk"-Milk is brought to the boiling point, but not allowed to boil. This can be done over a slow or a fast fire. In bringing milk to a boil over a fast flame, constant stirring is necessary.

As school days come again—so does the lunch box problem for many a Washington mother. And this year it is going to be harder than ever to keep the contents of the box up to the nutrition standards set by the Government. The box above presents an ideal combination of the seven basic food groups, bread and butter sandwiches, chicken, carrot strips, pear, raisin crackers, a few nuts and a piece of wrapped candy. If you'd like other suggestions, send for the leaflet described elsewhere on this page.

Our educational system is so set up these days that there is a splendid opportunity for parents, teachers and children to work together. Generally speaking it is the parents who are the most difficult to handle. Teachers have strict rules and regulations as well as training. The children have none of these, but are eager to learn. Many parents have forgoten all the rules and regulations, they have no desire to learn and are interested only in that Johnny get a fair deal. Johnny undoubtedly will-but in

Because of the nature of the Maine industries, much of the cooking was provided by men-the cooks in the camps in the woods, the dishes prepared by the hunters and trappers and fishermen for themselves, and, in later years, the culinary skill developed by the professional guides, each, in his own right, a master of the skillet and pot and the longhandled broiling fork. A gentleman of my acquaintance came back recently from a long vacation at Moosehead Lake. While there he quietly gathered unto himself various recipes for dishes to prepare for the unusual dinners at which he is a famous host—as well So the dinner which he gave

This is a truly great dinner for a man to cook—especially a man who has a flare for cooking but not overmuch experience. If his wife will give him a hand with the bean soup, during his working hours, there will be no trouble.

The bean soup starts the night before—with (for eight people) four cups of soldier or pea beans being gone over for defects and the rest put to soak overnight in cold water. In the morning the beans are drained of water, washed in fresh water and put into a kettle together with beef broth to cover, more beef broth being held in reserve to add from time to time. A sizable baking or pudding dish is lined with a rich pastry dough. This is covered with a layer of veal, cut into pieces size of a walnut. Next comes a layer of sliced, hardboiled egg. Then a layer of sliced ham. Salt and pepper are sprin-kled on. Then a few drops of lemon juice. Then another layer of veal, eggs and ham and so on until nearly to the top of the pan. Over this is poured a cupful of beef broth —or two, if the pie is a large one. Then comes a good top layer of pastry dough. This is baked in a medium oven for about two hours. A crafty cook will prepare a little "peephole," which is a corner of crust which may be raised and through which more broth may be added if the pie seems to be drying out in the baking.

An excellent appetizer in the way of an open-air cocktail—namely, 18 holes of golf or a 5-mile hikeshould be provided to bring about a true State of Maine appetite. This is really a very essential prelimi-

Years Passed and Passed, But Miss Lindsay Returns

It has been a long time between Margaret Lindsay's departure from National Park Seminary and her return to the Capital as the actress she intended to be when she said farewell. However, even if she never returned-and she will not until next Monday-Miss Lindsay did a lot of acting in that more than a decade, all of it in the movies. It was good acting, mostly, and it made Miss Lindsay quite a name as well as a considerable profit. But when she :appears as the co-star, with Roland Young, in Frederic Londsdale's "Another Love Story" here next Mon-

Unblushingly, Miss Lindsay admits that the cornerstone of her acting career is based upon a slight distortion of the truth.

Getting out of school with an observant mind, she marked that English actresses and actors seemed to be much more popular in this country than the native varieties. Her first thought was the quite innocent one of going to England for six months and getting up on the accent just for the sake of dialectical versatility. Her second thought, less innocent but very practical, was that if she needed eventually to disavow her Dubuque (Iowa) nativity, the accent would be a clinching asset.

That turned out to be very smart of Miss Lindsay, for her first opportunity upon returning to this country was the role of the young bride "Cavalcade," Noel Coward's sentimental history of modern England. The requirement of requirements was that the girl should be English, and Miss Lindsay blandly said she was it

A persistent press agent, among other harrowing people, eventually uncovered the truth about Miss Lindsay-that she was the daughter of a well-off Iowa family, educated in Washington, and English

Despite the rosier military picture in Italy, MGM shudders at the very thought of filming any of its current big venture, "Quo Vadis?" on the home locale. The studio never will forget the "Ben Hur" debacle of 25 years ago when an entire troupe was sent over, together with tons of paraphernalia. Encountering one jinx after another, the company returned after a year to film the spectacle on this side meanwhile chalking up a loss of $2,500,000. War or no war, Italy doesn't exist so far as MGM stockholders are concerned . . . Liveliest scenes in Sonja Henie's "Wintertime" come from Cesar Romero-in long underwear and trapped in hotel corridors. Old stuff but surefire, judging by the hilarious reactions of a sneak preview audience.

* * * * These "A" horror movies with the all-star casts are stooping to no low-brow technique. Take "The Lodger," for instance. Although Laird Cregar murders four women during its course, no actual killing is shown. No corpses, not even a drop of blood. And in the scene where Laird starts to choke Heroine Merle Oberon, he wears gloves, nice clean ones. High-class homicide, that's what it is . . . Lois Andrews has bought a 10-acre ranch in the valley, which she will make her home. Following the purchase, she realized she'd need some one to help. so she hired the former owner to ake charge. Anthony Quinn wants to play the male lead in "Bird of Paradise," which 20th Century-Fox plans to film shortly . . . Eddie Silvan is the Cecil B. De Mille assistant in charge of "Quiet, Please!" Other day on the set of "The Story of Dr. Wassell," a studio policeman joined him in the vocal crusade before each take. He's a guest shusher," explained Eddie . . . John Garfield nurses a gun superstition. He clings to a flat, black automatic weapon which he first used in "Blackwell's Island." one of his first films. He has fired it numerous times and with it has "killed" 10 characters. In "The Fallen Sparrow" he nails Walter

Make-up men at MGM got a strange assignment this week. Dame May Whitty, who is actually 78 years old, was assigned to play a 60-year-old busybody in "Gaslight." But, as Dame May doesn't look much more than 50, the make-up experts had to add 10 years to her face for the role.

BEFORE YOU GET A LOAN READ THIS MESSAGE

fore you borrow, ask yourself two questions. 1. Is your loan really necessary? 2. Are you getting it at the lowest rate you can? It's a good idea not to borrow unless a loan is the best answer to your problem. In wartime that's an especially wise policy. Perhaps you can squeeze through this time without borrowing. If you do borrow, get only as much money as you really needand pay it back as soon as possible to reduce the cost.

Sometimes a family must have a substantial amount of cash to meet an unexpected emergency. Sometimes a family has debts too large to pay out of current earnings. That's when a personal loan, repayable in monthly instalments, can often solve a troublesome problem.

Loans without endorsers

To families who will benefit from borrowing Household lends $50 to $300 without endorsers. Loans are made on furniture, cars or without security. We have various payment plans in order to meet borrowers' needs. Borrowers may repay in advance at any time to reduce the cost. Household's rate is 2% per month on the unpaid balance. The Maryland Small Loan Law authorizes a maximum rate of 3% per month. If you need a loan to straighten out your money affairs, phone, write or visit Household Fi-

Nature's Children

By LILLIAN COX ATHEY. BOWFIN.

Bowfins are known as "living fossils," being the only existing representatives of their group of a million years ago. They are in the class with the gar and sturgeon as being among our most promitive fishes.

Bowfins are found only in North America. They are abundant in some places, scarce in others. They are in the Eastern and Central States, in the lakes and sluggish waters. From Vermont west to North Dakota and from Florida as far West as Texas, bowfins have Sunday and Monday. Sunday is been caught in the streams and riv- the "day of the sun" and Monday ers. In the Great Lakes, they are is the "day of the moon." considered a menace to young edible

Known to fishermen as an exis sought for the sport it affords. Its flesh is not considered very palatable, though in Louisana dried bowfins are used for jambalya and fish-

The bowfish is known by many names in different parts of the country—grindle, sawyer, mudfish, dogfish, lawyer fish and other names. The origins seem to have been lost with the lapse of years. But many claim that dogfish is the right name because of the way the bowfin shakes its head and shows its anger at being caught.

In its feeding habits, the bowfin is carnivorous. It is greedy when it comes to minnows, crayfishes and young tender neighbors. This fisherman lies on the bottom of its hunting grounds. The coloring of the large head blends perfectly with the growing plants in which it lurks. The head is rather blunt, the mouth large, slightly oblique and filled with strong jaws and sharp teeth.

A bowfin may reach a length of 30 inches and weigh 12 pounds, The to market. body is oblong and robust. breathing. They come to the surface at intervals to gulp fresh air. They are able to live in very foul water, even in mud, because they can surtheir gills. They are tough. They can live for hours with a hook driven through their skull.

The bowfin father takes a great and guards them day and night.

The yellowish eggs hatch in about a week, and when the young are about three weeks old, their father herds them together for a trek to more favorable feeding grounds. week it may be well to ask, "Why do we have a seven-day week? Might not the number of days be different, say 5 or 10?"

One answer to those questions is that in some parts of the world there are weeks with a different number of days than seven. In Africa, for example, many persons count days in periods of five days each, and each of those periods may be called a "week." The fifth day is market day and people do no work on that day, except to go

The seven-day week, however, is bowfin's primitive ancestory is the long dorsal fin, which is half as long far back in history. It can be traced to the Jews of long ago. The Old Testament of the Bible tells about it.

Records of the ancient Babylonians show that they also had a seven-day week. They named their days in honor of the sun, the moon and five of the planets. The vive long periods without the use of seventh day was a time of rest. No one could cook food on that day, or ride in a chariot, or offer sacrifice to the gods. Even more strange to us, there were rules against a person interest in his offspring. He selects wearing white clothing on the a reedy place for the eggs to be laid seventh day and against taking medicine!

The ancient Romans called Monday "Dies Lunae," meaning "Day of Luna." Who was Luna? She was the Roman goddess of the moon. The Romans started to worship Luna more than 2.500 years ago. It seems that some of them believed that the moon itself was the god-

The Romans said that Luna was the sister of the sun god. It was their custom to picture her as driving two white steeds.

Winning Contract

By THE FOUR ACES.

Expert Bidding

There are many hands so big that they will produce a slam with the help of just a couple of kings in partner's hand. But in the average game such slams are often missed because the partner, holding two kings or so, cannot visualize the importance that gives to his hand. The bidding in the following deal was expert in every sense. North dealer. East-West vulnerable. A A 75

OK42 4 Q J 10 9 4 3 ♣ Q 1086 ♠ K J 9 3 ♥ AQ9654 0 K33 WE ♦ 85 ♦ K872 O A J A A 442 7 J 10 8 Q 109763

The bidding: West North East South Pass Pass Pass 4 NT Pass Pass Pass Pass Pass Pass

The result of this hand helped Mr. Schenken to win the masters' team-of-four championship in the national tournament in August. It was bid by his teammate, John Crawford, who was West, and Sidney Silodor, who was East.

When Mr. Silodor bid two clubs over his oppents' opening one-club bid he showed a strong desire to get to game and that in itself is proof of a powerful hand. Then when he gave the spade response a double raise he showed his pow-erful support in that suit. Mr. Crawford, recognizing the existence not only of a powerful high-card strength but also of a good trump fit, had the courage to make two distinct slam tries, his bid of four no-trump and his later bid of five hearts. That made it easy for East to bid the slam.

North opened the club queen, dummy winning. The spade king was led and won by North, who shifted to a diamond. Dummy's ace was put up, two rounds of trumps drawn and the diamond jack was discarded on the club king. Now it was necessary only to run the hearts and make the contract.

Saturday you were Oswald Jacoby's partner and, with both sides vulnerable, you held:

The bidding: Schenken Lightner Pass 2 NT Pass Pass Pass Pass

Answer-Five spades. You cannot yet bid a slam on your own responsibility. All your partner's bids have been forced and show only that he prefers hearts to spades and to no-trump. But by bidding five spades you keep the way open to a slam and show that you can play spades even without support.

Score 100 per cent for five spades,

. 40 per cent for five no-trump, 20 per cent for six spades. Question No. 1,494.

C. L. Erickson gets in a few licks for his boys . . . at a Todd Shipyard

"My boys have a hard fight ahead I'M WORKING EVERY DAY...TO HELP THEM THROUGH IT"

C. L. Erickson, Shipyard Foreman

EUGENE ERICKSON is in the Coast Guard, C. L., Jr. in the Air Corps. Both are in the last stages of training in this country. With his two boys almost ready to shove off for the battle fronts overseas, and a brother in England for more than a year, C. L. thinks plenty about how long this war will last.

He hears a lot of talk of how quick and easy we're going to win . . . how the German army will fall apart before our troops get there . . . how the paper cities of Japan will go up in smoke when the first blockbusters fall.

And on the other side, he hears the warning from our military experts-that the big battles are still ahead, that we've just begun to fight.

For his part, he'll follow the advice of our military men . . . and keep giving his job everything he's got until the white flags over Berlin and Tokyo become more than the visions of wishful thinkers.

That's why he's among the Todd workmen who have been on the job every working day since Pearl Harbor. He's got too much at stake to let down now.

Thousands of other Todd workers . . . and millions in other industries . . . see this war the way he does. They're staying on their jobs every hour, knowing they can't afford to take chances with the safety of our men fighting overseas.

*125,000 men and women work in Todd Shipyards on our three coasts-63, 137 have one or more close relatives in the armed services. Over 27,000 former Todd workers are in the Army, Navy or Marines.

IF YOU HAVEN'T A BOY TO WORK FOR, "ADOPT" ONE ...

Isn't there some youngster in the fight for whom you say a silent prayer? . . . a neighbor's boy . . . a young fellow who worked with you . . . that swell kid who delivered the groceries. Get his address. Write and tell him that you'd like to "adopt" him for the duration . . . so you'll have someone out there to work for! He'll get a great kick out of knowing that you're fighting as hard on your job as he is on his.
